220 appeals are filed

To noon today 220 appeals against new valuations were filed at Westmount City Hall, somewhat fewer than had been anticipated by City Manager Norman Dawe.

Several times that number of persons had been in to inspect the 1969-70 valuation roll, upon which next year's taxes will be levied after the city budget is known and the necessary mill rate struck.

City staff have been busy explaining not only the valuation but the effect, if any, on taxes and to this end, Mr. Dawe again expressed satisfaction this week.

Meanwhile, members of the Westmount Municipal Association will be receiving a letter from V. G. Hobbes, their president, resulting from his meeting with the mayor and city officials, explaining some of the less-understood aspects of the valuation – a drastic average 35-percent increase.

(The text of the WMA letter appears on page 23).

The appeal procedure is firmly laid down. No changes may be

Westmount City Council held a short, mid-month meeting Monday night which, as someone remarked, produced no front-page news – even for the The Westmount Examiner.

The agenda included an appointment confirmation, three building-permit motions, the August accounts, a report on gasoline bidding, two congratulatory statements and a summary of a letter to the mayor – items concerning all of which will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Absent were Aldermen Ian Craig and Douglas Robertson. Present were three onlookers – a pair of "mutton chops", a beard and a fine head of hair – and Public Safety Director Edward C. Harper.

200 youths turn out, elect seven new reps

Over 200 teenagers turned out last night at Victoria Hall for a well-ordered Mayor's Youth Action Committee-sponsored rally, which heard many positive suggestions and expressions of wishes of Westmount young people.

The meeting also elected a new slate of seven youth representatives to serve with the seven adults of the committee.

Progress and problems to date were reviewed, followed by 16 nominations for representatives – which resulted in a complicated ballot-counting. Long after the two-hour meeting adjourned at 9:40 pm, tallying was going on by hand and eventually moved to the nearby Examiner office where adding machines were brought into play. Shortly before midnight, the following were declared elected.

Ernie Bergeron
Sarah Compton
Richard Greenblatt
James Kelly
Wilson Lewis
Kathe Lippel
Michael Millman

The names only, in alphabetical order were announced. No vote totals were given but it is understood that several of the candidates were close.

Much of the discussion, following the balloting, had to do with lack of communication and representation particularly of non-Westmount High School youth. Ideas ranged, too, over the oft-mentioned coffee house and ombudsman.

Mayor Peter M. McEntyre at one point, asked to reply to a question made from the floor, emphasized that the role of the committee was to advise the mayor and aldermen on youth problems, and the committee also had taken on certain responsibilities. He hoped there might be a meeting place created, "but not tomorrow – it must come later after some major questions, such as financing, are settled."

Kathe Lippel chaired the meeting.

Flat sacked

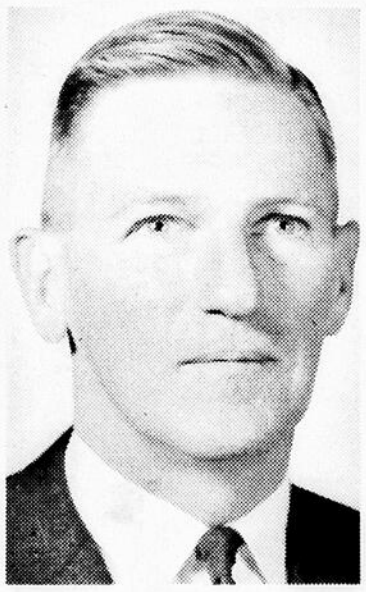

A three-and-a-half-room apartment at Hillside House, 4400 St. Catherine street west, was ransacked last Thursday sometime between 2:30 and 11:30 pm.

Message from The Mayor

The opening of Dawson College marks an important first in the history of Westmount, as it brings us the first public institution of higher learning ever to locate within our borders.

We have heard with interest of the academic plans for this new community college. These plans promise new achievements in academic freedom and a new flexibility of approach to the real needs of the future.

I am sure that all citizens of Westmount join me in wishing the administrators, faculty members and students every success in their work.

Dawson College occupies buildings in a part of our city which has been under study for some time. We are giving considerable thought to the possible pattern of land use in that district, for the greater good of all people concerned.

The presence of the college will have direct influence on planning for that area under our broad urban renewal scheme, and we hope that the faculty and students will make a direct contribution to the planning process.

Peter M. McEntyre
Mayor of Westmount

NEXT WEEKS' WEATHER

By ERIC NEAL

SEPTEMBER 20 to 27

Commencing mainly sunny with blue skies and relatively mild nights, it will be quite cool this week. We can have heavy morning ground frosts in the south, killing frosts in the mountains and snow flurries in the north and east.

Indian Summer always starts three days before the "Hunters' Full Moon."

Hurricanes 6 and 7 already making trouble. Cold, tree-damaging gale winds may be expected at this time.

To end the week, windy but improving generally and much milder. Good hunting weather. Fishing fair all day.

Temp. range: 30 and 60 to 65°F. Rain, ¼". Snow, trace.

A calm, almost-relaxed Director-General Paul Gallagher, a new administrative and faculty organization seemingly running smoothly, presided this week over the opening of Québec's first English-language CEGEP; the general and vocational Dawson College on Westmount's Selby street.

His full first-year registration of 1,800 students were engaged in orientation week activities in such widely separated places as N.D.G.'s Trenholme Park (a ball game last night) and the McGill campus (an entertainment tomorrow night), and closer within the home community with briefings and welcomings at the Avenue Theatre and the RMR armory.

Thus the scheduled start was made, on time and with few hitches despite the fact that contractors are still at work on the former factory building which is the "campus" centre. All but the laboratories and full dining facilities will be ready when formal classes commence on Tuesday morning.

Talk of demonstrations was being downplayed by all concerned; if some peaceful picketing takes place, no one is going to be particularly concerned.

In this issue of The Examiner the students and staff of Dawson College are welcomed with "The Dawson College Bit," commencing on page 11. Two thousand complimentary copies are being made available to the college to help those new to Westmount to get acquainted, and for our regular Westmount readers to learn about Dawson College, a new community institution.

Happening at armory well done

By ED SANCTON

The students of Dawson College Monday night got together for the first event on this week's schedule of orientation.

