Westmount Residents Head Charities Drive

Lt.-Colonel Rexford, Chairman of Federated Campaign, Major Gardner, Mrs. MacKimmie Head Committees

CAMPAIGN LEADERS

Lt.-Col. Irving P. Rexford, vice-president and managing director of the Crown Trust Company, who has accepted chairmanship of Federated Charities' campaign this year.

Major B. C. Gardner, M.C., assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal, who will be chairman of the special names division in the Federated Charities' campaign.

Three Westmount residents, Mrs. G. W. MacKimmie, Lt.-Col. Irving P. Rexford and Major B. C. Gardner, M.C., have been named as chairmen for the Federated Charities' 1941 campaign to be held sometime between September 1-November 10, it was announced.

Lt.-Col. Rexford is chairman of the campaign itself, while Mrs. MacKimmie heads the women's division with Major Gardner looking after the special names branch.

The women's division under Mrs. MacKimmie is responsible for the house-to-house canvass of residential districts and differs from the men's section in that it is a committee, continuous from year to year, choosing its own leader although working under the general supervision of the successive campaign chairmen.

Mrs. MacKimmie experienced great success as vice-chairman of the women's division last year, also being responsible for organizing the central sub-division of the residential canvass.

One of the organization's most active workers, she is a member of the Federation board of directors and also is vice-president of the Foster Home Centre.

Mrs. MacKimmie reports organization for the coming drive is going ahead rapidly due to the possibility of the drive being held earlier than usual this year.

TIME IS LIMITED

Government limitations allow the charities throughout Canada from September 1 to November 10 for their campaign but because there are four charitable federations in Montreal instead of one or two in most cities, the adjustment is more difficult here than elsewhere.

Lt.-Col. Rexford, who accepted chairmanship of the entire campaign, is a veteran of the Great War, being a captain in the 1st Canadian Grenadier Guards when the conflict broke out.

Later he shared responsibility in forming the 87th Battalion and was appointed Major, second in command. He was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in April, 1916, and served overseas with his unit.

Lt.-Col. Rexford was a member of the first committee which met to consider formation of Federated Charities in Montreal and for many years has been one of the most active volunteers in the cause of community welfare, being a member of Federated Charities' board of governors, chairman of the camp committee and a past president of the Boys' Home of Montreal. He is also a past president of the Family Welfare Association and the Rotary Club of Montreal.

Major Gardner also is a Great War veteran, going to France with the 45th Cameron Highlanders of Canada, being promoted in the field to become Major, second in command. He was wounded severely twice but both times rejoined his unit and was awarded the Military Cross in 1917.

Major Gardner too, has been identified with public welfare campaigns for many years, having taken a prominent part in the recent War Services Fund drive and also having been a worker in the special names division of the Federated Charities campaign for the past several years.

BOYS' BRIGADE IN FIRST PARADE OF THE SEASON

Westmount First Company Attends Special Mother's Day Service at Melville Church

The First Company Westmount Boys' Brigade, held their first parade of the season Sunday morning to Melville Church and were honored to have as their guests, representatives from the 3rd Company, whose band very ably rendered the music under the direction of Captain Douglas Corlett; the 11th Company of St. James United, under Capt. John Yulle, and the 4th Company, St. Alban's Parish, under Staff-Sgt. Alex Upham.

Following the special Mother's Day address by the chaplain, Rev. Dr. W. O. Mulligan, the company paraded for nearly an hour. Colors were carried by Sgt. Robert Morrow and Corporal Paul DiCiccio with Lance-Cpt. Edwin Goring and Private Knute Sorensen and David Call as escort. Captain J. H. Richardson commanded the parade and the boys were inspected, following the service, by Mr. John Rae.

Plans are taking shape for the closing program of the season's activities and it is expected all tests for badges will be completed within the next few weeks, enabling those boys awarded, to wear them for the Battalion Review and Display on May 24.

This is to be held this year in the Town of Mount Royal Athletic Grounds, followed by the Dominion Council banquet and meetings, which are being held in Montreal. Guests from all over Eastern and Western Canada will be present on this occasion.

National service work is progressing most favourably with Sgt. Robert Morrow, Pte. Benfield Inglis and Pte. Robert Burris rapidly nearing the top of the ladder. Lance Corporal Edwin Goring and Private David Call will receive theirs at the closing display.

DRAMATIC CLUB WILL PRESENT 3-ACT COMEDY

Church of the Advent Group to Re-enact Hilarious "Sis Perkins" Play May 19

On Monday, the Advent Dramatic Club will again present its hilarious three act comedy, "Sis Perkins."

The story concerns Mrs. Elizabeth Chandler, New York socialite and her son Baldwin, and daughter Marcia. When confronted with financial difficulties owing to unwise investments Mrs. Chandler immediately thinks of matrimony for Baldwin to a very wealthy radio star, Violet Astor.

Plans are made and Violet Astor is to be the honored guest at the home of the Chandler's. However the situation is complicated by the appearance of their poor country relative Sis (Sue) Perkins from Painted Post, Missouri.

Further tragedy is added when Violet Astor wires that she will be unable to pay her visit. From this scene on the play takes on a lively action, and humiliation and embarrassment on the part of the Chandlers adds to the humour and laughter of the audience.

Those in the cast include: Mary Lindsay, Gertrude Parsons, Robert Kerr, Clarence Parsons, Kenneth Fortune, Mary Roussac, Micheline Barbeau, Margaret Barnum, John Owen, and Olive.

The play is under the able direction of Clarence Parsons. Scenery and lighting under the supervision of Mr. Kenneth Fortune assisted by Basil Spurr, Kenneth Withers, John Owen, and Charles Parsons. The performance will be staged at the corner of Wood and Western Aves. at 8.15 p.m. sharp.

ROTARY CLUB PLANS FAIR TO AID CHARITIES

Westmount Unit Will Hold Spring Carnival at End Of This Month

An elaborate Spring Carnival Fair will be staged in the Forum by the Rotary Club of Westmount, in aid of the Julius Richardson Convalescent Home, the Montreal Children's Hospital, the St. Patrick's Orphanage and the Community Chest Fund, on May 29, 30, and 31, it was announced by Club officials last night. The Fair which was to have taken place earlier this spring, was postponed due to unavoidable circumstances and all persons holding tickets dated last month will find that these tickets will be honored when they present them for admission to the fair at the Forum on the above dates.

The Spring Fair will feature entertainment for young and old with thirty-two outstanding attractions in its Midway, including two fashion shows daily, dancing in the Rotary Garden to the recordings of the world's most famous dance bands, a Tea Room operated by the Rotary Annex, Albert Murray's mysterious "Hole in One" golf, "Hoop-la" the latest innovation in the entertainment field designed by Mrs. Whitney Bourne, and such fascinating booths as "Sleepy Hollow", "Toy Town", "The Village Grocery", "Tobacco Road", "The Stork's Nest", "Dart Hitler's Heart" and a special "Fish-Pond", for children.

A special booth has also been designed for the sale of War Savings Stamps, and it is expected that thousands among those attending the Fair will avail themselves of this facility to purchase their week's supply of Stamps as their contribution to Canada's war effort.

The cause for which the Rotary Club of Westmount is organizing this event is a needy one. Rotary the world over has devoted the greater part of its activities to the unprivileged child in its community. The Rotary Club of Westmount as its contribution to the future in health and welfare of today's underprivileged children in our city, has undertaken the responsibility of raising funds in aid of three noted institutions looking after such children—the Montreal Children's Hospital with a record in 1940 of 10,231 sick and undernourished children attending the hospital's clinics, the Julius Richardson Convalescent Home where those children needing convalescent care are sent to recuperate, and St. Patrick's Orphanage housing unfortunate children without mother or father. The Club's Community Chest Fund is used for emergency relief.

Clifford A. Smith was re-elected president of the Y.M.C.A.'s Westmount branch at the annual meeting last week, while D. O. Bremner was re-named vice-president. The following also were returned to positions on the board:

Appointments of John Lewis and W. S. Gilpin, made throughout the year, were confirmed, while new appointments made were: L. W. Townshend and H. Mack, physical committee.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Capt. Rev. T. W. Jones, pastor of Calvary United Church, recently returned from England where he headed the Y.M.C.A.'s Overseas Services for more than a year.

Captain Jones described the British peoples' spirit as one of "High determination, almost of buoyant optimism." They are considering it more and more as a privilege to lead in "the great crusade," he said. "Deserve Victory" is the slogan of revived Britain today.

His voyage back home made on a boat which since has been sunk, Captain Jones recalled a conversation he had held with the captain of the doomed craft, a man he described as typifying the seamen and sailors who keep the Atlantic trade channels open.

Victim of four previous torpedoes, the skipper had told Capt. Jones he felt his turn was about due again. Discussing the dangers involved quite casually, he related how his last sinking had been off the coast of Ireland last December, how he was in Liverpool two days later, and within 48 hours assigned to another boat.

Westmount's part in Y.M.C.A. services being rendered in various fields throughout the world to 16,898,145 men, was revealed in the report presented by E. I. Taylor, acting executive secretary.

Since the outset of the war, 32,644 soldiers, sailors and airmen have used the Westmount branch swimming pool; 9,759 men have used the gym; 17,798 men and their friends have participated in the Saturday night parties; 3,497 have guests at Sunday evening suppers and teas.

The report also showed a grand total of 665 member, receipts for the year being $3,485, representing a slight surplus.

MANY CITIZENS SEE CEREMONY AT LOCAL PARK

2nd Battalion R.M.R., Westmount Air Cadets Participate in Drumhead Service

An impressive drumhead service, the first held by the 2nd Battalion Royal Montreal Regiment since its inauguration, attracted hundreds of Westmount and Montreal residents to Westmount Park Sunday afternoon.

Dressed in khaki and air-force blue, respectively, the R.M.R. and No. 1 Squadron, Westmount Air Cadets provided a colorful scene as they took up their positions on the football field, forming a hollow square, the picture being further highlighted by the scarlet uniforms of the R.M.R. band and the drums of the regiment, grouped with the colors in the centre.

Mayor Walter A. Merrill, K.C., and aldermen of the city stood facing the drums.

The service was conducted and message delivered by Lt.-Col. Rev. Harold S. Laws, rector of St. Stephen's Church and chaplain of the Royal Montreal Regiment. He took as his text, "If the Lord be God—Follow Him."

The padre declared God was at present calling for an "all-out" war effort. The present fight, he said was between barbarism and the true religion and is a challenge to every Canadian of military age and fitness. "Now is the time for action," he said, "not tomorrow."

Following the service, the R.M.R., under command of Lt.-Col. J. E. McKenna, M.C., and Group Captain E. R. Owen O. No. 3 Training Command, R.C.A.F. cadet squadron under Cadet

City Plans Taking Over Local Salvage Campaign

The extensive task of making collections in connection with the national salvage campaign will be taken over in Westmount by the city itself, according to announcement yesterday from the General Manager's office.

Collections hitherto have been made by various individual organizations such as the Red Cross, Boys Scouts, Salvation Army, Girl Guides and Boys' Brigade groups who have accomplished outstanding work.

