Join us, PM asks Levesque

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has asked Quebec Premier Rene Levesque to join other premiers and "the vast majority of Canadians" in support of the federal government's latest proposals for constitutional reform.

In a letter released Wednesday—parallel letters were sent to the other nine premiers—Trudeau urges the independence-minded

Quebec premier to "make an honest assessment" of proposals released Monday that would give the country a new constitution by the end of 1981. Levesque has already dismissed the suggestions as "profoundly insignificant."

Minister Ron Basford to Alberta and British Columbia.

The Trudeau letters ask the premiers to agree to meet within two weeks with federal ministers being dispatched from Ottawa to discuss the proposed changes. Marc Lalonde, minister of federal-provincial relations, has been assigned to meet Levesque. Deputy Prime Minister Allan MacEachen to the four Atlantic premiers; Northern Affairs Minister Hugh Faulkner to Ontario; Transport Minister Otto Lang to Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and Justice

Trudeau says in his letter to Levesque that the current debate on the country's political future "shows that the vast majority of Canadians have understood the need for renewal and have decided to achieve it."

Trudeau says he is not asking the Quebec government to "participate in a renewal of some sort of status quo."

Instead, the prime minister says he wants the Parti Quebecois government to "join in the revitalization, renewal and revival of the Canadian adventure."

CLAUDE RYAN... "an unacceptable tendency towards unilateralism."

RYAN RAPS 'UNILATERAL' REVAMP

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Quebec Liberal leader Claude Ryan said Wednesday that constitutional changes proposed by the federal government show "an unacceptable tendency towards unilateralism."

In a statement released on a visit here, Ryan denounced the white paper on constitutional reform, tabled in the Commons Monday, for suggesting unilateral changes to the Senate and the Supreme Court and for proposing that a charter of human rights be written into a renewed constitution.

The constitutional reform package, contained in a 28-page pamphlet entitled A Time for Action, calls for a Chamber of the Federation to replace the Senate and proposes giving the provinces more power in Supreme Court appointments.

The white paper says the federal government will make these changes by the end of July, 1979, without prior consultation with the provinces. Further changes involving provincial approval will be made by the end of 1981.

Ryan said Ottawa has the legal right to act in this way, but this "contradicts the spirit in which constitutional reform should be carried out."

He said the reform package contains valuable elements—including a promise to eliminate areas where provincial and federal jurisdiction overlap—but these could be jeopardized if Ottawa's plan does not get prior approval from the provinces.

Ryan also criticized the Parti Quebecois government for the "negative unilateralism" it shows towards all constitutional proposals which don't correspond to its plan to "break the federal bond."

He said Premier Rene Levesque acted in a contemptuous and irresponsible manner when he dismissed the reform package as "insignificant" after it was leaked last week to a Montreal newspaper.

Meanwhile in Quebec City, Liberal House leader Jean-Noel Lavoie refused to give his approval to a motion in the national assembly by Union Nationale leader Rodrigue Biron criticizing the constitutional reforms.

WALKOUT HALTS MONTREAL STAR

MONTREAL (JD) — A walkout by 220 production workers has halted publication of the Montreal Star for the second day and neither side is hopeful of an early settlement.

W.A. Goodson, publisher of the province's largest English-language daily, said workers had returned to work yesterday following a union meeting, but this morning a spokesman for the paper said the production staff had walked off the job again early today.

The workers, members of the International Typographical Union (ITU) and the International Printing and Graphic Communications Union, have staged several slowdowns to protest the lack of progress in negotiations.

ITU officials say job security is a key issue.

TRIB SHUTDOWN TO CONTINUE

SHERBROOKE (AF) — La Tribune employees will hold a general assembly tomorrow morning to decide further action in the contract dispute which forced the paper to suspend publication Tuesday.

The purpose of the meeting at Christ-Roi Church on Aberdeen Street is to set up strike committees, and will be the first time the employees meet since being asked by management to leave the cafeteria, where they were holding a study session Tuesday.

Approximately 20 journalists, 25 advertising staff, 60 production people, 15 administration personnel and 10 employees from circulation are affected by the dispute.

NHL, WHA merger studied

MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse says secret meetings have been going on between officials of the National Hockey League and World Hockey Association with a view to a merger of the two leagues.

The newspaper says the WHA officials want the sessions kept so secret that they have asked a downtown hotel to make sure that all calls to their rooms are screened carefully.

La Presse says the NHL invited Howard Baldwin, president of the WHA, to come to Montreal and that representatives of four WHA clubs—New England Whalers, Quebec Nordiques, Winnipeg Jets and Edmonton Oilers were present.

The newspaper says about 50 people are aware that the negotiations are going on, although NHL president John Ziegler has denied such activity is taking place. Until now, the negotiations have been devoted to United States anti-trust laws.

"The WHA showed before a U.S. court that the NHL could not prevent Bobby Hull from jumping (to Winnipeg Jets) without violating the anti-trust regulations," an unnamed source told La Presse. "The legal problems of a merger are very complex."

It has been rumored that Bill Wirtz, elected as the NHL's chairman of the board Wednesday, has been carrying on the discussions with the WHA people.

La Presse said it should be known by Friday whether a merger is possible and if the WHA is prepared to take the necessary legal steps to avoid anti-trust violations.

RCMP just as bad, says terrorist

OTTAWA (CP) — A former Quebec terrorist Wednesday accused the RCMP of being "organized terrorism itself" and of continuing to harass him and his wife for crimes he committed more than 15 years ago.

"You have to draw the line," Jean Castonguay, 36, said just before leaving the witness stand after a day of testimony before the McDonald royal commission into RCMP wrongdoing.

"My wife, myself and my two cats have been harassed since 1978... I just want to live a normal life, lovingly, peacefully."

Castonguay was released from jail in 1968 after serving four years for possession of dynamite and attempted armed robbery. But he said he had no involvement with terrorism since then.

He was appearing before the commission to tell about an incident in October, 1971, when he was approached by the Mounties and asked to become an informer.

Castonguay told the commission that he was imprisoned for 12 days during the October Crisis in Quebec in 1970 and his wife had been jailed for eight days.

AGAINST FRENCH He said the RCMP was created as the North West Mounted Police in 1873 "to murder francophones in Western Canada."

"I am accusing the RCMP for being organized terrorism itself," he said.

The commission chairman, Alberta Supreme Court Justice David McDonald, told Castonguay that if he had any evidence to back up such charges, he should present it to commission lawyer Ross Goodwin.

Castonguay earlier answered questions about his past from RCMP lawyer Pierre Lamontagne, who had called him "a liar" and insisted that the commission hear details of his past.

The demand split the commission. Mr. Justice

McDonald and commissioner Donald Rickerd of Toronto allowed the questions but commissioner Guy Gilbert of Montreal and commission counsel Ross Goodwin questioned their relevance.

The argument over Lamontagne's questions came because Castonguay's testimony was not contradictory to that of two RCMP officers who appeared before the commission last month.

He reiterated their testimony that they had stopped him Oct. 20, 1971, as he returned from work, took him for a coffee, and tried to recruit him as an informer.

He told them he wasn't interested but agreed to meet them a few days later. He did so, telling them again that he wasn't interested—that he had lost interest in 1968.

He said that he did not feel free to leave the hotel room, where he was alone with two Mounties. This is an important issue for the inquiry, because questions of abduction arise. The Mounties have insisted that Castonguay was free to leave.

Lamontagne said that he must attack Castonguay's credibility and establish that he was "a liar, he's lying in his teeth," by making his background clear.

'BLACK SPIDERS' TERRORIZED TOWN

QUEBEC (CP) — A lawyer for the Quebec police commission inquiry into organized crime said Wednesday he will show how a motorcycle gang established a "reign of terror" over residents of a nearby village.

In a statement before the opening session of the inquiry, which will hold two weeks of hearings, Jean-Francois Dionne promised to provide proof of how the Black Spiders terrorized the 1,000 citizens of St. Michel, 40 kilometres east of here.

Dionne said gang members, who hung around a clubhouse located on the village's main street, took part in rapes, indecent assaults, drug trafficking and intimidation of villagers.

But few people complained to police, Dionne said, either because they feared reprisals, were ignorant of the law or, in some cases, because of family ties between some gang members and residents.

Dionne also maintained that lack of a local police force—the town is protected by a detachment of Quebec Provincial Police—was partly to blame for the failure to report the gang's activities to authorities.

Dionne expressed hope that the hearings into the operations of the Black Spiders would reveal methods needed to fight other gangs who feel they were "born to raise hell."

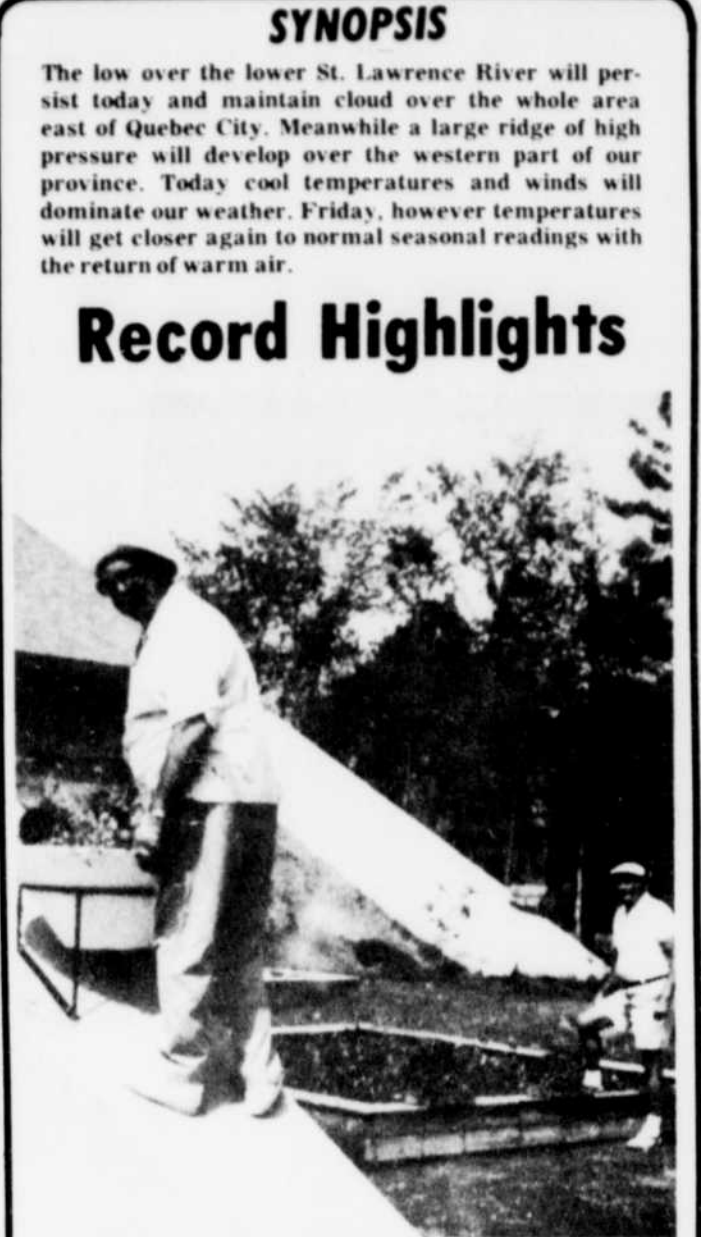

Only last March, following a violent death in the area, did the residents of the town finally dare to ransack the gang's headquarters on the main street.

