By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A sweeping program to promote education at all levels became law in the Quebec legislature Thursday while the Alberta government found itself apologizing to 300 angry university students.

The Quebec legislation brought in by Premier Barrette's Union Nationale government provides for additional financial aid to universities totalling $8,750,000 for the coming fiscal year.

This raises total government contributions to an unprecedented $20,000,000. Another bill creates a special sinking fund to help universities finance construction projects. Planned projects total $75,000,000.

In Edmonton, 300 University of Alberta students marched on the legislative building demanding additional residences for out-of-town students. The march came after provincial treasurer F. W. Hine-man said Wednesday that expansion of university facilities is more important than residences.

AVOID RACE PROBLEM

CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald attacked Ontario's Progressive Conservative government for providing only "lip service" in the fight against racial discrimination.

He said the labor department's Ontario Anti-discrimination Committee is "just a gesture for publicity purposes" and a "withered arm" of the department.

Health Minister Martin of British Columbia also faced CCF criticism of the Social Credit government as the legislature started dissecting health department expenditures.

Cedric Cox (CCF — Burnaby) said psychiatric nurses are leaving the province for the United States where they get up to $150 a month more in wages.

Two More Are Found In Agadir

RABAT (Reuters) — Two more survivors were found early today in ruins of the Moslem quarter of Agadir devastated by an earthquake 11 days ago, according to reports reaching here.

Today's rescues brought to 15 the number of survivors pulled from under the rubble in the last four days as efforts were intensified to find others.

An estimated 12,000 persons died when the quake struck the city Feb. 29, destroying almost 70 per cent of Agadir.

No details were immediately available of today's rescue. First reports said the survivors were both Moroccans.

Scotland Yard Investigating An Inside Job

LONDON (Reuters) — A Scotland Yard detective today began an investigation into thefts in the most unlikely place for crime in Britain—Scotland Yard.

Belongings and cash have been reported missing from the desks of members of the yard's civilian staff in the criminal records office.

Time Is Running Out For 18 Miners

LOGAN, W.Va. (AP) — The desperate battle to save 18 men trapped deep behind a coal mine fire went into its fourth day today.

There still was no word whether the men were alive or whether they had fallen victim to the deadly fumes.

With each anxious hour, hope gave way to uncertainty. And uncertainty yielded to the dismal reality that "time is running out."

Those were the words of Crawford L. Wilson, state mines director who is directing the rescue operations. He made a six-hour inspection of the shaft and the tunnel where the tense drama is being waged near this southern West Virginia city.

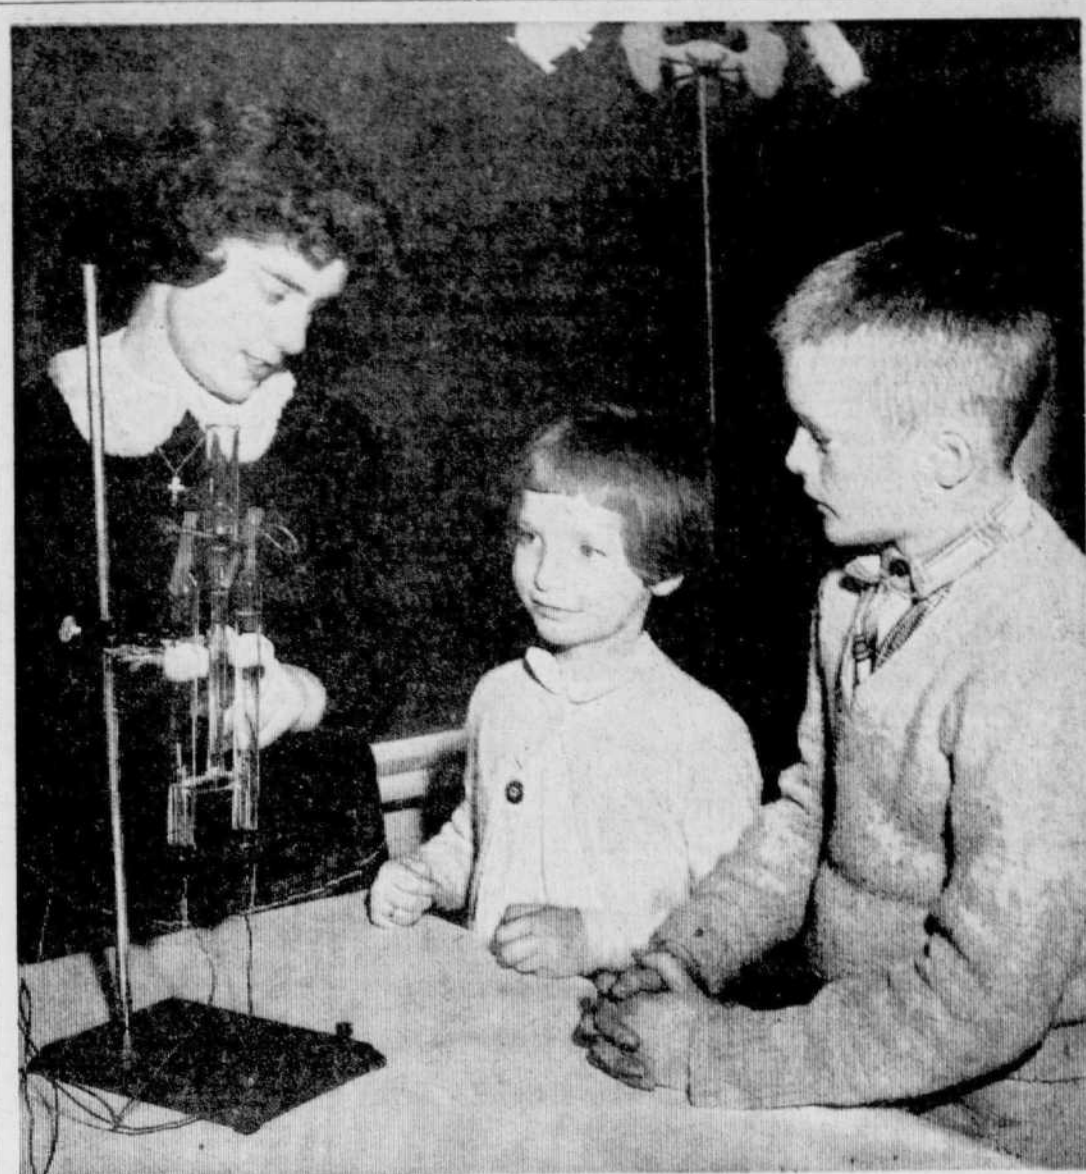

Wilson buoyed hopes at midnight when he said the rescue crews might soon reach an entry leading to the area where it's believed the trapped men are holed up.

Fear Korean Violence

SEOUL, South Korea (Reuters) — Syngman Rhee today entered the last stages of his most active election campaign since he became president of South Korea 12 years ago.

The campaign for Tuesday's election also is threatening to become the country's most violent, with a growing number of mob attacks on candidates.

Rhee, 84-year-old leader of Korea's fight for independence from Japan, was re-elected in 1956 by more than half the country's possible voters, without making a single campaign trip.

This year he made a 270-mile tour through the country, wooing its 23,000,000 inhabitants and asking for more support.

Rhee is unopposed in his bid for a fourth four-year term, but an opposition Democratic party candidate is favored to win the vice-presidency.

An independent candidate was slated to oppose Rhee but he quit the race after unidentified men attacked and beat up his campaign workers.

Wednesday night another crowd turned on the Democratic party's financial spokesman, Kim Yongho and beat him to death. A party propaganda chief was severely injured.

their side. He is William Donaldson, a safety inspector who happened to be with them when the fire broke out Tuesday at the Holden 22 mine of the Island Creek Coal Company.

Masked teams of eight men each poured water from 12 hoses on the 200-foot long mass of smouldering coal, slate and rock. Heat, fumes, smoke and a cluttered tunnel floor hindered their efforts.

BROKE IN BEYOND FIRE

While the struggle to drown out the fire went on, another crew threaded through abandoned passageways and broke into the fire. Yet because of the heat and possibly of further outbreak of flames they could not go on. Wilson explained.

It was through this by-pass that workers were pumping 20,000 cubic feet of air a minute in hopes of sustaining the blocked miners. They're half a mile beyond that point, according to present calculations.

The fire which started soon after the day shift reported Tuesday apparently was caused by an electrical short circuit.

Approve Vote For Indians

See New Soviet Trade Pact

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament has given approval to bills that will add about 50,000 voters — Canada's Indians — to the lists for the next federal election.

The Commons approved bills Thursday amending the Election Act and the Indian Act to give a federal franchise to all of Canada's 175,000 Indians who are of voting age.

Approval was almost unanimous—Alexis Caron (L—Hull) being the only member to go on record as opposed to the measures. He said the Indians should be asked for approval before their status is changed.

J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonaville — Twillingate) tried unsuccessfully to introduce amendments to state specifically that other Indian rights would not be changed by approval of the franchise. Citizenship Minister Fairclough said these rights would not be affected.

Other Commons developments: 1. Trade Minister Churchill repeated his hope that a new Canadian — Soviet trade agreement, the last expired in February, 1959, will be concluded soon.

2. Transport Minister Hees said the Commons committee investigating toll collections on Montreal's Jacques Cartier Bridge will resume sittings Monday.

WIDEN DEBATE

Debate on the Indian franchise gave members a chance to delve into many aspects of the Indian question.

Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon), whose constituency takes in a large Indian population, said Indians have to live under the "dictatorship" of the Indian affairs branch, the cabinet and the citizenship minister.

They could not own reservation land, could be moved from the land they occupied on order of the minister without appeal and had to accept the minister's decision concerning construction of reservation roads, schools and hospitals.

Use Helicopter To Clear Snow

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Allegheny County Airport officials have a new way of clearing snow off runways.

Airport manager Martin Griffin said the breeze from the whirling blades of a helicopter blew about an inch of snow off the airport's mile-long runway in about 15 minutes Thursday. The twin-blade helicopter flew up and down about two feet off the runway.

Egg Inspector's Well Laid Plans Hatch Out Well

MILAN, Italy (Reuters) — A young Yugoslav lady egg inspector laid plans to leave the Communist country five days ago and the plot was hatched successfully Thursday.

Rozalija Laih, 25, turned up in this northern Italian city in a railway car full of Yugoslav eggs and applied for political asylum.

Rozalija and the eggs left the Yugoslav town of Osijek five days ago. Exhausted by her five days in the freight car, Rozalija complained she wasn't feeling very fresh.

Her escape was easy, she said, because it was her job to inspect the eggs just before their export. She managed to scramble aboard as the train was pulling away.

Reluctant Doctors

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Magistrate Hugh O'Neill Thursday scored city medical doctors for their "reluctance to give evidence in Courts" unless subpoenaed. "Our experience is that if we want one we almost have to send the sheriff with a posse and a tank after him," the Magistrate said during a drunk driving case. "They seem to be the busiest people in the province when they want to be."

