BRITISH SPANISH POLICY UNCHANGED

Evacuation Of Volunteers To Precede Pact

British Government Rejects Italian Proposals to Make Pact Effective Without Regard to Spanish Civil War—Believed that Strengthened Government Resistance May Delay Settlement of Trouble Until Spring.

London, June 20.—(C.P. Cable)—British policy on Spain remains unchanged. There must be a "settlement of the Spanish question" before the Anglo-Italian agreement can be regarded as coming into full effect.

A settlement of the Spanish question is assumed to mean a substantial withdrawal of Italian volunteers from Spain. Italy has already put certain features of the Anglo-Italian agreement into operation. She has ceased anti-British propaganda in the Near East. She will reduce the number of her soldiers in Libya, thus relaxing what might become pressure against Egypt.

But in the view of British official circles the crux of the whole agreement lies in Spain. One of the conditions of its coming into effect—a condition accepted by the Italians—was a settlement of the Spanish question. In the House of Commons Prime Minister Chamberlain insisted that settlement of the Spanish war was a condition.

To that pledge, it was stated today, Mr. Chamberlain intends to adhere.

When the Anglo-Italian agreement was concluded it was assumed that the Spanish war would be over in a couple of months. The Republican Government, however, developed unexpected resistance. There is now talk that unless he gets reinforcements General Franco is unlikely to win before next spring.

This means more delay in the Anglo-Italian agreement becoming effective and both Italian and British diplomats are disturbed. Premier Mussolini, realizing a rapid victory for General Franco is improbable, wants the agreement declared effective, with recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, without waiting for a Spanish settlement.

The Italian and British Governments alike want the Anglo-Italian agreement in effect. The question they now have to consider is: What precisely is meant by a settlement in Spain. Over that representatives of the two governments are turning over every aspect of a situation which bristles with difficulties.

The Non-Intervention Committee meets tomorrow to consider the British plan for the evacuation of volunteers. But even those close to the committee do not think the plan will result in actual withdrawal of volunteers under at least a couple of months. There would be delays before the International Commission can set to work counting volunteers and determining the ratio for withdrawal. There would be delays in evacuation.

COLLEAGUES HONOR
QUEBEC JOURNALIST

Quebec, June 20.—(P)—Henri Gagnon, President and Managing Director of the newspaper Le Soleil, was tendered a banquet by the paper on Saturday night on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his assuming its administration.

Messages of congratulation were received from Prime Minister King, Justice Minister Lapointe, State Secretary Rinfret, Pensions Minister Power, H. P. Duchemin, Managing Director of the Sydney Post-Record and President of The Canadian Press and J. F. B. Lively, General Manager of the Canadian Press.

FOREIGN TRAVEL PICKING UP

New York, June 20.—(P)—Foreign travel is picking up, the agents agreed today. The United States line said bookings were as heavy as last year, despite such special 1937 attractions abroad as the Coronado. Their flagship, Manhattan, sailed last week with a capacity booking of 1,007. The Cunard line reported a good crop of 51,000 passengers last month and more than ever taking cars abroad this year. The American Express Company said bookings for the "Standard European Tour" were the heaviest since 1928.

SASKATCHEWAN WINDS
CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE

Arcola, Sask., June 19.—(P)—High wind, accompanied by torrential rains and hail, swept the district southwest of Arcola, blew down buildings, did damage up to ninety per cent. of the district's fall rye crop, killed hundreds of chickens and filled sloughs for the first time in eight years.

So powerful was the wind Friday that it moved a 3,000-pound tractor twenty feet on the farm of Lloyd Carr, seven miles southwest of Arcola. The storm blew over an implement shed attached to Carr's barn and shoved the big round-roofed structure six inches off its foundation.

BUDGET DEBATE
TO DETERMINE
HOUSE CLOSING

Length of Time Consumed in Discussing Dunning Proposals to Decide if Legislation Can Be Cleared by July 2.

Ottawa, June 20.—(P)—Length of a budget debate that will start in the House of Commons today may decide whether Parliamentarians will succeed in getting through their work before the unofficial deadline for prorogation—July 2.

There is still much work to be done but if the budget speech is short, as it is expected to be, Commons members may finish their task, in time to return to their homes early in July. Heat often discourages protracted debate and it was 74 in the shade here yesterday.

The budget debate usually is one of the major ones of the session but the lack of tariff changes in the speech Finance Minister Dunning made Thursday may eliminate argument by high and low tariff advocates.

The first speaker today will be Hon. J. Lawson, (Conservative-York South), one of the contenders for the Conservative leadership, who is making his debut as Conservative financial critic, a task Opposition Leader Bennett has done himself for years.

Supporters of Mr. Lawson will watch his performance closely in the belief his speech may affect his chances of being chosen leader at the Conservative convention being held here July 5-6-7. Opposition also will be on the lookout for an indication of changes in Conservative party policy on monetary and trade questions.

The budget is more likely to be attacked for what it does not contain rather than for what it does. Mr. Dunning imposed no new taxes and reduced none, except to widen the exemptions to the sales tax on building products in order to stimulate construction.

If the debate is cleaned up in a few days the House likely will go on still remaining to be passed. Besides these there are several pressing matters which will have to be taken up before prorogation.

They include the amendment to the Bank of Canada Act making the bank wholly owned by the Dominion, amendments to the Election Act and amendments to the Criminal Code. The Government also is expected to bring in a measure implementing in part at least the recommendation of the Royal Commission on penitentiaries whose report was tabled last week.

The Senate order paper is almost clear and the Upper House's Railways Committee is expected to conclude its hearings Tuesday when Sir Edward Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, will appear. The committee, which has studied unification plans for weeks, will report to the Senate but no legislation to carry out its recommendations is expected this session.

TO PIPE WATER TO VACATION
COLONY

The work of installing a 1,600-foot water pipe from King street west to the Vacation Colony was commenced this morning in connection with the construction of the camp-cottage, according to a statement issued this morning by Herme-negilde Rheame, Superintendent of Roads.

The pipe, two inches in diameter, is being laid only three feet under the surface since the water supply to the cottage will be cut off during the winter months.

Construction work on the building will be undertaken shortly. The Provincial Government has granted $5,000 to aid in the project, while the city will supply the material.

AUSTRALIANS ADOPT
HEALTH INSURANCE

Canberra, June 20.—(C. P. Reuters)—A national health insurance bill was given third reading by the Australian House of Representatives today. The vote was 33 to 28.

The measure provides medical benefits under a contributory scheme whereby medical treatment may be obtained by insured persons after twenty-six weeks contributions of one shilling six pence, employers paying the same amount and the Government paying $2,000,000 ($10,000,000) the first four years.

Physicians will be paid 11 shillings annually for each insured person entitled to medical benefits. Remote areas are excluded because doctors and druggists are not available but as the scheme develops more "flying doctors" will be provided.

NORTH HATLEY
RESIDENT DIED
THIS MORNING

Wellington (William) Rugg Succumbed in Eighty-Ninth Year—Had Been in Poor Health for Ten Days and Suffered Slight Shock Yesterday.

North Hatley, June 20.—Wellington (William) Uriah Rugg, well known throughout the Eastern Townships, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. G. Woodard, here at 5:20 o'clock this morning. Mr. Rugg, who was in his eighty-ninth year, had been in poor health for the past ten days and had suffered a slight shock yesterday morning.

Mr. Rugg was born in Compton in 1850 and spent the greater part of his life there, moving to North Hatley ten years ago to reside with his daughter, Mrs. W. G. Woodard and Mr. Woodard.

Besides his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. Rugg is survived by Mrs. Harry, of British Columbia, and John, of Merchantville, N.J. Funeral services will be held at Mrs. Trussell's nursing home here at two p.m. Wednesday. Interment will be in the Compton Cemetery.

Even Greater Persecution In Prospect For Germany's Jews

Extension of Anti-Semitic Wave in Berlin Finds Jews Faced with Ban on Purchase from Aryan Food Shops—No Jewish Business Shop or Nameplate Left Untouched in Series of Week-End Raids by Paint Squads.

Berlin, June 20.—(P)—For Jews of Berlin another day of persecution today extended what probably is the greatest wave of anti-Semitism since the Nazis came to power five years ago.

Now, after three weeks of raids and defacement of Jewish-owned stores, they found that, at least in the Borough of Weissensee, they were forbidden to buy in Aryan food shops.

Placard-pasting crews appeared in that northern suburb, but instead of the Jewish stores that were the objectives of red paint crews Aryan stores were the goal this time. Aryan grocers, bakers and butchers were surprised to find large red posters stuck on their windows reading:

"We do not sell to Jews."
Jews, arriving at their places of business, found that Sunday night paint squads had invaded the downtown district and had left no Jewish shop or nameplate untouched by their red paint. Most of the night's raids, after a comparative Sunday lull, were in downtown Berlin along Leipziger and Frierich streets, two main shopping thoroughfares.

There still are several thousand Jewish-owned business places in Berlin, in the downtown section, in the fashionable west end and in the poorer northern and eastern boroughs.

Intimidated and terrified by the unceasing campaign against them, many Jewish shops remained closed this morning. A Jewish home for the aged in the west end, located close to a school, ordered its inmates to keep lights out at night in front rooms so they would not be targets for stones.

It has become a custom among schoolboys to march past the institution and shout anti-Jewish slogans.

BRITISH TRAMP SHIPPING HAD
FINE RECOVERY

Granting of Subsidy and System of Co-operation in 1935 Preserved Industry, Committee Report States.

London, June 20.—(P)—Granting of a tramp shipping subsidy and institution of a system of freight co-operation in 1935 came just in time to save the British tramp shipping industry from disaster, says the sixth report of the Tramp Shipping Administrative Committee.

The Committee was set up in 1935 to administer the Government's annual subsidy of $2,000,000 ($10,000,000), which expired at the end of last year. Since then a voluntary scheme has been introduced among tramp and line owners.

It is pointed out there was actually no distribution of the subsidy during any part of 1937 as the level of freight had reached proportions which automatically cancelled it under the terms of the scheme.

NEW DISCOVERY
AIDS FIGHT ON BLACK ALKALI

Scientists Find New Source of Poison of Southwestern Plants—Will Promote the Growth of Citrus Fruits.

Tucson, Ariz., June 20.—(P)—Black alkali, historic "poison" of plants in irrigation areas of the southwest, can be controlled by discoveries reported today from the University of Arizona. Department of Agricultural Chemistry and Soils.

The name comes from the black color which appears in water where soil contains too much of this alkali. Crops of all sorts die when much of the black stuff appears. But scientists show that black alkali is a poisonous white and that it is not always poisonous. Knowledge of its real nature indicates the alkali may be controlled to improve citrus fruits and other crops.

The black color is due to organic matter dissolved by too much alkali in the soil. Death of plants is due to starvation from improper nutrition. The new work at Arizona is discovery of a previously unknown source of black alkali—limestone. Herefore agricultural chemists have attributed the alkali to sodium carbonate, which is washing soda, and to sodium hydroxide, which is lye.

The limestone sources has been verified by W. T. McGeorge and T. F. Buchner, agricultural and physical chemists, respectively. The cure for each of the three sources of black alkali is different. For limestone is

NO COMPROMISE ACCEPTABLE TO REPUBLICANS

No "Pulling of Punches" Against Democrats, Regardless of Viewpoints, Planned by National Organization.

Washington, June 20.—(P)—Republican Congressmen picked one major objective today for their election campaign; to turn the tide against Roosevelt legislation in 1939 in the hope of washing the Democrats from power next year.

The Republicans' immediate aim, said Chairman Townsend (Republican, Delaware) of the Senate Campaign Committee, will be to build party strength in the United States Senate to the point where a coalition of Republicans and "Old Line" Democrats can block legislation they deem undesirable.

But Senator McNary (Republican, Oregon), the minority leader, made it plain there would be no "pulling of punches" in campaigns against Democratic candidates, no matter what their viewpoint.

