The Explosion Was Terrific.

Details of the Disaster at South Lowell, Mass.—Over a Score are Dead and Fifty Injured.

Lowell, Mass., July 30.—It is now stated that as a result of yesterday's explosion twenty-three lives were lost and fifty persons injured. The property loss will be about $75,000.

DETAILS OF THE DISASTER.

Boston, July 30.—Details of the explosion yesterday near South Lowell, show it to have been quite as terrific and as terrible in its results as at first reported.

The wreck caused by the explosion covers an extent of three acres and the region resembles a battlefield, after a conflict. Houses, barns and outbuildings lie in a ruined state, some half demolished, others hardly more than a heap of broken timbers.

HASTEN TO RESCUE.

Men who lived in streets not far off, who were fortunate enough to escape serious injury immediately gave themselves over to the work of rescuing women and children and removing them to places of safety, for almost simultaneously with the explosion came flashes of flames from several buildings into the flames and debris scores of men were soon plunging in efforts to save life and property. The wreck was so complete, however, that the work was harrowingly slow.

PANIC IN LOWELL.

The city was thrown into a panic and it required every effort of the authorities to establish and maintain anything like order. Alarming reports to the effect that over 100 had been killed and injured caused widespread confusion. The streets of the city were soon filled with throngs of men, women and children who swept out to learn what had happened. To add to the tumult inquiries from the cities all through the section were received and within an hour the police had been asked to explain the cause of the widespread shock to points both in New Hampshire and Massachusetts. The crowds in the locality of the accident increased momentarily and it seemed as if all Lowell had suspended business and was at the scene of the catastrophe. Within a comparatively short time 5000, it was estimated, crowded the vicinity. It finally became necessary to summon four companies of the State militia.

PATHETIC SCENES.

The police and firemen, assisted by other men, began a search of the ruins as soon as they were sufficiently cool, and as the dead and injured were brought out many pathetic scenes occurred. Women screamed and became hysterical, several of them fainted at the frightful appearance of some of the dead and maimed before the arrival of ambulances and the seriously injured were conveyed to boathouses along the Concord River, which had escaped destruction. Physicians were hurried out from the city as soon as the disaster became known and they together with doctors living in Wigginsville made the injured as comfortable as possible, until ambulances arrived to convey them to St. John's Hospital. Some of the injured were terribly maimed and burned. One man was suffering such intense agony that upon his arrival at the hospital he begged the surgeons to shoot him and end his misery. A large number who were treated at the hospital and by outside physicians sustained only cut hands and faces, caused by glass.

DYNAMITE CAUSED EXPLOSION.

C. W. Dimmock, of the United States Cartridge Company, after having spent the morning at the works, said: "It was the magazine that exploded. This was situated nearly two miles from our factory, between South Lowell and Tewksbury. We shared it with the American Powder Company, they storing dynamite there. I do not care to make any official statement, and can only think of the sad loss of life there has been. There was dynamite in the explosion as anyone familiar with its effects will know at once, but the United States Cartridge Company never has owned a pound of dynamite and has never had any use for it. We simply share storage facilities with the American Powder Company. We make our own fulmanite, and use it as made. As to the cause I don't know. The foreman in charge of the magazine is alive and apparently is not seriously injured, though one of the miracles of the explosion. He must have been right in the middle of it. We had several tons of different sorts of powder in the magazine, but I have no knowledge or way of knowing how much dynamite the American Powder Company had there. When the magazine was built it was away out in the country, but since then some houses have been built near it."

B. & M. PASSENGERS SAW IT.

The train which arrived in the North Station at 9.40 from Lowell brought several hundred passengers who were all but in the explosion. The train had just pulled out of the station when the thing happened, and the factory was just across the river from where they were—not 500 yards away. The shock of the explosion was felt even on the moving cars, jolting all violently in their seats. Almost simultaneously with the shock they heard the roar of the powder, and then the brakes were clapped suddenly on their cars and the train brought to a standstill. One of the passengers who was looking out of the window and saw the thing happen, tells the story as follows:

"Near the magazine were a number of small houses, crowded in, I should say, rather quickly, and in the moment of the explosion they collapsed. The noise and the sight startled me when it happened, and when next I took note of things the houses lay in a heap of ruins. You have seen children build houses of blocks, and then sweep them all to the floor? Well, it was like that. Not a sign of life could we see there, on the smoking ruins—but a little farther down we saw women and children running in the streets. We had only a glimpse from our car windows, for our train pulled out again soon after it stopped, and the surprise was so great that not one of us thought to get off and see what we could do."

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE EAST SHERBROOKE

REQUIEM MASS THIS MORNING FOR LATE POPE WAS LARGELY ATTENDED.

The third requiem mass in the city in memory of Pope Leo XIII. was sung this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church, East Sherbrooke. In spite of the heavy rain which fell all forenoon, the church was crowded by the faithful who wished to pay a last tribute to the dead pontiff.

The church was prettily decorated with heavy black drapings, bearing inscriptions, amongst which were conspicuous the papal colors.

The officiant for the occasion was Mgr. E. C. Tanguay, of the St. Charles Seminary, assisted by Rev. J. O. Laporte, parish priest of East Sherbrooke, as deacon and Rev. J. A. Parent, of the St. Charles Seminary, as sub-deacon.

The singing was rendered by a special choir under the direction of Mr. O. Biron and sang very sweetly the "Mass for the Dead," harmonized. At the offertory Mr. Victor Lefebvre rendered the "Jesus Salvator Mundi."

After mass a eulogy of the late Pontiff was given by the Rev. J. A. H. Gignac, parish priest of St. Michael's cathedral. In it he reviewed the deeds and virtues which he said immortalized Leo XIII. and placed him in history with the greatest monarchs and the most pious and ingenious of popes.

The Libera was then chanted around the catalfacque, on which was placed a golden tiara, the symbol of papal authority.

As the people were leaving the church the choir rendered in parts the "De Profundis," which added much to the solemnity of the occasion.

THE LAST REQUIEM.

HELD AT VATICAN FOR THE LATE POPE LEO XIII.

Rome, July 30.—(Special.) — This morning the third great requiem mass, the last tribute paid to Leo XIII., was celebrated in the Sistine chapel of the Vatican.

The function was no less ceremonious and imposing than the two others.

There were sixty-one cardinals present, a number unprecedented in case of former masses.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 30. — During an electrical storm yesterday afternoon, a number of Italians took refuge in a building on Kelly street. The building was struck by lightning, and two men were killed instantly. Three others were injured, but will recover.

STEAMER ASHORE.

The Lake Manitoba Has Accident in Montreal Harbor

STUCK IN THE MUD AND MAY NOT BE SERIOUSLY DAMAGED.

Montreal, July 30.—(Special.) —This morning the Lake Manitoba, one of the Canadian Pacific steamers, went ashore while leaving for Liverpool.

