MACARTHUR APPROVES BORDER CROSSING

World News In Brief

Damascus, Syria, March 24.—(AP)—Premier-designate Nazam Koudsi resigned again today, further prolonging Syria's 16-day cabinet crisis.

Koudsi yesterday had agreed to form a government and had been expected to make portfolio assignments today to President Hachem Attassi. Instead he resigned. His cabinet's resignation two weeks ago without stating the reason brought on the present crisis.

Montreal, March 24.—(AP)—Progressive Conservatives will hold six regional meetings in Quebec province next month, it was announced here today.

Donald Fleming, Member of Parliament for Toronto-Kingston, will address two gatherings, one in Montreal April 18, and the other in Hull, April 11.

Mrs. Drew, wife of party leader George Drew, will address a Quebec city meeting April 24.

Other speakers will include Henri Courtemanche, M.P. for Labelle, at Sherbrooke April 2.

Tokyo, March 24.—(AP)—After a front-line visit to Korea, a high-ranking British army officer said today the United Nations forces are so well balanced they can turn any counter-offensive into disaster for the Chinese Red hordes.

"If the Chinese want to put more troops in the country let them do so," said Lt. Gen. Sir Richard Gale, British director, general of military training. "There would be more to kill. The geographical width of the country doesn't give them room to manoeuvre with masses of men."

Brisbane, Australia, March 24.—(Reuters)—The cruiser Ontario, first Canadian warship to visit Australia, arrived here Friday after a five-mile welcome along river beaches.

Crowds in hundreds of riverside homes waved sheets, towels and anything to make a show. Traffic stopped to watch as the came alongside the wharf.

As sightseers go aboard this afternoon the crew will be ashore for three days' sightseeing, sport and hospitality in private homes.

Margarine Ban To Be Enforced

Quebec, March 24.—(AP)—Premier Duplessis has made it known that violators of Quebec's two-year-old margarine ban will be prosecuted.

The law, given effect by order-in-council March 17, 1949, provides stiff penalties for manufacture or sale of margarine in the province.

The Premier issued his warning during a press conference Thursday during which he also announced provincial rent control legislation, which will freeze rents until Aug. 1, has been ordered effective April 30. Federal rent controls expire on that date.

The press conference was held Thursday because of Good Friday closing of government offices. Publication time for press conference stories was fixed, as usual, for Saturday editions.

The government leader also issued the text of a 1,200-word answer March 11 to earlier proposals by Justice Minister Garson on a plan to provide old age pensions at 65. He said negotiations to get the plan under way were cordial.

The Premier drew attention to Quebec's anti-margarine legislation because newspapers had reported open sale of the butter substitute in the province and some had indicated there was tolerance. "There is no tolerance, and there will never be any tolerance," Premier Duplessis said.

Conviction of manufacture or sale of margarine brings a fine ranging from $200 to $500 in the case of an individual, and from $600 to $1,500 in the case of a commercial establishment. These penalties are for first offenders.

Second offenders are liable to fines ranging from $500 to $2,000 if they are individuals, or from $1,500 to $6,000 if commercial establishments are involved.

Parallel Crossing Is Ordered "If And When Its Security Makes It Tactically Advisable"

By OLEN CLEMENTS

Tokyo, March 24.—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur today offered to discuss peace with the communist commander in Korea and ordered United Nations troops to cross parallel 38 if necessary. MacArthur issued his offer and order as advancing allied forces stamped out almost the last organized Red resistance south of the border between the republican south and communist north.

A Good Friday parachute drop aided in routing the Reds from their last sizable area in South Korea.

"I stand ready at any time to confer in the field with the commander-in-chief of the enemy forces in the earnest effort" to settle U.N. political objectives in Korea and end the fighting, MacArthur said. He issued his statement before he flew to Seoul Saturday on his 14th visit to the fighting front.

On his return to Tokyo, MacArthur told correspondents that he had directed the U.S. Eighth Army to cross the parallel "if and when its security makes it tactically advisable."

The United Nations commander said the status of the old dividing line between North and South Korea has been "thoroughly discussed in recent statements from Washington, London and other capitals."

"No further comment would seem to be necessary."

The top commander said "everything goes well at the front."

MacArthur said there was no heavy ground fighting at present and "our troops maintain the initiative and the enemy continues to withdraw."

He said Korea south of the 38th parallel is "substantially clear of enemy forces."

"Everywhere there is a quickening effort at rehabilitation and reconstruction."

War-shattered Seoul, he said, "is beginning to resume some evidences of life."

There was no immediate communist reaction to MacArthur's peace invitation. But the answer might be in the heaviest enemy traffic in months moving toward the front.

Strong American, South Korean, Turkish, British, Belgian and Puerto Rican forces pushed north from a new battle line established Good Friday by a huge landing of 3,300 skytroopers at Munsan. The town was quickly overrun and the new line was set up 20 miles north of Seoul.

All Friday night elements of one South Korean and two American divisions poured through enemy-deserted country to reinforce the paratroopers.

The Reds lost 3,470 men in Friday's fighting across the whole peninsula.

The main allied concern was the elimination of a Red salient dipping southwestward from Chunchon, eight miles south of the 38th parallel in the centre of Korea.

MacArthur emphasized that any peace settlement must fulfill "the political objectives of the United Nations in Korea, to which no nation may justly take exceptions."

He told the Reds that these were reasons, from the enemy standpoint, for ending "further bloodshed."

1: The Chinese "human-wave tactics"—using sheer masses of manpower—are a failure. (About 185,000 Reds have been killed or wounded by ground action alone since the allied offensive began Jan. 25).

2: Chinese Reds on the front are suffering from supply shortages because their supply lines have been smashed by allied planes and warship guns. (Allied planes flew a record-smashing 1,220 sorties Friday. Warships sustained into the second straight month their daily bombardment of the vital east-coast highway and rail line).

3: Red China "lacks the industrial capacity to provide adequately many critical items essential to the conduct of modern war."

The enemy effort to get supplies south from Manchuria persisted in the face of terrific losses. U.S. Fifth Air Force headquarters said planes last night saw more traffic in North Korea than at any time since the early days of the war.

Fighter-bombers tore into 17 Red trains, reported destroying or damaging seven.

Best-Dressed Lists Are Not Infallible

By DOROTHY ROE

New York, March 24.—(AP)—It's about time to debunk some of the "ten-best-this-or-that" lists that beset the public just before Easter every year.

This week we have had the annual list of best-dressed women in America as named by the Customs Tailors Guild, and the "10 best-chapeaued women of America," named by millinery designers.

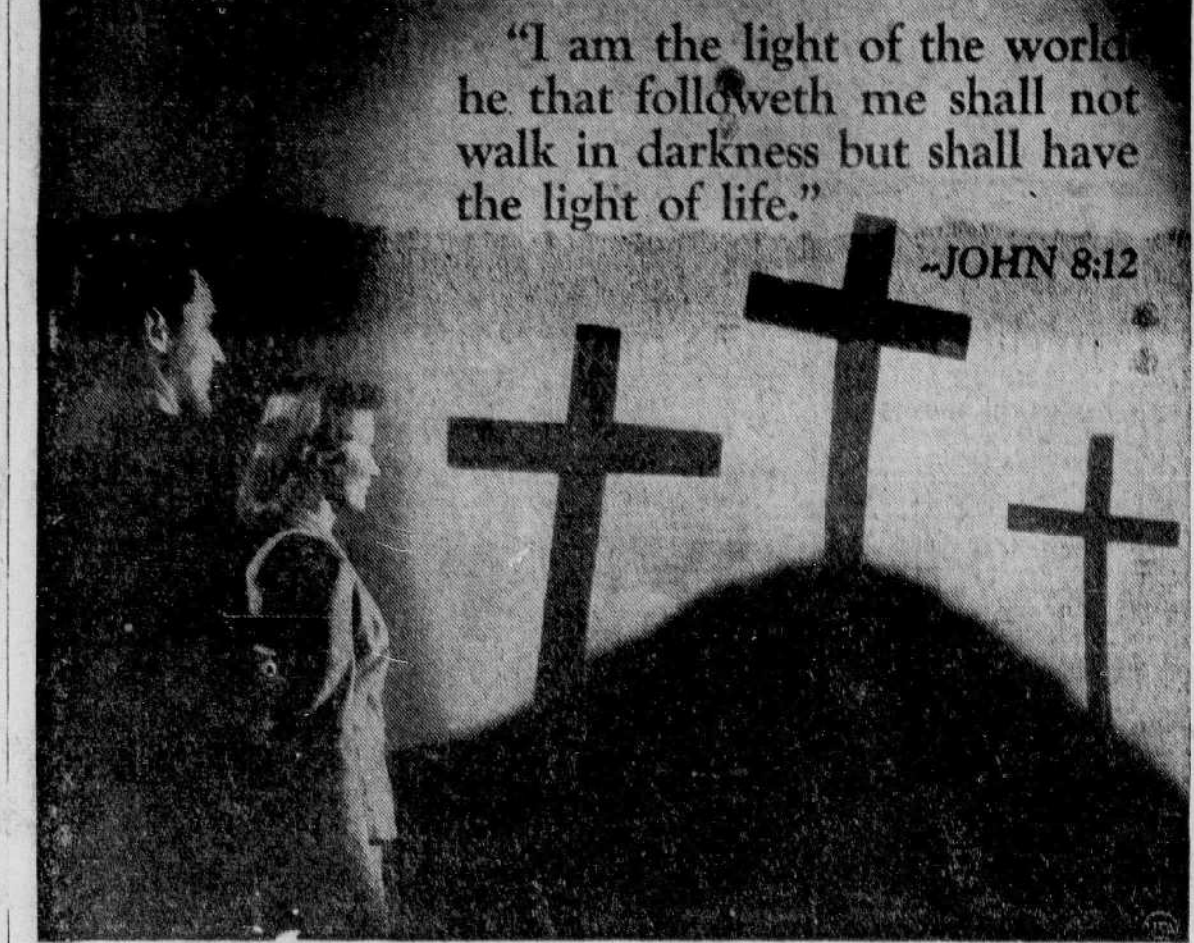

At other periods recently we have been greeted by list of the "ten best-dressed," the "ten most-charming women in America," the "ten most-eligible bachelors," the "ten most-interesting faces," the "ten most-interesting features" and even the "ten best-undressed women"—the latter chosen for their effectiveness in bathing suits.

But there are superlative-dressed women all over America who never make the lists because they are not familiar figures.

The original list of the world's 10-best-dressed women was started in Paris after the first world war by the French couture, each famous dressmaker naming his or her most distinguished customers.

During the eclipse of Paris in the second world war, the list was revived by the New York Dress Institute, which initiated an annual poll of designers and fashion editors of newspapers and magazines throughout the United States. The institute poll is as authentic as such things can be, and is chosen by vote of people who make a business of fashion.

But even this list is of necessity made up of names well-known to the fashion world—famous social or theatrical figures or women who are much photographed in cafe society.

"I am the light of the world he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness but shall have the light of life."

Atomic Plant To Be Built In Colorado

Denver, Colo., March 24.—(AP)—A $45,000,000 atomic plant for a major but secret type of production will be built northwest of Denver.

Construction will start late next month and be completed next year. The plant, small in size compared to giants at Hanford, Wash., and Oak Ridge, Tenn., will be nestled on barren land against the foothills of the Rockies.

