

In move to curb rocketing food prices

Ottawa slaps export controls on meat...

OTTAWA (CP) — The government moved Monday to undercut rocketing food costs by export controls on some meats and increased payments for those on fixed incomes.

But it rejected price controls, arguing that they could hurt production.

The cabinet met for six hours Monday, discussing inflated food prices and other matters and drafted a statement which proposes:

—Export controls on beef and pork, effective today. The controls will control export of prime table meats to any country, but will allow the export of poorer grades. Alastair Gillespie, minister of industry, trade and commerce, said, however, that export licences will be granted to permit exports to traditional customers because the program is intended only to protect the Canadian market from being raided to make up for meat shortages in the United States.

—A toughened food prices review board to search out and make public examples of unwarranted price increases. And, the government says, it is prepared to legislate against "profiteering."

—Old-age security and guaranteed income payments be increased five per cent, effective Oct. 1. The increase comes with a proposal for a more frequent cost of living adjustment.

—A federal-provincial conference this fall to develop food policies.

The plan didn't impress opposing party spokesmen.

David Lewis, whose New Democratic Party has kept the minority Liberal government in power with its support in the Commons, said the plan was thin and disappointing.

He agreed with export controls on beef and pork and the increase in security payments, but said these are NDP ideas. He again threatened to discontinue NDP support of the government.

Conservative House Leader Gerald Baldwin called the government's program one of "calculated inertia" and renewed his party's stand for a temporary freeze on wages and prices.

Prime Minister Trudeau told a news conference the cabinet had considered a wage and price freeze but dismissed the idea as inappropriate to deal with the effects of what is a shortage in world commodities.

He said controls would harm food production as they have had in the United States where producers have kept cattle and hogs from slaughter.

Mr. Gillespie told reporters the controls are intended to ensure adequate stocks of table meats like roast beef and steaks. Poorer grades of meat used for making bologna and wieners, traditionally exported to the United States, would be eligible for export licences.

MEATS RAIDED
Mr. Gillespie said "market distortions" in the United States, caused by the price freeze on meat products there, have led to a raiding of Canadian meat supplies.

He said the temporary controls probably won't lower meat prices, but should keep them from rising more.

Health Minister Marc Lalonde said the basic old-age security payment will be increased to $106.30 a month from $100 effective Oct. 1, under a proposal to make cost-of-living adjustments to old-age and guaranteed income supplement payments every three months instead of annually.

The old-age payments to couples also will be increased about five per cent, to $341.80. The monthly payments for the guaranteed income supplement will increase five per cent to $179.16.

Recipients probably won't receive the increases in their October cheques. Parliament must approve the plan and it is not scheduled to meet until mid-October, but payments would be retroactive, Mr. Lalonde said.

The food prices review board will be strengthened by the addition of investigative officers to ferret out and publicize unreasonable price increases on individual food items.

Consumer Affairs Minister Herb Gray said the board, which hopes to have consumer help in identifying cases of profiteering, will "act vigorously" on specific complaints. He said the government is prepared to introduce legislation if unfair market practices are not stopped voluntarily.

In replying to questions, Mr. Trudeau said the government is prepared to recall Parliament before October if the proposals do not work effectively.

The order-in-council authorizing the government to licence hog and cattle exports, effective from midnight Monday night, was passed at an eight-hour Monday cabinet meeting.

Mr. Gillespie said the controls are for an indefinite period and will apply to live cattle and hogs, and to fresh, chilled and frozen beef and pork.

He said Canada traditionally has been a net importer of beef, but that the strong U.S. demand for meat last week made it appear Canada was becoming a net exporter.

Federal statistics, on exports to the U.S. only, show that beef carcasses shipped during the week ending July 28 totalled 185,761 pounds compared with 29,761 pounds in the corresponding week a year earlier.

Cloudy this morning but clearing by this afternoon with a high near 80. Generally cloudy tonight with a risk of showers and thundershowers tomorrow afternoon. Low tonight, 60-65.

The trouble with trying to get away from it all these days is that most of it is portable.

GETTING READY — The big day is tomorrow for employees of the new Simpsons-Sears store in Sherbrooke's regional shopping centre on Portland street. The store will be open then, even though the rest of the centre will still be undergoing last-minute finishing touches. Seen here, operations manager Marc Gauvreau, stops to chat to several employees learning the intricacies of the master cash. Last week all employees finished a charm course. And tomorrow, the word is go. For the story and more photos, see p. 8.

...But producers doubt new plan will cut costs...

TORONTO (CP) — Spokesmen for farm producers said Monday they are not optimistic that the federal government's export restrictions on beef and pork can ease the burden of rising prices for Canadian consumers.

Charles Munro, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said the federal measures fail to consider the effects of continuing railway strikes and heavy speculating in unregulated food commodity markets.

"The best way to cure the problem is to keep producers profitably producing," he said.

George Morris, president of the Canadian Cattlemen's Association, said the cabinet's export restrictions follow a recommendation made by cattlemen last week—one the association finds most distasteful.

The cattlemen are opposed to restrictions by government, but "if they had to commit that sin at all, the government should at least step lightly," he said.

"They should leave the whole market alone," he added. "They haven't got enough fingers to plug the dike."

Mr. Morris warned that any benefits gained now by export restrictions will be lost unless some move is made to restrict export of feeder cattle—the cattle feedlots buy to fatten for slaughter.

HINDER SHIPMENTS

Mr. Morris said heavy shipments of feeder cattle to the U.S. from Western Canada is due to railway strikes which are hindering shipment of beef to eastern markets and may cause short supply for Canada later this year.

Both Mr. Morris and Mr. Munro said the federal government could have given immediate help to consumers by ending the rail strike.

"Those people down in Ottawa better get some cowboys down to talk to them," said Mr. Morris. "This is no business for lawyers."

But he added that Canadian meat prices "will again start to reflect supply and demand" when the U.S. price ceiling on beef is removed Sept. 12.

Meanwhile, the chairman of the Canadian Association of Consumers reacted optimistically to the federal government's measures.

"I think consumers should be encouraged that the government has taken some sort of rapid action," said Marvyn Brechin.

He commended federal action upon two suggestions which the association made last week—more staff for the food prices review board and aid to those on fixed incomes.

And prices continue skyward

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Food prices—especially meat—continue to streak skyward in most Canadian centres.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press indicates that sirloin tip beef roasts have risen as much as 24 cents a pound in a week in St. John's, Nfld., and 35 cents since July 30 in Vancouver.

All-beef wieners have gone up six cents a pound in Edmonton. Pork, after a big jump last month, is going up three and four cents a week.

The Consumers' Association of Canada (CAC), after weeks of urging calm, has protested to Prime Minister Trudeau, as have other citizens' groups. The CAC has asked emergency measures be taken to increase the old-age pension.

Ellen Wickstrom, an Edmonton pensioner, says:

"I got a $2-raise a month ago, but food prices have gone up much more than that. I'm not eating half the things I used to. I wonder how some people can stay alive."

A Halifax widow with two sons says she cut down on milk, and switched to skim. Ground chuck is her staple meat.

BUY FREEZERS
Some shoppers in St. John's bought freezers in anticipation of more price rises.

Ottawa seemed to have the sharpest rise in various items in a market basket shopped in each city. Seventeen standard items were priced in supermarkets.

Ottawa showed a 70-cent-a-pound rise in the price of a sirloin beef roast since last week, and a 90-cent rise from July 30. The price has gone from $1.09 a pound to 1.99. A centre loin pork roast now costs $1.69 a pound, compared with $1.49 a week ago. Chicken has gone up to 87 cents from 83 cents, and up from 69 cents on April 30.

St. John's has a bakery strike, and has had bread priced at 33 cents for several months. A rump roast there now costs $1.99 a pound. A similar roast was $1.75 last week. Ground chuck went down last week to $1.05 from $1.23 on July 30, and now is back up to $1.25. Milk has gone to 41 cents for a quart of homogenized from 34 cents last week.

In Halifax, a sirloin tip roast was $1.78 a pound, up five cents from last week and nine cents from July 30. Chicken dropped to 73 cents from 87 cents, as did ground chuck. It is $1.09 a pound now, compared with $1.29 last week and 89 cents July 30.

PRICES STABLE
Most prices were fairly stable in Toronto compared with a week ago. Wieners dropped three cents a pound, chicken went up three cents, to 82 cents, but is up five cents from July 30. Eggs are up three cents a dozen to 85 cents for medium sized.

People in Vancouver have been paying $1.05 a dozen for medium eggs since July. Almost everything in the market basket has risen in Vancouver, though by small amounts. Hot dogs are $1.09 a pound, up from $1.05 last week, butter is up to 84 cents a pound from 80 cents. A loaf of bread that cost 39 cents last week and 27 cents July 30, now costs 43 cents.

IRENEE PELLETIER
...Heading south

Pelletier heading south

SHERBROOKE — Sherbrooke MP Irene Pelletier announced yesterday he will be one of a delegation of MPs going to the United Nations in New York to observe the workings of the international organization.

In a telephone conversation yesterday, Mr. Pelletier said he was informed of the decision to send him to New York for three weeks starting Oct. 1 by external affairs minister Mitchell Sharp.

Pelletier noted that first-term MPs are seldom chosen to be part of the delegation and added he expects the experience to be "very enriching."

In Ottawa, Pelletier sits on the house external affairs committee as well as the regional economic expansion committee and the library committee.

Disputing rail parties may hold joint session

MONTREAL (CP)—Both sides in the current rail dispute meet the federal mediator today to react to a proposal from him that he said Monday "certainly merits their attention."

Emerging from talks with representatives of CN and CP Rail and the Associated Non-Operating Railway Unions, Judge Alan B. Gold also said that, if separate sessions with the two sides go well, there could be a joint meeting with the parties later in the day.

Judge Gold, appointed mediator in the negotiations 10 days ago, would not elaborate on his "proposal." Nor would company and union negotiators make any direct comment Monday.

"I'm always pleased with a proposition that will take us further forward," said George Lach, a CN vice-president.

"The talks are open and both sides are very frank and honest," said Richard Smith, chief negotiator for the unions.

REACTION RESERVED
Both sides were even more reserved Monday night in reacting to Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's statement that "there is no doubt the rail strikes do have an effect" on food prices in Canada.

Spokesmen for both CN and CP said the railways were planning no immediate comment on that.

Mr. Smith said the unions would respond to the statement, but added "I wouldn't have any reaction right now."

Mr. Trudeau's statement followed a cabinet meeting held Monday to find ways to control climbing consumer food prices.

Later, cabinet sources said Mr. Trudeau referred to shortages resulting from delays in shipments during the strikes.

In Newfoundland, affected by the current regional strikes in the Atlantic provinces, there were reports Monday of shortages of foodstuffs in some parts of insular Newfoundland.

At the same time, in Montreal, CN announced the railway would be delivering today the first major shipment of meat to Quebec since the regional strikes began three weeks ago.

The livestock, valued at more than $2 million, was being brought in on a special train from western Canada. CP Rail also expects a shipment of refrigerated beef.

The strikes by the 56,000 non-ops are continuing.

A total of 8,000 non-ops walked out in northwestern Ontario, Saskatchewan and Manitoba at 8 a.m. local time Monday. Another 8,000 walked out in the Maritimes at 4 p.m. Both groups are to return Wednesday.

The unions, in an effort to increase pressure on the railways, have been stepping up strike action in the past week.

The first of the two walkouts Monday came at the same time as workers ended 72 to 80 hour strikes in other parts of Ontario and in Alberta, British Columbia, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon.

SOME DIFFICULTIES
There were some difficulties in resuming service in Toronto and Edmonton Monday.

In Toronto, a spokesman for CN said commuter trains there were at least two hours late getting started.

In Edmonton, a yard dispute threatened to continue the strike there, but it was settled after a short delay.

Negotiators for the non-ops and for the 11 Canadian railways have been abiding by Judge Gold's request to avoid all comment on the negotiations.

History's longest air war

Cambodia: One last bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last United States bomb will fall on Cambodia by midnight EDT tonight, ending history's longest air war that saw Indochina blasted with a record 7.4 million tons of explosives.

The extra 6½ months of bombing in Cambodia after the Vietnam ceasefire has added to doubts about the ability of air power to force political settlements in wars of this kind.

Despite the backing of more than 430 U.S. bombers and fighter bombers, Cambodia's army of about 190,000 men was squeezed into enclaves by a Communist-led insurgent force about one-fourth its size. As the U.S. bombing drew to a close, the insurgents held about 80 per cent of Cambodia's territory.

