Red China Today — 1

Great Leap Forward Widens The Gulf

By JAMES S. DUNCAN
James S. Duncan of Toronto, Canada, Chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, recently spent three and one-half weeks in the Chinese People's Republic at the invitation of the China Council for the Promotion of International Trade. This is the first in a series of dispatches presenting a colorful cross-section of life in China today.

The Chinese are polite, smiling, reticent and enigmatic. One senses a depth to the Chinese mind which is unfathomable. I am sure it was always so. But now, because of their different beliefs, their indoctrination and their anxiety to stay strictly within the party line, the gulf between the western mind and theirs is greater than ever.

They wear their faith like a badge of honour and proclaim it much more vigorously than the Russians. The communistic fervour of the Chinese would make one of Billy Graham's revival meetings seem like a gathering of agnostics.

The hackneyed phrase, the constant repetition, the same words expressed in the same words is characteristic of their Communistic philosophy. As a means of getting the party line across to the people it works most effectively.

The objective is to drive home a message in simple, pithy words, to say things in a manner which leaves no room for argument, to keep repeating them until they become engraved upon one's memory.

There are no greys, all is either black or it is white: If you belong to the Western World, then you are an "Imperialist"; if you own farm land you are an "exploiter of the people"; if you differ from the party line you are "a reactionary"; if you have some mental reservations about the state taking possession of your property yours is "a feudal attitude".

Of all the words and phrases, none is more overworked than "Liberation" and "The Great Leap". "Liberation" is a term to describe the Communistic victory over the forces of Chiang

Joyce Takes 'Holiday' From CBC

TORONTO (CP)—Joyce Davidson, freelance television performer who stirred up criticism when she told a United States interviewer she thought Canadians were indifferent to the Royal Visit, announced Friday she is taking an indefinite holiday from the CBC.

Lyal Brown, CBC director of press information, added: "She has not resigned, we haven't pressured her into anything. She has requested a holiday and we've agreed. The length of it is up to her."

Miss Davidson appears five times a week on the national television program Tabloid and works under contract with the CBC. In her statement, she said in part:

"Why my opinion on the subject of the Royal Visit should have been magnified into a matter of front page importance, I cannot understand. "As far as I can see, a grass fire has been fanned into a four-city block holocaust, and I'm sorrier than anyone that so many people have become so distressed by my private views."

St. Hubert's Get New CO

OTTAWA (CP)—Air Commodore James B. Harvey, 44, of Winnipeg has been appointed deputy air officer commanding (administration) at Air Defence Command headquarters, St. Hubert, Que., the RCAF announced.

He now is chief staff officer at training command headquarters, Trenton, Ont. He will take up his new post in September.

Today's Chuckle

"Daddy, what is heredity?" "Heredity, my boy, is what a man believes in until his son begins to act like a fool."

Kai-shek and the establishment of the People's Republic of China in October of 1949. All events are constantly referred to as "before Liberation" or "after Liberation". In the following articles I will use the same terms for reasons of simplification.

The Great Leap, or the All-Round Leap Forward, is descriptive of the very considerable forward thrust of the Chinese economy in the year 1958 when the seeds of progress planted during the previous nine years blossomed forth into record-breaking achievements - not only in the areas of industrial and agricultural production but in those of cultural activities also.

I was grateful for the fact that before visiting China I had had an opportunity of spending a week in Japan and of witnessing the splendid progress that country has made during the past ten years, of seeing something of her industrialization and the remarkable increase in the living standard of her people.

In these days when one hears so much of the giant strides which the Communist countries are making, it is well to remember that our democratic way of life, if well directed and backed up by industrious resourceful and dedicated people, can also have its triumphs and its great "Leap Forward".

During the upheavals of the years which followed World War II, the Chinese and Japanese, both Asiatic peoples, both colorful, both dynamic, have followed completely divergent paths. Yet, both have experienced ten years of astonishing recovery.

Both are strongly nationalistic; one has sought to obtain its objectives by revolution, the other by evolution.

One, with undaunted courage, set out to rebuild its national life upon the bitter ashes of defeat, of dismemberment and of disintegration. The other emerged from forty odd years of chaos, civil strife, invasion and national humiliation into what may well prove to be the most constructive and dynamic era in the age-old history of China.

I have returned from my three and a half weeks' visit behind the Bamboo curtain in China more certain than ever that developments taking place in that dynamic country will have a profound impact upon the future of the Western World. I am also convinced that our lack of knowledge about what is taking place there and China's lack of understanding of the Western point of view are aggravating an already explosive situation.

A wider knowledge and appreciation on both sides, easy access, more frequent travel, more trade, more cultural exchanges are surely the foundation upon which a greater degree of understanding and mutual respect can be built.

Accordingly, I propose to set down in a series of articles

Quit Insults Erhard Tells Adenauer

BONN (AP)—Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard told Chancellor Adenauer in effect Friday: Quit insulting me or I'll resign. The bitterness between the two most powerful figures in West Germany sprang into the open again following some remarks about Erhard made by Adenauer in an interview with the New York Times.

That newspaper said Adenauer repeated previous statements that Erhard lacks the political experience for the job of chancellor but is "a very talented man."

The 62-year-old Erhard told a Christian Democrat party caucus that someone—obviously Adenauer—was "systematically trying to degrade my reputation."

He said he would surrender his cabinet post unless he is "shielded from further calumny."

The party caucus was called to discuss The Times interview. Adenauer was asked to stay away from it.

Erhard appeared dejected as he emerged from the party meeting. Reporters heard him mutter that this time he was not going to bow to Adenauer. Then he flew off for a long weekend at Zurich, Switzerland.

The next chapter opens Monday.

Big Four Recess Till July

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers today recessed their conference until July 13 without breaking the East-West deadlock on Berlin.

Western officials forecast a new Soviet drive for the summit following failure of the talks which began May 11. They said Soviet Premier Khrushchev is trying to frighten the Western powers in a summit conference instead of offering concessions on Berlin as a lure to the West.

Western diplomats are reported to have decided two weeks ago that this was Khrushchev's strategy. Western interests in breaking off the negotiations here dates from that time.

The West came to Geneva believing it held one trump card—Khrushchev's desire for a summit meeting.

SHORT MEETING
The ministers, Christian Herter of the United States, Selwyn Lloyd of Britain, Maurice Couve de Murville of France and Andrei Gromyko of Russia, met for 10 minutes to approve a short final communiqué.

The communiqué said: "At the conference of the foreign ministers in Geneva which began on May 11 a broad exchange of views took place between the participants on the subjects under discussion. "The ministers believe that further discussions and negotiations are necessary. "The ministers agreed to recess and to resume the work of the conference in Geneva on July 13, 1959."

NO SPEECHES
The ministers met under the chairmanship of Gromyko. No speeches were made.

A new period of mounting tension in the Berlin crisis was foreseen, especially since West Germany has decided to hold an assembly to elect its new president in West Berlin on July 1.

Ailing Mayor Quits Bed To See Queen

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—The ailing mayor of this airport town of 5,000 struggled out of a hospital bed Friday to greet Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Mayor Jack Robertson was operated on last week for a perforated ulcer. The stitches still haven't been taken out of the incision, but the mayor insisted on being on hand when the royal couple arrived here from St. John's.

Doctors at the Banting Memorial Hospital here gave in to Mr. Robertson's pleas and granted him a one-hour leave. They provided an escort of three pretty

Royal Couple Visit Newsprint Mill In Newfoundland Tour

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip Friday flew to the heart of Newfoundland where shirt-sleeved villagers, their women and children standing along a sparsely-settled 32-mile gravel route, gave them a stirring welcome.

From Deer Lake's specially extended red dirt airstrip where the royal plane came down to be greeted by some 100 persons, to Corner Brook where the Queen and Philip motored to visit the gigantic newsprint mill of Bowater's Pulp and Paper Mill Limited, there were groups of village residents cheering and waving Union Jacks.

The reception, under brilliant sunshine, ranged from the simplicity of the brief ceremony at Deer Lake Airport to the serious atmosphere surrounding the route of the huge newsprint mill where whining machines turn out a ton of newsprint every four minutes.

The royal couple's visit to the rugged west coast of Newfoundland marked the second day of their 45-day tour across Canada, inaugurated Thursday at St. John's.

TO VISIT STEPHENVILLE
Today the Queen and her husband, after spending the night in the quietude of Sir Eric Bowater's crescent-shaped lodge at Strawberry Hill, just outside Corner Brook, fly south to Stephenville near where the United States Air Force operates a base.

After touring the mushrooming community dotted with trailer homes and being received by officers of the U.S. Ernest Harmon establishment, the royal couple fly 500 miles north to Quebec's northernmost town of Shederville, deep in the barren Ungava territory.

After an inspection of the $16,000,000 town built by the Iron Ore Company of Canada and a visit to its open pit mines, they fly to Sept-Isles, the St. Lawrence Gulf terminal of Ungava ore

Behind The News

'Summit' Conference May Surprise Khrush

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Many signs point to a "summit" conference—but not the one Premier Khrushchev has been demanding for so long.

The Western Big Three seemed to be edging toward a summit of their own even before the Geneva announcement Friday that the East-West conference of foreign ministers is to be recessed in deadlock until July 13.

Prime Minister Macmillan had indicated he was ready for such talks and President Eisenhower spoke in similar vein. It is thought that President de Gaulle would welcome a chance to outline his views to his Anglo-American partners face to face.

With Khrushchev again on the attack and no progress at Geneva, the Western leaders may consider it all the more desirable to meet, possibly in consultation with Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany as well.

VARYING VIEWS
It's no secret that the Western chiefs hold varying views about a future summit meeting with Khrushchev. Macmillan sees in this the best chance of easing world tensions, but Eisenhower refuses to go without some development at Geneva that would give hope of positive results.

The only apparent headway at Geneva has been made not at the foreign ministers' talks but at separate, parallel negotiations about the control of nuclear tests. Eisenhower has implied that such progress might become acceptable as the basis of a future East-West meeting.

But France, which would be a party to a summit meeting with Russia, is not a nuclear power yet—although it wants to be—and, in fact, de Gaulle has been raising a rumpus in NATO on the question.

De Gaulle has refused to allow locating of nuclear warhead stockpiles on French territory unless France has a voice in their control. He has also withdrawn the French Mediterranean fleet from the forces formerly earmarked for NATO command in case of war and taken other actions embarrassing to the NATO command.

NEED PERSONAL MEETING
Diplomats believe that these and other problems—not to mention political strategy to counter Russian moves—could best be tackled in a personal meeting among the Western leaders.

Eisenhower set the diplomatic ball bouncing in this direction at his latest press conference when he spoke about de Gaulle in terms that were far from clear-cut but obviously sympathetic.

"I have made plans that if any errand takes me to Europe, I'm going to make a special effort to meet him, because there are differences of opinion between our two governments, and I think he believes and that I believe that a personal conversation between the two of us might ease some of the rough points in these arguments and possibly solve them."