Racket Buster Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — John Harlan Amen, 62, one of the top racket busters in New York history and the first to go after wrongdoers in organized labor, died Thursday after a short illness. After he left public office, Amen was recalled from private law practice as an assistant U.S. counsel in the Nuremberg war crimes trial of high German Nazis.

Would Orbit Venus

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States rocketed an interplanetary probe toward outer space today. If successful, it will intersect the orbit of the planet Venus and become a satellite of the sun.

A towering Thor-Able rocket blasted from its pad at 10 a.m. EST in a swirl of fire and smoke to propel the probe on the start of what could be an endless journey through the universe.

Ten minutes after launch the scientists in charge of the test announced that all three stages of the giant booster fired successfully. They expected two or three hours to elapse before it could be determined whether the rocket broke clear of the earth's gravitational pull and achieved free flight in space.

The scientists said ground stations began tracking the object "normally" a few minutes after the launching.

Weighing 90 pounds, the payload, called Pioneer V, is designed to make the most exhaustive study of space ever attempted. It would conduct research while whirling around the sun, alternately touching the orbital paths of the earth and Venus.

Driven by the 135,000 pounds of thrust generated by its liquid-fuel engine, the 90-foot Thor-Able rose smoothly from its pad.

ARCHES SOUTHEAST

After about 40 seconds it arched high in the sky and darted in and out of several low-hanging clouds as it streaked toward the southeast.

Cape observers caught a final glimpse of the brilliant exhaust flame 70 seconds after launching.

The launching was scheduled for Thursday but was postponed 24 hours because of fueling difficulties. The count proceeded perfectly today and the rocket lifted off right on schedule.

The instruments aboard were designed to relay findings back to earth through a powerful radio transmitter capable of sending signals from 50,000,000 miles in space. This is more than 100 times the range of any previous space messenger—American or Russian—and could pave the way for future interplanetary communication.

DATA FOR SPACE TRAVEL

Instruments in the package were built to measure radiation, gases, magnetic fields, micrometeorites and temperatures in the far reaches of the solar system. This data is required before man can make long trips into space.

Two Boats Still Lost Off Coast

HALIFAX (CP) — The 60-foot fishing vessel Payzant Sisters, out of North West Cove, N.S., returned to its home port early today after being missing since Tuesday night.

The vessel carried six men. RCAF search and rescue headquarters here said all were safe and well.

With the return of the Payzant Sisters, there were still two fishing vessels unreported off Nova Scotia's southwest coast. Others missing were the 65-foot Lunenburg, N.S., boat Margaret Lou with five men aboard and the three-man Halifax vessel Annie and Johnnie.

The fishing boats ran into trouble when caught by a severe Atlantic storm Wednesday which caused two deaths and contributed to at least two others.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A plump Polynesian-looking girl steps before the microphone in a noisy Sunset Strip night club. She starts singing standard pop songs in a mellow, warm voice.

She doesn't sell her songs. She doesn't use sex appeal. She shuns the usual tricks of night club singers, using only her voice and her fluent manner with a melody. The technique works. The revellers give quiet attention to the accomplished singer.

Thus Hollywood is discovering the talents of Mavis Rivers. No doubt there will be those who will acclaim her as an overnight sensation. This may evoke pride, but also an amused smile from Mavis. For, like all overnight successes in show business, hers was accomplished after long hard years of work and training.

The years began in British Samoa, where Mavis was born of Samoan, English, Chinese, German, Swiss and French ancestry. The south sea life was easy, she recalls, full of good song and good food.

"I began singing as early as I can remember," she says.

Life in Samoa was idyllic even after the Second World War came — "We had only one attack; curiously enough, that was when a submarine shelled the house of one of the Japanese residents. No one was hurt."

Mavis began her professional career at 11. Her father had a band that entertained at bases and on ships. She went along as vocalist.

"After the war, my family moved to New Zealand, and that's when I got my best training," she recalls.

Mavis' grandfather founded the Mormon Church in Samoa, and she was offered a scholarship to Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

Later she worked as a secretary in Los Angeles and sang nights with a Hawaiian quartet. She married one of the members, David Catingub, and they have a son, 4.

Mavis might have continued on the fringes of show business except for a wealthy couple who heard her records in the islands. When they discovered her here, they arranged for a manager and financed audition records.

Capitol Records receives a couple of thousand audition discs per year and selects one or two for release. Mavis won against the odds. Her first two albums have been distinguished not so much by large sales as by the enthusiasm of those who discover her.

All About Stamps

A few words about the Bishop Marks discussed in the last column would no doubt be in order at the start of the column this week. These "marks" are called stamps but were actually hand-stamps and consisted of a circle, divided horizontally, one part bearing an abbreviation for the month, and the other part the day of the month. A special type, without the dividing line, was used in the American Colonial SAINTHOOD STAMPS — These new stamps commemorate the shipwreck of St. Paul on Malta, Mediterranean island, an event which happened 1900 years ago, according to the New Testament. period. The sheets being issued by the International Exhibition Committee will illustrate the "marks" used for England, Scotland and Ireland, as well as six of the overseas possessions. The twelve markings to be shown will be for the twelve months of the year. The writer of the column will have these interesting sheets in stock in the near future.

Now for a few lines about the "Shanahan Affair." Preliminary hearings were held in the Dublin District Court on January 23rd and three of the directors of Shanahan Stamp Auctions Ltd. were sent for trial. They are: Paul Singer, his wife Irma Singer, and Arthur Desmond Shanahan. The Chairman of the Company, Mr. Jerome Shanahan, was cleared and discharged from the case. The Assistant State Solicitor, Mr. Walter Carroll, has stated that the sum by which the assets in the hands of the liquidator fall short of what the company owes investors is 1,198,613 pounds sterling. The investors, he said, would be treated as ordinary creditors and would not recover the sum owed to them by dividend to the capital. It was as simple as that. The stock sheets were fixed with fictitious figures, it is claimed, this being done by adding noughts to the figures. The defendants have all pleaded innocent to all charges.

The North Atlantic Treaty Pact, signed in Washington on April 4, 1949, established a military alliance of purely defensive character between the following twelve countries, all of the western bloc: Belgium, Canada, Denmark, the United States, France, Great Britain, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, the Netherlands and Portugal. The basis of this powerful pact could not however be confined to a guarantee of peace and security by the force of arms, therefore other factors, including those of economy and culture, were invoked to serve the common interests and ideals. From a consideration of all these factors was born the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, known as N.A.T.O. and O.T.A.N. A few years later other countries, including Greece, Turkey and the Federal German Republic, joined the organization. A number of

Boy On Sleigh Bopped By Bunny Scars Prove It

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) — David C. Jarrett was bopped by a bunny and has the scars to prove it.

He also has some of the rabbit's teeth. One was embedded in the 12-year-old boy's forehead and two others were caught in his cap.

It all happened while David and his friends were out sledding.

"I was going down the hill at full speed, when I saw this rabbit running up the hill as fast as he could," David recalled.

"I saw the rabbit and I thought he'd go around me, and he probably thought I was going to duck."

"Anyway he popped up—kind of jumped—and I could see his mouth was open, and he hit me right in the middle of the forehead."

The collision broke the rabbit's neck and sent David home with a deep gash and a headache. His father pulled rabbit fur out of the wound with tweezers and also fragments of the rabbit's teeth.

Dave found two more teeth in his cap.

When he showed up at school Wednesday, the youngster got a nickname: David, The Rabbit Slayer.

3 Bottles From Letellier Home; Accused Said To Be 'Boozed Up'

By PAT BOUGIE
(Record Staff Reporter)

Introduction yesterday of three bottles of a highly potent mixture of drinkable alcohol said to be 3.7 times more intoxicating than the strongest alcohol sold legally in Quebec highlighted the third day of the trial of Andre Letellier, Megantic youth charged with the murder of 19-year-old Jean-Louis Lacroix.

The partially-filled bottles, found at the Letellier house after the shooting, were introduced as exhibits by the prosecution after Megantic police Captain, Pierre Boulay, 30, testified Letellier was "boozed-up" when he was taken into custody, Christmas Day 1959.

Jacques Dansereau, 32-year-old chemist, attached to the provincial medico-legal laboratories testified to the potency of the alcoholic beverage found in the Letellier home.

"I therefore concluded that the alcohol which I examined was not the kind of alcohol distributed through the normal channels but illicit liquor," Mr. Dansereau testified. "Upon examination of one kilogram of Letellier's blood, I found that it contained 1.4 grams of alcohol," the witness added.

More testimony was given by Dr. Guy Nadeau, professional chemist and doctor of sciences, the first Defence witness to be heard.

Special permission was granted by Justice William Mitchell so that the Crown testimony be interrupted to allow Dr. Nadeau, to testify as a defence witness, since he was expected back in Quebec city last night.

Dr. Nadeau pointed out that the alcohol mixture was not only 3.7 times more intoxicating than "legal alcohol," but also contained 7,800 times more foreign properties.

"These foreign properties tend to keep a man intoxicated for a longer period of time," Dr. Nadeau concluded. Captain Boulay of the municipal police force testified that he had been given the bottles containing the mixture by Andre Letellier's brother, Luc.

When the accused was arrested he "walked straight enough but he showed indications that he was boozed-up," Boulay testified. "I had to put him into another cell because he was making too much noise in the first one," he said.

Jacques Vaillancourt, 22-year-old Megantic policeman corroborated Boulay's testimony. Megantic police chief, Raoul Perron, 35, testified that after searching Letellier when he was taken to police station, he found a gun holster, a clip and five bullets. He then locked him up.

SANG AND CRIED

Under cross examination by attorney Richard Crepeau, Q.C., Perron said:

"While Letellier was in the cells, he sang, cried, had a terrific fit and raised havoc in general. We had to change his cell." "After awhile he asked me where he was and what he was doing here. After I told him he then asked me who I was although he knew me," Perron testified.

A 35-year-old Waterbury Connecticut man, Joseph Boivin, visiting his daughter in Lake Megantic on Christmas day, had the following to say about his experience with Letellier:

"I was parking my car at my daughter's house when this boy (Letellier) came running up to me and asked me where there was a telephone. I told him there was a public phone about 300 feet down the street." "He asked me to go to it with him. I told him that he was old enough to find the phone and he did not need my help. He then pulled a gun on me and said: 'I just killed one person. If you do not come with me I will kill you too.'"

"Once at the booth he made me phone the police. After I dialed the number he took the receiver and said, come and get me at the phone booth near Cloutier's house."

"After he hung up he put the gun in my pocket. I walked about 500 feet with him down the street before the police arrived. He was very nervous or drunk."

"I went to the police station where the police took the gun out of my pocket," Mr. Boivin said. "He first threatened to kill you and then a few minutes later

"Did you find this a normal thing for a person to do?" queried Crepeau.

"No, I guess not, but that is the way it happened."

Dr. Rosario Fontaine, 67, medico-legal adviser and ballistics expert testified that the bullet fired into the ceiling of the dance hall together with the bullet taken from the leg of Real Gaboury were from the gun Letellier had in his possession.

