It is a great pleasure to welcome you to the 27th World Congress of Political Science here in our beautiful city of Buenos Aires.

We are honored to be your host as you discuss Politics in the Age of Transboundary Crises. This year's theme guides us to some of the most important conversations that we must have as a global community because the challenges of our era know no geographical boundaries. Climate change, the rise of populism, financial instability and the aftermath of the Covid-19 pandemic are challenges we must address and overcome, not as individual cities or countries, but as humankind as a whole.

In this way, the discussion between leaders, policymakers, theorists and scholars, is crucial to put people's well-being first. This is something we must never forget.

We have to do better in the future. We are here to discuss how to inspire future generations to go above and beyond. The academic perspective plays a crucial role in the advancement of politics. By encouraging diligent debates and discussions, we are creating an environment where diverse perspectives and ideas can grow.

So, to everyone here I say, in this congress we have the chance to seize the opportunity to take part in discussions that will help us to enlighten and enrich our thinking and shape the future. The world needs us working together. Let Buenos Aires be the place where we all make big steps forward towards building a better world.

While you are here, I hope you enjoy our excellent cuisine, beautiful parks, captivating museums and theaters that are among the best in the world. And don't miss out on the rest of Argentina, from waterfalls to coloured mountains and glaciers, there are so many unique places to visit now that you are here.

I wish you a successful congress and an unforgettable time.

Buenos Aires City Mayor

The relationship between Argentina and IPSA

In the early 1980s, IPSA made its first significant impact on Argentine political science. After attending the 1982 World Congress in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Guillermo O'Donnell, Oscar Oszlak, and other leading scholars recognized the need for a national political science association in Argentina. Consequently, Oszlak founded the Argentine Political Analysis Society (known as SAAP in Spanish) the following year and became its inaugural president. This development coincided with the end of the authoritarian regime in Argentina, and the emergent democracy provided a crucial backdrop for the practice of political science, leading to the development of a flourishing discipline.

IPSA's second influential moment in Argentina occurred eight years later. Under O'Donnell's presidency, IPSA decided to host the 1991 World Congress in Buenos Aires. The event was a tremendous success, revitalizing the local organizational community, modernizing teaching programs, and opening up new research topics and sources of state and private funding. In 1993, two years after the congress, SAAP began organizing its own national congresses of political science, which have seen increasing attendance and improved quality over the years.

Nowadays, the thematic interests of Argentine political science align with those of research institutions worldwide that incorporate Latin American countries in their comparative studies. North American and European dominant theories and methods are well-known and widely employed. However, local political issues remain important considerations for scholars when selecting their research topics. For example, the market-oriented reforms in the 1990s prompted extensive research on political economy and social protest. While the "shift to the left" in the 2000s led to Latin American colleagues spearheading the renewed global interest in the study of populism.

The Argentine political science community is large and vibrant. The country boasts over 50 universities offering graduate and undergraduate programs in political science, more than 10 peer-reviewed journals in Spanish, and a robust and widely respected association. Between 1993 and 2021, SAAP has organized 15 biennial national conferences in cities across the country.

SAAP takes great pride in hosting the 27th World Congress of Political Science in Argentina and hopes that it will serve as a landmark event in our scientific community's history, much like the 15th World Congress did in 1991. This occasion offers new generations of Argentine and Latin American political scientists an opportunity to showcase their extensive and high-quality research, which is of national, regional and global significance. We sincerely hope that colleagues from around the world share this sentiment and include our work within their academic interests.

ECPR's Political Science Blog

Dear Colleagues,

As President of the International Political Science Association (IPSA), I am honored to welcome you to the 27th World Congress of Political Science in Buenos Aires, Argentina. This biennial congress provides us with a unique opportunity to gather as a global community of political scientists and to advance our discipline through collaboration and diverse perspectives. It's a privilege to meet again in person and continue our collective discourse, surrounded by the unique rhythm and cultural richness of this South American metropolis.

