COAST OF FLORIDA IS SWEEPED BY A HURRICANE
Says Prosperity Of Canada Almost Unprecedented In History

Severe Tropical Storm Is Raging In East Florida

Residents of Fort Pierce Barred in Their Homes Today—Seventy-Mile an Hour Wind Sweeping Streets, Making It Extremely Dangerous for Anyone to Venture Out, Particularly Because of Possibility of Being Struck by Flying Debris—Damage Undetermined, But Expected to Be Heavy.

(Associated Press Despatch) JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 8.—The Florida east coast from West Palm Beach to Melbourne, a hundred mile stretch, was battered today by a tropical hurricane, which distressed shipping isolated towns and brought damage to property.

Anxiety was expressed over the whereabouts of the Palatial Havana Special of the Florida East Coast Railway, which was five hours overdue at Miami. It had last been heard from on leaving Fort Pierce last night. Its route from there to Miami lay through the storm area.

Although tropical radio, at Miami, reported last night that the steamer Algonquin, of the Mallory Line with three hundred passengers aboard, bound from Galveston to New York, had reported that it had lost its bearings on account of the storm, a wireless message from the steamer was received this morning from New York reporting that the ship had been in the Florida Straits to ride out the storm.

The Lempira, Honduran vessel, New York to Porto Cortes, was reported in the storm sixty miles southeast of Jupiter Light.

EXPRESS FEAR FOR TRAIN MANY HOURS BEHIND TIME

(Associated Press Despatch) MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 8.—With the tropical storm that has been raging on the Florida east coast centered near Fort Pierce, residents of that city were reported to be barricaded in their houses early today when a brief report was received from that section shortly before all communication was cut off.

A seventy-five mile an hour wind swept the streets and made it extremely dangerous for anyone to venture out, particularly because of the possibility of being struck by flying debris, the report said. Damage was undetermined, but was expected to be heavy.

The hurricane stormed the coast last night between the Palm Beaches and Cocoa, when the tropical disturber resumed its travels after having remained stationary for several hours in the Atlantic Ocean about sixty miles off Palm Beach.

The Palm Beaches were swept by a sixty mile gale for about three hours, but relief came when the wind shifted to the south and appeared to be abating.

Fears were felt here for the Havana Special of the Florida East Coast Railroad. This train, south-bound from New York to Miami, carrying fourteen cars, mostly Pullmans, had not been heard from since early last night, when it was reported to be in the storm area. It was due in Miami at 2:10 o'clock this morning.

Communication with practically all points in the storm area was down.

OUTPUT OF CANADA'S DAIRIES FOR 1927 VALUED AT $133,927,256

(Canadian Press Despatch)

OTTAWA, August 8.—In 1927 the output of Canadian dairies was valued at $133,927,256, an increase of about $500,000 over 1926.

The production of creamery butter increased in quantity by over 1,000,000 lbs., and in value nearly $5,000,000. The production of cheese, on the other hand, decreased in quantity by nearly 54,000,000 pounds, and in value by nearly $6,000,000.

Hoover To Support Great Lakes--St. Lawrence River Deep Waterway Proposal

Kansas City Convention Gave Scheme Its Mild Blessing, But It Is Regarded as Highly Improbable That Republican Presidential Candidate Will Be Content With Such Implied Approval—Has Been a Convicted Believer in Feasibility of Value of Deep Waterway for Several Years.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, will make an unequivocal statement on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project in his first speech of the presidential campaign, according to current Washington information.

The Kansas City convention gave the scheme its mild blessing, but it is regarded as highly improbable that the Republican candidate will be content with such implied approval. He has been a convinced believer in the feasibility of value of the deep waterway for several years, and it is no secret that he has been its most strenuous supporter in the Coolidge cabinet. His own views were set forth at length in an address delivered at New Haven on March 11th, 1927.

Cheaper transportation will be a program. On that occasion he said that the construction of the shipway would remove a great barrier to world transportation, would contribute a wealth of hydro-electric power and would restore the threatened prosperity of United States agriculture. It is this last claim that Mr. Hoover will stress in the forthcoming campaign.

Cheaper transportation will be his programme for farm relief. It will be the orthodox Republican alternative to the price control promised by the Democrats and Progressive Republicans. The bogey of the agricultural surplus still haunts the Middle Western farmer. The candidate who can eliminate this spectre will carry the prairie states.

McNary-Haugen bill Governor Smith and Mr. Raskob have been conferring with supporters of the McNary-Haugen bill, but Hoover is identified with Coolidge, who has twice vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill. He is, therefore, compelled to tackle the question of the surplus indirectly, for the Republican party's policy is to avoid anything that looks like price cutting.

VESSEL BOUND FOR SHANGHAI IS DISABLED

Radio Message Picked Up by Japanese Steamship Paris Maru States That Freighter Stanley Dollar Met With Trouble—Japanese Ship Offered to Help Disabled Vessel.

TOKYO, Aug. 8.—A radio message picked up by the Japanese steamship Paris Maru states that the Dollar Line freighter Stanley Dollar bound to Shanghai from Seattle was disabled by a boiler explosion of the Kurites yesterday. The Japanese ship, which was off Eastern Japan when it received the message, offered to assist the disabled vessel. The American ship replied that the Stuart Dollar bound from Victoria, B. C., to Dairen, Manchuria, was expected to stand by shortly.

The Stanley Dollar also stated her water supply was about exhausted but the American liner President Grant, which sailed from Yokohama for Seattle on August 2, was expected to arrive and replenish it.

(Associated Press Despatch) NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The Mallory Line Steamer Algonquin, bound for New York from Galveston, with three hundred passengers, is safe and has been reported by wireless message from the ship to the New York offices today.

The radio read: "Have to in Florida strait, was blowing a hurricane. Everything O. K."

An Agreement Is Reached Between Canadian Manufacturers and Hearst Group Of Papers

Settlement Announced Following Conference at Montreal Yesterday—Various Suits and Counter-Suits Pending Before Courts in United States and Canada Have Been Withdrawn.

(Canadian Press Despatch) MONTREAL, August 8.—It is announced today that as a result of negotiations held in Montreal yesterday a settlement has been reached of the outstanding differences between the Hearst group of newspapers and the newspaper manufacturers' association of Canada. The various suits and counter-suits pending before the courts in the United States and Canada have been withdrawn.

In connection with the differences an action for $978,630.35 was taken here by the Canadian Paper Sales Limited against the Newspaper and Magazine Paper Corporation of New York and William Randolph Hearst, owner of a string of United States daily newspapers, as an amount owing for newspaper paper. The action was the culmination of a dispute between the Canadian company and the Hearst interests over contracts for newsprint. During April, 1928, the plaintiff company claimed negotiations were proceeding for the supply of newsprint required by the Hearst papers. Under an agreement between the two parties the Canadian company supplied newsprint to the defendants on orders received from the Newspaper and Magazine Paper Corporation. Late in the same month the American parties notified the Canadian company that no further negotiations would be carried on for a proposed contract, but that paper would be required for the remainder of the month of April for the month of May.

Gave Guarantee of Prompt Payment. It Is Claimed. Shortly after this the Canadian company learned that the Hearst interests intended to launch an action in damages for breach of contract, and the New York corporation was notified that unless all arrangements were made no further shipments of paper would be forwarded except with drafts attached. A promise to pay for all paper received was forwarded by the New York corporation, the plaintiff's attorney, and William Randolph Hearst gave a personal guarantee of prompt payment. On the strength of this undertaking the Canadian company shipped paper to the value of $978,630.35.

After all the paper required had been delivered, the American parties launched their action for damages, a move which the present plaintiffs cited as evidence to malice. Further, it is alleged that the Canadian company's bank account in New York had been seized, together with accounts of the paper companies which actually made the paper.

Italian Crew Of Twenty-Seven Died To A Man At Posts In Sub Disaster

Stricken Submarine Was Raised to Surface Last Night—In View of Speed With Which Submerged It Was Raised It Is Felt That Some of Crew Would Certainly Have Been Saved Had It Not Been for Poisonous Fumes from Battery Room.

(Associated Press Despatch) ROME, Aug. 8.—Poisoned by acid fumes or drowned in the first rush of water, the crew of the Italian submarine F-14, sunk in a collision early Monday morning in the Upper Adriatic, died to a man at their posts, apparently with fortitude and resignation. The stricken submarine was raised to the surface last night after thirty-four hours of desperate labor by divers who worked hour after hour to attach an air pipe to the sunken vessel and to fasten steel cables in order that she might be lifted to the surface.

Twenty-seven men perished in the tragedy. First reports received by the naval authorities indicated that there were thirty-one men aboard, but a check-up of the bodies today revealed that four of the crew had remained ashore for reasons which have not yet been ascertained. Included among the victims were two officers, Captain Weil and Commander Fasulo.

No Visible Signs of Panic. Captain Weil and Commander Fasulo were both seen at their command in the conning tower, while the remaining members of the crew stations. There were no visible signs of panic aboard the boat, and the crew evidently had hoped until the last that they would be saved, only were all found dead at their normal to succumb one by one to the fumes from their electric battery room.

Inspection of the hull showed that the submarine was not rammed by the destroyer Giuseppe Messuri as first thought, but was struck by its propeller. This caused a great gashing near the stern, through which water rushed into the hull. Those in the immediate vicinity met instant death by drowning, while the water tight compartments momentarily saved the lives of the remainder until they died of poisoning.

MT. VESUVIUS CRATER AGAIN IN ERUPTION

Lava Expected to Flow Several Days, But No Serious Damage Anticipated.

(Associated Press Despatch) NAPLES, Aug. 8.—An eruption of Mount Vesuvius, accompanied by explosive outpourings of lava, was reported last night by the observatory on the mountain. The report said that a mouth of fire had opened on the southwest side of the crater, from which a large quantity of highly-liquid lava had poured rapidly to form a lake which then invaded the western half of the crater.

The eruption of a small cone blew off about thirty metres of its top, which was thrown by a strong explosion over a considerable distance.

With the disturbance felt just a year ago as a precedent, it was thought that the eruption would continue for several days, but that there was no cause for alarm in the countryside surrounding Vesuvius. The disturbance began at about noon time and the observatory report was issued at 9 p.m.

WOULD LIKE TO ATTEMPT FLIGHT AGAIN

Capt. Courtney and E. B. Hosmer Are Ready to Make Another Attempt—Only a Matter of Financing.

(Canadian Press Despatch) NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Captain Frank T. Courtney and E. B. Hosmer, the Canadian banker, who backed his attempted flight to Newfoundland from the Azores, would like to try it again.