Dr. Fontaine also testified that the two bullets fired into Lacroix were fired from a distance not further than one inch from the muzzle of the .32 calibre Browning automatic.

The two other shots fired into Lacroix came from a distance of about six inches.

Dr. Gustave Desrochers testified that one bullet pierced Lacroix's heart, another his lung, a third bullet went through Lacroix's abdomen to his spine and the fourth bullet went through his right leg.

All bullets went right through the victim except for the third bullet which was stopped when it smashed against Lacroix's spine.

WUSC Secretary Visits Here

Douglas Mayer, General Secretary of W.U.S.C. for Canada, spoke to the students of Bishop's University yesterday afternoon on the aims of the society. He outlined the structure of the World University Service Club, with the headquarters in Geneva, and officers in 40 different countries, as being a pyramid, with the Geneva office at the apex, and the various head offices of the member countries coordinating the efforts of the students and professors in the universities.

The main aim of W.U.S.C. is to aid students and professors in countries where there is little or no educational subsidy by the state or otherwise. Race, religion, and creed form no barriers in the society, which is a general meeting place of university people the world over.

At present, Mr. Mayer is touring the eastern provinces, and visiting all the clubs in any member universities. He also is organizing new branches of W.U.S.C. On Thursday morning, he talked with members of the University of Sherbrooke about their plans for organizing a club, and tried to aid this development by outlining the organizational structure and duties of such a club.

Mr. Mayer is a graduate of Leeds University, England, with a B.Sc., honours in Physics. He was the General Secretary of the National Union of Students for England, Wales, and Northern Ireland from 1948 - 50, General Secretary for British W.U.S.C.,

Science Exhibit Takes Over Entire School

Waterville Pupils Make Oxygen, Posters

By ELAINE SMITH
(Record Staff Reporter)

WATERVILLE — Education Week and Science Week have been one and the same thing to pupils and teachers of the Compton-Waterville School.

Seats were pushed back while chemistry experiments, dissected frogs, plants and posters galore dominated the scene throughout the school yesterday from the basement right up to the Grade Eleven classroom.

More than 175 attended the exhibit last night. "For a small school we feel that we have a very worthwhile exhibition," said principal Ray Martin. "We only splurge once a year on such a large scale project, but in the five or six years that we have given similar displays, we feel that every minute spent in preparing the show, is beneficial."

Every class took part in the arranged displays. The first two classes exhibited grasshopper scrapbooks and thermometers which they had made and learned to read.

"This is good preparation and foundation for the students since they study the grasshopper in detail in biology in high school," Mrs. Jean Fraser, elementary teacher, pointed out. Grades Three and Four displayed cardboard models of dinosaurs which they had learned about in general science.

Maps of countries which they had studied, and an electromagnet crane, were proudly shown by Grade Five, Six and Seven students.

Grade Seven had numerous posters showing food nutrients and methods of food preservation.

First year students actually prepared oxygen and carbon dioxide for visitors to the school last night.

Maps and displays of essays and the progress of the community and all of Canada since the early 1800s were proof that the history room was being used to good advantage.

Various stages of chemistry were demonstrated through numerous posters and experiments.

Over 40 types of minerals were displayed along with plastic and rubber products from manufacturing companies.

One electrolyte experiment showed which compounds, when in solution, will conduct electricity.

Students were on hand to focus the slides containing plant roots and leaves and parts of the human body, for interested spectators.

"Most of the plant specimens on display are the result of field trips which I have taken with the biology classes," said biology teacher and principal, Mr. Martin.

Among the interesting biology displays were a dissected frog, fish aquarium and tulip plant and pertinent posters concerning pollination of flowers.

The displays were arranged in almost every classroom of the school and the gymnasium, and principal Martin said that the work was worthwhile in many ways.

"It is amazing how much the students remember of the work which they do, and we have more visitors out to view their efforts on this 'family night of the year' than at any other time," he said.

Red Cross Drive At Cowansville Opens March 19

COWANSVILLE — The chairman of the Cowansville and district Red Cross Campaign, E. H. Johnson, Cowansville, wishes to remind citizens of the district that the annual campaign for funds will open on March 19, not the 26th, as had been previously announced.

It is to be hoped that citizens will be extra generous this year with their donations. When tragedy strikes, such as the earthquake in Agadir, one realizes the value of the Red Cross; three tons of emergency supplies and a medical team were sent as soon as possible to the stricken area.

The Red Cross must be prepared at all times for these emergencies.

March 27 Convention

Over 575 Delegates For Liberal Meeting

Over 575 delegates are expected to attend the Sherbrooke County Liberal convention to be held in St. Francois Xavier School at the corner of Galt Street East and Bowen Avenue South, on Sunday afternoon, March 27, at two o'clock. Association President L. P. Brousseau announced at a press conference held at the Reform Club yesterday.

The purpose of this convention will be to select a candidate for the provincial general elections expected early this summer.

Ward meetings for the selection of delegates from the local polling divisions will be held in each of the city's five wards and in Lennoxville on Monday evening at eight, while the meetings for the rural municipalities will be held on Sunday afternoon.

The convention itself will be presided over by Dr. Aime Faurteux, president of the organizing committee for the district of Montreal.

A public meeting is slated to follow the selection of a candidate, unless the number of aspirants makes several ballots necessary.

To Attend Youth Councils In Montreal

Sr. Captain and Mrs. G. McEwan and other delegates from The Salvation Army, Sherbrooke Corps are planning to attend the annual Youth Councils in Montreal this weekend Mar. 12-13. Saturday Night, a musical program will be presented in the Montreal Citadel, by various representative Corps from the Quebec and Eastern Ontario Division. Sunday, three sessions will be held.

Here in Sherbrooke, the meetings will be led at the usual times, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. by Envoy Alfred St. Laurent. The morning meeting, for this Sunday only, will be held entirely in French. Following the Regular Salvation Meeting, in the evening, a film entitled "William Booth, God's Soldier" will be shown. Everyone is welcome.

Cold, Hard Facts

Education Week in Canada ends tomorrow.

In the Townships, as elsewhere in the Dominion, the week has been marked by a variety of school activities, all showing education at work, and designed to increase public interest in it.

But along with these activities, some cold, hard facts about education in this country should be presented, to be digested not in any one week, but throughout the year.

In 1958, according to figures released by the Canadian Conference on Education, Canadians spent $2,074 million on cars, $1,424 million on tobacco and alcoholic beverages, and $1,070 million on education.

All of these are impressive figures. It is not necessarily suggested that we cut down on our consumption of cars, tobacco, alcoholic beverages. What is suggested is serious consideration to the question: are we spending enough on education? Only the general public can answer this.

Another set of figures may help in finding the answer.

In this present school year, there are 155,000 teaching posts available in Canadian elementary and secondary schools but only 110,000 qualified teachers to fill them.

By the next academic year (1960-61) there will be 162,000 teaching posts, and only 115,000 qualified teachers are likely to be available to fill them.

To put the whole problem in perspective, in 1957-58, the elementary, secondary and high school population in this country was larger by 460 thousand than in 1954-55, and prospects for the next five or more years are that the increase will continue at a more rapid rate.

Will the classrooms be able to hold them?

These are the serious questions that lie beneath Education Week in Canada. The answers must be found fast.

An Easy Way Out

Canadian manufacturers, hard-pressed by spiralling costs of production at home and cut-throat competition abroad, are being offered what appears to be an easy way out.

Barbados — self-styled 'Little England of the West Indies' — is the would-be benefactor.

Specifically, Canadian companies are being invited to establish branch plants on the island from which they can export goods back to Canada and to other markets.

And they are being offered pretty attractive bait.

Primarily, of course, they are being offered lower labor costs. Labor is plentiful due to a decline in sugar acreage and natural population increase. Rates range from 18¢ cents an hour for general laborers to 36¢ cents an hour for truckdrivers, plumbers, masons and other tradesmen.

Literacy among the working force is high — 97 per cent.

Cheap land, a seven-year tax holiday, free entry of raw materials, construction materials and plant machinery are other big inducements being offered.

'Crazy' Remedies

Ever wonder how it is that some of these 'crazy' remedies and quack cures appear to really work?

A plausible explanation is offered in the current issue of Health Magazine, a publication of the Health League of Canada.

An article in the magazine deals with that grand old catch-all of human ailments — 'nerves'.

No one is surprised, the article sets out, if the stomach develops 'colicky wobbles' when one is frightened or angry. But what is often not realized is that fear or anger may exist in an unrecognized form. In such a situation fear is usually known as anxiety or worry and anger as resentment.

But whatever you call this feeling, your body usually suffers. And often it's not your stomach that takes the beating.

Many conditions, formerly thought to be caused by organic disease have turned out to have been caused by emotional upset or 'nerves'. This includes many headaches, bad backs and a variety of other aches and pains.

And since these conditions are caused not by organic failure but by nerves they can often be relieved by 'crazy remedies'. All you need is confidence in the cure. This relaxes the tension and relieves the symptoms.

So don't feel sorry for your friend who believes everything he hears on the television commercials.

He's probably lucky. His relief may not be permanent but if he's gullible enough he's sure to get his money's worth.

RUSSIAN BEAR HITS THE MARKETS

Will Draw 90 Percent Vote:

May Call Election In Australia

CANBERRA (CP) — Federal elections may be held in Australia this year and, although there may be some doubt about the outcome, one thing is certain: More than 90 per cent of the eligible voters will mark ballots.

It's been that way for 36 years since compulsory voting was introduced nationally. And there appears to be no disposition to change the law.

Officials with many years of election experience say they never hear of any suggestion that the nation should revert to voluntary voting.

The Liberal-Country party coalition government of Prime Minister Robert Menzies was returned Nov. 22, 1958, with 75 seats in the House of Representatives to 40 for Labor. Although election of the lower house and one-third of the Senate isn't required until 1961, there is a likelihood the government, encouraged by good economic conditions, will go to the people late this year.

(It would provide an opportunity for first-hand examination of compulsory voting if the Canadian parliament were to accept a recent proposal by William L. Houck, Liberal member for Niagara Falls, that a non-partisan committee be set up to consider the idea.)

The Australian law is relatively simple. A person must have a good reason for not voting or pay a fine of up to £2 (about $4.25). And the rule applies to Australians abroad as well as at home. Compulsory voting was first introduced in the State of Queensland in 1915. It came in federally about 10 years later.

Now voting is mandatory for the lower houses of the other states — New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia and Tasmania. Victoria and Tasmania are the only states with compulsory voting for the upper house as well.

Old-timers recall that it was the Labor Party that came up with the idea. It had less money than others for providing transportation to polling booths and was concerned that potential supporters were not voting.

Other parties found it to their advantage as well. They were able to turn money formerly used for transportation to other campaign purposes.

Although the penalty for not voting may be as much as £2, it is usually less than that. As each elector is handed a ballot, his name is marked off the electoral roll. After the election the roll is checked. Anyone who didn't vote is asked why. If the reason is acceptable, he is excused.

If the excuse is not satisfactory, a fine is assessed. The elector is free to have his case reviewed by a petty sessions court if he disagrees with the summary ruling. This seldom happens, however, and the court almost invariably upholds the fine.

