KING EDWARD CELEBRATION IN HUNTINGDON TUESDAY WAS SUCCESSFUL EVENT

PARADE BY THREE TROOPS BOY SCOUTS, MALONE BAND, C.G.I.T. MEMBERS, ACADEMY AND BOYS' SCHOOL PUPILS, SPORTS PROGRAMME

Huntingdon observed King Edward VIII's birthday with the biggest and most successful celebration it has staged in recent years. The festivities commenced at one o'clock with a parade that proceeded through the principal thoroughfares of the town and ended at the Fair Grounds. Activities at the grounds proceeded at a rapid rate with an interesting programme of track and field events, canoe drill, a baseball game and tug-of-war contest.

The parade, which started at Prince Arthur Square was led by the Assistant Scout Master, Reg. Daniel of the Huntington troop, followed by the Ormstown Scout troop, the boys of St. Joseph's school, who carried small Union Jacks and Canadian flags in their hands, were led by Mr. S. D. Pock with Scouts from the Huntington troop as markers. The Valleyfield Scout Troop, under the command of Assistant District Commissioner Rev. M. W. Williams, was followed by the boys of Huntington Academy who also carried flags. Scouts from the Ormstown Scout troop acted as markers for this contingent. Members of the Town Council driving in cars made up the last unit in the procession. The route of the parade was from Prince Arthur Square up Wellington, Bouchette, Prince, Lake and Chateaugay to the Fair Grounds. Streets and houses throughout the town were gaily decorated with flags and bunting in honour of the occasion, and all shops and business houses were closed during the afternoon.

The programme at the grounds commenced with an impressive cadet drill in front of the grandstand by the boys and girls of Huntington Academy, led by Sergeant Major Wallis. A baseball game between Malone and Huntington and the track and field events were put on the programme simultaneously, with both features drawing an equal share of the crowd. The ball game lasted three and one-half hours with the local team finally gaining the decision, 22-15, and a soft-ball game, which had been scheduled to start immediately afterwards, was played for only three innings, due to the late hour. A popular feature of the track and field section of the programme was the tug-of-war contest which included entries from Godmanchester, Huntington and St. Amice. The Godmanchester thirteen were cleared victors, after they had out-

Sensational Catches

The many baseball fans who followed the Huntington team to Malone on Sunday were given a real treat of how a baseball game should be played, when the Huntington team displayed a brand of ball that has not been seen around this district for the past few years.

The second inning turned out to be the winning one for the Huntington team when eleven men faced Machabee, the Malone pitcher; four singles, two bases on balls and two errors accounted for six runs. Again in the third inning Huntington scored and they were leading by 8-0 when Malone came to bat in the last half of the third. Malone started hitting Monique and they were able to secure three runs. In the fourth inning and five in the fifth which placed them one point behind the visitors. The score was then 9-8. An argument arose in the fifth inning when Perry scored on a bunt. Black catching for Huntington, received the ball from Monique and touched the runner; but the umpire ruled him safe on grounds that the catcher had not touched the player with the bat, but with his mitt. After discussing the matter, the run was allowed and Brown, then umpiring behind the plate, was replaced by Perry.

Some sensational catches were made by Pete Bush, playing in the right field position for Huntington while Gavin played his usual good game at center. Sam Dumas, second baseman for Malone, made a spectacular catch of Taylor's fly-ball behind second base in the seventh inning. Machabee was wild in the first few innings of the game but tightened later on and turned out a good game, while Monique and Baxter were very effective on the mound for Huntington.

N. Hay and Taylor played a good game in the field and at bat for the visitors while Dumas' work is worthy of mention. More than 150 fans cheered Huntington on.

Minister Is Inducted To New Charge

Dundee United Pastorate Is Taken Over By Rev. J. H. Lynn

The induction of Rev. J. H. Lynn, B.A., into the charge of Zion United Church at Dundee was held in the church on Thursday evening. Rev. Mr. Lynn was called from Avoca, Que., to fill the charge rendered vacant by the death of the late Rev. C. A. Haughton.

On behalf of the Montreal Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, Rev. J. H. Miller, D.D., of Huntington, explained the steps leading up to the induction. Conducting the worship was Rev. M. W. Williams, of Valleyfield, assisted by Mr. Stuart Reid, Presbyterian Church summer student for Dundee.

The new minister and congregation were addressed by the Rev. J. H. Woodside, of Athelstan and Kensington charge, who, in addressing the minister reminded him of the duties of his office, the dignity of his office, and the necessity of being a radiator of faith, hope, and joy.

He asked the congregation to speak kindly of their minister, and to help him in those times when there is unemployment in the cities, boys and girls are remaining on the farms and the training at Macdonald College was a value in fitting them for country life and enabling them to regard it as a grand adventure. Miss B. M. Philp, head of the school of domestic science also extended a welcome.

This is an outstanding year in the history of the Women's Institutes in this Province, marking the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of its first Branches, at Dunham and Howick in 1911. Mrs. C. E. Petch noted in her presidential address.

"There have been discouragements and disappointments, no doubt," she commented, "but if we adhere to the principles so wisely laid down by the pioneers of the movement, leaving aside race, creed and party, and working for the betterment of home, community and country, we will contribute our quota to this great movement which has become world-wide, and which has helped to broaden and enrich country life beyond the most sanguine hopes of the Canadian woman who conceived the idea of bringing our rural women together, in a common cause."

Work for peace, for public health and for education of children and adults, were some of the activities stressed. Mrs. Petch advised the Institute Branches to endeavor to make their communities "health conscious"; to continue to agitate for the establishment of county Health Units until they had become a province-wide service, and where they are organized to co-operate with the officers in charge. The education of women in helping to reduce maternal mortality should also form a part of the health work of the Branches.

Mrs. Petch spoke of pleasures available to rural women, even in times of financial depression. "Have you ever tried adventuring in your garden?" she asked, going on to give some suggestions for transferring wild flowers and plants to perennial borders and building up rock gardens.

Suffered Skull Fractures In Automobile Accident Near Beauharnois

According to a report received this noon from Dr. O. E. Giza, chief surgeon at the Valleyfield Hospital, Robert Pouliot, and Florent Leduc, both 11 years of age, of Beauharnois, injured in an automobile accident last Sunday night are still in grave danger. Pouliot has regained consciousness but Leduc has not.

The accident occurred half a mile from Beauharnois on the way to Sainte-Martine. Clement Leduc, 21, was driving, and they were on their way home; while passing another automobile driven by A. Murphy, Beauharnois, Leduc became confused and swerved sideways. The car crashed into a ditch two feet deep and ran about forty feet before striking a large tree. Passing motorists rendered first aid. Clement Leduc, his brother Gustave Leduc, 15, and Robert Pouliot were taken to Beauharnois where they were treated by Dr. Simon. The two Leduc boys were sent home after treatment but Pouliot was removed at once to Valleyfield Hospital.

In a somewhat nervous state the boys could not tell passing motorists how many were in the car when the accident happened. It was while at the doctor's office in Beauharnois that the oldest brother missed Florent and a party rushed out to find his whereabouts. Due to the darkness and confusion the search was first failed to find Florent Leduc, but then discovered him unconscious on the bottom of the car, also seriously hurt, and was taken to the hospital. Dr. A. Desrosiers, Beauharnois, assisted Dr. Simon in treating the injured youths. The older Leduc boys received cuts and bruises but not such as needed hospital treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Holbrook, of Island Brook, accompanied by Mr. Barter, of Bury, Que., spent the week-end at the home of Mr. R. T. Brownlee. Miss Doris Holbrook returned home with them to spend the summer vacation with her parents.

Miss Evelyn Petch has gone to Sawyerville, Que., to visit friends and relations for an indefinite time.

Mrs. O. Pierre has gone to Hudson Falls to attend the wedding of her niece, Miss Lea Monette, to Mr. Francois Normandin of Boston.

Head Denies Knowledge Of Combine

No Division To Eliminate Competition Says President At Textile Inquiry

If any definite arrangement exists between Canadian Cottons Limited, and Dominion Textile Company, Limited, to divide the fields of operation with the former company, other than A. O. Dawson, president of the former company, knows nothing about it. So he declared Wednesday afternoon in the Old Court House to the Turgeon Commission investigating the alleged textile industry, when J. C. McRuer, K.C., Commission counsel, charged its existence.

With completion of Wednesday's evidence, the inquiring body rose until Monday morning. Then Charles B. Howard, M.P. for Sherbrooke, was heard in connection with his part in the telegram sent on January 18, last, by the City of Sherbrooke, asking the intervention of the Prime Minister and of Finance Minister Dunning the day after the rayon mill of Dominion Textiles was shut down. Gordon Hooper, who has been sitting in at the Commission hearings on behalf of the Department of National Revenue, also testified as did Major Bradley of Sherbrooke. Official exhibits filed to date number 509.

"Did you and the Dominion Textile Company split up the field of operations between you?" Mr. McRuer asked, especially in the division of the yarn-dyed and piece-dyed fabrics market?

He did not know about it, witness stated.

"Oh, come now, let's be frank," counsel persisted, "you manufacture yarn-dyed piece goods fabrics and they manufacture piece-dyed piece goods fabrics and you don't compete?"

Up rose R. L. Kellock, K.C., acting for Canadian Cottons, with the observation that it was a matter of machinery which accounted for the specialization.

"Well, there is no arrangement, only for friendly, rather than business reasons I know we would not like to enter the print field. It is already taken care of," the firm head explained, "and I suppose similar arrangements exist elsewhere."

Hemmingford Woman Head Women's Institute In Province Of Quebec

Interesting Lectures, Reports Indicating Progress Feature Annual Convention Held At Macdonald College

Important Resolutions Are Adopted

Approximately one hundred delegates attended the annual convention of the Women's Institutes of the Province of Quebec at Macdonald College last week when Mrs. C. E. Petch, of Hemmingford, was re-elected president.

"The idea that the farm, the home and the school are the basic institutions in the life of the country was in the minds of the founders of Macdonald College. Prof. R. Summerby, acting vice-principal, observed in an address of welcome Wednesday morning. Professor Summerby outlined briefly the coming of the College by Sir William Macdonald and Dr. J. W. Robertson with a view of promoting education in agriculture and domestic science, and furthering the happiness, health and contentment of the people.

He considered that the Women's Institutes in the work of the country was a wide field of important efforts, and that money given for extension service from the College to the women's organization was well spent. He invited the delegates to visit the various departments of the college.

Replying to the address of welcome Mrs. Cameron E. Doot of Port Daniel Centre, acknowledged the intimate part Macdonald College plays in the work of the Women's Institute. Agriculture and home economics remain in the forefront of rural life, she said, in those times when there is unemployment in the cities, boys and girls are remaining on the farms and the training at Macdonald College was a value in fitting them for country life and enabling them to regard it as a grand adventure. Miss B. M. Philp, head of the school of domestic science also extended a welcome.

The Y.W.A. Auxiliaries of the W. M. S. of the Presbyterian Church was held in the Riverfield Hall Saturday afternoon. Seven auxiliaries were present and gave very interesting details of their work. Mrs. W. E. Baker, President of the Montreal Presbytery, opened the rally. The proceedings were subsequently under the direction of Mrs. A. W. Hemmingford Buildings Are Totally Destroyed By Fire

Fire of unknown origin occurred at the home of Mr. Wm. Beausoleil, Hemmingford, Sunday, about five o'clock p.m., when one barn and two other outside buildings were completely destroyed. Five calves and a number of hens were also victims of the flames. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

Five engines from Hemmingford and Sherrington were called, doing considerable efforts to abate the flames. Other small towns who are not well equipped with fire equipment would do well to consult the Sherrington fire brigade.

Many were saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. R. W. Blair, who until two years ago, when she moved to St. Lambert, was a life long resident of this community. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Holbrook, of Island Brook, accompanied by Mr. Barter, of Bury, Que., spent the week-end at the home of Mr. R. T. Brownlee. Miss Doris Holbrook returned home with them to spend the summer vacation with her parents.

Gypsy Band Gets Back Home After A Long Detention

The Serbian family Dimitro, with its hoary-bearded, 78-year-old sire, Zlatka, leading the way was headed for Toronto late Monday after a month's detention at the Franklin County jail in Malone. The gypsy band, numbering 15 and including the numerous and swarthy descendants of the patriarch, Zlatka, was escorted to the international boundary, after four weeks of waiting, during which old Zlatka chafed under his jail confinement and his unwashed and barefooted grandchildren roamed about the court yard. Monday brought two developments. First, they were moved to a farm east of Malone, and then came word from Ottawa that the Immigration Department had decided to accept the gypsies who claim Canadian citizenship. They had been turned back at Trout River, May 21st.

