The Census; National Stocktaking

Census takers in Notre Dame de Grace have covered a considerable part of the ward and report the business of national stock-taking proceeding with no untoward incidents. While some of the residents object to giving information on what they consider their own private affairs, the majority have co-operated to make the work of the census takers as easy as possible. That the taking of the census is no small undertaking will be realized by anyone who takes the trouble to look at a map of the Dominion, for, even though our population is comparatively small, the area over which it is spread is enormous. There are over 15,000 enumerators covering this vast territory. The census of the cities will occupy about a month in all, for that of the widely-scattered farms, a considerable period will be required. This year, the information that is required is of a most elaborate character. Compared with the farmers, however, the city dwellers are getting off easily, for the former are being asked to provide answers to no fewer than 254 questions. For the first time an effort is being made to cover wholesale and retail business information. Among the many other points being sought are the extent, duration and cause of unemployment, the scope of co-operative trading; the number of radio receivers; the number of farm houses with bath and running water and details regarding inmates of hospitals, asylums and homes.

Traffic Signs Cause Confusion

Now that the city has installed a system of traffic lights and stop signs, the authorities evidently believe that a good thing can be improved upon. The result has been the addition of "slow" signs to the stop signals and lights. It is difficult for the average motorist and more difficult for the average pedestrian, to see the necessity of the latest variety of signs. It means, for the motorist, a constant vigil lest he run through a stop sign, mistaking it for a slow sign, and for the pedestrian it means a constant vigil lest the street he is crossing is guarded only by a slow sign instead of a stop sign. An improvement could be effected were the slow signs painted on a green or red background, but at present they resemble the stop signs too closely. The traffic authorities would also do well to abandon the four-cornered stop intersections. If an entire absence of signs present a danger to traffic, a stop sign on each of the four corners unnecessarily delays traffic. One street should be given the right of way in every case.

SCHOOL ATHLETES RECEIVE AWARDS

Winners at Track and Field Meet Get Prizes

A large gathering of the student body of Strathcona Academy and members of other Protestant Schools of Outremont took place at the Academy on St. Catherine Road last Wednesday afternoon.

The event which has been an annual affair for many years in the history of school sporting circles here was marked this year especially by a number of new record achievements by the school athletes.

Among those present were several members to present the business circles here to present the various cups and prizes to the successful winners in the Annual Field Day of the Protestant Schools of Outremont, and lent a very becoming impression to the occasion.

Rev. J. P. MacFarlane and Dr. Potter represented the local clergy and presented several prizes to the aggregate winners in the scholastic meet, and gave brief addresses. Others present were Hollie McHugh, George Porteous of the North Branch Y.M.C.A., F. H. Dennison, former chairman of the Protestant School Board, J. Montgomery, Miss Frances Larouque and Mr. Brennan, physical instructor.

W. Allan Walsh, principal and director of Strathcona Academy tendered a hearty appreciation to the visitors in a short talk at the conclusion of the presentation of prizes.

MRS. S. BRONFMAN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF LOCAL Y. W. H. A.

Strong Executive Named for Coming Twelve Months

MANY ACTIVITIES

Athletics Included Gym, Dancing, Badminton and Basketball

At the annual elections of the Y.W.H.A., Mrs. S. Bronfman, who had formerly acted as treasurer, was unanimously elected president of this association. Other officers are:

Mrs. Phillip Levy, vice-president; Mrs. David H. Ballon, treasurer; Mrs. M. Lipchitz, honorary secretary; Mrs. Phillip Levy, chairman, executive committee; Mrs. David H. Ballon, Mrs. I. Diner, joint chairmen, educational committee; Miss Helen Park, athletic chairman; Miss Mary Vineberg, chairman, house committee; Mrs. Phillip Abbey, Mrs. H. Kaufman, Miss Betty Sloan, joint chairmen, tea room committee; Miss Libby Selinger, chairman, membership committee; Miss Doris Caplan, social chairman; and the following board of directors: Miss Ann Deskin, Mrs. S. Leopold, Mrs. J. Rubin, Mrs. M. B. Weinstein, Mrs. S. Wener, Miss Bessie Wittenberg, Miss E. Hirsch, Miss Yetta Manis.