Pentagon officials said no one can forecast with any confidence what will happen after the U.S.

planes halt the bombing. The Cambodian military has only 50 small fighter bombers.

The Nixon administration said U.S. bombing support of the Cambodian army was needed to bring about a ceasefire there and North Vietnamese compliance with sections of the Paris agreement requiring Hanoi to pull its troops out of Cambodia.

TROOPS REMAIN
But there is no Cambodian ceasefire and no real prospect of one. U.S. intelligence estimates the North Vietnamese have about 30,000 soldiers in Cambodia, most of them in a position to threaten South Vietnam.

The prolonged air strike in Cambodia, and for a limited time in Laos after the Vietnam peace agreement was signed in January, added to the heavy cost borne by the United States in waging the air war, which dates back to 1965.

Sixteen U.S. servicemen's names have been added to the roster of about 2,100 pilots and air crew members who earlier lost their lives. Four Americans are missing in action, joining about 1,260 other U.S. fighting men whose fate is still not known.

The U.S. Air Force lost 10 aircraft worth about $31.4 million, on top of the nearly 3,700 planes either shot down or crashed between 1965 and the signing of the Vietnam peace pact.

CAMPAIGN COSTLY
The Pentagon estimates the 6½-month phase of the air war in Cambodia and Laos cost about $442.8 million.

The total cost of the air war is difficult to calculate because the Pentagon has provided only piecemeal figures.

However, it was estimated last January that the total price in lost planes and bombs and rockets fired came then to about $16.5 billion. Aircraft fuel, spare parts and the cost of maintaining air and ground crews in Southeast Asia added billions more.

Pentagon statisticians say that U.S. B-52 heavy bombers and fighter bombers carried out more than 35,410 sorties since last Jan. 27 and dropped 239,761 tons of bombs on Cambodia and to a lesser extent on Laos.

More bodies unearthed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Authorities sought indictments today against two teen-agers charged in the largest mass murder in United States history.

The recovery of four additional bodies Monday at a beach brought to 27 the number of victims found since last Wednesday. Digging for more bodies has stopped for now.

"We have recovered what they said was there. We're through," Capt. G. W. Woods of the Jefferson County sheriff's office said Monday night. Digging also stopped in Galveston and Chambers counties, all of which converge at the High Island coastal area where the last excavations were made.

In Houston, a reliable source confirmed that the Harris County district attorney's office plans to ask a grand jury today to indict Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, and David Brooks, 18, for murder.

Brooks, Henley and Dean Allen Corll, 33, who Henley said he shot to death last Wednesday, allegedly were involved in a homosexual torture-murder ring.

Hostage tale may be hoax

MONTREAL (CP) — RCMP said Monday reports that a Montreal man is being held hostage by the Black September Arab terrorist movement may be a hoax.

They made the statement after calls were made earlier in the day to three newspapers thousands of miles apart by a man who claimed he is a member of the Arab terrorist movement.

Three newspapers, the South China Morning Post of Hong Kong, a French language daily in Beirut, L'Orient-Le Jour, and a French language newspaper here, Montreal-Matin, all received similar calls early Monday.

The message to the Hong Kong daily said:

"This is Black September. We have a Canadian, Yves Landry, a mercenary, whose home address is 8318 Quebec, Montreal. Born June 18, 1937. International driving licence 358209. If in 48 hours the two Palestinians held in Athens are not freed, Mr. Landry will be liquidated."

CHECKED HOTELS
After the first call was made to the Hong Kong paper, a check by police of hotels there failed to trace anybody with the name Landry. Police there also conducted a fruitless check of apartment houses.

The Beirut newspaper said the caller—allegedly calling from Hong Kong, had a French-Canadian accent.

Welsh fighting for a national identity

By DAVE THOMAS
CARDIFF, Wales (CP) — When Ifred Francis was 14, he was jolted by the realization that he couldn't speak his own language.

He was Welsh. But his parents were among the thousands in Wales to let the national language slip away from their children, for whom English was the obvious passport to a good education and the middle class.

The tongue-rippling tones of the ancient Celtic language fascinated Francis and he went off to university determined to regain it.

Now 25, he sits in prison finishing a master's thesis in Welsh literature, with his string of nine convictions for civil disobedience and criminal damage making Francis one of the new folk heroes of young Welsh nationalists who see their language fading to a quaint curiosity.

VIOLENCE DONE

The use of Welsh as the major working language was torn away from the principalities by the same English-run coal pits that turned its lush valleys into smoking scars and now less than a quarter of its 2.5 million people speak it at all. The more militant of the Welsh nationalists argue that violence has been done to their rich linguistic culture and that violence can be justified in return against the electronic agents of English "cultural imperialism."

Broadcasting has become the focus of nationalist energy and members of the youthful Welsh Language Society (Cymdeithas yr Iaith Gymraeg) have been charged with about 1,000 offences ranging from non-payment of Britain's television-ownership tax to the smashing of studio cameras.

The 4,000 or so members of the society—whose flame-like symbol represents the tongue of the red Welsh dragon—are demanding a full-time radio and television service in Welsh. Television programming in the native language now totals a meagre 12 hours a week spotted among the English transmissions of the BBC and a privately-owned station BBC radio in Welsh is limited to 15 hours a week, less than one-third the air time devoted to French-language programming on the BBC international service.

WAS FRUSTRATED

A few days before his last sentence was handed down in July—12 months for conspiracy to destroy a BBC transmitter—Francis sat in a Cardiff park beside his 22-year-old wife of three weeks and talked about the frustrations of Welsh nationalism.

"It's obvious that Welsh is the language of Welsh culture and that Welsh culture is worth preserving," he said.

"The national language is disappearing and Wales is therefore in a very unnatural and abnormal state—what we are trying to do is normalize the situation.

"The Welsh Nationalist Party (Plaid Cymru) has been trying for years through constitutional means to have Welsh elevated to full status but the British authorities won't listen to constitutional arguments."

Francis and his fellow activists earn maximum publicity for their cause by reporting themselves to police after every raid, thus ensuring the holding of a subsequent trial. They always refuse to plead to the charge, however, and announce in Welsh that a British court has no jurisdiction to judge their political acts.

JUDGES SYMPATHETIC

The tactic has won sympathy, even from some judges. Last spring, seven Welsh magistrates not only acquitted a group of society members on charges of conspiracy to disrupt television transmissions but stood with them at the end of the trial to sing the Welsh national anthem.

An absolute prohibition against causing injury to persons has helped the society avoid a backlash reaction against their cause and the law-abiding Welsh Nationalist Party which controls dozens of local council seats in Wales has not chosen to reject them as an embarrassing political liability.

When Francis was released in January after serving a two-year term for breaking into a Manchester television studio and scoring camera lenses with a glass cutter he was greeted as a hero by an assembly of students at the University of Wales.

He had been free less than a month before a transmitter raid which resulted in his current jail sentence. There was a hint more of humor than contrition when he reviewed his record of crime, including the night-time glass-cutter attack on expensive color-camera lenses:

"We came in through a window—the security was very poor.

"The studio was so well-built that it deadened our noise and we even had time for a smoke and cup of tea before calling the caretaker and asking him to ring the police."

PETITION LONDON

The broadcasting issue is not confined to the more radical members of Welsh society. More than 200 political, church and academic leaders met here early in July at the call of the Archbishop of Wales, Gwilym Williams, and unanimously petitioned the British government for a Welsh-only television channel.

Now that settlement for the channel has passed on to such respectable levels of Welsh politics, the language society has suspended its campaign of sabotage to allow the British government time to react without appearing to be giving in to illegal coercion.

"Our hope is that, having brought people's attention to the issue, we can suspend our direct action and let the government respond favorably to these requests," said Francis.

"The government will say of course that we have had nothing to do with their decision and that they are yielding only to the legally-applied pressure."

SEEK NEW CHANNEL

Because of a short-sighted technological decision made when British television was introduced the demands for a separate Welsh channel are of major concern throughout Britain. It was originally assumed that broadcasting would remain forever a state monopoly and television sets here were equipped to select a maximum of four channels, three of which are already occupied.

The commercial network, ITV, is arguing in a high-powered advertising effort that it should have exclusive use of the fourth channel.

Another objection to a Welsh-only channel is that it would be unreasonably expensive to serve a maximum potential audience of 600,000 scattered over 7,500 square miles.

The Welsh nationalists have been encouraged, however, by the setting up of a special government enquiry into regional broadcasting needs and the government is not likely to give away the fourth channel before hearing its report, expected some time next year.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

CREMATION WASTEFUL?
LONDON (AP) — A British doctor said today it is a waste of valuable natural resources to cremate human corpses. They should be reprocessed to make fertilizer, he said. Dr. Henderson Smith, of Huddersfield, Yorkshire, said in a letter to the magazine World Medicine he could visualize the day when a human body, either by itself or mixed with sewage, is reprocessed to make fertilizer.

WILL DISBAND UNIT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Donald Alexander said Thursday a special unit that had been investigating finances of so-called extremist organizations will be disbanded. The unit was organized in 1969 and reportedly collected information on 3,000 organizations and 8,000 individuals from both leftist and rightist organizations. Alexander said the duties now being performed by the unit will be carried out by other agencies within IRS.

CRACKDOWN HALTED
BONN (Reuter) — The United States army in West Germany withdrew instructions to "major subordinate commanders" Thursday for a crackdown on dissidents after details were leaked to reporters. Documents were issued by 8th Infantry Division headquarters in Bad Kreuznach, near Wiesbaden, and listed indicators of dissent as including distribution of underground newspapers and complaints to superiors, news media or congressmen about living conditions, harassment or unfair treatment.

GETS CANADIAN LOAN
NEW DELHI (Reuter) — Canada signed two agreements Thursday to give India a loan of $4 million and an outright grant of $1.2 million. The funds have been provided to meet the foreign exchange cost of some heavy equipment for the Kundah hydro electric project in the South Indian state of Tamil Nadu. The equipment will come from Canadian General Electric Co.

HEADS FOR MARS
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Thursday launched Mars 7, the fourth unmanned space probe it has aimed toward the red planet in the last three weeks, the official news agency Tass reported.

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Male chauvinist, self-indulgent tyrannical old man, loutish bumpkin, mincing snivelling intriguer: Alan Scarfe himself resembles none of these but can at will be totally convincing as any one of them.

The English-born actor, who says he would always choose Canada "as my permanent home," is in his second consecutive season with the Stratford Festival this summer, alternating in the roles of Petruccio in The Taming of The Shrew, Tony Lumpkin in She Stoops To Conquer and Roderigo in Othello.

It was the role of Tony Lumpkin in last season's festival production of the Oliver Goldsmith comedy that introduced Scarfe to Stratford audiences and inspired raves from the couple dozen or so international critics reviewing the show.

In his first season here, he also understudied William Hurt in the title role of King Lear, playing the part for 13 performances and impressing with the wide range of his talent for character portrayals.

In an interview, Scarfe, whose dominating stage presence suggests a physical size much more intimidating than actually is the case, disclaimed any pretensions to "method" acting, saying that he is "much more instant."

"I can turn it on and off. I personally approach a part quite cerebrally in the initial stages. Feeling it deeply comes much later in the procedure. The more performances I do the more deeply I begin to feel it. The more deeply you feel the part the better, but obviously you can't become the character."

CHANGED VIEW
Scarfe admitted, however, that wasn't always his view.

"When I was younger, I would perform and afterwards not be able to remember what had taken place on stage. I was so 'in' the roles I played. There were two different worlds completely. But now I don't particularly enjoy that kind of indulgence."

"It is very satisfying to become that incredibly involved in a part so that you do lose yourself in it, but there is a craft to getting there. There is a way of doing it so that it is an artistic thing rather than an indulgent thing and one isn't consciously seeking to lose oneself."

"Actually, the more you can retain your own psychic sort of centre the better. I think if you get too lost in it the performance is out of control."

Scarfe trained at the London (England) Academy of Music and Dramatic Art, graduating in 1966 with the year's best-actor award. After working with repertory companies in Liverpool and Coventry he came to Canada in 1968 and performed for three seasons with the Vancouver Playhouse. In this country, he also has appeared in productions at Theatre Calgary, the Shaw Festival and the Centaur and Saidye Bronfman theatres in Montreal.

What has been the main appeal of theatre for him?

"I think it starts with a lot of illusion. You want to become a star in order to expose your own ego problems on everybody. That's where it starts.

"Then, the attraction of it becomes more and more the possibilities in it, the possibilities of both extending yourself and our ability to express any given thing and what it can do to an audience.

"Also, you're drawn along by a certain amount of success.