The two men who with two companions were picked up in mid-Atlantic when fire forced their plane down, believe if ships let their flying boat drift unmolested, it will float to the Spanish coast and be available for another try.

"I wouldn't hesitate a minute to try it again," said Hosmer as he and his three companions arrived in New York on the liner Minnewaska which had rescued them at sea. "That's only a matter of financing," was Captain Courtney's answer.

Hosmer and Courtney, Fred Pierce, mechanic, and Hugh Gilmore, radio operator, casually told of their experiences as though they were nothing out of the ordinary. High praise was given Pierce for his presence of mind in turning off the gas supply when the fire was discovered.

The flyers were taken off the Minnewaska at quarantine, brought up the bay on the municipal tug Macdon and given a formal welcome at City Hall by Mayor Walker.

PREMIER KING TOOK ISSUE WITH OPPOSITION LEADER RE EXPORT OF COUNTRY'S RAW MATERIALS

How Could Canada Expect Other Countries to Contribute Their Raw Materials to Dominion if We Refuse to Give Them Any of Our Raw Materials? Asks Government Leader—Proper Course to Pursue, He Stated, Was Not One of Refusing to Export Raw Materials, But Rather to Conserve Our Great Natural Resources.

(Canadian Press Despatch) AVIDSON, Sask., Aug. 8.

On the ninth anniversary of his selection as leader of the Liberal party, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister, spoke to a Saskatchewan audience here yesterday.

Standing on the shore of Long Lake, in which constituency he was speaking, the Prime Minister once more sounded his slogan of unity, prosperity and international amity.

Mr. King took issue with Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, with respect to the declaration that the policy of the present Government resulted in the export of Canada's raw materials, with consequent loss to the Dominion. The greatest natural product of the Dominion of Canada, said the Prime Minister, was wheat. Would Mr. Bennett advise keeping all Canada's wheat within the confines of the Dominion until it had been milled into flour? If so, Canada would speedily lose the European market.

Nations which had become customers for Canadian wheat would purchase elsewhere, and Canada would be the loser.

Newsing Situation Again, Mr. King continued, Mr. Bennett declared that Canada was exporting all the pulpwood to be made into paper abroad. As a matter of fact, said Mr. King, there was more newsprint paper being turned out in Canada today than ever before.

Other countries to contribute their raw materials to the Dominion if we refuse to give them any of our raw materials. Canadian cotton mills, for instance, required raw cotton if they were to continue to function. Cotton was not produced in Canada. The proper course to pursue was not one of refusing to export raw materials. Rather, it was to conserve our great natural resources.

There was really nothing to fear in the doctrine which was being preached by Mr. Bennett, said the Premier.

All that the leader of the Opposition was trying to do was to advance his own doctrine of protection. Mr. King spoke yesterday in the constituency which is represented in the House of Commons by J. Fred Johnston, Deputy Speaker. Mr. Johnston was one of the speakers of the afternoon, as was J. G. Gardiner, Premier of the Province of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Gardiner told his audience that the Province of Saskatchewan would probably be required to contribute $400,000 annually toward old age pensions. On the other hand, the fact that the provincial police had been abolished and their work taken over by the Royal Mounted Police would mean a saving of about $250,000 per annum.

VICEREGAL PARTY ARE IN MONTREAL

Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Willingdon Arrived in Metropolitan Yesterday and Will Leave Today—Attended Races at Blue Bonnets.

(Canadian Press Despatch) MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 8.—His Excellency, the Governor-General, Lord Willingdon, arrived here yesterday and will be in Montreal until today. Their Excellencies were the guests of the Montreal Jockey Club for luncheon yesterday and afterwards attended the racing at Blue Bonnets track. The vice-regal party came here by rail and steamer from Western Canada to the various parts of which they have just completed an extensive visit.

that can be applied, the prosperity of Canada is almost unprecedented in its history," said Mr. King in the course of his speech. He gave some figures in support of this statement. In the first place there was an increase of nearly one million acres sown to wheat in 1928 as compared to 1927. The number of employees engaged in manufacturing in Canada on July 1, 1928, was 525,000. On July 1, 1927, the number was 488,000. The value of building contracts during the first half of 1928 was $253,000,000, while during the first half of 1927 it was $191,000,000, declared Mr. King. He also stated that there had been an increase of over nine per cent. in the total of savings deposits in Canadian banks when figures for May 1st, 1928, were compared with May 1st, 1927.

There was an increase of thirty-three per cent. in the production of steel in Canada during the first half of 1928 as compared with a similar period in 1927. IMMIGRATION AND FINANCE TOUCHED UPON BY PREMIER (Canadian Press Despatch) DAVIDSON, Sask., Aug. 8.—The Canadian Government is spending $18,771 for every immigrant it secures from the British Isles, while only eleven cents per head is expended for continental immigrants, Premier King declared in a speech of his western tour here yesterday. These figures, he said, should be an answer to the charge that the Dominion is discouraging British immigration.

"Look in what direction you will, the signs of progress are everywhere evident throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion," the Prime Minister said in another part of his speech.

"Even the decline in our favorable trade balance, of which so much has been heard lately, only shows that outside capital is eagerly entering this country in order to reap its share of the profits which are being secured through the development of the natural resources of this great Dominion."

The Prime Minister reviewed the record of the Liberal party since he became its leader. In passing he made a brief plea for tolerance in matters of race and religion.

"Time has helped to reform the Senate in a marvellous way," said Premier King, in referring to the way the completion of parliament had changed during the years since he took office. Now Liberals and Conservatives were almost on an even footing in the Upper Chamber, and consequently the road was easier for the Government when it wished to put legislation through parliament.

The record of the Government showed reduced taxation and reductions in the public debt, which, with the latest announcement of the Finance Minister that a loan maturing on October 15th would be met in cash, amounted in all to approximately $173,000,000. Mr. King declared that out of every dollar spent by the Government last year, forty-five and a half cents went on war expenditure.

CARDS HAD RESERVE PUNCH WHEN IT WAS NEEDED BADLY

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
NEA Service Sports Writer

Ask Bill McKee why the St. Louis Cardinals are up there moving steadily into the National League championship and he might answer you by saying the club roster and adding "the fortunes of the breaks."

Even with a strong, well-balanced club like the Cardinals, the breaks are necessary. The breaks haven't been against McKee's Bottomley and Frisch continued club as they have been against the Pittsburgh Pirates, but the fortunes of baseball war haven't been all for them.

In fact, it was the ability of the club to meet the bad breaks with strong reinforcements that enabled the team to get out in front.

Tommy Thoenow failed to come back at shortstop and the aged and much-pushed-around Rabbit Maranville came through to play the best ball of his career.

Lester Bell failed at third base and Wally Holm and Andy High stepped in and made his loss unfelt. The dangerous hole in the outfield was stopped up with Roettger, and when the catching staff cracked the club owners came to the rescue with a smart deal that brought a savior in Jimmy Wilson, one of the best catchers in the league. Roettger, however, cracked his leg, but reserve strength again filled in.

which is about the best in the league, and Wee Will Sherdel carried the heavy load of the pitching staff. Old Alex had his bumps in the early part of the season but began to click just when the click was most necessary.

The Cards had a fine club to start the season, but their great strength was in fine reserves. When the call came for the second-string men they were there, and they responded. The Pirates had no one to answer the call of distress.

on Sunday evening, which was apparently greatly enjoyed by the large congregation, which included visitors from Brookbury, Bishop's Crossing and other places. The special numbers were: anthem, by the choir, "Our Lord and King," by Thomas; cnet, Mrs. Wright Goodenough and Mrs. E. A. Stokes, "Upward to the Heights Above," by Meredith; duet, Mrs. E. A. Stokes and Mr. Abel Whitehead, "The Cross of Calvary," by Tullar; duet, Mrs. James Whitehead and Mr. Albert Eschline, "Where Love Abides," by Auller. The pastor, Rev. P. Pollitt Tr. B.D. gave a short address showing the value of music in all its forms in its uplifting influence.

Rev. T. E. Moody, M.A., S.T.D., and Mrs. Moody, of Stanstead College, were Sunday guests of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Pollitt at the parsonage.

Miss Ethel McCartney, of Quebec, and Miss Mildred Radcliffe and Mr. James Radcliffe are guests of Miss Freda Whitehead.

Monday was election day for the Catholic School Board. Mr. Edward W. Leonard, the retiring trustee, was opposed by Mr. Sylvie Lapointe. The voting was by ballot. Mr. Ad-jutor Lapointe acting as returning officer and Mr. J. J. Lapointe as poll clerk. The election was held in the town hall. At the close of the poll at six o'clock only thirty-six ballots had been cast. These, on being counted, gave twenty-two votes for Mr. Leonard and fourteen votes for Mr. Lapointe.

Word was received here on Monday morning giving particulars of the fatal accident to Mr. Lorne Stormont, son of Mr. William Stormont, of Bury. It appears that young Mr. Stormont, who was only seventeen, went to work on some road construction near to his home at West Lorne, Ont., at noon on Saturday, July 28th. On this work there was a light railway in use and Mr. Stormont was riding on a train of crushed stones when in descending a sharp gradient, by some means the train got out of control and, jumping the track, turned over. Lorne Stormont was buried under about two tons of road material. He was alive when extricated, but died that evening at about nine o'clock. The accident happened about five o'clock.

DISEASE GERMS CARRIED BY FLIES

Flies Must Be Killed If Infection Is To Be Prevented

Eminent health authorities say that the ordinary house-fly reeks with filth and germs of dread diseases. These filth-bodies are covered with fine hairs that are saturated with unpeppable matter. They drag their contaminated bodies over food intended for human consumption. Flies taint everything they touch.

Science has developed a pleasant way to banish this most dangerous insect. Send a cloud of FLY-TOX mist high into the air and envelope and stifle flies crawling on ceilings, resting on lighting fixtures or hiding behind hanging pictures.

Have the sprayer handy, filled with FLY-TOX; and when those winging insects such as flies, mosquitoes, moth-millers and other bugs invade your home; or spiders appear with an unsightly web, a few strokes of the sprayer ends the invasion with death.

FLY-TOX is a clean, pure, fragrant, liquid which is stainless and harmless to people. It was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhoea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

OUR KIDNEYS.

There are many poisonous substances in the body that would cause death if they were allowed to accumulate. Some of these are poisons that have gained entry from the outside, but many are actually created by the normal body processes. Without organs for the purpose of eliminating these poisons or toxins, our lives would be snuffed out within a very short time. We have several of these protective organs which separate and eliminate the poisons from the blood and tissues. You have all heard of the kidneys and know something of their function, but I thought you would like an article explaining in simple language more about them.