Mrs. Max Bernfeld, executive director, in her report, paid a debt of gratitude to Mrs. S. M. Rothman, former executive director for the past four years, for the work she did in raising the "Y" to its present secure and exalted position. Mrs. Bernfeld then outlined the progress of the organization. The "Y" started its new year with a new director, a period of readjustment and many proposed changes. A senior rally inaugurated a membership campaign, the direct result of which was the formation of an Operatic Society, culmination in a successful artistic production, which placed the "Y" in a new light for its members and the general public. A social was provided by the board for the Operatic Society, on Sunday evening, April 26th.

Other cultural acquisitions were: A Book Club, which sponsored book reviews by Mr. Adolphe Gardner, Mr. Abraham M. Klein, Rabbi C. Bender, and Professor Carrie Derick. A course in public speaking and debating, led by Mr. Max Bernfeld, M.C., which was the source of much benefit for some 40 interested participants. This course included 2 debates, one by four members of the class, the other by members of the Y.M. and Y.W. classes. Four musicals were arranged, one solely for juniors. A dramatic group comprising members of the Y.M. and Y.W., under the direction of Miss B. B. Fiedman, honorary secretary of the "Y," produced three one-act plays May 28th. English classes, conducted by Miss Sarah Saffron, were most beneficial to girls and boys learning the English language. The official closing of these classes was an informal supper. The commercial classes, under the able direction of Miss Rae Handelman and Miss Martha Pecker, have been making steady progress this year.

The athletic department had a full programme including gymnasium, dancing, badminton, basketball and baseball. Tennis and golf are in full swing, lessons for both being given Mondays and Thursdays. A demonstration, arranged by Miss Bessie Klein, was well attended. The dancing was supervised by Miss Becci Cohen. In mentioning basketball, we must not omit the splendid work done by Miss Rae Benjamin and Mr. Eddie Kallek, House League and City League coaches respectively, also coaches of the Deka Kwinas, proud winners of the Bronfman Trophy of the Junior City League championship.

There were several club and two "Y" dances. The senior inter-club council supper meetings carried out some very fine plans. One of especial interest was the Mother and Daughter Banquet, enjoyed by a large number of senior members and their mothers. Several rallies sponsored by the council proved very entertaining and interesting both to members and prospective members. The intermediate inter-club council functioned well and terminated its season with a banquet on Sunday, April 19th. Thanks are due Miss Finkel-Stein, who acted as secretary for intermediates.

Our junior department, under the secretaryship of Miss Rachel Saffron, was able to plan many events for its young members. Movies, plays, under the direction of W. A. Tremayne, a chanukah party, in conjunction with the council campers, and a fancy dress party, provided real enjoyment for these juniors.

A very important feature of "Y" work is its clubs. Two successful seasons have passed and great credit is due the voluntary leaders and clubs for their sincere efforts to make their "Y" an outstanding organization in the community.

TO SPEAK HERE

Melvin J. Ballard, who will speak at the Later-Day Saints Church on June 23.

MELVIN J. BALLARD TO SPEAK LOCALLY

Was First Missionary of Latter Day Saints to South America

Elder Melvin J. Ballard, of Salt Lake City, Utah, and member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints will be the principal speaker at the quarterly missionary conference of the Montreal district to be held on June 23rd at 7:30 o'clock at 1485 Mt. Royal Avenue.

