The Capture of Serajevo – Terrible Scenes of the Assault—Triumph of the Austrians—Turkish Authority Powerless in Bosnia—All Austrian Commanders Captured to be Hanged—Refusal of the Lazis to Evacuate Batoum.

LONDON, August 20.—A Vienna despatch says: The official report of General Phillipovich shows the capture of Serajevo was the result of the combined operations of his own force and that of General Tegethoff. Tegethoff occupied Visoka on the 17th instant, capturing a quantity of arms and ammunition. After the engagement, in which he had 82 men wounded and four killed, he immediately advanced a considerable distance in the direction of Serajevo. On Monday Tegethoff's force formed in attacking column against the northern side of Serajevo, and opened a cannonade against the Castle at 6:30 o'clock in the morning, the insurgent artillery replying. Meanwhile the force of Phillipovich, divided in two columns, was favored by thick fog in effecting the turning movement, the column directed against the insurgent position on the westward of Serajevo, commenced the attack at 7:30 a.m., but the main column, driving the insurgents with difficulty from their strong positions, only reached its appointed post on the heights south of the city at 10:30, when the insurgents' cannon were silenced, and the Austrian infantry advanced in swarms. General Phillipovich says:—"Fighting of the most horrible kind ensued, which lasted until 1:30 p.m. The troops were fired upon from every doorway and window; even women and sick and wounded insurgents in military hospitals participated in incredible scenes of the wildest fanaticism. It was only owing to the good discipline of the troops that the town was not more seriously damaged; as it was, some houses were plundered and burned. Our losses unfortunately were not inconsiderable. The insurgents fled in all directions, especially towards Garasda and Rogatica. At the close of the fighting the Imperial flag was hoisted and saluted amidst the cheers of the Christian population." A despatch from Constantinople says the Bosnian insurrectionary chief Hadji Loja has accidentally wounded himself. He has ordered that every Austrian Commander who may be captured shall be hanged. The same despatch says the Porte has reiterated its orders with regard to non resistance to the Austrian advance, but Turkish authority is, however, powerless in Bosnia. Belgrade advices are to the effect that the preparations for resistance at Sienitza are gradually slackening. Several thousand Turkish regular troops have passed through there on their way homeward from Bosnia. Intelligence has been received from Constantinople to the effect that the English, French and German ambassadors yesterday urged upon the Porte in a decisive manner the strict and unreserved execution of the provisions of the treaty of Berlin. It is reported that the Insurgents again attacked General Szapary at Dobof on Monday, but were repulsed after prolonged fighting. A Pera correspondent says the Porte has received an official telegram stating that the Russians had summoned the Lazis to immediately evacuate Batoum, and that the Lazis had refused to do so. A Vienna despatch says Bismarck has given it to be distinctly understood that any attempt to shirk the obligations taken respectively by the contracting Powers of the Treaty of Berlin would be immediately followed by such measures as circumstances may require.

THE VICE-REGAL VISIT TO THE TOWNSHIPS.

Reception of the Party at St. Johns.

ST. JOHNS, August 20.—St. Johns, on the banks of the Richelieu, was reached about five o'clock, and the arrival was heralded by a salute from the only gun in the place, worked by a detachment of the St. Johns Garrison Artillery. The following gentlemen were at the station to welcome and receive Their Excellencies:—Mayor Decelles, Judge Chagnon, Mr. Saxe, American Consul, Charles S. Pierce, Charles Langelier, E. R. Smith, St. Johns News, W. A. Marchand, W. L. Marler, of the Merchants Bank, Charles Lindsay, Judge Longpre, Stipendiary Magistrate, Cure Bisson. Councillors—G. H. Wilkinson, Wm. Coote, J. S. Messier, W. Brosseau, Charles Paille, James O'Cain, L. Lareau, S. E. Clement, P. Robert, J. Beaudry, and Smith. Rev. Messrs. Booth, Shulte, Borland, Blackstock, the Rev. Cure St. George, of Iberville, Rev. Mr. Kitson. The Vice-Regal party were not long in getting into their carriages, and a procession having been formed, a start up town was made. The beauty of design in the arches called forth many complimentary remarks, and Mr Jacques Cartier, the designer, is to be congratulated upon the success of his work. Richelieu street, nearly built up, was spanned by festoons of colored flannels, and flags of all nations. The following mottoes were conspicuous:—"Erin go Bragh," "Canada's Pride," "Il est la gloire du Canada." This last motto was on an arch erected by Dr. Moreau, J. S. Messier, Alf. Bonneau and T. Cote. On arriving at Monnette's Hotel, where a dais had been erected, the Mayor read the following long address in French, and afterwards in English:—

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HONORABLE THE EARL OF DUFFERIN AND CLANDEBOYE, GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA, &C., &C.:—

May it Please Your Excellency—

On behalf of our fellow citizens, We, the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of St. Johns, respectfully approach the Representative of our Gracious Sovereign to extend to you a most cordial welcome, and to give expression to our sentiments on the occasion of Your Excellency's visit to this town. Though the heart should not tire of receiving tokens of love and respect from the people, there are occasions when physical strength must succumb to a long series of popular ovations; but Your Excellency having happily surmounted such, we are thus enabled to be honored by your presence to-day. Our own, though quiet and unpretentious, is not without its historic interest, and we can herald with pride the sojourn in our midst of a member of the Royal Family—His Royal Highness Prince Arthur.

As proof of its importance and its former struggles with the enemies of its fireside, the old Fort still remains, a short step from the town, silent and deserted it is true, but sacredly kept and protected by the people, who hope that at some future time it may again be remantled and garrisoned. A voice from the rampart proclaims the pathway to honor and teaches us loyalty to the British Crown and devotion to its noble flag, the glories of which draw together the united intelligence and strength of the sons of Great Britain and the descendants of those French heroes who first trod Canadian soil and besprinkled it with their blood. It is again to reiterate this sentiment of loyalty, and again to express our attachment to our beloved Sovereign and the Constitution which she has been pleased to give us, that we have sought the presence of Your Excellency, but we feel that this demonstration falls far short of the desire of each one of us, were we not permitted particularly to address ourselves to the distinguished personage who is so soon to cease to preside over our destinies, and to assure yourself personally of the very high esteem in which you are held by every Canadian heart.

In order the better to serve Her Majesty and our Dominion, Your Excellency has sought to familiarize yourself with the requirements and resources of the country you were called upon to govern. Accompanied by Lady Dufferin (for we must associate her name with yours, as she has shared your labors and solicitudes), Your Excellency has traversed the Canadian soil from the Atlantic to the Pacific. While on the one hand triumphal arches have marked your path, on the other, Your Excellency has set an example of the most ardent patriotism, scattered your munificences, patronized our institutions, encouraged the arts and sciences and materially assisted in the advancement of the country by making it better known abroad. We must further express our admiration of those numerous and attractive qualities of yourself and Lady Dufferin which have been so recognized by the Throne as to name for your successor the noble Marquis who brings to us a daughter of Her Most Excellent Majesty—a choice as honorable to yourself as it is flattering to our young country, in whose confiding care is placed one of the Royal Blood.

Soon you will bid adieu to our shores—the mother country will open her arms to receive you, and bestow upon you just proof of her confidence; but be you ever so far away, the gratitude and good wishes of Canada will follow you and your noble wife, and our great-grand-children will bless your memory.

(Signed,) ARCADE DECELLES, Mayor.

His Excellency said never in his life had he found it so hard to reply to so warmly-couched an address as the present one. From the bottom of his heart he thanked them for their kindness, and though he would not be able to explain to them all he felt in the beautiful language of France, yet he hoped, as the old proverb said, "They would take the will for the deed." Never had he received a more agreeable, a more flattering address than that which they just presented to him. (Cheers.) The two nations that have founded the Canadian nation come from the most heroic races of the world (cheers), and their ancient valor has descended to their sons, who now form the Canadian nation. This was probably the last time he should address a purely French-Canadian audience, as his happy and his satisfactory tour through the Townships had ended. He trusted that they would believe him when he said, that, as long as he lived, he should never forget the many kindnesses he had received during his sojourn in Canada. And he could never think for a moment that any thing he might be able to do for them in Canada, in his place in the House of Lords, would ever pay them back. He would personally see Her Majesty, and inform her that in no part of her great empire are there to be found a more loyal or faithful body of subjects than are in Canada. (Great cheering.) He briefly replied in English, remarking, however, that a great compliment was being paid the Canadian nation by Her Majesty entrusting to their care her favorite daughter, the Princess Louise. (Cheers.) No other colony can, or has been been able to, boast of such an honor, and he would, on his return, be able to assure Her Majesty that her people of Canada would loyally guard and cherish the Princess Louise. (Cheers.) Thanking them once more for all their kind words to Lady Dufferin and himself personally, he wished them one and all good-bye. (Loud Cheers.)

The Countess was now presented with a handsome bouquet by Miss Wilkinson, a young miss of four years.

A hurried reception took place, the principal ladies and gentlemen of the town being presented. After it was over the party drove to the French Parish Church, Rev. Father Aubry, and viewed the fine altar and beautiful columns of carved wood. The fire station was looked in upon on the way, and the fine Silsby engine and hose minutely inspected. The Volunteer Company are fine, athletic young fellows, and have a most complete outfit for the work of firemen. The St. Johns Stone China Factory was next visited, the proprietor, Mr. E. C. McDonald, explaining the process of crockery-making. This industry, which has seen some trying times, is now prospering under the new management, and bids fair in a few years to become one of the largest factories on the continent. At present there are 120 operatives; more than half are English, from Staffordshire, the rest being French-Canadians. The Countess was presented with a cup and saucer and plate of china, made in the Factory. The Hon. Mrs. Littleton was also presented with a like souvenir. Two handsome bouquets were presented, and an address in French and English was read by Miss Louise Lacroix and Miss Anne Moore.

His Excellency made a very kind reply to the working girls, giving them some words of encouragement and advice. The English Church was visited and the old military barracks, and, after bidding the representatives of the press "good-bye," His Excellency and suite departed for Rouse's Point by regular train. After seeing Lake Champlain they return to-morrow to Montreal, and thence to Quebec, by the evening boat.

SEASIDE RESORTS.

Old Orchard Beach.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Maine, 12th August. — This deservedly popular watering-place continues, by its many attractions, to draw great numbers from all parts of the United States and Canada, and at no other watering-place on this Continent can as great benefit and pleasure be derived at so small an expense. So many of the readers of your paper have enjoyed a summer at this beach that a lengthy description would be out of place; but for the benefit of those who have not been so fortunate I may be justified in mentioning a few of the peculiar attractions for pleasure-seekers which Old Orchard possesses. It is on the line of the Boston & Maine Railroad, about fifteen miles distant from Portland, and by leaving Montreal in the morning we can reach Old Orchard the same evening in time for supper. The beach itself is almost universally admitted to be the finest on the Atlantic coast, extending as it does in the form of a semi-circle a distance of fully ten miles, with a width of from twenty to thirty rods at low tide. The drive along the beach on the hard sand, on which the carriage wheels make scarcely any impression, is enjoyed not only by many of those staying on the beach, but by a large number from Portland and other adjoining towns, who are attracted here by its superiority over all other drives in this section of the State. The chief attraction, however, is the splendid surf bathing, which possesses a fascination wholly beyond the comprehension of those who have never tried it. A large camp meeting ground in the midst of a fine pine grove back from the beach about one-third of a mile, is at present occupied by a temperance meeting, which is to continue for several days. Among the speakers who are to address the meeting this week are Neal Dow, (the father of the Maine Liquor Law) the Hon. Mr. Tilley, ex-Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, and a number of other eminent men from different parts of the United States. Though these meetings are exceedingly interesting, I strongly incline to the opinion that many of the young ladies and gentlemen who are every day seen on the way to the camp ground are attracted there by the facilities which it presents for a quiet promenade under the shades of the friendly pine trees rather than by the oratorical display of these champions of the cause of temperance. Many changes have taken place at this beach during the past three years; new houses for the accommodation of visitors have been erected along the beach, the older houses have been renovated, a broad sidewalk has been laid from the Camp Ground Station (distant from Old Orchard depot about a quarter of a mile) to the camp meeting grounds, and evidences of a general improvement are everywhere apparent. The Old Orchard House continues to receive a number every season from Montreal, and is at the present time nearly full. By those who prefer to be on the beach, the Fiske and St. Cloud would be preferred. At the latter-named house a very pleasant party from Montreal, comprising the families of several of its most influential citizens, are spending the season. Undoubtedly the change the most striking to those who have been at Old Orchard for the past three or four seasons is in connection with the Ocean House. At the time the Old Orchard House was destroyed by fire in 1875, a number of its guests were obliged to go to the Ocean House, it then being almost the only other one at the beach, and the proprietor, pursuing an exceedingly short-sighted policy, charged them what they considered exorbitant prices for their accommodation, and by other means took an unfair advantage of their misfortunes; rumors of this spread far and wide, and as a natural result his house was nearly empty the next year, a state of affairs which has existed ever since up to the present season, when the proprietorship was assumed by Mr. John Lindsay so favorably known during the past five years as proprietor of the Fabyan House. Under his judicious management the Ocean House has been exceedingly popular, and was among the first filled this season. Mr. Lindsay's reputation as an obliging and thoroughly competent hotel manager has enabled him in one season to make a decidedly unpopular house the very reverse, and this unqualified evidence of an appreciation of his efforts to provide for the comfort of his guests in years past must be exceedingly gratifying to him. There is no lack of amusements at Old Orchard, for almost any evening a choice can be made from the bills presented at the different hotels of dancing, musical entertainments, theatricals, readings, &c., and the most of the guests of the different hotels are invited. A striking feature of most of these entertainments is that no admission fee is charged. At the Fiske House there is a fine Archery Club, originated by a young lady from Boston, who has attained great proficiency in the noble art of archery. I trust that Cupid will in due time, if indeed he has not already done so, transfix the heart of some gentleman worthy of her. Fiske House also boasts of a German class consisting of some twenty young ladies, who brought a German professor with them from Boston. Every moonlight evening large numbers of the residents of the place are on the beach, either watching the surf beating on the shore or enjoying a quiet promenade. Last evening a gentleman from Montreal with two young ladies, while walking on the beach, were surrounded by the incoming tide and he was compelled to ford a shallow part and get a board on which the ladies could cross. After they had successfully passed over he was coolly informed by them that they had hoped he would not come back, for by his return they were deprived of the opportunity of meeting their fates by whom they were to be rescued. Had he not returned their fate would have probably appeared in the humble garb of a fisherman, and might have been so disgustingly unromantic as to have made a pecuniary recompense the consideration, moving him to wet his feet on their behalf. I see by a Boston paper that the Canadian ladies at the St. Cloud, by a vote of 35 to 8, condemn the appointment of the Marquis of Lorne to the Governor-Generalship of Canada; this evidence of disapprobation was probably occasioned by the fear that a portion of Canadian society would be carried to extremes in their endeavors to suitably entertain so distinguished personages as the Marquis of Lorne and his royal lady. I may close by stating that many of the visitors who have remained at Old Orchard during the month of September, state that the weather is far pleasanter at the beach that month than during the month of August, as fogs are unknown in September, while August is certain to be more or less foggy.