The Republican party will not give even tacit aid to Democrats regarded as "anti-New Dealers" in the session of Congress just ended, he declared. Nor will it withdraw quietly or permit weak candidates to be advanced in states where Democrats nominate anti-Roosevelt men.

BUSINESS HAS NOTHING TO FEAR FROM PROBE

Washington, June 20.—(P)—Senators O'Mahoney, (Democrat, Wyoming), and Borah, (Republican, Idaho), declared today that business has nothing to fear from the federal investigation of monopolistic practices in the United States.

They took issue with a statement of Rep. Snell (Republican-New York), that he was concerned lest the inquiry be "made an instrument for further unjustified attacks on legitimate business."

"My belief is that this can be a co-operative, objective study of investable value to business," said O'Mahoney. "I have seen nothing to indicate any intent except to find a solution of a difficult economic problem."

"This is a task for men of intelligence, tolerance and good will in business and government," O'Mahoney probably will be chairman of the twelve-man committee, and Borah is one of the members. Snell had said that if the investigation were turned into "another witch hunt against business," it would be a "further deterrent to business confidence and recovery."

RUMANIAN JOURNALS
SILENT ON PARLEYS

Bucharest, June 20.—(CP-Havas)—Apparently as a result of Government orders, the Rumanian press today failed to comment on the interview Saturday between King Carol and President Kamal Ataturk in the Bosphorus on the King's yacht, Luceafar.

A brief communique from the Court Marshal confirmed the fact that the interview took place. Observers attached importance to the talk because both rulers direct both the internal and foreign policies of their countries, in practice.

United by the Balkan Pact, Turkey and Rumania have taken parallel attitudes regarding the Spanish civil war and other current problems. In face of pressure from Germany, both have recently sought to establish closer financial and economic relations with Great Britain.

REBEL ADVANCE
SLOWED ALONG
MAJOR FRONTS

Government Troops Felt Sure Enough of New Positions in Many Areas to Take Offensive.

Hendaye, France, June 20.—(P)—Spanish Insurgents today reported slight advances both on the eastern front and the Cordoba front in southern Spain. On both fronts the Insurgents were slowed down as they reached strong Government positions.

Along the Mediterranean south of Castello de la Plana, Government milliammen were making a strong stand in fortified positions in the low hills between the Mijares and Seco rivers. The insurgent spearhead still was about thirty miles north of Valencia.

Government troops felt secure enough in their new positions to take the offensive in several sectors, notably before Villarreal where they reported the Insurgents had fallen back slightly.

The tactics of General Jose Miaja were to manoeuvre for delay while new lines were fortified behind the front for what the Government termed the "real" defence of Valencia.

General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, commander of the southern Insurgent forces, reported an advance of nine miles along a tributary on the Zugar River on the border of Cordoba province.

Barcelona and Valencia were bombed numerous times by the Insurgents, with forty-two reported killed in Barcelona. In a raid on Barcelona yesterday by eight Savoia (Italian) planes, a bomb tore a hole in the port deck of an American steamship identified as the Wisconsin. The crew escaped injury.

Miles City, Mont., June 20.—(P)

—Estimates of the dead and missing in the worst United States railroad tragedy in years approximated forty today as rescuers sought to remove additional bodies from the wreckage of the Milwaukee railroad's crack "Olympian."

Seventeen bodies have been recovered. Railroad officials announced that a still-submerged tourist sleeper contained seventeen bodies.

Survivors told of seeing as many as five or six bodies swept into the flood waters of Custer Creek, into which the train plunged yesterday.

A midnight "flash flood" had carried away the 180-foot trestle spanning Custer Creek twenty-six miles east of Miles City. Seven cars of the twelve-car train followed the locomotive into twenty feet of rushing water.

Only a few minutes before a track walker had reported the creek almost dry.

Witnesses said they could see the bodies of passengers still seated in the submerged sleeper, the forms made indistinct by the muddy water that filled the car. The sleeper's light burned eerily through much of last night.

At Glendive, eighty miles north-east of Miles City, the sheriff's office said a woman's body had been taken from the Yellowstone River into which Custer Creek flows.

Of the sixty-five or more injured who were taken into Miles City in a hospital train yesterday, thirty remained in a hospital today, two of them critically injured. One unidentified man's back was broken.

At a hospital, and at the Miles City morgue where relatives came to claim their dead, stories of tragedy and of heroism were told by the survivors.

Ten-year-old Anne Ladas, whose mother was dead and whose father was missing, related how she tried desperately to keep her mother's head above the swirling water.

When the mother, Mrs. Thomas Ladas, fainted from shock, the small girl grabbed her hair and held her head above water for several minutes.

Anne's brother, nine-year-old George, suffered a broken arm. Unable to comprehend the tragedy, he kept crying, "I want my mamma and daddy."

"But you haven't any mamma and daddy any more," the boy's sister tried bravely to explain. The family was en route home to Bellingham, Wash., from a visit to Greece.

Seven Milwaukee railroad employees, who knew Custer Creek as a ravine that usually carried no more than "a bucket of water," were riding the Olympian as passengers. They joined regular trainmen in helping out the survivors, and two of them telephoned first news of the tragedy to Miles City.

Mike Cain and Ed Hamm, brakemen, crawled over the twisted pile of steel cars, made their way to Saugus, a small station, and telephoned for help.

William Shearer, veteran Milwaukee engineer, said the railroad men were "chewing the fat" in the first day coach when the crash occurred.

"Well, we all crawled out of our coach and crawled back over the wreckage. I knew the boys in the engine must be dead. We saw a woman jump, and a few minutes she smashed. She floated down against the pile of wreckage and I think she must have drowned."

"Her husband yelled for us to help her, but it was no use." The locomotive leaped the bridge gap with such speed that it landed on the west bank of the creek, carrying Engineer Frank Merrifield and Fireman H. E. McCoy with it.

Two wreckers sent to the scene were unable last night to drag out the submerged tourist sleeper because of the depth of the flood water.

Canton, June 20.—(P)—Chinese officials declared today 4,595 civilians were killed by Japanese air attacks in Kwangtung province, South China, during the nine months from August 31, 1937, to June 7. They said "upwards" of 1,500 were killed in Canton alone during the eleven days from May 28 to June 7.

Helping Indians To Find Right Place In National Life Is Government's Aim

Canada Today Has Indian Population of 112,500—Protection and Advancement Are Two Main Ideas of Dominion's Indian Administration—Future Welfare of Indians Depends Largely Upon Feeling of Understanding and Sympathy Which Is Shown Towards Them by White People of Canada.

The early history of Canada is closely interwoven with that of the Indians. From the time of Champlain until lumbering, and later agriculture and mining, superseded the fur trade as the first ranking industry of Canada, the Indians have played an important part in the romance of fur and exploration. Their contributions to European culture have been many and varied. They taught the early explorer and fur-trader the manufacture and use of the canoe, snowshoes and toboggan—without which the exploration of the far west, and the rich fur bales of that region would have been impossible. They introduced to the Europeans grains and foods unknown before the discovery of America, such as corn, potatoes, tobacco, beans and squash.

The term "Indian" in its North American application is very general, and embraces almost as many distinct races and languages as there are in Europe today. Like the people of other races, their problems are determined largely by the climatic and physical features of the areas in which they live.

Thus we have the Indians of southern Ontario, southern Quebec and parts of the Maritime Provinces. These people have been long in contact with Europeans, and their problems are very similar to those of their white neighbors. They occupy reserves in the fertile lowlands of Ontario and Quebec, and are engaged largely in agriculture, but also find employment in the nearby industrial centres. Some of them have developed into excellent farmers, but many are living in semi-poverty.

A second group occupies the great hinterland comprising the northern parts of the provinces from the north shores of the St. Lawrence river to Mackenzie valley and Yukon Territory. These people, because of the infertile nature of the lands, are forced to depend almost entirely on hunting and trapping for their livelihood. Anything that interferes with the success of these activities causes hardship and destitution.

A third group is found in the Great Plains region, and the foothills country of Alberta. Their lands, too, are suitable for agriculture, and stock-raising. In the past, when the buffalo herds were virtually wiped out, these Indians were left destitute, and were dependent solely on the Government. As there was little game of any kind by which they could maintain themselves it was necessary to establish them as farmers and ranchers under the supervision of farming instructors. A large number have, within two generations developed into prosperous, self-reliant farmers.

Another group of Indians inhabit the northwestern coast of British Columbia. These people built large seaworthy canoes, erected large wooden houses, and totem poles; and had developed a highly-organized culture before the appearance of the white man. They are fishermen, trained to the sea, and for many years held their own on equal terms with white and Oriental in the fishing industry. They now find the fisheries in the hands of the large canneries. The salmon runs are becoming smaller and, although many of the Indians have their own boats, nets, and gear, they have felt the effects of the depression keenly.

Indian Population Has Varied Considerably

The Indian population has varied considerably during the last thirty years. It is interesting to note that during the twenty years between 1907 to 1927 there was a decline from 110,000 to 104,000. Since then, however, it has been increasing, and according to the last departmental census taken in 1934, has now reached a total of 112,500. There has been set aside for these people some 2,000 reserves, varying in size from a few acres to five hundred square miles, and comprising an area of 5,170,000 acres of which 220,000 are under cultivation. The total value of the real and personal property of the Indians is estimated at over $71,000,000, or more than $600 per capita. Many Indian bands have trust funds derived from the sale and lease of lands and mineral rights, and the sale of timber. These funds, which amount to almost $14,000,000, are administered by the Department for the benefit of the Indians concerned.

Our Indian administration is motivated by two main ideas, protection and advancement. As to protection, our laws and methods leave little to be desired. Every effort is made to protect the Indians from the acts of unscrupulous people, and from the results of their own folly. Accordingly, they are regarded as minors by law, and although this attitude may be subject to criticism, nevertheless, without such safeguards it would be impossible for the Government to preserve their estate.

As has been stated, the problems of the Indians depend largely on their environment. The same economic laws apply to them as to their white neighbors, and consequently the depression brought decreased incomes and decreased employment. Consequently, the Government, which follows the policy of regarding the welfare of the Indians as a special and separate responsibility, was forced to spend larger amounts for Indian relief.

The condition of those who occupy lands suitable for agriculture, and who are close to industrial centres, is steadily improving, with better prices for farm products and more opportunities for employment. Many of the Indians rapidly become skilled workmen and are employed in industry as machinists, carpenters and structural steel workers. The women are especially skilful in the production of native handicrafts, such as baskets, bead and porcupine-quill work. Much of this work is unique, and articles of genuine Indian manufacture are eagerly sought after by tourists. Their wood carving and leather work is distinctive and of high quality. Many of the Indians are adept in the art of making snowshoes, hockey sticks, axe handles, and other specialties. Formerly, an excellent market for Indian wares existed, but during the depression period the demand had considerably decreased. The Department is making a survey to ascertain the extent to which the commercial possibilities of these native crafts and industries may be increased.

Problem of the Hunting Indian

The problem of the hunting Indian is different. Although by nature adapted to the industry of fur hunting, he has found competition from the white trapper too severe to withstand. The Indian families are, as a rule, permanent residents of the areas in which they trap, and in the past they attempted to conserve the game, as in many cases their actual survival depended upon conservation. On the other hand the white trappers will frequently trap out an area and then move on elsewhere. This type of trapper might be called a fur-miner. Moreover many white trappers are often guilty of using poison bait, and this practice is becoming a serious menace to game conservation. It is worthy of note that not a single case of the use of poison by an Indian trapper has ever been reported to the Department. The effect is that, under the spur of white competition, the Indians tend to forget their traditions of conservation. Naturally they feel they must take what fur they can before it is all gone. Thus in some areas a situation has developed that threatens valuable species with extinction. There is, for example a large area in northern Manitoba from which, in 1902, over 700,000 muskrat skins were harvested. By 1910 the annual catch had been reduced to 300,000 skins, and in 1924, the number sold was 8,600. Today, very few skins are marketed from this region. It is thus apparent that, failing special protection, the Indian trappers in the northern regions will become destitute owing to game depletion. With the opening up of the northland in the search for minerals, the problem becomes even more serious. As a result of close co-operation between the local government and the Department, some headway has been made in the setting aside of large protected areas in the Northwest Territories and northern Quebec, where none but Indians may hunt or trap. Plans are under way for the establishment of similar preserves in other provinces, and, wherever possible, these will be located close to the reserves.