The pilot and ship's officers could not distinguish the course owing to a heavy rain storm.

As the vessel lies on a mud bottom, it is not likely that the damage will be serious.

OLD BOYS B. C. S.

DO HONOR TO LATE HEAD MASTER PETRY.

Tuesday evening, the Old Boys' Association, of Bishop's College School, at the Montreal Hunt Club, did honor to Dr. H. J. H. Petry, late headmaster.

A substantial cheque was presented, accompanied by the following address: To H. J. H. Petry, Esq., D.C.L.:

"The undersigned old boys and friends of B. C. S., Lennoxville, desire to express their regret at your resignation of the position of headmaster, and to place on record their estimate of your personal worth, your high character and standing, and your status as a scholar and teacher of the first rank.

"It has been, in the opinion of the undersigned, an inestimable privilege for the boys of B.C.S. to have had over them for the last eleven years, a man of your character. Your large-hearted, kindly nature; and upright manliness, joined to your great ability as a teacher, have made you the personal friend of every boy; and your severance from the school will be looked on with keenest regret, and disappointment by all."

THE RAINY SEASON.

ST. SWITHIN'S DAY PREDICTION SEEMS LIKELY TO BE REALIZED.

The rain supply for this part of the country has been very irregularly distributed this season. First, there were the forty days of drought, and now it certainly looks very much as if the old prediction of forty days of rain if it rains on St. Swithin's day is to be very fully realized this year. Yesterday's all day rain did not empty the sky for this forenoon began the heaviest rain of the season, the density of the clouds almost turning the day into night.

Farmers find it very bad haying weather, but lumbermen will likely have the long awaited opportunity to float their logs to the mills.

BUFFALO SHOOTING.

POLICEMAN BADLY INJURED IN ATTEMPTING TO CATCH THIEF.

Passing Events in The British Capital.

Fiscal Question Will Create New Parties—Liberals Need a Leader—Memorial Service for Canadian Judge.

London, July 30.—The most important development of the fiscal agitation is the formation of a powerful organization of a free trade union, whose executive committee includes Mr. Herbert Gladstone, M.P.; Mr. Asquith, Sir H. Fowler, M.P.; Sir H. C. Bannerman, M.P.; Earl of Aberdeen, Sir W. Harcourt, M.P.; Mr. John Morley, M.P.; Sir George Trevelyan, Earl Crewe and Earl Carrington. A staff of experts has been appointed, and a vigorous campaign will be begun all over the country to oppose Mr. Chamberlain's policy.

PARTY HAS CEASED TO COUNT.

A prominent city man, a Liberal in politics, has been interviewed by the Daily News and he declares this question is going to create a cleavage of parties worse than that caused by home rule. Liberal leaders have taken the wrong line, but party politics have ceased to count in the city. Half the city, says the authority, supports Mr. Chamberlain. They are declaring trade is declining, so are wages; so is our population. We are not prosperous, and everything calls for a remedy such as Mr. Chamberlain suggests. It would thus appear we are approaching a very stormy time, and as the discussion gets hold of the people, we shall see the most profound political upheaval of our time. It is certain Mr. Chamberlain will have with him most of the manufacturers and merchants who are complaining of foreign competition and whose business is not prosperous. He may also have a majority of the workers, for they, too, are discontented, and want to see a new policy. This fear of facing the issue and voting for it on its own merits, it is felt, must tend to discount Mr. Chamberlain's success in pushing the proposals. Whether free trade or protection be the better policy the truth will gain and not suffer by free discussion of the issue on its own merits in Parliament, and especially is the refusal resented as coming from a Government which asks for full enquiry.

LONDON PROFOUNDLY STIRRED.

The city is beginning to be profoundly stirred and without distinction of party, men are anxious to protest against "gambling with our fiscal system." A mass meeting was proposed at the Guild Hall, and a requisition signed by 650 influential citizens, comprising 19 members of Parliament, 9 bankers, a governor of the Bank of England and upward of 500 merchants was sent to the Lord Mayor, but he was unable to accede to it as it contained the terms of a resolution "That this meeting while admitting the right of the Government to enquire into our fiscal policy, declares its unaltered belief in free trade principles, and protests against imposing taxes on food." This resolution gave the proposed meeting a party complexion, but it is understood a mass meeting will yet be held elsewhere in the city.

SENTIMENT HAS DONE ITS SHARE.

An article written by a prominent Canadian politician on the fiscal question as viewed from the Canadian standpoint, appears in "The Week's Survey." It is sure to attract attention, and if the Canadian view is to be understood and fairly appreciated in England, more such articles should appear in the British daily press. The writer points out the immediate necessity of some such arrangement as Mr. Chamberlain proposes, if Canada is to be saved at this critical juncture from being attracted to a reciprocity compact with the United States which Canada would prefer to make with England. Sentiment has done as much as it can do for Imperial unity, that unity to be real and lasting must have a commercial basis. The article emphasizes the fact that both political parties in Canada believe in preferential tariffs, not for Canada only, but for the good of the Empire. The fulfilment of Mr. Chamberlain's great idea is only a matter of time, and Canada is proud that she has been instrumental in pushing the question to the forefront.

LIBERALS NEED A LEADER.

The Daily News is getting frightened as the time of the general election draws near, that there is no Liberal programme to the front. This is a strange complaint to come from such a quarter, seeing that the body of Liberals in the country clamor for free trade, national economy, public control of the liquor traffic, unsectarian schools under elected school boards, old age pensions and poor law reform, the taxation of land, registration reform, Church disestablishment, and as if these were not enough, there is always the reform of the House of Lords and Home Rule for Ireland. But what alarms the Daily News is the probability that a set Liberal programme may be ignored, and the coming fight be one between free traders and protectionists, in which there would be a compromise between Liberal and Tory free traders and seats be given to the latter which they might lose if the issue were not free trade, but the Liberal programme, which must include so much more which no loyal Tory could subscribe to. What Liberals want is not a policy so much as a leader. The crying need for a leader is pathetically demonstrated this week, when some good people are calling on the energetic Dr. Clifford to forsake the Baptist pulpit and go into the House of Commons.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S ACTIVITY.

The activity of Mr. Chamberlain is causing great uneasiness among free trade Unionists. Unionist M.P. has a letter in the papers complaining that Mr. Vince, secretary of the Tariff Committee of the Birmingham Liberal-Unionist Association, has sent behind his back to his agent a circular letter requesting information as to the feeling in his district regarding Mr. Chamberlain's proposals, what arguments are used against him, etc., etc. Mr. Chamberlain, while the country and the House of Commons are

Cardinal Rampolla Gets Lucky Number.

Draws Apartment 58 in the Conclave—Sixty-Two Cardinals Now in Rome for the Election of Pope.

Rome July 30.—With the arrival here of Cardinal Prisco, archbishop of Naples, the number of cardinals who will participate in the conclave is complete.