Two Graduate Final Year At Convent

Commencement Exercises And Distribution Prizes Held Friday

The annual commencement exercises and distribution of prizes of the Huntington Convent took place Friday, June 19th, for the lower grades in the morning and for the higher grades and graduating class in the afternoon. In the afternoon the Music Hall was filled to capacity. High School leaving diplomas were presented to Miss Margaret McCallum and Miss Alice Rolfe; thus giving them their college entrance.

The program was well divided with songs, recitations and an address being rendered in between the distribution of prizes. A French address was given by the Misses Irene Brunette and Gabrielle Cardinal in which the life of a girl in school and out was described. The valedictory was given by the Misses Margaret McCallum and Alice Rolfe. It related the happenings of the past scholastic year and the importance of following properly one's own religion and standing up for it. A French song, "Partir, c'est mourir," was well rendered by the convent choir.

At the close of the program Rev. Father Pigeon congratulated the students upon their success and urged them all to renew the pledge that they had made to become leaders of Catholic Action and excluded to always remain loyal to their convent. He said that the convent is a place where the dignity of the Liberal party to date have been slight, measured against the plight of the people and the stagnation of business. Supporters of the Liberal party should be zealous members of their congregation and by so doing they would be faithful to their convent. To those who were departing he urged them to be modest and respectful and obedient to their parents and superiors. He congratulated the girls upon their year's work and prizes won and wished them all a very happy vacation.

Without passing judgment one way or the other, here is a list of the major achievements of the session:

Abolition of the Canadian Radio Commission; and substitution of a Canadian Broadcasting Commission based on the British system.

Passing of legislation to give parliament majority ownership and control of the Bank of Canada. Critics of the government protest that complete control and ownership should have been seized; and that the Liberals in this respect have ignored their pre-election pledges.

Ratification of the United States trade agreement.

Reduction of duties on cotton, textiles, machinery, glassware, farm implements, gasoline, fruits and vegetables.

Increase of the sales tax from six to eight per cent; and a number of minor changes in the income and excise taxes. Exemption of automobiles duties. Exemption of young metalliferous mines from tax.

Replacement of the Board of Trustees of the Canadian National Railways by a Board of seven directors, with a closer contact than formerly with the Minister of Railways.

Authorization of a branch line to be built by the Canadian National Railways between Rouyn and Seneterre, Que., to open up some rich new gold mining territory.

Formation and appointment of a National Employment Commission of mine members, which aims to provide jobs, collect statistics, and to supervise the expenditure of moneys on unemployment relief purposes.

Scottish Clergyman At Saint Andrew's

At Saint Andrew's

WORSHIPPERS at the Sunday morning service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Huntington, were given the rare pleasure of having one of a group of prominent Scottish clergymen, who are presently on a goodwill tour of Canada and the United States, occupy the pulpit. The speaker was the Rev. Thomas Crombie, D.D., of Glasgow, Scotland, who was paying his first visit to Canada. He spoke only at the morning service and for a few minutes afterwards to the Sunday School, as he had to leave for Montreal to join his party early in the afternoon.

The visiting speaker was included in a group of 65 Scottish pastors who form part of the Inter-Fellowship party sent to Canada and the United States by the mother church to strengthen the bonds of fellowship between the Presbyterian congregations on both sides of the Atlantic. They will be returning to the Old Country about the middle of July.

Dominion Day Celebration Malone Will Be Big Event

An impressive parade of beautiful floats, half a dozen bands, picturesque military units, and cars bearing the Dominion Day spirit will be a feature of the second International Good Will Day celebration to be held in Malone, Wednesday, July 1, with communities on both sides of the border co-operating in the celebration.

The parade will be held at 1:00 o'clock and will proceed from the armory through Main Street directly to the fair grounds. The program at the grounds will begin at 2:00 o'clock and will include speeches, a baseball game between the Sorol, Quebec, team and the Malone Stars; final judging in the beauty contest; horse races and mule races and many other amusements.

Five Canadian units have assured Major Carame of Malone that they will participate in the parade and in the day's festivities. They are the Beauharnois Band of 24 pieces, the Valleyfield Guard of Honor, of about 55 men, the Highland Band of Cornwall with about a dozen men, and the Huntington Boy Scout Troop.

The 26th Infantry Band from Plattsburgh Barracks is likely to be one of the best drawing cards of the day because it is known far and wide as one of the best military bands in the country. Col. George

Huntingdon To Have Two-Day Fair Again

At a meeting of the Directors of Huntingdon Agricultural Society, Division "A" held last week it was decided to hold a two-day Fair, the dates chosen being Thursday and Friday, September 10th and 11th.

Judges were also appointed at this meeting and Mr. D. J. O'Connor was appointed to interview the Quebec Department of Agriculture with a view to securing a special grant for 1936.

Messrs. T. B. Pringle, W. W. Pringle and Reg. Graham were appointed a committee to devise ways and means of repairing the buildings and fences on the grounds. A visit to the Fair Grounds will soon convince anyone that the buildings are in dire need of repairs. The foundations of some of them are in somewhat a precarious condition, and unless repairs are made soon there would be danger of them falling down. Such a move on the part of the Agricultural Society to get their property in good shape should be given all the encouragement and cooperation possible by our citizens at large.

The Good Samaritan

THOUGH we don't always agree the traffic officers patrolling Quebec's 16,500 miles of paved and gravelled roads are there to play the role of the Good Samaritan of the highway and render every possible service to motorists who may be in distress. They are not placed on the highways to augment provincial revenues by the imposition of fines, but are there as the friends and protectors of the public. Only a week ago we had occasion to be driving along the highway on the way home from Montreal. A large van with trailer from which a long pole emerged passed us at a clip of about fifty miles an hour. In passing it skinned the front mudguard of our car. There was no necessity of such a van travelling at so fast a rate of speed. We told him so but he did not hear us, and all the time we hoped that the traffic cop would come along. Our wishes were soon granted, and a mile further we came upon the truckster and cop talking things over. We stopped to see what the result would be, and the truckster and cop talking things over. We rear of the trailer and tied it alongside the van. He was also given a severe reprimand re his fast driving. We were satisfied.

Only a few years ago the traffic officer was looked upon as being the terror of autoists, bobbing up when least expected and arresting drivers who violated the rules of the road, no matter how trivial the offence. By acting in such manner, the traffic officer was merely performing his duty, but the motorists did not think so and when brought to task for their traffic sins regarded themselves as being persecuted. Little by little, however, public opinion regarding traffic officers has modified, and the autoists themselves learned the ungrateful task of policing the highways was not without its advantages. Today, after numerous educational campaigns carried out by the authorities and the various safety associations, the public knows that the role of traffic officers is not to bring about embarrassment to travellers, but rather to assure the safety of traffic, and to render help to motorists who may need it.

National Swim Week

THIS is National Swim Week, and we should cooperate by helping all our children and adults to learn to swim and how to save lives. Last year a move was put on foot locally to secure a safe bathing place for our children but apparently through unavoidable circumstances plans could not be carried out. However, some system should be inaugurated for the protection of the lives of our children so that parents will not have to sit at home in eternal dread while their children are away swimming. At the Rapids, Clay Bottom, or Dam, for a certain period each forenoon or afternoon an instructor or supervisor should be arranged for. It would not be necessary that this individual be a master swimmer as long as he had a reasonable ability combined with a sense of responsibility so that parents would feel that their children would be all right under his supervision. Such protection would entail only a very small cost and could be borne by the Town Council with the contributions and co-operation of parents and local organizations.

But more important than all is that children be taught to swim well. Swimming makes strong bodies. It exercises muscles without the risks of bumps, bruises, or strains. It washes away poisons thrown out through the pores of the skin. Swimming contributes to right living, developing self-reliance, will power, courage, the willingness and ability to help other people. It is not a difficult art. The first and chief necessity is confidence. There are various ways of learning to swim but the best way is under the supervision of a good swimmer.

After a person has learned to swim there are many don't rules which he should learn. He should never enter the water directly after a meal; wait at least an hour and a half. Otherwise he will be liable to cramp. Never enter the water when fatigued. On entering the water, immerse the whole body immediately. In case of cramp, keep cool, turn on the back, and rub and stretch the affected limb. In unknown water beware of holes, weeds, and swift currents, eddies or undertows.

A very important feature of National Swim Week should be the learning by all swimmers and others, of resuscitation methods, among which the guiding chief rules include: 1. Quickly remove victim from water and place on ground or other hard surface. If possible have head slightly lower than the rest of the body so that water and other liquids will drain away from the victim; 2. Do not stop to loosen the patient's clothing, but immediately begin actual resuscitation. 4. Restore breathing by applying rhythmic pressure to the back of the unconscious person, who is stretched out, face down, in a horizontal position. 5. The ordinary and general tests for death should not be accepted. Any doctor should make several very careful and final examinations and be sure that specific evidence of death is present before pronouncing the patient dead. 6. Continue artificial respiration without interruption until natural breathing is restored (if not necessary, four hours or longer) or until a physician declares the patient dead. 7. As soon as this artificial respiration has been started, and while it is being continued an assistant should loosen any tight clothing about the patient's neck, chest or waist. Keep the patient warm. Do not give any liquids whatever by mouth until the patient is fully conscious. 8. Should it be necessary, due to extreme weather conditions or other reason, to move the patient before he is breathing normally, resuscitation should be carried on during the time that he is being moved.

Cadet Training

YESTERDAY afternoon at the Fair Grounds we had the occasion to witness some of the advantages of cadet training, and it was a wise move to give the parents an opportunity to see just what is comprised in this training about which we hear so much of a derogatory nature. Most fathers and mothers seem to think that cadet training means training children to become soldiers but it is far from that. People who have that opinion have probably never been members of a cadet corps. Had they gone through that experience, they would realize that boys in high school soon learn that soldiering is not fun. They learn that endless marching with a nine-pound rifle at the slope is arduous work, and that military discipline is iron-bound. After a few years in a school cadet corps, they have no desire to take up soldiering as a life work.

We do not believe that there is the least harm in school cadet training. Rather that it is distinctly beneficial as a factor in character building. Cadet training teaches boys to carry themselves erect. It teaches them the value of discipline, and shows them the importance of the individual in a mass effort. They are taught to take orders without question, and to execute them efficiently. They learn that success in cadet drill, as in every other phase of life, depends upon the individual, the pride he takes in his work and the cooperation he gives to his fellows.

In the House of Commons at Ottawa recently, Miss Agnes Macphail's motion to reduce to one dollar the Government's appropriation of $150,000 for cadet training in the schools of Canada, was defeated by a vote of 109 to 8. Mrs. George Black, M.P., a mother of three boys, who succeeded her husband as member for Yukon, spoke strongly in favor of boys being given cadet training and remarked that her own boys were better citizens for it both mentally and physically. Her address is in part as follows:

"I speak from experience, because I have raised three boys to manhood. They have taken their places in the world as good, decent, law-abiding, middle-class citizens, the best class we have. Each of those boys has had semi-military training and I attribute the fact that my boys have done comfortably well in the world to the fact that they were given semi military training and discipline. With the cadet movement not only did they obtain military training, but they had manual training and development of the muscles of their bodies. They were brought up to respect their elders and to obey promptly and quickly when they were spoken to, far more so, I believe, than the boys and girls of today who do not have the opportunity of that training. If I were to move an amendment I would not only double, but treble the vote. The future of Canada depends upon the boys and girls of today and those boys and girls, the men and women of the future, will be only what we make them, with the discipline which we can enforce."

Patriotism And Nationalism

JULY is almost here once more—the first historic month for Canada. On the first day of it we commemorate a great event, the welding together of the Provinces. Sixty-nine years ago, a great and bold step was taken and we became a unit. Since that time, further consolidation has created a nation with a model constitution, for which we must ever hold in high regard the "Fathers of Confederation". On the first day of July we talk a good deal about ourselves, indulge in a little self-complacency and proclaim that we are a great people, and we are not very far wrong. We have, assuredly, an excellent constitution, a people sane and sound, and material possibilities which are unlimited, not to speak of our chances for making other contributions to the welfare of the world. We are not great, judged by the standard of numbers, but history has recorded that some of the smallest national units in the world have enriched it more than those with teeming millions. Comparatively small though we may be, we have a significant voice in the British Empire. We are an integral part of that Empire and its statesmen listen to Canada with deference.

