

NINETIETH YEAR-

Splendid Address Given By Mrs. J. H. Miller, United Church

Interesting Account of Her Travels in England, Scotland and France

At a combined meeting of the W.M. and Evening Auxiliary of the United Church held on Wednesday a very well attended gathering heard Mrs. J. H. Miller, of Kingston, tell of her year abroad while visiting Scotland, England and France.

Mrs. Miller, who was well known to many in Huntingdon as the wife of the late Rev. Miller, a former minister of the United Church, who accompanied her in Paris. She started for a year abroad in England and of the lovely garden in the average English family has even if it is only a small patch in front of their home or at the back.

Hyde Park one Sunday afternoon proved quite interesting, when there was the regular soap box race and next the Salvation Army, while a little farther on a Catholic service was being held and close by two negroes were holding meetings. One was preaching the faith while the other almost next door who was an agnostic was giving his views.

Visits were made to Madame Tussaud's, the zoo and watching the Changing of the Guard as well as to Westminster Abbey where as everywhere else signs were seen of preparations for the coronation. At Canterbury, the Millers occupied a room just opposite to the one where Charles Dickens wrote his famous David Copperfield.

One impressive service Mrs. Miller attended was the Marine Service in St. Paul's. It was a pageantry attended by the Lord Mayor of London arrayed in all his robes and followed by his attendants. There were thirteen different flags of the Navy hanging around the chancel. Mrs. Miller was told that the dome of St. Paul's was a morale builder of the people of the East End of London during the war. When every building around was flat on the ground as long as St. Paul's could be seen, the people kept their spirits up.

In France the beautiful gardens of Luxembourg were visited. No cars are allowed in the garden and children by the hundreds play on the grass and around the many fountains.

A visit to the first church built in Paris by the Jesuits was made where one can sit and listen to the most beautiful music one could wish to hear. Another beautiful chapel was the one Louis XII, most religious king of France built when a Canadian first came to the place to place the Crown of Thorns and a Splinter from the Cross which he bought. The windows along one side of this chapel tell the story of the Old Testament while on the other side the New Testament is told. This chapel is open to the public during Easter week only when the relics may be seen.

One of the many interesting stories Mrs. Miller told of the war was about a farm at which she was staying where the woman kept a Canadian airman six months while a German officer was also stationed in the house and the Gestapo searched the house three different times before the boy was able to escape. During one day alone in this district 2,500 bombs fell besides all the other hardships. The meeting was opened with prayer led by Miss Lily Pringle followed by everyone singing hymn 261 and a scripture reading by Mrs. James McCoy.

Youth Wants Peace Dr. Percival Tells Home, School Meet

With 7,200,000 members, the Home and School and Parent-Teacher movement is "much the largest of all the voluntary agencies established for the good of the people," Dr. W. P. Percival told the opening session of an international conference at Michigan State College November 18th.

Welcoming delegates from 13 countries as Canadian chairman for the conference, Dr. Percival said that what youth wants today is to know that "he will not have three quarters of his thoughts and energies expended on self protection and the defence of his country. He wants peace to abound and the nations of the world to settle down to harmonious living."

He outlined the main problems which would have to be faced by children—in curricula, in buildings, in teachers, in books—will be the main theme.

He thanked the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, the American organization, for taking up the idea of a conference "in a spirited manner" when it was suggested by the Canadians, and for "putting into it a sum of money that made the project possible."

Dr. Percival said that the main theme of the conference was to bring peace and unity to the world. He said that the main theme of the conference was to bring peace and unity to the world.

President-elect Eisenhower Chooses Cabinet Ministers

South Korea Bases Hopes on Eisenhower to Bring Peace and Unity to Korea

President-elect Dwight Eisenhower in choosing the first five of his cabinet ministers at Washington selected none of the names that are believed to have been submitted some time ago by Senator Robert Taft, leader of the Republican party's "Old Guard" and Eisenhower's chief opponent for the Republican nomination.

Eisenhower's choice of some former aides of Governor Thomas Dewey of New York prompted speculation that Taft would seek the Republican leadership in the Senate. There Taft would have a personal hand daily in the legislation.

The cabinet selections to date are as follows: Defence secretary: Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors. State secretary: John Foster Dulles, foreign affairs expert who drafted the Japanese peace treaty.

Attorney-General: Herbert Brownell Jr., a key adviser to the Dewey administration in New York. Secretary of the Interior: Governor Douglas McKay of Oregon. Treasury: George E. Humphrey, Cleveland industrialist.

Outside the cabinet, but still a key-post, the Mutual Security Agency goes to Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota. Eisenhower does not take over the presidency until Jan. 20 but his organizational labors started when his election was assured on Nov. 4.

Another step in the change-over from the Democratic to the Republican administration was disclosed in a White House announcement that Eisenhower has been given three volumes of top-secret information on the U.S. policy.

These volumes, up-to-the-minute handbooks that are constantly being revised for the president's use. The transfer of this information was described as part of President Truman's plan for a smooth transition of the reins of government.

Huntingdon Realities Limited to Disband

On Friday evening, a meeting of the shareholders of Huntingdon Realities Limited was held in the County Building. Over the years this company has done much toward making it possible to have industrial firms establish themselves in Huntingdon. At the present time there are two properties available in Huntingdon for industrial purposes. As the Realty Company has served its intended purpose, the shareholders voted to disband the company. The shareholders will be paid off as soon as the company knows exactly what its assets aggregate. It is expected that the shareholders will receive a little more money than they invested when the company was established back in the 1930's.

Basic Driving Rules Reduce Winter Death, Accident Tolls

Six basic rules for safe winter driving which could—if observed—sharply reduce high death and accident tolls have been given full approval by the Montreal Police Department.

The rules are: 1. Get the feel of the road. Try brakes now and then while away from other traffic and driving slowly, to find out how slippery the road is. 2. Slow down. Adjust speed to road and weather conditions so that you can stop or manoeuvre safely. 3. Keep windshield clear. Danger must be seen to be avoided, so be sure headlights, windshield wipers and defrosters are in top-notch condition. 4. Use tire chains on snow and ice. Stopping distance is cut in half with them and hill-climbing traction increased four to seven times. Even with chains, lower speeds than normal are a must on snow and ice.

5. Pump your brakes to stop or slow down. Jamming them on can lock the wheels and throw the car into a skid. 6. Follow at a safe distance. Keep well back of the car ahead of you so there is room to stop. Without tire chains, it takes three to 12 times as far to stop on snow and ice as on dry concrete. It was discovered during the council's research synthetic tires wear better and have other advantages but on ice and snow they skid farther and have poorer traction than natural rubber. Special winter tires do give improved traction but cannot compare to tire chains, the best self-help to the driver that reduces braking distances on both snow and ice to about half. Council's tests were carried out on frozen lakes and roads near Clintonville, Wis., and further tests will be held this year.

Size of Newfoundland Families Is Now Greater Than Quebec

The breadwinners of more than 160,000 wage-earning families reported earnings in 1951 of less than $1,000 a year. In contrast, the heads of 41,000 families showed annual wages of more than $6,000.

These and other facts about family life in Canada were outlined recently in a Bureau of Statistics analysis based on last year's decennial census. The analysis showed: 1. A trend towards smaller families in Canada. 2. A boost of almost 700,000 in the number of Canadian families during the last 10 years. 3. Newfoundland's families are larger than those in Quebec, long the home of Canada's largest families.

The Bureau estimated that in 10 years, the number of families in Canada jumped to 3,207,000 from 2,525,000 in 1941, when the last decennial census was taken. In that period the size of the average family dropped to 3.7 persons from 3.9. The decline showed up in every province except Newfoundland. Analysts suggested one reason for the drop was the large number of postwar marriages. A large number of families had barely time to get a good start before the 1951 census. Quebec, which had an average family of 4.5 persons in 1941, the largest of any province, stepped back into second place with 4.2 persons. The province gave way to Newfoundland which reported an average family of 4.4 persons, unchanged from the previous census. Size of the average family in Ontario dropped to 3.4 persons from 3.6; Manitoba, to 3.6 from 3.8; Saskatchewan, to 3.7 from 4.1; Alberta, to 3.7 from 3.9; British Columbia, 3.3 from 3.4; Prince Edward Island, 4 from 4.2; Nova Scotia, 3.9 from 4; New Brunswick, 4.1 from 4.3.

Increased Installation of Electrical Appliances

Looking to Future Larger Service Entrances Should Be Installed

Domestic electrical appliances are increasing so rapidly in number that it is short-sighted now to install in homes and farms electrical service entrances of only 60-ampere capacity, said Georges Lecointe, regional president of the Corporation of Electrical Contractors of the Province of Quebec, last week at Valleyfield.

Mr. Lecointe was addressing the banquet that closed the six-month campaign conducted this year by Shawinigan Water and Power Company and electrical appliance dealers in the area, in a joint effort to facilitate the acquisition by families of electric ranges and hot water heaters. During the year, the sales of these appliances in the district have been doubled.

Mr. Lecointe recommended greater use of 100-ampere service entrances for homes and 200-ampere entrances for farms. Otherwise, he added, the 60 ampere service entrances now being installed to supply present needs will require replacement within 10 years.