Prince Chigi, marshal of the conclave, visited Cardinal Gibbons yesterday and had a long and cordial conversation with the American prelate.

All the diplomats accredited to the Vatican have left their cards at Cardinal Gibbons' house, and he has been visited by the high ecclesiastical dignitaries and the chiefs of the religious orders.

During yesterday's meeting of the congregation the forms to be used in voting at the conclave were distributed among the Cardinals in order that each might be able to learn how to employ his ballot. Superstitious people find an omen in the fact that Cardinal Rampolla drew apartment number 58, which in the lottery book stands for Pope.

Should all the 62 Cardinals now in Rome enter the conclave it will be the most numerously attended in history. The conclave which elected Leo was attended by 61 Cardinals. In the past Popes have been elected by as low as nine.

The ecclesiastics who are to watch the sliding doors, which will be the only means of communication between the conclave and the outside world, have been requested to be present at the Vatican at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon to assume their duties. The sliding door will only be opened between nine and half past eleven in the morning and between five and seven in the evening. At all other times they will be locked.

CARDINAL LOGUE'S VIEWS.

Cardinal Logue, Archbishop of Armagh, had an interview yesterday with Cardinal Gibbons. When asked what he thought of the objections frequently mentioned against Cardinal Gotti being elected Pope on the ground that his being a member of a religious order would prevent him from dealing in a broad spirit with Catholic problems in American and Great Britain, Cardinal Logue said: "It is absurd. Cardinal Gotti was formerly an internuncio and has mixed with the representatives of the various powers. He knows the prevailing conditions as well as anybody. Just because he is a Carmelite it does not follow that he is narrow-minded. Moreover, it is unreasonable to attribute too much

The Temporal And Spritual In Rome.

While Requiem for Leo XIII is Being Sung in Vatican Another is Celebrated at the Pantheon For Late King Humbert.

Rome, July 30.—Rome yesterday morning was the scene of one of those dramatic contrasts which are now so characteristic of the Eternal City. While at the Vatican, in the Sistine Chapel, a solemn requiem mass was being intoned, with all the solemnity the Catholic Church can impose, for the repose of the soul of Leo XIII. the spiritual monarch who claimed Rome as his capital, another and no less solemn requiem mass was being celebrated in the magnificent Pantheon for the repose of the soul of the late King Humbert, the temporal monarch, the capital of whose kingdom was Rome. King Victor Emmanuel and the Dowager Queen Margaret came here to attend the annual mass which is celebrated on the anniversary of the assassination of King Humbert, which occurred three years ago. The King drove to the Pantheon, the well known liveries of his coachmen and footman arousing much interest among the people in the streets, and arrived there in time to meet Queen Margaret, who was dressed in deepest black. After a tender embrace, mother and son entered the Pantheon, heard the mass and placed wreaths on the tomb of King Humbert and King Victor Emmanuel. The entrance and exit of Their Majesties was witnessed by a large crowd.

At 11 o'clock the members of the municipality of Rome, with the exception of those of their number who a few days ago went to the Vatican to condole with the Camerlengo on Pope Leo's death (as representatives of the Clerical party of the City Hall) visited the Pantheon in a body and placed wreaths on the tombs of the two kings.

The second requiem mass in the Sistine Chapel, was termed the foreign mass. The cardinal who celebrated it was Cardinal Kopp, Bishop of Breslau, a German, assisted by three foreign cardinals, Goossens, Archbishop of Mechlin; Gruscha, Archbishop of Vienna, and Perraud, Bishop of Autun, and one Italian cardinal, Di Pietro. The beautiful chapel overflowed, as it did Tuesday, with the faithful.

In the evening there was a public procession through the streets to the tombs of King Humbert and King Victor Emmanuel. It passed off quietly, though thousands of persons witnessed the demonstration, and the procession itself was over a mile in length.

The general opinion was expressed that the anti-clericals succeeded in making a successful counter demonstration against the recent activity of the Clericals; but that they did so without any breach of propriety, and without wounding the feelings of the Catholics and regardless of political affiliations.

Chamberlain Strong In Defence.

Made Clever Reply to Speech of Winston Churchill—A Banker's View of Chamberlain Proposal.

London, July 30.— The House of Commons last night passed the sugar convention bill on its second reading, by a vote of 224 to 144. The occasion was seized by Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's opponents to again attack his protection proposals, basing their arguments on the increase in the price of sugar which, it is foreseen the abolition of the bounties will entail. Mr. Winston Churchill, Conservative, who is hotly opposed to Mr. Chamberlain, made one of the best speeches of his career. His remarks were punctuated with clever sarcasm, which drew constant applause. It failed, however, to upset Mr. Chamberlain, who, replying with the greatest good humor, turned Mr. Churchill and his argument into ridicule by ironical compliments and scathing analysis until he tickled the House into roars of laughter, by proving that Mr. Churchill had shown that the British Empire was founded on jam and pickles. It was an admirable exposition of Mr. Chamberlain's debating skill, against which Mr. Churchill, with all his smartness, was no match.

Mr. Chamberlain, speaking on the sugar bill, said: "For twenty years we have tried to secure the voluntary abandonment of bounties. It was only when we changed our policy and suggested retaliation that we secured the object for which we had struggled so long, and so escaped a condition of things under which Germany and Austria would be able to regulate the price of sugar in Great Britain."

Mr. Chamberlain did not touch directly the fiscal question, but incidentally remarked, "We are on the eve of a great economic fight, and it behooves everybody to keep cool as long as possible, and not turn an economic into a personal fight."

A BANKER'S VIEW.

London, July 30.— Governor F. O. Schuster, at a meeting of the Union Bank of London (Limited), to-day made a lengthy reference to the British fiscal controversy. The whole tenor of Mr. Schuster's remarks was opposed to tampering with free trade. He expressed the belief that the United States was within "measurable distance of adopting free trade," and in support of this said he had a private interview with the late President McKinley two years ago, in which the latter said: "My tariff bill has done its work. We have been able to build up many great industries in a short time, and now gradually, but inevitably, our tariff must be reduced."

COOKSHIRE MAN IN TROUBLE.

SAYS HE WAS ATTACKED BY FOREMAN AND FARM HAND AND BADLY INJURED.

N. Grossman, employed on a farm at Cookshire, arrived in town, last night, bearing evidences of very rough usage. He was helped into the Grand Central 'bus at the station but fell to the sidewalk when trying to get into the hotel without aid. One of his feet was badly injured and he was otherwise bruised.

Grossman states that Tuesday he stated he was going to leave. Yesterday morning the foreman of the farm told him he would have to give a month's notice. He says the foreman and another farm hand then attacked him and handled him in the very roughest possible manner.

He placed his case in the hands of a lawyer last night.

POPULAR THETFORD DR.

MINING TOWN MOURNS DEATH OF LATE CHARLES E. MORIN.

