DAILY WITNESS EXTRA.

Vol. [illegible]. 220. MONTREAL, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1910. PRICE ONE CENT.

EXCEEDED ITS JURISDICTION.

Committee Appointed to Inquire into Alleged Plot of Emancipation Lodge Against Priests Went Beyond its Power, Decided Judge Demers.

ILLEGAL QUESTIONS TO WITNESSES.

Judgment on Writ of Injunction and Question of Costs Suspended Till After Committee Reports.

That the city had the right to appoint a special committee to look into the charges made by Mr. C. A. Millette, in connection with an alleged plot of the Emancipation Lodge, of which Dr. Louis Laberge, city health officer, and Police Inspector Grandchamp were said to be members, but that the special committee exceeded its powers and jurisdiction, is the gist of the judgment rendered this morning by Mr. Justice Demers, in the injunction case of Joseph Fortier vs. J. J. Guerin et al and the City of Montreal.

The facts of this case are well known. Mr. C. A. Millette addressed a letter to the City Council complaining of an alleged plot concocted in the Emancipation Masonic Lodge to draw priests into disreputable houses during the Eucharistic Congress, and asking an investigation to be held, especially in view of the fact that two civic officials, Dr. Laberge and Inspector Grandchamp were members of said lodge. The council appointed a special committee to look into the matter, and, towards the end of the investigation Mr. Jos. Fortier, who had been called in the case, presented the present petition before the court, asking a writ of injunction to stop all further proceedings, on the ground that, under the terms of its charter and according to law, the city had no right to hold such an investigation, and also because, if such right existed, the committee had gone beyond their powers.

In rendering judgment on the first point raised, the learned judge held that while it was true, as argued, that the question of a plot was a matter for the police authorities to take up and investigate, on the other hand it was evident that the City Council had the right to inquire if its officials were guilty of the alleged conspiracy. There was no direct charge against the two officers, it is true, but the City Council, having deemed it advisable to investigate even an indirect charge, the court could not intervene, especially in view of the fact that the parties interested did not complain, and no one protested again the investigation.

As regards the second point, His Lordship found that the investigation committee had exceeded their powers. Quoting the doctrine laid down by Spedding that the injunction extends to restrain abuses of discretion such as to evince an intention to resort to arbitrary exercises of powers, he found such arbitrary intention to appear in the mayor's declaration that the investigation was not limited to Dr. Laberge and Inspector Grandchamp, but practically extended to the whole lodge.

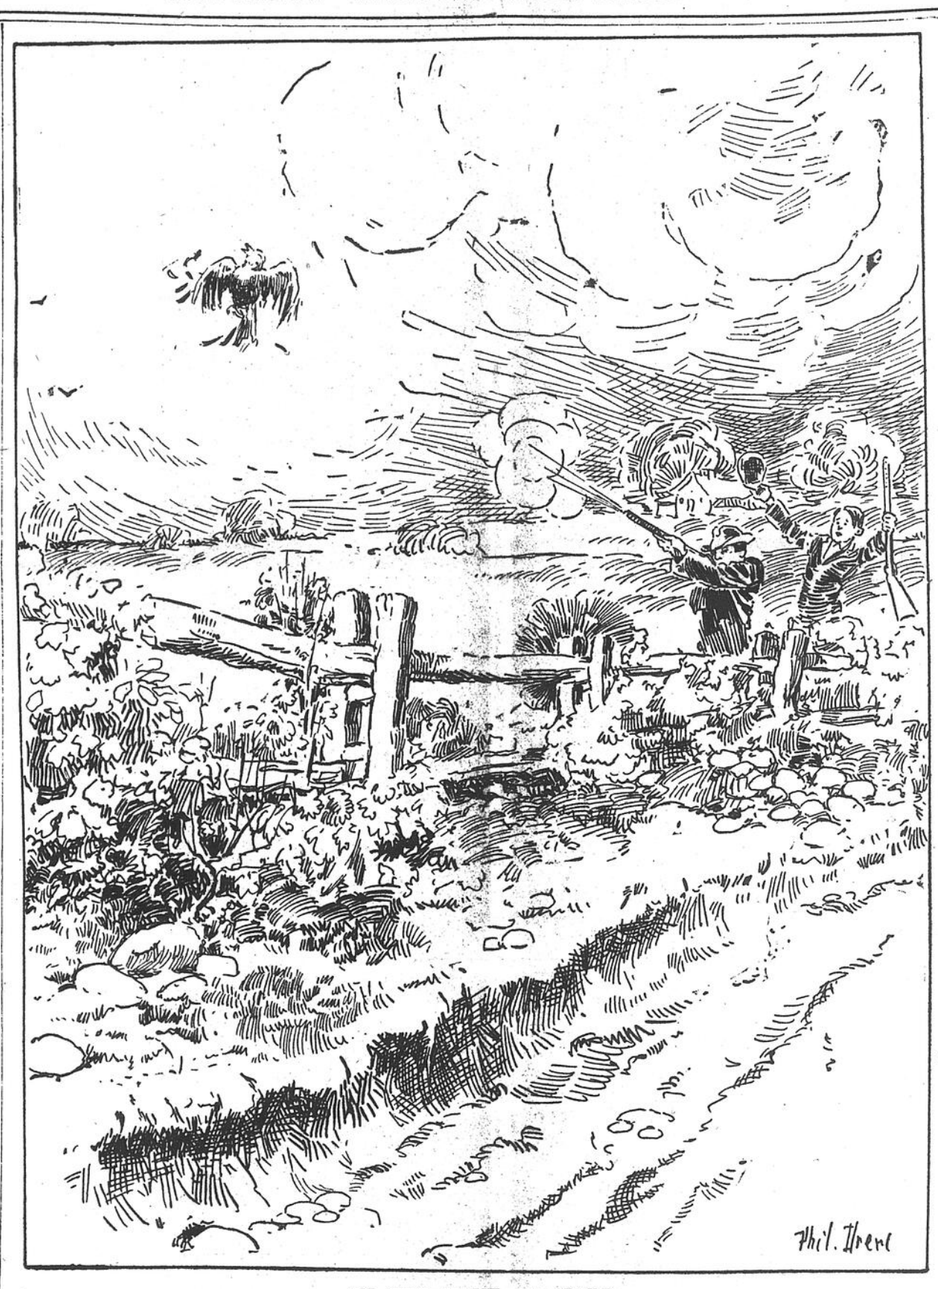

His Lordship then referred to the numerous illegal questions put to witnesses, such as the following: 'Is the lodge composed of Nationalists?' 'Are there any judges therein?' 'Are there any lawyers?' 'Are there any journalists?' 'Under the oath which you have given, you did not know that there was a recorder in the lodge?'

'All those facts,' the learned judge said, 'show the court that the members of the committee attempted to make of such investigation committee a kind of Inquisition tribunal. All this would not have occurred had the city entrusted its legal advisers with the care of conducting the proceedings.'

His Lordship then remarked that the committee having declared, through the city attorneys, that the investigation was closed, there was no practical use for an injunction, as what had already been done could not be prevented.

It was agreed, however, that the court should prevent the committee from making a report, such report being useless, anyhow, as no plot had been shown to exist. On this point the learned judge ruled as follows:: 'The court having found that the committee could nvestigate the conduct of the officers of the city, cannot, it strkes me, logically prevent said committee from making report. Besides, the court is convinced that, in said report, the committee will strictly limit themselves to the queston submitted.'

he final conclusions of the judgment were then given out as follows: 'Whereas counsel for petitioner have expressed their fear that the investigation might be continued by other parties notwithstanding the declaration made before the tribunal, the court decides to suspend its decision on the present petition for a period of one month so as to give time to the investigation committee to make their report to the city meanwhile. The court reserves adjudication on the question of costs until after that date.'

IN THE NAME OF SPORT.

$50 FOR A KISS

Young Man Alleges that Constable Demanded Blackmail.

Fifty dollars a kiss is altogether too much of a good thing, according to the complaint of a young man, made to Chief Campeau. That is why a Mount Royal Park constable has been suspended.

To elucidate further, the young man aforementioned was walking through the park with a young lady last Sunday, and kissed her. The constable threatened him with arrest. The young man didn't want the girl to be taken to the police station, and offered the constable money to allow them to go. The latter refused $10, $20, $30 and $40, but accepted when it came to $50.

The constable in question claims to have evidence that will prove that he did not see the complainant at the time and place stated on Sunday. In the meantime he has been suspended.

UNION MEETINGS

For Evangelistic Purposes to Be held by Montreal Churches.

Fairmount Avenue Methodist church, corner Fairmount avenue and Hutchinson street; McVicar Memorial Church (Presbyterian), corner St. Viateur and Hutchinson streets; and the Baptist Temple, presently meeting in the Royal Bank building, corner Park avenue and Laurier street, together with the Fairmount branch of the Y.M.C.A., and the Outremont Presbyterian Church, are perfecting plans for a union evangelistical campaign to begin November 23, to be conducted by the Rev. ohn H. Elliott, D.D., of Chicago.

Dr. Elliott, though known as an American, is of Canadan birth, being a native of Halton County, Ontario. He is a minister of the Presbyterian Church, and has been associated with Dr. Chapman in many of his campaigns. In campaigns which he has conducted himself, the work under Dr. Elliott has been marked with good results.

Last winter Dr. Elliott conducted a series of services in Stuarton Presbyterian Church, Ottawa, with much acceptance, and it was his work there which led to an invitation being extended to him to come to the northern part of Montreal this fall.

The meetings here, though of a union character, will, it is expected, be held in the Fairmount avenue Methodist Church, as affording the largest auditorium, though afternoon meetings at other centres will be arranged. Dr. Elliott will be of Dr. Chapman's party in the great evangelistic campaign to be carried on in Toronto in January next.

CHAUFFEURS, BE CAREFUL.

Controllers Want Law to Prevent Automobiles Passing Standing Street Cars.

Having their attention called to the number of accidents which have occurred by reason of automobiles and vehicles running swiftly beside standing street cars from which persons are alighting, the Board of Control has prepared a report which asks the legislation committee of the City Council to prepare a by-law which will prevent danger of such accidents. The exact phrasing of the by-law is, of course, left to the committee on legislation, but the controllers suggest that it should be made illegal for an automobile or a vehicle to run up behind, and pass a standing car. They also suggest that the police be especially instructed to enforce this law.

'This is only right,' said Controller Wanklyn. 'We can't very well keep automobiles off St. Catherine street. We might as well try to legislate them out of the city. But we can see that they are operated in a sane way. A by-law like this is in force in Toronto, and has done a great deal to prevent accidents.

'With the police properly enforcing a measure such as is suggested the number of accidents should decrease,' was Mr. Ainey's comment. 'But more is needed and we have asked the police to watch the automobiles carefully to see that they don't exceed the speed limit. There is absolutely no necessity for them to go at such a rate in the day time. With the streets crowded as they are the danger is great.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Rose Cyr, a domestic servant, aged nineteen, attempted suicide in the police court today. She had stolen a valuable dress from her mistress, and was sentenced by the magistrate to nine months in jail. While on the way to the cells below she swallowed three mercury pills. The dose was too much to be effective.

GOOD TEMPLARS MEET AND REPORT PROGRESS IN TEMPERANCE WORK.

Grand Lodge of Quebec Pledges itself in Resolution to Give Moral and Personal Support to Mr. John H. Roberts in His Crusade Against Liquor.

The annual session of the Grand Lodge of Quebec International Order of Good Templars opened this morning, in the Alexandra Rooms, St. Catherine street, opposite Christ Church. Mr. W. H. Lambly, Grand Chief Templar, presided and in his report emphasized the great progress of moral reform during the year, tens of thousands of saloons he said, had been closed. In every province of the Dominion an advance had been made. But for the iniquitous three fifths clause 397 saloons would have been closed in addition to the many already put out of business in Ontario. In the province of Quebec an irresistable wave of temperance sentiment was sweeping everything before it. Along with a large delegation from Montreal the Grand Chief Templar had waited on the Government with several suggested amendments. They had been cordially received by the Prime Minister, Sir Lomer Gouin, and important legislation had followed in consequence.

The Grand Chief Templar did not know where the Carter By-law now was, but if it did not soon become law the Montreal members would have to reckon with some of the aldermen

Mr. J. W. Roch, Grand Secretary, alluded in his report to the early closing legislation enacted by the provincial government as a step in the right direction. It was one instance of the general advance of temperance sentiment which was visible throughout the world. The municipal campaign in Montreal, had hinged largely on the power of the saloon. Victory had fallen to the forces of good citizenship, but many of the aldermen had been false to their solemn pledges to support Alderman Carter's early closing by-law. In presenting the statistics for the year he noted with pleasure an increase in membership. This hal argely been due to the work of Bro. J. E. Brown, Grand Lodge organizer. Local workers had also been active. The finances were in an improved condition, and there was good hope for work of the order in the coming year. The report conveyed the deep sympathy of the order in the bereavement of the Grand Chief Templar through the death of his beloved wife and co-worker.

Miss M. A. Darlington, G. Supt. of juvenile work, reported an increase in the number of juvenile temples and members.

The Rev. J. A. Smith, National G. C. T. of Canada, being present, was received with grand lodge honors, and gave an encouraging address.

Encouraging reports were also presented from lodges in various points in the province.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:—

'That we, the members of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, I. O. G. T., having heard of the work in which Bro. J. H. Roberts is engaged, namely, the suppression of the illegal sale of spirituous liquors, both on and off licensed premises, pledge our moral and personal support to Bro. Roberts in his efforts to clean up the city and the province.'

The following committees were appointed:—

Credential—Messrs. Davis, Brown and Roch.

THE PLUMBERS' STRIKE.

Sixty Men Returned to Work This Morning.

The strike of union plumbers in the city has not terminated, although the men consider that things are looking bright. An agreement, drawn up by them, they say, has been signed by eight of the city's largest plumbing contractors, while many of the smaller ones have signed up.

Sixty men returned to work this morning out of the 403 who quit work originally. Besides these, 150 have secured jobs as laborers of different kinds until the trouble in their trade blows over.

Mr. Goulet, business agent of the plumbers, stated that the Ottawa contracts of two Montreal firms, James Ballantyne and the Garth Company, had been interfered with through a sympathetic strike, the men of the Montreal Union in the Capital having all gone out and come back to Montreal. This statement was denied by both Mr. Ballantyne and Mr. Meadowcroft, general manager of the Garth Company.

The Allan line SS. Sardinian was reported abeam Belle Isle at 3 p.m. yesterday outward bound.

U. S. Ambassador to Turkey Abandons Visit to Russia.

London, Sept. 21.—A special despatch from Constantinople says that Oscar S. Straus, the United States ambassador to Turkey, abandoned a proposed visit to Russia because he refused to accept the privilege of a passport from the Russian Government.

Mr. Straus left Constantinople on Sept. 3 for a holiday in the United States. At an earlier date despatches from St. Petersburg stated that the Russian ministry of the interior had published an order permitting the diplomat, who is an adherent of the Jewish faith, to visit the Russian Capital.

TWO PEAKS CONQUERED

MORE DANGEROUS THAN ALPS.

Montreal Doctor Was First Man After the Guides to Ascend.

The Rockies are more dangerous than the Swiss Alps, and are just as good for climbing,' said Eduard Fenz, junior, who, with his father, Eduard Fenz, his brother Ernest, and their fellow Swiss Rudolf Aemmer, four Swiss guides who spend the summer on the Rocky Mountains, around Field, Laggan and Glacier, arrived at the Windsor station this morning on their way home to Switzerland for a visit.

The season has been an eventful one. Two mountains which have never before been climbed, though often attempted, have succumbed; Mount Douglas, 11,220 feet, and Mount Fuadra, 10,200 feet. Dr. Hickson, of Montreal, was the first man after Fenz to put his feet upon these summits, last July.

It took, said Fenz, 17 hours to climb Mount Douglas, and 20 hours to get to the top of Mount Quadra. Mount Douglas was the most difficult ascent in mountain climbing he had ever accomplished in the Rockies. When they got down again they did not know how they had been able to get up. In the middle of Douglas' straight walls all around the peak there is a drop of 1,000 feet, which has contributed with other little discomforts to keep back previous climbers. To help his companions to the apex Fenz had to put a rope round a rock and throw the rope down for an eighty feet shin-up against the perpendicular.

Fenz, junior, looks in splendid health. He certainly gets plenty of fresh air. Fenz answered all questions in English, and first-class English he speaks. He has had seven years experience in climbing in the Rockies, with one visit home, when he married. When he comes back next June he will, he says, bring his wife with him. During the winter he goes to Adelboden for the skating competitions.

