DANISH ROYALTY VISITING ENGLAND

SUFFRAGETTES CREATE DISTURBANCE AT GALA PERFORMANCE AT THE ROYAL OPERA HOUSE

London, May 11—The Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, was commandeered this evening by King George for a gala performance in honor of the King and Queen of Denmark, who are paying their accession visit to this country. The programme consisted of scenes from La Tosca, La Boheme and Aida. The singers included Melba and Emmy Destinn.

For an audience the performers had the leaders of the political, diplomatic and social world of London, the men in the uniforms of their rank, and the women in beautiful gowns and jewels of untold wealth.

The scene which was of gorgeous brilliance was for a time marred by a suffragette demonstration. During an interlude a suffragette rose in the balcony stalls and shouted: "King George, women are being tortured in your Dominions."

Two men sitting nearby seized the disturber and dragged her outside, while other men ejected women with her who steredeOdbersy 123456 3456 her who started "demonstrating. they were being carried from the building. Meanwhile other suffragettes in the gallery above the royal box threw down a great quantity of suffragette leaflets.

King George and Queen Mary with their royal guests, and thirty other members of royalty occupied a box in the centre of the house, with members of the diplomatic corps and their wives on one side and the cabinet ministers and their ladies on the other. The greater part of the other boxes, and many of the stalls were likewise occupied by the guests of the monarchs, so that the general public had to be content with the upper galleries.

White and scarlet, the Danish colors predominated in the decorations. The proscenium was decorated with crimson and gold roses. In the extreme corners there were large golden cornucopias with masses of crimson roses falling from them. Depending from these were two large festoons reaching from the corners of the crown, composed of flowers. The auditorium was decorated with crimson and pink roses.

ZBYSZKO STILL WINNING.

Winnipeg, May 11.—John Colton, a Cincinnati butcher, substituted for Dr. Roller of Seattle in a wrestling bout with W. Ladek Zbyszko, owing to the fact that the doctor was suffering from blood poisoning at Montreal. Zbyszko took two straight falls with a body hold in each instance, the first in 35 minutes 47 seconds, and the second in 11 minutes 56 seconds.

HALIFAX LEGISLATURE.

Author of Ian McLean Letter Makes Apology.

Halifax, N. S., May 11.—J. McI. Frazer, assistant agent of the Marine and Fisheries Department, appeared before the special committee of the legislature tonight and admitted that he wrote the famous "Ian McLean" letter that appeared in the Evening Mail, attacking the Nova Scotia legislature. In addition, he stated that when the committee opened the investigation he went twice to W. R. McCurdy, news editor of the Herald, and said he intended to acknowledge that he was the writer, but McCurdy told him to keep "mum." Mr. Fraser humbly apologized for any insult to the legislature, which he said was not intended.

LINDSAY NOTIFIED OF APPOINTMENT

HE WILL TAKE CHARGE OF THE QUEBEC PILOTAGE DISTRICT NEXT MONTH

Montreal, May 11—Although no official announcement had yet been made, was stated today at the Wreck Commissioner's Court by Commander Henry St. George Lindsay, R.D., R. N.R., that he had been notified of his appointment to take charge of the pilotage district of Quebec and that he expected to leave to undertake that office about the middle of June next.

FATHER GNAM WILL SUE BISHOP FALLON

SUIT OF $50,000 FOR ALLEGED SLANDER WILL BE REVIVED, IT IS SAID

Port Huron, Mich., May 1.—The sensational fight which Rev. Father Gnam, of Wyoming, Ont., has been waging in the Canadian courts to be restored to what he regards as his ecclesiastical rights and which received another setback at Toronto on Thursday, when an appeal from the decision of Justice Britton was dismissed, is to give way now, it is understood, to a revival of his suit for $50,000 for alleged slander against Bishop Fallon.

The suit was commenced over a year ago as the result of an order from Bishop Fallon, deposing Father Gnam but was dropped, according to the latter's testimony, under an agreement by which Archbishop McNeill, of Toronto, promised to restore him and provide him with maintenance until this should have been done. Father Gnam later brought action against the Archbishop alleging breach of this agreement and it is because this suit has been decided against him that he proposes to renew the original action against Bishop Fallon.

EARTHQUAKE TOLL ESTIMATED AT 200

THIS IS SAID TO BE THE LARGEST PERCENTAGE EVER RECORDED

Cantania, Sicily, May 11—The official estimate of the dead as a result of the recent earthquake which destroyed many villages on the eastern slope of Mount Etna places the number close to 200. This is said to be the largest percentage ever recorded, considering the smallness of the area affected by the disturbance.

IRRIGATION IN ALBERTA.

Calgary, Alb., May 11.—Approximately four hundred thousand acres of land in the southern portion of Alberta will be put under irrigation by the Dominion government, or by the municipalities which obtain from the government the right to operate a system of irrigation in the various districts, some time in the mean future, according to the statement of F. H. Peters, irrigation commissioner for the Dominion with headquarters in Calgary.

ZAPATA IS LIKELY TO ATTACK MEXICO CITY FROM SOUTH

Huerta's Strength Reported To Be Waning---U. S. Vice Consul Silliman Still Detained By Federals--Other Serious Phases

Washington, May 11—While peace negotiations marked time pending formal sittings of the South American mediators to begin Monday on Canadian soil, the mediators and officials of the State Department here today were occupied with several serious phases of the Mexican situation demanding immediate attention. Secreary Bryan called at the Argentine Legation late in the afternoon, and spent two hours in conference with the South American envoys, discussing the continued detention of John R. Silliman, American vice-consul, at Saltillo, by the Mexican Federals, the reported seizure of Lobo Island with its lighthouse by American torpedo boats and the case of the five South Americans under arrest at Vera Cruz for firing upon United States sailors and marines.

Mr. Bryan insisted that the release of Silliman must be brought about at once. When asked about the matter later, he would not say what would happen if the vice-consul were kept in prison, but he was gravely emphatic in announcing the governments's determination to have him freed.

Lobo Island Seizure.

As to the Lobo Island incident, the Secretary informed the mediators that so far the United States government had received no official confirmation of the taking of the island and that in the absence of confirmation he could offer no formal explanation of the reported action of the navy. In administration circles it is contended that if the seizure has been made, it was not an act of aggression against Huerta, but merely a necessary step to protect oil shipping against possible disaster as a result of the closing of the lighthouse by the Federals.

While the representatives appointed by General Huerta to confer with the mediators were preparing to leave Vera Cruz, the United States government officially announced its representatives in mediation negotiations before the South American triumvirate at Niagara Falls, Ont., next Monday.

Justice Lamar, of the United States Supreme Court, and Frederick W. Lehman, former Solicitor-General were chosen by President Wilson as the American representatives. From Huerta are hastening farward Augustine Rodriguez, Emilio Rabasa, and Luis Elguero. Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil; Minister Naon, of Argentine, and Minister Suarez, of Chile, the mediators, tonight expressed satisfaction in the selection of the advisers for both governments, and little further is expected in the preliminary peace negotiations until all have met in Canada.

Carranza Not Represented.

General Carranza and the Mexican rebels who seek Huerta's overthrow, will not be represented in the conference, according to latest advices.

From Tampico, where Mexican Federals and Constitutionalists have been preparing for a sanguinary struggle, came rumblings of battle, while reports that Huerta's strength was waining in Mexico City, and that the bandit leader Zapata was about to attack the capital from the south served to arouse diplomatic agents of foreign nations lest their people in Mexico City might be in imminent danger of persecution or death.

State Department officials were indignant when it became known that Vice-Consul Silliman and his clerk, Joseph A. Marchani, as well as several other Americans, had been prisoners of the Federal commander at Saltillo, and that the consul still is held despite urgent representations for his release made by the Brazilian Minister in Mexico City.

Consular Clerk's Experience.

Late in the day Consul Canada reported the arrival of Consular Clerk Marchandi in Vera Cruz. The clerk informed Mr. Canada that before he was released from custody of the Mexicans, he was marched under guard from the jail to the consulate and compelled at the point of a revolver to open the safe and surrender to the Federal commander all the consular records and all valuables, including money and a quantity of jewelary left there for safe-keeping.

Mediators Go Ahead.

Despite such disquieting elements always attendant upon revolution and threatened international conflict, the Latin-American mediators proceeded energetically with their plans for the conference at Niagara Falls.

The only sign of military activity in connection with the Mexican situation was the gathering of a dozen of the ranking officers of the army now in Washington in the office of Secretary Garrison for an hours conference. Secretary Garrison explained that the purpose of the meeting was for enlightenment on the militia laws of the country.

Regarding the arrest reported today from Vera Cruz of Lieut. Chas. M. Maigne, the retired army officer, serving as a newspaper correspondent in Mexico, Secretary Garrison said he had directed General Funston to hold Maigne awaiting further orders. Mr. Garrison said a retired officer must have permission to act as war correspondent and he has asserted previously that he would not tolerate such action on the part of any officer.

MARTINEZ HANGED

Pecos, Tex., May 11—Leon Martinez, a Mexican youth, was hanged here at noon today for the murder of Miss Emma Brown, a school teacher, three yeyars ago. The Mexican Government had the case carried to the United States Supreme Court in a vain effort to save Martinez.

CORRESPONDENT RELEASED

Vera ruz, Mex., May 11—Walter C. Whiffen, correspondent of The Associated Press who was arrested by the Mexican authorities on his arrival from Vera Cruz at Mexico City on Thursday evening and released on Saturday, returned today to Vera Cruz.

A. J. Sutton, the Washington newspaper photographer, who was arrested and released at the same time, was taken from the train at Coridoba on his way from the Capital to this city.

AMERICANS LEAVE TAMPICO

Washington, May 11.—All American citizens who will leave are now out of Tampico, Rear-Admiral Mayo cabled the Navy Department tonight. The despatch made no mention of fighting reported to be in progress between the Federals and Constitutionalists at Tampico.

HUERTA'S ENVOYS SAIL

Vera Cruz, Mex., May 11.—The steamer Kron Prinzessin Cecilie, sailed from here late today with Huerta's three peace commissioners aboard.

The steamer also carried 6,000 rifles and much ammunition for Huerta which it was not permitted to land.

WELL-KNOWN TORONTO WHOLESALE GROCER DIES.

Toronto, May 11—A leading figure in the wholesale grocery world of the city passed away today in the death of Joseph F. Eby, of the firm of Eby, Blain Company, Ltd., who died of pneumonia at his residence, 35 Cluny Avenue.

Deceased was born in Berlin, Ont., in 1844. He engaged in the wholesale business, first of all in the firm of Howland and Fitch. Later as a member of the firm of Fitch and Eby, and withdrew from that firm to commence operations with Mr. Hugh Blain in the firm which has existed up to the present for thirty-four years.

PERFORMED ILLEGAL OPERATION ON WIFE

Woodstock, Ont., May 11—Dr. Roy Riddle, the Norwich veterinary surgeon, charged with performing an illegal operation on his wife, was found guilty by Judge Wallace today. Sentence was deferred for a week on the request of T. C. Robinette, K.C., of Toronto, his counsel. Mrs. Riddle was on the stand and told a pathetic story of the cruelty of her husband during her illness and maintained that she was the helpless victim of her husband. She said he had compelled her to submit to the operation against her protests. Riddle testified in his own defence and denied having performed the operation and laid all the blame on his wife, saying he had warned her against any such proceedings.

C. P. R. DIVIDEND IS DECLARED

Montreal, May 11.—At a meeting of the directors Canadian Pacific Railway Company held today, a dividend of two and one-half per cent on the common stock for the quarter ended 31st March last, being at the rate of seven per cent per annum from revenue and three per cent per annum from special income account was declared payable 30th June next, to shareholders of record at 1 p. m. on 30th May instant.

ALLEGED SCANDAL HAS BEEN EXPLODED

NOTHING IN THE STORY THAT THE PADLOCK DEAL WAS BOODLING SCHEME

(Special to The Chronicle)

Ottawa, May 11—A report tabled by Postmaster-General Pelletier today completely disposes of an alleged scandal brought out by the Opposition during the course of last session. At that time Honorable Rodolphe Lemieux asserted that the Post-office Department had purchased an unusually and unnecessarily large number of locks for mail bags. The member for Rouville based his story on an answer given by the assistant Deputy Postmaster-General which, however, was erroneous and which he corrected soon afterwards. However the correction was deliberately ignored and the Opposition kept discussing the $350,000 padlock deal.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux afterwards shifted his ground and tried to manufacture another scandal by saying that the people from whom these locks were being purchased were personal friends of the Postmaster-General, that the price of the padlocks was too high, although it was the same as Mr. Lemieux himself had been paying all along. Mr. Lemieux got very indignant asserting there was boodle in all this. The report brought down today shows that the 10,000 locks which had been ordered, not having been properly manufactured by the company were refused by the department, that the manufacturers have had to take them back and that the Post-office Department ordered others which they succeeded in getting at a reduced price. Moreover, the contract not having been fulfilled it has been cancelled.

CANADIAN NORTHERN MUST PAY MILLION

Vancouver, B. C., May 11. — The award of Arbitrator F. Buscombe, directing that the Canadian Northern Railway pay compensation totalling nearly one million to the owners of the few lots on Main street with riparian rights on False Creek in connection with the C. N. R. terminal scheme was upheld by Justice Morrison this morning in the Supreme Court on an application taken by the railway company.

HOG SWALLOWS A WATCH.

Porker Dies and Autopsy Discloses the Reason.

Rickreal, Ore., May 11—That gold watches make poor food for hogs was demonstrated when Frank Kerslake, a Polk county stock breeder, found one of his valuable registered hogs dead in a pen after having swallowed its owner's fine gold watch.

Mr. Kerslake had dropped his watch the evening before while feeding the hogs, but he did not discover his loss until he made an autopsy on the hog to learn the cause of death, and discovered the watch.

The Weather

Toronto, May 11—The cool wave which was last night centred over the Prairie Province is drawing southward into the north-west states, while the disturbance which was over Kansas is extending eastward, south of the lakes, to the Atlantic. Rain is falling tonight in the Lake Erie region and light showers have occurred locally in the Maritime Provinces. Elsewhere in Canada the weather has been fair and cool. Severe frosts occurred in many parts of the West this morning.

GLIMPSES OF OLD QUEBEC

From the Files of The CHRONICLE, April, 1884 and 1814.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The readers of this column thirty years ago will remember Woodford Pilkington, Esq., M.O.C.E., who was resident engineer of the harbor of Quebec, for the last seven years. Mr. Pilkington, on leaving Quebec for the United States, received the following testimonial from the Harbor Commissioners:

Resolved, that the members of this board, before parting from Mr. Woodford Pilkington, their resident engineer, desire to take this opportunity of expressing their recognition of his ability and faithfulness as an engineer and to declare that he has given satisfaction during the seven years he has been in their employ. The members of this Board also take this opportunity of expressing their best wishes for his future welfare.

(Certified) A. H. VERRET.

Mr. Pilkington will be remembered by many as the founder and president of the school for model drawing, and many of Quebec's leading citizens attended his classes. On the occasion of his leaving, Mr. James Stevenson, general manager of the Quebec Bank read an address, expressing gratitude for the valuable instruction which he had imparted to many in the art of model and free hand drawing. The following were the signers: Isabel Kidd, Lillie Machin, Jas. Stevenson, Henry Fry, jr.; M. A. Campbell, S. A. Smith, H. M. Dallimore, E. C. Stevenson, M. Clapham, and others.

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY

Wilkinson's Second Expulsion.

The public have already been informed of the pompous notes of preparation made by the grand northern army for a second invasion of the Provinces of Canada by an expedition against the mill of Lacole, in Lower Canada. The expedition is terminated, and has furnished another evidence of the total incapacity of the present war conductors to carry it on successfully. It appears by the frothy general orders just issued that the commander-in-chief headed the expedition pro pria personae; that it consisted of two brigades, Col. Clarke and Major Forsyths' commands, and a corps of artillery, with four pieces. That its object was the capture of a stone grist mill, on the Lacole river, in which the Canadians had an outpost, and which could not contain more than 500 men. That in the attack it was found that the artillery could make no impression on the strong walls of the mill. That after an assault of two hours in which the garrison made several sorties; the attack was repulsed and the army ordered to retreat with serious loss, first to Odeltown and afterwards to Plattsburg. This is a brief but true history of the event. Yet in consequence of it another vaporing General order has been issued, couched in terms which ought to be used only when a splendid advantage had been obtained.

Driven Nearly Insane

By the Tortures of Sciatica.

Such has been the experience of many a poor sufferer from this affliction. The sciatica nerves, when inflamed are capable of giving the most excruciating torture possible to imagine. Thanks to a discovery by Dr. Stohr, an Austrian specialist, relief quickly follows a dose of Kephaldol. The fame of this prescription has spread all over the civilized world and Kephaldol is chartily endorsed by the medical profession because Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism or Neuralgia, yield to a few doses and no safer or more reliable prescription has been found. If you find it difficult to obtain locally, the manufacturers will send you a large tube on receipt of 50c. Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour street, Montreal.

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Uses With Most Remarkable Results.

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy so it was impossible to comb it or do it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believ they injure the roots of the hair. After my long list of failures, I finally found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it, and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all of his hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful preparation from alomst any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol Crystals, ½ drachm; Lavona de Composee, 2 oz. If you like it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. This, however, is not necessary. Apply night and morning; rub thoroughly into the scalp.

PROROGATION IS EXPECTED IN FIRST WEEK OF JUNE

Ottawa House Began Morning Sittings Yesterday---The Debate on the Recouping of Farmers' Bank Depositors is Begun

Ottawa, May 11—Today was the first day of morning sittings and the House made remarkable progress with the legislative programme. As much work was done today as is ordinarily done in a week. At the present rate of progress it will not take long to clean up the order paper and prorogation by the first week in June is beginning to look more like a reality than for weeks past. Outside of the Farmers' Bank there are only two contentious questions left. One is the C. N. R. and on this it is not believed that the Liberals will put up more than a perfunctory fight. The second is redistribution. The committee is working hard to bring down a unanimous report, but at present there is more or less of a deadlock, the main difficulty being in Ontario. New schemes of settlement are suggested every hour. But every new scheme naturally involves the sacrifice of some one since there are no less than eight ridings to disappear.

The resolution with regard to the Farmers' Bank depositors furnished the chief debate of the day. Party lines were broken on this.

Mr. Duncan Ross (Liberal) of West Middlesex supported the proposal but wanted to go further claiming that the Government should reimburse the shareholders as well as depositors. W. F. Nickle of Kingston, one of the dissenting Conservatives on the C. N. R. question objected to the legislation. He had investigated the question, he said, and was absolutely convinced that the loss was due to the mismanagement of Travers and not to the Treasury Board. For this reason he was opposed to the legislation.

Finance Minister's Case.

Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, in introducing the resolution, made out an admittedly good case for the legislation. He made it clear that the Treasury Board had had before it charges in regard to irregularities in connection with the organization of the company. Yet in the face of these charges the Treasury Board issued a certificate. If there had been an investigation it would have been easily proven that Travers had deceived the Government. There would have been no certificate and no bank. The Treasury Board had been negligent in its duties.

