PRICE 3 CENTS

Fiftieth Year

World News In Brief

Ottawa, June 27.—(C.P.)—The Prices Board was understood today to be reviewing a wide variety of "unimportant" items in the field of price control with a view to removing price ceilings on commodities considered to be in good enough supply to withstand the development of inflationary tendencies.

It was believed to be concentrating at the moment on a group of novelty and sundry items which were in the non-essential category and could be made control-free without and danger to the general price level.

Rio de Janeiro, June 27.—(P)—Fears are widespread in Brazil that this country may lose a large part of its foreign market for cotton textiles as a result of the government's present six-month ban on exports of cotton textiles.

Some exporters already are opposing the ban informally. The government banned textile exports from March to June to fill pressing needs in the domestic market, then extended the ban from June until September.

Meanwhile, trade sources reported the signing of agreements between Argentina, Brazil's largest textile market—and cotton producing countries of Europe. If Brazil loses its Argentine market, these sources claim, its export trade may never be regained.

Hamilton, Ont., June 27.—(C.P.)—Hamilton today was scrubbing and polishing in preparation for welcoming an estimated 100,000 visitors for the Hamilton centennial celebrations and Old Home Week, from July 1 to July 7.

On Monday, Dominion Day, Governor-General Viscount Alexander will cut the tape to start a five and a quarter mile parade of floats and marchers, and from there on there will be something doing every day until the last celebrant has wended his way home next Sunday.

Brig. W. Denis Whittaker, D.S.O., hero of Dieppe and former overseas commander of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, said today that the week is going to be something to remember. "Anyone who thinks the Ambitious City is a quiet town will be pleased to know that the city will be wide open with activities continuing from daybreak until early the following morning," he said.

Toronto, June 27.—(C.P.)—Picketing of ten Ontario rubber plants, in the three-day old strike of more than 11,000 rubber workers was peaceful yesterday and there was no indication of any major change in the situation.

Only three of the rubber company plants in the province were unaffected by the strike, called Monday by the United Rubber Workers of America (C.I.O.), in an attempt to gain for rubber workers a 40-hour week and a general wage increase of 20 cents.

Walkouts occurred in the following plants: Gutta Percha, Sieberling, Goodyear and Baringham plants in the Toronto area; three Dominion Rubber plants and the B. F. Goodrich plant in Kitchener; the Goodyear plant in Bowmanville, and the Firestone plant in Hamilton.

Mr. Isley will read the speech in a crowded House of Commons and is scheduled to begin shortly after 8 p.m., E.D.T. He will start with a review of fiscal activities, disclosing expected revenues and expenditures for the current fiscal year. Then will come the announcement on where the revenues are to be derived. This portion will disclose what tax changes are to be made.

And Canadians, given a 16 per cent reduction in personal income tax last year, are looking for even greater relief this year not only in the income but in other tax fields. Some observers say that the exemptions, which now stand at $660 for single persons and $1,200 for married persons, will be increased to $850 and 1,500. Others more optimistic, say the exemptions will be boosted to $1,000 and $2,000, respectively. Still others say there will be only a reduction in the tax rate as there was last year.

Observers feel this income tax relief may be offset by a new social security tax, revenue from which will be used to implement health and welfare programs. It is said such a tax might be imposed at a rate of four or five per cent on all salaries ranging from $600 to $3,000. Persons with higher salaries would pay a flat rate of 850 or $600 annually.

As far as the business field is concerned, some observers expect the excess profits tax will be discontinued at the end of the calendar year, as is being done in the United Kingdom. The guess is that corporation taxes will be cut from 40 per cent to 30 per cent.

Foreign Ministers Deadlocked Over Soviet Proposals

Spanish Issue Remains On Security Council's Agenda

New York, June 27.—(P)—Delegates to the United Nations Security Council were agreed today, after a confused and acrimonious debate, that the Spanish issue remains on the agenda and that the veto has become an over-powering weapon in their deliberations.

Russia's delegate Andrei A. Gromyko demonstrated that any question brought before the council can be knocked out by the single vote of one of the "Big Five" permanent members. He wielded the veto three times last night on Anglo-American proposals concerning the Spanish question.

After the council's longest and bitterest session adjourned last night at 9 p.m., E.D.T., Australian Foreign Minister Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, who served as chairman of the council sub-committee which investigated Spain, summed up the situation produced out of the confusion saying:

1. The Spanish issue, by unrecorded agreement, remains unsettled before the council for revival at the command of any member at any time, and

2. The council remains committed to "moral condemnation" of the Franco regime.

Dr. Evatt challenged the validity of the method by which the veto was exercised in an unprecedented fashion by Mr. Gromyko and said the debate lasting five hours and 49 minutes constituted a "scandal."

British Delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan, in a United Nations "Charter Day" speech broadcast to the Empire last night, criticized the veto power and said it would force the U.N. into an "all or nothing policy."

Throughout the protracted argument, in which Mr. Gromyko raised the question of parliamentary courtesy in a clash with Council President Francisco Castillo Najera, of Mexico, the details of the council sub-committee which investigated Spain, summed up the situation produced out of the confusion saying:

Remain Trieste; Rejected

Russia suggests Trieste be made autonomous district under Yugoslav sovereignty or be placed under Italy and Yugoslavia.

Paris, June 27.—(P)—The western allies rejected last night two Russian counter proposals for the disposition of disputed Trieste, leaving the Foreign Ministers Council still deadlocked today on the most difficult phase of the Italian peace treaty.

The Russian suggestions, offered by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov as a compromise following his rejection of a French plan to internationalize the Adriatic port, proposed that Trieste be made an autonomous district under Yugoslav sovereignty, or that the city be placed under the joint sovereignty of Italy and Yugoslavia.

Both plans were turned down by British, American and French Foreign Ministers on the grounds that they were unworkable, that they ignored the fact that Trieste is ethnologically Italian and that the ethnic principle was accepted as a yardstick by the ministers in London last September.

While the outcome apparently left the council as far from agreement as ever, some British circles indicated they were heartened by Mr. Molotov's manoeuvre, which they interpreted as a sign of Russia's willingness to bargain. These quarters predicted that two or three days more of private conversations might bring agreement.

Mr. Molotov first proposed that Trieste be made an autonomous district under Yugoslav sovereignty but administered under a status approved by the Four Big powers. The autonomous district would have a House of Representatives elected by universal suffrage and a governor appointed by the Yugoslavs.

As an alternative, Mr. Molotov suggested that Trieste be made an autonomous district under the joint sovereignty of Yugoslavia and Italy, with a House of Representatives and two governors, one of whom would be an Italian and the other a Yugoslav.

State Secretary Byrnes said the first Russian plan would not work because the population of Trieste was predominantly Italian and that a second would be equally unworkable because it would leave a feeling of uncertainty in the district as to who actually was in charge.

British Foreign Secretary Bevin and Georges Bidault, French Minister supported Mr. Byrnes.

Chilean President Dies In Santiago

Santiago, Chile, June 27.—(P)—Juan Antonio Rios, 58, President of Chile since 1942, died here today after a prolonged illness.

