LORD WILLINGDON WILL SUCCEED LORD IRWIN AS INDIAN VICEROY

Appointment of Present Canadian Governor-General as Next Viceroy Formally Announced in London—While Unexpected, Appointment Is Meeting With General Approval—New Representative of British Crown Has Had Extensive Dealing With Indian Affairs.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Governor General of Canada, Viscount Willingdon, will become Viceroy of India when the present Viceroy, Lord Irwin, retires in March, 1931.

His appointment, announced today came as a distinct surprise to most of Great Britain, but it was expected to find general approval. Although mentioned as a possibility for the appointment, the public recently had heard more of Premier Ramsay MacDonald as a prospective appointee than Lord Willingdon.

Lord Willingdon will go to his post with a particularly well founded knowledge of India and Indian affairs. He was Governor of Bombay from 1913 to 1919 and of Madras from 1919 to 1924, earning in both posts a name for tact and a conciliatory attitude. He has been Governor General of Canada since 1926, his exercise of that post enhancing his reputation as one of England's greatest statesmen.

WILLINGDON PATRON OF CANADIAN WINTER SPORT

OTTAWA, Ont., December 20.—No announcement in regard to Lord Willingdon's departure for India was made by Premier R. B. Bennett following an hour's conversation with the Governor General yesterday afternoon. While in a message of congratulation, Mr. Bennett confirmed the appointment, he was unable to give any hints as to the probable successor. The present Viceroy of India will have completed his term of office in April next, but it is considered unlikely that Lord Willingdon will be able to reach there by that date.

Since his appointment to the post of Governor General of Canada, in August, 1926, and his assumption of office in October of the same year, Viscount Willingdon has become one of the best known and most popular figures in Canadian public life. Of an active disposition, he immediately proceeded to familiarize himself with all parts of the Dominion of Canada. A conservative estimate of the distance Lord Willingdon has travelled in the Dominion during his many tours is at 110,000 miles.

Lord Willingdon has spoken all over Canada at a great variety of functions. He is fortunately a man of very wide interests. Art, literature, the drama, sports of all kinds, agricultural pursuits, the production of high-grade livestock, horse racing, were among the many interests in which he was active. He is the founder of the Winter sports association, under the terms of which annual contests in the realms of art, music and literature take place. Money prizes to the total amount of $1,000 have been donated by His Excellency. The present year is the third in which he has offered these competitive prizes.

Known widely as good entertainers, Lord and Lady Willingdon have been visited by many famous persons from different countries and walks of life. The Prince of Wales was their guest when he came to Canada some years ago. Two prime ministers of Britain, Stanley Baldwin and Ramsay MacDonald, stayed with them at Government House. Prince George and Prince Henry, two of the younger sons of the King, have also been their guests. The list of distinguished persons whom they have entertained during their stay in Canada is too long to permit an enumeration.

SOLDIERS WITHDRAWN FROM STREETS IN SPAIN

MADRID, Dec. 20.—Martial law appeared to be only theoretical in Spain today, for the soldiers who have patrolled the streets of the principal cities for the past week had been withdrawn from active duty and were concentrated in their barracks.

The government remained alert for any emergency, however, and Premier Berenguer, who has been ill, was back on the job again denying persistent rumors that the entire cabinet was on the point of resigning.

GENERAL BALBO UNITING OCEAN AIRPLANE FLEET

Three of Six Planes Rejoin Main Body at Cartagena, Spain—Rest Expected During Day.

CARTAGENA, Spain, Dec. 20.—General Italo Balbo, whose fleet of fourteen planes essaying a flight from Italy to Brazil, was broken up by bad weather, took advantage of a break in the storm today and came here with three ships which had taken shelter in the Balearic Isles.

The three others of the six which ran to cover with him were expected before noon. They will join the eight planes which were able to reach Cartagena in spite of the storm, and if good weather continues they will hop off tomorrow or Monday for Kienira, Morocco, the next stop of the flight.

CAPONE'S ASSISTANT ACQUITTED

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 20.—Alek Gukiz, the stock watchdog of Al Capone's treasury, yesterday was acquitted on a vagrancy charge. The jury deliberated less than two hours.

Two weeks ago Gukiz was convicted of income tax fraud. The government stayed the sentence until the vagrancy trial was ended.

YVONNE BARON PARDONED BY GOV.-GENERAL

Local Young Girl, Who Received Two Year Sentence Last December on Manslaughter Charge in Connection With Drowning of Her Child, Granted Clemency.

A despatch received from the Under-Secretary of State, Mr. Omer Michael, by Mr. Césaire Gervais, conveyed the information that clemency had been exercised in the case of Yvonne Baron, and her liberty had been granted by the Governor-General after the twenty-three-year-old girl had served a little more than half of her two year sentence she received at the close of last year's term of the Court of King's Bench.

It will be remembered that Miss Baron, who came from St. Fintuna, Que., appeared before the Criminal Assizes last November charged with the murder of her child, whom she drowned in the Magog River the preceding spring. The trial began on November 28th, and the following evening the petit jury brought in a verdict finding the accused girl guilty of manslaughter.

At the end of the term on December 12th, Judge Joseph Archambault sentenced the unfortunate girl to serve two years in the women's penitentiary at Kingston.

When His Lordship handed down the sentence of the court, he stated that the accused herself was not wholly responsible, her parents being to blame in the first place for forcing her to leave home at an early age owing to family difficulties. The civil authorities were also criticized by the court for not being organized to take care of such cases, while the local police were scored for not taking any heed to the warning of the girl's attending physician, who told them that the unfortunate girl had spoken of doing away with her offspring.

Charles Perrault, constable-chauffeur for the detectives, repeated his evidence for the benefit of the jury in connection with the alleged inducement he was supposed to have made Vincent before the accused was placed under arrest, while his superior, sub-chief Albert Dorais, corroborated the evidence of his man, Jarguilles, insofar as Vincent's written admission of guilt was concerned.

Hilaire Poisy, of Valcourt, was brought in by the Crown merely to state that he had seen Vincent arriving at the Robidoux house on Sunday afternoon, September 21st, on foot.

Pierre Jeanson, of Roxton, who was called to the stand and merely corroborated the evidence of his confederate, Dr. Fontaine, on a few technical points, after which he proceeded to the Magistrate's Court, where the preliminary hearing into the death of Renee Malloy, of Norton Mills, was being heard by Judge J. H. Lemay.

Joseph Robidoux, a farmer residing in the village of L'Enfant Jesus, of the parish of St. Jean, was called to the stand and testified that he had seen Vincent, the accused having worked for him on different occasions. About the middle of last September he brought a rifle to the Robidoux farm, claiming that he had purchased it from Trudeau for ten dollars. About eight o'clock the evening preceding the tragedy, Vincent had gone upstairs, presumably to bed, but when Robidoux did his chores the following morning he did not see Vincent. Returning from a visit to neighbors about five o'clock Sunday afternoon Robidoux found Vincent at the house, but did not question his movements nor did the accused divulge where he had been. According to the witness, no wounds were apparent on Vincent, although he complained of a headache, for which Robidoux gave him some medicine.

Mrs. Robidoux corroborated her husband's testimony, stating that he accused had offered himself to Mr. Robidoux as he was sick and unable to do strenuous work.

Horridas Pratte, the Racine farmer, who discovered Trudeau's body hidden under a pile of wood four days after the murdered man had disappeared, told his story. On hearing of the tragedy he had joined Vincent and his friends in a search for the missing man. He noticed a slight displacement in the corded wood in the cellar of Trudeau's home. Putting his hand underneath he was surprised when he felt clothes, and further investigation revealed Trudeau's body beneath two feet of wood.

In answer to cross-examination by Mr. Hayes, Pratte asserted that on entering Trudeau's bedroom he had noticed that something unusual had happened, and that it was on his first visit to the cellar that he had made his gruesome discovery.

CROWN ENDED ITS PROOF IN VINCENT TRIAL

Defense This Morning Began to Establish Counter-Proof When Evidence of Four Medical Men Was Heard—Father of Joint Defense Counsel Testified.

Counsel for Albert Vincent, of Roxton Falls, this morning started to establish a sufficient proof in an attempt to free the accused man from the gallows for the murder of Edmond Trudeau, of Flodden, whose murdered body was found on Wednesday, September 24th, four days after the elderly farmer had disappeared from his home. The defense stated at the opening of the session today that it had concluded its case, and sub-chief Dorais and Sergeant Detective Jarguilles were allowed to return to Montreal until Monday morning, when they will be called by the defense.

The first part of the defense's proof was submitted by doctors. Four medical men were called to testify, including the father of the joint voluntary counsel for Vincent, Redmond Hayes. Besides Dr. John Hayes, of Richmond, Doctors Philip Adams, of Acton Vale, Langlois, of Valcourt, and R. Gaudet, of Sherbrooke, were heard.