Elder Ballard was included in a delegation of three men sent out by the Latter-Day Saint Church in 1825 to organize the South American Mission. They began their mission in Buenos Aires by teaching school through an interpreter. Their faithful labors were rewarded and a missionary work was started among those descendants of the Prophet Lehi, who left Jerusalem for this hemisphere 600 B.C. Elder Ballard has given fourteen years of his life to active missionary service among the nations of the earth. For ten years he presided over the North Western States Mission with headquarters at Portland, Oregon. He comes to Montreal, one of the ten districts in the Canadian Mission, as a representative of the church officials at Salt Lake City.

President John U. Bluth, of the Canadian Mission will also be in attendance and will be one of the speakers.

The general public is cordially invited to attend this convention and hear the teachings of the Latter-Day Saints from one of their Apostles. The seats are free and there will be no collection.

WILL SING AT MACVICAR
 Miss Sylvia Kelseip, soprano, will sing at both services in MacVicar on Sunday next. This will be a good opportunity to hear this talented singer.

Our junior department, under the secretaryship of Miss Rachel Saffron, was able to plan many events for its young members. Movies, plays, under the direction of W. A. Tremayne, a chanukah party, in conjunction with the council campers, and a fancy dress party, provided real enjoyment for these juniors.

A very important feature of "Y" work is its clubs. Two successful seasons have passed and great credit is due the voluntary leaders and clubs for their sincere efforts to make their "Y" an outstanding organization in the community.

A recent membership and collection campaign met with favorable support. A splendid group of captains and workers are to be congratulated on the two weeks' work, not only in securing 50 additional members and over $100 in delinquent accounts, but in their propaganda work for which the "Y" will reap good results in the fall. Mention must again be made of the Deka Kwinas as the leading group, and Miss Deskin of the operatic society, as the leading individual in this recent venture.

CONTESTATION ACTION FAILS IN PLAGE LAVAL

Attempt to Unseat William L. King, of Ducharme Ave., Fails

Irregularities alleged in the conduct of elections at Plage Laval, a summer resort of this province, were without foundation. Mr. Justice Stackhouse declared in the Circuit Court last week, and he therefore dismissed election contestation proceeding instituted by Lewis Morin, in an attempt to unseat William Lyon King, a local resident of Outremont, residing on Ducharme Avenue, as mayor of the summer resort, and George Power as councillor. The contestation was based largely upon the refusal of the returning officer to give voters and candidates access to the valuation roll on which the election lists were based.

Mr. Justice Stackhouse, believing that the courts should give a liberal interpretation to the Municipal Code, which governs municipalities outside the larger centres of the province, did not consider that the action of the presiding officer was serious enough, or caused prejudice enough, to warrant annulment of the elections.

The plaintiff, an elector of Plage Laval, alleged that the presiding officer at the election illegally refused to allow many electors to vote because their names did not appear on the voters' list which had been illegally prepared by the presiding officer and that they had been refused permission to refer to the valuation roll to ascertain their right to vote. Other irregularities were alleged, including the usual ones of fraudulent election manoeuvres. The petitioner further attacked the qualifications of the candidates.

The defendants, King and Power, pleaded Code and they justified all irregularities is governed by the Municipal Code in substance that the municipal actions on the provisions of that code.

The municipality of Plage Laval Mr. Justice Stackhouse pointed out, was formed in April 1930, as a summer colony on Ile Jesu. The election was, therefore, virtually the first to be held in the new municipality and the difficulties which arose, His Lordship commented, disclosed that the electors are seriously inclined and desire that their municipality should be governed in strict accordance with the provisions of the Municipal Code.

The presiding officer, who is secretary-treasurer of the municipality, divided the electors into two equal alphabetical divisions for the purpose of voting, and prepared voting lists from these divisions. Unfortunately, Mr. Justice Stackhouse pointed out, the lists were only prepared on the day before the elections and the names of certain voters were omitted. After reviewing all the facts and the evidence, His Lordship was of the opinion that King and Power and the mise-en-cause, Hall, were elected legally, and the action was accordingly dismissed, with costs.