Pride in one's country is one of the elemental sentiments of human nature. We know the oft-quoted lines—

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said
This is my own, my native land.
He is a poor specimen of a human who has no regard for the land of his birth or for that in which he chooses to live. And there is a difference between a patriot and a resident. The one feels that he has a stake in the place, the other regards it as a convenience and estimates it according to the benefits derived.

But whilst patriotism is a primal instinct and a necessity for the preservation of a country, virtues readily become vices and patriotism is no exception. We call the purblind over-enthusiastic nationalist a chauvinist or a jingoist, because the real patriot must have a broad and intelligent outlook which includes within its ambit relations with other countries as well. The statesman or patriot must be a man of world affairs, but intense nationalism has brought the world into a morass.

The writer does not pretend to be a trained economist. This is written from the point of view of the practical man, but it does not take much acumen to see that no nation can content simply for its own hand and win. Bound as we are one to another by indissoluble ties, dependent as we are one upon another for even the necessities of life, there must be co-operation or else a crisis which it is not pleasant to contemplate. President Roosevelt who bids fair to go down to history as one of the greatest men that the United States has ever produced, has put the matter squarely—"must we go on in many groping, disorganized, separate units to defeat, or shall we move as one great team to victory."

There is no gainsaying the wisdom of these words. No nation on the face of the earth is so self-contained that it can live and prosper in isolation—splendid or otherwise. Perhaps the United States comes as close to independence in this respect as any other, yet its President sees nothing but defeat and failure in any attempt to live to themselves.

With the advance of civilization our needs have become greater, and since we cannot return to the most primitive mode of life, we must consider our relations to those with whom we exchange the things that make life tolerable and pleasant.

A simple day's activities will give us multiple examples of how we must rely on people all over the world for the things we eat, drink, wear, and use. The world is becoming smaller, more interdependent in its separate units, and nationalism which is a necessity and a virtue must not be pushed too far.

Co-operation must be our watchword. Co-operation or chaos.

HE JAILS HIMSELF

Edward Brown, a policeman on special duty at a New York branch of the National City bank, has sent himself to prison because his wife has won an argument. Mr. Brown and his wife began arguing over his 32 revolver which he kept at home without a permit. His wife insisted Edward would find himself in trouble if he did not get a license. Brown replied his bank position entitled him to keep the gun. The discussion waxed loud and long. Eventually, Mr. Brown went outside and brought in a policeman to prove to Mrs. Brown that she was wrong. When the situation was outlined to the policeman, he said: "The permit you have is for the gun you leave at the bank with your police badge. You've no permit for this gun. I'll have to lock you up."

16 YEARS AS STOWAWAY

For 16 years Dimitri Statu, a Rumanian, now 29, has been trying to get to America to rejoin his parents. He has "stowed" himself in a policeman's time, but he always been caught. Dimitri was thirteen when Mr. and Mrs. Statu left him behind with friends when they came to this continent. His latest attempt ended in disappointment at Liverpool. For when he reached there from Venice, he was found hiding on board. He said he thought the ship was going to America and he was amazed to find himself at Liverpool.

MILLIONS FROM PLOT

Back in 1807, John Jacob Astor, German immigrant, held a mortgage of $25,000 on a parcel of land which is now in the heart of New York. When the borrower could not pay, Astor foreclosed and took the property which now is among the most valuable ground in the city. The Hotel Astor and other skyscrapers worth hundreds of millions stand on it. It is estimated this ground has produced more than $100,000,000 in profits, forming the fortune which is now passed down through several generations.

BLUSHING LOST ART

Mrs. Mary Erle, aged 105, of Killala, Irish Free State, has a poor opinion of modern girls. "The girls of my day were modest and blushed," she declared, "the young women of today do not know how to blush. They are too flighty and giddy."

BRANDY STARTS FOREST FIRE

Carrying 2,000 gallons of brandy, a truck crashed into another vehicle near Chaduric, France, and overturned in a ditch. The brandy caught fire and burned the truck. The flames then spread to the surrounding forest, which was destroyed.

SEES AGAIN AT 93

After 18 years of total blindness, a 93-year-old woman is believed to have permanently recovered her sight at Mahone Bay, N.S. She is Mrs. James Asker. Mrs. Asker began to go blind when 73 years old. A few weeks ago, while sitting by a window at her home, she suddenly started and leaned forward. "What are you looking at?—you can't see!" exclaimed her daughter. "I can see them skating on the harbor," she replied quietly.

BLACKSMITHS SCARCE

There still are enough blacksmiths left in the United States to form a nation-wide organization, which holds national conventions annually. This year's convention was held at Columbus, O., last month, where the principal item of business was the consideration of ways and means of interesting more young men in blacksmithing as a trade. Reports from all over the country indicate blacksmiths have plenty of work, too much in fact, for the men now working at it. The oldtimers are passing off the stage and not enough young men are learning the trade to carry on.

GERMANY DEVELOPS NEW GUN

Tests of new anti-aircraft "pom-pom" guns in Germany are proving satisfactory, according to a report from Berlin. These weapons, which fire explosive bullets capable of tearing a wing from an airplane, are heavier than machine guns, but much lighter than the ordinary anti-aircraft gun. Bullets explode on contact with thin material even at a range of only 15,000 feet.

GOLD AMONG BULBS

Four World War veterans in the soldiers' home near Napa, Calif., were assigned to dig up dahlia bulbs in a flower garden. One of them brought up a $5 gold piece with his spade. Before their search ended, they had dug up $175 in gold pieces. No one has explained the mystery of how the money came to be there.

DOG SAVES GIRL FROM STREAM

How a dog saved a two-year-old girl from drowning has been reported from Mariaweller, in the Rhineland. The tot fell into a stream, and the sheepdog jumped into the water and gripped his teeth in her sleeve. The banks were too steep for the animal to drag the child to land so it held the little one out of the water until passersby rescued the pair.

WHITE DEATH SHARK CAUGHT

A white death shark, a rare species in New South Wales, was caught recently in Batemans Bay, by Barker and Wallis of Melbourne. It was 10 feet, 7 inches long and attracted the interest of Zane Grey, the American writer who was fishing nearby. The death shark earned its name by following sailing ships in the olden days to feast on seamen who had fallen or were washed overboard.

CEMETERY FINALLY FOUND

The wish of a dying man that he be buried in the cemetery of Brible Island, a holiday resort of Brisbane, Australia, caused the inhabitants a search because no one had been buried there for many years and the burial place had been forgotten. A Government official on vacation there saved the situation when he produced a map and located a ten-acre plot as the cemetery. The islanders had to cut a mile-long road to it, and gave the man a public funeral.

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

It is easy for a woman to develop her chest and fill out hollows in her neck," says a prominent health specialist who has taught hundreds of women to gain as well as to reduce. According to him, a few simple exercises, practised regularly, will do the work.

Here is one experience that is particularly recommended: Stand erect with feet together. Clench your fists, making the muscles in your arms quite tense and stretch them at shoulder level out in front of you. Now, keeping the muscles in hands and arms stiff and uncomfortable slowly force your hands up over your head and down toward the back as far as they will go. Then try to force them down and back a few more inches. Feel the muscles in your neck and shoulders stretch and pull. Keep head up and chest expanded. Inhale as you force your arms from front to back. Exhale as you bring them forward again. Repeat twenty times.

The breast stroke you used when you learned to swim is excellent for a flat chest and hollows in the neck. Hold arms at shoulder level in front of you—palms facing each other. Then slowly bring them backward as far as you can. Keep on forcing them back until your shoulders actually hurt a little.

A movie actress noted for her lovely hands, reveals how she keeps them smooth as satin and white as snow. She says she never fails to rinse them in very cold water after each washing and that, after a careful drying during which she pushes back the cuticle around her nails, she always applies hand lotion. "In addition," she stated, "once a week I go to bed wearing rubber gloves into which I have put damp bran or moist corn meal. Either of these tends to remove cigarette and other stains from my fingers."

To help mold the chin into a slimmer line, here's a good night routine: After washing your face and neck with warm soapsuds, rinse in warm water and dry your skin. Apply cold cream, and then pick up the soft flesh under your chin, kneading and rolling it firmly between your forefinger and thumb. This will help to chase away the fat cells. Remove the cold cream, splash on cold water and dry your skin. Then apply your favorite astringent lotion or skin freshening tonic to your neck and chin. In the morning

An exhibition of recently discovered letters from Elizabeth Barrett Browning to her poet husband have attracted considerable attention. These letters were written on thin note paper like the familiar "onion-skin" which was in vogue in the 40's. This same type of crisp, sheer note paper is sold at many of the stores now for personal letters and especially for air mail purposes. And the envelopes are lined in the foreign manner in dark blue or gray tissue.

If you like something with a little more body than taffeta to trim your coat, grosgrain is a good choice. It's especially good for stand-up collars and to border the pockets and front of a coat. One of the shops has such a coat in black, which is swager cut, with patch pockets, and it's the new seven-eighths length.

Household Hint: A few tiny pieces of ginger, grapefruit or orange peel or candied fruit will give an added flavor to fruit salad or fruit cup.

A charming function took place at the home of Mr. Geo. Moore last Friday afternoon, when Miss Moore, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Clarence Blair, of Franklin, entertained about 30 ladies at a kitchen shower for Miss Isabel McKee. A child's wagon and hay-rack bore the gifts and were ornamented as was also the seat of honour for the bride-to-be, with coloured ribbons. With several of the gifts a favorite recipe was enclosed and in thanking the donors, the guest of honour jokingly expressed a hope that no fatal effects might ensue from her use of these culinary aids. The table decorations were pink, and the delicious tea served by the hostesses consisted of salad, rolls, cake and coffee. On Friday, Baby Geraldine Loudon saw her first birthday anniversary and with her parents and other relatives was entertained at the tea hour by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Waddell. Head Denies Knowledge Of Combine

Mr. Dawson and various members of the Government in which alleged Japanese competition formed a large part. Questioning by counsel on statements contained in one of the letters brought out the fact that at the time Canadian Cottons discontinued manufacture on the 27-inch and 36-inch plain rayon tafetas, on which Japanese competition was centered, the firm had in stock 43 per cent. of a year's average sales.

"That was a good time to switch your production to other lines, wasn't it?" Mr. McRuer commented. "Will you swear that it was because of Japanese competition that you stopped producing those lines?" "As far as I know, that's what my man reported," Mr. Dawson offered.

"Did your man tell you he would have stopped production anyhow with a 43 per cent. stock?" "No."

City Clerk Gives Testimony

Sittings were completed with brief testimony by Antonin Deslauriers, City Clerk of Sherbrooke, who questioned by Elie Beaugard, K.C., Commission Counsel with Mr. McRuer, testified that he had sent the telegram to Ottawa on instruction of the City Council. He also informed the Commission that Deslauriers was quoted as stating that "Japanese competition is the most serious problem facing the Canadian textile industry today."

Secrets Disclosed In Letter

A significant illustration of the result in the industry of the raising of the tariff by the Bennett Government on September 22, 1930, was revealed in a letter written on February 18, 1931, by witness to the Prime Minister and produced by counsel. In it, Mr. Dawson informed the Premier that Courtaulds (Can.) Limited, had on December 1, 1930, raised its prices on viscose yarn (rayon) by 10 cents a pound while its English branch was reducing prices at the same time by an average of a shilling, thus removing the added benefit of the increased tariff. This price reduction was also followed by practically every producing country in the world. A few days ago, P. R. Watson, of Groat's Limited, had testified that when the tariff was raised, Canadian Celanese, controlling the acetate rayon yarn process, had refused to sell the trade at prices to enable weaving of cloth at competitive prices to those of the celanese firm's own fabrics. "But while we were in the hands of the celanese company as far as acetate yarns were concerned, we always had Courtaulds for viscose yarn," he had added.

Canadian Manufacturer Enjoys Preference

On 36-inch artificial silk piece-dyed satin, running 1,000 yards to the piece and 5.62 yards per pound, at present, he showed, the Canadian manufacturer enjoys 33 per cent. greater protection than the American producer, based on cost of $7.87 in Japan. Prior to reduction of tariff in the United States on June 15, 1936, the added protection in Canada was 17 per cent. Total duty on Japanese fabrics of this value in the Dominion is $127.87, giving 221 per cent. protection while in the United States, the producer has only 188 per cent. protection, paying $108.74 in duty. Canadian duties, special and regular, are approximately 17.5 per cent. higher than those below the border today.

Last witness of the day was John Dodd, in charge of sales for the Dominion Textile Company, Limited, who was cross-examined by Mr. McRuer on his conversations with Charles B. Howard, M.P. for Sherbrooke, on the subject of the telegram sent to the City of Sherbrooke to the Premier the day after the company's rayon mill was shut down, throwing about 400 employees out of work.