Working individually, their respective drives could not be maintained for any great length of time, however, and consequently the total collections were not as great as could be obtained from a steady campaign.

Thus the city fathers, having made necessary arrangements with Hon. D. C. Abbott, M.P., under whose jurisdiction the campaign is being carried out in Westmount, are relieving these various organizations of collection worries and will conduct the campaign in conjunction with the city's regular scavenger service.

A circular letter is being prepared and will be sent to each residence in Westmount, asking that old rags, bones, bottles, broken glass and any kind of scrap metal be placed outside in a separate container from the usual refuse box, where city scavengers can gather it up and transport it to the incinerator.

Should any of the special scrap mixed up with the everyday garbage, it will be sorted out in the special sorting station in the Bethune street yard.

In the event some resident have especially large quantities of scrap to be collected, they are asked to telephone the sorting station at FI. 8531 and request the War Salvage department to send a special truck for the load.

In this manner, city officials anticipate Westmount's contribution to the nation-wide Salvage Campaign will be tripled.

WESTMOUNT, THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1941

WHAT WAR ITEMS COST.

Canvassers will soon be around to ask residents of the City of Westmount to invest in a new war loan. The sums required to finance this war are colossal, and make previous war loans like economy waves.

When you wonder why so much money is required to beat Hitler, consider these costs: a Spitfire fighter costs $25,000, while a Hurricane costs twice that amount; a Bolingbroke bomber costs over $150,000, while a Flying Fortress costs over $300,000; one corvette costs $550,000; while to equip a single armoured division costs nearly $200,000,000 — yes, that's right — two hundred millions of dollars. To raise money to equip such a division, about 350,000 Canadians must save $40 per month. Then take the infantry — a soldier's equipment, including rifle, gas mask, uniform, boots, and underwear costs $114.82. Multiply that by 170,000 soldiers on active service. Furthermore, it costs $5.46 per day to support a soldier in Canada, and $7.11 per day overseas.

Then, again, regiments travel on wheels today, and that is why this is the most expensive of all wars. Thirty-seven different types of vehicles are required per regiment, or 3,525 vehicles altogether. Gun carriers cost over $5,000 each; machine guns over $400 each; army trucks $1,500 each; while a tank brigade costs $60,000,000. One 500-lb bomb costs about $200; a torpedo costs from $7,500 to $10,000; anti-aircraft guns fire $40,000 worth of shells every hour. It takes four $5 war savings certificates to pay for every single pop of an anti-aircraft gun.

Power? Our two Canadian divisions overseas need about 600,000 horse power when in action, or one-twelfth as much power as is produced by all the generators in Canada including those at Niagara. That costs money for oil and gas.

In the last war, two divisions controlled only some 8,000 horse power, while the best fighting planes of 1918 cost only $9,000. The total cost to Canada of the entire war of 1914 to 1918 is less than one billion dollars — not much more than half that of a single year of this war of machinery.

Furthermore, Canada will, during the next twelve months ship about a billion and a half dollars worth of goods to Britain for which we shall only receive $350,000,000. This means that in addition to meeting our own costs, we shall have to find something more than another billion dollars to aid Britain.

But we're not downhearted. It's thumbs up all round. When it comes to money, we can outstrip our opponents twice over, for we Anglo-Saxon peoples own most of the world's natural resources, particularly those vital to the conduct of a long war. But we'll all have to do our share. When the canvasser visits you, be generous. Lend your means for victory.

SAILORS WITHOUT UNIFORM.

"Sailors Without Uniform" is the title of a new English-made short being released for Canadian theatrical distribution by Associated Screen Studios. It deals in documentary treatment with the lives of those who put out from British ports with the fishing fleets, and provides intimate glimpses of the sort of men who brave the dangers of mine sweeping, who provide the Royal Navy with a large number of recruits to the various branches of the service. It has been said of these men, the subject of this timely movie short: "Among the war's unsung heroes are the fishermen. Whether off the embattled shores of Britain, or the coasts of Canada, or on distant waters of the Empire, they carry on their dangerous work as their simple duty."

BOOK REVIEW

BY HOWARD S. ROSS

POETRY AND THE MODERN WORLD
A Study of Poetry in England Between 1900 and 1939
by Professor David Dalché (native of Scotland) of the English Faculty of the University of Chicago and author of "The Novel and the Modern World", which was so widely reviewed upon its publication last Fall.
The University of Chicago Press, Chicago. Pages 247.

Here we are given certain aspects of modern English poetry, discussed brilliantly in such a way as to throw new light on poetic activity in the first forty years of the present century. It is a series of suggestive studies and the author regrets that many poets of ability have been omitted because he decided to write only about those whom he felt able to discuss with some originality. In his Foreword he wrote: "It seems to me important—and more important than ever these days — that a level of intelligent discourse about literature should be maintained. He quotes Stephen Spender, the English poet and critic as writing on September 3, 1939 in the journal which he began on that critical day: "I feel as if I could not write again. Words seem to break in my mind like sticks when I put them down on paper. I cannot see how to spell some of them. Sentences are covered with leaves, and I really cannot see the line of the branch that carries the green meanings." The second World War had begun and a cycle in the history of Eng-

THE FORUM

Conducted by HOWARD S. ROSS, K.C., D.C.L.

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper and it does not accept responsibility for them.

The 25th anniversary of the Co-operative League of the U.S.A. was celebrated March 20th. A banquet was held in honor of its founder, Dr. J. P. Warbasse.

Among the many greetings which reached the gathering from well-known public leaders were these two. The first is from Rev. E. Stanley Jones, author of Christ's Alternative to Communism. He wrote:

"I look on the co-operative movement as the first step toward a full co-operative order. The co-operative movement is the training ground for co-operative thinking and acting, and is getting men ready for God's co-operative order — the Kingdom of God.

"I pray that this movement may be shot through and through with the spirit of the Kingdom of God, for only as its foundations are laid in the Kingdom of God will it stand under the pressures and shock of this future. With my best wishes and my prayers that this movement may go on from strength to strength."

Reverend Edgar Schmiedeler, O.S.B. of the National Catholic Welfare Conference paid his respects to the Co-operative League for its twenty-five years of pioneer work and said:

"And the prospects for the second quarter century period? Giant steps toward a co-operative economy powerful enough both to checkmate the dreadful abuses of American individualistic capitalism and to forestall the encroaching culture had been completed. The author here studies the poetic phase of that cycle, relating each new movement to its social and intellectual background.

He traces the emergence of the poet as a private rather than a public figure, the stimulus of individualists like Hopkins, the prophetic war poetry of men like Owen, the development of the Imagists under the influence of Hulme, and "the artificial posturing" of the Sitwells.

Then comes the modern trend, the swing from traditional logic and from standardized diction. And it is in his treatment of the modern poets, seeking for order and system in a world without order, that Mr. Dalché reveals the full force of his quick comprehension and critical originality. Eliot he studies at length, discussing tersely whether or not The Waste Land solves the cultural problem of our time. He wonders whether enthusiasm for pattern has led Yeats to lose his humanity.

Other poets discussed are Cecil Day Lewis, Spender, W. H. Auden, Thomas Hardy, A. E. Housman, Gerard Manley Hopkins and Louis Macneice.

In his Epilogue he wrote: "There are things which might have been said. In particular, we should have liked to discuss the problems of the Scottish poet in the modern world, and in this connection to pay a much overdue tribute to that fine Scots poet 'Hugh MacDiarmid' (C. M. Grieve). This book represents a compromise between what the writer wants to discuss and what he thinks his readers will be willing to read."

There is a helpful Index.

Alphonse Desjardins stated the motive which caused him to promote a system of co-operative credit as follows: "The people's welfare can be secured by institutions organized by the people themselves, because these institutions are most likely to possess the characteristics that appeal to the people and therefore the stability necessary to perpetuate their services."

In the U.S.A. there are 124 million insurance policies with a face value of 111 billion dollars, which

The whisker-growing contest that is being held in Walsenburg, Colorado, may do something to restore beards and moustaches to the popularity they once enjoyed in the past. "Luxuriant Whiskers and Moustaches"
Hundreds can now testify to the wonderful success of Blank's Noted Formula, which guarantees Whiskers, etc., to grow heavily in six weeks on the smoothest face, without injuring the skin, and a sure remedy for Baldness."

It is wise occasionally to desert the headlines and big war news for the smaller items that are tucked away in odd corners in a newspaper. We are all familiar with the heroic war in which the British people are "taking" it, but the savage air attacks are not the only dislocations of normal life they have had to suffer. In a Scottish newspaper dated April 18, I came upon this item:

"First deliveries of English-grown strawberries were selling yesterday in Glasgow at 40/- per 1lb. box. Early tomatoes were sold at 10/- and 12/- per lb."

The Canadian dollar equivalent of 40/- is $9, while 10/- and 12/- are approximately equal to $2.25 and $2.75 respectively.

When we think of the abundance and cheap prices of these commodities in Canada, we ought to be very thankful that we are on this side of the Atlantic and work all the harder to help our cousins overseas to crush the menace that is threatening their way of life.

I have just heard a story about an English lady who came to Canada with her two children last fall for the duration of the war. When the snow was about due, she took her two children to buy them what she called "snowshoes" to protect their feet during the winter. She asked for "snowshoes" in the store and was conducted to the Sports Department where she found herself gazing dazedly at articles she associated with fur trappers in the Frozen North! Eventually, however, she found out that it was "overshoes" the children needed.

One of the minor wartime hardships in Britain is the difficulty in obtaining an adequate supply of cigarettes. Prior to the outbreak of hostilities upwards of fifty million of cigarettes were smoked in Britain annually, and this huge quantity will have increased greatly owing to the need of just something like a cigarette with which to combat the strain of modern warfare.

It is not inappropriate, therefore, that the first cigarette should have been originated by a soldier, and should have been brought about by a little campaign accident.

An Egyptian soldier, fighting in a campaign against the Turks about a century ago, felt in his pocket for his pipe during a brief respite from battle. He found it had been smashed to pieces, and he looked round in desperation for something that he could use as a pipe.

His roving eye alighted on an empty India-paper cartridge case, and this resourceful individual filled it with tobacco and lighted it. Puff, puff! — the first cigarette was born!

Soldiers were responsible also for popularising the smoking of cigarettes in Britain. The men fighting in the Crimean War discovered the soothing qualities of a "gasper," and on their return home, they continued the habit they had contracted while on active service.

The habit caught on very rapidly. An enterprising Greek merchant in London, England, supplied a special Turkish tobacco and suitable paper for making it into cigarettes.

In 1861, a Greek captain named Theodoridi, who had been in the is more than twice the entire debt of the United States government. There are 355 legal reserve life insurance companies in the U.S.A., with assets of more than $5 billion dollars. One of every two persons in the U.S.A. is a policy holder. The companies have more than 5 billion dollars of income each year.

Russian Army, opened the first cigarette shop in London, England, where cigarettes could be bought ready-made, thus eliminating the necessity of "rolling your own." From that day cigarette-making became a serious business, much to the annoyance of cigar makers, who saw in the cigarette a dangerous rival to their own trade.