During the banquet, nine prizes were presented to the dealers who had been the most successful during the campaign. They were Leduc & Noreau, Cadieux & Fils, Plante and Clermont, Marchand Freres Lee, Shiray Furniture Store, Electrical Home Limited, A. H. Bessner Lee, and J. Masse, all of Valleyfield, and the Via Garage of St. Remi.

B. of M. Report Reflects Canada's Industrial Growth

Annual Statement Just Published Features Record Figures For Deposits, Etc.

Reflecting the swift rate of Canada's industrial growth, the Bank of Montreal's 135th annual statement, just published, features record figures for deposits, loans and total resources. Most notable of these are deposits of $2,147,900,000 — the highest total in the B. of M.'s long history. These deposits comprise the funds of more than 1,900,000 customers from coast to coast.

"Fully half these deposits are made up of the savings of private citizens," was the comment which W. Kenneth Pope, the local branch manager, made in a message issued today by the B. of M. in reviewing for its customers the highlights of its annual statement.

The report which, is for the year ended October 31, shows an increase in loans of $65,811,000 over the 1951 figure. This brings total loans up to the highest record in the bank's history — $712,179,846. These loans, the message from the manager states, were made "... to business and industrial enterprises for production of every kind — to farmers, fishermen, oil men, lumbermen and ranchers — to citizens of every calling, and to provincial and municipal governments and school districts."

Huntingdon Curling Season Opens

Informal Gathering Marks Start of Activities

Although the ice has been prepared for some time, Saturday was the official opening of the Huntingdon Curling Club for the 1952-53 season. In the afternoon and evening approximately 60, consisting of old members and a few new ones, attended the opening. A buffet supper was served by the ladies of the Club and friendly mixed games followed. The official opening this year was very informal and there were no visitors attending. The first Bonspiel of the Huntingdon Club will take place this year as it has annually for the past number of years, during the week between Christmas and New Years. The Huntingdon Club expects an entry of approximately 50 or more rinks in this mixed Bonspiel.

Tournament play got under way on Monday for the Bank of Montreal Trophy. Competition will be completed in two weeks time with 23 teams each competing in four games.

Importation of Scottish Livestock

Ottawa — It is announced by the Health of Animals Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, that Scottish cattle which have been in quarantine in Northern Ireland for a period of 60 days may now be imported into Canada direct from Northern Ireland ports. Such cattle are subject to a further 30 day period of detention in a Canadian Quarantine Station, subject to the Regulations made under authority of the Animal Contagious Diseases Act.

This arrangement is effective as from 15th November 1952.

PROUD COMMUNITY

STAVELY, Alta., (CP) — This southern Alberta town may have only 327 population. But it has a quickly available assets, which total $1,552,000,000, equivalent to 70 per cent of liabilities to the public. Total resources have also reached an all-time high, at $2,286,477,930 — an increase of close to $65,000,000 over the 1951 year-end figure.

Round Byre ^AND Ring

By Frank Napier

It is a moot point as to which of the four leading dairy breeds had the greatest number of animals forward at the 1952 Royal Winter Fair. Originally the Jersey breed had the total entry of some 357 head in the individual classes. However, some 35 head were dropped and so it has been estimated that the Jersey's forward in the individual classes numbered around 300 head. The Ayrshires started with an entry of 394 head but as in the case of the Jerseys, a number of the entries were not forward. However, the claim was made that over 300 Ayrshires were on parade. Some 200 head of Holsteins and 151 head of Guernseys were forward.

THE HOLSTEINS

As already reported the only Holstein entry from this district was that of W. K. McRae & Son, Howick, Que. That entry, Rockwood Canary Rocket by Houchholme Sovereign Sky Rocket, won second in the 2 year old bull class. Incidentally the first prize aged bull and the senior and grand male, Rockwood Rocket Tone, is also by Houchholme Sovereign Sky Rocket. The senior and grand champion female, Rockwood Beulah Pal Rockette is also by Houchholme Sky Rocket while a group by that sire won first in senior get of sire class. The Holstein classes were expertly placed by Durno Innes, Woodstock, Ont.

THE JERSEYS

Despite the large classes he had to place W. Elmo Ashton, Foster, Que., made a prompt, highly efficient judge of Jerseys. It was indeed a pleasure to watch him dispose of the various classes, almost with one might, say, clockwork precision. There were no entries from this district in the Jersey Section.

THE AYRSHIRES

As usual, the Ayrshire section was sensational, both as regards numbers and quality. However, while we are not criticizing the judge's final decisions, it was a rather long drawn-out job he made. Those alike to the leaders of the cattle and the spectators. Nevertheless when lined up the various classes looked very good indeed.

Last week we gave a list of the district winners in the Ayrshire bull classes. However at the time that report was compiled only a few of the female classes had been disposed.

In the junior heifer calf class with 34 entries, J. G. Wilson, St. Valentin, Que., won fifth on Alderwood Royal Judy. Ten and twelfth places in this class went to R. R. Ness & Sons, Howick, Que., on Burnside High Helena and Burnside Amour.

There were 38 entries in the senior heifer calf class in which J. G. Wilson won sixth place on Alderwood Favour. R. R. Ness & Sons won twelfth place on Burnside Fascination 6th.

The junior yearling heifer calf class, with 24 entries, was headed by Willowhaugh Park Here for J. H. Black, Lachute. That heifer was subsequently made the junior champion female. R. R. Ness & Sons won fifth and eleventh in this class with Burnside Friendship and Burnside Heatherbelle. J. G. Wilson won twelfth on Wynates Illustrous Snowflake.

Forty two senior yearling heifers were headed by Burnside Full Fashion 4th for R. R. Ness & Sons. That heifer was subsequently made the reserve junior female champion. R. R. Ness & Sons also won fourth on Burnside Platter. Terrace Bank Princess won fourth in the 2 year old heifer, dry, class of 27 entries for J. Earle Ness & Sons, Howick, Que.

R. R. Ness & Sons won second in the 3 year old, dry, class, with 27 entries on Carnell Ellalla 1st. The Also sixth in the class for cows 4 years old and over, dry, on Burnside Fascination 2nd.

Fifth place in the class for 2 year old heifers in milk went to R. R. Ness & Sons on Burnside White Feature. That firm also scored eighth in the 4 year old, in milk, class on Burnside Future Cheryl.

The next two cow in milk classes were headed by R. R. Ness & Sons' entries. In the 4 year old class their winner was Burnside Future Blossom 2nd, while their winner in the 5 year old or over class was Burnside Carnell Tulip. R. R. Ness & Sons also won fourth in the 4 year old class on Burnside Future Patricia.

When the first and second prize winners in the senior female classes lined-up for the senior female championship show in themselves. However, the grand cows in that line-up had to take their places below the two first prize two year olds, two as yet unproven individuals. It therefore was that J. H. Black, Willowhaugh Evergreen, first prize two year old, dry, won first the senior and then the grand award. Similarly, East Raws Apricot 5th (imp.) won the reserves in both instances for R. O. Biggs, Dundas, Ont. The latter having also won the first place in the two year old in milk class.

The Burnside herd of R. R. Ness & Sons also showed up very well in the group classes, their winnings in same being as follows:

Dairy Herd and Lessnessock Challenge Trophy—first.

Senior Get of Sire—second on get of Burnside Future Hope.

Junior Get of Sire—third, fourth and twelfth.

Breeders' Herd—second.

Graded Herd—first.

The Premier Breeder Award was won by Stansell Bros., Aylmer, Ont. with R. R. Ness & Sons as a close runner up. However, positions were reversed in the case of the Premier Exhibitor Award, with R. R. Ness & Sons, being the winner of same.

THE YORKSHIRES

As in the case of the cattle and other breeds, the Royal Winter Fair is the final round-up for Market (or Bacon) Hogs and Yorkshire Swine.

It is therefore interesting to note that Hooker Bros., Ormstown, Que., made a good showing in both the market and the purebred classes.

In a class of 16 entries of purebred Yorkshire barrows, bacon type, (180-210 lbs.) they won fourth prize. They also won second in the class for purebred, grade or cross-bred, barrow or sow, (180-210 lbs.).

Additional winnings by Hooker Bros. in that section were fourth and fifth prizes for pens of 3 barrows or sows of bacon type.

In the purebred Yorkshire section they won the following prizes:

Boar under 7 months (37 entries)—fourth.

Boar 7 to 9 months (20 entries)—2, Ranche King 63 G; 14, Ranche King 64 G.

Boar 24 months or over (11 entries)—1, on Nichol, J. 21D. The boar was also senior and grand champion male.

In the female section Hooker

PERSONAL APPEARANCE

The famous Bowers Boys Hunts (Satch) Hall and Gabriel (Gabe) Dell, will appear in person on the stage at Schine's Theatre, Malone, N.Y., on Saturday, November 29th, along with three other big acts.

Bros. won the following awards:

Sow, under 9 months (38 entries)—9 and 16.

Sow, 9 to 9 months (29 entries)—7 and 19.

Sow, 24 months or over (16 entries)—6, on Ranch Queen 60E.