Five gang members have been charged with second degree murder in connection with the death and are being held at Orsainville prison north of here.

Tony Trudel, a Quebec Provincial Police officer and first witness at the hearings, explained how the dozen gang members established their headquarters, six or seven years ago, in the two-storey home which became their clubhouse.

Trudel testified that the Black Spiders had chapters in other Quebec communities of Terrebonne, Alma, Matane, Montagny and Causapsal.

Some of these chapters have since folded. Two club leaders have died violently.

Here comes Canada Day...

By PATTRCY of The Record

With added emphasis on Canadian unity, this year's Canada Week celebrations plan to be even more spectacular than last year's. And once again, the Canadian consumer will be subject to the promotional goodies, giveaways and gimmicks that go hand in hand with a national celebration.

This year's unity slogan - "Canada it's you and me" - "Le Canada c'est toi et moi" will be seen all over the country. Canadians can light their cigarettes with it, sit their drinks on it, write with it and put their books in it, throw it and wear it. If advertisers have their way, Canadians will be flicking their "Canada it's you and me" bics for a long time.

Canada Day will be celebrated in various ways across the province. One of the biggest events will be a bicycle tour leaving from Montreal, which will pass through 60 municipalities. Representatives from all parts of the country will be there and the national team for the Commonwealth Games in Edmonton will be picked.

While the biggest celebration will be in Ottawa, numerous small festivities, some sponsored by Festival Canada, will happen across the country. Montreal will be the scene of two 'grandes spectacles' at Place des Nations as well as a parade through the streets.

What is perhaps the second-largest celebration in Canada will take place in Bury on July 1. A parade will be followed by athletic events, a flea market and concerts and folklore dancers provided by Festival Canada. Last year over 8,000 people joined the town in celebrating Canada.

Thetford Mines is planning a picnic for the elderly, athletic events for children, a Bavarian night and a bonfire for Canada Day.

For its own festivities, Waterloo will have a marionette theatre and an exhibition featuring local artisans.

A car parade through the streets will round off the day.

Many of the Canada Day celebrations are subsidized by Festival Canada, either through grants or subsidized dancers.

Quebec housing sales climb 30 per cent

TORONTO (CP) — Housing sales in Quebec rose 30 per cent to 5,586 units in the first three months of this year compared with the same quarter a year ago, the Canadian Real Estate Association reports.

The increase was the highest of any province in Canada.

As well, the number of houses listed in Quebec rose to 15,443, a six per cent increase from the first 1977 quarter.

Officials said the increase is due to the fact that more people are seeking the wide exposure they get in multiple listing service rather than trying to sell privately, a tradition in Quebec.

"It certainly is not from any renewed confidence in the government," an official said.

For the first quarter, there were 36,993 sales through multiple listing service in Canada for a value of $2 billion compared with 36,312 sales last year worth $1.9 billion.

Blair Jackson, association executive vice president, said the veterans "in the business say we have returned to normal."

But he said he did not see "anything on the horizon that would encourage me to suggest that there is going to be any change for the next few years."

In Alberta, unit sales declined for the first quarter from a year ago, with 5,001 sales compared with 5,047 sales a year ago.

Ontario sales also slipped slightly, going to 16,478 from 16,565.

Unit sales also declined in British Columbia but, unlike Alberta, the number of properties listed for sale increased. Unit sales also dropped in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and the Maritimes.

Meanwhile, Calgary and Trois-Rivieres, Que had the highest and lowest average house prices in the first quarter. The average house price in Calgary was $72,251 compared with $30,971 in Trois-Rivieres.

In major urban centres, Edmonton had the second highest average at $67,670; Toronto $65,169; Vancouver $64,188; Ottawa $57,846; London $46,269; Halifax $45,294; Fredericton $44,333; Regina $44,198; St. John's $41,789 and Montreal $40,047.

Easterners stream to Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — Easterners thirsting for employment are still streaming into Alberta, despite government warnings that little work is available.

An estimated 130

migrants—some already penniless—are arriving each day in the province they believe has streets paved with gold.

Many, however, find nothing but hardship, poverty and heartbreak.

Typical of those seeking work in Edmonton is Carson Davies, 17, a carpenter's helper from St. John's, Nfld. After working in Newfoundland for a year, Davies was laid off and found there was no work to be had in that province.

"The guy I talked to in Canada Manpower there said why didn't I go to Alberta," Davies said in an interview.

Davies spent $330 of his remaining $500 on air fare to get here. Now, after a couple of weeks of job-hunting, he's flat broke.

They too have tried the hotel but say they would rather sleep in the open. So far, they've been spending their nights in the car.

O'Grady says he can't even apply for a trucker's job because he has an Ontario driver's licence which employers here won't accept.

He says it will cost him $40 to get an Alberta licence—$30 for a medical and $10 for the transfer—so all three are doing temporary work smashing bottles in a recycling plant for $15 a day.

RADIATOR ENTREPRENEUR EXPANDS CHAIN

TORONTO (CP) — If he has his way, Eric Conroy, a school teacher turned entrepreneur, will have one of his specialist radiator stores in every town in Canada.

As it is, his speciality business, called The Radman, is not doing too badly with 26 outlets in Canada, of which 23 are in Ontario, two in British Columbia, and one in Nova Scotia.

Conroy started the chain only three years ago, investing $1,500 in an operation in his own garage at home. Today, Radman is estimated to be worth $4 million.

He hopes to add 100 more Radman shops to his list in the next year.

"The plan is to have a Radman in every town in this country."

As well, he has plans on the drawing board for three stores in Detroit and two in Florida.

Conroy said. "But not anymore. Pollution controls, the high cost of copper and the reduced weight have all served to make the radiator weaker."

"Now, it's more economical to replace it than repair it."

Conroy was teaching school in suburban Richmond Hill when he quit to sell programs on work incentives to corporations.

His new boss was so impressed he loaned Conroy $4,000 to start an advertising agency, Concept Creative Communications.

One of his accounts was Mr. Transmission.

It was during a visit to Florida to help in the opening of a Mr. Transmission shop there that Conroy spotted a small garage operation dealing solely in radiators.

"I talked to the guy and he said he was making nothing but money," Conroy recalled. The Radman idea began to gel.

"I brought in a friend from North Bay who had a small radiator shop, and I brought in an accountant. Then I went out and sold three franchises strictly on the idea."

DISLIKES HOSTEL

Davies spent one night in a free single-men's hostel but says one was enough. Since then, he has been wandering the streets for three nights and sleeping in parks during the day.

"I don't know what I'm going to do, I just don't know what I'm going to do," Davies said, near tears.

Two others in trouble are two friends from Ontario who have wives, children and mortgages to pay for.

Plumber Kelly McDonald, 25, and truck driver Jay O'Grady, 27, decided to take a chance on Alberta when they heard via the grapevine that there were jobs here.

"We decided it was go for broke," said McDonald. "We came and now we're broke."

They arrived in Edmonton last week, after a 33-hour drive from Toronto in O'Grady's old car. Their remaining money was spent on mechanical repairs along the way.

Archambault named Trust executive

Following a recent meeting of the board of directors, Le Trust General du Canada is pleased to announce that Louis Archambault has been elected president and chief executive officer of the company.

Mr. Archambault was previously executive vice-president and general manager of Le Trust General du Canada. He succeeds Robert Jussame, who died recently.

The new president of Le Trust General du Canada is also president of the Quebec section of the Trust Companies Association of Canada.

In its 50th year of operation, Le Trust General du Canada has assets of over $540 million and administers $1.7 billion for thousands of individuals and families, as well as for public bodies, large and small pension funds and charitable institutions.

Total guaranteed deposits have reached an unprecedented level of $510 million while the mortgage portfolio stands at $325 million, well above the $167 million invested in mortgages five years ago.

On the 31st of December 1977, Le Trust General du Canada showed operating profits of $2.3 million, an increase of 9.3 per cent over the results obtained the year before.

Le Trust General du Canada and its subsidiary Sherbrooke Trust, operate 25 branch offices in Quebec and Ontario.

Maine fishermen threatened

PORTLAND, Me. (AP) — The U.S. treasury department's decision to waive duties on Canadian imported fish poses a grave threat to the livelihood of Maine fishermen, says the Maine congressional delegation.

The action will permit Canada to flood the market with low-priced fish, the senators and congressmen said.

Democratic Senators Edmund Muskie and William Hathaway said they have filed a resolution opposing the department's action.

Meanwhile, Republican Representatives David Emery and William Cohen said they have already introduced legislation in the U.S. House of Representatives which would require a duty on Canadian fish imports.

Cuba: Fish industry booming

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba's fishing industry has grown into the country's second largest earner of hard currency.

The industry, all but nonexistent as a commercially important part of the economy before Fidel Castro's 1959 takeover, now is second only to sugar exports as an earner of hard currency needed to pay for imports, among other things. Sugar accounts for 80 per cent of Cuba's export earnings.

Cuba has built one large fishing port in Havana and has another under construction in Cienfuegos, on the island's southern-central coast, and export earnings have grown in 20 years to almost $60 million from about $5.6 million, a fishing ministry official said.

The base of the Cuban fishing industry before the revolution was the type of fisherman personified by Ernest Hemingway's book The Old Man and the Sea—a man alone, or perhaps with a son, fishing by handline from a small sail craft.

Now there are ships of the Cuban fishing fleet in most of the major fishing areas of the world. A few of the larger factory ships seldom even see Havana harbor as their crews catch, pack and freeze fish and shrimp for shipment back to Havana or straight to world markets.

Raul Luis, the ministry official, talked of the growth as he led a reporter along the docks in Havana. The presence of a U.S. reporter on the docks showed a new Cuban attitude. When the fishing port was under construction it, like most other waterfront installations in Cuba, was off limits to foreign reporters. Cuban exiles in the United States claimed in the late 1960s that Cuba was building a base for Soviet submarines here instead of a fishing port.

"The counter-revolutionaries say that every time we build something on the coast," Luis said. "You can see for yourself. This is just a fishing port."

Ships from the Cuban fleet were unloading boxes of mackerel with two of the nine huge cranes spotted around the five docks in the 34-acre port area. Fork lift tractors trundled the packages into a freezer built by Japan.

Three floating dry docks handle ship repairs. Two of them were attending merchant ships from the Soviet Union.

"This was all just a garbage dump before," Luis said. "We had to build everything. We had to build the whole fishing industry."

Work was started in 1962 with Soviet Union help. The first phase of the port opened in 1965. The construction cost about $40 million, Luis said.

"We repaired Soviet ships as payment," he added.

"They would bring the parts they needed and we would make the repairs. After the loan, which was made without interest, was paid we started charging for the repairs. We can repair ships of any nation now."

Consumer Chronicle

PRE-PURCHASE INFORMATION. Although it served faithfully and well a number of years, the vacuum cleaner of Mrs. X had recently developed an asthmatic wheeze that boded ill for its continued health. Trip to the local repair shop revealed the patient's condition was terminal, and the kindest (and cheapest) thing to do was to put it away.

