CONFERENCE STUDYING SHIPPING POSITION

World News In Brief

San Francisco, July 20.—(P)—The worried Japanese Cabinet went into a huddle with Prime Minister Kantaro Suzuki today to talk over disastrous Allied bombings and warship attacks. Radio Tokyo said, even as Allied planes rocked five more Honshu cities.

"Problems of the day" was the title given to the conference by the enemy broadcast. The Japanese leaders met privately with Suzuki in his residence. Meanwhile, the Tokyo newspaper Mainichi explained this week's four Allied naval attacks on Japan as merely a "feeble attempt at enticing the Japanese to force which is now biding its time for action."

The government will attempt to relieve the food crisis, aggravated by bombing of transportation facilities, through mobilization next month of 1,500,000 school children to reclaim 25,000 acres of land, Domei Agency announced.

Berlin, July 20.—(P)—Dysentery had broken out in "mild" proportions among British and American personnel in Berlin. One officer said he made from polluted Berlin city water was responsible chiefly. All were warned against drinking water except from chlorinated bags. Berlin beer and bottled mineral water are being tested for purity.

Possibly a third of Berlin's population of 2,750,000 have the disease, public health officials estimated.

Montreal, July 20.—(P)—War Assets Corporation said yesterday that no military jeeps had been turned in by any of the three armed services for disposal, although considerable other military equipment and supplies have been put on the auction block.

However, when jeeps are being turned in, they will be distributed to franchised automobile dealers for sale to the public and will not be sold directly by the corporation. They will be completely reconditioned and will be ready for immediate civilian use.

Manila, July 20.—(P)—The recent visit of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten and his staff to the Manila headquarters of General Douglas MacArthur was the first meeting of two leaders who have directed successful campaigns to smash Japanese forces in the southwest Pacific and Southeast Asia.

The announcement that the purpose of the meeting was to arrange complete co-ordination between the two commands implied an interchange of plans and strategy for the two theatres in carrying out the complete defeat of Japan.

Undoubtedly the question of Japanese-held Malaya and the Indies, the mop-up of Burma and the China campaign, as well as the invasion of the Japanese homeland itself held priority in the conferences.

While the two leaders met, opposite members of their respective staffs discussed problems in common.

Chicago, July 20.—(P)—Labor disputes in five industries were ended today, enabling more than 15,000 employees to go back to their jobs, but work stoppages across the United States kept an additional 50,000 idle.

A three-day walkout over a contract dispute at the Pennsylvania shipyards, in Beaumont, Tex., enabled 8,000 employees to return to work, while in Oakland, Calif., a jurisdictional dispute which tied up repair of 21 government ships ended as 3,000 A.F.L. craftsmen obeyed a National War Labor Board back to work directive.

London, July 20.—(Reuters)—Police in Buenos Aires province have been ordered to maintain all measures for "vigilance and control to avoid clandestine landings on the Argentine coast" while reports continue that U-boats have been seen off shore, a police communique quoted by Buenos Aires radio said today.

Orders have been given to ascertain how many persons claim to have seen U-boats off the coast and to obtain all possible details, the communique added.

Chief Of U.S. War Shipping Administration In Potsdam

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden Resumes Duties After Being Too Ill to Attend State Dinner Tendered by President Truman Last Night.

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Potsdam, July 20.—(P)—Vice Admiral Emory S. Land, Chief of the United States Maritime Commission and the War Shipping Administration, has arrived with his staff in Potsdam in response to a special request from President Truman, it was disclosed today.

It was disclosed also that Prime Minister Churchill dined alone Wednesday night with Premier Stalin. The Conference lasted several hours. Only Mr. Stalin's and Mr. Churchill's interpreters were present at the dinner table during the private meeting, where obviously much of world importance was discussed.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden returned to work today and fulfilled all his regular appointments with Soviet Commissar Molotov and State Secretary James F. Byrnes. Mr. Eden had been too ill last night to attend a state dinner tendered in a cordial atmosphere by President Truman at his garden-bordered residence.

The absence of the Foreign Secretary had caused some concern here in Soviet and American compounds. Apparently, however, Mr. Eden was ready to plunge back into the task cut out for the foreign secretaries, who under conference procedure reach generalized agreement on problems and pass them on to the Big Three for final decisions.

Mr. Eden, cool and efficient statesman whose impaired health forbade his campaigning in the recent British election, obviously was not too strong when he arrived here last Sunday, facing a steady, daily grind in preparation for the conference.

President Truman underlined the friendly, informal air of the dinner by wearing a plain brown suit. Premier Stalin wore his fawn-colored generalissimo's uniform of gabardine, decorated by a single star on the breast, and Prime Minister Churchill wore the light tan colonel's uniform of Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports—Dover, Dandwich, Hythe, Romney, Rye, Wichelessea and Hastings.

The fact that official news from Potsdam is largely centered on social activities is not taken here as indicating any lack of appreciation of the weighty problems to be solved. Important decisions as they affect Europe cannot be expected to be announced until the wording of the final communique is completed.

Details concerning Asia can be expected to be translated into action in the future without any published preludes for the benefit of Japan.

South China Coast Area Is Open For Sea-Borne Attack

By SPENCER MOOSA
Chungking, July 20.—(P)—A fifty-mile stretch of the South China Coast is firmly in Chinese hands and open for a sea-borne invasion of the Continent, the Chinese High Command announced today.

Chinese forces, striking eastward along the Kwangtung Province coastal highway town of Tinpak, which they recently took and thereby severed Japanese communications between Canton and Hainan Island, reached the vicinity of the road junction city of Yungkong, 50 miles from Tinpak and 125 miles southwest of Canton.

A Chinese army spokesman, Maj. Gen. Kuo Chi-Chih, said the Japanese had moved 100,000 troops from Hunan Province to the coast of Shanghai in the last four weeks, anticipating an Allied landing.

He estimated that 1,000,000 Japanese combat troops were in China and Manchuria plus an equal number of auxiliaries. He said Japanese sea traffic between the islands and China had been interrupted and that no troops had been moved recently in either direction.

Yungkong is a little more than 600 miles northwest of Luzon.

Truman States U.S. Fighting For Peace And Not Conquest

Berlin, July 20.—(P)—President Truman said United States troops today the United States was fighting for the peace, welfare and prosperity of all mankind.

It was the first address by any of the Big Three since the Potsdam Conference opened. The President drove more than five miles from his residence in suburban Argenteicher Allee of Berlin to see the American flag raised over new headquarters of the United States Group Control Council of the Allied Control Commission for Germany.

The speech had great significance against its background of the Big Three Conference, where the President is joining Britain and Russia in helping to settle European boundary and other problems.

"We are raising this flag in the name of the people of the United States, who are looking forward to a better world, a peaceful world, in which all the people will have an opportunity of enjoying peace and opportunity," Mr. Truman said.

"Let's not forget that we are fighting for peace and for the welfare of mankind," Mr. Truman told the troops lined up for the ceremony. "We are not fighting for conquest."

"There is not one piece of territory or one thing of monetary nature that we want out of this war. We want peace and prosperity for the world as a whole. We want to see the time come when we can do the things in peace that we have been able to do in war. If we can put this tremendous machine of ours, which has made this victory possible, to work for peace we could look forward to the greatest age in the history of mankind."

"That is what we propose to do."

SEAWAY PROJECT 6,000 SOLDIER WIVES TO COME DUE TO COME UP IN U.S. SENATE

Measure Similar to Several Previously Introduced, Calling for U.S. and Canada to Make Great Lakes Navigable for Ocean-Going Vessels.

By SIDNEY A. GOVENAR,
Washington, July 20.—(P)—A St. Lawrence seaway bill, to develop the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River, will be introduced before the United States Senate's summer recess, Senator George Aiken (Rep-Vt.) said today.

The measure, similar to several introduced at numerous sessions of Congress, calls for the United States and Canada to agree to make the water navigable for ocean-going vessels.

Senator Aiken said that the Seaways, which would cost an estimated $421,000,000, could handle about 70 per cent of all ocean-going ships and would increase the tonnage capacity of the river and lakes by about 20,000,000 tons annually.

"The entire project would cost only about as much as it costs to run the war one day," Aiken declared in an interview.

The construction expenses would be divided three ways, he added. New York State would pay $83,000,000 for a power project which is part of the agreement, the United States would pay about $184,000,000, and Canada about $114,000,000 he said.

Senator Aiken predicted that despite the large tonnage which would be handled by the seaways, railroads must expand in the post-war era.

The Vermont Senator said the Seaways would mean easier export of grains, meat and steel from the Over 22,000 War Brides Are on Waiting List to Join Soldier Husbands in Canada. But Only 6,000 Have Been Granted Permits So Far.

By FRED BACKHOUSE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, July 20.—(C.P. Cable)—As Canadian servicemen are being repatriated, their British wives and fiancées are making inquiries at the rate of 200 a day about the quickest way of joining them in the Dominion.

The civilian repatriation section of the Canadian War Reliefs Bureau announced today that there are at least 22,000 such "cases" in England but the actual number of persons involved is much higher since between 30 and 40 per cent of the applicants have children.

Col. Victor Gill, of Toronto, officer in charge of the section, said the backlog of wives and fiancées for transport to Canada has reached 6,000.

Twin worries of his office are shipping space—a headache to every transportation officer in Europe—and the increasing marriage rate among Canadian servicemen since V-E Day. Between 1,300 and 1,400 Canadian soldiers, airmen and sailors married British girls last month.

"Shipping is our major problem," Col. Gill said. "Like every other service, we are dependent on the Ministry of War Transport where allocation of ships is decided on a high level. We have no complaints in that direction, knowing that the highest priorities must go to the Pacific Force requirements and to repatriation of troops."

No guarantee of quick transport are given anyone, Col. Gill emphasized, but all wives and fiancées are dealt with fairly in accordance with

Allied Air Power Holds Burma Japs

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH,
Calcutta, July 20.—(P)—Defeat of the Japanese in Burma can be attributed in large measure to their inability to interfere seriously with Allied air supply and their utter failure in widely separated attempts to serve their own troops with plane-ferried cargoes.

The total Allied tonnage hauled by air for British forces alone for all Burma in June was 23,739. In the same month a single Japanese plane dropped one parachute laden with medical stores and batteries near Bawmaw village, nine miles from Pegu—and the cargo was recovered by a British patrol who shooed away enemy soldiers.

Troops who captured the junction immediately struck northward to ward Yangon, 45 miles south of Kweilin, three-field air base abandoned to the Japanese last October. Advance units are already fighting in the southern suburbs of Kweilin, by Chinese account.

Other troops moving up the Lichow-Kweilin Railroad laid siege to the important road and rail town of Yungku, 32 miles southeast of Kweilin and about 30 miles northwest of Yangon, the Chinese said.

HITLER DEATH PLOT AIMED AT SAVING STAFF

Unusual Combination of Circumstances Worked Against Success of Plot Against Life of Hitler One Year Ago.

By GEORGE TUCKER
Frankfurt on Main, July 20.—(P)—Officers of the United States Forces Intelligence Division in the European theatre are convinced that one primary purpose of the July 20th bomb attempt on Adolf Hitler's life was to end the war in such a way as to leave the German General Staff intact.

In their judgment the plotters, who made their bid for power just a year ago today, hoped after removing the Fuehrer to negotiate a peace with the Allies that would perpetuate the General Staff, at least leave it in charge of the war effort.

Officers who have examined hundreds of official interrogation reports have fitted together the fantastic details of one of the significant plots of history—which backfired into wholesale executions of Wehrmacht officers, altered the Army's entire command and accelerated the rush of the Reich toward its final defeat.

As the plot expanded it spilled out of the ranks of the Wehrmacht elite into the civil service, and included many executives high in public life but opposed to Hitler. Prominent among these were Count von Helldorf, police chief of Berlin, and Dr. Goerdeler, former Mayor of Leipzig.

In Paris, Berlin and elsewhere, key Wehrmacht command posts were to be ready to make wholesale arrests of S.S. garrisons once the sign of Hitler's death was flashed.

On the morning of July 20th, Hitler arrived on schedule at his headquarters at Rastenburg, East Prussia, surrounded by high-ranking officers. After the usual plane-landing ceremony, he entered the building and headed for the war room. But at the last moment, for some unexplained reason, the regular briefing room was abandoned for a larger one upstairs. This was the first definite break against the plotters.

A few minutes later Col. von Stauffenberg, of the General Staff, came in. He carried a time-bomb in his briefcase. The fact that he was permitted to approach Hitler with briefcase in hand distinguished him as an officer with wide privileges. Von Stauffenberg casually placed his briefcase on the floor next to the desk, spoke a few words to an acquaintance and drifted out into the hall. When briefing began a few moments later he had not returned.