Dr. Hayes was present at the autopsy performed by Dr. Fontaine on Trudeau's body, and testified that the result of his deductions were that if one blow had caused the crushing of the victim's skull the victim would have dropped in his tracks. On the other hand, had less violent blows preceded the death blow, Trudeau might have been able to walk several steps before weakness caused him to drop. The three other doctors related the history of the internal abdominal injuries suffered by Vincent from the kick he had received from a horse in the early part of last July, while the local doctor who is attached to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, testified that the victim's condition was such that he had not been able to walk.

The Crown yesterday afternoon brought several witnesses to the stand with a view to discrediting Vincent's story of a scuffle which, in his confession, he alleges took place in the kitchen of Trudeau's house before the blow that killed the Flodden farmer was struck.

Perhaps the most important witness in the proceedings yesterday was Detective Renee Lasnier, who told the jury of the state of affairs as he found them when he first visited Trudeau's home.

Dr. Wilfrid Derome, of Montreal, was called to the stand and merely corroborated the evidence of his confederate, Dr. Fontaine, on a few technical points, after which he proceeded to the Magistrate's Court, where the preliminary hearing into the death of Renee Malloy, of Norton Mills, was being heard by Judge J. APPOINTMENT APPROVED BY BRITISH PRESS

Newspapers of All Shades of Political Opinion Agreed that Lord Willingdon Is Most Suitable Statesman to Fill Important Empire Post.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Announcement of the appointment of Lord Willingdon as Viceroy of India has been received with general approval by newspapers of various shades of political opinion. "There is certainly no lack here of distinguished service overseas," says the Times in commenting on the appointment, "nor of special experience in India. Neither is it to be regarded as an appointment made for party considerations. Premier MacDonald may fairly claim he is carrying on that admirable tradition of indifference to considerations of this kind, which led Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, for instance, to entrust the Indian Statutory Commission to Sir John Simon.

"The real doubt must be," continues the Times, "whether at sixty-four, with so many appointments of continuous governorship behind him, Viscount Willingdon can, in the nature of things, possess the physical strength, the freshness, resource, capacity for work and the grip of realities in the world of rhetoric needed in Delhi today more than in any previous period in the history of India. It is to be hoped that the bracing climate and the comparative leisure in Canada, where he has won universal popularity, may have given Lord Willingdon a new lease of active life."

The Manchester Guardian alludes to the unusually luxurious crop of rumors and "leaked" hints dropped that the most responsible post in the Empire might prove a convenient means of getting rid of a dangerously brilliant rebel.

"Willingdon's appointment," says the Guardian, "will put an end to such foolish speculations and though unlikely to waken any great enthusiasm it is also unlikely to awaken any serious criticism."

The remainder of the newspaper's remarks are appreciative of Lord Irwin's tenure of office in India. "Perhaps the finest compliment one could pay Lord Irwin," the Guardian says, "would be to express the hope that his successor will not copy—but carry out his duties in the same earnest spirit."

WORD OF APPOINTMENT WELL RECEIVED IN INDIA

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 20.—News of the appointment of Viscount Willingdon to succeed Lord Irwin as Viceroy of India quickly spread to the bazaar, where it was received with a general welcome on the ground that if a person with experience of Indian affairs was to be chosen then the present Governor General of Canada, as a tried and true minister, was the best selection.

Both official and political circles think the appointment represents a compromise between two schools of thought and may prove to be a good choice for that reason.

The return of Lord Willingdon, who enjoyed great popularity among all sections of the community during his husband's term as Governor of Bombay, will be especially welcomed.

NEWSPAPER PROPHETS BUSY APPOINTING NEW GOVERNOR

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Prophets are already getting busy over the Canadian Governor-Generalship in view of announcement of Lord Willingdon's appointment as Viceroy of India, but considering how far they went astray in the latter regard it is excusable to receive their efforts sceptically.

One newspaper declares the expectation is that "with the consent of Canada," the post will be offered to the Earl of Athlone, the Queen's brother and former Governor-General of South Africa. There is no reason to believe this is anything more than an intelligent guess, though more intelligent and more likely than some conjectures which are certain to find their way into print.

Probably the Canadian vacancy will arouse speculations as to the possibility of one of His Majesty's younger sons being offered the post. Such a suggestion would not be wildly fantastic, but the real truth probably is that no name has yet been seriously considered in any official quarter.

When he happened to be in the vicinity of Trudeau's home, acted as cook for the deceased, told the Court that on the morning of Trudeau's disappearance he had gone to the Flodden farm and found nothing disturbed. Thinking that Trudeau had gone hunting, as his rifle was missing from its usual place, Jeanson prepared dinner for himself and later talked with Albert Cote for several hours. After leaving he did not return until Trudeau's body was found. The old gentleman, whose replies brought ripples of laughter to the assemblage, was emphatic that things were in their usual place and gave no evidence of a fight. When the defense attempted to bring before the Court that Trudeau owed

CONSERVATIVE SECRET CAUCUS IS CONTINUING

Messrs. Duranleau, Sauve and Dupre Scheduled to Participate in Deliberations Today.

MONTREAL, Dec. 20.—A pall of mystery still shrouds the secret meeting of the local Conservative members and the defeated Conservative candidates in the recent federal elections, which was held here yesterday. The exclusion of the press and public has not helped to clear up the situation.

The meeting went on all day yesterday, when "internal economies" were discussed by about thirty-four prominent Conservatives of Montreal and district, including Mayor Houde who dropped into the meeting late yesterday afternoon.

Neither the press nor the public were allowed into the meeting which was held behind closed doors in a downtown hotel. Apparently the business in hand was not completed as soon as it was hoped, for it was announced by J. A. Sullivan, K.C., member for St. Ann's that the convention would continue with a meeting at 2:30 p.m. today, at which the Hon. Alphonse Duranleau, K.C., Minister of Marine and Fisheries, the Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster-General, and the Hon. Maurice Dupre, K.C., Solicitor-General would be present, and possibly some other members of the Cabinet.

The meeting is being held under the joint chairmanship of Dr. F. H. Bédard, member for Brome-Missisquoi, and George P. Laurin, member for Jacques-Cartier. Many prominent Conservative leaders attended yesterday including: R. S. White, M.P., Mount Royal; Leslie G. Bell, M.P., St. Antoine; J. H. Barrette, M.P., Berthier-Maskinonge; J. L. Baribeau, M.P., Champlain; J. C. Moore, M.P., Chateauguay; Huntingdon; S. Gobeil, M.P., Compton; J. E. Tetreault, M.P., Sherbrooke; J. T. Hackett, M.P., Stanstead, and many defeated Conservative candidates.

ST. PIERRE AND DUBE BROTHERS TO STAND TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGES

Scenes of Sordid Hijacker-Bootlegger Drama Enacted at Hereford on Night of November 11 Were Vividly Recalled to Mind by Testimony of Joseph Langlois and Philip Malloy, Who Were With Renee Malloy When He Was Shot Down.

YOUTH STAGED PLUCKY FIGHT AGAINST DEATH

Young Patient in Boston Hospital Tried Hard to Live Until After Christmas, But His Brave Fight Was Unsuccessful.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 20.—A year ago Sunday they took eighteen year old Joseph Daniels to the emergency hospital here. At his work in a railroad yard, a snow plow had struck him down during a blinding storm. His skull was fractured, one leg was broken and his ribs were smashed. There was small hope for his recovery.

Young Daniels fought hard for life, just four more days of it, at first. He wanted to live till Christmas. He won his struggle, and with the passing of last Christmas, his hope for life and ultimate recovery grew stronger.

At the beginning of this year, he told hospital attendants, "next Christmas is my goal now." Days crept into months, and, in October, Daniels left the hospital in a wheel chair, hope flaming high. In November, they brought him back to the hospital, with the old plea on his lips: "Let me live till Christmas."

Joseph Daniels died yesterday, just six days short of his goal.

A quick retrospection will recall the circumstances said to have led to the young American's death. Renee Malloy, accompanied by his younger brother, Philip, and by Joseph Langlois, motored to the Dube farm at about eleven o'clock the night of November 11th at Hereford, where they were engaged in obtaining some liquor alleged to have been purchased that afternoon from St. Pierre's nineteen-year-old employee, Napoleon (Paul) Devost.

St. Pierre and the two Dube brothers were awaiting the Malloy brothers, whom they declared were coming not to legally carry off their own property, but to hi-jack St. Pierre's liquor. A shooting affray ensued, shots presumably being fired only from St. Pierre's side, and Renee Malloy fell in his tracks with a bullet through the heart, while Philip Malloy, suffering from three bullet wounds of a minor nature, managed to escape to the United States. Joseph Langlois was stopped by Vezina Dube, and later brought to Sherbrooke as a material witness in the case.