He gave the "threat of Japanese competition in certain lines" as the reason for the shut-down, the sales manager said, shutting evidence of

With a total of 541 official exhibits filed and several hundred witnesses heard, the Royal Commission investigating the Dominion's textile industry, which first convened last March, was Monday afternoon adjourned sine die. It is expected to resume its sittings late in August, when affairs of Courtaulds (Can.) Limited, of Cornwall, and Canadian Celanese Company, Drummondville, will be gone into before final argument.

Just before adjournment Monday Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon, of Saskatchewan, one-man Commission, informed R. L. Kellock, K.C., attorney for the Primary Textile Institute, that the inquiring body was not a one-sided one, but was charged to investigate with the three-fold object of benefiting the consumer, the employees, and the industry itself. In the latter connection, the Commissioner said, he would welcome any suggestion from the industry itself for its betterment, to be submitted in the summer interim.

Mr. Howard himself, earlier in the day, that "serious Japanese competition" was advanced as the cause of the closing. "I told Mr. Howard that if certain lines could meet with such severe competition in our own market, we could soon expect that goods made at our Sherbrooke plant would meet with the same competition, and it was of no use continuing production."

In the morning, at direction of Aime Geoffrion, K.C., counsel with C. G. Heward, K.C., to Dominion Textiles, G. Blair Gordon, managing director, filed analytic statement of the firm's payrolls since 1930. In the seven-year period, he showed, mill wages constituted 86.26 per cent. of all payroll, with head office executives receiving only 2.92 per cent., administration and selling accounting for 5.20 per cent., and mill superintendents getting 5.62 per cent. During that time, total salaries and wages paid had declined 16.76 per cent. on the basis of the 1930 index of 100, but mill wages had only dropped 1.59 per cent. by 1936, against a reduction of 35.4 per cent. for head office executives.

Valleyfield Council At the regular meeting of Valleyfield Council on Wednesday evening a lengthy discussion took place as to the ability of Capt. Vinet, of the Valleyfield Police and Fire Department, to drive the police car. Ald. Touchette raised the discussion when he made reference to an accident which occurred last week in which the accident Capt. Vinet was involved. The accident in question occurred at the intersection of St. Thomas and Market Sts. Claude Menard, 28 Market St., stopped suddenly in front of the car, and the police car unable to stop, hurled the youngster, 8 years of age, about thirty feet. Rushed to the hospital unconscious in Hector Bougie's car, the youngster was found to have suffered numerous bruises. The condition of the patient was reported as satisfactory after several days in the hospital. Ald. Touchette contended that Capt. Vinet travelled at a fast rate even when using the car to go to lunch. The Mayor joined in the discussion and suggested that the matter be held over. An inquiry into the Police Department actions will probably be the result of this incident. Mr. Lucien Pilon, taxi-driver, sent in a complaint to the effect that Joseph Areno, fruit-dealer, had taken passengers in his Buick car to Melocheville, operating without the required licence, yet collecting from the passengers. The case was left in the hands of the Chief of Police.

Dutch Treat Club Enjoys Meeting - Tea Luncheon At Chateau Is Followed By Visit To Lake Camp

The Dutch Treat Club of Malone enjoyed a delightful luncheon-meeting at the Huntingdon Chateau on Saturday afternoon with a large attendance of members and guests. A delicious luncheon was served in the dining room and music by Harrison Jones' five-piece orchestra added to the pleasure of the occasion.

Mrs. Mark Chaffee, president, presided at the brief business session at which the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and approved. Mrs. Chaffee welcomed the guests present and announced the following committee for the fall meeting: Mrs. Grace Walker, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Blanche Crate, Mrs. William Empsall, Mrs. Eldred Hyde, Mrs. F. I. Stockwell and Mrs. Elizabeth Kirk.

A short period of bridge followed the favor for contract and Mrs. Hubert Genaway for auction bridge.

A happy surprise at the affair was an invitation to a 5 o'clock tea at the camp of Mrs. T. G. Amiot, at Port Lewis. Mrs. Amiot entertained with piano solos. The facilities of her spacious and pleasantly located camp were greatly enjoyed and the members found Mrs. Amiot a delightful and charming hostess.

The committee in charge of the luncheon included Mrs. Ed Aubrey and Mrs. Leo Hinds, joint chairmen, assisted by Mrs. T. G. Amiot, Mrs. Charles Armstrong and Mrs. S. D. Popeck.

New Automobile Map Is Issued

A new automobile map of the Province of Quebec that is unique amongst touring maps has just come to our desk. It is the first place the layout of roads is the most complete and up-to-date of any map yet published. In the second place, the major portion of the Province is shown in considerably larger scale than in any other available map of the Province. The scale of the main portion of the map is ten miles to the inch.

A special map of the main highways in the Montreal metropolitan area is shown in much larger scale—approximately two miles to the inch. All main and secondary roads are shown very clearly with large size names of places, making these roads extremely easy to follow.

This map, which we owe to the courtesy of Champlain Oil Products Limited, has, as its main purpose, the stimulation of automobile travel within the borders of our Province. It illustrates and describes, both in French and English, four attractive circular tours ranging in distance from 413 miles to 553 miles. These circle tours are so arranged that each one appears on a single fold. This eliminates the necessity of unfolding large maps in one's car. It lists and describes 31 places worth visiting. In a very simple table it shows the main points of scenic interest, historical sites, summer resorts, power developments, mines, industries and the best places to go for fishing, hunting, swimming and golf.

In another table it gives distances from Montreal to a great number of cities throughout North America. It points out the pleasures of touring in one's province and presents by means of "trip maps" the highways between main centres. One of these "trip maps" shows the route from Montreal to Quebec on both sides of the river. Another shows the highway from Montreal to Sherbrooke, another from Sherbrooke to Quebec, another from Quebec to St. Jovite, via both St. Agathe and Lacoste. This map also contains numerous safety hints.

It is produced throughout in French and English and in the attractive colours of the company, orange, blue and white.

Our readers may obtain a copy of this unusual map, while the supply lasts, at all stations and dealers selling Champlain Oil Products.

Steam Held Cause Of Furnace Blast

Refusing to accept contention that a furnace explosion in the home of Beatrice Bourbonnais, Valleyfield, was caused by coal gas, Mr. Justice McDougall in Superior Court Monday dismissed suit against the Reliance Insurance Company of Canada for damages of $1,482.

The court found the explosion was probably caused by steam, and as the insurance policy Dame Bourbonnais held with the company covered only gas explosion and not steam, the action was denied as unfounded.

Dame Bourbonnais' contention that the explosion was caused by an accumulation of coal gas, covered her in virtue of statutory condition No. 11. The court indicated that, in order to succeed in her claim, the plaintiff must prove that the accident was caused by one of the risks and perils insured against, and accordingly when there is conflicting evidence which leaves the court in doubt, the position is that the plaintiff has failed to prove her claim and cannot succeed in her action.

The company asserted the explosion was an explosion of steam in one of the hot water sections of the furnace caused by some obstruction in the circulation system. After noting the fact that there was conflicting evidence as to the cause of the explosion, the court proceeded to state the theory of the defendant insurance company, advanced by its counsel, Brais and Campbell, possessed a greater degree of probability. Experts called by the company testified that the fire pot and the section immediately above it remained intact while one of the hot water sections higher up indicated clearly it had exploded from within. As there could be only hot water or steam in this section, the court found it had to reject plaintiff's theory.

In view of the fact that the old standard fire insurance policy does not cover loss or damage sustained by the explosion of steam, there was no claim under the policy and the action was accordingly dismissed.

BRUCE BARTON Says

Change Scenes, Sucker-Sore

These few lines are written in the quiet of an office from which every one but the janitor has departed. Presently I shall talk to a man to a certain secret destination where I am to be joined by one of my partners. Our destination is Canada. We are going to eat and sleep and play golf for five days—nothing else.

Years ago a noted circus press agent introduced me to the crude phrase "sucker-sore." He said that the freaks in the side show lead a highly nervous life. The fat woman, for instance, sits all day on her platform while the customers (suckers) parade by and emit comments like this: "Say, Joe, look at that doll baby. How'd you like to have a stomach like that?" and "Jim, do you just look at that fat woman. Isn't she terrible?"

The snake swallower, the midgits, the sword charmer, and the Siamese Twins all must sit silent under a barrage of similar jocosity. Theirs not to make reply, theirs not to reason why; they just have to sit and take it.

About once a month they explode. If something isn't done about it they jump off their stands and begin to bite the customers. Their nerves are shot; they are sucker-sore. The management sends them away for a few days rest, and they are ready then for another ordeal.

Every once in a while every man gets so tired that he begins to be a nuisance even to those he loves most. He annoys his wife and children; he is in danger of alienating the very people who have favored him with their business and are responsible for his living. He is sucker-sore. That is the time to pack the old bag and sneak off for a few days.

... That 35th Mile-Stone

A gentleman with whom I had a luncheon engagement was a few minutes late. "You will have to excuse me," he said "this is my thirty-fifth birthday. I have always said that when I was thirty-five I would have a complete physical examination. I have been at it more than two hours."

Thirty-five is one of the big milestones. I remember a series of articles our old friend John Sidal published years ago. He had Irvin Cobb write on Looking Both Ways at Forty. I wrote on How it feels to be Thirty-two. Ring Lardner did the best piece in the series and called it: General Symptoms of Being Thirty-Five. Though I cannot quote them verbatim, some of Ring's sentences linger in my memory. For example:

"The subject is awakened in the middle of the night by the ringing of a fire bell. Sniffs but does not smell smoke. Figures it is not his house and rolls over and goes to sleep again."

Also, "Our patient buys a copy of a national magazine and reads the first installment of an exciting and sensational story. At the end of the installment the villain holds the beautiful heroine in his horrid grasp. Patient forgets to buy the next month's issue."

Another big milestone comes at forty-five. No young person reads the obituary page of a newspaper. But along about forty-five a man suddenly discovers that page, and for the rest of his life is a regular consumer of it.

On my thirty-fifth birthday I took out some additional life insurance, and was pleased to have the doctors render such a good report. I cast up my accounts, and found a bit of a balance in the bank. I said to myself: "Now I am pretty well fixed. I propose never to be worried or hurried again." All of my really serious worries have happened since that date.

Huntingdon Wins ...

Next Sunday the local team will take on Malone at the Fair grounds here.

The Huntingdon baseball nine played their return game in Valleyfield on Saturday when they were defeated by the Bellevue team in six innings of play. The score was 6-5. The game had to be called because the teams had to play a certain limit of time on the field. Some nice hits were gathered by both teams and had the game been played to nine innings the result would not have been the same, for the Huntingdon team were staging a comeback but evidently too late. The game was a very interesting one and the duel between the opposite pitchers is worthy of mention. Both teams played very cautiously.

Score by innings:

Huntingdon 161 011 020—12
Malone 000 350 010—9

Batteries: Monique, Baxter and Black, Machabee and Perry.

School Notes

The final examination in the upper grades will be written on Thursday, and school will be officially closed after that date. School closed last Friday for many students in the lower grades and each day this week has seen a portion of the students finish their exams.

The annual picnic will be held next Friday, this year, with grade X playing hosts to the graduating class. It will be held at "The Lake" as usual.

Tuesday was a holiday throughout the school in honour of the King's birthday. Many students won prizes in several events in the morning events held at the celebration at the Fair grounds. Emile Senecal and Leslie Hayter gave a good account of themselves on the day's programme.

Rockburn

Mr. and Mrs. Darbyson of Montreal are guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Deane.

Mrs. J. D. Mossop, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. J. A. Mossop, of New York City, spent the week-end with friends in Rockburn.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Middlemiss with a good attendance, and was presided over by the Pres. Mrs. Middlemiss. Obituary

Henry D. Winter

The funeral of the late Mr. Henry D. Winter was held on Wednesday afternoon, June 17, 1936, at 2:00 P.M. in St. Paul's United Church, Ormstown. Rev. A. P. Pollock conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Walter Ross and Rev. Robinson, pastor of Fairmount-St. Giles' United, Montreal.

The large number of friends and acquaintances from far and near who were present as well as the many beautiful floral tributes testified to the respect and esteem in which the late Mr. Winter was held.

Rev. Walter Ross read the Scripture reading a favorite passage, the 14th Chapter of St. John. Three hymns were sung, "The Lord is my Shepherd," "Still, still with Thee," and "Sun of my Soul". Rev. Mr. Pollock in a few comforting and fitting words gave the address from the text the 30th verse of the 107th Psalm: "Then are they glad because they be quiet; so he bringeth them into their desired haven."