Due regard is taken of conscientious objections, sickness and other disabilities as reasons for not voting. Amendments to the Electoral Act are to be made soon to meet the wishes of Jews and Seventh Day Adventists whose religion precludes voting on Saturday before sundown.

Saturday is the day commonly chosen for elections and most people have a free day as a result of the general 40-hour week. Polls are open 12 hours.

It is proposed to meet the religious objections by permitting those concerned to vote by mail as may be done by those who are ill or incapacitated or know in advance that they will not be in their normal voting area on election day.

In nearly all federal elections a turnout of 95 per cent or better is recorded. Enrolment and notification of change of address are compulsory as well as voting.

At the last federal election before compulsory voting the percentage was 57.95 per cent. At the first election under the compulsory system the figure jumped to 91.31 per cent.

In the last Canadian election, 1958, the turnout was a record 78 per cent. It was 75 per cent in 1957, 67 in 1953, 74 in 1949 and 75.5 in 1945.

matter of FACT

It was not unusual at one time for the well-dressed crocodile to be decked out in gold and silver. In ancient Egypt, some crocodiles regarded the crocodile as sacred. In these places there was always one crocodile which had been tamed. The people would fashion golden earrings and huge bracelets for the ugly beast. Besides being well-fed and cared for while he was alive, upon death the crocodile was carefully embalmed and buried in a sacred tomb.

"What could I have done?" asked West. "If I had ducked the spade I would have lost my ace."

The answer to West's question is that he should have ducked the spade anyway. If South held two spades it would make no difference in the final result but with South holding one spade it lost the hand. True, West did save his ace of spades but he cost his partner two club tricks in exchange.

WHERE LIES THE BLAME FOR ELLIOTT LAKE?

(The Financial Times)

The furore over the plight of Elliot Lake, centre of the uranium industry in Northern Ontario is completely lacking in realism and in understanding of the actual facts of the case. On the government side of the House, blame has been laid on the doorstep of the Opposition—which was in power when the contracts with the United States were being signed and when the boom was getting underway, while the Opposition has been criticizing the present government for its handling of the situation as it has developed.

The government at Ottawa is under fire for deciding upon a site in Manitoba for an experimental nuclear research centre and union leaders have been sniping at the companies for abandoning the workers after they themselves have made substantial profits on their operations.

The obvious fact is that, from the beginning, the uranium boom was based on expectations which have no fructified expectations that the demand for uranium oxide would be built up to a point where the U.S. contracts could be further extended, or where demand from other sources would take care of the slack as and when the U.S. government saw fit to end the contracts.

Developments in the nuclear field, particularly the change to the use of refined uranium, a development which had been unforeseen at the time when the contracts were initially signed by Washington, changed the picture completely and led to the action of the U.S. government in failing to extend the contracts to the optional period in 1966; thus bringing about the present situation in the industry.

Under the circumstances, it is fatuous for any particular blame to be placed on the shoulders of either the existing government or the former administration. Insofar as regards the criticism of the government for bypassing Elliot Lake in its decision to locate the experimental nuclear station, this is in the nature of hair-splitting. Such employment as would be derived from such a station would be a drop in the bucket for Elliot Lake, where the great bulk of the unemployment is in mine workers rather than workers in the plants.

The criticism of the companies from trade union executives can be more or less ignored as something that was an inevitable outcome of the shut-down, and something which had little, if any real foundation.

A few years ago, at a time when the uranium industry in Canada was on top of the world and Elliot Lake was in process of establishing itself as the fastest growing community in Canada, with new houses, schools, community centres and hotels being rapidly thrown up, there was a press visit by a group of newspapermen from Toronto, Montreal, New York and Chicago. One of the New York writers, listening to the talk of the city of the future, suggested that his story, when he sat down to write it would deal with a town with no past, a brilliant present, and a doubtful future. He apparently had some premonition of what was going to happen.

Elliot Lake, much as its present condition is to be regretted, was built on a gamble; a gamble which did not pay off. And there seems little sense in attempting to assess the blame.

JOHNS-MANVILLE "Close-Ups"

Submarine Turtle, 1776

Move Over, Davy Jones

DAVID BUSHNELL, a student at Yale College in 1776, solved a problem that had occupied some of the world's best minds for centuries. He built a hand-propelled submarine that actually worked. It was called the TURTLE. Bushnell invented it as a carrier for attaching an underwater bomb—another of his inventions—to enemy ship bottoms.

Later, the first practical engine-propelled submarine, the U.S.S. HOLLAND, was designed by John Philip Holland for the U. S. Navy in 1900. Today, atomic submarines travel in Jules Verne style more than "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea".

Johns-Manville has developed many special industrial products for ships since 1858. It was natural that the Company would be called on for special insulations for our first atomic submarine, the U.S.S. NAUTILUS; the first nuclear propelled merchant ship, the S.S. SAVANNAH, and other atomic vessels that followed.

Johns-Manville men and women here and at other company plant and mine locations in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Belgium and Great Britain, take pride in the materials they help provide for industry and homes throughout the World. The Ship Building Industry is only one of the major fields in which the team of research scientists, production personnel and sales engineers of this 102-year-old industrial organization play a vital role.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Bygone Days

THIRTY YEARS AGO

The Provincial Government is planning legislation which would make parents and guardians responsible for damage caused by minor drivers.

Officers named for the South Roxton Women's Institute were: Mrs. A. F. Sanborn, Mrs. C. C. Savage, Mrs. N. H. Robinson, Mrs. H. L. Doe, Mrs. E. Doe, Mrs. H. Barnes, Mrs. F. Marcotte and Mrs. J. Blampin.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The annual budget of the City of Sherbrooke forecasts a surplus of $9,998 for the coming year. Total receipts are estimated at $1,566,153.

Finland has surrendered to Russian peace proposals which provide for the transfer of strategic border areas.

TEN YEARS AGO

Aviation experts today began an inquiry here into latest disaster involving Britain's—lucky Tudor airliners—the crash of a crowded charter ship yesterday in which 80 died.

World and Olympic Champion Barbara Ann Scott appeared in Skating Sensations of 1950, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, at the Sherbrooke Arena.

Sherbrooke High Is Fighting Own 'Population Explosion'

The population "explosion" now affecting the entire globe is felt in Sherbrooke. In 1951, due to crowded conditions existing within the Sherbrooke High School, an extension was built. This modern addition consisted of six classrooms, a music room, a technical drawing room, lunch room and gymnasium. In spite of this, the pressure of growing numbers of pupils is being experienced once again. To provide for this situation, an extension to the Mitchell School is in the process of completion. Two Grade I classes and several Grade VII groups, which, at present, are located in the high school, will be transferred to the new addition at Mitchell, which will include a gymnasium-auditorium, nine classrooms, medical room, a staff room and a lunch room. It is hoped that the High School building will provide adequate accommodation for Grades VIII to XI inclusive.

(Sherbrooke High School)

ing and returns them after school. The central location of the Sherbrooke High School in relation to the residential area is decidedly an advantage to the school which is never closed due to bad weather conditions.

The standard of education at our school is, undoubtedly, one of the highest in the province, and our matriculation standing is a credit to our excellent staff. Like many other schools, we have physical education, bearing out the ancient Greek philosophy of developing a sound mind and body. Home Economics, training in the domestic arts such as cooking and sewing, is offered to girls while boys may take technical drawing. Music is compulsory in Grades VII to X, and may be studied in the eleventh grade if a student so desires. The school library provides reading material for entertainment, information and reference to the students who find much enjoyment also in reading the many magazines to which the library subscribes. Upon reaching the ninth grade, a student may choose to take the commercial course leading to a diploma in Grade XI. Commercial students study book-keeping, typing and shorthand while continuing certain academic subjects pertaining to their course. The business world today is a prom-ing field for graduates of this course.

One of the pleasures of school life is participation in representative and intra-mural sports, a privilege which the pupils appreciate. The athletes of Sherbrooke High School are very fortunate in having excellent facilities and well-organized sports programmes. Those who are not able to participate in representative sports can take part in intra-mural matches, in which one class competes against another in its own age group. Naturally, the aim of any ardent athlete is to play on a representative team. In past years, Sherbrooke High has been very consistent in winning inter-scholastic awards, but the real goal is good sportsmanship, which is definitely part of our education.

The well-rounded programme of Sherbrooke High School also includes the science club and public speaking. The active science club organizes educational excursions, lectures and demonstrations on various scientific topics. Public speaking is also a popular activity. To the best boy and girl speakers in grades eight and nine, a shield is awarded by the Kiwanis Club. In grades ten and eleven, the boy who wins the elimination contest represents the high school at the annual Rotary Club Public Speaking Contest, while the two girls winners contend in the Business and Professional women's Club contest. Public speaking is an interesting and vital part of any complete English course.

When little Johnny avers, "Mom, I hate school. I wish I never had to see that miserable teacher's face again," Mother will retort with the natural reply, standardized over the years, "School days are the best days of your life, young man! You will regret the day you have to leave school. Mark my words!" Only when we are in grade eleven, do we see the grave truth of this assertion. The foundation for success or failure is laid in high school.

Sorts Fact From Fiction

Pills, Rays And Dyes Make Author A 'Negro'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With pills, ultraviolet rays and dyes, John Howard Griffin turned himself from a white man into a black one.

For six weeks he roamed the southern United States, working as a shoeshine boy and menial laborer, earning an average of $1.50 a day, learning "what it means to be a Negro."

Columnist Paul Coates told the story in The Mirror News Thursday.

Griffin, 40, born in Dallas, is a college graduate who talks with a slight southern drawl.

"Then, last fall, he became one of his vital statistics. He changed a Negro," Coates wrote.

"As a southerner, an author with a probing mind, and an individual of keen sensibilities, he wanted to sort the fact from the fiction about the southern Negro and his skin."

DARKEN SKIN — "Griffin prepared for his masquerade with the help of a New Orleans dermatologist. In an accelerated treatment program of seven days, he was given pills which darkened the skin pigmentation and ultraviolet ray baths. His head was shaved to a buzz beforehand, and final touches were made with a vegetable dye."

Coates quoted Griffin, whose skin now is again white:

"The transformation was horrifying."

He registered at a Negro hotel. Next morning, on a bus, a few whites were standing in the aisle but the seat next to him remained vacant. He nodded to a woman in her 40s who was standing next to it, as if to offer her the seat.

The account continued:

"She gave him what he came to know as the 'hate stare.'"

"What," she demanded loudly, "are you looking at me like that for?"

"I'm sorry," he said, "I'm not from here."

"UPPITY NIGGERS" — "She turned, commented to a stranger, 'they're getting sassier every day,' and launched into an easily audible discourse about 'uppity niggers.'"

He took a bus to Mississippi. "His bus made a 'comfort' stop some miles from his destination, Hattiesburg," the account went.

on. "The white passengers filed off. Griffin followed, but at the bus door the driver blocked him with his arm."

"Where do you think you're going, boy?" the driver demanded.

"Wanted to get off and go to the bathroom," Griffin replied.