Capricious Weather Adds Suspense To Royal Visit

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Capricious weather added excitement on the day Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrived to begin their 45-day, 15,000-mile tour of Canada.

Brilliant sunshine broke through fog to greet them at St. John's, Nfld., and put aside reports that the royal plane might be forced to land at an alternate airport.

The Queen and Prince Philip will visit some 135 Canadian cities, towns and hamlets, including such places as Yellowknife and Whitehorse. Next weekend the Queen will join President Eisenhower at Montreal for official ceremonies opening the St. Lawrence Seaway.

ALBERTA ELECTION
Premier E. C. Manning's Social Credit party went through the opposition like a prairie storm in the Alberta election Friday, winning 61 of 65 seats and defeating all three opposition leaders—Liberal, Progressive Conservative and CCF.

A record vote—giving the government its seventh consecutive five-year mandate—cut opposition strength to four from 24 in the last legislature. Redistribution compromise proposals on Berlin.

The heart of the proposals, Western informants said, is a provision for the Big Four to guarantee the existing arrangements on Berlin. The heart of the Soviet position has been that the occupation status must end.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko of Russia delayed his reply until Friday—when it was suddenly overtaken by a cold blast from Premier Khrushchev, his boss in Moscow.

Khrushchev said bluntly that if Russia is forced to sign a peace treaty with East Germany—as he has suggested at various times—it would be an "illusion" for the West to believe its rights of communications with West Berlin would remain.

On that note, Gromyko presented some more "new proposals" in Geneva.

LATIN ACTION
The Argentine government battled what it called a revolutionary plot as fresh turmoil boiled to the surface in several countries of Latin America.

President Arturo Frondizi's police swept through Buenos Aires with orders to arrest generals and admirals, many of them leaders of the provisional military government that steered Argentine back to civilian rule after the overthrow of dictator Juan Peron in 1955.

The military unrest follows strikes and widespread political and economic agitation against Frondizi's austerity program.

INDIAN CAMPAIGN
At least 12 persons were killed and 600 arrested in the Indian state of Kerala where India's only Communist regime is fighting for its life.

The deaths resulted when the Communist government's police fired on forces of the combined opposition staging a "non-violent" campaign in an attempt to bring down the government.

The Indian government moved armed forces into the state to protect Indian government property and restore a measure of peace, shattered last weekend when the campaign began over a school issue.

An announcement said Prime Minister Nehru will fly to Kerala Monday in an apparent effort to restore order.

AFRICAN RIOTS
Some 3,000 African native women Friday stormed a beer hall in South Africa's Cato Manor Township, where 142 persons died in race riots 10 years ago.

The raid—and the ensuing fight—touched off an orgy of arson and fatal violence in which infuriated Africans, a few armed with clubs, others with clubs and bottles, swarmed through the streets setting fire to government offices, schools and other buildings.

Police opened up with automatic weapons at Cato Manor and Chesterville Township. The women's initial attack was apparently in retaliation for a police raid on natives making homebrew beer. Another immediate cause of trouble appears to be resentment at official handling of a slum-clearance project.

HOLDUP FOILED
A Montreal police constable, answering an alarm, was shot three times in a raging gunbattle while breaking up an attempted bank robbery in the west end of the city.

Constable Donat Jodoin, 30, was shot as he and other officers thwarted a robbery attempt by two gunmen at a branch of the Bank of Montreal. He was reported doing "very well" after an operation.

The police took two men—both immigrants from France—on the spot and recovered a briefcase containing $30,000 cash, a pistol and a sawed-off rifle capable of firing 10 shots. One of the arrested men was wounded in the thigh.

Newly Decorated Church Reopens At Danville

DANVILLE — It was a happy occasion for the many members and friends of Trinity United Church, when they took part in the re-opening service of their church on Sunday, after a period of repair and decoration.

The church was crowded to capacity and all were inspired by the beauty and fitness of the newly decorated sanctuary, and Rev. Wm. T. Eddy preached on the Text: Beauty and Strength are in His Sanctuary.

Mrs. Wright Gibson, delighted the audience with two solos, How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings and The Lord Is My Shepherd. Wright Gibson played the organ and accompanied Mrs. Gibson in her solos. Rev. W. E. Long, who had served the church for 15 years, read the Scriptures and took the prayer.

After the service the whole congregation assembled in the church hall, for a luncheon and hour of fellowship. A pleasing surprise came at the end of the luncheon when Archie Bishop, made a speech of welcome and appreciation and called upon several people to make presentations to Rev. and Mrs. Eddy, who are leaving at the end of June for Sheddin, Ontario. Mr. Eddy served there some 30 years ago and has been invited back to finish his ministry in Sheddin.

Mrs. Peter Young presented Mrs. Eddy with a beautiful costume jewellery set from the Evening Auxiliary. Mrs. H. Healey presented a lovely bedspread from the W.A. and W.M.S. and Miss Carol Smith a tea set from the C.G.I.T. Mr. Bishop

Mayor Asks Support Of Congress

Mayor Armand Nadeau yesterday extended a cordial invitation to residents of Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships to attend the activities of the Eucharistic Congress to be held in this city from June 23 to 28.

"The City of Sherbrooke is proud to be the host to such a congress," said the mayor.

"The Queen City of the Eastern Townships is awaiting those wishing to attend such a display of faith."

The mayor added that workers throughout the city would be able to attend in the manifestations because of the St. Jean Baptiste holiday which falls on the second day of the congress.

INDUSTRIAL TALKS — Ivan Dugre, president of the Sherbrooke Wood Products Inc., manufacturers of hockey sticks, announced yesterday that construction of a new $150,000 plant on Galt Street East is now underway. Former Sherbrooke Rector Tells Of Holy Land Trip

(The following letter was written by Canon E. K. Moffatt, a former rector, member of the divinity faculty of Bishop's University for almost 20 years. Now retired and living in Toronto, Canon Moffatt left this spring for a trip to England and is now visiting parts of the Holy Land and Greece. This report of his travels was sent to a member of his former congregation.)

I promised to let you know how we fare in Jordan, and now after eight very full days, I will say a few words concerning our pilgrimage here before we enter the Mandelbaum Gate and cross Israel where we shall be pilgrims in Galilee.

Starting the first day from Bethphage on the Mt. of Olives we followed our Lord's progress to Jerusalem staying at Bethany and the beautiful church built on the site of Mary and Martha's house. We descended the hill to the valley that adjoins the Kidron Valley, went to St. Stephen's Gate, ascended laboriously and walked along the Via Dolorosa where are the Stations of the Cross, ending with the church over Calvary and the Holy Sepulchre.

To these we have gone back not once nor twice in the course of these eight days and have stepped aside to see the Pool of Siloam, the pool of Bethesda, the little shrine called Dominus Fleit, the edge of Gehenna, and, of course the well kept gardens which make up the Garden of Gethsemane, Church of All Nations and the Russian and Armenian Churches. The authentic site doesn't greatly matter for the olive, fig and vine stretch through all these parts. All I can say is that Gethsemane attracts all Christians for its historical significance where the Great Decision was made for our souls, and for its natural loveliness and quiet and opportunity for meditation.

Our Cathedral will be worthy of Jerusalem but unfortunately for us is in the hands of repairers, and chancel and altar are closed from view. There is no doubt that the Anglicans, though somewhat late in coming have their proper influence in this holy city — holy to the 2/3 population of Moslems and holy to the 1/3 population of Christians. There is no Protestantism visible.

Allowing for modern encroachments the scene of the 1st century must have parallels with the scene of today: noisy markets, donkeys galore, often heavily laden, blind folk, grubby Arab children, every stone, hundreds of steps, every yard a call to buy, smells including incense.

Piano Recital Held Thursday In Synagogue

Pupils of Miss Norah H. Leonard, B.A., F.M.C.M., held their annual piano recital in the Sherbrooke Synagogue Hall, Thursday evening before a large and appreciative audience of parents and friends.

Taking part in the program were: Linda Ladd, Sherill Fletcher, Susan Henderson, Hazel McHarg, Frederick Silny, Shirley Rublee, Donald Lewis, Ruth Jellicoe, Shirley Kimmis, Deborah Dougall.

Doris Willis, Beryl Greer, Nancy Baugh, David Carr, Myriam Lesaulnier, Helen Rublee, Susan Fletcher, Peter Kandaluft, Carolyn Moore, Mary Hurley.

Jan McLeod, Paula Cooperman, Yolande Lesaulnier, Maureen Westgate, Louise Wright, Linda Foster, Brigitte Lesaulnier, Peter Kogler, Nancy Richards, Peter Forger, Dale Ross, Garth Henderson, Evelyn Salten, Susan Goodson, Norman Lewis, Patricia Stevenson, Robert Cadman, Andrea Jellicoe, Kathleen Smith, Malcolm Taylor.

Three participated in the speech art section: James Messenger, Shirley Kimmis and Maureen Westgate. The French folk song, "Au clair de la lune" was sung by Brigitte, Yolande and Myriam Lesaulnier, and chorus, accompanied by Sylvia Riley.

Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Mitchell of Magog, presented the reports and prizes, and congratulated Miss Leonard and the pupils for their splendid performance.

Miss Leonard was assisted in the arrangements by the Misses Patricia Ann Willard and Sylvia Riley. Malcolm Taylor was in charge of the stage while Richard Palmer and Dale Ross were in charge of the programs.

Change Made In Arrival Of Cardinal

James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto, originally scheduled to arrive in Sherbrooke on Thursday, will be arriving on Wednesday, June 24, it was announced yesterday afternoon.

Arriving at Dorval airport at 1:00 p.m. Wednesday, he will be taken to Magog by 4 p.m.

There a motorcade will form up to bring the Cardinal to Sherbrooke, planned to arrive at the archbishop's palace at 5 p.m.

The same evening, at 6 o'clock, Cardinal McGuigan will attend the St. Jean Baptiste Society dinner.

The following evening he will be the guest of honor at the dinner to be held at the archbishop's palace.

Other ceremonies and events will take place as originally planned.

New Plant Is Locating In East Ward Industrial Area

The first plant to be erected in the new East Sherbrooke industrial zone located between 11th and 20th avenues adjacent to Galt Street East, is the construction of a new plant for the manufacture of hockey sticks, now underway.

A description of the factory was given yesterday during the course of an interview at the City Hall by Ivan Dugre, president of Sherbrooke Wood Products, Inc.

Established in Sherbrooke since 1946, the company has been operating from a plant on Marquette St., and in recent years has given employment to about 20 men. It is planned to give work to about 35 men when the East Sherbrooke plant is completed and to expand output by 60 percent. The two-storey building is designed to permit future expansion as demand increases for the sticks which are distributed through Canada, the United States and Europe.

The main plant will be 61 by 113 feet with an annex of 24 by 55 feet serving as a storeroom and furnace room. It is of cement and brick construction, with floors of heavy-duty material to prevent wear.

The architect for the building was Alphonse Belanger.

Commenting on the decision of Sherbrooke Wood Products to locate in the new industrial area, Mayor Armand Nadeau stated that several local plants have shown interest in purchasing land in the area, while one completely new company is now negotiating with city officials.

