BRITISH CRAFT CONTINUE POUNDING OF EUROPE

Attack Against Factory Areas Resumed Today

British Coastal Points Report That Strong Forces of British Aircraft Started Streaming Toward Continent Shortly After Sunrise — Weight of Bombs During Past Week Constituted Record.

London, May 29.—(P)—Up with the sun, Allied planes streamed across the English Channel in strong formations towards Northern France today in a continuation of the air assault in which the R. A. F. has set new records within the past week.

A bright sun beat upon Dover Strait but a haze restricted visibility and it was impossible to determine the type of the planes. Considerable aerial traffic back and forth over the Channel was heard during the night.

The Air Ministry News Service said that six bomb-carrying Albacores of the Royal Navy Fleet Air Arm surprised a fleet of twelve German motor gunboats off Cherbourg peninsula during the night and sank six and damaged three.

With tonight still to go, the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. already have run up the highest total of bombs dropped on Europe in any week of the war.

In three raids on a city-by-city demolition programme in Germany's industrial Ruhr valley a record of nearly 5,000 tons of block-busters and other heavy bombs were loosed by the British and Canadian heavy bombers.

The Air Ministry disclosed yesterday that a newly-devised wave-bombing pattern of attack was used for the first time on the Essen foray, with the four-engined giants roaring over their targets in ten separate sweeps in a period of fifty minutes. Bomb loads varied so that each would cause the greatest devastation at successive stages.

The week virtually was an exclusive R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. affair. Britain-based four-engined American bombers have been idle since the two-pronged attack on the submarine bases at Wilhelmshaven and Emden Friday a week ago.

No rest was in sight for the Axis from the steady succession of bombing attacks, for Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden promised in a speech at Portsmouth yesterday that the raids would go on "until the utter defeat of the Nazi and Fascist regimes and all they stand for."

ANOTHER HEAVY ALLIED RAID CENTRED AT JAP AIRDROME

Allied Headquarters, Australia, May 29.—(P)—Nineteen tons of bombs, a considerable weight for the Southwest Pacific where the targets involved are much smaller than those being mass-raided in Nazi-controlled Europe, cascaded down upon three Japanese airdromes in the New Guinea, New Guinea, sector yesterday.

Defying bad weather, formations of heavy bombers swept 325 miles up the New Guinea North coast beyond Lae, where twenty-eight tons were dropped Thursday, to lash at the airfields of Borom, Dagua and Wewak. Many of the fires started appeared to be burning planes, today's communiqué reported.

Not a single raider was lost.

Japanese Staging Bitter Dying Resistance In Attu Island War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, May 29.—(P)—The final splitting up of Japanese forces on Attu Island into little groups who fight with the desperation of doomed men was underway today with some of the battling high in the mountains above the clouds.

United States Navy Department reports on the progress of the campaign, now in its nineteenth day, indicated that the most intense attacks were in an area between Lake Cories on the South and Lake Canica on the North.

Army troops were reported in a navy communiqué late yesterday to have advanced along a ridge commanding the area between the two lakes and other units assaulted a second ridge running at right angles to the Cories-Canica line.

CO-ORDINATION OF EMPIRE AIR PLANTS URGED

Noted British Manufacturer Declares That Britain and Dominions Must Co-Operate in Peace Development.

Manchester, May 29.—(P cable)—Sir Frederick Handley Page, aeronautical expert, yesterday urged establishment of "a central co-ordination" for the four aircraft industries of the Empire as a step towards an efficient British Air transport scheme after the war.

Sir Frederick, Vice Chairman of Britain's Air Registration Board, said that since the start of the war a large aircraft manufacturing industry had grown up in Australia and Canada and a start made in India. Instead of one British aircraft industry there now were four, each separated from the other by great distances.

"Our supply of equipment for research both inanimate and human is too small for it to be distributed in several centres which individually would be inadequate to deal with some of the large problems ahead," he told the Manchester Association of Engineers.

"But if there is a central co-ordination it can only be successful if there will be a full interchange of personnel and help from the Dominions, for it's only with the full co-operation of all within the Commonwealth that the teamwork of the whole can be achieved."

NORTH HATLEY CITIZEN LOST LIFE IN AUTO-MOBILE CRASH

North Hatley, May 29.—Treacherous roads claimed the life of a well-known North Hatley citizen, Kenneth Kezar, 28, who was fatally injured when his light truck skidded off the long hill behind the Lakeview House and plunged over the side.

His head was hemmed in between the car seat and a tree stump, and he died instantly of a fractured cervical vertebra.

With Mr. Kezar in the car before the crash, was Bud Taylor, fourteen, but the lad explained that Mr. Kezar tried to make the hill once and the car slid down. After this, he left the car, just before Kezar took it on its fatal journey.

When the crash was heard, Rosie Lacouroux and Andrew Spear rushed to offer assistance. Dr. Spear was called, but the victim was beyond help.

A jury consisting of Leonidas Bachand, Mayor Johnson, of North Hatley, T. E. Bennett, E. Keane, W. Coulombe, V. Thomas and O. Bergeron reached an "accidental death" verdict.

Meanwhile patrol units felt out Japanese strength on still a third ridge extending Eastward from the floor of Chichagof valley.

The over-all American strategy obviously was to slash the enemy-held territory up into small pieces and clean these out one by one. The detailed reports of advances in the last few days indicated that this plan was being effectively carried through although the job was a slow one.

One of the difficulties, it was said, lies in the fact that the Japanese have dug themselves into the hills high in the mountains above the fog line so that American soldiers must fight their way up the snowy slopes of Attu's mountains and clean out the foxholes and machine-gun nests in the heights above before they can push on with secure areas behind them.

When President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill posed on the White House lawn with their full staffs just before the war chiefs went into a war-plan conference, a plane flew overhead and all looked up. "He's out of bounds," said the President. Staff members in the photo, left to right, are: Field Marshal Sir John Dill, head of the British joint staff mission; Lieut. Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay, Chief Staff Officer to the Minister of Defense; Air Marshal Sir Charles A. Portal, Chief of Air Staff; Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, Chief of Staff, U.S.A.; Admiral William D. Leahy, Chief of Staff to the President; Gen. George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff, U.S.A.; Admiral Ernest J. King, C-in-C, U.S. Fleet; and Lieut. Gen. G. T. McNarney, Deputy Chief of Staff, U.S.A.

LATEST R.C.A.F. CASUALTY LIST ANNOUNCES ELEVEN MISSING

Ottawa, May 29.—(P)—The R.C.A.F. in its 587th casualty list of the war, containing twenty-one names, last night reported eleven men missing on active service after Overseas air operations.

All the names in the list were those of Overseas casualties.

One man was reported to have died from natural causes; one man was listed as previously missing on active service and now reported a prisoner of war in Germany; one man previously reported missing believed killed on active service was listed as officially presumed dead, and seven men were listed as previously reported missing on active service and now officially presumed dead.

CANADIANS IN DUAL KILL OF NAZI VESSELS

Two of Four Supply Vessels in German Coastal Convoy Knocked Out by Canadian-Manned Hampdens.

With the R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, May 29.—(P)—Canadian airmen in torpedo-carrying Hampden bombers of an R.C.A.F. squadron knocked out in a moonlight attack two of four supply vessels in a German convoy off the Netherlands coast a few hours after R.A.F. Beaufighters had sent torpedoes crashing into two other ships in the convoy.

The four vessels were left on fire and sinking, and some of the dozen escort vessels were damaged in the two attacks. One of the larger vessels hit by the Beaufighters was last seen listing badly and heading for the shore.

Sqn. Ldr. Bill Adams, 26-year-old pilot of Toronto was the first Canadian to sight the convoy. He picked out his victim and went right up the moonpath to attack.

"We caught them completely by surprise," he said afterwards. His aircraft went over the bow of the ship after his torpedo had gone, and the machine was damaged by flak and machine-gun fire. A shell hit the port wing and the landing gear hydraulics were partly shot away. He managed, however, to land safely.

Flying with him were P.O. Bryan Sutton of Regina, navigator, F.O. Tommy LeBlanc of Margaret Forks, N.S., and Flt.-Sgt. Bill Metcalfe of Glace Bay, N.S., both wireless operator-air gunners.

CANADIAN MINISTER BELIEVES BOMBING MAY DEFEAT REICH

Buffalo, May 29.—(P)—Canadian Revenue Minister Gibson last night suggested it might be possible to bring Germany to her knees by air attack without an assault from landings on the Continent of Europe.

One of the speakers at a dinner last night in honor of forty-eight Canadian Members of Parliament visiting aircraft plants in the Buffalo area, Mr. Gibson said aerial supremacy will be one of the major factors in winning the war. "Germany may be beaten to her knees by attack from the air rather than assault from land."

Defence Preparations Reflecting Mounting Italian Invasion Fears

By E. C. DANIEL

Associated Press Staff Writer

London, May 29.—(P)—Rising Italian fears that invasion is near were pictured in the Italian announcement yesterday that Allied landing barges were bombed in Bizerte and Sousse and an unconfirmed Morocco report that Mussolini, at a secret meeting with his party chiefs, decided further to reinforce Sicily and Sardinia.

Coming on the heels of Prime Minister Churchill's statement in Washington to the press indirectly inviting Italy to drop out of the war and seek a separate peace, the Morocco radio report indicated the answer, so far, was "No."

The report, which had no confirmation, said all fortifications on the island approaches would be strengthened immediately, anti-aircraft batteries increased, and Sicily's airports, targets for heavy Allied bombings, would be enlarged.

The Italian communiqué reported the bombing of landing barges and the Rome radio, as recorded in London, said Axis planes have been attacking "a large number of enemy armed landing craft seen lying in Moroccan and Algerian ports. In Bizerte harbor particularly a large number of these craft were attacked and a destroyer was also believed hit."

At the same time Axis broadcasts renewed their reports of troopship and escort movements from Gibraltar, saying an aircraft carrier and four destroyers had just left the British port below which laden troop and supply ships are reported massed.

Reports from neutral countries strengthened the picture of heightened perturbation in Italy. A Russian dispatch from Berne said all law courts in Rome have been transferred to Florence—a move which some observers predicted would be followed by the Italian Government. All universities in Southern provinces were reported closed and the students sent to Northern Italy.

Other reports indicated similar fears along Europe's borders. A French independent agency dispatch from Ankara said several Hungarian divisions, including tanks, had arrived in Bulgaria, presumably en route to Greece. Large air manoeuvres were recently held in the Athens area, the Cairo radio said.

A Tass News Agency story reported that in Denmark German secret police had prepared a list of 150,000 persons to be evacuated in case of an invasion. Those suspected of Allied sympathy are already being shipped from possible danger points, the Russian agency said.

COMINTERN DISSOLUTION HELD PROPER AND TIMELY BY STALIN

London, May 29.—(P)—Premier Stalin, of Russia, in a letter to Harold King, Moscow correspondent for Reuters, said today that the dissolution of the Comintern was "proper and timely because it facilitates organization of the common onslaught of all freedom-loving nations against the common enemy, Hitlerism."

Stalin said it "exposes the lie" that Moscow intends to "Bolshévize" other countries and ends the "calumny" that "Communist parties in various countries allegedly are not acting in the interests of their people but on orders from outside."

WAR BULLETINS

London — The Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor has been conferred on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower by Gen. Henri Giraud, the Algiers radio said today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

Cairo — United States bombers in strong force attacked the Italian airport at Foggia in daylight yesterday it was announced officially today. Foggia is inland from the Adriatic Sea and is eighty miles Northeast of Naples.