Announcement of the plan caught state and city officials by surprise. They have been boosting the state as a haven from atomic warfare, starting a movement by industry and military installations to the area.

There were a few hints on the purpose of the plant. An atomic energy spokesman said it will not produce bombs or atomic weapons "as such." It will give off no dangerous wastes nor will it use large quantities of water, —both marks of basic processing plants.

Representative William S. Hill (Rep. Colo.) said he was informed the plant will be devoted to radiological research in connection with the Los Alamos, N. M., laboratories.

The plant will be run by Dow Chemical Company of Midland, Mich. Company officials said Dow was "asked to take the assignment because of scientific and manufacturing experience along lines that bear on the project."

The plant site covers 2,500 acres — about four square miles. Only a handful of small ranchers will be displaced by the project.

The traditional Holy Week of mourning ended Friday night. Christians of many lands prepared today to celebrate the Easter miracle of Jesus Christ's resurrection in a world now beset by anxiety and fear.

Worshippers thronged churches of the old world and the new for Good Friday devotions on the anniversary of the crucifixion. Pilgrims moved from shrine to shrine in the drought-parched Holy Land.

Thousands of Europeans and many Americans made the Good Friday pilgrimage along the winding via Dolorosa in old walled Jerusalem, where Christ carried His cross to Calvary.

Heat harassed natives and pilgrims alike in the Holy Land.

In a medieval Roman Catholic service Friday night at the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem, a symbolic figure was taken from a cross, bathed, anointed and laid in a tomb.

For the first time in three decades, a Christian religious service was held in the cenaculum on Mount Zion, scene of the last supper. About 200 worshippers, including 50 Franciscans from the Jordan-held old city, received special permission from Israeli authorities to cross the frontier to reach Mount Zion.

Anglicans wound up Good Friday with a three-hour memorial prayer service at St. George's Cathedral, outside the old walled city.

The Jordan hills were deceptively green and fruit trees were in pink and white blossoms under the spring sun but authorities said the entire area is possibly facing hardship because of the lack of rain.

About 8,000 pilgrims and tourists gathered in Rome for the Easter holidays and the spiritual exercises ending Holy Week. Many attended Good Friday services in Rome churches.

For the first time since the end of the 1950 Holy Year, the Pope prepared to hold a general audience Sunday in St. Peter's basilica for the pilgrims, most of whom came from France.

Crowds flocked to the little German village of Konnersreuth to see the Good Friday "miracle of Konnersreuth," but they were disappointed.

According to legend and the stories of townspeople, the marks of Christ's wounds on the cross appear on the face, hands and feet of Therese Neumann, 53-year-old German woman, who claims to see holy visions. But nothing happened Friday.

Thousands of spectators watched rites at Novotas, P.L., a Manila suburb, where scores of flagellants, seeking atonement for their sins, beat each other's backs into blood pulp.

The flagellants are members of an extremist religious sect who scourge and whip themselves in an outgrowth of a 12th-century practice of self-castigation.

Roman Catholic and Protestant episcopal churches in New York city held three-hour services, beginning at noon, to commemorate Christ's three-hour agony on the cross. Loud speakers carried the services to thousands on the sidewalks.

French Rail Union Calls Off Strikes

Paris, March 24.—(AP)—France's non-communist railroad unions ordered 130,000 striking workers back on the job today after winning a wage increase from the government.

The unions made their decision early today. Last night they had ordered workers to continue for another 48 hours the walkout which seriously disrupted passenger and freight movement throughout France.

Rail workers will get a monthly wage increase of 1,800 francs (about $5.15).

The government also gave striking gas and electricity workers a 10-per-cent wage increase and non-communist unions ordered those workers back to the jobs.

Life Rafts From Missing Plane Sighted In Atlantic

Shannon, Republic of Ireland, March 24.—(AP)—A search plane, hunting for a giant American air force transport which vanished with 53 men aboard, today reported sighting "quite a few" life-rafts bobbing on the cold waters of the Atlantic off Ireland.

The pilot of a B-29 specially-equipped rescue plane said he saw a one-man raft about 450 miles west of the Irish coast.

About 15 miles south of the first sighted raft, the pilot said, he saw "quite a few" more one-man rafts close together.

Two U. S. military transport vessels, the General Muir and Golden Eagle were steaming full speed toward the rafts.

The Royal navy submarine Thune reported it was 40 miles from the rafts.

An American Skymaster and a B-17 equipped with life rafts that could be dropped by parachute flew to the scene at dawn from the U. S. air rescue station here.

Also ready to give aid if survivors are found among the wreckage or aboard rafts of the ill-fated C-124, the largest transport in regular use by the air force, were the liner Queen Mary, British weather ships and a coast guard cutter.

A spokesman at the Shannon rescue base said a Superfort was circling the area where the wreckage and flares were sighted and was directing other craft to the scene.

The big transport — a Globe-master II — disappeared in fog and rain early yesterday on a flight from the United States to Britain. She carried a crew of five and 48 passengers, including Brig.-Gen. Paul T. Cullen, deputy commander of the U. S. second air force with headquarters at Barksdale field at Shreveport, La., and four officers of the strategic air command headquarters at Omaha, Neb.

Cullen, a specialist in air photo reconnaissance, commanded the air photo unit during the A-bomb tests at Bikini in 1946.

The Globemaster was equipped with rafts, flares and other emergency gear. It took off yesterday from the Limestone, Me., air base and refueled at Gander, Nfld.

The plane, capable of carrying 220 troops with full field equipment—has a top speed of 250 miles an hour. An air force spokesman in Washington said the transport, which last reported its position 800 miles southwest of Ireland, had fuel for eight hours of flight when it vanished. It is a ship of the second strategic support squadron at Walker Air Base, N. M.

The report of flares and wreckage was turned in by a pilot of a searching Superfort. An R.A.F. control officer at Uxbridge, England, said the pilot also reported what he believed was a life raft.

Maj. Horace A. Stephenson, commanding the U. S. air-rescue mission at Shannon, said earlier he was awaiting the return of the B-29 "to find out from the airman that he definitely saw what he reported he saw." He said the airman might have been mistaken because of the darkness.

The pilot reported he made the finding at 12:45 A.M. (7:45 P.M. Friday EST) a full 24 hours after the giant plane was last heard from.

Later Stephenson told reporters that in addition to the first reported finding, further wreckage and flares were reported sighted 80 miles closer to the Irish coast, or at a spot roughly 400 miles west of Ireland.

It was a three-country search with American planes being aided by the R.A.F. and Irish aircraft. Other planes were standing by on airfields as far away as Germany.

The U. S. military transport General Muir was diverted from her course to aid British ships in the hunt. The vessel, on the way from Europe to the United States with service men and their dependents, was expected to reach the area about 12:30 P.M. (7:30 A.M. EST).

The British weather ships Jig and Charlie expected to reach the scene within hours. The Jig reported waves had diminished to five feet every 10 seconds. It was clear and cold with excellent visibility and a light west-southwest wind.

Milk Strike In Toronto Short Lived

Toronto, March 24.—(CP)—The first milk-delivery strike in Toronto's history ended yesterday.

After two days during which more than 1,000,000 residents of the Toronto area went without milk, a cheering meeting of dairy employees voted in favor of a compromise settlement of their wage dispute with the Toronto milk distributors' association.

The strike actually ended barely 30 hours after it began, and inside employees went back to work immediately. But regular deliveries will not be resumed until today, although dairies sold milk over the counter during yesterday afternoon.

The settlement, worked out Thursday in a meeting of union and dairy representatives with Labor Minister Daley and Louis Fine, chief conciliator of the Ontario Labor Department, ended the $6-a-man dead-lock over retroactive pay which precipitated the walkout.

Both parties had agreed on a $3 weekly pay increase after the Ontario milk board authorized an interim increase in the price of milk from 20 to 20½ cents a quart.

But the parties had bogged down on the question of retroactivity of the increase. The dairies were willing, at the outset, to make it effective March 1, as was recommended by a conciliation board. The milk drivers' union (A.F.L.), held out for Oct. 1, 1950. The board supplemented a $3 increase won by the union last September.

During all-night negotiations, the gap was narrowed to two weeks. The distributors set their date back to Dec. 15; the union moved theirs ahead to Dec. 1. The strike began when neither side would bridge the gap.

Under the settlement terms, the men will get their retroactive pay immediately to Dec. 15. How much more they get later depends on the decision of the milk control board on the ultimate price of milk.

If the board grants the dairies' request for a further half-cent increase April 15, they will make the $3 wage boost retroactive to Oct. 1, 1950. If the board turns down the half-cent increase, the men will receive $6 next March 1, making the increase retroactive to Dec. 1.

The vote in favor of settling the strike was 787 to 356.

A number of the men spoke in favor of holding out for the union's original terms. But international representative A. F. MacArthur and other executive members finally persuaded them to accept the compromise.

Steel Shortage Faces Howe In New Production Post

Ottawa, March 24.—(AP)—Trade Minister Howe, 65, and a member of the Cabinet for 16 years, has been named defence production chief and immediately is faced with a crucial shortage of steel.

Steel, he said at a press conference in the Prime Minister's office, is one of the critical issues in a planned, three-year $3,500,000,000 munitions and supply program.

He estimated that Canada will be short of requirements by 1,500,000 tons during 1951. Further restrictions in civilian use are "bound" to come.

He added that labor will become tight as Canada enlarges defence production. However, the government does not plan compulsory direction of manpower.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced at the conference Thursday that Mr. Howe, minister of munitions and supply during the second world war, has been appointed minister of the new department of defence production, effective April 1. He will retain the trade portfolio.

The Prime Minister also announced that the government's emergency powers legislation is being brought into force to protect the Great Lakes against sabotage. All seamen serving on Canadian ships on the lakes will be screened for security. Those approved will be issued "seamen's cards" by the labor department. The screening will be done by the R.C.M.P., starting May 1.

Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Howe, plan to spend the Easter holiday in Bermuda. Mr. St. Laurent left Thursday. Mr. Howe followed yesterday. Works Minister Fournier will be acting Prime Minister during their absence.

Mr. St. Laurent left the conference after making his announcement and reporters tossed questions at Mr. Howe.

He said he "hated" the job of returning to munitions work. He glanced at a list of 40 key personnel in the department and described himself as the only "old man" among them.

TO THE NORTH WARD ELECTORS

Acceding to the request of a large number of the electors of the North Ward, I have presented myself as a candidate in Tuesday's municipal elections.

Realizing that the development of any city can be achieved only by the fullest co-operation of all the elected representatives of the people, I am not promising to achieve wonders, either for my own ward or for the city as a whole, by my unaided efforts, but working with the men who now represent you at the City Hall I believe that I can do much for your benefit.

The two vital needs of the city as I see them today are an improved water supply and an effective system of town planning for the growth of the city.

A long-range scheme of town planning would permit the more efficient spending of municipal funds for capital purposes and properly distribute parks, playgrounds and other services in the new sections of the city.

Spring Is Here, Sap Is Running; It Is Sugaring-Off Time Again

By ARNOLD BARON
A better herald of the coming of Spring to the Province of Quebec than the approach of the calendar date March 21 is the stirring of the sap in the maple tree.

Well, it's pretty near sugaring-off time, the man in the barber's chair said, just to make idle conversation with the gent shaving him. That was some weeks ago.