The kidneys are two bean-shaped organs fastened to the back wall of the abdominal cavity, on either side of the spinal column, just in front of the lowest ribs. They are embedded in fatty tissues, and held in place by ligaments. Their function is to filter out waste and surplus material from the blood and yet retain the good food substances. The most common excretion is composed principally by urea, uric acid, oxalic acid, indican and water. They may excrete also, sugar and albumen which, if persistent, is an indication of some serious disease.

These organs are composed chiefly of an enormous number of finely winding tubules which originate in little sacs through which flows a small convoluted blood capillary. The waste from the blood flowing through this little capillary escapes through its walls, and then through the inner walls of the sac, into the tubule and then all of these join together into a ureter which goes to the bladder. Drop by drop this waste is being continually separated from the blood by these millions of tubules.

When the kidneys are being continuously overworked, they may become weakened, and susceptible to disease. The kidneys should excrete about a little over three pints daily for an adult, but this range varies greatly with the amount of liquid consumed. The principal work of the kidneys is to eliminate protein waste products.

There are a number of diseases of the kidneys, but the three you hear of most frequently are: inflammation of the kidneys, when they discharge albumen in the urine, also called nephritis and Bright's Disease; stones in the kidney, when some of the products which are excreted become hardened; floating kidney, when it becomes loosened from its moorings and saunters around through abdominal regions where it has no business. I have prepared articles on all these diseases, and I will be very glad to mail them to any of my readers who will send me a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The kidneys are often injured during acute illness or in the course of chronic diseases. Once they are badly damaged, the condition is serious and the patient should do everything in his power to avoid doing more injury to them.

Alcohol is very hard on the kidneys, as is turpentine, mercury, and carbolic acid. Almost any condition where there is an extensive destruction of the skin, such as burns, skin diseases, and accidents, is apt to bring on an acute kidney disorder. This shows how the health of one important organ is intimately connected with the health of another.

NURSES know, and doctors have declared there's nothing quite like Aspirin to relieve all sorts of aches and pains, but be sure it is Aspirin the name Bayer should be on the package, and on every tablet. Bayer is genuine, and the word genuine—in red—is on every box. You can't go wrong if you will just look at the box.

Indigestion Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The start remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.

BRANNON IS GETTING PRAISE NOW

Last spring in the southern training camp Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, was asked where he was going in the American League pennant race. He pointed out in the direction of second base and answered—"If those two kids out there come through we're liable to be going some place."

The two youngsters around second did not come through for him and Kress and Brannon came through so well that the Browns not only were one of the big surprises of the season but became one of the most prominent future prospects in the league. Because of his spectacular hitting,

Kress has been given more notice than his partner at second base, but the ball players figure that Brannon is just as valuable and may develop into a bigger star than Kress. Brannon will have the advantage in growing into a reputation while Kress is burdened with the mental hazard of forcing himself to keep up to his early fame.

Information has just been received that Mr. Henry Grimes, international secretary-treasurer of the Y's Men's Movement, will visit Sherbrooke on Tuesday, September 4th, when it is hoped that there will be a rally with some of the members of the Quebec Club present.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB AT COOKSHIRE EXHIBITION

On their visit to Cookshire two weeks ago the members of the Y's Men's Club were asked if they could not assist at the coming exhibition at Cookshire on August 14th, 15th and 16th. On Monday night some of the members of the club went out to look over the ground and see just what could be done, and the probability is that the Y's Men's Club will be responsible for three numbers on the programme.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE GIVEN ADVICE

In a circular letter issued yesterday by Mrs. Elizabeth McCurdy, provincial convener of the public committee of Quebec Women's Institutes, members are advised to not neglect their own country when planning their holidays. Too many people say the letter, seek beauty in other parts of the continent and fail to know their own province or other parts of Canada. She asks how many members of the Institutes know the beauties of the Laurentians, the Ottawa valley, the capital city itself, the St. Lawrence River, the Saguenay and even the Eastern Townships themselves. "Have we ever been to Lake Memphremagog, Lake Massawippi, Orford or Bromont?" demands the letter. "Have we visited historic Quebec, the only city in North America with a wall?" Farther down the great river one may view the wonders of the Saguenay and still not have exhausted the beauties of this great province; one may visit the lower St. Lawrence, where is found scenery of a different character at Murray Bay, Bic Pique, places once seen and never forgotten." The letter concludes with the advice that members of the Institutes may obtain reliable information from their Provincial Bureau. The letter is written by Mrs. Campbell McQuat, provincial convener of Canadianization

DEATH OF MOTHER OF MR. G. D. MACKINNON

Regret is felt in Sherbrooke at the death, which has occurred in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, of Mrs. George D. MacKinnon, mother of this city, head of the MacKinnon Steel Company Limited and prominent citizen. Mr. MacKinnon was called to his old home in Prince Edward Island several days ago by the serious illness of his mother. The end came on Monday and interment is taking place this afternoon. Mrs. MacKinnon was eighty-four years of age.

TOLD OF TOO H

A very interesting though informal meeting of scout leaders, members of Too H and others interested in boys work was held at the Y.M.C.A. last night, when Padre Williams, who is visiting Sherbrooke, outlined the origin, work and plans of Too H. Those present felt that it was a worth-while gathering, and new vistas of service were opened. At the conclusion of his informal talk the speaker was heartily thanked by District Scoutmaster Giovetto, who expressed the pleasure of all present at the visit of Padre Williams.

MAN KNOCKED DOWN BY STREET CAR

As he was crossing from Depot to Wellington street south last evening, near the Chateau Frontenac, William Couture, forty-eight years old, of Windsor Mills, was struck down by a Lennoxville street car and slightly injured. The street car driven by operator Pigeon, was descending the incline on Wellington street when the man left the sidewalk and crossed the road. He walked directly in the path of the tram, which at the time was moving very slowly. The operator applied the emergency brakes, but the car struck the victim and knocked him on the ground. Jolbert's ambulance was called and the injured man removed to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, where he is under the care of Dr. Couturier. His condition this morning is not considered as serious.

W. H. MINER BUYS JERSEY HERD OF 21

Granby Man Imports Stock from Jersey Island—Some Fine Animals.

Mr. W. H. Miner, of Granby, bought one of the finest lot of Jersey cattle that have ever gone to Sherbrooke County. Mr. Miner purchased twenty females and a yearling bull which constitute the foundation for his herd.

The cattle Mr. Miner selected were imported directly from Jersey Island and went from Quarantine direct to his farm. In this shipment were eleven heavy in calf heifers and nine cows. Seven of the cows were in calf to leading Island sires, so that out of the twenty females, Mr. Miner has eighteen that will drop calves of direct Island blood lines. Included in the shipment were four daughters of the $15,000 bull Sybil's Fontaine Knight; there are three daughters of the $25,000 bull Bowline's Oxford Sultan; one daughter of the $25,000 bull Xenia's Sultan; one daughter of the $25,000 bull Nobby Born; a daughter of the $20,000 bull Forward.

Other sires well known to the Jersey fraternity represented in this shipment are Ramulph, Brampton March Sultan, S. A.'s Golden Gambo, Estella's Volunteer, and Puckard, probably the most attractive heifer in the lot is a daughter of Benedict's Boy, and the most showy cow is by the bull Manor Hussy's 3rd Duster. The young bull that goes to head Mr. Miner's new herd is a son of Nobby Born. It will be remembered that Nobby Born sold for $20,000 this year. The dam of this young bull is a daughter of the bull La Glorie's Cid, to this bull combines the blood lines of two of the very best Island families.

was given and adopted, showing a fair balance on hand.

A report of the ice cream social was given by the convener, showing it to have been a success and a vote of thanks was given to all who helped make it a success, especially to Mr. Roy Smith.

Mrs. Hamer read a paper, and the members worked on the sewing that is being prepared for a sale to be held later on. After the meeting adjourned, Mrs. Hetherington served refreshments, assisted by Miss Ruth Henrichson, Miss Eileen Barlow and Miss Muriel Hetherington. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Crawford.

SERVICE TALK WAS GIVEN AT ROTARY CLUB

Rev. Gilbert Williams, of London, England, Prominent Too-H Worker, Was Speaker at Yesterday's Meeting of Rotary Club.

A very interesting and well thought out address on "Some Aspects of Service," was given before members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club at the New Sherbrooke House yesterday noon by Rev. Gilbert Williams, of London, England, who is spending a few days in Sherbrooke in connection with the Too-H movement which was recently organized here.

Rev. Mr. Williams has travelled extensively and spent the past few months in this country in connection with the Too-H movement. He has gathered much interest, which was used as subject matter in his address yesterday.

The various ways in which service could be rendered to one's family, town or country were explained by Rev. Mr. Williams. He pointed out that the greatest service rendered was that which was done by a person and was unknown to others.

The object and aims of the Too-H movement were also mentioned by the speaker, who gave instances of great services which were being rendered in various parts of Canada by members of this organization.

Mr. Williams had an interesting message to leave with his audience, and his remarks were indeed very much enjoyed. Rotarian E. J. Page, on behalf of the Club, moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

The Club also had a number of guests present at yesterday's luncheon, including members of the local Too-H and clergy of the city.

NEW HOSPITAL CAFETERIA NEARING COMPLETION

The fine new cafeteria which is being erected by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Sherbrooke Hospital on the exhibition grounds, is nearing completion and will be a distinct improvement over the old building which the auxiliary has used for some years now. The new one is beside the administration building, towards the grand stand.

The cafeteria will be a modern and well equipped structure, and will permit the handling by the ladies of larger crowds more quickly and conveniently than hitherto. The upstairs will consist of a luncheon and tea room, while downstairs there will be a regular cafeteria on the style of the old one.

Members of the Hospital Auxiliary are now canvassing for support for the cafeteria for exhibition week, which is less than three weeks away, and hope for a generous response. Both food and money will be asked for, from people both in the city and from the outlying districts.

WARNS AGAINST GREAT DANGER OF CROSSINGS

Deputy Minister of Roads Issues Circular Warning Motorists to Obey Law Regarding Crossings—Complaints Against Crowding of Roads by Automobiles.

Drastic measures will be taken by the Government of the province to curb the number of accidents at level crossings and abuses in this connection, according to a circular issued by the deputy minister of roads, Mr. J. L. Boulanger, this week. There are distinct regulations on the statutes regarding the care which must be taken at level crossings by motorists, and it is stated that a very close watch will be taken as to how these provisions are being observed.

