NEW YORK CONTEST WAXES WARMER

Charles F. Murphy Sticks to Doctrine of "Regularity."

TAMMANY "FLARE-UP" TO-DAY

Thomas W. Lawson Says Hearst Will Win by a Huge Majority.

New York, November 3.—Charles F. Murphy discoursed upon "Regularity" at Tammany Hall yesterday. He was reminded of the cable message sent by Richard Croker to Senator Patrick H. McCarren, in which the Brooklyn leader was congratulated for his repudiation of Hearst. Murphy was asked what effect the message would have.

"I question the genuineness of that cablegram," he replied.

"Have you taken any steps to ascertain whether it was sent by Mr. Croker or not?" Murphy was asked.

"No, and I don't intend to, either."

"What do you think of Mr. Croker's position in the matter?"

"It is entirely contrary to the teachings and attitude of Mr. Croker all his life," said Murphy. "Mr. Croker, as leader of Tammany Hall, taught me regularity, and always preached it. Tammany has always followed that instruction."

"Are you teaching regularity now?"

"I certainly am. I always have, and am teaching it now."

"How then did you support the nomination of Mr. Hearst?" was the next question.

TAMMANY WILL FOLLOW.

"Tammany Hall went to that convention as followers. The people up the State wanted Mr. Hearst, and we fell in line. Now that Mr. Hearst is nominated, we are supporting him loyally. He is the regular nominee of the party, and as such should be supported by the party."

"Do you think that Mr. Croker will return to America?"

"I do not know, but if he does come, I would be the very first to welcome him. He is a man for whom I have always had a great deal of respect."

"Are you still under the impression that the greater city will go for Hearst by a plurality of 80,000?"

"Yes, from 80,000 to 100,000."

"Do you think all the boroughs will go for Mr. Hearst?"

"I don't know about all the boroughs, but I feel certain that New York County and King's County will go for him."

Murphy confirmed the statement that Tammany Hall would have a "flare-up" on Saturday, a final effort to interest voters in the candidacy of Mr. Hearst. Besides the meeting at Durland's Riding Academy, meetings and fireworks will be held in every other district in the city, Mr. Murphy said.

ATTACK ON THE STREET RAILWAY

Senator Forget says that there has been much Misrepresentation in the Matter.

HOLDINGS OF DIRECTORS

Report of a Meeting Supposed to Have Arranged With Management Was Very Misleading.

A campaign of misrepresentation is what some of the Montreal Street Railway officials call the movement among the shareholders to discredit the management in the eyes of the public and the shareholders at large.

The directors have remained silent under the many attacks that have been made upon them, and Senator Forget said last night, that the best place for the fighting, if there was to be fighting was at the annual meeting and not through the newspapers.

"At the meeting," he said "we will meet the attacks fairly and in the open, and will reply to them satisfactorily and honestly."

The Senator felt that the publication of the stock holdings of the directors created a very wrong impression.

In the first place he stated that although the books did not show it his own interests in the road were greater than the holdings of any two shareholders, while other directors represented much more stock than they were given credit for in the list that was published.

The list represented holdings on the new basis of $100 shares, but the claim was made that only two were right and that three were wrong.

Street Railway officials also felt that one newspaper had published much misleading matter in regard to a meeting that was supposed to have been arranged between the management and some shareholders.

It was alleged that the shareholders kept the appointment, waited an hour in the Street Railway Chambers and no Street Railway officials appeared.

It turns out that this meeting was called off by a letter from Senator Forget, who addressed it to a committee of three, and stated that he had decided to discuss the various matters they wanted to see him about, not privately, but at the annual meeting.

Furthermore, no shareholder, turned up at the Street Railway Chambers and if they had done so they would have found Mr. W. G. Ross in his office, as he was there all morning.

The voting strength of the dissenting shareholders is open to question and is one of the most interesting phases of the present discussion.

That it will be strong enough to carry any measure directed against the present management hardly any one believes.

It is understood that the "rebels," as they are called, will control a few thousand shares, but will make up in lung power what they lack in voting strength.

Unless present indications are very far astray, however, the meeting will be the most interesting in the history of the Street Railway, and there will be plenty of oratory on both sides.

To a certain extent now the question of issuing the new stock at a premium has been lost sight of in view of the fact that a more general attack will be opened up. At the same time the premium is where the dollars and cents come in, and on that point the management will get the support of many who think that issues at par are too great a tax upon a company that is in a position to command something better.

NO MORE SIGNS ON ISLE RONDE.

At the regular meeting of the Harbor Board yesterday it was decided, that since the Harbor Commissioners had been given jurisdiction over Ile Ronde, that they should instruct the secretary to notify the parties who have signs on the island to remove them, as it is contrary to the by-laws to allow signs to be erected on harbor property.

A letter was read from the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries stating that an order-in-Council had been passed authorizing an advance of $45,000 on account of the new wharf sheds.

An application of the Ewart Company, Limited, for permission to place some ice carriers on harbor property at Verdun, was granted, subject to revocation at the pleasure of the commissioners.

Notification of protest from the Peck Rolling Mills Limited, was received concerning a flume from their hydraulic lot at Mill street, which passes through harbor property.

A complaint was read from the master of the Kensington, saying that the Mount Royal had disregarded one of the Commissioner's by-laws by proceeding at too great a speed through one of the cuts. It was decided to obtain legal advice as to what should be done in the matter.

POWER COMPANY SUES THE CITY.

The Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, against the City of Montreal, furnished an interesting case before Judge Robidoux at yesterday afternoon's sitting of the Superior Court. The Company instituted suit against the city to obtain an indemnity of $3,649 for alleged breach of contract, all the trouble arising from an electric pump at the high level pumping station on McTavish street.

The company set forth that in the month of October, 1902, they agreed to supply for five years, 2,200 volts to the city to operate the pump, at the price of $20 per horse power. By this contract, the company also agreed to furnish additional power, if necessary, the price in this case being $2 per hour, or for the fraction of an hour. The company made a deposit of $600 with the city treasurer as guarantee, but that after the power had been delivered, the city was prevented from using the pump by writ of injunction taken out by a citizen, who complained that it annoyed the neighborhood. The company now declares that, being unable to get rid of their power, they have been damaged to the amount of $2,649.

In answer the defendant pleads that the power was never delivered; that the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co. was bound to wait before delivering the power until the said pump was properly installed and provided with all its accessories, and the writ of injunction cannot be invoked in support of the company's claim. Defendant is represented by City Attorneys Archambault and Butler, while Mr. G. Montgomery appears on behalf of the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Company. The case is being continued to-day.

EXCELSIOR LODGE.—The Sons of England Benefit Society, Excelsior Lodge, No. 36, celebrated their 21st anniversary last evening by a dinner and dance in Welsh's Hall. The report of the secretary showed that the lodge was in very good financial standing. As to new members the lodge had gained considerable within the past five years. Members of other lodges were present with greetings to Excelsior.

'SPEAKER' SPEAKS AT PITTSBURG

Hon. R. F. Sutherland and Mr. Charles Marcil Attend Banquet of Canadian Club.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Pittsburg, Pa., November 3.—The Canadian Society of Pittsburg held its first annual banquet in the Hotel Schenley last night, the function being one of the finest social affairs of the early winter. The banquet hall of the hotel was elaborately decorated with the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack. James I. Buchanan, a leading Pittsburg capitalist, was the toast-master, and Congressmen A. J. Barchfield H. D. W. English, president of the Pittsburg Chamber of Commerce, and Judge Joseph Buffington, of the United States District Court, were the speakers lionized by the guests of honor being Hon. R. F. Sutherland, K.C., speaker of the Dominion House of Commons, and Mr. Charles Marcil, member of the Dominion Parliament from Bonaventure, Quebec, and deputy speaker.

Mr. Sutherland responded to the toast, "Canada," in a felicitous address, having reference to the cordial relations existing between the American Republic and the Dominion. Mr. Marcil elaborated this theme in his response to the toast, "The friendly relations between the United States and Canada." Judge Buffington spoke on the theme, "The United States." All the addresses were well received.

Five hundred covers were laid, and music was provided by an orchestra.

SPANISH TREASURE TROVE.

Work of Digging for Armada Riches Progresses.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Glasgow, November 3.—Mr. Robert Paterson, of Messrs. Paterson and Newlands, Glasgow, who is acting as secretary to and is a member of the syndicate which is carrying out the exploration at the wreck of the Spanish Armada treasure ships, has received an encouraging telegram from Tobermory. It states that eight guns, presumably bronze, have been located, also a chest. The sea being calm and the weather fine the work is still being carried on vigorously. So far no portion of the wrecked ship has been located. The chief difficulty which the explorers have to overcome is the presence of the large quantity of sand and slimy mud which has been silted up during the three centuries by the burn which flows into the bay at the point where the vessel was blown up, and the area, some 200 yards which has to be probed. The syndicate are, however, quite satisfied with the progress of the operations so far and are hopeful that they will yet discover the poop of the vessel, in which it is believed, not only the treasure, but the captain's valuable gold plate will be found.

Fleeced Many Canadians.

London, November 3. — Scotland Yard is diligently searching for a man named Hutton, who was reported some time ago, as having swindled several Canadians in London out of small sums of money. Hutton claimed to have hailed from Toronto.

CANNOT LAND CREW OF TURRET BELL

Mackenzie and Mann Steamer Stranded Off Charlottetown, May Prove a Total Wreck.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., November 3.—Although the steamer Turret Bell, stranded at Cable Head, at the entrance of St. Peters's Bay, is only one hundred yards from shore, such a tremendous sea has been on all day that so far attempts to land her crew of twenty-three men have been unsuccessful, and no communication has been had between ship and shore.

The Turret Bell is owned by MacKenzie and Mann, and has been employed for the past three years in carrying coal for the Inverness Coal Company from Port Hastings, C.B., to Montreal. It was while returning from Montreal in ballast that she was driven ashore during a north-east gale. She is a steel steamer of 2,300 tons, commanded by Captain Murchison, whose wife is also on board. The actual condition of the steamer is not known, but prospects of getting her off are very poor, as she went on light at high tide.

With the Makers of Books

A recent number of The World's Work contains a remarkable story of a negro who, like Booker T Washington, rose from the humblest beginning to the headship of a helpful and important institution. He was put to work when four years old and at nine was a regular plough hand. Yet he managed to learn to read and write, at odd moments, and later worked his way through Tuskagee Institute. After a series of hardships, he says: "I felt that I was born to bad luck and gave up all hope of future work. Just at that time some one sent me a copy of Orison Swett Marden's book 'Pushing to the Front.' I read every chapter. Every line in it seemed to say to me: You are a coward to give up." This book proved the turning point in his career. Published by Thomas Y. Crowell & Company, it is now translated into nearly every civilized tongue, including the Japanese.

Moffat, Yard & Company announce for early publication a valuable book by Elisabeth Luther Cary, entitled "The Works of James McNeill Whistler." This volume, the text of which has been pronounced by an expert critic far the ablest yet written about Whistler's art, considers his etchings, lithographs, pastels, water colors, paintings and landscapes, concluding with a chapter on his theory of art.

William Frederick Dix, secretary of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, has written a Romance of Old Furniture, which will be published in the near future, by Moffat, Yard & Company, under the title of "The Face in the Girandole." Mr. Dix has been for years an ardent collector of old furniture and his exceptionally dainty and beautiful love story is saturated with the very spirit of its pursuit.

Mr. Gustav Kobbe "How to Appreciate Music," will be published this month by Moffat, Yard and Company. The book is frankly addressed to those who do not understand music, but want to, and is destined to be one of the most useful books and, without doubt, the most informing, that has appeared on the subject in many years.

"Job," the French illustrator, whose pictures appear in Mr. Chatfield-Taylor's "Moliere: A Biography," issued by Duffield & Company, is in real life Jacques Onfroy, Comte de Breville. After studying in the Lycee Louis le Grand and the College Stanislas he spent five years in fitting himself to become a painter of military subjects, being for some time an officer in the 4th Cuirassiers. His pictures, while having great vivacity, make a specialty of historical accuracy in all appointments, and the Comedie Francaise itself lent him costumes for his work on Moliere.

Marcel Levignet," by Mr. Elwyn Barron, is said to be something new in the way of mystery stories. Mr. Barron was for some time a dramatic critic in Chicago, and is at present press agent for Mr. E. S. Willard's company. Years of residence in the French capital have given him opportunity to know his Paris thoroughly.

A new play now being finished by George Ade is based on his published book called "Artie." The drama is also called "Artie," the title being taken from the principal character. It was through sketches narrating the adventures of this same "Artie" that Mr. Ade first came into notice while doing newspaper work in Chicago.

Among the "misrepresentative" women included in Captain Harry Graham's new volume just issued by Duffield & Company, are Eve, Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, Marie Corelli and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. Among the makebelieves are Lady Godiva, Mrs. Grundy and Mrs. Christopher Columbus. Col. D. Streamer's fun in this new volume, as befits its feminine themes, is even more good-humored than in "Misrepresentative Men."

The autumn list of Ginn & Company, Boston, has some attractive titles. Mr. William J. Long, whose "Northern Trails," was the popular out-door book of last autumn, has written in "Brier-Patch Philosophy" from what may seem a new view-point, but which in reality is only a general justification of his views in regard to the moral and intellectual development of the animal world.

Miss Caroline Burnite, director of the children's work in the Cleveland Public Library, believes that the stories that were favorites in the days of our mothers and grandmothers still have a charm for children and that romance ought not to be crowded out by "nature books." She has edited Grace Greenwood's Stories from Famous Ballads and Mr. E. H. Garrett has contributed a frontispiece in colors and full-page illustrations for each story.

A new book that is sure to attract attention in these days of athletics and physical culture is "Physical Education" by Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, director of the Hemenway Gymnasium, Harvard University. The book covers historically the progress of physical education and the obstacles it has had to overcome to reach its present development. He says "North America has originated little in the way of physical exercises, excepting possibly the game of lacrosse, which was played by the Indians, and the game known as 'bean bag,' invented by Dr. Dio Lewis."

Ralph Connor's many admirers will welcome the news that a new story of his is now on the press at Revells. The scene of "The Doctor" is laid up in the Canadian foothills, where the Sky Pilot and the Prospector passed through their stormy days. The story is rugged and vigorous as are its predecessors and it is quite credible that the typical Connor hero will be as attractive when clothed in the fascination of the man of science performing faithful ministry to bodies, as was the Sky Pilot who administered to souls.

Hugh Black's new book is a volume of sermons preached in his Edinburgh pulpit and issued by Revells under the title, "Listening to God." This volume appears almost simultaneously with the beginning of Mr. Black's duties as professor at the Union Seminary. The volume is dedicated to the congregation of St. George's United Free Church in Edinburgh in memory of ten years' ministry.

Revells have on the press a book by Newell Dwight Hillis, "The Fortune of the Republic." Dr. Hillis holds a unique position among American pulpiteers in the very widespread popularity of his writings. This volume, like "The Investment of Influence," and "A Man's Value to Society," is a series of related essays. They touch our national forces and prospects and deal with the national consciousness underlying our holidays and institutions class feelings, schools, etc., and are strongly optimistic in tone

A notable book on the problem of assimilating the immigrants into our national life is "The Incoming Millions," by Howard B. Grose. Dr. Grose is a member of the Home Missions Board of the Baptist Churches and has given this question many years of study.

Revells are issuing a book of the out-door type that will find its way straight to the heart of every nature lover, "Camp-Fire Musings," by Dr. W. C. Gray, late editor of the Chicago Interior.

Philip Loring Allen has the distinction of the simultaneous announcement of his marriage to Miss Ryan, of Reedsburg, Wisconsin, and the publication of his first book, "America's Awakening: The Triumph of Righteousness in High Places." Mr. Allen is a young newspaper man on the editorial staff of the New York Evening Post.

Eleanor Gates' new romance of the prairies, "The Plow-Woman" (McClure, Phillips & Co.), comes from the West, indorsed by the West as an authentic and real "historical novel" in the best sense of the word,—though it is history of only thirty years ago. But it is refreshing to get a picture of real Indians, real plainsmen (not necessarily "cow-boys") and settlers, and to experience a thrill of excitement over situations that are the result of real conditions, vouched for by those who have gone through them rather than melodramatic clap-trap evolved in the wilds of a great city.

"It seems to me," writes Ellis Parker Butler, discussing his phenomenally successful little book, "Pigs Is Pigs," (McClure, Phillips & Co.), "that this particular story had more laughs than a writer of laughs usually gives for the money. This was unintentional. I think one good laugh in a short story is enough for anybody and if I had known that 'Pigs Is Pigs' contained so many I should have taken some out and saved them to spice some other story that was short of laughs."

Mr. Marion Crawford's new novel, "A Lady of Rome," will be issued by Messrs. Macmillan next week. It is a story of modern Roman society, and is concerned with the fate of the Contessa di Mentallo, who was changed by her marriage from a bright and fearless girl to a woman with a look in her eyes "of continual terror, a haunted look, the look of a woman who lives in perpetual dread of a terrible catastrophe."

A book which is certain to be among the most popular of the season is Certain Delightful English Towns, by William Dean Howells, which the Harpers are to publish next week. The book is to be profusely illustrated, and the writing is full of that charming quality which has made Mr. Howells a classic in his own lifetime.

The problems presented in The Awakening of Helena Richie have so deeply impressed the mind and conscience of New England, that in various pulpits, in Boston and elsewhere, sermons have been preached with this really wonderful book as a text. The ministers have not been of one mind in regard to Mrs. Deland's working out of the problem of the story; not all agree that Doctor Lavendar's method of bringing the dramatic complication to a final happy solution was the best possible from the standpoint of rigid ethics; but all agree as to the sweetness and charm of the book, and the basic rigidity of conscience with which the delicate situation that lies at the root of the story is handled.

That a man is often recognized when he does not expect to be was realized by Mr. William Dean Howells a few days ago. He was hurrying to the railway station to catch a train, but stopped at a news-stand for a copy of The North American Review, whereupon the boy handed him, not the latest copy, but one which was two weeks old. Mr. Howells, merely supposing that the boy considered him one of those upon whom old copies could be foisted through not knowing of the recent change by which the Review appears twice a month instead of only once a month as formerly, curtly called his attention to the fact that the Review was old. But, instead of instantly handing him the current number, the boy unexpectedly said, with the respectful insistence of one who feels sure he has given what the customer really wants: "Oh, but this is the one your piece is in, sir!"

The prologue of "The Belles of Vaudroy," in which G. B. Burgin, the author, tells how George Chester, drawn by some occult force, came to Canada in search of the woman who had appeared to him in his dreams, how he found and was recognized by her and was never again separated from her until her death, and not entirely even then, demands a good deal from the credulity of the reader. The supernatural is brought slightly into the main action also, but not enough to disturb the matter-of-fact person or to affect the pretty love-sory. Mathurin, the lazy, handsome French-Canadian, the object of the outspoken admiration of every girl but one in Vaudroy, is an attractive person, who grows more attractive as his love for the exceptional maiden makes him perform herculean labors for her sake. But he is at his best—as Mr. Burgin is also—with the fragile little priest, the friend of his boyhood, whom he comforts, tends and protects with the beautiful intuitive protection that the strong sometimes give to the weak.

"The Belles of Vaudroy" belongs to the romantic, slightly stagey school of fiction, but it is nevertheless a pleasant book, and its theme—the value of love above material things—is refreshing.

Books of the Week Reviewed

The Rosary, and Other Poems. By Robert C. Rogers. (N.Y.: John Lane Company. 1906. Price $1.50.)

A sad truth, but one that can hardly be disputed, is the fact that volumes of verse have absolutely no market value at the present time. In England Alfred Austin, in a paper read before the Royal Institution, recently deplored "the growing dislike for the higher kinds of poetry," blaming mainly materialism and the tendency to prefer novels — a womanish tendency, he thinks. Another poet, who ranks higher than Mr. Austin, lately published a magazine article, calling attention to the general decline of verse, and attributed it in part to the "State discouragement of literature." Meanwhile, poetry of one kind or another gathers so thick and fast around every editor's desk that sometimes it seems as if he must shut up his office and conceal his address. Never before were so many people at it, and never before were there so many of almost identical emotions. Not a single publisher can probably be found who will risk his good dollars on verse written by anyone but a well-known author, and few publishers will risk them even on that. So, unless an author issues verse at his own expense, it is rarely issued. If it does get into book form, it fails to sell, and, more than ever, scepticism greets the manuscript of poetry.

Occasionally, of course, we meet with an exception to this rule, and when we do so, it is our duty to encourage the political aspirant. As a native of Buffalo, where he has long resided, Robert Cameron Rogers has a wide circle of acquaintances in Canada, who consider that he has so uncommon a mastery of thought and expression that we may fairly in the future expect from him more verse of even higher merit than is contained in the volume before us.

The first poem in it is "The Rosary," widely known in its musical setting by Mr. Nevin.

THE ROSARY.

The hours I spent with thee, dear heart,
Are as a string of pearls to me,
I count them over, every one apart,—
My Rosary.
Each hour a pearl, each pearl a prayer
To still a heart in absence wrung:
I tell each bead unto the end, and there
A Cross is hung.
Oh! memories that bless—and burn!
Oh! barren gain and bitter loss!
I kiss each bead, and strive at last to learn
To kiss the Cross,
Sweetheart,
To kiss the Cross.

The Buffalo poet's lines on "Doubt" are such as George Meredith might have penned, but the poem is unfortunately too long for our limited space, and will therefore content ourselves with a shorter composition.

LIKE TO A SHIP.

Like to a ship upon a shoreless ocean,
Manned by a never-growing crew of years,
My life slips onward, and with vain devotion
My soul stands silent at the helm, and steers
If one strong wind would blow direct and single,
Then would I turn wherever it might call;
But many winds there are that madly mingle,
And I must trim my sails to favor all.
So, whether I be drifting or be sailing,
I know not, and alas! shall never know:
My life is one long yearning, unavailing,
That some strong settled wind at last will blow!

Successful Marriages.

The Harpers are bringing out under the title of Some Successful Marriages, Abby Meguire Roach's novelettes of married life which have attracted so much attention during their publication in Harper's Magazine. All are stories of the highest interest, not only because they reveal the attitude of a woman of discernment toward the subtle problems of married life, but also because they carry a message of courage and of optimism, and present a new and higher ideal of success in marriage.

Miscellaneous Books.

In issuing "A Cheerful Year-Book," the philosophy of which is from F. M. Knowles, the illustrations from C. F. Lester, and the prologue and epilogue from Carolyn Wells, Henry Holt & Co., have offered a real novelty to the searcher for something original in the way of holiday presentation books. It is dainty, amusing, and, strange to relate, even capable of being put to use.

"Witch-Crow and Barney Bylow," is the first of the Saalfield Publication Co.'s holiday offerings for children that has reached this office. The story is well told and should appeal to all the younger generation, while the illustrations add much to the value of the book.

Walter Scott a Best Seller.

That there is still a demand for old favorites, in spite of the success of the newly-written "best sellers," is shown by the fact that the Harpers have just published a new edition, in thirty volumes, of the novels of Sir Walter Scott. Even Scott himself, "Wizard of the North," though he was, could not have prophesied such a remarkable continuance of popularity.

The Harpers are publishing The Story and Song of Black Roderick, a story told with idyllic delightfulness by Dora Sigerson, well known as the author of The Fairy Changeling, My Lady's Slipper, and As the Sparks Fly Upward. It is the tale of how the little bride of Earl Roderick, whom he had married for reasons of state, tried with patient pathos to win the love of her stern husband. The book glows with poetic imagination, and beautiful ballads are here and there interspersed to carry on the thread of the tale. It carries a deep, spiritual message, and the style is of lilting and unaffected charm.

Don-a-Dreams. A Story of Love and Youth. By Harvey J. O'Higgins. (New York: The Century Co. 1906.)

This title sounds alluring and will, no doubt, attract many readers of both sexes. Donald Gregg, who is the Don Quixote, or Don-a-Dreams of the tale was, from his boyhood's days a lover, a poet, and a gentle solitary. We make his acquaintance when he was only six years old, and, as a little "make believer," cried all night when he was gravely informed that Santa Claus was not a real personage. He then set himself the task of preventing his younger brother from being "disillusioned" in the same way as himself. When he reaches the maturer age of fifteen he wanders in solitary places, and has become a devout worshipper of Spenser's "Fairie Queen," in addition to being the idealistic lover of Margaret Richardson, who, in the years since their first chance meeting, had been the constant companion of his dreams and thoughts. The boy for a long time seemed to remain the unpractical Don-a-Dreams, until the real Donald Gregg, rebelling against his unsympathetic father, and what he found the fettering conditions of a small Canadian town, innocently betook himself to New York to earn his livelihood and win success. His career there is described in minute detail, and is a story that should impress any similar youth of an impracticable character. Throughout all the difficulties and troubles that he encountered in the turbulent existence of a city like New York, he preserved his native purity, and his too sensitive idealism, and the author rewards him in the end with a fair share of the happiness which his conduct in life had richly merited. The author describes only what he has seen and known, and therefore cannot fail to impress his readers.

NOTES AND QUERIES

A Singular "Phrase."

During a few months' residence in the States, I observed among all classes, the constant use of the expression, "I would not stand for it." It seems to have also gained a foothold here in Canada. To me it seems inelegant, because uneuphonious and inadmissible on grammatical grounds. The word "stand" is made do verb-service analogous to "endure," "suffer," and the like, and yet that ugly, redundant, laborious, "for" is interlarded with a grace similar to that in such expressions as "I am going for to rest." Imagine the ridiculousness of using "stand" as a noun in such a case. The natural interpretation would then be, e.g., I would not "stand" (like a horse presumably) to have the whip inflicted! If we can say: "We have 'stood it' long enough," then why, in the name of our mother tongue could we not say that, "We could 'stand' it a little longer?" The last forms I have heard all my life, but if there be no grammatical grounds for the other usage, I prefer the simpler and sufficiently perspicuous ones.

(Montreal) CANADIAN.

I have never heard the use of the expression, "I would not stand for it." It seems to me to be unmeaning, but, perhaps, some correspondent will be able to throw some light on the phrase.

"The Meeting of the Magi."

Will you, at your convenience, please print "The meeting of the Magi," by Grant Seymour?

(Sherbrooke street). E. A. R.

I will publish "The Meeting" next week.

A Good Proposition to Be Considered.

I enclose a copy of Renaud's fine poem, "Le Soldat du Marathon." It is considered, I am told, difficult to translate, and was included in the Matriculation examinations at McGill, lately, not necessarily to be versified. Would it not be interesting to ask for translations in Notes and Queries as you did before I enclose my paraphrase, but would like you to reserve it until others come in.

A Poem by T. B. Aldrich—Wanted.

"Andromeda in fetters by the sea.
Star-pale with anguish till young Perseus came,
Less moves me by her wretchedness than she
The wan pale maid who nightly haunts the Park."

Can any of your readers or can you yourself tell me where I can get this poem? I think it is by T. B. Aldrich.

J. TOMLINSON WYCKHOFF.
(Montreal.)

I have before me a pretty little blue and gold edition of "The Poems of Thomas Bailey Aldrich," published in Boston by Ticknor & Fields. It includes "Judith," "Legends and Lyrics," "Cloth of Gold," "Interludes," "The Ballad of Babie Bell, and Other Poems," "The Set of Turquoise," and, finally, "Sonnets."

At the time the book was published, it, no doubt, was a complete book of Mr. Aldrich's poems up to date; so that, as the lines quoted are not in this volume, they must have appeared since in some magazine or newspaper. The lines are certainly in the poet's peculiar style.

A Saying Corrected.

In your issue of May 8, pp. 10. Miners forced to accept terms. Everything is lovely and the goose hangs high. Why is the term "hangs" used? The goose honks, not hangs.

J. E. GOSLINE.

...orville, N.S.

...ading "honks" is, I believe, the correct one.

Canadian Literature.

Would you kindly refer me to some source of information on "Canadian authors and their works?" Was there not an article in one of the late magazines on the subject? We are to devote an evening to the study of that subject in our "Young People's Guild," hence my question.

I have just received from the publisher, Mr. W. Briggs, of Toronto, a "Handbook of Canadian Literature (English)," by Archibald McMurchy, formerly rector of the Collegiate Institute, Toronto. It will amply satisfy all your wants at present.

Sentimental Poem Wanted.

About a year ago, I wrote asking if you would kindly publish in your columns a piece of poetry, if it can be found. The first couple of lines are something like this:

"I have wandered far away, Mother,
Far from my happy home."

It was found in a convict's cell in the penitentiary at Kingston, Ont., and was published in the Star in July or August, 1903.

"Chippendale."

Will you be good enough to tell me whence comes the name "Chippendale," as applied to a kind of furniture?

G. C. FARISH.

Yarmouth, N. S.

The term "Chippendale" is applied to a light style drawing-room furniture, after the name of a well-known cabinet-maker of the nineteenth century. The term is also applied to a style of book-plates.

"The Orphan's Dream"—Wanted.

Would you kindly publish in next Saturday's Star the poem entitled "The Orphan's Dream?" or kindly inform me where I could obtain a copy of it?

OLIVE.

Some correspondent must come to Olive's assistance, as I have never, to my recollection, seen the verses referred to.

Old Steel Engravings.

I have an old steel engraving entitled "The Royal Cortege in Windsor Park," which is engraved from the original picture painted at Windsor Castle, by R. B. Davis, and which was dedicated to Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent. The engraving is by F. Bromley, and represents the late Queen Victoria riding with the Prince Consort and cortege in Windsor Park. The picture is two feet by three feet (including border). If any of your readers have a similar engraving perhaps they will let me know through your columns. I would also like to know the present value of these engravings.

M. Cramahe—Historical Query.

General James Murray, Governor of Quebec District in 1760, has as secretary M. Cramahe. In the consideration of Canadian affairs by the Imperial officers in London it is stated that they conferred with Lewis Cramahe, Esq., secretary to Governor Murray. There is also Hector Theophile Cramahe, member of Governor Murray's council and afterwards Administrator and Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. Is the name Lewis a mistake and was H. T. Cramahe the Governor's secretary or were there two of the name Cramahe in the public service at the same time?

INVESTIGATOR.

Toronto.

The Word "Bohemian."

Ignoramus writes—Would you be so kind as to explain through your columns at your convenience the meaning of the phrase, or rather perhaps expression, "living a Bohemian life." Writer is of the opinion that this applies to an artistic kind of life, such as the dwellers in studios in Paris, New York and also some of the writers enjoy. Is this not a misused term when applied to a house that is untidy and dirty and unartistic?

A gipsy used often to be called a Bohemian, from the belief that these wanderers came from Bohemia. The term "Bohemian" is at times applied to persons of loose or irregular habits. It denotes an artist or man of letters, or indeed anyone, who sets social conventionalities aside. Thackeray and Henri Murger have drawn many vivid pictures of English and French Bohemian life. The word cannot be aptly applied to a dirty house, though the rooms in it may be in a state of disorder, owing to its having "Bohemian" tenants of irregular habits.

Puzzles.

Q.—If the clock strikes six in thirty seconds, how long will it take to strike twelve?

A.—Sixty-six seconds.

Q.—"What are eggs to-day per dozen?" a lady asked at her grocer. "Two more for a shilling," said the grocer, "would make them a penny per dozen less." "Then," said the lady, "I will take a shilling's worth." How many did she buy?

A.—She bought sixteen eggs for a shilling at the rate of 9d. per dozen. Had there been eighteen for a shilling the price would have been 3d. per dozen.

Q.—Twelve eggs in a basin, twelve men in a room; each takes an egg, and there is still one egg in the basin.

A.—The explanation is that the last man took the basin as well.

Q.—When to-morrow is yesterday, to-day will be as near to the end of the week as to-day was when yesterday was to-morrow. What day was it?

A.—Wednesday.

Q.—How long would it take you to climb a pole twenty feet, climbing at the rate of four feet a minute, but each minute, having climbed four feet, you slip back three?

A.—Seventeen minutes. In sixteen minutes you would have climbed sixteen feet, but the next minute, being at the top, you would not slip back.

Q.—If I buy one goose, two ducks, and three chickens for 4s, and two ducks and three chickens are together worth three geese, and three chickens are worth two ducks, what is the price of each?

A.—Goose, 1s; duck, 9d; chicken, 6d.

Q.—Divide 56 into two numbers, of which one shall be exactly one-third of the other?

A.—14 and 42.

Q.—How many dinners would be necessary for a club of seven persons who had agreed to dine with each other as long as they could be differently arranged when they sat down at table?

A.—5,040 dinners.

Q.—When do 2 and 2 not make 4?

A.—When they stand for 22.

Whilst in a restaurant the other day I noticed two fathers and two sons at lunch. The charge was 9d. per head. What do you think the bill totalled?

Total, 2s. 3d; the persons present being father, son, and grandfather.

Talk About Spiders' Webs.

Have you ever seen a garden spider spinning its web? Most likely you have not. For, although these spiders are very common everywhere and you can find their webs in every garden, very few people ever see the spiders spinning them. The reason is that they do not get up early enough in the morning. If you want to see a spider spinning its web you must be up and dressed long before sunrise. For as soon as the first faint rays of dawn begin to appear in the eastern sky the garden spiders cut their old webs down and begin to make new ones. And they work so quickly that in less than three-quarters of an hour their nets are finished.

Let me tell you how they go to work. The first thing that the spider does is to spin a sort of outer framework, to the inside of which the net can be fastened. She makes this of very stout line indeed, often laying two threads side by side, and glueing them firmly together. And every time she fastens it down she gives it two or three smart pulls, to make quite sure that it is sufficiently strong. This frame she fixes in position by means of a number of guy-ropes, also of silk, which are very elastic, so that they can be stretched a good deal without breaking.

When the framework is finished, the spider has to carry a thread of silk right across the middle, from one side to the other. You might think that this would be a very difficult thing to do, because the spider cannot jump across; and if she walked round the margin and dragged her thread after her, it would stick to everything that it touched on the way. But she knows quite well how to manage. First she spins about an inch of line. Then she takes hold of it with one of her hind feet, stretches out her leg at right angles to her body, and then walks round the framework, spinning as she goes, and holding the line well away from everything to which it might stick. And when she gets to the opposite side she just pulls it in till it is quite tight, tries its strength by two or three little pulls, and fastens it firmly down!

Now, you see, she has a silken bridge, as it were, right across the middle of the framework. From the centre of this she carries a number of threads to the margin at almost equal distances apart, so that they look rather like the spokes of a wheel; and she tries the strength of every one of these in just the same way. Then she goes back to the centre of the web, and spins a little platform to sit upon. And after this she sets to work on the spiral thread, carrying it round and round, and fastening it carefully down to every one of the straight threads which it crosses, until at last the web is finished.

If you look closely at a spider's web, you will see that the spiral thread is not drawn quite tight between any two of the straight threads. That is because the spider knows that if it were stretched too much it would break if a fly were caught in the web and began to struggle. So she leaves it rather loose, in order that it may yield a little when her victims twist and wriggle about, and yet hold them quite firmly.

Now, why do you think that a spider's web is sticky?

Well, if you were to look at a little bit of the spiral thread through a good strong microscope you would see that it was set all the way along with tiny drops of a very strong gum. There are about two hundred of these in every inch of thread, and eighty thousand or more altogether in a large web, and they only remain sticky for about twenty-four hours. That is why the spider cuts down her old web on every fine morning, and spins a new one in its place. And if you want to know why the spider never sticks to her own web the answer is that only the spiral thread is gummy, and that as she runs about upon her web she is careful to place her feet only on the straight threads, which are not sticky at all.

SAVED BY A DUCK.

My uncle, who is now a major in the Marine Corps, a few years ago had command of a battalion of marines in the march on Pekin, to rescue the Americans at the time of the trouble with China.

As they neared the wall of Pekin, after a long and tiresome march, my uncle noticed a small-sized river between them and the wall, on which were hundreds of Pekin ducks.

My uncle, thinking one would taste very nice after the fare he had been having, stooped to catch one that was near the shore.

The wall was covered with Chinamen who were firing at the soldiers. One of them evidently noticed my uncle was one of the officers, and fired at him.

Just as my relative stooped to hit the duck, the bullet went whizzing by above his head, but just where his head would have been if he had not stooped.

He succeeded in getting the duck, which he took with him into Pekin, expecting to have a feast; but hearing that Mrs. Conger had been kept a prisoner in the Legation so long that food had given out, he sent her the Pekin duck that had saved his life.—Buford Brice, in St. Nicholas.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Mr. A. MENDELSSOHN-TRIO'S CONCERT

First of Series of Six Concerts Open Auspiciously Last Evening.

The first of a series of six concerts, by the Mendelssohn Trio, was given last night at the Art Gallery, where a small but select audience had the opportunity of realizing that Montreal has at last a trio capable of giving adequate interpretation to any music written for such an organization. Messrs. Hans Harthan, T. Desterbecq, and J. B. Dubois are players worthy of a city of the standing of Montreal in the world of music, and also worthy of each other. Their work last night showed an intellectual insight and artistic sympathy deserving of the very highest praise, and also of very happy augury for the musical entertainments of the remainder of the season.

The superiority of the present organization over that of the last and preceding years was evident from the very beginning of the opening movement of the Saint Saens Trio in F Camille, which was the first number of the three on the programme, and became only the more striking as the concert continued. Camille, which Montreal audiences have seldom had the opportunity of hearing, was exceedingly well rendered the Sherzo movement especially meeting with great favor. The pizzicato work here was altogether admirable and displayed to the very best advantage, the technique of the trio. The only possible objection was that throughout the number the work of the violin was somewhat in abeyance and the tones developed by Mr. Desterbecq rather thin, so that they were at times lost in the more robust notes of the two other instruments. But if he lacked volume of tone in this number, Mr. Desterbecq more than made up for it in the Greig Sonata in C-minor which followed. Here his tones were so full as to be at intervals even forced; but the latter forgot to be critical of tones and technique when caught up in the veritable flood of musical emotion which Mr. Desterbecq poured forth in this number. It was the triumph of the evening, and Mr. Desterbecq and Dr. Harthan shared the honors of the occasion. The third and last number was the Beethoven Trio in C-minor, and was, like the other items, given in a thoroughly adequate manner.

The work of Mr. Dubois who was the founder, and is the only remaining member of the original Mendelssohn Trio, is too well known to Montrealers to need further comment. It suffices to say that his playing last night was all that it has been in the past, and in the case of Mr. Dubois this is the very highest praise. Mr. Desterbecq has already been noted, and there remains only Dr. Harthan, the other new member of the organization. Dr. Harthan is by now a familiar figure in Montreal's music world, having been in this city for some years. He displayed last night the same qualities of intelligence, fine sympathy, and cultured technique which distinguished him from the first as one of Montreal's first pianists. His work, like that of his confrerys, was throughout meritorious and interesting, and contributed greatly to making the entertainment the entirely successful one that it was.

"My First Flogging."

Lord Methuen distributed the prizes, and Lord George Hamilton gave reminiscences of his first flogging, at Dover College, recently, when the college cadet corps was inspected.

Referring to theh importance of teaching boys how to shoot straight, Lord Methuen said:—

"Do not let any one say it is a mistake to teach a boy when he is young how to kill his enemy. In olden days knights did not take part in the tournaments and in my younger days I did not work at fencing and boxing in order to kill or hurt the first individual they came across.

"It was because they knew perfectly well that if they could use the weapons nature or art had given them, there was far less chance of any one ever attacking them—and what is true of individuals is true of nations.

Lord George Hamilton's reminiscence seemed to be inspired by Lord Methuen's words.

"I think it is just forty-two years ago," he said, "when, as two little boys eight years old, Lord Methuen and I met together in the same private school. We sat at the same table, and were in the same class, and I regret that Lord Methuen was the reason of my first getting flogged.

"We had some difference of opinion in class, and something Lord Methuen said so annoyed me that I immediately commenced to kick his shins in class. I was, very properly, led away and flogged.

"When I now look at the disproportion in physique between myself and Lord Methuen, I think I must have been a very brave little boy. Under present conditions nothing on earth could induce me to kick so redoubtable an opponent."

WOMEN'S WORK and INTERESTS

MY LADY'S BOOK-SHELF.

Keats' Birthday.

All lovers of poetry and of Keats will be glad to hear that the authorities in charge of Keats' House, Hampstead, London, have decided to celebrate the 110th anniversary of the poet's birth on October 31st. It is a pleasant and profitable custom to devote a night or two to such anniversaries. It serves to keep the memories of the dead green, refreshes the fresh in our minds. Over one hundred years ago John Keats was born, and just twenty-six years later his life drew to its sad close. We should forget in paying his memory the excesses of youth of the poet, the bitter years being overclouded by ill-health. His love affair with Fanny Brawne is known to all but never loses its sad interest. Writing to a friend from Italy, where he had been sent for his health, he cries: "The persuasion that I will see her on my way will kill me. . . . I can bear to die I cannot bear to leave her." But he never did see her again, dying shortly afterwards. He was buried at Rome, where a year later the remains of the unfortunate Shelley were also to be brought. It is curious to note that a copy of Keats' "Lamia" was found on Shelley when his body was washed ashore.

They say women read very little poetry, but we doubt if the accusation is founded on fact. The love of music is closely allied to the love of poetry and both should be very much to the fore in a woman's character. There is a great deal of fashion in the reading of poetry. Many women love poetry in private who are afraid to take even their intimate friends into their confidence. They seem to think there is something weak and affected in owning to a love of poetry. One might as well be ashamed to own to a love of music. As Keats himself says, "Heard melodies are sweet, but those unheard are sweeter."

Poetry is but written music whose melodies sing in our hearts.

Trollope's Barsetshire Novels.

A correspondent writes us: "I have just finished reading Trollope's novels for the third time, and I have been much pleased by the fact that I failed to find in them a single reference to motor cars. Starting in our own Province, the following well-known novels: "The Rector of Tecumseh," "Dorset Pharne," "Stanley Parsons," "The Small House at Allington," and "The Last Chronicle of Barset." If my memory has served me false, perhaps some other Trollope lover will correct this list."

Princess Priscilla's Fortnight.