As students poured into the Royal Montreal Regiment armory on St. Catherine street, the rain, too, poured down but it did not hinder the enthusiasm of the two to three hundred hairy and happy students proud of Dawson's disregard for obscure high school regulations.

Seated on the gym floor, Quebec's first English CEGEP students were given a brief and thus popular welcome by Principal Paul Gallagher.

Then the main attraction, a concert by the five-member folk group, Rings N' Things. From the opening song, "Lets Get Together," to the final "Let The Sunshine In," they were enjoyed very much although the accoustics in the gym were quite poor.

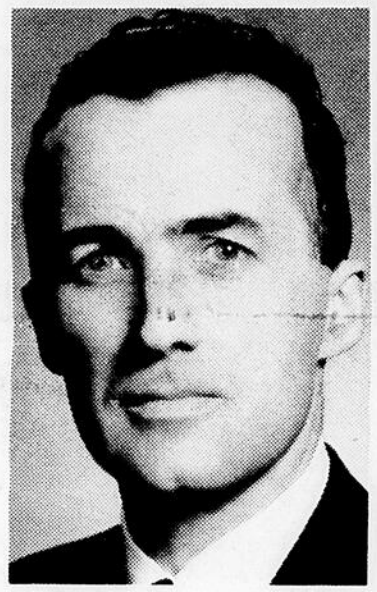

When it was all over thanks were given for the use of the armory, and it was a successful start for Dawson.

Message from Director-General

Dear Westmount Citizens:

I am delighted to have the opportunity of addressing a few remarks to you on the occasion of the opening of Dawson College.

In every sense we think of ourselves as a "community" college. Our students and their teachers form the nucleus of this community and will substantially influence the tone and character of the college. Other members of the Dawson community, like myself, hope to be able to provide the climate and circumstances in which our students and teachers can best become a true "community of learners". But all of us working energetically and in harmony will still fail to realize our objectives if we must depend totally upon ourselves.

The world is our community – Canada is our community – Quebec is our community – and Westmount is our community. Unless we can eventually make ourselves useful to each of these larger communities we will have done an injustice to our students. We feel that, in time and with help, we have a very good chance of making a valuable contribution to our society.

This, then, is a request. On behalf of all members of the immediate Dawson community, I ask that we be accepted into the Westmount community, as friends and co-citizens of a kind.

At the same time, I want to assure you that our College is also yours. We wish to be of service to you not only for the benefits which you might reap but also because we know that our service to you will be of benefit to us as well.

If I may, let me welcome you to Dawson College and I am confident that all of us will come to merit your welcome in Westmount.

Paul Gallagher,
Director-General
Dawson College.

Star Night set for tomorrow at park corner

At least 20 telescopes, with which the general public will be offered views of the moon, Mars, double stars, star clusters, galaxies and other wonders of space, are to be set up in Westmount Park tomorrow night by members of the Montreal Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada.

There will also be a program of astronomical and space travel motion pictures, illustrated talks and question-and-answer periods.

The site will be the open area near the corner of Melville avenue and de Maisonneuve boulevard west. It's a rain-or-shine event; should the skies not be favorable, the program will take place at the artificial ice rink and the equipment will be set up so that it can be inspected.

The program for "Star Night" commences at 8 pm.

Indian summer due in a week

Capt. Neal, in a note from his Laurentian retreat, provides a bit of extra forecasting for the season:

"This year, Indian Summer starts the last week of September. We will have snowflurries in October and a heavy fall in November, probably the 16th or 18th, also a very cold, clear sky Christmas Shopping Week."

Clip this out; check the accuracy of these predictions.

Stolen scooter caught 'on wing'

The sixth sense of a patrolling Westmount policeman led to the recovery of a stolen motor scooter before its owner knew it was missing and the arrest of the driver and his passenger Saturday evening.

The scooter was spotted, without lights, going west on Selby and south on Hallowell to St. Antoine where it was stopped by a patrol car. The driver was asked for the registration, which he couldn't produce.

Back at the police station it was soon discovered that the machine had been stolen a short time before near Tupper and Closse streets, in Montreal.

Montreal Police of No. 10 Station picked up scooter and arrested pair, taking over the case.

TEXACO wins big contract for gasoline

Texaco Canada Limited pumps will be working a little harder and longer in the 12 months ahead, supplying 40,000 gallons of premium and 150,000 gallons of regular gasoline for the approximately 100 vehicles of all kinds operated by the City of Westmount.

The contract was approved by City Council Monday evening following a report by City Clerk Ron Seaman on the opening of tenders.

Texaco was the lowest of four bidders at $26,751, plus tax at 19 cents per gallon. They just edged out Petrofina Canada Limited at $26,975 and B.P. Canada Limited at $27,175.

Out of the ball park was Gulf Oil, the erstwhile British-American, who asked $30,880 for the same quantities of fuel.

Just to make Westmount owners of Continentals and Fleetwoods, as well as of Chevs and VWs, green with envy, the city will be getting its premium petrol, tax included, at 36.79 cents per gallon, its regular gas for 32.09 cents.

Accounts down from last year

August accounts submitted to City Council Monday evening by Ald. Jean H. Richer, in the absence of Finance Commissioner Ald. G.I. Craig, showed payrolls of $224,820.87 and accounts payable of $299,026.62, for a total of $523,847.49 paid out during the month.

This was some $48,000 less than in August 1968 due to five payroll periods last year against four this year and approximately $27,000 of special items paid out in the previous year and not recurring last month.

"These accounts are open to scrutiny and inspection", said Mr. Richer. "I see nothing suspicious!"

Promoted

Acting Assistant City Clerk Alfred Andre (Pete) Patenaude was, effective yesterday, promoted to Assistant City Clerk by an unanimous City Council resolution Monday night.

City Manager Norman Dawe told City Council Monday night it is hoped to hear officially in a month's time from the Quebec Housing Corporation the fate – hopefully approval – of Westmount's urban renewal scheme.

The information was provided upon a question from Mayor Peter M. McEntyre for any information following passage of three long-winded motions asking QHC's permission to grant building permits in the renewal zone, in the southern part of the city.

The mayor had first asked how long council would have to continue the cumbersome procedure, to which the reply from Mr. Dawe was that as soon as the scheme got the green light from Quebec, the city then would resume the power to grant permits without outside permission so long as the work to be done was within the concept of the renewal plan as approved.

