Soviets Admit Crisis Serious In Stalingrad

Red Armies, Surging Down on German Left Flank, Defeat Two Nazi Divisions Along Flaming Forty-Mile Corridor Between the Don and Volga Rivers—Germans Claim Some Gains Made in Stalingrad Proper.

By The Canadian Press

Soviet headquarters reported today that the Red armies, surging down upon the German left flank, had defeated two Nazi divisions along the flaming forty-mile corridor between the Don and Volga rivers, while inside Stalingrad the crisis remained acute.

A bulletin from German field headquarters said a new section of Northern Stalingrad had been taken by storm.

Despite staggering losses, the Germans continued to throw great masses of troops into the 37-day-old assault, and the army newspaper Red Star declared gravely:

"Conditions in the city remain serious. The Germans have big losses, but the attacks do not lessen and violence grows."

Soviet gunners were reported to have slaughtered more than 1,500 Germans yesterday as the invaders launched repeated, futile attacks to widen a wedge in Stalingrad's Northwest section.

While announcing the gravity of the situation within Stalingrad, Red Star declared that Russian troops had repulsed Nazi shock forces which knifed into a factory district on the Northwest outskirts Monday.

On the Central (Moscow) Front, Russian shock troops marshalled in such secrecy they were not allowed to smoke were reported to have cut through the "line of the Fuehrer" North of Rzhev, 130 miles Northwest of Moscow, in an attack launched after a barrage by hundreds of guns.

Pravda dispatches said the Russians, fighting in autumn-colored woods where red and yellow leaves mingled with the green of firs, drove the Germans into retreat and reached a curve on the Upper Volga.

Far to the South, in the Caucasus, strong Red army forces were reported to have stemmed a series of attacks by reinforced German columns seeking to break down through the Teerek valley toward the Grozny oil fields.

Other developments in the global war:

Egyptian front: All quiet.

Air war: Rescue workers dug in the ruins of a bomb-smashed boys' school in Southern England, searching for eighteen boys still reported missing and believed either dead or entombed alive in the wreckage.

Twenty-two boys and two teachers were known dead as a result of yesterday's German air attack; thirty-four others were injured.

HIGHER PRICES ON BEEF URGED TO END FAMINE

Ontario Minister of Agriculture Favors Higher Ceiling on Dressed Beef to Establishment of Animal Limit.

Mitchell, Ont., Sept. 30—(CP)—Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, today said "in my opinion the answer to the beef situation is adequate dressed beef ceilings—prices that will encourage beef cattle men and stimulate production," in an address prepared for delivery at the opening of the Mitchell Fair.

"Recently restrictions have been placed on shipments to the United States," he continued. "We have not been keeping faith with the U.S. quota agreement. We should remember that we shall not always be at war. We shall not always experience domestic demands at present high levels."

Mr. Dewan said for this reason "it is the part of wisdom to retain wider markets."

"More attractive prices — it will require only a few cents—and less seasonal variation in prices may well bring forth sufficient volume to fill home demands and meet the U.S. quota as well."

He declared he believed "It would be a great mistake to impose ceiling prices on live animals as was hinted by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board a few days ago."

"In practice, it would require a multitude of appraisers, and everyone will agree that increase in the number of public officials must be avoided in every way possible."

Mr. Dewan said his suggestion of increasing the price of dressed beef might be taken as "no way to avoid inflation."

"But it is a fact that wage earners have been receiving a cost-of-living bonus. Why should not the farmer receive more as his costs of production advance—and this they have done within the past year."

LONDON FLOWER GIRLS MAY DISAPPEAR

London, Sept. 30.—(CP)—London's picturesque flower girls, whose main bastion is Piccadilly Circus, may be forced from the capitol scene by the restrictions of war. Beginning November 1 there will be no more shipping of flowers by rail. The flower girls stand to lose their livelihood because, though still called girls, most of them are sixty or more and too old or otherwise unable to take new jobs.

JAPANESE SCOUT PLANE SEEKING POT SHOTS AT WENDELL WILLKIE

Chungking, Sept. 30.—(AP) — A Japanese scout plane flew close to Chungking yesterday and today, prompting Chinese speculation the Japanese wanted to get a jab at Wendell Willkie when he arrives.

Willkie is en route here from Moscow but his movements have not been announced as a precaution against any Japanese intrusion.

SHIFT MADE IN CANADIAN NAVY HIGH COMMAND

Two of Three Top-Ranking Officers Transferred to New Posts in Rapid Expansion of Canadian Fleet.