Mr. L. R. Masson.

L'Evenement announcing that an almost unanimous requisition has been sent from the County of Terrebonne inviting Mr. Masson, at present in Europe, again to allow himself to stand for election, applauds this generous movement. Everyone knows that Mr. Masson has sacrificed his health to the work and anxiety which public life have imposed upon him. His constituents are, then, only manifesting towards him a proper expression of appreciation by re-electing him by acclamation in his absence. We have often combatted the opinions expressed by Mr. Masson, but have always rendered our testimony to the good faith and sincerity of his convictions, and Mr. Masson belongs, like Mr. Joly, to that small body of men of independent fortune as well as character, who devote themselves to public life without any idea of lucrative employment. Questions of party being put aside, we cannot have in public life too many men of like independent social position.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Labrador.

To the Editor of THE STAR:

SIR,—I have taken an interest in Labrador (i.e., the Canadian portion of it), for many years past, especially in regard to its natural history and inhabitants, and am grieved to read the statement in your issue of the 16th, as related to your reporter by Mr. Lewis, of Buffalo. I am, however, glad that the outrage did not take place in Canadian waters. If the captain of the "Maricaibo" allowed his vessel to be boarded by men whom he terms pirates, it is the duty of the American or Newfoundland authorities to look after them. The "Maricaibo" is a trader, and the people may have cause for stripping her. American fishermen have their own peculiar ways of obtaining fish and trading, and a few of the American vessels lately visiting the Newfoundland coast have made enemies by illegal fishing and unfair trading. Fishermen, as far as the Canadian coast in this region is concerned, have always welcomed traders. They (the Canadian Labradorians) are a hard working, honest people, fearing God and loving their country, full of hospitality, and it is a shame to see them so long neglected (politically speaking) by the Dominion Government. They live in our territory, and have a claim to rights from which they are isolated at present. I have no knowledge of the pirates mentioned by Mr. Lewis, but it is the duty of the French Government, as well as the Newfoundland Government, to investigate this charge, otherwise a trader, a sportsman or naturalist will have little chance of visiting these shores next summer. The case should be investigated.

Yours truly,
WM. COUPER,
Naturalist.

The Flour Inspectorship.

To the Editor of THE STAR:

SIR,—I have noticed lately in our evening papers several paragraphs referring to the appointment by Government of a Flour Inspector, to fill the place rendered vacant by the death of the late Hon. John Young. Judging from these paragraphs and street rumors, one would be led to suppose that either Mr. Boyer or Mr. Gingras must of necessity receive the appointment, and that no English-speaking candidate has the shadow of a chance. The reasons given for selecting one of these two out of the eight or ten gentlemen who received certificates of qualification are to my mind supremely ridiculous. The friends of Mr. Boyer say that he should be the choice of the Government—not because he is the best man, but because he spent some four thousand dollars on his elections, and that this would be a good opportunity to recoup him his election expenses. A corrupt administration might act thus, but a Reform Cabinet would not listen for a moment to such an argument. On the other hand the friends of Mr. Gingras say that he has the best right to the place because of certain obligations which he is said to be willing to assume. Fancy the occupant of any public position being expected to contribute to a pension fund annually, to the extent perhaps of half of his hard and well earned salary. This appointment is universally regarded as one of the first importance to the trade of Canada, and, in my opinion, the government, before proceeding to fill up the vacancy, would do well to consult with the members of the Board of Trade and Corn Exchange, and if this is faithfully done and their advice taken, I venture to predict that neither of the gentlemen named will be selected to fill the office in question.

Yours truly,
A MEMBER OF THE CORN EXCHANGE.

Cruelty to Animals.

To the Editor of THE STAR:

SIR,—In perusing the issue of yesterday of your paper, our attention was drawn to an item headed "Cruelty to Animals," in which it was stated that a valuable pointer dog was subjected to some brutal treatment in the vicinity of the St. Catherine street Fire Station (No. 10), the animal having to be shot on account of injuries received. It also states that the firemen of the before-mentioned station were implicated in the affair. It further goes on to say that most people in the neighborhood are of the opinion that the before-mentioned station requires the attention of the Fire Committee, also regretting that the firemen have not more employment. Now, Mr. Editor, feeling the gravity of the above charge, we wish to clear ourselves at once, by stating the true facts of the case, which are as follows:—For about a week or more the neighborhood has been infested by a large number of dogs of all kinds and sizes, and making themselves a very great nuisance to the whole neighborhood by their nefandous conduct during the day and hideous howling by night; and on Saturday last several large black dogs, together with the dog in question, assembled opposite a gentleman's residence adjoining the station and commenced their nefandous conduct, and we considered it our duty to drive them away, and took a whip to do so, and while the dogs were running away some person or persons, as yet unknown we believe, struck the dog in question. Hence arises the brutal treatment which was the cause of this valuable dog's death. These are the facts. Now, sir, we most emphatically deny the charge of striking or injuring the dog in any way whatsoever, and wish to state that the information your correspondent received was not from the daughter of a fireman, as he says, but from a little child, not yet six years old, who, according to her father's statement, was at tea when the occurrence took place. We, therefore, would welcome a strict investigation into the affair, as it would give your correspondent an opportunity of proving in what way we have made ourselves a pest rather than a protection to the locality. Trusting you will pardon us for trespassing so lengthy on your valuable space,

Your obedient servants,
THE FIREMEN OF NO. 10 STATION,
St. Catherine street.

Political.

The Conservatives of Belleville organize at a mass meeting on Thursday.

An attempt is being made to bring out Mr. Tourangeau to oppose the Hon. Wilfred Laurier in Quebec East.

It is understood in Toronto that Dr. Larratt Smith has received the Reform nomination for West Toronto. Both parties are busily organizing Ward Committees.

A. G. Blair, member elect for York County, N.B., in the Local Legislature, has resigned his seat in consequence of a protest filed by Dr. Dow. He offered himself for re-election.

Mr. Honore Mercier has been chosen the Reform candidate for St. Hyacinthe. A large meeting was held there yesterday, at which the Hon. Mr. Laurier and several other gentlemen delivered addresses.

Hon. Messrs. Mackenzie and Cartwright addressed a meeting at Summerside, P.E.I., on the 20th inst., at which 500 persons were present. Mr. Cartwright refused to answer questions put to him by a prominent citizen. It is said the meeting broke up cheering for Sir John Macdonald.

Hon. Donald A. Smith's first campaign meeting was held at Winnipeg, Man., on the 19th inst. Mr Smith spoke principally on railroad connection and free trade for Manitoba. Harty, one of the contractors for the Pembina branch, read a number of telegrams to and from the Government with reference to pushing the completion of the railway, and spoke at some length.

The St. John, N.B., papers publish the following list of Reform candidates in the Province:—St. John City, J S Boies DeVeber; St. John County, Hon Isaac Burpee, Charles W Weldon; King's County, Dr Sharpe; Restigouche, George Haddow; Albert, John Wallace; Northumberland, J B Snowball; Sunbury, Charles Burpee; Queen's, George G King; York, John Pickard; Charlotte, Hon A H Gilman; Carleton, S B Appleby; Westmoreland, Sir Albert J. Smith; Gloucester, Hon T W Anglin. Kent and Victoria are omitted.

Special Notices.

MONTREAL EAST.—The supporters of Mr. Justice Coursol are requested to meet to-day, the 21st inst., at 7:30 p.m., in the Protection Hall, No. 582 St. Catherine street, near Montcalm.

VEGETINE

Will Cure Rheumatism.

URBANA, O., Feb. 19, 1877.

MR. H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir,—I feel greatly indebted to your excellent medicine, VEGETINE, for what it has done for me. I have been subjected to Rheumatism all my life. Was attacked with it three years ago, and suffering terrible pains in my chest, back, and limbs for six or eight months, at which time I commenced using VEGETINE on the advice of a friend, who had been entirely cured by it. I had scarcely used a half bottle until the pain had left me, and my general health began to improve rapidly under the influence of this great blood purifier. I had also suffered dreadfully from a Nasal Catarrh for seven or eight years. After taking the first bottle of VEGETINE I noticed a great change for the better. The constant pain and heaviness that I had over my eyes for years disappeared, and the discharge of mucus from the head ceased. My appetite got better, and strength seemed to come with every dose of medicine. Too much cannot be said in its favor; and I always take pleasure in recommending it to my friends who may be suffering from any disease of the blood, for I feel satisfied if they try it they are sure of a cure.

I am, very respectfully, yours,
J. H. RHODES,
Manager Western Union Telegraph Office, Urbana, O.

VEGETINE

Will Cure Rheumatism.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 14, 1877.

MR. H. P. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir—I wish to inform you what VEGETINE has done for my family. Eighteen months ago my daughter had a severe attack of Rheumatism, and a friend who had used the VEGETINE advised her to try it, and she did so with perfect success, for after using a few bottles of it she became entirely cured. I am myself, at the present time, using the VEGETINE for Rheumatism with good success. My other daughter has also used the VEGETINE for Catarrh and Nervous Debility, and has been greatly benefited by its use. I have also recommended it to many others with good success, and I honestly believe that the VEGETINE is the best medicine for the above named diseases that there is, and I always wish to keep it in my house as a family medicine.

VEGETINE

A Family Medicine.

CINCINNATI, O., April 11, 1877.

MR. H. R. STEVENS,—

Dear Sir, I have been troubled and suffered a great deal from Catarrh. I have tried many remedies; they did not cure me, and benefited me but very little; and dear sir, by using your medicine I cured the VEGETINE I have been cured. My niece was cured entirely of Rheumatism by using your medicine, VEGETINE, so she is able to attend to her studies at school. She feels very thankful for your medicine, for she has been a great sufferer from Rheumatism. I would say to one and all: Try the VEGETINE for such complaints. A few bottles will cure you.

With respect, yours truly,
DAVID ARNET,
ELIZABETH ARNET (his wife),
135 Bayonville street.
JESSIE CORT (his niece),
Everett street, Cincinnati, O.

Mr. Arnet is a large real estate owner, a wealthy man, an old resident and well known in Cincinnati.

Rheumatism is a Disease of the Blood.

The blood in this disease, is found to contain an excess of fibrin. VEGETINE acts by converting the blood from its diseased condition to a healthy circulation. One bottle of VEGETINE will give relief, but to effect a permanent cure it must be taken regularly, and may take several bottles, especially in cases of long standing.

WE have several answers to correspondents awaiting publication.

SINCE O'Donovan Rossa resigned the Presidency, the receipts of the Fenian Skirmishing Fund have fallen off from about $1,000 a week to but little over $100.

