FRANCE TO KEEP CLASS OF 1921 UNDER COLORS UNTIL THE END OF MAY

(Associated Press Despatch.)
PARIS, March 6.—Minister of War Maginot informed the Cabinet today that he intended to keep the class of 1921 under the colors until May 31.

The minister at the same time laid before the Cabinet a bill permitting engagements and re-engagements for the army for a period of six months.

The minister's decision to keep the class of 1921 under the colors until the end of May will be a disappointment to the class, the members of which were counting on being released by the first of April, at the latest. If they are released May 31 they will have served two months over the normal term.

The official explanation of the delay in releasing them is the desire of the ministry to have experienced men for training the new class.

F. P. HOULAHAN FOR THE CENTRE WARD VACANCY

Probable Successor to H. E. Goodhue, Who Has Resigned Seat.

The resignation of Alderman Goodhue, presented at last night's Council meeting, came as a surprise. Mr. Goodhue finds that business considerations make it impossible for him to devote the necessary time to civic affairs, and, therefore, retires after about as short a term as is recorded in the city's annals. The indications at the time of going to press are that the vacancy may be filled without delay. The name of Mr. F. P. Houlihan is mentioned as his probable successor, and it is understood requisites in circulation in the Centre Ward today in support of Mr. Houlihan's candidature. It is believed that Mr. Houlihan will prove acceptable to all parties, and would prove a very efficient member of the Council. Energetic and of good judgment, and with a knowledge of both languages, Mr. Houlihan is regarded as well qualified for a seat at the Council board. Parties who have the requisitions in hand state that the proposal of Mr. Houlihan's name is meeting with general approval.

Dale was a member of the 165th Infantry, the old "Fighting Sixty-Ninth" during the war. He captured a German machine gun at Chateau Thierry and received the Croix de Guerre for this exploit. In capturing the gun he was wounded eleven times.

SUN'S RAYS USED FOR GENERATING MOTOR POWER

Claims Invention Can Be Used in Office Buildings to Provide Light, Heat and Power.

(Associated Press Despatch)
NEW YORK, March 6.—A miniature engine whose power was generated by the sun's rays, was successfully demonstrated yesterday in the laboratory of the College of the City of New York by Bernard Grossman, a graduate. A parabolic copper mirror caught and focused the rays upon a test tube of water, the heat causing steam, which in turn operated the tiny motor at a high rate of speed. Grossman said his invention could be used in office buildings to provide light, heat and power, while the sun motor could be utilized to operate motor trucks. He will build a larger motor to prove his theory.

Chamber of Deputies Favored Amendment to Require Endorsement of Bearer Bonds.

(Associated Press Despatch)
PARIS, March 6.—The Government was beaten yesterday in the Chamber of Deputies in a fight against the probable disposition either to abolish bearer securities because of the alleged immense income tax frauds or else require the registration of bearer securities in order to be able to trace their ownership.

The Finance Minister, M. De Lasteyrie, said he would oppose to the utmost the amendment to require the endorsement of bearer bonds, which the chamber voted, 322 to 238 to consider as a possible measure, but without definitely incorporating it as yet in the budget.

United States Vs. Canadian Magazines Was Question Debated At A Very Considerable Length In House—Resolution Was Passed

H. C. Hocken, Conservative, Member for West Toronto, Introduced a Resolution Urging the Encouragement of Canadian Periodicals—He Advocated a Duty on the Advertising Pages of American Magazines of Fifteen Cents a Pound, or Ten Cents a Pound on the Weight of the Whole Magazine.

(Associated Press Despatch)
OTTAWA, Mar. 6.—Without dividing, the House of Commons last night adopted a resolution moved by H. C. Hocken, Conservative member for West Toronto, that "it is desirable that measures should be adopted to encourage the publication of Canadian magazines and periodicals." The Hocken resolution was adopted after defeat, also without a division, of an amendment moved by John Evans, Progressive member for Saskatoon, which would have added to the resolution the words: "by placing on the free list all materials used in the production of Canadian magazines and newspapers." Although not specifically mentioned in the resolution, debate turned almost entirely on American magazines and periodicals. Mr. Hocken, in moving his resolution, suggested an import duty of fifteen cents a pound on advertising sections of American magazines. If such a duty were levied, Mr. Hocken claimed, the Saturday evening Post would pay $7,000 on a single issue. In the case of American magazines carrying little or no advertising, Mr. Hocken suggested a tax of ten cents a pound on the weight of the whole magazine.

Points taken during the debate, in support of the Hocken resolution, were that many American magazines were "trashy, anti-British, anti-Canadian," and that featuring opportunities south of the border encouraged emigration from Canada; that the type of story created a pro-American prejudice in the minds of young Canadians. On the other hand, doubt was expressed if Canada could produce National literature either by shutting out the literature of other countries or by cheap paper. The idea, it was urged, should be to try to create a demand for something better than American magazines supplied.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, speaking for the Government, favored the sentiment of the Hocken resolution, but was opposed to the Evans' amendment, as imposing unfair conditions on Canadian paper makers, type-makers and other manufacturers concerned.

HON. MR. MEIGHEN'S VIEWS.
Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Opposition leader, declared he was prepared to vote either for the ten cents a pound duty on American magazines or for fifteen cents a pound on their advertising pages. "The real problem," argued Mr. Meighen, "is whether Canada is to have a real thriving periodical literature."

It was stated by Hon. Arthur Meighen that the magazine writer was more potent today in shaping public opinion than the editorial writer of the daily paper. Furthermore, while Canadian publishers were fighting a losing game in the competition with Americans, the United States was taking away from Canada the best of her literary talents.

A resolution that the Federal Government co-operate with the various provinces with a view to forest conservation against fire and insect pests was adopted by the House of Commons.

TODAY IN PARLIAMENT.
The House of Commons will be in committee of supply of estimates of the Department of Public Works today.

The Senate will sit in the evening.

ALDERMAN GOODHUE RETIRES FROM CITY COUNCIL --- SALE OF FIRE STATION TO SEMINARY

Absence from Town Owing to Business Responsible for Retirement—City to Sell No. 1 Station to St. Charles Seminary for $15,000—Suggested that New Station Be Located on Belvidere Street—Auditorium Only to Be Used for Public Meetings at Which No Fee Is Collected.

PRESSURE of business necessities from town has resulted in Alderman Goodhue's resignation as alderman of the City of Sherbrooke. It is only some two months ago that Mr. Goodhue was elected by acclamation to succeed Mr. J. K. Edwards in the centre ward, but recently he has found that the enlarged demands upon his time for consideration to municipal matters has resulted in a corresponding neglect of his business, and in justice to the electorate he has felt it advisable to retire and allow the position to be held by some one willing and able to devote more of his time to the City's interests.

Alderman Goodhue's resignation was read by His Worship Mayor Morris, at last night's meeting of the City Council, and its acceptance was moved by Alderman A. C. Skinner and seconded by Alderman J. S. Tetreault. Ald. Skinner observed that he had been very surprised to learn of Mr. Goodhue's intention, and added that he, along with several others, had exhausted all the eloquence they possessed in an endeavor to have him reconsider his decision. In view, however, of this determination to resign, Ald. Skinner moved that the resignation be accepted with sincere regrets. In seconding the motion, Ald. Tetreault expressed his appreciation of the services rendered by Mr. Goodhue during the brief period he was associated with his confreres, and held that, under the circumstances, there was no other alternative than to accept his withdrawal from the Council. Arrangements for nomination of a successor were made for March 27th, Tuesday.

New Fire and Police Station.

Apart from Ald. Goodhue's resignation, the important feature of the evening was the discussion of the probable site for a new fire and police station, and the suggestion of maintaining the two services more distinct than in the past. The fire committee, in a joint report with the police committee, recommended the sale of the present No. 1 Fire Station to the St. Charles Seminary for the sum of $15,000. A number of suitable sites were accordingly discussed, but no definite decision was reached although Belvidere Street seemed to appeal to a large number of the aldermen.

There was a full attendance of the Council last night with the exception of Ald. Harold E. Goodhue, who subsequently turned in his resignation. The minutes of the previous meetings, including the official opening, were somewhat lengthy, after which the letters were disposed of. Among those attracting most attention were the following: Letter from Mr. F. N. McCrea, M.P., asking for an itemized statement of the cost of the sidewalk and paving in front of his residence. Letter from the Hotel Dieu, asking to secure the same privileges, as other local hospitals, with regard to exemption from municipal taxes. Letters from the city attorney stating that the Goupil Limited property would be sold by the trustee Beaulieu during the course of the current month.

The finance committee approved of the payment of expenses incurred by Mr. Roque, of the Sherbrooke Jail, who accompanied Rosario Bergevin to the asylum near Quebec. Payment of time involved by the trip was, however, refused.

Gas and Electric Committee.

The report of the Gas and Electric Committee was as follows: Tenders (poles)—Upon request of the manager, authority to call for tender on two carloads of poles was granted.