On her way home, our vacuum-less consumer wandered into a large department store, and found herself surrounded by eager appliance salesmen and vacuums of every size, price and description. There were machines that swept, polished, cleaned, shampooed, purified the air, and sprayed insecticide. There were attachments for cleaning crevices, venetian blinds, upholstery, carpets and linoleum. There were round ones, tubular ones, and more-or-less square ones.

The prices ranged from suspiciously cheap to sums that seemed to our bewildered consumer to be just about equivalent to the cost of a small foreign car. The salesman was suggesting one of the more expensive machines, but did she really need all those features? Perhaps a cheaper model, then. But would that one give reliable service? In the middle of her confusion she remembered a friend describing a newly purchased washing machine as one of the top three recommended models. Recommended by whom? She wondered, detaching herself from the salesman.

Mrs. X called the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada where the officer explained that the government does not do product testing or publish product ratings, but a number of consumer magazines do. While the magazine tests are not "official" in the sense of being supported by any government agency, they can often provide a basis for a more informed choice by the consumer. Among these magazines, one can mention "Consumer Reports", published by the Consumers' Union of the United States, and "The Canadian Consumer", published by the Consumers' Association of Canada.

After a half hour reading the test results, our consumer has a much clearer idea which vacuum was most likely to suit her needs and she had a clearer idea of the price after doing her window-shopping. Her vacuum doesn't have the fancy trimmings some of the more expensive models do, but she's satisfied it has all the features she's likely to want. Until they come up with one that does the job by itself, of course.

ET DAYS

By PAT TRACY
of The Record

Ever wonder what happened to Gordon Beerworth, the smooth-tongued veteran of local journalism and broadcasting industries?

Well, the 66-year-old Beerworth now lives in Ajax, Ontario, near his two sons and would have celebrated his 50th year in journalism this year, had he not been forced to retire after a series of cardiac arrests in 1973.

He was born in Newport, Vermont and began his journalism career with a front page byline in the Sherbrooke Daily Record in 1942. At this time, he was editor of the now-defunct Coaticook Observer. During the war, he was assistant editor of the Quatermaster Journal (a US army newspaper), after which he returned to the Record.

GORDON BEERWORTH
...Townships Memories

Beerworth can best be remembered in the Townships not as a feature writer and advertising manager for the Record, but for his role as Santa Claus on CKTS, a position which he held for 13 years. He was station manager at this time and he explains that he sold his Santa Claus show to the old A.L. Green store. For six nights a week, from December 1 to 24, Beerworth made up stories and read the 30 or 40 letters he received over the air.

In a telephone interview from his home, he explained that he continued to play Santa after he left the radio station. "When we were in Claremont, New Hampshire," he says, "I was acting as Santa for a department store. My wife brought my son, who was then two and a half, to visit. I sat him on my knee, asked him what he wanted and we talked for a long time. He never knew it was his father."

During his years in the Townships, Beerworth also worked for the Sherbrooke Telegram and the Telegram-Observer, both weeklies since dissolved.

His talents were always in demand as master of ceremonies for local fairs. He acted as the emcee for the Ayer's Cliff fair for 21 years and for other fairs in the area, including the Sherbrooke Exhibition. During his years here Beerworth was also asked to emcee travelling professional acts such as the Gastoni Attractions, Circus Reviews and Paul Riddell's Imperial Hell Drivers.

Throughout the course of his career, he has been the source of many controversies, such as in 1965, when two unions were fighting to reorganize the Telegram Printing and Publishing Company in Sherbrooke. "I refused to work under a unionized system." His strong dislike of unions forced him to resign his position as station manager at CKTS.

Earlier, he sparked another incident which involved the QPP and the administration of Bishop's University. As station manager, he refused to air a pre-scheduled play by drama students at Bishop's because he found the language offensive. Students surrounded the radio station with signs which read "Beerworth thinks he's God" and "Down with Censorship". Despite all the attention, the program never went on.

Beerworth comes back to the Townships regularly to visit friends and relatives. He has noticed a change in the area, both physically and in the attitude of the people. In Coaticook, he said, there are no more English stores or businesses. Years ago when his father owned a store in the town, most of them were English. This does not bother him. He is bilingual to the point where he used to do the annual bilingual New Year's message on CHLT-TV in Sherbrooke.

The media has changed through the years, he feels. Newspapers are playing up sensationalism more than they used to. "It used to be that a paper ran a story front page for maybe two days. Now they push them to run at least a week. It is overplayed and I think it stirs people up more than it soothes them."

Journalism was more exciting then than it is today, he feels. Once, reporters had to go out to the various communities hunting for news; "now you have it at your fingertips."

The Record has also changed since his time. "Beerworth remembers having pages devoted to each of the Townships communities with news and advertising centered around that area. Names such as the Richmond Express and the Cookshire Courier came to mind.

On Canadian unity, Beerworth also has definite opinions. "Any decision on unity is up to the people; it's not the press who should tell the electorate how to live."

BROMONT — There's a new industry here in town and it's keeping tradespeople and services busy from here to Cowansville.

Two years ago, citizens of Bromont, scene of the 1976 Olympic equestrian events, began working towards the creation of a summer festival.

Lacking any outside funding, the volunteers had to make the best use of their talents. June 30 to July 2 will see their work showcased in the first Festival de Bromont, a cultural weekend with a bright future.

The mini-festival, which inaugurates the first season of the new Bromont company, begins at 8:30 p.m. Friday, June 30, with a concert under the stars by the Montreal Symphony Orchestra conducted by prodigy Uri Mayer. The group will perform in front of the Sports and Cultural Centre on Church Street in Bromont.

Saturday, the marionettes take over the show, with performances for both adults and children. German puppeteer Albrecht Roser, considered one of the world's finest manipulators of marionettes, will present "Gustaf and his ensemble", an exploration of human frailties and emotions through the use of humor, pathos, and drama.

The first performance is at 4 p.m. Saturday at the Sports and Culture Centre and a repeat will take place Sunday night at 8 Children under the age of 15 are discouraged from attending the show.

For the younger set, however, a pair of performances by Les Marionnettes de Montreal will more than compensate for the former event. Saturday evening at 8:30, under the direction of Micheline Legendre, the renowned Canadian puppeteer, the Marionnettes will present two operas - "Bastien and Bastienne" and "Hansel and Gretel".

The following afternoon at four, the children are in for a special treat when the Marionnettes put on a circus number which, like the previous shows, will take place at the Sports and Culture Centre.

To accommodate the puppeteers, a 300-seat theater has been constructed within the sports center. Enclosing walls will be added, making viewing more intimate.

Capping the eventful weekend is a chamber music concert at the St. Francis Xavier Church in Bromont, in which Musica Camerata Montreal presents the works of Schubert, Haydn, and Brahms.

Festival de Bromont president Esther Levin feels the festival could become the Stratford of Quebec. About 3000 visitors attended last year's two-day antique show from as far away as Ontario, New York and Vermont.

Keeping young people in Bromont is another reason for the festival, adds Mrs. Levin.

After the Olympics, Bromont (pop. 4,000) subsidized. Built for the games, the Sports and Cultural Centre was used for housing and feeding equestrian riders. Since then the centre has fallen into disuse, a white elephant in the minds of many.

The festival represents a new industry for Bromont. Carpenters, electricians and

Cowansville SSJB fete 'for all'

COWANSVILLE (TS) — Richard Paquette, one of the chief organizers of the nine-day St. Jean Baptiste celebrations which begin in Cowansville this Friday, wants it known that the event is open to people of all cultures and languages.

"Sure, it's the feast day of French Canadians but in the past in Cowansville we've had a lot of English-speaking people who have participated and I hope it continues. We're neutral and this thing is for everybody."

Paquette said all the events are funded by the Knights of Columbus branch in Cowansville and the organization does not receive a penny from the provincial government to stage the show.

"If there's any money left over at the end of the activities we put the money in the bank and it's used to help underprivileged families at Christmas time," he revealed.

Many of the week's events are sponsored by local Molson Breweries' agent, Jean Michel.

The St. Jean Baptiste parade - held this year on Sunday afternoon, June 25 - is considered as the largest in the Eastern Townships and Paquette promises that it will be even bigger this year.

Following the parade the organizing committee has lined up a concert of folklore

Hydro warns of power cuts

Hydro-Quebec will be working on the lines serving Melbourne, Kingsbury, Ulverton and a part from Richmond, between June 12th to June 30th.

This work will allow Hydro-Quebec to improve insulation on the lines in order to increase the reliability of the network and ensure a better service to our customers.

In order to carry out these improvements, Hydro-Quebec will have to interrupt the service several times for periods of less than three hours at a time. Please take note that the customers concerned will be informed of the day and hour of each interruption, by a loud-speaker.

Vaugeois in Thetford

SHERBROOKE (AF) — Minister of Cultural Affairs, Denis Vaugeois, on a white paper fact-giving tour regarding Quebec's cultural development policy, will be visiting the Thetford region today. Representatives of community social and cultural groups will be meeting the minister in the Thetford Mines police station hall at 3 p.m.

Pedestrian protection

The City of Sherbrooke would like to remind all drivers about regulation 2250, which states all cars must slow down or stop to let pedestrians cross at intersections where traffic lights and cross walks are not provided. This regulation has been in effect for a while, but will be strictly enforced as a result of complaints by local pedestrians. They are asking for complete cooperation from area motorists.

Zoo employees accept new pact

GRANBY (TS) — Employees at Granby Zoo have voted 63 per cent in favor of accepting the latest company offer after a marathon negotiating session earlier in the week in the presence of conciliator Yves Forest.

As a result of the decision, the 19 CSN-affiliated employees will receive a salary hike of 65 cents an hour for the first year of the contract and 50 cents the following year.

The employees had been seeking a raise of 80 cents for each year of the contract as well as cost-of-living indexation.

The new salary scale brings the average wage in 1978 to $5.52 an hour and $6 for 1979. The employees will also receive about $700 in retroactive pay, calculated from the expiration of the old contract last December.

Other benefits earned by the employees are the payment of one-half of the six sick days provided for in the labor contract as well as a 20-cent premium for those working the night shift.

The contract settlement ends months of bitterness at the zoo, which was the site of a number of work slowdowns by the employees to bolster their demands.

A spokesman for the zoo said the operation was about $60,000 behind in gate receipts compared to a similar period last year. He felt the deficit was due to bad publicity received in a Montreal newspaper as a result of the labor conflict.

In addition, the zoo opened two weeks later than normal because of inclement weather.

Summer activities registration

SHERBROOKE — All parents of children between the ages of six and 15 who want to register them in summer field activities should report to the Service des Loisirs at 229 - 8th Ave. North between June 14 and 22 during regular business hours. Cost of the registration is $2. For more information, contact the service at 565-5836.

Boat race caps Heritage fete

A Gregorian-Chant mass will mark the official beginning of Heritage Week, June 17-24 in the Richmond area. The opening mass, on the evening of June 17 will take place at Ste-Bibiane Church, Richmond, which was built in 1884.

To further celebrate Heritage week, an adult dance will be held in the Notre Dame School while a youth's disco night is going on at the Sacre-Coeur School on Saturday night.

The Richmond Recreational and Cultural Association will sponsor a show on Tuesday June 20 at 8 p.m. at the Notre Dame School by about 190 students, featuring ballet, jazz, judo and guitars.

The week will be capped by a boat race on the St. Francis River between Greenlay and Richmond on St. Jean Baptiste Day.