CLEVER BREBOEUF LACROSSE TEAM SCORE ANOTHER WIN OVER ST. ALOYSIUS TEAM

College Squad Display Splendid Team Work to Down Strong Saint Aggregation—Raymond and Courteau Prove Stars of Game.

(By H. W. Sylvester)

The bright sunshine and warmth of last Sunday afternoon's weather which wavered in a temperature of ninety in the sun, was not in the least responsible for any lack of action that might have been noticed in the Breboeuf-St. Aloysius game at the college grounds, on Cote St. Catherine Road.

The collegians and young ones at that amply trounced the visiting team after three hard played sets by a score of 8 to 3. St. Aloysius could not stand up against the continuous bombarding that Breboeuf extended them as a token of remembrance for this occasion.

Raymond and Courteau, two forward aces of the college held spectators breathless many times during the game. Several hundred students looked on, sometimes bewildered at the perfect shiftiness of their star players in dealing out their tries to counter. St. Aloysius were broken up frequently and their attackers always appeared to work well with each other offering many anxious moments for the former's goal.

Perhaps St. Aloysius wished now that they had gone through with their scheduled game with Outremont, most of whose players actually played on the College team when signs of ceasing resourcefulness urged the Breboeuf team to conquer. However, St. Aloysius realized the materialization of their long-expressed wish to meet the College team, with every mark of optimism for a sure win.

This rather encouraging sentiment did not last very long Sunday, for even at the end of the first period, Breboeuf were two ahead of them, and enough reserve in their forces to renew fresh energy against them at the opening of the second session.

A few substitutes with the visitors and a mild exchange of plans for the coming set saw both teams plunge harder into battle at the sound of the whistle.

St. Aloysius played strongly offensive, and heavier charges from Breboeuf punctuated their efforts to clear through. McDonough and Murphy seemed everywhere, but nowhere in particular with their opponents, and as the heat wave tended to increase exhaustion over their efforts, they were without success to score, though several times making close scoops.

Nevins was about the most feared of them all by Breboeuf, and backed by irresistible forces of Dussault and Rivard, odds seemed apart in the early minutes of the second period, as to whether Breboeuf would maintain the lead.

Severe body checking was momentous and without apparent harm to any of the players, was looked upon not so seriously. Nevins and Raymond met often, but the former who reaches quite a few inches above Raymond held the advantage over him. Both stickmen could do their share well and good apart, but never matched, without the lanky visitor taking precedence.

Lose Formation

The torrid tempo of the weather was striking more noticeably over the field when the final period was ready to open up, and it was felt by many that the last set would be a hard enduring one for both teams.

There was no doubt about that even under the most extenuating circumstances. The preceding periods used up the liveliest paces of the game, and since either teams had a little less than decided for the spectators a logical winner, no unusual results were expected than what had already come to pass.

As the ref's whistle dispersed the two squads into quick action for the third session it was immediately observed that St. Aloysius lost considerable effectiveness in their formation, partly due to their apparent exhaustion. Raymond and Courteau were not on the field at this time, one resting after a strenuous time of it during the previous sets, only to resume his place soon again and Courteau was partly disabled as a result of minor injuries.

Severe body checking was a counter part of the last minutes of the game and both teams were driving with propelling speed to score.

Breboeuf alternated their men quite frequently from outfield to infield and battered aimlessly for some time before the score reached its highest level for them.

Fistic displays were becoming more evident about five minutes before the end of the game, until the whole scene was transformed into a free-for-all. Students and everyone who saw the struggle on the field between McDonough and Courteau rushed onto the field in defence of their rights, and in the affray St. Aloysius shared no small part of the fighting scene.

The final score for Breboeuf remained at 8 to 3, as no goals were scored after this stage of the game.

ROYALS NOSE OUT RANGERS IN CLOSE SOFTBALL GAME

Outremont Clan Take Early Lead But Later Falter

8 TO 1 LEAD

North Branch Lads Stage Strong Ninth to Score Five

The North End Senior Softball League was officially opened last Thursday evening when the North Branch Y.M.C.A. Royals met and defeated the Outremont Rangers.

