Death of N. McCrimmon Takes One Who Saw Gold Rush Days

Was Postmaster in Huntingdon For 37 Years—Reached Age of 92

The late Norman McCrimmon

On Friday morning, March 21st, death claimed one of Huntingdon's oldest residents, Norman McCrimmon. Born in Lancaster, County of Glengarry, September 18th, 1860, one of a family of nine children of John McCrimmon. He was of Highland Scottish stock, his grandparents having come to Glengarry from Invernesshire, Scotland.

After being educated in the Lancaster schools he left home in his early youth for the United States, where he spent five years at different places such as Chicago, Illinois and Minneapolis, Minnesota. After that he returned to Canada when he decided on a clerical career and attended Belleville Commercial College where he completed a business course. Shortly after that, in his early twenties, he came to Huntingdon as Secretary for the Allen Grove Corporation. He was thus a citizen of Huntingdon for the greater part of his life. He interrupted this employment for about two years around the turn of the century to go to the Klondike at the time of the gold rush there. He endured great hardships getting there, as travelling was by dog team, and often one's room at night was a sleeping bag in the snow and a camp fire for warmth. He knew several people whose names have become legendary in connection with reminisce regarding stories connected with others there at that time such as Jack London, Robert W. Service, whose poetry is now famous, and the notorious Soapy Smith who had just been brought to justice for his acts of terrorism in Nome or Skagway, Alaska. The Huntingdon party passed through Skagway on their way in to the Klondike. One of the Huntingdon party contracted typhoid fever on the trail and Norman stayed behind to nurse him back to health, cooking and living without medical aid in a small folding tent. He returned from the Klondike in the Spring of 1901, richer in experience only and assumed his work with the Allen Grove Corporation until that company went bankrupt.

Following that, he acted for a few years as a representative of the Sun Life Assurance Company. In December of 1909 he was appointed Postmaster at Huntingdon and remained in that position for thirty-seven years until 1946, when he retired.

The late Mr. McCrimmon had long been a member of the Chateauguay Masonic Lodge in Huntingdon, joining in 1886. In 1897 he was Worshipful Master of the Lodge, while in 1936 he was presented with the Masonic Jewel.

Until the time of his retirement he was as physically strong and mentally alert as ever. Since the time of his retirement due to illness, he had been a semi-invalid and had lost his eyesight for reading and his hearing had become progressively worse. However, his mentality remained undimmed until the last and he was often consulted by people wishing to acquire information and names connected with older residents and events of past years. His memory was so keen that he could remember the names of whole families and their activities over many years. He was as well as usual the day before his death and completed his daily walk to the postoffice for the mail and also to the bank. He was granted the gift, which we all wish for but few attain, of a long life and then leaving this world without prolonged illness.

He is survived by his wife, the former Lucy A. McGregor, and two sons, Dr. F. Gordon McCrimmon, Huntingdon, and Dr. Donald R. McCrimmon of Westmount, and three grandchildren — Ross, Ronald and Rosyln. His sister, Miss Ellen McCrimmon of Lancaster, Ontario, is the only surviving member of his generation of the McCrimmon family.

Interment took place at Huntingdon Protestant Cemetery. The service was conducted by Rev. R. D. MacLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The pallbearers were Messrs. James O'Hare, Harold McConville, Alex Robb, Ian Telfer, Robert Rolfe and Gilbert McMillan of Huntingdon. Messrs. C. J. Kyle, Cecil Stark, Cameron Stewart, Martin Beattie, Allan Dawson, Armand Caza and Master Ross McCrimmon acted as flowerbearers.

Relatives and friends from out-of-town attending the funeral were: Mrs. Donald R. McCrimmon and Master Ross McCrimmon, Westmount, Major J. Austin Swail and son Robert of Hampstead, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snowdon, Westmount, Mr. and Mrs. David O. Riddell, Westmount, Mr. James McGregor Fulton, Lakeside, Quebec, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bishop, Westmount, Mr. David R. Logan, Westmount, and Mr. Pat O'Connor of Montreal.

Man Killed by Falling Tree

On Thursday, March 20th, at approximately 4 p.m., Mr. Joseph Beaudry, 46, died from injuries received when he was pinned to the ground by a tree. He and another man were working in the bush near St. Anicet, cutting trees, when one tree became lodged. Mr. Beaudry was driving a team of horses hitched to the tree when it rolled over on him, crushing his leg and thigh. He was immediately taken to his home. Dr. Geo. Lefebvre was called from Huntingdon and arrived a short time before Mr. Beaudry died. He leaves his wife, the former Jeanne Dubois, and 5 children.

Develop Sense Citizenship

Get Certificate First, Lt.-Col. G. Savage Tells Huntingdon Rotarians

Appealing to Canadians to develop a sense of solidarity such as inspired Elizabethan England, Lt.-Col. George F. Savage, told the Rotary Club at Huntingdon, on Monday, that the first step to the achievement of that ideal was to obtain a citizenship certificate.

"We can strengthen our own unity by joining together in obtaining these certificates and, at the same time, demonstrate to our own youngsters, and to the new Canadians, that we place a high value on this citizenship," he said.

Example Needed

Colonel Savage, vice-principal of West Hill High School, Montreal, is also inter-provincial chairman of the Canadian Legion's citizenship committee. "It has been said that our children and these new Canadians don't appreciate being Canadians," he declared. "How can they when we don't show them an example? We say they have no sense of patriotism or responsibility — where can they see any examples of these qualities?"

"Twice in the lifetime of many of us our people have gone to war in a big way to show their belief in Canada and the Canadian way of life. Surely we can see the vision of a still greater Canada, great not only materially, but great also in the things that really matter—honesty, decency, honor, respect for our own rights and for the rights of others. And we as individuals make up the nation."

Serious Citizenship

He asked that men and women first show their pride in Canada by taking out citizenship certificates. Next, they should decide to take their citizenship seriously. They should vote at every opportunity; take an active and constructive part in all political activities; insist on the protection of their own liberties and those of their neighbours.

"Let us also work together to remove the social and economic abuses that still exist; let us do unto others as we would they should do unto us, and let us each individually do our share. Then no one will have to say, Let's be Canadians. We'll be Canadians — and proud of it."

GOLDEN INVASION

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., (CP)—This district recently was treated to an invasion of evening grosbeaks, gold-colored birds about the size of robins, usually seen only in Manitoba. They appeared here in much larger numbers than usual.

Huntingdon Town and District to Get Several New Federal Buildings

Herdman, Covey Hill and Lacolle Listed For Customs Buildings This Year

In an announcement the past week estimates were given for many Federal buildings in Quebec. Among these were some which will either be built, completed, or added to, in the area covered by The Gleaner.

The Gleaner is informed that a new one storey building will be erected this year on the lot next to the Post Office, on Bouchette St., Huningdon. This building will be used for the customs offices and a warehouse for railway freight and express and mail which requires the attention of the customs officials. An amount of $25,000 was given for this building under the Public Works Dept., but we understand this is only a starting amount and that more will be required when plans and specifications for the building have been completed.

It is expected that a new customs house will be built at Herdman this year and possibly a new one at Covey Hill also. At Lacolle a revote for $50,000 has been made to finish the large warehouse almost completed on Route 9 at Blackpool customs. It has also been decided to build a warehouse on Route 9A, Lacolle, which will be completed early this summer.

A revote for $100,000 has been made for a new building in Lacolle to accommodate four or five departments of the government, namely: Post Office, Customs, Immigration, R.C.M.P. and Agriculture, and possibly one more department which has not yet been decided. It is expected that the building will be started early this summer and plans and specifications are being readied.

The ports at Lacolle are progressing at a rapid pace and the expectation is that the port at Blackpool will be one of the largest in Canada within a few years. In the last year approximately thirteen million dollars came from the ports at Lacolle and this year is expected to show an increase over that.

New Industry Opens Up At Chateauguay This Week

Carleton Candy Corporation to Make Various Kinds of Confections

A new industry is being launched this week on the Rosenfeld Farm, Salaberry Boulevard South, a mile from the village, where the Carleton Candy Corporation ,a newly formed company having bought the business of Carleton Candy Ltd., Ottawa, is establishing a candy factory.

The Ottawa business had been in operation for a number of years and built up a very good reputation for lollipops under the trade name of "Crystal Pops" and supplied the best chain groceries, i.e.: Thrift Stores, Steinbergs, A. and P. Stores as well as the T. Eaton Co. and Simpson's.

Production is expected to start this week with lollipops first, then hard candies and finally chocolate lines will be produced.

The factory floor area covers over 4300 square feet and this consists of the hard candy cooking room, the enrober room (for coating chocolates), the starch room in which the centres for chocolates will be made, the wrapping department, where lollipops are wrapped in cellophane by machine. An important feature of the lollipops is the use of "White Safety Stick" instead of the old type wooden sticks — the former will break immediately should the child fall; the risk of harm is thus reduced to a minimum.

There are also a packing room, the shipping room and store room.

Hard and soft water, steam, electricity (110, 220 and 550 volts) will be used and Propane gas for cooking, one million cubic feet of gas per year.

The factory foreman is Mr. Richard Milne, who has many years of candy making to his credit. Mr. Milne is a Scot and Scotland is one country which produces some of the best candy and candy makers in the world and with his help the company hopes to produce the finest quality confectionery and under sanitary conditions to please any lover of candy.

While there is only a small staff to start with, it is expected that when in full operation thirty people will be employed in the plant.

The officers of the company are: President, H. P. Gurd; vice-president and managing director, Noel J. Walsh; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Cecil K. Carpenter; directors: H. P. Gurd, Montreal; Noel J. Walsh, Chateauguay; Cecil K. Carpenter, Chateauguay; Air Vice-Marshal G. V. Walsh, C.B.E., Ottawa, and Howden Horner, Montreal.

Best wishes for success in this undertaking are extended to the officers and directors.

THE ROBIN
Harbinger of Spring

The month of March has progressed to a point beyond the first day of spring and the signs of spring are in the air. The sap is running and syrup making in progress, the "caw-caw" of the crow has been heard and reported. The days are gradually getting longer and Daylight Saving Time will soon go into effect.