Local Youngsters Star In Speirs-Miller Revue

Some of everything and everything good, was included in Saturday evening's Revue by the Betty Speirs-Peter Miller School of Dancing at Victoria Hall, in aid of the Nova Scotia Naval Canteen Fund. As usual the baby classes held the spotlight in the opening part of the program. This year's feature was "Basket of Flowers", and amid special scenery and with breathtaking costumes the kiddies responded nobly.

Special mention must be made of Joan Watts, Helen Holbrook and Emily Ann Robertson whose technique was much in advance of their years. The white roses were Gail Regele, Elizabeth Asherson, Marcia Cromble, and Claudette Coupal. The Shamrocks were Iona Macdonald, Barbara Ann Bronson, Heather Wilson, Dawn Webster, Barbara Anne Gouge, Shirley Macdonald, Suzanne Mosely, Mary Norsworthy, Lynn Easson and Helen Johnston. The intermediate class was prominent as Yell W. Rosses and included Marjorie Shaw, Joan Regele, Ann Wellsford, Lois Klein, Valerie Beacom and Joyce Shiller, while the junior class as Orchids were Mary Entwistle, Maureen McCann, Donna Paisley, Judith Weinblatt, Lisanne Coupal, Dandi Weintraub, Sonia Weintraub and Rayetta Schachter.

Miss Speirs Applauded A well-deserved ovation was accorded Miss Speirs as she took the finale curtain with the children.

The junior and intermediate classes appeared later in "Babes in Tipland" featuring Nursery Rhymes and some really splendid tapdancing. The soloists who shared the honors were Heather Wilson, Joan Regele, Lisanne Coupal, Valerie Davies and Lois Albert. Special mention must be made of Deltry Beacom in a Rumba comedy, Lois Klein in a snappy Dutch number, Mary Entwistle as "Nobody's Baby" and Janie Allen who was very effective in a Southern Minstrel routine. The finale of this part of the program was a snappy Harlem tap by the junior class, "Cafe Paris Soir" an ambitious offering by Alla Shishkina and the senior girls was done with a verve and precision rarely associated with amateurs. Jaakko Hyman, Hellen Lehtela, Jean Barnes, Dorothy Fitzgerald, Peggy Cooper, Therese Landry and Mabel Roberts were outstanding in support.

Varied Program

In the selected program a continual variety was presented with a "Little Puddy Regele" was an unqualified success as the Sergeant Major, while the professional tap work of Mr. Miller, and his two star pupils, Therese Landry and Peggy Cooper, individually and in a concerted "Tea for Two" soft shoe number won the approval of all. Other tap offering which merit mention were given by Mary Waldie, Little Nancy Telfer, Marjorie Shaw, Carl Rollo, Gwen Smith, Joan Layton, Rayetta Schachter, and Jean and Hazel Fitzgerald.

Ballroom Dancing

A really stylish exhibition of Ballroom Dancing was given by Peter Miller, Alla Shishkina, Hellen Lehtela and Jaakko Hyman. In this scene, which received much applause, Mr. Miller presented his own Exhibition Waltz which he demonstrated in New York last season. Giving the ballroom scene that little touch of variety were three of the best specialties of the evening by Nancy Telfer, Therese Landry and Peggy Cooper. Ballet technique at its best was seen when Jean Barnes appeared in Intermezzo and Pizzicato, and this talented young lady returned to confound her many admirers in a comedy scene, "Happy Hobo." Specialties, such as a skipping number by the Fitzgerald Sisters, and a comedy ensemble "By the Sea" featuring Joan Lay-

Demonstration Is Planned By I.O.D.

A novel and interesting food demonstration will be held in St. Matthias Church Parish Hall, 12 Church Hill, Wednesday afternoon, May 21, under auspices of the Captain Fryatt Chapter, I.O.D.E., it was announced.

An invitation is extended to anyone who would like to attend. A donation will be given the Chapter depending on the number of people who attend. Admission will be free.

Each person attending will receive a gift, while several prizes also will be awarded to holders of lucky numbers. The affair will start at three o'clock.

ton and the junior classes and intermediate classes, spectacular acrobatic work by Isobel MacLellan and Gwen Smith, and two snappy musical comedy routines by Jakko Hyman and Hellen Lehtela received their share of the applause.

Flair for Comedy

Hazel Fitzgerald revealed a real flair for comedy in "The Ball Game" while sister Jean was daintiness itself in her solo ballet offering. The Senig class of Jean Barnes, Peggy Cooper, Mabel Roberts, Dorothy Fitzgerald, Nessie MacLean, Stella Moore, Joan Layton, Therese Landry and Mary Waldie gave a splendid account of themselves in a military precision routine and also in a very smart high kicking number, while later Dorothy Fitzgerald and Mabel Roberts teamed in a clever Baton swinging display "Majorettes".

The highlight of the evening was undoubtedly "Me and My Shadow" with Mr. Miller and his prodigy, Little Nancy Telfer in "Top Hat, White Tie and Tails. This was 'big time' and compared favorably with similar routine recently seen in the movies. The evening ended on a high note as the entire ensemble performed Mr. Miller's celebrated Time Step routine. A pleasing feature was the playing of the Naval Band while the appearance of the Navy mascots, two lovely Newfoundland dogs, provided quite a thrill. Splendid support to the artists was given by Doreen Gillespie and Harold Morris at the two grand pianos, with Arthur Davison, Montreal's celebrated young violinist. A noteworthy feature of the evening was the precision and smoothness with which the program was presented, which speaks volumes for Betty Speirs and Peter Miller and their knowledge of theatre.

WING CLIPPINGS
Aviation News and Gossip
BY BETTY BRUCE

The Boeing Airplane Company's expansion program undertaken for U.S. National Defense work is now virtually completed and the new areas are being rapidly tooled for quantity production of B-17E's at increased production rates. All this is of great interest to us here, in view of the large number of mighty machines built by this firm, which have gone and are still going over to the R.A.F.

You'd certainly need your roller skates when inspecting the 1,600,000 square feet of factory space recently added, approximately two-thirds of which is at the plant of the Seattle subsidiary, Boeing Aircraft Company, and one third at Wichita, Kansas, where the Stearman Aircraft Division of Boeing Airplane Company is located. This brings the Seattle floor area to a total of 2,334,500 feet and the area in Wichita to 735,000 square feet, a combined total of 3,235,000 square feet, or 74 acres of floor space. In addition there is a total of ten acres of concrete yard area at the two locations.

The new enlargement program includes extensive additions to Boeing Plant No. 2 in Seattle, the construction of an entire new plant at Wichita, Kan. and additions to the present Stearman plant in Wichita; and radically increases the production rate of 4 engine Boeing Flying Fortresses and Stearman primary training planes. At the present time a production rate of one Flying Fortress every two days, and one trainer every three hours, has been reached.

Largest unit of the expanded Boeing-Stearman factories continues to be Boeing's Plant No. 2 in Seattle, the centre of Flying Fortress production. This huge, spreading building, facing Boeing Field, was enlarged to a continuous structure approximately 1/4 mile long by 1/5 mile wide. Constituting one of the most impressive layouts of any manufacturing industry in the United States, this building comprises 1,832,000 square feet, or 42 acres of floor space under a single cover. A four-storey engineering and production building adjoins the main structure.

Beneath the factory floor at Plant No. 2 are 3,000 lineal feet of concrete access tunnels providing orderly entrance and exit for the

Without changing the size of the hydrostabilizers, their built-in fuel tanks have been enlarged to hold an additional 1200 gallons of gasoline, or a total fuel capacity of 5400 gallons.

These changes mean improved performance, including quicker take-off, greater carrying capacity, and an increase of cruising range to more than 4,000 miles.

Propellers are Hamilton Standards, larger in diameter, and with an improved blade design based on recent NACA laminar air foil studies.

The Boeing B-17C four-engine bomber is a new version of the Flying Fortress series similar to the B-17-B but incorporating various advancements. It will reach speeds well in excess of 300 miles per hour, has a cruising range of 3,500 miles, and carries several tons of bombs. These planes, built at the Boeing plant in Seattle, are being followed on the production line by B-17D Flying Fortresses, with B-17E's to come later.

The B-17C is practically identical with its forebearers of the series except that instead of the blisters of the earlier models, flat type gun turrets have been installed. The same type Wright Cyclone nine-cylinder supercharged engines are used but the horsepower is somewhat greater. Like previous Flying Fortress types, the B-17-C is a 52-ton, all-metal low wing monoplane with a wing span of 104 feet. Its length is 67 feet. Its overall height is 15 feet.

The crew consists of commanding officer, pilot, co-pilot, navigator, engineer, bomber radio operator and gunners. All members of the crew can change stations freely. For long flights sufficient additional personnel can be carried to relieve the operating crew from time to time for necessary rest. By means of turbo-superchargers, air is fed to the engines at approximately sea level density although the plane may be flying at sub-stratosphere altitudes. The B-17's have a service ceiling of more than 36,000 feet.

The B-17D, (the newest of the Fortresses) is powered by four 1,200 h.p. Wright engines, has a wing span of 103 feet and is 67 feet long. The speed is well in excess of 300 m.p.h., gross weight is 23,287 lbs., and the aircraft is equipped with cowling flaps, leak-proof tanks and armor plate. It carries a crew of from 7 to 9 men.

Preacher To Give Travelogue Based On War In Britain

In Calvary United Church, Dorchester St., at Greene Avenue, Westmount, on Friday, at 8.15 p.m. Capt. Rev. T. W. Jones will give a travelogue in pictures of the British Empire Carries On." Capt. Jones has recently returned from Britain and has first-hand information and pictures of the British Empire that will thrill all who can hear and see this travelogue. During his stay in England Capt. Jones was working with the Auxiliary Services, and so had the opportunity of meeting many of the boys from Montreal and district who are serving in His Majesty's forces. To those who have boys overseas this is a rare opportunity to see and hear about the work they are doing.

Mrs. T. W. Jones and Mr. S. C. Dobson will render songs of the Empire during the travelogue.

large number of workmen employed. Large washrooms and locker rooms are located along the access corridors on the basement level.

In line with the U.S. government's desire to build up inland manufacturing facilities, the new factory at Wichita shares in certain phases of Flying Fortress production, including outboard wing sections and tail surfaces. At the Stearman plant primary trainers are being manufactured for the U.S. Army Air Corps and the U.S. Navy.

NEW BOEING 314-TYPE CLIPPERS FOR BRITAIN

It is expected that all of the fleet of six new Boeing 314-type Clippers, three of which are going to Britain, will be completed by August. Instead of by early 1942 as originally planned in the contract with Pan American Airways. This accelerated production schedule will clear the plant more quickly to make room for U. S. national defense production, as well as make the new equipment available just that much sooner for British Pan American services.

At least two of these 42-ton, 71 passenger Clippers already have been delivered. They are identical in size and design with the Boeing Model 314's now in service on the Atlantic and Pacific, but with a new engine-propeller combination, increased fuel capacity and other improvements.

Engines are Wright Cyclone 14's, with more horsepower available for takeoff, (1600 instead of 1500 hp per hour) and with improved specific fuel consumption.

Propellers are Hamilton Standards, larger in diameter, and with an improved blade design based on recent NACA laminar air foil studies.