In addition to climbing the two previously unconquerable peaks, these guides have taken Dr. Hickson twice to the top of Mount Assiniboine, 11,800 feet high. Although these Swiss guides have left, a cousin remains at Field, where he has a wife and home, and will act as guide.

Norton Griffiths, the Conservative member of Parliament for Wednesbury, who is a passenger on the Canadian Northern liner 'Royal Edward,' from Montreal, sent a wireless message to his constituents to-day stating that Canada was throbbing with prosperity and a new Wednesbury would soon be on the map populated by a good representation from the Old Country.

COMMITTED TO STAND TRIAL

DEMONSTRATION BY CROWD.

Miss Le Neve Was Hooted by Women Following Cab—Poison Purchase Testimony.

London, September 21.—At the close of the police court proceedings to-day Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and Ethel Clare Le Neve were committed for trial, charged with the murder of the doctor's wife, Belle Elmore. Solicitor Newton reserved his defence for the trial proper.

Miss Le Neve was hooted and jeered to-day by a crowd of men and women that awaited her arrival at the Bow-street police court.

The inquiry in the case of Miss Le Neve and Dr. Crippen for the murder of the latter's wife was drawing to a close, and this fact probably accounted for the unusual number of persons who gathered in the vicinity for a possible view of the prisoners. A group of women followed the cab occupied by the accused girl, through the streets to the police court, yelling their opinions of the typist as they chased along. When the vehicle stopped in front of the court building, a crowd that filled the thoroughfares hooted derisively. Miss Le Neve held an open umbrella before her face, and was fairly successful in escaping observation as the police made way for her. The financial affairs of the Crippens were gone into to-day in line with the prosecutor's opening assertion that the doctor at the time of Belle Elmore's disappearance was pressed for funds, and that the death of the woman would be to the monetary advantage of the husband.

The manager of a bank testified that Mrs. Crippen notified the institution on December 15, 1909, of the withdrawal of a joint account which she and Crippen had kept there.

Miss Merion Curnow, an employee of the Munyon people, who succeeded Crippen in the management of their local office, testified that the poison alleged to have been purchased by the doctor and traces of which were found in the mutilated body, was not used by the company. She added, however, that Crippen frequently bought drugs for his own preparations.

The witness said that during February, when Crippen told her that his wife had gone to America and died there, she cashed for him several cheques, one for $500. She last saw the doctor on July 9, when she gave him the money on a cheque for $185. This was just before he disappeared, and at the time he said to witness, 'If anyone inquires for me you are to know nothing; say nothing.'

Before this Crippen had left several packages with the witness, saying, 'If anything happens to me, give these to Miss Le Neve.'

William Long, in giving evidence, stated that Crippen called at Munyons early on July 9th. He seemed to be troubled, and Long asked him what was the matter. Crippen replied, 'Only a little scandal.' At Long's request, Crippen purchased a boy's suit.

$1,398 AS DAMAGES.

Controllers Recommend Payment of This Amount to Various Claimants.

A report recommending the payment of $1,398.30 to persons having claims against the city goes before Council to-morrow. Three amounts are for damages of a bodily character.

Miss D. A. Coleman is recommended to receive $75 to defray expenses necessitated by a fall on a sidewalk.

Mrs. San Heitner $30 for the same reason, and

Mr. Emery Brunet $36.75 as compensation for injuries received while working for the city.

SENT PEACHES TO KING.

Sir James Whitney Thanked for Courtesy.

London, Sept. 21.—The Canadian Associated Press understandes that Sir James Whitney, the Premier of Ontario, sent a box of Canadian peaches to King George, and received a letter from His Majesty's secretary acknowledging receipt of the peaches.

LINER IN DRY DOCK AT QUEBEC.

The Manchester line SS. 'Manchester Engineer,' which has waited so long, it was stated this morning had at last gone into drydock at Quebec. The long wait which the 'Manchester Engineer' has been forced to undergo while waiting her turn to use the drydock will cause her to lose the rest of the season as by the time the necessary repairs have been executed and the cargo of deals again loaded, the St. Lawrence will have almost closed for the winter. In any case it will be too far advanced for her to make another trip to this port, so when repaired she will proceed to England with the cargo she was carrying at the time of the accident, and probably remain there for the winter months.

THE KING EDWARD STATUE.

The committee appointed by the citizens to carry out the proposal to erect a statue to King Edward is now actively at work. A meeting was held at the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon, at which Sir Thomas Shaughnessy presided, there being also present: Sir Alexander Lacoste, Senator Beique, Mr. G. L. Cains, Mr. J. R. Dougall and Mr. George Hadrill. The view expressed at the Citizens' Meeting that the contributions should be thoroughly representative—from the many, rather than the few—was felt to be the correct one, and it was arranged to secure the addition to the committee of men who could be counted on for activity in wards of the city that had not been so fully represented as some others.

PLOTTED TO KILL EMPEROR

SECRET TRIAL LIKELY.

Strict Censorship Maintained by Officials—Discovery Was Timely.

Tokio, September 21.—A sensation was created by the publication this afternoon of the alleged details of a plot among his own subjects to assassinate Emperor Mutsu-hito.

The startling story appeared in the 'Hochi Shimbun,' which states that the plotters, who are now under arrest, certainly will be sentenced to death after trials before a special secret court. This is the first time in the history of the country that the life of the sovereign has been plotted against by his own people and the fact known. It is understood that a most rigorous censorship has prevented the publication of so much as a hint of the conspiracy until this evening, when the 'Hochi Shimbun' assumed responsibility for the alarming announcement.

The paper's assertions are not without show of authority. There are now in jail in this city a number of persons who are alleged to be active in the 'allied socialist' movement and those who may be considered responsible, state, as does the 'Hochi Shimbun,' that the arrests followed the discovery of a conspiracy against the throne.

According to the paper the assassins planned to accomplish their end while the Emperor was visiting the military school just outside the capital. The plot was discovered in time to protect His Majesty and the plotters were seized at once.

DEATH OF FATHER OLLIVER.

Preached Sensational Sermon After Charity Bazaar Fire.

Paris, Sept. 21.—Father Olliver, who delivered a sensational sermon at the funeral of the victims of the Charity Bazaar fire of May, 1897, died to-day.

Father Olliver was a strong and fluent preacher of Christian socialism. Many years ago he made a tour of America, and preached in New York. The investigation of the causes that led to the Charity Bazaar fire, when scores of lives were lost, brought criticism on the management of the entertainment, and much bitter feeling. Father Olliver's outspoken remarks on the subject incorporated in a funeral sermon, caused his removal from the pulpit of the Cathedral of Notre Dame.

STREET RAILWAY & M. L. H. & P. CLASP HANDS

But Marriage May Not Be Consummated---Market Position Risky to Speculators

So far as the two directorates are concerned, the merging of the Montreal Street Railway Company and the Montreal Light, Heat, and Power Company, is an accomplished fact, on the basis of 250 for M.S.R. and 190 for Power. Whether the deal will be consummated is, however, not so certain, as the Canadian Power people will assuredly have their little say in the matter.

If the M.S.R. and the Montreal Power committees, which have been appointed to discuss details, arrive at an understanding on the above basis, and the matter is left to the annual meeting on the first Wednesday in November to take the vote of the shareholders, it may happen that the Candian Power crowd may block the deal, at least for the time being.

In that event, and supposing that the Canadian Power influence is found to be great enough to carry the vote of the M.S.R. shareholders in favor of an amalgamation of M.S.R. with Canadian Power instead of Montreal Power then it is expected that the M.S.R. directorate will take the case to the courts for the purpose of obtaining an injunction, on the ground that the Canadian Power is only offering an embryo of unascertained possiblities, while the Montreal Power is offering an assured valuable asset.

The M.S.R. directorate is understood to be of opinion that the courts in the circumstances can only decide in one way, and that is of course for the M.S.R. directorate's contentons.

However, the first hand-to-hand round in the dispute may not be postponed until the annual meeting in November, if a usually well-informed broker has the correct information. He tells us that a special meeting of the Montreal Street Railway shareholders may be called for early in October, when the proposition for an amalgamation between the Montreal Street Railway and the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Company will be submitted and passed upon.

As no shareholders will be permitted to vote at that meeeting who has not a clear sixty days' title, it will mean no doubt that considerable of the stock and proxies acquired by the Canadian Power people for voting at the November general meeting will be out of court, and that the Montreal Street Railway-Montreal Light, Heat & Power merger proposition may carry easily.

In that event, what are the Canadian Power people likely to do? Our adviser, who has handled a good deal of the stock which has passed in these transactions, and who is assured that the Power people have held a majority of the Montreal Street Railway stock for November voting purposes, even if they do not do so now, is inclined to think that the Canadian Power people will show their strength at the Montreal Street Railway annual meeting, vote down whatever has been done against them, and go to the courts with evidence that they really held the preponderance of stock while the scratch vote against them was carried.

One is almost inclined to exclaim with Sheridan in 'The Rivals'—The quarrel is a very pretty one as it stands; we should only spoil it by trying to explain it.'

However, the public is entitled to know how the quarrel stands, and to be warned that in buying Power today on weak margins it is skating—if the simile is adequate—on thin ice. For, supposing the merger to be a fait accompli at 250, and 190, what will it mean to the public from an income point of view? Well, about five percent net is the idea, and there are many better propositions than that on the market now, which are going quietly along without any fuss being made about them.

The rest of the market was very firm, with practically every active stock enjoying an advance and these were many.

New York, Sept. 21.—Transactions on a smaller scale than yesterday. The market continues highly professional in character. The general list was strong and dull. The strength of bonds is again a noteworthy feature, and it is believed, that, as soon as the political situation takes more definite shape, there will be an active demand for bonds. An authority here predicts this fall the largest bond market Wall Street has seen. If this is the case, there should be a good market for stocks also.

The utter lack of response to bad news is the principal market feature. For an instance, on the announcement that the United States Government would attack the American Sugar Refining Company, there were only 700 shares of this stock dealt in at a decline of 1½ percent, and, strange to say, the preferred stock on the same day advanced 2½ points.

Yesterday's announcement of price demoralization in the steel trade brought some professional selling, but apparently no liquidation. This stock is now strong at an advance of 1 point over last night. Apparently the unfavorable features in the situation are known and discounted, and liquidation at least for the time being has run its course.

Sales to noon were 138,500 shares.

Soo Decrease

'Soo' Railway shows a decrease of $130,450 for the second week of September, and an increase of $376,765 since July 1st last.

Lake Superior Stock

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—Lake Superior stock continues to attract attention, 21½ being bid for the common, and 22 asked, this morning. Incomes remain firm at 55 bid and 56 asked.

AIR BRAKE CO.

New York, September 21.—The Air Brake Company has declared a regular quarterly divided of 1 1-2 percent, payable October 28 to stock of record, October 6.

BOOMING U. S. STEEL.

New York, September 21.—It is reported from the board that offerings of Steel have been met on slight rallies, and the room element seems to be more bearish than even upon the stock, notwithstanding the official 'assurances.'

Merger Valuator

MR. I. G. OGDEN.

WALL ST. STRONG AT CLOSE WITH GOOD ADVANCE

New York, Sept. 21.—Closing.—The Hill stocks were bid up again with Northern Pacific at 117⅜, and there was a general improvement at the close in the rest of the list. Westinghouse Electric gained 2½ and the preferred 5 points on the declaration of back dividends.

Canadian Pacific Railway at 190¾, 'Soo' at 132½, Union Pacific at 167, Southern Pacific at 115¼, Reading at 143, Copper at 66¾, and U. S. Steel strong at 68¼.

New Director is Named for Scotia Company---Mr. Stanfield Chosen

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 21.—At a special meeting of the directors of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, held recently, the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. W. McNab from the board of directors, was filled by the appointment of Mr. Frank Stanfield, of Truro.

The appointment is a popular one in the East, as Mr. Stanfield is considered one of the most practical and experienced business men in the Maritime Provinces.

HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS TONS OF WABANA ORE

Says Mr. Harris, for Nova Scotia Company in Famous Newfoundland Areas.

Sydney, N.S., Sept. 21.—There were here last evening a party of directors and officials of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, who were passing through en route to New Glasgow, after visiting the Wabana mines and the Sydney mines. Among those who are making this trip of inspection, are:—Robert E. Harris, of Halifax, president of the company; Senator Jaffray, of Toronto; Senator McGregor, of New Glasgow; G. S. Campbell, of Halifax; Thomas Cantley, general manager, and Frank Stanfield, of Truro, all six of whom are directors. The latter gentleman was elected to the directorate only a few days ago in place of Mr. McNab.

The party left Halifax for St. Johns, on Tuesday, Sept. 13, aboard the SS. 'Florizel.' A very satisfactory two-days' stay was made at Wabana and the party reached North Sydney by the 'Bruce' yesterday.

The directors were at Sydney mines throughout yesterday afternoon and will spend a day at the New Glasgow plant after arriving there at noon to-day. Thoroughness seems to have been the warp and woof of the plans for the trip.

As to the staying powers of its chief ore deposits, the terms in which President Harris speaks of the situation which the directors found at Wabana, will be of very general interest.

'There are hundreds of millions of tons of ore there,' he said to the 'Witness correspondent, 'all that we could possibly take out in a thousand years. After that we do not much care. I am speaking, too, only of the deposits which we can be said so far to have developed. I have said these must be good for a thousand years. Of coming to the final end there was yet absolutely no signs. The directors, several of whom have never visited our main source of supply before, were, to put it mildly, extremely well pleased at what they saw and learned.'

Mr. Harris said that the company was going ahead with its policy of spending money at Wabana. Large hoisting engines were being installed and other equipment was being increased. There were at present 200 men engaged in the Wabana operations. When the enlargement of facilities was completed there would be call for a larger force of men.

The president had something to say regarding the labor supply at Sydney mines, which has happily indications attached to it. Asked where there was need for more men, he said we could give employment to 300 more and we could put that number to work to-morrow.

'Finally, I may say that the Nova Scotia Corporation is enjoying a very prosperous season.'

Hearing in Railway Case Before Courts in Albany is Proceeding

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 21.—Counsel for the proposed Buffalo-Rochester and Eastern Railway, which is seeking authority to construct a double track railway across New York State from Buffalo to Troy, paralleling the New York Central at many points, closed their case on re-hearing before the Public Service Commission to-day with the presentation of documentary evidence as to the financial responsibility of the promoters of the railway.

Mr. James F. Jackson, former chairman of the Massachusetts State Board of Railway Commissioners, gave testimony tending to show that there would be enough traffic in future to call for two parallel railways across this state, and that the new railway would give Massachusetts and New England points additional railway facilities of utmost importance.

The various trunk lines which are opposing the new railway will present evdence to the Commission to-day and to-morrow.

AMONG THE MEMBERS-ON-CHANGE

There have been several visitors on 'Change this past week from England who say that the produce trade is in a very favorable condition and in consequence the export trade is beginning to look up a little beter owing to an increased demand from abroad.

Fruit dealers on 'Change this morning stated that they are perfectly satisfied with the outlook for the fruit trade. Although prices are not as great as last year it is thought that owing to the good demand a fairly good business should be done.

A large quantity of grain is coming down from the lakes to this port, but as yet little of this year's crop from the west has been shipped, although there have been several large shipments of new wheat from the middle states of America.

Cattle exporters on 'Change this morning expressed their satisfaction at the report issued by the government of Saskatchewan on the favorable condition of live stock in the west.

EXPANSION IN TRADE SHOWN IN BANK REPORT

The monthly report of the Canadian banks, just issued by the Finance Department, at Ottawa, indicates business expansion on a solid basis.

The statement shows that during August the banks met the enhanced demand by increasing their loans $[illegible],000,000 and their circulation of bank Dominion notes by $2,500,000 the same time adding to their own reserve and assets.

A feature of the report is the withdrawal of the banks' credit abroad for employment at home. Of August 31 current deposits in the banks in Canada stood at $256,613,172, an increase of $974,650 as compared with July 31, savings' deposits in the banks increased nearly $7,000,000 during the month, namely, from $558,584,371 to $565,584,371. The circulation of bank notes increased by $675,307, and of Dominion notes by $1,999,525. Call and short loans in Canada increased by $246,740, while loans made by Canadian banks elsewhere were reduced by $1,988,742.

Current loans in Canada, representing the banks' advances to industrial enterprises, stood at $877,815,773 on August 31, an increase during the month of $805,434. Current loans abroad were reduced by about two millions. As compared with the July statement, the return for August shows that the banks increased their assets by $12,500,000 and decreased their liabilities by $[illegible], while the reserve was increased by $393,701.

This statement is one which must be regarded as satisfactory, not only from the banking, but from the business point of view, as an evidence of the growing strength and importance of our financial houses.