The boats will leave Greenlay at 9 a.m. and should arrive at the Mackenzie Bridge around 5 p.m. Anybody interested in participating in this activity should contact either Denis Marchand in Richmond at 826-3618 or Denis Leclerc in Valcourt at 532-3743.

Stanstead alumnus Scrivener backs private schools

STANSTEAD (IH) — The following is the address given by Robert Scrivener, chairman and chief executive officer of Northern Telecom Ltd., a former student of Stanstead College Holmes Model School, given at the Stanstead College baccalaureate June 2.

His opening remarks were nostalgic of his days at Stanstead, when Dr. Halpenny was principal. His warmest memories are as a beneficiary of the school's learning, influence and discipline, a time when he learned tennis, baseball, soccer, football and hockey, "extremely important contributions to which I owe much" he said.

"How many young lives have been influenced by Stanstead? Ten or fifteen thousand? In any case, a relatively small number in relation to the population of this continent or this world.

On the basis of quantity, it would be easy to question the value or the significance of the effort. In fact, the whole history of Stanstead College could be presented as a very selfish effort for a privileged few who happened to have the means and were, in fact, subsidized by the generous benefactors of Stanstead who, over the years, have contributed their time as teachers and trustees, or their money as donors.

It wouldn't be my inclination to feel defensive about the fact that Stanstead has been, for a few thousand special students, a special opportunity. Right from the beginning of Canada, in accordance with the practice of the times, schooling has had a sectarian base in the European and British tradition. This situation has largely changed, though the independent schools in Canada continue many of their original church-based traditions.

Reading the history of our educational evolution in Canada, the early, great figures who fought for schools were churchmen. Essentially, there were private institutions, and though much of the funding came from the public treasury, the administration remained in the hands of the established church.

In our time, we have seen the evolution of the state educational system, growing and expanding to the point where today, it is our taxes which support education almost totally.

Universal opportunity for an education was to be the great leveller which opened the doors to all and broke down barriers and privileges of class and wealth. We have wiped out illiteracy, but we have also degraded the value of our coinage. Granted, there are still centres of excellence within the public educational system but the values to be derived by the individual participating in this system are most directly related to the family influences on, and interests in, the student than to the stimulus and the thirst for learning generated within the system itself. With a few notable exceptions, we have today in Canada, a lowest-common-denominator educational system, with diminished emphasis on the quality of the teaching and on the actual nature and extent of learning.

All of this is perfectly consistent with a society which is preoccupied with "my rights" and your responsibility". It is also a "two-standards" society, where the state is far less accountable for the acts and performance of its employees and servants than is the private individual or corporation. In part, we have seen the impact of affluence on society and, with it, a relaxation of the pressures and the disciplines which are required when the struggle for survival is very apparent, real and ever-present at first hand. Philosophers and historians have long noted that adversity builds character, and indulgence derives from affluence.

Canada has just passed through a period of euphoria which I would date from 1955 to 1975. We convinced ourselves that we had it made or, as they say in Tennessee, "we had the B"ar by the tail on a downhill pull". The squabbles and quarrels over our real or imagined riches have led to an erosion of our natural unity, to an excessive commitment of our future income and wealth to today's standard of living, and to a misplaced evaluation of Canada's importance in the world-wide scheme of things. The current outburst of nationalism in Canada and in Quebec is a reflection of similar expressions in many other corners of the world. In part, this nationalism reflects the impact of the new, instant electronic communications as the world turns into McLuhan's "global village"; in part a false sense of affluence; in part, it is a reflection of a sense of insecurity. But largely, it is a desire to gain identity in our fast-changing society where we have conquered time and distance in the world and in space, and where we are dissatisfied with the functioning of the big national state.

As I travel the world, I am made very aware of similar discontents in many countries. Here in Quebec, the repercussions are very personal and we judge them very subjectively. Being so close to events, we run the risk of misjudging them. While it is my opinion that separation will be rejected as a viable alternative by the people of Quebec, I am less sanguine that the people of Canada yet have the will to act together and to apply the restraints and disciplines to themselves which will be required to preserve this country's economy at its optimum, and to contain the expansion of the state at the expense of the individual and the private institutions. There is very substantial evidence that the expansion of the state's involvement in education, health services, and elsewhere has increased the quantity but has reduced the quality of the services to be rendered. Centres of excellence are, in many cases, being eroded and, where they survive, you will find a very high proportion of non-government funding. It is interesting that there has been the start of a shift in boardrooms away from automatic funding of large state institutions to a new focus on supporting independent private institutions. The basic reasons are that there should be viable alternatives to state operations of all kinds; that private institutions can focus on quality rather than quantity; that these private institutions should set the highest standards so that the erosion of competitive objectives in government operations can be checked. In effect, it is a broader expression of the virtues of freedom of speech and expression, and of a desire to stop homogenizing everything.

We need these private institutions, especially at the advanced levels of medicine, education and in other professions. However, these institutions have to be prepared to accept the severe competitive pressures to which they must be continuously subjected. The onus of proof is on them. These demands reflect the double standard as between performance, expectations of public and private institutions, and also the fact that private institutions must be extremely selective insofar as quality of staff and student is concerned. This selectivity is elitist, not by class or wealth, but in terms of dedication and outstanding ability. To undertake a task based on such objectives is, today, counter to the mainstream of practice and popularity of the past few decades, but, in my opinion, represents the direction in which public attitudes are starting to turn again. There is an emerging realization that the pendulum has swung too far and there is a new mood of conservatism, a disenchantment with big government and a realization that there are limits to growth, and that conservation has merits.

These changes will create opportunities to re-exert the value of selectivity and quality. There will be more talk of responsibilities of all parties: Government, labour, and business, as well as individuals. To this atmosphere, there most certainly is a place for top quality, selective, residential secondary schools in this country. There is, too, a greater possibility of enlisting new sources of funding for such institutions. I'm sure Stanstead will commit itself to both these challenges and opportunities, and can thereby attract students with a thirst for knowledge and a desire for understanding who will be stimulated by teachers to think and to express themselves."

Robert Scrivener's speech to the Stanstead Baccalaureate reprinted here, makes some powerful arguments for the private schools of Canada at a time when they need them most.

Stanstead, faced with the dictates of the French Language Charter, is throwing off the dubious benefits of government grants to go it alone, and it needs every friend it can find. Other Quebec private schools, such as Bishop's College School, LCC, Selwyn House and St. George's are managing to cope within government guidelines, but it's at some sacrifice, we have no doubt.

Even so, that pervasive sentiment of the sixties which saw private schools and their wards as elitist collections of insufferable little prigs has passed, just as surely as our faith in the public school system.

We agree with Mr. Scrivener. The public school system, a product of our increasing obligation to the state, is a lowest-common-denominator structure supposed to give the student exactly what the system says he needs, no more and no less.

In fact, we're not even sure it does that, considering the product of the public system. Inveterate watchers of television, dedicated spectators, they belong to peer groups which have come to regard alcoholism, smoking, sex and drug abuse among 12-year-olds as normal.

Not so long ago, we criticized educators for not spending more time with their students, for not showing sufficient dedication to the tenets of their trade. We were taken to task severely for our blanket condemnation of the profession and we realize there's more to it than that. It's the system. It's not working, and private schools provide an increasingly attractive alternative.

It's not enough to keep youngsters busy; they have to be motivated, and this seems to be where the public system is at its worst.

People seem astounded at the parents of those 12 young boys drowned while on an arduous wilderness trek in northern Quebec because they aren't blaming the school. To the contrary, people who know about St. John's Cathedral Boys' Schools are rallying around the organization in this hard time, a display of trust and unity unequalled, surely, by anything in the public-school sector.

The three schools of the St. John's network aren't your usual private schools; we know the schools because we came very close indeed to teaching there. Life as a St. John's teacher has a definite appeal, even if the pay is a dollar a day and the hours long. As co-founder Ted Byfield says, the concept of the school as a family becomes so strong after five years that it has been found impractical to let boys stay longer; they can't seem to function in a world without that community.

St. John's specializes in taking jaded, unmotivated youths and transforming them into self-assured young men aware of their own limitations. It's not a gung-ho jock organization, nor is it a bunch of religious nuts out to push the boys to the breaking-point.

We're not saying the public system should force the students into canoes and trek them across the tundra, but surely there's more to motivating students than incarcerating them in a great factory of a school 20 miles from home. How long will people put up with the system?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Security council briefing sparks bitter feud

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The story can now be told of the blow-up inside the White House over the sale of our hottest military jets to Saudi Arabia.

It was ignited by Jessica Tuchman Mathews, a senior strategist, who gave other White House insiders a secret briefing last February on the military implications of the sale of F-15 fighters to the Saudis.

Speaking for the policymaking National Security Council, she assured the group that the F-15s were "defensive aircraft with very little offensive capability." She also described Tabuk, a Saudi Arabian airbase only 125 miles from Israel, as a civilian installation.

No one was listening more intently than President Carter's liaison advisor on Jewish affairs, Mark Siegel. He subsequently learned from the Pentagon, however, that the F-15s are considered the best fighter-bombers in the world and that the U.S. was helping develop Tabuk into a major military base.

Outraged, Siegel resigned in protest. He charged that he had been fed inaccurate information by National Security Council officials.

Eventually, Jessica Mathews' name slipped into some new accounts as the official who had misled Siegel. On April 19, she complained in a "Dear Mark" letter that she had become "increasingly distressed" that he was naming her as "the source of information which led to your troubles."

She denied calling the F-15 a "defensive weapon" and insisted she had referred to Tabuk as "originally a civilian airfield that has been upgraded." She added acidly: "An adequate understanding of the technical issues involved here requires more than a passing acquaintance with the subject."

Siegel fired back a sizzling letter marked "personal and confidential." It began "Dear Jessica" but quickly exploded: "I have read and reread your letter and find its contents inaccurate and its tone insulting. I find it additionally objectionable that, unknown to me, you have apparently circulated copies of the letter around the White House."

"I do not know what motivates a person to retroactively distort facts and redefine truth. I may surmise that it is your own attempt to justify your behavior and culpability for dissemination of inaccurate information to the public and to the Hill."

Siegel said four others at the Mathews briefing upheld his version of what she said and contended that a subsequent briefing paper was heavily edited. "You did not tell us then, nor mention in your letter to me," he seethingly added, "that Tabuk is heavily protected by American Hawk anti-aircraft missiles and that Hawk triads are currently being installed."

"Nor did you indicate that the United

Ban the film

Editor:

On Thursday, March 8th, 1978, a motion was called for in the Commons under Standing Order 43, requesting that the film 'The Many Faces of Jesus' be banned from entry into Canada. The comments of the Speaker of the House were as follows: 'Pursuant to the provision of the Standing Order 43, presentation of such a motion can only be made with the unanimous consent of the House' The response was not unanimous.

The Swedish film producer J.J. Thorsen has made a pronographic film picturing Jesus Christ as a drunkard, a fornicator, and a homosexual. This has been done without any basis of fact whatever.

This film has been banned in Israel, England, and in France. However, the film will be shown in Canada as early as this fall, thanks to the help of a Canadian financial backer, unless our elected officials take the necessary steps to prevent it.