MR. ARCHIBALD FORBES, the well-known Daily News war correspondent, after passing through all the hardships of the recent war, has been compelled to leave Cyprus on account of the malaria of that unhealthy island.

THE Ministerial political wave representing Dominion and Quebec politics is about to roll over the Eastern Townships next week, the two Premiers, the Minister of Finance and their colleague of the Inland Revenue, having the intention to cause the roaring of the breakers to be heard in those some time unaccustomed remote regions.

WE publish the address of Mr. M. H. Gault, one of the candidates for Montreal West. His confession of faith on Trade questions has about it the right ring, while what he says as to economy and retrenchment is no more than the necessity of the case demands. We want a national policy in all that the expression means, and the country will not be content until it obtains it, from whomsoever hands that may be.

NOT a little speculation as to the whys and wherefores of the occurrence has been caused by the fact of Canadians having had to go from home to hear the news of the date of the approaching elections, the New York Herald being, perhaps, the first to give definite announcements regarding them. Has it become the practice, for safety's sake, to send announcements by the way of New York?

GENERAL SHERMAN has just written to the Superintendent of the Michigan Military Academy a letter on military education, in which he says he deems such schools not only most important, but really essential to the national welfare. He gives as his reason for this opinion that military grouping enables the head to ensure attention and impart instruction. Further, drill sets up the boy, betters the physique, trains the juvenile to the use of arms, and for all these reasons a military school is the best possible preparation for a skilled militia or army of volunteers. The General further recommends regular military inspection, and that everything be done to perfect such institutions and approximate them as nearly as possibly to the regular standards. These are reflections which our school directors may well consider, as they encourage those which have already launched out in this direction, and may stimulate others to go and do likewise.

THE culling of deals at Quebec, as well as the regulation of matters connected with pilotage, have been subjects which have caused the Dominion authorities considerable difficulty. They have conferred upon them no amount of patronage, but the offices have not been regulated in a manner that has been at all satisfactory. The systems have been more or less modified, but still without affording what was required, either by the individuals employed, or by the persons interested in the proper transaction of the business. In connection with the cullers department, during the last session at Ottawa, there was an interesting discussion, and a variety of suggestions were offered, but still a conclusion was not reached. Now, we notice that an interview has taken place at Quebec between the merchants and shippers and a Government official, when the subject was freely discussed apart from any extraneous considerations, the apparent result being the desire to abolish the Supervisor's Office, or make it entirely distinct from any Government connection, granting independent commissions to all cullers passing an examination, subject to a board of survey. On the occasion to which we refer, during last session, a contention which seemed strongly to commend itself was, that in lumber, no more than in other lines, was a Government brand necessary, since that gradually the excellence of a brand would commend itself, make itself sought after, and give to the product a value even superior to what the mechanical mark of a Government official could confer.

THERE are those who, with specific objects in view, are endeavoring to frighten the public from the contemplation of the subject of a readjustment of the Canadian tariff, in the sense of fostering our struggling industries—among other things, by representing it as useless, impracticable, sectional, and, indeed, disloyal and Communistic in its tendency. With respect to the utility of Protection, we need only refer to the experience of Germany, which through the great Chancellor, as has previously been shown, has determined to give to its operatives and manufacturers the benefits of a measure of protection Great Britain has, through the applications of many of her capitalists and industrials, approved the same principle, while her statesmen of both political parties have admitted the legitimacy, indeed the urgency of the claims of the last-mentioned. Doctrinaires of Free Trade in Europe, as well as in the United States and Canada, have been accustomed to enforce upon us the claims of their own peculiar fiscal ideas, which, said they, had been shown by experience to be superior to anything that had ever been previously or subsequently devised; but when we have come to the men who have had the practical experience of the ...ed its system, and have personally ... declaring effects, they have been a ...sely to free in favor of protection, an..., it is to the trade, which, every on... to maintain. interests of the ...icability of protection. Then, as to the ...ar different experience, we have ... people of the United on the pat...der it, built up their industries, wh..., moreover, flourished to such tries, an... they have been enabled, not a de...vershadow us, their most adjacent ...ors, but to carry dismay into the ...ts of the manufacturers of distant ...urope, who, in some instances, have had the advantage over them of protective duties, well as that increased protection afforded by the cost of transportation across the Atlantic, as well as other attendant charges. It is well known that, had we in Canada made some concessions to France in the matter of articles in which our revenue tariff pressed hardly upon that country we should have been enabled to secure freer access to some of her markets, as well as have had greater facilities for the obtainment of her supplies. It is thus manifest that the term a readjustment of our tariff was the proper one to apply, for it not only means a building up, but a levelling down, in some particulars. The idea that a protection afforded in this way would be of no use for protective purposes is one of those exploded fallacies which nowadays, for want of a better argument, there are those who will not hesitate to revive. Our United States friends fully recognize in their own case the necessity for a similar policy, but they are not prepared to do what we Canadians seem willing to adopt as our policy the allowing of persons with whom they trade to come in as they please with their products; but to keep them, the Americans, out with their productions whenever the idea may seem to commend itself. Of their negotiations with France, a protectionist country like themselves, for trade facilities, some of their writers say they shall be disposed to take more stock in the matter when they see it proposed by the French Government in terms acceptable to their own. They say: "The proposals so far made by the energetic gentlemen on the other side scold us a little for our tariff and then recommend a revision of the duties on French silks, wines and spirits. Of course, we expect that; now then what is the quid for this quo. What are you going to do for us in turn? Does the French tariff need no revision! Our principal exports to France are food staples and raw materials which it is for her interest to get as cheaply as possible, but American manufactures are rigidly excluded." Can not the Canadians utilize this argument in their own case? A firm policy, possibly it need not go the lengths of retaliation, the Americans manifestly think would be eminently practical, and that is all that we require in Canada; only it must be dictated and regulated on common sense and business principles. Then, how should it be sectional? Are we not all one Canadian nationality? Are there not special interests in each part of the country which require some consideration, and by a readjustment, as experience may show to be necessary, would not each be benefitted, and would not a grand national policy in this way be inaugurated? To talk of sectionalism as has frequently been done is merely with a view to raise that feeling and is only the work of those who are entitled to the appellation unpatriotic, which it is sought by them to apply to others. Where does the disloyalty come in? Great Britain has accorded to Canada certain powers and prerogatives in dealing with other peoples which, in view of the existing sentiment within her own borders, she would not seek to restrain unless it went altogether beyond the bounds which no one seriously contemplates in connection with the Canadian national policy proposals. Then as to the subject of loyalty in general it is criminal, under existing circumstances, when to none can sound exception be taken, to raise such an issue and to throw in such an apple with the intention of promoting discord. So far as this affected Communistic fear, those who make use of it strengthen themselves upon a recent declaration of ex-Governor Seymour of New York, when he is reported to have said:—"The communist is only a highly developed tariff man, who believes that the Government makes the prosperity of a country and should interfere with the business of its citizens. They both believe that the property of one should be given to another to make his business prosper. The one says this should be done by a division. The other reaches the same end by taxation." Now it may fairly be asked whether or not there is not a wonderful distinction between the Communist and the high tariff man. The former wishes to share and share alike with his neighbors, no matter the cost to the country, or no matter how great the loss may be to the individual, who, up to the time of the partition, was much better circumstanced than himself; not so with the high tariff man. He has not only labor, but he has capital interests at stake, and knows that by a policy of tariff adjustment—protection if the word may be considered more suitable—both those interests will be advantaged, and the country generally benefitted. The one is essentially selfish, while we all know that in many instances, in the case of the others, establishments have been maintained in operation long after they have ceased to be profitable, the sole reason for this being to avoid the disaster and the suffering which would be the inevitable consequence. We are told that it is a fact that cannot be disputed that communism flaunts itself most prominently and defiantly in those countries where protection principles have been adopted and are maintained—in Germany, France and the United States. The saying is that a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, and is it not another fact that so far as labor agitations are concerned Great Britain has suffered from them in a degree to her facilities and resources as much as those countries of which we have been reminded? Let us by all means have home manufactured legitimate issues brought into the controversy instead of foreign importations like those which we have discussed.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—The Treasurer Montreal General Hospital acknowledges the receipt of $5 from S. M. J.

GENERAL HOSPITAL.—The number of patients treated for week ending 19th inst. was: Outdoor, relieved, 529; indoor, average daily, 117.

IN TOWN.—Mr. J. Q. Perley, proprietor of Stanwix Hall, Rome, N.Y., and formerly of the Ottawa Hotel here, is in town, and stopping at the Ottawa.

THE Central Vermont Railroad Company are getting up a grand excursion to New York on 30th and 31st inst. The price for the round trip will be only ten dollars.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—There are several communications on our table to which, by reason of their length and the strain upon our columns, it is impossible to give publicity.

THE BON PASTEUR.—A bazaar has been opened in this institution for its benefit, under the auspices of Mgr. Fabre. Among the features are a poll upon the subject of whether the Liberals or the Conservatives are the most generous.

ASSAULT.—William Simms, laborer, for assaulting William Riordan, was fined $2 50, with $1 costs, or fifteen days, by the Recorder yesterday. Mr. Washlow, charged with assaulting the same person, was dismissed. A counter-charge against William Riordan was discontinued.

ROBBING ORCHARDS.—Gangs of men make a practice, almost every night, of breaking into orchards at Cote St. Henri and Cote St. Paul and carrying off quantities of fruit. A number of parties have been arrested and brought before the municipal courts for this offence, but the penalty not being enough the nuisance has not abated in any way.

THE STUDY OF MELODY.—Mr. George T. Bulling, a young and rising musical critic and composer of this city, has an able article on "The Study of Melody" in the last number of The Music Trade Review of New York—a high-class musical publication. Mr. Bulling displays a thorough knowledge of his subject, and treats it in a comprehensive and popular style.

DEATH OF A NEWSBOY.—We much regret to have to announce the death of James O'Loughlin, one of the best of newsboys, who by his obliging character and, best of all, unswerving honesty, had generally commended himself. He has sold papers for some years and had secured a custom which for his line may be said to have been rather extensive. He had been unwell for some short time prior to his death.

DENIED.—Mr. Thomas Noel, saloon-keeper, from whom four bottles of whisky were obtained by a disreputable character under false pretences, denies that he sold it on Sunday. The liquor was obtained on Monday, and Mr. Noel being duly licensed, of course no action can be taken against him. He states that he has been in the saloon business in this city twenty-five years, and during all that time the police have never had a complaint against him.

A DISHONEST CLERK.—Zephirime Legault, formerly employed as head clerk in Mr. A. Pilon's dry goods establishment, has been arrested by Detective Cinq Mars for stealing $150 worth of silks, kid gloves, &c., and $50 in money, from that firm. The delinquent was discharged from the service of the Messrs. Pilon some time ago, before the losses caused by her had been discovered. All the goods were recovered; some were found in Montreal, and the remainder in the town of Valleyfield, P.Q., where the prisoner went after losing her situation.

INSOLVENT COURT.—Before Hon. Mr. Justice Johnson—Application was made to order the assignee to discontinue proceedings upon the sale of real estate belonging to the estate of W. J. Nelson, also in the case of E. Dandurand, the claimant Labelle making default to dismiss the claim. In the case of C. E. Pariseau exception was taken to the pretension of the assignee that the exhibits ought to be produced in the claim of the Cape Gibraltar Land Co. These applications are to be urged before the Judge.

BRIEFLETS.—Hon. L. S. Huntington, Postmaster-General, is staying at the Windsor.... The Ethan-Allan Engine Fire Company, of Burlington, Vermont, after taking an excursion down the St. Lawrence on August 29th, will remain for a day in this city.... The water main on St. Denis street at the corner of Sherbrooke street burst last night. The Water Department was notified.... Thomas Doubarre, 44, shoemaker, was picked up drunk in Fulford street by the police yesterday afternoon. On reaching the station he was so ill that Dr. Leprohon had to be sent for.

DAMAGING PROPERTY.—Patrick Rooney brought an action in the Police Court yesterday charging a tenant of his named Julie Mercier with maliciously damaging his property by destroying a Venetian blind. Mr. D. Barry appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. E. Roy for the defence. After a number of witnesses, whose evidence was of little importance, had been examined, a rather nervous old gentleman known as Lariviere Lafferty, the authorized agent of Mr. Rooney's property, was placed in the box. Questions asked by the Court and the lawyers followed one another so rapidly that the unfortunate witness was fairly nonplused, and answered his interrogators in rather a vague manner. When asked what time the offence was committed, he said it was done between the time the lease was taken and Mr. Rooney's return from England. The advocate for the defence said he did not know what date that was, to which the witness replied neither did he, as he kept no account of time. The damage could not be proved to have been done with malicious intent, and was accordingly dismissed with costs against the plaintiff.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.—It is rare indeed that a city fireman is reported for dereliction of duty or disobedience of orders, and such a state of discipline reflects credit on the whole, body both officers and men. It is, however, the imperative duty of the Chief of the Brigade not to look too leniently upon any infraction of orders that may wilfully occur on the part of the men, but to carry out discipline rigorously, although it may be painful in some cases to do it. The case of Moise Aumond of No. 8 Station, as laid before us, is one of apparent hardship. At a late fire it appears he let the hose fall, as he claims, accidentally, and failed to ascend the ladder higher than a certain point, although ordered by the Chief to do so. Now if Aumond wilfully disobeyed his Chief's orders, then nothing can be said in his favor, and Mr. Patton would not be doing his duty if he failed to dismiss the man from the service; but Aumond asserts that he did not hear the order given on account of the noise incident to a fire, or he would have obeyed it at any personal risk. He has been eleven years in the force, is a married man with a family, and bears, we are informed, a good character. If the case, as presented herein, be true in all its essential features, and the Chief is probably the best judge in the matter, it is one in which he can exercise that leniency which will, we are sure, be congenial to him. The dismissal of an old public servant for not obeying an order he did not hear would be going to extremes.