"Your ticket's straight through to Hattiesburg. Don't say nothing on it about you getting off this bus before then." The driver pointed a commanding finger to the rear of the bus, where the rest of the Negro passengers had remained seated.

"Now you get back there and don't move till we get to Hattiesburg. I can't be bothered rounding up all you people when we're ready to go."

I was reading an article the other day in which eight British experts pooled their knowledge to compile a pamphlet to help the housewife get through her day without being tired. Some of their ideas I agreed with, others I did not. One good suggestion was that when ironing, stand with one foot advanced and the knees relaxed. Ironing with feet side by side strains the feet, legs, back and chest.

They debunked the old idea of touch and toe exercises to reduce the waistline. It only makes the tummy sag, they claim.

One chapter, written by a man, suggests we women organize our work to save time. But he didn't say what to do with our time table when little Johnnie has the colic and won't take his nap on schedule, or friend hubby calls up to say he is bringing the boss home for dinner. Oh, I grant you some of their suggestions were good, but maybe being a mere woman I didn't agree with them all.

What would our well fed Canadian husbands say if suddenly we stopped making those little extras that add to the enjoyment of a meal or fixing cocktail snacks for a party. Or how would the children feel if we neglected to make them a fancy cake. These are some of the things they say are unnecessary and could be eliminated. Maybe so — but evidently they don't know that though we women may sigh and say we are dead on our feet, we get great satisfaction in displaying our powers as a good cook and housekeeper on those special occasions no matter how much work it entails.

During the past week eyes have been focused on education, and mothers and fathers have dutifully attended the special programs put on by the students. Don't stop there and pack your enthusiasm away.

Novelist Says Women Can Help Fight Communism

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Irene Pelensky, a novelist and linguist, is carrying on what she calls the "big business of fighting communism."

The sad-faced little Ukrainian grandmother fights the Reds through Ukrainian women's organizations in the British Commonwealth and the United States. "We Ukrainians know the Russians. We've known them through war and occupation for more than 100 years."

In her lifetime she has had to flee three times from the old aggressor.

Her first flight was in 1939 from Lyov in Poland and her last was in 1949 when with her professor husband and daughter she escaped from East Germany and joined the 25,000 Ukrainians who immigrated to Australia.

Her home now is in Sydney, Australia. Her husband is dead and her daughter married.

The novelist and former specialist in Baltic languages was interviewed here en route home after attending the World Ukrainian Congress in New York.

"The Communists say they are giving Ukrainian women equal rights now, but they are only giving them equal rights to work in the forests and mines with their bare hands like the men."

"Witnesses are escaping from Siberia. We know what rights the women have there."

"... I think those unlucky women will feel better if they know we free women are trying to tell the truth about communism."

"The big fight against the old foe must be fought in free countries, in the homes, and spearheaded by women."

Homemaking

You won't get permanent indentations in your rubber and solid vinyl flooring if you equip furniture that is frequently moved with casters with soft rubber treads. Heavier furniture should rest on plastic cups.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now.

Canadian Audiences Criticized

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP) — What Canadian theatre needs more than anything else are intelligent audiences, says Dora Mavor Moore, who has been associated with the theatre for half a century.

In her Toronto studio office, where a picture of Bernard Shaw stares out at waterpipes on the opposite wall, Mrs. Moore criticized the lack of enthusiasm shown by audiences in Canada.

"Lois Marshall never had an ovation in Canada like those she got in the Soviet Union," she said during an interview. "Why must we wait for the Communists to show their appreciation?"

DRAMA PIONEER

Herself a long-time drama teacher and director, Mrs. Moore says that to inform themselves about the theatre Canadians must go to see the best, set their standards, then compare plays and performers with the high standards.

Most of all, Canadians must learn to show their appreciation when a high standard is met, she said.

Actors, as well as audiences, were criticized by Mrs. Moore, mother of the stage and television actor Mavor Moore. She has seen many of Canada's successful stage personalities pass through her school here.

Too many actors want immediate success, she said. "Every good actor must go through a period of study."

Canadians are given the first opportunity for parts in the annual review Spring Thaw, produced by the New Play Society, a non-profit educational organization founded by Mrs. Moore in 1946 to furnish training for newcomers and provide work for those who have professional training.

HARD WORK NEEDED

Actors from the United States and Britain often prove to be better trained, she said. "Ours don't seem to think the entertainment field needs any background—but it needs more than any other field."

Mrs. Moore defines talent as a combination of imagination, intelligence and industry.

"Unions are killing the professional theatre in Canada, or at least strangling it in its infancy," she said. Her wrath for unions began six years ago when a musician's union forced her to hire an orchestra for a production of Peter Pan.

Her smile reappeared however as she returned to her favorite theme. "The amateur theatre can do much in providing a creative outlet for people in routine jobs. More concern must be given to the worth of the plays produced by such groups."

"No matter how bad a good play is done, the cast and audience will get more out of it than from a bad play done well," she summed up.

Fashion

Salmon Supreme

Salmon Souffle Supreme is an elegant salmon dish that the budget-wise cook can serve with justifiable satisfaction. A hint of marjoram, plus lemon juice and rind, are the seasoning combination that set-off the rich flavor of the popular canned fish in this compliment-winning, airy creation.

Canned salmon is as much a part of the Canadian culinary scene as is a white mantle of snow a part of our winter scene. The rich flavor and color of the always-popular native product add a distinctive note to many dishes, from the simplest sandwiches to elegant casseroles. It is particularly appealing when used as the character ingredient in a high and handsome main dish soufflé. Lemon juice and rind and a hint of marjoram are effective seasoning partners that combine to set-off the salmon. Salmon Souffle Supreme is one of the many really good salmon dishes which can be served when the budget is at its lowest ebb.

without the cook losing face or pride in her creativity.

Princess' Wedding Will Glitter With Creations Of Britain's Top Designers

LONDON (Reuters) — Experts on royal ceremonial and a top British fashion designer today stepped up preparations for the May 6 marriage of Princess Margaret and commoner Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Britain's Lord Chamberlain, the Earl of Scarborough, outlined plans for a glittering wedding while Queen Elizabeth's dress designer, Norman Hartnell, worked on six alternative designs for Margaret's wedding dress.

Meanwhile, Billy Wallace, a long-time escort of the princess and often regarded as a possible suitor, announced he has quit his job with an aircraft firm in London and plans to move to the country to recover from a kidney ailment.

"I have kept my plans secret—and my resignation—because people might say, 'Ah, there goes the disappointed lover,'" he said. "But of course that is not true."

Despite his announcement speculation continued that Wallace might be best man at Margaret's wedding.

Prince Philip will give the bride away, although some etiquette books say it should be done by her nearest male relative — in Margaret's case her elder uncle, the Duke of Windsor.

FINAL SAY

Although plans for the wedding were outlined by government officials under the Lord Chamberlain, Queen Mother Elizabeth will have the final say on all arrangements.

Hartnell will also design dresses for the bridesmaids. Reports on the number of bridesmaids varied from six to eight, but all agreed nine-year-old Princess Anne will be one of them.

Unless Armstrong-Jones is given a peerage before the wedding, custom suggests he should wear "court dress"—a blue-black velvet suit with silver buttons, knee breeches, silk stockings and silver-buckled shoes. An alternative would be for Margaret to decree "civilian dress"—morning coats and trousers.

The wedding will see Margaret drive in state down the tree-lined Mall to the abbey in a horse-drawn carriage. The bride and groom will return to Buckingham Palace in the famed glass coach used for major occasions.

Television viewers in 11 European countries will see a telecast of the ceremony if the Lord Chamberlain agrees.

Impact Of Travel Shown In Fashions

Growing interest in travel strongly influences current fashions. Though spring is the season, many of the most attractive new suits, dresses, coats and separates know no season. They are planned for any-time, any-place, any-temperature wear.

Both silks and lightweight woollens are rapidly becoming year-round fabrics. Synthetics, cottons and blends cover the calendar and the continents.

Easy care and wrinkle resistance are home-or-travel advantages. All-weather linings for coats extend their usefulness.

Styling plays a part. The versatile dress and jacket-or-coat is a favorite at home or away. Mixable separates make it easy to create many "looks."

Result can be a wardrobe right anywhere in the world, with year-round practicality.

Women's Groups

ST. ANDREW'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

St. Andrew's Missionary Society held its regular meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. G. Stevenson, and was opened with a worship period conducted by Mrs. G. Douglas.

The supply secretary read the allocation for the year and noted the needs had increased. The new allocation was accepted by the members.

Plans were made for the Easter Thankoffering to be held in the church hall.

Mrs. S. Garland who was welcomed back again, extended an invitation to hold the April meeting at the Manse.

Many calls were reported to the sick and a donation was received from Upper Melbourn for use of the hospital.

Following an interesting paper on the life of Dr. Albert Schweitzer given by Mrs. W. Laurison, Mrs. S. Garland closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. L. Dunsmore.

Some Mothers-in-Law Should Read This Column

"Why is it so hard for a mother-in-law to mentally put herself in her daughter-in-law's shoes, or even to remember what her own life was like when she had small children and there always seemed to be a mountain of work ahead of her?" asks one of my readers.

"My mother-in-law wouldn't think of saying, 'Honey you look worn out. Why don't you get Bob to take you out to dinner tonight? I'll fix supper for the kids and look after them.'"

"Yet there must have been times in her own young married life when she felt as beat as I sometimes do, and when she was as desperate as I sometimes am to get away from it all for a care-free evening.

"Another thing she would never think of doing is to give me the morale-building boost of a nice compliment, especially one paid to me in my husband's presence. Doesn't she realize how much such a compliment would mean, coming from my husband's mother?"

"Instead, she brags about how efficiently she runs her own home — when she hasn't a soul to do for but herself.

"Please don't think I dislike my mother-in-law. I don't dislike her and I wish she would make it easier for me to learn to love her."

Nfld. Girl's Home Town Turns Down Offer Of Bullfight

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Pretty Carolyn Hayward, 25-year-old matador, wants to introduce bullfighting to her home town of St. John's.

But so far there have been no takers for her offer to bring six bulls to the city from Mexico for a two-night performance in Memorial Stadium.

Miss Hayward, a petite five-foot-two, learned the art of bullfighting in Mexico and won acclaim on a South American tour last year.

She made known her wishes in a letter to friends here. She said she would accept a guarantee of $3,000 for expenses and a percentage of gate receipts.

While bullfighting is not illegal in Canada, the matador is not permitted to kill the animal.

And since rules prohibit fighting the same bull more than once, Miss Hayward would sell the animals "on the hoof."

Bullfighting was tried experimentally in Lindsay, Ont., last year but ran into snags which delayed arrival of the bulls and the show's success was something less than spectacular.

Miss Hayward, who weighs only 98 pounds, attended Bishop Spencer College here and worked as a stenographer in Montreal for a time before setting out for Europe. She wound up in Spain and became interested in bull fighting.

She went to Mexico for serious study of the art. In one of her first two performances in the ring the judges awarded her the ear of a bull, recognition of exceptional skill.