The many kindly deeds and active part which he took in the church business and public life of the community have left many pleasant memories behind to young and old.

Rev. Burton Robinson in the closing prayer gave a message of hope and comfort to the loved ones left behind to mourn his loss, mentioning especially the absent son, William of Calgary who was unable to be present.

Interment took place in the Union Cemetery, Ormstown, the pallbearers being the Messrs. Geo. Cottingham, Roy McWhinnie, Adolph Charrier, Hugh Chambers, John Orr and Willis Roberts.

Fly Mathematics

A single female fly usually lays 600 to 1000 eggs in her lifetime. Under favourable conditions these eggs hatch in ten or twelve days and there is an opportunity for seven or more generations in a season! In other words, this single fly can produce in only three generations, a few weeks apart, as many as one billion disease carrying menaces to health.

It is obvious that every effort should be put forth to destroy the first flies of the season. Each of the early flies killed means destruction of potential swarms.

As a menace to health, to say nothing of its disgusting loathsomeness, the fly is known to be a carrier of the germs of summer diarrhea, typhoid and other serious diseases. And, although sanitation efforts have been instituted to curb many sources of contagious diseases, there has been little success in eradicating the common house-fly.

It is a matter requiring personal effort to keep the home clear of flies. The elimination of possible breeding places such as uncovered garbage, refuse, manure, rotting leaves, screens on doors and windows and covering of all foods, are all necessary precautions. But, should flies enter the home, a few Wilson's Fly Pads, used regularly according to directions, will kill them all in a few hours.—Advt.

The Little Tin Soldier Has Marched Away

"Our Billy! Twenty-one? . . . Why, I just can't believe it. I can remember when he had to stand on tiptoe to reach the cookies on the table."

But chubby legs will lengthen, and a small boy strides into manhood. Soon he'll be buying a ring and they'll come out of a church with shy faces and shining eyes. As you did—how many years ago?

Their path will be a little easier than yours . . . how you've toiled to make that possible! And they'll have more outside help too. Advertising has come forward in the last few years, and brought a hundred servants to the modern home.

The road will be marked with familiar names. They'll choose the reliable, advertised trade-marks . . . whether in breakfast foods, a radio, or a new car. They'll know that an advertised product has to be an honest product—its honesty proved by thousands of buyers before them.

They'll take on new responsibilities—just as you two did! They'll read The Gleaner and advertising will help them meet these new problems a little easier, a bit better. And they'll come out, all right . . . you needn't worry about them!

How Are Children Taught To Care For Their Safety?

W. P. PERCIVAL, M.A., Ph.D.
Director of Protestant Education for the Province of Quebec.

Statistics supplied by the Province of Quebec Safety League show that 105 children met death by accident in the city of Montreal last year and that, in the Province, approximately 350 children were accidentally killed. During the first four months of the present year, 299 children were killed or seriously injured while walking or playing on the highways and streets of the Province. Several hundred others were killed under other circumstances or injured in various ways. The number will run into thousands before the end of the year. In the Dominion of Canada last year automobiles caused the death of 1,100 people and maimed 17,500 others.

Accidents are responsible for the deaths of more children between three and eighteen years of age than any other cause. They are divided almost equally between the home, the school and the street. In the home, most accidents happen through falls, at school through play. On the street, the greatest cause of accident is the automobile. Young automobile drivers, in their teens, have an exceptionally bad accident record, that being about fifty per cent worse than the average for all drivers. Young workers in industries have also a bad accident record, their accident frequency rate being higher than that of older workers.

Egotism, vanity, recklessness, stupidity, lack of courtesy and senseless haste have brought tragedy to many a home. Many a bright child's future has been blighted by accidents that should have been better controlled. Many of the dangers of previous centuries remain in the present and to these have been added the perils due to an age in which speed has become a vital factor. The generation that has so speeded up its mode of living owes to its children an education that will enable them to escape its disadvantages. The danger that lurks on every hand must be combated very much more vigorously than it has been in former life is to be valued at its real worth.

Not the least important of the features of the present course of study are the lessons taught concerning safety. Both in the school and out of it pupils are encouraged to develop habits that will prevent accidents. The rights of others are explained. Children are warned never to throw sticks, stones or hard snowballs towards anyone nor to play in a dangerous manner, with peashooters, slingshots or pointed arrows. They are particularly warned against playing childish pranks on one another and are instructed in the necessity of exercising caution in all their movements. In the gymnasium and on the playing field they are shown by good teachers how to work and play with due regard for their safety and that of others.

In the text books in Health and Hygiene for Grades IV, V, VI, and VII in the Protestant schools, chapters are devoted to safety education. During these lessons, which are suited to the mentality of the pupils of each of the grades and are extremely practical, teachers and pupils have every opportunity to discuss this important aspect of modern life. Pupils are taught the terrific cost of carelessness. By means of these lessons and those propounded by the Province of Quebec Safety League, they are warned to stop, look and listen before crossing streets and railroad crossings; to cross streets at intersections and at a walk, not on the run; to avoid playing around parked automobiles and trucks and to refrain from hitching on wagons and riding on running boards of moving automobiles. When travelling at night on the road in the country, pupils are advised to wear some white object, if only a handkerchief on the arm. The necessity for having lights and reflectors on bicycles is shown as well as the benefit of mud guards painted white in the rear. Those who ride bicycles are taught to signal for stops and turns as motorists do, to stop at all grade crossings, on highways and boulevards. They are particularly warned against holding on to moving automobiles and against taking additional passengers with them on their bicycles.

Instruction To Avoid Accidents

Instruction is frequent concerning incidental dangers and the prevention of accidents. Children are urged not to push or trip one another in their play, not to skate on thin ice, not to loiter or play on railroad tracks nor to dart from behind parked cars. They are cautioned regarding the dangers of roller skating and climbing tall trees and poles. Lessons are given on picking up fruit peelings and depositing them in waste baskets and removing objects from stairs and other places where people may be harmed by stepping on them. Pupils are shown the danger of carrying pens and pencils with the points exposed, of putting pins, needles and other sharp objects in their mouths, and of many other sundry practices that may cause harm. In many schools, plays are presented by pupils bearing on safety. Some impressive lessons are taught thereby. Pupils are also frequently asked to write compositions, make posters and hold debates on safety.

Periodical fire drill is required in the larger schools. Many schools attended by hundreds of children can be emptied within one minute. Two minutes is rather a long time for this process. Pupils are constantly advised not to play with matches, fire, firearms and other dangerous weapons. They are shown how to extinguish the flames if fire catches their clothes.

As a practical measure, and in order that children may acquire habits of caution in crossing city streets, "Safety Brigadiers" are appointed in many schools to assist the pupils in crossing in a safe manner in the vicinity of the schools. The Safety Brigadiers and the Safety League itself have been recognized by the Provincial Police and by the Municipal Police.

An annual "Safety Week" has been a feature of recent years. This has been generally adopted in the cities and larger towns. During that period, this aspect of the problem of living has been brought to the attention of all. The schools have co-operated extensively in the movement. But a special week set apart once a year is not sufficient. Habits must be established which will aid people at all seasons of the year and in all places. Parents can and do co-operate in the endeavour to protect their children. Many accidents to children must be expected from the very nature of youth. But sensible people will not always endure the havoc and carnage that have visited so many homes in recent years as a consequence of man's recklessness. Parents look to the school to protect their children by giving group instruction regarding accidents and by teaching preventive methods. But they recognize destruction and curb speed demons lie mainly outside of school influence.

The Week at Ottawa

English and French. The issue, small though it might appear to many, aroused the most heated and passionate debate of the session. Messrs. Bennett, Lapointe, Cardin and Gardiner made eloquent and ardent addresses. The Liberals pleading that the issue of race and language be allowed to lie where it has been sleeping. In the end two amendments failed, and the Bank of Canada bills in future will appear with both French and English on them, just as the Postage stamps do now.

The Supreme Court of Canada administered a severe jolt to the series of bills passed in 1934 and 1935 and collectively called the Bennett "New Deal" Reform measures.

The National Products Marketing Act was unanimously declared not to be within the competence of the federal parliament to enact. This is the act under which the marketing boards for produce of various kinds have been set up.

The National Employment and Health Insurance measure under which a national scheme of insuring against unemployment and sickness were not to be instituted was also declared invalid, by a majority ruling.

On the question whether the measures governing an eight hour day, a weekly day of rest and minimum wages were valid, the court divided evenly.

The Farmers' Creditors' Arrangements Act, by which farmers were able to make a compromise with their creditors, was declared valid.

Parts of the National Trade and Industry Commission act were declared valid, but part invalid.

The section of the Criminal Code which permits prosecution of firms engaging in unfair trade practices, competition aimed at destroying competitors, etc., was declared to be within the rights of the federal government.

Appeal to Privy Council

There will be an appeal, it is expected, to the Privy Council. Meanwhile most of the legislation will have to remain inoperative. The Marketing Boards will probably retain a nominal existence, but it will not be able to enforce their orders or collect tolls until a favorable decision is rendered by the Privy Council, and if that should be against them, of course they cease to exist so far as the federal act is concerned. However, the provinces could probably pass enabling or separate legislation by which boards operating wholly within a province would be able to continue.

The House spent one day toward the close of the attitude of the government toward sanctions, the league of nations, and related matters. Mr. Mackenzie King made it quite clear that in view of what has taken place, the Canadian government is instructing its delegates at the League of Nations Assembly that it is asking for a lifting of economic sanctions against Italy. This decision was reached by the cabinet before Britain came to an independent conclusion of the same sort.

Canada is in favor of the League idea, but it takes a realistic view of the situation, and does not mean to be drawn into a position where military force would automatically have to be applied against an offender against League orders, it was intimated.

Canada is acutely aware of its dependence on world trade and world relations generally, and it will seek to assist in maintaining world peace as situations arise, the prime minister said. Italy's action in using poison gas and other violations of its pledges were roundly condemned by the prime minister in his lengthy statement.

The session over, a contingent of ministers and officials will proceed to the United Kingdom and Europe. There will be trade discussions, and some of the cabinet will also be present at the unveiling of the Vimy memorial. R. B. Bennett will be at Vancouver for the ceremonies there on July 1st in connection with the 50th anniversary of the founding of that Pacific coast city.

Other members left at once for the political battlefields in Quebec and Manitoba.

Imprisoning An Illusive Flavor

DO you remember the old-fashioned strawberry jam that was given to us as children? Something so dark-colored, so rich and sweet that there was hardly any real strawberry flavor left—and a little of that old-fashioned jam went a long way—or else one got a stomach ache. That strawberry jam was made by such long-boiling methods that it lost much of its flavor as it depended upon the sugar to make it thick. But now strawberry jam may be a thing of beauty both in looks and in taste—that gorgeous fresh strawberry flavor is retained because of bottled fruit peeling which calls for such short boiling that even the lovely color and shape of the berries can be retained. And as for strawberry jelly—our grandmothers would have said strawberry jelly was an impossibility or at least a miracle, as strawberry juice couldn't be made to "jell". Wouldn't she be astonished to see and taste the strawberry jelly the court divided evenly.

And as for strawberry jelly—our grandmothers would have said strawberry jelly was an impossibility or at least a miracle, as strawberry juice couldn't be made to "jell". Wouldn't she be astonished to see and taste the strawberry jelly the court divided evenly.

Strawberry Jelly
4 cups (2 lbs.) jelly
7½ cups (3½ lbs.) sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin
Use only fully ripened berries. Crush thoroughly and drip through jelly bag. Do not stir overnight as uncooked juice ferments quickly. Measure juice and sugar into large saucpan, stir, and bring to a boil. At once add pectin, stirring constantly, and then bring again to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ 1 minute, skim, pour quickly. Cover 1 minute, skim, pour quickly. Cover hot jelly with film of hot paraffin; when jelly is cold, cover with ¼ inch of hot paraffin. Roll glass to spread paraffin on sides. Requires about 3 quarts berries. Makes about 11 eight-ounce glasses. A few weeks later, along come the raspberries and this recipe may again be used for raspberry jelly.

Conquer House Flies
The scheme of nature; it is a scavenger, and for this reason its germ-laden feet are by no means conducive to health when it is allowed to tread upon food or the person, or to wander around the edge of the milk picher, the butter dish and other food containers. The house-fly is world-wide in distribution and is notorious for the part it plays in spreading such dangerous disease typhoid, infantile diarrhoea, tuberculosis, cholera, dysentery, etc. It breeds in filth, such as various kinds of manure and garbage. The most effective means of controlling the house-fly consists of reducing its breeding place by treating or disposing of garbage and manure piles. Household garbage should be wrapped in paper and stored in fly-proof garbage cans until finally disposed of by burning. The household food should be kept in fly-excluded containers and if even one fly is found on cooked food, the top of the food at least should be destroyed. Uncooked and green vegetables should be thoroughly washed. Food placed on table should always be protected from flies. Dish-water should never be thrown on the ground in the vicinity of the kitchen.