The regular Morning Prayer service of the Anglican Church will be followed. Prince Philip will read the second lesson, and the sermon will be given by Archbishop Philip Carrington, Acting Primate of All Canada.

Former Drummondville rector, Rev. Canon W. H. M. Church, will read the state prayers.

Also present will be a former Archdeacon of Gaspe and present Archdeacon of St. Francis, Ven. T. J. Matthews, of Lennoxville.

Water Skiing

Rapidly Becoming Popular E. T. Sport

By FRASER BAILLIE

Water skiing, once considered a sport for only the most adventurous, has become one of the most popular summer pastimes in the Eastern Townships and its devotees on the continent number an estimated five to six million.

As recently as 10 years ago, the lone water skier was somewhat of a spectacle in these parts. Now water skiers are a common sight.

Although there are no water skiing clubs in the Eastern Townships, there are many in the United States. They haven't reached the peak of organization of winter skiing, but they are putting a professional polish on the calibre of skiing where they exist.

The sport has attained its greatest popularity in North America but it was believed to have been invented by French mountaineers who strapped thin boards to their feet and attempted to ski across the Mediterranean.

According to local water skiing enthusiasts, the tremendous increase in the popularity of the sport is due to the relatively little time it takes for a novice to feel he has become an accomplished skier.

But they warn that while water skiing is probably one of the easiest sports to learn—far easier than golf or tennis—it is just as hard to become proficient in it as in any other sport.

Apart from the motorboat, skiing equipment is economical. Changes in styles and equipment are insignificant although gimmicks and trick skis are available.

Among the trick skis is the slalom ski which is a single ski with a fin on the bottom. Then there are the "banana skis" which have no fins at all. Skilled users can turn about on these.

WATER SKIER — One of the female participants in the water ski show to be held in Magog on August is seen displaying her ability on the jump.

Another type is the miniature which is about 18 inches long. A fast boat is needed to get started on these. One local skier recommends starting off with one ordinary ski and one miniature. If you are skilled enough, you can carry the other miniature in your hand and when you are on your way, drop the ordinary one and put on the second miniature. It takes practice.

Ordinary skis range in price anywhere from $24 for ash to $50 and $60 for mahogany. The towropes, which are about 75 feet long, cost about $4.50. A new safety feature is a plastic water ski belt which is replacing the cumbersome life jacket.

And safety is one of the most important aspects of water skiing. Safe skiing not only depends on skill but the common sense of the skier and the people in the boat.

Reckless skiers are a constant hazard to swimmers at summer resorts.

The law provides now that there must always be two people in the boat, one to drive and one to watch the skier. This reduces the possibility of the boat hitting a swimmer.

The motor should always be switched off when loading and unloading swimmers and skiers. The boat should not be put into avoid him.

reverse if there are swimmers in the area or if the driver is picking up a skier. Circle around and keep the skier in view at all times.

Contrary to popular opinion, water skiing is not easier if the boat goes fast. The easiest speed for beginners is the slowest speed at which they are right up on the water surface—10 to 16 miles an hour.

Sharp turns at excessive speeds are juvenile tactics. There is extra strain on the boat, wear on the engine, waste of gas and, above all, danger.

One boat should never follow another towing a skier. If he falls, you may not be able to

Political Pot-Pourri

The political experts who look to provincial elections to gauge the swing of popular opinion between federal votes will be scratching their heads extra hard over the results in Manitoba, Ontario and, this week, Alberta.

Of the three elections, the Manitoba vote was the most straightforward and, will give most comfort to the federal Conservatives. In that election, Premier Duff Roblin turned his minority administration of a year earlier into a healthy working majority. The Liberals slumped badly and the CCF, surprisingly considering their federal reverses, made a strong showing in Winnipeg and district.

In Ontario, the issue was not whether Premier Frost's Conservatives would be returned but whether the demoralized Liberals would survive. The federal Liberal party's future was at stake. The Liberals did reasonably well, doubled their representation and increased their vote. The CCF picked up two seats but their vote total remained the same, leading to speculation that the proposed Canadian Labor Congress - CCF coalition would be a monumental flop in politics.

In Alberta, the situation is complex. The Social Credit government, which has been giving good conservative administration since the "funny-money" crackpots were put in their place, practically wiped out all opposition. Return of the government was assured by the fact that the opposition parties failed to turn up any good issues.

Yet the situation was complicated by the fact that the former Alberta voting system, which practically guaranteed the second strongest party a certain number of seats, was replaced by the single vote. Nevertheless, the Conservatives, who were counting on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's sweep of the Prairies to make them at least official opposition, came out the best of the defeated. They dropped from three seats to one but increased their share of the vote from nine to 23 per cent. The Liberals, who lost 14 of their 15 seats, dropped from 31 to 14 per cent of the vote. The CCF dropped from eight to five per cent.

Provincial Conservatives can look to further gains in the West, given the right leadership. Liberals need not only new leadership but new progressive policies. The CCF is becoming more and more a regional phenomenon.

The people of Alberta can hardly be pleased by the prospect of such a lopsided legislature. The job of watchdog on the government falls now to the province's newspapers.

What To Give Dad

It was in 1916 that someone on this side of the ocean thought of establishing a regular Father's Day. Not inappropriately, this was two years after the founding of Mother's Day.

Since that time, it has grown in popularity, not only among fathers, and now ranks along with traditional holidays and birthdays as a day to be marked with much giving.

Originally, it is said, the innovation of Father's Day posed rather a problem for greeting card manufacturers, who had to try and turn out a good selection of cards with a "manly" appearance.

Now, Father's Day is usually a problem for sons, daughters and wives who want to give the old man something he will appreciate, and tomorrow is no exception.

Some of the gifts advertised as being "just what Dad would like" don't help solve the problem.

There are such things as signs that say "Danger, Men Cooking" to be placed near backyard barbecues, two-foot-tall long-stemmed crystal goblets, air conditioned car cushions, Alpine shorts, and even solid brass diver's shoes. Some of the other gifts suggested imply that Dad is only interested in girls and alcohol.

If anybody asked Dad (and not too many people do), he would probably cherish most the gift of being allowed complete peace, quiet and his own way for the whole day. Breakfast in bed, perhaps, but no fussing after that.

Most family breadwinners would probably consider a day in which they could do anything they felt like doing, with no questions asked, the most perfect gift. A day fishing on the lake, sleeping in a hammock in the backyard, or just plain lazing around; these would probably be most welcome.

Other types of gifts are all very nice. The only trouble is that good old Dad often has to pay for them in the end.

Hot But Healthy

While controversy about Strontium-90 in Canadian milk and other food goes on here, one of Mexico's leading nuclear scientists says people who eat a lot of tortillas apparently absorb less of the stuff than other people.

The tortilla, of course, is Mexico's famous staple dish — thin cakes made from fine corn meal which has been treated with lime.

Dr. Carlos Graef Fernandez said Mexicans have absorbed less of the damaging radio-active particles from fallout than inhabitants of many other countries. He said this is probably due to the abundance of calcium in the tortillas.

Perhaps some of the controversialists here will suggest now that if Dr. Fernandez findings are correct, the tortilla ought to be brought north. Then those who consider our native food unhealthy could switch to the hot Mexican dish. There might even be a flourishing future here for the roadside tortilla stand!

The Rubinow brothers of New York are probably the outstanding pair with that relationship. East's three-club bid was designed to upset them but all it did was to give Morty the clue as to how to play the hand.

I will give the play in full before commenting since it is an example of flawless technique.

Morty won the opening club lead in his hand and played two rounds of trumps stopping in his own hand. Then he finessed the diamond, cashed dummy's king, returned to his own hand with a trump, discarded a heart on the diamond ace, entered dummy with the ace of clubs, led a heart and finessed the ten.

West was in the lead and had to either give Morty a ruff and discard or lead away from his king of hearts.

The diamond finesse was necessary so that there would be a trump left in dummy when West was thrown in the lead but the really interesting play was when Morty drew only two rounds of trumps.

If he had played three rounds before taking the diamond finesse he would have been forced eventually to lead the first heart Science marches on, bringing with it new household conveniences, new household hazards.

The plastic bag, welcomed as a fine new invention a few years ago, is now omnipresent in most homes. But as plastic bags have become more numerous, they have shown their dangerous qualities. Small children have played with them, stuck their heads inside, put their faces against the impervious plastic—and have smothered.

The bags will go right on being useful for their intended purposes. But they are not playthings. Families with infants should keep the empties far out of reach and older children should learn of the hazards, as they do with matches and knives.

Saturday's Sermon:

Building Bridges

BY REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

As I have motored up and down the countryside Bridges have interested me, especially covered bridges. I was delighted when my favourite newspaper THE SHERBROOKE DAILY RECORD featured one in the issue of March 7th last.

My interest in Bridges takes me back to those far-off, happier boyhood days when I wandered, oft alone, in the surrounding woods and glens pausing occasionally beside a small river or pond. There on the wings of imagination, I would travel back to Eden when mayhap a trunk of a tree fell across a river enabling thereby Adam and Eve to continue walking.

In the grip of an auld lang syne mood, I have occasionally gone back in the good old summertime to sit and think on the bank of "my river" where, there coursed through my mind Longfellow's "Golden Legend". "God's blessing on the architects who build The bridges o'er swift rivers and abysses Before impassable to human feet".

Early man, however, felt confident about the building of bridges, arguing that as God made the world without bridges, they were an interference with the divine plan. In fact so strong was this prejudice that it was necessary to placate with sacrifices the river god.

To day Bridges are for the purpose of spanning gorges, chasms, gulfs, rivers in order that there may be easy communication from one side to the other. Then we realise our dependence upon them today, and their importance in world intercourse, the wonder is that humanity got along without them for so many centuries.

LIFE — A BRIDGE
I recall being a guest at a country home where from the living room window there was a charming view of a bridge. Knowing my fondness for topics my host smiled as he suggested that he anticipated that someday from my pen would issue a sermon dealing with Life as a Bridge. And life is just that, isn't it? A Bridge with you and me pilgrims passing over "it" on our journey to the City of God. Now this can be a thrilling and rewarding experience offering each one of us the golden opportunity to engage in BUILDING BRIDGES beginning with the home. There, in order to live together happily, justly, charitably, nobly, we must build bridges. We have to fit in, cooperate, and share with others, — parents and children, relatives and friends. Accepting the slogan of "everything to help and nothing to hinder" it should be the constant endeavour to put into the construction of our home-bridge "such ingredients as kindness, skill, tact, sympathy and courtesy," — ingredients which ensure success. And having achieved success on the home front, success on the national front inevitably follows.

Beware all ye who are armed with the dream to make your land and my land, Canada, "mightier yet" that you see to it that ample provision is made for the building of bridges of the mind and spirit. And here we enter that extension of the home where we are introduced to life in the great, big, wonderful world on the outside, — the school.