"Actually, I wanted to give it up in 1968. I came to Canada intending to go into physiology, but that didn't last too long. People started offering me roles and you finally have to accept what you're best at."

"I don't think you can be a good tragic actor unless you can be a comic as well. You have to see the silliness in it, the pathetic side of the tragedy.

"I wouldn't wish to exclude any area of theatre in my experience. I don't think one type of play is necessarily better or more effective than the other. As an actor and director, I think you should plan to do them all."

Directing has been another side of his career since his early days in English rep, and he said he would like "to get into a situation where I can balance up the directing and acting."

"I like directing because it gives me more control over the whole end-product. That's a very satisfying thing and I suppose I might some time want to take on the business of being an artistic director for a theatre or something like that."

But when he's acting, he's not a frustrated director.

"I find it's perfectly easy to divorce the directing side if you're being directed by a good director. But if you have a weak director or an unclear director, I find then my instincts as a director come to the fore."

Scarfe looks on the festival's trip to Continental Europe last winter as probably the most valuable experience he has had in theatre.

"We were exposed to the reactions of a slightly more sophisticated and more critical audience, and it took away a good deal of the big-headedness and so on that can occur in a place like this.

"Here, it's so insular, and the audiences look to it as a kind of pinnacle. They come here because it's about the best classical theatre in North America. The kind of response the audience gives us here is very good, very warm, very marvellous, but you can rely on that too much."

"When we went to many places in Europe, the response wasn't like that. The people in the theatres there were not so terribly impressed. They found a great deal lacking in what we were doing. And I'm sure 75 per cent of those people who came to see us were quite fluent in English. The audience reaction was just sharper."

"Don't buy anything day"

NEW YORK (AP) — A "Don't Buy Anything Day" boycott sponsored by some consumer groups to protest high prices failed to stir much enthusiasm Tuesday. Shoppers looking for beef didn't have a choice—there wasn't much to boycott.

The boycott action was sponsored by Fight Inflation Together, a Los Angeles-based group which also spearheaded the one-week U.S. meat boycott in April.

Several members of Women United for Action passed out leaflets on a Milwaukee, Wis., streetcorner, asking people to support the boycott, but found few takers.

The Alliance for Consumer Protection in Pittsburgh, Pa., supported the boycott, but a spokesman said the group wouldn't actively participate because it didn't want to make people feel guilty for buying things they needed.

Meat packers, wholesalers and supermarkets reported steady dwindling beef supplies. Administration officials have said repeatedly that the ceiling on beef prices won't be lifted until Sept. 12 although controls on other foods were ended several weeks ago.

Cattlemen have been withholding their livestock from market until the ceiling is lifted or selling to Canadian companies which take the beef north of the border, slaughter it and resell it in the U.S. Imported beef is not subject to the price ceilings.

DO DOWN KILLING
More and more supermarket chains were buying cattle directly from the farmer and having the livestock custom slaughtered. The price at the farm level is not controlled and the stores said they simply decided to take a loss—paying more than they could charge—in an effort to meet customer demand.

Edward Deeb, executive director of the Associated Food Dealers of Michigan, which represents about 2,500 firms, said at least 50 meat specialty stores in the Detroit area have closed because of a lack of beef.

"About a dozen retailers told me that starting today they will be rationing beef," Deeb added.

The short supply of beef has pushed up the demand for other meat items, particularly pork, and prices have reached record highs.

Some shoppers went across the border to beat the high cost of meat. Richard Kolbe, a U.S. Customs inspector in Detroit, said that at least 50 per cent of the U.S. citizens crossing the border from Windsor, Ont., in recent days had meat with them.

A similar situation was reported at Tijuana, Mexico.

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

The Canadian Radio-Television Commission announces the following decision effective on August 3, 1973.

Decision CRTC 73-392
SECOND FRENCH-LANGUAGE TELEVISION SERVICE IN SHERBROOKE, QUE.

Application by Henri Audet, on behalf of a company to be incorporated, for a broadcasting licence to operate a French-language television station in Sherbrooke, Que. on Channel 9, affiliated to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network.

Decision: APPROVED

The Commission is convinced that residents wish to obtain a second French-language television service as soon as possible and that the solution proposed by Henri Audet, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and Telemedia represents, in this instance, the one most likely to meet the expectations of the population.

The Commission considers it essential that this new station pay great attention to the local and regional production of news and public affairs programs. In this regard, the Commission expects the licensee to provide sufficient facilities and staff to ensure such news and public affairs programming and other local programming of the best quality in the area. The Commission will discuss with the licensee how he plans to satisfy this condition attached to the licence.

The applicant stated that he intends to meet with the cable operators of his service area, in order to implement the Commission's cable policy concerning program substitution. The Commission expects that the cable licensees will give effect to the requests of the Channel 9 licensee.

The applicant must ensure, as far as possible, that the operation of Channel 9 will start on or about September 1, 1974. Consequently, the Commission grants a licence to the applicant for a period of three years expiring March 31, 1976, to operate Channel 9 in Sherbrooke, as an affiliate of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network.

The application of Corporation Civitas Limitee is denied.

SHERBROOKE, QUE.

Application by CHLT-Te 7 Ltee. to amend its broadcasting licence for CHLT-TV Sherbrooke, Que. in order to disaffiliate from the CBC network and to become an affiliate of the TVA network.

Decision: APPROVED

The Commission noted the applicant's statement to the fact that the new affiliation of CHLT-TV to the TVA network would improve the first and second television services. The Commission also expects the licensee to improve and increase local and regional programming, as expressed in its application.

The Commission noted that this station has produced many variety and public affairs programs which were broadcast by the CBC and other private television stations. Considering the Commission's concern with regard to the contribution of affiliated stations to the programming of the TVA network, the Commission expects the licensee to maintain its programming policy as a new affiliate of the TVA network.

To this effect, the Commission issues simultaneously a public announcement giving notice of its intention to undertake shortly discussions with representatives of the TVA network concerning its network structure, its programming and the rapid extension of network services.

The applicant stated its intention to meet with the cable licensees of the area in order to implement the Commission's cable policy concerning program substitution. The Commission will follow these proceedings with interest and expects the cable licensees will give effect to the requests of CHLT-TV.

The Commission approves the new affiliation of CHLT-TV to the TVA network. The change will have to take effect on September 1, 1974, when the new television station, Channel 9, affiliated to the CBC network, is expected to start operations. The licensing period of CHLT-TV is maintained and will expire on January 21, 1976.

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

TVA NETWORK

The Canadian Radio-Television Commission announces that it has issued a licence to the Cooperative de Television de l'Outaouais, authorizing it to operate a French-language television station in the Ottawa-Hull area. It also announces that this station will be affiliated to the TVA network.

The Commission also approved the application of CHLT-Te 7 Ltee. for Sherbrooke to cease its affiliation to the CBC, in order to affiliate itself to the TVA network.

Following these decisions, the Commission considers it necessary to review the nature, structure and operations of the TVA network. Therefore this fall the Commission intends to undertake discussions on these subjects with network members.

These discussions will deal mainly with the following matters: network structures, practices concerning the affiliated stations' participation in network operations, rapid extension of network services.

Council ratifies amalgamation of English, French libraries

By CROSBIE COTTON
Record Reporter
SHERBROOKE — Sherbrooke council at a special meeting last night approved the amalgamation of the Sherbrooke Library and the Sherbrooke municipal library.

The Sherbrooke Library has catered to an English-speaking population and financed itself through grants, membership fees and other fund-raising projects.

The municipal library, which houses French-language books, is maintained by the city. Under the agreement accepted last night, the Sherbrooke Library and Art Union sold all its books, numbering at least 16,917 volumes, to the city for $1. Conditions of the sale are that the new amalgamated library will spend from its yearly budget an amount on English books equal to the percentage of English-speaking persons in the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville area.

Another condition is that all English-speaking persons, within a five mile radius of Sherbrooke, will be allowed to use the library for free.

A committee will be set up to run the library which will have at least three English-speaking members. Those members will decide which English books will be purchased.

The city has also agreed to hire an English-speaking librarian.

The city agreed that for the next five years, 25 per cent of the annual book budget will be spent on English-language books.

The move by council completes the amalgamation of the two libraries. The move has been discussed for many years.

The library amalgamation was one of the major items council faced last night. Two major items which were to have been discussed were tabled until another meeting.

Many councillors, including Roger Gingues, Gerald Deziel, Raymond Bergeron and mayor Marc Bureau were not on hand for the meeting. Council, therefore, postponed rendering a decision on a proposed rate increase sought by Sherbrooke Radio Taxi Inc. as well as a proposed increase in the price of electricity.

Both items, as well as a resolution for the financing of the first step for the revitalization of the downtown sector, are expected to be handled at the next meeting.

In other business council accepted a request by local residents to place a school crossing guard at the corner of Woodward, Lavigerie and 15th Avenue. However, council pointed out they were already studying the crossing guard system used in the city and noted changes could be forthcoming.

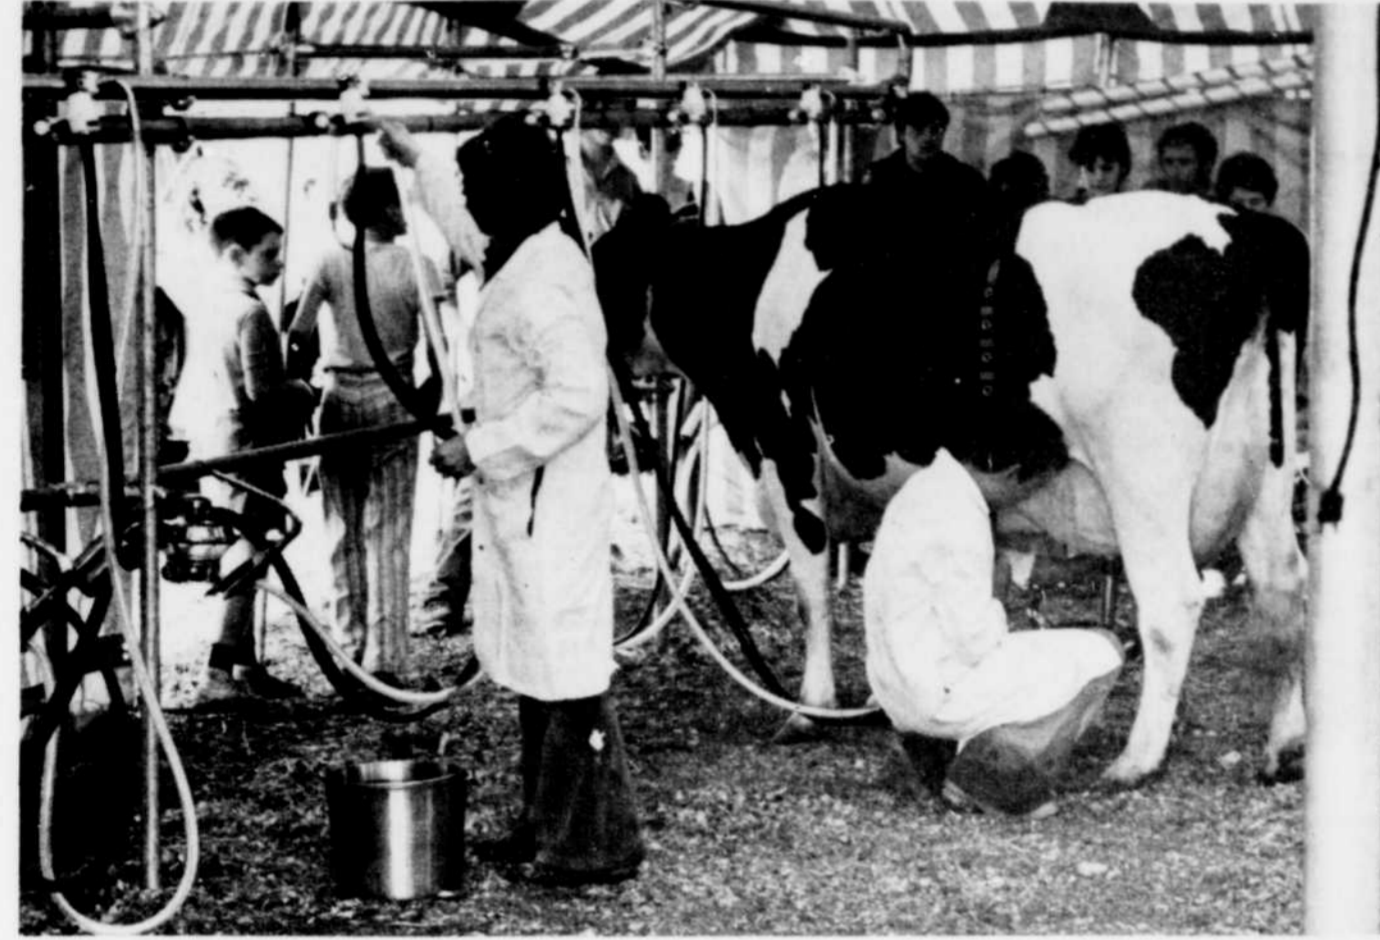

Council also agreed in principle to accept a one-year schedule costing more than $800,000 for the replacement of city vehicles and machinery.