FINDS BRITAIN'S DOORS LOCKED

Mrs. Eve Clayton Bickford, above, who was barred from returning to England after a flying visit to Berlin, is reported to have said British immigration officials suspected her of being a spy. Mrs. Bickford, wife of H. C. Bickford, wealthy Buffalo, N.Y., real estate dealer, was forced to return to Berlin after being questioned at length at Croydon airport.

The problem connected with the education of the Indian children is one which presents many difficulties, which are increased owing to the fact that the population is so scattered. Almost two million dollars is spent yearly in carrying on this work. There are at present seventy-nine residential schools, and two hundred and seventy day schools, having a combined enrolment of over 18,000 children. In some cases special vocational training is given and promising graduates are assisted to continue their studies in the higher schools and universities. Many of these students enter the professions, and several of them are holding positions of responsibility. Perhaps too much stress has been placed upon academic education in the past, with the result that the Indian pupil graduated from school only to find himself without the means of making a living. It is hoped that increasing vocational training will help to solve this problem.

Health of Indians of Great Importance

The health of the Indian is of greatest importance. As is the case of all aboriginal races, they possess little immunity to the epidemic diseases such as influenza and pneumonia. Every effort is being made, with the limited funds available, to prevent the spread of tuberculosis and trachoma. Instruction in sanitation and hygiene, combined with treatment in the early stages of the diseases, are having some effect. The Department strives to provide medical and hospital facilities to the Indian wherever possible, with the result that infant mortality is gradually decreasing. The fact that the Indians are increasing in number is evidence that better results are being obtained from the expenditures made for their medical care, which now exceeds $900,000 a year. With the experience of the past, it is hoped that still better results will be obtained in the future.

When we consider the problem of administering all phases of government to a widely-scattered population of more than 110,000 people of different languages, and whose problems vary with their environment, we begin to realize the number of difficulties that arise.

From the time of the first British settlement in New England, the title of the Indians to lands occupied by them has been acknowledged and compensation has always been made for the surrender of their hunting lands. Canada has always endeavored to be fair and just in her dealing with her Indians. As a consequence, the Indians have been loyal to the British Crown. In 1776, and again in 1812, they gave of their best to preserve British prestige. More than 4,000 voluntarily enlisted for the Great War, a number that represented approximately thirty-five per cent of the male population of military age.

Before the coming of the white man, the Indian had established a culture that was rich in tradition, but which fell before the onslaught of European civilization. The aim of the Government is to make the Indian self-sustaining once again. The encouraging results of the past indicate that this is possible through a re-awakening of initiative, ambition, and self-reliance.

Much can be done by a development of a feeling of understanding and sympathy on the part of all whites. The helping of the Indians to attain their proper place in our national life presents a problem, the solution of which demands the active and intelligent interest and co-operation of all Canadians.

Cole Brothers' Circus Playing Here Tomorrow

Comes to Sherbrooke Fresh From Triumphs in Chicago Stadium and Under Its Own Big-Top—Circus Travelling in Three Special All-Steel Trains of Double-Length Cars.

Tomorrow will be a big day in the lives of many Sherbrooke residents—children and adults alike—as it will mark the first time in at least twelve years that a circus has appeared in the city. Fresh from triumphs in the gigantic Chicago Stadium and under its own big-top, one of the largest in the world, the Cole Brothers' Circus will appear in Sherbrooke tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Plateau Camirand in East Sherbrooke.

Known as "The Finest Show on Earth," the circus is travelling in three special all-steel trains of double length cars. The first section, known as the "flying squadron," will arrive in town over the Canadian National Railway tomorrow morning.

The Cole Brothers banner this year flies over what is claimed to be the greatest assemblage of circus performers ever gathered together by one organization. From the first second of "La Seville," the splendid kaleidoscopic opening tournament and pageant, until the Great Florenz, who close the show with his spectacular somersaulting automobile, there is not a dull moment.

Sandwiched between the two sensational displays are such famous personages as Clyde Beatty, the greatest wild animal trainer the world has ever known, and his cageful of forty-three ferocious man-eating lions and tigers; Jorgen

Christiansen's spectacular and history-making company of twenty-four Liberty Horses in one ring at a time; the Great Gretonas, who defy death twice daily by their breath-taking feats and courage on the high wire without even a net beneath them; beautiful Dorothy Herbert, intrepid equestrienne, recognized generally as the world's greatest; Harriet Beatty, who enters the great circular all-steel arena with a black-maned Nubian lion, a vicious Bengal tiger and a huge Siamese elephant; three of nature's most deadly enemies, and a whole congress of clowns who provoke gales of laughter with their merry antics and capers.

In the big menagerie tent, the Cole Brothers Circus exhibits one of the largest and most valuable travelling collections of wild and rare animals in the world. There will be seen, at close range, Beatty's almost-priceless collection of jungle-bred lions and tigers; herds of elephants which perform in the three rings to commands by Eddie Allen, master elephant trainer, and a trio of beautiful girls; caravans of camels, herds of zebras, buffaloes and bison, and other animals seldom seen outside their natural haunts in the jungles, deserts and mountains in remote corners of the world.

Gates to the big-top will be opened one hour before the two and eight p.m. performances to allow a leisurely inspection of the menagerie.

Stresses Striking Contrast Given In Canada's Last Federal Budget

New York, June 20.—(C.P.—) "A striking and, from our standpoint, depressing contrast," the New York Herald Tribune says today in an editorial comparing the Canadian budgetary picture presented last week by Hon. Charles Dunning with that of the United States.

The Republican newspaper says the contrast quite naturally raises the question: How has the Dominion fared economically as compared with the United States? It continues: "The answer seems to be that, despite the fact that our northern neighbor has added only about one billion dollars to its debt burden while we were increasing ours by twenty-five times that figure, it has suffered less, if anything, than we have from the depression.

"Unlike the neo-economists at Washington, Mr. Dunning has the wit to see what should by now be plainly apparent to everyone—that the chief effect of heavy Government spending is, as he finds it, to dry up the springs of private initiative."

Increasing Difficulties May Force Japan To Mediate Chinese Trouble

London, June 20.—(C.P.—) "Japan's increasing difficulties in the Chinese campaign are fostering a spirit of moderation which may eventually lead to mediation of the conflict," the Daily Telegraph (Conservative) said today.

"If, as the Japanese allege, the embankments of the Yellow River have been broken by the Chinese without regard to the consequences for their own people, they have taken a decision that certainly does not suggest an early termination of Chinese resistance and will provide an interval wherein that resistance may be strengthened," the newspaper said.

"Every month while Japanese lines of communication lengthen in hostile country the Chinese have been building up new powers of resistance. The methods of frightfulness, as at Canton, have served but for strengthening the national spirit of the country.

"In these circumstances, it is the Japanese-created Government at Peking that has called upon Hankow for ending 'futile resistance'."

"Such a move is a symptom of growing doubt in Japan whether the dream of a final breakup of China can be realized, short of absolute exhaustion of Japanese resources."

"The first signs of a more moderate spirit in Japan, and a desire at least for indirect negotiation may have no immediate effects, for the floods gave the Chinese a partial respite. But they may bring nearer the day when mediation will not be so emphatically repudiated as it was last Friday by General Ugaki." (Japanese Foreign Minister Kagawa Ugaki).

New Discovery Aids Fight On Black Alkali

The remedy in turning over the soil or other methods to give it plenty of air.

Armed with these new facts, the Arizona chemists believe they can accurately control the amount of alkali in soil. Plants, like human beings, need a certain amount of alkalinity. Some plants thrive on a fairly high degree of alkalinity. For citrus fruits alkalinity control can be used to modify the flavor. The alkali tends to add a little sweetness. More important, the Arizona agricultural chemists think, is the possibility of regulating alkalinity to the point of causing the trees to yield a more juicy grade of fruit.

PLANT 1,000 ACRES

Halifax, June 20.—(C.P.—) The Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture has estimated that 1,000 acres have been planted with certified seed potatoes in King's County this year. This area is said to be seventy-five per cent of the certified seed potato area in the province.

Some locomotives contain more than two hundred tons of steel.

BRIDE-ELECT WAS HONORED AT KIRKDALE

Guild Members Gave Miscellaneous Shower in Honor of Miss Emily Nixon Prior to Her Marriage.

Kirkdale, June 20.—A bride-to-be in the person, of Miss Emily Nixon was given a miscellaneous shower by the ladies of the Kirkdale Guild at Holy Trinity Church Hall. About seventy persons were present.

The hall was suitably decorated for the occasion with spring flowers and potted plants. A bride's table was arranged under a white wedding-bell and flowing pink and white streamers. Centering the table was a two-story bride's cake decorated in accordance with the color scheme of pink and white.

The guests were received by the president, Mrs. John Beattie, vice-president, Mrs. R. F. Woodburn, and social convener, Mrs. L. E. Doyle. The honored guests with the bride-to-be were Mrs. D. D. Nixon, Mrs. F. Doyle, and Miss Jessie Lyster, as maid-of-honor, prettily gowned in pink. On their arrival they were ushered to the seats of honor at the bride's table by the Misses Bernice and Doris Beattie acting ushers. While a wedding march was played softly by the organist, Mrs. T. Patrick.

Little Miss Jane Ann Fye and Master Frederick Doyle dressed as little bride and groom, followed, then up the aisle, passed before the guests of honor, then, passing on to the ante-room, soon returned with a decorated wagon laden with gifts which were opened and passed to the bride-to-be for inspection. So numerous were the gifts, it was necessary to reload the wagon several times.

Rev. Warden gave a short address, after which Miss Nixon thanked her friends in a few well chosen words. After the guests had admired the gifts displayed on a long table, dainty refreshments were served by the ladies.

A toast proposed by Rev. Warden, was drunk to the bride's future happiness. Poems which accompanied several of the gifts were read and an appropriate song was sweetly rendered by Mrs. T. Patrick, bringing a pleasant afternoon to a close.

capital, and sweep the Yangtze for mines.

The Chinese reported four Japanese vessels were sunk in a raid by eight heavy bombers last yesterday. A Japanese naval communiqué confirmed the raid, but denied any ships were sunk.

At Kaifeng, Canadian mission centre in the Yellow River flood area, engineers expressed the belief the present flood had reached its peak and said the breached dikes could be repaired before a second rise is expected in July. They estimated at least 30,000 persons were drowned and missing as a result of the flood, while 100,000 had lost their homes.

THREATEN TO SEIZE ISLAND TO HALT FRENCH AID

Tokyo, June 20.—(C.P.—) Threats to seize the south China island of Hainan, a few miles off the French Indo-China coast, were reiterated by the Japanese Foreign Office today. They were coupled with renewed charges of French military aid to China.

Quoting "reliable sources," newspapers charged that together with sixty Soviet planes, thirty French planes, mostly high speed bombers, had arrived at Hankow early in June. It also was asserted that a number of French pilots who had served with the Republican forces in Spain have arrived at Yunnanfu, near the Indo-China border and were standing by for action there.

COLORS OF 5TH C.M.R. WERE REDEDICATED

Impressive Ceremonies Mark Reunion Of "Glorious Fifth"

Colors Followed During World War, Now Containing Battle Honors, Paraded Once Again—Lynn Atto, of Lennoxville, Elected President of 5th C.M.R. Battalion Association to Successor Guy Bryant.

Marching proudly behind the colors which they followed through many glorious achievements during the Great War, veterans of the Fifth Canadian Mounted Rifles paraded to St. Peter's Church yesterday morning and watched the colors rededicated with special services and deposited in the church for safe-keeping. The impressive service marked the close of a two-day reunion here, during which the annual meeting and election of officers was held and a wreath placed on the Soldiers' Monument.

