MEETING HELD TO FORM FIRE DEPT. AT ATHELSTAN

In responce to the notice in last week's Gleaner by Doug. Fortune, Don Racine and Glen Shearer, a fair number of people were on hand at Munro Hall Thursday evening for the purpose of organizing a Volunteer Fire Department in this area.

Messrs. George Williams, Red Maloney, Bernard Fleury and Fred Fleurie of the Volunteer Fire Department of Constable, N.Y., were present. Mr. Williams outlined the manner in which such a department was organized there, of how 14 of them went about it, and the picture that he painted of the difficulties that they encountered and how they were eventually surmounted, was not rosey, but, he said, with a goal set each year, that in twelve years time they had come a long way.

Although this meeting was in Athelstan, the Volunteer Fire Department would operate throughout the whole of Hinchinbrooke, and would be known as such, because it would be a township operation, with representives on it from all parts. It would be non political, free of Provincial and Municipal affairs.

Its operation would require a tank truck, portable pump, hoses and nozzles. The complement of the Constable force is 54 men including three Fire Chiefs and two Engineers who operate and maintain the equipment, he said that of those 54 men if you get about 15 to a fire they would be doing well, for more than that would be more of a hindrance then a help, further their school when it reopens would be available to us for instruction without cost.

To the organization there are two sections, 1st Administration, a President, Vice President, Secretary and a Treasurer, and then a board of directors. 2nd, the selection of volunteers from which Chiefs and Engineers are chosen.

The feeling here is that this is something that is long overdue, and now that the ball is rolling in the right direction let's keep at it.

To those who travelled from Constable that evening, we extend our sincere thanks.

Well Known Singing Star To Be At Malone Fair

Malone Introducing Mary Frances Penick Emery... better known as Skeeter Davis, who will appear at the Franklin County Fair, in Malone, on August 22 and 23. Born in Kentucky, the first of seven children, Skeeter formed a high school friendship with Betty Jack Davis, who was also interested in singing.

It wasn't long before Skeeter and "BJ" were singing professionally, as the Davis Sisters.

Just as their first RCA Victor record, "I Forgot More Than You'll Ever Know" arose to the top of the charts, tragedy struck. Both girls were involved in an auto accident and Betty Jack was killed.

Persuaded to go on as a single, Skeeter not only won fame as a singer, but as a song writer. She penned the words to "Last Date" and last winter hit the top of both country and pop charts with "End of The world".

In private life, Skeeter is married to disc jockey Ralph Emery.

Skeeter is one of many stars who will appear at the Franklin County Fair, in Malone the week of Aug. 19.

Henry Wilson Reports on His 4-H Trip to P.E.I.

The following is an account of Henry Wilson's trip to Prince Edward Island under the auspices of the 4-H Club program of exchange between members from different provinces. He has just recently returned from the trip to Huntingdon and reports a most enjoyable time. It was his first trip to P.E.I. and it was his first time of travelling by air, these of course add much to the general experience.

On July the 8th., the nine 4-H delegates from this Province, arrived at the Coopérative Fédérée. It was here that we met Mr. Roland Barrett. We had lunch and then were given our airplane tickets for each of the nine provinces to which we were going. In the evening a banquet was given in our honour at Henri Bourassa Restaurant, 591 East, Montreal 12, Que. After the banquet we were driven to Maison St. Paul where we stayed overnight. Caisse Populaire furnished our rooms and gave us our breakfast. They told us of their achievements in Quebec and gave us two notebooks to use on our trip. We arrived at Dorval Airport in two cars. The Delegates who didn't leave until after lunch, were taken on a tour of the airport for three hours. We went up to the lookout where we learned some interesting facts about how airplanes land in bad weather conditions. From here one can see all the airplanes moving on the earth through a closed in glass globe. We were then taken to see one of the latest airplane on the T.C.A. Flight. It seats about 132 passengers and has all the luxuries one could ask for. We all had a very enjoyable airplane trip and arrived at our host families on Tuesday and Wednesday depending on our destination.

I was delegated to Summerside, P.E.I., where I was met by Mr. Graham Link letter, organizer of the 4-H activities, who took me to my host family at Cape Egmont.

On Wednesday and Thursday I attended two different Field Days and helped to judge cattle, swine and the differences of all sorts of weeds. On Friday I was taken on a tour of Cape Egmont District and saw the most interesting towns. On Saturday evening I attended a wiener roast.

On Monday, all the 4-H delegates arrived at Charlottetown for a three-day tour of the Island. We were driven in three cars and saw places such as the Belfast Church, which was founded by Lord Selkirk in 1803. It was built permanently in 1824 and is the oldest church in P.E.I. It cost about $900.00 then, and a new basement was built about 3 years ago and it cost approximately $9000.00. We were then taken to a water powered saw-mill, the only one of its kind on the island. We saw a tobacco farm of 100 acres and were told all about the tobacco industry. In the evening we were taken for a 3-hour boat ride. We left from Charlottetown Harbour and travelled for about 15 miles in the direction of the ocean where the waves were very high. We could see the coast of New Brunswick.

On Tuesday, we drove about 250 miles, visiting dairy, beef, swine, tobacco, potato and market gardening farmers. There was a potato field of about 75 acres all in blossom. During the evening we attended horse racing at the Summerside Lobster Carnival and Livestock Exhibition.

Wednesday morning we toured the Confederation Chamber and Premier Shaw's office. In the afternoon we saw the Ayrshire herd of the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Andrew MacRae. We then went to the Dalvay Hotel for a banquet. Each delegate gave a talk on his 4-H Club and his or her Province.

Thursday we were taken to Beechwood Gardens, Cornwall, P.E.I., where the scenery was beautiful. In the evening we were entertained at a Bar-B-Q, where swimming and dancing were enjoyed.

On Saturday, July 19th, a delegate from B.C. and I judged the Showmanship Class for the 4-H Club at Class for the 4-H Class at Summerside Exhibition. There were about 40 in the of animals to judge.

I was given a Farewell party. The Island is said to be famous for its Hospitality, and I can certainly say that this is true.

I would like to thank Mr. Beaudin for my transportation to and from Dorval. My special thanks go to the Royal Bank of Canada which made this trip possible.

Ski Project in Making at Franklin Ctre.

Gerard Faille of Franklin Centre has ambitious plans for the coming winter season. Bulldozers are presently clearing a slope on Route 52, just east of Franklin Centre for three ski slopes.

Mr. Faille intends to develop the area as a year round operation, with a camp site, and eventually a public swimming pool.

12-Year-Old Girl Saves Woman From Drowning at Athelstan

On Wednesday, July 24th, what could have ended in a drowning tragedy was averted by the quick assistance of a twelve-year old girl and others in the immediate area.

The day being very warm, Mrs. Papai of Athelstan, went for a cooling dip in the river. While sitting on the dam she unexpectedly fell into the deep water and being unable to swim became panicky. Shelley Herdman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Herdman, of Athelstan, realizing Mrs. Papai's plight immediately went to her aid. In the excitement Shelley was being pulled under water but managing to free herself she and Lucienne Bowen, who was nearby, managed to keep Mrs. Papai from going into deeper water. In the meantime Brian Caldwell of Brockville, Ont., who was also swimming at the time brought a float which Mrs. Papai held on to until she was brought to safety.

Mrs. Papai attributes her life today to Shelley whose alertness and calmness, no doubt, saved her from drowning.

This should be sufficient warning to all who cannot swim to keep away from deep water and also never to go in the water alone.

Rev. H. C. Fraser and Mother Spend Time Caring for Graves

Rev. Howard C. Fraser, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. D. A. Fraser, quite recently spent a day in Dundee. Brief calls were made on some former neighbors including Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Stowell, Miss Thelma McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Stephen and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McNicol. The day was largely spent in caring for the graves in the Fraser Plot in Isle of Skye Cemetery, where among numerous others of the Fraser Clan Rev. Fraser's Father, the Late George Fraser; Grandparents Late Wm. and Jessie Fraser; Great Grandparents, Late Alex and Nancy Fraser are buried. It was on nearly Lot 13 that all had resided during their lifetime; Rev. H. C. Fraser was the fourth generation to own and occupy that farm until 1928, when he sold it, being unable to operate it longer due to his work in the Ministry.

The Isle of Skye Cemetery is well deserving of recognition as a historical site, one remaining tombstone bears the date 1812, but many other's broken and removed, also many unmarked graves all doubtless of a much earlier date. This cemetery is well located on the northern side of a high ridge over looking Lake St. Francis and was given to the White Settlers by the Iroquois Indians many years ago.

Time has removed the greater number of the famalies of those who are buried there, and in consequence it is difficult to have necessary care given to its upkeep; Rev. Fraser was pleased to find his two nephews, Barry and David Fraser doing a good job of cutting and removing the grass and weeds.

Dead Fish in River at Athelstan Cause Consternation — Reason Now Known

Local doctors have requested The Gleaner to advise people to boil all drinking water that is supplied from the Chateauguay River for the next few days. The warning is given because hundreds of fish, mostly of the sucker or mullet species, have died and were floating on top of the water from a point near Athelstan, downstream to almost where the Chateauguay and Trout Rivers meet.

On Monday, men in boats started taking the dead fish out of the water and burying them in lime in adjacent fields. The men were kept busy all day Tuesday and all the carcasses were disposed of by Tuesday at 5 p.m.

It has been established that the fish were killed by ammonia entering the water through a leak in a refrigeration coil in a large water tank which had been emptied into the Chateauguay River, at the Champlain Industries plant, Athelstan. The fish died of suffocation almost instantly, with the first of them being noticed on Friday.

Before the reason for the death of the fish was ascertained, there was considerable concern that all the fish in the river might die. Coming at such a time, when the water level is low because of the new bridge being erected and with unusually high temperatures and humidity, there was good reason for alarm; however, that possibility is past.

Mr. Edouard Lefort of the Dept. of Health, Ste. Martine, states that the ammonia would only affect fish within a quarter-mile or so area and that the ammonia would evaporate very quickly. There is absolutely no pollution of drinking water because of the ammonia, but boiling is advised as an additional precaution because of the fish.

The incident of the escaping ammonia is considered accidental. Neither Mr. Valdemar nor his employees were aware that the gasket had developed a fault and were as baffled as anyone about the fish until the cause was determined and then all possible aid was given to dispose of the carcasses.

While the incident gave rise to much speculation and considerable inconvenience, there is one redeeming aspect:for years men employed at the milk factory have been in direct contact with the water into which the ammonia escaped, without realizing there was sufficient ammonia to cause death to even humans. Mr. Valdemar is planning to have the complete refrigeration unit checked to safeguard any recurrence of the incident.

The above shows a view of the damage done to the kitchen in the Robidoux home on Chalmers Street on Sunday evening by the flash fire which occured there.

Fire on Chalmers St. Causes Damage to Kitchen on Sunday

A Sunday evening fire caused extensive damage to the walls and ceiling in the kitchen of the Lucien Robidoux home on Chalmers Street. Although the house was unoccupied at the time, Mrs. Robidoux was checking that evening, and when she opened the door flames shot up from behind the deep freezer.

It is thought that faulty wiring may have been smouldering for some time, and was fanned into flame when the door was opened.

A call to the fire department about 9.40 brought the pumper and crew almost immediately. Chemical fire extinguishers were used to bring the fire under control.

Revised Second Edition of Sellar History Now Becoming Available for Delivery

The Gleaner is pleased to annouce that a limited number of copies of The History of the County of Huntingdon and of the Seigniories of Chateauguay and Beauharnois are now available. Fifty bound books were received on Monday and our contract with Mr. J. G. Lehoux, bookbinder, is for fifty finished books weekly until the order is finished.

A mailing list has been made and books will be delivered or mailed alphabetically according to surnames, with fully paid purchasers receiving their books first.

The Sellar History was first printed in 1888. A quick glance is sufficient to convince even the most casual observer that the author spent many years and travelled many miles in compiling the contents. Revisions to the original manuscript were made by the author at a later date and instructions were, that if ever a Second Edition was required, that the revisions be incorporated. This has been done and the Second Edition differs considerably from the First Edition.

The Sellar History is perhaps the most widely quoted of any such book because it contains so much information about people and places, etc. in the Chateauguay Valley. Several stories have been written about the Battle of Chateauguay, yet Sellar's account is quoted quite often as being more authentic in detail. In this second edition much more has been added to all parts of the book, making this history even more complete as to the period covered and therefore much more interesting and more valuable. It does not matter if you now own a first edition, you will find this second edition much more valuable for the extra information it contains. Also several items in the first book have been amended in the revision, or corrected, so that the information is even more authentic.

The price of the book will be $16.00 and all orders received will be sent out in rotation and for which the full cash price must be sent with order. A large number of orders have been received and now that the book is actually becoming available, it is expected that the demand will be renewed with even greater response. It is therefore in the interests of all who wish to obtain one of these copies, to send in their orders without delay.

The new book, approximately 6 x 9 inches, consists of 634 printed pages. The type is large and easy to read. It is attractively bound and purchasers will be pleased to find that one can open the book at almost any of the pages and that it will lie flat. This feature is only found in costly volumes.

When placed on a library shelf or in a bookcase, the book will be quickly found as it carries the title on the back and this means a lot when trying to find a book when reference to it is required in a hurry.

If you have not already placed an order, you should do so soon and avoid disappointment. If your order has been received, then you will be getting your book in the next few weeks as deliveries are made to us.

Anyone wishing to see the book can do so by calling at The Gleaner office during hours of business from Monday to Friday.

Re. Recruitment For Canneries

According to this area's agronomists, the cold weather which prevailed last June and the present drought are the main causes of a reduction in crop production and a 15 day delay in harvesting.

The National Employment Service authorities in Beauharnois and Valleyfield declare that, consequently, these conditions will affect the hiring of seasonal workers, specially in canneries.

Considering the large number of applicants in this field, this year, it is doubtful that all of them will be hired.

George Sutton, Dundee, On Winning Team in Rifle Shoot Held at St. Bruno

ST. BRUNO, QUE. — Shimmering haze and a fickle wind playing around in 90 degrees of sultry heat failed to discourage a handful of Bisley Team sharpshooters here on Sunday, during the final day of the Province of Quebec Rifle Association annual shoot.

The Bisley men had been without sleep since they left the United Kingdom three days before because of plane travel and hurried stops in Ottawa and Montreal.

But they won five matches Saturday. One of them, Lieut. Jerry Ouellette, an Ottawa schoolteacher and coach of the team, shared the Lieutenant-Governor's award.

However, the top marksmen who represent Canada at the historic Bisley matches were hard-pressed by local riflemen, and it was a down-to-the-last cartridge contest for the major event.

Following a five-shot play-off, the Lieutenant-Governor's cup was won by Ernie Paget, of the Royal Montreal Regiment Rifle Association. He actually shared the prize with Lieut. Ouellette, but since the latter is an out-of-towner, the prize money went to Lieut. Ouellette and the right to ride the "throne" into camp went to Lieut. Paget.

The association held its shoot this year in two stages. Last weekend, the first round was held here at St. Bruno and the second stage ended on Sunday.

Competitors a week ago not only had rain to contend with, but the eclipse of the sun also interrupted the proceedings. This final, on the other hand, was on a day of sweltering heat and hazy targets. The wind shifted often during the day and a number of contestants blamed this factor for keeping the score at a lower average.