When the preliminary hearing was resumed yesterday afternoon Napoleon (Paul) Devost, whose testimony was outstanding at the inquest in Coaticook and had much to do with the verdict returned, related practically the same story he told at the coroner's inquest. Renee Malloy, he said, came to St. Pierre's farm on Saturday, November 8th, and ordered from Devost over seven hundred dollars' worth of liquor. "Renee drew me aside," continued the witness, "and asked me if I wanted to make easy money, and that he would give me fifty dollars if I would tell him where St. Pierre kept his booze. He would also give me an additional fifty dollars after having secured the liquor, he told me. I refused to have anything to do with him, and he returned home. On that day he was accompanied by his brother, Philip, and by Joseph Langlois. On Monday, Malloy came back to St. Pierre's, but the proposition was not again discussed. The following morning he, Devost, told St. Pierre that Renee Malloy had endeavored to bribe him into divulging where the liquor was kept. St. Pierre immediately formed a plan to trap the young visitors. An additional supply of liquor was placed in Dube's shed, and when Malloy came back that afternoon Devost agreed to betray his employer and accept the bribe. This, however, was but a ruse to trap Renee Malloy—a ruse which had very tragic results and for which three men are to go on trial for their lives. "I saw St. Pierre soon after the Malloys had left and told him everything was fixed," testified Devost. He then went to St. Pierre's farm, and remained there all evening. At about one o'clock St. Pierre arrived and told him to hurry and fetch a doctor, as someone was wounded.

According to the testimony of the young Coaticook man yesterday, Renee Malloy had confided to him that it was not the first time that he robbed St. Pierre or bribed one of St. Pierre's employees. He even told Devost that he had stolen eighteen cases of liquor, worth about $1,000, and later seven additional cases or about $700.00 worth from the Dube farm, the liquor being St. Pierre's property. Devost knew St. Pierre to have possessed only one gun, a .25 calibre revolver.

Dr. William Kerr, of Colebrook, N.H., testified that he had been called to the Dube farm on the night of the shooting, and had examined Renee Malloy and pronounced him dead. St. Pierre and the Dube brothers told him that there had been a fight and that many bullets had been flying around. "They told me Malloy and his companions had broken into the shed, and as they broke open the door and emerged, began to

Modernistic Colors and Square Designs Feature New Rugs

Small Coverings for Floor Harmonize or Contrast With Draperies of Room; Popular Rayon Rugs Have Matching Shower Curtains and Bath Mats.

A rayon rug in a leaf design, with matching shower curtains and bath rugs, adds a silken luster to the severity of the modern bathroom.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Stepping on the modern rugs and carpets isn't easy.

There was a time when rugs and carpets were just a background for the rest of the furniture. But now they are laying themselves out to attract some attention of their own.

Small rugs, especially, are scattering their charms everywhere. These scatter rugs as they are called, are choosing soft, gay colors, which either match or contrast the draperies of a room.

Bedrooms are their most popular settings. Modernistic designs which are carried through several shades of the same color, are being used in oval rugs of rayon texture. There is a sparkling lustre, and at the same time a deep softness, to such rugs which makes them admirable for boudoir use.

Colors Are Varied.

Rayon stuff is made in fifty-two colors, meeting every possible color problem. Most prominent among the bedroom colors are roses, greens, amethysts, blues and a black-and-white combination.

One favorite design, which is done in varying shades of green, has a leaf pattern, which is clear-cut and distinctive. This same effect is carried out in other colors, also.

Many of the rayon rugs have matching shower curtains and bath mats, which help preserve the spirit of harmony.

The oblong shape is the favorite for bedrooms at present. Several are used in the same room. When a room contains twin beds frequently a rug is used at the side of each bed and one is placed between them in front of the dressing table is another popular place for such a rug.

Chenille is tremendously popular in the oval rugs, too. And there is a tufted effect which shows flow in relief, that is having its inings.

Contrasting Weaves Effective.

Mohair with a plain border of the same color, relying on the contrast in weave instead of color for its decorative effect, is another of the new offerings. Chenille rugs are presented, too, in four shades of the same color.

Wash rugs for nurseries are among the most useful and colorful of modern floor coverings. Some are cotton. Boats go sailing on blue seas, memories hold circuses, and Mother Goose characters romp across the rug surfaces. One rug which children particularly adore, has an owl seated on a limb of a tree, and another favorite shows an elephant perched on the moon.

The same modern blending of colors, and rather square effect of design which is so noticeable in adult rugs is featured in the children's department.

The modernistic spirit of the scatter rugs has crept into the full size rugs and carpets. Large plaids, gay as the proverbial steamer blankets, lend a warm tone to a living room that follows a gay informality. These rugs are made by the peasants and farm women of Canada, each one creating and using her own design. Something of the coziness of their lamp-lit rooms where they work on the long winter evenings has crept into the warm reds and browns and yellow tones which they favor in this work. Breakfast nooks and colonial living rooms frequently are shown with such floor coverings.

Another group of rugs, equally appropriate for living rooms and bedrooms, is being made by certain European mountain peasants who are weaving their tribal designs into their decorative schemes. Here again gay colors, softened to avoid any flamboyancy, which is entirely out of keeping with the new mood, are used.

From Germany and France hand-tufted rugs are coming. They use modernistic designs, leaning toward a square pattern. A special feature is the working of the designer's name into the rug, in a place where it will be seen.

Machine-made rugs are following like designs with unusual effectiveness.

While the old flower arrangement that used to turn the living room floor into a hollyhock or rose garden is still included in the carpet and rug designs, there has been a considerable less blooming in such flower plots.

The new motif prefers lines and squares, and either tones of the same color, or those that will fit into a common background.

Another interesting angle from which to view the new rugs is the fact that they are entirely harmonious to almost any furniture grouping in spite of their modernistic designs. This is due, for the most part, to their simplicity.

You are pretty certain to be laying the right foundation to household beauty if you start with a rug or two.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Stumpy Is Filled With Envy

Behold how envy doth destroy Content and happiness and joy.
—Old Mother Nature.

Very foolish was the way Stumpy, the three-legged young Muskrat, felt as he climbed back on his favorite rock, beside the open water of the Laughing Brook. Not in all the Green Forest or on all the Green Meadows was there a more harmless person than Jumper the Hare, yet Jumper had frightened him into a sudden plunge into the water, and all because of his coat.

"I didn't see you at all," explained Stumpy.

Jumper chuckled. "I know you didn't although you were looking right at me," said he. "It wasn't until I lifted my ears that you knew I was anywhere near."

"I didn't know it then," replied Stumpy quite honestly. "The tips of your ears are black and your eyes are black. I couldn't see but one eye so altogether I saw three black spots. When two of these moved I didn't know but I was looking at the black tips of two Weasel tails and I didn't wait to find out."

Jumper chuckled. "I'll say you didn't," said he. "By the way, how did you learn that Shadow the Weasel has a black tip to his tail?"

"I've seen it," replied Stumpy. "He was over here the other day and I saw him."

Jumper looked about him hastily and there was fear in his eyes. "Does he come here often?" he asked anxiously.

"That is the only time I have seen him this winter," replied Stumpy. "By the way, that looks to me like Hooty the Great Horned Owl headed this way. Excuse me please."

Stumpy dove into the Laughing Brook and the black water closed over him. It was quite a bit later that Stumpy again climbed out on that tussock.

He was thinking about Jumper and wondering if Hooty the Owl had caught him. Imagine his surprise when he discovered Jumper sitting just where he had been when Hooty appeared.

"Didn't Hooty come over here after all?" Stumpy inquired.

"Oh, yes," replied Jumper. "He flew right over your tussock there and glared down at it. It is lucky for you that you were not there."

"Where were you?" persisted Stumpy, his curiosity growing.

"Right here," replied Jumper. "Didn't you see me?" demanded Stumpy in amazement.

OLD FAVORITE PICTURES RETURN TO VOGUE IN MODERN HOMES

Wall Decorations Are Individual With Hunting Prints, Maps and Mirrors.

A charming arrangement for a mantel or over a table or desk includes an old map, dated 1623, a rosewood tea caddy, pewter candlestick, lamps and a Staffordshire dog.

Have you ever noticed, when moving, how bare and forlorn your new home looks until the pictures are put up? This is the real proof of the importance of pictures and other wall decorations in adding "livability" to a home.

This season there are many kinds of pictures you can add to give your home a touch of individuality. Black and white etchings are tremendously popular at present and are especially good in a room of high coloring where they present just the needed contrast. If a picture is intended for a fairly dark space, the colors should be vivid, perhaps a gay hunting scene, a bright garden or a flower print in lively colors. Often a mirror will enliven such a corner immeasurably, especially if from its corner it catches a view out of a window or reflects a light lamp.

Often a home-maker, conscious of her scant knowledge of art, is fearful of purchasing an inferior picture so selects a reproduction of some masterpiece by Raphael, Van Dyke, Rembrandt or some other great artist. While the reproductions nowadays are marvelous, such pictures are so commonly used that they are apt to lessen the individuality of a home.

An inexpensive water color of some spot in the family knotty, a sea scene or an unusual landscape or portrait might add a whole lot more to your home than a reproduction of a master.

Fish Pictures in Vogue

Fish are in again as dining room decorations. There are all manner of lovely shell or fish pictures that you can purchase reasonably. Fruit pictures also are good for the dining room and come in a stunning assortment of well-known and exotic varieties.

For the living room, smoking room, card room and men's rooms, the very latest things are gay hunting scenes. Old prints, of course, take precedence over new ones, and nothing is nicer than some of the old red-clothed figures riding to hounds portrayed in the stiff manner of olden days. Coaches are colorful and old English tavern prints are good, too.