Commanded by Col. R. "Dickie" Rhoades, D.S.O. and Bar, M.C., S.A., Croix de Guerre, of Toronto, the veterans assembled at the Sherbrooke Regiment Armory yesterday morning and marched to the church, where the service was conducted by Rev. Canon H. R. Bigg, chaplain of the Sherbrooke Regiment (M.G.), and rector of St. Peter's Church, assisted by N. D. Pileher, B.A. The parade was met at the door of the church by Rev. Canon Bigg and preceded by the choir, marched down the aisle. The armed escort remained at the foot of the chancel, while the color bearers followed the rector to the altar rail. Here the standards were given over to the rector, who placed them on the altar as the guard withdrew from the church. Special rededication prayers were then said, followed by Canon Bigg's address.

Self-sacrifice was taken by the rector as the subject of his address, which was constructed around the words "My Son, Remember." Canon Bigg contended that man forgets too easily and has a tendency to belittle the really great things. He declared that the greatest thing in life is to sacrifice everything for others and that those who gave their lives in the Great War had followed in the steps of Jesus Christ, who sacrificed His life for the world.

Nations which endeavor to dominate the world by power were described as harmful by the rector, who pointed out that the fight which should be waged today should be directed towards social justice and against political and industrial tyranny. Tribute was paid by Canon Bigg to the "Glorious Fighting Fifth" and its long list of battle honors.

Lynn Atto, of Lennoxville, was elected president of the unit at the annual meeting, during the course of which encouraging reports were tabled by the retiring president, J. G. D. Bryant, the treasurer, Clarence Price, and the secretary, H. Richard.

Following is the complete list of officers for the current year: Honorary president, General D. C. Draper, C.M.G., D.S.O., Toronto; honorary vice-presidents, Col. R. Rhoades, D.S.O., M.C., Toronto, and Col. B. B. Morrill, Stanstead. Executive members, Col. G. R. Parkes, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., Lieut. C. S. Rutherford, V.C., M.C., M.M., Col. Bruce Hutcheson, Montreal, and J. C. D. Bryant, past president, Sherbrooke. President, Lynn Atto, Lennoxville; vice-president, Joseph Harold, Montreal; treasurer, Clarence Price, Sherbrooke; secretary, H. Richard, Sherbrooke.

In the evening a banquet was held in the New Sherbrooke House, where brief remarks were made by several of the officers and singing of favorite war songs enjoyed.

Following the annual meeting Saturday afternoon, the veterans paraded from the New Sherbrooke House to the Soldiers' Monument, where prayers were said by Rev.

The colors of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles, which were rededicated yesterday morning following the addition of the battle honors. The battle honors are "Somme 1916," "Arras 1917," "Vimy 1917," "Hill 70," "Ypres 1917," "Passchendaele," "Amiens," "Canal du Nord," "Valenciennes," "Mont Sorel," "Flanders 1918," "Scarpe 1918," "Hindenburg Line," "Canal du Nord," "Sanbre" and "France and Flanders 1915-18."

TEN ARRESTS ON WEEK-END

George Boutin, of Sherbrooke, and Ralph Seaman, of Rock Forest, this morning forfeited their deposits, paid after being charged with drunkenness. At the same time six automobilists paid ten dollars and costs as an alternative to ten days in jail, and Joe Thompson, of East Angus, and William Andrews, of Sherbrooke, were given three dollars and costs or five days in jail, on charges of being intoxicated and found in a C.N.R. box-car.

Canon Bigg and a wreath placed by Joseph Cusack, of Montreal, the youngest member of the original Fifth Canadian Mounted Rifles. Mr. Cusack was awarded the Military Medal in March, 1918, and lost a leg at the battle of Arras the same year. The parade was headed by the Lennoxville Boy Scout Bugle and Drum Band, and the Last Post was sounded at the monument by a Scout bugler.

Honor of carrying the colors during the ceremonies was shared by Lieut. G. H. Legie, Sherbrooke Regiment, (M.G.) in command of the armed escort and Lieut. R. Bishop, 35th Field Battery, R.C.A. The guard comprised Sgt. Major Donat Boisvert, Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke, and Sgt. Major G. Barlow and Corporal W. E. Buck, Sherbrooke Regiment, (M.G.). Arrangements for the reunion, which was attended by nearly one hundred veterans from parts of Ontario and the Maritime Provinces, were made by Clarence Price, treasurer of the unit.

The colors, carried by the unit during the war, were temporarily removed from St. Peter's Church, the official custodian, in order that the regiment's battle honors might be emblazoned thereon. Won in service in France and Flanders from the years 1915 to 1918, the honors are "Mont Sorel, Somme 1916, Flanders 1918, Amiens Heights, Arras 1917, Vimy 1917, Hill 70, Passchendaele, Amiens, Scarpe 1918, Cambrai 1918, Valenciennes, Sanbre."

On Saturday evening, the regular reunion dinner was held in the Sherbrooke House under the presidency of Lynn Atto and drew about 120 members and guests. Proceedings were brief and formal, speeches being limited to short remarks by Col. Rhoades and Col. Morrill, while a short song-song was led by Guy Bryant.

Thousands Of Roman Catholics Took Part In Corpus Christi Ceremony

Thousands of Roman Catholics yesterday morning either took part in or lined the streets to witness the Corpus Christi procession, which proceeded with its usual solemnity from St. Michael's Cathedral to the Sacred Heart School on Alexander street for Holy Benediction, and then back via Ball, Brooks and Convent streets to the church.

Buildings along the procession route were impressively decorated with Sacred Heart and other religious flags, thousands of faithful occupying vantage points on verandas and balconies and lining the sidewalks several deep to watch the annual religious parade. All heart in reverence the Sacred Heart, carried by Mgr. J. E. M. Vincent, vicar of the Cathedral, who was assisted by Rev. L. Poulin as deacon and Rev. Romeo Laroux as sub-deacon by.

The Corpus Christi procession was led by sixteen police cadets under the command of Capt. Maurice Lacharite and Lt. Omer Daudelin. Among the members of the clergy attending were Rev. Canon Simard and Rev. Father L. P. Camirand, L. St. Laurent, J. Veilleux, R. Veilleux, J. Bileau, A. Belvel, K. Lamy, A. Foley and A. Charon. H. Lemay, members of the medical profession and members from numerous Roman Catholic schools.

This year the repository was at the Sacred Heart School, and following Holy Benediction the procession wended its way back to the Cathedral where it disbanded. Solemn music was furnished by the Sherbrooke Harmony Band.

Housing Bill Will Be Studied In Ottawa By Sherbrooke Delegation

A delegation of the local City Fathers, headed by Mayor Armitage and Ald. J. W. Genest, chairman of the Parks Committee, will leave for Ottawa tomorrow with a two-fold purpose in view. A study of the Government parks and playgrounds will be made, while officials of the Government will be interviewed regarding the recently adopted Housing Bill.

The City Council has been carrying on an extensive programme designed to beautify Sherbrooke and to provide facilities for recreation for local children, and it is felt that an examination of the famed parks of Ottawa will be of assistance in connection with further activity here.

It is hoped that the visit to the Capital will enable local officials to map plans for extended operations on the new Jacques Cartier Park on the shore of the Magog River.

The delegation will seek additional information regarding the Housing Bill by which the Government will loan up to $30,000,000 to assist in the construction of low-rental housing projects either by municipal bodies or limited dividend-housing corporations.

The bill was designed to strike a direct blow at what was said to be the greatest deterrent to building operations—municipal taxation. The Government will pay the whole municipal taxation the first year, fifty per cent the second year and twenty-five per cent the third year on owner-built houses costing up to $4,000. The Sherbrooke delegation plan to take the proposition with those most familiar with the bill, and to ask for an interpretation of the legislation, especially as regards Sherbrooke.

COUNCIL WAITS FOR PETITIONS ASKING PAVING

Will Not Inaugurate Paving of London Street Until Other Requests Have Been Received, So that Fairly Extensive Paving Programme May Be Launched at One Time.

Paving of Quebec street will not be undertaken until the city authorities have received requests for the surfacing of other thoroughfares. City Clerk Antonin Deslauriers stated to a Record reporter this morning.

The City Council recently decided that no paving work would be inaugurated unless requested by citizens, who are called upon to share fifty per cent of the cost. In the past, the city has decided upon what streets should be paved, without first obtaining the authorization of the property owners, with the result that a number of complaints were received at City Hall by citizens who protested that they had not been consulted and were now called upon to pay for paving work they considered unnecessary, for the time being, at least.

Several weeks before this decision was reached, the London street property holders petitioned the Council that this particular street be paved. The Council is prepared to grant this request, but will not inaugurate work until petitions regarding other streets have been received. This is so that a fairly extensive paving programme may be launched at one time.

THIEVES CHOSE ONLY ENTRANCE WITHOUT ALARM

Robbery Committee in Warehouse of Keeler and Cross' Store—Culprits Made Small Haul.

Breaking through the only entrance not protected by an otherwise adequate burglar-alarm system, thieves over the week-end entered the basement warehouse of Keeler and Cross, Wellington street North, but took very little of value as far as could be ascertained this morning.

The thief or thieves made entrance to the building by smashing two panes of glass on a door facing the parking lot in the rear of the store, and drawing the bolt from inside.

Rifling the goods in the outer room of the basement, the prowlers broke through another door and continued their activities in the inner-section.

Bert Keeler discovered the break-in yesterday afternoon and immediately called the radio police, but no trace of the culprits could be found. Only a few flashlight bulbs and batteries were taken.

Local Youth Plays Part In Rescue Of Black Lake Trio

Harold Shields, Well-Known Sherbrooke Athlete, Assisted in Saving Three Youths from Waters of Black Lake After Their Rowboat Capsized—Fourth Occupant of Craft Drowned—Nine Escaped Death or Serious Injuries When Cars Collided Near Richmond.

Harold Shields, twenty-two year old son of Joseph Shields, of Sherbrooke, was credited today with playing a large part in the rescue of three youths who were thrown into the waters of Black Lake, near Thetford Mines, last night when the rowboat in which they were fishing capsized. Benoit Cote, twenty-one, fourth occupant of the boat, was drowned.

Cote's death was the only fatal accident recorded in the Eastern Townships over the weekend, although nine persons miraculously escaped death or serious injuries when two cars collided near Richmond early Sunday morning.

Shields, in company with Jack Brennen and Pete Power, of Quebec, was driving along the highway which borders Black Lake when his attention was drawn to the lake by shouts for help. The trio jumped from their car, shed shoes and coats and plunged into the water. Two of the rescued youths, Mack Queen and Pete Ainsley, were unconscious when dragged to shore but recovered under artificial respiration by their almost-exhausted rescuers. Ludger Gravel was the third youth saved.

An hour and a half later the body of young Cote was removed from the water. Artificial respiration was practised but failed to revive him. The local youth, well known in Sherbrooke sporting circles, is employed at the Johnson Mine, in Thetford Mines.

Only cuts and gashes were received by nine persons riding in two cars which crashed almost head-on about three miles from Richmond early Sunday morning. One car contained Frank Labonte, his son Edmond, and a daughter, also Mrs. Emile Emond, her daughter, Marthe, and Arthur Mercier, all of Richmond. Young Labonte was driving. The other car was driven by M. Lemire, of Drummondville, and carried two passengers, also of Drummondville.

The Richmond car was returning home from Sherbrooke, while the automobile from Drummondville was proceeding towards Sherbrooke from their foster mother.

No man has a right to do as he pleases, except when he pleases to do right.—C. Simmons.

Builders Must Co-operate With Government

Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Finance, made it clear to builders that the $80,000,000 the Government is preparing to spend for homes will not be wasted by profiteering. "There is one way for this whole programme to be killed or to be deprived of its effectiveness," said Mr. Dunning, "and that is for those engaged in it, no matter who they may be, capital or labor, to regard it as an opportunity for increasing the prices of commodities they have to sell, irrespective of what these commodities may be. Everything that can be done to prevent anything of the sort will be done."