Without changing the size of the hydrostabilizers, their built-in fuel tanks have been enlarged to hold an additional 1200 gallons of gasoline, or a total fuel capacity of 5400 gallons.

Home Bombed, Woman Tells 'Tame Little Story'

Another remarkable document, giving personal experiences in air raids has been sent to the Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims. It is from a woman teacher in Birkenhead, and it emphasizes the value of the Lord Mayor's Fund, through which the Queen's Canadian Fund operates in Great Britain. "Here is" what the writer calls her "tame little story."

My house was in a residential quarter of Birkenhead, two miles or more from any military target. I lived alone, except for the infrequent visits of seafaring brothers, and like most people who have to earn their livings, I soon got used to the air raids. I could not afford to let myself grow nerve-wrecked, so I just moved my bed downstairs into what I thought was the safest place, and each night slept quite happily, undisturbed by bombs and guns. You soon grow not to notice the rain beating against your windows.

Terrific Noise

On the night of January 9th, I was awakened by a terrific noise. The window behind me had crashed in, and in the moonlight what had been the wall in front of me loomed up, a heap of bricks.

A cloud of dust was blinding and choking me, and when it grew clearer I struggled to get out through the window space, but I was trapped by the waist by a heap of debris. I grew impatient, waiting for the next crash that would finish me off, but there was dead silence. It was the last bomb which fell that night.

Saved By Rescue Squad

In a short time I heard the rescue squad calling, and soon in Royal Air Force messes," says an R.C.A.F. letter, "perhaps the most entertaining of all is George, the Chameleon mascot of a squadron in the Middle East Command. George, a harmless little lizard, performs the usual feat of assuming the colour of any background on which he is placed, but his strong suit is his tongue.

The Canadian Teachers' Federation has made the cause of air raid victims its own. It recently sent a cheque for $3,078 to the Queen's Canadian Fund. The cheque in honour of Miss Sims refers to her story above was one of two which the Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in London, purchased with money sent to him by the Federation.

they had me out and over the wall into the road. I could see nothing for I had lost my glasses and a great fire was raging in front of the house, where the gas main had caught. The biggest shock was seeing the house next day. I had been in the only safe corner of it, and though the bed was covered with bricks and broken glass, I hadn't a scratch. The men took me to the house of a friend, who then sent along for my next door neighbours. When we had settled down and had a hot drink I asked where the others were, my neighbour said: "They have taken my father and Jacqueline (her daughter) in the ambulance to the hospital," but her other daughter whispered to me: "My grandfather did not go in the ambulance with Jacqueline. He is lying dead on the kitchen floor, but my mother does not know."

Humorous Side

Morning brought the postman who had been sent along to see the first letter I opened was from the Billeting Officer, thanking me for my offer of hospitality to the homeless. I had said they could use some of my rooms. It was some inconvenience but we glad I could help them in their dire distress! Truly, there is humour on the edge of the grave (Sgd) ELIZABETH SIMS, Birkenhead

P.S.—Please thank the Canadian Teachers' Federation for the mobile canteen they sent to Birkenhead. There is nothing so terrible as the thirst you get from the bombing, and the mobile canteens, which like the ambulances, tour the district throughout the raids save many a one from hours of torture.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a silver grey crepe afternoon dress, with a blue flower trimmed hat and blue and grey accessories. Her cascade bouquet was of pale pink roses and blue cornflowers.

Miss Lois E. Davies, the bride's only attendant, wore an afternoon frock of pink crepe, her navy blue hat having a crown made of pink flowers. She wore navy blue accessories, and carried a cascade bouquet of multi-colored sweet peas.

Corporal Clifford C. Barrett, R.C.A.F., acted as best man for Aircraftman Oakes.

Later, the bridal couple left by motor for the Laurentians, the bride travelling in a blue wool boucle coat trimmed with blue fox over her wedding dress. They will reside in the Rockhill Apartments, Cote des Neiges Road.

Both attendants carried bouquets of pansies.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at 4080 Wilson avenue, where ferns and spring flowers were used to decorate. The bride's table was centred with pink and blue flowers. Later, the bridal couple left

FISH MAKES GOOD, NOURISHING DISH FOR WARM WEATHER

Fish is nourishing, has liberal amounts of vitamins, and is not as "heavy" as other meat dishes when the weather grows warm. Fish soufflé or fried scallops is a good dish to serve at this time of the year.

Fish Soufflé
2 cups cod cooked fish flakes
2 tablespoons grated carrot
2 tablespoons grated onion
4 eggs
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups well seasoned mashed potatoes

Prepare potatoes, making them of about the consistency of thick white sauce, mix them well with fish flakes, salt, pepper, onion and carrot. Separate egg yolks and whites, beat whites stiff and set aside, then beat yolks light yellow and combine with fish flakes. Put in greased baking dish and set in pan of warm water on centre rack of oven which has been preheated to 360 degrees F. Bake slowly for 30 minutes.

Bridesmaid's Frocks Like Dinner Dresses

Bridesmaids' dresses are more and more like summer dinner dresses, you'll be glad to learn, and you don't have to be in a wedding party to look into this. We discovered, for instance, that there are more charming and inexpensive dinner dresses in bridal shops than you'll usually find in regular dress departments of the stores.

One in grey with a yellow panel is charming and would be fine for country club dances in the summer. Add you can get attractive pictorial rayon marquisette gowns with bishop sleeves for very little money.

Varied Program Will Be Acted By Doreen O'Brien

A varied program of original, modern and historical sketches will be presented at Victoria Hall on Tuesday evening, May 20, by Doreen O'Brien, well known to Montreal audiences as a diseuse of distinction. Miss O'Brien, who writes all her own plays and designs her own costumes, has acted at the Arts Theatre in London. Her one-woman costume plays and sketches of the Tudor period are famous, and her modern character sketches have proved no less an attraction.

For this coming performance, Doreen O'Brien has chosen some of the more popular items of her repertoire, dividing the program into two parts, the first to consist of modern character sketches and the second to be composed of historical sketches.

The first item will be an amusing study of the prize giving at a girl's school, to be followed by a sketch of a little girl. This play will be based on a nursery song. The third modern sketch will portray two old sisters, one who has advanced with the times and the other who has refused to do so. The first of the program will conclude with a study of a typical woman of a Lancashire manufacturing town.

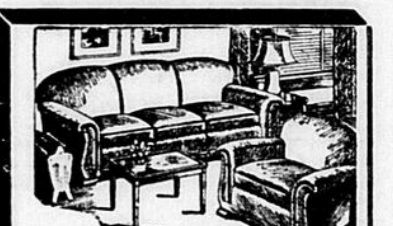

In the first historical sketch, based on authentic history, Doreen O'Brien will present a dramatic portrait of Queen Mary Tudor's tragic realization of her great loss after the fall of Calais in 1558. This scene is taken from Miss O'Brien's solo drama, "Henry's Daughters."

A light-hearted sketch will follow, depicting "Provocative Anne." Miss O'Brien has written this scene as an imaginary sequel to Shakespeare's "Henry VIII."

Act. I, Sc. iv, and shows Anne Boleyn discussing her meeting with Henry VIII at a party. The last sketch will be a burlesque on Queen Elizabeth, in which the Tudor Queen awakes to find her courtiers and ladies in modern dress, and delivers scathing comments upon their appearance. The performance will begin at 8.15 p.m. Following the program, a short dance will be held. The orchestra will be under the direction of Sidney Morris.

R.C.A.F. Patriotic Pin Is Having Large Sale

Through the untiring efforts of Doreen Day Troup, a patriotic gesture in the form of a new RCAF pin, which she has been instrumental in introducing into Canada, will soon be sold throughout the country to raise funds for the Air Force Benevolent Fund. Overnight it has become the latest fashion note for both men and women while still carrying on its original purpose of collecting contributions for the fund.

Designed along the same lines as the RAF pin which has been raising funds for the RAF Benevolent Fund in the United States for the last year, but with RCAF embossed across the wings to emphasize its significance as a contribution to the Air Force Benevolent Fund for Canadian airmen, it adds as decorative a note to evening clothes as it does to day wear.

The pin is being sold in the United States under the auspices of the British American Ambulance Corps in aid of the RAF Benevolent Fund in England and is an outstanding success. Mrs. Troup, while in New York recently, succeeded with the cooperation of Mr. Ruxton of the B.A.A.C. in obtaining permission from Air Commodore Pirie that a pin of the same design, with the initials of the Canadian Flying service replacing those of the British air force, be sold to the general public in Canada to help raise funds for the Air Force Benevolent Fund.

With the approval of Air Commodore Tackberry of Ottawa, head of the Air Force Benevolent Fund in Canada, and under the sponsorship of the Air Force Veterans Association and of Air Marshal Bishop, the pin went on sale in most of the leading stores in Montreal recently.

That such a truly patriotic gesture in aid of the young branch of Canada's fighting forces is justified was revealed by the amazing response of the public who have already greatly depleted the first stock of pins to be placed on the market. Due to the graciousness of the firms handling its sale without any obligation, all proceeds taken in can be turned over to the Air Force Benevolent Fund.

It is planned to place the RCAF pin on sale at the demonstration "Wings and Swing" which will be held in the Forum Building, on Tuesday, May 20, under the sponsorship of the Air Force Veterans Association in conjunction with the Women's League of Health and Beauty, in aid of the Air Force Benevolent Fund.

Rail Service Is Better Than In Last Great War

Heavier rail, greater engine power and increased carrying capacity of cars and trains as compared with conditions during the first great war have enabled the Canadian National Railways to reach new peaks in freight service engaged in moving present war time commodities. In 1924 rail weighed 80 to 85 pounds now main line track weighs from 100 to 130 pounds. Freight trains of 60 percent greater capacity now move at an average speed 70 percent faster while the coal consumption of locomotives has decreased by 25 percent.

CAPES COME INTO PROMINENCE

Noted for her good grooming, Mrs. Paul McNutt, wife of the Security Administrator, chose for Easter a navy wool dress, diagonally striped in pale blue. Her cape is navy wool, her hat pale blue straw trimmed with grey feathers.

Handsome Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the former Secretary of War, picked a two-piece Easter frock of navy sheer wool and topped it with a sheer wool cape in purple. Her straw hat is covered with a mass of purple blossoms.

Taking The Makeup Off Important As Putting On

Priscilla Lane, lovely movie star, believes that the amount of makeup a girl takes off is just as important as the amount she puts on.

That last intense scrutiny, Priscilla says, often discovers tiny lipstick smears marring the corners of the mouth, powder clinging too heavily around the nose and eyes, unsightly small smudges of mascara on the eyelids. A serious study of her face in a magnifying mirror, she admits, has often shown one eye made up just a bit heavier than the other, or eyebrows touched too darkly with her pencil.

For this last-named fault she merely lightens the color by whisking her powder puff over her brows.

WOMEN LIKE TREND TOWARDS VICTORIAN SETS OF JEWELRY

Women like "sets" of jewelry—it's the Victorian trend. Earrings are usually matched to either a bracelet or a huge ring and by and large, the matched idea is important.