At present, the circular points out, the law states that before reaching railway crossings, automobile drivers must slow down to eight miles an hour, though the deputy minister's personal observation, and those of his officers as well, show that in general this rule is being disregarded. In many cases automobiles have been seen crossing tracks at a speed of 25, 30 or even 40 miles an hour, and few have been seen to slow down to 15 miles an hour.

Another matter dealt with in the circular is the crowding of traffic on the highways by the great motorbuses. These vehicles, it is stated, not only occupy too much of the road to the danger of the general public, but are operated at a speed of 25 miles an hour. In consequence complaints have been coming into the office of the roads department.

Mr. Boulanger says that he has been requested by the minister, Hon. J. L. Perron, to draw the attention of the travelling public to these matters, and to warn owners of buses that they are being closely watched, and that in case of further infringement of the law not only the driver's license, but even the automobile's license plates, will be confiscated.

APPEARED FOR SELLING GINGER AS BEVERAGE

Frank Alias, of Asbestos, was before Magistrate J. H. Lemay this morning, accused of selling as a liquor a substance obtained from ginger extract, contrary to the liquor laws of the province. There was a large crowd in the court room, and some interesting examining and cross-examining took place. Col. Emile Rioux, K.C., was counsel for the accused, with Mr. J. S. Couture acting for the prosecution. On the table below the magistrate was a coffee pot and three bottles of the liquid, which were exhibits in the case, as containing samples of the ginger.

Several of the inspectors who had made the seizure were closely questioned, and counsel for defence was not satisfied that the exhibits could be proved to contain the same liquid as that which was seized. After examination had continued for an hour and a half the court adjourned at twelve o'clock, to meet again for further hearing this afternoon.

ADOPTS A NOVEL SCHEME TO EARN HIS LIVELIHOOD

Young Man Has Small Fortune Already for Shooting Owls.

(By The Canadian Press) WILLIAMS LAKE, B. C., Aug. 3.—Young men hereabouts who are putting off the day of their wedding because of the insufficiency of cash are being told about "Hooting Joe" Singer, and Joe himself allows that his way of cooperating with cupid could be a lot worse.

Not so long ago Joe was feeling mighty blue. He wanted to get married but he wondered whether his savings were enough to support a family and then, just when he was beginning to feel optimistic, he lost his job.

But Joe admits that he is a bit of an ingenious turn of mind and that he'll try anything once. He noticed a placard announcing that the government was offering a two-dollar bounty on owls. That offered a slim hope. Joe thought a long time and then made up his mind. He kept his secret but when he vanished into the woods friends wagged their heads. Night after night he occupied his time with making noises. They wondered what had gone wrong with him, but Joe was learning a new trade—learning how to hoot like an owl.

When Joe discovered that even the owls were fooled by his voice he decided that he was proficient enough to go after big money. He borrowed a horse and some blankets and took his trusty gun. He slept by day and hid in the woods at night.

"I hoot and then shoot," said Joe, describing his experiences. He would conceal himself under some brush and keep his gun poised for action. He could hear the drone of the owl's wings in the dark and note the spot where they alighted by the gleam in their eyes. Marksmanship counted for the rest, and often when day broke Joe would pick up twenty or more dead owls. Every week Joe returned to town with his prey in a sack.

Joe's night prowling made him the laughing stock of some of the people of Williams Lake until they found that he had accumulated a bank account of $3,000. One of those who didn't laugh was the girl who had promised to marry him.

TOMIFOBIA

The "Blue Bird" Bird Club was pleasantly entertained at the home of Miss Knight on Saturday afternoon, July 21st. The meeting proved to be a picnic, with Mr. T. Lee Quimby present, and the trip to the woods was very interesting. Although the bird season is nearly past, several nests were found and the members who attended were delighted with the splendid talk given by Mr. Quimby in his interesting manner. A picnic tea was served by Miss Knight, assisted by Mrs. Parrish.

The June meeting of the W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Parrish, eight members being present. Considerable business was read, after which Miss Knight gave a splendid report of the Provincial Convention at Macdonald College. A hearty vote of thanks was given her. A delicious tea was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Temple.

The second Thursday in July the Tomifobia W. I. were invited by the ladies of Beche W. I. to join them in a picnic at Mrs. Turner's cottage at Cedarvale. Seven members were able to attend and spent a wonderful

FIVE MINISTER'S SONS — ALL MINISTERS

Diemer, a Lutheran minister, has five sons and all have followed him in the choice of a profession. The family is shown here. At the left is the father; the others, left to right, are the Rev. afternoon enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Turner and the Beebe W. I. The July meeting of the Tomifobia Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Temple, several members and visitors being present. Plans were made for a food sale to be held at Mr. Maloon's store. A large order for fall bulbs was sent to Mr. Macdonald. A splendid paper on co-operation between home and school was read and several other items of interest were discussed. Afternoon tea was served and the meeting adjourned, Mrs. Hastings inviting the ladies to her home for the August meeting. The food sale held July 28th at Mr. Maloon's store was a financial success, about $12 being added to the W. I. treasury.

Mrs. W. A. Wood and three children, of Outremont, have been guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Temple. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reed, of Newport, and Mr. P. Dunn, of St. Stead, were Sunday callers at Mr. J. M. Reed's.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Derick and daughters, of Orleans, Vt., and Mr. and Mrs. J. Squires and sons, of Derby Center, Vt., were recent guests at Mr. and Mrs. W. A. R. Derick's.

Mr. Otis Sherman, of Massachusetts, was a guest at Fairview Hotel Sunday.

HATLEY

The heavy rainfall interfered to a considerable extent with the attendance at the lawn social given under the auspices of the Women's Institute by the president, Mrs. F. W. Pope and Mrs. O. H. Glidden, at "Brooklawn," the home of the latter. However, the broad eastern porch served as a convenient and satisfactory substitute, where tea was dispensed and a social hour enjoyed. The proceeds were added to the general treasury for community welfare work.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. LeBaron, of Detroit, Mich., arrived on Monday for a holiday with the former's mother, Mrs. M. W. LeBaron.

Mr. and Mrs. Feltus, of Lennoxville; Mrs. McCulloch, of Montreal and Toronto, and Miss Barbara McCulloch, of New York, were visitors on Sunday at the home of Mr. P. C. Bowen.

Misses Barbara and Cecily Eardley-Wilmot have been for the past few days with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bowen, in Sherbrooke, returning on Monday morning to the rectory.

Two of Hatley's young men, Wesley Leavitt and Hugh McClary, left on Monday for St. Anne de Bellevue, where they will be engaged in dairy work under the supervision of Mr. G. C. Poole, formerly of this place.

After spending ten days at the home of her brother, Mr. A. E. Pellerin and Mrs. Pellerin, Mrs. Smith has left her home in Derby, Vt.

Mrs. E. Fowler has been for a time in Lyndenville, Vt., where she was caring for her daughter, Mrs. Edgar Killaway and young son.

In the Hatley school report as received from Quebec, the names were given in alphabetical order, not in order of merit. This reverses the standing of Grade IX, the first place being held by Geraldine Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McClary, of the Experimental Farm, Lennoxville, were calling recently at "Brookfield," the home of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McClary.

FAMOUS TOWER IN ENGLAND IS SETTLING

Movement Noticed in Salt Tower of Tower of London—Not Much Danger Felt—Has Interesting History—Was Erected Between 1087-1100—Origin of Name Unknown.

LONDON, August 3.—There is a slight movement of the quay wall and the Salt Tower of the Tower of London, according to the annual report of the National Physical Laboratory, but the Office of Works states that the movement is almost imperceptible and does not entail any danger to any part of the Tower. Extremely fine micrometer instruments were necessary to observe the movement, and the National Physical Laboratory in their report state:

"Periodic observations of the movements of the quay wall and the Salt Tower have been carried out throughout the year. The main displacements are in a vertical direction and indicate a small but measurable sinking of the foundations of the masonry. In June, at the request of His Majesty's Office of Works, an examination was made of the west wall of the sergeant's mess, in which several cracks had suddenly appeared on May 20. This is a modern building erected by the War Department in 1902 and has not previously given any indication of irregular settlement. These cracks have been kept under observation since they were first noted."

"The Salt Tower is situated at the south-east corner of the old fortress, and next to the White Tower, is the most ancient of all. It was in very old days called Julius Caesar's Tower, probably because the Roman wall built by Julius Caesar had its south-east corner close to the site. The Salt Tower itself was built in the reign of William Rufus, between 1087 and 1100, and it is not clear whether it has derived its name from some forgotten person or from being used for the storage of salt-petre when this was an ingredient in gunpowder."

but have so far shown no signs of extension, so that there appears to be no justification for fitting crack micrometers. The advantage of examining the foundations of this building, which are partly modern and partly very old, has been pointed out to H. M. Office of Works.

"A close watch has been kept on the buildings of the tower for years. The foundations are also periodically examined, but no such concern. The proximity of the Tower to the river may possibly have an effect, and even the rise and fall of the tide probably alters the pressure under the foundations. The movement in the Tower, an official of the Office of Works stated, was so slight as to be almost imperceptible, and only extremely sensitive instruments could measure it. The crack in the modern addition was thought to be due to the fact that part of the building was placed on an old foundation wall.

little son and Mayor Huot received minor injuries. Dr. Perron, of Cowansville, was soon summoned and brought home the injured and later the doctor ordered Mr. Jince to be taken to the hospital at St. Johns, where he is resting comfortably.

The Rev. Sisters, of Farnham Hospital, visited here last week seeking alms for their institution. Mr. and Mrs. George Martyn, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. M. Patterson, of Montreal, spent two weeks at Knowlton Lake.

The many friends of Mr. Adelard Archambault regret that his health does not improve. Mr. Archambault has sold his farm to Mr. Nap. Langevin.

Mr. Arthur Balthazard and bride, of L'Acadie, called here recently. Mr. E. Bouchard has gone to St. Louis, Que., to visit his brothers at the paternal home for a week.

ESPERANTO

People will be surprised to note that interest in Esperanto, the international language, is as great as is indicated by the fact that 1,500 delegates assemble in Antwerp to discuss it.

Many commend the idea of a one language world, but believe it impossible of attainment. The divisions between nations are most sharply drawn by the multiplicity of languages. Many of the wars of history may be charged to the language question. The advocates of Esperanto believe that its adoption would be the surest way to end war. This argument sounds reasonable, for individuals and peoples cannot get together unless they can converse with each other and prejudices generally disappear with acquaintance.