Today, sugaring-off time is here and it is more than a topic of idle conversation to more than 25,000 Quebec farmers engaged in the production of maple syrup and sugar from the sap of 21,000,000 trees, of an estimated 40,000,000 trees which could be tapped.

Agricultural experts estimate that the total value of maple syrup and sugar produced in Canada during 1950 was $10,530,000 and although production is carried on also to a great extent in Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, over 80 per cent of the total production is in the Province of Quebec.

"The sap usually begins stirring around St. Patrick's Day and lasts between three and four weeks, usually until the first frog comes," says Gordon Herring who this year is tapping 1,200 trees on a 40-acre forest about a mile west of Lennoxville.

Mr. Herring, a 34-year-old

R.C.A.F. veteran and Macdonald College graduate, operates a dairy farm at this site, along with his brother Kenneth Herring and their dad, C. T. Herring, who has been making syrup for 45 years.

Last year was a good one for the maple syrup industry at Mr. Herring's farm. He produced 195 gallons of syrup from 800 trees.

These figures are deceiving, however, and not indicative of the great amount of work and material which goes into the conversion of sap to syrup and sugar.

It takes about 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of syrup, Mr. Herring informs. He figures that a cord of wood is burned up in the making of 10 gallons of syrup. This is based on last year's production of 195 gallons of syrup for 18 cords of wood used in the evaporation process.

There are 10 stages in the evaporation process after the sap is collected from the galvanized iron buckets attached to the trees, emptied into a 110-gallon drum, carried on a horse-drawn cart, which is, in turn, emptied into a 450-gallon container out of which a steel pipe leads into the evaporator, which the Herring's designed themselves.

The liquid proceeds through 10 different pans of the evaporator. The liquid is maintained at a temperature of 219 degrees Fahrenheit before the sap is converted to syrup. There are holes in the tin-plated pans through which the liquid moves in the first four stages and it is then pumped through a siphon to the fifth pan. Starting with the cold sap it takes almost three hours to complete into syrup.

As this process goes on, Mr. Herring is kept busy cleaning impurities out of the liquid. Underneath the pans is the foundation or arch of the evaporator, the arch alone marked a $550 investment for Mr. Herring. To these expenses is added the pay for two men who are kept busy collecting the sap from the trees. The trees themselves are an investment of 65 cents each, including pail and spout which taps the tree.

"Even with syrup selling at $5 a gallon, we won't make much," Mr. Herring says. From the evaporator, which is housed in a hut now 55 years old, the syrup is taken to the Herring home in Lennoxville where "mother and dad do the canning." The syrup is then sold mostly along the milk routes.

Mr. Herring says that no tree should be tapped under one foot in diameter. The rate of flow of the sap depends on the temperature. A minimum of 40 degrees is necessary for the sap to flow well. Two pounds of syrup per tree is considered "pretty good." On a good day each two-gallon can attached to a tree will be filled.

On the Record's visit to Mr. Herring's forest on March 21, the sap was dripping into the buckets at a pitifully slow rate. You could hear the drip in the morning for the area was deserted.

In the afternoon, however, a group of hardy students from Bishop's University staged a sugaring-off party under Mr. Herring's auspices, even though the snow still lay deep on the ground.

The syrup tasted very good when warm and even better when spread on a snow-filled bucket and then eaten. "It's a pity," someone said, "that home owners can't buy the snow-syrup combination."

OLD "CURE"

Holding fish and frogs' heads in the mouths of children suffering from whooping cough is an old "cure" still practiced among some of the peasantry of western Ireland.

The farm of Gordon Herring of Lennoxville is once again busied in the production of maple syrup and sugar, carrying on a family tradition which started with the arrival here of Mr. Herring's grandfather after the American War of Independence, and which has been maintained by Gordon's father, Mr. C. T. Herring, for 45 years. In the above photos is shown some of the maple sugar activity at the Herring forest. The first picture shows Gordon Herring (left) and a friend carrying a drum of maple syrup from the 55-year-old hut which houses the evaporator which converts the sap to syrup. In the second picture, a group of hardy students from Bishop's University are shown attending a sugaring-off party in the hut, having braved the snow and cold to do so. Left to right, they are: Marcel Dimmock, Professor Elton Scott and his sons, Ronald and David, Ralph Cooke, Victor Thierman, David Hall and Donald Wallace. In the third photo, Gordon Herring is shown beside his evaporator which has converted the sap to syrup at a temperature of 219 degrees Fahrenheit.

Commercial, Industrial Exhibition Will Be Staged By Junior Chamber

A commercial and industrial exhibition will be held at the Belvedere Street Armoury from April 20-28 under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Commercial Exhibition Reg'd., which has handled more than 40 exhibitions of this type in the province, has been entrusted with the arrangements for this exhibit and from advance indications the showing should be one of the finest seen here in many years.

Articles and products of all kinds will be on display, with local merchants and manufacturers making use of the 50 booths that will be set up in the Armoury.

A modest fee will be charged to the general public for admission and a fine program of entertainment, featuring well known local and Montreal radio artists, is being lined up.

This entertainment program will take place every night and it is planned to devote one night of the exhibition to English talent.

There will be door prizes each night and in addition the merchants and manufacturers who will have booths are giving away free tickets on a $200 radio for which there will be a drawing.

Jean Louis Blanchard is president of the exhibition committee whose other members include Lucien Bedard, Sirice Huard, William Larkin, Gerard Gauthier, Henri Brunelle, Lucien Latulippe, Maurice Allard, Gerard Nadeau, L. P. Audet, Rejean Lapierre, Robert Lamoignon, Marcel Doyon, Marcel Bureau, Robert Belisle, Gerard Pelletier, Gerald Ferguson, Roger Laliberte and Jean Louis Pelouquin.

Maurice Richard is president of the Commercial Exhibition Reg'd.

Three Persons Injured, One Critically; Two Escape In Crash At City Limits

Three persons were injured, one critically, result of an accident which occurred yesterday afternoon when an automobile attempting to turn towards Olivier's restaurant on the Montreal highway, near where the road turns off to Rock Forest, was struck by another car coming from Montreal to Sherbrooke.

Injured are: J. C. Bolduc, 43, of 143 King Street East, Sherbrooke; Ludger Turcotte, 26, of Montreal; Mrs. Jacqueline Dion, 26, also of Montreal.

Escaping without injury are: Paul Labbe, 21, of 25 Morkill Street, Sherbrooke, and Fernand Laliberte, 23, also of Sherbrooke, a passenger in the car driven by Labbe and owned by Bolduc.

The injured were admitted to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, taken there by Brian Ambulance, after receiving attention at the scene of the accident by Dr. Maurice Benier. Bolduc received numerous internal injuries and was still in critical condition at press time today. The Montreal couple are suffering from cerebral concussions. According to Provincial Police headquarters in Sherbrooke the three local men were proceeding to Magog when they suddenly changed their minds and turned to get something to eat at the restaurant. As they were turning towards the restaurant, the Montreal car, travelling to Sherbrooke, crashed into them.

Police further stated that Bolduc apparently saw the car coming and attempted to get out but was pinned by the crash.

The road was described as very slippery. Both cars were heavily damaged, estimated at a total of $2,000.

Maurice Lecours of Provincial Police, Sherbrooke, carried out the investigation.

COATICOOK BRANCH NO. 26

Your scribe "Ole Bill" has been in dry dock for the last few weeks. Thus the neglect to the "Log."

But things have been moving. The purchase of the St. Jean Baptiste property on Main street by the branch as a new Legion Home is nearly completed. The building committee report that it is possible that we will be moving in about June 1. This is a project that has taken a lot of some of the members' time, and they are to be congratulated on their efforts.

The installation of officers for the year 1951 will take place at the next regular meeting, April 2. Vice-president of Provincial Command, Cde. John Kay, will do the honors. District Commander, Cde. Howard Wells, of Stanstead, and others are invited. A smoker is planned after the installation so a good time is certain. The members are requested to turn out in strength for this event.

On Sunday afternoon, April 1, Cde. George Johann is turning over his sugar place to the Legion for an old-time "sugaring-off." Members are asked to bring their friends and families. The Johann farm is three miles from Coaticook on the Dixville road. You can't miss it.

The entire slate of officers will be retained for the coming year excepting the secretary, Bill Hanson, who is turning over these duties to Cde. Murray Woodman. The best wishes of the branch are in order. And hopes for a bigger and better year go with them. "OLE BILL."

So-Ed Committee Meets Monday To Discuss Program

A meeting of the So-Ed committee will be held at the Y.W.C.A. MacKinnon Memorial building, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, to discuss final plans for the coming So-Ed season which begins April 4 and continues until May 9.

So-Ed, which was started in Sherbrooke last November, is a combined social-educational program carried on jointly by the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A.

The group affords one the opportunity to gain knowledge, learn new skills and make friends in a friendly atmosphere. It is a six weeks course which attempts to acquaint the So-Eder with new hobbies, to stimulate his or her thinking and to increase one's interests and friends.

Any interested adult is invited to participate. Membership in the "Y" is not required.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs, World Amateur Champions, Cop Second International Trophy Within Week

London, March 24. — (Reuters) — Canada's touring Lethbridge Maple Leafs last night were formally presented with the second international trophy they have won within a week.

Last week in Paris they took the World Championship. Last night they were handed the newly-inaugurated Winston Churchill cup — named after Britain's wartime Prime Minister.

The Leafs clinched the Churchill Cup last night when they beat England. It was their second straight victory in a three-game series. The night before they trimmed the U. S. World Championship entry — the Bates Team from Lewiston, Me.

Lethbridge's 30-year-old playing coach, Dick Gray, received the cup from the British Ice-Hockey Association secretary, John (Bunny) Aherne, at a rink ceremony.

His team couldn't be present because it was at Nottingham playing an exhibition game.

"Winning two international trophies in one week is just about the finest thing that could happen to any team," Gray told a cheering crowd of 7,000 at London's Empire Hall.

"But my boys did it all with teamwork and hard work. There were no stars—the team was one star," England defeated the U. S. 10-2 in a Churchill Cup consolation game last night.

After the presentation Gray said Thursday's victory was his team's 43rd—36 of them were consecutive—since arriving from Canada Jan. 1 to tour Europe.

"It was also our 50th game of the season, counting the few we played at home before we left," he added.

"We won 49 altogether, dropped five and tied two—a fine record for any team."

He said the Leafs will sail home April 10 after playing five more exhibition games in Britain.

"We've had a trip money couldn't buy," he continued. "But there is one thing the boys want right now more than anything else. That's to get home."

He added: "and I think we can go home assured that we have done our country proud."

Chicago Cubs Trim Roster To 35 Players

Los Angeles, March 24. — (AP) — Chicago Cubs' roster was trimmed to 35 players yesterday with the release of catcher Harry Chitt, left-handed pitcher Andy Varga, and first sacker Fred Richards.

The three will be assigned to one of three farm clubs—Springfield, Mass.; Des Moines, Ia., and Nashville, Tenn.

Hurlers To Play Big Part In Braves Flag Hopes

Bradenton, Fla., March 24. — (AP) — Any club with three such brilliant pitchers as Johnny Sain, Warren Spahn and Vern Bickford can't be ignored. That is why the Boston Braves figure to give a good account of themselves in the 1951 flag scramble.

This trio accounted for 60 of the club's 83 victories last year. It would have been higher with better batting attack and defence.