The anonymous lady who gave to the world that charming tale "Elizabeth and Her German Garden" has written several books since, but none to compare with the first. This latest is the account of a fortnight a German Princess spent in England at her elderly tutor. Tiring of the restrictions of her court life and frightened by an approaching marriage she decides to run away. This she does and settles in a quiet English village where her adventures are told in such terse of humor. One of the most amusing incidents is where Lady Shuttleworth, the great lady of the neighborhood, and the wife of the clergyman, calls on the Princess, who is under the name of Ethel Marie Therese Normanby-Shultz. The Princess becomes slightly bored by Lady Shuttleworth's chatter, and, using [illegible] has been very kind of you [illegible] see me. I hope you will [illegible] come again another time."

It is a prerogative of Princesses to think of themself of a burdensome visitor, it makes one long to be a really truly princess oneself. Altogether "Princess Priscilla's Fortnight" is a pleasant little book that will serve for a wet afternoon admirably and where else could you discover of a modern novel?

LOOKING UPWARD.

Whatever your present self may be, resolve with all your strength of resolution never to degenerate thence. Be jealous of a shadow of falling off. Determine rather to look above that standard and to strive beyond it.

LEAVES FROM A NOTE-BOOK.

Do Dogs Reason?

A most interesting discussion is going on in one of the American papers on the above subject. Do dogs reason? One side says no, the other yes. So far the ayes seem to have the best of the argument. Here is an example that recently came under the notice of the Note-book. A friend has a dog that is growing old and fat, but not in the least stupid. He does not follow very well, and she takes him out very often on a strap. The other morning she was in a great hurry and rushed poor Fido, as we shall call him, along at a great rate. He did not like it at all, but had to come willy-nilly. Suddenly she felt the strap lighter and looked around to see Fido sitting on the pavement some feet back with an expression of the utmost obstinacy on his face. She went back and slipped his collar on again. But Fido had learnt a new trick. He had discovered that if he sat down suddenly and firmly the collar would slide off and three times while he was out he worked that trick. Each time there was the monkey sitting on the sidewalk with that look that said as plainly as words: "I won't be dragged along. No self-respecting dog would submit to such treatment!"

This same dog was at a military camp a couple of years ago—perhaps we have told you about him before—and he learnt to distinguish the bugle call for the officers' mess from the bugle call for the men's mess. When one blew he rushed off to the right tent, and when the other pealed forth he scampered in the opposite direction. He was a great pet at both and knew he would get tit-bits twice over. Think of a little dog knowing bugle calls! Something some soldiers cannot manage.

Know the Man You Marry.

There is a moral to be drawn from all the unhappy marriages that are being turned inside out at present for the public to gape at, and it is a moral we hope all girls will draw. It is this, know the man you marry. This applies to every girl in every rank of life. Don't marry a man blindly, attracted perhaps by his handsome person or pleasing manners. Get to know him thoroughly before trusting your life into his hands. Know his friends and see him in his home circle. Is he kind and thoughtful and patient? Or is he impatient and bad-tempered and sullen? A man can pretend for a while in company, but if he is seen in his home surroundings his real character will come out. On this side of the ocean we are too apt to let our girls settle their own love affairs. It is the duty of the head of the family to make searching enquiries about the man the daughter wants to marry. We would not dream of taking a maid into our house without satisfactory references and yet we often trust our daughters to men of whom we know next to nothing. The girl's love for him is sufficient. The father thinks that if the daughter consents it is her business; but this is shirking responsibility. He should make a point, at the expense of much time and trouble, to find out all about his future son-in-law. If he lives in the same town it is comparatively easy, but when he comes from another place it is much more difficult. One shudders to think how manw men of attractive personality have come from afar and captured the hearts of our girls, who are all too ignorant, until it is too late, of their real character. If the homes of men wanting to marry our daughters are too far to be visited, letters should be written and information gained in that manner. A case came up not long ago of a perfectly charming young man who proposed to a girl here and was accepted. But the mother (the girl's father was dead), wrote immediately to his old home and found he had been sent across the Atlantic to cure him of his drinking habits and further investigation showed he was not cured in the least. Read the details of the cruel treatment accorded to young girls who marry abroad and take the lesson to yourself—as you value your life's happiness know the man you marry.

Design by May Manton.

5493 Misses' Fancy "Pony" Coat. 4907 Misses' Box Plaited Skirt.

THE NEW RUSSIAN GREEN.

The pony coat suits young girls peculiarly well in addition to being greatly in vogue. This one is of the more fancy sort, and is trimmed to give an entirely youthful and a together charming effect, while it is combined with the box-plaited skirt that is always becoming to girlish figures. In this instance the material is Russian green broadcloth and the trimming is plain and fancy braid, but the model suggests a great variety of treatment. Braid is one of the most fashionable of all trimmings just now, and is always handsome, but the rows or rosettes of the coat and the collar and the cuffs can be of contrasting material, or they can be trimmed with contrasting braid instead of matching color, so that a more or less elaborate effect can be obtained as one treatment or another is used. The coat is really very simple in spite of its effect. The under portions are arranged over the lining, while the material of the coat is applied over them and stitched into place, and the trimming portions are arranged over the whole, their stitched edges concealing the seams. The skirt is laid in box plaits and can be either trimmed with braid or finished with a stitched hem as liked. For a girl of fourteen years of age will be required, for the coat 3¾ yards of material 27, 2 yards 41 or 1¾ yards 52 inches wide, with 3¾ yards of silk for the lining; for the skirt, 6¼ yards 27, 3¾ yards 41 or 3⅝ yards 52 inches wide. A May Manton pattern of the coat, No. 5493, sizes 14 and 16 years, or of the skirt, No. 4907, sizes 12 to 16 years, will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents for each.

PRACTICAL FASHIONS

For the Would-be Smart Woman.

Describing a girl the other day as another girl noted for her smartness, said "rather pretty but untidy about her neck." How true this is of many girls and women! You will see an excellent tailor suit marred by a soiled or untidy neckpiece. It is the little things of dress that go to make style. And nothing is of greater consequence than the fit and shape of a collar. If it be baggy and loose it thickens the neck disastrously, and if it is too tight it injures a forlorn expression and tends to make the face appear drawn and thin. Notwithstanding, however, the power of the collar to add or diminish the charm of a gown it is not infrequently that one observes these sorry faults. Certain women understanding the full value of a well turned out neck, spare no time or trouble in the fitting of the bodice at this point. It will be found a vast improvement if the collar be slanted up slightly under the ear, just enough to break the hard straight line at the side of the neck, but of course not in an exaggerated point. Proper boning and fastenings should be procured. By all means have the collar high enough, especially at the back, as nothing is uglier than an expanse of neck between the collar and the hair. The fit should be perfect, not tight enough for discomfort, but under no circumstances loose.

Using Odd Bits of Silver.

An ingenious woman has added charm and distinction to her room by utilizing old bits of silver for fern and plant holders. One such piece was an old lattice work sugar bowl lined with green glass. This was used to hold a small pot of maiden hair fern and very dainty it looked. Another was one of those silver mugs that are given for prizes and which form white elephants in many a household where the sons are given to excelling in sports. This had a lining made of tin which held a graceful spray. These are just suggestions as to what may be done by an ingenious woman in utilizing pieces of silver of no particular use.

New Cravats.

The newest cravats or jabots to wear with the embroidered linen collars which are so smart when worn with tailored shirts, are made of fine handkerchief linens knife plaited and edged with lace. The fashionable shops ask very high prices for these dainty little novelties but they can be made at a very [illegible] buy a fine handkerchief edged with lace, one embroidered or not, as preferred, cut this in half and you will have the material for two jabots. Lay them in fine plaits and hand finish the top edge neatly with a bit of linen, and [illegible] with a warm Iron.

Fashion Notes.

Velvet is to be combined with every material from net to cloth in many of the most elaborate winter costumes. It is seen as collars, panels for petticoats, borders, hat trimmings and plumage in fact even the simplest detail reflects the universal mode. Even small dogs tail.

FROM OUR READERS

Men Snobs as Well as Women.

We have received a letter from one of our fair readers who signs herself Alpha, as follows:

If unwittingly I trespass in columns devoted to Women's Work and Interests, you will, I am sure, pardon me. The object of this intruding is to take exception to a sentence under the heading "Charity and Snobbishness" namely, that small snobbishness amongst our male population, as opposed to that among female society, is practically unknown. My better half accustomed to having me read most that is interesting in the Star, naturally "L. H. S." remarks with editor's comment came under my notice. Scarce had I finished when my good spouse with considerable warmth of expression, ejaculated "That's not true, that's not true. Just you write and contradict that statement, and tell what happened to me yest-erday." In her own words this is the tale. "Our young minister (we still under a senior and junior pastor) passed when I was busy polishing the brass on the street door. Looking me straight in the face, speaking never a word, not even a ministerial smile, he calmly strode on. Don't say he did not know me, he has spoken to me more than once in church and spoken hearty as well. He knew me but I suppose my clean maid-of-all-work waggery and domestic-like bustle did not accord with his dignity in cloth, hence the chilly passage-by."

With my good lady I join in thinking small snobbishness is not an exclusive feature of female character. My motto is, keep your eyes open in all [illegible] and [illegible] when it does it not exist?

It is just out of such misunderstandings as this that countless heart-burning and bitter feelings arise. I am quite sure that the young minister had not the slightest intention of cutting the [illegible] who was busy with her domestic duties. In the first place it was her place to bow to him first. Alpha's wife knows a lady must always keep the first recognition as it is her option to claim acquaintance or not. No man, even on the most intimate terms, would venture to bow to a lady, before she bowed to him. If the lady in question had smiled and nodded and said, "You see I am busy," she would have found a cordial recognition, and the young minister would probably have stopped for a chat.

As for not recognizing her, it is easy to understand. I am a woman, but I find it difficult often to recognize an acquaintance without her hat in her house clothes, when I have previously only seen her in her street costume. How much more difficult for a man! Alpha and his wife must be just and admit the extreme difficulty of remembering all the faces in a congregation. I am quite positive that the cut was entirely unintentional and I advise Mrs. Alpha to speak of it to the young gentleman the next time she has a chance. Just say jokingly, "Do you know you refused to know me the other day when I was polishing my door handle?" He will probably be extremely apologetic, and she will be convinced that it was simply lack of recognition. One of the cleverest men I know never recognizes the women of his own family at the [illegible] the street. And persons are proverbially absent-minded.

A Question of Wedding Etiquette.

Would you kindly inform me through the columns of the Star of the proper way a wedding should take place when the bride is married in travelling costume. I believe it is the custom among [illegible] couples to have the fathers of both parties as witnesses. In this case the bride's parents are French-Canadian, and claim that the above is the only proper way, while the groom's relatives are English-speaking and say that the bride only should be accompanied by her father, and the groom should have a best man and the bride a bridesmaid. The bride's relations claim that a bridesmaid is out of place where the bride wears a travelling costume.

By settling this little difference of opinion you will oblige,

A CONSTANT READER.

I can only settle this by saying that a bride's wishes always carry weight as to all the arrangements connected with the wedding. Whatever the after arrangements may be the bride is all-supreme on her wedding day. Therefore, her wishes not those of the groom should be considered. Why not compromise rather than have any difference of opinion at such a time? It is a simple matter to have the groom's father as a witness. Let him be accompanied by a best man as well if he so wishes. As for the bride, she would in any church be given away by her father. With regard to the bridesmaid it is not customary to have a bridesmaid when the bride wears her travelling dress. But this is entirely a matter of preference. If she wishes to have one well and good, and if not she is absolutely correct. If there is a bridesmaid she should be dressed also in street costume with a hat, but as I have said, it is more usual not to have one. The bride's family have the responsibility of all the wedding arrangements, but it is kinder to take some thought to the groom's wishes. Surely he cannot object to such a simple demand as that he be accompanied by his father.

Still More Visiting Cards.

A "Debutante" asks some questions about her cards which have already been answered. But we shall repeat briefly. A girl has her own cards or her name on her mother's as she wishes, either is correct. Personally, we prefer the latter. "If she follows our preference, she leaves them, of course, on friends even if her mother does not know them. It is taken for granted that the mother knows all her daughter's friends. If she has not happened to meet them the sooner the daughters see that this omission is rectified the better.

THE HOME-MAKER'S DEPARTMENT

Our Massachusetts friend, J. E. W., very kindly sends us the following recipes, which we have not yet had time to try, but shall do so with the conviction that they will be excellent, for we are of the opinion that J. E. W. is a typical good New England housewife, noted for her cooking.

Orange Cake.

Separate the whites and yolks of three eggs. Beat the whites stiff and add the unbeaten yolks and beat all together. Add one cup of sugar and beat again. One large teaspoonful of baking-powder sifted in one cup of flour. Use the juice of one medium-sized orange or about three tablespoonfuls and a little of the grated rind, and one-third of a cup of cold water. Bake in a rather large shallow, square pan from twenty to thirty minutes.

Use the white of an egg and one cup of confectioner's sugar for frosting, flavoring with a little of the orange juice and a suspicion of the grated rind. If baked quickly the quality is very delicate, if longer more of the nature of a sponge cake.

We might add that this would be pretty cut in small squares with a section of an orange neatly laid on the icing of each while soft.

New England Mince Meat.

Take four pounds of meat, two pounds of suet, three of currants, three of raisins, half a pound of citron. Double the quantity of meat in apples, two tablespoonfuls of cloves, two and a half of cinnamon, three of allspice, four nutmegs, one and a half pints of cider, same of whiskey (this may be omitted if desired), half a pint of the liquor in which the meat has been boiled and the fat from the top, one quart of molasses and sugar to sweeten enough, pretty sweet. Scald the mixture thoroughly before putting into the jar, or it can be put into quart or pint jars for keeping. If not moist enough put in more of the liquor of the meat and a little more cider. Salt the meat a good deal before adding the suet. Half of the recipe may be used. This is well-tried and reliable.

Cheese Timbales.

This is also a pretty and tempting luncheon dish. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter. Add two of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth of paprika, and half a cup each of cream, milk and white stock. In this melt half a pound of grated cheese. Pour this mixture over four yolks of eggs and three whole eggs beaten until well-mixed. Stir thoroughly and turn into small timbale moulds thoroughly buttered. Set the moulds in a pan on several folds of paper, surround with boiling water and bake until the mixture is firm, but without allowing the water to boil. Serve turned from the moulds and surrounded with tomato sauce.

Removing Stains From Linen.

Stains on linen should be removed as soon as possible after they are made. Delays make them much more difficult to deal with. Wash out milk or meat stains with warm water. When the linen is stained with tea, chocolate, coffee or fruit stretch the portion of stained linen over a bowl. Have ready a kettle of water at boiling point. Hold the kettle high and pour the water on the stain until it disappears. Most stains will vanish before this treatment. Peach stains are the most difficult to remove. If the stain be small wet it thoroughly, then burn a sulphur match beneath the spot. Cover wine stains with common salt, and then pour boiling water on them as described.

POEMS WORTH REMEMBERING

A Thing of Beauty.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever;
Its loveliness increases; it will never Pass into nothingness; but still will keep
A bower quiet for us, and a sleep
Full of sweet dreams, and health, and quiet breathing.
Therefore, on every morrow, are we wreathing
A flowery band to bind us to the earth
Spite of despondence, of the inhuman dearth
Of noble natures, of the gloomy days,
Of all the unhealthy and o'er-darkened ways
Made for our reaching; yes, in spite of all,
Some shape of beauty moves away the pall
From our dark spirits. Such the sun, the moon,
Trees old and young, sprouting a shady boon
For simple sheep; and such are daffodils,
With the green world they live in; and clear rills
That for themselves a cooling covert make
'Gainst the hot season; the mid-forest brake,
Rich with a sprinkling of fair musk-rose blooms;
And such, too, is the grandeur of the dooms
We have imagined for the mighty dead;
All lovely tales that we have heard or read;
An endless fountain of immortal drink,
Pouring unto us from the heaven's brink.

Success.

"What is the secret of success?"
"Push," the Wheelbarrow said;
The Pencil, sharp and to the point,
Made answer: "Don't be led."

"Always keep cool," thus spoke the Ice;
"Stick to your task," the Glue;
"Be up to date," the Calendar;
The Compass said: "Be true."

"Do all you can to drive ahead,"
The Hammer's answer ran.
"Ever aspire to greater things,"
Such was the Nutmeg's plan.

"Wake up," the Alarm Clock then struck in;
The slangy Barrel said:
"To stave off failure, (w)hoop her up,
But do not lose your head."

"Press on and strive," the Seal replied,
"To make a good impression."
The Window framed its answer thus:
"Take pains"—that closed the session.

This banker is Mr. W. J. Essame, assistant manager in London of the Union Bank of Australia. In a conversation with a representative of the Star Mr. Essame explained that the head office, the directorate and chief officials of the bank were in London, England, although the bank did its business, through its 131 branches, in Australia.

In view of recent difficulties in the Canadian financial world, Mr Essame was asked what system of bank inspection was followed in England, and more especially in his institution.

"Private inspection," said he. "The bank employs its own inspectors, and it is their duty to check all the statements and report upon them. We have found it entirely satisfactory."

"See here," said he, drawing the last balance sheet of his bank from his pocket, and pointing to an item of one million pounds in the reserve fund. "Those securities mentioned there, being consols and other Government securities, are under lock and key. They are an absolute guarantee, and no one can get hold of them."

"You cannot make any use of them then?" was the question.

"No, they are there as a positive guarantee, and remain under lock and key."

"I hardly think," interjected Mr. Mathewson, that that method would appeal to Canadian bankers.

"How did you find business in Australia," Mr Essame was asked.

"Splendid," was the reply. "The revenue from the staple crops, the wool, and the dairy products, has been enormous, and the people all appear to have lots of money. So much, in fact, that they are not calling for money and we have a large quantity to loan in England."

Mr. Essame sails for England in the morning.

LOOKING FOR A MISSING HUSBAND.

It is the opinion of the Boston police that Leo Bernard has deserted his wife and five children. He is a French-Canadian, and his wife is a native of Cape Breton. Mrs. Bernard is sick at the Chardon street home, Boston, surrounded by her children, the eldest five years and the youngest six weeks old. They left here for Boston Monday. When Mrs. Bernard and her five little ones arrived at the North station in that city, she expected her husband would be at the station to welcome them, but she was doomed to disappointment and was obliged to seek the assistance of the police. Officers learned that Bernard lodged in a house in Boston up to a short time ago, when he changed his place of residence securing lodgings in another city near Boston.

Bernard was notified by the police that his family had arrived in Boston. Late last night he went to the police station and was informed that they were then at the Chardon Street Home. The husband failed to come and Wednesday night, in company with a woman, Mrs. Bernard set out from the home to find the absent man. At the address given her she was told that he was not there.

Another Showing of Smart Hats

AT MODERATE PRICES.

STYLE and individuality form the keynote. Many women prefer these hats to the popular semi-dress hats, which cost less, because a certain exclusiveness of style characterizes them.

The shapes are very varied; chic, small and admirably suited to tailored gowns, and many handsome models for cermonious wear. There is a charming variety in the trimmings, the feathered kingdom furnishing wings, quills and other novelties; there are roses big and little, sometimes a little odd as to color but very effective.

The best materials have been used and there are contrasts in colors and subtle blendings of shade which show that the designers have studied with the best masters—the flowers.

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

What promises to be quite one of the prettiest house weddings that has ever taken place in Montreal is that of Miss Orian Hays to Mr. Thornton Davidson, which takes place this afternoon, at half past four o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Ontario Avenue. It will be a white and gold wedding, and the bride will be attended by a maid of honor and seven bridesmaids, whose frocks will artistically carry out the color scheme. A reception will follow the ceremony, and later the bride and groom will leave for Boston, to sail for a trip to the West Indies.

This afternoon Miss Coghlin, Sherbrooke street, will entertain at a large tea in honor of her cousin, Miss Dobson. Miss Freddie Browne will also entertain at the tea hour this afternoon for Miss Madouin Draper.

In St. Louis, to-day the marriage will take place of Miss Lily Dieckreder, to Mr. Walter Rawlings, of Montreal. The ceremony will take place quietly, and among those present will be Mr. and Mrs. E. Rawlings and the Misses Rawlings of Simpson street.

Several interesting teas were given during the week including a "kitchen shower" tea given for Miss Orian Hays, by Miss Jessie Hannah. On Wednesday, Mrs. Graham Browne entertained at the tea hour, and on the same day Mrs. L. McL. Spackman gave a small tea at the Kennels for Mrs. Molson, of Cheltenham, England. Miss Rondeaux also entertained at tea on that day. Thursday Mrs. Nowlan de Lisle was the hostess at a tea for Lady de Blaquiere; Mrs. Currie, University street, also gave a largely attended tea, and Miss Morrow also entertained at the tea hour. Dinners were given by Mrs. Baumgarten, Mrs. Major, Mrs. E. Goff Penny, Mrs. Percy Cowans, Mrs. J. C. Kidd; and the hostesses at bridge included Mrs. James Bell and Mrs. Guy Ross.

The announcement that a St. Andrew's ball will be a feature of this season as it has for so many years past, will delight the hearts of the debutantes, who on that occasion hope to make their first bow to Society. This year the ball must necessarily be held in a new place, and the Highlanders Armory has been selected for the occasion. As usual the ball will be held on a Friday, and the new surroundings should add greatly to the interest of the evening.

Social features of the coming week include the wedding of Miss Madouin Draper, to Mr. Shirley Chilas, on Wednesday. The bride will be attended by her two sisters, the Misses Draper; Miss Marjorie Chilas, and Miss Jean Haslett (Hamilton). Miss Florence Fraser will be maid of honor. The marriage of Miss Hortense Dansereau, to Mr. Victor Pelletier, will take place at St. James Cathedral on Monday. On Wednesday, Miss Louise Murray Smith, will be married to Mr. F. S. Macfarlane, at the home of the bride's mother. The bride will be attended by Miss May Murray Smith, Miss Ida Macfarlane, and Miss Florence Wilkins.

Lady de Blaquiere, who sails for home very shortly, will be the guest of honor on Monday at a tea given by Mrs. Leclaire. Miss Amy Hiam will entertain at tea on Monday. Mrs. Fayette Brown will give a "coming-out" reception on Tuesday for Miss Dorothy Brown, and on Friday Mrs. C. L. Shorey will give a similar reception for Miss Marjorie Shorey. Friday evening at Stanley Hall the officers of the 1st Prince of Wales Fusiliers will give their annual dance.

Engagements which have aroused interest during the past week include that of Miss Hilda Beard and Mr. G. R. Burland; of Mr. Jack Creelman and Miss Katherine Weekes, of Texas, and of Miss Minette Mignault to Mr. Raymond Beaudry.

A great many post nuptial receptions are being held just at present. Mrs. H. M. Church, Mrs. Percy Cole and Mrs. A. D. Evans received this week. Next week Mrs. R. B. Van Horne will receive on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, and Mrs. A. P. Willis will receive on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Peculiar interest attaches to the betrothal of the Grand Duchess Serge of Russia, niece of the King, to the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievitch. Her Imperial Highness, who lost her husband two years ago next February, is just over forty, but she is still very lovely, and has become quite Russian in her sympathies. Her fiance is one of the Emperor's numerous cousins, and he is very wealthy. He is just fifty years of age, and, physically speaking, belongs to the more splendid type of Romanoffs. The Grand Duchess Serge has now lived for many years in and near Moscow, and she adopted some time ago the two motherless children of the Grand Duke Paul, son-in-law to the King of Greece. They will accompany her after her second marriage, which event will break her connection with Moscow, for the Grand Duke Nicholas has a splendid palace at St. Petersburg.

It is possible that Queen Alexandra may receive a visit in the near future from her brother-in-law and sister, the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland, who have not been in England since their marriage. Princess Frederica of Hanover, made her home for many years in England, Queen Victoria having granted her rooms at Hampton Court Palace, after her marriage to Baron Pawel von Rammingen.

The King has sent a wedding present to Miss May Cavendish-Bentinck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cavendish-Bentinck, accompanied by an autograph letter wishing her every happiness. Her marriage with Mr. John Ford, son of Sir Clare Ford and First Secretary of the British Legation at Constantinople, took place to-day in the Chapel Royal, London.

The late Marquis of Dufferin's portrait, by Henrietta Rae, has been accepted by the Dufferin Memorial Committee, and is to be presented to the Corporation of Belfast. It will be placed in the new City Hall, outside which a statue of Lord Dufferin was unveiled a few weeks ago.

Mrs. H. Ernest Brown (formerly Miss Effie Stanford) will receive for the first time since her marriage, Wednesday afternoon and evening, November 7th, at 360 Lafontaine Park, and afterward on third Wednesdays.

Mrs. Norman Greenshields Neill will receive for the first time since her marriage, at the residence of Mrs. W. Neill, 42 Mackay street, on Wednesday, November 7th, and afterwards on first Wednesdays.

Miss Marguerite Roy and her niece, Miss Flora Lorrain, of 9 Cherrier St., have returned home from an extended trip through the United States. In Flitsfield they were the guests of Mr Roger Roy.

The Countess of Derby, who was recently injured in a motor-car accident, is making rapid progress, but is not yet quite able to walk. Shortly she will be removed from Witherslack to Knowsley.

Mr. and Mrs. John Watson, of Mount Royal avenue, have issued invitations for the wedding, which takes place on November 7th, of their daughter, Miss Margaret Jessie, to Mr. Charles H. Lester.

Mr. Andrew Dunwoody, of the Molsons Bank, who has been confined to the house for some time by illness, is better and will be out in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Colwell, who have returned from their honeymoon abroad, have taken possession of their flat in Hampton Court.

Sir Thomas Glen Coats, Bart., has purchased the residence of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, 29 Belgrave square, London.

Mrs. S. C. Milroy has returned home, after spending some time in Toronto and Muskoka.

Lord and Lady Haddo are now at 1 Montagu square, London, for the autumn.

Mrs. Albert Balcer is seriously ill at the Notre Dame Hospital.

The Accomplice

His answers were brief, positive, unhesitating, and convincing. But if he expected his unqualified statements to pass unchallenged he reckoned without Barstow, and when he retired ten minutes later he left the stand an utterly discredited man.

Cross-examination made short work of his positive assertions and rendered his testimony almost worthless. Forced to admit that he had signed his name to all sorts of papers at Mr. Shaw's request, he could not remember any particular paper which he had attested, and was unable to point out any convincing differences between his signature as it appeared on the will and those he admitted as genuine. Finally he confessed that he might have signed the will, but had no recollection of doing so.

The second witness fared even worse, and under Barstow's rapid questioning he lost all confidence in himself and volunteered the suggestion that he might have signed the will with a lot of other papers, but if he had the matter had passed from his mind.

Not in the least disconcerted by the collapse of his chief witnesses, the prosecutor promptly called the paying teller of Mr. Shaw's bank, and after showing his familiarity with the signature of the deceased asked him if, in his opinion, the name Gregory Shaw subscribed to the will had been written by the murdered man. The answer was a positive and unqualified assertion that the signature was forged.

A deathlike silence prevailed in the court room as Barstow rose to cross-examine. If the questions and answers had been whispered every word would have been heard in the farthest corner of the room.

"You say you have paid out thousands upon thousands of dollars on Mr. Shaw's signature in the past three years?"

Had the bank official witnessed the discomfiture of his predecessors he might have taken warning from Barstow's quiet manner, but he met the cross-examiner's scrutiny with a look of equal determination as he answered:

"A great many thousands—yes, sir."

Barstow paused, and his eyes sought the floor as he framed the next question.

"Mr. Shaw's signature is one which could be easily imitated, is it not?" he inquired.

"No, sir. It would be exceedingly difficult to imitate."

Again the cross-examiner paused with downcast eyes as though disconcerted by the answer.

"So that you think you could detect any imitation no matter how clever the forger might be?"

"Yes, sir."

Barstow suddenly looked up.

"Did you ever refuse to honor any cheque of Mr. Shaw's in his lifetime because you doubted the signature?" he demanded.

The witness hesitated.

"If you will permit me to explain—" he began.

But Barstow was at him like a tiger.

"Answer the question!" he thundered. "Did you ever refuse to pay any cheque of Mr. Shaw's because you doubted the signature? Answer yes or no!"

The bank teller glanced appealingly at the Judge, but received no consolation from his Honor's impassive stare.

"Yes," he answered, in a low tone.

"Did you refuse to honor more than one such cheque?"

The question flew at the witness before he could add another word.

"It happened several times—I don't remember how often."

Barstow stepped back, his face flushed with triumph, and his finger shot out at the witness's face.

"Now, sir!" he demanded. "Were any of those signatures which you doubted subsequently acknowledged by Shaw as correct?"

The witness colored angrily.

"Mr. Shaw assumed responsibility for those cheques," he answered.

"All of them?"

"All of them."

"And yet you are ready to swear his will is a forgery! That is all, sir! That is all!"

There was an excited rustle and stir in the audience as the cross-examiner took his seat, and some overwrought individual shouted, "Bravo, Barstow!"

Instantly applause burst out from all sides of the room, and for some moments the popular feeling carried all before it. The prosecutor's case was clearly falling to pieces and the sympathetic audience was beyond control.

At last the Judge, having hammered his desk in vain, rose to his feet and threatened to clear the benches.

During the confusion Gilbert stood by his chair waiting for the audience to settle down, and then suddenly stilled it to breathlessness with a question of fearful import.

"Do you recall to whom those suspicious cheques of Mr. Shaw's were made payable" he demanded.

"Yes, sir. Every one of them was drawn to the order of Alice Emory—the prisoner at the bar!"

The witness shot the words directly at Barstow, and his voice had a defiant ring. Instantly the situation was changed. In the moment of its triumph the defence had received its heaviest blow.

The answer fairly staggered me, and even when the judge adjourned court and dismissed us for the day I remained seated while my fellow-jurors hurried from the box. As I rose to follow them, however, I noticed a woman pushing towards the prisoner, to whom Barstow was apparently whispering. As she neared the table she addressed the lawyer, and a rapid interchange of words followed. Then, suddenly, she raised her voice, and I recognized the housekeeper, Madeleine Mapes.

"Not if she's ill!" she insisted. "Are you well, dearie?" she whispered, peering over Barstow's screening shoulder. Then she drew back with a look of alarm.

"My God, man! Is she dead?" she gasped.

If ever I saw murder in a face I saw it in Barstow's as he turned and savagely pushed the woman into a chair.

"Shut up! You—fool!" he rasped. "She's only fainted!"

XII.

I have always admired the ease with which business men lay aside their cares, but the rapidity with which my fellow-jurors shifted their grave responsibilities amazed and shocked me. Indeed, they no sooner passed the threshold of the court than they apparently forgot the serious duty resting upon them and began acting like a lot of school-boys at recess hour. The transition was too abrupt for me, and by the time we sat down to supper at the Melton House I found myself mentally estranged from my companions.

Men of a certain type fraternize at the slightest possible provocation. I remember when the Teutonic made her record trip across the Atlantic, I was urgently invited to become a "Teuton," and many of my fellow-passengers were inclined to be offended because I did not feel moved to fall back upon their necks and swear eternal friendship for all brother "Teutons," but I have never experienced the slightest response to clanship of this quality, and I would rather be considered snobbish than lose my self-respect.

The Emory jurors, however, were just the sort of men of whom "Teutons" are made, and they lost no time in assuring me that I'd miss a lot of fun if I took myself too seriously. Fun! Fun at a murder trial!

Of course flippancy of this sort was unworthy of any response, and I received it with a dignified silence and a glance of disapproval well calculated to carry its intended rebuke, but just as I was congratulating myself at having administered a sorely-needed reproof a voice at the far end of the table advised me "to come off my high perch and hop about with the rest of the crgie for my health's sake," and this was followed by a promise that the rest of the jury would try to forget my high official position and treat me like an ordinary man if I'd "take the starch out of my neck."

The boisterous laughter which greeted these clownish utterances angered me, and I was on the point of expressing my opinion of the company in no uncertain terms when Theodore Bayne urged the others "to save their hot air and let the foreman thaw out by himself."

I do not remember whether this was the first mention of my official title or not, but from that moment I became "the foreman" to all directly or indirectly concerned in the Emory case, and the jurors promptly organized themselves into "The Chain Gang," each member exchanging his own name for the number of his seat in the jury-box.

Bayne, as "No. 2," was the leading spirit in all this nonsense, and it was impossible to squelch him, for he received every rebuff with a smiling countenance while he devised some other and more tactful method of approach. I have since learned that it was he who made the jurors stand solemnly behind their chairs until I took my place at table, and signalled them to their feet when I rose, in deference, he explained, to my high official station; and I will now confess that the little influence which I afterwards came to exert upon my fellow-jurors was due to his tact and tactics.

Although the restrictions which the court had placed upon our movements suggested the title "Chain Gang," I am inclined to believe we were accorded more liberty than is usual in important criminal cases. It is within the province of a judge, I understand, to keep the jurors together in charge of a court officer, and not allow them to communicate with the outside world at all during the continuance of a trial. The only restrictions placed upon us, however, were that we should not disperse to our respective homes without the express permission of the court, and that we should not talk about the case or listen to any conversation concerning it. This last rule made trouble for us from the very start, for the case was being discussed on all sides, and there was no apparent disposition in the Melton House to change the subject when we made our first appearance in the office, until Bayne sang out, "Pen talking about the foreman's cuss, boys, and let's be sociable!" and the laugh which greeted this warning not only released us from further embarrassment, but served as a general introduction, and jurors, witnesses, lawyers, and miscellaneous guests of the hotel were soon seated around the big stove exchanging stories and experiences with all the zest and interest of lifelong friends.

I hovered on the outside of this charmed circle for half an hour, and then, remembering that I had left Hefryville without making any provision for staying the night away from home, I slipped out to telephone my housekeeper and advise her of my needs.

The nearest public pay-station was at the railroad depot, the hotel clerk informed me, and as I walked in the direction indicated my mind reverted to the closing scene in the court room.

I had been surprised that Barstow had permitted an adjournment without at least attempting to offset the damaging testimony which had been drawn from the last witness, but his fierce colloquy with Miss Mapes had supplied a startling explanation. Doubtless he had endeavored to conceal the defendant's collapse under cover of a hasty adjournment, and had it not been for the housekeeper's interference he would have succeeded in accomplishing his object. Even as it was I doubted if any other juror knew of the defendant's condition, and the ray signified one of that fact was therefore reserved for me alone.

THE GAS BARGAIN

Ald. J. B. A. Martin Outlines Its Main Features.

HOLDS IT GOOD FOR CITY

It Includes Profit Sharing and Exclusive Franchise Clauses.

(From The Montreal Gazette)

Ald. J. B. A. Martin is authority for the statement that the report of the special committee of aldermen appointed to negotiate with the Light, Heat and Power Co. on the subject of gas and electricity has completed its report, which, he said, would be adopted according to his information, by a majority of the aldermen of the City Council.

Ald. Martin confirmed, last night, the details that have thus far been published, such as the demand for an exclusive franchise for 50 years for both gas and electricity; that gas would be sold at 90 cents on a sliding scale; the city to get one-third of the profits; and, more particularly to the point, that from 25 to 30 aldermen were in favor of the report.

"Do you recommend anything to the council?" he was asked. Ald. Martin's reply was, in substance: "We don't recommend the company's demands exactly, but we had the basis are reasonable."

Ald. Martin was then asked if he did not consider that to amount to the same thing.

He replied: "Practically so; it is an implied recommendation."

As to the make up of the report, Ald. Martin said it reheated the past negotiations made with the company, and the prices offered, and gave the new offers, which were much better.

Ald. Martin looked upon the report as outlining a good bargain for the city. He had no hesitation in saying so. He was asked in what way he defended the monopoly clause, and he replied that as the city was now to be a partner with the company, and was to share the profits, the city would be very foolish to invite competition to reduce those very profits. If the cost of manufacturing gas and electricity became cheaper, the city would benefit by the sales, like any other partner of a firm.

Ald. Martin was asked when, he estimated, the city would begin to draw profits, and he replied as soon as the reserve fund of 3 per cent. was accumulated, and that would be in 1915. Before that there could be no profits to share, but after that Ald. Martin drew a rosy picture of the way money was to come to the city as its share of the said profits. The amounts seemed large, but Ald. Martin has carefully figured them out. His rough estimate for 25 years is $1,500,000 a year for the city.

Between now and 1910 the city, he said, would continue to have its 3 per cent. on the earnings of the Gas Company. From then to 1915 there would be no percentage, and the city would get nothing till the profits were declared, but after 1915 were to be very large, as compared to any bargain before that.

Ald. Martin touched the reduction in the price of gas for the remainder of the present contract. It would be at the option of the consumer to get it at that rate at $1.05 with one meter, or pay 95 cents for heating and $1.10 for lighting gas during that time. Then the 90-cent rate would begin, and would be reduced in accordance with the profits the city, the consumer and the company were for the balance of the contract to share.

Though the report does not contain the asked-out figures, as that is a matter of detail, when once the principle is accepted, Ald. Martin has rolls of documents showing carefully prepared estimates of what the city will gain during the coming 30 years. This is got by making a calculation on the work done this year, with an allowance for expansion in the future.

Ald. Martin estimates that in 1916 the city will get $286,000 as its share of the profits on gas and electricity.

The following is Ald. Martin's summary. In each case the amount shown is to accrue to the city, and a like amount will go to the consumer for the reduction in the price of gas and electricity.

1920	592,000
1925	1,066,000
1930	1,631,000
1935	2,281,000
1940	2,384,000

Ald. Martin remarked, the city was interested in getting profits like that. In fact, he said, they were too large in the sense that he would prefer to give the consumer more than a third so that the price of gas and electricity would go still lower. There could be no objection to that as the company would let the city and the consumer divide up their profits in any way they liked.

While on the subject of these figures, which Ald. Martin said were his own, and were not guaranteed in the report, but which he had good reason to believe were correct, as he had carefully prepared them, he pointed out that during the twenty-five years of the contract the total profits would be $116,000,000, of which the city's share would be $37,000,000, which divided up into twenty-five parts would give an average of $1,500,000 a year.

"That is why," continued Ald. Martin, "we are interested in keeping down competition, as we get the benefit of the business done."

In accordance with these estimates, gas, he said, would be selling at 75 cents towards the end of the contract, or about the year 1931, and electricity would in the same year have been reduced 34 per cent. But Ald. Martin declared the effect would be even better if his suggestion were carried out of giving the consumers one-half, the company one-third, and the city one-sixth of the profits. The amount the company would pay over would be the same, but the difference in the price of gas and electricity would be considerable. For instance, in 1929, gas would be down to 65 cents, and there would be at the same time a reduction of 40 per cent in electricity.

Though it is not in the report, Ald. Martin, who is one of the important members of the special committee, said he intended to try and get for the city from 1910 to 1915, or rather up to the time the profits were declared, 1 per cent on the earnings from gas and electricity. "After that," added Ald. Martin, "we shall take our profits."

As to further details after referring to the reduction of the price of electricity by 20 per cent., beginning in 1910, and then 25 per cent. off after 1925, Ald. Martin said it was proposed to buy $10,000 in stock, which would give the mayor of the city a seat on the board of directors.

As to putting wires underground the company was willing to do so when the city had built conduits, for which they would pay a rental.

As there is an exclusive gas contract at present, the company was asking that the exclusive electric contract begin at once. Ald. Martin, also referred to the right of the companies to reserve 6 per cent. for dividends and 1 per cent. for depreciation.

After remarking that existing electric companies would be excluded from such a contract, Ald. Martin concluded by saying he had no fear that it would be a good bargain for the city to accept what the company was offering. "And, again," he added, "why invite competition when we can get the earnings possible to share in the profits? It's a bargain we are making. We are to be partners and we are all interested in getting the best returns."

BOY'S DISAPPEARANCE FROM HOME CAUSES ILLNESS OF MOTHER.

The mother, dangerously ill, suffering from the worry occasioned by the disappearance of her son; the father anxious for the recovery of his wife and longing for the return of the prodigal son, the youngster roaming about the country and his whereabouts totally unknown to his parents. Such is the condition of affairs at the home of Mr. M. J. Aquin, contractor, of Lachine.

Young William Aquin, was employed in this city in the office of Findlay & Spence, architects, until his disappearance from his home at Lachine on October 3rd, just one month ago today. The boy is sixteen years of age, and at the time of his disappearance wore a greenish grey suit; a long black overcoat, and grey college hat. He is dark complexioned, has black hair, stands about five feet five inches and is inclined to be stout.

The boy's parents are almost in a state of frenzy for news of the missing boy, and will be glad to receive information of their son from anyone who may run across him. The address is Post Office Box, No. 303, Lachine, P. Q.

To Change System of Government.

Toronto, November 3.—Controller Ward announces his intention to move at the next meeting of council that a by-law be submitted at the January elections providing for the abolition of the present system of civic government and the substitution of six commissioners for council. He proposes to retain the office of mayor, so that if his proposal carries the municipal government will consist of a mayor and six commissioners.

Port Credit, Ont., November 3.—While John Elliott, aged thirty years, employed at the St. Lawrence Starch Works, was oiling one of the machines yesterday his coat caught between the sprocket wheels and he was dragged between the cogs of the two wheels and killed.

LA PRESSE HAS CHANGED HANDS

Hon. T. Berthiaume is Again in Sole Control—Official Announcement Made.

The announcement is officially made in La Presse to-day that Hon. T. Berthiaume is once more sole proprietor of that journal.

The editorial announcement is in part as follows:

"Hon. Mr. T. Berthiaume yesterday regained possession of La Presse, having been separated from it for two years.

"For two years La Presse was controlled by a joint stock company, the capital furnished by a group of capitalists with whom the readers were not familiar. All the interests of this group have been acquired by Mr. Berthiaume, who is to-day the sole proprietor of our paper. He possesses all the capital stock and thus secures absolute control.

"La Presse will be in the future, as it has been since its inception, a paper entirely independent of all political parties, of all factions, or of all individual groups of interests. It will of necessity render justice to all parties and to all public men, but it will be the slave of none. On all questions its motto will be 'truth and impartiality.'

"La Presse will give, as in the past, special attention to all movements to ameliorate the lot of the workingmen, whose importance to the community grows with the growth of the world.