London — Red army troops were locked in a swaying, bitter struggle to drive the Germans from the lower Kuban today, and land and aerial activity further Northward indicated that this first major campaign of the summer may be only the forerunner of several to develop along the long Russian front.

The Soviet midnight communiqué merely re-affirmed that fighting is continuing Northeast of Novorossisk. Berlin, however, has pictured as many as 150,000 Russian troops battering indecisively at the German Kuban line, backed by strong support of tanks and planes.

DEATH TOLL AS RESULT OF RUHR FLOODS OVER TWENTY THOUSAND

Berne, May 29.—(P)—Dispatches from Berlin yesterday said the Germans are talking of the death toll reaching 20,000 in the Ruhr as a result of the R. A. F. attacks on the Mohne and Eder dams early last week.

The Nazi Foreign Press Chief, Paul Schmidt, was reported to have told correspondents in Berlin that Germany would resort to "far-reaching reprisals with new diabolical engines" against Britain.

The German people are being told, the Berlin correspondent of the Tribune de Geneve said, that it is "better to be in Berlin today than in London day after tomorrow."

Travellers from Berlin, however, reported that the Allied raids are having a terrible effect in Germany.

NEWER METHODS ADDING BATTLE ON SUBMARINES

More and More Allied Cargoes Reaching Destination While Sinking of U-Boats Reaches Peak.

London, May 29.—(P)—Picturing the Battle of the Atlantic as the "most encouraging" since the start of the war, informed quarters said that new methods of fighting submarines are enabling the Allies to smash the undersea offensive which Germany launched in a desperate effort to stave off invasion.

While more and more Allied ships are going through safely, the number of submarines being destroyed is mounting rapidly, it was pointed out by these sources.

With the sinkings increasing and the output of submarines being crippled by continuous aerial pounding of German bases, these quarters disclosed that the German U-boat menace not only is being held — but smashed.

With the third month of the U-boat campaign of Grand Admiral Karl Dönitz nearing its end, the shipping losses of the Allies appear headed for a record low. At the same time, unofficial quarters believe that the number of enemy submarines sunk in May already has reached a new high for a single month.

Although the number of submarine sinkings is kept secret, London newspapers say more than twelve were believed destroyed in the first three weeks of this month. The net increase of the Nazi U-boat fleet was estimated officially earlier in the year at "not more than ten" a month.

Five points stand out in the recent successful anti-submarine operations:

1—An increased number of escort ships and planes;

2—Re-organized defence, including defences stationed where none had existed before;

3—A newly-developed long-range aerial patrol;

4—Secret anti-submarine devices;

5—Capture or killing of many of the best U-boat commanders.

Even the German communiqué, claims of Allied sinking, usually exaggerated, total only 282,000 tons so far this month—the lowest since 1940. In May, 1942, the German high command estimated that 924,000 tons of Allied shipping were sent to the bottom.

Better Transportation For Servicemen Again Demanded In Commons

Defence Minister Declares That Lack of Rolling Stock Is Chief Reason for Failure to Increase Accommodation — Rationing of Travel Held Only Method of Achieving Equality of Conditions.

NEW BODY WILL EMBRACE WIDE CONTROL POWER

Commission Named by President Roosevelt Will Govern Entire War Effort Except Military Strategy.

Washington, May 29.—(P)—President Roosevelt yesterday named a small but powerful board to take charge on the home front in one of the most important administrative moves since the United States entered the war.

Investing in the board nearly all his own powers except over military strategy, the President directed it, always subject to his own overriding authority, to take complete charge of the economic side of the war. Thus, it will assume control of such matters as production, procurement, rationing and price control, transportation and the distribution of military and civilian supplies.

The key man in the new get-up will be James F. Byrnes, who has been Economic Stabilization Director for the last six months and, in effect, the Assistant President. He will become Director of the Office of War Mobilization and Chairman of a six-man board that will supervise the war effort of the United States except for military strategy.

In addition to Byrnes, the Board members will be War Secretary Frank Knox, Harry Hopkins, Chairman of the Munitions Assignment Board, Donald M. Nelson, Chairman of the War Production Board, and Fred M. Vinson, former Kentucky Congressman and now a member for the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Vinson succeeds Byrnes as Economic Stabilization Director.

STANDLEY HAS OFFERED RESIGNATION FROM MOSCOW POST

New York, May 29.—(P)—The New York Times, in a Washington dispatch quoting "well informed circles," says that Admiral William H. Standley has notified President Roosevelt of his desire to resign immediately as Ambassador to Moscow.

While official comment was lacking, the newspaper reported it was said that Standley, "who had been contemplating resigning in September, has now advanced the time."

According to the report, it was added, the Admiral expressed his desire in a telegram on or about the day Joseph E. Davies arrived in Moscow, May 19th, with the President's letter to Premier Stalin. The resignation has not yet been accepted, the Times said.

Canadian Demon Squadron Chosen For Vital Submarine Hunt Tasks

By ALAN RANDAL

Canadian Press Staff Writer

With the R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, May 29.—(P)—Down on the Southwest coast of England where the natives drink cider that would knock your ears back, Canadians of the Demon Squadron have one of the war's most important flying assignments.

They are submarine hunters in Coastal Command of the R.A.F. It may be significant that the Demons were chosen for this work. They are still young at it but if they do as well as they did earlier when assigned to attacking enemy coastal shipping it will be tough indeed on Nazi submarines.

Already this squadron, flying now under an R.A.F. Wing Commander, has several submarine "strikes" to its credit. So far these men have yet to obtain an official "kill" but for obvious reasons credit for a submarine destroyed is hard to obtain unless survivors are picked up.

The Demons, representative of

By C. R. BLACKBURN, Associated Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, May 29.—(P)—Appeals in the House of Commons yesterday for free leave transportation and travel accommodations for service personnel equal to that open to civilians brought from Defence Minister Ralston the statement that he did not believe travel difficulties could be overcome without rationing.

He agreed that it would be desirable to grant leave transportation and to give service personnel as good accommodations as those open to civilians but said he could give no assurance on either point.

The free travel discussion, an annual fixture ever since the war started, was opened by Clarence Gillis (C.C.F., Cape Breton South), who also protested that air force personnel was better treated in regard to travelling than navy or army men. Numerous members representing all parties joined in the appeal for free transportation for those on annual or embarkation leave, but the Minister said he could only promise to give their representations consideration.

The discussion on service personnel travelling came as the House was ending a solid week in committee on the Defence Department's $1,764,000,000 share in the $3,890,000,000 war appropriation for the current fiscal year.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative leader, made the appeal for better treatment of service personnel in the way of berths and meals on the trains.

He said efforts had been made, and he believed successfully, to iron out all differences in the treatment of the three services when travelling so that there would be no discrimination.

Non-commissioned ranks below sergeant did not receive sleeping accommodation if their journey involved only one night on the train, and that had always been the practice, said Col. Ralston.

This prompted the protest from Mr. Graydon. "Surely we should not ask these men to travel even for one night without such accommodation," he said. "I do not want to put this in any cheap way but I do feel that our armed forces are entitled to everything a civilian would get in ordinary travel."

"As civilians what are we actually contributing as compared to these men. I think if there is any question of differential it should be in favor of the soldier."

Col. Ralston said the reason for the differentiation was "very true," merely that it had always been the practice that an overnight trip did not call for provision of sleeping accommodation.

"I thoroughly agree with everything my honorable friend said. I know it is not any cheap appeal."

MERCHANT NAVY MATCHES SHOW DROP IN SALES

Although $400 Realized Locally During Past Year, Recent Sales Not Quite Up to Expectation.

Just a year ago the Merchant Navy matches in their blue and silver folders made their appearance on the counters of many of the local stores, restaurants and hotels through the courtesy of their proprietors. In this year the people of Sherbrooke have spent $400 buying matches in aid of the Merchant seamen. The first few months the matches were on sale $10 a week was realized, but as the public became accustomed to seeing the matches the novelty wore off and sales dropped a bit. Still four hundred dollars is not an unsatisfactory amount to realize in an inland city.

Many people have wondered what happens to the proceeds from the sale of these matches. The money is used to help maintain two clubs in Montreal where so many of the United Nations gallant seamen are brought to recuperate after being torpedoed, and where they are held until they are sent to join a new ship. Many of these lads are just youngsters and most of them have been torpedoed more than once.

The thing all these men have in common whether young or old, Greek or British is that they are eagerly awaiting their return to the sea and another crack at the Jerries. In the meantime when they arrive in Montreal very few of them know a soul and the two clubs, one for officers and the other for N.C.O.'s and men, are a boon to them when they are well enough to be back on the waiting list. It may be months before a boat is ready so the men use the clubs all day, every day. Here they find all sorts of recreation — squash, gym, billiards, darts, table tennis, magazines, writing facilities and, above all, companionship with other seamen. Dances are given weekly for them, complete with home-made refreshments. The atmosphere is friendly and everything possible is done to make these lonely, waiting men feel they are appreciated and that this is their club.

It is a known fact that Allied shipping losses have been heavy and that conditions will be worse before they are better. It must be remembered that these are the men who "deliver the goods," that if the convoy is attacked they can only go full steam ahead; they can't maneuver quickly and dodge the blast that may send them all to death or to long hours of exposure and exhaustion before they are picked up, if they are lucky, or to a slow tortuous death if they are not. These are the men who carry "the tools to finish the job." If they return they bring back mail and the necessities which Canada does not produce. When the voyage is over they cannot forget what they have seen, yet they go back to the sea gladly for the cause of victory.

"This is your lifeline. Keep it strong." Buy matches bearing these words if you would help the men who live them.

W.M.S. MEMBERS HELD MEETING AT COATICOOK

Citizens Urged to Co-Operate in Annual Missionary Drive to Aid Suffering Communities.

Coaticook, May 29.—Meeting at the United Church Parsonage, under the presidency of Mrs. Roy P. Stafford, who occupied the chair, members of the Women's Missionary Society held their May session on Tuesday afternoon.

Opening with the singing of the National Anthem, followed by prayer, the meeting was then turned over to a most interesting business session, beginning with the reading and adoption of the Secretary's and Treasurer's reports.

It was with much regret that Mrs. Cecil Smith's resignation as Treasurer came before the meeting, but the members accepted it due to Mrs. Smith's insistence that her ill health prevented her from doing full justice to her work and carrying on as she would like to do. Mrs. Earle S. Beersworth was appointed to the post of Treasurer to take Mrs. Smith's place.

It was decided to combine the office of Literature Secretary with that of the Press Secretary, these two offices now being held by Mrs. J. Bruhmuller.

Following the business session the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Irvin Waldron and Mrs. J. Bruhmuller, Mrs. Waldron giving a reading for the devotional part of the meeting entitled, "The Woman of the Hour." Mrs. Bruhmuller presented a comprehensive report on the Conference Branch assembly held in Montreal recently, when Mrs. F. A. Johnston, of Ayer's Cliff, was appointed President.

Mrs. Stafford, newly-elected President of the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbyterial W.M.S., gave a very interesting discussion of the different branches of the Women's Missionary Society, dealing with the Dominion Board, the Conference Branch and the Presbyteries.

Mrs. A. C. Jenks, Secretary of the Supply Department, urged that anyone having articles of used clothing, hospital supplies, etc., for the different missionary huts, which is sent to some hard-pressed community, to send or bring them to her as soon as possible.