Among the newer and more imaginative costume jewelry items are those that incorporate mirrors. In fact, mirrors appear to be one of our pet themes and there are miniature early American bull's-eye mirrors, ornate gilt ones of Renaissance inspiration and—newest—little white rococo framed ones with a white bird perched on top holding a tiny red heart. These are all actual minimizing glass mirrors, with miniature ones for earrings.

"Broken Hearts"

Other novelties are hearts, flat doubles ones in leather plumed with metal (there's a belt buckle to match this, too) or more formal "broken hearts" solidly paved in topaz, amethyst or pink stones. Birds are represented in pairs of jeweled white enamel swans or swallows, by a whole flock of wild ducks. Small jeweled flowers, birds, butterflies mounted on springs for hatpins to be worn in groups, too. There are also glass-in "portraits" of hand-painted flowers.

From another costume jewelry source we gather that emeralds are a much-wanted stone and that moonstone, genuine and synthetic, is being revived. It's a bit early to predict the future of Lucite pins and such, but they have promise. The flower motif persists, and seems particularly popular in earrings and in necklaces that are not too pretentious looking to wear with light summery clothes.

Printed Silk Crepe Coat Being Featured In Exclusive Shops

The printed silk crepe coat is one of the new styles with "fabric interest" which exclusive shops are featuring. One shop is showing all-print ensembles featuring a small colorful print dress topped by a coat of the same print, the coat being lined with silk jersey for warmth.

This is probably the most colorful of the silk coat and suit fashions which have emerged this spring. Black and navy silk faille coats and suits are being played up.

There are any number of simple black dresses, untrimmed, depending on line and cut for interest. In many instances these dresses are simple and flat at the back, softly draped at the front, the drape sometimes cascading in a ruffle or flange; sometimes fullness is controlled by shirring, and frequently, it takes the form of a high inverted pleat, or cluster of pleats.

Woolen jersey for spring continues to win fashion prestige. It is developed into the coat of a spring coat-and-dress ensemble. Sand gray is the color of the coat, and dress in yellow-green-and-black print.

Cameras Are Barred At U. S. Air Exhibit

No cameras allowed! Such was the War Department's order regarding the free air show and aviation exhibit presented at Los Angeles Municipal Airport under auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Visitors were allowed to see the ships—including several late model attack planes and fighters—but picture-taking was taboo. Extraordinary precautions were taken to see that no cameras were smuggled onto the field.

If You Really Want To Reduce, Stop Over-Eating

It's the serving that satiates that puts on the pounds. You can sense that shortly after a full meal when your belt draws too snug for comfort and you let it out a notch, then another. Then you wish you hadn't taken that fifth spare rib and extra slice of bread.

Your main trouble is the habit of over-eating. It keeps you from knowing when you have had enough until you have had too much. To break it, make a staunch practice of leaving the table while you still feel as if you could eat a little more. If in doubt as to whether it's actual hunger or just that "old debbil" appetite, how about some spinach or a little more green salad?

Probably the delectable sugars and starches are all that take your fancy and it's up to you to resist them. When you have been away from the table for 10 minutes, you'll find you no longer crave food of any kind. The plan is perfectly practical.

There's no reason why you should let your appetite get the better of you. You can have an abundance of food low in calories. Suppose you start your meal with a cup of piping hot bouillon—that counts only 25 calories, and doesn't it taste good? And instead of having crackers with it, munch celery.

The second course can be hearty, provided you trim off the fat. You'll be one up on the calories if you cut all the fat from your portion of the meat. When one vegetable is high in starch, the other should be the green leafy kind. Only when butter for the vegetables is specified should it be added. Having a couple of pats of butter on your bread and butter plate is like having a bowl of salted peanuts in front of you. The next time you reach for just a speck, it's all gone. Limit yourself to one pat, one-fourth inch thick, per meal.

There's nothing wrong with bread and potatoes, but it's a good reducer's rule to have one or the other, not both at the same meal. Or, if you like a good dessert better than all the rest of the meal, occasionally skip the bread and potatoes altogether and have your dessert.

Salads are bulky and make you feel full and that is part of the normal satisfaction of hunger. But, the French dressing and mayonnaise pile on calories. You can have reducer's French dressing made with mineral oil and boiled dressing made with skim milk.

Dieting isn't so bad when you plan your menus to include something hot, a protein dish that stays by you, and bulky foods to give a false sense of satisfaction. That makes a good meal—and for only 500 to 600 calories.

Ida Has Lessons In Dog Language

Ida Lupino, who speaks the King's English, good American plus a smattering of Spanish and Italian, has learned the rudiments of a new language.

It's a language known only to about a dozen humans, although millions have sensed that it exists. The language is dog-talk and the instructors were "Pard," the canine star of "High Sierra," and Neal Gazeley, his trainer.

"Dogs have different kinds of barks for various things," Gazeley said, "if you'll listen closely I'll have 'Pard' demonstrate." Neal created situations in which "Pard" successively gave angry, happy, excited or pleading barks.

British Prisoners Get Parcels From Red Cross

The first letter from a British prisoner of war in Germany, giving definite proof that food parcels sent from Canada are being received, has reached a Montreal woman whose brother was taken prisoner at Dunkirk.

A copy of the letter has been forwarded to the headquarters of the Quebec Provincial Division, the Canadian Red Cross Society. It was written by Guardsman Arthur Hook and was sent to his sister, Miss Wynne Hook, 2146 Grand Boulevard, Montreal. It reads: "We have just received an issue of Red Cross parcels, which is my third since I've been a prisoner. Some chaps were extremely fortunate and got the Canadian type. What a lovely parcel! — a pound tin of butter, — real butter, as well as honey and a host of other good things. I wonder if you would be able to see about getting me a parcel like that, with one addition, — a couple of tins of peanut butter. I dream about the stuff!"

Officials of the Quebec Provincial Division, the Canadian Red Cross Society state that the Canadian food parcels mentioned in the above letter are the first to be distributed in Germany, and it is believed that they were in the shipment of 5,000 sent to Marseilles on the American Red Cross Mercy Ship. International Red Cross officials reported that the shipment arrived in splendid condition. The Canadian Red Cross Society is now packing 10,000 food parcels a week for British prisoners of war in Germany, at the request of the British Red Cross.

DAFFODIL CAKE CAN MAKE EVEN COOKING LOOK SPRINGLIKE

Most people take the art of homemaking too casually and don't realize the possibilities for interpreting the season in the home. Of course there is spring cleaning, but that is really a chore and cannot come under the heading of "interpreting spring."

But in the kitchen, where the necessities of life are prepared, interesting and spring-like menus can show that if spring is here, the homemaker isn't far behind.

The earth responds to the coaxing of the sun and comes to life and winter-jaded appetites will respond to the magic of your cooking when you serve this daffodil cake.

DAFFODIL CAKE
1 cup sifted cake flour.
1 1/4 cups sifted sugar.
1 cup egg whites.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon cream of tartar.
1/2 teaspoon vanilla.
1/2 teaspoon orange extract.
4 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored.

Sift flour once, measure, add 3-4 cup sugar and sift four times. Beat egg whites and salt with flat wire whisk. When foamy, add cream of tartar; continue beating until stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Beat in remaining sugar, two tablespoons at a time. Sift flour over mixture in small amounts, folding carefully. Divide in two parts. To one, fold in vanilla. To other fold in orange extract and egg yolks. Put by tablespoons into ungreased angel food pan, alternating mixtures. Bake in slow oven (275 degrees F.) after 30 minutes increase heat slightly to 325 degrees F., bake 50 minutes longer. Invert on rack until cake is cold.

ARE WOMEN FORMING THE JACKET HABIT TOO CONSISTENTLY?

Designers are making a jacket for each dress. There isn't, after all, any particular point in insisting that every dress must have its own jacket. What's the matter with wearing the dress with a coat, or with one's fur piece, or a white or printed jacket over one's dress? Are women forming the jacket habit and do they no longer feel fully clothed and in their right mind unless they are wearing one? The cream white jacket and a black sheer is high fashion. Black gains in importance for summer.

The alternative at the moment, is the little cape, made of self or contrasting material. Some of the jackets are brief boleros. Every spring one can count on the reappearance of this abbreviated type. Sometimes they are called boleros, sometimes Etons, but—there they are to take, or to leave. One is sure to form a definite idea of the importance of boleros, Etons and jackets no matter what they are named. Some of the very smartest dinner dresses have much longer and fitted jackets developed in rich silks, such as one may find in upholstery departments. These are elegant and usually very costly and run pretty consistently to dark rich colorings.

Never Overdone
This seems a good time and place to mention that many women have foregone formality expressed by the usual uncovered method and are following England's lead by wearing something restrained, the sort of thing that is always correct because never overdone. The plunging neckline is nice going for such occasions as are listed as don't-dress affairs.

If you remember a few seasons back, women were all agog over what was known as Sunday night dress, this is approximated in the now accepted type of dinner dress for summer.

Speaking of ways of using contrasting colors in one dress, other than the hackneyed contrasting jacket arrangement, have you noticed that some good-looking dresses have sleeves and yokes of one color, the dress being in another? Sand or beige crepe with navy sleeves and yoke is used, for example. Top such a red, or rust, and have a blue pottery table lamp with an orange shade. A couple of chairs upholstered in blue, brown and gold cretonne will complete another room having a comfortable appearance.

Nothing Better
An old gardener was somewhat bored by the persistent questions of a townsman staying at the local hotel. One day the visitor found his victim busy planting trees immediately asked: "What kind of trees are you planting?" "Wooden ones," came the astonishing reply.—Grit.

WORK
He is foolish indeed who groans that he must work. For in labor, performed with love and happiness, lies true contentment. Love has often not the knowledge of its own strength until it is tried in the fires of sorrow and hardship. Age and youth are like the day and the night, and it is useless to rebuke the one for being dark and the other for being light. Each has its own beauty, its own mystery, and the knowledge of its own ends.

Spring-like to look at, delicious to eat

Delicate and tempting is this white and yellow daisy cake.

Glistening white, delicate yellow and cool green are spring-like colors. A rich, beautifully frosted daisy cake served with sherbet glasses of fresh mint and lemon ice will bring any dinner to a spring-like and satisfying close.

FRESH MINT AND LEMON ICE
Half cup lump sugar (tablets), 4 medium-sized thin-skinned lemons, 1 cup hot water, 2 cups cold water, 3-4 cup granulated sugar, 4 tablespoons crushed fresh mint leaves.

Rub entire surface of lump sugar over rind of lemons which have been washed and sponged until dry. Over this lemon-flavored sugar lump, pour 1-2 cup of lemon juice, combined with the hot water. Add crushed mint leaves. Stir until sugar is thoroughly dissolved, then add the cold water, into which has been stirred the granulated sugar. Cover, strain and freeze in hand freezer, using 3 parts of ice and 1 part of rock salt. Serve in sherbet cups and garnish with mint leaves.

DAISY CAKE
Two cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup butter or other shortening, 1 1/4 cups brown sugar, firmly packed, 2 eggs or 3 egg yolks, unbeaten, 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each; then add chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased deep 9-inch layer pans or three greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Spread Seven Minute Frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Double recipe for three 10-inch layers. Cake may be decorated with daisies made with pastry tube, or yellow flowers may be bought ready-made and placed on frosting.