Esperanto, as an international language, might serve a great purpose. At any rate there appear to be many who believe the effort to establish this is worth while.

ACCIDENTS

The frightful train wreck in Illinois show how chance works in these things and how impossible it is to absolutely avoid these things.

An iron pipe falls from a passing freight and a train crashes into it at the moment it is meeting another passenger train.

Most accidents of transportation on the railways and on the highways are traceable to the carelessness of some one who has to do with the guiding of the vehicles. Here is a case where there was, also, carelessness on the part of someone, somewhere in placing the pipe insecurely on the freight, but far removed from those immediately concerned.

THE NEWS THAT INTERESTS

There is no country in the world more interested in the doings of royalty than our democratic neighbors, the people of the United States. If the Prince of Wales has a tumble from his horse it is first page stuff for the papers. And now H.R.H. has broken into the front page again by appearing at a function without a vest. The Boston Transcript observes, in this connection: "This incident of life in England is regarded as first page news by American editors. It goes to show that public attention is not centered solely upon the progress of a political campaign, the making of treaties and the preparations for the next world's championship battle. There is still keen desire to know whether or not President Coolidge fishes with a worm for bait or uses a fly. The number of trout caught by Mr. Hoover gets greater attention than much of the news which politicians would say was of great importance. Governor Smith as a swimmer makes a more acceptable motion picture at the moment than Governor Smith receiving a perspiring delegation at Albany. It is summer time. Now and again it is a relief to turn from the consideration of momentous issues and give thought to a possible sartorial change in England or to some triviality in the life of America. It is the picnic season for the mind as well as for the body."

So it is not the little happenings regarding the Prince that attracts, but the little human interest stories attached to all prominent world figures. And who will say that the "sense of news" of the editors who display these items is not sound. It is safe to say these things are read by a large percentage of readers and that is the real test.

WHEN MARY CUTS HER CURLS

(By Dr. Frank Crane)

The momentum of the human race is enormous.

Young people have an idea that the world wants to be reformed, that it is waiting for somebody to show us how to get rid of the difficulties that beset us.

But alas! The one thing that the world does not want to do is to change. The Chinese resents any innovation that conflicts with the customs of his ancestors. The Arab does not want to live in a house because his forbears always dwelt in tents. The deeds of our ancestors not only give us stability in remembering them, but they sometimes tangle the feet of progress.

The fundamentalist resents the proposals of the modernist. After all, about the best reason for doing a thing is that we always have done it. The reason for our any action is like the reason given for having cold ham and hot beans at a church supper in Worcester, Mass. They always had them.

Humanity thinks, perhaps not with reason, that it is better to bear the evils that we have than fly to others that we know not of.

It was a bold stroke when Henry Ford abandoned his model T and made a new one.

But all these questions fade into insignificance to the minds of millions of people, when they hear that Mary Pickford has cut her curls!

What does that mean?

Heretofore she has always worn ringlets and is known from Pansy to Pesh as a little girl. As such she has become the world's sweetheart.

Now she has grown up and will have to make her reputation all over again.

It is no little thing to scrap a fame that has been built up with much care and to start out for a new one. It is a question in the minds of many whether she will hold her own in the new incarnation.

With those curls went a reputation that means millions of dollars. Will her reputation be as valuable? We hope it will, for every one we ever heard of is fond of Mary.

But the followers of John Alexander Dowie, who insist that the world is not round but flat, and all those who object to the new standpoint of evolution will doubtless raise the cry that we are lowering our standards.

Something or other is certain, we don't know what, but we feel that we are living in parlous times.—Cpt. 1928.

WHAT'S THE REASON?

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

This paper has not a very highly developed mind; it realizes that and also appreciates its own limitations. It may be that is the reason why the Beacon-Herald finds it a trifle hard to know just why there have been so many expeditions seeking to go poking around the North Pole. Frankly, we can't see any particularly good reason for it. People have been up there before, and have found very little. That is no reflection on their ability to find things, because it appears there wasn't anything to find.

BANKERS AND BOLSHEVISTS.

(London Morning Post)

The Supreme Tribunal in Moscow has sentenced to death six bank directors and the deputy chief of the State Bank, and has condemned thirty-four others to long terms of imprisonment. They had, it appears, given unduly large credits to unduly large traders. In vain these wretches pleaded that capital punishment had been abolished. Death was decreed because the "economic interests" of the Soviet State require it. Bankers, in fact, are not entitled to the extremely strained quality of mercy which exists under Soviet justice. Such grotesque and horrid cruelties, masquerading in the guise of law, suggest to us that the New Economic Policy is very similar to the old, and that Soviet Russia remains as impossible as ever. Even Germany recently found that out.

IN THE DAYS BEFORE MATCHES.

(Christian Science Monitor)

There is scarcely any single latter-day invention which is taken more completely for granted, as something that has always been at hand, than the simple little match. And yet, according to reliable authorities, the first attempt to make matches in the modern sense is probably to be ascribed to Godfrey Haukwitz. He, one learns, in 1680, acting under the direction of Robert Boyle, who at that time had just discovered how to prepare phosphorus, employed small pieces of that element, ignited by friction, to light splints of wood dipped in sulphur. Even more, however, this device of somewhat primitive present-day matches did not come into extensive use owing to the high cost of the phosphorus and the general inconvenience associated therewith, added to what proved to be the great hazard of thus producing fire, until the beginning of the nineteenth century. Flint and steel with tinder box and sulphur-tipped splints of wood—spunks, as these latter were called—were thus the common means of obtaining fire for domestic and other purposes until relatively not so very long ago.

From such a standpoint the study recently made by Dr. Walter Hough of the fire-making apparatus collected by the National Museum in Washington, D.C., assumes added interest. For Dr. Hough actually goes so far as to state that the very origin of fire-making is not very far back in time. It has been computed that in the principal countries of the world today from six to ten matches are used for each inhabitant daily, while the world's annual output is said to reach a total which requires twelve or thirteen figures for its expression. This is more significant when it is recalled that it is almost exactly one hundred years since the first really practical friction matches were made in England by one, John Walker.

Matches may be but trifles ordinarily considered, but what would the world be like today without them?

INSULT TO A QUEEN CAUSES NEW MOVEMENT

Women's Cause Advanced in Persia as Result of Incident.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—An insult to a Queen has opened the way to feminism in the Far East, said Mrs. F. Evelyn Schopflocher, of Montreal, on her return from an aeroplane tour of the East in the interest of women's movements.

The incident occurred when the Queen of Persia attended a mosque unveiled and was insulted by Mullahs, who failed to recognize her, declared Mrs. Schopflocher, who said that as a result, the Shah, Riza Khan Pahlavi, has become a leader in the movement to liberate the women of the East from the enslavement of Oriental customs.

The Shah, she said, became so aroused over the insult to his Queen that he rushed into the crowd with drawn sword and in retaliation wounded several persons.

As a result of the Shah's interest in the feminist movement, she said, Persia has established representation in the international council of women, being the first Oriental country to do so. Abandonment of the veil has become less of a stigma and she predicted that the Shah was not yet through.

MYSTERY FOR THE POLICE OF SUDBURY, ONT.

Apparent Murder in Case of Henry Groulx, Discovered Dying by His Brother.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

SUDBURY, Ont., Aug. 8.—When Louis Groulx returned to Chelmsford yesterday from a week-end pilgrimage to the Jesuit shrine at Midland, he noticed the prostrate form of a man near the foot of the steps at the village hotel. Battered and bleeding and almost lifeless, the body was that of his brother Henry, and with his passing a few hours afterwards a mystery, with murder strongly suggested, confronts the police.

Henry Groulx succumbed without regaining consciousness, and a post-mortem examination revealed that the victim had received a blow at the back of his head which fractured his skull at the base.

The last map to see him in full possession of his faculties was another brother, Raymond. Yesterday when they parted, Raymond proceeded home and Henry set out for Arthur Belanger's boarding house, but did not turn up there, the police were told.

There was an orchestra of 100 and a chorus of 500 voices. Nine episodes covering the history of Carlisle from A.D. 122, when Emperor Hadrian fixed the boundary of the Roman Empire at that point, to the present day, period costumes and dances, and music composed by Frederick W. Wadely, organist of Carlisle Cathedral, were featured. The pageant will be repeated daily until August 11. The Duke and Duchess of York, the Duke of Gloucester and the Princess Mary and Viscountess Lascelles are the royal patrons. The Earl of Lonsdale is president of the grand council in charge of arrangements.

Perspiration odour... here's the plain truth about it

IT is no secret that perspiration odour offends

In business as well as society, it is a serious handicap.

But do you realize that we are all subject to perspiration odour? That at times nearly everyone is guilty?

The warm weather—the active life we lead—the close daily association with others—all make perspiration odour particularly noticeable.

We must perspire—or die. Even on cool days our millions of pores continually give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste every 24 hours.

The Danger of Offending Without Realizing It

Whether you see this waste moisture or not—it is always odorous. And it spares no one! Financier or labourer—society leader or servant—all may offend if they don't take precautions.

Nor, unfortunately, can we tell when we ourselves are guilty of unpleasant perspiration odour.

For once we become accustomed to an odour, our sense of smell becomes deadened to it. That's why even the most fastidious people—the very persons who think they are safe—are often among the chief offenders.

Shaw Clowns With Purpose Antics Put Across Ideas

IT has been said of George Bernard Shaw, H. G. Wells and Arnold Bennett that they have done the thinking for their generation of Englishmen.

To understand Shaw, the thinker, one must be prepared to understand also the mind of a pedagogical clown—the clown who by his antics seeks to impart instruction to his audiences.

There is no rule for the making of a paradox. To make its point it may turn to any of the 360 degrees of the circle. That is what Shaw does. He is a paradox—a creator of paradoxes.

See him as a Socialist. Throughout his entire literary career he has preached and written Socialism. He never sidesteps. So when a Socialist club, who wished to do one of his plays for a benefit, wrote asking him as a fellow member to forgo the royalties on the play, he replied that, being Socialists, they must know that the workman is worthy of his hire; and, that to relinquish the royalties which were rightly his, he would be defeating the very aims of Socialism which their society sought to uphold. Shaw was paid the royalties!

The same gentleman can pay an exquisite compliment. Once in England he wanted a well known actress to play a certain part on tour. She said she couldn't leave her small boy. Theatrical managers would have intimated that there were plenty more fish in the sea, but Shaw sent a card: "Dear you, Madam, you have ruined my play. I hope your boy grows up to be an actor."