In Peru last year she gave a performance that was rated almost perfect, failing to win the ears because of a slight error with the sword.

She still has hopes of fighting in Europe, especially Spain, but her main ambition is to fight the bull in her native land.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

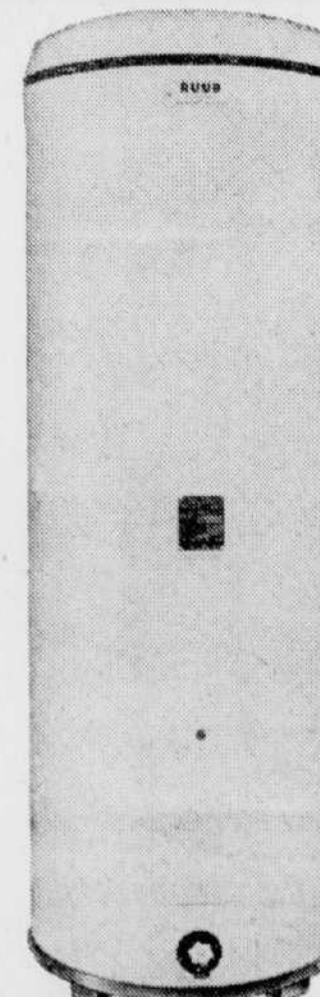

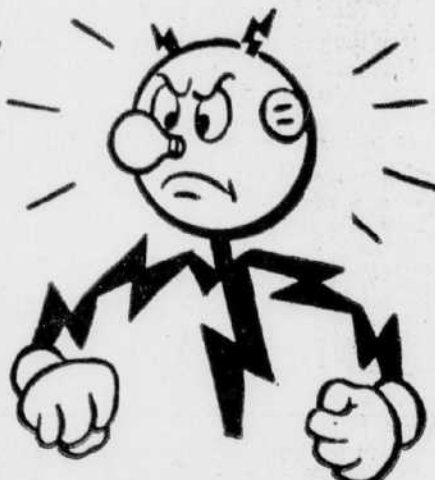

It's both rude and inconsiderate to leave your supermarket cart in the cashier's line while you dash off to retrieve forgotten items.

Rockets Belt Canadiens 6-1, Beavers Win In Overtime 2-1

Quick Goals Pay Off For Poliquin Squad, Drummondville Take 2-1 Lead In Four-Out-Of-Seven Series

DRUMMONDVILLE — The Rockets, playing before 2,200 home-town fans, came roaring back last night to down Victoriaville Canadiens 6-1 and take a 2-1 lead in their semi-final series. The first two games ended in overtime but the Rockets ran out last night's win in regulation time.

The next game in the series takes place in Victoriaville Sunday and the Canadiens will be out to put their duel back on an even keel. On Tuesday the Pepin squad posted a close 3-2 verdict over the Rockets to tie the series.

The Canadiens opened up at a top pace and kept Joe Lacoursiere hopping around. They drilled fourteen shots at him but the Rockets had their share in between with 11 at Hamel. Play was bouncing back and forth. Only one penalty was called and that was to Pepin for hooking and it was when Jean Lambert got Victoriaville's only tally.

Quick goals and two at a time seemed to be the thing for the Rockets. Morin and St. Jean tallied within two minutes on each other and this stood up until the closing minutes when Lambert teamed up with Michelin and Vachon to beat Lacoursiere.

In the second period Guadreault put the Rockets further ahead when he registered the only goal of the period. Two penalties were called but they failed to figure in the scoring.

At the start of the third period Kenny Biggs and Archambault got into a tussle and it cost the Drummondville player a major and a minor to Archambault. The players kept nagging each other in the cooler but Coach Pepin sent his player to the dressing room to cool off. He returned later and gave a good account of himself.

In the final period the Rockets registered two goals back-to-back and within a minute of each other. This put the home club out in front 5-1 and Aubry finished the scoring for the evening when each club had a player in the cooler.

The Canadiens kept trying to get back in the game but the Rockets were keeping pace with them. Hamel and Lacoursiere both had their busy moments but they gave a good account of themselves in the closely-fought battle.

Tie With New York Put Bruins On Brink Of Elimination For Playoffs, Bronco Horvath Picks Up One Goal

The sour smell of failure hangs over Boston Garden. Boston Bruins, heroes of some memorable National Hockey League playoff battles during the last decade, are on the verge of beginning the new one with a fifth-place finish.

The Bruins were held to a 3-3 tie by New York Rangers on Boston ice Thursday night and the result reduced their playoff hopes to something less than a glimmer.

They now are seven points behind fourth-place Detroit Red Wings and eight back of third-place Chicago Black Hawks. Each team has five games left to play and a Chicago win coupled with one more Boston loss would erase Bruins last mathematical chance of a playoff position.

The only discernible bright spot Thursday night was the goal scored by Bronco Horvath. It was the lanky center's first goal in 10 days, his 38th of the season and the 100th of his NHL career.

It gave Horvath sole possession of the league goal-scoring lead but in the total-points race he is still one back of Chicago's Bobby Hull.

The other Boston goals were scored by Horvath's winger Vic Stasiuk—his 26th this season—and rookie Dick Meissner. For

New York Andy Bathgate, Andy Heberton and defenceman Harry Howell picked up single goals.

It was Howell's goal that did the real damage. Horvath and Stasiuk had given Boston a 2-0 first period lead, before Bathgate and Heberton had tied it up with goals early in the second and third. Meissner raced in alone to score at 9:39 of the third. Then, just 67 seconds later, Howell banged a 40-footer that was in the net before Boston goaltender Don Simmons saw the puck.

ROLLINS BACK
Al Rollins was back in Rangers' net after giving way for two games to Jack McCartan since Ranger officials have apparently decided the United States Olympian will play only in New York. In consequence Rangers' defensive play was somewhat looser and the Bruins had a total of 39 shots on Rollins, while Simmons faced 36.

Saturday, Bruins play Detroit in Boston, Chicago is in Montreal against the Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs meet Rangers in Toronto.

Sunday McCartan is expected to be back in goal against the Leafs in New York, Montreal is in Boston and Detroit is at Chicago.

LHS Senior Girls Down Ayer's Cliff To Win Series, Will Meet SHS In Finals For League Championship

Lennoxville High School Senior girls posted a 44-38 win over Ayer's Cliff girls yesterday afternoon at ACHS. This was the second victory for LHS in a best two-game, total-point, semi-final series giving Lennoxville the right to meet SHS Senior girls in a finals battle.

The SHS-LHS fixture is slated for this evening at Sherbrooke High School and is a two-game, total-point affair to determine the champions of the league.

The opening frame saw the visitors playing ball on about an equal level with the Ayer's Cliff girls with the action swaying back and forth throughout the half. However, LHS managed to keep up a good pace in the half and pulled off a 21-17 margin by halftime.

In the final half, Ayer's Cliff came surging back early in the frame but had difficulty with Lennoxville's guards and fouled up numerous plays on this account. However, the hosts tallied 21 points in the half but were outscored by two on the part of Lennoxville; losing the game 44-38 at the hands of the visitors.

Topping the visiting Lennoxville girls were Nancy Knapp and Sylvia Johnston who dropped in 16 points each to tally a majority of their team's baskets. Racking up the rest of LHS's points were Gail Cameron and Kathy Klinck with six each.

Starring for Ayer's Cliff were Judy Stafford and G. Smith with 19 and 14 respectively. The only other scorer for the hosting team was L. Mosher who dropped in the remaining five points.

Lennoxville: N. Knapp (16), S. Johnston (16), G. Cameron (6), K. Klinck (6), K. Crosby, A. Warner, J. Fraser, M. Maurice, B. Hicks, S. Cleveland, B. King, J. Cathcart. Total: 44.
Ayer's Cliff: J. Stafford (19), G. Smith (14), L. Mosher (5), D. Cass, S. Smith, M. McHarg, J. Cutler, M. Bowen, R. Dolloff, S. Hibbard, G. Raymond. Total: 38.

Excellent Conditions Expected As Stage Is Set For Canadian Senior Alpine Ski Event At Camp Fortune
CAMP FORTUNE, Que. (CP)—Ideal conditions are anticipated for the Canadian Alpine skiing championships which open Saturday at this winter playground in the Gatineau Hills north of Ottawa.
Ten women and 55 men will be seeking combined titles in Saturday's slalom races and Sunday's giant slalom.
John Clifford, chief organizer for the host Ottawa Ski Club, said the hills are the best they've been in about 15 years with snow up to 58 inches deep.
The Canadian run in Camp Fortune's newly-opened skyline area is excellent, he said. This is where each skier will make two runs in each event, through 70 gates down a 3,000-foot course with a 610-foot drop in the slalom and through 40 gates down a 3,500-foot course with the same drop in the giant slalom.
Saturday's event starts at 11 a.m. AST and Sunday's at noon. Governor-General Vanier and world Alpine champion Anne Heggtveit will be on hand for award presentations Sunday afternoon.
Jean Lessard of Sherbrooke, Que., last year's winner of the men's combined, and Fred Tommy of Ottawa are among the top seeded. These two carried Canada's colors in Olympic Alpine events two weeks ago in Squaw Valley, Calif.
Miss Heggtveit, now officially retired from competitive skiing, swept the women's events at Magog, Que., last year.
Leading women contenders are Jacqueline and Louise Thibault of Victoriaville, Que., Shirley Lawton of Montreal and Sue Holmes of Ottawa. Miss Holmes

Gilles Dube Pots Winner As Locals Turn In Outstanding Performance; Andy Payette Stars In Nets For Vics

Sherbrooke Beavers, paced by playing coach Gilles Dube, posted their first victory in the E.T. Intermediate Hockey League semi-finals here last night when they eked out a 2-1 verdict after fifteen minutes and fifty-five seconds of overtime. Gilles Dube got the clinching tally in the sudden-death to end the hard fought battle. The teams now move to Granby Sunday for the fourth tilt.

Andy Payette, Granby's netminder, was by far the outstanding man in the game. Time after time he seemed alone on the ice as the Beavers bombarded him from all angles. In the first period he stopped a total of 13 shots and some of them was just short of the miraculous stage. His play kept Granby in the battle.

Gilles Dube finally potted the winning tally after five minutes of the second overtime period. Ray St. Cyr gave Sherbrooke the lead in the second period just after the half-way mark. In the third frame Jean-Paul Brouillard evened the count to send the teams into overtime.

The game was a hard fought battle and the Beavers deserved to win on their play. It was one of their best games for quite sometime as all players pulled their own weight. The speed at which the teams kept going was hard to understand and no one seemed to slacken.

Sherbrooke opened with a bang and took over to give Payette a busy time. How he managed to stop some of the shots was hard to understand but he sensed where the rubber was going and was there. He gave as fine an exhibition of goal-tending one would wish to see. It was his great playing which kept the Vics in the battle.

Cote, Rousseau, Dube, St. Cyr, Theriault and Dussault were all in on top of Payette but the lanky boy came up with the saves to rob the locals of what looked like sure goals. He rose to all the occasions presented to him.