Power contracts (Manganese and Steel Foundry Co., Ltd.)—Correspondence from the Manganese & Steel Foundry Company, Limited, under date February 16th, re special arrangement of the company for the supply of smelting power only as per terms of previous correspondence and agreement, was submitted by the manager, whereupon instructions were issued to the Department to operate under these terms.

Julius Kayser & Company (lease, Frontenac St. building)—Letter of the Julius Kayser Company, dated February 16th, re renewal of lease on the building at present occupied by them, was read, and instructions issued that the lease be prepared along these lines, and as per previous recommendation of the committee.

Tenders (Gas Oil)—Upon request of the manager, authority to call for tenders on 50,000 gallons of gas oil was granted.

Generator (Gas works) Repair

Capt. J. B. Conroy, of the Imperial War Graves Commission, has returned to Canada after an extensive trip through Palestine.

parts.—Upon request of the manager, authority to purchase repair parts for the gas generators was granted.

Procedure (Purchase of tools, materials, etc.)—Memorandum of the secretary-treasurer, dated February 28th, attached to copy of memorandum of the city engineer, dated February 14th, was read and ordered filed, with instructions that this did not affect the organization of the Gas and Electricity Department, but the foremen and superintendents would be governed by the same instructions of the council with reference to the manager of the Department.

City Utilities.—Letter of Nesbitt, Thomson & Company, Limited, dated February 28th, re purchase of city utilities, was read and discussed, and the manager authorized to prepare a physical inventory of the plants and system in general, and submit the same for further consideration at a future date, with further instructions that the communication be acknowledged, and that Nesbitt, Thomson Company be advised that the matter is under consideration.

Meter Department (Suitable accommodation).—The question of providing suitable accommodation for the Meter Department was raised, and after considerable discussion, was referred to chairman of the City Hall Committee and the manager to arrange.

Accounts (January)—Accounts for the month of January, totalling $3,291.79 were presented for approval and payment.

Ald. Langis, road department, moved that $12,000 be authorized paid to the contractors in connection with the Dufferin Street bridge. This was generally approved of, and it was decided to have the city engineer supervise the work and see that same was in accordance with plans. Ald. Crepeau suggested that the payment of the work be made on receipt of certificates from the city engineer to the effect that the work was satisfactory.

Fire Department.

At a special meeting of the Fire Committee, at which the full council, with the exception of Alderman Goodhue, was present, consideration was given to the request made by Mgr. Tanguay, of the St. Charles Seminary, for the purchase of the No. 1 Fire and Police Station.

It was finally decided to recommend the sale of the said property, covering lots Nos. 136, 137, 141, centre ward, for the sum of $15,000 same to be delivered over to the Seminary on or about May 1st, 1924. The matter is now in the hands of the Finance Committee.

At a subsequent meeting of the committee, held yesterday afternoon, it was recommended that the council purchase lots Nos. 19, 20, 21 and 22, centre ward from M. B. Echenberg and Mrs. Wm. Bell, as a suitable site for the proposed new fire station. The matter was referred to the finance committee for discussion and will be brought before the Council at a later date.

Ald. Langis expressed himself in favor of a property at the corner of Marquette and St. Edouard streets, but several of the other aldermen were more inclined to favor a property on Belvidere street allowing free access to the various sections of the city.

WOULD BE BETTER IF THE GIRLS SMOKED PIPES

People Might Stare a Little, But Girls' Health Would Not Suffer, Says Principal Hutton.

(Associated Press Despatch)
TORONTO, Mar. 6.—"It is their own business and their own funeral if they smoke in public," said Principal Maurice Hutton, when asked his opinion of the "medettes" who consumed the old cigarette at the Med elections recently.

Principal Hutton suggested that it would be much better for the girls to smoke pipes. People might stare a bit, but the girls' health would not suffer.

"They could not smoke cigars," he added, "for the same reason I don't smoke them myself—because they are too expensive."

A GENUINE PIMPLE REMOVER

How Stuart's Calcium Wafers Work Out to the Skin and Clear it of Pimples, Blackheads, Blemishes and Such Blemishes.

The manner in which Stuart's Calcium Wafers influence a beautiful complexion is of nature's own. Their first action is to remove the sour fermentations that are apt to poison the blood and thus disfigure the skin. Then the calcium itself is a natural agency to skin health and is appreciated by the tissues for its own particular use in repair work. These effects are visibly noticeable to those troubled with a pimply skin, or one that is muddy or red or blotchy, scaly and rough and coarse. The Calcium Wafers induce a reaction to healthy tendencies and soon the pinkish complexion begins to assert itself, the blemishes fade away, the dimples seem animated and the entire appearance is one of vivacious beauty instead of untidiness.

Get a 60 cent box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers at the nearest drug store and note the wonderful results. You will surely be delighted.

Realize what Kellogg's Bran means to your family's health?

Eaten regularly each day, Kellogg's Bran will permanently relieve constipation; it will free you from dangerous toxic poisons that lead to 90% of all human illness; it will remove the cause and sweeten a bad breath; it will clear a pimply complexion through its work on the bowels. In fact, Kellogg's Bran, through its natural action as a bulk, indigestible agent, will tune-up the whole system!

If you know exactly what constipation means from a medical viewpoint you would lose no time eating Kellogg's Bran yourself and serving it daily to your family. And, Kellogg's is actually delicious, its nut-like flavor adding greatly to the enjoyment of eating cereals. Eat at least two table-spoonfuls each day; in chronic cases, with each meal.

There are many attractive ways to serve Kellogg's Bran. Eat it in winter with hot milk as a cereal. Or, mix it with cereals before serving. Many housewives cook it with cereals, in each case adding two tablespoonfuls for each person. You will also enjoy the nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran when it has been sprinkled over hot or cold cereals.

You have missed some of the joys of life if you have not eaten raisin bread, muffins, griddle-cakes, etc., made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each box.

Don't delay your fight against constipation; don't lose a minute in the great battle against illness! You can buy Kellogg's Bran from all grocers and you can have it served in individual packages at first-class hotels, restaurants and clubs.

You might as well varnish your skin as have clogged inactive pores.

METHODIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY MET.

The Young People's Society of the Methodist Church met last evening in Wesley Hall, with a fairly good attendance of members. Miss Stellar was in charge of the meeting and every member answered the roll call with a verse from the Scriptures. Miss Farnsworth gave a very interesting paper, taking as her subject, "Ideals." During the evening the Rev. B. B. Brown addressed a few words to the gathering. The evening was concluded by a pleasant social half-hour.

CUSTOMS RETURNS FOR PORT OF SHERBROOKE.

The customs excise revenues collected through the Port of Sherbrooke for the month of February show a slightly lower total than the figures for January. The total amount of revenue was $103,89.61 for the month just ended as compared with $107,089.30 for the preceding month. The total revenue this month was made up of import duties of $34,178.40; excise taxes, $67,584.89; excise duty, $1,758.01; sundry collections, $368.15.

RUMOR HAD EAST SHERBROOKE SCHOOL ON FIRE.

Considerable excitement was stirred up this morning when a report was circulated that the East Sherbrooke School was on fire. The rumor was given further impetus when it was learned that the fire apparatus had departed post haste for the eastern part of the city. Inquiry, however, elicited the information that the rumor was unfounded and that the blaze which had been reported was only a small chimney fire, which did no damage.

SUGAR-ON-SNOW FOR LAST SNOWSHOE MEETING.

Tomorrow night will be the final get-together of the Sherbrooke Snowshoe Club, and the occasion will be marked by a special event when sugar-on-snow will be served. Conditions are still ideal for snowshoeing and it is hoped that there will be a large turnout for the last run of the season. The club has extended an invitation to all candidates who have their applications in for membership to visit the clubhouse on this occasion. Should the weather become unfavorable for snowshoeing, a notice to that effect will appear in the press.

COL. WORTHINGTON ADDRESS-ED ST. ANDREW'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

St. Andrew's Young People's Society met last evening with the president, Mr. Charles Rose, presiding, and about seventy young people present.

After the opening devotional exercises, Col. E. B. Worthington was called upon to give an address. The speaker began his address by complimenting the Society for its good attendance, its splendid spirit de corps and the fact that young people were being trained for future leadership in the church. Col. Worthington's address was largely based upon experiences through which he had passed in the World War. He spoke of the rigid economy which was practiced by the military and civil populations in Great Britain and in France. He emphasized the spirit of cheerfulness which characterized the soldiers under depressing conditions, and the spirit of true comradeship amongst the men at the front.

Col. Worthington, in bringing his address to a close, quoted from memory some of the great poems which were created by the ideals for which the Allies were fighting. He urged the young people to memorize great passages of scripture, and also selections from the great British poets.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Col. Worthington for his inspirational address, moved by Mr. Robert Robertson and seconded by Miss M. Miltimore. The Rev. Alfred Bright

E. T. BOARDS ANNUAL TODAY IN SHERBROOKE

Report Presented This Afternoon Refers to Completion of Eleventh Year of Organization—With Rotary Club Tonight.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Townships Associated Boards of Trade opened in the Art Hall, this afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Delegates arrive in the city at noon from various parts of the Townships.