The report we have been waiting for, came to our office on Tuesday morning, when Mrs. Johnston of St. Anicet called us on the telephone and said she had noticed a robin in her garden Monday evening. We have no means of knowing if this was the first one seen, but it was the first report we had received. Thus we truly believe that Spring is really here at last.

Jury Hears Lemay Death Was Violent

Mrs. Huguette Daoust-Lemay

New evidence was presented on Thursday to a Monroe County Grand Jury investigating the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Huguette Lemay, 21-year-old Montreal beauty.

Deputy Sheriff James O. Barker spent two hours and 15 minutes in the Grand Jury room at the court house.

When he came out he said he had given some "new evidence" but "I can't reveal what we've discovered at this stage."

He added:

"You can quote me as saying what I've said several times before: That it is my opinion Mrs. Lemay is dead and that she was the victim of an act of violence."

Mrs. Lemay vanished while fishing with her husband, George, at Tom's Harbor Bridge in the Florida Keys Jan. 4. Barker led the investigation that followed.

The missing girl's uncle, Dr. Dolphe Perron of Valleyfield, Que., and Alfred Quenneville, retired chief of the Quebec Provincial Police, held an informal conference with Barker, Chief Deputy Sheriff Frank Webber and the Grand Jury but no testimony was taken during the conference.

The Grand Jury considered such evidence as a bloodstained robe that was found buried under a Tamiami Trail bridge and a missing shovel.

It was reported that a letter from one relative of the missing girl to another, which told of a near-fatal incident only a few weeks before the disappearance, may also have been given the Grand Jury.

Barker pointed out that a body or a confession is necessary to get a possible murder indictment and "we have neither."

There was some indication that the missing girl's husband may be asked to return here from Canada in the light of new information but it was emphasized that he would have to return voluntarily.

Dr. Perron expressed satisfaction with the way the jury conducted its investigation and indicated he was hopeful for an early solution of the case.

Howick High School Wins Hockey Trophy From Gault

Gault Has Held This Trophy For Twelve Successive Years

The Hockey Season came to a close on Thursday, March 20th, for the league which was sponsored during the winter season by the Chateauguay Valley Teachers' Association. The championship game was originally planned to take place on natural ice at Ormstown Arena, but due to weather conditions was transferred to the Valleyfield Arena. The following is an account of the game which saw the Howick High School team emerge the winners.

Howick High School Wins C.V.H.L. Trophy

On Thursday afternoon, March 20th, the Valleyfield Arena was the scene of a play-off game between Howick High School and the Gault Institute. This was the big game of the year, and excitement ran high in both schools. The Gault boys were determined that they would retain the trophy that they had held for twelve successive years, and the Howick boys were equally determined that the trophy would rest in their display case for the next twelve months.

The Howick team got off to a good start in the first period when they managed to score two goals within the first five minutes of play. Although Gault could not score in this period, they did prevent further scoring on the part of Howick. The score at the end of the first period stood at 2-0 for Howick.

The Gault boys seemed to liven up in the second period, determined at least to even up the score. Most of the play this period was around the Howick nets. Their goaler seemed to be at his best in this period, and made many excellent saves. However, Gault broke through and scored, leaving the score at the end of the second period, 2-1 for Howick.

The third period was brimmed with action, with Howick scoring two goals in quick succession. Gault was striving for the lead, but after a goal was gained by them, Howick again added another goal to their lead. In the last five minutes of play, Gault scored their final goal of the game — and with the sound of the siren marking the end of the game, the score stood at 5-3 for Howick.

Howick High School has reason to be proud of its team. They have played with mounting skill—and always a good clean game. They have won the Chateauguay Valley Hockey Trophy; and to Howick High School, in their hour of victory, the team and students of the Gault Institute offer their heartiest congratulations.

Four High Schools participated in the league — Huntingdon, Ormstown, Howick and Valleyfield, and played a series of home-and- home games during the winter months. At the conclusion of the series two schools were undefeated and with an equal number of points. The two games these schools played against each other were ties. A game to decide the ownership of the trophy emblematic of the Valley championship was therefore played as above.

Mr. L. Upton, the coach for the Howick team, deserves much praise for the work he has put in coaching the boys on the team. The result obtained will therefore be one of great satisfaction to him and to the boys.

She has a fair chance for recovery.

PROMOTION WEEK

According to word received, the officials of Promotion in Huntingdon had intended to publish a list of the names of the first week's winners but due to certain delays this has been found impossible. However, it is intended to publish a double list in the next issue of The Gleaner and in subsequent issues until the final drawing is made.

Town to Effect Economics In Order to Balance Budget

In View of Prospective Conditions Some Workman to Be Laid Off

An adjourned meeting of the Huntingdon Town Council was held at the County Building, on Monday evening, with all members present except Alderman Saumier.

A number of bills were passed for payment and the following milk reports of samples taken on March 3rd were read: Elmhurst, 340,000cc and 7.2 butterfat; Salaberry Dairy, 99,000cc and 3.4 butterfat; Belle Vallee, 140,000cc and 3.5 butterfat; Monique, 14,000cc and 3.3 butterfat; Pringle Bros., 170,000cc and 4.2 butterfat; R. Goodfellow, 31,000cc and 3.6 butterfat.

A resolution was passed for the purpose of setting dates of the duration of Daylight Saving Time. This will come into effect at one minute past midnight on April 26th and continue until one minute past midnight on September 27th.

Mr. Daoust appeared before the council to be allowed to come to town as a farmer and sell meats which are products of his own animals. Considerable discussion took place on this request as it was felt that selling the meats in the manner suggested, required a license. On looking up the by-law it was discovered that a farmer can sell his own products in town without a license providing he lives within a twelve mile radius. Thus Mr. Daoust will be allowed to sell his meats until an amendment to the by-law is made.

Alderman McGerrigle made a report on the Town Dump to the effect that he was satisfied the dump was being kept clear and tidy as far as possible to do so. It was therefore decided to leave the present men in charge.

In connection with this matter, Alderman Fournier pointed out that tires on the town trucks were being badly cut and often rendered useless, due to the glass and other sharp objects on the road into the dump. It was suggested that when the trucks have to go back to the dump on garbage collection days, that planks should be put down on the road for the trucks to travel on. Mr. Moody was instructed to see that this is done in future. It was felt that a saving in tires would result.

The Mayor informed the council that Chief L'Heureux is attending a course in Civil Defence at Ottawa this week in response to a request from the Dept. of Youth and Welfare.

According to a decision reached at this meeting, two-way traffic will be resumed on Chateauguay Street starting April 1st. The police will be instructed to take the necessary measures to enforce proper parking and other regulations required.

The financial statement was read and passed and showed a deficit of a little over $2,000 for the 1951 operations.

The reading of the statement brought on a discussion on effecting economies to bring about a decrease in the deficit. The various departments were gone over to see where economies could be effected and where it was thought that the wage bill might be too high. After reviewing the Police and Fire Dept. it was decided that some of the men on the Public Works could be laid off. It was felt that the prospects for building did not loom large for this summer and that work in the town would be slack, so there was no need to keep so many men on the payroll. If conditions were such that more men would be needed, it was decided to hire them as required. If economies cannot be effected, it is possible that there may be a further increase in the tax rate.

Weather This Year May Affect Sap Run

A sure sign of Spring, the farmers have tapped and found this year's run of sap only fair. Most farmers and commercial tappers found that sap was running fairly well on Monday and Tuesday of this week. Much depends on the weather. Cold nights and warm days are desired for a good season. These weather conditions prevailed on very few days as yet and this makes for the slow run.

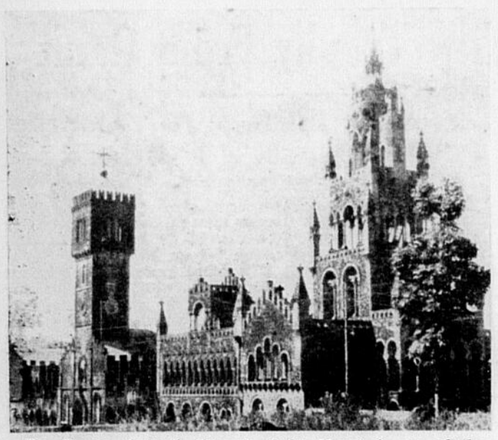

Many of the local farmers and no doubt commercial tappers are not going to make syrup this year. Their main reason is the labour situation. The 75c to $1 an hour wage for hired labour they feel is too much to pay and still derive profit from their work.

Champions of School Hockey League

As a result of that, his second trip to the South Sea Islands, Captain Bligh brought 300 saplings of Breadfruit to St. Vincent which were raised to maturity and from there distributed to other Islands.—Canada-West Indies Magazine.

Writing A Report

Most of us find ourselves at some time up against the job of writing a report. It may be a business report or the resport of a meeting; it may be our report as secretary of an organization, or an analysis of a situation in a factory.

Writing a report need not be the ordeal so many of us fear it to be, and sometimes find it. Like so many other things, it is not particularly difficult if we break it down into small jobs. The purpose of this article is to show, step-by-step, how to write a report. All the suggestions will not be appropriate to very report, but the principles will be generally useful.

We should try to make reports constructive. Instead of threshing old straw, or moving in a pedestrian way through an account of some convention or meeting, it is much more interesting to offer vigorous and thought-provoking interpretations and ideas of our own.

To prepare a good report we need to cultivate dependability, resourcefulness and patience, and do some hard work. Dr. Ewen Cameron says in What Is Life? that Mme. Curie combined the intellect of a first-rate scientist with the skill of a first-rate craftsman and the patience of a first-rate charwoman. That is the recipe for holding the interest of listeners and readers; it is the only way in which we can discover or rediscover great truths.

There are, broadly, two kinds of business reports: the information report and the research report.

The information report is to keep an executive up to date with events, developments and projects. The research report is the outcome of your investigation of phenomena. This may be in any branch of human activity, from politics to labour relations, from some crank's idea about taking electricity out of the air to a plan for extending customer use of the power already developed.

Any report upon which action may be based, or which may influence executives in this or that direction, is an important piece of work, and deserves our earnest attention. There is no more engrossing job than that of exploring in search of material for such a report.

