Court action to follow:

Delinquent dog owners cautioned in PSU blitz

By LAUREEN SWEENEY

"Go home," said the public safety officer to the dog. And the unlicensed dog which was running loose Saturday in the play area of King George Park obligingly led the officer to its home on Belmont avenue.

That was one of 30 written incident reports regarding dogs logged during the past week by the Public Security Unit between May 8-14.

A blitz to remind Westmount dog owners to license and leash their animals, and particularly to clean up after them, is now under way, according to Director Sidney Ashford of the public safety force.

The city will be proceeding in court against some of the "delinquent" dog owners, as a result, according to Director Sidney Ashford.

In several of the cases, the citizens, all Westmount residents, are known as "habitual offenders" of the city's dog by-law. More than half the 32 dogs in the reports were found without dog licences.

Of the 24 dogs found running loose outside certain designated

New signs guide dogs in parks

Westmount dog owners are reminded to keep their dogs out of the playground areas of parks at all times and to obey the 74 signs regarding dogs which are now in place in parks.

The signs were put up at the end of last week by the Public Security Unit, reports Director Sidney Ashford who issued the warning about tot lots.

"Dogs can run on the dog runs between 7 pm and 9 am, but never in play areas."

The city's by-law is specific regarding the do's and don'ts of dogs in parks, he said. Owners must clean up after their dogs even on the dog runs, he said.

Dog runs are designated by 28 signs installed at the following park locations:

Summit Park, York sitting area, Claremont triangle, King George (Murray) Park, Westmount Park, Lansdowne Park, Prospect sitting area and Surrey Gardens.

Nine signs indicating "No Dogs Please" went up in certain areas of both Westmount and King

Breaker's reward is empty

Stealing hands found only empty boxes in a display window of a video shop on Victoria avenue after they broke the glass last Thursday, police report.

Nothing was stolen but $300 damage was caused to the window.

The incident about 4:59 am was believed to have been an attempt to steal cassettes from display boxes, which were, alas, empty.

ALL THIS FOR AN APPLE: The Westmount Pre-School held a fair in Westmount Park Saturday to raise funds for its program. There were lots of balloons and prizes to go along with novelties like pony rides and a fish pond. As part of the festivities, children were invited to bob for apples, but six-year-old Bill Shemie learned that the price of bobbing is a wet face. Persistence paid off though, and Bill eventually did get himself an apple.

Moral suasion, not legislation council weapon against porn

By LAUREEN SWEENEY

Westmount's anti-porn council has decided to use "moral persuasion" instead of legislation to keep pornographic magazines out of the reach — or gaze — of youngsters.

The decision to drop "for the present" any attempt to draw up such a by-law was made last week by council in general committee after almost six months of work, explained Mayor Brian Gallery.

"We found ourselves looking at so many loopholes, variations, interpretations that it became almost impossible to come up with a by-law," he told THE EXAMINER.

Instead, he said, a letter from the mayor would go to all owners of shops which sell "such publications" in the next week or two.

It would ask them "to cooperate with the city in its efforts to put these publications out of the reach of children."

Merchants, he said, would be asked to put such material 1.5 metres off the ground and behind opaque covers.

The city still intends, however, to pass an amendment to the zoning by-law next month to prohibit the establishment of massage parlors, sex shops and video game arcades.

VICTORIA DAY

VICTORIA Day is to be observed Monday throughout Westmount, with a general shutdown of business and commercial activity.

Westmount city hall is to be closed, as are all federal and provincial government offices, apart from those providing essential services.

The Atwater Library and Westmount Public Library both are to be closed.

The post office plans one collection of mail Monday morning and special delivery service on a Saturday-basis only. No other postal service is to be provided.

Offices of THE WESTMOUNT EXAMINER and its affiliated companies, Adcomp and Weekly Adservice, also are to be closed. Deadlines are unchanged, but advertisers and contributors are encouraged to submit material before the long weekend, wherever possible.

Home heist

A group home on de Maison-neuve boulevard was broken into Sunday afternoon and $63 in petty cash stolen, police report. Damage to the back door was $10.

Mailboxes upset Friday

A Mother's Day card and letters were found on the sidewalk in front of 4333 St. Catherine street at 6 am Friday after four mailboxes along the street were either pushed over or broken into, police said.

The box was found pushed over on its side and some of its contents ripped and discarded.

The bottom compartment of another box in front of civic number 4500 was found broken into at 5:32 am by a Public Security Unit patrol and was empty.

Other boxes had been pushed over at civic numbers 4000 and 4160. Some mail was found by a public safety patrol in bushes at Clarke avenue and St. Catherine, police said.

One of the boxes contained outgoing mail from THE WESTMOUNT EXAMINER, including the week's invoices, checking copies and other documents.

(Advertisers and other clients who have not received their usual invoices are requested to notify THE EXAMINER by calling 932-3157.)

NEXT WEEK'S WEATHER

By Capt. Eric Neal
May 18 to 25

Gardens explode into color this showery week when tulips and other bulbs put on their spring show. Forsythia and trilliums bloom in the Laurentians. Lilac blooms in the south, as do chokecherries, wild plums and apples. Days bright, relatively warm and misty with heavy dews into mid-week then windy with showers and some thunder. Drizzle and flurries in the north. The warming trend will give a wide temperature range of 0°C to 25°C. Mainly sunny and warming rapidly for the end of the week. The transition from cool to very warm is always quite sudden.

Unity youths to liven up Greene festival

By JOAN CAPRÉOL

The Unity Boys' and Girls' Club intends to liven up the Greene avenue medieval festival on June 2.

Joane Veilleux, 22, the club's representative, said it would stage a puppet show with children aged 6 to 17 participating in medieval costumes. There would be a make-up booth, an exhibition of drawings of that era and medieval games. Today's break dancing also would take place.

Thea Hoare, of the Avenue bookstore, has asked The Study to display their interesting history project which it had done for Quebec in her store.

Chairman Tom von Eicken, of Art Image, will conduct a photography competition for the public. First prize is one roll of processing per month for one year; second prize, is one roll for three months; and third prize is one roll for one month.

Lisa Cohen and Johanna Breijer, of a new Montreal group called the Society for Creative Anachronisms, showed slides of medieval tents, banners and costumes. They proposed fortunetelling and photo booths. They want to organize dances for people on the street.

Adam Cutler, who is opening an ice cream parlor called "Coyote" in the Old Post Office, offered a turreted castle, nine-feet high with a three-sided facade.

Alderman Peter Duffield said the city supported the festival, wished the merchants good luck and hoped the festival would enhance the aspect of the street.

The Greene Action group will deal from now on with Alderman Sally Aitken who is in charge of community events.

Present at the meeting were Judy Mappin, Carla Caminiti, Thea Hoare, Wendy Antecol, David Cameron, Kathie Fagnoli, Maria Dissos and Helene Hamel.

Black smoke from furnace causes alarm

A faulty furnace at 388 Victoria avenue forced firefighters to break into two adjoining premises Friday to check out black smoke seen billowing from a chimney, fire officials report.

The incident took place Friday about 3 am when a public safety patrol spotted the smoke and called firemen who were unable to get inside the building.

Capt. Roger Laviolette called MUC police and forced open the door at number 386 causing $100 damage to the frame, police said. All was found in order inside.

Next door, at civic number 388, the door was forced open resulting in $50 damage to the lock. An oil furnace there was found to be defective and was shut down, officials said.

Stolen purse found in bin

A purse stolen from a shop on Sherbrooke street near Prince Albert avenue Wednesday last week later was found in a wastepaper basket at Alexis Nihon Plaza, police said.

Only $125 in cash and a cheque were reported missing. Credit cards and other personal items were returned to the owner.

The owner had left the bag under a desk near where three young persons had been looking at dresses about 2:15 pm. When they left, the handbag also was gone. It was found about 6 pm.

Family move no cup of tea

A sterling silver tea set worth $250, was reported missing from a home on Arlington avenue Wednesday night last week, according to police.

The items, a teapot, sugar bowl and cream pitcher, had been kept on the buffet. The family was involved in a move, police said.

Rotary honors deLalanne with Paul Harris Fellowship

Westmount Rotarians last week continued their tradition of recognizing outstanding citizens, when Rotary's highest honor, the Paul Harris Fellowship, was bestowed on former Westmount mayor James deLalanne.

Brig.-Gen. deLalanne, who was mayor of the city in 1955-56, was praised by numerous speakers, including General Gilles Turcot of the Canadian Armed Forces, Ken Farmer, an accountant who worked with Brig.-Gen. deLalanne, former Westmount mayor John Cushing and Rotary past presidents Frank Kenwood and George Sklivas.

"He's got about 30 things he's done, but when he does them, he does them right," said Mr. Sklivas.

Raised in Westmount, Brig.-Gen. deLalanne worked as a chartered accountant with the firm of Macdonald Currie, now Coopers and Lybrand.

Serving in the both world wars, Brig.-Gen. deLalanne was wounded three times, received the Military Cross and Bar, and was one of the first soldiers to arrive when the Allies liberated Vimy, France, in the First World War.

Gen. Turcotte pointed out that Brig.-Gen. deLalanne kept helping the military after the wars, serving as president of the Montreal branch of the Corps of Commissioners and as national president of the Last Post Fund, a program to assure veterans of an honorable burial.

Brig.-Gen. deLalanne divided much of his time in the 1950s between municipal affairs and his accounting practice.

"He was always concerned with looking after his staff and his clients," said Mr. Farmer of Brig.-Gen. deLalanne's work in business. "His clients valued not only his financial opinion but his sympathy."

Mr. Cushing explained that at Westmount city hall, Brig.-Gen. deLalanne succeeded in increasing the number of aldermen from five to six, with elections held every two years for two of the aldermen.

Mr. Cushing noted that Brig.-Gen. deLalanne's decision not to run for a second term as mayor kept him from getting deeply involved in the debate over locating the artificial ice rink on the side of Westmount Park facing Sherbrooke street.

"I think he foresaw the trouble coming with the artificial ice rink and got out just in time," said Mr. Cushing.

Mr. Kenwood added to the praise, noting Brig.-Gen. deLalanne's work in Rotary. He served as president of the Westmount club from 1939-40.

"He's a shining example of what all Rotarians should be," said Mr. Kenwood.

Calling the event "one of the greatest days in my life," Brig.-Gen. deLalanne thanked the club for honoring him.

Visiting Rotarians from Sweden, Illinois, Oregon, and Montreal West also were welcomed at the meeting.

Police arrest two youths in fire scare

Two youths were arrested Tuesday last week in connection with a fire-lighting incident in a hallway of the apartment building at 223 Melville avenue, police report.

As of yesterday, however, the case was still being investigated and no charges had been laid, police officials said.

The suspects were 13 and 17 years old and lived in St. Henri and the north end of Montreal.

A delivery man reported seeing three persons in the hall with paper and matches, officials said. The trio took off with the witness in pursuit of two fleeing west along St. Catherine street.

As City Engineer Ed McCavour was driving past, he was apparently flagged down and called the Public Security Unit who in turn called police and fire departments.

Two youths were detained at Park place and were arrested by police.

Fire officials said they were originally called by the PSU for a fire at 4556 St. Catherine. When they arrived on the scene they

We Say

Festivals' time

ONE of the nicest developments in recent years in local Westmount business has been the appearance and growth of festivals.

Time was — as readers of Examining the Files will know — that the closest we came to seeing joint efforts in the commercial community was in the activities of the businessmen's or merchants' associations.