We pride ourselves on being a Christian nation, both by tradition and choice. Our national laws were developed from Christian teaching and moral ethics. Documents and Acts originating from the very

House of Commons which could not agree unanimously in passing a resolution banning entry of this film, bear witness, and acknowledge the Supremacy of Jesus Christ, by even being dated 'in the year of our Lord'.

It would be interesting to know who were the Honourable Members who found it so hard to give a 'yes' vote to this resolution.

A copy of this letter is going to every member on both sides of the House, and to every daily newspaper in Canada, with a request to publish.

It is also a direct appeal to every person who professes to be a Christian to strongly oppose the importation into Canada, the introduction into Canada, and the showing of this film in Canada.

This can be done by clipping this letter and endorsing it with your signature and address, and mailing it to your local MP. JOHN SANDERS, New Glasgow, N.S.

Why the bitterness?

Editor:

I'd like to say a word about a TV program I was watching last Saturday at 6:30 p.m. It was about Bill 101. I saw the "mauvaise volonte" — bad spirit — that several stubborn English people contribute. Okay, I'm French, but it's not the end of the world to try to say a few words in French.

I know the bill does not stop there, but I was listening to one woman who publishes a catalog every year, who says she won't print it in French and "if there is a fine I won't pay it." I'd like to see a French-

Canadian trying to do business in another province only in French. He would go bankrupt.

I work with English people and I really enjoy it, and besides, I want to improve my English (how about that!). We are privileged people living in a province having both French and English. So why don't we all join in and make an effort? Try to understand that we (Quebecois) want to save our heritage. This is maybe our last chance.

FRANCINE THIBAUT, Sherbrooke

Colombia, police closed in on a cargo plane, arrested the crew and seized 12 tons of marijuana. Three Americans — identified in a secret account as pilot Earl Zerbe, co-pilot Theodore Powell and mechanic Gary Faucher — were thrown into the slammer along with an Irishman named Desmond Quinlan. The rest of the story is told dispassionately in an intelligence dispatch: "On May 5, 1978, two subjects dressed as national police officers entered the Riohacha jail, overpowered the guards and freed the three U.S. citizens and the Irish national."

—Defense Secretary Harold Brown has been bringing business and professional leaders to the Pentagon for some mild brainwashing. He reported confidentially to the Cabinet that "the atmosphere is considerably different than the one which exists when talking to a large group on their own turf." He had also learned, he said, that "it is useful to mix individuals of diverse orientation and interests into the groups which attend."

—The Supreme Court recently struck down state laws that prohibited corporations from donating money to public causes. This has encouraged corporate lawyers to consider challenging the election laws next. An alarmed Federal Election Commission, however, will resist any move to allow corporate contributions. They don't want to open the field for corporations to start stuffing paper bags with money again.

OES Chapter No. 46

COOKSHIRE — A largely-attended meeting of Cookshire Chapter No. 46, O.E.S. was held in the Masonic Chambers, when the Worthy Grand Matron, Sister Margaret Willard, made her official visit, accompanied by the Worthy Grand Patron, Brother Eric Leighton.

The meeting was opened in regular form, with flag presentation. Among the distinguished guests in attendance were Sister Margaret Willard WGM, and

Brother Eric Leighton, W.G.P., of the Grand Chapter of Quebec, Order of the Eastern Star. They were presented, welcomed, escorted to the East and given Grand Honors, also Sisters Helen Ramsay P.G.M. and General Grand Chapter Member, and the Past Matrons, Sisters Mildred Wheelock, Alta Fowler, Claire Winkley, Marjorie Baker and Janet Neal. Other Grand Officers were Sisters Eileen Eldridge, Grand Condu-

Chaplain, Doris Cookman, Grand Martha, Grand Instructors Sisters Winifred Sanborn and May McBain, who were presented, welcomed and escorted to the East. Numerous Grand Chapter Committee members, along with the Worthy Matrons, Worthy Patrons, Past Matrons, Past Patrons, members and visitors were given a warm welcome by the Worthy Matron, Sister Mary Lou Burns.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The Altar and Charter were draped in memory of our late Brother Harold Andrew McCullough, P.G.P., and our late Sister Marjorie Hurley, P.M.

Accounts were presented and ordered to be paid. Several items of correspondence were dealt with, along with the receipt of donations, good wishes and thank you notes.

Some of the work of the Order was exemplified for the Worthy Grand Matron and favorable comments made.

Reports were given by the convenors of the special committees.

The Worthy Matron announced that the June meeting would take the form of "Friendship Nite."

Sickness and distress convenors reported several members were now recuperating from sickness. A moment of silence was observed for the bereaved.

In a novel Star Point ceremony, Sister Margaret Willard, W.G.M. was presented with gifts for her year's project on behalf of Cookshire Chapter, for which she expressed her thanks and appreciation. Brother Fred Burns also presented Brother Eric Leighton W.G.P. with a gift for the above project, for which he expressed his thanks. The theme of the Worthy Grand Matron's remarks was "Friendship". Brother Leighton expressed his thanks to the Chapter for a cordial welcome, and endorsed the Worthy Grand Matron's theme of "Friendship".

The collection for the evening was donated to the Worthy Grand Matron's project.

The meeting closed in regular form and lunch was served in the lower hall from very attractively-decorated tables.

SWEETSBURG WARD

by John McCahey

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Reid Coulombe of South Stukely and Ghislain Tremblay of Chicoutimi entered on pleas at their arraignments here on charges of possession of two thousand tablets of Valium, four grams of morphine and conspiracy to commit an illegal act in South Stukely June 2 according to terms of Article 2 of the Narcotic Control Act and Article 423 of the Criminal Code.

Defence lawyers Claude Archambault of Montreal who represented Coulombe and Pierre Gibeau of Granby, who acted for Tremblay chose jury trials and preliminary hearings were continued for the form to June 8 in Granby.

Sessions Court judge Bernard Legare upheld Crown Attorney Yves Lagace's demand for preventative detention and ordered the accused remanded in custody pending a bail hearing on Thursday.

An RCMP spokesman told The Record this was the largest single drug seizure in this sector of the Townships since Robert Beaufils was apprehended at the Bromont KOA campground with 242 kilos of "Acapulco gold" during 1973. Beaufils, who was tailed by the RCMP from the time he crossed the international frontier at Rock Island until his arrest, was sentenced to the minimum seven years for illegal importation following his condition by Judge Guy Genest here in 1975.

The drugs seized at the South Stukely post office on Friday had an approximate street value of $100,000.

South paused to regroup. He had eight top tricks. Three club tricks would give him a ninth, so he led a second diamond to dummy's queen and played a low club. If East had played the eight, South would have ducked. West would have had to win and South would have his ninth trick. But East played the 10.

South had to win and now West dropped his queen. This set the stage for the crocodile coup two tricks later. South went to dummy with the ace of spades and led a second club. East played his jack so as to crutch West's nine. The best South could do was to cash his eight top tricks and go just one down.

North and South might well have played in five diamonds, but three no-trump is not the worst contract ever attempted.

South's queen of hearts won the first trick over East's 10. He promptly played his ace of diamonds. The singleton king fell and VIA's new Fare For All Plan. Great value and savings for everyone!

At VIA, we're giving you more value for your travel dollars. To do it, we've introduced our new Fare For All Plan. When you're making travel plans, consider us. We've got fares for every occasion and every need, and savings for almost everyone. That's something to cheer about!

VIA's new Fare For All Plan starts with basic fares which are good for travel on any day of the year.

In addition to these new basic fares, our Fare For All Plan includes a package of incentive fares that offers a whole range of ways to save:

Round Trip Excursion Fares. Plan your trip to qualify for a 3-day or 7 to 30-day excursion fare and you will pay only the basic one-way fare, plus one third for your round trip.

3 days - Applies between any two points when the one-way fare is $36 or less. Valid all year, (except for the Christmas and Easter holidays) for going journeys commencing any day except Friday. Good for return any time up to midnight of the third day.

7-30 days - Applies between any two points when the one-way fare is $37 or more. Good every day, September 16 through June 14, except for the Christmas and Easter holidays. Going journeys may commence any day except Friday. Return 7 or up to 30 days from the day you start your trip. And no advance booking restrictions either!

Group Fares. Get together and save. When two or more adults travel together, the first person pays the basic fare and the remainder of the group enjoys discounts of 25% to 40% depending on the number in the group. (It's a great idea for family travel too. Leave the car at home and enjoy your trip.) Two children count as one adult for group rate purposes.

VIAPASS. Enjoy unlimited travel at a fixed cost on VIA trains or CP Rail trains in designated territories. Depending on territory, passes can be valid for 8, 15, 22 or 30 days.

They enable you to travel economically at any time and are priced even lower from September 16 through June 14, except for the Christmas and Easter periods.

65 Plus Fares. Under VIA's new Fare For All Plan, people 65 or over may travel for one third off basic one-way rates. These fares are good any day except for the Christmas period.

Children's Fares. Children under five years of age travel free. Children 5 to 11 inclusive pay only half the basic fare. Little people get big savings with VIA.

We've Got Lots of Choices. As you can see, we've got something for just about everyone. As with any special fare plan, some restrictions do apply. But the important thing is, when you're making travel plans, think of VIA. We can show you some exciting ways to save money.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer

Has tarnished spoons

By Polly Cramer

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — What is the best way to remove heavy tarnish from silver spoons? I have several antique spoons that are quite heavily tarnished and polish does not remove it all. Also, is there a lacquer one can coat such spoons with to prevent tarnishing? — BERNICE

DEAR BERNICE — The makers of baking soda suggest placing such silver on aluminum foil that lines an ENAMEL pan, add boiling water and four teaspoons of baking soda, let stand for a bit, rinse well and rub to a shine with a soft cloth. DO NOT use this for raised patterns or cemented-on handles. I always rinse cleaned silver in very hot water before drying.

Just last week a friend told me that she had asked the owner of one of the big silver shops in Mexico what he used to keep his silver so gleaming and bright. The answer was "a paste of baking soda and lemon juice." I recently bought a silver tray at a garage sale and tried cleaning it with this mixture and it looks bright as a new silver dollar. I would never use lacquer on spoons or any pieces that someone might use for food. It is only for purely decorative pieces such as candlesticks. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those who insist on buying toys for children without reading the suggested age group that is usually printed on toy boxes. I have enough carelessly bought toys in my attic to open a toy store. — ROSE

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Prescribed potassium

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor has prescribed potassium in a liquid form on a daily basis. I take a diuretic and he said my potassium level was dangerously low. My doctor told me that I need not worry about taking too much potassium. He also told me that I would have to continue taking it for the rest of my life. I'm 59.

I find this hard to believe. For one thing, I voluntarily cut back on my dosage because I felt that I was getting too much. I am now taking less than the doctor prescribes for me and I feel better than I did when I was taking exactly what he prescribed. Is there any way to determine the appropriate dosage?

DEAR READER — The kidneys normally eliminate a reasonable amount of excess potassium. That's fortunate because many of the foods we eat do contain quite a bit of potassium, particularly the fruit and vegetable group. It's only when a person also has kidney disease or is grossly overloaded with potassium, as might be given by vein, that a problem may occur. Why you feel better is another matter. Perhaps that's coincidental.

Your letter isn't completely clear whether you cut back on the liquid potassium you're taking or whether you have cut back on your diuretic. Both are related to your salt balance. To give you a better idea of how important your body salts are I am sending you The Health Letter number 10-12, Salt: Your Vital Sodium and Potassium Balance. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78292.