Before Beginning

Your work starts long before you make a motion toward your pen. You must be properly briefed, and that is a joint responsibility of you and your boss. You must know exactly what is wanted and why it is wanted. Requests for reports should refer to definite and limited problems.

This simple working chart will be of help: 1) comprehend what you are required to report on; 2) ascertain all possible sources of information; 3) decide upon what sources to draw; 4) gather information and explanations; 5) sift the evidence; 6) synthesize the acceptable evidence; 7) abstract what is to the point and discard the rest; 8) throw what is left into report form; 9) summarize your findings.

There are at least four limitations upon research for a report; time, staff, money and data. It is important that the report writer should do his best within these limitations, and his report should note any shortcoming because of them. If the report is taken from the files years hence, it should provide evidence of the difficulties research man encountered, so as to give a realistic starting point for following up or modernizing the report.

Economy of effort will be possible to the report writer if he keeps a clearly defined purpose in mind, and refuses to allow himself to be drawn away by other things, however attractive they may be.

Aesop Glim, known to advertising men through his articles in Printers' Ink, advises that, the problem being stated, the person preparing a report should sit down with time to make notes of all he knows about the subject. "Don't try to skimp and save words," he advises. "Go into detail. Enjoy yourself to your heart's content in writing sentence after sentence. Tell everything you know — explain the problem fully."

The Objective

In planning the report, serious thought should be given to the need and temperament of the person for whom it is being prepared. Some persons want great detail, others will be content with deductions; some will want tables and graphs, while others will run a mile from a statistic. "What," the report writer should ask himself, "is to be done with what data by whom?"

The kind of report we are considering now — one that gives information on the basis of which an executive may take action — is a sort of diagnosis. It tells what is right and what is wrong, and gives an interpretation which serves as the executive's guide to the remedy, should one be needed.

There are two occasions when recommendations by the report writer are in order: when they are requested, and when the writer believes that because of his knowledge, experience, and other qualities, his voice is worth listening to.

All recommendations are touched with the personality of the writer of the report. The wise man will make a distinction between his conclusions, based upon the facts he has uncovered, and his suggestions, based upon these conclusions. The

BURNSIDE TO LINDWOOD:

R. R. Ness & Sons, Burnside Farms, Howick, Que., report the sale of the imported young bull, Carnell Novelty to Col. S. C. Oland. Lindwood Farm, Bedford, N.S.

Carnell Novelty was selected in Scotland by Douglas A. Ness, in the spring of 1951, when he purchased a considerable number of other bulls and heifers. It will be recalled that several animals of that shipment went through the 1951 Burnside Sale, that several were sold privately to Canadian and United States breeders, while the balance were added to the Burnside Breeding herd.

Anyway, during his time at Burnside, Carnell Novelty has been used quite extensively in that herd. One of his matings being with Carnell Tulip 12th (imp.), well-known winner and dam of the noted young sire, Burnside Aristocrat. It will be recalled that "Aristocrat" was sold last year, after quite heavy service at Burnside, at one of the top prices of recent years to H. J. Nock, Snowhill, Maryland.

BUYER AT BURNSIDE SALE

It will be recalled that Col. S. C. Oland had been a considerable purchaser for several years past at Burnside Sales. In fact, this writer had the honour to handle Col. Oland's bids for four of the top imported animals at a Burnside Sale of some three years ago. A rather difficult chore, when such bids are sent by mail, and, as saying goes, the animals "sight unseen" by the sender of the bids. However, the three I got for Col. Oland were well worth the money paid for them—the average price paid being below the average of the amounts I was permitted to bid-up-to. And so I had no qualms of conscience with respect to my actions in that respect. All three became worthy foundation material at Lindwood Farm.

Since then Col. Oland has purchased a number of top animals at Burnside Sales and also privately from Burnside and others. At the Royal Sale of "Ayrshire Stars", last year, he purchased Glengarry Lou which had won her class at the Royal on the day of the sale and then went on, next day, to win the Ayrshire female grand championship.

CONSTRUCTIVE BREEDER

Two Quebec Jersey herds figure in a recent release by James Bermner, Secretary-Manager of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club.

A constructive Breeder Award has been won for the fourth time by the Pinetree Jersey herd of W. H. Miner, Granby, Que., this being an honour which should please W. T. McEwen of Ormstown, Que. Several herd sires bred at Pinetree, having been successively used in the McEwen herd and so a considerable number of the animals in that herd are pretty well of the same bloodlines as those of Pinetree.

The Jersey Constructive Breeder Awards were initiated in 1946 and each award covers a period of two years. It therefore is that in each of the periods it has been eligible to compete for same, the Pinetree herd has earned that honour.

The Pinetree herd was started some 25 years ago, on a group of heifers imported by Brampton Jerseys from Jersey Island. Very few cattle have been purchased since then and so today nearly 90% of the females are home bred.

ANOTHER QUEBEC WINNER

The Pine Gable Farms of Cowansville, Que., also won one of the 1952 Constructive Breeder Awards of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club. That herd, owned by John Pangman, has 28 cows which have the high average classifications of 85% while the 24 tested cows in the herd have an average production record of 7,378 lbs. milk, 453 lbs. fat, average test 6.14% on 2 milkings a day in 305 days. Of the total milking herd 67.50% are home bred.

JUNIOR SHOWMEN

In some respects, the Showmanships of Kemptville Agricultural School Student's Royal Show paralleled those of Macdonald College Student's Royal Show. At Kemptville, as at Macdonald, the grand champion showman was a boy, while the reserve grand champion showman was a girl. However, at Kemptville the grand champion showman's entry in the show was a Holstein, while the reserve grand champion showman's entry was a Hereford.

The grand champion showman was Duncan McArthur of Lancaster, Ont., who has long been identified with Calf Club work in Glengarry County.

THE RESERVE WINNER

The reserve grand champion showman (woman) was Miss Joycelyn Easton, of Gormley, Ont., also a former Calf Club member of York County, Ontario. In that respect also a considerable winner, including at the C.N.E. and, I believe, in the King's Guineas' Competition at the Royal Winter Fair. Her father Joseph ("Joe") Easton is Herd Manager of the famous Klaymor Shorthorn Herd of W. J. Russell of Unionville, Ont. However, despite her present Shorthorn connection, Joycelyn Easton must have been quite at home, so to speak, in her handling of a Hereford. She is a product of the former O'Brien Farms of Renfrew, Ont., in its day one of the most famous Canadian Hereford establishments and of which father "Joe" was herdsman for many years. Her father was subsequently manager for several years of the then famous Horne Hereford Farms of Windsor, N.S., before going to Klaymor Farms.

Another partial parallel is that while the family of "Bernie" Ness, reserve Grand Champion at the Macdonald Royal, originated in the County of Ayr, Scotland, "Joe" Easton came from a neighbouring county. In fact, from nearby the famous Gretna Green.

Anyway, as the saying goes, they are "Twa' bonnie lassies," whom it has been my privilege to meet.

RIGID TESTS

However, to get the record straight, so as to speak, as regards these College Royal Show Competitions. A critic has said that in our writings we did not make it clear as to the tests these showmen had to go through. In our report of the Macdonald Royal we did mention that in their progressive steps the various sectional champions had not only to show their own entries but also, in turn, those of their competitors. But so that this may now be clarified we may say that in each breed showmanship contest the first and second prize winners in each class had to also show their contestants animals — Ayrshire, Holstein, Beef, Sheep or Swine, as the case might be. In the dairy cattle championships contest the champions and reserve champions of the Ayrshire and Holstein divisions had to show both the Ayrshires and Holsteins. While, when it came to the grand the champions and reserves contending therein had to alternately show their competitors' Ayrshires, Holsteins, Beef cattle, Sheep and Swine.

ORMSTOWN EXHIBITION

The Ormstown Prize List for 1952 is now in circulation. This will be the 39th event of that great exhibition which has been staged by the Livestock Breeders' Association of the District of Beauharnois, Inc.

This year's event will be staged on June 4-5-6 and 7. As usual, liberal prize monies are being offered in every class and division. It is therefore hoped that this year especially, a special effort will be made by local cattle breeders to stage one of the largest and best cattle exhibits on record. It is suggested that this year cattle breeders of this district should make a special effort to take advantage of that great "Show-window" for their products. It is true that there are presently no export outlets for the dairy cattle of this district; that the domestic trading has also slowed down. But, nevertheless, now is the time for local breeders to advertise the fact that, when the market opens up again, they will be ready to furnish all the cattle that may be required. This they can do through exhibiting at Ormstown.

Entries close May 14. The Ayrshires and Jerseys will be judged on Thursday, June 5; the Holsteins, Canadians and Shorthorns on Friday, June 6.

If you have not obtained a copy of the prize list, you can obtain one by writing to Carlyle Dickson, Secretary-Manager, Ormstown Exhibition, Ormstown, Que.

Help The Easter Seal Campaign

BEHIND the simple little Easter Seal which Service Clubs in many parts of the country are sponsoring lies a story of great effort. Thousands of men are uniting in an effort to bring help to children who are physically handicapped, through the sale of Easter Seals.

It is a story of an idea that has become a crusade of mercy. The idea was the helping of children who, either from birth or by accident or illness, were handicapped physically. Twisted bodies, crippled limbs, congenital defects, all these were typical of obstacles to blameless little citizens most of whom could never afford treatment or training to improve their conditions or lot in life.

From a small beginning 30 years ago, when one nurse and a half-dozen service clubs embarked on their mission of mercy, this idea has become a vast program which annually sees thousands of children given treatment, sees the nurses, with special training in orthopaedics, going into hundreds of homes to maintain treatment programs, and sees scores of children taken to major hospitals.

In the Province of Quebec funds raised by the sale of the seals augment the work of the Province of Quebec Society for Crippled Children, the School for Crippled Children and other such organizations. This year over half a million sheets of seals will be distributed in this Province, through the agency of service clubs in many districts. The design of the seal is changed every year. This year it shows a little crippled girl looking longingly at another little girl who is skipping. "She has a broken leg, let's make sure she doesn't have a broken heart as well."