A four-man team from the Sherbrooke Regiment Rifle Association won The Montreal Star trophy, earning the right to add another marker on the cup — first presented in 1905.

Members of the Sherbrooke team were Ralph Kinghorn, of Waterville, Paul Kaeser, of Sherbrooke, Jeames Eastman of Glen Sutton, and George Sutton, of Dundee. They fired a 289 out of a possible 300 to win the cup.

The individual trophy winner of The Montreal Star cup was Staff Sergeant Frank Jermey, of Montreal, representing the Longue Pointe Military Rifle Association. His efforts at 200 yards were perfect. He scored 75 out of 75, to win the individual honors in his class.

A large number of plaques, trophies and medals went to other winners in the field of some 175 entrants.

Many Improvements Made At Malone Fair Grounds

More than $10,000. has been expended in permanent improvements at the Franklin County Fairgrounds in Malone, N.Y. this year, according to President Russell Chapin of North Bangor. This makes a total expenditure of more than $100,000 during the past 12 years, Chapin said. All of this money represents profit the Fair has realized on it's operations.

Reconstruction of a horse barn on the South end of the grounds was recently completed, making the total capacity more than 150. During the past few years the facilities for harness horses have been improved and now are superior to those of most other county fairgrounds in the state, and comparable to those of the big harness tracks downstate.

The grandstand, the largest structure on the grounds, and one of the highest buildings in the entire community was given a general going-over this past Spring with new metal siding installed on the rear wall, as well as replacement and repair of seats, flooring and supports. The roof of the grandstand is being re-coated and the sidewalls repainted.

All of the permanent buildings on the grounds from the administration building in front to the grandstand ticket offices at the rear have a new fresh coat of white paint.

A permanent roof is being built in the middle section of the grandstand stage to make it possible to present stage shows even during a thunderstorm. During the past two years tentage has been used to enable performers to hold shows during a downpour and present plans call for permanent type supports for suitable roofing.

Dewittville

DEWITTVILLE. — The Dewittville W.C.T.U. held their July meeting at the home of Mrs. Irwin Todd on Saturday afternoon, July 27, at 2 P.M.

Four Readings, dealing with the theme "Religion and the State", were read by Mrs. Irwin Todd, Mrs. Wm. Todd, Miss A. MacIntosh and Mrs. R.A. MacIntosh respectively. The devotions closed with prayer.

Thirteen members responded to the Roll Call. One guest was present. The minutes of the June meeting were read and approved. The treasurer gave her report. Offering $2.00.

Mrs. MacIntosh recorded the letters, cards, visits and birthdays.

The business consisted of a lengthy discussion and plans for the Little White Ribboner meeting and the W.C.T.U. Booth at the Huntingdon Fair.

The Little White Ribboners meeting is to meet at the home of Mrs. Wm. Todd on Aug. 22, one week in advance of the regular date.

A study "A School of Methods" was taken by several members. Mrs. Ritchie acted as M.C. for this period, which was very interesting, and educational.

All members were reminded of our page in the White Ribbon Tidings. Suitable items should be handed in not later than Oct. 15.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Misses Marion and Phyllis Todd. Everyone enjoyed a social hour following the close of the meeting.

HOWICK'S NEW FIRE FIGHTING EQUIPMENT BEING PUT THROUGH ITS PACES AT REGULAR FIRE DRILL

The citizens of Howick are feeling quite proud these days as they recently acquired a new and up-to-date fire pumper and equipment. Our photographer happened upon the scene one time as some of the firemen and councillors were trying out the new machine. They had taken the machine to a water supply and hooked up the suction hose and several lengths of fire hose. The engineer, Chief G. R. Baskin was operating the controls and G. Goudie, ex capt. Montreal Fire Dept., was looking on. Some idea of the new equipment can be seen in the picture on the right. On the left. Others can be seen as they tried out the force of water on an imaginary fire. In the centre are Volunteer Fireman, Selkirk Bryson and Paul Councillor. Another view of the engine can be seen in this picture. The firemen are all anxious to become well acquainted with the workings of this new machine in order that they will be competent to handle it when the real need arises.

McINTYRE — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather who passed away Thurs. Aug. 3rd, 1961.
"There is always a lonely heart-ache
Often a silent tear,
And always precious memories of the days when you were here.
Sadly missed and always remembered by his wife, Mabel, his children, and grandchildren.

McIntyre — In loving memory of my father, William McIntyre who passed away Aug. 3rd 1961.
Time heals they say, perhaps it does,
But memories last and so does love,
Deep in our hearts he is living yet,
For we love him too dearly.
To ever forget.
Ever remembered by Mildred, Dwaine, Clayton and Dale.

In Memoriam

MOORE — Sadie I've treasured memory of a dear sister, who left us, on Sunday, August 4th, 1957.
"Sometimes an old hymn or song,
Brings us a thought of you,
Sometimes a flower as we pass along,
Or a sky that is azure blue,
Or a silver lining in the clouds
When the sun is peeping through."
Sadly missed and always remembered by,
Beatrice and Viola

WHYTE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Hugh, who passed away July 30, 1954.
We lost a husband and father with a heart of gold.
Dearer to us than wealth untold.
Unseen by the world he stands by our side and whispers
"Don't cry death can't divide."
Happy, smiling, always content
Loved and respected wherever he went
Always thoughtful willing and kind,
A beautiful memory he left behind.

Men's Dutch Club Picnic

For the second year in a row Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smaill and Mrs. Dot Molloy entertained the Huntingdon Men's Dutch Club at their summer camp on Lake St. Francis, near Ste. Barbe. About fifty people attended the picnic and enjoyed the friendly get-together and outing away from the intense heat. The members are grateful to their host and hostesses and already are looking forward to next year's picnic.

THIS and THAT in TOWN

● Residents are warned to obey the "Stop-Arret" signs installed the past week at the intersection of Lake and Wellington. The main reason for the new signs is to reduce speed on Lake St. which seems to be regarded by some as a sort of speedway.

● Builders' Supply and Feeds Ltd. new office, directly in front of the sash and door factory, started to take shape last week.

● Some ten or so Richer Craft powered "à la Inboard/Outboard" are scheduled for a trip to Ottawa this week. No doubt they will cause some envious looks and comments. Richer-made boats from Valleyfield are currently regarded as the Cadillacs and Chryslers of Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis.

● And have you ever noticed that Roosevelt St. in Huntingdon is spelled with one "o" at one end and correctly at the other?

● The ten-mile stretch of highway from Trout River to Malone is being resurfaced and causing a fair amount of comment. When completed, and that won't be long, it will be a good piece of road. Now if we could get something like that along this picturesque drive between Ormstown and Huntingdon ... and then between Ormstown and Howick ... then

● That terrific bang at 3 a.m. Monday that sounded like a big charge of dynamite being exploded was a blow-out of one of the tires on a huge semi-trailer bound for the U.S. Right in front of a "Quiet Zone" sign near the Hospital, too.

● With many Rotarians on vacation, Monday's meeting was not up to par, but on August 12 every member is requested to make a special effort to attend and greet the Governor of District 704, Mr. Hodgson. Two new applications for Rotary Nurse Training Fund benefits have been received. Rotarian James Smythe reported that three more wheelchairs have been accounted for.

● The Franklin Drive-In Theatre at Malone is planning a special programme in honor of The Gleaner's 100th Birthday. Keep an eye open for this.

● Havelock Fair prize list is now in the Gleaner Printery and the type being set. Officials say the new barn on the fair grounds will be a welcome innovation for cattle exhibitors. One of the main attractions at this fair is the delicious dinner featuring home cooked food. Watch for more details about the annual Havelock Fair.

● Fifty copies of the Second Edition of the Sellar History will be mailed or delivered weekly until all orders have been filled. The books are most attractive, inside and out, and will be a decided asset to any library. Drop into the the Gleaner Office and glance through one if you have not already placed your order ... we know you will be pleased.

● And now buggies (horse) are being made around here. Who said the automobile is here to stay? Or maybe they're sulkies. When we know, we'll tell you.

● Last week we hinted that a new catering service might be introduced and now we ask you to see the advertisement about this elsewhere in this issue. John Thompson and Jack McAllister have started a food catering service in no small way. They will cater to banquets, receptions, business meetings, house parties, etc., here, there and everywhere. Their service will be complete with food of your choice and everything down to the last goblet or piece of silverware. Say there's a wedding in Huntingdon in the morning, a business conference in Chateauguay around noon, an afternoon tea at Hemmingford, a banquet at Ormstown in the evening and a house party at the lake at night ... all will be taken care of by John and Jack. The service is offered throughout the Chateauguay Valley and also from Lachine to Vaudreuil. We'll keep you posted.

● Guess what ... there's going to be a train ride at Huntingdon Fair for the children. It's so long since we've seen a passenger train here we wonder if the young fry will know what it's for. We just wouldn't be too surprised to see a few oldsters buying the first rides. AND the Salada Tea Co. is sending their mobile tea wagon along (picture next week). Horse racing will be one of the big features at Huntingdon Fair.

● The first of several mammoth semi-trailers loaded with reinforced concrete beams for the new Henderson St. bridge rolled into Huntingdon before 8 a.m. today (Wednesday). In all, eighteen 66-ft. beams, each weighing 20 tons, arrived during the morning. Engineer Salvatore Arcarese of Quebec Erectors who is in charge of installation of the beams, said that all would be in place by this evening. The beans were manufactured by Francon of Montreal. By nightfall, one will have a good idea of what the new bridge will look like. (Pictures next week).

Sandra and Gary Brunette, children of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Brunette, spent last week at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. George Renaud with their friends, Linda and Robert Renaud.

-o-

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Barrett and family of Webster, N.Y., visited with Mr. and Mrs. James E. Barrett over the week-end.

-o-

Miss Viola Lucas, R.N. of New York City is a guest at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ferns, Henderson Street.

-o-

Huntingdon County Hospital Notes

-o-

Mrs. L. C. Soet, R.N. (nee Louise Lanktree) accompanied by Mrs. Paul Mikkelsen, of Ashtabula, Ohio, left on Monday after spending a few days with Mrs. Soet's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hinchcliff. Mrs. Soet is visiting relatives in this area as well as Montreal, Terrebonne and Ottawa before returning to Ashtabula (128 miles from Buffalo). While in Huntingdon, she visited The Gleaner and ordered a Sellar History.

-o-

Miss Michele Bourgon is spending two weeks in Montreal, where she is taking a lifeguard's course. On Saturday evening some twenty teen-agers gathered at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Bourgon, Port Lewis, when Michele was hostess at a ski and dance party. Sunday guests were Mr. Bourgon's mother, his brother Doug and family, of Montreal.

-o-

Friends of Mrs. Gladys Kelley DuPuy will be pleased to know that she arrived at her island summer home the past week. Mr. George Kelley DuPuy returned to Lufkin, Texas, via Dorval and jet, Sunday evening. His wife and daughters are remaining on the island for a few weeks.

-o-

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant entertained their salesmen and staff at their summer home near St. Anicet on Wednesday of the past week. The weather was ideal for the occasion and all report an enjoyable day.

-o-

U.C.W. Meeting

Unit 8 of the U.C.W. met on July 11 in the Grange Hall, Kensington when a quilt was tied. Mrs. Robert Crawford conducted the devotions and a number of business items were discussed. Mrs. E. A. Salter assisted by Mrs. Graham Salter and Mrs. Eric Salter served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

-o-

We are pleased to report that Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wheeler returned to their apartment in Huntingdon on Sunday. Mr. Wheeler has been hospitalized in the Montreal General Hospital for the past six weeks and Mrs. Wheeler took up residence in Montreal while her husband was in the hospital. They were accompanied home by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Anderson.

Obituary

The Late R. D. Roy

The funeral service of the late Robert Donald Roy was held on July 17th, at 2 p.m. in Howick United Church. Mr. George Lavery student minister, conducted the service and was assisted by Rev. A. E. Lorce of Ormstown. By request the choir sang the Twenty-third Psalm to the old favorite tune "Crimond". The church was filled with relatives and friends and the many beautiful floral pieces gave a small indication of the esteem in which Donald was held.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Roy Cameron, Wallace Elliott, Robert McFarlane, Wesley Roy, Clifford, Craig and Wilburn Anderson.

Donald was born on March 17, 1913 in the Irish Concession to Robert J. Roy and his wife Jean Craig. He attended Howick School and the Gault Institute in Valleyfield. He was united in marriage with Jean Muir, on August 11th 1951. For many years he was employed by the Bell Telephone Company, but for the past eleven years he has been the local postmaster and the Roy Store at the corner has very efficiently filled the needs of the community.

He was an ardent curler and when his health permitted no one enjoyed a good contest more than he.

He was always a staunch supporter of school activities and community projects and many were the donations made in support of these.

He is survived by his wife, his daughter Peggy, his mother, his brother Archie and his sister Betty (Mrs. K. Nish) and their families.

Donald will be sorely missed in the community.

Dundee

We are pleased to report that Mr. Guy Stowell, local Game Warden, is home after having spent the past few weeks in the Montreal Neurological Hospital. Guy suffered a broken bone in his neck as a result of a fall from a load of hay. He wears a cast but is able to get about, which is a great relief after weeks in bed.

Last week Mrs. Elizabeth Fleming spent several days in Lennoxville with her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Mack. While there she also visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tanner of North Hatley and Miss Esthere England of Sutton.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Fraser were Mrs. Duclos and Mrs. Charlton of Montreal, Mr. Robert Fraser of Ottawa, Miss Loraine Fraser and Miss Alice Fraser of Freeport, L.I. and of Fraser's Point.

Mrs. Jean Quenneville wins $100.

Mrs. Jean Quenneville, St. Anicet, County Huntingdon, Que., found a token worth $100. under a Coca-Cola bottle cap and answered a skill question. Take home a carton of Coke today, and enter the contest.

NITRO NEWS

(Mrs. E. St. Onge)

NITRO — No need to say too much about the weather! It's been no warmer here in Nitro than anywhere else, the last few days. But how lucky we are — and I wonder how many appreciate the fact that here in Nitro we haven't been rationed for water. Our gardens, whether flower or vegetable, or in my case fruit, are flourishing. Our second crop of strawberries is just beginning to ripen! No one can go to bed early, so there is someone in and out of "45" until midnight — and past!

Some folks who were on holidays these past two weeks, have been very glad to be back home again. For various reasons. Just to name two — The Elson family were vacationing where water was rationed. And Mrs. Briggs and the family had three days holiday, then Mary almost severed completely the tip of her index finger, of her right hand, when she caught it in a folding chair. A shot for tetanus brought on complications, something to relieve that made her itch and what was given her to counteract that was worse than ever — the last five days of holidays were spent in hospital! First the pain followed by the almost unbearable itching meant days and nights of no sleep, then a long drive home. But a good night's sleep in her own home was wonderful medicine — and her finger is healing beautifully.

Last week I only had one small item so didn't bother — just kept it over for this week. Steven Hay has been very ill with Infections Hepatitus. He seemed to be responding to treatment, but about a week ago took a turn for the worse and had to be rushed to hospital in Montreal. He was glad to get home yesterday. (Saturday) Last week Johnny Keays wasn't any too perky, and he was sent to bed, with the same illness, followed in a day or two by his older brother Cecil.