It was decided that the June meeting will be in charge of Mrs. J. White, Sr., and Mrs. A. A. Hopkins will at that time give a report on Christian Stewardship and Finance.

The meeting closed with prayer and benediction.

COVER GIRL OF TODAY MUST BE NATURAL TYPE

Glamor Girl Type Definitely Ruled Out for Popular Favor as Magazine Cover Model, Experts Declare.

New York, May 29.—(A) A cover girl is every man's sweetheart — his wife, mother or best girl — for she's sure to remind him of someone dear to him.

Famous "cover-men" (the artists and photographers who choose cover girls) agree to that. And, adds Bradshaw Goodall, "she must have personality—very often a girl drops into my studio and doesn't seem to have what it takes; later when I meet her at a party and she is animated, I'd like to paint her."

They all agree glamor girls are out. They seek the girl who depicts the spirit of the times—one that can pose as a nurse, housewife, Red Cross worker or airplane mechanic, and really look the part.

The model for a girl in one of the fighting services, for instance, says Arthur William Brown, should have a "Joan of Arc" look. Recently a group of armistice men at the Red Cross Club and picked blonde, high-cheeked Selene Nendri to pose for a U. S. Navy girl poster. An Arthur Brown favorite is Helen Muller, because "her face sends" and her expression gives a message across to the reader.

Always a booster of the natural girl, Nicholas Murray and Hal Finley prefer the intelligent, vital face for photographic covers. Hal likes to use newcomers before they become spoiled by "too much attention at the model agencies." Recently he used a model who had "a very nice face, not particularly regular features but capable and sparkling," and the cover created tremendous interest, he says.

Some of the Photographer Ruzzie Greene's cover girls—Kay Aldridge, Dimes, dyes and pits, clean teeth and help the soldiers. In times of action they were to be found in the front line. During sieges they filled moats with faggots and brushwood to enable soldiers to storm fortresses and at Crecy women helped pull gun carriages out of the mud, and going back farther. WOMEN IN WAR NOT NEW IDEA BUT TOPS NOW

Gentler Sex Have Helped Men Fighters Since Wars of Long Ago But This Time They Are in Front Line of Defence.

By ALAN RANDAL, Canadian Press Staff Writer.
London, May 29.—(A) —These C.W.A.C.'s in their khaki battle dress and the Canadian "W.D.'s" in their R.C.A.F. blue are doing a great job of work, aiding their menfolk to get on with the war. So are the British Auxiliary Territorial Service, the Wrens and the Waafs. But they really are not new.

Women were in uniform in the First Great War and have had an active part in just about every war worthy of the name. Miss Lillian Barker, sixty-nine, who organized Britain's women for war back in 1914, says many of the things being done by women in this war were done in her day too. She expressed wonderment at "all the fuss and bother about modern planning."

"We were doing many of the things in the last war that are introduced as new in reconstruction plans now," she said. "We taught men cookery and women carpentry just as they do today."

The role of women in war has so grown in importance that it is admitted that they are indispensable. Today you find women warriors doing jobs of all kinds, with status equal to that of the men. A girl in battle dress manning a barrage balloon, a searchlight or anti-aircraft gun can't be treated as though she were good only for boiling a jag of spiced tea.

Britain's first A. T. S. probably were those women who formed a detachment with Sir John Hawkwood's Free Company nearly 600 years ago. Sir John was the soldier of fortune who commanded a mixed company of volunteers which operated in Gascony and took Pau by storm in 1359. Eventually all the Free Companies followed Sir John's example, so the records show, and had a special division of women under their own sergeants.

When the companies were in camp it was the duty of the women to carry hay, straw and wood, to fill up ditches, dig and pits, clean tents and help the soldiers. In times of action they were to be found in the front line. During sieges they filled moats with faggots and brushwood to enable soldiers to storm fortresses and at Crecy women helped pull gun carriages out of the mud, and going back farther. In the same area where the British pushed Rommel closer and closer to the sea in Africa Punics women sacrificed their hair to provide ropes for the catapults and stone-throwers when Scipio came against Carthage in 146 B. "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alms Mesmerism and Hypnotism Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 30th.
The Golden Text is from Isaiah 50:7. "The Lord will help me; therefore shall not I be confounded; therefore have I set my face like a flint, and I know that I shall not be ashamed."
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thou art my hiding-place, thou shalt preserve me from trouble; thou shalt compass me about with songs of deliverance." (Psalms 32:7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The power of God brings deliverance to the captive. No power can withstand divine Love. What is this supposed power, which opposes itself to God? Whence cometh it? What is it that binds man with iron shackles to sin, sickness, and death? What enslaves man is opposed to the divine government. Truth makes man free." (Page 224-225).

SMUTS PARTIES IN AGREEMENT ON ELECTIONS

United Party, Labor and Dominion Parties to Present Common Front Against Nationalist Groups.

Cape Town, May 29.—(A) —Prime Minister Smuts has announced an agreement for the August general election between the United party and the Labor and Dominion parties, all Government groups in the present coalition.

Smuts' United party will not contest seats now held by Labor. This gives Labor a clear field in five additional constituencies.

The Dominion and Labor parties agree not to contest seats where United party candidates stand — the United party constitutes at present the largest group in the coalition. The Prime Minister said the fruitful co-operation between the three coalition parties must not be ended until the war is won and the country's social economy placed on a sound footing.

The Southern Rhodesian Parliament has adopted a private member's motion urging the Rhodesian Government to approach Prime Minister Smuts to arrange a pan-African conference for co-ordinating the development of Southern and Central Africa.

Other British countries embraced in a pan-Africa conference would include Northern Rhodesia, South West Africa (mandated) Bechuanaland and Nyasaland protectorates, Tanganyika, Kenya and Uganda territories. There are also French, Belgian and Portuguese colonies like Madagascar, Mozambique, the Congo, Cameroons and the Gold Coast.

Austerity in dressing and feeding is now more noticeable in South Africa. Three big hotels are banning banquets while scarce commodities include whiskey, paper, electric bulbs and knitting wool.

Five hundred orphaned Polish children arrived in Outdahoorn where they are staying until after the war at Polish Government expense.

Dr. Bertha Stoneman who was President of Huguenot University College for 12 years and widely known in education and as an authority on botany died in Capetown.

Justice White Dismisses $3,030
Damage Suit, Claiming Plaintiff
Was Careless In Crossing Street

Ruling that the evidence indicated the plaintiff had walked from behind an automobile without looking to make certain that no vehicle was approaching from the other direction, Mr. Justice C. D. White dismissed the action of R. H. Galbraith, of Melbourne Township, against Thomas Stevens, of Cleveland Township, for compensation for injuries received when he was struck by defendant's car in Richmond. This judgment was one of several handed down in the local Superior Court by His Lordship today.

Galbraith in his action claimed that on October 25th, 1941, at about 10:30 in the evening, he was crossing the main street in Richmond, close to the Diva Shoe Company plant, when he was struck and knocked to the ground by an automobile operated by the defendant. Plaintiff said that he suffered a fracture of the right arm and the right leg and he claimed damages amounting to $3,030.76, including $2,220 for permanent disability.

Defendant pleaded that he was operating his car at a legal rate of speed and travelling on the right hand side of the road. He explained that when approaching the level crossing of C.N.R. near property of Alfred Geoffrey he met an automobile coming in the direction of Sherbrooke. Immediately after meeting this car, the plaintiff crossed the street hurriedly, coming from the level crossing, and passing behind the car which was headed towards Sherbrooke. Defendant contended that Galbraith came so quickly in front of his automobile that he was not even able to apply his brakes sufficiently. Some time after the accident, Stevens claimed, the plaintiff had admitted to him that he was in a hurry to get home and had crossed the road behind the automobile without being sure that the road was clear.

His Lordship said that it had been proved by several witnesses that the plaintiff had admitted to them that he had not taken proper care to see that the road was clear, and he maintained that the accident was caused by no fault of the defendant but was entirely due to the fault and negligence of the plaintiff himself.

MEAT BUYING
NORMAL TODAY
SURVEY SHOWS

Meat markets here show every sign today that residents of Sherbrooke have learned to take their rationing calmly. There was no noticeable increase in the number of customers at butcher shops and downtown meat counters yesterday, although meat rationing started Wednesday midnight.

Each person is now allowed one to two and a half pounds of meat a week, depending on the type.

City butchers reported adequate supplies on hand to take care of customers today and said that orders were not greater than they have been on previous Saturdays in recent months.

A shortage of bacon, smoked hams and other cured meat was apparent, owing to the buying spree before rationing went into effect. There was plenty of other kinds of meats to satisfy customers.

The Prices Board asked housewives to study the meat coupon value charts now being distributed to every household in Canada. A housewife who fails to receive a chart by mail may obtain one from nearest local ration board.

In a chart, Board officials here said, is essential to an understanding of the use of the brown spare "A" coupons from ration book No. 2, which are the meat coupons. It carries on the reverse side a guide to the buying and cooking of rationed meats.

AWARDED CASE

Charles J. Davis, formerly of Compton, and now of Peterborough, Ont., was condemned to pay Robert Reed, Waterville contractor, the sum of $357 with interest and costs as the balance owing on work and labor done and materials furnished by the plaintiff, in a decision rendered in Superior Court today by Mr. Justice D. White.

The case of Felix Aytte, of Windsor Mills, against Joseph Laflamme, of the same place, was also ruled upon by His Lordship. This litigation arose over the sale of a cow by the defendant to the plaintiff for $125, of which $100 was paid cash; the cow having died a short time after the sale from an ailment the court ruled it must have had at the time of the transaction. As a result, Laflamme was ordered to reimburse the plaintiff, but inasmuch as he had not known of the defect at the time of the sale he was not condemned in damages.

MAYOR ALEX C. ROSS, who was elected to the National Executive of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities at the closing session of the sixth annual conference yesterday.

PRIORITY LIST
SET ON SCRAP
REQUIREMENTS

The Sherbrooke Salvage Campaign Board today was in receipt of a salvage priority list based on the relative requirements for waste materials, issued by Charles LaFerte, Salvage Director in the War Services Department, Ottawa.

The list, released by James Wark and J. A. Fortin, Chairman of the local Board, follows:

1. Fats and bones to produce glycerine for explosives and other materials for war industries. Canada needs 35,000,000 pounds of rendered fats from householders and institutions.

2. Old tires and tubes of which 10,000 tons are "urgently required" by the end of 1943.

3. Scrap metal of all kinds, but particularly brass, bronze and copper.

4. Rags of all kinds, particularly cotton rags for use as wipers by the armed services and war industries.

Mr. LaFerte said that that listing was not to be taken as meaning that other salvage materials should not be collected in volume by voluntary committees when they have ready outlets for such collections. The four types listed were those for which the demand was urgent at the moment.

COURT ST. FRANCIS C. O. F.
HELD MEETING

The unanimous selection of Bro. W. W. Shaw to represent the Court as delegate to the High Court meeting which opens at Windsor, Ont., June 15, featured an active session of Court St. Francis, C.O.F., held in the Lodge rooms on Montreal Street under the presidency of Chief Ranger T. Gelinas. During the evening, District Organizer A. J. Perkins, of Montreal, gave a short address to the large gathering on the work of the Order in Canada.

Preliminary arrangements were made for the District meeting to be held here during the fall, when a number of High Court officers are expected to be present.

After the business session, the members engaged in a carpet bowling competition.