AFTER HOME, THE SCHOOL
There, then, in that extension of the home, The School, we find awaiting new problems requiring new approaches, new adjustments, new skills. There, we come in contact with those of differing backgrounds such as race, creed, social standing, etc. Yet in spite of this, we sense that we each are a part of the great "bundle of life" and must accordingly live as brothers and sisters in the great family of God. If we do not, we must pay the penalty.

YE OLDE BRIDGE — THE CHURCH
Standing by is that fond mother, the Church "who" specializes, through the media of sacrament and prayer, in nourishing Her children in all goodness in addition to providing direction for the building of those social and religious bridges which make life liveable and loveable. This bridge — the Bridge of Reconciliation — is designed so as to develop a sense of oneness not, I hasten to add, uniformity. Now this unity is based on a faith that endures through all the changes and chances of life, broad, flexible, adaptable. And it was for this unity the Master prayed at His first Eucharist when He used the now historic words: "that they all may be ONE (John 17:21). This will of necessity demand a generous and constant application of "faith, hope and love" these three.

Never for a moment dare we forget that such a venture requires self sacrifice. There will have to be a surrender of prejudices, pride, scorn, arrogance and intolerance, with a disregard of unessential opinions and unnecessary forms. There will have to be a getting down to the bedrock of essentials and building of their piers upon eternal foundations.

This challenge is directed to you — and me. We must therefore begin where we are, functioning as active members of the Church of God. Nor dare we delay for delays are always dangerous. There will be obstacles and these had better be faced immediately. Reliance upon God and prayer will remove all obstacles and ensure the completion of the bridge.

GUARD THE BRIDGE
With this the story does not end. Rather it marks the beginning of a new phase namely that of guarding and keeping this bridge in repair so that a safe passage and free access may at all times be found. Nor dare we demand heavier tolls than the passage of a bridge, for we are all of us a part of the great "bundle of life" and must accordingly live as brothers and sisters in the great family of God. If we do not, we must pay the penalty.

To attain unto such a high standard required for a guardian, we will have to daily endeavour to be alert, lion-hearted, wise, God intoxicated, Christ — empowered, Spirit — led men and women. And thy reward shall be like unto that of Horatius whom Lord Macaulay in "The Days of Ancient Rome" immortalised for "keeping the bridge" over the Tiber.

Neither over the Tiber in far-

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — Some business men who exulted when the Conservatives came to power, expecting that the new government would be "soft" on combines, mergers and monopolies, have just found themselves the victims of their own wishful thinking.

Amendments to the anti-combines legislation now before Parliament do not legalize any of the business practices for which companies were prosecuted under the Liberal administration. Indeed, the Tory amendments create several new offences. And the major Conservative to big business criticism of the combines laws turns out to be a sop, having no effect of easing the laws against curtailment of competition.

The Liberal government's philosophy had been that any combination of competing companies to lessen competition was harmful to the public interest, and therefore illegal. The Liberals did not accept the argument that a combine might operate in the public interest, or at least in a way not harmful to that interest.

off Italy nor the St. Lawrence is our bridge. It is really closer "nearer to home" than either. In fact it is with — and within — us. Its name? THE BRIDGE OF LIFE. Your life and my life.

So it is up to you and me to keep this bridge so that those who come after us may cross over "it" successfully because, in the spirit of a hero, a victor, a conqueror, we blazed a trail! In other words we walked in the steps of the Master Who by His incarnation made a bridge from heaven to Bethlehem and thirty-three years later, built, out of the wood of the Cross, the bridge from the Church Militant to the Church Expectant. Alleluia! In His most holy word, the Bible, the same Jesus, our Saviour and Friend — our Chief Bridge-Builders — has declared that He will come again to fetch us home across the Bridge of Death to our Land of Promise. (John 14-3).

IN THE MEANTIME...

On such a "hope of glory" note I would end were it not that I feel impelled to register my surprise at their being no mention of a bridge in the Bible. With one exception, namely, that in 2 Macabees 12: 13 found in that collection of "hidden books" called the Apocrypha, which reads that "He also went about to make a bridge to a certain city... and the name of it was Caspis". Nor am I forgetting in Exodus 14: 19 "The children Israel walked upon dry land in the midst of the sea".

From Genesis to Revelation there are, of course, "implied" bridges of faith, imagination, prayer and that last bridge, Death.

Unmistakably there stands, in bold relief, the beautiful story of our Divine Pontifex Maximus, Jesus Christ Who will guide and carry each one of us over ALL of life's bridges and then, in love, will, after removing from us all fear and distrust, a ransomed soul". In the meantime "till He cometh (1 Cor. 11: 21) I bid you in His Name to engage in the useful, necessary, challenging, thrilling and rewarding work (required of whomsoever was, by God's grace, made, at his or her baptism) a child of God, a member of Christ and an inheritor of the kingdom of heaven) of building bridges.

"bear me above"

In a sense the Conservative government is more reasonable. The amendments introduced by Justice Minister Fulton provide that competitors may cooperate to exchange statistics and credit information, to define product standards and trade terms, to restrict advertising, and in research and development.

But while such cooperation has been technically illegal, it has not been on such grounds that companies have been prosecuted in the past. Invariably the offence has been price fixing, with or without added refinements such as restricting production or distribution or allocating markets. These actions are still outlawed under the Tory legislation.

A favorite argument of lawyers defending companies charged with price fixing has been "not guilty by reason of the failure of the Crown to establish that the prices fixed were unreasonable or harmful to the public interest".

The courts have consistently rejected this argument on the ground that the reasonableness or otherwise of prices fixed is beside the point; that the offence was the operation of a combine to lessen competition by fixing prices.

Fulton has not swerved from this view.

"The purpose of the legislation," he said, "is to maintain a free enterprise system based upon individual initiative sparked by competition, and not to try to set up some kind of public utility regime with the courts placed in the position of super-public utility boards charged with determining the 'reasonableness' of prices or other restraints of trade wrongly related to prices."

A most important innovation is Fulton's decision to start policing retail advertising under the combines law.

He proposes to make it unlawful for retailers to deceive the public by advertising phony bargains, like "This week only, $4.99. Reg. $7.99". Unless, of course, the regular price is demonstrably $7.95.

Fulton relates that some time ago he and his officers were "somewhat suspicious" when they saw an item of household furnishing being advertised as "regularly" selling at a certain price, but being offered in a number of stores at a much lower price.

They wrote the stores and asked how many of the articles had actually been sold at the "regular" price. The frank replies revealed that only one store had sold any at the "regular" price. And this one store protested with embarrassment that those sales had been mistakes; a salesman had not been told that the advertised "regular" price was a phony.

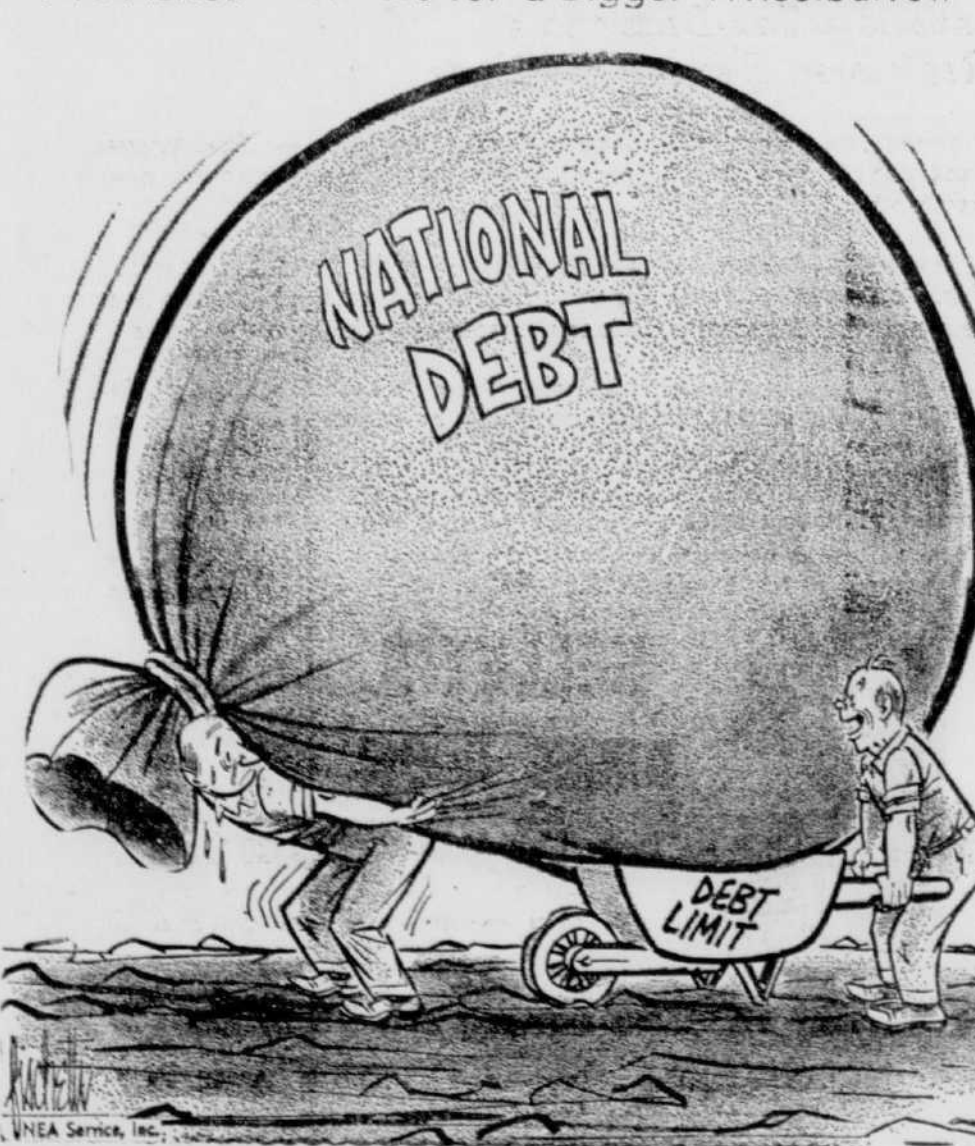

PREMIER LEARNS FRENCH
(Hamilton Spectator)

It is difficult to believe that Mr. Nehru, a statesman and above all a historian, is naive enough to accept friendly overtures from Communist China at their face value and then be distressed when they are turned into slaps in the face.

Proselytization and expansionism are articles of faith, preached by Lenin and practised by Stalin.

The Chinese Communists will not be deterred by professions of friendship.

brated the Divine Mysteries at 7 a.m. in the Chapel of St. Abraham over the Holy Sepulchre. Only a few Canadians share this privilege.

I drank water only once and that was from Jacob's Well. Deliciously cold, for the well was deep as the Woman of Sychar said. I also bathed in the Dead Sea and joined in a hymn where Jesus was (supposedly) baptized, with the Mount of Temptation looming behind the Jordan.

Jericho the city of palm trees struck me as having more camels than any other spot.

Africans Banned.