We look back with pride on our last World Congress in 2021, our first-ever virtual event. In the face of unprecedented global challenges, our community not only adapted but thrived, demonstrating the strength and flexibility inherent in our discipline. We came together virtually from every corner of the globe, setting the second highest attendance record in IPSA history. Today, it is exciting to see the momentum from that event carry over into this year's Congress, as we are well on our way to surpassing the 2021 attendance record.

This World Congress grapples with a theme that is not only timely but also critical for our day and age: Politics in the Age of Transboundary Crises: Vulnerability and Resilience. At a time when threats ranging from climate change, pandemics, and socio-political upheavals, refuse to respect geographical boundaries, it is incumbent upon us, as political scientists, to foster a greater understanding of these challenges. We are tasked with analyzing our shared vulnerability, deciphering patterns of resilience, and illuminating the pathways to sustainable, inclusive solutions. Argentina, a country with its unique narrative of perseverance in the face of adversity, serves as an apt setting for our deliberations. As we delve into our theme against this canvas of rich history, we are awakened to the transformative potential of fortitude in times of susceptibility. We are offered a renewed perspective to view our collective challenges not merely as insurmountable hurdles, but as opportunities for collaboration, innovation, and growth.

The spirit of this congress is embodied in the diversity of our community. Your unique experiences, perspectives, and academic contributions are what truly enrich our collective understanding and shape the discourse on global political issues. We gather here not only to share and learn but to innovate and inspire, leaving an indelible impact on our shared journey towards a more equitable, resilient world.

In our continued effort to promote global representation, we have introduced significant changes to the World Congress registration fee structure. This revision, guided by the World Bank's classification system, modulates registration costs based on a participant's country of residence. This restructuring of our registration fees, now reflective of the economic spectrum of participant countries, aims to ensure that financial or geographical constraints do not limit the exchange of valuable insights and ideas. This is another significant step towards making our global community more accessible and inclusive.

The extraordinary contributions of many individuals have made this World Congress possible, and it is only fitting to express our deep gratitude to all involved. Our Program Committee, under the skillful leadership of the Program Co-chairs, has been instrumental in shaping a program that promises rich academic discussions and invaluable insights. The Local Organizing Committee and its regional partners have worked tirelessly to ensure that the arrangements seamlessly facilitate our intellectual explorations in the beautiful city of Buenos Aires. It is also crucial to highlight the work of our IPSA World Congress Secretariat team, who have been working diligently behind the scenes to organize and manage this event. Their tremendous efforts, from planning to execution, have helped turn our vision into reality.

As we embark on the intellectual journey that is this World Congress, I invite you to bring your curiosity, your critical insights, and your collaborative spirit. On behalf of all those involved in organizing this enriching event, I thank you for your participation. Your contributions and commitment are the very essence of this World Congress.

Thank you, and I wish you an intellectually stimulating and engaging World Congress.

Dianne Pinderhughes
President

Words of Welcome

Welcome to the 27th IPSA World Congress of Political Science taking place in the marvelously vibrant city of Buenos Aires. After the difficult isolation of the pandemic years, it is a great pleasure to bring colleagues together to share new scholarship and perhaps most importantly, to renew old friendships and build new ones. Great enthusiasm greeted the return to in-person meetings and the 27th World Congress will be one of the largest ever. The allure of Buenos Aires and a desire to put the 'Zoom years' behind us led to the submission of more than 5,200 paper proposals with an unprecedented number from scholars based in South America.

We developed the congress theme "Politics in the age of transboundary crises: Vulnerability and resilience" in consultation with the Program Committee, Executive Committee and Local Organizing Committee. Our discussions took place in the midst of the Covid-19 pandemic and the enormous disruptions and transformations caused by it. To a great extent, this motivated the emphasis in the theme on transboundary dynamics and the complex challenges which traverse state boundaries in an era of intense global connectivity. Disruptions in one part of the world quickly move around the globe through highly integrated global networks. While the international order was briefly interrupted by the freezing of politics in the early part of the pandemic, it quickly became evident that citizens, states and the global system are resilient. And In addition, transboundary dynamics also create opportunities. The diffusion of debates and action on vaccines, human rights and, specifically, on matters relating to gender equality, anti-racism and LGBT rights have benefited from global coalitions. To investigate, understand and contribute to academic and public debates on these complex transboundary problems and opportunities, the congress theme emphasized and called for interdisciplinarity, sub-field pluralism, diversity of methodological approaches, and connecting theory and praxis. We have been heartened by the depth of the response from colleagues around the world, and by the rigor and creativity in the research that will be shared in the coming days.