Petition To Have Tenant Vacate
House Is Dismissed As Attempt To Bring About Rent Increase

Petition of Charles Stanley Hatch in the local Superior Court to compel Charles H. Williams to vacate a property at 34 Quebec Street because the petitioner intended to subdivide the dwelling was dismissed by Mr. Justice C. D. White on the grounds that the contemplated alterations would not increase the housing accommodations already provided and that it appeared "the petitioner's intention is merely to increase the rent which his father, the previous owner, was not allowed to do."

Petitioner Hatch alleged that when he obtained the said property from his father, through a deed of sale, he advised the respondent, Williams, of his intention to subdivide the dwelling by means of structural alterations into additional units of housing accommodation and that for that reason he would require possession of the house as of May 1, 1943. He added that on January 29 he advised the respondent by registered mail that he required possession of the house for the alterations contemplated under the War-time Prices and Trade Board regulations governing maximum rentals and terminations of leases.

Justice White ruled that the evidence showed that at the time of the sending of the notice the petitioner did not have his building permit and he knew his father had attempted to obtain an increase in rent, which he had been unable to do.

CHECK REPORTS
LIVER SERVED
MEATLESS DAYS

Reports that some local restaurants are serving liver, kidneys, brains, etc., on meatless Tuesdays have reached the War-time Prices and Trade Board office.

Officials warned today that the inclusion of any meat, with the exception of fowl, is a violation of the regulations, and leaves the owner liable to prosecution. Fish, fowl and eggs may be served, but not meat of any kind.

"Apparently there is a misunderstanding among restaurant operators have become confused with the regulations for rationing meat, officials of the ration division said.

In meat rationing, liver, kidney, brains, etc., are not included, but this does not mean that they can be served in restaurants and homes on meatless Tuesday, it was explained.

U. S. SHIPMENT
EASES LOCAL POTATO FAMINE

First signs of easing of Sherbrooke's potato shortage came this morning when the first big load of new potatoes arrived in the city from the United States. They will retail at five and one-half cents a pound as compared with a recent price of eight cents.

Officials here warned against undue optimism on the part of housewives. The potato situation is still tight, they said, but when potatoes begin arriving here from the States, deliveries normally gather momentum rapidly. This would indicate a gradual relaxation of the existing situation.

Potatoes in chain stores were still being limited to five pounds a customer. Managers of the produce departments said that local housewives will have to wait at least two weeks before they can buy potatoes in any quantity.

A wholesaler made this same prediction in commenting on announcements of the Prices Board that the sale of certified seed potatoes is being prohibited until June 5, and that a ten per cent war exchange tax on spuds from the United States has been suspended until June 30.

Dealers expressed the opinion that had federal officials set the ceiling price on new potatoes when stocks were first available in the United States and held off collection of the ten per cent war exchange tax from the earlier date until June 30, ample supplies of potatoes would have been available.

As it is, when ceilings were established most of the available supplies in the United States had been sold, according to dealers.

CONCERT WILL BE OFFERED BY JUVENILE BAND

Pupils of Professor Charles Delvenne, grouped as "La Petite Harmonie de Sherbrooke," will give a concert in the City Hall auditorium on Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, to which all parents and friends of the young musicians are invited to judge for themselves the progress which has been made during the past year.

Prof. Delvenne referred in enthusiastic terms to his "juvenile harmony" today and said that many surprises were in store for Tuesday night's audience. A feature of the programme will be a trombone solo by Miss Patricia Buzzell, accompanied at the piano by Miss Flossie Dawson.

There will be no admission charge for the concert, which will consist of the following programme, arranged and harmonized by Prof. Delvenne: 1. Genduso, March; 2. Hermine, Waltz; 3. Kukia, Waltz; 4. Le Corinthen, Overture; 5. Bella, Waltz; 6. La Cite Sainte, Stephen Adams, Trombone solo by Miss Patricia Buzzell, accompanied by Miss Flossie Dawson; 7. Entr'acte de Rosamonde, Franz Schubert; 8. Panis Angelicus, Cesar Frank; 9. Chanson du Marin, March.

CONDEMNED TO PAY $100 FOR WRONG STATUS

For having carried on business under the name of Wellie Guertin and Flis, contrary to the provisions of law, Wellie Guertin, North Ham merchant, was condemned to pay the Attorney-General of the Province of Quebec the sum of $100 and costs in a judgment handed down in Superior Court today by Mr. Justice C. D. White.

The plaintiff alleged that Guertin had done business at North Ham as general merchant and hardware dealer under the name of Wellie Guertin and Flis, leading the public to understand that he was doing business in partnership with his two sons, and that no declaration had been made by the defendant at the office of the Superior Court as required by Chapter 277 of the Revised Statutes of the Province of Quebec.

MANY JOIN IN FINAL TRIBUTE TO ROY E. ATTO

Many friends and relatives gathered at St. Peter's Church on Thursday afternoon to join in extending a final tribute to the late Roy Elwyn Atto, a life-long resident of Sherbrooke who died suddenly on Tuesday afternoon at his work at the Superheater.

Rev. Ruesel Brown, Rector of St. Peter's Church, officiated at the service and the hymns sung were "Abide With Me" and "Breathe on Me, Breath of God." The bearers were four brothers, Fred, of Montreal, Hubert, of Montreal, Clifford, of Guelph, Ont., and Claude, of Kitchener, Ont., and two brothers-in-law, Edward Stocks and Leslie Hudd.

Mr. Atto is survived by his wife, the former Mary C. Campbell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell; two sons, LAC. Donald Atto, of Brantford, Ont., and James, at home; a daughter, Marjorie, at home; a sister, Mrs. Thomas Lothrop, of Sherbrooke; four brothers, mentioned above; a granddaughter, Ann Star.

Among those attending the funeral from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Head, of Hamilton, Ont., Mrs. Donald Atto, of Brantford, Ont.

A number of Scouts of the 5th Sherbrooke Troop, of which Mr. Atto's son, James, is a member, formed a guard of honor at the house at the church.

The flowers were many and beautiful and bore testimony to the esteem in which Mr. Atto was held by his many friends.

Interment was made in Malvern Cemetery at Lennoxville.

THEFT OF $50
WATCH BRINGS PRISON TERM

Two years in penitentiary was the sentence imposed on Louis Vallieres, of Sherbrooke, by Judge Dalmat Landry, Magistrate's Court yesterday when he was found guilty on a theft charge. Sherbrooke police preferred the charge against Vallieres after his employer reported that a watch, valued at $50, had been stolen from him.

Judge Landry at first sentenced him to three years, but reduced it to a two-year term only because strong pleas on behalf of Vallieres were made by his mother and his counsel.

Before sentence was pronounced, Judge Landry read Vallieres' lengthy police record of arrests and convictions, which revealed that he had been sent to Quebec Reform School and served prison terms in Alberta and in New Jersey and Pennsylvania in the United States.

The Queen Mary Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star are today holding a tag day for the benefit of the Queen's Canadian Fund. This organization does much work for the services and their annual tag day for the Queen's Fund has always met with success.

WORKERS LEAVE EMPLOYMENT TO EVADE NEW LAW

Jumping the gun on the compulsory employment transfer orders, a considerable number of men in non-essential industries have been quitting their jobs for work in more essential fields during the past few months, it was learned today at the local Employment and Selective Service Office.

When the first compulsory transfer order came into effect, it was expected that about 225 men would register, but only 145 have done so. The second transfer order has now been made, and registrations under it are going slowly, because there are few men affected.

At present men in industries not classed in either of the orders are leaving their jobs to take positions in industries they consider more essential. Other orders are expected to follow the first two.

However, the men waiting for permits during the past week have been more numerous than in some months, and the majority explain that they know that they are due for transfers eventually and want to make the change before the order affecting them is issued.

Most men seeking permits are those in the miscellaneous labor category, with those in the skilled labor class being considerably smaller. Other classes of workers handled at the office are returned men, students and handicaps. Special attention is given the returned men.

Men affected under the second transfer order dealing with a further twenty industries and occupations have until June 15 to report.

It was learned that some of those who have registered under the first order already have been transferred for physical reasons, have been allowed to remain in their present "non-essential" jobs.

PIANIST TELLS OF HIS ESCAPE
FROM NAZI CAMP

The story of his dramatic escape from a Nazi internment camp, was told to a Record reporter yesterday afternoon by Georges Savaria, young Canadian pianist, who will give a concert in the City Hall tomorrow evening.

Mr. Savaria revealed that he had been kept in a Paris prison for four months and that he was crowded in with three other prisoners in a cell which was originally built for one. The food rations at this prison, known as "Fresne," consisted of weak cabbage soup and scraps of bread, which were served twice daily.

Through the intervention of the American Embassy, the Nazis finally transferred him to a regular civilian concentration camp, and there he received better treatment until the Nazis, learning of his musical talents, asked him to make records and conclude them with subtle flatteries to the Nazis, and "praises for their generosity to prisoners." Mr. Savaria bluntly refused, although he was promised many favors and benefits, and consequently the camp became a living hell.

"Thanks to the Red Cross, I and the others were able to exist and resist the brutalities of the Nazis," said Mr. Savaria. But it soon became apparent that after his refusal to co-operate, the Nazis were set on making the camp absolutely intolerable. They soon removed every form of entertainment and every musical instrument. These deprivations spurred Savaria on to confide with other internees and three of them, after four months of planning, managed to effect their dangerous and thrilling escape.

After his escape he was able to reach Paris, where the French people, at the risk of being shot, kept him hidden in a cellar for fifteen days. He revealed that the Germans had posted on lamp posts the lists of the civilians who had been executed for disobedience or sabotage, but he insisted, this did not deter the people from aiding escaped internees and from praying daily for the day when the Allies will release the French from their bondage.

From Paris, he travelled with forged passports and citizen papers to Spain, thence to Portugal and finally a ship took him to England. He said that the Spanish people are very poor, in the throes of starvation and extremely tired of Franco and his despotic rule.

Mr. Savaria arrived in Canada in December and is now planning a Canadian and American tour. His first concert was given in Montreal.

Sherbrooke High School Army
Cadets Give Splendid Display

The Sherbrooke High School army cadets were told yesterday afternoon that their uniforms would be ready for them next fall by Lt. Col. H. E. Vautlet, assistant director of the Royal Army Cadets, who was the inspecting officer at the annual inspection and demonstration held on the Parade Grounds.

Members of the corps marched from the Sherbrooke High School to the Parade Grounds where they formed up for the general inspection and salute. The cadets under the command of Cadet Major Lorne Campbell then gave a demonstration of platoon and company drill which was closely followed by the inspecting officers.

Following the inspection the cadets formed up in line and Col. Vautlet presented Cadet Spalding with an efficiency medal. After the presentation the inspecting officer then spoke a few words of praise to the boys, complimenting them on their smart appearances and congratulating them on the work which they had accomplished. The work which Captain White, Officer Commanding the Sherbrooke Regiment, and Sergeant-Major Bob Smith, also of the Sherbrooke Regiment, have been doing in training the contingent also came under review and Col. Vautlet said that the cadets were very fortunate to have such competent instructors.

Among those attending the inspection with Col. Vautlet were Lt. Col. L. Chicoine, District Cadet Officer for Military District No. 4, Captain R. E. White, Officer Commanding the Sherbrooke Regiment, Wright Gibson, Principal of the Sherbrooke High School, George Ewing, Secretary of the Protestant School Board, and Col. A. A. Munster, Honorary Colonel of the Sherbrooke Regiment.

TO ADDRESS OLD BOYS' BANQUET

Tickets are reported to have been selling well for the annual banquet of the St. Patrick's Old Boys' Association which will be held at the Chateau Frontenac this evening.