In the first two innings, the Rangers took an 8 to 1 lead on some good hitting, lucky breaks and loose Royal fielding. After the second inning, however, the Royals found themselves and Reg. Dawson, who had the Rangers popping up in great style throughout, was given better support. At the end of the sixth inning they had reduced the lead to 8-6.

The first half of the seventh saw the Rangers increase their lead to 4 runs when Kearns homered with one on. In the second half, Reg. Dawson provided a Merriwell finish, when after Loader had scored and two were out, he drove in three runs to tie up the game. R. McFee, the next man up, promptly doubled and eventually scored the winning run. Final score being 11 to 10 for the Royals.

For the Royals, Reg. Dawson pitched a good game, while Geo. Struthers, who was working hard all the time, caught faultlessly. The others all worked well together and were steady if not brilliant, after the second inning. Alf. Loader, Pete Kelly, G. Campbell and R. McFee came through with timely runs in the seventh.

For the Rangers, the Claxton brothers formed a good battery and E. Batson was always dangerous at bat. Their real star, however, was D. McFee, who besides leading the team afield, battled consistently.

Jack Haney handled the game well in his capacity as umpire. He is also

Handicrafts Featured at Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp

One of the leading features of the programme of Kamp Kanawana, the Y.M.C.A. summer camp for boys in the Laurentians is handicrafts. The "Craft Shop" situated by the shore of the lake is always attractive to the boy who works with tools. There are baskets, carpentry and leather tooling have their headquarters. This year Max Ford, of McGill University, who has had a varied camp experience both in Canada and the States will direct the activities of the boys. Rustic building also has a place on the programme. This is noted first as you pass under the rustic gateway built by the boys of senior camp on the road into their lair. The council rings are also the product of the creative thought and perspiring, but happy labor of nimble hands.

The camp opens on Saturday, June 20th and parties of boys will be conducted to camp each succeeding Saturday. Illustrated booklets telling all about the camp may be secured by interested parents from North Branch Y.M.C.A. Registrations are asked for in advance in order that the boy may go to camp for the period he desires. Applications are taken for any period from two to ten weeks.

Outremont Presbyterians Hold Annual Garden Fete

McVey and Miss Berta Bennie of the candy; Miss Edna Bennie and Miss Mae of the surprise parcels and Mrs. H. M. MacMillan of novelties. Afternoon tea was served in the hall by Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Wm. Lothian, assisted by Mrs. P. G. McCuaig and Miss Templeton.

THRU' THE SPORT SIEVE

By BOBBY FORSTER

Ladies' Softball Becoming Popular

One of the greatest features of this summer sport season is the way in which ladies' softball has taken a hold in Montreal. With the schedule barely underway the Major Ladies' League, which operates at the M.A.A.A. Grounds, has been attracting good crowds, and by the time that the play-offs approach, the game should be firmly established here.

It is not "pat ball" that the girls play either, but up-to-the-minute stuff, with plenty of good pitching and fielding and a punch with the willow that provides for a lot of action.

Three Rivers sports people evidently were much interested in ladies' softball last week-end, for in the neighborhood of eight thousand turned out to see two of the Montreal teams, M.A.A.A. and Greenstripe, take part in an exhibition game.

The attracting of softball stars from Toronto to bolster local teams has done much to stimulate the game in this city. It has been well established in Toronto for a long time, and the class of ball the girls play is sufficiently good to warrant the attendance of thousands at the twilight contest.

An interesting pitching duel should be seen next Friday night at the Westmount Grounds when two of the outstanding hurlers in the Major League oppose each other in the Greenstripe-Murray game. It will see Marjorie Ellerby of the former nine matching her pitching skill against Marjorie Devere of Murray's, and when skill is mentioned in connection with these two stars of local softball we mean nothing else but.