The 27th World Congress program includes four plenaries, 12 general sessions rooted in the major sub-literatures of political science including a newly created session on teaching and learning, panels from the specialist areas of the 53 research committees of IPSA and many awards, congress theme and special sessions. There is also a rich program of cultural and social events that showcase the very best of Argentina.

We want to offer sincere thanks to the IPSA Congress Team: Yee Fun Wong, Roksolana Bobyk, Felicia Solomon, Geneviève Guay, Thomas Chapdelaine, Oleksii Zahreba and Breanna Clark. Other members of the Secretariat staff who need to be thanked are Kim Fontaine-Skronski, Ekaterina Kuzmenko, Mathieu St-Laurent, Halûk Dag and Eric Grève.

What you see is what they have made possible. They have been wonderfully receptive to our ideas and have worked tirelessly over the last two years with great patience, grace and most of all good humor! If you have any questions, comments or suggestions, please contact either one of us. Your input and comments concerning previous congresses were greatly appreciated and helped us to lay the groundwork for this meeting in Buenos Aires.

We wish you an intellectually stimulating, inspiring and enjoyable world congress.

Words of Welcome

As the Executive Director of the International Political Science Association (IPSA), it gives me great pleasure to welcome you to the 27th IPSA World Congress of Political Science in Buenos Aires, Argentina. It has been five years since our last in-person congress, and after this period of unprecedented challenges and changes, our gathering in the vibrant city of Buenos Aires feels particularly meaningful. I cannot express sufficiently how heartening it is to witness the resilience and adaptability of our global community. Furthermore, IPSA's last congress in South America was held in Santiago, Chile, in 2009 and our return to this continent renews our commitment to the diversity and intellectual outreach of this region's vibrant political science community.

As part of our commitment to promote inclusivity, we have not only revised the fee structure for the 27th congress, but also introduced a dual participation format for the first time. This congress will allow for both in-person and virtual participation, ensuring that geographical or financial constraints do not limit the exchange of valuable insights and ideas. This is another step in making our global community more accessible and inclusive.

The theme of this congress, Politics in the Age of Transboundary Crises: Vulnerability and Resilience, resonates deeply with our contemporary global reality, where complex crises, from pandemics to environmental disasters, transcend borders, testing and revealing the vulnerability and resilience of our political systems and societies.

As we gather in Buenos Aires, we carry forward that spirit of perseverance and innovation that defines our community. Your contributions will not only enrich our collective knowledge, but also chart the course of political science in the years ahead.

In closing, I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to all the participants, the Program Co-chairs, Research Committees, the Local Organizing Committee, the Executive Committee members, and the indefatigable team at the IPSA Secretariat. Your dedication and hard work have been instrumental in making this event a reality.

I wish you a fulfilling and inspiring experience at the 27th IPSA World Congress. I thank you for your participation and look forward to witnessing the remarkable work that will undoubtedly emerge from our gathering.

Kim Fontaine-Skronski
Executive Director

Welcome to Buenos Aires!

It is a great pleasure to extend a warm welcome to our esteemed colleagues from around the world attending the 27th World Congress of Political Science. The Local Organizing Committee (LOC) takes immense pride in the preparation of this Congress.

Argentine political scientists are deeply interconnected with our regional community of peers. Reflecting this, our LOC is uniquely composed of representatives from five neighboring countries. Consequently, this congress not only represents Argentina but also serves as a World Congress for Latin America. The LOC has organized ten sessions in Spanish and Portuguese and has convened a general session on Latin American politics in English. We eagerly anticipate the opportunity to showcase our academic contributions and scientific achievements to the global political science community.