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Duma Nokwe, secretary-general of the African National Congress, was banned Friday for five years from attending meetings. This follows the ban on other leaders of the Congress, South Africa's largest and most influential African political body. On May 27, the movement's president, general, Albert Lutuli, was ordered confined to his home in Natal for five years.

knowledge which I have gained and impressions I have formed. I cannot guarantee the accuracy of my observations; I recognize the limitation of too brief a visit. I propose to do no more than to report the facts as I have seen them, from which readers may draw their own conclusions.

Some may say that being a guest of the government I was shown only the best aspects of things. To a certain degree this is no doubt true. But, when we in Canada receive visitors from abroad we also are inclined to show them the things we are most proud of.

It is worthy of note, however, that after our arrival in Peking we outlined the places which we wished to visit, the officials whom we wished to contact and the type of factories, universities, schools and communities which we wished to see. Our requests were granted with the utmost readiness with one single exception, namely a visit to the Western city of Lanchow.

I returned, however, with a sense of deep concern over many of the things I saw in China and the impact that will undoubtedly have upon our Western way of life.

To meet this emerging influence we must change many of our preconceived ideas. The time has come for a reappraisal of the position of Asia in relation to the Western World — indeed, such a reappraisal is long overdue.

day when Heinrich Krone, the Christian Democrats' floor leader in Parliament, reports on a study comparing the stenographic text of the interview with what appeared in the Times.

BEGAN JUNE 4

Two weeks of political turmoil began June 4 when the 83-year-old Adenauer suddenly abandoned his announced candidacy for the ceremonial post of president and decided to stay on as chancellor.

The German press has been almost unanimous in assailing Adenauer's decision.

More than half of Adenauer's party opposed the turnabout and tried to get him to stick to his original choice. Adenauer refused and the party faithful eventually gave in.

Party informants said that behind Adenauer's decision was a desire to keep Erhard from succeeding him as chancellor. The party had served notice it wanted Erhard.

Singers Killed

BOMBAY (AP)—Ten persons were reported crushed to death and 26 were injured Friday in the town of Bhind, Central India, when a huge tree fell on them. The victims were part of a group of Hindus singing hymns under the tree.

Granby Bears For Moscow

MONTREAL — Officials of the Russian Embassy in Canada Friday received two Canadian beavers, a present to the Moscow biological gardens from the zoo at Granby, Que.

The animals, to be flown to the Soviet capital, were presented to embassy officials at Dorval Airport by Dr. P. A. Ledue, president of the Granby Zoo Society, and Gilles Charbonneau, zoo manager.

An official presentation is to be made next Thursday in Moscow by Roland Lamontagne of Granby. He is currently travelling in Russia with a group of students.

The Moscow Zoo is expected to reciprocate by sending some Russian animals to Granby.

Disraeli Man Electrocuted

COLERAINE — (Special) — Gilles Gosselin, 20, of Disraeli, was electrocuted at the Normandie mine here yesterday when a defective high-tension cable sent 2,200 volts into a truck parked in the open pit.

A companion, Origene Begin, went to his rescue along with two other employees of the mine, Marcel Binette and Maxime Turgeon. They were unable to revive the victim.

An inquest was adjourned until this morning by Dr. J. Eugene Lacerte, district coroner. Mr. Gosselin was a graduate of the Institute of Technology, Sherbrooke.

Farewell Party For Mt. Orford Patrol Leader

MAGOG — A farewell patrol party was held recently at Sunset Lodge, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whittier, at Bacon's Bay, Lake Massawippi, in honor of Jack Whittier, leader of the Mount Orford Ski Patrol, prior to his departure to take up residence in Port Arthur, Ont.

At six o'clock the Mr. Whittier was taken on a tour of the lake. On returning to the dock, he was blindfolded and given the same treatment he had given so many injured skiers in the past four years. After much splinting and bandaging, the blindfold was removed to reveal some 20 fellow patrollers and friends gathered about him.

Following supper and a presentation to the guest of honor, the party proceeded to Ripplecove Inn for dancing.

ROYAL COUPLE

personally guided by Sir Eric, was a serious affair.

The Queen and particularly Prince Philip questioned mill of floors about various phases of newsprint - making operations from the time pulpwood is stripped of its bark to the final point where the pulp speeds through a steaming hot dryer and emerges at a dizzying pace as paper.

DISREGARDS NOISE

The Queen appeared poised and as relaxed as she entered the dryer room filled with the ear-splitting roar of rolling machinery. Temperature in the room was almost 92 degrees. Close to the dryers the thermometer indicated 110, but the Queen appeared cool and chattered with Sir Eric and some company officials. Prince Philip, wincing slightly under the noise impact, questioned him about his work for several minutes.

In the warehouse, where workers off duty stood waiting to get a glimpse and other officials were lined up to be introduced, the royal couple turned to a map displaying Bowater's properties and forest reserves on the island and a miniature reproduction of a log lumber camp.

The prince was particularly attracted to a mounted display of horse snowshoes showing various types developed over the years. As the royal couple left for Strawberry Hill, they could see Corner Brook, a neat tidy town built into the stonewalled mountains surrounding the bay, at the bottom of which it nestles.

Today when the royal couple returned to the Deer Lake airport to take their leave, the Salvation Army Band played God be With You Till we Meet Again.

AILING MAYOR

the foot-high rope that formed an avenue to the terminal, and headed for the mayor's car for a chat.

"When I saw her coming over I tried to get out of the car," Mayor Robertson said later in an interview. "The nurses wanted to hold me back but I struggled out."

"The Queen asked me how I felt. I told her I was feeling fine. She asked me how long I was going to be out of the hospital and I said 'about an hour.' She said, 'that's not very long.'"

Then Prince Philip took over the conversation with a quip. He said, "Oh, you've got an escort of three nurses. It was very poor timing with your ulcer."

Only a few people noticed the exchange between the mayor and the royal couple. Most of the crowd was inside the terminal waiting for the Queen to arrive to start the opening ceremonies.

After the opening the Queen and Prince toured the town and then took off for Deer Lake, near Corner Brook.

Spotlight On Business

BY GERRY MARTIN

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Canadian stock markets dipped this week in one dull session after the other but changes for the most part were small.

Market observers point to small volumes as an indication that many investors are holding to the "wait and see" policy that has prevailed for the last few months.

In Memorial where the National Federation of Financial Analysts Societies was in annual session, an economics professor had some rather hard words for the stock market.

David McCord Wright of McGill University, said the market appears "insanely high," adding "I do not personally think the present stock market will hold."

Other analysts were of the opinion the world's oil situation was "somewhat mixed up" but that "things were looking better for the paper industry."

INDUSTRIALS DOWN

Industrials on the whole were down, giving up almost two points at Toronto. Golds and base metals eased more than 24 points while Western oils were off more than 2½ points.

Speculators had a brief fling Friday, giving indications of a possible penny mine market next week. Radios were the centre of excitement as it spurred up 56 cents on the week—to $1.42—amid rumors of a find on its Matlagami, Que., property.

The copper price took its first cut since March as it became increasingly obvious that there will be no shortage of the red metal.

The Financial Times in London commented that even if there were a strike in the United States copper industry, where wage negotiations are underway, it would have to go on for some time before the metal became scarce.

FOLLOW U.S. LEAD

Price reductions in the U.S. were followed here by Noranda and International Nickel. Each cut its price ½ cent a pound to 30 cents. Hudson Bay had the major loss — down $2.00 at $52.75. Noranda and Geico were down $1.50 each and Falconbridge eased $1. Among the juniors Campbell Chibougamau lost 55 cents at $7.90.

Index losses at Toronto: Industrials 1.92 to 531.04; golds 2.88 to 91.43; base metals 2.86 to 171.81; western oils 2.61 to 119.67.

Index changes at Montreal: Banks off .06 to 67.21; utilities off 3.1 to 153.0; industrials up 1.0 to 313.9; combined off 4 to 260.2; papers up 16.1 to 455.75; golds off 1.78 to 88.35.

ISLAND BROOK

The Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Earl Dawson. The study book was followed and the chapter on Hawaii was taken by Mrs. Franklin Kerr. There was a discussion about the School for Leaders, and also about the supplies. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Robert Burns.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dawson spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Perras, in Beaufort.

Mr. and Mrs. John Massey, of Montreal, visited Miss Lilla Kerr and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dougherty, of Bury, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Lister.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wells and family, of Huntingville, spent a weekend at their camp here and visited friends.

First Aid For Patchy Lawns

A little grass seed and fertilizer can transform even the most moth-eaten lawn into a velvety carpet.

The first thing to do is roughen up the bare patches with a rake to provide a good bed for seeding. Now sprinkle the grass seed generously over the roughened earth and tap it down with the back of the rake or hand. This brings the seed in close contact with the moist soil and encourages even germination. Fine soil sprinkled lightly over the freshly seeded patch comes next, and then water. Peat moss can be used as a top covering to prevent too rapid drying of the soil.

Give it an extra boost with fertilizer. One pound of Evergreen 6-9-6 is the right amount for covering 36 square feet of lawn. Fertilizer should be applied while the grass blades are dry.

Do-It-Yourself

Portable Electric Saw Cuts Down Work

BY MR. FIX

It's when you tackle some building project that a portable electric saw really comes in to its own. It can cut a variety of materials with little effort while saving many hours. And with it you bring power right to the job, not the other way around.

The portable electric saw is useful if you are building a garage, breezeway, tool shed, patio cover.

Indoors it will speed work adding rooms to the attic, making a recreation room; any job in which cutting must be done on the scene.

If you plan to use an electric saw but seldom, rent one. If your work may cover a long period of time, or if you plan more than one project, consider seriously purchase of a saw.

The most common mistake handy men make, perhaps, is in buying too large a unit. Ten- and 12-inch saws are for industrial use.

Most six-inch saws will make a 1 1/2-inch deep cut. That's enough to handle 2x4s. Even a saw with a four-inch blade will handle most everything; it will make a 1 1/4-inch cut, maximum depth.

Don't fret about the occasional lone piece of wood that's too thick for your saw.

Make your cut, turn the work over and make another cut that will meet the old one. Or, of course, break out the hand saw.

Most saws are equipped with a combination blade that will handle both ripping and cross-cutting.

Special rip and crosscut blades are available and should be obtained if you plan to do much of either type of sawing. The rip blade cuts faster than the combination; the crosscut blade does a neater job than the all-purpose blade.

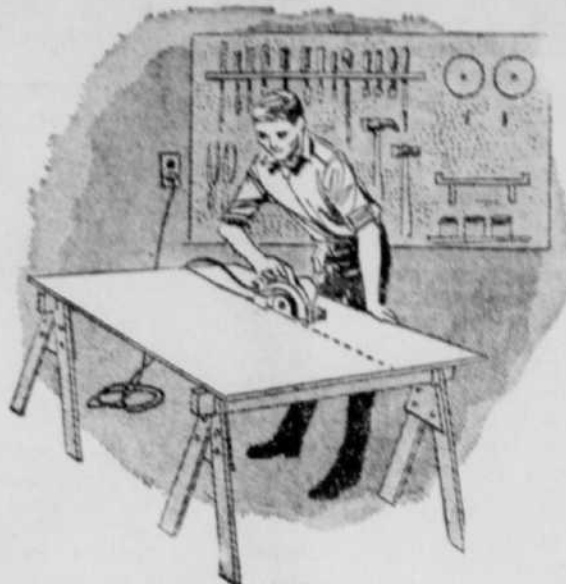

If you've done much hand sawing, you're accustomed to working with good side of wood up. Electric saws cut from the bottom, and leave a rough edge on the surface of the work.