By PAT USSHER.
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—(CP)—Transfer of two of the three top-ranking officers of Canada's fast-expanding navy to new posts was announced by Navy Minister Macdonald last night in a series of appointments which informed quarters here described as the biggest movement of senior officers of the service since the war began.

Rear Admiral G. C. Jones, R.C.N., forty-eight, commanding officer Atlantic Coast, is appointed Vice-Chief of the Naval Staff at Naval Headquarters, succeeding Commodore H. E. Reid, R.C.N.

Rear-Admiral L. W. Murray, R.C.N., forty-six, flag officer, Newfoundland forces, is appointed to succeed Rear-Admiral Jones as commanding officer Atlantic Coast.

The announcement said Rear-Admiral Jones' appointment is effective October 9 and that of Rear-Admiral Murray is to date from September 18.

Mr. Macdonald also announced these appointments:

Commodore Reid is going to Newfoundland as commodore commanding Newfoundland forces, effective October 25.

Capt. H. T. W. Grant, R.C.N., Chief of Naval Personnel, is going to Newfoundland as Captain (D), relieving Capt. E. R. Mainguy, R.C.N., who returns to Naval Service Headquarters to take Capt. Grant's present position.

The appointments were announced simultaneously in Ottawa and Halifax.

Naval quarters here said the transfers covered a wider field than any navy moves made since the war began. Rear-Admiral Jones and Rear-Admiral Murray are two of the navy's senior officers, second only to Vice-Admiral Percy W. Nelles, chief of Naval Staff.

Rear-Admiral Jones is a native of Halifax, while Rear-Admiral Murray was born at Granton, N.S. All the men named are graduates of the Royal Naval College of Canada in Halifax, as is Commodore Reid.

Mr. Macdonald said in announcing the appointments: "Certain leaves have been arranged for these officers who have been shouldering heavy burdens since war's outbreak. No definite dates have been set for the appointments of Capts. Grant and Mainguy. While awaiting the arrival of Commodore Reid and Capt. Grant in Newfoundland, Capt. Mainguy will assume command of the forces at that base."

In Halifax, Rear-Admiral Murray said in a simultaneously-issued statement: "The ultimate aim of all naval effort is success of our ships on the high seas."

Argentine Chamber Urges Ending Of Diplomatic Links With Axis

Buenos Aires, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Argentine Chamber of Deputies laid before President Ramon S. Bastillo today a resolution recommending an immediate break of diplomatic relations between Argentina and the Axis countries.

Pushed through the Chamber by a Radical-Socilaist coalition by a 67 to 64 vote, the measure was opposed solidly by the Conservative party members, whose leader is President Castillo. It is expected to bring a rejection from the President who returned from a trip to the Northern provinces recently and declared he is convinced the people are behind his "policy of prudence."

Pro-democratic deputies charged during debate on the measure last that Argentina's present foreign policy made the country a refuge for Nazi - Fascist propagandists and caused the United States and other American countries to be "suspicious" of Argentina's intentions.

The Government's speakers contended that neutrality made it possible for Argentina to aid her neighbors should she care to do so.

Unexpected Strength Of German Defences Boosted Dieppe Losses

London, Sept. 30.—(CP)—The Canadian-led invasion test at Dieppe met tank barriers of unforeseen strength and the attackers' losses were "very nearly half the total" of the troops involved, Prime Minister Churchill said in the House of Commons today.

The Prime Minister declined to give figures on the strength of participating forces in addition to the Canadians, who, forming the bulk of the expedition, suffered 3,350 casualties out of 5,000 officers and men taking part.

As at the first meeting of the reconvened House yesterday, when the Prime Minister emphasized the undesirability of speculation on the time and place of a second front, his reports were in answer to a battery of questioners.

He is expected shortly, however, to make a more thorough report on the war situation.

For the third time since the war began, the House received a Government bill for a one-year extension of its own life. Thus the Government rejected repeated demands from critics of the present Commons for a general election.

Most of the members were elected in 1935 for the normal term of five years but have sat on under a political truce aimed at keeping the parties' numerical representation fixed for the duration.

Mr. Churchill said that tanks were held up by the "altogether unexpected strength" of defence blocks placed at the ends of Dieppe's streets by the Germans.

It had not been anticipated, he added, that the barriers could not be destroyed by British guns.

Making a statement in response to questions, Mr. Churchill said the military force commander at Dieppe (Maj.-Gen. J. H. Roberts, Canadian Army) had described the support given by the air force for the operations there as "faultless."

The Air Force fought the greatest air battle of all time over the coastal town, destroying nearly one hundred German planes for certain and possibly bringing down many more, Mr. Churchill said.

