Lose incentive to shop 'across the line'

Austerity cuts border trade

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Canada's austerity measures have made stay-at-homes of many Canadian shoppers who formerly helped commerce thrive in United States border communities.

This is a capsule summary of a series of surveys conducted by The Associated Press along the 3,000-mile border — but there is no easy assessment that fits all sectors.

In New York State, sources interviewed were just about unanimous in saying Canadians lost their incentive to shop across the line after Canada devalued its dollar and cut from $100 to $25 the amount of goods her citizens are allowed to take home duty-free.

Minnesota and North Dakota had a similar story
while, in far-west Washington State, merchants reported the currency discount did not affect their business as much as the good-limit.

Michigan sources also noted a drop in Canadian revenue but — in a puzzling contrast — Canadian customs collections at Windsor and Sault Ste. Marie were reported higher in July this year than in that month in 1961.

DISAGREEMENT IN MAINE
And in Maine, James Casey, president, Calais Chamber of Commerce, declared: "It is a topic of conversation unworthy of the attention it gets. Canadians, like Americans, will purchase what they want, regardless of premiums and discounts." Other Maine sources, however, did not agree.

From Buffalo to Watertown
— along the New York shore of Lake Ontario — merchants reported a definite loss of business, blaming the slump almost entirely on the weakened Canadian dollar, pegged at 92½ cents in American funds.

"It actually doesn't pay them to come over," said Enar Ahlstrom, executive vice-president of the Niagara Falls Chamber of Commerce. "It has kept the Canadian in Canada."

In Buffalo, Jack Travers,

executive secretary of the Retail Merchants Association, said "Canadians are obviously spending less time and less money in Buffalo."

Ahlstrom said Niagara Falls merchants believe Canadians who have been accustomed to visiting the U.S. strictly for entertainment at movies, cocktail lounges and other recreation spots still are coming.

It is the shoppers who are staying home, Ahlstrom said.
"There are a lot of sad, sad people in Canada," said one Buffalo store official. He said his store had been approached by a representative of a large employer in Canada who asked for a discount for the Canadian employees.

After the lag in Canadian trade became apparent, however, some American store-owners teamed up to give Canadians a little more than the official value of their dollar.

In Plattsburgh, for example, 30 members of the Retail Merchants Bureau agreed to discount the dollar at five per cent instead of 10 per cent. Banks were co-operating.

David Merkel and Edward Lineberg, bureau co-chairmen, reported many stores hadn't been able to hire the usual

number of summer salespeople this year and some were
"having to decide whether to lay off some of their present employees."

At least two Plattsburgh banks supported the bureau's efforts by lowering the discount rate to 8½ per cent —
the official exchange rate plus handling fee. Border banks generally have been assessing service fees of 1 to 2½ cents on the dollar for handling.

Retail stores in the past have taken pains to inform Canadian buyers of special sales.
Some advertisements now proclaim: "Canadian money taken at par," or "Canadian money taken for the amount of purchase."

This means that if a Canadian makes a $1 purchase and pays for it with a $10 bill, $1 is taken at par and the $9 is discounted.

Not all Canadians are willing to accept the discount.
Some Watertown residents complained they were refusing the exchange when travelling in Canada.

"It's just politics," said one gasoline station attendant in Watertown, Que., cheerfully refusing to honor the American-dollar premium.

But for thousands of Americans living in Canada and working in the U.S. — most of them cottage-dwellers in the summer — the new exchange has been a boon. By purchasing gas, food and bridge communication tickets in Canada
they say they save about 10
per cent.

Detroit's largest department store J. L. Hudson Company reported a "decided drop in Canadian money."

A Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., man who makes a business of exchanging currencies, estimated his business was off 75
per cent.

Business as usual at Boundary

ROCK ISLAND — (Special)
— Austerity doesn't appear to have adversely affected cross-the-line business in this busy border area.

The value of duty on small,
over-the-counter items from the United States declared at customs in Rock Island was down slightly in July of this year over the same month last year, but increased considerably in August over the same period in 1961.

The number of declarations in connection with the new $25 exemption was higher in July, 1962 than in July, 1961, when the exemption was $100. In August of this year, the number of declarations dropped slightly.

Commercial duties collected increased considerably in both July and August of this year over the same months

last year.

In July, 1962, total value of commercial duties was $240-275.56 compared to $153,453-
51. In August, 1962, total value of commercial duties was $276,470.32 compared to $253,607.76. Any gain, however, was probably due in part to the new surcharges.

Caouette a hit in the US

WASHINGTON — (TNS) —
The new Canadian name for the American reader is Real Caouette. He's become a featured news item as the Quebec Credentisist who controls 26 seats in the new House of Commons at Ottawa.

Mr. Caouette hardly receives equal billing in the U.S. press with Raoul Castro, the man
in Havana, or Billie Sol Estes, the Texas dealer in politics and ammonia fertilizer. But he's making news for Canada and he's the first person you're asked about in such learned circles as the bar of the National Press Club.

Like some Canadians, many Americans are having trouble with the Gallic accent of a name like Real Caouette. This is true in places like British Columbia, where French names receive the Anglicized treatment that involves clipping every syllable with the front teeth.

In Vancouver, I discovered recently, they are talking of the Quebec phenomenon as
"the Real Coyote," pronounced ki-yo-tee, which is not the usage in Saskatchewan where the coyotes really roam.

With all those vowels, Mr.
Caouette is sure of a permanent place in U. S. crossword puzzles. His name is a staggering barrier for the newscasters, and he's a providential windfall for the cartoonists though he'll never replace Prime Minister Diefenbaker as heaven's greatest gift to the latter.

Since there's no likelihood that Mr. Caouette will stop talking for publication, he must be regarded as the chief agency at present in spreading the Canadian image around darkest America. True, he's identified with French Canada, but it's remembered that his Credentisist is the official doctrine of Alberta and British Columbia.

No matter how much those provinces may squirm when Caouette praises Hitler and Mussolini the fact remains that Caouette, Premier Manning and Premier Bennett are all in business with the same political technique and economic doctrine.

Since the supply of eccentric politicians never runs dry in U.S. politics, Real Caouette is a public figure that Americans understand by instinct. He's doing for Canada what Huey Long did for Louisiana and Joe McCarthy did for Wisconsin.

Caouette's press notices are piling up, but wait until Parliament opens in Ottawa later this month. He's getting the build-up now, and the spoken media will soon learn that his name is "wet cow" in reverse.

When Real Caouette proclaims "You want money, vote Social Credit," he's harping on the desire for money which is a foundation of American demaguery.

When he promises $100 a month Americans may shrug
but they remember fringe politicians of their own who tried a similar formula.

When Caouette promises to abolish taxes and suppress the national debt, he's sure of getting a second look from many Congressmen who know doubletalk when they hear it but always want to know how he proposes to do it.

When Caouette organizes his huge, local committees that put badges on every willing soul in sight, he gets marks
for basic political technique.

After all, money money money and talk talk talk are the ingredients of popular politics everywhere.

But there are other ingredients. How will Real Caouette use the power the voters have given him? A handful of press clippings suggests to me that Caouette's parliamentary power is exaggerated in most accounts. If there are bets being taken in Ottawa, as Caouette will upset the new Parliament within 10 days,
then the Press Gallery boys must be into the mash again.

The moon that shines over Ottawa has seen Social Credi-tists before this, and they exerted no influence at all either on policy or the future course of elections. The Caouette Creditists have $10,000 a year paid monthly as long as Parliament lasts, and that would point to a life of three or four years for the new House.

Stopped tucking pyjama coat into pants?

This fellow has just read the phrase "tired of her aging lover" applied to a man six years his junior.

By LOUIS DEWOLF

Are you amused at being called "sir" by young fellows of eighteen? Do you no longer tuck your pajama coat inside
the trousers?

Do you freely point the stem of your pipe at an opponent while arguing? Do you use the phrase, "I'm not as young as I was" playfully and without conviction? Have you shown an increasing tendency to class people as "sound" or
"unsound"?

Do you have a tendency to look closely at the crown of your head when you face a mirror, find yourself saying that manners - summers - new potatoes - automobiles were better in the old days?

Are you instinctively pleased at seeing somebody your own age described in print as "comparatively young man" — and later aghast that you were pleased?

Have you taken up using a walking stick to point with?
Are you now indifferent as to whether you've said the same thing to the same person?

Key to South America's future

Communists, West in battle for Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela —
(NEA) — Oil-rich Venezuela is the prime target of the Soviet-led forces now being trained in Communist Cuba.

Hordes of Russian and Czech specialists in guerrilla warfare and subversion, turned out in Cuba's finishing school for revolution, are reported in-filtrating every day throughout Latin America.

But nowhere is the duel between democracy and freedom more evident than in Venezuela, the key to whether this vast area will be saved for the free world.

The third largest oil producer in the world, Venezuela is also the strategic link between the Caribbean and South America. But more important is the fact that since the fall of dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez in 1958 and the election of Romulo Betancourt as president, Venezuela has become the show case of genuine democracy in Latin America. It is also the only country where the Alliance of Progress is actually making some progress.

For the United States it is thus of crucial importance to encourage and preserve Venezuela's young and fragile democracy. For Moscow and Havana it is equally important to keep the country in a permanent state of revolt and economic chaos.

As Jose Figueras, one of the ablest Latin American democratic leaders, told this writer,

"There is only one man —
President Betancourt — who today stands between the Red bloc and Venezuela's oil."

There was thus more than wishful thinking in Fidel Castro's latest prediction of another rash of armed student uprisings against Betancourt's government. Who should know better than Cuba's bearded dictator?

Since the influx of Soviet "technicians" and military advisers into Cuba, the Central University of Caracas has become a hotbed of intensified Red activity. Some 200 Venezuelan "students" are reported to have received special training in recent weeks in Cuba.

Scores of young army and navy officers, trained in Cuba and guided by Russian and Czechoslovak political commissars, are stepping up guerrilla warfare in Venezuela's interior.
Wealth in Venezuela, as in the rest of Latin America, is still held by the few, with some 10 per cent of the population enjoying about 75 per cent of the national income.

But under Betancourt's government, Venezuela has ac-chieved the highest average per capita income in Latin America today.

Betancourt's Accion Democratica party is carrying out social, agricultural and economic reforms long overdue in Venezuela as in the rest of Latin America, and is doing so in democratic fashion.

Pro-democratic Latin Americans and U.S. diplomats see President Betancourt's regime
as the only serious challenge and alternative to communism and Castroism to be found in South America today.

If Betancourt serves out his

News in brief

Police hold man

One man has been charged in connection with the theft of $1,700 in cash and $3,300 in cheques from the Molson Brewery offices at 466 Marquette Street early Friday morning.

The man was taken into custody Friday afternoon but was not charged until this morning. The thieves entered the building by forcing open a rear door. Once inside they rifled two safes and did extensive damages to the offices. Police found burglary tools at the scene.

Hearing set

RICHMOND — (Staff) — The Quebec municipal commission, headed by Judge John F. Sheehan, will sit here Tuesday to study the firing of ex-Police Chief Gerard Paquin.

His dismissal will be reviewed in the light of a recent amendment to the cities and towns act which specifies that high-ranking municipal employees may appeal for a commission hearing within eight days after being fired or having salaries reduced. Mr. Paquin was dismissed Aug. 29 for what Mayor Marcel Roy called "insubordination." The commission will sit at the registration office 235 Main St., at 10 a.m.

Second child

LONDON (Reuters) — Several British newspapers emphasized in bold type headlines today that Princess Margaret — reported expecting her second baby — did not attend the christening Friday of her cousin, the Earl of St. Andrew.

The Daily Sketch carries a seven-column headline "All Except Margaret" above its account of the christening of the 11-week-old son of the Duke and Duchess of Kent.

Brazil to vote

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — The Chamber of Deputies eased Brazil's political crisis today by approving a plebiscite for next January on whether to give executive powers to the figurehead office of President Joao Goulart.