ROYAL COMMISSION VISITS CITY SCHOOLS AND MACDONALD COLLEGE

The Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education today visited a number of educational institutions, including the new Technical and Commercial High School, on Sherbrooke street, and Laval University. They met the staffs at both schools, and made arrangements for the examination which is to take place in February next.

At noon they were met by the civic reception committee, and tendered a luncheon at the Mount Royal Club, and at three o'clock met the representatives of various institutions and associations at the City Hall. At four o'clock the members of the commission were the guests of the Chambre de Commerce.

The commission leaves to-night for Quebec.

AT MACDONALD COLLEGE.

The commission visited Macdonald College yesterday, holding a session at two in the afternoon. The forenoon was spent visiting the various departments of the college, under the guidance of Dr. Harrison, acting principal, and other members of the college staff. Luncheon was served in the practice dining hall of the School of Household Science. After lunch the day school and school gardens were inspected, and at two o'clock the commission went into session, with the chairman, Dr. Robertson, presiding.

The chairman outlined the objects and method of work of the commission in a brief speech. He was followed by Dr. Harrison, acting principal of Macdonald College, in an address of welcome. The principal outlined the work being attempted at Macdonald, and went on to show the differences existing betwen the Canadian and United States method of dealing with agricultural work.

Canada has a number of experimental farms under federal supervision scattered from coast to coast. At one only, viz., Ottawa, are there expert chemists and biologists, the others have to depend on occasional visits from the Ottawa experts. In the United States the farms are all turned over to the provincial authorities, and federal aid given under the Morrill acts of 1862 and 1890, and the Nelson amendment of 1897. This aid, which consists of thirty thousand acres of public lands to each state, besides a money grant, amounts to a yearly revenue of about fifty thousand dollars in cash from the national treasury, and in addition the interest on the sale of the thirty thousand acres of land. By the Hatch act of 1887, and the Adams act of 1906, each state receives for its experiment station an income of forty-five thousand dollars yearly. In this way the federal government aids but the state controls the educational and experimental work in agriculture. Each state has its own college and experimental farm, with a full complement of experts in every line as well as an additional experiment station. Could not the Dominion Government do something similar? He also made a plea for the free delivery of literature, bulletins and experimental reports.

A comparison was then made of the English and German methods of technical education. The English method is to reach the rank and file, the German to educate a few leaders. In agriculture we want a continuation of both—expert leaders who in turn will reach the rank and file.

Dean Sinclair reclared that he was in favor of the introduction of a larger amount of technical education than is at present found in Caadian schools. In his opinion a safe general working hypothesis for any child would be one-third of the school-time to be devoted to the so-called humanities, one-third to the sciences, including mathematics and the natural sciences, and one-third to what may be called sensori-motor activities, e. g., writing, drawing, wood work, cooking and sewing. This work in the early stages should be almost entirely non-conventional, informal, non-technical. Maual training will find its best expression in work which naturally grows out of the child's own experience and study, e. g., the school garden, nature study, and spontaneous play. Cooking is a form of manual training which adapts itself to the needs of this period. The important thing is that the child shall see some purpose in the work and really take an interest in it and be guided to more skillful manipulation. The work which a boy does on a farm, especially in the pioneer stage of civilization, is of great assistance in sensori motor development. From the very beginning the technical side should not be entirely omitted, and greater attention should be paid to it each succeeding year. During the high school course it should become thoroughly scientific. If the simpler work of the elementary school is properly done the effect upon the subsequent technical courses will be very beneficial.

The chief difficulties are properly trained elementary teachers, and lack of apparatus in the rural schools. This can be overcome by the inauguration of the consolidated school. The consolidated school would be stil more efficient if the teachers lived in the more remote sections and drove with the scholars in the van to school. This would take little more time and would have the students under the teacher's supervision from the time they left home till they returned.

Miss Fisher, dean of the School of Household Science, also spoke. She favored a course in household science in the public schools. Such things as sewing and cooking could be easily taught, but would require wel trained teachers.

The session closed about four oclock, and will resume some time in January. The comisisoners went by boat to the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club for dinner, and thence to Montreal, where they resumed their sitting to-day.

.. A GARDEN OF THE SEA. ..

(From the Manilla 'Times.')

Port Galera is one of the most beautiful spots in this part of the tropics and when the islands are developed will be one of its great show places. There are two entrances to the harbor and both are remarkably pretty. Rugged bluffs alternate with stretches of gleaming white beaches and the water is clear as crystal. Cocoanuts and fan palms line the shore and the scenery is distinctly tropical.

Along all the beaches lie a series of wonderful sea gardens. There are coral structures of almost every shape and design imaginable, and around them are gardens and groves of sea plants and trees. Through them play hundreds of colored fish, some of them brilliant hues, others deep purple, others white, with curious black and yellow stripes. The wonderful clarity of the water permits a perfect view of all this submarine life.

Under favorable conditions the bottom can be seen at sixty feet, and at half that distance, when the water is still, the smallest objects may be plainly seen. The coloring is wonderful. The sand is almost pure white and above it are the greens, blues, reds and yellows of the coral plants and rocks, and these effects are further heightened by the wonderful painted fish that play around.

Men who have seen the sea gardens at Bermuda, the Bahamas and Catalina declare that those of Port Galera are quite as wonderful and marvel that they are so little known. Governor-General Forbes visited the port some time ago and so interested has he become that he has ordered a glass bottom boat, in which he intends to make a more thorough exploration. Port Galera is ninety miles from Manilla, and although it is close to Verde Island Channel, is not visited by many steamers. The number includes the Lord Mayor of Dublin and the presidents of the chambers of commerce of Dublin and Belfast, the town clerk of Queenstown, Sir Edward Fitzgerald, Lord Mayor of Cork, and Sir James Long, also of Cork.

PHILIPPINE COAL.

(From 'Moody's Magazine'.)

The extent of the coal deposits of the Philippines cannot as yet be stated with much accuracy as some of the fields have not been worked at all, so that we are confined to estimates. However, according to the most conservative of these estimates the supply is sufficient to last for years. The coal fields cover a large area and the veins are reasonably thick, the principal vein which has as yet been discovered having a thickness of seventeen feet of merchantable coal. This will compare very favorably with the thickness of veins in the other coal fields of the world, being several times the average thickness of the coal veins on the continent of Europe. Other veins are much thinner, but for some time these will not need to be worked. Nor for some time will it be necessary to resort to deep mining. In the Uling mines alone nearly 1,000,000 tons are to be found above the river level.

While 1,000,000 tons of coal does not seem a large quantity to Americans it means an enormous amount to the development of the industries of the Philippine Islands. But this is only one of the many mines in the Island of Cebu, which is but one of the many coal producing islands of the archipelago.

The total number relieved was 942,837, but this showed a decrease of 17,011 as compared with the corresponding half. If the special classes of insane and casual paupers are excluded, the aggregate numbers on the indoor and outdoor relief lists (809,842) amounted to 22.6 per 1,000 of the population, a decrease of 0.9 per 1,000, as compared with January 1, 1909.

Mr. William Dover, of Heswell, Cheshire, who died recently, left instructions in his will that the personal mourning of his daughter should be moderate and simple, that she should not risk health by attending his funeral, and requested her to exercise the strictest economy over the burial. A Cardiff newspaper has discovered that there is a Bow street, also a Piccadilly, near Aberystwth; but this imitation of London is by no means an unfamiliar feature in the provinces. Manchester has its Piccadilly too. Birmingham has its Lombard street; its Ludgate hill, at the top of which stands St. Paul's; its Fleet street, and its Snow hill. Seven miles away from Birmingham is the little country town of Solihull, which has its Drury lane. And no doubt other towns could supply similar instances. Torquay and Bath offer further instances of towns which have streets named after famous thoroughfares in London. Bath has its Kensington and Grosvenor—not districts of the city, but terraces of residences, added effect to the appellations being given by dropping the word street, road, or terrace. Torquay has its Strand and Fleet street, which, as in the case of London, run into one another. The Strand of Devonshire's beautiful seacoast town exactly describes this public thoroughfare. It consists of a broad road and wide footpath flanked with handsome shops and facing one side of the inner harbor.

The departure from Dundee of Lady Carlaw Martin, who goes with her husband, Sir Carlaw Martin (chairman of the Scottish Commission), to Australia, will create a great blank in social, political, and educational circles. Lady Martin is an able and eloquent public speaker, and was welcomed on every platform. One of the founders of the Dundee Women's Liberal Association, she has all along been a keen and earnest worker in the cause of Liberalism, and at the by-election of 1908 did much to secure Mr. Churchill's triumphant majority.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Asquith, approves of the restoration of Holyrood Palace, at Edinburgh, as Scotland's memorial to King Edward. The Prime Minister suggested that each city or district should provide a separate memorial instead of contributing to a fund for some gigantic single memorial. The chief associations of Holyrood Palace are with Mary Queen of Scots, but James II., when Duke of York, spent months, which ran into years, at Holyrood with his young wife, Mary Beatrice of Modena, then at the height of her youth and beauty. The first visit was in the winter of 1679-80, and the second from 1680 to 1682.

According to a report issued by the Registrar-General of Scotland, the national marriage rate in 1908 was 6.55 per 1,000 of the estimated population, which is 0.42 less than that of the previous year and 0.54 less than the mean rates of the preceding ten years. Marriages between bachelors and widows numbered 752, or 2.38 percent of the total marriages of the year. This number is fifty-three less than that of the previous year. The average age of all persons marrying during the year was 27.8 years, that of men being 29.1 and of women 26.4. Among the deaths recorded during the year were those of twenty-one reputed centenarians, of whom five were men and sixteen women. One woman, the widow of a crofter, was stated to be 112 years old.

IRELAND.

The death of the Right Hon. Hedges Eyre Chatterton, formerly Vice-Chancellor of Ireland, is announced. He was 92.

Consumption has decreased in Ireland from 11,293 cases in 1908 to 10,594 cases in 1909. The reduction is attributed in the main to the work carried on by the Woman's National Health Association.

Mrs. Jack, an old lady of Bray, was taken ill, and at the suggestion of a friend the house was searched by the police. They found hidden in egg cups, teapots, tea-cups, and under the bed £1,000 in gold. The lady had also a bank book showing she has £200 in a Dublin bank and a number of securities in various companies.

For some time past the War Department has been devoting particular attention to the defence of Lough Swilly and with a view to increasing the impregnability of the forts are putting in modern guns. Already part of the machinery has been landed for the new guns, which are of the calibre technically known as 9.2 mark 9, with a carrying capacity of 18 miles.

A pathetic story comes from Carrick-on-Shannon, Leitrim. Recently there was a large gathering at the Rolage Chapel of the little village of Cootchall on the occasion of a double funeral, the deceased being two young women who had been inseparable from girlhood, and 'in death they were not divided.' Two coffins covered with rich floral emblems enclosed the remains of the girl companions, Bridget Reman, aged twenty, and Mary Doherty, aged twenty-one. Both belonged to the same locality, both girls became ill from consumption. They communicated with each other daily, and recognizing that their end was approaching, expressed the wish that they would not survive one another. The young women passed away calmly at the same hour.

An official return of the appointments in connection with the Courts of Justice in Ireland reveals the fact that five of the salaried officials have held office for upwards of half a century. Mr. Hugh Doyle, chief clerk in the King's Bench Bankruptcy Division, now seventy-seven years of age, has been in the service sixty years. Next to him comes Mr. H. Vivian Yeo, registrar of the King's Bench Division, and Mr. Edward J. Greene, chief clerk in the King's Bench Division, each counting fifty-three years' service. Mr. James Skelton, first clerk in the Waterford District Registry, has a record of fifty-two and a half years' service, and Mr. F. B. Fletcher, a first-class clerk in the Judgment Record and Writ Office, has fifty-one years' service.

HOW TO WASH WINDOWS.

(From the 'Storekeeper'.)

Strange as it may seem, there is a right and wrong way to wash windows, and as this operation is usually dreaded, the following method will doubtless be appreciated, as it saves both time and labor. Choose a dull day, or at least a time when the sun is not shining on the windows, for when the sun shines on the window it causes it to be dry streaked, no matter how much it is rubbed. Take a painter's brush and dust them inside and out, washing all the woodwork inside before touching the glass.

The latter must be washed slowly in warm water diluted with ammonia—do not use soap. Use a small cloth with a pointed stick to get the dust out of the corners; wipe dry with a soft piece of cotton cloth—do not use linen, as it makes the glass linty when dry. Polish with tissue paper or old newspaper. You will find that this can be done in half the time taken where soap is used, and the result will be brighter windows.

DIED.

ST. CHARLES—The funeral of the late Mr. F. X. St. Charles, president of the Hochelaga Bank, will take place on Friday next, 23rd instant. DOGS WILL BE DESTROYED,

If Owners of Fighting Animals Do Not Turn Up.

Messrs. O. Bastien and Paul Theoret, proprietors of the Parisiana Nickel Theatre on St. Catherine street east, where was held last Thursday night the brutal dog fight, appeared in private before Judge Lanctot, acting Recorder, this morning, on the charge of having permission for the holding of the fight. They pladd not guilty, but the proof was against them, and a fine of $5 and costs was imposed in each case.

With the owners of the dogs were in question now agitating the minds of the persevering police who raided the theatre while the combat was in progress last Thursday night. Chief Lamoureau has advertised that the dogs seized are at the central station, may be said there, if claimed by their owners. No owners have shown up, however, and if none appear before to-morrow the dogs will be destroyed.

TELLS OF CORRUPTION.

New York Railway Paid $30,000 to Political Fund.

New York, Sept. 21.—The admission that the Metropolitan Street Railway Company not only had made contributions to the campaign funds of both the Republican and Democratic State organizations, but that its president had been called on repeatedly to take up stock accounts of $20,000 and $30,000 carried by certain individuals, inferentially legislators, was made by H. H. Vreeland, former president of the company, before the committee now investigating legislative graft here.

GANG OF FALSE ALARMISTS.

'It's my opinion,' said Instructor Doolan, of the Montreal Fire Brigade, to the 'Witness' this morning, 'that all these false alarms are coming in from the same little gang; I also believe that they are being turned in by ex-firemen, taking it out of their old companions. The handling of the boxes shows in every case a certain amount of skill, because an expert and an amateur do not send in an alarm the same way. Then the way in which two or three alarms are sent in every night from regular beats in sequence with each other at carefully calculated intervals, shows that the people who are doing it know what they are about.'

There were three alarms this morning around 3 a.m., calling out the same men.

PLAYED GOOD-BYE TO CANADA.

A telegram to the Canadian Northern Railway states that a last tuneful good-bye to Canada was played by the Grenadier Guards band as the 'Royal Edward' passed Belle Isle. Lonely watchers on the cliffs heard the music from the near-by passing steamer, and waved a response, sending bon voyage wishes through wireless.

NOTICED GAYNOR 'BOOM.'

Much Interest in Governorship Nomination.

New York, Sept. 21.—Mayor Gaynor was the only one of the possible candidates for the Democratic governorship nomination that Chairman John A. Dix, of the Democratic state committee, discussed to-day. What most impressed him during his tour of the counties, he stated, was the 'intense interest in Mayor Gaynor.'

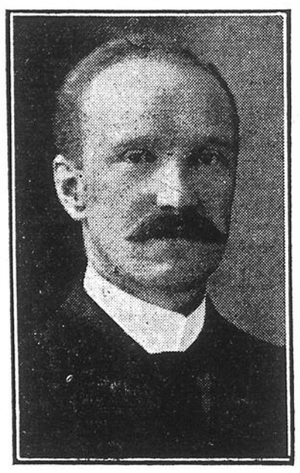

'In every county I visited,' said Mr. Dix, 'and I have been in every one except three or four, there was a remarkable desire for information about the Mayor.'

'If Mayor Gaynor is nominated for governor, however,' continued the state chairman, 'I believe the movement will have to come from one of the up-state counties. New York has a good mayor and it wants him where he is.'

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1910

The Mayor is reported as saying that it should be obligatory for all children to go to school, and the law should be enforced in the matter. It is pleasing to hear so important a principle enunciated in such distinguished quarters. We have in this expression the assurance that if it were obligatory by law the Mayor would see the law carried out. The lamentable fact is that we have no law to that effect, and that parents may allow their children to run idle, or set them to earning money for them instead of going to school. The boy is needed at home; or the boy is needed in the shop; or I cannot get on without the boy's earnings, selling papers or as an errand boy. Such are the excuses with which even well-meaning but shiftless parents allow their children to grow up in ignorance to lives as shiftless as their own. Many children learn only evil at home, or rather on the streets, which is their real home, having no place indoors. It is impossible to find words strong enough to characterize the folly of a community that does not protect its children in the right of getting a start in life that will open to them all life's possibilities, and without which they must remain helots and a danger to the community through their ignorance; for it is ignorance that elects the Proulxs and the Girouxs after they have shown what they are. To the community such a law would cost little or nothing. We have the school system. The opportunity is within the reach of all; but there are many parents who criminally neglect it. Why we have not such a law we have never been able to divine. The objection always raised is that to require parents to send their children to school would be an interference with the parents' God-given rights. The argument is too silly to be gravely stated. Surely in this matter it is the children that have rights. It might as well be urged that the law should not require parents to feed their children because that is a matter which by divine ordinance belongs to the parent. The plea is a good one when the parents educate their own children, or provide for their education. It is no plea at all when they do not.