Hon. Arthur Meighen's bill for the establishment of co-operative credit societies is to be again introduced and it is expected will be put upon the statute books at once, despite the lateness of the session. Its purpose is to provide the necessary Federal legislation under which co-operative credit societies may be incorporated and carry on their work. These societies which have already made great progress in several provinces, are intended to provide funds for improvement and development and working capital for local enterprises. The members of the societies provide the funds which are thus put to local use and the upbuilding of the home territory.

Mr. Meighen in presenting the question once again to parliament, has behind him all the societies that are now at work in the various provinces, the members of which believe that they will be able to make still greater advance with uniform legislation and federal approval.

FOUR MEN KILLED, OTHERS INJURED

THEY ARE THOUGHT TO HAVE BEEN BURIED UNDER A FALL OF ROCK.

Cobalt, Ont., May 11—A report is to hand to the effect that a serious accident, involving the lives of four men, and seriously injuring about half a dozen others, occurred at Long Lake, 25 miles from here, where operations are being carried on by the Canadian Exploration Company of Naughton. As far as can be learned, the dead include two men named Collins and Defeu, Joe Kelly, formerly of Cobalt, and Alec Gauthier, the three Cobalt men having only been in the locality since April. It is believed that the men were buried under a fall of rock in the big glory hole.

FIRST SHIP TO PASS PANAMA CANAL SOON.

Panama, May 11—The first ship to pass through the Panama canal under regular conditions, will probably make the trip early next week. According to Governor Goethals, the channel through Cucaracha will be completed about Thursday. Observations will be maintained on the slide for a short time, and then a Panama railway ship with cargo will be sent through. The channel is being dredged at the rate of 100 daily and the Empire suspension bridge will be removeved immediately.

The report that the steamer Pennsylvania, of the Pacific Mail Line, will make the passage of the canal is erroneous.

TAKES PARIS GREEN

Guelph, Ont., May 11.—Douglas McGrGegor, a well known resident of Ferguson, ended his life on Saturday at his home or Union street by taking a dose of Paris green. He was for many years a prosperous farmer in Eramosa township, but retired to private life in Ferguson five years ago.

GERMAN DESERTER GOT PUNISHED.

Cologne, Germany, May 11—An American citizen named Schroeder was sentenced today by court martial to 13 months imprisonment for deserting. Schroeder was a cannoneer in the 26th Artillery Regiment. He was sentenced in 1886 to one and a half years imprisonment for desertion. He served the sentence and then received a further sentence for insubordination.

Schroeder made his escape from the Cologne fortress and proceeded to the United States where he became naturalized. He returned to Germany some moths ago and was arrested at the home of his brother at Heidelberg. The military authorities had renewed the process against him in 1909 and 1912, thus preventing him from evading the law.

COMPOSITION OF FRENCH CHAMBER NOW MADE KNOWN

WELL-DEFINED PROGRAMME OF SOCIALISTS RESPONSIBLE FOR THEIR SUCCESS.

Paris, May 11.—As a result of the second balloting for members of the Chamber of Deputies, the new chamber will be composed about as follows:

Returns have not been received from two districts.

Taking another form of grouping the Temps gives to the Briandists (including a part of the Independent Socialists, Independent Radicals and Republicans of the left), 177; Ministerialists (including United Radicals and Moderate Socialists, and some Independents), 180; Extreme Socialists, 102; United Republicans and Progressives, 69; the Right (consisting of the Conservatives, Royalists, Bonapartists, Catholics and some Independents), 73.

The Temps, analyzing the position of the deputies, according to t heir pre-election declarations, places 308 of the 60 2members as in favor of the three years military service, the others being designated as against such service or doubtful; 279 members for the Income Tax and 352 for proportional representation.

The Socialists success in the elections appears to have been due to their well defined program and their adequate organization. The Radicals and other groups had almost as many platforms as candidates.

The Briandists, who include many brilliant men, lost ground by lack of preparation and general slackness in campaigning.

FIRE HOSE CHECKS THE ARDOR OF LOVING COUPLE.

Not Known That the Engaged Pair Had Met by Chance and Was Making Up.

Columbus, O., May 11—Postmaster J. M. Davis has a hard and fast rule against flirting or spooning in the corridor of the post office.

A woman and man entered the corridor from opposite doors, and when they met there were exclamations of delight, and much hugging, kissing, caressing and loving spiels for a few minutes, much to the amusement of the other patrons of the office, and to disgust and annoyance of the postmaster who, after a reasonable wait for the pair to break away, ordered out the fire squad of the post office, who played a four-inch stream of water from the hose on them.

Thoroughly drenched and greatly enraged they hastened from the building.

When they had gone Postmaster Davis learned that they were a couple who had been estranged, but who, on meeting in the corridor by chance, evidently mutually decided to kiss and make up.

BANK OF HAMILTON'S NEW PRESIDENT

Hamilton, Ont., May 11—The Bank of Hamilton directors today elected Col. The Hon. John S. Hendrie, president, to succeed the late Senator Gibson. Cyrus A. Birge was made vice-president.

FRENCH CHAMBER ABOUT TO ENTER CRITICAL PERIOD

ENTIRE SITUATION TURNS ON THE THREE YEARS' MILITARY SERVICE.

Paris, May 11—The political situation was eagerly discussed today in the lobbies of the Chamber where many deputies assembled to reserve places for the opening session June 1st. All agree that the French Parliament is about to enter upon an exceptionally critical period. Interest centers on the declaration of policy which Premier Doumergue will make in answer to the interpellation which follows the election of officers.

The entire situation turns on the three years' military service. On the other hand, the Cabinet cannot very well abandon its attitude in favor of this measure. Thus Premier Doumergue is in a difficult position, for it would not be easy for him to carry on his administration if the Socialists assumed hostile position.

In the opinion of many M. Doumergue may relinquish his task, in which event M. Delcasse, they think, would have the best chance of forming a ministry drawn from the moderate sections of the Republicans and Radicals. Experienced politicians believe that the situation in France is pointing in the direction of the formation of two clearly definite parties, Conservatives and Socialists, organized along same lines as the great American parties.

ALLEGED BORDER CRIMINAL TAKEN

A WIDE RANGE OF OFFENCES —DENIES HE IS MAN WHO IS WANTED.

Yarmouth, N. S., May 11.—Harry Van Tassel is under arrest here, charged with a number of crimes committed along the international boundary line. His arrest was made at the instigation of the deputy sheriff at Littleton, N. H. Among the offences enumerated are forgery, obtaining money under false pretences, disposing of mortgaged property, etc. It is alleged that sixty horses have been smuggled across the boundary into New Hampshire, and that the operations have extended as far west as Chicago.

Van Tassel is a native of Digby, but has been away from his native town for many years. He denies he is the man wanted. He admits having worked in New Hampshire. Immediately after his arrest he said he would go back without extradition proceedings, but he has since retained counsel.

RETIRED PASTOR DIES AT VANOUVER

Vancouver, B.C., May 11.—Dr. Elliott S. Rowe, for many years a well-known clergyman in various Canadian cities, died today following a long illness from dropsy. He came to Victoria ten years ago as pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Church and when his term was out, retired from the ministry. He became publicity commissioner of Vancouver and did invaluable work as head of the Progress Club.

BRITISH LEGATION WARNS SUBJECTS TO LEAVE MEXICO

MEN AND BOYS AT CAPITAL—LAST STAND MAY BE AT PUEBLA.

Vera Cruz, Mex., May 11.—From Mexico City come late reports of quiet business conditions, but of large numbers of men and boys drilling in the streets. A few nights ago a mob gathered before the Brazilian legation and demanded that Luis D'Antin, an attache of the American Embassy, who had taken refuge there, be delivered over. Threats were made to kill him.

The Brazilian Minister notified the State Department, and added that he would only surrender D'Antin in case he was overpowered by a mob. The antipathy to the attache is due to the fact that he is the only American official left in the capital and because of his activity in relieving the distress of American non-combattants.

So far as is known no measures have been taken to fortify the capital. At Guadalupe, which is a strategic point on the Mexican railway, entering the city there are no signs of fortifications. The Federals, however, are taking steps to provision Puebla, about midway between Vera Cruz and the capital, on the line of the Inter-Oceanic. General Navarrete is said to be holding outposts east of Puebla, watching the American lines. It is reported that many cattle have been gathered at Puebla and much grain and supplies of various sorts are stored there.

A rumor was current in the capital that in case Villa drives the Federals out, Huerta is planning to make a stand at Puebla, which has a military advantage for defense. Puebla is the city where the Mexicans made a desper- resistance against the French invasion.

The number of American women left in the capital is variously estimated up to three hundred. They are waiting for what they characterize as "the last indefinite warning." They appear to believe that the capture of the capital by the rebels would mean nothing worse than fighting within the city, probably a bombardment, but that they would be safe if they kept to certain districts of the city.

The British Legation has sent out another notification of all British subjects in Mexico, urging the advisability of their leaving the country immediately. Many of the British residents are heeding the warning, which is being spread through the interior by couriers.

ATTACKS GERMAN ARMAMENT FIRMS

SOCIALIST DEPUTY DECLARES HIGH OFFICIALS ARE ON THEIR DIRECTORATE.

Berlin, May 11.—The Socialist deputy, Dr. Karl Liebknecht, who last year made the sensational charges that officials of the Prussian War Office had accepted bribes from the Krupp Company in return for military documents, which resulted in the conviction of several officers and others, made an attack tonight in the Reichstag on the international, and especially the German, armaments industry. He declared that this industry in Germany represented at least $125,000,000 of invested capital and that many former high government officials and army officers were members of the Krupp board of management.

The same was true, he asserted, of other German armament firms, and all had international connections. The Krupp Company was in the combine with the Skoda Works, which were conducted with English and French capital.

Dr. Liebknecht further declared that Dr. Hermann S. Paasche, Vice-President of the Reichstag, and the new Minister of the Interior, Count Von Loebell, belong to the directorate of the Ehrhardt Works, that the Loewe Small Arms Company embraces Belgian, French and Italian firms, that an international powder trust also is in existence and that banks are involved. He named the Deutsche Bank and Disconte-Cesellschaft.

Similarly, he charged that the warship industry was international and named Vic-Admiral Von Sack as "go between" for the araments industry and foreign countries. He said that high state, army and navy officials were members of the directorate of a prominent optical instrument firm which overcharged the army 150 marks for every field glass of a certain kind.

TAMPICO REPORTED TAKEN

London, May 12.—The Daily Chronicle in its issue of today asserts that certain London business houses have received reports that the rebels have captured Tampico.

INQUEST INTO ST. SAUVEUR MURDER CASE THIS MORNING

Some Startling Disclosures Are Expected---Many Sensational Rumors About Town ---Prisoner Will Plead Alibi

The coroner's inquest on the remains of Miss Marie Blanche Dubois, who was foully murdered on Sunday morning in the rear of the shoe store conducted by herself and her brother at the corner of St. Valier, Sauvageau and Massue streets, will be held 9:30 o'clock this morning at the residence of the victim's mother, No. 1 Sauvageau street.

Some startling disclosures are expected at the inquest, which will be conducted by Coroner Jolicoeur, who has been making a deep research into all the circumstances of the case, which is one of the most revolting in the criminal records of the City of Quebec.

The inquest this morning will probably be only partial, as the Coroner will show the murdered remains of the young girl to the jury and then the testimony of the girl's mother and her aunt will be adduced, after which the inquest may be adjourned to permit further inquiries being made into all the circumstances attending the crime.

Coroner Jolicoeur was very busy all day yesterday, as were Chief McCarthy and Provincial Police Cardinal and Verret, searching for more evidence which would throw light on the case.

The police visited the home of prisoner Joe Dion, who was arrested on suspicion Sunday night, and there took possession of some of the man's clothing, which is now in the hands of Coroner Jolicoeur.

Rumor has it that the clothes in question are stained with blood, but Dr. Jolicoeur refused to confirm or deny this point. It is also rumored that the prisoner, who some years ago was employed in the Dubois shoe store, was cross-questioned yesterday and at first denied that he had been in the Dubois store for some months past, but later admitted that he had been there last Tuesday and Thursday. It is also common talk that he was enamoured of the victim of the crime, but that she scorned his affections and gave him no encouragement.

When Dion was arested on Sunday night he was on his way home from Montmorency Falls, where he is said to be courting another young woman whom he had gone down to see early on Sunday afternoon.

No formal accusation has yet been made against Dion and while he may be presumed to be innocent until he is proved guilty, the police seem to think that they have the right man. They say that he answers the description given by Mr. Louis Savard, N. P., of the individual in a grey suit whom he saw leave the Dubois house on Sunday morning about eleven o'clock and hurry away.

After the arrest on Sunday night Mr. Savard was called upon to identify the prisoner, and although he had not seen the face of the man who left the Dubois house in the morning, he said that Dion's general outlines as well as his clothes corresponded exactly with those he had seen on the man in the morning.

Dion denies having had any connection whatever with the killing of the girl and maintains that at the time the crime was committed he was elsewhere with some friends. He persists that he can prove an alibi.

Coroner Jolicoeur has already selected five of the jurymen for the inquest and will name three others this morning. The men chosen are all in business in the vicinity of the Dubois store. They are as follows: Messrs. L. T. Armand, Jeweller; Arthur Drolet, Grocer; John I. LaRoche, Druggist; R. A. Blouin, Glassware Merchant; Charles Beaulieu, Tailor.

DEROME IS AFTER CORNWALL PLAYERS

MARK CUMMINGS AND JOHN WHITE SAID TO BE OBJECT OF HIS SEARCH.

Cornwall, Ont., May 11—Edwin Sommerville, a local senior lacrosse player, has closed with the Toronto Lacrosse Club to play there this summer and will join the Toronto squad in a few days.

The Quebec Club is after Mark Cummings and John White, and the Nationals are dickering with Lawrence Degray, a brother of Ambrose Degray, who figured on the French team last season.

SNOWSTORM IN SYDNEY.

Sydney, N.S., May 11—This city was visited by the latest snowstorm on record this evening. The streets were covered to the depth of about one inch.

EXPLORING PARTY VICTIM OF INDIANS

BARON NORDENSKJOLD AND COMPANIONS HAVE PERISHED IN SOUTH AMERICA

Vienna, May 11—A Styrian newspaper today prints an unconfirmed rumor that the exploring party of Baron Nordenskjold, a son of the famous Arctic explorer, has fallen victim to Indians in South America.

The last report received concerning Baron Nordenskjold's expedition came in a despatch to Stockholm March 16 last. The despatch was dated Belm, Brazil, and said that Nordenskjold's companion, Jocinnberg, had been killed. The way in which Johnberg met death was not stated.

MUCH SEEDING DONE IN SASKATCHEWAN

EIGHTY PER CENT OF THE WHEAT IS IN THE GROUND —COLD WET WEATHER.

Regina, Sask., May 11.—Eighty per cent of Saskatchewan's wheat crop and five to ten per cent of the oat crop acreages have ben seeded. The percentage seeded to these grains in the southwest and northeast of the province is not so high owing to intermittent snow and rain falls since the first of the month, causing cessation of work of from a week to ten days. West of Moose Jaw the rainfall has done very much good, but on the lighter land more rain would be beneficial. Although the weather generally over the province has been cold, the crop has made good progress in the west and north, as much as 30 per cent of the early sown fields showing green.

In many districts the cold wet weather of the month of May to date will result in less acreage being devoted to wheat and more to coarse grains than had been planned by the farmers. While the cold weather has meant slow germination, it has caused the wheat to take root well and made it more capable of withstanding subsequent spells of heat and drought. In the older settled districts very little of the crop will go in on stubble and wherever stubble is to be shown it will receive some form of surface cultivation, generally disc harrowing.

COMMITS SUICIDE

Minot, N. D., May 11.—The body of James MacLelland, of Glasgow, Scotland, was found in the toilet room of a sleeping car of a Great Northern train today, when it arrived here. He had cut his throat with a razor. Letters disclosed that MacLelland was making an investigation of the rapid transit conditions of the United States and Canada as compared with those of England and Scotland.

Mrs. Hecker, of Ottawa, is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Coote, St. Ann street.

WORTHY OF SUPPORT.

We understand that Mr. J. H. Paquet, the lessee of the Auditorium, is endeavoring to induce Sir Johnston Forbes Robertson, the famous actor, to give a performance in Quebec before sailing from here in September on his way home. We sincerely hope that Mr. Paquet will be successful in his efforts as Forbes Robertson would give us the very best and there have been few actors that have attained such eminence and distinction in their art. There is no doubt that there is in Quebec a strong demand for what is best in music and drama and no one can better satisfy that demand than he can.

This movement is one which deserves the hearty support of all. The visit of distinguished actors and actresses supported by well-balanced companies, and the production of refined and educative plays cannot fail to have an elevating effect on the public mind, not to speak of the pleasure which they give to the more discriminating playgoers. Should Forbes Robertson and his company be able to give a performance here, there is no doubt they would attract a crowded house.

THE SATISFIED WEST.

The strongest Liberal newspaper in the West, if not in all Canada, The Winnipeg Free Press, declares the C. N. R. agreement "displays a desire to safeguard public interests that has not been apparent in the past in the bond guaranteeing enterprises of various Canadian Governments."

This favorable comparison of the first legislation of the kind upon the part of the Borden administration is an important compliment to the Government. It is at once an admission that Mr. Borden and his colleagues have succeeded where the Laurier Cabinet failed.

The acquiescence of Western Liberalism, as represented by The Winnipeg Free Press, in the agreement that has been arrived at is the more significant in view of the interest that the West has in the Canadian Northern. The failure of the railroad to reach the highest point of possible efficiency would be felt in Western Canada to a greater extent than in the East.

The Ottawa Opposition is out of harmony with Western Liberal sentiment when it determines upon a campaign of antagonism to the Government's terms.

BRITISH MAGAZINES.

For some years past, as the working out of an agreement made by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux when he was postmaster-general, in order to encourage the circulation in Canada of periodicals and magazines produced in England, the imperial government has collected annually a sum aggregating $100,000 for carrying this mail matter from London to Liverpool, a distance of 212 miles, while Canada has transported it from the latter point to its destination in any part of the Dominion free.

This is a too one-sided arrangement, and, although the Liberals advocate its continuance, the present government considers that, in the interests of Canada, the imperial postal department should share this income equally with this Dominion.

During the recess an effort will be made by Mr. Pelletier to bring this necessary change about, for while there is no desire to handicap the circulation of English publications there is no equitable reason why the country of their origin should collect $100,000 for carrying them a few miles without any expense of collection, while Canada conveys them anything from 3,000 to 5,000 miles free and at the same time bears the cost of delivery.

If Great Britain will share the $100,000 equally with Canada, no one will grumble, although even then Canada will be bearing the heavier end of the burden.

THE OLD WEATHER-COCK.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier used to call himself "the Old Cock," until he began to realize that everyone was laughing at him and that he had not gained much in dignity by the new name which he had invented for himself. If he had called himself the "Old Weather-cock," the designation would have been more suitable and this is what even his own followers now realize.