MONTREAL CENTRE.—This evening and to-morrow evening the friends of Mr. M. P. Ryan are requested to meet at 474 St. Joseph street, between Lusignan and Guy streets, to organize committees for canvassing, &c.

Henshaw, Esq., occupied the chair. The attendance was more influential than numerous. The doctor's views on this important subject have already appeared in THE STAR.

Religious Activity in Canada.

The New York Evening Post says:—"There seems to be a great deal of religious activity in the Dominion of Canada. So zealous are the rival Roman Catholic and Protestant factions that a handful of neither party can get together, as in Ottawa yesterday, without shooting and being shot at. These riotous proceedings may be regarded as a good way of saving men's souls, but it strikes us that they ought to be much more efficacious in filling Canada jails."

GENTLEMEN,—I received a package of your Blood Purifier, and gave it to a horse that was in wretched condition. After the fourth dose he got rid o a large quantity of small white worms. No man would believe, to see their quantity, that the horse could live in such a condition. After a few days he seemed to brighten, and gradually got fat. Now he is in splendid condition and good spirits, and I am certain all the change is owing to Dick's Blood Purifier.

A DRUGGIST'S TESTIMONY.
Gentlemen,—We have been selling SANDFORD'S RADICAL CURE for the last year. MONTREAL WEST.

To the Electors of the Electoral Division of Montreal West:

GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of the Conservative Associations of this City, and a large number of my fellow-citizens generally, I have consented to become a candidate for the representation in the House of Commons of the Electoral Division of Montreal West.

In soliciting your suffrages, I deem it my duty to state frankly to you the policy which would guide me if honored with your confidence.

The country is undoubtedly in the midst of a very severe commercial and industrial crisis; how severe is unfortunately too well known to us all, and especially to the working classes. Without charging upon the present Government the full responsibility for this state of things, I am convinced that it was in their power, by the adoption of some changes in the tariff, to have greatly mitigated the distress. Their refusal to do this; their declaration that it is not in the power of Governments to avert commercial disaster, or promote commercial prosperity, has earned for them, in my opinion, the condemnation of the people, and if elected as your representative, I would not hesitate to use the votes you give me to remove them from the position they hold.

Regarding as I do this trade question as beyond all others in importance, especially to this City of Montreal, I would, if elected, support no Government which did not undertake in an honest and patriotic spirit to inaugurate such a national policy as would promote commerce and manufactures and develope the material resources of the Dominion.

I have confidence in the profession of the present Parliamentary Opposition to adopt this course, and I should therefore unite with them in the work.

I believe that while in this country we should not shrink from such outlay as may be necessary for its development, every effort should be made to reduce by a wise economy as far as possible the expenditures of the Government.

If elected as your representative, my constant effort will be to promote in every way possible the interests of this city and the Dominion at large.

Soliciting your support at the polls,

I am,
Gentlemen,
Your obt. Servant,
M. H. GAULT.

MRS. LOVELL'S
YOUNG LADIES' CLASS.
The plan adopted by MRS. LOVELL is that so successfully pursued by the late MISS LYMAN in this city (previous to her appointment as Lady Principal of Vassar College), and aims to unite the advantage of sound literary training with the pleasure and safeguards of home. Only those are admitted who have already been thoroughly grounded in the elementary branches, and the Class is limited to such number as will permit of direct personal supervision to each member.
MRS. LOVELL's scheme of education is based upon the principle that the office of Instructor is not simply to teach the pupil what to remember, but how to think; not so much to make the scholar, as to show her how to make herself. To this end her special aim is the development of the powers of acquiring and reasoning, and stimulating desire to use them.
Critical discussions on literature, art and current events form an important feature of the course, serving to secure from the pupils intelligent and practical interest in their studies, and, at the same time, cultivating fluency in expression and the habit of correct speech.
The regular course of study embraces History, English Literature, Composition, Rhetoric, Mathematics, reading aloud from the British Classics and other standard works, and Vocal Music, (Singing at sight.) Extra course includes the French and German languages and Instrumental Music.
An evening of each week is devoted to French Conversation exclusively, on a subject previously selected, and under the direction of the Master. The Class generally is expected to take part in the conversation.
While sectarianism is studiously avoided, the Bible is made the standard and guide in morals and Government of the Class, and every effort is made to impress upon pupils a full sense of their duties and responsibilities as Christian women.

COMMERCIAL

August 21.

Gently, but surely, by degrees is the price of wheat in the West settling down to the point from which speculators adroitly managed to scare it a short time since. Wheat in Chicago this morning eased off to 92⅞c for August, and 89⅞c for September. The English wheat markets remain quiet and undisturbed in view of the favorable prospects for good home crops, which will in all probability more than make up for the aggregate of damages sustained in Ontario, Minnesota, &c. The flour market on 'Change to-day was dull and inactive, with lower prices obtaining all round. The only sale reported was 200 bbls of Superior Extra at $5. Extra was offered at $4 90; Spring Extra at $4.80; Superfine at $4.50, and Strong Bakers at $4 90 and $5. Yesterday afternoon a fair business was done in Superior Extra at $5, and City Bags at $2.50.

The provision market is generally weak and unsettled. Pork in Chicago sold down to $9.37½ for September, and $9.50 for October this morning, but slightly rallied afterwards. Mess pork here is in very light request, prices ranging from $13.75 to $14; thin mess is very scarce, and would command $13. Lard is dull of sale at 10c to 10½c in pails. Montreal sugar cured hams are in limited demand at 12½c, sales being reported at 12c. Canvassed hams are offered at 12½c to 13c. Eggs are in ample supply and offered at 9c to 10c without meeting with any response from buyers. The butter market continues to drag along in its usual quiet mood, and may be expected to do so until cooler weather sets in. Farmers have commenced to sell in some sections, but they are inveterate opponents of the system now in vogue of throwing out the culls, but they have to submit to it in order to make sales.

There is a demand for fancy Townships at 15c to 16c for export. Other kinds drop into the shade of low prices and dull trade. The cheese market is just now in that position that were it to advance or recede it would cause no surprise. We quote 8c to 8½c for choice July cheese. Ashes, $4 to $4.15 per 100 lbs. for pots, $4.15 being offered.

Receipts of produce, &c., by Grand Trunk Railway and Canal to-day were 44,429 bushels of wheat, 25,830 bushels of corn, 800 bushels of peas, 610 bushels of oats, 9,342 bushels of barley, 4,748 brls of flour, 81 brls of ashes, 384 packages of butter, 5,061 boxes of cheese.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21, 10:28 a.m.—Wheat, 89⅞c September; 88½c October. Corn, 38⅛c to 38⅜c August; 38⅜ to 38½c September; 38⅝c October. Oats, 21⅝c to 21⅞c August; 22⅛c September; 22⅜c October. Old barley, $1.11 September; $1.03½ Oct. Pork, $9.40 September; $9.52½ bid October. Lard, $7.12½ bid September; $7.15 bid October.

The gross earnings of twenty-one railroads in the United States for the seven months from January 1st to July 31st, foot up $43,550,316—a net increase of $3,835,945, or nearly 10 per cent. Only six of the 21 show a decrease, amounting to $401,939, of which $288,456 was suffered by two roads, the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, and International and Great Northern. The operating expenses have doubtless been considerably reduced from last year. On the whole, the figures are encouraging.

A meeting of the Council of the Quebec Board of Trade and of parties interested in the cutting of timber and deals was held yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of conferring with Mr. Miall, Deputy Minister of Inland Revenue, respecting proposed amendments to the Cullers' Act. The lumber merchants and shippers seemed in favor of abolishing the Supervisor's Office, or of making it entirely distinct from any Government connection, and granting independent commissions to all cullers passing an examination, subject to a board of survey.

The British Sugar Market.

Aug. 2nd.

The chief business has been in West India sugar on the spot, for which importers have shown an inclination to accept easier prices, particularly for the lower qualities and one or two of the leading refineries have bought freely. Good grocery sorts; however, are still well maintained. Floating cargoes are in better demand, but the supply of good refining qualities has been short, for these comparatively full prices would be obtained for the continent, while inferior sorts are more difficult of sale. Looking at the smaller quantities now afloat and the reduced stocks in France and the United States, the position remains good, while the prices are moderate. Of beet-root the continent has but little to spare between now and the next crop, and prices for ready sugars are firmly maintained. No business of importance has been entered into as yet for next crop, but speculative sales are reported of Austrian 88 per cent., much below the current local value. The total stocks at the chief ports of the United Kingdom was July 27, 191,133 tons, against 167,958 last year, 183,318 tons in 1876, and 197,093 tons in 1875. Imports July 27 this year 473,700 tons, against 183,734 tons in 1877. Deliveries 449,837 tons, against 404,607 tons in 1877. Sugar afloat for the channel and United Kingdom, 140,628 tons, against 59,543 tons last year, and to the continent 3,786 tons, against 8,786 tons last year.

Special Notice.

THE GUARDS.

What business man in Montreal would not be delighted to hear of a Regiment of the Guards, or any other regiment, coming to the city? If first class barrack accommodation were offered, free of rent, the chances are that if a requisition were sent home with such an offer, we should have a regiment out before the end of next summer, as soon as the barracks was ready to receive them.

HOW TO BUILD THEM.

We believe that if the Corporation would give the land, that the retail men in the city would furnish the funds to build the barracks. And now is the time to do it, when building can be done so cheaply, and so many men are wanting work.

Will the newspapers please say what they think of this? Perhaps some of our Aldermen will give an opinion on this matter.

VICE-REGAL RESIDENCE.

If the city would grant the land for both a Vice-Regal residence and barracks, and the city wholesalers undertake the former and the retailers the latter, the thing would be done at once, and we feel sure would be a grand success.

Daily experiences tend to show that the Ottawa Valley mining grounds are bound to become an inestimable source of richness for our country. New discoveries are made every day, and we just hear that Mr. Jean Bte. Leduc, of Hull, P.Q., a well known and experienced explorer, miner and overseer, formerly of Lake Superior, has lately made the discovery of a large bed of red phosphate of lime in the 12th range of the Township of Hull. This new mine can be worked easily with all possible chances of success, owing to its proximity to the Ottawa River.

For the Maritime Provinces, rising barometer, fresh westerly to northerly winds, cloudy to partly cloudy weather, with local rains.

City News.

The accused entered the store of Abraham Moses, a clothier on Bonaventure street, and took away a valuable coat, representing to the little niece of Mr Moses, who was in the shop, that he had advanced some money on it. About 60 of the immigrants, who were assisted with passages out by the Government, were served with supper at the Dominion Immigrant station. The fresh arrivals are all natives of Great Britain, and many of them belong to the agricultural class.

HOMELESS.—This morning at four o'clock Constables Knowles and Angers found five lads sleeping in a vacant shed and arrested them for stealing and vagrancy. The homeless boys were brought before the Recorder and were disposed of as follows:—Michael Penders, 15; John Enright, 15, and Patrick Maloney, 15, three years each in the Reformatory school; Thomas Coleman, 14, four years, do; John Sullivan, 17, one month in jail.

SIXTH FUSILIERS. — The annual Rifle Competitions of the Sixth Fusiliers—that city regiment which went, saw and conquered the hearts of the fair women and brave men of St. Albans, in the State of Vermont—will take place at Point St. Charles on Saturday. The Sixth are not only good-looking soldiers, but they are also practical men, well up to their duties, and are sure to run up some good scores in their various trials of skill. The prizes which have been offered are liberal, and the arrangements for the occasion ample.

NARROW ESCAPE.—About 9 o'clock last evening a buggy driven by a gentleman accompanied by a lady, came to grief near the foot of St. Antoine street, by the wheel getting foul of the car-track. The horse became unmanageable, and the lady was thrown violently out but was saved from being crushed under the wheels by the presence of mind of a young man who was passing and who seized the horse's head, extricated the lady and carried her fainting into an adjacent grocery, where she was soon revived sufficiently to thank her rescuer, and be conveyed home with luckily only a few bruises resulting from the mishap.