Furthermore, we aspire that this congress will uphold the exceptional standards set by previous IPSA congresses in terms of disseminating scientific knowledge and fostering networking opportunities, particularly for Latin American academics. These elements are vital to the generation of global scientific knowledge.

The chosen venue for this year's congress, la Universidad Católica Argentina, is recognized as the finest private university in Argentina. Nestled in the picturesque neighborhood of Puerto Madero, the university is surrounded by excellent hotels, cafes, and restaurants. Moreover, it is conveniently located within walking distance of several historically significant tourist attractions in Buenos Aires, such as Plaza de Mayo and the traditional neighborhood of San Telmo.

We invite all of our colleagues to actively participate in the in-person exchanges that the pandemic forced us to suspend, to join us in experiencing unforgettable days of learning and engaging discussions with our peers, and of course, to indulge in some of our most cherished treasures, such as our renowned high-quality meat, Malbec wine, and tango!

Thank you very much for coming.

Political Leadership Between Democracy and Authoritarianism

This book sheds light on the theory of political leadership, which is still an under-researched field of political science. It is related to the philosophical argument about determinism versus activism and helps to understand the basic conflict of the 21st century between liberal democracy and new authoritarianism.

The International Political Science Association (IPSA) was founded in Paris in 1949 under the aegis of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO) to promote the development of political science throughout the world. As an international scholarly association, IPSA has a mission to:

- Support the development of political science in all parts of the world, building academic networks linking East and West, North and South;
- Create an inclusive and global political science community by ensuring a balanced representation along the lines of region, gender and experience in all of its activities;
- Promote collaboration between scholars in emerging and established democracies and to support the academic freedoms needed for the social sciences to flourish;
- Ensure that political scientists are strongly positioned to make a valuable contribution to the quality of public deliberation and decision-making and to our understanding of an increasingly interconnected political world;
- Support the role of political science in empowering everyone to participate more effectively in political life.

Institutional Relationships

IPSA is a member of the International Science Council (ISC) and has a consultative status with the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations (ECOSOC). IPSA also supports the development of the Réseau des associations francophones de science politique.

IPSA's Main Activities

Research

IPSA has 53 active Research Committees covering all facets of political science. Starting with one in 1970, IPSA Research Committees are now a vast worldwide research network where all interested individuals are welcome to contribute. Research Committees frequently publish their work and organize their own conferences. They each present a minimum of two panels at IPSA World Congresses, but in most cases many more. Joint panels between two or more RCs are strongly encouraged.

Anti-harassment Policy: Code of conduct

The purpose of this document is to provide an authoritative statement of the expectations for conduct for all who participate in IPSA meetings and congresses. The code of conduct is a natural outcome of IPSA's commitment to maintaining and promoting a professional environment at its meetings and other organized activities, and it is guided by the conviction that the advancement of knowledge flourishes most readily in an atmosphere of constructive debate in which all members treat each another with dignity and respect.

The International Political Science Association (IPSA) brings together professionals from a variety of backgrounds and from a large number of locations around the globe. This diversity brings with it the potential for fruitful dialogue about research and policy, but also the possibility of disagreements among members. This code of conduct is designed to ensure that all are treated with dignity and respect; and that sensitivity and consideration guide our interactions while, at the same time, not limiting the substance or arena of our debate.