SEVEN-MINUTE FROSTING
Two egg whites, unbeaten, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 5 tablespoons water, 1 1/2 teaspoons light corn syrup, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Combine egg whites, sugar, water, and corn syrup in top of double boiler, beating with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater, and cook 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from boiling water. Add vanilla gradually to hot frosting, and beat until thick enough to spread.

RATHER SMART
Felt and fabric hats Greatly Favored By New York Milliners

Felts and fabrics are the newcomers to the hat scene in New York. The felts come in big shapes, are highly colorful or else they are shown in black and white. Taffeta has made a good start. It's excitingly used in bows and rosettes to trim straps.

Even so early, velvet is coming to the fore—not, to be sure, to make the body of a hat, but to bind, to be worked into bows and facings on white straw or pique, and even to be combined with black Milan.

Lace is having a big play. Shadowy types may contain a brim, coarser of the Venetian genre finish brims in the amusing style of shelf-paper edgings.

It's a safe bet that several berets will be entered at Belmont. Popular ones range from Suzy's little crushed red grosgrain topped by a white rose to Lily Dache's "cream puff" in custard-tinted straw stitched with black barely cover the hair. A favorite is of ribbon — almost any bright color to go with one's dress — wrapped over shiny black braid and coiled like a piece of Danish pastry. It's a winner when worn with black frock and black accessories.

AN ATTRACTIVE HALL CONVEYS WELCOME MESSAGE TO GUESTS

No longer do we use door mats with "Welcome" imprinted upon them. But that's no reason why our halls should not convey the very same message, says Louise Price Bell in the Christian Science Monitor. First impressions are admittedly important. Our halls have been the burden of giving that first impression, and we as home makers have the task of seeing to it that they do.

Dark, dingy walls, heavily curtained windows, bulky receptacles for wraps—these have all gone by the board. Halls of 1941 are light, airy, cheerful—often smacking smartly of color. They boast flowers and plants, vines, rare bits of artistry. And above all they have a friendly air.

People used to think that halls should always be formal, even stiffly formal. But this isn't true. Even when the type of house calls for a formal entrance hall, the hall can still flaunt a curve or two, a bit of gaiety. Often it can be attractive enough to seem almost chummy. There's a breathless anticipation about a curved stairway; one isn't able to see around the curve and finds himself wondering and imagining what would be revealed if he could.

ABOUT FLOORING
There are several schools of thought about the flooring of halls. Some claim that nothing can compare with satiny wood, rubbed to a golden sheen. Others assert that linoleum is by far the more practical covering for this space where the small fry discard rubbers and overshoes, raincoats and the like. Linoleum is not only invulnerable to this sort of usage, but comes in an astounding array of designs. Then, there are the concrete-floor addicts, who claim that no type of floor is as suitable for a hall. This may be true, but a concrete hall floor is out of place in any house that does not carry the same flooring idea throughout. Lately there are those of the old school—and the new—who insist upon the warmth and the luxurious appearance and feel of thick-napped carpeting. So it's really up to each homemaker to decide just what kind of flooring suits his type of home best.

OUR SHORT STORY

Reformed Bad Man

By Vic Yardman

"Tex Belton," said Sheriff Hank Thompson, "was a real old-time western bad man. At the age of 21 he had a reputation of which Billy the Kid would have been envious. But, unlike Billy, Tex didn't end his day on the end of a hemp. He reformed and became a respected and honest citizen, and all because of a woman."

"Women," he went on, producing the makings and rolling himself a cigarette, "were out of Tex's line. They were, as far as he was concerned, a sort of disease, to be avoided. He didn't trust 'em and he didn't like 'em, and he didn't understand 'em."

"Unfortunately, however, Tex was a good-looking lad and cut rather a dashing figure. Also, there was that atmosphere of mystery and romance about him. Whenever Tex rode into town there were always a dozen or more women ready to flirt with him and ask questions or gasp in admiration at the looks of him. But except for this rather distant association, Tex, up until the climax of his career, hadn't spoken two sentences in direct conversation with a member of the opposite sex."

"It was at the time when Tex was in his twenty-second year that Luke Cromwell, who was sheriff of the county at the time, managed to collect the evidence that would put Tex Belton behind the bars. Luke was a level-headed cuss. He knew that half the stories concerning Tex's antics were products of imagination. And yet he knew also that the youngster's career as a bad man had to be stopped."

"Hence, with the evidence in his possession, Luke went riding on Tex's trail, and after a week or so came loping back to town one day with the kid in tow."

"Luke installed his prisoner in the single-cell jail, which was located across the street at the time and some little distance from town. On the day following he planned to take the kid up to Monte Blue, where a bigger and stronger jail was located, there to await the appearance of the Circuit Court."

"That night word came in that a rancher, Tom Gill, had been murdered when trying to protect himself from a gang of rustlers. (And right here I want to state that if Tex Belton had not been lodged in jail at the moment this murder would have been attributed to him.)

"Anyway, it looked like a pretty serious matter and Sheriff Luke collected himself a posse, which included practically every able-bodied man in town, and rode out to the Gill ranch. Behind him he left his daughter, Letty, a blue-eyed, straw-colored-haired lass of eighteen with instructions to keep an eye on Tex Belton."

"As soon as Tex heard about Luke's riding out to the Gill ranch he began to think of a means of escape. First he tested the window and door bars and found them solid. Then he attempted prying up the floor boards, and found that that wouldn't work, either."

"Pretty soon Letty came sa-shaying in and handed him some supper. Sight of her gave Tex an idea. He had always heard that women were inclined to be soft-hearted, emotional and easily excited, especially when there was a good-looking man around. And if the attitude of the females whom he had met at the Red Horse saloon was any indication, Tex could easily class himself in the category of good-looking men."

"Along about midnight Tex ripped up the mattress of the bunk in his cell and piled the debris in a corner. To this he applied a match, pressed his face up against the iron bars of the window and yelled for help."

"Pretty soon he saw Letty emerge from the Thompson residence across the way and come running toward the jail. She came in to the outer office, carrying a six-shooter in one hand and a lantern in the other."

"You better let me out here, ma'am," says Tex. "Er else I'll get burned to death. Somehow the place caught on fire."

"Letty comes up close to the cell, glances inside and looks at Tex, her eyes angry and scornful. 'You better get busy and put that fire out, Mr. Bandit,' she says to Tex, 'or else you'll roast to death. I'll go out and close the door so there won't be any draft. That ought to help.'"

"And greatly to Tex's annoyance, out she goes. Closing the door made the smoke pretty thick. Also the mattress was blazing away in great shape at this time. There wasn't any alternative for Tex, so he whips off his coat and goes to work, and all the time he was thinking of Letty Thompson, and what a fool he'd been to judge all women by those who tried to flirt with him down at the Red Horse."

"It took more than an hour to smother the last smoldering section of the mattress."

"He spent the remainder of the night with his face pressed against the window bars, trying to get a breath of air."

"The next morning Letty didn't show up with any breakfast, but every once in a while a little gust of wind would blow the smell of frying bacon and coffee in his direction. At noon he lay down on the floor and went to sleep. But the floor was uneven and rough, and after an hour or two he woke up again. For a time he paced back and forth in the confines of the cell and thought of Letty Thompson.

"At dusk Letty came over with half a loaf of bread and some water. 'Here, Bad Man,' she says handing it in, 'these are your rations for the day. And even that's too much. How does it seem, 'she goes on, 'to get a taste of your own medicine, Mr. Robber?'"

"Why," says Tex, gallant-like. 'It don't seem so bad at all.' And he smiles at Letty in a way that makes her blush."

"Throughout the second night Tex alternated between the bare springs of his bunk and the uneven floor. At dawn a clatter of hoofs sounded outside his window, and he glanced out to see Sheriff Luke and his posse riding back to town with a couple of sad-looking hombres in tow."

"Around 7 o'clock the sheriff comes into the outer office, and with him is Letty. 'Hello, Tex,' says he. 'Letty tells me as how you built yourself a fire last night. Humm, 'he goes on, 'well, that's a pretty serious offence ordinarily, but under the circumstances I gotta let yuh go. It seems that these two hombres we bring in this mornin' is responsible for most o' the crimes we been attributin' to you.' And Luke unlocks the door and out steps Tex, smiling down at Letty, who seems right sorry about not giving him any breakfast or dinner."

"Sheriff Luke goes in the cell to inspect the damage, and pretty soon he comes out and looks kind of queerly at Tex. 'Look here,' he says, 'I guess you ain't as bad as folks think, young feller. How come you didn't escape through that hole your fire burnt in the wall of the cell?'"

"It's Tex's turn to blush now, but he says, still gallant-like. 'Why, I reckon I sorta liked it here, sheriff. Me, I ain't never had a taste of my own medicine before, an', hang it, it ain't half bad.'"

"Well, Letty nearly fell over backwards when Luke sprung that about the hole in the jail wall. But she's a spirited kid, and she gets the drift of what Tex is drivin' at. So instead of actin' mad or embarrassed or just plain silly, she looks Tex in the eye and smiles."

"I guess," she says, 'you're not as bad as folks allow, Mr. Bad Man, and I reckon I'm sorry for not givin' you any supper last night. However, breakfast is on the table getting cold, and there's plenty enough for three.' "Which explains why Tex Belton never stretched a rope, but reformed, instead."

HERE'S A BRAND NEW WAY OF DRESSING UP DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

Many of you may recognize this recipe as your sour cream devil's food cake, but when it is all dressed up in its new frosting and flavor, it looks and tastes like a brand new recipe.

As anyone knows, pink and brown make a grand color combination, and so do chocolate and peppermint when presented in this high, two-layer cake, mantled in a pretty pale pink frosting. Just to set it all off, there is a lovely border of flaked chocolate like a garland around the edge of the cake. This border adds lot to the appearance of the cake and it is very easy to make.

You'll find this cake grand for birthday parties for adults, and children's parties, too. It is an ideal recipe for the new bride to try on her new husband, and we'll wager that there will be no unfavorable comparisons to "mother's cooking" when she serves it.

Chocolate Peppermint Cake
2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup butter or other shortening, 1 egg, unbeaten, 3 squares unsweet-ened chocolate, melted; 1/2 cup thick sour cream, 3-4 cup sweet milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Beat in egg, then chocolate. Add then sour cream. Add remaining flour, alternately with milk, in small amounts, beating after each addition. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Spread with peppermint frosting.

FROSTING

2 egg whites, unbeaten, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 5 tablespoons water, 1 1/2 teaspoons light corn syrup, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled.

Combine egg whites, sugar, water and corn syrup in top of double boiler, beating with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mix-

Westmount Is Featuring Grey's "Western Union"

It is not surprising that 20th Century-Fox is reported to have gone "all out" on the production of Zane Grey's "Western Union," for contained in this great story of the West by the West's greatest story teller are all the elements which make for top screen fare. The film is now playing at the Westmount United Theatre until Saturday night.

Set in the days when Omaha was a boom town and Nevada a territory, the story has fighting, intrigue, Indians, struggle against the elements and man-made obstacles, romance—everything that makes for thrilling spectacular entertainment.