Power has been given, under the Housing Bill, for the Minister to investigate costs and all the factors entering into those costs. Power has also been given to the Governor-in-Council to terminate the legislation. Therefore, if it is found that private enterprises are taking advantage of the Government's bounty the whole scheme will likely fail.

The Housing Bill might well have proven a happy battle-ground for capital and labor, with the Government bearing the cost of war, had not Mr. Dunning made his stand perfectly clear. One of the greatest costs of construction is labor, and it is more than likely that wage increases would have been asked, and given, with the people paying the bill. How easy it would have been for an employer to blame high costs by showing a pay sheet that was out of proportion.

Without this clear statement on the part of the Finance Minister it is quite possible that the price of all basic building materials would have gone up, and costs would have soared. How often in the past have Government contracts proved a fine field for despoilers.

Under the scheme as it exists capital and labor must co-operate with the Government, or all contracts will be withdrawn. By this plan Mr. Dunning kills two birds with one stone. He fulfills a Government duty often neglected, namely that of guarding the people's money and seeing it is properly used, after it has been supplied. He also forces the lion of capital, to lie down in peace with the tiger of labor. As the proposition will doubtless be profitable to both its efforts are likely to be crowned with success, and for his work Mr. Dunning will receive just praise and honor.

Chinese Self-Sacrifice

The opinion is held that the Yellow River flood in China is a deliberate step taken by the Chinese in an effort to roll back the Japanese army, or submerge them under the roaring waters.

Shanghai Chinese, discussing the flood, are absolutely undisturbed at the prospect of widespread suffering and death over the North China plains. Typical of the Chinese philosophy, that has placed filial devotion as man's chief duty and has laid a powerful but stagnating hand on China, a middle class, American educated Chinese said, "If the breaks in the Yellow River dykes are the work of the Chinese army it is justified. The Japanese war machine must be stopped at any cost. We today hold the same philosophy as the mythical Chinese sage who, rebelling against a tyrant emperor, expressed his ideas in an allegory to his followers. This sage, taking a solemn vow, said, 'If I perish the sun will perish with me.' Many Chinese believe that heaven is saving the Middle Kingdom. I can't say I disagree."

This quiet acceptance of a major disaster involving great loss of life can perhaps be better understood when it is realized how cheap life is in China. China is literally teeming with her millions. More people speak Chinese than any other language in the world. Life is, indeed, cheap, but to keep faith with one's ancestors and gods is important, for the proudest merchant prince to the lowliest coolie.

It is this philosophy, carried out in everyday living, that has given both life and stagnation to China. It has brought life in that the Chinese have been able to face all their adversities with a calm assurance that in the end they would be delivered. The form of that deliverance has always been the absorption of their conquerors. China today has a race which includes among its forbears the fierce fighters of Genghis Khan, the Manchu and Mongolians. Even the proud Nipponese, with their dangerous Western toys, would in time succumb to the unconquerable Chinese philosophy.

But with this life has come stagnation. With worship of ancestors the centre of Chinese religion progress has been slow, for the son, loving his father, believes he can do nothing better than his worth sire, and follows rigidly in his footsteps. Instead of improving his tools, looking ahead and fighting for a higher place in the world, he is content to remain as his father and father's father was before him.

Today China is more united than ever before. Fighting sternly against Japan, the Chinese seem to have shaken off their accustomed submissiveness. With their newly-found back-bone working in conjunction with their age-old philosophy and spirit of self-sacrifice it seems that in the end Japan will be driven out.

Your Best Self

By Grenville Kleiser.

The truly valiant man recognizes no such thing as failure. He regards mistakes, misfortunes and misjudgments as practical lessons in wisdom and personal discipline. Though he does not accomplish the particular object in view, he thinks of it, not as failure, but as a means to a higher purpose.

The most successful men have used seeming failures as stepping-stones to better things. It is not failure but lack of earnest and continued effort which causes so many men to fall behind in life's race. Men who seriously and diligently try without succeeding, are deserving of greater praise than those who succeed by sheer luck. It is well to remember that right effort, combined with industry and earnestness, will ultimately bring sure reward.

You resolve to live up to a high standard of personal conduct. You resolve to be kind, dignified, confident, and worthy. But at the close of the day you are conscious of not having fulfilled the terms of your resolution.

Upon careful examination you find that you have omitted the special act of kindness, have been timid, possibly undignified, have talked much of self, and have done little to elevate yourself in the esteem of your fellow men.

Hence the importance of regular daily self-examination to discover your special needs and shortcomings. To live up to a high standard requires persistent effort and vigilance. When you make a new resolution, fortify it with a still greater resolve to fulfil it. Only fulfilled resolutions are valuable.

Things are great or small, important or trifling, by comparison. Most of our past worries proved insignificant or imaginary when measured with the great facts of life.

If you once form the habit of selecting and dwelling upon important subjects only, you will have neither time nor inclination for the petty worries which beset so many lives. Anxiety, irritation, despair, fear and the like, are mental, and, therefore, must be destroyed mentally.

As you realize the folly of indulging these habits, you will more diligently strive to eliminate them from your life. They are not only worthless, but a serious handicap in the race for success. Think constructively, and doubtful and discordant elements will fall away from inattention.

Be true to your best self, to your highest ideals and inspirations. It is not what you assert but what you think that determines your real place in the world.

Have the courage to pursue your innate high ideals, and presently men will come to your way of thinking. Truth is a power unto itself.

This infallible power is yours to command and use, and in precisely the degree that you do use it will you be strong, confident, and noble. As you daily develop and accumulate reserves of mental and spiritual power, you will be the better ready for the responsibilities, emergencies, and obligations of life.

Experience is the great schoolmaster. It constantly disciplines you through tests, trials and difficulties. It imposes stern penalties for mistakes and misjudgments. Thus you learn the penalty of waste of time, the scattering of energies, the pursuit of ill-considered plans, and the prodigal squandering of physical and mental power.

Do the day's work as well as you can. Constantly aim to increase your efficiency and to attain the best possible results, so that at the close of the day you may have the satisfaction of having made substantial progress. It is this spirit that produces the indispensable man, the man who is in constant demand.

When you do your best you are in direct line for promotion. Whether you are an employer or an employee, you will derive the greatest pleasure from work that you do to the best of your ability.

Today offers you a chance for further advancement. Every minute is significant to the ambitious worker. Do your best today and so make each succeeding day a better one than ever before.

PROTESTANT SETTLEMENT QUESTION

Letters in Montreal Gazette

Sir,—A news article appeared in your paper on the 8th of June last entitled: "Bishop of Quebec Sees Colony's Ruin—Deplores Restriction on Protestant Settlement in North and in Townships." His Lordship alludes to two letters which I wrote, one calling for settlers, the other suggesting that Protestant settlers be sent in preference to the Eastern Townships. Will you allow me to explain them?

In the spring of 1937, in order to encourage the clearing and bringing under cultivation of lots, the Government made a special grant of $15 per acre, besides the statutory bonus of $10 per acre, up to five acres per lot. The 94 families established at Farmbough, in Joannes Township, cleared 11 acres of land. The regulations require that at least three acres of land per lot be cleared each year. For the 94 families, there therefore remain 271 acres out of a total of 282 which should have been cleared. The climate in this region is very severe and the land fairly difficult to clear. I thought that in proposing that the colonists settle in a district where the climate was more temperate and the drainage of land easier, it would greatly facilitate their work and induce them to clear as quickly as possible the lots which they might take up.

In closing, I would asked you to kindly publish the enclosed copy of a letter which I sent to His Lordship, Bishop Carrington, on the 4th of June last prior to the meeting of the Anglican Synod at Sherbrooke. This will explain more perfectly the whole matter and prevent any misunderstanding.

J. ERNEST LAFORCE,
Deputy Minister.
Quebec, P.Q., June 11th 1938.

PRESS COMMENTS

CZECHOSLOVAKIA AND POLAND

(Stephen Gwynn in the Fortnightly, London.)

Experience shows that when war breaks out between any two nations in Europe it spreads; and we may fairly assume that Herr Hitler will not go where war is certain—as it would be in Czechoslovakia. But since he has got control of Vienna, all Czechoslovakia's outlets to the sea must pass through either German or Polish territory. This gives a formidable prospect of economic pressure, because, unfortunately, Prague's relations with Poland are no better than with Germany. There is a trouble here much more serious than that of the Sudeten Germans. Poles complain that in 1920 when Bolshevik Russia had almost overrun their country, the Czechs entered, occupied and held the district of Teschen, with its population of about 200,000 Poles. They claim further that no provision of separate schools is made for these people, no means to preserve their language and Polish spirit. If that be so, it is in marked contrast to the treatment which the Sudeten Germans receive for they have their own university and a full system of secondary and higher education through German. The Czechs receive a stipulated proportion of public employment. It is, of course, possible that the Czech Government may have decided to deal in one way with one element so large that its demands must be treated with consideration, while their intention was to absorb and assimilate the smaller, more manageable group.

TORY, BUT LIBERAL.

(St. Catharines Standard.)
The British Government is Tory from the ground up, consisting of men who belong to the class generally regarded as privileged. And yet there is a bill under way to provide ex-members of Parliament and their widows with a pension, a bill which will palpably benefit chiefly those Labor men who serve in a public capacity, but have no private resources. It is another evidence of the great democracy which exists in the United Kingdom.

WRONG WAY AROUND

(Le Droit, Ottawa.)
It was revealed the other day that a sculptor intended to place over the peace arch, at the entrance to the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa, a female beaver with a litter of nine little ones. This family of beavers, to the author, was intended to symbolize Canada and the nine provinces. Whoever imagined this symbolization did not know much about the habits of these industrious animals. On seeing the model, someone remarked that it was wrong that the litter of the female beaver never exceeds three or four. The model had to be discarded, and the space which it was to occupy over the peace arch will remain bare until something better is found to symbolize Canada and the nine provinces.

This artist's conception is false on other points. To represent Canada and its nine provinces is to commit a historical error. It is to imply that Canada gave birth to the provinces. Historical truth is different. Canada did not give birth to the provinces, at least to Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario, but these provinces gave birth to the Central Government.

So this beaver family is not very symbolic of Canada's Confederation, and it was the proper thing to put the mother and her offspring to one side, in Parliament's cellar, forever. It may be hoped that a happier choice will be made for the new emblem to be sculptured over the peace arch at the main entrance to the Parliament Buildings.

"Quebec, June 4, 1938.
"The Right Reverend Philip Carrington, Lord Bishop of Quebec, 69 d'Auteuil street, Quebec, P.Q.

"My Lord Bishop:—I received and read attentively your letter of June 8th with copy of accompanying address which Your Lordship proposes to deliver at the opening of the Diocesan Synod in Sherbrooke on Tuesday next.

"Would you kindly permit me to state that prior to reading the above address, I had the pleasure of meeting the Honorable Prime Minister of the Province, and we discussed the question of establishing Protestant settlers in the Province. The Honorable Prime Minister is very favorable to the project and stated that: 'In colonization, there must not be any distinction as to race or religion. We are all British subjects and every one of those wishing to become established on new land has a right to do so, with all the aid which the State can reasonably give.'

"I understand, Your Lordship, that in the past, difficulties were experienced, due to local circumstances. It may happen that the policy which I shall follow may not appeal to certain persons, but everybody will be treated alike, and you may rest assured that your settlers will receive all the protection which the Government can give.

"We will be ready to receive settlers soon in Joannes Township and in other localities where there are available lots, and I will personally see to it that the settlers whom you may send are well treated.

"I hope that this letter will help to change your point of view with respect to Protestant settlers.

"I remain, Your Lordship, "Yours very truly,
"(Signed) J. ERNEST LAFORCE,
Deputy Minister."

The Last Mile

Important as is the First Mile in every enterprise, as well as in life, the Last Mile is vastly more important.

