World News In Brief

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 3—(AP)—Fire broke out aboard the Norwegian freighter Hopeville early today. The Coast Guard said three men were killed and three others burned.

The fire raged for almost two hours before being brought under control by equipment from Norfolk, the Coast Guard, the navy and the Hampton Roads port of embarkation. Its cause was not determined.

The injured were rushed to the Marine Hospital at Norfolk.

The 440-foot, 5,320-ton vessel arrived at the Norfolk and Western Railway cargo pier yesterday, and was still docked there when the fire was discovered by Watchman Morgan Short.

His prompt warning possibly saved further casualties.

The Hopeville is owned by Klaveness and Co., of Oslo.

London, Sept. 3—(Reuters)—George Bernard Shaw, the late Irish dramatist and socialist, was "more than once" offered one of Britain's highest distinctions—the Order of Merit—but refused it each time, his former secretary said today.

"I need no publicity. . . either I shall be remembered as a playwright as long as Aristophanes and rank with Shakespeare and Moliere, or I shall be a forgotten clown before the end of the century," Miss Blanche Patch quoted him as once remarking.

The Order is limited to a living membership of 24 Britons, plus "honorary members" of foreign countries.

Tokyo, Sept. 3—(AP)—Princess Yori, third daughter of Emperor Hirohito, will be married Oct. 10 to Takamasa Ikeda, son of a former Marquis whose ancestors were the feudal lords of Okayama province.

The princess is 21. The groom, who manages his father's estate, is 26.

The Emperor's two oldest daughters, the former Princesses Teru and Taka, married sons of former noble families who lost their title in the postwar abolition of the peerage.

The Emperor and Empress and all other members of the imperial family will attend the wedding, with the exception of Crown Prince Akihito, 18. No reason was given for the Crown Prince's absence, which puzzled Japanese newspapers.

Canberra, Sept. 3—(Reuters)—The Australian House of Representatives today applauded the appointment of Field Marshal Sir William Slim as Australia's next Governor-General.

Prime Minister Robert Menzies told the House that "Australians will be proud to welcome a man of such great ability, force of character and superb military record."

Slim's appointment was announced in London last night. He is the retiring chief of the Imperial General Staff, Britain's top army post.

The opposition also welcomed the appointment, though Leader Herbert Evatt said the Labor party believed in the practice of appointing Australians to the Governor-Generalship.

Two Australians have held the post in Australia in the past, the outgoing Sir William McKell being the most recent.

Deadlocked Peace Talks To Resume Thursday But Little Real Progress Is Expected

Neither Side Appears Likely To Yield On Controversial Prisoner Exchange Issue.

Munsan, Korea, Sept. 3. — (AP) — The deadlocked Korean truce talks resume tomorrow, ending the fifth straight week-long recess.

The United Nations and Communist armistice delegations have met only once a week since July 26. A sixth straight recess may be called tomorrow when the negotiators gathered at Panmunjom at 11 A.M. (10 P.M. EDT Wednesday).

For months both sides have refused to budge from their stands on prisoner exchange.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, spokesman for the Red delegation, demands return of 116,000 Communist prisoners, including all 20,000 Chinese captives in Allied stockades.

Maj.-Gen. William K. Harrison, top man on the U. N. truce team, offered to send back 83,000 prisoners including 6,400 Chinese. An exhaustive screening of Communist captives showed the remaining thousands of prisoners have renounced Communism.

The Communists today protested another Red prisoner death — the fourth protest in a week.

The protest, delivered at Panmunjom, was over the death Monday of a civilian the United Nations said was killed in a blasting operation.

Harrison offered no comment.

Resume Talk On Coal Mine Wage Issue

Washington, Sept. 3—(AP)—John L. Lewis may give some indication today of what New York or pay benefits he wants for his 75,000 hard-coal miners.

Representatives of Lewis' United Mine Workers and of the United States anthracite industry resume talks this afternoon on a new contract to replace one expiring Sept. 30. Unless a new agreement is reached by the end of this month Lewis may call a strike of his hard-coal diggers, as well as 400,000 soft-coal miners.

The U.M.W. chief notified the industry more than a month ago that he would end existing contracts within 30 days. He also moved to clear the way legally for a strike by notifying the federal mediation and conciliation service that the contracts may expire.

Thus far the union chief has given no indication publicly as to what he wants in new agreements. There have been reports that he plans to ask the operators for a shorter work week in order to spread work in the local fields more evenly among the miners. Lack of jobs recently has cut the average miner's work-week to less than four days.

There also have been reports that Lewis plans to ask a boost in the royalty of 30 cents a ton of coal that his union collects for its health and welfare fund.

The talks were resumed today just 24 hours after most of the nation's coal miners returned to work from a 10-day mourning period for victims of mine tragedies.

However, the memorial holiday was extended in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee when thousands of miners refused to resume work.

Currently the miners average $2.25 an hour. The basic minimum daily wage is estimated at $16.35, but the total pay for a week has been reduced due to shortage of work.

Douks Seek Parley With St. Laurent

Vancouver, Sept. 3— (CP) —The News-Herald says today in a newspage story that Sons of Freedom Doukhobors may march on West Kootenay cities if their leader is unable to obtain an interview with Prime Minister St. Laurent here. The Prime Minister is due here today.

The newspaper says Stefan Sorokin, bearded leader of the Sons, will attempt to "crash the gate" to a private interview with Mr. St. Laurent during his two-day visit here to enlist support of the federal government in Doukhobor problems.

The 2,000 Freedomites now want to move to a new location to start a new community. Sorokin failed recently in an attempt to find a suitable site in South America.

The newspaper says:

Tokyo, Sept. 3.—(CP)—Maj.-Gen. M. M. Alston-Robert-West, new commander of the 1st Commonwealth Division in Korea, conferred today with the United Nations commander, Gen. Mark Clark.

West goes to Korea tomorrow to replace Maj.-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, who has commanded the Commonwealth unit since its formation 15 months ago. Canada's 25th infantry brigade is part of the division.

West said at a press conference he was "astounded" by the complete co-operation he had observed here between representatives of various services and units under the U. N. command.

He said he hoped to visit all U.N. fighter forces in Korea after he had been briefed by the U.S. Eighth Army commander, Gen. James A. van Fleet, and had taken command of his division.

West has been British military commander in Austria for two years.

He travelled through Canada on his way here and visited Canadian troops in training.

Cassels will make a quick tour through Australia, New Zerland and Canada before he returns to Britain.

His itinerary is as follows: Arrive Australia Sept. 12, visit Canberra Sept. 16. Melbourne Sept. 17, leave for New Zealand Sept. 24, leave for Canada Sept. 27, due in Britain about Oct. 10.

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 3.— (AP) —A tropical storm today grounded United Nations planes and lashed infantrymen on the Korean battle front with up to 3½ inches of rain.

United States Fifth Air Force headquarters reported that only weather reconnaissance planes took off.

Allied fighter-bombers yesterday bombed an airfield near Sinanju which the Fifth Air Force said the communists were rebuilding. The Sinanju field lies about 155 miles north of the western front.

The storm battered Seoul during the night as it moved northward. An army weather officer said wind gusts reached a velocity of about 69 miles an hour.

A U.S. Eighth Army staff officer said communist probes and patrols have increased across the front in the last two days. He said the Reds probed 13 times across the front at Bunker Hill, Old Baldy Hill, the Pukhan river, Heartbreak Ridge, and the Punchbowl.

None of the probes developed into more than brief skirmishes.

The Eighth Army reported it inflicted 10,052 casualties on the communists in August, about 1,000 more than in July. The total includes 5,028 killed, 4,974 wounded and 50 captured.

In Tokyo, the air force announced that 23 of the 78 communist targets made public early in August had been hit in the last month. A spokesman emphasized that "since then the last has changed considerably—with names of places added and subtracted."

Civilians in the 78 communist areas were warned by leaflets, radio or both to flee from possible bombings of Red military targets.

"Spot warnings are given when they will not unduly jeopardize air crews," the spokesman said. "However, we don't hope to get a warning to every man, woman and child in Korea."

Vienna, Austria, Sept. 3—(Reuters)—A Vienna city employee was reported to have been kidnapped today by six armed Russians and whisked off to the Russian zone in a car.

Eye-witnesses said the Austrian, Walter Bittner, was waiting for a streetcar with several friends when two Russian soldiers and an officer suddenly drew their pistols and seized him.

Three other Russians in civilian clothes jumped out of a parked car nearby and forced him into the vehicle.

No other details were immediately available.

Steel Supply Will Balance With Demand

New York, Sept. 3. — (AP) — A reasonably satisfactory balance of steel supply and demand by the end of the first quarter of 1953 was foreseen today by the Iron Ace, metalworking trade weekly.

The publication said this was the consensus of steel executives and government planners whose opinions it surveyed.

From the second quarter on, it added, "the nation's fast-spouting steel production capacity will act as formidable interference in pushing shortages aside."

Current capacity was placed at more than 112,000,000 ingot-tons annually, against 108,500,000 last Jan. 1.

The Iron Age said "few in the industry doubt that mills, besieged by rush orders today, will be looking for customers on most of their products by the end of the second quarter."

"Demand pressure for large-diametre bars and tubular goods from oil-field operators and defence plants will continue strong. But wire-products demand is already showing signs of softening and small bars and flat-rolled items should be watched for signs of weakening."

Reporting that auto producers are "having a field day of optimism over future steel supply," the trade weekly commented:

"Many of them believe that the shortage will evaporate by the early weeks of 1953 and that supply will ease steadily this year. Steel producers, regarding large defence set-asides (especially in bars and plates), can't see eye to eye with Detroit."

Steelmaking operations this week were placed at 100.5 per cent of rated capacity, up one point from last week.

Laud Role Of Dominion As Oil Producer

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Banff, Alta., Sept. 3—(CP)—Canada is coming into her own as a major producer of petroleum products among the free nations.

At the convention here of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, an American conservation group meeting for the first time in Canada, speakers have stressed Canada's growing petroleum industry as a pillar of Western Hemisphere defence.

The fact that the commission is meeting in Canada has been pointed out as an indication of the place Canada is taking in the petroleum world.

U.S. Secretary of the Interior, Oscar L. Chapman, said in an address delivered yesterday that "Canadian oil and gas production is of tremendous importance."

Mr. Chapman was unable to attend the meeting. His talk was read by J. E. Warren, Deputy Administrator of the Petroleum Administration for Defence.

"Canada has been confirmed as a major source of oil for the free nations of the world," Mr. Chapman said. "It is clear that Canada's prairie development can be a fruitful one."

Governor Sid McMath of Arkansas, chairman of the Compact, echoed Mr. Chapman's comments. He said: "The new and large developments that have been taking place in Canada are just as important in our (the United States) national defence scheme as the development of oil and gas resources in the United States."

The resolutions committee met yesterday to draft motions which will be put before the convention floor today. It is understood two of these will be of particular interest to the Canadian petroleum industry.

Today Saskatchewan Natural Resources Minister J. H. Brockelbank and Federal Mines Minister George Prudham will address the convention. A business meeting in the afternoon will wind up the conference.

South African Laws Flayed By British Labor Congress

Margate, Kent, England, Sept. 3.—(CP)—Britain's powerful Trades Union Congress demanded today that Prime Minister Churchill intercede in South Africa to gain the release of labor leaders and end racial discrimination there.

By a unanimous vote, the 900 delegates who represent 8,000,000 British workers passed a resolution condemning the policies of South Africa's Prime Minister, Daniel F. Malan.

The resolution called upon the General Council, executive body of the T. U. C., to "make the strongest possible protest to Dr. Malan, and also to our own government, with a view to obtaining the release of our colleagues, and an end to all racial discrimination."

Malan's apartheid (racial-segregation) policies, the resolution said, are "a complete denial of the declartion of human rights adopted by the United Nations to which the British government were signatories."

