Mars pocked, with ragged cap

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner VI televised Wednesday night a grab-bag of wonders of the wild Martian landscape—craters in greater size and abundance than shown before, dark lines reminiscent of canals, light streaks not explained, possible mountain ranges, drifting clouds.

The 17 pictures snapped as the spacecraft headed for a 2,130-mile-high fly-by of the mystery planet Thursday were less clear than simulated scenes from earth telescope pictures, but showed many details not visible from earth.

The abundance of craters seemed to indicate that the Martian surface is much like that of the moon: many large craters, pocked with many smaller ones.

Dr. Robert Leighton, California Institute of Technology astronomer who commented on the photos as they were televised at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, said:

"The pictures tonight showed many details never seen before. I think the most exciting thing is the possibility of craters on the edge of the south polar cap."

SHOW CRATERS

This cap, the most prominent feature in 33 pictures televised Tuesday night and also in Wednesday night's batch, had an unexpectedly ragged edge. The latest pictures indicated the raggedness was due to many large, circular craters.

Another scientist, Bruce Murray, a professor of planetary sciences, said he was impressed because large dark areas "seem to have circular, almost craterlike boundaries."

Mariner IV, flying by in 1965, televised scenes of a lunar-like landscape but was so close—6,800 miles—its camera could not cover enough area to show craters that might be hundreds of miles wide.

Mariner VI's 24 fly-by pictures sent across 58,000,000 miles of space will be stored on tape and played back tonight, but not televised. Scientists will make selected prints available Friday.

Just before Wednesday night's pictures came through, signals from Mariner VII went silent for reasons unknown. Experts hoped to get it going before it passes Mars five days after No. VI.

The second batch of shots was taken between 473,000 and 111,000 miles.

FEATURES CHANGING

They showed the egg-shaped image—part of the planet in shadow—glowing dully against a black background, with features changing as it rotated.

NEWS IN BRIEF

US man attacked

TOKYO (Reuters) — A man brandishing a knife charged at United States State Secretary William P. Rogers and U.S. Ambassador Armin H. Meyer today and knocked the ambassador to the ground.

Police and U.S. embassy officials said they could not guess which man was the target. Nobody was injured.

The incident took place while Meyer was seeing off Rogers and two other U.S. cabinet ministers who flew to Seoul, South Korea, after three days of talks here.

No wheat war

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Agriculture department officials said Wednesday the United States has no intention of engaging in a wheat price war with Common Market countries.

The officials said they did not think the fact that the U.S. is keeping its prices competitive means that the country is conducting a price war.

The comment came as West German Agriculture Minister Hermann Hoehner said in Bonn that Washington was starting what threatens to develop into a full-scale wheat price war.

On July 18, the U.S. cut its prices on wheat sales to European markets about 18 cents under the minimum set by the International Grains Arrangement.

Health study

OTTAWA (CP) — A national health manpower conference, the first of its kind to be held in Canada, will take place in Ottawa beginning Oct. 7, the federal health department announced Wednesday.

The four-day meeting will include representatives of federal and provincial governments, professional health disciplines and universities.

The announcement quoted Health Minister John Munro as saying health personnel must be distributed so that "all of our population has effective access to the health personnel they require, without any section of the population or any region of the country suffering in relation to more prosperous groups or areas."

"Therefore, we hope that this conference will aid in the attainment of the goal of equality in health care for all Canadians."

Expos and fair boost Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — With a strong boost from Montreal's baseball Expos and a fresher Man and His World exhibition, the city's tourist and convention business is pulling itself out of a dismal 1968 slump.

Cab drivers, hotel owners and tourist bureau managers agree that 1969 is no bonanza year for the tourist trade. But the influx of American visitors brings back memories of the hustling Expo 67 summer.

"The Americans flocked to Montreal in 1967," said one cabbie, "because they were very interested in seeing the World's Fair."

"But in 1968, they decided to go somewhere else. This year they've come back."

They're flocking to Jarry Park, home park of the Montreal Expos of the National League.

The United States vacationers also are drawn to Man and His World, where new and improved pavilions and attractions have been set up in the second summer of the continuing exhibition.

TOURISTS 'WAY UP'

A fair spokesman said that occasional checks of car licences at Victoria Autopark shows the number of American tourists to be "way up" over the same period last year.

More American currency also has been circulated on the fair site.

Attendance at this year's version of the exhibition, which will run two months less than in 1968, is 3,265,000 for 1½ months.

Total attendance for the five-month period last year was 12,500,000.

Frank Bloodsworth, general manager of the Montreal Convention and Visitors Bureau, said the city was "back in the big league" in conventions.

"Between January and June, 1969, there were 105 conventions in Montreal compared with 84 for the same period last year," he said.

Ten of these conventions brought in an average of 2,800 delegates each.

Hotels also are feeling the press of tourists. A spokesman for the Queen Elizabeth Hotel said June "was the best month we've had since Expo 67."

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

It was operating at between 90 and 95 per cent capacity, and the prospects for August seemed equally bright.

Paul Jolicoeur, president of the Montreal Hotel Association, said the city is popular with "impulse tourists"—those living about 200 miles away who suddenly decide to make a weekend trip.

More than 300 groups—each comprising a family of four or five—turn up daily at two offices of the Montreal Tourist Bureau, according to bureau Director Lucien Bergeron.

"They ask questions about hotel and motel accommodations, camping facilities, restaurants, nightclubs and guided tours. "It seems as if the tourist dollar is being spread around."

FLOODED WITH MAIL — Executive secretary Mary Frackleton arranges mail and telegrams on office desk of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in Boston, from persons answering his pleas both pro and con for help in deciding whether to remain in office. Kennedy announced yesterday he would remain in the Senate and run for re-election next year when his current term expires.

NFU says farmers' force matchless

WINNIPEG (CP) — "No force in our society can match the power possessed collectively by farmers," says a draft statement of policy which will be debated today by delegates attending the National Farmers Union founding convention here.

It also says: "Farmers must organize and bargain collectively as farmers to bring about the degree of discipline and organization necessary to make them an effective countervailing force in our society."

Draft demands include federal legislation guaranteeing farmers collective bargaining rights in the marketing of farm products, and legislation permitting the formation of producer-controlled national marketing boards.

Another point of high concern is the "corporate industrial entry" into the primary production of food—"the ability to produce foodstuffs in mass quantity is increasingly resulting in the encroachment into the production area by corporate structures possessing market control."

Holding government to heavy responsibility, the draft says "farmers must exert every legitimate means of assisting our legislators in providing legislation that can assure farmers of equity and the survival of a flourishing rural community in Canada."

Wheat farmers to get cash

OTTAWA (CP) — Cash advances for the hard-hit Prairie wheat farmer, promised by Prime Minister Trudeau during his recent visit to the West, were formally announced by Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin Wednesday.