One of those unforeseeable little incidents that sometimes alter history now took place. The briefing officer mentioned a place name that was unfamiliar to Hitler, and Hitler got up and walked across the room. This move, quite by chance, placed a massive oak desk between Hitler and von Stauffenberg's briefcase.

As Hitler stood squinting at the map a terrific explosion blasted through the room, killing six officers and maiming the others. Hitler

Halifax Returns To Normal With Known Death Toll Of One And Three Others Hurt

By HAROLD FREEMAN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Halifax, July 20.—(P)—This glass-strewn city and its surrounding districts today counted the death and damage toll of 24 explosion-filled hours at a nearby ammunition depot, and decided it had been lucky that both were so low compared with what might have been.

A navy statement set the known death toll at one, with three others slightly injured, and made no mention of unofficial reports that from six to twelve workers at the ammunition dump still were missing. In addition, five members of the Veterans' Guard were under treatment for minor injuries and a dozen civilian residents had been treated for shock, cuts and bruises.

The unofficial damage estimate in Halifax and nearby Dartmouth ranged from $200,000 to $400,000—most of it represented by shattered glass. There was no estimate of the damage to the ammunition depot on Bedford Basin, after more than one-third of the sprawling district had been wiped out by large and small explosions.

The actual death and damage toll, however, bore little relation to the tension which gripped the district throughout Wednesday night and most of Thursday. There could be no doubt that Halifax had escaped a mighty disaster by the narrowest of margins, and the 50,000 residents of the district were well aware of their danger while great explosions shook them and the "fireworks display" five miles away.

This knowledge of impending disaster—born of the bitter knowledge of the 1917 explosion when more than 1,600 persons lost their lives and a large section of the city was ruined—probably was a major factor in the prompt evacuation of some 80,000 residents of Dartmouth and that section of Halifax lying closest to the ammunition magazine. Service officials and A.R.P. personnel worked swiftly to clear the areas of greatest peril, but residents needed no official pronouncements to tell them of the danger. As E. L. Coombs, Wartime Administrator of Atlantic Ports, put it last night, the explosions represented "the threat under which Halifax had been living for the last six years."

At least twice during that time the threat of explosion was extra close. Once a burning freighter containing ammunition was sunk by shellfire in the harbor, and on another occasion a blazing ammunition ship was towed safely out of sea, passing close to the heart of Halifax before it reached open water.

Things like that were in the minds of Halifaxians Wednesday night as they flocked from their homes and congregated in all manner of open spaces away from the areas of greatest danger. They knew, probably better than residents of any other city in the Western Hemisphere, that if the "big bang" came the only safety lay in the open fields away from collapsing buildings.

Actually, the blast that really would have wrecked the district never came, but those which did come were terrifying enough. Four major explosions, which smashed thousands of panes of glass five miles away, sent crockery tumbling from shelves and ripped blinds from windows, were punctuated by the staccato beat of a whole series of smaller blasts.

The first explosion is believed to have originated on a loading jetty of the ammunition depot, where the Royal Canadian Navy, but its cause was not known. A frigate, later considerably damaged in the blast,

Aussies Overrun Sambodja Oil Fields Without Fight

Manila, July 20.—Australian troops on Borneo thrust five miles to overrun the rich Sambodja oil fields and refinery without a fight.

They found only two Japanese defending the great field, a communique said today. The field formerly produced 7,000,000 barrels of ready-to-use crude oil a year. Meanwhile more than 600 Superfortresses in record strength set configurations in five Japanese industrial centres with 4,000 tons of incendiary bombs today as Okinawa-based tactical air forces made the war's heaviest raid on Shengal and fighter bombers sealed off rail transport to the Japanese city of Kagoshima.

On Okinawa, it was estimated 10,000 Japanese troops are hiding in Northern Okinawa's rugged mountains, a month after the island was captured. The Nipponese are being hunted down and killed at an average of 50 daily, it was announced at headquarters.

The Sambodja field is one of the three major pools in Eastern Borneo feeding the ruined refinery district around Balikpapan. The attacking Australian 7th Division found great fires roaring through the field, indicating that the Japanese had followed the Dutch example of 1942 and scorched the oil-soaked earth as they left.

Dutch East Indies troops repulsed a Japanese counter-attack north of Balikpapan as the Australians fanned out through the entire oil-producing complex of fields and refinery centres around the great oil port. They pushed the Japanese back into the interior and salt coastal marshes.

Light naval units raked Japanese shore positions in the vicinity for the second straight day while air activity in the theatre reached a far south as the coal port of Bandjermasin on the southern coast.

The Superfortresses set Fukui, Hitachi, Choshi and Okazaki aflame and struck the Nippon oil refinery at Amasasaki a heavy blow in raids before dawn. Two B-29's were lost, and one was damaged.

Radio Tokyo claimed, without confirmation, that Nipponese raiders "cornered and attacked a group of enemy warships" in Okinawa waters yesterday and sank a cruiser and a large transport.

Hang Hirohito Chinese Urge

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Chungking National Herald, which speaks for the Chinese Foreign Office, has come out in support of the proposal by the People's Political Council that the Allies hand Emperor Hirohito of Japan as a war criminal.

"Let him be hanged with the rest of the gang," exclaims the newspaper.

Well, it's easy to understand this feeling, after all that China has suffered at the hands of her barbaric neighbors. And the Chinese aren't the only people who have a long account to settle with the Japs. However, one question whether we should be wise to hang the Mikado and, that being so, whether it is discreet to advocate it in advance of an Allied decision. Such a proposal, coming from Chungking, can only have the effect of making the Nipponese fight harder and longer at this critical juncture.

The argument for executing the Mikado is that Japanese militarism is built about him as God Emperor. It's said, and rightly, that it is because his subjects regard him as divine that they fight so fanatically for him.

However, it's one thing to say Hirohito is the symbol about which the people rally, and quite another to credit him with being the real head of the government or of the militaristic machine. There's some doubt whether he knows exactly what it's all about. In any event, he is being used as a tool by the militarists.

It can be argued, of course, that a religion like Shinto (the Way of the Gods), which lends itself to the machinations of the war-lords, is better smashed. Still, it is fairly obvious that if we did hang the Emperor and did try to destroy the religion, we should be creating chaos in Japan, and therefore should be undertaking a dangerous experiment.

For this reason—and not because of any regard for Hirohito or his religion—many observers feel that the Allies should proceed circumspectly. At any rate, before advertising the hanging, they should have made up their minds definitely that they are going to carry it out, and risk prolonging the war. Here it should be added—and this is important, I believe—that decision not to hang the Emperor would be forcing him to give up his throne to a more suitable incumbent.

Word from Potsdam is that President Truman reportedly is trying to clear the way for concentration of the Big Three on the war against Japan, and observers are watching intently to see what steps the trio may take to expedite unconditional surrender.

Purely as a matter of speculation, it seems clear that should Russia come into the war, it would greatly shorten the conflict. One of the prime reasons for this is that the Allies could render Manchuria impotent rather quickly by striking from Soviet soil. Many of Japan's war industries are in Manchuria, and if these were destroyed both Nippon and her big war-machine on the Continent would be in a bad way.

If the Russians do enter the war, they may in due course invade Manchuria with their armies, unless Japan surrenders, however, unless the Muscovites struck quickly they might have to postpone the operation, since there are only about six weeks before bad weather blankets Manchuria and turns the terrain into a mud field which renders movement difficult. Then the ground won't tighten up until about November.

Still, bombing could be carried out on a big scale from Soviet bases. And the Chinese armies could receive badly needed supplies from Russia via Siberia.

Ontario Parliament To Prorogue Today

Toronto, July 20.—(P)—After a four-day sitting which ended yesterday, the 22nd Ontario Legislature was to be prorogued today by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews. Premier Drew has announced that the Legislature will convene again in the fall.

Members yesterday approved a Government motion to appoint a select House Committee to study labor legislation after the Premier, speaking on the motion to set up the Committee, said it was hoped the Dominion-Provincial Conference in Ottawa next month would approve the principle of a national code.

If such action were not taken, the Premier said, Ontario still would be in a position to go ahead with its own committee.

At the request of opposition members, composition of the Committee was altered to comprise eight Government members and four opposition members of whom two will be Liberals, one C.C.F., and one Labor Progressive.

U.S. PROPOSALS APPROVED FOR TRADE GROWTH

Senate Offers No Objections to Plan for Increasing Lending Authority of Export-Import Bank.

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—Bretton Woods out of the way, a world-minded United States Senate prepared today to pump $2,000,000,000 into the Export-Import Bank to finance post-war international trade.

Expected speedy passage of legislation to increase the bank's lending authority would lift to $8,725,000,000 the commitments toward world reconstruction and stability the Senate has approved in clearing its decks for scheduled ratification next week of the United Nations charter.

The major share of these funds, under legislation approved yesterday by a 61-to-16 vote, goes to the International Bank and stabilization fund upon which 44 nations agreed at Bretton Woods, N.H., just a year ago.

The Bretton Woods measure, fought to the last by a small group of Republicans, travelled back to the House of Representatives for expected approval there of minor amendments.

In contrast to the fight made against this proposal, the measure to boost the Export-Import Bank's loan funds from $700,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 had clear sailing.

Senator Robert Taft (Rep.-Ohio), led the battle against the Bretton Woods bill, called the Export-Import Bank increase "sensible."

It was reported unanimously by the Banking Committee in the form previously approved by the House and favorable Senate action will send it to President Truman for his signature.

With the increased authority, bank officials expect to lend money on shipments of American products abroad. About $1,000,000,000 of this has been earmarked to finance the sale of products to Russia.

A native of Magog, Mr. Mitson was born on September 23, 1866, and has served in many important capacities there in the Municipal Council and the School Board. Mayor of Magog in 1915, he served for seven years before his election as a Town Councilor. A member of the School Board from 1900 to 1914, he was appointed Chairman for the term, 1914-1915. He has served as Warden of the County Jail, and as President of the Agricultural Society in 1905, he immediately became a director, and has served the organization in this capacity for the past forty years. UNITED STATES SEEKS REBATE OF CANAL TOLL Negotiations Underway to Have Great Britain Absorb Suez Canal Tolls Under Reverse Lend-Lease.

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—The United States is pressing Great Britain to absorb under reverse lend-lease Suez Canal tolls on U.S. ships redeploying fighting men and equipment to the Pacific.

This was learned today along with the fact that while the United States lend-lease all Panama Canal charges on British ships, the United States paid $131,345,390 on Suez tolls from the start of the war to last January last.

As troops pour eastward from now-silent European battlefields to the Pacific, shipping going through the vital Suez gateway will mount.

British-U.S. negotiations on the Suez charges were revealed in an exchange of letters between Representative Charles Robertson, (Rep.-N.D.), and the Foreign Economic Administration.

Robertson was told the U.S. Government first asked Britain to lend-lease the canal charges in the fall of 1942. After formal talks in London and Washington, however, Britain refused.

The matter was brought up several times since then. The latest request was made last May 22nd and new discussions are underway in London.

was thrown against the wall and partially stunned, but the lucky combination of the heavy oak desk, his curiosity about place names and the roomier briefing room saved his life.

The conspirators, believing they had won, quickly flashed word that Hitler was dead.

No one knows the precise number of aristocratic Wehrmacht officers who were hanged for participation in the plot, but it must have been close to 2,000, including high ranking figures such as Field Marshal von Witzleben, Gen. Erich Hoepner, Gen. Helmuth Stieff and Count Yorck von Wartenberg.

give up the throne until the Belgian people have "a democratic opportunity to select their own leaders in a free and honest election."

Interviewed by Joe Western, reporter for the United States Army newspaper Stars and Stripes, the 43-year-old monarch said yesterday that he had surrendered his country to the Germans in May, 1940—one of chief complaints of some Belgians against the king—because he felt it was impossible to fight any longer at that time.

He said he had surrendered himself "because I felt I should stay with my people and also because I felt that with me in Belgium the Germans would rule the country on a military instead of a civilian basis."

was unloading ammunition on one side of the jetty, and a number of barges and lighters were at work on the other side.

From the jetty fire and explosions leaped to the old section of the dump to touch off the four major blazes. The flames, however, were checked before they could reach the newer part where the main magazines are located some distance away. At the same time the main magazines were flooded by volunteer fire parties to avert the possibility of further explosions.

The untouched part of the magazine area was believed to contain some 50,000 depth charges in addition to large quantities of explosives in a variety of other forms.

Dartmouth, on the same side of the harbor as the magazine area and close to it, displayed boarded-up windows on about one store in every three in its central section today, with the amount of broken glass even greater in some other sections.