The Liberal organs are as a rule only to glad to quote the Grain Growers' Guide when it is a question of the tariff but it doubtful if they will see fit to quote from one of its recent articles which has taken Laurier to task for his many changes of policy. While the Guide is not satisfied with the recent reduction in the implement duties, it confesses that 'the Liberals when in power did very little towards reducing the duties and believe only in free trade when the Conservatives are in power."

It was in the West, it points out, that Sir Wilfrid made his most impassioned speeches on behalf of free trade as they have it in England shortly, before he became Premier in 1896, and, when the settler looks back and sees that all the present Leader of the Opposition did in 15 years was to introduce what Dr. Michael Clarke calls some microscopical modifications of the National Policy, he marvels that Sir Wilfrid should have the audacity to start all over again with his free trade talk.

Another thing for which the West is hardly likely to forgive Sir Wilfrid is the astounding muddle which he made of the Transcontinental enterprise. The speech which he made in the House in July, 1903 on launching the enterprise was scattered everywhere between the Red River and the Rockies and the following passage in particular was hailed with delight—

"The whole of the liability which is incurred by the Government for the building of the section from Moncton to Winnipeg is simply seven years' interest. The sum total of the money to be paid by the Government for the construction of the line of railway from Moncton to the Pacific Ocean will be in the neighborhood of 12 or 13 million dollars, and not a cent more. Now, what is 13 million dollars in the year 1903? It is about the surplus of our revenue over the expenditure. The surplus of this year will pay for the construction of the road."

For this paltry sum the West was to obtain a third transcontinental, which would reduce local and through rates to such an extent that the amount netted by the settler from his yearly wheat and other crops would be enormously increased; moreover, every bushel he produced for export would go to Canadian ports over Canadian soil, to the enrichment of the railway and steamship interests of the East.

It was a gorgeous picture, and one that deceived thousands of Western voters. The stern reality is that the new road has cost so much, especially the Government section between Winnipeg and Moncton, that in the lifetime of the present generation at any rate it can scarcely hope to compete with the Canadian Pacific, much less grant rates below those which the Canadian Pacific may levy; whilst, instead of the Canadian roads being employed to convey the Western surplus to the Atlantic seaboard, that surplus, or at least a good portion of it, will be sent south by American roads to the American market, if Sir Wilfrid and some of his agitators have their way about free wheat.

It is no wonder that a host of settlers have lost confidence in Sir Wilfrid. They do not know what to make of his present and past utterances. One of them writes, in a Calgary paper, "I for one can't be loyal to a weather-cock," and another says, "I was born a Liberal, but have become so dizzy and confused in trying to follow Sir Wilfrid that I do not know what I am today; nor, I fancy, could he himself tell what he stands for."

PRESS COMMENT.

The politicians who came out so badly in their Parliamentary skirmish with the Minister of Militia and Defence cannot expect much sympathy from the onlooking public. No Canadian Minister of Militia ever introduced his estimates with a speech more to the liking of the people than the one delivered by Colonel Hughes on Thursday. It was presented in a manner becoming a statesman with so weighty responsibilities as those resting on the political head of our defensive service. There was no militarism about that speech, but there was an abundance of what will commend itself to the public as good Canadianism and sound sense. The pin-prickers of the Opposition who had so much to say in praise of peace, in denunciation of militarism and in advocacy of retrenchment were even more clamorous a year ago for lavish expenditures to carry out a futile scheme of naval defence. Canada, they insisted, must build two fleet units without delay. Unless she hastened to do so she might, they maintained, find herself confronted by an enemy. But these men become severe economists when the question of training our militia has to be dealt with. Colonel Hughes' administration of the Militia Department has not only much increased the power of the country for self-defence, but it has also contributed very materially to social welfare. His strictness about the canteen has changed the moral atmosphere of our military camps enormously for the better. His policy for the encouraging of boys to take training as cadets has had really wonderful results for good. It is making men of thousands of lads who could not otherwise have escaped formative influences tending to make failures of them.—Toronto Mail.

It is not our desire to discourage those modern housewives who are offering three times as much wages in a vain attempt to entice into their kitchens the green but honest domestic, but we can forbear to contrast their hopes and expectations with those of the author of this advertisement, printed in the Lady's Magazine, an English publication, in 1789: "Wanted, for a sober family, a man of light weight who fears the Lord and can drive a pair of horses. He must occasionally wait at table, join in household prayer, look after the horses and read a chapter of the Bible. He must, God willing, rise at seven in the morning, obey his master and mistress in all lawful commands; if he can dress hair, sing psalms and play at cribbage, the more agreeable. Wages, fifteen guineas a year." And yet, when analyzed, the requirements set down in detail here, which seems so formidable at first glance, dwindle perceptibly. It will be noted, for example, that even in that age of domestic autocracy the mistress found it necessary to compromise in the matter of early rising. Seven is surely a comfortably late hour, and even then the Divine will was permitted to interpose itself between duty and its victim. And it does not necessarily pre-suppose a careful preliminary training for one to qualify as "a man of light weight who fears the Lord." To be sure, the successful applicant must look after the horses and wait on table, two occupations which, when performed by the same individual, would almost spell versatility, and he must obey his master and mistress. The latter, of course, is the most impressive item, but a loophole is provided by the clause "in all lawful commands," the size of which is a matter of interpretation. As for the remaining accomplishments, they may be dismissed as hopes, not requirements, and even a modern housewife may hope.—New York Tribune.

With the four gunmen executed, the second trial of Lieut. Becker brings to the forefront again the question of the responsibility of "the system" in the New York Police Department for the gambler Rosenthal's murder. Lieut. Becker was not tried in the first place as an actual assassin. He was charged then, as he is charged now, with having procured the gambler's assassination, which is a crime involving the death sentence as punishment. The lieutenant's alleged motive was the prevention of Rosenthal's exposure of the police system of blackmail. District Attorney Whitman's task now seems more difficult than it was at the first trial. Taking for granted Becker's guilt, still his chance of life seems improved by the mere fact that the verdict of guilty in the first trial was annulled by the court of appeals.—Fredericton Gleaner.

A peculiar sense of fear is associated with many different creatures and things. Lord Roberts, for instance, is afraid of cats. He will not have a cat in the room where he is sitting. On one occasion, when asked out to dinner, his host rather doubted the existence of this fear, and concealed a cat in the ottoman in the dining room. Dinner was announced and served, but the chief guest seemed ill at ease, and at last declared his inability to go on eating, as he was sure there was a cat in the room. A pretended search was made, but disclosed no trace of the animal. The famous soldier persisted in his declaration. Finally the host, realizing that he was causing "Bobs" great discomfort, let the cat "out of the bag" and the ottoman at the same time, and apologized for the annoyance caused. Another famous man who was supersensitive to the presence of cats was Henry III. of France. This monarch disliked them so intensely that he was known to faint at the sight of one. Two other great generals, Marshal Saxe, the French soldier, and the Duke of Schomberg, also held them in horror. Peter the Great loathed the sight of water. He could scarcely be persuaded to cross a bridge, and if compelled to do so would sit in his carriage with closed windows, bathed in perspiration. Fear of the River Mosera, which flowed through his palace garden, prevented him ever seeing its beauty. Julius Caesar, to whom the shouts of thousands of the enemy were but sweet music, was mortally afraid of the sound of thunder, and always wanted to hide underground whenever a thunderstorm hovered over his army. —London Tit-Bits.

It was good as a rose of May after months of bleak and wintry weather to see Sir James Whitney in his accustomed place in the Legislature at the formal closing of the session yesterday afternoon. A few weeks ago his life was despaired of, and it would seem that his lifework is done, yet to men of all parties his presence, even for the few last moments of the session, was a genuine and undisguised pleasure. Sir James was ever a fighter, but he seldom struck below the belt. If his brusqueness of manner ever vexed his political opponents they knew that his dictator methods vexed his own followers yet more. Yesterday as he stood among his old associates there was a touch almost of reverence for the plucky wrestler who, though the sinews of his strength were shrunken, would not quit the field.—Toronto Globe (Liberal).

Not a Half-bad Idea, at That.

Stepping out of the tonneau, he "stretched" himself as though he meant to make a good job of the task.

"If some of those manufacturers had to sit in the tonneau of their cars a whole day long,' they'd go back to the trolley tomorrow," he grumbled aloud.

"They call that a 5-passenger car! Just measure the width of that seat. Thirty-six inches! Fancy three people seated 'comfortably' on twelve inches apiece. Ridiculous! I would not have a chair in my house less than sixteen inches wide. The railroad wouldn't dare build car seats less than 30 inches. Yet here's a car cost me several thousand dollars that allows me exactly 12 inches room.

"The next car I buy is going to be bought for comfort. I'll take its maker's name as a guarantee mechanically. But I'm going to measure the seat. And the car I buy will have a tonneau seat four feet wide. And then, believe me, it will be a five-passenger car—with comfort for all."

Which brings emphatic approval from many owners of "so-called" 5-passenger cars, where a two-hour ride with three in the tonneau is good training for "a tight-rope-walging" stunt.

THE INTERNATIONAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN

Countess of Aberdeen Again Elected President For Five Years

Rome, May 11—The Countess of Aberdeen today was re-elected president of the International Council of Women. Her re-election was almost unanimous. The Countess will hold office for five years. Mrs. May Wright Sewall, of Eliot, Me., was re-elected honorary president.

Among the other officers chosen today are: Mme Jules Siegfried, France, first vice-president; Froken Henni Forchhammer, Denmark, second vice-president; Mrs. Henry Dobson, Tasmania, third vice-president; Fraulein Dr. Alice Saloman, Germany, corresponding secretary; Mme Alphen Salvador, France, recording secretary, and Mrs. Harriett Sophia, Sanford, Hamilton, Ont., treasurer.

Committee president were elected as follows: Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, Canada, finance; Mrs. George Cadbury, England, peace and arbitration; the Rev. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, New York, suffrage and rights of citizenship; Fraulein Dr. Van Dorp, Holland, laws concerning the legal position of women; Mme Avril De Sainte-Croix, France, equal moral standards and traffic in women; Mme Girard Mangin France, public health; Mrs. Ogilvie Gordon, Scotland, education; the Countess Danieli Cancezi, Italy, emigration and immigration.

When the announcement of her re-election was made, the Countess of Aberdeen delivered an address to the assembly. She said she had hoped a woman of another nationality would relieve her of the responsibilities of the office of president of the council. The members of her family, she added, desired her to abandon the trying position and she had only consented to be a candidate for re-election when she was unanimously requested to do so. The Countess said she doubted if the council had done the best thing it could have done by re-electing her, but that nevertheless she would continue her work, putting her whole heart into it. In concluding she expressed her thanks for the confidence that again had been reposed in her.

INQUEST TODAY IN ST. HILAIRE DEATH

EXPLANATION IS GIVEN THAT HE WAS INJURED BY FALLING DOWNSTAIRS

When the news of the death of Onidas St. Hilaire from a fracture of the skull became generally known yesterday morning, explanations were given that the young man had fallen headlong down a flight of stairs at the Eldorado Hotel, at the corner of St. Joseph street and Boulevard Langelier on Saturday night.

St. Hilaire was badly shaken up by the fall, but was able to go home in a carter's vehicle, and it was thought at the time that his injuries were not serious.

When his parents went into his room to awaken him on Sunday morning, as already related in the Chronicle, he was found to be unconscious, and when Dr. Arthur Leclerc was summoned he discovered that the young man's skull had been fractured, and death followed at five o'clock Sunday afternoon.

An inquest will be held on the remains at the home of the deceased's father, No. 143 Franklyn street, St. Sauveur, at eleven o'clock this morning by Coroner Jolicoeur.

LADIES

MISSIONARY SERVICE.

A week night service will be held in Trinity Church tonight at eight o'clock. Rev. Mr. Western will speak on Canadian Mission Work.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE.

The Rev. Walter Western, of Regina, will deliver a lecture on "Mission Work in Western Canada" in the Cathedral Church Hall this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

RECORDER'S COURT.

Fourteen prisoners attended the Recorder's "at home" yesterday morning. As whisky of different brands was the cause of so many guests being desirous to call on His Honor, the latter taxed them in sums ranging from $2 and costs or eight days' jail to $5 and costs or one month.

VICTORIA DAY FISHING.

To accommodate the fishermen the Q. & L. St. John Ry., has arranged to run the Saturday morning train through to Lake Edward, 23rd May, and back on 25th May. Tickets on sale by F. S. Stocking,, 32 St. Louis street.

SMALL ROW AT ITALIAN PARTY

At an Italian party held at No. 179 St. Valier street on Sunday, a family row started up in the course of which a woman named Zaro is said to have cut her hand pretty severely with a knife which she was holding. Some neighbors called the police, but the fight was over when they arrived on the scene, and no arrests were made.

MISS COTE PASSES AWAY.

After a lingering illness, which, during the past six months, grew more serious, Miss Mary Catherine (May) Cote expired at the residence of her sister, Mrs. P. K. Hunt, Haldimand street, yesterday afternoon.

The passing away of Miss Cote will cause genuine regret among a wide circle of friends, with whom she was held in high esteem for his kindly disposition. Deceased was a daughter of the late Vincent Celestin Cote, for many years superintendent of the Drum Furniture factory at the Palais. The late Miss Cote leaves four sisters to mourn their loss, Mrs. P. K. Hunt, Mrs. P. M. McKnight, Quebec, Mrs. Thos. McCarron, St. Pacome, and Mrs. J. A. Boisjoli, of St. Anne de Bellevue.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. P. K. Hunt, on Thursday morning, to the Basilica. The interment will be at St. Charles' Cemetery.

Shop in The Morning

People shopping in the afternoon are so many, that sometimes you find it hard to inspect ALL that is exhibited. Why not do your shopping in the morning when the stores are not crowded?

You would surely benefit.

Try it at the Bon-Ton Stores, 421-423 St. Joseph street, where you are sure of always getting the very latest and best at the factory prices.

PULLS TEETH WITH HANDS.

Woman Teacher Looks After Simple Aches of Her Pupils.

Marysville, Kan., May 11—Miss Frances Rose, a teacher of the primary grade room in the Blue Rapids city schools, has a "pull" that sure is "some pull," and she is making a record run against dentists of that town.

Not only does she instruct her pupils in the paths of knowledge that may lead them to useful avenues through life, but she also looks after their health to the extent that when their teeth need attention in their removal, she takes the job in hand and without forceps extracts them.

During the present term of school she has pulled forty teeth, fully as many as during the entire term of last year.

MUTT AND JEFF AT THE AUDITORIUM

PACKED HOUSE IS PROOF OF POPULARITY OF BUD FISHER'S PETS.

The packed house last night at the Auditorium was a proof of the popularity of these two figures who have been made world famous by the great cartoonist, Bud Fisher.

In many respects the present company can be compared favorably with last year's production, and in others there is a distinct falling off. The scenic effects are very good, and certainly superior to previous performances.

And another excellent feature which stands out quite prominently is the military march and ensemble in the second act, which is very spectacular and effective. Jerry Sullivan as Jeff, is still the original, dyed-in-the-wool artist, and a really clever one at that.

He has evidently lost none of his old-time popularity, and his antics and eccentricities with his famous partner "Mutt" are in many instances very laughable.

Mr. Warner as Capt. Wayne has a creditable voice and he and Mr. Harry Hoyt as Lieut. Borden gave very good impersonations of their respective parts.

The dancing of Miss Flora Russell was also quite clever and this young lady received a well earned share of applause in this connection.

Altogether the show is a very presentable one, well staged, smooth in its running and sufficiently light to be forgotten as soon as it is over.

"PHANTOM BREAD"

No, it's not food for ghosts—it's the term used by an eminent French professor, Maurice Letulle of Paris University, who thus describes ordinary bread. He says "A true food is one made from the whole of the wheat so we get gluten, the flesh-building element as well as the other elements which are naturally concentrated in a grain of wheat. These valuable elements do not exist in the white flour produced by roller mills and the result is a 'phantom bread' consisting of badly cooked starch which does anything but nourish."

Sir Henry Thompson, F.R.C.S., adds "A daily food should be made from entire wheat and not from flour which has had most of its mineral elements removed."

Here is where "FORCE" supplies every deficiency common to bread. First, it's made from fine, whole wheat nothing taken out. Next, it's thoroughly cooked, to make the starch easily digestible. Rich barley malt is added during the cooking process to make "FORCE" tasty and more nourishing. Then the wheat is flaked, baked and toasted so it's ready to eat. "FORCE" toasted when flakes feeds the whole system, as nature intended wheat should do, and at a cheaper rate than meat, or almost any other food you can buy.

ADDITIONAL TRAIN SERVICE AT NIGHT

Between Quebec, Ste Anne and St. Joachim, on the Q. R., L. & P. Company's Line

Commencing Saturday, May 16th, trains will run as follows: Leave Quebec for St. Joachim at 7.15 p.m.; leave Quebec for Ste Anne at 10.45 p.m.; leave St. Joachim for Quebec at 9.15 p.m.; leave Ste Anne for Quebec at 12 (midnight.).

MARTIN HARVEY'S TOUR.

The forthcoming visit of the distinguished actor-manager, Mr. Martin Harvey, and his London company to Quebec is one of the most interesting dramatic events of the present season. Mr. Harvey has gradually worked his way up from a minor member of the late Sir Henry Irving's company until today he occupies a position among the foremost actors of the English-speaking stage. His tour is the first all-Canadian tour that has been undertaken by any English actor or English company, and the organization will not leave British soil from start to the finish. They come to the Auditorium theatre for three performances. Mr. Martin Harvey's repertoire includes two plays. "The Only Way," a play which has been made famous by him, and which more than two million people in the British Isles have witnessed during the past ten years. Mr. Harvey, who created the role of Sidney Carton, the hero of the play, has appeared at every single performance during that time.

"The Only Way," as most people know, is a dramatization of Dickens' famous novel, "A Tale of Two Cities," dealing with the thrilling times of the French Revolution. Mr. Harvey has the role of the dissolute barrister, Sidney Carton, whose noble sacrifice in going to the guillotine to save the life of his rival in love, and he has made of it a classic which is beloved by the British public almost more than any other role now played on the stage.

"The Breed of the Treshams" is another stirring drama, cast in the period of Cromwellian days. "Reresby the Rat," the hero, played by Mr. Harvey, is another character whose loveable traits have won a warm place in the hearts of the English people.

Honestly, now Dad, could you "chin the bar" seven times?

Doubtful, eh? Probably the quick, young muscles of your 14-year old could do it easier. Perhaps you eat heavy, soggy foods that take all the spring out of your muscles? Why not try "FORCE"? It's tasty. It makes muscle. It's wheat cooked with malt.

"FORCE" is richer in energy creating agents than any other cereal.

The wheat is cooked for 120 minutes, with barley malt.

The wheat berries are then rolled into paper-thin flakes, baked and toasted.

Eat "FORCE" with fruit. You don't often taste anything you'll like better.

RUSSIAN ARRESTED AT BLACK LAKE

The arrest was made yesterday at Black Lake of one of the Russians wanted for the assault committed at the Quebec Bridge on Saturday, May 2nd, on an Italian who was left for dead by his cowardly assailants.

It appears that four Russians employed on the work about the Bridge ordered an Italian workman to come to the city and purchase liquor for them. The Italian refused to obey their orders, so they set on him and gave him a severe beating. Then, fearing arrest, they fled the district.