Thetford Mines, July 30.—(Special.)—The people of this town were sadly shocked on Friday, the 24th inst., to learn that Dr. Charles Eugene Morin had passed away after a short illness of two or three days from acute indigestion and heart failure. The deceased gentleman was out attending to his patients on the Tuesday before, but that evening was forced to give in to his illness, from which he never rallied. He was born in St. Nicholas in October, 1866, his parents being Dr. Charles E. Morin and Philomene Trudel. He was educated at Laval University, Quebec, and St. Ann's, Pocatiere, and passed his examinations with distinction fourteen years ago, and he married one year later a very pretty Quebec lady, Miss Emma Simaneau, coming to Thetford Mines one year later, where he built up a large practice by his skill, genial manner and jovial disposition. The esteem in which he was held was shown on Tuesday morning when one of the largest funerals ever held in Thetford was seen. The funeral left the house at half-past eight accompanied by the four societies of which deceased was a member, viz., the Artizans, C.O.F., A.O.U.W. and the I.O.F., all making one long procession. All the mines were closed and the stores all closed and the streets lined with the citizens and visitors wending their way to the R.C. church, where the beautiful and impressive service was held by the parish priest assisted by a deacon and a sub-deacon, and after leaving the church all formed into procession and marched to the station and there awaited the New York express The acting pall-bearers were G. R. Smith, A. S. Johnson, B. J. Bennett and J. Demers. The casket was literally covered with crosses and wreaths and cut flowers and anchors, 200 masses by different parties and 25 spiritual bouquets, crosses from B. J. Bennett, J. H. Lessard and family, Mr. and Mrs. Deschamps, Mrs. G. R. Smith, wreaths from G. R. Smith, Messrs. Larose, Mr. and Mrs. P. Percival Johnson, L. and J. Roberge, cut flowers from Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith, anchor from Mr. and Mrs. Louis Huard. The C.O.F. gave a very pretty artificial fern. The deceased leaves a wife and five children to mourn their loss. The Independent Order of Foresters at their meeting on Tuesday passed a resolution of condolence to the family.

HE LOST $5,000,000 A MINUTE.

GREATEST SPECULATIVE LOSER ON RECORD AND HIS PITIABLE END.

In a grimy garret in a London slum there died the other day the only man who ever succeeded in losing $25,000,000 in five minutes' time.

His name was Henri Thibault. For years prior to his death he had eked out a precarious subsistence as a translator and teacher of languages. Yet thirteen years previously he had been the prime mover in the great copper corner, the collapse of which shook to its foundation the French financial world.

Thibault's idea was to secretly buy up the world's available supply of copper and wait for the inevitable rise. He came near succeeding.

From his office in Paris he controlled through his agents the markets of London, Berlin and Vienna, and in all of them he purchased every pound of copper that was offered.

The result was quickly apparent. On July 1, 1887, "B. C. B.'s" (best Chili bars) were selling at $200 a ton. By June 1 they had risen to $260 and the rise continued steadily until the middle of December, 1888, when the unheard-of price of a fraction over $500 a ton was being asked and obtained.

Then came the collapse. Thibault had sunk all his own money in the venture, all he could borrow, all he could beg, and still, from all sorts of odd and unexpected corners of the world copper came pouring in.

As soon as he ceased buying he had, of course, to commence selling, and this hastened and accentuated the inevitable end. By March 1 the price had dropped to less than it was when Thibault commenced operations.

Altogether the gigantic gamble cost him $50,000,000 of which sum fully one-half was lost between noon and five minutes past on February 28, 1889, when the bottom dropped out of the corner.

JAIL FOR CHARTERS.

ALLEGED FRIEND OF LORD MINTO GOT FOUR MONTHS.

Toronto, July 30.—Ellis M. Charters, the Englishman arrested for vagrancy, after attempting to get a loan of $100 from the Governor-General, which sum the clerk at the King Edward Hotel refused to hand over to him, was sentenced to four months in the Central Prison by Colonel Denison, in the Police Court, Monday morning. Charters, in answer to a question by the Magistrate as to why he had registered at the King Edward as "Hon. Ellis Charteris, late of the Coldstream Guards, Glasford House," said that he had been drinking and didn't remember anything about it. He admitted applying at the King Edward for Lord Minto's loan of $100. "It was this way," he said. "I had a telegram from Lord Minto. He asked me to come and stay with him, having seen by the paper that I was here. He said ge had sent $100 to the King Edward for me."

"He thought you were an old friend of his, did he not?" asked his Worship.

"Yes, he did, I presume, so that was why I went to the hotel to get the money. I was going to return it to Lord Minto and explain the mistake."

RAILROAD WORK OF THE Y. M. C. A.

There are now 180 Railroad Young Men's Christian Associations, with over 50,000 members, an increase of more than seven thousand members in the past year. This increase equals the total membership at the close of the first twelve years of the life of this department of association work. Seventy per cent. of the railway mileage of the United States is now contributing to the support of the railroad department. Yet there are three hundred unoccupied division points on American railroads. More than half the men belonging to the railroad Y. M.C.A. are not members of any church—Protestant or Catholic. Among those who have church relationship, more members are connected with the Catholic Church than with any two Protestant denominations.

The first great manager who had charge of the Santa Fe property, Wm. B. Strong, believed in reading-rooms, libraries, bath-houses, and all such arrangements for the benefit of the men of the road. Since this beginning his views and practices in this respect have been adopted and amplified until probably no railroad company in the world has given more generously in proportion to its means for such purposes than the Santa Fe.

The Association is firmly established on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, and is said to be extending its influence every day. There are Associations at nine different points, with a membership of over two thousand men with an average attendance of over 1,500 daily. The company is now considering the establishment of another building at Charlottesville, Va. This will cover every division point on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway.

Mr. T. J. Nicholl, vice-president of the Rochester Street Railway, was the first member of the first street railway Y.M.C.A. organized in this country. It [illegible] over one year old. At [illegible] cost, the Rochester [illegible] company fitted up, handsom[illegible] reading-room, bowling alley, its intention being to run the rooms in an orderly manner but without regard to religion, ethics, or high moral instruction. Yet many religious meetings are held. The moral standing of the men is said to have advanced more than fifty per cent.

The Street Railway Association in Brooklyn has plans for Young Men's Christian Association work akin to that in Rochester. This road employs 12,000 men, operates 2,500 cars and has 3,000 miles of track.

The City Young Men's Christian Association in Denmark is very strong. In that little country, with its 2,000,000 inhabitants, there are something more than 200 Associations with a membership of about 7,400 men. In Copenhagen there is a city Association with 2,000 members and a very good building. For many years there was no work done among and for railroad men, but four years ago such a work among the 14,000 railroad men was begun.

ONLY A FALSE ALARM.

DOCTORS COULD NOT AGREE IN DIAGNOSIS OF CASE OF WEST COMPTON MAN.