Downtown Halifax had a number of smashed windows but nothing to compare with the amount of broken glass resulting from the V-E Day riots here. The residential north end, however, suffered much greater damage, but most of it still was confined to broken glass.

Concussion from the major explosions did strange things in downtown Halifax. There was, for instance, the window blind that sailed down a narrow lane, negotiated two right-angle turns, and wound up 200 feet away; the heavy glass tumbled inside a window which was smashed into a hundred pieces without moving from its original position; the basement window which was torn from its heavy staple fastener and blown inward—without shattering its glass.

$200,000 Grant Made By Provincial Government For Construction Of An Agricultural School In Sherbrooke

Col. the Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Lands and Forests, and member of the Provincial Legislature for Sherbrooke, announced this morning that the Provincial Government has granted $200,000 for the construction of an agricultural school in Sherbrooke and arrangements are now being completed to start on the project.

The school will be situated on Drummond Road, and the lot was bought by the National Union Government in 1937. It previously belonged to the Sisters of the Holy Family, and it comprises over 300 acres of land.

Andre Royer, of Sherbrooke, has been in charge of making all the plans, which were completed several years ago. The change in government halted the construction. The building will be fireproof and the most up-to-date equipment will be secured. The surrounding land will be used for practical studies, and the 300 acres will be ample for that purpose. Mr. Royer was chosen for the job by the Provincial Agricultural Association. It is expected that the construction will take about six months.

HUNTINGVILLE W.C.T.U. HELD BUSY SESSION

A postponed meeting of the Huntingville Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. Allison at Ives Hill. Ten members were present.

The President, Mrs. E. J. Harrison, opened the meeting by choosing the 86th Psalm, each member reading a verse. This was followed by the Lord's Prayer. The Secretary read the minutes and Mrs. B. S. Ingham gave the Treasurer's report, which showed a good balance on hand. Mrs. F. Ingham gave a very interesting report on the W.C.T.U. Convention held at Huntingville in June. In the absence of Mrs. W. S. Andrews, Flower Mission Superintendent, no report was given in that department. Several cases of illness among members were mentioned.

Mrs. Harrison expressed a vote of thanks to the hostess for opening her home for the meeting and to those whose cars conveyed the members to the meeting place.

It was decided to have a mystery sale and salad tea in the Huntingville Church Hall on August 1, each member present promising some item of food for the tea. The sum of two dollars was voted to the local school for prizes.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction and refreshments were served and an enjoyable hour spent.

COUNCIL MEETS TO STUDY NEW LOAN BY-LAW

Meeting as a Committee of the Whole, the City Council last night began the study of the next loan by-law amounting to $300,000 to which Council is expected to give first reading next Monday afternoon. "Although the by-law includes a list of public works projects prepared by the municipal engineering department, Council is endeavoring to keep the amount of the loan as small as possible," City Clerk Antonin Deslauriers said this morning.

He said that in order to reduce the cost of labor, the Council is continuing the policy of mechanizing the Road Department by the purchase of such equipment as excavators, tractors, a mechanical shovel and snow blowers.

Money for the purchasing of 38 lots in the West Ward, on which the city recently took an option for $10,000, with the intention of using them for a municipal park, will be included in the loan. The by-law will also provide for the purchasing of the Stapleton property adjoining the old Central School at a cost of $51,500.

The city expects to submit the by-law to the ratepayers next month. Mr. Deslauriers said that in October next, the city intends to submit another by-law to the ratepayers amounting to approximately half a million dollars. Included especially in this by-law will be the money necessary for the construction of a filtration plant and road works.

One more step toward the realization of such a plan seems to have been made. Last fall when plans were brought before the Council, it was decided that the project not be submitted to the ratepayers. It now appears that the Council is in favor of submitting plans for the project to residents in order to determine whether or not citizens are prepared to support them.

It may be recalled that the only Aldermen in favor of placing the project before the ratepayers were Ald. Guy Bryson, Ald. A. Trudeau and Ald. Guy Bishop.

ASBESTOS

A miscellaneous shower was sponsored by the Misses Andrea Dean, Lola Nicholls, Marion McVeity, Mrs. Hazel Scott and Mrs. Nettie Barclay in honor of Miss Mildred Frost, a bride-to-be. The shower was put on at the home of Miss Andrea Dean, about thirty-five of the office girls were present. The gifts were all placed in a big wishing well on the dining room table, with a wish attached to each gift. A "Mock Wedding" was enacted. Joyce Williams was the bride, Marion McVeity, groom; Mildred Wilson, bride's father; Mrs. Boyd, the minister; Lola Nicholls, bridesmaid; Harriet Heaton, flower girl; and Mamie Thompson, the ring bearer. Miss Frost thanked her friends for their many lovely gifts. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Mrs. William Towne was the guest of her mother, Mrs. E. Flack, and brother, Mr. George Flack, over a week-end at their home on First Avenue.

Mr. George Flack is out of the hospital but still has to have treatments there. All hope that he may soon be able to return to work.

Mr. E. LeRoux and Miss Margaret LeRoux have moved to Asbestos and taken up residence in the Canadian Johns Manville Hospital building, where Miss LeRoux is taking care of the hospital.

Miss Nellie Church accompanied her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Gillies, on their trip to Leeds, and called on several of her old friends there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ziba Griffith, of Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garwood, of Montreal, and Mrs. Howard Gale were guests of their cousin, Mr. E. C. MacGonigal, and Mr. MacGonigal, Chase Street.

Friends of William Hetherington, E.A. of the Royal Navy, are glad to see him home again, and to know that he expects to receive his discharge soon.

Mrs. Fred Roberts and little son, Brian, of Melbourne, are guests of Mrs. Roberts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ingrey.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hobbs have returned home from Beebe, where they have been attending "Camp Meetings."

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hobbs were in Sherbrooke to spend a week-end with their son, Mr. Joseph Hobbs, and Mrs. Hobbs.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. MacGonigal were in Danville to attend the funeral of Mrs. MacGonigal's cousin, Mr. Fred Findlay.

Miss Jean R. has returned home, after spending her holidays at St. Adolph de Howard, in the Laurentians, and visiting her sister Mrs. Gordon Rothney, and Mr. Rothney, at Lakeville.

O.A. Ernest Lockwood has gone to Halifax, N.S., to rejoin his ship before leaving for the South Pacific. His many friends wish him the best of luck.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. MacGonigal were tea guests of Mrs. A. J. Hadcock.

Local Delegates At Conference Of Quebec Industrial Commissioners

Called upon to address the Provincial Industrial Commissioners' Association at an organization rally in the Windsor Hotel in Montreal last night, Romeo Duford, Secretary of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce, told the gathering that, "while it is most important we look for benefits for our cities and towns we will be rendering a much better service if we considered the needs of the manufacturer looking for location."

"By making our recommendations to such manufacturers accordingly, whether they settle in one community or another, we would really be rendering a service that would promote the industrial development of the Province as a whole. This consideration of the manufacturers' needs would be in the long run benefit our own communities," he said.

In reporting on the meeting this morning, Mr. Duford stated that the foundation for a Provincial organization of Industrial Commissioners and Agents was laid. He said that the organization would provide for Provincial co-operation and in this way aid industrial development, at the same time making sure not to destroy incentive competition in the field.

An economic map for the Province of Quebec and free port legislation for Canada were advanced as urgent post-war measures by Armand Viau, Industrial Agent for the City of Quebec. The meeting organized by Governor Gratton, of the Montreal Economic and Tourist Development Bureau, brought together representatives from banks, railways and several regions throughout the Province.

Aldermen Guy Bryant and A. Trudeau, of the Sherbrooke City Council, were present representing Sherbrooke.

Rehabilitation Of Service Men And Women Reviewed In 50-Page Booklet

The Federal Labor Department today outlined in a 50-page booklet the part it plays in connection with the rehabilitation of service men and women.

Reinstatement in employment, rehabilitation training and the main changes in federal legislation as it affects employment in industry are outlined in the booklet, to be distributed to vocational and educational advisers in the armed services, officers of the departments of Veterans Affairs and Labor, members of committees interested in rehabilitation, larger employers and trade unions.

Dealing with employment prospects, the booklet entitled "Dismissing What a Job?"—says: "At the present time the post-war prospect for employment—a job for each man or woman wishing to work—seems to be reasonably promising. "Dislocation is bound to occur as soon as any large part of the war finishes. Through planning it is hoped to keep this dislocation to a minimum. The machinery already planned to take care of the change-over should have beneficial effects for the country as a whole and for the individual."

The booklet outlines legislation which makes it obligatory for an employer to reinstate discharged

HENRY DEMICK, OF DERBY LINE, IS DEAD AT 74

Derby Line, July 20.—Funeral services for Henry Wilson Demick, Derby Line businessman, who passed away in the Mary Fletcher Hospital, Burlington, Vt., on Wednesday, July 18, after a short illness, are being held today at 2 p.m. at the late residence, with the Rev. Francis Walden, of Beebe, officiating.

Mr. Demick spent his entire life in Holland, Vt., and Derby Line. He was an R.F.D. carrier out of Island Pond in his early years, later operating a saw mill in Holland. For the past twenty years he had conducted a flour and feed business in Derby Line and for several years operated a branch feed store in Derby Centre. He died in his 74th year.

He leaves his wife, two adopted daughters, one brother and two sisters.

Interment will take place in Crystal Lake Cemetery, Stanstead.

NEW EQUIPMENT PURCHASED FOR YOUNG BREEDERS

Seventy-five double-decker iron beds have been acquired by the E.T.A.A. to accommodate the 150 Calf Club members who will spend several days at Sherbrooke's Diamond Jubilee Exhibition for the regional and provincial judging contests, it was announced today by A. C. Ross, President of the E.T.A.A.

The beds were purchased at St. Johns, Que., from the War Assets Corporation, and will be put up in the Calf Club Building to replace the wooden bunks used in the past. The beds are something which the Exhibition people have wanted to obtain for the Calf Club members for years and when it was known this week they might be purchased from the War Assets Corporation, Mr. Ross and Norrey Price, Secretary-Manager of the E.T.A.A., went to St. Johns to look into the matter.

The visit of the Calf Club members to the Sherbrooke Fair is always considered as a very important event, as these young breeders represent the future of the farming industry not only of the Eastern Townships but of the entire province, and the competitions which they hold are a great incentive towards good farming, which in the end means prosperous farming.

The Federal Government employment offices have all been instructed to help discharged service personnel to fit in the job they are best suited for. Trained officers have been assigned of caring for the placement needs of the physically handicapped.

Free trade and vocational training courses are available, with the Government paying training allowances to cover living and incidental expenses. The number trained for any individual occupation is regulated to prevent overcrowding in any trade and with a view to avoiding displacement of present workers. And to afford reasonable prospects of employment to those who are being trained.

A section of the book deals particularly with the cases of Federal civil servants. Other chapters deal with wage control legislation, national labor relations, the operations of National Selective Service and with the Unemployment Insurance Act as it applies to service personnel.

DOGS MUST HAVE LICENCES

Dog-owners are reminded by Police Chief Edouard Moreau that last year's licences have expired, and that permits must be secured immediately by those citizens owning dogs of any type.

Citizens may recall that a municipal law necessitates the muzzling of police, shepherd and eskimo dogs.

1,000,000-Gallon Reservoir To Be Constructed In East Sherbrooke

One of the main features of last night's committee meeting of the City Council was the discussion about plans for a water reservoir to serve East Sherbrooke. City Engineer J. C. Cote, who is looking after the arrangements, made public this morning some of the details of the project, but the construction cannot begin until the ratepayers approve the loan of approximately $300,000 which is sought by the city council.

On November 27, 1944, the city purchased two acres of land on Belmont Avenue, from A. G. Vandandaigne, with a view of using the ground, which is the highest in the vicinity, for the planned reservoir. One thousand two hundred was paid for the land, and this sum also included the right of way to the place.

The plans call for a reservoir 110 by 110 and 15 feet high. Since about half the area consists mainly of rocks, dynamite and other explosives will have to be employed in the construction. The whole job will be done in reinforced concrete, which is the best building material available. The capacity will be 1,000,000 gallons.

The rapid expansion of Sherbrooke necessitates this reservoir, since East Sherbrooke may be short of water in case of a large fire, or on very hot days when the water consumption reaches a maximum. The present pump has a capacity of 250 gallons per minute, but with a reservoir of 1,000,000 gallons back-up, this could be increased to as much as 1,000 gallons per minute, and even more. "The plans are ready," said Mr. Cote in an interview this morning, "and it is now up to the ratepayers to approve them."

