Traffic blocked

POINTE-DU-LAC, Que. (CP) — A group of about 40 milk producers blocked traffic on an expressway about 75 miles northeast of Montreal Wednesday to protest the federal government's milk policies.

The demonstrators surrounded two Quebec Provincial Police patrol cars with their tractors and held up traffic on highway 40 until extra police came to the aid of the two beleaguered cars.

Three persons were arrested. Earlier, the demonstrators drove their convoy of tractors through several towns in the area, and briefly blocked traffic on highway 138.

Worker casualties

MONTREAL (CP) — About 45 construction workers die on the job each year in Quebec, and another 13,500 are injured, the head of the Quebec Construction Office (QCO) said Wednesday.

Real Mireault told the Construction Association of Montreal and the Province of Quebec the accident rate in the province is "excessive."

Employers should stop blaming accidents on workers and instead enforce safety regulations and give their employees safety training, he said.

However, some contractors abdicate their responsibilities in the field of safety and use methods which save time and money, to the detriment of safety, he said.

Mr. Mireault pointed out the QCO has an exclusive mandate to enforce safety regulations in the province, but the department of labor has responsibility for making the regulations.

Ombudsman reports

QUEBEC (CP) — The social affairs department and the Workmen's Compensation Commission were the main objects of citizens' complaints to the Quebec ombudsman last year, it was announced Wednesday.

Interim Ombudsman Robert Levesque tabled the 200-page annual report in the national assembly. Mr. Levesque replaced Louis Marceau December 23 when Mr. Marceau was appointed a Federal Court judge.

The ombudsman's office, designed to assist citizens in dealings with the government, processed 6,051 complaints in 1975, a 14-per-cent increase from the 5,304 complaints lodged in 1974.

The social affairs department was the object of 403 complaints to the office, while 353 complaints were filed against the transport department and 251 about the justice department.

Meanwhile, the ombudsman's office authorized the publication of three information folders last year, the report said.

Sugar shortage?

MONTREAL (CP) — Consumers in Eastern Canada could face a shortage of sugar as a result of strike action here which has closed one of four major sugar refineries in Quebec and may shut a second at midnight Sunday night.

About 325 employees at a Redpath Sugars Ltd. plant in Montreal have been on a legal strike since midnight Sunday. The workers, members of Local 333 of the Bakery and Confectionary Workers International Union, have been without a contract since the end of February.

A management spokesman said Wednesday that the company was prepared to negotiate. However, Henry Gaudin, business agent for the union said no talks were scheduled until next week and that "everything is under lock and key right now."

Meanwhile, 300 workers of St. Lawrence Sugar will vote this weekend whether to follow the Redpath workers to the picket line. A last-ditch attempt to reach a settlement is scheduled for Friday in the office of a provincial conciliator. A strike would be legal at midnight Sunday night.

Finance Minister DONALD MACDONALD

Knocks timing of federal budget

SHERBROOKE (RM) — Donald S. Macdonald, the federal Finance Minister, says he is in accord with privy council president Mitchell Sharp's suggestion that the time of the budget speech should be set earlier than it presently is.

Speaking with journalists during a visit here, Mr. Macdonald explained that the current mode for announcing the new budget to the media is not relevant with the times and state of the communications art.

For about the last 30 years, reporters in Ottawa have been quarantined in a room with advance copies of federal budgets to prepare stories and broadcasts for release when the finance minister begins to read his budget speech in the House of Commons.

But, as it happened, the reporters were able to disclose budget details before the minister uttered a word.

Mr. Sharp, a former finance minister, proposed live television coverage of the speech in the House, and a speech time as much as three hours earlier than the present 8 p.m. to remedy what he called a "deplorable situation."

Mr. Macdonald, who delivered the latest budget speech May 25, said that the times Mr. Sharp proposed would be fine, insofar as it would allow the speech to begin after the closing of the Vancouver Stock Exchange and thus not affect the day's trading.

He said he has not discussed the matter officially with executive members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery, and that the question will likely be referred to a parliamentary committee for consideration.

The 44-year-old minister was in the city to deliver a speech at a $100-a-plate dinner organized by the local Liberal association.

In his speech, Mr. Macdonald said that since the federal anti-inflation program went into operation seven months ago, the actual rate of inflation has been reduced "noticeably."

However, "we are still in the critical early stages of the effort," he said. "Nothing must be done to endanger its success. If we falter in the battle against inflation, we will face the risk of slower real growth and higher unemployment."

"It is far better to maintain a steady course in order to restore confidence and enable all groups in society to plan with greater assurance of settled times ahead," he said.

Explaining the unemployment insurance eligibility period change from eight to 12 weeks proposed in the new budget, Mr. Macdonald said this will not hurt Quebec and the Maritimes — both regions with high unemployment. "I can assure those in high unemployment areas that we will tilt out expanded manpower programs and services so that the unemployed in those areas will not suffer financially from this change but in fact will gain from the productive impact of these enhanced programs."

Mr. Macdonald also paid short visits to industries in the city appeared on a radio interview program, and stopped at the offices of The Record.

A reception at City Hall was held, where Mr. Macdonald signed the official visitors' book. Not in attendance, however, was Mayor Jacques O'Bready, off on a fishing vacation.

Discussing the budget with reporters, Mr. Macdonald indicated that no drastic amendments are in the works, nor is a supplementary budget likely for later this year.

The next budget will come, as usual, in the first half of 1977, he said.

About the creation of summer jobs for students to aid in lowering the unemployment level — which last month was 7.1 per cent — the finance minister said he doesn't see "the scope for a student job creation program" this year.

Opposition members Tuesday pressed Robert Andras, the manpower minister, to speed up introduction of youth work projects.

One such program — Opportunities for Youth — was dropped last year as part of the Trudeau government's cost-cutting policy. The move eliminated 28,000 summer jobs.

On reports that the government may initiate a state of emergency if a Supreme Court test of the anti-inflation program finds it unconstitutional, Mr. Macdonald said the matter would come up for consideration if it ever came to be.

He refused to comment, however, on whether or not contingency plans have been considered by the Cabinet in case of a ruling of unconstitutionality.

Newfoundland to oppose Quebec-US hydro deal

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Frank Moores says Newfoundland will oppose a Quebec application to the National Energy Board for permission to export electricity to the United States.

Mr. Moores said in a statement Wednesday night an intervention would be filed with the board, probably by today.

"The intervention will express the concern of the province that neither the government nor Newfoundland and Labrador Hydro Corp. were asked by Quebec-Hydro whether or not they were interested in purchasing the power which they intend to sell to the United States," the statement said.

Quebec is seeking energy board permission to sell about 800 megawatts to the U.S.

Newfoundland now is preparing to take Quebec to the courts in an attempt to obtain an extra 800 megawatts from the 5,225-megawatt generating station at Churchill Falls in central Labrador.

All but 300 megawatts of the Churchill Falls power was sold in 1969 to Hydro-Quebec under a 65-year contract.

Dairy policy under review

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said Wednesday that the government does not plan to grant a $40 million subsidy to Quebec dairy farmers but that the entire dairy policy is under review.

Mr. Whelan said the review is centred on how much industrial milk now is being produced — the milk that is used to make butter, milk powder and cheese.

"What we are mainly concerned about... is the present supply position, how much quotas can be cut back and whether the penalty of $8.60 per hundredweight is too severe," the agriculture minister told the Commons.

Under the policy announced last April the government penalizes farmers who produce more than their assigned quota at the rate of $8.60 per hundredweight.

Also, an export levy of $1.35 per hundredweight is applied to cover the cost of selling the milk abroad and for storage.

year due to the government-ordered production cuts.

Following the meeting, a Quebec spokesman said the $40 million could be arranged "in one way or another."

Mr. Whelan said any changes in the policy would apply for all industrial dairy producers in Canada, not just for one province.

The government has also indicated that farmers who remain within their production quotas will not be required to make immediate payments on loans financed by the federal Farm Credit Corporation.

Milk prices going up?

At least five Canadian provinces might face further increases in milk prices within a year.

Industry officials in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba and Saskatchewan predicted price increases of an undetermined amount within a year.

Milk prices have been rising continuously in recent years. Five years ago, a quart of homogenized milk sold in Edmonton for 31 cents, but by last year it had risen to 49 cents. Today, the same quart of milk is 54 cents, and the increases have been similar in all provinces.

Consumers can save an average of two cents a quart by buying two-per-cent milk instead of homogenized, and another two to three cents a quart by buying it in two-quart cartons. Use of returnable bottles or jugs shaves off a few cents more, but they are not available in all provinces.

Supermarkets have the lowest prices, and buying at the corner milk store can add from two cents (Halifax) to 21 cents (Toronto) to the price of a two-quart container.

SAVE WITH DELIVERY
Home delivery costs a few cents more in most provinces but it is a few cents less in P.E.I. and in Nova Scotia, where delivery is the only way consumers can get the cheaper returnable bottles.

Quebec enjoys the country's lowest prices for consumers buying by the quart. The Quebec milk prices board has set a range of 51 to 55 cents for homogenized milk in most major cities, and Montreal stores were selling it for 51 cents.

However, Toronto has the best milk bargain in the country — the returnable three-quart jug. At $1.43 a jug, not counting the 40-cent deposit, jug milk costs 47.6 cents for a quart of homogenized. Furthermore, some Toronto stores are engaging in a price war that has brought their prices as low as $1.13 for a jug of two-per-cent milk in some supermarkets.

If bought by the quart, homogenized milk costs 54 cents in Toronto, two cents higher than in Winnipeg, one cent higher than in Regina and the same as in Alberta.

A quart of homogenized milk costs 59 cents in Halifax and 60 cents in P.E.I. The highest prices are at Canada's two extremes: 65 cents in Vancouver and 66 cents in St. John's.

Walkouts leave 4,000 without hydro power

More than 4,000 customers of Hydro-Quebec were left without service Wednesday as a result of sporadic walkouts across the province by 5,800 workers employed by the utility.

The walkouts, to protest lagging contract talks, hit seven regions and lasted for up to three hours in most cases. The workers, affiliated with the Canadian Union of Public Employees, have been without a contract since Dec. 31.

A spokesman for the utility said a total of 37 power failures went unrepaired because of the walkouts.

Hardest hit were the Mauricie and Abitibi regions, where power was not restored until five or six hours after it was disrupted. Workers in these districts also staged a brief walkout Tuesday night.

Workers at the provincially run utility's main office in Montreal as well as the control centre for its central grid were also out Wednesday, but no major breaks occurred, the spokesman said. These workers were back on the job by mid-afternoon, he added.

TALKS BREAK DOWN
Selective walkouts by Hydro-Quebec's 9,600 unionized workers began

March 22 after negotiations broke down on various contract issues including wages, pensions and job security.

The workers want a 44-per-cent increase in the first and 15-per-cent in the second year of a two-year contract. Hydro-Quebec has offered annual increases of 10 per cent, eight per cent and six per cent in a three year agreement.

The Hydro-Quebec spokesman said little headway was made last week when the two sides last met.

"No one put forward any new offers," he said.

Elsewhere on Wednesday, more than 300 workers of Sidbec-Dosco, involved in a labor dispute which has halted operations since May 7, demonstrated peacefully in front of the company's offices in downtown Montreal.

A walkout by 350 employees of Redpath Sugar, without a contract since March 1, entered its third day on Wednesday and 600 provincial government professionals in the department of industry, trade and commerce walked out for about an hour at noon in Quebec City to protest their lagging contract talks.

$100 million for security

OTTAWA (CP) — The longest undefended border in the world took on a defended air this week as Mounties and Canadian troops began patrols that will continue until the Olympic Games end July 31.

They are part of a $100-million program aimed mainly at keeping terrorists out of the country while the Olympic athletes are in Canada.

"We've got quite an effective program in place," Solicitor General Warren Allmand, who reports to Parliament for the RCMP, said in an interview Wednesday. "But I can't make it public because it would tip our hand."

He said there have been no security threats so far "but it is our duty to be on watch." There were both "high profile and covert" aspects and U.S. and other allies abroad were co-operating, Mr. Allmand said.

"If someone tries to beat the system, let's see how successful he is," the solicitor-general added.

The system will be extended to international airports next Monday, when troops and more Mounties than usual — they customarily patrol the airports — turn up.

How will this affect the millions of people who cross the border in June and July? Things, said an immigration spokesman, will be "a little more tight than they normally are."