He said the payments could total more than $300,000,000 in the new crop year which begins Friday. They totalled about $150,000,000 in the crop year just expiring.

Under changes made in the Prairie Grain Advance Payment Act last November, each farmer is entitled to advance payments for his unsold wheat at a rate of six bushels per seeded acre up to a maximum of $6,000. Previously, said a trade department spokesman, the quota was three bushels per acre with a maximum of $3,000.

During his western visit, Mr. Trudeau said that "we've got to find ways of putting cash into your hands."

But Nelson Malm, president of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, said Wednesday that Mr. Pepin's announcement

Unlike the new NFU constitution, which was passed Wednesday with the understanding it could be discussed but not amended, the draft policy statement will be open to revision, deletion or addition.

Adoption of a policy statement will be followed by the election of a national president of a new, direct-membership body drawn from the farm unions of seven of 10 provinces.

The choice will be between Roy Atkinson of Saskatoon, who headed the loosely-knit affiliation that was the NFU of the past, and Walter Miller of Tara, Ont., president of the Ontario Farmers' Union.

Names of both men were put forward by the convention nominating committee. There were no nominations from the floor.

Present exceptions from the hoped-for coast-to-coast solidarity are Quebec, Newfoundland and Alberta. Alberta will make its decision in December, holding off action pending further study and there were assurances that the way is open for Quebec's integration if and when it shows interest.

ASSEMBLY TOPS

In opening the two-day convention, Mr. Atkinson described it as "beyond question the largest assembly of farmers that has taken place in the history of this nation."

There are 844 delegates and nearly as many non-voting guests and observers.

Greatest delegate strength is from Saskatchewan with 381, followed by Ontario with 227, Manitoba 108, Alberta 75, Maritime 28 and British Columbia 25.

Almost without exception Wednesday at The Highlander, the curling-rink convention scene, was a day of unanimity and ovations for farm union stalwarts such as Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Miller.

Out of presidential race? Kennedy to stay in Senate

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Senator Edward M. Kennedy, having apparently ruled himself out of the 1972 presidential race, returns to the Senate today for the first time since his auto mishap in which a secretary was killed.

Aides said the 37-year-old majority whip would be in his office in the Senate today—a crucial day since a showdown vote is expected on President Nixon's controversial proposal to extend the 10-per-cent income tax surcharge.

Kennedy announced Wednesday that he would remain in the Senate and run for re-election next year when his current term expires. He also said that he would serve out his entire six-year term if re-elected—an indication that he would forgo a bid for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

The Massachusetts senator's decision came as no surprise.

After the car crash in which 28-year-old Mary Jo Kopechne was drowned, Kennedy asked for the aid and prayers of his constituents to help him decide his political future.

DENIES SPECULATION

In his dramatic televised appeal Friday, Kennedy admitted his failure to report the accident immediately to police was indefensible—but denied speculation that he was under the influence of alcohol or that he had immoral relations with Miss Kopechne.

Thousands of messages of support and encouragement poured in for Kennedy even though some persons and many newspapers noted that his story did not answer all the questions raised by the accident.

Kennedy's Senate colleagues reacted joyfully to the news that the party's most successful fund-raiser had decided to stay in politics.

"Wonderful! Wonderful!" exclaimed Senator Daniel Inoye

(Dem. Hawaii), chairman of the Democratic senate campaign committee which helps Senate candidates.

Senator Edmund S. Muskie, considered a top contender for the next presidential nomination and vice-presidential candidate in 1968, said he was "delighted" at the news but added that he was "most surprised."

Speaking in Chicago, the Maine Democrat said "there is undoubtedly a connection with his difficulty and my own political future, but I don't want to speculate on that now."

WILL TAKE TIME

Muskie added: "The key to the future lies in his traumatic experience. It's going to take time to shake away what it's done to his spirit, his attitude and his own view of his political future."

Kennedy arrived quietly back in Washington Wednesday night after spending the last two weeks in seclusion at the Kennedy family summer home on Cape Cod.

His wife, Joan, expecting their fourth child early in 1970, stayed behind with the children in Massachusetts. An aide said this was not unusual since Mrs. Kennedy normally spends the summer months there.

Kennedy's statement about staying in politics, issued from his Boston office, said:

"Senator Edward M. Kennedy is returning to Washington to resume his duties as U.S. senator and assistant majority leader.

"He is grateful to the people of Massachusetts for their expressions of confidence and expects to submit his record to them as a candidate for re-election in 1970.

"If re-elected he will serve out his entire six-year term."

BOOT HILL! — A grave reminder of the perils of the road met employees of Eaton Automotive Canada Ltd., as they left the London, Ont., plant for annual two-week vacation shutdown.

Bob McPherson puts the finishing touches on the display, part of a company-union policy of accident prevention both at and away from the plant.

diamond ruff in dummy. West would still make his jack of trumps but he would ruff his partner's good spade with it.

Of course, there was some risk to this line of play. West, given only a few clubs, together with three trumps to the jack, might overruff a club to set an otherwise lay-down contract. Furthermore, the hand still could have been beaten if East had just led a trump instead of a club when he got in with the diamond. South would never be able to score his three small trumps.

BOB THOMAS The movie column

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I made 50 motion pictures in my day," says Jack Haley, "but the one that everyone remembers is The Wizard of Oz."

Naturally because of the repeated showings on television, a whole new generation of youngsters knows the Tin Woodman even though they aren't familiar with the career of Jack Haley.

Those over 40 would be. Through the 1930s and into the 1940s Haley starred in a succession of musicals and comedies. His favorite: Wake Up and Live, in which he sang in his bland style Never in a Million Years.

Jack Haley is making his first movie in 25 years, and it's a sentimental return. The film is Norwood and the director is Jack Haley Jr., making his feature debut after a distinguished career in television.

Explained Haley Sr.: "He asked me to do the picture and because I love him, I obeyed. After all, he obeyed me during those years when he was growing up."

"I still can't get over it. I've worked with 46 different directors in 50 films. Then to come on a set and see a million dollars worth of equipment and a crew of 90 people, and my son is in charge of all this!"

"To realize that my own son has such a responsibility was a strange feeling. I wondered if he was capable of handling it. Then after I saw him work, I realized that he was. How did he get that way? Nine years of making documentaries for David Wolper, when millions of feet of film went through his hands."

The elder Haley is playing a brief role as a farm owner in Norwood, which stars Glen Campbell and Kim Darby. It's doubtful if Haley will resume his acting career, since he is one retired performer who is reputed to be wealthy. He made his money in real estate.

Artificial Sweeteners Contain No Calories

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—Is the laxative effect of cyclamate dangerous? Are cyclamates beneficial to diabetics and, if so, in what way?