Rios had been on leave of absence since last January because of ill health.

Ottawa, June 27.—(P)—The Cymon committee, pending Finance Minister Isley's budget speech tonight, will spend its time today on Government bills and estimates and debate probably will follow on a quiet trend as yesterday when veterans legislation was advanced.

A bill reducing from five to 3½ per cent the interest charged veterans on the First Great War on the money they still owe on farm purchased under the Old Soldiers Settlement Act was given first reading.

Given third reading was a bill putting into statutory form government authority to participate in the administration and training of R.C.A.F. cadet corps.

The first of the bills brought renewed appeals from the opposition that clear titles be granted to the Old Soldier settlers for their still unpaid for farms. Government officials have opposed the suggestion on the grounds that such a move would have a bad effect on soldiers settling under the Veterans Land Act.

Among those participating in the debate were Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (P.-C.—Nanaimo); Maj. Leslie Mutch (L.—Winnipeg South); and Capt. Walter Tucker, Parliamentary assistant to Veterans Minister Mackenzie.

Nine Die In Bus Crash

The charred and crumpled wreckage of a chartered bus which had been carrying the Spokane, Wash., baseball team, lies at the bottom of a 500-foot cliff near Seattle. The bus left the highway in the treacherous Snoqualmie Pass and rolled off the cliff. Nine of its 16 occupants were killed. Body of one of the dead still lies near the bus, right foreground.

Bitter Exchanges As Three Candidates Are Nominated For Compton Seat Battle

Cookshire, June 27.—The fight is on and no holds are barred in the Compton County by-election to fill the Provincial Legislature seat left vacant by the death some weeks ago of the Liberal incumbent, William J. Duffy. Yesterday three candidates were placed in the running officially at the nominations held here — Charles Daniel French, of Cookshire, carrying the National Union flag; Wayner Stanley Labaree, of Bulwer, for the Liberals; and Aurelien Quintin, of Cookshire, for the Bloc Populaire.

The official nominations were followed by the traditional contradictory meeting which still features the political campaigns of rural Quebec, each candidate and his supporters presenting their views to the several hundred people assembled at the Town square. No punches were pulled and for the most part the outpourings generated more in the way of heat than light, with personalities often replacing reason as the basis for the appeals to public opinion.

In essence the National Union spokesmen argued that Compton County was the testing ground of public opinion on the question of centralization of government authority. A return of the Government candidate, they claimed, would be a sign to the people of Canada that the population of Quebec was behind Premier Duplessis in his fight for the retention of the autonomy and rights of the Province.

Replying to Government arguments that the Liberal campaign was being conducted largely by Federal Members of Parliament with little participation by Provincial party chiefs, the official Opposition stated that if this was the case, it was because Premier Duplessis had chosen to wage the war on federal issues and it was logical that their charges be answered by the men most capable of dealing with them—the federal members.

The chief claim advanced by the Bloc Populaire was that a county in which seventy-one per cent of the population was French-Canadian and Roman Catholic could only be justly represented by a man of this faith and tongue.

The National Union and Liberal candidates opened proceedings with reasoned, if brief, exposes of their position. Mr. French presenting his views of the benefits derived from the present administration while Mr. Labaree declared that in the field of agriculture the Liberals had a long term, permanent program as contrasted with the stop-gap measures introduced by the National Union.

The broadside started when Aurelien Quintin rose to speak. The Bloc, he said, had a definite economic program—the extension of family allowances, workmen's housing, agricultural reform, better distribution of production and tax reduction, not for "foreigners" but for "Canadians"—but the real reason for his running was the belief that the majority of the population had the right to select a man of their own language and faith. The English had been given plenty of privileges in the Province of Quebec and should take no objection to the French-Canadians being given Compton County.

After referring to the shot-gun marriage between the Social Credit and the Bloc which had removed one candidate, Hon. Jonathan Robinson, Minister of Mines, declared the fight was between the two major parties. There could be no hesitation in their minds, he claimed, as in voting for the Government candidate they were endorsing a Premier who was a square shooter, an honest man, with a fair thinking mind, always ready to do justice to the minorities and who was willing to co-operate with anyone and any province and with any administration at Ottawa who was willing to respect the rights of the Province.

Turning from the autonomy issue to Provincial affairs, he claimed that the only thing the God-bout Government had done from 1939 to 1944 was to confiscate the Montreal Light, Heat and Power. The National Union was seeking a clear-cut solution for the educational problem which for the past thirty years has been dealt with in a hit or miss manner. They were seeking a business like solution, outside politics, because it was believed that education and public health were too vital to be brought within the realm of politics.

Seek Car Which Crowded Autobus

Seattle, June 27.—(P)—A ninth member of the Spokane baseball team died last night of injuries suffered in Monday night's crash of a specially chartered bus, while six teams of the Western International League were resuming the schedule which had been suspended a night because of the tragedy.

Christian Hartje, 30-year-old catcher from San Francisco died in hospital after a series of plasma transfusions for two days and nights. He was severely burned in the flaming bus.

Meanwhile, the state patrol sought an automobile which survivors said forced the bus through the mountainside guard rail on Snoqualmie Pass highway.

Hartje, former Brooklyn catcher, was sent by the club to the Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League in 1940. He played with the Royals until 1942, when he was traded to Syracuse Chiefs of the same circuit.

Resumption Seen Of Silk Express

Shanghai, June 27.—(Reuters)—Non-stop, closely-guarded silk expresses may soon be racing again from Vancouver to eastern markets.

Restoration of the lucrative Chinese silk trade is under way, directed by a new Chinese government corporation with multi-million dollar capital as a major phase of the country's post-war recovery program.

Inquiries and orders for silk, one of China's major exports in 1937, are pouring in from many countries but shipments are only 1-10th the old volume. The China Silk Corporation has been given a three-year mandate to build up the industry before defeated Japan, and the main silk-producing competitor, can get back on its feet.

Rationing Of Bread In U.K. Goes Into Effect On July 21

London, June 27.—(P)—The government announced today that bread rationing in Britain will begin July 21.

London, June 27.—(Reuters)—The Press Association said today that the British Cabinet had decided on bread rationing for Britain.

The rationing, to start July 21, is expected to be announced in the House of Commons today by Food Minister John Strachey, the Press Association reported.

New ration books come into effect July 21 and pages of these books not previously allocated to commodities rationed during the last five years will be used for bread.

Britain has never had bread rationing, although meat, fats, milk, eggs and other essentials have been rationed since 1940. It is believed unofficially that the basic bread ration will be 10 ounces a day, with extra allowances for growing children, expectant mothers and workers in heavy industry.

Capital Plans Large Outlay Survey Shows

Reconstruction Minister Estimates Private Investment Will Total One Billion This Year.

Ottawa, June 27.—(P)—Private investment in expansion projects this year will total $1,000,000,000—20 per cent more than in 1945—Reconstruction Minister Howe estimated today.

The Minister, reporting on a survey, said private industry had plans which would provide for a total investment of $1,200,000,000 but material and labor shortages probably would limit to $1,000,000,000 the work which could be undertaken.