Says anti-inflation steps succeeding

SHERBROOKE (RM) — While having an impact on the presently declining rate of inflation, the federal government's anti-inflation measures is not exclusively responsible, Claude Castonguay says.

Mr. Castonguay, who is the Quebec commissioner on the anti-inflation board, told reporters after a luncheon speech to the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce that the measures have made an impact on the economy.

But he conceded that other factors — a healthier U.S. economy and the Bank of Canada's decision to limit supply of money in circulation, for examples — are also contributors to the change.

Government figures have indicated a decline in the consumer price index since the measures were announced by Prime Minister Trudeau last October. The gross national product, another inflation scale, is meanwhile expected to grow this year.

CLAUDE CASTONGUAY, Quebec commissioner on the anti-inflation board.

Asked how long the controls will remain, Mr. Castonguay said he does not know, and that any alterations from the 1978 date that has already been set will be up to the government and not the board.

Personally speaking, "if everything goes well — if inflation decreases and the economy becomes stronger than anticipated — then I would expect the government to make another evaluation," he said.

He said he was pleased that the constitutionality of the measures is now being tested in the Supreme Court, so that the question of legality will be cleared up as quickly as possible.

Justice Minister Ron Basford sanctioned by-passing the lower courts for a test by unions in the Supreme Court. A ruling is expected later this month.

So far, Mr. Castonguay said, collaboration with most sectors of business and labour with the board has been good, as it has been with the public.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market was mixed at the close of moderate trading Wednesday.

The industrial index slipped down 18 to 188.61, its lowest since April 12th.

The gold index gained 1.32 to 299.12, base metal .32 to 89.45 and western oil 1.24 to 236.45.

Analysts attributed the market's indecision to a similar mood at New York where the Dow Jones index reduced Tuesday's gain and fell 1.88 to return to Monday's total of 958.08, the lowest since Feb. 17th.

Opposes board's rollback

THOMPSON, Man. (CP) — Edward Grubb, chairman and chief executive of Inco Ltd., said Tuesday the company will continue to oppose the anti-inflation board's rollback of a wage contract reached with workers here.

"It is clear that if Thompson is to compete with other communities all over Canada, the special circumstances of its location must be taken into account," Mr. Grubb told the workers. "And the anti-inflation program guidelines specifically provide for this, although as far as I can see it has so far ignored that fact," he said.

The contract, with Local 6166 of the United Steelworkers of America, called for a first-year wage increase of 18 to 19 per cent. The federal board ordered it rolled back to 12.9 per cent and later readjusted it to 14.9 per cent.

Mr. Grubb said the company is committed to long-term operations in Thompson, and it has about six months supply of nickel in the event of a strike.

Text of Mr. Grubb's address was released before delivery.

CMA warns Ottawa

Says government should not take support on wage and price control for granted

OTTAWA (CP) — Rodrigue Bilodeau, new president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association (CMA), has warned that Ottawa should not count on automatic support from the CMA for the federal wage and price controls program.

The warning came shortly after Prime Minister Trudeau praised the CMA for its support of controls at the group's 105th annual convention.

Mr. Bilodeau told a news conference at the close of the one day general meeting that CMA members are starting to judge changes in the controls program as unfair and unduly punitive.

He was referring to proposals announced in the federal budget to reduce the allowable profit margin to 85 from 95 per cent of a company's base earning period. Faced with high wage rates and slipping productivity, manufacturers fear any moves that will reduce their profit margins.

Mr. Bilodeau said the average earnings of manufacturers is about 4.5 cents on the dollar at current rates.

"We're willing to take a bit of a licking," Mr. Bilodeau said. "All we're looking for is equality. We don't want to be singled out."

STUPPORT REMAINS

He made clear that the CMA has not even considered the possibility of withdrawing support of the program.

The 9,000-member CMA heard keynote speaker Donald Jamieson, federal industry minister, urge them to become "lean and hungry" so as to compete more effectively in international markets.

Mr. Jamieson was one of several federal ministers who took part in two bear-pit sessions, answering questions prepared in advance.

Mr. Jamieson said Canadian companies have got to start joining forces to form consortiums in order to meet increasing competition from other nations.

"Should the less efficient firms be looking for government assistance to help them compete? Or should they look at going into a different line, or joining their abilities with another company or companies to become more efficient?"

ANALYSE MARGINS

In the bear pit exchange with the 500 delegates, Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said the proposal for reduction in base profit margins was the result of an analysis of the controls program that showed there was inequity in this provision.

Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde was asked if Canada can afford a planned $300-million program to provide the country's working poor with a guaranteed income. He replied that only about 10 per cent of the population live at wages below the poverty level.

If Canada cannot provide its working poor with a guaranteed annual wage now, he said, "let's, at least, provide them with hope."

Electronic companies are trying for more international business

WINNIPEG (CP) — Ten Manitoba electronics companies, who hope there is strength in unity, have formed a professional association aimed at capturing a bigger part of the international market.

"By uniting, we felt we would have a more effective management and technical base upon which each of us could draw," said Richard Gurevich of Winnipeg, president of Electronics Manitoba.

He said that until recently, some of the firms that make up Electronics Manitoba thought they were competing against each other. In fact, they had possibilities of doing business with each other.

Since coming together, the firms have been working on plans for a mall to provide space for member companies and for rental to other electronics-related firms.

Mr. Gurevich, a partner in Pulse Industries Electronics Ltd., said associating enables member companies to form consortiums for bids on jobs that no individual firm could handle.

For example, he said, two member companies have submitted a bid for a Manitoba Hydro contract, and three are involved in preparing a proposal for a bid to the federal government.

He said Electronics Manitoba, whose member companies are doing about $3.5 million worth of business, hopes to expand membership. About 30 Manitoba companies would be eligible.

He said the Manitoba government has long contended that electronics is an ideal industry for the province, because of the relatively low shipping and transportation costs for electronics parts and finished products.

Mr. Gurevich said a thriving electronics industry in Manitoba also would halt the movement to other areas of electrical engineering graduates from Manitoba universities and technical schools.

He said the federal government is one of the largest purchasers of electrical goods and services in Canada but has been bypassing Manitoba with many of its contracts.

"I suspect it has been for political reasons," said Mr. Gurevich, who added the association plans to have a full-time marketing manager in Ottawa who would act as a lobbyist.

"As a group, we will be able to speak with one voice to the federal and Manitoba governments, as well as large industries. And we may be able to get some real answers as to why Manitoba isn't getting a larger share of the electronics market."

"There's no question in my mind that Manitoba manufacturers have the

Manufacturers predict a "vigorous boom" in '77

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's manufacturers may expect only modest improvements in their industry this year but a "vigorous boom" in growth in 1977.

The optimistic forecast was contained in the annual report of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association (CMA) released at the opening of the group's 105th annual general meeting.

In brief, opening remarks, Roy H. Phillips, CMA executive director, told the delegates a healthy manufacturing industry is essential if Canada is to fulfill the aspirations of Canadians.

"For a while we might be able to live well on borrowings and exporting natural resources," he said. "But there is no future in doing so."

"Nor can we continue to import $10.5 billion more manufactured products than we export."

STRIKES A FACTOR

The turnaround for manufacturers, as underlined in the annual report, comes after a disastrous 1975 that saw the worst trade deficit in manufacturing products, more man-days lost due to strikes than ever before, and imposition of wage and price controls on the country. Manufacturing trade dropped five per cent last year.

"Because of cautious consumer attitudes, a weak outlook in business capital spending, continued fiscal and monetary restraint and an unimpressive recovery in the world economy is expected to improve only gradually in the coming year," the report said.

"Manufacturers can look forward to modest improvements in 1976, with gathering strength in the over-all economy culminating in a vigorous boom in 1977."

Laurent Thibault of Toronto, senior CMA economist who helped draft the annual report, said in an interview later the hope was for a growth of six to eight per cent next year, led by exports of the resource-based industries.

However, some secondary manufacturing, such as textiles and clothing, would not experience the same growth.

"There's an awful lot of slack capacity out there,"

TRI DEAM ATTENDS

Prime Minister Trudeau and seven of his cabinet ministers, including Finance Minister Donald Macdonald, took part in the one-day convention which this year had a different format from previous CMA annual meetings.

Instead of speeches seminars and discussions, the cabinet ministers engaged in two bear-pit sessions with delegates. Eighty-five questions were delivered a week ago to the cabinet ministers who were to respond to them in a morning session, then come back in the afternoon to get the reaction to their answers from delegates.

Other cabinet ministers taking part were Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey, Labor Minister John Munro, Trade Minister Donald Jamieson, Manpower and Immigration Minister Robert Andras, Transport Minister Otto Lang and Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde.

Calls for energy policy between US and Canada

Eastern Canadian premiers agreed with New England governors Tuesday that there should be better co-operation between their federal governments on energy policies.

The group, meeting in Chatham, Mass., approved a resolution asking the governments to encourage cross-border co-operation between the regions and to define their energy policies more clearly.

The resolution, opposed only by Gov. Meldrim Thompson of New Hampshire, urged the governments to "adopt or maintain policies" on the export and import of power which would improve economic opportunities in the two regions.

Gov. Thompson said the import by the U.S. of great amounts of Canadian power would be contrary to U.S. policy, which is to move toward self-sufficiency in energy.

The group urged that the governments improve air, rail and road transportation links between New England and Eastern Canada to facilitate energy co-operation.

Also at the conference, a source said there has been disagreement among the eastern provinces over the role of the federal government in a proposed study of an Eastern Canadian power grid.

The source said Quebec and New Brunswick are opposed to federal involvement in the recommended study, which would cost about $4 million.

In other economic developments Tuesday:

—In Ottawa, Statistics Canada reported that although the national unemployment rate eased to 7.1 per cent during May there were still 708,000 Canadians out of work, a decline of 61,000 from April.

—In St. John's, the Newfoundland and Labrador Federation of Labor said Premier Frank Moore's government appears to be overwhelmed by the social and economic problems facing the province.

—In Victoria, Ocean Falls Corp. said it would have made more than $1 million last year if it had not been for the forest industry shutdown. The Crown corporation lost $304,381 in 1975.

—In Montreal, La Presse said Quebec could lose between $200 million and $300 million annually in foreign investment because of a proposed provincial 33-per-cent tax on real-estate transactions involving non-Canadians.

Sweetsburg Court

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Jocelyne Noel, Waterloo, who pleaded guilty to counts of arson in Waterloo during the summer of 1975 and was placed on two year's probation pleaded guilty to a similar count in Sorel April 16, 1975, here Monday.

Jean Riou, Legal Aid Office, told Judge Gerard Normandin his client had obeyed the condition of her suspended sentence and suggested a like sentence would amply serve the interests of justice.

Judge Normandin upheld a suggestion by Crown prosecutor Claude Noisieux and allowed a similar two year suspended sentence from June 7, 1976.

Judge Normandin branded Ghislain Delage, Sherbrooke, and Franklin Griggs, Roxton South, "public dangers" when they pleaded guilty to charges of impaired driving when their blood-alcohol levels were .180 milligrams. They were each fined $150 and costs, in default 30 days.

Leopold Theriault, Cowansville, pleaded guilty to a second charge of impaired driving within a year and his lawyer, Jean Riou, admitted his client had been served with a notice of recidivism. Crown attorney Noisieux said he had no alternative but to ask for the minimum 14 day jail term.

Mr. Riou told the court his client was a seasonal worker and 14 days incarceration would cost him his job. He suggested the accused be allowed to serve the time on seven consecutive weekends.

Judge Normandin consented to the defence request and told Theriault to report Saturday at 10 a.m. until Sunday at 5 p.m. for the next seven weekends.

Others in the parade of impaired drivers who appeared June 7 included: Edgar Cote, Andre Paul Curadeau, and Jean Berger, all of Granby; Yvon Vallee, Farnham; Bruce Phelps, Stanbridge East; Ronald Kirby, Bromont; Douglas Loyer, Bedford; Maurice Huot, Granby; Alcide Cassie and Andre Gagnon, Cowansville; Oscar J. Senay, Hull; Laurent Cote, Granby; and John A.W. Leggett, Stanbridge East. Fines ranged between $100 and $150 and costs, in default 30 days. Delays up to two months were granted when requested.

