School Fair Highly Successful Event

Sponsored by Huntingdon Home and School Association — Provides Enjoyable Program

The Home and School Association sponsored a School Fair, which was held in the High School auditorium, on Friday evening, October 16. To everyone's mind, exhibitors, judges, parents, teachers, and viewers, alike, the Fair was a tremendous and crowning success.

A highlight of the evening, a Pet Show, was well attended and received by all. The animals and birds—rabbits, cats and dogs, kittens and puppies, turtles and geese—were displayed by their young owners in one of the classrooms. The general public was thoroughly pleased to view the children's pets. The youthful exhibitors, fiercely devoted to their pets, were ever ready to remove their animals from their exhibition cages so that they could be admired and petted by the spectators.

About the gymnasium, were several tables bearing the various exhibits, such as: vegetables, flowers, cakes, cookies, candy, sewing, embroidery, handicrafts, stamp albums, drawings, paintings, etc. The agricultural display was extensive, thus giving evidence of the rising generation's interest in the fruit of the land: the students grew the vegetables themselves and prepared them for exhibit.

From the large number of entries in the culinary department, it is indeed evident that Miss B. Heikkinen's sound instructions and advice are being followed religiously. Moreover, it is apparent that the homes of the future promise to house excellent cooks and homemakers. The ladies of the community showed great interest in the sewing exhibits, especially the dresses made by the senior girls.

The skill of the boys in craftmanship was noted and admired. Mr. Norris Williams was seen inspecting the exhibits, and he expressed his personal opinion that the boys were turning out really good work.

Painting and drawing are arts which all are not able to execute with any degree of professionalism, but from the exhibits shown on Friday, it is apparent that in the future there will be a sizeable number of people in our midst who will reap a great deal of pleasure from this pastime.

The scrap books dealt mainly with the Coronation, and on the whole were neat, colourful, and interesting. Stamp collecting seems to have become a popular hobby with the younger set. The stamp collections were tidily arranged and presented in regular albums. Canadian, German and United States stamps were the issues gathered in large quantities.

This year's collection of exhibits was even larger than that of the previous year. Dr. H. S. Cook has expressed a wish that the Fair will be held at an earlier date next year so that the garden exhibits will be larger and of a better quality. This year's early frost killed many of the flowers which would have been on display.

Mrs. Joyce Mackay, a concert pianist who made her third appearance in Huntingdon, in 1953, on Friday, delighted her audience for nearly an hour. Mrs. Mackay was accompanied by Miss Doreen O'Brien, also of Montreal. Miss O'Brien, a native of Lancashire, England, and of Irish parentage, is a dramatist. According to Miss O'Brien, she tried to keep her dramatic work subordinate to her musical career, but her character sketches led to more ambitious historical dramas, such as "The Queen's Cousins", "Henry's Daughters", "Elizabeth of England", etc. Miss O'Brien did not appear on the programme in a dramatic role, but as a commentator for the various pianoforte selections given by Mrs. Mackay. It would be a real pleasure to have Miss O'Brien appear on a Huntingdon stage at some future date. The community would be

Campaign For Blind Now On

Ormstown and Huntingdon to Be Canvassed

For many years, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind has looked after the welfare of the Blind in this province.

To-day, there are nearly six thousand blind people in Quebec. In the county of Huntingdon and in the village of Ormstown, there are twenty blind people to be taken care of. In addition, the Institute is constantly on the look out for those who may be threatened with the loss of eyesight. These people must be in many cases medically treated and proper glasses have to be provided.

If you, the reader, know of a man, woman or child who is either blind or threatened with blindness, you will be doing your community a real service, if you will notify one of the members of your local board about such cases or write to your secretary of the advisory board in your respective towns.

The secretary for Huntingdon is Mrs. W. K. Philps and for Ormstown, Mr. C. V. Curtis.

In order to give innumerable services to the visually handicapped, funds are needed. This year, Huntingdon County is requesting a minimum objective of one thousand dollars. Ormstown is asking for eight hundred dollars. When your friendly canvasser calls upon you, donate generously, for this may be a contribution towards the saving of your own eyesight or for one who is very near and dear to you. Give generously to assist the Institute to protect God's most wonderful gift: eyesight.

The campaign is now underway and the various committee members in Huntingdon are acting as group captains and are appointing their own canvassers in their particular district. To start the campaign off a subscription of $100 has already been received and it is hoped that when the canvassers make their rounds that people will give generously to make the campaign a complete success. The drive runs from October 19 until October 31.

Introducing New Type of Plowing

Demonstration Held At Ste. Barbe

On October 13th the instigator of the Better Farming Competition rallied the members to a practical demonstration of the Richard plowing on the farm of Mr. Zephirin Brisson, Ste. Barbe.

Messrs. Beaudin, L. Raynauld and McGee who each take an active part in this competition as advisors had made the previous arrangements on this farm. The proprietor, taking a sod field, summer fallowed same, measured it off to areas of 75 ft. in width and had opened up the dead furrows across the head ridge previous to the demonstration, all but about 15 feet all around the field had been plowed.

Mr. Raynauld addressed the French speaking competitors stressing the advantages of this type of plowing and gave directions in establishing of same.

Dead furrows are established for years, they do not change with each plowing, so when once established and leading to ditches at each end of field, the head ridge disappears.

Cross furrows need not always cross fields, the water coming down the dead furrows, and often crossing one or two ridges, these if advise is followed are sloped out so as to permit free passage of implements without bumping or breaking them.

As the dead furrows deepen with successive throwing in from the successive ploughings the farmer can better judge of the depth of his cross furrows and ditches. This type of plowing by throwing in from the mold boards pushes the ditch banks towards depressions and therefore blot out shallow spots and aids surplus water to the ditches.

Another feature is that by having a greater depth between the crown and dead furrow, surplus water drains off faster at the same time seepage water remains longer in soil, thereby feeding the plants during drouths.

Most complicated to most of the witnesses was the fact that the crown need not necessarily be in the center of the land, that it can be moved to maintain the proper curve desired to the land.

The lands are always divided into pairs of the same width which, according to the type of soil, may vary from 40 to 80 ft. in width, the reasons for pairing the lands is to eliminate useless travel because when you displace the crown on one land you must do the same on another at the same distance so as to give you plowing on return trip.

Mr. Beaudin then gave an interpretation to the English members. The competitors were then invited to note the ditching and the filling of gullies practiced on this farm.

The visitors were then taken to the farm of Gerard Brisson where pasture improvement has been going on for 2 years. This man has 12 acres of pasture divided into 3 fields, these again subdivided making 6 fields of 2 acres which he rotates and has pastured during the season of 1953, 13 milk cows, 1 bull and three horses; furthermore on 4 acres of this ladino pasture he took off a hay crop. He seeds to a pasture mixture recommended to him, with oats as a cover crop, which is pastured when 5 to 6 inches tall, when well grazed cattle are moved.

Mr. Brisson said that these oats had resprouted 3 times. He is more than satisfied and he intends keeping this practice up by seeding down whenever one part becomes too poor. On last seeding he applied 500 lbs. 5-10-10 fertilizer to the acre.

A comment from Mr. Brisson was that having his pasture next to house and barn he could enjoy 15 minutes' more sleep every morning compared with his brother whose cows were pasturing further away.

Plans For Remembrance Day Observance Announced

Special Speakers — Big Parade — Ceremony in Huntingdon High School

"Remembrance Day" is to be celebrated in Huntingdon on Sunday afternoon, November 8. The Rev. W. S. Hatcher who is the Padre of Huntingdon Branch of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L. No. 81 is to have full charge of the religious ceremony, whilst Roland Roy, President of the Legion will have his hands full carrying out an extensive Remembrance Day programme. The Rev. Hatcher reports that the Rev. R. S. Beal, pastor of the Huntingdon United Church will deliver the address in the Huntingdon High School auditorium. We have just learned from the Hon. Brooke Claxton that he has arranged to have our old friend Major General E. L. M. Burns, Deputy Minister of the Department of Veterans Affairs, come to Huntingdon and deliver an address, which will follow that of the Rev. R. S. Beal.

Lt. Col. C. C. Brooks, who was in charge of Chateauguay Barracks during World War II is to be present too. Colonel Brooks and his 2 I. C., Major John H. Molson are endeavouring to muster a group of officers, non commissioned officers and men in Montreal who trained at Chateauguay Barracks No. 41 to be present. Messrs Charles Pace and Douglas Stephen are to muster up a group of local chaps who trained at Chateauguay Barracks and to participate in the Remembrance Day parade. Wilf Atkinson who is in charge of the local Boy Scouts will have the Boy Scout troops join in the parade.

Don Moore, the band master of the Huntingdon Band is to have the band out for the occasion. It is quite possible that a group of the Reserve Regiment in Valleyfield will also participate in the parade. The parade will be formed up at 2 p.m. at the Legion Headquarters and the route will be along Henderson St., to the Cenotaph. The salute will be taken by Col. C. C. Brooks on the way to the Cenotaph; the saluting base being located opposite the Academy at the corner of Dalhousie and King Streets. After a 10 minute ceremony at the Cenotaph, where wreaths will be deposited, the gathering will adjourn to the High School. After the High School meeting the parade will proceed to the Legion Headquarters where an afternoon tea will be served under the supervision of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Huntingdon Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. No. 81.

A personal appeal is to be made by certain members of the Legion to all the people living in Garden City and along the route of the parade, to have their places suitably decorated for the occasion. It is fully expected Col. Brooks will have quite a representative number of the boys who trained at Chateauguay Barracks accompany him and such being the case the owners of the mills in Garden City are to be asked to have the buildings opened so that the visitors may have an opportunity to view the changes that have taken place

One of Two Jailbreakers Gives Up

One of two inmates who broke out of the county jail at Valleyfield Tuesday night, October 13 surrendered to police on Wednesday, October 14, less than nine hours after his escape.

Provincial Police said 27-year-old Jean Marc Gravel gave himself up to Sgt. A. Gagnon and two constables at De Laroche and St. Zotique streets in the city's north end. He was wearing a civilian coat over his prison garb.

Fugitive No. 2 apparently has no intention of giving himself up. Identified as William Harper, 30, he was still at large according to last reports despite an intensified search of the district.

Apple Processing Plant At Havelock Proves Boon To Apple Growers

Plant Taking All the Apples It Can Get to Make Into Juice

The apple processing plant of the Lion Vinegar Company which opened at Havelock, Que., almost at the end of the harvest of the apple crop in 1952, is in full swing this season.

In the intervening time between seasons, much work has been done on the new plant until this season it is already processing and canning apple juice at the Havelock plant. At the peak of the season which is at this time, the plant is working around the clock for 24 hours and employs about 44 persons on two shifts. All of those employed are people living in and around the district and the employment provides them with an additional source of income. To the growers of the area the plant also provides a new source of income and also a means of disposing of a part of their crop which would otherwise be waste. Previous to the opening of the plant there was no means of turning this part of their crop into cash. The apples are perfectly good for the purpose the plant uses them, but they are not saleable due to being windfalls, or scabby, or small in size. In the trade they are known as culls. Several varieties of apples are accepted by the new plant as each helps to blend the juice to give it a flavour that the public appreciates.

The apples are accepted in bulk or in boxes and are started off on the processing almost as soon as received. The vehicle and the load are first weighed on the scales and then go to the unloading pits to unload. After being unloaded the vehicles are weighed again and the amount of apples is paid for, no waiting for cheques to be sent.

Behind the pit where the apples are unloaded, is a conveyor which takes the apples along on their journey to be processed into juice. While going along, an operator watches the apples for leaves and grass and for bad spots caused by bruises. These are taken out and the fruit passes under a sprayer system which washes it thoroughly. The fruit then passes onto another conveyor system which takes it to the upper floor where it is chopped into fine pieces. This mash is lowered into a chute from where it can be loaded onto the presses which extract the juice.

The presses are loaded with several cheeses as follows: A board of slats is first placed on the press then a nylon cloth is placed in a tray and the chopped apple is allowed to flow from the chute until the tray is filled. The cloth is wrapped around the mash and the tray removed. This process is followed until a sufficient number of cheeses are obtained to load the press, when it is set into operation to extract the juice. The juice flows out below the press into pipes and is again taken up to the floor above. Meantime the pressed mash is unloaded out into a pit outside and a large number of farmers in the vicinity are finding this a valuable feeding aid for their animals. It is hoped that a ready market for this product will soon be found among the farmers of the district. With the installation of additional machinery, this mash could be used for making pictin.

When the apple juice leaves the presses and goes to the upper floor

Rev. Dr. A. S. Reid Retires; 35 Years Presbytery Clerk

Reception Held at Rockburn Church— Presentation Made by Presbytery and Friends

A meeting of the Montreal Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was held in the Rockburn Church Tuesday evening, Oct. 13, 1953, to pay tribute to Rev. Dr. Allan S. Reid on the occasion of his retirement as Clerk of Presbytery. Rev. Roland T. Moores, Moderator of Presbytery presided. Following the business meeting in the Church, Presbytery adjourned to meet in the Church Hall, to which Dr. Reid was "Piped" by Rev. John Simms of Montreal where the reception was held.

Very Rev. Dr. Malcolm A. Campbell, described a number of events in Dr. Reid's life. Dr. Reid, he said, was appointed clerk 35 years ago and had been an indefatigable worker and leader.

"He was an honor graduate of McGill University and Presbyterian College. He belongs to a distinguished family in the Municipality of Leeds, Megantic County, Que. Two of his brothers became ministers of the Presbyterian Church and one sister became a medical doctor.