In the only business of the evening occasioning what might be called discussion, Mr. Dawe said that under the terms of a six-month extension for approval, the provincial housing body had until late November to decide, but he hoped word would come sooner.

How long?

Ald. Jean H. Richer asked the general manager how long the interim procedure for obtaining permits took. About three weeks, said Mr. Dawe.

Ald. D. O'C. Doheny thought the drill was cumbersome and in some cases the delay might work hardship. Mr. Dawe said there had been no problem yet and, in an urgent situation, "we can always reach them (QHC) by telephone".

In one of Monday's cases, Weredale House was installing new boilers, which involved opening a wall and eventually closing it again. In fact approval had already been given for the work in anticipation of authority to issue a permit.

This brought a question from Ald. Charles Aspler, an architect, as to why in such a case a building permit was required at all. Said Mr. Dawe: So that there is no possibility of an architectural change in the reconstructed wall.

The other two cases involved Midtown Motors Ltd., installing a new paint chamber, and other repairs to its premises formerly known as Montreal Buick Ltd. on St. Cathrerine street, just west of Atwater avenue, and some front-porch work on the home of D. Mitianin at 133 Irvine avenue.

Director Harper is congratulated

Mayor Peter M. McEntyre Monday night offered congratulations, in behalf of City Council, to Westmount Director of Public Safety Edward C. Harper upon his recent election as national president of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs.

Citizen letter wins accolade from Mayor

While no formal correspondence was placed before Monday evening's mid-month City Council meeting, Mayor P. M. McEntyre noted is particular one letter among many which come to municipal first magistrates, praising, condemning or being helpful.

This one, in the last category said His Worship, had been received from Mrs. W. V. Crossen, 333 Lansdowne avenue, and was notably for the variety of useful suggestions. Among here points were:

- Publicity by the City directed to dog owners, requesting them to curb their dogs close to trees.
- Investigate additional parking on the rear of Victoria Hall and post "No Outlet" signs on the west drive.
- One evening a week, music for senior citizens at the kiosk in Westmount Park.
- The possibility of 10-minute parking in the vicinity of the Prince Albert Avenue Post Office.
- Investigate improving traffic circulation at the intersection of Arlington avenue and Cote St. Antoine road.
- Greater financial help to "Operation Snoopy" in Staynor Park.

We Say

It's happy outlook for Dawson College

Last winter, shortly after it was announced that Dawson College was to be located in Westmount, we heard Principal Paul Gallagher speak on two occasions, the second strengthening our conviction from the first that here was going to be one institution of higher learning which was going to experience a minimum of student unrest.

We do not mean to suggest that, presto, a new, just-opening junior college, happening to be located here, suddenly has all the answers which have so perplexed university administrators and students so generally these past few years.

For, after all, some of the problems are not rooted so much simply in educational philosophy or even just tired and diehard attitudes of entrenched establishment. The most general cause of student unrest is as old as mankind – the gap between the generations. Dawson we defy to securely bridge that.

However, there is one thing we wager Dawson will do: It will blow fresh, clean air into the relationships between administration and faculty, on the one hand, and the very people for whom – as Mr. Gallagher emphasises – the institution of learning exists: the student.

This institution simply has no establishment in the desparaging sense of the word. There is no crusty board of governors; it is a new and earnest bunch. There are no fuddy-duddies on the faculty; they are a freshly hand-picked assortment of people, the best from a much larger group who have sought posts at Dawson.

There are no age-encrusted, hidebound, outworn rules. In fact, there are few rules. Mr. Gallagher has made it clear from the start, and has been emphasizing it this week, that virtually all the rules are to be made by the students themselves.

It, therefore, is a fascinating experiment.

If there is to be any nervousness about it at all, by adults on the sidelines and perhaps by the students themselves, it is in the fact that this is an assemblage of 1,800 youngsters, almost all just out of high school, few with any other experience of any higher-education environment: no sophomores, let along junior or seniors.

They will find their way because the whole idea is that youth IS to be trusted.

The whole thing is exciting. Oh, to be 17 or 18 years of age again!

Welcome to Westmount, all you Dawson people.

Hurrah for youths and Action action

While speaking glowingly of one youthful group, we must also remark what a pleasure it was to witness a generally younger, longer-term Westmount group in action last night in Victoria Hall.

Suddenly the Mayor's Youth Action Committee is springing into real flower. An attitude of trust and respect pervaded the discussion as well as the way in which these 200-plus youngsters went about electing their new representatives.

Our mid-summer concerns that this community movement of teenagers may wither away have now faded.

Here's another bunch of kids who have it going for them, primarily because they are getting it going for themselves.

The silver lining in valuation hike

There is nothing like a threat, real or imagined, to the pocket book to awaken people.

That's what this hefty municipal valuation has done. In the past fortnight more Westmounters have learned more about how their city works.

And that's a good thing – so long as next year's tax bills don't bear out some fears.

You Say

Inter-municipal taxes worry property owner

Sir: The Westmount taxpayer must have all the facts at his disposal if he is to understand the implications of the new tax roll.

If Westmount were an autonomous state or a city surrounded by a wall, the tax roll could be set at any level and the tax rates adjusted accordingly. But the truth is that Westmount sale values and taxes are directly related to the Quebec economy, the policies of the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation, the school boards and indirectly to the St. Leonard issues.

During the last three years, municipal taxes in Westmount have increased as much as 35 percent and school taxes 45 percent. This, combined with the Quebec situation, has undoubtedly produced a lack of confidence in Westmount real estate with resulting lower sale prices and very little new development. The Financial Post, in a leading front page editorial on Sept. 6, put the problem very clearly.

> Few elements of Quebec life are not now affected by the current of uncertainty over Quebec's future. Many teachers have no contracts and some students haven't a school to go to. Householders are seeing the value of their real estate falling and labour sees a growing gap between the number of jobs and the work force.

In the Montreal Star of Sept. 11, the new Westmount roll was reported to have been set considerably higher than the traditional Montreal 85 percent of real value. The result of this action will mean increased inter-municipal and school taxes.