Two of the accused had already been arrested, while the third arrest was made at Black Lake yesterday. It is expected that the fourth man will be apprehended today or tomorrow.

THOUGHT SHANTYMEN MISSING GUNMEN

LEVIS POLICE WERE TOLD THEY WERE ON QUEBEC CENTRAL TRAIN.

Considerable alarm was created at Levis yesterday when a telegram was received by Chief of Police Marsan that the two bandits Bourret and Foucault, wanted for the murder of a Montreal policeman, had boarded the Quebec Central train at Ste. Sabine bound for Levis.

Chief Marsan met the train at Levis where he accosted the two men answering the descriptions of Bourret and Foucault, but found they were only two shantymen who had been working in the woods all winter and were returning to the homes at St. Romuald.

DEATH OF MRS. E. POULIN.

The death which occurred this morning of Mrs. Ernest Poulin, (nee Florence Dupont), will be learned with a shock by her numerous friends as well as those of her husband. The deceased young woman who was generally beloved and esteemed, had legions of true friends, whom she won by her manifold sterling qualities and her loveable disposition. The deceased, together with her husband, was a member of Quebec Banjo Club, and took parts in the concerts which were given by that organization. Much sincere sympathy will be extended to her sorrowing husband.

15 YEARS SUFFERING FROM PILES

Mr. J. McEwen of Dundas, Ont., writes:—"For fifteen years I suffered with Piles and could get no permanent cure until I tried Zam-Buk. Perseverance with this herbal balm resulted in a complete cure, and I have not been troubled with the painful ailment since."

Mr. Henry Fougere of Poulamond, N.S., says:—"I suffered terribly with Piles and could find nothing to give me relief until I tried Zam-Buk. This cured me. I consider Zam-Buk the finest ointment on the market."

The above are specimens of the many letters we are constantly receiving from men and women who have ended their suffering by using Zam-Buk. Why not do likewise?

Zam-Buk is best for eczema, blood poisoning, ulcers, sores, cuts, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c. box, all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send this advertisement with name of paper and one cent stamp for free trial box.

MONTREAL PITCHERS MEET WITH DELUGE

PROVIDENCE BATTERS HIT THEIR OFFERINGS ALL OVER THE FIELD.

Montreal, May 11—All Montreal pitchers looked alike to Providence at the opening of the series here today. The visitors gathered on seven safeties from the four local pitchers, hitting their offerings to all parts of the lot. Errors by Holstein at first and Cunningham at second helped. Kocher lifted one over the left field fence for the first home run of the Atwater Park season. eH got four hits in five times up. The Royals changed their batting order with little improvement.

CLIPPER DEFIANCE, CUP DEFENDER, TAKES THE WATER

THOUSANDS WITNESSED THE LAUNCHING OF AMERICA'S SECOND CANDIDATE

Bath, Me., May 11.—No Yankee clipper ever made her initial plunge into the sea amid heartier cheers and good wishes than followed the cup defense candidate Defiance as she slid gracefully into the Kennebec today.

Within an hour after launching the second of the three American cup boats built this season had her mast on end and by the last of the week she will be ready for her work.

The yacht carries the hopes of her fifteen Philadelphia, New York and Boston backers, but all Maine also has taken unusual interest in her welfare and several thousands witnessed the launching.

Miss Frances Clark, daughter of E. Walter Clark, of Philadelphia, treasurer of the syndicate, performed the time-honored christening ceemrony, standing at the heel of the bowsprit and smashing the traditional bottle on the capstan head.

It is expected the yacht will leave Bath on Saturday for Marblehead, where she will be inspected by the eight Boston members of the syndicate.

No effort will be made to test the sailing qualities of the yacht north of Cape Cod.

BARON WIMBORNE CHOOSES TEAM

ENGLISH POLOISTS HAVE DECIDED TO SAIL FOR AMERICA ON MAY 23

London, May 11—Baron Wimborne manager of the English polo team which has challenged for the International Polo Trophy held by the United States, today decided to sail for America May 23, with a polo team composed of Mr. Tomkinson, Major J. Y. D. Bingham, Major F. W. Barrett and Major C. P. Hunter.

Lord Wimborne's efforts since the weakness of his team was made apparent, to induce some other team to undertake the task of trying to capture the Polo Challenge Cup from America having failed, he decided to make the best of a bad bargain and take the team over himself. He will sail with it on the Carmania May 23. The ponies, numbering 35, will be sent along a week earlier.

Without Reserve Man

If the obstacles which may prevent Captain Cheap from accepting the invitation to join the team cannot be overcome, it will consist of Tomkinson, No. 1; Major Bingham, No. 2; Major Barrett, No. 3; Major Hunter, back. Barrett will captain the team. If Captain Cheap could join he will take the place of either Tomkinson or Bingham, the one withdrawing going as reserve man. At present the team is without a reserve man, but Lord Wimbone has no doubt he will be able to find one before sailing.

In reply to a question as to how he considered the chances of his team, Lord Wimborne said tonight with a smile: "I do not think our team so bad that it has no chance."

Wanted Buckmaster To Go

That Captain Buckmaster's team is a much better one he frankly admitted. "That team," he said, "would, I believe, stand an excellent chance of recapturing the cup. It undoubtedly is the best in England. I did my best in a long conference with Buckmaster today to persuade him to let his team take the place of mine and play for the cup, but to my great regret he could not see his way clear to do it."

Lord Wimborne added that his team would undoubtedly be able to give a much better account of itself if the American Polo Association had been able to agree to the postponement of the contest until autumn. The early date of the contests, he said, would undoubtedly prove a handicap to the English challengers, because it involved the selecting of a team in the winter and did not allow time enough for the team to get into shape.

COYOTE PACK LED BY DOG.

Strange Leader Shot While Heading a Raid on Chicken Coop.

Sligo, Colo., May 11—Running wild at the head of a pack of coyotes, a shepherd dog has been leading the pack into the very dooryards of the settlers of this district thu past winter and while wondering at the boldness of the coyotes, not until recently was it learned that their leader was a dog and not a coyote.

Frank Riddle shot the dog as the pack of twenty were about to make a raid on his chicken coop. When he went to skin the brute he found a collar and a brass tag with the figures and letters "C. A. C., 203, Ia. '12," around its neck.

It is supposed to be a dog that has gotten loose and run with the pack of coyotes until it became so nearly like them that it could not be told from one of them.

INSURE YOUR HEALTH

The practical, far-seeing person covers all obvious risks by insurance. You insure against fire, against accident, against death, against labor risks, against burglary, etc.

BUT an insurance you neglect very often, and that is to insure your health against disease and sickness which can be done by using the best and purest aerated waters, such as soda water, ginger ale, ginger beer, etc.

When you require a pair of boots, you don't go to a blacksmith for them, naturally you go to a shoe store for them. When a lady wants a hat she won't go to a grocers for it, she will go to a millinery store for it, as she knows that is their specialty and they keep the proper style and quality.

AERATED WATERS is our specialty and our sole business, our thoughts by day and our dreams by night. We have made them for 45 years and pretend to know how to make them right.

All our aerated waters are made with our celebrated CLAIRE FONTAINE spring water which forms the base of good and pure drinks, all our drinks are made from extracts made by ourselves from the raw materials. We use the best Jamaica ginger root, crush it and make our extract of ginger from it. Our cream of Tartar is 99% pure, and our Vanilla extract is made with Mexican vanilla bean.

All grocers keep them, but Beware of the fakir offering the just as good kind. There is no just as good.

POET AND SCULLERY MAID

by Dorothy Canfield.

Once upon a time there was a little scullery-maid, who, like all scullery-maids, spent most of her time in a kitchen. It was the kitchen of a boarding house, and you can imagine what a disagreeable place it was—full of unpleasant smells, and usually piled high with dirty dishes which the scullery-maid must wash. It was dark, it was greasy, the cook had a bad temper, and the chimney smoked.

You would have though the little scullery-maid would have been glad to get out of it the instant her work was done, even though the only place to which she could go was one corner of an attic on the top floor. But, oddly enough, she often left her attic room and slipped back down to the kitchen after every one had gone.

For, much as she hated the kitchen, there was one thing about it she loved. It overhung a rippling little river, which ran down from the mountains above the city, and which was always talking to itself and to any one else who would listen. All day long it talked, but then its voice was drowned in the rattle of pot and pans and the angry commands of the bad-tempered cook. The scullery-maid sometimes went out on a little platform, directly over the water, where she sat and peeled a mountain of potatoes. There she could hear the river much more plainly; and she was always deeply disappointed when the cook decided to have the potatoes boiled in their jackets, for on those days she had an opportunity to hear even for a moment the singing voice of the clear stream.

But at night—that was the time! The kitchen was quiet then, and although the door to the platform was locked, she could put her head out of the window and see and hear the dear little river almost as if she were floating on its surface in a boat. She came to know every one of its moods, and how it looked and how it sang in fair weather and in foul. Sometimes it was as merry as a child, and went along, laughing and chuckling to itself till a smile came on the scullery maid's dirty face in answer. Sometimes, on dark nights, it whispered something mournful, and yet so sweet that she felt her heart swell. On moonlight nights it glided smoothly along like a moonbeam, with only a gentle lapping where it passed the pillars of the platform, and a low, happy murmur from the other bank.

But under the stars it was the best of all. Then it sang as gallant and heartening a song that the little scullery-maid forgot how she hated the kitchen and the greasy dishes, forgot that she had no friends and no sweetheart. She only felt glad that she was alive, and faced bravely a long future of bad-tempered cooks and unpleasant smells.

Now, one of the people who lived in the boarding house was a poet—a really, truly poet, although people did not know it yet, for he was only a young man and looked like any one else, except that he often forgot to shave himself. One evening he was invited out to a fashionable late supper—a great event with him, for he was very poor. When he dressed, he noticed that as usual he had not shaved for two or three days so that a blond stubbled bristled all over his cheeks and chin. It was too late to ring for anything, so he took his little pitcher and went downstairs to the kitchen to get some warm water.

He had very old slippers on his feet, and they were so worn and soft that they made no noise as he walked, so that the little scullery-maid leaning out of the window, did not hear him any more than he saw her in the dark room. As he dipped his pitcher in the reservoir of water he caught his sleeve on a pan and it came crashing down on the stove. It was a question which was more startled, the girl or the poet. They stood and stared at each other in the dusk. He saw a very dirty little maid with a plain face and no figure at all, and she saw a very handsome young man, for it was so dark that she could not see that he needed to shave.

"Who the world are you?" asked the poet.

"I am the scullery-maid," she said.

"Good heavens, do you have to stay in this awful place at night as well as by day?"

The poet was like other poets, and could not bear to think of unpleasant things, although he was glad enough to be benefited by their results.

"No, I don't have to stay here."

"Why under the sun do you come back, then?"

Now, the scullery-maid was very ignorant and simple-minded—you can imagine how much so from the fact that she could not think of anything to say but the truth.

"I come back to listen to the river," she said.

The poet stared.

"Why do you do that?" he asked.

"I do not know exactly why. I—I like it."

There was a long silence, in which the poet heard the gallant song of the little river rushing past under the stars, hurrying along it knew not whither, but still happy and sure that its path was safe. Tears came into his eyes, and he set the pitcher of hot water down on the stove. He had a sudden realization of what the voice of the stream meant to the ugly little scullery-maid. After the manner of poets, he knew at once, much better than she did, what it said to her. He felt a whole poem chanting in his heart.

"You poor child!" he said, and laid his hand on her shoulder. His voice was very soft. Nobody else had ever spoken to her so before. "You poor child! I know why you like to hear it."

And with that he went upstairs and wrote the loveliest poem you can imagine—all about the little scullery-maid, and how she hated the kitchen, and her ugly, unhappy life, and yet how sweetly the little river sang to her and told her to be brave. The tears were in his eyes many times as he wrote, and he forgot all about the supper to which he had been invited, for he was a real poet.

The scullery-maid stood still exactly where he had left her. For once she did not hear the voice of the river. She heard some one saying, "You poor child! You poor child!" It seemed to her she must have dreamed it, and yet there was the pot of hot water, glimmering white in the dusk: There it was in the morning, too, although of course the water has grown cold.

The poet sent the poem he had written in the night to a great editor—one who had refused every single thing the poet had written before. The editor was as bad tempered as he was great, but he wiped his eyes after he had read the poem about the dirty little scullery maid and the song of the river, and sent for the poet at once to tell him to write more like it. This the poet was already doing. He had forgotten everything else, and imagined that he, too, was a maid and lived in a greasy kitchen with only the sound of a river for comfort.

For that is the way with a poet. If he gets interested in somebody's point of view, he steps in and pushes the owner out of the way and lives his life for a while. The scullery maid below stairs did not know that the blond young man on the fourth floor was washing her dishes, peeling her potatoes, and dreading with her the harsh voice of the cook; but so he was. In the evening he stood beside her as she listened to the song of the river: and he stole her sample, ignorant thoughts, one by one, and carried away on the tip of his pen the love for the little stream which filled her heart.

When he had taken them all, and written them down so beautifully that he made himself cry cry many times, he put them all in a book. Then he forgot about them and fell to imagining he was some one else. For that is the way with a poet.

But the editor did not forget, nor did any one who read the poems. Everywhere in the city people were moved to tears by the beauty of the river's song and the sadness of the little scullery maid. Gray haired business folk, lovely ladies of society, unhappy young men and old women—all imagined while they read the poems, that they, too, were scullery maids and that the riber sang to them; and they faced whatever was unhappy or ugly in their own lives with more courage because of what it said. They did not say much in praise of the little book, but they dried their eyes when they had finished it, and went to buy another copy to send to a friend. Most remarkable of all, they treated their own scullery maids with more kindness, which is a tremendous thing for a poem to have accomplished. The editor who had recognized before any one else how lovely the poems were was surer than ever that he was a great man.

Scullry maids were quite heroines, and even the ugly little one in the kitchen of the boarding house seemed so important that the grocer's boy tried to be her sweetheart. He was a good fellow, and wished to be kind to her, but she would have none of him, because he was not blond, and did not put his hand on her shoulder and say in a tender voice, "You poor child!"—in other words, because he was not a poet; whereas, is she had but known it, it was a lucky thing for her that he was not.

She was so ignorant and neglected that she had never learned to read, and she was almost the only one in the city who did not have the joy of the poems about her river. She found out where the poet's room was, and whenever she could she would slip away to try and catch a glimpse of him. But though he passed her several times on the stairs, he did not notice her. He was so busy living the life of an old, old woman whom he had seen on the other side of town that he could think of nothing else. Still, it was a joy to the scullery maid even to see him, and as she sat on the platform, peeling potatoes, she thought how yellow his hair was, and how blue his eyes, instead of listening to the river which had comforted her so long.

And then, one day, the poet got so much money from the sale of his little book that he decided to move away to a better boarding place. When the little scullery maid heard the news, as she washed the dishes in the greasy kitchen, something snapped inside her head, and she could no longer hear any sound of the river at all.

That day, as she sat peeling the potatoes the little river flowed past, silently, silently, and yet with so dizzying a gleam that, as she looked long and miserably at it, she lost her balance and fell into the watre and was drowned. It was probably the best thing that could have happened to her. For when one can no longer hear any sound of brave song through the hateful noise of dreary toil, when one has lost one's singing river, there is not much to live for, is there?

She was carried down the current and cast ashore on the beach where the river runs into the sun. The poet, walking on the beach, saw her lying there, and straightway fell to imagining the most romantic ideas about an unhappy love story. The tears came to his eyes, although that was nothing surprising for him. A beautiful poem sang in his heart, so that he forgot all about the poor little scullery maid lying dead at his feet. For that is the way with a poet.

To Put On Flesh And Increase Weight

A Physician's Advice.

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all bosh to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Thin folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They just absorb enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "stay there" pound. All the fat producing elements of their food just stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something, too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of six of the most effective and powerful flesh-building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet wonderfully effective and a single tablet eaten with each meal often has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by all good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increas or money back.

"Light-Weight economy with heavy-weight service"

A car that weighs over 4,000 pounds, no matter whether it is called a Light-Weight Six or not, is not a Light-Weight six—it is a compromise—an expensive compromise to run. It does not give Light-Weight Six economy—simply because it is not down to a weight that can.

WHY A Light Six ? A car that weighs between 4,000 and 5,000 pounds is a HEAVY Six—the very car you've been avoiding because of its high cost of upkeep.

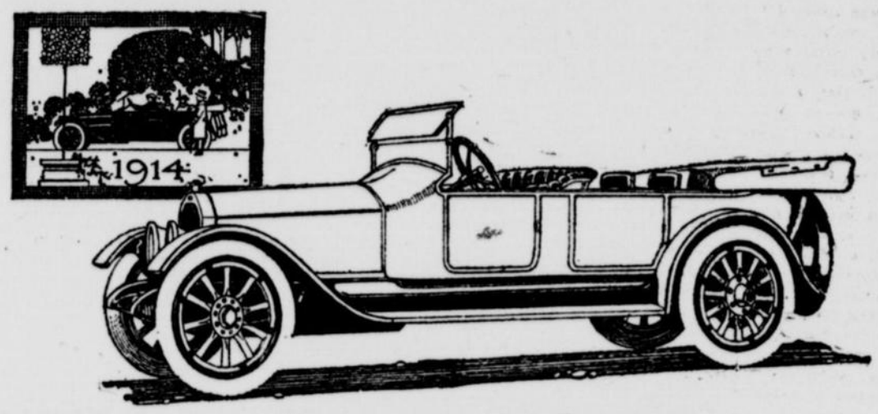

Then, also, it is possible for a six-cylinder car to be so light as to destroy the advantages sought by putting in a six-cylinder motor.

WHY A MOON ? To be genuine, a light-six must be able to do exactly as much as the big, heavy, expensive six at less expense in gasoline consumption and other up-keep cost. The MOON does it.

The motor of the Moon Light-Weight Six-50 weighs only 590 pounds. It develops 58 H-P., and costs no more for upkeep than a Four of the same power.

LONDON AS A HEALTH RESORT ❁ PRINCE OF WALES ❁ PARISIAN MODES

LONDON'S ATMOSPHERE UNSURPASSED FOR HEALTH

At Least That Is What a Writer in the Times Says and He Produces Volumes of Statistics to Substantiate His Claims.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 2.

"LONDON as a Health Resort" is the title of a long and interesting article in the Times. Visitors coming across may not agree with that publication anent the health producing qualities of London's atmosphere or climatic conditions, but the article, nevertheless, is well worth reading.

"London has been described as 'the pick-me-up of the world,' says the Times. 'Its size, its variety, its infinite freshness superimposed upon a splendid tradition, its color and sound, even the smell of its streets, strangely characteristic though infinitely various, make up a prescription for despondency and nerve weariness unsurpassed in any of the pharmacopoeias of the world. Horace Walpole wrote advisedly and from a great experience, 'Were I a physician I could prescribe nothing better than 'Recipe cccixv. drach. Londin. per annum' (365 doses of London a year).

"The joy of living, which is so characteristic a feature of the London 'atmosphere' is not, however, the city's only claim as a health resort. London is in fact very healthy. The story of the Member of Parliament who never passed its borders and who acquired a summer tan in Hyde Park which made his friends from the country envious—and curious as to its origin—is no fiction.