THE RUSSIAN AMBASSADOR at Washington, Baron Shishkin, at present at the Windsor, where he has received many visits, will not leave the city for a few days, on account of the indisposition of one of his suite. He is possessed of immense estates in the vicinity of Moscow, and is very popular among all classes in his native land. He is an old friend of Lord Dufferin, whom he first met about twenty years ago. At present he is in Canada on a vacation, and proposes, ere he returns to the scene of his diplomatic duties to visit Quebec, the White Mountains, Boston and New York. It is by no means improbable that the Baron will receive the next appointment to the Court of St. James.

RECORDER'S COURT — WEDNESDAY. — Nine cases:—James Murray, 50, shoemaker, drunk and fighting in a house in Amherst street, $2.50 or 15 days. Alfred Montmarquet, 13, trader, driving without a license, and Rose Wallace, 26, wife of James Connell, drunk and fighting, were both discharged. Margaret Foley, 59, wife of Michael Mahoney, drunk in a house in Cathedral street, two months for vagrancy. Five boys, named John Sullivan, 17; Thos. Coleman, 14; Michael Penders, 15; John Enright, 15, and Patrick Maloney, 15, for lying in a vacant shed, and being vagrants, were sentended as follows:—Sullivan, one month in jail; Coleman, four years, and the remaining three for three years each in the certified Reformatory school, Mignonne street.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—A correspondent writes:—"I would wish to draw the attention of some of the members of the "Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals" to St. Hubert street, from the corner of Mignonne street to some blocks farther up. Yesterday (Sunday), all day long, at different intervals, the piercing cries of a dog in great suffering were heard, in that direction, and so painful and agonizing, that I was in hopes each cry would be the last, as I surely thought they must be killing it. But, no! Again and again; now, sharp and piercing—then, piteous in the extreme—made it most unbearable at times, till at 2 o'clock p.m. I could stand it no longer; I must see what was the matter, as I had just heard a voice, in French, say "Beat it! Beat it!" I stepped out, and just in time to see a young, well-dressed lad, from one of the houses, carrying a small black-and-tan dog, walk with it to the end of the pavement, and fling it down with all his might. The poor creature must have fallen on his back, from the way the boy held him, and again he set up most piteous cries. I was too far to go up to him, and had only to quietly bear. How persons living near (as this happened at the end of a new block of buildings, and seemingly all respectably occupied), could suffer this to go on all day without interfering, or if they did it was to little avail, I cannot understand. If persons are not able or not willing to pay the tax of $2 for a dog, then let them, in the name of humanity, put an end to the poor creature's existence, but not torture and starve it, as this poor little black-and-tan must certainly be. The attention of the police should be drawn to the corners of Mignonne and St. Hubert streets, as there are a number of rough, bad boys in the neighborhood that are quite a nuisance, and an example or two in such cases of cruelty would be of great use in teaching severe lessons to a class of boys that are a disgrace to the city. By inserting this, Mr. Editor, you will greatly oblige."—August 19th.

Canadian Chess Association.

At the morning sitting of the Chess Association, Von Bokum won against Holt, of Quebec; Dr. Howe won against White, of Quebec; Holt won against Henderson, and Isett won against Dr. Loverin. Games are in progress between Von Bokum and White, Saunders and Hicks. Some idea of how the matches will result will be arrived at to-night.

No Additional Police.

Ald. Clendinneng's motion to augment the police force of the city by the addition of 25 constables came up yesterday before the Finance Committee in secret session. The Mayor was present and stoutly opposed the motion, using such very strong language it is reported that it drew forth a vigorous reply from Ald. Clendinneng. On a division the motion was lost so that the city must be protected this year, at least, with the present force.

Deserting a Seaman.

Richard Marshall, master of the ship "Governor," now in the port of Montreal, has been taken into custody by High Constable Bissonette, charged with abandoning one of his crew in a strange port. Charles Brown, the marine in question, was a properly engaged able seaman, and he declares that the captain unlawfully, wilfully and wrongfully sailed away, and left him at Picton, Nova Scotia, on the 22nd of July last, while the ship was on her trip from Liverpool to Montreal. The accused gave bail until to-morrow, when he will appear to answer the charge.

POLITICAL ECHOES.

Another Candidate Talked of—Ald. McShane not in the Field.

The Liberal party is moving very slowly, but the leaders allege they are making progress in selecting candidates for the West and Centre. The latest reports say that Capt. Shepherd is the favorite for the West, but he has not yet been consulted, and it is not known whether he would feel inclined to enter into the turmoil of an election. Mr. Devlin is making progress towards recovery, but there is little chance of his being able to take a personal part in the contest. It is probable he will be nominated by his friends in his absence. Ald. McShane denies that he has put himself forward. He is quite satisfied with his present position, and has no aspirations to be returned to the House of Commons. The Conservatives are working night and day. It will not be their fault if Montreal does not return three Opposition members. The betting is in favor of their doing so.

THE YELLOW FEVER AT MATANZAS.

A Terribly Afflicted City.

The crew of the ship "Lane," now in quarantine below this city, were all down with the disease in Matanzas, Cuba, except the cook. With the exception of the master, Captain Shute, they were placed in a hospital. Captain Shute, whose case was worse than all, was taken to a private house, where he was seized with the black vomit and died in a few days. One of his seamen also died, making four deaths in all on the two ships. Captain Shute's home was in Searsport, Maine, where he leaves a family. As soon as the news of Captain Shute's death reached the owners in New York his brother, Captain Alonzo Shute, left New York for Matanzas to bring home the vessel. The latter is an old seaman himself, and has been numerous times before in ports where yellow fever was raging, "but," says he, "I never again want to see the sights I witnessed when I reached Matanzas. I was there about a week and left there on the 6th of this month. Every building seemed a lazar house where men were continually carrying in the sick and taking out the dead. The first night I spent in the fever-stricken city served to show me the situation in all its horrors. As I went up to my room in the hotel where I put up I saw a man lying on his bed in an adjoining room in his death struggles, gasping with the black vomit in his throat and mouth. In the rooms around me the cries and groans of the sick kept me awake all night. Early in the morning I left my room heart-sick, and determined not to pass through such another night if it was possible to help it. As I groped my way along the hall I ran against two colored men carrying something down stairs. It was a coffin containing a dead body. When I got down stairs I saw two waggons drawn up before a side door. They were half full of coffins, containing the bodies of those who had died through the night. The next night I steered clear of the hotels and went to sleep in a ship-chandler's establishment. Here I found the place equally as bad as the hotel. It was full of the sick and dying. As soon as the seamen of the "Lane" were able to sail I left the place in command of her by appointment of the owners. This, as I said before, was on the 6th of August. We put the body of my brother, the captain, in rum."—Philadelphia Times.

A GENTLE REMINDER.—Two men, James Laskey, 58, carter, and Pierre Nimser, 43, laborer, had a fight on Craig street, near Bleury street, at ten o'clock this morning. They were taken before the Recorder, who fined them 50 cents each or two days.

RETURNING HOME.—A great many Canadians are returning home from the Paris Exhibition by every steamship. It is said many were prevented getting passages the rush home is so great at present, and the accommodation being secured in advance.

STEALING A KNIFE.—A few days ago one Michel Benard entered the house of Theophile Bertrand, at Longueuil, and managed to secrete on his person a silver butter knife valued at $1.50. The loss was soon afterwards discovered, and Benard arrested on suspicion. He was found guilty at the Police Court to-day and sent to jail for ten weeks.

SPECIAL SESSIONS.—This morning George Robertson, a thief by occupation, was sent to the penitentiary for three years by Hon. Judge Coursol, for breaking into the dwelling house of Mr. E. A. WATER WORKS MEASUREMENT.

The Whelan Contract—No Report Submitted of the Excess of Measurement.

The question is being asked almost daily why the Superintendent of Water Works does not present his report to the Committee on the excess of measurement by which Whelan & Co. have been paid some $8,000 in excess upon their contract for the McTavish Reservoir. Mr. Lesage has already acknowledged there was a fraud in the measurement, and although he has had the report for weeks past of his surveyor who checked the measurements, yet he does not come forward with the matter in a shape to show how he alowed the city to be defrauded. The Committee is very long suffering, but it is time they put an end to the present suspense.

RENTING HOUSES FOR IMMORAL PURPOSES.

Francois Xavier Beaudry Fined $200.

At the Recorder's Court to-day, Francois Xavier Beaudry, proprietor of 200 houses and several steamers, of 130 and 154 St. Charles Borrommee street, was charged with letting houses to disreputable characters for infamous purposes. Mr. H. J. Ibbotson, Clerk of the Court, conducted the case for the city, and Mr. Alfred Dalbec, advocate, for the defence. Sergeants Isaie Gauthier and Louis Lapointe, of No. 4 Police station, testified to the fact of the houses, Nos. 71 and 73 St. Elizabeth street, being occupied by lewd women. Receipts were produced showing that Aurelie Lessard had paid the rent of these premises to F. X. Beaudry's agent, Francois Mandeville, notary. Several keepers of houses of prostitution gave evidence that they rented their houses from Mr. Beaudry or his agents, who were aware of the purpose for which they were rented. Mrs. Mary A. Sutherland, of No. 69 St. Elizabeth street, testified as to the disorderly character of the inmates of Nos. 71 and 73. His Honor the Recorder then sentenced the defendant, who was not present, but appeared by his counsel, to a fine of $200 or six months imprisonment. Notice of appeal to the Court of Queen's Bench was immediately given by the counsel for the defence. He took exception to the law under which the conviction was made, and contended that the Quebec Government had no power to pass such a law, which could only be legally enforced when passed by the Dominion Government.

The Meeting of Railway Magnates.

A private despatch from Saratogo says:—"Think things will result satisfactorily to the railway kings assembled here."

FINANCIAL.

August 21.

The money market is steady with a fair amount of business doing. An encouraging feature at the moment is the fact that the improvement in the demands for capital is owing exclusively to the legitimate requirements of trade, there being less desire to enter into the risks of speculation. Call loans can be negotiated at from 4 to 5 per cent. and time loans at 6 to 7. Mercantile paper is discounted at 7 and 8 per cent. Sterling Exchange is steady at 8⅞ to 9 premium for round amounts between banks and 9⅛ counter rates. Documentary bills are worth 8⅛ to 8¼ premium. Gold in New York is worth 100⅝, and Sterling Exchange in New York 485

The stock market to-day was rather irregular. Montreal was very strong, selling at 170¾, with 171 at the close. Merchants' likewise advanced to 95, leaving off steady at that price bid. Montreal Telegraph was weaker, and Richelieu was slightly off. The following were the sales at the regular Stock Exchange this forenoon:—11 Montreal at 169, 20 do, 169½; 10 Ontario, 82; 24 Jacques Cartier, 44; 18 Merchants' 95; 25 Richelieu, 63. Afternoon sales:—26 Montreal at 170, 24 do, 170¾; 16 Merchants', 95, 24 do, 95; 25 Richelieu, 62¾, 25 do, 162½.

The Tannery Trade.

In times gone by the tannery business was a lucrative branch of commerce, and few went into it who did not manage to make handsome profits, but alas! like all other branches of manufactures it was doomed to experience a reverse, and about two years ago hard times struck it and in many instances completely wiped out its margin of gain, until tanners have as a rule become a grumbling class, but not without ample cause. For instance about three years ago, when they only paid $6 to $7 per 100 pounds for raw hides, they were getting 40c to 45c per pound for their leather, whilst now hides cost them $8 to $8.25 per 100 pounds, and leather is only worth from 30c to 33c per lb. Unfortunately the export trade offers no inducements for manufacturers to improve upon the situation, and the only course for them to pursue is to brave the storm like true sailors until good times come round again. We understand that tanners out West have been caught in a pretty rough squall of late, many of them having suffered severely from the wreck of the unseaworthy bark of Thorne, Parsons & Co., of Toronto, which it is said will prove a sore trial to many small tanners in Ontario, as it is likely to turn out a bad affair.

Cheese Market.

The tone of the cheese market at the moment is certainly more hopeful than it was about two weeks ago, shippers being more inclined to operate. The markets at Utica and Little Falls on Monday last were more satisfactory, offerings being pretty well cleaned up at prices ranging between 7½c and 8½c, which left only a few July cheese in those districts unsold. Although the shipments of cheese from New York last year were considered so enormous as to be almost incredible, yet this season they have been 28 per cent heavier. Last year up to July 25th the shipments from New York aggregated 38,000,000 pounds, whilst for the same period this year 49,000,000 lbs were shipped, showing an increase for the present season so far of 11,000,000 pounds, or nearly 200,000 boxes of cheese. A great many Canadian cheese were included in the above figures, at least two-thirds of the cheese from the Ingersoll and Stratford districts having been exported to England via New York this year. This week a Montreal exporting house having 5,200 boxes of cheese to ship to Liverpool from points West of Toronto, sent forward 5,000 boxes via New York. We find there is a shipping demand for really choice lots of late made cheese at 8c to 8½c, but we understand that 9c would have to be paid for August make. The excitement among factorymen out West does not subside, and a great many are undecided whether to accept 10c for their August, September and October cheese, or to take the chances further on in the season. The Liverpool public cable is reported firm at 44s for choice American, but we learn from private sources that 45s is the figure that is being paid for fine Canadian stock. Whether the recent improvement will prove permanent or not is a question upon which there are various opinions, some being sanguine that it will, whilst others are confident of a reaction. Sales of late have been made on spot upon a basis of 8c to 8½c for strictly choice descriptions, and 6c to 7½c for less desirable offerings.