As Robert Young was considered ideal for the role of young Richard Blake, the duds but aggressive tenderfoot on his first trip West, the studio obtained his services from Metro Goldwyn Mayer. It was a happy choice for Young always brings to the screen a flawless performance. As the Easterner who amazes the Westerners with his riding and marksmanship, Young should add to his already tremendous popularity.

Difficult to Cast
More difficult to cast was the role of Vance Shaw, two-gun man upon whose broad shoulders rests the important task of scouting for the "Western Union" expedition through the country of the savage Sioux. Zane Grey's own words were recalled while executives were considering the problem, and as Grey had long held that Randolph Scott exemplified "the screen's outstanding Westerner," Scott was signed.

After his outstanding success as Brigham Young in the picture of that name, there was little doubt in anyone's mind that Dean Jagger was the man to portray Edward Creighton, the great leader whose vision and tremendous courage made coast-to-coast communication by wire a reality.

When it came to the important role of Creighton's sister, Sue, there was again unanimity of opinion. Virginia Gilmore, who had come to the forefront in the short space of one year with her work in "Jennie" and "Tall" Dark and Handsome," was given the coveted role.

The studio completed the cast with actors who have long been tops in their field, including John Carradine, Slim Sumner, Chill Wills and Barton MacLane.

Extras Number 1800
The casting completed, and the direction in the capable hands of Fritz Lang, the stage was set for the actual filming. All the extras, Indians, camera men, and numerous and sundry other vital necessary persons who numbered 1,800 before the shooting was complete, were assembled, and proceeded to Kanab, Utah, which served as location headquarters.

There, over a hundred miles from the nearest railroad and telegraph office, the frontier West so eloquently described by Zane Grey was recreated. The wild, boisterous town of Omaha in 1861 was rebuilt at tremendous cost, a herd of buffalo was obtained for stampede sequences, Indian villages and the Western Union camps were built exactly as they had been over fifty years before.

For the climactic forest fire sequence, which 20th Century-Fox had determined to make the most spectacular ever screened, elaborate preparations were made. This awesome scene, recorded in Technicolor, has been called the most dramatic ever filmed.

High Diving Will Feature Program At Belmont Park

Everything is in readiness for the official opening on Saturday of Belmont Park, Montreal's only outdoor amusement centre, situated along the banks of Back River in Cartierville. Employees for the past few days have been putting the finishing touches to the park and its many "rides" and features.

The opening free outdoor attraction introduces to patrons of the park Miss Bee Kyle, world's professional lady high diving champion. Miss Kyle, who has been high diving since she was a little girl, claims that the thrill of each performance is equal to that of her first attempt. Miss Kyle will dive from a platform 110 ft. high into a tank of water only 5 ft. deep which necessitates perfect judgment and timing. The act, hazardous in nature, is made doubly so as gasoline, floating on top of the water in the tank, is set afire just before she dives... an act that has thrilled audiences throughout the world. Miss Kyle will appear twice daily, at 5 p.m. and 11 p.m. starting Saturday.

As a special introductory offer, patrons of the park will be admitted to the beautiful dance pavilion in the evenings during the week for the small sum of ten cents and on Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays the admission fee will be twenty-five cents. This offer will be good for a period of two weeks. The music will be supplied by Stan Wood, popular Canadian Maestro, and his orchestra whose selection of hit tunes will meet with the approval of both dancers and onlookers.

Picnic reservations for the season are the heaviest in the park's history and clubs, associations and firms desirous of securing picnic dates are requested to get in touch with the management at BY, 2496. Men in uniform, be he soldier, sailor or aviator, will be admitted to the park absolutely free and when in groups will be granted further concessions in the park upon getting in touch with the management.

Lamarr, Stewart Co-Star In Picture At Monkland

Hollywood, land of strange occupations, has turned up another. Imagine, if you can, getting paid for wearing clothes into shreds. That is the job of one Dick Chaney, whose latest works of art adorn James Stewart as the struggling young author in "Come Live With Me," co-starring Hedy Lamarr and is now playing at the Monkland United Theatre until Saturday night.

According to Chaney, this business of aging clothes isn't as simple as it sounds, depending, of course, upon the impression one attempts to give. In the case of Stewart, it was up to Chaney to get over the idea that Stewart was accustomed to the finer things of life, but was temporarily down on his luck. He had to further get over the idea that Stewart's suit had seen many months of hard service, and, while clean, was certainly not in the best of repair.

Must Fit Well
"To get over a character such as this by his clothes," Chaney explained, "it is necessary that the suit be a good fit in the first place. Because of this, we took over of Stewart's own suits. The garment was then hung in a steam filled room which shrunk it just enough to look convincing. While still damp, the suit was donned by Stewart's stand-in, a boy of approximately the actor's build. He was instructed to lool about in it all day. This produced bulging knees and elbows in just the proper spots."

The clothes of Donald Meek, in his role as a bum, required less work. To produce a convincing bum, it seems all that is needed are clothes of a bad fit, preferably too big.

"Come Live with Me," directed by Clarence Brown, is the first film to co-star Stewart and Miss Lamarr. It is the story of a beautiful Austrian refugee who marries a penniless young author in order to obtain a quota number and remain in the United States. The supporting cast includes Ian Hunter, Verree Teasdale, Donald Meek, Barton MacLane, Edward Ashley, Ann Codee, King Baggot and eighty-year-old Mrs. Adeline de Walt Reynolds, who makes her screen debut as Stewart's grandmother.

$10 Restored After 3 Years

Ten dollars lost three years ago by Miss Ruth F. Murphy brought her $5 interest because the finder, who spent the money, had a troubled conscience. Miss Murphy recently received a telephone call from a woman who said her husband had found her purse three years ago with the money in it and had spent the $10 "because we were up against it."

She promised the money would be returned, with interest, and a few days later Miss Murphy received the purse in the mail. It contained a $10 and all the original articles, plus $5 as "interest."

SAGA OF FIGHT TO LIVE NOW AT YORK THEATRE

Candid Heart-Warming Story of Men and Women in "Adam Had Four Sons"

Timeless saga of a family's fight to survive, tense drama of the ageless war of women for the men they love, Columbia's "Adam Had Four Sons" is now playing at the York United Theatre until Friday night. To reveal one of the most amazingly stories ever brought to the screen the heart-warming story of five fascinating men and the women in their lives! Hailed for its intimate, burning reality, "Adam Had Four Sons" is based upon the sensational best-selling novel "Legacy," by Charles Bonner, and the stars Ingrid Bergman and Warner Baxter with a stellar supporting cast.

Featured in the memorable new film are Susan Hayward, Fay Wray, Helen Westley, Richard Denning, Johnny Downs and Robert Shaw. Gregory Ratoff directed the scenes of unforgettable romance of struggle and victory which has made "Adam Had Four Sons" one of the most talked-of motion pictures of the year.

Proud Father
Baxter is seen as Adam Stoddard, proud father of four devil-may-care boys. He watches them grow, helps them through their loves and wars and amazing destinies, sees a smoldering-eyed girl capture first one, then another of his sons, sees her seek greedily for new victims, finally to reach after him as well. Miss Bergman, the brilliant star of "Intermezzo," is cast in "Adam Had Four Sons" as Emile, fiercely devoted to Adam and his youngsters, hauntingly lovely, gallantly loyal, understanding and courageous.

Modern Scarlett O'Hara
As Hester, the modern Scarlett O'Hara, lovely Susan Hayward is said to give the most powerful performance of her young career, a performance destined to zoom her well on the way to stardom. Miss Wray is effectively cast as Adam Stoddard's young wife, whose death precipitates the drama and the disaster which face the Stoddards for years, and Helen Westley is said to be of equal merit in her character performance as Cousin Philippa, the cigar-smoking relative who aids Adam bring up his four sons.

Lesser players are equally noteworthy, according to advance report, with Richard Denning, Johnny Downs and Robert Shaw capturing honors as three of the four sons. Advance praise has also been accorded Ratoff for his sensitive direction of this memorable drama of the human heart with its feuds and passions, loves and conquests.

DOUBLEHEADER IS SCHEDULED WITH ROYALS FACING GRADS; AIR FORCE AGAINST DODGERS

Johnny O'Connell to Pitch For Grads While Conny Tudin Possible Royals' Hurler — Dodgers Will Start Joe Leonard — Fliers Unknown Quantity— League Schedule Is Released

The Westmount Municipal Senior Softball League will open its schedule tomorrow evening with a doubleheader scheduled for the Park diamonds.

Last year's pennant winners, the Royals, hook up with Harvie Fee's Grads on No. 1 diamond, while the Air Force team takes on the Dodgers, on the second diamond.

Both these tilts should be closely contested. The Royals have not yet announced their starting pitcher, but if Conny Tudin is available he'll probably be the choice. Johnny O'Connell is definitely slated for the Grads mound duties.

The Air Force-Dodgers game brings together two new teams to the league. Artie Mann, manager of the Dodgers is counting on Joe Leonard to be one of the loop's leading hurlers, and it is quite probable that Leonard will be given the opening assignment. The Air Force team have been

WESTMOUNT IS LOSER IN OPENING TUSSELE OF CRICKET SEASON

Westmount Cricket Club dropped its inaugural fixture of the season last week-end at Westmount Park, losing to an R.C.A.F. team made up entirely of Australians, by 151 runs.

The local club failed to field a very strong team, several players being at Lennoxville aiding the "Old Boys" defeat student cricketers at Bishop's College.

Several young English performers were included in the Westmount lineup and while proving no match for the airmen, gave assurance of future topflight material for Westmount's senior entry.

Westmount used six bowlers in an effort to keep the score down but the Air Force batsmen had little difficulty running up a good score, their total reaching 195 for nine before declaring their innings closed.

KEVIN SHEA IS STAR WITH 1-HIT HURLING AS ARGOS WIN, LOSE

Two games were played in the Westmount Municipal Baseball League during the week, both in the Midget section. The Argos made their appearance in both fixtures, losing 9-8 to the Dodgers on Monday afternoon but coming right back to defeat Beavers on Tuesday 8-3 by virtue of Kevin Shea's one-hit pitching.

After the first two innings of Monday's tilt, the game developed into a pitcher's battle between Kevin Shea of the Argos and Noel Romney of the Dodgers. Shea finally handed the game to the Dodgers in the last inning when he walked Johnnie Chener with two out and bases full, forcing in Piers with the winning run.

The Argos got to Romney for four hits and six runs in the first inning, including Kevin Kennedy's triple, one error and three walks. Romney settled down after this and allowed the Argos but one more hit and two runs.

The Dodgers piked up three runs in the first inning on three singles and a walk, and added four more in the second on successive extra base hits by Donnie Mann, Noel Romney and Eugene Simard. Romney's second triple of the game accounted for the Dodgers eighth run while Shea walked in their last and most important one.

Romney's wildness almost proved his undoing as he walked no less than nine men while striking out seven, his hitting was a little more effective getting three for three including two triples and batting in three runs.

Donnie Mann also picked up a pair of hits for the winners. Kevin Kennedy was the only Argos to solve Romney's slants to any degree as he picked up three hits and a walk in four appearances at the plate.