"In a lecture recently read before the Royal Society of Medicine and reported in the Medical Magazine, Dr. S. D. Clippingdale gave some interesting information regarding the health value of London. The general mortality from all causes was stated to be 14.2 per 1,000 per annum, a ratio which compares favorably with that of other large towns, while the mortality of Hampstead was notoriously the lowest in the country. The libel that a native London family is not heard of after the third generation, Dr. Clippingdale added, was disproved in his own person, he being a member of the twelfth generation of a family living in London since the days of Queen Elizabeth.

"The healthiness of London is to some extent due to its situation and soil. Its nearness to the east coast insures a constant supply of fresh air, 'drawn straight from the North Pole, where it has been purified by contact with the ice and drawn south by the vacuum created in the aquatic region.' The soil is for the most part clay. Curiously enough, where gravel is found—near the watercourse of the Thames—a lower degree of general health prevails. This is quite contrary to popular belief, but can be proved by reference to the Register General's statistics. Hampstead, Highgate, Harrow and other places in the north, and Wimbledon, Streatham, Sydenham and other places in the south, which are situated, as it were, on the rim of the clay basin, are the most healthy residential parts of the city.

"London is rich in open spaces. The County Council controls 168 of these spaces, or 5,000 acres. Paris has only 540 acres, and Berlin 1,222 in a corresponding area. In addition to these spaces London has about 1,000 acres of 'Royal parks,' many private squares, and a number of vast open spaces like Epping and Hainault Forests and Hampstead Heath. Moreover, through the heart of London flows the Thames, acting, as was pointed out by a foreign doctor during the course of a trip from London Bridge to Richmond on Good Friday, 'like a huge lung to the city.'

"Since the disappearance of the 'London ague' there has been no endemic disease in the capital. This affection was of a malarial character and gained considerable notoriety owing to the illustrious persons who from time to time fell victims to it—among others, Oliver Cromwell, Charles II., William III., and Queen Anne. In a paper read some time ago before the West London Medical Society upon 'The Rivers of London' it was suggested that the disappearance of the 'London ague' might be due to the closing in of many little streams, such as the Fleet, that formerly intersected the city.

"London has for long enjoyed a reputation as a good resort for asthmatics. This was due to some extent to the prevalence of fogs, now happily less frequent. The late Dr. Blasius Williams found that if a fog occurred while country patients suffering from asthma were waiting in London to consult him, they were relieved and went home without seeing him. Patients affected with rheumatism do well in London as a rule (a medical man stated the other day that he knew of several cases where persons who had suffered severely from this affection in other places were cured on coming to London). Hay fever, bronchitis, and whooping cough are also said to be amenable to the city atmosphere.

"The affection, however, for which London may be regarded as a specific is neurasthenia, or nerve weariness. The curative agent here is the power of the city to call a patient out of himself and so free him from his morbid anxieties and broodings. Dr. Clippingdale's prescription is as follows:—

"'In addition to submitting your patient to the internal diversions of London, send him for a tour round the city. Let him stand upon the Tower Bridge and contemplate the mercantile and pleasure craft passing beneath him, and let him think of the scene three centuries ago, when Elizabeth's ships left that spot to meet the Armada. Let him pass into the East End and study the customs and costumes of Whitechapel. Let him go into the heart of the city and exercise his ingenuity in crossing scathless its crowded roadways. Let him pass westward to the haunts of Johnson and Goldsmith and Garrick and Lamb. Let him listen to the chimes of Bow Bells, and to the bells of St. Clement's and St. Martin's and be reminded of his nursery days; and at night send him to the Thames Embankment to see the homeless getting a night's lodging there • • • there. If a few days in London does your neurasthenic patient no good, his case may well be helpless and hopeless.'

"The general use of gas and electricity and the reduction in the number of horses employed—with consequent reduction in the number of stables and manure heaps and the flies which breed therein—have done much to increase the healthfulness of London and make it a formidable rival even of the famous health resorts. It is interesting to recall the fact that there were formerly a number of medicinal springs in London—Bagnigge Wells, Sadler's Wells, Clerkenwell and Shadwell."

Prince of Wales Expert on Skis

During Trip to Norway He Astonished Companions by His Energy and Endurance.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 2.

MEMBERS of the royal family, including the Princess Royal, Prince and Princess Christian, Princess Louise, the Duchess of Argyll, Princess Henry of Battenberg, the Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught, have given their patronage to a big bazaar to be held in aid of the Wennington Homes for aged deaf and dumb people at Rainham, Essex, to take place at Claridge's Hotel on May 13 and 14. It is to be opened on the first day by Queen Amelie and by Princess Henry of Battenberg on the second.

Many other well known persons also are acting as patrons and patronesses, and among the presidents and helpers at the stalls will be the Duchess of Marlborough, the Duchess of Somerset; Katherine, Duchess of Westminster; Princess Munster, Lady Chesterfield, Lady Llangattock, Lady Clifden, the Dowager Lady O'Hagan, Lady Dupplin, Lady Phyllis Windsor-Clive, Lady Maxwell-Lyte and Mrs. Grahame-White, while Lord Chesterfield, Lord Combermere, Lord Torrington and Mr. Claude Grahame-White are among those connected with the tobacco stall. Sir Arthur Fairbairn, who is himself deaf and dumb, is the chairman of the committee and is officiating as honorary treasurer.

The Prince of Wales, who astonished sportsmen at Finse, Norway, by his wonderful powers of endurance as a ski runner, has just smoked his first pipe in public. The Prince's pipe—it is probably one of his first—is of the solid, square stemmed variety, with a silver mount, and is something of the bulldog type, with a rather heavy bowl.

At Oxford the Prince is occasionally seen smoking cigarettes, but never while at college was he seen smoking a pipe out of doors.

During his short stop at Finse the Prince was an enthusiastic ski runner, and was seen gliding over the snow from early morning until late in the afternoon. Once, when accompanied by the Major the Honorable W. Cadogan and Mr. Andreas Klen as guide, the Prince was skiing for eight hours, outdoing everybody in endurance.

WOMEN AS MOTORISTS.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 2.

THE great and increasing interest which women take in motoring is illustrated by the fact that there now exists in London a school of motoring for women which is owned and managed entirely by a woman. The principal is Miss Aileen Preston, whose devotion to motoring led her to enter a motor works, where she received a complete training in motor engineering. Subsequently she took a post as chauffeur to a woman, and finally, convinced that the number of would-be women motorists justified the action, she opened a school of motoring for women in Kensington a few months back. Its success has amply fulfilled her expectations.

A woman who is associated with Miss Preston in her enterprise said that the number of applications for tuition were numerous. "More and more women want to learn to drive their own cars," she said, "and they come more readily for instruction to a woman than to a man. The reason is that a woman understands their difficulties better than a man and is a more patient teacher. My own experience in a workshop, where I was the only woman pupil, was that men expect a woman to grasp and understand a thing thoroughly before she has received an adequate explanation of it. But once a woman knows how to drive she can manage her car as well as any one, and the larger a car the easier it is to drive in traffic—at least that is my experience. I should say there was quite an opening for the woman who wants to teach motor driving to other women."

IS SHE A SUFFRAGETTE?

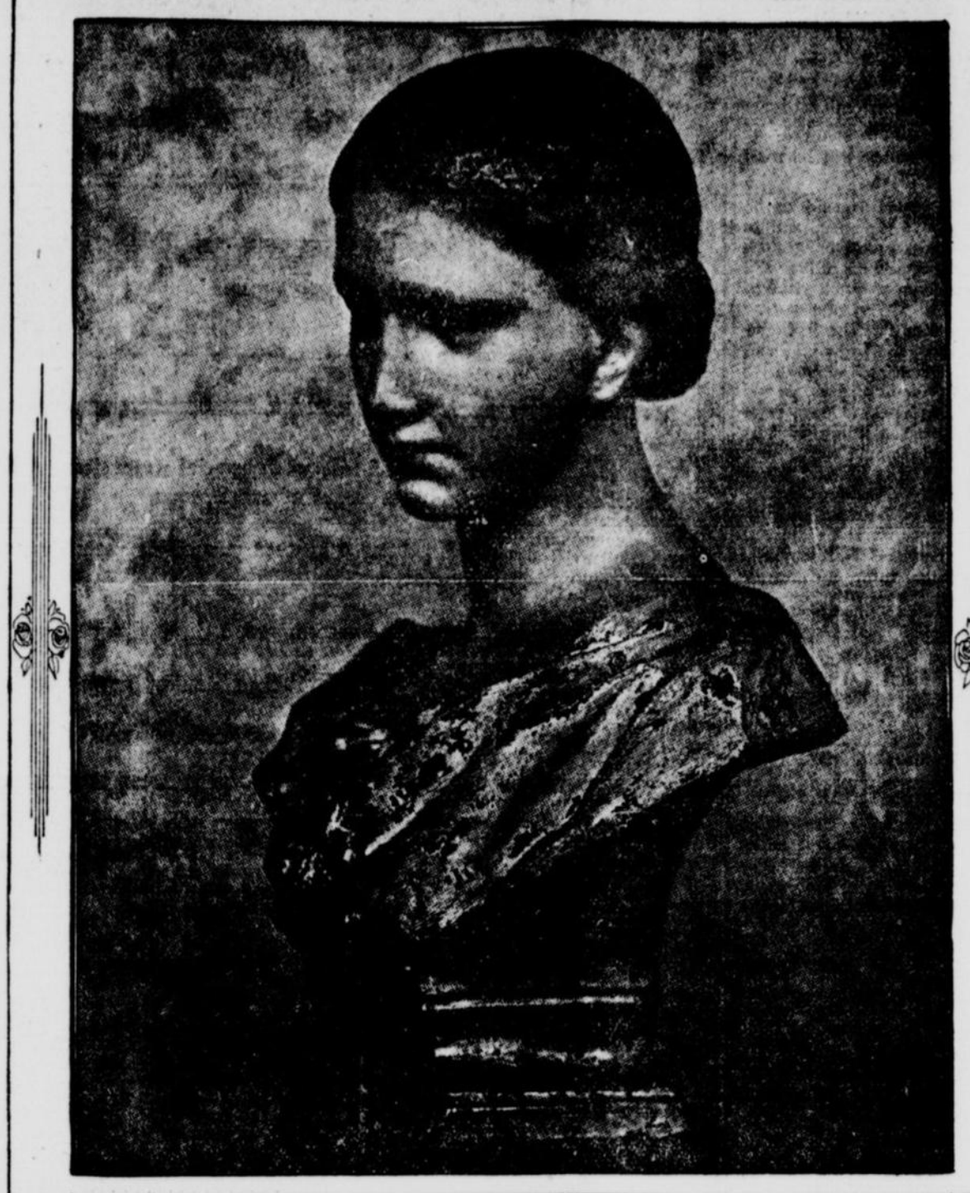

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 2.

THE Liverpool Watch Committee has appointed Mrs. Hughes, matron of the main Bridewell, to be an inspector in the Criminal Investigation Department of the city. This is stated to be the first appointment of the kind in England.

Her main duties will be the taking of evidence in charges concerning women and children. It is felt that women will more readily give statements to their own sex than to men. Mrs. Hughes may also be sent out to obtain evidence in cases concerning women, but as the appointment is an experimental one her duties have not yet been strictly defined.

Mrs. Hughes is a widow about thirty-five years of age, and for two years as matron of the main Bridwell has been in charge of a number of wardresses.

"THE BEAUTIFUL UNKNOWN"

A MYSTERY IN WAX: THE EXQUISITE WICAR "TETE DE CIRE" OF WHICH THE ORIGIN IS UNKNOWN

The discussion which arose over the famous "Leonardo da Vinci" wax bust bought by Dr. von Bode for the Imperial Museum, Berlin, brought to public notice the great treasure of the Wicar Museum at Lille, which has long been the admiration of all lovers of works of art. This head of a beautiful unknown, of which the reproduction here is from the Illustrated London News, was the subject of one of Mr. Paul Bourget's essays; while Alexandre Dumas fils was so enraptured with this head that it is said he had a perfect copy made and that it became for him his Egeria.

ODDS AND ENDS OF NEWS AND GOSSIP CABLED FROM EUROPEAN CAPITALS

THE KAISER'S BUST.

(Special Dispatch.)
PARIS, May 2.

A GOOD deal of excitement has been created by the announcement that the president of the Committee of the Salon des Artistes Français has declined to receive the bust of the German Emperor sent in by a German sculptor named Besner, who claimed a prescriptive right to exhibit without the consent of the committee because he once obtained a medal of the third class.

The incident, if sharp, was short, as Besner himself has now given his word that he will not forward the work. His account is as follows:—"This is the first time in the sixteen years in which I have lived in France that I have had the slightest difficulty. Last January I was fortunate enough to carve a bust of the Emperor in Berlin, and when I begged permission to exhibit it was immediately granted. I was, therefore, quite in good faith, and I swear that I did not think that the fact of presenting to the public a portrait of the sovereign would be likely to give rise to unpleasantness.

"This is why I hesitated before yielding to the president, Mr. Mercie, but now the affair is settled, and I give my word that I will not send in my bust. I have consulted many who do not agree with Mr. Mercie, but, nevertheless, I yield as I do not forget that I am a German in a foreign country."

It seems a pity that such an incident should have arisen, but most persons will agree that the president was right in avoiding even the remote chance of a Chauvinistic outburst from some irresponsible visitor at an essentially French exhibition.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS INCREASE

(Special Dispatch.)
BERLIN, May 2.

AS the result of the recent eight-days' campaign known as the "Red" week, the German socialist party is now able to count more than one million paying members. The German socialists have polled far more than a million votes at the Reichstag elections for nearly a quarter of a century, and in 1912 polled four millions and a half; but in every case the majority who voted for their candidates were not of their party. Representing a standing and absolute opposition to the Prussian régime of to-day, the party is always favored by a mass of voters who are also opposed to it, but who yet cannot find a candidate otherwise responding to their views.

The real importance of the figures, therefore, lies elsewhere. In the first place, the party has been able to raise about 10,000 new adherents a day during its not too strenuous campaign; and, secondly, in spite of the recent successes of the junker-conservatives, the progress of their numbers remains unbroken. The party's figures, showing the year and the number of members paying subscriptions, are:—

Year.	Members.	Year.	Members.
1910	720,038	1906	384,327
1911	836,562	1907	530,466
1912	970,112	1908	587,036
1913	982,850	1909	633,309

The new members who have joined during the Red week, numbering approximately 70,000, are now to be added to this figure, making well over a million. Simultaneously the Vorwarts boasts of having received many thousands of new subscribers.

ART IN THE AQUITANIA

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 2.

THOUGH the Aquitania (which sails from the Mersey on its first voyage to New York on May 30) is not to be the biggest liner in the world, the Cunard company have made it a floating treasure house of arts and crafts, and have thus begun a new era in the adornment of great passenger carrying liners.

Masterpieces of art, old and new, from all parts of the United Kingdom and Europe have been copied by the best experts. Eight extensive suites of rooms or flats are named after eight famous artists—Reynolds, Gainsborough, Romney, Holbein, Van Dyck, Raeburn, Rembrandt and Valesquez—and each is adorned with costly prints of the best works of the master after whom it is named.

The first class smoking room, adapted from a Charles II. room at Greenwich Hospital, makes an especial appeal to English and Americans, for its walls are hung with engravings of those who made Anglo-American history. The first class drawing room is a reproduction of work of the best period of the brothers Adam—1780. The wrought iron balustrade of the main staircase and the Corinthian columns have been reproduced from a famous French chateau.

KNIVES AND FORKS NOW WORRY TURKISH SOLDIER

(Special Dispatch.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, May 2.

THE Turkish soldier is experiencing at present great difficulties, perhaps greater than the ones he had to go through during the Balkan war against a formidable enemy.

Young Damad Enver Pacha, the Minister of War, has ordered that the soldier must use fork and knife at his meals. Now, this Western innovation finds almost insurmountable difficulties. Accustomed, through long usage and habit, to squat on the ground at his repast and to employ only his fingers in breaking bread and enjoying his traditional pilav (a rice dish), the crude Anatolian soldier considers fork and knife not only superfluous but cumbersome, and tries, with every possible means at his disposal, to avoid this new "barbaric" custom.

It is rather amusing to see him employing these utensils. He does it as long as his superiors supervise him. No sooner do they disappear from the field of observation than he reverts to his old habit of squatting and of using his fingers. When the warning comes announcing the approach of the superior he jumps up, takes a seat at the table and makes efforts as best he can to eat "à la Franca."

The former War Minister, Mahmoud Shefket Pacha, tried his best to improve the soldier in this direction, but in vain. Will young Enver Pacha succeed? Time, however, is the best teacher.

Another perplexity of the Turkish soldier is the necessity of learning reading and writing. The Turkish language is anything but easy. It has no vowels, but a number of signs replacing them. The word is very often more guessed than read, and considerable intelligence is required in this.

Now, the Turkish soldier is far from being naturally intelligent, and learning to write and read is to him a tremendously difficult task. Here, too, much time and great patience on the part of the teachers are needed. Enver Pacha recognizes this fact and, to his credit, is lenient and indulgent in his attempts at reforming his subordinates.

FRENCHMEN'S TRIBUTE TO THEIR MOTHERS

(Special Dispatch.)
PARIS, May 2.

THE great parts that mothers have played in the lives of famous Frenchmen are shown in an interesting symposium made by "Femina." Many great men eulogize their mothers and declare they owe to them the greatest influence of their lives.

Mr. Anatole France remembers the deep impression made on him when his mother said:—"The world itself punishes your sins. The trees, the moon, the sun will not be gay if you are naughty. The world is the mirror of yourself."

Pierre Loti says:—"My mother's influence has never ceased. Everything that belonged to her has assumed importance in my life. When I touch the treasures of her that I have I regain peace and confidence and faith."

Mr. Loubert says:—"I had the joy of my mother being with me for many years, and I mourn her now. That is the most precious influence."

Mr. Blériot says that his mother wished him to be a priest. "When she learned that I had flown the Channel she wrote me just an ordinary letter. Her chief desire was to make me an honest man and to give me a sense of duty."

FASHION EXPERT'S VIEWS OF THE GOWNS WORN AT GAY LONGCHAMPS

Amazing Creations of the Parisian Are Described and Show That Freakish Styles Are Still the Rage—Turkish Trousers Are Worn by Some.

SKIRTS SO TIGHT WALKING ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE

(Special Dispatch.)
PARIS, May 2.

A VERY charming woman in the eighteenth century once said:—"Beaucoup de petites choses qui ne sont rien lorsqu'on en rit, deviennent des afflictions si on les considerent dans un esprit trop sérieux." I think we may apply this bit of delicate feminine philosophy to present fashions and not go wrong, for their eccentricities certainly run the risk of becoming quite painful. It is better to laugh at our mistaken endurance of tight skirts, high heels and complicated draperies than to turn them into imaginary tragedies or signs of mental degeneration. Fashions, if we are honest enough to own it, always have been a medium in which women express the lighter side of their nature; one may even say they have often proved a safety valve for much foolishness; and if women ceased to be foolish the world would be wanting in charm. Life would become stale and unprofitable indeed; and it is an abiding comfort to know that any such disaster is not likely to happen yet at any rate. If proof were needed we have only to remember what we saw women wearing and suffering with complete self-satisfaction at the reopening at Longchamps.