"His influence extends from Eastern Canada to the Maritimes and every minister in the presbytery and beyond is a debtor to Dr. Reid", declared Dr. Campbell.

Dr. Reid was then presented with a gold watch, a Greek lexicon and a chair from the Presbytery and friends; a well filled purse from the congregations of Elgin and Athelstan; a gift of money from Rockburn congregation, and Rev. J. D. Wilkie presented Mrs. Reid with beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums in recognition of her great interest in the work of her husband.

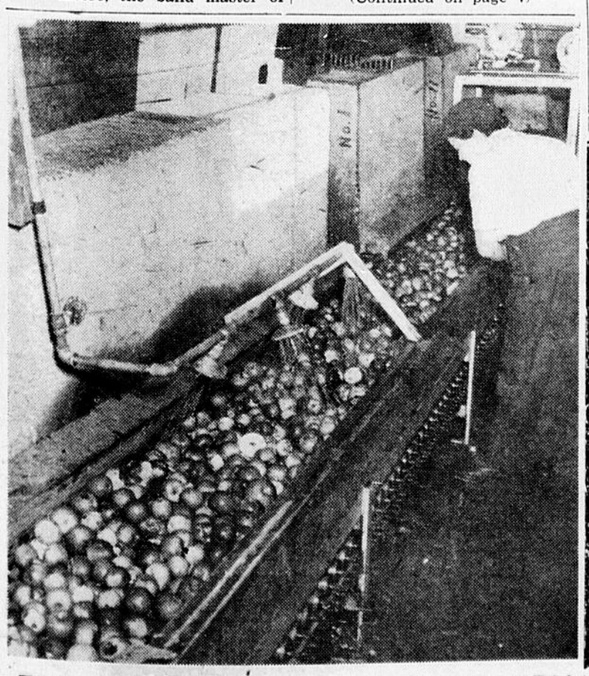

Dr. Reid expressed his thanks and appreciation to all his friends, after which the guests from the neighboring congregations and Presbytery enjoyed delicious and bountiful refreshments, served by the Rockburn congregation, and a pleasant social hour.

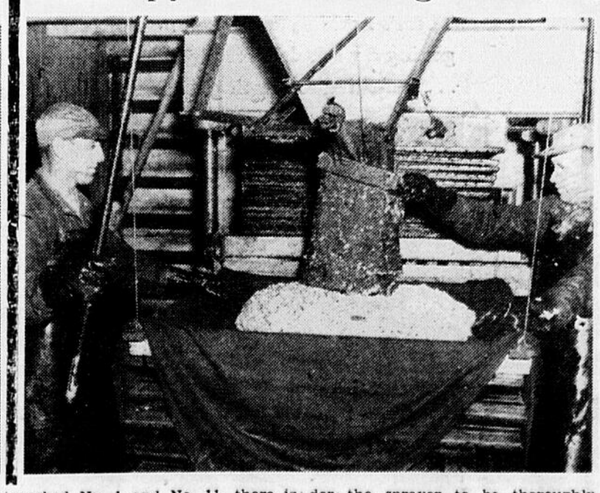

Dr. and Mrs. Reid will live at Rockburn and worship in the Church where he was called to his first Pastoral Charge in 1907.

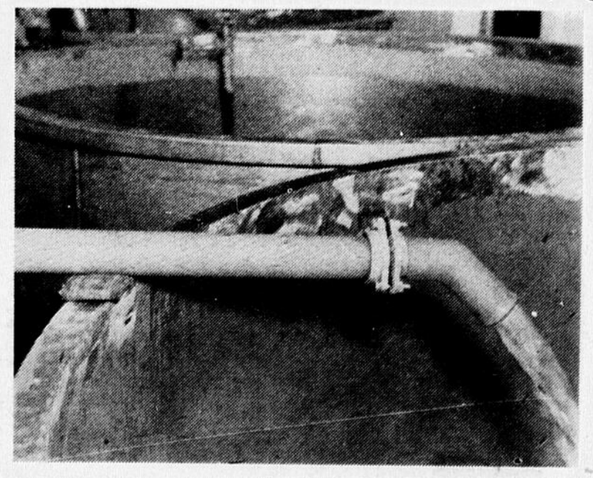

Salvation Army Campaign Over the Top

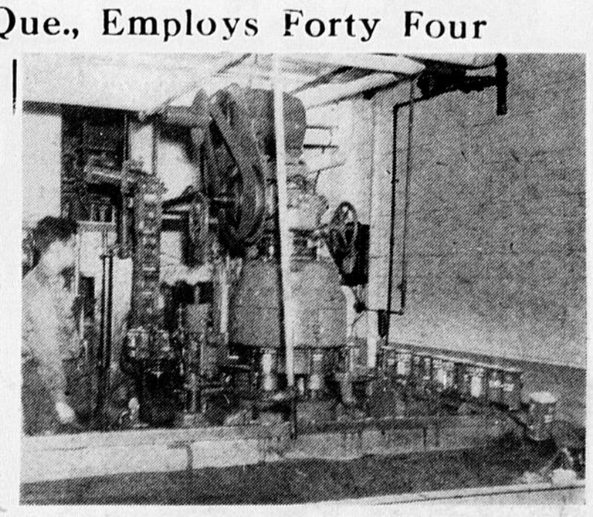

The Salvation Army Campaign in the Huntingdon district has surpassed it objective of $1,200., according to latest reports which show a total of $1,232.55 collected, with nine more canvassers to hear from. The committee would appreciate it if the remaining collectors who have not as yet turned in their reports would do so as soon as possible.

Apple Processing Plant In Full Operation At Havelock, Que., Employs Forty Four

The above photographs are from Allen's Apple Juice Plant at Havelock, Que., in the County of Huntingdon. This plant is now in full operation and processing the apples from local and district growers into juice and canning same. Reading from left to right the photographs are: 1. The apples coming along on the conveyor from the unloading pits. The fruit comes onto the conveyor from the chutes marked No. 1 and No. 11, there is a third one at the far end. The operator is keeping an eye out for leaves and grass, etc., and also for bad bruises in the fruit. She takes these out and the apples pass under the sprayer to be thoroughly washed before going to be made into mash. 2. Shows the mash being loaded onto the press which will squeeze out the juice. These are known as cheeses. At the back a press may be seen in operation of squeezing out the juice. The mash comes from the hopper above. 3. Shows the juice travelling through a glass pipe into one of the large stainless steel tanks, this is the last one before going to the canning machine. 4. Shows the canning process. The cans can be seen coming along a conveyor and down into the machine where they are filled with juice. They then pass into the part of the machine which puts on the lids and seals the cans. In the forefront right the cans are seen already sealed and toppling into the large tank of water for cooling. They then proceed to the other end where girls pack them into cartons. (See Page 5 for further sequences).

Dundee

DUNDEE — Mr. and Mrs. William Maither and son Ernest of Brooklet were Sunday guests of Mrs. Cora Fraser and Mr. Harold Fraser.

Mr. Kenneth Fraser is confined to bed with an attack of virus pneumonia. He has been ill since his return from a trip to Western Canada. The family reports that he is recovering nicely but will be indoors for several days yet.

Here's one for the sports. The guys who like to hunt big game, moose for instance. Boys, did you ever have more moose meat than you knew what to do with? Or were you ever surrounded by moose with plenty of ammunition and couldn't shoot even one more because you had reached your limit in the short space of three hours? Well, that's just what happened to Henry (Hank) Keeler of Fort Covington and five other friends from down-state New York, who went on a moose hunting expedition into Canada's Northern Wilds. The six of them, with all their gear, motored up north of Montreal for 150 miles and then transferred to a Norseman plane which took them still further north to the shores of Lake Baskitong. When the plane left them, the pilot was told to return in one week to the same spot to pick them up. That was the day before the moose hunting season opened. Bright and early the next morning the boys rolled out, had breakfast and hit the trail. Within a short distance of their camp, they ran into a fair sized herd of moose with a good percentage of big bull moose in it. High powered rifles flashed and when the smoke cleared three proud and mighty denizens of the north were laid low. What beauties they were too! Fourteen hundred pounds each and in prime condition. All this happened before 10 a.m. so in one day they had accomplished what some less fortunate chaps can do in perhaps a whole season. Now that they had made their kill how nice it would have been to have had a two-way radio to call back that friendly plane and return bursting with pride to civilization with their trophies. But no, the plane was under orders to return in just one week so there was nothing to do but wait and sit it out, which they were forced to do. Luckily the weather was cool which no doubt saved the situation and the meat also. When the plane did return everything of Mr. Moose worth taking was stored away in it and the party returned to where their automobile had been left. Keeler had his meat stored in a cooler and claims he will have some juicy steaks whenever he needs them. He runs a boat livery on the little Salmon River and also a repair shop and is quite an all round sports enthusiast. Since the moose episode his stock will no doubt rise considerably. The five other chaps for whom it was the first hunting trip of that kind also went home with a fine report of Quebec's capacity as a sporting paradise.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Hewson who formerly lived in Dundee have now moved from Vankleek Hill where they have been for the past two years, to Buckingham, Que. Mr. Hewson has taken on the position of janitor at the Buckingham High School.

Mr. Leroy Elliott, 38-year-old farmer of Fort Covington, whose home is on the Malone Road just outside the village, met with a serious accident Saturday morning while he and his hired man were drawing stones from a field with a tractor and wagon. They were dumping the stones down the river bank nearby and while they were unloading they neglected to set the brakes on the Ford tractor which was facing down the bank. As the load of stones lightened, the tractor and wagon started to roll downwards to the water's edge. Elliott ran for the tractor and in attempting to climb onto the driver's seat he slipped on the running board and fell to the ground. Some of his clothing caught on the under-part of the tractor and he was dragged into the water, the rear wheel of the tractor passing onto his body and pinning him to the river bottom. The hired man, who ran to his aid, was barely able to keep Elliot's head above water while the latter's brother, who heard their calls for help, came running down from the house. Between them they were able to get the badly injured man extricated by driving the tractor off his body. Only half-conscious, he was taken to the Alice Hyde Hospital in Malone where it was discovered that one of his legs was badly crushed and he had severe internal chest injuries which were causing some hemmorrhage. At last reports he was reported to be still in a serious condition. Another bad farm accident to chalk up on the record that farming is the most dangerous of occupations.

Sewing Course

A sewing course sponsored by the Dundee W.I. is to be given two days a week during November. The course is given by Miss Campbell of Macdonald College and is open to anyone in the community. Anyone wishing more information please contact Mrs. Lyle Currie. The Singer Sewing Co. in Valleyfield has kindly offered the use of five machines to those taking the course. This is a wonderful opportunity and best of all, it is free.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerie Leblanc Honoured on 25th Wedding Anniversary

One hundred relatives and friends gathered at Ste. Agnes Hotel on Friday evening, Oct. 16th, to bring best wishes and congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Emérie Leblanc on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Dancing was enjoyed during the evening with Murray's Orchestra of Valleyfield furnishing the music. Just before the supper hour, an address of appreciation was read to her parents by Miss Marie-Luce Leblanc, followed by the presentation of flowers by Mr. and Mrs. Leblanc's youngest son, Bruno. He also presented his parents with a beautiful chest of flat silver and eight crystal water glasses with silver deposit trim, gift of the family and the assembled guests.

A buffet supper was served at midnight, with a chicken salad forming the main course. The wedding cake, a master-piece of art, was made in the shape of a huge book, and on a page were the names of the five children written with icing.

During the course of the summer the young members of the Mission Band coloured various pictures depicting life in an African village. These, Mrs. Fraser cut out and mounted in a circular pattern on a large sheet of card-board, and on Sunday morning the children were very thrilled to see their pictures on display. The village is very realistic looking and presents a vivid picture of village life in that far-off continent.

Winston Armstrong brought to the meeting a sign he had prepared for use in the Band.

Plans were made by Mrs. Fraser and the members for the packing of a Christmas box for those not so fortunate as we.

The meeting closed by all repeating in unison the Mission Band Purpose.

Editorial Notes...

Remembrance Day

THIS may be a little early to think of Remembrance Day, but for several years now there has been a decided lack of interest in what is done in observation of this day. People seemed to have forgotten that World War I and World War II were wars that took the greatest toll of human life in the history of the world. They seem not to care that there are those still living who witnessed the horrors of these terrible wars and hope that never again will there be a repetition. There are those who hope that by perpetuating Remembrance Day, the toll of war will be brought continually to the fore and thus serve to outlaw war as a means to settling international disputes.

Whatever we may think, all of us should remember the sacrifices that were made in these two wars that we may continue to live as free people. We all know what would have happened if those who served and gave their lives, had not done so. It is only fitting then that we should spare some time to attend the ceremonies that are held to honor their memory.

The Huntingdon Branch of the Canadian Legion is planning a ceremony to commemorate Remembrance Day this year, which will be a little out of the ordinary type that has been practiced for some years. They are doing this in the hope that the citizens will rally in their attendance and make of it a worthwhile day. The probabilities are that the ceremony will be held on November 8th, but final plans are not quite complete. The principal thing at the moment is for the public to plan to attend this ceremony to the fullest extent. The world is full of trouble and the threat of war is forever with us. We never know how soon it may be that we may have to call on our manpower to defend us again. If we so soon forget the sacrifices made, can we expect to ask for them again if they should be needed?

Jehovah's Witnesses Win Their Appeal

WORLD War II was fought with the preservation of the freedoms in mind and among those freedoms is the Freedom of Religion. As we understand it, this freedom gave the right to any person to practice their religion as he or she saw fit and in accordance with their beliefs. There are one or two ways in which some sects practice their religion which cannot of course be tolerated, we refer principally here to the Doukobours. They go about doing much damage to property, parading in the nude and many other things which do not aid religion in a civilized world.

The sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses do not do any of these things, they have their own beliefs and recognize no other divine being but God. The only king they recognize is God. In this therefore they have often been accused of being disloyal as they will not salute the flag or join anything of nature that makes of patriotism acknowledging any other head than God. However, that is their belief and the Freedom of Religion is theirs as much as for any other Christian body. They go about trying to convert people to their way of thinking and in so doing leave leaflets and booklets containing their beliefs for people to read. This is no more than any Christian body does, although in the case of established churches the distribution is mainly with their particular congregations. In other words the other churches do not try to convert members of another church. Jehovah's Witnesses do, they call on everyone everywhere.

It may be their method of working that has annoyed some of the churches and that is why in Quebec in particular, the Jehovah's Witnesses were given a very rough time. They were driven out of several towns and many of them were placed under arrest for distributing the leaflets, etc. Some were stopped from holding meetings and were refused the use of halls after they had been rented to them. A culmination came of this when several Witnesses were arrested and tried for distributing leaflets in Quebec City. The case was appealed and now after a long fought battle the verdict handed down was to quash the conviction of the lower courts. In effect, the court ruled that no city or other body can interfere with freedom of religion.

The principal involved is the main point in this matter. It is not whether any of us believe in Jehovah's Witnesses or not. We all have the freedom of listening to these people, or to turn aside and disregard them. We have no right to interfere with them or to jeer at them of what they believe. If we do not approve of what they are doing, we can simply ignore them and refuse to have anything to do with their methods. Along with other religious bodies the Jehovah's Witnesses have the right to follow their own beliefs and we believe that the court has handed down a right decision. It should stand as a light that democracy jealously guards its freedoms and does try to uphold them.

In this day with all that threatens, Freedom of Religion needs to be closely guarded and we should be grateful that we live in a democratic country where the freedoms are still ours to maintain.

United Nations Day - October 24th

THE United Nations was born eight years ago on October 24th and with it was born the hope that all future national and international disputes could be settled without resort to war. In fact the hope was that a universal peace could be maintained and all nations of the world could live in harmony with one another.

We believe that while still in the making, the United Nations may eventually be able to gain a general peace in the world. It is still young and we cannot expect to remake the world in a few years. People and nations must first get used to the idea that disputes can be settled by arbitration and peaceful means. They must be willing to make sacrifices in order to bring this about. This, all nations are not yet prepared to do. They feel that they are giving up some of their independence and are not ready to do so.

United Nations is not solely for settling disputes and trying to avoid wars. It has a far wider reaching task than that. Since the coming into being, it has had the task of looking after the world food situation, the world health problems, rehabilitation in general of the various peoples of all nations. Aggression has been stopped in Korea and attempts are being made to stop aggression in other parts of the world. Wherever there is a dispute in the world which affects the peace then United Nations take a hand in trying to arrive at a settlement. Thousands, millions of people have been helped by United Nations to become rehabilitated either in their own land or in other lands of their choice. Millions of people have been helped back to health and are kept healthy through United Nations organization. Starving people have been taken care of by being supplied with food and clothing gathered together through United Nations committees. In between times it has listened to all kinds of complaints from various nations and especially over Russian disputes. Except for the Russian influence, the United Nations might have already accomplished its great mission of maintaining peace in the world.

Nevertheless it has accomplished much during the time of its existence and there is hope that it will accomplish much more if given the proper co-operation. That co-operation is mostly needed from Russia and its satelites, and other nations not now members of the group should join to make a complete society of nations.

There are many world problems that could find ready solution if there were general harmony among all nations of the world. The exchange of ideas between nations on a friendly basis could do much to bring about world peace. The exchange of goods of one country for goods of another would do much to relieve the shortages that various countries are experiencing. One country has abundance of something while another country has a great shortage, by evening this up the suffering would be lessened and people would be more contented. The United Nations could keep a list of all this and devise ways of making transfers so that no one country would bear the entire cost. Contented people, the world over, would make the greatest potential for world peace.

August 5

On Tuesday forenoon, at eleven o'clock, a perfect rainbow surrounded the sun. The wheel was perfect in form and colour. It was cloudy at the time, but fair and warm. This is an exceedingly rare phenomena.

Saturday was the hottest day yet recorded. The mercury reached 91 degrees, and moistness in the air made the heat all the more trying.

Automobile owners are surprised to learn that they are required to pay an entrance fee when crossing the border at night, while in the day they pass free. The rule is that autos passing before 8 a.m. and after 6 p.m. are to be charged 50 cents for every 24 hours. Between the hours of daylight, 8 to 6, there is no charge, but all are expected to stop at the customs offices.

Mr. F. Lachance has purchased a Bewick (Buick) six. This is the first six to belong to Huntingdon.

Beauharnois—The poles for the electric lighting of the streets are being erected. They are placed about 80 feet apart, and it is said that a light is to be placed on every second post.

Members of the Ormstown tennis club visited Beauharnois Saturday afternoon, coming by motor, when a tournament was played with the local club. Ormstown had it all its own way, winning in every event, except a men's single which was won by Mr. Alex. Forsyth of Beauharnois.

Howick—A broad and deep cement platform has been laid in front of the Riverfield Church and a cement walk extended to the public road, and the church ground is now enclosed from the road by a metal fence.

One of the largest barns in this community is about completed on the Gaynor farm, on the English River, for Mr. Stewart. The walls and roof are of corrugated galvanized iron.

Ste. Martine—Haying is over and harvesting is commencing. Grain is ripening fast under the hot sun which has been shining for some time. Butter sells at 30 cents a pound in stores, and eggs 25 cents a dozen. New potatoes are retailed at 90 cents a bag.

August 19

Howick—Sing Long, the busy laundry man, is just as happy as his name indicates, judging from his smiling countenance, and he also endeavours to inspire others with the same mood, as the housewives testify, and as the small boys declare, who have the privilege of flying the graceful kites he makes for them.

When automobiles cross the Riverfield iron bridge, there is an alarming clatter of rattling iron bars that threatens a collapse of the structure.

Port Lewis—The hotels have been well patronized of late, and the cottages are all filled. Parties of children with smiling faces come and go to the Fresh Air Camp; that they appreciate the outing is evident.

Work on the Plank Road is progressing and almost a third of the macadam contracted for by St. Anicet is finished. The people here are hoping that Ste. Barbe council will see their way clear to build their part of the road while the crusher is at work, and complete what would be a pleasure and a benefit to the Port.

The Week At Ottawa...

OTTAWA, (CP) — One of the first items of business when the new parliament opens next month is the election of Speakers for both commons and senate. Prime Minister St. Laurent has announced the men who will be recommended by the Cabinet for these important posts.

L. Rene Beaudoin, 41-year-old Liberal Member for Vaudreuil-Soulanges, has been recommended by the Cabinet as Speaker of the Commons.

He was Deputy Speaker in the last House, and that post will be taken over by William Robinson, 48, (Simcoe East), chairman of the House Committee for the last few years.

The Speaker gets $6,000 above the sessional indemnity; his deputy gets an extra $4,000.

The former commons Speaker, Hon. W. Ross Macdonald, 62, of Brantford, Ont., will be government leader in the senate to which he was appointed early last summer. The post carries a seat in the Cabinet without portfolio.

The Speaker of the senate will be Senator W. McL. Robertson, 62, of Halifax, who was government leader in the upper chamber last session. It is understood that for health reasons Senator Robertson preferred that post to continuing as government leader.

Step Up Ladder

Five new men become parliamentary assistants—a step up the ladder to the cabinet—and two other assistants switch departments for the new session.

Group Capt. Colin E. Bennett (Grey North, Ont.) a retired RCAF officer who has been in the commons since 1949, becomes assistant in Veterans Affairs. He is 45.

Maurice Bourget (Levis, Que.), 45-year-old engineer who entered the commons in 1940, will be assistant to the Works Minister.

T. A. M. Kirk, (Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare, N.S.) will be assistant to the Postmaster General. First elected in 1949, he is 47 and a former assistant director of vocational education in Nova Scotia.

A lawyer, Roch Pinard (Chambly-Rouville), who has been an M.P. since 1945, goes to External Affairs. He is 43.

Dr. F. G. Robertson (Northumberland, Ont.), who is 44 and entered the House in 1949, becomes assistant to the Health Minister.

W. M. Benidickson (Kenora-Rainy River, Ont.) moves from Transport to Finance, and Leopold Langlois, (Gaspe, Que.) moves from the Post Office to Transport.

Both men are lawyers and were first elected to the commons in 1945. Mr. Benidickson is 42 and Mr. Langlois 40.

Fewer Vote

With a record number of 8,384,178 persons on the voters list at the August General Election, the number of votes cast was a little below that of the 1949 election. The official electoral report now shows 5,640,837 votes were polled against 5,848,971 in 1949.

The winning Liberal party slipped slightly from its 1949 vote total and the CCF also lost votes. Social Credit made the heaviest gain in votes, largely by polling 123,700 in British Columbia this year, against 2,109, in 1949. The Progressive Conservatives gained ballots, and so did the Communists although the latter won no seats.

The Liberals polled 48.98 per cent of the popular vote against 50 per cent in 1949. The Progressive Conservatives gained 10 seats by increasing their share of the popular vote by one per cent to 31 per cent.

The CCF gained 10 seats also,although they took only 11 per cent time.

Social Credit won five more seats and its share in the popular vote rose from 2.3 per cent to 5.4 per cent.

Duke for the Arctic

The Duke of Edinburgh will generally steer clear of the bigger cities when he makes his 20-day visit to Canada next summer.

He will leave out Montreal and Toronto—and he won't see anything of the Atlantic provinces and the Prairies except from the air.

The Duke will arrive at Ottawa July 29 and leave for home from Quebec City Aug. 17. He will visit the British Empire Games at Vanand Kitimat, B.C. before flying couver. He will also visit Victoria north to see Port Radium, Coppermine and Yellowknife in the Northwest territories and Churchill in Manitoba.

Near Quebec he will visit the Valcartier military camp where Canada is doing research on guided missiles.

Air Expert's View

Canada's secret aircraft designs are so revolutionary that there's nothing to equal them in the free world.

So said a leading British aviation industrialist, Sir Roy Dobson, managing director of A. V. Roe and Co. Ltd., Manchester at a press conference here.

He had just seen what they are doing at the Canadian Avro plant at Malton, Ont., and he made this prediction:

"Within 15 years there will be vertical take-off of planes. Planes will go straight up, then shoot straight ahead."

The Avro chief, a member of the British Hawker-Siddeley group, said he has hopes that Canada's all-weather jet fighter, the CF-100, will find customers overseas. The Americans have been interested, he said, in buying it for shipment to North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

Canada Prepares To Deal With Disaster

II

WHAT ABOUT THESE A-BOMBS?

Seeking to dispel mystery which creates uneasiness, Canadian civil defences authorities have set out, in manuals and other material prepared in connection with the national preparedness program, to tell people just what may be expected from the much-publicized and even more misunderstood "A-bombs".

Full details on the types, effects and special attributes of atomic weapons are contained in the book "Personal Protection under Atomic Attack," which has been made available to all interested in defending Canada against possible enemy onslaught.

Those training in the various civil defence services are being taught even how much damage and how many casualties might be expected from the various types of bomb bursts, and anyone who reads the federal publications can obtain a very good idea of what to do before, during and after raids, even with the most deadly weapons yet devised.

Belief that atomic weapons would destroy the earth is foolish, say the experts. Although atomic weapons hold more death and destruction than man has been able to put into one package before, and the new hydrogen bomb may be even more devastating, their power is limited.

Radioactivity

Danger from radioactivity, which most people fear, is less serious than generally believed. Fewer than 15 per cent of Japanese A-bomb deaths and injuries were caused by radio-activity and, had the Nipponese known how to prepare against A-bombs, that percentage would have been reduced considerably. Radioactivity, Canadians are reminded, isn't anything new. It occurs in X-ray and even in rays from the sun. It is only harmful when absorbed in overdoses, just like sunburn.

Fortunately, almost anything that stands between a person and these rays acts, to some extent, as a shield, although considerable thicknesses are required to give complete protection. Manuals explain how much covering is required to ward off dangerous rays, and advise those caught outside in a raid to seek cover to minimize possible radioactive effects.

Heat Flash

When an A-bomb bursts, a wave of intense heat travels in all directions at about the speed of light. Here again, fortunately, it goes only in straight lines, so that buildings, etc., can protect you. One major danger from such heat flash is the fires it may start. Damp or foggy weather reduces the range of the heat flash and clothing, even, offers some protection. There is not much danger of heat flash burns at a distance of more than 5,000 feet from the bomb burst, if there is sufficient haze to reduce visibility to one mile.

Blast

Experts don't attempt to minimize the terrible toll which would be taken by blast. It would be capable of crumbling buildings like matchwood. Buildings up to a mile and a half from the point at which a bomb exploded would be severaly damaged, if not totally destroyed. That is why people are advised to throw themselves down, wherever they may be when the bomb goes off. They should get under cover, even if it's only a desk or a table, indoors. The stronger the building in which they shelter, of course, the safer they'll be.

Canadians are reminded, too, that structures may be weakened by bomb blast, so they should keep away from buildings which may fall, even long after the blow has passed.