Cover food after a meal. Burn or bury all table refuse. Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered, and the cans clean and sprinkled with chloride of lime. Screen all doors and windows so that flies may not enter dwellings. To destroy flies that enter, the use of fly swatters and flypaper is recommended. A poisoned bait made by mixing one teaspoonful of formalin in a cupful of sweetened milk or water may be put in a saucer and left in the room.

A commercial fly-spray may be used, but the following mixture, prepared at home, is recommended by the Dominion Department of Agriculture: "Add one-half pound of pyrethrum to one gallon (8.08 lbs.) of kerosene, allowing the mixture to stand and agitating it at intervals over a period of two hours or longer. The residue of the pyrethrum settles to the bottom of the vessel as a brown sediment and the clear liquid, which is pale lemon-yellow in color, may be either siphoned or filtered off. When the spray is required for use in farm buildings, it may be satisfactorily prepared with ordinary kerosene. For household use, however, to remove any possibility of staining fabrics or furniture, water-white kerosene should be used, and to impart a pleasant odor, methyl salicylate may be added at the rate of three fluid ounces to each gallon. The spray should be kept in a tightly corked container to prevent it from deteriorating in length." To destroy flies, the spray should be applied in the form of a fine mist by means of a small hand sprayer. It operates best in a closed space when doors and windows are closed. The dead insects should be swept up and burned.

Fresh horse manure is a prolific source of house-fly production. In rural sections the manure should be removed daily and spread thinly in fields where the drying effect of sun and wind will prevent breeding.

Dave: "Well, it's a great day for the race."
Junior: "What race?"
Dave: "The human race. Ha, ha."
Junior (with a snappy comeback): "You shouldn't worry. You're not in it."

John: "Where's that schoolteacher I used to see you out with?"
Danny: "Oh, that's all off. She had a lot of class but no principle."

ESCAPE TO JASPER

JASPER

IN THE CANADIAN ROCKIES

Don't waste precious vacation days doing the same old things over again! Two weeks and an ordinary 1936 budget are all you need to "do" the glorious Rockies this summer. New low rail and sleeping car fares bring real adventure within your reach.

Sports? You'll find them in settings unlike those you've seen before. Suit your pleasure to the moment. Play golf on Jasper's mountain-girdled championship course. Ride, hike, swim, motor, climb, fish in Jasper National Park. Dance the happy evenings through at Jasper Park Lodge. Rates run from $7.00 a day, including meals. Or there are other attractive hotels in Jasper Town. En route to Jasper you'll learn more about Canada than books have ever been able to tell you.

Canadian National's "Continental Limited" provides daily service between Montreal, Toronto, Jasper and Vancouver. Low summer fares. Table d'hôte meals in dining cars. Lunch service in coaches.

By this time the garment should be very well indeed, but to keep it so, it must be folded properly. If you will examine the way in which new shirts are folded, you will find that it is easy to fold one the same way yourself.

Here are simple directions. Lay the shirt flat on ironing board, and starting at the top, button every other button to hold it together, fold under each side of the shirt lengthwise about one-fourth of the width. Now turn it over, being sure that the front is unwrinkled. Place the extended sleeves lengthwise on the back of the shirt and fold the bottom of the shirt up over the cuffs to hold them in place. Then bring the lower part of the garment up to the collar thus folding it exactly in the middle and resulting in a perfectly folded shirt.

To preserve the lustre on linoleum, use soap and water and wash lightly. Never use a stiff brush.

Place a small piece of fat in the saucpan when boiling greens. It will prevent the water from boiling over.

When icing starts to harden before you have finished spreading it, set the bowl or pan of icing into a larger pan containing hot water until you have finished.

Grease spots on furniture can be removed by adding a few drops of methylated spirit to the furniture cream.

BARONS, KINGS AND OTHER THINGS

The "Success Story" originating in this column a few weeks ago was reprinted on Margaret Currie's Page in the Montreal Star. Letters to this writer have followed in consequence. One from J. W. Hamilton, St. Paul, Minn., is of particular interest.

Dear Miss Dicks: I am greatly taken with your story about the French Canadian girl who showed such pluck and married a man with the same kind of backbone. I have read it in the Star for May 23rd. The Convener of Immigration devoted to the welfare of Home and Country we ought to recognize exceptional talent of this kind.

I doubt very much if the Barons at Huntingdon had any idea that they were forcing King John to sign a document of world significance. Neither do I believe that the Magna Carta, excellent basis that it has proved to be, is the last word that can be written of a like or even greater political magnitude. It does, however, now represent one of the outstanding traditions of the English speaking world.

H. G. Wells, in Work, Wealth and Happiness of mankind states that three distinct stages can be traced in the development of man's history. (1) The prehistoric living in the sub-human stage; (2) A stage in which social life and tradition appeared and human life is retrospective and ruled by precedent and historical legend; (3) This present third stage in which we are living, with science and design rapidly ousting tradition from its domination over human life.

The first repudiation of tradition, the breakaway from ancient mythological, imaginative thought, is found in the philosophies of Athens from the sixth Century B.C. onward. It was here that restrained, question-guided thought was introduced to the modern world, says Wells. There is no doubt that the widespread departure from traditions inaugurated by Aristotle, ably furthered by the British Barons, is receiving great impetus in these times.

MAGNA CARTA DAY

My correspondent, Mr. J. W. Hamilton, is the Secretary and Founder of the International Magna Carta Day Association, the object of which is the promotion among English-speaking people of the observance of June 15th as Magna Carta Day and of the third Sunday in June as Magna Carta Sunday.

The Magna Carta was signed by King John in 1215, after the revolt of the Barons. It covered a number of fundamental rights that made England a legal and not a royal state. It rejected the power of the King to control the personal property and liberty of every citizen—save with the consent of the man's equals. All the Anglo-Saxon world, including the United States of America at present base their Constitutions upon the Magna Carta.

The Association formed to honor the memory of the successful revolt that resulted in the procuring of the Great Charter includes in its membership many famous persons. The President is the Rt. Rev.

Two hundred million people living under its traditions, laws and culture have every reason to honor the Magna Carta as a great reform movement. It brought to them knowledge, wealth and happiness. Thus cultivated and stimulated, the Anglo-Saxon mind should be well prepared to accept and adjust itself to changing conditions involving further release from traditions.

Letters have been received from men seeking work in the country. Young men twenty-three, strong and healthy but without experience seek work on a farm.

Married man with one child states he can take charge of a boiler room, run cold storage plant, install and repair hot or cold water pipes, fit up steam lines, knows how to care for orchard, understands practical side of poultry, vegetables, orchard. He is a colored West Indian, 45 years of age.

We will furnish names and addresses to anyone who can offer employment to these men.

Farewell Party To Charles Rosenblatt

A farewell party in honour of Mr. Charles Rosenblatt who is returning this week-end to Paterson, N.J. was given by employees of the Windsor Silk Mill, at the Mill, on Monday evening. Mr. Frank Purcato, on behalf of his fellow-workers, extended good wishes to Mr. Rosenblatt on his departure and presented him with a pen and pencil set, a gift of the mill staff.

"Swimming Ears" Return

Now is the time when ear troubles are showing up in greater frequency than at any other time of the year. "Swimming ears" they are called.

Trouble in the ears, especially among those who have had neither before, can be avoided thus: Don't dive, especially don't dive feet first.

Keep your head above water. Soak pellets of cotton in vaseline and place in each ear. Don't inhale water. If you must dive, snort afterwards, much as a dog does. This removes the water gently from the nose and keeps it from backing up through the eustachian tube into the interior of the ear.

This tube runs from the inside of the drum to the upper part of the throat. Its function is to compensate the exterior pressure of the atmosphere (15 pounds to the square inch at sea level), on the ear drum. It keeps the ear drum taut so it can pick up sounds and transmit them.

But let the water back up in that tube and you are probably in for trouble. Some Sound Advice Here is some good advice for swimmers: People who have a running ear should not go in swimming. People who have a perforation of the drum should always wear plugs in the ears. This practice is advisable even for those with normal ears if they do much bathing.

After swimming, especially after diving, water should be expelled from the nose gently. If a person has never had ear trouble, he can be practically sure that his ear drum is intact. However, children going to camps where swimming is featured should have the ears examined to make sure that the ear is normal, they should wear plugs, should be told of the danger of diving feet foremost, and be watched to see that they blow their noses properly.

Persons with perforated ear drums should under no circumstances allow water to get into the ear. To do so may induce severe deafness. It can be kept by the use of the cotton pellets described above.

LEPERS WIN FOOD STRIKE

Isacca, Rumania, had a panic when 120 lepers broke from a nearby hospital as a protest against their food. Invading the village the lepers seized the Town Hall. The villagers fled. When panic had abated the lepers discussed their grievances with the authorities, who remained at a safe distance. The lepers won and returned to their hospital.

CAT IN MATTRESS NINE DAYS

After nine days' imprisonment in a mattress, a cat belonging to A. Foster of South Shields, England, has been found alive. When the family moved the dog was ready to go, but the tabby could not be found. Nine days later the mattress was unrolled and Kitty, hair grey, haunched, crawled out. It revived after a drink of warm milk.

The Gore

A very interesting game of baseball was played on Saturday, June 20, on The Gore diamond between Athelstan and The Gore teams. The game was well played by both teams until the last inning which gave the game to Athelstan by a score of 10-5.

Line up: The Gore: C. Henderson, 1st b; G. Henderson, 2nd b; A. Neely, 3rd b; J. Money Penny, s.s.; Mervyn Graham, r.f.; Gerald Henderson, c.f.; Melvin Graham, l.f.

Athelstan line-up: A. Hampton, c; A. Duvall, p; G. Goldie, 1st b; C. Sloan, s.s.; C. Elder, r.f.; D. Watson, c.f.; A. Roy, l.f.

On Wednesday afternoon, June 17, a shower was given by the ladies of St. Paul's Church at the home of Mrs. Allan Anderson in honor of Mrs. Rhodena Boyd whose marriage takes place June 27th.

While ascending the stairs, she received a shower of rose petals and entered the room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march and was escorted to the seat of honor where she received a gift of silver presented by little Janet Levers, to which she thanked the guests in a very able manner. After a social hour a delicious tea was served by the hostess.

The core W.M.S. and Mistry Sals held at the home of Mrs. James Todd on Thursday, June 18, with 9 members and several visitors present. Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert Anderson took charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Roy Blair gave a talk on temperance. The meeting closed by singing "What a friend we have in Jesus", after which the mistry and apron sale took place. The proceeds amounted to $4.65. A delicious supper was served by Mrs. Todd, assisted by the members.

Miss Edna Todd of Beathornais was the week-end guest of her mother, Mrs. James Todd.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Anderson and family of Malone, N.Y. were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Anderson.

Miss Ruth Anderson has returned home after spending a few days visiting friends in Malone.

SYNTHETIC WOOD CLAIMED

That he has discovered a process for the manufacture of synthetic wood after thirty years of experimenting, is claimed by a man of Melbourne, Australia. He says his product may be sawn, planed and chiselled like ordinary wood, but without warping, splitting or shrinking. It is grainless and non-inflammable, he holds. Nails and screws driven into it will withstand any reasonable strain.

MOTHER PLAYS GOLF AT 80

Eighty years of age, Mrs. M. Preston played in the annual mothers' and daughters' golf tournament at Ranelagh, England. She was partnered by Mrs. Graham Jones, and twice during their eighteen-hole round the mother extricated her side from difficulties caused by errors on the daughter's part. Their total of 93, however, was far behind the score of the winners.

Everybody Has Some Vice

Everyone has some secret vice, and mine is buying newspapers. I take three in the morning and three at night, and if you ask how this leaves me time to do any work I will reveal my formula. I do not spend a great deal of time with the long articles at the top of the pages. These deal with the European situation, political speeches and evanescent scandals, to all of which I have developed a certain old-age immunity.

But I read with unflagging joy all the little items. Here one can observe the eternal pageant of human ingenuity, folly, frivolity, and unexpectedness. I note, for instance, that a scientist has grafted the hind legs of a salamander into the front part of his body and put its front legs where its hind legs were before. Another professor has succeeded in causing a rooster to develop the characteristics of a hen, which he thinks is something to crow about; a third savant finds that he can compel tadpoles to become frogs much more rapidly than when they are left to their own inclinations.