- 1) This code of conduct refers to relations between IPSA members, IPSA Headquarters staff, and other participants, and to their interactions in the course of IPSA activities.
 - a) IPSA activities include IPSA's governing bodies (Executive Committee, Council), world congresses, regional and committee meetings and workshops, and editing of IPSA's journals.
 - b) Some matters of professional ethics are under the purview of specific committees and are addressed elsewhere: for instance, plagiarism and academic freedom.
- 2) IPSA office holders, from the President and Executive Director to members of the Executive Committee (EC) and editors of IPSA journals, have a special responsibility to uphold and observe this code of conduct, promoting in the Association's activities a professional environment characterized by constructive debate and the treatment of all members and participants with dignity and respect.
- 3) IPSA recognizes that there is a distinction between victimization through harassment and legitimate, justifiable, and appropriate constructive criticism. Nothing in this document should be construed as a limitation on the ability of members and participants to constructively evaluate and critique one another's work.
- 4) Nonetheless, IPSA recognizes its duty to ensure that members and participants are not harassed. It further recognizes that this duty is of wider application and includes all members and participants, regardless of status or the period of time.
 - a) Harassment can be defined as unwanted conduct (actions or comments) related to age, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, race, disability, religion, nationality, citizenship or any personal characteristic of the individual, which has the purpose (intentional) or effect (unintentional) of violating a person's dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for that person.
 - b) Harassment may include, but is not limited to:
 - i. Offensive, insulting, intimidating, or malicious behavior targeted at another person or persons;
 - ii. Abuse or misuse of power intended to undermine, humiliate, denigrate, or injure the person or persons toward whom such behavior is targeted;
 - iii. Actions or comments - persistent or isolated - affecting the dignity of people or individuals. The key is that the actions or comments can be experienced as demeaning and unacceptable.
 - iv. Sexual harassment or intimidation.
- 5) IPSA recognizes that members and participants who feel that they have been victims of harassment as defined in this code of conduct are entitled to pursue their case in a welcoming and non-threatening environment.
- 6) IPSA is committed to ensuring that complaints brought under this procedure shall not lead to the victimization or harassment of any individual.
 - a) The procedures for addressing grievances (detailed below) aim to resolve complaints in an informal way, whenever possible. At the same time, IPSA recognizes that punitive measures may be required to address some violations.
 - b) IPSA also is committed to ensuring that those who lodge complaints under this code are not subject to retaliation by respondents or third parties.
- 7) IPSA ensures that procedures are in place to address complaints of harassment. Such procedures provide for
 - a) Timely handling of such complaints;
 - b) Fair and impartial handling of such complaints; and
 - c) Fair, impartial, and sensitive treatment of all parties affected by such complaints.
- 8) Congress and event participants should report — directly or through another IPSA office holder — a violation of the code of conduct to the IPSA Delegate for Anti-Harassment Policy (from here on: the Delegate). The Delegate is appointed by the EC at its pre-World Congress meeting to serve until the next pre-World Congress meeting.
- 9) In cases where the reported behavior is ongoing, or where there is a question of immediate physical harm or danger, steps will be taken by IPSA officials to ensure the safety of participants, regardless of whether a formal complaint is pursued or not..

Code of Conduct

- 10) Participants have two options through which to pursue a complaint:
 - a) If the participant does not wish to enter into a formal investigation process, then IPSA can issue a notice. In these cases, the IPSA Delegate will contact the person who is the subject of the complaint, inform them that a complaint has been made, and remind them of IPSA's Anti-Harassment Policy. The recipient of the notice will have the opportunity to respond to IPSA in writing, but no further formal investigation will be undertaken.
 - b) The formal investigation process will be handled in confidence, and the identity of the complainant will not be revealed to the respondent, except with the permission of the complainant. To proceed with the formal investigation process, the complaint must be made in writing and must include:
 - i. The name of the complainant;
 - ii. The name of the respondent;
 - iii. The nature of the conduct about which a complaint is being made, including, where possible, dates, times and locations;
 - iv. If appropriate, names of any participants who may have witnessed the conduct.
- 11) An investigation will be conducted by the Delegate in every case where a formal complaint is made.
 - a) The Delegate will ask the respondent to provide a written statement in response to the complaint. The Delegate may also contact identified witnesses or consult with others with direct knowledge of the incident in question. All evidence should be given in writing (including email).
- 12) At the end of the formal investigation, the Delegate will propose a resolution for the matter. Resolution may include:
 - i. Determination that IPSA's policy has not been violated and that the complaint will be dismissed;
 - ii. Recommendation for informal resolution of the matter in order to re-establish a professional relationship between the parties, including options such as mediation;
 - iii. Termination of IPSA congress or event participation for the respondent, including current and/or future IPSA congress and events;
 - iv. A temporary or permanent restriction on the respondent regarding accession to leadership positions in IPSA, including the Executive Committee;
 - v. A temporary or permanent suspension of the respondent's IPSA membership.
- 13) The final decision regarding such proposals will be made by the EC, and the resolution of the matter will be notified to all parties in writing.
- 14) In any proceedings, IPSA will make every effort to protect complainants from retaliation. The information given by all parties and their identities will be treated with strict confidentiality. If anonymity becomes difficult to maintain in particular cases, IPSA will defer to the preferences of the complainant.
- 15) This code of conduct and its procedures for resolving grievances are not intended to, and are not a substitute for, the rights of any of the parties to seek legal redress. Any legal action on the part of the complainant will be exclusively a matter between the complainant, the respondent and the authorities in the location where the incident occurred. IPSA will not be a party to such legal action, nor will it accept any legal liability or financial responsibility for such action.