James Henderson Stewart asked the Prime Minister to reconcile his announcement of September 8 that most of the Dieppe force returned and Col. J. L. Ralston's statement that of 5,000 Canadians participating there were 3,350 casualties, including 2,717 killed or missing.

"In my statement of September 8," Mr. Churchill answered, "I was referring to the assaulting forces as a whole, the greater part of whom were, in fact, brought back by the Royal Navy.

"There is no inconsistency in this with the statement of the Canadian Minister of National Defence who was referring only to casualties among Canadian troops who took part."

He declined to give the Germans the benefit of precise figures but said that the losses "were very heavy and went up to nearly half of the total."

(In his earlier reference to "the assaulting forces as a whole," Mr. Churchill presumably included naval forces as well as all land forces besides the Canadians in the storming of the Dieppe beach).

Noting that the tanks which attacked at Dieppe were "Churchills,"

RUSSIAN CRAFT RAIDED BERLIN TWELVE TIMES DURING PAST YEAR

Moscow, Sept. 30. — (AP) — Russian bombers raided Berlin twelve times in the last year and dropped "thousands of bombs" on twenty other German cities and thirteen cities in Hungary, Rumania and Poland, the Moscow radio said today.

The Russians used two and four-engined bombers capable of flying more than twelve hours and covering from 1,300 to 3,300 miles non-stop, the broadcast said.

ADMIRAL SAYS ARMY AVIATORS LOST AT LUZON

Admiral Hart Declares that Time to Defeat Japan Was During Opening Days of Western Pacific War.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Admiral Thomas C. Hart, former commander of Allied naval forces in the Western Pacific, believes that United States army air fighters failed in the first day of the battle over Luzon and thus missed a chance to cripple Japan's drive to Java.

Hart, in an article in the October 3 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, released today, also said that "fighters based on Oahu airdromes missed their big chance" during the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The navy "erred" at Pearl Harbor, he added, "in presenting so many targets in such small space, under the tense conditions prevailing in early December."

The former commander of the United States Asiatic Fleet, now a member of the navy's policy-making general board, said the Japanese had to conquer Luzon as the first step toward Java because it was the strongest island in the Philippines and "the Japs could not leave this power unimpaired on their flanks."

"This was the place and the time to have beaten our enemy in the air," he wrote. "That first day or so was our chance in the air, and we missed it. From there onward it was backward all the way, on the sea, on the land, under the sea and over both."

MURRAY DENIES QUITTING POST

Ottawa, Sept. 30.— (CP) —General Manager Gladstone Murray of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, questioned today about an Ottawa report he had submitted his resignation, said: "I have not resigned."

The resignation report was credited to "a high authority on Parliament Hill."

A month ago the Board of Governors of the CBC recommended appointment of Dr. J. S. Thomson of Saskatoon as general manager to succeed Mr. Murray, and that Mr. Murray become director-general of broadcasting, a new post.

Yesterday it was learned the Governors had submitted to the Government a downward revision of a former submission on salaries of CBC executives.

EDITORS VISIT CHURCHILL

London, Sept. 30.—(C.P. Cable)—Visiting Canadian editors met Prime Minister Churchill in his House of Commons office for an informal, off-the-record talk today. The Premier, looking in the best of health and spirits, was smoking the inevitable cigar as the editors clustered about his desk.

Increased Dislocation Of Industry Essential Little Warns Dominion

Canadians Will Suffer More Inconvenience and Hardship During Next Year as Nearly Million Persons Must Pass Through Selective Service Organization to Meet Demands of War Industry and Armed Forces.

LITTLE HINTS REDUCTION IN CALL-UP AGE

National Selective Service Director Also Believes Married Men May Soon Be Called for Training.

Montreal, Sept. 30.—(CP)—Speculation of Canada's tightening manpower situation was heightened today by a statement from Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service, that there was a "distinct possibility" that eighteen and nineteen-year-old youths and married men would be called up for compulsory military training.

Mr. Little made his statement in an interview here yesterday and added that the present supplies of manpower for the Dominion's armed forces are far from exhausted, however.

But his suggestion of an extension of the call-up age limits brought to the fore speculation current for some time across the Dominion, especially since announcement of the heavy casualties suffered at Dieppe.

Predictions from unofficial circles in Ottawa, for instance, have been that army manpower requisitions may be increased.

There was a decrease in the army's requirements in September, when 20,000 men were called against 25,000 in July, but this was not interpreted as an indication that there would be any decrease in the army's needs.

Mr. Little's statement came a short time after a similar disclosure by War Service's Minister Thorson, who said it would become necessary in the near future to call nineteen-year-olds. It is expected that an additional 100,000 would be made available for compulsory army service by such an extension.