The survey was made jointly by the Reconstruction Department and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. It gave this breakdown of private investment on new construction, major improvements and new machinery and equipment: manufacturing, $400,000,000; mining, $25,000,000; wood operations, $1,000,000; central electric stations, $75,000,000; telephones, $50,000,000; transportation—steam and electric railways, air, water and motor transport—$140,000,000.

Total for that group was $700,000,000. In addition independent estimates indicated another $500,000,000 would be spent on residential, institutional, commercial and agricultural expansion.

The departmental summary said although a number of industrial bottlenecks had been overcome, manpower and material shortages, particularly coal, steel and building materials, still held back a full realization of plans. Taking these factors into consideration the total of the estimate was put at $1,000,000,000.

"This increase (over 1945) will compensate in part for the decline in public investment which has followed the conclusion of the war," the department's statement said. "If investment plans involving comparatively large private expenditures can be realized, a high level of employment and income for the remainder of the year is indicated."

Grave Diggers Testify to Witnessing Mass Execution of Children in Concentration Camp Near Belgrade.

Belgrade, June 27.—(P)—Two Belgrade grave diggers, appearing as prosecution witnesses at the trial of Gen. Draja Mihailovic, testified today that during two and a half years of the German occupation they witnessed the execution and burial of almost 20,000 Yugoslav citizens.

One of the witnesses, Bozidar Milutinovic, told the court he saw 6,000 or 7,000 people—including a number of small children—shot to death at the Yaintzi concentration camp near Belgrade.

His brother, Valdimir, testified that he personally had handled 7,000 to 8,000 corpses and estimated that he had seen 12,000 or more removed from the gas chambers.

War Brides Leave On Ile De France

Boston, June 27.—(P)—About 40 British and French war wives, their romantic marriages to Canadian and Newfoundland soldiers shattered were homeward bound on the Ile de France today.

The wives, several of whom had babies, arrived here Tuesday from Halifax. They said the arduous life in the Canadian woods and in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland was the cause of the broken marriages.

"We didn't know what we were getting into," one wife said. "We'd never get use to that kind of life. We just had to call it quits and go back home."

Nearly all the wives took advantage of a ruling allowing them to take from this country $50 worth of foodstuff and $25 worth of fabrics.

Bitter Exchanges

Jean Drapeau, striking out for the Bloc, argued that the National Union had sought to impose an Anglo-Protestant upon the French-Canadians of the county, a man who did not understand their mentality, language or religion. Attacking both candidates, he asked why the French Canadians should be called upon to vote for party machines.

The real bitterness entered the dispute after Lt.-Col. Jean Paul Sauve had concluded his address in support of Mr. French in which he reviewed the policies and program of the National Union. An individual named L. P. Girard, fighting the Bloc cause, chided Col. Sauve because his father, Arthur Sauve, former Provincial Conservative leader, had accepted a Senatorship from Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, who after making his millions in Canada had "gone home" to England. Furthermore, he declared that the only reason that Col. Sauve had joined the army was to seek promotion and plaudits.

Col. Sauve, who had the rebuttal period for the Government, proceeded to deal with the Bloc speakers. Their first trouble, he said, was that when they fired, they fired at friend and foe indiscriminately. His father, he continued, had served for twenty-seven long years in the public life of his province and his country. If Mr. Drapeau were to establish such a record, "I would be the first to congratulate him for receiving a senatorship, even if it were bestowed by the devil." As for his personal record, the member for Two Mountains denied that he had gone overseas to seek promotion, but rather to share the task of his fellow Canadians, English and French, in preserving the rights and privileges enjoyed in this country. However Mr. Girard would not understand this, having been raised in another atmosphere where he had earned the title of a professional strike-maker, the latter comment being an obvious reference to the fact that Mr. Girard had charged Mr. Duplessis with sending 100 provincial policemen to Valleyfield.

Other speakers included John Ahern, K.C. of Montreal, and C. L. Lussier for the Liberals. East Angus, June 27.—The general policies of the Duplessis regime came in for bitter attack as supporters of Wayman S. Labere, Liberal candidate in the Compton county by-election, addressed a rally of East Angus citizens at the municipal park. The chief critic of the province's Government was Wilfrid Hamel, former Minister of Lands and Forests in the Godbout Government, who declared that the way to preserve real autonomy was to the Provincial Government to have a sound financial policy so that it could meet its obligations without having to "kneel down before outsiders to borrow money as the National Union has been forced to do in its first and second administrations."

He also criticized the school law as enabling solvent school corporations to declare themselves bankrupt and thus escape their sacred obligations. The Premier was also attacked for opposing the redistribution measure.

The Ungava development plan was attacked as handing over the resources of the province to outsiders for a revenue that would not even pay the cost of maintaining law and order, while the stand of the Premier in the Valleyfield strike was also under attack.

Other speakers were Georges Dansereau, Minister of Public Works in the Godbout Government; Maurice Gingues, M.P. for Sherbrooke; Charles Lussier, Bloc candidate in St. Hyacinthe in the 1944 elections; L. J. Cliche, K.C., of Lake Megantic, and the candidate.

DINNER SERVED FOR BOYS AND FATHERS HERE

Annual father and son banquet of St. Paul's Men's Club was held in the Church Hall under the chairmanship of E. Hallett, vice-president of the club.

Special guests included Prof. G. Whalley, of Bishop's University, who was the guest speaker for the evening, the Wolf Cubs of St. Paul's, Mrs. J. Comfort, Mrs. P. Robinson and Mrs. C. Taylor. Grace was said by the Rev. J. Comfort, after which the members and guests sat down to supper served for them by the Ladies' Guild under Mrs. A. Peck's supervision. After supper Mr. R. Smith led all in a short sing song with Mrs. C. Taylor as pianist.

E. Bryant was called on to welcome the Cubs and gave the boys a short talk. B. Thorne introduced the speaker, Prof. G. Whalley, who gave an interesting talk on life aboard a destroyer. Having spent time on one during the war, he was able to explain to all the life of the Navy. He also spoke of his experience at the Scout Jamboree in Holland shortly before the last war, explaining to the boys that it was the last jamboree presided over by the Chief Scout, Lord Baden-Powell. He also mentioned that it was a nice gesture of the Men's Club to take over the Cubs, as Cubs and Scouting were worthwhile and very much needed in the world today.

LACK OF FEED HITS POULTRY, WOMEN TOLD

St. Anne de Bellevue, Que. June 27.—(C)—With the possibility that the volume of feed available for poultry will not meet this summer's needs, it is necessary that best possible use be made of existing stocks to ensure a continued supply of eggs. Professor W. A. Maw, associate professor of poultry and husbandry at Macdonald College here, said in an address to yesterday's session of the 32nd annual convention of the Quebec Women's Institutes being held here.

Present production of summer eggs must be maintained to meet requirements for export to Great Britain, and to grow young stock to produce the maximum volume and quantity of eating stock. Professor Maw expressed the opinion that the grade of meat produced is more dependent on feeding than the breed of stock raised. Poultry feeding must be planned this summer "in a manner that will make the greatest use of present supplies."