West Compton, July 30.—(Special.)—Quite a little excitement prevailed here when the report was circulated that Mr. Albert Pope had the smallpox. It seems that a Hatley doctor had been treating him for typhoid, and not being satisfied Mr. Pope saw a North Hatley physician, who pronounced it smallpox, and notified the Hatley Board of Health to have the house placarded.

A Sherbrooke doctor was called and said it was smallpox. Then another physician from Sherbrooke was called who said he could not discover a symptom of smallpox.

Finally a specialist was sent for from Montreal who said "no smallpox," which statement seems to be correct, as the patient is out working in the hay field.

THE NEW STREET CAR

Local jokers are continually calling us up by telephone (ours is 92), and asking us if the new car has yet got accustomed to stop at our door. Of course, we answer politely enough that the new car does stop, and thank them for troubling us. Three cars at a time now stop—take notice. There really is no joke to this; it shows that the public is concerned in annoying our tranquility, still we keep good-natured and spout about the joys that Queen Quality Shoes bring; occasionally say a word about Nettleton's, which by the way can almost speak for themselves. Our children's Shoes do meet favor for people send to us from all over the country for them. They go by mail.

A number attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Charles Evans at Bishop's Crossing on Sunday. The deceased was a former resident of this place. NORTH COATICOOK.

July 30.—It is with sadness that the many friends here learned of the death of Mr. Alfred Ives, of East Hatley, who had been an invalid for many years. We well remember him in years past as an intellectual, ambitious and industrious farmer and as a tribute to the memory of the departed one can say he was a tender and true companion, a fond and affectionate father, a kind and sympathetic friend and neighbor. Among those who attended the funeral from here was Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Akhurst, and daughters, Mrs. Robert Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Dutton.

Mrs. John Heslop has returned from Brooklyn, N.Y., her mother, Mrs. Dodson, accompanying her home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Dutton entertained her cousins one day this week viz., Mr. A. A. Woodman and son, Mrs. Jennie Owen and two children, of Swampscott, Mass., and Miss O. S. Woodman, of the same place, Miss Mary Woodman, of West Lebanon, N. H., who were formerly residents of Moe's River.

Messrs. G. S. and F. W. Cleveland, sons of Mr. Samuel Cleveland, Falls City, Nebraska, arrived here Wednesday to visit their old home and friends after an absence of twenty years. They have a very extensive business in Nebraska, but say, taking everything into consideration, they think Canada superior to all the places they have yet seen. They still feel endeared to their old home.

CLOSED DOWN FOR THE SUMMER.

Quarry Works of the Dominion Iron And Steel Company.

Halifax, N.S., July 30.—The Georges River, C.B., quarry works of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company have been closed down for the summer, throwing over 300 men out of work. Of the open hearth plant, only three of the ten furnaces are going. About 200 men, mostly laborers and handy men, have been laid off. The company now has about twenty tons of steel billets on hand awaiting shipment. The company, it is learned, proposes to make considerable retrenchment in the way of superintendents and bosses.

ESCAPED CONVICTS.

THE FOLSOM DESPERADOES ARE STILL AT LARGE.

Placerville, Cal., July 29.— Of the 13 convicts who escaped from the State Penitentiary at Folsom Monday, twelve are still at large. Joe Murphy, who was serving a 14-year sentence for robbery, was shot dead at Pilot Hill. Gordon, the reported leader of the gang, who had been sentenced to 45 years for robbery, deserted his followers soon after they left the prison. It is not known where he went. A negro convict named Seavis, who was reported wounded, appears not to have been injured. The outlaws who remain together are making for the Sierra Nevada Mountains. They are closely pursued by the sheriffs of three counties, backed by deputies, and assisted by a company of militia. About twenty guards from the Folsom prison are also engaged in the chase. A desperate battle is anticipated. The work of the pursuing posses has been rendered less difficult than was anticipated by the unexpected action of the convicts, who yesterday released all the men they held as hostages. Eleven convicts are now believed to be near Placerville, not far from the mountains, where they evidently hope to find refuge.

The fight at Pilot Hill between the convicts and their pursuers, seems to be a more serious affair than at first reported. After they had looted a provision store, the convicts were practically surrounded by a strong posse. All four horses of the convicts' wagon were shot, and one of the outlaws was killed outright. The outlaws raised a white flag, and marched up the road with the guards and others whom they had captured on each side of them. A general volley was not ordered for fear of killing innocent men. The pursuing officers have been instructed to shoot the convicts on sight.

Canada Outstrips the States.

Most of us to the southward of the border have been so occupied with our own individual and national affairs that we have failed to note what has been done by our Canadian neighbors, says the New York Sun. In energy the Canadians are now our rivals; in achievement they have perhaps outstripped us. If the foreign commerce of the United States, per capita of total population, corresponded with that of Canada, our exports and imports would aggregate six billions of dollars per year instead of their present two and one-fourth billions. In other words, the total foreign commerce of the United States approximates $30 per capita, whereas that of Canada approximates $80. Her railway activity, in its propogtion to population, within recent years has outstripped our own. Vast areas which a few years ago were known only to Indians and trappers are now covered with towns, villages and thrifty farms. A generation has seen her railway mileage and her freight traffic multiplied by twenty and her railway equipment and her passenger traffic multiplied by ten.

Lang's Literary Output.

Andrew Lang held at one time what must have been very nearly a world's record in literary output. His regular weekly work was six leaders for a morning newspaper, two humorous sketches for an evening journal, two long articles, two book reviews and a contribution to a weekly illustrated paper. In addition to this he devoted four hours every day to what may be called pure literature. He turned out books at the rate of three a year or even more. In 1890, for instance, there appeared from his pen the "Red Fairy Tale Book," "Life, Letters and Diaries of Sir Stafford Northcote," "How to Fail In Literature" and "Old Friends." For weeks together his work would average 25,000 words a week.

weight to the personality of the new Pope. International matters and international policy are now almost invariably settled by commissions of cardinals, who certainly, under the late Pope Leo, have directed their departments just as much as the heads of departments of a civil government direct their departments.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN.

RUSSIAN MINISTER OF WAR TELLS OF HIS MISSION TO THE EAST.

St. Petersburg, July 30.— Gen. Kouropatkin, minister of war, who returned from Port Arthur Tuesday, is represented as saying that he is greatly satisfied with the result of his tour. He admits that the relations between Russia and Japan were somewhat strained when he reached Tokio. A fairly strong party in Japan was advocating war, but the Mikado was very well disposed towards Russia and he assured Gen. Kouropatkin of his amicable feelings. Gen. Kouropatkin, moreover, gathered that the bulk of the Japanese were not influenced by the jingoism of the war party and the atmosphere is now cleared, and war in the near future is most improbable. The minister is quoted as saying that Russia is prepared for all eventualities, and that she has a standing army in the Far East of 200,000 men, which can be strengthened at any time.