Here, also, I make the acquaintance of a poet who is fined one cent for calling a county commissioner a sacred bull, the juror supporting the penny. At one fell swoop 17,000 Kentucky Colonels, myself included, are shorn of their gaudy titles; a judge who fined his wife two dollars for violating parking regulations wakes up the next morning to discover himself two dollars shy; and a poor citizen shoots himself because he is tired of trying to escape from an installment-purchase salesman.

The late Mr. Talleyrand said that when he should come to the end of life he wanted to die with a newspaper in his hand. I echo his wish.

Two acquaintances were talking about a man who used to be both rich and opinionated. One said: "Jim is nice; it must be the depression. He didn't get busted, of course, but he got a good thorough cleaning. I think it has made him more human."

To which the other replied: "There is another factor. In the past five years his children have married and set up their own homes. Back in the years of his big prosperity they were beginning to assert themselves, and he was forever fighting and tugging, trying to run their lives, making himself miserable whenever he discovered he could not. Now, at last, he has surrendered. Somewhat to his astonishment, they have all turned out to be pretty successful."

A third man said: That story hits the spot with me. I recently made the discovery that I was in danger of alienating my children because I wanted so much to have them just right. What woke me up was a remark by my nine-year-old daughter as we were riding to town. After we had traveled about a mile she looked up at me in surprise, and said: "Well, Daddy, where's the sermon?"

The temptation to try to lead our children's lives for them is almost inescapable. We are so conscious of the miseries brought on us by our own shortcomings, so anxious to save them from the same penalties. Yet most of our talk is useless. Example is about the only power that really counts.

If the youngsters knew the quotation they probably would fling it at us often—Emerson's famous remark: "What you are thunders so loud I can't hear what you say."

LEPERS WIN FOOD STRIKE

Isacca, Rumania, had a panic when 120 lepers broke from a nearby hospital as a protest against their food. Invading the village the lepers seized the Town Hall. The villagers fled. When panic had abated the lepers discussed their grievances with the authorities, who remained at a safe distance. The lepers won and returned to their hospital.

CAT IN MATTRESS NINE DAYS

After nine days' imprisonment in a mattress, a cat belonging to A. Foster of South Shields, England, has been found alive. When the family moved the dog was ready to go, but the tabby could not be found. Nine days later the mattress was unrolled and Kitty, hair grey, haunched, crawled out. It revived after a drink of warm milk.

Lyle Elder Had Jaw Fractured In Baseball Game

The first flare-up in several years in the Montreal City Senior Amateur Baseball League occurred in the sixth inning of a game Monday night when "Toddy" Cartwright, Columbus outfielder, allegedly attacked first baseman Lyle Elder Shamrocks, after he had been retired on an infield pop to second baseman George Gravel. Cartwright rushed the first sacker and knocked him to the ground which was the signal for several more players to join in an almost pitched battle. Pitcher Alf Bryant of Shamrocks, and Playing Manager Eddie Doray of Columbus were ejected from the game by Umpire Frank Ulley along with Cartwright while Elder was given first aid at the Western Hospital.

The league will deal with their objections upon receipt of official reports from the Umpires but since each club does not play before Friday action will unlikely be dealt out for a day or two.

Lyle entered the Montreal General Hospital for further treatment this morning. He has been playing ball with the Lacolle baseball team.

The core W.M.S. and Mistry Sals held at the home of Mrs. James Todd on Thursday, June 18, with 9 members and several visitors present. Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert Anderson took charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Roy Blair gave a talk on temperance. The meeting closed by singing "What a friend we have in Jesus", after which the mistry and apron sale took place. The proceeds amounted to $4.65. A delicious supper was served by Mrs. Todd, assisted by the members.

Miss Edna Todd of Beathornais was the week-end guest of her mother, Mrs. James Todd.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Anderson and family of Malone, N.Y. were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Anderson.

Miss Ruth Anderson has returned home after spending a few days visiting friends in Malone.

SYNTHETIC WOOD CLAIMED

That he has discovered a process for the manufacture of synthetic wood after thirty years of experimenting, is claimed by a man of Melbourne, Australia. He says his product may be sawn, planed and chiselled like ordinary wood, but without warping, splitting or shrinking. It is grainless and non-inflammable, he holds. Nails and screws driven into it will withstand any reasonable strain.

MOTHER PLAYS GOLF AT 80

Eighty years of age, Mrs. M. Preston played in the annual mothers' and daughters' golf tournament at Ranelagh, England. She was partnered by Mrs. Graham Jones, and twice during their eighteen-hole round the mother extricated her side from difficulties caused by errors on the daughter's part. Their total of 93, however, was far behind the score of the winners.

Everybody Has Some Vice

Everyone has some secret vice, and mine is buying newspapers. I take three in the morning and three at night, and if you ask how this leaves me time to do any work I will reveal my formula. I do not spend a great deal of time with the long articles at the top of the pages. These deal with the European situation, political speeches and evanescent scandals, to all of which I have developed a certain old-age immunity.

But I read with unflagging joy all the little items. Here one can observe the eternal pageant of human ingenuity, folly, frivolity, and unexpectedness. I note, for instance, that a scientist has grafted the hind legs of a salamander into the front part of his body and put its front legs where its hind legs were before. Another professor has succeeded in causing a rooster to develop the characteristics of a hen, which he thinks is something to crow about; a third savant finds that he can compel tadpoles to become frogs much more rapidly than when they are left to their own inclinations.

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

Strawberry time is shortcake time. The modern woman, wishing to serve a strictly early-American delicacy, should by all means make at least one old-fashioned strawberry shortcake while the berries are in season. It's popular with every member of the family. Such a cake is easy to prepare, decidedly inexpensive—and very luscious. Once tried it becomes a regular dessert, so long as strawberries can be obtained. Here is a carefully tested recipe for:

Old Fashioned Strawberry Shortcake

2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons cream of tartar baking powder
3 tablespoons shortening
3/4 cup milk
1 quart berries

Sift dry ingredients; mix in shortening; add milk to make soft dough; smooth out lightly. Bake in greased deep layer cake tin in hot oven at 475 degrees F. for 20 to 25 minutes. Split, butter and spread sweetened crushed berries between layers.

A woman is as old as her mouth, according to beauty experts. Nothing does more to mar the face than acid and extra years than thin mouth lines, flabby puckered skin, and dry, roughened lips. Whenever you cream your face, remember not to skip your lips. Rub the cream in gently and also massage for a few seconds around the corners of the mouth with an upward circular motion. It's an excellent year-round suggestion, too, for softening the lips and removing roughness, to keep a bottle of your favorite lotion handy and moisten the lips frequently with it during the day and as a finishing touch to your nightly facial.

The victims of tuberculosis say they are becoming fed-up with professional sympathizers who seek funds from the public with harrowing sob-stories and tear-jerking publicity. So they are now forming their own cooperative league for mutual help and rehabilitation. If you have friends or acquaintances who may be interested, information can be had by addressing The National League of the Tuberculous, Astoria, New York.

Smart shops are now showing air-tight metal canisters which keep crackers, coffee and the like crisp and fresh indefinitely. They filled one with crackers, immersed it in a pan of water for two weeks, and the crackers came out crisp as ever. The canisters come in two and three pound sizes.

We couldn't possibly think of a neater gift for the bride of modest income than one of the new racks which fasten against the wall, and have two rows of five sliding hooks for pots and pans. Everything right where you want it. The upper part may be used to hold canisters, and there are brass roosters, foxes and fish for added color.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Brighten Your Shadows

"A piece of white cardboard brightened this shadowed face"

HAVE you ever tried taking a picture of your best girl—or your wife—wearing her new broad-brimmed summer hat and find, when you see the finished print, that her pretty face turned out to be an unattractive dark shadow? Of course you have. Who hasn't?

Now there is really no excuse for this common error in amateur photography. You can't prevent the appearance of the shadow but you can lighten it considerably in the picture by using a reflector to cast or reflect the necessary light under the brim of the hat and on her face.

Please don't gasp and think about spending a lot of money for a reflector for it isn't necessary. A satisfactory, efficient reflector can be had for practically nothing. Any number of things will serve you; a piece of white paper about three feet square, a white cloth of the same dimension or even a pillow slip or white towel, if the canceller of the linen closet will let you get away with it, will serve admirably.

What's the trick? There's no trick to it at all. This is all you have to do. Suppose we use the pictures of the comely young lady above as an example.

Both snapshots were taken at noon with the sun's rays striking the top of the hat. Notice the picture to the right; how the brim of the hat casts a dark shadow over the face. The picture to the left, however, shows the pleasing results by using a reflector to cast or reflect the sun's rays under the hat. The reflector in this

MYSTERY HOUSE

Chapter 29

"Did Flora talk of me?" Page repeated. "She came across the room where she was being detained and clung to me. She was crying all the time. Hysterical and frightened; you never saw anything like it! She said, 'Oh, be my friend—help me! I never meant you to be harmed. I know you wouldn't die out there. On Monday I was going to send a wire to San Francisco that you were out on the Rock!'"

"She said that?" Lynn said. "But do you believe her?"

"Do you?"

"I don't know. If I'd been killed by that fall on Wednesday she probably would, for she would have thought you couldn't hurt her. Without what I knew, you couldn't do much. But seeing me come alive with you out of that cave must have been one of the awful moments of her life. She probably started off with the boat in a panic—"

"No panic about it," Page said. "She knew when she told you she might be out on the Rock that she was going to abandon us there. But you see, Rand had thrown her down. Lynn. He told her right then and there that he was going to get away. There was nothing left but for her to escape, too! We've tried to trace him since. That afternoon he drew all the money he had out of a San Francisco bank and since then nobody's heard anything of him. Barnes said that if they got anything out of her they might get enough to go after him, too. But I don't believe they will. She was just her mother's catpaw. The real Mrs. Prendergast was dying before ever Flora got to Mystery House. Flora never gave her a dose of anything or came anywhere near her."

"I remember that," Lynn said. "I got there, you know, only a few days before my grandmother died. Flora was only in the background, like a ghost, and Rand didn't get there until after I did. No; it was the old woman; it was Trudy," Lynn went on remembering it, his eyes narrowed and fixed on space. "But she must have known that Rand was drugging me," he said suddenly.

"Yes, but even that isn't very easy to prove," Page reminded him. "You were terribly ill, and Rand was a doctor. He had your tonic made up at Belmont. They knew him there; they'd have to say that there was nothing harmful in it. Nobody can tell what his Chinese drugs were."

"I suppose not—I suppose it all sounds like a sick man's ravings," Lynn mused. "Are they going to—they'll have to follow up the grave matter, though, won't they?" he said.

"They found the body, you know—perhaps you were too sick to know," Page explained. "It was about ten days ago. It had been placed in another grave that was only partly filled. Flora said that her mother and Rand drove over to Halfmoon Bay, with one of the Chinese to help, two nights in succession, and changed the grave themselves! But there's no sign of violence, and no traces of poison, and so perhaps even that can't be made much of. Oh, if Rand were there they'd get him fast enough," Page ended animatedly, "but he's gone. They think he dressed as a Chinaman and got over into Mexico, and once there, Flora said, he can easily get away on some boat or hide himself as long as he likes!"

"I'm glad you're not with him," Page said simply. "The dream is over, isn't it, and we're awake?"

"It seems to me," Page amended. "I'm going into the best of the dream."

Lynn picked up her brown left hand; looked at it.

"That isn't a dream, is it?" he said.

"Page's eyes followed his to the plain gold ring that encircled her third finger.

"No; that isn't a dream. I wonder—" she said, laughing and flushing. "If we ought to make it one?"

"What do you think?"

"I've loved you from the very beginning, Lynn," the girl said seriously, sudden tears in her smiling eyes. "But in these last few days you've grown so different—you're getting well, your mind's all clear where you used to be so vague, and you're so—definite where you used to let me run you..."

She stopped, in difficulties. The man, lightly beating against her hand with his own thin long one, laughed nervously.

"Don't you want your husband to be definite, Page?"

"Something in the hesitating yet infinitely tender tone, something of possession and domination, brought the hot blood to her face. Page was not laughing as she said, "That's it, you see. I've known you—one way all these months—and now you're changed. You were always just Lynn, who didn't think quite straight and who didn't count—no body paid much attention to you—"

"You did," he reminded her quite seriously as she paused.