In all honesty, it must be assumed that the Westmount Council did not give consideration to the effect of this increase on individual school taxes. The school boards have always used the Montreal municipal values as a norm and applied the Montreal school mill rate to the other towns and cities in their jurisdiction. I recall a case in Montreal West in which the Protestant school board assessors agreed that the municipal valuation on a particular property was too high, but they refused to reduce their valuation below the municipal level. On this basis, the school boards will assume that Westmount has brought their valuation roll up to the Montreal level and will apply the Montreal mill rate to the new roll. Westmount officials are quick to state that they have no direct control over school taxes, but they do control the roll on which school taxes are based.

Any Westmount tax payer can figure his school taxes for 1971-2 in advance:

The new valuation x 1.60 – the present mill rate for Montreal – a shocking increase over and above the amount required by the school boards.

The new Westmount valuations will in effect hand the school boards a large tax bonus they do not need. In addition, the federal government has established an austerity program for federal, provincial and municipal and school taxes will be inflationary, will further weaken confidence in real estate, and will force down sale values. Surely this is not the time to increase valuations and taxes.

Under similar circumstances in most municipalities, there would be a body of opinion and a citizens' group who would negotiate the voluntary freezing of the roll to provide time for discussion with the school boards and others concerning the level of individual tax increases. However, in Westmount there is a great civic apathy and a complete lack of knowledge of the policies of the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation and the school boards. For this reason it would be difficult to find a group of taxpayers with enough interest to arrange for a freezing of the roll.

In the meantime, taxpayers are invited to cut out this letter as a constant reminder of another round of heavy tax increases in 1970-71-72.

Norton A. Fellowes
4669 Grosvenor Avenue,
Montreal 247.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Fellowes owns properties in Westmount. He does not mention that before uniform inter-municipal and school tax rates are levied against area municipalities, equalization factors are applied against the various valuation rolls, raising or lowering them, to bring them into line with that of the City of Montreal.)

Ideas!

Summer is lingering on in Ottawa. The tennis season continues in full swing, swimming is still a pleasure and backyard tans have not yet started to fade. There is, however, one unmistakable sign of autumn. The politicians are back in town. Not all of them, of course, but more than enough to be noticeable.

Planning

Planning is the order of the day. Ministers are concentrating on their departments and committee meetings. The Liberal caucus has just concluded two days of meetings and the Opposition is busy devising strategy for the forthcoming session.

Perhaps now is as good a time as any to solicit your advice as to whether changes should be made to the format of this column.

I am most grateful to have this space made available so that I can communicate with you. While I try to choose subjects which are both topical and of national interest and to present them as fairly as possible, it is nevertheless a one way street – a monologue.

While this approach has some merit, a little variation might appeal to you. University courses consisting solely of set-piece lectures, delivered by no matter how distinguished and brilliant a professor, tend after a time to lose the audience's interest.

For this reason I am asking you for suggestions on how to vary the mix some weeks. One idea that mignt commend itself would be an effort to establish some public dialogue.

Debate?

It comes to my notice from time to time that certain positions taken (or not taken) by the government cause controversy in the constituency. Perhaps you would consider it a useful exercise to use this space occasionally to debate such matters.

At any rate I would like to receive your opinions on this suggestion as well as any other ideas you might have as to changes which might be made or topics which might usefully be discussed.

Use persuasion Quebecers told by Paul Ouimet

Five hundred members of the Quebec Chamber of Commerce, meeting in Baie Comeau, were told Saturday by Paul A. Ouimet, QC, 58 Sunnyside avenue, former Westmount alderman and president and director general of the General Council of Industry of Quebec, that Québecers should use their natural superiority in the arts of communications and persuasion to expand to province's industries and markets toward a strong, united Canada.

He urged Chamber members to "multiply your contacts with your confreres of the other provinces" particularly Ontario.

"Our language, our traditions, our native intelligence must not isolate us but, on the contrary, urge us forward outside ourselves," he said.

Cable slips, heavy bucket hits vehicles

A potentially serious accident occurred on de Maisonneuve boulevard west shortly after 9 am Saturday when a cable slipped, allowing a heavy steel bucket used for hoisting concrete for the erection of the Alexis Nihon apartment tower to swing across the street, causing assorted damage to four parked vehicles. Fortunately, the cars were unoccupied and no passing traffic or pedestrians were in the path of the projectile.

where were they going?

850 junior high-schoolers now in St. Paul's

Twenty-five classes, numbering about 850 junior high school students in Grade 8 and 9, are operating this year at St. Paul's Academy.

These are in addition to 220 elementary grade pupils at St. Paul's.

Two years ago, when the Westmount Catholic School Commission was dissolved and its responsibilities taken over by the Montreal Catholic School Commission, local schooling of Roman Catholic high school students all but disappeared. In the English-language sector, only five junior high school classes remained all the other senior students being transferred to schools outside Westmount, particularly Marymount in N.D.G.

Both local parental protests and pressure on Marymount facilities brought on a rethink. Late in August the MCSC let a contract for a quick conversion of St. Paul's space, formerly the living quarters of the sisters who taught in the school, into nine additional classrooms.

St. Paul's Academy on Cote St. Antoine road

The space was unoccupied by the nuns last year; they had moved their quarters to the Mother House nearby on Sherbrooke street. This week, the conversion work still was in progress while teachers and students were making do with existing classrooms.

Rev. Sister Mulcair, principal of the St. Paul's elementary school, told The Examiner that the last French-language classes had been moved this year to nearby St. Leo's, thus reducing the number of English-speaking pupils to make way for the high school influx.

The Grades 8 and 9, though in the same building, have their own principal, J. P. White. Administratively, the junior high school is under the management of Marymount High School as an annex.

Five WHS grads McGill winners

Five of this year's graduates of Westmount High School have been awarded seven McGill University scholarships.

Included in a list released this week were:

Two Sidney J. Hodgson Scholarship, value minimum of $100 but which may be extended to tuition fees, board and resiarships, which are restricted to WHS students, for $300 for engineering or $275 for arts and science and for one year only, were awarded, one to Michael S. Reynolds and the other, shared, to Ellen Garmaise and Corinne A. Haw.

