Timely Tips On

TELEVISION

By MARY HILTON

"What Happened to the Ghost Story?" This is the puzzler that will concern "Camera Three," Sunday, June 28 (11:30-11:55 a.m.), on channel 3.

Some of the reasons for the decline of this once-popular form of story-telling will be suggested and a famous example of this literary genre (to be announced) will be dramatized.

Singer Frankie Avalon, idol of the teen-agers, headlines an array of top talent on "The Ed Sullivan Show" Sunday, June 28 8:00-9:00 p.m. on Channels 3 and 6.

Others will be Duke Ellington; ventriloquist Ricky Layne and his dummy Velvel; comedienne Jean Carroll; Lloyd Price and his orchestra, doing Price's top hit recording, "Personality"; plate-spinner Erik Brenni; singer Tina Robin; the comedy act of Little, Dane and Mason; the Modern Jazz Dancers (from Italy), and the exotic La Chunga, gypsy dance group discovered by Sullivan earlier this year in Portugal.

"Corporal Hardy," starring Lew Ayres, will be the first of the Summer repeat series on "Akco Theatre" Monday, June 29 on channel 5 9:30 p.m.

Ayres portrays a Yankee soldier who sees his captain shot down in battle. He vows to bury him properly and risks his own life to go behind the Rebel lines. In the supporting cast are Tyler MacDuff, Walter Coy, James Anderson and Will Lundmark. Sterling Silliphant wrote the teleplay, which James Lewis directed.

Bob Cummings, Hazel Court, Martin Balsam, Rip

Torn and Larry Gates co-star in Rod Sterling's original drama, "Bomber's Moon," which will be rebroadcast Thursday, July 2 (9:30-11:00 p.m.) on channel 3's "Playhouse 90."

In "Bomber's Moon" Cummings portrays Col. Bob Colver, the icy-nerved commander of an American bomber group based in England during World War II. His ruthlessness in his assignment to lead men into the deadly flak over Germany — vents itself particularly on a young lieutenant (Rip Torn) who has failed to complete a number of missions.

Richard Burton, Roddy McDowall, Tom Poston and Lee Remick will co-star with Maurice Evans in Shakespeare's "The Tempest" on NBC-TV Network's "Hallmark Hall of Fame" in the Spring of 1960.

The 90-minute color production is currently in rehearsal and will be placed on video color tape Sunday, July 12 in NBC's color studios in Brooklyn, N. Y. The drama is one of six 90-minute color productions scheduled for the "Hallmark" series during the 1959-60 season.

Genial Johnny Holmes back on radio bringing nostalgia along with him

Johnny Holmes, whose dance band was the idol of young Montrealers during the '40s and the spawning ground for such top musicians as Oscar Peterson and Maynard Ferguson, is back in business! As of July 1, he'll lead a small dance band on the CBC Trans-Canada network every Wednesday from 3:30 to 4:00 p.m.

Johnny left the entertainment world eight years ago because of business interests but his gnawing desire for music never diminished. On his radio show this summer he'll have vocalist Sheila Graham and several musicians who were with him in the old days. His program is "The Johnny Holmes Show"; but his old fans will miss the trumpet which used to be his trademark. He is now concentrating on the piano.

Johnny Holmes is the man whose tireless efforts helped mold the potential of the great Oscar Peterson in the '40s. As a young pianist with natural talent but little experience with a band, Oscar Peterson received the expert coaching of Johnny Holmes for a couple of hours every day. Peterson was brought into the band by tenor saxophonist Art Morrow, stayed for about six years and left in 1947. Although it meant a big loss to the band, Johnny encouraged Oscar to reach the top. Today he can take vicarious pleasure in the great pianist's achievements.

It was in 1940 that Johnny Holmes started a group called "The Esquires". The following year he formed what was to become a dance band institution in Montreal. Besides Oscar Peterson, Maynard Ferguson and Art Morrow (CBC Radio's "Meet Mr. Morrow"), the band also had Ted Elfstrom (CBC Radio's "Sweet 'n' Sour") in its ranks.

Lorraine McAllister (CBC-TV's "Meet Lorraine") sang with this great Montreal band at one time. Their dance dates every Saturday night and other engagements in Montreal were augmented by trips to Ontario to play at the University of Toronto, Queen's University in Kingston and Ottawa's Glebe Collegiate.

Johnny, who gets a "spring fever for music" every year, welcomes the opportunity to do a radio show. It came about when he visited the CBC studios in Montreal to hear Art Morrow's band on the program "Meet Mr. Morrow". CBM Program Director Ken Withers suggested nostalgically that Johnny should get back into business, and the need for a summer replacement for "Meet Mr. Morrow" paved the way. Most of the music for the

Canadian Jazz Show in June. They have been writing the arrangements since February. Oscar Peterson will be a guest on the show sometime in July and Johnny is thinking of asking Maynard Ferguson to drop in when he is in Montreal.

"The most important thing to me is to have a relaxed sound," Johnny emphasizes. He wants a good beat, a mellow band that is pleasant to the ear. He shuns rock 'n' roll.

Johnny Holmes took music lessons from a private teacher and taught himself to play the cornet, a gift from his father when Johnny was 10. Learning music and an instrument took three or four hours a day but it wasn't drudgery. "I loved every minute of it," says Johnny. Later he played in a church orchestra and in military bands and, at 14, he was offered a chair with the Montreal Symphony Orchestra. He would have accepted the honor but a full schedule of activities did not permit it.

Born in Montreal, Johnny Holmes is married and has two children: Pamela, nine, and David six. His business interests are in the textile industry and, in his spare time, he enjoys golf and curling.