Council delayed decision on a request to install traffic lights at the corner of Burlington and King Streets until it can be studied in connection with next year's budget allocations. The request was prompted by alleged dangerous and careless driving on King street. Council decided to ask the police to adopt a stricter attitude on King street.

Council appointed a new director of tourist promotion, Bertrand Beaudoin, of Ottawa. It also supported a resolution from Thunder Bay asking the federal government to establish a youth hostel system to facilitate cross-country travel.

It accepted a new street plan for the Montjoie development area.

MILKING DEMONSTRATION — Among the many agricultural exhibits was the Surge milking equipment demonstration. The lucky cow this time was Camille Barre's Grand Champion

Holstein Cow, Melson Rockman Mimi. It was all part of the fun at the Bedford Fair, held over the weekend.

Longair chief of defence staff

LENNOXVILLE — The son of one of Scotland's first professional soccer players, a physicist associated with the joint British-Canadian-U.S. World War 2 atomic bomb project and a defence research scientist in Canada since 1952, A.K. (Alec) Longair, 63, of Ottawa, assumed the post of Chief, Defence Research Staff, in Washington, earlier this month.

Mr Longair's appointment, a senior Canadian Defence Research Board post, includes also responsibilities as counsellor (defence research) for the Canadian ambassador.

Research on spectroscopy at the University of St. Andrews followed from 1933-36 and then, high precision thermometry in the Physics Department of the National Physical Laboratory at London, from 1937-40. From there, he was transferred to the Headquarters of the parent Government department, the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research where he spent a year.

When responsibility for atomic bomb research (tube alloys research) was transferred to the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research in 1941, Mr. Longair was assigned to the same department and remained there until 1947, the last two years in the division of atomic energy, ministry of supply.

Mr Longair was then posted to the British embassy in Washington, as assistant scientific attaché and assistant director of the United Kingdom scientific mission, remaining there until 1952. His principal duty was liaison with the U.S. atomic energy commission.

He then spent a year on the planning staff at DRB Headquarters and since 1968, has been the chief scientific staff officer at the Ottawa Headquarters.

His father, the late William ("Plum") Longair, played professional soccer with the Dundee Football Clubs in the 1890s. One of Scotland's first professional athletes, he was transferred later to an English team.

In 1948, Mr Longair married the former Jean Findlay, of Lennoxville. They have two sons and one daughter.

All three appointments are to terminate on May 31, 1976, and are for newly-created posts within the faculty of medicine.

Lavallee, 39, has served as director of the basic sciences division since he joined the university's medicine faculty in 1966. He has held several administrative posts in the area, notably on the CHU executive committee; the administrative council of the CUS and the Eastern Townships health information center.

Dr. de Margerie, 42, has served as professor and director of the university's ophthalmology department and clinic since joining the faculty in 1966. ## Furniture sales may hit new highs but..

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's furniture industry could be heading for a record year in total value of factory shipments but the industry still faces problems of hardwood supply and a shortage of manpower, the president of the Quebec Furniture Manufacturers Association said Monday.

Roger Rougier, speaking at the opening of the 1973 Montreal Furniture Market, said factory shipments in the first quarter of this year are estimated at $256 million, an increase of 27 per cent from the corresponding period last year.

QDIF treasurer pleads not guilty to fund fraud

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean-Marie Cote, treasurer of the Quebec Deposit and Investment Fund, pleaded not guilty Monday to eight charges in connection with an alleged $1.3-million fraud involving the fund, which invests Quebec pension plan contributions.

Cote, 52, appeared before Judge Roger Savard of sessions court to hear the charges. He will be held in jail until Thursday for a bail hearing.

Cote, arrested Sunday night, was charged with two counts of misappropriation of funds. The charges involve cheques for $750,000 and $625,000 dated March 8 and July 26, respectively.

The cheques were drawn on the fund and cashed by a branch of the Banque Canadienne

Nationale. A spokesman for the fund said the victimized bank has been asked to reimburse the money on grounds the cheques were fraudulent.

The cheques were in favor of Adimcoma Ltd. and Gestion Laurentienne Ltee, not further identified in the complaints.

Two charges of forgery were laid against Cote, alleging he added the name of P. Arbour on the cheques as co-signer.

Two charges of uttering the cheques and two of conspiracy with a man named Jean-Marcel Gauthier, not further identified, also were laid against Cote.

The various charges carry penalties ranging between 10 to 14 years.

Preliminary hearing has been set for Aug. 21.

Hardwood prices have doubled in the last 12 months, he said, and costs of other raw materials have also increased.

The industry was caught this spring with a shortage of hardwood but the summer looks better and prices are stabilizing, Mr. Rougier said.

About 20 members of the manufacturers' association, mostly medium-sized firms, are forming a consortium to buy hardwood in bulk, perhaps directly from woodlot operators.

Manufacturers could turn to imports from Africa or South America Mr. Rougier said, but will also "have to try to find other solutions" such as using more metals and plastics and reserving wood for exterior trim.

Mr. Rougier also said "our biggest competitor is unemployment insurance" in describing manpower problems.

At one time wages in the industry were low, but he said they now are reaching a favorable level with other industries. But furniture makers must still "interest the young to work with us."

Guy Saint-Pierre, Quebec minister of industry and commerce who opened the show, urged manufacturers to improve their designs and knowledge of the U.S. market to improve exports.

Mr. Saint-Pierre said only about five per cent of Canadian production is for export yet smaller nations, such as the Scandinavian countries, have a large export business as a result of their original designs.

Designers attending the show this year seemed divided on the future of contemporary furniture designs compared to more traditional styles.

"Slowly but surely, the consumer is becoming more oriented towards simplicity," says Andre Dubois, president of Interior Designers of Canada.

Designer John Murray said "North America wants to come home to comfort, to the warmth and simplicity of the good old days."

"Styles will be simple, but lean towards colonial, old English or country French in Canada—in warm cracked wheat, honey and earth tones."

Celanse to expand

MONTREAL — W.R. Clerihue, president and chief executive officer of Celanese Canada Limited announced today that the company will expand the capacity of two major chemical product lines at its Edmonton, Alberta Petrochemical plant.

"This expansion is required to meet increasing demand in both domestic and export markets," he said.

Mr. Clerihue explained that acetic acid production will be increased by 40 per cent, using new technology developed at the Edmonton plant for oxygen enrichment of the hydrocarbon feedstock to the production unit.

War resisters urged to come forward

SHERBROOKE (MI) — According to a press release from the Coalition of War Resisters, a national program has been launched by the organization to assist war resisters to take advantage of the final opportunity of acquiring legal status in Canada.

The program hopes to contact resisters through one of nine aid centres in order to provide accurate information on the procedures to be followed. The centre in Montreal will serve the Eastern Townships area.

Called the American Refugee Service, it is located at 3625 Aylmer Street; the telephone number is 514-843-3132.

It is expected that some 10,000-15,000 resisters could benefit from the opportunity which will affect those who have lived in Canada without landed immigrant status since at least November 30, 1972.

The Coalition anticipates that most of those who do apply will be granted landed immigrant status provided that they register before the end of the 60-day period on October 15.

Le fait Français... à Toronto

By ELMO CIPRIETTI

By ELMO CIPRIETTI
TORONTO (CP) — "Le fait Français," the French fact that Ontario now has more French residents than Quebec has English, is gaining recognition by school boards across the province.

While communities such as Cornwall, Elliot Lake, Blind River, and Sturgeon Falls have been deeply divided by the issue of French used as language of instruction, many others have adjusted painlessly.

An Ontario education ministry official said "only a handful" of school boards are having problems and that 61 secondary schools are using French partially or totally as the language of instruction.

Dr. Laurier Carriere, assistant deputy minister and head of the permanent council on French-language education, said Ontario has 115,328 students in francophone classes or schools—elementary or secondary schools where the language of instruction is French.

He said that while enrolment has increased in francophone classes, the number of English-speaking students studying French in high schools has dropped significantly.

The ministry's statistics branch released figures for 1972 showing 218,187 high school students studying French, a drop of 24,948 in one year.

LAYS BLAME

Albert Morin, a Cornwall school trustee, said the trend that has French students moving away from English and English students dropping French is an "ironic result of badly administered programs for bilingualism." Federal funds granted the province for development of bilingualism were being used to obtain "almost the opposite effect."

Chief statistician J. A. Keddy of the education ministry released figures showing the province has received about $60 million since the federal-provincial program was started in 1970. He said the ministry added to this amount in making grants to school boards.

Mr. Morin noted that the warning that federal funds should be used "for the purposes intended," contained in a report to the provincial government by the Symons commission on French-language secondary education, had gone unheeded.

In March, 1972, Prof. T. H. B. Symons, former president of Trent University, Peterborough, recommended that regulations governing federal grants be tightened.

Since 1970, Ontario has required school boards to offer classes with French as the language of instruction if at least 20 students request it.

Ontario's 750,000 residents of French-Canadian ancestry welcomed the regulation as due recognition of their identity.

But in September, 1971 students at Sturgeon Falls went on strike to press demands for French as the language of instruction in a school of their own.

The Northern Ontario town 24 miles west of North Bay has a population of about 7,000, 87-per-cent French.

The Nipissing board of education in North Bay was requested to transform Sturgeon Falls secondary school into a francophone school. A package of dynamite was mailed to the board offices.

Prof. Symons was sent to mediate and the strike ended after students received assurances their demands would be met.

The Nipissing board acceded to francophone demands and Sturgeon Falls secondary school ceased to exist. In its halls arose the Ecole Secondaire Franco Cite.

Anglophone students were placed in a wing of the school and a new school for them, Northern secondary, is being built.

WON'T IMPOSE

On June 22, Education Minister Thomas Wells said the new commission will not have the power to impose arbitration upon a school board as the report had suggested. But it may mediate, inquire and report to the ministry if it fails in any mediation attempt.

The board of education for Stormont Dundas and Glengarry counties refused to give francophone students who outnumbered the anglophones 1,150 to 750 exclusive use of St. Lawrence secondary school.

Threats of violence came from both French and English parents. Prof. Symons again was sent to mediate and the strike ended after students received assurances their demands would be met.

In several Ontario communities such as Sudbury, North Bay and Kapuskasing, anglophone students are in the minority and their parents are just as concerned as French parents elsewhere.

There'll always be an England

It is important to remember about the English that they are the most charming people in the world precisely because they are a) wonderfully adventurous, b) superbly humorous, and c) absolutely the world's top confidence men. G. K. Chesterton wrote that the upper class in England were tolerable precisely because, when all is said and done, they don't really take themselves seriously. The best indication of GK's point is the glorious profiteering done by August, not to say egregious, representatives of the class.

I give you His Grace, the Duke of Leinster. I have a communication from His Grace, and so, probably, do you. How do I know it's from him? Blazoned across the top of the page is: "From His Grace the Duke of Leinster." This is in case the majesty of the provenance of this form letter should miss you. It is signed, "Leinster," which is the approved way for Their Graces to announce themselves. No one in America has ever gone in for that kind of thing except (curiously) William Faulkner, who went through a period of signing himself "Faulkner."

Anyway, His Grace is inviting us to buy a piece of his property. Listen to the pitch. "Anderita is the site of some of the most momentous events in English history. The Romans were here, the Saxons fought here, and it was at Anderita that William the Conqueror landed to conquer a turbulent land and establish a line of monarchy that runs through 29 generations to the reign of our present Queen Elizabeth the Second." His Grace is giving us a chance to buy into that land. You can buy 25 square feet for $675. That comes to $1,176.120 per acre. But hurry! "We are inviting participation," warns His Grace in those confidential accents made famous by IBM lithograph, "only from those families who are sufficiently aware of their heritage to want to buy part of it."

Well, there are those of us who are sufficiently aware of our heritage to recall that we got our acreage from England at something less than a million bucks per acre.

My irrepressible friend Sir Arnold Lunn, an octogenarian, writes me to remark that the recent sex scandals have presented the English with a grave dilemma. You see, he says, it is progressive "1) to approve of fornication, adultery and homosexuality; and 2) to disapprove of aristocracy and aristocrats. So what is the correct avant garde line when a Lord commits adultery with a call girl?"