Malan, a sworn enemy of the British Labor Party, has repeatedly threatened to break away from the Commonwealth and seek a South African republic if British criticism of his regime does not abate.

The T. U. C., backbone of the Labor party, is mapping its policies in the annual convention this week. Decisions here will serve as a basis for the Labor party's platform for returning to power when the party meets in its annual convention later this month.

Percy Belcher of the Tobacco Workers' Union, who moved the resolution, said its approval "is bound to have a big influence on future events inside Africa."

In another resolution, the T.U.C. unanimously condemned the government for proposing to sell about 40,000 state-operated haulage trucks to private buyers.

Denationalization of road haulage would be fought by every legitimate means, the resolution said. The delegations welcomed a previous Labor party statement that a future socialist government would restore road haulage to public ownership without paying compensation.

Yesterday the convention voted to back Britain's rearmament drive to the hilt.

But the convention turned against its leaders and narrowly approved a left-wing resolution condemning germ warfare and urging its abolition by the United Nations.

The anti-germ warfare resolution, proposed by Dr. P. W. Brian of the Association of Scientific Workers, slipped through by a vote of 3,797,000 to 3,723,000. The convention's 900 delegates voted on behalf of their rank-and-file fellow union members.

Sir Vincent Tewson, general secretary of the T.U.C., opposed the anti-germ warfare resolution on the grounds it reflected Communist propaganda and inferred there actually had been germ warfare.

Earlier, the T.U.C. convention backed its leadership, the General Council, in approving large-scale British rearmament "within the limits of our power." The General Council's report on the subject was adopted by a vote of 5,597,000 to 1,450,000.

The convention then overwhelmingly rejected left-wing resolutions calling for world disarmament, an international peace agreement with Russia and a ban on atomic warfare.

A resolution urging revision of Britain's rearmament program—a line demanded by the left-wing Laborite leader, Aneurin Bevan—was defeated 5,801,000 to 1,272,000.

The decisions may indicate that the trade union vote at the coming Labor party convention will be cast against Bevan, who wants the costly arms program cut back.

Bevan in challenging the party leadership of Clement Attlee, former Prime Minister.

New York To Renew Power Plan Appeal

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 3.— (AP) — New York State's Power Authority today pleads again with the International Joint Commission for a go-ahead to join the province of Ontario in developing electric power from the St. Lawrence River.

Authority Chairman John E. Burton was to urge approval for the $50,000,000 hydro-electric plan pushed for years by Governor Thomas E. Dewey's administration.

The proposal to build a 2,200,000-horsepower plant has been stymied by the feleral government. The Federal Power Commission refused in 1950 to grant the state a licence to build its half of the project. The Commission has agreed to reconsider.

Barriers to the licensing were removed in Washington earlier this year after President Truman lost another attempt to win Congressional approval for federal participation with Canada in the St. Lawrence seaway project. Canada has announced she will build the seaway alone.

Dewey and the State Power Authority have argued that, because of Congressional opposition to the seaway, New York and Ontario should be allowed to construct jointly the power project.

President Truman indicated on June 19 that he would not oppose New York's effort to develop the power project in the river's International Rapids. On Aug. 12, a U. S. Court of Appeals returned to the Federal Power Commission for further consideration the New York proposal, which the F. P. C. had rejected previously. The F. P. C. joined the state in asking for the court action.

The U. S. government also supports Canada's plan to handle the seaway construction without American aid.

Today's I.J.C. hearing is one in a new series to help the Commission collect more information on both the Canadian seaway plan and the New York-Ontario project. Further meetings will be held in Montreal.

Three preliminary hearings were held by the International Commission in July in Toronto, Ogdensburg, N.Y., and Cornwall, Ont.

Claims Reds Unable To Make A-Bomb

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

Chicago, Sept. 3—(AP)—"I don't believe Russia has one single atom bomb," Carlton S. Proctor, prominent New York engineer who has worked in Russia, said today.

"I think every one of the atomic explosions in Russia was just a premature explosion in an effort to produce a bomb."

Proctor is president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, one of 64 engineering societies celebrating a Centennial of Engineering opening today.

He gave his views on Russia during an interview telling of U. S. engineers' vast accomplishments in the last 100 years.

(The White House has announced three atomic explosions in Russia, referring to the second one as "another atomic bomb," without amplifying further. Other sources have estimated Russia has a stockpile of 100 or many more A-bombs by now.)

Proctor said it takes teamwork and co-operation to make an A-bomb work, and that Russians don't trust each other.

Such co-operation he said, "is essentially impossible in Russia or any other totalitarian state. There is no possibility of one man trusting another and integrating his efforts with any other man."

In 1930, Proctor worked on building Russia's second-largest dam at Svirstroy, east of Leningrad. In the First World War he was an army engineer, building the Persian corridor road from the Indian Ocean to funnel supplies to Russia.

"The Russians have no confidence in their own engineers," he said, "and I have never met a Russian engineer who was a Communist who was any good."

Soviet jet planes are good, "but the Russians got the practical end of how to build them from Germans whom they took over."

"The Russians have brilliant physicists and mathematicians, brilliant purely in theory. In jet propulsion, they are probably ahead of us in theory. But theory alone doesn't produce an A-bomb, or an army, or morale."

Claims Bishop Died In Prison

Hong Kong, Sept. 3. — (AP) — A Roman Catholic nun said today that Maryknoll Bishop Francis X. Ford, a native of Brooklyn, died Feb. 21 in a Chinese Communist prison hospital.

Sister Joan Marie Ryan, also of Brooklyn and formerly Bishop Ford's secretary, brought the word of his death on her arrival from Red Canton. She herself is in serious condition.

Sister Ryan said the Reds told her Ford died of natural causes and old age and forced her to sign the death certificate.

Ford, 60, was the third Roman Catholic bishop reported to have died under Communist arrest. The others were Bishop Cyril Jarra, a German, and Bishop Leon Desmedt, a Belgian.

Ford was bishop of the Kaying Diocese in Kwangtung province and was in charge of the Maryknoll Mission at Meihsien, 210 miles northeast of Canton. He and Sister Ryan were expelled in 1950 and jailed in Canton, both charged with spying.

Wider British Market Open To Canadian Wood Firms

London, Sept. 3.—(Reuters)—Pacific Coast lumbermen in Canada and the United States may boost sales to Britain next year under a government scheme announced today raising import limits and relaxing regulations.

The announcement, made by the Mnistry of Materials, said the ceiling for 1953 will be fixed provisionally at 500,000 standards (there are 1,980 board feet in a European Standard) against a final figure of 450,000 for this year.

The 500,000 standards are the first instalment of Britain's requirements for 1953, the ministry said. It is understood the second instalment, to be announced later, will be a "good amount."

The total figure of Britain's 1953 softwood imports, the ministry continued, will be enough to maintain adequate stocks and a level of consumption expected to be no lower than this year's.

There will be no discrimination between sources of supply for softwood, importers being free to choose between them on a commercial basis.

Whether Britain will buy more timber from the Pacific coast than from Scandinavia next year depends on the private importer's view on price relationships and other factors.

Last year private British timber importers could buy freely from other countries, but not from East Europe and the dollar area. Imports from those sources were handled by the Timber Control.

This year importers were free to buy anywhere, but in practice could not buy from the dollar area. This was because the Timber Control still had big contracts outstanding with Canada and the United States. Shipments under these contracts have been delayed —there was a lumber strike in British Columbia — but will be completed by the end of this year.

The present individual quota system of licencing will not apply to imports of softwood in 1953, the Ministry added. This means that importers will be free to buy what they like when they like.

The new arrangements cover softwood timber, including railroad ties, but not pulpwood, mining timber or boxboards, for which the existing procedure will continue, the Ministry said. Nor do they cover any type of roundwood or poles.

In the first seven months of this year Britain's softwood imports totalled 596,000 standards, of which 323,000 came from Canada and 38,400 from the United States.

Sweden sent 86,000 standards, Finland 59,000, Yugoslavia 39,000, Brazil 15,200, France 14,300. Smaller quantities came from Czechoslovakia, Austria and Poland.

Toronto, Sept. 3 —(CP)— A young man and woman died and another man was severely burned early today in a rooming-house fire attributed by firemen to a cigaret smouldering in a chesterfield chair.

Chicago, Sept. 3— (AP) — Twenty-two persons were injured, none seriously, in the collision last night of two elevated trains operating at ground level in suburban Cicero. Chicago Transit Authority officials said a four-coach westbound train was making a crossover from the north to the south track when its second car was struck by an empty six-car wooden train.

Eisenhower Meeting Strong Support In Democratic South

Washington, Sept. 3—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, drawing huge crowds at every stop, today continued a spectacular sweep through Dixie that had Democrats wondering how solid the South will be in November.

The Republican Presidential nominee was greeted by a turnout of 150,000 persons in Atlanta, Ga., Jacksonville and Miami, Fla., yesterday. They responded to his tongue-lashing of the Democratic administration with cheers and rebel yells.

Eisenhower bore down hard on "The mess in Washington," demanded a complete change in party leadership—not "just a face or two"—and blamed what he called the "stumble, fumble and fall" administration for inflation.

Governor Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, worked on the farm policy speech he is expected to make Saturday in Kasson, Minn.

Stevenson made no comment on charges by Republican Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois yesterday that the Democratic candidate's own state government was corrupt and needed cleaning up.

Stevenson's aides said his policy would be to concentrate on "getting the country acquainted with his views" on major issues, to ignore Republican attacks, and to let President Truman defend the Democratic administration.

Truman, back in Washington after a successful nine-speech whistle-stop tour, seemed only too eager to accept this role.

The President's speeches yesterday bore all the flavor of his successful 1948 campaign addresses: He said Republican master-minds were using "cruel, gutter politics" in raising false hopes in iron-curtain countries; he called Eisenhower a "spokesman for selfish politicians" who were willing to risk atomic war with Russia just to win votes.

Two primaries yesterday developed unexpected drama:

In Nevada, Senator Pat McCarran apparently suffered a political setback. Tom Mechling, 31, former Washington, D.C., newspaper man who was laughed at by old-time Nevadans when he filed for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, early today was leading Alan Bible, 42, strongly backed by McCarran.

The winner will meet the incumbent Republican Senator George Malone, in November.

In Louisiana, the oldest member of the State's famous Long dynasty was leading in a Democratic run-off primary for U.S. representative. In traditionally Democratic Louisiana, victory in this race usually means election.

Dr. George S. Long, 68, was leading Mayor Carl B. Close of Alexandria. Dr. Long is the brother of former Governor Earl Long and the late U.S. Senator Huey P. Long, and is the uncle of the state's present Senator, Russell Long.

Canadian Living Cost Rise Less Than In United States

Ottawa, Sept. 3— (CP) —Living costs have reached a new high in the United States, but they are keeping to lower levels in Canada.

The U.S. consumer's price index, reflecting the cost of food, clothing, shelter and other consumer items as of July 15, moved to a peak of 190.8 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

That's 1.12 points higher than the June index and five per cent higher than the January, 1951, level when American price and wage controls took effect.

In Canada, where there are no direct price or wage controls, the cost-of-living index during June stood at 188.0, still 3.5 points below the peak of 191.5 established last December. The Canadian index is based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100.

Tomorrow, the July index likely will be published, and although no one wants to go out on a limb to forecast which way it will point, it appears likely there will be only a tiny change from the June level.

For one thing, the July index likely will not include a survey of rents, and although food prices have been a big factor in recent index increases, the heavier flow of foodstuffs to market during the summer months tends to keep prices from jumping excessively.

However, eggs have been an exception. With most hens cutting production during the hot weather, prices climbed sharply during June, providing the main spark for an increase of seven-tenths of a point in the index. This followed an increase of six-tenths of a point during May, reversing the down trend in the previous four months.

Egg prices are not expected to decline until cooler weather returns. During June there also were small increases in the price of beef, lamb and pork.