Miss Garmaise and Miss Haw also each won a University Entrance Scholarship, value minimum of $100 but which may be extended to tuition fees, board and residence where applicable, and renewable annually. Similar scholarships were awarded to Monique Isler and Elizabeth M. Spankie.

$60 from car

While a couple was taking a walk on the Summit Monday evening about 9:30 pm, a purse was stolen from the seat of their parked car. It was later found, thrown below the lookout minus the $60 cash it had contained, the property of an unfortunate – and careless, said police – Town of Mount Royal woman.

One holiday to Christmas

When classes begin at Dawson College Tuesday, there will be only one break Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 13 – until the winter recess begins Dec. 20.

The New Year resumption will be Jan. 5 with the first semester finishing Jan. 16. From Jan. 12 to 16 will be the first "evaluation period." Dawsonese for examinations and their equivalent. Jan. 17 to 24 will be taken up with second-semester registration during which there will be no formal classes.

Second semester will start Jan. 26, running through – except for Good Friday and Easter Monday – to last classes May 8. Final evaluation runs from May 11 to 22.

Last day for registration for the 1970-71 session has already been set, at Feb. 27. Students of 1969-70 will not be required to reapply.

Information concerning the proposed summer session will be announced in February.

Nine officers administrators

There are nine active administrative officers of Dawson College.

In addition to Paul Gallagher, BA, MEd, director-general, they include Louis F. Sontra, BA, BSc, co-ordinator of educational services; Sylvia McDonald, MA, PhD, general chairman, curriculum, and chairman of arts and humanities division; Michael A. Steinman, BA, registrar; Bernard McNamee, BA, MLS, chief librarian; Mary Barrett, BN, BA, MScN, chairman of nursing education division; John Denton, MA, PhD, chairman of mathematics and sciences division; Philip A. Wood, BSc, BASc, director of administrative services, and Michael Dewdney, BA, resources co-ordinator.

Scheduling goes smoothly

Scheduling of classes at Dawson College has gone smoothly, the students themselves in many cases drawing up their own timetables from master lists of courses and times. These were checked out as students registered last week.

Paul Gallagher, director-general of the college, said that classes should start without major hitches next Tuesday.

However, it is expected that there will be a two-week period of adjustment of individual timetables where, inevitably, some conflicts of courses and times will appear.

7-man board of governors

A seven-man board of governors directs Dawson College and includes the two senior-most administrative officers of the college.

Chairman is Charles G. Southmayd.

Director-General Paul Gallaghar and Co-ordinator of Educational Services Louis Sontra are members along with Richard B. Holden, advocate, who lives at 359 Kensington avenue, Westmount; Samuel Madras, Frank McLaughlin and Leonard Rosen.

FINAL REGISTRATION OF 1,800 QUICKLY COMPLETED

Final registration of students, which took place last week, was completed Friday at Dawson College.

Director-General Paul Gallagher said this week that the first-year complement of 1,800 students was filled.

If there had been no limit of facilities, how many might have registered?

Possibly 3,000, he said. However, this is difficult to estimate because of the number of would-be students who applied to Dawson as well as to other institutions and, in the end, would have in any event opted for someplace else.

However, Mr. Gallagher guessed that there were "several hundred" who have had to be turned away.

The overall situation is, in fact, improved this year. The principal said that with other institutions offering just about the same number of places to first-year students this year as last, with the exception of Montreal Institute of Technology which offered 300 places now switched to Dawson, the new local college has in effect added 1,500 new post-secondary places available to the English-speaking students of the province.

Dawson name illustrious in education

The name "Dawson College" was suggested by a special sub-committee of the organizing committee for an English-language CEGEP in metropolitan Montreal and was incorporated into the charter granted to the college.

This special sub-committee's proposal was prompted by two related factors: Sir William Dawson had been an illustrious scholar - scientist - educational administrator of 19th century Montreal whose contribution deserved to be remembered appropriately, and an earlier Dawson College of McGill University – located in St-John in the post-war years – had been an important social and professional force which could serve as an inspiration to the new Dawson College.

Incorporated under the General and Vocational Colleges Act on Sept. 3, 1968, the college has been established in response to a request made to the Minister of Education on behalf of the English-speaking community of metropolitan Montreal by a college organizing committee formed in May 1967.

The college offers a variety of interrelated patterns of study (or programs of study) intended to meet the needs of a variety of students as well as the requirements of the universities and business and industry.

Each pattern of study is related to a specific career goal, such as engineering or radiography or computer science. However, since the requirements of various career goals have common elements and since many students may not have definite career goals when they begin college, the patterns of study have been designed in such a way as to permit some students to meet the requirements of several patterns of study at the same time, specially in the first year of college life.