At the start of the second period Normie Dussault was the first to test Payette but the rest didn't change him in the least and he took over. The Beavers were all over but again they were stopped at the goal mouth.

Adj. Cote missed a wonderful opportunity from close range as his shot just missed the open corner. John Mentis got in the clear but Payette came up with the save. The Sherbrooke goalie didn't have quite so much work as Payette but all his shots were tough ones to handle.

Ray St. Cyr registered the first goal of the evening after taking a pass from his mates, Cote and Rousseau, to beat Payette with a high shot to catch the meshings. This stood up until the final frame but it failed to halt the speed and the pace seemed to step up a little.

Charbonneau was in on Pratte but he made the save. Marcel Benoit broke away but he failed to do any damage as Payette turned his effort aside. Bouvier got thumbed for cross-checking but the Vics tossed up a strong defense to hold the fort.

Just after the start of the third period Brouillard evened the count on a beautiful passing play with Mentis and Charbonneau assisting. They tallied right from the face-off and their first rush Charbonneau set it up and Brouillard was Johnny-on-the-spot to beat Pratte.

Following this the teams battled away with play swinging back and forth at a good clip. First Pratte would make a save then Payette would follow as it kept hopping up and down the ice at a terrific speed.

Spike Laliberte was in on Pratte in the first overtime but he failed to click. Cote and Rousseau came close as the Vics seemed to slow down a little. Cote bounced right back but Payette made a great save to stop him. In the second overtime Gilles Dube was on the spot to pick up a rebound to bat it over Payette to break the deadlock.

Bishop's Girls Post Double Victories, Down YWCA 28-13, Compton 31-20

Bishop's University Girls team posted a 28-13 victory over the YWCA girls in an exciting tilt played at the University Memorial Gymnasium Wednesday evening.

In the first half, the hosting Bishop's girls plunged into the game and came up with a 12-9 margin by halftime. However, in the final half, the University squad really got going and outscored the visitors 16-4 in the frame; giving them the tilt 28-13.

Starring for the victorious Bishop's club was Betty Denison who dumped in 14 points. Betty was a big gun for the club throughout the fixture and spearheaded play during both halves. Following up Betty Denison pointwise was Lou Rider with six points; another definite asset to the club in the forward position.

Topping the losing 'Y' girls was Betty Astbury who racked up a total of seven points. Both she and Norma Smith were key assets to their club in the offensive department of play while Doreen Hodge was excellent in stopping numerous Bishop's potential scoring plays.

In a girls basketball game played last night, Bishop's continued their winning streak by dumping Compton girls 31-20 in a fast and furious tilt played at the Memorial Gymnasium.

The second and final half was definitely Bishop's with the local girls displaying better ball handling throughout the frame. With the three-quarter time score reading 25-12 in their favour, the University girls coasted in easily for the victory; taking the tilt 31-20.

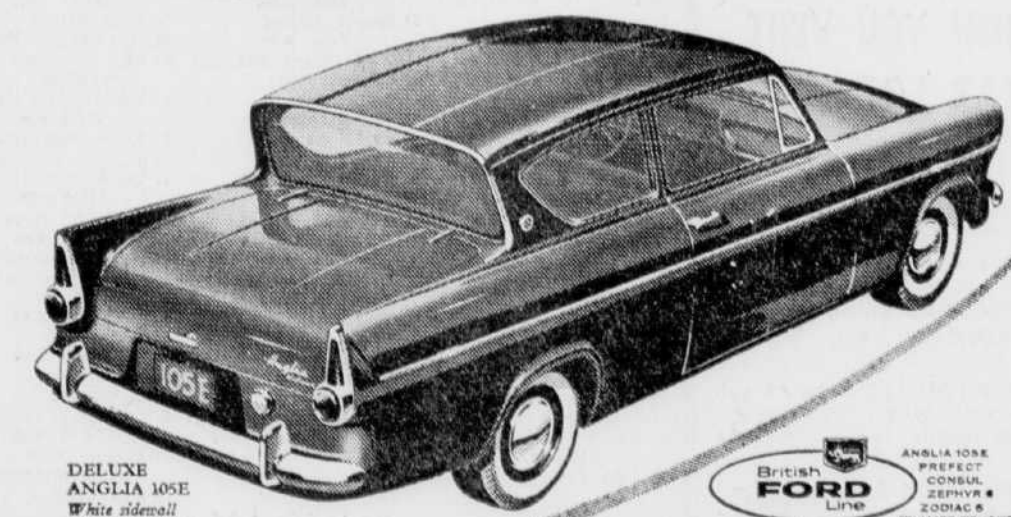

Topping the winners was Betty Denison and Jo Tierney with 10 points each. Marney McCullough tallied six and Joanne Woodward racked up three to complete a line of four girls who were excellent in their many driving offensive plays that overwhelmed Compton on numerous occasions.

On guard duty for Bishop's Ann Meredith and Lois Benson were outstanding for the locals while Bertie Langford, Sue Hanson, and Rozzi Aylmer all deserve special commendation for the tremendous added support on an excellent guard line for Bishop's.

Heading the Compton team were Rowanlegg and Diane Gordon with eight and six respectively. Two other exceptionally good players for the squad were Cindy Gordon and Jane McDougall who were backed up by a dependable club that found Bishop's just too hard to take.

Bishop's: B. Denison (14), L. Rider (6), L. Hooker (2), J. Tierney (2), J. Woodward (2), M. McCullough (2), M. Grosskuith, B. Thomas, J. Dando, S. Hanson, J. Miller, R. Langford, R. Aylmer, L. Benson, A. Meredith. Total—28.
YWCA: B. Astbury (7), L. Duffy (3), D. Wielgus (2), N. Smith (1), T. Bennett, S. Pearson, M. Pearson, J. Davidson, R. Crosby, D. Hodge. Total—13.
Bishop's: B. Denison (10), J. Tierney (10), M. McCullough (6), J. Woodward (3), J. Dando (2), L. Hooker, A. Meredith, L. Benson, R. Langford, S. Hanson, R. Aylmer. Total—31.

Extra-Game Playoff Looms In Canadian Curling Championships

Saskatchewan And Ontario Keep Winning Could End In Stalemate, Edwards Meets Hunt In Final Round

PORT WILLIAM — (CP) — An extra-game playoff loomed at the Canadian curling championship here today as Ernie Richardson of Saskatchewan and Jack Edwards of Ontario continued to chalk up victories.

Richardson, who won the 1959 title in a playoff against Herbie Olsen of Alberta, leads the 11-rink pack with eight victories in nine starts. Edwards is one-half game back with seven wins and a loss, having had his bye on the third round.

Edwards, 38-year-old Kingston shotmaker, was drawn against Prince Edward Island's Doug Cameron in this morning's 10th round. He winds up against Ted Hunt of Quebec in the afternoon's final round. The Richardson family rink drew Nova Scotia's Ian Baird in the morning and had the last-round bye.

Only Stu Beagle of Alberta and Mac Scates of Manitoba still have a slim hope of winning the title. Each has lost two games and it would take a second loss to Saskatchewan and Ontario for either to both to get into the final. Beagle, with seven wins and two losses, had the morning bye. Manitoba had its bye on the second round and has a 6-2 record.

BEAT TOUGH ONES
Edwards had the best record in Thursday's three tough draws, winning all contests, including victories over Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

The Ontario skip beat the Richardsons 11-6, edged Scates 10-8 in the afternoon and defeated Northern Ontario's Don Groom 11-9 at night.

Saskatchewan rebounded from its morning loss to defeat Harold Mabey of New Brunswick 9-6 in the eighth round and overpowered John David Lyon of Newfoundland 21-5 in the ninth.

Groom gave Edwards a battle for five ends when the score was deadlocked 4-4, but Ontario cracked through for two on the sixth, three on the eighth and two more on the 10th.

THREE FOUR-ENDERS
Richardson hit for three four-ends, a three, two doubles and two singles for his healthy win over Newfoundland. The first four-ender came on the second end and was partly due to a freak.

Lyon, attempting an out-turn on his last rock, picked up some foreign matter on his stone. It stopped before the hogline. The Newfoundlanders never recovered.

Manitoba had little difficulty with New Brunswick after connecting for a three on the eighth. Another three-ender on the 10th spelled doom for the Maritimes squad even though they scored singles on the last two ends.

Alberta remained in contention with its 10-7 decision over Quebec. Beagle had good support from third Jimmy Shields, especially on the seventh when he hit for three to go in front to stay.

Pirates Cross Fingers As Hobbling Pitchers Perk Up, Bob Friend Is In Top Shape, Hurls Four-Innings

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—It looks as though the question marks on the Pittsburgh Pirates pitching staff may shake off their aches and pains this year.

Take it from one satisfied hurler, Bob Friend—who shared honors with Milwaukee's Warren Spahn as the National League's winningest pitcher in 1958 but flopped last year.

"Boy, my arm feels good," he remarked Thursday after tossing four innings of an intra-squad game. "I was pretty fast and good breaking stuff. I didn't expect it to be so loose and free this early, but I felt fine. Just hope that it keeps up."

Friend's record was 22-14 in 1958 and 8-19 in 1959.

And manager Danny Murtaugh has high hopes for rookie Joe Gibbon, who has "looked mighty good."

IMPRESSED HITTERS

"He isn't overpoweringly fast," Murtaugh went on, "but he is faster than last year and when the guys come back to the bench after batting, they say he has something."

Gibbon, after failing to impress the Pirate management at spring training last year, returned to Columbus where he posted a 16-9 record.

Murtaugh was equally high in praise of Don Gross, saying:

"Gross gave me the most pleasure. He is throwing overhand again. Last year it was always sidearm. He looked better in three innings of intra-squad ball than he did all of last season."

ONE WIN IN 1959
Gross was plagued by a sore shoulder last season and posted an odious 1-1 record for the Pirates, mostly in relief.

As for Ron Blackburn, he's determined to become the fourth starting pitcher for Murtaugh to go along with Friend, Harvey Haddix and Vernon Law.

"There's no future in being a late-inning reliever on this team," said Blackburn. "You spend a lot of time on the bench and when you're called on you don't have your control. I want to start."

Another big question mark is George (Red) Witt, the rookie sensation who failed to win a game last year as a sophomore. So far Witt reports that elbow trouble that plagued him last season hasn't troubled him yet in spring camp.

Ottawa Welcomes Home Its Ski Queen In Grand Style, 10,000 Line Route, City Presents Silver Tea Service

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa welcomed home its ski queen Thursday with an enthusiasm possibly unparalleled in a city accustomed to greeting dignitaries.

Anne Heggveit day reached its climax at a banquet Thursday night with a telegram from the Queen expressing "warm congratulations."

Mayor George Nelms said the city has never seen a bigger welcome than the Olympic slalom gold medalist's ticket - tape parade.

Some 10,000 people lined a mile-long route to cheer and clap as the tired Miss Heggveit, waving and smiling bravely, rode by on her throne atop a float.

At Thursday night's banquet the city gave her an ornate silver tea service and Prime Minister Diefenbaker transferred to the Ottawa girl Kipling's description of Canada — "our lady of the snow."