"Useless to remark, the numerous rumors flying in the street and advanced by certain papers declaring the repurchase of this paper by Mr. Berthiaume have had the slightest foundation hitherto. Our new proprietor himself has conducted the negotiations with his own resources and has obtained the undivided control of the paper.

"The personnel of the editorial staff and of the administration of La Presse remain the same, each retaining the position which he had held before the sale, without a single change, but with several additions. Prior to the departure of Mr. Berthiaume Mr. Thomas Cote was managing editor. We are happy to announce that he will retain his former position, as he will be able without endangering the outcome of a great public utility to hand in his resignation on the 'International Waterways' Commission.'"

It is understood that the purchase price was about one million dollars. Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann possessed fifty-one per cent. of the stock while Mr. David Russell held the remainder, and now both of these interests have been transferred unreservedly to Hon. T. Berthiaume. Some months ago, Mr. David Russell secured an option on Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann's holdings in La Presse, the same to expire in the month of February; consequently, Mr. Russell until quite recently held the key of the situation.

ROAD COMMITTEE EXPENDITURES

The Road Committee, at the meeting yesterday afternoon, approved the requisition in which money is asked for for a number of important public improvements, such as the construction of larger sewers grading of streets, and the building of a new station.

An idea of the cost of annexing towns like Villeray and Rosemount may be gathered from the fact that for the purposes of macadam these municipalities will require nearly half a million dollars.

The committee approved the granting of a sum of $500,000 to replace the smaller sewers with larger ones on the understanding that $100,000 would be sufficient for next year.

The total amount asked for by the committee is $1,200,000. The chief amounts are: $260,000 for Rosemount, $203,000 for Villeray, $150,000 for St. Denis Ward, $82,000 for Papineau Ward, $75,000 for St. Ann's.

Mr. Barlow recommended that $87,000 be spent for a sewer on Commissioners street to extend the present one emptying into the Elgin basin. The recommendation was approved. He also recommended that $100,000 be spent for the construction of a sewer to Back River, that would drain St. Denis Ward, and also that part of Villeray annexed to the city. The committee concurred.

Mr. Barlow informed the committee that about fifty years ago, when the city was much smaller than now, old pipes, wooden "Brains, and sewers, now considered too small, were laid in different sections of Montreal. He estimated that it would cost $500,000 to remove them, but suggested that $100,000 be set aside for this year, to which the committee agreed.

The sum of $154,000 was also asked for grading streets which require improvements, in view of the number of houses and buildings going up, even on steep side hills, which have to be levelled and filled in at the bottom.

The committee concurred in the request.

The committee also approved the request for $40,000, for the construction of a new asphalt plant.

MONTREAL IRON MOULDERS WANT MORE MONEY.

The Montreal Iron moulders are making a move for better conditions. Some time ago a new scale of wages was formulated, calling for a minimum of $3 a day. Several conferences were held between officials of the union and leading foundrymen, but no agreement was reached. Mr. M. J. Keough, of Troy, N.Y., first vice-president of the Iron Moulders' Union of North America, arrived in the city on Wednesday, and spent a couple of days interviewing the foundrymen. Last night a big meeting was held in the Empire Hall, corner of St. Lawrence and St. Catherine streets. Several hundred moulders were in attendance, and there was much enthusiasm. The chair was occupied by the president, who explained the object of the meeting. Mr. Keough was tendered an ovation on rising to address the gathering. The speaker referred to the London strike. He claimed that the moulders were unjustly locked out of the McClary establishment, on July 17, and that the fight would be kept up until the last ditch. The speaker also said that house rent, meat, butter, eggs, potatoes etc.; in fact everything had gone up in Montreal since his last visit save only the wages of the iron moulders. He did not think that $3 a day was a princely wage now-a-days and he was absolutely certain that the present wage of $2.55 was not enough, when compared with the wages paid to moulders in cities the same size as Montreal on the other side of the line, where the cost of living is not as high as it is here. Mr. Keough left for his home at 9 a.m. to-day. He was given a send-off at the station.

TAMMANY CANVASS STRONG FOR HEARST

Gives Hearst Majority of Forty Thousand in New York City.

New York, November 3.—The Tammany Hall canvass on the election situation, as compiled yesterday for the benefit of inner Tammany circles, indicates a majority in New York city for Hearst rising 40,000.

The Tammany figures for the entire state, however, which size up the situation as Tammany sees it in the middle of the last week before election, indicate that Hughes will receive a majority over Hearst of 140,000.

It is an open secret that Hearst is bearing the brunt of his own campaign.

The position of Tammany and its cohorts is absolutely apathetic.

A financier in close touch with the Republican campaign said last night: "Do not be misled by the reports that the Republican campaign is short of the funds essential to carry it through and that attempts to get money in Wall Street are being pooh-poohed. The financial requirements of the Republican campaign are being amply and properly provided for."

NOW LOOKING FOR PROXIES.

Shareholders' Association for Coming Meeting.

Toronto, November 3.—There now seems every reason to believe that the Shareholders' Association of the Ontario Bank will be in a position to obtain sufficient proxies before the shareholders' meeting on December 11th to be able to dominate the proceedings.

The committee, of which Mr. Barlow Cumberland is chairman, have been furnished with a revised list of the shareholders up to October 30, and requests for proxies are now being sent out. Already the committee have control of over 1,700 of the 18,000 shares represented, and when answers to the notices sent out have been acquired, it is expected that the representatives of the shareholders will be vested with control.

This committee have decided to take steps to recover from the directors for the losses sustained through their alleged negligence. It is pointed out that the curator and the Advisory Board appointed by the Canadian Bankers' Association may relieve them of this responsibility by instituting actions.

New York, November 3.—The following cable was received from Commander Robert E. Peary:—

"Hopedale, Labrador, via Twillingate, Newfoundland, November 2:

"To Herbert L. Bridgeman.—Roosevelt wintered north coast Grantland, somewhat north Alert winter quarters. Went north with sledges February via Heckla and Columbia. Delayed by open water between 84 and 86 degrees. Beyond 85 six days. Gale disrupted ice, destroyed caches, cut off communication with supporting bodies and drifted due east. Reached 87 degrees 6 minutes north latitude over ice drifting steadily eastward. Returning ate eight dogs. Drifted eastward delayed by open water. Reached north coast Greenland in straitened circumstances. Killed musk oxen, and returned along Greenland coast to ship. Two supporting parties driven on north coast Greenland. One reached by me in starving condition. After one week's recuperation on Roosevelt, sledged west, completing north coast Grantland and reached other land near 100th meridian. Homeward voyage incessant battle with ice, storms and head winds. Roosevelt magnificent ice fighter and seaboat. No deaths or illness in expedition.

The aftermath of the Thanksgiving Day manoeuvres brings forth some interesting data, especially from the point of view of the men behind the guns, the men who formed the rank and file, and the men who stood the brunt of the attack and defence. To the 2nd Regiment of Canadian Artillery, Heavy Brigade, who appeared for the first time mounted and with their heavy armament, everyone quite willingly gives the palm. Without the slightest preparation, with green horses and men who were about as much accustomed to handling them as they would be at the throttle of an air ship, the brigade turned out, acquitted itself with credit throughout the day, and returned to the barracks without the slightest mishap.

To the efficiency of this corps, in its new state, too much credit cannot be given to its new commanding officer.

LIEUT.-COL. E. M. RENOUF, of the Artillery.

Lieut.-Col. E. M. Renouf, in command of the 2nd C. A. Heavy Battery, is a native of St. Johns, Newfoundland. Of naval and military stock, he is a grandson of the late Captain John Renouf, who, in the reign of George III. fought in the wars against France, which terminated in 1815. He is a nephew also of the late Judge Renouf. Major and Deputy Adjutant-General of the Militia of Newfoundland. Lieut.-Col. Renouf was educated at Fielding College, Newfoundland, and coming to Montreal, in 1880, was gazetted provisional lieutenant in the Montreal Artillery, in May, 1896; on August 3rd, 1897, first lieutenant; November 1st, 1898, captain; December 20th, 1902, major; and lieutenant-colonel, October 6th, 1906.

He also took the military course at the Royal School of Artillery, Quebec, holding high certificates of qualification. In 1904, he won the first prize for observation of artillery fire, at the Island of Orleans. The Battery of the 2nd Regiment, Canadian Artillery, during his command, has twice won the Governor-General's cup for first efficiency in artillery, and also the Lansdowne Cup for general efficiency. The Forresters' Cup (for Regimental competitors) has been won by the Regiment, six years out of seven. Lieut.-Col. Renouf is a Justice of the Peace both for Terrebonne county and for the district of Montreal. In 1888 he was appointed postmaster of St. Catherine street centre. The Colonel, who is an enthusiastic artillerist, attributes his success in this direction to the careful training received at the Royal School of Artillery, Quebec, and to the co-operation of the officers, non-commissioned officers and gunners of his command.

No. 1 Company, of the 2nd C. A., intend to drill voluntarily once a week throughout the winter, so interesting do they find the system of gun drill. No. 1 Company is the unit which made such a fine showing at Petewawa Camp this year, a showing which any battery in Canada might well be proud of.

The Sergeants' Mess of the 2nd C. A. held their opening dance of the season on Hallowe'en Night, October the 31st. Sergeants Roblee and Dougherty were in charge of the arrangements, and the affair well upheld the reputation of the corps for lavish entertaining.

Preparations are going on nicely for the Sergeants' Mess dinner, which is to be held at their quarters on the evening of November 27th. This little occasion celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the regiment, and in this connection the Star would like to get into communication with all the ex-sergeant-majors of the corps now in the land of the living. Their present addresses will be thankfully received by the Military Editor, Montreal Daily Star. The picture of the sergeants of the corps is expected to be ready soon, and will be on exhibition at the dinner.

The non-coms. and men are all pleased with the way in which the sham battle came off. The next time they turn out they expect to have their own harness and equipment, however. This time, what they had came from the Stores Department at St. Helen's Island, was all in pieces and had to be put together and fixed up at a great expenditure of time and labor.

Amongst the ranks of the 65th the Sergeants' Mess will hold a special meeting on Saturday night to attend to several little items of business. The annual dinner has already been arranged, and will take place on the evening of the 24th of November.

Thursday evening the committee of the Sergeants' Mess held a meeting at which the pleasure of the company of an old friend of the regiment was included. This was Mr. Emile Dugas, son of Judge Dugas, of the Yukon, and a gentleman who has passed through every grade of the corps. In expressing his pleasure at again meeting so many of his old friends, Mr. Dugas said that it was an absolute impossibility for him to pass through Montreal without paying a short visit to the quarters of his old corps.

A group picture of the Sergeants' Mess is being published and will be ready for the annual dinner.

The non-commissioned officers' class of the Victoria Rifles is again under way, the drill instructor of the corps, Sergeant Paschke, being in charge. It is well attended and bound to bring forth good results.

Lieutenants Brown, Languedoc and Denman of the Vics are representing the regiment at the Provisional School of Instruction for Infantry now being held at the Armory of the Royal Scots, all being anxious to qualify as soon as possible.

After the parade on Thanksgiving Day, No. 2 Company had a spread, while in the evening No. 1 had a formal dinner, with the usual accompaniments of song, music and story.

A week ago the band, under Bandmaster Knowles, held a dinner in the band room. The quarters were especially decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting, while on one of the walls hung an electric royal coat of arms, white and blue. The adjutant, sergeant-major and quartermaster-sergeant were all present.

Last Friday No. 8 Company held a theatre night at the Academy of Music, dining after the play at the Savoy. Color Sergeant Trotter and the sergeants of the Company were in charge of the arrangements, and everything went off without the slightest hitch. Captain Burland and Mr. Huff, the officers of the company, were both on hand for the occasion.

A new rifle club is being mooted by members of the Vics, and it is most probable that definite plans will be drawn up along entirely new lines before many more days have passed.

It is said at the Department of Militia at Ottawa that those winning diplomas at the Royal Military College, Kingston, have no desire to enter the Canadian permanent force. Half a dozen commissions have been given to those holding diplomas from the college this year, but eight others, at least, would have been able to have obtained commissions, had they wished to make application for them.

The adjourned general meeting of the Victoria Rifles Reserve Association was held last week at the Armory. Reports from all sources showed the organization to be in the best possible shape.

Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Hon. president—Major C. W. Meakins.

President—Al. Murray (re-elected).

Vicepresident—Major C. W. Gorman.

Secretary-treasurer—Geo. F. Hudson (re-elected).

Council—C. Lewis, Rupert Darling, J. C. Willock, L. McRobie, W. Simpson, R. N. L. Simpson, R. N. Hannaford, A. H. Winfindale, C. McIndoe.

A bowling committee was also elected, consisting of G. Willock, L. McRobie, W. Simpson, G. P. Wynds, Geo. Hudson.

The British Army and Navy Veterans celebrated the anniversary of Trafalgar and Balaclava with a smoker and concert in the Field Battery's quarters in the Drill Hall, last week, when there was a large attendance of comrades and their friends. The president, Mr. Walker Jones, occupied the chair, and in opening the meeting, referred to the fact that the association had been 19 years in existence, having been organized on the date of the first jubilee of the late Queen Victoria in 1887. The concert programme comprised songs, recitations, mandolin solos, concertina solos, piano solos, and dances, and the whole affair went with the swing so characteristic of the veterans. Those who contributed to the programme were Messrs. Oliver, T. Gregory, Thos. Kearns, W. Forsyth, J. A. Edwards, J. Butters, Cash, W. Peat, Hammond, A. Guernon, C. F. Gray, J. H. Metcalf, P. Murphy, and Sergeant-Major Porteous, of the Field Battery, the latter singing "Balaclava." With the president on the platform was Commander Matthews, an old Crimean veteran; Messrs. Vbgkqj tWs pt tp.h kOD eran. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the committee, Messrs. Alfred Hirst, J. A. Edwards, J. Trim and J. Butters, who had carried out the whole entertainment so successfully.

SHOT AT OWL—NEARLY SHOT A NEIGHBOR.

While Mr. Arthur Bastable was making his toilet at his residence in Lachine yesterday, preparatory to accompanying his fellow-suburbanites to the city, he was amazed to hear the "phitt" of a rifle bullet and the crashing of glass, as the ball lodged itself in the wall behind a mirror. Dodging rifle bullets is not one of the advertised attractions at Lachine, and consequently, after Mr. Bastable had dug the bullet out of his woodwork, he set out to solve the mystery of its appearance. After some enquiry, he discovered a neighbor in the act of cleaning a Snider rifle with which he had just attempted to kill an owl. Inasmuch as killing owls is considered a commendable and public-spirited thing in Lachine, the incident was closed after it had been mutually agreed that owls are henceforth exempt from attack while flying towards Mr. Bastable's windows.

Three Months for Stealing Coat.

A sentence of three months in gaol was imposed yesterday by Judge Lafontaine on Alphonsine Ouimet charged with stealing a jacket, the property of Miss Lavoie, 93 East Dorchester street. The coat was found at Montebello, where the accused had sent it to her father.

Hundreds of cures testify to all we claim. Write us and send for a box of Zema-Salva by-day to the Kirby Chemical Co., 423 Kirby Block, Grand Haven, Mich. If helped send $5 cents, if not, we require you only to write and say so.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

This is the age of research and experiment, when all nature, so to speak, is ransacked by the scientific for the comfort and happiness of man. Science has indeed made giant strides during the past century, and among the—by no means least important—discoveries in medicine comes that of

THERAPION.

This preparation is unquestionably one of the most genuine and reliable Patent Medicines ever introduced, and has, we understand, been used in the Continental Hospitals by Ricord, Rostan, Jobert, Velpeau, Maisonneuve, the well-known Chassaignac, and indeed by all who are regarded as authorities in such matters, including the celebrated Lallemand and Roux, by whom it was some time since uniformly adopted, and that it is worthy the attention of those who require such a remedy we think there is no doubt. From the time of Aristotle downwards, a potent agent in the removal of those diseases has (like the famed philosopher's stone) been the object of search of some hopeful, generous minds; and far beyond the mere power—if such could ever have been discovered—of transmuting the baser metals into gold is surely the discovery of a remedy so potent as to replenish the failing exchequer of the exhausted one in the constitution, and in the other so effectually, speedily and safely to expel from the system without the aid, or even the knowledge, of a second party, the poisons of acquired or inherited disease in all their protean forms as to leave no taint or trace behind. Such is which may certainly rank with, if not take precedence of, many of the discoveries of our day, about which so little ostentation and noise have been made, and the extensive and ever-increasing demand that has been created for this medicine wherever introduced appears to prove that it is destined to go into oblivion all those questionable remedies that were formerly the sole reliance of medical men. Therapion may be obtained of the principal chemists throughout the world.—Diamond Fields Advertiser, KIMBERLEY.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY

NEW FRENCH SETTLERS.

St. Pierre People Have Passed Through on Their Way to New Ontario Homes.

Two hundred and forty of the inhabitants of the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon in the Gulf of St. Lawrence passed through this city on Wednesday night on their way to Ontario where they will take up homes. These men and their families have been forced to leave their homs in the Gulf on account of the poverty of the soil and also on account of the fishing treaty between France and England. Land has been allotted to them in the Temiscamingue region of northern Ontario, and they will be settled on it in the spring.

There were several lumber merchants of the region north of Montreal and also some colonizing agents at the station to meet the train carrying the immigrants. Among them was the Rev. Fr. Corbeil, of l'Assencion, who is very enthusiastic in the work of colonizing the northern portion of Quebec. The destination of the immigrants had all been arranged, however, and they all went through to Ontario.

Hardware Company Assigns.

Messrs. A. Laurandeau and C. Levesque, doing business together as the St. Lawrence Hardware Company, have consented, on demand of Mr. J. E. Merrizzi, accountant, to make an assignment of their property for the benefit of their creditors.

ASSAULT CHARGE FOLLOWS EXPLOSION OF DYNAMITE.

Pierre Lortie, of Sanguinet street, appeared yesterday before Judge Lafontaine to answer a charge of criminal assault. A plea of not guilty was entered, and the accused was remanded until next Wednesday for enquete.

The complainant is Philias Lortie, a brother of the accused, and the victim is the former's 13-year-old daughter.

It was in Philias Lortie's house, 1087 East de Montigny street, that the windows were shattered by an explosion of dynamite on Tuesday morning at 12.20 o'clock. The accused boarded with his brother during the early part of the year, but in the month of June was ordered to leave the house. He then threatened revenge on his brother for ejecting him. Little attention was paid to the threat at the time, and the matter was almost forgotten, when the explosion occurred in the rear of the house on Tuesday morning while the members of the family were asleep.

The affair was then placed in the hands of the police, who advised Philias to swear out a warrant against his brother.

The longest public procession in England was the funeral of the great Duke of Wellington. It was nearly four miles long.

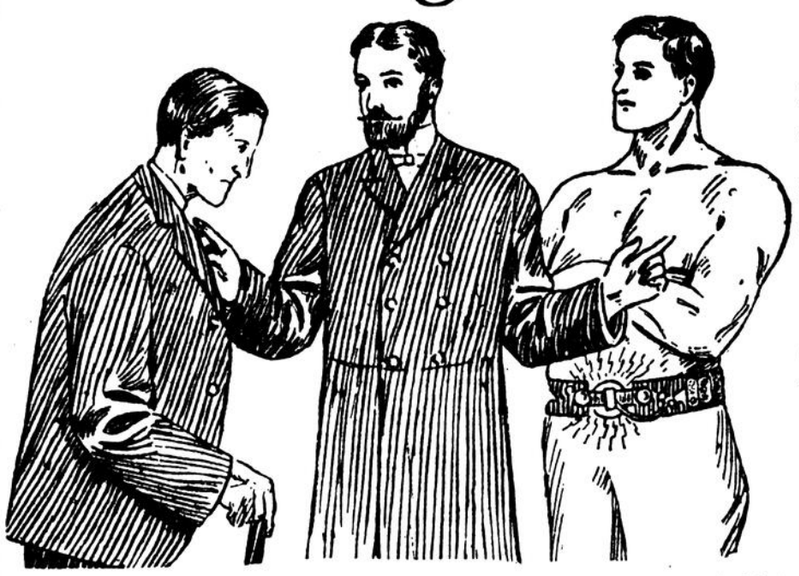
Dr. McLaughlin's Enthusiasm



Why would he not be enthusiastic when he receives such letters as this.

Read Margret Scott's experience with my Belt. What it did after Doctors and Medicines failed.

Edmonton, Albt., Oct. 30th, '06.

Dear Sir,—The Belt I got from you last winter, while in Montreal, cured me of enlargement of the heart and giddiness. I was treated for some time in a Montreal hospital, without benefit, and was obliged to give up work. I wore the Belt for three weeks under your care in Montreal, when I was able to do my work again, and I must thank you for your kindness to me during my visits to your office. I am now as well as ever and enjoying good health. Since coming to Edmonton I have lent the Belt to several people, and it so benefited them that I have got orders for two Belts for you. Your Belt has done wonders for a lady here (Mrs. Vanassdalen). Her husband came and asked me to see his wife. He said they had two doctors for her, and that they could not tell what the trouble was, as it was a complicated case. She was bloated and could hardly speak. She was losing her strength rapidly, as her heart, liver and kidneys were affected. I asked if they would allow me to put the Belt on, and they said I could, as the medicine was not doing any good. I put it on and in less than an hour she was sitting up laughing, and in two days the swelling had entirely disappeared, so all the medicine was put in the fire. Mrs. Vanassdalen will be glad to answer anyone who will write to her. She says it made her a new woman; and it is not necessary for me to tell you what the Belt did for me.

MARGRET SCOTT.

Letters of this kind are coming to me every day. My files are full of them.

A man or woman who wears a Dr. McLaughlin Electric Belt for a few weeks begins to feel the joys of youthful fire and courage in his veins, the strength which he lost in earlier days comes back to him, and those "come and go" pains in his back are driven out forever. Where it is used there is vigor, youthful ambitions, a light heart and freedom from worry and care.

DR. McLAUGHLIN'S ELECTRIC BELT

has made thousands of lives happy during the past x months. You have heard your neighbor speak of it. In every locality some one speaks well of Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt, because every town has one or more cures by it. The nature of the matter prevents the public mention of its effects by those who have benefited by it. If it were not for this fact there would not be space in this paper to print the gladsome tidings that would be produced. It is a remedy born in nature, and is the only natural means of regaining vital force. Therefore, it is the only sure means of regaining it. Drugs have been tried and have failed; you know that; but Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt cannot fail. It is Electricity, and "Electricity is Life." It gives you the oil with which to set the machinery of your body in motion, and a few months' use of it will assure you health and happiness for the rest of your life. "It is worth its weight in gold to me," says a recent letter. "I would not sell it for all the gold in the province," writes another grateful patient.

I Have a Cure in Every Town. Tell Me Where You Live and I Will Send You the Name of a Man I Have Cured.

Dr. McLaughlin:
Dear Sir,—I have worn your Belt for four weeks and am well pleased with it. It has done me a great deal of good. My back don't bother me so much, and I have no losses this last fortnight. Wishing you success with your Belt, I remain, yours truly.
JAMES FOWLER.
Joggins' Mines, N.S.

Dr. McLaughlin:
Dear Sir,—I have been wearing your Belt for 30 days, and I feel that it has done me a lot of good. The losses have stopped almost altogether, and my nerves are much stronger than they were. Yours very sincerely.
Paris Sta., Ont.
GORDON DUNN.

"I am enjoying better health at present than I have for many years. I would recommend your Belt to any one suffering from Rheumatism or any form of nervousness."
J. HARRY DENTON, Trenton, Ont.

"Your Belt cannot be beaten for curing weakness and Varicocele."
D. JANNISON, Steelton, Ont.

"I found a cure for stomach, heart, kidneys and nervous troubles by using your Belt, and have not experienced a return of one symptom in two years."
JAMES ED. JONES, Tiselon, Man.

"Every word you said turned out true. I could not believe it myself that your Belt was as good as it is."
ALEX. McDONALD, Dunmore, N.S.

I don't want your money with out giving you value for it. I know it will cure in any case that I undertake. If I can't cure it, I'll tell you so frankly. You have nothing to lose, for if you wish you can use the Belt entirely at my risk, and if it doesn't cure you it will not cost you one cent. The only condition I impose is that you give me security for the Belt while you are using it, as evidence of good faith on your part. You can then use it on the conditions of

:-: PLAYS AND THOSE WHO PLAY THEM :-:

In New York the other day a newspaper commenting on the fact that Margaret Anglin and Lena Ashwell both originally were daughters of "Our Lady of the Snows" intimated that Canada seems to run to emotionalism in the thespians it has produced and cited these two distinguished stars as convincing proof of the statement. Some people even in New York have heard of a certain knight-producer known as May Irwin, who owns Canada as her birthplace. Christie MacDonald one of the brightest comic opera prima donnas of the present day is a Canadian and she has just made what appears to be a very big hit in the part originated in England by Lena May in "The Belle of Mayfair" and recently presented for the first time in America. Julia Arthur, now retired from the stage is an example of the versatility of Canadian girls, for at her time she played both comedy and tragedy, and was accepted in both. Margaret Mather another Canadian girl until her death, was one of the best known actresses on the stage this side of the Atlantic and if tragedy was her long suit she certainly did not keep to it entirely. The names of Canadians shine with considerable lustre here and there on the honor roll of the stage, but it is seldom that Canada gets the credit in the United States. Just as soon as anyone is successful the newspapers make him or her United States by adoption. One of the most striking examples of this was shown in the case of Pauline Lightstone Donalda, who on the announcement of her engagement with Hammerstein for his forthcoming season in Grand Opera, was hailed everywhere on the other side of the line as an "American." How many people realize for instance, that Clara Morris in her time regarded as "the" American actress was born in Toronto. Instances might be multiplied almost by the dozen, but just as often as a Canadian "makes good" the American newspapers will see to it that the land of the Stars and Stripes gets credit as their birthplace. In a way this Americanization is something of an honor as it is usually only accorded to those who are successful.

Just at present the threatened dearth of plays appears to be a myth, for new productions are being made in every direction. Most interest this week probably centred in Mr Richard Mansfield's first appearance in the Ibsen comedy, "Peer Gynt," on Monday night, presided for the first time in English. Chicago was delighted with it, and New York has been unkind enough to intimate through the medium of at least one newspaper, that Chicago's appreciation is based on the fact that it is a big production. Big it certainly seems to be. The company is exceptionally large and scenery and effects are described in most complimentary terms. In Rochester, on Monday night "The Belle of Mayfair" had its first production in America, and was much liked. In the cast were Christie MacDonald, Irene Bentley, Van Rensselaer Wheeler and Richard F. Carroll.

New York this week had its first glimpse of "The Shulamite," in which Lena Ashwell is starring. Sudden has such a lack of unanimity been found in the criticism. Everyone seems to find something different to praise and something different to find fault with, but whatever the attitude taken, the consensus of opinion seems to be that Miss Ashwell achieved a personal success, and that the play in spite of the fact that the authors have changed it to end happily, is too gloomy to be enjoyable. On Tuesday evening Forbes Robertson and Gertrude Elliott opened their American tour in New York by presenting George Bernard Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra," whereupon Shaw devotees waxed enthusiastic and those to whom Shaw is merely a person, and not a personage, put their noses in the air. The stars, however, received splendid commendation for their portrayal of the two leading roles.

Edwin Peples new production, "The Love Route," was presented in New York for the first time this week. It is a play of western railway life, Odette Tyler and Guy Standing were in the leading roles, and the former is credited with exceptionally clever work.

In New York to-night James T. Powers will be seen for the first time in the English musical success, "The Blue Moon."

Gabriel D'Annunzio's new drama, "More Than Love," was produced in Rome this week, and was heartily hissed by the audience, which disapproved of the motive of the play.

Mary Mannering in "Glorious Betsy," by Rida Johnson Young, was seen for the first time at the International Theatre Niagara Falls, and was well received. The play deals with the love affairs of Elizabeth Patterson of Baltimore, and Jerome Bonaparte, the brother of Napoleon. In Albany "The Man of the Hour" had a successful premiere. The play is largely political in character.

At Daly's Theatre, London, "Les Merveilleuses," Basil Hood's adaptation of Sardou's comic opera, with music by Hugo Felix, has proved a triumph for the manager George Edwardes. It is a strong, well sustained and dramatic play with fine music interwoven into the story, which deals with a group of women who, under the title of the Merveilleuses, set the fashions and exercised political influence in Paris during the period of the Directory. Eva Greene, in the leading role, won a triumph. Miss Greene will be remembered here for her work in "The Duchess of Dantzig."

MISS PAULA EDWARDES, at His Majesty's next week in the "Princess Beggar."

"The Virgin Goddess," produced at the Adelphi, London, is described as a gloomy but "noble" play. Scenery, acting and the play itself, seem to have been much appreciated by people who look for more than amusement in the theatre. Genevieve Ward made the most pronounced impression as Chito. Another London production of recent date is "The Church that Begins at Home," a four-act comedy that hasn't set the Thames on fire.

The competition for the trophy offered by His Excellency the Governor-General will take place in Ottawa the week commencing January 28 at the Russell Theatre, and all entries must be in before December 1st. The preliminary conditions of competition stipulate that Each provincial capital city or each city having a population of $5,000 in Canada and St John's, Newfoundland, may send one company. If two or more companies in any one city desire to enter the competition, the one receiving the endorsation of the Lieutenant-Governor of the province shall also be entitled to enter.

The entertainment given by each company shall be limited to one hour and a half. The character of the entertainment, whether musical, theatrical or otherwise shall be absolutely in the discretion of the respective companies. The number of performers is discretionary, but they must be strictly amateurs.

The competition should arouse general interest throughout the country, and do as much for musical and theatrical amateurs as previous trophies have for amateur sport.

AT LOCAL PLAY HOUSES.

Paula Edwardes will be at His Majesty's next week in "The Beggar Princess," an opera that will shortly be seen in New York. "Princess Beggar" is by Edward Paulton, whose fame as a librettist was established by "Erminie." Alfred G. Robyn wrote the music. The company supporting Miss Edwardes includes Eddie Garvie, Edward West, Bertram Wallis, F. I. Boyle, Rosa Cooke and Anna Evans. "Princess Beggar," said to be a real comic opera, distinctly different from the modern American idea of "musical comedy," sometimes described as "vaudeville surrounded by music." A distinct plot, fantastic and humorous, but still a plot, is promised as well as gorgeous scenery and costumes, and a company of sixty.

The new musical play "Painting the Town," which will be presented next week at the Academy, under the management of the Charles H Yale Amusement Company, is said to be a combination of opera, comedy, spectacle, ballet and pantomime, with an unusually large investiture of fine scenery startling mechanical features and handsome costumes. The story of "Painting the Town" is said to be bright, clean, and funny. The music has been specially composed for the piece. A singing and dancing feature has been prepared in an ensemble number requiring the entire force of the company, entitled "The Emigrants." Other features are "The One Night Stands," "Painting the Town," and a singing and dancing trio—"All Aboard", a concerted railroad number, and the production in the second act of a travesty on Grand Opera, entitled, "Ram Jam, the King of Siam." Among the principal settings are a mammoth railroad station, the dressing rooms of the Folie Music Hall, the stage of the Folie Music Hall, with operatic production in full progress; the Palace of Ram Jam; the Folie Cafe, the scene on the roofs, and the grand banquet hall, and others. The company includes John F. Leonard and Will Halliday, Miss Mazie King, Miss Edith Lowe, Miss Louise Sanford, the Trans-Atlantic Four, M. T. Bohannon, Harry B. Norman, Claude Lightner and Edgar S. Allyn, a European troupe of dancers and a large chorus.

The new Klimt & Gazzolo play, "The Four Corners of the Earth," which will be at the Theatre Francais next week, is described as a tale of cunning intrigue and western simplicity, a play of tears and laughter—a story of vivid imagination, yet true to life. Its scenes are not conventional and cover various parts of the world, beginning and ending at National City, near the border of Lower California and Mexico. The company is said to be excellent and the scenery all that could be wished. On Tuesday evening, election returns in the United States will be read from the stage.

MR. SULLY GUARD, with "The Four Corners of the Earth," at the Francais next week.

MISS EDITH LOWE, with "Painting the Town," at the Academy next week.

"The Star Show Girls" will be at the Theatre Royal the week of November 5th. The company is said to be an excellent one, and the production quite up to the usual standard of Theatre Royal attractions.

At the Theatre des Nouveautes the week of November 5th, the Parisian actress, Mlle. Marguerite Ninove, will make her first appearance in Montreal. She will be seen in the title role of "Camille." Mr. Cosset will play "Armand Duval," and Mr. Dhavrol, the elder Duval. Messrs. Prevost, Darcy, Fleury, Lorett, Berton, and Mesdames Blenfait, Montout, Larcey and DeLuys will also be in the cast.

At the Readoscope entertainments in the Town Hall of Maisonneuve next week, new pictures will be shown that come direct from New York and Paris, and are said to be among the best productions of animated photography. Among the moving views is the great sensational scenical production, entitled, "The Seven Mysterious Custies" and "Saved From the Storm." A number of others will be shown with illustrated songs.

During the coming season the programmes of the Symphony Orchestra concerts will be announced in the press on the Wednesday preceding the concert; and, although preliminary drafts of the programmes may be issued at times, these final announcements will be the only ones of guaranteed accuracy. For the visit of Anton Hekking, the famous Dutch 'cellist, there is still some uncertainty as to what the soloist's minor numbers will be, though it is settled that he will play the Saint-Saens A Minor Concerto, which was the chief item of his jubilee concert in Berlin a year ago. He will give one other item with orchestra and two with piano. A number of new faces will be seen in the orchestra, and altogether the occasion should be one of exceptional interest.

At Karn Hall on Monday evening, November 5th, Miss Idola St. Jean will give a concert. Following is the programme:—

(a) Gavotte with variations, Bachmann; (b) Au Matin, Chaminade. Mrs. Damien Masson and Miss Rachel Gill. (a) La bronette, E. Rostand; (b) Les deux noces, P. Roussel (music by J. Grenier), Miss Idola Saint Jean. (a) Si les fleurs avaient des yeux, Massenet; (b) Pourquoi de Lakme Delibes; Miss Blanche Payette. Hymn Scene lyrique, with recitative, Dubois. Mr. Joseph Saucier. (a) Etude de diction de Mireille, Gounod; (b) Le Soir, Ambroise Thomas. Miss Idola Saint Jean, violin solo, Mr. J. A. Goulet; A Le Jardin E. Pathieron; (a) La Valse, Miss Idola St Jean. (a) J'ai Pardonne, Schumann; (b) Si tu deux mignonne, Masseret. Monsieur Joseph Saucier. Accompanists, Mrs. J. Saucier, Mrs. D. Masson, and Miss Guyon. In the comedy, which closes the programme, Miss St. Jean and Miss Payette will take part.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Pauline Donalda, whose position in the public favor has been slowly acquired by years of work, is only twenty-three years old, and it is largely the combination of her genuine girlishness with her artistic maturity that has won her great success. She was born in this city, one of a family of eleven children, and one of her brothers is now studying with Seidel and Duvernoy in Paris, and possesses a light baritone voice that gives promise of earning him ultimately, though doubtless more slowly, a reputation comparable to that of the sister. The family is of Polish origin, and the father was in youth possessed of a remarkable voice and an exceptionally perfect ear. Pauline Lightstone Donalda received her musical training, until four years ago, in this city, studying at the Royal Victoria College under Miss Lichtenstein, who was one of the first to prophesy her brilliant career. She was heard singing at a charity concert by Mrs. Meldola de Sola, and it was through Mrs. de Sola's efforts that she was enabled to continue her training under the best masters in Europe. She also secured a special scholarship from Lord Strathcona, for whom since her rise to fame she has twice sung at the Dominion day celebrations of the High Commissioner.

MISS PERT MACKAY, with the "Star Show Girls," at the Royal next week.

Before she went to Europe, her voice was tested in New York by Salignac and Dufriche (the latter the original creator of one of the roles of "Carmen," and now stage director of the Metropolitan), both of whom urged that she go to Paris. There she was placed under Duvernoy, who in two seasons was able to produce her at the Nice Opera with an overwhelming success. So unusual was the work of this unknown singer that the management wanted to engage her for the entire season. This was in January of 1905, and by her series of successes at Nice she attracted the attention of M. Meassager, who was on the look-out for artists for Covent Garden. In May of the same year she made her first appearance in the historic home of London opera, as Micaela in "Carmen," and was soon allotted the biggest roles of the repertoire. Her series of impersonations in the 1905 and 1906 seasons included Marion, Micaela, Juliette, Marguerite, Zurlina in "Don Giovanni," Elsa, Mimi, Gilda in "Rigoletto," Louise in Charpentier's opera of that name, Carmen, and the heroines of "Traviata," "Meistersinger," "Pagliacci," etc. At Nice and at the Theatre de la Monnai, Brussels, she was selected to create the leading feminine roles in Leoncavallo's "Chatterton," and Francesco Leoni's "L'Oracolo." She has sung in three different languages, and achieved equal success before audiences to which each was native. Last season the illness of Madame Melba gave her some opportunities that might not have come for many years, and she proved herself absolutely ready for them. On the night when Caruso made his first appearance in London after the San Francisco disaster, she sang Gilda to his Duke, and not even the Caruso demonstration was able to overshadow her triumph in this exacting part.

All Montrealers who have any knowledge of European art matters, know that Madame Donalda, as she must now be called having in June of this year, married the well known French baritone Sevelhac, who will accompany her in her Montreal concert on November 19th,—is now established as one of the prime favorites of Europe in opera. With Melba she will be the chief reliance of Oscar Hammerstein for soprano parts in his Grand Opera season. For the Montreal appearance of Mme. Donalda, which will be at the Arena, is due to the efforts of Miss Moylan and Mr. Veitch.

For his week's engagement in Montreal at His Majesty's Theatre, Mr. H. B. Irving, on Monday, Tuesday and Saturday nights will give "The Lyons Mail," appearing in the dual and wildly contrasted roles of Lesurques, the good merchant, and Du Bosc, the ...evling murderer. "The Lyons Mail" was one of the greatest plays in the repertoire of Sir Henry Irving. It will be preceded by a one-act piece, "King Rene's Daughter," in which Miss Dorothea Baird will appear. It was written by the Ho... Edmund Phipps and arranged for the stage by Sir Henry Irving, and it tells the story of Iolanthe, a blind Florentine princess who recovers sight at the moment that a great love is revealed to her. On Wednesday night and at the Saturday matinee Mr. Irving will produce "Mauricette," a modern comedy from the French of Andre Picard; and a one-act piece, "Markheim," founded on the powerful story by Robert Louis Stevenson. Thursday and Friday evenings Mr. Irving will give another play noted in his father's repertoire, "Charles I.," by W. G. Wills.

Mr. Irving gives the following resume of his career: Born August 5th, 1870. Elder son of Sir Henry Irving, and Florence, daughter of Surgeon-General Callaghan, of the Bengal Army. Educated at Marlborough College and New College Oxford. Took the degree of B.A. in the Honor School of Modern History, 1891. M.A., 1895. Called to the Bar at the Inner Temple. Thought at one time of going to the Bar, but ultimately decided to go on the stage. Played at Oxford in the University Dramatic Society, King John, and Strafford in Browning's play of that name. Made my first professional appearance at the Garrick Theatre, under Mr. John Hare's management, as Lord Beaufoy in a revival of Robertson's "School" (1891). Played in "Th Fool's Paradise," and at the Comedy Theatre under Mr. Comyns Carr's management, the title role in Buchanan's play "Dick Sheridan." Thought it would be advisable to get a wider and more varied experience than can be obtained in London. Went into the provinces with Ben Greet, where played a repertoire including such parts as Hamlet, Benedick, Othello, Charles Surface, Claud Melnotte, Alfred Evelyn, Romeo, Leontes in The Winter's Tale, etc. It was while in Mr. Greet's company that I first met Miss Dorothea Baird, who was the original Trilby in England. We were married in 1896. After returning from the provinces, I was with Mr. George Alexander at St. James's Theatre for some five years. There I created Loftus Roupell in "The Tree of Knowledge," Sir William Beauvedere in "The Ambassador", and other parts. In 1902 I joined the Duke of York's Theatre Company, making my first appearance there as Orlando in The Twin Sister. While there I created the part of Mr. Crichton in The Admirable Crichton, which ran for over 300 nights. Also the part of Neville Letchmere in Mr Pinero's "Letty." In 1905 I appeared at the Adelphi Theatre as Hamlet. I produced at the Waldorf Theatre last year "Lights Out." This year "The Jury of Fate" at the Shaftesbury, and "Mauricette" and "Markheim" at the Lyric, under the management of Messrs. Nixon and Zimmerman. My last appearance in London was as Iago to the Othello of Mr. Lewis Waller.

MISS MARGUERITE NINOVE, in "Camille," at the Nouveautes next week.

ANTON HEKKING, the 'Cellist, who appears at the Symphony Concert next Friday.

The Black Dike Band which filled an engagement at the Arena in July will again shortly be heard in Montreal. The band has been very successful on tour. That an organization of players on brass and percussion instruments only, can render music with such softness and sweetness as they do is considered remarkable. It was originally intended that the Band should sail from New York after their American tour had been completed, but a change has been made in their arrangements and they will sail from Montreal instead and it was owing to this fact that the dates were changed from 5th to 6th, to the 12th and 13th, of November.

The stock company at the Theatre des Nouveautes is rehearsing "L'Etrangere" with Mlle. Ninove and Mme Damaury in leading roles.

Mr. E. S. Willard will probably play a return engagement in Montreal next month.

Music lovers of all classes in Montreal will be pleased to learn that arrangements are being made to bring to Montreal Madame Lillian Blauvelt, the famous grand opera soprano, who has sung for all the crowned heads of Europe and made such a splendid impression at the MacKenzie concerts here four years ago. The Blauvelt concert will take place about the end of this month.

One of the interesting events of the musical season in Montreal should be the "Recital Laliberte" which takes place at the Monument National Thursday, November 22. Mr. Laliberti comes fresh from three years study in Europe, and he can claim the distinction of being the only Canadian pianist, who has played before the German Emperor and his court.