Clement Beaudin, Granby; Roger Janelle, Montreal; Philippe Lacroix, Cowansville; Jean-Paul Larocque, Farnham; and Marcel Nolin, also of Farnham, all pleaded not guilty to charges of impaired driving. Their trials were set to dates in July and August.

Samuel VanderHa, address unknown, was remanded in custody pending a bail hearing June 10. VanderHa chose preliminary hearing and trial before a judge alone following his arraignment on a charge of breaking and entering a dwelling in Waterloo, June 4.

Bobby Ray Jordan, New York, pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal entry into Canada at Morse's Line, June 7. Special prosecutor Robert Brisebois told Judge Normandin this was the third time the accused has been arrested on charges of illegal entry during as many years, and suggested an exemplary sentence.

"Why do you do it?" Judge Normandin queried. "Travel, man," was the reply.

"Thirty days and if you come back again without advising authorities it will be five years," Judge Normandin concluded.

Alfred Couture, 24, Waterloo, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault on two peace officers in the performance of their functions in the Town of Brome Lake, June 5. His trial was fixed to June 8.

Roger Bourdon, Granby, who was to have been sentenced on two counts of having defrauded a Granby branch of the Canadian National Bank, saw his sentence adjourned to July 26. His lawyer, Don Bissonnette, told the court his client had suffered injuries in an automobile accident and had only returned to work within the past month thus had not been able to effect full restitution.

"I'm giving you a last chance," Judge Normandin said. "Pay your debts by July 26 or you'll be behind bars."

Sentence in the case of Charles Benoit was continued to August 9 pending receipt of a probation report. Benoit, of Venise, earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery with violence at the Larocque Hotel, Noyan, during the summer of 1975.

Gilles Meunier, Granby, who earlier pleaded guilty to counts of possession of two color television sets he knew had been obtained during the commission of a crime, was fined $300 and costs, in default 30 days, and was allowed one month to pay the fine and costs.

Jean-Paul Bombardier, St. Joachim, pleaded guilty to a count of assault causing bodily harm on the person of Pierre Paquette in Ste. Cecile de Milton, October 30, 1975. His sentence was adjourned to June 28 pending receipt of a medical report on the damages sustained by the victim.

Francois Couture, Venise, pleaded guilty to a charge of simple theft of tools belonging to Gaetan Morin in St. Ignace de Stanbridge, January 31. He told the judge he had had a "couple of glasses and was playing a prank on his friend. He was fined $25 and costs, in default eight days.

Judge Normandin withdrew more than 300 counts levied against Farnham alderman Normand Laque which alleged he had no right to sit on the town council.

Alain Giguere, Granby, failed to appear when he was to have undergone trial on a charge of possession of three capsules of LSD. "I saw him here a moment ago," explained defence lawyer Michel Brun.

A voice from the lawyer's bench quipped: "Must be on a trip."

The accused appeared moments later and changed his option and pleaded guilty to two counts of possession of three LSD capsules and to one of possession of a marijuana plant. He was fined $50 and costs on each of the LSD charges and $25 on the marijuana count, in default 15 days, non-concurrent. He was allowed one month to pay the fines and costs.

Denyse Sancier, Granby, pleaded not guilty to 15 counts of having made false declarations in order to obtain Unemployment Insurance benefits during 1975. Her trial will be heard July 12.

Michel Gallaud, Dunham, pleaded guilty to having allowed his dog loose in a deer yard March 5. He was fined the minimum $25 and costs, in default three days.

Yvon Larocelle, St. Provenc, Dorchester City, formerly of Granby, pleaded guilty to a charge of having made a false declaration in order to obtain a second social insurance card. The accused told the court he wanted to change his name and defence lawyer Jean Riou added: "It may not be Catholic but he had no prior record," prior to asking the clemency of the court.

Judge Normandin dismissed special prosecutor Robert Brisebois' demand for a fine of $1,000. "I'm not a lawyer," said the judge. "The next time you want to change your name do it through the legislature in Quebec."

Special round-the-clock guards at the border

By IVY HATCH
(Record Correspondent)

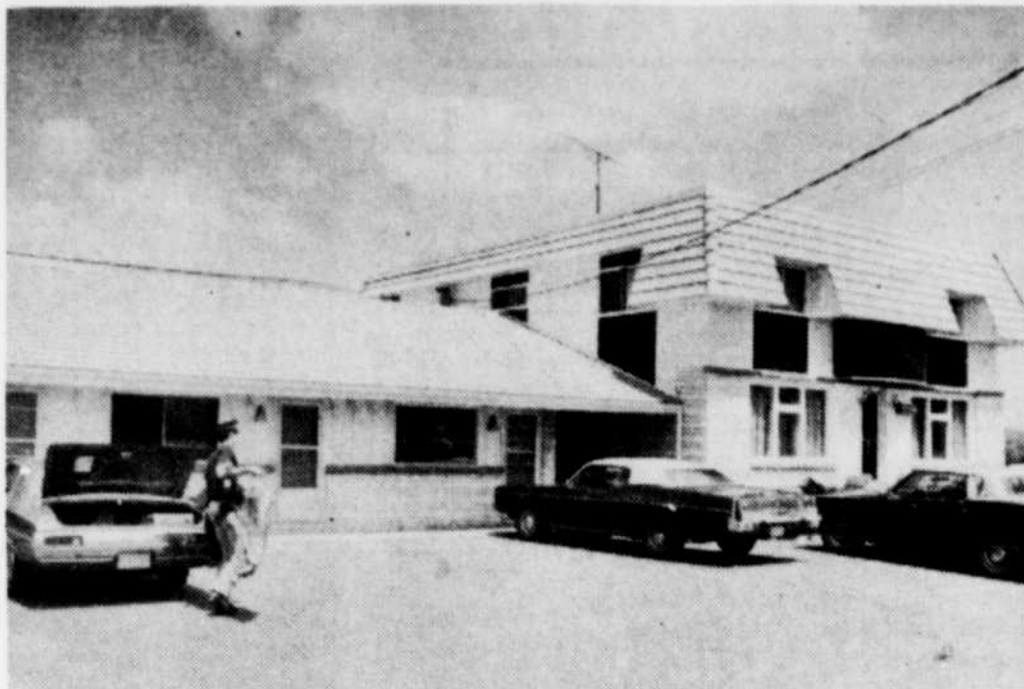

The international Lake Memphremagog is not closed as has been reported. The lake has always been patrolled by the RCMP and by the Vermont State Police, but this summer security will be tightened. RCMP Sgt. Clem Bolduc in charge of operations in this area said, "We are not here to harass the people." "We have not invaded the area; we are here for the protection of the country, its people, the Olympic athletes and visitors against terrorists, drug trafficking and undesirable who might create a problem at the Olympic areas," he said.

Oscar Palmer, collector of customs here at the border and Sgt. Bolduc advise all persons to carry identification with them. Otherwise they may be delayed while they are checked.

Concerning the international waters of Lake Memphremagog, Mr. Palmer said a computer telephone has been installed at Cederville public government Wharf near Weir Park. Any Canadian re-entering Canada from the United States or any American crossing into Canada planning to land their craft should pick up the telephone receiver which instantly connects with a custom supervisor's office on Route 55.

The officer on duty will then question the individual by telephone and if necessary he will dispatch another officer to the pier for declarations and regular examination. Boat registration will be the same as past years.

CHECKING IN — An RCMP officer checks in his room at the Imperial Motel in Stanstead. The 28-unit motel will be home for members of the Royal Canadian Army and RCMP until August 8 during which time the officers and men of these units will patrol the border area prior to and during the Olympic Games.

The computer telephone service will be on a round-the-clock basis. Both Sgt. Bolduc and Mr. Palmer stress that these stricter security regulations will not interrupt any border crossing, much the same security is in operation along American border points.

The additional RCMP officers and armed forces personnel are making their headquarters at the Imperial Motel in Stanstead. The Armed Forces work under the RCMP out of the Stanstead RCMP office.

"The rumors that the Army and RCMP have taken over the hotel are ridiculous," Mrs. Monique Couture, Imperial Motel owner, said. "Usually at this time of year most of my rooms are vacant. Now we are booked solid until August 8. Our restaurant and cocktail lounge business is flourishing as usual," Mrs. Couture added.

The motel, located about one mile from the US-Canadian Border has 28 units.

Stanstead Township referendum postponed

STANSTEAD TOWNSHIP (RM) — A referendum on a proposed zoning by-law initially scheduled for this weekend has been postponed, a township councillor said yesterday.

In a telephone interview, Neil McTavish said the process the proposal was initially following on the way to becoming a by-law was followed improperly.

Therefore, the referendum, originally set for this Friday and Saturday, was called off.

The proposal is now pending further discussion by the council, its planning and development committee, and residents.

Mr. McTavish said the matter may be "straightened around and get back to life" by July, with a possible rewriting of the proposal to suit public demands.

The by-law proposal, prepared gratis at council's request by lawyer Gordon Kohl, covers practically all aspects of building, and is intended to restrict major development in the principally rural township.

It has evoked the ire of many residents, who find it restrictive on property rights, or written in complicated "legalese."

Canadian Botanical Assoc. meets

LENNOXVILLE (BS) — The Canadian Botanical Association continues its five day annual meeting today at Bishop's University with participants taking field trips to study local natural habitat.

Sessions began Monday with a welcome from Bishop's Biology Professor Arthur Langford who is chairman of the local committee organizing the event which is the first national scientific convention held at Bishop's University.

The annual banquet was held Tuesday night in Dewhurst Hall when Dr. D.B.O. Savile, an Agriculture Canada mycologist, was presented with the George Lawson Medal for excellence in Canadian botany.

Guest speaker at the banquet was Dr. J.D. Jeffers, Bishop's University Professor Emeritus of Education, whose topic was Better Homes and Gardens.

Also speaking at the dinner was Quebec Lands and Forests Deputy Minister Jean-Noel Poulin who said in his address that the proper management of Quebec lands depends on a consensus of all socio-economic forces in our society. He also said that in land use planning, analysis is carried out of existing land capabilities such as for agriculture, urbanization, energy transportation corridors or cottage areas. This information is important as a management tool, he said.

Entertainment was provided at the banquet by John Pille and his Renaissance Chamber Group.

Keynote addresses were given Monday when J.S. Rowe, of the University of Saskatchewan, spoke on the natural areas, followed by A.D. Bradshaw, of the University of Liverpool, whose topic was disturbed lands, their reclamation and development as nature reserves.

Another keynote address was given Tuesday by Everett Peterson of the Western Ecological Services on regulatory aspects of ecological reserves in Canada.

Tonight Dr. Gilles Lemieux, of Laval University, will discuss some practical problems in the establishment and management of ecological reserves, followed by Dr. Vladimir Krajina, University of British Columbia, speaking on the progress of ecological reserves in British Columbia.

Various scientific papers have been also presented and discussed during the week.

Tomorrow participants leave for a day-long tour of the Montreal Botanical Gardens, rounding out the schedule.

School elections planned

SHERBROOKE (TT) — Nine candidates will seek election Monday, June 14 to the six-seat Sherbrooke Catholic School Commission.

Gerard Cote, Lucien Thaneus and Adrien St-Hilaire are running for Ward 4 and Denis Lacombe and Mrs. Therese Payeur for Ward 18.

Roger Desjardins, Ward 3, Andre DuBois, Ward 6, Guy Stringer, Ward 14, and Mrs. Gisele Bergeron, Ward 16 are unopposed.

Elections for chairmanship of the commission will be held Monday, June 21.

To visit historic mill

RICHMOND — A visit to the historic Denison Mill located near Richmond will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 12 and 13 from 2 to 5 p.m. sponsored by the Richmond County Historical Society as part of its membership campaign.

Presently owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Quig, the mill was declared a historical site in 1975 by the provincial cultural affairs department. The mill situated on the banks of the St. Francis River has been carefully reconstructed to its former state by local draftsmen.

The public is invited to view the mill. Refreshments will be sold.

Magog Council

MAGOG (TT) — Municipal council here appointed the mayor, the registrar, treasurer and councillors to participate in the congress of the Quebec union of municipalities to be held in Montreal September 21 to 24.

At a recent meeting the councillors also named Stephen Roy, assistant director of police and fire accident, to take part in the congress of Quebec association of fire chiefs in Montreal June 13 to 16.

A $3,500 loan was granted to the Magog association of senior citizens to enable the association to hire a worker for the period within the local initiative program. The loan, repayable in five instalments of $700 each, began June 1, the report revealed.