OPEN PORTS.

London, July 29.—Following the signature of the Americo-Chinese commercial treaty, China, will, it is said, grant the same open port privileges in Manchuria to Great Britain and Japan, both of whom expect to establish concessions and appoint consuls at the new ports. In British official circles confidence is expressed that the maintenance of peace will result from Russian assurances regarding Manchuria, and that there will be no interference with Chinese action in the matter.

SUSAN or KEZIAH?

By LAWRENCE PERRY

Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure

Judge Tunis Crane put the last shutter over the front window of his store, slung the bar across and snapped the padlock. Then he turned and gazed thoughtfully along the turnpike to where a single light glimmered through a grove of cherry trees. The judge always became sentimental at this hour of the evening. As a matter of fact he was in love and, what is more, admitted it to himself. This takes rare courage sometimes, but it takes even rarer courage under certain conditions to admit it to any one else. That was what bothered Judge Crane.

The judge was not much over fifty years old. His store, the one town store, yielded good profits. He was a bachelor, not a widower; was well preserved, a former judge in the town court and always a deacon. Oh, no; he was not ashamed of his personal assets. The trouble was that he was not quite sure with whom he was in love. There were two of them—two maiden sisters, Susan Appleby and Keziah Appleby. Both of them appealed to Judge Crane in one way or another, and for ten years he had been trying to decide which one appealed to him the more. But thus far his efforts had yielded him little satisfaction.

He paced thoughtfully up and down the porch, with his hands locked under his coattails. He closed his eyes, and the picture of Keziah drifted slowly across his mind. It was in church that he loved her most. He could see her now in her pew just in front of his. Her shoulders did not come very far above the high back seat, and a few curls straggled from under the black bonnet. One eye was hazel, the other a watery blue, and her hands were folded demurely in her lap. She wore a black waist cut down a little at the throat and edged with lavender silk and lace, and she had a humorous little simper at the corners of her mouth. On Sundays the simper was allowed to fade, but the telltale lines remained.

There was no nonsense about Susan—tall, straight, angular, her bonnet perked up straight on her head like a grenadier, blue eyes and a straight, tight shut mouth. She could say things, and she got up church sociables and missionary societies. Judge Crane sighed.

A few minutes later he unclasped his hands and transferred them gleefully to the armholes of his vest. He had come to a decision. He would consult a third party. But whom? There were two he had in mind, Zebulon, the brother, and Matilda, the eldest sister, a widow. All in all, he thought Zebulon would be the better of the two. Yes, he would go to his old friend and confess all. He would secure information as to the qualities of both from the standpoint of one who had spent his life with them, and he would also make inquiry as to which one would most likely award his suit with a favorable answer.

"Hello, jedge!" It was Zebulon himself who stumped up the steps and sat down at the top with a grunt. "Nice evenin'."

"Hello, Zeb—um—yes, a tol'able evenin'. How air ye?" And the judge seated himself beside the prospective adjuster of his destiny.

"About as well as a man kin be with a passel of women folks about him all the time," grumbled Zebulon, filling his pipe.

"What's the matter of 'em?" queried the judge, apparently unconcerned.

"Matter?" snorted Zebulon. "Matter? Why, everything's the matter. Ef it ain't one thing it's another—sewin' societies, housecleanin', visitin', church, prayer meetin', entertainin' the parson an' talk, talk, talk, nothin' but talkin' from sunrise to supper. Bah! Women is well enough in their places, but three on 'em is too derned much. Two on 'em old maids too! Why don't Providence send some one to marry 'em? It ain't right, it's ag'in natur', for one man to be pestered so."

"Um—waal, that is kind o' bad, Zeb. I'm sorry they've riled ye, because I was jest a-goin' to ask yer honest opinion which one to pick out. I'm a-goin' to git married if I kin." And Judge Crane blew his nose vigorously.

"Arrump! Huh!" Zebulon sat up. The judge sat with his jaws tight shut and his eyes stared fixedly into the road. Zebulon snorted again and regained his self control. Had heaven smiled on him at last? Had he said too much? He knew whom he wished married. Keziah would do, but Susan was the one to whose wedding he would dance all the way. He recalled her masterly ways, her trenchant tongue. Was it to be stilled for him by the bonds of matrimony? He turned to the judge.

"Waal," he said, drawing his handkerchief across his eyes, "I kin talk an' growl, but when the pinch comes, jedge, I don't see how I kin live without 'em. Keziah is good, jedge, but Susan, she is the one for ye. I know. She wants to git married. She said herself 'twould soften her, although Lord knows she don't need it. She's good an' kind an' lovin', an' she's got a good strong mind—a good strong mind. Yas, sir; I recommend Susan," concluded Zebulon.

A little Sunlight Soap will clean cut glass and other articles until they shine and sparkle. Sunlight Soap will wash other things than clothes. 4B

"Well," said the judge, "ye ought to know, Zeb. Wants to get married, does she? Waal, she would 'a' been long ago had I not been afeared to ask her. I'm scared yet, Zeb, to tell the truth. What I want is the ice broken, eh?"

Zebulon was too overjoyed to stop at anything which might strengthen the judge in his quest. He actually offered to take the judge to his sister, state the case and then leave the two alone. For reply the judge rose decidedly to his feet. "Come," he said.

So they trudged along the road together, Zebulon quietly radiant, the judge stern and determined.

Ten minutes later they entered the Appleby house. A raucous, twangy voice came from the parlor.

"She's in there," whispered Zebulon, and he pushed open the door and entered with his hand reaching back holding the skirt of the judge's coat.

Both were there—Keziah and Susan.

"How d'e do, jedge?" they exclaimed, rising. But the judge made reply by pushing Zebulon forward.

"Susan," said Zebulon, flushing guiltily. He knew Susan could see right through him. "Susan," he repeated, "ah-ahem. The jedge here—well—ah"—

"Well, ah what?" exclaimed Susan, with sharp impatient inflection.

"The jedge," repeated Zebulon weakly, "waal, I brung him here—O Lor'!" and Zebulon dashed for the door. He stopped at the sill and, pointing at the judge, added, "The jedge, Sue, there he is!" Then he disappeared.

The judge was frozen into a dignified statue. He could see now that it was Susan, but he dared not. Suddenly he thought of Matilda. Ah, she would break the ice for him. Matilda! His face flushed.

"Ladies," he said in sepulchral tones, "will ye kindly inform yer widowed sister Matilda that I desire to see her? Alone," he added.

The sisters swept out of the room, confident that Zebulon and the judge had suddenly gone crazy. Then Matilda entered. She proffered her hand in welcome, and the judge seized it as a drowning man grasps at a straw. He held on. Here at least was something tangible.

And then—well, Susan was not half so tangible. Matilda!

Ten minutes later Zebulon peeked into the parlor. The judge was very close to Matilda, and he was holding her hands. Everything was very still.