Guest speaker at the banquet will be Emmett McManamy, of Montreal, member of the Montreal Catholic School Board, who will speak on the subject of compulsory education. All members of the Association are urged to attend this reunion, the first event to be held under the auspices of the new slate of officers recently elected with Charles Stenson as President.

Mrs. A. J. Moore entertained at her home on Park Avenue, Lennoxville, in honor of Miss Rita Sperry, a June bride-to-be. During the evening the guest of honor was presented with a large decorated basket filled with kitchen utensils and pyrex. The guest of honor then thanked her friends, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by the Misses Irene and Catherine Cooper of Beebe.

PLAIN SPEAKING TO ITALY

The address of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at Portsmouth yesterday, in which he pledged the United Nations would bombard Germany and Italy "until the utter defeat of the Nazi and Fascist regimes and all they stand for," was undoubtedly aimed directly at the Italian people, for in another part of his talk, he issued the warning that "Italy now lies wide open to air attack" and that attack "will be pressed home by all means in our power." Throughout his speech dealt more with the Italian than the German problem, a fact that is not to be wondered at in view of the general situation.

Mr. Eden also disposed of the Spanish stooge for the Axis leaders, who has recently taken on the role of the champion of old-fashioned warfare as against the modernized blitzkrieg tactics of air power. The Foreign Secretary recalled the glories which Franco and his backers had seen in aerial war, in the destruction of such cities as Warsaw and Rotterdam, and of the desire of Mussolini to be cut in on the bombing of Great Britain. This, of course, was when the Axis air forces appeared to hold the upper hand and when many considered the elimination of the British Isles as just a matter of weeks. But now, the roles are reversed, with Allied aircraft ranging from one end of the Continent to the other, and subjecting German and Italian cities to aerial punishment exceeding anything ever inflicted on Britain. Now that the conditions have changed, Mr. Eden makes it clear that the crocodile tears of the Spanish dictator will not delude the British and Americans from their course, which is the saturation bombardment of Axis military organization.

He offers but one hope to Italy, the complete overthrow of the Fascist rulers of the country and the unconditional surrender of the Italian armed forces. The exact effect of his warning depends, to a large extent, upon the actual conditions now prevailing in Italy, which are to a large extent veiled by censorship and wartime communications restrictions. But Fascist domestic broadcasts, as recorded by Allied listening posts, clearly indicate that the morale of the people is far from what it might be. The loss of the African Empire, the heavy casualties of the Italian armed forces, the drain on the national economic structure required to keep the Balkans in line, the near-starvation diet and the ever-increasing bombardment of the principal cities seems to have undermined the whole set-up of the Italian people, who were far from inclined to enter the war in the first place.

Such a field should provide fertile soil for remarks such as those of Mr. Eden, and it is likely that if the Italian people are given a reasonable opportunity to express their free will, they will return to the paths of democracy and perhaps become a respected member of the family of nations.

POST-WAR REVENUE POLICIES

A review of the entire Canadian revenue policy, including an over-all examination of the tariff and a revision of taxation, forms the basis of the suggestions presented by the National Board of Directors of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to the joint meeting of the Commons and Senate Reconstruction Committees. In a brief dealing with reconstruction as a whole, the Chamber said new economic international relations necessary for post-war welfare should guide the formation of Canada's fiscal policy.

The last over-all examination of the tariff was in 1879, the brief said.

The tax system should be reviewed with the idea of maintaining production for a good standard of living shared among Canadians and protecting them from want and the fear of want.

Three principal needs should govern the taxation policy:

1.—The general burden of taxation should be reduced as quickly as possible after the war, although it might be necessary for a period of years to continue mutual aid appropriations on a large scale.

2.—"Taxation must be so designed that high levels of production and employment may be maintained; in other words we should amend or even abolish taxes which are repressive of enterprise."

3.—The principle of levying taxes on the results of individual fiscal years was inequitable and should be overcome. The Chamber suggested taxation on an average of earnings over a period of several years.

"We visualize the possibility that wartime rates of taxation over a period of years may result in widespread shortages of working capital and this, just at the time when adequate working capital is most necessary to finance the switching of Canadian business from war tasks to peacetime production," the brief said.

"We, therefore, believe that present methods of taxation should be modified with a view to creating more adequate reserves."

"We believe," the brief said, "that an unduly large proportion of all social welfare costs is paid for by means of taxes concentrated on a single source of income—real estate; and that post-war policies of social welfare will be handicapped, or even hamstrung, unless some change is made in this regard."

THE NAZI BRAIN TRUST WORRIED

Hitler's brain trust appears to be wandering about in a foggy uncertainty regarding Allied intentions—a strained state of mind not relieved any by President Roosevelt's unamplified announcement that "the conference of the combined staffs in Washington has ended in complete agreement on future operations in all theatres of war." Thus you could not blame Hitler if he got mad and called the war off, on the grounds that the enemy is using unfair tactics. As an illustration of the position, important circles in the Boche capital in a single day, i.e., Thursday of this week, produced these divergent views:

The Allies are getting ready for invasion and Germany must go on the defensive. There will be a Russian offensive. There won't be a Russian offensive for at least a month. There won't be any Russian offensive this summer. Stalin won't attack the Nazis first because he isn't sure whether the Anglo-American combination is ready to invade Western Europe.

In the midst of this muddy speculation came word of the successful Russian attack against the fiercely-defended German bridgehead on the Kuban delta opposite the Crimea. But while the Nazis knew that they had taken a beating, this did not clarify the question of who is going to inaugurate the summer's grand slam—if any—and when.

The Russian drive is for the purpose of ousting the Nazis entirely from this side gateway to the Caucasus. The Germans have been hanging onto this sector for dear life, in hope of being able to land an army here from the Crimea, which lies just across the narrow Strait of Kerch.

Thus, the Soviet move is in the first place defensive. However, if successful it immediately puts the Russians in position to capitalize it in a major offensive against the entire right wing of Hitler's forces which have their main anchor near Rostov where the Don empties into the Sea of Azov.

That much is not difficult to figure out. But is Stalin going to undertake a major offensive, or does he indeed intend to wait until Britain and the United States have clambered ashore in Western Europe?

Well, only the Allied high command knows that—no hope. If Britain and the United States invade Western Europe in the near future, then it would not be surprising if it has been agreed that Stalin shall hold his hand so that concerted offensive can be made on both the Eastern and Western fronts.

This would put Hitler in a position similar in some ways to that occupied by the Kaiser in the First Great War, that is, hurling troops madly back and forth across Europe to defend two fronts at once. However, Hitler suffers from a disability which did not afflict his predecessor—Germany's transport system is pretty well shot to pieces now, and speedy movement of troops and supplies would be a tough problem. It would be particularly difficult because of the terrific air-power which the Allies can bring against communications—something the Kaiser did not have to worry about greatly.

However, if the Allied high command is not prepared to undertake major invasions anywhere in Europe in the near future, then it is likely that Stalin either will strike at Hitler, or that the latter will have one more great fling at trying to destroy the Red military machine. One would scarcely expect the Eastern Front to remain in a state of comparative inaction throughout the good fighting months of the summer.

The Immanence Of God

Prof. the Rev. H. C. Burt, M.A., D.C.L., Lennoxville.

"He was in the world, and the world was made by Him."

This is the key-thought of the desert night before Ascension Day—commonly known as Rogation Sunday, so called because from ancient times special prayers and litanies were said or sung for God's blessing upon the fruits of the garden and the field.

St. John suggests that the whole history of the great Human Family is the history of God's revelation of Himself—and particularly in the Person of Him who loved to style Himself "The Son of Man."

But at this time we think especially of God's manifestation of His love and power in nature about us. "He was in the world, and the World was made by Him." The Psalmist expresses the same general truth when he says: "The Heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament sheweth His handiwork."

Creation is one of the Great Books wherein the Lord sees fit to acquaint us with His works and purposes. Not only the Bible, but Plato, says in nature some mediating power between God and His Creation, bringing the world into being, fashioning it in accordance with the Divine Idea or Plan, giving it its laws; abiding in unconscious Matter as an activating potency, dwelling in lower creatures as life and in-dwelling, and in Man as Reason and Conscience. Thus God brought the universe into existence by "His Word"—without whom was not any thing made that was made!

Through this work of His, God speaks to us of Himself. Some people have what we may describe as a "mechanical" view of Creation. Even Paley suggests to our minds the idea of God making the world as a watchmaker makes a watch. The skilled worker perfects the mechanism, winds it up, and then departs leaving it to go by itself. Occasionally, he takes some trouble in regulating and repairing it. So, many believe, the Great Master Craftsman made the world, wound it up and set it going—interfering, however, from time to time in occurrences which we call miracles.

Here we have the view of a far-off God! But how different is the picture of Creation as St. John regarded it. To him, God is "in the world"—the potency of all that is, the Vital Force, not merely "giving" laws, but Himself the Law. Crude materialism refuses to recognize this abiding intimacy of relationship between God and His Creation, it does not perceive this Presence—hence, "the world knew Him not."

I suppose it is possible so to stress the grand Truth of the Transcendence of God, as to overlook the fact of His Immanence—a fact so dear to the devout soul of the Psalmist: "Whither shall I go then from Thy Spirit? or whither from Thy Presence? If I climb up into Heaven, thou art there; if I hide in the 'netherworld,' there Thou art. If I take the wings of the morning, and remain in the uttermost parts of the sea, even there also shall Thy hand lead me, and Thy right hand shall hold me."

I am quite sure that to many a good soldier on guard through the Of the inhabitants of Nevada, 5,395 are Indians, with more than one-half of them living in non-reservation areas.

A REMINDER

(Written by a Canadian boy with the active forces, "Somewhere in England.")

Please remind the people who knew us
Ere we left our country to roam,
That there's nothing that fortune can bring us
As good as a letter from home.
We watch every day for the mail man,
We hope there's a letter today;
If he passes along without pausing
We despondently wander away.
So try and send us a letter,
A word from across the foam,
For there's nothing a soldier so prays for
As much as a letter from home.

FINANCING THE PEACE

Toronto Telegram

The war will leave behind it a legacy of debt which alone will add greatly to the taxes to which Canadians have been accustomed. It would be unwise to encourage the idea that in addition to this load the taxpayer has the ability to carry indefinitely a burden equal to the current cost of the war. In financing the peace it will be necessary to have in mind the permanency of the undertaking. To this the temporary capacity to finance a war bears no relation.

THE JEST JUDICIAL

Brantford Expositor

The recent death of Lord Hewart, of Bury, former Lord Chief Justice of England, inevitably brought to mind some celebrated judicial sayings. The erstwhile newspaperman who became a distinguished advocate, member of Parliament, cabinet minister and judge, was more noted than many of his conferees of the Bench for really wise and witty observations.

In its current issue the magazine Time recalls a couple. Once His Lordship said: "The only impartiality possible to the human mind is that which arises from an understanding of neither side of the case." Is there anyone sage enough or bold enough to challenge that?

Or again, speaking of the attributes necessary to a successful jurist, he said, wryly and dryly: "The secret consists, I fancy, in two things: First, a prolonged and severe training at the Bar; secondly, a full-bottomed wig. . . . The business of a judge is to hold his tongue until the last possible minute and try to be as wise as he is paid to look."