The City Loan.

The question of the new city loan was before the Finance Committee yesterday. It appears that the applications for the amount have not been as numerous as expected. The probability is that the loan will be placed on the London market through the Bank of Montreal.

Excursion to Berthier and Sorel.

The committee formed for promoting the building of a Protestant Union Church at Cote St. Luc gave an excursion on Monday to Berthier and Sorel. The steamer "Three Rivers" was employed on the occasion, and she left the Bonsecours wharf about 9 a.m. Hecker's band was on board and contributed greatly to the pleasure of the excursionists, who were not so numerous as could be desired. A very pleasant day was spent. Messrs. Maynard, of the Scholastic News, John Anderson and John Gardner paid every attention to passengers. Mr. Robert Gardiner was called to the chair, and, with the other gentlemen, delivered addresses on the subject of the new church. Financially, the excursion was not a success; but with a collection taken up on board, the loss will not be heavy.

Extra Edition.

Evening Telegrams.

The London "Times" on Kearney and Butler.

LONDON, August 21.—The Times reprints interviews between Butler and Kearney, and has an editorial about them and the national party, in which it says of the latter it might become a serious danger to the republic if it were possible, for the discontented and ignorant masses who have attached themselves to it to pool their issues and combine against capital, but it is doubtful whether those who rave the most wildly against the society are not as firmly wedded, each of them to his own theories of re-construction, as most fanatics of old world creeds. The United States would have more to fear from Butlers and Kearneys, if their followers were less passionate, less ignorant of practical limitations of political action, and less torn by internal jealousies.

The French Elections.

PARIS, August 21. — The elections of Presidents of Council-General are believed to indicate that the senatorial elections will result in the establishment of a Republican majority in the Senate. The Monarchists and Bonapartists are discordant. The Orleanists in several departments voted with the Republicans.

Funeral of Montague.

NEW YORK, August 21.—The remains of H. J. Montague, actor, were followed today to Greenwood Cemetery by a large concourse of citizens, among whom were all the prominent members of the theatrical profession.

The Newark Regatta.

NEWARK, N.J., August 21.—There was a large attendance at the regatta to day. The water was somewhat rough. Considerable interest is manifested in the senior single scull, the contest in which Lee is the favorite, and on the four-oared race, in which the Mutuals, of Albany, are the favorites.

NEWARK, N.J., August 21.—The first race, four-oars, first heat, between Hope, of New Orleans, and Mutual, of Albany, the Mutuals came out six lengths ahead; time, 9:18⅖.

To Visit Montreal.

NEW YORK, August 21.—Dodworth's Band has been attached to the 13th Brooklyn regiment, and will make the trip to Montreal on the 24th of May next with that organization.

FROM OTTAWA.

Political—The Party Troubles—Grave Desecration — Stabbing Affray — Turf Club.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE STAR.]

OTTAWA, August 21.—The Reformers of the city meet to-night to select a candidate to run with Dr. St. Jean. The names of Hon. R. W. Scott, Mayor Bangs and Dr. Sweetland are mentioned in this connection.

At the Police Court this morning the investigation of the recent religious troubles was continued. Andrew Foster was committed for trial and Lawrence Whitly was remanded until to-morrow. Both were charged with disorderly conduct.

The Tighe brothers were committed for trial this morning on a charge of stealing a railing from a grave in the Sandy Hill Cemetery.

Last night, a serious row occurred in Rochesterville, during which a man named Macdonald stabbed David Cowbeck twice with a jack-knife. The wounds are of a dangerous character, one being in the vicinity of the heart and the other below the left ear. Macdonald has been arrested. The row grew out of a dispute over a girl, to whom both were paying their attentions.

A new Turf Club was organized last night, with Sheriff Powell as President.

City News.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL. — His Excellency Lord Dufferin and suite will arrive in town to-night at 9 o'clock, from the Townships.

PERSONAL.—Emmonds Raymond, Esq., President of the Connecticut & Passumpic Railway, arrived in town this morning on business connected with the line.

HANLAN AND COURTNEY.—A Committee of the Lachine Boating Club is busily engaged raising a subscription to offer inducements to have the Hanlan-Courtney match rowed at Lachine. So far they have met with gratifying success.

ARRIVALS. — Ottawa Hotel—S. Randal, Compton; Edward R Holt, Quebec; Judge M W Bailey, Probate Court, St Albans, Vt. American House—H A Longley, Northampton, Mass; T S Sloan, Worcester, Mass; T L Johnson, New York. St. Lawrence Hall—Louis Seely, Rochester, N Y; Mr Wyndham Austin, Chambly.

FIRE ALARM.—About 3:15 this afternoon, a little child, six years of age, applied some matches to several bundles of straw, at 109 Forfar street, Point St. Charles. The alarm was quickly given from box 87, but, on the arrival of the firemen, the fire was found to have been extinguished by the application of several pails of water. The damage was very slight.

NOT TRUE.—It was rumored in the city to-day that a confidential cashier of a large establishment in the city had absconded with $5,000 of his employer's money, which he had taken to place in the bank. On enquiry we were informed that although the gentleman was missing there was no defalcation whatever. The unfortunate man is supposed to be on a heavy drinking bout.

A DANGEROUS FALL.—Two stalwart "sunfish" who are often seen lounging about the wharves were on a heavy booze to-day. They were staggering along Common street about noon, and, coming too close to the revetment wall, they fell over, descending upon some timber head foremost. The crowd looking on thought they were killed, but they got up, apparently only considerably shaken, and one with several scratches on his face, from which the blood was streaming. The distance from the top of the revetment wall to the wharf where they fell cannot be less than thirteen feet.

CIVIC CONTRACTS.

How They are Given Out—Calling for Tenders and Accepting the Highest!

The giving out of contracts is one of the most responsible, as it certainly is one of the most invidious, duties devolving upon Government or civic bodies, as no matter how scrupulously or faithfully they perform their duty it is more than likely their motives will be called in question. It is therefore the only safe way, as ex-Ald. Stephens has remarked, after ten years experience in the Council, to assign the contract in every instance to the lowest tender, provided the security is ample for its due fulfillment. At any rate this is carrying out the principle upon which tenders are based. The very object of advertising for tenders is to open the work to competition and obtain for the public the fullest benefit that can be derived from that competition. We are induced to make these observations by the talk we hear people indulge in lately in denouncing what they call favoritism, but what we will designate in a milder form as an error of judgment on the part of the Police Committee, in giving a contract for boots for the force, to a gentleman who was 30c per pair higher in the scale than a firm in good standing, and whose sample is pronounced by impartial experts in the trade to be fully equal in quality and finish to the successful contractor. The tender accepted was $4 per pair, and there were at least two lower tenders sent in. We are not aware upon what grounds the decision was come to, but the least the Committee should do is to make the taxpayers acquainted with their reasons for not accepting what appeared to be the best bargain for the city. We would not have our readers condemn the Committee without a hearing; they may have ample justification for the course they have pursued, but the taxpayers are entitled to know it.

The Orange Case.

The prosecution was resumed this afternoon by the cross-examination of Colonel George Smith.

His Honor the Police Magistrate maintained the objection of the witness to answer the question put to him yesterday in regard to the legality of the Orange Order on the grounds put forth by the advocate for the defence.

Mr. Carter asked witness if he knew the purpose of the proclamation published in the papers in regard to the Twelfth July procession.

Witness answered that the answer was on the very face of the proclamation; he knew no further about it. Did not know what David Grant, signing himself County Master, it was, whose name appeared under the proclamation.

Q. Do you not think that that David Grant is the defendant in this case. A. Not having seen the name registered I have no personal knowledge of the affair, and do not know that he is. I have heard the gentleman sitting second to me called David Grant, but, not having seen his baptismal register, I cannot swear as to his name.

Q. What is the meaning of the words County Master—is it any rank or degree connected with the Orange Order? A. As I think this question refers to the same advertisement in paper "A," I have no personal knowledge of the document as I stated before.

Q. You are required to answer the questions put to you, and you are again asked to give the meaning of the words County Master, and to state whether they indicate any rank in the Orange Order? A. I decline to put any meaning other than what is in the paper.

Q. Give your reasons for declining to say whether the words County Master indicate any rank in the Orange Order? A. I am not here to make definitions, and I decline because I cannot make any more of the document than any person who sees it there.

Q. Do you not know that the words "County Master" indicate a certain rank or office in the Orange order? A. As I objected before to answer any questions that might connect me with the Orange Order, I decline to answer the question, as I know of no law that obliges me to criminate myself.

By the time the foregoing business had been transacted, the Grand Jury room was crowded to excess, and the High Constable was instructed to clear the room. This was done with difficulty, as the on-lookers stuck to their seats with the greatest pertinacity.

Q. State in what way you are afraid to criminate yourself; you are not asked anything personal? A. As I understand that question and previous questions I could only know a proper definition by being initiated into the Order, which as I understand it would criminate me, and I decline to criminate myself.

Q. State more fully your reasons for saying that you would criminate yourself by answering the question. A. Because I consider no one out of the Orange Order could explain the word County Master as applied in the Orange Order.

Q. Is it because you conscientiously believe that any answer you gave connecting you with the Orange Order would criminate you? A. As I am not a lawyer I cannot tell if it would or not. It becomes then a question of law in my opinion.

The prosecuting counsel now made application to the presiding Magistrate that the witness be ordered to answer the question, no sufficient reason or excuse having been given by him for his refusal, on the alleged pretext of criminating himself.

Mr. Carter then argued that the witness was not asked anything personal, and if he knew anything as to the meaning of the words "County Master," he should answer.

Mr. Doutre said the defendants were prosecuted for belonging to a certain Association said to be illegal. The prosecution ask the witness, as near as possible, if he is an Orangeman, and beat about the bush in their endeavors to make evidence. He alleged that it led indirectly to implicating the witness. His Honor would see the artful trap laid for the witness, who, if he had not been so intelligent, would have fallen into it. He had the right not to give his opinion before well-known gentlemen of the bar who were acting on the supposition that to be an Orangeman was illegal and wrong. Mr. Carter, Q.C., held that the questions were plain as put under the eye of the Magistrate. He strongly objected to his learned friends' characterizing his questions as an artful trap. The assertion that the opinion of the four learned counsel could be refuted, and that it it could be proved that to be an Orangeman was no crime, was unfair, and had to be settled by the Court. Why, he asked, if he is confident he can prove this, should all this fencing be resorted to? why should the case not have been sent to the Civil Courts? It was converting the proceedings into a farce to protect the witness from answering, and he asked His Honor to compel him to reply to his questions more satisfactorily.

His Honor, while of the opinion that Colonel Smith was over-anxious and particular, refused to peremptorily order him to do as the advocate for the prosecution requested.

BRAVE NORA

— OF —

KILDARE!

CHAPTER XXI.

WHITHER?

The October night sky was bright and frosty. The young Lady Nora Kildare, fleeing from her late prison at Yew Cottage, in charge of the escaped convict Fogarty, towards the coast, felt her heart bound exultantly within her. After her long fortnight of imprisonment in a dark cell, everything looked strangely beautiful to her.

Instead of suspecting her rescuer, her heart was filled with a glow of gratitude towards him, and already she was planning how she would reward him for all his goodness to her. Fogarty proceeded along the quiet road for some distance at a swift rate, and then turned into a road leading to the south and east. He had gone but a few yards upon this new course, when the sound of a vehicle rapidly driven came to his ears from the road he had just quitted.

This vehicle, drawn by a single horse, was proceeding towards Clondalkin, and had evidently come from Dublin. Fogarty looked back, as did the Lady Nora. At the moment that the vehicle which had aroused their attention passed the junction of the two roads, both had a clear view of it.

It was simply a light dog-cart, and was occupied by a man and a woman. Both these persons had their heads turned towards Fogarty's chaise, their faces being in shadow.

For a moment or so only was the opportunity for scrutiny continued. Then the dog-cart sped on towards Clondalkin, and the light chaise hurried on its course, presently turning into another road.

Ah! if but some subtle instinct had told the fleeing girl that the tenants of the dog-cart were her lover, the young Lord O'Neil, and her faithful maid, Alleen Mahon. If only that she could have guessed that they were on their way to Yew Cottage to rescue her.

And if only Wild Larry of the glen had suspected that the young girl he looked at with such idle curiosity was the imperilled lady of his love, what dangers, what sorrows, what anguish, might not have been saved to them both.