That's Manager Billy Southworth's problem this season. He must come up with another winning pitcher if the Braves are to better their fourth-place rating of 1950.

Southworth has two strong candidates in Matt Surkont and Jim Wilson who toiled in the Pacific Coast League last season.

"Surkont showed me last year he can win in the big leagues," said Southworth. "He made seven starts for us after coming up from Sacramento, and won five and lost two."

"Wilson... has a good fast ball and fine control."

Surkont, 28, won 18 for Sacramento before joining the Braves in August. Wilson, 29, copped 24 decisions at Seattle.

The best of the other hurlers on the roster appears to be Dave Cole, a 20-year-old right-hander, and Chet Nichols, a left-hander of the same age. Both toiled at Milwaukee last season.

The Braves, as a whole, are a club with veterans manning every position except second base and centre field. This poses several problems.

Can Bob Elliott, at 34, hold up another full year at third? He missed a dozen games last year but led the club with 107 runs batted in.

Sid Gordon, the 32-year-old slugging outfielder, is another question mark. Can he escape the injury jinx that has hampered him during the last few years? He topped the club with 27 homers in '50.

Then there's Walker Cooper, 35, who led the club with a .313 batting average that included 14 homers.

Fleet-footed Sam Jethroe and Gordon are certainties in the outfield. Willard Marshall, a flop last year, is making a strong bid for the regular right-field post.

The Braves' catching was weakened by the loss of Del Crandall to the army. However, 29-year-old Ebbas St. Claire from Atlanta, has given signs of filling the youngster's shoes.

First base is well taken care of by Earl Torgeson, perhaps the most solid guy on the club.

Rex Layne Signs To Meet Eddie Cameron

Newark, N. J., March 24. — (AP) — Rex Layne, contender for the heavy-weight boxing crown, will meet Eddie (Red) Cameron in a 10-round bout at Salt Lake City April 9, Willie Glizzenberg, manager of Cameron, said yesterday.

Layne recently knocked out Bob Satterfield of Chicago. He also holds decisions over Cesar Brion and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Jack Kramer Best In Game, Says Bob Riggs

Philadelphia, March 24. — (AP) — Jack Kramer is the greatest player ever to swing a tennis racket, says Bobby Riggs, himself one-time king of the amateurs and professionals.

"I make no exception for such great players as Bill Tilden, Don Cochett, Fred Perry and Henri Cochet," declared the 33-year-old player and promoter.

"Possibly Ellsworth Vines could have given him an argument," Riggs added. "He had much the same type of game as Kramer but never was pushed completely."

Kramer and Riggs, along with Pancho Gonzales, Welly Van Horn, Pancho Segura and Frank Kovacs are here to compete in the Philadelphia Inquirer's $100,000 round-robin tournament opening today.

Riggs matches strokes with Kramer the first night and admits he has little hope of beating the big 29-year-old ace from Los Angeles.

"I quit playing regularly because I couldn't beat Jack," said Riggs.

"You have to have power in this game, along with finesse," Riggs added. "Jack has both and his power is simply overpowering. He doesn't ease up one minute."

The back-to-work orders were given by the Force Ouvriere and the Christian Workers Union, each of which controls 65,000 members, and the autonomous Union of Cadres.

It was not immediately clear how much the two agreements would ease the troubled labor situation, as government negotiators have avoided sitting down with the communist-led Confederation Generale du Travail, which controls some 300,000 rail workers. The C.G.T. thus far has let the non-communist unions take the initiative on the current walk-out.

However, not all the non-communist labor leaders are satisfied with any wage boosts of less than 12.5 per cent.

A special government economic commission has fixed 12.5 per cent as the cost-of-living increase in the last seven months.

Brussels, March 24. — (AP) — Fifteen foreign communists, here for a congress of the Belgian communist party, were arrested yesterday and will be expelled, officials announced. They said the 15 were Dutch, Luxembourgers and Italians. They were detained as undesirable aliens pending a trip to the border.

the next three years.

But the big problem was steel. Canada needed 5,500,000 tons of finished steel in 1951. Prospects were for production of about 2,800,000 tons in Canada and shipments of about 1,200,000 to 1,400,000 from the United States and other countries.

That would leave Canada short about 1,500,000 tons. Further steps would have to be taken to curb civilian use of steel.

Quebec, March 24. — (CP) — Edmond Chasse, 64, veteran Quebec newspaper man often called "French-Canada's best reporter," died in hospital today after a brief illness.

Mr. Chasse entered Ste. Therese de l'Enfant Jesus Hospital a few days ago after reporting the Quebec Legislature session which ended last week for Le Canada, Montreal daily newspaper.

He underwent two operations and died early this morning.

In a ding dong battle from start to finish Knowlton's girls' basketball team defeated the defending champions from Granby to win the High School crown of this area and carry home the Gus Reglin Trophy for the first time. The score couldn't have been any closer than this 27 to 26 win for the purple and white.

Both teams agreed on Waterloo being the neutral floor, and they brought out an official from St. Lambert High School to see that the decisions were equal. Granby came on the floor as a distinct favourite, for they had taken coach Buttle's team over the jumps in fine style two weeks before.

The game opened in cautious style with both teams laying down strong defensive games. Then Bev Bockus, of Knowlton, dropped in the first two points. Then in rapid succession Joan Yep and Bockus slid in four more points. Granby were trying desperately to score and just before quarter time Bev Webster, of Granby, broke the scoring ice with one field goal and one free shot. Nellie Marsh and Bockus were the K.H.S. wheel horses, and they seemed to have all the answers in blanketing Wilf Anderson's hopes.

At the start of the second quarter Granby began to roll. Webster, Kit Etienne, and Fay Kittell were booming in against the stubborn Purple defense, and their efforts racked up seven points to four for Knowlton. The half ended with Granby in command 11 to 10. During the half-time lull Knowlton must have had a confidential talk with superman, for as hostilities began the K.H.S. aggregation literally swamped the Granby efforts. Nellie Marsh, Cris Reglin and Joan Yep were as busy as coopers around a barrel.

Anderson's crew seemed to have a plethora of left feet and only the noble efforts of Webster and Carol Morris kept them within hailing distance. The Quarter ended 24-16 with Knowlton in the driver's seat.

Then came Granby's strong counter that fell one point short of tying the game. This girl Webster scored to carry her teammates with her. However, Gladys Johnson led the Knowlton defense and the purple forwards deftly held possession, to just barely edge out a victory. It was a great game to win and a hard game to lose.

Granby had won the championship every year since the league was organized. If they defeated Knowlton, they would have retained the Reglin trophy. Now it's open for competition again.

After seeing the league teams in action I would like to put Joan Yep, of Knowlton, between Bev Webster, of Granby, and Maragret Sanford, of Cowansville, then give me Carol Morris, of Granby, Nellie Marsh, of Knowlton, and Anne Brown, of Waterloo, to guard them against the other teams incursions and I would be willing to play almost any high school team.

Chaff, Wes D'Astois, Knowlton's versatile athlete and hockey team captain picked up the cup for the hockey championship. Glenn Davis, Knowlton's former high school track star, couldn't run quite fast enough to escape the Southern Canada Power foreman and it was wedding bells recently. Nice going Gus Viger. . . All of Glenn's former school mates wish her the very best. K.H.S. will lose Reglin, Soles, Jolley, Marsh, Yep, Sharman, and some others from their champs next year. . . Some do, that the Amateur Athletic Union are putting on at Knowlton April 7. Two hours of track and field instructional films in the afternoon. . . An Eastern Township Athletic Assn. Charter presentation. Art Jacques jumping over six feet.

Rome Church Bells Sound Lent's End

Vatican City, March 24. — (AP) — The bells of Rome's more than 100 churches—led by the great bronze chime of St. Peter's basilica—rang out joyously today to commemorate the resurrection of Christ.

The first to begin the bronze-voiced were the bells of St. Peter's and those of the basilica of Saint John Lateran, the seat of the Pope as Bishop of Rome. Then, one by one, churches throughout Rome joined in the peaan that marked the end of Lent and the beginning of the Easter holiday.

When the Pope was carried on his portable throne into Saint Peter's basilica, more than 10,000 pilgrims, tourists and Romans were gathered there.

The Pontiff was carried up the central aisle of the basilica to the main altar, where a temporary throne had been erected. He greeted the gathering and spoke to them in five languages—Italian, French, German, English and Spanish.

Hong Kong, March 24. — (Reuters) — Chinese communists have accused the French Roman Catholic Jentzu (charity) orphanage at Kiu-king, in the Kiangsi province of south-eastern China, of mistreating children in its care, procommunist dispatches said today.

This is the fourth Catholic orphanage in China subjected to communist accusations in recent weeks.

The dispatches said the orphanage had admitted 389 children between May 1949 and April 1950, of whom 304 had died. They alleged those in control of the orphanage were responsible.

Cool Reception Given Canadians

Vancouver, March 24. — (AP) — Korea-bound Canadian soldiers, now on their final leave, found Canada's third city a rather lonely place this Easter Saturday.

Hundreds of them streamed into Vancouver Good Friday from Fort Lewis, Wash., where Canada's United Nations brigade has been in training. Some $5,000 are to sail early next month to join the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in Korea.

The women's auxiliary of the P.P.C.L.I., which conducted a soldier-hospitality campaign all week, said it had received offers of billets for only 160 men in greater Vancouver, which has a population of 500,000.

"We are very disappointed," a spokesman for the auxiliary said. "We expected something better."

At least 300 soldiers tramped the streets last night with no place to go and nothing much to do. Many of them spent the night at the army barracks here.

Things brightened somewhat today. Radio stations here didn't pull any punches in telling Vancouver residents that they had let the soldiers down.

Scores of persons bombarded the stations with telephone calls. Some said they hadn't known where to phone to ask a soldier to their home and immediately offered billets.

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY

Latest Corsetry Excites Interest Of British Women

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

London. — With an eye to the new slim silhouette, the woman of Britain are taking a sudden, sharp interest in corsets — and finding the line generally satisfactory.

At a fashion show in a west-end hotel, well-cut medium-priced foundations demonstrated how a skilfully-cut brassiere and corset can disguise unwanted bumps and bulges without the old heavy boning and taping.

There are corsets and corsetettes for big busts or small, for narrow hips, large hips and "spare-tires." For the tall girl there are long corsets, for the dumpy girl short corsets and for those who are short or long waisted, there are corsets to match.

A new brassiere was modelled by five mannequins to show how, with variation of cup-fittings and sizes, one brassiere can fit successfully anything from a 32- to a 40-inch bust.

All these garments now are procurable on the home market, with nylons as the No. 1 fabric.

"Today's choice is the best ever," said one Regent Street store manager. "At one time women who wanted good foundations had to spend large sums and long hours in being fitted. Now they can go into any store and get the right garment off the peg, at a reasonable price."

Most big British stores have special fitting rooms and trained assistants to advise on the best fitting for the figure concerned.

"There is still too much Victorianism in this country regarding women's wear, bosoms and busts are just being recognized here," said a woman fashion expert at a meeting of the textile institute.

"But now they are, we want good designs," said Margaret Dishon, and Leonora Curry who were bringing faults in design to the notice of the institute.