But perhaps the prize example of sardonic humor from the courts is the celebrated summing up by Mr. Justice Maule: "Gentlemen of the jury," said he, with due solemnity, "if you believe the evidence of the plaintiff in this action you will no doubt find for the defendant; if on the other hand you believe the evidence of the defendant you will no doubt find for the plaintiff. But if, like myself, you believe the evidence of neither, God help you all! Gentlemen of the jury, you may consider your verdict."

HARNESSING ENEMIES

Sarnia Canadian Observer
An outstanding development in science is the fact that chemical workers are harnessing for human service a hordes of ancient enemies of mankind. There are the micro-organisms the bacteria and molds which exist in countless varieties and which have been attacking man and his products through the ages.

One result of this research has been the development of penicillin, a new drug a hundred times as powerful as sulfa-mide and less toxic in its after-effects. It is the product of a mold found on citrus fruits. Other molds under investigation are those on bread, fruits, cotton, grain and leather. The intestines of insects may be useful because their digestive apparatus makes chemical changes in a wide variety of vegetable matter. The cockroach, the grasshopper and the termite are potentially important as sources of digestive bacteria which under control, will contribute to the welfare of man.

These invisible micro-organisms have slain more human beings than all the catastrophes and all the wars of history. Science has learned to make them work for man with growing success.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority.

TWO BID PULLS OUT DEFINITE RESPONSES

Board No. 12 in the final session of the Masters individual tournament was the subject of much discussion. What should be West's opening bid? Some very fine players opened the hand at one spade. At several tables, East responded with one no trump, and West then bid four spades.

At one or two tables they passed one spade and let West play it there. Only one or two players opened the bidding at two spades. Personally, I like the two-bid because it brings definite responses. With two aces, the response is four no trump; with a king-queen and a king, or three kings, the response is three no trump; with one ace, that ace is bid.

With a six-card spade suit, West has a right to feel that he will not lose more than two trump tricks. Of course, he could be off the heart (finesse and off two diamond tricks). One pair actually made six spades on the hand, but had bid only one trick.

The opening lead was a heart, right into declarer's ace-queen. Declarer then cashed out the diamonds suit he needed. Next he led a small spade, South played the jack and the ace won. Now declarer led the ten of spades, and North made the mistake of putting on the king, dropping his partner's queen. The opponents made only one trump trick.

IN THE WOMEN'S SPHERE

W.C.T.U. GROUP ENTERTAINED AT SCOTSTOWN

Prizes for Temperance Contest to Be Presented at St. Andrew's Sunday School.

Scotstown, May 29.—The annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was entertained by Mrs. D. J. Graham, at her home on Albert Street, and was conducted by the President, Mrs. R. A. Scott.

The devotional period opened with the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," followed by the Scripture lesson from II Corinthians IX, and inspirational thoughts on the topic, "Sowing Good Seed." Prayer closed the period, which was directed by Mrs. A. G. Sherman.

It was announced that prizes for temperance would be presented in St. Andrew's Sunday School on Temperance Sunday.

The annual reports were presented. The report of the Treasurer, audited by Mrs. A. A. MacKenzie, showed a small balance in the treasury.

The Secretary reported the year opening with an enrollment of fifteen during the year, two members were lost, Mrs. John Scott, of Montreal, by death, and Mrs. D. A. MacIver, by removal. An increase of two members leaves membership at fifteen. Ten meetings were held with an average attendance of eight, the topics for study at these meetings being directed by the various Superintendents. The birthdays of three members were remembered with gifts. Four members attended the Provincial Convention held in Sherbrooke. A Frances Willard memorial meeting was observed and at Easter a gift sent to a sick member.

Mrs. Sherman reported for the Evangelistic and Flower Mission, that a special meeting had been devoted to these topics, with items at intervals and flowers with Scripture texts attached sent to the sick.

Mrs. K. M. Smith reported that Sabbath observance had been dealt with by the clergy.

For soldiers, sailors and airmen, Mrs. A. A. MacKenzie reported that chocolate bars had been sent to those in the Armed Forces Overseas. Three dollars were contributed to the Mobile Canteen Fund, and a quilt made and donated to refugee work.

Mrs. William Taylor reported for Scientific Temperance that a meeting had been given over to this subject, with articles given to other meetings, and temperance lectures given for use in the High School.

In connection with the 14th Temperance Study Course, prizes were presented in the High School and the film "Pay-Off" was shown to the children. Afterwards the film was shown in the Church Hall, and the courtesy of Mr. J. M. Morrison, was shown in the local movie theatre. In the 15th Study Course there were nine junior contestants, all of whom took exceptionally high percentage, the lowest being 89, the others all over 90. Two were county prize-winners, three Provincial, and one National.

An interesting article relevant to Fellowship Lodge, the permanent military home at Petawawa, Ont., was read by Mrs. Graham, and readings on study topics were given by Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. K. M. Smith,

A New Life Begins at the Age of 40

DON'T DESPAIR AT 40!

Don't think your life is over just because you've reached 40! So many women dread that age because they think their youth is over. If they only realized that 40 is the beginning of a new life.

Don't become morose and stay at home—get out doors—play golf, for example. Golf is a game that has no age limit and can make you feel younger as you hit the ball with vigor.

Life can really begin at 40 for the women and men who are prepared for the added joys and responsibilities of middle age.

The days of youth are happy and exciting, but since then you have acquired such wisdom as to look on your youth as past and the future to be the fulfillment of your happiness.

In our 32-page booklet the famous author, Professor Walter B. Pridgen, points the way to activities which lie ahead for those who can make new, vivid life begin at 40.

A New Coiffure Gives Fresh Look To An Old Outfit

(Hair Styled by M. Louis, N. Y.)

BY ALICIA HART

If you're in the temperament that gets a "lift" only from buying something new to wear, why not settle for a new coiffure next time you have the urge to go shopping? "There's nothing that perks up my spirits as much as a new hair-do," admits lovely Linda Page, one of the volunteers who plans the popular "Open House for Officers" parties.

"Working, as we do, seven days a week at the club, I sometimes get awfully tired of wearing what seems to be the same dinner clothes, night after night. A new hair-do, however, gives them an entirely different look."

Miss Page, who had been wearing a pompadour, selected for her new spring hair style the plastic cut Flat Top coiffure, which so many models are beginning to wear.

The hair, shaped so that every section of the head carries its own weight—which means it will stay in curl longer—is parted in the middle, and swept up on the sides in loose waves.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers given below:

2. If a death notice reads "Funeral private," under what circumstances would you be expected to attend?
3. May a man refuse to serve as a pallbearer?
4. Should you write a note of sympathy as well as send flowers if a good friend loses a member of his family?
5. Should you burden a recently bereaved acquaintance with idle chatter?
6. What would you do if—
(a) You want to attend a funeral but you haven't a black dress—
(b) Stay away from the funeral?

2. Only by special invitation of the family in mourning, or if you are such an intimate friend that your presence will be taken for granted.

5. No.
6. Better "What Would You Do?" solution—(a). It is no longer considered necessary for those attending a funeral to wear black.

Johnny Doughboy's Taste Adds American Chapter To Britain's Cookbook

Three of Lord Woolton's "blue ribbon girls" examine the English version of Boston brown bread, made in the British Food Ministry's experimental kitchen.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

British cooks are readily learning to make Yankee cole slaw, chowder, hamburgers, Boston baked beans, shortcake, johnnycake, Boston brown bread and pies that, if not quite as good as mother used to bake, can rate right along with the product of Nick Poppadopolous' Main Street diner.

Britons can thank the culinary isolationism of Johnny Doughboy and his AEF buddies, who cling to their hometown appetites for American dishes. That—plus the skill and zeal of the British Food Ministry's four "blue ribbon girls."

The latter are food czar Lord Woolton's experts on dietetics, cooking and general nutritional questions. The high standard of health maintained throughout the British Isles after more than three years of total war is largely credited to their work in making the nation's wartime fare as palatable and nutritious as supplies have permitted.

Their most recent project, just completed, was adapting recipes for the some of the most popular and simpler American specialties for the guidance of cooks in services and other canteens in centers where American troops are stationed. They did very well, too, despite the handicap of finding substitutes for some ingredients, such as maple syrup, sweet cream, onions, red peppers, fresh eggs and other "fixings" for cakes and pies. Yankee breads, muffins and biscuits have already appeared on British tea-tables when Yanks are being entertained.

Altogether there are some 26 "American" recipes available to British cooks. Explanatory notes point out that American biscuits are in reality small muffins and are served at breakfast, dinner or supper and that the English biscuit is known to Americans as a "cracker." There is some talk about bringing out a booklet of American recipes for use by the general public.

Lord Woolton's "blue ribbon girls" work in experimental and practical kitchens tucked away on the sixth floor of what was once a luxurious apartment house. Here they work out war's complex problems of feeding over 42,000,000 people at home, plus hundreds of thousands of troops overseas, and translating the answers into practical recipes for British housewives.

Their recipes were tested under the same conditions housewives face—an average-sized kitchen, with average stove and cooking utensils. When completed, the recipes were given nation-wide publicity through press and radio as and when various essential foods came under rationing, along with instructions to housewives on how to make

THE ENGINEERS
FORD A RIVER!

ONE OF A SERIES OF 'ACTION PICTURES' WITH CANADA'S MECHANIZED ARMY

PAVING THE WAY for any offensive action, the Engineers are foremost in the field. While enemy planes strafe and dive bomb advanced positions, these skilful beavers in battle dress launch a floating bridge to carry the light advance forces and secure the bridge head. This is quickly followed up by a huskier bridge that will stand up under the rumble of heavy tanks, trucks, artillery tractors and other vehicles of war (see sketch above).

First in, last out in military operations, the Sappers hack roads through thick jungle, locate and dig up hidden mines, make unexploded bombs safe. They dismantle booby traps, erect suspension bridges and provide water supplies to all formations in the field. Most United Nations victories have been made possible because our Engineers have overcome all enemy obstacles—taking hours instead of days to peg out safety lanes through mine fields and make way for the attack.

With modern mobile equipment, the Engineers today take the "impossible" in their stride! When the history of this war is finally recorded, many of the highlights will be provided by the courage and achievements of our gallant Sappers.

More than 40 types of modern military vehicles made by Ford-of-Canada craftsmen include several special units used by Engineers of the United Nations. Illustrated above is the "Derrick"—a powerful, useful vehicle which helps these scientific warriors make miracles look like routine work.

Help the Young People To Health - Happiness

What a common sight to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidences of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anemic nature and require a preparation containing iron to correct the condition.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system and helping to improve the blood content.

Price 50c a box, 65 pills, at all drug counters. Look for our trade mark a "Red Heart" on the package.

YOUNG PEOPLE STAGE COMEDY IN RICHMOND

Y.P.U. of Richmond and Melbourn United Church Delight Large Audience with Mystery-Comedy.

Richmond, May 29.—Enterprising young members of the Young People's Union of the Richmond and Melbourn United Church recently presented a mystery comedy in three acts, "Jumping Jewels," to a large and appreciative audience in the Town Hall.

The plot of this fascinating play is laid in the hotel, "House in the Hollows," owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Scott and their daughter, Lucy. The absorbing interest of the story revolves around three dramatic actions. The first is concerned with an old portrait painted by a distinguished artist, which is eagerly sought by two art dealers, who are anxious to secure possession of it before Mr. and Mrs. Scott becomes aware of its great value. Secondly, the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Griswold's valuable pearls, which keep turning up at the most unexpected times and places throughout the course of the play and thirdly, a confused love affair involving Mr. Griswold's son and daughter with Lucy Scott and Bert Tracy, a visitor at the hotel. The whole episode is opened up by a mysterious comedy, which can and did provide an audience with an evening of genuine entertainment and laughter.