Remember to turn your wood over with the GOOD SIDE DOWN.

Good electric saws are equipped with a number of safety devices.

All are useless if you remove them or ignore their purpose.

Never saw with blade exposed.

The electric saw is almost a necessity for the handy man who plans to do any extensive home improvement on his own.

A guard over the top of the blade must remain in place at all times. The guard at the bottom telescopes out of the way as the cut is made. If you tilt the blade, make certain that the "clit" lock is tight.

Take it easy with the saw. Don't allow it to overheat. Don't permit the blade to touch the work when starting a cut. Start the saw and allow it to get moving at full speed before starting the cut.

DON'T push. Let the saw do the work. Your job is to guide it through the work.

Use a sharp, clean blade. Keep a spare on hand and save time if the blade grows dull. Wiping with kerosene will keep the blade free of pitch when cutting unseasoned wood.

The depth to which you cut is controlled by raising or lowering the blade. Adjust the blade so that you have just enough showing to make the cut. It's the safest way.

Support the work properly. You'll need at least two sawhorses. Don't try supporting a 2x4 on one knee.

Arrange your work so that the saw's base plate—on the left—is solidly supported, and that the waste piece falls to the right.

If you plan to use the saw outdoors, select a dry work area, and use a weatherproof, heavy-duty cord. Never use a lamp fine, hairlike cracks on a plaster wall—L.O.

A—Wet area with a brush. Next, apply a thin coat of spackling compound. Permit this coat to dry thoroughly. Finally, sand smooth.

BEDFORD —

Mrs. Henry Greenwood and little daughter, Judy, of Burlington, Vt., have been visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nicholson.

The flowers on the altar in St. James Church on Sunday were in memory of Miss Mildred Steele and her father, Mr. Alex Steele, and of Mr. William L. Martin, given by the members of their families.

In the Eastern Border League, playing on Sunday, the local team sustained its 4th defeat of the season, when it was defeated 18-7 by Phillipsburg.

A parade will be held in honor of St. Jean Baptiste Day, June 24, when the Harmony Band of Cowansville will participate.

The remains of Mr. Alfred Patenaude rested at the funeral parlors of Joseph Dion and Son, following his death at his home in North Stanbridge and the funeral service was held in the Roman Catholic Church at North Stanbridge.

Among those from here who attended the Cub meeting in Granby, were Jerry White, Pierre and Guy Normandeau, Jeffrey Rider, Glenn Jackson, Donnie Van Horn, Ian McIntosh, Stephen Miller, Rickie Brown, Gordon John son, Harry Kirwin, Bruce Near, Norman Grenier and Kevin Bishop. The Cubs were accompanied by Cubmaster Earl Bockus and Assistant Cubmaster B. Monette. The skipping pennant was awarded the Troop.

Among those who supplied transportation were Messrs. Bruce Kirwin and W. F. Van Horn.

The death occurred at her home on River Street of Mrs. Dorice Jette, after an extended illness. Mrs. Jette, who had been a patient during the past weeks in the St. Johns Hospital, returned home three weeks ago. She was born in Bedford, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Depatie, the former Jeanne Depatie, and was 33 years of age. Following her marriage she lived for a time at Mystic returning to Bedford several years ago to reside on River Street. The funeral was held from the funeral parlors of Joseph Dion and Son to the parish church of St. Damien, with interment in the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo LaFontaine and little son Brian, of Pointe Claire, were guests over the weekend of Mrs. LaFontaine's mother, Mrs. George Provent.

Miss Cecile Ruchleau of Holyoke, Mass., has returned home after having visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Charron and Miss Cecile Touchette.

Miss Marilyn Bordo was in Montreal to visit her sister, Miss Barbara Bordo, who has been a patient during the past weeks in the Montreal General Hospital.

Good Pasture Sufficient For Weaned Dairy Calves

OTTAWA — Weaned calves can get adequate nutrients for satisfactory growth from a good legume-grass pasture. No supplements are needed if sufficient pasture is available.

V. S. Logan of the Animal Research Institute, in Ottawa, says dairy calves are turned to pasture at three ages, 2, 4, and 6 months in tests at the Central Experimental Farm. To determine the effects of high and low levels of nutrition in the barn-feeding period prior to pasture feeding, the calves are fed in two lots. One lot on a moderate level of nutrition receives reconstituted skim milk from the second week of age, with limited grain allowance (pounds daily). The second lot on a high level of nutrition is fed whole milk through 7 weeks of age with a grain allowance of up to 6 pounds per calf daily. All calves have access to good quality mixed hay.

The calves are rotated on pasture to maintain high quality herbage. Mineral consisting of bone meal and salt are the only supplements supplied on pasture. Calves put on pasture at 4 and 6 months gained slightly faster than calves turned out at 2 months. Those on the high level of nutrition during barn feeding gained faster than those on the moderate level in the 2 month age group, but the reverse was true for calves turned out at 6 months. Level of feeding during the barn period did not affect gains on pasture for the 4 month group.

All calves on pasture made gains almost as good as those fed in the barn throughout the pasture season and received the same early rations.

The fly problem was controlled by regular applications of the insecticide Methoxychlor. Internal parasites have not been a problem.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

Conducted by LLOYD DENNIS and ROBERT KUNZ

Dear Boys and Girls:

I had great plans for your country, long before you were born. In fact, I was one of the first to find a way into your province, and dreamed of the day when it would become part of a great nation.

I suppose I was famous for several things. I was a good soldier, geographer, leader, and colonizer. It was I who relieved the monotony at Port Royal in 1608 by starting a sort of club. I was first to build a colony at Quebec, and traveled Ontario rivers several times.

I lost my astrolabe on one of those journeys, and never found it again. Oh, well, perhaps a modern Canadian has picked it up. Have you seen it? Ask your teacher if she knows where it is.

Oh yes—Who am I?

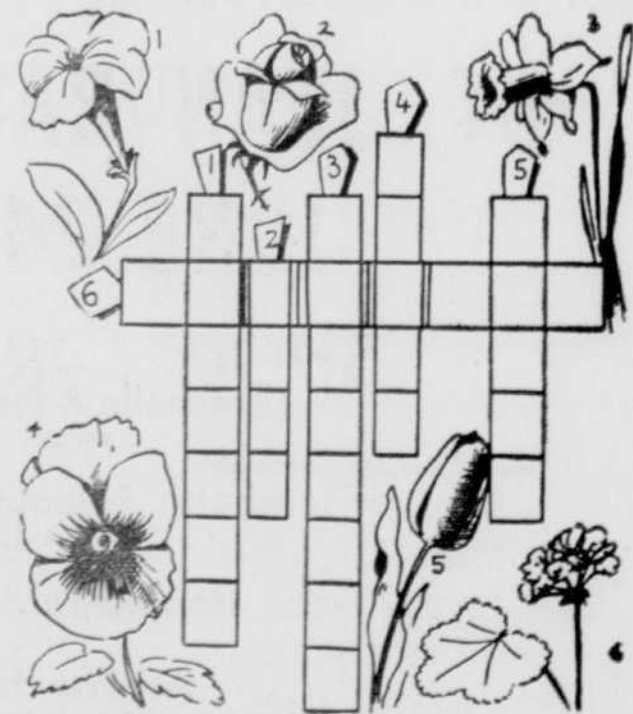

THE GREAT BARRIER REEF

Today we shall take a trail along the northeastern coast of Australia. Let us take a glass-bottomed boat so that we can see as much as possible, for our journey will take us along the Great Barrier Reef. We may travel for 1,200 miles and see great masses of beautiful coral from 10 to 90 miles wide. As we go over this ocean garden we can see colorful tropical fish swimming among corals of many shapes. Some look like fans, others like fluffy feathers or even leaves. The scientific name for corals is Anthozoa which means "flower animals."

When the coral animal is born it is called a polyp. This looks a bit like a frog's egg and is of a jellylike substance. A small fringe of hair propels it through the water. It settles down upon a rock and begins to grow. Soon a hard lime shell forms around the body. Thousands of these shells accumulate through the years to form great colonies—like the Great Barrier Reef of Australia.

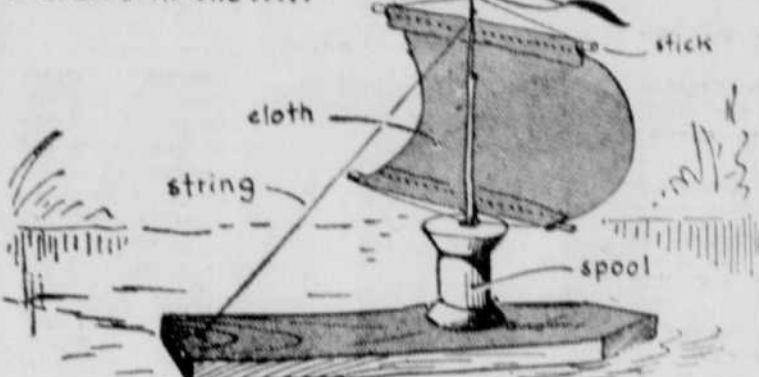

Man has found uses for this natural wonder. Italians sometimes use this material for making concrete; all over the world women treasure coral jewelry. Have you seen such a treasure?

Each of these six flowers has a place on our crossword puzzle. Find out where each one goes.

THE SAIL IS MADE FROM OLD CLOTH AND TWO STICKS. IT IS BOUND TO A WOODEN MAST. THE MAST IS A LONG STICK. IT IS ATTACHED TO A SPOOL AS SHOWN.

SHIPWRECK!

"Please don't drag your feet over the edge of the boat, Polly," said Foxy. His red face turned 16 shades lighter as the boat tipped a little. It was the first time Foxy had been in a boat and he was just a wee bit nervous. In fact it was the first time anyone from Acorn Alley had a chance to go for such a boat ride. My, how excited they all were, and maybe a bit scared too—everyone except Flip, that is.

"I borrow to be the skipper," said Polly, and everyone laughed for they knew Polly couldn't steer a boat.

They all took turns rowing and the soft breeze helped to blow them gaily along the winding turns and down through Farmer Brown's field to a place where the creek became very wide and they could hardly see the shore.

"This boat is like a rocking chair, and I could fall asleep right now if it weren't so much fun," said Rob as the wind tossed them higher and higher.

"Bless me," shrieked Belle, "this is —"

"Pardon, I can't hear you," said Foxy.

"I said, it's more fun than flying," repeated Belle, but no one heard her, for by now the wind was whistling all around them and the little boat was being tossed up and down as the waves grew higher and Ripple Creek grew black and foamy. Ever higher they went as each huge wave seemed to toss them into the sky. Each time they came down with a great splash that nearly frightened Scuff out of his wits.