This evening at 6.30 o'clock the delegates will join the Rotary Club at dinner at the Magog House.

E. T. BOARDS COMPLETE ELEVENTH YEAR.

The retiring president, V. E. Morrill, in opening the meeting said: "The first annual meeting of the Eastern Townships Associated Boards of Trade was held on March 19th, 1912. This organization is, therefore, just completing its eleventh year. I believe it has served and will continue to serve a good purpose in these Southern Quebec Counties. Problems of concern to this territory are taken up and business men of widely separated communities are brought together in consultation, becoming acquainted with each other, and discussing questions of mutual interest.

"Every community in the Eastern Townships should be actively identified with this organization, both in its own interests and in the wider interests of this whole territory.

Referring to the meetings of the past year he said:

"The meetings of the past year have been well attended and in some respects of exceptional interest.

"The Knowlton meeting on June 30th, was marked by interesting addresses by Hon. Jas. A. Robb, Minister of Roads; Hon. J. Nicol, Provincial Treasurer; Senator Foster and A. R. McMaster, M.P., and by the presentation of special topics as follows: Fire Insurance, by L. M. Thomas; Parent Teachers Association, by A. S. McCaw.

"Questions associated with Railway and Mail services were discussed, and resolutions bearing upon good roads, and Telephone service adopted. The Associated Boards joining in the efforts to bring about the restoration of the daily train service between Bedford and Freilighsburg, which was subsequently agreed to by the Railway Company.

"The Bury meeting on October 3rd, was marked by the presence of the Hon. J. L. Perron, Minister of Roads, and a very lucid and definite statement by him regarding the trunk line highways of the Townships and the progress of construction.

Questions relative to B. & M. summer train service, Advertising Quebec, Stamp Tax, Repatriation and Immigration, Observance of Motor regulations, etc., were discussed. The addresses of Dr. John Hayes and Inspector Hunter proved of great interest.

The annual review continues: "The three meetings-a year plan has worked well. With the annual meeting in Sherbrooke and the other meetings in outside towns, one in St. Francis and one in Bedford-District, the organization comes into touch with the people of both these districts.

The situation with regard to Arthabaska district, which a number of individual boards have been organized is not quite so satisfactory, as we have been able to hold but one meeting in that section. I have sometimes wondered if it would not be feasible to hold another meeting annually, this to be at some point in Arthabaska district, to be organized by officers of the Eastern Townships Boards residing in that district and of course attended by as many delegates as possible from other districts. This would be along the line of development. Many of our individual Boards have found it difficult to maintain their activity. It is pleasing to note, however, that in most cases they have retained a connection with the Eastern Townships Boards either as a board or through individual membership, which is provided for in our By-Laws.

"I would like to urge upon the leading citizens of all our Eastern Townships communities to identify themselves with this Eastern Townships organization. Its success and its achievements will always be measured by the extent to which it represents these Southern Quebec Communities. It is therefore important that every town and village should have a place in its organization and as far as possible, a voice in its periodical conventions.

"My best thanks are extended to you all for co-operation received."

also spoke appreciatively of the Colonel's kindness and readiness to assist at all times in any good work.

During the evening Mrs. George Ogston and Mr. Conrad Jamieson sang vocal solos and responded generously to encores. Miss Elva Cawwell gave a splendid piano solo, and presided at the piano during the evening.

PLEADS FOR INTERCHANGE OF COLLEGE PROFESSORS

Considers Quebec, Nova Scotia and British Columbia Most Liberal Minded of All Canadian Provinces.

(Associated Press Despatch.)

MONTREAL, March 6.—Dr. Gordon J. Laing, Dean of the Faculty of Arts at McGill University, speaking here yesterday, pleaded for interchange of professors between Canadian Universities, with a view to the creation of a wider spirit of Canadianism and to the dissipation of local provincialism. THE BAPTIST CHURCH HELD ANNIVERSARY Congregation and Friends Enjoyed Excellent Supper and Fine Entertainment Last Evening.

Last evening the congregation of the Baptist Church with invited friends, among whom were Rev. Dr. Read, pastor of Plymouth Church, Rev. H. R. Bigg, rector of St. Peter's, and Rev. Mr. Penman, Baptist minister at Waterville. The church who saw that every one was made acquainted and pleasantly entertained. The tables, forming a hollow square, were prettily decorated with tall vases of daffodils, hyacinths and tulips and set with a "noble spread." The menu reflected credit upon the Ladies' Aid, and the guests, numbering nearly two hundred, showed their appreciation in the proper way. Instead of a "dinner" supper, at the close of the meal a collection was taken up for the building fund and the amount received was most gratifying to all. While the tables were arranged for the second sitting, and cleared away, the guests joined in pleasant social intercourse, many taking the opportunity to inspect the plans of the new building, which will be commenced in the early spring. The plans show that the new part will be built facing Portland Avenue, and attached to the present building, the former to be the main body of the church. A basement under the entire building will afford space for the Sunday School, and other rooms needed to carry on the various lines of congregational work.

The new church has been very dear to the hearts of the members of the Baptist Church, and the realization that the project is an assured fact added to the happy spirit of the anniversary services Sunday and the social function last evening.

The after-supper programme was opened with the singing of the hymn, "Blest be the Tie that Binds," and a prayer by Mr. Hunter. Mr. Burton sang "The Lost Chord" in a pleasing way, after which the pastor, acting as chairman, spoke briefly, extending the regret of Rev. Mr. Brown, pastor of the Methodist Church, who was unable to be present, and called upon the visiting clergy to address the audience.

Rev. Dr. Read expressed his pleasure at being able to join in this anniversary event, which he said was an important one in the history of the church in Sherbrooke. He laid stress upon the point that the business of a church was one of its important factors, and referred to the similarity between the church he represented and the Baptist, as to placing certain responsibilities upon the congregation.

He said: "I believe in Apostolic guidance; that the Holy Spirit guides us in our service of worship, and in our business as well if we call upon Him to guide us." He also referred to the fact that there was a kinship between the two churches because both were built upon a rocky ledge and touched somewhat humorously upon the fact that the builders had placed the edifices upon these ledges with little thought to the future building activities. (The blasting of the ledge under the Baptist Church will be one of the difficult undertakings.)

The speaker also referred to the kinship in the way of the worn carpet, which is generally considered a good sign as to attendance at church. In closing he said that a church built upon a rock was typical of the spiritual meaning of the phrase, and added, "My prayer is that you will be blest in your work."

Rev. Mr. Bray also expressed his pleasure at being present for the happy occasion; he congratulated the ladies for the excellence of the repast, and the congregation upon the project in mind, the new edifice.

Touching humorously upon the kinship of his church also, in regard to the worn carpet, also the design, Mr. Bigg then spoke earnestly about the growth of a spirit of union between the churches. He said: "We are learning better than to quarrel over our ideas of theology; we are learning that there is no such thing as absolute similarity in nature and none in the matter of Christian grace," and expressed his regret that such a thing as bringing the "rouge-bleu" of politics into the church life should be done.

"Some day we Christian people will have grown up enough to do the job given us without bringing all the little personalities into it," he added, "and between us all the church work will be cultivated in the spirit of unity." He extended his best wishes to the pastor and his congregation upon the anniversary and the new project in hand.

Following the speakers, several entertaining numbers were given, among them being a violin solo by Mr. Butterworth, accompanied by Mr. John Blackburn; a whistling solo by Mr. Burton; cello solo by Mr. Elwood Hunter, accompanied by Miss Helen McCaw; a vocal solo by Mrs. Smith; vocal trio by Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Salter and Mr. Burton; a male quartette; readings by Miss Leman, Mr. J. H. Hunter and Mr. Elwood Hunter; a brief address by Rev. Mr. Penman; a few words from Mr. Hunter, and the entertainment closing with the singing of the Doxology. Mrs. Salter, organist of the church, presided at the piano during the evening, and all the ladies worked untiringly in making the evening enjoyable. The gentlemen were not behind in their part of the work and social spirit, and the generous donation of flowers from Milford's was much appreciated. The evening, in every way was a great

Young People's Corner

Uncle Jim's Letter

Dear Corner Children:—

I am sure the letters from our faraway corner folk will be enjoyed this evening. Milton tells us that the first robin, in their part of the country, was seen on February 3rd. I hope it will not get frozen.

Helen has surely written an interesting letter, and we hope she will find time to write to us again. That is the kind of letters we want for the corner, nice newsy ones. We learn by her letter that there is quite a difference in the animals, but in all places there is the same trouble over the mischief-makers and wrong doers. Gophers are something like our rats, only larger and they do much damage in the grain country, which of course is the country they like best. I would like to visit the old Indian village, Helen, such places are very interesting.

We welcome Dorothy from away down in Megantic County, and are glad to know that she is also an interested friend of the birds and animals.