Other loans were made to Les Loisirs de Magog Inc. and the Magog School Commission. Les Loisirs de Magog Inc. was given $1,500 and the school commission, $375.

Paul-Rene Gilbert and Ross Bennett have been named to represent council in the 13-man Office of Municipal Housing which the municipality hopes to create soon.

Finally, councillors have conferred on the mayor and the city registrar the right to sign a new collective labour convention between the municipality and public service office employees.

Communist cracks

The Soviet Union's latest attempts to cement, through pressure, some of the more obvious cracks in the Communist empire, may well have quite the opposite effect. In any event, Moscow's latest foray into what it calls "proletarian internationalism" is giving the more independent Communist countries a bad case of the jitters — if the latest reports from Romania are correct — and at the same time reinforcing the smaller nations' determination to maintain a degree of autonomy.

It is not easy to live in the shadow of the Russian bear. One never knows — as Czechoslovakia found out in 1968 — when it may decide to swallow its erstwhile allies, all in the name of Communist solidarity. Thus earlier this month, according to report, when Romanian reserve troops were called up for regular summer exercises, but were not given the usual warning, rumors swept the country that the Russians had invaded. There was immediate panic buying of goods which, in the event of invasion, would be in short supply.

The Romanians have better reason than most East Europeans for nervousness because their government, under President Nicolae Ceausescu, has always taken an independent line that has brought it often into conflict with Moscow.

Earlier this year the Kremlin issued a pamphlet entitled "Revisionism in the service of anti-communism," which was, in effect, a restatement of an attitude, not greatly stressed in recent years, that the real test of Marxism-Leninism is not so much ideological as it is one's loyalty to the Soviet Union. If one criticizes the U.S.S.R. one is automatically helping the imperialists. In brief, he who is not for Moscow is against communism.

This sits well enough with "loyal" Communist allies like East Germany, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia; but all at all with the more independent minded, Romania least of all. While the "loyalists" went along with the ideas reiterated in the pamphlet, President Ceausescu in a speech a month later said that those governments which did not fight to defend the dignity, the right to freedom and the independence of their country, fully deserved a future of slavery and the contempt of their people. Similar criticism, although not so strongly worded, came from other Communist parties — in France, Spain, Italy, Yugoslavia.

Clearly the Communist monolith is less monolithic than ever these days. And rather than cementing it, renewed Soviet pressure may deepen the fissures.

Grand jury system dropped by most provinces

A legal hand-me-down from medieval times, the grand jury system now has been dropped by every province but one.

Nova Scotia clings to the ancient machinery though it passed out of existence in three of the last four provinces retaining it—Ontario, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island—in amendments to the federal Criminal Code that took effect May 15.

Britain, which originally developed it for screening criminal cases before trial in upper courts, killed the grand jury 43 years ago. It also has died out in every other jurisdiction of the Commonwealth except Canada.

Many authorities here have regarded it as in a long-time state of rigor mortis—unnecessary, expensive, and some hold, at times unfair to defendants.

"Redundant" was the word used by a federal spokesman in announcing the May 15 action.

As far back as 1892, Sir John Thompson, then justice minister and later prime minister, pronounced the grand jury obsolete as he was introducing the original version of Canada's Criminal Code. But he was not prepared to force the issue with the provinces, which administer the courts.

CONSULT PROVINCES
Removal since then has been done with the assent of individual provinces.

In 1954, a federal commission on revision of the code said it favored outright abolition, noting that this had been done in every other part of the Commonwealth. But it did not want to bring in a formal recommendation without the support of the five provinces then retaining the procedure.

In 1969, Mr. Justice Bora Laskin of the Ontario Supreme Court—now chief justice of Canada—described the grand jury's role in the criminal process as largely anachronistic.

It survives in Nova Scotia despite a 1974 recommendation against this from a provincial law reform commission.

The provincial government takes the view that the grand jury still is a protection for the accused and no element of defence should be taken away.

For example, a Dartmouth, N.S., woman was charged last year with killing her child in a fit of post-natal depression. The grand jury ruled against this, saying she was not responsible for her actions.

GOES FAR BACK

The origins of the grand jury go well back into antiquity. Historians are uncertain about how it began but some maintain it initially was a version of the old Frankish "inquest" imported into England by William the Conqueror and that he used such juries to get information on prospective taxpayers to be included in the Domesday Book.

At all events, early traces of it have been found in the reign of Henry II in the 12th century, when bodies of 12 men were selected as snoopers to report to travelling judges on crimes committed in their communities between judicial assizes.

After a grand jury preferred charges, accused persons were tried by the primitive methods of compurgation or ordeal. In compurgation, friends could exonerate a defendant by swearing he was an honorable man. Under trial by ordeal, success in withstanding miscellaneous tortures was regarded as proof of innocence.

While the original effect of the grand jury was to bolster the power of the Crown against individuals, it later evolved into a body that gave some protection from spiteful prosecutions and from the big stick of the sovereign.

DEFIED KING

In part, this reputation grew out of a historic case in 1681, in which Charles II brought a charge of high treason against the Earl of Shaftesbury, leader of a long fight with the king over the supremacy of Parliament.

A grand jury defied the king and threw out the indictment, though historians note that its motives may be questioned because it was loaded with political cronies of the earl. In any case, it probably saved his life, though he eventually had to flee the country anyway and died in exile.

A decline in the protective function of the grand jury set in during the mid-19th century with the introduction of preliminary hearings before magistrates, who determine whether a defendant should be committed for trial in a higher court.

But the grand jury survived as an intermediary stage between preliminary hearing and trial. Proceedings are held in secret, with the defendant not represented and only the prosecuting lawyer and his witnesses attending. At the end, a true bill or a no bill is returned — true bills in the overwhelming number of cases.

SEEN AS BULWARK

Some authorities continue to regard it as what has been called "the grand bulwark of civil liberty," but an Ontario commission on law reform in 1973—which recommended abolition—said this is based on a presumption that the grand jury acts independently in weighing evidence.

However, the commission noted that the proceedings are directed by the Crown and it also suggests a further drawback to the defence is that surprise evidence could develop at closed proceedings to which a defendant's lawyer would not have access.

"Surprise should have little place in a criminal trial," it added.

Further weakening the concept of the grand jury as a protective body, the commission said, has been the fact that the provincial attorney-general always has had the power to prefer an indictment before it even though it was thrown out at preliminary hearing. He also could go before the grand jury with a new count to an indictment not considered at preliminary hearing.

CITES REASONS

Other reasons for eliminating the system, the commission held, was that it would save time in getting a case to trial, give a new element of efficiency, save some money and obviate holding an accused in custody, possibly for weeks, before a grand jury reported.

Besides its part in the trial process, the grand jury has had subsidiary functions. One has been to inspect and report on conditions in institutions supported by public money, such as jails and courthouses.

Another has been—to use the still-surviving archaic term—"gaol delivery," which means determining whether any prisoners are being held improperly without trial.

Ontario is handing these two jobs over to panels which will be selected from persons on petit jury duty at spring and fall county court sittings.

In Prince Edward Island, the inspecting will be done by civil servants such as fire marshals and building inspectors.

Newfoundland is simply saying farewell to the whole thing including the inspection apparatus, which has been effectively dead there for a long time anyway.

"The grand jury hasn't examined a public building in Newfoundland in 25 years," says Justice Minister T. Alex Hickman.

Says Socreds not dead yet in Alberta politics

EDMONTON (CP) — Robert Clark is "quietly optimistic" for a resurgence of the party that governed Alberta for 35 years.

"A year ago, people were saying the Social Credit party is dead," Mr. Clark said in an interview. "You don't hear that today."

A lot has happened to the party since it was swept from power in 1971 and shattered in a Progressive Conservative landslide last year.

The 38-year-old farmer and former teacher from the central Alberta community of Carstairs, chosen party leader last December, has had to contend with post-election desertions of many party supporters, the task of rebuilding a once-great party and a 75-seat legislature dominated by 69 Conservatives.

But there's new blood in the party, Mr. Clark said, pointing out the average age of the party executive is 40. Many of the new supporters were disenchanted Conservatives or Liberals.

"More Albertans are becoming concerned about the political options in Alberta, and they're looking to us to supply that alternative."

PREPARED TO LEAD

While Mr. Clark spoke last year of resigning as leader, he said he now is prepared to lead the party into the next election.

He said the four-man Social Credit opposition managed to keep Premier Peter Lougheed's government busy throughout most of the last legislative session, which ended May 19.

A major bill passed during the session created the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, an idea the Social Credit caucus says is reasonable, but backed by inadequate legislation. The fund will take 30 per cent of the annual revenues from the province's non-renewable resources to be invested for future generations.

Its investment committee is the cabinet, and that's the part both the official opposition and the lone NDP member in the house objected to. One defeated Social Credit amendment would have made investments subject to approval by the legislature before they were made.

"We had hoped the government would be big enough to bring the commitment of funds for the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund to the people of Alberta before they spent them behind closed doors in cabinet. I think this idea of doing the public business before the public is vital."

Mr. Clark was unhappy with the $1.75 increase in the price of a barrel of Alberta crude oil, now priced at $8.

The increase, announced in mid-May after federal-provincial negotiations, is to take effect in two stages, with a $1.05 increase July 1 and a further 70-cent increase Jan. 1, 1977.

"The premier talks about $1.75 increase, but that's really $1.40 at the very most," he said, because the full increase will be effective for only six months.

"The $1.75 is going to be much closer to the $1.30 or $1.40 (that federal Energy Minister) Alastair Gillespie talked about way back when. I'm afraid that it's one of these situations again where we got what Ottawa wanted to give us."

ALBERTANS FIRST

Mr. Clark said the Social Credit party believes the interests of Albertans should be considered first in negotiating oil prices, because this province has contributed greatly to Confederation by selling it non-renewable resources at two-thirds of the world price.

He agreed the Social Credit government made a lot of mistakes in its time, but stressed that "precious few of those things have come through to be in the long-term detriment to Albertans."

"We can say the royalties may not have been high enough on oil and gas, and that's a debatable point... The premier argues in the house that we were only getting $2.85 a barrel for oil, but as Mr. (provincial Energy Minister Don) Getty admits, that was above the world price at that time."

"I don't think any one government can take credit for the oil policy in Alberta today. I think it's recognized that Alberta's management of resources has been among the best in the world."

Frontrunner

CIA-DIA bickering

Jack Anderson's

Washington

WASHINGTON — The recent intelligence revelations have intensified the backroom bickering between the Central Intelligence Agency and Defense Intelligence Agency, a smoldering, subterranean feud of charge and countercharge, of snoop and countersnoop.

The CIA finally summarized its grievances late last year in a top-secret report, criticizing the DIA's handling of intelligence, charging that it merely duplicates the CIA's functions and calling for a drastic shakeup of the intelligence community.

The "Taylor Report," named for Project Director Edmund Taylor of the CIA, recommended that all intelligence resources should be placed under a general intelligence director.

Under the Taylor plan, the director would manage both the CIA and DIA, with complete control over the intelligence budget. He would make his headquarters presumably at the CIA center in Langley, Va.

Financially speaking, the plan is attractive to the CIA, which now receives only about 20 per cent of the national intelligence budget. For the Taylor reorganization would put the CIA clique in the dominant position.

The Taylor Report sharply criticized the quality of U.S. intelligence, particularly that produced by the DIA. The document charged that the overlapping intelligence effort produced conflicting reports, created dangerous confusion, prevented coordination and created a false sense of security.

The top-secret report produced an almighty howl from the Pentagon's intelligence chiefs, who complained that it was inaccurate, unfair and one-sided. The intelligence programs outside the CIA, they insisted, were well conducted and coordinated. In any event, they argued that the real issue wasn't control over intelligence but the excesses of the intelligence agencies.

The Taylor Report was submitted to President Ford, who asked for another, inter-agency report presenting all sides. The second report offered a range of alternatives for the President to choose from. Intelligence sources tell us they are dissatisfied with the few organizational changes that have been made. These changes won't strengthen the main failings, they say, where national security is at stake.

Beyond this, security prevents us from discussing the failings more specifically. Fuddle Factory: Below the top layer of government are a host of anonymous deputies and assistants, faceless men and women with unseen power, who often pull the strings that cause the leaders to move.

One of the second-level satchels at the Commerce Department, for example, is the assistant secretary for domestic and international business. He is largely invisible to the voting public, but he carries a big stick. He can make his influence felt in business circles around the world.