The vote on the plebiscite bill, already approved by the Senate, was 169 to 83 — five over the majority required.

The action apparently lessened the threat of military intervention in Latin America's largest country, which has been without a government since Prime Minister Francisco Brochado da Rocha and his cabinet resigned Friday over the plebiscite issue.

Raps regimes

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The mission board of the United Church of Canada called today for an end to violent government oppression in Angola and urged the Portuguese regime to grant basic civil rights to the Angolan people.

A report to the governing general council of the church condemns "indiscriminate reprisals" against Africans whose condition of life constitutes "a just grievance."

A series of resolutions include an appeal to the government of Portugal to end "the continuing tragedy in Angola," extend full civil rights to Angolans, acknowledge the right of the people to decide their own political future and in the meantime to step up education.

Require visas

OTTAWA (CP) — Reports reaching here Friday from Havana indicated that henceforth Canadian reporters will require visas to get into Cuba.

However, Cuban Ambassador Dr. Americo Cruz said he was not aware of any new regulation. The Cuban consulate in Toronto said flatly visas are not needed by Canadian newspaper men.

Until now, Canadian reporters have needed only a passport to get admitted to the Communist-controlled Caribbean island — except for a limited period following last year's invasion during which a tourist visa was required.

Show Business

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After 17 years, Ernest Borgnine is back in the navy.

"It's not exactly the navy, remember," Ernie said. "I don't think we could have won the war if we'd had one like this. But it's a lot more laughs."

Ernie wound up 10 years in the navy as a chief gunner's mate in 1945. He re-enlists as a lieutenant-commander in McHale's Navy, a new comedy television series which opens on ABC Oct. 11.

Ernie's new navy consists of three PT boats—one war surplus, tied up at nearby Balboa Bay, and two full-size mockups, moored in the "ocean" on the back lot of Revue Studios.

IS WAR STORY

"The show's set in the South Pacific during the Second World War," Ernie explained. "I was in the Pacific, but before the war—I joined the navy in 1935. About as far out in the Pacific I went was Hawaii.

"In 1941, I quit the navy to go to work in a factory in New Haven, Conn. — 1941, what a year to quit the navy! I was back in a few months.

"They never sent me to the Pacific during the war. In the beginning, we had only three boats patrolling the entire Atlantic coast and I was on one of them.

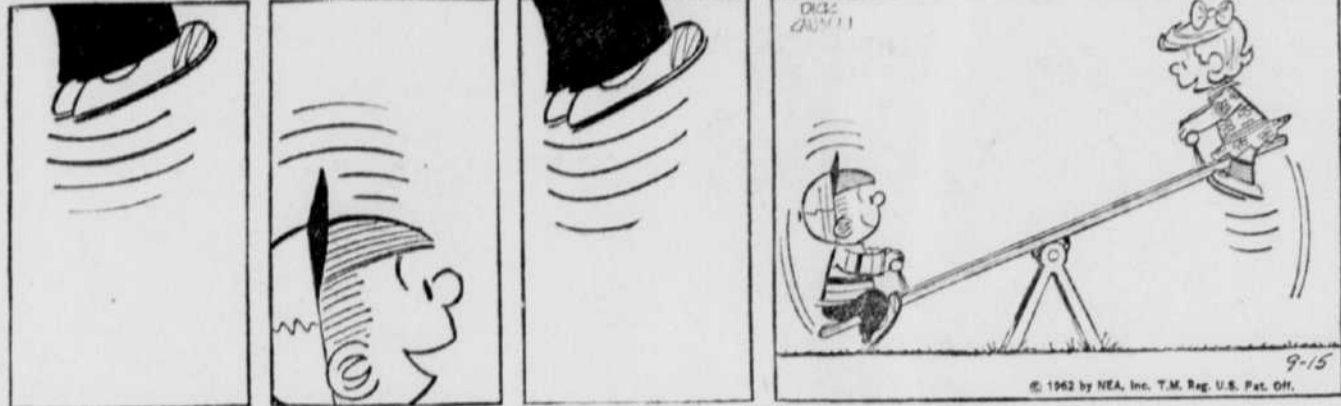

"Then they sent me to Hollywood, Fla. I was assigned to a P.Y. patrol yacht. That was great duty. We spent almost every night in Miami. It was about as wild sometimes as McHale's Navy.

"The P.Y. was a converted yacht, the SS Intrepid. It used to be owned by the Murphy who invented Murphy beds. He took it to Europe and all over before the war. You should have seen what the navy did to it!"

The navy made a lot of changes in Ernie, too. He went in, at 17, weighing a modest 135 pounds. He came out 100 pounds heavier.

He also met his first wife, Rhoda, in the navy. She was a Wave. They had a daughter, Nancy, now 10. But the marriage broke up, after nine years, in 1958. A year later, Borgnine wed fiery Mexican actress Katy Jurado. That marriage, too, now is on stormy seas. The pair are separated and Borgnine sees little hope for reconciliation.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

U.S. LAGS IN FOURTH ROUND

America wound up the fourth session of the world title match just as they started, with a disastrous hand. It only cost six International Match Points, and it put them seven IMPs behind. It was a needless loss.

Italy with the East-West cards bid a nice comfortable one no-trump and made two. The American East-West bidding is shown in the box.

West's opening spade bid is reasonable although most top level bidders would open with one club. East's two club response is an example of the Drury convention which a few of our players use. It asks partner to show if he has a full opening bid. A two diamond rebid denies this, any other bid shows it. So when West bid two no-trump, East raised to three.

Usually 14 points opposite nine are not enough to make game and this hand was no exception. North opened a club. South took the ace and returned the suit. West won with king and played ace and jack of hearts. North went up with the king and cleared his club suit with another lead. He still had to get in with the ace of diamonds to cash the last two clubs and set the hand one trick.

TAKE IT FROM KATHY

Dear Kathy: This week I had a date for the first time. We had a wonderful time but I am supposed to be home by 10.30 p.m. It's terrible to feel like a baby, so I stopped to talk and have something to eat. We didn't get home until after 12 o'clock and my parents were furious. I've been told that I can't go out again. What can I do? I had already made another date and now I can't keep it.—Babs.

Dear Babs: There are college girls who have 10 o'clock curfews, so you shouldn't feel like a baby. Rules are something that every teen understands. Your date's family makes them, too about lots of things.

You can't undo the past so

High Times

By SANDRA PICKFORD

The school uniforms have been reluctantly dug out of mothballs. Students, laden down with school books have marched back to school rooms all over the Eastern Townships, and have settled down behind a desk they'll call their own for another semester.

The cheerleaders have begun practicing while soccer players are already out on the field practicing the first school sport of the season.

The Students' Council have met to discuss school activities for the coming year.

It's also time to begin High Times again. High Times, now entering its third year of publication, will once again report on school news throughout the Eastern Townships. Welcome back. I have some news already.

COMMENCEMENT — Sherbrooke High School begins a new year by honoring last year's graduates. The Sherbrooke High School Commencement Exercises will be held September 21 at 8:15 p.m. says Janet Baker, S.H.S. correspondent for 1962. Following the exercises on Open House will be held. An all-girl choir under the direction of Morris Austin will be in attendance at the Commencement Exercises. Music certificates, scholarship awards as well as the all important graduation certificates will be awarded.

NEW EXECUTIVE — Linda Knutson is the 1962-63 president of the Students' Council at North Hatley High School this year. Vice-president is Hugh Montgomery while secretary is Sylvia Ditchburn. Treasurer is Jim Packard. Editor of the annual this year is Gayle Patrik. In charge of the school store will be Gloria Knapp, Nancy Guild and Karen Olson.

NEW STAFF — Seven new members have been added to the teaching staff this year at Knowlton High School. They are Mrs. S. Wilson, Miss L. Latendresse, Mrs. F. MacKeen, Eric Northrup, Boyd Paige, A. Whittall and D. Munkittrick. J. L. MacKeen is principal-supervisor while S. B. Hardacker is vice-principal. Lee Corcoran will direct the well-known Knowlton High School Band this year.

STUDENTS' COUNCIL — President of the Sherbrooke High School Students' Council this year is Bob Brown. Under his leadership the Students' Council will meet during the year with the following members: Vice-president, Marilyn Cooperman; secretary, Phillip Kerwin, and treasurer, Don Cooper.

Class representatives for the S.H.S. Students' Council this year are June Minor, 8C; Steve Elkas, 8B; Rosemary Wheeler, 8G; Allan Oxford, 8A. Grade nine representatives are Sharon Faith, 9A; Bruce Dunsmore, 9B; Larry Winslow, 9C, and Daphne Nelson, 9G. Grade ten representatives are Jerry Barr, 10G; Janet Baker, 10A; Doug Saver, 10B, and Donald Martin, 10C.

Representing the seniors this year on the S.H.S. Students' Council are Joan Echenberg, 11A and Joe Schmidt, 11B.

SCHOOL FAIR TIME — Annual exhibitions have just finished but it's time again for school fairs which no doubt many E.T. students plan to exhibit at. The Sherbrooke County School Fair was held in the Arena Building, Sherbrooke, September 14, 15 and 16.

The 46th annual Ayer's Cliff School Fair will be held September 22 at the Ayer's Cliff Exhibition Grounds. The teaching staff of the schools of Stanstead County are also arranging a track meet on the day of the school fair. A complete program has been arranged for the day of the school fair and besides sports competition there will be square dance competition for junior and intermediate pupils as well as demonstrations in judging and competitions.

SOCCER BEGINS — Speaking of sports, Janet Baker at Sherbrooke High School says the field behind the high school will be in constant use by girls and boys alike for soccer this week. A girls soccer team under the coaching of Miss Nancy Love, girls physical education teacher at S.H.S. has been formed and will make its debut when they play a home and home series with the girls from King's Hall, Compton. Boys soccer at S.H.S. has also begun this week. Boys from St. Patrick High School in Sherbrooke have also begun practicing soccer this week at the Parade Grounds. Although St. Patrick boys don't return to school until September 17, because of the building of a new addition to the school. The junior team has been practicing in the morning and the senior team in the afternoon.

Fortin may seek "honors in higher fields"

Centre Ward battle shaping up

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record Staff Writer)

ALD. G. BERARD

ALD. C. FORTIN

ALD. R. GAUTHIER

With Sherbrooke aldermanic elections scheduled for Wednesday, October 3, municipal politics temporarily dominate the local scene.

Three council seats become vacant this year — those held by Ald. Robert Gauthier in the East Ward, Ald. Gerard Berard in the South and Ald. Carrier Fortin.

Both aldermen Gauthier and Berard have announced their intention of seeking another three-year term while Ald. Fortin has indicated he will retire from municipal politics, probably to seek honors in higher fields in the near future.

Already, opposition has been forthcoming for Ald. Gauthier in the East, Henri Dubuc, operator of a furniture finishing plant, having announced his intention of seeking the seat.

Prospects are for a battle in the Centre Ward. Amedee Roy, an insurance broker, is being supported by a group of downtown businessmen and has said he is prepared to enter the race.

Several delegations have approached Roger Gauthier, a real estate developer prominent in Junior Liberal Federation circles, to oppose Mr. Roy. Mr. Gauthier stated that he will announce his decision early next week, probably on Tuesday.

Both Ald. Fortin and Mr. Gauthier were defeated for the provincial Liberal nomination in Sherbrooke at a convention which selected L. P. Brousseau, present MPP as the party candidate.

While, officially, there are no political lines on the Sherbrooke City Council, an unofficial balance of power has existed over the past few years. Half the Council, as individuals, have had Liberal leanings and the other five have been sympathetic to the Conservative and Union Nationale.

This has led some of the militant of the Young Liberal supporters to demand opposition for Mr. Roy if he seeks Ald. Fortin's post.