I received a few lines from Mary Williams, Frost Village; Edythe Stokes, Bury, who says she is learning to ski; Mary MacIver, Echo Vale, who has among other pets, two lambs; George Hallam, Eastman, who says he has been the cook at home for a while because of illness in the family; Roderick Green, Lennoxville, who with many others has sent in the colored picture. There are several more letters waiting to be opened and a large bundle of colored pictures, which will be judged this week.

Now please do not think that the picture in Saturday's corner is for the contest. It is for you to color whenever you wish, and to keep or give to some one.

Today, March 6th, is the first anniversary of the Bird Protection Club. Last March 6th, Uncle Jim introduced the club to the corner folk by having the pledge appear in the corner, so it is the first birthday anniversary of the B. P. C. Since last March 6th one thousand boys and girls have received the little gold bird pin, and there are about fifty names that have been added to the membership list since the pins were all sent out.

People have said that there were more birds seen this winter in the colder places, and I have wondered if the birds have, in some way, learned that they have more friends now. This summer will help to prove whether the club has done anything for them, and I think that every boy and girl who signed the pledge will be better for so doing. In my letter last March 6th, I said, "I want our Corner to be an educational one, as well as a friendly one," and I repeat the words today, hoping that the corner folk will each and all help to make it so.

Yours faithfully,

UNCLE JIM.

LETTERS FROM THE CORNER FOLK.

Dear Uncle Jim:

I received my pin some time ago and think it is very nice. I thank you for it and also for your letter. The first robin was seen in Acton on February 3rd., and the pussy-willows are beginning to come out. They are both good signs of spring are they not? For pets we have a dog we call Collie and six rabbits; also several pigeons. With love, your nephew, squirrels and are brown; they do not have bushy tails. They live in holes in the ground and they eat our grain. We catch them in snares, in traps, and the dog catches them. His name is Capor, and he is black with a white vest. The municipality gives three cents for every gopher we catch. We have coyotes instead of foxes. They are about the same size, and are light brown. They eat chickens and all kinds of meats. The badger is grey with white stripes down the nose. A family of them lived near our house two years ago. There are still many traces of the buffalo that roamed the prairie by millions. The trails in some places

WOMEN'S REALM

(By Sylvie West)

THE WALES HOME AUXILIARIES

This month the annual meeting of the Wales Home Auxiliary of this city will be held, and it will be one of the mile-stones in the annals of work done by women for the Old People's Home at Richmond since its erection in 1921.

It is interesting to note that at the present time there are seventeen auxiliaries in the Townships, all of which work in close touch with the central auxiliary, that of Richmond and Melbourn. In addition to the auxiliaries there are several circles and groups in places too small to organize an auxiliary which have proved of great assistance in the work of furnishing the Home and providing the many "little extras," something that has made the Home wonderfully attractive and homelike.

The central auxiliary was organized in 1921, and its work, as well as the other sixteen, has been to furnish the home, and provide the needs as asked for. Several rooms and three and four bed dormitories have been furnished by the auxiliaries, and others by Rebekah Lodges, Ladies' Aids, Women's Institutes, Girl Guides, and the matron's room by the Eastern Townships Nurses' Association. Others have been furnished by individuals and various societies, the whole making a worthy donation to the Home.

Twenty-four ladies are appointed to visit the Home, two each month, and report. They are to see that everything necessary is provided, if the matron has any suggestions, or if needs of the inmates are overlooked.

The management has been fortunate in obtaining the services of Miss Shaw, a trained nurse and capable woman, as matron. She joins with the women interested in its welfare, in making the institution a home for the aged people. A pleasant feature of the home life is the Story Hour, as the evening hour between seven and eight o'clock has been named. The matron has the inmates gather in the living room around the fireplace and then reads to them. A lady officer writing about it, says that the books best liked are Livingstone's, and that the aged people do not like to miss even one "story hour."

Visitors have remarked upon the homelike appearance of the Home, the happy contentment of the inmates, and the evident appreciation for the little "treats" often sent in. Friends join in the service on Sunday, which is conducted by one of the four local clergymen, and many personal touches are added to the work carried on by the women who have earned the gratitude of the management for their devotion to the cause.

throughout the city is under consideration, and it has been suggested that not only the North Ward fire station be done away with, but that the No. 3 fire station near the Grand Trunk station be reserved for the police department alone. It is suggested that modern fire equipment be installed in the stations in the Centre Ward, and in the East Ward, thus affording prompt service to all sections of the city.

City Hall Committee.

Approval was given to an agreement between the city and Messrs. McCaw-Bissell Furniture Company for the renting of the old city offices until May 1st next at the rate of $100 in addition to making certain repairs estimated at $118. The premises have been leased by the McCaw-Bissell Company from May 1st next, but extra seven weeks, under the present agreement, will enable them to settle down immediately.

It was decided that the caretaker at the City Hall would have charge of the elevator between the hours of six p.m. and six a.m., as well as on Sundays and whenever the regular operator was unavoidably absent.

The question of renting the auditorium for dances and card parties resulted in a frank and careful discussion of the whole matter, and it was finally decided that inasmuch as the city did not intend to enter into competition with those who were paying taxes for this very purpose, the auditorium would be loaned only for public meetings at which no admission was charged.

CHICAGO, Mar. 6.—A bandit was captured yesterday who with a companion held up the offices of K. Massover Company, manufacturing jeweller and fled with diamonds valued at between fifty and seventy thousand dollars. His companion escaped presumably with the loot.

1. Winthrop Asphalt Tapered Slates are the big butt Asphalt Slates. They are the only Asphalt Slates that give a shadow line, which so improves the appearance of a roof—something architects have long wanted in Asphalt Slates.

2. They are scientifically constructed. They are tapered. Being thicker at one end, the butt of the overlapping slate lies flat on the upper part of the slate in the row below. No rain or snow can accumulate underneath—wind cannot get under them and blow them off.

3. A glance at the illustration will show another very decided advantage of the taper—great wear resistance. Being tapered, extra thickness and weight are distributed where extra thickness and weight are needed—in the butt, the part exposed to the weather.

RADIO AND CHURCH ATTENDANCE

And now people have another excuse for not attending church—the radio. Sermons are being broadcast from the big city churches and it is said the effect is detrimental to church attendance in smaller places.

The New York Tribune comments on this:

"It is not surprising that many voices are being raised in protest against the dangers of religion by radio. The local clergyman complains that it is almost impossible for him to compete with a distinguished metropolitan divine whose service is broadcast. Certain it is that many radio owners give as an excuse for their non-attendance at church the fact that they were listening to the Rev. Dr. So-and-so in New York. Undoubtedly there are instances when the clergyman to whom the altar is given is tempted to ask whether after a few paragraphs of the New York divine's sermon the dial won't be changed to XWIG to listen to a little light music and that soon thereafter the current was turned off and the family returned to the morning papers.

"But isn't radio religion a passing fad? It is, of course, interesting to be able to overhear a New York church service when you are several hundred miles away. So also it is a privilege occasionally to be able to hear preachers of national distinction and renown. It is not every Sunday, however, that such men conduct wireless services, and when the novelty of hearing a sermon by radio has worn off the lure of the distant preacher will not be so great. Radio religion, after all, can appeal only to the ear. To those who are religiously inclined, this appeal soon will prove insufficient. There is often more religion in the atmosphere of a fine church than in any service therein given. This spirit is intangible. It cannot be transmitted by mere words. A radio service may stimulate the intellect, but it cannot satisfy the religious craving.

"Herein lies the safety of the small church. For a while some of its members may be weaned away, but those to whom religion is more than a duty soon will return. The others will not long continue the practice of spending a Sunday morning listening to a preacher even by radio. Such persons always have been a sore trial to sincere churchmen, and will continue so to be, despite radio."

IMPROVING TRADE

An optimistic trade review is issued by the First National Bank of Boston which says in its New England letter:

"Business in the United States—recognized as good for some months—continues to expand and is rapidly approaching the physical limits of production set by the available labor supply. Shortage of labor is widely reported and is reflected in the renewed agitation for liberalizing our immigration laws. Although 1922 financial reports indicated small margins of net profits, the closing months were much better and the present year starts out well in that respect. Meanwhile production is on a vast scale, and this very activity is pushing into the background the opinion, formerly prevalent, that this country could have no prosperity until the European situation had been cleared up."

Business cannot be good across the line without being good on this side. A general improvement in industrial conditions is noted throughout the country. While 1923 is not under way as a boom year it is expected to be a better year than 1922.

The Swings of Bangkok.

Christian missionaries used to be greatly alarmed over the fantastic swinging rites in which priests of India and Siam engaged during their lengthy series of festivals to welcome spring. It formerly was the custom for the votaries to impale themselves on hooks, and then, with the iron snagged into their backs, to swing in a circle on a device somewhat akin to the circular swings of American pleasure parks.