The percentage of those who fail after reaching the age of fifty and who do not regain success, is amazing. Their start—their First Mile—may have been glorious—and all down the following stages toward their final goal they undoubtedly felt that the Last Mile belonged also to them. But how many drop out of the race of life—just before the Last Mile, or before the final tape is reached!

It is that extra something—call it nerve, faith, hope, stamina—what you will—that drives one to his goal, and returns him as winner. Perhaps it may be that last minute, instead of Last Mile. At any rate, every man and woman should be fortified with it, as reserve, to carry him or her through to the end.

That valiant naval Commander whose ship was being shattered under his feet, and who was called upon to surrender, had that Last Mile within his heart, for he cried out, "I have not yet begun to fight!"

I have been thinking a great deal about this Last Mile, and I have decided that every man and woman should carry it concealed within their hearts. Then, when discouragement comes, when things look dark, and when Hope just flickers, pull out that Last Mile. Make it lead you on. Make it carry you through.

Make that Last Mile a triumphant one. Make it an expression of all that the race and contest of life has been for you. Make it stand for the monogram of your soul! Make it a flaming sign to guide many another who, like yourself, has borne the heat and struggle of the day, and moved on, regardless.

Make that Last Mile, my friend. It has been made by others all through the years—time and time again. What others have done YOU can do.

NIGHT-FALL O'ER A HAMLET.

In a hamlet miles away
From the cities' roar,
I chanced to stroll at close of day
Where ne'er I'd been before.

Gently shades of night crept on,
Lulling all to sleep;
From the windows curtain-drawn
Rays of lamplight peep.

O'er the distant verdant hills
The Queen of Night looks down,
And with glory, rapture spills
O'er that little town.

Tranquil, hushed, and bathed in night,
That golden orb climbs higher;—
'Tis surely naught but keen delight,
The landscape to admire!

To break the silence of the night
Now faintly can be heard,
Silvery notes of cow-bells light
And twitters of a bird.

Wings of night-hawks cleave the air,
Whirring in their flight;
With majestic beauties rare,
Vapors kiss the night.

Who can gaze on silhouettes
Etched against the sky,
Without the urge void of regrets
To praise our God on high?

Scottown, June 20.—A very quiet wedding took place at St. Andrew's manse, Scottown, on June 6th, when Miss Lillian Ethel Webb, of Rock Island, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Richard Ball, of Waterville. The bride, who was unattended, wore a travelling suit of navy blue with navy hat and accessories and carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses.

Rev. C. J. Gustafson was the officiating clergyman. Among those from out of town who attended the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Ceylon Ball, Miss Mary Ball, Mr. Owen Ball and Mr. Edward Ball, of Waterville, Mr. John Webb, Mr. and Mrs. E. Webb and Miss Webb, of Rock Island.

AUDET—CREPEAU

The marriage of Madeleine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Armand Crepeau, to Mr. Jean-Paul Audet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Audet, was solemnized in the Church of Notre Dame du Perpetuel Secours at ten o'clock on Saturday morning, June 18th, Rev. Father H. H. d'Auteuil, S.J., officiating.

The church was beautifully decorated with banks of potted ferns and tall standards filled with white peonies, the same flowers tied with white tulle, marking the pews reserved for the wedding guests.

The musical programme included solos by Miss Fernande Lemieux, Miss Kathleen Shea and Mr. Marcel Dufresne, with Mr. Hector St. Pierre presiding at the organ.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a simple fashioned gown of white tulle illusion with appliques of Princess lace, the very full skirt ending in a train. Her short veil was held in place with a cluster of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and bouvardia.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Manon Cote, of Montreal, wore a dainty frock of pink and blue embroidered organza made with a full skirt and trimmed with velvet puffs, a large leghorn hat, and carried an old fashioned Colonial nosegay of pansies.

Mrs. Crepeau, the bride's mother, wore a charming creation of black and white chiffon, a large white Bakus straw hat banded in black and corsage of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Audet, mother of the groom, wore a chic beige ensemble with lace jacket, a hat of matching straw and corsage of sweetheart roses.

The ushers were Messrs. Roger Delisle, Richard Crepeau, Roger Belanger and Yves Gadbois. The reception was held at the Magog House where a profusion of pink and white peonies were used in decorating, the bride's table carrying out the same color scheme with silver vases of pink and white larkspur and pale pink candles in silver candlesticks.

The bride and groom left for a honeymoon trip to Cape Cod and New York, the bride travelling in a smart white ensemble in two shades of blue, a small flower toque and blue accessories.

EXERCISE IS BEST TO SHED HEAVY HIPS

You are probably looking ahead to the season of swim suits, shorts and sheer summer frocks. All of which is very nice, providing you have a figure that can stand showing off. If not—if your muscles are flabby and your posture nothing to boast about, get busy now, for you still have three or four weeks in which to get yourself in shape.

The following exercises are just what you need for posture, for heavy hips, lazy shoulders or what have you.

This one is especially good for the shoulders and upper back:
Sit on the floor cross-legged, hips well under you and your body balanced directly over the bones on which you are sitting. Put your hands palms upward, well forward on your lap. Then bend forward from your hips until your head almost touches the floor. Take a deep breath and count 6 while raising slowly to an upright position. Repeat 5 to 10 times.

The good old scissors stroke with your legs such as you take in swimming is a splendid exercise for the hips and thighs. While you are on the floor, stretch out, lying on your left side with your left arm under your head, stretched out and palm up. Put your right hand on the floor in front of your chest to help balance your body during the exercise. Now lift both feet off the floor, and move them back and forth vigorously like scissors blades. The knees should be held straight during this movement and the movement should come from the hips. Really work at this exercise until your legs are tired.

Here is another that will smooth away that roll of flesh around the hips and help develop other muscles as well. Sit on the floor with the legs straight and the feet together. Put your hands on the floor a little behind you. Now roll over to the left while you lift your right hand and put it beside your left. Keep your elbows straight and stay in this position while you stretch and tense your muscles. Raise your head and look at the back of your knees. Relax and roll over to the other side, repeating each movement. Roll about 6 times in each direction. As soon as you master the movement, a series of push ups can be put into the exercise.

If you are the least bit overweight, be sure to combine these exercises with a sensible diet. This is not always necessary, however, as many women who are normal or even underweight have too fleshy hips and other figure faults that need correcting by exercise.

Here is an exercise that will help straighten your spine and overcome the exaggerated hollow at the small of your back.
Lie on the floor with your arms at your sides, your knees bent so the weight of your body is resting lightly on the balls of your feet. Now raise the base of your spine off the floor, at the same time flattening the rest of it against the hard surface of the floor. Notice how flat your abdomen becomes and how high your chest when you are lying in this position. Repeat 10 times. When your posture is right and your figure slim, your summer clothes will have the distinction they deserve.

Profiles For Today

FATHERS, SEE WHAT A MOTHER DID FOR YOU

A Mother created "Fathers' Day."

She is Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Washington, who 28 years ago crystallized her own vision with the successful celebration of the first day-a-year set aside to honor "father."

The realization of her dream in Spokane, in 1910, culminated Mrs. Dodd's efforts for several years to enlist the interest of professional organizations and prominent individuals in the inauguration of a "Fathers' Day."

All over the country other cities followed Spokane's lead and in 1914 Congress passed an act making Fathers' Day a national institution. Other countries quickly followed suit, and soon the red rose of living tribute and the white rose of remembrance were being worn in respect for fathers in Germany, Sweden, Korea, Japan, Mexico, Hawaii, Canada and India.

Mrs. Dodd founded and was first president of the International Fathers' Day Association, which has its headquarters in Spokane. She still holds the office of honorary president in this organization. Women's clubs have honored her, among them the Spokane Federation of Women's Clubs, the Women's Christian Union, and Quota International.

Mrs. Dodd is an artist and author of tales based on Indian legends. Her lifelong interest in the colorful folklore of the North American Indian has won her the title of "White Eagle"—so named by the Blackfeet tribe because they consider her recording of their legends in sculpture, painting, and in stories, as being the work of "one who soars in the heavens."

This Blackfeet tribute is one which Sonora Louise Dodd wears with great pride—and with as much poise. For her entire life has been filled with high aspiration and purpose.

Back now in Spokane after writing and painting in many cities in the United States, Mrs. Dodd has her own studio, continuing her modeling and research into Indian lore.

Beauty Tips

The greatest users of vivid nail polishes are not as you might suppose Americans or Parisians, but South Africans! The wealthy class there are the Boers, landed proprietors related to the Dutch. They raise the per capita consumption of nail polish to its most generous figure, according to one of the biggest nail polish manufacturers on this continent. Argentina and Brazil are South Africa's closest rivals for the painted nail record.

When you have stood on your feet all day and expect to make them dance a large part of the night, treat them to a 15-minute soaking in your warm tub or in a basin of soapy water, dry them with a fresh dry towel and massage with eau de Cologne. Then thoroughly dry, change to clean stockings. If you have time for a short rest, lie down on your bed or a couch, and prop your feet up on a pillow for 15 minutes longer. They will carry you through the evening for this pampering.

If you are your own cleaning woman and landlady, take advantage of washday to give your face a regular Turkish bath. Wash it thoroughly and put on a thick layer of cold cream or softening cream. Roll your hair on curlers and tie a bandana over your head. Now get to work. The warm moisture from the tubs will soften your skin and enable it to absorb much of the softening cream. At the same time the perspiration will flush the pores of all their impurities. Remove the cream and sponge the skin with cold water morning's work. Your skin skin tonic when you have finished

Lennoxville Garden Party Much Enjoyed

Successful Event Held Under Auspices of Young Women's Association of Lennoxville United Church.

The spacious green lawn of the Lennoxville United Church formed a picturesque background for the very successful garden party held on Saturday afternoon by the Young Women's Association of the Lennoxville United Church. Small tables, centred with low bowls of multi-colored pansies were the rendezvous for the many patrons who came to while away an hour or so in pleasant conversation while partaking of the appetizing and daintily served afternoon tea.

The long tea table was presided over by Mrs. F. R. Matthews and Mrs. Ethel L. Seale, and was attractively decorated with a large silver basket of yellow and mauve flowers, tall yellow tapers in silver holders and the gleaming silver tea services. Mrs. Elmer Bickley, who acted as convener of the tables, was ably assisted in serving by Mrs. Walter Cox, Mrs. Philip Walton and the Misses Geraldine Seale, Eileen Stalker and Hazel Crosby.

Activities in the kitchen were in charge of Mrs. A. L. Kheuner and Mrs. Eric Lennon, with Mrs. W. J. Marlin making the tea, and the Misses Rita Spry and Florence Rollins serving the ice-cream.

Miss Irene George acted as treasurer.

General Notes

"Glory In Church" was taken by Rev. F. R. Matthews, pastor of the Lennoxville United Church, as the subject of a fine address to his large congregation on Sunday morning. The anthem, "Praise Ye the Lord," with a bass solo part by Charles Greenfield, was sung by the choir, under the direction of James P. Keough, with Miss Patricia Watson as organist. In the evening, the pastor discussed "The Voice of Jesus," its power and magnetic qualities, and pointed out that the Bible says "He spoke with authority." The lovely old anthem, "Thou Wilt Keep Him In Perfect Peace," was the offering by the choir. The flowers in the church for these services were the gift of Mrs. George Sutherland and Mrs. Allan MacKenzie.

In spite of the uncertain weather on Saturday afternoon, a goodly number of golf enthusiasts enjoyed this popular sport at the Lennoxville Golf Club and found the course in excellent condition. The usual enjoyable afternoon tea, served on the clubhouse veranda, concluded the afternoon's games. The hostesses were Mrs. Sadie Ball, Mrs. George Doak, Mrs. Donald R. Clark and Miss Margaret Loach, of Lennoxville, and Mrs. Layton, of Sherbrooke.

Mrs. W. A. Henderson was hostess to about fifteen members of the Asot Women's Institute and friends from Huntingville at a charmingly arranged tea at her home on Saturday. During the afternoon cards were played by some of the guests, while others spent the time in friendly conversation. Later the hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. M. A. Smiley and Mrs. J. H. Woodside.