Other speakers included Mrs. Charles Gosselin, president of the 20th Federation of the Cercle des Femmes, Mrs. Herbert Neale, vice-president of Franklin County Home Bureau, and Mrs. Roswell Thompson, Abbotsford, Que., second vice-president of the W.A.I., presided at the afternoon session. The convention opened yesterday with the meeting of representatives of 94 branches in 19 counties in the province.

Mrs. Cameron E. Dow, Port Daniel Centre, Que., past president of the Q.W.I., replied to the speech of welcome given by W. H. Britain, vice-principal of the college and dean of the Faculty of Agriculture, who praised the Institute for its interest in problems of the community, nation and world affairs.

Mrs. Dow said "no other organization was so charged with the opportunity of doing good." Farm forums, citizens forums, and central school boards and all benefited by the interest of the Institutes which "are prepared to meet the challenge of present times."

Clothing Sent Overseas From Canada Arrived In Good State

Of all the clothing that was sent from every man, woman and child in Canada. To obtain this amount will mean that those who have a lot of clothing, bedding, shoes, felt hats, overcoats, coats and in rags when the invaders were driven out of their country, that which was sent from Canada arrived in the best condition. Canadians last October contributed 12,268,000 pounds of serviceable clothing in answer to the first appeal by the Canadian Allied Relief. Less than half of one per cent of the total, including unmatched shoes, was not useable. Reports received from France and from other countries, all indicate that the Canadian organization, which collected, packaged and baled the gifts of their fellow citizens, did a splendid job.

Today they are answering the call to once more give their services, in response to a request from the Federal Government that there should be a second appeal to every family in the Dominion to give of their spare stock of clothing, bedding or shoes, in order to help relieve the misery and suffering that exists today in Europe.

Justice Godart, president of the French Mutual Aid (L'Entraide Francaise) in an interview with Raymond Grenier of L'Agence France-Presse, said recently that the French population "is profoundly grateful for the help they have received from Canada," and went on to add, "it is a question of gratitude in the ordinary sense of the word but a unique feeling of friendship and fraternity."

Mr. Godart mentioned that the women of Saint Ouen, a suburb of Paris, "still speak of Madame Vanier with tears in their eyes—she was so gracious and understanding," referring to a distribution of Canadian clothing organized by the French Mutual Aid in which the Canadian Ambassador and Madame Vanier participated.

"It is feared that next winter may be just as severe as the last," stated Mr. Godart, "and even then our rehabilitation will not begin to meet the needs and each year presently-worn clothing is wearing out."

Overcoats, coats, suits, pyjamas, dresses, and women's and children's clothing of all kinds are the things that the collectors of the National Clothing Drive will hope to get from the citizens of Canada during the two weeks from June 17 to June 29. The objective of this second drive is equal to an average of at least one article of good used clothing.

THE BUDGET DUE TONIGHT

In many respects tonight might be considered one of the most important periods of the year for the Canadian people as Finance Minister Ilsley has announced that he will submit his long-awaited budget to the House of Commons at eight o'clock. At one time the direct effects of the budget were largely confined to a comparatively small group although the changes in customs tariffs might have widespread repercussions on the general industrial structure of the nation. Now with direct taxation—income taxes, sales taxes, special excise levies on a wide list of commodities, and variegated nuisance taxes—replacing customs duties as the chief source of national revenue, there is hardly a wage-earner, farmer or businessman in the Dominion who will not benefit or suffer personally and promptly from any change in the tax structure.

Predictions have been numerous that there will be a substantial reduction in the personal income tax, but this will not happen if sound business or bookkeeping principles are to apply. In reality, hard-boiled accountants could find plenty of cause for an increase rather than a decrease in the tax burden because of the huge commitments made by the government, largely of a pre-election nature.

But government is a human proposition and must take account of human reactions, human needs and prejudices, plus other things that make democracy tick. This is the basis for the prevailing belief that some tax relief may be granted even if the Finance Minister and his advisers are certain that the move is contrary to the principle of sound economics.

Whatever he may suggest in his budget speech tonight, Mr. Ilsley should leave one thought in the minds of the taxpayers. Do they really desire permanent and sound taxation relief through the logical principles of government economy? Or do they wish to continue along the path of steadily-expanding social security, which will result in either increased taxation or ultimate national financial bankruptcy? In other words, do they wish to spend their money in their own way or have it taken from them to be spent by the government in a manner in which they might not approve?

ABSENTEEISM IN THE COMMONS

If the manner in which the members of the House of Commons increased their own indemnities at the last session of Parliament produced public indignation, the startling increase in absenteeism among these same members at parliamentary sittings is bound to aggravate this feeling. Despite the fact that some of the most important legislation to be debated in recent years is now before the House of Commons—ranging from the proposals to amend the constitution to the prices and wage control measures—the total number of votes cast upon divisions have ranged as low as ninety-three in a House membership of 245. In other divisions, the total votes cast were 129, 150, 155 and 154, or slightly in excess of half the membership. On occasions, important announcements have been made with less than forty members in the House.

Certainly the members of the Commons will be hard pressed to explain this large-scale absenteeism. Certainly any business organization which paid its employees fixed salaries equivalent to the indemnities granted to Members of Parliament would expect something decidedly better in attendance than is apparent at Ottawa. The absence of Cabinet Ministers from the House can be understood as the pressure of Government business often prevents them from occupying their assigned seats. And recognition of this fact is apparent in the practice of naming Parliamentary Assistants to vital Ministers, the duties of these appointees including that of acting as spokesmen for the department heads when they are unavoidably absent.

It would appear that the individual member should be able to attend the greater part of the sessions.

BRITONS LACKING IN FOOD

Recent events in the Old Country have lent definite proof to the belief that while it may be an exaggeration to say that the people of Great Britain are starving, there can be no arguing that they do not get enough to eat, and that they have not been doing so for the past five years. Considerable press discussion has occurred about the statement that four thousand persons fainted during the recent Victory Celebration in London. To some this is a sign that Britons have lost their stamina. And this is probably the case, because after all, good feeding is essential to the maintenance of stamina.

The Minneapolis Daily Journal has given the most cogent review of the situation with the following declaration—which might be taken to heart by Canadians as well:

"The British really went hungry to help win the war—which is more than one in a million Americans can say—and they're living on less today than they did even in wartime. They're doing it to provide for starving Europe some of the food that can't be got there from the United States—because we can't spare it from our own bounteous tables, or can't deliver it because of strikes, or the administration won't ration it because it might take 'too long' (i.e., prove politically unpopular).

"Yes, 4,000 Britons fainted at their Victory Celebration... Want to make something of it?"

Canada is admittedly making an important contribution to relieving the world-wide food shortage. Technically meat has been rationed. The amount of flour milled for domestic bread making has been cut ten per cent. The grain available to brewers and distillers has been cut down. But no one can truthfully say that Canadians are going hungry or even feeling any food shortage—with the possible exception of butter where production is failing to keep pace with ordinary domestic demands.

WASHINGTON NEWS NOTEBOOK

Dr. John R. Steelman, newly designated to succeed John Snyder as director of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, admits that all he knows about the job is that it's one of the toughest in the government. But he says he's going to do it the best he can, and he can be counted upon to put into it the tremendous drive for which he is noted.