This painful practice has largely been eliminated, but in Bangkok, the capital of Siam, a modification of the swinging may be seen today. Great pillars rise sixty feet in the air before the group of three temples. Two long planks are placed across the top of each pillar, at right angles to each other, and the priests take their places on these boards.

Then, helpers below, holding ropes, begin to whirl the swings, and soon they are going at top speed, while the priests grasp at moneybags which are hung over them.

The rite finished, they engage in a folk dance, witnessed by thousands of persons. Each priest carries a buffalo horn filled with water, and he sprinkles the other as he dances. This is a spring rite, the whirling of the swings symbolizing the earth's rotation.

PRESS COMMENT

CLASS AGAINST CLASS.

(The Australian.)

Labor is not now even a democratic party in the sense that Democracy seeks to establish the rule of the people. The unknown god that it ignorantly worships is the god of greed and selfishness. It does not aim at the elevation of the classes, but at the suppression of one class by another.

AS AN INVESTMENT.

(Christian Science Monitor.)

Some mathematicians have figured that if the $15,000,000, which is the estimated value of the treasures found in Tutankhamen's tomb, had been put out at 6 per cent compound interest, it would now be worth a sum with more than eighty ciphers. In this day of Russian rubles and German marks, however, such a number does not appeal as so inordinately large.

THE DRUG EVIL.

(Toronto Globe.)

It is evident that Dr. Beland is making no mistake in deporting whenever possible, Chinese drug traders who fall into the hands of the authorities. They are responsible for by far the greater part of the narcotics introduced into Canada and for the demoralization not only of the Chinese population but of many white victims who turn to the opium dens of the large cities for the drugs they are unable to obtain through legitimate trade channels.

SUGAR SPECULATORS.

(Halifax Chronicle.)

The speculative movement in sugar continues with the resultant effect that the price of this staple commodity is being forced up by leaps and bounds. All this has been done on the plea that there is a shortage of sugar, when the facts are absolutely to the contrary. The experience of the last attempt to manipulate the sugar market, which proved so disastrous to those who were engaged in it, and demonstrated the falsity of the claim as to the shortage, should have taught the speculators as it taught the public a lesson.

"BROADCASTED."

(Providence Journal.)

In no less a journal than the London Spectator appears the verb "broadcasted." Will not Mr. Strachey issue an order forbidding such an illogical practice?

There is no more reason for using "broadcasted" than there is for saying "casted" and "forecasted." Long before the radio came into existence, the verb "to broadcast" was in good and regular standing. Its meaning, of course, was and still is "to disseminate widely."

We do not say: "He casted a stone at me," or "The Weather Bureau forecasted a storm yesterday." And there is no justification for tacking on a superfluous "ed" in the case of broadcast—or if there is, what is it?

NOT A LAW FOR THE POOR ONLY.

(Hartford Times.)

The penalizing of the socially prominent La Montagnes will remove the unfortunate impression so generally held, that prohibition is a law for the meek and lowly and that the rich and powerful may disregard it at their pleasure. We have accepted prohibition as a national policy, and it would be the beginning of the end of our democratic system if we should allow the impression to persist that prohibition was class legislation. It has been said that prohibitionists did not dare enforce prohibition upon the upper classes for fear such enforcement would result in the repeal of the whole business. The fate of the La Montagnes shows that the experiment is to be tried at whatever price either to the reputation of "nice people" or to prohibition itself.

WONDERFUL JOHN BULL.

(Toronto Mail and Empire.)

Burdened down as he is by the war debt, and taxed on that account as is no other of the Powers, John Bull still muddles through. His leading bankers are not announcing the dawn of a new era of prosperity, but are giving advice to avoid hasty deflation, to keep down expenditure, to go on paying without incurring deficits or borrowing money, to hasten the return of a free gold market, etc. They point to the rapid rise of the pound sterling on the exchanges, and express regret that when trade conditions were mending France they should see fit to follow a course not approved by her allies. They are by no means despondent. They simply comment in the cautious British way. As we have said, the pound sterling is fast making its way to its old par value in American money. Britain is ready to carry out the scheme for funding her huge war debt to the United States. Who ever expected that so short a time after the war, loaded with debt on account of that war, fearfully handicapped by the ruined and now freshly disturbed currency systems of the Continent, Britain would again be furnishing capital for other countries?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

DR. GRANT'S VIEWS.

Editor of Record—
Sir—I read with interest that article in the paper stating Dr. Grant's views in regard to the need of a new religion. I should say rather, that I started to read with horror, but as I read on and found who he claims for his audience, one might say, "Why! what could you expect an educated intelligent age to know about real religion?" I can easily believe that the degenerate sons of God have a soul, but I can't imagine any species of monkey having any soul at all. What a blessing real religion is to the human family; but oh how few find it, and when the light becomes darkness how great is that darkness. May God have mercy on Dr. Grant and pity on his congregation.

SENATOR GLASS MADE ELOQUENT SPEECH ON DEBT

Frank Admissions Made by Leading United States Senator.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(By Canadian Press).—Credit for the comparatively smooth passage of the British debt refunding legislation through the Senate is being given to Senator Glass, of Virginia, whose vigorous attack upon the opponents of the bill and clear-cut, logical arguments in its favor are thought to have swayed the opinions of many of his fellow members.

Declaring himself among those who thought "the indebtedness of the United States to Great Britain is quite as great as Great Britain's indebtedness to the United States," Senator Glass delivered what is declared to have been the most eloquent address heard in the Senate in years. He held the attention of the Senate for twenty minutes on the final day of the debate. Under the rules which had been adopted each senator was allowed only ten minutes in which to speak, but so forceful and eloquent were the Virginia Senator's remarks, he was allowed a second ten-minute period by consent of the house. When he sat down the majority of his associates on both sides of the chamber paid him the unusual tribute of leaving their seats and personally congratulating him.

The speech of Senator Glass is still being discussed in Washington as one of the outstanding features of the debt refunding negotiations. It was both thrilling and scholarly, lacking nothing in rhetorical excellence or fervid sincerity. Incidentally, it was a very severe arraignment of those senators who during the debate had indulged in the once popular, but now very unpopular, practice of twisting the lion's tale. The general view here is that his denunciation of those opponents of the bill cleared the atmosphere and discouraged further resistance.

Mr. Glass said in part: "Mr. President, it is my purpose to vote for this adjustment of Great Britain's indebtedness to the United States primarily because I am one of those who think that the indebtedness of the United States to Great Britain is quite as great as Great Britain's indebtedness to the United States."

"Secondarily, I propose to vote for the adjustment because I believe it is a sound economic composition of this business arrangement and I shall briefly discuss these two aspects of the case, taking the last proposition first. Great Britain has not sought to compromise her indebtedness to the United States. No responsible statesman in Great Britain has ever suggested for her own advantage the making of any settlement whatsoever of the indebtedness of Great Britain to the United States. The British Premier on one occasion did suggest that Great Britain would be willing to forgive the indebtedness of the nations which were indebted to her provided the United States would consider an adjustment of Great Britain's indebtedness to this country. But an arrangement of that sort would never have been of advantage to Great Britain. She would have lost billions of dollars by the arrangement."

"Every dollar of the ten billion dollars was expended in our own country among our own people for the war, and supplies which they furnished to Great Britain, sold at profiteering prices three years before we entered into the war, sold at profiteering prices after we entered the war. But it is said we may not properly take into consideration the great era of prosperity in America that the expenditure of the ten billions of dollars brought about. It is said that some of America's manufacturers made money and that American business people made money out of the transaction. Of what moment is that to the Congress of the United States in the adjustment of a question like this? Would it have an intimate bearing upon the economics of the transaction?"

"Let me call the attention of the Senate to one fact which has not been mentioned in the discussion, and that is that the Government of the United States itself derived a taxable income for the two years that we were in the war of $4,143,000,000 in taxes. This Government two years of the war derived in taxes on excess profits on war profits $4,143,000,000, amounting in the aggregate to almost the total principal indebtedness of Great Britain to the United States. Is not that a question of economics?"

"And then, Mr. President, it has been said, and perhaps too greatly accentuated and exaggerated, that this Government was in no state of preparedness when it went into the war, when it assumed a part of the burden of that cause for which Great Britain struggled three years before we took our place beside her. We were not prepared. In the course of time, Mr. President, we transported across the seas 2,000,000 of American boys, not one of whom suffered death upon the water. Let us suppose that Great Britain's fleet had not held the German fleet behind Helgoland, cowardly and afraid to come out. Let us suppose that by failure to loan the $10,000,000,000 the German fleet had come out, what would have become of the story? Instead of transporting 2,000,000 of our troops without the loss of a man, hundreds of thousands of them would have found a grave at the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean and been food for the sharks and monsters of the sea."