Our house is exceptionally "empty" these days. Lawrence is working at Manchester Depot, Vt., and won't be home for awhile. Then this past week we had to put our beautiful Police Dog to sleep. People were afraid of her and we had to keep her in the house, and with lack of exercise she was very fat, and she began to lose her coat and we were finding hair in the candy boxes, no matter how careful we were. Bitter tears were shed when she was taken away, but I don't believe in giving pets away, especially such a faithful pet as our Taffy was. No doubt we will have another dog one of these days — but not just yet!

Mr. Jacques Wendover, now at Camp Borden, Ont, is spending a ten-day leave with Mr. and Mrs. Wendover and family of Notre Dame du Sourire, visiting other old friends, and as usual spending quite a bit of time at "45". Friday and Saturday evening as soon as it was dark, we had quite interested groups gathered in our back yard to see a number of his slides.

Last week we were glad to have a "Hello" visit from Mr. Jim Clendening, home from school in England, for summer holidays. When the children are away for months at a time — how grown-up they seem when seen again!!!

Miss Dianne Canadian of Ottawa is visiting her cousin and family, Miss Penny Daoust, on Robb St.

And tonight I heard "Hello, Auntie Beth, I'm back!" This was Suzanne Brunelle, from Ottawa , visiting with Miss Sheila Moou. Another visitor was Harold Moou — missing Lawrence! Harold is on leave, and when he returns will be going to the R.C.A.F. Station at Trenton, Ont.

The Chamaillard family, who lived for many years at "41", and now stationed at Camp Borden, were visiting the Leufesty family one day last week. Helen, Eric and Janet came for a short visit — how they've grown!

The Evans' family will have moved to a new home in Greenfield Park, by the time this column is being read. They found a house, and made a quick move, so that the only time to give Mrs. Evans a "going away" party was Sunday evening. Mrs. Daws went to the Evans' home for a visit and kept Mrs. Evans otherwise occupied so that she wouldn't notice the folk going into Forget's house just next door. When a dozen or so old friends were there, Master Gerald Forget was sent over to tell her there was a long distance phone call. She went right over followed by Mrs. Daws, to find this group of friends waiting. It was too hot to stay in the house so a very happy evening was spent outside. Happiness with a touch of sadness as Mrs. Evans has been a good neighbour and will be missed.

Methinks our place will soon be known as "Teen-age Corner". More than one parent knows where to phone for their children. I'm particularly pleased to find French and English trying to speak each other's language. And I will be a long time growing old, with this gang here!

Beginning this past week a bus route has been begun, taking in Notre Dame du Sourire and Nitro, to Valleyfield. Wonder how long this will last?? Having lived in Nitro for so many years, I've seen many things begun, only to fade away. I dread to think of that bus going past here when school opens, with umpteen of the children all over the road.

Little Leaguers Busy

It would do the hearts of the parents of the little leaguers proud to attend a Tuesday and Thursday evening of serious ball playing. There are more than one hundred children playing ball on five diamonds on the Ormstown Fair Grounds, twice a week. This is just one of the Lions projects and a well worthwhile one. This week is a particularly busy one as the teams are behind on scheduled games necessitating the playing on Wednesday evening as well as the Tuesday and Thursday games. Why not hie yourself to the fairgrounds and see what the Lions are doing for and with our Ormstown boys and girls.

YESTERDAY, TODAY AND TOMORROW

There are two days in every week about which it is useless to worry.

One is yesterday with its mistakes and cares, its faults and blunders. The other is tomorrow. It too, is beyond our control. Tomorrow's sun will rise either in splendor or behind a mask of clouds but it will rise.

That leaves today and usually our present trials are easier to bear than remorse for what happened yesterday, or dread of what tomorrow may bring. Let us, therefore, journey but one day at a time. Anonymous. Well folks, during this current heat wave I think everyone has more or less lined one day at a time. It's been pretty rugged at times, but when we think of last winter and then wonder what this winter may bring, we are really grateful for a lovely summer. After all, the summer sunshine is what helps the children and of course the grown-ups, to build-up resistance to winter's chills. Those who went away for holidays, hope you all have had or will have a very nice and restful time. Those who don't — well Patio Bay, Lawn Beach and Carport Cove have seen some jolly barbecues and other good times with visitors. Wherever you go or stay — have fun — a good rest — and back home safely.

Social Hi-lites

Happy birthday to Wendy Ann Roy, 10 yrs. old July 30th.

Happy birthday though belated to Jimmy Hackey, who was 5 on July 26th.

Congratulations to Don and Vera Esdon on the birth of their 3rd son July 20th.

Good to see Mrs. Trapnell and granddaughter Kathy back in West-End. You both look as if you'd really enjoyed yourselves.

The Langdale family are back from a trip to Prince Edward Island.

A call to Mrs. Mooney found both our oldest residents well.

Mary and Cy Cobb of St. Denis St. motored to Oshawa, Ont. and on their return were accompanied by Mrs. Cobb's brother, Ted Landigan of Oshawa, who will stay for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cuerrier entertained at a barbecue supper on Sunday evening.

Nanny Buckley spent two weeks holiday with her favorite girls, granddaughters Linda and Janice Golden. Hope you feel well rested, Mrs. Buckley.

The Hillock family attended a lodge picnic at Port Lewis on Sat., July 27.

Mr. John Simmons entertained his baseball team at a wiener barbecue on Saturday evening. Knowing previous hospitality of the Simmons I'm sure all the boys really enjoyed themselves.

Grandma Hillock returned to Montreal, after a brief holiday with son Hank, daughter-in-law Betty and granddaughters Colleen and Debbie.

CANDIAC — DELSON — LAPRAIRIE

We are assuming that our friends are holiday making thus the scarcity of news, therefore this writer will take the opportunity of passing along a clever little composition which some Gleaner readers may like to paste in the Scrap-Book. The title being, "Sermon on a Soap Box". D'you DREFT along with the TIDE?, VEL, now is the time for all of you to CHEER up, if you want real JOY. The trend is to BREEZE to church regularly on Sunday morning. Too many WOOD BURY their heads in the pillows or work in their back yards like HANDY-ANDY-forgetting that the Lord's Day was made for LESTOIL. Where our Lord reigns the DOVE of peace will never need to send out an S.O.S. Don't trust your Lux by neglecting worship on Sunday. Shall we DIAL you and remind you of the IVORY Palaces up yonder?. Worship will add to your LIFE-BOUY, so be faithful and WHISK yourself out of bed on Sunday mornings, dress up SPIC-N-SPAN and DASH like a COMET to God's House of Prayer. Singing PRAISE to God will bring a cleanser to your soul. PLEDGE yourself, and PRIDE of conscience will be yours and life will become full of ZEST. Now friends, do you not agree that a world of truth lies hidden in this little quote?.

Obituary

Heartfelt sympathy of residents in Candiac and surrounding communities goes to the sorrowing parents of the late Jean-Paul Therrien of 23 Hermes St. Candiac. The 14 year old boy drowned last Sunday at Alexander Lafreniere Wharf, near Beloeil, in the Richelieu River, when the swimming aid he was using suddenly deflated. Words seem so inadequate at this time, but some comfort may be derived from knowing that friends and neighbours share the sadness with the bereaved family, in the loss they have sustained.

Dedication of Cole And Caldwell Bridge on Saturday

The dedication of the bridge at Hogansburg was primarity an American ceremony, involving the several Mohawk Indian Reservations, and the local American Legion Post 1479.

The Caughnawaga Mohawk Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion were invited because of their close ties with the Hogansburg Post and the remaining Legion Branches in District 13 were also invited.

The Caughnawaga contingent which included the Black Watch Pipe Band, filled two chartered buses, Chateauguay Branch 25 strong, used private cars for their transportation. District Commander Dave Watson attended and most other branches in District 13 were represented.

Unfortunately Senator Keating's party was delayed until 2.45 p.m. and the childrens bands, along with the other spectators were affected by the broiling heat.

Dedication ceremonies were slated to begin at 1 p.m. with a motorcade forming at the Massena Airport to great Senator Keating and escort him to the bridge. The bridge dedication commenced at 2.45 p.m and was named in honor of Francis Robert Cole and Michael William Caldwell, two St. Regis-Mohawk Indians, who were killed on the bridge during the course of its construction on September 9, 1960.

Legislation permitting the bridge to be named in honor of Mr. Cole and Mr. Caldwell was sponsored by Senator Robert C. McEwen and Assemblyman Hayward H. Plumadore during the 1963 Legislature. Senator McEwen and Assemblyman Plumadore are members of the Dedication Committee.

John Peter Herne, Commander of American Legion Post 1479 at Hogansburg and General Chairman of the event stated that following the dedication there would be an all-day festival on the Post grounds. Scheduled to take part in the celebration were representatives from American Legion, AMVETS, Veterans of Foreign Wars units and their auxiliaires in Canada, Franklin and St. Lawrence counties, as well as, chiefs of all Indian nations in New York State and in the adjacent areas of Canada. Several bands in the area and in neighboring Canada were available to provide music.

Commander Herne said the enthusiastic response to invitations to participate in the ceremonies had been overwhelming. About 3,000 persons attended the dedication.

The program included tribal songs and dances; many of the groups being dressed in traditional Indian regalia. Representatives from the Indian Governments in New York State who attended are: Chief Frank Patterson, Cayuga; Chief Maxwell Garrow, Mohawk; Chief Jacob Thompson, Oneida; Chief George Thomas, Onondaga; Chief Leo Cooper, Allegany Seneca; Chief Jack Kennedy, Cattaraugus Seneca; Chief Corbett Sundown, Tonawanda Seneca; Chief Elton Green, Tuscarora.

Many town and village government officials in Franklin and St. Lawrence counties, attended and representatives from State agencies and departments were:

Robert W. Sweet, Chief Engineer of the Department of Public Works, who designed the bridge; John R. Hathorn, Director of the Interdepartmental Committee on Indian Affairs; Miss Helen Wayne, Supervisor of Indian Affairs, Department of Social Welfare; James C. Norton, District Engineer, Department of Public Works; Frank V. Votto, Director and James J. Harrigan, Deputy Director, Division of Veterans' Affairs; Brig. General Joseph T. Willey, Division of Military and Naval Affairs; the Honorable Clarence E. Kilburn, United States Congress; the Honorable John E. Johnson, Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Indian Affairs; Daniel S. Brady, Chairman of the World War Memorial Authority; Walter A. LeBaron, Chief of the Bureau of Elementary School Supervision, New York State Education Department; Dr. Walter C. Levy, Asst. Dir. Community Health Services, N.Y.S. Department of Health; the Honorable William N. Fenton, Asst. Commr, New York State Museum and Science Service; Honorable Leighton T. Wade, Advisory Committee of the Joint Legislative Committee on Indian Affairs; Honorable Fred A. Young, former Presiding Judge, New York State Court of Claims. Also on the platform as honored guests were the immediate relatives of the two Indians who were killed during construction of the bridge.

Gordon M. Roberts, Service Officer for the Franklin County American Legion was parade Marshall.

The Black Watch Band led the parade followed by color bearers of District 13, then District Commander Dave Watson and President and members of the various branches.

The most predominan sound around here this past week has been that of children laughing, splashing, playing (and sometimse quarreling) in their back yard pools. And if the kiddies weren't in, the mothers were! Who can blame them! But all this glorious hot, sunny weather is hard on those who must work in town. So ladies, treat your menfolk with T.L.C. (Tender Loving Care) after their day at work in the Big City. Consideration of each others' wants and needs goes a long way towards keeping your marriage sound and happy. Several years ago we heard some advice that in my opinion, has not been equalled. We've all heard about the partnership of marriage being rated as 50-50 or 70-30 or whatever. Now think of this for a moment and I think you'll find a real truth if each partner gives in 95 percent your marriage won't fail. You cannot give all, or 100%, because each person must retain his own individuality with a right to his own thoughts, ideas opinions. Give in 95%, or as much as you can, is good sound advice, don't you think?

At the beginning of this year I told you about my efforts to find some information regarding a group of people who were supposedly conducting a survey on education in our district. After many inquiries and a telephone call from a kind reader in Chateauguay Center, I was able to tell you that these people were selling encyclopedias. Last week I had another telephone call with the same tactics in use, only, this time I was prepared and promptly told the salesman that we are not interested. May I again remind you that any such salesman must have a license which you can demand to see. If they cannot produce this necessary document, call the police department immediately.

Perhaps if anyone else has had any contact with this latest group of "educationalists" you'd give me a call and tell me about it.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fedorko and sons, John Jr. and Christopher, all of Lang Street have returned home from one week's holidaying in the province of Ontario. St. Thomas was their first stop, to visit relatives. Next came London where the children were treated to a visit to Story-Book Gardens, a wonderland of each child's make-believe friends. This was followed by a visit to Fort Erie, thence to the most beautiful and impressive Niagara Falls. Here the Fedorko's took in the breath-taking beauty of the coloured lights being played upon the rushing waters during the hours of darkness. They were also able to visit the antique car display, which would certainly be of great interest to Mr. Fedorko. Sounds like a very enjoyable trip. In case Joyce Fedorko forgot, Saturday, July 27th was her birthday, greetings, Joyce!

Looking over the list of the Chateauguay and District Horticultural Society's latest prize winners, it was pleasing to note that three Gardens residents were prominent in the top three in various catagories. Congratulations to Mr. Bill Leece of 66 Langlois, Mrs. Gay of 23 Lang and Mrs. John Thatcher of 63 Edward Street.

This Society is holding its 29th Annual Show at St. Andrew's Church on August 10th, starting at 2.00 p.m.

If you would like to join this group, please call Mrs. Bate at 692-9453 for full particulars.

I hear that some softball players are being hurt because of using improper footgear while playing. Surely these boys must know that running-shoes are the only properly safe shoes to wear. Cannot the parents and coaches insist upon this? If it is so hazardous without proper shoes, cannot these boys be suspended for one game, or until such time that they have running shoes?

We're sorry to hear of Mrs. Gilbert's unfortunate accident at home on 42 St. Paul Street. A bad fall unto the floor has put her knee out of commission, forcing Mrs. Gilbert to stay in bed during the past hot, humid days. Let's hope that leg heals quickly and that you'll soon be up and about.

Mrs. Stark of 46 Edward Street reports that a large tricycle has been sitting on her lawn for 2 weeks now and so far no one seems to know to whom it belongs. Perhaps it is your youngster's trike. It has red handles, red pedals and the rest was once all white. If you think you know to whom it may belong, please call Mrs. Stark at 692-4925.

I've been warned not to print this following item at the risk of being run out of town, but I'll take my chances.

The Old Men of the Gardens were challenged to a 3-inning softball game last Saturday, by the wives and ladyfriends of Bill Sales' All-Star Baseball Team. The Old Men Lost! The score was 4-2 for the gals! However, I'm still puzzling over the very strange appearance of the girls' team pitcher "Mandy" and the catcher called "Christine". Very odd looking gals they were! Ah well, it was a short game played in good spirit and sport with everyone obviously enjoying themselves.