A—The laxative effect is mild and can easily be controlled by gradually reducing your intake of vegetables and fruit. Artificial sweeteners in general have their greatest usefulness in the treatment of diabetics because their caloric intake is restricted and the sweeteners contain no calories.

Q—I have just joined TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly). One of the members said that the cyclamate in diet foods will eventually cause brain damage. Do you agree?

A—Cyclamate in moderation has been found to be perfectly safe. Try not to get more of it than 3.5 grams a day. It will not cause brain damage.

Q—Pure honey is said to be good for quick energy. How would it affect a person with borderline diabetes?

A—The sugar in honey does supply energy quickly. Since any kind of diabetic should be on a measured amount of carbohydrate, protein and fat, he should count the honey as pure carbohydrate and balance the amount eaten against the rest of his prescribed diet.

Q—Could a boy with a coloboma of the left eye be drafted?

A—A coloboma is a congenital defect of the iris. This boy would be acceptable in the armed forces if his vision, which is not dependent on the iris, meets the minimum standard.

Q—An eye doctor says my father, 72, has a macular edema. What caused it and what is the best treatment for it?

A—This swelling of the retina at its central point may be caused by nephritis, brain tumor, inflammation of the optic nerve or lead poisoning. The treatment must be directed at the cause.

Q—What is meant by macular degeneration? What causes it? Does it lead to blindness?

A—Degeneration of the point of central vision may occur as a result of an injury to the eye or as a part of growing old. It occurs in some persons at a relatively early age (late 40s or early 50s). It causes a loss of central vision and there is no effective treatment.

"The defendant will continue to be punished far beyond anything this court could impose." Martha's Vineyard Judge James A. Boyle seemed to echo inside Washington opinion in closing the legal, but not the political, phase of Sen. Edward Kennedy's auto tragedy.

The unanswered questions: What actually happened during the hours following the accident? What will be the long-term effects on Kennedy's future?

Sometime around midnight Edward Kennedy's car with Mary Jo Kopechne as a passenger plunged off the narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island (1). Kennedy, uncertain how he escaped from the car, unsuccessfully sought to free Miss Kopechne before returning to the Chappaquiddick cottage (2), from where he returned to Edgartown. Ferry attendants say he did not use the ferry. The following morning, two young fishermen spotted the half-submerged car (3). Kennedy and two companions crossed by ferry from Edgartown to the Chappaquiddick dock (4) where a ferry attendant, about 9:45 a.m., asked if they had heard about the accident. Kennedy returned immediately to Edgartown and went to the police.

Suggestions outlined to Marchand

ETREC wants special zone to improve conditions

The Eastern Townships Regional Economic Council has outlined several suggestions to the Federal Government which will certainly strengthen the economy of this area if they are accepted.

The council recommends the designation of special zones where job opportunities are scarce and specialized training would improve economic conditions.

In consultation with Quebec and Federal organizations, they would initiate programs of development for these areas.

Agreements would be made in the province to join together their plans and programs of development. A federal grant would be requested to finance these plans.

Regional economic powers and all other interested persons will be united in the proposed development scheme.

A detailed summary of natural and material resources, cultural and educational needs and all other aspects of regional economic life will be made.

The Council will represent the region before the government and, as an organization, exercise authority in the area.

Sherbrooke City Council adopted a resolution suggesting that a request be made to Jean Marchand, Minister of Regional and Economic Expansion, and Paul Gervais, Sherbrooke MP. It asked that the Sherbrooke area be included in the classification of regions which receive a maximum of industrial grants under the new legislation.

It was proposed by Marcel Savard and seconded by Germain Rivard that a formal request be made to Jean Marchand. The request suggested that Region No. 5 of the Ministry of Industry and Commerce, which is under the jurisdiction of the Eastern Townships Regional Economic Council, be designated a special zone and receive Government aid. Region No. 5 consists of Compton, Stanstead, Wolfe, Sherbrooke, Richmond, Megantic and Frontenac Counties.

It was requested that this region be given all the privileges attached to such a delegation as stipulated in the newly established Department of Regional Economic Expansion Act.

The council intends to demonstrate its support for these requests here in Sherbrooke.

Sher-Wood will sue city for fire damages

The Sher-Wood Drolet Corp. Ltd., whose hockey stick factory was completely destroyed by fire last July 17, has indicated it is filing a law suit against the City of Sherbrooke in the amount of $1,500,000.

The suit was signified to the court clerk yesterday by attorney J. Guy Blanchette, Q.C.

The Corporation filed its notice in compliance with the law of cities and municipalities, and now has a period of six months to take action.

Sher-Wood Drolet Corp. Ltd., is claiming negligence, and the incompetence of the city's employees in carrying out their functions on the night of the fire.

The company claims it lost $400,000 worth of merchandise ready for shipment, $300,000 worth of production machinery, $100,000 for the loss of the factories, valued the raw materials at $200,000 and at $500,000 the total production lost for the 1969-70 season.

The corporation was a renowned distributor across Canada, The United States, and Europe.

Deziel tells Mayor Nadeau one man show is over

East Ward Alderman Gerard Deziel voiced discontent yesterday over Mayor Nadeau's recent attitude concerning the way council voted in a measure creating the post of municipal manager.

According to the mayor, council stabbed him in the back when they unanimously voted in favor of hiring a city manager.

In a letter to the mayor yesterday, Mr. Deziel reviewed the events that led to the decision council had taken on July 21.

Mr. Deziel said that in the first instance, during a meeting at the mayor's cottage recently, it had been agreed to by the participants that they owed it to the city to create a post of band leader, whether he be called administrative director, executive secretary, municipal manager, or whatever Mr. Deziel said.

At the next assembly, Mr. Deziel said, the matter was brought up again, and after discussing it further, the mayor had suggested the matter be referred to a special meeting, obviously to study the seriousness of the suggestion, the alderman said.

Mr. Deziel continued that three days later, Mayor Nadeau had told a local newspaper he had found the solution in determining the function, with a special attachment for one candidate.

From there, the alderman explained, came the resolution to include the item on the agenda for July 21, which we received Friday prior to the meeting, to be studied, and normally seen and studied by the Mayor on Thursday," Mr. Deziel told the Record.

"Mayor Armand Nadeau was not present at the assembly July 21," the alderman said, "and believe me, every man is worthy of a vacation, but must we restrain progress, when in actuality occurrence, 10 men instead of 11 can take a stand."

Mr. Deziel said he believed he would not have been so certain had there been objections to the project, but the entire council rallied in favor of it.

The alderman reminded the mayor that the ethics of conscience had been perfectly respected, and deplored the latter's attitude of non-co-operation since then.

On the PETRUS circulation report, the East Ward alderman blamed the mayor for sour criticism, pointing out he was not present when Professor Pierre Latontaine and his students from the University of Sherbrooke met with council, to explain the report, and indicated his indignation about the mayor trying to contest the budget voted for the project.