It is not expected to start on the project before next year.

LEOPOLD BANISHED

In view of the refusal of King Leopold either to abdicate the Throne of Belgium or to return to his native land to resume his duties, the action of the Belgian Parliament in barring him from the soil of Belgium without the consent of Parliament is a logical one. Leopold, from a strictly technical constitutional point of view, may have some justification for his refusal to abdicate on the grounds that there has not been a clear and free expression of the people through the form of an election or plebiscite. But there actually is no doubt as to the general wishes of the Belgian people, with whom the present monarch is decidedly unpopular.

The dislike with which Leopold is held by the Belgian people is in marked contrast to the love and affection with which this same race regarded his father, King Albert. But the contrast of the two men when faced with adversity is equally marked and well illustrates the reasons for the difference in regard. King Albert was steadfast throughout the time of the German attack and occupation of his country. His behavior was that of a brave man and an able leader whose first concerns were responsibility to his people and to his allies. Despite the pleas and apologies made for King Leopold and his actions during the debacle of 1940, it is difficult to come to any other conclusion than that his personal safety was of first concern.

Those charged with drawing up the formal indictment against Leopold have an impressive list of complaints. The first is that he surrendered his army unnecessarily and illegally, as the constitution required that he have the consent of his government for such action, a consent which was completely lacking. Agreements with Britain and France were violated by the surrender. The violations were overlooked and he was invited to go to the British Isles with his armies but refused. These things all contributed to his unpopularity but he probably set the seal upon it when he married the daughter of a notorious collaborator who made huge profits dealing with the Germans.

The Belgian people are not likely to forget these things and they cannot be blamed if they remember only too well that Leopold was enjoying life in a mountain resort when they suffered under the German occupation. And the manner in which he left his people in the lurch is in such marked contrast to the noble way in which the leaders of many other United Nations members continued to lead their subjects in the fight for freedom that it is not surprising the Belgians rather object to him returning to take the benefits of a victory he did nothing to win.

CONTEMPT NOW JUSTIFIED

The contempt which the United Nations commanders now appear to hold concerning the Japanese naval and air power may to a certain extent be compared to the contempt which the average, uninformed citizen held of the entire Japanese armed services in 1941. But there is one important difference between the two. The civilian contempt in the early stages of the war was unjustified as events tragically proved, whereas the contempt which the military leaders hold of the Nipponese navy and air force appears to have a sound basis of justification.

As an instance of the low opinion which Admiral Nimitz and his colleagues hold of the Japanese, the communiqués issued on the latest air and naval attacks against the Japanese mainland vary in one important respect from those which told the progress of the war in Europe and the earlier stages of the Pacific war. Not only are the size of the naval formations given, but the names of the ships in the various attacks are freely given out, thus indicating that the United Nations leaders are not concerned about the Japs learning what ships are taking part in the raids and which ones might be in other waters. The vessels listed in these attacks include H.M.S. King George, 35,000 tons, one of the finest and greatest ships in the Royal Navy, the U.S.S. Washington and several dreadnaughts of the Iowa class.

Of course there is a keen desire to get the remnants of the Japanese navy into action, but revealing the strength of the Anglo-American fleet offshore is a rather poor invitation. The Japs will never face complete and overwhelming hari-kari by combat with an armada said to number 350 ships of all types. There are great airplane carriers, and from their tops there have gone two thousand deadly, fast planes to penetrate the very centres of the Japanese cities.

But Admiral Nimitz indicates that these latest combined naval and air actions against Japan are only the preliminaries for greater things to come. In asserting that they are but part of the pre-invasion softening-up process, he confirms the fear of every Japanese that the sacred islands are to be invaded. How soon time alone will tell, but the day is surely speeded up to what it was only a few months ago.

Considerable interest is being displayed in what the experts say about the weather in the Japanese area. The autumn and early winter are the most favorable months of the year; summer provides an occasional terrible typhoon as the United States navy experienced a short time ago. It is very obvious, then, that from now on, there will be great magnificent actions, greater in power and magnitude than the wonderful operations which have been described to date.

SOME EXPLANATION NEEDED

The growing frequency of the reports that Adolf Hitler and other members of his inner circle have taken refuge on a large ranch in the southern section of Argentina and the steadily strengthening evidence which supports these claims make it essential that some reasonable statement be made on the situation without delay. To date the Argentine Government has merely issued a general denial of the claims, a denial which is more in the nature of a formality than any real source of information.

The case made for the belief that Hitler may have reached a South American haven is a strong one. To begin with, aside from the statements of a few high-placed Nazi officials that he was either killed in Berlin or committed suicide, there is nothing to confirm that Hitler is not still alive. And anyone with even the slightest knowledge of the mentality of this individual will seriously doubt that he would remain on the scene of battle until the last gun was fired or that he would take his own life if any manner of escape appeared likely. The death reports may well have been put out to give the vanished Fuehrer time to escape from the Reich, probably using a submarine.

Furthermore, United Nations naval officials have revealed that a number of German submarines are still unaccounted for and there is no reason to discredit the belief that they may have transported Hitler to the great, thinly-inhabited ranch areas of the southern Argentine. Many of these ranches are owned by German nationals, most of whom were avowed Nazis of the strongest order. Thus it might reasonably be presumed that these large ranch-owners might be only too willing to receive their former idol—if they had not been sent ahead to prepare such a refuge. The sudden surrender of a German submarine to the Argentine authorities and the unsatisfactory state of its log book also lend credence to the claim that some high-ranking Nazis put ashore on the Patagonian coast.

Again, the general attitude of the Argentine Government towards the United Nations is very unsatisfactory. Despite its nominal declaration of war against Germany, the administration has always had Fascist leanings and there is no reason to assume it would offer any real objection to the entry of Hitler and his cohorts if it could do so without too much embarrassment.

All in all, the Allies might be well advised to dig deeper into these reports and determine for themselves the exact goings-on at some of these Argentine ranches which may in reality be the breeding ground for future Nazi activity.

MAYBE THE COLONIES MIGHT HAVE THEIR SAY

One of the proposals which have been advanced as to the proper treatment of German senior officers who had no personal part in the great conspiracy to plunge the world into war but who merely followed the orders laid down by their superiors is that they be banished to British Crown Colonies throughout the world. This is the punishment suggested for the underlings, as the fate decided for the senior members of the German general staff is well known to everybody.

But it is not improbable that strong opposition may be voiced in such colonies to the proposed expedient. In all such colonies there are developing societies which look forward to the time when they will be full-fledged self-governing units of the British Commonwealth of Nations. And it can be readily appreciated that German general staff officers are not the sort of material in the way of colonists that a country aiming at democratic independence would wish to receive or welcome. The mind of the German military man is likely to be impervious to democratic reactions and a number of such men in a colony might cause or foment a great deal of trouble.

Of course, the suggested exile of these German leaders has no official support but before any decision is made the people of the districts in which these men are going to live should be given an opportunity of voicing their views.

REPLY TO "OLD TIMER"

To the Editor of the Record,
Dear Sir:—Will you kindly allow me a little space in your columns to make reference to a recent letter signed "Old Timer," in which he made mention of the old days in Sherbrooke, and the limited number of dwellings in the then fast-growing village. These references, apparently, appeared in obituaries of aged residents of the Townships, of some sixty or seventy years ago and stated that "less than fifty buildings were to be found on Wellington and adjoining streets."

As "Old Timer" writes: "Anyone stepping off the G.T.R. train in Sherbrooke sixty-nine years ago surely found a good-sized village," and aged people in their eighties with fairly good memories can recall the old Sherbrooke House—now a more pretentious building—the Odell and Griffith blocks, the Court House, the Market Square, and, in 1833, when the British American Land Company began its activities, Sherbrooke was already fitting itself to become the "Hub" of the Townships.

As mentioned in the letter, many of the older buildings have had their faces lifted—others needing it, but on the whole the city has homes and sites of historic value and when reference is made, at time of passing of aged people, care should be taken that the true history of the city and its environs be not disturbed.

Thank you,
BERTHA W. PRICE,
St. Catharines, Ont.

PRESS COMMENTS

FOR A UNITED WEST

Winnipeg Free Press
There has been a tendency, and an unfortunate one, in Western Canada to propagate the belief that, by some means or other, it is possible to create prosperity in a great export area by the adoption of purely domestic programmes of reform. These, in large measure, have been the backlash of the failure of the Dominion Government to get adequate results in developing markets for Western farm products. All these programmes involve an inverted form of protectionism; and protection in no matter what form is, and must be, disastrous to the West. We have today a chance of a new beginning, an opportunity to get back to first principles and to join with the world to put them into action. It would be a tragedy if the three Prairie Provinces, because of differences of view on other and lesser issues, were unable to get together and to present a united front on the single policy which alone can keep up economically healthy. If we so fail it can only be because group and party leaders prefer some narrow, short range political advantage to the broader and more permanent goal.

BRITISH WASHING MACHINE

St. Thomas Times-Journal
A new revolutionary type of electric washing machine, developed in the United Kingdom, will make press-button laundering a possibility for every housewife. The machine applies to laundering the principle of the ship's screw in the form of an impeller device, which is far more efficient than the older agitator device which it replaces. Other new technical devices incorporated are an exceptionally lightweight speed reducer, a neat form of clutch and an automatic, completely foolproof safety device on the attached wringer. Starting with about 1,000 machines a week, production will be rapidly stepped up to between 100,000 and 150,000 a year.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority

VULNERABLE FOES LOOK FOR SPOT

Anything is apt to happen any minute in a bridge game, especially when you find Ollie Emrich, Cleveland, and some more Western Reservists present. This hand came up recently at the Ambassador Club in Cleveland's Hollenden Hotel. Emrich felt that, because his opponents were vulnerable, they might try to find a spot to play the hand. They did—and believe it or not, East was never able to win one trick in the West hand.

The opening lead was covered with the ace, which North ruffed. He cashed his ace and king of hearts and returned a small heart, which South ruffed. South now cashed his queen and jack of spades, while North discarded two clubs. When the smoke cleared away, East had gone down 2,000. The funny part is, had they played the double of four spades, Emrich could have gone for 2,000. Just a little swing of 2,000 points.

In the canteen there was much speculation as to who had dared to strike the regimental tyrant, when a raw recruit entered.

"Oh, boy!" he said happily. "Have you seen the lovely black eye my pal gave the sergeant-major?"

"Why, you never even saw the fellow who did it?" was the indignant chorus.

"I know," said the recruit, firmly, "but whoever he is, he's my pal now!"

Mrs. Jones: "We haven't heard from Uncle John and Aunt Ella for twenty years. How do you expect to locate them?"

Jones: "Easy! I'll rent a cottage at the seashore this summer."

"Are you sure your wife knows I'm going home to dinner with you?"

"Knows? I should say so! Why, George, I argued with her about it this morning for half an hour."

The perfect pun is said to have had its origin in the House of Commons. An Irishman made a statement which called from an English opponent the cry: "Treason!"

The Irishman replied: "I would have the honorable gentlemen know that what is treason in England becomes reason in Ireland—because of the absentee."

Her allowance had run out, so she wrote home for more money. Feeling uncertain as to the impression it would make, she opened her letter and wrote "P.S.: I did not like writing to you. In fact, I ran after the postman to get this letter back."

Several days later she received the following reply: "Dear Daughter: You'll be glad to know that I didn't get your letter. Dad."

As he man rushed frantically down the country lane he came across a farm lad.

"Quick," he panted. "A man-eating tiger has escaped from the circus."

"Ee," said the countryman placidly. "Which way is it going?"

"You don't think I'm chasing it, do you?" exploded the runner with a gasp.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Success Arouses Envy

Feminine Go-Getter Never Popular
With Less Ambitious Women

DEAR MISS DIX: Having been a business and professional woman for more than 30 years, I would like to tell you some of the things that a girl comes up against in this little old working world of ours. The great majority of girls and women work merely for their pay checks. They have no interest in their work and do just barely enough to keep the boss from firing them.

DOROTHY DIX

So, if a girl comes along who is interested in her work, does a good job and shows those qualities which will lead to her promotion, the slackers immediately gang up on her and shun her as they would the plague. Her industry shows up their laziness and she can never be popular, or even on very friendly terms with them. Believe me, I know from personal experience that this is true.

A WORKER WHO KNOWS

ANSWER: Doubtless your explanation of why the feminine go-getter is never popular with her fellow workers is correct. Those who are bent on climbing the ladder step on the toes of too many who are content to sit at the bottom of it. Also, they present too vivid a comparison to those who do as little work as they can for as much pay as they can get, and that does not endear them to those who have to listen to the boss's remarks on the subject.