These withered through too narrow a view of roles. They inclined to show concern for the members' immediate interests and less for the place of business in the broader community which embraces all who make Westmount home.

Perhaps we all have become more classless, less conscious of one's "place" and more ready to mix it with neighbors whoever they may be. It is a generational thing, when anyone and everyone may wear blue jeans and many interests are popular and universal.

In any event, the merchants who comprise Westmount's two principal commercial areas centred on Greene and on Victoria avenues happily have come to separate but like conclusions over what constitutes good promotion of their interests: making their respective areas fun. With the coming of warmer weather, the great urban outdoors beckons.

Thus, on two successive Saturdays, June 2 and 9, Westmounters will be treated to two festivals, east and west respectively. Based on previous good experience, both promise success for all who participate: the business people and the public at large. That both events are good for business is hardly incidental, but the design is not so much for the ringing of cash registers on those two days as for the creation of goodwill to everyone's benefit year around.

The first of these well-organized affairs, June 2, is to be the Village Greene's Medieval Festival, a week later the Westmount Village Festival in the Sherbrooke-Victoria sector.

Both will feature young people, costumes, decorations, music, fun.

Both deserve citizen support, wherever one lives and wherever one usually shops, if only to reward with satisfaction the hard-working organizers of both events.

And there is one special thing to be said about festivals of this kind: they are not organized by, say, the city recreation department, by clubs or societies, by ethnic groups, by churches or by fundraisers.

They are organized by business people, those supposedly crusty and hard-headed people reputedly interested only in the almighty buck.

As much as by way of a thank-you to the community which supports them as a means of furthering that support. That, we say, is a good cause.

Our 90-year-old queen

NEXT to the Reddy Memorial Hospital, within our borders, the Queen Elizabeth Hospital a few blocks to our west frequently is regarded as a Westmount place of healing.

With good reason. Not only is it handy when need arises but in its respected 90-year history, rounded out last week, Westmounters have figured prominently among its closest friends, supporters and officials.

One readily thinks, for instance, of Mr. Hollis Marden — the tireless fund-raiser for that and other worthy institutions. Nearly as lively as ever, despite boasting almost as many years as the hospital, he was out last week to take part in the birthday celebrations. And there is Mr. John Houghton, the honorary president, and Ald. Phillip Aspinall, chairman of the board of directors, among a long list of local names identified with the Queen Elizabeth and the Homeopathic Hospital of Montreal, its previous name.

In these parlous days for such institutions in this province, when civil servants and various boards pretend to know communities' needs better than the public spirited persons who serve locally, it is good to know that the Queen-E is going strong.

Contrast this with the fight which the Reddy has had to put up against the bureaucracy. It is shameful that its directors have had to go to court in an attempt to preserve the Reddy's mission as a general hospital. It is good to know that the Tupper street facility will be continuing as it is, at least until the autumn. The whole community is pulling for a definitive victory of good sense over destructive "planning."

While not everyone needs a hospital frequently, these places are an essential part of the life of any community and deserve as jealous guarding as our schools and other key institutions — without which we are not a community.

You Say

Barwick's MacCallum more than 'adequate'

Sir: I was struck by former Mayor MacCallum's comment about the portrait of him painted by artist John Barwick. Mr. MacCallum called the likeness "acceptable."

I have seen Mr. Barwick's collection of portraits recently at his exhibition of landscapes at the Belle Époque gallery. He has painted many heads of industry and other prominent people. Each of them is brilliantly executed, a sensitive and living evocation of personality and character. As likenesses they are far more than "acceptable," just as Mr. MacCallum's is.

In the latter case I wonder at the expression of benevolence Mr. Barwick captured. Taking this remark with his churlish public comment about his opponent, Brian Gallery, when he (MacCallum) was defeated in the last mayoralty election, I think an expression of pique and hostility would have been far more appropriate.

Mr. Barwick is one of Canada's greatest portraitists. I am very sorry to see his work so cavalierly treated.

Child dog-bite incident prompts praise of PSU

Sir: On the evening of May 10 my two-year-old daughter, Leanna, was attacked by a dog in the play area in Westmount Park. The owner was with the dog — a Doberman — which lunged at Leanna before I could intervene.

As Leanna was bleeding from the bite, my only thought was to get her to the Children's Hospital, where she was given eight stitches. I did not have a chance to speak to the dog owner and therefore spent an anguished night wondering if the dog had rabies.

But the Westmount Security personnel were more than helpful and deserve a heartfelt word of thanks. They located the dog, a bitch, through a veterinary who had operated on the dog's leg (the left hind leg is noticeably stiff). Fortunately, the dog had been vaccinated.

The law against dogs in the play area is ambiguous. And it shouldn't be. But law or no law, dog owners must be responsible for their animals.

First-time WHS win in Quebec Drama Festival

Sir: I would like to take an opportunity to correct some misinformation about the Quebec Drama Festival that appeared in your May 3 issue in a story about the Westmount Outreach Ensemble's entry to the festival.

The article states that Westmount High School students have won the competition for the last two years in a row. This year was, in fact, the first time that a group from WHS had entered the festival. I would also like to point out that the competition is in 12 different categories and that winning the competition in one or more of those categories does not imply an overall winner of the entire festival, which your article implied. That would be a nearly impossible feat to accomplish.

Finally, I would like to offer the Quebec Drama Festival's congratulations to all of the award winners, which did include the Westmount Outreach Ensemble's Leslie Thornton in the category of "Most Promising Young Performer."

'King and I' coverage is held disappointing

Sir: We were so disappointed by your newspaper's limited coverage of the Westmount recreation department's marvellous production of The King and I.

Although the photograph of Gita Bali, who performed an East Indian dance, does indeed appear on the front page of your May 3 issue, surely the production as a whole merited more than the few lines that you gave to it? It was an extraordinary achievement and surpassed all previous efforts; the costumes were exceptional, the sets extremely professional and the production staff, headed by Beverly Adams, managed to bring out the very best in over 70 of Westmount's children, complemented by a handful of older residents.

We would hope that next year's production will be given the attention that it deserves. Such a contribution to our community should never be taken for granted. Please note that admission is free!

Editor's note: What is too much or too little coverage of an event? There was advance coverage to draw attention to the production, and the front-page treatment appeared to be prominent attention, particularly in light of the many competing activities of community interest at this busiest time of year in Westmount. We regret disappointment felt by anyone.

Braking, licensing of Zamboni questioned

Sir: Enclosed is a copy of a letter we have just sent to Mayor Gallery concerning the braking system of the Zamboni ice resurfacers. [EXAMINER May 10, page 7]

For your information, our ice resurfacers has two sets of brakes, one set on the front and one set on the rear.

I have also been informed by the Régie de l'assurance automobile du Québec that the company which was awarded this tender received their automobile dealer's licence on May 11, 1984.

My contention is still that at the time of the tender opening and the award of the tender, this company did not have this licence and thus the tender should not have been accepted as legal. Also, if my competition is allowed to add something to his tender after the tender has been opened, surely I should be given the same privilege.

I Say!

A recently-arrived gentleman from Poland of some means but who had not yet mastered all the nuances of his newly-acquired English went to see a lawyer about a divorce. Trying to ascertain the problem, the lawyer asked: "Have you any grounds?"

"About four or five acres, that's all," the man replied.

"Let's forget that question," said the lawyer. "Is your wife a nagger?"

"No, she's white like me."

The lawyer tried again: "Does your wife beat you up?"

"No," the gentleman responded innocently. "We get up at the same time every morning."

The lawyer, suppressing an impulse to throw up his hands, said: "To be honest with you, I really don't see your problem," he told the gentleman.

"Oh, but I do," the man said. "I think my wife is trying to get rid of me. Every morning when I go down to the kitchen table my wife has a little bottle sitting there labelled 'Polish Remover'."

Terrifying violence

HOW do we get our minds around arbitrary, terrifying, gratuitous violence? How do we make sense of death when it comes so needlessly, so impersonally, so meaninglessly? And how do we understand people who say they "understand" the perpetrator?

When Denis Lortie got finished with the National Assembly, every Quebecer was the lesser for it. Had his fevered mind, unbalanced by childhood abuse, chosen the House of Commons, every Canadian would have suffered. His rambling political testament must be taken as a whole, not piecemeal. It is the legacy of a madman, nothing more. There is no profound moral to be drawn. The Denis Lorties of this world are not the product of any government, or any political party.

Sense of loss

What is left for those of us who work in the National Assembly is a terrible sense of loss: that our friends have been taken from us or terribly injured; that our parliament, of which we are proud, has been violated and sullied. Our thoughts are with the families of those killed, whose pain and grief we can only imagine. The victims did not seek a public role; they died in place of those who did.

Yes, security at the National Assembly must be improved. By the time this column appears, the opposition will have made its arguments on the subject in the assembly. We will have outlined the debate which has been taking place since the October crisis regarding security versus public access.

I must say that I have always favored a relatively light official presence at the entries to parliament. Perhaps I was unduly complacent. But what would it have taken to stop Denis Lortie?

Economic frustrations

IN recent months I have had the opportunity to travel across Canada a great deal, and to talk with Canadians involved in many enterprises and activities. And while there is near universal agreement that things are getting better, there is also an unmistakable feeling of frustration among Canadians.

The reasons for this frustration are only too clear. Even with a more vibrant economy, far too many Canadians remain unemployed. Students continue to have great difficulty finding employment in the summer, leaving many of them wondering how they will continue their studies in the fall. Interest rates are creeping up, raising mortgage payments and making loans more difficult to come by. With each new piece of bad economic news our unease grows about the prospect of yet another major recession.

I do not believe a new recession is imminent, and I think Canada's immediate employment outlook is improving. But I share the basic frustration of so many Canadians — with our country's abundance of advantages and natural resources, why are we not doing better? What is holding Canada back?

New economy emerging

While many observers could offer a variety of opinions on this topic, I believe the reason is only too clear. Canadians have not moved fast enough in adopting and applying new techniques, technologies and attitudes to our economy. We have been slow to understand that there is a new economy emerging, one in which the predominant strength is no longer natural resources. Today the emphasis is on people — on their imagination, on their ingenuity, on their ability to apply new approaches to long-accepted methods. In short, we need to break out of the status quo, to build on Canada's many advantages with a well-trained, flexible labor force, increasingly imaginative and skilled management, and a firm commitment to research and development.

Very simply, Canada's continued economic prosperity depends on setting a fresh agenda, complete with new ideas for tax policy, for economic development, for our social security network, for marketing our goods to other countries, and a number of other initiatives. By addressing and meeting these challenges, the frustration of so many Canadians will give way to a new determination for economic growth.

I expressed these thoughts this weekend at the most recent Liberal leadership policy conference in Montreal. I continue to believe it is important to bring these ideas forward as we begin to shape tomorrow's economy.

Something I Want to Say

Attitude

By LAUREEN SWEENEY

IT was interesting to note the reactions of both Alderman Paul Fortin, Westmount's commissioner of public security, and Director Michel Groulx, commander of MUC police station 23, to a plea by residents of Kensington avenue to curb "speeding" on their street.

The residents had made the same complaint to the previous city administration for a year if not longer. They finally aired their concern to Mr. Fortin at the recent annual meeting of the Westmount Municipal Association.

Among the alleged speeders, they said, police cars were the worst offenders as they rushed down the street from their Stanton street station, responding to calls in various parts of their district.

The residents were fed up with city surveys and with answers that nothing could be done, they told Mr. Fortin.