"I see," writes Sir Arnold, "no nice avant garde solution so far as Lord Jellicoe is concerned but as all convinced Progressives are enthusiastic egalitarians the difficulty of combining 1) and 2) might be resolved in the case of Lord Lambton, for he habitually went to bed with two call girls, which few could afford. Egalitarianism demands One Man-One Call Girl."

Sir Arnold, author and essayist who in his twenties invented the device in skiing known as the "slalom" and, incredibly, escaped the penalties of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Sportsmen, rejoices in the natural republicanism of Americans.

"P.S." — he writes, "Could you tell me whether it is improper to address an American on an envelope as A.B. Smith, Esquire rather than simply as Mr. A.B. Smith? A newly appointed American concierge at a hotel in Switzerland thought that Esquire was a family name and assumed it must be a very large family, to judge by the number of letters addressed to different members of the Esquire clan. All such letters were filed under 'E.' It was only when his 'E' partition was overflowing that he asked the manager when all these different members of the Esquire clan were arriving."

And then there is the English zoologist, who has just now written to a correspondent in California to say that he desires to emigrate to California. He isn't protesting the monarchy, or the likes of Leinster, or even the Labor Party. He just likes America, and finds that California is, well, 110 per cent American.

"Emigration takes time," he says, "and I have yet to persuade you that I am a desirable or acceptable fly to have on your wall... Meanwhile I am packing my bags in hope."

I welcome him as a compatriot, even as I would open my arms to Arnold Lunn, and even to that old commercial rake His Humbug the Duke of Leinster, who could help with our balance of payments.

No outcast

Dear Sir:
It was with a good deal of resentment and displeasure that I read Wendy McMullen's article which appeared in the August 1st issue of your paper.

This undoubtedly created the impression in the minds of your readers that I am the only one of the Megantic "Outcasts" with whom she spoke. There are others in this region who were interviewed as well, although mine is the only name that was brought up. Very little of her so-called information came from me.

Let me remind Wendy McMullen that we of the English speaking residents of Lake Megantic, although few in number do not consider ourselves outcasts, neither do we feel shut out.

The picture of "The MacIver Sisters" was taken under protest, and was printed without our permission or approval; together with comments and quotations which are not even accurate.

Whistling through the cemetery

Prime Minister Lee Kuan-yew of Singapore has said at the prime ministers' conference in Ottawa what nobody else has dared to: that the domino theory, which first brought Americans to Vietnam, was not the rubbish that the detractors of American policies had held it to be; and that the Watergate affair has so undermined American power as to affect the future of the free, or relatively free, world.

In these days of instant crises, the presidency has to be strong, especially since the United States Congress in made up of regional interests that seldom have the vision of the world as a whole. It will not be Sen. Mike Mansfield in his quiet state of Montana, nor Rep. Bella Abzug in her unquiet New York, who will suffer the consequences of the cut-off of funds for American bombing in Cambodia.

Mr. Lee, who has been laboriously trying to maintain the neutrality of his country and keep intact its democratic institutions, now fears that, when the bombing has stopped, Cambodia will fall to the Communists, who will then overrun large tracts of Asia — arriving, through Thailand and West Malaysia, on Singapore's very doorstep.

Mr. Lee is a shrewd, experienced politician — and a social democrat — who knows what to expect in such circumstances. He also knows how hollow is the proposed formula of a formal guarantee by the United States, the Soviet Union and China of Southeast Asian neutrality.

"We would be whistling in the dark through the cemetery of Vietnam," he remarked. "That is what calling for neutralization guaranteed by America, the Soviet Union and China is about."

Two generations ago the United States Congress torpedoed the Woodrow Wilson scheme of a strong League of Nations. Today, with equal recklessness, Congress has wrecked the Nixon-Kissinger edifice of a new, and perhaps more peaceful, world. With attention riveted upon Watergate there can be no Western summit, no Nixon Round and no careful orchestration of Western policy could hold in check Soviet expansion, in Asia as much as in Europe.

All we can now expect is that rapid slide downwards, towards the cemetery described by Mr. Lee, with each nation scurrying for cover behind its militarily ineffective, but economically destructive, palisades. The noise of French nuclear bombs or brave words from NATO merely echo the fateful whistling in the dark.

Mr. Lee's forecast of the future course of events in Southeast Asia must be viewed in the light of Raymond Aron's assessment of the future of Europe. Looking to the next decade, Mr. Aron cannot exclude the possibility of Communists in power both in France and Italy. "What will then be left of the European Community? What will remain of our freedom?" A sadly rhetorical question.

In 1972 Dr. Kissinger almost achieved his long-term goal of peace in Vietnam and the establishing of normal relations between the world's powers. Since then he, who had tried to teach the Americans that diplomacy has nothing in common with financial gain, has had to watch, powerless, how, in an effort to save the American diplomacy has become obsessed with the need to secure large markets in the Soviet Union and ruthlessly fight the competition of America's allies.

"We shall whistle in the dark in the Vietnam cemetery," is the fear of Mr. Lee. "Western Europe is sliding rapidly towards becoming a Soviet protectorate," is Mr. Aron's fear. North America's prime entertainment now threatens to engulf both East and West.

Dirty tricks used among Republicans?

WASHINGTON — Outraged Republican leaders have accused Charles Colson, the former White House trouble shooter, of spreading whispers that Robert Finch suffered a mental breakdown in 1970.

The tale is disputed by no less than former Surgeon General Jesse Steinfeld, who examined Finch's medical records, spoke to his doctors and told us, "They found nothing seriously wrong with him."

But a memo originating in Colson's office has been used as part of a "poison pen" campaign to discourage California Republicans from backing Finch for governor next year.

Colson, whose politics run counter to Finch's liberal Republican views, vigorously denied that he had any intention of hurting Finch. Nevertheless, an angry GOP leader, referring to Colson's former role as White House aide-in-charge-of-dirty-tricks, told us, "Now, he's using his dirty tricks against us."

We have now seen the private memo out of Colson's office. Colson sent it to Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Caspar Weinberger, whom Colson has encouraged to run for governor of California.

The memo was written by a former White House intern who reported to Colson on California politics.

"In talking to my California friends," he wrote, "I detect increasing concern about the gubernatorial election.

Nobody, but nobody, is happy about Finch, on the other hand, he is clearly the strongest right now...

"Reinecke (Lt. Gov. Ed.) whom Reagan (Gov. Ronald) and Nofziger (ex-White House aide Lynn) are running, is an idiot and a sure loser in the general election."

"Another factor which has added to my personal concern is something which my friend (a Democrat with excellent connections on Capitol Hill) has told me. After Finch had his breakdown or whatever it was in 1970, Jesse Steinfeld, according to this guy, examined him and, apparently, had some other people look at him too.

"Steinfeld, good administration loyalist that he was, apparently was not too fond of Finch, and so circulated the examination reports among some Demos on the Hill. This guy has no reason to lie to me... in any event, he tells me he saw the report, and so did more than a few others, and while it's not disastrous, he says, it would raise Eagleton-type to be strictly private. His Democratic source, whom we also contacted, denied ever seeing Finch's medical records, as Colson's man had quoted him in the memo.

Colson told us he had sent the memo to Weinberger merely "to let him know that he would be a unifying candidate if he chose to run for governor. It was not intended on my part," stressed Colson, "in any way as a reflection on Bob Finch for whom I have enormous affection and regard."

Pentagon Briefs: To encourage enlistments, the Navy decided to spend $500,000 to $1 million per ship to install new berths, bigger mirrors, paneling, carpets, new toilets, tiling and handson decor. But the Navy decided to keep the Marines, who serve aboard Navy ships for short stretches, in their same old sardine can-like quarters, with only minor changes.

The Army's Tactical Data Systems at Fort Belvoir, Va., has found a way to get around Pentagon economy demands. One unit has bragged it can bring its costs down from $2.5 million to $1.5 million. But confidential Army documents show the unit plans to make the cut by firing several dozen employees and hiring outside contractors. One Army evaluator objected, saying it is "morally unconscionable to increase contractor space allocations while rifling (firing) personnel."

We also spoke to the author of the memo, who has now left the White House and could lose his new job if he were named. He insisted that he had merely passed on an unverified report in a memo he intended

Laliberte-Gregoire wed

MANSONVILLE — The marriage vows of Suzanne Lucielle Laliberte, daughter of Mrs. Juliette (Poulin) Laliberte and the late Edward Laliberte of Mansonville, and Gilles Mario Gregoire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Gregoire of Highwater, were taken in a special Exchange of Consent, one of four choices of marriage rites, introduced into the Roman Catholic faith approximately two months ago.

The double-ring ceremony was blessed by Rev. Father Maurice Domingue in the St. Cajetan Church on July 14 at 11 a.m.

Mr. John Maurice Laliberte gave the bride, his godchild, to her waiting groom whose father acted as best man.

Suzanne was beautifully gowned in a floor-length white organza, long fitted sleeves and ring brocade collar and a wide, long flowing train. Her veil was caught up to a flowered lace tiara and she carried a large bouquet of red and white small carnations with several streamers of small flowers.

The bride's mother wore an A-line floor-length lime green polyester dress with fitted long sleeves, black accessories and a pink and white carnation corsage. She was escorted by her son, Gerald of Highwater.

The groom's mother wore a floor-length dress with princess waistline, white accessories and also a lovely corsage.

Ushers were Claude Laliberte, brother of the bride, and Luke Gregoire, brother of the groom. Serving at the altar for the wedding mass were the bride's brother, Daniel Laliberte and a cousin, Bruno Cutu. The organist was Mr. Philip Lessard of Mansonville. The church was decorated with field daisies.

A reception was held in the Tourist Garden Hotel at Highwater, the proprietor of which is the groom's father. A hot turkey dinner was served and catered by Mrs. Beauregard of Eastman, Que. A large two-layered white wedding cake, trimmed with silver and a large bride and groom on top, was placed at the head table which also had bowls of fruit and assorted hors d'oeuvres.

Seated at the head table along with the bridal party was the grandfather of the groom, Mr. Ernest Gregoire, the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Henry Laliberte, and Father Domingue who toasted the bridal couple. The groom's father also said a few words and toasted the couple.

The traditional clinking of glasses by the guests calling upon the happy couple to embrace, prevailed throughout the reception after which a bridal dance was held when the guests had the honor of dancing with the bride or groom and pinned money to their attire.

Music was played by the Country Nite Riders Orchestra from Magog.

At the end of the celebration, the bride's shoe and the groom's shoe was passed among the guests who generously filled the shoes with more money.

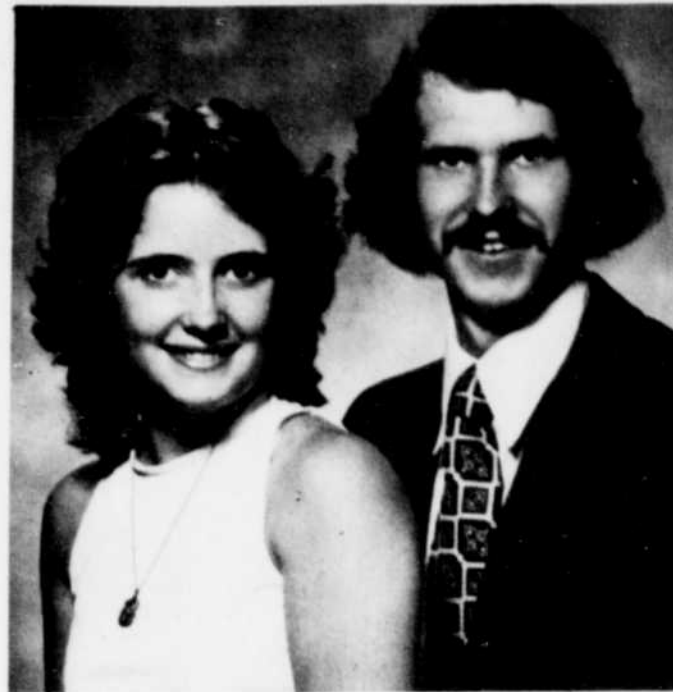

Suzanne looked lovely in her honeymoon outfit of a white trimmed red pant-suit with white accessories.

The happy couple motored to Gaspé. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Gilles Gregoire took up residence in Mansonville.