SALES OF THE STARS

Each night of the Royal week Hays Farms Ltd., staged one of their Sales of the Stars, that for Ayrshires being held on Tuesday, November 18. Frankly it was a rather spotty sale, with a lot of real tops and few that were not quite so good. That is of the calibre which one would expect at a Royal Star Sale. Similarly a number of the real tops did not reach the prices one would naturally expect for such animals. It therefore was that the general average of the sale was only $440.00. However, the general average price of the 5 bulls was $882.00.

Topping the sale was Lindwood Improver's Brownie Boy at $1,500.00 to Macdonald College. That bull, consigned by Col. S. C. Oland, Bedford, N.S., had previously won the junior and reserve grand male championships. He is by Hobsland Improver (imp.) and from Howie's Brownie 10th (imp.), both of which animals were imported from Scotland by R. R. Ness & Sons. The next high bull was Barbary Lane Significant consigned by R. O. Biggs and purchased by Erskine McOuat, Brownsburg, Que. The selling price was $1,225.00.

Selwood Greta's, Commander consigned by Stansell Bros., went at $1,000.00 to Hamilton District Cattle Breeding Association.

Burnside Tradition consigned by R. R. Ness & Sons went quite cheaply at $385.

R. R. Ness & Sons had forward 4 females which were sold as follows:

Burnside Flash Girl at $700.00, to J. A. Terceura, Hamilton, Bermuda.

Burnside Achava consigned to Clement Beauchemin, Vercheres, Que.

Burnside Future Cheryl at $280 to John Mosher & Sons, Noyan, Que.

Burnside High Felena at $200 to Col. S. C. Oland, Bedford, N.S.

Alderwood Snowflake consigned by J. G. Wilson, Lacolle went at $375.00 to J. Earle Ness & Sons, Howick.

Alderday Aristocrat Annabell, consigned by Miss Sally Wilson, Lacolle, was purchased at $235.00 by R. R. Ness & Sons, Howick.

Terrace Bank Princess consigned by J. Earle Ness & Sons went to Eric Craddock, Aurora, Ont., at $375.00.

Chopped Versus Uncut Forages For Silage

Ottawa — Grasses and legumes may be ensiled for silage purposes either the chopped or uncut form. Such factors as farm equipment, labour for harvesting, tonnage harvested, and the type of silo available, will determine whether the crop will be chopped or unchopped, says W. E. Cordukes of the Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Long grass for silage may be handled in the field with the regular farm equipment such as mower with swathing attachment or mower and side-delivery rake, and a green crop loader. The silage sweep rake may also be used effectively for moving the crop short distances. Harvesting the crop by the former method requires considerable labour and becomes costly when large tonnages are involved. The sweep rake method requires only a good investment in silage equipment and will handle 1 1/2 to 2 tons per hour where the length of haul is less than one-third of a mile. Chopped silage may be obtained from two general methods of harvesting. The crop may be brought to the silo in the uncut form and then put through an ensilage cutter or it may be harvested initially, with the forage harvester. Where more than 200 tons of silage are required, the forage harvester method provides the lowest cost per ton for harvesting and the least amount of labour.

Uncut silage crops can only be stored in horizontal or pit silos, while the chopped crops may be ensiled in a number of silo types. Thus, type of silo is an important consideration, as the standard upright silo or the horizontal silo with constructed walls are more efficient storage houses than silage heaps built on the side of a hill or on top of the level ground. In addition, in filling operations, the chopped forages are easier to unload, spread and compact than the uncut crop.

Palatable nutritious silage can be produced from either chopped or unchopped forages. However, experimental results at the Experimental Farm clearly show that silage losses are greater for uncut silages. In addition, uncut silages are more difficult to remove from the silo for feeding than the chopped forages.

Two hymns were sung by them, giving much pleasure to their hearers, and their assistance in the general singing added greatly. Mrs. Mawhinney was the guest speaker for the occasion and alluded to their arrival in Canada a few years ago from Ireland, to their Mission Work there previously, and reminded her hearers of God's call to us as individuals, to the great power of Prayer, if used, and an apparent lack in this in our Country, and the necessity of Obedience to God's call, closing her remarks with earnest prayer for the Christian work in our communities. Mr. Mawhinney very graciously conducted largely the brief service and closed with the benediction. Lunch was then served by the hostess and assistants, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed, interspersed with hymn singing. Collection amounted to over $12.00.

Editorial Notes...

Two Parliamentary Sessions

At the present time there are two sittings of governmental bodies taking place that are of interest to all of us here. The one, of course, is the Quebec Legislative Assembly and the other is the Federal Parliament. It is expected that the Quebec Legislative Assembly will put through several pieces of outstanding legislation which will affect more than a few of us. One act that may come quite a little going over is that concerning the margarine question of sharing the fine with the informer. Already there has been a little comment on it and many a cartoon has been published. Several bodies have sent briefs to the government against the passing of such legislation.

The chief objection to this proposed legislation is not the actual banning of margarine, but the indicated attempt to have people inform upon one another for the sake of monetary gain. It provides an opportunity for people to spite one another and for the whole proceeding to be legal. One person knows another has margarine and has a grudge against that person, so decides to inform upon him or her as a way of gratifying the grudge. It is this part of the proposed legislation that has been the subject of many cartoons. The general opinion is that if the government wishes to institute a system of checking up on those in possession of margarine that it should be done through the regular channels of police work. It is quite possible too, that the act may be a little beyond the powers of the Province to enforce.

The much debated question insofar as the Federal government is concerned, is whether there will be any tax cuts. There is a feeling that taxes are generally too high and that some savings could be made in the government spending that would help to curtail the taxation. The officials of the government maintain that it is not possible to grant tax cuts on account of the defence program. Prime Minister St. Laurent says if production is increased then it may be possible to grant tax concessions. The tobacco companies are briefing the government in an attempt to have the tax cut on cigarettes so that they may retail for a price of 30 cents a package of twenty. They claim that since the last tax cut, more cigarettes have been sold and as a consequence the government has collected more in taxes than before the cut was made. Further claims are made that this will still further increase if the price is made as above.

The C.C.F. is agitating for health insurance for the nation as a further social measure. Officials of the government are of the opinion that any further implementation of social security measures will increase, rather than decrease taxation at this time. The more the government is called upon to do in this way, the greater will be the taxation burden to pay for it. Manufacturers and other company officials are of the opinion that the present high taxation is throttling the expansion of many businesses and this is a detriment to the country as a whole. On the other hand the consumer feels that he is paying much more than necessary for the things he buys, on account of the hidden taxes attached to the prices. A good deal of this is blamed on the manufacturer or producer, but in many cases when taxes are taken off, the price remaining is very reasonable. In this matter, candy manufacturers feel they could sell their products much cheaper if taxes were reduced. They feel that children, the main candy eaters, are being made to suffer. All of this has a tendency to cut down the volume of sales and the manufacturers feel that the cheaper goods would increase the volume of sales and this increase would still produce the taxes required. They are not wanting to avoid payment of taxes, they only want the taxes lowered to be able to sell at lower prices and so increase their production and sales volume.

Perhaps this is what Prime Minister St. Laurent means when he says that taxes can only be reduced by increased production. The only thing is he seems to be in reverse to the general thinking.

A Christmas Spirit Prevails

It seems that at this time of year thoughts are directed toward the great feast that takes place on December 25th of each year. No matter what magazine or what newspaper one picks up now, Christmas is foremost in it. We are inclined to think that this season is becoming more and more commercialized and the true spirit and the reason for Christmas is lost in the maze of events that go beforehand. There are certain commercial aspects however, that perhaps we could not, or would not want to be without.

We all like to see the Christmas decorations in our towns, in the store windows and in our homes. We like to go to other places and see what they have to offer and usually at this time Montreal has its Santa Claus Parade. Thus it was that last Saturday a number of our citizens visited Montreal and took their children with them to see the parade. It is a great event and never seems to lose its popularity and of course means much to the Christmas trade of the firm sponsoring it.

Unfortunately there are always some who cannot go to these events for various reasons and perhaps have to stay at home. This year, however, the Santa Claus Parade was televised and thus was made available to viewing for many a person outside of the city. Although there are not too many television sets in the homes in this district, the viewing was made available by the various dealers, thus making it possible for more to see it. Those who witnessed this event by means of television in the stores are thankful to the dealers for providing them with the opportunity. This was a nice gesture on the part of the dealers and was appreciated. The outstanding part of this was an extra special event that took place at one of the Huntingdon stores where a viewing was in progress. It was one of those little gestures which causes one to think that the spirit of Christmas does last longer than just a day. A man was present with his children, and in a little while he slipped out of the store and a short time later was back again with some parcels. Accepting the assistance of some other adults, he began passing around to the children some dainty cups of ice cream. When the children were all served, he passed the balance to the adults and everyone enjoyed the ice cream and the Santa Parade on the television. No, we are not going to cover it up, that man was Mr. Thomas Bell, the local photographer. It was a darn nice gesture Tom, and with you, the Christmas spirit prevails.

Guaranteed 100 Per Cent Synthetic

SOON the foreseeable future fabric weavers and garment manufacturers alike may be stitching to their products labels bearing the declaration "Guaranteed 100 per cent synthetic" — and by so doing ease one of the world's most pressing problems.