Prisoners can only be restored to manhood or saved from losing their manhood by being put to the most useful work that can be given them, and by being thus made to feel that they are, even though under restraint, filling their place in the social system. New Zealand has solved the problem of finding remunerative work for its prisoners in various ways, but in none more pleasing than in her afforestation work. An extensive scheme of afforestation is now in progress in New Zealand, to provide against the depletions caused by the growth of the saw-milling industry, and for a portion of this work state prisoners are employed. The planting is supervised by experts, camps controlled by gaol officials and formed near the sites of the various nurseries and plantations, and in Rotorua alone more than twenty-four million trees have been planted by prison labor. We can well believe that 'not 'only have the results been satisfactory from the point of view of afforesta-'tion, but also the conditions of the 'camp life exercise a most beneficial 'influence on the characters of the pri-'soners.'

The world is moving, and in the way of betterment. Evidence of this comes to us in the form of a remarkable series of by-laws which have to be observed by landlords and lodgers in the slum areas of Nottingham. The by-laws have the approval of Mr. John Burns and the Local Government Board, and the provisions number thirty-five. It is provided, among other things, that lodgers must have the floor of every room thoroughly swept once a day and thoroughly washed once a week, either on Friday or Saturday before noon; lodgers must open wide the windows of bedrooms while sleeping, and for one hour in the afternoon. In addition, the keeping of animals is the subject of regulation. For each offence against the by-laws the maximum penalty is five pounds. The regulations affect only those paying less than five shillings, or about a dollar and a quarter, weekly, for each room. The health committee believes that the by-laws will have the effect of improving the conditions of life in the poorest districts where they are a danger to the health of the community. Equally stringent laws apply to landlords of such property. Special inspectors are to be employed to see that the provisions are properly carried out. They might with advantage extend their inspection to many places where much more than five shillings a week rental is paid.

TYPHOID IMMUNITY.

In a month when typhoid fever is generally most active, it is interesting to learn that during the past eighteen ...onths twelve thousand men of the United States army have been vaccinated for typhoid fever; and that of these twelve thousand only three men have since been attacked by the scourge; while there has not been a death from the disease in the whole number. In others blocks of the army containing twelve thousand men there have been an average of seventy-two cases of typhoid in the same time and seven deaths. These statistics have been compiled by the medical corps of the United States Army and they prove, according to that authority, 'that the disease that is al-'ways with us, that scourge of the 'country districts, that worst of 'enemies in time of war may be met, 'muzzled and all but subjugated.' Mr. William Atherton Dupuy, in the New York 'Times,' reminds us that the month of September is the worst in the year for typhoid. 'Just now there 'are twice as many cases of it in all 'the cities as at any other season. 'This is because the summer vaca-'tionists have returned from the coun-'try, have brought the rural disease 'with them and have spread it to 'others. It is ever so in the fall, and 'every health department knows 'whence the disease comes. It is 'therefore timely that announcement 'of the great steps toward its eradica-'tion should be made.' As in so many other things for the good of the world the British have led in the successful war against typhoid. Mr. Dupuy gives them due credit. He recounts how the battle that the British were waging against disease in India in the 90's led from inoculations for the prevention of cholera to the application of the same principles to typhoid. Sir Almroth E. Wright, of the British forces, made a vaccine and tried it on two men. He was carried away with the results. The men became immune.

The English and the Germans began the long march toward developing the right serum and its right application to the individual. The most satisfactory check on results was obtained by Colonel Leishman, of the British army. Leishman vaccinated 5,473 men of the British army. These men all belonged to sixteen regiments which had been selected for a carefully controlled investigation on a large scale. As each of these regiments was in turn ordered to service in India, a medical officer, who had been especially trained for this particular duty, was attached. He lectured to the troops on the prevention of the disease and called for volunteers and immunized them. As this medical officer is always present with the regiment in all its journeys, he is able to keep careful records of all men immunized, and to care for and to vaccinate additional volunteers and recruits from time to time as opportunity offers. From his knowledge of typhoid fever and clinical laboratory methods he is enabled to make an accurate diagnosis in all suspicious cases. From his statistics the following results have been obtained: Among 12,083 men there were 5,473 inoculated and 6,610 uninoculated. Among the former there were 21 cases of typhoid, with 2 deaths, and among the latter 187 cases and 26 deaths. Among the exposed regiments which had been inoculated with the vaccine in use at present there were 3.7 cases per 1,000, against 32.8 per 1,000 among the untreated. 'The observations of this 'group of twelve thousand odd men,' says Mr. Dupuy, 'cover a period of 'more than three years, and no more 'perfect or convincing statistics are 'needed to show the value of this 'method of prophylaxis. It seems to 'show that beyond a doubt the death 'rate has been reduced 90 percent. 'Yet the process was still young and 'the "Yankees" had not begun work.'

To-day, however, the experts of the United States army are attacking the disease thoroughly through vaccination. We read that when an individual is found 'to have typhoid he is imme-'diately vaccinated. This vaccination 'develops more rapidly than does this 'disease. The object and effect are 'the development of an antitoxin, an 'element in the blood that will make 'the disease ineffective. The idea is 'new, and the men of science who 'are handling it refuse to make any 'statement until it has been demon-'strated over and over again that it 'is effective. It may be said, however, 'that some marvellous cures have been 'effected in this way. They would in-'dicate that vaccination may reduce 'typhoid which has now been reduced 'to a disease with only half the force 'that it has had under the old meth-ods.' So the men of the medical school of the army, concludes Mr. Dupuy, are getting to the point where they are willing to stake their reputations on the benefit of vaccination. They believe that they have proved as a scientific fact that this is the method by which the disease should be fought. They believe that the system will be the means of saving some hundreds of thousands of good lives. In the United States the government has gone so far as to prepare vaccine in abundance, and furnishes it freely to practitioners in whom it has confidence; that is to say, men who it believes will handle it properly and will report results. It is being scattered broadcast, we are assured, in that way, and soon all the world, including Canada, is expected to come under its beneficent results.

EDUCATIONAL INTERESTS

Discussed at Interesting Meeting of New Rockland Citizens.

New Rockland, Sept. 20.—A very interesting public meeting was held at the schoolhouse here on Saturday evening in connection with education. On motion of Mr. S. Fraser, chairman of the school commissioners, the Rev. H. C. Sutherland, M.A., of Kingsbury, was appointed chairman. The speakers of the evening were Mr. P. S. G. Mackenzie, Provincial Treasurer, and Mr. J. C. Sutherland, B.A., of Richmond, both members of the Provincial Council of Public Instruction.

Mr. Mackenzie, M.P.P., spoke very ably and earnestly on the educational question. He thought that there was no more important question in the province to-day than that of improving the quality of the rural schools. The future of the province depended upon the way that this question was grappled with. There was not the slightest doubt that we were behind the other provinces in rural education. No better proof of this was needed than the fact that our best teachers were constantly being attracted to the other provinces by the larger salaries they could obtain there, with the consequence that one half of the teachers in our own rural schools are without any qualification whatever. He felt that this was nothing less than a disgrace to us, and that we should be ashamed of the miserable salaries we offer to our teachers at a time when wages are advancing in every other kind of service. The government was endeavoring to do its share in bringing about a better state of affairs. Its aid to education had, in a few years, increased from less than three hundred thousand dollars a year to nearly eight hundred thousand dollars a year, and he believed that it would soon reach the million-dollar mark. But the contributions of the ratepayers had not been increasing at the same rate, although only a few extra mills of taxation would make a great difference in the position of affairs. Speaking as an individual, the Provincial Treasurer said he thought the time had almost arrived to take into consideration the question of making all the contributions of government dependent upon the particular efforts made by the local boards. He urged all present to give their earnest attention to this important question, in order that qualified teachers may be obtained in all of our schools.

Mr. J. C. Sutherland addressed the meeting on the question of the attitude towards education, which frequently prevails where there is a lack of appreciation of its benefits. He was constantly hearing criticisms, for instance, of the subjects taught in our academies. What is the use of Scott's 'Ivanhoe,' of algebra and geometry? These questions were asked by people who prided themselves upon being practical in their views. As for 'Ivanhoe,' his answer was that the boys and girls who obtained an insight into the literary merit of Sir Walter Scott would be less apt to fall back upon detective stories and cheap novels for their mental recreation, and that was surely a moral benefit to the country. As for algebra and geometry, these were indispensable, for instance, to the mechanic of to-day who wished to advance himself to the best kind of work. The school curriculum was wider to-day than it was sixty years ago, but the machinery of modern life was also more complicated. Speaking of arithmetic, which many complained was not well taught, Mr. Sutherland said he thought there was some truth in the criticism. It was not as thoroughly taught as it was fifty years ago in New England. The people of New England were a shrewd, commercial people, and had always laid great stress on that practical subject. However, the Protestant committee recognized the force of the criticisms, and had recently made the subject compulsory in second grade academy, in addition to the work in the previous grades. The speaker referred to the deep interest in educational progress manifested by Sir Lomer Gouin and Mr. Mackenzie. Henry the Fourth of France, in urging with his great minister, Sully, the progress of agriculture in that country, had said that he wanted every one of his subjects to be sure of a chicken in the pot every Sunday—these gentlemen wished to have the lamp of knowledge burning brightly in every rural school of the province.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the two speakers. In his reply, Mr. Mackenzie referred to the fine interior of the school, both the walls and ceiling being finished in hard wood.

For some years, owing to special local conditions, the board had been unable to comply with the requirements of the school law, and had been deprived of the ordinary annual grants. By special effort, however, they had reinstated themselves, and Mr. Mackenzie obtained a grant of three hunhred dollars, which was much appreciated.

THE ANGLICISING OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH IN NORTH AMERICA.

The decision of Bishop Fallon prohibiting the teaching of French in the Catholic schools of the diocese of London is causing much comment in the French press.

Referring to the subject, the 'Presse' says:—'The church tells us that religious teaching should be held in the school, and it insists so much on that point that it does not allow Catholics to send their children to a neutral school. But if that teaching be essential to our salvation, how is it that a group of young souls are refused the opportunity of being able to understand these essential things? The order of Bishop Fallon cannot be excused in any way.'

After mentioning that the census of 1901 showed the Catholic population of the diocese of London to be 28,249 French and 30,701 English-speaking, the article adds:—'Therefore, the French-Canadians were already about half the Catholic population of the diocese of London, nine years ago, and there is no reason why they should not have since progressed as everywhere else in Ontario, so that next year's census may perhaps show that they now form a majority. Is that what offends Bishop Fallon, the assimilator?'

As the 'Presse' has already stated concerning the United States, there are some Irish bishops who evidently do not know what apostleship means, and who, as a matter of fact, do not belong to the religion.'

Speaking on the same subject, the 'Patrie' says:—'Let us hope that the Bishop of London will get in Rome the reception which he deserves, especially now that we have received the visit of the Cardinal Legate. Let us hope that he will be told there whether or not it is necessary to speak English only in order to be a Catholic.

'His Eminence Cardinal Vannutelli, during his stay in Montreal, spoke nothing but French. At his age, he has not yet had time, it appears, to learn Bishop Fallon's language, and this, they say, does not prevent him from being an excellent Catholic.'

'The francophobe Bishop of London took the advice of Bishop Bourne too much to the letter, and he also went too quickly to work.

'Is it possible that those good people who preserve the faith of their French ancestors, who multiply, who are now strong enough to be represented in the government of the old English and Protestant province of Ontario, should deserve no more regard on the part of an Irish bishop.

'We are convinced that our compatriots will not lose courage. They have faced many other trials. The French race had to battle in the past, and they triumphed over every obstacle, over every ill-will, over every persecution. The Acadians of the Maritime Provinces now freely teach French in their schools, and they will soon have bishops of their own origin. We would be surprised if our brethren in North Ontario were not successful in doing and obtaining the same thing. They have friends in the public administrations, in the Canadian church, and in Rome, we trust.'

RELIGIOUS TOLERANCE.

Roman Catholics Enjoy More Privileges in Canada Than Elsewhere.

The 'Tribune,' of Sherbrooke, the only French daily in the eastern townships, speaking of religious tolerance in Canada, says: 'It may seem strange, it may seem wrong, and it may continue to seem impossible for other nations to understand the liberty and tolerance that reign throughout the whole of Canada. We here enjoy privileges that do not exist in any other country, in any other kingdom, or republic. Our religious liberty and our political independence have reached what may almost be called an ideal stage. There was a time in the history of humanity when the fact of being a Roman citizen was the greatest honor and the source of all privileges at that period. Two thousand years have passed, and Canada, up to that period known to the Amighty alone, has slowly emerged from darkness, and has become one of the most powerful provinces of the Catholic faith. At the present date, there is no greater privilege, there is no greater honor, than to be and to call one's self a Canadian. Indeed it is an honor and a privilege to be the citizen of a country where one can practice the religion of his childhood without being exposed to annoyance on the part of the governing power.'

After mentioning the fact that, in the United States, which boasts so much of liberty and tolerance, no Catholic has yet been able to reach the presidency, the article adds:—'Here in Canada, creed prejudices have for a long time been a thing of the past. At the present day again, the first citizen in Canada, the Federal Prime Minister, is one of our own people, both in creed and nationality. Thompson was also a Catholic, and that did not prevent him from reaching the highest positions. These men were brought to the first rank by a nation holding very different creeds, and rather by the votes of citizens who did not share their religious views, for the Protestants are more numerous than the Catholics in Canada. Leaving aside all political allusion, and simply speaking of a matter of fact, we might add that no Prime Minister ever occupied that position with greater honor and dignity than the present Prime Minister. It is an honor and a privilege, we repeat, to live in a country where our faith and our language are respected, and where a statute recognizes the existence and legitimacy of both. The benefits of civilization have, here more than anywhere else, dispelled the prejudices of race and religion. It is that tolerance which lives with us, that will enable us to make of the Canadian people a strong and prosperous nation.'

STEER CLEAR OF RACES!

Judge Leet's Advice to Kingston Tipster.

Thomas Kelly, the young man who was accused of having sold tips at the Blue Bonnets race track a week ago last Monday, pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Leet in the Police Court this morning, and was allowed to go with the two weeks' imprisonment he has already suffered.

'What do you say to the charge, Kelly?' asked the Magistrate flourishing a dozen pink tips on the races supposed to have been sold by the accused.

'I did sell some, your Honor,' replied Kelly, who wore a green necktie like the immortal Kelly.

'You follow the races?

'No Sir, I live in Kingston, and I just came down for these ones.

It was explained that the accused was an employee of the Canadian Milling Company.

The Judge said that the imprisonment the young man had already suffered was sufficient punishment for the offence, and advised him to steer clear of race tracks, and in particular the office of a tipster in future.

LIGHTING REPORT READY

Controllers Decide Which Concern or Concerns Should Get City Contract.

This morning the Board of Control decided to what concern or concerns they would recommend the contract for lighting the city be given. But what their decision is has not been made public. The report will be signed by the city clerk to-night, and will be ready for the consideration of aldermen to-morrow morning.

Only one thing definite is known, and that is that two of the offers, all things considered, are very nearly alike. One seems to offer a bargain for the moment, but the other gives promise of better things for the future.

COURT OF KING'S BENCH

A Peculiar Situation Develops in Attempted Murder Trial.

One of the most peculiar cases ever before the criminal court in Montreal was opened yesterday when Louis de Soulle was charged with attempting to murder Albina St. Jacques by shooting. The latter was the first witness called, and her story caused the judge undisguised surprise.

According to the evidence of the victim of the shooting, she had been living with the accused for a month in a room on St. Elizabeth street. About midnight, between the fourth and fifth of July, the pair went to a restaurant on Lagauchetiere street, near St. Dominique street, for supper. While waiting for the food to be prepared she sat in the kitchen, while de Soulle went out to get some beer. She was already partly intoxicated, and on the night before the accused had reproved her for drinking more than was good for her. On the night of the shooting, however, they had had no cross words. When de Soulle returned to the restaurant he took a revolver out of his pocket and examined it. She was nervous, and told him to put it away. It was not pointed at her, but she waved it away with her hand, and it was discharged a bullet striking her on the left side of the head. She did not lose consciousness, but de Soulle caught her in his arms and was trying to take her to the General Hospital when two policemen came along. They took the accused in charge and took witness to the hospital. The bullet was extracted, and she had completely recovered. She had made no complaint against the accused and did not believe he ever intended to shoot her. All the proceedings for the prosecution had been taken by the police against her wishes. She said she had taken food to the accused twice a week while he was in prison awaiting trial and had seen him once.