CLEMENT ATTLEE ON VISIT TO MONTREAL

Montreal, Sept. 30.—(CP)—Rt. Hon. Clement R. Attlee, British Secretary for the Dominons, paid an informal visit yesterday to Montreal.

Maj. Attlee arrived unannounced by plane from Ottawa and did not meet with newspapermen. Length of his stay and his future plans could not be learned.

During the day, Maj. Attlee visited the International Labor Office and renewed a number of old acquaintanceships. He was a luncheon guest of Edward J. Phelan, acting director of the I.L.O.

EIGHT KILLED IN RIOTS

Cuttack, India, Sept. 30.— (CP) — Eight persons were killed and three injured when police fired on rioters at Katashi Village in Orissa, it was announced today.

Seigniory Club, Que., Sept. 30.—(CP)—Warning of increasing "inconvenience," "dislocation," and "hardship," Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service, said in an address today that "from now on every Canadian must fit himself into a national plan of action . . . which envisages only fighters and producers."

"There has been an inexcusable waste of manpower in this country through needless labor turnover," he said in an address prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

"There has been an excessive amount of absenteeism on the part of many workers," he added, outlining means by which these problems would be overcome, "through failure on their part to realize what effect their absence from work may have on the outcome of this war."

National Selective Service was the machinery through which Canada proposed to organize all the people in the country for one purpose—that of total war, Mr. Little said. And "total war means that all the people—not just a few—and all the things—not just a few—must be pitted against the emergency."

Stressing "the growing acuteness of Canada's manpower situation," he estimated Canadian industry could "usefully absorb at this moment" an additional 100,000 workers. National Selective Service offices throughout the country had received applications for that many workers which they were unable to provide.

The National Selective Service Director listed Canada's manpower needs in particular industries.

In Sudbury, Ont., he said, a blast furnace, producing copper and nickel, had been forced to close down because of lack of men.

The coal mining industry was producing less coal than Canada is using and considerably less than the expected demand. "We are actually living on our coal storage reserves," Mr. Little warned.

Production of airplane spruce in British Columbia was "considerably below requirements" due to lack of men.

The base metal mines, producing copper vital to the war effort, are undermanned, with tonnage in some instances down to half of what it was two years ago.

Steel plants in the Niagara peninsula of Ontario are below potential production due to shortage of men.

Finally—"Our farmers, producing the food without which neither our armed forces nor our munitions workers could continue, are doggedly trying to maintain and even expand production—with far less than adequate help."

These conditions could not be permitted to continue as long as Canada had hundreds of thousands of

British People Showing Unified Determination To Defeat Hitler

De Witt Mackenzie, Associated Press war analyst, now is in London after a trans-Atlantic flight and the following is his first article on observing wartime Britain. He will proceed to other war zones, when governments and news developments permit).

By De WITT MACKENZIE.
Associated Press War Analyst

London, Sept. 30. — (AP) — The most important thing your correspondent can report from his initial glance at this wartime Britain is that John Bull and his wife and youngsters — that is, the civilian rank and file—not only are amazingly fit but grimly anxious to get speedily ahead with the bloody work before them.

The spirit of offensive is everywhere.

This is the first chance I have to size up Britain at close range since January, 1939. That was soon after little Czecho-Slovakia was sent to the sacrificial altar by the Munich appeasement pact and less than a year before the Hitlerian Frankenstein cut loose his monster on an unprepared world.

One had expected to find changes, of course, but here is a great metamorphosis of the man in the street.

Here is a new John Bull—and I know my Briton, having been with him in war and peace through long years in many parts of the globe. Small things often signal big developments.

At the risk of being called fanciful, I'm going to confess to being mightily impressed during the short time I've been here by an odd circumstance: I haven't seen a single fat, or even plump, person.

Now, that is a matter of importance when you figure out why it is so, for while Britons as a whole don't run to avoirdupois, there always have been plenty of stout persons about, and the traditional John Bull is ample of waist.

I don't mean to picture a people gaunt from hunger. They're well enough fed, though on pretty tight rations. But we have here a whole population which by the exigencies of war has trained down to the fineness of athletes. His 46-inch trouser waistband folds loosely about J. Bull's new 40-inch girth.

Along with this there's another thing which gives pause for thought. I get the impression the people have reached the point where there might be a danger of overtraining. They have been so long set, tensely wait-

Senate Leaders Open Desperate Drive To Beat Inflation Limit

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Sept. 30.— (AP) —A farm-bloc move to insert "cost of production" factors into the calculation of agricultural price ceilings threatened today to disrupt the Senate leadership's plans for speedy remodelling of anti-inflation legislation into a form acceptable to President Roosevelt.