Mr. Deziel, in his letter to the Mayor, indicated his disapproval of last Monday's gesture when Mr. Nadeau closed his office to the aldermen.

He warned the mayor he would have a proposition aimed at correcting this at the next meeting, pending the majority's approval.

"I do not understand this alternative, or the change in position in the last few days", the letter said, and I think it is cloudy if not stormy." "Why not rally", questioned the alderman's statement to the mayor," the era of the one man show is over, he concluded.

Lennoxville Credit Union will close because of new law

Because of regulations which exist in the province of Quebec, the Lennoxville Savings and Credit Union has been forced to surrender its charter and cease to operate.

Quebec Credit Union rules have changed and now stipulate that Credit Unions having less than 100 active members cannot be allowed to remain in operation. The Lennoxville Savings and Credit Union has 70 members, which only half are active.

Increased costs of inspection services, accounting services and coordinating of activities have been partly responsible for the change in regulations. The provincial government is prepared to enact legislation making Credit Unions function in the same way as Chartered Banks. Small Credit Unions do not have the staff or machinery to operate under such conditions.

Official notices of Audit will be sent to all members and the process of repayment will take place over the next six months.

Indirect taxation is pricey sugar-coating

The desire of the provincial premiers — and finance ministers — for constitutional changes permitting them to enter the field of indirect taxation is understandable but it also holds a threat for the poor taxpayers.

By transferring some of the present levies, such as the sales tax, from the retail to the wholesale or even manufacturing level, the provincial governments will be able to increase their tax bite without making the additional burden too obvious to the consumer and thus avoid much of the indignation now felt by the purchaser at the provincial authorities every time the amount of the sales tax is added to his bill.

Collecting the tax indirectly — through the wholesaler or manufacturer — serves to hide the levy and might divert the indignation of the individual to the retailer who will be blamed for the increased prices of the goods.

And a substantially higher tax rate might be required to produce the same volume of revenue.

Under the present system the provincial treasury receives the entire eight dollars of the tax levy paid by the purchaser on a $100 article. But if the tax were levied at the manufacturer's level, the government would receive only five to six dollars, or maybe less.

But the purchaser probably will pay the entire eight dollars as the original tax will be added to the manufacturer's selling cost when the wholesaler and retailer determine their write-ups which are usually determined on a percentage rather than on a unit basis. This system is now used in connection with the federal sales tax.

Thus, while the provincial government may have to boost the sales tax to 12 per cent to receive the same revenue, the indirect tax plan is politically popular because the consumer does not realize he is paying it.

There's a 90 per cent chance that the 10 per cent chance of rain predicted for tomorrow will fall on us.

Blacks do it alone

The average citizen, attentive with his own affairs and worries for the most part, only becomes aware of a burning issue when it glares before his moon struck eyes.

A case in point could well be directed to the Black Liberation movements gathering momentum in sectioned pockets of the United States.

The late Malcolm X preached that the Afro-American must begin his drive to equality not by reaching beyond, but by delving into his own soul. Thus, motivation was provided for a Black consciousness; the cultivation of a pride within the Black community and the assertion that black is beautiful and not to be likened to evil when contrasted with the color, white.

The Civil Rights movements were a stepping stone; a launching to be solidly supported by further legislation. Has this intention conscious or not of a decade ago, been carried out? Have any effective projects been laid out and executed in the face of unaffected, complacent individuals?

The Black community has taken it upon itself with the working knowledge that his white brothers will not aid him to work within his available means. That means the articulation of the Black vote, which essentially is a measure of power. That means the construction of voter registration centres where Black Americans will begin to vote, many of them for the first time. That means the execution of projects whereby the Black worker in Lowndes County, Alabama, will not have to toil for the sum of $943 per annum.

Equality does not mean assimilation into the white man's power structure; it must be interpreted as the availability and procurement of all essentials and commodities that has been irrevocably denied the Black American for the last 400 years.

"We have found you out," cries Stokely Carmichael. The Blacks are showing their counterparts that if issues and demands cannot be resolved within the political system or arena, they are not hesitating to grope around succeed about the periphery.

Economic depravity is psychological depravity, perhaps something relatively unknown to most of us who tend to look over the crisis with considerable apathy.

mour, Ethel Le Neve, marked the first time radio had been used for tracking down a criminal. Crippen was hanged in Pentonville Prison, London.

You are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid. (Matthew 5:14)
PRAYER: Dear Father, we thank Thee that Thou wilt forgive us for our sins and accept us as children of Thine. Guide us away from the kind of living Thou canst not approve and into the path of life that merits Thy commendation. "Well done". In the spirit of Christ we ask, Amen.

Romania wanders off from Soviet block

BUCHAREST (AP) — Romania is a Communist country that has blown a bit of fresh air into the muggy atmosphere of ideology that pervades much of East Europe.

While Romania may provide few lessons in Western-style democracy, it has emerged as a nation that looks far afield, not just to the Soviet Union, for ways to get things done.

The goods in Bucharest's largest department store and in a nearby supermarket testify to the country's independent political course.

You can buy Chinese powdered milk, Albanian cognac or Egyptian beer. You can keep them cool in a Yugoslav refrigerator, bought on instalments. For a rainy day you can select a Greek raincoat, or overcoats made locally from Austrian synthetics.

The bus home will be a British Leland made under licence in Israel. The taxi will be a Soviet-built Volga. The air fleet of Tarom, the national airline, uses new British BAC-111s.

You get an idea of life here in an outdoor restaurant on a warm Tuesday night. The time is 9:15 p.m. and the tinkling of glasses accents a murmur of conversation.

At a wrought-iron table under a chestnut tree sits Gheorghe Popescu with his wife and another woman. They are eating small sausages called mici and drinking plum brandy, the national drink.

LIVE MODESTLY

The terrace — like eating place has no printed menu. Its specialties are sausages and grilled meat. They are cheap and good and the place is typical of those Romanians frequent on an evening out. Eating, drinking and talking provide a favorite form of entertainment.

Popescu, a grey-haired man in his late 40s, is dressed in a neat grey suit. He is an engineer in a hydroelectric plant and Popescu is not his real name. Like other Romanians one meets casually, he likes to talk to Westerners but does not want his name to appear in newspapers abroad.

At the next table, three burly men in open-necked shirts discuss the amorous exploits of one of them. They are workers and like Popescu, they prefer an open-air restaurant to the indoors.

Romanians stay up late in the summer. Bucharest streets are still full of people at midnight.

The atmosphere suggests the Mediterranean and the visitor is reminded that the Romanians are not Slavs, like most other East Europeans, but Latins. They claim descent from the Roman legions and the Dacians, a people who had their own kingdom east of the Danube in pre-Roman times.