DOINGS OF THE PLAYERS.

Arnold Daly has taken the plunge in vaudeville, using Shaw's "How He Lied to Her Husband" as the medium. New York papers say he received splendid support from Isabelle Urquhart, and from Mr. Percival Moore.

Mr. Moore, who is a Montrealer, was engaged this season to act as stage manager for Mr. Daly, and was a member of his company last year. I fancy Miss Urquhart has not been seen here since the old days when she spent a fortnight in Montreal with Augustus Pitou's stock company.

Mrs. Caroline Lovell, an actress once well known here, died last Saturday at the residence of her only daughter, Mrs. Caroline C. Leach, Brooklyn, after a very painful illness of five weeks from encarditis, aged 89 years and 7 months. Mrs. Lovell was formerly Mrs. James W. Pritchard, of the old Park Theatre, Brooklyn. She was associated with Mrs. Vernon, Charlotte Cushman, Mrs. Harry Hunt, (who afterwards was Mrs. Mossop and Mrs. John Drew), Thomas Hamblin, Harry Placide and others. After a widowhood of eight years she was married in Baltimore, in her brother-in-law's (John N. Pritchard) house to Henry V. Lovell, who afterwards was the first to introduce the legitimate drama in Brooklyn at the old Brooklyn Museum, in the early 50's. Mrs. Lovell played there with the elder Booth, Edwin Forrest and others. Mr. Lovell afterwards became manager of the Albany Museum, where both became favorites. Mrs. Lovell made a hit in "The Willow Copse," she playing Rose Fielding to the Luke Fielding of J. W. Couldock. Mrs. Lovell was born in Montreal, and her father was at one time owner of a local theatre. Mrs. Lovell's greatest character was perhaps Meg Merrilees, which she played with Edwin Forrest and Junius Brutus Booth, father of Edwin Booth.

Camille Saint Saens, who was ill on his way over from Europe, has quite recovered, from the grippe and tonsilitis that affected him. His first appearance will be in Carnegie Hall, New York to-day, with the New York Symphony Orchestra.

Mme. Nordica sailed for London this week where she will sing at Covent Garden. Later she will go to Paris to sing at the Colonne concerts, and she may also sing at Berlin.

Marie Dressler will leave Weber's company and return to vaudeville early in November.

Mr. Cecil Raleigh, the English dramatist has written a play for Lawrence D'Orsay. It is said to be of a serious nature but the central figure of a most pronounced humorous type. The time is in our own day but the action takes place in Spain. Mr. Raleigh will come to America for the production of the piece.

Kyrle Bellew in "Brigadier Girard" will very shortly succeed "The House of Mirth" at the Savoy theatre, New York.

Nanette Comstock, Jane Laurel and Mr. John Drew's daughter are among those having roles in Mr. Willie Collier's new comedy now in rehearsal in New York.

Prince Robert de Broglie, whose marriage in August to Miss Estelle Alexander, of California, has displeased his family, has announced that the Princess has received flattering vaudeville offers and will probably accept one of them.

Edwin Arden is going into vaudeville and will be seen in "Two Men and a Woman" written by himself.

Blanche Bates has entered on the last month of her long engagement in New York in "The Girl of the Golden West."

A single performance of Wilde's "Salome" is to be given in New York at a matinee this month.

Alla Nazimoff, the Russian actress, is said to have acquired a good working knowledge of the English language during the few months she has spent in America. Under the direction of Henry Miller she will shortly be seen in a series of matinees in which "Hedda Gabler" will be given in English.

Louis Mann and Clara Lipman are going to London shortly, where they will present Miss Lipman's play "Julie Bonbon" in which they have been starring for some time in the United States.

Robert Mantell begins a New York engagement at the Academy of Music next Monday evening.

Mr. Crane and Miss Ellis Jeffreys will present in Chicago on November 26th, Goldsmith's comedy "She Stoops to Conquer."

Mrs. Frank Murphy, who was long associated in a managerial capacity with threatrical life in Montreal, and who has been living in Quebec for some time, has returned to town, and will continue in future to take active part in musical and theatrical matters.

A dramatization has been made of Arthur Stringer's "The Wire Tappers," and the play will have an early production.

"The Belle of London Town" is the name of the new musical play, in which Camille D'Arville will return to the stage on November 12th.

Bertha Kalich will resume her tour in "The Kreutzer Sonata" next month.

It is said that in spite of announcements to the contrary, Edna May will fill one week's engagement at a London music hall.

Margaret Anglin was awarded $5,000 in her suit against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway. Miss Anglin's carriage was struck by a locomotive and she was injured. It is understood that the company will appeal the case.

Rachel Crothers, author of "The Three of Us," one of the most recent successes in New York, will shortly have two other plays produced. They are "The Coming of Mrs. Patrick," and "The Afterglow."

Allen Lowe and Baldwin Sloane have written a new musical comedy "The Mimic and the Maid," which will have a New York production about Christmas.

Henry de Vries, the Dutch actor, who made such a hit in New York last year, will open his New York season in January in "The Double Life."

Ralph Kellert, a young Canadian violinist, who has been studying for the past three years with Ysaye, has returned to America, accompanied by his brother, Michael, the pianist, who has been studying with Mark Hambourg. These young artists are to have a concert tour and will be heard several times in New York.

Heinrich Conried is said to have been forced to decide to give Salome only for special performances and not on subscription nights at the Metropolitan this season. The opera needs a greatly augmented orchestra to interpret the score, and in order to accommodate the musicians two rows of orchestra seats will have to be removed. As these seats have been taken by subscribers and there is no room to put them elsewhere the Herr Director is sadly puzzled. A new instrument is to be introduced into the orchestra for this opera. It is a celesta, and is similar to the glockenspiel played in the Mozart operas, but is supplied with a keyboard. Fremstadt, who is to play the title role, seems a little afraid of the reception the opera will receive, and in a recent interview advised the public to familiarize themselves with the score before seeing the production. She also claims the problem of clothes is worrying her, as she has to achieve the effect of scanty raiment, and still wear enough to make her feel adequately draped.

Charles Klein's play, "The Lion and the Mouse," celebrated the four hundredth performance in New York this week.

The new Belasco production, "The Rose of the Rancho," will have its first presentation in Boston on November 14th.

Duse has signed a contract for a three months' South American tour next spring, the guarantee being $140,000. Mme. Duse is to add "The Shulamite" to her repertoire.

John E. Kellerd is to star in a revival of "Taps" under the management of the Schuberts.

"The Rose of Alhambra," seen here last season with Lillian Blauvelt in the title role, is to be sent on the road again with Louise Gunning in Miss Blauvelt's part.

STYLE OF THE CAMPAIGN SPEECHES OF THE TWO NEW YORK STATE GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATES

The two New York State gubernatorial candidates, Charles E. Hughes, Republican, and William Randolph Hearst, Democrat, have concluded their up-state campaign and for the last few days of the fight, which terminates Monday night, are devoting their energies to the metropolis. The campaign has been one of the most vigorous and remarkable in the history of the Empire State, and personalities have been freely indulged in by both candidates. Mr. Hughes charges Hearst with presenting a platform of reckless abuse, assault upon men and institutions and vituperation. Mr. Hearst, on the other hand, makes references to Mr. Hughes' whiskers, and, in one instance, referred to him as an animated feather duster. Both of the candidates delivered the final of their up-state state speeches at Rochester this week, and they are both fairly representative of the style of argument of both men. Portions of their utterances are here given:

MR. HUGHES' SPEECH.

Mr. Hughes said, in part:

"The ambition of my opponent is not simply to reach the Executive Chamber at Albany, but to make that a stepping stone for further advancement to the seat of Federal Government at Washington.

"The day of the boss is over. We are determined to have our representatives follow the popular will and regard themselves as responsible to the people and not to those who, in different communities, assume to control the people and to stifle the expression of that will.

"There is in our political life an intense demand for those who will lead the people with an eye single to the people's welfare. There is an intense feeling throughout our State that we should have government really of the people, but the language of statesmanship is not the language of vituperation. Constructive work is not the work that is accomplished by abuse.

PROMISES RELIEF TO BROOKLYN

"Public service corporations should be compelled to render the service which they are under charter obligation to provide. I desire to see in this matter the law-making power, the administrative powers of government responsive to the just demands of the people. I have received communications from Brooklyn containing serious complaints with reference to conditions of transit. I desire the citizens of Brooklyn to understand that if I am elected Governor I shall, without delay, give my most earnest consideration to this matter. I shall do all in my power to procure such action, whether administrative or legislative, as may be found to be necessary to remedy whatever evils now exist and to secure the improvement and enlargement of transit facilities which that community is entitled to demand. In this, as in other matters, I shall ascertain the facts in a responsible way, and shall deal with the question thoroughly, fairly and promptly.

"What I have said regarding Brooklyn I may say with equal emphasis with regard to other communities. We desire government to be sensitive to the needs of the people and to reflect the popular will in a sane, just and orderly manner.

"I stand before you not as an apologist for wrongdoings associated during the last year with those who have been charged with the duty of revealing matters of corporate abuse and of endeavoring in a proper way to correct the evils that were found to exist.

"It was not by appealing to sensationalism, it was not by substituting general denunciation for sober criticism, it was by a patient endeavor to find out what the facts were, regardless of who stood in the way, and by an honest effort to pass remedial legislation, which would make impossible the repetition of the abuses, which were disclosed, that we endeavored to deal with the great insurance business.

WILL PUSH INSURANCE REFORM.

"And if I am elected Governor of the State it will be my object to see that these insurance reforms which have been achieved shall be carried into execution by enforcement of the laws.

"Wherever amendment is found necessary, wherever anything is required to carry out the spirit and intent of these measures, wherever anything is found necessary to make the policyholder secure in the enforcement of his contract and to give him the benefit for which he had paid his money, that amendment and that section, so far as in me lies, will be adopted and will be taken.

"We have at times been perplexed to know the platform upon which my opponent stood, whether it was the platform of the Independence League or the platform adopted at the Buffalo Convention. He has said, I believe, that he stands on his own platform, and in that I think he is right, and he cannot get away from it.

"The platform upon which he must necessarily stand is the platform of the journals which have espoused his candidacy and which are in his entire control. It is a platform of reckless abuse; it is a platform of assault upon our best men and upon our institutions; it is a platform of vituperation; it is a platform upon which we find indiscriminately levelled at those who have been honored by the citizens of this State the most reckless, the most abusive, the most disgraceful epithets which have ever disgraced any part of our press.

"We are standing to-day in an effort to uphold the honor of the State, because we believe in meting out to virtue that which is its due, and not confusing vice and virtue alike in general and reckless abuse for the purpose of selling newspapers.

THE TWO DANGEROUS CLASSES

"The question in this country to-day is whether exaggerated statement and appeal to class feeling and to bitterness shall overpower the judgment of the people and place yellow journalism in the seat of government.

"There are two dangerous classes of persons in this country. They are those who have abused privileges and opportunity, who have sown the wind and are now reaping the whirlwind. There are those who have been forgetful of public obligation, who have thought all that could be obtained from the public was to be used solely for private enrichment, and there is that other class that would emphasize and exaggerate a just resentment and turn it into a feeling of bitterness and hatred, and then turn it, through distortion of the facts, to private advantage, and that is the worst form of graft that exists in this country.

"The most conservative influence in this country is the influence that upholds the law and makes order and the impartial enforcement of the law possible. We are in favor of law and order because they are our only security. This is not a country of passion and of prejudice and of irresponsible action. We have certain laws and certain machinery for obtaining reforms, and the first thing that is requisite in any reformer is to be loyal to the law. We do not want lawlessness in reform; that is anarchy."

CHARLES E. HUGHES.

MR. HEARST'S SPEECH.

Mr. Hearst said in part:

Mr. Hughes has been complaining that I have said some plain things about some of his friends, but I maintain that that is not my fault and that he should not have that kind of friends. For instance, I said that Mr. Pat McCarren had no more right to the name of Democrat than a carrion crow has to the name of American eagle. That is unfortunate, but it is true, and I do not intend to retract it, simply because Mr. Hughes does not like the truth to be told about his particular friends.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Last night I happened inadvertently to speak of another friend of Mr. Hughes. As I was leaving a hall at Auburn some one asked me about Mr. Osborne, and I had to say that I really did not know much about him except that he had been arrested once for wearing false whiskers. And I said I supposed Mr. Osborne's enthusiasm for Mr. Hughes was due to the fact that Mr. Hughes's whiskers were genuine, and that I could not understand how a man who had to wear false whiskers should be enthusiastic about a man whose whiskers were genuine, even if they were the only genuine thing about him.

On the first page of a Syracuse newspaper the editor asks some questions, and I am going to answer them. He says:

"Your audience will, without doubt, be largely composed of members of trades unions, to whom particularly you are appealing for support in the coming election."

I am appealing to members of trades unions in this election no more than I am appealing to all other American citizens in this election. And I am appealing to trades unions with the same arguments that I present to legitimate business men, and the farmers and all other citizens, for I do not have one set of opinions for one class and one section of the country and another set of opinions for another class and another section of the country, but I base all my arguments on what is best for the people and what will most benefit the whole community.

I have said before associations of business men, and before county fairs, the same thing that I said last Labor Day. I believe in good wages for good work, not because it benefits trades unions merely, but because it benefits the whole community.

The distribution of wealth is as important as the creation of wealth. When wealth is well distributed through good wages and good salaries, the mass of the people have the power to purchase, the money is spent at the stores, the stores order goods from the factories, the factories order raw material from the farms and the mines, and prosperity is general and universal.

The prosperity of the legitimate business man depends upon the purchasing power of the masses.

Therefore, I favor trades unions and farmers' granges, and all organizations which tend to distribute the wealth of the community justly through the masses. Therefore I am opposed to trusts and monopolies and such organizations that extort money from the people and withdraw from the masses the money that might be spent at the stores and forwarded to the factories and sent to the mines and the farms.

TRUSTS OPPRESS THE PEOPLE.

I am opposed to trusts, because they illegally and unjustly oppress the people and interfere with general prosperity.

Now this editor further wants to know why so many of the petitions of the candidates of the Independence League for Congress, the State Senate and the Assembly were thrown out, and I want to know that same thing, and that is the reason I retained David Bennett Hill and many others of the best and most expensive lawyers in this State to find out why that thing has been done.

And on the same page of this paper is an article which shows that Hill had been retained. The article has a head which reads: "Hill is retained, former Senator will argue the appeal of the Independence Leaguers in court tomorrow," etc.

My friends, we are beginning to meet with the same opposition from the criminal trusts, and from the tools of those trusts, that we met with last year. And some of the most slavish of their tools on the Board of Elections in New York City last year helped McClellan to steal the office that he now holds.

I state publicly that this board is corrupt.

I say publicly that one member on this board has been under indictment seventeen times; that another is a creature of McClellan who served his master shamelessly last year, and stands ready to serve him shamelessly this year.

I assert that another is a creature of McCarren, known throughout the State as a lobbyist of the Standard Oil Trust.

I moved yesterday to indict this Election Board.

And with the best lawyers obtainable in the State of New York we are making every effort to upset the other rulings of this board. The petitions of the people, sacredly entrusted to its care, have been marked and mutilated, and in many cases destroyed. Scores upon scores of these petitions have been thrown out, and the action of the board has been sustained by the courts, even as the courts last year decided that the people had no right to have their votes honestly counted, but must abide by the returns of corrupt election officials, no matter how false those returns may be.

The free press that you should depend on in an emergency such as this, instead of helping you, is gloating over this situation, and lying about a deal.

My friends, I give you my solemn word that I would rather be defeated ten times over than see the people of this State practically denied their rights as American citizens to nominate by petition.

These newspapers are questioning my sincerity, and that animated feather-duster who is parading about the State is also questioning my sincerity. I say in reply to them that the best test of my sincerity in opposing the trusts is the sincerity of the trusts in opposing me.

The enemies I have made in these trusts are your enemies, and they are my enemies because they are your enemies and because I have used my resources in helping you to fight them.

I fought the Ice Trust and the Gas Trust and the Beef Trust and the Railroad Trust, not to save the few dollars increased cost in ice and gas and coal to my family, but the hundreds of thousands of dollars in increased cost in ice, gas, coal and transportation to all the people of all the State of New York.

THE GAS DECISION.

And the men that are trying to defeat me now are the same who have been trying to rob you for a very long time. Mr. Hughes originally said that he was responsible for the decision in the eighty-cent gas case.

The exact facts of his appearance are these: Judge Lacombe, after Mr. Hughes had argued before him, handed down a decision in which he enjoined the Attorney-General and the District Attorney and the Gas Commission, and all their associates and servants from interfering in any way with the Gas Trust, and allowing the Gas Trust to charge one dollar per thousand cubic feet in defiance of the law.

Overcome by this effort, which gave the Gas Company all that it desired, and more than it had hoped for, Mr. Hughes packed up his bag and went to Europe.

The heat of the summer was coming on, and he preferred the congential snows of the Alps and the green valleys of Switzerland to the hot and stuffy court rooms of our country. But some of us stayed behind, and some of us fought the gas cases, and finally Mr. Shearn and I secured a decision from the highest court in this State, which was handed down a few days ago, and which enjoined the Gas Company, not the officers of the State, but the Gas Company, from interfering with the consumers and from cutting off their gas and from taking out their meters as long as they paid eighty cents a thousand feet in accordance with the law.

After this had been made clear, Mr. Hughes ceased to claim the credit for the gas decision, but said Hearst deserved no credit for it, but that Lawyer Whitney did.

I do not like personalities of this kind, and I will make a proposition to Mr. Hughes in order to stop them. If Mr. Hughes will stop lying about me I will stop telling the truth about him.

I do not question any corporation attorney's right to hold any opinion on any subject, or to argue any side of any case for a fee, but I do deny his right to question the sincerity of a man who does his best to serve his fellow-citizens without a fee.

There are important issues to be discussed in this campaign, and these issues should be above politics, and they are above politics. We should forget that we are Democrats or Republicans or Independence Leaguers and unite as American citizens to preserve our American rights and liberties.

I have said that if Thomas Jefferson were here he would stand with us in this battle for equality, opportunity, liberty and common honesty, and any man who calls himself a Democrat and is not with us in this struggle for popular rights and common honesty is not a Democrat according to the principles of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic party.

And I have said that if Abraham Lincoln were here he would stand with us in this struggle against the misuse of power and wealth in politics by our corporation aristocracy, even as he stood against the insolence of the slaveholding aristocracy of his day.

In reply to this statement, Mr. Hughes has asked scornfully whether if Abraham Lincoln were here he would be for Hearst, and I say that is not the question, for if Lincoln were here to-day, Hearst would be for Abraham Lincoln.

I have no selfish desire to lead this fight. I am in the fight to the end, but I am willing to serve in the lead or in the ranks, as you desire.

If, however, you see fit to elect me and my associates, and give us an honest Legislature, I pledge you that we will restore the power to the people, and whip these corrupt corporations out of the temple of your government.

'AMERICAN' HITS HARD AT ROOT

The Secretary's Attack on Hearst Considered Most Important Event of Campaign.

Special to the Montreal Star.

New York, N.Y., Nov. 3. — Secretary Root's attack on Hearst is considered the most important event of the campaign, voicing as he does the sentiments of Roosevelt. All New York newspapers comment on the speech at considerable length. The Sun says it is unprecedented in the history of the country. At the supreme crisis of the campaign, the federal executive feels itself imperatively called upon to interpose with all the moral force and influence of its command, in favor of one of the candidates and against the other. The whole weight, dignity and authority of the national administration are exerted in extraordinary appeal.

The American makes a terrific attack on Root. It says:

"Root, unlike Hughes, does not condescend to do a piece of work for the trusts. He has insisted on annual retainers and all his professional life has been at the service of any corporate, pirate, or individual scoundrel who had the necessary money to employ him."

PORT ARTHUR ACCIDENTS.

Several Fatalities Occurred on Railways In Past Few Days.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Port Arthur, Ont., Nov. 3. — Accidents of various kinds have been numerous on the railways in this section during the past few days. In addition to the burning to death of a man in a boarding car, at White River, on Tuesday night, and the destruction, by fire, of a train on the C.N.R., on the same evening, another freight wreck occurred on the C.N.R., on Wednesday night, and three men were injured on the C. P. R. at Schreiber, on the same night.

The freight wreck occurred near Matawin, caused by a rear end collision, as the train was entering a siding. The Schreiber accident was due to the carelessness of six men on a hand car, who, seeing a train on the track, were under the impression it was one which they had passed a short time before. The locomotive struck the hand car throwing the men in the air. One sustained a severe scalp wound, another a broken leg, and the third internal injuries. They were brought to the hospital here.

THE TOPICS OF THE UNITED KINGDOM

FRAE AULD SCOTIA

The King's Visit to Lord Colebrooke's Place, Glengonnar, Near Abington.

FREE KIRK AND WEE FREES

Scotch are Large Consumers of Canadian Apples and Also Bananas.

Frae oor ain correspondent.

Glasgow, October 24.—There is some fun in bein' a King after a'. King Edward VII. is up in the Douglas country, enjoyin' himsel' amang the Lowther an' Lead Hills, an' livin' at Glengonnar, Lord Colebrooke's place near Abington. This is near whaur the River Clyde rises, an' in the country whaur the Lords o' Douglas reigned like kings for hunders o' years. In the days o' the early Scottish Stuarts the lord o' Douglas was mair than ainee a mair important person than the King. Their castle—their auld castle—was in existence as far back as the year 1293, an' none kens hoo muckle farther. Sir Walter Scott made it the "Castle Dangerous" o' ane o' his stories—his last story—an' when he visited it, in his feeble days, he spoke to it the words o' the Douglas dying at Otterburn:

"My wound is deep, I fain would sleep;
Take thou the vanguard of the three,
And hide me by yon bracken bush
That grows on yonder lilye lee.
O, bury me by the bracken bush
Beneath the blooming brier,
Let living mortal never ken
That e'er a kindly Scot lies here."

But I am wandering badly. What I was sayin' was that there was some fun in bein' a King after a'. Especially in these days o' motor cars. King Edward quietly hauled oot his motor car the ither day an' slipped ower to Dalmeny to see Lord Rosebery. It was a run o' twenty miles each way, but it was done in twa oors gaun an' twa comin', without gaun ower the speed limit. No that there wasna some chance o' trouble wi' the police. To get frae Abington to Dalmeny the King had to pass through Edinburgh, an' at the west end o' Princes street a policeman shouted to the driver to haud aff a bit to the ither side o' the road. If the driver had no obeyed the policeman the King micht hae been hauled up for obstructin' the police in the execution o' their duty, or if the policeman hadna been sae busy he micht hae noticed that there was nae number on the car, an' mayhe run the King in for breakin' the law o' his ain country. That is, unless he kent that there is ae man wha can hae a car without a number, an' ane only. Onway the King slipped frae place to place like a common man, an' through his auld capital without as muckle as a bailie to ask hoo he was livin'. After the days o' motor cars he oreicht hae done this, for then he wad hae had to engage a special train an' let a' body ken. The motor car is a grain' affair.

The day after the King was seein' his Lord Rosebery unveiled a monument in Edinburgh to Sir James H. Gibson Craig o' Piccarton, an' made a bonnie speech on the difference atween auld lairds an' new. Sir James Gibson Craig was a laird wha took a great deal to dae wi' the affairs o' Midlothian. He didna gang into Parliament,an' he didna try to be a big man. He just set himsel' to work, maistly in the County Council, for the good o' his ain county, an' he was a fine sample o' the best kind o' new laird. In auld days the laird was a big, big man, wha wore a cocked bonnet, an' acted as a sort o' wee king in his estates, lookin' on his tenants as sae mony bein's o' an inferior race wha were honored by bein' aloued to pay him their rents. There is nae room for that kind o' laird noo-a-days. The richt kind noo is the man wha taks a share in the government o' his ain pairt o' the country, workin' on its County Council, its School Board or its Parish Council. The Laird o' Dumbiedykes is a fine man—in Sir Walter Scott's story—an' the Laird o' Cockpen is simply splendid—in the sang. But their day is past an' gane, never to come back, an' maybe its just as weel that it is.

Principal Rainy is awa for a trip to Australia, just as the Kirk Commission is gettin' done wi' the wark o' pairtin' atween the Free Kirk an' the United Free, the property that belanged to the Free Kirk afore the great majority o' its ministers an' members joined wi' the United Presbyterians in 1901. The Principal was the chief man in bringin' on the union, an' them wha were against it an' are noo the Free Kirk (better kent as the Wee Frees) said mony a hard thing aboot him. He is nearly 82 years auld, an' his trip to Australia is looked on as his goodbye to public life. When he comes back he winna tak up the leadership o' the United Free Kirk, an' he winna tak muckle to dae wi' kirk affairs generally. He has had his day, a lang hard day, an' deserves a rest at nicht. The decision o' the Hoose o' Lords that the United Frees had nae richt to the property o' the Free Kirk was a sair blow to him, as it was to mony anither minister, but he lived through it to see Parliament itsel' passin' a law to put richt, as far as possible, the muddle made by the House o' Lords.

An' noo the Commission is pairtin' the property. Already it has decided wha are to be the owners o' some o' the country kirks that were claimed by United Frees an' Frees, but the decision that a'body was waitin' for only cam last Friday. The big Assembly Hall in Edinburgh, an' the buildin's connected wi' it are to gang to the United Frees, an' what were the offices o' the Free Kirk afore the union are to gang to the Frees. A' the foreign, colonial, an' Jewish missions are handed ower to the United Frees, but there is nae word yet o' hoo the big funds are to be divided. The maist interestin' point is that the United Frees get the Assembly Hall. It has aye been connected in the minds o' the folk o' Scotland wi' the Free Kirk, as its principal meetin' place, an' the fact that the United Frees hae it will mak stronger their claim to be the real Free Kirk o' 1843, a thing the Wee Frees claim as their special recommendation to the favor o' the country. They will likely say that they get the offices because they are the real Free Kirk, but this winna maitter. The public kens little aboot the offices, but it kens a' aboot the big Assembly Hall, whaur the ministers an' elders meet in May to discuss the affairs o' the Kirk. We are waitin' noo for the division o' the big funds an' a list o' the disputed kirks an' the way they are to be divided.

There was a man cam ower here in June last frae Wentworth County, Canada, to get orders for Canadian apples. He saw the fruit merchants an' he had sic a fine way wi' him that he persuaded them to tak' 17,000 barrels o' his winter apples. It was the biggest order o' the kind e'er ta'en to Canada at ae time, an' it showed what could be done by a clever man gettin' right in wi' them wha needed what he had to sell. Lots o' the 17,000 barrels are noo comin' into the harbor, an' a big firm o' Glasgow fruit sellers are advertisin' that they had 295 barrels in wi' the Allan liner Mongolian the ither day, an' that they expect 300 or 400 barrels a week a' through the season. This looks like good business for ae firm. But this is naethin' to what is comin' in ilka week. The week afore last two Allan liners an' twa Donaldson liners landed amang them 20,000 barrels o' apples frae Canada, an' the States, an' the week after that an Allan liner, a Donaldson liner, an' an Anchor liner (the last frae New York) landed aboot the same number. It looks as if we had a' turned vegetarians an' decided to eat naethin' but apples. There are folk wha say this wadna be a bad plan.

No that we dinna eat ither kinds o' fruit. Glasgow is said to be the best customer the West Indies hae for bananas. It's only twa-three years sin' bananas began to come to Scotland, an' noo ae Glasgow firm has a fleet o' thirteen steamers daein' naethin' but carrying them frae Jamaica an' Costa Rica. They tak hame aboot 156,000 a week, an' onybody takin' a walk aboot the harbors can see the bananas by the lorry load at a' oors o' the day. The maist o' them are disposed o' by street hawkers, wha dae a big business wi' their barrows, an 'are said to mak big profits. They are aye on the streets, but they seem to dae the maist trade late at nicht after the shops are shut.

The states at the sooth end o' the United States—that seems awkward, but it's a' richt—are tryin' a little o' Canada's plans for attracting emigrants frae Scotland, but it isna workin' worth a cent. The Southern States want to get Scotsmen, but there isna muckle chance o' any amount o' advertisin' inducin' Scotsmen to gang there in ony numbers worth speakin' a'. For ae thing a' the Scotsmen wha are worth ony new country gettin' gang to Canada—except a few to Australia an' New Zealand—pairtly because they believe it's the best place to gang to, pairtly because they prefer to aye hae the British flag ower their heids, an' pairtly because Canada is the nearest o' Britain's big dominions. Noo that there are fine, fast boats, crossin' in a week, the idea o' gaun to Canada seems naethin' oot o' the way, an' sae lang as it welcomes the emigrant as it has been daein' ither pairts o' the warl' wil hae little chance wi' Scotsmen.

The plan for a memorial to the late Donald Cameron o' Lochiel seems to be sufferin' frae the amount o' enthusiasm amang them wha wish it weel. The Clan Cameron Association hae raised a lot o' money ,an' they propose to erect a monument in Fort William. Fort William is in the hame country o' the Camerons, but Lochiel was far mair than a Lochaber man. He took a han' in the government o' the haill county o' Inverness, an' the County Council think they should hae somethin' to say in the maitter o' a memorial. Some o' them want to get a special portrait o 'the late chief for their hall in Inverness, an' ithers think that they micht put up a special Lochiel wing to the Northern Infirmary, or to the Hospital in Fort William or to a new Sanatorium that is—some day—to be put up in the heart o' Invernessshire. What is needed, in the first place, is an agreement atween the Clan Cameron Association an' the County Council, sae that they may collect money for ae big fund, an' no try to get up twa different funds.

The Scottish herrin' lassies hae a grievance. A lot o' lassies frae Sweden hae come ower to Grimsby to start workin' in the herrin', an' as this is a trade that the Scottish lassies hae had a' to themsel's sin' time immemorial, they arena pleased. They follow the boats a' roond the coast, just as the boats hae to follow the herrin,' an' they gut and pack the fish by the million. It's a hard life, because it is dirty work an' lang oors an' maistly puir lodgin's, but it's their wark, an' they mak big money when the fishin's are good. If the Swedish lassies come in an' work cheaper—as they will likely dae—it will be hard lines on the Scottish lassies, wha believe in the auld, auld proverb —"oor ain fish gets to oor ain sea maws."

Apparently the laying of eggs with money in them is becoming a habit in some farmyard circles. A. OUR LONDON LETTER

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's Absence from the Political Arena.

YUKON TRIP OF MR. SELOUS

Noted Hunter Likes Spacious Desolation of That Silent Wilderness—Australia and Preference.

From the special Correspondent of the Montreal Star Resident in London.

London, October 24.—Some of your recent visitors from England, have, I see, been repeating the alarmist note in regard to Mr. Chamberlain's health. It is quite true that in English circles, where the wish is father to the thought, Mr. Chamberlain's condition is still spoken of in grave whispers, but a friend of mine who spent last evening with Mr. Austen Chamberlain again confirms the statement made in these columns that there is no ground whatever for the suggestion that Mr. Chamberlain is in any sense permanently incapacitated for political life. All that is the matter with him is that he, a man of 70 years of age, is going through a bad attack of gout. The gout settled in his wrist and ankle, so much so as to greatly impede his movements and prevent his using his hand for writing. Only with the greatest difficulty was he induced to abandon his public appearances this autumn and he did not yield until the doctor told him in so many words that a complete three months', rest was absolutely essential to a complete restoration to health. But given these three months' rest there is—and this may be stated on the very highest authority—no reason in the world why Mr. Chamberlain should not again be as good a fighting man as he has been any time these past ten years.

A medical authority, talking to me of gout the other day, said that in his experience it frequently happened that persistent attacks of gout ended in a virulent attack of the kind which Mr. Chamberlain is now passing through. Sometimes, added this medical man, the attack is too much for an elderly patient, and carries him off, but if he gets through it, it is nine chances to ten that he will be a stronger, better man than before the attack and be exempt from the old enemy for the rest of his life. At any rate this may be said with emphasis that by Mr. Chamberlain's own wish the Chamberlain movement is going ahead this autumn at full speed, and in the opinion of the men who lead it there are plenty of signs of increasing public adherents. It is the accepted policy of one of the two great parties in the State and would probably poll one half of the British electorate on referendum. Ministers themselves see so many pitfalls before them in the coming autumn session —pitfalls dug by their own allies and the Labor and extreme Radical parties, to say nothing of the regular Opposition—that great as is the Ministerial majority, anything may happen within the next year.

A HUNTER'S TALES.

Mr. Selous, the famous big game hunter is back again in London with wonderful tales of his hunt in the unknown country which lies between Dawson City and Fort Simpson. "I like the spacious desolation of that silent wilderness," he told a visitor the other day when glancing over the large scale maps all round him, and yet, so modest is the man, that the demand for further particulars only brought the answer "I have really nothing to say about this Yukon trip, nothing happened you know," and turning to a ponderous and ugly butt of a Boer gun—an old relic from South Africa, he added "This, after all, is more interesting." But, when Mr. Selous was induced to talk about his Yukon trip, he really had not a few interesting things to say. For instance, "I've only been away three months, travelling about 16,000 miles. From here to Vancouver, and then to Skagway, over the divide to Whitehorse. Thence to Fort Selkirk by canoe up the Yukon—catch all the connections, and one could do it in 18 days. From Selkirk we poled up and towed our canoe for 18 days up the Macmillan River, which was not survey till 1902.

"The country through which it flows is the most desolate imaginable, quite uninhabited, and when I put ashore on the south bank, broke through the underbrush and the spruce forest which clothe the lowlands, and got into the uplands which divide that river from the Pelly in the south I was where, I suppose, man had never been before." Though there were plenty of bear tracks, Mr. Selous saw no bears, and the best moose head he got measured "only" 5 by 3 across, or 3in. less than the one obtained during his NorthWest trip of two years ago. "By the way", said Mr. Selous as a parting shot, "I left the son of a well-known peer—the son is known about Dawson as 'Never Wash'—on that forlorn Macmillan River, and there he is going to stay, with a retired member of the North-West Mounted Police as a companion, all this coming winter."

THE "ABSENT MINDED BEGGAR."

The Englishman is said to have won his Empire in a fit of absentmindedness. He is something of an "absentminded beggar" still for the Postmaster General tells us this week that 27 million letters and packages were undelivered last year and included in these packages were something like 3¼ million dollars. Were Mr. Fielding the British Postmaster General with a free hand how easily he might satisfy the new Provincial subsidy demands, sending even British Columbia away happy. The British Postmaster General by the way would seem to be pretty much of a Little Englander despite the fact that he is an ex-Under Secretary of State for the Colonies and is frequently to be seen at Anglo-Canadian gatherings. He apparently finds it impossible to regard the British Empire as a political and social unit for he declared at Hanley recently that "It was ridiculous and illogical that we should be able to send a letter to Canada for a penny whilst the cost to the United States was two-pence-halfpenny."

AUSTRALIA ALSO TILTS AT TREATIES.

Everyone in this country is awaiting with the greatest interest the result of the pending general election in Australia. If Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues are really keeping their eyes upon the programme for the next Colonial Conference they too must await with much concern the verdict of the Australian electorate. For Mr. Deakin, the present Prime Minister of the Commonwealth means, if he is successful at the polls, to pursue with all the vigour at his command a policy not dissimilar from that which Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his Ministry pursued with so much success nine years ago. Canadian Ministers, it will be remembered, threw their British preference at Lord Salisbury's head and practically compelled him to abrogate the two British treaties—those with Germany and Belgium—which stood in the way of Canadian concessions to British goods. Mr. Deakin now throws another form of preference at the heads of British Ministers, a preference of 10 per cent. on British goods carried to Australia in British ships manned by white crews, and the Colonial Office has stepped in to inform Mr. Deakin that these conditions are contrary to the spirit of British treaties with Greece, Honduras, Japan and other countries. When Lord Salisbury had to tackle the foreign treaties which stood in the way of Canadian concessions to the Mother Country his reply was "Very well, so much the worse for the treaties; this is a family affair," and despite ardent German protest the treaties had to go. Will Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and his colleagues take up a similar attitude towards the less important foreign treaties which are now said to stand in the way of the Australian preference? At any rate, Mr. Deakin's proposal made on the very eve of an Australian election testifies his belief in the political favour with which the Australian people regard a large policy of preference and it is difficult to believe that if Mr. Deakin should be returned the British people who begin to realise the vital importance to them of Colonial markets will not resent any failure on the part of British Ministers to take advantage of so excellent a Colonial concession. It is estimated that the Australian preference would mean not less than 2½ million dollars per annum in the pockets of the British mercantile marine and we all know how greatly handicapped British manufacturers and merchants now are in their trade with Australia by the preferential shipping rates enjoyed by United States and German manufacturers. Altogether the Australian preferential offer looks most tempting and whether British Ministers like it or not it seems certain that they will have to think out the whole preferential policy quite anew.

GLENCONNAR HO USE, LANARKSHIRE.

Lord and Lady Colebrooke, who entertained the King at their beautiful place, Glenconnar House, in Lanarkshire, have long been among his Majesty's most favored hosts. Lady Colebrooke, who came prominently forward as a great Government hostess last winter, was one of the daughters of Lord Alfred Paget, an intimate friend of the King, and his Majesty often dines with her and with Lord Colebrooke in their beautiful house in Stratford Place. Lady Colebrooke owes her name of Alexandra to the fact that she is their Majesties' goddaughter, and both the King and Queen were present at her wedding. Lady Colebrooke is not only a very beautiful woman—dark, slender, and stately, with the brilliant complexion generally associated with fair hair—but she is a capable artist, and has exhibited at the Paris Salon, while her love for horses is a passion. She sometimes drives a four-in-hand, and she owns many styles of quaint vehicles, including a Russian troika.

Glenconnar House, which has already entertained royalty in the person of the Prince of Wales, took the place, some years ago, of a much older mansion, which was burnt down while its owner was at Newmarket. The new building is even more luxurious and comfortable than was its predecessor, and a feature of the beautiful grounds is a workshop where Lady Colebrooke can pursue her favorite handicraft of woodcarving.

NEW METHOD TO KEEP MILK.

Prof. Behring Can Keep Milk Without Boiling It.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Paris, November 3.—Professor Behring, of Marbourg, declares that he has discovered a method of keeping milk for an indefinite time without boiling it or damaging its nutritive qualities in any way.

A sixth of an ounce of perhydrol is added to a gallon of milk, and the milk is then heated to 122 degrees. The perhydrol decomposes into water and oxygen, the oxygen escapes, and the milk is left diluted with an exceedingly small quantity of water absolutely free from microbes. Milk treated in this way, it is said, may be kept for an indefinite time without change.

Professor Behring is also said to believe that milk loses some of its best qualities when exposed to daylight. He is said to advocate green or red milk bottles.

AN INFANT PHENOMENON.

Little Nine-Year-Old Boy is a Marvellous Pianist.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Madrid, November 3.—Latest among the "infant phenomena" is the wonder-child—little nine-year-old Pepito Arriola.

This young Spanish pianist is so tiny that a special piano has been built for his baby fingers, and the keys of the instrument are considerably narrower than those of a full-sized piano.

But, although so small in this respect, the tone is full and brilliant, and little Pepito is certainly one of the most robust of all the prodigies. He is attracting the greatest attention throughout Europe.

In appearance he is a typical dark-skinned, black-haired, little Spaniard. Besides being a pianist Pepito is also a composer; he has written a march which has been accepted by the King of Spain.

Shooting of a Constable Does Harm to Home Rule Cause.

FATHER MATTHEW CEREMONY

Fiftieth Anniversary Observed in Dublin and Cork—Another Flag Incident.

Dublin, October 27.—The shooting of a constable at a place near Athenry, Co. Galway, last week, is likely to do a good deal of damage to the Home Rule cause in Ireland, as many people in the three kingdoms must ask: "Is this country ready for Home Rule?" As usual, of course, in Ireland, agrarian business was at the root of all, and the trouble in the Lambert estate, over which Col. Lopdell is receiver, is, how the tenants are to settle about purchasing their holdings. The real question which the Government have to face is, are the tenants on an estate to decide the price they are to pay, withhold their rents if their terms are not agreed to, and threaten "serious agrarian trouble" if their demands are not complied with? Are the troubled times of twenty-five years ago to be inaugurated by the old methods and under similar conditions, or will the Government realize in time the serious increase to the public peace of the entire country which the history of the Lambert estate agitation is burning into the minds of every respectable Irishman?

Mr. John Redmond, M.P., addressing a meeting at Coal Island, Co. Tyrone, on Sunday, said the majority of the people of Ulster was in favor of Home Rule, and he would preach the doctrine of conciliation to them, but they should not surrender any principle or any of their weapons. If they were to accept such a scheme of administrative reform or administrative Home Rule, as would make the continuance of their national movement difficult or impossible they would be in the position in which Ireland was when Grattan agreed to the disbandment of the Irish Volunteers. The watchword should be "Put your trust in no British Government, and keep your powder dry," and then, whether the Liberal Government did its duty and fulfilled its pledges or not they would face the future with calm and with confidence.

Last Sunday was the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Father Matthew, the great Irish temperance advocate, and was made the occasion of demonstrations in Dublin and Cork. In Dublin the demonstration took the form of a procession to celebrate the anniversary of his birth, and was a large and imposing affair. The procession, which was watched by large crowds along the route, was a very convincing proof of the progress made by the temperance movement in Dublin. The procession included representatives from temperance societies, public bodies, trade organizations and schools. The demonstration was by no means confined to Dublin, as there were large contingents from Cavan, King's county, and other counties. From Cavan alone there was a party of 2,000, with eight bands at the head of the procession were the members of the Father Matthew's Association, and the whole made a fine show.

At a meeting of the Kane Memorial, L.O.L., 800, it was unanimously resolved: That we strongly condemn the action of the Lord Lieutenant, as the representative of His Majesty the King, in opening the Munster-Connaught Exhibition, as he well knew that a resolution was passed by the committee prohibiting the Union Jack or any other English emblem being displayed in or upon any part of the buildings, while flags of every other country were displayed.