Types of Bursts

Of the three types of A-bomb burst, that which goes off high in the air is worst, since it spreads havoc downward over a wide area. If a bomb explodes in water, such as a lake, river or the sea, it may fill the air with particles of radioactive droplets, which can do damage, as well as create a water surge detrimental to the shoreline. A "ground-burst", exploding at ground level, would have restriced damage range, but would cause quite a 'quake and, too, might send up a lot of radioactive dust.

Knowledge is Power

These facts are being made known to the Canadian public as widely as possible in order that all may know what to expect and, therefore, what to do about such possible dangers. Knowledge is power, and, at least, Canada won't be caught totally unprepared. In fact, the main objective of governments at all levels is to see that the country is not caught unawares—that it is not only ready, but trained, to cope with catastrophe, no matter where or when it strikes.

Article III in this series details measures which federal, provincial and municipal authorities are taking to deal with disaster and subsequent articles explain what YOU can do to play your part in defending our land.

- Allen's Apple Juice Plant at Havelock, Que., Proves Boon to Apple Growers -

Continuing the story of the pictures on Page 1 of this issue, the above are further sequences of the apple processing which takes place at Allen's Apple Juice Plant at Havelock, Que., in the Franklin, Covey Hill, Hemmingford fruit growing area of Huntingdon, Que. Reading from left to right the photographs above are: 1. The juice comes from the canning press through the cooling tank by conveyor to the girls who are waiting to pack them into the cartons ready for shipment. The cartons move along on a conveyor into the warehouse to be stored. 2. A view of the warehouse showing the cartons of apple juice waiting to be loaded onto the trucks for delivery according to orders received from jobbers and retail stores. 3. One of the trucks being loaded with cartons of juice, which will be delivered to customers according to orders. 4. Partial view of the apples received at one of the unloading pits, there are three of these pits in use and the apples are continually coming in. After they have gone through the processing they are canned in the cans seen and in turn the cans are placed in the cartons underneath for shipment. Thus you have a picture of the first as apples and how they end up as cans of juice.

OHS Students Visit Marconi And Bell

ORMSTOWN — On Thursday, October 15, grades 8-11 Science students visited the Marconi and Bell Telephone Company of Montreal and arrived in the city in the middle of the forenoon. Mr. Smart of the sales department divided them into groups of six and introduced them to their guides. After a delicious lunch with the compliments of the Marconi Company they continued to the Bell Telephone Office on Beaver Hall Hill where they were met by Mr. Long, the Historian. Again they were divided into two groups. First one group went into a room where you could see and hear your telephone voice, while the other group saw the Panorama.

The Panorama depicts the progress from the experimental instruments of Alexander Graham Bell and other pioneer inventors to the complex telephone system of today. Most of the exhibits may be examined in actual operation.

Exhibits were set up as early as the year 1904 and were shown to employers and the public on special occasions. Visitors average about two hundred each month.

The guide explained that the transmitter changes sound waves of speech into corresponding variations of electric current while the receiver re-converts the electric energy into sound waves which the ear recognizes as speech.

Through the ages, man has searched for speedier and more dependable methods of communicating with people of greater, and greater distances.

The first ways were by sight and sound signals which graduated into telegraph and telephone. A few of the several telegraphs developed are the "Cook and Wheatstones Needle Telegraph" and "Morse Telegraph" instrument.

"The Gallow Frame Telephone" was the first to have words transmitted over it and from there on telephones started improving to the dial we have today.

The first Multiple Switchboard in the Bell Telephone Company of Canada system was installed in the Montreal exchange April 17, 1886. Different other switchboards were Magnets, Common Battery, Callender, Step-byStep, Dial Train and more recently the Cross Bar Equipment.

A number of special demonstrations and exhibits in the Panorama of Telephone Progress trace the historical development of various types of equipment which contribute to excellence of today's telephone service. Others deal with wonders of scientific discovery which flow in never-ending streams from the laboratories of telephone research and which speed man's progress in many fields besides that of telephonic communication.

Mr. Long showed them the display of public telephones, hand sets, desk stands and also telephone cables which protect the highways and the speech from the damage of wind and weather.

The group saw a picture of Alexander Graham Bell to whom we owe a great debt. That debt we can repay by making full use of the secrets he and others have discovered and by continuing to improve our modern systems for the good of mankind.

All too quickly the interesting tour grew to a close, and soon they found themselves homeward bound and happy with the knowledge acquired during the day.

Heartfelt thanks of the students go to these companies for having made the day such a success.

Offer Made to H.S.P.M. Workers

In a statement issued in connection with the strike at its Beauharnois plant, Howard Smith Paper Mills Limited detailed the offer made to its 425 employees, members of the National Catholic Syndicate of Pulp and Paper Workers.

H. S. Spencer, mill manager, pointed out that the reduction offered in working hours without loss of pay would have the effect of increasing the base rate for day workers to $1.24 an hour, which is as high or higher than the rate paid in comparable pulp and paper plants elsewhere for a similar work schedule.

Shift workers at Beauharnois already enjoy a differential of 5 cents an hour, and this would be maintained in the new rates. The 5 cent differential is already higher than the two and three cent differentials generally paid in the fine paper industry.

During the negotiations which were followed by the strike on September 23, the company offered to reduce working hours from 48 to 44 per week for shift workers, and from 50 to 46 for day workers. Hourly rates were to be increased in order to give full compensation, and the new schedules and increases were to become effective April 11, 1954.

The company offers immediate payment of a bonus equal to two weeks pay to all workers continuously employed from May 1, 1952 to April 30, 1953 and still employed at the date of the signing of the contract.

An additional bonus of 2c an hour on all time worked from May 1, 1953 to April 11, 1954, payable in a lump sum at the end of the period.

The company's offer makes all adjustements in individual rates already agreed upon retroactive to May 1, 1952.

Overtime for shift workers, now payable after two weeks of "long hours" becomes payable after three days of such hours, under the terms of the company's offer.

January 2, 1954 to be a paid shutdown holiday replacing for this year the "floating" holiday.

The company's offer covers a one year contract expiring June 15, 1954.

Valleyfield Golf & Country Club Closing Banquet

On Saturday night, 3rd October, 1953, the Valleyfield Golf & Country Club held its Annual Closing Banquet.

This marked the first time that the Closing Events were held in the new Club House which was built this year. All in all, it was a most successful evening, with a great deal of credit going to Mr. B. F. Clarke and his associates, who are in charge of all the arrangements.

Mr. D. Vander-Voort, Vice-President of the Valleyfield Golf & Country Club, presided over the large gathering of some 300 people in the absence of Mr. Saint-Onge, the President.

Following a very pleasant and beautifully prepared buffet luncheon, the presentation of awards was carried out by Mrs. A. Walsh, Ladies' President, and Mrs. S. Horton, Ladies' Club Captain, on behalf of the Ladies' division. The Mixed Events and Men's Tournaments were awarded trophies and prizes by Mr. E. S. Kennedy, Club Captain and his able associates.

Short addresses by Mr. D. Vander-Voort, Vice-President and Mrs. A. Walsh, Ladies Club President, and Mr. Fred Hill, Club Professional, were most interesting highlights of the evening, after which followed an evening's entertainment of dancing to the music of Larry O'Neill and his Orchestra.

This Is Navy Week Oct. 18th to Oct. 24th

Navy Week is sponsored by The Navy League in memory of those who went down to the sea and did not return; in honour of those who served and those who are now serving in the ships of the Navy and Merchant Marine, and in recognition of the contribution made by the seagoing services to the safety and prosperity of the nation.

Today our Navy is larger, stronger and more firmly established than ever before in peace-time. This could not have been achieved without the loyal and earnest efforts of its Officers and men, both regular and reserve; nor could it have been accomplished without the support of those Canadians who are aware of our country's dependence on the sea.

Leading that support has been The Navy League of Canada, a nation-wide organization whose members, men and women, have devoted themselves to the fostering of public understanding of the Navy and its purpose.

The present year has been one in which the plans of the Royal Canadian Navy for a 100-ship navy have begun to reach fruition.

More than 100 warships are, in fact, already in some stage of being — either in commission, under conversion to new and harder-hitting type, under construction or in reserve.

To man this steadily growing fleet requires a parallel growth in personnel and last month, for the first time since demobilization, the strength of the RCN in officers and men reached and passed 16,000. Supplementing this is an active reserve of more than 6,000 officers, men and women, so that the total force on which the Navy could call in a sudden emergency stood on September 30 at approximately 21,000, not counting retired list officers, emergency list men, or cadets.

The last figure compares with the total of 21,193 officers and men on active service with the Navy in June, 1941, after 21 months of the Second World War. Thirteen months earlier, by June 30, 1940, the RCN had assembled ships comparable in number (but by no means in fighting strength) to today's fleet.

W.M.S. United Church

On Thursday evening, October 15, members of the Senior and Evening Auxiliaries met together at a Thankoffering meeting. The Evening Auxiliary took charge of the meeting with Francis Rennie in the chair. The usual business period was conducted and Florence Reid reported that $126.64 had been made on the Sectional Luncheon. Members of the Evening Auxiliary passed a motion that $65. be given to the Senior group for their part in making the luncheon a success. Mrs. F. Braithwaite, representing the Senior Auxiliary, expressed her thanks.

It was announced that the Fall Rally will be held in Verdun United Church on October 29 and everyone is welcome.

Elva Moore was in charge of the devotional period and was assisted by Nina McClatchie and Florence Reid. Harriet Ruddock and Florence Reid took the offering.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Shonkwiler, President of Montreal Presbyterial. In Mrs. Shonkwiler's though-provoking address, she drew a parallel between the brilliant crimson and duller browns and yellows of the Autumn trees, blending together into beautiful scenery, and the various Auxiliaries, one doing outstanding work at one time, another at another time, while the work of others is seemingly somewhat drab, and yet blended together produces a worth-while whole of which each member can be proud. Mrs. Shonkwiler stressed the need for full-time church workers and suggested that schools should present church work as a possible vocation in connection with their vocational guidance programmes.

Mrs. Kenneth MacIntosh thanked the speaker.

Refreshments were served by members of both groups.

St. Andrew's Evening Auxiliary

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Evening Auxiliary was held in the church annex on Tuesday evening, October 20, with members of Auxiliary groups from Ormstown, Franklin, Athelstan and Rockburn as their guests. The meeting opened with a prayer by Mrs. Finlayson Ross, followed by a Scripture reading by Mrs. Wm. Goodall. After a business period a very enlightening and much appreciated address was given by Rev. R. D. MacLean. During the evening the group very much enjoyed a solo by Mrs. Gordon Tannahill, also a duet by Mrs. John Heald and Mrs. James O'Hare. The meeting closed with the Mizpah after which lunch was served to approximately a group of fifty.

Johnston, R.N., Montreal, who years ago taught in Huntingdon Academy, spent a few days visiting with her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. William Baird and renewed acquaintances with a large number of old friends. Miss Johnston greatly enjoyed the School Fair on Friday evening. Had the task of maintaining perfect order among the fidgety youngsters been entrusted to her care, not so much as a whisper would have been heard, (or else we still don't know Miss Johnston). Miss Johnston was one of the very best teachers, and disciplinarians who ever taught in the Academy.

Apple Processing...

it passes through a revolving sieve which further extracts pips and other hard pieces and then passes into a large tank. From this tank it flows through glass tubes or pipes to another set of tanks on the ground floor before going on for pasteurization and canning. These tanks are quite large and made of stainless steel which makes it easier for cleaning and also produces a better product. A special powder is added to remove cloudiness and the juice is pumped from tank to tank until this cloudiness has disappeared and the juice goes to the canning machine. As juice goes through the canning machine it is pasteurized by heating and later by cooling.

The canning process is much the same as that of a home canner, the cans are loaded into the machine by a conveyor and filled and then pass into another part of the machine which puts on the tops and seals the can. On leaving this machine the cans are toppled into a large tank of water which is continually being changed. In this tank is a conveyor which takes the cans to girls at the other end who pack them into cartons ready for shipment to the customers. The cartons are sent by conveyor to the warehouse where they are stored until needed for shipment.

This plant processes about 5,000 bushels of apples per day and trucks load up the juice during the day which is delivered to storekeepers and wholesale jobbers. It is a steady process from the unloading of the apples to the loading and delivery of the juice, it is practically non stop. As the trucks return to the plant they either bring in more apples or empty cans and cartons.

The apples are coming from all parts of the Apple growing area of Quebec and not from just the local vicinity alone. At the present time close to 200,000 bushels have been received and the plant can use as many as they can get. There is a shortage of apple juice to meet the demand and this year's crop will soon be used up at present rate of going.

The product of Allen's Plant at Havelock is very good, Gleaner representatives tasted a sample right from the tanks before it was canned and it was excellent. It is quite sweet and of excellent flavour.

There is no doubt that this plant will mean much to growers of apples in this area at least.

Chat.-Huntingdon W.I. Holds Semi-annual Meeting

Similar Program to Previous Year to Be Followed For 1954

Friday, October 16th, the County Board meeting was held in Riverfield United Church Hall with an attendance of 17; Mrs. W. E. Bernhardt presiding.

The morning session began with regular routine business. It was decided to continue the plant and bulb sale at the annual County Convention. A letter will be sent each branch in March reminding the members of this plant sale, so that extra tomatoes, peppers, etc., may be planted. Glads, dahlias and other perennial flower roots are always in demand.

The proceeds from sale of work at the W.I. booth at Ormstown Fair compared favorably with last year and will be continued again next year. Articles of clothing for the little folks such as shorts and sunsuits are always in demand, also aprons, candy and home baking. A committee consisting of Mrs. W. E. Bernhardt, Mrs. A. McFarlane, and Mrs. Wm. B. Hope was appointed to make enquiries regarding suitable material for decorating this booth, and report the information at the annual Convention.