But success is always bought at a price. Not only must one pay for it with the labor and the struggle that exhaust one in body and soul, but with the sacrifice of the endearing human relationship. A poet once wrote of the loneliness of the men and women "who sit by solitary fires and hear the world applauding them from afar."

The very successful get plenty of lip service. They are flattered and adulated, but they are never popular as the happy-go-lucky, easy-going men and women who just get by with their jobs who provoke nobody's envy or jealousy.

Fortunately for women, most of them have no ambition beyond getting married and getting a husband to support them, so they are belied by those with whom they work, as the ambitious girl never is. It is just feminine human nature. You can't have everything.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am good-looking. I dress smartly. And I have plenty of women friends, but I don't seem to have many dates. I cannot account for this. Can you suggest any explanation of it, or give me any advice on how to make myself attractive to boys?

SHIRLEY

ANSWER: Well, you don't have to be any crystal-gazer or Quix Kid to know why you don't have many dates, no matter how good-looking you are, or what pretty clothes you have. It is because of the man shortage. With several millions of our most attractive youths in the army or navy, there are simply not enough wolves left to go around and provide every girl with a pet.

Believe me, daughter, the worst is yet to come, and you had better begin preparing yourself for it and learning to live alone, and like it. For not only will many of these lads never come home at all, but many others will have been grabbed off by the girls in Australia and New Zealand and France and Italy and the other countries in which the matrimonial supply is at a lower ebb than it is even here. So, instead of worrying over how to get dates, which are going to be as scarce as hens' teeth, devote your time and energy to acquiring a good trade.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My fiancé wants to call our engagement off because our nationality and religion are different. Do you really think that this matters an awful lot? I may find a boy who is of my religion and nationality, but I do not think that I could ever love anyone else quite as much as the one I love now.

ANSWER: If you being of different nationality and of different religious beliefs has come between you before marriage, it will be an insuperable bar after marriage, and I think you will be wise to call the wedding off. The happiest couples are those who have the same background; who have the same manners and customs; who believe alike, and have the same taste in cooking.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

MARRIAGES

TRUE—CURRIE-MILLS

A very pretty wedding took place on Saturday, June 30, 1945, in the Yarm United Church amid an embankment of orange blossoms, peonies and ferns, when Edith May, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Ivor Currie-Mills, became the bride of Russell George, son of Mr. and Mrs. George True, of Bolton Centre. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alex F. Tokes, of Shawville, assisted by the bride's father. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Orville Woolsey, a former classmate of the bride, and the soloist, Mr. Alex Horner, sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in a gown of white slipper satin, cut on princess lines, having lace insertions, a pleated bodice and long pointed sleeves. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a matching coronet with a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried an arm bouquet of Better Time roses and wore a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

The attendants were Miss Amelia Smart as maid of honor, and Miss Isabel Currie-Mills, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid. They were dressed in floor-length frocks of blue and pink sheer crepe made on princess lines, with matching finger-ring veils caught with flowers. They carried colonial bouquets of pink Happy Day roses and blue forget-me-nots tied with blue and pink satin bows.

Mr. Russell Currie-Mills was best man and Mr. John Currie-Mills and Mr. Stirling Hodgins acted as ushers. The bride's mother was dressed in blue sheer crepe in redigote style, with white accessories and a corsage of pink Rapture roses and blue delphinium petals.

The groom's present to the groom was a gold watch chain. She presented her attendants with opalescent bracelets of aquamarine and pink, and the organist with tiny gold heart-shaped earrings. The soloist received a chalk-white opalescent bracelet. The groom's gifts to the best man and the ushers were gold engraved cuff links.

After the ceremony, a buffet lunch was served on the lawn of the church, and later Mr. and Mrs. True left on a wedding trip to the Thousand Islands, the bride traveling in a blue suit of cloth and thin crepe, with matching mohair hat and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. On their return, the couple will reside in Bolton Centre, where the groom is the postmaster.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. Graydon True, Bolton Centre, Miss Helen Mull, Sussex, N.B., Mr. and Mrs. Russell Currie-Mills, Noranda, Que., Mrs. Kenneth Hodgins, Noranda; Cpl. Cecilia Currie-Mills, Torbay, Nfld., Miss Ruby Stevenson, Riverbend, N.S., Mr. and Mrs. Thorne Rivers, Miss Lois Horner, Miss Jean Horner, Ottawa, Ont., and Mrs. Ray Wilson, Hamilton, Ont.

Crowds Still After New Potatoes Selling This Week At 75 Per Peck

Last week's mob scene on a potato truck was reported at the Lansdowne Market this morning, only this week in the presence of a representative of the Municipal Police Force, and concentrated on two instead of one truck. Already, the price has dropped two cents on a peck, from seventy-seven to seventy-five cents in one week.

Quoted, the policeman stated that he was on hand to avert any possible "trouble."

Potatoes are the only commodity that did go down in price during the week, however. Tomatoes, eggs and many fruits, particularly plums, have gone up.

With a rise in each classification, eggs are now selling at 45 to 48 for Grade-A large; 43 to 45 for Grade-A medium; and 35 to 40 for pullets.

Plums have jumped from twenty-five to forty a dozen, and tomatoes have taken a five cent jump to forty cents a pound. Raspberries have made their debut at twenty-five cents a small basket.

Otherwise, the economic balance has been maintained, with meat in particular remaining firm throughout.

TOBACCO CROPS IN CANADA ON THE INCREASE

Ottawa, July 20.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports that the area planted to tobacco in Canada this year has been estimated at 93,790 acres, compared with 88,495 acres last year.

The acreage, however, represented only 85.9 per cent of 109,140 acres recommended by a Dominion-Provincial Tobacco Conference last December. Bad weather conditions in Eastern Canada wouldn't permit planting a larger acreage.

The final estimates of the 1944 commercial tobacco crop indicated a total production of 105,415,550 pounds of green leaf, valued at $91,001,900, the Bureau states.

The acreage in flue-cured leaf this year totals 76,880. There are 4,750 acres in Quebec, practically the same as in 1944. The flue-cured estimate for Ontario is 72,000 acres, compared with 68,800 last year, an increase of 4.6 per cent, while in British Columbia the acreage is

Big Potato Yield Seen For Ontario

Toronto, July 20.—There has been a substantial improvement in crop conditions throughout Ontario during the past month despite excessive rainfall and the continuing acute labor shortage, the monthly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today.

One of the most encouraging features of this season's crops is that potato fields look generally good and there are indications that yields per acre may be better than last year.

The labor situation continues to be a source of concern to farmers. Tobacco and sugar beet growers say this year's crops show little improvement and are likely to be disappointing.

estimated at 130, a decrease from the 152 acres reported for 1944. The Dominion-Provincial Conference recommended 6,000 acres for Quebec, 82,600 for Ontario and 300 acres for British Columbia.

The barley acreage, all in Ontario, is given as 11,400, nearly 2,000 acres greater than the 1944 area. The plantings of dark tobacco are estimated at 1,000 acres.

Transplanting of cigar leaf tobacco was not completed until this month. The estimate is given as 2,600 acres, or 200 more than last year, but the area is still less than in the years prior to 1944.

The acreage in pipe tobacco is reported at 1,710, which is less than the 1,839 acres in 1944. The area planted to large pipe varieties is 1,150 acres, while to medium pipe it is 400, and to small pipe 150 acres.

BAN ON MILITARY TRAINING URGED BY REPUBLICANS

Proposal Made in Congress by Republican Leader Martin—World-Wide Co-Operation Considered Doubtful.

Ottawa, July 17.—The declines—almost the fall—of the empire of hog production built in Canada and the United States during the war was painted in sombre figures in the agriculture department's review of agricultural conditions today.

Here are the figures, given urgently by the city of Europe for meat:

1. In January, 1944, North American hog numbers reached the record level of 99,000,000 head. In January, 1945 this figure had been reduced 74,000,000 and a further reduction is probable by the end of this year unless the present trend is checked.

2. Continental Europe prior to the war accounted for about 26 per cent of world swine production but in 1945 the total is about 50,000,000 head, or less than 10 per cent.

Shortages of feed may lead to further reduction in European pig production by 1946.

3. In June, the Canadian meat board, in charge of bacon exports to the United Kingdom, had received about 235,000,000 pounds compared with 394,000,000 pounds in the corresponding period of 1944.

4. At the halfway mark in 1945, it appeared that inspected hog slaughtering in Canada were more than 1,750,000 head smaller than the record total for the first half of 1944.

In spite of the major decline in hog marketing through inspected slaughterhouses, officials said it was expected the minimum contract for bacon to the United Kingdom would be met.

The review of agricultural conditions noted these factors as indicating an improvement in Canadian marketing is possible before the year ends.

1. Demand for breeding stock and weaning pigs in recent months has been keen.

2. The margin between feed costs and hog prices has remained comparatively wide and has increased recently as hog prices have advanced.

If feed crops are good this year, there will be a further incentive to keep hogs herds at a high level. Meat-raising regulations are expected to check a tendency to divert hogs from inspected channels to local marketing.

Gardner's, returned home with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, of Mystic, and Rev. George Connolly, of Dunham, were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Wightman.

Mr. Offie Wightman has returned to South Bolton, after a number of days spent with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Wightman.

CANTERBURY EAST

The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. B. F. Coates, Mrs. Crook and Mrs. S. Coates being the hostesses. The meeting was opened in the usual way by singing the Ode, saluting the flag and repeating the Creed and prayer for the armed forces in unison. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. The correspondence from Mrs. Hodges was read. Consumers' leaflets were given out. The Ways and Means Committee reported that it had decided to have a salad supper and sale and dance in August, and to hold the usual dances Thursdays instead of Wednesdays. Mrs. Murdoch Morrison gave a splendid report of the convention held at MacDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue. The roll call subject was "A Verse About Women" from Proverbs, and was answered by all, each member giving her reason "why women should belong to the W.I., saying that as members the W.I. gave them a broader view of life and they felt that over the world they were working and thinking and doing for home and country. Wherever there was an Institute they all felt that all worked toward the same objective. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. B. F. Coates and Mrs. Jacklin.

Mr. and Mrs. Crook have moved onto the Jacklin farm for the summer.

CHERRY RIVER

The Women's Institute held its July meeting at the home of Mrs. Doris Alex with a good attendance. Papers were read by Mrs. Ruby Whittle and Mrs. Fern Buzzell. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

The Red Cross Society met at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Bice Lany. Patchwork quilt blocks were made and at the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

The Cherry River Softball team visited the Magog team and won the game.

The windstorm which struck Cherry River did a lot of damage, tearing off house and barn roofs and uprooting trees and tearing up fences, but no one was hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Metivier attended the wedding of their nephew in Magog.

Miss Audrey Fields is spending her vacation in Ontario.

Sgt. Evelyn Capsey, of Austin, spent a week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Archie McKelvey.

East Angus And Bishopton Vacation Church Schools Held Joint Picnic

East Angus, July 20.—The annual inter-church vacation school was held in the Anglican Parish Hall during the week of July 2-7. The number of children present and the work was accomplished was very gratifying to all who took part in planning and instructing the young children of the community.

The devotional period was taken up with lantern slides and Bible study and was directed by Rev. W. W. Smith and Rev. C. J. Gustafson. A test was given at the close of this work and prizes were awarded to the different classes.

The recreation period which followed was under the supervision of Mrs. C. Damon, Mrs. A. S. Hall and Rev. W. W. Smith. The many games were thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The period for handicraft instruction was divided into three classes. Miss Mabel Carter with helpers, Joan Rowland and Betty Parsons, instructed their class of girls and boys 6 to 8 years in making paper flowers, birch bark canoes, picture frames and napkin rings.

Mrs. Vera Main and Mrs. C. J. Hall, whose class was girls 9 to 14 years, were taught to make red baskets and nature study books.

Rev. C. J. Gustafson, with his helpers, Keith Hall and Arthur Bailey, whose class was boys 9 to 14 years, worked on wooden strip mats and fans.

A vacation school on similar lines was held at Bishopton at the same time, ending in a joint picnic of the four Protestant churches on Saturday, July 7, at Mr. Rufus Rolfe's farm at Mirror Lake, Bishopton.

The picnic proved a decided success, both weather and grounds being ideal.