Tinted Photos Are Good

Bedroom decorations now encourage enlargements of family snap-shots, perhaps tinted, framed in narrow frames the color of the woodwork. Costume pictures, old Godey's Ladies Book prints, silhouettes and old-fashioned garden pictures are all bedroom vogue. Right now, bedroom pictures are of good. Old-fashioned dresden figurines, of all the house's decorations, they should be hung lower than pictures in other rooms, too, in order to emphasize the impression of coziness. Though in this connection it should be said that the most common failing in picture hanging is to place them too high.

For the nursery, illustrations of famous children's stories are favorites, and other simple, colorful portraits and scenes are good too. Even the bathroom and kitchen can have pictures this season, with perfect propriety, and there is no denying that pictures add a pleasant decorative touch to both.

Among the newest wall decorations, tapestries and maps are foremost. Tapestries should be very good before they deserve hanging. Moreover, ceilings should be fairly high and a room fairly formal to carry them. This, however, is not true of the new vogue for maps. Old maps, new maps, maps of your own hometown, or far China, of the Eastern or Western Hemisphere, all of these are good.

The very newest mantelpiece or over-the-hall table decoration is one of these quaint maps, framed in narrow wood the tone of your table or often in a grey red to set off the room.

Father's study would appreciate one of these, too. Used with a map picture for a mantel piece, you should contrive something in the way of pewter or old glass or porcelain. If you are blessed with a couple of pewter mugs, they are wonderful. Candlesticks always are good. Old-fashioned dresden figurines, in quaint dresden figure design, make lovely pairs for the mantel. An unusual hand-carved little casket, a single porcelain pet, even a few beautifully bound books, with ends to hold them, make a nice grouping for under the map.

Whatever your room to be decorated this winter, remember that the wall decorations are often the most interesting single note introduced. It behooves you to study your individual tastes and needs, for the more unusual your pictures, the more original and appealing your home can be.

EXTEND TIME FOR HEARING OF WAR CLAIMS

C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State, Announces in Official Statement that Commissioner of Reparations Will Hear Claims of Prisoners of War Until January 6.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 20.—An extension of the period during which the commissioner of reparations will hear claims of prisoners of war, until January 6th, 1931, was announced by Hon. C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State. Mr. Cahan issued a statement containing the announcement, and also pointing out that section 4 of annex 1 of the Treaty of Versailles makes Germany responsible for damages caused by any mal-treatment of prisoners of war.

The text of the brief statement follows:

"Some misapprehension has arisen with regard to the date upon which claims for reparations may be filed with the Reparation Commissioner, Section 4 of annex 1 of the Treaty of Versailles, provides that Germany shall be responsible for damages caused by any kind of mal-treatment of prisoners of war, the notices heretofore given refer more particularly to claims for damages by the civil population, and for that reason many returned soldiers who had claims under the above clause refrained from putting their claims forward. In order that all claimants may have an opportunity to submit their claims, the Secretary of State and the Commissioner of Reparation have decided that the time for hearing claims of prisoners of war will be extended to the sixth of January, 1931."

REDUCTION IN STEAMSHIP RATES BECOMES EFFECTIVE

Reductions Range from Twenty to Forty Per Cent. in First Class Passenger Rates Between Europe and Canada and U.S.

ANTWERP, Belgium, Dec. 20.—Reductions running from twenty to forty per cent. in first class passenger rates between Europe and Canada and the United States were announced by North Atlantic Steamship Lines. The reductions are effective today.

Minimum rates are lower under the new schedule and considerable reductions have been made in charges for the more elaborate suites. The decrease is greater than the normal summer reductions, but the latter also have been lowered still further, after having remained unchanged for a number of years.

THEY'LL JUST BE POSTHUMOUS.

With reference to the situation in Malta, humorists are warned that if they are foolishly enough to repeat the joke about making the Maltese cross they will not be recommended for a posthumous award of the V.C.

NEW DISCOVERY IS ANNOUNCED BY SCIENTIST

Vienna Professor Announces that as Result of Research in Field of Cosmic Ultra-Radiation He Has Discovered Peculiar Radiation of Tremendous Penetrative Force.

VIENNA, Dec. 20.—The Vienna Chemical and Physical Society was given a sensation by Professor V. F. Hess, who declared that as a result of his research in the field of cosmic ultra-radiation he had discovered a peculiar radiation of tremendous penetrative force.

He startled the Society further with his assertion that this great force undoubtedly must be of extraterrestrial origin. Since its intensity increases with distance from the earth's surface.

Professor Hess found this cosmic ultra radiation to be ten times as penetrative as the strongest radium rays, piercing clearly most of leaden plate with a loss of only half their intensity.

He believed the wave length of these rays to be almost unbelievably short, probably one one-hundred-millionth of ultra-violet and one-thousandth that of radium ray.

Mr. S. Marlin, who has for many years resided about five miles from Sawyerville, today reached his eighty-third birthday, and received the congratulations of his neighbors farm with all its responsibilities.

Mr. Marlin was born in Rawdon, self and one brother, Mr. Stewart

Clearing House, totalled $782,329.91.
This is a decrease of $285,459.76 compared with the figures for the same week last year, when the clearings amounted to $1,067,789.67.

A decrease of $291,018.31 is al-

TWO FIRE CALLS ANSWERED

The ceiling and walls of a room in the house of Miss Mary Despar-lais, 15a Peel street, were considerably damaged by smoke and fire yesterday, when a blaze started from an overheated stove pipe and threatened to work much damage to the wooden building. The chemical apparatus from Station No. 1 answered the call, and soon had the situation well in hand. The damage was caused mostly by the smoke and water.

At 7:15 o'clock this morning a bad chimney fire at 131 Brooks street, in the property of Mr. Jules Jacques and occupied by tenants, necessitated the summoning of the fire brigade. Stations Nos. 1 and 3 answered the alarm, and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before it had caused very much damage.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Mystery Meeting at 6th Troop.

What proved to be a very popular programme was run off at the 6th Troop meeting last evening in St. Andrew's Church Hall. The major portion of the meeting was in charge of Troop Leader Lothrop, and after the usual opening and inspection a Scout law game and patrol corner programme followed. Two mystery games covering observation tests created marked attention and interest on the subject of a good memory. After a short council fire programme during which a short impromptu mystery story by the Scoutmaster, involving three characters chosen by the troop, brought the requests for another story along the same lines at the next meeting, the programme was brought to a close with flag lowering, prayer and announcements. After the dismiss, S.M. Muzzy, who had continued his signalling class, gave several points and some practical demonstrations of fencing, all Scouts having a try at this interesting sport. The next meeting of the troop will be held on Friday afternoon, January 2nd, 1931, when members will meet at the home of the Scoutmaster with blankets and food for two days, from which point they will proceed to the 6th Troop camp for the week-end.

guardian, for his promptness and regularity. This will be a stepping stone to a regular carrier route,

WHEAT TOUCHED RECORD

With December wheat futures selling at 51½ cents a bushel on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, a new record low for wheat broker.

Mr. Ames' records show that the previous low price was in Chicago

Do not mistake activity for efficiency. Most of the time it isn't. Life is just one big opportunity after another to the man who is wideawake, efficient, and does not fuss.

NEW YEAR'S EVE EVENT.

The Sherbrooke Regiment will this year carry out its plan to gain its "colours." The ladies of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire sponsor an assembly and a military ball to be held in the historic old Armory of the Regiment at the head of Court street.

"The colours" are a bit expensive. They cost in the neighbourhood of $600. But this amount will be readily gained, as several hundred subscribers have already signified their intention of taking part in the festivities on New Year's Eve. Any amount received over the necessary cost of the silk flags will be distributed by the ladies of the I.O.D.E. to charitable purposes, and there is likely to be a handsome surplus.

Truly, the Military Ball will be the social event of the season, and present calls for tickets would indicate the closing of the sale before Christmas Day. Applications for tickets have been received from many towns in the Eastern Townships. The limit has been fixed at about four hundred couples.

The officers and men of the Sherbrooke Regiment have been devoting their evenings to preparations for the ball during the past fortnight. All the other military units are in close affiliation, and have promised their support and assistance. The young men have spared not their time nor their labour, and they promise to make the spacious parade room a bower of beauty for the occasion.

The objects and aims of the ladies of the I. O. D. E. are worthy of more than passing mention.

The Premier and the Lieutenant-Governor have graciously consented to forego any taxation of the work or of the energy of the ladies and of the military men who have the work in charge.

It is likely that the same concerted action and sympathy will be offered the other Regiments in the district should they decide to follow the plan of the Sherbrooke Regiment at an early future period.

FIGURES AND FACTS.

The "Canada Year Book" is the statistical reference book for the Dominion, and the figures therein compiled and presented to the public are invariably correct.