50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Murray of Birchton will be at home to their friends and relatives on Thursday, Aug. 16, from 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

ENGAGEMENT — The engagement of Miss Linda Ruth Lowden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Harold James Lowden of 516 Fairfield Ave., Greenfield Park, to Mr. Philip Atholl Church, son of Rev. Canon and Mrs. Harold Church of 38 Dufferin Ave., Stanstead, is announced. A fall wedding is planned.

Bridal shower

BOUNDARY

Miss Wendy Cass, Stanstead, on the occasion of her approaching marriage to Mr. David Lepitre on August 18 has been the guest of honor at four showers.

Monday evening, August 6, relatives and friends gathered in the hall of Centenary United Church, Stanstead, to await the arrival of Wendy. On arriving, on a supposed errand, she was completely overtaken with surprise.

Miss Arlene Probyn presented her with a corsage of red roses and sweet-peas. She also presented corsages of pansies and sweet-peas to Wendy's mother, Mrs. Harold M. Cass and to the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Erna Lepitre and later to his mother, Mrs. Valmore Lepitre who arrived later.

The gifts were attractively arranged on a white linen covered table. White and pink garlands were used to decorate with arrangements of garden flowers used throughout the hall.

The gifts included several pieces of the couple's chosen china dinner set, pyrex and corning ware, linens, crystal and many other equally lovely and useful items for the home.

Wendy voiced her appreciation in her usual gracious manner. Buffet refreshments were served from another lace covered table centred with a large silver bowl of sweet-peas. Mrs. Valmore Lepitre poured. Punch was also served.

The shower cake was on a smaller table having a hand embroidered cover. This was made and decorated by Mrs. Horace Doyon and featured a bride under a rose arbor in a garden.

The shower was arranged by Mrs. W.T. Greer and Miss Arlene Probyn assisted by several friends.

Mrs. Robert St. Hilaire, Rock Island, entertained a few of Wendy's Sunnyside school classmates and other friends at her home to honor Wendy and David's approaching marriage.

Again, this was a complete surprise. Mrs. St. Hilaire presented Wendy with a corsage of mums and daisies. The decor where Wendy and her mother, Mrs. H.M. Cass were seated was carried out with daisies and garlands. The gifts were thoughtfully arranged on a table and were a combination of lovely and useful items.

Wendy thanked everyone for their thoughtfulness. Refreshments were served. The shower cake was a basket of daisies.

Mrs. Sidney Fraser, Stanstead, entertained about 20 relatives and friends at her home to honor her niece, Wendy. On arrival she presented Wendy with a corsage of blue bachelor's buttons and yellow roses.

The gifts were opened by Wendy from a tea wagon which was decorated with an umbrella of flowers. The gifts were miscellaneous.

Buffet refreshments were served from the dining table. Miss Alison Reid poured. She was assisting hostess with Mrs. Fraser.

Birthday parties

BEEBE — Mr. Philip Yates of Longueuil who was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Yates, was tendered a surprise birthday party at the home of his parents on August 3.

The guest of honor received many lovely gifts from those attending and others unable to attend.

A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by those attending, who were Mrs. P. Yates, daughter Tammy, Miss Jeannine Yates, Longueuil, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Emery and two sons, Ayer's Cliff, Mr. and Mrs. J. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Denis Lachance, Mr. and Mrs. P. Dubois and daughter, Mr. Walter Edgington, all of Beebe.

A decorated cake was also presented to the celebrant, this being the gift of his mother.

ROCK ISLAND — Master Alain Durocher of Rock Island was five years of age on Saturday, August 4. That afternoon his mother, Mrs. Paul Durocher, assisted by Mrs. Mac Duncan entertained at a party marking this occasion.

The party was held at Alain's parental home where the youngsters came at about 3 p.m. The entertainment was watching a fast-action sport on TV, playing games outdoors and presenting Alain with gifts which delighted him.

Supper was served on the porch dining-table which was decorated in clown effect carried out with the cover, serviettes, plates and cups. The table was centred with a cake in red on white and featured a circus tent with animals.

The guests were Brad and Brian Crawford, Billy Duncan, Johnny Lees, Tammy Simoneau, Tony Chamberlain, Shari, Sean, Sharon and Susan Rolleston, Tammy and Kelley Chamberlain and Alain's sister, Lisa.

Mrs. Durocher took several colored pictures as a souvenir of this happy gathering.

50-Plus

MANSONVILLE — Approximately 41 members of the 50-Plus Club went by bus to the Shelburne Museum grounds in Vermont on Aug. 2.

A motor tram was available to take them to the various buildings and places of interest which held many antiques and the history of Vermont (some of the buildings were dismantled and transported to the museum site, one of them being an old meeting-house which was restored).

The Ticonderoga Ferry Boat (berthed in 1948) which crossed the Lake Champlain was also of interest to see. Mrs. Mary Miller among the group attending, took this boat trip on the Ticonderoga in the 1920's. A movie was shown of how the boat was transported across land to its present site on the museum grounds.

It is said it takes a good day long to see everything at the site of the Shelburne Museum which was established in 1947 as a non-profit educational organization. It was a day well spent and very much enjoyed.

Texstyles

Madeleine Levason

Neat, not gaudy, is the keynote of kidswear fashions for back-to-school days. Classic and tailored is the look in everything from pant sets to dresses, and even the latter are disguised to look like sportswear separates.

The tailored sportswear look is created with co-ordinate fabrics — plaids, checks, corduroys, tweeds and endless neat knit designs. Plaids are subdued in tones of rust, brown, dark blue, green or burgundy, and camel and grey are the solid or accent shades replacing pastels.

Coots have clean, trim lines and appear most often this season in fall sueded, leather-look fabrics and practical piles. Wool, except in blends, is conspicuous by its absence from kidswear, probably due to its current high cost. Polyester and acrylic blends are most prevalent and one of the most popular fabrics for both sexes appears to be corduroy.

Pants dominate for daily school and play wear for boys and girls. The newest styles are not cuffed, but the majority are, and legs vary from wide to narrow. They are teamed with shirt jackets, bomber or sweater jackets and smock tops.

Co-ordinate fabrics are the big feature of girls' dresses. Everything possible is done to make them look like something else — jumpers, separate tops and skirts. Most popular disguise is the jumper with the body in one fabric, such as a solid rib, and natty shirt collar and sleeves in another fabric, but sewn all in a piece. Checks and plaids are big in the dresses, shown and mock vests are another of the fake "layered" looks.

In boys' wear checks, mainly houndstooth and Argyle, are popular in combination with solid co-ordinate shades. Belted jackets, cuffed pants, corduroy suits, ribbed outfits with turtle necked inserts and vests and many variations of the classic grey knit suit are being shown.

Although it is hard to think snowwear in August heat, we will see lots of one and two-piece outfits for the younger kids. The newest pants resemble overalls with bib fronts. The one-piece outfits are usually hooded, and jackets include the popular bomber or battle dress style as well as the regular length, the latter elasticized or tied at the waist.

Most snow wear is made this year of quilted polyester or nylon, or pile fabrics, with elasticized storm cuffs and double knees for warmth.

"Textiles are still your best dollar buy and will continue to be for years to come. Internal and external competition will see to that."

Canadian consumers have company in their struggle to cope with rising prices. The Canadian textile industry, faced with world-wide tightness of raw materials and international money crises, is fighting as hard to hold the price line as any budget-minded homemaker.

While costs of basic commodities used in the weaving and knitting of all kinds of fabrics for clothing and household use have risen, there is no truth in the rumors of wildly increasing prices for Fall fabrics and clothing. Some items will definitely cost more but the big push by the industry is to keep the lid on as tightly as possible.

For instance, while the world price of raw wool has risen as much as 100 per cent, men's suits are not going to double. Increases will be on the order of 10 to 15 per cent, not the exorbitant 75 per cent forecast by the scaremongers.

Cotton too is in short supply all over the world and the shortages have created an unprecedented demand for man-made fibres of all kinds, also driving up their prices, but nowhere near as much as for the natural fibres.

Fall dresses made from all-wool or all-cotton fabrics are expected to cost more, but when these fibres are blended with man-made, the increases can be held down to the area of about 10 per cent. Other types of man-made fibre fabrics and apparel will be able to hold the present price range.

Hosiery knitters, for instance, are paying more for yarns this year but general increases in the prices for pantyhose are not being made. Some knitters say they are forced to raise their prices but others are absorbing old sales prices, for Fall.

For the Canadian textile industry, the supply and price problems are not new. This year's shortages, however, developed concurrently with a rising tide of consumer spending and were further complicated by international currency revaluations.

While working hard to supply its regular customers, the industry has managed to keep Canadian prices lower than those of other countries. As a result of this achievement, many importers of fibres and fabrics are now trying to buy from Canadian sources.

Causes of the current textile price situation are many and complex and largely outside the control of the Canadian industry. The situation though is said to be temporary. Some predict it will only take a few months for the world's textile mills to catch up with the current demand.

Miss Levason will be glad to answer questions pertaining to textiles. Write her at Canadian Textiles Institute, 1002 Commerce House, 1080 Beaver Hill, Montreal 128, Que.

Parsons family reunion

BURY — The 7th annual reunion of the Parsons' family was held on Saturday, July 28 in the Armory and Memorial Park with an attendance of approximately 150 or more, not as many as on former occasions, due to other events coming on the same day, others whose holidays were over, and those whose holidays had not yet begun.

Guests began to arrive about 1 p.m. and were met and greeted by Miss Dorothy Shattuck and Mr. Alex Lavalliere who gave them their name tags in the color of the line to which they belonged. From there they registered with Mr. Harvey Parsons.

A drawing was being held on two articles, a lovely afghan made and donated by Mrs. Henry (Beatty) Galligan of Norwood, Mass., and a nice cushion made and given by Mrs. Lyle (Fay) Rand.

The makings of an autograph quilt were in charge of Mrs. Gordon (Lena) Dougherty and Mrs. Bessie (Dawson) Olson.

Donald Parsons of Cookshire was in charge of the sports program with the younger ones taking part in games, races etc in the park while the older members enjoyed visiting with other relatives who are seldom seen except on these occasions.

Later in the afternoon a picnic lunch was held in the Armory, the different family groups who had brought their lunch gathered at the tables set-up for their convenience. Mrs. Harvey Parsons attended to the making and serving of coffee assisted by several others. After the tables were cleared a game of bingo followed, in which the prizes were jars of delicious home made jelly made and donated by Mrs. Harvey Parsons.

The winner of the drawing for the cushion was Mrs. Charlotte Fern of Flagstaff, Arizona; the afghan went to Mrs. Merle Barnard (June Olson) of Ontario.

Prizes for those who had come the farthest distance were given to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Parsons and Mr. and Mrs. George Parsons of Jamestown, N.Y. Mr. Ernie Hodge of Sherbrooke took the prize for the oldest gentleman and Mrs. George (Nellie) Parsons for the oldest lady, while the youngest member present who received a prize was three-months-old Dannie Parsons, son of Richard and Kay Parsons.

In the evening dancing was enjoyed to the old favorite music of Glenn Coates and his sister, Mrs. Nugent and her two sons.

Most of those present were descendants of Stephen Parsons, who came from England in 1836 with his parents, two brothers, James and George and sister Caroline. Stephen had been married in England to Prudence Maidmont and had one child, Louisa when they came to Canada. Stephen settled on a farm in the Township of Newport on the town line between Newport and Bury. His brothers and sister settled in other places farther away.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Parsons and Mr. and Mrs. George Parsons of Jamestown, N.Y., descendants of the first George, were present for the first time and enjoyed meeting so many of their distant cousins.

Miss Mabel Mills (a descendant of Caroline) who is now living in Bulwer with her mother aged 97, was also present. Others of that line were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Low and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Spaulding. Miss Dorothy Shattuck and her cousin Mr. James Parsons and two sons of Montclair, N.J. represented the James line, while the rest were of the Stephen line.

The next reunion will be held on the last Saturday in July, 1974.

Knitted afghan and pillow - H. Buzzell, Magog; Felt Overnight Bag - Mrs. P.E. Corbett, Magog; Ladies Cardigan - C. Pelequin, Brockville, Ont.

The doors closed at 6 p.m. Then the clean-up gang took over, leaving the Hall and grounds in good order. All were weary, but happy that $1483.00 had been collected.

Many thanks from the W.I. members to all outsiders who assisted in any way. Special thanks to Mr. J. Ewens for his truck and helper Mr. E. Lachapelle.

Due to lack of help, ice cream, soft drinks and children's fish pond had to be dropped this year. "Sorry, Kids!"

By Ann Landers

Married man thinks he hits brother in sleep

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letters from the wives of snorers. I should be so lucky. My husband is a hitter.