With the exception of food, there was little change in the prices of other family budget items during June. Clothing was down slightly, along with some homefurnishings, but the fuel and light and miscellaneous columns remained unchanged. Rents were not surveyed and this column remained at the peak of 147.9.

Other column standings:

The food sub-index jumped 2.5 points to 239.5 from 237.0, still below the peak of 251.4 reached in June last year.

Home furnishings and services slipped to 196.7 from 197.2 and from the high of 201.1 last December.

Clothing eased to 209.1 from 209.3, down from the peak of 215.5 last November.

Fuel and light remained unchanged at 149.8, down from the high of 152.5 last February.

The miscellaneous column, covering a variety of items from health care to recreation, remained unchanged at 147.4, just a half point from the peak of 147.9 last March.

JANET LEIGH THINKS CLINCHES WITH SPOUSE WILL ROCK FANS

Hollywood—Behind the Screen: Janet Leight's murmuring "Who said so?" to the show business theory that a real-life married couple can't wreck the air-conditioning in theaters with sizzling love scenes.

Janet, who co-stars with hubby Tony Curtis in Paramount's "Houdini," doesn't think the moviegoers are going to yawn in the clinch scenes because she and Tony are Mr. and Mrs.

"It depends on the people involved," Janet remarked. "Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt get pretty torrid in their love scenes. Rex Harrison and Lili Palmer aren't slouches, either. It depends on how audiences have accepted the marriage of the stars concerned. We believe ours is romantic."

Just when he thought he had crawled out of the killer trench with nice-guys in "The Racket" and "One Minute to Zero," he was cast as a trigger-happy convict in "The Difference."

"Nobody ever saw me as a psychopathic killer until I hit Hollywood," he shrugged. "I was a leading man on Broadway. I played the romantic lead in 'Dear Ruth.' All of a sudden I'm a crazy-in-the-head character.'

Moviegoers, wails Talman, don't remember screen heavies the way they did back in the days when George Raft and Eddie Robinson were pups.

"I keep being referred to as a promising newcomer. This after four years in Hollywood, playing meaner guys than Raft or Robinson ever dreamed of."

What Heroes Read

This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones. . .

The camera's trained on the interior of Gordon MacRae's apartment in romantic Morocco in "The Desert Song" at Warners. Gordon, playing El Koba, the fearless, intrepid leader of the Riffs, is playing a scene with Kathryn Grayson and Dick Wesson.

When the lights dim for the lunch-hour break, examine the set, particularly the bookcase. Somebody slipped up on the books for El Koba's library. One of the brave hero's tomes is Louisa Mae Alcott's "Little Women."

Hollywood studios don't have to beat the bushes for new musical talent—the talent's right in movietown.

Producer Joni Tapps arguing his point and claiming: "We're using great musical personalities as dramatic actors. Let musical people stay where they are and stop going out for Oscars. We get a dancer out here and right away we turn her into a Greer Garson. It's wrong."

Tapps, producer of Columbia's "All Ashore," thinks that stars like Van Johnson, Janis Carter, June Allyson, John Carroll, George Raft, James Cagney, John Payne, Walter Pidgeon, Joan Crawford, Ann Sothern, Shelley Winters, Shirley Temple and Irene Dunne ought to be dancing and singing tor the glory of the box-office instead of going in for heavy emoting.

"Hollywood doesn't have to worry about TV if we make musicals with people who started as dancers and singers,' ' he said. "People want to be entertained. Nobody wants to go to see somebody else's troubles on the screen."

Fortune Awaits Without

Photographed stage plays now that Hollywood's searching for appetizing new movie bait?

Judith Anderson, high priestess of the U.S. stage, thinks there a fortune waiting for the first Hollywood studio that will train cameras on a Broadway play. About to begin rehearsals with Ty Power for Paul Gregory's production of "John Brown's Body," Judith told me:

"Television productions of famous stage plays prove that there's a great, untapped audience for Broadway productions. If Hollywood doesn't move in, TV will. It can be done for very little money and yield a great profit. Every great stage star would be interested."

Judith on live TV: "I tried it—it's horrible. In the theater, I leave my true self in the dressing room. But on TV, it's hades on earth, a real rat race. The sets are spread all over and I have no sense of direction, anyhow. I was always heading toward the wrong set and they had to have a man on hand to push me in the right direction."

Boy Saved From Drowning In Magog By Prompt Action Of Local Woman

Prompt action by a young woman of Sherbrooke yesterday saved an 11-year-old boy from drowning in the Magog River.

Muguette Huot, 1251 Esplanade avenue, by luck happened to be looking out her window shortly after 1:30 yesterday afternoon when she saw a boy fall out of a rowboat, five or six feet from the shore of the Magog.

The boy, David Thayer, of 1274 King street west, was playing in the boat, stood up and lost his balance.

Miss Huot ran out of her home immediately, seized another rowboat from shore and sped to the boy's rescue.

She pulled young Thayer, fullyclothed and unconscious, from the the water.

By this time, other persons in the area had telephoned the Municipal Police Department.

The police, in turn, immediately alerted the fire department who sent a four-man party up to the scene with a resuscitator.

Although the boy had fallen into water only three or four feet deep, he was panic-stricken and had swallowed a great quantity of water.

Lieut Gerard Donahue, assisted by Firemen Raymond Fournier, Fernand Croteau and Leo Giguere, administered oxygen for 10 minutes before the boy was revived. The boy, a non-swimmer, was as "white as a sheet of paper."

Athough the speedy despatch of oxygen was of vital importance in saving the boy's life, Capt. Charles Audet, temporarily in command of the fire department, wishes to commend Miss Huot for her quick work in pulling the lad from the river.

David Thayer is now a patient at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, where he was taken by H. N. Brien ambulance. He will probably be allowed to return to his home today or tomorrow. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thayer. The Thayers are very grateful to Miss Huot, the firemen and policemen for the fact that their son is alive today.

Constables Guy Cordeau and Jean-Claude DeBlois investigated.

Possibilities Of Dominion Outlined At Regular Session Of Rotary Club

Speaking to his fellow Rotarians as if they belonged to an American club, Rev. R. C. Tait gave an interesting talk on Canada at the New Sherbrooke Hotel last night.

He explained the origin of the two names "Canada" and "Dominion" and touched briefly on the government saying that Canada is indebted to both Great Britain and the United States, because it has taken from each of them. He also mentioned the equality of status which exists for all countries in the British Commonwealth of Nations, pointing out that the Queen is just as much Queen of Canada as she is of England.

Mr. Tait expressed the opinion that people do not really know the immensity of Canada, where there are less than four people to the square mile. "We cannot help but think of Canada in its vastness," he said, "its vast proportions, immeasurable resources, uncalculated opportunities and huge unexplored forests."

Although the stability of a country is usually measured by its currency, the speaker said he felt there were many other important factors which added to that stability.

One quarter of Canada's population is engaged in agriculture, he pointed out, the prairie provinces yielding one fifth of the supply of food for the world, from only 22 million acres when 352 million could be put into grain.

Canada is pushing northwards for precious minerals, and successfully. Canada leads in the production of platinum, and has fabulous ore reserves in the West, untouched water power, fish and game, and leads the world in the production of asbestos.

All these great resources, the speaker said, augur well for the future of Canada. He added however that he believes much of the happiness and prosperity of both Canada and the United States are due to the long international and undefended border line, with everywhere its peace monuments symbolic of the friendship and trust which have existed between the two great countries for so many years. "It is a unique situation," he declared, "and should it ever be changed, this would indeed be a sorry world."

Mr. Tait was introduced by Past President W. S. Sutherland and thanked by Past President R. A. Webster.

President Lewis Rosenbloom welcomed a number of guests to the meeting, including Sir Andrew Jones, of England, who has been in the Colonial Administrative Service for a number of years, and who gave a brief talk on the African situation.

Past President E. W. Gilbey urged the members to give in their names without delay, for reservations at Wentworth-by-the-Sea, site of this year's Fall Conclave.

It was announced by the president that the Rotary Fair dates would be changed to November 13, 14, 15, so as not to interfere with the Seminary Campaign.

The sympathy of the Club was extended to Rotarian George Marshall, on the loss of his mother.

At the head table with Mr. Tait and the president were Past President A. C. Skinner, who reminded the members of the importance of the annual raffle to the succees of the Rotary Fair, Past President James Sangster, Past President Sutherland, Past President Webster, Past President James Wark, H. S. C. Moffatt and Phil Rennert.

Poor Weather Marred Closing Of Brome Fair

Brome, September 3 — Today is the final day for Brome Fair and again this year it is hampered somewhat by inclement weather.

As the "Biggest Little Fair in the Country" went into its final stage, it did so to the accompaniment of a damp and steady downpour which showed no sign of abating.

Exhibits in all departments were of a particularly high standard and had it not been for the vagaries of the weather, everything pointed to a banner year.

The cattle parade attracted a large crowd to the grandstand and Marcus J. Blackwood, of Knowlton, who is one of the young directors of the Fair, won deserved applause for his team of six Chestnut horses shown for the first time at Brome. Mr. Blackwood took a first prize with his team of heavy draft horses.

Among the many exhibitors in the industrial building were Southern Canada Power, Electrolux, W. J. Korman's "House of Television", Cowansville; Fred Sayer Signs; Broadacres, Brome County's leading florists; LeRoy Inc., Cowansville, furniture; Maple Products, Cowansville Building Supplies, Bondville Guild, Cowansville Lions Club, Oscar Davis Northern Electric appliances, Fulford, Gastetner, the Bible House, and a number of others.

Annual Picnic Of Optimists This Week-End

The annual picnic of the Optimist Club and families of the members will be held this Sunday at Hillcrest Lodge. Final plans were told the members at the weekly meeting last night in the LaSalle Hotel, by picnic chairman Paul Allard.

Guy Labrie, chairman, said that everything was arranged for the members' day of golf to be held on the nine -hole Waterville course September 14th.

Temporary committees were setup, under the general chairmanship of president Erich Marquardt, to plan for the annual district convention which will be held in Sherbrooke the week-end of May 23rd.

Seated at the head table for the business meeting were: Mr. Marquardt, Pete Blais, Vitol Scheib, Henry Crochetiere and Paul Nadeau.

Hotel Mattress Catches Fire

Lost in the week-end shuffle of E.T. disasters was the following small fire.

It occurred in the mattress of a third-floor room in the Windsor Hotel, Depot Street, at 5.05 o'clock Monday morning.

Municipal Police Constable Real Roy saw the smoke coming out of the window and with the help of an employee of the hotel and fire extinguisher put out the fire quickly.

Occupant of the room, a Toronto man, was unsinged.

Council Session Is Adjourned To Next Monday

After the Council members had sat for several hours in committee session, they decided to adjourn the first regular Council meeting of the fall and winter season, scheduled for last evening, until September 8.

It is understood that several important matters were discussed in committee session but that none of the projects were carried to the point where they could come before the general session.

Capt. C. Audet Heads Firemen

Capt. Charles Audet is temporarily heading the local Fire Department in the absence of Director W. P. Donahue.

Director Donahue, who is in Saint John, N. B. attending a meeting of the Canadian Fire Chiefs' Association, is expected back in Sherbrooke by the end of the week.

Hearing Set In Loan Fraud Case

Wilfrid Robert, R.R. No. 2, Magog, appeared in Magistrate's Court here today and was charged with obtaining a loan under false misrepresentation. His preliminary hearing was set for next week.

Robert was scheduled to appear in court last week but when he failed to make an appearance a warrant was issued for his arrest.

He appeared today with his attorney, Paul-Emile Brazeau, before Judge Edouard Boisvert.

Delegates From Three Cities Attend Anglican Church Young People's Meet

Delegates from Sherbrooke, Quebec and Montreal attended a very successful conference sponsored by the Quebec Diocesan Council of the Anglican Young People's Association at Quebec Lodge, North Hatley, over the Labour Day week-end.