It was the decision of the meeting that we continue the adoption of the Greek child for another year.

The Public Speaking project will also be continued, the finals to be held at Hemmingford some time during April.

Fall Short Courses are being held by three branches. Dundee and Ormstown taking up sewing and Huntingdon is taking cooking.

Mrs. W. E. Bernhardt suggested that each branch leave one meeting free in the year to invite any member who took advantage of these short courses, to give a talk.

Pooling of fares to the Convention at Macdonald was a matter of discussion and is to be further discussed by each local branch later.

Mrs. Wallace Kerr, County Convener of Education, urged more branches to organize Radio Listening Groups. Hemmingford found it quite interesting last year and intends to organize again this year. Aubrey-Riverfield, Franklin, Huntingdon and Ormstown also think they would like to organize groups.

Scottish plaid ribbon souvenirs from our Scottish W.I. sisters, who visited during their tour, were given out to each branch by Mrs. Bernhardt, the County President.

The annual Convention for the Chateauguay-Huntingdon counties, will be held in Hemmingford in May, next year. In connection with this meeting Mrs. J. D. Lang, Mrs. F. Martin and Mrs. A. McFarlane were appointed on the Resolution Committee and Mrs. R. J. Blair, Mrs. Wallace Merson and Mrs. Lyle Currie on the nominating committee.

One interesting feature of the afternoon session was a brief report by the president of each branch on all the work done during the year. Successful School Fairs held by Franklin, Hemmingford, Howick and Huntingdon; generous donations of canned apple sauce, fruit and vegetables, etc., to the local hospitals were among the worthwhile projects completed.

The provincial semi-annual meeting of the executive will be held Jan. 22 and 23 in Montreal.

On behalf of the W.I. Mrs. Bernhardt thanked the Aubrey-Riverfield ladies for their bounteous dinner and their hospitality.

in Chateauguay Barracks in the way of conversion to a peace time centre of residential homes and industrial development.

In the Gleaner of October 28, there will be published in detail the lists of those whose names appear in the "Book of Remembrance" which is deposited in the Legion Room of Remembrance. The second list to be published will be the names of those that appeared in one of the enlistment books of the late C. H. Lamb. A third list of names will be those who are veterans of either World War I or II who are presently living in Huntingdon. The names of those who served in Korea will also be published.

It is to be hoped that a great number of our citizens at large will make an effort to be present and thereby make "Remembrance Day" of 1953, which is to be observed on Sunday afternoon, November 8, a memorable day.

The Huntingdon Gleaner Inc., is producing a programme for the 1953 "Remembrance Day" festivities The programme will carry a full page size picture of Queen Elizabeth II; the programme of the day in detail and also all the names of those who have enlisted from this area which will appear in the Gleaner on October 28. On the outside back cover is to be reproduced the picture of "The Cenotaph" and the names of the fallen of World War I and II and in Korea. These souvenir programmes are to be given to the people who are present at the Huntingdon High School ceremony.

Mrs. J. A. C. Quesnel, Cazaville, Died in Her Sleep

The people of Cazaville and surrounding districts were shocked when they heard the sad news that Mrs. J. A. C. Quesnel, of Cazaville, had died in her sleep and was found dead in her bed on Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Quesnel had not been previously ill so her death was most unexpected. She had been about her usual duties the day before in the store of her husband and as postmistress. She is very well known to a large number of people in Huntingdon and had lived in Cazaville all of her life.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, J. A. C. Quesnel, two daughters, Mrs. Irene Tremblay and Mrs. Mariette Mailloux, and one son Rodrigue. She is 55 years of age. Funeral services will be held on Friday morning at St. Anicet.

Postal Employees Hold Meeting at Huntingdon P.O.

Mr. C. Charbonneau of the Training and Welfare Department of the Post Office, spent two days the past week at the Huntingdon Post Office. On Wednesday, October 14th at 8 p.m., he gave a two-hour lecture to the staff of the Huntingdon office. On Thursday, at 8.30 p.m., there were 34 members of the district present. This number was made up of Postmasters and their assistants, as well as the rural courriers. Mr. Charbonneau was introduced by Postmaster J. O'Hare and spoke for two hours on Public Relations and the duties of all postal employees.

Some very important points were brought out and a number of questions answered. Everyone felt they had learned a good deal from the meeting. Following the meeting refreshments were served by the Postmaster's wife and the staff of the Huntingdon P. O. and a general round the table talk was held.

At the close, Mrs. Marion Reece, Postmistress from Athelstan, Que., on behalf of all, thanked Mr. Charbonneau, and Mr. O'Hara and his staff for a very interesting evening. It was the hope of all that similar meetings be held at least once each year among the district Post Offices. All felt that the knowledge gained would bring about improvement in the postal service.

C.V.T.A. Adopts Schools in Saguenay County

The Chateauguay Valley Teachers' Association has adopted a number of schools in the Saguenay County of Quebec. This county extends over an immense territory from the lower St. Lawrence almost to the North Pole.

Huntingdon High School has adopted the school system of Harrington Harbour, which is the post office for three smaller districts — Cross River, Fox Island, and Otter Brook. In adopting this one school, the Academy has actually adopted three schools. The community of Harrington Harbour is a migratory one. During the fall, the inhabitants remain on the mainland, and the school at Cross River is opened for educational purposes. The hunting season which occupies the winter months compels the community to be on the move again, and the school at Otter's Brook is used. In the springtime, after the fishing season is opened, the residents of this mobile village send their youngsters to school on Fox Island.

There are approximately twenty pupils who attend these schools. The enrollment is small as the Protestant population is in the minority. The elementary grades are taught in this school system.

Under this novel adoption plan, Huntingdon High School will send scrapbooks, samples of the students' work, drawings, history and geography text books, travel folders, etc., to this small northern community in order to brighten up the lives of the students who attend three schools annually.

ORMSTOWN STUDY CLUB

ORMSTOWN — Wednesday evening's session at Ormstown Study Club was of a rather unusual nature. Following the usual study courses, members from the Speakers' Bureau, Young Men's Section, Montreal Board of Trade, presented a debate, "Resolved that the Construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway would be helpful to the Province of Quebec." Mr. Lionel Potechin, chairman, introduced the four speakers — Affirmative — Messrs. Lawrence Maloney and Ernest Gilliott; Negative — Messrs. Ronald Foxall and Frank Barnfield.

The debate was presented in a very humorous manner and provided a very entertaining evening.

Mr. Oscar Wing introduced the group to the audience and Mr. C. V. Curtiss very ably thanked the chairman and debaters.

Mr. John K. Dickson, president, announced the programs — Chateauguay Day when Mr. Adam Sellar of the Huntingdon Gleaner will be the speaker and the following week when Mr. Miles Tillotson will address the Study Group on "Problems In Placing Our Immigrants."

During the month of November a course in sewing will be conducted by Miss Elizabeth Campbell of the Quebec Women's Institute.

Biology Classes Plan Money-raising Event

Early in the school term, a demonstration of a "bioscope" was given at the High School. The biology and science students were so impressed with the precision and the power of this microscope-projector, that, after due consideration, they decided that such an addition to the laboratory would be most worthwhile. Feeling that it was unfair to ask the Board to finance such a purchase, the classes volunteered to raise the money for the payment of the bioscope.

On Monday morning, the students met and decided to hold a card party on Monday evening, Nov. 2, the particulars of which appear in the advertisements.

Turkey Supper

The Ormstown Presbyterian Ladies Aid held the annual supper on Thursday evening. The Church and the Church Hall were tastefully arranged with Autumn leaves and flowers and the guests were received by Rev. and Mrs. J. A. McMillan and Mrs. Mary McNeil. Total proceeds amounted to $588.

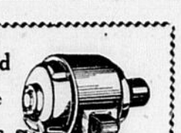

Ormstown Women's Institute

The regular monthly meeting of the W.I. met at the home of Mrs. C. J. Bryson on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 6. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Frank Martin. The ode was sung and the creed repeated. The minutes of the last meeting were read and aproved. The Secretary was asked to send cards to two members who are ill.

Mrs. Martin extended a welcome to the visitors present. A letter of thanks was sent to Mrs. A. Cavers for a donation of corn for the school. Arrangements will be conducted at the next meeting in regards to planning a card party for some time in November. The conveners reports were read and enjoyed. Mrs. A. Marshall gave a reading at the close of the meeting entitled "Romance in the Kitchen" and Mrs. J. Wallace sang. This being the Education meeting, Mrs. H. Parkinson who is convener of Education welcomed the Teachers of the O.H.S. and the R. C. School and to which Mr. Gage very fittingly replied. The members regret that Mr. and Mrs. E. King were unable to be present. Mrs. J. Wallace then sang "Count Your Blessings". Mrs. C. Moe then introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Travis of Franklin who gave a splendid discourse on Ireland. She was thanked by Miss C. Murphy. The meeting then closed and delicious refreshments were served by the members in general.

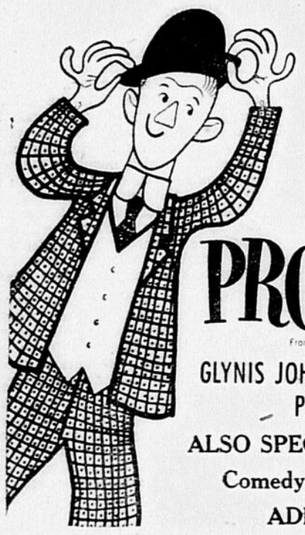

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cullen and Myrtle were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dooling and family, Burke, N.Y.

Weddings

TULLY-GRAY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon, Oct. 10th, at 2 o'clock in North Burke Presbyterian Church, when Miss Carmen E. Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gray of Burke was united in marriage with Daniel L. Tully, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tully, Athelstan, Que.

The Rev. Charles Farah, Jr., pastor of the Chateaugay and Burke Presbyterian Churches, officiated at the double ring ceremony, assisted by the Rev. David Mawhinney, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Athelstan.

Mrs. Smith Hammond played the organ and accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Smith who sang "Because" and "I love you truly."

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin fashioned by her mother. The gown had a mandarin collar and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full skirt ended in a chapel train. A tiara of simulated pearls held her fingertip veil and she carried a cascade of white roses and babies' breath.

Mrs. George (Audrey) Leggett was her sister's matron of honor. She wore an orchid gown of lace and nylon net over taffeta with matching mitts and tiara of simulated pearls holding a short veil of net, and carried a cascade of yellow pompons.

Miss Dawn Hesseltine of Burke, the bride's niece, was junior bridesmaid and wore a yellow taffeta gown with an overskirt of nylon net and a wreath of yellow snapdragons and fern in her hair. She carried a nosegay of tinted orchid centered with a yellow rose.

The best man was Russel Tully of Kapuskasing, Ont., brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Ross Hunter of Burke and Peter Tully of Athelstan, Que.

The bride's mother wore a gown of forest green crepe with gray accessories and a corsage of yellow baby 'mums and the bridegroom's mother wore a gown of plum colored faille with matching accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. After the reception, the couple left on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and points west. For travelling the bride wore a navy blue gabardine suit with matching accessories and a corsage of red carnations. They will be at home on the bridegroom's farm in Athelstan, Que., after Oct. 18.

The bride is a graduate of Chateaugay High School in the class of 1952 and the groom is a graduate of Huntingdon Academy and Macdonald College.

Guests from a distance included relatives and friends from Athol, Mass.; Barrie, Ont.; Lake Placid and Montreal, Que.

MAGEEAN-WILSON

St. Joseph's Church, Huntingdon, Que., was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Jean Margaret Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson, Huntingdon, became the bride of Lt. Donald Timmons Mageean, U.S.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Mageean, Bangor, N.Y., Saturday, October 10, at 9 o'clock. The Rev. Canon A. Pigeon officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Jeannine Galipeau, friend of the bride, sang the hymn, "Mother Beloved" at the end of the Mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin with a Chantilly lace bodice, Queen Ann collar and a bouffant skirt of lace over satin. The fingertip veil of heirloom Chantilly lace was attached to a matching headpiece trimmed with seed pearls. The bride wore a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. Centered with an orchid the bridal bouquet was composed of white pinnochio pompons and stephanotis.

The bridesmaid, Miss Kathleen Robidoux, chose an aqua nylon satin gown with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and braided matching tiara. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and pompons.

Edward Timmons Mageean acted as best man for his brother. The ushers were Emmett O'Connor, Huntingdon, and Robert Timmons, Malone, cousin of the groom.

Mrs. Wilson, mother of the bride, wore a midnight blue crepe dress with matching accessories and a Talisman rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Mageean, wore a black rose wool crepe dress with velvet accessories and she wore a bronze orchid.

Immediately following the church ceremony, a breakfast was served at the Gai Lounge, Huntingdon Chateau to over 125 relatives and friends of the happy couple. The tables were decorated with chrysanthemums and autumn flowers. The bride's table was decorated with bridal streamers, lighted tapers and a 3-tiered wedding cake.

The bride's travelling outfit was a grey wool gabardine suit with beaded trimming and a white rosebud corsage.

After a trip to Quebec City and St. Anne de Beaupre, the couple will reside at Dover Air Force Base, Dover, Delaware, where Lt. Mageean is a jet pilot attached to the Ferrying Command. Many out-of-town guests attended the wedding.