The sample of Indian flax which is at present on view in Belfast, is attracting much attention, and has been inspected by a large number of the representatives of the principal flax spinners in the North of Ireland. Some of the flax is very good in fibre, and gives promise of being well worth cultivation, if expert knowledge is brought to bear on its growth, pulling, scutching, etc. Sir Lewis Hay, of Edinburgh, has been principally instrumental in having the experiments carried out in Behar, province of Bengal.

In naval circles the rumor is current that the Lords of the Admiralty contemplate making a change in regard to the Atlantic fleet, most interesting to Ireland. The rumor is that the Atlantic fleet is to be reconstructed, and to be called the Irish fleet, with headquarters at Berehaven. The change would do much to popularize naval service, particularly as it is understood that concessions may be made, which will do much to overcome the antipathy which has in some ways been manifested towards the naval service in this country.

It is stated that Mr. Stephen Gwynn, the Irish writer, will be the Nationalist candidate for Galway, the seat vacant by the resignation of Mr. Devlin. Local feeling is in favor of a local candidate in Mr. J. C. McDonnell, vice-chairman of the Galway County Council, who is a great favorite. It is said that a Devolutionist will also be a candidate.

The bill for stimulants in some of our public institutions in Ireland is very large. The local government inspector in his report on the expenditure of the County Sligo Fever Hospital in 1903, with 108 patients, was £1,218; for 1904, with 67 patients, £1,637, and in 1905, with 62 patients, £1,013. This expenditure, he considered, was altogether out of proportion to the number of patients treated. He said, that the cost of stimulants per patient was far in excess of anything he had met with in other hospitals.

A peculiar situation has arisen in Clonmel (Co. Tipperary), over the dismissal of the local inspector of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children (Mr. Thomas Lord), by the London Executive. Mr. Lord's appointment gave general satisfaction locally, and his dismissal was strongly resented by the local committee, who carried on correspondence with London, in the vain endeavor to get the decision altered. Now, by a large majority, it has been decided, on the motion of Canon Flavin, to form a local society, the Canon remarking that he would tell his people not to let the new inspector into their houses. He (the Canon) had already told the man who called on him that if he attempted to do so he "would get him pelted out of the town with rotten eggs."

On the 5th October, two well-known and successful oarsmen of the Bann Rowing Club, of Coleraine, Messrs. William Carson and A. E. Ferguson, left for Canada, and were given a hearty send-off by a large number of their friends at the Coleraine railway station. Mr. Carson was a member of the Bann R. C.'s unbeaten senior "eight" and "four" in the season just closed. Mr. Ferguson held a similar position as one of the Bann "four" and "eight," and in 1906 rowed for Belfast Commercial B. C., being a member of the crew which won the Cairnes Cup at Drogheda Regatta. He also won the Lawrence Cup for scullers at Coleraine in July last. Both oarsmen are bound for Toronto, and will probably be heard of in aquatics on your side of the Atlantic.

The Live Stock Journal says: "There has been a great deal of discussion recently on the desirability of the extension of tillage in Ireland, and no doubt a change of that kind would be helpful in many ways. But the suggestion need not be advanced as antagonistic to stock-breeding, for which Ireland is unquestionably peculiarly adapted. Tillage implies to some extent at any rate, a profit on the growing of cereals, and so long as there are vast tracts of land throughout the world that can be cheaply cultivated and will yield large crops, the prospect of remuneration is remote. But Ireland has a market for her store and fat stock, which, if not so lucrative as could be desired, and which is becoming increasingly subject to the same influences of excessively keen competition as the cereal crops, is yet of considerable value and deserving of all possible cultivation and development. The extension of tillage instead of being antagonistic to stock-breeding, as it is occasionally represented to be by its advocates, might very well extend and supplement that branch, because there is no doubt that a better supply of food crops would enable the young animals to be more generously treated and their growth continued unchecked, so that they would command a higher price and be better fitted for feeding. If Ireland could finish the fattening of a large number of cattle it would be beneficial to the country in many ways."

Ireland in ancient days was known as "The Island of the Woods," but now it is said to be one of the worst wooded countries in Europe. The Department of Agriculture for Ireland is doing its best to foster the forestry industry knowing that such a scheme includes the elements of utility, beauty and, perhaps, health. In co-operation with the Irish Forestry Society, the Department has issued leaflets on this subject lately. The society's latest leaflet is entitled "Arbor Day." An annual arbor day is suggested. The last three days of October and the first four days of November have been suggested as the most appropriate time from which to select a day. It is also advised that where possible, individuals should combine together for the purpose of planting trees in suitable groups.

The subject of growing sugar beet in Ireland was brought up at the last weekly council of the Dublin Industrial Development Association on Monday last, when a letter was read from Lieut.Col., F. T. Warburton, R. E. in which he pointed out that the sugar beet industry was greatly handicapped in the process of manufacture by expensive coal. Col Everard (of Irish tobacco growing note) said that the beet grown in Ireland was quite equal to the best Germany could produce. The real difficulty, he pointed out, was the uncertain condition of the system of counties, that are adopted in foreign countries, and they were not sure yet whether the Government would try to help the industry in the way it was being helped everywhere else.

Mr. T. A. Hall, M. Inst. C. E., a Donegal man by birth, who recently resigned the post of engineer of the Derry and Lough Swilly Railway Co. has secured the appointment of Government Engineer to Newfoundland Mr. Hall was recommended for the appointment by a prominent English railway company, who knew his abilities, and who were asked by the Board of Trade to find a suitable man for the appointment. He commences with a salary of $2,500, rising to $4,500 per annum.

"NORDHEIMER'S" LIMITED

ESTABLISHED 1840.

589 St. Catherine Street West,

Where the Pianola Piano and the Metrostyle Pianola are on daily demonstration to the public irrespective of any intention to purchase.

These instruments have established a new standard in the Piano world, and the enthusiasm they have created is without precedent in the piano industry.

The considerations which the Pianola Piano and Metrostyle Pianola logically bring home to any person who investigates them are:

"Why should I have a Piano which but a single member of my family can play, when with the Metrostyle Pianola I can have a Piano that we can all play?"

"Or, why continue to keep in my home a piano that is seldom or never touched, when I can exchange it for a Pianola Piano, with a Metrostyle Pianola in its interior, which will instantly make a performer of me and of every member of my family, and will bring into my daily life the greatest music ever written?"

Such are the questions that have been the deciding factor in the success of the Pianola Piano.

Price of the Metrostyle Pianola, $275.

Pianola Pianos, $600 to $1,000.

NAKED MAN SUICIDES.

Unknown Hurls Himself Before Engine Near Three Rivers.

Three Rivers, November 3.—Between St. Tito and Garneau Junction, yesterday, the Great Northern train driver was surprised at seeing a man, stark naked, rush out of the woods near by and run towards the engine. The engineer whistled and slackened up his train, but to no purpose, as the distance was too short. The man was struck and killed. He was picked up and brought to Garneau Junction. His clothes were found near where the accident occurred. So far he has not been identified.

World Gossip

How Long Will They Stay?

This is a question which a. the present time a great number of people all over the country, and even all over the world, are putting themselves with regard to the American occupation of Cuba. The answers are naturally various and almost as numerous as the people that make them.

Mr. Harris L. Bowick, an American resident of Havana, who is at present in this city, states that it begins to be the feeling among a large portion of the better class of Cubans, as well as among the foreign residents of the island, that the American occupancy bids fair to be a permanent one, or at least exceedingly indefinite.

"And if such were the case," he continued, "there would be few of the responsible classes of the population who would greatly object, and a large number who would welcome it with joy, as they realize that such an occupation or direction of Cuban affairs by the United States would mean the establishment and maintenance of peace, the development of the resources of the country, and the fostering of every branch of trade."

The recent outbreak which made necessary American intervention is proof sufficient, according to Mr. Bowick, of the necessity of the continuance of such intervention, if the whole trouble is not to occur over again.

"The existing conditions are such," he explained, "that it is quite impossible for the United States to withdraw from the government of the island for some time; and it is more than doubtful if it can ever be done in safety, and for the best interests of the Cubans as well as the foreigners who have settled there and have engaged in business. People now realize that the Cubans should never have been allowed to govern the country as they have done, and the experiment was doomed to failure from the start. Its only good result is that the better class of Cubans themselves are now convinced of the futility of any other system than that of American direction."

"But how do you think this direction should be carried out?" was asked.

"I believe—and the number of those who believe likewise is increasing every day in Cuba—that the fiction of Cuban independence should be abandoned, and that the island should be brought directly under the government of the United States, just as though it formed part of the American continental domain. The result cannot but be a beneficial one for all concerned, and, above all, for Cuba itself."

The Furs of the Yukon.

There is more in the frozen plains of the Yukon than the gold mines to attract the fortune-seeker, and the fur industry is one which promises in time to become a very important one. Mr. E. J. Grimshaw, of Vancouver, at present visiting in this city, told a Star reporter yesterday that he had lately visited Dawson and the Yukon district in connection with the fur trade, and that the market there for pelts had been very good this year.

"The skins of the region are particularly good," he said, "being unusually heavy, soft and fluffy. This is probably a dispensation of Providence, in view of the fact that animals in that country have to endure temperatures of about 60 below at almost any time during the long winter. The result is that the Alaskan furs command higher prices than the furs from any other section of North America."

"Which are the best furs there?" was asked.

"At present the silver fox pelt is the most valuable, because it is extremely rare, and also because it is, as a result, extremely fashionable. Some of the prime dark pelts will bring over $1,000 in price. But, of course, such a pelt must be absolutely perfect, and perfect skins of the silver fox are picked up only a few times in the trapper's life."

Mr. Grimshaw states that another fur very much in demand at present is the marten. In these, too, it is the dark pelts which are most sought after. Unfortunately, dark pelts have been very rare this season.

"How about bear skins?" ventured the interviewer.

"Oh, there isn't a very great demand for them," and Mr. Grimshaw laughed, "since European armies have discarded its use in the headgear of the soldiers. It does not pay to ship them except in the case of a few unusually large skins with the claws on, which are used for rugs."

Lynx pelts have also been in demand for automobile use, but beaver and red fox and minx have been somewhat neglected, silver fox and marten being the favorites.

The Home of Peppermint.

"Nearly every one uses peppermint in some form or other nowadays," said Mr. Albert F. Saunderson, of Indianapolis, at the Queen's yesterday, "but there is scarcely one in a hundred of the countless numbers who munch peppermint lozenges or chew peppermint gum or rub peppermint oil on their sore heads who could tell you where it all comes from. The chances are that if asked they would point to some tropical country away at the other end of the world."

Mr. Saunders paused for a moment, while his interviewer, who had a vague notion that peppermint was produced somewhere in Senegambia or Zanzibar, fidgetted with anxiety.

"Indiana, sir, Indiana," said Mr. Saunderson, "that's the home of peppermint."

"Ah!" said the interviewer appreciatively, and he breathed freely once more.

"The world's supply of high-grade peppermint oils and flavors," continued Mr. Saunderson, "comes from Northern Indiana and Southern Michigan, and the low-grade supply from Japan. This year's harvest has just been taken in in Indiana, and has been distilled on the farms. It represents about fifty thousand pounds. About half of it will go in all probability to England and Germany, and some of it will come back again in high grade oils and essences."

"What is the Indiana crop worth?" was asked.

"It represents a good deal more than $100,000 if the present high prices continue. Just now there is talk of a combination of the growers to raise the price, in which case it would be worth considerably more."

James Bowman Lindsay, of Dundee, succeeded in lighting his own house with electric light in 1838.

A Revengeful Elephant.

ORE than thirty years ago a female elephant belonging to an Indian circus, overcome by her yearning for freedom, succeeded after desperate attempts in regaining it. Her numerous struggles in doing so, which left their mark in a swelling on her foot, implanted a deep-seated hatred of the human race in her massive breast, and through all these thirty years a big toll of human life has been exacted by the animal as revenge for her imprisonment. The atrocities committed by the revengeful elephant have become so frequent that the natives have fled from the district where she roams, and the Government has offered a reward of 300 rupees for her capture or death. On account of the large swelling on her foot the elephant is nicknamed the "club-footed rogue." Here is one of the many stories told of her escapades: Last September an old woman and her two young children were sleeping in their hut. Hearing movements about their granary in the night one of the children woke up their mother, saying there were thieves at their dhan. The sound of human voices was enough. An elephant which had just torn off the grain house, charged the house and killed the woman and child; one child escaped by hiding. Next morning showed this animal to have been a female, for she had a calf with her. Though retreating to the Government reserved forest at night, Terai elephants are getting bolder and bolder, advancing well into the houses and cultivated gardens everywhere, till the dread and loss caused by them are so great that tenants are throwing up their lands on all sides.

London's Mohammedan Temple.

Boston has often been said to harbor a wider variety of religious belief than any other city of the world. This is not just to London. Boston has no Mohammedan temple, and London has. In Church lane, a narrow, dirty turning out of High street, Whitechapel, there stands a dirty-looking house, which to all appearances is unoccupied. The green blinds of the windows are never drawn up—as a matter of fact the house is only used once a year. Depressing as the exterior admittedly is, the house is the sacred temple of Al Ahmed, the prophet of the most extreme sect of the Mohammedans. Through the good offices of a member of the sect, one of the Infidels was enabled to witness this recent quaint ceremony. At dawn the door was opened by a dusky man dressed in flowing white robes, and wearing a turban of green silk. This man was one of the priests, and his duty was to see that none but those bearing passes entered the house. The congregation—twenty-seven persons in all—having arrived, the door was locked, and then from behind a large curtain two priests appeared, and raising their hands above their heads, cried, "Al Allah, ekmota" (God Lord, be present). Immediately after these words were uttered all lights were extinguished, and the congregation repeated the words of the priest in a monotonous chant. Then a sickly perfume, not unlike that of incense, and said to be the breath of Al Ahmed, filled the room, and following a tremendous crash, the curtains facing the congregation were drawn apart and disclosed the three-face image of Al Ahmed, surrounded by a number of incandescent lights. The image, which was about four feet in height, was of bronze, and the three faces were carved into the expression of a horrid smile. The inside of the heads was hollowed, and in the cavity was a candle. At the sight of this weird scene the congregation, shrieking as if with terror, prostrated themselves before the image. In the meanwhile the priests went to another room, only to return a few minutes afterwards with a miniature temple, and with a resounding crash the "temple," which is supposed to contain all the sins of the faithful during the past twelve months, was thrown into a large receptacle, filled with water. The priests then said a few prayers and the congregation made their way to the second floor of the house, where they partook of a feast of curry and rice. At the conclusion of the feast another prayer was said, and the annual ceremony of "returned souls" was over. For another year, 17A Church lane will present the same dismal appearance as it did but a few days before.

Ristori's Too Grateful Soldier.

During Ristori's first engagement at Madrid an elderly woman one night gained access to her dressing room and tearfully begged her intervention on behalf of her son, a young soldier, condemned to death for a serious breach of discipline. At the close of the performance Ristori was presented to Queen Isabella, made the required appeal, and obtained the young man's free pardon—perhaps because it gave to the Queen the opportunity of a mot, that she was certain the actress had never before played in a tragedy with such a happy ending. Some years later Ristori again visited Madrid. During the first performance a soldier among the audience made a disturbance, was ejected only after severely damaging a number of policemen, and was subsequently sentenced to a long term of imprisonment. He proved to be Ristori's former protege, who, hearing of her return, had come to the theatre in order to renew his expression of gratitude. Unfortunately, he had drunk her health too enthusiastically beforehand—with the result that he finally owed her not only his life, but free board and lodging for several years into the bargain.

Canadian Soldiers Over-Sized.

The Canadian militia order a recently contained the rather amusing announcement that the attention of officers commanding units of the permanent force is requested to the abnormal demand for large-sized coats and cloaks. The majority of coats asked for are for men from five feet 10 inches to 6 feet 2 inches in height. It would appear that the new men enlisted are of abnormal size, or that they are getting coats too large for them. The Militia Department evidently accept the latter view, for it is ordered that the numbers corresponding to height, as indicated in size roll form, are to be strictly adhered to. Commanding officers will see that this matter receives attention.

Turret Bell Ashore.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., November 3.—The gale caused more or less damage on Prince Edward Island and drove schooners to seek shelter in Charlottetown harbor. On the north side of the island some score of fishing boats are reported wrecked and destroyed. No loss of life is reported. The most serious incident is the stranding of the steamer Turret Bell, of the Turret line, between Montreal and Liverpool. She went ashore at Cable Head, near St. Peter's Bay, on the north shore of the island. It was impossible to hold communication with her yesterday, but she is not considered to be in a dangerous position, and no fears are entertained for the safety of the crew, who will be able to get ashore to-day when the weather moderates and the sea goes down.

The schooner Lillian, which was driven ashore at the entrance of Rustico harbor, was coal laden for Rustico. The crew was saved. The schooner is a total loss.

CONSISTENCY, CONSTANCY AND COURAGE.

(By Rev. J. A. Gordon, D.D.)

"Only let your manner of life be worthy of the Gospel of Christ; that whether I come and see you or be absent, I may hear of your state, that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one soul striving for the faith of the gospel, and in nothing affrighted by the adversaries."—Phil. 1, 27, 28.

It is difficult for us who live in this day to estimate, or even realize to any appreciable extent, our indebtedness for the blessings and pleasures we enjoy to the sufferings and sacrifices of men of bygone days. The Epistle from which our text is chosen, as well as a number of the others constituting the canon of Scripture, like the immutable classic "Pilgrim's Progress," has been written in prison. Under those trying circumstances, however, the Apostle Paul, with firm faith in the goodness, wisdom, power and love of God who controlled every event, felt sure that even his imprisonment fell out to the furtherance of the gospel. His conception of God filled his life with calmness and inspired his life with confidence and courage. He acutely judged events in the light of God rather than God in the light of events.

It is worthy of note that the church at Philippi is the only one to whom Paul has written in whose spirit and conduct he found nothing to censure but much to commend, a church every thought and remembrance of whom filled his heart with joy, and inspired thanksgiving to God. Notwithstanding these facts, in view of the uncertainty of the final issue in his own case as to whether he be liberated from prison, and again privileged to minister to them or not, he, in the words of our text, urged upon them to cultivate the graces of consistency, constancy and courage, graces that are as necessary to us in this day of strenuous struggle in connection with the Kingdom of God as they have been in the early apostolic days.

I. CONSISTENCY.

"Only let your manner of life be worthy of the gospel of Christ."

"Manner of life" indicates the policy or politics of life or the principle of action in whatever relation, in the Providence of God, one may be placed. Consistency, like other good things, is liable to be counterfeited. It is only the good things that are counterfeited. What is valueless is made to do service for that which is valuable, what is spurious for that which is genuine. The enemy of all righteousness frequently appears as "an angel of light."

The warning, "Beware of counterfeits," is as much needed in this as in any other department. There is a species of consistency of which many loudly boast that is not at all desirable consistency with one's past manner of life whether the ideals or motives were right or wrong. These frequently glory in the fact that they are not "turncoats," that they are determined to continue their manner of life and living whatever the consequences may be. This policy would make reformation or progress impossible. It would have maintained to the world a Saul in his exceeding madness, breathing out threatening and slaughter against the church of God, with all the disastrous consequences to himself and to others, and would deprive the apostle himself of the exceeding joy and glory of fellowship with the Son of God and the world of an inspired preacher of the gospel of Jesus Christ and a noble example of what a Christian character should and can become. Consistency with a man's past, if that past was not right, is far from being desirable and the sooner one becomes inconsistent in this regard the better for himself and for the world at large.

The consistency urged in the text is most desirable, "let your manner of life be worthy of the gospel of Christ." This changes the standard of life and conduct by substituting for self and selfishness Jesus Christ and His Gospel, thus making Him who "came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many," the standard up to which, by the grace of God, we must measure. Such consistency would make it forever impossible for man to be willingly unjust, harsh, cruel, dishonest or uncharitable. It would not only transform individual character, but it would wondrously change the prevailing policy in the social, political and commercial life by Christianizing them all; and surely present investigations and revelations show how sorely this is needed in the world to-day.

This consistency is the product of the regeneration of human hearts through the gospel by the Spirit of God from which reformation and development of character and conduct emanate.

The gospel of Christ furnishes an ideal that can never become obsolete. Notwithstanding the progress that humanity has made, or ever can make, it evermore beckons forward to greater heights and better service, furnishing in entives to the faithful discharge of duty in Church and State and will continue to be a corrective in the world until the Kingdom of God shall have come in all its purity, power and permanency.

II.—CONSTANCY.

"That ye stand fast in one spirit, with one soul, striving for the faith of the gospel."

In these words the Apostle commends to the Church at Philippi the grace of steadfastness, fixedness in the faith of the gospel, reliableness, readiness to pursue the course that is right, standing for God and truth four-square to all the winds that blow at all cost and hazard—in short, that they should be men of fixed purpose and conviction. The wavering and instability of many of whom he expected better things has been frequently a bitter disappointment to this man of God. These have frequently proven themselves to be a broken staff, wounding the hand that leaned upon it.

He urged upon them as a primary or fundamental consideration the constancy of spiritual unity—"stand fast in one spirit"—not necessarily in one form. I think the Apostle would give scant sympathy and support to the theories of many earnest Christian men in the various communions of the Church, who insist upon absolute conformity, as though that were the sum of all good. However desirable such a consummation might possibly be, I do not think that the Lord intended to teach this in His prayer, "that all may be one, even as thou, Father, art in me, and I in Thee," so frequently quoted in support of this doctrine. All, I think, that can be fairly inferred, in view of the relation of the Father to the Son, and the Son to the Father, is the supreme importance of a unity of spirit in aim, object and purpose. It is possible for the uniformity so strenuously sought, if realized to become mechanical and monotonous, and probably it might deprive the free born citizen of the Kingdom of his right to independent thinking and the consequent blessing to himself and the world. The unity of the spirit is never mechanical nor monotonous.

He also urges upon the church the constancy of energetic effort, "with one soul striving for the faith of the gospel." It is an unspeakable honor to man to be invited to co-operate with the Son of God in the great work of the world's redemption and yet this is the very thing to which the redeemed of the Lord are called. The faith of the gospel is inseparable from service and sacrifice. It is rooted back in the distinguishing characteristics of Him who "came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many." No undertaking ever embarked upon by man so demands and deserves the exercise of the highest statesmanship and the consecration of all the powers of being. What a joy and inspiration to the leader of the battling host of the Lord to find the rank and file of His subjects "stand fast in one spirit, with one soul striving for the faith of the gospel."

III. COURAGE.

"In nothing affrighted by the adversaries."

A discouraged man or body of men is already defeated. Courage girds one for heroic action and enables him to do the almost impossible. It is not God's will that our courage should rest upon ignorance of the difficulties and dangers we have to confront. These are not unreal, few nor insignificant, as earnest, honest souls have discovered often to their cost. "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." Every great and effectual door of opportunity that is opened for man is crowded and surrounded by many adversaries, only the victory over which qualifies man for the occupation of the highest position, greatest achievement and best service. The strength of every conquered foe, in a very real sense, enters into the life of a conqueror.

There is nothing so calculated to inspire the highest type of courage as an intelligent conception of God, almighty in power, infinite in wisdom, righteousness and truth. These attributes, when considered separately, may probably inspire more of fear and awe than courage, but as the blending of the primary colors forms the pure light, so powerful and yet so gentle that it does not hurt, but helps the tender and sensitive eye to behold the beauty of surrounding prospects, even so the blending of all these Divine attributes gives us the inspired definition of God, our heavenly Father, which is love. This conception of God cannot but impart such confidence and courage as shall not be disturbed by adversities, or the adversaries that confront those who, according to their best light, are endeavoring to serve God and man.

The Captain of our salvation, in full view of the difficulties and discouragements lying between the days of His earthly ministry and the coming of the Kingdom in its fulness of perfection and glory never uttered one hopeless word. In the hour that seemed the darkest in His history, in the very sight of Gethsemane, and under the shadow of the cross He said to His confused and discouraged disciples, "Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good will to give you the kingdom." Animated with the same glorious optimism on the morning of the ascension He commissioned the disciples to go forward to the subjugation of the world. Let us never forget that our Lord and leader "shall not fail nor be discouraged until He have set judgment in the earth," and let us who have taken the vows of God upon us practically illustrate this gospel of consistency, constancy and courage, which are the fruit of the spiritual life.

"Let courage rise with danger
And strength to strength oppose."

The next of the series of sermons specially prepared for the readers of the Star, will be by Rev. G. Osborne Troop, rector of St. Martin's church.

DOCTRINE OF THE VIRGIN BIRTH

Paper Before English Congregational Union Arouses Discussion.

THE EFFECTS OF REJECTION

Incarnation Could Not Be Maintained by Those Who Reject "The Virgin Birth."

Dr. G. S. Barrett's paper, read before the delegates assembled at Wolverhampton to take part in the autumnal meeting of the English Congregational Union, has caused some excitement in ministerial circles. His subject was "The Virgin Birth," and he remarked that, whereas in every other age belief in the Incarnation and the Virgin birth had gone together, in the present day it was possible to deny one and yet retain the other. This he regarded as a new phenomenon in the history of Christian doctrine.

The chief, and he believed the determining, reason for denying the Virgin birth was, he said, its supernatural character. But if Jesus was to be explained, so far as His birth was concerned, on purely natural grounds, He remained more inexplicable than ever. The Virgin birth was far more than the negation of the human fatherhood—it was the introduction of a new—the Divine—factor. He did not believe that those who rejected the Virgin birth could long retain the Incarnation, and with the Incarnation went the deity of Christ.

In the discussion that followed, Principal Ritchie held that the developed doctrine of the Virgin birth was in the interest not so much of Christianity as of Augustinian theology; Dr. Duff said the matter of the Virgin birth was a biological, physiological question for the medical man rather than for the theologian to study and decide, and urged the delegates to "proceed to business"; and Principal Forsyth placed himself on the side of the two last-named speakers, preferring to keep an open mind on the question raised by Dr. Barrett.

Mr. W. B. Wilson, of West Bromwich, denounced the "professors" who were destroying the faith taught him at his mother's knee, and he elicited cheers when he reminded the assembly that Luke, a medical man, accepted the Virgin birth. In his reply, Dr. Barrett said if he had not believed that the doctrine of the Virgin birth was an integral and necessary part of the doctrine of the Incarnation he would not have troubled to write the paper, but he declared that his main argument, "How do you account for Jesus?" had not been touched.

In this connection several opinions have been elicited from well-known ministers on the great question raised in Dr. Barrett's paper.

REV. R. J. CAMPBELL.

The Rev. R. Campbell, on being asked if he thought a belief in the Virgin birth was a fundamental doctrine of Christianity, replied:—

"Christianity does not rest upon the dogma of the Virgin birth. I don't think it is fundamental; but the difficulty is this, that bald statements and denials on such subjects may mislead.'"

Mr. Campbell was loth to speak, especially as he had not been present at the discussion at Wolverhampton; but, being pressed, he said further:—

"The doctrine that Jesus was born without a human father is, of course, a crude and misleading presentation of the truth—the truth, namely, that out of chaos and darkness the Spirit of God is ever calling order and beauty, life and light. The idea is this: That matter is the matrix out of which the Divine Spirit produces a Divine humanity; it is this truth that is behind the dogma of the Virgin birth. But the Incarnation remains the central truth of Christianity, quite independent of the popular presentation of the Virgin birth.

"The idea of the Virgin birth is older than Christianity by aeons of years. It is the symbolical statement of that great truth of which I have spoken,a truth common to several ancient faiths. The physiological aspect of that doctrine," he said further, "is a crude presentation of an essential truth. It is a much larger question than perhaps the general public have any idea of."

"But fifty years ago, I suppose, no one would have doubted the dogma of the Virgin birth?"

"I suppose not; I do not know; I could not express an opinion; but no doubt the influence of the Higher Criticism and the broadening of thought generally have had something to do with present views."

DR. AGAR BEET.

Dr. Agar Beet, one of the most eminent theologians of the Wesleyan body, whose unique "Manual of Theology," has just been published, said:—

"Personally, I believe in the Virgin birth, but my reasons for believing it consist for the most part in the concurrence of a great variety of evidence not easy to state, and for that reason I am not disposed to put it in the front of the Gospel of Christ.

"Christianity does not rest in the slightest degree on the doctrine of the Virgin birth; it rests securely on His resurrection from the dead. That is my position.'"

"The Virgin birth is only mentioned twice, namely, in the First and Third Gospels, and indisputably these Gospels are related by their great similarity, and they embody a common tradition.

"As I read the New Testament I see clearly that the early followers of Christ all emphasized the Resurrection, and the concurrent testimony of all the writers asserts that Jesus Christ was infinitely greater than other men, and existed before He was born, and was the Son of God.

"I have no right to say that the Eternal Son of God could not have entered into human life by any other means, and the Virgin birth seems more appropriate, and is supported by two writers. On the other hand, Paul and John do not mention it, and a doctrine not taught by Paul and John ought to be carefully handled.

"The doctrine of the Incarnation and the sinlessness of Christ does not rest on the Virgin birth, meaning by Incarnation Jesus Christ, an eternal personality taking human form. I would not inscribe the Virgin birth on our banners as a doctrine to fight for. I do not choose to state things I cannot prove, and the proof which convinces me of the Virgin birth is not of a kind which I can demonstrate to others. Therefore, I think it exceedingly unwise to make it an essential point. The points to fight for are the Divinity and the Resurrection of Christ, and I am prepared to fight for those.

"During the last fifty years an entire change has come over theological thought, and we are unable now to accept every word of the Bible as literally true. In other words, the inerrancy of the Bible has to be given up."

SCOTTISH CHURCH DISPUTE AWARD

Lord Elgin's Commission Issues Interim Report Dealing With Properties in Dispute.

Lord Elgin's Commission on the Scottish Churches has issued an interim report dealing with the properties in dispute between the United Free Church of Scotland and the Free Church of Scotland.

The Commissioners have awarded to the United Free Church the Assembly Hall and College buildings in Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Aberdeen, while the Free Church gets the block of offices in Edinburgh, which contains sufficient accommodation for their college purposes.

The Free Church is to receive three thousand pounds for alteration of the offices, and an annual sum of three thousand pounds for the maintenance of their college and for bursaries.

The Foreign Mission funds and funds for the Continental and Jewish Missions are given to the United Free Church, though the Commissioners will afterwards allocate a sum to the Free Church for Foreign Missions and other objects.

The Free Church has also been awarded two additional churches in Glasgow, and an additional list of Congregational properties allocated will be issued later.

When the conflict between the two churches was brought to a head in 1904, the funds at stake were £1,364,720, of which £1,072,987 was held by the general trustees of the church and £281,733 by banks and other parties. Besides the churches there are the colleges. The total amount of the fund for the New College, Glasgow College and Aberdeen College is returned as £282,653, and for bursaries connected therewith as £92,643.

A REGRETTABLE QUARREL.

The conflict arose out of a union in 1900 between the Free Church of Scotland and the United Presbyterian Church. These bodies were both of them descendants of the historic Church of Scotland, and both were unconnected with the State, having separated through questions of conscience at different dates.

Both, it is claimed, were Presbyterian, they were alike in doctrine, in confession, in constitution, and in Evangelical sympathies. The question of a union had been considered since 1863, but postponed in deference to a minority of the Free Church.

The subject of union was resumed in 1896, and the union was consummated in 1900. The final vote in the Free Church Assembly was 643 to 57. The United Presbyterian Church was unanimous in favor of unity.

On the occasion of the union, twenty-six ministers of the Free Church (out of a total of more than 1,000) separated, and protested that they represented the true Free Church, and they and their adherents brought their action in the Civil Courts to make good their claim to all the property. All the courts in Scotland rejected that view; but the action was decided on appeal to the House of Lords on August 1, 1904, in favor of the minority.

The United Free Church, it may be mentioned (i.e., the church formed by the union of 1900), has nearly 1,700 congregations, raises about £1,100,000 sterling annually for all purposes, and maintains missions in many parts of the world.

MINORITY AND MAJORITY.

According to Principal Rainy, whose figures were accepted by the Royal Commission that preceded the Act of Parliament of last year, the whole population, of all ages, adhering to the legal Free Church (the small minority) may be estimated at 55,000. The whole population represented by the Free Church section of the United Free Church numbers about 670,000. The legal Free Church has its main strength in the Highlands. Of the original 26 ministers, 24 were either ministers in the Highlands or officiated in Gaelic-speaking congregations in the South.

The Royal Commission's report, issued in April of last year, declared that this was emphatically a case that demanded the interference of Parliament. Accordingly, an act was passed in the session of 1905, under which the Earl of Elgin, Lord Kinnear, Sir R. W. Anstruther, Sir T. Gibson-Carmichael, and Sir C. Logan were appointed Executive Commissioners to allocate between the Free Church and the United Free Church the property defined by the act.

That allocation, as regards its major part, is detailed above.

Fined for Beating His Horse.

"He was beating his horse unmercifully," said Inspector Hall, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, when bringing action against Rosario Senecal, for cruelty to his horse.

The complaint was laid before Mr. Recorder Weir, in the Recorder's Court this morning, the accused producing witnesses who stated that the horse showed no marks of any kind on its body. Mr. Weir, however, decided in favor of Inspector Hall, and Senecal was fined $5 or fifteen days.

The Rev. James William Adams, the only clergyman who has won the V. C., gained it in the Afghan war of 1879.

MISS ANNA PARNELL VISITS IRELAND

After An Exile of Fifteen Years, She Again Sees Land of Her Youth.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Dublin, November 3.— After almost fifteen years of exile, Miss Anna Parnell, sister of Charles Stewart Parnell, is at present in Ireland, and is staying with friends in one of the Dublin suburbs. Miss Anna Parnell is, intellectually, closer to her brother Charles than any member of her family. Her sister, Miss Fanny Parnell, was a more enthusiastic Nationalist, and no one can ever forget her wonderful poem about "The Destiny of Ireland," when she anticipated, only too soon, her own early death, and asked:

Shall mine eyes behold thy glory,
Oh, my country?

Mis Anna Parnell had not so continuously identified herself with the National movement as her younger sister; but that she felt the same indignation of Swift about the misgovernment of Ireland by England was fairly well known when, as a young girl, she took hold of the bridle of Lord Spencer's horse in Westmoreland street, and asked him why he allowed poor peasants in the West to be thrown out on the roadside.

The incident, at the time, created a tremendous sensation. It was almost as if a bomb had exploded in the vaults of Dublin Castle, or as if a new Titus Oates' conspiracy had been discovered. Since that dramatic incident, Miss Parnell has not taken any kind of prominent part in connection with Irish politics, but a letter which she wrote a few years ago in connection with the visit of Queen Victoria showed that she still held the opinions of the early eighties, when she was one of the most energetic members of the Ladies' Land League.

DISEASED CATTLE USED FOR FOOD

Burlington Rendering Company Indicted—First Case in State of Vermont.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Burlington, November 3.—A long series of legal proceedings between the State of Vermont and the Burlington Rendering Company, a branch of the Consolidated Rendering Company, has resulted in a decision in contempt of court proceedings, by which as a partial penalty, a fine of $3,000 and costs was imposed. The company were cited to produce before the grand jury of Chittenden county all books and records pertaining to transactions with the cattle commission of the State, it having been charged that cattle condemned by the commission, because of tuberculosis, and turned over to the rendering company to be made into fertilizer, had been used for food purposes. A part of the records called for were placed in the hands of the grand jury, it being claimed that the other books were at the Boston office of the Company. The State Legislature then in session, immediately passed an act compelling foreign corporations to produce books before grand juries when called for. The rendering company then gave to the grand jury part of the documents saying that the remainder had been destroyed before the act calling for them was passed by the Legislature. Hence the contempt proceedings.

The grand jury brought in eight indictments, four against the Consolidated Rendering Company and four against L. E. Brigham, manager of the local branch, each indictment having one hundred counts.

The indictments state that the company has been guilty of having on hand with intent to ship out of the State and with intent to sell for food purposes diseased beef and the bodies of calves less than four weeks of age. At the afternoon session of the grand jury, Dr. F. A. Rich and V. I. Spear, chairman of the state board of cattle commissioners, were both indicted, charged with the official neglect of duty. These are the first indictments of the kind in the history of the state. Sensational developments are expected to follow.

Best Kidney Remedy Known To Science

For pain in the back—scanty urine—highly colored urine — irritated bladder — irregular bowels—bad stomach — there is nothing that will bring such quick relief and so certain a cure as FRUIT-A-TIVES.

These marvelous tablets are nature's natural remedy for irritated or weakened kidneys. They act directly on the kidneys—soothe the irritated membranes—clean, heal and strengthen the organs—and help them to new vigor with their work.

Often kidney trouble is not due to any organic defect in the kidneys. If the bowels are constipated—if the skin does not throw off the tissue waste of the body—then these impurities are carried to the kidneys. In a vain endeavor to rid the system of impurities, the kidneys are overworked—the blood vessels are dilated—the nerves inflamed. That causes a host of kidney troubles.

Fruit-a-tives

not only heal and strengthen the kidneys but they also increase the action of the skin, and act directly on the liver, thus curing the constipation.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are the natural and logical cure for all kidney troubles. They are made of fruit and tonics—are pleasant to take—and a guaranteed cure when faithfully used. 50c. a box or 6 boxes for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your druggist does not handle them.

In Thousands of Homes Pe-ru-na Is the Family Doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Plamann and Children.

A Happy Family, Kept Well and Hearty By Taking Pe-ru-na

Mrs. Alvina Plamann, 1719 Walnut street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes: "I am now able to do my housework again, and have a good appetite. I have used thirteen bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin.

"My husband and children are also in good health. We always keep Peruna in the house. I thank you a thousand times for your advice."

An Enemy to the Home.

CATARRH is the natural climatic enemy of every home.

Over every home hangs the inevitable certainty of catarrhal invasion.

No home is entirely free from it. Every person is subject to it.

It would be no exaggeration to say that two-thirds of the homes of America have suffered more or less from this invisible, almost omnipresent enemy, catarrh.

Peruna is the natural protection of the household.

It is intended to relieve catarrh and catarrhal diseases in any and all of their phases.

Pe-ru-na the Household Remedy.

Mrs. Carrie King, 730 North Cascade, Colorado Springs, Col., writes:

"Peruna has been my favorite and only household remedy for nearly five years. I have suffered for years with biliousness and kidney and liver troubles. If I caught a little cold, the pains were increased, and backache and headache were of frequent occurrence.

"However, Peruna cured me—twelve bottles made me a new and healthy woman. For three years I have enjoyed the best of health. I keep Peruna constantly in my home, and if my husband or I catch cold or feel indisposed, a few doses of Peruna never fail to restore us."

The Many Phases of Catarrh.

Catarrh may appear in the household in the form of a slight cold or cough, an attack of la grippe, or even hay fever.

Peruna meets these invasions squarely and repulses the enemy before it gains a foothold.

Therefore, Peruna is a household remedy. Used at the correct time, it often obviates the necessity of continued doctoring.

Perhaps in no other way can the wisdom of economy and foresight be so forcibly expressed as in keeping on hand a bottle of Peruna to protect the various members of the family against the encroachments of catarrh.

We have on file thousands of testimonials from heads of families, located north and south, east and west.

These letters praise Peruna for its efficient protection of the family against catarrh.

Mother and Children Depend on Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. J. F. O'Connor, 460 S. California Ave., Chicago, Ill., first soprano, Areal Singing Society, writes:

"For a number of years I had suffered from catarrh of the head, and while some of the remedies helped me a little while taking them, they did not cure me permanently. My child was also sensitive to the cold and very little draught gave her a cold in the head, and it used to worry me a great deal.

"I one day heard what a wonderful medicine Peruna is and what it has done for others, so I bought a bottle, and tried it. I could hardly realize my good fortune, when, before I had taken a whole bottle of it I felt like a new woman. I took it for some time longer and also gave some to the baby, and she improved as rapidly and as permanently as I did.

"I cannot say too much for Peruna."

Uses Pe-ru-na in His Family.

Mr. Frank W. Harris, box 23, Basic City, Va., member A. F. and A. M., writes:

"I have used Peruna in my family with very satisfactory results for the last two years.

"Besides, I have recommended it to all whom I think are in need of it.

"I urge all who are afflicted to buy a bottle and begin its use at once.

"I have never heard of any who have used it to be dissatisfied with the results."

Hay Fever, Coughs and Colds.

Mrs. Lena O'Byrne, 626 Madison St., Topeka, Kas., writes:

"We have used Peruna in our household for a good many years.

"I took it for a cough and a tonic. My husband used it and thinks there is nothing like it for hay fever from which he suffered for years. I also give it to my children for coughs and colds, and my daughter Mary was cured of catarrh of the head by Peruna."

HER 104TH BIRTHDAY.

The King's Oldest Subject in London Saw Five Sovereigns.

Special to the Montreal Star.

London, Nov. 3.—There is at present living in the St. Pancras Union infirmary in Gray's Inn road a venerable lady, Mrs. Sarah Lamb, who has just celebrated her 104th birthday, and is believed to be the oldest subject of the King living in the metropolis. She was born at Ramsgate, and when a little girl was brought to London, where she has resided ever since. Her most cherished recollections are that she has seen five sovereigns, who have reigned in this country. As a child she remembers being told by her parents to curtsey to George III. as he passed through the metropolis. Subsequently she had numerous opportunities of seeing George IV., William IV., and Queen Victoria, each of which occasions she recalls clearly. "When the present King came to the throne," she said, "I was in the St. Pancras Workhouse, and not free to go where I liked, but I felt that I must see him as I had seen all the others, and so I got them to take me to Buckingham Palace in a cab, and I saw the King as he came out."

ARDUOUS JOURNEY THROUGH LABRADOR

Mr. and Mrs. Tasker, of Philadelphia, Had Unique Experience.

Philadelphia, November 3.—After a 1,500-mile journey through Labrador, suffering many discomforts and narrowly escaping death several times, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen P. M. Tasker have arrived in Philadelphia and were welcomed enthusiastically by scores of friends. Mr. Tasker has brought back many maps of an unexplored country. The Taskers crossed from west to east through territory where a white man or woman had never been, and in many places where even the Indians were strangers.