It was a woman, Mrs. Annie Besant, who first published Shaw's plays, and it is to a woman that he dedicated his last, and many declare, his greatest work, "The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Socialism and Capitalism," inscribed to his own sister-in-law, Mary Stewart Chomondely.

Shaw had his struggles in the early stages of his literary career. His first nine years of writing in London brought him £6, and five of these were for a medical advertisement! He wrote his novels in spare moments between political meetings, the British Museum and listening to opera. Of his first novel he says: "It was stored away and partially eaten by rats, but even they couldn't finish it."

Shaw, the egotist, has eloquent expression in his reply to an Oxford club who asked him to become their vice-president: "I am never a vice-president. If I were, I should be vice-president of the universe."

Neither the stage nor the altar can make Shaw conventional. He turned up at his own wedding on crutches and so ill looking and poorly dressed that he was mistaken by the minister for the inevitable beggar who completes all wedding processions in London; and the bride was almost married to one of the witnesses, all of whom were attired in faultless apparel for the important function.

But it was at Covent Garden that Shaw's independence towards conventional dress almost caused a riot. Full evening dress is "de rigueur" in the orchestra stalls in the famous old Opera House. Shaw attended one night in his customary daytime garb and proceeded down the aisle. An attendant approached him just as he was about to seat himself and said apologetically,

Here is a unique Canadian family with a decidedly cosmopolitan turn. They live in the St. Barnabas Mission of mid-Japan, where the father, Rev. Hollis Hamilton Corey, is the Anglican priest. Rev. Mr. Corey is a native of Quebec. Mrs. Corey is the youngest daughter of Rev. Canon Spencer of Hamilton and was educated at Bishop Strachan School, Toronto. The family includes besides their own two children an Eskimo girl (standing directly in front of Mr. Corey), whom the Coreys adopted while on mission work in Labrador, and a Japanese young lady, Miss Naomi Itoe Karaki (at the right). Mr. and Mrs. Corey have spent seven years in Japan, and the group are dressed in Japanese costume for the photograph.

"I'm sorry, sir, but you can't wear those clothes here." Shaw proceeded to take them off!

Apparently the actors who please Shaw in his own plays are few and far between. Once a Canadian amateur society wrote asking him if they might act one of his plays. He replied: "Professionals can't act my plays. Amateurs can't hope to act them."

"Yes, I should like to marry one—but I should not like to be engaged to one."

NICE BIRD

ONE of the best of many good stories told by Sir Charles Biron, the London stipendiary magistrate, concerns a well-known criminal lawyer who was one day accosted in the street by a man desirous of selling him a painted sparrow.

The man started off with the usual talk about the bird having flown into his room, and could the gentleman tell him what it was?

The eminent lawyer pretended to examine the sparrow. Then turning to the man he said:

"No, I can't tell you for certain what breed of bird it is. But judging from the company it keeps I should say that it is a jail bird."

Sir Alfred Mond, Creator of Millions

By RHADAMANTHUS

HALF-HIDDEN behind a vast writing table at the farther end of a long room, a massive figure is seated. As one walks towards him he does not move, the heavy Jewish features do not relax their habitual brooding expression. His head is large; the forehead, fringed with grayish curly hair, good; his eyes are bright and shrewd behind his spectacles; a drooping "walrus" moustache masks the expression of his mouth; in his short, pudgy fingers he holds a cigar which he has allowed to go out.

Such is Sir Alfred Mond, the son of a German scientist, who has become the apostle of British imperialism and one of the multi-millionaires whose word controls the happiness of a hundred thousand homes in many lands.

"Well," he says, in a strange, guttural voice, impossible to reproduce on paper. "Well, and how do you find yourself? What?"

The personal geniality of the man at once discounts the ludicrous voice. Sir Alfred has all the mannerisms of a comic Jewish financier on the stage, yet you never notice them after being in his company for two minutes. His intelligence, his breadth of outlook, and his never-varying kindness are the characteristics which stick in your mind.

You cannot "drop in" on Sir Alfred. There is a livery which doth hedge a millionaire. He lives in Lowndes Square, a discreet, dignified backwater of Knightsbridge. The houses there are large and solid looking. Sir Alfred lives in two of them, next door to each other.

A footman answers your ring.

"You have an appointment?" are his first words. He leaves you in a large hall, bare but for a stove and a variety of boxes and cases. Sometimes there is a litter of straw, and evidence of recent unpacking. The whole impression is one of meanness. Only a very rich man could afford to turn a mansion into a drab and cheerless office.

As you await the footman's return, young men dash past you from one room to another, up and down the stairs, all carrying papers. They are like earnest rabbits popping in and out of burrows. The footman brings back with him the second assistant secretary, upon whom the cares of his office already weigh heavily. He leads you upstairs, and hands you over to the first assistant secretary, who brings you at last to the chief secretary himself. He alone can usher you into the presence.

When Sir Alfred begins to talk, all his brooding immobility vanishes. He jumps up, and strides up and down the room. You are astonished to find that he is not tall; he is really under the average height, though heavily built.

As he develops his ideas—and his conversation consists of so doing—he tangles himself up in long sentences, pauses for the word he needs, cannot find it, and cuts himself short. He is a bad talker. His thoughts outrun his guttural voice. It is easy to understand why he was never a success in the House of Commons.

His enormous, soaring ideas are the real thing about him. They embrace continents, dispose of millions of money and thousands of human beings in a sentence. Nor do they remain ideas. They become actualities. He has not only the faculty of dreaming dreams, but also the power of making them come true.

To understand Sir Alfred—and he is worth understanding, because his importance in the world is increasing each day—you must know his history.

His father, Dr. Ludwig Mond, was born in a poor Jewish home in a German industrial town. He worked in a factory, and he conceived the notion of making more money by selling a cheap cooling drink to his fellow-workmen. The capital for his venture was supplied by Henrietta Hertz, his boyhood's sweetheart. She gave him 40,000 marks, her entire inheritance.

The Mond Germanic drink succeeded wonderfully. It enticed German workmen away from lager-beer, so it must have been delicious. Very shortly its inventor paid back Fraulein Hertz's loan at the rate of 200 per cent, and came to England with the nucleus of his fortune.

He had vivid imagination and great scientific ability. With Sir John Brunner, then a young Liverpool man, he founded the famous firm of Brunner Mond, and settled down to make money with his nickel extraction process and other industrial chemical undertakings.

As a boy, Alfred Mond faced none of his father's struggles. He was born with a most substantial silver spoon in his mouth. He was educated at Cheltenham, St. John's College, Cambridge, and Edinburgh University, yet none of these institutions could remove his phenomenal accent. Next he entered the Inner Temple and was called to the bar.

A Life Behind the Scenes

INTENSELY ambitious, he designed to make himself a great public figure—another Disraeli, perhaps. He clung to this ideal for many years, before he realized that the people of Britain would not accept him as a political idol. Then he transferred his tremendous abilities to finance, and began his real career.

He discovered the fascination of secret power and he found his brain suited to its intricacies. His life lies behind the scenes now, but his decisions alter the face of the world.

Many men would have rested content with the creation of Imperial Chemical Industries, the £65,000,000 combine, which Sir Alfred formed by amalgamating Brunner Mond, Nobel Industries, the United Alkali Company, and the British Dye Trust. But this is only his beginning. He founded this combine with the help of Sir Harry Macgowan, the head of Nobel Industries, who was once a Glasgow errand boy, Lord Ashfield and Sir Max Muppratt, because he believes that the age of chemistry is dawning. He believes that science can supply all the needs of mankind, that the future lies not so much with the man who commands natural resources as with him who controls secret scientific processes. His world is a synthetic cosmos, where the chemist is king, and the only ruler of princes is Sir Alfred Mond, the financier of chemists.

Sir Alfred's combine controls explosives, dyestuffs, alkalis, nitrates, copper refining, and a hundred other things in Great Britain. Every day it is growing larger and more powerful. Negotiations, ending with its swallowing up fresh concerns, are never at a standstill. Sir Alfred commands the best brains of Britain. He can afford to pay salaries which make other folk's money look stupid. A cabinet minister, Lord Bledisloe, has recently decided that he can best serve his country by supervising the tremendous development in artificial fertilization which Sir Alfred is now developing.

He dreamed of an international chemical cartel, embracing the whole of Europe. So far his vision has not materialized; for after months of secret negotiation, he found in the German dye trust an unyielding adversary of his own calibre. At a tense final conference the trust refused Sir Alfred's terms and withdrew, threatening to undercut British concerns in the world's dye-stuff market. Sir Alfred replied that for each cut of £1 made in dye-stuffs, he would cut £3 in fertilizer and heavy chemical prices. The German trust dared not take him at his word.

So he turned his attention to consolidating

The Man Behind the Guns In Ontario's Legislature

TERMED "the man behind the Queen's Park guns," Horace Wallis, deputy prime minister of Ontario, is perhaps the most "untalked" of men connected with politics in the entire province.

To the public, and all those who procure their political knowledge through the medium of the press, he is an obscure civil servant, who does his duties thoroughly and is seldom mentioned or heard from. But actually he is one of the men who prepare the ammunition for heavy, political batteries.

The speech from the throne, read by the lieutenant-governor at the opening of the provincial legislature, is the work of his pen. For weeks before the House opens he works on the speech that causes long hours of continuous debate during which opposition benches heap abuse and criticism against the government and upon which the government members praise and congratulate themselves. While all this is taking place, Mr. Wallis is somewhere around the buildings doing his daily duties.

Then when parliament closes he writes another speech for the lieutenant-governor telling the members and the public just what has been done during the months of debate. Mr. Wallis, in his office away from the legislative chamber, who seldom listens to the House in session, knows far more of the business that is done than many of the members who actually do it.

When Horace Wallis first entered business it was as a compositor in a newspaper office. Now, as well as being deputy premier, he is acting king's printer of Ontario.

Writing, however, has always been a matter of enjoyment to him. Although born in London, England, sixty-six years ago, he came to Quebec when quite young and after completing school started as a newspaper compositor. He soon branched off into a newspaper writer and was a member of the Ottawa press gallery for several years.

In 1905 he entered the civil service and since then has served as secretary and deputy to four prime ministers, Sir James Whitney, Sir William Hearst, Premier Drury, and now Premier G. Howard Ferguson. It was not until 1920 that he was made deputy prime minister.

The fact that four prime ministers, of various political callings, have all agreed upon his ability, speaks well for Mr. Wallis. His efforts have been recognized by each man who has taken the first office and many times he has helped the great out of difficult and embarrassing positions.