The commissioner listened, asked questions and later told THE EXAMINER the issue was not so much whether the traffic was actually speeding on the street as it was that the people who lived on the street perceived vehicles to be speeding.

At least, reasoned Mr. Fortin, the speed limit might be reduced and he would look into it.

Scarcely hours later, Director Groulx moved to reach an almost parallel conclusion.

If the people said the police cars were speeding on the street and they did not want the police cars, he would correct the problem — immediately.

From that moment forward, police cars would be directed to use other streets when responding to calls. They would pass on Kensington only when patrolling there.

The decision took a few seconds, not months to make yet another survey.

Who knows if the police patrolmen and other drivers do speed on Kensington? What matters is that the people who live on the street think they do.

And to Ald. Fortin and Dir. Groulx, the people's perceptions matter.

No-parking 'vultures' on Sherbrooke scored

Sir: "Our" security patrol and the MUC police seem to be so gleeful, ticketing vehicles parked on the north side of Sherbrooke between Victoria and Claremont, even though or because citizens have plugged the meters with coins.

There is no parking between 4:30 and 6 pm, but the signs are very small and not really understood by most people here.

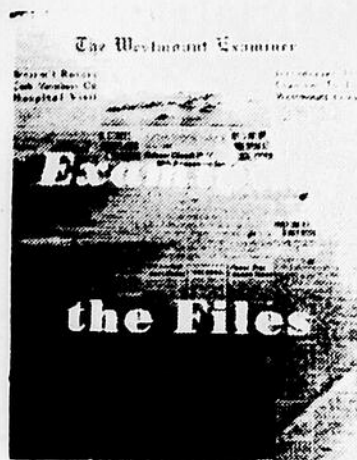

Have a look for yourself.

They just can't wait to drop like vultures on this area at exactly 4:30 o'clock.

There also seems no good reason for this "No Parking" at that time. There aren't any buses to speak of, anyway.

Respected word watcher

By JOAN CAPRÉOL

FREE-LANCE editorial consultant Bill Palmer is probably the most respected word watcher in the country.

He has published an eight-page quarterly, aptly called Word Watching, for seven years.

"It was initially a business promotion venture, to keep my name in front of existing and potential clients," says Mr. Palmer. "Over the years others have shown interest and I now have a separate subscription list. Clients and some others receive complimentary copies."

"The philosophy of Word Watching is to provide a forum for people who are concerned about the use of English today. That means there is a lot of give and take."

About 50 percent of the publication's content results from letters from readers. The remainder includes reviews on books about language, excerpts from magazines and newspaper articles, word contests and a column by his five-year-old, shaded silver, American shorthair cat Alexander called "Pussy foot notes." "Isn't that awful? But it is my newsletter," says Mr. Palmer, wincing a trifle.

"The difficulty with writing is that people have differing attitudes about what is 'right' and what is 'wrong,'" he says. "Some feel 'color' should be spelled 'colour'. Some feel using 'hopefully' is correct when used in this way: 'Hopefully, it won't rain tomorrow.' Others feel that is a gross error. Some see nothing wrong with 'most unique.' Others feel it is a horrible misusage."

Some follow rules

"Basically, there are two groups of language experts out there. The first are the grammarians who believe there are rules set down that must be followed. The second, called the linguists, believe that it is how language is used today that matters."

Mr. Palmer is somewhere in the middle since he believes what matters is getting your message across to people. And anything that blocks that message should be avoided. Misspelled words, for example, will stop a reader and take attention away from what is being said.

"That means good old Canadian compromise is one solution," says Mr. Palmer. "Before writing, consider your audience and try to avoid usage that will distract the readers from what you are trying to say. A classic example is the use of 'whom'. If you use it correctly, you may sound pompous and alienate one part of your readership; if you use 'who' in the first place, you may infuriate the purists. One solution is to reconstruct your sentence and not use 'whom' at all."

"However, if you are writing to your Aunt Gloria or in your diary or letters to friends, you can obviously do as you want."

"I also believe that it is the professional communicators — politicians, teachers, newspaper reporters, columnists — who have a responsibility to write clearly, and speak clearly. They are the examples the rest of the people look to and emulate."

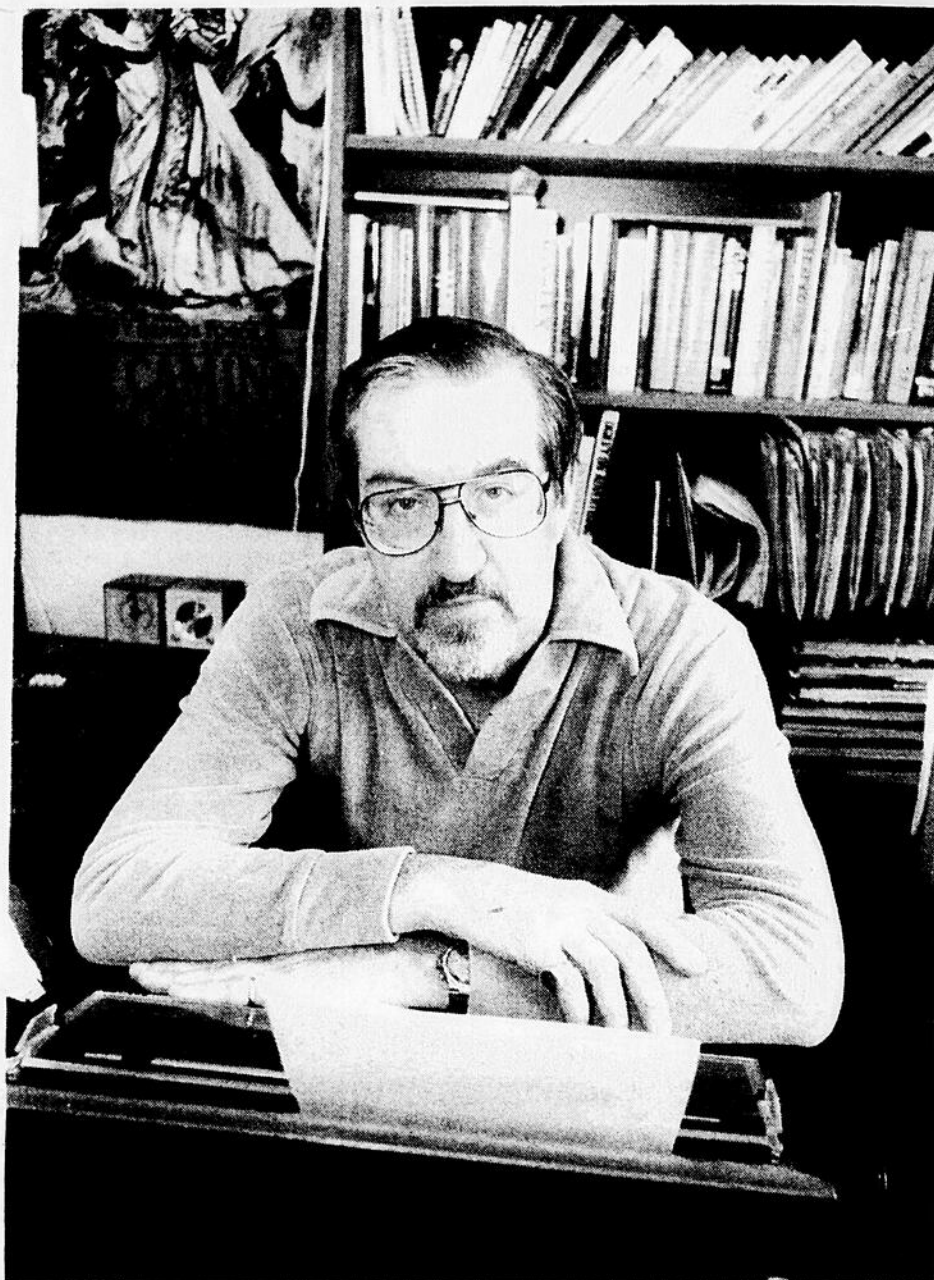

Teenagers disappoint

"I am not concerned when the corner grocer misuses the language, at least not very much. However, I am disappointed when teenagers show no evidence of being able to write a clear sentence, or explain what they are trying to say."

"The biggest controversy arose in Word Watching when I said I preferred to write Montreal and Quebec with accents. Many people felt that this was a pat on the head for the PQ. I think it is a tribute to French Canadians."

Word Watching has a circulation of just over 500. Subscriptions are $8 annually. Assistant editor is Jack Hartnett. Westmount word watchers include John Lynch-Staunton, Herbert Marx, Earl McLaughlin, Cornelia Molson, Maximilien Polak, Stuart Richardson and John Sancton.

Other WWs include Carl Beigie, Peter Desbarats, Pierre Berton, Arnold Hart, Nick Auf der Maur, Ted Blackman, Mark Harrison, Edwin Newman, Bruce Phillips and William Safire.

Articulate speaker

Bill Palmer is 53, six-foot-one and has hazel eyes and a modified Vandyke beard. His speech is articulate and deliberate.

He has enjoyed a multi-faceted career. He graduated as a chemical engineer from the university of Alberta in 1952. He wears an iron ring on his left pinky finger rather than on his right one because he is not a practising engineer. However, that technical background has proven useful in dealing with technical subjects.

Mr. Palmer also has been a public relations officer, a teacher of evening courses in writing for five years at McGill University, a newspaperman, a magazine designer and a photographer.

His present job is helping corporations publish external and internal magazines. His clients today include CN Rail, Dupont Canada, Canadian Bond Rating Service and the Royal Bank. He designs The Dupont Courier, an internal publication, and the CN magazine Moving.

In the past he has written for Macdonald Tobacco, the ministry of transport, Standard Brands, and Westroc Building Supplies, of Toronto.

His early career included a job at CIL as an engineer in Beloeil and Edmonton.

Led to public relations

"While an engineer I took a correspondence course in journalism with an American organization," says Mr. Palmer. "That was my way to getting a job for $35 a week at the Calgary Herald which eventually led to a public relations post with CIL in Montreal and Toronto for 13 years. Mr. Palmer transferred to a small publishing company called "Gauntlet" and then went into partnership with John Brown Publishing. When that company was purchased by Southam Business Publications, Mr. Palmer set out on his own as an editorial/designer consultant in 1977.

Bill Palmer was born in Princeton, B.C. He is the only child of the late Bill Palmer, a barber, and Mary Palmer who lives in a Westmount apartment which contains her son's design table.

Mr. Palmer went to 10 elementary schools before attending Central High School in Calgary.

He says he reads little fiction and admires writers Peter Desbarats, Mordecai Richler, and John Duffie, a columnist on Monday Magazine, of Victoria, B.C. "They are clear and imaginative which are the keys to good writing," says Mr. Palmer.

He has 13 bookcases full of books, approximately 2,500, mostly reference books.

His hobbies are crossword puzzles, photography and gourmet cooking. He likes show music, jazz but not rock. "That means I am stuck in the '60s," he says, with a smile.

He has a collection of records — jazz, classical music, Cleo Laine, the Spanish pop singer Julio Iglesias and Anne Murray.

For the past 10 years Bill Palmer has been spending summers on the Costa del Sol, Spain. On his apartment walls hang many Spanish souvenirs.

March property sales mix up monthly statistics

Eyes likely were popping at the Montreal registry office March 16 when the sales of a number of notable Westmount properties all were registered within a few hours.

Topping the list of Westmount transactions for March 16 — for the whole month, the whole year, and all the years since THE EXAMINER began keeping records — is the sale of a mansion at 78 Summit crescent.