Both girls are from Toronto and have lots of "stuff" on the ball, the latter relying on plenty of speed while Miss Ellerby knows how to mix up her delivery and put a lot of mystifying curves on the ball.

WADING POOL AGAIN OPEN AT FLETCHER'S FIELD

The wading pool and fountain on Fletcher's Field near Esplanade avenue was again in operation this week after nearly six years idleness and the water was turned on in the presence of hundreds of children of all ages, who spent the rest of Monday afternoon wading and splashing and sailing little sail boats in the very shallow water of the pool.

This is the only pool of its kind in the city. The basin has been purposely made shallow and is automatically drained when the water reaches a few inches in height. Hence there is no danger of drowning.

The fountain also has a history. For nearly 50 years the fountain was on Neptune Square, the plot of ground which separates the city hall from the old court house. Something went wrong and the water had to be shut off. The statue disappeared but what was left of the fountain was carried to Fletcher's Field and placed in the wading pool which was made for the purpose.

There is a main fountain in the centre of the pool, with four minor jets. For many years the wading pool was the mecca of children throughout the summer until about seven years ago when cracks appeared in the basin and water seeped through into nearby cellars.

Several attempts were made in succeeding years to repair the basin without success until this month when workmen made a new water-proof foundation.

WANDERERS TAKE OPENING BALL TILT

Wanderers opened their schedule in the North End Senior Softball League with a win over the Pirates by the score of 13 to 5. Starting off with a bang they scored 6 runs in the first inning and after that their lead was never seriously threatened. The game ended with a rousing double play, Lapointe to Cordes to Brewer, which ended all hopes the Pirates had of winning.

Good fielding, timely hitting and stellar pitching by Schlenger were the main reasons for the winning team's safe margin.

Line-up:
Wanderers—I. Gaudard, Schlenger, Brewer, Cordes, Lapointe, Hersh, J. Gaudard, Boston, Johnson.
Pirates—Dalton, Stanley, Roberts, Wigley, Conklin, Murray, Hughes, Earby, Struthers.

Wanderers 6 1 0 1 2 0 3 13
Pirates 1 0 1 0 3 0 0 3

Cakes Must be Adorned In Keeping with Demand Of All Festive Occasions

ICINGS ARE OF TWO KINDS, COOKED AND UNCOOKED—ELEMENTARY PRINCIPLES OF CAKE ICINGS MUST BE LEARNED PROPERLY—MOST ANYONE CAPABLE OF MAKING GOOD ICINGS CAN DECORATE CAKES SUCCESSFULLY.

The elaboration that is demanded in some foods today is truly remarkable. Cake is an example. For ordinary, everyday service, we are happy to serve good cake that is simply iced. For festive occasions we are satisfied to serve the same good plain cake (for better is not possible), but we insist that it be adorned until it is luxurious in appearance.

No more time is required to make a fancy than a simple icing, but much more time and considerably more skill is necessary to put the icing on the cake. Anyone who can make an excellent icing and who is adept at free-hand drawing can become skilful in the decoration of wedding, birthday and party cakes.

But patience is needed. It is necessary to begin at the bottom and learn all the details. One cannot expect to immediately plunge into the making of beautiful roses, lily-of-the-valley, birds, etc. As one works, however, new ideas will be evolved.

Since the elementary principles of cake icing must first be learned, it seems logical that we confine our initial discussion to the making of icings and their application to everyday cake and the simplest of the ornamental cakes.

ICINGS ARE OF TWO KINDS—COOKED AND UNCOOKED. OF THE COOKED, THERE ARE THREE VARIETIES—THE FONDANT, THE FUDGE AND THE FLUFFY. A FONDANT icing is one made from plain fondant, the kind used for bon-bons. Either granulated, brown or maple sugar may be used to prepare it. The fondant may be made weeks ahead and will be all the better for ripening if it is kept in a tightly-covered container. It is an icing that can be prepared on short notice. Great care must be used, however, when putting it on. One must melt it in the top of a double boiler and then manipulate it as carefully and as little as possible. The more it is handled the more it is likely to develop large sugar crystals. To avoid this, the work must be done quickly.