This is the story of the Easter Seal, a story of a thousand mercies, of a noble cause. Let us all contribute our share to this highly deserving campaign. The Huntingdon Rotary Club is in charge of the drive in Chateauguay, Huntingdon and Napierville and letters containing the seals are being mailed out on Wednesday (today) to residents of this district. Those who may desire to send contributions can send them to the Rotary Club at Huntingdon and they will be gratefully acknowledged.

Dollar's Comeback

RIB-TICKLING is the word for those signs going up these days reading: "American money accepted at par."

After years of watching Americans turn up their noses at good Bank of Canada currency and listening to them call our shining coins funny money, we can be forgiven a chuckle or two at their expense.

Time was when we had to pay 10 cents or more on every dollar we changed into U.S. currency. Using Canadian bills over the border was difficult, particularly at a distance from Canada. Many a Canadian had to taxi to a bank before the driver would accept his fare.

Worse still was the fact that Americans here could get a premium for every dollar they brought. Back in the days when it was 20 per cent they could offer a $20 bill for a $4 purchase and get back $20 in Canadian bills as well as the article they bought.

With our dollar now often at par and sometimes at a premium, those days are gone — forever we hope. The Canadian dollar is standing in its own feet, the only currency in the world that can do that in the company of the American dollar.

It's going to be difficult this tourist season but Canadians should restrain themselves in dealing with visitors who haven't heard about the change.

Don't call their bills funny money. Don't ask them why they didn't bring along some "real Canadian dough." Don't bite their nickels and ask them who that fellow Jefferson is.

When there's a premium it will be slight and there's no use irking our visitors by working out what 19-32nds of a cent amounts to on a five-dollar bill. Charge it up to goodwill.

The signs should give them the idea. Without our saying it right out they'll hint that Canada is doing pretty well financially. However, if the point comes up it's all right to mention that we're self-supporting and haven't taken a nickel of foreign aid during the war or after it. That will be news to many of them.

Your Blood Is Valuable

THE Huntingdon Branch of the Red Cross is to sponsor a Blood Donor Clinic at the Legion Hall, in Huntingdon, on April 24th. To this end plans are being formulated to canvass the whole Huntingdon County for those persons who will be willing to give their blood at this clinic.

Giving your blood costs you nothing, neither are you weakened in any way, as the blood you give is quickly made up by the body and thus replaced. Yet the blood that you donate may be the means of saving a life, or restoring to health, another person who is badly in need of it. How often have you heard people say: "Oh, if there was only something I could have done, I would have done it willingly." This is the chance you have been waiting for. Every day there is someone in need of blood for a transfusion that will help them to recover from a bad hemorrhage, or from shock, of other causes resulting in great loss of blood.

The poorest person can give blood where they perhaps cannot give a cash donation. You need have no fear that you will be expected to give your blood if circumstances do not permit it. Tests are made before the blood is taken. It need not hold you away from your job for time can be arranged to suit you.

We need more than ever to build up the blood banks as the calls for transfusions are coming more and more daily. Our fighting men in Korea need blood all the time and there is a steady drain on the available supplies. Thus these calls must be answered for blood to replace the drain. Think it over and make up your mind that you will become a blood donor at the clinic to be held next month. The clinic will be properly supervised by trained people and doctors and you will suffer no pain or after effects. We need to look ahead and have plenty of blood and plasma on hand so that if emergencies arise they can be attended to with dispatch.

The Red Cross is looking to you to make this donation — you and you only can give your own blood. It is your personal contribution to the cause of humanity. Remember your blood is not for sale, it is given to anyone needing it free of charge and the Hospitals here are able to get supplies whenever they need them. One can never tell when he or she may be in need of such assistance, thus it behoves us to give when we can.

All Work - No Pay

MOST of us enjoy a good beef about taxes and goodness knows there are enough of them to provide plenty of scope. If all the taxes, federal, provincial and municipal, were laid end to end . . . well, you figure it out.

In discussing taxes we refer to them as nuisances, as contributing to the staggering cost of living today, as plain robbery or even in terms scarcely printable.

Frankly, we feel it's just about time that Ottawa started contributing to the payroll of our staff, particularly the office end of it.

As a matter of fact, the amount of work done for the government, and the time involved, makes us feel that we're already on the government's payroll; it's simply someone has merely forgotten to send us the weekly cheque.

Many, many hours are spent on behalf of the government each month, and not only do we not get paid for it, it invariably comes out that we have to pay them more.

There's the matter of sales tax, for example. Nearly every bit of printing done requires sales tax. We figure it out, record it, take the dirty looks as a result of someone being asked to pay it, and use up our cheques and our stamps, and letterheads, to send the money in to Ottawa. And to crown it all, we have to pay for a license to act as Ottawa's collecting agency.

Then there's the matter of unemployment insurance, and the hours of figuring and stamp-licking and what-not that goes into that. No thanks, mind you, or a slight cut for our efforts. Merely a blast if the thing isn't done correctly. And, of course, there's income tax, and innumerable reports required now and then.

It is not only our staff that has to do this work. There are hundreds of others in businesses of various kinds who are called upon to serve in this way.

Our staff is probably doing all this because the paid civil servants are now working on a 35-hour week, or is it 30? We'd like that, too— before we qualify for that new pension that begins for everyone at 70—if we make it.

Dundee — I understand that the Indians have concluded to have the government purchase some of the lots offered by the owners, viz.: Antoine Deruchia, Robert Grant, Denis E. Denneen, (Parker Place) John P. Badger, Widow Alex Taillon and Joseph Leclerc. This will make a pretty mess of the Chenail, as I understand, with the exception of the payment of the commutation tax, after the land has gone into the keeping of the crown, we poor whites will have no more jurisdiction, municipally or otherwise. It would not have been so bad if they had taken the land en bloc, but they have sandwiched a few white residents.

Howick — David Mair reports that he had already bought 2000 bushels of new oats. Price paid: 40 cents. The harvest is getting well on and the grain is the best filled we have had for a number of years. The showers have been a great benefit to pastures, which were failing. The milk supply at factories is good. Apples will be a small crop.

Huntingdon — The improvements on St. John's Church are progressing satisfactorily and the interior promises to present a very chaste appearance. This year is the jubilee of the congregation as organized under the Rev. D. B. Panter, and to note the event the Bishop will conduct the services in the renovated Church on the 6th September.

August 27

The providing of the dinner at Huntingdon Fair has again been undertaken by the ladies of the Elgin Church, who rent the hall for $90.

Ormstown — The majority of farmers have finished harvesting and agree that the crop is the best for a number of years. Those who have threshed report the grain to be turning out well and of excellent quality. W. T. Rice threshed for William Wylie, Ormstown concession, 198 bushels of barley net wt., off 4 acres. At Howick oats and peas of excellent quality are being hauled now in abundance to the depot. A cent a pound is still being paid for oats and 78 to 80 cents for peas, 60 pounds to the bushel. Mr. McClenaghan who is buying at St. Louis, Allan's Corners and Howick has shipped about 6000 lbs. of oats already.

Sept. 10

The repairs on St. Andrew's were started on Monday by R. H. Crawford who has the contract. It is expected the church will be closed for 2 or 3 Sundays.

Sept. 17

The following are taken from "Notes" re. Huntingdon Fair, Sept. 10th and 11th, 1891.

"The dining hall was never in better hands and the ladies of the Elgin congregation, if they did work hard, had the satisfaction attending success. They cleared $525, which will more than wipe out the debt remaining on the new church."

"Largely owing to the absence of Mr. Bennie at St. Johns the exhibit of poultry was a failure. Next year it is likely the society will have a suitable building erected."

"For the first time in 25 years the face of John Ford was absent from the ticket office. Robert C. Baird was in charge."

"Perhaps for the first time in its history, it could be said no whiskey was sold on the grounds. A more orderly crowd could not be, and nothing of an unpleasant nature occurred either day.

The receipts of the show were as follows:

Members and gate receipts	$1560.
Tents $190, Stalls $99	289.
Dining Hall	95
Weighing machine	5.
	$1,944.

In an article from this paper previous to the Fair it stated that "In addition to the exhibition of stock and articles there will be several special attractions, chief of which will be Montreal Engineers, a volunteer corps of 60 men, who will encamp on the grounds and go through their evolutions each day. They have a fife and drum band. One of their number will exhibit Edison's marvellous invention for recording of speech, the phonograph, and for a small fee visitors may listen to its records".

However, in the "Notes" on the Fair, nothing of this demonstration was mentioned.

Sept. 24

Huntingdon Academy again leads. Having stood first at the examinations it is allotted by the committee a grant for the current year of $484. Coaticook comes next $435, Lachute third $429, followed by Sherbrooke and Waterloo. Ormstown model school which stands 4th in order of merit is given a grant of $147, a payment conditional on improving its accommodation. Hemmingford comes in 20th and a grant only of $73. is awarded. As usual, the colleges get the lion's share, $10,000, the academies only receiving $4,749 and the model school $3,947.

Archibald Bell of Elgin was selected as a judge on Clydesdales at the Toronto Exhibition and had a splendid lot to pass upon. The Exhibition was highly successful, the gate receipts being $67,000.

Weekly Review

"Some Sort Of Spirit"

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

Religion seems to die hard among the Russian people, in spite of the "anti-God" teaching in Soviet schools. Communist party leaders are much concerned about what they refer to as "tenacious survivals of the past". In an article appearing in Pravda, the editor replies to a number of letters from readers on the subject. One reader said he could quite understand how elderly people believe in God and perform religious rites "by force of habit", because they received their education before the revolution. "But," the reader continued, "we have occasion to meet individual boys and girls who have grown up and been educated just like all our young people, but who have religious prejudices and believe in some sort of 'spirit', believe in 'fate'. Where do they get these beliefs?"

In his reply, the editor points out that "Russian society is not yet finally purged of survivals, traditions and customs of the past", and these are assimilated by some young people who are taught to reject them. They must accept the "achievements of Soviet science" and its "reports on the structure of the universe, on the origin of life on the earth, on the origin of man and other themes - - - - Boys and girls should be told of the harmfulness of religious prejudices; a scientific, materialistic outlook should be fostered in them." In other words, young Communists must not think for themselves. Science is to take the place of religion and a materialist outlook is to eliminate all thought of "some sort of spirit".