"Oh, it is set in reply that had we not made the loan, had we not gone to the rescue, what would have become of Great Britain? The same thing would have become of her as later on would have become of us. She and we would have been the prey of an autocratic barbarian power. That is what would have become of her and that is what would have become of us. "Mr. President, I do not concede that there are no sentimental aspects of the question. I think there are. I think it is ungracious in a great American legislative body to forget some things that have happened in recent years. It seems, however, we may forget England's little contemptible force, 100,000 strong, which in a very exigent moment held back the horde that was threatening the civilization of the earth until ultimately nearly every man of them perished and went to his reward. To forget an incident like that, Mr. President, and turn to cavilling over the fact that Great Britain took into prize courts schooners laden with gun cotton for the Kaiser's army seems to me unseemly in the Senate of the United States in adjusting a matter of this moment."

IT'S WHITE

"As I can see, Mr. President, it is an affront to the high spirit of American womanhood that we should shut out the sublime vision of Edith Cavell that we might turn and taunt Great Britain with having taken some oil from the unspeakable Turk, the butcherer of a million helpless women and children, because they were followers of Jesus Christ. I am willing to risk my salvation in eternity for the moment to say I only regret that Great Britain did not do the service to civilization of driving every one of those unspeakable creatures into the unmeasured depths of the Mediterranean Sea."

"I could wish it had been 'the privilege of every American citizen, as it was mine, to stand on the battlements of Ypres and behold that shattered little village, not worth the life, perhaps, of one heroic Britisher, except as a symbol of human liberty, and follow there the trail of butchery and blood as it led to the heights from which the German hordes could see the waters of the British Channel and felicitate themselves upon an early triumph over the forces of righteousness and then to turn from a scene like that, where lives were cheerfully given for the cause, which was our cause so belatedly, and congratulate ourselves that we did not make a profit out of loaning our Allies a few silver dollars and bring back India from the verge of financial collapse, and perhaps of revolution, and thereby cut off the train of supplies for all the Eastern armies of the men with whom we were fighting the war."

"Oh, we won the war. Yes, Great Britain said so; France at one time said so, and ever since we have delighted to think so; but yet there are resting beneath the sod today one and a half million of British boys and quite as many of the French, not to speak of the Italians and the Belgians."

"Our contribution was money and theirs was lives—denominated in the bonds, as the phrase runs, in Shylocks. Mr. President, under that contract there would be no drop of blood in penalty of capital punishment, but in this case, my God, the blood flowed before the bond was made and after the bond was made."

MAKING FAIR PROGRESS WITH DISABLED VESSEL

Government Steamer Stanley Is Eighty Miles South of St. Pierre.

(Associated Press Despatch)
HALIFAX, N. S., Mar. 6.—The Canadian Government Steamer Stanley is making fair progress with her charge, the disabled Pro Patria, which she is towing to St. Pierre, according to a message received this morning by C. H. Harvey, agent for the Marine and Fisheries Department from Captain Rhude. The message was timed four p. m. yesterday and said the Stanley was in latitude 45.29 north, longitude 55.52 west, in heavy ice with some open water and making "fair progress." It is estimated that the position of the Stanley at that time was eighty miles south of St. Pierre.

ONE MAN SHOT DURING THE COURSE OF A RIOT

Meeting to Raise Funds to Carry on Legal Fight to Free Two Men Convicted of Murder Was Broken Up.

LAWRENCE, MASS., Mar. 6.—A riot, during which one man was shot, broke out at a meeting here last night to raise funds to carry on the legal fight to free Nicola Sacco and Bartholomew Vanzetti, convicted at Dedham of first degree murder on July 14, 1921, for the killing of a paymaster and guard in South Braintree, in April 1920.

Sebastiano Tortora, of this city, was struck in the back by a bullet when a number of shots were fired, and many of the two hundred spectators participated in the free-for-all fight. The trouble started after a number of persons voiced protest at an alleged attack on the government in a speech by Antonio Presi, of New York. No arrests were made.

WINTER SPORTS IN CANADA ARE TIME-HONORED

Since Lord Lisgar's Time, Snowshoeing, Skiing and Other Winter Sports Have Steadily Grown in Favor.

With the advent of March winter sports became a little uncertain this month, as a rule, cannot be depended upon as to fine weather, but the uncertainty is tempered by the anticipation of spring.

The winter of 1922-23 will do down on the calendar of sports, as well as on the calendar of weather, as "unique," no January or February thaws and "much of snow," as the French-Canadian expresses it. The result of such weather could be none other than a long period of outdoor activities, in which men and women, boys and girls, and in many instances, tiny tots, have taken part. Skiing has increased with leaps and bounds (and jumps) and the hills that surround the city of Sherbrooke have been fully occupied by the untiring forces, days and evenings, week-days and Sundays, since early December.

As an evidence of the growth of skiing, it is stated that one Canadian firm sold over seven thousand pairs of skis in 1921, and without doubt the number sold in Canada this winter would be represented in five figures. Regarding the popular sport, it is interesting to note that Lord Frederick Hamilton, brother of Lady Lansdowne, makes mention in his book, "The Vanished Poms of Yesterday," that he was the first one to use a pair of skis in Canada, having brought them to this country. It is also stated that he descended the toboggan slide at Rideau Hall on them, and that the queer-looking "runners" were much scorned at that time.

Skating has been popular this season and Sherbrooke may be accredited with having some good skaters and hockey players. Figure skating has been one of the fashionable pastimes in Ottawa this winter, and in the resumption of winter sports at the Capital is to be found a repetition of the events of early days with an added touch of modernism. The Minto Skating Club, founded by Lady Minto, has been active this winter, as it always has been; and it will be remembered that Lady Rachel Cavendish was one of Canada's best skaters; also that she became proficient in the art during her stay at the Capital. The last year she was in Canada she won the ladies' championship of the Minto Club, and before leaving she donated a silver cup to the club as a prize for the best waltzer. One who knows says: "Anything more entrancing than the skating at Minto Club cannot be imagined—it is ballet dancing on skates." Special attention has always been paid to the children at the Minto Skating Club, hours being set aside for them to practice, and the "pros" give them lessons also, it is stated.

To go back fifty-five years it can be said that since Federation Rideau Hall has radiated enthusiasm in outdoor sports, and its social events have counterbalanced the more serious side of life. These have made the Capital the centre of Canadian fashion and gaiety, and have done much, during the more than half century, to stimulate outdoor winter sports.

Sports in the Early Sixties. In Lord Lisgar's time, in the early sixties, tobogganing down a hillside proved satisfying as an outdoor recreation. In a photograph reproduction of a Rideau Hall group of tobogganers of this period, in which Prince Arthur, now Duke of Connaught, appears, the plain attire, particularly of the ladies, is noticeable. The men look somewhat like Russians in their heavy greatcoats and fur caps, and with beards; while the ladies are seen wearing long, dark, severely-cut coats, turbans with white wool scarfs wrapped around head and throat in much the same way as the 1923 baby's scarf is put on.

Some fifty years ago, between 1866 and 1870, a part of the 100th Regiment and the Prince Consort's Own Rifles, under Lord Alexander Russell, were stationed in Ottawa, and while there the officers trained their men in winter to march on snowshoes, the snow-covered ice of the Ottawa River being the chosen training ground. This led to the organization of clubs, and the cosy blanket coat of the Habitant was adopted for a costume. The vogue for snowshoeing led to a grand carnival, and an ice castle was constructed at Napau Point, where the statue of Champlain now stands. Storming the castle, fireworks, narades and snowshoe races were among the events that turned the Capital into the winter fairland, and history says that Parliament Hill swarmed with spectators from all over the continent. This carnival marked the highest degree of popularity that snowshoeing ever attained; from that time tobogganing began to take its place.

Enter the Toboggan Slide.

The fashion for tobogganing was set by Lord and Lady Dufferin, while curling and skating was also popular at the capital. Lady Dufferin tells, in her diary, of skaters having a hurdle race, and feats of similar skill. In their time wooden structures were built up after the style of the Russian slides, and the example was followed all over Canada. The new slide is most exciting, Lady Dufferin put down in her diary, and it is recorded that men and women became infatuated with the exhilarating sport, and with the addition of bright-hued blanket coats, tuques and scarfs of contrasting colors, provided the "picturesque Canada" in the way of winter sports. Color and gaiety was added to the outdoor life, men, women and children adopting the blanket coats and resulting in the people of the Old Country identifying Canadians with the costume in the same way as the Eskimo in his furs, and Turk with his fez. To snowshoeing, however, must be accorded the honor of having made the blanket costume popular, and though the fashion has decreed that skiers shall wear the "breaks," there never will be anything rarer or more comely than the old "toes" of the early heroes of the snowshoe.

When the Lornes arrived in Canada, the Princess, an accomplished skater, had an outdoor rink built at Rideau. This was surrounded by evergreen trees, and there was a little house built for the comfort of the skaters. This custom had been followed in many places since that time, which was the inauguration of the outdoor rink, one of the great blessings to Canadian children.

The Lansdownes, who came to Canada in 1883, kept up the traditions of sport, but in a quiet way. Lady Minto was a graceful skater and did much towards increasing the interest in outdoor life during her stay, also making skating on the Ottawa River a popular winter pastime. Lord Minto was an all-round sportsman, and it is said he often used a sail when skating.