Bird Migration

by H. Don Allen

A full moon has been, down through the ages, the focal point of many a weird superstition. Today we laugh off most of the medieval legends, in the light of superior understanding. Yet, strangely enough, it's against the age-old backdrop of a full October moon that the careful observer can witness these days a pageant as mysterious and as timeless as any known to natural science.

Migration, a phenomenon observed by all, but appreciated by few and fully understood by none. Earl Greeks were the first to record the observation that many bird varieties would come and go with the seasons. They believed migrating birds flew to the sun. Bird banding and scientific exploration and observation have provided detailed information of many migration patterns. Yet the more man learns the more he wonders, in this as in so many other branches of science.

What force could guide a bird weighing a few ounces across up to 1,000 miles of seas and continents —some Arctic varieties winter in the Southern Hemisphere — is a question no ornithologist is prepared to answer. Striking evidence favoring some inexplicable "instinct" is the observation that the young in many cases navigate their long migratory journeys unaided, starting out days before the older birds of their species.

Although insects, fish, mammals and other types of animals may evidence distinctive migratory patterns, birds offer the best-known, largest scale and more widespread examples of seasonal migration.

The small gull-like Arctic Tern of Canada's northlands spends his "winters" in South Africa. Breeding in the arctic and subarctic, he crosses the Atlantic to the Bay of Biscay with the coming of cooler weather, and continues down the African coast. The Golden Plover also breeds in Canada's north, but makes the interior of South America his off-season home. Plovers congregate on the outer Labrador coast at migration time and "fuel up" on crowberries in preparation for their long flight to the south. Many other bird varieties, however, are considerably less ambitious in their flights. Most go no further south than they are forced to by pressure of food shortage. Many Montreal area "winter birds" are northern varieties that find that this is as far south as they need to go.

Much migration consists of short "hops" from field to field, gathering food for survival along the way. Little known is the fact that most birds migrate by night.

According to a prominent Montreal ornithologist, a pair of field glasses and a clear night may be all that you need to witness the procession. The whole pattern is silhouetted against the moon. Two general rules provide clues to the identity of birds crossing the lunar disc: the slower the crossing, the higher the bird; the larger the bird, the slower the wing stroke, according to J. D. Cleghorn, McGill University Museums ornithologist. The flight pattern of the bird tells more: the heron, for example, is easily recognized by the way in which the head is drawn back and the long legs extended behind. Geese fly in characteristic V-shaped "wedge" formations. Experts get the recognition of a bird flight patterns down to a science.

To view the local migratory panorama seek out a natural vantage point overlooking a natural line of country, a river or mountain valley. According to Ornithologist Cleghorn it then becomes but a matter of science.

Birds can generally be counted upon to follow old migratory routes year after year: the North American may can be striped with highways of north-south bird migration. There is evidence that such "highways" remain little altered with the centuries.

In 1535 Cartier witnessed flights of tens of thousands of Greater Snow Geese, gathered at Cap Tourmonte, Que., preparing for their long flight south. The geese were back at their old cliff last week, as they had been each October through the centuries.

Hawks — who, fearing no predators, migrate by daylight — virtually all pass through one eastern valley in their annual migration south. Hawk Mountain Sanctuary, Pa., has been set up to ensure the species' continued safety from hunters as thousands pass the crucial landmark.

Several theories are offered to account for migration in birds, but all fail to explain the whole picture. One belief claims that "photoperiodicity", the variation in the amount of dayight with the coming of autumn, is what motivates the bird's southern flight. Experiments on the effects of illumination on egg laying in poultry tend to substantiate the theory.

It is clear that most birds have to migrate to assure adequate winter foodsupply. Temperature is not the criterion — most bird varieties can withstand extreme cold. Population pressure in warmer lands force migrating birds north with the coming of spring. There has been speculation that early ice ages first drove northern birds to their warmer winter environments.

Migration is best observed in the autumn when most bird varieties are more gregarious in their flight. Spring flights may be in pairs or, in other species, with the males preceding the females by days or weeks.

Southward migration is already underway and should continue into November and December. Migrating birds fly at heights ranging from ground level to several hundred feet.

There is some speculation that changing climate in the Montreal region is making it possible for crows, robins and other varieties to remain in the area in larger numbers than in the past.

Duck Recipes

Now the duck hunting season is in swing again many wives face the annual problem of what to do with the proud hunter's bag. Many women seem to feel that shooting ducks must be more fun than cooking them.

Wives of duck hunters fall into two groups—those who will clean the birds inside and out, and those who won't.

The woman who doesn't balk at a duck with head and feathers intact doesn't need any advice. For those who do object, one suggestion is that they reach a firm understanding with the hunter of the family that the hunt isn't over until the bird is thoroughly cleaned.

Anyway, here's a suggested recipe for roast duck with savory cherry stuffing, from the Poultry Products Institute of Canada:

Make sure the body cavity is clean, remove any pin feathers and singe to remove down. Wash duck thoroughly, allowing a stream of cold water to run through it. Dry and rub inside of cavity with salt. Fill with cherry stuffing (see recipe below) sew or skewer to close openings.

Roast uncovered in an open pan in a moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F, allowing 30 minutes a pound. Baste occasionally with a spoonful of the syrup from cherries.

Duck is cooked when the meat is tender and no red tinge shows in the juice when the meat is pricked with a skewer or fork. If meat thermometer is used, place it in the thickest muscle being sure it does not rest on bone. Thermometer should read 190 degrees F when duck is cooked.

Stuffing: 1 tablespoon butter; 2 tablespoons chopped onion; 4 cups fine, soft bread crumbs; one half teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning; one half teaspoon celery salt; dash of pepper and one 15-ounce can pitted cherries.

Melt butter in pan, add onion and cook slowly for five mintes. Add onion and melted butter to crumbs and seasonings and combine thoroughly. Drain syrup from cherries and reserve for basting the duck during roasting. Add drained cherries to crumb mixture and mix together lightly so that fruit is not crushed. Yields enough for a 4-lb. duck.

Don't Wave Good-Bye to This Good Buy!

"Opportunity is knocking at our doors again", says Ken. Pope, manager of the Bank of Montreal's Huntingdon Branch. "This time it's golden—an opportunity no one will want to miss.

"I'm speaking of the opportunity provided by Canada to make the buy of the year — Canada Savings Bonds", Mr. Pope continued. "The new issue of these bonds has just gone on sale and, this year, they are better than ever.

"Take for example the new, high rate of interest. This year it stands at 3¾ per cent per annum. Further, the bonds are redeemable anytime, at full face value, plus interest to the end of the previous calendar month.

"The most appealing feature of these bonds", said Mr. Pope, "is that they can be purchased on the instalment plan. The down-payment is only 5 per cent — $2.50 for a $50-bond, $5 for a $100-bond — with the balance paid over a year in easy monthly instalments".

The purchase of your Canada Savings Bonds is a simple matter. You can arrange it easily and quickly at the Bank of Montreal, whether you buy for cash, or on the instalment plan. You should drop in at the B of M without delay and see Mr. Pope about your share in Canada's best investment. (Advt.)

PUMPKIN

At this time of the year it is a case of going, going, gone for peaches, tomatoes and cherries are all a thing of the past. At present, however, plenty of rich, orange pumpkins are waiting for homemakers all across Canada to make use of them.

Pumpkins are native to our country and their history dates back to the Indians who inhabited our vast land. Botanically, there is no established basis for distinguishing squash and pumpkin, but the term pumpkin is used in the proper sense as meaning the big orange coloured fruit which is used for pies, Hallowe'en lanterns and for canning. Pumpkins are a favourite at this time of year for it is now that children delight in scaring adults with grotesque looking faces. However, besides this important service of entertainment, the pumpkin has many uses as a food.

In general, there are two classes of pumpkins grown in Canada, those used for stock feed and those used for pie making. The "Small Sugar" pumpkin, the "Winter Luxury" and the "Large Cheese", are the best varieties for eating. Always choose those that are heavy for their size and that are bright in colour. When you get them home, store the pumpkins in a cool, dry place.

Pumpkin pie is a superlative dessert and one that everyone loves. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have a couple of ideas for dressing up pumpkin pie that sound very good. They suggest adding a little ginger to the whipped cream used for topping the pie. It gives a different flavour to the cream which is most delightful. Another good idea they suggest, is to sprinkle chopped peanut brittle over the cooked pie.

Did you know that pumpkin is one fruit that is used in different ways in different countries? In Canada we add spices and perhaps a little molasses to cooked pumpkin and we have a fragrant pie. In South America they use pumpkin to make soups and stews or in that country, you may find pumpkin combined with egg and formed into delicate little cakes that are fried in deep fat. In Mexico, they like to eat pumpkin seeds. They roast them and eat them as we would eat roasted peanuts. Sometimes they use the seeds to make pumpkin meal.

Now that many homemakers have home freezers or frozen food lockers, they preserve their winter food supply by freezing rather than by canning. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have just published a new bulletin entitled "Freezing Foods". The bulletin tells how to freeze fruits and vegetables, meat, poultry, eggs and baked foods. It is available, free of charge, from the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Write now for a copy of this excellent bulletin. The instructions for freezing pumpkin as given in the new bulletin are as follows: Select well-matured pumpkins with dry pulp. Cut or break the pumpkin apart, remove the seeds and pit by portions. Cut the pumpkin into small pieces and steam, boil or bake until tender. Cool quickly and remove rind. Mash or sieve the pulp and pack dry in freezer cartons. When you are ready to use this frozen pumpkin it should be thawed and used just as you would use canned or fresh cooked pumpkin.

Homemakers who do not have a frozen food locker, can still store pumpkin for use later on by keeping it in a cool, dry place.

The church was decorated with white and pink gladioli

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by Miss Violet Keen as matron of honor with Misses Jean MacKenzie and Clarine Ovans as bridesmaids. Mr. Russell Ovans was best man for his brother and the ushers were: Messrs. Nelson Tannahill and Garfield Brown, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a gown of white tulle illusion with partial overskirts of lace. She wore a crown style headdress trimmed with beads to hold in place her veil of tulle illusion and she carried a horse shoe bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The matron of honor in pink with the bridesmaids wearing pink and blue were dressed in similiarly styled frocks of net and lace, having strapless necklines with long sleeved jackets. They wore matching headbands and carried white, pink and yellow bouquets of gladoli.

Mrs. Brown, mother of the bride wore a mauve dress of taffeta with black hat and accessories. She wore a shoulder spray of pink sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Ovans wore a wine crepe dress with black and white accessories. She also wore a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The reception was held at Salle Parent, after which the couple left for a trip to Niagara Falls and surrounding districts. Upon their return, they will reside in Ormstown, Que.

Science Field Trip

High School Science and Guidance classes under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Gage left Thursday morning for a day in Montreal. Their itinerary included a guided tour through the Canadian Marconi Company in the morning, a noonday luncheon as guests of Canadian Marconi, and an educational tour through the Bell Telephone Company of Canada during the afternoon. We are deeply indebted to these companies for their cooperation and assistance in making our Science more meaningful.

Theatre

Grades Ten and Eleven attended an M.R.T. presentation of George Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan on Monday evening in the auditorium of the new West Hill High School, Montreal. Shaw's play is one of the prescribed books in our English Literature course this year and the performance should prove very valuable to the students. The Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal arranged to have M.R.T. give this performance expressly for High Schools at special student rates.

O.H.S. Purchases "Bioscope"

The teaching of Science at all grade levels will be considerably enriched this year by the addition of a valuable piece of laboratory equipment called a Bioscope. The instrument is a combination microscope-projector which projects the magnified object onto a screen enabling, not one, as in the case of a single microscope, but an entire class to share in a demonstration.

School Board

Mr. J. T. White, Vice-Chairman of the Ormstown School Commission, has been reappointed to serve a second term of office as an executive member of the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards.

Powerscourt

Mr. Samuel Scott and son John of Hampshire, Ill., are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Atcheson and other relatives. Mr. Scott is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Atcheson and it is 30 years since they last met when, at that time they were all in Ireland, their native country.

Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Sparrow and three children were week-end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Atcheson.

Obituary

The Late Miss Isabella Margaret McNaughton

Isabella Margaret McNaughton, better known by all in the community as "Bella" passed away at her home at Hemmingford, Que., early Friday morning, October 9th. Bella was born at Hemmingford on Dec. 10, 1882, the fifth child and only daughter of Donald Alexander McNaughton and Agnus Young.

For many years Bella and her brother, Peter had carried on their father's farm from the time they were very young. Their father, Alex, was born in Scotland in 1825 and left from there in 1841 with his parents, brothers and sisters, coming to Hemmingford where they bought land and built a home which still stands. Alex died in 1886 leaving his wife, (who died on New Year's Day, 1929), a son Peter then aged 11 years and a daughter, Bella aged three to carry on. They did so with a hired hand until Peter's death in January, 1949, whereupon Bella made a sale of the livestock, and remaining at home, led a quiet life amongst her friends and neighbours.

Three brothers, Duncan, Andrew and Ronald died of black diphtheria, two on Christmas Day and the other the following day in the year 1881.

The funeral service was held on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. in the United Church at Hemmingford, with the Rev. William Holmes officiating, taking two favorite Psalms, the 23rd and the 90th for the Scripture reading. Two hymns, "The Sands of Time" and "Abide With Me" were rendered by members of the choir, with Mrs. Halton Kennedy as accompanist.

Pall bearers were: Donald Orr, Donald Douglas, Grant Thompson and Roy McCanse. Interment took place in Hemmingford cemetery.

Floral tributes were from Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Brown, Miss Mary Crowe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laurie, Mr. Walter McNaughton, Donald and Bessie, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greer, Arnold and Andria McNaughton.