The same afternoon also saw the drawing of the winning tickets of the Chateauguay Dragons' and Chateauguay All-Stars' softball raffle. 1st prize of $100.00 Michael Bremner, 20 Circle Park, Chateauguay ticket No. 2018; 2nd prize $50., Mr. B. Keenan, 59 Craik St., Chateauguay, ticket No. 893; 3rd prize, $25., Mrs. Marjorie Soles 117 Ferndale Crescent, Dorval, Ticket No. 252; 4th prize, $25., Pauline Ouellet, 85 — 2nd Ave., Verdun, Ticket No. 2864.

C.H.O.A Members please note:— Tickets have been obtained for a tour of a well-known Montreal brewery (Dow Breweries Ltd), for Thursday evening, August 8th. There are only 125 tickets available so call anyone of the following and reserve your free tickets: Les Harris, 692-2813; Pat D'Arcy, 692-0254; Roy Vetland 692-2659.

The Old Men of the Gardens played their regular Sunday evening softball game at Laberge Park on July 28th, this time against Seigniory Park. Our Men were victorious to the tune of 9-3 with much credit to pitcher Mike Zavacky. A return game will be played at Seigniory Park next Sunday evening, starting at 6.30 p.m. If you have a chance, go and give the Old Men some support.

That's all the news for this week. Keep cool and also keep my telephone number in mind for news for this column: 692-2659.

News Round-Up

Heartfelt and sincere sympathy is extended to Hans Vanderwoude of Oliver Avenue, who received the sad news of the sudden passing of his Mother, Mrs. R. A. P. Vanderwoude in Zutphen, Holland on Monday, July 29th. Mrs. Vanderwoude and her husband were well known to us and held in high esteem. They had spent several summers in Chateauguay visiting Hans and Marikie and their well loved grandchildren. At time of writing Hans was endeavoring to book a flight to Holland, to join his Father.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Welburn, son Donald of Trudeau Avenue and their guests. Miss Louise Baillie of Montreal and Steven Bosshart of Watt Avenue returned on Saturday from Rollin's Pond, where they spent two weeks camping.

George Whitbread originally of Toronto who has spent the last 8 months walking from Victoria, B.C. to Quebec City, is seen showing his clippings that he carries with him to Sgt. Marshall of the Chateauguay Centre Police Dept. Mr. Whitbread has letters from Mayors in all cities and towns he stopped in and also paid a visit to the Prime Minister on his travels. He plans to leave Quebec shortly to continue his journey and accept the invitation of Premier Smallwood of St. Johns Newfoundland to stop and see him when he arrives at St. Johns.

Chateauguay Sports Round Up

Bill Sole's last year's Alcoa's tournament champions got off to a fast start this past Sunday by winning 7 to 0 over Syracuse in the first game, then defeating Deliri 8 to 2 in the second game.

In the first game Dave Pierce was too much for Syracuse pitching a masterful hitter, Dave retired the first nineteen men to face him before being nicked for a single in the 7th, Dave helped his own cause along by hitting a home run, also getting a round tripper for the Dragon's was Bosco Bourcier.

The second game saw the Dragons go behind 2 to 0 in the top of the third but came right back in the bottom of the third to score three runs and take a three to two lead. Graham McLaughlin went the distance for the Dragons pitching a real fine game, scoring the winning run in the third on a squeeze play, Bosco Bourcier and Don Kennedy hit homes for the Dragons.

Next Sunday the boys will journey down to Massena, N.Y. and it is hoped that Chateauguay will again take top honours. Game time is two

P.M. Soccer

Minor Soccer will see first action this coming Saturday and Sunday with all ten teams in the field. This is a new sports adventure in Chateauguay and this column wishes them the best of luck.

Minor Softball

Took in a couple of Minor Softball games this past week and saw some fine ball games But was a little disappointed by the show-off glowing antics of the St. Joachim Midgets. A good deal of money, time and energy is spent on minor softball in this area, and if a few players think it's all one big joke, then I for one don't think they should play. The players in question are St. Joachim's catcher, pitcher and short stop, who seem to think that just because they are good ballplayers they can make a monkey out of the game. The catcher played the entire game wearing a pair of Flip Flops or beach shoes, which would fall off every time he would have to run. He could then call time and make a big show of retrieving them and putting them back on.

Minor sport has done a lot for the children of this area, but antics by a few ball players as witnessed this week will in time hurt Minor Sport no matter how good a ball-player may be. I for one think he should be benched if he thinks that playing ball is like having a lead role in a comedy play.

The players mentioned were entirely wrong but are they alone to blame. I'd say no. After all the coach of this team is an adult and should not let his players get away with comedy antics on a ball field.

West End Property Owners Feel Good Job Being Done By Councillor Gilbert

(By Mrs. Mitchell)

A special meeting of the West End Homeowners Association was held at the old Red School, on July 22nd, with a very large attendance. The president Mr. Hillock, called the meeting to order at 8 p.m. Special guests at this meeting were Mr. Yvon Gilbert, councillor for our ward and Mr. Mongeau, town manager. As Mr. Gilbert was pressed for time; (he was due at another meeting at 9 p.m.) it was decided to do away with a general meeting agenda and turn the meeting over to Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Mongeau, who had agreed to this suggestion.

The main topic was water. Mr. Gilbert stated that he knew how upset all homeowners were with the water situation this year, and that he was doing all in his power to remedy the situation. Mr. Mongeau stated that in eight weeks there would be ample supply of water for West End, as a new pump with a booster was being installed. This remark was greeted with some derision, as this has been the story for five years, but Mr. Gilbert assured us that he the water was delivered.

Other subjects touched on were the curbs, and widening of streets and this sudject Mr. Gibert said would not be presented by him as such a large majority of homeowners were against any increase in taxes, and also felt they needed water first.

Mr. Zemel asked if the people did not feel a recreation centre with pool, etc. for youngsters and parents alike was not a better way to spend any additional money. This was greeted with loud applause. Mr. Gilbert stated that schools and recreational centres were being planned for this area, but when it would take place he could not be sure.

Mr. Gilbert also stated that owners of vacant lots had received court letters.

On learning of the plight of Protestant School parents he promised to look into the situation and see if there was anything he could do to help them.

At this time a vote of thanks was tendered and Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Mongeau for taking the time to come to this meeting. Everyone left the meeting feeling that Mr. Gilbert is doing a good job in a very difficult situation.

Happy Birthday to Danielle Faubert on the 29th. Michael Chave, Michael Owen and Gordon Kirkpatrick are also celebrating on the 29th. On August 1st, little Michael Claire will be three years old. And Alice Goodfellow has her day August 2nd. To all a very happy day.

W.R.A.

In spite of the awful heat wave that we have all gone through, and Saturday being another scorcher, the auction at Goodfellow's barn was quite a success.

On August 3rd Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodfellow have invited members of the W.R.A. to

Notes and Jottings FROM Robert Sellar's Historical Writings

In no more mischievous form did these national aspirations show themselves than in the opposition to the settlement of the wild lands of the province by immigrants Not only were grants refused to open them by roads, but votes to provide the new settlements with means for the administration of justice and registry offices were rejected. East of the Richelieu were populous settlements of intelligent and energetic men who were unrepresented in the house. In 1823 the council sent down a bill to give them 6 members. Papineau declared that the interests and feelings of the inhabitants of the townships did not correspond with those of the French Canadians, and therefore he would not consent to allow them a voice in the legislature. The bill was killed by an emendment that would have added 18 French Canadian members. A proposal to unite with Upper Canada was voted down on the ground that such union would endanger the peculiar laws and insitutions of Lower Canada. So determined was the opposition of union with the upper province, that the money required to build a canal between lakes St. Francis and St. Louis was staedily refused From the year 1807 it was the avowed purpose of the house of assembly to retain the province of Lower Canada as the exclusive inheritance of the French Canadians, and the demand was that seigniors who had vacant lands should be compelled to concede and the parish system be extended to the townships, so that the children of the habitants might find homes for themselves. This, in a hundred forms and under innumerable pretences, Neilsen, Papineau, Viger, and Cuvillier endeavored to accomplish. To prevent the extension of the parish system to the townships, however, every governor was resolute, and in 1826 the matter was set at rest by the Canada tenure bill, passed by the Imperial government, which declared the tenure of all land outside the seigniories to be that of free and common soccage, and gave power to the owners of seigniories to convert lands. This act, received with shouts of chagrin by the disaffected, really saved the townships, and there settlement proceeded apace. But if the King could give the people of the township assurance that they should enjoy their properties under English law, he could not give them representation, and until 1830, while Papineau and his followers were declaiming against the tyranny of being taxed without representation and of the preciousness of self-government, the 80,000 English-speaking settlers between Salmon river and Lake Memphremagog had no more to do with the making of the laws or the spending of the taxes they paid, than the trees were industriously hewing down. The sentiment that denied the townships representation was at last the means of giving it to them to a partial extent. A scheme was prepared by the house for Frenchifying the province and in order to ensure its passage by the council, a few members were allotted the English settlements. Under this act, the old counties were swept away and new ones with French names substituted. Huntingdon was blotted out and Beauharnois, Laprairie, and L'Acadie took its place. It was the same everywhere. The old English names of the countries were superseded by French ones. So far as regarded the Old Countrymen of old Huntingdon, they found themselves electorally no better off under the new name than the old one, for the act provided for only one polling-place and it was located at the town of Beauharnois, from 30 to 50 miles distant from the bulk of them.

The new distribution of seats increased the French representation and emboldened its leaders, who now defied the executive and succeeded in bringing the business of the province to a standstill by refusing the supplies. For their conduct they could give many plausible reasons. Like all irresponsible bodies, the legislative-council had deteriorated, and charges of filling offices with incompetent relations, of passing bills favorable to private interests, and of conniving to conceal frauds upon the revenue, could be substantiated. With all its faults, however, this fact must be recognized, that but for the council the townships would not have been settled, and that the existence of an English-speaking element in Quebec is due to it. Under all the ostensible reasons given by the agitators, the councillors recognized that their true motive was the subversion of the crown, and to thwart them they lent their influence to the successive governors. Had the imperial government conceded the demand upon which the agitators finally concentrated their strength, that of an elective council, the English element would have been wipped out. To sticklers for constitutional rights, like Sir James Mackintosh, it seemed monstrous that the will of the majority in Lower Canada should not prevail, overlooking the fact that the majority were clamoring for the constitutional powers in question with the object of wrenching the province from England and of expelling the English people from within its bounds. Was the Imperial parliament going to grant constitional powers to the Lower Canada legislature which would enable it to undo on the floor of its house all that Wolfe had effected on the plains of Abraham? A majority of the members at Westminister saw this, and refused the demand; they were denounced as despotic by men, able and generous, who carried their theories of self-government to that extreme that, on the same principle, the victor in a fair fight would restore to the vanquished weapons to renew the battle.

Hello there:

Hope the heat wave isn't getting you down. For those who have been holidaying the past few weeks the weather has been glorious, and for those of us who have still to go on holiday let us hope the nice weather continues.

Vacationers:

The Ellis family of St. Leon are enjoying their summer vacation at Alburg, Vermont. The Staffords visited them on Sunday last and report it's a beautiful location for summertime fun.

The Bache family of St. Leon have just returned from spending a week at Kennebunk Maine.

The Saddlers of St. Maurice spent their two week's vacation at a cottage in Coboconk, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerr and their young son have just returned from a two-week vacation spent in Florida.

The Truemans of Primeau St. spent part of their vacation visiting relatives in Green Valley, Ontario, and on their way home spent a glorious day at the beach at Glengarry.

The Kavanagh's of Ethier spent a greater part of their holidays in the water at Hemmingford Beach, and one look at young Margaret one would think she was a native of California for she's sporting the most beautiful even tan I've ever seen. Even young Tom took to the water, shoes and all, couldn't even wait for his mom to put on his swim suit.

M. Stafford of St. Leon spent two glorious weeks visiting Grandma and Grandpa Watson in Toronto, returning home on Saturday, July 27th.

Visitors:

Mr. and Mrs. F. Lortie of Ethier have as their house guest, Mrs. Lortie's Mother, Mrs. M. Lever from Winnipeg, Manitoba. Welcome back to Chateauguay Mrs. Lever.

Mrs. Germain of Montebello, Quebec has been the house guest of the Gervais of Ethier St. for the past few months and will be leaving this week.

Sympathy:

Friends and neighbours of Mrs. Martin of St. Andre extend their deepest sympathy in the passing of Mrs. Martin's grandmother, who passed away early last week after a lengthy illness.

Congratulations:

To Mr. and Mrs. Donald McClusky of Willbrod St. Chateau Estates on the arrival of their daughter, Darla Jean, born at the LaSalle General Hospital on July 18, a brand new sister for Donna, Danny and Dale.

Vote of thanks

The residents in the area bordering on Primeau and St. Leon Streets in Imperial Gardens, wish to thank the Town of Chateauguay for the prompt action they took in having the two vacant corner lots tidied up. Your cooperation is indeed appreciated by all the citizens of the area.

Tupperware

It truly is a remarkable product as demonstrated by Mrs. M. Stafford at a Tupperware Party at 99 Ethier Street on Thursday afternoon. Despite the heat a few brave mothers ventured out and found to their delight just how wonderful it really is. Those in attendance were Mrs. J. Gervais, Mrs. K. Moody, Mrs. F. Lortie, Mrs. H. Viereck, Mrs. R. Adsuar, Mrs. Leblanc and myself.

W.A. News

Though on the surface one might think that the Chateauguay W.A. to the Lachine General Hospital is at a standstill apparently this is not so. Work parties are being held regularly and I do mean work parties for the ladies are eagerly making many beautiful articles to be sold at their bazaar in September so don't forget the date is September 14th. We will let you know more of the details later.

Puppet show

The Lynn Fran Co. staged that first puppet show on Sunday and the title of their very first production was the Rescue of the Princess, and the faces of the enraptured audience (6 in all) was a delight to behold. Actually the Company is composed of two young ladies who were getting a bit bored with summer holidays namely Lynn Fabio and Frances Kavanagh, so they decided to put on the puppet show. They are so pleased at the response of their audience they are now writing a new story for their next production which will no doubt take place next weekend. Congratulations girls keep up the good work.

Soccer Sidelights

To the delight of many a young lad, Soccer has come to our area to stay, and it will be officially opened on Sunday afternoon, August 4th, at 3:00 p.m., at the Willibrod Street Ball Park.

The two teams participating in the opening will be the Shamrock Rovers and the Hearts of Chateauguay. Why not plan to attend folks and show our boys and the Coaches that we are behind them all the way. Practice sessions are held on Wednesday evenings at 7:00 p.m. and Saturday morning at 10:00 a.m. If there are any boys 8 to 14 who are interested in playing then by all means come out to the ball park. The Coaches will be more than happy to teach you the fundamentals of the game.

Last Saturday the boys were entertained at a coaching film and 4 cartoons held at the Parish Hall in the Centre. The Coaches are grateful for the co-operation of Mr. Norm Gillespie, sportswriter for the Montreal Gazette who supplied the films and who also supplied the teams with rules books. He has promised his support to our teams in the future and no doubt with his help and the wonderful work of the Coaches our teams will no doubt have the top spot in the Soccer picture in Chateauguay. A special thanks also goes to the officials of the Parish Hall for allowing us to use the hall for the showing of the films.