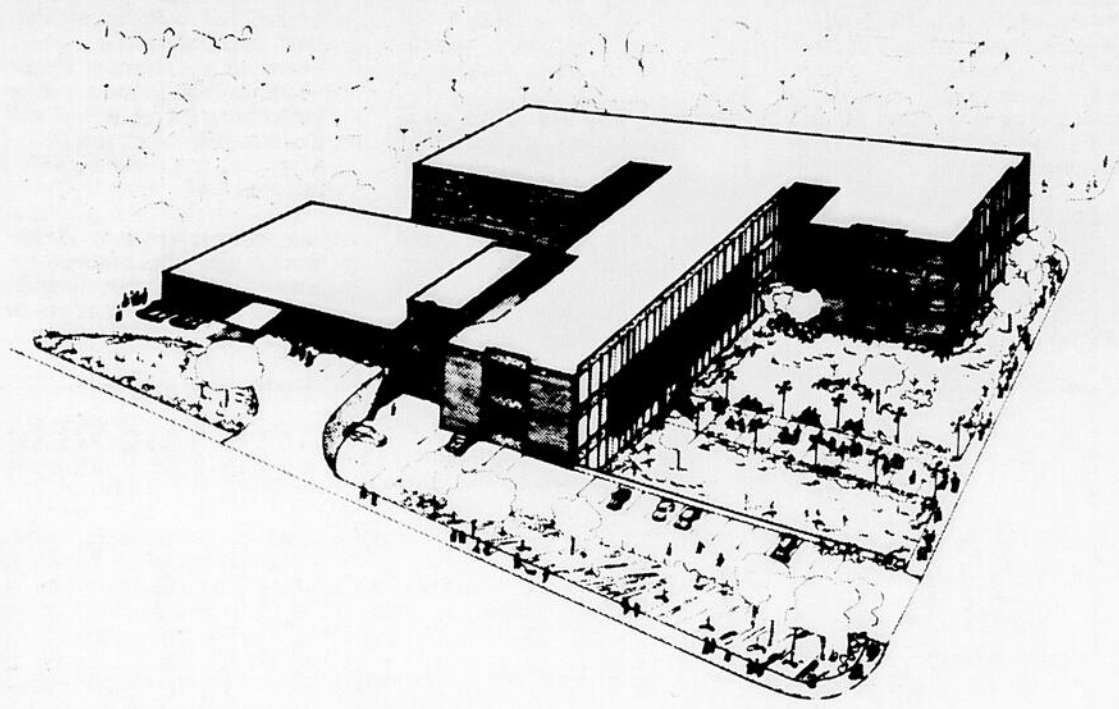

Physical plant near complete

The physical plant of Dawson College, the former Frosst pharmaceutical factory fronting on Selby, Hallowell and St. Antoine streets, will be remarkably near complete when lectures commence next Tuesday morning.

Three floors will be ready to go next week. The fourth, embracing the laboratories and the dining facilities, should be completely operational by mid-October – not considered any great inconvenience in the meantime.

Lab work is not likely to be undertaken in the first two weeks, and temporary catering arrangements are being made which gradually will phase into the full-scale facilities which will accomodate some 400 persons for eating at one time.

Due to the staggered schedules of students, there will be no "lunch hour" as such, rendering the dining facilities adequate for the nearly 2,000 persons, students and faculty, in the building.

Faculty, 100-strong, brings impressive array of degrees

An impressive array of qualifications marks the well-rounded first-year faculty of Westmount's Dawson College, numbering 87 full and 13 part time members: an even one hundred listed in the calendar.

The array is impressive because many times the number required for the 1969-70 session applied for positions on the staff, attracted by the challenge of a new institution implementing new ideas and concepts.

These are the teaching staff, grouped by their departments:

Physics: David A. Adley, BSc (McGill) Msc (Minnesota); Basim A. Assaf, BSc (Bagdad) MSc (McGill); Stella Benmussa, BSc, MSc (N. Carolina State); Arnod Dagenais, BSc (Sir George); Ian A. Use of French interchangeable with English

Students at Dawson College are free to submit tests, projects, reports, etc., in either French or English.

The college offers, where feasible, the opportunity to students to follow any course in either English or French. It is a college goal to create a spirit which will encourage most students to pursue at least part of their studies in French.

All students will be required to demonstrate their proficiency in French prior to graduation from Dawson College.

Standards of proficiency will be determined by the academic council on the recommendation of the department of French.

Students are encouraged to enroll in such courses as will ensure that they reach this level of proficiency.

While some students may receive exemptions from some French courses because they already have achieved a measure of proficiency, students are encouraged to elect French in each term until they have reached a level of proficiency required for successful completion of their patterns of study. Students will be tested to help them select the appropriate level of French course.

No tuition fees levied on students from Quebec

There is no tuition fee at Dawson College for Quebec residents.

Canadian students not resident of Québec are required to pay $100 per academic year and non-Canadians who are not landed immigrants are charged $200.

Students who carry four or fewer courses in a semester are assessed varying fees, and there is $5 caution fee for each laboratory course each semester.

It is expected that there will be a student activity fee assessment, but since student activities are largely in the hands of the students themselves this will not be determined until the student body has the opportunity to form its own organization of student government.

This week's orientation activities for students included morning meetings Tuesday, yesterday and today at the Avenue Theatre on Greene avenue, when both academic and extra-curricular organization was being shaped.

Monday evening the entire student body was invited to a social get-together at the Royal Montreal Regiment armory on St. Catherine street, and there will be a theatre night on the McGill University campus tomorrow.

Heavy emphasis placed on role of the student

The heavy emphasis being placed on the role of the student in the life and work of Dawson College is exemplified by eight officers designated under "Student Services" rather than "Administrative."

Heading this key aspect of implementation of policy, which seeks to put as much decision-making as feasible in the hands of the students, is W. Huntley Cameron, BA, director of student services.

Co-ordinator of counselling services is Barbara Conrad, BSc, MEd; co-ordinators of co-curricular activities, Gerald Kelly, BEd, MA, and Michael Ruckenstein, BA, BPE; co-ordinator of staff-student liaison, Robert Little, BA, MEd; co-ordinator of external relations, Roxanne Pavageau, BA, MSc; Elizabeth Sadler, BN, nurse, and Leslie Swaine, BA, MASc, counsellor.

Pre-university, technological two study patterns

Dawson College offers two orientations of study, pre-university and technological.

Each pattern of study is composed of three basic elements: the core, which is common to all patterns of study; the courses which are required by the career goal of the student, and the electives which are intended to encourage students to explore their own areas of preference and to expand the range of learning experience.

The core

Each pattern of study includes one course in English and one course in humanities each term.

However, each course in English and in humanities has several sections and students have the opportunity to choose sections which are of particular interest to them. Each section of each course has the same basic objective, but the orientation, teaching procedures, reading lists and general approach to the course differ from section to section.

Students who wish to go on to university studies after college are required to complete successfully 24 courses. Each course is of one term in length (half of an academic year). Students normally pursue six courses each term and thereby complete pre-university studies in two years. Exceptionally, students may pursue more than, or less than, six courses in a term.

Pre-university programs are offered in arts, biological science, physical science (engineering) and commerce. Successful completion of a pre-university program will enable one to seek admission to a university in the Province of Quebec for a bachelor's degree, most of which will require three additional years.

Technological

Students who wish to go directly into careers in business or industry or community service after college are required to complete 36 courses. Each course is of one term in length (half of an academic year). Students normally will thereby complete their studies in three years..

The number of hours per week for individual courses varies. Some courses involve laboratory work, others include tutorial sessions, still others involve a variety of student activities. In any event, the involvement of the student is far more important than the number of hours devoted at the college to a course. All patterns of study should demand roughly equal involvement by students.