Mr. St. Julien, who was defending the accused, suggested that it was little use proceeding with the case under these conditions, and even intimated that His Lordship would be doing a good action if he could marry the couple. The judge replied that he might perform the civil part of the ceremony, but not the religious portion of it.

At this stage it was decided to adjourn to this morning, when the police would be heard before the case would be finally disposed of.

The case was continued this forenoon, the new witnesses being Constables Lamontagne, Martin, and Daoust, a prisoner from the jail named Dupuise, Philip Gingras, and a chum named Gill. No new evidence of importance was adduced. The police said they found no traces of blood in the restaurant, and thought the shots they heard were fired in the street.

Dupuis, who kept the restaurant, appeared in prison garb, with a wounded hand. He said his cook told him that he had wiped up the blood as quickly as possible, and told the police nothing. Gingras said he was near enough to the scene of the trouble to hear the loud talking, but he heard no shots ,and Gill corroborated this evidence. The case ws not concluded at noon.

DEMONSTRATION PREDICTED.

Ald. Tetreau Says Students Are Coming to Council to Shout For Tri-color.

It appears the Rah Rah boys are to take a hand in to-morrow's meeting of Council, when the flag question will again be discussed. At least such is the statement made by Ald. Tetreau this morning. The French students, he says, are purposing to come in large numbers, and will show what they think of the slight, which some hold was put upon the tri-color during the week of the Eucharistic Congress, when it was given a rear position on the roof of the City Hall.

If the students are there the proceedings should be interesting, for Mayor Guerin will be in the chair, and on matters of proper proceeding the Mayor is exceedingly particular. Should a demonstration be attempted it is quite safe to predict His Worship will take a hand.

BROTHERHOOD'S STRENGTH

Mason, Under Sad Circumstances, Sent to Friends in England.

Sydney, C.B., Sept. 21.—An instance of the strength and value of brotherhood is contained in the story of Joseph Wood, of Sydney Mines, a company whom home from England Dr. Lewis Johnstone has left here.

Mr. Wood, who is an accountant in the employ of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, went to England upon the business of the company some months ago. While at the home of his sister in the Old Country he became mentally affected, and was placed in a private sanatorium for treatment. He is an Englishman who has made his home in this country and his wife and family are still at Sydney Mines.

He is, however, a Mason, and was fortunately so, for his case was taken up by the members of the fraternity in this section, and they are making possible his reunion with his family. Since the beginning of his unfortunate illness they have sent money remittances to England, which have prevented their brother member from becoming a public charge, and they are handsomely completing the details of their care by sending Dr. Johnson to accompany him and see careful professional treatment for him during the trip thus being assured. Although it is hoped that the man's mental trouble is only temporary, it is true that but for the kindly action of his brotherhood friends he might never rejoin his family.

WOULD SHOOT MURDERER

The inquest was held on the body of Antonio Mazzacotti, who was murdered on Sunday evening in Notre Dame de Grace. Dr. Dugas described the wound, which he said had been made with a sharp instrument such as a poignard. It was three inches deep and about an inch in width at the entrance to the body, penetrated the heart, and must have caused instantaneous death. Several new witnesses were heard, but no new facts were brought out, except when one of the witnesses casually mentioned that had he been at the scene of the murder when it was committed he would have shot Salvators Rappozzi, the accused. Indications that the Italians in court were not going to let the matter rest were very evident.

The Italian detective, Insinia, stated that he learned that Rappozzi was in Cote St. Paul yesterday, but had been unable to trace him.

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE

Session Will Likely Begin Early this Year—Appointments Rumored.

Quebec, Sept. 21. — All indications look to an early opening of the next session of the Provincial Legislature. It is known that at the Liberal caucus, held before the close of last session, the majority of the members asked that the House meet earlier than usual next year. It has been announced semi-officially that the next session will begin early in January, and it is said that each department has been instructed to file its reports at the earliest date possible.

A rumor in political circles to-day states that Mr. Blais LeLetellier will be made judge of the Superior Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Justice Gagne. The rumor further states that Mr. Barthe, editor of the 'Vigie,' will be appointed to the Legislative Council to replace Mr. Letellier.

WENT TO HELP.

And Met His Death in Doing So.

Zotique Gosselin, 45, of 600 Chambord street, Montreal, met his death yesterday in the quarry at the top of Delorimier avenue as the result of going to the aid of his fellow workmen. Although his work kept him in a sheltered part of the quarry, when a lull came he went over to assist the men loading the boxes of stone on to the derrick. Men who are accustomed to the work step aside when the stones are drawn up, but Gosselin failed to do this, and was crushed to death when the machinery failing the great load descended suddenly striking him on the left shoulder. He was still living when placed in the ambulance, but died before reaching the hospital. At the coroner's inquest to-day a verdict of accidental death was returned.

CONTROLLERS FEAR DELAY.

Hope Aldermen Will Pass Their Report on Lighting Immediately.

The Controllers were somewhat troubled this morning by the news that some members of Council would move 'next meeting' when their report on the lighting question comes before Council to-morrow afternoon.

'The thing has to be settled immediately,' said Mr. Ainey. 'I hope there won't be too great delay.'

'We don't want the city in darkness,' said Mr. Wanklyn. 'That is likely to occur, you know, only have until the end of October to complete arrangements.'

GRAIN ELEVATOR FILLED.

The Harbor Commissioners' grain elevator is once more filled with grain, but work is suspended for several hours every day owing to the fact that there is but little grain moving eastwards from here, while the large quantities coming down the lakes are as soon as a load is taken out, the vacant space thus created is filled again. Up to the present time the bulk of this year's crop has come entirely from the west, but from the United states of America territory, which is sending its grain down first, there have been several large shipments of wheat.

'THE LIGHT THAT FAILED'

Just When Montreal Was Ready to Score the Winning Run.

THE GAME WAS CALLED.

That darkness prevented Montreal from winning another from Buffalo, is a most comforting and satisfactory way of stating the result of yesterday's game. The score was all even with one innings to go, when Umpire Hurst took off his mask and invited all the players to leave the field on account of the lack of sunshine. After several innings of rather desultory work at the bat, Montreal was just beginning to find Jessop, the gentleman who occupied the box for Buffalo, and the rest of the Buffalo outfit were busy all over fields trying to grab the good ones.

Our old favorite, Jean Baptiste Dubuc, got in his willow work at the psychological moment yesterday as usual, and brought in the run that made the whole crowd happy, as it tied the score. It happened in the eighth. Fast began it by sending a high one to Henline. Jones put a liner across to Pattee, who threw wild, and the gay and festive Jones strolled to third. Then Joe Yeager decided that it was to a certain extent up to him, and he put Dubuc in to bat and sent Winter around to run for Jones. Dubuc did his part and Winter trotted the distance. Thus was the game tied.

Buffalo decorated the score board in the first innings with two. Burchell got his mind on the game right there, and, backed by splendid work in the field, prevented all but one of the Bisons passing first during the remainder of the game. Demmitt was the shining star in the outfield, and had to raise his cap demurely to the grandstand after his third good catch.

Starr and Pattee gave brilliant exhibitions of how to make errors

The fourth innings saw Montreal lose a brilliant opportunity. With one out, Nattress got to first on a grounder to Starr. Holly put one to the same gentleman, who fumbled it. Cockill sent the ball to the same place and Starr made up for much in the unassisted double-play that followed.

DECIDING GAMES TO-DAY.

Two games to-day. The Bisons and Royals will clash twice this afternoon in an effort to catch up in some degree with the schedule. The contests will have much to do with settling which team will finish in fifth place, and they are sure to be hotly contested. Winters and Dubuc will do the pitching for the locals, while the famous Dummy Taylor will probably work in one game for Buffalo.

DEATH OF A FAMOUS BULL-DOG.

Dick Stone, the most famous of bulldogs, has died at Roseneath Kennels, Denmark hill, London S.E., from heart disease, at the age of six and a half years. His owner, Mr. Walter Jefferies, refused an offer of £1,200 for him three years ago.

Mr. Jefferies began to breed bulldogs at the age of twenty-one, and his first success. Champion Rodney Stone, was sold to Mr. Richard Croker for £1,000. Dick Stone, a great-grandson of Champion Rodney Stone, was considered to be a much finer animal. He was never exhibited, but he had a world-wide fame among dog-lovers. He was of a lovable disposition, and never showed any signs of ferocity.

NEW TROTTING RECORD.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 20.—Joan, four years old, owned by David Shaw, of Cleveland, and driven by M. McDivitt, to-day became the world's champion race trotter for fillies of her age when she defeated Dudie Archdale in a race for the Hester Columbus stakes, the last $10,000 prize that the Grand Circuit has to offer this year. Both heats were done in 2.06¼, time never before made by a trotter of Joan's class.

FOG PREVENTED FLYING.

Brieg, Switzerland, Sept. 21—Although clear weather was reported from the other side of the Alps to-day a fog that made high flying impossible continued here.

George Chavez, the Peruvian, and Weymann, the American aviator, declare that they will wait favorable weather before again attempting the cross-Alps flight over the Simplon Pass to Milan, Italy.

BIG FIELD EXPECTED

Canada's Finest Athletes Meet at Championships on Saturday.

EFFECT OF PEACE.

Ontario Men on Strike; Want All Expenses or They Will Not Come.

The fact that the N.Y.A.C. hold their annual handicaps on the same day will mean that several famous athletes will not be present at the Canadian championship meet at the M.A.A.A. grounds on Saturday. The programme will be a good one, however, and will show the most representative gathering of track athetes ever assembled in Canada.

The peace which now reigns has enabled the best men in every district to enter their names, and many towns which have never before sent representatives to a championship meet will contribute their best.

The hundred yards is the best filled event, no less than 18 entries having been received. Rosenberger and Coughen will run for the Irish-Americans, who are sending a strong team; Bobby Kerr, the Hamilton sprinter and Olympic man, is entered also; while Frank Lukeman will be among the Montreal representatives.

The other events are all well filled, except the walking event, in which Gales, of Montreal, will be the only man to oppose George Goulding, of Toronto, the Canadian champion, who recently defated Webb, the British title holder. Bill Happenny and Archibald, of Toronto, should put up a good contest in the pole vault, and in the weight events, Flanagan, of the Irish A.C., should come out a winner although there is a strong field against him.

Following is the complete list of entries, and a list of the present holders of Canadian titles, compiled by Mr. Arthur Plow, the secretary of the Quebec division, of the A. A. U. of C.:—

BALLOON UP 45 HOURS

Soared Above Lightning and Crew Saw Magnificent Spectale.

PASSED THROUGH STORMS.

'America II.' Leads in Free-to-all Race for American Championship.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 20.—The last of the thirteen balloons, which started free-for-all races at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway last Saturday afternoon, has landed and one of the most interesting balloon meets in history is ended.

The 'Miss Sophia,' William T. Ashmann, of St. Louis, pilot, came down at 6.10 p.m. on Sunday in the mountains of Calhoun County, West Virginia, miles from any railway or telegraph office, and the landing was not reported until to-day. The other two balloons which were not reported until to-day are: 'Buckeye,' J. S. Wade, of Cleveland, pilot, which descended at Showalter, Va., at 7.30 a.m. Monday, and 'New York,' Clifford B. Harmon, of New York, pilot, which landed at Portsmouth, Ohio, at 5 p.m. on Sunday.

As both endurance and distance are taken into consideration in deciding the three winners of the championship event—the three to represent America in the international meet to be held in St. Louis on October 17 next, the victors will not be known until the Aero Club of America passes on the reports of the pilots. It is probable, however, that 'America II.' leads with approximately 44 hours and 27 minutes, or almost four hours behind the American endurance record of 48 hours and 26 minutes. 'Buckeye's' time is estimated at 37 hours and 38 minutes.

The third balloon to represent America probably will be 'Miss Sophia,' as its distance is estimated at more than that of any other entrant, and its time of flight is approximated 25 hours and nine minutes.

The nearest competitor for the honor is 'Indiana II.,' Carl G. Fisher, Indianapolis, pilot, which landed near Indiana, Pa., after a flight lasting approximately 24 hours and 5 minutes.

'I have never made a voyage in which so many adverse conditions were encountered,' said Capt. Baldwin, of the balloon 'New York.' 'We encountered hot sun, cold winds, thunder, lightning and rain in rapid succession. It kept us guessing to manage the ballast under these conditions, and when we dropped on Sunday evening at five o'clock, near Portsmouth, Ohio, we had used it all up but a few pounds.

On Saturday night we were enveloped by violent rain and were generally wet and uncomfortable. On Sunday morning, however, the sun shone out, our gas expanded, and we rose to a height of 2,200 feet and kept rapidly rising till we were at an altitude of six thousand feet or more.

'About noon on Sunday we encountered one of the worst thunderstorms I have ever met with in the upper air. Only by soaring above it at a height of three and a half miles did we avert the danger of being struck by lightning. It was a magnificent spectacle as we were carried along above it.

'All the afternoon we soared along, keeping to the upper air currents and constantly throwing out ballast. At four o'clock on Sunday afternoon we found ourselves with hardly a pound of ballast left and began to look about for a good place to drop. We found such a spot on a hillside near Portsmouth, Ohio.'

Mr. Hawley had quite as eventful a trip in the forty-four and a half hours he and his companions spent in the air. They also passed through storms and heavy rains which condensed their gas.

ONE BOWLING ASSOCIATION.

Mr. Louis Rubenstein is calling a meeting for Tuesday evening next in the M.A.A.A. club house for the purpose, if possible, of forming one large bowling association for the whole of the city of Montreal.

To Be Held in Montreal High School, October 13-15.

The convention of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec will be held in the High School, Montreal, on October 13th, 14th and 15th.

A programme of unusual interest has been planned, and it is hoped that teachers of all parts of the province will be represented.

The programme of the elementary and primary school sections, with the subjects of arithmetic, reading, nature study and physical exercises, and promises to be of real practical value to the teacher of young children. The teaching of English is to receive careful consideration in this convention.

The superior school section deals with subjects of peculiar interest to teachers at this time, viz.: history, literature, geometry and writing.

There will also be addresses by President Falconer, of the University of Toronto; Dr. Snedden, of Boston; Miss Snow, of New York, and many others.

A reception will be tendered members of convention on October 14th, at 4 p.m.

SUMMER HOTEL BURNS.

Bala, Ont., Sept. 20.—The summer hotel at Camp Sutton, Muskoka was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. Only a few persons were in the building at the time of the fire, and all got out safely. The cause of the fire is unknown. The amount of the loss is between $3,000 and $4,000. The building was insured for $1,000. Mr. Richard Paterson was the proprietor of the hotel.

MONTREAL LADY WINS

CHAMPIONSHIP, 1ST. ROUND.

Easy Win for Miss D. Campbell—Ladies' Championships at Lambton.

Toronto, Sept. 21. —Miss V. Henry-Anderson, of the Royal Montreal Club, the present Canadian champion, in her game with Miss E. Cox, of Toronto, in the first round for the championship, provided most of the excitement at the Lambton Golf Club yesterday. The Montreal lady won at the end of a most strenuous match and was only one up. She has an almost perfect style, and plays a remarkably powerful game. Her driving was on the whole very good, although a little off in directions at times. Her approaching was good, and her work on the greens caused much favorable comment. The game was hammer and tongs all the way. At the 16th it was all square, but the 17th, one of the most difficult of the holes saw the fall-down of Miss Cox. The 18th was halved.

Miss Campbell, of Hamilton, was drawn with Mrs. Innes, of Toronto. The game was short, concluding on the 12th green. There was some very good golf, however, in that short time.

The scores were:

BILINGUAL SCHOOLS

Bishop Fallon's Opposition Criticised by Professor of French.

Kingston, September 21.—Mr. J. M. Lanos, professor of French in the Royal Military College, and a Roman Catholic, takes Bishop Fallon to task for his stand against bilingual schools in the London diocese. He says: 'Bishop Fallon's stand is from an educational point of view utterly unsound. On religious grounds, whatever his motives may be, his policy will lead to defection among members of his flock as has been the case in sections where the same move obtained. Non-Catholics and those opposed to the Church can but applaud him, and knowing history better than His Lordship, have already done so.'