Ex-Vice President Spiro Agnew during his glory days installed Tilton Dobbin in this strategic post. After Agnew fell from grace, Dobbin helped the deposed and disgraced Agnew make some international business contacts.

Word of the Dobbin-Agnew relationship reached Rogers Morton, then the commerce secretary, who quietly got rid of Dobbin. But unknown to Morton, Dobbin's loyal assistant, John Gleason, stayed on as a deputy assistant secretary. Thus Agnew still has a good connection at Commerce.

Dobbin was replaced, meanwhile, by Travis Reed. He quickly became known inside the Commerce Department as "Travelin' Travis." During his first five months on the job, he took 13 trips. Many times he found an excuse to fly to his ski chalet in Idaho.

Reed also maneuvered Treasury Secretary William Simon into inviting him on a Middle Eastern tour. Simon had asked for Charles Hostler, an expert on Middle East commerce.

As Hostler's superior, Reed said he wouldn't let Hostler go unless he could go along, too. After some bureaucratic maneuvering between aides, Simon wound up signing an invitation for Reed to join him on the trip.

Because it appeared that Simon was specifically requesting Reed, the new Commerce Secretary, Elliot Richardson, approved his travel — despite the fact that Richardson considered Reed's roving already excessive.

From the Middle East, Reed cabled back his intention to take a side trip to Paris. This was too much for the Commerce brass, who turned him down. In a snit, Reed fired off his resignation by cable to Washington. It was happily accepted.

But the crafty Reed had made arrangements for his political future. He not only had retained Dobbin's man, John Gleason, but had promoted him.

So the grateful Gleason owed Reed a favor. The favor was to install a new Commerce field office in Boise, Id. And who was the new Idaho office manager? Reed's special assistant, William Glassford.

Now Glassford can move freely throughout the Idaho business community spreading the good word about Travis Reed. For Travelin' Travis has started traveling around Idaho preparing to run for political office.

Footnote: Reed defended his travel as a necessary part of his job. Both Reed and Gleason also denied setting up the Idaho office as a political move. Dobbin and Gleason said they had done no special favors for Spiro Agnew.

The family

Mr. and Mrs. Braden Goodfellow

Goodfellow-Butler

The marriage of Miss Janet Butler, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Butler, Richmond, Que., and Mr. Braden Goodfellow, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Goodfellow, Tremholm, Que., was celebrated on May 8, 1976, in the United Church, Richmond. Rev. D. G. McKenzie officiated at the double ring ceremony, with Mr. Terry Seney assisting. The wedding music was played by Mrs. R. A. Cameron, with Mrs. B. Barrie singing the solo selections. The church was decorated with large baskets of flowers in yellow and white tones.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father and mother, wore a long-sleeved gown of white organza polyester over taffeta with a chapel train. The yoke was of Venetian lace, and both the yoke and the hem of her train were interlaced with pale green ribbon. She wore a bridal tiara of Venetian lace, also interlaced with green ribbon, and with a polyester waist-length veil attached. Her bouquet was of yellow roses.

Her maid-of-honor, Miss Linda Duffy, wore a long-sleeved pale yellow gown of embossed polyester; and her two bridesmaids, Miss Anne Healy and Miss Donna Butler, wore pale green gowns of the same material and design. All the bridal attendants wore white picture hats with trim to match their dresses, and carried long-stemmed yellow roses.

Mr. Jim Zintel acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Kevin Goodfellow and Mr. John Butler. The groom and other male members of the wedding party wore dark green tuxedos with velvet collars and lapels, and white ruffled shirts edged with dark green.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Ronald Butler, wore a long-sleeved gown of turquoise silk with sleeves and yoke of Lisneran lace, with white accessories and a corsage of off-white orchids.

mother of the groom, chose a long-sleeved gown of sheer jersey in a muted floral design, also with white accessories and an off-white orchid corsage.

A reception was held at the Bellevue Golf Club at which a salad supper was served. Following the toasts and cake cutting ceremonies, a second cake was presented to Mr. Goodfellow, father of the groom, who was also celebrating his birthday.

A second group of guests and friends of the bride and groom were received later to attend a dance in their honour, at the close of which crackers and assorted cheeses, coffee and wedding cake were served.

The bride and groom left for their wedding trip to Prince Edward Island, where Mr. Goodfellow will work during the summer months as a Veterinary Assistant. The bride's going-away outfit was a pale blue pant suit with matching bone-toned accessories; her corsage was of yellow roses.

Out of town guests were from Lennoxville, Sherbrooke, Melbourne, Danville, St. Hyacinthe, Windsor, Bedford, Stanbridge East, Cowansville, Otterburn Park and Montreal; also Ottawa, Smiths Falls, Midland, Mich.; Saint John, N.B. and Chicago.

Graduates with MA

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. — Alden E. Edwards of Quebec, Canada, received the degree of Master of Arts in Liberal Studies at Wesleyan University's 144th Commencement May 30.

Alden received his B.A. at Bishop's University in 1971. He is currently associated with Alexander Galt Regional in Lennoxville, Quebec, Canada. He earned the MALS degree at Wesleyan's Graduate Summer School for Teachers.

Bury

Mrs. H. Rowell Misses Alene and Christine Morrison of Sherbrooke were recent supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Coates. Others who called on Mrs. Angus MacIver at the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacLennan of Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. John D. MacDonald, Mrs. Eleanor MacDonald, Mrs. Albert Murray, Miss Margaret Matheson, Mrs. Kenneth MacIver and Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholson, all of Scotstown.

Mrs. Angus MacIver has received the sad news of the recent death of her younger sister, Miss Margaret Park of Inverness, Scotland. Sincere sympathy is extended to her in her bereavement.

Friends of Canon W. E. Walker of Richmond, formerly of Bury, will be sorry to learn that he is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital where he underwent surgery recently. A speedy recovery is wished for him.

Cowansville Guides, Brownies hold fly-up

DUNHAM — On Wednesday, June 2, at the Cowansville Municipal Beach, the two Cowansville Guide Companies and three Cowansville Brownie Packs held a family picnic at which time the "Fly-up" ceremony took place, the graduate of Brownies to Girl Guides.

After enjoyable picnic suppers with family and friends, the ceremony opened with the three Brownie Packs doing their Fairy Ring and repeating their Motto, Law and Promise. The Girl Guides then sang their opening song and formed their horseshoe for the Fly-up ceremony, with the Guide Leader of 1st and 2nd Companies and the Girl Guide Commissioner, Mrs. Beverley Unsworth, standing at the head of the horseshoe.

Leaders of the 1st Cowansville Company are Barbara Elvidge (captain), Linda Sargent, Jill Moore and Barbara Paul (lieutenants). Leaders of the 2nd Cowansville Company are Colleen Deragon (captain), Barbara Higgenbottom, Frances Arnaud and Mary Cole (lieutenants).

Following the Flag Raising, O Canada was sung by all, in English and French.

The girls who were "flying-up" went through a tunnel of pine boughs, held by her fellow Brownies of her Pack.

Those from 1st Cowansville Pack who flew up were: Andrea Brown, Margaret Coles, Mary Johnston, Heidi Perkins, Audra Rennie and Ruth Steiner. The Leaders of this Pack are: Norma Sherer, Shirley Vaughan, Joy Brown and Muriel Reid.

Those from 2nd Cowansville Pack who flew up were: Marilyn Dupras, Joanne Grace, Lynn Laflamme, Wanda Holgate, Crystal Mitson, and Christine Perkins. The Leaders of this Pack are Heather Sylvestre, Maud Murphy and Thelma Fogarty.

Brownies from the 3rd Cowansville Pack who flew up to Guides were: Marie Eve Cartier, Gayle Corry, Manon Moreau, Martine Haman, Pascale Pepin and Sylvie Cotoir. There were also six girls who "walked up" to Guides from this Pack. They were: Chantal Leroux, Nathalie Parent, Dominique Dupuis, France Nadeau, Nathalie Haman and Sylvie Archambault. The Leaders of this Pack are Cathy Deragon, Frances Corry and Sharron Bailly.

Each Brownie who "flew up" was presented with a Brownie Leaving certificate and Guide World Pin, and Mrs. Unsworth (Guide Commissioner) pinned on their wings. The girls who "walked up" each received a certificate of leaving and the Guide World Pin.

Mrs. J.J. Bertrand (widow of the late Jean Jacques Bertrand, M.P.) who is chairman of the Cowansville Centennial Commission, and Mrs. Caouette, also representing Cowansville's Centennial were welcomed prior to the presentation of the Cords to four of the Girl Guides.

Canada Cords went to Judy Elvidge, Jill Lash and Beth McKone, and the All Round Cord was received by Sandra Lechasseur. Mrs. Unsworth explained to those present it is indeed an honor to receive the Cords. She further said that the Canada Cord is the highest and the All Around Cord is the second highest distinction that can be earned by a Girl Guide and this was the first time this award had ever been presented in Cowansville.

Mrs. Unsworth went on to say that she felt it was even more meaningful that she had won it during Cowansville's Centennial Year. Mrs. Bertrand then presented all Brownies, Guides and Leaders with a Centennial Crest and gave Medallions to the girls who had earned the Cords.

As Barbara Elvidge and Linda are leaving their Leadership positions of the 1st Cowansville Guide Company, Mrs. Paul presented each with a gift and thanked them for their work with the girls.

The girls all gathered around the camp fire for some singing, during which time they also sang "Happy Birthday, Cowansville."

Sherbrooke couple join Foster Parents Plan

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Daniel of Sherbrooke, Quebec have joined Foster Parents Plan of Canada. They have "adopted" Dora Blanca, aged four years of Bolivia.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel's monthly contribution of $17 brings material and financial assistance to both child and family and is aimed at strengthening the family unit by helping each member.

The $17 a month provides the family with a monthly cash grant, distribution of goods such as vitamins, blankets, towels, soap and other useful items, medical and dental care, the sustained guidance and counselling of social workers and the benefit of special programs. A strong emphasis is placed on education.

All Foster Children, (and their brothers and sisters, if possible) must attend school. Vocational training courses are available to Foster Children, their brothers and sisters and in some cases, their parents. The aim is to give the family the tools to help them become independent and self-supporting. Special programs adapted to the needs of each country also meet these aims.

For more information on this non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political independent organization, write to Foster Parents Plan of Canada, 153 St. Clair Avenue West, Toronto, Ontario M4V 1P8.

At Home

An At Home will be held for Mr. and Mrs. Carl Speck for their 25th wedding anniversary on Saturday, June 12 from 5 p.m. instead of 3 p.m. as previously planned at the home of Mrs. George Speck in Randboro.

SELECTION of women's shoes for summer 1976. Left - Pillarbox red strappy sandal with two inch hessian covered wedge. Centre - natural colored strap sandal with interesting wooden wedge and flexible crepe sole. Right - scampi pink, strappy shiny sandal, with square backed wedge covered in linen look fabric.

Shoes blend into summer styles

Shoe styling can never flourish in a vacuum - it is always geared to the mainstream of fashion. And as clothes for the summer of 1976 are more fluid and feminine in line, shoes will obviously be lighter looking.

Try window cleaner on yellowed plastic

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — The band has yellowed on my clear plastic watch. I have tried bleach and other all-purpose cleaners but nothing has helped. What can I do to make this clear again? —ELIZABETH.

DEAR ELIZABETH — Since it is the band that is discolored it is probably from perspiration. Only soap and water are recommended for the regular cleaning of clear plastic. Just once, you might try a window cleaner (test a corner first). Do not use this regularly as it might dull the finish eventually. I have also read that automobile cleaner and then auto wax are sometimes used. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — We all know that manufacturers seem to use as little material as possible in all their creations, but my Pet Peeve is with pajamas that have no pockets. To correct this I make my own by cutting a piece of cloth about four and a half by six inches and stitch this to the under side corner of the right front of my pajamas. I then have a neat pocket for a hanky or facial tissue that is out of sight. —MARY A.