Some linguists say the Romanian language bears a close similarity to Vulgar Latin, the language spoken on the streets of ancient Rome.

INTERPRETATION EASY

Indeed, anyone who knows Italian and French can easily read Romanian newspapers. He has to go to the dictionary for words of Slavic and Turkish origin, the result of 400 years of Turkish rule and Slav neighbors.

The Latin influence and the hot summers set the pace of life even under communism. The working day starts at 7 a.m. and ends at 3:45 p.m. Monday through Friday. It stops at 12:45 p.m. on Saturday.

The first thing the typical Romanian does after work is to have a big lunch. There is a half-hour break in the working day but the average man usually only munches a sandwich.

The after-work lunch is followed by a Spanish-type siesta. Supper is eaten late.

People are more likely to be employed in industry than ever before. Industrialization is moving ahead fast and this has meant a population shift so that now more than a third of the 20,000,000 people live in cities. Bucharest, the capital, has 1,500,000.

In 1930, only four cities, Bucharest, Cluj, Jassy and Timisoara, had more than 100,000. In 1965, 15 cities passed that mark. A nong town was the oil centre of Ploesti, the town best known in the Second World War.

Romania entered the war in 1941 on the German side. British and American bombers flew almost daily raids against Ploesti in 1943-44. Many flyers were shot down — some lie buried in an Allied cemetery near Bucharest.

SWITCHED SIDES

When the Soviet army reached the Romanian borders in 1944, Romania switched sides. It became a Communist country in 1947, at first firmly integrated into the Soviet orbit.

In 1963, the Communist leadership decided to buck Moscow's efforts to make Romania a supplier of raw materials and agricultural goods to those Communist countries that were already industrialized, such as Czechoslovakia and East Germany.

Hand in hand with this decision went a more independent foreign policy. A speedup of industrialization followed. Official statistics register a 14-per-cent annual growth rate in industrial production for 1960-65.

Because of its natural resources, Romania is potentially rich. It has oil, gold, methane gas and a selection of ores.

The Bucharest leadership believes that to build a modern, industrial state it must have access to the best available technology and know-how. It buys much of it from the West, especially West Germany.

This is one of the reasons Romania is striving to have good relations with as many countries as possible.

Romania still has a long way to go to reach the living standard of Western Europe. But for a country where communism was preceded by a succession of corrupt governments and anti-feudalism, it has made giant strides.

FEAR GONE

Popescu the engineer no longer has to fear that the secret police will come knocking on the door because someone reported that he listens to Romanian-language broadcasts on the Voice of America.

There has been a steady improvement in the quality and selection of consumer goods, though they are still expensive.

The major department store, called Victoria, is clean and has been recently modernized. It is on the Calea Victoriei, once Bucharest's most fashionable street. Before the war it was known as the Galeries Lafayette and patronized by the snail, Francophile upper class.

Today it is geared to the mass consumer. It has introduced self-service and discounts end-of-the-line goods, like remainders of cloth, a popular item.

Other visible signs of Western influence are a Pepsi-Cola plant, a Renault car assembly factory and an Intercontinental Hotel, still under construction.

Popescu, as an engineer, can earn a maximum of 3,000 lei a month, double the national average. This Romanian currency is worth 5½ cents, or 18 to $1 U.S., at the tourist rate of exchange but this conversion has little meaning except to visitors.

In terms of purchasing power, the average salary does not go far. A man's suit made of an Israeli fabric costs 800-900 lei, a pair of good men's shoes 300-360. A television set is 3,500 to 5,100 lei, depending on the size of the screen and other features.

Many people use credit but the customer is not allowed to go into debt over his head. Usually, he can pay instalments on only one item at a time.

Popescu gets a break on rents. A three-room apartment in the centre of Bucharest costs 260 lei a month. Electricity and heating charges are marginal.

Medical services are free, except for prescriptions. Education is also free, including university.

As for income taxes, a man earning the average salary of 1,500 lei pays 12 per cent. The rate goes up to 15 to 20 per cent for those earning more than 2,000 lei.

But Popescu doesn't save for his old age. At 60 he gets a pension of 80 per cent of his salary. Women are eligible at 55.

A car is still a luxury. The Romanian-assembled Renault cost 55,000 lei and there is waiting time of up to two years. People who buy them are high wage earners who can put wives' salaries toward the car. Many Romanian women work to help the family budget.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Of course, the South Vietnamese have a lot gain' for them, too—look at MRS. Ky!"

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — Demonstrators on Parliament Hill called it the beginning of an era of "Liberal fascism." That is, it seems to me, an exaggeration — at least for the time being.

A more fitting term for the system of government the Prime Minister and his colleagues are moulding is "Trudeaucracy."

In other parts of the world this system is sometimes called "guided democracy."

The essence of it is autocratic rule with the trapping of self-government. Parliament is not abolished but its role is downgraded to that of a mere rubber stamp of the ruling clique or individual.

Elections continue to be held at regular intervals but they cease to be free expressions of the political will of the electorate.

An all-pervasive fear, which can be induced by intellectual terror without recourse to the crude methods of a police state, guarantees perpetuation of the autocratic setup in power.

In plain language, a more or less subtle dictatorship — depending on the sophistication of its practitioners and the social milieu in which they operate — sets up shop behind the facade of democratic institutions and constitutionality.

This, I am afraid, may be the prospect we are facing in the Government's decision to ram the Parliament-muzzling Rule 75-C through the Commons by closure.

Many people will no doubt feel and argue that this sort of thing is conceivable in some distant countries which never knew genuine democracy, but not in Canada.

Let's not kid ourselves. In this day and age of "scientific" manipulation, of conditioned Pavlovian reflexes, of unprincipled, cowardly self-deceptions and decadent abstractions, it can happen anywhere.

With the rape of Parliament it is, in fact, already happening here.

What's more, the process of transition from system of parliamentary democracy we have known in the past to what I call Trudeaucracy, though unnoticed by most people, has been going on for quite a while. It started the moment the bewitched Trudeaumanics gave their idol the power he was seeking when he selected the Liberal Party as his political tool.

For those who did not bother to read Pierre Elliott Trudeau's writing but did not succumb to blind adulation, the first glimpse of his autocratic tendencies came before last year's election when he told one of his press conferences that in his interpretation of our political system the Prime Minister "is the nearest thing to a dictator..."

This alone should have been a warning, but hardly anybody paid any attention, just as hardly anyone paid attention to his admiration for Machiavelli and "that superb strategist, Mao Tse-Tung."

Yet these were clear signs of the shape and direction his regime would take.

Once elected, the Prime Minister started implementing the dictatorial concept of his office, concentrating on downgrading the role and function of Parliament.

His regional desks, his rota system for Cabinet ministers, his transfer of the control of the purse to standing committees which he could easily control, soon fell into a pattern of snubbing and bypassing the Commons.