Triumphant yesterday by a 48 to 43 margin in a fight to revise farm parity standards upward, the bloc launched a strong infiltrating attack today on a proposed compromise offered by Democratic Leader Alben Barkley of Kentucky.

Barkley, who again called the Senate into session an hour earlier than usual, predicted the bill would be passed during the day.

"It is still possible to get it to the White House in time on October 1," Barkley said, referring to President Roosevelt's request for Congressional action by that date.

The Senate adjourned only after Barkley had attempted to hold the group in session until it could pass on the bill and, later, to obtain an agreement to limit debate.

Barkley had proposed a compromise amendment drafted by Senators Clyde Reed (Rep.-Kan.), Millard Tydings (Dem.-Md.), and Joseph O'Mahoney (Dem. - Wyo.), which would direct the President to raise farm price ceilings in any cases where they did not reflect increased labor and other costs to growers.

He had hoped to offer it in a form requiring that it be voted on without amendment, as a substitute for the farm-bloc proposal which the Senate adopted temporarily yesterday to alter the present basis of computing parity prices to include farm labor costs.

ADULT SCHOOL ADDRESSED BY DENTON MASSEY

Officer Commanding Victoriaville I.T.S. Guest Speaker at Largely-Attended Meeting in Richmond.

Richmond, Sept. 30.—The regular meeting of the Richmond and Melbourne Adult Education Group was held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, September 24. Miss Margaret Bedard, Treasurer, had charge of the registering. The meeting was under the Chairmanship of Mr. W. Denison, President.

Very interesting movies on Canadian Hockey were shown, Mr. Robert Taylor acting as operator of the projector. The varied benefits derived from hockey including sportsman-like qualities and body-building exercise were features of this movie. This was followed by a lively discussion led by Mr. Leon Beaudoin. The latter opened the subject for discussion "How We Govern Ourselves," by outlining the Municipal, Provincial and Federal systems, their powers and limitations. There followed a lively and thought-provoking exchange of opinion, in which the whole group participated. Many phases of the subject were mentioned but one important conclusion was reached, that we should exercise the privileges of democracy more than we are now doing. Mr. W. Denison, Chairman, thanked Mr. Beaudin for his guidance, and his remarks were heartily seconded by applause from the audience.

Mr. Denison announced that the subject for next week would be "The Royal Sirois Commission." Professor Abbe, of Laval University, an eminent Canadian historian and writer, will be the guest speaker at the next meeting.

Mrs. C. R. Boast led a sing-song, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. E. Fee.

The guest speaker, Squadron Leader Denton Massey, M.P., Officer Commanding No. 3 I.T.S., Victoriaville, was introduced by the Chairman, who welcomed him on behalf of the Adult Education Group. Squadron Leader Massey was accompanied by Flt. Lt. Porteous. He had spoken in Asbestos to the Adult Education Group there prior to arriving in Richmond.

In opening his address, Mr. Massey expressed pleasure at having the opportunity to speak to citizens of Richmond, mentioning that the last time he had addressed them was at a Board of Trade meeting in the early summer. On behalf of the Airmen of No. 3 I.T.S. and himself, the Squadron Leader expressed his appreciation for hospitality shown them.

He stated that when we think of R.C.A.F., we immediately think of "pilot" which he said was an erroneous sequence for each member of the crew is essential. This illusion had been created by magazines, journals, books and movies which all tend to make the pilot "glamor boy." This is an age of machines and these machines require trained and skilled operators.

He went on to mention that on that afternoon of his speech, he had been talking to someone who had had breakfast in Scotland in the early morning and was going to have dinner in Canada. This feat achieved as it had been so frequently, was an amazing reminder of the lengths the aircraft industry has come since the days of Bishop and Collishaw.

Squadron Leader Massey paid tribute to Canadian air-mindedness, especially to those intrepid "Bush Pilots" and stated that prior to the war fifty-two per cent of the world's air-borne freight was carried by Canadian air lines. He cited the T. C. A. as a magnificent complement to the Canadian air-consciousness.

In speaking of the Joint Air Plan he stated that the magnitude of its scope was a challenge to the efforts of those connected with it. He praised Canada's part in the gigantic scheme very highly. He offered as an example the fact that there had been enough flying hours spent in connection with this scheme in Canada alone to fly to the moon and back.

Squadron Leader Massey had the greatest praise for the Air Crew as a whole, giving instances where each member would be indispensable. Even the Spitfire pilot, he said must credit the Armourer and Aero-Engine mechanic for the excellent condition of his machine.