Prof. Lanos eight years ago gave expert evidence before the Royal Commission appointed to study the school troubles in the Maritime Provinces. At that time he said the vast majority of the French people of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island were illiterate. Their children came out of the school at ages of twelve and fourteen years, knowing neither French nor English. French children were brought up in surroundings where they never heard a word of English, entered the schools where the teachers spoke only English, and sat from day to day and year by year listening to the teachers giving lessons in English, and not knowing what they were talking about. Cases were found of brighter children who could read fairly well in English without knowing the meaning of a single phrase. His conclusion was that the system of education was entirely wrong and a new system of teaching was advised whereby the French children could be taught the preliminaries in their own tongue and finally come forth pretty proficient in English, as during the last two years of their study they take up their subjects in the English language.

Prof. Lanos stated that at the Royal Commission hearing members of the Nova Scotia Government asked one of the witnesses whether the French clergy were not trying to perpetuate the French language in the Maritime Provinces in order to keep the French people within the bosom of the Church, and the witness, who was a clergyman, frankly avowed that ninety percent of the French people of the Maritime Provinces, who forgot their language, had also left the Catholic Church. .. OLD GOLD SATIN CAPE.

For some time there has been a slight tendency toward the revival of the shoulder cape and in this Paris creation we see one of the most elaborate variations of this accessory. The material is old gold satin trimmed with a fringe in self color and brown marabout bands. It is cut wide over the shoulders, with a V in the back and long stole ends in front.

TITLED SHOPKEEPERS.

The Duchess of Sutherland, who recently opened a new shop in Bond street, West End of London, where she sells needlework, is but one of many titled persons who run business establishments, many of which are disguised by fancy names.

Pseudonyms are often adopted in order to evade the Lord Chamberlain's regulation that no person who is in the retail trade can be admitted to Court, or be presented to the Sovereign.

Lady Auckland recently opened a shop in Baker street as a furniture dealer and decorator.

Lady Essex runs a laundry.

The Duches of Abercorn owns a creamery.

Lady Algernon Gordon-Lennox has a fruit-bottling establishment.

Viscountess Molesworth has just established a jam-making business, which is proving highly successful.

Lady Wimborne sells Church of England literature at 8 Dover street, under the title of the 'Church of England Book Store.'

THE NEW SEASON'S COLORS.

The greens bid fair to assume importance in the season's color scheme. The color is not insisted upon in the first showing of materials, but at the Paris openings it was distinctly emphasized and the importers all seem to be bringing over numerous models in green. Just what tone of green will be most popular remains to be seen but lovely shades of the color are many.

There are particularly lovely models and fabrics in the soft blues too, blues somewhat less vivid than the tones most prevalent in the spring, though the brilliant blues are seen too. There is a certain medium blue that is not Alice nor Gobelin nor Limoges nor any tone whose name we know but is delightful, soft and warm and it has been much used in connection with black velvet. Among the most beautiful of the new materials this hue is seen in the softest and most lustrous of crepes, with a narrow border design in black velvet on the blue ground.

Some beautiful model frocks in soft greys are built up of silk and velvet materials, and the dash of vivid purple which relieves some of the most effective grey models must be noted. This rich and soft purple as a relieving color in frocks threatens to occupy the place held by the vivid king's blue last season, though how successful it will be remains to be seen.

AUTUMN MOTORING VEILS.

For the cool days of autumn a crocheted automobile veil is in order. The veil, which is a yard square, is done chiefly in shell stitch in a shade of zephyr matching the coat.

As the motoring sweater fits so snugly about the throat the crocheted veil need only be secured at the nape of the neck. This is satisfactorily accomplished by drawing up the two ends of the veil by means of narrow elastic bands and securing them after the veil has been adjusted to the hat with ribbon ties. A veil of this order not only keeps a reasonably sized hat firmly in its proper position and protects it from a certain amount of dust, but it keeps the face from getting wind roughened.

If the motor enthusiast prefers a gauze veil to all others the best sort for early autumn is composed of two layers of chiffon in contrasting colors, like navy with Copenhagen blue, pearl grey or Empire green; brown with yellow, cream, tan; copper with pale blue, grey or white, and pale hues with Persian. The two layers of gauze are joined by buttonholing the edges with coarse sewing silk matching the darkest shade selected. They may be adjusted in bonnet fashion by means of buckle clasps of jewel set metal placed just above each ear, and as the two thicknesses of chiffon afford considerable warmth the arrangement may be worn directly upon the head or draped upon the snugly fitting crown of a small turban.

FOES TO BEAUTY.

When it is acknowledged that certain personal characteristics are enemies to beauty, how great is the need to battle with faulty instincts, even where just our appearance is concerned.

Jealous or envious folks, for instance, rarely have fresh complexions. The unwholesome feelings within affect their outward looks. Vanity is not so mischievous in its effects as envy, but it gives an intensely vacuous expression to the face.

The eyes, in women who do not conquer their instincts for deceit or suspicion, become narrow and colorless, and lose the lustre that should linger even though girlhood is left behind. To indulge irritable moods is to encourage the puckered brow, to set lines about the mouth, and induce a crop of wrinkles.

Double chins and ample waists, where disease does not bring the twofold trouble, lie in wait for the indolent woman, indolent, be it noted, in its fullest comprehension. Inactive minds, as well as inactive bodies, invariably mean superfluous fat, vivacious, intelligent women being rarely troubled with that foe to feminine grace.—Bristol 'Times and Mirror.'

THE 'WITNESS' DAILY PATTERN.

The home dressmaker should keep a little catalogue scrap book of the daily pattern cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

LADIES' WAIST.

The design we illustrate is a plain waist, with ornamental features, which means a practical garment. The main portion of the waist consists of a panel front, the edges of which are stitched to form a tuck on each side. Two short tucks at the shoulders provide the fullness. In the back a tuck turning each way gives the panel effect. At the neck the waist is cut round and a tiny collar extends from the edges of the front panel around the neck. The sleeves are the regulation shirt style and the wrists finished with a shirt cuff designed for link cuff buttons. This waist may be made of any of the wash materials, with the collar of a contrasting color, or it may be of taffeta or some soft woollen fabric; in this case, the collar should be of silk or satin. The pattern (5166) is cut in sizes 32 to 42 inches bust. To make the waist in the medium size will require 2 3-4 yards of material 36 inches wide, with a quarter of a yard of silk 20 inches wide for collar.

CONTROLLER'S POSITION

Witnesses Show that Dr. Lachapelle Attended Many Meetings.

Since the examination of Dr. E. P. Lachapelle himself in the quo warranto proceedings, instituted by Mr. A. St. Martin to unseat him from the Board of Control on the allegation that he does not devote his whole time to the city's interests, and occupies other positions involving remuneration, three more witnesses have been called up. The first was Mr. A. David, secretary of the Metropolitan Parks Commission, of which the doctor is a member. He testified that Dr. Lachapelle had attended the whole of the first meeting of the commission, which occupied the forenoon of August 8. He attended a second meeting on August 15, but left while it was in session to attend to his duties as a Controller. He was not present at a meeting held in the forenoon of the 24th, but attended one held in the afternoon of the same day.

The second witness was Mr. J. T. Leclerc, secretary of the Societe d'Administration Generale, and also of the Credit Foncier Franco-Canadien, two institutions in which Dr. Lachapelle is a director. He testified that the doctor had attended the only two meetings held by the Societe d'Administration since the 1st of February last, one of the shareholders, and the other of the directors. The shareholders' meeting was held at noon, and lasted about one and a half hours. The directors' meeting was also held at noon, and did not last one hour.

As regards the Credit Foncier FrancoCanadien, Dr. Lachapelle attended twenty-seven meetings held at 2.30 p.m. Those meetings never lasted more than one hour, and Dr. Lachapelle, who arrived late and left early, since February, may have given an average attendance of one half hour. The day and hour of those meetings were changed to suit the convenience of the doctor as a controller. An allowance of fifteen dollars is credited the directors for each meeting.

Mr. Tancrede Bienvenu, general manager of the Provincial Bank, was the third witness. He said that Dr. Lachapelle had attended thirteen of the twenty-nine meetings of the Board held since February. These meetings are held at 11.30 a.m., and generally last about one hour. Almost every time the Doctor attended since February it was upon special request from witness, when there was something important on hand, and he always came in late and left early. The directors are allowed $15.50 for each meeting, whether or not they are present, that being the proportion of the annual sum voted by the shareholders for their services.

The hearing of argument in this case has been fixed for Sept. 27.

HOBBLE SKIRT DOOMED.

Is Opinion Expressed at Dressmakers' Convention.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—The beginning of the end of the hobble skirt is noted by certain of the dressmakers gathered here to-day in convention. It is stated that skirts are already widening out. A plan to establish a dressmaking institute in connection with Chicago's public schools system will come up at a dinner of the dressmakers next Friday. Superintendent of Schools Ella F. Young representative of the Chicago Association of Commerce and others will discuss the matter. It is said that the dressmaking schools in Boston and New York have proved successful in providing much needed expert assistance to the makers of women's apparel.

VERMONT BOY SCOUTS.

Burlington, Sept. 20. — Vermont is soon to experiment with the Boy Scout idea which has proven so successful in England and Canada under the direction of Sir R. R. S. Baden-Powell and others. Byron N. Clark, of this city, field secretary of the Vermont Young Men's Christian Association, has been appointed scout master for Vermont, and has already arranged to form the first Patrol at Bennington, followed by others as may be advisable. Mr. Clark will work in conjunction with churches and schools and hopes to have the co-operation of all persons interested in the training of the youth of the state.

M.S.R. APPEAL

Against Judgment Ordering Removal of Tracks From Commissioners Street.

The important case of the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal against the Montreal Street Railway Company, came up for hearing before the Court of Appeal, yesterday. By this action the Harbor Commissioners complained that, on the 13th of April, 1902, the Street Railway Company began, and has since continued to lay, electric street railway tracks on part of the harbor property, namely, along Commissioners from St. Peter going east to Victor street, without their permission, and notwithstanding their protest and objection. The declaration concluded by demanding that the company be ordered to cease committing trespass, to remove its works, and to restore the property to its original condition, and that in default of its so doing the Harbor Commissioners be authorized to do so at the company's expense.

By judgment rendered on June 30, 1909, Mr. Justice Loranger ordered the removal of the tracks within two months and hence the present appeal by the company.

The following questions are involved in this appeal: 1. Was it necessary for the Harbor Commissioners to take proceedings in boundary before instituting their action; 2, has the Street Railway Company any right of ownership or control over the widened portion of Commissioners St., and the latter question involves two subsidiary questions, (a) Whether the Harbor Commissioners transferred the disputed territory, or control of it, to the City of Montreal or dedicated it to public use as a street; (b) whether, if they did so, they can plead ultra vires on the ground that the property is Crown property, of which they had no right to dispose.

It is also proposed to keep the club open all the year, providing reading and recreation rooms, etc. After the plans, ways and means, etc., had been thoroughly discussed by the members, it was decided that other architects be asked to submit plans and that a meeting be held in two or three weeks to choose same. The application of Mr. N. J. H. Denis for permission to build an apartment house was referred to the building inspector for his report.

PRICE OF PAINT GOES UP

Manufacturers Agree to Increase it Immediately.

A general advance in the price of paints and varnishes has been decided upon by the paint and varnish manufacturers of Montreal, and will be effective immediately.

Manufacturers in these lines have been facing a steady increase in the cost of their raw materials. Linseed oil now costs on an average from 40c to 45c per gallon higher than a year ago; turpentine from 20c to 25c per gallon higher, while flaxseed, from which linseed oil is crushed, as $1.20 per bushel higher than a year ago. There was no alternative to a large increase in the selling price of the manufactured products in order to maintain the present standards of quality.

At a meeting of the Montreal Linseed Oil, White Lead, Paint and Varnish Section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, held in the Association Board Room, 113 Board of Trade Building, yesterday afternoon, the Montreal manufacturers unanimously agreed on the following:

Resolved, that the Montreal manufacturers of paint, varnish, lead and putty are compelled in consequence of the largely increased cost of raw materials to agree that there should be a general increase in the price of all paints, varnishes and varnish products, and lead and putty, commensurate with the advance in raw materials.

This action has been supported by manufacturers of paints and varnishes in all parts of Canada who have written the Montreal section either giving advice of an increase already effective or notice of an early announcement of increases.

The trade has been largely prepared for the announcement of to-day by the action of a large number of manufacturers in withdrawing their prevailing lists and discouraging advance orders.

MACVICAR MEMORIAL.

Church's Welcome to Its New Minister.

The reception tendered by MacVicar Memorial Presbyterian Church to their minister, the Rev. J. G. Potter, B.A., last evening, was a great success. Notwithstanding a downpour of rain, the church was filled. Mr. John Scott, one of the trustees, who is also one of the founders of the church, and an enthusiastic supporter of the minister, was selected as chairman, and spoke of the past and present work of the church in the locality. Welcome was extended from the session, the board of managers and every department of the church organization. A good representation from the Presbytery was also present.

A very pleasing part of the evening's programme was the presentation on behalf of the congregation by Mr. J. T. Gladston, to the Rev. Principal Scrimger, D.D., who was the interim moderator during the vacancy, of a cheque, as a slight recognition of the valuable services rendered to the congregation. Mrs. Potter was not forgotten by the ladies, and a beautiful bouquet of roses was presented to her by Mrs. J. T. Gladston during the evening.

The Revs. Dr. Symonds, Dr. Young, J. L. Flanagan, J. Chisholm, G. I. Campbell and others representing the Episcopal, Methodist and Presbyterian churches gave excellent addresses, conveying to Mr. Potter their best wishes and a hearty welcome to his new field of labor.

Mr. Potter, sr., who had come from Toronto, was present, and was invited to say a word, made one of the most interesting speeches of the evening, which was loudly applauded. After a short response from the minister, thanking all for their great kindness, promising to work in harmony with all the churches in the district, and asking for the co-operation of his own people, the meeting was adjourned to the Sunday-school room for refreshments and an hour of social pleasure and acquaintance was well spent.

The communion will take place next Sunday morning, at 11 a.m. Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening, and preparatory service on Friday evening, at 8 p.m. It is desirable that as many as possible be present at these services.

A realistic picture of the good old coaching days in England, when travel was more picturesque, if more leisurely than it is now. There is something about a coaching trip that makes the blood stir and secured the sport as a pastime when no longer practical as a serious mode of travel. Mr. Hardy has, with a master hand, caught the spirit of action and adventure as well as the charm of rural life of bygone days, and has given it all to us as a permanent possession.

SUMMARY OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

This stirring story of invention and adventure opens in the solitude of the Arctic Circle, and Philip Cayley, a young American army officer, is at first the only human being on the scene. The disgrace following a false charge brought against him by his greatest friend, Perry Hunter, has driven him into solitude in disgust at humanity. During his four years of life alone in the north he has mastered the secret of flying, and it is while aloft that he catches his first sight of human beings for some time, and at the same time witnesses a deliberate murder. The murderer and his companions disappear. Cayley waiting until midnight descends cautiously on the hitherto unknown coast where he had discovered the men, and visiting first the ship, which is anchored to an ice floe, startles a young girl who is alone there. After they have convinced each other that they are not dreaming she tells Cayley that her name is Jeanne Fielding, and that she is at present waiting for word of her father lost years ago whose records or remains are being sought by a party from the yacht. Cayley, in turn, explains his presence, and after promising to make a search on his own account, flies away, having told her nothing of the murder he had witnessed. He leaves behind him by accident, however, the instrument he had picked up on the scene of the murder. The murderer himself, a giant named Roscoe, was one of the survivors of the 'Walrus' wrecked four years ago. The crew of eleven had been welcomed to this shore by Captain Fielding and two other survivors of the previous wreck, but for the sake of a deposit of gold known of by them, Roscoe had one day murdered all three and assumed undisputed command of the 'Walrus' men. On the approach of the yacht he had forced them to desert their huts and go into hiding. To Planck alone, the former captain of the whaler, he explains his ruse to entrap the search party now on land in Fog Lake, and after so drawing away from the yacht the inevitable relief party, take the vessel and steam away with the gold they had collected. Meanwhile on board the yacht, Jeanne and her guardian, Mr. Fanshaw, are becoming anxious when Mr. Fanshaw's son Tom is brought back by two of the party with a sprained ankle. Jeanne tells about the visit of her 'sky-man,' and on hearing his name, Tom tells her the story of Cayley's disgrace. Another member of the search party brings news of the murder witnessed by Cayley, of Perry Hunter, who had been one of the party. It is just discovered that the arrow with which Hunter was killed fits the instrument Cayley had left behind, when he returns and is met by coldness and confronted with the arrow and stick.

Cayley made no answer at all, but if Mr. Fanshaw hoped to find, with those shrewd eyes of his, any look of guilt or consternation in the pale face that confronted him, he was disappointed.