That is quite an undertaking. Even the most advanced scientists today are finding it more and more difficult to maintain a materialist outlook upon the universe and the multifarious forms of life on this planet. Try as they will, they cannot get away from the thought of "some sort of spirit" operating through it all. Soviet scientists themselves, who are claimed to be superior to all others, have the same difficulty. They accept the theory of evolution as a mechanical process, but the question of "origins" stumps them. A Moscow literary journal recently published an article entitled "It is Time for Science to Solve the Problem of the Earth's origin". The writer of the article tells of a conference of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences on the "problems of the cosmogony of the solar system". Academician O. Yu. Shmit, the chief speaker, claimed to have solved the problem of the origin of the earth and other planets. In brief, his theory was that the planets originated in a "swarm of minute particles surrounding the sun." These particels were not gas, but "solid specks of dust", and the "simplest laws of dynamics" formed them into planets.

That is simple enough, but it is an over-simplification and does not go far enough back to solve the problems of origin - - - it does not explain the origin of the "laws of dynamics", which were the creative factors in the process. Once you admit there are laws governing the universe you go beyond the material and are faced with the fact and the presence of "some sort of spirit". Laws are not material things, they imply a mind, a will and a purpose - - - a law-maker and sustainer.

Religion was recently defined by W. J. Brown as "the relationship in which a man conceives himself to stand to the Universe and the Power behind it. From this will flow his estimate of the significance of human life, his conception of his relationship to his fellow-man, and to society as a whole." That is worth thinking about. It not only raises the question of "some sort of spirit" in the universe, but also of moral law in human relationships. It is that law which Soviet rulers wish to ignore and avoid by their materialist outlook and anti-God teaching. We have seen the effects of this in their unscrupulous actions and their utter lack of common ethics in international relations. It is also displayed in their ruthless treatment of their own people. But their materialist and Godless outlook can only lead them and the Russian people in the end to anarchy. There are moral laws, which are just as dynamic as those which formed and sustain the universe, and it is only by obedience to those moral laws and the Spirit behind them that society or the society of nations can live together in good will and peace.

The Gore

THE GORE — The Gore Farm Forum met on Friday evening, March 21, instead of Monday, owing to the dance at the Herdman Hall, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson. A final questionnaire was answered and plans were made to hold a dance at a later date. Cards were played at four tables, with Mr. Ord Taylor and Mrs. Josie Moneypenny being the winners. Refreshments were served by the ladies.

The community was greatly shocked on Sunday morning, when it was learned that Mr. Sam Herdman, of Huntingdon, had died suddenly. He had suffered a severe stroke on Saturday night and passed away early Sunday morning. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Herdman and family.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Paul's Church met at the home of Mrs. Hearn Graham on Thursday evening, March 20, with ten members and several visitors present. The president, Mrs. Clarence Henderson, conducted the meeting assisted by Mr. Hatcher. The meeting opened with the hymn "Come to The Saviour", followed by Scripture reading and prayer. Mrs. Harold Taylor was put in charge of a special fund to be used to buy boxes of fruit, etc., for sick members, and cards for special occasions. Other means of increasing the funds were discussed. Mrs. Nettie Henderson offered her home for the next meeting. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Graham assisted by Mrs. Ivan Graham. Table receipts, birthday money and other donations amounted to $9.35.

The Week At Ottawa...

OTTAWA, (CP)—Parliament has had its first look at what the government plans to do with the taxpayers' money in the fiscal year starting April 1.

It was only a partial preview that Finance Minister Abbott gave when he tabled the annual estimates for government departments. But they may reach the unprecedented peacetime total of upwards of $5,000,000,000.

Tabling the estimates, a prelude to Mr. Abbott's budget speech expected April 8, was one highlight in a week of news developments of interest domestically and internationally.

On the home front, the livestock industry took a step towards normalcy with relaxation of two interprovincial bans set up as a result of foot-and-mouth disease in southern Saskatchewan.

In the field of foreign affairs, the chief of the Atlantic pact naval forces paid a visit to Ottawa while the whole question of Canada's participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization served as a vehicle for a Liberal-C.C.F. feud.

Huge Defence Bill

The international situation's unsettled state was reflected to some extent in the estimates. Defence estimates of $2,106,000,000 accounted for a large chunk of Mr. Abbott's estimated expenditure of $4,335,796,809.

Of this defence expenditure, $324,000,000 was for mutual aid to Atlantic pact allies. But one $500,000 item showed more than any other single estimate how the government views world affairs.

This money will be used to start equipping all Canadian deep-sea and coastal ships to combat underwater mines and to carry defence guns. About 150 ships will get the gear to combat magnetic mines and strengthening to carry gun platforms.

The step was taken, said government officials, so an enemy won't get the jump on Canadian ships with a sneak attack by magnetic mines.

Some of Canada's other defence measures were talked over between the government and a North Atlantic Treaty Organization official fresh from a visit to European member-nations.

The Atlantic pact's naval chief, Admiral Lynde D. McCormick, visited Ottawa in winding up his tour of N.A.T.O. capitals. He said the pact powers don't have enough warships to face up to the "very serious" threats confronting them.

When he left for Washington later in the week, he took with him word that Canada likely will be able to contribute only the aircraft carrier Magnificent to the Atlantic exercises of combined N.A.T.O. naval forces expected this fall.

Pearson vs. C.C.F

The Commons was engaged in a feud between Liberal and C.C.F. parties that used Canada's foreign policy and the North Atlantic pact as a jumping off point.

The feud started two weeks ago as a sharp exchange between External Affairs Minister Pearson and C.C.F. leader M. J. Coldwell.

During the throne speech debate, I. R. Studer, Liberal member for Maple Creek, Sask., took up C.C.F. charges that N.A.T.O. was becoming too military-minded. This charge led Mr. Pearson to say earlier the C.C.F. were giving comfort to the Communists.

Mr. Studer said the C.C.F. members weren't exactly Communists. "But I would say they are conditional Canadians; that is, they will be Canadians as long as you do what the socialist party tells you."

That brought the retort from Ross Thatcher (CCF—Moose Jaw) that he noted Mr. Studer was discussing what a Canadian is when Mr. Studer was born in the United States, not Canada.

The following day, Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) called on Mr. Pearson to give a clear statement of Canada's commitments in the Atlantic pact military program.

This was forthcoming when at the end of the week the house launched into a debate on foreign policy. Mr. Pearson declared that Germany remains one of Europe's top trouble spots. While being reasonably optimistic that Germany would become satisfactorily associated with western defence, Mr. Pearson said the question of German rearmament is "difficult, complicated and indeed explosive."

Livestock Relaxations

One thing that engaged the members' attention from time to time during the week was the progress made in breaking down inter-provincial bans on movement of livestock and meat.

The bans, of varying degrees of stringency, were put on by British Columbia, Manitoba, Quebec and Nova Scotia as a result of Saskatchewan's outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease.

Those of B.C. and Manitoba were the toughest. First B.C. relaxed its embargo to allow in meat and livestock found free of disease by federal inspectors. That put it in a class with Quebec's permit system except that in Quebec certification was done by provincial rather than federal inspectors.

Manitoba followed by relaxing its ban to permit hogs, sheep and meat into the province from Alberta and Saskatchewan. The province retained the ban on the movement of western cattle into the Manitoba market and the movement of livestock across the province into the eastern markets.

The Nova Scotia ban, which applied only to horses since little livestock is imported by the maritime province, is due to come off this week.

SERVICES COST MONEY

WEYBURN, Sask., (CP) — The council of Weyburn has decided to investigate a proposal to levy a sewer service charge on householders.

"Now I've caught up with Grandma!"

Grandma was one of those unforgettable characters you read about. And every time I think of her, I remember one of her favourite sayings: "Early sow — Early mow".

Many years have passed since Grandma died. But just the other day something happened to remind me of that old motto of hers.

I was working over my budget, trying not to admit what the figures told me: My savings had slipped. At this rate, it was a cinch that some of the things I'd started to save for would have to wait. Suddenly I remembered "Early sow . . . "

"Old-fashioned stuff!" I told myself. Then I got to thinking. "Maybe it is tough to save today. But it's still important . . . still my only hope of getting some of the things I want most.

"Well, at least I'm keeping up my life insurance payments," I thought. "That's a way of saving which combines protection for my family as well. And maybe if I make an extra effort to put more money aside I'll reach my goals sooner.

"So here goes! I'll try again. I'll find some new ways to economize. Somehow I'm sure I can manage to be more thrifty."

And you know — it's a funny thing! The moment I made that decision, I realized that Grandma's idea was not old-fashioned. I've just caught up with her now!

But just how much we miss him
No one will ever know".

Writing A Report

former are actualities, the latter are tinged with the colour of his opinions.

If recommendations are made, they should be clear and definite. They should tell what to do, who is to do it, where it should be done, at what time, and why this is recommended.

Form of the Report

Writing a report will be much easier if you work out a form, or skeleton.

A good plan for the inexperienced report writer is to start with a statement in one sentence, setting forth the objecive of the study which is being reported upon. This will focus attention upon the primary purpose. Then follow with main and sub-headings, growing out of the sentence and leading toward the conclusion.

It is surprising how greatly this plan helps to eliminate vagueness, fill in gaps in information and reasoning, and keep the writer on the track of competent thinking.

Although it does not hold true in every case, the success of many reports may be attributed to a well-written introduction or synopsis. If attention of the reader is seized at this point, he is likely to proceed into the body of the report with an expectant mind. Even when one is sure the report will be read, as when the topic is one of particular interest to an executive, it still is good practice to provide a summary telling what the report is about and what point it makes. It should be sharp in its diction, sparing of words, and careful to promise no more than is in the report.

When you come to your preliminary outline, it should be drafted so as to give you a fairly clear idea of the road ahead, enable you to judge what you should stress, and provide you with a test of the adequacy of your research.

Chronological Reports and Research

The person who writes a report which records happenings in the order of their time sequence must bear in mind that events sometimes follow one another in successive points of time without tending toward an end. He needs to look out for cause-and-effect relationship. His report should tell origin, history, and development. It should bring out what is the focal point, the turning point, the key event that marks a change or indicates the need for a change.