"Oh well—I—yes, I did," Page stammered, "because I was so sorry for you! Just tell me," she recommenced, smiling gallantly, "by blinking to keep the moisture from her eyes, "just tell me that you remember about that day—ten days ago, the day after the operation—?"

"The day we were married," Page? Lynn asked gravely, all his laughter gone now, his eyes fixed on hers and his hand still lightly beating her hand.

"You did want me to—but I know you wanted me to—" the girl faltered in distress. Lynn frowned faintly, staring at her.

"You aren't seriously asking me that?"

"I think I am. If you didn't—if you were sick and weak and didn't know—"

"I knew," he said, and for awhile neither spoke. "I'm so weak yet, Page," Lynn said then, "that it doesn't take much to make me cry the baby! I've a handkerchief here somewhere—lend me yours, I know."

"No, I don't want it," Lynn said, "I tried unsuccessfully to hold quite steady, that you saved me. That when I was tossing about—it was always the Hawaiian volcano, Page, so frightfully hot and thick and close to me—"

"You told me. Don't think about it."

"Well, in the middle of that suddenly to be back in this room and to have you here in your rumpled suit that you wore on the Rock, and with your hair all blown and salty—and yet you were in white, too, like a nurse—kneeling down, whispering to me: 'Would you like to be married, Lynn? Wouldn't you like us to be married right now? They'll let us, if you want to.'"

"It was like something cool and safe and strong, in the middle of desert sands," he said after a while.

"I remember the cool feeling of your hand, and that afterward you leaned over and kissed me, and your lips felt so cool against my forehead. And then I remember your saying 'Rest your head here, Lynn; I'm holding you! And my head felt right, and there seemed to be such a coolness and darkness everywhere, and we were off the Rock!'"

"Are you asking me seriously, Page," Lynn said, when for another strange moment or two there had been silence between them, "if I want to go back on that?"

"No, not really," she said, stirred as she never had been stirred in her life before, smiling and in tears.

"Then don't say that any more," Lynn rubbed his thumb on the gold ring. "It's you and I now until the end of the chapter," he said. "I never would have left this room alive but for you. There's nothing in my life but you. You can't leave me now."

He shut his eyes, and Page saw tears slip from under his lids and for a long time he did not speak, and she could not.

"We went down to Mystery House, Lynn, Mrs. Hibbs and Barnes and I, yesterday afternoon," she presently said.

"I thought you said you couldn't bear it?"

"I didn't think I could. But Alysse—Mrs. Hibbs—wanted to go, and I thought we might as well have it over, so after I left you here, we drove straight down. I had thought I might faint or something, but it didn't shock me at all; it just seemed horribly dreary, with the sun going down and the fog coming in over the Rock."

"The old Rock!"

"Two of the Chinese boys were there closing things up, and of course the Japanese. They asked me about Mrs. Prendergast—they called her that, naturally, and I didn't explain anything. Anything about her name, I mean, I told them the whole thing, and they said, 'Well, we would come down some day soon and talk to them, and we walked on the terrace a little; we didn't go in. Somehow I couldn't go in!'"

"We can write them, can't we? There's no reason for our ever going back, is there?" Lynn said un- easily. Page looked at him a moment before replying.

"Just looking at the Rock made me remember those horrible days and how my head had ached and how cold we were," she said presently. "No, we don't have to go back—right away, anyhow."

"Nor ever!" Lynn added jealously. (To be continued)

Poultry Notes

CLEANLINESS OFTEN DECIDING FACTOR

Cleanliness is a first need of chicks. They may have come from vigorous breeding stock kept under the best conditions, but if lack of cleaning up invites germs to multiply in the warmth which chicks require, their growth will be handicapped if they do not die. Carrying germs of disease, they cannot make fullest use of their feed in building up quickly and thriftily to maturity.

A good plan is to have a regular time for doing the necessary cleaning up of the brooder quarters and the daily scrubbing up of drinking vessels and feeding troughs. The work is then much more likely to be thoroughly done. The time required for this work may be greatly reduced by doing it after carefully considering means by which to reduce the amount of labor required to do a good job.

Making use of a good standard disinfectant regularly is likely to be well repaid in the freedom from infection which it insures. Having insured freedom from disease infection within the brooder house, the poultry keeper must continue to safeguard the health of the growing stock by keeping the chicks entirely away from the older birds, which may harbor disease germs.

The matter of choosing land on which to continue rearing chicks should keep cleanliness in mind. To avoid invasion by germs or pests that may be held over in the soil, range land for chicks should not have carried poultry for at least three years before being put to the use of the chicks. It should be grass land, preferably carrying alfalfa or clover. The use of a portable house makes it possible to move the stock several times during the summer to give them clean land.

Built on skids, the rearing house for chicks is readily moved by hand or tractor. The fresh ranges as often as seems necessary to insure plentiful supplies of fresh green feed and freedom from contamination of the soil by the growing flock. Growing chicks safeguarded in this way are placed in a position to put the feed they consume into best use in building large frames well covered with flesh, and vigorous enough to do full duty in supplying winter eggs and strong breeding stock.

FINDS ALL-BRAN BETTER THAN PILLS, SALTS, AND OILS. This Natural Food Relieved His Constipation*

We quote from his letter: "... So I decided to make a fair trial of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, with the result that I felt much improved. I have quit all laxatives since 1929.

"For 34 years, I had to take pills, salts, oils, teas, or other fluids, which did more harm than good. ALL-BRAN now is our breakfast cereal for the whole family." — Mr. Martin Wroblewski (address on request).

Meals low in "bulk" often lead to constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides generous "bulk" which absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, and gently exercises and cleanses the system. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. How much better to use this natural food in place of patent medicines.

Use as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooking. ALL-BRAN is much more effective than part-bran products. It is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

The pupils of the Back Ridge School presented a concert in O'Connor Hall on Monday in honor of King Edward VIII's birthday and St. Jean Baptiste.

The program was well divided into musical selections, recitations and a play entitled "Jesus at Nazareth," presented by the school. The students deserve much credit for the way in which they rendered this drama and to Miss Boulanger, their teacher, goes the credit of having achieved such a success.

In his remarks Mr. Gagnon stated that the Back Ridge School had come out first in the final exams for this district. The Hall was offered to Back Ridge School by Mr. D. J. O'Connor. The teachers and the pupils greatly appreciated Mr. O'Connor's gesture.

Huntingdon and Malone took a weird excursion into the realm of higher mathematics in the baseball game played at the Fair ground in connection with the King's birthday celebration yesterday. The locals finally took the red ribbon by the basketball score of 22-15 after a total of 37 runs had crossed the plate. They fine-combed the offerings of three Malone pitchers for a total of 20 hits while the visitors were smacking the ball to all corners of the lot with 15 hits off a trio of Huntingdon hurlers.

The game looked like a walk-away for the home team when they garnered four runs in the first inning and it had developed into a run-away by the fourth when the score stood at 13 to 4. But the locals went into a talspin in the fifth and Malone practically wore out the home plate, shoving 9 runs across by means of 3 small hits, four big errors and two walks.

The Malone pitching corps proved to be Taylor-made men as far as the local 3rd sacker was concerned. (George polled out 3 hits, one of them a lousy triple, to round out a very good day's performance. Jimmy Baxter also grabbed himself a prominent place in the hitting parade with 4 singles, and Spencer Gavin, the P.O.H. (Personification of Rhythm) hitter, connected three times.

All in all it was quite an attraction for those fans who like their ball games served with plenty of action. For those who like less action and more baseball it probably proved more of a distraction. The new grandstand was filled to capacity and long lines of spectators extended down both sides of the field, giving the teams plenty of vocal encouragement throughout the game. On Sunday, the team climbed back into the driver's seat in the Border Baseball League by downing Malone at home, 12-9. They are sharing the seat with Bombay, however, as the latter won their game against Chateaugay the same day. Next Sunday Malone will be the guests at the local diamond.

The celebration at the Fair grounds Tuesday turned out to be a very successful affair, indeed. There was a very snappy program of track and field events, a mass drill exhibition by the school students, a tug-of-war contest, and—no speeches.

The Gleaner has many enthusiastic readers down around Brysonville but we think the palm goes to the young lady who was reading the paper as she galloped merrily along the highway on horseback last Thursday. That's the kind of subscribers we like—the kind that can't even wait till they get home to read the paper—Huntingdon is becoming something of a no-man's-land on Sunday evenings with half the younger people travelling to see the sights at Malone and the other half journeying off to Valleyfield. The latter place seems to have a fatal attraction for many here. . . . Some excitement was caused in town last week when a parrot escaped from its cage in a local residence and flew to the top of a high tree where it successfully resisted all efforts to get it down. Throughout the whole proceedings the bird was in its best talking form and it wasn't saying "Come up 'n see me, sometime," either.

Hemmingford Woman Head Women's ...

There are 88 live Branches of the Women's Institutes in the Province of Quebec, with an approximate membership of 1,850, the superintendent, Miss Hazel B. McCain, told the convention. Over 1,000 meetings had been held by the Branch Institutes, carrying out instructive programs, and plans for activities of home and community life. Two new clubs were organized during the year. Total receipts reported from the Branch Institutes amounted to $12,000.16, and expenditure to $9,043.20, largely for local improvements and educational efforts. Money was spent on school prizes, scholarships, travelling libraries, prizes for school and county fairs, community halls, skating rinks, tennis clubs, and other forms of community recreation. Home Economics Are Studied

Discussion of home economics and agriculture occupies the afternoon session Thursday. In an address on "Making the Most of Home Resources," Miss Alice M. Stockwood, lecturer on foods and dietetics in the School of Household Science, considered the subject from the food and health angle, stressing the importance of a properly balanced diet not only in physical well-being but also in mental ability and emotional attitude. Prevention of Tuberculosis

"Prevention of Tuberculosis in Rural Areas" was the subject of a practical address by Dr. James B. Ross, of Montreal, at the Wednesday night meeting. There is no need for the old fatalistic attitude in regard to tuberculosis, he assured his hearers. So much is now known of its cause and treatment that with understanding and co-operation on the part of the public to apply the necessary measures, tuberculosis can be among the disappearing diseases. Resolutions at Thursday's Session Several resolutions were adopted at Thursday morning's session of the convention. This being the first meeting since the accession of King Edward VIII, the convention declared its allegiance to His Majesty. One resolution asked the institute branches to encourage rural teachers to attend the annual conventions of the Association of Protestant Teachers of the Province of Quebec. Another resolution endorsed the work of the adult education through the formation of study groups. Considering that the League of Nations Society in Canada has as its objective international peace, the Women's Institutes record approval of the objective and program of the League of Nations. The resolution of thanks acknowledged indebtedness to Macdonald College, McGill University and the Extension Department under Col. Wilfrid Bovey. Mrs. C. E. Petch gave an account of the scholarships for bright boys and girls who would not otherwise have the educational opportunities they needed, had been mooted. Where such scholarships had been tried in England they had resulted in great gratification to government positions. The need of people with better training in agriculture was never greater than it is today, the speaker declared. Other besides farmers, he added, need to know more about agriculture, and avoid a wrong viewpoint towards farm life. Decrees Trek To Cities Dr. Black deplored the desertion of the farm by boys who went to seek work in the cities. He felt that

NEW BEATTY AUTOMATIC IRONER

Iron the Modern Way Hand Irons were modern 20 years ago, but today up-to-date housewives are using the Beatty Automatic Ironer. Beatty Ironers are faster, save hours of hard work, and give the clothes a better appearance. With the Beatty you can do four or five flat pieces at once, and be comfortable seated at the same time. The hand iron is slow, tiring and antiquated. Think of the convenience of always having an abundance of clean, freshly ironed clothes, without any of the hard work of hand ironing, or the expense of having them ironed outside. When you own a Beatty Ironer the shelves of your linen closet are always fully stocked. THE FINEST IRONER MADE --- SOLD BY --- Beatty Washer Store, Valleyfield. Laberge Bros., Huntingdon. E. E. Baseball Game Astride Donkeys in Valleyfield

An attraction unique of its kind will be staged on the Valleyfield Fair grounds on Monday, June 29th when two teams will play a ball game on donkeys. It is described by many baseball fans who have seen this comedy as one of the most interesting and comical of all outdoor sports. The exhibition will be between the "Champlain" team of Valleyfield and another team from Montreal. This game will take place under the floodlights at 9:30 p.m.

According to the rules of the game it is said that a batter as soon as he hits the ball jumps on a donkey which is nearby and starts going around the bases, that is if the donkey will want to go where he is supposed to. It often happens that the donkeys will not even move.

A big crowd is expected to witness this game. Mayor P. Billette will throw the first ball—Advt.