During this period the annual meeting of the Council took place and the following were elected to office: Patron— His Grace, Archbishop Philip Carrington; Honorary President, Very Rev. W. W. Davis; Chaplain, Rev. Thomas S. Knox, Quebec; President, Catherine Wark, Sherbrooke; Vice-President, Gordon Bremner, Quebec;

Regional Vice-Presidents— John Morrill, Drummondville; Alan Martin, Quebec; Dennis Palmer, Gaspe; Secretary, Joyce Buckland, Sherbrooke; Treasurer, Hazel Palmer, Quebec; Publicity Convenor, Pearl Robinson, Sherbrooke; Sunday School by Post Convenors, Aline Cassar, Sherbrooke; Barbara Learmouth, Quebec; A.Y.P.A. Quarterly Magazine Conveners, Nora Harris, Sherbrooke; Mabel LeCouvie, Quebec.

An important item of this meeting was the adoption of the newly revised Constitution of the Council. The Dean of the Conference, Rev. A. V. Ottiwell, inducted the newly-elected officers of the Council at the Sunday evening service in the camp chapel, overlooking the lake.

One of the highlights of the week-end was the series of lectures and informal talks given by Miss H. M. Horobin, an Anglican missionary just recently returned from Japan.

Miss Horobin, through her talks and photographs, brought the young people up to date on life in present-day Japan. She also told of her work among the Canadian Japanese in British Columbia during the war years.

Rev. T. S. Knox, of St. Matthew's Church, Quebec, acted as chaplain and celebrated at the Holy Communion on Sunday morning. He was assisted at the other services by the young men of the conference.

Miss Annie Johnson, of Lower Ireland, acted as hostess and with the assistance of Mrs. Sample was responsible for the very fine meals and the smooth running of the camp in general.

An interesting feature of the camp program was the discussion period in which the members were divided into groups to discuss the various problems of A.Y. branches, later to present their findings to the Conference as a whole.

On the recreational side, the campers enjoyed swimming, boating, ping-pong, square dancing, sing-songs and campfires as well as the traditional picnic supper on the beach.

MALAN AND THE COMMONWEALTH

The only surprise about South African Prime Minister Malan's threat to quit the British Commonwealth is that it has been so slow in coming.

The danger began the day the Nationalists took over the South African government. Now Malan says the empire will find its grave in Africa unless Britain changes her policies in support of racial equality.

South Africa's racial problem has many different segments.

There is segregation of the blacks, restrictions on the Indians, and the political division among the whites handed down from the Boer War. The 2,500,000 whites are divided into two major parties, Malan's Nationalists, primarily those of Dutch derivation, and the United Party of the British. Both bear responsibility for the troubles, but the Nationalists in the four years of their administration have gone to extremes, even tampering with the constitution and the inviolability of the courts.

The British descendants see in this the forging of a weapon which would leave them a tiny minority indeed in a country completely under the Nationalist thumb.

Already there is talk of secession in Natal province, heavily British and strongly opposed to Malan's idea of setting up an independent republic which, from this distance, appears to be planned along the lines of totalitarianism.

Malan's racial program, tied in with his talk of new governmental forms, creates a situation strongly remindful of Germany in 1932.

Britain has been walking softly with relation to South Africa ever since Malan's victory in 1948. Comments in the British press are most temperate. But nervousness is obvious.

Malan has already flung himself in the face of the United Nations, and frequently reiterates his defiance of outside interference. Dark forces are at work which have not yet come to a head.

It is not impossible to envision a day when the British-owned gold and diamond mines would go the same road as Iran's oil wells.

AN AMERICAN VIEWPOINT

An American viewpoint on the five per cent premium being charged in Canada on the American dollar is carried by the Journal of Lorrain, Ohio. In a leading editorial, the paper says:

"American tourists soon find their dollar isn't worth quite a dollar in Canada. Stores and other places of business accept U. S. money. But most of them charge five cents on the dollar.

"Having just returned from a pleasant visit in Canada, we know what the reaction of the average American tourist is likely to be. It becomes increasingly aggravating to have American money discounted.

"A $20.00 U. S. Bill tendered to pay a charge of $20 for lodging or some other item doesn't settle the account. The American has to fork over another dollar to make his money worth the same as Canadian money.

"The annoying part of the financial transactions is that a dollar even after the premium has been paid won't buy any more in Canada than in the U. S."

Further on the paper discusses the large income which Canada enjoys from American tourist traffic and adds, "Their income would be sharply cut if the flow of American dollars came to a halt." In this connection the newspaper states it believed that "if the Canadian dollar goes still higher Americans will be forced to stay on their own side of the border because they will not be able to afford the high cost of a Canadian trip."

This editorial reflects the thinking of a large number of Americans who have visited with us this year. They believe erroneously that somehow or other the premium is rigged up by the Canadian people, just as a merchant might revise the price tag upwards.

Merchants, politicians and others on both sides of the border have been expressing the wish that steps could be taken to keep the Canadian dollar at par with the American dollar. But how this could be done remains a problem. The relative values of the two currencies are tied to the ebb and flow of trade, both ways, across the border. Artificial pegging at par would set up complications giving rise to more severe headaches than the present dissatisfaction over the premium.

LIST OF CIVIL SERVANTS LIMITS CLEAN-UP BY NEXT PRESIDENT

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — The extent of the housecleaning and general exodus of tired bureaucrats from Washington on the day the new man takes over as President seems to have been considerably exaggerated.

This is true no matter whether it's Eisenhower or Stevenson who moves in. Not nearly as many resignations will have to be submitted and accepted as may be imagined. In the 12 departments and 51 independent agencies, not more than 2000 jobs may be subject to presidential appointment.

Of the government's roughly 2,500,000 employees in the executive department of government, 93 per cent, or about 2,325,000 are civil service, career men and women. They can be fired only for cause and not at the whim of some new boss who may happen to have politics different from the boss they've had.

These civil service employees are not, however, completely frozen in their present jobs. They may be transferred from one spot to another within the limits of their grades. There may be considerable shifting around of the help because of this.

The purpose will be to break up past loyalties and bring new faces into the offices of the new administrators. But under the law and civil service regulations, career employees can't be downgraded nor upgraded precipitously.

Some Agencies Have Own Merit Systems

Of the 175,000 non-civil service government employees, approximately 150,000 are employed by independent agencies of government that have merit systems of their own.

This would include some 14,000 employees of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, 20,000 employees of the Tennessee Valley authority, 6000 in the Atomic Energy Commission, and similar outfits.

It would include the people working for Central Intelligence Agency, which publishes no information on the number of its employees. It would include the 9000 foreign service officers of the State Department and the 11,000 foreigners working as chauffeurs, servants and minor clerks in U. S. abroad.

What's left is a gross of 25,000 federal jobs subject to presidential appointment in one way or another. But a new President can by no means accept the resignatoins of that many job holders when he steps into the White House and replace them with his own buddies.

Many of the appointments made by President Truman and by President Roosevelt before him for life-time jobs or for a definite period of years. Only a limited number of these jobs may become vacant in 1953, due to death, retirement or resignation.

Donald Dawson, who has handled top personnel placements for President Truman says that on the average, his office has had to find about 200 people a year for presidential appointments. The way this works out is shown by a rundown of typical agencies.

White House Staff Is Less Than 20

In the White House itself, the President has a personal staff of less than 20. They are his assistant (Steelman), counsel (Murphy), three secretaries (Connelly, Short and Hassett, who recently retired), five administrative assistants, budgets director (Lawton), three economic advisers, Security secretary (Lay), Resources Board chairman (Gorrie), Mutual Security director (Harriman) and Mobilization director(vacant, formerly held by C. E. Wilson). All the other 1200 employees of the executive office are civil service.

In the State Department are about 100 appointive jobs. They include the secretary, undersecretary, two deputies, eight assistant secretaries, 58 embassadors and 14 ministers abroad, with 10 or a dozen officials of that rank in Washington or at the UN.

But half the people now in these jobs are career foreign service officers. They would probably be transferred to other posts, but not fired.

In Justice Department the attorney general, solicitor general, deputy attorney general, assistant and executive assistant to the attorney general and five assistant attorneys general, all of their first assistants and perhaps 25 on the personal staff of the attorney general are exempted from civil service.

Department of Agriculture, with 66,000 employees, has only 10 top jobs filled by the President.

Post Office Department used to be a great nest of spoils system appointments. But today, of the 4100 postmasters, the President gets to appoint only to first, second and third-class post office, and even these appointees must be from civil service career lists after a competitive examination.

PRESS COMMENTS

SKIMPING ON ROAD BASE

Toronto Globe and Mail

Two thousand years ago, for horse-drawn chariots and carts, the Romans built their roads with as much as forty inches depth of rock. A hundred and fifty years ago John Loudon McAdam, for the same type of traffic, advocated eight to ten inches of rock base. Today, with motorized vehicles weighing from two or forty tons or more and travelling ten to fifteen times the speed of the ancients, many of our hardest-worked highways are a thin shell of pavement resting on no more than McAdam used.

We pay dearly for this skimping on rock base. For maintenance of about 600 miles of streets Toronto this year is spending $1,300,000 (with sidewalks getting a minor share.) Some recent fiscal years have shown the Provincial Government spending as much on maintenance as on capital construction. By an irony the Romans' roads lasted centuries after their hegemony had vanished and their civilization died. Moreover, they paid as they went. In contrast, at the present rate our own civilization will take its roads with it into oblivion —leaving only the debt for history to resolve.

GRIN OF THE CAT

Sydney, N.S., Post-Record

Once upon a time the dog-day yarns were about flag-pole sitters, tree-top perchers, marathon dancers and champion miniature golf. Nowadays the yarns are about flying saucers. So many claim to have seen them that it might be a good idea to make it unanimous and change the subject. Now it's the turn of a Saskatchewan woman. As she was walking along the railway tracks she saw a large ball giving off a red glow. It exploded and disappeared seconds after it passed over. That's what they all do — vanish without a trace. It would be a relief if someone for a change detected the grin of the Cheshire Cat in the sky. That too has a way of disappearing and reappearing. Alice has plenty of company in Wonderland.

POLIO CAMPAIGN APPEALS TO ALL

Erosion Problem Is Major Threat In South Africa

Johannesburg —(CP)— With the rainy season approaching, South Africa is beginning to cast an anxious eye at the weather.

A drought might mean famine; even with good rains, food is going to be pretty scarce, according to some forecasts. Such claims are described by the Agriculture Department as grossly exaggerated, but they are taken seriously by many others.

C. J. J. van Rensburg, a government soil and grass expert, has stumped South Africa for years warning that soil erosion is bringing on the calamity of famine. Today he says: "This is my final warning."

Van Rensburg says bluntly: "We are facing famine. There will soon be shortages of meat, maize, wheat and dairy products. Housewives will queue as they have never done before, and food prices will rise steeply."

One major cause of the erosion, root of the whole problem, was the way in which African tribesmen were driven to the hills in the last century by Boers and British alike, leaving the great fertile plains to be divided among white settlers.

On the heights with their primitive husbandry, the Africans have devoured their heritage of land, forest and water. In their tireless search for firewood for instance they have uprooted practically every tree in hundreds of miles of country that was covered with woods or forest not more than a century ago.

In the lands below, windmills and pumps have multiplied over the years. The farmers clamor continually for more and more drilling machines and always the drills have to go deeper to find underground water.

The rivers carry off an increasing tonnage of irreplacable top soil and the biggest irrigation schemes silt up in a few years.

The farmers plow to the river banks and the rivers run faster and faster with the years.

On the great fertile plains of the Transvaal and Free State the white man's record has been little better. The soil has been exhausted by continuous crop production, with no rest, and by over-grazing. Birds and animals which maintained the balance of nature have been exterminated.

South Africa has a state-subsidised organization called the National Veld Trust which has the job of warning the people against the dangers of soil erosion.

The general manager, T. C. Robertson, tirelessly puts over the point of view that the soil structure is collapsing in the best farming areas—the great "maize triangle" of the Transvaal and Orange Free State provinces.