Many a chronological report is only a collection of episodes; only the starting place for research. Nothing much that is useful will flow from our work until we start asking questions and finding answers.

This leads us into consideration of the analytical report, which starts off with the idea that there is a problem to be solved, and marches toward definite conclusions. It is not a mere collection of data; it gathers facts for and against the proposal being studied, and then goes on to assess them by comparison and testing.

The person embarking upon preparation of such a report has need of an open mind. His is a quest for truth, unbiased, unprejudiced and clear-headed. He will not suspend his researches until they have reached the point where the returns from the investigation have ceased to be really important. He will modify his thesis as he goes along, if necessary, to fit the new thoughts born of his study.

There can be no more illustrious purpose than that of the research man: "To find the truth no matter how obscure; to recognize it no matter in what strange form it may present itself; to formulate it honestly; to state it unmistakably; and to reason from it remorselessly and without regard to prejudice."

Business research is of many kinds. It may be designed to solve a merchandising or production or distribution problem; it may be called upon to find ways of effecting economies; it may be done in response to management's desire to anticipate trade developments within the industry, shifts in the economy of the country, or progress in technology.

Its leading questions are: what is true? what is best? what is necessary? how do we do it? A good test question, to be used when the others have been answered, is: if I do that, then what happens?

The writer of a report can be sure he has done a good job if he is confident that he has analysed more profoundly than others the problem put before him; that he has achieved an original focus of facts toward a desired purpose; that he has supplied, in his report, alternative courses of action, the forseeable consquences of which he has fully thought out; and that he provides not only a well-written report but a solid block of knowledge on which to build.

Not much need be said about the various kinds of analytic reports except just to name them. The case study, while incomplete in itself because no conclusions can be drawn from one case, is useful as part of a larger project. It can be enlightening, and because of the narrowness of its field, it can be thorough. The genetic study traces the development of its subject, stressing the causal sequence of events. The comparative method involves bringing together significant facts. Its chief impediment seems to lie in the danger of bias attending selection of the facts to be compared, and the perplexity of discriminating wisely.

Sources of Information

Collecting information is the foundation of all good reporting. Thomas Edison gave this advice: "The first thing is to find out everything everybody else knows, and then begin where they left off."

While every problem will have its peculiar requirements, certain sources of data are common to nearly all: observation, experimentation, books, questionnaires, interviews, workshop and accounting records. The successful writer will be resourceful in his research activities, thinking of new approaches and seeking data overlooked hitherto.

Data may be primary or secondary. Just as in law the evidence of an eye-witness is more valuable than that of a person who testifies at secondhand, so in business and other reports the fruits of observation and experimentation rate high marks. He is a wise report writer who applies, whenever possible, observation and experimentation to check the findings of others; he is likely to remain unremarkable for his work if he merely echoes the opinions of others, believes things because others believe them, and uses only books and papers with which he is in complete accord.

Secondary sources depend for their value upon their accuracy, their acuteness of valuation, the validity of their reasoning, and the applicability of their conclusions to the case being studied.

No statement is more reliable than its source. The report writer must spend long hours in gathering facts, arranging them, interpreting them, — and then as much time again in checking the accuracy and worthwhileness of what he has in his hand. It is useless to quote a writer unless he is known to be competent in his field. It is dangerous to give the opinion of a man unless he is recognized as being unbiased, up-to-date and in all respects reliable.

Writing the Report

Having gathered the facts and laid them out in order, we must compose our report.

This is a time when a writer wishes to be alone. John Ruskin had circulars which he used to head off visitors, invitations and letters. They read like this: "Mr. J. Ruskin is about to begin a work of great importance and therefore begs that in reference to calls and correspondence you will consider him dead for the next two months."

Literary skill, in whatever field it is exercised, means ability to present a subject as accurately and as vividly as possible. We should at least write our reports as if we were interested in what we are trying to write, and when we do so we have gone a long way toward giving our reports significance.

The report writer needs to analyse, and group, and marshal his facts into order. He must classify and conquer the elements of the chaos around him before he can hope to appeal with any force to the intelligence to other people. In this process of viewing the whole situation and at the same time seeing its components, the writer will detect incongruities to avoid and discern a path to follow.

These are skills which come only, so far as we know, with practice, but there are some hints about the process of writing which apply in all circumstances.

The report must be practical. We have a loose way of thinking of a realist as one who not only sees things as they are materially, but acquiesces in them: let us rather, as report writers, considerer ourselves as being realists in the sense that we understand things as we have found them, not as we would find it convenient to believe them.

The report must be complete. We must have walked all around the matter about which we are reporting, seeing the good and the bad, the perfect and the imperfect, the desirable and the undesirable. We must have provided adequate proof for our favourable and our unfavourable findings. Do not be content with one opinion: it may be the wrong one. As Cicero once pointed out, nothing is so absurd that someone has not called it profound; nothing so profound that someone has not called it absurd.

The report must be concise. It may be as long as a roller towel, or as short as a message on a post card: length is not the criterion. Conciseness does not consist in using few words, but in covering the subject in the fewest possible words that will express what is in the writer's mind.

We recall Prime Minister Winston Churchill's wartime memoranda, demanding that his cabinet ministers confine their reports on the most momentous matters to a single page. "It is," he told the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, "sheer laziness not compressing thought into a reasonable space."

The report must be clear. Only the careful organization of facts and interpretation will enable the reader to follow what is to the writer a clear-cut line of reasoning. The art of good prose resides not so much in the swing and balance of the language as in the marshalling of argument, the orderly procession of ideas, the disposition of parts so that each finds its proper place. The writer misses his target if the idea in his mind is not received with understanding. As Alice said after reading Jabberwocky: "Somehow it seems to fill my head with ideas — only I don't exactly know what they are."

Use of trite expressions shows that the writer is in a rut. If he has no imagination in his language is it likely, the executve will ask, that he exercised any imagination in his analysis of this problem?

There is no place in good writing for proverbs, saws, and tinkling aphorisms.

Foggy language detracts from the force of writing, and use of words loosely may well vitiate all usefulness that might have been incorporated in a report. We say nothing against trade, occupational or professional jargon so long as the report is solely for people who are on speaking terms with it. That sort of talk is not infrequently the only kind in which a writer can convey the true meaning of his thought to a particular audience. But jargon has no place in reports which may be read by the uninitiated.

The report must be intellectually honest. The facts must be scrupulously weighed and properly evaluated, and the writer must sincerely attempt to present something that has a judicial quality. He will draw a distinct line between what he has found to be factual, what is his opinion, and what he sets up as a hypothesis.

The report must be readable. We cannot afford to assume that our report will be read because the boss is interested in the subject. We should try to add to the clarity of our presentation something that will lift it above the ordinary.

There may be an ivory-tower disposition toward decorum, leading us to think that research requires a depersonalized manner of writing. The truth is that nothing written is useful unless it is attractive enough to be read. We are entitled to be as brilliant and interesting as we can be, so long as we observe the requirements of correctness, relevance and the objective.

And Having Written:

Having written it, the writer would be well advised to forget about his report for as long as time permits. If he tries to make corrections and improvements as soon as he has finished the writing, his memory of what he meant to write may be so strong that he will overlook the shortcoming of what he actually wrote.

Here are some questions to ask at the time of revision: is my report fair, broad-minded and dignified? Have I used enough imagination in presenting the facts? Have I answered all the pertinent questions likely to arise in the reader's mind? Does my report read as if a human being wrote it?

It is well to read the report aloud: if it is easy to read you may bank upon its being easy to understand. If you hesitate over a word, a phrase or a sentence, take a second look.

Finally, don't allow yourself to be lulled into feeling that writing a report is an easy thing to do.

The writer who achieves distinction of expression, conciseness, directness — and, if the nature of his work permits it, dramatic quality, beauty of rhythm, and some adventurousness of phrase and idea — has not done something miraculous. He has worked hard and intelligently.

Obituary

THE LATE MRS. ANNA JOHNSTON

At her home on Depot Street, Chateaugay, N.Y., at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, March 4th, the death occurred of Mrs. Andrew M. Johnston. Mrs. Johnston had been in impaired health for several years and her condition became critical a few days prior to her demise.

Anna M. Bush was born in North Burke, a daughter of the late Hiram and Margaret (Twaddle) Bush and was a member of a family of ten children. She attended Chateaugay High School and for a number of years taught in the central schools at Burke. On January 27, 1897, her marriage to Andrew M. Johnston took place. They made their home in this village for two years. The couple again took up their residence in this village in July 1946.

Besides her husband, are two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Ewing, of Powerscourt, Que., Mrs. Walter A. Crawford of Edmonton, Alberta and one niece and two nephews. Burial took place in North Burke cemetery.

Athelstan

ATHELSTAN — The Southern division of the Women's Missionary Society met on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Reese. The usual worship service was followed by Study for the day, based on the theme of "Our Fellow-Canadians from Europe," all present sharing in presenting this most interesting program, impersonating individuals who had worked many years among Anglo-Saxons in Canada. The profound hunger of our times is not for brotherly words, but for brotherly deeds. We have seen too much of hate in action, cruelty in action. What the world urgently needs is love, gentleness, humanity in action. A genuine concern for brotherhood would open the doors of homes, schools, hospitals, factories and all other institutions to all "citizens of Canada." A Christian will therefore participate to the limit of his time and his means in those wider movements which seek equality of citizenship for all. The door of the church has no latch on the outside, but the love of Christ, if it possessed us and had dominion over us, would do more than to unlatch the closed door. It would constrain us straightway to go out to seek those whom we have despised, and say to them, "Friends, our church doors are now, by the grace of Christ, swung open. Will you walk with us? Come, let us magnify the Lord together." Plans were made for the Easter Thank-offering meeting which will be held in April.

Recent guests of Miss Elizabeth McCort were Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Roberts of St. Lambert.