During the time of Earl Grey, the Duke of Connaught and the Duke of Devonshire the usual sports have been continued, and this winter has been marked by figure skating, long trips on skis into the Gatineau hills north of the city; while meals cooked in the open are as popular there as in the Eastern Townships, where people of nearly every race learn to love the big outdoors, and revel in the winter sports, which will soon become a memory as regards the winter of 1922-23.

CLAN M'CRAE TREASURES "IN FLANDERS FIELDS"

Memory of Lieut.-Col. John B. McCrae
Held Sacred by Gathered Clan at Inverness.

VISITING Oxford, England, during the summer vacation, Dr. Thomas McCrae, M.R.C.P., principal of Jefferson College, Philadelphia, and a brother of the late Lieut.-Col. John B. McCrae, read in the press the news of the dedication of a war memorial to the men of the McCrae clan who had fallen in the war to be held in Inverness, Scotland. He at once decided to go and, although unfortunate in missing connections both at London and Edinburgh, making a three-day journey of what ordinarily would have occupied one, finally arrived at Inverness. He was rather at a loss to know how he should introduce himself when a Highlander stepped up to him at the station and said:

"Your name will be McCrae."
"That is right but I cannot understand how you know," replied the visitor.
"I've only to look at your face, Mon," was the reply.
And yet it has been two hundred years since the forbears of "Doctor Tom," after a futile fight with the First Pretender, deserted their Highland fastnesses and moved down to Ayrshire, whence his father Lieut.-Col. David McCrae, still living at Guelph, came with his parents in 1849.
By reason of illness, the chief of the clan McCrae was unable to be present at the public ceremonial in Inverness and the speaking program was somewhat deficient. "The McCrae from America" was pressed into the breach and, it may be certain, acquitted himself nobly.
"When he sent his father a group photograph of 'the clan' as they were gathered that day, the Highlander who stood by his side might have been his twin brother, his 'at'er declares, so close was the resemblance. So blood will tell.
One of the most treasured of the possessions of Lieut.-Col. David McCrae is an engrossed parchment bearing the words of "In Flanders Fields" together with the beautiful poem, "America's Answer," handsomely framed, which came to him, unexpectedly, one day as a tribute from the chief of the Clan McCrae, in Scotland, to the memory of Lieut.-Col. John B. McCrae.

Wasn't a Laundryman But Just a Professor

And the Incident Was Only Further Proof That Appearances Are Very Deceptive.

By P. W. LUCE.

ON his return from a four-months' official journey to his homeland, Dr. Chi Lien Tsur, Chinese consul-general at Ottawa, spent some time in Victoria, B.C., trying to smooth out troubles of long standing. One of these concerned the refusal of the school board to admit Chinese boys of 15 to study in the same class with white boys of eight and nine.

Dr. Tsur listened with characteristic oriental politeness while officials explained there was no intention of unjust race segregation. He was told it was simply a question of separating big boys from little boys. Because they were backward in their studies, the Chinese had to attend special schools.
"I am gratified to hear this explanation," said Dr. Tsur. "Sometimes it almost of the Orient must necessarily be backward. I seem as if the white men have an idea that we remember a few years ago when I was in California there was a rather important case in court, with a Chinaman as chief witness.

Dr. Chi Lien Tsur.

"This was in the days before we discarded our queues, and, to that extent, we looked even more foreign than at present.

"The witness took his place in the box and was duly sworn. He was a quiet-looking man somewhere in the thirties, and perhaps a little better dressed than was usual. The prosecuting attorney, a typical American lawyer, was used to handling witnesses in rapid fashion.

"What you name, huh?" he inquired. "Savvy name?"

"Yue Tong," answered the witness.
"Yue Tong, eh! All right. I savvy you. You speak English, huh? bit mabbe?"

"The Chinaman nodded in the affirmative, his solemn eyes fixed on the attorney.

"All right," continued the lawyer. "I speak slow you savvy what I say. Now you tellum court—him court, him gem'mun up there—you tellum what you do. What yo' business, savvy. You washee man? You sellum vegetable? You keepum restaurant? You cook? You ketchum job some kind? Tellum court what you do."

"The Chinaman turned gravely to the court, and said:

"I am professor of English literature at the University of California, your honor. This is possibly a slight handicap in understanding the terminology most familiar to the prosecuting attorney, but I shall do my best!"

FRENCH RIVAL OF FORD

FORD will have to look to his laurels if Andre Citroen's new "caterpillar" cars prove themselves a success in their trans-Saharan experiment. Their route lies right across the worst of the sand countries, known to the Arabs as the "Country of Fear," and through the roughest of the West African forests. Citroen, a French newcomer since the war, is a bit of a miracleman. Already he has fifty thousand cars on the market and his factories are turning them out at the rate of a hundred and twenty-five a day.

Blood Curdling Howl Scared Mr. Parliament

Chills Run Up and Down Your Spine
When Ontario's Speaker Tells the Yarn.

THE Hon. Nelson Parliament, speaker of the Ontario legislature, was once thoroughly frightened. Long, long ago, it was when he was a youth on his father's Prince Edward county farm, and parliamentary honors were far in the misty future. You can feel the chills run up and down your spine when he tells the yarn.

It appears that on the Parliament farm a horse must always be fed for the night before it can be driven in the evening, but on this particular occasion young Nelson forgot all about this till he returned home some time in the wee sma' hours. Where he had been he will never divulge.

Hon. Nelson Parliament.

"I climbed up the ladder to the dark loft," he says, "grabbed a fork and dug it down into the mow with fairly good force. Instantly the most blood-curdling howl went up into the night.

"I must have jumped from the mow, for I'm quite sure I never touched the ladder, and that howl had scarcely subsided before I was safe in the house, with my hair standing on end.

"There was no trace of the tramp, if such he was, in the morning. Come to think of it, he must have been more startled than I, and he likely had a nasty jab from the fork. But my part of the episode provided about the weirdest sensation I have ever felt."

Mr. Parliament chuckled.
"And that night for once," he finishes, "a horse on our farm went without being fed."

STEAD LABELS COL. HAM AS ORIGINAL DEMIJOHN

AN amusing incident in connection with the recent publication of George H. Ham's "Miracle Man of Montreal," which deals with the remarkable faith-cures of Brother Andre, of the Oratory of St. Joseph, is a letter received by the colonel from Robert Stead, well-known Canadian author, shortly after the "Miracle Man" appeared for review in Canadian newspapers. It seems that through some typographical error or ignorance on the part of the printer, the book was heralded by one well-known sheet as the work of "Colonel Horn." This piquing of the Steadian imagination caused the following letter to be received by Colonel Ham within the next few days:

"My Dear Col. Horn:
"Ever since you wrote 'The Miracle Man of Montreal,' referred to in the attached clipping, I have felt that your name should be dissociated from any suggestion of sandwiches, and that a more appropriate appellation, especially dealing with the miracle of Montreal, would be Stead, Schooner or possibly Demi-John. The name Horn, however, seems to cover the whole situation. I congratulate you upon this new designation, and whether you blow it or drink it, I wish you happiness during the coming season, and many returns.

"Yours very truly,
"ROBERT STEAD."
It is not at present known what the contents of Colonel Ham's reply actually included, but at a later date it is hoped that they may be secured for publication. We venture to say that they will be well worth reading.

Geo. H. Ham.

Career of Gen. McRae Might Be Described As One Long Crusade Against Muddle

FROM the west—from the very far west, comes political news, provincial at present, but which will, one hopes, soon have a national significance. Into a contest between two political bosses of the old school, peacefully battling each other with stuffed clubs, has stepped an efficiency expert with the genuine article in big sticks—General A. D. McRae, M.P.

"Out of the east, light," is a saying as old as the hills. Indeed, according to such critics as Dr. McPhail, we might describe the illumination from our political lights in the east as a lurid glare, prophetic of destruction. At any rate it is pleasant to speculate upon the possible effect of such a luminary as seems about to shine upon British Columbia.

A. D. McRae seems to belong to that class of public man which is, fortunately, appearing here and there in the dominion—the same man-of-affairs, who, having succeeded remarkably well in his own business by sheer efficiency, has acquired such a hatred of muddle that he cannot bear to see it anywhere about him. In fact, his whole career might be described as one long crusade against muddle and the hugger-mugger.

Born in Glencoe, Ontario, he went west in his teens, and by his early twenties had built up a big insurance business in Duluth and Chicago. But the Canadian west soon attracted him. In May, 1902, no settlement existed between Lumsden and Saskatoon, by 1903 the whole route of the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake, and Saskatchewan railway was one continuous settlement. The result was largely the work of the Saskatchewan Valley Land Co., of which McRae was the moving spirit. Whatever may be the permanent value of this kind of artificial, speculative colonization, there can be no doubt of the organizing ability behind this particular case.