The retiring alderman should be succeeded by a Liberal sympathizer, they claim, while Mr. Roy has been a strong Conservative-Union National worker.

These junior Liberals have two or three other potential candidates lined up if Mr. Gauthier refuses to run. But none of these names has been advanced officially and their acceptance of the honor is doubtful.

In the South Ward there has been no sign of opposition to Ald. Berard in his bid for reelection, but it would not be surprising if an opponent was found by nomination day, Sept. 26.

The part of the Social Credit party in the municipal field is rather vague. Higher officials of the party have indicated it should confine its activities to the federal field as their policies of currency and credit reforms come exclusively under Ottawa jurisdiction. To become involved in provincial and civic politics would only dissipate organization efforts and weaken the party federally.

But a number of local Social Credit workers have been seeking out candidates who would run without any party designation, however, with the tacit support of the party.

This follows the pattern set in other parts of the province, where Secord organizers seek to pack the local Councils with their supporters—both with out party labels.

The purpose is essentially a propaganda device, and is best served by having the council supposedly independent.

Resolutions favoring various parts of the Creditist policies are passed by one council and sent to the remaining municipalities for approval.

With Secord supporters already dominating an estimated 250 town, village and township councils, tremendous demand for the radical reform demands can be generated.

To add a city with the importance of Sherbrooke to their ranks would be of inestimable value to the Social Credit propaganda machine.

Foreign investment is welcome in province

By PAT BOUGIE
(Record Staff Reporter)

GRANBY — It was never the intention of the provincial government to prohibit investment of foreign capital in developing Quebec resources, Andre Rousseau, Quebec minister of trade and commerce, announced Friday at the opening of the Federal Pacific Electric and Pioneer Electric Companies here.

"On the contrary," Mr. Rousseau told the 200 guests present, "the government of the Province of Quebec recently created a general investment corporation."

Mr. Rousseau was speaking at the official opening of the $107,850 addition to the Federal Pacific Electric Company of Canada plant (FPE) and the official opening of the FPE's subsidiary, the Pioneer Electric Ltd., both companies specialize in the manufacture of electrical equipment such as transformers and electric panel boards.

"Although they own these resources," Mr. Rousseau said, "the people of Quebec do not want to see them squandered, neither by themselves or by others. The government of the province understands this and has pledged itself to have these demands respected."

"We have already set in motion administrative services devoted to economic research in this field. We have also undertaken surveys on a broader scale of the new regions of the province, to determine as precisely as possible the geographic position, scope, and potential of our resources."

"All these steps, along with similar action by private groups, aim at establishing order in a sector where the absence of coordination could easily lead to waste."

"Regardless of how numerous or abundant they may be, these resources will not exploit them ourselves. We must invest capital and act in such a way as to have participation in that of a minor shareholder. It wishes to man-associate itself with local and foreign capital in inviting investment sources to collaborate in reaching the common goal — the industrial development of Quebec.

"It was never our intention to prohibit investment of foreign capital in developing our resources. On the contrary, we invite foreign capital to work with us in reaching this goal. Moreover, we have so much to do, and in so many directions at the same time, that it would be sheer delusion to imagine that, alone, we can do everything which the undertaking requires."

Platform guests at Friday's ceremonies were: W. G. Amos, president of Pioneer Electric Eastern Ltd.; Granby's Mayor Horace Boivin; L. W. Cole, chairman of the board, Federal Pacific Electric; Rev. T. Dubuc, who blessed the new plant; W. E. Ferris, eastern district manager of Federal Pacific Electric; Rev. Mr. Foggo, Rev. J. A. Fuller, chairman of Shawinigan Water and Power Co.; Jean-Paul Lessard, president of Hydro-Quebec; L. Rattee, president of Southern Canada Power; L. Hollingworth, plant manager, Federal Pacific Electric;

Venerable Archdeacon I. M. Lidstone, Granby Anglican Church; W. F. Mainguy, president of Shawinigan Water and Power; R. Noonan, president of Pioneer Electric Canada; F. H. Roby, executive vice-president, Federal Pacific Electric; Jacques Tetreault, president of the employees syndicate of Federal Pacific Electric, and H. Whitcher, of the Granby Southern Canada Power office.

A slice of life

Human interest pictures require sense of timing

Most people are back at life in the city and with the children returned to school, we look forward to weekend trips for relaxation.

However, there are some good pictures to be had early in the morning—for the early birds who are awake, that is. Usually at this hour, the installation of large signs or the unloading of large trucks are the type of subject matter which has human interest. This should be emphasized in your prints.

They are spontaneous in nature but where you have a group of men working or unloading a truck in this case you have a certain amount of time to find the proper kind of camera angle. Don't wait too long because by the time you are ready they will have emptied the truck.

The general rule to follow is to take a long shot and a medium shot right off. Then try for a suitable camera roll, too fast or get out of hand, things could happen. The picture is no masterpiece, perhaps it could have been done differently. But it does tell a graphic story with the necessary action and it suggests movement. It is this particular asset that gives it importance and interest.

Natural lighting gives exactly the scene that you would see if you should happen to come along at the time. Pictures taken like this must always give the atmosphere of 'you are there' a sort of reality of living reflecting men and women at work.

The artist shows life as he visualizes it. It is also a personal interpretation. On the other hand, the camera shows it the way it really is. With camera angle or light control one can emphasize the importance of a scene and generally the subject is not changed.

The only requirement of a photographer when shooting human interest pictures is to understand or enjoy people and have a sense of timing (knowing just when to take the picture). And with interesting subjects you will be fairly sure of success.

NEWSPAPER DRAMA — This is a typical shot in a 'you are there' type picture and also a graphic shot of a finished product from one of Canada's natural resources. angle after studying the subject.

Pictures with action, by this I mean those displaying movement, are alive as it were. Not just a group of people standing in a row and a huge piece of machinery or a group of people standing in a row with a roll of paper resting nearby.

The picture of today is of men unloading newspaper. The particular roll weighs 654 pounds. The expression of the men show they realize that it

Raise, no recognition

Letter to employees indicates no progress in Vt. road dispute

By MALCOLM REID
(Record staff reporter)

DERBY LINE — (Staff) — The wording of a mimeographed letter which Vermont road workers received yesterday from Samuel Fabi, general manager of Fabi and Sons of Sherbrooke, suggests that the dispute between company and men is right where it was the day the men went on strike, Aug. 28.

Then, the strikers said they wanted to be represented in collective bargaining by the International Union of Operating Engineers (AFL-CIO), and Mr. Fabi replied that he was prepared to grant a pay raise but not to recognize the union.

Yesterday, in a letter posted to each worker's home and beginning "Dear employee," Mr. Fabi said the firm would grant an across-the-board wage increase if workers were back on the job at the Derby Line, Vt. interstate highway site Monday morning at 8. If they did not, they would be replaced.

He did not mention the union, and has not met with its spokesmen since the day the strike began.

The amount of the wage offer was quoted by a Record correspondent who read the letter in a striker's home as "10 per cent per hour across the board," but at the Sherbrooke Fabi office, Richard Fabi, accountant, said the offer was 10 cents an hour.

The present pay scale is $1.35 for laborers, $1.40 for truck drivers, and up to $2.75 for machine operators.

The Fabi office on the site at Derby Line has been closed up during most of the strike, with only occasional visits by company officers. Samuel Fabi has been reported travelling to Montpelier for consultations with Vermont state roads department officials, and the Sherbrooke office of the firm has confirmed one of these trips, without stating its purpose.

Fabi and Sons are building the five-mile stretch of interstate highway, a joint federal-state-financed program in the United States, under two contracts with the Vermont government.

The first was let, Samuel Fabi says, in May 1961. It expires this coming Nov. 15. According to strikers, work on it was already several weeks behind schedule when the strike began.

The second contract was let in September 1961, and is not due for completion until Aug. 1, 1963. Mr. Fabi says the company, with another whole summer for work on it, is not worried about completion.

It was on the grounds that the work was too near completion that an officer of the U.S. Labor Relations Board ruled in Newport, Vt., in July that the board would not sponsor a binding secret ballot among men working under the two contracts on whether or not they wished to be represented by the Operating Engineers.

In addition to the two contracts Fabi received, work has been done on the highway project under three sub-contracts which Fabi let to Vermont firms: Calkins Construction of Danville, Vt., for bridges; G. D. Griswold of White River Junction, Vt., for fences, signs and rails, and L. W. Pike Faving for the laying of pavement on the bed prepared by Fabi's own workers.

Kenneth Wright, one of the three union representatives who have been on the scene since Aug. 28, says that the Operating Engineers have contracts with every major highway contractor from outside the state which does work in Vermont, but has not organized many of the small Vermont firms.

Workers on the sub-contracted sections of the Fabi project did not join the strike, and continued to work for some time after it began. Samuel Fabi asserted Sept. 13 that they were still working, but a Record reporter at the site on that date could see no sign of even sub-contract work going forward.

Mr. Fabi described the stages

The weeping and wailing in London

With all due respect to those concerned, it does seem that this past week in London has been something in the nature of a crying contest.

Certainly, it was expected that Commonwealth leaders would raise objections to Britain's entry into the Common Market as it may effect the individual Commonwealth countries, but the sorry chorus of howls has been more than most observers bargained for.

Note these choice quotes, as reported by the Manchester Guardian:

Mr. Diefenbaker (Canada): the present terms were not satisfactory. There should be full consultation when the final terms were drawn up. The whole position of Commonwealth relations would be changed if Britain joined.

Mr. Menzies (Australia): What was Australia being asked to do? Sign a blank cheque? No government could do that and survive. It seemed as though part of the final price — and perhaps, the final price — was being paid by the Commonwealth.

Mr. Holyoake (New Zealand): This was a matter of survival. New Zealand was not assured that her vital interests would be preserved.

Mr. Nehru (India): I do not see how the Commonwealth will survive unless a radical change is made in the present proposals. Britain's entry might also add to the tension between East and West.

Senator Fernando (Ceylon): Any shrinking of exports would do "severe" damage to the economy and undermine the growth of the island.

President Ayub Khan (Pakistan): The Brussels proposals were inadequate. The Community had developed a highly protectionist attitude. Whenever there was a direct conflict, decisions had been in favor of the EEC.

The disturbing thing about all of these comments — however accurate they may be — is that they reveal an attitude that the Commonwealth is a formal organization whose present composition is permanent and unchangeable.

When the Treaty of Rome was signed in 1958, setting the wheels in motion that have resulted in the rapid development of the European Common Market, it was quite evident that Britain would have to consider seriously joining the group, and that if she did so, the Commonwealth would have to undergo considerable change.

Too much of what most of the Commonwealth leaders have been saying in London this past week has simply been a restatement of this fact. "But there will have to be changes in the Commonwealth if Britain enters," the leaders have been sobbing, as if this were a newly-discovered concept, and not the self-evident factor that has been present right from the beginning.

Of course, there will have to be changes. Of course, this will involve some hardships for Commonwealth countries. Who ever said that the situation would be anything else? Even Mr. Macmillan, in his most reassuring statements, never gave any reason for believing that there would not be some serious Commonwealth dislocations.

The tears appeared to have dried up as this week drew to a close. Perhaps the Commonwealth leaders were playing largely for effect to the voters back home.

It will be interesting to see how they explain their crying jag when they return from London.

Few youngsters realize the value of a dollar, but oldsters do. Much less than a dollar.

Rights also have responsibilities

Criticism of an Ontario judge who imposed a ten-day hard-labor sentence on a sixteen-year-old boy who was responsible for the death of a fourteen-year-old passenger in an automobile accident is based on false reasoning. Critics of the judge claim that the driver's youth should have freed him from being liable to punishment normally reserved for adults.

The youth lost control of his car as he rounded a corner at high speed. The magistrate held that the fine, customary in such cases, would have been paid by the boy's parents and thus there would be no punishment for him.