Asked why he took the job, Steelman said, "Well, I guess I just don't know how to say 'No' to the boss."

The audit of the 33 government corporations, as required by a law passed last year, has paid for itself already. One of the first audits to be completed by the General Accounting Office for Controller General, Lindsay C. Warren covered Federal Prison Industries, Inc. It showed a cash balance of $11,000,000. It has been recommended that the entire sum be turned back into the U. S. Treasury.

Federal Prison Industries is a little-known government agency. It employs 3,600 inmates of 20 U. S. prisons. The prisoners are paid a nominal wage, and they receive vocational training. The corporation sells its products mostly to the U. S. government, on a basis not competitive with private industry.

During the war its business boomed, and it produced a $2,000,000 profit last year. This income is the only return which the government gets on the cost of maintaining its prison system. This year that cost was $16,000,000.

LAGUARDIA IS EXPECTED TO LEAVE UNRRA SOON

Fiorello LaGuardia is expected to resign from the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration after the August meeting of the UNRRA Council in Paris. This will probably be the last big meeting for the relief organization heads, since the organization is scheduled to wind up operations by December 31 in all countries except China. After that, world relief problems will have to be handled by the United Nations, if they're handed at all.

Pressure to have the U. S. ration bread is still terrific. It comes not only from the many private charity organizations now functioning to aid relief in India, China, Germany, and liberated Europe. High-ups in the State Department also back the idea, believing the U. S.'s standing abroad will suffer unless this country applies rationing as a means of sharing its surplus with less fortunate nations.

But there is plenty of resistance to the idea of putting the U. S. on a bread ration. With U. S. wheat bins and elevators now empty, every coupon issued would actually be a search warrant for supplies of bread which simply would not exist. And every holder would think he had to spend every coupon. The result would be chaos in the country that make the biggest contribution to world relief.

TRUMAN WANTS CONWAY TO KEEP MARITIME POST

Capt. Granville Conway is encountering White House opposition to his desire to resign from the job of executive director of the Maritime Commission. Conway was all set to leave government service on July 1 and become the $35,000-a-year president of the Cosmopolitan Shipping Company. It's an outfit that charters foreign-flag vessels, which can, of course, be operated at lower costs than American ships.

Maritime union officials objected to negotiating with Conway as a representative of the government, on the ground that he would soon become a private operator. But, with a brand new Maritime Commission taking over, Conway is being urged to stick to his job.

The last of the big copper companies to settle its three-month-old strike that has tied up needed production in that industry is the Phelps Dodge Corporation. It employs 4,000 workers at six properties in Bisbee, Morenci, Tyrone, and Douglas City, Ariz., El Paso, Tex., and Laurel Hill, N.Y. The demands call for wage and other adjustments dating back to July, 1945.

It was a subsidiary of this company which in the last war was involved in one of the worst cases in American labor relations history. After an unjustified strike had been called by workers in the Bisbee area, a special deputy sheriff's posse of 2,000 rounded up 1,189 workers, packed them into a special train, and deported them to Columbus, N.Mex. When authorities there refused to allow unloading, the train was backed up to the desert town of Hermans, and the men were unloaded without food, water, or shelter.

After two days, U. S. Army detachments rounded up the deportees, but had to care for them for two months, while the case was being settled. Felix Frankfurter, now associate justice of the Supreme Court, was counsel for a presidential commission that investigated and reported on the case.

Press Comment

The following report from Washington by William H. Stringer, which appeared under a double column headline in the right hand corner of the front page of the Christian Science Monitor, is both an account of, and a tribute to, the official report of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower on the Allied effort which conquered Germany. As Supreme Commander, General Eisenhower was in a position to assess contributions to victory made by all component parts of the Allied war machine. He picks out nobody, or no country, but gives credit to the team spirit of all—a spirit he did so much to engender. His reference to Canada, reported in the following account, will be of particular interest, and his whole report will effectively silence any carping criticism published by officers of lower rank who have written their "inside stories" for the paying public.

EDITOR.

Supreme Allied Commander Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who once observed at SHAEF, "I live and think Allied," has now written—in just that vein—the full military report of the great invasion of Fortress Europa.

Thereby he has put in perspective the smallish disputes over who outgeneralized whom, as against the gigantic drama of the Anglo-American-Canadian surge which lodged a million fully equipped men on a hostile shore by D-Day plus 28 and carried on through the Atlantic Wall and Siegfried Line to Berchtesgaden itself.

Gen. Eisenhower has served again the cause of Allied unity, reminding a less-determined United States of 1946 of what unselfed effort once accomplished, and read to Congress a lesson in successful armed forces unification.

In this accounting to the Combined Chiefs of Staff he has completed and capstoned a trilogy of official war reports begun by Gen. George C. Marshall, wartime Army Chief of Staff, and Gen. H. H. Arnold, wartime Army Chief of Air Forces.

Later historians can hash over the rivalries and intrigues. This is a swift-paced account, by the Supreme Commander, of prodigious logistics, of a surging sequence of battles, of broadscale campaign planning—and of the closeness and effectiveness of the Anglo-American co-operation which, all agree, was General Ike's crowning achievement.

Fighting Spirit Won War
"More important even than the weapons," writes General Eisenhower, who now is United States Army Chief of Staff, "was the indomitable fighting spirit of the men of the Allied Nations who wielded them."

Indirectly he does allude to the contention of many American officers that, had the critical supplies been hustled to impatient Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., who already was breaching the Siegfried Line in the late summer of 1944, instead of to the vain air-borne venture to leap the lower Rhine under Field Marshal Montgomery, the war might have ended in 1944.

General Eisenhower says just this:

"In part the slow-down along the front facing Germany was due to my decision to employ our greatest strength in the north to attain flanking bridgeheads across the lower Rhine."

Throughout the account, General Eisenhower speaks of "my" strategy in a manner which is not mere formality, confuting detractors who have said that "Ike" was mainly a glorified "general manager" whose battle plans were tailored for him by subordinates.

In this big 123-page report, replete with relief maps, the Supreme Commander lists the three decisive struggles of the western campaign as: The Battle of the Normandy beaches, the Battle of the Falaise Pocket, and the Battle West of the Rhine during February-March, 1945, where "the armies which had been intended to defend Germany were shattered beyond recovery."

He details a significant list of German mistakes and miscalculations which produced the Nazi downfall:

1—Gen. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's fatal reliance upon the Atlantic Wall's concrete, without a defense in depth.

2—The German weakness in supply and communications which bedeviled the Nazi commanders from the Normandy beachheads through the Ardennes battle to final defeat.

German Miscalculation
3—The German miscalculation, due partially to lack of air reconnaissance—which led the Nazis to believe that another Allied landing would come in the Pas-de-Calais region and which caused them to hold their Fifteenth Army there until too late to repel the Normandy beachheads.

4—Germany's blind determination to stand and fight when the Wehrmacht should have retreated—evidenced in the Falaise Pocket slaughter and in the battles which destroyed German forces west of the Rhine.