The property, first listed with an asking price of $7 million, was sold for $2,650,000. (See story Dec. 23, 1983.)

A second registration confirmed the sale of another mansion at 57 Belvedere road for an undisclosed price. Valued at $766,500 for tax purposes, the mansion was advertised for sale at $3 million in the fall of 1982. It is understood the final price was much lower.

The sale of an apartment building at 1 Rosemount also was registered March 16 with the price recorded at $1,380,000.

Multi-million dollar transactions can be expected to play havoc with EXAMINER statistics for any given month and March this year is a good example.

Has low valuation

The Summit crescent sale represents more than a third of the value of all one- and two-family dwellings transferred during the month. A relatively low valuation of $1,733,600 for the property produces a markup of nearly 53 percent.

When the sale is included in the statistics, the average markup of price over valuation for all 23 March sales is 15.2 percent, and the average sale price is nearly $300,000.

When the Summit crescent sale is excluded, along with exceptional sales at the other end of the price spectrum, the average markup is reduced to just 1.3 percent and the average price becomes just 1.3 percent.

Comparing adjusted March figures to February statistics, it becomes evident that prices are lower and volume is higher — repeating the up-and-down performance of the market in recent months.

In February, 15 sales were recorded with an average markup of more than 18 percent, even when adjusted.

Prices in all other March sales, where reported, fall in a range between $100,000 and $200,000 with one exception: the sale of a

Car abandoned on embankment after smashing through fence

A car was found abandoned Sunday morning at 3 am after it was driven through a fence and down a 100-foot embankment at Selby and Hallowell streets, police said.

It was one of six hit-and-run incidents reported among the 10 traffic accidents in Westmount during the week May 7 to 13, according to police.

Two persons were injured in mishaps during the week. One was a seven-year-old cyclist; the other was a woman hurt in one of three accidents Saturday, a rainy morning.

The 29-year-old woman was taken to hospital about 2 am when the car in which she was riding hit the rear of another stopped at a red light on Sherbrooke street at Greene avenue.

Both cars had been heading west and sustained more than $500 damage. No Westmounters were involved.

The cyclist, a Montreal boy, was hit by a northbound car on Greene avenue last Thursday at 7:45 pm when he reportedly rode out of a lane at 1123 Greene into the path of a car.

He was described as being injured slightly but it was not known whether or not he went to hospital.

By LAUREEN SWEENEY

Police said he was taken home in a patrol car. The Public Security Unit recorded that he was taken to the Montreal Children's Hospital by Urgences Santé ambulance 260. Fire personnel, who were believed to have left the scene earlier, reported that he was driven home by his father.

Sunday's unusual hit-and-run incident at Selby and Hallowell was discovered about 3:10 am. Police said it appeared the 1974 Chevrolet had been headed west on Selby and failed to negotiate the curve at Hallowell.

It proceeded through a Frost fence and down an embankment, damaging three fence posts and a 100-foot strip of grass. The driver could not be found.

The car, which was taken to the pound, was registered to a Montreal resident.

A second accident Saturday took place at 1:35 am when a car driven by a Baie d'Urfé woman hit the median on Dorchester boulevard while heading west. It blew two tires and sustained up to $500 damage.

The other accident Saturday involved two cars going north on Olivier avenue at 8:30 am. They collided when one suddenly made a left turn.

The other hit-and-run incidents reported were:

- At Victoria and Westmount avenues Tuesday last week about 7:50 pm when a car described as a Chevrolet Celebrity bumped twice into the rear of another Chevrolet at the intersection. It drove off but its licence number was recorded. Damage was up to $500.

- At Claremont avenue and Sherbrooke street also on Tuesday last week at 2:30 pm, a car travelling east ran into the rear of another and kept on going. Damage was up to $250.

- In front of 37 Prospect street, someone hit a car parked Wednesday morning last week causing up to $500 damage.

- In the Steinberg parking lot at Victoria avenue and Sherbrooke street Friday two cars were hit by an unknown vehicle about 3:30 pm.

- Also on Friday at the rear of 4010 St. Catherine street, a vehicle described as a white car hit a Honda motorcycle at 2:30 pm. Three other motorcycles parked nearby in turn were hit in a chain reaction. Only the first sustained damages estimated at $250.

Outdoor sidewalk cafés approved by city council

By LAUREEN SWEENEY

Westmount may soon become a city of colorful, outdoor, sidewalk cafés when summer weather comes this way.

The city recently approved two new applications for such Paris-style terrace restaurants, including one at Terre Étoile and another at La Galerie.

A third, which has been in operation outside the Old Post Office previous summers, also has been reappraised.

Mayor Brian Gallery announced the approval of the two new terraces following last week's meeting of the general committee of council.

"We decided that we're in favor of charming, nice, sidewalk terraces providing the restaurants fulfil all the requirements for size and sanitation," he said.

"We're thinking very positively."

The Terre Étoile's proposed outdoor restaurant would be located in the front of the property at 4919 Sherbrooke street, just west of Prince Albert avenue.

La Galerie's terrace would extend outside the restaurant at 374 Victoria avenue.

Both applications had been approved in principle by the city's Architectural and Planning Commission.

In each case, this would involve setting up tables and chairs in front of their premises so customers could sit outside.

A new lease for the Old Post Office terrace-café between the city and new owners of the building was approved at the city council meeting Monday night last week.

The city rents part of its property to the restaurant for the café and has raised the rent this year from $500 to $600.

Ontario ower

An Ontario motorist was stopped by police here Sunday and found to owe $46 in unpaid traffic warrants. He was picked up at 2:45 am at Sherbrooke street and Melville avenue.

LARGE CAMP HELD: Ninety Westmount members and associates of Scouting groups at St. Andrew's United Church camped last weekend at Camp Kanawana near St. Sauveur. It was the first time the Beavers, Cubs, Scouts, Venturers, Rovers and Rangers had participated in such a joint camp. Lashing together a tower Saturday were: Andrew Stead, left, a Cub leader and Rover; and Dr. Ian Metcalf, Scoutmaster.

Verdun arrest seen solution to incidents

The arrest of a Montreal man in the early hours of Tuesday morning in Verdun solved two incidents in Westmount which had occurred a short time earlier, police report.

The man, described only as an adult, was charged with breaking into a house on Holton avenue where a car was stolen as well as with theft from a car on Arlington lane.

In the first incident, police said a resident of Holton avenue had reported finding the front door of the house ajar at 7 am Tuesday morning as well as the light turned on in the vestibule. The car keys were gone and so was the car.

The victim told police the door had been locked about 11:30 the night before.

Personal papers also had been stolen from the glove compartment of a car on Arlington lane.

RCAF Squadron gets freedom

Westmount will bestow the freedom of the city on the RCAF 401 (City of Westmount) Squadron Sept. 22, city council decided last week in its meeting in general committee.

Mayor Brian Gallery told THE EXAMINER the honor was fitting tribute to "Westmount's own squadron" which had fought in the Second World War.

Alderman Ian McPherson, the city's commissioner of public works, is a member of the squadron.

The freedom of the city was bestowed in 1981 on the 3rd Field Engineers Regiment of which former mayor Donald MacCallum is honorary colonel.

Previously, only the Royal Montreal Regiment had received the honor.

Master plan is available

The MUC's master plan for the development of the island is now available for perusal at city hall upon request.

The plan is contained in three large, colorful books.

The plan, should it be adopted, is not expected to affect Westmount, explained Mayor Brian Gallery. This community already is considered to be planned and developed.

Westmount had 60 days from April 27 to submit to the MUC its opinion of the plan.

Anyone wishing to look at the plan should phone city hall at 935-8531, His Worship said.

had been pushing for legislation, said she hoped that by going the route of "moral suasion" the city might be more able to address the problem of pornography as opposed to erotica.

It might also help deal with the issue of videotapes as well, she explained.

"Westmount is not awash in smut," she had told citizens at the WMA annual meeting two weeks ago. The city would legislate, however, she said, if citizen support was overwhelming, "even if it means hitting elephants with fly-swatters."

Mayor Gallery said he believed merchants would co-operate fully with the city's wishes.

"Our council's original concern was to remove offensive pornography from the reach of children," he pointed out.

Woman robbed of handbag on Boulevard

A purse stolen last Thursday from a woman on The Boulevard later was recovered by police, along with some of the contents, which had been strewn around Edgemoor road.

The robbery took place about 5:05 pm in front of 3785 The Boulevard, where the victim, an 82-year-old resident of street, had just descended from a bus.

A youth, described as about 13 years old, grabbed the purse and fled up the stairs between the houses northeast of the intersection of Lansdowne avenue.

The purse contained a wallet with about $35 cash as well as keys, credit cards and personal papers.

The wallet, minus money, was found about 7 pm by police next to 200 Edgemoor road. The purse was at the rear of the property, minus keys and credit cards, and the bus pass turned up at the rear of a property on The Boulevard.

WESTMOUNT GARDEN DEBRIS AND TREE REMOVAL

Residents are advised that garden debris — grass cuttings and leaves — should be placed in containers near the household garbage or behind the sidewalk for removal by the City's refuse collectors. Tree cuttings should be bundled and tied securely. Such debris should never be placed on the sidewalk, street, or lane.

Residents should be advised that they are responsible for the work of their Contractors and should inform their Contractors of the City's regulations. Material may be delivered free of charge to the Corporation Yard during regular working hours.

The City does not have the facilities to dispose of private trees which have been cut down. Therefore, property owners are reminded that their contracts for the removal of trees should include provision for disposal of the trunks and branches. Trees which have been affected by Dutch Elm disease should be destroyed and removed to dump sites to prevent the spread of the disease.

Residents, who contravene or permit the contravention of the by-laws governing disposal of garden debris and trees are subject to fines.

DÉTRITUS DE JARDIN ET ENLÈVEMENT D'ARBRES

Les personnes résidant à Westmount voudront bien prendre note que les débris de jardin — herbe coupée et feuilles mortes — doivent être placés dans des contenants près des poubelles de chaque maison ou à l'arrière du trottoir afin de permettre aux préposés à l'enlèvement des ordures ménagères de les recueillir. Les émondes devront être réunies en fagots bien ficelés. On ne devra en aucun cas placer des débris sur le trottoir ou dans la rue ou ruelle.

Il faut prendre note que les résidents sont responsables du travail de leurs entrepreneurs et devraient par conséquent renseigner ces derniers concernant les règlements municipaux applicables.

Les entrepreneurs-jardiniers devront être avisés qu'ils peuvent déposer ces débris gratuitement au dépôt municipal durant les heures régulières de travail.

La Ville de Westmount n'est pas en mesure d'enlever les arbres coupés sur la propriété privée. Les propriétaires devront donc s'assurer que les contrats signés par eux pour faire couper des arbres comportent une disposition prévoyant l'enlèvement du tronc et des branches de l'arbre coupé sur leur terrain. Les arbres atteints par la maladie de l'orme liège doivent être détruits et transportés à un dépôt afin d'empêcher la propagation de cette maladie.

Les personnes qui contreviennent ou permettent qu'on contrevienne aux dispositions des règlements régissant l'enlèvement des débris de jardin et des arbres sont passibles d'amendes.

Leashed dog bites child, in one of two incidents

A two-year-old girl was taken to hospital last Thursday after she was bitten in the face by a leashed dog in the tot lot of Westmount Park, police said.

Another Westmount girl, aged 14, was bitten Saturday by a dog when she put her hand into the car "protected" by the animal.