Anticipating criticism of his action, the magistrate declared:

"Sixteen-year-olds who apply for driving licenses see themselves as adults and must be treated as adults by the courts."

The boy had used adult privileges in obtaining his permit to drive a car. Having abused that privilege by being criminally negligent, the magistrate was justified in forcing him to accept adult responsibility for his actions.

There has been a tendency in this continent to be over-protective to youngsters. The children too often are granted rights and favors but are relieved of their responsibility when things go wrong, their tender age being offered as an excuse.

This tends to foster irresponsibility and discourages the development of the feeling of proper respect for the rights of others.

Basically, the simple rule is that young people should not be granted rights and privileges unless they are aware of and are ready to assume the responsibilities as well.

Other papers say:

Civil service reforms long overdue

Among the many excellent recommendations contained in the Glasse Royal Commission on Government Organization are those which deal with the Civil Service Commission.

The Civil Service Commission is a body appointed by the government to administer the civil service and civil service legislation. Headed by three commissioners, it has full responsibility for recruitment, selection, promotion, appointment and re-classification of federal civil service personnel.

The report makes it clear that civil servants are "prisoners" of an obsolete management system, not its creators. And Canada's civil service is often held up as an example to the rest of the world. But, like any operation that is concerned with vast numbers of human beings, shortcomings have developed over a period of years.

Productivity of civil servants is low compared to that of workers in private business, but the report insists that this can be attributed as much to the system as to the individual. And, the report finds, "they are not devoted to the preservation of red tape and avoidance of work."

But the Civil Service Commission has become all-powerful throughout the years, and the inevitable result has been inefficiency and featherbedding. The commission's recommendation, which we endorse, are only a logical application of normal administrative methods.

The commission suggests that the Civil Service Commission lose its place as the all-embracing appointer and protector of civil servants. It wants departments and government agencies to be given the job of managing their own personnel.

For jobs paying more than a specified sum, the departments would do their own recruiting. Jobs under that level, around 95 per cent of all initial appointments to government service, would continue to be handled by the Civil Service Commission.

The most startling recommendation in this section of the Glasse report is the one that says pay raises should no longer be automatic but should be based on the performance of the employee as judged by his superiors. The automatic pay raise has probably been the victim of more employee-abuse than any other privilege, and it is almost definitely not suited to government.

The royal commission seeks to destroy another old friend, too — the unreasonable security of a civil service appointment. It wants to make it easier to fire civil servants who turn out to be incompetent, although appeal rights would be continued.

The royal commission found, as has been suspected, that "only the most blatant cases" of incompetence or misconduct now result in dismissal. Job security should stem from nothing more than a competent execution of duties.

The report also suggests the transformation of the treasury board into a kind of board of directors for the public service. This board, headed by a cabinet minister, would have the responsibility for all senior appointments to government service.

This has merit, although we view it with some reservation. It could result in patronage, something the system has been almost entirely free of in the recent past. The commission argues that the machinery of federal administration should be conducted along lines similar to those employed by business. The same holds true for civil servants. With only minor exceptions, they should not expect benefits and considerations beyond those received by employees outside the government sphere.

"DECISIONS... DECISIONS..."

Adventures with God

It's no trick for God to reveal the past as well as the future

Comments on the Bible open new fields of thought. Said one: "If I could discover all the wonderful lessons which some preachers find in a few verses of scripture, I would never put the Bible down."

"But I can't understand the King James version," she went on, "some of the newer translations are easier to read." Said another (after hearing his clergyman read the first chapters of Genesis and close the book with the exclamation: "That is a myth!"): "He may be right, because no one was present to witness the work of creation."

It was too much for me to sit back and see this older man, a life-long active member of a church, tottering on the brink of unbelief. "You are wrong," I countered, "God was there and it is no trick for Him to reveal the past as well as the future to His inspired writers."

"And Jesus was here and never once in His earthly ministry did He question the authenticity of the writings of Moses and the prophets. He quoted them as historical facts and I believe them to be historical facts."

IN THE BEGINNING — Later we listened to a Festival of Lessons and Carols by the Westminster choir. The sweet voice of a young boy with perfect diction read the story of the birth of Christ so long foretold.

My host suddenly blurted: "You said something earlier that has given me new faith. You said that it was no trick for God to reveal the past as well as the future."

"Yes," I said, "and I believe it because God created the heaven and the earth, and we cannot understand the sequence of history unless we accept that premise by faith. I joined a crowd to watch a religious film. The sound box failed and several feet of film to reverence and interest. The first paragraph of the story was the key to the sequence. And so it is in the Bible.

Would you doubt that God can reverse a film and reveal to his viewers the history of the past? It is true that no human being saw the creation of the heaven and earth because man was not created until after the earth and sky and sea.

But the God who created the universe knows the score and in His own way has released the story through his chosen writers.

There are many facts we must accept by faith. Human birth is one of them. None of us remembers the day he was born, regardless of the statements of an old song.

But most of us accept the facts as related by our parents. And many of us have discovered other proofs of our relationship to them and of their integrity.

PROOF OF AGE — Many years after the death of my parents, I required proof of my birthplace and date. I went to the registrar's office and gave the name and the birthdate that my parents had given me. The certificate confirmed the fact I had already accepted by faith.

I was born on the day and the street my parents named, the same dear people who had given me life and shelter and love. I looked and acted like my father. I had the same kind of blood in my veins.

Why can't we, as God's children, simply take His word and believe in His integrity? God said He created heaven and earth and He made man in his own image. "And God saw everything that he had made and behold it was very good."

I know that we were not in the garden of Eden to see and feel His creative hands forming us but we ARE HERE and we ought to have the humility to take His word for creative process until we can prove it wrong.

CHILDLIKE FAITH — To me, divine relationship is no greater mystery than my human birth and I accept God's explanation of my presence here with the same childlike faith with which I accept the explanation of my earthly parents. I have no recollection of the events that brought me into being.

The Genesis story is the key to the Bible and the mystery of life. Neither the Bible nor life can be understood without accepting the fact of God's creating and revealing power. BELIEVE is the theme of the New Testament. And said Jesus: "For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me. But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?"

It is a good question. And we wonder how some of the clergy who call the Genesis story a myth can profess faith in Jesus Christ who was in the beginning with God and who stolidly reaffirmed the Genesis story.

If the Genesis account is a myth then Jesus was a deceiver and unworthy of man's adoration and faith.

1812 — The Russians set fire to the city of Moscow during the Napoleonic invasion.

1959—Maj.-Gen. Georges P. Vanier was sworn in as Canada's 18th Governor-General.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — The most refreshing idea of a dull news week comes from the Social Credit MP for Shefford, Que.: he wants to televise Parliament.

Mind you, Gilbert Rondeau appears to have an ulterior motive. "The people of the country will then be able to see 200 fine fools," he said, meaning MPs of Conservatives, Liberal and NDP persuasions. Or perhaps they actually won't see them, for Mr. Rondeau's impression of life in Parliament is that all but a handful of MPs spend their time "playing cards in the corridors or having a drink in their rooms."

As one who has never yet sat in the Commons, Rondeau scarcely rates as an expert on what MPs do with their time. Nor, as a manufacturer of a farm equipment, does he rate as an expert on television programming. But he does have some experience in hustings politicking — at least he got himself elected on June 18 — and it is perhaps in this field that his views carry weight.

Thus one may suppose he thinks the national TV audience would be so impressed by the performance of the Sacred "new boys" as to express applause in votes in that election just around some parliamentary corner.

One thing is certain: if they ever set up the TV cameras in the Commons for an hour a day, there'll be great competition among MPs and among parties to get on camera. It would make Mr. Speaker's job tougher, unless of course the speakers were picked and the time apportioned in advance by common agreement.

It would be a case of only the best actors need apply. And so we'd get a lot of such histrionic orators as Real Caouette, John Diefenbaker, Tommy Douglas and Jack Pickersgill.

And then there's the question of a sponsor. Naturally the CBC, with some $10 million lopped off its current budget by austerity, would look for someone to pick up the tab. Perhaps the CBC salesmen would come up with some appropriate sponsor — says, Producers Gas.

Or, if Mr. Rondeau is right, how about "The House of Seagram proudly presents . . . (fanfare). The House of Commons!"

The CBC pretty well takes things in its stride — even Mr. Rondeau. CBC Vice President Norm Fraser opined the matter is up to the MPs, but he did point out a big problem: to maintain some sort of political balance in a daily broadcast of Commons debates.

In Australia and New Zealand, where they've been radio broadcasting parliamentary debates for years, they get around this trouble by airing the whole day's proceedings. This doesn't do much for variety in Antipodean listening fare, but it's wonderful low-budget programming.

If the Sacred ever get in the driver's seat here, with Mr. Caouette perhaps as prime minister and Mr. Rondeau as minister of public information, times will be tough for the CBC's Nathan Cohens and Toby Robinson and Percy Saltzmans, with what the competition of 265 scabs in Ottawa.

But don't hold your breath till that happens. At Sacred headquarters here they say they never even heard of a party policy about televising Parliament.

Drop of unplaced applicants

The Unemployment Insurance Commission in Sherbrooke has attributed a drop of 861 in its unplaced applicants during August to "a better economic situation than last year."

There were 2,937 unplaced applicants with the Sherbrooke office in August, down from 3,838 in July, and also down from 3,101 in August, 1961.

During August, the employment branch of the office referred 1,155 of the 2,470 people registered with it to employers.

Mr. Fabi has said only one-fifth of the road bed under the first contract still has to be prepared before paving can be put on it, three or four weeks' work, he says.

But striking workers say it will not be done until a contract has been negotiated, and union leaders declare themselves waiting to talk with the company as soon as it is willing.

Wellington St. municipal lot sold at $10,000

A new service station is at present being built on Wellington Street South where land was loaned by the city to the Civil Defence two years ago so that it could park its trucks which would be used to transport refugees from Montreal in case of a nuclear attack.

The city sold the property to Hercule Marcoux for $10,000 last July after they used what they needed of the land to widen the street.

Charles Langlois, director of services for the city, said the land was sold because the city had no more use for it after it used what it needed.

Council advised the city's engineering department one month ago to suggest what other city lot should be loaned to the C.D. for their trucks parking. No suggestion has been given to council yet.

local office manager, expressed pleasure that "employers are making more use of their employment office."

The Sherbrooke, Richmond, East Angus and Coaticook offices received 497 new personal claims, 375 renewed claims, and 23 by mail. This brought total claimants for the month to 1,748 - 360 fewer than in August 1961.

CAOUCETTE

Moreover, the Creditists need time to extend their campaign organization, which is based on totalitarian principles of massive committees and single-track slogans to bear on the sole objective of getting people to vote.

The steam will not die out of Real Caouette quickly. The worst mistake for Canadians to make would be to assume that all they need do is lecture him for admiring Hitler and for his slogans, and that somehow he'll disappear.

Social Credit in Canadian politics dates from the days when American politics had Huey Long, the Townsend crusade and Father Coughlin, and when European politics fell for the great deception of Hitler and Mussolini.

The shock of American recognition of Real Caouette today is due in part to the rise of new comas on the extreme right of American politics, about which the liberals are making some of the same mistakes as in the 1930's.

The claim that Caouette holds the balance of power in Parliament is a mathematical illusion. It's easy to add 100 Liberals to 30 Social Crediters and 19 New Democrats and argue that the total outweighs 116 Conservatives. The true power in Parliament rises with John Diefenbaker and the true challenge rests with Lester Pearson. They will decide how long Parliament lasts and when the next election is held.

Meanwhile, rising American interest in Ottawa politics is good public relations for Canada, even if Real Caouette is hamming it up in the spotlight.

KEY TO SOUTH

full five-year term until the 1963 presidential election and is not overturned by a coup of Reds and rightist militarists, democracy might have a chance in Venezuela. A democratic Venezuela could also serve as an example of a free society for the rest of South America.