When applied correctly fondant makes one of the most aristocratic of icings. It is particularly well adapted to small cakes—petit fours—those baked in small muffin pans or those fancy shapes cut from a large sheet of cake. Before covering these little cakes with icing they should be glazed. To glaze, brush the top and sides with unbeaten egg white, in which has been dissolved one-third the quantity of granulated sugar. Then dry thoroughly. Glazing prevents crumbs from getting into the icing to discolor and granulate it.

Pour Fondant Over Cakes
The easiest way to apply the icing is to melt the fondant in the top of the double boiler, stirring it as little as possible. Place the glazed cakes on a cake cooler and pour the hot melted fondant over them, making sure that every bit of the top and

Avoid Sugar Crystals
Flurry icings made of a syrup that spins a thread and stiffly beaten egg whites have to be made shortly before they are used. Like fondant and fudge, the main difficulty is to prevent the formation of sugar crystals. Ingredients like cream of tartar, lemon juice and glucose or corn syrup prevent the formation of large crystals.

And, of course, the way the syrup is handled as it boils influences the size of the crystals in the finished icing. Sugar crystals should never be allowed to form on the sides of the pan. To prevent crystals from collecting there, wipe the sides of the pan down with a wet cloth wrapped securely around the tines of a fork. Or the pan may be kept covered for the first three or four minutes. The steam that condenses on the cover washes the crystals down into syrup.

Equally important as the prevention of crystals is the cooking of the syrup to the proper stage. A thermometer is a valuable help here. Syrups of all the boiled icings are cooked to the soft ball stage.

The proportion of the liquid is immaterial. The more liquid there is the longer it takes to reach the right stage. Liquid to equal quarter to half the quantity of sugar used is a good proportion. And three-quarters cup of sugar to each egg white is the amount generally used in an ordinary white mountain icing. A cup of sugar to each egg white will produce a stiffer icing and a sweeter one.

A syrup, however, may be cooked sufficiently and without crystals, but still may not be all that it should be. We must consider the condition of the egg whites. For the smoothest icing the whites should not be beaten until the syrup has finished cooking. I find it best to put the egg whites into the bowl in which the icing is to be beaten and just the instant the syrup is cooked and has been drawn to the back of the stove begin beat-

KILLED HER LOVER

A VISIT TO PREMIER CLEANERS

It is not often that one can combine the advantages of appearing smartly dressed while simultaneously adding to the preservation of your suit and, a more important matter, still preserving your health by obedience to the laws of hygiene.

A Doubtful Boast

Have you met the woman who says with a certain broadening of her shoulders, and a ring in her voice, "I just simply say what I think to people, whether they like it or not?" Surely you have, for that most disagreeable type of person seems to be like thunderstorms and influenza attacks, not to be avoided as easily as we would like. If they only knew it, they are secretly avoided by people who might otherwise be quite good friends, but always fearing the "barrage" of their outspoken ire, they are promptly shelved as being among the good things to stay away from.

After 35 years the London county council has solved the apparently insoluble problem of making the tenants of the municipal dwelling at Boundary Street dry their washing without injury to their health.

Social & Personal

The marriage of Eliza Jane Walker, daughter of the late Mr. W. H. Perks and of Mrs. Perks, to Mr. William Watson Dyer, son of the late Mr. James H. Dyer and of Mrs. Dyer of Outremont, took place last Friday afternoon, at half past three o'clock, at the Temple Baptist Church, the Rev. Charles George Smith officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Allan Grant and wore a fitting princess gown of white satin, the long sleeved bodice fashioned with a cowl neck line inset in the front with lace, the skirt touching the floor at the back. Her lace veil, a family heirloom falling in soft graceful folds, was worn in cap effect, and held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, forming clusters at either side. She wore slippers of white crepe, her shower bouquet being composed of ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. The two bridal attendants, Miss Catherine Perks, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Lillian Dyer as bridesmaid, were frocked alike in respective shades of pink and delphinium blue georgette, sleeveless, trimmed with lace and worn with short jacket of the same material and brocaded slippers of a shade to match their gowns.