The cast included Errol Taylor as Allan Scott, proprietor of "House in the Hollows"; Gladys Doyle, as his wife; Lois Boast as Lucy; Helen Hills as Fanny; Lucien Perron as Ritchie Griswold; Jean Fee as Diana Kent Robinson as William Griswold; Allan Smith as Burke Stacy; Norma Ross as Miss Parsons; Ivan Robinson as Patrick O'Leary; Royce Taylor, Stanley Castle, Lucy Healy and Linda Rogers.

Miss Claire Irwin acted as prompter; Arnold Beattie and Lloyd Fletcher as curtain and sound effects; Arthur Galbraith, as ticket taker; and R. A. Marcotte provided the stage furniture.

The entire production was directed by Mrs. S. G. Woolfrey, and the measure of success attained was due largely to her untiring efforts. "Jumping Jewels" has since been presented in Kingsbury by the players, so that the enterprise it is expected, will net something over one hundred dollars.

Rhubarb was selling at ten cents a bunch; leaf lettuce, ten cents a bunch; radishes, two bunches for fifteen cents, and green onions at five cents a bunch.

Butchers experienced their first rationing day, as the largest crowd in the history of the mart virtually stormed the stands. Delay was caused because of the coupon plan.

Some of the butchers and farmers reported that pork, beef and veal were not as plentiful as last week. "I could handle three times the amount of beef that I have today," one butcher said.

"Rationing is probably necessary in Canada and I think it is a good thing, but it will certainly give us butchers plenty of headaches for the time being," he added.

"How are we going to cut steaks to the exact ounce? If it is less than a pound, the customer will kick, and if it weighs more than that, we will have to cut off the overage and sell it as stewing beef at a loss. And certainly we will not be able to weigh and bone meat and roll boneless roasts in advance. We will simply have to wait until the customer comes in so that she can see exactly what she is getting and what amount of bone she is paying for."

For those intending to prepare their summer gardens, there were plenty of bedding plants in the floral section outside the market. Sweet alyssum, asters, nasturtiums, verbena, petunias and portulaca were featured, as well as geraniums, double petunias, foliage plants and rose bushes. There also was a good demand for cabbage and tomato plants.

YOUR FEEDING ADVISOR

By LARRY MERRIGAN

Last week I said that I would talk about the raising of young pigs. Since last week I have really been looking into the situation of little pigs. I'm going to need a lot of space to explain all I have seen and heard, so I will put it down as it comes and as I think it should be given.

First of all, let's get back to the sow. The milk from the sow does not contain all the minerals that a little pig needs. The milk, remember, does not contain the necessary minerals. Now, if the milk does not contain the necessary minerals, how in the world can the little pigs live without the much-needed minerals? The answer is very simple. They can't live. That is why today we have a death loss in Quebec of nearly 60 per cent. Ontario has a loss of nearly 40 per cent. The average in the United States is about 40 per cent.

Now, you might say, how can we cut the losses out? There are three known ways today of doing this. First of all you can dig up earth, and let the pigs eat it. It contains the minerals. That is cheap, but it puts you in a spot in winter when the ground is frozen and then it takes labor. You have to clean out the pens and add new earth every day. That takes a lot of work. Today we have no time to do this. The next thing you might do is to take the necessary minerals and put them in the milk or water you give the pigs. Well, this way some pigs do not drink enough to get the effect, while others get too much and that is not so good. So that leaves the last way. There is only one way to do the job and that is by using pigemia. This is the combination of the minerals and mineral oil. You can buy this in a jar, that will give you the services for one sow from farrowing to weaning. I think the cost per pig in the litter would be about five cents. Imagine five cents to save four or five pigs. Sometimes more than that number. This is what we have been looking for. Now we can get this, and it sure is going to get us more pigs to market. This is the combination of minerals and mineral oil is used as follows: Just rub it on the sow, and the little pigs in nursing will get it as they take the milk. You do this every day. It's so simple that it's a wonder to me someone has not thought of it before. You can bet your last bottom dollar that it will do the job.

Now then, we wean the pigs and just as soon as they are able to eat before weaning, feed them a pig starter. Then change to the pig growing mash. Now, most of us thought that feed was the whole thing with pigs, but there again I admit that I, too, was wrong. Feed has its place, but before feed can help to do a real good job on the pig, you have to think in another direction. How can I get my pigs to market in the quickest possible time? How much feed will I have to use? Can I get a feed to do the job that will take less of it to finish off the pig? You might say, well, that's feeding what do you mean look in another direction? Let's get all these straight. We first of all used pigemia to save the pigs from dying. That's not feeding, but still it keeps them alive to feed. Next, what will we do? Well, here is where I stick out my neck. My neck is very valuable to me, so when I stick it out, I do so with the knowledge that what I am going to say can be proven by anyone. Here is what I say: Ninety-five per cent of our pigs have worms. You might doubt it, but if you have a pig or a number of pigs I can prove my point. I'll be glad to prove it to you. I'll be doing something real good for my country in proving it, and you won't have any worms left in your pigs. All this I am saying was proved to me by a man that no one can say is lying. I in turn proved it to my own satisfaction. Here is what I did: I wormed nearly 4,000 pigs in New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario, and out of 97 per cent of them I got worms. Now I did not get one or two worms, but to my surprise I found that the pig giving the least amount of worms was a pig in Quebec. This pig gave up 107 worms. I wormed pigs from 10 weeks old to 16 weeks of age. All I did was to ask the farmer in each case to take his pigs off feed for 12 hours. We then wormed them. The farmer held the pig and I wormed it. Three hours after we put the pig back on its feed. Twenty-four hours after, we picked up the droppings and ran water through them, and picked out all the worms. Then as I placed them in a jar I counted them. Next week in Sherbrooke I am going to worm twenty-five more, and I expect to get a gallon jar full. This is going to be quite an exhibition. I have been asked by farmers in the Sherbrooke area to let them know the day I am doing this little job. As yet I don't know, but when I do I will let them know. Then we will go back the following day and count the worms. I will publish the results. Now here is what I found out with the feed. You all can't use the same feed; every one of you likes some feed or other. That will always be the same. But remember this, you don't have to feed the worms from 20 to 40 per cent of all the pig eats. That's what the worms in your pig will do. No matter what feed or combination of feeds you use, they will do a much better job for you if only you worm the pig. Now you know as well as I do that the best and only best results are obtained from pigs wormed while on an empty stomach. When some one gives you powder to put in the feed how can it be effective when the pig has to eat the feed and the powder. I will say this, and I can prove it, no kind of powder, mixed with feed, will even give you 10 per cent of the worms. Let's get the worm capsules into the pigs. Here is what you do: You save feed for yourself, thereby enabling someone else to feed. You get those hogs to market sooner and in better shape. This alone is money in your pocket and a good meal in

INTERMEDIATE LOOP OPENS HERE TOMORROW

Notre Dame Will Clash With Boissonneault Aggregation

Tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 sharp the official opening of the Intermediate Baseball League will be held at the Park Avenue Stadium. The first league game of the season will be played between the Notre Dame club who were last year's provincial amateur champions and the Chimney Sweepers of Gerard Boissonneault. The Boissonneault outfit is a new entry in the league this year but they are expected to pack a considerable wallop since they have received some reinforcements from the old Windsor Mills club who were finalists for the championship of the Eastern Townships.

The opening will be marked by the hoisting of the Union Jack by Mayor A. C. Ross. He will also pitch the first ball and will be accompanied by the Aldermen of the city. The Mayor will be pitching to Maurice Giguere, M.P., who will act as catcher and Johnny Bourque, M.L.A., will be at bat. Among others who will be taking part in the ceremony will be Director Percy Donahue, Dr. A. N. Dupuis, Gaston Nolet and the directors of the club.

Gerard Boissonneault of the "Sweepers" struck a lucky day when he procured the services of many of the old Papermakers' stars, among whom are Leo Brault, pitcher, Rene Rouillard, shortstop, Marcel Dion, third base, Paul Caron, left field, Roger Lonspre, centre field, Leo Caron, right field. The other members of the team are Eddy Marquis, second base, Lapointe, catcher, Conrad Blais, centre field, Nere Chabot, third base, Gerard Groleau and Paul Guillemette in the field.

Notre Dame will line up the same aggregation that played against the Mount Pleasant Club in the opening exhibition tilt last Sunday. Among the members of the team will be found Bob Roy, pitcher, Philémon Dion, catcher, Edgar Charland, shortstop, Gaston Bergeron, second base, Blanchette first base, Philippon third base, Gaston Fontaine, left field, Yvon Siros, centre field, Hector Asselin, right field, and McWilliam, Blanchette and Beaudette as substitutes.

NAZI-CHASING TRICK LEARNED ON MILE TRACK

Athletics Trainer of Irish Guard Received Pension for Teaching Gen. Sir Harold Alexander Track Tricks.

London, May 29.—(P.)—Shortly before the First Great War an officer approached Harry Andrews, athletics trainer for the Irish Guards, and asked track advice. "I want you to test me out and tell me frankly what I'm good for," he said. Andrews sent the slight officer through the paces, then told him, "I think you have the makings of a good mile runner." The officer took the hint, concentrated on the mile, and won an Irish championship at that distance.

Deeply appreciative, he made Andrews a deed gift of £1 ($4.50) a week for life. The trainer received the sum up to his death recently at the age of 80.

The Irish Guards' officer now is Gen. Harold Alexander, the man who taught the Germans and Italians to run. The story is told in the weekly paper "Cycling."

More than $31,000 poured into the Government coffers from the Football League South Cup final at Wembley where a 75,000 crowd watched Arsenal Gunners trim Charlton Athletic. It came from entertainment tax which amounted to slightly more than one-third of the total gate.

Each club received about $11,250 as its share of the proceeds. A similar sum went to the Football League for a pool which benefits the league's 72 clubs. All clubs contribute to the pool throughout the regular season and each club will get an equal share of about $2,250.

Not all contributions are of the same amount. Clubs drawing small gate pay less into the pool than such clubs as Arsenal, probably the greatest crowd-pleasers in Britain.

To some of the smaller clubs, struggling hard to carry on, the pool is a godsend that keeps their debts down.

W. R. Jarvis, famed Newmarket turfman who trained racehorses for three Kings, left an estate with net personality of approximately $42,000. It was willed to his widow, Jarvis, who died last January, trained for King George V. King Edward VII, and the present King.

Exchange of sports visits between British and Russian workers' teams was forecast by W. W. Wakefield, House of Commons' member and former England rugby captain, at the inaugural meeting of the International Sports Fellowship in London.

"The air will be used for its proper purpose of carrying ambassadors of goodwill," he said. "I don't think the Russians play rugby, but the R.A.F. and army teams might fly there to demonstrate it, and the Russians could come and show us their sports, of which we know little."

For the first time in the history of Sherbrooke the annual interscholastic track meet usually held at Stanstead is being run off on the local Parade Grounds today.

For many years now the meet at Stanstead has always been looked forward to by many of the larger schools in the Eastern Townships, but there was always some speculation as to why the meet was never held in Sherbrooke, and the chief factor seemed to be a lack of the proper management. In former years the Rev. Errol Amaron, Principal of Stanstead College, took charge of the meet and assumed responsibility, while all the various teams that entered had to do was send in their applications. This year the Y's Men's Club decided that it was time that someone else should take over and they formed a committee and offered to do the work. The result in another history-making sports event in this city.