DEAR POLLY — I can tell Kim how to make a doll bed or cradle out of a milk carton. Open the end of the carton and lay out lengthwise. Cut out the top, being careful to keep edges straight. Leave five-eighths inch on each side of each corner and cut a one inch deep piece lengthwise from each side but do not cut ends out. Take the piece first cut from the top of the box and fold it in half evenly. Fold in one-half to five-eighths inch on sides and bottom of open end. Paste one half of the cut top on inside, the other half on the outside to make a double headboard. Cut headboard and footboard to desired shapes perhaps rounded at the top. Use four empty thread spools of the same size or corks for legs. Glue to bed and weight down after gluing as the wax on the carton makes it more difficult for the glue to adhere. I use that all-purpose white glue. To finish, cover with a cotton material pasted on. Do use cotton as rayon and silk sometimes get spotted with glue. I like to fill in the posts with a fold of cardboard and top them with plastic tops from dishwashing liquid bottles. Add bedding and make some little girl really happy. —R.E.D.

DEAR POLLY — To keep small children out of the street when riding their tricycles, erect a psychological barrier by parking the car across the end of the driveway to the street, so they have a road block. Of course, constant attention must still be paid to the child's whereabouts, but this method often works when others fail to keep the toddlers from flying down the driveway and out into the street in the path of oncoming cars. —GLORIA.

ADS School holds graduation event

Over 350 students and parents of the Asbestos-Danville-Shipton Elementary School community gathered Friday evening, June 4th, to attend the Graduation and Awards ceremonies and also to listen to the students' spring concert.

A delicious buffet supper was enjoyed by all in attendance. Food was provided by the parent community, and the Student's Council of ADS. The School Committee is to be thanked for the buffet, especially Dorothy Bushey and Albert Gillim who co-ordinated mealtime activities.

Seated at the head table were the graduating students of ADS: Robert Berger, Gail Cleveland, Charlotte Crockett, Shirley Duffy, Brian Element, Lise Evans, Kevin Findlay, Virginia Gifford, Tim Hall, Dwight Hayes, Keith Horan, Charlene LeDrew, Barbara Leblanc, Brenda Leblanc, Carolyn Lodge, Monique Matthews, Kim McKenna, Danny Mosher, Carolin Murchie, Alan Noble, Kelly Patterson, Gail Perkins, Neil Rothney, David Smith, Diana Spencer, Donna Taylor, Suzanne Towsey, Ethel Vouladakis, Mai Vuong, Lesa Williams, Susan Wilson. Absent were: Lisa Baker, Sylvain Isable and Lynda Messervier. Also seated at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sutherland and Miss Jane Bishop.

Brian Woods, Head Teacher at ADS, welcomed the guests and then introduced the graduating students who received their promotion certificates from Mrs. Colleen Wilkin, ETRSB and St. Francis Protestant School Board Commissioner from Asbestos. Bruce Taylor, principal of Richmond Regional High School, then addressed the graduating class.

Sport tabs were accorded to all team members in the areas of track and field, basketball, gymnastics and soccer. The Intramural Trophy was presented to Red House captains Charlotte Crockett and Tim Hall. Recipients of the Gymnastic Trophy were Mai Vuong and Tony Dunkerley. The Female Athlete Award went to Diana Spencer and Male Athlete Award to Keith Horan.

Prizes for the Basketball Foulathon were awarded to Carolin Murchie, Dwight Hayes and Ethel Vouladakis. Mr. Whittall presented certificates and crests to participants in the Quebec Math Competition and awarded cash prizes to Danny George and Tony Dunkerley for their first and second place finishes in the ADS Chess Championship.

The winner of the Student's Council Shield was Robert Berger. Citizenship medals were awarded to Kevin Findlay, Keith Horan and Dwight Hayes. The School Fair Plaque was presented to Sylvia Skuse. Morrison Art Competition Prizes were received by Brenda Leblanc and Nancy Atkinson, winners in the Senior and Junior divisions. Runners-up included Robert Berger, Tim Hall, Penny Boreham and Ricky Bushey. The Project Jonah Plaque was won by students of Level 5.

Allan Sutherland, principal of St. Francis Elementary School, introduced Mrs. Gladys Woods, speaking of her many years of faithful service to the ADS school. He then announced Kim McKenna as being the first recipient of the Gladys Woods Shield for the best graduating student. Kim received the shield from Mrs. Woods.

An Olympic Coin Set Raffle has taken place to raise funds for the Awards Night activities. The winner in the draw was Mrs. Georgia Lodge of Danville. The student selling the most raffle tickets, Neil Rothney, received a five dollar Olympic coin.

Students in levels Kindergarten through six received prizes and certificates for their year's work. Many of these prizes had been paid for through contributions from Canadian Johns-Manville Company Ltd., Denison Mills Women's Institute and the Shipton W.I.

The students in levels 4 to 6, under the direction of K. Whittall, put on an entertaining and delightful concert to go along with the awards presentations. Selections included "The Old Chisholm Trail, Jamaica Farewell, Clementine, Four Strong Winds, Edelweiss, The Strangest Dream, If I had a Hammer, and a finale of On Top of Old Smokey".

Programs for the evening were prepared by Mrs. Taylor's Nursery class and Miss Louisa's Kindergarten class. The gym was beautifully decorated by Miss Louisa and Miss Jewett with floral arrangements prepared by Mrs. Marston.

Although the evening's preparations had involved a great deal of work, organizers agreed that it had been worthwhile.

BULWER UNITED CHURCH

110th anniversary to be marked by Bulwer church

BULWER — On Sunday, June 13, the congregation of the Bulwer United Church will be holding special services to mark the 110th anniversary of this Community church.

The morning service at 11 a.m. will be conducted by Rev. Carl Gustafson assisted by Rev. P. B. Gaudine, both of Lennoxville and the guest speaker will be Rev. Frank Bailey of Candiac. Rev. Bailey at one time came from Montreal each weekend to minister to this church. He was later ordained at the Montreal - Ottawa Conference at Bishop's University on June 1st.

Following the morning service, refreshments will be enjoyed at the Bulwer Community Centre.

Rev. P. B. Gaudine of Lennoxville will lead the worship at the evening service at 7:30 p.m., when Rev. Bailey will again deliver the message.

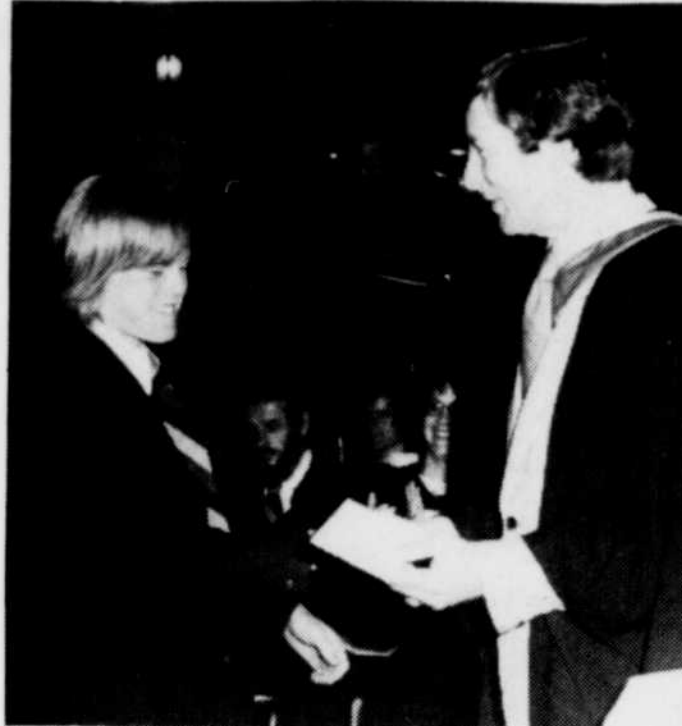

Also taking part in the evening service will be Rev. Douglas Warren of Lennoxville, overseeing pastor of the Bulwer church, Rev. Carl Gustafson, and Rev. R. Jervis-Read, rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church, Sand Hill and a resident of this Community.

Light refreshments will be served in the church hall following the service.

Special music has been prepared for both services, including solos, duets and a violin duet.

HIGHEST AWARD — Joseph Vaitekunas, at left, received the school's highest award, The Pitcher Memorial and the Birks Silver medal for best student in Grade 12. The presentations were made by Dr. Barry Thorne, the guest speaker.

AWARD — Johnny Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Wallace of Graniteville, Que., is presented with the Leonard McGilton award by Dr. Barry Thorne, guest speaker.

Stanstead College holds graduation

By IVY HATCH

STANSTEAD — The annual graduation service and prize giving for Stanstead College was held Saturday, June 5 at Centenary United Church, Stanstead.

Red and white ribbons marked the seats with red and white mums used to accent the chancel. Dr. Barry Thorne, B.A., M.A., Ph. D., N.D.C., associate professor of English, was the guest speaker.

Mrs. Pauline Hiscok, mother of one of the school students, played the organ music; the school chaplain, Rev. R. W. Peirce, spoke the invocation and closing prayers. Familiar hymns were sung. Under the director of A.J. Philip the school choir sang a selection dedicated to Mrs. Sylvia Galambos, retiring this year. The number was "We've Grown Accustomed to Her Face."

Douglas Norris gave the reading, "Real Wisdom and Its Opposite". The prayer that followed was by Steve Donahue, Head Boy. John Colby, Q.C., Chairman of the Board of Trustees introduced Dr. Thorne, a prominent Canadian who has contributed much to the field of education through his teachings, books and travels.

Mr. Colby thanked Dr. Thorne for his excellent, challenging address. He congratulated graduates and wished them well.

After the headmaster's report, Mr. Colby announced the resignation of Mr. Russell as Headmaster of Stanstead College after a total of eight years at Stanstead, five as Headmaster.

Giving the Headmaster's report, Mr. Russell thanked the staff for the operations of the school. He announced the resignations of five teachers: Mrs. Galambos who is retiring from the profession, Brian Martin, Peter Neve, Andy Elliot and William Brock.

PRIZE GIVING — Assisting with the presentations of prizes were Mr. Colby, Mrs. Peggy (Lamb) Montgomery, Mrs. Alice Amaron, George Hodgson, the first Canadian to earn gold medals in Olympics; and A.P. the main Brome Road. The ratepayer concerned is to be informed as it will be necessary to haul materials to the site on the present road bed.

In order to release the servitude at present owned by the Municipal Council on part of lot 1300, it was moved and unanimously approved that $500 be requested and the present landowner Mrs. D. Svenningsson pay all registration and notarial fees in return for the complete servitude of the lot. Town Manager-Treasurer R. Poitras was authorised to sign all documents if the offer is accepted.

Following a revised estimate prepared by Iron Hill Recreation Association, the question of land, rental agreement and conditions, manpower to build boards, chalet, waterline, etc. was not explained in the revised proposal. The report will be submitted again at a later date after the Town Manager has the opportunity to secure such information.

A bond issue of $1,200,000 was offered in the Quebec Official Gazette issue of June 5, 1976. Proceeds will repay temporary loans still outstanding from the Bank of Montreal and By-laws 30-38 (sewer) will have a final issue later this year. This particular issue will be dated July 15, 1977.

A provincial grant of $1,690,120 will be applied in 10 equal installments commencing July 15, 1977 when bonds and interest are maturing. The maturing coupons and bonds will be handled by The Bank of Montreal.

Other items of business was the acceptance of the collective agreement with the Police Brotherhood by both parties effective March 17, 1976, with supporting documents to be supplied the Quebec Anti-inflation Board.

A new engine is required for the red truck at a cost of $2,000, plus installation. Since the truck is in good condition, it was decided to look for a good used engine and if none is found suitable to proceed with the purchase of a new one.

A cash offer of $2,250 has been submitted in writing by R.L. Cox, Land Use Planning Ltd. for purchase of the Town-owned lot P1292-8 on Knowlton Road of 15,000 square feet subject to approval by the Municipal Commission following required procedures.

Stanstead

The creation of 40,000 square foot lots and prohibition of construction nearer than 200 feet from the shore of Lake Memphremagog are two principal features of the proposal.

Mr. McTavish said most of the complaints are legitimate ones. But he added that some residents are misinformed about the planning and development situation at present.

He noted that the township has used the services of a professional planner, Peter Jacobs of the University of Montreal, for some time. The townships of Magog and Orford only recently received funds from the provincial government to hire professional advisers.

The role of the planning and development committee, responsible for advising the council on development matters, is also misunderstood, he said.

Mr. McTavish said he believes the by-law is generally good, but that about "20 per cent needs some little changes."