In the 1930 issue of the Year Book, published a few months ago the total bonded indebtedness of the provinces is given as:

	Debt	Population
Ontario	$435,912,807	3,273,300
Quebec	278,864,744	2,690,400

So that the per capita debt of the Province of Quebec is much smaller than that of the sister province. That of Quebec is about $96.50, whilst the per capita debt of Ontario is $136.30.

The total liabilities of City of Montreal are $206,342,996, whilst those of Toronto are $188,508,310. Here again the per capita debt of the Quebec metropolis makes a better showing than that of Ontario's largest city.

The total liabilities of the cities in Canada with which Sherbrooke can be compared by a like population, taking all cities of around 30,000 or less population, are given in the Canada Year Book thus:

	Liabilities	Pop. 1928
Sherbrooke	$10,014,538	27,303
Westmount	10,920,438	25,000
Three Rivers	8,122,452	39,000
Brantford	5,913,426	28,903
Kitchener	4,519,106	26,709
St. Catharines	6,018,996	23,327
Kingston	3,027,069	22,365
Guelph	4,085,542	19,202
Peterborough	6,512,442	21,768
Oshawa	2,807,055	25,609

Each of these ten cities will have assets to partially offset their liabilities, but, of course, such assets are apt to shrink in the event of a sale.

The City of Westmount shows a profit on its electrical plant by charging itself $289,498 a year for street lighting, and $17,330 for its civic water supply. The civic library gets $17,450 a year, and the parks and play grounds $56,325, out of a total expenditure from $1,027,683 collected in taxes.

THE MILK OF THE LOBBYISTS.

The exercise of "influence" in Government circles often works a hardship upon those who are absolutely innocent. I have always held that the publication of the names of people who do harmfully influence the Ministers would effectually put a stop to the practice.

In Ontario recently the Minister of Agriculture was influenced by a delegation of milkmen to put a stop order on the purity and pasteurization of milk sold to the people. This order was put in force on the 8th of December. On the 10th of December there was an outbreak of sore throat in a Northern Ontario town, and about three hundred people were affected, whilst several deaths occurred. The cause was traced to the town dairy, where bad milk was being sold.

In Montreal a few years ago there was a diphtheria epidemic, with many fatalities among children. The cause was traced to one milk dealer, where appallingly dirty practices were permitted to exist. The offending milk corporation was put under the ban, and of course had to go out of business, even though the proprietors tried to exert "influence" to prevent the probe being made public.

In this province every care is being taken and we are not liable to encounter any such epidemics as have occurred. Supervision here begins at the cow barns. Pasteurization is an assurance of safety for the young folk particularly.

THE GIFT OF MEMORIES.

Within a fortnight we have sent out over 200 letters in connection with the Christmas gift campaign where our present subscribers send as a gift to friends a subscription to the Record for a year.

It is a cultured gift, and one which is borne in mind for 312 days by the recipient, a joyful reminder of the sender, and a messenger which carries memories to relatives who have enjoyed the privilege of residence in the Eastern Townships.

In Sherbrooke, which is the Capital of the old Eastern Townships, we have received many Christmas gifts of new subscribers, and they are at once an evidence of good-will and a proof that the Record and its staff have at heart the best interests of both the city and the surrounding counties. In the City of Montreal the Record has over 400 daily subscribers, and these include the most prominent men in the metropolis.

With constructive thought the Record will carry on the methods followed in the past to enlarge its field and to make it a hard place to go away from.

EDITOR'S NOTE BOOK.

Ensign Hempstead, of the Salvation Army, sends us a very charming calendar from Army Headquarters, the while he asks us to mention the Salvation Army Christmas Fund, into which every dollar that goes will bring a dinner to some really needy person on the Day of all Days in the year. One can always feel certain that what goes into this fund will be spent one hundred cents on the dollar with the addition of that love and sympathy and personal solace which is alone the meaning of the Heart that feels.

FLIER RELATES EXPERIENCE OF RESCUE PARTY

Pilot Van Der Byl and Air Engineer Tom Creecy Faced Many Hardships and Trying Times in Their Noble Effort to Reach Late Captain Burke.

VANDERHOOF, B.C., Dec. 20.—Pilot R. I. Van Der Byl related here the story of how he and Air Engineer Tom Creecy got out to civilization from Thutade Lake after being marooned there last month, while enroute north to join the search for the late Captain E. J. Burke. The two, accompanied by two Indians and four dogs, had a one hundred and eighty-five mile "mush" to Takla Lake, from which place to Fort St. James they were aided by outboard motors and canoes. It took them twenty days to cover the hundred and fifty miles over which they had flown in less than three hours.

The two airmen, with Relief Pilot W. A. Joers, arrived at Thutade Lake on November 11th. The thermometer dropped to four above zero and they spent the next day trying to get their plane out of the ice. On November 13th, they tried for four hours to get into the air. "Every time we taxied two hundred yards for a take-off we gathered from six hundred to one thousand pounds of ice formed by contact of spray on the all-metal machine," Van Der Byl said. "After clearing the ice off four times and dumping everything possible, Creecy and I got out with all kits and available food. Joers was just able to get off alone."

The marooned fliers stayed sixteen days at Thutade Lake in the hut of a trapper. Then, fearing Hoers might not have got out to send relief they set out for Takla Lake. They were on snowshoes for twelve days, during eleven of which snow fell.

The trip to Takla Lake took thirteen and one-half days. Van Der Byl and Creecy will arrive in Vancouver today.

BERNARD SHAW GIVES OPINION OF AMERICANS

Noted Humorist Says He Has Always Been Particularly Careful Never to Say a Civil Word to United States, But Has "Scoffed at Their Inhabitants as a Nation of Villagers" and He Adds, "They Just Adore Me."

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 20.—A newspaper correspondent asked George Bernard Shaw for his opinion of Sinclair Lewis' address at Stockholm, in which the Nobel Prize winner attacked present literary standards in America. This is Mr. Shaw's reply as delivered in his own handwriting.

"As far as I am qualified to judge, Mr. Sinclair Lewis has said just the right thing in the right way to the Swedish Academy, and at his own expense. They will not resent it. They expect to be flattered; but far from being grateful to their flatterer, they accept the tribute as a matter of course, just as they accept the cleaning of their boots at a hotel.

"To rouse their eager interest, their distinguished consideration and their undying devotion, all that is necessary is to hold them up to the ridicule of the rest of the universe. Dickens won them to him forever by merciless projections of typical Americans—as windbags, swindlers and assassins.

"Mr. Sinclair Lewis has knocked Washington off his pedestal, and substituted Babbitt, who is now a European by-word. Thereby he has become so indisputably America's leading author that, at the early age of forty-five, he has been marked out for the Nobel Prize.

"I myself have been particularly careful never to say a civil word to the United States. I have scoffed at their inhabitants as a nation of villagers. I have defined the hundred per cent American as ninety-nine per cent an idiot, and they just adore me and will go on adoring me until in a moment of senile sentimentality I say something nice about them, when they will at once begin to suspect me of being only a cheap skate after all, and drop me like a hot potato.

"Most of the things I say of them are obviously true of all peoples that on earth do dwell; but as the Americans can never have the other nations could possibly resemble them I get them every time, just as Mr. Sinclair Lewis does.

"I hope he will keep pegging away at them. Otherwise there will be no holding them."

CO-OPERATION OF ALL PEOPLE IS NECESSARY

Federal Minister of Labor Sounds Note of Warning Regarding Any Attempt Which Might Be Made to Spread Communism Throughout Canada.

OTTAWA, Dec. 20.—In a statement, Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, appeals to all loyal Canadians to "do their bit" in helping to maintain "that equilibrium in the realm of economic affairs which seems so important during this period of business depression."

During the past year, states Senator Robertson, a score of Canadian delegates attended Communist conferences in Russia. There is evidence, he continues, that efforts have been made to spread revolutionary doctrine and arouse dissatisfaction in the minds of the people.

The statement of Senator Robertson was as follows: "The present world-wide industrial depression has naturally given to those people who seek to undermine the present social and political system the impetus to carry on propaganda among the unemployed in the large centres.

"There has been during the year a score of Canadian delegates attending Communist conferences in Russia, and evidence is not lacking that under the direction and control of a few persons in the North American continent efforts have been made to spread revolutionary doctrine and arouse in the minds of the people dissatisfaction with existing systems.

"The good hard sense or the North American people, and, particularly of Canada, has, however, prevailed, and I feel sure there is no danger of the efforts of representatives or disciples of Communist organizations or doctrines making any substantial headway in this country. The Canadian people know that whatever the complexion of the Federal Government may be, no relief in or sympathy for these doctrines will be found in Government circles.

"So large a proportion of the Canadian people have a direct monetary interest as property and security owners, representing the savings of their own toil, that they will not be easily swayed or controlled by Communist doctrines. It is most important, however, that the closest co-operation and sympathy should exist between what Communists describe as the 'capitalistic interests' and the workmen, who are primarily dependent upon employment opportunities whereby they may maintain themselves and their dependents in keeping with Canadian standards of living. There should be a constant, earnest effort on the part of both of these indispensable partners in our national industrial life to maintain existing standards of working conditions and wages, because the prosperity of the country necessarily largely depends upon the purchasing power of its common people.