This is what Castro and his Soviet "technicians" are trying desperately to prevent. They understand—as many United States diplomats do not—that the stakes are high in Venezuela for all of Latin America is involved.

One Latin American authority on communism asked this reporter: "Will the United States miss the boat again? Or will President Kennedy's new frontiersmen face the facts in time and come to the aid of embattled Latin American democracy as directly and as energetically as Premier Khrushchev and his legion of agents are helping Castro and the Communists?"

French course for Protestants to be set up

GRANBY, Que. — (CP) — The Granby Protestant School Board has agreed in principle to set up a French language course for French-speaking Protestants, it was learned Thursday.

The decision was taken after the board received a report from two secondary school inspectors sent from Quebec City to study the situation. The report was not made public.

Board sources said that many French Protestants are not inclined towards the proposed course because their children are doing well in the English schools and fear that a switch now would be a handicap.

The French course — it is not known how many students would be involved — would only be set up if the board can find competent staff and a special government grant to cover the extra cost, board officials said.

Frontier Swim Project issues season's summary

BOUNDARY — A summary of the American and Canadian Frontier Swim Project for the season has been compiled by the head instructor, Miss Paula Lalime.

Sponsors of the project include all organizations and many individuals of Rock Island, Stanstead, Beebe, Derby Line and Derby who wished to contribute to this worthy cause.

The project lasted for eight weeks. With transportation problems it was necessary to divide the children and young people into various groups. Swimmers attended four mornings a week and non-swimmers divided so that each group had two afternoons a week and the five and six year old beginners had one afternoon a week.

The total attendance was: Stanstead 61, Rock Island 112; Beebe 89, Derby Line 102, Derby 85, Beebe, Vt., 37. Total attendance from all places was 3,210 for the season. Because Derby youngsters provided their own transportation by bikes and otherwise, there was a record attendance from there.

Passes for Americans were: Beginners 19, intermediate 6, advanced swimmer 1, junior life saving 9, advanced life saving 6, swimmer 4, instructor aide 9 and senior life saving 1.

Canadian: — Juvenile 22, intermediate 4, junior 10, and senior 4.

Miss Lalime was beach head instructor, other paid assistants were Cathy Boisvert, Beatrice Aldrich, Patrick Murphy, Mary Ann Lalime, Theresa Montreuil, John Weller, Ronald Farley.

Volunteer workers included Susan Denney, Charlotte Labrecque, Ruth Simsariam, Dawn Bessette, David Murnaghan, Linda Davis, Mary Leach, Sandy Rollins, Michael Murnaghan and Tina Darby.

Bus transportation was provided by the Quebec Central Company which made two trips daily to the beach and return. All classes were held at Salem Lake, Derby.

For the past two years now the project has been greatly assisted by the Lions Club by providing docks, putting them in the water, taking them out and so forth, as well as arranging for clean and repaired bath houses and beach.

The Boundary Rotary club is also another great benefactor of the project by an annual donation of $500.

Any organization or individual who has not yet contributed to the project may still leave a donation at the Derby Line Bank or Royal Bank of Canada in Rock Island.

Sunday Sermon Subject For September 16, 1962
The spiritual foundation of true peace and brotherhood will be set forth at Christian Science church services Sunday in a Lesson-Sermon entitled "Substance." Appropriate Bible readings will include these words from James: "Who is a wise man and ended with knowledge among you? let him show out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom. . . . And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace." Permanent peace is forecast in this passage which will be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one Mind, one God and Father, one Life, Truth, and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established."

Marriage

SIMONEAU — LABEREE

ROCK ISLAND — The marriage of Joyce Ethel, younger daughter of Mrs. Arthur Laberee, Rock Island, and of the late Mr. Laberee, to Mr. Albert Leo Simoneau, son of Mrs. Lawrence Simoneau, Rock Island, took place recently in Our Lady of Mercy Church.

Father George Guay, officiated at the double ring ceremony, and was celebrant of the Nuptial Mass. Miss Jeanette Cote played the wedding music. The Altar and Sanctuary was decorated with gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her elder brother, Mr. P. A. (Buster) Laberee, wore a gown of white rose point-lace over taffeta, made by her sister, Mrs. E. Harvey, and fashioned with a floor length hooped skirt having a Chapel length train, and at the front was a single rose which caught up the hemline to reveal cascading eyelet embroidery, the bodice having long sleeves en point and with a scoop neckline. She wore a double strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. Her finger tip length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, the white satin streamers knotted with rose buds.

Mrs. Frank Harvey, as matron of honor for her sister, was in a champagne beige brocade sheath having a coffee brown nylon organza cummerbund beneath a box style jacket fashioned with a scalloped waist line, short sleeves, and a round neckline. She wore a matching coffee brown nylon organza cascade bandeau with nose veil and carried a colonial bouquet of blush baby pink chrysanthemums.

The Misses Diane Harvey and Patricia Lord, niece of the bride and of the groom, wore a dress of the identical style of the matron of honor, in blush rose brocade, with a red rose cummerbund and headband, and carried a colonial bouquet of pale yellow baby chrysanthemums.

The Misses Heather Simpson and Letitia Laberee, nieces of the bride, wore flower girls, Heather in baby blue and Letitia in petal pink, dotted sheer over taffeta, having floor length bouffant skirts, with hand smocked bodice finished with short puff sleeves and a small collar. They wore flower hair bandeaux and carried a basket of sweet peas.

Mr. Joseph Simoneau, stood as witness for his nephew, and the ushers were Mr. Bob Dennis and Ivan Bolduc, nephew and cousin of the bride and groom.

Mrs. Laberee, mother of the bride was in a navy blue lace dress over taffeta, with which she wore a navy and white straw and velvet hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Simoneau, the groom's mother, was in a beige white boucle sheath, and wore a beige velvet hat, brown accessories, and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Mrs. Walter Simoneau, the paternal grandmother of the groom was in a black and white silk dress, and wore black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The reception was held at the Del Monty hotel where at noon, a turkey dinner was served. The bride's table was centered with the wedding cake, made and decorated by Mrs. H. Doyon, having tiers topped with wedding bells, ribbons and flowers upon a pedestal of a church design, with bride and groom descending the red carpeted steps. Gladioli flanked this to complete the decor.

Members reported many visits made to sick and shut-ins during the summer.

It was reported that the sectional meeting will be held in St. Andrew's Church hall in Sherbrooke Sept. 22 at 3 p.m. with the regional secretary, Miss Lois Powrie as guest speaker.

The message was prepared and read by Mrs. H. Miller on religious education in British Guiana. She noted that, though many improvements had been made in recent years, many more schools are needed. A more varied education is necessary, she noted, especially in technical and business training.

Deep regret was felt by all that Mrs. Stevenson felt it necessary to resign as president due to ill health.

After the singing of a hymn, Mrs. Stevenson closed the meeting with prayer. Mrs. H. Thompson served refreshments in the absence of Mrs. G. Dick who was unable to attend the meeting.

The opening Fall meeting of Unit 1, Lennoxville United Church Women, was held recently in the Douglas Hall with members that Mrs. Kenneth and a good attendance.

Mrs. A. B. Lovelace advised Pearl Prior would be in this area of Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery during the first week of October and that Dr. Pearl Prior would be available to address the group at the October 4 meeting. Arrangements were made to extend invitations to other units and to women of the congregation and community to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Norman Flint, leader of the unit, presided at the meeting, welcoming the members.

Thrilling, enthralling, at times, appalling

THE BLUE NILE by Alan Moorehead, 308 pp., Hamish Hamilton Ltd., $6.50 —
 "All at once they were aware of a breath of freshness in the air, and Burckhardt heard one of the Arabs exclaim, 'God be praised, we smell again the Nile!'"
 Those readers — and they were legion — who enjoyed Alan Moorehead's earlier book THE WHITE NILE might be excused if they too exclaimed at sight of his latest book, "God be praised, we smell again the Nile."

Steeping the reader in history and geography; pigging his curiosity with glimpses into the slave trade and royal intrigue; catapulting him into the midst of tribal wars and enticing him by the thin thread of a river-hero into the grim unknown of Africa, Alan Moorehead shows himself once more the master of this not-easily-defined type of book.

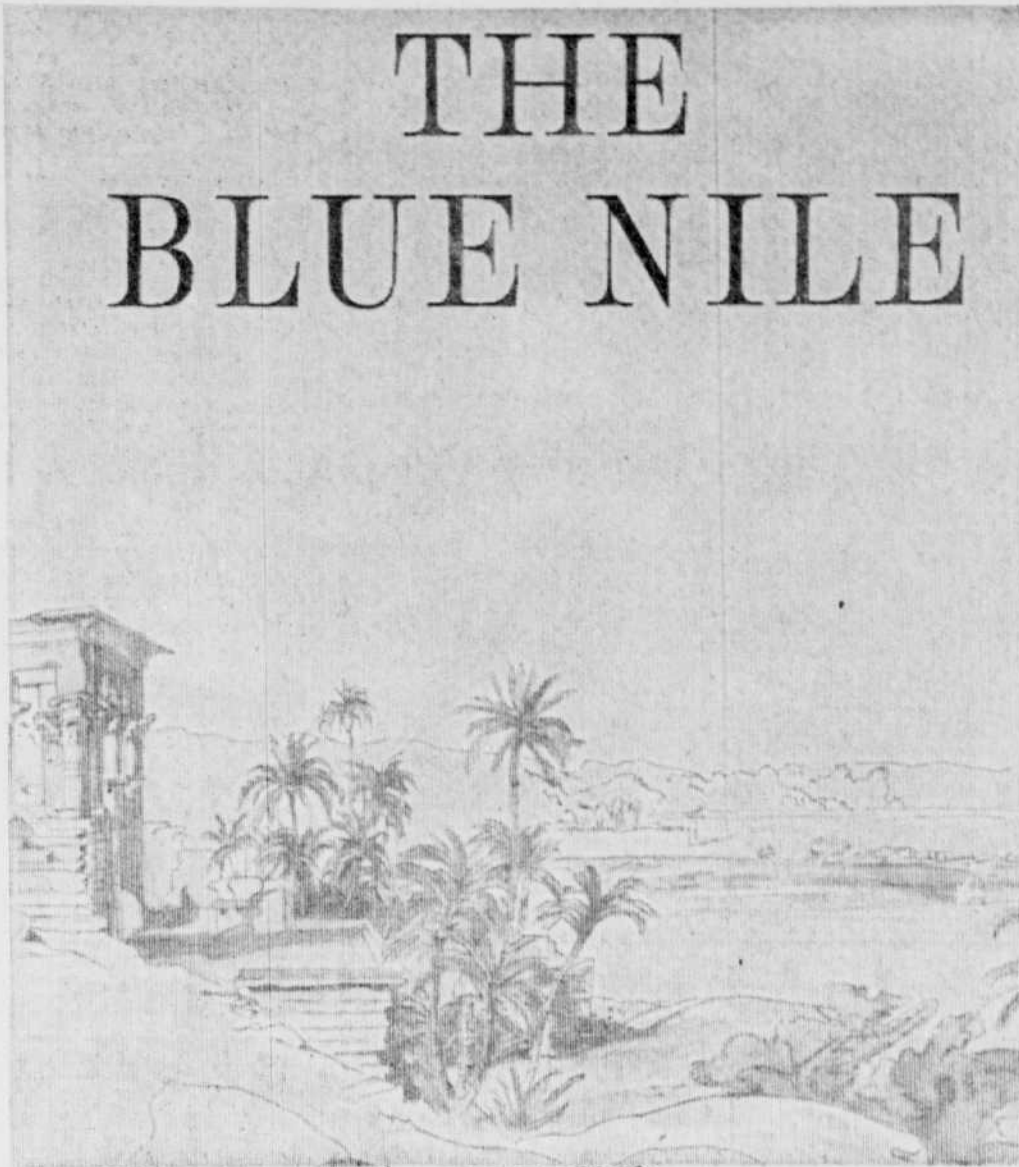

Using four strangely diverse men — who had perhaps nothing in common but their determination to dominate — as the springboard from which to launch the successive eras of his Nileology, he brings each man, and his individual contribution to the revelation of the Nile, into strong relief.