The sports were under the direction of Allan Willard and George Rowley. The prize winners in the several events follow:

Races, girls 6 years and under: 1 Carol Mitchell, 2 Judy Willard, 3 Betty Taylor. Boys 6 years and under: 1 Gary Nutbrown, 2 Gerald Hughes, 3 Gordon Robertson. Girls 7-9 years: 1 Bruce Taylor, 2 Bobby Davis, 3 Jimmy Davis. Girls 10-12 years: 1 Christina Smith, 2 Betty Davis, 3 Clarice Finckre. Boys 10-12 years: 1 Ronald Main, 2 Buddy Hughes, 3 Gordon Robertson. Girls 13-15 years: 1 Joan Rowland, 2 Betty Parsons, 3 Jean Westgate. Girls 16 years and over: 1 Madeline Finckre, 2 Madeline Elliott, 3 Helen Suckles. Boys 16 years and over: 1 Keith Hall, 2 James Rowley. Girls' three-legged race: 1 Gwen Gilbert and Jean Gustafson, 2 Joan Rowland and Betty Parsons, 3 Madeline Elliott and Ardyth Bishop. Boys' three-legged race: 1 James Rowley and Keith Hall, 2 Buddy Hughes and Ronald Main, 3 Osborne Bailey and Alan Simons.

Girls' relay race captains: 1 Joan Rowland, 2 Betty Davis, 3 Gwen Gilbert.

Married ladies' race: 1 Mrs. Alvin Nutbrown, 2 Mrs. Bob Irving.

A tug of war between teams from Captains Keith Hall and James Rowley proved very interesting to the gathering and was finally won by Keith Hall's team.

Following a swim in the lake and a basket lunch with ice cream, a hearty vote of thanks was given Mr. Rolfe for his kindly generosity. The committee also wishes to thank those who collected for the prize list, both in Bishopton and East Angus.

EAST CLIFTON

Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson, of Scottown, spent a week-end with the latter's father, Mr. John Waldron.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott and Miss Madeline Elliott attended the funeral of Mrs. Minnie Bartlett, at Bishopton.

Friends of Mrs. Bartlett here wish to extend sympathy to her immediate family, who are left to mourn her loss.

AYER'S CLIFF

Perfect weather prevailed for the annual garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Johnston on School Street, held under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of Beulah United Church, when a large number of people enjoyed the cordial hospitality they always receive at the Johnston home, and they were from Coaticook, Beebe, Waterville, North Hatley, Montreal, Richmond, New York, Lennoxville and this community. The proceeds were inured very satisfactory and were for the special objective, which is the medical supplies for the dispensary connected with Pine River Hospital, in Manitoba. The sales table was in charge of Mrs. E. W. Sheldon and the gifts were quickly disposed of. The tea was in charge of Mrs. M. Wymann and served on the attractive and spacious lawn by the following ladies: Mrs. H. Nelson Pierce, Mrs. Everett Slack, Mrs. Lysie Thompson, Mrs. R. G. McHarg, Mrs. S. R. True, Mrs. E. R. Rousseau and Miss Irene Orout. All reported a very fine time and it is the one time of the year when friends from these various places get together.

Miss Kaye Rolkins is holidaying in Foster at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Williams.

Mrs. Alfred Goode and son, Freddie, have left for Georgetown to join Cpl. Goode, who is engaged for the summer running the steamer "Anthemis" on Lake Memphremagog.

Mrs. Larabee, of Barton, Vt., is visiting her sister, Mrs. George Chamberlin, and Mr. Chamberlin, at their cottage at Lake Massawippi.

Mr. and Mrs. Lundson, of Montreal, are spending their holidays at Dr. Gould's cottage at Ripple Cove.

The Corporation of the Village of Ayer's Cliff has purchased a fire engine and put a demonstration of same on the day it arrived. The townspeople hope that it will not be needed, but in case of fire they feel definitely safer. It was operated from the pond and the hose was run up into the centre of the business section with excellent force.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Beerworth and son, Richard, of Sherbrooke, spent a week at Lake Massawippi in Brown's Cabins.

Cpl. Burton Mosher, who is on furlough from overseas, spent a week-end at the home of his uncle and cousins, Mr. Willis E. Rolins and Miss E. and K. Rolins.

Mr. J. H. Gustin, of Lennoxville, was an overnight guest of his sister, Miss Lena Gustin, en route to Fitch Bay.

Mrs. J. Normandin and daughters, Anna and Beatrice, of Roxton Falls, were guests of Mrs. Normandin's sister, Mrs. A. Cochrane, and Mr. Cochrane.

Mrs. G. L. Temple, of Brown's Hill, was a guest of Mrs. Lydia Paul and Miss Mildred Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Lalonde and son, of Toronto, are spending their holidays here with her mother, Mrs. M. R. Sherman, and visiting other relatives.

Mrs. C. H. Robinson and Mrs. E. H. Standish, of Rock Island, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. LeDoux, at the Robinson cottage, Elmwood Park, where they are spending their holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Gifford, of Sherbrooke, spent a week-end here at their cottage at Elmwood Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Brown and children, Donald and Helen, who have spent their holidays here at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Brown, Lake Edge, have left en route to their home in Dagsboro, Del.

Mrs. F. R. Dunne and daughter, Miss Maureen Dunne, have been spending a few days in Waterville with her aunt, Mrs. J. R. Osgood, and family.

Mr. E. P. Lyon, agent at the Quebec Central Railway station, is having his annual holidays and accompanied his daughter, Mrs. M. A. Turner, to her home in Montreal for a portion of his holiday.

Tpl. Melbourne Bangs, who has just returned to Canada, after about four years' service overseas, has been visiting old friends and relatives in town. Tpr. Bangs visited his mother, Mrs. M. M. Bangs at the Wales Home in Richmond, and his sister, Mrs. I. Richardson, and family in Lebanon, N.H., prior to coming to Ayer's Cliff. His many friends here are pleased to see him in such a fit condition.

Mr. A. H. Slack was in Ste. Anne de Bellevue, where he visited his son, Spt. Wesley Slack, who is in the Military Hospital there. He reported him to be as comfortable as could be expected.

"KISS and TELL"

A New Serial Fiction Story

by F. HUGH HERBERT

THE STORY: When Lenny admits his love has been shorted to 72 hours, Mildred agrees to marry him right away. They decide to keep it a secret until the row between their two families blows over.

CHAPTER XL
FATE IN THE SMALL SHABBY BUNGALOW—DAY
MEDIUM SHOT

This is the small ramshackle bungalow of a justice of the peace in the neighboring town of Wyndham Ferry across the state line. In the front yard there is a weather-beaten shingle which bears the words: "ELMER K. WALDO, JUSTICE OF THE PEACE." As we dissolve in Lenny and Mildred, who have evidently just been married, are coming out of the bungalow, followed by Mr. Waldo himself. Waldo is an amiable old duck, well past 60. He wears heavy lensed glasses and is also hard of hearing.

Lenny: Well—good-by, sir. And thanks a million.

Waldo: (cupping his ear) Huh? What's that?

Mildred: (raising her voice, smiling) He said "thanks a million" for marrying us, Mr. Waldo.

Waldo: (beaming) Oh—yes, sure. Well—I certainly wish you young folks all the happiness and luck in the world.

He opens the garden gate for them and Lenny and Mildred run across the sidewalk to the Archers' sedan after exchanging a lot of ad lib good-bys.

INT. MOVING SEDAN—TRANS-PARENCY—DAY
CLOSE SHOT—LENNY AND MILDRED

Lenny is driving down a country road. Mildred, ecstatically happy, is seated very close to him, her arm linked through his on the steering wheel.

MILDRED (sighing happily) Oh,

Lenny, I can't believe that I'm actually your wife. (anxiously) Do you suppose it's all right—I mean, I did lie about my age. I won't actually be 18 until next month.

Lenny: (soothingly) I know. Don't worry, baby.

Mildred, however, is still frowning anxiously.

MILDRED: (troubled) Oh, Lenny, I'm worried about what the folks'll do when they know.

Lenny: (soothingly) Don't worry, baby—we're married now and if you just leave everything to me, it'll be all right. We'll break it to 'em gently tonight.

Contentedly, Mildred puts her cheek against Lenny's shoulder and they drive along happily.

DISSOLVE TO:
INT. ARCHER PORCH—AFTER-NOON

It is now between three and four in the afternoon. Mr. Archer is sprawled comfortably on the couch immersed in the Sunday papers. He is sipping a highball. Mrs. Archer is seated next to him, knitting. The telephone rings, and as Mrs. Archer gets up and crosses to answer it, we see Corliss, out in the garden, dashing to the screen windows, having also heard the telephone.

MRS. ARCHER: (answering phone) Hello?—Oh, hello, Norma. (smiling happily) Yes—Lenny got home last night—wasn't that lovely! No, he's out now. Harry let him have the car and he left early this morning.

CORLISS: Mum, ask if he's been over there. Ask if—

Mrs. Archer, listening to the party on the wire, motions Corliss to be quiet.

MRS. ARCHER: (into phone) Oh, yes, I'm sure he'll be back for supper. We'll let you know. Good-by, Norma.

She hangs up thoughtfully and goes back to the couch.

EXT. ARCHER GARDEN
Mr. and Mrs. Franklin and Dexter are just coming through the gate from their property. Corliss greets them gaily, and the Franklins respond with affectionate ad lib greetings.

CORLISS: (pointing with her thumb over her shoulder) Mum and Daddy are on the porch.

DEXTER: (to Corliss) Lenny back yet?

CORLISS: (puzzled frown) No, and we can't think what's keeping him.

Corliss and Dexter remain in the garden while the Franklins let themselves onto the porch through the screen door.

DIFFERENT ANGLE
Corliss and Dexter are in a heated argument.

DEXTER: It's a wonder to me you didn't try to sell kisses to Private Earhart last night—if you think he's so hot!

CORLISS: (walking away) Oh, don't be childish!

Dexter follows her.

CLOSE SHOT—FRANKLINS AND ARCHERS

They have been watching Corliss and Dexter through the screen door and now they exchange amused glances.

MRS. FRANKLIN: Poor Dexter—he's so crazy about Corliss.

MR. FRANKLIN: (chuckling) Yes, I gather from my son he didn't altogether approve of this young soldier you had for dinner last night.

MR. ARCHER: (grinning) Oh, yes—Private Earhart. Nice boy, wasn't he Janet?

MRS. ARCHER: Well he seemed very nice, but—(slight pause)—well, he and Corliss were holding hands at the movies last night.

MR. ARCHER: They were? (a wide grin) Why, the little devil! (highly amused) I know she was holding hands with Dexter, because I saw 'em. I sat next to Dexter! Just then the front doorbell rings.

The Doctor Says

WATCH DIET, SLEEP WELL, DON'T OVERWORK ON HOT DAYS

By Dr. William O'Brien, M.D.

We differ greatly in our ability to stand hot weather. Some of us like it, while others find it difficult to take and are always wishing for cooler days to return. Our bodies have a way of regulating temperature and if given half a chance they do a good job for us. Our chief defense against heat is the evaporation of moisture on the skin.

Perspiration cools you only when it evaporates. When sweat runs off in streams there is little cooling effect as far as body heat is concerned. On hot days, wear light, loose clothing, and expose yourself to a breeze that will help your perspiration to cool you. Heat is produced in the body by muscular exertion and by food. If possible, do your work in the cooler parts of the day, and rest during the midday. Young children and older persons should always rest after the noon hour as the tendency toward heat apoplexy is greater in the young and in the old. If you have to work hard during hot weather, plan to rest at regular intervals, as this will give your body a chance to get rid of extra heat. Avoid heat producing foods in hot weather. Fat and protein are heat producers while sugars and starches supply energy but not excessive heat.

Keep Head Covered

Avoid exposure to the direct rays of the sun. Keep your head covered and if possible, wear a tropical type of helmet when out in the hot sun. The army has learned that marching in close formation on a hot day is tiring because of the heat and moisture produced. Avoid crowds and keep cool.