According to city regulations, dogs are prohibited from playground areas in the park. (See separate story.)

The mother of the young park victim, who lives on Lansdowne avenue, told THE EXAMINER eight stitches were required to close the wound.

She praised the efforts of the Public Security Unit to find the identity of the dog owner whose name had not been taken at the scene and who later left the park with the dog.

The girl was taken to the Montreal Children's Hospital by her mother in a passing taxi. Police said the dog, a Doberman, lived on Burton avenue, and had been on leash in the company of a woman and a small girl.

According to public safety officials who worked with the victim's father to find out the dog's identity, the dog was a female with a lame leg.

She was checked out medically and found to be in good health.

The incident involving the teenager took place about 4:30 pm Saturday in the lane near 4823 Sherbrooke street.

The youth, a resident of Sherbrooke street, was taken to the Montreal Children's Hospital by her father.

Police said the dog had been in a red car which was gone when they arrived on the scene.

Phone gone

Someone stole a $400 antique-type telephone from an apartment at 4998 de Maisonneuve boulevard recently, police said. The phone disappeared from the entrance hall sometime between May 4-7.

Wallet lost

A wallet containing $50 cash was reported lost in front of 349 Victoria avenue Tuesday last week, according to police.

dog-run areas, 14 were in the company of their owners who were told to leash their animals.

Signs went up

Dog signs in parks went up at the end of last week (see separate story).

Another dog was found busy digging in a city garden bed in Westmount Park last Thursday at 8:15 am while in the company of its owner who was immediately ordered to "cease and desist."

A number of the reports involved residents who were cautioned to clean up after their pooches. Names and addresses have been recorded and habitual offending is not to be tolerated, Dir. Ashford said.

One dog on Church Hill was found tearing out a flower bed Sunday at 7:57 am and was followed home where its owner was cautioned.

One particular incident singled out occurred at 1:40 pm last Thursday in King George Park when a dog was spotted defecating in the playground's sandbox.

"The dog's keeper was ordered to clean up and keep the dog out of the play area," the director said. "He did not, but we know where he lives. On Forden."

Works for owner

The animal was in the company of someone who worked for the owner who would be contacted, he said.

Another person was cautioned Monday at 10:02 am at St. Catherine street and Lansdowne avenue to put the dog's licence on the collar. It is not simply enough to have bought a licence, Dir. Ashford explained.

A woman who was walking two dogs — one leashed and one unleashed — Monday on Westmount avenue, was told to leash the one and to obtain licences for both.

One German Shepherd puppy found Saturday was taken to the Animal Hospital of Westmount where it was claimed by a resident of Victoria avenue.

An Airedale was taken to the SPCA on Sunday and claimed by a resident of Côte St. Antoine road.

Victor Kabuga to be awarded peace prize

A Westmount student will represent Canada at the Round Table Foundation's International Children's Peace Prize awards, to be held at the end of the month in San Francisco.

Nine-year-old Victor Kabuga of Mount Stephen avenue will leave May 29 to accept an award for a poem he wrote, titled "Peace." He will be accompanied on the trip by his mother.

Victor, a member of Carolyn Singman's grade 5 class at Westmount Park School, wrote his poem as part of a class exercise. It was one of several Ms. Singman submitted to the foundation, which is based in San Francisco.

Victor, whose past poetry has been restricted to "giving my mother a present," is modest about his poem which speaks out against war.

"I was thinking that it was good when I was doing it but then I started to think it was nothing," he says.

The children and adults who were judges thought Victor's poem was something though, and Victor will receive his award at San Francisco city hall on June 1. Along with a sculpture, Victor and the winners from other countries also will receive a $1,000 scholarship.

One of the wallets disappeared from a purse and the other from the pocket of a coat left on the back of a chair.

Another wallet was reported stolen from a room at the Reddy Memorial Hospital sometime over Thursday-Friday. It contained $48 cash and personal papers.

Bike paths open again

Bicyclists have been flocking to Montreal area bike paths whenever this miserable spring weather has given us a glimpse of the summer ahead. A sunny Sunday afternoon on the Lachine path offers to the person-watcher a cross section of the Montreal population. It's encouraging to see the unlikeliest persons pedalling along atop a bicycle that has spent the last ten years in a forgotten corner of the garage. Parks Canada is conducting guided bike tours of the Lachine canal to help Montrealers get better acquainted with the history of the canal. The starting point is the corner of Berri and de la Commune streets each Saturday, 10:30 am, for the tour in French and Sunday, 10:30 am, for the English tour. Walking tours leave from 1255 St. Joseph street in Lachine Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, 11 am and 2:30 pm in French and 1:30 and 3 pm in English.

The St. Lawrence Seaway bike path also is open for the season. You have to really want to use this path to get on it. Access points are at the St. Lambert locks on the south shore of the river, at the Côte St. Catherine locks and via Nuns' Island (follow the "Coast Guard" signs). Some day the city of Montreal again may allow access to it via Ile Notre Dame.

Les Masques anniversary makes a delightful evening

Les Masques dinner theatre in the Hyatt Regency Hotel celebrated its first anniversary in style recently with the opening performance of Relatively Speaking, by Alan Ayckbourn.

A light, British comedy about mixed-up relationships, the play is perfect fare after a lavish dinner, when uncomplicated digestion is in order.

Kirsten Bishopric, a Westmounter, shines in her role as Ginny, a young girl who unexpectedly finds herself in a tight spot between her former middle-aged lover and her current beau, Greg.

The play opens as Ginny prepares to leave her small London flat for a terminal rendezvous with Philip, played by Philip Spensley, the married man she has been seeing for some time.

The innocent Greg, characterized by Rob Roy, believes Ginny is to spend the day with her parents in the country. He lays aside questions about men's slippers under Ginny's bed and repeated telephone calls, and asks her to marry him.

Ginny delays her reply and leaves for the country. Greg, a gangly, puppy-like youth, decides to follow. He manages to arrive before her, stumbling across Sheila, Philip's wife, in the couple's country garden.

Sheila takes to the young man who appears in her back yard — even invites him to lunch — without a moment's hesitation, as if the word why weren't part of her vocabulary.

Westmounter Una Kay is splendid in this role, making an unbelievably scatter-brained lady appear — almost frighteningly — like the woman next door. Her authentic British accent and easy manner add to the lively performance.

Philip and Ginny try desperately to keep the truth of their affair from wife and lover, respectively, during a madcap morning in the garden, with only a half success.

The play seemingly is contemporary, with modern problems, costumes and sets, happening as easily last year as it might next week. But a reference to Greg's meagre earnings — 16 pounds a week — dates the play unnecessarily. In 1984, the sum perhaps is overly meagre.

Director Hans Böggild makes skillful use of the tiny Les Masques stage, decorated ap-accompanied vocalists. The church is on the corner of St. Catherine and University streets. Admission is free but a freewill offering would be appreciated.

Kiddy chorus

The Children's Chorus of the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal under the direction of Iwan Edwards will be singing Sunday, 3 pm, in Christ Church Cathedral, corner of St. Catherine and University streets. Guest soloist will be Deborah Krauss, soprano. The chorus comprises 50 voices of PSBGM students from 8 to 14 years old. The program will include folk music, the dance-duet from Humperdinck's Hansel and Gretel, Shakespearean songs and some modern animal songs under the title Tails of Woe. For ticket information call 523-0344.

Music from McGill

Martin Hansen, pianist, will perform works by Schumann and Haydn Friday, 8 pm, in Pollack Hall, 555 Sherbrooke street west. Gyorgy Terebesi, violinist, will join him for a Beethoven sonata.

On Tuesday, 8 pm, in Pollack Hall, Raffi Toumayan, pianist, will include part of Aram Khatchaturian's Adventures of Ivan in his program. Both these concerts are free.

Camerata concert

Musica Camerata Montreal will present a concert Sunday, 8 pm, in Christ Church Cathedral, corner of St. Catherine and University streets. Music by Haydn, Champagne, Chausson and Reinecke is on the program. Tickets are available at the door.

Sparrow, Arrow, Shadow, Baron, Sam and the Caribbean Express, Deacon Whyly the limbo king, Leon St. Martin the Caribbean Fox, and Lord Protector will be on stage. Connoisseurs of female beauty will appreciate the appearance of the Miss Black Quebec 1984 contestants at the show. There will be a door prize of a trip to Trinidad and Tobago. Proceeds from the show help the Canadian Sickle Cell Society pursue its education, screening and counselling activities for the high-risk population and the public at large. Call the society at 735-5100 for ticket information.

Bits 'n' pieces

Jerry Williams, author of The Ghost of Private Walk, will be telling a story Saturday, 10:30-11 am, at Bettina Children's Bookstore, 5208 Queen Mary road. The story, Day of the Wizards, will appeal to 7 to ten year olds. ... Norma Joseph will speak on "Family and Modernity: The New World" Sunday, 8 pm, at the Snowdon Y, 5500 Westbury avenue.

A summer music series

Christ Church Cathedral is sponsoring its own concert series beginning Wednesday, 12:30 pm, with a recital by a group composed of Tom Talamantes on clarinet, Shirlee Mays on violin and Gerald Wheeler on piano. There will be a concert each Wednesday for the next 15 weeks. There will be seven organ recitals, five instrumental ensembles, one pianist and two instrumentally appropriately by Anne Pritchard and Anne-Marie Tremblay, designers for the production.

The change of set, from apartment to patio, is long and awkward. In a regular theatre it would be inexcusable; in a dinner theatre, where coffee cups and wine glasses are within easy reach, it is less so.

Before the play, a five-course dinner is served promptly and efficiently. Our party of four managed to sample every item on the menu, which offers three delectable choices each of appetizer, main course and dessert.

The roast beef, veal tenderloin and stuffed sole fillets all were rated highly. A small serving of watermelon sorbet between courses was specially good, as was the chocolate cheesecake served as one of the desserts.

The only sour note in the entire menu was an endive and rugala salad. Our table was unanimous in pronouncing personal aversion to endive.

Relatively Speaking continues at Les Masques until July 1.

International Nurses' Day marked at Reddy

By JOAN CAPRÉOL

The 251 nurses of the Reddy Memorial Hospital celebrated International Nurses' Day Friday, mingling together in the hospital's conference room where exhibits of new and ancient machinery and old photographs of nurses, dating back to 1916, were displayed and refreshments served. The nurses all wore pale blue ribbons on their uniforms.

In attendance were Réjean Plante, acting general manager of the Reddy, and Lynn Cattiny, the attractive new director of nursing.

A number of the nurses donned the uniforms they had trained in years before.

Eunice Ulley, head nurse on the second floor of surgery and medicine, was wearing the uniform she graduated in at St. Joseph's General Hospital in Vegreville, Alberta, 21 years ago. At five-foot-eight, she still weighs the same as she did then — 120 pounds.

She has worked at the Reddy since 1967, taking a year off to teach nursing at the Royal Victoria Hospital in 1969.

"I wish we were back 20 years because there is too much government interference today," said Nurse Ulley.

Miss Cattiny had "no comment" on this subject.

Convention for family group

The One-Parent Families Association of Canada is to hold its 11th annual convention in Pointe Claire this weekend, featuring workshops, speakers and dances Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

The first Montreal chapter of the association was founded at the Royal Montreal Regiment armory on St. Catherine street in Westmount, where it still meets. Dr. Alfred Garson, a Westmounter, is a former president of the group and still sits on the executive.