Several friends from Huntingdon and Russeltown attended the funeral.

The deceased leaves to mourn her loss, many friends and neighbours. There is no immediate family.

Grandmother Gives Birth to Quads

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 6 -(UP)- A grandmother gave birth on Oct. 6 to quadruplets in a farming town 326 miles north-west of Sydney and the father started hunting for an extra tent to solve his housing problem.

Mrs. Ethel Hudson, 38, was almost sure she was going to bear twins when her husband, Ellis, 40, a contractor, took her to the maternity ward in the Gilgandra district hospital.

The trip to the maternity ward was not a new journey for Mrs. Hudson. She had had five children by her first husband, who was killed in World War II, and four by Hudson.

Mrs. Hudson was not surprised when Dr. Trevor Williams delivered a 45-ounce boy and a 61-ounce girl.

She was somewhat flustered when the third child, a 58-ounce girl, was born and downright flabbergasted when she gave birth to the fourth child, a 53-ounce daughter.

The multiple births extended over 3½ hours.

Congratulatory Messages

find the copy of your Anniversary Brochure.

It is most complete in its history of the years given in such limited space. The pictures are so clear and true to life, so much so that we recognized the two men standing by the Memorial Arch — (left) Mr. Peter Dickson, and (right) Mr. H. Curran.

It is all most interesting, and to us far away was like a visit to the familiar places of the old homeland. We are grateful to you for the pleasure of it all.

My dear Adam:

We missed you last Saturday when in Huntingdon, and I am writing you now to convey the congratulations of my wife and myself on the Ninetieth Anniversary of the Huntingdon Gleaner — which has been so successfully operated by two generations, and which has enjoyed such marvellous expansion and growth as a result of your management.

You should be very proud of the "acclaim" of the Canadian press — we are certainly proud for you.

We sincerely hope that you will continue to enjoy your success through many years of good health.

Sincerely yours,
Victor Cleyn,
Westmount, Que.

Dear Mr. Sellar,

We have just received a copy of the Gleaner's 90th Anniversary booklet, and have perused it with a great deal of interest.

We feel it will be a very useful addition to our file on Huntingdon, and it was thoughtful of you to send us a copy. Please accept our thanks.

Yours sincerely,
Munro Brown,

My dear Adam:

Thank you sincerely for sending us a copy of the 90th Anniversary booklet issued by The Gleaner. I took this home over the week-end and had a chance to read it from cover to cover and found it most interesting. Mrs. Rexford now wants to read it and then I plan to send it to Foster to my younger brother who retired last June from being an educationalist after serving since the First World War. I know he would like to read it.

My father was born in South Bolton and the family summered in the Eastern Townships for about seventy-five years. My father was an Anglican clergyman and spent his whole life in educational work so that both my brother and myself are not only interested in your book from a point of view of general information but also because of the very interesting record and illustrations dealing with churches and educational institutions.

Mrs. Rexford and I were both tremendously impressed with the picture of the Sellar family. We thought they were all good looking men.

With best regards from both of us to all of you,

sincerely, Yours
Montreal.
Irving P. Rexford,

Dear Mr. Sellar,

It is with much pride and appreciation I acknowledge your "Souvenir" in which you have given so comprehensive a synopsis of the County of Huntingdon. I have thoroughly enjoyed many details, particularly of Havelock and Hemmingford, which I had not known before.

May I say I have been closely associated with the Gleaner from my childhood. It is to me now my home letter.

I would like to offer you my hearty congratulations for the progressive continuance of the Gleaner under the competent superintendence of the Sellar family.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Stanley A. Taylor,
Montreal.

Ninety Years in Same Family

Heartiest congratulations to the Huntingdon Gleaner which recently celebrated its ninetieth year of publication and the unique feature is that it was founded and published by members of the Sellar family ever since it was established.

The Gleaner was founded by the late Robert Sellar on September 18th 1863, who remained at the editorial helm until his death in 1919. He was ably assisted by his two eldest sons from 1911 to 1919. Following his death Leslie Sellar edited the Gleaner until his untimely death in 1922, after which R. Watson Sellar, now Auditor-General of Canada, occupied the editorial chair until 1924 when the youngest son, Adam L. Sellar, took over the reins and has most successfully directed the destinies of this well-known and highly regarded weekly newspaper, "The Huntingdon Gleaner".

To commemorate this special and outstanding event an attractive 90th Anniversary brochure was published, which complete forty pages, filled with historical sketches of the town and district as well as photographs, which is a credit to the publishers and a valuable souvenir to its subscribers.

The Gleaner is one of Canada's top-ranking and prize-winning weekly newspapers and the Town of Huntingdon should be justly proud of its newspaper which has grown with the community and played such an important part in its progress and success during the past ninety years.

We sincerely hope that The Gleaner may serve many more years under the capable leadership of our intimate and long standing friend, Adam Sellar.

Ninety Years in the Sellar Family

Our heartiest congratulations go this week to the Huntingdon (Quebec) Gleaner which has just observed its ninetieth year of publication. One of the unique features is that the Gleaner has been published by members of the Sellar family ever since it was established.

The Gleaner was founded by the late Robert Sellar on September 18th, 1863, and who remained at the editorial helm until his death in 1919. He was ably assisted by his two eldest sons from 1911 to 1919. Following his death Leslie Sellar edited the Gleaner until his death in 1922, after which R. Watson Sellar, who is now Auditor-General of Canada, occupied the editorial chair until 1924. From that year until the present the youngest son, Adam L., has successfully directed the destinies of the Gleaner.

To commemorate this special event an attractive 90th Anniversary Brochure was published. The Brochure, comprising forty pages, is filled with historical sketches of the town and district, as well as pictures, and is a credit to the publishers. We feel confident that the subscribers will treasure it — not only those residing in the town and district, but former residents living elsewhere.

The Gleaner is one of Canada's prize-winning weekly newspapers, and the Town of Huntingdon is undoubtedly proud of its newspaper, which has played such an important role in its progress, growth, and success, for the past ninety years. May the Gleaner serve many more years under the capable leadership of Publisher Adam Sellar.

Huntingdon Gleaner Observing 90th Year

The Huntingdon Gleaner is celebrating the 90th year of its founding and in observance of the event has published a brochure on the history of Huntingdon and of the Gleaner which was released the past week.

The brochure contains 40 pages with many pictures graphically illustrating the old and the new Huntingdon and the surrounding communities the Gleaner serves. The Gleaner has played an important part in the history and progress of Huntingdon and indelibly written in the annals of both of course is the name of the Sellar family, the newspaper having been originally established by the father who edited it for 56 years until his death, with his sons as able assistants, and successors to this day — a remarkable achievement, a noteworthy record.

Quoting from the booklet, the last paragraph of the chapter, "Founders Days", reads:

"In publishing this 90th anniversary souvenir of the Gleaner we know the subscribers will treasure the publication for many good reasons. The Gleaner was edited by Robert Sellar from 1863 until his death in 1919. He was ably assisted by his two eldest sons at intervals from 1911 to 1919. Otherwise it was from faithful employees such as Richard Hastie who stood by him day after day for nigh 43 years. From 1919 to 1922 Leslie Sellar edited the Gleaner and from his death in August 1922 until December 1924, the editorial chair was filled by R. Watson Sellar and who at present is the Auditor General of Canada. From 1924 to the present the youngest son, Adam, has directed the Gleaner. For a weekly newspaper to be founded and carried on for ninety years by father and sons is a rather unique record for Canada, and one we fully appreciate".

Dear Mr. Sellar,

I enjoyed very much looking through the Anniversary number which you so kindly sent me. I have a very warm spot in my heart for the territory in and around Huntingdon so perhaps I was particularly interested. Incidentally we have been seriously considering buying a little farm there.

Thank you for sending it along to me and my congratulations on a fine family record and a good print job.

Yours sincerely,
A. E. Whiting,
General Manager, The Herald.

MAGAZINE-SELLING CAMPAIGN

The current magazine-selling campaign, undertaken by the Students' Council under the managership of George Stark, is progressing favourably, according to the pecuniary-minded students of Huntingdon High. Although some districts are not responding to the cause as well as in the previous year, high hopes are entertained of witnessing substantial profits.

FIRST SOCIAL EVENT OF SCHOLASTIC YEAR

The Students' Council is sponsoring a gala dance on the evening of Friday, October 23, to which the high school classes of the district schools have been invited. This opening dance promises to be a successful one, socially and financially speaking.

WITNESS "SAINT JOAN"

On Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. C. Brown accompanied the four pupils of Grade Eleven: Edna Nielsen, Barbara Jane Ambrose, Violet Ross, and Delma Dorais, to Montreal where, in West Hill High auditorium, they witnessed the Montreal Repertory Theatre production of "Saint Joan", a play by George Bernard Shaw. "Saint Joan" is on the English Literature course this year.

Denise Pellitier, a young French-Canadian actress, in the part of Joan, performed steadily and competently and attained several lofty dramatic heights, while Edward McGibbon as Dunois, provided strong support.

The play was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

SURPRISE PARTY

On Wednesday afternoon from 4.00 to 6.00 p.m. a surprise party in honour of Miss Mabel McMillan who has just completed twenty-five years of teaching in Huntingdon High School, will be staged by the Grade Ten Home Economics class. Miss McMillan is to be congratulated on her many years of faithful service to Huntingdon Academy.

Dear Mr. Sellar:

I wish to thank you very much for having sent me a copy of the "90th Anniversary Brochure".

Dear Mr. Sellar:

Thank you very much for the copy of the Souvenir booklet issued on the 90th Anniversary of the Gleaner.

Although I have never lived in Huntingdon myself, as you know, my aunt, Mrs. Reginald Graham, has been a resident for many years and I have visited the town a good deal to see her.

I found the brochure very interesting indeed, and learned a great deal which I had not previously known about Huntingdon's history and circumstances.

May I express my best wishes for the continued prosperity of the Gleaner.

Deputy Minister,

Dear Sir:

Powerscourt

POWERSCOURT—Miss B. Anderson spent a day the past week visiting friends at Fertile Creek.

Mr. Maitland Lewis and a party of friends enjoyed the week-end at Primrose Cottage.

A number of ladies from this community attended a shower in Munro Hall given in honor of Miss Beverley Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wallace and Jamie motored to Shawinigan Falls and were Saturday overnight guests of Mrs. Wallace's sister, Miss Inez Whelen, who is teaching in the High School there.

Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor motored to Cornwall, Ont., on Saturday, where they were guests at the Merrill-Tyo wedding.

Mr. Arthur Taylor has been visiting with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Fraser, at Lancaster, Ont.

Mr. McLeod preached a special sermon to parents, on Sunday, which gave much food for serious thought. He laid stress on the neglect of parents to show by example just what Christian living entails. He urged his hearers to observe family worship, to teach children at an early age to say their prayers and to ask a blessing at meal times. The question is often asked at what age should I start to teach my child about Christianity. He quoted the answer given to that question by an elderly lady at a discussion during a W.A. meeting. "I started 20 years before my child was born, when I became a Christian."

The pulpit of the church has been improved by the addition of a beautiful dark red velvet pulpit scarf, a donation from an anonymous well wisher of the congregation. This gift is much appreciated by the congregation. It has the insignia of the United Church on it, embroidered in rich colors. This includes the Burning Bush for the Presbyterian Church, the Dove for the Methodist Church, the open Bible for the Congregational Church and the Alpha and Omega sign for the United Church.

Mrs. Ernest Atcheson returned home on Saturday after a ten-day visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Sparrow at Charteris, Que.

UN Anniversary Marks Challenge to the World

The date 24 October marks the anniversary of a great challenge for people all over the world. On that day eight years ago the United Nations was born. The fears, tensions and hatreds brought on by two world wars could not be wiped out with the strokes of a pen. But the willingness of nations to try to work together was in itself a major step. Long years of patient effort are required to achieve peace and progress. That is the challenge to mankind.

Guideposts along this road are provided by the United Nations Charter. But men must be willing to take the road. They must travel as equals and admit each man's and each nation's rights. Their sense of justice must overcome their self-concern. They must be willing to cooperate to help one another to improve their common standards of living and thus give all the opportunity for a better life.

Although peace is more positive than simply the absence of war, no economic or social progress can be made so long as fighting goes on. In the eight years of its existence, the U.N. has stopped the fighting in Palestine and Kashmir as well as in Indonesia where negotiations under the U.N. brought about a final settlement. When a dispute is deep enough to lead to war, no quick or easy solution is possible. Negotiations are often long and extensive. But that is what the U.N. is for. If its machinery is used and good will exists, peaceful solutions can be found. Had the machinery of the U.N. not existed, each conflict might have taken a very different and serious course.

In the past when a dispute between nations reached the point where diplomacy had failed and fighting had begun, there was no way left to reopen the talks that might lead to a sensible solution. There was nothing left to do but to fight it out. But in U.N., diplomats of the warring nations are brought face to face to talk, the eyes of the world upon them and the advice of other nations ringing in their ears. Fighting can be stopped and reason has an opportunity to be heard.

The greatest achievement of U.N. was that aggression was stopped in Korea. The war in Korea was different from the earlier examples mentioned. It was a planned act of aggression and not a failure of diplomacy. Backed by the Charter, the U.N. resisted the aggression. With the attack on South Korea, a new phase of world history was begun. For the first time, a group of nations took up arms collectively to resist attack on one of their neighbors. This act may well shape the future for men. Now that the armistice in Korea has been attained, the U.N. faces a broad task of reconstruction and rehabilitation. The U.N. has to find peaceful ways of settling the problems that caused the war.

food and agriculture agencies, the Technical Assistance program, are all fighting disease, starvation, malnutrition, ignorance.