"I wish I'd been a better beaver all my life," thought Buster. "I can see we're not going to live through this, but it's too late to change now," he groaned to himself as he saw a big wave coming straight at them.

Up, up they went as high as the tree tops and even higher. A huge gust of wind lifted them clear out of the water and tossed them about like a paper kite. Over the tree tops they flew, headed straight for the top of the tallest old oak tree.

Crash! Feathers flew as they landed with a great thud on the highest limb. Everyone glared at the mouse twins and Mayor Rob had a very serious look on his face.

"It seems to me," he said, looking right at Albert and Joe, "that some people are not as smart as they think they are."

"Yes," said Flip, and even he trembled a little. "I may be a frog, but I'm certainly not a tree toad and I can't live here all my life!"

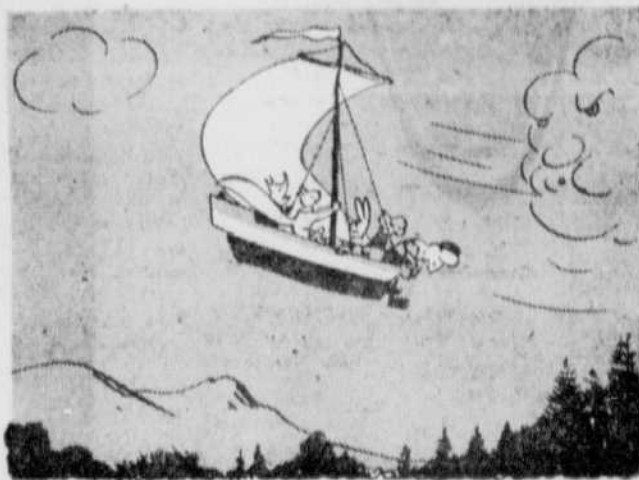

"Well, I've always been able to climb trees," said Polly, as she slowly began to lower herself. Two tears rolled down her cheeks when she thought of leaving all her friends high up in the tree.

"Oh well," she thought to herself, "they always laugh at me anyway. I wish I could get untangled from this long curly vine."

That was when Polly got her idea! Why not make a long vine rope, tie it up in the tree and let the others slide down? Polly quickly gathered up some vines, tied them together and started back up the tree.

"No one but Polly would be silly enough to climb back up after all we've been through," said Foxy. Then he stared, for there was Polly tying a big long rope to the highest limb.

"What's that for?" he asked, and if he hadn't been so frightened he would have grinned behind his whiskers.

"Why, for you to slide down, of course," said Polly, and Foxy felt very ashamed of himself indeed.

One by one the Alley folk took turns in sliding to the ground. How happy they were to be there, and how proud was Polly as she marched home, the heroine of the day!

Waterloo Man Started In Business As A School Boy

By ALICE BUCKLAND
WATERLOO.—"First man of Waterloo" is Charles William Slack and also one of the most interesting. He is one of the most successful business men in the district. He is the main founder of Slack Brothers, a company which is expanding rapidly. Slack's mushrooms have put Waterloo on the map.

On January 22, 1878, Charles Slack was born in Montreal to Thomas Slack and his wife, Louise Ellis. His grandfather, Rev. George Slack was the first rector in the Church of England in Granby. The family moved to Waterloo in 1881 and settled on Western Avenue in the large home which is now owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Henri Beaudry.

Thomas Slack built a small greenhouse and his sons, Charlie and Fred, started in business when they were school boys, selling plants for their father.

In 1913 the two brothers started a small plant on Allen Street, the location of the present plant. Their first venture was in loose leaf lettuce, tomatoes and rhubarb. The leaf lettuce gave way to the iceberg lettuce which is now so popular, tomatoes soon became non-profitable and the famous strawberry rhubarb is now becoming a very minor side line. When the rhubarb forcing houses were burned in November, 1958, it left only one in operation.

Mushrooms, the main product of Slack Brothers, was a subject too large to go into much detail during our short interview. Mr. Slack stated that when he was a boy at school his father tried growing mushrooms with indifferent success. The two brothers bought the same type of spawn when they were in business and they also raised a few mushrooms with no profit. The modern spawn which they use now yields the successful crops of today.

There are about 700,000 square feet of mushroom beds in the plant, producing three million pounds a year. A few wooden houses are in use but are gradually being replaced by cement houses. At one time Slack Brothers led in the mushroom industry. Within the last ten years great progress has been made in England and she leads in the industry.

CHARLES W. SLACK

It was interesting to learn that the mushroom houses have to be refrigerated. If the temperature rises above 60 degrees, spoilage is apt to start. At the present time, Irving Slack is developing a plan for refrigerating several of the mushroom houses.

Slack's carnations are an important industry—over an acre being under glass. The chrysanthemums are also beautiful flowers but have ceased to be profitable, so will soon be dropped from the list.

In the spring of 1936, Mr. Slack bought out his brother's interest and since then has continued to expand. President until recently, he is now a director of the company and consultant. His only son, Irving, is president and Robert Flood the vice-president.

Mr. Slack is a remarkable and distinguished man. Still endowed with good health, a keen mind and great interest in all civic affairs, he seems younger than his years. His hobbies are playing bridge and at one time trout fishing. He is a lover of travel. Mr. and Mrs. Slack have travelled to many countries, having visited Australia four times within 10 years.

On the first voyage the youngest daughter, Janet, fell in love with an Australian, Geoffrey Sale, whom she married and settled with in Queensland, Australia. Three children have been born to this couple. Irving married Margaret Buzzell, of Abbotsford, and has four children. Margaret, the elder daughter, married Doug Schofield and lives in Baie d'Urfe and has two children.

One could not close this topic without mentioning the active part Mr. Slack has always taken in every public enterprise. The spacious gymnasium in the new High School was donated by this citizen. The Anglican Church has had many occasions to see further proof of his generosity. Waterloo has benefited by having Charles Slack as a native son.

When asked by my sons what I thought was the secret of Mr. Slack's success, my answer was: "Hard work, perseverance and brains—not forgetting the choice of a charming lady for a wife."

MAPLE HILL —

Among those who enjoyed a day at Ormstown Fair were: Messrs. Murray, Edgar, Andrew, Donald and Archie Nugent and Mr. Lawrence Allan.

Mr. Lyle Cruickshank, who is employed by the Bell Asbestos Mine, Theftford Mines, spent the weekend with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Oliver were in Groveton, N.H., a guest of their nephew at graduation ceremonies. While they were away, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Kinghorn took over the duties at the farm.

RANDBORO — The W.A. met with a good number of workers who turned out to clean the church and basement. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Porter entertained at the noon hour, and served dinner to 36 members and friends.

A business meeting was held at the same home during the afternoon and plans were made for the coming strawberry supper.

Mrs. Raymond Berwick was presented with a beautiful lamp from the W.A. prior to her leaving with her family to join Mr. Berwick in Ontario, where he has employment.

The W.A. now has 14 paid-up members as well as a number of active workers. The dinner proceeds were $7.75.

Price tags may mislead
Don't be fooled by phony "bargains". They may be discontinued lines. This means service and repairs may be costly, difficult, even impossible.

With Frigidaire products—dependability of construction and service is doubly assured. Every Frigidaire product is backed by two great names—Frigidaire and General Motors.

Get a complete demonstration
What size of refrigerator do you need? What features do you want? Your Frigidaire Dealer will be happy to show you all the models, and the many exclusive Frigidaire features.

No frost ever
You'll really appreciate frost-proof freezing. No frost is formed at all. That means you don't have the messy time-taking job of defrosting to do. You'll never again have to tug at snowed-over food packages—chip away at frozen-in ice trays.

Ice Cubes—Instantly
You can now get ice cubes without struggling. Just take an ice cube tray, place it in the Flip-Quick Ejector, flip the lever, and out drop the cubes, into the Instant Ice Server. The cubes won't stick together. You can open the freezer door any time and take out a handful.

Keep vegetables crisp
The exclusive giant "picture window" hydrator keeps fruit and vegetables crisp and fresh—and you can see them at a glance!

No more stooping
Just tap your toe on a floor level pedal to open the door to that wonderful frozen storehouse of your very own.

No searching—no reaching
You have a choice of Frigidaire interior features designed with your convenience in mind. Exclusive Roll-to-You shelves and freezer baskets bring food to you at a finger's touch. Door shelves are spacious. And in one extra deep shelf, you can even store 1/2 gallon containers without squeezing. There are individual slide-out storage drawers for fresh eggs—a porcelain enamel hydrator (as well as the "picture window" hydrator) and a Meat Tender that practically hands you the meat and cold cuts.

Looks are important
You'll love the new Lacework Styling of the '59 Frigidaire. Panels of delicate filigree design have been added to all the new Frigidaire refrigerators. We're very proud of this design, and no wonder! Frigidaire "Sheer Look" appliances have been acclaimed among the best-designed products of modern times!

AL BALDING TOP MAN FOR A DAY

Al Balding, the lanky pro from Ontario, was "King For A Day" and no matter what happens today and tomorrow they can't take that away from him. On his second round yesterday he blew to a 75 for a 141 total, six strokes away from the pace-setter.

It sounds kind of funny to say he blew to a 75 but in a field such as the Open that is just what it means. It is only three under par but with the rest of hot shot make, that is high. Bruce Crampton, a 23-year-old Sydney, Australia, golfer moved into the lead with a neat five-under 67 for a two-day total of 135.

He holds a one-stroke lead over a trio of American regulars, Art Wall, Dow Finsterwald and Bob Rosburg and anyone of this threesome could pull into the lead. The field is well bunched with several good players close to the leader.

The rain on the opening day dampened a lot of golfers and bothered them but it looks as though the good players emerged with the low scores. It is a shame that Balding took a 75 yesterday and although he is only six strokes away we doubt if he can overtake the big boys.

It is still anyone's guess who will win the tourney as so many are within striking distance of the leader and one bad hole at this stage will be disastrous. Stan Leonard made a comeback with a 68 but his opening round of 73 hurt him and it will be hard work today and tomorrow for him.

It looks as though it will be a battle right to the wire and no one will make a runaway of the event. Big George Bayer ran into trouble on the back nine and finished with a 72 for a 139 total.

Anyone of the ten or so could pull through with a sizzling round and take the lead and from glancing over the list they are quite capable of doing just that. If the weather holds up we think some more par-busting will be done.

They say that Alex Olmedo is the greatest amateur tennis player in the world, but he also is one of the laziest, according to an article in this week's issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

While his 1958 Davis Cup sets were pure genius, this lazy Latin, who makes his home in Southern California, needs constant goading to win. The twenty-three year old has a difficult job on getting his mind on the game when he's out on the court.

But he must have plenty of talent since professional promoter Jack Kramer is going to offer him a $150,000 contract next year. He must have something to merit such an offer.

The Eastern Townships Junior Tennis tournament will run from July 13 to the 19th. The Sherbrooke Tennis Association sponsors this annual event each year and it draws a good field from all over.