The Taskers left civilization behind them at the little Hudson Bay post at Missanobie, Ontario; from there they paddled 600 miles to Moose Factory, a journey that would make even an old hunter think hard. Some New York men made this 600-mile trip last year, and have told ever since of the hardships they suffered.

Yet this was only a start for the Taskers. They reached Moose Factory just in time to get the Hudson Bay barge for Great Whale river. This barge only makes one trip a year.

LONG AND DANGEROUS CRUISE.

After leaving the barge at Great Whale River, the Taskers paddled up the coast for thirty miles, finding a rocky shore and dangerous points of land. The guides refused absolutely to go further north than Little Whale River in the canoes, and so the Taskers were obliged to start the journey inland from that point. The maps were wrong and lakes were found hundreds of miles from the places where they were supposed to be.

Mr. Tasker said that the variation of the compass was as much as 50 degrees. He also made observations of the Aurora. The country around Moose Factory is staked out in claims, for there is surely gold and iron in Labrador; there is evidence of it in many places. The country is both glacial and volcanic, and Mr. Tasker believes that Labrador has a future. He said:

"I am sure that the salvation of the natives and the country lies in the introduction of reindeer as carriers and the extermination of the huskies. The dogs, or huskies, kill the deer, and there is a constant war between them.

"Labrador is everywhere covered with reindeer moss, a whitish-grey vegetable substance that would support life in the deer and would thus solve the problem of food for the carriers. The dogs must be provided with food. I thoroughly believe that Labrador can be made useful and inhabitable if the Government will but introduce the reindeer."

HEIGHT OF LAND HARD TO FIND.

Mr. Tasker said that they had great difficulty in finding the height of land. Labrador has a sort of backbone running north and south, from which the rivers flow, some to the east, some to the west. When the Taskers eventually reached this height, they were in a locality where no white person has ever been. It is here that Mr. Tasker made many valuable maps and gathered much data, which will be published later either in magazine or book form. One magazine has already arranged to publish Mr. Tasker's works.

For weeks not a person, Indian or Esquimaux, was seen, and even the animals had deserted the barren wastes. There is no vegetable life, except the reindeer moss, and the only animal life in the interior is the mosquito, which, according to Mrs. Tasker, is the curse of the land.

Explosion Does Much Damage.

At least half a dozen others were badly hurt. The storehouse was entirely destroyed, the coaling station badly damaged, and several cars were burned.

Find Robber But Not Money.

She is described as a Jewess belonging to Simpheropal, Capital of Taurida Province.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND CASE.

British Press Comments Frankly on the Modus Vivendi.

Canadian Associated Press.

London, Nov. 3. — The Birmingham Post, commenting on the modus vivendi, says that the complication has entered into a controversy already difficult to guide, which, unless skilfully handled, may be productive of unpleasant results. In fact, it calls for no straining of the imagination to conceive that in certain circumstances the action just taken by the Newfoundland Government may have grave consequences. The Post concludes by saying that it is not easy to see how the Foreign Office is to find a solution should Bond and his ministry obstinately determine to pursue their present tactics.

The Globe says it is no longer possible for the Colonial Office to attempt to minimize the unpleasantness of the situation. It has hitherto been the custom to slur over any expression of indignation emanating from our colonies in consequence of the action of the Home Government, but now a case has arisen where a Colony claims the right of being heard, and what is more, plainly intends it shall be heard.

The Pall Mall Gazette says no surprise can be felt at the Newfoundland Government's decision to test the legal situation as between the Colony and the Imperial Government.

Church for Chinese in Toronto.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, November 3.—A Christian church for the nine hundred Chinese in Toronto was advocated by Rev. A. B. Winchester, of Knox Church, last night, at a meeting of the Presbyterian teachers interested in Chinese mission work here, as a means of preventing the falling off in mission attendance among the Chinese. The matter was adjourned until the arrival in the city of Rev. B. J. Thompson, of Montreal, head of the Chinese mission work in Canada.

Remarkable Escape of Watchmen.

New York, November 3.—Two men had a remarkable escape from death by fire, property valued at $100,000 was destroyed and hundreds of tenement dwellers fled from their homes in terror as a result of a fire in a seven storey factory building at Stanton and Mangin streets early to-day. Two Jewish watchmen were caught in the burning factory and were rescued from the roof only after the most heroic efforts by the firemen.

A BAD COLD SETTLED ON THE LUNGS

All the most serious affections of the throat, the lungs, and the bronchial tubes, are, in the beginning, but coughs and colds, and failure to take hold at once and get rid of them will cause many years of suffering.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree and will certainly cure all coughs colds and lung troubles.

Mrs. Jas. McDowell, Langton, Ont., writes: "In November, 1905, I caught a bad cold that settled on my lungs, so I got two bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and used one and a half of them and by that time I was cured. I laid the balance of the bottle away for future use. A few days after our eight months' old baby took the whooping cough.

He was so bad we had to call the family physician, but he said he could do but little.

I commenced using the Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and to my great satisfaction the baby was cured. I only used four 25 cent bottles; a small doctor bill.

I believe there is no other remedy for coughs, colds, etc.

Price 25 cents a bottle at all dealers.

On the Action of the Bowels

Almost the first question the doctor puts to his patient is in reference to the action of the bowels. Not only are very many ailments attributed to constipation of the bowels, but their cure is impossible until the bowels are set right.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills ensure prompt movement of the bowels and also do far more than this, for by their action on the liver they cause a good flow of bile, which is Nature's own cathartic and the only real cure for constipation.

By keeping the bowels regular you avoid the serious and dangerous ailments of the kidneys and can defy colds and contagious diseases.

Should you be already a sufferer from kidney disease, lumbago, backache, rheumatism or other diseases arising from a poisoned system there is cure for you in Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because of their direct and combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels.

One Ingredient of Zutoo

Is soda—just old-fashioned soda, that our grandmothers took to settle the stomach.

The principal ingredient—the one that stops the headache, is a vegetable ingredient, imported for us from Japan. It wont hurt you any more than will the soda.

The other ingredients of Zutoo are just as harmless.

If you knew what the drug cures contain, and their ultimate effect on the system, you would discard them at once and take Zutoo, which is harmless as Soda.

Talks on Orange Meat

(The Fore Food)

Popping Corn and Popping Wheat

Ever pop corn? Take a handful of tiny grains—heat them over the fire—and you have "about a peck" of pop-corn.

Corn is pretty nearly all carbo-hydrates, or starch. And it would take a lot of chewing to break up all the tiny cells so that the starch could be acted on by saliva in the mouth and be converted into sugars. Heat does it better than chewing.

Wheat is 75% carbohydrates. Like popcorn, the tough cell walls in wheat are broken by heat. That is why we cook the wheat in making ORANGE MEAT. It goes in huge steam cookers under 20 pounds steam pressure. Steam and moisture soften the cell tissues—the heat causes the starch to swell and burst the cells—the carbohydrates are free. That is why Dyspeptics, Rheumatics and all who can't eat "starchy" foods, may enjoy ORANGE MEAT. By adding malt, all the starch is converted into wheat sugar.

Orange Meat

Orange Meat weighs ⅓ more than any other package. 15c. and 25c. a package. At all grocers. Mercerized paper lining of the cartons insure Orange Meat being always fresh, crisp and clean. 15c. pkg. contains a coupon, good for premiums. 25c. size contains 2½ times as much as 15c. size. TO STOP HINDU INRUSH.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Victoria, B. C., November 3.—"I have written to every prominent newspaper in the Punjaub, asking editors to use every effort to stop the emigration of Hindus to British Columbia. My report of these communities of Bengal, which sent me here to investigate, will be of exactly the same character." So says C. Mazoondar, of the University of Allahabad, who has just completed an exhaustive examination of British Columbia as a field for Hindu settlement. He bases his conclusions adverse to Hindu emigration to this province upon the radical differences in climatic, religious, social and economic conditions.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1906.

THE LIGHTING CONTRACT.

Ald. J. B. A. Martin gives an interview to the Gazette of this morning, which we reproduce in the Star today. The interview, if correctly reported, is highly amusing, as it presents to us the alderman for St. Josephs Ward in the character of a practical joker.

Ald. Martin wants the public to believe that he and his confreres in the City Council, acting in the public interest, are prepared to make an exclusive arrangement with the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Company for thirty years in consideration of the city's right to share in the company's profits in the year 1935. To enter into a contract of this kind would be such a palpable outrage on the citizens that the Mayor will scarcely dare to give his sanction to it, even if the aldermen persist.

The aldermen who vote for the contract as outlined by Alderman Martin will bear the responsibility of adding in the execution of a notoriously bad contract for the city, and as long as they remain in public life they may expect to be assailed for betraying the city's interests.

If the company is to have an exclusive contract for thirty years, or even for twenty years, the public must be taken into partnership on something like equitable terms from the very beginning of the new contract. If the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company care anything about the good will of the public, they will be careful how they disregard the almost universal sentiment of the city in favor of the view that the companies using the streets should pay reasonable percentages from their EARNINGS, to enable the city to put the streets into decent condition, and to do many others of the urgent things now neglected for lack of money.

A contract that does not take heed of the citizens' rights in this regard cannot have public approval, and the men elected by the people who dare to set the public at defiance in this regard in making a new lighting contract will deserve the execration that awaits them until they are driven from public life.

The people know full well the distinction between an interest in PROFITS and an interest in EARNINGS, they are as different as night and day. A reasonable interest in EARNINGS secured to the city from the date of the new contracts with the public companies would enable the city to raise millions of dollars, whereby the city may be relieved from its shameful condition of pressing poverty, whereas a share in prospective PROFITS away off in 1935 would not be worth a cheer on which to raise the capital needed. The public companies will always have EARNINGS, and increased EARNINGS every year. It might well happen, however, that they would have no PROFITS over the needs for bond interest and dividends, in which case the city of Montreal would waken up to find it had bought a gold brick.

The aldermen are approaching a matter of grave import and in doing so they are taking their political lives in their hands. It has been said that according to a pre-arranged plan, a majority will vote for the contract, while the minority will keep up a sham fight. We do not credit any such stories. We prefer to believe that the aldermen, standing as guardians over the public interests, will feel that in this serious crisis every man is expected to do his duty. Those who fail to do it know the penalty that awaits them. Let us hope there will be no recreants at whom to point the finger of scorn at such a time.

The question resolves itself into this:

If the public companies are made to pay into the civic treasury a fair and just percentage of EARNINGS FROM THIS TIME FORWARD there need be NO NEW TAXES, and there will result a new Montreal on a new footing amongst the cities of the world. If the companies persuade the aldermen to go back on the citizens, NEW ASSESSMENTS AND NEW TAXES are bound to follow, and even with the new taxes the city cannot be newly equipped, because we cannot discount the taxes by selling the revenue in advance, whereas the revenue from the companies' earnings can be discounted at the bank and thus the great question can be solved. Keep your eye on the Council and we appeal especially to our French-Canadian citizens, who alone are able by their influence to avert what may be an impending calamity.

LA PRESSE.

The Star congratulates Mr. Berthiaume on resuming his place in journalism by his re-purchase of La Presse. The honorable gentleman has been greatly missed amongst his confreres and in public gatherings, and we are sure he will be cordially welcomed back to public life, more especially as it is reported that La Presse will be in future a strictly independent journal, giving both sides in politics full publicity and fair play. If La Presse carries out this policy with impartiality, there will be no necessity for the new daily paper projected by the Conservatives, because the public want only such papers as give the news without coloring, without bias, and comment on the day's doings with justice and equity, fair to friend and foe. The aim in present day journalism that is achieving the greatest results is to give the news irrespective of party, and to give the public credit for the ability to do its share of thinking.

"FIGHTING THE DEVIL WITH FIRE."

Mr. George C. Gibbons, K.C., president of the London Liberal Association, and chairman of the Canadian section of the International Deep Waterways Commission — a man of high character and good standing in the community—made a statement to the Toronto court which is probing the London election sore that is worthy a little calm and just consideration. After speaking of the "robbing" of Hyman of his seat on two occasions, he said that the Liberals conducted the elections cleanly, so far as it was possible to do so. He knew that the other element had to some extent taken control, but, he said, he told them if there was going to be money spent in the election he did not want to know about it, and did not want his committee to know. The fact that there was money going was in the air. "Everybody knows," he remarked, "It has been going on in London for the last few years on our side, and for the last thirty years on the other side."

Assuming this report is exactly what Mr. Gibbons wished to say, it will be admitted at once that this was not a very high moral attitude for a man of his character to take. He knew that the corrupt element had to some extent secured control of the party campaign—a campaign for which he was responsible as president of the London Liberal Association. Yet he did not resign. He did not refuse to go on with the fight in such an alliance. He did not decline to profit by the possible "stealings" of this "other element." He only asked that anything they did should be kept from his knowledge and from the knowledge of his committee.

Let us get this glamor of politics out of our eyes and imagine for a moment that it was not a seat in Parliament which was to be stolen, but an overcoat from a hallway. Now we must assume Mr. Gibbons to be in competition with the man who was to suffer from the theft. He wanted to bring about his financial discomfiture, but to bring it about by perfectly legal and honorable means. He learned, however, that a corps of sneak thieves were operating on his side, and that they would steal an overcoat containing—let us say—certain important papers. What would be his attitude as an eminent K.C. and a man of high principle? Would he say: "All right; let it be done, but do not tell me anything about the details. Let me believe that the papers were dropped on the street, and that you found them."

To make such a supposition is to explode it. Neither Mr. Gibbons nor any other man of his character would do anything of the sort. They would not continue in such a case for a moment—they would not work with such allies for any amount of money. Yet a seat in Parliament is a thing of great value. Some men have used it for financial profit; but other men and better men have rightly regarded it as the crowning honor of a successful life. And it is just as bad—indeed, it is immeasurably worse, and an infinitely greater crime against public interest—to obtain a seat in Parliament by such methods than to secure an overcoat from a hat-rack by the hands of a sneak thief.

Still it would be foolish to wax pharisaical at the expense of Mr. Gibbons's frankness. What he has said openly many otherwise honorable men have said privately and have acted upon as privately as might be. Politics is confessed to be "a dirty business," and men in the swirl of it get accustomed to rubbing shoulders with very undesirable allies. It is a part of the price which they pay for taking a share in the government of the country; for far too many of them have come to the conclusion that this sort of partnership with the powers of darkness is a necessary evil if they are not to doom the causes they have at heart to perpetual defeat. The only difference between Mr. Gibbons and many another good man is that he has been summoned as a witness in a particularly disgusting case, and has had the courage to tell the truth.

Yet the incident betrays a truly terrible state of affairs. So long as men of the Gibbons stamp are willing to turn their eyes away while crime is committed, we are talking to the wind in preaching political purity. We must be willing to make some sacrifices for honest and clean politics if we are to get them. We must be willing to go down to defeat rather than succeed in the company of criminals. And the very moment a party or a local organization proves its sincerity in this regard, it will begin to attract the better element in the community. By this path political success of a permanent sort is to be won. The way to "fight the devil" is not to put ourselves under obligation to him for "fire," but by rallying the forces which dislike being burned.

The automobile accidents of last summer have not cured our local automobilists of recklessness. They still charge, hooting, through the busiest streets, and dash around corners at a speed which must mean death to any cripple or nervous woman or toddling child who happens to be in the way. Certainly the drivers of the these cars should be brought down to a safe speed within the city limits, and especially on the more crowded streets. It may be very delightful to show how neatly one can turn a corner at a dash and then depend upon one's skill at the brake to prevent a catastrophe if anything chances to be in the path, but it should be a crime to compel other people who are not interested in the experiement to take the risk, too. The "auto" should be as well behaved as a horse in the city, whatever it may do on the country roads, and even there the farmers are gradually tightening up the restrictions.

The great need of the city having finely paved streets, well kept and beautiful squares, is accentuated by an extensive movement that is taking place in city councils in the United States to make American cities as artistic, and as attractive to tourists and citizens, as possible. A Municipal Art Commission has recently been appointed in Washington, whose duty it will be to visit large cities and give municipal bodies free advice on what will be termed "The City Beautiful." In addition to this commendable move there has been a bill prepared, which awaits favorable action of Congress, to appoint a board of artists, whose duty it will be to give opinions on the artistic merits of all public construction and decoration hereafter to be undertaken by the Federal Government. Washington will be one of the first cities to be beautified as a whole under the direction of eminent artists.

THIS DATE 30 YEARS AGO.

The Late Peter Redpath.

November 3, 1876.

The president, treasurer and committee of management of the Montreal General Hospital find it necessary to appeal to the friends of the institution for an increased amount of support, the expense of the hospital having exceeded the income by over eight thousand dollars for the year ending April 30, and without a special effort, the deficiency for the current year will be even greater.

THE cost of maintenance had considerably increased in the early seventies, and large outlays had become necessary for renewals and alterations in the building. The strong claims of this worthy institution have always been met by a charitable public. The late Mr. Peter Redpath was president at the time, the late Dr. R. P. Howard secretary, and the late Mr. Andrew Robertson treasurer.

The second weekly meeting of the Liberal Christian Society was held last evening in the school room of the Church of the Messiah. Rev. Mr. Green, who presided, delivered a very interesting lecture on "Spiritualism," and it was announced that Dr. Baker Edwards would give at the next meeting a lecture on the "Mechanical Forces of the Atmosphere," with illustrations.

THE late Rev. J. B. Green, who passed away last year in Newburgh, N.Y., was a very prominent clergyman of the Unitarian Church, and an eloquent pulpit orator. He was appointed pastor of the Church of the Messiah in 1873, and remained in charge nearly a quarter of a century, when he resigned. He was a man of strong sympathies, and brimful of the practical qualities which go to make up an every-day Christian worker. He was succeeded by the present incumbent.

The Late Captain Dutton.

Captain Dutton, R. N. R., will conduct Divine service at the Sailors' Institute on Sunday afternoon.

THE late Capt. J. Dutton was the oldest officer in the service of the Allan line of steamships at the time of his demise. He was an excellent navigator, and most popular with the travelling public. He had charge of the Sardinian for a long period. In 1882 he was presented with a gold medal in Liverpool, England, by the American minister to St. James's as a reward by the United States Government for his humanity in rescuing in the Atlantic in 1880 two of the crew of an American schooner. He died many years ago in this city, and is taking his long sleep behind Mount Royal.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Emery has so far recovered from his recent severe attack of typhoid fever as to be able to get about.

THE late Mr. Emery was for a long period the efficient assistant postmaster of the Montreal office and highly respected by the general public. He was carried away a few years ago.

U. S. AND JAPAN.
(Baltimore American.)

When the plucky little nation
To the Russian allegation
Of Manchuria's domination
In the Bear's face waved her fan,
Then in the field appearing,
Always victory was nearing,
Why, we all fell straight to cheering
And to rooting for Japan.

We praised her pluck and daring,
We approved her modest bearing
When the war's crown she was wearing,
And we hailed her onward leap
With the modern nations ranking;
And our welcome she was thanking,
Or our friendship she was banking,
And both thought that tie would keep.

Shall the tiny cloud that hovers
Over two, now friends and lovers,
Go on growing till it covers
Each with force of other's ban?
Nay, let's keep the friendship plighted
Each so eagerly invited;
And draw near the union sighted
When we've rooted for Japan.

Late Archbishop Bond.

At the monthly meeting of the Montreal Auxiliary Bible Society, held Thursday, the following resolution, proposed by Rev. Principal Shaw, LL.D., was unanimously adopted.

"That we hereby record our deep sense of loss in the death of our late beloved president, His Grace Archbishop Bond, LL.D. His long connection with this society, and his most valuable services in its interest, have specially endeared him to the members of this General Committee. While actively connected with so many charities and religious movements in this city we have reason to believe that the Bible Society lay nearest to his heart and elicited his warmest sympathy. We join with people throughout our Dominion of all sections and creeds in mourning the loss of one of the noblest and most honored representatives of Christian activity in our country. We are thankful that God spared him with strength of body and clearness of mind to the remarkable age of 91 years. We hereby express our sympathy with all bereaved relatives and direct that copies of this resolution be sent to them, and to the city press."

CHRISTIAN BROTHERS CASE IN APPEAL

Decision of Privy Council Arouses Considerable Interest in Ottawa.

THE TEACHERS IN ONTARIO

Quebec Graduates Before B. N. A. Act Cannot Teach in Province of Ontario.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, November 3.—The cable announcement that the privy council has dismissed with costs the appeal of the Christian Brothers, against the Judgment of the Ontario courts that they must qualify as others teachers before being engaged as teachers in separate schools has been received with great interest in this city where the case originated. In July, 1904, Judge MacMahon, at Toronto rendered judgment against the separate school board of Ottawa, restraining that body from entering into any contract with the Christian Brothers as teachers in the city schools.

A special instance was cited, that of the Boys' School in Notre Dame parish, and the judgment declared the existing agreement between the Board and the Brothers to be invalid. By this agreement, the Brothers were furnished lodgings in the school. At that time there was under construction, or about to be built, the present Guignes school, and there were arrangements in the plans for lodgings for twelve or thirteen Brothers.

Mr. J. D. Gratton, former principal of Guignes school, was mainly responsible for the action, which involved the Brothers and the board, and His Grace Archbishop Duhamel was drawn into the matter, and he distinctly favored the employment of the Brothers. Judge MacMahon's decision was on motion for judgment in the case of J. D. Gratton vs. the Separate School Board of Ottawa. The Judge's decision was upheld by the Court of Appeals of Ontario, from which it was carried to the Imperial Privy Council.

AN ADDITION MADE IN 1888.

Judge MacMahon found, with regard to the teaching qualification of Christian Brothers, that the clause of the Separate School Act, signifying that the persons qualified by law as teachers, either in the province of Ontario or at the time of the passing of the British North America Act in 1867, in the Province of Quebec, should be considered qualified teachers, was an addition made in 1886 to the Act, and was an enabling enactment solely for the benefit of those who in 1867 were qualified teachers under the law as it then existed, either in Ontario or Quebec, and no person who after the year 1867 became qualified as a teacher in the province of Quebec, could be qualified to teach in Ontario without passing the examinations required by section 78 of the act. The contract proposed to be entered and it was therefore declared invalid.

When this judgment was rendered the then chairman of the Separate School board, Mr. Terence McGuire, declared that it was expected, but that it was of more vital importance to the Christian Brothers than to the board. In the meantime permission was obtained from the Ontario Department of Education for the Brothers to take up the classes in the schools. As the judgment was made against the Separate School board, no other party or parties could enter the appeals, and thus the board in defence of the principal advocated by friends of the Brothers was induced to enter the appeal, and with the advice and the moral support of His Grace the Archbishop, this appeal was carried to the Imperial Privy Council. This appeal was heard on the 17th and 18th of July last, before Lords McNachten, Dunedin, and Atkinson, Sir A. L. Wilson, and Sir A. Willis. Mr. Belcourt then appeared for the Christian Brothers, Mr. W. D. McPherson, Toronto, for the Minister of Education, and Mr. George F. Henderson for the Lay teachers.

His Grace Archbishop Duhamel, of the Ottawa diocese when seen declined to discuss the judgment of the Privy Council until he had seen it. Mr. A. McNicholl, secretary of the Separate School board said the Brothers now engaged will probably finish out the present year as teachers, as it would be impossible to replace them at once. He says that to replace the Brothers by lay teachers will mean an increase of at least $15,000 in the salary lists.

What Sulphur Does

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and, mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin diseases, as this remedy."

At any rate, people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers" will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers, a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

Send your name and address to-day for a free trial package and see for yourself.

AN ORIENTAL CRIME.

Traveller Had Narrow Escape on Grand Trunk Road.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Lucknow, November 3.—A murder which reads like a page from a sensational romance has been committed on the Grand Trunk Road near Cawnpore.

The victim is a police inspector attached to an outlying station on the road, and was himself the principal instigator of the crime. His death was due to a mistake made by two fellow-conspirators.

A traveller arrived at the place, and after having sought lodgings with the inspector, confided to him that he was anxious about the safety of a large amount of gold which he had with him.

Some time afterwards he observed two men digging near the house, and overheard a remark which roused his suspicions, and led him to suppose that the excavation was intended for his grave.

He was unable to obtain help on the spot, and, abandoning his bags, he deserted the house, and after travelling some distance along the road, hid himself in the branches of a tree.

It appeared that the inspector, who had drunk considerably during the day, lay down on the bed which had been provided for the traveller, and fell asleep.

The conspirators entered the station late at night, and, not finding the inspector, decided to execute the murder in his absence. They went to the inspector's quarters, and having obtained his sword, entered the bedroom, where in the darkness they hacked the sleeping man to pieces.

ANGLING IN SCOTLAND.

Prince of Wales Enjoying Salmon Fishing Season.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Glasgow, November 3. — Since the opening of the autumn season at the beginning of last month salmon anglers on the Scottish rivers have suffered greatly from the effects of the long spell of dry weather which has been experienced in the North-country. Many of the streams are far below summer level, and fish cannot be induced to leave the river-mouth, where they are lying in large numbers waiting the advent of a flood to take them up to the spawning beds.

The Prince of Wales has been enjoying a day or two's angling on the Spey, and, considering the untoward circumstances, has procured fair sport on the Duke of Richmond and Gordon's stretches of that river. Prince Albert of Schlehwig-Holstein, who has been the guest of Mr. C. B. Balfour, of Newton Don, was angling recently on the Earl of Home's Birgham reach of the River Tweed a little below Kelso, and has had fine sport.

Windsor, Ont., November 3.—The Fink, Lee & Peabody Overall Company, of which W. M. Fink, of Detroit, one of the largest manufacturers in the United States, is president, has leased the entire new Richards block here, and will begin manufacturing operations as soon as machinery can be placed.

Conference Has Been Satisfactory.

New York, November 3.—Railroad officials who have been conferring with their employes regarding demands by the latter for increased pay and shorter hours, said yesterday that the conferences had been satisfactory and they expected no trouble.

BUILDING IS STILL VERY ACTIVE

Over Half a Million Permits in the Month of October Just Closed.

The monthly report of the Building Inspector, issued yesterday, shows building operations active, although the value of the new structure is less than for October, 1905.

For October, 1906, 43 permits for alterations were issued, aggregating $32,820, against 29 permits in 1905, valued at $80,374.

During October, 1906, there were 170 permits for new buildings issued, valued at $560,925, against 131 permits for the same month last year, estimated at $595,049.

Building operations are reported as being particularly active in the outlying districts and plans are being made by contractors to continue work during the winter months.

Manufacturers and Taxes.

To the Editor of the Montreal Star:

Sir,—Observing Ald. Turner's letter re proposed increase of taxes on real estate, I would say that I fully agree with him in all he states. Is it not about time that these wealthy corporations whose revenues are derived from the use of our streets pay well for these privileges, as is done in all cities of other countries? Surely real estate is taxed high enough, but as Alderman Turner states, any increase will have to be borne by the tenants of properties.

Latterly the Manufacturers' Association was approached to encourage manufacturers to locate in our city, but how can it be expected that any success would follow efforts made in this direction, when rentals and taxes are so high? For my own part, as a young manufacturer, I regret that when I commenced I did not start in New York, where rentals and taxes are no higher than here at the present time, and with better facilities, and where there is an absence of petty and vexatious taxation such as we have in our city; every year some additional taxation is introduced.

I hope this matter will not be allowed to drift into silent oblivion as has been too often the case in the past, in a number of cases, but that some effort will be made to hinder the handing over of our valuable franchise, in too great haste.

A TAXPAYER.

Pure Food By-Law.

As we are now in the season in which dealers are securing their supply of poultry and fish, it is opportune to call their attention to the following by-law, which came into force on the 29th inst.:

Art. 39e—Shall not be sold, offered for sale, or exposed for the purpose of selling any animal intended for use as food, whose abdominal cavity will not have been emptied immediately after it has been killed, or, in cases of fish, immediately after it has been taken.

Debate at Presbyterian College.

The first regular meeting of the Literary and Philosophical Society was held on Thursday night, with the president, Mr. R. M. Hanna, in the chair. The chief item on the programme was a debate: Resolved, that the immediate disarmament of the nations would be in the best interests of civilization.

The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. E. McGugan, M.A., and R. David, and the negative by Messrs. Jas. Foote and W. McIntosh. The debate was spirited and much enthusiasm evinced. The affirmative brought forward many weighty arguments, but were ably met and overcome by their opponents of the negative. So the judges rendered their decision in favor of the negative, which was enthusiastically received by the meeting.

Japanese Catarrh Cure

Cures Catarrh after all else has Failed.

It is remarkable how many times Japanese Catarrh Cure completely cures catarrh after all other treatment was a failure. We have on record hundreds of testimonials from prominent people, telling us of their experience with specialists, tablets, tonics and blood purifiers. They tried everything they ever heard of—spent hundreds of dollars in a vain effort to get relief. But it was not until Japanese Catarrh Cure was used, that they began to mend. Let this experience guide you.

"I had been a great sufferer from Catarrh for over fifteen years, during which time I tried a score of doctors and every remedy I thought would relieve me, but the result was only temporary. About a year ago, I used six boxes of Japanese Catarrh Cure, and since completing this treatment, have been entirely free of catarrh. I can recommend it with every confidence."

J. H. CROW, Vancouver, B.C.

Gain your health, save your money, and cure yourself, once and forever, with Japanese Catarrh Cure. At all druggists, 50c. a box.

MME. PAULINE DONALDA, WHO WILL BE HEARD AT THE ARENA ON NOVEMBER 19th.

RAILWAYS CHARGED WITH OVERCHARGING.

A telegram received by the Star this morning from Toronto, states that Mr. Charles M. Hays, second vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, has been summoned to appear in the Police Court of that city on November the eighth, to answer to a charge of overcharging third-class passengers on certain sections of their line.

The telegram says that the Grand Trunk is accused of charging more than two cents a mile for third-class passengers. Officials of the road seen on the subject this morning had the following statement to make: "The present tariff rates for both passenger and freight service charged and collected by the Grand Trunk are those that have been approved by the Railway Commission as well as the Governor-in-Council."

The rates charged to third-class passengers in all, except special cases, exceed two cents a mile. None of the railway officials knew of any law which forces the railways to charge any such rate, and seemed to think there must be some mistake, either in the issuance of the warrant or the wording of the telegram.

Canadian Pacific officials were also of the opinion that there was something mixed somewhere. Mr. Bosworth, the fourth vice-president of the road, and Mr. C. E. E. Usher, both declaring that they had never heard of any law forcing railways to carry third-class passengers at the rate of two cents a mile.

GOOD BARGAIN ROUSED POLICEMAN'S SUSPICIONS.

Albert Beaudry, 20 years of age, appeared before Judge Lafontaine on a charge of theft and pleaded not guilty.

Captain Brophy, of the Fullum and Ontario street police station, arrested the accused while he was trying to dispose of a horse, valued at least at $100, for $20, without giving any satisfactory explanation of where he obtained the animal. When the man was brought to the station it was found that the horse, with an express waggon, belonging to Mr. Symons, 245a Cadieux street, had been stolen from in front of a house in Lafontaine street, while the driver was delivering an order.

Yesterday Beaudry said that the horse had been given to him on the wharf so as to sell it, but he knew nothing of the harness and waggon. He was remanded till Thursday next.

Annual Church Parade.

The annual church parade of the 4th Field Company, Canadian Engineers, will be held on Sunday, the 4th instant, 11 a.m., to Grace Church.

The chaplain captain, the Ven. Archdeacon J. Ker, D.D., will preach. Capt. F. Whitley, M.A., chaplain of the 13th Scottish Dragoons, will assist at the service.

The band of the corps, under the directorship of Bandmaster Simons, will provide the musical portion of the service. The staff of the Quebec command and a number of officers and sister corps have signified their intention to attend.

Two Suits Against the City.

Two more suits for damages were entered against the city yesterday. Mr. P. Plourde, owner of a bowling alley on St. Catherine street, complains that water came in and flooded his place, causing damages which he estimates at $945. Mr. O. Sampson, who, like Mr. Plourde, is represented by Messrs. Cresse & Descarries, sues for $300. He was driving along in a hack a short time ago, when the bad condition of the street caused him to be thrown to the ground sustaining injuries.

MY MAGAZINE INVESTING FOR PROfit (sent free) is worth $10 a copy to any man who intends to invest any money, however small, who has money lives at unprofitably, or who can save $5 or more per month, but who hasn't learned the art of investing for profit. It demonstrates the real earning power of money—the knowledge financiers and bankers hide from the masses. It shows how to invest safely and shows how to make your money grow into fortunes—the actual possibilities of intelligent investments. It reveals the enormous profits bankers make and shows how you can make the same profits safely. It explains how stupendous fortunes are made and why they are made—how $1,000 grows to $25,000. JUSTICE MADORE HAS PASSED AWAY

Death Occurred in the Glengarry Hospital at Early Hour To-day.

HAD BEEN ILL FOR LONG TIME

Mr. Justice Madore Was Elevated to the Bench at St. Hyacinthe Three Years Ago.

Judge J. A. C. Madore, of St. Hyacinthe, who has been ill for some time past, died this morning at the Glengarry Hospital, McGill College avenue. His Lordship had been suffering from a chronic disease and since his entrance to the hospital a short time ago, the doctors have all beeen of the opinion that it was a question of time before the end came. Last night he took a turn for the worse and died at about half-past twelve this morning.

The late J. Alexander Camille Madore was born at Blue Bonnets, P.Q., on the 3rd of August, 1858, and was therefore only 48 years of age at the time of his death.

He was brought up among the people, and educated at Montreal and St. Mary's Colleges, winning at the latter institution the Dufferin gold medal for highest standing in the graduating class. He showed marked talent, which has since made him prominent at the bar and in the world of politics. He graduated at McGill University, with high honors, in 1880. The following year he was admitted to the bar, passing a brilliant examination. He was endowed with great mental clearness, and was an excellent classical scholar, well read in the works of the greatest authors. He early took an active interest in politics, successfully contested Hochelaga in the Liberal interests in 1896. Previous to that he had accepted the candidature in Jacques Cartier in 1891. In that county he made a vigorous but unsuccessful fight against Mr. Girouard, now one of the puisne judges of the Supreme Court.

For nine years he was in partnership with the present Crown Prosecutor, Mr. E. Guerin, and for a period he was identified with the late J. A. Drouin.

In 1899 the late judge succeeded the late C. B. Carter as batonnier of the Montreal Bar after a keen contest with L. J. Bisaillon. In 1903 Mr. Madore was elevated to the Bench, and attached to the district of St. Hyacinthe, and only last April he was married to Miss Beauchemin, of that place.

The funeral will take place this afternoon from Mr. Wm. Wray's undertaking establishment at 556 St. Catherine street west, when the remains will be taken to Bonaventure station for transportation to St. Hyacinthe, the place of burial.

The body of the late Judge Madore will be taken from Wray's undertaking establishment to the Grand Trunk station at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The funeral will take place at St. Hyacinthe on Monday morning.

The Late Arthur Lamarche.

The death of Mr. Arthur Lamarche, advocate, occurred yesterday afternoon at his residence, after a short illness. Mr. Lamarche was born in 1872 at Saint Roch l'Achigan and was educated at Assomption College, and Laval University. A few years ago he married Miss Louisette Montpetit, daughter of the late A. N. Montpetit, lawyer. The deceased was well known in political circles, and was connected with many political and social clubs.

Owner Was Held Responsible.

Mr. Justice Dunlop has given his decision in the case of Levin vs. Lalonde, which was an action brought by the plaintiff to annul the lease of a house because he was unable to obtain peaceable possession, owing to the existence of a disorderly house in the immediate vicinity. Judgment was given in favor of the plaintiff.

MAGISTRATE AND WITNESS INTERCHANGE OPINIONS IN THE LONDON BRIBERY CASE

Colonel Denison Seems to Think That Witnesses are not Anxious to Tell all They Know—Some Hot Talk—Investigation Adjourns Until Wednesday.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Toronto, November 3.—There was no lack of interesting evidence in yesterday's hearing of the London bribery scandal.

John Stevely, a prominent manufacturer of the Forest City, began his evidence with a vigorous denial of having paid out any money, except $15 or $20 for legitimate expenses. Closely questioned by the magistrate, he, however told of having received a bundle of envelopes, each containing money, and addressed to various electors. These he had handed to two other men, who distributed them. He did not know where they came from, but "Had an idea," they were sent from the Liberal club. He had expected them, as he knew money was going, and he had sent the list of names to the Liberal Club. Despite sharp questioning and vigorous comments by the magistrate, he would not name any individual as the probable sender of the money.

James C. Duffield, the wealthy president of the City Gas Company, London, admitted that he had paid $400 out of his own pocket to a smart Conservative canvasser, in order to secure the latter's influence for Hyman. The canvasser agreed to turn Gray's votes to Hyman. Mr. Duffield had made no other expenditures on the election. He had not been repaid the money, nor did he expect to be.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION.

The opening of the afternoon session was marked by a long argument.

Mr. Geo. Wilkie, for one of the defendants, asked that some of the witnesses who might throw light on the elections in London, Brockville, South Ontario and West Elgin, be brought to Toronto at the Crown's expense. Mr. Wilkie named one Frank Hutchinson, who, he understood, had been brought by the Crown, examined, and sent back without being put into the box. Colonel Denison was willing to issue subpoenas if the Crown agreed.

THE MAGISTRATE AND MR. GODFREY.

"You are investigating the charges of corruption generally," interposed Mr. J. M. Godfrey.

"I am investigating this particular charge of conspiracy," retorted Colonel Denison. "I am not going to investigate all the conspiracies that have taken place in any part of the country. You have not been here all the time," he said, addressing Mr. Godfrey.

"No; but I read the papers;" retorted Mr. Godfrey.

"Oh, well, you can't rely on the papers," responded His Worship, "they are very good and very useful in their way, but they have to condense sometimes."

His Worship further added that there was evidence connecting Mulloy, O'Gorman and Wiley, with the conspiracy, a little against Reid, and much against Sifton. As far as O'Gorman was concerned, there was evidence that he met people implicated in Toronto.

For the defence it was hinted that evidence could be brought against the Conservatives.

"If you bring evidence here of bribery on the Conservative side, it could not be evidence against these defendants," said Colonel Denison. "However," he continued, "if the defence had evidence of that kind they would be willing to try and investigate it."

"If you can bring any evidence of an offence in my jurisdiction," said the Magistrate. "I will take the information."

"But Toronto is noted for its purity?," exclaimed Mr. Godfrey.

"Well; I'm not quite so sure about it," responded His Worship.

NO ONE-SIDED AFFAIR.

Mr. DuVernet said he had an appointment with the Attorney-General for today, and if the defence would furnish him with evidence of corruption he would put it before the Minister.

The argument was getting protracted, when Colonel Denison put a stop to it, and asked that the next witness be called. He proved to be John Stevely, who gave bold, blunt answers to the questions put to him.

"Just tell us all you know about the London election," said Mr. DuVernet.

"It would take me a long while to do that," the witness responded. "What do you want me to tell you?" Mr. Stevely asked.

"The truth," exclaimed the Magistrate, severely.

Mr. Stevely said he had canvassed voters and did so always alone. All he paid was $20 or $30.

"I got $20 from Mr. Reid to pay the expenses of the hall, and so on. I gave $5 each to men named Wrightman and Lee."

"Will you swear that is all you paid?"

A.—"I will swear that is all I can remember."

The rest of the money, the witness said, went in other ways. There was a box of cigars for the committee rooms.

THE BUYING OF VOTES.

"You didn't buy any votes?"

A.—"No."

"Did you give money to other people to buy votes?"

A.—"I presume some went that way. The witness admitted receiving a number of envelopes containing money.

Asked as to the amount contained in the envelopes, witness said $150 to $200 would be the limit. The money was in envelopes addressed to persons to whom it was to be delivered.

Mr. Stevely could not say how much was in each envelope.

"To whom did you give the money?"

"I gave it to Lee (here the witness hesitated for a long time) and Lake."

"I could not tell you who gave me the envelopes," the witness went on; "they came from an unknown source."

"Do you mean to tell me on your oath you don't know where they came from?" asked His Worship severely.

"Well I have an idea," replied the witness, falteringly.

"What is the idea?" asked the Magistrate.

THE BENCH AND THE BAR.

Mr. Wilkie objected to such a question "Don't you interfere," responded His Worship.

"But you haven't heard my objection yet," Mr. Wilkie retorted.

"What's the use of arguing with me?" enquired Col. Denison. "You have made your objection, and I overrule it."

"Without hearing it?" said Mr. Wilkie, warmly.

PARLIAMENT CALLED FOR NOVEMBER

Canada Gazette Announces the Opening of the Session for the Twenty-second.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, November 3.—The Canada Gazette contains notice of the calling of Parliament for the despatch of business on Thursday, November 22.

This will be the first time that the Canadian House has sat during the month of November since the session following the general elections of 1896, when it met in October, and sat for a period of about six weeks. The session which will open two weeks from Thursday next, promises to be one of the most important and interesting ever held. The two principal Government measures, of course, will be the new tariff and the new insurance act, to be framed on the findings of the insurance commission. There is certain to be considerable excitement arising out of the developments as to the prevalence of wholesale corruption in by-elections, the revelations as to western land deals and other matters.

It is fully expected that the tariff will be brought down shortly after the House meets, but the insurance legislation will in all probability not be ready for consideration before February.

PECULIAR VERDICT IN MURDER CASE

Prisoner Acquitted on Account of Insanity—Juries Disagree—Referred to Dominion Cabinet.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Portage la Prairie, Man., November 3.—Eli Grobb, charged with the murder of John W. Clarkson, at Treherne, Man., on November 17, 1905, was tonight declared not guilty by the jury at the assizes. This verdict was brought in on account of insanity. The verdict is a most peculiar one and establishes a strange condition of affairs. Grobb was first tried as to his sanity by special jury, which declared him sane. He was then put on trial for murder and another jury declared him insane. Immediately on the rendering of the verdict, Judge Perdue ordered that the man be kept in custody in gaol pending the court's consultation with the Dominion Cabinet. When the verdict was declared Grobb jumped to his feet and said: "I intend to appeal this case, as I can fetch proof that I am sane."