But it was the war that really showed the mettle of the man. After the outbreak of hostilities, he found himself, after twenty years of business, at the head of the remount department. A splendid horseman himself, he soon brought the organization to such a pitch of perfection that he was sent to England at the head of the Canadian supply and transport service. His

Gen. A. D. McRae.

As Pronounced

A NEW YORK traveling salesman arrived late at night in a small southern town where a group of silent men were waiting the arrival of a secret agent of the Ku Klux Klan.

When the drummer stepped from the train a man detached himself from the group went up to the drummer and said: "Ku Klux?"

"No," was the reply. "Klux and suits."

Canadian Authoress Wins Life's Desire

Miss Jean McIlwraith Settles Down in Her "Own Little Home" and Wins
Canadian Story Award.

MISS JEAN N. McILWRAITH, whose "Little Admiral" has just been awarded $500 as the best Canadian story for boys and girls to be submitted to the publishers, Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton and the Musson Book Company, is an authoress of international fame, and has had perhaps the most cosmopolitan career of any woman writer in Canada.

The fact that the award was made her manuscript without knowledge of the writer's identity is just one more proof that merit goes further in the business of writing than reputation.

Miss McIlwraith is at present a resident of Burlington, Ontario, where the long-hoped-for reality of settling down in her "own little home" is being fulfilled, and her chief desire in life is to "become an A1 gardener."

The author of nearly a dozen books, a prolific contributor for years to discriminating periodicals, editor, newspaperwoman and special correspondent, traveler and lover of history in its most vivid forms, Miss McIlwraith stands out as an unusual type of woman. Her first five books were written in Hamilton at her old home; then she migrated to New York, where for many years she filled important positions in the literary and publishing worlds.

The photograph reproduced here, taken recently in Hollywood, California, is an index of what sort of delightful experiences Miss McIlwraith has had. Now a woman of mature years, her refreshing personality and keen enjoyment of the spirit of adventure and youth is what has made her one of the ablest people in the world to write enjoyable stories for Canadian boys and girls.

The story of Miss McIlwraith's devotion to her mother is one which will appeal especially to her young readers. The bond between the authoress and her mother was one of unusual understanding and fidelity; it grew, if possible, in later years, when Mrs. McIlwraith, becoming a total invalid, depended more and more upon the love and care of her daughter. For four years the young writer remained at her mother's side at the old home, Cairnbrae, in Hamilton, and produced a book each one of those winters. At her mother's death in 1901, Miss McIlwraith broke away from every old association, feeling that the power for creative work had left her. It was at that time that she went to New York and began her brilliant editorial career—which continued for fourteen years.

MAIL ORDER CATALOGUE Used By This J. P. FOR HIS CRIMINAL CODE

By SUZANNE MOUSSEAU.
GENEVIEVE LIPSITT-SKINNER, who is not only a lawyer but a gifted public speaker, was recently asked to elucidate the British North America Act to a women's club in Victoria, B.C.

In the course of her address, Mrs. Lipsitt-Skinner impressed the audience with the fact that women who were ambitious of participating actively in the public life of Canada must have an understanding of how the country is governed.

"They must have a more intimate knowledge of the laws in force than that possessed by a justice of the peace in a certain rural district. When one, accused of a minor crime, was brought before him he always consulted a large book which the ignorant thought was the criminal code but which in reality was that household classic—Eaton's mail order catalogue.

"One day a negro appeared before him charged with robbing a hen-coop, after dark. The J. P. took down his big book and flipping over the pages, his eyes centred on something. He then announced the sentence of the man before him. 'I fine you four dollars and forty-nine cents to be worked out on the road at twenty-five cents per day!'

"I surely is an unlucky nigger," lamented the man as he was led away by the constable.

"Unlucky nothing!" retorted his keeper, "if the judge had opened the book at automobiles instead of trousers, you'd be working on the road for the rest of your natural life!"

WON AFTER ORDER TO STOP

"TRY again" must be a motto appreciated by Lord Carnarvon since his recent amazing discoveries in Egypt. When the great news reached him, he had already despatched a wire to "down tools" to Howard Carter, who for over two years had been carrying out the excavations under his instructions. Mr. Carter for some time had been working for the Egyptian government, and it is to this same government that most of the spoils will go. But Lord Carnarvon will receive specimens to the value of many thousands of pounds, some of which he intends presenting to the British Museum.

fire. The last blaze put him in a hospital. McKenzie, a retired sea hospital, when questioned concerning the location of his burning residence, he told of the spot where investigators found the abandoned boiler fitted up with a bed and a bath tub.

McKenzie said after three sleep-had crawled into the boiler and made his bed on the bricks still warm from the fire. He had stayed there ever since. He will re-

WOULD ABOLISH MANY OF THE OLD TREATIES

Makes Plea for Conclusion of New Treaties More Favorable to Canada.

(Associated Press Despatch.) MONTREAL, March 6.—Denouncing as "old relics of the past imposed upon us without our consent," Canada's treaties with eight nations allowing special trade concessions, Senator C. P. Beaubien speaking here last night made a plea for their abolition, the conclusion of other treaties more favorable to Canada and a comprehensive and aggressive selling campaign, the method suggested being by means of an industrial exhibition train.

The countries are Argentina, Colombia, Norway, Russia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and Venezuela, and the dates of the treaties are mostly a hundred years ago, and the most recent being in 1906.

Senator Beaubien showed how the treaties militated against Canada, imports from the above countries being immensely greater than exports to them from Canada.

BUSTLES TO BE NECESSARY PART OF APPAREL BY WELL DRESSED WOMEN THIS YEAR

Will Not Be Stiff, Ungraceful Bustle, But Mass of Ruffles and Lace.

CHICAGO, Mar. 6.—Bustles more graceful than those of grandmother were to be a necessary part of the apparel of the well dressed woman this spring, Mme. Alla Ripley, president of the Fashion Arts League of America, said today in discussing models to be shown at the League's convention here March 12-15.

"It will not be a stiff, ungraceful thing our grandmother wore," she explained, "but will be a mass of ruffles and lace. The laces and ribbons and other returns to the very feminine styles of 1880 that are now being featured, demand that the material be bunched into fullness somewhere."

LOST A PENNY—TIED UP TRAFFIC FOR HOUR

(Associated Press Despatch.) NEW YORK, Mar. 6.—Joseph Galfone, five years old, lost a penny last night and tied up traffic for an hour, when he fell under a street car, trying to find it.

Firemen used hydraulic jacks to elevate the car, cut away his coat with scissors and removed him from under the fender, an inch from the wheels, uninjured.

LOOK INTO LIVE STOCK DEALERS' OPERATIONS

Demand for Investigation Is Made by the Calgary Live Stock Exchange.

(Associated Press Despatch.) CALGARY, Mar. 6.—Demands for a full investigation into the operation of live stock dealers and live stock exchanges throughout the country were made by the Calgary Live Stock Exchange yesterday afternoon. This follows the decision of the Alberta Legislature to ask the Dominion Government to instigate an inquiry into live stock dealings.

Members of the exchange expressed indignation regarding the statements recently made in the Alberta Legislature charging that live stock dealers and commission men were "robbing those selling live stock, not only by extortionate rates for services rendered in selling but also for food supplies."

NEW WORLD'S NON-STOP FOX-TROTTING RECORD

Couple Danced for Nine and a Half Hours Without Pause.

(Associated Press Despatch.) SUNDERLAND, England, Mar. 6.—What is claimed to be a new world's non-stop fox trotting record was established early today by Edgar Van Ollefen and Miss Ollie Finerty, who danced nine and a half hours without a pause. Neither took food during the long period on the floor, and both finished comparatively fresh.

Their performance beats by an hour the record set up in Glasgow on Saturday by two Scotch dancers, this in turn having outranked two other records made recently of seven and a half and seven and three quarter hours.

SAYS REPORT ON OIL INDUSTRY IS NOT FAIR

Scoffed at Suggestion that Price of Gasoline Might Rise to a Dollar a Gallon.

(Associated Press Despatch.) NEW YORK, Mar. 6.—A. C. Bedford, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, issued a statement last night, charging that the Senate sub-committee report on the oil industry was unfair and prejudiced against his company, and that the sub-committee's conclusions "were grossly unjust and misleading."

He scoffed at the suggestion that the price of gasoline might rise to one dollar a gallon. Substitutes, he said, could be produced at prices low enough and in quantities enough to preclude such a possibility.

RESOLUTION FAVORS SALE OF BEER AND WINE IN HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

Claimed Enforcement of Volstead Act Has Worked Manifest Hardship on People.

(Associated Press Despatch.) HONOLULU, Mar. 6.—Amendment to the National Prohibition Law to permit the manufacture and sale of four and one half per cent beer and fifteen per cent wine in the Hawaiian Islands, is requested of Congress through a resolution introduced into the Territorial Legislature. The enforcement of the Volstead Act in the territory of Hawaii, according to the resolution, has worked a manifest hardship on the people, especially those who are not in affluent circumstances.