Suddenly, he turned to his son. 'Where is that thing that Donovan brought aboard with him just now?' he asked.

The blood-stained dart lay on the deck beside Tom's chair. He picked it up and held it out toward his father, but the elder man, with a gesture, indicated to Cayley that he was to take it in his hand; then, 'Jeanne, my dear,' he asked, 'will you fetch out from the cabin the stick which dropped from Mr. Cayley's belt last night?'

When she had departed on the errand, he spoke to Cayley, 'You will observe that the butt of this dart is not notched, as it would have to be if it were shot from a bow.'

He did not look at Cayley's face as he spoke, but at his hands. Could it be possible, he wondered, that those hands could hold the thing with that sinister brown stain upon it—the stain of Perry Hunter's blood—without trembling? They were steady enough, though, so far as he could see.

When Jeanne came out with the stick, he handed that to Cayley also. 'I will notice,' he said, 'that that and the groove in this stick were evidently made for each other, Mr. Cayley.'

The pupils of Jeanne's eyes dilated as she watched the accused man fit the two together, and then balance the stick in his hand, as if trying to discover how it could be put to so deadly use as Mr. Fanshaw had indicated. He seemed preoccupied by nothing more than a purely intellectual curiosity.

This coolness seemed to anger Mr. Fanshaw, as it had formerly angered his son. For a moment this sudden anger of his rendered him almost inarticulate. Then:

'We don't want a demonstration!' came like the explosions of a quick-fire gun. 'And you have no need for trying experiments. You knew how nicely that dart would fit in the groove that was cut for it. You know, altogether too well, what the stain is that discolors it. You know where we found that dart. You're only surprised that it was ever found at all—it and the body of the man it slew.'

'Everything you say is perfectly true,' said Cayley, very quietly. 'I am surprised that the body of that man was ever recovered. I'm a little surprised, also, that you should think, because this stick fell from my belt last night, and this dart, which you found transfixing a man's throat this morning—'

Tom Fanshaw interrupted him. His eyes were blazing with excitement. 'It was not from us that you learned that that dart transfixed the murdered man's throat!' he cried.

'I knew it, nevertheless,' said Cayley in that quiet voice, not looking toward the man he answered, but still keeping his eyes on old Mr. Fanshaw. 'And also a little surprised,' he went on, as if he had not been interrupted, 'that you should think, because this stick and this dart fit together, that I am, necessarily, a murderer.'

'You have admitted it now, at all events,' Mr. Fanshaw replied. His voice grew quieter, too, as the intensity of his purpose steadied it. 'I suppose that is because, upon this "No-Man's-Land," you are outside the pale of law and statute—beyond the jurisdiction of any court. I tell you this: I think we would be justified in giving you a trial and hanging you from that yard there. We will not do it. We will not even take you back to the States to prison. You may live outlaw here and enjoy, undisturbed, your freedom, such as it is, and your thoughts and your conscience, such as they must be. But if ever you try to return to the world of men—'

Cayley interrupted the threat before it was spoken: 'I have no wish to return to the world of men,' he said 'I wish the world were empty of men, as this part of it is, or as I thought it was. I abandoned mankind once before, but yesterday when I saw men here, I felt a stirring of the blood—the call of what was in my own veins. Last night when I took to the air again, after the hour I had spent on that ice-floe yonder, I thought I wanted to come back to my own kind; wanted, in spite of the past, to be one of them again. Perhaps it is well that I should be rid of that delusion so quickly. I am rid of it, and I am rid of you—bloody, sodden, stupid, blind.

'Yet, with all my horror of you, my disdain of you, I should not expect one of you to do murder, without some sort of motive, some paltry hope of gain, upon the body of a stranger. It is of that that you accuse me—'

'A stranger!' Tom Fanshaw echoed. 'Why, when you confess to so much, do you try to lie at the end? You don't think we don't know that the man you murdered was once your friend—or thought he was, God help him! Why try to make "us" believe that Perry Hunter was a stranger to you?'

The girl's wide eyes had never left Cayley's face since the moment of her return to the deck with the throwing-stick. Through it all,—through Fanshaw's hot accusation, and his own reply—through those last words of Tom's, it had never changed. There had been contempt and anger in it, subdued by an iron self-control; no other emotions than those two, until the very end. Until the mention of that name—'Perry Hunter.'

But at the sound of that name—just then, the girl saw his face go bloodless, not all at once, slowly, rather. And then after a little while he uttered a great sob; not of grief, but such a sob as both the Fanshaws had heard before, when, in battle or skirmish, a soft-nosed bullet smashes its way through some great, knotted nerve centre. His hands went out in a convulsive gesture, both the stick and the dart which he held, falling from them, the stick at the girl's feet, the dart at his own. Then leaning back against the rail for support, he covered his face with his hands. At last, while they waited silently, he drew himself up straight and looked dazedly into her face.

Suddenly, to the amazement of the other two men, she crossed the deck to where he stood. 'I'm perfectly sure, for my part, that you didn't do it; that you are not the murderer of Mr. Hunter. Won't you shake hands?'

He made no move to take hers, and though his eyes were turned upon her, he seemed to be looking through, rather than at her, so intense was his preoccupation.

Seeing that this was so, she laid her hand upon his forearm. 'You didn't do it,' she repeated, 'but you know something about it, don't you? You saw it done, from a long way off—saw the murder, without knowing who its victim was.'

'I might have saved him,' he murmured brokenly, 'if I had not hung aloft there too long, just out of curiosity; if they had been men to me instead of puppets. But when I guessed what their intent was, guessed that it was something sinister, it was done before I could interfere. I saw him going backwards over the brnk of a fissure in the ice, tugging at a dart that was in his throat. And when they had gone—his murderers—'

'They?' she cried. 'Was there more than one?'

'Yes,' he said, 'there was a party. There must have been ten or twelve at least. When they had gone I flew down and picked up that stick, which one of them had dropped.—And to think I might have saved him!'

Her hand still rested on his arm. 'I'm glad you told me,' she said. She felt the arm stiffen suddenly at the sound of Tom Fanshaw's voice.

'Jeanne, take your hand away! Can you touch a man like that? Can you believe the lies—' but there, with a peremptory gesture, his father silenced him.

But even he exclaimed at the girl's next action, for she stooped, picked up the blood-stained dart which lay at Philip Cayley's feet, and handed it to him. 'Throw it away, please,'—she said, 'overboard, and as far as you can.'

Even before the other men cried out at his doing the thing she had asked him to, he hesitated and looked at her in some surprise.

'Do it, please,' she commanded; 'I ask it seriously.'

Tom Fanshaw started out of his chair; then, as an intolerable twinge from his ankle stopped him, he dropped back again. His father moved quickly forward, too, but checked himself, the surprise in his face giving way to curiosity. As a general thing, Jeanne Fielding knew what she was about.

"BED-TIME STORIES"

OYSTERS AND STARFISH.

(By Helen B. Schoonhoven.)

The chug, chug of the oyster boat sounded clearly across the quiet harbor and we could hear the rattle of the chains and the scraping of the big oyster dredge as it came up out of the water with its heavy load and the crash and rattle of the oyster shells as they fell in huge piles on the deck.

Father rowed our little boat swiftly across the bay till we came as near as we dared to the dredge, where we watched with interest the scraping of masses of oysters from the big oyster beds by the huge machine.

'Boy,' said Father, 'who is the oyster's most dangerous enemy?'

'Man,' said the Boy, promptly, as he watched the sorting of the fresh haul.

Father laughed, for he was thinking of an enemy very remote from Boy's answer.

'You're right, old man,' he said, 'it does look as if Man was the one enemy against whom the oyster had no defence. But I was wondering if you knew what sea animal feeds on the oyster and how men have to fight it in order to have any oysters to scrape from the sea bottom.'

'I know. It's called a drill. I read about it in a book,' said the Boy. 'It has a long, sharp tongue and drills a hole in the oyster's shell and sucks him out.'

'You're right again, young Mr. Zoologist, but you haven't guessed what I was thinking about, so the answer's wrong. What do you know about starfish, with all the rest of your information?'

'I've seen them rolling along on the bottom when we've been rowing, and I tried to drag one up the other day, but he got away. I know they're something like a sea urchin and somehow related to the sea lilies and cucumbers and—well, that's all I remember.'

'You're right again, as far as you go, but there are one or two things you haven't mentioned about Mr. Starfish. He belongs to the same family as the urchin, the lily and the cucumber, and just as the sea urchin always has five teeth the starfish always has five arms, whether they are long or short, whether he is big or little. He has the same habit the sea cucumber has of throwing himself to pieces when he is taken out of salt water, and then he quickly grows new arms in the place of those he drops. These oystermen you see here working, Boy, hate the starfish more than all other sea creatures, more even than they hate the drill. For starfish are hungry beyond even a small boy's dream, and they like oysters for breakfast, dinner and supper, with morning and afternoon lunches thrown in. They have a curious way of eating. A starfish perches himself on top of an unfortunate oyster and forces his shell open. Then Mr. Starfish throws out his stomach, wraps it around the delicious oyster and draws him out slowly, but surely.

'Years ago the oystermen didn't know that starfish could grow new arms, so they used to cut them up and throw the pieces back into the water. Every piece became a new starfish, so you see they only added to their troubles. Now they kill all the starfish that come up in the dredge by steaming them. The starfish has a red eye spot in the end of each arm. He walks standing on the ends of his arms, so he looks like a stool with five legs marching straight ahead.'

Just then the oyster boat whistled a shrill note. The dredge came up for the last time and the boat swung sharply around and steamed away with a full cargo. Through the clear water, looking down, we could see hundreds of oysters still lying on the bottom, waiting to be harvested, and slowly making his way over the crusty shells came a starfish, rolling idly along in the tide, full with reasoning and waiting for the pangs of hunger to move him to seize his easy prey.—'Tribune.'

WHAT SAITH THE SCRIPTURE?

September 21.

We know that all things work together for good to them that love God.

Surely the wrath of man shall praise thee: the remainder of wrath shalt thou restrain.—Ye thought evil against me: but God meant it unto good.

All things are you's; whether . . . the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours; and ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's.

All things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God. For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day. For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory.

My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.

Rom. viii., 28. Ps. lxxvi., 10. Gen. l., 20. I. Cor. iii., 21-23. II. Cor. iv., 15-17. Ja. i., 2.4.

Woman Attending Sick Child at 4.30 a.m., When Supposed Bomb Was Hurled.

An arrest was made last night in connection with an extraordinary outrage which took place on St. Denis street, in the early hours of Saturday morning.

Madame Huet, the victim of the affair, is a widow, with four children, living at 1488 St. Denis street, and whilst attending to a sick child at about 4.30 a.m., she was startled by hearing a window crash and a heavy substance falling into a room.

Startled, she investigated and found her front room in flames. When the firemen arrived the flat was practically gutted, and they discovered a bomb in the form of a can containing gasoline, cotton wool, wood, and an ingenious arrangement by which the whole was set on fire immediately on contact.

Madame Huet was unable to give any reason for the attack upon her, except that she kept boarders, and one of them might have felt cause for revenge. Last night the detectives in charge of the case arrested a street car conductor, who is being detained at police headquarters, but no details have been given out in connection with him.

QUESTIONS FOR COMMONS.

Colonel Sam Hughes, M.P. May Discuss Eucharistic Congress.

Toronto, September 21.—The guard of militia and the wearing of official robes by ministers of state in the great Eucharistic procession in Montreal may give rise to some pointed questions in the House when Parliament meets, according to Colonel Sam Hughes, M.P., of Lindsay.

'I am very glad the Eucharistic Congress came to Canada,' said Col. Hughes. 'For one thing, it served to revive the dry bones of Protestantism and also to show that the power of the Papacy is on the wane. It awakened thousands of Protestants who have been asleep to the policy of Rome in Canada, and what may be expected if this policy continued unopposed. I may say that I am making a careful enquiry into all the facts connected with the participation of Dominion officers in the recent Roman Catholic Congress, and I intend to find out exactly what it all meant before I get through.'

WILL FORCE THE COMPANY.

Street Railway Must Lay Double Tracks as Ordered by Council.

There was some surprise in the Board of Control yesterday afternoon when Mr. Howard, assistant city surveyor, stated that the Montreal Street Railway has not constructed a double track along St. Patrick street to Davidson street. Council has ordered this work done, and the Controllers decided to instigate legal proceedings to see that it is done.

THE WESLEYAN COLLEGE.

The Wesleyan College will open this coming term on the 28th. The Rev. Dr. Shaw, principal of the college, states that there is an increase in the number of arts students, and a number of these students are taking divinity along with the arts course. The entries generally were expected to be large. A considerable number of the students come from Newfoundland. The Rev. Dr. Shaw stated that there was a dearth of clergy, and Methodists could place 100 men in the field at once if they could get them. At present they were drawing from England, where young men had the advantage of acting as local preachers. During the last ten weeks they had drawn from the Old Country several contingents of thirty to fifty each. On arriving in Montreal these men spent some time at the Wesleyan College, but they were practically trained for work in the new fields.

INJURED IN ROW.

John Sidiznagen, believed to be a Russian, was taken from the Windsor station this morning to the General Hospital, badly cut about the stomach. It was at first thought that he had been stabbed, but Chief Carpenter is of the opinion that he was injured by glass. There was a row of some kind among the immigrants, and it was during this that the man was hurt. The police are working on the case, but as yet no arrests have been made.

FIRE IN MAISONNEUVE.

STRIKE SPREADS TO SCHOOLS

Children of Non-Union Workmen Forced to Leave Classes.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 21. — A new phase of the strike in the Cumberland Railway & Coal Company's mines in Springhill is being experienced. The men have been out for fourteen months. When the schools reopened the children of the strikers went out in a body, refusing to sit beside the children of the strikebreakers or men at work in the mines. The former were in the majority, and they not only went out, but stayed out. Attorney-General MacLean went up from Halifax to Springhill and tried to reconcile the differences and get the children together, but he failed. The union men's children would not go back while the children of non-union parents remained in attendance. The school authorities, to tide over the trouble in the meantime, have asked the non-union youngsters to stay away from the school.

'MADE IN CANADA' SCHEME

Canadian Manufacturers May Start Campaign—Convention Opens.

Vancouver, B.C., September 21.—'This occasion is unique in that it marks the first time, in nine years of activity, the association has met in annual session west of Winnipeg.' Mr. Henry, the president, told the delegates in yesterday's first session of the Manufacturers' convention. Two special trains brought 300 delegates from the East, while some 200 from all parts of British Columbia joined them here in what promised to be one of the most important of the association's meetings. The first convention day was marked by an able and exhaustive address by Mr. Henry, in which he made a vigorous plea for continuance of preferential tariff in favor of the Old Country and the colonies, the desirability of Canada preserving the right she now exercises of making her own trade treaties, and strongly opposed reciprocity with the United States.

The address was the feature of a brief first day's session, at which the commercial intelligence department recommended that an advertising campaign for 'made in Canada' goods be instituted and carried on by extensive advertising. By the expenditure of $25,000 annually a circulation of eighteen million could be covered and good work done. The committee advised that large corporations in building plants employ Canadian architects who in turn should favor material from Dominion establishments. It suggested that Canada join the international convention for the protection of industries so that patents of Canadian inventors would automatically receive twelve months' protection in foreign countries. It was reported that a select number of employment agencies in the Old Country had been listed for the benefit of members of the association.

GRAND TRUNK STRIKERS.

Men Are Confident of Reinstatement.

Ottawa, September 21.—'We are confident that the Government and Department of Labor will see that the company carries out its agreement with the men in respect to the ninety-day limit,' said Mr. Sam Berry, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, last night, 'and have not approached the Government in any way officially as yet regarding this point. We do not anticipate that it will be necessary for us to draw their attention. The labor department has a copy of the agreement, and will see that it is enforced.

Messrs. Berry and Murdock were at the Windsor Hotel all day receiving deputations of the local conductors and brakeman. Mr. Murdock was paying the trainmen their second month's strike pay, and cleaning up all accounts incurred locally in connection with the strike.

KING'S GREETINGS.

Exchanged With President-Elect of Brazil.

London, Sept. 20.—King George has sent a cordial message of welcome to Marshal Hermes de Fonseca, the president-elect of Brazil, who arrived in London from Paris last night. HUSBAND IS UNDER ARREST

COUPLE LIVED LONELY LIFE.

Supposition That Tramp Committed Deed Has Been Abandoned by Police.

Havelock, Ont., Sept. 21.—A new and dramatic situation in the Belmont township mystery developed yesterday afternoon, when Hugh Delaine was arrested here by Provincial Constable Reburn on the charge of murdering his wife. The arrest was made without trouble, Delaine submitting quietly and without any statement. He will be taken to Peterboro jail until Friday, when he will be called to give evidence at the inquest.