Mr. Wallis' memory was demonstrated by a holiday trip recently. When a young reporter he accompanied an equally youthful doctor, now practicing in the United States, to the top of Cann's mountain near Huntsville. For an entire afternoon they toiled, chipping their names upon the surface of a huge boulder. That was in 1885. Both decided that some day they would make the climb over again.

Recently, forty years later, he reminded his medical friend of their date, and they went back to Huntsville and the mountain top. Things had changed, but not the rock, which still shows the result of an afternoon's labor by the names "Horace Wallis" and "Edwin Scott."

Dunning is Experienced In Problems of the West

HON. CHARLES A. DUNNING, minister of railways, some years ago when premier of Saskatchewan, startled the bankers and implement dealers of his province by blandly intimating that he would consider declaring a moratorium unless they exercised a great deal more leniency in collecting debts from farmers who had been hard hit by poor crops.

Bankers and machinery concerns quickly recognized that Mr. Dunning was not bluffing. He had studied the question thoroughly before calling them in conference, and there was no doubt he really believed the proposed policy of extended collections would be most disastrous.

Under the circumstances generous extensions of time were promised in all cases where the farmers were honestly doing their best under adverse conditions.

Dunning knows something of the ramifications of agricultural credits. A farmer at Beaverdale since 1902, he has always taken a keen interest in improving the lot of the tiller of the soil. In 1911 he organized the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company, of which he was general manager until 1918. In 1913 he was appointed royal commissioner to investigate the question of agricultural credit, and also the question of grain markets in Europe, his work being exceptionally useful.

To-day Mr. Dunning is quite familiar with the banking institutions of the west, but that was not always the case. Fifteen years or so ago he happened to be in Winnipeg one fall, and had to transact some business at the Banque d'Hoche-laga, which occupied unpretentious quarters on Main street, and was not particularly well known even by Winnipeggers.

After making several fruitless inquiries—most of which brought the reply that there was no such bank in the city—Mr. Dunning finally sought counsel of a small boy peddling papers, offering the youngster two-bits if he would guide him to the place.

The boy grinned his acceptance, with a "Gee, Mister, I wish this burg was full of guys like you!"

Following his diminutive pilot, Mr. Dunning found himself at the bank in less than half a minute, having been only a few doors away. He produced the promised quarter.

"Pretty easy money, sonny," he remarked, "for directing me to a place as close as this."

"That's right, mister," agreed the lad, testing the quarter with sharp teeth, "but you must remember that bank directors gets big wages in this town."

Zane Grey Will Holiday In Hinterlands of B.C.

THE lure of the last great open range on the continent has been heard by the leading modern writer of "westerns." Zane Grey has made reservations for late July at a lodge near Likely, B.C., and it is intimated that he will spend a considerable period in the upper reaches of the Caribou where great herds of cattle and horses graze throughout the year unhampered by fences.

Grey, an ardent fisherman and hunter, originally chose the B.C. hinterland as his holiday scene for the pursuit of these sports. Trout and other game fish abound in the region, while all manner of wild game, including grizzly and mountain goats, are to be found in number.

But the ranchers of the area believe that another attraction will outweigh these. Here can be found the wide free range conditions of which Grey has so often written and which exist in no other place in North America. Why not this as the locale of his next novel, they ask.

Macdonald is Pleased By Laurier Reference

Dear Sir: A friend of mine in Toronto has sent me a clipping from your page of Saturday, June 9, containing a long and most flattering reference to myself. I wish to thank you for this and for more than friendly spirit in which it was written. I was particularly pleased by your reference to the extremely friendly relations which existed between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and myself, as it was the first time that I had seen reference to this in any newspaper. I was really fond of him and I could not have received kinder treatment from anyone, than I did from him from the time we first met until his death. I was very much gratified by his signing the last letter or two that he wrote me. "Yours affectionately." Of course, we never agreed politically and never pretended to, but outside of that our friendship was warm and sincere.

With kindest regards and renewed thanks, I remain,

Yours very sincerely,

(signed) HUGH J. MACDONALD.

Old Clothes and a Garden Give Nickle Contentment

HON. W. F. NICKLE, K.C., is an ardent gardener. "The only way to grow flowers," he declares, "is to water them with real sweat." And he enjoys wearing just enough old garments to come within the law.

Some time ago Sir Percival Maxwell, an Irish land owner, and who has holdings in this country, was in Kingston and wanted to see Mr. Nickle, who handled his business in that section. It had been rainy weather for some days and Mr. Nickle was in his garden at "The Shelling" in the country when Sir Percival drove up in a taxi.

Seeing a man in overalls and rubber boots with a sou'wester on his sunburn-thatched head, the taximan called out: "Is Mr. Nickle at home?" He got his answer, "Yes, sir."

The wearer of the overalls was none other than the former attorney-general himself.

Little Time Left for Play By Duties of Queen Mary

ARE you a stenographer with a private opinion that you are the city's greatest letter-lifter? Cheer up and be glad that in your girlhood days you were not a little princess and grew up to marry King George V. of England.

Queen Mary has probably dealt with more correspondence by the hour that you get down to work and get your nose powdered ready for action, than you will handle in your entire day. Sixty-two years old, her majesty is a tireless worker.

There is no trade union to limit the hours of the queen's working day. She rises at the call of a maid each day at seven o'clock. Much of her correspondence consists of appeals for aid.

After disposing of her mail, Queen Mary turns to household matters. She is an excellent housekeeper, and no detail of the huge task of running Buckingham Palace fails to reach her observant eye. Her sitting room is turned into an office for the remaining hours of the morning, and there she receives her ladies-in-waiting, her housekeepers, her private secretaries and even certain of her tradespeople. She gives her own orders and carefully checks the reports and expenditures.

The queen usually lunches at home. The hour is one of the few respites in a crowded day and is often brightened by the presence of the Prince of Wales or Princess Mary, or of the beloved "Little Duchess" of York, who brings news of the latest sayings and doings of the baby princess Elizabeth, to whom the queen is a devoted grandmother.

The afternoon is generally spent in public work. She cannot enjoy the privilege of other women, of just running off for an afternoon at the theatre and forgetting the petty irritations of the daily routine.

England sometimes wonders why more small dinner parties are not given at the palace and why their majesties do not accept more invitations to dine with friends. They suggest that the king and queen are unsocial in their tastes. Dinner time is the one hour in the day that Queen Mary can spend quietly with the king.

But the queen's hour is brief. A quiet evening with her husband by the fireside is seldom possible. State functions such as the courts, state banquets or receptions demand most of the queen's evenings until midnight. Sometimes she and the king are able to spend a night at the theatre, and these are happy events indeed, for the royal couple are great theatre lovers and very "human" ones. Highbrow plays interest them less than a good musical show or a comedy, and both enjoy "thrillers."

Queen Mary shares with all womankind a love of shopping. Wherever she goes, she slips away at the first possible moment to poke about little antique shops in search of something for a particular corner of her home, or for her children or for a friend. Any one receiving a gift from the queen knows it represents her majesty's personal thought.—New York Herald-Tribune.

MUCH BUSINESS FOR RICHMOND TOWN COUNCIL

Many Items of Business Before Councillors of Richmond at Regular Meeting—Social and Personal Notes.

RICHMOND, August 8.—The regular meeting of the Richmond town council was held on Monday, August 6th, in the council room, with the following members present: Mayor Badard, Acting Secretary-Treasurer Duquet, and Aldermen Manning, Healey, Pope, Tremblay and Allard. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The council was then advised of the election of Mr. J. E. Linahan to succeed the late Alderman R. Gendron in Ward 4, and the secretary was instructed to forward a letter of condolence to Mrs. Gendron for the loss of her husband.

The accounts of unpaid taxes for a number of years being brought to the attention of the meeting, the matter of selling the property for taxes was discussed thoroughly, and it was moved that a thorough examination of records be made with a view to the secure and sale of all property in lieu of tax arrears, a full report to be made at a later meeting. An offer of $5.00 for the privilege of cutting the hay around the reservoir was accepted and voted accordingly.

A communication from Mr. S. E. Desmarais, M.L.A., with attending advice with regard to the granting of a Government subsidy for the replacement of the Doughty Brook bridge, was brought before the Council, the proposition to be paid in two annual installments, with the first coming due on July 1st, 1929. It was also advised that the matter of Government assistance in the cost of repairs caused by the St. Francis River was still in the hands of the Public Works Department, but was being followed up by Mr. E. W. Tobin, M.P.

Bills presented since the last meeting were then placed before the meeting and it was voted to pass the accounts, with the exception of one, for payment. The installation of sidewalks and widening of Adam street was brought to the attention of the meeting, with the request that the C. N. Railways be requested to grade, widen and plank the crossing where their tracks intersect Adam street, and the secretary was so instructed.

The meeting convened at 8:00 p. m. and motion for adjournment was made at 9:45 p. m. The next meeting of the council will be on Monday, August 20th.

FATE PLAYS QUEER PRANKS IN BABEBALL

Players Shooed Away by One Club Often Get in World Series With Next.

BY BILLY EVANS

Fate plays many queer and unusual pranks in baseball. Especially is this true where a discard one day may be a hero the next day and where a player caught in the whirligig of a trade may find himself traveling from a second division club to a pennant-winning one.

Take the case of Earl Smith and Clarence Mitchell, both veteran National Leaguers and close to the end of their playing days.

A few years ago, "Oil" Smith was with the New York Giants. He got in a pair of world series and was then traded to the much-stepped-on Boston Braves.

He seemed definitely cut of any world series money as long as he was with the Braves, but another exchange took him to the Pirates and with that club he got into the 1925 and 1927 blue ribbon classics.

Now Smith comes across with another fast one in recent weeks. Released by the Pirates, he grabbed a job with the St. Louis Cardinals, leading contender for the pennant.

only to get into a pair of classics; Hence, two "trips" are likely to put Smith into three world series over a four-season span. Small wonder it is if Earl is strong for the swapping marts or unconditional release.

Mitchell's case is very similar to Smith's. He has been in only one world series, with Brooklyn in 1920. He started this year with the Phillies, his fifth with that club, and had no possible chance to get any world series dough.

Burt Shotton, rebuilding his club, let the veteran go. And where did he go? He joined the Cards, and, like Smith, may get in on a world series slice this year.

There also is the case of Dutch Reuther, now with the Pacific Coast League. Reuther put in quite a few seasons with Brooklyn and Cincinnati, getting into but one world series with the Reds in 1919.

Waived out of the older circuit, Reuther caught on with Washington and helped the Nats cop their second flag. About a month before the end of the following campaign,

Vic Aldridge, Bob O'Farrell and Reuther went to the Yankees on waivers and got in the big games that fall.