Miss Dishon called attention to brassieres that looked fine on a shop counter, but when worn sagged in a week, or less. She then spoke violently on the faults of nannies that split at the seams after washing — "whether they are 4s 6d. (68 cents) rayon or 12s 6d. ($1.88) nylon."

Landing, with the mumps. Miss Clara Jewett spent the week-end at her home at Vale Perkins.

Master Douglas Hume, of Foster, was the guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ian W. Crandall.

Mr. and Mrs. Guilloitte, of Lacchute, spent several days with his mother, Mrs. E. A. Guilloitte.

Pre-School Tots Love Activities In Test Classes

St. Catharines, Ont. — Forty-six four-year-olds are being used in an experiment in a St. Catharines kindergarten and the children love it.

The kindergarten was set up last November and how the board of education is trying to decide if similar projects will be instituted in various schools throughout the city. It is located in a large, bright room in a new part of Edith Cavell School and is a veritable children's paradise. Educational authorities who have visited the kindergarten say it is one of the best in the province.

The new kindergarten is painted in a soft shade of blue, has large windows which let in plenty of sunshine and special fluorescent lighting for dull days. The floor is covered with blue and white rubberized linoleum and all tiny furniture is painted to harmonize with the general color scheme.

Large murals, fantastic and garish, in both design and color, line the walls. This is the children's art. They work at miniature easels, painted blue to match the furniture.

The kindergarten is equipped with all types of toys, both educational and otherwise, designed to meet the needs of younger children. There are parallel bars, a junior-sized jungle gym, a teeter-totter and two streamlined rockers, all made in the vocational department of St. Catharines college.

There are also wooden blocks, a tricycle, wagon, dolls and doll carriage, books, balls and just about every other kind of toy a child could want. Every toy is used during some part of the day.

The kindergarten prepares the children for a senior kindergarten level. By the time they reach the primary kindergarten for five-year-olds, they are socially adjusted and can handle scissors, paste and can do a lot of things for themselves.

M. F. Pummell, superintendent for schools in St. Catharines, is pleased with the result of the experiment to date. "I am very happy about it," he says. "These youngsters are getting a fine training socially which will benefit them in their behavior now and in the senior kindergarten. To my mind, it is money well spent."

Apparently the parents of young children in the city also think it is money well spent, although the kindergarten cost them and other taxpayers about $25,000 originally and $2,000 a year to maintain.

There is a waiting list now of other youngsters whose parents want them to have the benefits of this type of kindergarten when they are old enough.

Broken Marriages Find Babs Hutton Lonely In Mexico

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

New York. — Just before she became a bride in Paris 18 years ago a plump, pretty American girl said "It's going to be fun being a princess."

But it hasn't been fun for Barbara Hutton being a princess twice, or being a countess, or being the wife of a Hollywood movie king. It's been heartbreak and unhappiness, in spite of unlimited money and all the luxuries it can buy.

Barbara Hutton, born an American "dollar princess," today is a thin, lonely woman of 38, self-exiled in Mexico City to preside at the dissolution of another marriage dream. Behind her is a string of four broken marriages and a long series of unpleasant lawsuits. Dogged by illness, she is even denied the comfort of her only child, Lance, who is in her father's custody most of the time.

Possessor of a great fortune, she is a rootless citizen of the world.

Life has never been kind to Barbara Hutton. Her mother died when she was five. She was brought up by governesses and tutors, and she was surrounded by bodyguards and chaperones because kidnapping was a real threat to a child worth between $20,000,000 and $40,000,000 — her share of grandfather Woolworth's dime store fortune.

Before her first marriage, to Prince Mdivani in Paris, Barbara complained that all the American men she knew were interested primarily in business. Mdivani never wrapped himself in business but concentrated on sports. During most of the two years of marriage the gay, dark-haired prince travelled over Europe with the string of polo ponies which was her wedding present to him.

She gained her divorce in Reno in 1935 and 24 hours later married Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, a good-looking Danish nobleman who had followed her from London. A year later their son, Lance, was born in London.

Because her dual citizenship was complicating her business affairs Barbara renounced her United States citizenship. Barbara and the Count separated in 1938 and were divorced (on their joint application) in 1941.

Then followed another brief marriage to handsome British-born Cary Grant who was a reigning film favorite. Grant is one of Hollywood's rich men and money wasn't the cause of their breakup. In the 1945 divorce Barbara charged him with mental cruelty and said he did not like her friends.

Her fourth bridegroom was Prince Igor Troubetzkoy, French citizen of royal Lithuanian birth. The handsome prince indulged his love of skiing and auto racing after their marriage while Barbara's health seemed to be failing and her illness almost chronic.

She filed for a Mexican divorce on the familiar grounds of mental cruelty but Troubetzkoy says he still loves Barbara, doesn't want her money and will resist the divorce proceedings to the utmost.

The Friendly Group Of Cookshire United Church Staged A Successful Children's Fashion Show And Tea

Cookshire, March 24.—A very enjoyable afternoon was spent in Cookshire High School Assembly Hall, when the "Friendly" Group of the United Church put on a "Children's Fashion Show" sponsored by "Tot's Town," of Sherbrooke.

The room was spring-like with its branches of cherry blossoms, and tulips. These were made by Miss Mildred Waldron, of Sawyerville.

Mrs. W. Roberts, president, welcomed the guests and described the costumes, while Miss Louisa Elliott, sold tickets and Mrs. George Gill played soft music throughout the afternoon.

The first to appear was two year old Judy Waldron, in turquoise cotton-interlock pyjamas; followed by Trudy Learned wearing a washable rust corduroy bathrobe, by "Goosey Gander"; Vickie Lake, in a washable corduroy 3-piece set by "Gay Togs" for girls and boys; Pam Lane, in a plaid pleated skirt worn with a white blouse; Andre Jacques, in a 2-piece blue and grey drill jodhpur set, dot fasteners at ankles, jacket lined, and a Grand Mere navy polo beret.

Pam Lane was in green wool-rayon gabardine raincoat with matching beret. Mary Cassidy wore a double-duty dress that may be worn as a sun-dress or a white party dress, made of permanent organdy. With this, she wore a straw hat and a matching purse.

Janet MacDonald wore a navy coat, houndstooth trim, with bowler hat to match. The coat features adjustable size, it grows on you. Janet Learned appeared first in a velvet trimmed coat, with new collar and yoke effect, and pike bonnet. She returned wearing a brown plaid dress with brown vest made by Lowwear.

Charlotte Taylor appeared in a navy wool-rayon gabardine trench style raincoat with matching beret. Janet MacDonald was in a tangerine corduroy skirt and vest, with a white Mingo blouse; Eleanor Vogell was in a sister dress by Lowwear, green plaid with vest effect; Joan Matthews in a sister coat, navy adjustable size.

Charlotte Cook appeared in rose coat with velvet trim, adjustable size; Betty MacRea in blue jeans, sanforized, with striped T-shirt.

Douglas Parker was in brown gabardine trench style raincoat; Michael Gage in a Gene Autry shirt; Marion MacDonald, plaid kilt skirt with pin, worn with a white nylon sweater.

Douglas Parker wore a navy blazer, tailored like duds, grey flannels and white sport shirt. Helen Cook paraded in a red puffersheer dress by Lowwear, trimmed with permanent organdy puffed sleeves and bib, edged with lace and a very full skirt.

At the close of the parade all appeared in costume. The children deserve great credit, for all did their part without a break.

The show was followed by a tea, which was served by the high-school girls and was much enjoyed.

THE WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

The Women's Association of Trinity United Church met with Mrs. E. C. James. There were seventeen ladies present.

After the opening exercises the ladies spent the time in sewing on articles for the forthcoming sale and on garments to be sent to Korea.

Ideas for the year's work were presented to the ladies to think over and to present their opinions at the next meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Robinson, on March 28, which will be a joint meeting with the W.M.S. and there will be a guest speaker.

Mrs. James served tea which was enjoyed by all. Then each member wended her way home feeling that the afternoon had been well spent.

ST. PATRICK'S TEA

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion held its annual St. Patrick's Tea in the Legion Hut on Saturday, March 17.

The room was decorated in green and each tea table was centered with a green candle. At one end of the room there was a table displaying the "Chicken Dinner," on which tickets had been sold. The exciting moment came when Mrs. T. O. Farnsworth was asked to draw the winner's name, and Mrs. M. Maheu was the lucky name drawn.

General Notes

Coming events are a church supper and sale put on by St. Margaret's Guild; a bridge, sponsored by the Women's Institute to terminate the Marathon which has been held during the winter months; and an evening with the Legion. With the preceding events held and the ones in store, who can say that a small town is a dull place in which to live?

Mrs. Vogell, of Sherbrooke, is spending some time with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Vogell.

COATICOOK HIGH SCHOOL OBSERVED EDUCATION WEEK

Coaticook, March 24.—Education Week was observed by Coaticook High School in the following manner: A special education week service was held in the Coaticook United Church on March 4, with the Rev. Dr. Perry officiating.

The lesson was read by Stewart MacKinnon and the High School Choir sang.

Two windows in the Gerin and Boutin Store were devoted to Education displays. One of them illustrated work done by various classes in the school and the other was devoted to the various aspects of reading.

On Tuesday evening, March 6, the school held "Open House" and over sixty parents and friends attended. There was a rendition of several songs by the school choir, and a solo by Miss Stewart, the music teacher. Films on education topics were shown and tea was served by the Senior Household Science Class, under the direction of Miss Thompson, the household science instructor.

Your Guess, Good as Ours

WHEN Beverly and Billy moved from their city apartment to a house in the country, they were puzzled by all the unfamiliar things they saw and which they could not name. Both Beverly and Billy began bringing home berries, leaves, even rough drawings of the birds they saw flying overhead. These they put on a whatnot shelf until their father or mother could see the objects and tell them what they were. This soon became the what-is-it shelf.

After a while, the what-is-it shelf developed into a full-fledged family game. Whoever found any information on the current bird, pebble, leaf or weed would write on a card what he had discovered used in education. For 10 years high school students at Clay High School in Seoto County, Ohio, have studied and mounted novel specimens in their biology classes and now they have a fair-sized museum. Many of these animals and insects were nameless when they were brought in and considerable excitement developed in running down their identification.

For what you do not know and want to find out about, a what-is-it shelf provides both fun and knowledge, a combination that is hard to beat for all-year-round enjoyment.

Magog's C. W. L. Celebrates St. Patrick's Day

Magog, March 24. — The Catholic Women's League of Magog, sponsored a dinner in honor of Ireland's Patron Saint, on March 17. The event took place in the dining room of the Union Hotel, which was attractively decorated with Irish flags and shamrocks and was attended by upwards of eighty guests.

The guest speaker for the evening was the Rev. J. McCaffrey, rector of Loyola College, Montreal.

Father McCaffrey was an eloquent and effortless speaker, whose Irish wit permeated his whole discourse. He traced briefly, the history of Ireland, and its transition from a warlike and marauding nation to a cultured and religious one. He told of the saints and scholars that Ireland has produced, and of the monasteries and colleges, which kept the lamp of literature of learning alight during the Dark Ages.

Father McCaffrey exhorted the Irish to be true and helpful to the land of their adoption, and he reminded his listeners of the kind of the French Canadians to the Irish immigrants during the early part of the nineteenth century and of the debt of gratitude, which the Irish, and their descendants owed to the New World for the kindness and sympathy with which they were met when they set foot on the shores of Canada.