Grobb shot Clarkson at his farm near Treherne, when the former had been sent there to make a seizure. Grobb maintains that he had the right to shoot the man, who refused to leave his property.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Send your name and address to-day for a free trial package and see for yourself. F. A. Stuart Co., 56 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

STOP DRINKING!

Orrine Will Destroy All Desire for Whiskey or Beer—A Guaranteed Cure.

Nearly every drinking man thinks that some time he will quit. He often swears off, but cannot resist the craving for drink, and the disease, for this is what it really is, becomes so firmly fixed that it cannot be cured without medical treatment.

A Michigan druggist, H. G. Coleman, has made a thorough study of the various cures for the liquor habit, and gives this as a result of his investigations: "Before taking the agency of Orrine, I went to considerable trouble to learn about it, and became confident that it was a thoroughly honest preparation and put out by an honorable firm. I have sold it for years, and can truthfully say that my confidence in it grows stronger the more I see of its results. I believe that any man who really desires to be cured of the liquor habit can cure himself with the help of Orrine and be rid of the bad effects which the habit has upon himself and family."

Orrine is in two forms—No. 1, the secret remedy which can be given without the knowledge of the patient; No. 2, for those who take the remedy of their own free will. A cure is absolutely guaranteed, with either form of treatment. Write for free pamphlet on the cure of alcoholism, to the Orrine Co., Washington, D.C. In every box is a registered guarantee which entitles you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure. The price of either form is $1 a box.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Is the original remedy that "kills the dandruff germ"

Edna D. Allen.

WITHOUT dandruff the hair must grow luxuriantly, except in chronic baldness, which is incurable. Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a germ or microbe. To cure dandruff, this germ—a tiny vegetable growth—must be destroyed and kept out of the scalp by Newbro's Herpicide.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

A woman to be pretty must have pretty hair. Beautiful locks have a subtle charm, for the poet says, "fair tresses man's imperial race ensnare." The unpoetic and intensely real dandruff microbe makes the hair dull, brittle and lusterless with later dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. Newbro's Herpicide destroys this enemy of beauty and enables the hair to resume its natural luster and abundance. Almost marvelous results sometimes follow the continued use of Herpicide. Overcomes excessive oiliness and makes the hair light and fluffy. It contains no grease or dye. Stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Discriminating ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide, speak of it in the highest terms, for its almost magical effect upon the scalp, and also for its excellence as a regular hair dressing. It is delightfully fragrant and refreshing.

"I have found Newbro's Herpicide excellent for the hair. The first application stops itching of the scalp and it leaves the hair soft and silky."

Town Full of Rugbyists—"Bear" Woodworth May Not Referee

The city last night was full of footballers and their friends. In the theatres, the street, and in the hotels, one would see two or more devotees of the seasonable sport discussing the different points of their teams, or praising some especially worthy champion up to the skies. And why the excitement? some one ask. This afternoon's matches will practically decide the championships of the Quebec and Ontario Unions. Montreals have the slight advantage of having the important match with St. Patrick's played on the M. A. A. A. grounds, and if the former succeed in thrashing the visitors the championship will probably come to Montreal.

As to the Ontario championship, the Hamilton Tigers play Argonauts. The match is wanted by the Hamilton boys.

If the unexpected happens and Montreal and Tigers are beaten, then the season will most likely finish with a tie for honors in both schedules.

St. Patrick's are rumored to be coming down with a considerably strong team, stronger, it is said, than Montreals have put on the field this season but Montreal's line, which has worked such havoc on their opponents, will be the same as usual.

The back lines of both teams are very strong, though Russell, Allison and Craig, for Montreal, work well together and make up a better balanced back division.

Frank Woodworth and Dr. Wright, of Toronto, have been invited to officiate. Unfortunately, it is feared that Mr. Woodworth will probably be unable to come. In that case Dr. Wright will referee, and J. B. Hay, another Torontonian, umpire.

Another big match in the city is to be played on the McGill campus, and the Kingston men are paying the local college a visit.

The Westmount team will be the same as that of last week in the St. Patrick game in Ottawa. Jack Lash and J. B. McArthur, of Toronto, will probably be the officials. They have been asked to officiate, and an acceptance is expected.

W. Muir Edwards, of McGill and Westmount, will be the referee for the Ottawa College-Toronto University game, in Ottawa, to-day. His assistant will be "Charlie" Ross, last year a member of the McGill team.

The Queen's Football Team arrived in the city last night, accompanied by fully a couple of hundred supporters. The Queen's contingent, resident in Montreal, was in force at the station, and the college yell went up several times before the crowd of visitors had been ushered to their respective stopping-places.

The boys from Kingston feel that, although their team is not what it has been during the season, they stand a good chance of victory.

Rockefeller Wins Cup--Takes Own Prize for Best Pack of Four Beagles

Baltimore, November 3.—With characteristic Rockefeller luck, Mr. William G. Rockefeller won the Rockefeller cup for the best pack of fours in the National Beagle Club of America, which is holding its seventeenth annual trials in Green Spring Valley, near Stevenson.

The victory made the third win for Mr. Rockefeller, and now he owns the cup which he put up for competition a few years ago. He was not on hand to witness the triumph of his beagles, but it is thought that he will again put the cup in competition so that someone else may try to win.

The "beaglers" characterized the day as "vile" for the sport. Those who followed the little hounds over the fields all day could hardly agree that the expression was strong enough. Some of the hunters who stayed before the crackling fireplace of the Avalon Inn described the day as "beastly."

Every man who had a pack in the day's trials stayed out long enough to "work" his own dogs through, but the gallery that chased along behind the owners and judges was small.

Although the atmosphere and temperature were raw for the men, it turned out that the number of rabbits was greater than on the previous day and the scenting was a little better than the day before. It was so chilly in the hills and through theh valley that family cats and barnyard dogs were glad enough to stay in and mind their own affairs, and the beagle chasers had little molestation from any source.

Kaufman to Retire

Special to the Montreal Star.

San Francisco, Cal., November 3.—Although he decisively beat Berger, and is in a position to go ahead in the heavyweight scramble, Al. Kaufman has decided to retire from the ring. Kaufman is not talking fight. He has announced that in deference to the wish of his family he will put in a year at school. His books and maps that Kaufman will busy himself with for a year, and not straight lefts and uppercuts. If all that was said to-day is to be taken as final it looks as though Berger and Kaufman are lost to the ring for a long time.

LIPTON HAS BEEN CENSURED

Yachtsmen Say His Threatened Defi is Prompted by Individual Motives.

New York, November 3.—The America's Cup and the possibility of another challenge for it generally believed to be imminent are very prominently in the public eye at the present time. Here are the conditions within the New York Yacht Club at the present time, acknowledged by the more influential members:

First—There is a pronounced feeling on the part of nearly everyone that a race at this time is undesirable. It involves an immense expenditure of time and money, is demoralizing on the sport in general, distracts attention from the work now being pushed of building up a fleet of racing boats under the new conditions, and has no commensurate advantage to justify it.

"There is no popular demand for a race in this country, and no wish for it on the other side. Sir Thomas Lipton's action is individual, and does not represent the sentiment of British yachtsmen in general. By his action he is forcing the New York Yacht Club to decide the question of the final acceptibility of the present rule of measurement before it has had an opportunity to fully test its efficiency, though strongly disposed to regard it as wholly desirable."

Second—There is a disposition to defend the America's Cup in a suitable and patriotic and sportsmanlike spirit, whenever there is a demand for such a defence.

SHERRING TO BE MARTIN'S BEST MAN

Jack Martin, the noted Canadian jockey, who has had such a successful career on the American turf as the rider of J. P. Brady's and James R. Keene's horses, will next week take unto himself a wife.

Martin hails from Hamilton, Ont., and on this occasion, one of the most important of his life, he sought to have a boyhood friend stand by him. Consequently Willie Sherring, who made the name of Canada famous the world over by winning the famous Marathon race in Greece during the past summer, will run down to New York. Martin's bride is one of the belles of Brooklyn, and the wedding will be an elaborate affair. The wedding tour will be to Hamilton, Ont., the boyhood home of the successful jockey, who has, besides acquiring a great reputation as a rider, piled up a snug little fortune.

Sherring has just returned from a trip to British Columbia. He has been along the line, and having a most enjoyable time throughout. On his return from New York he will settle down, as there will be no running to be done during the winter months. While he will take no part in races Sherring will continue, at different times to give exhibitions of the speed and stamina which won for him the greatest fame within the reach of a runner.

TWENTY-NINE "SUSPECTED" AS PAID PROFESSIONALS.

Mr. Frank Grierson makes good his threat—cases of accused men will be looked into by the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, November 3.—Secretary Norton H. Crow, of the C.A.A.U., yesterday afternoon received from Mr. Frank Grierson, of Ottawa, a list containing 29 names of members of Ottawa athletic clubs whose records he is asked to investigate. The list is:—

Ottawa Hockey Club—F. C. McGee, Harvey Pulford, Harry Westwick, Wm. Hague, S. Dion, Alf. Smith, T. Smith, H. Smith, Arthur Moore.

Victoria Hockey Club—E. F. Morgans, G. Shouldis, R. Harrison.

St. Patrick's—Joseph Gleeson, John Freeland, H. James, Gregory Burns, James Vaughan, Richard Seed.

Rough Riders—R. W. McGee, Ovide Lafleur, J. Williams, George Kennedy, Dr. Sheriff, J. H. Buckham, Morley Walters, Hal Walters, Eddie Phillips, M. Neate, S. Shore.

Mr. Crow at once forwarded the names to the president, Deputy Police Chief Stark, who will probably appoint a committee to investigate.

The naming of these men does not mean that they are professionals. It simply means that Mr. Grierson suspects them of being so.

According to the past procecure of the C.A.A.U., this would be sufficient to suspend them. After suspension it "is up to them" to show that they are amateurs and if they do this they are promptly given a clean bill of athletic health. By agreement no suspensions will take place till after the Rugby season is finished.

Secret Athletic Meeting Last Night--Important Action Taken

The action of Mr. Frank Grierson, President of the Civil Service Amateur Athletic Association in presenting to the C.A.A.U. directorate twenty-nine names has not created more excitement than will the announcement that the secret meeting of athletic experts, which was announced yesterday in the Star, took place last night, and that very important action was taken in regard to the future government of athletics in Canada.

The meeting took place at the M. A. A. A. Clubhouse last night, and was attended by the full board of directors, and the past presidents and vice-presidents.

Everyone who went in was carefully scrutinized, and a solemn promise was exacted from everyone not to divulge what happened.

It can be stated, however, that a very important decision was reached, which will be made officially public in the early part of next week, and that the decision will have a far-reaching effect upon athletics of all sorts all over Canada, without any reference to the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union.

HACK MAY NOW HAVE TO FIGHT

New York, November 3.—London Gunner Moir won the heavyweight championship of England on a foul from the holder, Jack Palmer.

The fact that Gunner Moir is now English heavyweight champion is not in itself of burning interest to Americans. But what makes it entertaining, at least, is that we recall that Hackenschmidt's manager, Cochran, just before he left here for England, said that Hack and Moir trained together, and that the great wrestler could put it all over the gunner with the gloves.

Cochran said at that time that Moir was matched with Palmer and on the result of that battle might hinge the future of Hack. If Moir, whom Hack can easily beat, or says he can, succeeded in beating Palmer, then Hack would consider a proposition to enter the prize ring, ran the lay of Cochran.

Now that situation has eventuated. But whom will Hack fight? A match with Moir would hardly draw, because of the supposition of a frame because of the pair's long intimacy. But at that, it might go in England.

SUPREME COURT JUDGMENTS.

Ottawa, November 3.—In the Supreme Court on Friday afternoon in the case of the Klondyke Concession vs. McDonald judgment was reserved.

Cooper vs. Bunnell was then taken up. The plaintiffs, appellants, claim $1,825 as commission on the sale of the Clarendon Hotel in Winnipeg, to a hotel keeper named Gregory. Plaintiffs contend that they found and introduced the purchaser when defendand engaged them as brokers to sell the hotel for $150,000, one third in cash and balance on mortgage. Shortly afterwards plaintiffs allege that defendant abruptly withdrew the property from sale, but within two months sold it to Gregory for $145,000, pretending to deal with another person, and through other brokers. The appeal is from the judgment of the Court of Kings bench for Manitoba.

STEURS DECIDES AGAINST HIMSELF AND LOSES BOUT

He, Therefore, Lost Handicap Match—Crowd Fell Back Before Him When He Went in to End Incipient Fight.

It is not often that a wrestler, in spite of the decision of the referee and of the audience in his favor, insists that he has not thrown his man. Yet this is what Steurs did at Sohmer Park last night in his bout with Pietro.

Had Steurs been willing to accept, he would have won his handicap and risking to throw Dellvuk, Gonthier and Pietro in an hour, or be disqualified the fall and was unable to score a victory in the time remaining, he lost.

Dellvuk was the first man to take the mat with him. The worthy Karl held Steurs off for 12 mins. 15 secs. by his wonderful defence work, although Steurs kept him constantly moving and in danger most of the time. Dellvuk made no attempt of consequence to retaliate, his business being merely to hold Steurs off as long as possible. Steurs used his favorite hold frequently raising him from behind with a waist hold and turning this into a half-nelson while dropping to the mat with him. Karl avoided this—probably the most dangerous hold in the Graeco-Roman style several times, but eventually was caught in it in a pin fall.

Gonthier, who is in better shape than ever before, owing to his constant football practice, gave Steurs a lively time before he succumbed. The style in this bout was catch-as-catch-can, and Steurs was evidently not so much at home in this, although he showed some knowledge of foot twisting and leg holds, apparently forgetting, however, that the other man had the same privileges. Thus he left himself open to attack occasionally, which openings Gonthier was not slow to take advantage of. However, the latter never had Steurs in the slightest danger. Once or twice, about fifteen minutes after the start, the audience thought Steurs had scored a victory, but Dr. Gadbois thought otherwise.

It was 26 minutes before Steurs, taking him in the hold which threw Dellvuk, brought him to the mat.

Between each bout Steurs was given a few minutes rest, and as he came on with Pietro, Dr. Gadbois announced that the style would be Graeco-Roman, as with Dellvuk, and that 37 mins. 45 sec. of the hour had gone, leaving Steurs only 21 mins. 15 sec. wherein to throw Pietro.

Of course, the scrappy man from Bayonne mixed the match freely. He shortly began his well known aggressive slapping, and naturally Steurs slapped him back, Pietro, as usual, protesting at the retaliation, and making as though to fight or leave the mat. Many exciting incidents attend his bouts, and this was no exception. Steurs rushed him to the ropes and threw him around the mat in a manner which surprised the pugnacious Pietro. Steurs, in fact, was never seen to better advantage at the Park than in this bout. It was fast and clever from start to finish. Pietro usually managed to be near the edge of the mat when in danger, and once or twice the referee vainly tried to make Steurs let him up and go back upon the mat. Steurs being engaged in scoring a fall, could not be made to hear. Shortly before the end of the hour, Steurs slammed Pietro to the mat in his favorite waist and half Nelson. The referee signalled a fall, and the audience rose and cheered. But Steurs did not rise. He held his man to the mat and tried to press his shoulders there. At last he was prevailed upon to get up. Pietro claimed it was no fall and Steurs backed him up. There was much excitement and the audience rolled up upon the platform. A few mild exchanges took place here and there in the general clamor, and Steurs himself settled one or two of them, the would-be fighters giving way before him as before a runaway horse.

So the men went at it again, but as there were only a few minutes left, Steurs was unable to score another fall, though Pietro went through a most absorbing ordeal in the interval.

In the last bout, Steurs showed how infinitely superior he is to any of his antagonists. He was working on Pietro when the latter nipped him and came upmost in a roll. Steurs bridged and supported Pietro's whole weight, without showing alarm. In fact, he would not let Pietro go, fearing he would get to his feet, which latter Steurs wanted to prevent. Finally, he loosed his hold and rolled over, the bridge being very exhausting.

The preliminaries were all splendid. Cote threw Chaput; Simard and Beauchamp, and St. Amour and A. Beauchamp drew, catch-as-catch-can; Rummageon and Viger drew, Graeco-Roman.

Dr. Gadbois announced that Fred Beall, probably the greatest rival Gotch has, will be at the park next Friday night.

Karl von Delivuk, who is champion of Canada in his class, and who has been well known here for a year past, as one of the cleverest and fairest wrestlers on the mat, leaves Montreal next week. He will wrestle in Cobalt next Friday night, and will then proceed to the Western States where he intends to make his home.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS THE WORLD OVER

KLONDIKE CASE IS UP.

Supreme Court Called on to Interpret Mining Regulations.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, November 3. — In the Supreme Court Friday the appeals on the "Ontario list" were taken up, the first case heard being the Klondike Government Concession vs. McDonald, an appeal from the decision of the Yukon Gold Commissioners' Court, which was affirmed by the Yukon Territorial Court, and declared that the plaintiff, respondent, was entitled to the first 200 inches of the waters of Hunter Creek, under his placer grant dated 9th August, 1904, and dismissed the counter claim for an injunction enjoining plaintiff from maintaining a dam and power house on land granted to the defendants under a hydraulic lease, dated 12th February, 1900. The defendant's property consists of a strip of land half a mile long, through which Hunter Creek flows, in a sinuous course. The questions raised are whether or not plaintiff has the rights given him by the judgment appealed from under his grant from the mining recorder, issued four years after the hydraulic lease, and, whether or not the defendants have the right to alter the course of the creek as it flows through their property for the purpose of carrying on mining operations in its bed.

The decision depends upon the interpretation to be given to the terms of the hydraulic lease and the gold mining regulations. Ewart, K.C., and Chrysler, K.C., appears for appellants; Auguste Noel, for respondent.

Sydney and Its Rolling Mills.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Sydney, N. S., November 3. A secret session of the city council was held last evening for the purpose of finally considering the granting of concessions to the proposed rolling mill industry. As far as can be ascertained it was agreed to concede a bonus in cash of $50,000, payable in three years, and an exemption from taxation for ten years. It is believed that the company will accept this offer.

THE CONTROL OF RATES.

Railway Commission Made No Announcement in Grand Trunk Case.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, November 3.—Nothing was known either in the Railway Department or the Railway Commission about the proceedings against the Grand Trunk in Toronto. The control of rates is under the Railway Commission, and the Grand Trunk, like all other Canadian lines, has secured the approval alike by the Governor-General-in-Council by the Board of Railway Commissioners of rates which make no provision for third-class passengers at two cents a mile.

The provision for such a rate appears in the charter of the railway, in close conjunction with another stipulation that the gauge should be 5 feet 6 inches. This last has been repealed, and the provision as to third-class rates seems to have been overlooked. It does not seem to have been known in the Railway Commission, the officers of which would make no comment on the Toronto proceedings.

Montrealer Not Welcome Guest.

Burlington, Vt., November 3.—George Laurin, of Montreal, came to this city Thursday and immediately got into trouble. Accidentally he wandered into the residence of Sheriff E. H. Horton. Unnoticed he proceeded to one of the rooms on the second floor and made himself at home. He was not a welcome guest and yesterday afternoon found himself in the Police Court. He was fined $5 and costs, but not having the money, got ten days in gaol.

Colonials for the Navy.

London, November 3.—The Admiralty is considering a scheme to make further use for service in the navy of the maritime population of the colonies. The Admiralty is prepared to establish a training ship at every convenient port where a division of the Royal Naval Reserve is formed, and to appoint drill instructors and the necessary officers of the staff from the navy.

RAGGING SCANDALS IN BRITISH ARMY

London Truth Makes Exposures of how the Business is Carried on.

HOOLIGANS IN UNIFORM

An Investigation Into the Matter Demanded—Some Bad Cases at Shorncliffe.

Some extraordinary stories of "ragging" in the army are narrated in London Truth. The branch of the service in which these unseemly incidents are said to have occurred is the 4th Battalion of the East Surrey Regiment. Describing it as "a 'ragging' militia battalion," Truth remarks that the battalion "must have some reputation for such practices already," seeing that a bad ragging case occurred while it was embodied during the Boer war.

"During the training of the battalion at Gosport in 1905, and again at Shorncliffe during the present year," says Truth, "there have been bad cases of 'ragging.' The sport seems to have taken the usual forms of ruffianly 'practical joking,' personal violence and the destruction of the victim's personal property."

TEETOTALER MADE DRUNK.

At Gosport, on one occasion, the victim was a senior captain. On returning to camp one night he found his tent sacked and removed, and he had to sleep for the night in an improvised tent. In the morning this shelter was found to be adorned with a placard bearing the words:

"NOT WANTED"

for all the battalion to read. He was suffering at the time from a pulmonary complaint, and has since died from it.

During the same training a subaltern suffered so much from "practical jokes" and personal violence that he left the battalion. Among other pleasantries this man, who was a teetotaler, was forced to drink liquor until he was helplessly drunk. He was subsequently transferred to another battalion as lieutenant, although he had been only a second lieutenant in the East Surrey—"which is pretty good evidence," adds Truth, "that he was a competent officer."

BAD CASES AT SHORNCLIFFE.

Two bad cases occurred at Shorncliffe this year. In one of them a subaltern, on returning to camp at night, found that his tent and furniture had disappeared. He resented this liberty, and a row ensued, in which the victim was so much knocked about that the picket came to his rescue.

Another subaltern who had been unmercifully "ragged" packed up his things preparatory to leaving the camp there and then; but he was prevailed upon to abandon his intention, and the incident was hushed up.

"The repetition of these incidents," comments Truth, "shows the systematic way in which the game is carried on. Not the least interesting fact mentioned to me is that this distinguished battalion keeps up an institution known as the 'Ragging Tent.' Here, the rowdy members of the mess assemble every night to 'rag' new-comers or unpopular comrades, and make things generally unpleasant for them. Here, the furniture of the victims is brought to be broken up, and a regular pandemonium is kept up every night, into the small hours, close to the men's lines."

HOOLIGANS IN UNIFORM.

"Such a state of things as prevails in this battalion is a subversion of all military discipline, indeed, it is a mystery how order can be maintained in the ranks, when officers set their men such an example, and it must add materially to the difficulty of obtaining competent officers in the militia, which is already serious enough. It may be pretty safely taken for granted that the hooligans in uniform who habitually indulge in this kind of fun can never be of any use to the service as soldiers."

In demanding prompt and full inquiry into the business Truth says, "I have not the slightest doubt of the accuracy of my information, or I should not publish it," and it is added that, if the military authorities go the right way to work, "I do not think they can fail to see the necessity of making a clean sweep of all the parties responsible for this scandal."

WANT NEW LANGUAGE.

Boers are Willing to Respect the British Flag.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Cape Town, November 3.—The Cape Times publishes a letter from a Dutch colonist, in which the latter quotes from a letter from Mr. Malan, editor of Ons Land, in which Mr. Malan, declined to publish a communication on the language question. Mr. Malan writes:

"Our people and our language have opponents enough without our fighting in our own camp. I respect your object, but I cannot understand why you lay such stress on the English colony. Cape Colony is a Dutch settlement, and it is not our fault that the English flag waves over us. We are willing to acknowledge and respect that flag, and demand the right which that flag secures to us—equal language rights."

Consumption in the Navy.

Washington, November 3.—Tuberculosis has made alarming inroads upon the personnel of the United States navy and marine corps, in spite of the measures taken by the medical officials to check the disease.

THE WELLINGTON MINE IS MADE-Stock is Going Up

Its marvelous development has astounded the Mining World. It is without question, the greatest mining success in years. In a few days it will be completely financed and the stock will be taken off the market. This is positively the last time this advertisement will appear and it is your last chance to share in the profits of

THE WORLD'S GREATEST LEAD AND ZINC MINE

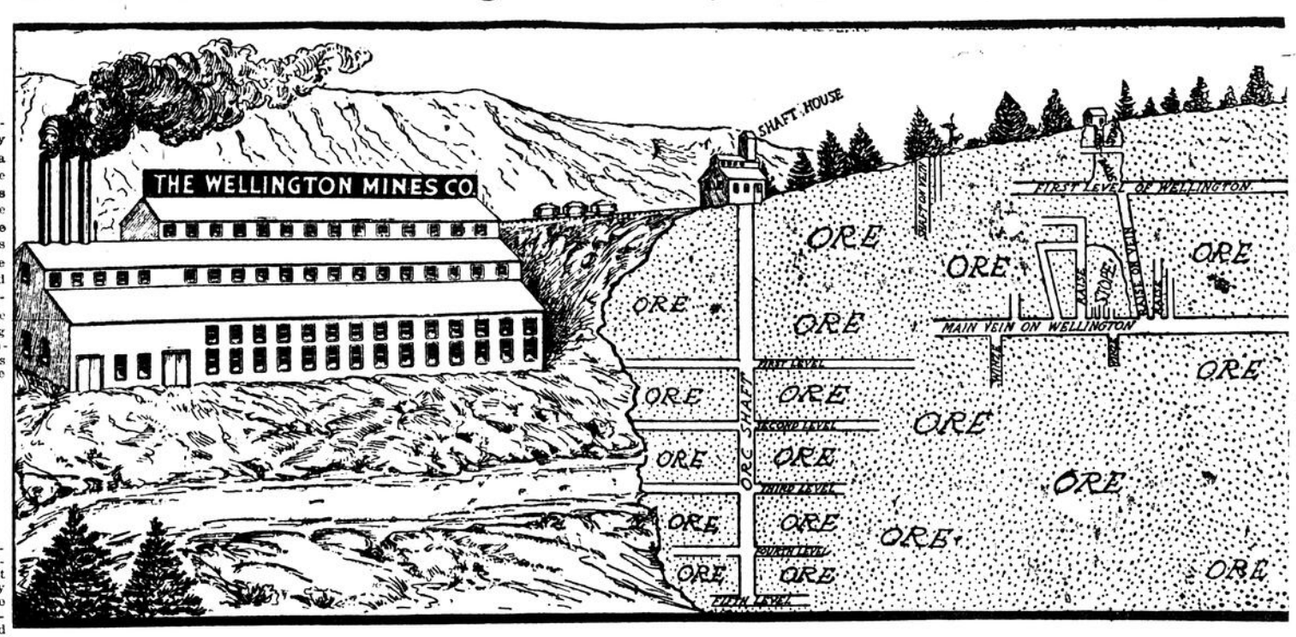
You never had an opportunity to invest in a mine like The Wellington. It is one opportunity in ten thousand to become independent for life. Its ore bodies contain countless millions. The main ore vein, running continuously through The Wellington property is now over 4000 feet long. There are seven true fissure veins already developed, varying in width from 4 1-2 to 20 feet which will supply a 300 ton mill for ages without exhausting the ore bodies. This ore can be mined cheaper than coal. In addition to the immense Lead and Zinc values, Wellington ores carry as high as $60 per ton in gold.

Immense Profits in Lead and Zinc.

Lead and Zinc mining in Colorado offers the greatest opportunities for profitable investment of any metals mined. The true fissure veins of solid ore in a mine like The Wellington reach down into the bowels of the earth. No man can tell how deep, as similar veins have been worked for years and the bottom has never been reached. These true fissure veins are capable of producing millions of dollars worth of ore at a very low cost per ton. There is a ready market at good prices for every pound that can be produced. The Lead and Zinc production is not near equal to the demand and the balance must be imported. There are more than 700 paying Lead and Zinc mines in the States of Colorado, Kansas and Missouri and the thousands of stockholders in these mines find their lead and zinc stocks the most profitable of all investments.

Invest Your Money in a Lead and Zinc Mine of Proven Value

and provide a reliable income for life. The Wellington is a developed mine—not a prospect, and an investment in this stock is buying ore blocked out. It offers greater profits and quicker profits than any investment you can find anywhere. Never in the history of mining in Colorado has there been a developed mine of such value as The Wellington offered to the public as an investment. You take no chances in buying this stock, as the immense amount of ore blocked out in The Wellington provides greater security for your money than any bank, insurance, mortgage or bond. It cannot be burned, lost or stolen, and you know it is there waiting to be mined and milled when it is ready for a spot cash market right on the ground. See the accompanying illustration, showing the immense amount of underground development work already done on The Wellington. The ores taken out in developing the mine have paid for all this work and the main ore bodies remain untouched, awaiting a mill and modern facilities for handling the ore.



Plan of Proposed WELLINGTON MILL.

Together with Longitudinal Section showing the development work actually done on the property. Plans and specifications for this mill and other improvements have been completed and orders for the lumber, machinery, etc., have been placed. Work will be pushed rapidly with the object of getting the mill in operation at the earliest possible date. The Wellington will be the best equipped mine in the entire State of Colorado. The latest improved methods for milling and handling the ore will be installed. Everything will be done automatically by machinery, entirely eliminating all hand work. In addition to the mill a complete electric power plant will be installed, together with an auxiliary steam plant for use in emergencies in order that the mill can be run day and night, year in and year out. The electricity will be produced by water power at a very small cost. The shaft will be provided with the latest and most improved hoisting machinery, and the tunnel will be evidenced, making it a double track tunnelwhich will greatly facilitate the handling of ore. We propose to use both the shaft and tunnel for taking out the ore. When these improvements are completed, Wellington stock will be worth many times its present value.

Wellington Stock Will be Listed on Leading Mining Exchanges.

We propose to list Wellington stock on the leading mining exchanges in order to provide a reliable market for those who may desire to sell their stock and take advantage of quick profits. Wellington should be one of the most active stocks on the Mining Exchanges as it promises to be one of the biggest dividend payers of the age.

Why We are Selling Stock.

A great many readers of this announcement who don't understand mining will doubtless ask why we are selling stock in a mine of such value as The Wellington. Every man or woman who is familiar with the mining industry knows that it requires a large and expensive plant and equipment to mine and market large quantities of ore. It's the tonnage a mine can produce and market that pays the profits. Sensational values per ton don't count for much unless the mine is capable of producing a large tonnage. The Wellington Mine has developed the largest and richest deposits of Lead and Zinc yet discovered. Now that we are ready to mine and market large quantities of ore it is necessary to have a mill of large capacity to crush and separate the ores, an electric power plant to furnish power, and complete modern facilities for handling ores. The officers and directors who have invested heavily in this enterprise are not financially able to do this, and must have more capital. They believe it better business policy to sell a part of the stock and put the company on a dividend paying basis in a few months than to mine the ores without milling and without the proper facilities for marketing them. This would mean an enormous loss in values and require a much longer time to secure the necessary equipment.

Stock Now 25c a Share-Price Advances to 75c Nov. 24.

If you want a block of Wellington stock at the present low price you must act at once. Promptly at midnight, November 24th, the price will advance to 75 cents per share and no more stock will be offered for sale. Unless your application is in the mails on this date, your opportunity to share in the profits of The World's Greatest Lead and Zinc Mine is lost. If you find that you haven's time to complete your investigation mail remittance for one-tenth of the amount of stock desired, with the privilege of having your money refunded at the end of 30 days, if after a thorough investigation, you are not satisfied that this stock offers the greatest money opportunity for legitimate money making you can find anywhere—barring none. The Wellington is open to the fullest investigation. In addition to prominent bank and commercial references, any reliable citizen of Breckenridge, Colorado, can tell you what The Wellington Mine is. We will be pleased to furnish you every facility for investigating this proposition, as we want every investor to know the true value of the mine.

$3,300,000 WORTH OF ORE BLOCKED OUT

IN THE WELLINGTON MINE. This is not guess-work, but the result of accurate measurements by mining experts of the ore bodies opened on three sides by various tunnels, drifts, shafts, winzes and upraises. It is proven that there are 110,000 tons of ore actually blocked out ready to mine and run through the mill. Figuring the value of this ore at the lowest possible price the smelters will pay for it shows that it is worth at least $3,300,000.

$35,000,000 IN ORE IN ADDITION TO THAT ALREADY BLOCKED OUT.

The amount of ore in the Wellington is almost beyond computation. The main vein alone, which is already opened up 2,600 feet, averages 9 feet in width. Multiplying the length of the tunnel, 2,600 feet, by the width of the vein, nine feet, and then multiplying this product by the depth of the vein, absolutely proved by the Oro shaft, which is 400 feet deeper than the tunnel level, gives us at least $35,000,000 in addition to the ore blocked out. Just think of the immense amount of rich ore which can be mined cheaper than coal awaiting a mill to convert it into cash.

These figures are entirely conservative, and are based on the reports of George H. Evans, mining engineer, and John G. Goodier, mining expert, and proven by smelter returns from ores taken out in doing development work. There is every reason to believe that this ore body extends thousands of feet deeper, as the richest mines in the Leadville district, which is only 18 miles away, have attained far greater depth, and the bottom has never been reached.

WELLINGTON ORE VALUED BY SMELTER SALES, NOT ASSAYS.

The value of Wellington ores has been determined by actual smelter sales. Assays on selected samples of ore may or may not represent the true value of the ores in a mine, but the prices paid by the smelters on large shipments can be relied upon absolutely. If we were to figure the value of Wellington ores on the basis of assays they would be made to appear more than twice as valuable as the smelter returns would indicate. However, there is no question but that the Wellington mine contains much ore that is of far greater value than any which has been shipped in the past, as only the ores taken out in doing development work have been shipped. The great bodies of ore have been left untouched awaiting the erection of a mill where they could be properly treated before shipping, thus effecting a great saving.

As an illustration of the wonderful increase in value of Wellington ores as a depth is attained, average samples of ore taken from three different levels in The Wellington mine were assayed by J. H. Moreland, U.S. Government assayer of Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Moreland reports that the ore taken from the upper level, 100 feet from the surface, assayed $28.64 per ton. The ore taken from the main tunnel level, 415 feet from the surface, assayed $62.64 per ton, and the ore from the winze 65 feet below the main tunnel level, 480 feet from the surface, assayed $77.48 per ton. Other assays show values up to $93.00.

These assays were made for the purpose of showing the increase in value as depth is attained, but they have not been used in representing the value of the ore blocked out. If this ore proves more valuable than past shipments to the smelters would indicate it will be clear gain to the stock-holders.

$60 PER TON IN GOLD IN ADDITION TO LEAD AND ZINC.

The Wellington Mine is a consolidation of the great Wellington and Oro properties, which have become famous as the most valuable mining properties in the entire Breckenridge District of Colorado. Mining men now recognize the Wellington as one of the foremost mines of the world. The Wellington is not only rich in Lead, Zinc and Silver, but recent discoveries show wonderful gold values. A vein of Lead-Zinc ore six feet in width, running parallel to the main vein, was opened up recently, which carries $19 per ton in gold, and ore from the bottom of the shaft, which is 400 feet lower than the tunnel level, runs as high as $60 per ton in gold. Investors should carefully consider these discoveries, as we have based the value of Wellington ores on a very low estimate of the Lead, Zinc and Silver they carry. The addition of the Gold means that the ore will be worth many times its present value when the development is completed to the lower levels.

WHAT BRECKENRIDGE PEOPLE THINK OF THE WELLINGTON.

William Mitchell, Manager Chamberlain & Dillingham, Ore Buyers, says:

"I buy all the ores shipped out of this district, and am in a position to know what the mines are doing. I do not hesitate to state that I would sooner have the Wellington than any mine in Cripple Creek."

Fred. C. Cramer, Deputy United States Mineral Surveyor:

"I made the surveys for The Wellington Mine, and have kept closely in touch with it since. There is no question that The Wellington is the biggest proposition in this district."

Judge W. E. Thomas:

"I have prospected and mined in Summit County since 1882, and The Wellington is the biggest thing I know of here."

Hon. W. F. Foreman, Mayor:

"I have been through The Wellington Mine, and in my opinion there is nothing to equal it in this county."

George Engle, Banker:

"The Wellington Mine is a big property, big enough to speak for itself."

J. G. Detwiler, Sheriff:

"I have mined in Summit County since 1886, and The Wellington is the best mine in the district, and one of the biggest in the State. With the building of a modern concentrating mill and the installation of modern, up-to-date machinery, The Wellington is a sure dividend payer."

INVESTORS WHO HAVE PERSONALLY INSPECTED THE WELLINGTON MINE.

The following substantial business men have recently visited The Wellington Mine, and after spending hours in thoroughly inspecting it, bought large blocks of stock:

L. F. Kleeman and Samuel Trotter, of the firm of Kleeman & Trotter, Wire and Iron Works, Kansas City, Mo.
W. B. Burget, proprietor Distilled and Aerated Water Plant, 2600 Holmes street, Kansas City, Mo.
G. L. Morton, Druggist, Fort Scott, Kansas.
H. H. Heldbrink, Prop. New Process Laundry, Higginsville, Mo.
J. N. McCracken, Springfield, Mo.
W. F. Fowler, Fort Scott, Kansas.
Irvin Jordan, Faulkner, Kansas.

LOCATION OF THE WELLINGTON MINE.

The Wellington Mine is located within two miles of the Colorado & Southern Railway Station, at Breckenridge, Summit County, Colorado. It is 110 miles from Denver and 18 miles from the great producing district of Leadville. It is connected with the railroad by a substantially built waggon road, which makes it possible to haul large quantities of ore to the railroad all the year round.

E. L. WHITE
Denver

October 25th, 1906.

The Wellington Mines Company,
Breckenridge, Colorado.

Gentlemen:-

This department has made examination of the Wellington Mines, at Breckenridge, and I am pleased to state that there is every evidence of legitimate operation and business methods evidenced in the management of same.

There is a large development of workable ore, and the management is pushing on legitimate lines for its utilization.

I understand, since my personal knowledge of the property, that large additions to the area and equipment have been made, which materially increase the business outlook.

Respectfully yours,
Commissioner of Mines

Consider the contents of this letter carefully, as it is one of the most important features of this announcement. The Wellington must be a mine of actual proven value and properly managed in order to secure the approval of the State Mining Commissioner of Colorado. The information given by the Commissioner can be considered absolutely reliable, as this Bureau was created for the purpose of preventing fraud and misrepresentation and to assist and encourage legitimate mining in this great state famous for its great mines. Every mine in the State has been officially inspected by competent inspectors under the supervision of the Mining Commissioner, and a complete report of each and every one is on file in the Commissioner's offices in the Capitol at Denver.

How many mines offering stock for sale have the endorsement of the State Mining Commissioner? How many mines can show such a bonafide list of references as we have furnished in this announcement.

Begin Your Investigation at Once, the Time is Limited

Every promise we have made for The Wellington in the past has been fulfilled and this stock has a greater future than any other investment you can make. Stock in a mine of such value as the Wellington will not stop at par. There is no limit to the price it will eventually reach. We will make it worth par in a few months and we will do it by paying dividends to warrant it. Send in your reservation at once. Write or telegraph to-day for the number of shares you desire and be sure that your order will be filled. Everyone has an equal opportunity to secure Wellington stock at 25 cents per share and get the benefit of the big advance in price that has been ordered for November 24th. No man is too poor to carry a small amount of this stock, and no man is too rich to overlook such an opportunity to increase his wealth.

SAMPLES OF WELLINGTON ORES

Will be mailed free to every one enquiring for further information. These samples show both the Lead and Zinc ores just as they come from the mine, and will give you an idea of the wonderful richness of the Wellington Mine. Remember, we have thousands and thousands of tons of the ore these samples come from, and all that is needed to convert this ore into cash is a mill and adequate equipment for handling the output.

VIEW OF A WALL STREET BROKER

Inclined to be Rather Bearish on the Situation Just at Present.

RESULT OF THE ELECTION

Even if Hughes is Elected, He Says, Tight Money is Still Going to Prevail.

A Wall Street broker, with [illegible] Montreal man, says:

Sometime the increase in the Fenlessi Nadia dividend has not met with approval in London. It has certainly called forth a great deal of criticism here in view of the enormous expenditures which the road is making, and will have to make for some time to come, the return from which is far distant.

The financial situation abroad is not liked, and the Evening Post, in a cable from its financial representative, states that it is not improbable that the Bank of England rate will be advanced to 7 per cent. next week.

The feeling here in regard to the election is growing more confident. Mr. Root's speech is likely to influence many voters in favor of Mr. Hughes.

However, should Mr. Hughes be elected, as seems almost certain at the moment, the greatest difficulty in the situation—namely, the scarcity of money will remain.

To attempt to create a bull campaign with the banks in their present condition would seem to be, to put it mildly, an extremely imprudent course.

WOULD REFUSE $5,000,000 ?

Wabigoon, Ont., November 3.—Anthony Bliss, principal owner of the Laurentian mine, states that a cash offer of $1,000,000 has been refused for the property. Mr. Bliss declares he would not dispose of the controlling interest in the mine at a valuation of $5,000,000, and confidently looks for a $25,000,000 gold production in the near future. Since the mass of gold was encountered in the cub level, which the machine drills could not penetrate, the winze has been sunk deeper, and penetrated the rich ore chute. The rich gold ore is now known to exist from 30 feet to 700 feet, the bottom of the shaft.

Harris, president of the Nova Scotia Steel Co., and Charles Archibald, vice-president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, are behind the Brandram-Henderson Co., which has been created to sell and manufacture paints and white lead. The capital of the new concern is $500,000 preferred and $1,250,000 common. A prospectus of the company will be found elsewhere.

LEADER'S ATTITUDE.

There is no doubt that Standard Oil, Morgan and Hill interests have recently taken a more active bullish position.

FORTUNE IN COAL

A Second Crow's Nest

The Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company was organized in British Columbia in the year 1896, ten years ago. It was the only coal stock that had ever been offered to the public at large in the Dominion of Canada up to that time. The stock was put on the market in the spring of 1896 and offered to the people at ten cents a share. The first allotment was sold to school teachers, clerks, merchants, doctors, servant girls, carpenters and men and women in all walks of life. This brought about the most cheering and gratifying results, and poor men awoke to find themselves independently rich from a small investment. For $100 one thousand shares were secured, and to-day this amount of stock has a cash valuation of $285,000, and last year 1,000 shares brought a dividend of $10,600 ($10.60 per share). Coal experts and engineers who have seen our properties and those of the Crow's Nest are fully agreed that ours are as good, if not better, for the reason that we are 500 miles nearer tidewater (Pacific Coast), and our coal is superior for steam, domestic and smithing purposes, and fully equal for foundry and smelters' coke. Our Company controls 17,500 acres of coal land, estimated by coal experts to contain one billion four hundred million tons of coal, such a vast quantity that the supply would last 400 years at an output of 10,000 tons a day. One engineer has estimated that our land on Coldwater River has a net valuation of one billion five hundred million dollars, with the coal in the ground as a basis of calculation. Our shares will be increasing in value from year to year, the same as has been the case with the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company's stock. In the year of 1900 those shares were worth $36 from the dividend it then paid. In 1903 it had reached the $100 mark, and in the fall of the same year it sold for $125, and to-day its market price is $285.