"Well, I'll be derned!" said Zebulon.

Caricaturing Crookes.

Sir William Crookes, F.R.S., the subject of a genial caricature by "Spy" in a recent number of "Vanity Fair," was born one and seventy years ago, and at sixteen, after damaging much of the paternal furniture by acids and explosions, he was an active student in the Royal College of Chemistry, since when he has done much to advance the science of chemistry and physics. He invented the radiometer; he discovered thallium and radiant matter generally; he evolved the genesis of the elements, and founded the "Chemical News." He is a past President of all our best scientific societies, and he has published many practical works on many applied sciences. Without the Crookes tube the Rontgen rays were unknown; and he has this week shown at the Royal Society his newest invention, the spintharioscope, by which the curious scintillations of the newest element, radium, may be readily seen. Altogether he is a very great man of science, who has done much to benefit the world very practically.—London Star.

Early Rising Proverbs.

A father was telling his son of the advantage of early rising, which he emphasized by using the well worn (but much appreciated) adage, "It is the early bird that catches the worm." The precocious juvenile replied, "All right, father; you get up in the early morning and catch the worms, and I'll go fishing with them in the afternoon." Charles Sothern (of illustrious memory), in his famous character play of "Lord Dundreary," used to quote the proverb, "Early to bed, early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise," on which he commented as follows: "Now, there's my brother Sam; he used to go to bed early, sometimes as early as 4 o'clock (in the morning), and he was not particularly healthy. As for being wealthy, he would borrow a half crown from anybody without the slightest hope of being able (or even willing) to pay it back. And I never knew him to be wise, but confoundedly otherwise."

DAKOTA DIVORCES.

THE QUESTION OF THEIR VALIDITY IN ENGLAND RAISED.

London, July 30. — The validity of Dakota divorces in England was again raised yesterday before the president of the Divorce Court, Sir Francis Jeune, in the suit for divorce brought by D. S. Constandinidi against his wife, who is a daughter of Stephen Ralli, a member of the firm of Ralli Bros., well known in London. The husband charged his wife with bigamously marrying Dr. Lance, the family physician. Mr. Constandinidi obtained a judicial separation from his wife in 1899. The jury found the respondent and co-respondent guilty and awarded $125,000 damages against Dr. Lance.

John Lawson Walton, counsel for the petitioner, explained the subsequent proceedings as follows: "This delicate nurtured lady of Belgravia went to a wild district of the earth, emigrated to the half-settled State of Dakota, became an American citizen, stayed six months there, fraudently obtained a so-called divorce and married the co-respondent there, thus using the lax Dakota laws for her own purpose. This," continued Mr. Walton, "was fraud on civilized prudence."

HILLHURST.

July 30.—Our community has recently been called to mourn the loss of two very estimable women in the persons of Mrs. Thos. Huntington and Mrs. Nathaniel Bishop. Mrs. Huntington died on the 2nd June after a short illness. She had lived here for many years and was most highly respected by all. At the time of her funeral, Mrs. Bishop, (the mother of Mrs. Lucius Huntington) was in feeble health, and gradually failed till on the 19th July she peacefully passed to her rest in the 77th year of her age. Her three sons who were widely separated, Rev. Chas. E., at Thessalen; Solon G., in Jamacia, N. Y., and Leon P., on the Pacific coast, were all able to reach her bedside before she passed away. The funeral service was held at the home of her daughter on Sunday afternoon, and was conducted by the Rev. Albert Stevens, of Coaticook, and the Rev. G. H. Parker, of Compton, and was attended by a large number of her friends and neighbors.

PROPOSED NEW SACRED HEART HOSPITAL.

The Sherbrooke correspondent of "Le Canada," writes as follows: "Why is it the construction of the new Sacred Heart Hospital has not been started? Such is the question that many of our citizens are asking. Furthermore, we were told that work was to be begun last spring, and yet nothing has been done. Can it be true that the project is to be abandoned? Each one tells a different story regarding the affair, which are more or less probable. One thing, however, which everybody is sure of, is that the public is suffering from this neglect. Moreover, if the information given us is genuine, we cannot see why the work of construction is being deferred from season to season. The continual growth of the population of the diocese, the many developments in the Hospital service, the numerous demands for admission to the institution, everything, indicate the necessity of a new building; and this will have to be brought to execution, if the past progress and utility of the Sacred Heart Hospital does not want to be sacrificed. All acknowledge the necessity of a new Hospital, and the public who is always paying, asks for it and is waiting impatiently to see its desires once looked upon favorably."

TO-NIGHT, ROMEO AND JULIET.

Shakespeare's genius was at its best in his creation of the marvelous characters in this play. How skilful is the contrast of the nurse's subtle humor—a master-piece of comic characterization—with Mercutio's scoffing cynicism, a creation of high comedy, with the fragrant innocence of Juliet, and the romantic enthusiasm of her lover, Romeo. All the very best features of dramatic composition and poetry are to be found in Romeo and Juliet. The interest is absorbing, the pathos most deeply touching, while the humorous elements, never too prominent, affords that contrast so essential to a really great drama. The character of Friar Laurence is well worth study; so is that of Lady Capulet; Paris; mirth provoking Peter; the starving apothecary; the fiery Tybelt; old Capulet; noble Benvolio, and the lesser characters. This beautiful play must always highly interest those who are not dead to the noblest passions of our nature, or blind to the greatest beauties that poetry can create. Simvelle's production carries all new scenery complete, properties and electric effects, and will be given in its entirety at Clement Theatre, this evening.

Rev. P. J. A. Lefebvre, of the St. Charles Seminary, was in Quebec this week on business.

GEN. HUTTON SNUBBED.

ATTEMPTED TO DISCIPLINE A NEWSPAPER MAN.

The London Daily Chronicle of July 16 has the following : Reference was made in this column a couple of months ago to the curious case of Colonel Reay, the news editor of the Melbourne Evening Herald and its war correspondent in South Africa. A series of military articles published in the Herald gave offence to General Sir E. Hutton, the commandant of the Commonwealth forces. The general summoned the colonel to appear before him and asked him a number of questions as to the authorship of the articles, how far he was responsible for their insertion, whether he regretted their publication, etc. To all these interrogations the colonel refused to make any reply, contending that in his journalistic capacity he was responsible to his employers alone. The general thereupon relieved the colonel of his command he held in the Victoria Mounted Rifles.