And last, but not least, let us say thank you for those Fathers who are coaching our boys. They are Mr. G. Brown Mr. Alex Drake, Mr. T. Kavanagh. Mr. R. Leroux, and Mr J. Watts.

And those of you who would like to aid our Soccer Club financially, please do so. Your donations no matter how small or large, will be very gratefully received.

Handy Hints for the Homemaker:

To remove mildew stains from white cottons or linens try the following: If the stains are fresh, a bath in hot sudsy water may do the trick, if not apply lemon juice and salt and place the article in the direct sunlight. Then wash in hot sudsy water. — And to those of you who want to get more mileage from your sandpaper, brush it with a stiff, dry scrubbing brush when the surface of the paper becomes clogged with powdered wood or paint.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Randle had a very special guest over the week-end, her father Mr. Howard Storey. On Sunday night they went out for a drive and came back with a little puppy as a playmate for Carol and Stephanie.

My family and I spent a most enjoyable day down at Fantasy Land near Plattsburg N.Y. It was the most interesting place we have been to for a long time. There one can see all the nursery story book characters set up just like a book. All the little houses are so realistic. There are "The Three Little Pigs", "Hansel and Gretel", "The Old Woman in the Shoe", Cindrella's House", The best one of all was the Giant's house. The children were amazed at the size of the table and chairs; the plate was as big as a big pizza pie. There was a goat roaming around which couldn't seem to get enough to eat. At the end of the line was a train ride, everyone really had a good time. Then we all went to the beach for a refreshing swim.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Lange and family have guests in for a week. Her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. B. Dow and her Aunt Theresa all from Toronto. Her brother-in-law Bob stayed for the week-end. He and his brother are going away for a week's holidays fishing. Hope they come back with a good catch.

Mr. and Mrs. Morelli and family spent a lovely week-end at Burlington, camping out. They said they had such a lovely time and the weather man was really co-operating this week for any one on holidays.

Please give me a call, any one coming back from holidays, as I would like to hear from everyone.

LETTER FROM SEIGNIORY PARK

by FERGUS HORSBURGH

May I, for all of Seigniory Park, offer Mr. and Mrs. David Walker our heartfelt sympathy on the loss of their baby boy. Mr. and Mrs. Walker would also like to express here their gratitude and thanks to all their neighbours who have been so kind to them during these past few days.

Many thanks to The Gleaner correspondent "A Home Owner", and others operating Colonia's new swimming pool for their consideration in seeing to it that their music is enjoyed by swimmers without deafening nearby homes. The best of luck to Colonia with their lovely new pool.

There was a big turnout at the Club last Saturday afternoon to see Juliette's fashion show. Did you think that fashion shows were for ladies only? Well, it is just not so, because the men enjoyed the display of orthodox bathing suits, bikinis and dresses at least as much as the distaff. Seigniory Park's own Malvena Chart was one of the dozen or so models.

I see yet another Englander just off the boat has seen fit to criticize the Canadian way of life, in particular the grammatical standards of the English language as spoken here. Don't these semi-literate morons realize that language is a living, growing thing, and that the slang and bad grammar of one generation are the eloquence of the next? That what is correct phraseology in one country is not necessarily the standard of another. Why don't they return from whence they came, relearn their manners and discover that the percentage of the people in Britain who speak "proper" English is probably lower there than here? Did you ever witness a Cockney converse with a Glaswegian?

I have often pondered on the excellence of the telephone service in Canada compared to other countries. Is that one of the reasons why Canadians have the highest per capita telephone installation in the world? Which comes first, the chicken or the egg? Prompting this thought was the remarkable performance of the Bell these past few weeks in calling up subscribers on our local exchanges to explain some of the practical problems of bringing a new exchange into service. One forgets too easily just how good our telephone service is in Canada but it was brought home to me forcibly three summers ago during a holiday in Britain. Can you imagine taking ten minutes to place a local call? That seems to be the national average over there, and please don't think I'm exaggerating, as I am sometimes prone to do.

I wonder if the guy who writes the list of TV programmes has a sense of humour? Did you notice the blurb on last week's Perry Mason show? "The Case of the Bartered Bikini Perry gets to the bottom of the situation once again."

Softball enthusiasts may have been puzzled by published league standings which showed that Seigniory Park Pee Wees have won three games out of six played. Alas, these wins were paper victories only the opposition failed to show up, unintentionally fielded a boy overage, or some such technicality. However, Russ Oliver's Bantams came up with the first genuine win, 24 - 11 at C.C.R.A. last Tuesday, and to prove it was no fluke, beat C.R.V.C. at home the following night. Attendance at home games has been a bit more encouraging lately, so now that we have shown that we can win games, why not take a stroll along to our ball-park on Maple towards the Heights and cheer on our boys?

Too bad the adults of Seigniory Park could not measure up to the Bantam standards. With Al Wilding pitching, they were walloped 10 - 6 by the Country Club last weekend. A repeat game, Seigniory Park Adults versus Country Club, is scheduled for Saturday, August 3rd at 2.30 p.m. You don't need to feel insulted if you were not invited to play. Probably the organizers did not know that you were interested, so why not give Mac McConnel or Ken Perry a call they might very well need an extra pinch-hitter. I suppose I'm inviting a lynching-party if I say that softball is just a North American word for "rounders."

An Increase In Pay For Our M.P.'s

IN this day it is very hard to ascertain what can be considered an efficient salary or pay. In certain brackets a few thousand dollars per year may be considered adequate, even if not sufficient. Persons in this lower bracket are usually used to getting along on the amount received, but they could always handle a few hundred dollars more.

We believe this to be true of everyone no matter what station in life they hold. The higher the bracket, the greater the expenditure to maintain it. However, in most income brackets a control can be kept upon income to bring it in line with a balance.

At this time there is talk of raising the salaries of our Members of Parliament in the Federal House. Their salary at the present if $8,000 a year with $2,000 allowed for expenses which is not taxable under Income Tax Act. If we take a look at these figures we must quickly realize that the ordinary M.P. cannot go very far with a salary like that. Today we demand much more of our M.P.'s and in a large number of cases these men are just ordinary working people who have no fancy income to fall back on. The sessions of Parliament are much longer than they used to be and in consequence it is almost impossible for a Member to attend to his business. He has two courses to follow — he can hire someone to take his place and pay them for so doing; or he can give up the business or job and relinguish the income that it derives. In either case he is on the losing end. Now for some reason, everyone thinks that the M.P. is an easy mark for a donation, public or otherwise. He must subscribe to be a member of every sort of society in his constituency, be it a thousand. Being a member could run $1 to $10 for each one. He may be called upon to donate a trophy, or a prize of some sort or many other similar ideas. He is supposed to be nice to his constituents if they call upon him at the Houses of Parliament, be it one or twenty-one. All this is practically a must right from the start.

But what of all his expenses while he is in Ottawa and his personal expenses in keeping a home and perhaps a family going? He must maintain two homes while Parliament is in session, something which few other people have to do. He has to travel back and forth, or sever connections with his family for the time the session lasts. We do not believe there is anyone who would want to inflict undue hardship on our members, or to cause them undue expense. But to be an M.P. and do what he is called upon to do, cannot be done on the present rate of salary. This day is an expensive one and everyone wants sufficient to manage on, no matter who they are. When the Union members feel a pinch, they call a strike and usually they have their demands met. Our Members cannot do this.

It is thus that a move is on foot to increase the members' salaries to about $15,000 with a portion of this being tax free. Some civil servants are getting this now and even more, surely we should not say nay to the men who really have to carry the load. While this would be a great help, it is not too much the way everything is today.

The Test Ban Treaty

THE report that the test ban treaty has been signed by the leading nuclear powers is indeed encouraging at a time when there is so much controversy on war heads and missiles. With a treaty in effect against nuclear testing, there is less likelihood of rockets and so forth being needed in the course of time. There will certainly be less danger from radio active fall-out. The health of the people will therefore be better protected.

However, while we can relax just a little from the previous tension, there are still those who are not subject to the treaty and who will have to be watched. France is just entering the nuclear testing and is not willing to join in a test ban treaty. China has also just entered the nuclear age and believes that such weapons will bring into submission those countries she desires to subject. China believes that Communism can be spread by war alone and is ready to back up her beliefs. Word comes that she is massing fully trained troops once more along the Indian Border.

While Russia is one of the test ban treaty signers, China has broken away from Russia and is more or less on her own. It is doubtful if Russia can now wields any influence over the Chinese leaders. Therefore it is also doubtful that Russia can induce China to swing in along with the Test Ban.

Such a plan unless it can be complete and all who have access to nuclear devices, can become signers, will not be an all over success. While one or two remain aloof, there is danger of outbreak. This same situation has existed in the United Nations and which has proved to be a difficulty on a number of occasions. There must be complete unity on all such issues before the world can consider itself safe.

However, it is a step in the right direction and to get Russia to finally agree to anything is something of an accomplishment in itself. Of course we realize that the rift between Russia and China may account for a good part of it. Russia and China are two great powers in their own right of manpower resources. We all know that this resource in both countries is tremendous. If they have the arms to back them up and they have the know-how and training to properly handle them, then they are certainly dangerous bodies to arouse to anger.

While at the moment the dissatisfaction is between these two countries, if a conflict did arise, it could easily engulf far more, Russia is aware of this and also of the dangers to herself. Thus she wants to win the western support for herself in case of emergency when she could appeal to the West for sympathy for her cause. She is therefore being lenient at this time and has perhaps given far more than intended because of the pressure that appears is iminent. If Russia and China were to tangle in a war, it would be uncertain as to the outcome of either, but it could bring forth the use of nuclear missiles if Russia found herself on the losing end.

Whether the fact that Russia as a signer of the Test Ban treaty would then stop her from using nuclear arms is a matter for conjecture. It is then that the true facts would be proven.

Ties That Bind

IT is to be hoped that the United States government learned something from Canada's reaction to President Kennedy's proposed securities tax.

Put simply, the lesson is this: What Washington may regard as a mild cure for a bothersome economic illness can produce violent side effects in Ottawa.

Mr. Kennedy annonced he was asking congressional approval for an excise tax of up to 15 per cent on purchases by Americans of common stocks and bonds of 22 industrial nations.

The idea was to curb an excessive drain of U.S. gold and dollars as a step toward reducing the American balance of payments deficit now running at a rate of more than $3,000,000,000 annually.

The tax is aimed chiefly at discouraging heavy borrowing in the United States by Europeans. There is already enough money in Europe to take care of bond issues but low American interest rates are an attraction to bargain-hunters.

But while the Europeans were only mildly bothered by Mr. Kennedy's proposal, a real shock was felt in Canada. We have a big balance of payments deficit with the United States and although we borrow a lot of money in New York it is essential to keep our currency reserves from falling dangerously.

The Kennedy administration didn't seem to realize that the tax would have pushed Canadian interest rates up and that the resulting tight money situation would have braked our economic expansion at a time when we must create thousands of new jobs.

A hasty trip to Washington by a delegation of Canadian officials was arranged. The facts of the situation were explained to the U.S. Government and it was agreed that the President would be given the right to exempt new issues of Canadian bonds and securities from the tax.

The result is that Canadians will still be permitted to sell reasonable quantities of bonds and securities in the United States without the burden of the Kennedy tax.

The initial wave of panic that was reflected in the prices of industrial shares on Canadian stock markets has passed.

The fear is, however, that this sort of thing could happen again — unless, of course, our neighbors have been properly impressed with the fact that the economic ties that bind Canada and the United States make us particularly sensitive to American actions.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

What a difference a generation or so has wrought in the once-joyous art of summer cottaging! About 30 years ago, it was a gypsy sort of existence, based on the idea that people should enjoy life. Today it is a combination of status seeking, nerve wrecking and organized horror, like most of the other facets of society in the Sixties.

In those days, the cottage was a cottage, not a palatial "summer home". Today, the same structure would be called a shack, and they'd run you right out of the sub-division (which could be the best thing that ever happened to you.)

Can you imagine one of these young married couples, the kind who grin and wink feverishly on the beer commercials, going, with their children, to a place away off nowhere, with coal-oil lamps and a two-holer out back and no supermarket within 50 miles.

Can you imagine Mummy going all summer without ever one single car? Can you imagine Dad with just one lousy little rowboat? Can you imagine children who could possibly exist without water skis and transistor radios? It's pretty appalling, isn't it?

And yet, summer cottaging was, within memory, a simple almost pioneer existence, with its own very special pleasures, its deep delights its subtle joys. It was a wonderful, golden two months each year in the lives of many youngsters, a time they still remember with savage regret for what they have become.

For one thing, Father did not have to thunder up a highway with thousands of other zaniacs, each and every one intent on getting there in the shortest possible time and taking nothin' off a nobody in the process. Father was a summer bachelor, and he loved every minute of it.

When school ended, he loaded down the old car to the groaning point, piled the kids in the back, took the whole family to the cottage, dumped them, and went sensibly back to town, where all the other sensible fathers spent the summer.

He got a rest from his wife and children, and spent the evenings quietly and happily at the bowling green, or pottering among the raspberry bushes, or running around with the local grass widow.

And what was Mother doing? Don't worry. She was kept busy, and therefore happy, taking slivers out of feet, keeping bowels open, taking the kids swimming twice a day, and filling their greedy little guts with unpasteurized milk, ungraded eggs, and uninspected meat.

Nowadays my heart aches for cottage parents. The day they arrive, Dad charges around like a bull moose, hooking up the pressure system, blowing fuses in the hydro system, trying to get his dirty great boat in the water, and running in all directions lugging vast cans of gas, brutally heavy outboards, and back breaking cases of beer.

When everything is operating, he has to dash off to the village to get some indispensables, such as a box of tissues, a bottle of olives and some mixer for the gin. When he gets back, he learns that he is to take the kids for a swim, set up the barbecue for the party they're giving that night, and go back to the village for some cigarettes for Mum.

What are the kids doing, on that glorious first day at the cottage? They're sitting around whining because there's no TV and "Nothing to do" And what is Mummy doing? She has switched on her electric stove, flopped some frozen dinners in the oven, and is sitting with a drink, looking at the lake with bored disdain. No slivers to take out, no vegetables to prepare, no drinking water to fetch. She's unhappy.

Sunday night, or Monday morning if he's a real nut, Dad hits the highway again and arrives back on the job creased cross and sorry for himself. But the horrible part of it is that he has to be at the cottage every weekend, plus his three-weeks-with-pay in August.

At least twice a week, back in town, he gets a phone call from Mum, and he'd better be home to take it, not out "roaring around and having yourself a big time." Her call reveals that she is bored, that the kids are giving her a bad time, that the septic tank isn't working, and that some people are going to "drop over" on Saturday night and be sure to bring lotsa likker.

Sure, they have many things the old-time cottagers didn't have — lights, water, indoor plumbing. But today's cottager, in his frantic search for ease and convenience, has created a Frankenstein monster. He's a slave to all that machinery, and a captive of all that social life, and he hates his wife, who'd be much happier taking out slivers with a needle than wondering if it is too early to have her first gin and tonic.

Provincial Capital Report

Quebec (CP) — A Federal-Provincial battle appears to be brewing up north and Resources Minister Rene Levesque is the chef.