Admission requirements to technological studies are basically the same as those to pre-university programs. Technological programs are offered in the following fields:

Engineering technologies: Chemical technology, civil technology (construction), mechanical technology, electrical technology and mechanical technology (drafting).

Arts technologies: Community leadership, social work aid and applied arts.

Para-medical technologies: Inhalation therapy, radiography, medical lab technology and nursing (commencing September 1970).

Business technologies: Business administration, date processing and secretarial science.

Additional technologies are under study for the 1970-71 academic year.

Library to bar book renewals

For more than a year the Westmount Public Library has experimented by allowing a greater number of books to be borrowed – from five to 10 per card.

This has proved popular with the members and the library is prepared to continue this policy.

The loan period for most books was established years ago as 28 days, with the thought that this gave people ample time to read their book, and no renewals would permitted. Over the years this has not been firmly enforced, with the result that many people take out more than they can read in the month allowed and return asking that several be renewed.

At the same time there is an increasing cry that "we have looked for months for this book and it is never on the shelves!"

This problem has been discussed and pondered by the circulation desk and the policy that seems fairest to all is to retain the increased number of books allowed on each card but, after Oct. 1, to enforce the long standing no-renewal rule.

Perhaps members who are inconvenienced by this ruling will console themselves with the thought that in many libraries the loan period is two weeks only.

Bulletins from Birdland:

Shell openers

Did you ever think that birds are born twice? The little germ in the egg is surrounded by stored-up nourishment in the form of albumen, and thus the young bird grows until able to twist and turn inside the shell. Finally, it breaks out – or is born for the second time.

Have you ever watched a songbird, such as a Robin, emerging from its cramped quarters? The whole process takes many hours. At first a tiny hole appears, then the small bill shows through. Taking rests between periods of great effort, the baby bird within punctures holes all around the shell, sometimes slightly helped from without by the pecking of its mother, until the shell falls apart. Soon the parent has cleared away any little bits of shell from the nest, carrying them, one at a time, to some nearby perch where she often eats them instead of throwing them away.

Most newly-born songbirds are at this stage blind, quite helpless, and naked except for a few tufts of down, especially on the head. Gradually a whole coat of down is grown, and later still this is exchanged for feathers. Kingfishers are among the few birds that do not have down before the real plumage.

Shore birds come from eggs that are large in proportion to the size of the parent. They take longer to hatch than young songbirds, so that the eggs must be big to contain a large amount of food to last out many more days. Killdeer eggs take 28 days to develop, but then the baby is well advanced, and is able to run around as soon as the covering of down is dry. A Chipping Sparrow emerges from the shell in 9 or 10 days, but is incapable of leaving home for another 10 or 12 days.

Some kinds of birds have a little horny point on the bill with which they punch the holes in their shells in order to break them open. This "egg tooth", as it is called, falls off in about three days as it is of no more use. Instead of making a series of holes in the shell, a baby Sora Rail saws it off.

Eggs differ in colour and shape. Most Owls build in cavities, so have white, round eggs. Though hidden from enemies they show up for the incubating bird, and cannot roll away. Murres place their eggs on ledges of cliffs, so Nature makes them sharply pointed at one end, to twirl around instead of roll off, and decorates them to match the rock.

made in the roll by the assessor; thus, appeals to a board of revision are necessary.

The board is comprised of Judge A. McT. Stalker; Donald A. Baillie, a realtor, and Andrew S. Rutherford, an engineer. It is expected that they will start hearing the appeals about mid-October.

The city budget is required by provincial law to be drawn up sometime between Nov. 15 and Dec. 31. The tax rate is struck and bills sent out in January.

Deadline for filing valuation appeals is Oct. 3.

Westmount High School NEWS

By BILLIE PERCIVAL

The struggle begins anew this year to secure ads for Westmount High's Yearbook, the Vox Ducum. To finance the printing, it is essential that a substantial number be sold. Costs range from $15 to $80 and sizes, from 1/8 to 1 full page.

Serious consideration of such an investment is very much urged. Those wishing further information should contact Joseph Aspler, through the school. Assistance to the publication of the yearbook, in this manner, would be greatly appreciated.

Splash

Splash is new! Splash is a club with bright hopes for the coming school year. It provides a new, fresher image to the Red Cross Club which it has replaced.

At the moment, the choice of the executive is under consideration. The best of luck is extended to this club which will cater to a variety of local charities and sponsor cultural tours.

Philosophy

Under consideration at the moment is the introduction of a philosophy course at Westmount High School, as an extracurricular subject. Although no credits toward university would be given, this two-nights-a-week course would be taught by a professor from one of the universities.

The textbooks might be supplied by the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal. A minimum of 40 signatures is required by the board.

The project, if successful, would be a definite great enrichment to those students who would undertake it. As yet this project is only under speculation and highly undecided.

Vs. Marymount

Football kicks off to a start tomorrow as Westmount engages in combat against Marymount High School. This first game is a home game, behind the school.

Much of the outcome will depend on the support shown by fellow students. Help your school by cheering on to victory your team – Westmount.

200 books

What do these all have in common? These subjects are some of those covered with the purchase of close to 200 new books for the Westmount High School Library. Good reading is definitely assured in the long school year to come.

We take part

Westmount had one of its pumpers at Outremont yesterday for a demonstration of new techniques for extinguishing interior fires, presented by the Westmount, Mount Royal, St. Laurent and Outremont brigades – four cities which have an operative mutual-aid fire-fighting agreement.

TEXT OF WMA LETTER ON VALUATION

Following is the text of letter mailed today to members of the Westmount Municipal Association, on the subject of property valuation, which should be interest to all local rate-payers:

Dear Member:

Westmount property-owners received some 10 days ago a letter from Mayor Peter McEntyre indicating the new value of their property as assessed for municipal taxes. As the new assessment value represented for most taxpayers a substantial increase over the figure previously in effect, a number of members have enquired about the effect this will have on the taxes they will have to pay.

Your officers have discussed with Mayor McEntyre, the City's general manager, Norman Dawe, and other officials, the reasons for and the significance of the increased assessment values. Their comments will be of interest to you.