The papers in the case have just been presented to the Commonwealth Parliament. It seems that Colonel Reay applied to be retired with permission to retain his rank and wear his uniform. General Hutton refused to recommend the granting of the application on the ground that the colonel had expressed no regret for the publication of the articles. But the Ministerial head of the Commonwealth Military Department, Sir John Forrest took a different view. In his minute Sir John said there was nothing to connect Colonel Reay with any certainty with the Herald articles, and the colonel could hardly be expected to injure his position with his employers by expressing an adverse opinion on what had appeared in the paper. "It would be difficult," said Sir John, "to hold an officer of the citizen forces earning his living on a newspaper responsible for what appears in it unless it is established that he is knowingly a party to an attack subversive of discipline, for to do so would prevent anyone employed on the press becoming a citizen soldier." Sir John concludes his minutes with the decision—a decided and thoroughly well deserved snub to the general—"I therefore feel unable to deny to Colonel Reay, on retirement after seventeen years' exemplary service, the right to retain his rank and wear his uniform."

VERMONT NEWS.

Mrs. Hetty H. R. Green is again a resident of Bellow's Falls, paying taxes on $110,000 worth of property. Last year she transferred her residence and paid only on $10,000, the assessed value of her house on Church street.

Several of the stockholders of the defunct Farmers' National Bank, of Vergennes, Vt., have refused to return the dividends paid on their stock since April, 1897, and F. L. Fish, receiver, has brought suit against H. H. Lewis and others for the recovery of the several amounts.

Mr. H. J. Williams, of Poultney, has received an interesting clock. It was shipped to him from Wales, where for nearly a hundred years it was owned by Mr. Williams' father. It is what is now called a grandfather's clock, and is in an excellent state of preservation. The works which have run for about one and-half centuries, are in good condition, and, aside from a little cleaning and re-touching of the Arabic figures on the dial, nothing was required to set the machinery going.

Mr. Charles Flanders, of Mechanicsville, is in a critical condition as the result of being attacked by a ferocious bull while in a pasture near his home a few days ago, Mr. Flanders went to the pasture to get a cow which belonged to him when the bull started for him. He ran but was unable to get out of the pasture before the animal caught him. Mr. Flanders' dog arrived on the scene a moment later and by attacking the bull and distracting his attention for a few minutes enabled the injured man to get away. Mr. Flanders will probably recover, although it is feared that he suffered internal injuries.

The farmers in some of the lower counties of Vermont are not easily "bunkoed," but many of them are willing to admit they have been "worked for fair" the past week and many of them are now carefully secreting the "gold brick," A gentleman posing as a veterinary physician has been driving about this vicinity, showing a can of prepared food, especially for calves, for which he makes great claims, and sells the formula for the food to the unsuspecting purchaser for from $1 to $2.50, according to the readiness with which the victim bites. The formula which he sells is: powdered fenugreek, 1 oz., powdered charcoal, 10 ozs., common salt, 1oz., common cooking soda, 3¼ lbs., making a total of four pounds This, he claims, can be bought at any drug store for eight cents, which as a matter of fact, cannot be put up by any reputable druggist for less than 50 cents, and even then, is considered worthless. Those who have bought the formula will not use it and feel that they were let down just the amount that they were induced to pay. Beware of peddlers. The above facts will be vouched for by some of our best farmers.

Mr. John Clifford Bell, of the post office, Ottawa, is in town for a visit to his brother-in-law, the Rev. E. C. Fisette.

PASSING EVENTS IN THE BRITISH CAPITAL.

waiting the inquest of the nation, is capturing the electoral machine, spreading literature all over the country and every day making the position of the free trade policy of the nation more precarious. But it is certain he is also by his clever and energetic methods exasperating his Unionist friends, who disagree with his fiscal policy, and many are saying as Mr. Abel Smith, Unionist M.P. for East Herts, is writing to-day, "this may be fair trade, but is it fair play ?"

AN EX-MINISTER'S THEORY.

A danger which confronts the British farmer in the event of a tax on food was pointed out at Wisbech on Wednesday by Lord Burghclere, formerly Liberal minister of agriculture. Speaking to a large meeting of farmers, he warned them that a tax on foreign wheat would encourage the producers of Manitoba to increase the area of supply. It would at the same time induce British farmers to bring the grazing lands into wheat growing again, and then the Canadian exporters would undersell the British growers and reduce him to a worse plight than before.

THE DUBLIN COUNCIL.

The refusal of the Dublin Corporation, by a majority of 46 to 37, to vote an address of welcome to the King is one of those regrettable incidents which are always cropping up in Ireland to remind us there is a party of extreme Nationalists whom even a generous Land Purchase bill, and the sympathy and good will of the King himself, will not reconcile. The action of the Dublin Lord Mayor and his friends may be consistent with their determination not to recognize that the King of England has no claim on their loyalty, so long as represents a government which is not acceptable to the Irish nation, but it is safe to say that such "consistency" will not deter the vast bulk of the Irish people from giving the King and Queen a real Irish welcome. After all the Dublin Corporation counts for nothing even in Nationalist Ireland.

IN MEMORY OF JUSTICE ARMOUR

In the Temple Church, on Wednesday, 15th, a beautiful service was held in memory of the late Mr. Justice Armour, of the Supreme Court of Canada, who died in Harley street while acting here as one of His Majesty's commissioners on the Alaskan Boundary dispute. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, including the Lord Chief Justice, the Attorney-General, Lord Macnaughton, Lord Strathcona and Sir Charles Tupper. A great many prominent members of the bar were also present, for the late judge was a member of the Inner Temple, and was well known in London. There is something impressive in the fact that the great Canadian judge should have been mourned by many who were his old fellow students, and that the memorial service should have been held in the venerable church of which the Temple lawyers are so proud—which was an ancient and historic building before the American continent was discovered.

ASBESTOS INDUSTRY.

MEGANTIC COUNTY MAN THINKS IT SHOULD RECEIVE MORE CONSIDERATION FROM THE GOVERNMENT.

Dr. James Reed, of Reedsville, has written a letter to the press in which he raises a question of importance to the Dominion in general, and to the Counties of Megantic and vicinity in particular. After some comments upon the Dominion Iron and Steel Company's management, and the readiness with which that industry has been fostered, he says: "If it is right to bonus such concerns it should follow that the asbestos trade and manufacture should be protected or bonused." He goes on to say: "If the manufacture of asbestos were protected five thousand more men would be employed at the mines, giving a first-class market to the farmers of Megantic, Beauce, Lotbiniere and Wolfe. We have any amount of available power, we have abundance of asbestos that is as good as the world's best, and we pay heavy freight charges on the dross contained in the raw material when sending the asbestos away that other countries may receive the manufacturers' profits, which we should keep at home. Like iron and steel, asbestos is now a staple product that is being more largely used every year, and the fact that we do not manufacture it at home but import our own asbestos after it is manufactured in the United States, where the manufacturer is encouraged, should be worthy of careful consideration. If we can afford to import foreigners of unknown value to enjoy our western riches, much more should we be willing to encourage the immigration of skilled asbestos manufacturers, by making it possible to manufacture asbestos products as profitably at home, where every natural facility is afforded, as in other countries purchasing our raw material. We hope for the sake of Megantic and other counties immediately interested, that the matter will soon receive due consideration."