Mrs. Emily Nutbrown, of Montreal, was in town recently, where she was called by the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. William Benton at her home on Academy street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Henderson, accompanied by Miss June Hyatt and Melvin Hyatt, motored to Windsor Mills last week to attend the funeral of Mrs. James McCullough.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Douglas have returned from their honeymoon motor trip through the White Mountains, and spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Douglas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Henderson, prior to taking up their residence on Hall Avenue, Sherbrooke.

You And Your Child

CHILD NEEDS FRIENDS HIS OWN AGE

Little George always tags after brother Edwin, his senior by three years. Originally this was mother's idea. She wanted Edwin to mind George, and for a long time it worked successfully because the little fellow was disposed to obey. But now there is a change. Little George no longer wants to do as he is told. There's no fun in just going along to watch. He wants to play, too.

Edwin naturally complains to mother, who in turn regards it as her solemn duty to scold the little fellow. Each time, however, he has registered the same protest, that Edwin is too bossy.

Of course Edwin has been bossy, but only lately has it become a source of irritation to George, who is learning to think for himself and needs to express himself. Putting an older child in charge of a younger one inevitably leads to bossiness. The strong always want to dominate the weak. We find this tendency even in certain parent-child relationships. Not infrequently an older child gets the idea for this from his parents.

A domineering big brother or sister generally is motivated by the best of intentions. He wants to spare the little one unnecessary pain and disappointment and so he undertakes to dictate what must and must not be done.

Although this may sound like a safe plea offhand, it never works because from continuously telling anyone what he must do one eventually develops a conscience about his actions and an intolerant attitude toward mistakes that are bound to cause rebellion.

When little children get the habit of saying no to everything or do the opposite of what they are told, it is a sign that those in charge are too strict and inclined to overlook individual needs. Little George should have friends of his own among whom he can exercise his birthright to think and act for himself.

Making big brother little brother's keeper is no kindness to either child. Soft cheese pushed through a sieve looks like grated cheese and will give a decorative touch to many dishes.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

DECLARER MAKES OPPONENT PLAY TO WINNING TRICKS

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
Secretary, American Contract Bridge League

Sometimes I wonder if the readers of a bridge column get half the fun out of solving the problems of the players as the holder did when he held the hand. Unfortunately, it is necessary to give you every hand as a double dummy problem, with all hands exposed, while the player has no such advantage until after he has made the fateful decision upon which the success or failure of his play rests.

Here for example is a hand played by Richard W. Lee, of Indianapolis, playing with F. R. Buck, of the same city, in the recent Wabash Valley Tournament at Terre Haute in which they finished second.

The seemingly better contract of four hearts cannot be made, because declarer has no entry to his hand to extract the third round of trumps. At no trump it is obvious that clubs cannot be established in time, and if

Contract Problem (Solution in next issue)

Yes, the so-called double dummy defense will often defeat a contract, but fortunately at bridge we are allowed to make the most of our opportunities. East held the opening lead, then shifted to a trump. Can you discover the correct play to give declarer his contract?

diamonds are first played, South will have no entry to cash his good heart, if the suit establishes without loss.

Mr. Lee said that his one chance was to find East with the diamond king, if he could be induced to play it. Therefore, after cashing the ace and queen of hearts, the best play seemed to be a low diamond from dummy. East had no choice but to go up with his king. He returned a spade, and South now cashed three more heart tricks, then finessed the jack of diamonds and cashed the diamond ace for the ninth trick.

STEELS AND MOTORS LED NEW YORK GAINS

New York, June 20.—Strength in steels and motors imparted a strong undertone to the stock market today and selected issues in virtually all groups advanced fractions to around three points.

The fly in the more optimistic ointment, however, was the lack of sizable volume on the upturn. While dealings were considerably faster than in last week's apathetic sessions, the ticker tape never had any trouble in keeping pace with orders. Quotations were near the top at the approach of the second hour.

Prominent on right-about were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Westinghouse, Deere, International Harvester, Texas Corp. and Allis Chalmers.

PRICES MIXED AND FAIRLY STEADY AT MONTREAL

STEAL HAM

Westville, N.S., June 20.—Burglars who broke into the grocery store of James A. MacQuarrie combined business with pleasure. When the proprietor entered the store he found the burglars had taken a cooked ham from the refrigerator and cut themselves a few slices on the cutting machine as they rifled the building.

Country And Dairy Products Prices

Montreal, June 20.—Butter prices ended the week decidedly firm, further fractional gains being recorded over the previous day. Cheese held steady, pending week-end country boards. The egg market developed a slightly easier tone toward the end of the week. Potatoes and poultry remained unchanged. The feature of the week was the rally in butter, following earlier weakness.

There were no spot sales of butter at the Canadian Commodity Exchange at the week-end. Spot prices were quoted at the close as 25½ to 25¾¢ for Quebec fresh 92 score, and 25¢ to 25½¢ for Quebec parchment sold at 26¼¢. Futures closed firmer, ¼¢ to ½¢ higher, at 25¢ to 25½¢ for June, 25½¢ to 25¾¢ for July, and 26¼¢ to 26½¢ for November. The open spot market was 25½ to 25¾¢ for No. 1. Small lots to the retail trade were quoted by jobbers as 26¢ for solids and 26½¢ for prints.

The cheese market ended the week at 14½¢ to 14¾¢ for No. 1 Ontario and 13½¢ to 13¾¢ for No. 1 Quebec, a slightly easier tone being shown for the week as a whole. Trading continued active at the Commodity Exchange during the week. Evidently June cheese was being awaited, which will be on the market the coming week.

Graded shipments of eggs were offering on spot in used free cases at 25½¢ for A-large, 24 to 24½¢ for A-medium, 23½¢ to 24¢ for B and 21½¢ for C. Offerings at the Commodity Exchange were 25½¢, 24¢, 23½¢ and 21½¢ respectively. Small lots to the retail trade in cartons, and 1¢ less for loose, were quoted by jobbers as follows: A-1 large, 32¢; A-1 medium, 30¢; A-1 large, 27¢; A-large 29¢; A-medium, 28¢; B, 26¢; C, 24¢.

New Virginia potatoes were $5 to $5.25 per bbl., and new North Carolina stock was $3 per 100 lbs., while old potatoes were $1.15 to $1.25 per 90 lbs. for P.E.I. Mountains, 90¢ to $1 per 80 lbs. for N.B. Mountains, and 75¢ to 85¢ for Quebec Whites, per 80 lbs.

The poultry market was quoted to the retail trade by wholesale jobbing houses as follows on A-grade dressed stock, B-grade being one to two cents per pound less: Turkeys, 27-29¢; milked chickens, 29-33¢; selected chickens, 26-30¢; selected fowl, 19-25¢; Brome Lake Ducklings, 26¢.

A source of poultry food is derived from the flesh of sharks.

CANADIAN-BORN BALL STAR HAS MADE OWN WAY

Joe Krakauskas, Montreal's Gift to Big League Baseball, Deplores the Lack of Proper Coaching for Youth of Dominion.

Windsor, Ont., June 20.—Greatest handicap of a Canadian player looking for a career in baseball is the lack of proper coaching in his younger years, according to Joe Krakauskas, southpaw hurler for Washington Senators of the American Baseball League and former pitcher with Brantford and Hamilton in the Ontario Inter-County League.

First Canadian-born to make the grade as a major league pitcher in many years, Krakauskas, native of Montreal, was in Detroit with the Senators for a series with Tigers just concluded.

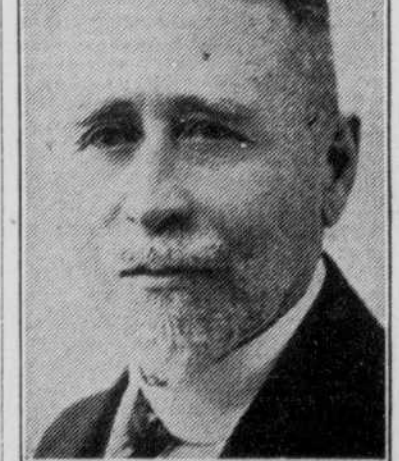

"Probably I wouldn't have half as many beefs about my wildness if I had been given the benefit of coaching from experienced minor and major league ball players in my early years," he said. "Unfortunately Canadian boys don't get that coaching benefit, although I am not attempting to cast my reflection on the men handling ball teams in Ontario."

"It just happens that we Canadians aren't born in an atmosphere of baseball. We learn hockey and lacrosse and those games come natural. But if we are lucky enough to get started in pro baseball we have to overcome a lot of fundamental problems that come as second nature to American lads."

Just twenty-one, and a two hundred pounder, Krakauskas has little respect for the hitting of an even younger hurler, Bob Feller, of Cleveland Indians.

"That bird, Bob Feller, is the worst hitter I have ever threw against and I'm no fence buster myself," he said.

Krakauskas has been used only in relief roles by the Senators to date. He is credited with one win in his few appearances with the major leaguers this season.

VICTOR MORIN, of Montreal, newly elected president of the Royal Society of Canada, is an author of note and a believer of "entente cordiale" among men of all creeds and nationalities for the good of the Dominion. In his years as a notary, Mr. Morin has been honored by fellow Canadians many times by appointment to important posts in civic organizations and was made a Knight Grand Cross of the Equestrian Order of the Holy Sepulchre. He has been the author of many books dealing with the history and music of French-Canada.

FORMER GRANBY GIRL INJURED IN ROAD SMASH

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Morrison Seriously Hurt When Car Left Road in Massachusetts.

Granby, June 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Morrison received word that their daughter, Mrs. Rossier, who resides in Northwood, Mass., had met with a serious accident. She was on her way to Dover in her car, when she lost control of the vehicle and smashed into a tree.

She was taken to the Wentworth Hospital by State Motor Vehicle Inspector Harold M. Ross, where it was found she was suffering from severe internal injuries, cut on her chin and over the eye and a gash in the leg. The car was badly damaged.

Mrs. Rossier is an experienced driver and cannot explain what caused the accident. She was alone at the time. Her condition is favorable.

SUNSHINE CLUB FINAL MEETING
The Sunshine Club held its closing meeting for the season at the home of Mrs. F. N. Lynch, "The Grove." There was a large attendance. This was the annual "Coleco" meeting and as every lady was clad in a becoming Calico gown, which did not violate the rule, the Society was no richer, as no fines were imposed.

The callers had done excellent work in looking after the sick and shut-ins and other less fortunate.

A letter was read from Mrs. Scott, written on board the S.S. Letitia and mailed at Father Point. It was read by the president. She said they were enjoying fine weather and a pleasant voyage down the St. Lawrence.

A donation of money from Miss Mabel Jackson to help on this work was thankfully received.

Those assisting in serving tea were Mrs. H. M. Robinson, Mrs. J. P. Ameal, Mrs. C. S. Surtette and the hostess, Mrs. F. N. Lynch. The fine programme was as follows: Vocal duet, "Home Sweet Home," Mrs. H. Ball and Mrs. J. Gray; recitations, "Twenty Years Wed," and "I Want to Live With Myself," Miss Mary McKibbin; songs, "I Don't Want to Fly in Your Yard," and "The Fiddler," Misses Alice and Lula Willey; reading, "How We Hunted the Mouse," Mrs. Morgan Knowlton; songs, "Penny Song," and "Will You Call Me," Helen Doe and Joyce Norris; reading, "Washing the Dishes Together," Rev. Charles Huxtable; "When You I Were Young," Miss Isabel Savage and Mrs. J. Gray; recitation, "King Robert of Sicily," Miss F. Findlay, and reading, "Paying the Taxes," Mrs. N. Samworth.

" . . . because life insurance is the one sure method to provide for all contingencies. The two policies I now have with Confederation Life, with Total Disability Benefits, are a good starter. They provide my family with $10,000 if I should die, and will pay me an income of $100 a month if I should become totally disabled through sickness or accident. I am going to put on additional insurance, so that if I live to retirement age, as I hope to do, my wife and I will be able to live in reasonable comfort and independence."