"Periods of serious unemployment naturally encourage hope and request for shorter working days, and for shorter working weeks, with increased wage rates to maintain existing standards of earnings, overlooking, perhaps, that the employers are similarly pressed with their own problems and that any concerted effort on the part of either interest in very apt to provoke difficulties and disputes, which those interests, opposed to the present social, economic and religious standards existing in Canada, would welcome so warmly.

"May we not with confidence at this time appeal to all Canadians, loyal to the interests of their country to each do their bit as lies with their power to help to co-operate in maintaining that equilibrium in the realm of economic affairs which seems so important during this period of business depression.

"Many theories are advanced as to the causes of this present world-wide situation, but history reveals the fact that many similar periods have been experienced in the years now past. It would seem the part of wisdom for individuals, organized business and organized Government, that each and all should give attention by research to carefully diagnose the difficulty and seek common sense intelligent remedies, based on sound judgment, rather than being influenced by fanciful theories which have never as yet justified themselves by experiment."

BADEN-POWELL NOT CONCERNED ABOUT REPORTS

Head of World Boy Scout Movement to Carry Out His Original Plans in Spite of Objections that Visit to Australia Would "Encourage Militarism."

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The cable from Australia yesterday reporting that the Labor Council of New South Wales had protested in a resolution against the proposed visit to Australia of Lord Baden-Powell, head of the World Boy Scout Movement, on the ground that the visit would "encourage militarism," will make no difference in the plans of the hero of Mafeking. The protest, said the General's secretary, was probably due to a misunderstanding of the work of the Boy Scouts. He pointed out that many prominent labor leaders in Great Britain were members of the Council of the British organization. In England the labor forces realized the Boy Scout movement was doing a great deal of good work towards the goal of international peace and was, in no sense, a militaristic body.

"I am one of 7000 Bell Telephone operators in Ontario and Quebec.

"Of course you realize that there is no form of Christmas greeting to friends at a distance so intimate, so cordial and friendly, as a little talk by telephone.

"May we ask a favor? It is that you will please telephone your Christmas greeting to distant friends early—early in the day and early in Christmas week!

"We are anxious that such long distance calls should go through promptly. If they are all concentrated into Christmas Day, there may be some congestion that will mean delay—slow service.

"The Christmas spirit will pervade the whole of Christmas week. Your greetings by telephone will be welcome and timely at any time during the week.

YOUNG BOY HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Promptness of Fireman Saved Lad from Death in Water Tank of Locomotive at Coleraine.

COLERAINE, Dec. 20.—The curiosity of the average young boy concerning all things connected with a railroad nearly caused the death of twelve-year-old Leo Lachance, of this place. In fact, only the quick action of the fireman on a locomotive saved his life.

When the train pulled into Coleraine station, the engine was stopped to take water. The youngster, not content with simply looking on at the operation, decided to approach closer and examine the spout and tender tank. Climbing on top of the tender, the boy hid behind the fireman until the tank was filled. When he tried to obtain a better view of the railwayman raising the large spout, Leo lost his balance and fell first into the tank. Hearing his shouts, the fireman turned round and managed to grab the boy by one foot and pull him out of the tank.

Leo was taken into the station, nearly drowned, while the ice cold water poured from his clothes. Artificial respiration was used, however, and he is apparently none the worse for his almost unique experience. In telling his story the boy always concludes with the statement that in the future he will keep at a safe distance from a railway locomotive.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Final arrangements were also made for the bazaar to be given under the auspices of the League. The meeting adjourned until the New Year. The treasurer gratefully acknowledged the following contributions: Miss Marion Parker, $20, part of the proceeds from the entertainment given by her pupils in the Mitchell School; from Mrs. L. A. Darcy, $5.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hammond entertained at a charmingly arranged and most enjoyable dance last evening in the Masonic Temple, where the Christmas decorations were artistically carried out with festoons of red and green, finished with large clusters of red balloons under each suspended light. Red shaded lamps and tinsel decked Christmas trees added the finishing touch to the pretty scene. The many guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Hammond, the latter wearing a pretty gown of metallic cloth in silver and black. HAPPY SCENES WITNESSED AT LOCAL SCHOOLS

Children Had Gala Day Yesterday at Mitchell, North Ward and East Ward Schools—Santa Claus Present.

Picture the happy, joyous scene. Twelve Christmas trees and over four hundred children assembled in the decorated school rooms, such was the scene at the Mitchell School yesterday when lessons were forgotten and happiness reigned supreme. Twelve grades took part, each with its own Christmas tree laden with candy and fruit. Every child received a share, and the teachers were affectionately remembered by their pupils. And then the crowning event, when they all gathered in the large assembly hall to repeat the delightful entertainment presented for the parents and grown-ups by the pupils.

Grade six, under the supervision of Miss E. Farquhar, and grade one, with Miss Marion Parker directing, gave their full programme before a most appreciative and enthusiastic audience, the performers being vociferously applauded by the school mothers. After Christmas greetings had been exchanged, the tired but happy teachers and children dispersed for the Christmas holidays.

CHRISTMAS CLOSING AT EAST WARD SCHOOL

To the delight of all the children and the grown-ups as well, Santa made his appearance at the East Ward School yesterday morning. A beautifully decorated Christmas tree heavily laden with gifts drew the attention of all, until the appearance of Santa, with a jingle of bells, brought happy exclamations from the little tots. Santa was in the best of spirits and had a jovial greeting for each child.

A delightful programme was put on by several of the pupils. Recitations were given by Robert Simpson, Herbert Milnes, Betty Fraser, Norma Atkinson, Grace Cathcart, Morris Lemay, John Simpson, George and Warren Jones, Gertrude Allison, Shirley Xasteroole, Ronnie MacMillan, Charles and Huntley Gordon and Freeman Clowery. Three carols were sung by the school. Of these perhaps the Noel, "Don't Vieni-tu Bongi," drew the loudest applause. Also several songs were very sweetly sung by the little ones of grades I and II. Special features were a playlet by Greta Cathcart, Billy MacIntyre and James Clowery entitled "The Day After Christmas," a piano solo by Norma Atkinson, and a reading by Ruth MacMillan.

The programme was as follows: Carol by the school, "Holy Night, Silent Night"; recitation of welcome, by four pupils of grade I; Robert Simpson, Betty Fraser, Herbert Milnes and Norma Atkinson; recitation by Greta Cathcart, Billy MacIntyre and James Clowery, "Father's Christmas Box"; a song by grades I and II, "Sing a Song of Christmas"; recitation by Morris Lemay, entitled "Once a Year"; piano solo, by Nan Humphreys, singing "By Ruth MacMillan, 'A Six Foot Christmas Gift'; a song by grades I and II, "Santa Claus Has Come To Town"; recitation by three grade I boys, John Simpson, George and Warren Jones; recitation, by Gertrude Allison, "Curly Head"; Carol by grade II, "Once in Royal David's City"; French carol by Shirley Xasteroole, "Stylen"; motion song by grades I and II, "Away in a Manger"; recitation by Ronnie MacMillan, "A Sharp Hint"; song by grade II, "Hung Up My Stocking"; recitation by Charles and Huntley Gordon, "A Wonderful Christmas"; recitation by Freeman Clowery, "A Little Mouse Speaks His Mind"; carol by the school, "God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen"; playlet by Greta Cathcart, Billy MacIntyre and James Clowery, "The Day After Christmas"; French carol by the school, "D'ou Vieni-tu Bongi".

EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT AT NORTH WARD SCHOOL

The North Ward School gaily decorated with evergreens, Christmas balls and streamers was the scene of a very happy and successful Christmas closing yesterday afternoon. A large number of parents and interested friends, who included former pupils of the school, were present, and enjoyed the excellent entertainment put on by the children under the able direction of Miss Clough, their teacher, who spared no effort to make the event a happy one for her pupils. The programme consisted of Christmas carols and recitations by the primary classes, and a little play entitled "A Christmas Eve Dream," put on by the third and fourth grades. The story is about Jacqueline, a selfish little girl, who is converted to the Red Cross, Jr. idea of helping others by visitors of the story, book from "Fairy Land." The part of Jacqueline was taken by Noreen Lothrop, while the other characters were: Bill, Christie Mentis; Jack and Jill, Angus Young and Ruby Jones; Cinderella, Ruth Burroughs; Red Riding Hood, Pearl Hall; Little Boy Blue, Gordon Pettigrew; Jack and the Beanstalk, Vernon Page; Santa Claus, Reginald Young; A Fairy Messenger, Violet Birkingham; Fairies, Edna Knapp, Helen Hall, Betty Burroughs and Amber Dix.

The little play was prettily staged and the young performers entered into the spirit of the "Dream" in a very realistic way. At the conclusion of the programme the distribution of candy from the beautifully decorated Christmas tree to every pupil in the school brought the happy event to a close.

mitage; supply secretary, Mrs. W. Mutchler; strangers secretary, Miss M. Boswick; associate helpers, Mrs. Max Long and Mrs. R. Richardson; Baby Band, Mrs. W. E. Hodge; mite boxes, Mrs. Forrest, and secretary of Christian stewardship and finance, Mrs. E. S. Stevens, assisted by Mrs. Emerson. The meeting adjourned until the New Year.