That doesn't mean that such natural fibres as wool and cotton are going to be displaced almost entirely as, for example, nylon displaced silk in hosiery. The natural fibres always will have a place in the textile industry. The volume used may increase. But economists expect man, of necessity, to turn more and more to man-made fibres. As consumption of all fibres rises, they expect the increase to be taken up by synthetic fibres.

This trend will not be due entirely to the synthetics' possession of superior qualities. It will be due also to the compelling force of some basic economic laws.

Last year, for example, the population of Canada increased by 420,000. The whole world gained about 25 millions. These additional people require food and clothing. Not only is a rising population pressing on the world's agricultural resources for its food supply, but the pressure is being further increased by higher living standards. Food requirements, say economists, therefore are going to gain first priority on the world's arable acres. Textile requirements will have to look elsewhere.

It is estimated that farm or ranch land can produce 1½ pounds of wool per acre per year — and the production from grazing land would be considerably less. Cotton requires the best type or arable land. The world's average pre-war yield of cotton was 174 pounds per acre. Rayon is made from wood pulp from the forests. Forest land — on a perpetual yield basis — can actually provide enough pulp for 280 pounds of rayon per acre. Nylon requires only the acreage covered by the manufacturing plant which is infinitesimal. This infinitesimal acreage requirement for nylon is of considerable significance today when the increased production of food is the world's most basic supply problem.

In the United States there were 3.25 acres of cultivated crop land per capita in 1920, while there was only 2.50 acres by 1940 and 2.25 acres by 1950. It is the present rate of population growth and increased food consumption continues then the cultivated crop land per capita will be down to 2.0 acres by 1960. It is this becoming a problem in countries like the United States and Canada, where the science of agriculture is advancing rapidly, what must it be in the less progressive parts of the world?

It may well be a full time job for the land to keep our stomachs full without, at the same time, covering our backs.

Random Glimpses of The Past Taken from Gleaner Files

April 23 How level the country is between here and Valleyfield that the bicyclists on the chimney at the condensed milk factory could see the spires and smoke stacks of that town when 60 feet up in the air the factory to the river was started this morning, under the direction of Mr. Sullivan, Jr. $1.50 per day is being paid laborers.

May 22 "Drem Isle", the residence of the late Dr. Sherrill, has been bought for $2500 by John Russell of Elgin, who gets possession in the fall. Fred. Lachance has bought from Frank Bisset what is known as the Buckingham house; reported price $1700.

Howick—Last year's grain and hay continues to be shipped from this section, notwithstanding the prospects of a shortage on account of dry weather. Oats are 42 cents for 40 lbs. and hay from $7 to $10 per ton, according to quality.

Coal is arriving for next winter's use at a price of $6 per ton. The price will increase each month.

July 22 The vacancy in the Academy staff, caused by Miss Gordon's resignation, brought 16 applications. The board appointed Miss Saunders of Atholstan. The salary is $275.

July 9 At a meeting of St. Andrew's congregation on Tuesday afternoon it was decided to erect the proposed new church on Mr. Brown's lot, corner of Bonnet and Prince Streets, provided enough land can be secured for sheds.

Eggs are fetching 15c and are not plentiful.

July 16 Mr. Philips who has already had a number of sales of standing hay, says the price has ranged from $8 to $10 per acre, and none has so far sold would run over a ton to the acre.

August 20 William Anderson who is shipping hogs to the city at the rate of 150 a week, states he bought five from Robert Todd, a cross bred Chester and Yorkshire, which weighed 1,110 lbs., an average of 225. The heaviest was 245 lbs. They were 5 months old and for them $61 was paid. This is the heaviest lot of spring pigs yet reported.

September 10 A successful sale was held on the farm of Mrs. Edward Moore on Thursday. 22 cows bought $663.50, over $30 per head; yearlings sold from $16 to $25; horses brought good prices, one yearling colt sold for $100, 800 bushels oats brought 38 cents per bushel, hay sold at $8.50 per ton. Auctioneer Philips conducted the sale.

September 24 The relative cost of cement and asphalt sidewalk is of interest just now, and something may be learned from a piece of concrete laid in front of Tony Cappello's store. It is a handsome bit of work and does credit to Charles Marshall. The concrete is 4 inches thick, laid on gravel.

Creamery butter is being retailed at 24 cents. For eggs, storekeepers are paying 18 cents. The milk pedlars in the city have raised the price from 6 to 8 cents a quart, and blame the farmers for the rise. Considering all the farmers get is 17 cents a gallon delivered at the city railway stations, Montreal milkmen are not going to work for nothing.

Weekly Review

"We and They"

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

Rudyard Kipling has a poem entitled, "We and They," which in part runs:

Father, Mother, and Me,
Sister and Auntie say,
All the people like us are We
And everyone else is They.

I was reminded of this when reading Arthur Bryant's Note Book page in the Illustrated London News, in which he refers to a report by the Acton Society on the attitude of mind of the British coal miner towards the management of the industry he serves. The gist of the report is that the overwhelming majority of miners are under the impression that they are carrying on their backs a horde of unproductive officials who are merely an intensified version of the former owners and their agents whom they got rid of at the time of nationalization. Indeed, according to the report, many of the miners believe that nationalization was a cunning device of the "boss class" to put the industry on its feet at the taxpayer's expense before returning it to the owners, re-equipped and re-capitalized, at the first convenient political opportunity.

"In other words," says Mr. Bryant, "They" being the monopolizers of political power and enjoyers of all social and economic benefits, and "We" the exploited 'mugs' who sweat for "They"—appears to be as ripe in the mining industry as before the war and has not been cured by nationalization at all. The investigator gives examples of extravagance in the employment of unnecessary officials and their assistants on the management staff. The officials of the Coal Board are said to be referred to by the miners as the "Glamor Boys" and "Little Caesars" and other much less polite names.

Having got rid of the private mine owners and their agents, and having had their places filled from the ranks of labor, the miners have discovered that the new bosses are no better and even worse than the old. Thus by their "class warfare" they have created a new class of bosses in the bureaucrats who manage the nationalized industry. The same thing happened in Soviet Russia, where all industrial enterprises were nationalized, and where an iron-handed bureaucracy has taken the place of the old aristocracy.

It looks as though mankind were so constituted as to be unable to get rid of class distinctions. Class consciousness begins, as Kipling pointed out, in the family, in its members' attitude to the people next door or in the next street who are referred to as "They." A daughter or son may be accused of marrying "beneath" them. It is all right if they "marry above" them. This attitude of inferiority and superiority complexes is not so prevalent in Canada, but it was very prevalent in the Old Country, especially in the middle classes. Among the working class generally there was little envy or hatred of the upper classes. There was a constant rise and fall by merit and demerit of individuals between the lower and upper strata of society. The rabid Socialist was usually one who had tried and failed to be a capitalist; he was a boss out of a job—if he had not already got one with his union or party.

All attempts to abolish class distinctions forcibly have only tended to accentuate and intensify them. The Marxian doctrine of "class warfare" has spread to races and nations, with the result that the world is divided into conflicting camps. There is no peace and good will among men until all classes, races and nations realize and agree that, with all their differences, they are interdependent and one universal WE.

The Week At Ottawa...

OTTAWA, (CP)—Parliament launched what may be a pre-election session with a government announcement of a far-reaching legislative program.

The speech from the Throne, read at Thursday's opening by Governor-General Vincent Massey, contained government forecasts of more than 30 measures.

It also carried what some political observers interpreted as a hint of possible tax reductions in the words: "There are signs of a lessening of the danger of an outbreak of war on a global scale."

Observers were quick to recall that last spring Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons there could be no tax cuts until the danger of war decreased. The next budget is due in late March or early April—months before the anticipated election date. Most believe a general election will be called for next October.

The government announced its decision to allow private broadcasters to enter the television field, now occupied solely by the publicly-owned CBC. Licences will be considered for private television stations in areas other than Montreal, Toronto, Halifax, Ottawa, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The Throne Speech said international tension continues and parliament will be asked to extend the Emergency Powers Act, whose powers of regulation extend to price controls if the government sees fit. An associate minister of national defence will be appointed to assist Defence Minister Claxton with administration of Canada's $2,000,000,000 annual defence program. Solicitor-general Ralph Campney is mentioned for the post.

The speech referred to Canada's record grain crop this year and said efforts will be made to renew the International Wheat Agreement.

Ban on Discrimination
A fair employment practices bill was forecast—to outlaw discrimination because of race, color or religion in industries under federal regulation. These include such industries as railways, shipping and air transport.

Fire damage earlier this year to the Parliamentary Library has speeded plans for construction of a National Library. It will be built west of the Parliament Buildings, on the bluff overlooking the Ottawa River, and work is expected to begin in about a year's time.

Several public works projects were listed in the Throne Speech. These include the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, and further work on the Canisus causeway between Cape Breton and mainland Nova Scotia; a Newfoundland-maintained ferry, and a ferry between Yarmouth, N.S., and Bar Harbour, N.S.

Extensive improvements in west-coast shipping facilities were forecast. Not specifically mentioned in the speech, they are understood to include widening and deepening of the First Narrows entrance to Vancouver harbor, removal of dangerous Ripple Rock 60 miles outside the harbor and rebuilding of Vancouver pier facilities destroyed by fire earlier this year.