TEXAN TORNAO TOO CLASSY FOR OPPONENT

K.O. Costello Floored O'Lash In Main Battle

Scored Technical Knockout in Fourth Round—Oliver Shank Battered Down Babe Beattie in One Minute of First Round—Babe McLeod Out-boxed Rene Loubier to Take Decision.

Still fast and shifty, with a flickering left jab and a telling right, K.O. Costello, of San Antonio, Texas, had little trouble with Eddie O'Lash, and rendered him hors de combat in the fourth round of the main bout at the Arena Saturday night.

O'Lash put up a game display and kept swinging a hay-making right for Costello's noggin, but the flashy Texan toyed with him for three rounds, before really going to town in the fourth. Costello floored O'Lash four times and finally the Dover boy's seconds tossed in the towel and called it a night.

The victory was a popular one, but O'Lash received a good hand for the manner in which he refused to back up.

The Babe Beattie-Oliver Shank tilt came to an abrupt conclusion. Exactly one minute after he danced from his corner with a glint in his eye, the Lennoxville boy was prostrate on the canvas as Referee "Am" Ashton went through the formality of counting him out.

Shank plastered a hefty right on Beattie's ear soon after the fight started. Beattie went down, really out cold, but himself brought him to his feet. Shank swung with a will, and Babe went down again, his head hitting the floor with a resounding crash. It was curtains for Beattie, who was still out in his dressing room five minutes after the fight.

Babe McLeod gave Rene Loubier a boxing lesson in their eight-round battle. The Montreal pugilist showed one of the prettiest lefts seen here in many a moon and flicked it onto the local lad's chin almost at will. Loubier showed his fighting heart and came back strong in the last four rounds but McLeod tied him up and dodged his blows with ease.

The last round was packed with action as both boys forgot science and swung into each other. The bell sounded amid a flurry of lefts and rights, and Referee Rene Leclercq raised McLeod's hand to give him a well-earned victory. Both fighters were roundly applauded as they left the ring.

The junior partner of the firm of Shank and Shank, Boxers, Al Shank, cleaned up Jean Lavigne in short order in the curtain-raiser. The first round saw both lads swinging with gusto, Shank having a slight edge, but in the second, after forty-seven seconds, Lavigne took a right to the solar plexus which knocked the wind out of him and made it impossible for him to continue.

The four bouts were well received and were the best seen here for some time.

An announcement was made from the ring that Eddie Codere of Providence, R.I., would meet Oliver Shank in Sherbrooke in the near future.

George Sylvester, Alex Maguire and Palma Landry, officiated as judges, and "Annie" Choquette was timekeeper.

That Dizzy Dean deal looks funnier every day. For instance, the Cubs tossed Curt Davis into the pot along with that $185,000, and all Curt has done so far is win six and lose two for the Cards.

HUXTABLE AND BARRY TOTING POTENT CLUBS

Rank Fourth and Fifth Among Leading Provincial League Batters, Behind Corrigan, Murphy and Martin—Ace Corrigan Leads Pitchers.

Montreal, June 20.—The heavy-hitting bat of Granby's Phil Corrigan, pounding out an impressive .460 average, has boosted his wielder to the top of the Provincial baseball loop's batting heap, president Jean Barrette announced last night.

Murphy, of Sorel, with .442, and Martin, of Three Rivers, with .433 are crowding Corrigan, but Quebec's Arthur Pepper, pace-setter last week, trails in eleventh position.

Moundsman F. Corrigan, also of Granby, leads the twirling parade with six wins and no losses.

REDS LEADING GRIMM'S CUBS IN FRICK LOOP

Johnny Vander Meer Hurdled Cincinnati into Second Place, Three Games Behind New York Giants.

The old guy and the young are rivals for the attention of baseball's followers today.

The old guy, of course, is Babe Ruth, back again as coach of Brooklyn Dodgers. He took the job Saturday at $15,000 for the rest of the season, appeared on the baselines yesterday and immediately regained his old spot as the main attraction on the ball field.

The young fellow is Cincinnati's remarkable Johnny Vander Meer, who couldn't make it three no-hitters in a row but came close enough to give Boston Bees a good scare when he let them down with four blows to win, fourteen to one. The victory put the Reds in second place, a few percentage points ahead of Chicago.

It was the Babe some 28,000 Brooklyn fans went out to see, but they also saw a couple of good ball games as Glenn Pressnell's flinging and a slugging spurt that must have made the old Yankee cloutier feel right at home gave Dodgers a six to two opening triumph over Chicago Cubs. Clay Bryant stopped the hitting, however, giving only one blow up to the ninth and Cubs won the nightcap, four to three.

Vander Meer who pitched two consecutive hitless games, finally was touched in the fourth inning yesterday when Deb Garmes singled. He made a new National League record of twenty-one and two-thirds consecutive hitless innings, just short of Cy Young's major league mark of twenty-three that has stood since 1904. And he went thirty-two innings before he was scored upon.

Boston lost a chance to win when the second game was rained out in the last half of the fifth.

Pittsburgh Pirates put on a terrific clouting spree to wallopp Phillies, fourteen to four, and sixteen to three. Three homers by Johnny Rizzo and two by Paul Waner marked their thirty-four hit attack.

New York Giants took a double beating, eight to seven and four to two, behind Roy Henshaw although Mel Ott hit a homer in each game.

In the American League Boston Red Sox moved into second place ahead of the slumping New York Yankees by splitting a twin bill at Chicago while Yanks lost one game and tied another at St. Louis. After Gee Walker's homer had given White Sox to three to two victory, Jimmy Foxx and Jim Bagby paced the Red Sox to a six to one triumph. Yanks had twenty-two men left on base as they went down to the Browns ten to nine, then played a seven to seven eight-inning tie, halted by darkness.

The league-leading Cleveland Indians celebrated Connie Mack Day by beating the St. Louis Cardinals five to four. Washington's six-run first inning beat Detroit ten to six, and returned Senators to fourth place.

NEWARK TOOK TWO FROM ROYALS

With a little more than one-third of the International League season completed, it looks more than ever as if Buffalo Bisons were the only club with a chance to come anywhere near Newark Bears in the standing. And near as Newark's rivals see it is about where the second place is when War Admiral is racing.

A couple of weeks ago the Bisons knocked off Newark three games in a row and were quite cocky about the whole thing. Since then the Bears have piled up eleven straight triumphs while Buffalo has won seven and lost four.

They both won doubleheaders yesterday, which left the Bears just eight games in front. Newark teed off on Montreal Royals who had been doing fairly well of late, and won six to three and ten to five. They had to come from behind to take the opener with the aid of some fine relief flinging by Marius Russo. But in the nightcap Bob Seeds socked his twenty-seventh homer with the bases loaded and there wasn't much more to it. In all Seeds drove in eight runs to bring his total to ninety-two.

The Bisons had more trouble whipping Baltimore Orioles, ten to five and five to four. They scored five runs in the ninth to take the first game and went an extra inning in the second before Woodley Abernathy, former Baltimore outfielder, won it with a home run. Rochester Red Wings also won a doubleheader, beating Jersey City four to three and three to one, to move into third place a half game ahead of the "Little Giants." Toronto Maple Leafs and Syracuse Chiefs divided the other twin bill, the Chiefs winning the first in a mound duel between Johnny Goe and Joe Sullivan and Toronto taking the nightcap on Heinie Manush's three-run homer.

GEORGE HERMAN RUTH RECEIVED IN ROYAL WAY

Twenty-Eight Thousand Brooklyn Fans Raised Cheer After Cheer as the Mighty Babe Pigeon-toed out of Dugout.

New York, June 20.—(P)—Three years ago, in the twilight of his career, the players were used to him. But yesterday at Ebbets Field Dodgers stared at Babe Ruth, their new coach, with their eyes popping.

He looked just as he always had, heavy, sweaty and hearty. He was glad to be back as a coach, a step, and not such a long one, from the managership of the Dodgers, as he showed it in everything he did.

"Gosh," said the Babe, "it sure is good to get back. But I'm not in shape." He slapped his mammoth tummy—"stood up there and hit for five minutes and felt like I'd been doing it all week."

The packed citizenry of Brooklyn was calling on him to "go up and bust one." You could tell that the players, who stood around like kids at a circus, would like to see him hit again. But the Babe shook his head.

"I'm just a coach now, not a player. Hurt my arm up there, too. Besides I can't hit any more. My right eye's bad. Started to go bad last year I was with the Yankees. I dunno why, it just did."

"You know," rumbled Ruth "I didn't realize how much I'd missed this till I got this job. 'Course, it's great—this will sure knock breeze out of my game—but it can't match this stuff."

"I guess this is as good a way as any to come back. I can start here. This isn't a bad club, couple of pitchers and you'd get this job. 'Course, the rumor runs the Babe is slated for the Dodgers' managership within a month, or at best by the end of the season. You told him and he laughed."

"Now, that's crazy stuff. I'm just a coach. Burleigh Grimes is manager. Sure, I'd like to be manager, here or anywhere else, but I guess I gotta wait a while."

The greatest ball player of his time stepped out of the dugout into the hot sunshine. When the crowd of 28,000 fans is mincing walk, his big shoulders, it took out call after cheer. The Babe waved his hand, picked up a fungo bat and started hitting flies to the outfield.

Seems about every club but the 10th Avenue "Alley Cats" had a chance to land Johnny Vander Meer. Invert was practically begged to throw $2,500 to the kid back in '35. The Dodgers fumbled their chance. The Red Sox wouldn't kick in 25 G's. But the payoff is the Bees had to take him from Scranton to realize something on a $2,500 investment, and then shipped him to Nashville without so much as a look. And, reports Chick Feldman, of Scranton Tribune, the guy who "exiled" him was wily Will McKachrie, who's now his boss at Cincinnati.

Connie Mack says "Swingin' Jammy" Chapman, his rookie wallpaper from California, looks like Al Simmons when the pounding Pol's first came up.

When Vander Meer finished pitching his second no-hitter, Dizzy Dean's comment was "I'd like to see him lose twenty-five more of 'em—all against the Giants."

LOUIS A HEAVY FAVORITE FOR EPIC STRUGGLE

Harlem Delegation Whooped It Up as Brown Bomber Wound Up Training—Max Schmeling Maddeningly Confident.

New York, June 20.—(P)—The golden rain continues to pour down on the box office, Mike Jacobs becomes hoarse by the hour as he croaks "plenty of tickets left," and the long-awaited return fight between Max Schmeling and Joe Louis for the heavyweight title is only three nights away.

Located at North Hatley on the shores of Lake Massawippi over a out that is neither too flat or too hilly this course promises to be one of the most popular in the province. Col. Mitchell and those associated with him are to be complimented on the result of their efforts for there is no course in the whole province that can boast of such excellent greens. Eastern Townships golfers who have not yet paid a visit to this course have a real golfing treat in store for themselves.

The apple tree, fourth most valuable of the trees of the world, was known in prehistoric times.

Max has been taking it very easy for the last ten days, ever since he scared his trainer, Max Machon, silly by displaying symptoms of reaching peak condition too quickly. Louis, on the other hand, appears to have been brought to fighting pitch exactly on schedule by his wise old trainer, Jack Blackburn. He is in beautiful trim and looks lithe and slim despite his two hundred pounds.

The odds on Louis to retain his title still are running eight to five and better, and indications are that this is going to be one of the big betting events in fight history.

Louis' admirers are banking heavily on the fact that no heavyweight champion ever has regained the throne, as well as on the accepted premise that Louis, as the defending titleholder, is more likely to get the nod if the fight goes the distance and is close.

Schmeling's loyal following quotes another popular fistic adage: "Once you whip a man, he's whipped," inferring that the negro hasn't forgotten the brutal punishment Schmeling gave him before.

New York, June 20.—(P)—One story is that "Bully" Grims has the month to land a new job before the Babe takes over the Dodgers' managership.