According to statements made by the authorities here they have no tangible evidence on which to base the arrest, but some important evidence which it is expected will make a strong case against Delaine will be given at the inquest. The tramp theory has been discarded for the present.

According to neighbors of the Delaines, Delaine made repeated statements that he would go home some night and find his wife dead. Delaine and his wife were illiterate, desperately poor and shiftless. Delaine's spasms seemed to verge on insanity and he had periods of distress when he would froth at the mouth. These all incline the neighbors in the belief that he was subject to epileptic fits.

Their lonely life away from friends of any kind, devoid of all social intercourse and the little that is known about either of them all seems to lend color to the supposition that Delaine, unknown to most people, was an epileptic.

A point that it is thought will be in Delaine's favor is that according to Dr. Holdcroft, who made the post-mortem examination, there were signs of an attempt at outrage, but the murderer evidently failed in his purpose. The woman gave birth to a child last June.

County Constable Williams claims, however, to have conclusive proof of Delaine's connection with the crime. Soiled spots on the man's trousers correspond with the stains on the woman's wrapper.

CORPORATIONS BLAMED.

For Existence of Slums by Social Reform Delegate.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—At yesterday afternoon's session of the Social and Moral Reform Conference being held in this city, the Rev. H. S. Magee charged that corporations controlling the means of transportation were responsible for the existence of slums in cities by making it too expensive for working people to get into the suburbs. 'The corporations are holding us up,' he said. 'In the name of God why don't we smash these corporations?' Dr. A. D. Watson, president of the Canadian Purity Education Association, spoke on the responsibility of the church in looking after the youth.

NEW TOWNS IN THE WEST.

In their anxiety to be in on the ground floor, the G. T. P. find that a great many settlers in the West have rushed into the Fort George country, and the low water is making it difficult to get supplies in for the coming winter. From the West new towns are being located along the Grand Trunk Pacific far in advance of the steel, even in advance of the graders.

Sealey on the Skeena River has sprung into prominence with the clearing of the right-of-way. This is a river port and will eventually be called a trading point for the Bulkley Valley district. The town site is said to be very attractive, overlooking as it does, the great river. Already business houses along the coast are establishing branches at Sealey.

HOME RULERS PROTEST

CITY TOO SLOW.

Resolution Passed Urging Better Progress With the Promised Improvements.

Montreal is the 'mother' city. Notre Dame de Grace is her Ireland. Its citizens have tasted the sweets of self-government but were brought into subjection to Montreal against the will of many of them. The result is there is a group of 'home-rulers' in the sunset ward, and they are far from satisfied with the administration under the new conditions.

To air their views and strengthen the hands of their representative in the City Council, ex-Mayor George Marcil, a meeting was held in the old town hall last evening, which was presided over by Mr. Dugald Macdonald, and attended by about forty ratepayers, who claimed to represent the ward.

Their speches revealed a large number of grievances and an earnestness born of deep personal interest in the matters discussed. The wide contrast between promise and fulfilment was one of the phases of the post-annexation administration that was emphasized. The situation was made the subject of witty comment by some of the speakers, but a strong tincture of sarcasm was mingled with all prescriptions for the betterment of the body politic.

The climax to the deliberations was in the form of a resolution presented by Mr. Scott Stevenson, manager of the St. Henri branch of the Merchants Bank, seconded by Mr. John Macdonald. It was as follows:

'Resolved, in view of the terms of annexation and the time already passed; also the raising of the valuation in Notre Dame de Grace;

'That our representative, Mr. George Marcil, be instructed to bring to the notice of the Board of Control at once the necessity of living up to the terms of the contract made by the city of Montreal and Notre Dame de Grace; and that the question of toll gates, electric lighting, street car, police, fire and water services be taken up and settled at once, and definite replies be given our representative on these subjects for our information.'

This resolution was carried with only one dissenting voice, one ratepayer expressing the fear that if they went before the Controllers asking for so many things their valuation, which had already been doubled, would be raised still higher next year.

The chairman of the meeting, in opening the proceedings, remarked that there was no doubt that in the matter of annexation the city of Montreal had secured the long end of the stick. The ward had not yet obtained all the benefits it had a right to expect, but perhaps it was too soon yet to condemn the new system of administration adopted by the city or to blame the Controllers for deficiencies that might be pointed out. As for the 'ocal representative, they were not assembled to find fault with him, but to assure him of their support in his efforts to secure the improvements so much needed in the town. The city by forcibly annexing Notre Dame de Grace, and the Quebec Legislature by making such annexation possible, had set an example that no civic or legislative bodies should copy in the future. In doing this they committed an act of folly, but it had been done and the public were compelled to make the best of it as law abiding citizens. But they should stand on their rights and maintain their liberties, and if the Board of Control did not do right by them they must elect Controllers who would.

PAPERS THEIR BEST FRIENDS.

By way of suggesting means of securing the fulfillment of pre-annexation promises some counselled going to law and others going to Quebec; but Mr. Marcil advised agitation. 'We have no legal redress,' he declared, 'but we can get what we are entitled to by agitation. The papers are our best friends.'

Mr. Marcil explained a great many things that the ratepayers asked questions about, the principal statement being that when he asked the Controllers for anything they always replied: 'We have no money; you must wait for the next appropriations.' He explained the reason why the toll gate had not yet been abolished and why the street railway line had not been extended along the Upper Lachine road. He stated that owing to a mistake in the works department of the old council a sewer placed in the north side of Sherbrooke street was so shallow that it would not drain the south side. He said the representatives of the newly annexed municipalities had formed a caucus to look after their interests in the City Council.

Mr. John Macdonald said his valuation had been increased $1,500 this year, and he was anxious to know whether he could have his lots designated as farm lands so as to lower the rate of taxation.

Mr. Robert Brodie said he had read that the city had had its debt increased by $5,000,000 through annexation. He did not see any cause for complaint seeing the valuation of this one ward had been doubled, being now $8,000,000.

Another citizen complained that he had received from the city treasurer's department an account for water rates whereas there was no water service within 150 yards of his property. He was thinking of notifying the authorities to 'cut off' the imaginary supply.

Mr. Brodie, said that recently three men entered his orchard, and when ordered off threatened his man with revolvers. One of them, when arrested, had two revolvers on him. He was fined $15, which Mr. Brodie considered was not of much effect as a deterrent.

The meeting terminated with the passing of the above mentioned resolution.

MRS. FRANCIS ACQUITTED

Judge Leet Found no Evidence to Support Charge of Theft.

The case in which Miss Martha Ward, an English immigrant charged Mrs. Francis, of the 'Guild' Home, 71 Drummond street, Montreal, with stealing a railway ticket valued at $16.30, was heard in chambers by Judge Leet on Monday.

The judge considered that the evidence showed the complainant was aware that her ticket was being held at collateral for a debt of $5 claimed by Mrs. Francis, and that there was nothing to prove that it had been taken from her by force; he, therefore, dismissed the charge of theft. But, as the Guild oficers stated that they had destroyed the agreement which the girl had signed, and upon which the claim for $5 was made, the judge ordered that the disputed ticket be returned to the complainant without the payment of $5, and made no order as to costs.

LORD CLINTON HERE.

Has Nothing to Say About His Rumored Investments.

Lord Clinton, D.L., twenty-first Baron, who came from England two months ago on his way to the West for a trip, was in Montreal yesterday prior to sailing on the 'Empress of Britain' on Friday.

It was explained to Lord Clinton that when he, with several other English noblemen, was in Winnipeg, some newspapers circulated reports that these gentlemen were preparing to make huge investments in the West, and that not least of the proposed projects attributed to them was the initiation of another transcontinental railway.

Lord Clinton, this morning, had nothing definite to say as to the precise object of his journey to the Dominion, or as to what business arrangements had been completed, but he suggested that a good deal of the statements printed as to the railway matter and other affairs of less magnitude was quite unwarranted.

Lord Clinton said he had had a most enjoyable trip in every way, and he was going back to England thoroughly convinced of the security offered for investments of almost endless varieties throughout the Dominion.

TOWNSHIPS FAIRS.

Exhibition at Knowlton and Richmond Open.

Richmond, Que., Sept. 20.—Fine weather greeted the opening of the Richmond County Fair. The attendance was large, and on the whole the exhibition is far in advance of those held in previous years. To-day has been proclaimed a civic holiday. The Fifth Highlanders' band, of Montreal, is in attendance.

Knowlton, Que., Sept. 20.—The annual exhibition under the auspices of the County of Brome Horticultural Society, and also that of Brome County Poultry Association, opened here yesterday. The weather was favorable, but the number of visitors was not large, as most of the forenoon was devoted to placing the various exhibits in position. The display in the horticultural department is a very fine one, and exceeds that of last year. The same can also be said with regard to the poultry.

NEED QUIET FOR HOSPITALS.

Proposal to Arrest Those Who Make Unnecessary Noise in Their Vicinity.

In the hope of securing greater quiet in the districts in which the hospitals are located, Dr. Robt. Wilson, secretary of the Medical Board of the Western Hospital, has again communicated with the Board of Control. He states that the end is secured in Chicago, Milwaukee, Boston, Philadelphia and other cities of the United States by creating public sentiment. But everything is not left to this. Signs are hung up warning all passers-by to refrain from making any unnecessary noise in the vicinity of the hospitals, and in that district auto horns do not hoot, pedlers do not cry their wares, street musicians do not play. If any do they are taken up for breaking a by-law.

Dr. Wilson thinks some such scheme might be introduced here, but the Controllers are not certain. They are considering the question.

MONTREALER'S LOSS.

Mr. W. H. Reynolds's House and Furnishings Burned at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Sept. 21.—Among the sufferers at the Crescentwood suburb fire whose case is particularly unfortunate is W.H. Reynolds, western manager of the Eugene F. Phillips Electrical Works, Montreal, who only arrived two weeks ago from Montreal with Mrs. Reynolds. His household effects were not even uncrated, and these were valued at $2,500 and the house at $5,200. Both are a total loss, with no insurance. In carrying out his child Reynolds himself was severely burned and the little child was scorched about the head.

CHURCH UNION FAVORED

Principal Gordon, Queen's University, Declares He Has Changed Opinion.

Belleville, Ont., Sept. 21.—The Presbytery of Kingston met in St. Andrew's Church yesterday afternoon, the Rev. J. E. Smith, of Menie, the moderator, presiding. The attendance was not large, but much interest was manifested. The Rev. Dr. Buchanan, a missionary from the Bheel country, in India, spoke of his gratification at the rising of the missionary spirit and of his field in India. It was solid Presbyterian without a Methodist within 150 miles. They wanted a layman in that field, where three congregations had been organized within a short time. An open session was held at night for the discussion on church union. Principal Gordon, of Queen's University, said he had not at first considered organic union with the Methodist and Congregational churches practicable, but the spirit shown in the committee which dealt with the subject in the Assembly was such as to change his views. He discussed at length the objections raised to organic union, and cited the success of previous unions in the Presbyterian and other churches. He concluded by moving that the Presbytery approve the basis of union submitted by the General Assembly. The Rev. Dr. Mackie, Kingston, criticised the basis of union. He was not prepared to pay the price proposed and he cited a variety of objections.

CHURCH OF THE ASCENSION.

Corner Stone to be Laid Next Saturday.

At a meeting of the building committee of the Church of the Ascension, held last evening, the Rev. Mr. Flanagan stated that Bishop Farthing had consented to lay the corner stone of the new building, and arrangements were made for the ceremony to take place on Saturday next, at four o'clock. With the building of this portion the church will be complete. Six years ago the present building was erected to accommodate 275, with a basement schoolroom. The congregation has outgrown this, and an additional lot was secured. The completion of the church by adding transepts and chancel was begun two months ago. When finished the church will seat 685, and the schoolroom about 700. The rapid growth of the Annex, now Laurier ward, has made this extension necessary to provide for the Anglican population.

GIRL TO BE DEPORTED.

Dishonest Domestic Sentenced for Westmount Theft.

Jane Anderson, aged 18 years, domestic, was sentenced to three months in jail by Magistrate McMahon in the Westmount Recorder's Court yesterday. She pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing $20 and some clothes from a home on Elgin avenue, where she was in service. After she has served her three months, it was ordered that the girl be deported. The Bench remarked that dishonest domestics were not a class of people wanted in Canada.

THE CITY AFFECTED.

Argument was also heard on the appeal of the City of Montreal from the judgment of the court on the action of warranty taken against it by the Street Railway Company, in the same case. The company alleged that, by its contract with the city, it had the right to lay its tracks in the streets, and that in laying tracks on Commissioner street it was only acting within its powers, concluding by asking that the city of Montreal be ordered to intervene and, in case of judgment in favor of the Harbor Commissioners in the principal action, that the city of Montreal be ordered to provide another location on Commissioner street for the tracks. The court maintained the action in warranty and hence the present appeal. The appeal is based on the following grounds: 1. There is no legal tie between the city and the company; if there is, the company's only recourse was an action in damages; and 2, the action in warranty was too late; further, 3, if the company committed a trespass by building its tracks on Commissioner street, as the Harbor Commissioners claim, then the city is not responsible for it in law, since it neither know of nor authorized such trespass. This appeal was also taken en delibere after argument.

CENTENARY EPWORTH LEAGUE

The Epworth League of Centenary Methodist Church resumed its work last Monday night. The meeting took the form of a social and was well attended. Mr. Walter Hyman presided, and a most hearty reception was given to Miss Timberlake, who for five years has been a missionary in Japan.

Miss Timberlake acknowledged the kindness shown, and made some interesting remarks about mission work in Tokio. At the close refreshments were served and all present felt a good beginning had been made for another season's work.

A WESTERN RIVER PORT.

Sealey, on the Skeena river, has sprung into prominence with the clearing of the right-of-way. This is a river port, and will eventually be called a trading point for the Bulkley Valley district. The townsite is said to be very attractive, overlooking, as it does, the great river. Already business houses along the coast are establishing branches at Sealey.

RUSH TO FORT GEORGE.

In their anxiety to be in on the ground floor, a great many settlers have rushed into the Fort George country, and the low water is making it difficult to get supplies in for the coming winter. VACANCIES IN THE MINISTRY

1,500 Men Will be Needed by Western Presbyterians in Next 5 Years.

DEAD LANGUAGES DIFFICULTY

Candidates Past Their Youth May Be Permitted to Dispense With Arts Course.

A committee has been appointed by the Presbyterian College to consider the question of the scarcity of candidates for the ministry and ascertain by what means the necessary number could be secured and also to consider whether it would be advisable to modify in any way the course of study required for the Presbyterian ministry in order to obtain the necessary candidates.

It is estimated that in the next five years 1,500 men will be needed for Presbyterian ministry in the North-West.

The Rev. Dr. Scrimger, principal of the college, said that men who discovered their vocation for the ministry when past their youth found difficult to learn the Latin and Greek of the arts course. The committee was consequently considering whether in special cases it might not be advisable to allow the candidates to dispense with the study of these languages and substitute for them studies which they could acquire more easily.

The Presbyterian College reopens on Tuesday evening, October 4th, when the Rev. Dr. Smith, of Fredericton, N.B., will deliver the opening lecture on 'The relation of the church to social questions.' The regular classes will open the next day, Judging from present indications the enrollment will be considerably larger than in any period of the past twenty years. At the opening of the college, Principal Scrimger will make an announcement regarding a new silver medal to be offered for church history.

ON RIVER ALL NIGHT.

Anchored Below Rapids Because Darkness Came Down on River.

There was considerable uneasiness experienced yesterday by the friends of the R. & O. steamer 'Rapids King,' which left Prescott yesterday morning for Montreal, and was due to arrive here about seven, but instead remained on the river all night.

The vessel left Lachine about 5.30, but when by eight there was no sign of her, inquiries were instituted, and for quite a long time no word of her could be obtained. Eventually at about nine o'clock the news came over the telephone that the vessel was anchored just below the rapids with her three hundred passengers safely on board.

The reason for the delay, it is stated, was the fact that darkness came on so quickly that it would have been dangerous to proceed over the shoal water that now prevails below the rapids, and it was decided to anchor there and proceed to Montreal in the morning.

THE LATE MR. G. MARCHAND.

LOCAL OPTION SUSTAINED.

Toronto, Sept. 21. — The Divisional Court dismissed the appeal of A. A. Ellis, of Renfrew, who sought to upset the local option by-law passed in that town last March. The by-law was carried by a narrow majority, and its validity was attacked on technical grounds.

CONDEMNED MAN SOBS.

Timothy Candy, the condemned murderer of Constables Fortin and O'Connell, has not heard from his wife or relatives. He seldom converses with his guards, and frequently he lapses into passionate bursts of sobbing.