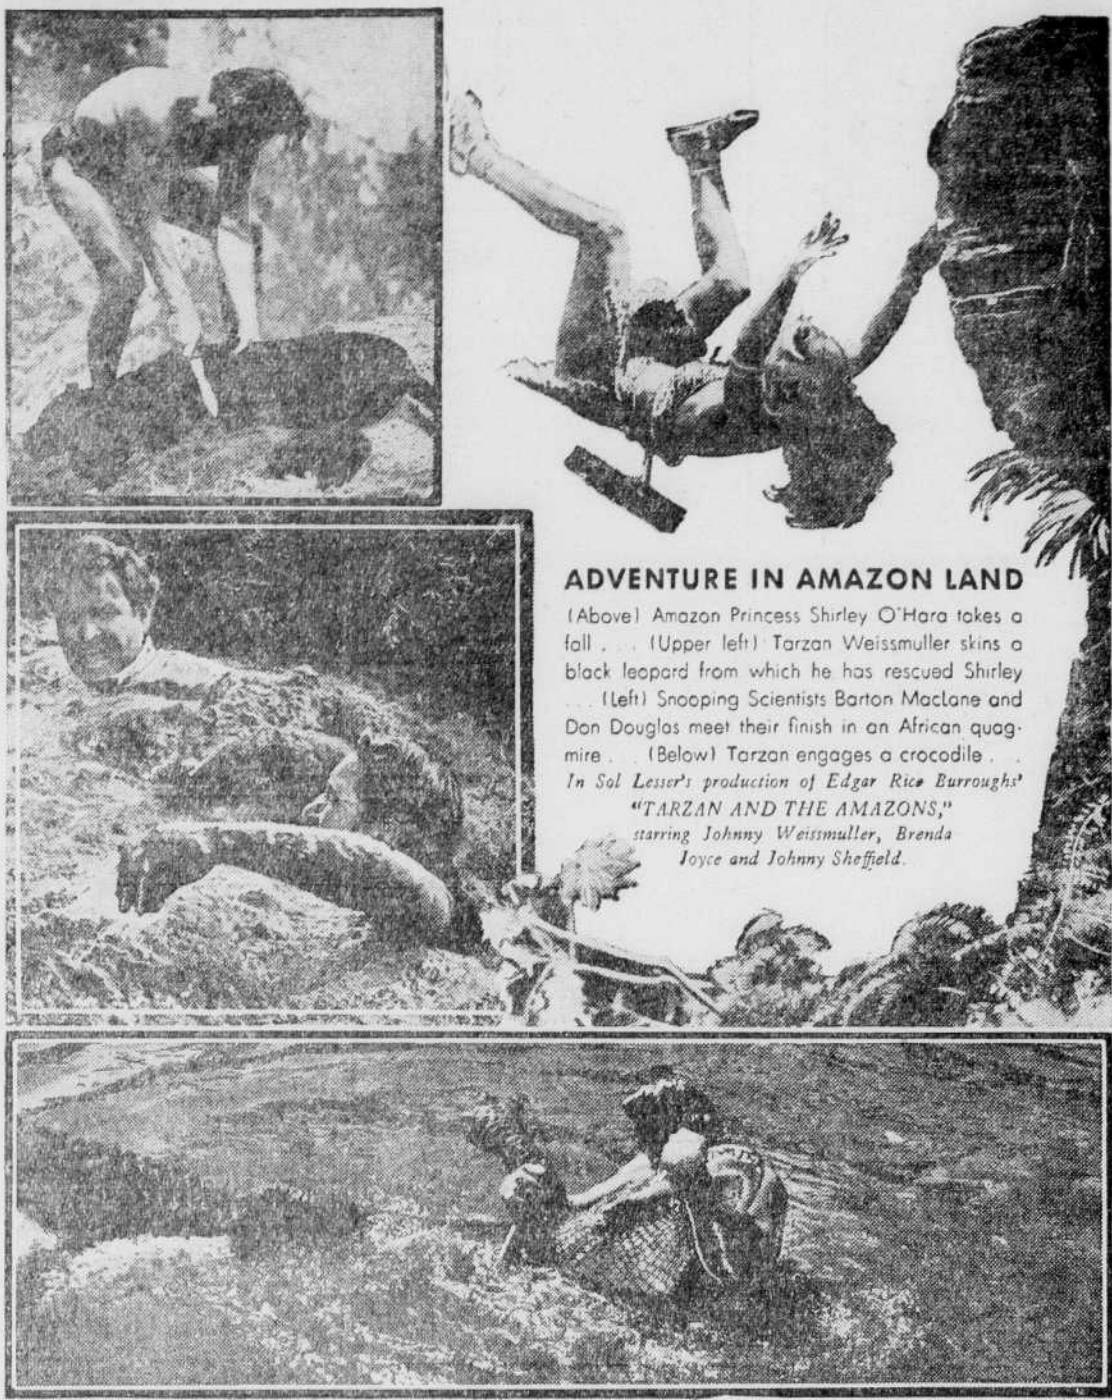

When the body has to maintain a normal temperature, in an atmosphere which is above body temperature, a great deal of perspiration must be evaporated. If in addition the air is charged with extra moisture cooling is made more difficult. It is on such days that heat production in the body should be kept at as low a rate as possible. To increase perspiration, drink an excessive amount of water. It is better to take small amounts of water frequently than to drink large amounts at a time.

Excessive perspiration robs the body of salt. Inhabitants of warm climates have always eaten salty foods. We should eat more salt on hot days. After adjustment to increased needs has been met, less salt is required to satisfy the body. For a salt water drink, a level teaspoon of salt to a quart of water is enough. After a time the body learns to secrete a more diluted sweat, and then the salt can be cut down.

Mental attitude has a great deal to do with our ability to stand the heat. The calm, well adjusted types do much better on hot days than the nervous irritable fussers. A good night's sleep helps most of all.

The fire fiend works with rare fondness for mischief when a Toronto blaze ruins a large quantity of ice in tropical weather.—Toronto Telegram.

SCOTSTOWN

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Circle of the Presbyterian Church was held in the church hall with Mrs. Rodney MacDonald and Mrs. J. Smith joint hostesses. There was a good attendance of members and visitors. The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. P. Boy, reading from Psalm CXLIII, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The usual business period followed. Plans were made for a concert to be held in July with Mrs. D. P. Murray and Mrs. MacArthur to take charge. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Angus Nicholson.

The pulpit of St. Andrew's United Church was filled on Sunday, July 8, by Capt. J. A. Smith, of Scotstown, speaking in the morning on the subject, "The Causes of War" and the evening on "Giving of Ourselves." A most enjoyable rendition of "The Stranger of Galilee" was given by Miss Margaret Ellis, of Montreal.

The sympathy of friends is extended to the family of Mr. Murdoch MacDonald, who passed away at the home of his son, Alex. The funeral services were conducted at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church by Rev. J. W. Smith with a large gathering attending to the esteem in which the deceased was held. Rev. Mr. Smith spoke from the text, "What man is he that liveth and shall not see death?" and mentioned the long life of good deeds, Mr. MacDonald having nearly reached his ninety-first birthday, being many years an elder in the church and a valued member of the community. The speaker reminded those listening that previous in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints and He gives "His beloved sleep." The hymns sung were "The Lord Is My Shepherd," "Safe In the Arms of Jesus" and "Asleep in Jesus, Blessed Sleep." Burial was in the Dell Cemetery.

John D. MacDonald, of North Hill, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. N. Maher.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Knight, of Montreal, are spending a vacation at the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. Scott.

Gen. Gamelin Strove To Equip Army With Armored Divisions

By Gen. Maurice-Gustave Gamelin

(Copyright, 1945, by The Associated Press)

Paris, July 20. — From the first, I was a believer in armored divisions and I directed full efforts toward getting them for the French Army as rapidly as possible. I was very pleased with the campaign waged by Gen. de Gaulle and Gen. Reynaud to have such divisions created in the army.

But two things caused it to be mistakenly believed that I was opposed to them.

First was that I didn't agree to the appellation "Armored Corps" for all our tanks. In French military terminology, that would have entailed the idea of forming them into a single group which would have been clumsy and non-manoeuvrable.

In the second place, I refused to agree to the composition of "Panzer Divisions" as the Germans had conceived, as corresponding to the necessities of our strategy. Actually in their battalion they had out of a total of 72 tanks, 36 of type one (six tons), which were no more fighting machines than our reconnaissance wheeled carriers with tanks.

Designed such formations similar in conception to the Panzer Division since these formations had their infantry (motorized corps), their artillery and their engineers as well as reconnaissance regiment—all motorized.

After 1936, the Supreme War Council decided unanimously, and M. Daladier, then Minister of War, approved the creation of three armored divisions capable of attacking an organized front and even permanent fortifications. At that time Germany already had occupied the Rhineland, and Belgium had ceased to be allied with us in order to become neutral. If we had not been in a tense to go to the aid of our Allies, we would thus have to attack between the Rhine and Moselle on a limited front in difficult terrain. And we had to suppose that the Germans would build fortifications there, which they did in 1936 (the Siegfried Line).

Within the possibilities of techniques then existing, we believed that tanks necessary for this role had to be our type B of 30 tons, and we planned on 12 battalions to constitute the three divisions.

We thus envisioned three mechanized divisions and three heavier armored divisions. The Germans at that time were preparing six Panzer divisions, of which only five were ready in September of 1939. Later improvement of techniques permitted us to plan on putting in these armored divisions lighter tanks such as our 39 Huchkiss model, armed with a new 37 millimeter cannon which pierced 40 millimeters of armor.

Thus at the end of 1939, we decided to constitute for the spring of 1940 a fourth armored division of the type decided upon. On the other hand, our British Allies were planning on sending us at the same time two tank divisions. However, as a result of a series of delays during May, our fourth mechanized division was still in the process of formation and the British had sent us only their first division.

These delays came essentially, I am certain, from the fact that our factories could not get underway until 1935 and because our industry could only attain its full production by stages. And this, despite the efforts of Premier Daladier and the remarkable work undertaken since the start of the war by the Armaments Minister, M. Dautry. Our general staff always ordered the maximum number of tanks it was possible to produce.

Moreover, it should be noted that even without counting our old model type tanks, we—the British and ourselves—had a greater number of independent battalions capable of being grouped in twos and threes than the Germans had. That was because we found ourselves on the defensive on a large front, and we had to have in the immediate vicinity tanks capable of participating in the first counter-attacks, while awaiting divisions from the general reserve.

Another factor might have given a false illusion about our strategic plans. It is true that I met with some resistance from a number of generals who had been imbued with the theories of Marshal Petain. They wanted to develop, above all, battalions of independent tanks. I passed over their opposition but they tried to turn public opinion in their favor. And that is what caused the misconception in the people's ideas.

HATLEY

The Women's Association was pleasantly entertained at "Highland Place" with Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Young the hostesses. The business meeting was conducted by the President, Mrs. Ronald McClary, with Mrs. C. W. Moulton taking the devotional part. A social time was enjoyed, after which a delicious tea was served.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Vaughan entertained in the Guild Hall a party of young people in honor of their son, Pie Mack Bryan, who is home from New Brunswick on furlough. SWEETSBURG

Local friends of Mr. Leland G. Bell, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bell, of Farnham Centre, and of Mrs. Bell the former R. L. Stowe, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Stowe, of Cowansville, will be interested in knowing that Mr. Bell has opened a new business at Melville, Sask., known as "Bell's Dairy" in a Pasteurization Plant in the Corner Building on Main street and First Avenue opposite the Central Apartments. Mr. Bell has put the building in first class shape and has installed therein first class pasteurization equipment. "The Melville Advance" says "This new enterprise should prove to be a step forward and a credit to Melville. The Advance joins with other local business firms in extending a hearty welcome to Mr. Bell into the business life of Melville and wish him every success." Mr. L. S. Bell had sixteen years experience in the dairy business in the city of Regina, Sask., and confirming this experience with modern dairy equipment and the co-operation of local citizens, this new enterprise should prove a real success. Melville is seventy miles from Regina.

The potato shortage is acute in both Cowansville and Sweetsburg. Mrs. E. J. Struthers and daughter, Millicent, are spending a few weeks with Mrs. C. B. Jameson and Mr. Arthur Jameson.

Mrs. Hugh Ashness-Wells entertains the Parish Guild and Women's Auxiliary of the Church, once a month, after a fair attendance of members. A quilt was made during the afternoon and following a suggestion for holding a food sale and tea for the benefit of the organization it was decided to donate a sum of money, from each family, because the mechanized division was still in the process of formation and the British had sent us only their first division.

Mrs. Donna Ball, of Longueuil, is spending a few days with Mrs. Grace Rutter.

Miss May Bulman has returned from Manchester, N.H., to spend the summer in her home in Sweetsburg.

DANVILLE

The local Red Cross rooms will be closed for the summer. Anyone wishing for sewing or knitting may get in touch with the President, Mrs. Alex MacLeay, as there is plenty of work on hand.

OBITUARIES

FOSS BENNETT GILL, OF MAPLE GROVE

Maple Grove, July 20.—Foss Bennett Gill passed away on June 11, at the home of his son, Faulconer
N. Gill, after an illness of four days.
Mr. Gill was born on April 23,
1865, the son of the late Thomas Gill and Martha Bennett Gill. With the exception of the time spent in the United States, Mr. Gill lived his entire life in Megantic county.

On October 28, 1890, he married
Mrs. Laura McLean, and to this union was born three sons and two daughters, one boy died in infancy and his wife died on February 28, 1899, leaving him with four small children. He married again on September 4, 1901, Miss Melissa Mc-Lean, who died on January 1, 1943.