Last summer the single-minded Cabinet Minister was setting the political pot aboil with his efforts to have private power companies in the Provinces taken over by the Government.

This year, his eye is on New Quebec, a huge chunk of Northern Quebec traditionally administered by the Federal Government.

Quebec wants Ottawa to pull out fast and already has sent teams of Experts into places like for Chimo, Port Burwell and less developed Eskimo, missionary and trading villages.

In an angry statement last week, Mr. Levesque said he is displeased with Federal Government delays in turning over administration of Northern Quebec to Provincial authorities.

He recalled that a meeting between Federal and Provincial Cabinet Ministers to discuss the transfer had adjourned June 27 to await the preparation of a report by Senior Civil Servants.

The report was submitted more than three weeks ago, Mr. Levesque said, but Federal authorities have not yet agreed to meet again with the Quebec delegation.

The Resources Minister said in a prepared statement the delay is costing Quebec $200,000 because the Provincial Government has been forced to build accommodation for a dozen of its own administrators and teachers who are to "occupy" Northern Quebec in September.

Federal administrators had not moved out of the existing dwellings. "This expense could have been avoided or reduced if we had been able to solve the problem more quickly," Mr. Levesque said.

The Quebec Government was "studying the question of Federal installations which have been erected on our territory without the authorization of the Government of Quebec."

Mr. Levesque's hackles rose a few weeks ago before an Ottawa meeting when it appeared the Federal Government was preparing for extended negotiations on the subject.

He called Ottawa to say the meeting might as well not be held unless something decisive was to be done. It was held. But Ottawa evidently isn't moving quickly enough for Quebec.

Premier Jean Lesage, meanwhile, went off to Ottawa last week to take over other complicated problems at a Federal-Provincial Conference.

With him went Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie and Municipal Affairs Minister Pierre Laporte.

Two of the main points under discussion were to be the Federal Pensions Plan and the $400,000,000 Municipal Development Fund — both of which Quebec has opposed as enroaching on Provincial rights.

At the conference, Mr. Lesage told reporters: "I have never despaired about the possibility of agreements between liberals."

Report From Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) A newspaper editor and a university president will be co-chairman of Canada's royal commission on biculturalism.

They are Andre Laurendeau, 51, editor-in-chief of the French-language Montreal daily Le Devoir, and Davidson Dunton, also 51, president of Carleton University at Ottawa and former chairman of the CBC board of governors.

They will be co-chairmen of a 10-member group named by Prime Minister Pearson to examine the state of bilingualism and biculturalism in Confederation and to propose ways to develop Canada as a partnership of French and English, taking into account the contributions of other ethnic groups as well.

Has Vital Role

The commission was launched the echo of solemn warnings that the future of Confederation may rest in its hands

In addition to Mr. Laurendeau and Mr. Dunton, commission members are Rev. Clement Cormier, 53, president of St. Joseph's University, Moncton, N.B.; Royce Frith, Toronto lawyer; Jean-Louis Gagnon, Montreal journalist-broadcaster; Mrs. Gertrude Laing, Calgary housewife and French teacher; Jean Marchand, Montreal, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions; Jaroslav Rudnyckyj, chairman, University of Manitoba department of Slavic studies; Frank R. Scott, McGill University professor of civil law; and Paul Wyczynski, associate professor of French literature and lecturer in Slavistics at the University of Ottawa.

Mr. Pearson said he hoped the commission would be able to go to work within a week or so and ventured the "guess" that it will complete its work in a year.

Gain Tax Exemption

Canada received an exemption from the main impact of President Kennedy's proposed new tax on American purchases of foreign securities.

The exemption was worked out during a week-end of high-level U.S.-Canada negotiations in Washington and came as good news for provinces, municipalities and corporations which raise funds through bond issues floated in New York.

The proposed tax of up to 15 per cent on new American securities investment abroad is aimed at reducing heavy outflows of U. S. capital which have cut into U.S. gold reserves.

Canada, one of 22 countries affected, secured the exemption on the grounds that investment capital flowing into this country is counter-balanced by Canada's heavy adverse balance of trade with the U.S.

Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons that while the U.S. concession went a long way toward removing the immediate difficulties, some problems remained, including the U.S. plans to tax American purchases of existing issues of Canadian bonds and stocks.

The government will continue to seek exemption for such transactions, he said.

Donate More Wheat

Canada will increase its shipments of wheat and flour to needy countries under foreign aid programs

Trade Minister Sharp told the Commons that within a few years Canada may be disposing of $40,000,000 worth of foodstuffs annually in this way, compared with $4,000,000 worth in the 1962-63 fiscal year.

The expanded program will begin this year. Shipments will be paid for by the Canadian government and committed to the world food program, Colombo Plan countries and other emerging nations that cannot afford to buy wheat.

Also announced was that an initial $1.50 a bushel will again be paid to Prairie farmers for No. 1 wheat in the new crop year. Payment for top-grade oats will remain at 60 cents a bushel, and the initial barley payment also is unchanged at 96 cents a bushel.

Opposition speakers accused the government of falling down on an election campaign promise to pay a $2 minimum for top-grade wheat.

Hees to World's Fair

The liberal government named former Conservative trade minister George Hees to the commission directing plans for the 1967 World's Fair at Montreal, during Canada's centennial year.

Mr. Hees replaces Harry Price of Toronto, who resigned from the commission on the ground he was not bilingual and that most of the body's work was carried on in the French language.

Mr. Hees, who can get by in French, resigned from the Diefenbaker cabinet on the eve of the last federal election campaign. He was one of a group of ministers who were said to have tried — unsuccessfully — to remove the then prime minister John Diefenbaker from the party leadership.

Query Lemnitzer

Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, NATO's supreme commander in Europe, visited Ottawa on a courtesy call and ran into some tough questioning from Defence Minister Hellyer.

Mr. Hellyer wanted to know why NATO assigned the RCAF air division in Europe an exclusively nuclear role when two of its bases are in France, which does not permit the stockpiling of American nuclear warheads that are necessary to make the planes' armament effective.

Gen. Lemnitzer conceded to reporters that Canada is the only NATO member with nuclear carriers in Europe which cannot be armed with nuclear warheads. However, he said, there are alternative proposals to minimize the "limitation" on part of the eight-squadron RCAF air division of supersonic CF-104 jet bombers.

These proposals are understood to include use of satellite fields in Belgium and Germany, and possible catapult launching of planes from small clearings.

WANDERING WITH WADLEY

Those of you who have a well founded aversion to reading about or hearing about other people's families and friends and who are never likely to meet them are hereby excused from reading this column for the next several weeks. I am assuming that only with the benign permission and approval of both the Publisher and Editor of this highly esteemed newspaper will the next few items see the light of day on the printed page and they will deal with the daily lives of my sisters and brother, theirs and my friends, the towns and villages they live in and my impressions of present day living in England and Scotland. I am fully aware of the fact that the majority of my readers (if I may kid myself that there are still a few) could not care less and to them I should be remiss if I did not urge them, right here and now, to go out into the garden and pull out a few weeds for their time would be far more profitably employed in so doing. To the few remaining, more discerning, and most loyal eraders, I thank you for your confidence and sympathise with you for the trials you are about to endure.

I must assume in the absence of any word to the contrary having, as yet reached me, that the few items I wrote in the course of my sea voyage have been published and that you are ready to go on reading from that point.

Our last full day on the Carmania took us to the ports of Cobb in Ireland, Havre in France and finally to Southampton. The whole journey was made in brilliant sunshine and the trip up the Solent past the Isle of Wight and then up Southampton Water to our destination was a pure delight. Oh yes, and before I forget it, I must tell you with not inconsiderable pride that I was soundly kissed goodbye at Cobb by one of my "medium young" young lady friends and then at Southampton by the second. In both cases they were far from being sneaky farewells for these benisons were bestowed in full view of my lady table companions who smiled sweetly and my male table companion who were distinctly envious of me. It was not really my fault that they had their respective wives with them, was it?

The trip up to London was really uneventful and I was able to put on an air of casual indifference as I had made the same trip so often before but my companions were fascinated by their first sight of the English countryside and the wealth of bloom on the roses. You must remember that we had been in Canada only a week before and at that time there was hardly a sight of a rose bud, much less a bloom. At that, I am told that all flowers and vegetable growth is three weeks late due to the severity of last winter's weather.

I was warmly and joyfully met at Waterloo by brother George and his son David and we were soon on the way to East Sheen where an even warmer welcome was extended by his beautiful and long suffering wife Jean. But it behooves me to tell you at this point that brother George blotted his copybook for the first of many times. For, as he saw my six suitcases being loaded one after another into according to our standards, a comparatively small car, he was unable to restrain himself any longer and cried out in anguish, "How long do you figure on staying?" and we had only met ten minutes before!

You must try that sentence in several tones of voice in order to gain the right inflection.

I have just completed the first week of my holiday in England in the bosom (so to speak) of the family of my brother George, his wife Jean, their son David and daughter Ann with her husband Alan and baby son Ian. I just had to put all their names in because, if I did not, I would not be permitted to re-enter their house. As I have left about half of my wearing apparel there they had me over a barrel.

It is almost needless to say (but the saying helps fill up the column) that, despite the many shortcomings of my brother and my inability to secure a fair share of the talk around the table and elsewhere, I had a thoroughly enjoyable time in all respects and if my reception at the rest of my relatives is as warm, it is rather doubtful if I will be back in Canada much before the New Year.

We spent a hectic week keeping up with the program which had been set up for me. This included watching the Trooping of the Colour (this on TV), going to church on Sunday in order to expiate some of my sins of omission and commission. It will take several more trips to even out things. I went, together with my nephew David and his lady friend Cristine, to a wonderful band concert given by the Brigade of Guards massed bands.

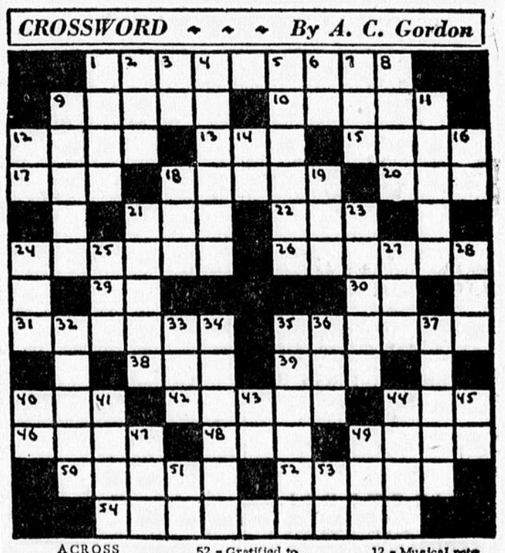

There were over 200 bandsmen all blowing at once and my shock of hair stood up on end at times. To my thorough disgust, not once during the whole two and a half hours of the concert did C. and D hold hands which, I submit, was a complete waste of an excellent opportunity. And I did not fail to tell them so.

Another day was spent at Hampton Court where we had lunch out in the open and under a bright blue sky. In fact, the whole of by first week's stay was blessed with Canadian type summer weather. A wonderful boat trip down the river Thames from Hampton Court to Richmond topped off a splendid day.

I finished off the week by visiting the home which we

"The Incredible Journey" is a story about two dogs and a cat who found their way home across two hundred and fifty miles of the wildest part of Canada. It is the remarkable behavior and understanding of these animals that recalls to mind the long association we've had with dogs. With the exception of four or five years, there always has been at least one dog attached to the family which, considering the length of time involved, is a record to give us a reasonable feeling of pride.

There have been big and small dogs; dogs with yards of pedigrees and dogs whose mixed ancestry earned them the title of "Heinz"; there have been dogs with high I.Qs and dogs who were plain stupid. Whatever the breed or temperament, however, all had one thing in common: a dumb animal's devotian and trust that asks nothing in return save a little kindness.

The first dog to be remembered was Peggy, a Boston bull terrier who was the self-appointed guardian of hearth and home. We recall how twin lights reflected in her shoe-button eyes as she crouched before the open fireplace, every muscle in her body tense, waiting for the sparks to fly. A split second after the logs snapped Peggy's jaws would clamp on the offending spark before it fell to the floor. It was an enemy to be destroyed and as long as our little firefighter lived there was never any danger of a conflagration even though she suffered singed whiskers and a perpetual bald muzzle. She was the best firescreen ever designed.

There was the first of many German shepherd dogs whom Father christened Hootch in defiance of the current prohibition law in the United States. A magnificient animal, he love to wrestle with any child who cared to take him on; and if we were short a player, a whistle would bring him loping on the field. Never an error chalked against him, he was a superb outfielder. He could leap into the air and catch a fly ball in his mouth or dash for a grounder and, grabbing it in his stride, race to the nearest baseman. At the age of three, an attack of distemper left him totally blind; but his spirit and zest for life, in spite of his tragic handicap, was such that it was impossible to put him away. So long as he remained happy he should be allowed to live. Thereafter, care was taken not to move a piece of furniture from its usual place, for Hootch with a remarkable memory of where every chair and table was located, learned to move about the house free from collisions. He still loved to wrestle, but his ball game days were over. He would stand on the sidelines, slowly wagging his tail, his sightless eyes — two luminous green globes — following the sound of the game. Eventually, frustration got the better of him and it became necessary to put him to sleep.

A favorite bird dog was Old Sport, an English setter, who hunted throughout New England and parts of Virginia and Florida with Father. Indifferent as to where he slept, he was found one morning after an overnight train trip in the baggage car, curled head to tail in the centre of a wreath on top of a coffin. Years of game birds to his credit, he asked nothing of life but the ability to serve his master well.

A small, scruffy bitch by the name of Rowdy was purchased from the S.P.C.A. for a dollar. Descended from a long line of mongrels who had eked out existences in back alleys and slums where survival depended largely upon their wits, she was smart and tough as nails. Once, a car hit her, spinning her into the ditch, a blurred black and white whirl. Curtains for most dogs, but not Rowdy! She staggered to her feet, shook herself angrily and glared after the disappearing car. Lucky for the motorist it was before the days of remote control, for the venom in Rowdy's eyes would have punctured his tires, for sure!

Peter was an English bull terrier whom we acquired in Malta. What he lacked in looks he made up for in devotion and intelligence. True to his kind, he was a terrible fighter and the canine population soon learned to avoid him like the plague. Periodically, he would drag himself home, torn and bleeding, yet with a cocky twinkle in his pink eyes which said, "Sure, I'm a mess — but you ought to see the other guy!" A piece of glass from a window, shattered during an air raid, nearly severed a hind leg thus adding another wound stripe to his record. Ever after, as soon as he heard the first wail of the siren he was out of the house and down in the shelter like a bullet, and nothing would enduce him to come out but the sound of the "All Clear". Poor Peter. Our last view, as we drove to the airfield and the plane which was to take us away, was a battle-scarred, droopy-tailed dog, his head with half an ear missing tipped quizically to one side as much as to say, "And what's to be of me?"

Many people will remember Peebles, the sociable fox hound, who, though uninvited, was a regular guest at weddings and funerals and who, on more than one occasion, attended Sunday worship until the day he was ousted from the balcony in the Anglican church lest his presence prove distracting to the congregation. Given half a chance, he would have made a dandy M. C. Two years running, he led the parade of floats into the arena at the Ormstown Exhibition on opening night, and it took no end of persuation to convince him his attendance presented an awkward problem to the management. Full marks to the solemnfaced pack of Cubs, standing at attention and never budging a muscle, the night he sniffed along their line until he came to the familiar smell of his young master! No half measures with him, he was either liked or loathed by the neighbours; nevertheless, friend and foe alike will agree that as long as he lived, Peebles was a conversation piece.