Joe Harris, one-time Red Sox star, is another of the "lucky" gang. Harris spent two years with Cleveland and three with Boston before he was traded to Washington in May, 1925. That same year the Nats copied the flag, though losing the world series to Pittsburgh.

Harris stayed with Washington through 1926, but the following year found the fellow with the queer batting stance on the Pittsburgh payroll. And the Pirates won the flag and Joe got another lucky break.

And there's old Stan Coveleskie. He shared world series money with Cleveland and with Washington and now he's with the Yankees. And they're coasting in this season.

There have been others during the last few years who have got a cut in the world series melon after being traded or discarded. Offhand, I recall George Grantham, who was swapped to the Pirates by the Cubs

Grover Alexander. Big Alex was an outcast in June, 1926, and one of the greatest of world series heroes four months later.

Wally Schang, however, presents one of the most unusual cases. Wally came to the Athletics in 1913. He caught in the blue ribbon jamboree that year as well as the next. In the winter of 1917 he was traded to the Red Sox and the following fall found him in the big series again.

Another exchange took Schang to the Yankees in 1921 and the Huguenots copied the flag that year, also in 1922 and 1923. Schang's record of being a member of the Athletics, Red Sox and Yankees when they won pennants in his first season with each of those clubs ended when Wally was traded to the Browns in 1923. Until then Schang had been termed the greatest pennant-bringer in baseball.

Yes, fate plays many queer pranks. A player considered "through" by a last-place club often turns out to be a hero when claimed by or traded to a team of higher standing. That's baseball.

PIRATES HAVE BEEN PLAYING AT FAST CLIP

Have Won Twenty-Two of Their Last Twenty-Nine Games—Giants Shaved One Game Off Cardinals' Margin.

(Associated Press Despatch) NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—If they're wise, first division clubs in the National League will keep a wary eye on the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Donie Bush's Corsairs languished in sixth place for so long that they were counted out, not only as possible 1928 champions, but also as a factor that the leaders would have to worry very much about.

But the last month or so has changed the situation completely. On July 7th the 1927 champions were locked deep in sixth place with apparently no prospect of getting any higher. However, in the month from July 7th to August 7th, inclusive, the Corsairs won twenty-two games and lost only seven, better than .750 baseball.

This streak has raised the Pirates only one notch to the head of the second division, but the interesting part of this is that Cincinnati and Chicago in a virtual tie for third place, lead the defending champions by only three games.

Took Two From Dodgers

Beating the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday in both ends of a double-header, 4 to 3 and 3 to 2, in twelve innings, the Pirates ran their latest winning streak to six in a row.

Grimes registered his twentieth victory in the opener, the first pitcher in the majors to reach so high a total. The Pirates scored all their runs off McWeeny in the first four innings, while Grimes was holding the Dodgers, his former team-mates, to seven hits. The night was a pitching duel between Fred Fussell and Bill Dink until the eighth, when both retired for pinch hitters. The Robins went into the ninth with a 2 to 1 lead but the invaders promptly tied it up and won out in the twelfth, on a single by Sparky Adams.

Wagner's sacrifice and Brother Paul's one base blow which sent Adams over with the winning run. Giants Beat St. Louis game out of the St. Louis Cardinals' lead, by trouncing the league leaders by 10 to 1. Larry Benton was too much for the Cardinals, who got only six hits and were shut out until the ninth. The Giants confined their scoring to the first and eighth innings, eight runs coming across in the latter frame. The Cards' lead was shaved to five and a half games.

The New York Giants cut a full

The Phillies again trimmed the Cubs 4 to 2, behind the effective pitching of Wiloughby. It was the Cubs' third straight defeat at the hands of the cellar dwellers.

Yankees Gained 3 Games

The New York Yanks gunned back a game of their lead in the American League race by trimming the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 3, while Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics were bowing to Detroit 4 to 1.

The A's defeat left them four and a half games back of the leaders.

Two home runs by Lou Blue enabled the St. Louis Browns to make it three out of four from the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 5. Blue's second homer broke a tie in the last half of the ninth. Sam Gray clinched up his seventeenth win of the campaign.

Sad Sam Jones kept Cleveland in subjection and the Washington Senators whitewashed the Indians 8 to 0. The Senators rocked Uhl, Shaute and Hudlin for seventeen hits.

What is the correct stance for wood shots?

Sacramento Open Champion, 1927; Mid-South Open Champion, 1928.

For a drive, attain a natural position with your right foot slightly in advance of your left. The brassie stance is practically the same, with the exception that it is a bit more open, that is, the right foot is slightly farther advanced. The spoon stance is the same as the brassie. For the spoon shot the hands are placed a little more forward.

Y.M. TO PLAY DRUMMOND-VILLE

Word has just been received from Drummondville that one of the postponed games between Y.M.C.A. and Celanese will be played off on Saturday, August 11th. This is rather encouraging to the locals, who have been somewhat discouraged because of the many postponed games. After the good showing on Monday the "Y" players are looking for good returns in the game on Saturday.

GAIN BROTHERS ELIMINATED IN SEMI-FINALS OF PROVINCIAL TOURNEY

In the Provincial Intermediate Tournament at Montreal, which is nearing completion an Eastern Township pair, figured in the doubles event. The pair, the Gain brothers, Pat and Lawrence, of Richmond, reached the semi-finals and were eliminated by O. M. Lavanchy and W. R. Park. On their victorious march to the semi-finals the Richmond boys did not lose a single set. The scores in the match in which they were defeated were 5-7; 6-3; 6-1; 6-3. The Gain brothers are well known throughout the Townships, having captured the Eastern Townships doubles title a few years ago.

MIXED DOUBLES FINAL THIS EVENING

This evening at six o'clock on the St. Francis courts the finals in the mixed doubles competition in the City Tennis Championship tournament will be run off. The match will be between Miss C. Adams and L. Wolfe against Miss E. Grevier and R. Rouleau, and to the victors goes the S. R. Fuller trophy, which was last year won by Miss F. Codere and J. Codere.

Yesterday the Misses C. Adams and E. Salls qualified for the finals in the ladies' doubles by defeating the Misses Grevier and M. Trudeau by the score of 6-1; 8-6. By their victory they will meet the Misses E. Murray and E. Veilleux for the "La Tribune" Cup.

A match in men's singles was played yesterday between L. Wolfe and R. Langis. The former won the initial set 6-1, but lost the second at 6-2. Langis was unable, however, to keep up the pace and lost the final set 6-4. Wolfe now meets E. Bartlett for the right to enter the semi-finals against R.

CANADIANS WON VICTORY OVER GERMAN PAIR

Wright and Guest Avenged Themselves for Defeat Inflicted by Germans on Monday, Winning Easily by a Length and a Half.

AMSTERDAM, August 8.—(By T. H. Loudon, Canadian Press special correspondent)—The Canadian doubles sculling team, Joe Wright, Jr., and Jack Guest, of Toronto, easily defeated the German pair, Hook and Veight, in an Olympic doubles semi-final today, winning by a length and a half in six minutes and forty-four seconds.

The Canadian pair thus avenged themselves for the defeat inflicted by the Germans on Monday.

The Canadians started well and had a length lead in the first minute, when Wright and Guest gradually pulled their shell into a lead of a length and a half at the 750 metre mark. Half way, the Canadians pulled into a still longer lead.

Here the German pair put on a hard sprint and came within a length of Wright and Guest. But the Canadians held the lead, though the Germans continued sprinting in the last half. The German pair, worn out with repeated spurts, were hardly able to finish and the Canadians won by a length and a half.

The winners' time was 6:43.45. The United States four, without coxswain, today defeated the Italian four in the Olympic rowing finals, thus clinching the right to meet Great Britain in the finals on Friday.

COLLETT DEFEATED (Associated Press Despatch)

SLOTEN, Aug. 8.—Collett, England's single sculler, who yesterday defeated Wright, of Canada, in the Olympic sculling event, was today defeated by Pearce, of Australia.

CANADIANS SHOWING UP WELL (Associated Press Despatch)

AMSTERDAM, August 8.—(By W. H. Ingram, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—Apell, of France, gained a close decision over Frank Martin, of Montreal, in a bout in the Olympic flyweight boxing competition today. The bout was a good one and the boxers appeared evenly matched, but the judges were in favor of Apell.

Ray Smillie, Toronto welterweight, won his second straight victory when he gained an easy decision of Lenehan, of Ireland, in the 147-pound class. Smillie forced the fight throughout and registered a knockout in the second round, the Irishman getting graggily to his feet to prevent a knockout.

Vincent Glonna, Toronto bantam, gained the decision over Seigarski, of Germany, after a fiercely fought battle in the Olympic boxing tourney this afternoon.

Glonna scored several knockdowns against his aggressive opponent and inflicted a good deal of punishment.

LOUGHRAN HAS NOT SIGNED FOR BOUB WITH SHARKEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Tommy Loughran, champion of the light-heavyweights, has not signed with Tex Rickard to box Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, he told the New York State Athletic Commission yesterday. Announcement had been made that the 175 pounder would make his heavyweight debut on October 5th against Sharkey.

Loughran told the Commission that he would not be in condition to box for at least sixty days due to the slow healing of cuts sustained in a recent match with Pete Latzo at Wilkes Barre, Pa. His next match will be with Leo Lomsky.

George Godfrey and Johnny Risko filed claims to the heavyweight throne recently vacated by Gene Tunney.

Bartlett, the winner of the semi-finals will oppose E. Hall for the J. S. Mitchell silverware.

Q.C.R. LINEUP FOR TOMORROW'S CUP GAME

The Quebec Central and Y.M.C.A. squads are lining up and getting set for tomorrow's big soccer game, when for the second time within a week they will battle for the Sherbrooke Hospital Charity Cup. Playing on Saturday they drew at two all, and as no overtime was allowed, the replay was necessary. This will take place tomorrow evening at 6:15 on the parade ground, when a large crowd is expected to see what will probably prove to be the outstanding game of the season thus far.

The Q.C.R. has announced its line-up as follows: Goal, McGinty or Peak; backs, B. Grime and McHarg; halfbacks, Tyman, Scott and Leach; forwards, H. Grime, Jackson, Milnes, McNally and Pentland; reserve, Webb. This is the same line-up as played on Saturday, except that Peak is added as a possible goalie in the event of McGinty being unable to play.

Milnes is now playing centre and Jackson on his right, as was the case on Saturday. Until lately Jackson always was in the centre in the front rank.