By last December Mr. Trudeau apparently thought that he had weakened the institution sufficiently to impose a permanent gag on it.

The Rule 16-A stratagem did not come off at that time.

The intention of the impatient autocrat was too clearly displayed and the country did not like what it saw. The suddenly alarmed public had to be put to sleep again.

Hence the six months pause before a new, more sophisticated and more confusing try.

Owning a dog and sharing playtime

The relationship between a dog and a child is a very special one. For children a dog is more than an animal — he is companion and friend. Owning a dog helps in teaching a child the importance of love, loyalty, and responsibility. It also affords a good opportunity of teaching the fundamentals of humane treatment for all animals, and an appreciation of nature's small creatures.

The preferred time to get a pet is when your child is old enough to assume some responsibility for feeding, grooming and training the dog. Young parents (especially fathers) sometimes get the urge to buy a dog while the baby is barely toddling. New mothers already have their hands full with tending the baby and keeping up with their household tasks, and if she is not really enchanted with the idea of a new dog, it's better not to push her into it; in fact, it's unfair to both her and the dog.

When your child has reached the age that you believe he can appreciate a dog and enjoy the responsibility it will bring, some care should be taken in selecting one that will fit your family's pattern of living.

If you live in an apartment, duplex or rented house, the wise procedure is to check the owner first to see if it is permissible to have a dog. Even if you own your own home, give some thought to the dog's activities and exercise. If your property is not fenced in, your dog may have to be tied up part of the time, and someone will have to take the responsibility for walking him. For his own safety, the dog should be kept on a leash and trained to obey commands. Ralston Purina Company at Clarkson, Ontario has excellent literature that's yours for the asking — "On Selecting the Right Dog for Your Home", helping the prospective dog owner to make that all-important decision before buying a dog. "How to Care for Your New Dog", giving many tips on feeding, housing and training.

RAILROAD TO TRAGEDY — Railway trains hold a particular fascination for young and old alike, but they can also bring a quick and tragic end to summer fun for the unwary. Canadian National Railways enlisted the aid of youngsters to illustrate some of the dangers of trespassing on railway property. They warn that a speeding train can cover the distance of a city block before you can count to five and a child playing on the tracks could be struck by a train before he sees or hears it.

Thalidomide babies awarded damages in British court

LONDON (AP) — Two deformed boys whose mothers took the sedative drug thalidomide during pregnancy were awarded damages totalling $80,640 Wednesday in a High Court ruling expected to set precedents for 58 other similar actions in Britain.

Judge Raymond Hinchcliffe awarded the pound sterling equivalent of $49,920 to an eight-year-old boy named David, who was born without arms or legs, and $30,720 to seven-year-old Richard, who has no arms. The judge asked that their full names not be published.

The judge set the awards under terms of an out-of-court agreement in February between parents of the British "thalidomide babies" and Distillers Co. (Biochemicals) Ltd., which made and marketed the drug under licence from a West German firm.

AGREE TO PAY

Under the agreement, allegations of negligence against the drug company were withdrawn. In return, Distillers agreed to pay 40 per cent of the amount they would have had to pay if the parents had won the court case.

Hinchcliffe also awarded $6,960 to Richard's mother for shock and suffering. Damages for David's parents will be assessed at a later hearing.

In announcing the awards, Hinchcliffe said he hoped they would serve as precedents for the other thalidomide actions in Britain awaiting settlement. He noted that he had never seen another case with as many imponderable factors.

Over 100 join pilgrimage to pioneer cemeteries

MILAN — This year's pilgrimage to the cemeteries of the Scottish pioneers in the area took place on Sunday afternoon, July 20, with everyone gathering at the Anglican Church in Canterbury, prior to leaving on the tour of their choice, everyone ending up at Stornoway for a basket picnic lunch at 5:30 p.m., followed by Divine Service outdoors.

Tour No. 1 was to Lingwick cemeteries, Tolsta and Stornoway. Tour No. 2 was to Stornoway, Dell, Gisla and Stornoway. Tour No. 3 was to Stornoway, Milan, Sand Hill, Whiston and Stornoway. Tour No. 4 was to Stornoway, Echo Vale, Marsboro Mills, Sand Hill and Stornoway. About 60 names were registered at Echo Vale cemetery, while a total of over 100 participated in the several tours.

An assembling on the cemetery grounds at Stornoway, Winslow, and after lunch, a Divine Service was conducted by the Rev. Donald J. Gillies in Gaelic and English. Mr. Gillies welcomed all in both languages. The 23rd Psalm and a portion of St. John's gospel and a prayer were in Gaelic, followed by the singing of

Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown in Gaelic by Albert W. Murray and Mrs. Harvey MacRae.

The choir from St. Andrew's, Sherbrooke, augmented by members of the choirs of the Megantic, Milan and Scotstown churches, led the singing for the English portion of the service, with Mr. Wright Gibson at the organ. The hymns sung were Unto the Hills, "O God of Bethel" and Guide Me, O Thou great Jehovah, while the choir rendered "The Covenanter's Hymn" while the free will offering was taken up.

The sermon, in English, was preached by the Rev. Mr. Gillies, who as a student minister, 40 years ago, had known many of the ones who lie buried in the several cemeteries visited. The meeting was closed with the benediction.

The public address system used during the service was kindly furnished by Mr. Cecil Dougherty of Lennoxville. Many of those present expressed the hope that other outdoor services would be held annually in the years ahead.

HORSEBACK RIDING — A growing recreation among the people of the Eastern Townships, is horseback riding. Young and old alike are participating. Many own their own horses and stable and many others share their friend's facilities or rent horses at many of the local riding schools. With the increase in the sport has come an interest in breeding of horses.

DO-IT-YOURSELF REHANDLE WITH CARE

It's a shame to give up a good hammer, ax or hatchet. Therefore, when the handle cracks or breaks, it's a natural thing to want to replace it, the metal head still being perfectly good.

It's a fine idea and one that should be pursued, but pursue it slowly and carefully. The reason a new hammer or ax fits so nicely, seems to feel just right, is that it is a planned balance of handle and head.

When you replace the handle, it is not something you can do lightly. That old tool is not going to be the same, nor perform the same, just because you put a new handle on the old head.

Try to find a handle that duplicates the original as closely as possible in weight and size. Examine the wood carefully and avoid crooked grain. Try to find one in which the edge grain goes from one end to the other. Flat grain should be on the sides. If the grain runs from one side of the handle to the other, toss it back and pick another.

Fitting the handle to the head is not difficult, but it is a slow and meticulous job. The new handle will be larger than the eye in the head of the old tool. A light touch with a wood rasp is what you need to make it fit. But be sure to take no more off one side than the other. Too much wood from one side of the handle will affect the balance, make the tool hang crooked.