I'm sure what your doctor meant was that as long as you had to take a diuretic you would require some additional potassium. That's not too surprising. You might talk to him about your problem and see if you can't get a reasonable amount of your potassium from fresh orange juice or fresh fruit. Usually three 8-ounce glasses of orange juice a day will provide as much potassium as is commonly prescribed. It is true that some patients don't tolerate potassium medicine such as the liquid form that you may be taking. On the other hand, they usually tolerate orange juice or a banana.

There isn't any good way to know how you're doing in terms of the potassium you're taking and the diuretics you're using except by blood tests and other laboratory procedures. If you are not taking a strong diuretic or very much of a diuretic then there's not much danger of washing out potassium along with the sodium. But if you're taking a lot of diuretic the problem often becomes important, as in your case.

I would suggest that you rely on your doctor's judgment and if you're not doing well, consult him so that he can repeat your tests and see how you are doing rather than guessing about it.

I'd also like to add, as you will see in The Health Letter that I'm sending you, that much of the commercial food processing eliminates a lot of the natural potassium in foods we would normally eat, and adds sodium.

This is true of freezing procedures, canning procedures and other food processing. That suggests that many people who are on diuretics would do better to prepare their own food in their own kitchen rather than relying on commercially prepared products.

STANSTEAD (IH) — A milestone for Stanstead North Women's Institute was observed by the members on Wednesday, June 7, at Centenary Church Hall, marking their golden anniversary.

Gathering at 6 p.m. the members and invited guests were greeted at the door by the branch president, Mrs. Doris Gibson and each was presented with a gold-on-white, satin souvenir ribbon. Mrs. Raymond Curtis was in charge of the guest book which was signed by all.

The hall was decorated with arrangements of garden flowers. The head table was centered with a W.I. candle with the crest and collect in color upon a light beige and was flanked by matching tall beige candles, a gift made by Mrs.

Edward Hyatt. Bows of white miniature carnations entwined with gold ribbon and lightly sprinkled with gold dust by Mrs. Rudd's daughter, Mrs. Leslie Colt, and Mrs. George Peasley. Between courses Mrs. Wheelock introduced the head table Mrs. Rudd, Mrs. Colt and Mrs. Byers, Mrs. Gwen Parker, provincial first vice-president from Lennoxville; Mrs. Aileen Lord, Stanstead County president from Massawippi; Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Lee Heath, president and second vice-president of Stanstead North; Mrs. Wheelock is first vice-president; Mrs. Raymond Curtis, treasurer and Mrs. Ruth Ashman, secretary of the branch. The convenors, Mrs. Currie Hill, Mrs. George Peasley, Mrs. E.C. Middleton, Mrs. Fayne Hovey, Mrs. Janice Soutiere and Mrs. Ivy Hatch, were seated down from the head table.

On a separate table the anniversary cake was displayed. This was made and decorated by Mrs. Horace Doyon in the W.I. colors of blue and gold with the W.I. crest and maple leaves. The initial cut was made by Mrs. Byers and Mrs. Rudd.

Mrs. Wheelock read three cards of congratulations from the Ayer's Cliff W.I. Branch, Q.W.I. Executive and Mrs. Aileen Lord. Mrs. Ivy Hatch gave a paper on the branch history, noting the first meeting held on June 7, 1928, at the home of Mrs. Homer Curtis in North Stanstead. Mrs. William Abbott was elected the first president, Mrs. Edgar Brock and Mrs. A.E. Curtis, sr., the vice-presidents; Mrs. Rudd, secretary and Mrs. R.D. Byers, treasurer. The history included many activities of the past century. Jack and Marge Keeley attended as guests and played old-time music on the fiddle and piano that added much to the delightful evening. Their first selection was "Memories" followed by several others with some joining to sing-a-long.

Mrs. Douglas Cooper introduced Mrs. Parker, the guest speaker. In her address, Mrs. Parker congratulated the branch on behalf of the QWI and provincial members. "Your past accomplishments have been tremendous," she said and mentioned Miss Norma Holmes, QWI secretary at Macdonald for ten years, who is a member of Stanstead North Branch. She commended the branch for its preservation of the Mansur school, especially that youth may realize what education was like years ago. "They need something like this to refer to," she noted.

She further commended the leaders of the past who guide and set goals such as Mrs. Rudd and Mrs. Byers. In reference to the recently held convention at Macdonald, she remarked this is where one finds out all about W.I. and that it is good to remember the past and the present but one must also think of the future and here she spoke of QWI projects.

After extending good wishes to the branch and the wish that "you may expand", she was thanked for her inspiring talk by Mrs. Lee Heath.

Perhaps the highlight of the evening was the presentation of 50 years pins by Mrs. Gibson to Mrs. Rudd and Mrs. Byers with Mrs. Gibson speaking appropriate words of appreciation to these two grand people for a half-century of service in the W.I. Each recipient spoke their thanks.

Mrs. Soutiere read an article "Golden Resolution - Just for Today" and a poem "Try Smiling".

Mrs. Lord spoke briefly, bringing greetings from the other Stanstead County branches, offering congratulations and best wishes for the future.

Jack and Marge then played and all sang "For They are Jolly Good Ladies," a tribute to Mrs. Rudd and Mrs. Byers, then several selections of old time songs.

Mrs. Erwin Taylor thanked the Keeleys for coming and adding so much to the program that was enjoyed by all as the music was a reminder of early years. Mrs. Taylor also thanked the Allegro Unit for their part in the celebration's success through the good food served so efficiently.

Jack and Marge played as all joined to sing O Canada, then the Mizpah benediction brought the program to a close.

The committee on arrangements, Mrs. Wheelock, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Soutiere and Mrs. Hatch, worked in cooperation with other members and the Allegro Unit.

Mrs. W.H. Rudd (left) and Mrs. John Byers make the initial cuts in the anniversary cake at the Stanstead North W.I. celebration.

Ann Landers says...

You're both out of line

Dear Ann Landers: A while back a friend of mine had to be hospitalized in another city for several days. It was nothing serious. It didn't know what to send her so I slipped $10 into an envelope with a note suggesting that she ask a nurse to buy her something she might need.

After two weeks I received a letter saying, "Dear —: I had so many flowers they had to be distributed to other patients on the floor. I'll never get through all the books I received. Couldn't think of a thing I needed so I'm returning your check." I felt insulted. Your opinion is wanted. — Oxnard, Cal.

Dear Ox: Your gift was unimaginative and tasteless. Her response was boorish and crude. I'd say you're even.

Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

A FISHY FILM...

QUEBEC (CP) — A film commissioned by a fishing lodge operator in northern Quebec recently to publicize his lodge showed more than contented fishermen—it showed a couple boarding a Quebec government water bombing airplane after a day of fishing at the lake.

The incident came to light in the Quebec national assembly Wednesday when Liberal member Michel Page asked Transport Minister Lucien Lessard if he was aware that the huge government CL-215 water bomber had been used for a private fishing trip.

Lessard said he learned of the incident a day after it took place and had ordered an investigation into the use of the airplane for a trip to the fishing lodge operated by Leo Quenneville.

The minister said a pilot from the government's air service had flown to the lake aboard the lumbering two-engine airplane, normally used to fight forest fires, with a girl friend and another couple.

"There was no authorization," Lessard said, adding that the incident apparently was not the first.

The pilot has been suspended pending investigation, Lessard said, promising to report to the assembly later on what the flight cost the government.

Giguere trial halts momentarily

News Briefs

Dief sparked obscenity uproar

OTTAWA (CP) — Former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker caused an uproar in the Commons Wednesday when he suggested Prime Minister Trudeau used a vulgarly Tuesday, although the Commons record said the word was "bunk."

Commons Speaker James Jerome ruled that MPs had to accept the word of the Prime Minister that he did not use a vulgarly during an exchange with Diefenbaker. "The word I used is bunk; the word I think I should have used is bunk," Trudeau said in the noisy chamber.

U.S. to back Cuba charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, facing Fidel Castro's repeated denials that he abetted the Katangan invasion of Zaire, is outlining secret intelligence reports to back up its charge that Cuban troops accompanied the rebels almost to the moment of the attack.

The release of the summary of the highly-classified reports came as President Carter reiterated his charge at a news conference Wednesday that the Cubans were deeply involved in the rebel invasion of copper-rich Shaba province last month.

Hatfield qualifies comments

FREDERICTON (CP) — Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick said Wednesday that he did tell reporters he wanted blood from separatists in Quebec but he did not mean it.

Hatfield, home after a meeting in Whitefield, N.H., for eastern premiers and New England governors, said he felt that a news story from Whitefield should have pointed out that his tough talk about separatism was jocular.

The premier was quoted as saying that he wanted to destroy separatists—"I want blood."
 The story also said the premier was disappointed to see separatism on the wane in Quebec because he wanted to continue the fight for a unified Canada.

Radioactive elements traced

OTTAWA (CP) — The main source of three radioactive elements in the St. Lawrence River is residual fallout from global nuclear weapons testing and not from a nuclear power station at Gentilly, Que., says a report by the federal radiation protection bureau.

A brief to the Canadian Nuclear Association Wednesday also said the levels of strontium-89, strontium-90 and cesium-137 were extremely low and of no risk to human health.

Seal hunt fell short

VANCOUVER (CP) — Patrick Moore, president of the Greenpeace Foundation, said this year's harp seal hunt off Canada's East Coast fell short of its quota of 170,000 animals by more than 20,000 because there were not enough harp seals in the area.

A spokesman for the federal fisheries service said in Ottawa that unusually thick ice hampered the hunt. Canadian and Norwegian fishermen took 149,578 harp seals.

Pensioners increase two per cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Pensioners will receive a two-per-cent increase in monthly payments beginning next month, Health Minister Monique Bégin announced Tuesday.

The increase complies with stipulations in the Old Age Security Act to raise old age security pensions and guaranteed income supplement payments every three months when the cost of living increases.

The basic old age security pension will rise to $159.79 from $156.66.

B.C. sniper sought

BURNABY, B.C. (CP) — Police were searching for a sniper who gunned down two women within an hour Wednesday at a street corner on the Vancouver-Burnaby boundary.

Details of the incident were not clear, but police said a middle-aged woman was shot in the back while standing at a bus stop at Boundary Road and East Hastings.

Police were investigating when a report came in of a more serious shooting of an 18-year-old girl walking through the area. She was later reported in serious but stable condition in hospital. The older woman was treated and released.

Rape sentence reduction urged

OTTAWA (CP) — The Advisory Council on the Status of Women wants proposed sentences for rape convictions reduced, not increased, the council said Wednesday.

In recommendations to the federal government released at the council's annual conference, it said it feared heavy sentences would be a deterrent to courts finding accused rapists guilty.

The government proposes to remove rape from the Criminal Code and replaced with indecent assault with a maximum 14-year sentence or aggravated indecent assault with a maximum life sentence on conviction.

Opposition battles Treu decision

OTTAWA (CP) — If the government could order a new trial in 1976 for Dr. Henry Morgentaler, it now can order a new trial for Alexander Peter Treu, Opposition MP's argued Wednesday.

They cited the court battles of Morgentaler, prosecuted on charges of performing illegal abortions, as they continued demands in the Commons for a new trial for Treu. Treu was convicted last month during a secret trial of violating the Official Secrets Act.