"A collapse of the soil structure means that South Africa no longer has generations of time to save itself from famine. It has five years at the most," he says.

"It means that the soil no longer holds moisture and if you get even a small drought your crops wither."

But South Africa's hard-headed government of farmers refuses to be stampeded by what the Minister of Agriculture, Stephen LeRoux, calls "gloomy predictions of hunger, death and doom."

Mr. LeRoux has what he calls a plan for survival. It has three stages. The first is to get the churches, the schools, farmers, traders, workers, to observe every September as "green month"—a "conservation month."

The second stage provides for determined efforts to spread the results of scientific research to the farmers and farm workers.

The third stage is to get all farmers and other people on the land to make a combined effort to save the soil.

WATCH YOUR TIMING AND FORGET WORRIES

"How do you choose what to play for in this hand?" asks a Danbury correspondent. "When I played the hand, I won the first trick with the ace of clubs, drew trumps, and tried for a 3-3 club break. When this failed I led a diamond from dummy, hoping that East held the ace.

"He didn't, as you can see, and I lost the slam. My wife told me later that I could have ruffed out the queen of hearts. But how was I to know?"

It isn't necessary to choose a particular line of play in this hand. If you time the tricks carefully you can play for everything.

Correct play is to win the first trick with the ace of clubs and lead out four rounds of trumps, discarding a diamond from the dummy. The fourth trump does no particular good in this case, but South can well afford it, and it may persuade one of the opponents that he is being squeezed.

South next cashes the ace and king of hearts and enters dummy with the king of clubs to ruff a heart. If the queen of hearts drops, the slam is home.

If the queen of hearts does not drop, South leads his last club to dummy's queen in the hope that the suit will break 3-3. If so, the slam is home.

If South is unlucky both in hearts and in clubs, he has lost nothing, since he is in the dummy, and can now lead a diamond towards his king. Hence, he will make his slam if the queen of hearts drops, or if the clubs break, or if the ace of diamonds is in the East hand.

The Record Short Story

RELUCTANT BRIDEGROOM

By MAY HOLT BATCHELDER

By the time that Dave Harrow had reached his 28th birthday he realized that all his friends were married and that it was high time he married some nice girl and settled down to a pleasant domestic life. Somehow or other, he'd never found the right girl with whom to fall in love, but being the only bachelor in the crowd wasn't much fun. Dave decided he'd better think about marriage.

He still lived with his parents in their large house in the Westchester suburban town of Birchdale. Perhaps it was because he was so comfortable at home that he'd put off getting married. But now his parents were hinting that he ought to marry; they were in the middle fifties and eager to have some cute grandchildren to spoil. Dave's mother, a charming cheerful gray-haired woman whose enthusiasms were golf, gardening and bridge, was a born matchmaker. She and her dear friend and neighbor, Mrs. Brown, with whom she chatted interminably over the telephone, cooked up plans for a romance between Dave and Mrs. Brown's daughter, Marcia, who had just returned to Birchdale after working a year in San Francisco, whence she had fled after a broken romance. Apparently Marcia approved of Dave as a husband.

Once she and the two mothers had become imbued with the delightful idea, they barged full steam ahead and there was no stopping them. Dave hadn't a chance in the world; even the two fathers aided and abetted the romance and openly discussed the forthcoming marriage.

Dave had known Marcia all his life; he'd gone to school with her, played golf and tennis with her; at his mother's insistence, he'd dragged her to the Assembly dances and once he'd invited her up to New Haven for a Yale football week-end. Marcia, tall and square-shouldered, wasn't exactly pretty but she had honest blue eyes and a wide friendly smile. She was a good sport, an awfully nice girl; Dave was fond of her but he certainly never felt what could be called love for her.

But both mothers were working at the incipient romance, throwing the two young people together, having cozy little family dinners at the country club, saying happily to everyone that of course they weren't sure yet but it did look as if Marcia and Dave were meant for each other and wasn't it wonderful that their families were such friends?

Dave simply didn't have a fighting chance with all this determined buildup and campaign. The two mothers and Marcia, with a few assists from the fathers, engineered the match deftly and completely. Dave drifted into the net that had been cast to enmesh him. Love, he thought confusedly, did not seem to enter the picture. Almost before he knew what was happening, he found himself officially engaged to Marcia. He spent far too much money on a handsome engagement ring; Marcia's parents did themselves proud by giving a lavish cocktail party to announce the engagement; Marcia's photograph and the announcement duly appeared on the social pages of the Sunday newspapers.

From then on, it was a dizzy whirl. Dave was completely ignored. He heard incessant woman-talk about silver patterns, china, crystal, monogrammed linens and such sneifr ? d kM!mpla!;-h Marcia's trousseau. Agreeable, quietly amenable, even though slightly bewildered by the steamroller engagement, Dave signed a two-year lease on an attractive little apartment in Birchdale, just a short drive from the two families. Marcia was forever going into huddles with her mother and Dave's about the color schemes of kitchen and bath, chattering about chintzes for the living room and bedroom. Flanked by the two happy mothers, Marcia went to New York and chose her wedding dress. She couldn't choose the bridesmaids' dresses and order the invitations because she still didn't know just when the wedding was to be.

Surprisingly, Dave had developed a stubborn streak, quite alien to his amiable character, and he wouldn't say when it would be most convenient for them to be married. He stalled along and said they ought to be engaged a while longer, and, anyway, he wanted to get the raise promised him by his company before he got married. He couldn't say to anyone: "What about love? Isn't that important?" So he just went on acting stubborn, a most reluctant bridegroom.

People began giving bridal showers for Marcia; everybody asked when the happy event was to take place. It was getting to be rather embarrassing for Marcia. She said to him ,not naggingly, but nicely, for she was an awfully nice girl, that she really should know when the wedding was to be, there were so many plans to make for the big ceremony and elaborate reception. Dave knew that everything was irrevocably set for his marriage to Marcia; he couldn't possibly back out now. But somehow he felt a strange reluctance, because he realized that the engagement was lacking a vital ingredient—love. He was fond enough of Marcia and knew she adored him. But he felt hesitant about settling down for life when he'd never been really in love; hence his stalling about a definite date . . .

Dave commuted every morning to New York on the 8:17 express, an excellent train that stopped at only one other station, Elmcliff, before getting to Grand Central. One Monday morning in July, after a particularly harassing week-end wherein his parents, Marcia's parents and Marcia herself had bulldozed him into saying he would be married the first Saturday in September, just as Marcia wanted, he climbed wearily on the train and settled down in his regular seat. Everybody was terribly pleased and excited that he'd finally agreed to a wedding date. All but Dave. This hot, sticky Monday morning he felt trapped and depressed and cheated. He stared glumly at the headlines of his morning newspaper and didn't even notice that the train had stopped at Elmcliff until he heard a sweet feminine voice asking politely in that courteous manner of Westchester commuters, "May I share this seat?"

Dave Harrow, that sedate and practical young man, fiance of Marcia Brown, felt his heart leap like a flame. At the sound of that voice, tinkling and gay, exactly like silver bells, Dave fell deeply in love with a small, pretty girl in a red linen sleeveless dress. Her dark hair was tied back with a scarlet ribbon that matched her lovely red lips. As she looked demurely at her newspaper, he stared sidewise at her enchanting young profile, the sweep of dark lashes that fringed her downcast eyes. A pleasing perfume like the scent of fresh gardenias drifted over to him and Dave sighed. This was it. This was love. Just like that. She was so pretty, so young.

Sternly reminding himself that he was marrying Marcia the first Saturday in September, he looked at his newspaper but his eyes kept wandering to the girl. At Grand Central he walked up the ramp with the girl; when she turned right and he turned left he smiled at her and she smiled back. Fireworks exploded in Dave's heart, skyrockets of joy zoomed past his ears; he was in love at last. Not with Marcia; with a strange girl whose name he didn't know but whose features he'd memorized forever.

Next morning on the train he saved the seat next to him and hoped and prayed she'd sit there. When she did, and he smelled that heavenly gardenia fragrance, he was so happy he couldn't even speak. He offered her half his newspaper because she hadn't brought one this morning. She thanked him and then they began to talk. There were electric sparks between them, a terrific attraction. All the way to Grand Central they chatted—eagerly, volubly as he and Marcia had never done. Her name was Sally Burr, she was 20; she lived in Elmcliff with her parents and she'd been working as a secretary in an advertising agency only since June when she was graduated from junior college.

From then on, they sat together every morning; he found out which train she took in the evenings and sat with her on the way home. They always had so much to talk about; it was a joy to be together; Dave had never been so happy. He felt that he should tell her about his engagement but he kept postponing the moment. He just didn't want to break the spell; he wanted his happiness to last as long as possible; forever, really, he admitted to himself.

Week-ends he saw Marcia, but seldom alone as they went to cocktail parties and dances; they played golf and tennis and went swimming. Then, in between times, they had to talk over the wedding plans and discuss guest lists with the two sets of beaming parents. Dave spent the week-ends in a daze, scarcely hearing the chatter of the wedding plans; he thought secretly and with anguish of Sally, darling Sally, and wishing he were with her.

Monday mornings on the train were a joy; he and Sally were so happy to see each other. They began meeting for lunch in New York; now and then they stayed in town for dinner. The summer sped on; July went by and part of August. Finally Dave knew he would have to tell Sally that he was going to be married; that he hadn't meant to keep the secret from her but they always had so much fun laughing and talking together that there never seemed to be an appropriate ttime to explain that he was engaged.

One Friday night in August he met her after work and they went to one of their favorite restaurants, a quiet, dim, aircooled place that had soft music in the background. Sally looked as pretty as ever; she was wearing the same sleeveless red linen dress she'd had on the morning they met on the train. Seeing it made his heart twist in pain. After they'd had dessert and coffee he held her hand. "Sally, darling Sally," he said urgently, "I have something important to tell you——"

She leaned toward him and he could smell the fragrance of gardenias. Her young lips were as red as poppies, her voice as musical as silver bells. "I know, I know, Dave," she said softly, her eyes deep-dark with love. "We're in love. And we have been ever since the day we met. Isn't it wonderful, darling?"

Dave was utterly miserable. His words would be like knives in her trusting heart. "It's too late. I'm engaged to a girl in Birchdale," he said unhappily. "We're being married in September, the invitations are to go out tomorrow. Our parents are close friends. I can't get out of it. I can't let Marcia down." He stared at her lovely face and he felt that his heart was breaking. "I love you, Sally. I always will. I didn't tell you before, because I was so happy just being with you and I was hoping things would work out for us. But I can't go back on my word. There are too many people involved. You must understand. It's too late, my darling, too late——"

Her big dark eyes were shining with tears. Sally stared at him. "Too late," she murmured. Then, after a long interval of stunned silence when she just sat and looked at him, she jumped to her feet and picked up her handbag. "We'll, okay, Dave," she said gaily. "It was nice knowing you. No, don't bother to take me home. I'd rather be alone. I'll get a cab to Grand entral. And by the way, I'll take an earlier train in the mornings after this." Her voice broke a little; her lips trembled. "I wouldn't want to embarrass an engaged man. Well, good luck, Dave," she said gallantly. "Lots of happiness and good-by."

He stood and watched her walk quickly through the dim cool restaurant, her proud head held high. She was so pretty, so young. She'll get over this, he assured himself; she'll be married in a year or two. Dave never drank much but now he ordered a double Scotch and sat drinking it slowly and sadly. He and Marcia would be married in three weeks; everybody would be so pleased and happy.

He finished his drink and paid the dinner check. He looked at his watch; just time enough to catch the 8:55. The wedding invitations were to be mailed tomorrow; he would soon be a married man, just as he'd wanted to be. Marcia would be a wonderful wife. He would be a considerate husband, a good provider, a kind father, a model citizen. But he knew that to the end of his life whenever he smelled gardenias or saw scarlet poppies blowing in the summer breeze or heard the tinkle of silver bells he would always be reminded, with a stab in his heart, of Sally, his little lost love.