Fit the head over the end of the handle. Do not force it. When it reaches a point where it will go no farther, take it off and remove the wood at that point with the rasp. Don't remove too much. Keep fitting and filing.

Try to maintain the original shape of the handle as you file off excess wood. Do not leave sharp corners.

When the head fits over the handle and makes contact at all surfaces, you are ready to wedge the handle. The handle probably has wedge slots already cut. You may have to cut them deeper or cut more of them. Most hammers are better with two wedges and axes with three.

Steel wedges are what you are likely to find on your dealer's shelves, fine for tightening up an old tool but not too good for a new handle. You are better off cutting some slim wood wedges that you can shape for better fit. Use the pieces of the old handle. It is more important that the wedges penetrate deeply than that they are fat and spread the handle too much.

Drive the wedges gently so that you don't break them. The end surface can be crushed once the wedge is in. If the handle and wedges protrude through the head, cut off the excess with a hack saw. File the end smooth.

Increasing demand for recreation instructors

Employment of recreation workers is expected to increase rapidly through all of the 1970s. Thousands of them will be needed annually to pace the growth and to replace personnel who leave the field because of retirements, deaths, or transfers to other occupations.

In recent years the number of college graduates has fallen far short of the demand. This pattern is expected to continue.

As a result of the great demand for recreation workers, part-time and volunteer persons also will be needed, particularly in social welfare agencies and at the local government level.

Other factors that will contribute to growth include increased leisure time and rising levels of per capita income.

With regard to earnings and working conditions, beginning recreation leaders earned between $6,500 and $7,000 annually in 1967, according to the National Recreation and Park Association.

In the same year, the salaries of recreation supervisors ranged from $7,500 to $10,000, depending upon the size of the community in which they were employed and upon their qualifications.

Salaries of recreation executives ranged from $7,500 in some small communities to more than $20,000 in many large cities.

There were some regional variations in salary levels—higher salaries generally were paid in the West than in other areas of the country.

The average workweek for recreation workers is 40 hours; although some work upwards of 50 hours. A person entering the recreation field should expect some night work and irregular hours, for many recreation people work while other persons are enjoying their leisure time.

Most public and private recreation agencies provide from two to four weeks vacation and other fringe benefits, such as sick leave and hospital insurance.

Most employers prefer persons who have a bachelor's degree and a major in recreation, social science or physical education for work in the recreation field. However, fewer than one half of the recreation workers currently employed have this educational background.

Persons interested in the field should take a broad range of courses in college, including philosophy, the humanities, natural sciences and the arts. Specialized courses stressing the history, philosophy and scope of recreation, the techniques of community organization, health and safety procedures; and outdoor recreation are particularly helpful. Advanced courses in recreation or public administration leading to a master's degree are desirable for those interested in higher level positions.

It is important that persons looking to this field be in good health and possess emotional maturity and a warm personality. To increase their leadership skills and their understanding of people, interested students should try to obtain related work experience in high school and college.

Destination Beavers Junior 'A' buy Thetford Mines franchise

The Sherbrooke Beavers are no longer. Leandre Mercier, president of the Sherbrooke Beavers was faced with the collapse of the Quebec Provincial Senior League and turned to the Quebec Junior A League.

The result: Sherbrooke has acquired the Thetford Mines franchise for the coming season. The news was delivered in the form of a bomb at a news conference yesterday afternoon.

The Quebec Provincial Hockey League, was the highest level of amateur hockey in the country and would have left quite a void, rather than have the Sherbrooke fan without a team, for the '69-'70 season and with little chance of joining the Senior B League, Junior A calibre hockey was the only alternative. The decision was made unanimously by team officials in a relatively short period of time.

The Sherbrooke club will be operating under the same name, The Beavers, as it did in the Senior loop. In obtaining the Thetford franchise, Sherbrooke will have a nucleus of 12 eligible players for the coming season. She will also have charge of recruiting all players in the Thetford Mines area and the possibility holds that the working agreement with Lake Megantic of the Junior B League of the Eastern Townships will be renewed. The news will doubtlessly come as a disappointment to Thetford Mines fans who have supported their team all the way to the Memorial Cup Eastern finals.

Kerridge master Indians in Twins' win

It happened last night after sixteen games without a loss. The powerful Indians in the Sher-Lenn Little League went down to a 8-6 defeat by the Twins.

In the other game played last night the White Sox took a 12-1 win over the Orioles.

Tonight Red Sox meet Yankees at Lennoxville and at the Parade Grounds Senators meet the Tigers.

Young Terry Kerridge perhaps pitched the best game he ever pitched in Little League was the master all the way in the Twins win. Not only did he subdue the big bats of the Indians he also had a perfect night at bat getting four for four. His team mate Jacques Gendron with a bases loaded triple also had a big say in the win.

Twins in the top of the first got away to a one run lead. A base on balls an error and singles from Terry Kerridge and Jacques Gendron sent the run home. The lead did not last. The Indians in their part of the same inning, on hits from Denis Halle and Michel Benoit and three errors came up with three runs.

Twins jumped back into the lead again in the first part of the second three runs crossing the late. Jeff Coates Kerridge, with his second hit and Peter Bishop all hit safely. Indians in the second got one hit from Jacques Lambert, Kerridge keeping them off the score sheet.

Each team went hitless in the third. Twins made it 5-3 in the top of the fourth. Peter Bishop with his second hit and Terry Kerridge with his third scoring the single run. Kerridge held the Indians to single hits in the fourth and fifth.

The issue was sealed in the top of the sixth as the Twins sent three runs home. This made it 8-3 in the Twins favor. This play saw Kerridge with his fourth hit and Jacques Gendron's triple with the bases loaded. Indians in the last of the sixth made a desperate bid to get back in the game but it just failed. They did come up with three runs Guy Gregoire and Jean Marchessault being the hitters. The Twins took the game by an 8-6 score.

Twins were worthy winners with Terry Kerridge, Jacques Gendron and Peter Bishop as their stars. Denis Halle was the Indians' star.

White Sox were at no time in trouble in their game with the Orioles. Scoring almost at will, errors did not help the Orioles as they committed six in the game. White Sox started off with five runs in the top of the first, three in the second, two in each of the fourth and sixth.

Orioles only run came in the last of the third. Luc Loignon with three hits Gaston Doucet, Gilles Houle and Sylvain Delisle with singles were the White Sox hitters. Orioles got singles from Rene Laforest, Denis Landry, Bernard Peloquin and Alain Fortin.

Alouettes fall behind beat by Riders 47-15

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Rough Riders danced beneath a full moon before 18,104 fans Wednesday night and the Montreal Alouettes, minus their most nimble pair of feet, couldn't keep up with the tempo.