The maid of honor wore a large picture hat of pink rough straw trimmed with blue ribbon, the bridesmaid's hat being fashioned in a similar style of blue lace straw with pink ribbon trimming. They carried arm bouquets of pastel shaded sweet peas and roses. Mr. Robert Dyer attended the bridegroom as best man and the ushers were Mr. W. H. Perks, brother of the bride, Mr. Duncan Young, and Mr. Victor Willetts. The organist, Mr. Alex MacPherson, played the wedding music; and during the signing of the register Mr. Allen Grant sang "Because."

The Misses Simone and Pauline Duclos, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George Duclos, of Outremont, who have been studying art with the Sacred Heart nuns, at Villa Lante in Rome, and also in Florence for the past ten months, sailed from Naples by the Vulcania on June 9 for home. Mrs. Duclos will meet her daughters in New York tomorrow.

The marriage took place last Friday morning at half past eight o'clock, at the church of Saint Victor, Outremont, of Miss Germaine Bruchesi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bruchesi, of Outremont, to Dr. Gerard Plamondon, son of Mr. Apollinaire Plamondon, of Quebec, and the late Mrs. Plamondon. The nuptial Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father J. Plamondon, brother of the groom. During the Mass vocal numbers were rendered by Mrs. Emile Bruchesi, sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Edith Plamondon, of Quebec, sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. Hercule Lavoie. A reception followed the ceremony. Dr. and Mrs. Plamondon sailed later by the Ausonia to spend several months in Europe.

The out-of-town guests included Col. and Mrs. Hollohan and Miss Desnoyers, of New York; Dr. and Mrs. Viger Plamondon, Dr. Rene Plamondon, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Plamondon and Miss Edith Plamondon, all of Quebec; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bruchesi and Miss Marcelle Paradis of Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Plessis-Belair and the Misses Belair, of Saint Eustache.

The marriage of Miss Isobel Anne Anderson, daughter of the late Alexander C. Anderson and Mrs. Anderson, of Outremont, to Mr. George A. Watt, of Knightswood, Glasgow, Scotland, has been arranged to take place Saturday evening at six o'clock, at Fairmount-St. Giles Church, Outremont.

Last Wednesday evening the resulted in dampness dangerous to them. A communal laundry was built, but the citizens of the street refused to patronize it. Now the top storeys of the dwellings have been set aside for drying clothes, and the experiment is so successful that it will be enforced in other London slums.

On Saturday, June 13th, at 3 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. G. J. Morris, 5717 Mance Street, Miss Margaret Emma Morris was united in marriage to Mr. Gordon Douglas Marshall. The Rev. Dr. J. G. Potter, officiated. After the marriage a reception was held and congratulations extended to the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left on Saturday for a motor launch trip up the St. Lawrence to Kingston Mills, thence up the Rideau River. On their return they will reside in Notre Dame de Grace.

A large and interested congregation assembled in MacVicar Memorial Church on Saturday last, at 3 o'clock to witness the marriage of Miss Lillian Ruby Exley, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Exley and the late Mr. Arthur Exley to Mr. John Buchanan Sloan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buchanan.

The church was suitably decorated with palms and flowers and the bright western sun added charm to the proceedings. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. W. H. Exley, while Thomas Graham acted as best man and Miss Olive M. Lewthwaite performed the duties of bridesmaid.

The Rev. Dr. J. G. Potter, minister of MacVicar Memorial, officiated.