The City Tournament opens Thursday and entries can be made now at J. N. Boisvert's on King St. West. The organizers are going to run the tourney in two sections this year which is something new. When the semi-finals are reached a new draw will be made. In this manner everybody will get a chance at meeting each other. It should help to make it a better event.

Finally after dumping all kinds of tagged fish into our lakes one fisherman came up with a prize catch when he landed a tagged rainbow trout worth $100. Ananda Meunier of Magog landed it this week. So boys don't give up hopes there are still lots more left in the water.

We think it was the first big one to be caught and it cost Dow Brewery one hundred greenbacks. So keep casting boys and maybe you will land a rich prize.

See where Joe Malone, Dit Clapper and Fred "Cyclone" Taylor are to be honored at the Hockey Day Luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition on Saturday Sept. 5th as guests of the C.N.E. and the National Hockey League. General John Reed Kilpatrick, president of the New York Rangers, will be the guest speaker.

There will be quite a list of former greats from all over the country. The list looks like an All-Star lineup and there should be plenty of hockey discussed that day. There should be plenty of great teams picked then comprised of past greats. Anyway it should be a great day for one and all.

The rain and cold weather for the past week certainly wrecked the sports world more ways than one. Golf and tennis were sidelined for the past five days.

The Asbestos Golf Club is holding their annual field day tomorrow and with a break from the "Weather Man" a good field should be on hand for the event while next Saturday the scene moves to Dufferin Heights Club to complete the month of June.

Baseball's third major league moved a step closer to reality this week with the announcement revealing the names of three groups who will put up the money for the New York Club. The new loop is expected to announce the basic cities with the applicants from coast to coast next month.

Toronto is well up on the list and is the only Canadian city to be named, the rest are all American places which is logical. Bill Shea, chairman of Mayor Wagner's Baseball Committee, reveals that a nucleus of cities already has been admitted for all practical purposes and that within a short time they will make their own announcements. So it looks as though the third Major League is just around the corner.

Ladies Of Horse Racing With Three Champions From Last Season Have Been Installed As Today's Favorites

The emphasis will be on the ladies of horse racing today with three champions from last season attempting to add to their laurels and the bank accounts of their owners.

Reginald N. Webster's Quill, the top 2-year-old filly of 1958, is the odds-on favorite in the $75,000-added Coaching Club American Oaks for 3-year-old fillies at Belmont Park.

J. Graham Brown's Bornstar, champion 1958 race mare, heads a field of 14 of her sex in the $50,000-added Beverly Handicap at Washington Park. She won the 1958 Beverly.

Adding to the feminine atmosphere of the day's program is the appearance of C. V. Whitney's Bug Brush, starting toweight under 123 pounds in the $50,000-added Ingelwood Handicap at Hollywood Park. The 4-year-old miss will meet eight horses of the rival sex in the Ingelwood, but has beaten them before.

Quill easily won the Acorn and Mother Goose Stakes in recent weeks at Belmont, and is a probable 1-2 choice over 10 rivals in the mile and one quarter Coaching Club Oaks.

Her chief rivals appear to be the Happy Hill Farm's Czarina, and the King Ranch's Resaca. Bornstar won her only race this year June 3, and was

Al Kaline Is OK To Join Tigers Today

BALTIMORE (AP) — Detroit outfielder Al Kaline, felled by a wild throw in Thursday's Tigers-Orioles game, was discharged from hospital Friday and had a good chance of rejoining Tigers in Washington Friday night or today.

"He's feeling pretty good," said Kaline's father, Nicholas H. Kaline, at the family home in Baltimore.

Bruce Crampton Fires Five-Under 67 For 135 Total For One-Stroke Lead Over Trio Of American Regulars

ISLESMERE GOLF CLUB, Montreal — (CP) — Bruce Crampton, 23-year-old Sydney, Australia, golfer grabbed the lead Friday in the second round of the Canadian Open golf championship with a five-under-par 67 that gave him a two-day total of 135.

The curly-haired Australian, son of a Sydney policeman, blasted off his 67 Friday to take a one-stroke lead over a trio of American regulars on the pro golf tour.

Tied at 136 at the halfway mark in the $25,000 open here Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., Dow Finsterwald of Tesquesta, Fla., and Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif.

Al Balding of Markham, Ont., leader Thursday with 66, took a 75 to drop well back.

Crampton shot nines of 33-34 against Islesmere's 36-36 par in following up Thursday's 68.

Playing a sound game all the way, with three birdies on the front nine and two coming home, Crampton sprung a surprise on the galleries.

With a three-way tie for the lead created earlier, it appeared for a while that only big George Bayer of Dallas, Texas, had a chance to catch up.

Bayer did all right until he struck the back nine, where he went over par at four holes and finished with 72 for a two-round total of 139.

Two strokes away from Crampton at 137 were Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., and Doug Ford of Paradise, Fla. Hebert shot a 68 and Ford a 69.

Walker Innan of the Eglin Air Force Base in Florida fired the best round of the day, a 66 that gave him a 138 total. With him at that figure were Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Texas, and Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill.

There was plenty of sunshine Friday after Thursday's steady rain and the young Australian welcomed it.

He joined the current tour after the Masters tournament in April and has won little more than $1,000 in prize money. He is known as a long hitter and plans to stay on the tour now until September. Then he will return to Australia.

Eveana And Gratton Prince Clash In Main Class Tomorrow Afternoon As Card Is Moved Forward, Post Time 2.00

Gratton Prince, with Herve Filion doing the driving, has been installed as the favorite in Sunday afternoon's main event at the local track. The Sunday card has been moved to the afternoon while the one slated for Saturday will be held in the evening.

This change has been brought about at the request of the authorities in charge of preparations for the coming religious celebration next week which opens tomorrow evening. In fact next Sunday's card will also be presented in the afternoon.

The Filion entry will face tough opposition as A. Gravel's Eveana should be a tough one following his recent victories and is rated as one of the favorites. Coatcook Directly, Reyno Worthy, Gettysburg, Sir Tony and Mariette Ibafe are the others. Only seven horses will answer the starters call but it should be a close one the whole way.

Fabi's Poplar Dream faces a tough field in the "C" and "D" Pace event which will be held in the third and seventh races. Texas Blue, Bert Eblis, Little Royal, Truly Volo, Joan Mite, Volie Belle and Bedards Maurice Hanover will give the young colt plenty to worry about.

Tonight's big class will be the "C" Trot with the fast-stepping Lafayette heading the list. The Turcotte stable will be starting another good performer in De-fiance. Both these horses are well known in the Montreal racing circles and they can be counted on to give their opponents a real battle.

The old Yankees are back in business, aided by a newcomer who was a long time coming. Hank Bauer and Yogi Berra, two fellows you think of at mention of New York's champions, had the clutch hits Friday night as the Yankees, still fifth, closed to within 2½ games of the top with a 3-2 victory over Cleveland Indians, leaders in the American League.

But it was Jim Coates, a right-hander who spent seven years in the minors, who put it away. The big 26-year-old rookie nailed the opener of a four-game series with one-hit pitching for 3 1/3 shutout innings in relief of injured Whitey Ford.

Coates came on after Ford, who blanked the Indians on four hits for four innings, gave way because of a sprained ankle in a tying, two-run sixth.

That rally ended with Minnie Minoso's thwarted theft of home and the Indians lost their second in a row after winning seven straight. They now have only a one-game lead over Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles, who are in a virtual tie for second.

The white Sox, left idle by rain at Boston, have a .001 percentage point edge over the Orioles, who swept a twilight pair from Kansas City Athletics 8-2 and 2-0. Detroit Tigers retained fourth place, 1½ games shy of first, by beating Washington Senators 6-4 in 13 innings.

The Yankees, only .042 points behind Cleveland, scored the clincher with an unearned run on Bauer's two-out single in the sixth. Bobby Richardson raced home with the run that put them two games over .500 for the first time since April 23 after leading off with an infield single and reaching second on shortstop Woody Held's second error of the year.

BERRA PLATES RUN
Berra, whose tag on Minso in a close play set off a ruckus between the Indians and umpire Charley Berry, hit a two-out single for the first of two runs in the fifth. Loser Gary Bell (6-6), after blanking the Yankees on one hit for four frames, wild pitched the other run home. Ford was injured sliding as he was forced at second in that inning.

Coates (2-0) gave up only a leadoff single by George Strickland in the ninth.

The Orioles, winning four straight for the first time in more than a month, put away the sweep on a joint shutout by Skinny Brown (4-2) and Billy Loes backed by Gus Triandos's 17th homer — the 100th of his career — and Bob Boyd's single.

Gene Woodling and Billy Gardner each homered and drove in three runs for Baltimore in the opener. Billy O'Dell (3-6), won it, allowing only four hits, one Jerry Lumpe's first home run. Johnny Kucks (1-4) and Rip Coleman (2-5) were the losers for the Athletics.

The Tigers came from three runs back, tying it 4-4 in the ninth and breaking it up with a pair in the 13th on an error, singles by Cool Veal and Eddie Yost and Larry Osborne's sacrifice fly. Barney Schultz won it with three innings of hitless relief.

The Senators, blanked over the last eight innings by starter Paul Foytack and Schultz, scored three runs in the first on Faye Throneberry's solo homer and Harmon Killebrew's two-run homer. It was Killebrew's 24th, tops in the majors and even with Babe Ruth's pace of 1927 when he hit a record 60.

LITTLE LEAGUE LOOP

—By TED ANDERSON—

Saturday's opening ceremonies was perhaps the most colorful held since the formation of Little League. It is very encouraging to notice how many city dignitaries attended this event. It goes to show how Little League interests the public, and that many eyes are watching how we, who hold the reins in Little League, teach the youngsters field etiquette and other methods of friendly competition.

A vast improvement is noticeable in the conduct of players and coaches in the games played lately. This is good for all concerned and you, managers and coaches, know that every baseball fan knows when a team is well coached. Keep up the good work fellows and you are bound to get results.

It looks as if the Yankees are going to make things tougher for the opposition. They are a vastly improved team judging from their performance in the last two games. Coach Al Hunting has his team pepped up for each game and once he gets his infield to tighten up, when men are on bases, they won't have so many runs scored against them. Notice that Al is giving all his roster a chance to show their ability on the field.

Can the Red Sox keep it up? We think they can. Al Savage is a great believer in giving every man a chance and it is beginning to show results. His boys shutout the White Sox Wednesday which was quite an accomplishment. It's been quite a while since Charlie Clark's aggregation have been kept off the score sheet.

It looks as if the Tigers are not so fierce after all. No team has left more men on bases in games so far. Perhaps, Bernie, a change in your batting order would brighten up things.

See where our congenial secretary, Art Lockey has returned from his latest fishing trip. There can't be many fish left where Art has been fishing. Maybe we will see him at the Parade Grounds once in a while now. Sorry to hear that Umpire-in-Chief Bill Webb has been under the weather. Hope you are around soon Bill.

There was quite a turnout of the league executive at Lennoxville the other night. This shows the interest of all concerned. In passing a word to the Yankee management. Your score