Kevin and I have been married 16 years and he insists on one bed. He has always been a restless sleeper but in the last few years he has gotten worse. From time to time I have suggested twin beds. His answer is always the same. "Over my dead body." Once I answered, "Don't tempt me." He gave me a dirty look and I haven't mentioned twin beds since.

In the last few months Kevin has given me two black eyes and a nosebleed. When I wake him up it's news to him. He doesn't know a thing.

This is his explanation: When he was a kid in South Boston he used to sleep with his brother Mike. They fought all the time. (They still do.) When Kevin punches me he says he is dreaming about his childhood and he thinks he is hitting Mike. Does this make any sense to you? — Black and Blue

Dear B. and B.: After 16 years I would hope that your husband doesn't think he is still sleeping with his brother. Dreams often go back to early childhood and it may well be that Kevin is reliving his youth. You are generous to give him the benefit of the doubt. He should be equally generous and buy you twin beds for your birthday or anniversary, whichever comes first.

Dear Ann: What precautions are taken in your office to make sure no letter is accidentally printed in the newspaper?

I wrote to you about a very intimate problem recently and I would be humiliated if that letter should appear in print. I asked that my letter not be published but now I am worried sick that perhaps it might slip through. Please put my mind at ease. — Irene of The Sleepless Nights

Dear S.N.: Every word that appears in this space goes through my typewriter three times. I keep the original letters beside me to make certain I get the facts right. Before I start to put together a week's column I read all the letters one more time to make sure the writer has not asked that his letter not be used in the paper.

No letter is printed by accident. So good night, Irene. Get some sleep.

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed several letters in your column about smokers. This one might be the best one yet.

So many people continue to smoke because they figure the damage has been done. Last week I came across an article while waiting in my doctor's reception room. It was so encouraging I took out a pencil and wrote down the key sentences. Here they are:

A chest surgeon wrote, "Those dirty, black, tar-filled lungs can be restored to a new state of pink purity in from three weeks to three years after the smoker quits — depending on how long he has smoked." In other words, diseased lungs can and do clear up if the smoker stops before a malignancy begins.

This information will give new hope to those who continue to smoke because they think it's too late to quit. Sign me — I Feel Better Already Dear Feel Better: Thank you for what will be the best news of the day for a good many readers. And now, all you hackers, coughers and polluters — there is hope for you, so do something about it.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to this newspaper.

32nd anniversary

MANSONVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Tracy were pleasantly surprised on the occasion of their 32nd wedding anniversary on July 29 (actual date July 30) when exactly 32 guests dropped in with a ready-made picnic lunch.

July 30 was also Mrs. Tracy's birthday and the nicely trimmed anniversary cake presented to them by Miss Nancy Tracy and Mrs. Lillian Barnett had candles in one corner for this reason.

The Tracys received many gifts and money from those present who came from distant points of Bowmanville, Ont., Waterloo, West Brome, Sutton, South Bolton, Dunkin and nearby.

Miss Joyce Tracy, who spent two weeks with her parents, returned home to Sutton after the happy celebration.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB
DUAL SURGERY USUAL
Vasectomy and prostate surgery

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb - In 1963 I had a trans-urethral prostate operation. The young surgeon who operated performed a vasectomy on me at the same time without my knowledge or consent.

I discovered that he had done so when I found that I could no longer ejaculate. His explanation when I questioned him was that he did it to avoid infection. My sex life since this operation has been most unsatisfactory and I am convinced that his action was unethical. Could I have sued him for malpractice?

Dear Reader - Many urology surgeons perform a vasectomy at the time of the prostate operation. This has been done for years - long before vasectomy operations were popularized for birth control. Many surgeons feel that this helps protect the testicles from becoming inflamed, a condition called orchitis which sometimes follows prostate operations.

A vasectomy in no way affects ejaculation. Most of the fluid comes from the prostate and seminal vesicles. More likely, the valves that control the outlet of the bladder have been affected by surgery. This too is common and does not mean that your surgeon didn't do a good job. As a result, men commonly have backward ejaculation into the bladder. The sensations and reactions, however, should not change.

Most often individuals who've had a prostate operation of the type you've had do not have sexual problems afterward, with or without a vasectomy. There are many other reasons for a man to have problems with his sex life. Often it has to do with psychological factors. Your difficulty may well be that you've not understood what your operation did, what type of responses you should expect, and have totally misunderstood what a vasectomy does in relationship to a man's sexual performance. Vasectomies were once performed with the thought that it improved men's potency. On the basis of your letter you have no basis for a malpractice suit. I would suggest that you talk to your doctor and explain your problem. Perhaps he can explain to you more fully what the effects of the operation are. With a better understanding of the problem you might then regain your confidence and find a significant improvement in your sex life.

Dear Dr. Lamb - In answer to your request from anyone who has worn the stretch gloves, I am glad to say I have worn them for several months now and I can't get along without them at night. They have given me more relief than all the medical treatments I ever tried, and that means pills and all kinds of liniments I could get. So I sure can recommend them to anyone with arthritis. I used to be up two or three times at night bathing my hands in hot water and ointments of all kinds but now I just slip on my stretch gloves and sleep all night.

I am 83 years old. Believe me, I know what I am talking about.

Dear Reader - Thanks for your comment. I've had a number of letters from people about satisfactory results using stretch gloves. Apparently these are very useful for individuals who have arthritis in the hands. Readers tell me there are differences in the gloves, some of them get better results with gloves that contain synthetic fibers, some have been referred to as "miracle fibers," than they've gotten with cotton stretch gloves. There are a number of different types of gloves and the best thing I can recommend to those of you who have arthritis of the hands is to try the different types and see which ones help you the most.

made it. As it was, West doubled one no-trump.

North passed hopefully. He thought South had some sort of stoppers in the red suits and that maybe his clubs would produce six tricks.

If West had led the queen of hearts as many players might have, South would have been a genius. Dummy's singleton king would win the first trick and six clubs would follow quickly afterwards.

West did lead a heart but he saw no reason not to start with the ace. He had plenty of reentries for later on and he wanted to hold the first trick.

After that start, East and West had no trouble running off 12 tricks for plus 1100 and a top score.

The bidding has been:

What do you do now?

A - There are all sorts of fancy scientific bids available but the simple call of four spades should do.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid four spades and your partner bids five hearts. What do you do now?

Answer tomorrow

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North's double of one heart was one of those match point duplicate bids. His partner just might have four spades and he wanted to give him a chance to bid them.

South's one no-trump was one of those bids from fright. He didn't want to pass one heart doubled and watch declarer score overtricks and he didn't want to bid a three-card suit. Of course, the least harmful of the various bids at his disposal would have been one spade.

Had he bid that, West would have reached four hearts and

SHERBROOKE — Simpsons-Sears new multi-million dollar department store, which Sherbrooke has watched grow with interest during the past

Gauvreau began in Ottawa

MARC GAUVREAU

SHERBROOKE — Marc Gauvreau began his career with Simpsons-Sears in Ottawa in 1962.

His first appointment was that of department manager in the Quebec city store. From there he went to Hamilton, Ont., as assistant-controller and to Sarnia, Ont. as controller.

He then returned to Quebec City in the same capacity until his appointment as operating superintendent in Trois-Rivières in 1971. He will also act as operating superintendent in the new Sherbrooke store.

year, is now complete and will open to the public for the first time on Wednesday morning, August 15th.

Promptly at 9:30 a.m. store general manager, Jean Fugere, will unlock the doors and the store will be open for business.

The event has long been anticipated by manager Fugere and his well-trained staff. Built and fixtured in the record time of less than 12 months, the huge Simpsons-Sears store is the first unit to open in the new Le Carrefour de L'Estrie shopping centre on the south side of Portland boulevard in Sherbrooke North, near the Trans-Canada highway. The Shopping Centre and the 50 other stores are still under construction and will be opening later.

Simpsons-Sears is connected to the shopping mall by a 32-foot-wide doorless entrance which will permit shoppers to move freely between the department store and the other shops in the mall when they open. Both Simpsons-Sears and the mall shops will be air conditioned and climate-controlled for year-round shopping comfort. Three other entrances lead into Simpsons-Sears from the parking lot which will hold more than 3,000 cars.

Simpsons-Sears new Portland Blvd. store is the largest department store in the Eastern Townships. It has almost three acres of floor space and carries a complete range of Simpsons-Sears department store merchandise — everything from fashions and family clothing to the latest in electronic calculators.

By actual count there are more than 8,000 items on display. In addition, customers may choose from another 100,000 items in the Simpsons-Sears catalogues.

MERCHANDISE VARIED
Entering from any of the entrances, first-time visitors to the new store will be impressed by the tremendous assortments of merchandise in each of the 55 departments. Store manager Fugere sums this up with the phrase: "We're a complete 'one-stop' family shopping centre. We have everything for all ages."

The new store in Sherbrooke is designed to give shoppers in the Eastern Townships the widest possible selection of quality merchandise, according to Mr. Fugere. In most departments, shoppers will have a choice of good, better and best qualities at corresponding prices.

Much of the new store's floor space is occupied by fashions and family clothing. Departments are arranged in logical order so that shoppers can move easily from department to department.

The children's and women's shoe departments, for example, are next to each other because usually when women shop in a department store they have children with them.

Still keeping customer conveniences in mind, all women's sportswear is grouped in one department, foundation garments are next to lingerie, millinery is near the coats and dresses. The children's wear and baby shop are next to each other.

Men's and boys' shoes are sold in the same department, but the young men's clothing is separated from the boys' wear. A separate men's shop carries both made-to-measure and ready-to-wear suits and coats.

WELL LAID-OUT

Cosmetics, jewellery, stationery and candy — items mostly bought by teenagers and women shoppers — are in the centre of the store opposite the fashions. The fashions departments have 26 fitting rooms, all air-conditioned with carpet on the floor and full-length mirrors.

All merchandise in the new store is on open display where shoppers can see and inspect it before making their selection. All prices are clearly marked and everything is backed by Simpsons-Sears guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded. In many departments the merchandise is arranged for easy-selection and there are quick service cashiers nearby to speed shoppers on their way.

When families go shopping for furniture and home furnishings they will find something for every taste in Simpsons-Sears home furnishings departments. Home furnishings occupy more than one-quarter of the new store and here again, everything is arranged for the convenience of the customer.

The feature attraction of the home furnishings departments are the co-ordinated room settings in the centre of the department. These model room settings let customers see how new furniture will look in their home when drapes, rugs, wall coverings and accessories have been selected to harmonize with the furniture.

The color schemes in the rooms were selected from Simpsons-Sears co-ordinated colors which are available in a wide assortment of merchandise including floor coverings, drapes and bedspreads, bathroom fixtures and paints. Model bathrooms are also displayed in these co-ordinated colors. Kitchen accessories also come in the same matching colors.

A special decorator shop will provide homeowners with information on the latest color selections and decorating materials.

Although the new store is extremely large, visual and structural dividers have been used to create the impression of a number of individual shopping areas.

Another feature of this new store is the diagonal disposition of the main aisles. This helps to disperse the crowds more rapidly on busy shopping days.

In the decor of the store, Simpsons-Sears designers made extensive use of attractive custom wallpapers, rich wood panelling and harmonizing color schemes. Many of the areas are carpeted which adds to the attractiveness and comfort of the customers.

Shoppers visiting the new Sherbrooke department store are likely to meet many friends and neighbors in sales positions at Simpsons-Sears. Except for about a dozen key personnel, practically all of the employees were hired locally and trained in Simpsons-Sears methods of merchandising.

400 LOCAL IN ALL

The store has a full-time staff of 240 with another 200 part-time. The company says it is very pleased with the high calibre of the people it has hired for this new Sherbrooke store and that many have real management potential.

Simpsons-Sears will make daily deliveries of parcels, furniture and appliances in and around Sherbrooke. Complete service will be available on all appliances, stereo and T.V. sets, outboard motors, power mowers and other equipment sold by them.

Simpsons-Sears present catalogue sales counter on King Street West will be transferred to the new store on Portland Boulevard after August 15. All the services which have been available to customers at the King street location will also be available at the new store.

A Simpsons-Sears automotive service centre will be opening later in the season on the parking lot near the new store.

Shopping hours at Simpsons-Sears are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Night shopping to 9:00 p.m. on Thursdays and Fridays; on Saturdays the store will open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

The new Sherbrooke store is Simpsons-Sears sixth departmental retail store to be built in Quebec, and the 15th store to be opened in Canada. The company expects to open eight more stores in 1974, two of which will be located in Lewis and Montreal.