Anne rose to a standing ovation from 500 guests to express her modest appreciation. The 21-year-old blonde was slim and delicate in a simple blue dress that matched her eyes.

She returned home after a two-week holiday in California and New York City following the winter Olympics at Squaw Valley.

At the testimonial dinner, Miss Heggveit thanked her skiing friends; her predecessor as Canadian ski queen, Lucile Wheeler of St. Jovite, Que. — "my inspiration"—and Barbara Ann Scott, 1948 world and Olympic figure skating champion.

"At the age of nine I stood in the crowd and watched Barbara Ann Scott welcomed home as I was today. I remember clearly the determination I felt then to have the same honor."

Anne reaffirmed her decision to give up competitive skiing. She said her immediate plans are not settled.

Barons Dump Aces To Move Into Third

QUEBEC (CP) — Cleveland Barons beat Quebec Aces 6-3 Thursday night to vault into third spot in the American Hockey League standing.

Facing elimination from the playoffs, the Barons would not be beaten.

Fred Glove paced the Barons attack with two goals. Other scorers were Don Hogan, Ed Hoekstra, Bill Dineen and Ed Mazur. Quebec scorers were Jackie LeClair, rookie Germain Munger and Bob Barlow.

Feature Sports Trying To Nail Down Title Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Feature Sports Inc., the new fight group with a couple of irons in the fire, sent one ambassador to California Thursday and plans to send another to Spain next week in an effort to nail down two title fights.

Jack (Doc) Kearns left Thursday for Los Angeles. He is manager of light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, who signed for a title defence against Germany's Erich Schoepner this summer. Kearns plans to inspect the outdoor coliseum and the new indoor sports arena in Los Angeles and the San Francisco Cow Palace.

According to an FSI spokesman one of these sites may be the place to hold the Moore-Schoepner fight if it's not staged in Jersey City, N.J.

FSI also announced that Jack Fugazy, its managing director, plans to fly to Madrid next Tuesday to confer with heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson and his adviser, Edwin Ahlquist, regarding the return bout with ex-champion Floyd Patterson.

Ball Players, Speeding To Beat Curfew, Injured In Car Crash

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—The possibility that Dave Hillman's career may be over clouded the Boston Red Sox training camp today following an auto accident involving the pitcher and outfielder Marty Keough.

Manager Billy Jurges Thursday night absolved both of any breach of training rules after investigating the early morning mishap in which they miraculously escaped death.

Acquired in an off-season trade with Chicago Cubs, Hillman had a severe bruise on his right shoulder—his throwing arm—and had a seven-stitch cut on top of his head. Keough, the driver charged with speeding at 70 in a 45-mile-an-hour zone, was thrown clear, suffering numerous abrasions and multiple bruises.

Jurges had threatened to fine the players if he found they had violated the team's 1 a.m. curfew. The Maricopa County sheriff's office reported the car skidded 650 feet along the highway between Mesa and Scottsdale, rolled over five times and landed on its roof at 1:15 a.m. Tuesday.

CRASHED BEFORE CURFEW
Later the players told Jurges the accident happened 25 minutes before the curfew. They said they were on their way back to their rooms when the car skidded on a soft shoulder and went out of control.

"If the accident happened at 12:35 a.m. they would have been back at the hotel in plenty of time to beat the curfew," Jurges said. "Thus I will not have to take any action."

Sox trainer Jack Fadden said it would be a week or two before the extent of the damage to Hillman's arm could be determined. While the threat of his baseball demise rested with Hillman, the 32-year-old righthander insisted he would be all right.

Keough will be out of action at least for a few days.

Both were released after being treated at the Scottsdale clinic.

Farm Forum Activities

THIRD RANGE

The regular meeting of the Third Range Farm Forum was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Brown with 17 present.

After the broadcast was listened to and the Greenleaf read, the following questions were discussed:

What can be done by your Forum and community to cut down the farm accident rate? What kind of program would you recommend to reach everyone? Answer: Our Forum suggests election of an inspector such as a sympathetic retired farmer, who periodically would inspect farm properties, marking hazards with red stickers or posters, and also offer advice in other ways in respect to farm safety.

What organized action should be taken provincially and nationally to reduce farm accidents? Answer: Our Forum feels that a national farm safety council would help to reduce farm accidents. What we would expect of such an organization would be radio and television programs on farm hazards and safety.

The questions in the Guide were answered and the Year End Questionnaire was filled out, after which cards were played at four tables.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by other members.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Clark, on March 14. The topic will be the Farm Organization Story in College and School Centralization.

FROST VILLAGE

The Frost Village Farm Forum met on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Verhoef, at the Five Corners on the old Granby Road. The recent storms have caused cancellation of a few of these meetings.

There were six families represented. The subject, Safety on Canada's Farm was listened to on the broadcast and discussions brought up. The hostess served refreshments.

The next meeting is scheduled to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Maynes, Western Ave. The members of the Waterloo-Warden Institute are invited to attend. Two subjects are to be on the agenda: The Farm Organization Story in College and A School Centralization.

MANSONVILLE

The Farm Forum members met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy George with 22 present, among them being the county agronomist, Keith Bradley, and the county president, Rudy Dullenbach.

Francis Young, who attended the Co-op Seminar at Macdonald College gave a report of the proceedings.

The topic, Safety on Canada's Farms provided a lively discussion with the summary as follows:

1. From now on our Farm Forum Guides should have a safety slogan on each Guide. We think cards with a well-written list of farm accident hazards would be of great help.

2. A safety campaign similar to that of Bruce County, Ont., should be started. Machinery manufacturers should be made to realize and improve on the dangers of some of their equipment. A national farm safety council would be a help.

Lunch was served by the ladies and a social hour enjoyed at the close of which Mr. Dullenbach thanked the group for an interesting evening.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young on March 14. The topic will be Education.

HIGH AND LOW FOREST

The meeting held by the High and Low Forest Farm Forum in the L.O.L. Hall in Sawyerville on March 7 was a great success. Seventy-eight were present, coming from Waterville, Ives Hill, Draper's Corner, Milby, Compton, Bulwer, Cookshire, Sawyerville and East Clifton.

The meeting was chaired by Harold Lowry. The broadcast was listened to then the gathering broke into small groups to discuss the topic, Safety on the Canadian Farm.

Safety rules should be taught in the home and then continued in school so that all would be brought up to be safety conscious.

Richmond Irish Celebration

Tribute To St. Patrick Takes Form Of Shamrock Or Parade

Sean McGoldrick, the author of this article, will be guest speaker at the St. Patrick's Banquet to be held in Richmond, Sunday evening, March 13, at the Richmond Cabaret. He was born in Don Laoghair, near Dublin City and has travelled all over Ireland on foot and by bicycle handling publicity for the Irish Youth Hostels Association, a branch of the Association which encourages outdoor life and travel for young and old alike. He has also travelled through the British Isles, much of Europe and part of the United States.

By SEAN MCGOLDRICK

In the year 432 A.D., a young bishop landed in Ireland with the dedicated purpose of bringing the light of Christianity to a people steeped in the beliefs and rituals of paganism. So successful was his mission that, today, more than fifteen hundred years later, millions of people of Irish nationality and ancestry throughout the world pay tribute to him on March 17th every year.

The tribute may take the form of a short prayer, a tiny piece of green ribbon, a sprig of withered shamrock which has travelled thousands of miles from some hillside in the Emerald Isle, or a mile-long parade in lands which were hidden behind the veil of ignorance during Patrick's time.

In the land where he worked and died, the people mark his memory with Mass or a church service in the morning and sports events in the afternoon. In and around Dublin, for instance, there's a big dogshow, a racehorse meeting, an important soccer game at Dalymount Park and Gaelic games at Croke Park. Also, there is a parade of industrial floats through the city.

Elsewhere in Ireland, small groups will gather at shrines and other monuments dedicated to St. Patrick. Such places are to be found in just about every one of the thirty-two counties that make up the island, for he travelled far and wide and the memory of his visits has been preserved through fifteen hundred years in places where brave deeds and sacrifices have been forgotten.

In Patrick first landed in Ireland in the year 405 A.D. as a slave herdsman, and he served six lonely years on the slopes of Slieve Donard, eight miles east of Ballymena in County Antrim. He escaped from this lonely life of cold and hunger and walked about 200 miles along the east coast to Wexford or Waterford and managed to board a ship sailing for France. In Europe he took up studies and was ordained a priest and then in 432 he was consecrated a bishop. Patrick lost almost no time in setting out for Ireland to undertake his mission.

He landed at Saul in County Down that same year and there celebrated his first Mass on Irish soil and made his first convert. The name Saul is from the Irish Sabhall, meaning a barn. The place is so called because the chieftain of the district, gave Patrick a sheep barn to use as a church.

His first conquest accomplished, Patrick set out on his travels, preaching, arguing, teaching, ordaining new priests and organizing the new churches. The routes for his long treks can only be a matter for conjecture as we do not have a record of any of his itineraries. But we do know of several of the places he visited, particularly from the names by which they are known today. Most of these names incorporate the name "Patrick."

The Province of Ulster seems to have been particularly dear to Patrick's heart, for it was at Armagh he built his principal church in the year 444, and this site is still the primatial See of all Ireland. Other Ulster counties where the Saint is remembered for his visits are County Cavan, where he is credited with the overthrow of idols, and two places in Donegal - Aileach, where he stood on a stone fort to bless Inishowen, and Lough Derg, where he did a long penitential fast, a devotion which is practiced by thousands of pilgrims who journey to the island on the lake every year.

A traveller crossing from Donegal to neighbouring Sligo may drink water from one of the wells at Tubberpatrick (Patrick's Well) where Patrick baptised his converts. Further along the coast we come to Killala in County Mayo, where Patrick founded a church.

He also travelled in the southern province of Munster, and we learn that he mounted a hill known as Knockpatrick (Patrick's Hill) in County Limerick and blessed the entire province.

Patrick stopped in Tipperary County too. Near the town of Clonmel the people still point out Patrick's Well, and almost every schoolboy in Ireland can tell about the conversion of the pagan King Aengus and his broth-because he thought this was part of the baptismal ceremony.

In the Dublin area the people of Pinguas proudly tell the visitor that Patrick stopped in their village, and further north, on the Hill of Slane, Patrick performed his most daring and probably his most important exploit. The story as it has come down to us is that no one was permitted to light a fire until the Druids lit their Pascal fire on Royal Tara Hill, the seat of the High King of Ireland. Patrick defied the druids and lit a fire on the Hill of Slane within view of Tara. The druids were angered by this defiance and forecast that the fire Patrick had lit would burn forever.

Further up the eastern coast, on the bank of the River Boyne some mischievous people stole the goat Patrick had trained to carry his water jars. To this day, the people on the north bank say the theft was the work of dwellers on the south side, and the southsiders hold that only north-bank dwellers would be capable of such an outrage.

This raises a question as to how Patrick travelled. There is no doubt that he walked a great part of the way, but records also say there were speedy chariots in his day.