There were skirts so tight that walking was out of the question, and their wearers just shuffled along amiably but not with any grace. Over the skirt flowed a tunic so full that a ballet dancer would not have despised it. There were also Turkish trousers worn with a short jacket bodice, buttoned closely, from throat to waist, where a sash girdled the hips, and, thrown open with a certain swagger, was a voluminous cloth race coat with the skirt slightly stiffened round the edges to emphasize the évasé movement. There were narrow, straight, brightly striped skirts worn with short, shapeless little boleros fastening on the left shoulder and crossways to the waist, with limp lingerie collars tickling the ears and almost meeting the close fitting little toque which dipped over the left ear and aspired high above the right one with a sheaf of prickly leaves like those of the artichoke.

There was a charming person with over-bright eyes in red cloth with a huge mousmé bow of black ribbon in the middle of her back, a small black straw hat shaped like the sea shell that is supposed to sing to one, and which was, apparently, fixed to the head by a row of enormous cherries across the brow. White stockings, black shoes, white gloves and black stitching carried on the black and white notes, and the cut of the coat and skirt was of the most fantastic kind; a skirt slit high at the back, a tunic which dipped in front and ran up behind, and a coat which had double basques behind and was cut away in front from a sort white piqué waistcoat fastened with black and red stone buttons.

Another amazing creation was in banana gabardine with a tunic of closely kilted red and yellow tartan, a bolero trimmed with tartan, and a tartan toque trimmed with banana straw bands. A yard or two away from this apparition was an exaggeration of a Victorian maiden as Leach might have drawn her. A frilly petticoat, which looked like trousers, clipped the ankles, a flounced dress of bright green taffetas, flounced sleeves, a full bodice with a round, low neck, and, surmounting all, a tiny little hat tilted over the nose, trimmed with a weird mixture of fruit, flowers and leaves. I forget if the gloves had only one button, but it is probable.

Nevertheless, the Parisienne manages to achieve success this season where race cloaks are concerned, and it seems impossible to imagine a woman who has the intelligence to dress as well as this ever allowing herself to be led away into foolish fashions which are hopelessly unbecoming, and yet one has to confess that she is not to be relied on. She is so much a thing of moods and caprice that she seems to enjoy looking her worst now and then, maybe for the sheer pleasure of proving afterward that she can look lovelier than ever. We shall never understand her, so we must try to accept her as she is, and when we cannot admire her we must be satisfied to smile ironically if we will, and wait for the time when we can once more say that she is good to look upon.

The same striking contrasts are to be seen in evening dresses as we have already noticed in those worn by day. Daring follies, discreet smartness, dignity that is almost dull, and abandoned frivolity all meet together in the market place of dress. But what could be more charming than a pale buttercup chiffon dinner dress, draped with Greek simplicity and, floating loose from the shoulders, a chiffon train, soft and fugitive as a summer cloud? At the waist a big bunch of pale buttercups, and no other ornament. Then again, for a tall, slender woman, a straight, narrow-skirted under-dress of white satin, with three flounces of white Chantilly over very fine black net, and a waist belt of roses shading from palest to deepest pink.

A corsage of Chantilly over black and white net completed this very dainty and most correctly smart little gown. For a stately woman to wear on a ceremonious occasion there was a white satin dress with a long, pointed train which had a three-quarter tunic of jet and silver and a corsage of the same. In something the same style was a short white satin dress with a long jet tunic. In neither of these two dresses was there any hint of a waist line, yet the slimness and graceful line of the figure seemed to be the main suggestion of the designer. It is pleasant to see dresses which do show line and simplicity, and it is encouraging to find, as the season advances, that women are choosing them in preference to the bunched up, overtrimmed models which were thrust under our notice early in the year as being the only things to wear.

MUSICAL PRODIGY A GIRL OF FOURTEEN

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 2.

As it is a well known fact that many musical prodigies have been discovered by accident, so there is every reason to believe that the West Ham Board of Guardians have found in a little orphan girl of fourteen under the protection of the Union one who may in the near future be rivalling Mme. Clara Butt, or Mme. Kirkby Lunn on the opera stage or concert platform.

"She is a marvel," said a member of the guardians, when asked about their discovery. "Several of the Board have heard her singing some popular ballads, and have been charmed by her voice. She possesses also a remarkable range—three octaves and a semi-tone."

She has a rich contralto voice, and a love of music seems ingrained in her heart. The guardians sent her to a professor at the Royal College of Music, who reported that he could say without any reserve that those critics who listened to her at the college were greatly impressed by her gifts.

"There is no doubt," he said, "that the girl shows very great promise," but warns her guardians that as there is plenty of time before her, she must not be allowed to practise her highest notes, as she has been doing. "She ought, properly trained, to do very well indeed, as she has the making of a very unusual contralto voice."

A NOISELESS WORLD.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 2.

RUBBER, which is being produced in increasing quantities to meet a popular demand, is being used for all purposes—notably for domestic service. Later it may be employed for street purposes in cases of illness.

What is probably one of the first rubber floors in the country has been laid down at the offices of the Rubber Growers' Association, in Eastcheap—made from surplus rubber from that subscribed for by the big companies for Guy's Hospital flooring.

A member of the association informed your correspondent that rubber will become much cheaper in the course of the next year or two, and that when the plantations are yielding what they should rubber will be used in the home and elsewhere to a great extent.

"We are proposing, among other things," he said, "to manufacture a rubber street covering, to be lent out in cases of illness, instead of laying down straw, as is done at present."

This new flooring material costs 30s. per square yard, but will, it is asserted, last forever; can be easily cleaned, is noiseless, and it is warm in winter and cool in summer.

ENGLAND'S BREWERIES.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 2.

A WHITE paper was issued recently which states that the number of brewers for the purposes of sale in the United Kingdom in the year ended September 30 last was 3,887. The materials used were as follows:—Malt, 52,257,627 bushels; unmalted corn, 91,068 bushels; rice, &c., 1,611,556 cwt.; sugar, &c., 3,279,814 cwt.; hops (including a small quantity of "preparations of hops"), 62,911,376 pounds, and hop substitutes, 18,886 pounds.

The number of barrels of beer produced was 37,078,769 and the amount of beer duty charged £13,771,802. During the year 631,768 barrels of a declared value of £2,118,379 were exported, the principal customers being the British East Indies, £453,565; Australia, £310,493; Belgium, £299,691, and the United States, £269,936. Germany took £46,927 worth of English beer.

GERMAN COURTS DENY TANGO IS SUGGESTIVE

(Special Dispatch.)
BERLIN, May 2.

THE State has just been condemned to pay costs in an amusing case. The authorities recently confiscated, wherever exposed for sale, a postcard representing a couple dancing the tango. The man was depicted in evening dress and the woman as wearing an extremely low cut dance toilette.

The Public Prosecutor maintained that the card was immoral, inasmuch as the dress not only did not conceal the figure of the woman, but, on the contrary, drew attention to it in a most daring manner. The decolleté, he said, was also so deep that it could not possibly represent reality, and was calculated still further to add to the suggestiveness of the picture. Furthermore, the pose of the dancing couple was contrary to good morals.

For the defence counsel said:—"If the Public Prosecutor demands a ball toilette which does not excite interest in the wearer, he asks for something impossible. He would then be called upon to interpose at the court balls, where by official order a specially low cut toilette is 'de rigueur.' The idea of the Public Prosecutor that the pose of the dancers is suggestive is very far fetched."

The prosecution lost its case, and the card in question, as a result of the advertisement it has obtained, is now in great demand.

Why risk your money in a doubtful "six," when the proven gives you more of the costliest "six's" best qualities —at less than the cost of the cheapest worth-while "six."

RUSSELL-KNIGHT

The 28-horsepower RUSSELL KNIGHT motor, at 1,200 revolutions per minute, develops 53 horse-power. The speed and power of a 53 "horse" motor when needed—with only a "28's" fuel consumption and tire wear under normal running.

50 per cent fewer motor parts than any "six" is another reason for the RUSSELL'S marvellous records. Only this World's Champion Motor could run continuously 13 days and nights (equal to 10,000 road miles)—at high speed—under full load—without a single stop for adjustment or repair.

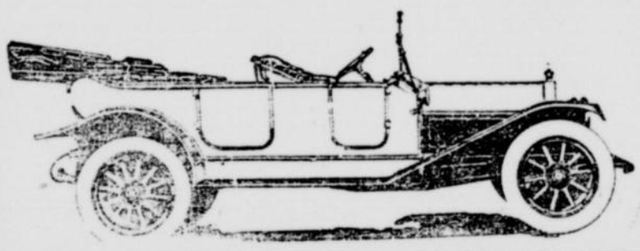

With this WORLD'S CHAMPION MOTOR you get a chassis pronounced by experts mechanically perfect. A car recognized everywhere as the most convenient and comfortable built. Equipment such as you look for only on $5,000 cars.

To ask more in any car is unreasonable . To accept less is unnecessary. To pay less is unwise. A RUSSELL-KNIGHT "Four" is a gilt-edged investment in PERMANENTLY satisfactory service.

USES POLICE HELMET TO DRIVE LION BACK.

Animal in Circus Parade About to Leave its Cage Has to Give up the Project.

Portland, Ore., May 11—With his police helmet as his only weapon of defense and at the risk of being torn and mangled, Chas. E. Hewson, patrolman of the Portland Police Department, prevented a lion from escaping from his cage in a circus parade. His act prevented a possible panic in the down town streets, with perhaps a loss of life.

The door of the lion's cage in one of the big circus wagons came unfastened and opened. The lion, with his head and shoulders thrust out of the cage above the heads of the bystanders, was poised ready for a leap into the crowd.

Hewson, gripping his stiff police helmet as the nearest weapon to hand, sprang toward the beast's head unmindful that a single swing of the lion's paw would tear his arm to shreds. Striking the animal on the sensitive tip of the nose and battering it with his helmet, he drove the bewildered beast back to his cage.

Alsey Morelock, another officer, rushed up and slammed the door, while a circus attendant aimed a gun at the lion's head, ready to shoot in case the beast should attack the men before the cage was closed.

Health and Beauty Hints

By MRS. MAE MARTYN.

MRS. A. T. B.: You are not shampooing often enough and may not use the best shampoo. Try my favorite, which is canthrox—just dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and rub briskly as you pour it on the hair and scalp. This makes an abundance of rich, cleansing lather that is very soothing to tender, itchy scalps. Rinsing leaves the scalp immaculately clean, and each strand of hair will be soft, shimmery and full of health. Canthrox shampoos are splendid for correcting oiliness, dryness or profuse dandruff. I like its drying qualities, too.

MRS. G.: The symptoms you describe, pains and aches in the limbs and small of back, loss of appetite, lack of strength and ambition, are danger signals—warning your blood blood is laden with poisons which will cause serious sickness if not eliminated from the system. The kardene tonic of grandmother's day is excellent to use, and can be prepared at home at little cost by dissolving 1-2 cupful sugar and 1 ounce kardene (which you can get at your drug store) in 1-2 pint alcohol (not whiskey,) to which in then added hot water to make a full quart. A tablespoonful before meals is the dose. The timely use of this tonic frequently saves serious ills.

MAZIE: Yes, you can cure your weak, watery eyes with a soothing, healing, strengthening eye tonic which can be made at little cost by dissolving an ounce of crystos in one pint clear water. If you will put 2 or 3 drops in each eye daily it will relieve the inflammation and soreness and reduce swelling. This crystos tonic is especially fine to make the eyes sparkle and give them expression.

SOCIETY GIRL: Here is that weight-reducing treatment which she told you would work without danger or inconvenience: Put 4 ounces parnotis (which you can obtain at any drug store) in 1 1-2 pints of water. Strain when cold; take 1 tablespoonful before meals. Keep up treatment until weight is sufficiently reduced. Parnotis is gentle in action and positive in results, and leaves the flesh and skin firm and smooth.

GIRLIE: It is easy to make an inexpensive hair tonic at home by mixing 1 ounce quinzoin with 1-2 pint alcohol, then adding 1-2 pint water. The scalp should be massaged once or twice a week with this quonzoin tonic. Its regular use will quickly banish the dry, scaly condition and correct excessive oiliness, and when this is done the natural color and silky softness returns, and the hair will grow long and thick and have a beautiful sheen.

MARGE: Friends tell me I have every reason to be proud of my complexion, which is the result of discarding powder and using spurmax lotion. This is inexpensive, and easily made at home. I just dissolve 4 ounces spurmax in 1-2 pint witchhazel or hot water, then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine, and it is ready. I apply this lotion sparingly and rub lightly for a moment until it dries and seems to become a part of the skin, to which it gives a velvety smoothness and refined color that is delightful.

O. T.: The wrinkles of which you speak will soon vanish if you apply almozoin cream-jelly and massage the long way of the creases. This simple treatment tends to vivify the dormant tissues, causing the creases or lines to fill out. To prepare the cream jelly put 1 ounce almozoin (which you can get at your drug store) in 1-2 pint water and add 2 teaspoonfuls glyycerine. Let remain overnight before using. As a skin-cleanser and beautifier this greaseless cream-jelly is not equalled.

DETECTIVES ARRESTED

They Are Charged With Trying To Extort Money From Albertan

Strathmore, Alb., May 11—T. F. Noakes and P. J. Brown, Winnipeg detectives, who, with J. W. Davies are under arrest on the charge of attempting to extort $1,000 from D. O. Williams, a well known local resident, were charged before a justice of the peace here today and remanded. If they are committed they will be tried in Calgary.

Feeling in the town is said to be very strong against the men, and in the event that the detectives are allowed to go, the mounted police will probably escort them to some place of safety.

Davies story was that he had embezzled $1,000 from the Imperial Bank of Winnipeg, which he claimed to have sent to D. O. Williams, an old time friend. Then he came from Winnipeg to Strathmore, accompanied by the detectives and claimed the money. Williams insisted that he had never received it, and the detectives threatened him with arrest unless he produced it.

The story stampeded Williams and he started out to raise the money which he thought would keep him from jail. He had succeeded in raising $700 by making sacrifices of personal effects and borrowing what he could from his friends.

Local officials learned of what was going on through Williams' efforts to borrow the money and the detectives and Davies were arrested.

BOILER EXPLOSION

One Man Killed and Seven Badly Injured

Norfolk, Va., May 11.—An explosion in the engine room on the Old Dominion steamship Jefferson late tonight caused the death of one man and serious injury to seven others according to meagre reports received here. The dead man was a water tender, whose name could not be learned. Chief Engineer Portlock and six other members of the engine room crew were injured.

LARGE ICE FIELDS OFF NEWFOUNDLAND

Halifax, N.S., May 11—Ice fields of unusual length lying off the Newfoundland coast and the Grand Banks were reported tonight by Captain Agassiz of the steamer Uranium, which put in here on her voyage from Rotterdam for New York.

Captain Agassiz's observations and those of the revenue cutter Seneca, which is maintaining an ice patrol, show the presence of a broken field of ice extending more than 450 miles. The Seneca reported by radiogram to the Uranium that there was ice from 42 to 47 degrees north latitude. The Uranium was pointed for 47 1-2 degrees, but met an impenetrable ice barrier. Captain Agassiz headed for 49.15 degrees, only to encounter more ice, and then returned to 47.18 where a lane was found. It was narrow, but the steamer threaded its way through it for eleven miles of open water. The lane proved a thoroughfare of great convenience to five other steamers, which also passed in safety the large bergs visible on either side.

OPENING CANADA'S LAST WONDERLAND

Final spike driven in the G.T.P. brings civilization into the remotest romantic regions of the North American continent.

THE eyes of the world have been turned, in these last few days, towards a gang of railroad builders in central British Columbia. These workers with their great track laying machines were busy forging the last steel link to complete a new transcontinental railway system. Their work is now finished and a new and fabulously rich empire is laid open to development. It is indeed the last wonderland.

British Columbia, in addition to having large tracts of arable land adapted for agricultural and horticultural pursuits, stands out pre-eminently as the tourists and sportsman's Mecca, unsurpassed for the grandeur of its scenery. This new railway runs through a section of the province replete with wild natural beauty. Snow-capped mountains tower thousands of feet above, while all around, canyons with racing torrents, valley and woodland, are ever passed, while at intervals primitive Indian villages, with totem poles standing in front as sentinels, mark the slow passing of the great race of red men, who for centuries held sway, but who now must make way for the ever steady advance of the white settler who claims his heritage from the fertile soil that for centuries has been undisturbed. The mineral resources are being rapidly and satisfactorily developed, whereas the fisheries are recognized as the best in the entire world.

But if there were no resources of a mineral or agricultural nature, this section of British Columbia could count itself rich by reason of the many vistas of surpassing loveliness that it affords. Here you see the Rockies at their best.

The first view of the Rockies, on the Grand Trunk Pacific route, is had at the MacLeod River, 123 miles west of Edmonton. This view comprises the range to the south of the Yellowhead. At Prairie Creek, which is practically the entrance to the mountain region, the railway runs high up on a ridge to the south side of the Athabaska river, and passengers are afforded one of the best views of the Athabasca valley and the mountains. The river at this point [illegible] feet wide, with a swift current of eight miles an hour. Roche Miette, a prominent rocky pinnacle, rears itself to the southwest and looms up in stately grandeur. This mountain is at an elevation of about 7,000 feet, and is seen from Prairie Creek, about twenty miles distant. After leaving Prairie Creek the line enters Jasper Park, the five thousand square miles National Park reserved by the Dominion Government for the preservation of game and for the perpetual propagation of fish and game in that section of the country.

One hundred and ninety-seven miles west of Edmonton the railway enters what is known on the other transcontinental railways in America as the foothills, but in connection with this section of the country the term is a misnomer compared to hills that are found on other transcontinental roads. Instead of undulating country with hills of a low altitude the Grand Trunk Pacific has mountains immediately on entering the Rockies. The first of these is reached at Brule Lake, where, to the west, on the opposite side of the lake, along which the railway runs, is seen a high range of mountains, the principal one of which is Bullrush Mountain, rising from eight to ten thousand feet above the Athabasca river, seven miles long, half a mile wide, and a splendid view is had from the grade. Seven miles further on is Fiddle Creek, with Folding Mountain rising above the valley to a height of about nine thousand feet, and on the north side high rugged mountains stand up boldly with vertical cliffs and steep rocky slopes. The Athabasca valley is from one to two miles wide at this point and most beautiful. Continuing west, the railway follows the Athabasca, with ranges of mountains rising to dizzy heights on both sides of the grade. The pricipal mountains at this point are Roche Miette on the east side and Roche Suette on the left side. The derivation of Roche Miette is partly from the French and Cree Indian language, Roche being French for "rock" and the word Miette, the Cree for "sheep."

Mountain sheep and bear are found in goodly numbers in this vicinity and partridges abound in the forest. Hunting, however, is not allowed in Jasper Park, and the regulations are strictly enforced by the Government guardians.

Some Mountain Trails.