More Health Aid
In the health field, the government plans to revise and extend its national health grants, under which for five years provinces have received aid for improvements in hospital and health facilities.

A promise of amendments to the National Housing Act is understood to involve an additional $200,000,000 to be made available for loans to home-builders.

The government is also planning to help children of fathers killed in war to go to college, in much the same way it helped thousands of veterans after the Second World War.

Two Visitors
Ottawa had two distinguished visitors last week—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Mr. Eden, on a private trip to visit his son, Nicholas, who is aide-de-camp to the governor-general, took time out to speak to the Ottawa Canadian Club. He told a distinguished audience that the United Kingdom hopes to find the answer to her trading difficulties in Canadian markets.

Mr. Eden said he did not accept "for one instant" the view of those who see Britain's role declining in world affairs.

"On the contrary I am convinced that the leadership and experience we have to give can be as decisive in shaping world events as at any time in our long history. The mood of our people is one of confidence and resolution."

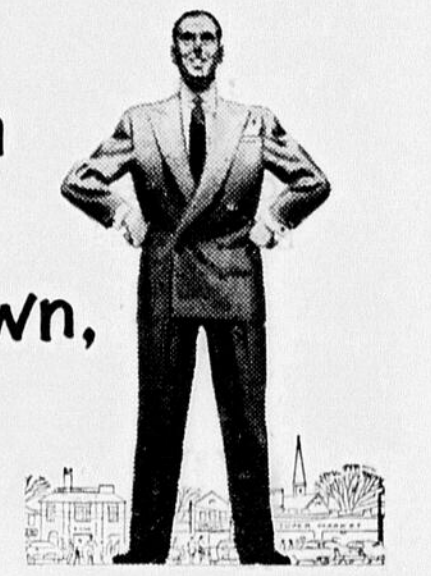

Two world wars had drained Britain's resources, but opportunities remained. He declared, "We can rebuild within this commonwealth and empire."

At the end of the week, Mr. Acheson arrived for a friendly three-day farewell to one of his country's most friendly neighbors. The election defeat of President Truman means Acheson will lose his job to Republican John Foster Dulles early next year.

Debate Launched
In the traditional throne speech debate, which opened this week, the leaders of Canada's four main political parties place on record their views on national and international affairs.

The usual motion for adoption of an address in reply to the speech from the throne was moved last Friday by Joseph Desjardis (L—Continued on page 6)

Key Man in Averagetown, Canada

If you live in an average Canadian community, you can easily see that's changing.

Everywhere you look, new construction tells a story of progress. Here, perhaps, is a handsome new store. There, a new bridge, office building, power plant, highway, housing project—or some other vital development that makes life better for all.

But do you know that many of these developments are made possible by a certain Key Man? And can you guess who he is?

He's the typical life insurance policyholder—representing millions of Canadians.

How can he do all this just by owning life insurance?

Because a large part of his premium dollars is invested for him in sound securities which help finance many such projects. Each year, more than 225 million life insurance dollars are put to work in these useful ways from coast to coast!

The life insurance policyholder is a helpful citizen in another way. For the money he puts aside for the future helps safeguard his family from ever becoming a financial burden to others.

All in all, he's an asset to his community and the nation!

My Bank Reports to you for 1952

LET'S a good report, especially because it reflects the story of hundreds of communities "MY BANK" lives and works in across the land... indeed, the whole Canadian story of solid progress for the past year.

And it's a report you can be proud of, for it's about the money you have on deposit at the B of M. Throughout the year, your Bank keeps that money hard at work—expanding, improving and pioneering Canadian enterprise of every description and size... financing Canadians of every calling and building Canada in every sense. You not only help yourself when you save at the B of M... you also help your country.

There are three parts of our annual report that I think would particularly interest you:

DEPOSITS: Because of your confidence, and that of 1,900,000 other Canadians in all walks of life, the B of M holds more than two billion dollars in deposits. Fully half these deposits are made up of the savings of private citizens... hard-earned dollars that mean a backlog of money for their use. At the end of the Bank's year, on October 31st, 1952, total deposits stood at the record figure of $2,147,900,483.

LOANS: During the year, your Bank made many thousands of loans to business and industrial enterprises for production of every kind—to farmers, fishermen, oil men, miners, lumbermen and ranchers—to citizens of every calling, and to Provincial and Municipal Governments and School Districts. At October 31st, B of M loans amounted to $712,179,846—the highest figure in the history of the Bank.

INVESTMENTS: Always keeping a good proportion of the money on deposit in quickly available form, your Bank has $987,563,535 invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities which have a ready market. This money helps to finance government projects for the betterment of Canada and the welfare of her people. Abbott Indicates Government May Increase Assistance to Blind

London, Ont. (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott indicated that the Government would give "serious" consideration to abolition of the means test for blind pensioners and an increase in blindness allowances.

In reply to queries posed during a question-and-answer period following his address to the Women's Canadian Club at London, Mr. Abbott said the Government would consider representations.

Although he did not mention the requests of the blind specifically, he did indicate that the "representations" might include that of the blind.

Mrs. W. C. Bend of London, president of the Canadian Council of the Blind, asked in a written question if the Government would be willing to increase blindness allowances or abolish the means test.

Mr. Abbott replied that it was "one of those questions which would be inappropriate for me to answer at this time."

Mr. Abbott, who earlier laid the cornerstone of a new district centre for the blind, sidestepped an earlier question asking the "meaning of the means test."

He said means tests had existed for some time, but had been removed for over 70 years in old-age pensions. He said he would pass a second part of the question asking when the means test would be abolished to Health Minister Martin.

Canada in 1975 Said in Need Of 30 Millions

Canada needs a population of 30,000,000 by 1975 to absorb its own industrial production, to meet responsibilities of defence, and to fill a framework of government four times too large for the country. This was the consensus, unanimously accepted by a panel of speakers at the closing session of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce last week. The most direct means of acquiring such a population, it was indicated, is in the words of C. P. Fraser, "a forthright, dynamic immigration policy, pursued with vigor and common sense."

Mr. Fraser, director of the Dalhousie University Institute of Public Affairs, was the panel's most outspoken exponent of immigration. He waved aside opinions that immigration would lower Canadian standards of living. Every immigrant was an employer of labor in the first two years of his Canadian residence, said Mr. Fraser, in that he needed housing, furniture and food produced by Canadian industry and labor.

"Industry, a larger population provides the only sound economic answer to trade union demands for dollar wages equal to those paid workers in the US."

"It stands to reason that a Canadian factory, with an output of 100 units, has a much higher per unit production cost than a factory making the same product in the US, with an output of 1,000 units."

"Population growth, providing an ever-widening domestic market for Canadian products, is the only real solution to the not unnatural demand of the Canadian worker for wages equal in purchasing power to those received by his US opposite number."

When Joseph Jefferson, the noted actor, was past 70, he suddenly acquired a strong excitement for gardening. One day a friend asked him the reason for his new-found enthusiasm.

"The saddest thing in old age," Jefferson replied, "is the absence of expectation. Now a garden is all expectation — and you get a lot of things you don't expect, too."

A doctor in Berkeley, California, is making a name for himself by his success in reducing overweight women. Asked his secret, he replied, "I get a head start on a case, that's all. On the patient's first call I spend only a few minutes with her, just long enough to weigh her and instruct her to keep a complete written record of every bite she eats during the two weeks until her second appointment." And he smiled, "by the end of those two weeks most patients have already lost about ten pounds!" — The Reader's Digest.

Ormstown High School Annual Dance A Success

ORMSTOWN — The Staff and Students of Ormstown High School held their Annual Dance in the School Auditorium on Friday night and this event proved to be most successful. Mr. William Finlayson, a reliable and faithful associate of the students at O.H.S. attended to admittance and the guests were received by representatives from the Ormstown School Board, Mr. Kenneth Campbell, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Burry McGerrigle, Principal E. A. King, President and Vice-President of O.H.S. Student Council, Miss Shirley Marshall and Mr. Lyndon Hooker.

The Auditorium was tastefully decorated in keeping with the theme "By the Light of the Silvery Moon." The stage was in blue studded with silvery stars and a large moon. Pastel streamers caught with stars formed the decorations in the hall. The Streamliners provided music for dancing.

A Square Dance Room was provided as in previous years on the top floor, where the color scheme of blue and silver predominated. Music was supplied by Messrs. Howard Reid, Horace Paxton, Ross Dunn, Mr. Leblanc, the callers Eddie Hooker and Nelson Hooker.

An innovation at the O.H.S. formal was the refreshment arrangement. In four class rooms, buffet tables, arranged with sandwiches and cakes and lit with tapers were laid and hostesses Shirley Marshall, Jean Dickson, Ruth MacDougall and Margaret Elvidge in charge with Helen Anderson, convener.

Much credit is due the various committees for the outstanding success of this event.

Annual Banquet Holstein Breeders Successful Event

Huntingdon-Ormstown Club Has Successful Year According to Reports

The Annual Banquet of the Huntingdon-Ormstown Holstein Breeders' Club was catered to in MacDougall Hall, Ormstown on Tuesday evening, Nov. 25th, by the members of the W.A. of St. Paul's United Church. About one hundred and fifty persons partook of and enjoyed the sumptuous turkey dinner.