He expressed sorrow for the prevalent cynicism in the world today, and urged his listeners to be more willing to believe the best of their fellow-men, and to love their neighbors, not only in thought, but in deed.

During Father McCaffrey's speech, the dining room resounded with hearty laughter, when his typical Irish humour came to the fore.

He deplored the fact that everyone was not Irish, but felt sure that God bestowed some gifts on the other races to make up for their lack of Irish blood.

Father McCaffrey was introduced to his audience by the president of the Catholic Women's League, Mrs. A. Buzzell. In a few well chosen remarks, Miss M. Donigan expressed the appreciation and enjoyment of those present for the privilege of hearing Father McCaffrey.

Mr. G. Lacroix, local representative of D.V.A. also spoke briefly of the benevolent work of the C. W. L. and expressed the hope that of their fellow-men, and to love their neighbors, not only in thought, but in deed.

Madame Regina Winoza Gave A Fine Talk On The "French Underground" At The Boundary Rotary Meeting

Derby Line, March 24—"Many of the stories you have read about the activities of the French Underground during World War II contain more fiction than fact," said Madame Regina Winoza, in the course of a fascinating talk at the regular Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

Members of the local Business and Professional Women's Club joined with the Rotarians and Rotary-Anns, for the meeting, making a sizable group for the special speaker.

C. R. Darby, president of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, presided. Miss Margaret Battersby, president of the B.P.W., introduced the members of her organization.

"Not all of the members of the underground were either heroes or villains," said Mrs. Winoza, "and many of those who came into action late in the war had played on both sides when it was not certain that Germany would lose the war. You read quite often of German officers being killed in France during the war, but this was not usually the work of the underground. The results of such action were more injurious than helpful. Every time anything like that happened, fifty or a hundred hostages were taken by the Germans and shot, and that was not the kind of action that benefitted the Allies or France.

"The main work of the underground was the securing of information on German activities and plans, getting this information to the Allies, aiding fliers to escape from the Nazis, and otherwise doing injury to the German war effort.

"One test pilot tried out a German fighter plane for a long period of time, always finding something wrong with it, so that it was not put into production until the war was virtually over. There were British pilots who landed by parachute from small planes in isolated fields, who were taken care of by the underground, helped to secure the information they needed, and then aided to escape (usually by plane) back to the Allies. One such pilot made many of these trips, not only to France but also to Germany itself."

The border between Free France and the occupied zone was guarded not only by men, but also by well trained dogs, according to the speaker, and the crossing of these lines was a dangerous task. Mrs. Winoza told of taking sheets of information across this territory and of being utterly unable to think of any way of hiding the papers. Finally she proceeded by simply carrying the sheets in her hand, with the idea of dropping them and covering them with mud if she was caught.

According to the speaker, the obvious ways were usually the most successful and best operators depended more upon the boldness of their efforts than they did upon the secrecy. Such simple things as laundry-lists were used as means of carrying identification rather than elaborate codes that would be recognized as codes if they were seen.

Emphasizing the fact that many late arrivals in the underground movement joined after they were sure that the Allies would win, Madame Winoza said that a great deal of fine work was done by the various groups, but that many of the stories that had been published dealt with the startling and melodramatic aspects rather than with the regular day-by-day activities, which were actually much more important to the Allies.

Madame Winoza was introduced by Maurice Moore, who spoke of her ability as a sea-plane pilot and emphasized the fact that she was speaking from real knowledge rather than from guess-work. She was thanked for her fine talk by Earl Heath.

The singing was led by C. R. MacLean, and Paul Morel furnished the piano accompaniment, also favoring those present with a piano solo.

The guests were welcomed to the meeting by C. R. MacLean, and on account of the large number present, the meeting was held downstairs in the Delbar.

MRS. R. R. MERRILL,
OF MAGOG

Magog, March 24 — Mrs. R. R. Merrill, widow of the late Robert P. Merrill, passed away at her home, 5125 Pine Street, on February 12, after a short illness.

Mrs. Merrill, born Nellie May Oliver, March 4, 1865, was the daughter of the late George Oliver and his wife, Hester Hovey and was one of the few remaining members of several families of that name who originally settled in the community, known as Oliver Corner.

After teaching school for several years, she was married, March 2, 1892, to Robert R. Merrill, who passed away in August, 1950. For many years, they lived on the farm originally owned by her father, celebrating their golden wedding anniversary there in 1942. A few years later, they moved to Magog.

Mrs. Merrill was a member of St. Paul's United Church and W. A. and a life member of the W. M. S. and W. C. T. U. Although failing health during the last few months prevented her from attending meeting of these groups, she maintained a keen interest in their activities and her hands were always busy with work of some kind.

The funeral service, held in St. Paul's Church, was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Philip Matthews and was attended by members of the W. A. and W. C. T. U. in a body as well as by many other friends and relatives. The bearers were A. E. Smith, James Connors, Grayson Turner and Dr. C. S. Harris.

Mrs. Merrill is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Davidson, of Georgeville, and Miss Winifred Merrill, of Sherbrooke. An older daughter, Bernice, died in 1902, at the age of eight. She also leaves one sister, Mrs. J. B. Dolloff, of Parshall, Colorado; a son-in-law, J. A. Davidson; two grandchildren, Mrs. Nial Forster, of Vancouver, B.C., and Miss Janet Davidson, of Bishop's University, Lennoxville, as well as several nieces and nephews and many friends.

He was united in marriage to Mary Abercrombie, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Abercrombie, of Kinsey, who predeceased him on September 11, 1925.

Of this union, three children were born, all of whom survive, Clyde, Mrs. Frank Nimms and Veda, Mrs. Eugene Dubois, of Holyoke, Mass., and Percy, of Memphis, Tenn. Telephone -- 1877 Vintage

Robert H. Neilson, formerly of Sherbrooke, shows how the telephone of 1877 was used at his family's residence on Carlton Street, Toronto. His father, the late Hugh Neilson, was one of the first four telephone users in Toronto who pioneered the telephone industry there. After 74 years' continuous telephone service at the Carlton Street address, probably the longest on record anywhere, the remaining members of the Neilson family are now moving away. The telephone shown here is a wooden instrument and the two receivers attached could be used for either receiving or transmitting. The operator was signalled by a crank. Usually affixed beside the telephone was a list of the subscribers — 150 in 1879 — which comprised the Toronto telephone directory of that day.

Historic Telephone Event In Toronto Recalls Early Days Of That City

Robert H. Neilson, of Montreal, who was connected with the Bell Telephone Company of Canada here from 1900 to 1916, took part in a historic telephone event at Toronto last week which recalled the early days of that city. A son of the late Hugh Neilson, manager of Toronto's first telephone company, Mr. Neilson was one of the last persons to speak over a telephone installed in the family residence on Carlton Street, Toronto in 1877 barely three years after the invention of the telephone itself.

Mr. Neilson, special representative in the commercial department of the Bell Telephone here until his retirement in 1945 after 50 years' service was in Toronto to make final arrangements for the disposal of the house which resulted in disconnection of telephone service. The service had been maintained continuously in the house by the Neilson family.

Mr. Neilson, whose son, J. R. Neilson, is manager of the Eastern Townships Telephone Company, recalls that when his father first had a telephone installed in the Carlton Street house, Mr. Neilson Sr. was manager of a small but ambitious organization known as the Toronto Telephone Despatch Company. He and three others were the only telephone subscribers in Toronto. With one other member, they also comprised the five shareholders of the infant company. When the organization was bought out by the Bell Telephone Company of Canada in 1881, Hugh Neilson was appointed Toronto manager for the Bell organization which had then been in existence only a year.

Following the broadcast and discussion, a questionnaire was filled out. Refreshments were served. The final meeting of the present series will be held in the parish hall, at Bedford, with Mr. and Mrs. J. Patenden and Mr. Herman Sornberger, for the hosts.

Your Home And Mine

By D. C. MULLER

BED ROOM

The next room that we will discuss, after the kitchen, is the bedroom. Why? To many people a bedroom isn't just a place to sleep, but it is also a reading and sewing room, and usually it is the most cheerful room in the apartment or house. It is a cosy livable room, not just a room to sleep in. Therefore keep it cheerful, simple and neat. Don't overcrowd it with miscellaneous furniture. A bed, dresser, and chiffonier make up the absolutely necessary furniture. A vanity bench and night table might be added later, if your room is large enough to hold them. If not, keep to the three pieces, and add a nice cosy bedroom chair, one you can lounge around in and feel at ease in. Many people today have a double, Mr. and Mrs. dresser; it is a very practical piece of furniture, has a nice appearance and good drawer space. If your room is large the 5 piece set is nice to have, if not don't put a large set in a small room.

Colours

Colours in a bedroom should be light and gay, not the heavy solid shades. The pastel hues are always in taste, but yellow hasn't the charm and richness of the others. Some light blues, peach, pinks are soft delicate and rich looking.

Drapes And Curtains

A nice curtain flanked with drapes of a colour contrasting with the wall is desirable. These should not cut off any light, and should not overload the window. The drapes should be chosen with care, and the contrast will just be enough to add colour, so as not to make the room look monotonous.

Rugs

Scattered rugs look very nice in the floor if it has a nice polish to it. The broadloom, wall to wall rugs, are very nice but expensive, however a rug with a nice floral pattern also goes very well.

Furniture comes in many different styles, and colours, both in solid wood as maple and birch and veneers. Look around first before you buy in both lines. The room that I have described is the master-bedroom, next week we shall describe the guest bedroom.

ASCOT CORNER

The Spring Road Farm Forum has concluded an enjoyable season of meetings and discussions. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McCurdy entertained the group at their home on March 12, when the training of rural teachers was discussed.

The work done by rural teachers is becoming better recognized, and the need of close co-operation between parents and teachers is apparent to all. At the end of a social evening refreshments were served by Mrs. McCurdy.

On March 19, the final broadcast, "Pipe-line of Information," was heard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Garfat. There were 14 members present. The questionnaire regarding next year's course of study was answered. Considerable enthusiasm was shown in picking the topics wanted for another season. Mrs. Garfat served a delicious salad supper at the close of the evening.

Mr. Dennis Desruisseaux, of East Angus, was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Modeste Clement.

Miss Lottie Green and Miss Bertha Green were in Sherbrooke for a day on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Gil Trizanne and daughter, Jocelyn, of Montreal, spent a week-end with Mrs. B. V. Trizanne. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trizanne, of Sherbrooke, were also visitors at the same home.

Mr. Osborne Pageau, of Montreal, is spending the Easter holidays at his parental home.

Mr. Norman Coates spent a day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Coates.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells Coates were in Cookshire, where they attended the funeral of Thomas Kirby.

Here is the little Italian girl who plays the role of Maria Goretti in "La Fille des Marais," the French-dubbed, Italian-made film which tells the story of the 11-year-old child who died while fighting off an attacker on a farm in the Pontine marshes in 1902. Maria was canonized by the Pope last June but the film is a folk-story rather than a religious recital. The film is coming to the Granada Theatre for one performance only, at 11 p.m. on March 27.

REJOICE ON EASTER MORN

Our Lenten tryst draws to its close
The dawn of Easter breaks,
The One Who suffered torments, woes,
His throne on High now takes.

Exalt the high, and holy One,
Who has our ransom paid,
He is our Saviour, God's dear Son
Who in the tomb was laid.