He outlined the course taken by the Air Crew, including navigation, meteorology, aircraft recognition, theory of flying, signals, administration and mathematics. "This course," said the speaker, "was more intense than any High School course." This course could be considered in the light of an Officer's Training Course as those who graduated would become Non-Commissioned Officers or Commissioned Officers. A pilot spends four weeks at a Manning Depot, four weeks on guard duty, eight weeks at I.T.S., such as Victoriaville, eight weeks at Elementary Flying School and sixteen weeks at a Service Flying School at an Operational Training Unit. An observer spent eight weeks at I.T.S., twenty-two weeks at an Air Observers' School and six weeks at a Bombing and Gunnery School. He outlined the intensive training of the other members of Air Crew to fit them for their work.

Squadron Leader Massey expressed his admiration of the esprit de corps of the men saying that between May 1 and September 1 only three airmen were A.W.L., from Victoriaville I.T.S., among the hundreds of men who were at the station at intervals. Also as an example of the ability of the Air Crew he stated that three men had obtained 990 marks out of a possible 1000, and that one man who came 45th in his flight obtained 89 per cent. Most of the men, he said, who came to I.T.S., did so with the hope of becoming pilots, yet when some of them were found more adapted to be an observer, a wireless air gunner or another member of the Air Crew, they accepted the decision of the selection board with equanimity. In their Volunteer classrooms, in their sports and in their recreation they showed gentlemanly characteristics at all times.

In closing the Squadron Leader paid tribute to the Army, saying that in the end it must achieve the final victory. The Air Force would, speaking offensively, soften up the enemy and the gallant Navy would keep lines of communication open but it would be the Army which would strike the decisive blows. To this end the Armed Forces say "Give us the tools and we will finish the job."

Mr. K. G. Nourse thanked Squadron Leader Massey, expressing appreciation for the very interesting and informative address.

The meeting closed with the singing of God Save the King.

THE W. C. T. U.

The regular monthly meeting of the Richmond and Melbourne W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. L. C. Lemoine. The President, Mrs. M. Armitage, opened the meeting with a short devotional service. Mrs. J. A. Gardy, Secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Mrs. Armitage stated that several "White Ribbon Tidings" and other Temperance Literature had been sent to the Wales Home.

The coming Provincial Convention was discussed and Mrs. A. Norris was appointed as a delegate to attend the Sessions, which are to be held in Sherbrooke.

As the time is drawing near for the Temperance Papers to be written by pupils in the Sunday School, arrangements were made to have everything in readiness, when the first story is printed. Mrs. H. Jones was appointed to ascertain how many pupils had completed the five-year course. A pin will be awarded to these pupils.

Mrs. A. Norris was elected Superintendent of Literature. Mrs. Armitage read some interesting extracts from a speech given by Mr. Nicholson, M.P., of Saskatchewan.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. The hostess served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Armitage.

OBSERVE FIRE PREVENTION ON OCTOBER 4-10

Stating that every householder should regard it as a patriotic duty to prevent fires in his home during these critical times, Director Percy Donahue of the Municipal Police and Fire Department declared today that the week of October 4-10, which has been designed as Fire Prevention Week, will be observed in Sherbrooke.

Last year more than $28,000,000 that might have purchased planes, tanks and guns for a second front went up in smoke. It was Canada's annual fire loss.

Director Donahue said that fire is a major war weapon. "Every fire helps the enemy, whether started by accident or design," he pointed out.

Citizens are urged to have heating and lighting equipment examined; chimneys and pipes cleaned, and premises cleared of rubbish. Carelessness is the greatest saboteur in Canada, where fire losses are concerned, Director Donahue declared.

Last year 323 Canadian men, women and children died in fires.

Parents are warned simultaneously not to leave infants alone in the house. In 1941, of those who lost their lives in fire, 117 were children.

Director Donahue stressed that children should be taught the principles of fire prevention, not only during Fire Prevention Week, but all the weeks throughout the year.

Canadian-led raid at Diepp, August 19, told the House of Commons in London that Allied losses were "nearly half of the total" troops involved.

Mr. Churchill said British tanks were held up by the "altogether unexpected strength" of German defence blocks guarding the ends of Dieppe's streets.

Far Pacific: Allied headquarters said that Australian jungle fighters had captured the first objective of their New Guinea offensive, sent the Japanese fleeing Northward and seized quantities of abandoned enemy equipment.

"Our advance continues," the communique said.

Dispatches said Allied troops first seized the Ioribaiwa ridge, only 32 airline miles from Port Moresby, and then set out in pursuit of the retreating Japanese toward Nauro, 10 miles North of the ridge.