Mr. Oakley McRae, president of the Club was chairman of the program which followed the dinner. Mr. Mac Ruddle contributed a vocal solo, "A Wee Deech an' Doris" accompanied by Mrs. Sam Cullen.

Mr. Leon Beaudin, Secretary of the Club read a letter from Mr. H. A. D. Somerville, M.L.A., expressing his regret in being unable to be present at the banquet. The secretary then proceeded to give a resumé of the Club's activities during the year. He reported an annual meeting and three directors' meetings. Field Day at the barns of J. R. MacDonald, and Black and White Day at Huntingdon Fair. He stressed the interest the Club was taking in Junior Work and contributions had been made toward this cause. A new venture, an R.O.P. Competition between club members has been organized and prizes are being offered. He announced the receipt of a silver tray, donated by Mr. Donald Black, M.P., to be used in a future Competition and expressed the Club's thanks. In his remarks, Mr. Beaudin thanked the St. Paul's W.A. and the Club members for their interest and support. The secretary stated that the membership for the year stood at 108 members and their books showed a balance of $320.

Mr. Donald Black, Federal Member for Chateaugay-Huntingdon-Laprairie, was called on by the chairman. He congratulated the Holstein Breeders' Club on their progress and in his remarks stated that however disturbing the existing embargo may be, our Canadian increase in population has created a very stable market in Canada.

Provincial fieldman and Secretary of the Provincial Association, Mr. Hermas LaLoie, was present. In addressing the group he questioned the distressing effect of the embargo, because it made it possible for good foundation stock to be kept and developed in the district. He encouraged the dairymen to keep a good sire to build up families of a good strain. The aim should be to feed cows well, to produce more milk per cow.

Among the guests at the head table were Mr. Robert McFarlane, president of the Howick-Huntingdon Ayrshire Club and Col. H. Rick, president of the Jersey Breeders, who each brought greetings from their respective Clubs.

Mr. F. Napier, of "Round Byre and Ring" renewed congratulations to the Club and encouraged the members to send news for this popular column. Mr. Napier as well as all the other speakers, offered hearty congratulations to the president, Oakley McRae, who won a second place with Rockwood Canary Rocket in the 2 year old bull class at the Royal Winter Fair.

Mr. W. A. S. Ayer, in a jovial way, added a few remarks.

The guest speaker for the occasion, Professor E. A. Banting, B.S.A., M.S., Professor Agricultural Engineering at Macdonald College, was introduced by Mr. J. D. Lang, Mr. Banting, a Maritimer, and experienced in extension work was impressed by the friendly cooperation of the various breeds found in this district. He dealt concisely with his subject, "Reduction of Labor on a Dairy Farm." Existing statistics show that farm prices have become lower while the cost of supplies remain at their former level, and in order to stabilize this situation it is a necessity to save labor. Professor Banting stated that reliable authorities had proven that under ordinary conditions labor requirements on a dairy farm approximated 100-300 man hours per cow per year, but that this labor requirement could be reduced to 70 hours with convenient stabling. To assist his listeners to improve their labor problems he outlined the advantages of loose housing of dairy (Continued on page 8)

Atomic Gun Is Simple to Operate

Twenty minutes after the atomic gun, or cannon, is driven onto the field, it is emplaced and ready for action.

Italian Army Etiquette Manual Bans Spitting Out Hot Soup

ROME — If the Italian Army General Staff has its way, every soldier will have to memorize the manual of etiquette and it is being made "required reading" for every soldier.

Things 'Not Done'
Speaking paternally to the recruit as "thou", the anonymous author enumerates things "not done" in good society.
The soldier is first advised to get rid of his local dialect and speak the good Italian he was taught in school.

He must have at least one bath or shower every week, not as a luxury but as a necessity for health.

"The girls will like you better if your trousers have a straight crease", the book says.

List of Don'ts includes:
Swearing, spitting, writing on walls, reading other people's letters, jostling in shopping lines, whistling in theatres, monopolizing telephones, picking one's nose, tucking napkins into one's collar, spitting out soup if it is too hot, playing a mouth organ when others want to sleep, taking boots off on a train, blowing cigarette smoke in people's faces, losing one's temper during games and getting involved in political arguments.

"Above all, don't annoy women in the street, even with words."

"In buses, don't behave like some young youths of little taste who offer their seats only to pretty girls."

Can Opener Popular Item
The average Canadian is eating twice as much canned fruits and vegetables as he did 25 years ago, according to an analysis of food consumption estimates by the American Can Company.

Back in the mid-twenties the per capita consumption of canned fruits and vegetables was about 20 1/2 pounds. Nowadays, the average runs to nearly 43 pounds.

The most impressive increase was made by canned fruits which climbed from 2 1/2 pounds to 11 1/2 pounds per person in the 25-year period, according to Gordon Mann, Canadian general manager of the container-making concern. Per capita consumption of canned vegetables rose from 17 1/2 to 31 pounds in the same period.

"Canning of fruits and vegetables has advanced to where it is now an annual source of millions of dollars to Canadian farmers, processors and other businessmen and workers," said Mr. Mann. "The growing and canning of fruits and vegetables is the economic backbone of many a Canadian community."

Howick
HOWICK—The November meeting of the Howick United W.M.A. was held on Tuesday, Nov. 18, at the home of Mrs. E. R. Ness. The president, Mrs. Edwards, presided. Mrs. Math. McKell led the devotional exercises, basing her remarks on the theme "public worship", as a 'means of grace'. She pointed out how important every phase of that worship should be, from the call to worship right through to the singing hymns with the benediction invoking the blessing of God upon the people.

Chapter 3 of the Study Book, by Dr. Gallagher, was reviewed by Mrs. Robert Tollhurst. The stories related showed that our missionaries are busy not only helping the Africans, but teaching the Africans to help themselves. An account of an evening spent in a Christian village proved very interesting with its home life and worship service. Comparison was drawn between this kind of village and a non-Christian pagan one.

The value of the Agricultural Missionary was stressed, for without a doubt more leaders are needed in this field to get the land to produce more to feed the teeming numbers in Africa. All the work in Africa is extremely important and more leaders are needed all over the line, as they train the natives, showing them the way of life, with love the centre of all.

Roll call was answered by 24 members with the text-word 'Love'. November Committee was appointed namely, Mrs. L. J. Gruer, Mrs. Robt. Roy and Mrs. A. D. Allen.

Mrs. Ewart Orr's poem, "My Prayer", was greatly appreciated. Various phrases reported on the different phases of the W.M.A. work.

Mrs. Frank Sutherland then asked Mrs. Math. McKell to come forward and after voicing the appreciation of all the members for the many ways in which Mrs. McKell has helped along the missionary cause, presented her with a Life Membership in the W.M.S. Mrs. McKell graciously thanked the Auxiliary members.

Mrs. Bruce Chisholm thanked all for their generous donations towards the bazaar. After the closing hymn and prayer, the committee finished packing the garments and

Franklin Centre
FRANKLIN CENTRE — The picture "The King's Man", the life story of an African boy, Fredrico Mussile, who became a minister of the Gospel in Africa was shown in the United Church on Wednesday evening to a large and appreciative audience. The movie was put on by the United Church of Canada's "Exposition Van" which is on tour of the various centres in Canada, during the next two years with what is called the largest exhibition any church has ever "put on the road" and which took a year to prepare. It features movies, exhibits, speakers and a pageant. The aim of this Exposition is to bring the church to the people and with the idea of recruiting 1,000 volunteers for Missionary work in Canada and abroad.

The Missionary and Maintenance Fund is the channel through which these enterprises are carried on.

After the picture was shown, the audience retired to the basement where a display of posters and literature on Missionary work was shown by Rev. Mr. Belbin, a former pastor at Hemmingford, who had charge of the part of the "Exposition" sent here. The evening's silver collection amounted to $28. The W.A. group had refreshments on sale at the close of the evening's performance.

The majority of the children in this community were not disappointed because they could not go to Montreal to see Santa Clause's Parade on Saturday; as the parade came to them through the kindness of Mr. Rene Thibaut, one of Franklin's merchants, who owns a television set and who kindly invited all the children who wished to see the parade to come to his store to witness it; needless to say the children gratefully accepted the invitation and there is no doubt but Mr. Thibaut had a "Boy Scout feeling" of having done a good deed for the day, when he saw the pleasure he had given the little folk.

Christmas hymns were practiced for the S.S. Pageant on Tuesday, at the school, by the C.G.I.T. group. The Study book story was discussed and pictures of Africa were shown. Part of the time was spent in Shell Craft work at plans for a vesper evening service, to be held in the church, if possible on Dec. 14th, were discussed.

Mr. Russell Wilson, of Montreal, is spending this week at the home of Mr. John Waddell and sister, Mrs. Libbie, Coyne Hill. Mr. Smith and daughter Mary Anna, Miss Annie Waddell and Freddie Letto of Montreal and Kenneth McNiece spent the week-end at the same home.

A wedding reception was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening for the honor of Mr. and Mrs. Marie Brooks, nee Miss Helen Lamb.