"Should the Prime Minister refuse to see Sorkin, the rabid Sons of Freedom have threatened to start a trek from their homes while the Prime Minister is in B.C.

"They would march, picking up new members on the way, to the biggest Kootenay cities, staging demonstrations and probably stripping in public in a move to embarrass Mr. St. Laurent."

Vernon, B.C., Sept. 3— (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent last night got a piece of a pretty famous cheese.

Mayor A. C. Wilde of Vernon presented the Prime Minister with a wedge of Salmon Arm cheddar cheese from Vat 101, made April 17, 1951.

It was from this vat that Salmon Arm made a presentation to the then Princess Elizabeth when she passed through that city Oct. 19, 1951.

Presentation of the cheese, said to be "even more delightful" though one year older, was made on behalf of North Okanagan valley farmers.

"N.G." — HE SAYS — "O.K." Deputy Warden J. F. Brann, above of the Broward County (Fla.) road camp, wants convicts put back in the old-fashioned striped uniform. So does Sheriff Amos Hall, who will ask the state legislature to make the zebra-type motif the official fashion for Florida felons. The currently used "humane" uniform, they say, is a headache. Too many prisoners escape by just walking away and are hard to recapture because their uniforms are inconspicuous. The fugitives are more likely to be taken for sloppily dressed tourists than criminals, the officers say. Warden Brann, in charge of the Broward Country camp near Pompano Beach, Fla., poses at left above in the present uniform, in which, he says, he could walk down the main street of Fort Lauderdale unnoticed. At right, he models the type he says no

GREENSHIELDS' MARKET REVIEW

Papers were firmer in moderately active trading yesterday. International was up ⅝ at 48¾ and gains of ⅝ were registered by Consolidated at 35⅜ and by Great Lakes at 18¼. On an easier oil list, Imperial and International Petroleum were off ⅜ at 33⅜ and 30 respectively.

A federal budgetary surplus of $334.9 million was reported for the first four months of the fiscal year. Defence expenditures, at $439.7 million, were 50 per cent higher than last year, but still $263.9 million under the budgetary quota.

Following a taxation agreement with the federal government, corporation income tax in Ontario will be reduced from 54 to 42 per cent.

In answer to reports that some countries would ask for a higher gold price at the meeting at the International Monetary Fund, U.S. Treasury Secretary Snyder declared that the gold buying and selling price of the U.S. government would be held at $35 an ounce.

Prsident Truman announced reduction, ranging up to 50 per cent in duties on oil imports, in return for tariff concessions by Venezuela. The reduction applies to oil imports from all countries and, accordingly, widens the potential area in which Canadian oil can be sold with profit in the United States.

Bathurst Power and Paper Co. reported a net profit of $1,028,383 or 87c per "B" share for the six months ended June 30, as compared with $1,518,313 or $2.21 in the like period of 1951.

Zellers Ltd. reported net profit of $353,913 or 44c per share for the first half of 1952, as compared with $259,325 or 29c per share a year ago. These figures do not include profits of Federal Stores which were purchased in March this year.

The paid up capital of the Provincial Bank of Canada will be increased from 400,000 to 500,000 dollar shares of $10 par value. Shareholders of record Sept. 15 will be allotted one new share for each four held, at the price of $14.50 each.

We have prepared a shirt memorandum on the Husky Oil and Refining Co. which has been in the news recently, following its important discovery in the Pigeon Lake area where the oil bearing section appears to be of exceptional thickness. Copies of this memorandum will be mailed upon request.

YANKS GET QUICK DIVIDENDS IN BLACKWELL INVESTMENT

Cop Two From Red Sox To Extend Lead; Phillies Slaughter Dodgers Taking Twin-Bill; Senators Win

Thanks to stalwart pitching by three moundsmen, two of them former National League players, New York Yankees blanked Boston Red Sox twice in an American League day-night doubleheader Tuesday, 5-0 and 4-0.

The double triumph increased the Yanks' lead to 3½ games over the idle Cleveland Indians.

Rookie Tommy Gorman twirled an eight-hitter in the opening game. In the nightcap, Ewell Blackwell and Johnny Sain, a pair of veteran righthanders plucked from the National League, combined to shut out the Red Sox with five hits.

The victories extended the Yankees' streak to five straight. The Sox have lost seven of their last eight and have scored only once in their last 36 innings. They are 8½ games off the pace.

Blackwell, purchased from Cincinnati Reds last week, permitted four singles in five innings in his first start for the world champions. He tired in the humidity and was removed for a pinch hitter. Sain finished, allowing one more single.

Brooklyn Dodgers may be a cinch to win the National League pennant but they performed like novices in dropping a twi-night doubleheader to Philadelphia Phillies. The Phils slaughtered the Brooks twice with a combination of brilliant pitching and long ball hitting. Robin Roberts won his 22nd victory in the opener 8-2, while Carl Drews waltzed to his 13th win 9-3 in the nightcap.

Willie Jones rapped his 14th and 15th home runs, while Del Ennis collected his 18th roundtripper, a single, double and three runs batted in. Jackie Robinson's 17th homer in the first inning and a singleton in the fourth were the only runs off Roberts.

In the second game the Phillies blasted rookie Ray Moore from the mound with a single run in the first inning and three more in the second.

Chicago White Sox belted 12 hits, including Minnie Minoso's homer, to trim Detroit Tigers 7-4 and sweep a doubleheader from the American League tail-enders.

The Palehose won the opener 6-5 on Rocco Krsnich's two-run triple in the ninth inning. Krsnich's blow came off Virgil (double no-hit) Trucks just after the Detroit veteran had replaced Hal White, who was charged with the loss.

Mike Fornieles, 20-year-old Cuban righthander pitching his first major league game, held Philadelphia Athletics to one hit as Washington scored 5-0 victory in the second game of a doubleheader. The Senators took the opener 3-2 in 10 innings.

Washington registered only three hits in each game. Fornieles held the A's hitless in the last 7 2/3 innings of the nightcap after Joe Astroth singled in the second inning.

The A's Bob Hooper forced across the winning run in the opener by walking Jackie Jensen with the bases loaded with one out in the 10th.

Julie Sampson Causes Surprise With Victory Over Japan's Lady Champ; Perry's Showing Big Disappointment

Forest Hills, N Y., Sept. 3—(AP) — It isn't likely that anyone is going to beat Maureen Connolly in this year's National Tennis Championships—at least not before the finals. But a few of the fans scattered at the West Side Tennis Club already have had a look at the next Connolly.

She is Julie Sampson, 18, of San Marino, Calif., the newly-crowned National Girls' Champion, who caused some ex-popping and tongue-wagging yesterday by the way she disposed of Japan's women's champion, Sachiko Kamo.

Julie is a tall, thin reddish-haired girl who appears to be at about the same stage of tennis development as Miss Connolly was a year or so ago.

"Little Mo" went right on through to win the United States and Wimbledon Championships. She's favored to repeat this year.

Miss Sampson didn't get started until yesterday because she was busy winning the girls' title last week. She beat Miss Kamo, 12-10, 6-4, in a first-round match played before only a few spectators.

Afterwards a tennis official remarked that Julie already plays well enough to be ranked in the first 10 and should have been seeded for this tournament. Miss Kamo figured to reach the quarter-finals if she hadn't bumped into Julie yesterday.

The biggest doings in the men's division came when Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., ninth-seeded American, outlasted Denmark's champion, Kurt Neilsen, 6-2, 2-6, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Clark's next opponent in the round of 16 will be Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif. Flam found young Robert Perry, one of the most promising juniors, a shaky opponent in his first big stadium match and whipped him 6-1, 6-2, 6-0.

Also advancing to the round of 16 yesterday were defending-champion Frank Sedgman of Australia and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, the top-seeded American. Australia's Ken Rosewall and Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., also won their places.

Henri Rochen of Montreal teamed with Bonnie McKay of Dayton, O., to reach the third round of mixed-doubles play. And Montreal's Brendan Macken and Mrs. Lucille Davidson of Lees Summit, Me., took their first-round mixed-doubles match.

Montreal's James Gilliam Named International League's Most Valuable Player Of 1952 Season

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—James (Junior) Gilliam, Montreal's switch hitting second baseman, was named the International Baseball Leagues' most valuable player of 1952 yesterday.

He won the honor two years after being dropped by the Springfield, Mass., club in spring training as not good enough for the International League.

Gilliam, 23, was named on 19 of the 28 ballots cast by newspaper men. He received 175 points with Roy Weatherly, veteran Baltimore outfielder, second with 138. Harry Walker, Rochester's manager-outfielder, was third with 112.

Gilliam, owned by the Brooklyn Dodgers, is the third Montreal player to receive the award. Jim Bloodworth was the first, in 1948, and Bob Morgan the second in 1949.

Archie Wilson, Buffalo outfielder who won in 1951, now is with Boston Red Sox.

Gilliam, a rare speedster, is batting .312 and tied for league leadership in two-base hits with 37. He is runner-up in runs scored, 100, and in stolen bases, 17. He also is credited with seven triples and nine home runs.

A native of Nashville, Tenn., Gilliam began playing pro ball in 1945 with the Nashville Black Volunteers of the Negro Southern League. In 1950 he received a spring training trial with Springfield Cubs but was released before the season opened.

Signed by the Royals in 1951, he batted .287 in 152 games, drew 117 walks, scored as many runs, and was elected to the Shaughnessy circuit all-star team.

On June 17, 1951, in a doubleheader at Buffalo, Gilliam collected eight hits, three walks and a sacrifice in 12 plate appearances, winding up the feat with a grand-slam home run.

Last June, in a twin-bill at Syracuse, he banged out seven hits, including two home runs.

SHERBROOKE FAIR PROVES HUGE SUCCESS

The 67th annual Eastern Townships Agricultural Association Fair wound up Friday in a blaze of glory if the final reports are any indication.

The Weather Man, for a change, played his part and gave President W. G. MacDougall and his committees fine support for the full seven days. This is unusual as it generally rains during the middle of the week but this year the Weather Man was very co-operative and the 67th event can be termed as one of the best held for quite sometime.

All committees, and various departments, attained wonderful success. The entries were numerous and surpassed anything witnessed during preceding years. The public turned out in huge numbers and set a new attendance record.

The races, we think, were the best witnessed for some years and although no new track records were set the classes were evenly contested. The pari-mutuels set a new high for their week's work as the betting public went all out trying to beat the ponies but we think that very few got rich during the week, in fact they can consider themselves lucky if they broke even.

The Fair is over for another year and as the saying goes, "get out your overcoats and think about your furnace as winter is coming around the corner." The football season is commencing and before long the hockey boys will swing into action and before we know it snow will be on the ground.

To President W. G. MacDougall and his different committees congratulations for your efforts in giving the public another fine Fair and we trust that next year another new set of records will be made.

Ted Anderson's softball circuit swings into action tonight with a doubleheader as the initial tilts of the loop playdowns. The first game is slated for 7.00 and the second at 8.30. Both at Dufresne Park.

In the opener Textile and Domil will get together while in the twilight affair Shermac and Suffield will meet. The winners will clash for the loop title. The semi-finals are a two-out-of-three with the finals a three-out-of-five series.

All summer the fans have witnessed some very fine ball and the playoffs should be no exception. President Ted and his circuit should be congratulated for their fine effort in giving the public some good ball. Everything went off in tip-top fashion and the followers enjoyed every minute of it. So don't forget tonight at 7.00 at Dufresne Park.

* * *

We think that W. H. Holmes, the 87-year-old golfer from Stanstead, who scored a hole-in-one really deserves a lot of credit. Registering such an act is quite a thing but when you are crowding the 90-mark it makes it that much more remarkable.

Mr. Holmes commenced the game when he was 65-years-old, when the average golfer is thinking of retiring, so all in all it makes everything that much more outstanding.