Those of us who lost a dog before its time, through illness or accident, know how a pulled heart-string can hurt. "Why give your heart to a dog to tear?" is a sixty-four dollar question. Why, indeed. Is it because all of us, seldom finding among our fellow men the loyalty we seek, turn to a dog who gives unfailingly the devotion and trust we crave with no questions asked?

Delpha Sauvé Park Opened

Thousands of people thronged Delpha Sauvé Park at Valleyfield on Sunday on the occasion of the official opening of this beautiful city park. A highlight of the day's events was the presence of Premier Maurice Duplessis who received a magnificent ovation, as did also Delpha Sauvé, M. L.A. for Beauharnois. Premier Duplessis was presented with the keys of the town by Mayor J.A. Larin and was guest at a banquet in the evening at the Tourist Club.

Expanding Hobby

Mr. E.W. Brown of Huntingdon is a keeper of the bee-hives and a half million of them — and he keeps them so well that this year they are turning out for him several tons of honey. This honey will be marketed chiefly in Montreal.

Back in 1929, Mr. Brown was engaged in the stock brokerage business in Montreal but business pressures overtaxed his health and he was obliged to withdraw from active business. He took up bee keeping as a hobby. It has grown to a business and it is still growing!

After the routine business, Sis. Elva Moore and Sis. Janie Salter were welcomed as new members.

Wilson had seen to the planting of the window boxes. Sis. Booth had generously donated plants for some. Both the ladies were extended thanks for their deeds.

The Grange Officers and members of the various committees had held a special meeting the previous week to make the necessary plans for the refreshment booth at the Fair. Again Bro. Allan Hunter heads the committee for buying, etc. The preparing of the float is under Bro. Rupert Hawley.

Bro. Cecil O'Connor presented a certificate of Merit to the Grange for entering the Community Service Project. A recreational number concluded the evening.

built in New Malden, Surrey in 1930 and which we left to return to Canada in 1939. I had some misgivings in doing so as I had heard that the people who took it over during the heavy bombing of the war years had allowed both the house and particularly the garden (which I had developed from meadow land after really hard work) to deteriorate badly. But, fortunately, it had changed hands again and it's present owners had restored it completely. I had the effrontery to introduce myself to them and they were good enough to show me around. I was happy to see that at least some of the trees and shrubs which I had planted 33 years ago were still florishing and particularly the sweet brier roses. So my pilgrimage was not in vain.

I have now moved from the home of my brother George who, I deeply regret to tell you, felt inpelled, during the latter part of my stay, to utter some rather caustic comments concerning the increased size of his grocery bills. In fact, it was implied that such increase coincided with my visit. As you might expect, I restrained myself with my usual dignity but felt that, lest the situation get completely out of hand, it would be prudent to pack my bags and move on to the next relative.

Most fortunately for her, this turned out to be my eldest sister Lucy who, not knowing of the rumbling of discontent which I had left behind, welcomed me with open arms and a cup of tea. I have not yet dwelt on the subject of tea. That will require a page on its own but, in passing, I wonder what on earth India and Ceylon would do if the whole of the population of the British Isles should decide to quit tea drinking for just one month. This sister is now in her 83rd year and I was overjoyed to find her in such all round excellent health. Of course, the passage of time has left its mark, but the way she gallops up and down the stairs, in and out of the garden, the way she can cook and then the way she can handle her share of the food is a joy to behold. You may gather that I am proud of her. I am.

She has with her a daughter named Joan who insists on singing as soon as she gets up and brings me a cup of tea and a biscuit before I even have one eye open. Being on holiday, and a wonderful one at that, I am in a forgiving and tolerant mood so we get along like a house afire. They live in a lovely little house with an enormous garden and the roses in it are a sight to behold. For the time being I have forestalled any remarks here about the grocery bill by buying the week-end chicken.

Down the street lives another daughter Marjorie who still has carroty hair despite the passing of several years, who has a winning smile and who sometimes gets chilblains in the winter. She also has a husband. Fortunately for him, he has to go out to business every day. She also has good food, an equally nice house, enormous garden and roses which are a sight to behold.

Please remind me to tell you how to "bud" rose bushes, an art which I learned from said husband only yesterday.

They are all most kind to me despite the churlish remarks I have made about them in the above paragraphs. I will be most reluctant to leave but I have other sisters to visit and they, poor misguided souls, are looking forward to my stay with them.

I have left many things unsaid but they will come to me in time.

My sister and her daughters are deeply interested in the history and folklore of their County of Essex and so I have been taken round, quite willingly I assure you, to see many of the historic sights in their part of the county. Parts of many of the buildings date back to the time of the Romans and for many years before that and all of it is deeply interesting. Their church in Hatfield Peverel was built in the 12th century and others nearby are even older. A monthly illustrated magazine named "The Essex Countryside" is devoted exclusively to that subject and from its pages I have purloined three small items which appeared in it's letters to the editor columns.

Wandering With....

The first one deals with an account rendered by an old farmer and it reads:

	s.	d
Orsearfaday	5	0
Atakinonimout	1	6
Afeedinonim	2	6
Abringinonimomeagain	1	6

When you have worked i out it may give you a smile.

The second item gives a very brief sketch of the high lights of a local celebrity named Thomas Audley, who was born in 1488, gave his name to the village of Audley End, became Town Clerk of Colchester, member of Parliament, Speaker of the House and Lord Chancellor to Henry VIII. It goes on to say that, unfortunately, he was susceptible to bribery and that he helped the said Henry to rid himself of four of his six wives. For this he was made Baron Audley and was given extensive lands. In due time he was buried with great splendour in the local church where a monument in his honour was erected.

It seems to me that some other word than "honour" would have been more truthful.

You may recall that I made some comments about an English clergyman who strenuously objected to flowery language inscribed on tombstones. Well, here is one in the churchyard of Halstead which would have shaken him to the core:

"Farewell vain world, I've had enough of thee;
Now I am careless what thou sayest of me.
Your smiles I court not, nor your frowns I fear.
My cares are past, my head lies quiet here.
What faults you saw in me take care to shun;
Look well at home, enough there's to be done."

I would think that it would need a stone the size of a barn door to get that lot on.

-o-

Here are some short paragraphs about various things I have seen and noticed during the short time I have been here. I could elaborate on all of them but, for the time being, I will spare you. When I have lulled you into a false state of serenity I will revert back on them, most probably in the winter when the indoor days come again.

I was surprised and delighted to find, in the County of Essex where I am now visiting, that they still have many winding lanes with high hedges and where often you have to pull tight to one side so as to allow the car coming towards you to creep by. And when I say cars, I mean the small English cars. Heaven only knows what would happen if two of our cars tried to pass each other. Thank goodness, it is impossible to overtake and so you can enjoy the lush beauty of the countryside to your heart's content.

When I get back I think I will pull up all my roses. They look so puny when compared to those you see here. The climbers, only seven or eight years old have trunks 1½ to 2 inches in diameter and reach the top of a two storey house as they have done at my sister's and my niece's. And many of the bloom are as big as saucers. I have taken pictures to prove it, so please don't argue.

The only handicap at my brother George's place is the almost continuous roar of the jet planes either leaving or landing at London airport. I am told that a plane leaves every 2½ minutes of the daylight hours with a lesser number during the hours of darkness. Conversation is constantly interrupted, even indoors, and even I have to stop by sheer force of competing noise. This, of course, has all developed during the past few years but I am told that, in spite of this, the value of houses in decent condition, has continued to rise due to the housing shortage.

It is very pleasant and restfull to see whole rows of stores in the busy shopping districts without a single neon sign in sight. In fact, most towns that I have visited have local laws prohibiting any signs which project across the sidewalk. So there is no competition between the stores as to who can erect the most lavish and garish signs and it is surprising how neat and tidy the streets look. Of course, there are large illuminated signs in the heart of London but I believe they have to be flat across the front of the buildings and not hang out from them.

Many of you will remember the Fitzpatrick travelogue films which took you to far away places, well, I have been doing the same kind of thing in a far more modest way. I brought over with me about a hundred coloured slides and we have been assembling various members of the family plus close friends at which time I have been projector operator, producer, director and commentator. My dulcet tones lull a few of them to slumber but most of them have been most courteous and have said how wonderful the pictures were. Blushing modestly, I accepted their compliments but hated to disillusion them. For I did not take a single one of them. To make matters worse, everyone else seems to have a whole bundle of slides which they are just bursting to show so our gatherings develop into three hour sessions. However, they make for a grand evening together and as very nice refreshments turn up during the evening everybody is quite happy.

One of the many very nice things I have noticed about the outdoors in the parts of the country which I have, so far visited is the complete absence of mosquitos and the very few flies. Screens on the windows are unknown and windows and doors are left open with complete abandon. To be sure, an old fly or two get into the house, but they are waved away if they show an inclination to get into the sugar or jam dish. Otherwise, they flitter about on a live and let live basis.

So much has been written and said, mostly of an abusive nature, of the English weather that anything I might add would be entirely redundant. However, I would just like to tell you that it is living up to it's reputation and we are having the usual mixture. The first week was really wonderful and I was most gratefully thanked for bringing such splendid sunshine and warm winds with me. I almost began to feel that I really had something to do with it but, since it has changed, I have done my best to disown it. The temperature has had great difficulty in getting up to the sixty degree mark and with it, we have had cloudy skies and quite strong winds. To add to the mixture, we have just had a nice thunderstorm with a good sprinkling of hail stones.

Despite all these handicaps, vegetation is strong and lush and I have had the pleasure of enjoying wonderful salads picked straight out of the garden behind the house. I am told that most growth is three to four weeks late due to the severity of last winter but I would not have noticed it had I not been told. Strawberries are just coming in. I have had a few but the price just takes all the flavour away. $1.50 to $2.00 a pound. No, you have not misread it.

Ste. Agnes

Shower For Miss Suzanne Poirier

A delightful shower was held on Friday evening, July 26th, in Ste. Agnes Hotel for Miss Suzanne Poirier prior to her forthcoming marriage in September. Upon the bride-to-be's arrival she was greeted by a host of friends and relatives who had gathered to share with her the happiness of the occasion.

Mrs. Gertrude Labrie, aunt of the bride and hostess for the evening, presented the guest of honour with a corsage of carnations and Miss Monique Labrie read a brief address expressing the good wishes of the assembled guests. Suzanne, assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. J. Poirier and Mrs. Oliver L. Leblanc then opened the beautiful gifts and passed them around for all to admire. Following Suzanne's well-chosen words of thanks for the pleasant evening and numerous gifts, delicious refreshments were served, and dancing enjoyed by the young guests and their escorts.

Hi-C Meeting

The Hi-C Group met for their second meeting in the Church Parlours on Sunday evening at 8.30 o'clock. Mr. Martin led the devotions. A group of twelve young people were present and listened with interest to the instructive Bible Study presented by Mr. Martin, after which different members of the group brought forth questions pertaining to the study.

Refreshments were served, and the group will meet again on Sunday evening in the Church, when recreation will be the order of the evening.

It is sincerely hoped that all young people in the area will feel free to attend these meetings, and rest assured that the 'welcome' mat will be out for you even though you are out of your teens and have reached the awesome 'twenty mark! The larger the membership, the more interest there will be, and the better chance to draw up a really interesting programme.

The group feel that they are extremely fortunate in having the capable leadership of Mr. Lloyd Martin, who has had much previous experience in working with young people.

Attends Shoot

Mr. George Sutton attended the final annual week-end short sponsored by the P.Q.R.A. on the Mount St. Bruno Range, a follow-up of the one he attended last week-end, and reports having made very satisfactory scores in all matches.

Assumes Principalship

Mr. Gordon McGibbon of Lorraine, Que., spent a few days last week with his mother, Mrs. Gregor Leslie.

For the past five years Gordon has been associated with Rosemere High School, and this year had the honour of having the Class Yearbook dedicated to him.

In the notation underneath his picture it was said that Gordon was known for his ability in promoting and supervising many extra curricular activities in the school. For the past three years he had directed the advertising for the Annual and had also acted as Advisor to the Student's Council and the Red Cross Council, and had gained fame in the latter as the organizer of the well-known "Penny Race", which was held last year.

In addition to these activities, whenever there is an assembly, a movie, or program of any kind in the school, one can usually find Mr. McGibbon working behind the scenes.

And so, for his never-failing interest and enthusiasm in every phase of school life, the Yearbook, "Laurel 63" was dedicated to him.

This coming term Gordon has been promoted to the Principalship of McCaig Elementary School in the same district and under the same board.

Congratulations to you, Gordon, and we feel sure that you will fulfill this new position with the same energy and efficiency as you have shown in the past.

Hemmingford Couple Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Deneault

On the 3rd of June, 1913, at St. Roman's Parish Church, Hemmingford, Miss Annie Ryan, daughter of the late James Ryan and Jane Cavanagh of Hemmingfrod, was married to Joseph Deneault, son of Mr and Mrs. Mederic Deneault, also of Hemmingford.

The Reverend F. X. Goyette performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass. Miss Ryan was given in marriage by her Uncle, John Ryan and her bridesmaid was Miss Edith Whyte of Barrington. Mr. Deneault was accompanied by his father.

Then followed twenty-seven years of happy married life on the farm on Hurley's Road and the arrival of two sons and a daughter. In 1940, with the children's education nearing completion, the sons thinking of homes of their own and daughter Fleurette contemplating entering the Order of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Deneault sold their farm home and purchased their present home in Hemmingford where Mr. Deneault became foreman at the firm of Fortin Frere. And so the years slipped by, bringing their usual quota of happiness and sadness, until, fifty years and twenty-seven days later on 30th of June, 1963 at 6 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Deneault, together with a large gathering of relatives and friends, attended a special Mass at St. Roman's Church, to renew their vows and to offer thanks for the happiness with which their marriage had been blessed. The Reverend J. M. LaRocque celebrated the Mass, assisted by Gilles Laplante, priest-in-training. Canon Montpetit and Abbé Jules Daoust of St. Chrysostome were in the Sanctuary. The church was beautifully decorated by Sacristan Miss Laurette Boulé with peonies and spring flowers and golden 50th anniversary symbols .During the ceremony Mr. Edward Jodoin of Ste. Martine and Mrs. Walter Smith and Miss Pauline Smith sang appropriate music accompanied by Mrs. J. H. L'Espérance at the organ.

Mrs. Deneault looked charming in a gown of summer brocade in a pale gold shade, fashioned with a square neckline and the fulness of the skirt drawn to the back in graceful folds. Her cloche hat was of fine, hand-braided straw in pale beige and gold, gloves and purse of beige lace and a corsage of American Beauty roses completed a charming ensemble. She was accompanied by Mrs. Donat Poirier, sister of Mr. Deneault, as Matron of Honour, while Mr. Poirier accompanied Mr. Deneault. Two grandchildren were Flower-girl and Page, they were little Miss Yolande Deneault and Roger Deneault.