The happy couple were presented with an envelope of money by Rev. J. Travis, who also gave the newly weds a bit of advice for present and future use in a jovial manner. A social time and dancing whirled away the evening and after refreshments the party gradually broke up with best wishes to the bride and groom.

Mrs. Kenneth McNiece spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wooten in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Leahy left Friday morning for Camden, N.J., to spend a week or 10 days with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Soderston.

toys sent in for the Christmas shipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Greig Muir, Derek and Viven, of Toronto, visited recently at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Muir.

Miss Edith Moody of Terrebonne, Que., is at present visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Younie. Miss Jean Younie was also home for the week-end.

Covey Hill
COVEY HILL — The other day Mr. Roy Lowden shot a deer which dressed 100 lbs. and whose antlers had eight points. And it seems that the bobcats are still to be reckoned with, because last Saturday afternoon Miss Vickie Semple saw one about 50 feet distant in the woods. The animal moved away but Miss Semple's dog, quite a sturdy specimen of farm dog, bore wounds which indicated a probable tussle with the cat.

Glenelm

GLENELM—Sorry to report that Mrs. Graham Salter had the misfortune to have blood poison in her hand last week. A doctor was summoned and found it serious, so advised hospital treatment which was obtained at the Barrie Memorial Hospital. She returned home Saturday which much improved.

The sale which took place at the residence of the late Mrs. J. McClatchie brought out a fair crowd, despite the windy day. Bidding was brisk and all was sold out in a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Purvis Hamilton and children visited Sunday evening at the home of Mrs. W. Donnelly.

Rev. B. McPherson preached in Kensington United Church last Sunday. His sermon was to the young people as it was Youth Movement Week throughout Canada for the United Churches. All enjoyed his sermon as he went on to tell that life was a pilgrimage in this world and as we go along we should not live carelessly while young nor look for ease and worldly pleasure, because we reap what we sow. The Christian life may be hard at times, but we should follow our Master, as He is the Way, the Truth and the Life, and all will be well.

Frances Blynn from Lake Placid is spending a few weeks at the home of Mrs. W. Donnelly.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Cutbush and children from Three Rivers, visited recently at the Salter home.

Fine November weather is still with us. Sunday morning butterflies and fuzzy caterpillars were enjoying the warm sunshine.

At the time of writing the Valleyfield Braves are sitting right on top of the heap. They won both of their games in the past week, taking the Shawinigan Falls Cataracts and the Forum-backed Royals into their tepee and giving both visiting clubs the business.

The Braves hold a one point lead over the Senators and are only two points ahead of the third place Royals. As the Braves had a game at the Forum last night the standing could possibly be changed today, unfortunately the late starting time of the game in Montreal did not permit us to meet the deadline with the results in this issue.

Sunday's game at Valleyfield was played to a full-house but the Royals couldn't fill their royal flush.

Paul Leclerc

Goalie Paul Leclerc recorded his second shut-out in four games by blanking the Royals in a fast skating contest, the Braves coming out on the long end of the 2-0 score.

After a scoreless first period Jean-Paul Bisillon opened the scoring early in the second, assisted by "Kitou" Joannette and Carl Smelle. Five penalties were handed out, four to the Royals.

Braves added their second marker shortly after the eleven minute mark in the third period, it was Aldo Guidolin, aided by Larry Kwong and Jackie Schmidt. Penalties in the third were two to Valleyfield and one to the Royals.

This Week In Quebec

By Ken Stewart QUEBEC (CP) - Premier Duplessis, speaking during the throne speech debate in the Legislative Assembly, renewed his plea for re-formation of Federal-Provincial taxation rights. He said Quebec province needs all the revenues it is entitled to under the Canadian constitution and spoke of federal "encroachments" in provincial fields. Referring to federal grants to Canadian universities, Mr. Duplessis said if Ottawa has millions to grant for education purposes they were "stolen" from the province. The provinces have exclusive jurisdiction in education matters, he said, and that was one point on which the Quebec government would never yield. Later the legislative assembly gave unanimous approval to a bill providing for television censorship by the Quebec board of motion picture censors. Mr. Duplessis said he will seek "friendly" settlement with the CBC as soon as the bill receives royal assent so that "regulations may be worked out." The bill, which now goes to the legislative council - provincial upper house - embodies two main provisions of principle. One calls for censorship of films on TV. The other orders the Quebec board of motion picture censors to supervise live shows. Under the bill it will be illegal for Quebec province stations to televise uncensored films. Violators of the proposed law may be fined $500 or jailed for three months.

What You Can Believe About Clearance Sales

Bargains are to be had at sales, and it does pay to watch for them, a department store manager says in a recent magazine article. "Sales in retail stores have three objectives," the article explains. "To clear out stocks that threaten to become obsolete; to stimulate business during an off-season lull; to draw people into the store." The variety of sales is limited only by the imagination of promo-

In closing his address he felt that the problem was not one of equipment but of management and the real secret in reducing the cost of production was a very careful choice of stock which would produce more per animal. UN World Health Organization Gives Report on Vital Statistics

GENEVA—The mystery of how nature keeps its balance between the numbers of men and women in the world had some light shed upon it by a report issued by the United Nations World Health Organization (WHO). The report covers the world's weddings, the world's babies, and the world's growing population.

The voluminous report is based on information supplied by many national and municipal administrations. It finds that marriage rates increased sharply at the end of World War II. In 1946, the peak year, the number of marriages in the United States increased from 10.7 per 1000 (the pre-war average) to 16.4. Since that time the figure has been decreasing but it is still higher than pre-war.

The marriage increase was sharply reflected in birth rates, the peak year being 1947 when the increase over pre-war went from 17.2 to 25.8 per 1000. In England and Wales, it went from 14.9 to 20.5. The figures were less for 1949 but still surpassed pre-war.

Always in the period immediately following war there are more boys born than girls. World War II was no exception. In Italy as against 1054 boys to every 1000 girls born pre-war, during 1946-48 there were 1060 boys to every 1000 girls. In France the figures were 1038 and 1058. In England, 1054 and 1061.

In peak fertility periods (25-29 years) striking increases were noticed. In France 1000 women in the 20 to 24 age group gave birth in 1936 to 121 children. In 1949 the figure was 163—a 34 per cent increase. In the next higher age group (25-29) the increase was 52 per cent.

Death rates have been lower than before the war, in spite of an increased proportion of middle-aged and older people in the population. The lowering of the death rate is especially pronounced in younger age groups, particularly among babies. The decrease is due to vigorous measures taken against communicable diseases, general application of preventive immunization, and progress made in the fields of hygiene and nutrition.

Seasons change but

fine flavour never varies

BECAUSE IT'S 'COOL CONTROL' BREWED

*"COOL CONTROL" brewing extracts only the top goodness from Dow quality ingredients by eliminating all adverse temperature variations in the brewing process.

Generally, more boy babies die than girls and the difference becomes more pronounced among adults where the higher death rate of men as against women increases with age.

In the United States in the age group 55 to 59 the mortality rate per 1000 of the same age was for men 22.4 and for women 17.7 in 1930. This means that 127 men died for every 100 women. In 1949 for the same age group the death rates fell to 19.7 for men and 11.2 for women. This means that in 1949, 176 men died for every 100 women.

The World Health Organization found this true today:

Birth Rates: As compared with 1950 there has been a fall in most European countries, particularly in Italy, where the number of births is appreciably lower than pre-war. On the other hand there has been a distinct increase in the birth rate of the United States.

Death Rates: These appear to be increasing slightly in most of Europe. The increase may be attributable to the recurrence of influenza epidemics, particularly in the winter of 1950-51.

Population Increase: The year 1951 shows a general increase especially in Egypt, Israel, Ceylon, Japan, the Netherlands, Yugoslavia, Finland, Australia and New Zealand.

Chateauguay
Y.P.S. Notes
CHATEAUGUAY—The series of lectures on "Youth and Marriage" sponsored by St. Andrew's Young People's Union are being well attended.

Rev. Robert S. Beal assistant minister at Wesley United Church, Montreal was the guest speaker last Monday night, his subject "A Minister looks at Marriage" was listened to with deep attention.

Marriage is a covenant, not just a contract made by the man and woman with each other and with God. It is not just a two-sided affair, but a three-sided partnership. There is an invisible One whose blessing is sought at the marriage and whose presence is asked in the new home.

In mid-Victorian days, marriage without the parents' consent was unthinkable, but in these modern days parental consent is not always asked.

Mr. Beale does not approve of a girl marrying an alcoholic hoping to reform him. Alcohol plays havoc with married life. A girl cannot cope with the problem. If an alcoholic wishes to reform he may be put in touch with Alcoholics Anonymous, an organization of former alcoholics, who through religion have overcome the liquor habit, and which has been highly successful in reclaiming drunkards and making them abstainers.

In mixed marriages there are two sides to be considered, the racial and religious. When two persons of different racial origins marry they are not always accepted in a community, but are discriminated against because of colour prejudices. From a religious point of view there is nothing wrong, but social standing has to be faced, one must really know what one is doing before entering into such a union.