There was James Bruce the Scottish adventurer, heretofore of the women in his life as well as the fame that should have been his for his study of the Blue Nile; Napoleon who alone envisioned the possible future of Egypt on a harnessed Nile; Muhammad Ali the destroyer who came to think of himself as the builder, and Emperor Theodore of Ethiopia who exchanged "high-flown" letters with Queen Victoria. Each of them comes to life with indelible force in the fascinating pages of this book.

Anyone who doubts that history and geography, flood and war can be thrilling and enthralling — if occasionally appalling — reading, hasn't yet been exposed to Alan Moorehead.

"God be praised, we smell again a writer!"

Marie Louise

Negligible influence on history

FOUR YEARS AN EMPRESS: Marie Louise, second wife of Napoleon by Agnes de Stoeckl, Macmillan Company 304 pages; $6.00 —
 The influence of Marie Louise on Napoleon's career and the course of history in Europe in the late 18th and early 19th Centuries appears to have been negligible.

Even if on her wedding night she was "alluring, naive, full of response and fresh as a rose" (the words are Napoleon's), she was in all other things, merely a cipher, possessing little if any strength of character and none of the fascination of that other famous Napoleon lady, Josephine, whom she supplanted so shabbily. As Napoleon's star waned rapidly just before and following Waterloo, those who wished to do so had no trouble in turning her completely from her husband, to the point where she carried on sordid affairs with Count Neipperg (specially despatched to her side for the purpose) even while Napoleon wrote her melting love notes from Elba.

It is a tribute to the author's skill as a story teller that even with this material,

Baroness de Stoeckl weaves a fascinating tale. Drawing heavily on private letters of the day, she presents a gossipy, brightly-illuminated account of Marie Louise's wretched life and turbulent times.

The author also presents a plea for sympathy for her character, on the grounds that the empress was buffeted by cruel forces over which she had no control. The reader need not feel concerned, however, if sympathetic feelings are not aroused. They are not at all necessary to an enjoyment of the book.

Norman Mailer's word patterns

Breathe and strike like a snake

DEATH FOR THE LADIES (and other disasters)—Norman Mailer—Longmans Canada Limited, Toronto — $3.50. A book for those who can find delight in the unconventional, the unexpected, and the absurd. For some this book would merely be a conversational piece like the bold non-objective painting in the conventional drawing room; for others the witty, the ridiculous, and the enigmatic verbal patterns will provide amusement while still others would be merely exasperated and infuriated by them.

Norman Mailer, a well-known American author and rebel, introduces the tone of his collection of verses—or non-verses—in his title. The format of the book is also unconventional; the pages are unnumbered, the verses untitled, and the spelling often original. However, a reader who can approach a book without any preconceived ideas of what a book should be like can find delight in a new sort of reading experience. Mailer arranges his verbal patterns under such general headings as Romance, Marriage, Family, Modes, Death. Under the heading "Family" the following is an example of what can be found:

the worst to be said about mothers is that they are prone to give kisses of congratulation which make you feel like a battleship on which someone is breaking a bottle

Under the heading "Modes" Mailer states that he wants his words to have room to breathe and strike like a snake. If this was the author's intention in writing this book, I think he succeeded.

Gallery show broad in scope

OTTAWA—The 1962-63 exhibition schedule of the National Gallery of Canada has just been announced by Charles F. Comfort, director. It will include avant-garde European painting, sculpture, architectural drawings, "old master" drawings and remarkable replicas of medieval frescoes. Among the international exhibitions which are being presented, and which are expected to arouse great public interest, are several that are being seen in Canada for the first time.

Jottings

By GLADYS TAYLOR
 Those who have followed the Canadian Authors Association's fight for "a better copyright deal" as reported periodically in this column may be interested to learn — if they are not already aware of the fact — that the copyright issue which, chiefly due to the interest of Judy LaMarsh, M.P., for Niagara Falls, occupied a fair amount of attention in the House of Commons during the past session was finally, and favorably, resolved — though only three days before dissolution — when a resolution was passed authorizing Canada to join the Universal Copyright Convention with American writers on a more or less equal footing at least copyright-wise with American writers. It also brought the number of countries in which Canadian creative work is protected — some under the Berne Convention and the others under the Universal Copyright Convention — to 58.

When one realizes that the Convention was organized chiefly as a result of Stephen Leacock's copyright problems, it becomes evident what a long struggle has been waged for the comparatively secure positions, at least so far as copyright goes, which Canadian authors now occupy.

Further to this copyright subject, which of course concerns not just writers but composers, artists, singers, playwrights; in short anyone in the creative field; I recommend that they secure a copy from their newsstand of the summer issue of the CANADIAN AUTHOR & BOOKMAN because in it Gordon V. Thompson, long connected with music copyright, answers a wide range of questions on this subject.

Incidentally, readers might be interested to know that this is the first time I have been able to direct anyone to the newsstand for copies of the CANADIAN AUTHOR & BOOKMAN which has hitherto been available only by subscription. However due to the energetic editorship of H. R. Percy of Ottawa, the magazine not only has a bright new format but is entering the world of newsstand competition.

The particular issue of the CANADIAN AUTHOR & BOOKMAN to which I have referred contains in addition to the copyright article already mentioned, an article entitled "Writing About Music" by Allan Sangster, a copy of Arthur Hailey's Awards Dinner address entitled "Is a Canadian Identity Possible?" and an excellent tribute to the late poet Duncan Campbell Scott on this 100th anniversary of his birth. The tribute includes a cover photo by Karsh, one of Scott's poems and articles written by those who knew him.

It should be pointed out that the CANADIAN AUTHOR & BOOKMAN will not appeal to every reader — any more than the ENGINEERING DIGEST or any other specialized magazine does. But for those who do write, or who wish to write, or who are curious to know how writers do write, this magazine might prove appealing.

This month McCLELLAND & STEWART add several more titles to their excellent NEW CANADIAN LIBRARY SERIES, among them being SWAMP ANGEL by Ethel Wilson, WHITE NARCISUS by Raymond Knister, EACH MAN'S SON by Hugh MacLennan, ROUGHING IT IN THE BUSH by Susanna Moodie, MASKS OF POETRY with introduction by A. J. M. Smith and THEY SHALL INHERIT THE EARTH by Morley Callaghan.

RCASC story well told

WAIT FOR THE WAGGON by Arnold Warren, 413 pp., McCLELLAND & STEWART, $7.50.

"Victory is the beautiful, bright-coloured flower. Transport is the stem without which it could never have blossomed." This is another of the colorful quotes attributed to Sir Winston Churchill and certainly no man who ever served in the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps will argue with him about the value of the service they performed.

Written in easily read style, plentifully interspersed with colorful excerpts from regimental diaries, this book will be of particular interest to ex-members of the R.C.A.S.C., but at the same time should prove interesting reading to families and friends of all those who served in the First or Second World War or in the Korean War.

The author, Arnold Warren, was born in Woodstock, Ontario but now lives in Caledon East, Ontario. He is careful to point out that "from the masses of material available, I have endeavoured to select those slices which best exemplify the organization, work and achievements of the Corps in each of the time divisions into which its sixty years of life naturally fall. No more was possible. I do not claim to have selected the best material in each or any of the time divisions, or even to have been aware of all of the material available, and it is a foregone conclusion that hundreds of fine individual and unit achievements, as well as thousands of adventures, entertaining and otherwise, have not been mentioned."

If the reader—particularly the reader with a personal interest in the R.C.A.S.C.—keeps in mind the above warning by the author then he will read this book with pleasure rather than the disappointment which might result if he only looked for particular incidents and found them missing.

Germany showcase for books

MONTREAL — (C) — Some of the best in Canadian writing will be on display in Germany this fall.

Four hundred books, English and French, have been chosen as Canada's first entry in the Frankfurt Book Fair.

The fair has been held annually since 1949 in Frankfurt which calls itself "the show window of the book trade."

Canada's entries were chosen, to demonstrate the character and variety of Canadian writing, by Montreal seller H. E. Heinemann and National Librarian W. Kaye Lamb.

In the non-fiction section, emphasis is on Canadian history. The books deal with more or less specialized fields and include such works as Robert Rumilly's History of the Province of Quebec.

There are no scientific books of a technical nature, Mr. Heinemann said, because Canadian scientists usually have a hard time getting their work published here and take it to Britain or elsewhere.

In fiction, "name the author and we've included him." Mr. Heinemann said. Hugh MacLennan and Roderick Haig-Brown are among the English-language writers included; Jean-Jacques Simard and Yves Theriault are two representatives of the French group.

After the Frankfurt Fair, Sept. 20 - 25, the books will be shown in Berlin, then will be donated to German universities.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Canadian Book Publishers' Association.

Youthful authoress has talent

LONDON (CP) — A British literary critic says that youthful Montreal author Diane Giguere has genuine talent, and "if she lets it develop naturally she may one day do something very good."

The comment comes from Olivia Manning, writing in The Sunday Times. Her review is of Miss Giguere's first novel, recently published in Britain under the title Innocence.

Miss Manning says the style is "solemn, fulsome and lurid," as one would expect from a young writer.

Collecting

Townships

The opening meeting of the St. Francis Collectors Club was well attended and everyone enjoyed the opportunity to renew the activities of this group. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday the 19th of this month at 8 p.m. The club is meeting in St. George's Parish Hall in Lennoxville this year. An auction will be the feature of this coming meeting. Members are asked to send items to the secretary, Fred Smith, Box 417, Lennoxville. The auction is being held in an effort to replenish the club treasury and all donations should be in the medium price range. An invitation is extended to all collectors and a hearty welcome awaits you at this club. You may well be able to pick some interesting items for your collections at this auction.

I must thank all who sent along cards and good wishes while I was in the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital for the past three weeks. I will be entering the hospital again on the 24th for surgery and so will miss the club meetings for another period of time.

"This Hobby Called Stamp Collecting" is the title of a new pamphlet which the Washington Press is offering free to collectors of this column. Prepared with the beginner in mind, the folder tells about philately and goes into the various ways of collecting stamps. Many of the technical terms used in the hobby are explained when they are mentioned in the pamphlet. The popularity of philately among people of all ages and all walks of life is something that has intrigued many non-collectors, and explanations of the phenomenon have occasionally been presented. In this pamphlet some ideas are set forth in an attempt to account for the pleasure which millions get from the hobby. In addition, various ways of collecting stamps according to country, speciality, and topic are discussed in order to give the novice some idea of the many aspects of philately. Though "This Hobby Called Stamp Collecting" was prepared primarily for beginners, it will be of interest to all collectors including the most advanced.

You will find answers to many questions that non-collectors ask, especially that old one "why collect stamps"? Readers are invited to send for their free copy, simply forward your request on a postal card to The Washington Press, Maplewood, New Jersey, U.S.A., and mention that you read about this free offer in the Sherbrooke Daily Record.

On the 13th of April 1942 King George VI conferred the order of the George Cross on the island of Malta in recognition of the heroism and devotion of the people of the island under siege. The siege of Malta during the 1939-45 war was, however, by no means the first time the island had been besieged and the most notable of all previous sieges was that of 1565. The Great Siege of Malta of 1565 is an event that changed the course of history. The irresistible advance of Islamism had wiped out the Byzantine Empire, pushed back Christianity from the whole of Asia Minor and the Mediterranean coast of Africa and absorbed the Christian nations of practically all Central-Eastern Europe. Although it had lost much of its aggressive impetus, it had not resigned itself to desist from further aggression when all that was needed was one further leap forward to reach the vital centre of Christendom.