No further reports were forthcoming on the battles of the Solomon or Aleutian islands.

Mr. Churchill told the House that the Government of Northern Ireland is satisfied that the situation created by Irish Republican Army outbreaks is "well in hand."

The Prime Minister rejected the suggestion of Sir Ronald Ross that he establish an "effective boundary under military control between Ulster and Eire" in view of what the member called armed raids from neutral territory and "the East with which enemy agents could at present get information as to British and United States forces in Northern Ireland."

Effective measures already have been taken, Mr. Churchill declared.

people engaged in jobs or industries which have little or no relation to the outcome of the war.

Thus curtailment of less essential industry was necessary even though two other methods of solving the problem were being employed—the introduction of women into war work and increased efficiency on the part of present essential industries.

The curtailment programme would mean "revolutionary changes in the economic activities of this country." It was quite possible that "1,000,000 people would pass through the Selective Service offices in Canada within the nekt seven to nine months."

Actual curtailment of industry will be carried out by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Mr. Little said, while National Selective Service would co-operate so that the inconvenience of dislocation would be reduced to a minimum.

Referring to the introduction of women into war jobs, Mr. Little said the recent registration of women in the 20-24 age group disclosed nearly 250,000 women not at present engaged in insurable occupations, about 20 per cent of who were ready to start full-time work at once. Another seven per cent were ready for part-time work, and it was possible still more might be induced to take on full-time war jobs as the need increased.

ing for the word to go get Hitler, that they are beginning to suffer a bit from the strain like a runner who is poised for a tardy starting gun.

That is a condition which can only be cured when the Allies are ready for all-out offensive action.

In their hearts, the British people already have started the big drive to finish off Hitler. They are as eager as anyone else to slash through any possible delays.

You begin to understand this when you know that here in Britain every man, woman and child is a soldier. They've only one idea—to beat the Boche. They've reached the point where their money and other possessions of price don't mean much anymore. Their all-consuming purpose is to hang, draw and quarter Adolf Hitler.

PARTY LEADERS VARY VIEWS ON VOTING RESULT

Republican Spokesman Sees Party Victory in November Voting While Democrats Claim Re-election.

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A Republican prediction that the party would win control of the House of Representatives in the November elections was countered today by a Democratic spokesman who expressed the belief that Democrats not only would retain their majority but might increase it slightly.

The Republican speaker was Frank E. Gannett, Assistant Chairman of the Republican National Committee, who told a party dinner last night the United States is in an "awful mess" from bungling of the war effort and new Presidential threats to undermine the Constitution, and added:

"If the voters in November will elect a Republican house, as I believe they will, then we can check the New Deal follies, get rid of the inefficiency in our government, prosecute the war more vigorously and hasten that happy day when our boys will come back home."

Representative Jed Johnson of Oklahoma, head of the Speakers' Bureau of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, meanwhile told reporters:

"I don't think there's the remotest possibility of a turnover which would give the Republicans a majority in the House."

(Present membership of the House is: Democrats 256; Republicans 165, with minority parties and vacancies making up the remainder of the 435. A clear majority is 218).

R.A.F. PLANES SINK ANOTHER NAZI SUB

London, Sept. 30.— (AP) —One more Nazi submarine rested today on the bottom of the Bay of Biscay, its days of preying on United Nations' shipping at an end, thanks to the work of two British planes which accomplished what the Air Ministry News Service called "one of the most spectacular U-boat kills of the war."

A coastal command plane, sighting the sub, straddled it with bombs, disabling it. The bomber command plane then attacked the undersea craft, picking off the gun crew.

Additional bombs were dropped, sinking the sub. As it sank, air from within the hull poured from the conning tower like a geyser, ejecting the crew into the water.

Hamel, deported to the United States on three previous occasions, was arrested by Canadian Immigration officials after crossing the border from Vermont. He was termed an "undesirable alien" by immigration police before the Court.

Little Proprietor Necessity For Future Of This Province

Hon. Oscar Drouin, Hon. Hector Perrier and Maurice Duplessis Speakers at Banquet Concluding Two-Day Congress of Union of Proprietors' Leagues of the Province of Quebec—Consideration of Union's Requests Promised.

One of the rare occasions on which Ministers of the Government of the Province of Quebec and the Leader of the Opposition voice similar convictions presented itself last night at the wind-up banquet of the 10th annual Congress of the Union of Proprietors' Leagues of the Province of Quebec.