General Eisenhower reveals that the Normandy invasion was originally set for May 1st, but was postponed due to lack of landing craft. He is critical of Russian failure until January, 1945, to provide the slightest information on "Russian grand strategy," but when Air Marshal Tedder, the General's deputy, finally went to Moscow, Generalissimo Stalin gave him a full picture of Soviet plans for the great spring offensive.

Praising all of his commanders, he says of "Monty" before Caen that his "tactical handling of this situation was masterly"; he refers to General Patton's spectacular feats in racing across France and in spanning the Rhine while a more formidable, formal crossing was being laboriously built up. But he has the greatest praise of all for Gen. Omar Bradley, terming his final February-March operations "the equal in brilliance of any that American forces have ever conducted."

General Eisenhower and his collaborators have produced a report which no one, American, Canadian or British, can read without a sense of intense pride in a great achievement. It is a salutary reminder that divided councils and confused thinking need not prevail.

Letters To The Editor

HITS AT CO-OPERATIVES

Dear Sir: In recent weeks the officials of co-operatives have been very active in writing letters to the press and circulating misinformation aimed to discredit the Income Tax Payers Association. Their principal means of attacking the Association is to claim that the Association consists only of five lawyers and that no annual meeting of the Association has been held.

The Income Tax Payers Association was organized in Winnipeg two years ago and it now has a membership of more than 8,000 across Canada, and spread evenly amongst the nine provinces of the Dominion. At the first annual general meeting of members held in Winnipeg on November 16th, 1945, there were 2,160 members present in person or by proxy. At this meeting the present directors were unanimously elected and all actions of the Provisional Board were unanimously approved. The Annual General Meeting unanimously approved the submission made to the Royal Commission on Co-operatives by the President and Secretary. This submission urged that co-operatives be subjected to income taxation on the same basis as all other forms of business, and that patronage dividends be disallowed as an expense as an expense in arriving at taxable income.

The co-operatives are complaining about the amount of money that the Income Tax Payers Association is spending in radio and newspaper advertising in informing the Canadian public that co-operatives are escaping payment of income taxes. The amount that the Income Tax Payers Association spends in advertising and organization is only a fraction of what the co-operatives are spending for the same purposes. Three non-income tax paying commercial co-operatives alone—the Wheat Pools—are spending approximately $500,000 annually on propaganda including radio and newspaper advertising and so-called field service operations. There are a total of 4,500 co-operatives in Canada so that it would be very interesting to know the total amount spent by them under these headings. It would make the Income Tax Payers Association look very penurious, indeed.

The co-operative officials are willing that we are seeking to destroy co-operatives by having them subjected to income taxation. One Association is in no way opposed to co-operatives. We believe that every Canadian has, and should have, the right to trade as he desires. All we seek is to have all forms of business enterprise taxed on the same basis. If we are to continue to have an income tax law in Canada then all businesses and all citizens should pay income tax on the same basis. We do not see how co-operatives reason that the payment of income taxes will destroy them. But it can plainly be seen that if private business has to pay income taxes and the co-operatives escape that it will only be a matter of time until the tax free co-operatives are able to eliminate tax paying private enterprise.

It is time that officials of co-operatives ceased throwing mud and got down to a discussion of equitable taxation. That is all that is involved.

Co-operatives claim they do not have profits. Then if they do not have profits why are they worrying about paying income taxes? Income taxes only apply to profits of companies and to income of individuals. The reason for the outcry from co-operative officials is that they know that co-operatives are escaping paying income taxes which they should be paying just like any other business venture.

Yours very truly,
G. S. THORVALDSON,
President Income Tax Payers Association.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority

HARD LUCK IS OFTEN ONLY LACK OF CARE

Indianapolis, Ind., is one of the biggest tournament bridge centres in the country today. It has its fair share of champion players, but in addition there are hundreds of people in Indianapolis who play duplicate bridge but never participate in a major tournament. This is largely due to the efforts of Mrs. Grace Buschmann, who teaches bridge and conducts games for literally thousands of people there every year.

Mrs. Buschmann sent me an interesting hand which brings out a point I often mention—counting your tricks. The opening lead is won in dummy with the ace of hearts, and we will assume that a small diamond trick is led. Declarer takes the finesse and the king wins. Another heart comes back.

AYER'S CLIFF BRIDE-ELECT WAS HONORED

Ayer's Cliff, June 27.—Miss Phyllis Gethorp, a July bride-to-be, was feted by upwards of forty of her friends at a "surprise shower." While she was out riding, they gathered at her home to await her return. The guests were received by her mother, Mrs. Mabel Gethorp, and Miss Evelyn Rollins, who made them at home. On her arrival, she was escorted to a prettily decorated chair. She was surprised and amazed that the house had been so nicely decorated since her departure. Her chair was done in pink and white crepe paper and from the ceiling a large white bell was suspended and festoons of pink and white were draped from the corners of the room to the centre.

A mock "cow boy" marriage was dramatized with Mrs. C. T. Adam acting as the minister; Miss Carol Pierce, the western bride; Miss Dorothy Adams, the real western groom; and Mrs. Van Trevel, who was the bride's father, whose desire was to give his daughter to the highest bidder, and Miss Meryl Adams was the soloist, who sang "Cow Boy" songs. This afforded much amusement and was followed by a presentation address being read by Miss Mildred Paul, who started out by giving advice to the bride-to-be, and ended by asking her to go on a "Treasure Hunt" in the years that are ahead.

Miss Evelyn Rollins gave her the string that led her to all parts of the rooms and ended upon the sun porch, where she found attached to the end of it a beautiful walnut gaudet table and a pyrex meat platter in a silver holder. These were much admired and Miss Gethorp expressed her thanks to her friends and invited them all to visit in her new home.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Van Trevel, Mrs. Gethorp, the Misses Evelyn Rollins, Kaye Rollins and Mrs. Edward Kerr. A very enjoyable evening was spent and before departing they wished the bride-elect every happiness in the future.

ABERCORN

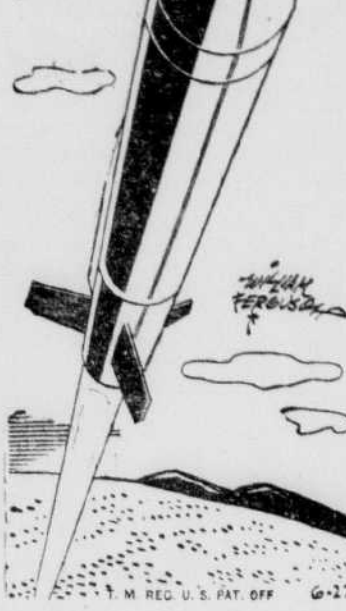

The Abercorn branch of the Women's Institute held its June meeting on June 6, at the pleasant home of Mrs. Lloyd Ingalls, on the "Scenic Highway," with ten members and four visitors present. The president called the meeting to order in the usual manner by all repeating the "Club Woman's Creed." The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary and approved. Mrs. Sherrill gave an excellent report of the County Convention held in Sutton in May. Plans were made to pack articles for the clothing drive for the needy in distant countries. It was voted to make a donation of money to buy shrubs and bulbs to be planted in the new cemetery, where there is being considerable work done. A useful gift was presented to a very helpful member, who has moved out of town, Mrs. Frances Ingalls, of Richmond, Vt., who very graciously expressed her thanks. All were glad to welcome back a former member, Mrs. Walter Westover, of Glen Sutton, and Miss Annie Gagnon, who has been away for four years. The meeting adjourned and tea was served.