Religion is a vital part of marriage. Trials and tragedies must be met by faith and strength in God. To be united in love of God is very important. You cannot face problems together if you are divided in religion.

The subject of divorce was the last topic to be discussed. Divorce is not the answer to apparent failure in marriage, it is an easy way out if you have money. People don't try hard enough to make a success of marriage. Divorce is a poor risk.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. Douglas Lang and thanked by Miss Selena Lang.

A social half-hour followed, during which refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Peter Reid and son Gary of Hemmingford were guests during last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Reid.

Among those from the vicinity who attended the recent Good-fellow-Kansasola wedding in Knox-Crescent and Kensington Church, Montreal were Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Chave, Miss Elizabeth Chave, Miss Lois Laffoley, Mrs. David Lang and Miss Rhoda McFarlane.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lang were recent week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Gill, Grenville, Que.

Atthelstan Church Supper Splendid Success
ATHELSTAN—The annual Chicken Supper held in Athelstan Presbyterian Church, on Thursday night, was quite a success, being one of the best held. Although the weather was not very favourable, the rain did not seem any hindrance to the attendance. The workers were kept busy from long before the announced hour until all had been served. As with the present set-up, only sixty can be served at one time, the ladies are planning to have additional tables at other time, by shifting the Work Booth to some other spot. Owing to the splendid broadcast made by the Announcer over the Malone Radio, a great many friends, from South of the border made the trip to enjoy the splendid supper served.

Mr. Morley Rowat, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of his friend, Mr. Bruce Elder.

Miss Emma Irwin spent the week-end at Glenelg, with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Steele and family.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Green spent Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. R. Cosgrove, Verdun.

Possible Bad Fire Averted in Farm Home
TROUT RIVER—A fire which might have caused a considerable amount of damage, occurred on Saturday, at the home of J. R. MacDonald. About noon, members of the family thought they smelled rubber burning and Mrs. McDonald, on going upstairs, noticed the fire in the ceiling. Calling her husband, and with the quick action of the neighbors, the fire was extinguished. The wires in the attic over the bathroom were burning.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Smythe, accompanied by Mrs. Lauriston Luman and Mr. Percy Nesbit, motored to Ottawa on Sunday and were guests of Mrs. Margaret Connors, Leola and Leona. In the afternoon Mrs. Luman visited her aunt, Mrs. M. Grace and cousins.

"Indestructible" Plastic Piping

Polythene plastic piping estimated to last almost "forever" is exciting the interest of agriculturalists. The piping is said to be resistant against rot, rust and action of soil acid and alkalis. It will not burst when water freezes inside it since the flexible well will expand with the freezing and return to its original shape after thawing. The polythene plastic itself is in no way affected by low temperatures. According to C-I-L Agricultural News, the polythene piping can be used for home and livestock water systems, well casings and low-pressure underground piping, and spray or irrigation systems. One outstanding feature is its light weight which reduces shipping costs and facilitates handling. A one and one-half inch plastic pipe 250 feet long weighs 80 pounds compared to the 640 pounds a galvanized steel pipe of the same dimensions would weigh. It would take a truck to transport the metal piping while one man could carry the polythene pipe rolled up on one shoulder.

No hacksaw problems are encountered with polythene piping since it can be easily cut with a knife. Conventional plastic fittings or a new welding technique can be used for joining plastic to metal pipe. Plastic piping is not designed for high working pressures. In Canada polythene piping is being tried experimentally by municipal water systems at Dunville and Oakville, Ont. At Dunville 1,600 feet of pipe were laid six inches underground and allowed to freeze and unfreeze throughout the winter. After two years use it suffered no adverse effects, according to J. Dawson, public utilities manager of Dunville.

bathrooms were used by the Babylonian kings more than 5,000 years ago. The Romans, however, eclipsed all the other countries in building bigger and better bathtubs. Not only did they install baths in the royal palaces and homes of the wealthy, they built public baths throughout their Empire. Huge aqueducts carried water from the mountains to supply them and, where hot springs occurred, they were utilized. The city of Bath in England derives its name from the great public bath built by the Romans at its natural springs. The term plumbing comes from the Latin word "plumbum" meaning lead, the material the Romans used for piping.

The most famous of the Roman baths was that built by the Emperor Diocletian. It occupied an area about a mile square, and had more than 3,000 seats for bathers. This stupendous project contained also a swimming pool, gymnasium, picture gallery and theatre. Like many Roman baths, it was built mostly of marble and mosaic, and lavishly decorated with beaten gold.

The 1,000 years following Rome's decline, known as the Dark Ages, were grimy as well as dark and bathing went into decline. Francis I of France, for example, reflected the attitude of most of his subjects when he boasted that he never washed. But eastern countries never entirely gave up the practice of bathing since tradition decreed that Oriental hospitality to guests included a bath, or at least the washing of hands and feet. The Crusaders copied this refreshing habit from their enemies and brought it back again to England and Western Europe.

It is reported that Henry IV of England instituted the Order of the Bath in 1399 because his nobles appeared before him sweat-stained and bloody after battle. Whether this is true or not, the bath before receiving knighthood was set in the ritual when George I revived the order in 1725. Queen Elizabeth I gave her Royal sanction to bathing, and was said to "bathe once a month whether she needed it or no". Mary Queen of Scots had to cross the street from Holyrood palace to reach her bath house, where she liked to bathe in wine. Not only royalty, but the church began to approve of the revival of bathing. The phrase "Cleanliness is next to Godliness" was often heard.

The coming of the portable tub was a foretaste of the important role that metals, and particularly iron and steel, would play in the bathroom. These portable tubs became popular in England and the travelling Englishman carried his tub and bathing habit to all parts of the world. Those who scorned at first soon fell into the tub habit. France, too, began to look with favor on the new vogue for cleanliness. In Paris it became a common sight to see water sellers carrying portable tubs and hot water into houses, where they waited until the bath was finished. Then the tub was carried out and emptied into the street.

Invention is also credited with the France of the Slipper Bath in the 18th century. Made of sheet copper in the form of a lady's shoe, the high sides modestly concealed the bath. Water was poured into it and heated by charcoal fire in the heel. There was a spigot in the toe for draining, and wheels enabled it to be moved readily from room to room. Later the Sofa Bath, a metal tub in which the bather reclined, was widely used in both France and England. It was enclosed in cane or wood to make it an ornamental piece of furniture.

Napoleon felt that the large tubs in vogue in his period called attention to his small stature, so had a small tub built for himself at Fontainebleau. His sister Pauline had her tub lined with mirrors, although other ladies of her day were so modest they put chalk in the water to make it opaque.

Early Canadian records modestly omit mention of the bath, but there was no lack of rivers and lakes for bathing facilities. Some tribes of Indians, however, used a method similar to the Finns in ceremonies, pouring water over heated stones and bathing in the steam. In time true bathtubs began to appear in cargoes from Europe.

Bathing quickly increased in popularity both in Canada and the United States. Once a week, however, was considered plenty by most people, and the Saturday night tub, usually the wash tub in the kitchen, became a family institution, with the children lining up for turns. With the disappearance of the pump and the installation of running water, bathing came into its own again. The demand grew until now most homes have bathtubs that would have seemed incredible a century ago.

Looking back over the centuries, then, it is quite clear that there is much more to taking a bath than merely turning on the water and slipping into the tub. Soothed by the regulated warmth of the water which has been carried to the bathroom in steel plumbing from an electrically heated steel tank, we can loll in the privacy of our modern all-steel, porcelain covered bath and muse over the hardships of our ancestors and the ingenuity of our forefathers.

Sports announcer Clem McCarty talked so rapidly that many listeners complained about being unable to understand his blow-by-blow accounts of prize fights. The climax came the night Maxie Baer leaned over the ropes in the third round and shouted down into the press row: "Hey, Clem! Slow down. I can't keep up with you!" — The Reader's Digest.

Egyptians and Greeks Had Tiled Baths

By Etha G. Setterington in the CIL Oval

Archimedes took a bath in the third century BC and he has been famous for it ever since. Sitting in his bath, which unlike the modern tub was made of marble, Archimedes noted how the water partially supported him, and conceived in a flash his famous law of buoyancy. Dramatically the story relates that in his excitement the scientist leaped from the water, and forgetting to don his clothes, ran through the streets shouting "Eureka! Eureka! I have found it."

Bathing, and the facilities for bathing, have, indeed, a long and ancient history. Ancient mythology refers often to the bath and ascribes to it healing properties. Certainly, Neptune, God of the Sea, established a record as a bather, since he lived under the ocean, and Botticelli's well-known picture of Venus rising from the waves would indicate that she was the world's first bathing beauty. Records show that primitive man in almost every corner of the globe bathed both for cleanliness and pleasure. In addition, the Bible mentions bathing pools frequently, and names particularly the pool at Jerusalem with five porches. Rivers and lakes were undoubtedly the first bathing places, since were mortals seem to have feared the wrath of the sea. Before long the advantages of an indoor bath must have been recognized, for fragments have been found of crude tubs fashioned from wood, clay or stone.

The housewife of 1952 may point with pride to her modern tiled bathroom, but the Egyptians and Greeks at least 3,000 years ago had tiled bathtubs with water piped into their houses. Indeed, archeological excavations prove that or-