But the distance between them prevented the recognition, and they went their separate ways.

"Thank heaven! we have left the Dublin road," breathed the young girl. "Did you see how I muffled myself with my scarf and veil for a disguise, Mr. Fogarty? I feared that the man in that dog-cart was Michael Kildare. Oh, it would be terrible to meet him now."

"Don't ye have no fears, my lady," said Fogarty, reassuringly. "If that little spider-legged lawyer was to board us, he'd find my grappling-irons fixed into his flesh in a way he wouldn't fancy. I could handle him as easily as a child."

The girl smiled faintly, and shook her head.

"I should have said the same a month—three weeks ago," she said. "But I know Michael Kildare now, and I did not know him then, although I have been on intimate terms with him all my life. It is odd how we may be acquainted with a person all our lives, and think we know him perfectly, and wake up some day to find that we have been staring at a mask all those years, and that the real person is hiden under the mask, and we know him no better than if we had never seen him. That has been my experience with Michael Kildare. I sat on his knees in my childhood; I told him all my petty, childish griefs; I gave him almost a daughter's affection, and I never once distrusted his love for me, or his nobleness of nature, or purity of soul. I thought him soft and gentle as a woman, tender, and kind, and affectionate, with a rather weak and womanish character, perhaps, but good and honest. And now I have found, under all his flowery softness—iron! He would be a dangerous opponent even for you, Mr. Fogarty."

"I am not afraid of him," said the pretended sailor, touching up his horse.

"You would be if you knew him better," said the Lady Nora. "He is like a glittering serpent, deadly! I have a horror of him now—a sickening horror! He pretends still to love me, but I believe he would not scruple to cut short my life, if he believed my death would be an advantage to him."

Fogarty flushed guiltily, and whipped up his horse smartly. He knew only too well that Michael Kildare was capable of the wickedness of which the Lady Nora suspected his ability, and he knew also that Michael Kildare had decreed the young girl's death. Was Fogarty not now, by the lawyer's orders, conveying the Lady Nora to Black Rock, there to decoy her aboard the sloop he had chartered, and had not Michael Kildare told him that the young girl must be cast overboard in mid-channel? None knew better than Fogarty Michael Kildare's capacities for crime!

They rode on swiftly, passing through Roundtown, and making their way steadily towards the coast. The Lady Nora sank into a reverie, and Fogarty meditated upon his work, and wove plans by which he intended to enrich himself for life. As they approached Black Rock, Fogarty slackened the speed of his horse, permitting him to walk. He was a little ahead of time, and besides, he had no desire to arouse the town's-people from their beds. It was his way, like Michael Kildare's, to move as secretly and cautiously as possible in the execution of his nefarious schemes.

"I left a man aboard the sloop, my lady," he said. "He's a part owner, and takes charge when I'm absent; but he can't go along this voyage, on account of his family——"

"It's just as well," interposed the Lady Nora. "I am sure that you can manage the sloop alone."

"Oh, yes, my lady, I always do," said the pretended sailor. "But it occurred to me you might feel afraid to put to sea with me alone—that you might be afraid of me, like!"

"Afraid of you who have rescued me from a terrible imprisonment—perhaps from a terrible fate!" cried the young heiress, warmly. "No, indeed, Mr. Fogarty, I trust you as I would trust a brother! You have shown your kind, good heart too plainly for me to fear you!"

"I am only an ignorant chap," observed Fogarty, after an embarrassed pause. "You wouldn't think, to look at me, my lady, and hear me speak, that I am the grandson of a gentleman. Yet I am. My grandfather was a physician. His younger daughter married an architect named Liffey, and lived like a lady. She is Mr. Kildare's housekeeper, and I wouldn't wonder, to judge from what my mother says, if she were some day to be Mrs. Michael Kildare. My aunt can play the grand lady to perfection. The doctor's elder daughter married a man of inferior social rank, a thriftless, jolly, drinking fellow, named Tim Fogarty. I was the offspring of that marriage. My father died when I was a child, and my mother made her living by various humble ways. My aunt, Mrs Liffey, took a fancy to me and sent me to school, and I got a decent education. I wanted to be a doctor, like my grandfather, but fate was too strong for me. Being of a roving disposition," he added with ironical emphasis and concealed meaning—having reference to his transportation at government expense to a penal colony, "I set out to see the world. And I saw it! Did you never hear of me, my lady—of Mrs. Liffey's nephew, Tim Fogarty?"

"Never," replied the young Lady Nora. "I knew very little of Mrs. Liffey, very little of Michael Kildare's household. While papa lived I used to visit Dublin often; but we stopped at a hotel, except once, when we stayed a whole season, and papa took a house. And since papa's death I lived at Kildare Castle with my step-sister, as papa desired me to do. He said he wished me to grow up among the tenantry, to know them all intimately, to win their love, and to love them all in return. He expected me to spend the most of my life at Poin Kildare, and he did not want me to go off to Dublin, and get a taste for gaieties, such as would unfit me for my quiet future. And so it has happened that I know so little about Mrs Liffey."

"That was a foolish question of mine," observed Fogarty, with a breath of relief, having experienced a momentary fear that his antecedents were not unknown to the young girl. "How should a great lady like you have heard of a poor fellow like me? But here we are at Black Rock. You still think, my lady, that you had better go aboard the sloop, and set off immediately for England? You would not think it better to wait for the packet?"

"Oh, no, no! Before the packet sails, Michael Kildare will be at Kingstown, watching for me. Escape in her would be impossible. It is not as if I were of age. My only safety lies in going to-night," cried the young heiress, impetuously.

Fogarty smiled grimly under his false beard.

"You are right," he said. "You must sail to-night. And you cannot delay, my lady, to procure a woman to attend upon you. We should be off at once."

"Yes, at once."

"I was over to Black Rock this morning," said Fogarty, "and told my partner I should be off for a voyage to-night. You see, my lady, I made up my mind this morning to rescue you, and so I told my partner I should bring a young lady aboard to-night."

"You told him that? Oh, if he should have betrayed me! He may suspect——"

"No, I took my precautions. I pretended that I was going to elope with a young woman name Flaherty, and the fellow hasn't the ghost of a suspicion of the truth. So, my lady, if you'll just put the veil over your face, my partner will think it's all right, and say never a word."

The Lady Nora complied with the suggestion, veiling her face. Fogarty drove down the street of the small town, halting near the pier. Here he sprang out, assisting the Lady Nora to alight.

He secured his horse to a convenient post, and taking his basket of provisions in his hand, he conducted his fair charge down the pier, scanning the adjacent bay with keen glances.

The sloop he had engaged lay near at hand, ready to sail. A small boat from her, with the sloop master in it, lay rocking in the shadow of the pier. There were other small craft in the vicinity, but there was no sign of life about them. Except for the three figures mentioned the pier and the bay seemed deserted of human beings.

"Sloop, ahoy!" said Fogarty, in a low voice.

"Aye, aye, sir!" returned the man in the row-boat beside the pier, in a similarly cautious tone.

"A word with you, my hearty," said Fogarty.

The sloop-master sprang out on the pier, and the two men withdrew a few paces, leaving the Lady Nora alone on the end of the pier, looking off upon the bay whose phosphorescent gleams and white caps shone through the pale gloom.

"About the security for the sloop," whispered Fogarty, keeping an eye upon the slender, dainty figure at a little distance, with floating hair and garments blowing in the wind. "Here's the watch I promised," and he handed over his mother's greatest treasure, an old-fashioned gold watch, which he had purloined during the day at a convenient moment. "And for greater security," he added, "there's my horse and chaise in the street there, which, if you'll keep till I come back——"

Sewerage in Large Cities—Montreal in Particular.

By a Sanitary Engineer.

A correspondent of yours takes exception to some of the statements made in my last communication to your journal. He states that a scheme of general sewerage may be well devised and carried out, and yet its benefits much curtailed if the property-owners do not attend to the effectual drainage of their own premises. This statement, made as it is in a general way, I entirely endorse. If the proprietors do not provide means for the removal of the waste and other matter generated within the premises, so as to have them conveyed into the public sewer, they cannot profit by the efficiency of that sewer. But the trouble in Montreal is that the sewers are not efficient.

He says that my communications consist of repeated and exaggerated statements, damaging alike to the city and to the reputation of those who were connected with its drainage. I would be sorry to say or do anything to injure the reputation of any one; nor did I understand that I was doing so in the communications I have written. In a late communication I pointed out the difficulties which a city engineer has often to encounter, and that in many instances he is compelled to submit to dictation or resign his office. In my partial exposure of the defects in the sewerage of Montreal I had this idea in view; for the reason that I did not believe that an engineer, uninfluenced in his professional duties by those higher in authority, would devise a plan of sewerage which every citizen perceives now to be an abominable nuisance. Your correspondent himself bears me out in this supposition, for he states that the electors threaten their representatives in the City Council with vengeance if their views are not carried out in the severage of their districts. This being the case, I cannot see how your correspondent, who has become an assistant in the City Surveyor's office, can be to blame for defective sewerage, nor can I understand that any exposure of the defects of the sewerage can affect his reputation.

Your correspondent says he has been for twelve years assisting the City Surveyor, who during that time caused all sewers to be constructed at grades which gave a velocity deemed by the best authority of the day to be sufficient. He says the greater portions of the city are effectively drained, and he challenges me to point out any sewer that is too large, although he says it must be admitted there are portions of old sewers unnecessarily large. He proposes as a test of the efficiency of the sewers that have been built within his own time, that a committee of some of our leading architects or builders select any of the sewers, and that it be opened for their inspection wherever they indicate.

The velocity to which your correspondent refers as being sufficient is 2½ feet per second. If the velocity of sewage be anything less than this, a deposit will be formed in the bottom of the sewer which will increase and putrefy from day to day until it is removed by flushing or otherwise. This velocity is equivalent to 40 miles a day. It follows, then, that if your correspondent is correct, any sewage, although formed in the remotest part of the city, will be removed away and discharged into the river in a few hours after its formation. Now, it is a property of sewage that it does not putrefy and decompose so as to produce a dangerous gas before the expiration of about three days after its production; it would, therefore, follow that before putrification and decomposition has had time to commence, the sewage of Montreal is conveyed into the river and removed many miles from the city. This is what would occur if your correspondent's statement is correct. Let us now inquire whether this does occur.

After a thorough investigation of the whole subject of sewerage by the English Board of Health, the "general conclusions" of that body were published, and among them is the following: "Offensive smells proceeding from any works intended for house or town drainage indicate the fact of the detention and decomposition of ordure and afford decisive evidence of malconstruction or of ignorant or defective arrangement." Our citizens are well aware that the offensive smells emitted through the gullies in Montreal are of the most abominable kind and are a nuisance all over the city. It follows, from the above quotation, that sewage matter is detained and decomposed in the sewers, and the assertion that the greater portions of the city are effectually drained is not a correct representation of the actual state of things, a fact which it would be wicked to conceal from the citizens.

SEWERS TOO LARGE.

Seeing that sewage matter is detained in the sewers, during certain intervals of time at least, it is manifest that it has not the velocity capable of propelling it forward. Now, from hydraulic science, we know that the velocity varies as the square root of the inclination and hydraulic mean depth; but, as there is no doubt the inclinations or grades of the sewers are sufficient for good sewerage if properly utilized—moreover, your correspondent says so—it follows, then, that the hydraulic depth is deficient. But as this latter quantity varies directly as the section of the sewage and inversely as the wetted perimeter, it follows that when the velocity is too small the wetted perimeter is too great for the quantity of sewage—that is, the sewage is flowing in too large a bed, or, in other words, the sewer is too large for its duty.

It does not appear to me that architects and builders are the most suitable parties to report on a system of sewerage. I do not believe that such gentlemen devote any special attention to hydraulic science, and on that account they would scarcely be the proper parties to be selected in order to ascertain what amount of duty a sewer has to perform, and whether it is properly proportioned to fulfil that duty. They could report well on the character of the brick masonry, but this is a small item. If a merchant's set of books have to be examined, a writing master is not the person that will be selected to make the examination, for it is not in the penmanship any interest is taken.

Ventilation.—With respect to ventilation of sewers, your correspondent says in substance, that the use of the man-holes for that purpose should not be entertained; for the perforations in the covers would in summer be more or less filled with mud, and in winter would be sealed with snow. He says the carrying of the soil pipe through the roof of the house, as recommended some years ago by Dr. Carpenter of England, is the most effective means yet known for the ventilation of sewers, and is specially adapted to the climate, and pending its general enforcement by law on the citizens of Montreal, it was deemed advisable to keep the gullies untrapped, and that wherever a street gully is trapped it is owing to private interest over-riding public welfare.

Such is the theory that governs the sewerage of Montreal, and such are the principles whose practice has given rise to its sanitary condition.