As many as 400 delegates from across the country are expected to attend the convention. For further information, call Al Forman, 748-4555.

Trained in England

Elaine Lanteigne, head nurse on the medical floor, also was wearing the uniform she trained in at the Edgeware Hospital in Middlesex, England, from which she graduated in 1961.

A Winnipeg native, she practised midwifery in England. She came to the Reddy in 1969. For three years, from 1965 to 1968, she was with CARE in Malaysia.

"The patient comes first at this hospital as it does in England," said Nurse Lanteigne. "I came and found the patients are very satisfied. I feel we are helping them."

Mrs. Pat Rutherford, head nurse on the orthopedics ward, has served the Reddy for 33 years. She graduated from the Reddy on January 1, 1944. "I left for a year and worked at a sanatorium in Fort William, Ont., for a year," she said. "I was at the Montreal Neurological Hospital from 1945 to 1950. I came here in 1951. Today I have 22 patients, having sent three home. Nursing is still a

Helped by machines

On deck was Mrs. Muriel Rabey who graduated from the Reddy in 1944. "I was away from the hospital for 15 years," she said. "I have been back for 20 years. Nursing has changed a lot. Nursing care is not the same because we are helped by machines which we didn't have before."

Speaking of machinery, on display were a new type of monitor, a defibrillator used in emergency, a very old suction machine, which is no longer used, and a new suction machine.

There also was a Wangenstein suction machine, which was used when Miss Cattiny was training at the Royal Victoria Hospital from 1966 to 1969.

The nurses on the third floor east dressed up a cabbage patch doll as a nurse.

There also was a little nurse doll called Rebecca that is made by the Nursing Assistants' Corporation. Proceeds from sales of the doll go to support Leucan, an organization for children with leukemia.

Atwater library changes hours

The Atwater Library plans to alter its hours for the summer following its closing for the Victoria Day holiday Monday. The new schedule will be in effect until after Labor Day.

During the summer, the library will be open from 10 am to 7 pm Monday to Thursday, closing an hour earlier on Friday evenings. Both Saturday and Sunday, the library will be closed.

Alumnae meet

The Westmount High School Alumnae Association is holding a meeting today at the residence of Mrs. James D. M. Brierly, 578 Lansdowne avenue, to discuss future plans of the alumnae.

Local students contribute to annual history fair

A number of Westmount students received awards in the annual history fair Saturday sponsored by the Quebec Association of Teachers of History at the Vieux Fort on St. Helen's Island.

The fair takes the form of an exhibition of models, essays and audio-visual presentations. All schools are encouraged to submit entries.

This year the array of over 100 models was impressive, according to one member of the association. All grades were represented, from kindergarten to grade 11.

The entries covered a variety of subjects, including the wooden Trojan horse, pioneer and Indian life, medieval castles, ancient ships, a Roman villa — even a model of the guillotine.

The Priory School, Westmount Park School, Miss Edgar's and Miss Cramp's School, Trafalgar School for Girls, Lower Canada College and Sacred Heart School all took part in the fair.

Other schools represented by models were Mountainview Elementary School, Bancroft School, St. Thomas High School, Malcolm Campbell High School, Chambly County High School, Elizabeth Ballantyne School, Pontiac Protestant High School and the Montreal Catholic School Commission's program for the gifted and talented.

Entries were judged for historical authenticity and creativity.

Armenian rug society meets

The fifth annual symposium of the Armenian Rugs Society will be held in Montreal May 19 and 20, 1984. The featured theme of the symposium is the Armenian Dragon Rug.

Other topics to be covered include "Armenian Kelims" by Janice Herbert of Westmount; "Canada's First Armenian Rug Merchants" by Yervant Pasdermajian, also of Westmount; "Hidden Cross Motifs" by Theodore Herbert, another Westmounter; and "Armenian Techniques of Carpet Restoration" by Mourad Ozcanian of Montreal.

The Armenian Rugs Society is devoted to the study of the art of Armenian carpet weaving and bringing to light the cultural and artistic contributions of Armenian rug making. The society's members represent many countries, including Australia, Canada, England, France, Hungary, Saudi Arabia, Switzerland, and the United States.

The symposium will be held at the downtown Holiday Inn, 420 Sherbrooke street west. In conjunction with the symposium, an exhibition of Armenian carpets will be held at Ararat Rug Company, 3457 Park avenue in Montreal. For registration information, call Eileen Bedoukian or Janice Herbert at 288-2455.

dian capable of researching the extent to which society has been changed by the entry of women in the work place, the political arena and the social field and thus to seek out and determine the means to a harmonious transition.

Since the Hon. Jeanne Sauvé has been appointed Governor-General and can no longer head the campaign, it falls on the board and president to continue the fundraising.

"We need to increase our efforts to reach the goal," said Mrs. Howlett during an exclusive interview with THE WESTMOUNT EXAMINER. "The result of the appeal made to Westmounters has been most gratifying.

"The reason I have been working a part of every day on the foundation for a year and a half is that I am convinced that the philosophy of Thérèse Casgrain should be perpetuated; that men and women should work together for the betterment of society."

Established in 1982

The Thérèse F. Casgrain Foundation was established on May 13, 1982, with letters patent from the Canadian government as a non-profit organization, with the right to issue receipts for income tax purposes.

Sen. Thérèse Casgrain

Among the founding members were Senator Casgrain's friends and protégés: Hon. Jeanne Sauvé, Judge Réjane Colas, Senator Yvette Rousseau, Hon. Monique Bégin, minister of health and welfare, Senator Renaude Lapointe and Iona Campagnolo, president of the Liberal Party of Canada.

Senator Casgrain's unceasing efforts to improve the living conditions of all Canadians were recognized and respected across the country. Canadian universities awarded her 13 honorary doctorates.

She ran nine times for the New Democratic Party and was made a senator by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau. She got the vote for women in Quebec in 1940. She had travelled 18 times to the Quebec parliament to get the franchise for women.

The cause of peace found her in Helsinki in 1964 and Moscow in 1965. While in Russia, a Soviet woman representative said to her: "Madam, I am an atheist and a communist. You are a Catholic and a capitalist. But we have one thing in common, we both want peace."

In 1979-1980 she was a one-woman army in defence of Canadian unity during the Quebec referendum campaign. She travelled all over Quebec, never counting the cost to herself in health and rest.

Senator Casgrain was made a Companion of the Order of Canada in 1974. In February 1981, the bishops of Quebec honored her as a pioneer in the field of social justice. On November 3, 1981, she died in her sleep at the age of 85, satisfied that her former opponents, both clerical and governmental, had recognized her efforts and her accomplishments.

Alphonsine Howlett née Paré is the wife of Dr. John Howlett, mother of four sons and one daughter (Martha of television fame) and grandmother of three.

Mrs. Howlett has been involved in many causes and organizations. Since 1981, she has been founder and vice-president of the English-speaking Catholic Council, coordinating English Catholic activities in Montreal.

She is also a member of the board and executive council of the ministry of health and social affairs for the planning and programming of health and welfare for metropolitan Montreal.

From 1977 to 1981 she was a member and president of the board of the Ville Marie Social Service Centre.

From 1975 to 1979 she was director of the administrative services of the Montreal Neurological Hospital.

In 1981 she received an

honorary degree in law from Concordia University. In 1980 she was made a member of the Order of Canada.

In 1978 Mrs. Howlett was named a Great Montrealer, chosen by a jury composed of representatives of the English, French and Jewish communities in Montreal.

In 1976, she was named citizen of the year by Le Conseil de Civisme de Montréal.

Anyone who wishes to support the Foundation may send a contribution to Mrs. Howlett directly.

Sgt. Edouard Thibodeau, the first and only Westmount police officer to be wounded by gunfire, transferred out of local MUC station 23 this week after serving many years in Westmount.

He becomes a liaison officer at Montreal municipal court. Sgt. Ross Trudel from station 25 will replace Sgt. Thibodeau here, Dir. Michel Groulx announced this week.

CHOM smoke crossed road

A call to firefighters Monday afternoon for a smell of smoke at radio station CHOM, 1355 Greene avenue, was believed to be smoke from new construction across the street, fire officials said.

Smoke from welding at 1350 Greene had got into the plumbing system and main drain.

When pressure tests were conducted on the new plumbing, they were believed to have pushed the smoke out into buildings across the street at 1355, 1357 and 1367.

Clubs taken

A set of $1,250 golf clubs was stolen from the apartment building at 250 Clarke avenue, police report. The theft took place from a basement locker sometime between Nov. 15 and May 5.

Spectacular Italian shoes in new boutique

By JOAN CAPRÉOL

A new, delightfully decorated boutique of elegant Italian shoes, handbags and belts was opened Saturday by Giosire (Joe) Caminiti at 1267 Greene avenue.

It is called Tendresse, like the boutique of Italian ladies' wear Mr. Caminiti opened last year two doors south.

The collection of hundreds of different types in a myriad of colors includes evening and day shoes by Volpini, of Florence, Italy's top shoe designer. The average price per pair is $150.

One spectacular evening shoe of red suede is toeless with a black sequined bow priced at $195. Another black sandal boasts a band of sequins and a price tag of $145. One aquamarine evening slipper is decorated with diamond-like stones mounted on gold-colored metal flowers and sells at $150.

Mr. Caminiti pointed with pride to exquisite silk shoes and bags by Melluso in cobra and leather from Naples.

"Here are silk bags with horse's head design and clasp, which come from Como, by the best manufacturer in Italy, Mr. Caminiti said. "An executive would love the luxury of the briefcases by Montero, of Como."

Made at border

All the leather bags from Friuli, of Italy, are made by artisans at the Austrian border. There are also attractive, modern burlap bags from Friuli.

Many handbags are designed by Alexander of Parma, which Mr. Caminiti said is the centre of shoes and leathers of the world.

Mr. Caminiti picked up lovingly hand-made Biollo shoes from Stra, Venice. "That's where Nancy Reagan gets her shoes," he said.

Men are not forgotten in the

Taylor show draws crowd

Color took over Dan Delaney's Artlenders Gallery at the vernissage of Nova Taylor's retrospective exhibition Monday night.

The gallery was crowded with approximately 200 persons showing up for the opening. Many prominent artists were in attendance.

Sales were brisk and the proceeds go to the Royal Victoria Hospital cancer research fund as requested by Nova Taylor before her death at age 64 in Mexico. She was the wife of the widely-known artist Frederick Taylor.

The exhibition continues until Saturday.

Rosana Canova is a salesperson in the new shoe and handbag store, Tendresse, on Greene avenue near the clothing store of the same name.

boutique. There are handsome shoes, handbags, belts, wallets, briefcases and leather suitcases for them.

Fashionable umbrellas, also from Italy, are present.

In his office, Mr. Caminiti has thousands of samples of the best silks from Como. "1235 Greene avenue is the distribution centre for Italian silks for Canada," he said.

Women here fashionable

"I like Westmount because the women are the most fashionable in Canada," he said. "We get customers here from Toronto, California, Quebec city, and almost every weekend from Ottawa." He said he had done well during his first year on Greene avenue.

His first shop in Montreal was in Côte St. Luc. He is studying the feasibility of opening ladies' wear and shoe stores in Ottawa.

Council looks at bankruptcy

The Central Council for Consumers of Ville Marie Social Services is sponsoring a lecture and discussion on voluntary personal bankruptcy by Max Druker, a trustee in bankruptcy, in the Ville Marie board room at 4018 St. Catherine street west on May 24 from 9:30 to 11:30 am.