The U.N. deals with man's problems on all fronts. It is organized to resist aggression, to stop fighting and solve problems peacefully. It seeks to establish just dealings among men as the only possible basis for peace and to ensure that peace through economic, social and cultural progress.

The Meaning of U.N.

To a mother in India whose child has been cured of yaws; to a farmer in Afghanistan whose cattle are no longer in danger from rinderpest; to a child in a small Bolivian village who has tasted milk for the first time, the United Nations is more than verbal wrestling at Council tables and debates in marble halls. To them it is teams of doctors working to prevent and cure diseases; it is agricultural scientists trying to make animals and land more productive. It is specialists from all parts of the world, working in remote lands to bring a measure of the health and happiness which is each man's and each woman's right.

And again, the U.N. is more than a focal point for the great problems of war and peace. The U.N. has resettled more than a million refugees and brought them back to useful, productive lives. It has branded genocide, the mass exterminations of groups of people for any reason, a crime against humanity and made it punishable as such. It has proclaimed the right of every man to life and to all the necessary means of fulfilling that life and it has brought about an extraordinarily rapid advance in the rights of women. Through the Trusteeship System, with the co-operation of the Administering Powers, it promotes the welfare of 20,000,000 people in the Trust Territories. Its concern for the welfare of all non-self-governing peoples constitutes a joint effort to apply justice to all.

Bride-Elect Honored

On Saturday afternoon over fifty invited guests gathered in Munro Hall, Athelstan, to honor Miss Beverley Cooper of Huntingdon, and present her with miscellaneous gifts of linen, towels, flat wear, china, a substantial sum of money, etc., prior to her approaching marriage. Beverley, being unde rthe impression that she was to assist at a demonstration of nylon products, was indeed surprised on her arrival to find the large gathering had met for another purpose altogether. The wedding march was played as she was escorted to a gaily decorated seat of honor, over which was suspended multi-colored balloons from which showered confetti upon her in abundance. The gifts were opened and passed among those present to be admired. Beverley graciously thanked all for their gifts and good wishes. A social time was enjoyed and adjournment was made to the diningroom where the hostesses, Mrs. Donald Feeny, Mrs. Billy Boyd, Misses Eula Wood and Lillian Beare served dainty refreshments. The event was most enjoyable and the good wishes of all go with Beverley to her new home in Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Caldwell and baby returned to their home in Cornwall on Monday after spending their holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hutchings and Mr. and Mrs. John Caldwell, Huntingdon. They were also recent guests of Mrs. Ethel Chalmers and family at St. Lambert.

Automobile in the Home Is A Problem

The automobile has brought about big changes in the Canadian home.

It took away the use of front verandahs. It made the barn—now the garage—part of the house. It closed up many back doors by making it handier to carry packages in, and garbage out through a door from kitchen to garage.

Now the automobile is making another change in houses, and houses in turn, are demanding a change in the automobile.

The automobile brings so many guests to the house that there is less and less use for the front door. With living rooms moving toward the back yard, many houses are being planned with no front door—the main entrance is from the garage.

It costs so much to build a garage, and the space is empty so long, while the car is gone, that garages are being turned into car porches, and even into glass enclosed recreation rooms and conservatories.

But automobiles still drip oil and grease on these floors. So if the car is going to be brought into the house, it has to reform. Manufacturers will have to do something about house-breaking their automobiles.

Some architects have tried low curbed rectangles in the middle of the floor of their car porches. When the car is gone, a folding table is placed over this opening. But people who have tried it, find it a makeshift. Oil and grease, dripping on the asphalt tile with which they have paved these playrooms, disintegrates the tile.

Apparently the only solution will be metal diapers for cars.

Beauharnois

Home and School Association

BEAUHARNOIS — The opening fall meeting of the 1953-54 session of the Home and School Association, under the leadership of Mr. W. Gregory, was held on the evening of Tuesday, October 13. The meeting was an excellent one, inasmuch as the attendance was in the proximity of seventy people, an encouraging representation and a co-operative audience which added to the smoothness of the agenda covering. Another pleasing item was the approach of the members towards the immediate payment of membership fees and Home and School magazine requests. Mrs. Margaret Sweezey, membership convener, was kept busy with renewals and new subscriptions which was most gratifying to the Executive.

Mr. Gregory expressed words of welcome to all present and spoke highly of his committee and their capabilities, some of whom were filling their duties in that capacity for the Home and School for their first term. Executives present were Mr. G. Gwyn, Vice-President; Mrs. Robert Tait, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George Ascroft, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Margaret Sweezey, membership convener.

The president in his remarks expressed the hope that the members would support the projects undertaken for the year and that their approval would be favourable. A programme coverage was outlined. There will be five regular meetings. The first social event of the year would be an autumn dance to be held Firday, November 6, in the school auditorium, stressing the point that this was not entirely in the field of a money-raising project but rather to create a social atmosphere and a friendly community spirit. December 4 will be an evening for folks to get together for a Card Party. There will be a renewal of the Door Decorating contest duly judged and prizes awarded. Further details on this contest will be given out at the next meeting.

Mr. Gwyn in his remarks said he had not outlined a programme as he felt that the audience might like to participate in the choice of material and would welcome any suggestions. Dr. Robert Turnbull suggested Mr. A. W. Lang, Secretary of the Quebec Association of Protestant Teachers, as a likely speaker for a future meeting.

Mr. Gregory proceeded with the outlining of recommendations of his executive for membership approval, one of which was that fifty dollars be set aside to cover a deficit of the milk fund, one hundred dollars for sports equipment, and fifty dollars for Arts and Crafts. The Teen and Twenties Club would be taken over again this year by Mr. Robert Page. Mrs. Thomson had agreed to be Chief Room Mother for the year, and Mrs. R. B. Calhoun had agreed to give her services as catering convener for the Autumn Dance.

Dr. R. Turnbull introduced and welcomed the first speaker of the evening who was Mr. J. Hargaten, Principal of Beauharnois Intermediate School. Dr. Turnbull also extended greetings to Mrs. Hargaten who will be musical director for the school and has hopes of training a Rhythm Band among the pupils of Grade One. Mr. Hargaten said he was most honoured to have been invited to speak at the meeting and congratulated Mr. Gregory on his and his executive's association with such a worthy and important organization as the Home and School and the valuable assistance derived from the parents and teachers through their personal contact with each other. Mr. Hargaten spoke highly of his predecessor, Mr. L. V. Fuller, the excellent staff he had left with the school, and all the beneficial elements Mr. Fuller had contributed to the school during his stay here. Mr. Hargaten made mention of the curricular sports in which the pupils would participate: that the sports would favour individual participation rather than spectator sports; there would be track events, interclass hockey; room games; introductioin of an honour system over which monitors would preside and cover various items such as milk, sports, room games, destruction and rowdyism. Mr. Hargaten asked for the parents' co-operation.

In his concluding remarks, Mr. Gregory thanked Mr. Hargaten.

The second speaker for the evening, Mr. Bruce Henders, was introduced by Mr. Gregory. Mr. Henders, in his capacity as secretary-treasurer of the School Board, gave a general coverage of this phase of the Department and its responsibilities, who and what are responsible for school matters, sources of revenue, items that had been paid from said revenue. A discussion from the floor re. the methods of payment of school fees, and a recommendation that it be revised and that bills be sent to the parents monthly, quarterly or half-yearly, and this will be separated from the bill for books used by the pupils also come up for consideration. Mrs. Sheppard's class was the banner winner this month. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

H.S.P.M. Strike

As Howard Smith Paper Mill employees approach their fourth week on strike, an offer of acting mediation between the union and the Company has been proferred by Mayor H. Pourpart. Mr. A. Barette, Minister of Labour for the Province of Quebec, is also approaching those concerned, as to settling the dispute which resulted in the failure of negotiations between the parties after a period of 16 months. The main approach of the union would seem to be to determine the standing of the Beauharnois plant as compared with that of the other mills belonging to the Howard Smith Paper Mill Company. Meantime, many of the plant workers have had to seek work in the vicinity or in Montreal.

Shower Tea

A Shower Tea was held at the home of Mrs. Kokko on Saturday afternoon. Many valuable and varied gifts were donated towards the Bazaar which the ladies of Trinity Church Auxiliary are having on the afternoon of Saturday, October 24, between the hours of three and five in Beauharnois Intermediate School. Mrs. W. Pearson and Mrs. E. Leckie provided tea at an attractive table decorated with autumn flowers and slender green candles. Delicious refreshments were served through the kindness of Mrs. A. Kokko. In the absence of the president, Mrs. D. C. Currie thanked the hostess for her generosity and the ladies for their many delightful gifts.

Supreme Court Splits 5 to 4; Affects 800 Cases

Rule, in Effect, Nobody Can Interfere With Freedom of Religion

The Witnesses of Jehovah have won their extended battle against a restrictive Quebec City regulation in a 5-4 majority decision of the Supreme Court of Canada.

In one of its closest decisions in years, the court ruled that Quebec City has no right to interfere with the distribution of religious pamphlets on city streets.

The court, after splitting 4-4, finally rested its decision on the judgment of Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin, a Roman Catholic.

Against the Witnesses' appeal were Mr. Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau, Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteaux, all Roman Catholics, and Mr. Justice John R. Cartwright, a member of the Church of England.

With Mr. Justice Kerwin in upholding the appeal were Mr. Justice Ivan C. Rand, an Anglican, Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, a Baptist, Mr. Justice J. W. Estey, also a Baptist, and Mr. Justice J. H. Locke, and Anglican.

The court overruled the decision of Quebec lower courts and granted the appeal of Laurier Saumur of Quebec, a Jehovah's Witness evangelist convicted of distributing tracts without a permit.

While the court judgement dealt only with the Saumur case, it will have wider application. It will affect some 800 similar prosecutions now pending in Quebec courts.

In effect, the court ruled that no city or other body can interfere with freedom of religion.

Plan to Increase Witness Literature in Quebec

TORONTO, -(CP)- Percy Chapman, director of Jehovah's Witness affairs in Canada, says distribution of Witness literature in Quebec will be increased.

His statement followed last Tuesday's Supreme Court of Canada decision quashing a Quebec City bylaw which required distributors of religious literature to be licensed. Door-to-door distribution of pamphlets will be stressed, he added.

Burnside Repeats at Chicago Wins First For Dairy Herd

Other Wins — Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Female Championships, Also Several Other Leading Awards

Away back in 1913, R. R. Ness & Sons, Burnside Farms, Howick, Que., won first prize in the Dairy Herd Class — that is, for the best group of 5 cows — at the National Dairy Show, Chicago. This year R. R. Ness & Sons won first in the Dairy Herd class — nowaday's such herds being comprised of 4 cows— at the revived National Dairy Show at Chicago. Then as now the Dairy Herd was and is one of the most keenly contested events of large exhibitions. The winning of the first in same being considered as one of the highest awards that can be won. However, 1913 and 1953 — forty years between them — were not Burnside's only appearances at National Dairy Shows of the United States. In 1905, R. R. Ness showed a herd at the Chicago International Dairy Show, while he and his subsequent partners of R. R. Ness & Sons, showed there for several years up to 1915. After the International Dairy Show was superseded by the National Dairy Show, which was held each year in different Eastern and Central U.S. Cities, R. R. Ness & Sons exhibited at the latter events in 1916-18-23-27-29-37 and 41. The National Dairy Show was disbanded a few years ago, and this year the International Dairy Show again came into being, was held in the famous International Livestock Arena and Coliseum, of Chicago.

We are not aware at present as to how many of the Ayrshire entries were present at the current International Dairy Show. However, there was a total entry of some 237 animals in the individual Ayrshire classes—from leading United States herds, and including 13 head from the Burnside herd of R. R. Ness & Sons and one animal from the Terrace Bank herd of J. Earle Ness & Sons, both of Howick, Que.

Burnside Request, by Rottenrow Remarkable and from Burnside Barr Andrietta, was second in the two year old bull class for R. R. Ness & Sons. The first prize bull in that class, which was also the senior and grand champion male, is also closely related to most of the Burnside entries. We are not aware at present of the name of the grand champion male, but he is owned by Short Bros., West Unity, Ohio, and his sire, Burnside White King, and his dam, Burnside Fanfare, were both bred by R. R. Ness & Sons. We also understand that the junior champion male was similarly bred and owned. Incidentally, we understand that Short Bros. also won the Premier Breeder and the Premier Exhibitor Awards; that R. R. Ness & Sons were third in the line-up for both awards.

R. R. Ness & Sons also won first in the 3 year old heifer class, and the reserve grand female championship on Burnside White Feature. Incidentally, we understand that in accordance with U.S. Ayrshire procedure both the dry and in-milk cows and heifers were shown in the same classes at the International Dairy Show.

The other Burnside winnings were as follows:

Two year old heifer — fourth, on Burnside Flutter.

Three year old heifer — fourth, on Burnside Full Fashion 3rd, in addition to Burnside White Feature, first and reserve grand champion.

Four year old cow — first, on Carnell Ella 11th.

Pannell Daisy 2nd was second in this class for J. Earle Ness & Sons.

Cow Class — fifth on Burnside Future Blossom 2nd; seventh, on Burnside Fascination 5th.

Dairy Herd (four cows) — first.

Three Cows bred by exhibitor — second.

Get of Sire—second on group by Burnside Future Hope.

You can't go "ALL-OUT" IF you Feel "ALL-IN"

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 53