With sacrifice for us so great,
None may in truth deny
Or His allegiance understate,
To Son of God, most high.

Heart-searching thoughts we've entertained
Throughout our Lenten days;
As Easter dawns be not constrained
But offer songs of praise.

Hail the glorious Easter-tide,
Come! gather 'round His board;
To none salvation is denied,
Come! greet the risen Lord!

'Tis the season of great Joy
And redeeming Peace,
When nothing should our hearts annoy
And right good-will increase.

God's great outdoors is full of life
At this time every year;
May Easter drain your heart of strife
Replacing it with cheer.

LETTER FROM BRITAIN

London's New Transport Museum

By A. K. ASTBURY

A permanent transport museum is to be set up at Nine Elms goods station in London. This decision has been taken following the report of a committee appointed by the British Transport Commission to investigate how best our wealth of early railway and other transport relics may be preserved for all time.

There will indeed be enough from the very early days of railway pioneering to fill this museum, as well as those already in existence in the north of England at York and in Scotland, at Edinburgh — to say nothing of the Welsh transport museum which in time may be open to the public at Cardiff. For they built things to last, those early pioneers — so well, indeed, that their stations and bridges and even their locomotives simply will not wear out.

Nine Elms station, built in 1835, was the original London terminus of the long defunct London and Southampton Railway. The growth of London has however left it some distance from the nearest elm tree, let alone nine of them! Here, in this classic-style building, will be shown some of the larger exhibits from the railway museum at York and, in time, historic electric trams and motor buses at present preserved by London's transport authorities, together with other exhibits from the old railway companies.

Achievements Of The Pioneers
Yet the real fact of the matter is that all over Britain, not only in railway museums, is evidence of the fantastic achievements of our railway pioneers. Liverpool Road, Manchester, the oldest railway station in the world, is still in use; it simply won't wear out. The desk on which journeys were "booked" over a hundred years ago is still there, and the hall in which the Duke of Wellington sat after the railway's first journey is still in use. At Kettering the station master still sits on a chair made for the London and Birmingham Railroad a century ago; and at Ord-sall Lane, Manchester, the original stone sleepers of the Liverpool and Manchester Railway, the world's first passenger railway, are still in use as coping stones on a wall. And as far as bridges are concerned there are viaducts up and down the country built to take the little rattling trains Charles Dickens knew which now take solid rock, near every town and city of the north, the work of the railway pioneers may be seen today, still living, and still in use.

Their achievements were monumental. Nowadays our technical achievements are on less massive scale, and we have to leave to others the creation of the biggest, or the heaviest, or the longest, or the highest. . . I may however record, perhaps, the recently announced judgment of the United Nations Educational and Scientific Organization on our schools broadcasting system over here, which they regard as the best and most comprehensive system in the world. It has a curriculum of 21 subjects, including languages such as French and German, with school subjects like music and geography. But in addition there are talks on subjects such as exploring and travel, and surveys of science and international problems. During last year 30,000 schools heard the programme; and each week 400 teachers report by postcard to the headquarters of the British Broadcasting Corporation saying how they have been received. And at the beginning of each year the School Broadcasting Council, which is responsible for the year's curriculum, prints a series of illustrated pamphlets on the various subjects, with details of the broadcasting service itself. Copies of these go to all schools in Britain.

The next development in this type of schooling will, I suppose, be television teaching. Experiments during the past few months at three schools in Essex have provided valuable experience in this method; and, as a private venture, one London school teacher has set up a schools "television research centre" where, with the help of 40 pupils, he has been carrying out experiments on the physical conditions in which television can best be used as a "visual aid" in schools.

Some Unusual Maps

Neither radio nor television played any part in the schooling I received. But one of my present interests developed in the classroom and has remained with me ever since — and that is an interest in maps. The recently published monastic maps of Britain, showing all the pre-Reformation monastic establishments, caught my eye a week or two ago. And new the latest map, or rather atlas, to come my way is what is known as the Herring Atlas for Fishermen. This atlas, edited by a scientist on the staff of the Fisheries Laboratory in the East Anglian fishing port of Lowestoft, contains 12 charts designed to show, for each month, the average distribution of the main herring concentrations in the north-east Atlantic area (which includes the North Sea and the South Baltic).

Symbols are used to show the condition of the herring in the various fisheries and notes are written in English, French and Danish. The atlas may be examined by fishermen of 14 fishing ports in Britain and at any local office of our Herring Industry Board.

Glimpses Into The Past

By BERTHA WESTON PRICE

A FOREST TRAGEDY

The Eastern Townships in 1800 were truly a land of woods and waters, there were of course Indian trails in some parts but the land taken up by pioneer settlers were primeval forests. The spotted trail was the principal means of travel on land, and the log canoe is often referred to as means of travel by water. Boats were soon built and the St. Francis River was the main waterway.

There were many tragedies not recorded, but family papers often provide stories of mishaps, bravery and tragedy that must have brought sadness to the pioneers in a strange country. There comes to us a story from Melbourn Ridge, part of which appeared in an old issue of the Waterloo Advertiser and came from a resident of that place, Melbourn and Richmond were settled early in 1800 and today there are some of the first families still living in that county; others have gone to distant parts.

The tragedy recorded occurred in 1837 and involved three of the early settlers: William Trenholme, Peter Cramer and Andrew Auringer, well-to-do settlers, the first of Kingsey and the other two of Melbourn Ridge. The spring had been early and everything was growing well, with a promise of a good harvest. The three men had gone to inspect some land at Ely — later known as Nixon Hill. Mr. Trenholme and his friends drove to a place on the Ridge, stayed overnight, then the next morning started out, with two of Mr. Cramer's sons, Isaac and Jeremiah, to look over the land he wanted to buy for his sons. After the day's travel they were still in the woods, so they chose a place to sleep, built a fire — lighting it with a gun-flint — the forerunner of our electric lighter. The fire at the foot of a pine tree was their protection from wild animals, but it burned fiercely and soon caught on to the tree. The boys were frightened and wakened the men who said the tree leaned away from them; there was no danger. The boys could not sleep and about midnight the men were awakened by the tree falling. It struck another tree and broke in two, one part falling on the men. The boys had run away from the fire but Mr. Trenholme was instantly killed, Mr. Cramer fatally hurt and Mr. Auringer badly burned.

They were five or six miles from a clearing, the woods were dense and the night was dark. The boys did what little they could for the three victims, then awaited daylight. Isaac climbed a tree to get the location and started for the first homestead, his only guide at that early hour being the rising sun, while Jeremiah remained with the two injured and one dead man. Isaac called to the first man he saw and soon there were messengers on horseback, a rescue party was formed at William Fowler's place, then they followed the spotted trail. During these long hours Jeremiah, following the rule of the forest, fired a gun at intervals until he saw the men coming.

Stretchers made with saplings were soon ready for Mr. Trenholme and Mr. Cramer while two men supported Mr. Auringer between them. Then the long walk began and after long hours they reached the Cramer home where the injured man was able to speak to his family before he expired. Mr. Auringer recovered in time.

Descendants and relatives of these three men are scattered widely, like many of our pioneers, but there are a few who have remained on the lands their fathers labored during the years of building.

Among these may be mentioned Peter Cramer who was the great-grandfather of Mrs. Heleha Beers of Melbourn; the great-grandfather of Mrs. Jennie Crack, an aged resident in the Valley Home; among relatives are Mr. Albert Cramer of Dalling, Mr. Jason Auringer of Melbourn Ridge, Mr. Fred Gallup of Melbourn Village, and the well known Hon. Justice Trenholme of Montreal.

As years go by the names of early settlers disappear from present-day records yet they will always remain in memory as those who planned and worked for the future of the fair Eastern Townships.

BROMPTON EDGES GARTHY 5-4 IN DYING SECONDS OF GAME

Cops Third Game Of Series In Close Battle; Penalties Costly To Garthby; Fourth Fixture Slated For Tonight

Staging a rally in the dying seconds of the game Thursday evening Bromptonville edged out Garthby 5-4 when Andre Charland rapped home the winning marker with eighteen seconds left in a hard fought game to give Herve Parr's squad a 2-1 lead in the E. T. Intermediate "C" hockey playdowns.

The fourth game of the series will be played this evening at the Arena and is slated to commence at 8:30. If Brompton can come through with a win they will cop the best-of-five series and the Bruck Mills trophy as well. Garthby will be fighting to stave off elimination and must win if they wish to carry the series into the fifth, and deciding, game on Tuesday evening.

Penalties played a big part in Brompton's victory as two goals were tallied when Garthby was short-handed and these played an important part in deciding the outcome. Nine penalties were drawn by Garthby while Brompton picked up four.

Garthby got away to a flying start and after the three minute mark were out in front 2-0 when R. Drouin rifled a hard shot from the wing position and R. Roy registered the second goal on a passing play with Setlavage. Andre Charland drew a penalty when he tripped R. Drouin and when C. Drouin drew a penalty when he tripped R. Drouin and when C. Drouin drew a penalty when he tripped R. Drouin.

Garthby's goal was credited with Brompton's second goal when he passed the disc out from behind the net and it was deflected into the meshings by a Garthby player. C. Drouin put the Garthby squad out in front when he snared a loose rebound to drive into the net from point blank range.

P. Martin worked himself right in but missed the corner with his shot. C. Drouin drew a charging penalty and a minute later his brother, R. Drouin, got the nod for tripping leaving their team two men short. This proved costly as Brompton took over the lead. Leblanc tallied the equalizer and Morissette put Brompton ahead 4-3 before the Drouins returned.

In the final period Garthby went all out to try and tally the tying goal but their efforts went astray when C. Drouin drew two penalties in a row to weaken his team's chances. He had just returned after his second infraction when Fournier and St. Hilaire went off for roughing.

C. Drouin got in alone again but

Men's Clothing of Distinction!

TOMORROW, IF THE WEATHER is at all passable, you'll see almost everyone out strolling in new Spring clothes. Have you ever noticed how folks talk about wanting to go out to see how others are dressed? We always suspect that they really want the others to see them in their own new finery. And we consider this very natural from a psychological angle.

AFTER A LONG WINTER we enjoy discarding our heavier garments and getting into lighter, brighter apparel. We get a real "lift" from this change of clothes, and when we feel better we all have an urge to get out and be seen. This explains the popularity of Easter Parading.

THE GIRLS may attract more attention tomorrow, but we suggest that you'll find it interesting to watch what the boys are wearing too, because men's styles are developing some important new trends. You'll see that the best dressers' clothes will have more natural lines. We're getting away from the zoot suit. The new suits and topcoats have narrower shoulders, straighter lines at the waist, narrower lapels. In the better quality suits, there'll be an increasing number of vented backs, a comfort feature which has been popular with Rosenbloom customers for several seasons now.

THE EASTER PARADE is not the only time that people look at your clothes. It pays to be well dressed at all times. Good clothes can add to your appearance and thus to your enjoyment of life. Quality apparel is better value too, because it gives longer service. We invite you to call in and see what we can do for you!

Pitcher Garver Pulls Muscle While Tossing

Pasadena, Calif., March 24. — (AP) — Pitcher Ned Garver of St. Louis Browns pulled a muscle in his right side while pitching against Pittsburgh Thursday. Trainer Bob Bauman said today Garver will be sidelined "for at least a few days."