FORMER ALDERMAN WILL BE BURIED ON MONDAY

The funeral of Mr. Philippe Desaulniers, former alderman for the East Ward, will be held Monday morning from his late residence on Bowen avenue to St. Jean Baptiste Church. Mr. Desaulniers, who passed away at the age of seventy-two years, was well known throughout the city, having resided here since a very young boy. His death came as a great shock to his large circle of friends, as his illness only extended over four days.

He leaves to mourn his loss a brother, Mr. Joseph Desaulniers, of Fredericton, N.B., and a sister, Mrs. J. E. Poutre, formerly of Sherbrooke, but now residing in Florida. His less than three months' illness preceded him about four years ago.

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS STUDENTS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Several of the Eastern Townships young ladies were successful in obtaining their diplomas in the December short course just completed at Macdonald College. These included Elsie Salter, of Glenelg, who also won the Hon. Jacob Nicol prize for second general proficiency, and Elsie Byles, of Hatley, who won the prize in Scripture donated by the Bishop of Montreal.

Others receiving interim elementary diplomas were, Ruby M. Jamieson, Kinnear's Mills; Olive McBurney, Sawyerville; Violeta Labonte, Lennoxville; Edwara Parker, North Hatley; Madeline Moulton, Hatley; Muriel Little, Inverness; Eunice M. Paize, Lennoxville and Gladys E. Cook, Inverness.

The following received permission to teach and will receive an interim diploma on presenting a certificate of successful teaching from an inspector: Alice L. Ashton, Warden; Gertrude Little, Inverness; and Eleanor Wilson, Glenelg.

"Did you know the defendant, Rastus?"

"Ah had a logical acquaintance with him."

"What do you mean by logical acquaintance?"

"Well," the witness replied, "us both belong to the same lodge."

A REGAL NURSE

shot," said the doctor.

U. S. Customs Officer George W. Shannon declared that on the morning following the shooting episode he came across the body of Rene Malloy lying across the road near the Dube farm, and surrounded by several men, including St. Pierre. "He told me he had killed Malloy," testified Shannon. "When I asked him why he had done it, he stated that Malloy had shot at him and had been stealing his property. St. Pierre reiterated over and over that he had done the job," the officer said.

In turn Phillip Malloy and Joseph Langlois told their stories over again, and were then subject to a severe grilling by the consul for the defense, Mr. Emile Rioux. The two young men were firm in their conviction that Rene Malloy was going to the Dube farm for the purpose of obtaining liquor which he had purchased that afternoon. Neither of them suspected that they were going to rob the premises of an amount of bootleg liquor valued at between seven hundred and eight hundred dollars.

Cross-examined by the defendants' attorney Joseph Langlois was in his denial that he had doubted the honesty of the visit to the Dube farm. "Rene told me he had bought some liquor and we were to fetch it," he explained to the court. "I found nothing strange or out of the ordinary in the proceedings." Langlois related how the three of them had motored to the Dube farm, left the vehicle parked in the field, and then made their way on foot to the shed, where the liquor was hidden. Reney and Phillip Malloy placed a ladder against the side of the building, and Reney led the way up. Phillip followed. Langlois himself, hesitating slightly, was half way up the ladder when he heard St. Pierre shout at him. "He told me not to come down," said Langlois. He entered the shed by the broken window, and the three youngsters descended from the attic to the floor below. The two Malloys unlocked the door by hooks and dashed out. As they emerged two shots were fired, coming from the left, where Vezina Dube was stationed with a revolver in his hand. Langlois claims he heard a moan, apparently coming from the lips of Reney Malloy.

Vezina Dube then accosted Langlois and leading him by the mening point of his gun, brought him to the farmhouse. A short while later St. Pierre entered and said that the two boys were lying on the ground outside, but that he did not know if they were dead.

In direct contradiction of the proof which the defense tried to establish that the shed door had been broken open, Phillip Malloy declared yesterday that to the best of his knowledge his brother had not forced the door open. Exhibits alleged to be the padlock and splinters of the smashed door were produced in court, but Malloy was firm in his conviction that his brother had merely unhooked the door and pushed on it fairly easily. No crash was heard, as would have been the case had the door been smashed.

The three men from across the line were not armed, it was established. "When Reney and I rushed out of the shed," testified Malloy, "two shots were fired. Reney began to run and I followed. As we were running Reney fell and cried that St. Pierre had shot him. I kept on going, and St. Pierre followed me, with two revolvers. I was struck twice and wheeled around to face St. Pierre when I was struck again. I dropped to the ground and pretended I was dead. St. Pierre approached me and kicked me with his foot," continued the witness.

THE PREMIER

On Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the Premier Theatre will offer two exceptionally outstanding pictures, which combined should make an exceptionally fine bill.
These are "Disraeli," featuring George Arliss and "wrence Tib-bett in the "Rogue Song." Both of these pictures have played here before and are returning by popular demand.

Like the play, the picture concerns that part of Disraeli's career when he struggled to make England a world empire. In spite of the fact that he had many politicians swaying the crowd of opposition to him, Disraeli became Prime Minister and turned his efforts to getting the Suez Canal for England.

"The Rogue Song" is a romance laid in the Caucasus Mountains of Russia. Tibet has the role of a bandit chief who steals from the rich only to give to the poor in the manner of the English Robin Hood.

The Premier Theatre management also have another treat for their patrons next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This will be the picture "Tollable David," which has just finished a successful engagement at the Mayfair in New York City. Richard Cromwell, Noah Berry and Joan Peers, with other favorite players, appear in the cast.

"Tollable David," a simple story of a mountaineer feud between two families, is an all-talking version of Joseph Hergesheimer's celebrated story.

A newcomer scores remarkably in this talkie version of an old silent favorite, Richard Cromwell makes his screen debut in the role played exceedingly well by Richard Bar-thelmess and Noah Berry duplicates the fine performance so cruelly and vividly portrayed by Ernest Torrence in the silent picture. Joan Peers is David's sweetheart, and Henry B. Walthall has the role of her sympathetic father.

The two pictures for tomorrow and Monday at the Premier Theatre will be "The Girl on the Barge."

LORD WILLINGTON WILL SUCCEED LORD IRWIN AS INDIAN VICEROY

don is interested in Canada's national winter game of hockey. Both Lord and Lady Willington have been fairly regular attendants at the National Hockey League games in the capital. Another winter sport in which they are active participants is skiing. While His Excellency did not actually ski, he accompanied Lady Willington on snowshoes when the Government House party went on cross-country hikes. Lady Willington is proficient on skis. They both play golf and very well.

Among the functions which he delights to open is the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto. He also much enjoyed the Woodbine and Connaught Park racing. During his tenure of office Lord Willington renewed the old custom of establishing residence at the Citadel, Quebec. Viscount and Lady Willington paid a visit to Washington during their stay here. They also had a sojourn in the West Indies last winter.

Canada's political life has presented no very vexatious questions for the Governor General to decide during Lord Willington's term. During the greater portion, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King was Prime Minister, backed by a fairly substantial majority. Last summer Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett came into power, also with a majority that made his Government secure. Accordingly there were no constitutional issues of a contentious nature on which the King's representative had to decide. It was while Lord Willington held office that the Imperial Conference defined the governor-general of the various dominions as personal representatives of the King not the representatives of the British Government.

Freeman-Freeman-Thomas—formerly was the Governor-General named before he joined the ranks of the peers—comes of good stock long identified with Sussex, his father being Frederick Freeman-Thomas, of Rotton and Yapton, Willington, and his mother Mabel, daughter of the first Viscount Hampden, a former Speaker of the House of Commons. Lord Willington assumed the additional surname of Freeman in 1892, in which year also he married the Hon. (afterwards Lady) Marie Adelaide, daughter of the first Baron Brassey, afterwards Earl Brassey. He was born September 12, 1866, and was an only son. Two sons have been born to him. The elder, Gerard Frederick, born in 1893, went to the war as a lieutenant in the Coldstream Guards, and was killed in action in 1914. The surviving son, and heir to his father's peerage, is Hon. Inigo Brassey Freeman-Thomas, who was born July 25, 1899, and married, in 1924, Maxine, daughter of the eminent actor, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson.

Lord Willington's inherited political faith was Liberal, and he himself, in his parliamentary days, ad-

RUMORS HEARD OF NEW PLANT AT CARILLON

Shawinigan Company Ready to Proceed With Large Power Development—Increased Demand in Eastern Ontario for Hydro-Energy—Expect Proposals Will Be Made.

OTTAWA, Dec. 20.—Renewed talk of a large power development at Carillon, on the Ottawa River, located about half way between Montreal and Ottawa, has excited much interest here. The Shawinigan Company is prepared to proceed with a project, it is stated, which will produce a minimum of 600,000 horse-power, a development almost identical in magnitude with that of the Beauharnois Company.