If there is anything more generally misunderstood than another, it is the end Dr. Carpenter had in view when he recommended a ventilating pipe through the roof of a house. He simply used this ventilating pipe to get rid of the sewer gas which entered the soil and waste pipes of the house and forced the water traps; he had also in view the prevention of the water traps from being syphoned out.

If there had been effective traps, and not dependent on water as a seal, he never would have recourse to this ventilating pipe. He simply used it as an auxiliary to the water trap, and certainly the preposterous idea of ventilating the sewer through it never entered his head. The ventilating pipe even fails in many instances to accomplish what was expected from it by Dr. Carpenter.

Suppose a farmer lives convenient to the River St. Lawrence, and above the Lachine Rapids, and that at time of high water in the river his cellar gets flooded. To relieve his premises from the nuisance, he builds a drain from his cellar to a locality having a lower level, and he is accordingly relieved; for the drain carries off any water which enters his premises. Dr. Carpenter did exactly a similar thing to carry off the gas entering a house from the sewer. No man in his senses will suppose that the farmer intended to diminish the flood in the St. Lawrence with his drain, and it is equally absurd to suppose that Dr. Carpenter intended to diminish the gas in the sewer with his pipe.

The idea that the perforations in the man-hole covers will get filled with mud is correct, if they are made intentionally to get filled; but if made as they ought to be made, and as they are made elsewhere, they never can get filled. In winter time the gullies do not get "sealed," and yet they are subject to the same climatic influences as the perforations of man-hole covers. When the principles of ventilation, and the end sought by it, are considered, it will appear that the winter does not enter as a function of what there is in view.

The supposition that it is against "the public welfare" to trap the gullies is certainly extraordinary; but, when the startling announcement is made that it is the intention of the Corporation to keep them opened until all the citizens shall have pipes through the roofs of their houses, public attention should be directed to it at once. If such a course is continued, Montreal, although bad enough at present, bids fair to become yet the plague spot of North America.

Your correspondent quotes Latham and Waring, two eminent authorities, and yet the course which is being pursued in Montreal shows a contempt for their teachings.

Latham ventilates the sewers through the man-holes, and is so cautious about preventing sewer gas from coming in contact with the citizens, that he not only recommends the trapping of the gullies and describes several traps for that purpose, but he has himself invented a charcoal ventilator for the man-hole so as to render the sewer air innocuous on its escape from the sewer. In this city it is believed to be against "the public welfare" to cut off the sewer gas from the citizens, and the gullies are left opened to poison the people for the public good. Such a state of things may well induce a stranger to ask whether the citizens of Montreal are intelligent beings.

"Waring" acts similarly to "Latham." He recommends "Latham's Charcoal Ventilator" for the man-holes. He directs that the gullies should be trapped, and recommends a particular trap for that purpose, which he describes and delineates.

Cantin's Dock.—Your correspondent refers to Cantin's dock and the William street sewer; but it does not require much reasoning to perceive that every time the contents of Cantin's dock are discharged into the William street sewer, the gas is forced out of it, and driven into every house whose drains are connected therewith.

The statements made in my communication to this journal contain no exaggeration; as your correspondent says, "They do not even give the whole case. They only expose some of the grossest errors!" But the exposure is correct, and any contradiction of it will only make the case worse.

Your correspondent's letter is an important one, inasmuch as it exposes the programme intended to be carried out by the Corporation.

The citizens of Montreal are pretty lively, and when a threatened evil is properly explained to them they are sure to act. If my communications are explanatory enough to them, I shall feel that I have contributed my share to the public good.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

There are nearly 500,000 acres under cultivation in tea in India.

Russia takes about one-seventh of the foreign exports of tea from China.

Only 1,100,000 of Russia's 80,000,000 inhabitants receive public instruction, and the educational exhibit at Paris is very poor.

In the city of New York there are twenty Lutheran churches. The church property is valued at $1,095,000, with a debt of $183,900.

There are eighteen grain elevators in Chicago, with an aggregate capacity of over 15,000,000 bushels, and of 250 scales in use in these elevators, over 240 are Fairbanks.

During the year 1877 nearly 59,000,000 gallons of spirits, 9,902,353 barrels of ale, beer and porter, and 5,723,000 gallons of imported wines were manufactured and withdrawn for consumption in the United States.

In England the bicycle business is assuming large dimensions. There are 130 makers, a million pounds are invested in the business, and sixty thousand bicycles are in existence in London and the provinces.

The total population of the globe is now set down at 1,439,145,300, divided among the continents as follows:—Europe, 312,398,480; Asia, 831,000,000; Africa, 205,219,500; Australia and Polynesia, 4,411,300; America, 86,116,000.

Recent advices make the population of China between 200,000,000 and 220,000,000; it is certainly not more than 250,000,000, according to old residents, though Behm and Wagner still give it at 405,000,000, with 29,580,000 in the border land.

In 1876, wolves in the Russian province of Samara devoured 5,880 horses and horned cattle, 56,000 small cattle 22,000 domestic fowls, and more than 1,000 dogs. In 1877 their ravages were even greater, and the loss in the two years is estimated at $600,000.

The little Republic of Switzerland has an army of 120,000, organized in eight divisions. There are 94,000 infantry, 16,500 artillery, 3,500 engineers, 2,700 sanitary force, and 2,000 cavalry. Besides this, which is called the elite army, there is a Landwehr of 92,000 men. What Switzerland does with all this military force does not appear.

From the 8th to the 17th July, 10,566 foreigners arrived in Paris—3,063 from England, 1,526 from Belgium, 1,283 from Germany, 854 from the United States, 689 from Italy, 669 from Switzerland, 445 from Austria, 379 from Spain, 292 from Holland, 284 from Russia, 166 from Sweden and Norway, 107 from Denmark, and smaller numbers from 21 other States.

Statistics of the consumption of coffee in Great Britain show that in four years of the present century it was only an ounce per head; in the five years ending 1809 it averaged three ounces, in 1820 six ounces, in 1840 one pound, keeping steady at about one pound and a quarter till 1861, since which period it has been gradually declining with the increased consumption of tea, until now it averages about nine ounces to each individual.

An employe of the Austrian Census Office has published a work on the statistics of births in Austria as compared with those of other European countries. During 1865-75 the average of births to every 1,000 inhabitants was as follows: Hungary, 41.3; all Germany, 39.7; Bavaria. 39.1; Austria, 38.6; Prussia, 38.3; Italy, 37; Holland, 35 5; England, 35.4; Scotland, 35; Belgium, 32; Switzerland, 30; Sweden, 27.1; Ireland, 26.9; France, 25.8.

The veterinary department of the privy council of Great Britain states the number of live stock in Great Britain June 4th, 1877, exclusive of horses, to have been 36,357,825 head. Of these 5,697,933 were cattle, 28,161,164 sheep, and 2,497,728 swine. This is a less average than for the years from 1873 to 1877 inclusive, by 1,008,292 animals, and exceeds the total of 1877 by only 44,752 animals. Importations from the United States and Canada for the year were 19,187 cattle 23,395 sheep, and 810 swine. Of the foreign cattle trade with the Metropolis in 1877, there were 839,590 animals landed at the different wharves of the port of London, representing 77,015 per cent. of the total importation of foreign animals into the country. Of the total stock imported, London received 40,650 per cent. of the cattle, 51,298 per cent. of the sheep, and 87,715 per cent. of the swine.

FAMILY MATTERS.

New Kettles.—To remove the iron taste from new kettles, boil a handful of hay in them, and repeat the process if necessary. Hay water is a great sweetener of tin, wooden and iron ware. In Irish dairies everything used for milk is scalded with hay water.

Bones.—Englishwomen are much more careful about bones than Americans. They not only scrape the bone once but twice, reserving the fragments produced by the second scraping for making omelets savory, and then cracking the bone and boiling it in the soup-kettle.

Clothes Line.—A new clothes line is the terror alike of the husband who puts it out and takes it in and the wife who uses it, but by boiling it for an hour or two it can be made perfectly soft, and pliable. It should be hung in a warm room to dry and not allowed to "kink."

Fumigating Powder.—A very good fumigating powder for the sick room may be prepared by mixing equal parts of cascarilla powder, camomile flowers and anise seed. Sprinkle a very little on a shovel of hot coals and carry the shovel into every part of the room to be fumigated.

Glass Jars.—In canning fruit, either put glass jars into a pan of cold water, and bring the water to scalding heat with the jars in it, emptying each as it is wanted, or wrap a dish towel wrung out of cold water around the jars while filling, and you need not fear breaking them by putting boiling fruit in them.

Coffee Starch.—The mildest mannered man will scold when he finds a patch of white starch on a yellow linen duster, but his wife may easily prevent the occurrence of such an accident by mixing the starch with strong coffee, instead of water. Weak coffee makes good starch for Smyrna lace and for thin neckties.

Silver Cloths.—Housekeepers sometimes wish to give silver a little brightening without going through all the ceremonies of a formal cleaning, and this can be easily managed by the use of a silver cloth. Take two ounces of powdered hartshorn and boil in a pint of water. Dip small squares of cloth into the liquid and hang them up to dry without wringing.

Tablecloths.—Tablecloths are often a source of disputes between mistress and maid, but much of this may be obviated if the servant will wash out each spot carefully with a damp cloth immediately after meals. A piece of stone or of some heavy material, the exact size of the table-cloth when folded, should be kept in the dining-room closet, and the cloth should be kept under it when not in use. This keeps the creases sharp and fresh.

Alabaster Ornaments.—There is nothing prettier than graceful little vases and caskets of alabaster, and few household ornaments more trying to one's temper, because of the difficulty in keeping them clean. They may be thoroughly and easily renovated by cleaning them with a weak solution of aquafortis, prepared in the proportion of two ounces to a pint of filtered rain water. Apply with a paint brush, wash thoroughly and dry in the sun.

Broomstick.—After a broomstick has outlived its usefulness as part of a carpet cleanser, it may be made to minister to one's health by cutting off the broom and using it as a gymnasium wand. Spend five minutes each night and morning in lifting the wand high over the head in both hands, palms front, and then drawing the elbows sharply down, letting the stick fall behind the shoulders. The most obstinate case of crookedness will yield to this remedy, unless the deformity has existed from birth.

A New Disinfectant.—A distinguished medical authority recommends for use in civil and military hospitals, and for the purpose of destroying the poison germs of small-pox, scarlet fever, and other infectious diseases, a disinfectant composed of one part of rectified oil of turpentine and seven parts of benzine, with the addition of five drops of oil of verbena to each ounce. Articles of clothing, furniture, wall paper, carpeting, books, newspapers, letters, may be perfectly saturated with it without receiving the slightest injury.

Selection of Flour.—In selecting flour first look to the color. If it is white, with a yellowish straw-color tint, buy it. If it is white with a bluish cast, or with black specks in it, refuse it. Next, examine its adhesiveness—wet and knead a little of it between your fingers; if it works soft and sticky, it is poor. Then throw a lump of dried flour against a smooth surface; if it falls like powder, it is bad. Lastly, squeeze some of the flour tight in your hand; if it retains the shape given by the pressure, that, too, is a good sign. It is safe to buy flour that will stand all these tests.

A movement in the right direction has been inaugurated by Dr. Virgil W. Blanchard, who has been a contributor of several valuable papers to the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, and now is engaged in the advancement of the Food Cure System, designed to supplant the use of drugs in the treatment of all debilitated conditions. The system is a series of concentrated liquids, manufactured principally from the Wheat Kernel concentrated and artificially digested by processes well known to science. We have not space to go at length into the common-sense theories, but have pleasure in saying that the evidences of the value of these Foods are conclusive. Our well-known Rev. Dr. Austin Phelps, of Andover, endorses the Food highly; Prof. John Clark, of Oberlin, has received great benefit; numberless physicians from all parts of the country, as well as hosts of private individuals, testify to the curative effects of the Blanchard Foods.

THE BLANCHARD BLOOD AND NERVE FOOD has been found by hundreds of the people of this community to be the most reliable invigorator. It contains really the essence of life, being made directly from the wheat kernel—the great life staple.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26, 1877.

DR. V. W. BLANCHARD: During the past year I have prescribed your preparation of Blood and Nerve Food, and feel happy to say it has met my most sanguine expectations, giving to patients long enfeebled by blood-poisoning, chronic disease, or over drug dosing, the needed nutrition and nerve force.

"I also had a horse that got badly sprained in the knee; he was so bad I had the advice of two veterinary surgeons, each gave me a different opinion, but none of them did any good. At last, one of them told me to try Dick's Blister, which I did, and the result was that, in less than ten days, I was driving him as well as ever, and there was no blemish whatever after which I can confidently recommend it."

"I am glad to be in a position to inform you that I used part of a pot of your Healing Ointment on a sore of long standing on one of my horses, the cure being effected in three days. Perhaps this was partly owing to my having given it a week or so previous the Purifier, at all events the sores are not only perfectly healed but the horse is feeling good and 100 per cent. better than he was." Yours truly, T. J. HOWARD.