Malta, Venice and Vienna were the hubs of the Western Christian defence system and tiny Malta, a truly first line of resistance of Italy, was the most vulnerable. By its conquest the road to Rome would have become wide open. On the 18th of May 1565, the Turkish fleet numbering 153 war galleys and an enormous contingent of supporting ships carrying arms, munitions and supplies appeared around Malta. The island had at its disposal only a few hundred knights and about 8,500 men fit for war against 30,000 men in the assault force who were determined to silence the Knights of St. John and their followers. The Knights, 164 Italians, 153 Spaniards, 143 French, 13 Germans and one Englishman, and the men, women and children of the island offered a resistance that historians later compared with that of Thermopylae. The siege lasted four months and the vanquished Turks lost about 20,000 men. This set back crushed the spirit of the Turks and the Christian world was saved from the heathen hordes. Malta issued a set of four stamps to commemorate this great event on September the 7th.

MUSIC ON RECORDS

By HUGH DOHERTY

LEONTYNE PRICE sings 14 Negro spirituals; with orchestra and chorus directed by Leonard de Paur (RCA VICTOR stereo LSC 2600) — This is an album that the great Negro soprano inevitably had to make, and it has been well worth waiting for. Miss Price's glorious golden voice lends vibrancy and new warmth to these lovely, well-known spirituals. Too often, however, Miss Price's voice is obscured by the chorus or the orchestra, or both. In their anxiety to create a luxurious showcase for Miss Price's talent, the producers of the record seem to have forgotten that the beauty of her singing needs no embellishment; indeed, extraneous ornamentation is often redundant. A notable exception is Were You There, sung without either instrumental or choral accompaniment. It is the high point of the recording.

BACH: Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, three chorale preludes; The Philadelphia Orchestra, Leopold Stokowski cond. (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6313) — This fifth of Bach's six Brandenburg concertos contains a number of solo passages for the harpsichord — an innovation in Bach's day that led later to the concerto as we know it now. Mainly because of the harpsichord, there is a charming, fragile sound to the concerto, enhanced by the vivacity with which conductor Stokowski whips the orchestra through three lively movements. The preludes are simple, majestic works, interpreted with deep feeling.

BRIELEN: Sonata in C for cello and piano; SCHUMANN: Funf Stucke in Volkston; Debussy: Sonata for cello and piano; Mstislav Rostropovich and Benjamin Britten (LONDON stereo CS 6237) — While the Britten sonata is obviously intended to be the showpiece of this album — and it provides a striking performance — the whole recording is a showcase for cellist Rostropovich. It also turns out to be something of a triumph for Mr. Britten, much better known as a composer than as a pianist. Although he comes in second to his gifted partner, it is by no means a poor second. Particularly in the Schumann work, Mr. Britten shows himself to be a pianist of sensitivity as well as of technical skill.

Wicked Lady: no rest for

WICKED LADY—by Inglis Fletcher, published by Bobbs-Merrill, 256 pages.

This is a routine story with the American Revolution as a background. There is a minimum of plot centering around the beautiful Englishwoman, Baroness von Poellnitz. This lady, a daughter of Lord Bute, arrives in a sleepy village of North Carolina and proceeds to set the inhabitants by the ears by her indiscretions and scandalous behaviour.

Soon almost everyone knows that she had been involved in a most unsavoury divorce case and her actions in North Carolina and subsequently in Philadelphia and New York bear out that she is a thoroughly immoral and amoral character. As anyone who has read stock American Revolutionary books knows, she turns out to be a Tory spy. Eventually she is cast off by her somewhat dull but thoroughly virtuous German husband, and deceived and seduced to France by her scoundrelly lover. Immorality has received its reward. With the exception of the Wicked Lady and Stephen Sayre, her love, all other characters are highly moral and very patriotic Americans or splendid Frenchmen fighting for American liberty.

The author has painted a fairly presentable background of aristocratic North Carolina colonial life but her knowledge of the use of titles needs refurbishing. She continually refers to the Baroness by her maiden title, Lady Anne Stuart, which is quite wrong. However Mrs. Fletcher treats her British historical characters most fairly. Lord Cornwallis, the unfortunate but very able British commander who surrounded at Yorktown is painted just as he really was, a gallant, able and generous soldier. Sir Henry Clinton, his jealous and incapable superior, gets very fair treatment also.

The book is a fair evening's escape reading but nothing more.

Child drama an art form?

By DAVE PIKE

HALIFAX—It's not a play. It's simply play. "Creative play," adds Donald Wetmore, president of the Canadian Child Drama Association.

Child drama is a "true art form which should be recognized and respected," says Mr. Wetmore, arts supervisor for Nova Scotia. "It is so good that it may affect, very considerably, the theatre of tomorrow."

The association, which Mr. Wetmore was largely instrumental in bringing into existence, is concerned with creative drama and theatre for children, child drama in education, children's camps, playgrounds and recreation and therapeutic child drama.

It was concerned with developing the child creatively. It had nothing to do with scripts, stages and productions for audiences.

Its advocates say it gives children physical and vocal self-confidence, bridges the gap between thought and word and engenders sensitivity to other individuals and the group.

By enabling children to play out violent themes and characters from comics, movies and television, it clears the way toward more constructive attitudes, thus helping solve many behavior problems in and out of school.

OPEN TO ALL

Any child can participate. He doesn't have to be academically or artistically gifted. "It's so terribly simple. Basically, the teacher tries to stretch the imagination so that they will be brave enough to do things . . . The teacher sees that everyone is king of the castle; that everyone is the vassal, too.

"You might name three objects—say a man with a balloon, a dog and the wind—and the children act out the story as they imagine it. You never tell them what to do; with you, you seem to say, later you point out how they might do this or that better. . . ."

"Child drama has been called a thrill by school boards but I don't think enlightened boards feel that anymore. They have assurance now that the arts play a beneficial role in developing the child; in creating a healthy personality.

Sport Shots and Pot Shots

Sherbrooke Alouettes will be out tomorrow to make it four straight over the Acton Vale Beavers when they meet twice on the weekend. Claude St. Vincent's crew holds a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven finals for the league championship.

Some claim the Als got the breaks in the first two games. On this we differ. It has been strictly a team effort in our viewpoint with everybody fighting all the time.

Maybe the Beavers were a little confident after knocking over the Pirates and Coaticook Canadiens in straight games and figured they could do the same with the Als but they ran into a real-hot team and dropped the first two.

The games were close and Als had to come from behind each time and anytime a team can do that it definitely points to a real team effort the whole way. Another factor is that the Als bunched their hits.

We don't think the Als can wrap things up in straight games as the Beavers have a good club but unless they wake up the Als will sweep them right out of the picture. The Als have been playing well and the team spirit is fine which helps a lot. So we look to the Als to become the 1962 champions of the Provincial Eastern Townships Baseball League.

Bobby Burns, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burns formerly of Way's Mills, now of Trout Creek, Ont., is displaying plenty of speed at the Powassan Speedway. Recently he won four events on the weekly stock car races. Bobby's parents are well known in these parts.

Hockey training camps have just opened and already some coaches are raving about the new rookies they have found. The latest to join the group is Boston's Phil Watson.

The fiery Phil figures he has got a great find in young Bobby Leiter, who played with Kingston Frontenacs last year and was a 20-goal producer during the season and the team's leading scorer in the playoffs.

Toe Blake is content to let things roll along by themselves for a time and he hasn't claimed to have found another Bellevue in his new crop. Toe is the silent type and prefers to wait before sounding off.

Rangers, who are in Vancouver, are still to be heard from but no doubt he will be getting reports very shortly. Red Wings have already signed several of their vets from last year while the Hawks are doing likewise.

It is too early to make any predictions for the coming season as it will be a little while before the teams get straightened away but it looks as if the Leafs, Hawks and Canadiens will again dominate the loop.

The Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce annual golf tournament will be held Wednesday, Sept. 19, at the Country Club with tee-off time scheduled between noon and 2 p.m. This will be followed by a buffet at 7 p.m. All members interested are asked to contact Aime Bergeron as soon as possible.

Pierre Lavigne, Physical Director at the University of Sherbrooke, held a press conference Thursday afternoon at the Social Centre, on the campus, to outline sports for the coming season and introduce the new coaches to the press.

In the six major sports five new coaches have been named. Claude Richer is back for his fifth season as hockey mentor while Yves Gagnon and Bob Pavan will attend to football with Arthur Scott the cage pilot. Richard Royer of Sherbrooke will look after the tennis group with Julien Hamel, also of the City, the new golf head while Pierre Lavigne will instruct the volleyball squads.

The biggest move of all we think was the admittance into the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference for five sports. Volleyball is the only one not included on the list. Pierre made application last year to join the Conference but it was put off for a year.

The green and gold boys are certainly going all out in sport and we are sure they will give a good account of themselves. They will absorb plenty of defeats but we are certain they will have the best support of any college in the Conference. The students really get behind their teams, win or lose.

Sherbrooke now becomes one of the few cities in Canada with intra-city rivalry in college sports. Bishop's University also participates in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference.

Weatherly favored over Gretel in famed America's Cup classic, first race slated to start today at noon

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — A glistening white sloop named Gretel and its 11 tough, sea-tested crew members from Australia challenge the United States' 111-year supremacy in big boat racing today in the first of a best-of-seven race series for the famed America's Cup.

About 15,000 spectators are expected to take to the Atlantic in an armada ranging from destroyers to small outboards to witness the tiff between the untried challenger and the American defender, Weatherly.

President Kennedy will view the opening race, scheduled to start at 12:10 p.m., from the decks of a destroyer named for his late brother, Joseph P. Kennedy Jr.

The consensus of international yacht observers, here for the big show, is that Weatherly is likely to take Gretel in four straight but the spines of the Aussies, who showed discouragement earlier in the week, suddenly have stiffened.

"The odds are with the Yanks, but we feel that we can pull an upset," said a spokesman for the Australian syndicate.

The first race will be staged some nine miles southeast of Brenton Reef Lightship, which is just offshore of this seaport and resort centre.

The course will be windward-leeward — six miles into the teeth of the wind and six miles back, twice around totalling 24 nautical miles. The second race Monday, after a layoff Sunday because of an old New York Yacht Club law never to fire a cannon on the Sabbath, will be staged over a triangular course of 24 miles. A cannon always is fired to start a yacht race.

The weather forecast is for fair skies and northwesterly winds ranging from 10 to 20 knots.

PRONOUNCED FIT

Weatherly, the boat which defeated three rivals for the right to defend the cup, was pronounced "fit and ready" by her skipper, Emil Mosbacher Jr., 40-year-old White Plains, N.Y., oil man.

The Australian crew boss is a 46-year-old veteran, Jack Sturrock, credit with winning more than 100 races. He is new, however, to 12-metre competition.

This is the 8th challenge for the bottomless, unimposing-looking "auld mug" won by the U.S. in a race against 17 British boats around the Isle of White in 1851 and defended successfully by the U.S. ever since.

Claude Prud'Homme gets nod for tomorrow

Als gunning for sweep over Beavers, lead series 2-0, meet at 2.00 and 8.30, tickets go on sale at 11.00

Claude Prud'Homme, Sherbrooke's youthful left-hander, has been assigned the starting mound duty tomorrow afternoon when the Als clash with Acton Beavers at the Park Avenue Stadium, Sunday afternoon. Game time is 2 p.m.

This will be the third game of the series and the Als hold a 2-0 lead with 43 and 54 verdicts to their credit. Coach Claude St. Vincent and his squad will be out to make it three straight over the Beavers. The fourth game will be played Sunday evening in Acton Vale and if another tilt is required it will be back in Sherbrooke Tuesday.

Andre Bessette is slated for the starter's job Sunday evening in Acton. Coach St. Vincent is hoping that his team can continue their mastery over the Beavers and wrap up the best-of-seven series as soon as possible.