Miss Mary Ann Abinger was an honored guest at a miscellaneous shower held at the New Abercorn House. The large hall was prettily decorated and the bride-elect was the recipient of many lovely gifts. Although completely taken by surprise Miss Abinger voiced her thanks to each and everyone in her usual pleasant manner. After a social afternoon refreshments were served. Miss Abinger has been employed for three years as clerk in

The Doctor Says

FEW TAPEWORM INFECTIONS ARE SERIOUS

By William A. O'Brien, M.D.
Infection with the ordinary beef or fish tapeworm is not serious, but the pork tapeworm can cause trouble. The old idea that a tapeworm was the cause of excessive thinness in the individual with a large appetite is false.

Beef tapeworm (taenia saginata) is acquired by eating raw or rare infected beef. Aside from the obstruction which may be caused by its size, there are no symptoms produced by the presence of a beef tapeworm in the bowel.

Dr. O'Brien.

A beef tapeworm, which grows to 12 to 15 feet in length, consists of several thousand segments, which appear as flat white ribbons in the stool. Several worms may be present at one time.

The fish tapeworm has been under suspicion for some time as a cause of anemia and ill health, but recent investigations prove it is harmless. These worms reach several feet in length, and their eggs are discharged in the stool.

When infected sewage flows into lake water, the fish tapeworm embryos hatch and are eaten by water fleas, which in turn are devoured by fish. When raw fish is consumed, man develops the disease.

Fish Infection Common
Fish tapeworm infection is common in those sections of the United States where raw fish is eaten. The infection also is reported in women and young children who taste raw fish to see if it is properly seasoned before it is cooked. In such cases, the other members of the family, who eat the cooked fish, escape the disease.

The dwarf tapeworm, which is less than an inch in length, is found in children and adults if a direct transfer of worm eggs takes place. Rat and dog tapeworms get into the intestinal tract when one accidentally eats infected insects and fleas. No harmful results are produced by either worm.

Pork tapeworm can cause serious complications, although, fortunately, infection is rare. (Pork tapeworm infection is not to be confused with trichinosis.) If the larva form of the worm develops in man, the embryos enter the blood and infect various organs of the body, including the brain.

The adult pork tapeworm always remains in the intestine, where it does not cause any more trouble than the other varieties.

Prevention Is Simple
All tapeworm infections can be prevented by proper cold storage and by thorough cooking of all meat and fish.

If a tapeworm is suspected, specimens of the stool are examined for segments or eggs. As a general rule, the condition is not suspected until portions of the worm are passed or a blood examination shows an excess of cells containing red staining granules (eosinophiles).

The treatment of tapeworm infection consists of a day of semi-starvation followed, before roasting, by an ounce of Glauber salts dissolved in a glass of water. Oleoresin of aspidium in capsules or in sugar is followed by another dose of salts.

Stools for the next 24 hours are examined for the head of the worm, since unless the head is passed the worm will grow back. Other drugs and methods of treatment may be equally successful.

Question: How common is ptomaine poisoning?

Answer: So rare that many physicians doubt that it exists. Most poisoning labelled ptomaine is caused by poisonous substances in the food, disease-producing germs, or food sensitivity.

ing concert. A good year is anticipated, and during the month of August, plans are being drawn up to hold here in Waterloo a Band Festival, including bands from Magog, Black Lake, East Angus, Plessville, Warwick and Thetford Mines. It is hoped that the leader and members of the Waterloo Band will secure the solid backing of the citizens of the town for this great undertaking, which involves a tremendous amount of planning and work. The town should well be proud of its band, and all can should be done to give it the encouragement it needs.

A Pimple Covered Face Kills Many a Romance

The lives of many young people are made miserable by the breaking out of pimples, and you probably know of cases where a promising romance has been spoiled by those red, white, festering and pus filled sores on the face.

The trouble is not so much physical pain, but the mental suffering caused by the embarrassing disfigurement which very often makes the sufferer ashamed to go out in company.

The quickest way to get rid of pimples is to improve the general health by a thorough cleansing of the blood.

Burdock Blood Bitters helps to cleanse the blood and with the blood cleansed the complexion should clear up.

Hollywood, June 27—(AP)—“Better get me while I’m young.” That is the general notice John Payne is serving on his studio.

The 28-year-old actor from Roanoke, Va., had just recovered from an influenza attack when he told me he’d like to do a prizefight picture. At the time he still was wan and appeared unable to go three rounds with Frank Sinatra. But that’s what the man said. “Just you watch,” he said, “they’ll wait 10 years and then put me in a fight picture. I’d look silly at 38 trying to knock out some youngster.” But there’s another boxer in his 30’s who’s still doing all right, John.

Coincidentally, like the party guest who happened to bring along his accordion, the actor has whipped up a fight yarn, “Freedom Ring,” along with Irving Cummings, Jr. The story contains 150 rounds of boxing and John would like to sell it to 20th-Fox to star himself.

Apparently the studio does not agree with Payne’s yen for action. In “The Razor’s Edge” he plays a stock broker who suffers from migraine headaches and the jitters. A fine way to get in training.

Canadian air must be agreeing with Bing. He has posed for more than 400 still pictures on the “Emperor Waltz” location, a chore he seldom performs in Hollywood. . . . A Hollywood cosmetic firm makes chest wigs for actors who think they look more manly that way.

RECORD MAY BE SHATTERED IN CANADIAN OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP

Proof Positive

Record Chalks Up 1st Shutout Of Season In Industrial Loop

First shutout of the season in the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville Industrial Softball League was registered by the Sherbrooke Record team at the Parade Grounds last night when, sparked by the starry pitching of Warren Berwick, who allowed only one hit in the entire game, the Record whitewashed the fourth place Lennoxville Machinery aggregation to the tune of 10 to 0.

In other regular league fixtures, the Canadian Braves took a close decision over the Philip Carey team, beating out the Lennoxville boys by 5 to 4, while the Canadian Fairbanks - Morse players took the measure of the Union Screen Plate representatives by the score of 13 to 7, leaving the Fairbanks right up there in first position, although the latter are still one game up on the schedule.

Bob Davies, a new player on the Record team, was the outstanding hitter of the evening, getting a three-bagger in the fourth

DIXIE WALKER CREDITED WITH ANOTHER WIN

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

At least any Brooklyn citizen will tell you in all sincerity that the greatest thing that ever happened to Flatbush since its discovery 300 years ago was when Dixie Walker came to the Dodgers in 1939.

To Brooklyn fans, Walker can do no wrong. In their humble opinion, Dixie is the greatest baseball player that ever lived. And the 35-year-old "people's choice" gives them every reason for believing so. Rarely, if ever, does he let them down. Dixie, in his eight-year reign at Ebbets Field, has won so many games that invariably, the newspaper vendors yell "Today's score, Dixie 4, Opponents 2."