At this point there are a number of interesting trails that will allow those who desire the chance of exploring some of the mountain recesses. One of these is the Roche Miette trail that takes one well up on the mountain, from which point of vantage, magnificent views of the Athabasca Valley are had. A grand view is had from here of Fiddle Creek range, looking west, also Pyramid Mountain in the same direction, 9,700 feet high, and to the east a long, seriated peak range. Looking west from this point are also seen Jasper Lake, Fish Lake and Rocky River winding like silver thread through the country for miles. Jasper Lake, nestling in the valley surrounded by high mountains, is five miles long and one mile wide.

About 225 miles west of Edmonton to the right of the railway is seen Colin Range, high rocky mountains with prominent peaks. A few miles further on is also seen Pyramid Peak, 10,000 feet high. A few miles further on the Snarling River rushes down the mountain sides and empties into the Athabasca River. About six miles from the mouth of this river is an interesting canon, the walls of which are about 200 feet high, and the gorge not more than 20 feet wide. The stream rushes through the chasm with a picturesque fall of thirty feet.

The confluence of the Athabasca and the Miette River is reached about 340 miles west of Edmonton. The grade runs along the brow of the hill on the north shore of the Miette River, with high mountains towering up to the south, and now enters the main range of the Rocky Mountains. Prominent among the peaks is Mt. Geike, 11,000 feet altitude, and which can be seen in all its grandeur to the south some ten miles. In the Miette Valley there are a number of small streams which simply teem with rainbow trout. The fish are not large running from twelve to fifteen inches, but delicious eating. Reaching the summits, 248 miles west of Edmonton, the line crosses the border from the Province of Alberta into the Province of British Columbia. Here the summit of the Yellowhead Pass is reached, and a small stream takes its rise running west to Yellowhead Lake, while another stream flows east into the Miette River. Leaving the summit the first object of note is Yellowhead Lake, four miles long, with an average width of one mile and a half. The lake is surrounded by lofty mountains on the south (the principal peak being Mount Peelse, 9,000 feet altitude) and on the north side by high hills. From Yellowhead Lake a small stream carries its waters into the Fraser River, the lake taking its rise from glaciers about twenty miles to the south. This river is a grand stream flowing down through British Columbia for a distance of nearly one thousand miles.

Mount Robson.

Great mountains are on every hand, but above all stands Mt. Robson Peak, a giant amongst giants and immeasurably supreme. The following description is taken from a report of the Geographical Survey of Canada issued in 1909:

"When we first caught sight of it, a shroud of mist partially enveloped the summit, but this presently rolled away, and we saw its upper portion dimmed by a necklace of feathery clouds, beyond which its pointed apex of ice, glittering in the morning sun, shot up far into the blue heaven above. The top of the mountain is usually completely hidden and rarely, indeed, is it seen entirely free from clouds. The actual height of the peak is 13,700 feet."

Although Robson Peak has been long known its height had never been determined until recently, nor was it supposed to be particularly notable in that respect, but now since the height of other mountains in the Rockies which were considered to be the highest in Canada have been proved to be greatly exaggerated, Mt. Robson has the distinction of being the highest known peak in the Canadian Rocky Mountains and will be owing to its magnificent surroundings, one of the greatest attractions of the Grand Trunk Pacific for tourists and alpine climbers, and as one mountain climber who has made two attempts to ascend this mountain, has said, "It will be the show place of the world." The mountain is easy of access, within a few miles of the railway track.

And so the traveller wends his way along towards the Pacific, passing peak after peak, along the banks of the great rivers of the north, the Nechako, Buikley, Fraser and Skeena. From Hazelton to Prince Rupert, there is a gradual descent in elevation until sea level is reached, but there is no falling off in the grandeur of the scenery.

The railways of America have enjoyed the privilege of opening up to tourists and travellers many new playgrounds but this great unsubdued alpine wonderland of British Columbia challenges them all for supremacy.

The coupling up of the steel at Nechako Crossing was an event that drew people from all over central British Columbia. It is said fully 3,000 spectators were on hand. Dan Dempsey and Phil Egan headed the two steel-laying crews and each was ambitious to be the winner. However, both couldn't win. Egan managed to reach there first but each crew received equal honors from the hundreds of spectators and at the hands of Mr. Morley Donaldson, the General Manager and Vice-president of the line. Mr. Donaldson presented to Mr. Egan and Mr. Dempsey a handsome gold watch, and this little ceremony caught the fancy of the crowd, everybody breaking into ringing cheers.

The last mile of the track-laying was made the racing section. One-half mile was allotted to each crew. Dan Dempsey was captain of the men from the west, while Phil Egan, another brawny trail blazer, led the crew that had been working from the east. It was certainly a sporting proposition every workingman entering into the fine spirit of the match, while on the part of the spectators, excitement ran high. Egan won by seven minutes' time. He covered the half-mile in forty-eight minutes, while Dempsey's time was fiftyfive minutes.

There was a scene of great enthusiasm when the first train from Winnipeg pulled into Prince Rupert. This carried the officials who had been present at the linking up of the steel. Although the month was April the weather was perfect and the crowd were out in their summer garm. 't was a day of historic significance for the Pacific Coast City. Prince Rupert, in appearance, is unlike any other community in Canada. It is a constant succession of surprises to anyone from the plains or the east. It emphasizes the romance and intrepid spirit of modern enterprise. Seven years ago, the rugged site was a forest. The change has been magical. The long waterfront represents so many miles of wharves and shipping. Lofty smokestacks speak of drydock and cold storage plants. The construction of a fifteen story hotel is under way. Prince Rupert throbs with life. Electric lights glitter. Taxi-cabs spin along the wide avenues. It has packed development and solid achievement into the last five years—and it is only commencing. Not every city can brag of an observation place 2,300 feet high. Prince Rupert can. And it is a spacious place, too. It can accommodate thousands upon thousands of tourists all at the same time. In fact this place of observation is the top of a mountain that rests directly behind the townsite. Prince Rupert, maplike, seems almost at your feet. You note fourteen miles of deep harbor, a whole peninsula, a bewildering jumble of glaciers and forests away off toward Alaska.

The man with rod and rifle need go no further than the Skeena district. The creeks and lakes teek with trout. Bear, goat, wolves, sheep and deer roam the hills. Wild fowl abound. The mountains challenge the climber. The countless inlets and bays beckon the boatmen. The man with the camera finds what he is looking for. It is a fitting terminus to the great scenic line.

GEORGIAN BAY CANAL.

Inquiry Into Freight Rates Question to Begin at Once.

Ottawa, May 11—The Secretary of the Georgian Bay Canal Commission announces that in addition to the arrangements reported last week for the compilation of statistics relating to the movement of traffic on the Great Lakes, the commission has formed its plans for the collection of important facts and statistics concerning freight rates, in respect of all classes and routes of traffic entering into the problem, and that under the direction of an expert work on this branch of the inquiry will begin at once.

On account of the extent of the field to be covered and its complicated nature, it will be several weeks before the essential facts and figures are available. It is the intention of the commission to place the result of its inquiry on these points at the disposal of any public bodies or individuals who may wish to make representation before the commission, and ample time will be allowed for the preparation of cases, sufficient notice being given before public hearings are held.

WEALTHY FARMER DEAD

Portage La Prairie, Man., May 11—Frank Boddy, one of the wealthiest farmers of the Portage plains and one of the oldest and most respected residents of the MacDonald district, died today at MacDonald, aged 71 years. He was born at Leeds, Ont., and spent the last 43 years in MacDonald. He is survived by his second wife, six sons and one daughter.

QUEBEC GOVERNMENT GRANT TO BRYSON.

Ottawa, May 11—A vote of $1,000 towards the relief of the fire sufferers of Bryson, Que., was made tonight by the special meeting of the City Council.

Hull Council also voted $100 tonight. Other grants received include: Quebec government, $1,000; town of Renfrew, $200; Hon. George Bryson, $100; G. B. Campbell, M.L.A. for Pontiac, $100; town of Shawville, $100, and F. A. Cahill, Ottawa, $200.

BODY IS IDENTIFIED.

Truro, N.S., May 11—The body of a young man about 28 years of age, found dead on the track near Debert Station, has been identified as that of Wallace Crowe, now of Pendicon, B.C., formerly a well known lumberman of Port a Pic. Crowe was employed as a sawyer near East Mines.

TORONTO JAIL WILL BE ABOLISHED SOON.

Toronto, May 11—Toronto jail, for many years anathematized by successive grand juries and reformers, will pass out of existence by November 1, 1915, according to a decision today by the Board of Control. A police administration building to cost from $350,000 to $500,000, will be erected on the site either of the present Court street station or the Agnes street station, thus relieving the present inadequate space in the City Hall. Women prisoners will be sent to the women's industrial farm, men to the men's industrial farm and insane persons will be sent to a new detention home. The question of a site was left to a committee to report.

Nervous Prostration and Heart Trouble

For Three Years Doctors Struggled With This Disease, and in Vain—Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The complete breakdown of the nervous system as in nervous prostration is usually the result of over work, worry or "burning the candle at both ends."

There are always warnings if you will only recognize them. You find yourself easily fatigued and annoyed. Little things make you irritable. You do not enjoy your work or find yourself forgetful and lacking energy. Headaches may return about the same time each day; there may be nervous indigestion and distress caused by even the simplest food. Gloomy forebodings any hysteria are other symptoms. You may look strong and well and yet be on the verge of nervous collapse.

When threatened by nervous breakdown begin at once the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and escape such serious developments as nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, C. B., writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors without satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and was completely cured by the treatment. It is nearly a yeyar since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my house work with pleasure and comfort and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c. a box, six for $2.50, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates &Co., Limited, Toronto.

HOW IT SEEMS WHEN A WARSHIP IS BLOWN UP

GRAND DUKE CYRIL TELLS OF FEARFUL EXPERIENCES AFTER PETROPAVLOVSK STRUCK MINE AT PORT ARTHUR.

St. Petersburg, May 11—In the current new number of the Russian service review, "The Army and the Navy," Grand Duke Cyril gives a graphic personal narrative of the foundering of the battleship Petropavlovsk, destroyed by a Japanese floating mine just ten years ago outside Port Arthur harbor. The Grand Duke, who was one of the few survivors, writes:

"It was dirty weather on April 13, and our attention was turned on the unequal fight which our torpedo boat Strashny was keeping up outside with the Japanese. Then the sad news was brought by the Bayan, which under the hot fire saved the Strashny's commander and four of her crew when she was sunk.

"Through the night Admiral Makaroff could not bear the thought that there might still be around the spot where the Strashny went down some of her men still struggling against death. He determined to satisfy himself personally. He ordered the Bayan to lead the way to the place Admiral Makaroff, with his staff, went over from the Diana at 7 o'clock to the Petropavlovsk, which steamed to the outer roadstead. The other battleships moved on behind up but remained in the inner roadstead. As we passed out from the narrows we were steaming fourteen knots.

Makaroff Retreats.

"Soon the Bayan signalled that she opened fire on her. Makaroff ordered the Petropavlovsk to advance and we answered the enemy's fire. As we advanced the Japanese began to retire but later we saw on the horizon another squadron of the enemy drawing up. As he saw the greatly reinforced fleet of the Japanese Admiral Makaroff decided to turn back so as to be nearer the coast batteries. We steamed back at high speed. The enemy slowed down as if undecided and hesitating.

"When we had got within the protection of the coast batteries we slackened speed and the crew was allowed to go to dinner. The officers began little by little to disperse. On the bridge there remained only Makaroff, the ship's commander; Capt. Yacovleff, Vice-Admiral Molas, Lieut. Wolff, the artist Verestchagin and myself. I was standing with Verestchagin on the starboard side of the bridge. Verestchagin was sketching the Japanese squadron and as he worked he spoke of other campaigns that he had made. With great assurance he said that he was fully convinced that where he was nothing could happen amiss.

Terrifying Explosion.

"With great suddenness a terrifying explosion burst near us. The battleship quivered with frightful violence and almost at once a rush of hot, suffocating gas came up like a gush with enormous force and burned my face. All the air was filled with a heavy penetrating smell which seemed to me to be the smell of our ammunition. The Petropavlovsk immediately began to list heavily to starboard.

"I ran across the deck to port. I had to jump over the body of Admiral Molas, whose head was bleeding. He lay beside the bodies of two signal men. I climbed up a twelve foot turret, and then I realized that our magazine had exploded and that our ship was foundering. All the starboard side was already awash, with waves beating on the deck. She was also going down by the bow and it could not be long till she was engulfed.

Whirled and Swallowed by Sea.

"I shinned down from the tower and at once threw myself into the water. A strong wave lifted me and a current spun me round as in a maelstrom and threw me far out from the ship, where I was still whirled round and at the same time sucked down. A dreadful noise of water and complete darkness overwhelmed me. I felt that I was going straight to death. I made the sign of the cross and began to pray. I remembered all my family relations and those dear to me. It seemed that my last moment had come, for respiration was getting impossible, and by panting for breath I was swallowing water and began to choke.

"Instinctively I started moving my hands and legs, and then to my surprise I felt myself rising toward the surface and the sense of things around me seemed lighter. I gathered hope and energy. Another sharp struggle and I was on the surface of a fairly calm sea. I caught hold of a piece of floating wood and noticed that I was at some distance from the Petropavlovsk, which continued to settle down. Her stern was now standing up nearly vertical and the propellers were still revolving in the air.

"That moment stamped itself deep in my memory. I saw the floating roof of the battleship's cutter drifting near me. I let go my plank and seized the handrail of the roof. Next I saw swimming past me a midshipman by name of Schlippe. I called to him but he did not answer. Later I learned that both his eardrums had been burst by the explosion. Then in the distance I saw a big rowboat. I shouted, but no one heard me. I still had the hope of being saved and did not feel my strength abating.

Rescued at Last.

At last I was seen and a boat from the torpedo boat Gaydamak came up to me. Two sailors had difficulty in lifting me out of the water, for my heavy overcoat was sodden with the sea. From the boat I was taken to the deck of the torpedo boat Bezshumny. There in the cabin my body was rubbed with vodka. I was given warm clothing and cognac, and at once they informed my brother Boris, who from the Golden Hill had seen the entire catastrophe. Later he himself arrived and took me from the torpedo boat to his personal railway train.

"The news of the perishing of Admiral Makaroff ad his officers and men and the loss of the ship weighed on me as something irreparable. And the death of my best friend, Lieut. von Kube, added to this made all these disasters fall on me like blows that will never be effaced from my memory."

His brother, Grand Duke Boris, contributes his personal narrative of the disaster as he felt it as an onlooker ashore. His orderly awakened him about dawn to tell him of the cannonade in which the Bayan was engaged. He and other officers rode up to the top of the Golden Hill, and turned their glasses across the harbor. They had scarcely fixed their attention on the ships when they saw the Petropavlovsk's disaster and how she was plainly foundering.

Distracted at the sight and at what he felt was the sure death of his brother, Boris writes that he hastened back to his train and knelt in front of the ikon that had been given him by his younger brother Andre.

"I prayed fervently," he proceeds. "Oh, God, work a miracle and save my brother." Then a ray of hope cheered me. And in almost the next minute a saw a midshipman driving up in frantic speed to my train. I felt that he was the bearer of good news even before he said, 'Your brother is saved.' I hurried at once to Cyril's side and found him greatly shaken. He kept saying to himself 'Poor Kube, Poor Kube!'"

LOBOS ISLAND CAPTURE

Washington, May 11—First official news of the landing of American sailors on Lobos Island reached the Navy Department late tonight. Rear-Admiral Mayo cabled that the Mexican keepers deserted the great lighthouse on the island and that the destroyer tender Dixie was "maintaining it for the benefit of navigation."

DEATH FOR DOPE FIENDS AT CHENGTU UNDER FORTY.

Those who are Older will Be Sent To Prison, is Announced.

Peking, May 11—Persons under 40 years of age are to be shot if found smoking opium at Chengtu, Szechuen province, after the expiration of a period of 21 days from today, according to a government announcement issued today. Those over forty are to be sentenced to terms of penal servitude.

The campaign against opium smoking has reached such a paint that all opium smokers in the province are compelled to submit to treatment.

RASH COVERED CHEST AND BACK

Itching and Burning Pimples Spread. Clothing Irritated. Used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. Well in Three Weeks.

High River, Alta.—"My baby was a sufferer from an itching and a burning on chest and back. The trouble began with a fine small rash and got quite a size. The pimples spread until his whole chest and back were covered. Some of them festered and on some the top looked clear. He was fretful and cross and was always rubbing. His clothing irritated him. The trouble caused itching, burning and loss of sleep. His chest and back grew worse and worse; they were a mass of itching pimples. The trouble had lasted two or three weeks and we tried remedies but they failed. Cuticura Soap and Ointment afforded relief in about ten days. I washed the eruption with hot water and Cuticura Soap four times a day, then used the Cuticura Ointment and in three weeks he was well again. He owes it to Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Alice Wolford, Nov. 1, 1912.

For red, rough, chapped and bleeding hands, itching, burning palms, and painful finger-ends with shapeless nails, a one-night Cuticura treatment works wonders. Soak hands, on retiring, in hot water and Cuticura Soap. Dry, anoint with Cuticura Ointment and wear soft bandages or old, loose gloves during the night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

SYNOPSIS OF REGULATIONS.

GOVERNING Timber on Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, the Northwest Territories, the Railway Belt in the Province of British Columbia, and the tract of Three and a Half Millions Acres, Located by the Government of the Dominion in the Peace River District in the Province of British Columbia.

LICENSES.

A license to cut timber on a tract not exceeding twenty-five square miles in extent may be acquired only at public auction. A rental of $3.00 per square mile, per annum is charged on all timber berths excepting those situated west of Yale in the Province of British Columbia on which the rental is at the rate of 5 cents per acre. In addition to rental, dues are charged on the timber cut at the rates set out in section 20 of the regulations.

TIMBER PERMITS AND DUES.

Permits may be granted in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, to owners of portable saw mills, to cut over a definitely described tract of land not exceeding one square mile in extent, on payment of dues at the rate of 50c. per thousand feet, B.M., and of a fee at the rate of $100.00 per square mile for each permit.

TIMBER FOR HOMESTEADERS.

Any occupant of a homestead quarter-section having no timber of his own suitable for the purpose may, provided he has not previously been granted free allowance of timber, obtain a free permit to cut the quantity of building and fencing timber set out in section 50 of the Regulations.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

Any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Subagency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made to any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties.—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry including the time required to earn homestead patent and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchase homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

CROWN OF CORDOVA AND LADY OF GASPE

COLLISION CASE—JUDGMENT BY SIR A. ROUTHIER IN ADMIRALTY COURT — BOTH FOUND IN FAULT

His Lordship, Sir A. Routhier, rendered judgment in the Admiralty Court on Saturday in the case of the collision which occurred between steamships Crown of Cordova and Lady of Gaspe, below Three Rivers, in the month of July last. The Court held both vessels to be in fault, the damages to be divided between them.

In the investigation in the Wreck Commissioner's Court, previously held, the Lady of Gaspe was found to be solely to blame.

ALLAN LINE.