To Mr. Holmes congratulations to you on behalf of all the golfers. We really think that you deserve it for accomplishing such a feat at your age and we sincerely trust that you enjoyed every minute of it.

* * *

Congratulations are due to Rene Pepin for winning the Lord Calvert "Player of Distinction" award over the week-end. Hank Delorme, arena manager of Calvert's, made the presentation Sunday afternoon at Dufresne Park.

Rene is very well known to local sporting fans and in our mind the fans made a good choice. He holds down third base for Tony Pinard's Athletics and last winter he patrolled right wing for the Saints. He plays ball just as well as hockey so all in all it looks as though the choice was well deserved.

* * *

The first meeting of the Sherbrooke Senior Hockey Club under it's new president, Alex Allard, will take place this afternoon at the New Sherbrooke Hotel at 4.00 and no doubt some news about the coming season will be given out.

Mr. Allard was on a visit to the States when he was elected head of the team but upon his return he immediately started the ball rolling. There remains a few more small details to complete the executive but we understand that these positions have already been filled by the new prexy and it is just a matter to have them elected.

Tickets on the car are going well according to Art Laforest, who is in charge of the raffle, and with the approach of the season things should brighten up. Coach Ivan Dugre has already lined up some pretty good players but until the boys have affixed their signatures no names will be given out. A little matter of safety first to prevent raiding.

The team will report in fifteen days to start the pre-season training. This will be held at the Arena once again and a fair crowd is expected. A lot depends on how things will shape up between the A.H.L. and the N.H.L. regarding their new rule about switching players. A tie-up with one of the pro clubs is in the initial stage we understand and perhaps it may be completed but this depends on what comes out of the ruling between the pro circuits. This should be decided very shortly and players should be on the swing in large numbers. Anyway time will settle everything.

All the dierectors are asked to be on hand this afternoon as we understand that President Allard has some very serious plans to discuss about the coming season. So don't forget, New Sherbrooke Hotel at 4.00.

* * *

It would seem that the Dodgers have the National League all sewed up with a nine game lead but in the American things look a lot different. The Yanks, with their castoffs, are setting the pace, three and a half games out in front of the Indians, but anything could happen before the curtain drops on the 1952 season.

The Red Sox are trying to close the gap but it looks like a tough job as the Old Yanks are determined to repeat. Just about this time one of the second division clubs steps into the picture and ruins the pennant hopes of the top competitors. Wonder who will assume the Giant-killer role this year? It will be interesting to watch things for the next few weeks. We still think the Yanks will come through as they seem to be pretty good in the clutches.

Joe "The Toe" Aguirre Proves He Is Far From Being Washed Up; Turns In Outstanding Game In "Comeback"

Edmonton, Sept. 3. — (CP) — A year ago Winnipeg Blue Bombers apparently figured that old Joe (The Toe) Aguirre was all washed up. But no one can convince Edmonton football fans that the one-time Los Angeles Dons player belongs on the bench.

Catching on as line coach with Eskimos of the Western Canada conference this season, Aguirre went into action when injuries knocked out two first-string middles. His "comeback" has been sensational.

Rollin Prather from Kansas was moved from his end position to middle and Aguirre took over Prather's big boots.

Monday night the Esks were trailing the unbeaten Calgary Stampeders 10-3 going into the last quarter. Then Aguirre started to click with help from the nifty passing arm of quarterback Claude Arnold.

Arnold, who last played in 1950 with the University of Oklahoma, threw two touchdown passes to Aguirre. Joe converted both. Edmonton got two more fourth-quarter points when Stampeders were roughed after booming Aguirre kicks.

Aguirre had kicked Edmonton's first point and had caught a forward that paved the way for Esks' other two first-half points.

During the game he caught eight passes from Arnold for an aggregate gain of 204 yards.

It was a nice night's work for a "washed-up" guy.

W.H. Holmes Joins Golf's Charmed Set

W. H. Holmes, of Stanstead, joined golf's charmed circle when he dropped his tee shot for an ace on the third hole at the Dufferin Heights Golf Club.

Mr. Holmes' feat is rather unique in itself as he is in his 87th year and took up the game when he was 65-years-old. When he was 82-years-old he won the Handicap Championship of the Dufferin Heights Golf Club.

The hole is 160-yards long and is well-known to all golfers who have played over the nine-hole layout and is a heard feat even for much younger golfers.

Montrealers Fare Well In U.S. National Event

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 3—(AP)—Henri Rochon of Montreal and Bonnie McKay of Dayton, O., yesterday moved into the third round of the mixed doubles competition at the United States Tennis Championships by defeating William Davis of Knoxville, Tenn., and Betty Coumbe of Westfield, N.J., 6-1, 6-3.

Mrs. Lucille Davidson, Lees Summit, Mo., and Brendan Macken, Montreal, defeated Diana McIlvane and Donald Thompson, New York 17-15, 6-3, in the first round of mixed doubles.

Adreole May Win Derby For Queen Elizabeth

London, Sept. 3—(AP)—A stoutly-bred racehorse, currently learning his lessons in the Newmarket Stables of Capt. Cecil Boyd Rochfort, may round out Queen Elizabeth's 1953 coronation week by winning the Derby for her.

The chestnut colt, Adreole, winner of a six-furlong race at York a week ago, impressed British racing critics as likely to develop into an outstanding three-year-old with a chance to take the 1½-mile Derby.

Aureole, a son of Hyperion, was bred on the Royal Farms at Sandringham. Hyperion was winner of the 1933 Derby. The colt's mother, Angelola, won some good races for King George VI and was one of his favorites.

Capt. Charles Moore, manager of the Queen's racehorse, says he believes Aureole is the best colt bred at Sandringham.

Als Acquire Another Import End, Tom Halon

Montreal, Sept. 3—(CP)—Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union last night announced the acquisition of end Tom Halon, bringing to 11 the number of imports on the Larks' lineup.

Hanlon played for the University of Pennsylvania during the last four years. He is six feet one, weighs 202 pounds and is 22 years old.

Big Four teams are allowed 11 imports on their roster but can only dress eight for any one game. After Oct. 1 three of the 11 must be dropped permamently.

Stohlberg To Coach Trail Tennis Club

Trail, B.C., Sept. 3.—(CP)—Walter Stohlberg, former Canadian Davis Cup player, yesterday bowed out of amateur tennis ranks with the announcement that he will assume coaching duties at the Trail and Tadanac Tennis Clubs.

Stohlberg was a member of Canada's Davis Clup team against Mexico in 1948 and again in 1949 against Australia. He will take on his new duties next summer.

Jake Forbes To Coach St. Louis Flyers Club

St. Louis, Sept. 3.— (AP) —John (Jake) Forbes, aggressive defenceman and successful Pacific Coast League pilot, has only to sign a contract to become the new manager of St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey League.

Emery Jones, Flyers' president, said last night that Forbes is scheduled to arrive here today to talk over the contract. "We've hunted around for some time," Jones said. "Forbes knows we want him. The job is his if he wants it."

Forbes, 27, who once played for Omaha of the United States League and Indianapolis in the American, led the New Westminster club of British Columbia to the Pacific Coast League title last season. If he takes the offer made by the Flyers he'll probably be a player-manager.

Drummondville Cubs Upset Leaders With 5-4 Win While Three Rivers Edge Granby 4-3 In Other Fixture

Pace-setting St. Hyacinthe Athletics failed to widen their half-game lead last night over idle second-place Quebec Braves, suffering a 6-4 defeat at the hands of fifth-place Drummondville Cubs in an abbreviated opener of a scheduled Provincial Baseball League doubleheader.

Cellar-dwelling Granby Phillies edged fourth-place Three Rivers Yankees in another abbeviated game. The second game of both twin-bills were rained out. A scheduled Quebec at St. Johns clash also was postponed.

At Drummondville, Cubs outhit the losers 12-5, but erred three times while St. Hyacinthe muffed once. Murray was credited with the win and Cozzi suffered the loss.

At Three Rivers, a single in the top half of the opening frame clinched the victory for Granby. Both teams sent three men home in the fifth. Bedard was the winner and Ostrander the loser.

Toronto Appears Well On Way To Clinch Playoff Berth In I. L. For First Time In Seven Years

Toronto Maple Leafs appear a cinch to make the International League playoffs for the first time in seven years.

The Leafs, in fourth place, moved closer to their goal yesterday by taking a doubleheader from their nearest rival, Buffalo Bisons, 11-3. The magic number is now four. Any number of Toronto wins and Buffalo defeats adding up to four will put the leafs in the playoffs. The season ends Sunday.

Handsome Russ Bauers, 37-year-old former big leaguer, hurled a one-hitter in the opener. Only Bubba Phillips' infield single and Larry Ciesielski's base on balls spoiled his bid for a perfect game.

Billy Demars' triple after a walk and a single in the second inning gave Toronto its first two runs. Lew Morton clouted his 17th home run in the next frame and the Leafs completed the scoring with two more in the sixth.

In the nightcap, Toronto helped Duke Markell to his 12th victory behind a 13-hit barrage climaxed by a seven-run eighth inning. Demars collected three hits, including a double and homer, to drive in three runs.

Bob Keegan, Syracuse chief righthander in quest of his 20th victory, was defeated by Rochester Red Wings 6-3. For the Red Wings it halted their losing streak at six and it also marked the first loss for the Chiefs in nine games.

Keegan gave up a dozen hits, including a homer and triple by Harry Walker. Jack Faszholz, who needed help from Freddie Hahn to retire the last Syracuse hitter, picked up his 15th win. The loss was Keegan's 11th.

Baltimore Orioles divided a twin-bill with Springfield Cubs, taking the first 5-1 and dropping the nightcap 5-3.

The Ottawa-Montreal doubleheader was postponed.

Cardy's Mounts Make Clean Sweep At C.N.E.

Toronto, Sept. 3.— (CP) —The entries of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Cardy of Val David, Que., last night swept open hunter classes in the second evening session of the Canadian National Exhibition Horse Show.

Times Square topped the heavyweight class, Bon Jour placed first in middleweight competition and Maple Leaf was first in the lightweight division.

Another Quebec entry, Impression, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. Turgeon, of Montreal, was fatally injured during the open jumping competition. The big bay gelding became entangled in a jump, threw its rider, Peter Plouffe, and jumped over a gate leading from the ring to the stables.

As the horse landed in the runway it struck a radiator, tearing open its chest and died a short time later.

The open jumper's class was won by Flash Gordon, owned by L. W. Ruby, of Toronto.

MARRIAGES

MacRAE—BOAST

Westmount, Que., Sept. 3—The marriage of Miss Georgina Lawrence Boast, daughter of Mr. Chester W. Boast, of Kapuskasing, Ont., and Mr. Duncan Earle MacRae, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murdock E. MacRae, of Middle River, N.S., took place in St. Stephen's Anglican Church, Westmount, on Monday afternoon, Sept. 1, at three o'clock, the Rev. A. T. Love officiating. The wedding music was played by the organist, Mr. W. T. Hislop. Baskets of peach, yellow and mauve gladioli were used to decorate.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a gown of white imported lace over satin featuring a fitted bodice with a sweetheart neckline, the skirt falling into Princess lines and forming a small train. She wore a Juliet cap of matching lace with veil of tulle illusion and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Miss Marie Louise Boast, as maid of honor, was in a frock of periwinkle blue taffeta faille with a matching cap of tulle, and she carried a cascade of yellow gladioli.

Miss Janice Boast and Miss Anna MacRae, as bridesmaids, the former in buttercup yellow and the latter in Nile green, were dressed alike and wore caps matching their gowns, and carried cascade bouquets of peach and mauve gladioli.

Mr. Edward Munro was best man, and Mr. William MacLean and Mr. John Phillips were ushers.

The bridegroom's parents were unable to attend.

The reception was held at Victoria Hall, Westmount, where the bride's table was centred with the wedding cake, flanked by white candles and decorated with bouquets of gladioli.