AUBREY-RIVERFIELD — The March meeting of the Riverfield Church Evening Auxiliary was held on Monday night, March 17th, at the home of Mrs. F. Gruer and Mrs. T. Kerr in Howick. There were fourteen members present. The meeting opened with the call to Worship, by Audrey Reddick. The Worship period, conducted by Myrtle Allen, followed the outline of the Study Book. The Secretary called the Roll, and read the minutes, and the Offering was received. A discussion was held regarding the sponsoring of a play to be presented by the Avon Players of Montreal. If possible the play will be given in the near future. It was voted to send $10.00 to the supply fund in Montreal. The group decided to buy side plates to match the new dishes for the church. The first chapter of the new Study Book "Meet the South Americans," was read by Amethyst Wylie. Material for sewing was given out by Frances Reddick, the supply secretary. The meeting closed with the singing of Hymn 506 "Thy way, not mine, O Lord," and the Auxiliary prayer in unison. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Gruer and Mrs. Kerr and a social hour enjoyed.

Sorry to report Mrs. John Milne a patient in the Montreal General Hospital. It is hoped she will soon improve in health, and be able to return home.

HEAD OF CANADA'S BIGGEST "SCHOOL"

Dr. R. O. MacFarlane

New "principal" of Canada's biggest "school" is Dr. R. O. MacFarlane of Winnipeg, who is also Deputy Minister of Education for Manitoba. As chairman of the National Advisory Council on School Broadcasting, he now helps coordinate the work of the CBC and the provincial departments of education in planning National School Broadcasts which, supplemented by provincially - organized programs, reach an estimated 600,000 pupils in one-third of the country's schools. Dr. MacFarlane was named chairman of the advisory body to replace Dr. W. P. Percival, director of Protestant education in Quebec, who had occupied the post for a number of years.

Dundee

DUNDEE — Mrs. Margaret Quenneville left Dundee last Friday for Notre Dame de Grace where she expects to make her home with her son, Mr. John Smith. An auction sale was held about two weeks ago at the Quenneville farm and the livestock, household furniture and farm equipment disposed of. The farm which consists of about 300 acres is also for sale. Mr. McKay of Hemmingford, land agent, has the selling of the farm.

Benoits' well drilling outfit is at work this spring sinking artesian wells in the locality. At Mr. Stewart McGibbon's, an excellent well was obtained at a depth of 80 feet. At present the outfit is drilling on the farm of Mr. Fred Nora.

Since the application of the embargo on livestock, hay, etc., to the U.S., due to foot and mouth disease on the Prairies, the cattle trade locally is virtually non-existent except for Montreal market purposes. Several farmers who had intended to press hay and straw for the U.S. market are going to find it difficult to dispose of their surplus.

Lake St. Francis is commencing to show signs that Spring is just around the corner. Monday morning several large open channels were noticed, due no doubt to the action of the heavy east wind on Sunday. According to the Montreal Star navigation on Canada's great inland waterway and canal system is scheduled to open on April 21, unless unforeseen circumstances prevent it.

Due to the slippery condition of the roads the attendance at the Sunday morning service at the United Church was small. No service was held at Kensington or Powerscourt for the same reason.

W.M.S. Anniversary Tea

The Women's Missionary Society of Dundee Zion United Church held a very delightful afternoon tea in the School on Saturday afternoon, March 22nd, from 2-4 o'clock. The gathering took the form of an Anniversary Tea and it is hoped that it will be an annual event.

Before the gathering was brought to order, piano selections were given by Mrs. Elder. Mrs. J. E. Platt then asked ladies from the various neighbouring communities to stand, showing a very good representation from Huntingdon, Kensington, Elgin and Fort Covington, besides a goodly number from the community of Dundee. It is indeed gratifying to the W.M.S. members to have had such a splendid friendly and co-operative response from all, and they would like to take this opportunity to express their heartfelt appreciation to all ladies from outside the Society who were present for the occasion.

Mrs. A. F. Armstrong, acting as Chairman, stated that through the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Elizabeth Fleming we had the first minute book of the Society which was known then as "the Women's Foreign Missionary Society." It was on March 14th, 1895, that the Society was founded here in Dundee, with the slate of officers as follows: President: Mrs. Dr. McDonald; 1st Vice-Pres.: Mrs. Jos. Smallman; 2nd Vice-Pres.: Mrs. Alex. Vass; 3rd Vice-Pres., Mrs. Dunc. Fraser; Treas.: Miss Dora McPhee; Sec'y: Miss Lila McDonald.

Although there were 23 members on the roll, the average attendance at each meeting was 6, but the financial standing was splendid and the work accomplished left nothing to be desired. Noting how times have changed, Mrs. Armstrong stated that she had come across plans for a lawn social, the admission charge to be 15th. But although money values have changed, the good work of the W.M.S. has been carried on through the years pretty much after the same pattern.

Mrs. Armstrong then said that it was with a great deal of pleasure that she introduced the guest speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Stanley Ruddock, of Huntingdon.

Mrs. Ruddock opened her address by reading a passage from the Gospel of St. John. Following this, she expressed her delight at being present and in seeing so many gathered together to help towards a worthy cause. In Mrs. Ruddock's remarks she presented a challenge to the parents of young people. For some parents, giving a child all the luxuries the family budget could afford plus some it couldn't, meant fitting him in the best possible manner for his life ahead. However, such is not the case. If you can prepare the young people in your family, through simple Christian teaching, to make the right decisions when faced with the inevitable problems of everyday life, then you are giving him the best possible foundation for future decisions. Mrs. Ruddock also stated that our holidays, Christmas and Easter for example, have become commercialized to such a point that youngsters are becoming increasingly liable to forget the true significance of these occasions and look upon the story of the Christ Child as a Fairy Tale. The responsibility of parenthood today is to give your child the proper example of true Christianity in the home — the love and care of two parents who love and respect each other, and he will conduct himself in a fitting manner, and be an asset to his community and to himself.

Mrs. Ruddock closed her remarks by telling a story of an old deep-sea fisherman who declined to accept Christianity because it was full and free, until he was shown by a missionary, after many futile attempts, that God had sacrificed his beloved Son to give us this perfect understanding and love that is embodied in the true Christian Spirit.

Mrs. Ruddock was thanked by Mrs. Armstrong for her challenging talk.

Tea was served at 14 tables by the W.M.S. members who were extremely well pleased for the generous response given to the silver collection which will be used for Supply Work.

In the absence of Mr. Wonfor, the pulpit in Zion United Church was occupied by Mr. Stern, also a student minister of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McPherson of Valleyfield were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gregor Leslie.

Masters Kenneth Coleman and Alan Reid spent a couple of days the past week in Montreal.

Tom Gard's Note Book

I suppose we have all been reminded that it is good to store for a rainy day, and of course that means winter as well. This was brought very much to mind when travelling through the country recently, and inspecting equipment in a farm home.

Storage Bin

This farmer did not agree with the old type bin in the corner of the cellar, he had built an airy one for better results. The framework of the bin was out from the wall about three inches, firmly constructed with sliding shelves or trays for fruit, bulbs, and vegetables. Plenty of air worked up through the trays as each had a slat bottom. It is well to keep in mind that the room should be cool and dry for best results, and free from frost.

Stove-pipes for Stakes

Over in another corner of the basement I spied a storage place for stakes. These had been used for dahlias and tomatoes, some of bamboo and others of cedar. Stove-pipes had been fastened to the wall with heavy wire, and the stakes stood upright to prevent them from falling all over the place.

Protection for Cheese

Invited to partake of a little hospitality I was interested to note how the folks protected the cheese. A new flower-pot had been soaked in water, then placed over the cheese to keep it from drying out, and to protect it from flies.

Small Tool Chest

The principal of a school nearby invited me into the manual training room. One of the junior pupils had constructed a very neat tool box from pieces of lath. Given a little extra touch this could have been converted into a fine box for gloves, ties or handkerchiefs.

Gerald Fleming, Dundee Boy Writes, Directs Own Play

For the first time on record the students of the Collegiate Institute, Port Arthur, Ont., chose to present at their Annual Drama Night, a play written and directed by one of our local boys, in the person of Mr. W. Gerald Fleming. Gerald, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fleming of Dundee, Que., graduated from Dundee Intermediate School in June 1940, a Class 1 student of Grade Eleven. In 1946 he graduated an honour student from Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree. The following year he specialized in History from the University of Toronto Teachers' College, and in 1947 he accepted a position as History Specialist on the staff of Port Arthur Collegiate, where he has remained since that time.

The title of the play, "When Ravens Feast," is a tragedy in 5 scenes. For his inspiration, Gerald went to a touching little story called "The Legend of Mount Mackay." The winters of Thunder Bay were always a severe test of the endurance of the Ojibway Indians who had their hunting grounds and their small clearings near the shores of the "Big Sea Water." But one winter proved tragic; for in the autumn, just when their grain was ready for harvest, they looked out one morning to find that it had all been destroyed. Kagahgee, king of the ravens, had come with his myriad tribe, who, as they rose from the ground, filled the sky, obscuring the sun. The Ojibway warriors took speedy revenge and hundreds of the birds were slain, but scarcely a grain of corn remained —certainly none to be stored for the winter.

When ravens feast what are the consequences to the human beings who have been robbed? Well, the consequences to Minokugee and her family and her lover form the theme of Gerald's play. Even in the best of times the heart of the Indian maiden would have been torn between her longing for her lover, a young brave of another tribe, and her duty to her young motherless brothers and sisters. Under the strain of the winter famine events pile up one upon another to the exciting but inevitable climax. Those who were apt to be touched by the sufferings of the young and lonely found "When Ravens Feast" an appealing drama, while others, who enjoyed witnessing the logical development of the cause and effect were gripped by the inexorable march of events.

The entire action took place around an outdoor fire in a clearing a few yards from a wigwam on the outskirts of an Ojibway village. Besides writing the play and directing it, Gerald also assisted in the painting of the scenery.

The performance was mentioned several times over local radio stations and Kate Aitken also referred to the play and to Gerald on her program.

One of the members of the Board of Education gave Gerald great credit for his brilliant achievement, of which his home community of Dundee may also be justly proud.

Run Away Truck Causes Slight Damages to Covey Hill Orchard

COVEY HILL—A few days ago a truck hauling logs from the U.S. got out of control when the brakes failed to work on the hill between the border and the Covey Hill Customs House. Continuing its runaway course north of the Corners and into Mr. Harold Palmer's orchard it injured a couple of trees before it stopped. The truck was damaged but the driver, a son of Mr. R. Bourdeau of St. Chrysostome, and two companions on the seat escaped with shaken nerves. A few months ago on almost identical incident occurred on this road where there is a drop of hundreds of feet in the mile between the lines and the Corners. The danger in such an accident to small children on the road is very great.