The Als have been hitting in the clutches and this backed by fine defensive play has helped them post the victories. The Beavers, on the other hand, are not playing the fine ball they displayed during their first two series against St. Johns and Coaticook, when they swept them aside in straight games.

Coach Claude Groulx of the Beavers is looking for better performances from his men and will have them going all out in an effort to break the Als' stranglehold on the current series.

Coach St. Vincent plans no changes in tomorrow's lineup and will be going along with his same hot crew. The only man added in Thursday's tilt was Guy St. Vincent, who took over first base duties from Normie Jacques. These two players have been alternating the job depending on whether a right or left hander is on the mound.

Manager Yvon Ellyson announced yesterday afternoon that tickets for Sunday's game will go on sale at 11.00 a.m. Season ticket holders are asked to pick up their duets as soon as possible. If they don't intend to use them they are asked to notify the club in order that they may be put on sale before game time.

Dick Radatz's dazzling display puts Red Sox ahead of Yankees by 4 to 1

By MIKE RATHET
Righthander Dick Radatz, uncorking his fireballs with overpowering speed, made another spectacular relief appearance Friday night as he shut out New York Yankees for 2 1/3 innings in a 4-1 Red Sox victory at Boston.

The triumph slowed the Yankees' drive for their 12th American League pennant in 14 years, cutting their edge over the second-place Minnesota Twins to four games. The Twins used home runs by Vic Power and George Banks plus Dick Stigman's seven-hitter for an 11-1 triumph over Cleveland Indians.

The third-place Los Angeles Angels were unable to benefit by the Yankee defeat, losing 3-2 to Detroit Tigers in 10 innings. The Angels remained 5 1/2 games behind with 13 games to play in the regular schedule. The Yankees and Twins have 12 games remaining.

Radatz, 24, a side-armed making a strong bid for honors as rookie of the year, came on in relief of starter Bill Moubouquette in the seventh inning with two on and one out. He struck out Mickey Mantle, walked Roger Maris and struck out Elston Howard.

In the ninth inning, Bobby Richardson's double and a walk again put two Yankees on again with one out. Radatz again struck out Mantle before ending things by getting Maris to lift a soft fly for the final out.

It was the 58th appearance of the season for Radatz and the 50th game he finished. Radatz has struck out 140 batters in 119 2/3 innings and compiled a 1.95 earned run average.

Ralph Terry (21-11) lost. In the only other league game, Chicago White Sox blanked Washington Senators 2-0 as Joel Horlen and Dom Zanni combined for a three-hitter. The Baltimore-Kansas City game was rained out.

Lu Clinton, Russ Nixon and Frank Malzone provided the Red Sox with the offence needed to beat the Yankees. Clinton had a double and two singles and scored the other three runs. Nixon drove in two runs with a pair of grounders. Malzone singled in a run.

Big M quits Leafs' camp over salary

TORONTO (CP) — High-scoring left winger Frank Mahovlich is back in Toronto — sitting out his salary tiff with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

He marched out of the Leafs' Peterborough training camp Thursday night when Punch Imlach, general manager and coach, wouldn't meet his $30,000 asking price for the season.

"I will not return to camp until they get in touch with me," said Mahovlich Friday. "I informed Mr. Imlach last night that I was leaving. He said O.K."

Meanwhile, back at the camp, Imlach was clammring up about prices, but rumbling about suspension.

"I plan no action for two or three days," he said. "If he does not return, I will have no recourse but to suspend him. But that will be a last resort."

"In effect, Mahovlich is breaking his contract. His contract for last season carries an option for this season and the provision that he attend training camp and play all exhibition games."

The 23-year-old left winger scored 3 goals and 38 assists for the Stanley Cup champions last year, and added 10 more goals in the playoffs. He set a team record with 48 goals in the 1960-61 season.

Mahovlich's walkout was the first break in Imlach's salary negotiations with his team.

Dodgers ahead of Giants by 3 games with their 5-1 win over Chicago

Maurie Willis was caught. But the same can't be said of Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League race.

Willis stole his 91st base of the season and was nabbed for his 92nd as the Dodgers beat Chicago Cubs 13-7 Friday.

The win moved the league-leading Dodgers three games in front of San Francisco Giants, who lost 5-1 to Pittsburgh Pirates.

It was the 16th game in the last eight years that a Giant lineup did not include Willie Mays. The Giants lost all the games.

The flickering pennant hopes of the defending champion Cincinnati Reds all but died at the Polo Grounds in New York, amid a rhubarb over Choo Choo Coleman's home run over the right-field foul pole in the bottom of the ninth inning.

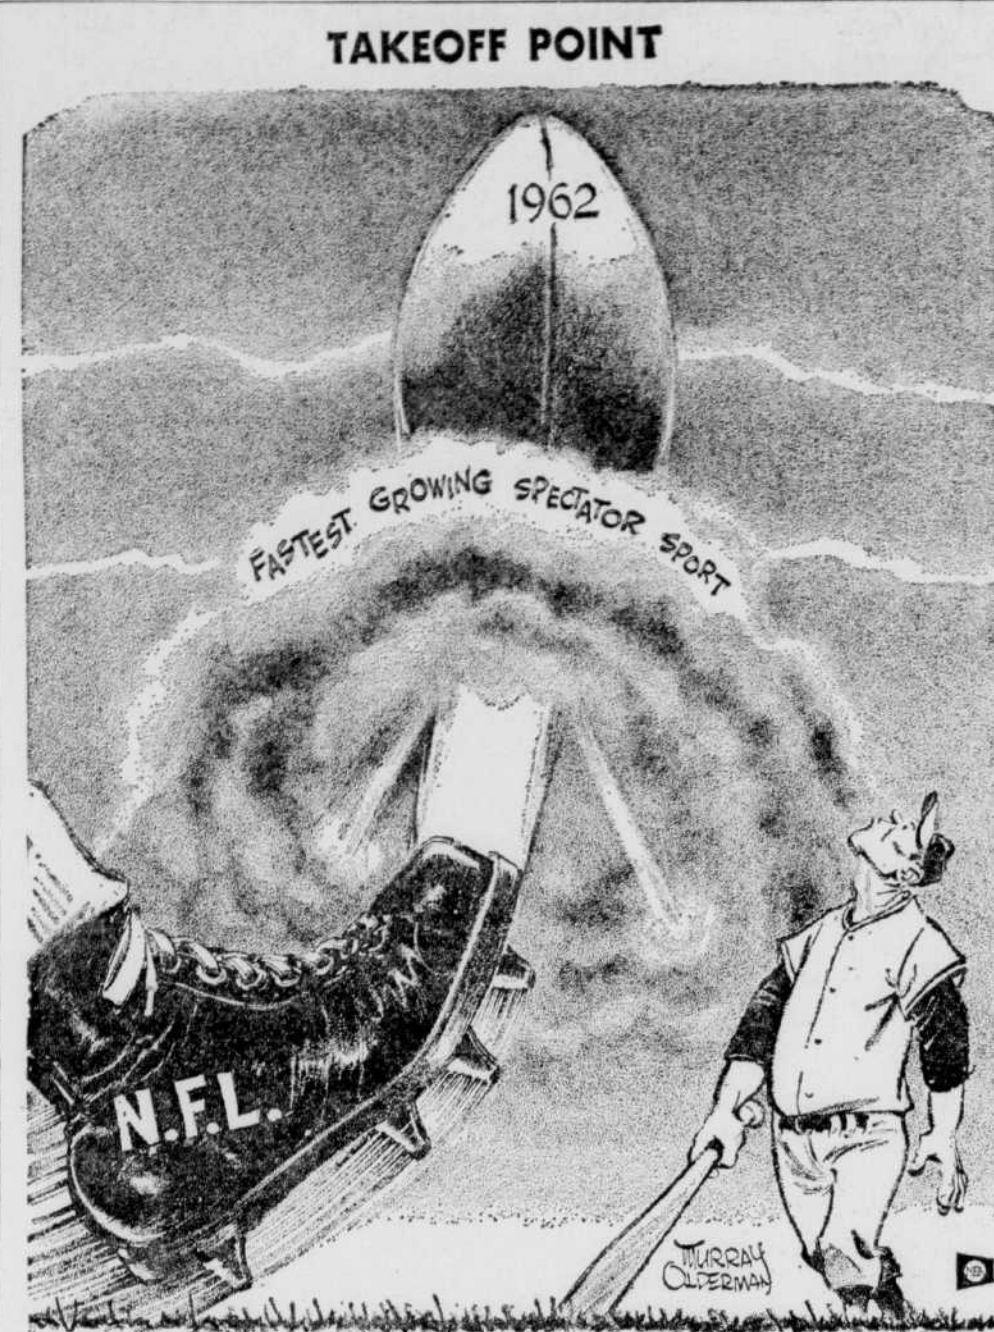

New York Mets won 10-9 on Coleman's blast and the Reds fell six games behind the Dodgers. Milwaukee Braves defeated Houston Colts 3-1 and Philadelphia Phillies edged St. Louis Cardinals 2-1.

The Dodgers jumped off for seven runs in the first inning against the Reds, Willis walked and stole second base as he continued his assault on Ty Cobb's record of 96 set in 1915.

Willis was caught in the eighth inning on a pitchout called by catcher Dick Bertell. It was only the 11th time in 102 tries he had been thrown out trying to steal.

Frank Howard led the 13-hit Los Angeles attack with three singles and his 28th home run. Duke Snider homered and Tommy Davis had three hits to boost his average to .341.

Larry Sherry picked up his seventh victory in relief of Johnny Podres, bombed out by the Cubs in the fourth inning. The Chicago defeat, No. 95 this season, was a club record.

Cosentino leads Hamilton Ti-Cats to a 16-15 victory over Edmonton

By BOB TRIMBEE
EDMONTON (CP) — Coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton Tiger-Cats says he doesn't want to rush Can a n a d i a n quarterback Frank Cosentino because it might ruin his development as a professional.

But twice this season he has been forced by injuries to throw him under the gun and Hamilton has come away a winner each time.

Cosentino, 24, a Western Ontario graduate, was called to action here Friday night early in the first quarter and led the Tiger-Cats to a 16-15 victory over Edmonton Eskimos in a Canadian Football League interlocking game before 15,667 fans.

Trimble started veteran import Bernie Faloney at quarter against the Eskimos. Less than seven minutes later Faloney was knocked flat on a vicious tackle and forced out when he reentered a weak knee.

The victory shot Hamilton into first place in the Eastern Conference while the Eskimos remained tied with the Lions in the Western Conference cellar.

Tonight Montreal Alouettes met Calgary Stampeders at Calgary.

SETS UP WINNER
Cosentino scored one of Hamilton's two touchdowns against Edmonton Friday and set up a game-winning field goal by Don Sutherland with three long runs in the final quarter.

He finished the game with 87 yards on eight carries to pace the Ticat rushers. He also clicked on 11 of 17 passes for 171 yards. Faloney missed on the only pass he threw.

Edmonton finished with 21 first downs to 17 for Hamilton. Veteran fullback Johnny Bright carried 19 times for 94 yards, while Don Getty, like Cosentino a Western Ontario alumnus, hit on 10 of 17 passes for 232 yards. Defensive back Grant McKee, a second-year Canadian, scored the other Hamilton touchdown on an 83-yard run after fullback Mike Lashuk of Edmonton fumbled. Sutherland was good on one of two convert attempts.

Tommy Joe Coffey, who now leads the WFC scoring race with 7 points, scored a touchdown on a 47-yard pass-and-run play in the opening quarter and converted both Edmonton scores to pace the Eskimos. Halfback Bill McKenny of Georgia took a 10-yard pass from Getty in the second quarter for the other Edmonton score. Vic Chapman kicked a single for the final Eskimo point.

Edmonton led 7-0 at the end of the first quarter, 14-7 at the half and took a 15-13 margin in the final 15 minutes.