OPPORTUNITY.

To see it, and grasp it in time, makes a man the master of his destiny. DO YOU WANT TO MAKE MONEY HONESTLY, AND LOTS OF IT? Would you like to become interested in a coal proposition in British Columbia, and make $10,000 in three to four years from now on an investment of $250.00? We offer you the opportunity to do this.

You have $200.00, $500.00 or $1,000.00, whatever the case may be, in bank, drawing 3 per cent. interest yearly. Does this satisfy you, when you can many times double your money in one year in an investment like this we offer you?

PUT YOUR SAVINGS IN COAL. It is safe, and as good as Government bonds. There are no "ifs" about coal mining. There never was known a failure in coal in British Columbia, if quantity and quality and shipping facilities were assured, and the business was managed right and honestly.

The price of coal and its commercial value is always advancing from year to year, whereas the demand is increasing enormously every year.

Millions and millions of dollars have been made in coal mining year after year by all those engaged in the business, and to prove this we refer to the statistics on hand for the year of 1902, where it is shown that nine of the leading bituminous coal mines in the United States and Canada made the enormous profits of $87,450,678 (one year's earnings).

There is no field of investment more absolutely safe and profitable than coal mining.

We now offer to the public 100,000 shares of the British Columbia Amalgamated Coal Company's treasury stock at the low rate of TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER SHARE.

The par value of this stock is one dollar, and is fully paid and non-assessable, and shareholders are exempt from personal liability. Once paid and secured it is settled for ever. Buy now. This stock advances

NOVEMBER 15TH TO 50 CENTS.

This Amalgamated Coal Company controls 17,500 ACRES OF COAL LAND in Nicola Valley, B.C., and, according to coal experts' reports, this great area is underlaid with inexhaustible quantities of high-class bituminous coal, the best for steam, blacksmithing and cooking purposes, estimated to contain approximately 1,400,000,000 TONS OF COAL.

TWO RAILROADS

are now building into the Nicola Valley, the Canadian Pacific and the V., V. and E. (Great Northern), and the C.P.R. has already constructed and completed a line from Spence's Bridge, on Thompson River, to Nicola Lake, a distance of about fifty miles, whereas the V., V. and E. are rushing the work as fast as money and labor can do it, and it is expected to reach Nicola by Christmas.

This is certainly a rare opportunity for the small investors.

You can get 1,000 shares of our stock to-day for $250.00, which may be worth as much as the Crow's Nest is to-day if you hold it long enough. Do you realize what this means for you? That the British Columbia Amalgamated Coal Company's stock will reach the $100.00 mark in from six to seven years from now is the belief of those who have seen and examined the properties and are familiar with the local condition in that country. Get in on the ground floor, Act quickly, and do it now. Do not ask your neighbor for his advice. Use and act on your own judgment. It will soon be taken. Call early or write, and we will give you any further information that you may desire.

BETTER THAN LIFE INSURANCE.

A source of income that will last as long as you live. An asset that you can leave behind you for your friends and relatives. Have you a wife? A dear child, a sister, brother, or friend, whose welfare you have at heart? If so, why not invest $50, $100 or $200, or any sum you can afford in this coal stock, and get a certificate issued in their names; that will give them an income for life.

TWO YEARS FROM NOW, the stock should begin to pay handsome dividends, and in another year or two may have a cash valuation on the market from the dividends it then will pay of at least $10.00 per share. This calculation is based on sound and conservative business judgment, and on well-tried laws of natural growth. It is quite safe to say that when the Amalgamated Coal Company shall have fully equipped its four properties on Cold Water River, in Nicola Valley, B.C., and has built up a market for its product, and can produce coal and coke on a large scale, which may require six to seven years to accomplish (taking the Crow's Nest Coal Company as an example), this stock should then be worth on its own merit, from the dividend it then will pay, $100.00 per share.

Fathers, mothers and guardians, who have the welfare of your children at heart, and want to provide for their future needs, write us for information and investigate our proposition carefully. You will thank us later for the advice given. Ask or write for printed prospectus and reports, etc. We will show you samples of the coal and of the coke, and the assays of the coal from Government officials and other authorities.

British Columbia Amalgamated Coal

Recommended by Bankers and Merchants

as the safest and best investment on the market to-day which is being offered to the public at large. We want men and women of moderate means to get interested in this great enterprise, and to get in now, on its first inception.

Remember, for $250.00 you will get one thousand shares of Amalgamated Coal, which will secure for you and your family a source of income, and may make you independently rich. Remember, 1,000 shares of Crow's Nest Pass Coal is to-day worth $285,000, and brings a yearly revenue of over $10,000.

Protection to Small Shareholders is Secured by the Laws of British Columbia.

Under British Columbia laws, every Coal Company mining for coal and oil in that country must file with the Minister of Finance a certified copy of their articles of incorporation, if a foreign company, and also of the by-laws; in other words, the company has to register under the laws of British Columbia before they can transact business within the borders of the province, and produce coal, and their books are subject to inspection every three months by the Government agent, to whom a sworn statement must be made, and a tax of five cents per ton paid to the Government for every ton of coal mined. This protects the small stockholders as every one interested whether he may be the owner of 10,000 shares or only 100 shares, has the right to know at all times just what the company is doing, and there is no possible way of the company adopting, with any success, a "freeze-out" game. The Government being an interested party, much greater protection is afforded the small investor than in any other country.

We cordially invite you to call at our office, No. 61-62 Confederation Life Building, Toronto. If you cannot call, please write us, and we will mail you prospectus, reports, maps, etc., that will give you all information you may desire. Remember, the price advances to 50c per share on November 15th

'NIP' WAS A FIND NOT A MINE

The Easy Way That the Millions Poured in After the Flotation.

A FEW MADE MILLIONS

At High Point the Mine Was Capitalized at $40,800,000—Great Earnings.

Of the picnics made in Nipissing, the Boston News Bureau says:

"The amount of money that has been made by a few men out of the rise in shares of the Nipissing Company is almost staggering.

"It was only a few months ago that the property was 'promoted,' having cost the promoters $250,000, payments to be made in instalments. This week at the high price of $34 per share, made on the New York curb, the property had a selling value of $40,800,000.

"A few men have made millions so quickly that their mental balance is threatened. The 1,200,000 shares which 'went hard' around $5 per share have been temptuously sought for at above $30 per share. The option to the Guggenheims on 200,000 shares at $25 per share was exercised and the offering of the underwriting to their friends was four or five times oversubscribed.

"The reason this silver property could be brought so quickly from the position of a prospect to a property sending forth net earnings of over $500,000 per month or $5 per share on the stock, is that it is not a mine—it is a find."

NO COMPLAINTS ABOUT TRADE

Situation Throughout Seems Satisfactory—Active Shipping Before Closing of Navigation.

Montreal trade reports to Bradstreet's say: "General trade is moving in good volume and business men continue to regard the trade outlook as satisfactory. Since colder weather set in there has been active preparation in the way of retail trade and general business throughout the country. The purchasing of winter lines of wholesale goods was fairly heavy, despite the fact that a mild season last year resulted in the carrying over of fairly large stocks and the season that has just set in of the past few days has resulted in a very good re-order business. Heavy shipments of bulky goods are being moved to the west in order to take advantage of lake and rail freights while they last. Payments to banks continue satisfactory and there is general expansion in general trade. Conditions are reported as normally satisfactory. The fortunes of the cotton industries for nearly all time. The Dominion Textile Co. have withdrawn prices as a whole on one line which is a departure, and the whole of other lines of cottons and satteens are advancing. Orders for spring lines are in good volume. Sugars are quiet but unchanged. Hardware continues unusually active and trade is suffering from the fact that in many lines some stocks are exhausted. There is a firm tone to almost the entire list. Metals are of high quotations and the demand is very brisk. Empty trade is showing a good tone. There is new export demand for cheese, although shipments are still heavy but prices are easier. The export cattle trade continues quiet. Hogs are lower.

Toronto.—There has been little change in the trade situation since the last week. The feature of business this week throughout Canada, is the almost steady advance in values of almost all commodities. Textile values are particularly firm. Cotton prices are on the upward move and woollens are very stiff. Stocks of cotton are light and mills are reported behind with orders. The movement of general city goods this week is quite active. The volume of business has been much greater than in any previous similar season. A particularly big trade is growing up in ready-to-wear clothing. Spring business in this respect is exceedingly heavy. General spring lines are moving well. There is still a very brisk trade for all lines of hardware, and values are firm. Country retail trade is showing a brisk tone. Flour and grain hold fairly steady. Receipts of hides are light and the market is inclined easier. Wool is quiet but no further price decline is recorded. Butter is scarce and firm, while cheese shows a slightly easier tone. Eggs are easier but the market for provisions holds its own. There is little change in the situation of the cattle market. Receipts of cheese are light, while plenty of offerings of trades are offering. The export business is quiet. Prices are about steady. The leather trade is fairly steady, with prices unchanged. Reports regarding collections are generally satisfactory.

Winnipeg.—There is a continued good tone to general trade throughout the west. The movement of money is fairly satisfactory, and the steady growth of the population throughout the country largely accounts for the trade expansion. There is still considerable complaint on the part of wholesalers regarding the tendency to lock up money in land ventures, but it may be said that collections are in better condition at this time of the year. The sorting trade in general lines is showing a good tone. This is particularly true of dry goods, there being a big movement in heavy lines. It is reported western manufacturers are generally behind with their orders. Hardware trade is not quite so brisk, but the business has been exceedingly heavy. Groceries are very active. Canned goods are scarce and firm.

Vancouver and Victoria.—Wholesale trade all along the Pacific coast continues brisk. The demand for goods keeps pace with the activity in all branches of industry and collections are good. The export trade is active, and large quantities of grain are going through from western Canada to the Orient. A bright future is anticipated for this trade. Arrangements are being considered for the holding of an Oriental exhibition at Vancouver some time in the near future for the purpose of fostering Oriental trade, with special attention being paid to the Japanese and Chinese end.

Quebec.—Collections, as a rule, are reported slow, and no improvement is expected until the weather is more settled. Wholesale dry goods report a fair movement, particularly in heavy lines. Groceries and provisions are in active demand, which is usual at this season previous to the close of navigation. City trade is fairly active, and on the whole the outlook is generally regarded encouraging.

Hamilton.—Wholesale trade is opening out well, and indications are that a good business will be done in this connection. The sorting trade for all winter lines is fair and collections are generally satisfactory. Values of country produce are generally steady.

London.—The outlook for future trade is bright. Spring orders call for a good range of general lines. A feature of conditions is the activity general in all lines of manufacture here. Preparations for the holiday trade are heavy.

Ottawa.—Retail and wholesale trade is active in all lines. The dry goods business is particularly brisk, and values are firm. Country trade is showing a good tone, and local industries continue busy. Collections are fair to good.

RECORD IRON PRODUCTION.

The Iron Age says: "The effect of the strain for larger outputs in October is more pronounced in steel making lines. In some cases ore and coke supplies have not been sufficient for record-breaking operations. The Steel Corporation finishes the month with a general breaking of its previous high records of March, this year. Up to October 27 its finest production had reached 1,120,000 tons. In the same time the finished material output was 825,000 tons, as against 770,000 tons in an equal period in March. The Edgar Thomson rail mill had reached on October 27 the remarkable record of 79,000 tons."

PAUL W. LEFFLER,
Inventor of the Leffler Electro-Magnetic Railway and Signal System. Inventor of Machine to make Barb Wire. Inventor of many Improvements to Harvesting Machines. General Manager and Consulting Engineer of Leffler Electric System.

I ran a machine shop and brass foundry in Minneapolis. I did the repair work for the Electrical Street Railways of St. Paul and that city. I was so successful as a mechanic and electrician in this repairing that I was requested to change every dynamo put out by the General Electric Company. I saw all the troubles of the street railway managers. I found the present system of running street cars was entirely wrong.

I found I could get more power, greater speed, more safety and comfort by running cars with electro-magnets direct from by the roundabout, mixed-up systems now used by electric railways.

I have always been a successful manufacturer and inventor. I have had charge of 200 expert mechanics at one time. All of my inventions have made great successes and enormous sums of money. The great successful barb wire business today is built on my patents.

The best money being made to-day in the manufacturing of harvesting machines is very largely based on my inventions.

I invented the first switch and turn-out that prevented the trolley wheel on trolley cars from constantly jumping the wire at crossings.

For fourteen years I have studied how to make cars run faster, cheaper, safer than ever before. I am done experimenting.

I Have at Last the Greatest Invention of This Century.

It will remodel the whole railroad business. There is not a railroad in this country but that will sooner or later be compelled to adopt my system, because it is cheaper, faster, safer, and more money-making than any other system.

I absolutely control the next great step forward in the railroad world in my patents. Why? Because steam has run its limit! Steam cannot run a train 100 miles an hour and keep it up. The trolley and present third rail systems cannot be depended upon for long distances. Their motors are likely to burn out any minute. With my system I can run a train any distance in any kind of weather, without a hitch or break-down, 80 to 200 miles an hour with perfect safety. By my system, if a wheel broke or a rail broke the cars would stay exactly in position on the track. They could not do otherwise. They could not jump the track at any speed. It would be impossible to run my cars off the end of a track into a river where a bridge is open. My car would stop itself even if the leverman was asleep.

I know this whole system to be a success, because I have tried it for two years. During that time millionaires have tried to get control of my system, but I would not let them, because I preferred to protect my own and small stockholders' investments.

Charles T. Yerkes offered me $100,000 if I would throw my invention on the scrap pile and forget it. He did not want to be compelled to change his old cable system.

Tom Johnson, of Cleveland offered to furnish $200,000 for my patent rights for over eighty miles an hour.

Wall Street capitalists have made five different attempts to gain control over the Leffler Electric System, and Wall Street generally knows a good thing when they see it. I could not afford to let these big moneyed interests get control. I preferred to go to the small investors, to the people who want to make small, but safe and sure investments. I have therefore bound myself to this company, and to every stockholder, that I will personally see to it that every man and woman who makes an investment in this company will get a square deal. This is a square deal from start to finish.

You'll Have to be Quick to Get in Before Next Advance

To prove that you will get a square deal I have added the following contract printed on the back of every certificate:

All or any shares of the capital stock of the Leffler Electric System will be redeemed by it at par or face value up to and including the 10th day of May, A.D. 1923, upon written notice properly given to said Company at its executive office in Chicago, Illinois, in a manner and form as provided by its by-laws, and adopted by a majority of the stock-holders of this Company, so that all stock so offered for redemption, within any given period, may share equally and proportionately. However, the stock of this Company is only redeemable from funds received, or to be received as royalties from railroad companies using the patents of this company under license, and after proper notice as aforesaid, which may be received from stockholders direct, or from such of said railroad companies as have received said stock in payment for transportation or otherwise. PROVIDED, HOWEVER, no stock shall be redeemed until after May 10th, 1909, except at the option of this Company.

This Contract Means that this company will pay you full face value for every share of stock you buy out of the royalties paid by railroad companies using my system.

You can use your stock as cash in payment for fare or freight on any road using my system.

You see, every road that uses my system will have to pay our company a royalty every year simply for the right to use it. Those railroad companies would just as soon pay us with these certificates as to pay cash, and the certificates would be the same as cash to us.

This contract means that if you bought 100 shares at the present price, you would be able to get at least $1,000 from any railroad using my system. Or you could turn the certificates of stock in to us and get $1,000 in cash when there is royalty money in our treasury. I don't think you will ever want to sell, because of the enormous dividends we will pay. But if you should be compelled to sell, your certificate would be worth its full face value.

This makes it absolutely impossible for any stock-holder to be frozen out out of the company.

Every Share on the Square.

Every share of stock in our company is on the square. Not a dollar's worth of the stock will be sold which does not represent exactly the same footing or standing that every other share or dollar represents.

The stock is FULLY PAID and NON-ASSESSABLE.

What Expert Engineers Say.

I am not the only one who thinks this is the most perfect, simple, cheap, and comfortable Railway System known. Three of the most expert engineers in this country have carefully examined my system and ridden on my car, and they have written reports on what they saw and found. These engineers are: John Ericson, city engineer of Chicago; Karn L. Lehmann, consulting engineer of Chicago, and F. W. Cappelen, former city engineer of Minneapolis, Minn.

They declare the system successful, simple and practical, and point out many other features wherein the Leffler system is an immense improvement over any other system now known to be in existence. Other unprejudiced and scientific experts have pronounced the system wonderfully simple and simply wonderful. The reports will be sent to any one upon request.

My Automatic Signal Service.

I absolutely prevent collisions. Everywhere a car moves it sends signals ahead and behind. It is not affected by storms or any weather condition. My signal system does not require either brain or mind of man to operate it. No wires or poles are exposed where storms can blow them down or interfere with them. If through some accident one signal is broken or otherwise put out of commission another signal immediately takes its place. Every train despatcher and operator on the road can go to sleep and my signals will work perfectly and safely. Even the trainmen have nothing to do with them. There is no forgetting. Every signal works automatically. When trains come together too closely, head on or from the rear, an electric bell rings vigorously in the motorman's cab.

Cars Under Absolute Control.

It is all controlled by one lever. The leverman starts, stops, and reverses with the same lever. Snow, ice, sleet, rain, grease, dirt, and such things do not affect the power or control of the car or train.

The Business Will Be Immense

because before long we will be putting my system on all the standard, street and interurban railways. Just think what an immense business that will be. One company alone now employs 12,000 men to make the present electric railway equipments and cars. Another firm employs nearly as many more. There are also thousands of men employed making standard locomotives and equipments. All of these will be back numbers, and will have to go out of business, because the Leffler electric system will take their place, and will employ thousands more.

Investigate Us Carefully.

Come and see this most remarkable invention of the twentieth century.

This is such an opportunity as does not come to any one once in a hundred years, to get in on the ground floor on a proposition bound to make millions. It is the next great forward step in the railroad world. It means the ultimate changing of every present steam and street railroad over to the Leffler system, not only because it can run faster, but it saves about half in operating expenses and thousands of lives.

It means faster and cheaper travel and greater profits to the railroad managers and stock-holders.

I cannot describe the system fully here. I have done this in a booklet, which I will send you free for the asking. If you can't take but ten shares get the booklet and learn that all the wonders of this simplest, most perfect system ever devised. It will set you to wondering that some one did not think of this marvellous idea before.

When I send you the booklet I will also send you the reports of some of the ablest electrical engineers in this country, who have carefully examined the system. They fully endorse it.

We have received requests from no less than seven different responsible parties within the past two weeks for estimates for putting in my system on new roads about to be constructed.

Shrewd Investments Make Fortunes.

This is Your Chance—Act Wisely and Quickly.

Don't let this opportunity slip by. As soon as the world learns what a simple, money-saving and money-earning system this is the money-making instincts of the railway managers will force them to adopt it. This will mean millions for the stock-holders. The profits and dividends can't help but be something wonderful.

Great fortunes are made nowadays by people who make judicious investment of their savings and earnings.

Saving money doesn't make you rich. It is making the money work for you while you are working that brings wealth.

Invest your savings in something safe to bring the greatest returns. Bankers get rich by doing that with the money you deposit with them, and they pay you only 3 or 4 per cent. for the use of your money. Why not do as the banker does and get all the profits yourself?

Here is such an opportunity as may never come your way again. Such great things as this do not come more than once in a century. It is up to you to act carefully, wisely and intelligently. Investigate every claim I make. Go into it thoroughly. Find out for yourself that I have the greatest railway system ever devised, and don't invest one cent unless you are perfectly satisfied I have just what I claim to have. Ask all the questions you want to, and I will answer every question honestly and squarely.

I honestly believe this stock will advance 100 per cent. or more within a year if you want to share in these enormous profits it will be necessary for you to act NOW. This stock will never be lower, and is sure to advance at least 15 per cent within the next few months. It is on the ground floor now, but never will be again. Be wise in time. Remember, this is no untried experiment. I have the car and system to show you. I want you to call and investigate it thoroughly. I will be glad to show everything about it to you at a time. Everything is and will be thoroughly covered by patents, and the patents are under the absolute control of this company.

I honestly believe that a very little money invested in this stock now at the present bottom price will in a very short time yield such an income as will make you independent for life. It is the chance of a century. If you miss it you will regret it all your life.

About the Stock.

This company is not loaded down with a lot of watered stock. Neither is it a promoting company. It is a straight, square deal offered by and between you and the company. There is absolutely no freeze-out scheme mixed up in a tangle of preferred and common stock, nor is there any other style of hocus pocus. Every share of stock stands exactly on a level with every other share.

Only a small portion of this stock is being sold below par. If you desire to get in on the ground floor it will be necessary for you to act at once. Remember, this is no untried experiment. We have a car all made and on exhibition which will show any one exactly what our system is. Come and see for yourself exactly what we have got. You will find a marvel of simplicity and practicability. You will be astonished when you see it, that this company will become the owner of one of the greatest electrical manufacturing plants in the world. The company has something so much better and so much farther in advance of anything else ever heard of that it is bound to make millions for its stock-holders.

You let this opportunity get by without taking all the stock you can possibly buy, you will soon be in the position of the man who refused to buy Bell Telephone stock when it could be had for small money, and later saw it sell for thirty times what he could have bought it for.

I am at the office every day from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Next Saturday night until 9 o'clock.

If you can't call, write for booklet and engineers' reports.

Points to Remember About This System for Street Railways.

There are no overhead wires, no third rail, no slot in the street, no underground trolley, no obstructions in the street.

Can be run faster, safer, easier and more comfortably than any other system known.

It is cheaper to operate uses a half less fuel at power house, is cleaner, surer, and quicker in operation than any other.

Cannot be stopped by sleet or snow storms, rain, ice, grease, dirt or any other similar obstructions on the track.

It cannot produce electrolysis on water pipes or conduits in the streets, which is now such a heavy expense to cities under the trolley.

It cannot interfere with any other electric wires, requires less current than other systems, and develops greater power.

It is all controlled by one lever and is always under the most absolute control, anywhere, and under all conditions.

It is noiseless, since there are no gearings, motors or other machinery to grind, squeak or rattle.

There are no "burn outs" or motors, because there are no motors to burn out.

It is impossible for man or beast to get a shock from an electric current.

Points to Remember About the Leffler System Taking the Place of Present Steam Railways.

It does away entirely with locomotives, heavy motor cars, electric engines, and all other similar heavy and expensive machines.

A speed of 80 to 200 miles an hour can be regularly reached and maintained for any distance.

Runs winter and summer alike. Not affected by ice, snow, grease, dirt, sleet, rain, or any other weather condition.

Less than one-quarter of the fuel is needed.

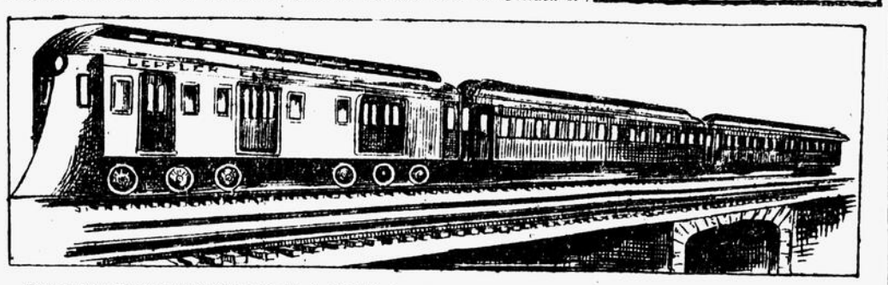
Trains can be started and stopped quicker than by any other system and without discomfort to passengers.

Power houses can be placed 200 miles apart.

No brakes are required. The stopping is done by reversing the current.

There is no flattening of the wheels and consequent jogging of the cars. Wheels do not grind on the rails to start trains, hence no holes and depressions are made.

It is easier on the roadbed and cars, and practically no repairs will be needed.



This Leffler Electric Train Will Run 80 to 200 Miles an Hour and Without the Possibility of Jumping the Track—Swift, Safe and Sure.

BRANDRAM - HENDERSON, Limited, has been organized to manufacture in Canada BRANDRAM'S B. B. DRY WHITE LEAD from the formulae of the celebrated manufacturers of Dry White Lead, Brandram Brothers & Co., Limited, of London, Great Britain, and to acquire and carry on the extensive business of Henderson & Potts, Limited, Halifax, N.S., and St. John, N.B., and of Henderson & Potts Company, Limited, Montreal, Manufacturers of Paints, Dry Colors, Oils, Varnishes, Etc. The Company also has power to manufacture other lead products.

BRANDRAM'S B. B. WHITE LEAD.

For nearly two centuries this White Lead has been recognized as the standard, and has always commanded the highest price in this market. The business extends to many countries, besides Great Britain, and continues to expand in spite of trade obstacles, owing to the fact that it has that quality which makes its use necessary for the highest class of work.

CANADIAN LEAD WORKS.

In July, 1905, for the purpose of encouraging the corroding of pig lead produced in Canada, the duty on Dry White Lead was increased from five per cent. to thirty per cent., ad valorem. In consequence of this, the Henderson & Potts Companies have in conjunction with Brandram Bros. & Co., Limited, decided to establish a plant for manufacturing Dry White Lead in Canada, the new Company having the exclusive right to sell in Canada, Newfoundland, the West Indies and Mexico.

The Town of St. Louis de Mile End, a suburb of Montreal, having granted the new Company exemption from taxation for a period of fifteen years, the Company has acquired a site in that Town at the head of St. Lawrence Main Street, and work has already been commenced for the erection of a plant having a capacity of 3,000 tons of Dry White Lead per annum with provision for enlargement to 6,000 tons per annum when required. The plant will be equipped as can only be done by engineers having the accumulated experience of Brandram Brothers & Company to assist them.

The Canadian Works will be operated under foremen of departments sent out by Brandram Brothers & Company, so that the Canadian product may be in every respect equal to and the same as BRANDRAM'S B. B. GENUINE WHITE LEAD that has been produced for so many years in England.

THE HENDERSON & POTTS COMPANIES.

Henderson & Potts, Limited, Halifax and St. John, and Henderson & Potts Company, Limited, Montreal, are the outgrowth of the firm of Henderson & Potts, which commenced the manufacture of paint in a small way in Nova Scotia thirty-one years ago, and gradually grew until, in addition to the large factory in Halifax, they now have factories in St. John, N.B., and in Montreal, and a distributing agency in Winnipeg.

The association of the Henderson & Potts Companies with the new Company will result in the most complete Lead, Paint, Dry, Colour and Varnish Works in Canada, and it will be the only concern in Canada controlling all its operations from the corroding of the lead to the finished product.

Mr. Joseph R. Henderson, the President of these Companies, will contract to act as General Manager of the new Company for a period of ten years, so that it will have the benefit of his long experience.

THE MARKET.

There is a growing demand for white lead in Canada. Last year the consumption of Dry White Lead in Canada exceeded 10,000 tons, being more than 2,000 tons in excess of 1904. The tendency is towards greater consumption due to the fact that the country is growing in population and in prosperity. The new Company should easily market its proposed output of three thousand tons and it is expected that in the course of a few years the increased demand will require at least six thousand tons per year. A considerable export trade can also be developed.

ESTIMATED PROFITS.

Brandram Bros. & Company, Limited, have gone carefully into the question as to profits to be expected from the corroding of White Lead in Canada, and they estimate the profits upon this Branch of the business at $75,000.00 per year. This estimate is based on an output of 3,000 tons, and upon their long experience in England as White Lead manufacturers, due allowance being made for the different conditions prevailing in Canada.

The average annual net earnings of Henderson & Potts Limited, Halifax, for the past six years ending 31st July 1905, were $31,595.74 per year. The net earnings for year ended July 31, 1906, were $38,417.37. The St. John Branch of the business was started about seventeen months ago and has yielded a satisfactory profit on the capital invested.

The Montreal Works have only been established about four years and notwithstanding their difficulties attending the entering of a new market and the establishment of a new business, showed a profit for the year 1905 of $7,870.06.

Mr. Joseph R. Henderson, the Managing Director of the Henderson & Potts Companies, estimates the increased profits from the increase of business to be expected under the new conditions, when the works are well established, will be at least $20,000.000.

The following are the estimated annual average profits of the new Company:

ALL BUT A FATALITY.

Old Man in Brockville Drew Knife on Tormentors.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Brockville, Ont., November 3.—A number of boys having a good time with an eccentric old man, named John O'Connor, got into an altercation with him. He resented the treatment and drawing a knife struck back with it, inflicting a severe wound on Dyson Dixie, aged 20. The knife entered Dixie, just missing a large artery, which had it been severed would have resulted in fatality.

The first locomotive steam engine in Scotland was made in Dundee by James Carmichael in 1832.

MASSACRE IN STREETS.

Copenhagen, November 3.—It is reported from Riga that the revolutionary "parties" blood-rule continues, and that assaults and assassinations in the streets are general. The train for Moscow was delayed the other day en route. A masked man was tied on to the rails and the train ran over him, when a shell, on the road, was luckily discovered by an engineer, who removed it in time to prevent an explosion.

GLOBE-TROTTING CHEAP.

Cunard Company Books Round-the-World Tourists $460.

Special to the Montreal Star.

London, November 3.—The Cunard Steamship Company has just completed arrangements by which travellers may book a trip round the world for $460. The journey can be made in three months, but the tickets are available for two years.

Travellers will sail to New York from Liverpool and across the American continent to Seattle by way of Chicago and St. Paul.

They will then journey by steamer to Japan, visit Hongkong, Singapore and Colombo, and from Ceylon they will return to London through the Suez Canal and the Mediterranean.

The fare works out at slightly less than a penny a mile.

From Indiana to Manitoba.

Winnipeg, November 3.—A large colony from Frankfort, Ind., will be located on a recently drained land near Sperling, Carman district, in southern Manitoba, where 8,000 acres were recently purchased.

FOOLED HIS RELATIVES.

Miserly Old Man Arranged to Leave Them No Money.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Paris, November 3.—There has just died at Belley an old gentleman of 72, who during his lifetime was notorious for his eccentric and miserly habits, though he was in possession of an income of $4,000. His funeral was attended by a large number of relatives, who were astonished to discover only a few coppers in the house after the funeral. The will was then opened, and it read as follows:

"My dear relatives, I am afraid you are going to be disappointed. I know that none of you have any sort of affection for me, and that if you come to my funeral it will be in the hope of dividing up between you whatever I may leave behind me. I now inform you that I have left no money whatever. I sank the whole of my fortune some years ago in a life annuity. All the money that remained over and above that I spent of the annuity I have given away or burned, in order that you should not have it. I hope this will be a little surprise for you."

A search revealed, however, $7,500 worth of annuity stock, the coupons of which appeared to have remained unpaid; but on going to the bank to have these coupons cashed, the heirs discovered that the coupons had been paid, but at the special request of the old gentleman, who had given a separate receipt for each coupon, they had not been cancelled. "This is only a little surprise I am keeping back for my heirs," he said.

It appears that on the occasion of the annual village festivals this year the old gentleman deliberately burned $10,000 worth of bank notes, which he found he had been unable to spend.

Buckingham Arrests To-day.

Buckingham, Que., November 3.—The warrants of Coroner McMahon, attached to the verdict of the jury, and demanding the arrest of all those mentioned in connection with the fatal riot of Monday, October 8, are now in the hands of Recorder Beaudry. Bailiff Roy notified the accused to appear before Mr. Beaudry to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. The defendants will then be formally placed under arrest and bailed.

Cured of Drunkenness

How a Montreal lady cured her husband of drunkenness with a secret home remedy.

"I want to tell you that tasteless Samaria Prescription has entirely cured my husband of drunkenness so quickly and simply that I am astonished. How glad I am that I confided in you and wrote for your free sample package. The sample tablets I got from you checked his drinking, and before I had used the full treatment he was permanently cured. I gave him the remedy in his tea, and as it had no taste or smell, he never knew he was taking it. I want others to know so you can use this letter, but please not my name yet. I may say that my husband's health is better in every way than for years."

Free Package and pamphlet giving full particulars, testimonials and price sent in plain sealed envelope. Correspondence sacredly confidential. Address: THE SAMARIA REMEDY CO., 107 Jordan Chambers, Jordan St., Toronto, Canada.

Also for sale by J. A. Harte, 150 Notre Dame st. West, and J. H. Harte, 590 St. Catherine st. West.

An Educational Conference.

Toronto, November 3.—Hon. Dr. Pyne, minister of education, has received an invitation to attend a federal conference on education, to be held in London in the last week of May, under the auspices of the Empire League, of which Lord Tennyson is president. Hon Dr. Pyne, who has been asked to suggest for the programme of the conference subjects of interest to this province, will do so, and will also see that Ontario is represented.

MAY APPEAL AGAINST LORDS.

Asquith Says the Country Will Not Accept Lords' Decision.

London, November 3. — Herbert Asquith, Chancellor of the Exchequer, made a speech at Manchester, in which he referred to the amendments made in the House of Lords to the Education Bill. He said the nation had decided that all schools maintained by rates and taxes must be under unfettered public control.

The Government could not, if it would, and would not if it could, infringe on that decision. The statement is interpreted in some quarters as showing the intention of the Government to appeal to the country against the House of Lords.

DEATHS REPORTED.

Berlin, Ont.—Wm. Lackner, father of Dr. H. G. Lackner, M.L.A., died yesterday of apoplexy, aged 80. He was one of the best known early settlers of Wellesley.

St. John.—Beryl Crane, daughter of James Crane, of North Lake, is dead at her home.

Miss Edna V. Murray, daughter of James Murray, died here yesterday.

Mrs. Ann Pratt, widow of Henry N. Pratt, died last evening, aged eighty-four.

Mrs. Susan Vincent, wife of James S. Vincent, aged forty-four, died here yesterday.

Sergeant Orders Own Death.

Treves, Rhenish Prussia, November 3.—While several companies of the 17th Infantry were undergoing rifle instruction with blank cartridges, a sergeant of one squad fell dead with four bullets through his breast. It developed that he had himself loaded the rifles of the squad with ball cartridges, and directed the recruits to aim at his breast, and pull the triggers when he exclaimed "His Majesty—Hurrah." The cause of the sergeant's suicide has not been ascertained.

Grand Trunk Reduces Rates.

Toronto, November 3. — To comply with the state laws of Ohio, which are being enforced respecting railway rates, the Grand Trunk has made a reduction in its rates from Buffalo to Chicago, and on that reduction has reduced its rates from Toronto and points intermediate between Toronto and Buffalo and Chicago.

Policeman Suicides.

Rochester, N. Y., November 3.—Patrick Hurley, a policeman, attached to the fourth precinct, shot himself in the head yesterday. He walked into the morgue and, after a brief conversation with the man in charge, placed a revolver to his head and pulled the trigger. Death was instantaneous. Ill-health is given as the cause.

MOST CONVINCING.

It is easy to see that the displays at the dry goods store of Messrs. Jas. A. Ogilvy & Sons, St. Catherine street west, corner of Mountain street, are most convincing for the reason that people are talking enthusiastically of their exquisite gowns, and not only talking but taking them away. Their announcement on page 5 of this issue of the Star has some prices that should be convincing.

THE NEED OF CHIVALRY.

Now the Queen of Beauty Will Marry Another Man.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, November 3.—A new phase has been given to the romantic story of the search for Lieutenant Becker, made by A. G. Kauffman, on behalf, it was alleged, of Bertha Paul, who was asserted to have rejected other suitors until assured that Becker was dead or unworthy. Now it is reported that Miss Paul's love for the lieutenant is dead, and that she soon is to wed a rich New Yorker. Kauffman also asserts that he is not a suitor, and that Miss Paul, although she had been desperately in love with Becker, is now engaged to a New York man, her love for Becker having cooled. He declined to give the name of the man. Nothing has been heard of Becker lately, and it is believed that he will not come forward to claim the money his sister is holding for him.

Gold at Lake Nairobi.

Johannesburg, November 3.—Two old Johannesburgers have brought some gold-bearing quartz from the neighborhood of the Lake to Nairobi.

They say they have come across an out-crop formation of a wonderful character. The samples are being sent down south.

CONSERVATIVES HOLD MEETING

Junior Club Members Indulge In a Debate—Mapping Winter's Programme.

An interesting debate took place last evening at the regular meeting of the Junior Conservative Club, in Ligget's Hall. The question submitted was whether the elector should consider the party rather than the man in casting his vote.

Mr. R. T. Hicks led off for the affirmative, and showed debating power of a high order. Mr. A. B. Oughtred, K.K., replied for the affirmative, and was followed by several members of the club on the same side. The vote of the meeting, however, favored the affirmative not so much on the merits of the question as on the merits of the debate.

Mr. C. Ernest Gault, the president, announced that Hon. R. P. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba, would be in Ottawa, in a few days, and it was proposed to invite him to address the members of the club. Hon. George E. Foster and other members of Parliament will visit Montreal in the early days of December, and it is proposed to have them address a meeting, which will be held in a larger hall than that used by the club for its ordinary meetings.

Several names were suggested as delegates for the Conservative convention in St. Ann's, and the members of the club will take an active part in favor of any Conservative candidate who may be selected for that division.

GRAND JURY FINDS TEN TRUE BILLS

Robert Walker is Held on Charge of Attempting to Murder Detective Lehuquet.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the Court of King's Bench the Grand Jury returned ten true bills and a verdict of no bill in two cases. The most important case on the docket is that of Robert Walker, who is charged with having attempted to murder Detective Lehuquet in the Starke's Hardware Company, and with breaking into the premises with the intention to steal. No date has yet been fixed for the trial.

A bench warrant was issued at the request of Crown Prosecutor Guerin against Alphonse Daignault, who jumped a $1,000 cash bail. Daignault was charged with setting fire to his saloon. Yesterday morning his name was called, but he was absent, and when, in the afternoon, he failed to put in an appearance the court ordered the bail to be forfeited and granted the application for the issue of a bench warrant.

Josephine Dubord, who is under the same accusation, pleaded not guilty to the charge, but no date for the trial was fixed.

The D. B. Martin Company is again to stand trial on the charge of committing a nuisance in the East End of the city by allowing a stench to emanate from their premises.

Following is the list of true bills returned by the grand jury:—Herbert Webb, false pretences; Robert Walker, attempt to commit murder and breaking with intention to steal; Alphonse Daignault and Josephine Dubord, arson; Frederic Rainville, two indictments for theft; Jos. A. Grenier, theft; D. B. Martin Company, committing a nuisance; John Crowe and Alex. Daoust, attempt to steal; Jacob Leibovitz, fraudulent transfer of property; Joseph Goderre, keeping a disorderly house.

A verdict of no bill was returned in favor of Fred Rainville, charged with attempting to steal, as well as in the case of Percy Brown, who was committed for theft from person, while the grand jury returned an "ignoramus" in the case of George Dale, charged with the same offence.

Case Was Settled Out of Court.

The case of Romualde Patenaude against Consumers' Cordage Company, has been settled out of court for $1,100. Patenaude instituted the action to obtain an indemnity of $2,000 for an injury sustained by his son, while in the employ of the Cordage Company. Last January the boy had his right arm caught in a hemp machine, and it was found that the injury was so serious that amputation was necessary. The case was to have come before a jury in the Superior Court next week.

LECTURED BEFORE CALEDONIAN SOCIETY.

Mr. Alexander Fraser, of Toronto, archivist for the Province of Ontario, gave last night, before the Caledonian Society, an interesting lecture on "Historical Glimpses of Albion, Caledonia and Scotland."

Mr. Fraser referred to the ancient Albins of Scotland, and said that when we came to the name Caledonia we came to a name that filled quite a place in the literature of the world, and particularly British and Scottish literature. The Scots never called themselves Caledonians; they were called it by others. Scotland was not named by the Scots, but by other people. The native name which had reached us was Albani, the children or people of Albion. He glanced at some of the Irish legends as to the origin of the Scots, and said that they went from Ireland and gradually spread over the west coast of Scotland. The bulk of the present nation was not the offspring of those who went from Ireland, but was more from the Picts, and in the south from the ancient Britons. Many in the south and east of Scotland were descended from the Saxons and Angles.

In conclusion, Mr. Fraser spoke of the part which the Church and feudal tenure had played in bringing into one the several tribes and clans in Scotland. The lecture showed considerable research and was much appreciated. Mr. William MacNab, president of the society, was in the chair.

WHEN WILL THE GOOD OLD

DAYS RETURN?

Time was, and not so very long ago (about 36 years), when we first entered on the Grocery, Wine and Spirit trade, that there was scarce a family in the land with any pretension to good and decent living, but what would have for the Dinner Table, day in and day out, all the year round.

A BOTTLE OF GOOD, SOUND PORT OR GENUINE SHERRY

This good old taste and preference has almost entirely vanished. Now it is scarce anything but and more's the pity, for what can be more wholesome than good, sound, thoroughly matured Wine, as contrasted with too many of the Spirits of the present day.

We are doing our share to bring back the taste of the consumer to the

FAMOUS WINES OF SPAIN AND PORTUGAL,

CHOICE OLD PORT AND GOOD, SOUND SHERRY,

by providing Wines of undoubted quality and high-class character.

Treasurer of Presbyterian Church.

Toronto, November 3. The board of trustees of the Presbyterian Church have held a meeting to consider the situation of the General Assembly's office as affected by the resignation of Mr. Alex. Warden, the treasurer. The Popular Piano.

The public are heartily taking advantage of the opportunity for buying a really first class piano direct from an old and reliable manufacturer. J. W. Shaw & Co. are using this means of advertising their business, and so great is the demand for the Shaw pianos in all of the popular styles that we are not able to furnish the trade with a single instrument. At the present time every piano turned out of the Shaw factory goes direct to the home of a satisfied customer.

If you are about to purchase a piano this season don't fail to call at Shaw's, 370 West St. Catherine street. It will save you money. 261 2 eod