Canoeing victims returned

VILLE MARIE, Que. (CP) — Three funeral coaches were sent to this community from Toronto on Wednesday to return the bodies of 13 victims who drowned Sunday in a canoeing accident on Lake Timiskaming.

John Doney, who is co-ordinating arrangements for the victims with nine funeral homes, said funerals for the 12 students and an instructor from St. John's School of Ontario will be held at various times and locations in the Metropolitan Toronto area on Friday and Saturday. A memorial service for the members of the private boys' school in Claremont, about 35 kilometres northeast of Toronto, will be held 11 a.m. EDT Friday at an Anglican church in west-end Toronto.

The survivors of the trip, including 15 students and three leaders, gave written statements for use at a coroner's inquest before returning home Wednesday.

An inquest into the deaths, which occurred in the north-western Quebec lake after a storm tipped three of four 22-foot canoes, will be held within four weeks.

Lebanon: Franjeh buries son

ZAGHARTA, Lebanon (AP) — Former president Suleiman Franjeh, backed by 20,000 mourners, buried his slain son Wednesday in this northern town after vowing "revenge in our traditional style and at the proper time" against rival Christians. Syrian troops covered the north to head off a vendetta.

In Beirut, the crisis plagued government of President Elias Sarkis faced possible problems on its southern flank, where Israeli troops ended a 91-day occupation Tuesday and turned the border region over to rightist Christian forces instead of UN peacekeeping forces.

Rooney trial postponed

OTTAWA (CP) — The trial of Liberal MP David Rooney and his wife Ruth on assault charges has been postponed until Oct. 5.

Rooney (Bonavista-TrinityConception) and his wife were charged with assaulting and damaging the property of a freelance photographer in February during a scuffle outside the couple's Ottawa apartment building.

No reason was given for the postponement. Rooney had been the target of reporters and photographers after the RCMP had laid charges against him under Section 108 of the Criminal Code.

Censorship 'paternalistic'

OTTAWA (CP) — Censorship of obscenity is paternalistic, undemocratic and cannot be justified solely because it degrades women, says a report commissioned by the Advisory Council on the Status of Women released today.

"As a general principle, one has to assume that adults are capable of determining what they find distasteful and unacceptable and will not expose themselves to things which they find offensive," the report said.

The report calls for reconsideration of proposed government legislation that would broaden the definition of obscenity, outlaw child pornography and toughen soliciting laws to control prostitution.

Women protest stereotype ads

OTTAWA (CP) — The Advisory Council on the Status of Women was urged Wednesday to launch a campaign against advertising which portrays women as witless fools, men-trapping sex objects or cleanliness fanatics.

Tom Whipple, co-author of a council-commissioned report called Canadian Perspectives on Sex Stereotyping in Advertising, called for a campaign in schools, advertising agencies, the manufacturing industry and government to eliminate sexism in advertising.

The report by Whipple and Alice Courtney, University of Toronto professors, recommends government screening of advertisements to eliminate sexism only as a last resort. They said self-regulation by advertisers would be better.

PM proposes joint referendum

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Wednesday he would like to have a joint referendum with Quebec Premier René Lévesque on the province's future in Confederation.

The suggestion was made to Trudeau by a caller to an openline radio program on RadioCanada, the French-language arm of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

"It's a very good idea," Trudeau said to the caller, who was identified only as Mr. Leblanc of St. Leonard, a suburban community of Montreal. "I think that proposition is excellent."

Radio wave caused Nfld. boom

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A loud boom April 2 that blew apart a shed and knocked out electrical power to some houses on Bell Island 15 kilometres north of here has been attributed to a radio wave from the Soviet Union, an Ottawa scientist says.

An experimental radio wave of Extremely Low Frequency (ELF) probably interacted with an iron-ore body on Bell Island, says a report prepared by the Planetary Association for Clean Energy of Ottawa.

Association director Andrew Michrowski said in a telephone interview from Ottawa on Wednesday that the Russians have been experimenting since 1976 with transmission on ELF waves which have a strength of up to 40 million watts.

Head office language ruling...

TORONTO (CP) — Regulations for the use of French in head offices in Quebec should be issued within days and will not cause any ripples in the business community, Raymond Gosselin, president of the Office de la Langue Française, said Wednesday.

"Knowing what's in those regulations, I can state that no headquarters of companies or research centres will be forced to leave Quebec because of these regulations," Gosselin said in an interview.

Officials of the office are meeting local businessmen for two days to explain how Quebec's language legislation will affect them.

Marchand sues newspapers

MONTREAL (CP) — Senator Jean Marchand has filed two $100,000 libel suits here against the Montreal Star Ltd. and Le Journal de Montreal, claiming in his action that both newspapers implicated him through "malicious interpretations" of testimony at the dredging contracts trial in Toronto last March.

Marchand alleged in his Superior Court action Wednesday that both papers published stories March 14 which contained falsehoods and suggested he was guilty of a criminal act.

"Political analyst" post clarified

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier René Lévesque shed some light Wednesday on the new post of "political analyst" which appeared on cabinet staff lists in March.

The analysts, attached to individual cabinet ministers, are responsible for evaluating the political implications of government plans and actions, Lévesque told a legislature committee.

One such analyst said privately that the job consists in gauging the possible effects of government measures on the independence referendum, expected to take place in 1979.

Andras urges federal restraint

OTTAWA (CP) — Treasury board president Robert Andras said Wednesday he would like to see federal spending drop much faster than he has been able to manage under the government restraint program.

Andras told the Commons his inclination is to cut government spending more rapidly than the gradual reduction now underway. But this was impossible without depriving either the provinces or the under-privileged of needed benefits.

Legion needs youthful efforts

EDMONTON (CP) — The future of the Royal Canadian Legion will depend largely on the efforts of its younger members, its new president said Wednesday.

Ed Coley of Calgary said in an interview following his election that the aging organization needs a balance of old and new members. Most of the Legion's 420,000 members are Second World War veterans.

Ste. Foy taxes highest

MONTREAL (CP) — Homeowners in the Quebec City suburb of Ste. Foy pay among the highest property taxes in Canada, says a property tax survey conducted by the Royal Trust Co.

In its first edition of a new publication on real estate, Royal Trust says the average tax on a detached, three-bedroom bungalow with a full basement and garage is $1,420 in Ste. Foy.

Of the 85 cities surveyed, residents of St. John's, Nfld., paid the lowest tax, about $390, for a similar home.

The owner of a similar bungalow in the Montreal suburb of Pierrefonds pays about $1,200 annually—the highest rate in the area.

Blue Bombers roll to 23-14 victory

Rookie quarterbacks got a workout in Winnipeg while veteran passers controlled the play at Hamilton in Canadian Football League pre-season action Wednesday night.

At Winnipeg, the Blue Bombers rolled to a 23-14 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders before a pre-season record crowd of 22,527.

Both teams took long looks at their backup quarterbacks, and the Bombers came out ahead with Harry Knight and University of Manitoba graduate Bud Harden throwing touchdown strikes to complement one in the fourth quarter by veteran Ralph Brock.

Saskatchewan also made use of newcomers Ken Washington and Larry Dick to back up Ron Lancaster. Their efforts were less spectacular, although Washington completed a 62-yard drive with a four-yard touchdown plunge early in the fourth quarter. At Hamilton, veteran quarterbacks Tom Clements and Condredge Holloway combined to lead Ottawa Roughriders to a come-from-behind 24-16 win over the Tiger-Cats who had made an impressive start with veteran quarterback Jimmy Jones.

The Blue Bombers controlled most of the play in the first half and had numerous scoring opportunities but managed just two singles on wide field goal attempts by Bernie Ruoff. Late in the half, however, Archie Gray caught a 39-yard touchdown pass from Knight.

Saskatchewan rallied in the second half when Harold Woods took a deep kickoff straight up the middle for a 100-yard touchdown run.

Mark McDonald caught a 10-yard pass from Harden for another Winnipeg score and Mike Holmes got the final Winnipeg touchdown on a pass from Brock in the fourth quarter. The Winnipeg quarterbacks combined to complete 19 of 34 pass attempts for 288 yards, while Saskatchewan completed 19 of 36 for 196 yards.

At Hamilton, Jones completed five of six passes in the first quarter to help put the Ticats in front 11-0. A 61-yard scoring drive led by Jones ended with a touchdown by fullback Bill Harrison.

A crowd of 21,414 saw the Ticats fall behind in the second quarter when wide receiver Jeff Avery caught a 27-yard touchdown pass from Holloway and Ottawa's Richard Holmes plunged four yards for another score.

Wide receiver Larry Nelson caught a seven-yard toss from Clements in the fourth quarter to cap the Ottawa victory.

Kicker John Hay provided three converts and a fourth-quarter field goal for the Riders. Hamilton kicker Nick Jambrosic kicked a convert, two field goals and two singles and punter Ken Clark chipped in with a single.

Jones was replaced by Tom Shuman in the second half and the pair combined for a total of 250 yards in passing offence.

Holloway, Ottawa's leading rusher in the game with 48 yards on eight carries, and Clements combined for 186 passing yards on 18 completions.

Jimmy Edwards, Hamilton's all-star running back, was used sparingly and then limped off the field with a twisted ankle late in the game. Edwards said after the game that it was not a serious injury.

The CFL exhibition schedule continues Saturday with Toronto Argonauts visiting Edmonton Eskimos and Hamilton is at Saskatchewan on Sunday.

BUENOS AIRES (Reuter) — The Netherlands and Brazil, written off after stuttering through their first-round soccer groups, are back in the hunt for the World Cup.
The highlights of Wednesday's opening matches in the second round were the Netherlands' 5-1 win over Austria and Brazil's 3-0 triumph against Peru.
Argentina kept up its momentum by beating Poland 2-0 while the crucial Group A encounter between defending champion West Germany and Italy ended in a scoreless draw.

Boxing brawl condemned

HALIFAX (CP) — There is no way that a fight between two of Canada's best-known boxing managers at a Canadian welterweight boxing championship here Tuesday can be condoned, Buddy Daye, vice-chairman of the Halifax Athletic Commission, said Wednesday night.

"But, looking at it the other way, it's not a choirboy's sport," Daye said in an interview concerning a fight between Irv Ungerman of Toronto and Roger Larivee of Montreal moments after Clyde Gray beat Guerro Chavez for the title.

Ungerman is Gray's manager while Larivee handles Chavez.

"These are professional people and they should have contained their emotions," said Daye, who is also a member of the Canadian Professional Boxing Federation. "I went into their dressing rooms after the incident and took statements from both of them. "They both felt it was unfortunate and they seemed remorseful."

Both Ungerman and Larivee emerged from their fight with blood dripping from their faces. Ungerman from the mouth and Larivee from the nose.

Max Kedin, Gray's trainer, was later assaulted in the ring by a spectator who had originally attacked Ungerman. The man was later led from the ring by police.

"In cases like this the trainer becomes overly protective because he's looking at his next payday and he doesn't want anything to happen to his fighter," Daye said.

City police were eventually called into the ring to quell the disturbance that followed the confrontation between the two managers.

BARONS FRANCHISE ENDS

MONTREAL (CP) — The struggle Cleveland Barons maintained to exist in the National Hockey League is over — the franchise officially expired Wednesday night.