The legal requirement is that property should be assessed at its "real value" which is roughly equivalent to, though not necessarily the same as, market value. Recent statistics have indicated that assessment values in Westmount have generally been well below the prices at which properties have been bought and sold. In arriving at the new figures the City Assessor has attempted to bring assessed values and probable market values into line. The method of assessment used has had the effect of increasing the value of older houses proportionately more than the value of newer houses. This is because the formula previously used gave heavy weight to an age factor which was not, in fact, reflected in sales prices.

The City's total assessment roll is about one-third greater this year than last. This means that property-owners whose new assessed value is less than one-third higher will only be required to pay more taxes to the extent that City revenue requirements are greater than last year's. The actual money requirements will not be known until the budget is completed in November, but taxpayers may be sure that any increase in taxes payable will be substantially less than the percentage increase in the assessment.

The valuation procedure is not, of course, infallible, and a property-owner who feels that his new assessment is significantly greater than the price he might expect to receive on sale may wish to consider making an appeal. His first step should be to discuss the matter with the City Assessor at City Hall, who is required to explain to him the factors used in calculating the assessment. If he remains dissatisfied he may file a formal appeal to the Board of Revision on a form available at City Hall. This must be done no later than 3rd October, 1969. In due course his case will be heard by the board, who may or may not make a physical inspection of the property. If the tax-payer is dissatisfied with the Board's decision he is entitled to carry a further appeal to the courts.

Protestant school taxes should be unaffected by the new municipal valuation. In recent years the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal have applied an adjustment to assessment values in each municipality designed to correct for local differences in valuation bases. If Westmount values are high relative to Montreal values for equivalent properties the adjustment will be downward. The new roll will not apply to school taxes until the 1970/71 school year.

Yours sincerely,
V. G. Hobbes,
President.

First woman president for RCAFA wing here

No. 306 Maple Leaf Wing, Royal Canadian Air Force Association, has had its first official meeting in Westmount at its new quarters, 4450 Sherbrooke street west.

Last Wednesday evening they made it an historic occasion by electing and installing the first woman president of a wing of the RCAFA – Miss Loraine B. Currie, an employee of the Aluminium Company of Canada and long-time keen type of the wing.

For the too-young-to-remember, 4450 Sherbrooke is the slightly aged red brick building at the southwest corner at Metcalfe avenue which started life as the old Westmount telephone exchange

In the late 30s it became the headquarters of perhaps the most famous RCAF unit of the Second World War: the Auxiliary formation which went overseas as No. 1 Canadian Fighter Squadron in time to take part in the Battle of Britain. The unit, which included a number of Westmounters among its famous pilots, joined the fray with its Hurricanes from the old London base of Croydon.

Following the war, the squadron returned, now known as No. 401 (City of Westmount) Squardon, and used its old quarters as an active Reserve squadron until its reduction and move-in with another unit, and the building was closed. In the immediate post-war period, beside 401's activity, it was a popular gathering place for former airmen of the area.

Last winter, the Maple Leaf Wing successfully negotiated a purchase of the property from the Crown Assets Disposal Corporation and, since then, volunteer members have been refurbishing the place primarily as Wing quarters but with a longer-term plan for a senior citizens' residence on the site.

To this end nogitiations are afoot with owners of adjoining homes so as to acquire a larger parcel for construction eventually of a new building.

Meanwhile, next scheduled event of the wing will be a church parade this Sunday to an 11 am service at St. Matthias Church in commemoration of the Battle of Britain. A band is expected from Canadian Forces Base St. Hubert. Col. Harry Wentz will take the salute. Air Cadets will join in.

Other officers installed for 1969-70 included Harold Slee, chairman; Leonard Bunn, Nick Jarjour, Edward Mercier, Miss Marguerite Perry and Kim O'Byrne, vice-presidents; Robert Winterson, treasurer; Miss Ethel Henderson, assistant treasurer; Miss Lillian Brown, recording secretary, and Arthur Clibbon, secretary-manager.

Westmount YMCA announces fall, winter program start

Doug Devenne and Gary Boone

The Westmount YMCA announces the start of their fall and winter program on Monday. The aim of the branch this year is to increase the quality and quantity of program available to members.

Gary Boone, the physical education director who has been with the branch a year, has come up with an expanded physical program. This expansion takes the form of floor hockey, trampoline, wrestling for the boys and rhythmics, creative movements and team sports for girls. The popular programs from last year such as judo, life saving and speed swimming are still on the program.

The non-physical program area has been expanded by hiring Doug Devenne as part of the full-time staff. Doug came from Sir Goerge Williams University and the Montreal YMCA fellowship program.

Some additions to the non-physical program are the supervised large group activities for boys and girls 7-9 years old and the supervised club program for girls and boys 10-12 years old.

The teens will have a renovated drop-in centre operating every day after school from 4:00 - 6:00 p.m. On Friday night, the senior teens can organize interest groups, while Saturday night will be reserved for the 13-14 year olds.

One major innovation this year is a total Saturday program for all youth members. This involves swim and gym as well as supervided non-physical program from 8:30 - 2:30 for younger members and from 1:00 - 5:00 for teens in the drop-in centre as well as some gym and pool time.

Another program, started last year and continued this year by Gary and Doug, is "Parents' Day". The first one is this Saturday, 9:00 - 2:00.

Golf talk dominates Rotary; local club hears about Korea

By E. C. GANNON

Westmount Rotary members spent most of their luncheon time yesterday in duscussing scores at the golf tournament at Dunany last week. Ideal weather embellished a most enjoyable, afternoon and evening.

The consensus was that it was one of the most successful annual events yet held. Phil Everson took the low gross and ex-President Dan McLuskie scored low net, with Jack Palmer taking low net for the guests.

Luncheon speaker this week was Francis Han, president of the Canada-Korea Cultural Foundation, who reviewed Korean culture and civilization as well as native ways of life and thinking. The population is generally peace loving and all children are brought up from their infancy to follow the pattern of their fathers and mothers who basically teach love. In the development of children, character building is urged with emphasis on the developing of wisdom garnered from grandparents, he said.

"Learn how to live and enjoy life", was the philosophy of Korea, he said, the country showing the wisdom of the East combined with the knowledge of the West.

Introduced by Cy Dendy, the speaker was thanked by Frank Starr.

President Curt Ross urged committee members to submit reports on their activities as soon as possible, asking that members keep a weather eye on the Fun Frolic date, Sept. 27.