NHL GOVERNORS APPROVE RULE

IT SEEMS THAT THE LEAGUE is out to cut down on violence and approved a new rule to penalize the offenders. Any player who is tagged three-game misconducts, or gross misconducts, will be subjected to a one-game suspension. This will be increased if the player, in the question, continues his rough tactics.

IF HE STILL INSISTS IN ROUGH PLAY the suspensions will be increased and at the same time the team will be assessed a $1,000 fine. This will also be increased as well.

I THINK IT'S ABOUT time that all leagues commence to crack down on "rough-house" tactics. I have always said this and after watching several junior games last season I stated at the time that the league should do something about it.

I APPROVE GOOD HARD HOCKEY but I can't see why the players should use their sticks to try and defend themselves and try to maim the other player. This just doesn't make sense no matter how you look at it.

NO DOUBT FOLLOWING THE NHL the other leagues will pick it up and apply the same kind of suspensions and fines. In junior hockey the boys lose their tempers faster than the pros and the coaches have their hands full trying to control their players. In amateur hockey the fines are hard to impose but the players can get tagged with tough suspensions and in this manner they may think twice about commencing a fight.

HOCKEY IS A TOUGH, HARD SPORT and it will always remain as such. If you commence to impose too many suspensions the players can turn it into a patsy affair. Good straight fighting is part of the game but if some players look just for that, then they should get the gate and the works which go along with it.

BOBBY ORR'S FUTURE may be decided today, or this week. He has entered hospital in Toronto and the result will decide just where, and what, he will be doing in the future.

IT SEEMS THAT THE BLACK HAWKS have the inside track if the examination turns out O.K. and his agent, lawyer Alan Eagleson, says he will definitely go to Chicago. The Blues are now officially out of the picture. Maybe they couldn't, or wouldn't match, the terms required.

LEAVING THE BRUINS where he has been for the past 10 years certainly hit Harry Sinden, Bruins' general manager, and Coach Don Cherry hard. It seems as though they figured he would be back but it looks as though something happened to change matters around, maybe it was the money question. Anyway we will all know soon just what the future holds for Bobby Orr.

PAUL BROUILLARD OPEN will take place Saturday at the Sherbrooke Country Club and the teams will be sold at auction Friday evening at 8:00 p.m. Some 130 golfers will be taking part in the popular golfing event which should produce good scores.

THE COUNTRY CLUB WILL BE hosting the Inter-city Golf Tournament for class A this Sunday when players from Milby, Cowansville, Granby-Miner and Sherbrooke will clash. Sherbrooke has a strong team and is favored to cop the event.

ROGER LEGAULT OF THE COUNTRY CLUB is playing his best golf for some time. He fired a neat 74 at Milby to lead the qualifying round and top Mike Arsenault and Doug McEwen by two strokes. It gives him an edge in the Quebec Amateur Golf Association listings for the major tournament which will be held this summer.

PRESIDENT ROGER LONGPRE AND HIS EXECUTIVE of the Eastern Townships Hockey Veterans Association has lined up a well prepared agenda for the summer outing at East Angus Sunday.

MAYOR ROGER COUTURE AND HIS ALDERMEN will receive the group at a civic reception at the City Hall which will be followed by a buffet after. Those interested in playing golf should bring their clubs as members can play on the East Angus Golf Club in the afternoon. So it looks as though it will be a pleasant day if the Weather Man will cooperate in the event.

A RED CROSS SWIMMING CLINIC will be held at Bishop's University for all swimming instructors of the District. This is compulsory in order to retain their certificates for another two years. For those requiring more information they can contact Miss Nancy Shannon by calling 569-2642.

SUMMER MUST BE HERE if we note the press release from Andre Collard, Public Relations officer for the City. Two pools, St. Alphonse and Marin, are the only ones opened just at present, the rest will be ready on June 23rd.

MR. COLLARD ALSO POINTS out that this year all persons using the City pools will be obliged to use a bathing cap, male and female. This is in order that the water, which is filtered, will remain in perfect condition. These two pools are heated while the others aren't, hence the reason for their delay. Maybe with the warm weather this rule will change. At least we hope so for all the swimmers.

THE OFFICIAL OPENING OF THE Sherbrooke-Lennoxville and the Sherbrooke-Fleurimont Little Leagues will take place Saturday at the Parade Grounds.

THE ANNUAL PARADE WILL leave the Bus Terminal at 12:30 and will proceed to the Parade Grounds where special activities will be held. It is the 25th anniversary of existence and President Yves Dubreuil and his committee has planned special events for the occasion. So, besides watching some good ball, the fans will be in for a very enjoyable afternoon. So drop around and give the youngsters a boost.

Columbus picks Remparts' Gagnon

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Gagnon, team captain of Quebec Remparts of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League, was the first pick of Columbus in the International Hockey League's draft of amateur players.

Jim Cunningham of St. Paul, Minn., was taken by Kalamazoo while Cliff Lane, a defenceman from Medicine Hat Tigers of the Western Canada Hockey League, was selected by Toledo.

Fort Wayne took Dan Bonar of the WCHL's Brandon Wheat Kings; Muskegon selected Gaetan Boucher of the QMJHL's Trois-Rivières Draveurs; Mike Rusin of Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds of the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior series was taken by Flint; Port Huron took Cal Herb from Hamilton Fincups of the OHA; Brian Dillon of the OHA's Oshawa Generals went to Saginaw and Dayton chose Ed Smith of Hamilton to conclude the first-round picks.

Thirty players were chosen in the proceedings while 23 selections were made in the free-agent pro draft.

Despite weather Giants stop Expos 6-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some San Francisco Giants are growing tired of constant complaints by their teammates over the weather at Candlestick Park. This surfaced Wednesday following the Giants' 6-2 victory over Montreal

Expos—one day after Tuesday night's 9-4 loss provoked gripes from Derrel Thomas and Ken Reitz.

On other occasions, veterans Willie Montanez and Bobby Murcer have voiced displeasure over Candlestick Park—not exactly a good public relations move for a team attempting to increase its attendance. "It doesn't do any good to gripe," said shortstop Chris Speier, adding that the Giants, who are 13-15 at Candlestick, "should be playing 750 ball at home and using the weather to our advantage."

BARR WINS IT Right-hander Jim Barr, 4-4, who had a no-hitter for six innings while notching the win, is another veteran miffed by the increased negativism.

"I know it will be cold when I come to the park, so I accept it," said Barr.

Barr held the Expos hitless until Andre Thornton opened the seventh with a single. Barr also helped the Giants take a 5-0 lead off loser Don Stanhouse, 3-2, by belting a two-run single in the fifth. Montreal averted a shutout on Tim Foley's run-scoring double in the seventh. The Expos added a run in the eighth and Randy Moffitt bailed Barr out of a jam in the ninth.

Larry Herndon, with two hits, extended his batting streak to 10 games for the Giants. Craig Robinson, playing second base while Thomas was being rested, doubled and scored three runs.

Braves' Messersmith close again

Only last month, Andy Messersmith was worried about winning a game. Now he's thinking about no-hitters with each start.

"Sure, I was thinking no-hitter again," the Atlanta pitcher said Wednesday after shutting out Chicago Cubs 2-0 in a National League baseball game.

"I always do. Why not?" The celebrated free agent signed a million-dollar contract with the Braves earlier in the year, but was unable to win a game until May 17. Since then, he's won four of five, including three shutouts.

In his last appearance, he came within two outs of a no-hitter against Montreal and finished with a one-hitter. On Wednesday, he only allowed three hits, one of them a bunt single in the ninth.

IMPROVES RECORD "Right now I'm throwing as good as I ever did and just can't pitch any better," said Messersmith, who improved his record to 4-5.

In other National League games, San Francisco Giants beat Montreal Expos 6-2, Cincinnati Reds turned back Pittsburgh Pirates 6-1, Houston Astros trimmed St. Louis Cardinals 5-2, Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 and San Diego Padres blanked New York Mets 3-0.

Messersmith's second consecutive strong performance spoiled the National League debut of veteran right-hander Joe Coleman and handed the Cubs their sixth consecutive loss. Catcher Steve Swisher got two hits off Messersmith, who faced three batters over the minimum of 27. Messersmith walked one and struck out six.

Coleman, who came to the Cubs in a cash deal Tuesday from Detroit Tigers, now is 2-6 for the season.

"I was exhausted, physically and emotionally drained," said Coleman, who arrived late Tuesday night from the Tigers and showed up at Wrigley Field extra early only to find he would be a last-minute starter.

Gary Nolan pitched a five-hitter and Tony Perez drove in three runs, two with a 400-foot home run, to lead Cincinnati over Pittsburgh, J. R. Richard scattered seven hits and Enos Cabell's two-run single keyed a three-run first inning as streaking Houston defeated St. Louis.

Burt Hooton hurled a two-hitter through eight innings while pitching to the minimum number of batters, then needed lastout relief help from Charlie Hough to help Los Angeles whip Philadelphia. San Diego left-hander Randy Jones out-dueled Tom Seaver and shut out New York with a seven-hitter as the surging Padres extended their winning streak to a club record five in a row.

Soviets hint for more games

MONTREAL (CP)—Officials of the Soviet Union's ice hockey federation have hinted they would be interested in sending at least one team to face National Hockey League opposition on a club-to-club basis during the 1976-77 season, NHL president Clarence Campbell said Wednesday.

Campbell, speaking at a news conference following the windup of the league's 59th annual meeting, said the Russians "have thrown out a few hints" on the subject, but the NHL would not want the visitors after Feb. 1.

Bowman turns down coaching job

MONTREAL (CP) — Scotty Bowman, coach of the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens, said Wednesday he has turned down the job of coaching Team Canada in the six-country Canada Cup international hockey tournament.

Bowman, who was offered the job by general manager Sam Pollock, said his refusal was because of "strictly personal reasons" and that he had refused it "with regret."

He added he did not recommend anyone as a possible replacement because "I don't have any say in the matter."

Two Russian teams—the Red Army club and Wings of the Soviet—visited here last December and January to play four games each against NHL competition. Campbell said the indications he had now were that the Soviets would like to send one team to play five or six games.

"Ever since the completion of last winter's series we have had constant contact with the Russian federation," Campbell said. "However, there is a very substantial controversy going on there now, coaches attacking coaches, players retiring, thus creating domestic problems for them. But their No. 1 concern appears to be keeping these series alive."

Campbell said the NHL could accept six exhibition games with the Russians without too much disruption of the 720-game regular schedule.

"They don't want a competitive series and we don't. But the way it was set up last time, it was obvious the Stanley Cup champions (then Philadelphia Flyers), would play the Soviet champions (Red Army)." The Flyers won the game 4-1.

Campbell said that neither of the two Russian teams that came to North America ended up as a winner at home in their own league. The NHL president said the real spark for any future developments in hockey lie at the international level.

Orr will find place with Hawks even if he can't play, says General-manager Ivan

MONTREAL (CP) — More than a few people are wondering if Chicago Black Hawks really knew what they were doing by agreeing to a deal with superstar defenceman Bobby Orr.

Orr's lawyer, Alan Eagleson of Toronto, told a news conference Wednesday the Black Hawks had agreed to an unconditional deal for Orr's services covering several years despite the uncertainty of Orr's future as a National Hockey League player.

The 28-year-old defenceman entered hospital in Toronto to undergo an examination of his left knee, which has already been subjected to five operations. There is a chance he may have to have a sixth, which could terminate his injury-marred 10-year career as a player with Boston Bruins.

Eagleson said Dr. John Palmer in Toronto and a decision could be reached by the end of the week on an operation.

JOB AVAILABLE Black Hawks general manager Tommy Ivan said if Orr cannot play "I'm sure we will have some capacity for him."

"We are committed as far as the figures are concerned," said Ivan. "We've taken that chance. Bobby has come back and said he wouldn't take money if he could not play, but we are obligated as far as we're concerned."

The Black Hawks said prior to the meetings they would be willing to offer Orr $3 million in a five-year deal. There was no mention made

Wednesday of the terms of the agreement except that it was a long-term agreement.

"I think Bobby Orr has made it clear in the past that if he cannot play hockey, he will not take anyone's money by false pretences," Eagleson said.

Eagleson had hoped to be able to announce Orr's signing Tuesday night, but a problem arose over compensation. Under terms of the players' collective bargaining agreement, equalization must be paid to the team a player leaves in the form of other players.

WAS CONDITIONAL "Bobby Orr agreed in the compensation philosophy, but he didn't think it should apply to a fellow who didn't know whether he could play or not," Eagleson said.