And while the owners of the Barons, George and Gordon Gund, will stay in hockey as partners with the management of the current Minnesota North Stars, the Cleveland franchise, which began as California Seals, in 1967 is dead.

The Minnesota-Cleveland merger was the only important matter to come out of Wednesday's sessions. The NHL also honored its individual award winners and all-star teams.

But the announcement by NHL president John Ziegler, after a day-long meeting, was what everyone was waiting for.

"We are pleased to be able to announce that the Cleveland Barons and the Minnesota North Stars have reached an agreement to combine their teams," Ziegler said.

"The team will be located in Minneapolis. Under this combination, there is to be a special draft of players. This will be conducted tomorrow morning prior to the amateur draft.

PROTECTED PLAYERS
"In this special draft, the new Minnesota North Stars will be permitted to protect 10 players plus two goaltenders from the combined present reserved list of two teams."

Among the players available in today's special draft were defencemen Bob Stewart and Jim Neilson from Cleveland and Tom Reid from Minnesota.

Some of the forwards up for grabs are Minnesota's Steve Jensen as well as Jean-Paul Parise, Dave Gardner, Fred Ahern and Kris Manery of the Barons.

"After the draft the remaining players become the responsibility and obligation of the new Minnesota North Stars," Ziegler said.

Jack Evans, who coached the Barons this year and lived through other nightmares with the franchise, would not indicate what his future held.

"This came as a total surprise," said Evans. "We thought with the Gundts taking over in Cleveland we were through all of these worries. It sprung out in the papers last week. It was the first inkling we had."

The Seals, once owned by Charlie Finley, the renowned proprietor of baseball's Oakland A's, had come close to folding before and so had the Barons in their short two-year stay in Cleveland.

ORIOLES TAKE 13TH WIN

Streaking may not be popular elsewhere these days but it is the going craze in American League baseball.

Actually, the streaking by the Baltimore Orioles, Milwaukee Brewers, Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox, along with several individual players, has been done fully clothed and with the approval of everybody in the league except their opponents.

The Orioles remained unbeaten in June by taking their 13th straight game and 12th this month, a 5-2 decision over California Angels Wednesday with Jim Palmer winning his sixth in a row. Palmer, 9-4, hasn't been scored on by anyone except the Angels since May 20 and has an 0.30 earned run average since then.

"When you're going like this, you have got to be doing something right," said the three-time Cy Young Award winner, who saw his shutout bid end in the seventh inning when Carlos Lopez misplayed a ball in centre field, leading to two runs, one earned. "But you also need the breaks and support from the other guys."

The Orioles have gained just 3½ games on first-place Boston in the AL East. The Red Sox increased their latest streak to six with a 9-0 win over Oakland A's, while Milwaukee made it eight in a row with a doubleheader sweep over Toronto Blue Jays 7-5 and 5-0, and the White Sox won for the fourth straight time and the 16th in 18 outings with a 4-1 decision over Texas Rangers.

Elsewhere, Seattle Mariners lost their seventh in a row, 11-9 to New York Yankees; Cleveland Indians pitcher David Clyde saw his four-game win string snapped by Minnesota, 8-2, and Kansas City beat Detroit Tigers 7-1 to edge into first place in the AL West.

Red Sox 9 A's 0
Oakland's winless stretch reached seven as the A's slipped from the top in the West. The Red Sox used Luis Tiant's four-hitter and homers by Jim Rice and Carl Yastrzemski to capture their 16th victory in the last 20 games.

Brewers 7-5 Blue Jays 5-0
Milwaukee swept Toronto with Gorman Thomas hitting his 14th homer of the year to highlight the Brewers' opening-game victory and Sixto Lezcano getting three hits to back the shutout pitching of Jerry Augustine and Randy Stein in the nightcap as Toronto lost its ninth straight.

Royals 7 Tigers 1
Paul Splittorff pitched a fourhitter and Amos Otis had a two-run homer to boost the Royals ahead of Oakland and into first place in the West.

LILLIE DUKE...
A LOYAL FAN

The newspaper is folded at the sports page and a baseball autographed by the Expos rests upon a color TV... not the most common sight you'd expect to find inside the room of a lady who is 83 years young.

But then, Lillie Duke isn't an ordinary woman when it comes to following the fortunes of the Expos. During the past 10 years she's probably listened to more games than the ball club's stockholders and she can rattle off names with the aplomb of the most loyal supporter.

"I haven't missed too many of them," she admits from a senior citizens' residence in Cowansville. "There was only a few times when I was too sick to listen to the game."

The night before, as the Expos continued their western swing, the ball game had ended around 1 a.m. but Mrs. Duke was still around at the finish to mull over the 9-5 defeat.

"I can't get to sleep until it's over and besides, I have the transistor right beside my bed so all I do is prop myself up and listen to the game. I don't know if I'll make it through tonight's double-header, though. It starts at 9 o'clock, so maybe I'll just be able to listen to the first game."

A baseball fan since the time she used to join her brothers on the sandlot, the native American who moved to Canada 51 years ago, had her interest peak when the Expos were born in 1969. Though arthritis has thus far prevented her from attending a game in person, she catches the Wednesday night broadcasts and affectionately refers to the team as "my boys."

To commemorate her 80th birthday the Expos sent along a token of their appreciation by sending an official baseball encased in plastic containing the signature of each of her "boys."

"I think it's a shame they don't have more games on TV," she exclaims. "You get to know the boys when you see them on the screen. You know which one's going to hit and which one is headed for a strikeout. I told some friends of mine in the States that we could only get a game a week and they couldn't believe it."

Mrs. Duke reaches nimbly for a pad of paper she has on the dresser. On it she has scribbled the 9 p.m. starting time of the game that evening.

"You know, it made me so mad when they dropped that game last night. Especially after Tony Perez brought in those three runs in the first inning. I'm afraid we're starting to head to the bottom again. But even if they can stay in third place this year I'll be happy."

As the Expos slide in the standings, like any keen observer, she has pinpointed the symptoms.

"I think we finally have some good starters, after we never were able to pay for them in the past. Grimsley's pitching good ball. But now it's the bullpen. Every time they have to go to the bullpen the pitchers can't do the job."

"Earlier in the year, the Cuban pitcher, Tony Perez is it? - he was striking out quite a bit. Whenever I used to hear the name Tony Perez I would think 'homerun, homerun, but that hasn't happened too much this year. And Gary Carter is in a slump. His wife just had a baby girl so maybe he'll stop worrying and begin to hit."

"But that game last Friday night - the one where Larry Parish brought in four runs. I was never so nervous. Here they have a lead and it ends up 10-9. I said a prayer during that ninth inning."

"Steve Rogers is the unlucky one, though. He's pitched a lot of good games this year but he just never seems to win them."

"Look at this one on Monday," she continues, spying the headline in the morning newspaper. He lost 1-0 to the Giants because this guy Halicki gave up only one hit."

The newspaper is a daily companion for Mrs. Duke since she uses it to remain abreast of events that unfold in the major leagues.

"I need it to look at the averages and how the other teams are doing in the standings and what they did the night before," she explains. "I have a friend here at the residence who always gives me the sports section of the paper. She always says, 'Here's your old sports, Mrs. Duke'."

Few of the more than 60 residents of Le Chateau share Lillie's enthusiasm for baseball in spite of her suggestions that it's a wonderful way to pass the time.

"Oh, sometimes there's a few men who put the game on in the lobby but none of the women are interested. But whenever there's a game on you'll find me in my room because I don't want to miss any of them."

"When there's a late afternoon game and we go down to the dining room for supper I eat as quickly as I can so I can get back and hear the game."

Fortunately, Mrs. Duke can exchange baseball chatter with family members living in town. Her son, Bill Sr., a chartered accountant, follows the game closely and so does her grandson, Bill Jr.

"Sometimes I'm reluctant to leave the residence when they pick me up during the middle of a game," relates the senior supporter. "But then my son tells me that I can listen to the game when we get to his home. 'Some people like the opera. I happen to like baseball.'"

Another staunch baseball fan locally - Merritt Clifton - has rolled his Brigham printing press to turn out A Baseball Classic, a semi-fictional novella of life in the baseball boondocks. Whether you're a budding star in the industrial softball league or a casual follower of the "summer game" it's a worthwhile read.

Sale price of the novella is $2.50 and cheques can be made payable to SAMISDAT, P.O. Box 10, Brigham, JOE 1J0.

Moffitt bails out Blue, saves Giants

When Vida Blue was pitching for the depleted Oakland A's in recent years, the running wisecrack was usually: "Blue, then who?" Now that he's pitching for San Francisco Giants these days, nobody asks such questions.

The Giants have one of the best staffs in baseball and those infrequent times when Blue is in hot water, there's usually someone efficient like Randy Moffitt to bail him out, as was the case Wednesday.

"That was a super job, just beautiful," said Blue after the Giants' ace relief pitcher preserved a 2-1 victory for the Giants over Philadelphia Phillies.

Blue was aiming for his first National League shutout before running into trouble in the ninth. Pinch-hitter Dave Johnson doubled and scored on Jerry Martin's single and after Martin was moved to second base on a sacrifice, Moffitt came into the game.

Moffitt struck out Mike

Schmidt and Greg Luzinski on a total of seven pitches.

PADRES SWEEP EXPOS

In other National League games, Cincinnati Reds defeated Chicago Cubs 3-1. Los Angeles Dodgers beat New York Mets 5-3. Pittsburgh Pirates beat Houston Astros 6-4. Atlanta Braves defeated St. Louis Cardinals 7-1 and San Diego Padres took a doubleheader from Montreal Expos 6-2 and 1-0.

The Phillies were unable to get a runner past first base until the ninth against Blue. The left-hander walked one batter, the first one he faced, and struck out two.

Phillies starter Larry Christenson pitched a four-inning, with three of the hits coming in the first inning when the Giants scored their runs.

Padres 6-1 Expos 2-0

Gene Tenace knocked in two runs and Dave Winfield hit a solo homer to pace San Diego's first-game victory over Montreal. Eric Rasmussen pitched 6 1-3 innings to gain the victory while John D'Acquisto finished up for his third save of the year.

The Padres completed a sweep in the nightcap behind Gaylord Perry's four-hitter and Winfield's RBI single.

Padres sweep Expos

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dave Winfield collected four hits, including his 11th home run of the season, to lead San Diego Padres to a 6-2, 1-0 sweep of a National League baseball doubleheader Wednesday night over Montreal Expos.

Winfield, who homered and singled in the opener, singled twice and drove in the only run in the nightcap while veteran right-hander Gaylord Perry blanked the Expos with a fourhitter.

Perry struck out five and didn't walk a man while improving his record to 6-2 with his second complete game of the season. Southpaw Woody Fryman, 2-5, absorbed the loss.

The Padres picked up the only run Perry needed in the fourth inning when Ozzie Smith and Gene Tenace led off with walks and Winfield followed with a line single to left to score Smith.

Never in serious trouble, Perry coasted to the 49th shutout of his long career.

He's recorded 22 in the National League to go with his 27 during his American League days.

In the opener, right-hander Eric Rasmussen combined with John D'Acquisto to stop the Expos on eight hits. Rasmussen picked up his first victory as a member of the Padres to improve his record to 3-7 while D'Acquisto blanked the Expos over the final 2-3 innings to record his third save.