Steamer Scotian, Capt. Blanchard Henry, from London and Havre, arrived in port at 5:30 a.m. yesterday, mooring at the Breakwater. She brought out 172 cabin and 335 third class passengers and a general cargo. After landing passengers and Quebec cargo, she left for Montreal at 1.30 p.m.

While the vessel was lying at the Breakwater, and Captain Henry was sitting in his cabin, he observed a gentleman walking about the deck. As the Captain had been told that his brother, whom he had not seen for forty years, was likely to meet him some day in Quebec and suspecting that the gentleman on the steamer was he, the captain called him into his cabin where the stranger acknowledged he was his brother William. Forty years ago the brothers parted. Blanchard going to sea and William becoming a civil engineer, and is now attached to the Great Northern Railway in Montana. As he knew his brother would be here with his steamer, he decided to come this way and give him a surprise. The two brothers were more than happy at their meeting, after such a long separation. Mr. William proceeded to Montreal on the steamer with his brother.

Steamer Scandinavian, Capt. Reith, having landed passengers and Quebec cargo, left for Montreal at 7:30 a.m. yesterday. She brought out 325 cabin and 271 third class passengers and a general cargo.

CANADA S.S. LINES

Steamer Saronic, Capt. Kennedy, left port last evening for North Shore ports, with passengers, mails and general cargo. This is her first trip of the route.

Steamer Tadousac leaves for Chicoutimi and way places this morning with passengers and freight.

DONALDSON LINE.

Steamer Letitia, Capt. McNeill from Glasgow, arrived here at 6:30 p.m. yesterday, mooring at the Breakwater. She had on board 129 cabin and 160 steerage passengers and general cargo. After landing passengers and Quebec cargo, she left for Montreal this morning.

Steamer Cassandra, Capt. Williams, left Glasgow on Saturday for Quebec with 107 2nd and 114 third class passengers and general cargo.

DOMINION LINE.

QUEBEC STEAMSHIP CO.

Steamer Korona arrived at New York from the West Indies at 8 a.m. last Saturday.

ROYAL LINE.

R.M.S. Royal Edward, from Bristol was abeam of Cape Race at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. She has on board 37 first, 236 second and 807 third class passengers; 1604 bags of mail and 270 bags of parcel post. Will arrive in port tomorrow night about 8 o'clock.

WHITE STAR-DOMINION LINE

R.M.S. Canada, Capt. Ingham, from Liverpool, arrived in port last midnight, mooring at the Breakwater. She brought out 250 cabin and 385 steerage passengers. She will land her passengers this morning.

R.M.S. Laurentic, Capt. R. O. Jones, left Liverpool on Saturday at 6 p.m. with 110 saloon, 225 cabin and 700 third class passengers and a general cargo for Quebec.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS.

New York, May 11.—A limited amount of business was done in chartering, most of which were sailing vessels, but additional freights of all kinds were scarce. Rates were quotably steady and ample tonnage was offered. Quotations to Liverpool and London, 1 1-4d, nominal; Glasgow, 2 1-2d; Rotterdam, 3 3-4c; Hamburg and Bremen, 32 1-2 pfennigs; Hull 1 3-4d; Bristol, 2d; Antwerp, 2d asked; Cork for orders, 2s 3d, nominal; picked ports, large tonnage, 1s 9d; cotton to Liverpool, per 100 lbs., 20c.

Charters: British steamer, 2506 tons trans-Atlantic trade, one trip on time charter, basis 5s 6d, delivery Baltimore, redelivery Alexandria, prompt; Norwegian bark, 554 tons, lumber, Mobile to Teneriffe $12; British schooner, 271 tons, Bear River to Crenfuegos, $5.50; British schooner 295 tons, lumber, Bridgewater to Havana, $5.25; schooner, 127 tons, Weymouth, N.S., to New York, $4.25; five vessels in U. S. coasting trade on private terms.

TIMES ON CRUISER STERNS

An article in the engineering supplement of The Times of April 24 on the subject of cruiser sterns for merchant vessels says: The cruiser stern now bids fair to replace the overhanging counter so long regarded as one of the most feautiful features of the modern liner. From the small projection of sailing ship days, designed to afford more space around the rudder head and tiller the overhanging of the counter has gradually increased to make room for steering gear houses and other requirements, and in large vessels may extend 20 feet to 30 feet beyond the waterline length. It is natural to inquire why its supremacy should be threatened by the newcomer and what advantages can be shown in favor of the cruiser ending to justify its adoption in preference to the "elliptical stern." The first large vessels to make the change were the Canadian Pacific liners Empress of Russia and Empress of Asia, and favorable reports are being received as to their behaviour upon their trans-Pacific run of 4,300 miles. The Allan liners, Alsatian and Calgarian followed suit, and are the first Atlantic liners to have the new form. The two new C.P.R. vessels building on the Clyde, the Orient liner under construction at Clydebank, and five steamers ordered by the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand are being constructed on cruiser lines. Its undoubted advantages as regards propulsion, the protection it affords to rudder and propellers from dock walls and barges in harbor, its comparative stiffnes and consequent freedom from vibration, and its simplicity of form and construction are all powerful arguments in favor of the innovation; and it appears probable the cruiser stern will have become standard practice, and that the overhanging counter will have followed the clipper stern into the obsolete.

GENERAL NOTES.

CLOSING MARKET LETTERS

Received by Breen & Gourdeau, Stock Brokers, 63 St. Peter St., and 6 Sault au Matelot.

New York, May 11.—Values showed an improving tendency from the opening of the stock market today, and although trading was suspended for long periods several times during the session, in fact, dulness prevailed the major portion of the day, the advance was well maintained to the close. The improvement in the price level was the result of short covering based on the resistance the general market has been evincing to unfavorable news, such as the Mexican situation, which is anything but encouraging, and rumors affecting the financial conditions at Berlin and Paris. The hopeful outlook in the Missouri Pacific financing, suggested by the fact that the new banking interests had not definitely pulled out of the negotiations with the controlling interests of that Company, also was a hopeful factor tending to improve sentiment. However, conditions and outlook, generally speaking, are unchanged, and while we feel friendly to the long side of stocks for a pull, still be believe fluctuations will not be of any considerable breadth until the much needed impulse—for example—the decision in the rate case and the re-establishment of peace in Mexico—will have materialized.

Sales to 3 p.m., stocks, 202,250; bonds, $1,641,500.

Boston—Copper stocks were especially strong considering the apparent weakness of the metal market. It is reported that Greene Cananea property is again running same as before and declaration of the dividend today would indicate that no further trouble would result. We believe that the present level of prices has discounted most unfovaroble conditions and with the splendid crop outlook higher prices seem almost certain.

Chicago—Wheat, with better cables than expected wheat opened a little firmer, but met a lot of professional local selling which sent it back. Private cables spoke of drought still prevailing in the Danubian country and exporters talk god demand for new crop wheat. It looks to us as though it would take very little to make some advance in the market as the bear ammunition is about exhausted for the moment.

Corn—Corn has shown considerable strength. Wet weather over the corn belt but particularly the higher cables in reflection of recent rainy weather There has been sufficient realizing to hold the advance within reasonable limits, but the list has nevertheless made a fair gain. Would be careful about buying any corn on the bulges, would rather look for selling places.

Oats followed corn in a general way, ruling higher. The charter of a cargo of 350,000 bushels Canadian in Argentina started values upward. oats to come here from Fort William made late Saturday had little effect on the trade, although this was the first from Canada this season and the second ever brought down by lake.

COMMERCIAL NEWS

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

McDonald & Lesperance, stock brokers, private wire to New York and Montreal, Hochelaga Bank Building. Telephone 1227.

(Canadian Press Service.)

New York, May 11.—Strength prevailed in all parts of the stock market today. Trading was quiet but buying continued steadily and most of the representatives shares registered substantial gains. The Exchange was closed until 11 o'clock on account of the services here in memory of the Vera Cruz dead.

The speculative situation was unchanged. There was not one item in the day's news with important bearing on financial affairs, with the exception of the engagement of $3,000,000 gold for shipment to Europe. At another time the loan of this gold might have affected the market adversely, but with circumstances as they are, it was without influence, owing to the abundance of money here and the slowness of demand. Demand sterling rose to 488.15, the highest since December of 1909. It was understood by international bankers that the European demand for gold was still keen, and that Paris was in the market for $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 more. Today's engagements of gold exhausted the supply of gold bars in the essay office here, and it would be necessary to have higher exchange rates to make shipment of coin profitable. Nevertheless it was expected that more gold would be sent abroad. Of today's engagements $1,000,000 was for Berlin. This was the first consignment in about a year for Germany, and it was believed that this gold was destined for Russia.

European advices were pessimistic, and American stocks were lower abroad. London sold perhaps 10,000 shares here. The general supply, however, was small. There were virtually no offerings around Saturday's closing prices, and it was necessary to raise bids in almost every instance to obtain stocks. A point of strength was the elimination of weak spots which have burdened the general list recently. Missouri Pacific, one of these soft spots, showed strength today on the brighter prospects for meeting the roads financial requirements.

Transactions in bonds embraced a large variety of issues, but the movements were uncertain. Total sales par value, $1,518,000.

United States 2's coupon sold ⅝ higher, but call prices of all issues were unchanged.

NEW YORK CLOSING LETTER

Received over the private wire of McDougall & Cowan, Stock Brokers, 81 St. Peter St., Quebec. Tel. 246.

New York, May 11.—Our market paid but little attention to lower quotations in London and opened from steady to strong on moderate sized transactions. Union was a feature, rising a full point in the first quotations above Saturday's final prices. Before long strength developed throughout and this strength has been well maintained during the entire day. There was some recession in afternoon due to professional profit taking but market on the whole gave a good account of itself and the undertone at all times, remained strong. The copper stocks responded well to rather more favorable reports in regard to metal market while Steel entirely disregarded the poor trade reports in that industry. Cons. Gas was an early weak feature selling down three points below Saturday's close but later recovered about half this loss. Mop continued active and after an early decline ruled during the greater part of the day close to Saturday's close. A further engagement of gold for export produced absolutely no effect in view of great abundance of money at this centre.

Sales, 202,000; Bonds, $1,641,500.

NEW YORK CLOSING LETTER

By private wire to M. L. Dohan, Broker, Dominion building, St. Peter street, Phone 4748. Branch, Quebec Ry. Bldg., St. Joseph Street, Phone 582.

New York, May 11.—Today's stock market again showed a disposition to ignore the less favorable aspect of the Mexican situation and instead of selling off in sympathy with London, surprised the trading element by developing pronounced activity and strength. The financial community, for one reason or another, seemed decidedly more cheerful over the business and financial prospect. The strong position of the banks and the constant growth of an already large volume of idle money together with the brilliant crop outlook has commanded the attention of these accustomed to look ahead. It would require very little in the way of favorable news to bring a substantial investment demand and if such news should be forthcoming banking interests would be more inclined to sanction a speculative bull movement. While it is always well to exercise caution in the matter of buying stocks on strong rallies, it begins to look as if purchases on weak spots can be made with less risk of disturbance than heretofore and with prospect for substantial profits a little on. Total sales, 201,800.

Peas—No. 2, $1.00 to $1.10.

Corn, No. 3, yellow, 74; No. 2, mixed, 73.

Barley—Outside for malting, 55c to 56c; and 50c for feed.

Buckwheat—Shipping points, 83c to 85c.

Flour—Manitoba, listed at Toronto, first patents, $5.60; second patents, $5.10; strong bakers, $4.90. Ontario flour, winter, 90 per cent patents, $3.80 to $3.85 seaboard.

Millfeed—Manitoba bran, $25 per ton; shorts, $26 per ton on track Toronto.

Eggs—Selected, 21 to 22c.

CLOSING MARKET LETTER

Received over the private wire of Neuville Belleau & Co., Brokers, 93 St. Peter St., Quebec.

New York, May 11.—The market displayed a good undertone today, the efforts of bears to cover commitments resulting in a fair advance for the leading stocks. Business was light despite the fact that the market opened later out of respect to the nations dead. It was evident that the Mexican situation had temporarily at least lost its force is a market factor, though the opinion was still expressed that this country would eventually be compelled to intervene for the restoration of peace. The supreme court handed down no important decisions, so that there was no stimulus from this direction. Strength in Missouri Pacific was inferred to represent accumulation by large interests, it being suggested that Kuhn Loeb & Co. might still undertake the financial rehabilitation of the property under certain conditions. Consolidated Gas sold off on the announcement of rights, but such action is often the case in Wall street, which usually anticipates the good news. Owing to the fact that money is easy, with little demand for either business or speculation, further engagements of gold had little depressing effect. Russia, finding the European insufficient, is turning its attention in this direction and there may be fairly large exports before the movement is brought to a close. Trade conditions are still quiet and apparently there will be little improvement until the Interstate Commerce Commission announces its decision, which should be in the not distant future. Crop advices are most favorable and if they hold their promis, higher prices for the better class industrial and railroad stocks are assured. The market eased off in the late trading, but acted as if it would do better barring unfavorable developments. We are conservatively bullish.

THE U.S. CENSOR TABOOS CERTAIN INDIAN DANCES

SUCH AS TEND TO PERPETUATE THE VENGEFUL AND BLOODTHIRSTY SPIRIT OF THE EARLIER REDMEN.

Washington, May 11—The Indian Office of the Department of the Interior watches its Indian wards with the jealous care of a hen with one chicken, and one of the things that is denied to the Indian is indulgence in unexpurgated performance of native folk-dancing, which was originally designed to arouse his fighting blood.

The Indian always has been very proud of his dancing, and in prohibiting some of the dances that are not considered "good medicine" the Indian office is obliged to use the greatest diplomacy. The Indian, despite statements to the contrary, holds the "Great White Father" in fearful esteem, even to the point of abandoning many of his tribal dances.

In the days when Custer was chasing Sioux along the Little Big Horn a good many of the Western tribes were addicted to the sun dance at frequent and regular intervals. This dance was largely of a religious nature, and was designed to propitiate the Sun God. The braves chosen for the dance were big, husky fellows, blessed with the gift of imagination. They began with the beating of tom-toms as they danced in a circle, and as the steady boom-boom-boom of the tom-toms beat upon their ears they gradually worked themselves into the wildest frenzy. The climax came in self-mutilation of the dancers. When they had reached the proper condition of enthusiasm and frenzy out would come the scalping knives. The big braves, one by one, would pause in the dance to draw their knives across their shoulders and breasts until they dropped from exhaustion through loss of blood.

Yielded Reluctantly.

This sun dance was one of the first tribal customs to come under the ban of the Government. First, the Indian Office tried to show the chiefs the detrimental moral effects of the dance, but the old chiefs stood pat on the traditions of their fathers and the dance went on. One after another of the arguments of the Indian Office were exhausted, until finally the official invoked the picture of the Great White Father angry at his Indian children. Then, and then only, the sun dance passed.

In some parts of the unsettled West the dance breaks out sporadically still, but Uncle Sam's official dance censor shakes his head, and soon his disapproval is brought home to the recalcitrants through the long arm of the Indian Office.

Another of the dances of the old days that has passed into oblivion is the war dance. Chief among the reasons for stopping it was the psychologic effect on the Indian mind by the winding mazes of the dance and the steady beat of the war-drums. The Indian on the war-path is a bad character to deal with.

Another objectionable dance was the scalp dance. This served much the same purpose as the war dance, only the Indians, with an eye to realism, felt that a scalp or two was needed for the proper effect.

Too Much Realism.

At the time the Indian Office first started to ban the objectionable dances of the red men it was found that when a scalp dance was being planned a new scalp would appear among the "properties," a scalp that was anything but an heirloom of Indian forefathers, and word would reach Washington that some Indian or white man had been killed and scalped. Then would ensue a detective work, with possible prosecution and trial, which served to work up the Indians to a high pitch of resentment.

Up to the present time the Indian office has not taken serious steps to abolish the snake dance of the Hopi Indians of the Southwest, but it is believed that this custom also is doomed.

Moving pictures taken on Indian reservations can no longer be taken without written permission of the Indian Office. The purpose is to do away with anything tending to preserve in the Indians' minds the manners and customs from which the Indian Office is trying to wean them.

HORSE SEES AUTO; DIES.

Owner Says it Was a Case of Death From Nervous Prostration.

Sturgis, Mich., May 11—An old family horse belonging to C. Kroll, near here, for the first time saw an automobile being driven along the road and dropped dead, the owner says, from nervous prostration.

Chas. Kroll, farmer, residing near drove his horse to the side of the highway to allow an automobile to pass. The animal eyed the machine curiously, then fell prostrate.

When Kroll stepped to the horse's head, he was surprised to find it was dead.

The horse had seen railroad trains, threshing machines and other such mechanical devices, but when it saw a horseless carriage the surprise, says the owner, was too great for its nerves.

HER LITTLE SON WAS DYING

Gave Him "Fruit-a-tives" And Saved His Life.

Campbellville, Ont., May 5th, 1913.
"Our little boy, Lawrence, was sorely affected with Chronic Indigestion, and the doctor did not think he would recover. He started with a sore mouth and it developed into this other trouble. Everything he ate just passed right through the system without change. He cried incessantly and life was a misery to him. My husband had been using "Fruit-a-tives" for Indigestion, getting much benefit from them, and I thought what did him good, might help our boy. We tried "Fruit-a-tives" giving Lawrence 1-2 a tablet at a dose, and the result was marvellous. To-day, he is the picture of health, and he is perfectly well."

OTTAWA MEMBERS WILL PLAY BALL

ANNUAL GAME WITH PRESS GALLERY WILL TAKE PLACE ON ASCENSION DAY

(Special to The Chronicle)

Ottawa, May 11—The annual baseball game between the Press Gallery and the House of Commons will take place on Thursday, May 21, which being Ascension Day is observed by the Commons as a holiday. The members have already selected Major Sam Sharpe, of North Ontario, as Captain, and have gone into spring training. There will be a French-Canadian battery with Albert Sevigny of Dorchester in the box and Paul Lamarche, of Nicolet at the receiving end. Both are old stars of Laval University. The members' infield will be represented by three ex-stars of Toronto University, Fred Pardee, of West Lambton at first base; H. B. Morphy, of North Perth will be the shortstop. The outfield consists of F. B. McCurdy, of Halifax; W. A. Boyes of Simcoe, and Archie McCord, of West Kent. Hon. George P. Graham and E. N. Rhodes, of Cumberland, are spare pitchers.

Last year there was a most exciting game between the two teams, the press men, after a bad start, winning out by a score of 23 to 19. The game is one of the annual events of the Ottawa season and the elite of the Capital society will be on hand for the encounter.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

WHY are our Linoleums and oil cloths better than elsewhere?

BECAUSE we buy them six months in advance.
BECAUSE we buy them only twice a year.
BECAUSE being a long time in the store they get hard and well seasoned.

WHY do we sell them cheaper than elsewhere?

BECAUSE we buy direct from the manufacturer.
BECAUSE we buy them in very large quantities.
BECAUSE we have a special price for buying so many.

WHY have we always large bargains in Rugs?

BECAUSE during the dull seson we have the manufacturers working for us at low rates. That explains how we can sell Axminster Rugs—
Worth ..... $45.00, $40.00, and $30.00
For ..... $27.50, $25.00, and $20.00