"If Bobby Orr had a heart murmur, and some team was prepared to take a risk on him, I don't imagine that compensation would even have been considered. Because of an unusual injury, because he keeps on recovering from all of these operations, it was difficult. I understand the Bruins' position."

Eagleson said the Bruins were given a chance to match Chicago's offer for the eighth time winner of the James Norris Memorial Trophy as the league's best defenceman, but they did not.

Paul A. Mooney, president of the Bruins, said in a brief statement that Chicago has a "great willingness to commit financially for a longer period of time than we did."

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may try to impose your views on an unsympathetic listener today. This person is slow to anger, but such an intrusion could really get her steamed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's not a good day for you to discuss budget matters with your mate. Each party will probably feel the other is wasting too much money.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Agreements you make today will be tough to hammer out. It's probable no one will really be satisfied with the terms, making prospects of survival dim.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be sensible about health matters today. If you know there's something you shouldn't be eating, drinking or doing, pass it up.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Complications may arise between you and a valued friend today. The problem could be magnified beyond its significance if it becomes a clash of wills.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be too heavy-handed at home today. A family member may respond bitterly to over-discipline. If you want a trouble-free teepee, tread lightly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A good debate may be a learning experience to you as well as a pleasant pastime. But your opponent may respond in a deadly serious vein.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is hardly the time to take on new obligations if old ones are still hanging fire. You'll only overburden your budget.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Handle close associates with extreme tact and diplomacy today. A few wrong moves or thoughtless words could swiftly shatter the existing harmony.

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Larry Jensen and Al Walker were just like any of the thousands of boys who listened to Bob Dylan and the Beatles during the 1960s and wanted to play that kind of music.

Now they are young musicians struggling to survive tools and take off.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually you're a very gregarious person. If you feel more like being a loner today, don't force yourself to mingle.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Without wanting to be, you may find yourself the center of attention today. People will be looking for chinks in your armor, rather than things to admire.

June 11, 1976

Select your associates carefully this coming year, for they can make or break you. The proper allies will greatly enhance your chances of success.

Struggling to make it big in Canadian music on the bar circuit in the hopes of making it big in the Canadian music scene.

But instead of succumbing to the temptation to play 1970s music—complete with silver suits, platform heels and all the showmanship that is part of that scene—they and Mike Malone want the music of the Jensen and Walker Band to stand up by itself.

Jensen, 23, Walker, 21, and Malone, 21, are all from Owen Sound, a city not well-known for producing good rock musicians. Their musical philosophy and style make them unique among their competitors and they hope this will bring them to the top.

INFLUENCED BY DYLAN The influence of the '60s is evident in the songs written by Jensen which comprise about 40 per cent of the band's repertoire.

"Musically I'm fairly limited," he said in an interview. "I just like to relate my experiences, I guess. Dylan has always been an influence on me musically." "Dylan has been me and the Beatles have been Allan," he said.

Walker said he was influenced by the British Blues movement of the '60s—by artists like Blue Cheer, Cream, Jethro Tull and Jeff Beck.

"That whole movement caught me up. You go to a party and people want to hear the Stones, the Beatles and classic '60s."

Walker is the group's lead guitar player, while Jensen plays acoustic and does much of the vocal work. Malone, who recently joined them, plays drums and sings.

The band performs songs by the Beatles, the Rolling Stones, Lou Reed, Billy Joel, and Dylan.

HAS PERSONAL TOUCH But they contend their music has a personal element.

"There's no doubt that it's personal music," said Malone. "That's why I think it's unique."

The Jensen and Walker Band has been playing for one year, minus Malone until a few weeks ago. All three started playing while teenagers, and Walker and Malone worked together in high-school rock bands in Owen Sound.

Jensen and Walker started playing last year in Toronto, then moved to Barrie, Simcoe and back to Toronto before coming to Owen Sound.

While the reception to their music has generally been good, they have run into problems in bars where rock music, albeit played at comparatively low volume, has not been accepted.

They were fired after playing two nights in a bar in nearby Warton because the owner didn't like that kind of music. He wanted country music, Walker said.

The band manages to make enough money to support the three, Jensen said, the main reason being word of mouth.

"I find that bars are draining. You play every night and you play the same tunes."

APPEARS AT FESTIVAL The band hopes to play in Toronto and London this summer and will appear at a folk festival this summer in Owen Sound.

"That's a bigger audience," Jensen said. "They're not there to drink, they're there to listen to music."

"We're just playing two weeks at a time," Walker said. "But we just go along. We play and get a few bucks in our pocket."

"We're eating and we've got a place to stay. I've got all my guitars paid for." Recently they went to Toronto to record some of Jensen's compositions and present them to music publishers.

"Making it big is something that happens to you," said Malone. "I don't really think that making money is difficult."

"But we want to make the music make us happy. I think the furthest expansion we should make at the moment is go to a bass player and work as a unit. "It's just invaluable experience to me playing this kind of music. It's challenging. Rock music is challenging because it's so high energy. You have to pay more attention to what you do."

On stage they are relaxed musicians, not flashy entertainers.

Walker doubles on acoustic and electric guitar, but even with the drums the sound isn't as loud as you hear in most bars. They don't tell jokes, or change clothes between sets, just play music.

WI meeting

BEEBE — The June 2nd meeting of the Beebe WI was held on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Ezra Woodard with a large attendance of members, one coming from Rolling Hills Residence near Lennoxville and one guest.

Mrs. Agnes Myers, president, welcomed all to the meeting. The Collect was repeated in unison and the reading of a short poem, "Building Life" by the president. She also expressed the wish that all would enjoy the summer recess.

Secretary, Mrs. Clarence Nutbrown read the minutes of the May meeting, which were approved.

Treasurer, Mrs. Austin Young gave a full financial report.

The proceeds from the sale of Mother's Day flowers were most gratifying. Thanks were expressed to Miss Leona Shepard, who with good assistance, made the flowers.

Mrs. Myers reported on the items from this branch, which will be taken to P.E.I. to be sold on a gift table to help defray the cost of the convention to be held there.

Mrs. E. Cass was given a vote of thanks for writing a short history of the granite used as ornamenting the gifts. The articles are made in Beebe, (necklace, earrings and bracelet with colored granite as trim). They drew much attention and many pleasant comments at the Annual Convention held the last of May at Macdonald College.

Mrs. Austin Young, delegate to the Community Senior Citizens Home Project held recently at Pierce Hall, gave a very good report of the meeting and the future plans.

Mrs. Nutbrown, secretary, read the correspondence which included thank-you notes from a bereaved family for a donation made to a Memorial Fund, local hospitals for donations from the sale of Mother's Day flowers, Cub pack, Brownies-Guides for a donation, all were much appreciated.

Convenors reports: Agriculture - Mrs. Elizabeth Miller read an article regarding several farmers from the Rock Forest area travelling to Ottawa, Ont. by bus, protesting the restrictions on the amount of crops and milk each farmer is allowed to produce. The importation of some cheeses also came under some discussion.

Welfare and Health - Mrs. O. Reeves gave some hints on the care of the skin against the sun, also tips on caring for lotions used for this purpose.

Mrs. Margaret Mosher - Education, stated there is to be a few changes in the teaching staff at Sunnyside School, Rock Island, next term, as five teachers are entering other schools and one is retiring. She also mentioned the School Fair program saying garden and flower seeds have been given out.

Home Economics - Miss Viola Moranville, gave some helpful skin hints, a recipe for Impossible Pie and a report on the J.P. Coats prizes which were awarded at the Macdonald College convention for needlework, knitting, sewing, etc.

Mrs. Frances Finlayson - Sunshine, reported she had sent cards to birthday celebrants.

Publicity - Mrs. C. Aulis read an article in tribute to Mrs. Edyth Westover, who at the time of her death was Provincial President of Q.W.I.

Mrs. Myers' report of the Annual convention held at Macdonald College was read by Mrs. F. Finlayson, showing a very active session. Thanks were voiced to Mrs. Myers by a hearty vote of hand clapping.

It was suggested that each member take pictures of local scenes during the summer.

The County meeting will be held on August 10th at Ayer's Cliff.

At present, there is no definite plans for the July outing of the members but a committee is working on something hopefully.

Mrs. Nutbrown read an article on the grading of foods such as A.B.C. stating that the nutritional value was equal in each one.

Business meeting adjourned.

Miss V. Moranville introduced Mrs. Enid Cooke, who gave a demonstration on making ceramics, it was a very interesting subject. Door prizes were won by Mrs. O. Reeves and Miss Moranville who also thanked Mrs. Cooke for her interesting demonstration, presenting a token of appreciation to Mrs. Cooke, who graciously expressed her thanks.

The hostesses, Mrs. Woodard, Miss Moranville and Mrs. Harry Johnston served afternoon tea on the lawn, to terminate the activities of the WI until September 1st, when the fall session begins.

Today's hand is the opposite of a freak. It is produced any time you deal out a new pack without giving it one shuffle. You can cut as often as you like, but this comes after no shuffle at all.

Before the American Contract Bridge League used computers to produce the duplicated hands used in major championships the late George Goff used to deal them all out personally. George was a man of great honesty, but he got old and the last year that he made them up he produced one unshuffled hand for the open pairs.

It was caught early and thrown out, but before this happened, one pair had achieved some real notoriety. North made one of those shaded third-hand bids. South responded with an unsound two notrump and North compounded the felony by going to game.

West opened the five of hearts. Dummy played low and the defense started with four heart tricks. Then West led the three of clubs. East won and led back a low club. South played low and the defense added four club tricks. They still had to get another so South was down five.

ASK THE JACOBY'S

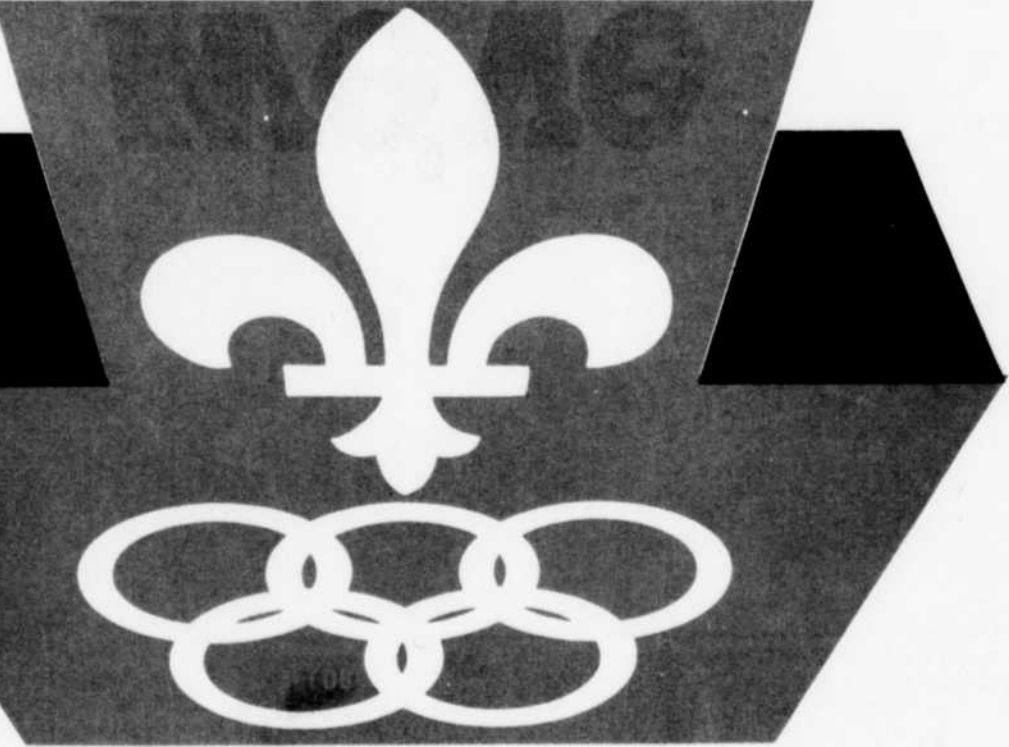

A Winnipeg reader wants to know what we bid as South after East opens one heart. No one is vulnerable. Our hand is:

▲ 2 ♥ K Q 10 9 4 ▲ A Q 7 3 ▲ K J 8

We simply pass. Our best chance for a profit here is to let our opponents get into trouble.