The warmer weather on Tuesday afternoon seemed to be more agreeable to Kevin Shea hurling for the Argos, as he was bearing down on the Beavers striking out twelve men and keeping his opponents out of the hit column until the last inning.

The Beavers picked up three runs in the first two innings without getting a hit. Shea walked the first two Beavers to face him and they both scored when Bulger misjudged a fly in deep center. Mackenzie walked in the third and scored a few seconds later on Shea's own error.

The Argos broke into the scoring column in the third inning banging out six hits and two walks for seven runs. One of the six hits in this uprising was Eddie O'Brien's home run, the first circuit clout of the season in the loop. Tubby O'Connell also picked up a double in this hitting spree. The winners got their last run off Dave Harvie who replaced Peirson in the box for the Beavers.

"Y" Swim Classes Proving Popular

The learn-to-swim classes which began at the Westmount "Y" May 5, are proving very popular with boys and girls of the community between the age of 7 and 10.

Strangely enough, the girls thus far are the best pupils. Within two sessions, Barbara Jones, Elizabeth Cross, Dorothy Melville and Biddy Case had navigated one width of the pool.

Among the boys in the beginner's class, Peter Lacaille, Geoffrey Passmore, Peter Smith and Morley Swan have shown the greatest progress.

The advanced classes for boys and girls of the same age grouping as above also are well attended. Joyce Kenwood and John Wilson have shown the greatest degree of progress.

Not His Job. As the major inspected the cavalry squadron, he stopped before a new recruit and said: "Now, my lad, have that saddle and harness brighter in the morning."

Turning to the sergeant-major, he said: "See to it, sergeant-major."

Next morning the offending saddle and harness were as dull as ever.

"If I thought I told you to clean 'em for to-day?" the major roared. "No, sir," corrected the rookie. "You told the sergeant-major to see to it." —Answers.

CYCLONES PANTHERS IN CLOSE STRUGGLE FOR SOFTBALL LEAD

It looks like a two team race in the Westmount Pea Wee Softball League, with the Cyclones and Panthers being the teams. The Cyclones are leading the league at present with five straight wins no losses, while the Panthers have the same number of wins but have lost one game. These two clubs will meet on Saturday morning in a crucial tilt.

Last week's play saw the Cyclones beat out their closest rivals, the Panthers, by a 24-23 score after one extra inning of play. The score was tied 23-all at the end of the seventh inning. In the Cyclones half of the eighth Waterston singled and scored the winning counter on John Gutelius' long one base hit.

The Panthers threatened in their half of the eighth, Lamb got on base on a fielder's choice and advanced to third on John Drury's single but the Cyclones got the next two men to end the game. George McGlanders with a home run and two singles led the Cyclones batting attack.

Brian Tiffin, John Waterson and John Gutelius also got three hits apiece for the winners. Bob Woodburn of the Panthers hit safely five times, while Steve Galley banged out two triples for the loser's cause.

The Panthers resumed their winning ways on Friday afternoon however, beating the Red Wings 14-3. Ross Gillingham and Don Wadsworth were the batting heroes of the winners, while Earl McDonald knocked out three singles for the Red Wings.

The Panthers won their fifth game of the season when they swamped the Spitfires 33-8 on Monday afternoon.

Royals Away on Week-end But Return Home Tuesday

Fans who saw the Montreal Royals lambast the Baltimore Orioles in a doubleheader at the Stadium Sunday by scores of 15 to 3 and 11 to 4 were convinced beyond any doubt that this year Manager Sukeforth is piloting one of the finest baseball clubs ever to represent the Canadian metropolis. Eighteen thousand cash customers placed their seal of approval on the Royals' hitting, their pitching, their fielding, and above all their heads-up, aggressive, fighting type of baseball.

This week-end the Royals will be playing away from home, at Rochester, but our boys return home to the Stadium Tuesday to play the Buffalo Bisons, Wednesday and Thursday Buffalo is at the Stadium, and Friday the Rochester Red Wings. On Saturday, May 24, Victoria Day, there will be a double-header between the Royals and the Red Wings, and on Sunday, May 25, a twin bill between the Royals and the Toronto Maple Leafs. Single games at the Stadium start at 4 o'clock, and doubleheaders at 2 p.m. Box seat tickets may be secured in advance by writing or calling at the Stadium.

After last Sunday's double victory the Royals owned a record of taking 12 out of their last 15 decisions, a drive which had brought them within one game of first place in the league standings. Woody Jensen was leading the club in runs driven in, with 19, and was tied with George Staller for home run honors, each having three.

The infield play of the Royals has been the talk of the town.

Hardly a day passes without Claude Corbit electrifying the fans with one or more of his dazzling plays at shortstop. Corbit's hitting has improved also. Getting off to a slow start with the bat, the Duke University alumnus now has boosted his average to .292, which is quite a respectable figure for anybody.

Paul Campbell, at first base, has caused the critics to compare him with the best first-sackers who ever played in the league. Certainly his record of having started eight double-plays in seventeen games is phenomenal. Besides those he started, of course Campbell has participated in many other twin killings. Sammy Bell at second base, and Hughes Bell at second base, round out an infield which is a source of constant delight to all loyal followers of the Royals.

ELABORATE PLANS MADE FOR AIR VETERANS SHOW

"Wings and Swing" Under Patronage, Governor-General

Former Pilots and Ground Men Join With Members of Women's League of Health and Beauty in Offering Entertainment to Aid Air Force Benevolent Fund — Ranking Officers As Guests

High ranking officers of the Canadian Navy, Army and Air Force will be guest at the big Air Force show, "Wings and Swings" which is being staged in the Forum Building, on Tuesday, under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor General and H.R.H. the Princess Alice, and sponsored by the Air Force Veterans Association in conjunction with the Women's League of Health and Beauty, in aid of the Air Force Benevolent Fund.

Chief of Air Staff, Air Vice Marshal L. S. Breadner, D.S.C. will preside and will take the salute of flights of Empire Air Forces from No. 1 Wireless School, and will present air cadet Squadrons No. 1 and 2 of the Westmount, Jean de Brebeuf and Chomedy schools with their new squadron flags.

Air Vice Marshal Breadner will be accompanied by Mrs. Breadner and members of his staff. Air Vice Marshal S. J. Gobie, D.S.O., D.S.C., D.F.C., Australian representative on the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan board and Mrs. Gobie, and Group Captain L. M. Isitt, C.B.E., representing the New Zealand Air Force and Mrs. Isitt will also be present.

Air Forces Participate
Flights composed of officers and men of the Royal Canadian, Australian and New Zealand Air Forces, under the command of Squadron Leader Maxwell-Muller, and led by the R.C.A.F. Band, will take part in the march past. Squadron No. 1 of the newly organized air cadets from the Westmount schools, under the command of Acting Cadet Squadron Leader H. P. Illsley, and Squadron No. 2 from the Jean de Brebeuf and Chomedy schools, under the command of Acting Cadet Squadron Leader L.A.A. Bernard, will parade together, and will be presented with their own squadron flags by the Chief of Air Staff as a highlight of the show.

The famous R.C.A.F. Band under the direction of bandmasters Corporal M. Boudry and Corporal C. E. Herriott with Sergeant Major M. Thompson as Drum Major will lead the march past. The Band will also contribute a short program of well known war tunes and feature for the first time a musical drill which is said to be the equivalent on foot of the famous musical ride traditionally done by the Royal Household Cavalry in Great Britain.

Health and Beauty League
Another outstanding feature of the performance on Tuesday evening will be a program of rhythm exercises and dances to be staged by the Women's League of Health and Beauty under the leadership of Honor Davey. These will include a series of setting up exercises, "Graceful Rhythm," Easy Sequences for Rib Poise, Curve Control, Flat Backs, Relaxation and advanced routines for muscle toning. Members of the League will also contribute "Prayer," a revived Greek Dance, and as a finale, "Wings" a colorful tableau of human bodies depicting a modern fighting plane in the centre of the final mass parade of the flights of the R.C.A.F. and the air cadets.

The Air Force Benevolent Fund will benefit from the entire proceeds taken in. It is open to all Canadian airmen serving in the flying forces. The Fund is used to relieve distress and supplement pensions, where necessary, among the Canadian personnel of the air forces, both past and present, and their dependents. Its administration is so planned that the needs of the disabled and of the dependents of those killed in action shall always be its first charge. If the Fund reaches sufficient proportions a large measure of the help available will be directed towards the fuller assistance of widows of airmen and the education of their children. The scope of the Fund also includes cases of disability, sickness and general need.

Undertake Fund Responsibility
The Air Force Veterans Association, as a part of its contribution towards Canada's war effort, have undertaken to promote and foster the Air Force Benevolent Fund. The Association was formed by a number of flying veterans of the last war, unable to take an active part in the flying forces of this war, so that as an organization they might contribute a workable program that would fit into the Dominion's war effort. This program includes getting as many, who so wish, back into harness again. To promote and foster the air cadet movement in the schools by taking drill and instruction from up to date RCAP instructors and thus act in their turn as instructors to the air cadets should they be required to do so, and finally to be ready, should they be called upon, to serve in whatever capacity they are best fitted in Canada's defense forces.

Tickets for the exhibition of drill manoeuvres "Wings and Swings" are on sale at the Forum box office, and in all Hymans' Tobacco Stores. The show will be-

New Testament Gifts In Canada

The British and Foreign Bible Society in Canada gave 136,000 copies of the New Testament to Canadian soldiers, sailors, and airmen up to December 31, 1940, according to the Society's statistics. Scriptures have also been supplied free of charge to Allied airmen and other members of the forces training in Canada and Newfoundland, while 15,000 copies have been given free to those in internment camps and prisons.

The New Testament is part of the equipment of all armed forces. Copies distributed by the Society contain a message from the King and are especially made to fit into uniform pockets.

Demands have continued to come to the Society for Scriptures to be sent to China, and from Manchukuo news has been received here that the circulation has been well maintained. Even in Japan, where government policy may cause changes in method and organization, there is no restriction in the circulation of the Scriptures. In India work is proceeding normally, and in most parts of Africa the war has made few changes as yet, though in North Africa it may be difficult for some time to receive supplies.

THE BUSINESS ASSOCIATION of WESTMOUNT

WESTMOUNT Business Firms are here to serve you. The Business Association of Westmount represents a sincere effort on the part of Westmount business people to be worthy of increased patronage from local residents, and to improve shopping and general business conditions in this city. That this Association is filling a long-felt want is evidenced by the encouraging response that has been given to the group's campaign urging residents to "Shop in Westmount First" which has been the Association's slogan since its formation over three years ago.

The war has caused a slight upset in business conditions throughout the country but has not affected in any way the local merchants' claim that you can get everything you need right here in Westmount. Quality merchandise of recognized excellence can be obtained in local stores at the same prices that business houses elsewhere ask, courtesy and service are not confined to outside shopping districts, and the inherent desire to please that is the business dealer's first requisite is probably stronger here than elsewhere.

By shopping in Westmount you will stimulate business here in this city, better business means better general prosperity. Remember that a dollar spent in Westmount is a dollar invested in Westmount. Money spent in outside districts profits neither the buyer nor the taxpayers of this community.

For these reasons, and many more, the members of The Business Association of Westmount listed below urge you to