Following the ceremony a supper and reception, arranged by the children and grandchildren, was held in the St. Jean Baptiste Hall in Ste. Martine. The hall was gaily decorated with spring flowers and anniversary symbols and there, 250 guests enjoyed a delicious turkey supper catered for by Mr. Roger Gagnier of Ste. Martine.

Honoured guests seated at the Head Table included Mr. Alister Somerville, M.P.P. and Mayor of Hemmingford Township, and Mrs. Somerville, Mr. Leo Fortin, Mayor of Hemmingford and Mrs. Fortin, Mr. E. Bourdeau, Mayor of St. Chrysostome and Mrs. Bourdeau, Canon Paul Grondin, Reverend J. M. LaRocque, Mr. and Mrs. Donat Poirier, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Deneault, Mr and Mrs. Lambert Deneault, Sister Lambert Joseph (Fleurette) and Sister Suzanne Marie, Miss Yolande Deneault and Roger Deneault. Canon Grondin said Grace. After supper, while all the guests were still seated, the Master of Ceremonies for the evening, Mr. Réal Lussier of Sherrington, announced Sister Lambert Joseph, Mr. and Mrs Deneault's only daughter, Fleurette. Speaking on behalf of all the family and friends gathered there, Sister Lambert Joseph told her parents of the love and affection in which they were held. She spoke of the happy early days on the farm where, as they grew up, they received, in addition to their education at school, an excellent education from their father in good farm management and the value of a job well-done. Where they received from thir mother not only loving care for their bodies, but a spiritual training for their minds too.

Little Yolande Deneault presented her Grandmother with a bouquet of many-colored carnations and Roger Deneault presented his Grandfather with a well-filled purse. Father LaRocque said he could speak from a two year acquaintanceship only but they had been a very pleasant two years. Canon Grondin ,spoke eloquently of Mr. Deneaul's work as a Warden of the Church, as President of the Sacred Heart League, as a village Councillor and of the many ways in which both Mr and Mrs. Deneault served their church and community. Replying, Mr. Deneault said both he and Mrs. Deneault deeply appreciated all that had been done to make this anniversary such a happy event.

The large, three-tiered anniversary cake, decorated and lettered in gold was then cut and, as soon as the tables were cleared away, the orchestra of Gerald Décosse of Valleyfield played the Anniversary Waltz which was led by Mr. and Mrs. Deneault. Dancing went on into the early hours and many enjoyable sets were called by Mr. Math McKell of Aubrey.

In addition to those presented at the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Deneault received many delightful gifts which were sent to their home. One such was received the day following the reception. It was a complete recording of the happy evening. Sister Lambert Joseph, B.A. the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deneault, who teaches in a Convent in Montreal, had the happy idea of bringing along a tape recorder and now, in addition to the many pictures which were taken, Mr. and Mrs. Deneault will be able to recapture in sound the event of this very happy anniversary. Congratulations are extended from their many friends in Hemmingford and the sincere wish that they may celebrate their Diamond anniversary as happily.

Hot potatoes, corn, tossed salads, ice cream, cookies and coffee, completed the menu.

A large barbecue stand was arranged beside the rink and orders passed through a side door to a dining section. Pres. A. M. Ness reported that 225 people enjoyed this delicious meal. Happiest of all were the women who were eating out on a hot evening. There is a rumor that another one may be held.

Dead Fish

The pollution of the Chateauguay River from a point near the old William Cooper home to an area not too far distant from Huntingdon with dead fish, large mullets, some dore and thousands of small ones have created quite an odor. This of course is a matter for our health authorities, and with the present oppresive heat, the stench to those who live in that area will become detestable. The matter is now being attended to.

L'origine des paroisses dans les Cantons de Godmanchester et Hinchinbrook

Le décret de l'érection de la paroisse de Ste-Barbe est du 12 juin 1882 et celui de sa reconnaissance civile est du 24 septembre de la même année.

Ces actes furent l'occasion d'un procès contre l'autorité ecclésiastique qui aurait violé les droits des cantons anglais du Québec (dans le cas, celui de Godmanchester). On eut recours, pour défendre cette cause au traité de Paris (1763) qui permettait seulement le culte de la religion catholique en tant que le permettent les lois de l'Angleterre. Que faisait-on de l'acte du parlement de la Province du Canada, en 1851, garantissant les droits de ses loyaux sujets anglais? A-t-on compris, dans le texte, que cette protection n'était asurée que jusqu'à la création d'une chambre d'assemblée? Or cette assemblée d'un parlement a commencé, ici, en 1791.

A la suite de ce procès, des changements s'étaient effectués dans la paroisse, et s'y étaient ajoutées des terres de nouveaux paroissiens. En conséquence on fit passer par le parlement de la province l'acte suivant:

Attendu que par une proclamation en date du douze juin mil huit cent quatre-vingt-deux, la paroisse de Sainte-Barbe, dans le comté de Huntingdon, a été érigée pour les fins civiles; Attendu que les bornes de cette paroisse, telles que décrites dans cette proclamation, diffèrent de celles données dans le décret canonique, en ce que la proclamation comprend un certain territoire situé entre le deuxième et le troisième rang de Godmanchester et que ce terrain n'est pas compris dans le dit décret, et que vu cette erreur il s'est élevé des doutes sur les véritables bornes de la dite paroisse de Ste-Barbe; Attendu qu'il est dit dans la proclamation que la paroisse de Ste-Barbe sera bornée au sud-est par la propriété qui devra porter le numéro neuf cent quatorze sur le plan et le livre de renvoi officiels du canton de Godmanchester; Attendu qu'il s'est élevé des doutes sur l'emploi d'un numéro de cadastre qui n'est pas encore en force; Attendu que tout le territoire de la dite paroisse de Ste-Barbe est compris dans le canton de Godmanchester; Attendu que depuis son érection civile, comme susdit, la paroisse de Ste-Barbe s'est constituée en fabrique et a exercé les pouvoirs et attributions que les lois concernant l'instruction publique confèrent aux paroisses; Attendu qu'il s'est élevé des doutes sur l'existence légale de cette paroisse pour les fins scolaires et sur la validité de ces actes comme paroisse civile, et que dans le but de faire disparaître ces doutes, il est à propos de légaliser son existence comme paroisse civile et tous les actes qu'elle a ainsi faits dans l'existence de ses attributions civiles et scolaires; et attendu qu'il est à propos de définir et de désigner plus clairement les bornes de cette paroisse; A ces causes, Sa Majesté, par et de l'avis et du consentement de la Législature du Québec décrète ce qui suit:

1.— Les bornes et limites de la paroisse de Ste-Barbe, dans le comté de Huntingdon, sont par le présent acte déclarées être et avoir été les suivantes: "Au sud-est, la ligne qui sépare le second rang du troisième rang du canton de Godmanchester à partir du numéro un de ce canton, jusqu'au numéro dix-sept du même canton inclusivement, et la ligne qui sépare le troisième du quatrième rang de ce canton, depuis le dit numéro dix-sept jusqu'au chemin appelé le chemin Port-Louis; au sud-ouest, le chemin de Port-Louis; au nord-ouest le Lac Saint François, et au nord-est, la ligne sud-ouest de la seigneurie de Beauharnois, qui sépare la paroisse de Ste-Barbe de la paroisse de St-Stanislas de Kostka."

2.— Il est de plus déclaré que la paroisse de Ste-Barbe possède et a possédé tous les pouvoirs, droits et attributions civiles et scolaires, et tous les actes faits par cette paroisse sont déclarés valides en autant qu'ils sont conformes aux statuts et aux lois concernant l'instruction publique.

3.— Le présent acte n'affectera pas les causes pendantes et viendra en force le jour de sa sanction. (49-50 V. C.59, sanctionné le 21 juin 1886)

On S'Amuse bien à L.O.T.J.

Nous sommes au beau milieu des vacances, de l'été, de la chaleur, et toutes les familles n'ont pas la chance d'avoir "pignon sur le lac"... pour jouir de la fraicheur de l'eau, des exercices de natation, du ski aquatique, de la pêche à la ligne, des randonnées en yacht, etc.

Les villégiateurs ont cet avantage de jouir de toutes ces bonnes choses que Dieu a crées. Les résidents de la ville peuvent jouir d'une bonne partie de ces avantages; pour les filles et garçons, cinq jours par semaine à l'O.T.J.; pour les étudiants (tes), jeunes travailleurs (ses), le soir après le souper, parce que nous avons un moniteur attitré à cette fin, Michel Mainville et une monitrice, Diane Primeau, qui se rendent tous les soirs sur les terrains des écoles Notre-Dame et St-Joseph. Cela est pour tout le monde, anglais ou français, etc.

Actuellement l'assistance des jeunes à l'O.T.J. est très intéressante. Le nombre varie parce qu'on y jouit d'une grande liberté. Il y a encore des parents, des enfants, qui ne savent pas que le "Service des Loisirs de Huntingdon" s'occupe de la jeunesse pendant les vacances.

Des jeunes n'aiment pas toujours les jeux d'équipes où ils ne peuvent faire selon leurs caprices.

L'activité la plus goutée, c'est le bain, surtout durant les journées très chaudes. On a l'occasion d'une randonnée en autobus. Ca fait changement. Ce qui est regrettable, c'est de voir un certain nombre qui n'en jouissent pas, et souvent pour des raisons minimes.

Il ne reste que trois semaines d'activité pour les terrains de jeux. Profitez de ce temps. Vous avez des personnes, qui prêtent leurs talents, leur temps pour garder notre jeunesse, "mens sana in corpore sano", ayant un esprit sain dans un corps sain, chose qui ne se voit pas toujours même à la maison, puisque la maman a beaucoup à faire dans son foyer, et parfois les jeunes échappent à la surveillance.

A l'O.T.J. il y a des jours de grandes activités, il y en a d'autres moins mouvementés. Ca varie, et il faut dire que nos jeunes n'ont pas toujours le même entrain. Donc à chacun de faire sa part, d'accepter les difficultés, la chaleur et vivre pour l'amour de Dieu. Ainsi les vacances sont bien remplies et vécues sainement.

CAMP GUIDE 1963

Avant de vous entretenir de mon camp, je voudrais que vous lisiez ce dernier message de Lord Baden-Powell, notre fondateur aux éclaireuses:

"Le but de votre vie est d'être heureuse et de rendre les autres heureux. Tout l'abord, par la bonne action quotidienne, vous apprendrez à apporter le bonheur aux autres. Ne vous mettez pas en peine pour votre propre bonheur. Vous découvrirez que le bonheur vient tout seul quand on s'efforce de l'apporter aux autres".

En effet, la guide qui part pour un camp d'une dizaine de jours, accepte de vivre avec d'autres compagnes de son âge et va chercher à être heureuse. Ellen ne trouvera ce bonheur qu'en essayant de faire équipe avec ses soeurs guides dans le jeu, comme dans le travail.

Cette année, quelques vingt guides de notre paroisse ont assayé de vivre de grand jeu scout de B. P. A notre grande satisfaction, plusieurs y ont réussi. N'est-ce pas merveilleux de trouver près de soi des jeunes filles disponibles non quand ça leur tente mais chaque fois qu'on a besoin d'elles?

Je désire féliciter l'équipe des Colibris qui a remporté le fanion d'honneur grâce à un C.E. dynamique, une seconde aux idées géniales, des équipières qui ont appuyé leurs chefs durant tout le camp. Ce n'est pas très facile de gagner des points, mais la chose devient moins ardue quand on sème notre joie de vivre par des rires, des chants et du "Pep" tout le temps. La force de cette équipe a été l'union de chaque membre vers un même but, la réussite de leur camp. Une mention honorable pour l'équipe des Hirondelles qui suivait l'équipe gagnante de très près.

Il faut savoir accepter chaque guide avec son charactère, mettre de l'eau dans son vin, dans les difficultés et ainsi vivre fraternellement avec toutes.

En mon nom personnel et au nom de la deuxième compagnie, je désire remercier notre cheftaine pour l'oeuvre immense qu'elle a accomplie au cours de ce camp. Elle est la plus jeune cheftaine du diocèse et s'en tire à mermeil le puisqu'on lui a confié la tâche de montrer à une nouvelle compagnie la façon de camper.

Mille fois merci à notre Aumônier qui s'est dépensé sans relâche tant pour le diocèse que pour la compagnie tout et effectuant son ministère à Huntingdon.

En ce temps de vacances, chères guides, rappelons-nous que B.P. (be prepared) veut dire "étré prête".

Flamand responsable.

Assemblée tenue à Athelstan

En réponse à l'avis de Messieurs Doug. Fortune, Don Racine et Glen Shearer, publié dans le Gleaner de la semaine dernière, un bon nombre de citoyens étaient présents à la salle Munro, jeudi soir, dans le but d'organiser un groupe de pompiers volontaires dans cette localité.

Messieurs George Williams, Red Maloney, Bernard Fleury et Fred Fleury de la brigade de Constable étaient présents. M. Williams donna un aperçu de la façon dont un tel groupe est formé, et l'image qu'il nous fit des difficultés rencontrées et enfin surmontées, prouve qu'avec un but visé chaque année, les derniers douze ans ont produit des résultats remarquables.

Bien que cette assemblée eut lieu à Athelstan, la brigade opérerait dans tout le canton de Hinchinbrook et serait connue comme telle, avec des représentants venant de tous les coins de la municipalité. La politique n'entrerait pas en cause, et la brigade ne serait pas sujette à la régie provinciale ou municipale.

Son bon fonctionnement requerrait un camion citerne, pompe portative, boyaux et becs. Du groupe de 54 hommes formant la brigade de Constable, il y a trois chefs-pompiers, deux ingénieurs chargés de l'équipement. De ce groupe de 54 hommes, si 15 répondent à l'appel, ce nombre est suffisant, car un plus grand nombre pourrait entraver le travail. En plus, lors de la réouverture de leur école, celle-ci sera disponible gratuitement pour instriction.

Cette organisation se compose de deux sections, la première pour l'administration, dont un président, un vice-président, secrétaire et trésorier, et aussi un conseil de direction; la deuxième, le choix des chefs et ingénieurs parmi part dans cette direction.

Nous sommes d'avis qu'il s'agit d'une nécessité reconnue depuis longtemps, et que ceci constitue le point de dé-

A tous nos visiteurs de Constable, nous offrons nos sincères, remerciements.

Remerciements

A tous ceux qui ont répondu à Boite 6765, Gleaner, par laquelle on demandait un foyer pour un garçon de huit ans. Du au grande nombre de réponses, il nous fut impossible de communiquer avec vous tous personnellement. Nous gardons vos lettres et il est possible que nous communiquions avec vous plus tard.

Introit: Dans le temple de Dieu, nous avons bénéficié de sa miséricorde (Ps. 47, 10). Toute l'énergie dont les chrétiens sont capables pour réussir, ils l'abandonnent lorsqu'il s'agit de mettre en valeur les richesses de leur christianisme. Ils ne vivent pas leur foi, leur espérance, leur charité. Ils se contentent d'une médiocrité dont ils ne voudraient pas dans leur existence matérielle. Ils ne se rendent pas compte qu'ils doivent jour après jour se dépasser, se grandir et être capables de faire rendre à leur âme tout ce qu'elle peut donner.