A number of ladies from this area are attending the Home Nursing course at Hemmingford sponsored by the W.I. with the assistance of the Red Cross.

Mr. Willie Semple appreciated the help of his neighbours at a chopping bee last week.

At least one of four farmers has made 50 gals. of syrup.

Mr. Harold Curran's friends were pleased to see him home from the hospital and able to drive out.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Tedstone of Huntingdon were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Mannagh.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Simpson of Hemmingford have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom McComo.

For resourcefulness in a fix the Covey Hill farmer is hard to beat. During one of our worst icy spells, such a man had to finish a trip to his barn on his hands and knees. Did he return to the house in this humiliating posture? He did not. He walked upright and self-respecting with a hayfork in each hand.

Perfect Tuna Casserole

IF ever a dish deserved the compliment, "How Perfect," this tuna combination is it. One try and you'll see. It's so perfectly easy to make, perfectly grand to eat.

The luscious flavor team of condensed cream of mushroom soup and tuna give the dish its high-powered come-on for eaters. And if you want a Lenten dish, just use cream of celery soup instead of mushroom. Results are equally pleasing.

Right on your kitchen shelf, you can keep the makings for this one. A can each of mushroom soup, tuna, and green peas—plus a bag of potato chips. It turns suppers into something special, is a perfect choice for luncheon parties. The cost will cheer you too.

Perfect Tuna Casserole

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
1 7-ounce can (1 cup) tuna, drained and coarsely flaked
1¼ cups crushed potato chips
1 cup cooked green peas, drained

Empty soup into a small casserole; add milk and mix thoroughly. Add tuna, 1 cup potato chips and peas to soup; stir well. Sprinkle top with remaining ¼ cup potato chips. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings. Garnish with whole potato chips around edge if desired. Note: For Lent, use condensed cream of celery soup instead of mushroom soup.

SOUP SCOOPS

Springtime Garnish For Soup: Cream of celery soup looks all dressed up for spring with a bright green garnish like chopped chives or parsley. Treat the family to this on St. Patrick's Day or the First Day of Spring.

Hi-Hat Spaghetti Casserole: A Lenten dinner to be proud of is this. Pour 2 cans (3⅓ cups) of spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese into an ungreased 1½-quart casserole; place in a moderate oven (375° F.) for 20 minutes. Meanwhile beat 4 egg yolks lightly; combine with ¼ cup shredded Cheddar cheese. Beat 4 egg whites until stiff; fold in yolks. Pile eggs on top of spaghetti; continue baking at 375° F. for 30 minutes or until lightly browned. 6 servings.

"Soup-Prise" For Lent: A soup combination that calls for extra big bowls is made by mixing 1 can each of condensed clam chowder and cream of celery soups. Add 2 cans of milk slowly, stirring constantly. Simmer about 5 minutes.

Garden Notes

By Gordon Lindsay Smith
Background

For screenings, fences, vegetable gardens, walks and other places we may wish to cut off partially or entirely from the general view there is a wide assortment of quickly growing annual flowers. These plants will reach two to ten feet high in a few weeks and will make just as good a screen or background as permanent shrubs and hedges. In most seed catalogues along with the date of flowering, hardiness and other factors, will be listed the mature height and usually some indication of the speed these flowers grow. In the tall category are cosmos, hollyhocks, giant zinnias and marigolds, spider plants, ornamental sunflowers and many others. Planted well apart and in good soil these will form a blossoming background for the regular flowers and will hide practical bits of the backyard we do not wish every passerby to see. For the same purpose one can also use annual climbing things like nasturtiums, sweet peas, scarlet runner beans, morning glories, annual hops, etc.

Spread the Vegetables

In most parts of Canada it is a mistake to plant all the vegetable seed in one swoop. Far more satisfaction will result and much larger total yields as well as finer quality, where each packet is roughly divided into three parts. The first and smallest of these parts is sown on the early side and if they come through without serious frost we have some extra early vegetables. The second or main sowing goes in at the regular time, then from a fortnight to three weeks later we make the last sowing. With some quick maturing things like beans, carrots and beets, one can make even more sowings at intervals of a fortnight. In the warmer sections of the country it is possible to go right on planting most vegetables up to early July. By spreading out in this way we not only get a continuous supply of vegetables but we get that supply right at its best quality. To extend the season still further experts adopt the practise of sowing three different types of the main vegetable, an early maturing sort, a medium one and a late one. This is a particularly sound policy with such things as garden peas and corn, as the former must go in fairly early to get a start during the cool weather and the latter is not safe much before danger from the last frost is over.

Specialties

One of the best things about gardening is the wide range of special interests. Anyone can soon become an expert along certain lines of his own choosing. Some people like to concentrate on rock gardens, others on window boxes, or an extra fine lawn of, say bent grass. Others go in for rare dwarf plants or special borders of various distinctive colors. Still others accept the challenge of shaded quarters and with tuberous begonias and other plants that actually prefer to keep away from the sun, they make a brilliant showing. The seed catalogues will help in choosing plants for any of these special purposes and, of course, for the more advanced there are all sorts of other literature. It gives one quite a thrill to be pointed out as "That's the person on our street or in our town who grows the best of this or that."

Avoid These

Two of the commonest mistakes of the new gardener are planting too close together and too deeply. When sowing one should always try and picture the resulting plants. Even tiny flowers like alyssum or portulaca, things that are only an inch or so high at full maturity, will require room. The safe rule is about at least half as much space between as they are high when full grown. With small flowers and vegetables this means at least a couple of inches between and with say, zinnias, peas, beans, etc., four to six inches. With dahlias and corn this should be 12 to 18 inches. The rule for depth is three times the diameter of the seed or root planted. Now this does not mean that one should measure with calipers but simply press in tiny seeds, while such things as beans and peas should be covered about an inch deep. A few very tall flowers like gladiolus and dahlias should go from six to 12 inches.

May Suggested As Car Safety Check Month

A National Car Safety Check Month for May was approved in a recent meeting of the Canadian Committee for Highway Safety. Supported by all phases of Automotive Industry, The Canadian Committee for Highway Safety has been formed with the express purpose of taking action to help reduce the needless unnecessary toll of accidents on our roads and highways where automobiles and trucks are involved. Lending their support to this public relations and goodwill effort is The Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, The Federation of Automobile Dealers Associations, the vehicle manufacturers and the dealers, the Ontario Safety League and other safety conscious groups.

The committee approval for a National Safety Check Month, is a step in the right direction and is the major point in Canadian Automotive Trade's editorial campaign for compulsory vehicle inspection in all provinces across Canada. For 1952 reputable automotive dealers have been invited to join this safety effort and to carry it through in their home locality. A uniform system of inspection of vehicles and reporting on their condition has been established, which is available to all dealer organizations. It is expected that some 2000 dealers in all provinces will participate in this 1952 Safe Vehicle Campaign. In addition, independent garages and service stations will undoubtedly carry through the 1952 Highway Safety Committee slogan — "Make Safe Driving a Habit: Check your car — Check Accidents."

Canadians Heavy Tea Drinkers

TORONTO — Canada's national beverage? — Tea, of course. Believe it or not, we even out-rival the tea-drinking British at our two main meals of the day.

A beverage habit's survey in Britain compared with a similar Canadian survey by large fact-finding organizations reveals that 7 per cent more Canadians drink tea at lunch time (60% compared to 50%) and no less than 16 per cent more take tea with their evening meal (64% compared to 48%) — a revelation that amazed even the tea people.

Where the Britisher beats the Canadian, however, is at breakfast and in-between-meal periods. Even before they get out of bed 43% of Britishers have their morning "cuppa".

But if the afternoon tea habit continues to regain its popularity in Canada—it already has recovered 30 per cent of the popularity it lost during the war years — then, who knows, maybe some day the Britisher may be looking at the Canadian as the world's most prolific tea drinker. Canadians now are drinking approximately nine billion cups of tea a year.

Howick

HOWICK — The Howick United W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. Fred. Allen on the third Tuesday of March. Mrs. Edwards presided. Mrs. Bruce Ness led the devotional period, followed by a very appropriate talk, which centred around the theme, "Light." We must have high ideals and most of all, a faith in God. Let us see our fellowmen in the true light, the light of Christ. A short prayed closed the devotional exercises. Twenty-one ladies answered the roll call. Interesting letters had been received from Prayer Partners and were read by Mrs. Robert McKell. A very timely story stressing Christian Stewardship was told by Mrs. R. Tolhurst. This was followed by a short item, emphasizing the meaning and purpose of the word "Brotherhood" by Mrs. Melville Brown. Two poems, "How great the need" and "Life is a mirror" were read by Mrs. R. R. Ness and Mrs. Fred. Allen and were much enjoyed.

Minutes of the meeting of the Executive of the Montreal Presbyterial held recently, were given by Mrs. Math. McKell, who was appointed one of the district vice-presidents at the annual meeting held last month in Erskine Church. The Study Book was in charge of Mrs. Sutherland. First, the wonderful work our student missionaries are doing in areas where the gospel is not preached regularly, was cited. Then the Sunday Schools in the home, by mail and air were described. These provide religious instruction for those who are in isolated places, the far-flung spaces. Lastly, interesting stories were told about our Marine Missions, with their noteworthy little ships, that are busy carrying messages to little groups of people along our coasts. A "quiz" on the chapter followed in which all took part. The Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

The Georgetown W.M.S. held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. John Ross, on Tuesday, March 18th. Fourteen ladies were present and responded to the roll-call with the text-word "Fast." Two letters were read from the Presbyterial secretary, Mrs. Allen, with regard to the supply work of the year. The dates were planned for a Sacred Band Concert by the Salvation Army in May, also the annual plant sale and tea. Mrs. John Ross read an item from "The London Daily Mail," which gave a detailed account of the late King George VI's funeral and burial.

A social half hour was enjoyed after the meeting and light refreshments served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. Potts and Mrs. A. Kerr.