Garver's earned run average of 3.39 was the second best in the American League last season. But in eight innings this Spring he has a terrible total of 20 hits, seven walks, three hit batsmen and 25 runs.

England Swamps U.S. 10-2 In Cup Fixture

London, March 24. — (Reuters) — England last night drubbed U.S. 10-2 in the consolation game for second place for the Winston Churchill Hockey Cup, won Thursday night by Canada.

The U. S. team — the Bates Club from Lewiston, Me.—and the English squad had both been beaten by Canada in the first two games of the round-robin series.

The World Champion Letbridge Maple Leafs beat the U. S. team 5-0 Wednesday and the English side 4-3 Thursday.

In last night's game the English team, most of them imports from Canada, rode the Americans hard from the start and stayed on top to the finish.

SENATORS TAKE THE BIG ONE

For the first time since joining the Quebec Senior Hockey League the Sherbrooke Saints failed to reach the final playdowns and bowed out to the Ottawa Senators Saturday evening in the Capital City in the seventh and deciding game of their best-of-seven series.

They say that in senior hockey today a club requires fifteen players if they wish to compete in top company and everyone must carry his share of the load if the team is to be successful. And that is where the local team fell down.

Certain players failed to show any determination to win, or put up a fight, and a few of the club were forced to carry the load and eventually were down under the strain. Playoff hockey is a sixty-minute affair and you must keep plugging every minute of it if you wish to emerge on the winning side and that gentlemen is just where the Saints fell down.

Some of the boys were playing their hearts out but others seemed contented to coast along, when on the road, and play their best at home. In other words we had quite a few "HOMERS" on the team and what can you do about a thing like that? Not much we think.

But another season will roll around and no doubt the local executive will remember these things when next fall comes and then the locals can do some heavy talking and cite certain things which happened this year. To those who carried the load we say thanks a thousand times for your fine fight and spirit. The fans will not forget you.

To Ivan Dugre go our congratulations for bringing the team far as you did with what you had. It was a wonderful job and you deserve plenty of credit from everybody for all the headaches you had during the season. So on behalf of the fans thanks once again for a fine job. And as they say in Brooklyn, "Wait until next year."

The Optimists juveniles will move into the final stage of the Provincial championships this afternoon at the Arena when they will be hosts to the Quebec Citadels, champions of the Quebec District.

This is the first time for quite a few years, in fact four, since a team from Sherbrooke has reached the Provincial finals in the minor class. St. Pat's was the last team to do the trick.

This afternoon at 1:30 Raymond Cyr's Optimists will be out gunning for the J. S. Bourque trophy and if they win they will be the first team to do so from Sherbrooke. The Citadels after winning the City of Quebec title eliminated the Three Rivers winners to advance into the Provincial finals.

If the local team can play as well as they did the other night we think they stand a fair chance of coping the trophy but they must get away from the idea of taking foolish penalties or things will be bad.

Ab Norris and his Maroons of Waterloo finally copped the E. T. Intermediate hockey championship when they knocked off Gus Lehoux's Magog Aces and now will meet Montmagny tonight and tomorrow afternoon at Granby.

The first two games will be played at the Granby Arena with the third going back to Quebec and no doubt the others will alternate between both places. The dates will be released later for the other tilts.

In winning the E. T. title the Maroons deserve a lot of credit and after quite a few years their hard work has finally produced results. We think that they should go a long way in the Provincial playdowns, although they may run into a little tough competition. They certainly are getting a break with the first two games in Granby, but Ab, don't underestimate the boys from below Quebec as we are told that they have a pretty fair squad.

Anyway congratulations for winning the E. T. crown and here's hoping that you can wrap up the Provincial title as well and make a good year of it.

Canadiens Given Medical Check By Club Physician Prior To Stanley Cup Playoffs; Lach Only Casualty

Montreal, March 24. — (CP) — A couple of tons of hockey players on the hoof paraded yesterday for medical examination and came out stamped prime No. 1.

It was a Pre-Stanley Cup series check-up for Montreal Canadiens. Coach Dick Irvin herded his full squad before Dr. Gordon Young, club physician, to find out just how his charges measure up physically after the season-long grind.

A check of blood pressure, heart action and lungs formed the main part of the examination.

Dr. Young told Irvin: "They're all in good shape."

The only casualty in the group of 23 is Elmer Lach. The veteran centre is still on the limp from a foot injury suffered last Saturday. But he is expected to be ready for the playoffs starting next week. Otherwise he is in top physical condition.

Normie Dussault, who suffered a back injury in a solo practice ses-

M-J Wins Bantam Title Walloping Beebe 18-0

Marche Jacques of Sherbrooke last night won the Eastern Townships Bantam hockey championship by walloping Beebe A. A. 18-0 in a game played at the Sherbrooke Arena. It was a sudden-death game.

Displaying too much class for the boys from Beebe, the locals scored almost at will to romp home with the game and the championship.

Though one-sided, the game was fast and cleanly played. Only 10 penalties were called, nine against Beebe.

Jacques Hamel was leading point-getter for the locals. He sank seven goals and assisted on four others. Andre Nolin scored four goals. Jean Deneaucourt did the hat trick. Rene Baillargeon scored twice and Herve Cote and Yvan Dion scored one goal each.

Rangers To Try Out Four Rovers Tonight

New York, March 24. — (AP) — New York Rangers, eliminated from the Stanley Cup playoffs, will close out the National Hockey League season Sunday against Chicago with four members of the amateur New York Rovers in the lineup.

The four rookies are defencemen Bob Wood and Dick Kotanen and forwards Bill Kyle and Vic Howe. To make room for the newcomers the Rangers will bench defencemen Frank Eddolls and Wally Stanowski and forwards Pentti Lund and Alex Kaleta.

Eddolls will run the team as coach Neil Colville will be scouting American Hockey League clubs in Indianapolis and Buffalo during the week-end.

Kyle is a brother of Ranger defenceman Gus Kyle. He has been up with the Blues before and spent the greater part of the current season with Regina Caps of the Western Senior League. Howe is a brother of Detroit's Gordie Howe, the league's top scorer. He played two games with the Rangers this season.

Board Of Governors Vote Pittsburgh In

Pittsburgh, March 24. — (AP) — The American Hockey League Board of Directors last night voted the Pittsburgh Hornets a berth in the Calder Cup playoffs after a marathon 9½-hour session.

The action over-ruled an earlier decision by League President Maurice Podoloff.

The A.H.L. head disqualified the Hornets last Tuesday, ruling that St. Louis Flyers were entitled to go into the playoff.

The Flyers protested that Pittsburgh had played an ineligible man. They contended centre Johnny McCormack of Hornets was obtained from Toronto of the National League after the Feb. 15 deadline.

The Pittsburgh-Springfield series will get under way tonight at Pittsburgh.

Tired but happy, John H. Harris, president of the Hornets, gave out the news. He told reporters: "We're in the playoffs."

Clarence S. Campbell, president of the National League and also head of the Central Registry, a clearing house for eligible professional hockey players, was present at the day-long conference but was not available for comment.

It was Campbell who originally certified McCormack as eligible. Under the Board of Governor's ruling, the Hornets are third place winners, and St. Louis drops into the cellar of the League's Western Division.

Allie Reynolds Comes Up With Old Injury

San Francisco, March 24. — (AP) — Allie Reynolds, New York Yankee pitcher who has been sidelined for 10 days with an inflamed elbow, will undergo X-Ray examination to determine whether he has bone chips in his elbow, club officials announced today.

The ailment has been diagnosed as sinusitis, an inflammation of the lining of the elbow.

The 33-year-old Reynolds suffered a similar injury last spring. If the X-Rays disclose bone chips, he will be out of action for some time.

Barons Swamp Bisons 7-2 To Lead Series

Buffalo, N. Y., March 24. — (CP) — Cleveland Barons last night took a 2-to-0 lead in the series of a playoff in the American Hockey League, trimming Buffalo Bisons 7-2.

Waterloo Hosts To Montmagny Club In Provincial Playdowns At Garthby Tonight And Tomorrow Afternoon

Granby, March 24. — (Special to the Record) — Waterloo Maroons embark upon the Provincial intermediate hockey trail tonight when they will tangle with the Lemelin team from Montmagny in the Granby Arena this evening and tomorrow afternoon.

It is a two-out-of-three semi-final in the Provincial playdowns with the winners tackling the Montreal district champions in the finals. The third game, if necessary, will be played at Quebec next week.

The Lemelin squad is coached by Majella Laforest, a former Sherbrooke player, who performed with the local team in the days of the old Provincial Hockey League. Laforest's team eliminated the Victoriaville Tigers in their first round of the playoffs and is reported at having a fairly well balanced team.

The Maroons will be trying for their initial win in the playdown trail after copping the Eastern Townships title. They waited to victory in the local league and set a hot pace throughout the whole season. In their round of the league playoffs they eliminated Windsor Mills and then bumped off the Magog Aces to cop their first crown.

Coach Ab Norris' squad is given a slight edge over the Montmagny team, since they are playing the first two games on Granby ice, where the Waterloo club has played their last few games.

Laforest's Montmagny club dropped their first tilt to the Tigers but then bounced right back and copped the next two games to eliminate the Victoriaville squad, champions of the South River League, in easy order. They are reported at having a fast skating aggregation but the Maroons should be able to hold their own with the Quebec speedsters.

Optimists Meet Quebec Citadels This Afternoon At 1:30 In Finals For Provincial Juvenile Title

Sherbrooke Optimists' juvenile hockey team will make their bid this afternoon at 1:30 at the Arena for the Provincial Juvenile championship and the J. S. Bourque trophy when they meet the Quebec Citadels in a sudden-death playoff.

Raymond Cyr's local crew, after winning the local district playdowns, met the Outremont Royals in the semi-finals and eliminated them. It was slated for a sudden-death affair in Montreal but the game finished in a 2-3 stalemate and the Q.A.H.A. officials ordered a second game to be played.

In Sherbrooke last Tuesday the local squad came through with a 4-2 decision to win their way into the finals. The Quebec Citadels won the Quebec City championship and then took on Three Rivers and downed them to move into the sudden-death final with Sherbrooke.

The local club is rated a fair chance of winning the title and the Bourque trophy, and if they should it will be the first time since four years ago that a local team has done. Four years ago St. Pat's juveniles reached the finals but lost out to Shawinigan Falls.

Raymond Cyr, who has handled the team all season, has a fairly well balanced squad and should give good account of themselves. The Quebec team is an unknown club but no doubt they will battle the whole way for the title and may surprise the locals with their game.

Bob Richardson, Former Magog Skiing Star, Cops Initial Run Of Slalom To Determine Canada's 1952 Ski Team

Banff, Alta., March 24. — (CP) — Canadian champion Bob Richardson of Montreal and Magog placed first Thursday in the initial run of the giant slalom event to determine members of Canada's 1952 Olympic Ski Team.

Richardson zoomed down the tricky Mount Norquay course in 1:46, just 2.2 seconds faster than Gordon Morrison of Banff.

Another Montrealeur, Rhoda Eaves, took the women's run in 1:53.5. Joanne Hewson, also of Montreal, placed second with 1:55.5.

ons' flashy freshman, picked up three goals. Linemates Glen Somner and Fred Thurier each got one goal while the invaders faced to a lead. Lloyd Doran and Les Douglas picked up the final Cleveland scores.

Don Ashbee and Les Hickey tallied for the Bisons.