Precisely a year ago, immediately following a conference here between the Federal Government and Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec and Premier G. Howard Ferguson, the latter caused some astonishment by stating that he and Premier Taschereau were agreed upon a proposal to develop upwards of 600,000 horse-power at Carillon, the two provinces to divide the power.

For three or four years, at the suggestion of federal authorities, the two provinces have had engineers at work intermittently seeking a basis for development by the two provinces of power on the Ottawa River, both above and below this city. The result thus far has been a big scheme in progress by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission at Chats Falls, fifty miles west of here, and it would appear that the actual work of development below this city is to be undertaken by private enterprises.

There has been a substantial increase in the demand in eastern Ontario for hydro-energy, and it is believed that the Ontario Government is even more anxious to explore all new sources of power so as to conserve its electrical resources elsewhere.

Such advantageous contracts have been already effected between private companies in Quebec province and the Ontario Commission that it is probable the Shawinigan Company is ready to get a share in such advantages, particularly in view of the fact that the Ontario Commission has long ago definitely abandoned any idea of utilizing the energies of the international section of the St. Lawrence River.

While no concrete proposal has yet been submitted to the Taschereau Government by the Shawinigan interests and no representations have recently been made to the federal authorities, it is expected that within the next few weeks, probably before the commencement of the coming session of Parliament, proposals will be made and another conference called here.

NEW LEADER OF RUSSIAN UNION IS APPOINTED

Alexis Ivanovich Rykoff Relieved as Head of Union Council of People's Commissars—Elimination Came at Own Request After Long Conflict.

MOSCOW, Dec. 20.—Alexis Ivanovich Rykoff, whose Communism is tempered with Conservatism, has been relieved by the Union Central Executive Committee of his post as head of the Union Council of People's Commissars, a place which in the complicated Soviet governmental scheme in various ways corresponds to the premier in parliamentary governments.

His successor is one of the lieutenants of Josef Stalin, secretary-general of the Communist Party, Viacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov, himself one of the three secretaries of the party, a member of the important Politbureau and recently named a member of the Praesidium of the Union Central Executive Committee. The only other man ever to have held the post is the late Nicolai Lenin.

Rykoff's elimination came at his own request and follows a long conflict between himself and party circles between himself and others of rightist tendencies and that section of the party which agrees more completely with M. Stalin, who generally outside of Russia is considered the strong man behind the Russian scenes.

LARGE NUMBER OF "SMOKES" SMUGGLED INTO CANADA. WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 20.—Smuggling cigarettes from Detroit to Ontario points has grown to such an extent that the turnover of border cities distributors has been affected by more than $2,000,000 a year. This was stated by J. W. Murphy, president of the Murphy Tobacco Company, of the Windsor, to the directors of the Border Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

POSTAL CLERKS HAVE TROUBLES OF THEIR OWN

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 20.—All post offices have their troubles, chiefly with wrongly addressed letters, papers and parcels, and the postal clerks in the Edmonton office think they have theirs in plenty. Some of these troubles were related to the Edmonton Journal recently by the postmaster, A. R. McKenzie. Edmonton is a suburb of Winnipeg, according to some correspondents' ideas, while others think it is the capital of the North-West Territories, and still other that it is in the United States. Occasionally a letter comes to the post office here with all these ideas combined in one address, such as this: "Mr. B. Blank, Edmonton, Winnipeg, North-West Territories, U.S.A."

One mistake made in Old Country post offices in connection with the London address, by that name for the Alberta Edmonton, Old Country writers neglecting to make it clear the letters are intended for the London address, and these are returned from Canada. This mistake occurs somewhat frequently.

One frequent cause of mix-ups in the postal service here is the abbreviation of Alabama. Letters intended for the American state come to Alberta, the abbreviation of the letter, "Alta.," being easily confused with the former. Postal clerks occasionally have to exercise considerable ingenuity in ascertaining just to whom a letter is addressed. For instance, one letter addressed merely to "Jones, Edmonton," sent from a New England town, was delivered to the right person here. The clue to the address was a picture of an oyster, engraved in the upper left-hand corner of the envelope. After deciding that the picture did really represent an oyster the local post office authorities sent the letter to Mrs. Jones, of the Jones Fish Market.

The so-called practical jokers who send letters addressed in code give the postal clerks extra work, if the post office authorities decide to accept the challenge and try to decode the address, which they do sometimes. If this happens while the Christmas rush is on, however, there is no time wasted in decoding. The letter goes back marked: "Returned for further address."

the witness money, the Crown objected, claiming that it was infringing on the character of the dead man.

That Vincent had laughingly said two weeks before the tragedy that "he would just as soon die as he did not care to live," was the feature of the evidence submitted by Olivier Proulx, Roxton Falls hotelkeeper. Proulx stated that he had driven the accused to Trudeau's the beginning of September, Vincent stating that he would pay Proulx as soon as he had settled with Trudeau. The witness, cross-questioned by the defense, denied that he uttered a statement to the effect that should Vincent be hanged he would help to hang him.

The last witness of the afternoon was detective Lasnier, who told where he had found the blood stained clothes. Lasnier claimed that there were no traces of blood in the kitchen, while the walls, floors and ceiling of Trudeau's bedroom were spattered with blood stains. Vincent had claimed that Trudeau had hurled a nail which contained cream at the accused, but the detective declared that he could not find any traces of milk in the kitchen where the alleged fight in which Trudeau lost his life is supposed to have taken place.

DAISIES WON'T TELL? THIS ONE SAYS SHE'LL TELL PLENTY ABOUT CLARA!

Daisies, according to the old song, don't tell—but here's a Daisy who says she's going to tell plenty just as soon as she gets a chance. She's Daisy Devoe (left), Clara Bow's ex-secretary, who is to go to trial soon to answer charges of theft brought against her by Clara. She has promised to unburden herself of a lot she knows about Clara's love affairs when the case comes to trial. At the right is a picture of Miss Bow.

"HAVANA" IS MOST POPULAR OF NEW TANGO STEPS IN VOGUE THIS WINTER

"The Havana"..... a smart new tango demonstrated by Arthur Murray and an assistant.

No one can dance at a party this winter without knowing the tango. The simplest, yet the most popular tango step of the moment, is "The Havana." It is the step Americans learn in Cuba.

Each partner has a definite responsibility in this dance, as in all the new steps of 1931. Man's part: Begin with the left foot and walk four long steps forward counting 1, 2, 3, 4. 1—And—2 (See diagram). Walk forward one long, slow step with the right foot. Count 3. Repeat the Two-and-One four times in succession, omitting the four walking steps after the first time. Woman's part: The woman's part is just the opposite of the man's. Begin with the right foot and take four long, slow walking steps, then: With the right foot, take a two-step to the lower right hand corner of the room. Then walk backward one long step with the left foot. Repeat the entire step four times in succession.

An excellent piece of music to be played in practicing this step is "Balcony in Spain".

FEAR VOLCANO CLAIMED LIFE OF SCIENTIST

Professor Werner Borchardt, Connected With Hamburg Tropical Institute, Believed to Have Lost Life in Eruption of Merapi Volcano, in Sumatra—Javan Volcano Continues to Wreak Havoc.

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 20.—Professor Werner Borchardt, a scientist connected with the Hamburg Tropical Institute, was believed here today to have lost his life in a small eruption of the volcano Merapi, in Sumatra.

Ten days ago Borchardt and two native assistants started for the Sumatran volcano where he intended to lower himself into the crater and make observations of the molten lava.

One of his natives fled early in the expedition, fearing an eruption of the volcano. The other remained with him until an eruption did occur, when they both ran to a small valley where, the native said upon returning here, he saw Borchardt disappear over a cliff while he himself hurried on. The native himself was injured in his escape. Troops sent to search for the missing scientist returned without finding any trace of him. Borchardt was about thirty years old and had been loaned by the Hamburg Institute to the Medan, Sumatra, to work on the influence of temperature on the blood and kindred subjects.

Ninety natives are believed to have been killed in an eruption of the Javan volcano, Merapi, which continues in an active stage after eight years quiet. The volcano presents a terrifying scene with huge columns of smoke issuing from the crater, and occasional darts of flame from crevices on its sides. Villages and forests in the neighborhood are burning, while severe thunderstorms are continuing over a wide area.

A rain of mud has fallen on the villages, some of which are covered with a coating of gray ash. There is a pall of darkness over everything. Villagers are fleeing in panic, stricken from the area. The small mountain streams have been changed into raging torrents, hurling along masses of rock and mud. Communications have been interrupted and many places are isolated.

NO VIOLENCE, PLEASE
She—"She gave us something on our wedding anniversary—that plush tea-cosy—and we ought to reciprocate."
He—"Reciprocate? You mean retaliate."

JUST A SNOOTFUL

"I say, Daddy," excitedly exclaimed his little daughter, reading from a newspaper: "Just fancy! Here's a baby which was fed on elephant's milk and gained thirty pounds in a week!"

"Rubbish," said Daddy.

"But it's really true!"

"Whose baby was it, then?"

"The elephant's," was the meek reply.