The meet today includes teams and representatives from thirteen schools and the event participants will be the same as those run off in former years. Almost two hundred individual applications were made but officials of the meet cut down the entries to two members from each team in one event. This will give all the teams a more even chance, while it will also help to cover for the teams that will not have entries for some of the events.

Some keen competition is expected in today's meet and it is generally believed that the Stanstead team that has come out on top for several years now will be offered some much stiffer opposition than in the past. More interest has been taken in track and field events and the schools throughout the Eastern Townships have taken the meet seriously this year and done some real stiff practicing.

Among the towns that will be represented at the meet are Lennoxville, Drummondville, Stanstead, Richmond, Windsor Mills, Macos North Hatley, as well as teams from the Sherbrooke High School, Bishop's College School and St. Patrick's Academy.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Toronto, May 29.—(P.)—Somehow we just knew they wouldn't let us get mixed up in professional sports! Helen Nicol, star Edmonton pitcher who signed with the All-American Professional Girls Softball League at Chicago this year, tells in a letter home what's going on in the big time. The girls, says Helen, are being given a big-time baseball treatment, make-up, how to walk properly, etc. How awful! There's no mention of the correct words of apology when a player bumps the catcher while sliding home. We didn't expect the girls would be taught to chew tobacco (it would give the league a big-time baseball touch at that) but imagine being taught make-up and posture at training camp! Helen says the girls wear uniform skirts, blouses and socks with selected shoes. There's no mention of caps. Presumably, with no cap to doff after a smart play is applauded, the girls will curl up to the crowd. Yes, we certainly must see one of those games! Incidentally the rules, at least, are not unlike baseball. Teams have nine players and the pitcher's box is 40 feet from the plate instead of 35 as in the Canadian girls' game. Lead-offs are permitted to base-runners. Yes, it reads like baseball. But that make-up gags! Wow!

Another break-through! Women have stormed still another stronghold of male sport—ten-pin bowling. A year ago a six-team mixed ten-pin league with a few women bowlers was formed in Winnipeg as an experiment. It was a smash hit. After the season ended, fifty women attended a re-organization meeting, decided to expand the league to 12 teams, opening the next season September 22, and added the proviso that if possible the league will be expanded to 16 teams.

Th last of Canada's major golf tournaments has vanished for duration, with announcement the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association has cancelled its annual championship and senior's tournament. The Canadian Amateur and Canadian Open events had previously been cancelled.

William Lang, and family. Mrs. Messers. Parland Cunningham and Frank Healy, of Waterloo, were guests at the same home.

Mr. Percy Taylor and Mr. Edward Clarke, of Montreal, spent a week-end in town.

Miles Enright has rented the shop formerly operated as the harness shop from J. P. McMahon which has been newly repaired and painted for the National Canadian Bank. Mr. Enright opened up for business on May 25th.

Mr. Miles Enright has sold his farm and is taking up residence in one of the Fred Carrier tenements. Mrs. J. P. McMahon was in Cowansville and called on her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lavery.

Mrs. Benham and Miss Doherty were in Cowansville and called on Mrs. Walter Stranger and family.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Boucher entertained friends over a week-end and holiday.

Much sympathy is extended to the Enright family in their bereavement by the passing of Mrs. Michael Enright, who was buried from the Parish Church. Rev. Father Paulhus celebrated the Grand High Mass assisted by Deacon and Sub-Deacon. The burial was in the family lot. Mrs. Enright had been confined to her bed since February and bore her illness with much patience.

Michael Enright is very ill at his home here and has a trained nurse in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Enright, of Sherbrooke, were here to attend the funeral of Mrs. Michael Enright.

Mrs. Benham and Miss Doherty were in Iron Hill calling on friends. Mr. Arthur Stone and son, Samuel Stone, were guests in Cowansville.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Buck, of Granby, were week-end guests of the Stone family.

Miss Julia Dunn, of Montreal, was at home for the week-end and holiday as guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dunn and family.

Mr. William Lang and son, Peter, the Misses Lang and Miss MacMillan spent a day at their cottage in Brompton.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jolly, Phyllis and Dexter spent a holiday at the Wright Cottage on Brom Lake.

Mrs. Crowell, of Sutton, two sons and two daughters, were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sweet.

Mrs. Newton, of Montreal, was a guest of her daughter, Mrs. L. R. Young, and family for a few days.

COWANSVILLE TAKES HONORS IN TRACK MEET

Cowansville, May 29.—Eight new records were made at the annual track and field day held between Farnham and Cowansville. Seven of these records were broken in the girls' field and one in the boys' division.

In the girls' branch Anita Racicot, of Farnham, knocked 8 seconds off the fifty yard dash for girls under one hundred pounds while at the same time she did the 75-yard dash in ten seconds flat, an improvement of 1.8 seconds over the old record.

Bed-Ridden Pro Witnesses Destruction Of Club House

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

London, May 19.—(P.)—While Henry Cotton watched, helpless in his sick bed, fire destroyed the Ashbridge Golf Club where the former British Open champion is professional. It was the fifth fire in the village district within a week and police and Home Guard redoubled efforts to trace suspected arsonists.

Invalided recently from the Royal Air Force, Cotton lives in a house only 400 yards from the $54,000 clubhouse. He said the blaze started in the thatched roof and that the fire brigade ran short of water and were able to save only one wing. No one was injured.

Sam Dorman, Cotton's assistant who was a professional in Poland before the war, lost all his possessions. "He lost everything in Poland and now he has had the same bad luck again," Cotton said.

Several members lost clubs and balls and Cotton three sets of clubs, including ones with which he played important matches. "All the stock in the shop was burned," Cotton said. "How we are going to replace the stuff I don't know. The balls are the most difficult problem." (New golf balls are a rarity in Britain these days.)

George Henry Stratton, 79, who taught the King in the fine arts of croquet, died at Heatham, Norfolk. He was riding master to King George V and spent more than 50 years in the service of the Royal Family at Sandringham.

War damage from enemy action at Kennington Oval, home of the Surrey County Cricket Club, was estimated to be at least $45,000, exclusive of decorations and other repairs necessary to prepare the ground for the game. The disclosure came at the annual meeting when Capt. F. R. Brown, a Test cricketer now prisoner of war in Italy, was elected a member of the committee.

Rugby followers got a lift when it was announced that Lieut. Wilfred Wooller, Welsh rugby international missing 14 months following the fall of Java, is a prisoner of war in Japan.

Revelation came in a message broadcast by Wooller from Tokyo and picked up in New Zealand. It was relayed to his wife, Lady Gillian Wooller, daughter of the Earl of Plymouth, at St. Fagan's Castle, near Cardiff.

First "capped" when he was 17, Wooller played 18 times for Wales.

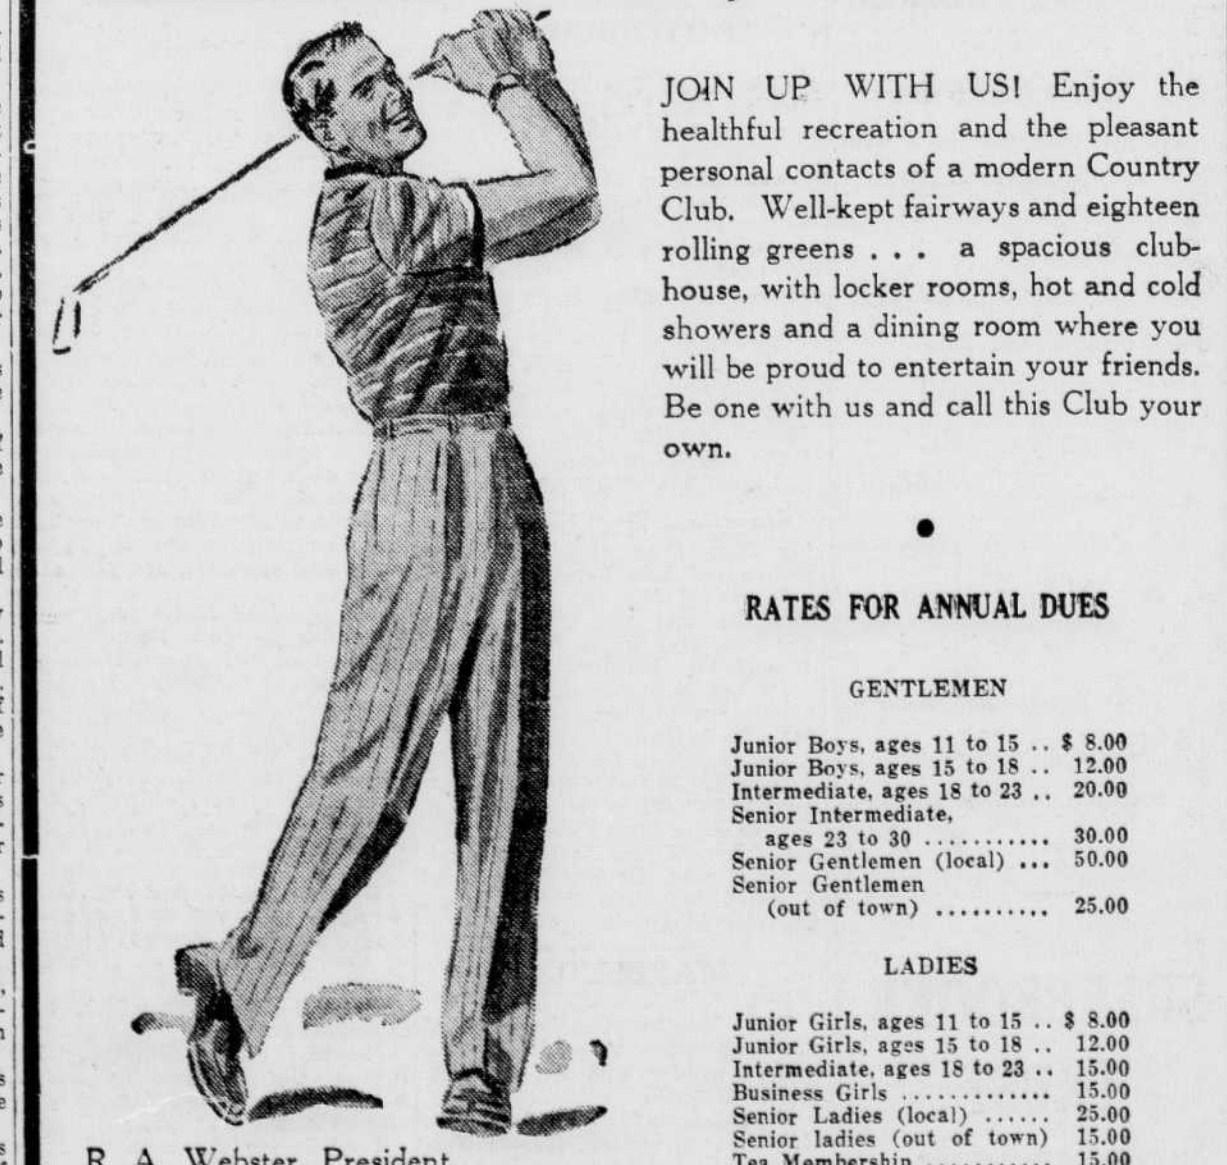

P. O. John Cheley of Ottawa and Toronto, former Ottawa junior tennis champion and one-time Canadian runner-up, is a Beaufort pilot these days. One of the most promising Dominion players of his time, John was long in looking around for a suitable court after arriving in England.