Later Mr. and Mrs. MacRae left for their wedding trip to the New England States, the bride wearing for travelling a beige linen suit with bronze accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums.

Mr. And Mrs. Philias E. Hamelin Mark Golden Wedding At Mansonville

Mansonville, Sept. 3.—On August 14, Mr. and Mrs. Philias E. Hamelin, of Mansonville, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home here. A surprise party had been arranged for them by their children and grandchildren. At six o'clock they were escorted to St. Paul's Parish Hall where supper was served to approximately seventy guests. Seated at the head table with Mr. and Mrs. Hamelin were: Rev. E. Macklin, Mrs. Bertha Guilmette, Mr. Verdine Chappell and Mrs. Luke Martin.

The centerpiece was a three-tier wedding cake made and beautiifully decorated by their granddaughter, Mrs. Norman Gilbert, of Sutton. An added feature was a pretty birthday cake in honor of Jean Chappell, a niece and Barkley Woodard, a grandson of the bride and groom of 50 years ago.

Following the supper the gifts were presented in a very unique manner which took the form of a bridal procession. The small bride, Patsy Gilbert, a great granddaughter, wore a long white gown and carried a bouquet of sweet peas, the groom, Dale, Patsy's brother, wore formal attire, tails and tall hat. Their attendants were Linda Hamelin, in a long pink gown carrying a basket of flowers, and Brenda and Jacqueline Hamelin, granddaughters and Marcia Chappell a grand niece. The last three wheeled in a small carriage trimmed in blue which contained the many gifts consist of jewellery, sets of glass dishes, and money.

They received the congratulations of many who could not be present in person through annisary cards. Several beautiful bouquets were presented and a lovely corsage of sweet peas and glads, was given to Mrs. Hamelin who wore a two-piece dress in black and white. The ushers in the bridal procession were Ronald and Gilles Hamelin, two grandsons.

Later in the evening, the party returned to Mr. and Mrs. Hamelin's home where dancing was enjoyed to music furnished by Lester Burke, of Newport, Vt., and Arline, Clair and Norman Gilbert, of Sutton. Roland Clark, assisted by Rupert Clark, took pictures of the guests of honor and the miniature bridal procession. Mr. Hamelin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hamelin and has lived here nearly all his lifetime and has held several important positions in the township of Potton. Mrs. Hamelin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Chappell and was born in Potton and lived here all her life. They have the good wishes of the entire community for many more years for a useful and happy life.

Their nine children were all present with their families. They have thirty-one grandchildren and 7 great grandchildren.

Shower Given At Melboro For Audrey Smith

Melboro, Sept. 3.—A happy event took place in the United Church Hall on Friday evening, August 22, when Mrs. Nelson Jamieson, of Melbourne, was hostess at a charmingly-arranged miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Audrey Smith, a September bride-to-be.

There were approximately forty-four guests present. The front of the hall was decorated with pink and white streamers and a large white wedding bell hung over the table where streamers flowed to each four corners of the table, where the gifts were placed. There were vases of summer flowers used also to carry out the decorative scheme.

Upon the arrival of the guest of honor, she was escorted by Mrs. Jamieson to the seat of honor and a corsage pinned on her shoulder. Mrs. Jamieson presented the gifts to the bride-to-be along with the good wishes of all the assembled guests. The guest of honor was assisted in unwrapping the many parcels by her mother, Mrs. Charles Smith, seated on her right and Mrs. Harry Porter, the prospective groom's mother, seated on the left. Miss Smith very graciously thanked all for their gifts and good wishes and all those who had helped in any way to make the happy evening possible.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. She was assisted by Mrs. Henry Fowler, Miss Gwen Fowler, Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. Herbert Stevens, Mrs. John Levitt, Mrs. Lyle Brooks, Mrs. K. Barrie and Mrs. P. Bedard. Guests were present from Richmond, Melbourne, Ulverton, Sherbrooke, Montreal, Greenlay and other points.

Conn Smythe To Talk Trade At Meeting

Toronto, Sept. 3. —(CP)—Managing Director Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs will be talking trades at the semi-annual meeting of the National Hockey League's Board of Directors in Chicago Sept. 11.

Smythe said yesterday he wanted to replace some players and rumors named Chicago goalie Harry Lumley as one he'd like to get. But, he added, if satisfactory deals can't be made, three or four unnamed players would be sent to farm teams.

Meanwhile 28 players, including eight with Pittsburgh Hornets, Leafs' American Hockey League farm team, last season have been invited to the Leaf training Camp at St. Catharines, Ont., opening Sept. 16.

Captain Ted Kennedy became one of the few players to sign with the Leafs so far this year when he came to terms today. At 26, he will be starting his ninth season with Toronto.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 3. —(AP)— The length of time between sunset and pitch darkness doesn't mean a great deal to the average person and there is no reason that it should. However, if you are thinking of running a tennis tournament it is a very good thing to know.

If there is going to be a really nasty incident in the course of a tournament, chances are it will arise when some player who is ahead in the deciding sets wants to keep on playing and his opponent claims he no longer can see to hit the ball. The decision always is a tricky one for the referee, but he can at least make an intelligent stab at the right answer if he knows his twilight.

There is a man here, a retired naval engineer named Edward O. Cutler, who can take up a few tools and tell you at exactly what minute the sun will go down at any spot in the world on any given day in the year. Also he can tell you when it will become necessary to light the lamps.

Every year before the National Championships begin, he sits down and draws up a chart showing precisely what the light conditions will be in the West Side Tennis Club stadium minute by minute for the 10 days of play.

With his trusty chart at hand the official referee knows for example that the sun will duck behind the Metropolitan hills today at exactly 6:24 (EST); that at 6:32 it will be necessary to halt play and that at 6:52 it will be as dark as the inside of a mule's stomach.

Thus armed the referee is able to plan ahead. When things threaten to get sticky in an important match he simply strolls out stiff legged and advises the umpire when to call it off right on the dot. This takes the umpire off the spot and forestalls a lot of arguments.

Cutler has been providing the chart as a hobby ever since 1939, when there was the granddaddy of a row about playing the final set of a match between Frank Guernsey of this country and Ferenc Puncec of Yugoslavia. The system's only weakness, as Cutler readily admits, is that all bets are off on a cloudy day.

Britain Finds Prison Conditions "Appalling"

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London— (CP) —Hard-pressed in other fields, Britain now finds herself in urgent needs of more prisons.

The disclosure, made in a recent parliamentary report, has brought a demand for improved accommodation and a full-scale inquiry into allegations of "appalling" conditions of overcrowding, under-staffing, lack of discipline and violence in the country's penitentiaries and jails.

The survey, prepared by a House of Commons select committee on estimates, places the present prison population at about 25,000—highest for more than 60 years. Available accommodation, however, normally would house no more than 12,000 offenders.

In February of this year, 4,500 male prisoners were sleeping three together in cells designed for one, a practice condemned by witnesses as "unhealthy and disgusting." At Wandsworth jail, which reported the severest overcrowding, more than 500 prisoners were sleeping three to a cell.

"While there is no evidence that this situation has resulted in any deterioration in health, the danger of rapid spread of epidemics grows more acute as overcrowding increases," the report says.

The committee discloses that the cost of operating the country's chain of prisoners during the current financial year will come to some £7,000,000. It recommends, however, that new prisons should be built without delay. Pending their completion and as a temporary expedient, it is suggested military hutments should be taken over and converted into prison camps. The Home Office has agreed to test the plan.

It was found that in most prisons there is a hard core of trouble-makers, diagnosed as "aggressive psychopaths." Special security measures were necessary to cope with breach of discipline encouraged by these ring-leaders.

As a result the working week in some prisons was reduced as low as 18 hours with an inevitable drop in production.

E. Wathall, secretary of the Parkhurst Prison Officers' Association, reported that special privileges were extended to some prisoners under an old act. Their calls, he said, were not locked until 8 o'clock at night and they were allowed what is called a "fry up," from meat and potatoes saved from meals served during the day.

Evidence was given that prisoners spend as much time in leisure, just sitting around, smoking, playing cards, listening to the radio or reading newspapers, as they do at work.

"Prison life is far too attractive," Mr. Wathall observed.

The governor of Parkhurst prison, P. A. Marriott, said that flogging has never been abolished in jails. It was rarely ordered, however, and the "regular boarders" were aware of that.

Asked if attacks on the staff had become more frequent as a result, he replied: "Yes. Prisoners now would not hesitate that would have hesitated before."

Balloons Up High Gather Much Data On Powerful Rays

Ottawa— (CP) —Seventeen miles above the earth balloons equipped with complicated mechanisms are gathering scientific data on one of the mysteries of the ages—the cosmic rays.

National Research Council scientists here say the rays are not really rays in the common sense. They are particles of matter smaller than atoms, but charged with billions of volts of energy.

They are believed to come from the sun or the stars, and travel at speeds approaching that of light—186,000 miles a second. They are composed of various elements and are thought to be partly responsible for radio interferences.

Beyond that, little is known about them.

For the last three years scientists here and in other nations have been sending up free balloons equipped with photographic and geiger-counter equipment in an attempt to learn more of their secrets. They have learned quite a bit, but much more remains to be unravelled.

Dr. Eric Pickup, 38-year-old British scientist in charge of cosmic investigations for the council here, said that although the particles have energies beyond anything yet produced by man, it is doubtful if they can ever be harnessed for man's use. Some way would have to be found to focus them in a steady stream down to earth.

Dr. Pickup, who worked at Canada's atomic plant at Chalk River, Ont., before coming here, said Dr. Pierre Demers of the University of Montreal also is engaged in the cosmic investigations, along with scientists at various universities in the United States.

The balloons used are of rubber and about six feet in diameter. On reching the stratosphere, they expand to about 35 feet and then burst, dropping their equipment by parachute. The ascent takes about two hours and the balloons float around in the statosphere five to six hours before they begin to fall.

From impressions on their photographic equipment, scientists have ways of measuring the intensity, speed, composition and other data about the cosmic particles.

Sometimes the balloons are never seen again. But many farmers pick them up in their fields and report them to the council. Radar reflectors are attached to some of the balloons so the scientists can follow their movement and know roughly where they fall, usually many miles from where they were sent aloft.

Recently, Dr. Pickup said, a cosmic investigation balloon sent up from the Ottawa laboratories was tracked by radar across the United States border where it eventually came down after being investigated by United States Air Force planes.

Fabulous Baseball Team Will Visit And Play Exhibition At Coaticook

Coaticook, Sept. 3. — Coaticook ball fans will have an unusual treat shortly when a four man travelling team will play against the regular nine-man Coaticook Canadian club. This visiting team, known as "Ace" Holden's Rockets are currently making a cross-country tour, meeting all comers and have lost only one game to date this season. The four men are, Holden as pitcher; Maury O'Connor, catcher; John Landriault, first base; and his brother Paul as roving infielder. Jack Morrow and Moe Taillon are subs.

Team coach and manager is Pat Patterson. All are Canadian-born except Holden who hails from Toledo, Ohio. He is 27 years old, single, and a U. S. Army veteran. His pitching record is 395 struck out in 188 innings. Last season he won 156 games and lost but 23. This season he averaged 19 sutouts per 7 ensuing game.

A unique feature of this four man team is that the pitcher, Ace Holden, often pitches from 2nd base during the game and at times serves blindfolded. Watch your daily papers for the date and time of the game, to be played under lights at Park Lawrence.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

This was a full week-end of events for the Woodman family, having given their only daughter, Helen, in marriage

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DANCE

A successful dance was held last Saturday evening, sponsored by the Coaticook Junior Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Sylvio Roy, president; Mr. Louis Oddalla, vice-president, Mr. Orsene Lemieux, secretary, were in charge of the event. It was planned as an open air affair but due to inclement weather was held inside at Marcoux's Warehouse. This group has done much good work in Coaticook and the proceeds will assist them in further efforts.