That's what they were yelling yesterday following Brooklyn's 4-2 victory over Cincinnati Reds, which enabled the Dodgers to retain their three-game first place margin over St. Louis Cardinals.

And what did Dixie do? He single-smashed two triples to knock out in three runs and scored the other himself.

The Cards kept pace with the National League leaders by ending the five-game winning streak of the onrushing Philadelphia Phillies 4-1.

The American League-leading Boston Red Sox had to come from behind to stave off their most disastrous day of the season. After dropping the first game of their doubleheader 16-2, the Red Sox came up with a seven-run eighth inning to whip the Tigers 9-3 and earn an even split.

New York Yankees narrowed Boston's margin to seven games by defeating Cleveland Indians 8-4 in the rubber game of their three-game series.

Washington edged out Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 16 innings. A three-run homer by Chet Laabe and another by Walter Judnick with one aboard enabled St. Louis Browns to smother the Philadelphia Athletics 11-4 in a night contest.

New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates changed places in the National League when Lefty Dave Kosslo pitched the Giants out of the cellar with a five-hit 4-0 shutout over the Bucs.

Mort Cooper spaced 12 hits to outlast four Chicago pitchers as the fourth place Boston Braves walloped the Cubs 11-2.

Canadians Conceded Better Than Even Chance For Major Prizes

Montreal, June 27.—More than 130 golfers representing most of the cream of the United States and Canadian pro and amateur club-welders, gathered at the Beaconsfield course today for the 1946 renewal of the Canadian Open championship.

The first match was scheduled to get underway at 10.30 a.m., with play to continue daily until Sunday.

Present titleholder of the Seagram Cup, emblematic of the open supremacy, is Byron Nelson who led the field last year at Thornhill course, Toronto, shooting 280 for the 72 holes.

Last night the entry list had 132 names, including Lloyd Mangrum from the Tam O'Shanter club of Chicago, recent winner of the U.S. Open, Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N.J., who with Nelson was eliminated by Mangrum in a three-way playoff at the United States Open, Stan Leonard, ace pro from Vancouver, Robby Burns from Burlington, Ont., Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, amateur, and several others who are conceded a chance to share in the honors and the $10,000 prize money.

A chance that the Canadian open record—272 scored by Lawson Little at Toronto in 1936—might be shattered was seen in the fact that several favorites have been burning up the course in practice rounds.

Best pre-tourney score was chalked up Tuesday by western star Stan Leonard who did the 18 holes in 66 strokes, six under the course's par 72. Yesterday Lloyd Mangrum, Burns and Stranahan scored 67's. Gordie Brydson of Toronto Mississauga, Harry Todd of Dallas, Tex., and George Fazio of Los Angeles, have rounded the course in four-under-par 68, while Bill Ezinicki, Toronto Maple Leaf right winger during the hockey season, had a 69.

With Nelson, Sam Snead and several other top-flight U.S. pros missing from the tournament, Canadian players are conceded a better than even chance of grabbing the major prizes.

LOUIS MAY FIGHT IN SEPTEMBER

Buffalo, N.Y., June 27.—(AP)—Heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis said last night in an interview during his first public appearance since his title bout with Billy Conn, that he "probably will fight in September and the match probably will be with Tami Mauriello."

Louis said he would attend another meeting with promoter Mike Jacobs in New York tomorrow when definite arrangements might be made.

CHIEFS CLINCH BOTH ENDS OF DOUBLEHEADER

By The Associated Press

Out of first place for more than a month and in third place five days ago, Syracuse Chiefs are again playing ball reminiscent of their early season form that tabbed them the surprise team of the International League.

The hustling Chiefs drew within a 1 1/2 games of the pace-setting Montreal Royals last night by taking both ends of a double-header from Buffalo Bisons, 7-3 and 8-1 while the Royals trimmed Jersey City Giants, 6-3.

Montreal tallied three times in the initial frame against the Giants and sewed up the conflict with two more runs in the fifth. Jack Banta started for the Royals but Curt Davis finished up.

Newark Bears snapped a three-game losing streak by defeating Rochester Red Wings, 9-5.

Scoring five runs in the seventh inning, Baltimore Orioles came from behind to beat Toronto Maple Leafs, 7-2.

WATERTOWN DEFEATS SHERBROOKE

Watertown defeated Sherbrooke by the score of 8-1 in a scheduled Border League game yesterday, and at Kingston, Ont., a first inning splurge which netted three runs gave Kingston a 3-2 victory over Granby.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Dave Kosslo, Giants—blanked the Pirates with five hits as Giants emerged from National League cellar with 4-0 triumph.

Hal Newhouser, Tigers and Ted Williams, Red Sox—Newhouser won his 13th game with a nine-hitter, 10-2, in the opener; Williams blasted his 19th homer and two singles to help the Red Sox win the nightcap 9-3.

Sid Hudson, Senators—won his own game when he singled in the 16th and subsequently scored winning run in 4-3 16-inning conquest of White Sox.

Kramer Still Expected To Carry Off Title Despite Injured Hand

By BILL MACKLIN
Wimbledon, England, June 27.—(AP)—The Australians, proud of holding the Davis Cup and anxious to retain it, went into the fourth day of the Wimbledon tennis championship today minus 50 per cent of their challengers to the United States-held singles crown.

Top-seeded Dinny Pails and his two-handed-hitting colleague, Geoff Brown, still were a threat to Jack Kramer of Los Angeles. But the Aussie' armor had been cracked by two continental stars, Ranga A. C. Van Swol, after dropping the first set, put out Jack Harper, ranking No. 8 down under yesterday while Pellizza overcame a two-set deficit to whip Harry Hopman, 33-year-old Aussie internationalist.

In a headliner today on the 63-match program, Kramer was expected to meet his stiffest test to date against I. Toczyński, a Wimbledon veteran and Poland's top player before the war.

Four out of six prominent London tennis writers meanwhile had jumped on the Kramer bandwagon. They predicted the Los Angeles lad, in spite of his blistered racket hand, would be able to take the title, after having seen him lose only two games yesterday in walloping Britain's E. R. Avory. Jack wore a special gray cloth glove, and said it protected the blister perfectly.

LESSARD SQUAD HANGS UP ITS 10TH VICTORY

Tenth straight victory for the Lessard aggregation, which last night swamped the Y.M.C.A. team by 10 to 1, gives the service station squad undisputed first position in the local Industrial "A" Softball League with their nearest rivals, the Letendre restaurateurs, six points behind to hold down second position. The game was part of a double-header played at Dufresne Park last night when the Rand trimmed Savard by 7 to 4.

In the Rand fixture, pitcher Wilcox was given airtight support from the team and the squad are reacting favorably to the coaching tactics of Capt. Roger Dion. Big guns for the Rand were MacIntyre, Laplante, Rousseau and Carnegie. The Rand scored one in the second, three in the fourth and three in the sixth, while Savard tallied three times in the fourth and once in the sixth.