Mr. Druker will explain the various steps involved in bankruptcy and will discuss its usefulness as a solution to debt problems experienced by consumers. The session is free of charge and all members of the public are invited to meet Mr. Druker and pose to him any questions they have on the topic.

Mr. Caminiti is 55 and came to Canada in 1952, becoming a Canadian citizen in 1958.

His wife, Franca, is also Italian. The couple have four children, all born in Canada and all trilingual, speaking English, French and Italian as their father does.

Maria, 23, who is married to a doctor in Italy, is studying to become a dentist there.

Carla, 22, goes to Concordia and is studying languages.

Marco, 18, is a dentistry student at McGill University.

Rita, 16, attends the Convent of the Sacred Heart School in Montreal.

Heller gives country classes

Westmounter Susan Heller, 44 Burton avenue, has planned a series of summer workshops to take place on her farm in the Eastern Townships near Hemmingford covering subjects such as bread-making, spinning, wildflower painting, watercolor painting, dyeing and herb gardening.

Each workshop is to be given twice during the summer and includes lunch and tea. All are one-day sessions, except for wool dyeing, which lasts three days. Fees and required materials vary for each course.

"It is a day of both stimulation — the course itself — and relaxation — away from the city," according to Mrs. Heller. Her 1840s farmhouse is approximately 35 to 40 minutes from the Champlain bridge.

Until May 18, Mrs. Heller may be reached for information at home, 481-4196. After that date, call 247-2174 long distance.

School librarian requests electronic security system

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

Georgi Kish re-elected by WHS parents

Westmount High School's librarian wants the school to consider installing an electronic security system in the library to cut down on book thefts.

Violet Mair told the school's parents' committee Monday that the library is losing about $3,000 worth of books each year.

"There seems to be some opinion this (the security system) would make the library like a jail," said Miss Mair, "but I think it would be the opposite because so many books walk out now that any books we want to keep we have to keep behind the counter."

Miss Mair said at least three schools in the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal have installed the systems, which sound an alarm if a book is taken out of the library without having been checked by a library attendant.

She said those high schools — Rosemount, Riverdale and LaSalle — have found the number of books lost by their libraries has dropped sharply since installing the electronic systems.

According to Miss Mair, such a system would cost about $16,000. She said the library currently has about $11,000 in its capital account, and that by using that money and other funds, such as the library's book funds, the library could purchase the system.

"I've been curtailing the buying (of books) so we could get a system where we wouldn't be afraid to put good books on the shelves," said Miss Mair. "It's not cheap, but books aren't cheap either."

Principal Gary Thompson expressed support for the idea of the system but said he was hesitant about paying the price for it. "My biggest concern is the up-front capital money required to come from the library's budget," said Mr. Thompson.

The matter will be brought up again at the committee's June meeting, after Mr. Thompson has had a chance to consult students on the proposal.

Westmount High School's committee held elections Monday. Five members were added to the committee, but three current members were lost, bringing to 19 the number of parents who will sit on the committee next year.

The new members include Nicole Dominique, Patrick Benjamin, Arlene Ritter, Mary Hooper and Malo Possanza.

Stepping down from the committee are John Daniel, Trevor Bishop and Ron Hooper.

Staying on as chairman of the committee for next year is Georgi Kish. Andrea Burgess will remain as the committee's external representative. The positions of secretary and treasurer have yet to be filled.

The committee is allowed a maximum of 23 members. The four openings are expected to be filled in September by parents of children new to the school.

The committee passed a motion to accept next year's school calendar, as proposed by principal Gary Thompson. The major change in the calendar will be the adoption of a two-term system, with exams to be held in January and June. Progress reports will be issued five times in the year, as in the past.

Another change is the shifting of the school show, The Purple and White Review, from its traditional time in May to the third week of February.

The committee also heard from Mr. Thompson that the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal is eager to again hold its Fine Arts Festival at Westmount High next year.

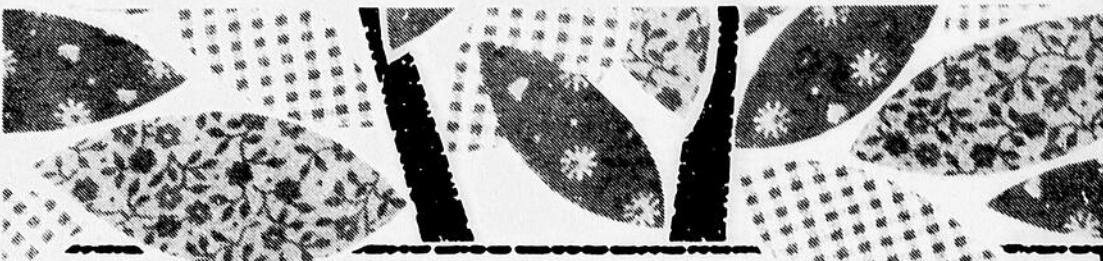

"We are victims of our own good graces and successes," said Mr. Thompson, referring to the success of this year's festival at the school. He added that in thanks for Westmount High's hosting of the festival, the PSBGM would be taking out advertising in THE EXAMINER and other newspapers to advertise to advertise the school.

WESTMOUNT PARK CONCERT: Students in the kindergarten class at Westmount Park School presented a rousing version of "Boom, Boom, Ain't it Great to be Crazy" at the school's annual musical concert, held recently. A full house turned out to listen to songs by all grades and by the school's choir.

Police clear Selwyn House table-push

The Selwyn House table-push to Ottawa has received clearance from the Quebec Police Force for the weekend of June 8, according to organizers of the event.

The effort is being undertaken by a group of students in grade 10 as a fund-raiser for the Donald Marshall Fund.

"We have been given clearance, but only during the day," explained Richard Denis, instigator of the trip.

The youths originally had planned to push their lunch table to the nation's capital this weekend but changed their schedule at the request of provincial police.

They are expected to be escorted by Roger Nincheri, a teacher at the school, as well as by Rev. Bob Hussey, who started the fund.

Organizers are aiming to collect some $10,000 for their efforts.

The Donald Marshall Fund was established to help compensate a 30-year-old Micmac Indian who served 11 years in prison for a murder he did not commit.

The fund now stands at more than $41,000 raised from individual contributions as well as from certain religious institutions.

Donations may be sent to the fund at: P.O. Box 576, Station H, Montreal H3G 2L5.

Hutchison follows Shepherd at Christ Church Cathedral

Rev. Andrew S. Hutchison, rector of St. Luke's Church in the Anglican diocese of Toronto, is to be inducted as the new rector of Christ Church Cathedral and Anglican dean of Montreal in September.

He succeeds Dean Ronald Shepherd, 414 Roslyn avenue, who resigned last October after a 13-year incumbency.

The dean-elect, who describes himself as "passionately Canadian," is functionally bilingual and is looking forward to becoming fluent in French as quickly as possible. He also has some knowledge of German, Greek and Italian.

He has studied extensively on the subject of the technological revolution and has his own IBM personal computer. He mentions joining "the quest to find how best to effect our national (and indeed global) shift from an industrial to an informational society, and have great concern for those who are inevitably caught in the crunch between those societies."

In a letter to wardens of the cathedral he states: "The Church does not exist in a vacuum, but in relationship to the community in which it is placed to serve. A faithful parish will have a keen eye and ear to the needs of its wider community, and to the network of agencies and individuals who minister to aspects of those needs."

McKnight sees Roslyn School numbers climb

A steady rise in enrolment from 584 to 600 in 1983-84 and a predicted opening enrolment of 613 for September was reported by principal Barbara McKnight to a general meeting of Roslyn School parents Monday night. "The enrolment might not stop there because children are still enrolling," she added.

"Forty students are leaving because they are moving away. We have lost nine students, the lowest number ever, to private schools.

"We have the biggest kindergarten in my eight years here - 109 children."

Miss McKnight said the school's chief priority this year was a blitz on mathematics in grade 6. The teachers planned a tests campaign. "We have been working really hard on remedial mathematics," she said. "The children's keenness has risen and we have needed the very bright students to be more accurate."

In the Canadian National Mathematics League contest, Roslyn school came 12th in Canada and fourth among Quebec

Ten-year-old winner selected in Youth Horizons art contest

Eighty-four entries were submitted for the third annual Youth Horizons art contest, open to all youngsters within the Youth Horizons Reception Centre network.

Participants, ranging in age from two to 18 years, prepared drawings from a choice of three central themes: Youth Horizons and me; My place in the sun; and Summer fun.

The winning picture was done by a 10-year-old boy in the agency's pre-adolescent program at Allancroft on the West Island. The drawing will appear on the cover of the Youth Horizons annual report, which will be published in June.

Youth Horizons is a reception centre which offers treatment and care to troubled, non-delinquent young people. These services extend along a continuum of care and include emergency shelters, day treatment, community-based programs and residential care. The headquarters of Youth Horizons are located in Westmount.

The art contest was introduced three years ago as a means of involving the children. Art is considered to be a particularly meaningful and expressive form of communication. The works of art, which are traditionally displayed at the Youth Horizons annual meeting to be held in June, give the community-at-large greater insight into the children and their special needs.

The distinguished panel which met to select the grand prize winner and runners-up included: CJAD broadcaster and artist George Balcan; real estate consultant and Youth Horizons Foundation board member Andy Dodge; Ronald Haynes, principal of Keith School in LaSalle and board member; Terry Mosher, cartoonist better known as 'Aislin' of The Gazette; Dr. Janet Shinder, obstetrician and gynecologist in private practice who also works with adolescent girls at the Montreal Children's Hospital; Joy Smith, board member who works at Ville Marie Social Service Centre; Lillian Vineberg, counsellor for the Town of Hampstead and artist; and Victoria Woodman, parent of a child in the Youth Horizons Contact (day treatment) program and art therapist.

Roslyn committee re-elects James Dowie as chairman

By JOAN CAPRÉOL

James Dowie was re-elected chairman of the Roslyn school committee at its meeting Monday night.

Ken Watkins also was re-elected external chairman. He deals with all the subjects external to the school — regional and central parents' committees etc.

Mr. Dowie said the committee was a liaison body between parents, staff and principal. The committee, he said, was always looking for parents to support "one of the leading schools in Quebec."

"We have enjoyed a really good year," Mr. Dowie said.

The major project was the raffle for the school-yard climbing apparatus, a safe, wooden structure to be built in the northeast corner of the grounds.

Geri McKeown said the fund raising objective was $9,000 and raffle tickets would be sold from May 30 to June 6. The big prize is a weekend in New York for two with flight and accommodation paid.

Ask about milk

Gail Mathewson is to ask the lunch co-ordinators if they are willing to take on a milk program at lunchtime. Approximately 356 children participate in the lunch program. Lunch costs $80 per child per year. It is served in five rooms with 11 supervisors and two co-ordinators.

The following 21 persons were elected to the school committee: James Dowie, Ken Watkins, Daphne Mitchell, Pat Ackman, Pam Frankel, Gail Mathewson, Geri McKeown, Michele Kaulbach, Elsa Podbrey, Mary Shingler, Barry Thompson, Hazel private and public schools. A total of 1,117 schools entered the competition.

The priority in mathematics will be extended to grades 4 and 5 next year. The school has five computers.

"We have a very healthy atmosphere of trust in the school between parents, children and teachers," said Miss McKnight. "The teachers are willing to take criticism and thank the parents for much support."

The children, she said, had a good time in a lot of sports activities.

Many students had sent off good art work to the Protestant School Board's fine arts festival.