Congress Program Session Chairs

Session chairs are crucial to the Congress since their role is to solicit high-quality papers and panels prior to the submission deadline. During the subsequent review process, they have a heavy burden selecting further papers and forming panels - over 600 were assembled by the WC2023 session chairs listed below. The Program Co-chairs owe a tremendous debt of thanks to each and every one of them, and this message expresses our very sincere gratitude.

CALL FOR PAPERS

LASA2024

Reaction and Resistance: Imagining Possible Futures in the Americas

JUNE 11–15, 2024 • BOGOTÁ, COLOMBIA

Countervailing trends of reaction and resistance are evident in the Americas today. Defining support for democratic values and institutions and assessing the political and economic impact of extremist right-wing movements and policies and economic inequality and rise in authoritarianism are all issues that are generating anxiety and fear. At the same time, grassroots efforts to strengthen rights, promote democratic principles and economic systems, and to build back the damaged social and economic systems, combined with the return of progressive governments in many countries in the region, speak hope for a better future. Exploring these countervailing trends will be the focus of the next triennial Latin American Congress of the Americas Association, which will take place on June 11–15, 2024 in Bogotá, Colombia. A series of pre-congress sessions and activities are encouraged to participate with the reflection and analysis of the current situation in the region and the challenges ahead. The conference will be a unique opportunity to discuss the current situation in the Americas and the challenges ahead, and to explore the possibilities for a better future.

Regression and resistance are evident across the Americas. We have seen the rise of right-wing populists such as Nayib Bukele in El Salvador and Jair Bolsonaro in Brazil, democratic backsliding from Guatemala and Peru, and the challenges of authoritarianism in many other countries. At the same time, the return of democratic governments in many countries, the strengthening of democratic institutions, and the rise of grassroots movements are all signs of a better future. Exploring these countervailing trends will be the focus of the next triennial Latin American Congress of the Americas Association, which will take place on June 11–15, 2024 in Bogotá, Colombia. A series of pre-congress sessions and activities are encouraged to participate with the reflection and analysis of the current situation in the region and the challenges ahead. The conference will be a unique opportunity to discuss the current situation in the Americas and the challenges ahead, and to explore the possibilities for a better future.

By contrast, some countries in the Americas have seen progressive governments come to office and in others, broad-based social movements are demanding democratic deepening and the construction of more inclusive and just societies. Examples included in the program are social movements that have emerged in the political and economic systems in the region, from the Pinochet dictatorship in Chile to the current situation in the Americas. Exploring these countervailing trends will be the focus of the next triennial Latin American Congress of the Americas Association, which will take place on June 11–15, 2024 in Bogotá, Colombia. A series of pre-congress sessions and activities are encouraged to participate with the reflection and analysis of the current situation in the region and the challenges ahead. The conference will be a unique opportunity to discuss the current situation in the Americas and the challenges ahead, and to explore the possibilities for a better future.

In this context of high anxiety about the state of our world, it is essential to have a forum for progressive and inclusive proposals for a better future. The conference will be a unique opportunity to discuss the current situation in the Americas and the challenges ahead, and to explore the possibilities for a better future. Exploring these countervailing trends will be the focus of the next triennial Latin American Congress of the Americas Association, which will take place on June 11–15, 2024 in Bogotá, Colombia. A series of pre-congress sessions and activities are encouraged to participate with the reflection and analysis of the current situation in the region and the challenges ahead.