When Lansdowne Park was cleared, the score was 47-15 in favor of the Grey Cup champions and the woeful ALS faced the possibility of a full season without star halfback Danny Houston.

The flashy 19-year-old American rookie, outstanding in exhibition games this season, limped off the field early in the first quarter with a badly damaged knee.

Alouette coach Kay Dalton said following the game the knee would have to be operated on, perhaps today.

The Rough Riders—a team which General Manager Red O'Quinn said earlier would have to prove they were hungry after last year's championship season—were voracious.

SCORES 23 POINTS
Don Sutherland, last year's Eastern Football Conference scoring champion, racked up 23 points on his own with one touchdown, four field goals, four converts and a single.

Sutherland kicked a 21-yard field goal in the opening seconds of the second quarter to start the scoring, and a little over a minute later picked off a flair pass from Montreal quarterback Carroll Williams and scampered 52 yards for a touchdown.

He missed the convert on that one but added extra points on two touchdowns by flanker Whit Tucker and one each by halfback Vic Washington and end Margene Adkins.

All four Rider touchdowns came on passes from quarterback Russ Jackson.

Jackson, sniping with deadly accuracy behind solid front-line protection, hit on 12 of 20 passes for 312 yards. The longest was a 55-yard bomb to Tucker in the third quarter on a pass-and-run play that covered 82 yards for a touchdown.

Williams connected on 12 of 19 attempts for 126 yards.

INTO THE MOTION — Denny McLean, ace of the Detroit Tigers' pitching staff winds up with a flawless delivery.

McLean has already won 15 games for his manager Mayo Smith.

CFL rosters are completed, Rough Riders are set

Canadian Football League clubs Tuesday completed preparations for the 1969 schedule by trimming their rosters to the regulation 32 players.

Ottawa Rough Riders, defending Grey Cup champions, placed centre Ken Shaw, 24, a second-year man from Sudbury, Ont., on waivers to reduce their Canadian strength to the required 18.

The Rough Riders, who open the Eastern Conference season at home tonight against Montreal Alouettes, have 15 imports, one over the limit, but guard

Dave Braggins from Florida State University, who has a bruised calf, was placed on the 30-day injury reserve list.

The Alouettes dropped Roger Murphy, an import from Northwestern University, caught 33 passes for 535 yards and one touchdown for the Alouettes in 1968.

Montreal also released linebacker Jeff Smith and former Winnipeg Blue Bomber Morley Rehseiser. Harry Olszewski, who weighs 243 pounds, joined the Alouettes Monday and will start at middle linebacker in Ottawa tonight.

Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who tangle in Toronto Thursday, both cut down to the 32-man limit Tuesday. The Argonauts released centre Ed Ost and Tom Johansen, the soccer-style tackle kicker, and placed import Dickie Moore, troubled by a sore knee, on the injury reserve list.

NEW AT HAMILTON
New regulars at Hamilton include defensive back Frank Loria, a former all-American from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and Ed Buchanan, who starred at offensive halfback for Saskatchewan Roughriders several years ago.

Expos taken 5-3 by Cincinnati pinch hitting Catcher Bob Tillman of Atlanta Braves cracked three consecutive home runs Wednesday, but he ran third in the National League long ball derby.

Houston Astros hit two grand slam homers in one inning against New York Mets for a league record.

Hank Aaron, Tillman's Atlanta team-mate, picked Wednesday night to slam his way into third place on the all-time list of home run hitters. Aaron hit his 537th career homer to pass former New York Yankee star Mickey Mantle.

The Braves split with the Phillies at Philadelphia, winning the first game 6-3 on five homers, three by Tillman, Aaron's 27th and a solo shot by Felipe Alou.

The Phillies came back in the second game to nip the Braves 4-3 on Richie Allen's eighth inning homer, his second of the game. Johnny Callison's homer had tied the score 3-3 earlier in the inning.

In afternoon games, Houston swept past the Mets in a double-header, 16-3 and 11-5 and San Francisco Giants whipped Chicago Cubs 6-3. In night action, St. Louis Cardinals stopped San Diego Padres 5-2, Cincinnati Reds rapped Montreal Expos 5-3 and Pittsburgh Pirates downed Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2.

HAS NINE HOMERS
Tillman hit his blasts in the second, fourth and sixth innings. The three homers gave him nine for the season and he went into the game hitting 176.

Aaron, 35, in his 16th major league season, smacked his 537th homer in the third inning. It placed him third behind Babe Ruth who hit 714 and the Giants' Willie Mays who has 596.

In the second game, Atlanta jumped to a 2-0 lead, but Allen's first homer, his 20th, in the fourth inning with one on, tied the score.

The Braves moved ahead 3-2 in the seventh on Felix Millan's run-scoring double, but Callison hit his 10th homer of the year and Allen followed with his game-winner.

The Astros set a National League record with two grand slam home runs in one inning by Denis Menke and Jimmy Wynn as the Astros scored 11 times for an easy first game victory over the Mets.

Larry Dierker rapped a two-run homer for Houston in the third inning of the second game, concluding a 10-run inning and eased his way to his 13th victory. HAPPENED IN 1962

The two grand slams in one inning had occurred only once before in major league history. Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison did it for the American League Minnesota Twins against Cleveland Indians July 18, 1962.

Pitcher Gaylor Perry opened a three-run ninth inning with a double and scored the tie-breaking run in the Giants' victory over the Cubs.

Dave Marshall's single scored Perry and Bob Burda clinched the game with a two-run double, giving Perry his 13th win of the season.

Light-hitting Dal Maxvill walloped a bases-loaded triple, leading a five-run seventh inning that sent the Cardinals to their 18th victory in 23 games. Bob Gibson struck out 13 Padres in posting his 13th win.

Tony Perez tied the game with a run-scoring double in the eighth inning and pinch hitter Ted Savage followed with a two-run double sending the Reds past the Expos.

Manny Sanguillen rapped a tie-breaking eighth-inning single, helping the Pirates to their victory over the Dodgers. Sanguillen scored the insurance run on a single and passed ball.

Dave McNally is feeling no pressure, feeling no pain, but he does feel lucky.

What the Baltimore left-hander must be wondering after running his record to 15-0 with a 4-2 victory over Kansas City Royals Wednesday night is "how lucky can I get?"

"No, I don't feel any pressure," he said. "I think probably I would feel it if I had pitched well in every game, but that hasn't been the case. I pitched badly enough to lose in six or seven games. I know it has to end sometime, but I'm very happy to get this far, and I'm enjoying it. I'd rather be winning like this than losing, but it's taken a lot of luck to do it."

McNally's No. 15 put him in the American League baseball record book alongside Johnny Allen of Cleveland. McNally, with two victories at the end of the 1968 season, tied Allen's mark of 17 consecutive triumphs over two seasons—1936-37—and Allen's record of 15 straight victories at the start of a season, 1937.