Two of his children predeceased him, Wilfred, over twenty years ago, and Mrs. Henry Wilton, over ten years ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss a daughter, Mrs. Grant Annesley, and a son, Faulconer Gill; eight grandchildren, Helen, Mrs. John McMillan,
Laura, Dufferin and Elsie Annesley,
Jessie, John, Helen and Ethel Gill, and one great-grandchild, James
McMillan, and an only sister, Mrs.
Richard Nugent, besides many nephews and nieces.

Mr. Gill was a regular church attendant when health permitted, and a good neighbor and friend.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, June 13, at Holy Trinity Church at 2 p.m. The service was conducted by the Rev. A. V. McLaren, and interment was made in the family lot, in Holy Trinity Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were four nephews, Norman Gill, Albert and Walter Nugent and Jasper Dinning, and two friends, Bert Dinning and Natt Amadon.

The hymns sung were three favorites of the deceased: "Near My Chest to Thee," "The Lord Is My Shepherd," and "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." The beautiful wreath on the casket was from his family.

Those who attended the funeral from a distance were his grandchild,
Mrs. John McMillan, of Inverness;
a sister-in-law, Mrs. J. Gill, of Cook-shire; nephews and nieces, Messrs.
Norman Gill, of Birchton, Mr. and Mrs. George Nugent and Grant and Alvin Nugent, of Sawyerville, Mrs.
Fred Roden, of New Hampshire, Mrs.
E. Locke and Mrs. Walter Cameron, of East Angus, and Mr. A. Smith, of Inverness.

MR. EDWIN L. GRANT, OF SUTTON.

Sutton, July 20.—Friends and relatives of this community were deeply saddened by the sudden death of Mr. Edwin L. Grant on June 29.

Mr. Grant was born in Ellen-burgh, N.Y., on November 20, 1874, a son of the late Parry Grant and Mary Phelps, and resided in Sutton
the past twenty-seven years, having worked for Darrah Brothers for twenty-three years.

On December 27, 1899, Mr. Grant was married to Eliza Geraldine Crosbie, of Danville, who survives him, and of this union one son was born, Frederick Roy Grant, of Sutton.

The funeral obituary left his late residence for St. Andrew's Church on July 2. A Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. Father Lapointe, assisted by Rev. Father Desnoyers. Burial was made in the Catholic Cemetery at Sutton.

The numerous spiritual and floral offerings were silent tokens of the esteem in which the deceased was held, and he will long be remembered as a kind and loyal friend and devoted husband and father.

The bearers were Messrs. A. J.
Darrah, Guy Darrah, Joseph Des-noyers, William E. Dow, Hector Le-beau and Frederick Olmstead.

Relatives and friends from out of town attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Leclair and Sgt. Leclair, of Ellenburgh, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. McPherson, of Ellenburgh, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton McCormick, of Boston, Mass.; Mr. and
Mrs. Austin Hobson, of Montpelier, Vt.;
Mr. and Mrs. Magnus and son, of Waterbury, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs.
Charles Crosbie, of Lennoxville, Mr.
Patrick and Mrs. W. J. Weir, of Bishopston; Mr. and Mrs. Merrick
Burbank and George Burbank, of Sherbrooke; Mr. Ellis Crosbie, Mr. and Mrs. George Crosbie, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Lodge, Miss Nellie
Evans, Mrs. Lyman Morrill, Mr.
Frank Olney and Mrs. Taylor, all of Danville, Mr. A. A. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bullock, of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Aldrich, of Richford, Vt.

MRS. ADDIE BOUCHER, OF PIGEON HILL.

Pigeon Hill, July 20.—Mrs. Addie
Boucher entered into rest at her home on June 13, after a long illness, and was tenderly cared for by her daughter, Mrs. Bernadette Jackavonois, of Connecticut.

Mrs. Boucher was born in the Patrick of St. Armand in August, 1873, and was married to Mr. William Boucher, of St. Armand, fifty-two years ago. She was a woman of sterling character, a wonderful neighbor, always ready and willing to lend a helping hand wherever it

CITY TENNIS TOURNAMENT GETS UNDERWAY ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Men's And Women's Singles To Start City Tournament Play At Two O'clock

Last night the organizers of the City Tennis Tournament gathered at the Mount Pleasant Club under the chairmanship of Raoul Gagne, President of the Eastern Townships Tennis Association, to make the final plans for the tournament which gets underway on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

Present at the meeting were Majella Charest, Ivan Boisvert, Normand Brault, Jean-Marie Cote, Bill Joncas, Laurent Turmel, Guy Massicotte, Andre Renault and Russ Carois, and the Boire sisters, Monique and Yolande.

Twenty-nine entries were received in the men's singles, ten in the ladies' singles, thirteen in the men's doubles, five in the women's doubles and thirteen in the mixed doubles. As was previously announced the first matches will be played on Saturday afternoon, weather permitting. Both courts at the Mount Pleasant Club and the court at Boisvert's on Murray Street will be used for these encounters. The first matches are scheduled to start at two o'clock and any player who fails to put in an appearance within fifteen minutes of the scheduled time for his match automatically forfeits the match and is out of the tournament.

The following is the complete schedule for Saturday's events:

At four o'clock Raymond Laporte and Jeanine Tanguay meet to end the afternoon's activities at this court. Saturday evening also at the Boisvert Court Lise Robert meets Ida Goyette is the only evening match at seven o'clock.

The next matches are scheduled for Monday and will be announced later.

CUBS THREATEN TO REPEAT 1935 SUCCESS STORY

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Soaring Wrigley Field attendance figures reflect a full-scale pennant boom in Chicago where Charley Grimm's Cubs are threatening to repeat their 1935 success story.

In fifth place when they left home less than a month ago, the Bruins stormed through the east at breakneck speed, grabbed the lead in Philadelphia and came home to lengthen their advantage to 3 1-2 games.

Since returning to Chicago, the Cubs have drawn such banner week-day throngs as 42,047 (a 15-year record) and 29,513, and a six-year Sunday high of 43,803. The total for the eight-day stand is approximately 160,000, counting the 10,128 who watched yesterday's 3-1 triumph over Brooklyn.

St. Louis continued to have trouble heating the Phillies who dropped dead at the sight of any other club in the league. The Cards have beaten them only 8 times in 15 starts and they had to scramble for a seven-run rally in the eighth inning last night to stay out front in the season series.

After the Phils had taken the opener of two, 3-2 for Oscar Judd's first success of the year with the help of reliever Andy Karl, the Red Birds finally snapped out of it to grab the finale 9-4.

Cincinnati climbed out of seventh place for a spell but dropped back after losing the nightcap of a twilight doubleheader to Boston. Woody Williams' ninth-inning single scoring Frank McCormick beat Johnny Niekman's three-run homer in the nightcap to tie the score at five-all on the seventh and he walked to set the stage for the Braves' 6-5 decision in the tenth.

Rip Sewell, apparently back in his old effective form, shut the door on New York Giants, 4-0. The Pittsburgh ace was effective in the pinches, pitching himself out of two jams for his 11th win.

Thornton Lee was in and out of hot water all day in Boston but Chicago White Sox veteran Lefty survived to hand the Red Sox a 5-3 setback. All other American League contests were postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

After the Phils had taken the opener of two, 3-2 for Oscar Judd's first success of the year with the help of reliever Andy Karl, the Red Birds finally snapped out of it to grab the finale 9-4.

Three Rivers Collect 18 Hits Off Two Sherbrooke Hurlers, Win 14-8

Three Rivers, Que., July 20.—(C)—

Three Rivers collected a total of eighteen hits against two Sherbrooke hurlers, Lamothe and Provancher, to defeat Sherbrooke 14 to 8 in a regular Provincial Baseball League game here last night. The game, with nine errors and fifteen bases on balls, lasted a little over three hours.

Three Rivers jumped to a five run lead in the first inning making the best of four hits, two errors and three bases on balls. Sherbrooke, however, erased that lead in the second, scoring seven of their eight runs on four hits, including a double by C. Malfara, three errors and three bases on balls. After that disastrous inning Lorraine settled down and allowed only one more run to the visitors.

Three Rivers regained the lead with four tallies in the fourth inning with five hits, a base on balls and an error. They added two more in the sixth and three more in the eighth.

Horse May Have To Revert To The Horse For Transportation, According To Latest ODT Ban

Looks like the horse will have to go back to the horse—for transportation, I mean. That's about what the latest-handed swat at horse racing by the ODT adds up to.

Seems like every time a new ODT Director is appointed he either puts on or takes off a ban on horse racing or its ramifications—depending on his predecessor's last move.

Now the latest incumbent (as we go to press) J. Monroe Johnson, has issued an edict—or maybe it's a directive through the Interstate Commerce Commission banning commercial truck or rail transportation of race horses. It forbids both railroads and trucking concerns operating within a state, between states or internationally from toting racing or live stock.

Of course—if you can get the gas—there's nothing to prevent you from taking your nag from track to track alongside you in the driver's seat, the back seat or the rumble. Nor does it prohibit a horse from walking or running from track to track—and it fails to mention canal boats.

Therefore, if you have a private van you can hitch up a team of horses and have 'em pull your thoroughbred, or you may drive him to whatever track suits your fancy. Thus, the horse reverts back to the horse, in either event.

The new order was issued to "facilitate redeployment of troops to the Pacific." It may be a military secret, but it seems incredible that such troops will be deployed from here to the Pacific via Jamaica, Aqueduct and Belmont race tracks.

The distance from Jamaica to Aqueduct is four miles; from Jamaica to Belmont Park eight miles and from

MATCHED RACE WILL FEATURE RACING CARD

Sunday's card of races at the Exhibition Grounds is a holdover from last week when unfavourable weather conditions prevented the events scheduled from being run. No new entries have been made in any of the three classes and the special matched race between Earl's Honey Dew, owned by Lucien Dugre and J. H. Dorais' Dolly Benedict is still the special featured event on the afternoon's programme. The stake in this event is $300.

The complete card for the afternoon is as follows:

2:27 Class Trot and Pace, $210 Purse
Peter Todd, owned by M. Filion, of St. Victor, and driven by M. Filion; Eva Guy, owned by A. L'Heureux, of Sherbrooke, and driven by Giguere; Texas Down, owned by Trudeau and sons, of Coaticook, and driven by Trudeau; Douglas Stout, owned by Neel Duval, of Richmond, and driven by Campbell; Spencer Lee, owned by A. Many Fighters To Meet Tonight At 7 O'clock On Card At Dufresne Park

Tonight at Dufresne Park Alderman Paul Hamel will present his second card of amateur wrestling and boxing. These boys are very keen and it is difficult to limit the card to a reasonable length. Last week's card was too long and tonight has been shortened somewhat but it will last till nearly eleven o'clock.

Not only are the boys keen to exhibit their prowess before their neighbors and friends—Alderman Hamel procured some fine sweat-shirts which he distributed last Tuesday night to all those who took part in the contests and that has served to increase the enthusiasm of the boys very considerably.

Tonight the loud speaker system from the sergeant's mess of the Fusiliers de Sherbrooke will be installed and Gordon Bradford will do the announcing. There are 7 boxing bouts and 6 wrestling bouts on tonight's card. Those popular little "paperweights," Rene and Roger Lacroix, will slug it out in the 50 pound class. Richard and Leo-Paul Lebrun are hard to match because they have too much skill and determination for the average boy of their age and size but they will meet someone in two interesting bouts.

The sons of "Young" Lebrun these boys already show that they have inherited the skill and determination which made their father one of the

JANIRO FACES GRECO TONIGHT

New York, July 20.—(P)—Last year Tony Janiro was voted the outstanding boxing prospect for 1944. Tonight in Madison Square Garden the 19-year-old Youngstown, O., boy gets his chance to show he has moved out of the "prospect" class.

Janiro, one of the youngest boxers ever to fight a main event in the Garden, faces experienced Johnny Greco of Montreal in an eight-round tussle.

Janiro, an exceptionally clever boxer, has only a fair punch although he has stopped five of the eleven rivals he has met this year. In 40 pro bouts, of which he has won 39, the Youngstown youngster has not met anyone with Greco's class. The betting is 6-5 and take-your-pick.

A crowd of about 14,000 is expected to pay $55,000 to see the bout.

On the opening day there are three classes, the 2.28 and the 2.16 which are both open to trotters and pacers and with a purse of $300 for each. The other event is a free-for-all limited to trotters for which a purse of $500 is offered.

On Thursday, August 2 there will also be three races, a 2.24 class for trotters and pacers with a $300 purse, a 2.19 class for trotters and pacers also with a $300 purse and a free-for-all for trotters and pacers with a $500 purse. According to the general custom trotters are allowed 3 seconds.