Miss McKnight congratulated the school choir and announced that a public speaking contest for grades 5 and 6 was to take place yesterday afternoon starting at 1 pm.

Thompson, Nanci Montpetit, William Olsen, Chris Lyle, Ruth Fleischer, Susan Busch, Mary Beaden, Chris Gibbs, Sandra Beaubien and Jane Poulsson.

There still are two openings in September. Those willing to stand are Chris Bagnall, Helen Duff and Renée Prendergast.

The registration night for activities is Monday, September 17. The 12 minutes are not going to be added to school hours as proposed by the government.

The next meeting of the school committee is June 11.

There are a limited number of openings for boys in our coeducational summer course:

— French as a Second Language

Concentrating attention on the individual needs of each student, experienced Francophone teachers will provide the opportunity for extensive practice in spoken and written French.

Recreational and cultural activities, both on and off our campus, encourage better understanding amongst students and teachers of both English and French language groups, who live together at the School for the month.

Our courses are designed to meet the needs of boys and girls, aged 11 to 15. Detailed reports are prepared following the close of Summer School which will run from June 24th to July 21st.

Leaky vehicle flushed, towed

A Rhode Island car ended up in the MUC police pound Saturday after it was found leaking gas, fire officials report.

Firemen were called to a garage at 4560 St. Catherine street at 11 am for a smell of gas. They traced it to dripping gas in a garage but were unable to find the owner.

Police were called and firemen forced their way into the garage. A Volkswagen leaking gas was pushed out into the lane and the FASHIONABLE STUDENTS: The Westmount High School fashion show, a fund-raising event for the school scholarship fund, drew the usual enthusiastic spectators recently in the school's auditorium. Lighting, sound and, of course, the student models themselves were up to the expected high standard. The fashions from Montreal and Westmount stores ranged from sportswear to summer casual to formal wear.

Other interviews were conducted with Aldermen Sally Aitken and Peter Trent; Westmount Municipal Association president Jim Wright; Suzanne Bannon, director of the Westmount Senior Citizens' Centre; and Edythe Germain of Arts Westmount.

The program is scheduled to be shown Saturday at 2:30 pm, Sunday at 8 pm, May 28 at 9:30 pm, June 2 at 2:30 pm and June 3 at 8 pm.

Cat fed, break-in found

The rear door of a house on Lansdowne avenue was forced open Wednesday night last week while residents were at home, police said. Nothing was reported taken.

The occupant apparently had heard noises downstairs while on the second storey listening to the radio and believed the sound to involve neighbors next door.

At 11 pm, however, when he went down to feed the cat, he found the door had been forced open causing about $100 damage.

Barbara Trigger again to head Park school parent committee

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

The membership of Westmount Park school's parents' committee will remain virtually the same next year as this past year.

All but one of the parents at the committee's meeting last Tuesday agreed to serve on the committee, and all positions were acclaimed. Barbara Trigger will stay on as committee chairman, Mary Lefebvre will remain external representative and Wendy Lloyd-Smith will take over as secretary. Positions of treasurer and teachers' representative will be filled at a later date.

Also present at the meeting Tuesday were Protestant School Board of Montreal commissioners Joan Rothman and Ivan Livingston.

During discussion of the ministry of education's controversial Bill 40, principal Richard Jack suggested the present halt in the legislation's progress might be an opportune time for school committees to start considering how they would like to see the

Patrick Arnaud is chairman at St. Léon

Fewer than 25 parents attended an all-parents' meeting at St. Léon School Tuesday last week during which 12 parents were elected to the school committee for 1984-85.

Patrick Arnaud was elected chairman of the committee, having served this year as secretary. Georges Hébert becomes secretary, having served this year as chairman.

Elise Bochmann again is to serve as treasurer and Maria Sandberg becomes vice-chairman. An external representative still is to be named.

Other parents elected to the committee include Pierre Étienne, Gemma Boicel, Paul Babarik, Margaret Melanson, Susan McKenna, David Webber, Nancy Wright and Barbara Drury.

A discussion of computer education at St. Léon, anticipated at the meeting last Tuesday, was postponed in order to allow parents and administrators to gather more information.

Prior to the election, Jean Pierre Drolet, principal, reviewed activities at the school during the year.

Following the election, the new committee held its first meeting. Plans were made for committee participation in the school's open house May 30, from 10 am to 3 pm. An evening presentation begins at 6 pm.

The St. Léon school committee scheduled its next meeting for June 5, beginning at 7:30 pm in the staff lounge.

school system restructured.

"All along we've been looking for input," said Mrs. Rothman in support of Mr. Jack's suggestion. "It's been a defensive posture for the most part. If there are any ideas for restructuring, now's a good time for them."

Mrs. Rothman said that although some restructuring of the education system eventually would have to occur, she believed Bill 40 would be "unimplementable before the next election will take place."

The committee also discussed the possibility of getting funds for a pre-kindergarten class from the Montreal Island school coun-

Roslyn pupils enter contest

Children at Roslyn School were among 12,117 primary school children from across Canada who participated in a poster competition sponsored by the Canadian Paediatric Society aimed at promoting immunization.

Contestants were free to express the importance of immunization in any way they saw fit, focusing attention on such preventable diseases as measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and polio.

An independent jury is choosing a winning work in each province. Prizes include an all-expense paid trip for the winner and his family to Disney World, a personal computer for pupil use for the winner's school and $500 for the winner's teacher.

Provincial winners are to receive a 10-speed bicycle, their schools $500 and their teachers $100.

School needs volunteers

The Philip E. Layton School for the Blind, situated on Sherbrooke street west, is urgently in need of volunteer teacher's aides, five days a week.

No special qualifications are needed other than a sincere interest in young children.

Four children constitute a class of severely multi-handicapped blind children. They need assistance in learning to walk, talk and eat independently. If you have some free time, either one day or one morning a week, please call Eliane B. Masson at 489-8201.

Bank rocked

A rock was thrown through two glass doors of the Bank of Montreal branch at 5003 Sherbrooke street Sunday night, police report. Damage amounted to $400. The incident occurred at 11:58 pm.

cil's inner-city school program. Mrs. Rothman told the committee that since Westmount Park now draws a significant number of students from underprivileged areas, it could probably qualify for such funds.

"You can see that if there's the money there's no reason we can't get a pre-K program if we can provide the children," she said.

Mr. Jack reported to meeting that in addition to the school's heating system being switched to natural gas, the main activity in the school during the summer would come from the McGill University summer school for gifted and talented children. The group again will use Westmount Park as home for its program for children from grades one to nine.

After-school day-care plan at Park school

Westmount Park School will offer an after-school day-care program in September.

The school's parents' committee voted last Tuesday to endorse the establishment of such a program. Originally proposed by Garderie Narnia, which operates a regular day-care centre in the school, the program will be the responsibility of the school committee.

"We have to, at this point, start to register students formally," principal Richard Jack told the committee.

The program will be run by Cindy Lulham, assistant director of Narnia. At the meeting, Miss Lulham said she had firm commitments from parents of 25 children to register their children for the program. Most of these children will attend Westmount Park, although four will attend Roslyn, two will go to the Fine Arts Core Education (FACE) School and one will attend private school.

Miss Lulham is planning for a maximum of 30 children in the program for next year. If there are more than that number of applicants in September, priority will be given first to Westmount Park students and then to other students in the public school system.

The program will run from 2:30 pm to 6 pm on all school days and will use the facilities of Westmount Park School.

England beats Netherlands in atom soccer opener

By GARY ROUSE

Westmount's popular Mini-World Cup of soccer began this past Saturday, as the atoms, novices and peewees saw action.

Opening up the season in the atom category were England and the Netherlands. They started it off with a bang, playing an extremely exciting game with England finally winning 1-0.

Poland and Austria followed that game with an equally exciting match in which Austria came away with a 2-0 victory.

In novice, Canada and Spain played a thrilling game as both teams played as if it were mid-season. Canada eventually came out on the front end of a 3-2 score, but not before some great soccer had been played.

In peewee action there were two shutouts registered by both Italy and Uruguay. There still is room to register for bantam soccer but please do so as soon as possible as things are beginning to get under way. Also, remember that soccer is played rain or shine so please show up on time.

Games are played in Westmount Park beginning at 9 am every Saturday, with the exception of the midjets, who play on the

First alarm, then window

A window was broken in the front door of the Unity Boys' and Girls' Club early last Thursday morning, police said.

They had first been called to the building at 1090 Greene avenue at 1:40 am for an alarm call. All was reported in order at that time, however. They returned at 3:15 am to verify the building and found the window broken.

Westmount Athletic grounds behind Westmount High School at 9:30 am.

There is still room for girls interested in playing soccer or volleyball, but they must register quickly as the leagues have already begun.

Villa Ste. Marcelline hosts girls from British Columbia

SINGING FOR THEIR GUESTS: Students from Villa Ste. Marcelline held a ceremony at their school last week to welcome their guests from Norfolk House school in Victoria. As part of the event, the school's choir entertained with a few choral selections.

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

Students from the other end of the country were visitors at Villa Ste. Marcelline this week.

The private, French-language girls' school on Upper Belmont avenue played host this week to a class from Norfolk House, a girls' school in Victoria, B.C.

In the first part of the exchange, a class from Villa Ste. Marcelline visited the west coast school in March.

The class from Victoria arrived Wednesday last week and planned to leave yesterday. During the visit, they took part in a variety of activities, including tours of McGill University, the Olympic Stadium and a trip to Ottawa.

The exchange provided not only a chance to see other cities, but to speak other languages.

"We went there to learn English and they came here to learn French," says Troyano Ramonez, a teacher at the school.

The exchange was arranged under the auspices of the federal government's Open House Canada program. Students were billeted with families while the federal program covered the cost of transportation and most other items.

"To be accepted, we had to submit a program showing the cultural, political and geographical aspects of the exchange," says Mrs. Ramonez of the grant application.

The exchange is not the first between the two schools. Classes from the Villa and Norfolk House also visited each other's school in 1980.

City to offer tennis lessons

Starting in July, Westmount's department of recreation will offer tennis lessons for children and adults.

Lessons for boys and girls from 10 to 16 years of age will be given on the junior courts in Westmount Park, starting July 3.

Lessons for adults will commence the same day, on the adult courts.

All players must have their own racquet and proper tennis attire. If weather is inclement, lessons will be held in the artificial ice rink.

Registration for all courses starts on June 4, with forms available at the recreation department office in the artificial ice rink. More information is available from the department at 935-8531, ext. 212.

Two-and-a-half bicycles stolen

A $250 bicycle was reported stolen Monday last week from Sherbrooke street and Grosvenor avenue. Police said it had been left unlocked.

Another bike was stripped of its parts while left outside 52 Academy road Tuesday last week.

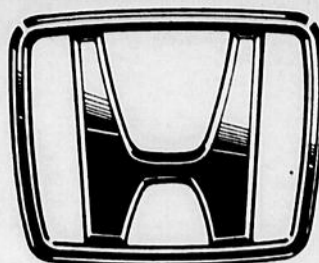

The red Motocross lost its handlebars, wheels and pedals.

A third bicycle disappeared the next day from a balcony at the rear of 376 Metcalfe avenue where it had been left locked. The lock was found cut.

Parking meter keys dropped

Keys for City of Westmount parking meters were lost on Sherbrooke street Friday last Thursday, police report.

The keys were believed dropped on the side south of the street between Prince Albert and Claremont avenues Thursday, but the incident was not reported until Friday.