Fugere local GM

JEAN M. FUGERE

SHERBROOKE — Jean M. Fugere began his career with Simpsons-Sears in Toronto in 1953, during which time his duties required him to work in several provinces across Canada.

After a training period as assistant-buyer in Toronto, he moved to Peterborough in 1954, then in 1956, as division manager, to Ottawa and as manager of the Edmunston store in 1958. From 1959 to 1961 he managed Simpsons-Sears stores in Kapuskasing and Kirkland Lake, and then, back to head office in Toronto for a year. Hamilton was his next stop as a senior merchandise supervisor for six months.

In 1962 he returned to his native province where he served in many senior positions in the Fleur-de-Lis store, then in 1971 he was appointed general manager of the Laurier store, also in Quebec City, until his new appointment here in Sherbrooke as general manager of Simpsons-Sears new store in Le Carrefour de L'Estrie.

Values in natural resources

By SANDRA INGALSBÉ
TORONTO (CP) — Extraordinary values continue in the natural resources industries in Canada and investors should be accumulating stocks in forest products, mines and oils, Wood Gundy Ltd. says.

The investment firm says in its monthly letter the Toronto market's forest products index has reflected excellent second-quarter results. Senior non-ferrous metal producers responded to record commodity prices and Canadian oils moved immediately following the favorable vote by the U.S. Senate on the trans-Alaska pipeline.

"This strength indicates a latent market demand which will surface on any recovery and result in rapid changes in price that could preclude giving the investors a chance to participate."

Sharply higher earnings for forest products companies reinforce the belief that strong demand will lead to further earnings growth during the rest of 1973 and 1974.

However, price-earnings multiples are low by historic standards and make little allowance for the positive industry prospects over the next few years.

Crawford sparks Dodgers over Expos

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Crawford homered and doubled and drove in four runs to lead Los Angeles to an 8-5 baseball victory over Montreal Expos in a National League game Monday night.

The victory enabled the Dodgers to increase their lead in the National League West to 2½ games over Cincinnati Reds while Montreal remained three games behind St. Louis Cardinals in the East, in third place.

Beavers ink Geugeon, send Turcotte to Hull

SHERBROOKE (CC) — Sherbrooke Beavers, of the Quebec Junior Major Hockey League, announced yesterday they have sold the contract of one of last year's players and have bought another player's contract.

Beaver coach Ghislain Delage told The Record that Andre Turcotte, a 19-year-old who had scored six goals and seven assists and 13 points with Sherbrooke last year, has been sent to the Hull Festivals.

Delage pointed out the move was part of Sherbrooke's youth rebuilding program.

"It is better for us to have room for a 16-year-old who can play as well than keep someone in his last year of junior hockey," he said.

Delage also announced that 17-year-old Serge Geugeon had been signed by Sherbrooke. Geugeon, who stands over six feet and weighs 173 pounds, was a defenceman with Hochelaga last year.

Delage also said that the first three days of the Beavers' training camp will be held behind closed doors this year. It marks the first time such a step has been taken.

Training camp starts September 1. The public will have a chance to see the local squad in an inter-team game scheduled September 4.

Grenier again

Sher-Lenn ekes out come-from-behind thriller

VICTORIA, B.C. (CC) — Organizers at the Canadian little league championships in Victoria almost completed a perfect job. Almost...

The organizers were so complete in their undertakings that they arranged for eight cheerleaders to be on hand at yesterday's opening match of the finals — held here until August 18 — to chant support for the Sher-Lenn squad.

In the opening tilt between Sher-Lenn, the Quebec and Eastern Canada champions, and host team, Victoria, the eight cheerleaders rose between each inning to give a resounding cheer for the Quebec contingent. In the classic cheer, they shouted: "Give me a Q...U...E..." It was almost perfect.

The cheer should have been "Give me a G...R...E...N...E..." And that was the organizers' mistake.

For it was Sher-Lenn southpaw hurler Jean Grenier who almost single-handedly determined the outcome of Sher-Lenn's 2-1 come-from-behind victory over a stunned Victoria squad.

It was Grenier, a 12-year-old veteran who played with the Sher-Lenn squad last year, who allowed three bases on balls in the fourth inning as Victoria took a 1-0 lead in the game. It marked the first time Sherbrooke had ever been behind in a game since competition started regionally last month. It also marked the first time in six games that Grenier allowed a run to be scored against him.

But then it was Grenier who ended up pitching a no-hit for Sher-Lenn came from behind in the sixth inning — the last in little league ball — to salvage the win.

It was Grenier with two out in the bottom of the sixth cracking a base hit to right field to score pinch hitter Dennis Mongeau, who had singled. Mongeau scored the tying run.

Then, after Pierre Teriault had singled Grenier to second. It was Grenier coming all the way around from second to score the winning run on Mario Carriere's base hit to right field. Grenier was the hero yesterday.

"I'm happy," Grenier said after the game. "I had some trouble but we have a good team and I knew we could pull through."

Sher-Lenn manager Andre Boisvert had more to say. "He pitched a great game but was in trouble once," he said. "We knew we could win."

Grenier was in trouble only in the fourth inning. Other than that he had a perfect game retiring the first nine batters and the last six batters in a row. Striking out eight opponents, it was in the fourth inning he couldn't find the strike zone. Lead off batter Alston Evanhas drew a walk — Grenier's first of the game — before Wes Richardson attempted to sacrifice him to second. Richardson's sacrifice attempt was straight back to the first baseman Jacques Morin who wheeled and threw to second but not in time to nail Evanhas. Pitcher George Christianson struck out but both runners on base advanced on a passed ball.

Grenier loaded the bases when he issued a free ticket to Mike Williams but Ken Kerney grounded to shortstop Jean Beaudoin who nailed Evanhas at the plate.

Grenier, who had allowed only four bases on balls in five games, walked Kit McCoy to bring in Richardson and Victoria's only run. He retired the side when he got first baseman Chris Lake to ground to Morin.

Victoria's one run lead looked as if it would stand up as Sher-Lenn sluggers couldn't connect with Christianson's sweeping curve ball. Sher-Lenn could only manage one hit off him as they went into the final inning trailing 1-0. Claude Landry had stroked a single in the fifth.

However, everything fell apart for Victoria in the sixth. Manager Dennis Gosselin looked foolish when he sent Dennis Mongeau in to pinch hit for Mario Turcotte in the leadoff position of the inning. Turcotte was batting .347 while Mongeau, a meager .142.

Mongeau surprised everyone when he beat out an infield grounder to shortstop Moreau, however, looked bad when he tried a sacrifice bunt but popped up to the first baseman.

Luck stepped in and Mongeau went to second on a passed ball. He went to third when Morin bounced out to second.

It was Grenier's hit to right which brought the tying run around. Grenier came in to score on successive singles, by Teriault and Carriere.

The Sher-Lenn squad will continue their quest for the Canadian championship when they meet the British Columbia champions from Wallely tonight at 6 p.m. The game will be broadcast on CKTS radio starting about 9 p.m.

Jacques Morin and Yves Belanger, two Sher-Lenn players, lost their baggage in transit.

The Victoria players were wearing charcoal under their eyes to protect their eyes from the bright sun in beautiful Victoria.

The last time the Sher-Lenn squad went west they won the Canadian championship.

The other teams in the championship are Brockville, from Ontario, Calgary from the Prairies and Wallely from British Columbia. Victoria received a bye into the tournament as host team.

A total of 29 local fans have made the trip to the west coast.

Until yesterday Grenier had only allowed nine hits in five games.

Local MP Irene Pelletier telephoned the Sher-Lenn team before the game yesterday wishing the players good luck. Pelletier is well-known in little league circles — he once managed the Red Sox.

IN THE CLEARING STANDS THE BOXER — Former Sherbrooke fly-weight hopeful Jackie Metcalfe, right, has a friendly hug for long-time friend Albert Kouri. Metcalfe will be here for a few days before returning overseas.

Boxer Metcalfe back for visit

LENNOXVILLE (GH) — Jackie Metcalfe, the once locally renowned fly-weight amateur boxer, is back for a visit in Sherbrooke after 40 years in the British Isles.

1932 was Jackie's first major year in the sport and the year of his first win. He brought home the bronze medal in the Quebec Provincial Championship. In 1933, the year he left, he took the silver medal in the same competitions.

While overseas, Jackie won a gold medal in Wales, his mother country. He fought later in the armed forces.

"I don't think I ever lost a fight until I got to France," he remarked on his return. "But I learned it all here."

When Jackie left in 1933, he was 21 years old. He said he started sparring when he was 15 or 16. A local promoter, Albert Kouri, spotted him, toughened him up and sent him to Montreal to compete "with the wolves."

He was the only Townships' representative.

Jackie is staying with Albert Kouri while here during a two-week stay which ends Wednesday. He then leaves for Montreal and back overseas.

Albert Kouri leads a very active life in the field of sports. He was a scout and a promoter for the NHL New York Rangers for five years and signed a lot of local talent, he said.

Kouri with Ivan Dugre and Mr. Roy — both since deceased — was a director of the Sherbrooke baseball team when it was in the Provincial League.

"I've always been a promoter of boxing in the area," said Kouri. "After Jackie left it became a big thing, but then it died down again."

Mr. Kouri is responsible for bringing many heavy-weight contenders to Sherbrooke. Some were: J. Galento, J. Dempsey, Jack Sharky and Jack Renault. He also coached the airforce hockey team here.

Albert Kouri's brother Harry is actively involved with the Sher-Lenn little league team. "I didn't have time for that stuff so I pushed him into it," said Albert.

About his former fly-weight star, Mr. Kouri said, "It's damned nice of him to come back to his old stomping grounds."

On a parting note Jackie said he always considered Sherbrooke, where he spent his youth his home.

Jackie intends to be at the Olympic games in Montreal. "I'll be back in 1976," were his parting words.

Baylor had two doubles and a single in addition to his homer.

TIGERS STAY AHEAD

Detroit ran its post-All Star Game record to 17-4 by beating Minnesota to maintain its 1½ game lead over the Orioles.

Gates Brown, Aurelio Rodriguez and Mickey Stanley contributed three hits apiece as Detroit roared from behind to take Minnesota 9-3. The Twins held a 2-1 lead until the seventh and then Bill Freehan's two-out two-run single gave the Tigers the lead.

While the rest of the American League puzzles over the tantalizingly tight East Division race, Baltimore manager Earl Weaver has it all doped out.

"We've got the best defensive club in the division and the best pitching," said Weaver after the Orioles had thumped Texas Rangers 7-4 Monday night. "Now we're starting to hit and the club with the hot bat will take it."

That bit of information should delight Detroit skipper Billy Martin, whose Tigers mauled Minnesota Twins for 16 hits and a 9-3 romp. If hot bats decide this race, then wrap it up for the Tigers, who've won four straight games and scored 26 runs over that stretch.

Elsewhere in the American League Monday night, Oakland Athletics trimmed Boston Red Sox 3-1. New York Yankees shut out California Angels 6-0 and Chicago White Sox downed Milwaukee Brewers 5-2.

The Orioles got homers from Merv Rettenmund and Don Baylor.

"I hope the other teams keep thinking we can't hit the ball," said Baylor. "I guarantee you we're hitting it now."

Clark's, Begin win

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — The second games in the semi-final playoffs of the Lennoxville Ladies Softball League were held here last night with Begin Sports and Clark's Pharmacy evening out their respective series to one apiece.

Ginette Jacques pitched a nine-hitter in the seven inning contest as Begin upset Yves Fournier Sports 6-4. Christiane Lamothe was charged with the loss.

Offensively, the winners chalked up 10 hits and seven walks in their victory, while four batters were struck out. Fournier had no walks to their credit, while strike-outs were a low two.

Begin's Nicole Beaudoin batted three for three for a perfect game.

The Clark's-Legion No. 10 game saw 52 runs scored.

Clark's winning 33-19.

Offensively for Clark's, Nancy Hutchinson was six for six on the evening, while Helen Castonguay and Joan Lamey went five for six and five for seven respectively. Judy Smith and Castonguay hit homers for the winners. Clark's got 39 hits.

The Legion contingent picked up 25 hits, with Pam Nutbrown helping out at bat, going five for five. Debby McLeod was one off the pace, hitting four for five while Sue Garand went three for four with a home-run.

Wenda Clark pitched the win for Clark's, striking out 14. Opposing pitchers Maureen Hallam and Vicki Crook in relief were unable to maintain last week's pace. Hallam took the loss but the duo managed to strike-out eight batters.

The final game in the Begin-Fournier series will be played Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the Optimist Park. Because of a protest lodged in last Wednesday's Legion-Clark's match, their last game is postponed until early next week.