CBS-TV's writing grants undergoing final considerations

The selection committee which is to choose the winners of the CBS Television Network's five Television Writing Grants-in-Aid of $5,000 each has begun final selection of the candidates, with the winners to be announced next month. Because of the volume of applications, the starting date of the Grants-in-Aid year has been scheduled for July 15th, moved back from July 1st in order to give the committee ample time for careful consideration of the candidates.

The members of the selection committee are Robert Alan Aurthur, noted dramatist; Erik Barnouw, National Chairman of The Writers Guild of America and Associate Professor of Dramatic Arts at Columbia University; and Richard I. Lewine, Director of Special Programs for the CBS Television Network.

The Grants-in-Aid have been established by the CBS Television Network "to enable writers, relieved from pressing financial demands, to explore and develop their writing potentials." These were the words used by Louis G. Cowan, President of the CBS Television Network, when he first announced the Grants at the annual meeting of the American Association of School Administrators in Atlantic City in February.

The five Grantees will each be assigned to a CBS Television Network producer for the Grant year starting July 15th. The assigned producer will serve as a preceptor with whom the Grantee can be in close touch regarding his writing project and problems. The Grantee is free to live and write anywhere, except that he may be asked to attend lectures in either New York or Hollywood occasionally.

The five winners of this year's CBS Television Network Writing Grants-in-Aid will, of course, be notified privately prior to the public announcement.

Pre-TV show 'spark plugs' warm up studio audiences

The laughter, applause and gayety — as heard and occasionally seen on such NBC-TV Network programs as "Kraft Music Hall Presents the Dave King Show," "The Steve Allen Show" and "Treasure Hunt" — are real and not contrived or mechanical. What makes these live audiences so effervescent?

A one-time hero policeman in the Bronx and a former Fuller Brush man from Brooklyn are the laugh-response sparkplugs. Barney Martin and Artie Roberts, respectively, comprise TV's top audience warm-up team.

In a sense, Martin and Roberts have also opened up a whole new comedy field. Until they came along to regale their first TV audience with in-the-mood merriment in the Fall of 1957, warm-up comedy was not only non-existent but was deemed unnecessary.

For the most part, audiences were left to their own devices. They would come off the street and sit quietly in a darkened studio until five or ten minutes before air time, when an associate producer would greet them.

It was noted that audiences often did not get into the spirit of a show until well into the production and also that a truly merry studio audience adds to viewers' enjoyment at home.

Martin and Roberts, with Martin as straight man, have an intricate and variable act with costumes and props that often gets underway as much as 20 minutes to one hour before showtime. When the comedy duo retires to the wings, audiences are invariably primed for jollymaking and hilarity.

The axiom about always a bridesmaid and never a bride does not apply to this twosome. Their humor is so earthy and genuine that they have appeared "on-camera" with comedy credits on "Kraft Music Hall Presents the Dave King Show," "The Steve Allen Show" and "Laugh Line".

Martin and Roberts, founders of New York's "Humor Trading Post" and "Comedy Workshop" (to provide comedians and gagwriters with an opportunity to exchange old and used gags, routines and ideas) beat the gag-inflation by switching material with other funsters.

"Any old routine is new to us," says Martin. "We take it, simonize it with our treatment, and it gets laughs for us."

"If there are only seven basic jokes, then there is nothing new," adds Roberts. "All routines are old — until they get a new twist."

They conclude: "If what we know makes people laugh and smile, then we will know them better." On this supposition, they have initiated an "ILY" or International Laugh Year in 1960 to promote better East-West relations through the international exchange of humor.

Barney Martin, 34, was an honor cop with a flair for comedy for 11 years in the Bronx and upper Manhattan. He was twice involved in gunfights and was as many times decorated. Daily exposure to danger did not affect his zest for humor, however. Barney wrote comedy for and performed in most of the city's police benefits, and at PAL affairs.

In 1954, he appeared as a contestant on Jan Murray's "Dollar a Second" program, and so impressed Murray that Barney accepted an offer to hang up his badge and become an associate producer and comedy writer for the show.

Artie Roberts, born in Brooklyn 39 years ago "near the zoo", served as a lieutenant in the Merchant Marine before embarking on the borscht circuit with a solo club and hotel comedy act. To make ends meet, he also labored as a brush salesman — working a comedy line into his sales technique with effective results. He also apprenticed with Olsen and Johnson.

The pair was brought together by Jan Murray, who also introduced them as a warm-up team on Jan's "Treasure Hunt" show. They television and radio rights for the Liberty Bowl Game, a new post-season football attraction in Philadelphia, has been signed by the Liberty Bowl Association and the National Broadcasting Company. The contract will begin with the first Liberty Bowl Game on Saturday, Dec. 19.

The Liberty Bowl, sanctioned by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, will be the first major college football game ever to be played in the East. The number one team in the East will be invited from another section of the country. The game will be played in Philadelphia's huge Municipal Stadium, scene of the annual Army-Navy classic.

Bob Hope will return to the NBC-TV Network next season in another series of six hour-long telecasts to be sponsored by the Buick Division of General Motors Corporation. It was announced today by Don Durgin, Vice-President, NBC Television Network Sales.

Hope, who will observe his 10th anniversary in television next season, consistently attracts record audiences and has earned the distinction of being the most traveled entertainer. He has covered nearly 4,000,000 miles since May, 1941, when he began entertaining U. S. servicemen. Since then his travels have taken him from Alaska to the South Pacific, from Moscow to Morocco, and last December he made his fifth consecutive tour overseas.

have since served as regular "warmer-uppers" on some 360 "Treasure Hunt" performances.

In addition to shows previously mentioned, Martin and Roberts have worked on "Steve Allen Presents Eydie Gorme and Steve Lawrence", "Music Bingo" and "Pantomime Quiz". They do an average nine shows a week. Both comedians are bachelors.