Addressing three nundred and fifty people at the Mount Pleasant Club, Hon. Oscar Drouin, Minister of Municipal Affairs, Trade and Commerce, Hon. Hector Perrier, Provincial Secretary, and Maurice Duplessis, Opposition chieftain, agreed that property is the base upon which a solid future for the Province must be built, and that everything possible should be done to assist andencourage the small property owner.

There were no commitments made by the Government spokesmen, although both Mr. Drouin and Mr. Perrier urged the Proprietors' Leagues to continue their excellent work and to present their various problems and requests to Quebec, where they will always be given a sympathetic and understanding hearing.

The banquet was presided over by Pierre Chiasson, of Quebec, retiring President of the Union, and with him at the head-table, in addition to the Ministers and the Opposition Leader were Mayor A. C. Ross and Mrs. Ross, Maurice Gingues, M.P. for Sherbrooke, P. E. Cote, M.P. for Verdun, J. H. Leclerc, M.P. for Shefford, Hon. L. A. Giroux, M.L.C., of Sweetsburg, J. S. Bourque, M.L.A. for Sherbrooke, J. H. Dupuis, of Montreal, the new President of the Union, E. A. Bernard, President of the Sherbrooke Proprietors' League, Ald. J. W. Genest, Ald. Armand Fisette, Emery Sauve, of Montreal, and C. J. Baillargeon, of Quebec.

Expressing regret that the great bulk of working classes in the Province are not property owners, Mr. Drouin declared property to be a rampart against seditious ideas and a base for the solid economic establishment of the race, and said that an effort should be made to increase greatly the numbers of small proprietors.

The Minister, although not in a position to pronounce himself on the question of urban credits, promises serious consideration of the matter and asked the proprietors to submit it to the Legislature at the next session.

In his address Mr. Duplessis attacked the concentration of riches in the hands of a few capitalists, claiming it to be the great father of Communism, and declared, "the day when Quebec has not its little proprietors will be fatal for the race, for the Province and for the country."

Mr. Duplessis expressed himself in favor of a lowering of rates of interest, and considered the moratorium to be a necessity, not as a remedy but as a temporary solution to a difficult situation.

Agreeing that serious consideration must be given the situation of the small proprietor, Mr. Perrier voiced the question as to whether the situation might not be aggravated by seeking to apply a remedy, and also said consideration must be given the lender of mortgage money, who had lent it with the idea of getting it back at the stipulated period for use in his own business.

Subjects dealt with and actions taken at the Congress were reviewed by Mr. Chiasson in his introductory remarks at the banquet. The retiring President extended thanks to the City of Sherbrooke and the Department of Municipal Affairs for their financial assistance to the Congress, and the members of the local League for their work in making the Congress possible. The new President, Mr. Dupuis, called upon the Government to give serious consideration to the requests of the proprietors, and appealed to the Union to continue its excellent work.

Mayor Ross congratulated the Union on its successful Congress, and said it had been a pleasure for the citizens of Sherbrooke to be hosts to such an important event.

Membership Drive for 1942-43 Sherbrooke Community Concert Association Will Get Underway Next Week.

Membership campaign for 1942-43 of the Sherbrooke Community Concert Association will get underway next week, with headquarters in the Canadian National Railway office on Wellington Street, and it is hoped that residents of this city will once again take advantage of the opportunity to hear excellent musical artists perform here at very moderate prices.

This year the concerts will be held in the Premier Theatre, instead of in Christ Roi Church Hall, and six hundred people will be accommodated in the theare. This year six hundred memberships to the Association will be sold.

Home Services Campaign Being Extended To End Of Week

In order to give the canvassers additional time in which to make all their calls and turn in their collections to Headquarters, the local Home Services Campaign in aid of the Young Men's Christian Association, the Salvation Army and the Young Women's Christian Association, originally scheduled to be concluded today, has been extended until the end of the week.

While the drive has so far made slow progress, with only $5,248.44 of the objective of $12,000 being raised, officials are of the opinion that the campaign will prove successful if the canvassers do their work thoroughly during the next few days.

Forty-five per cent of the money raised is to be given to the Y.M.C.A., forty per cent to the Salvation Army and the remainder to the Y.W.C.A. These funds will enable the local institutions to carry on their many services on the home front, which must not be allowed to stop in spite of the fact that all three organizations are doing extensive war work.

Citizens who have known the wonderful work of the Salvation Army in aid of those in unfortunate circumstances, and the body and character building activity of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. will surely not turn a deaf ear today to their appeal for assistance.

NO DEDUCTION AT SOURCE FOR MANY FARMERS

Employers of Men Engaged in Harvesting of Crops Relieved from Deduction of Tax at Source.

Employers of men engaged in the harvesting of crops are relieved, under the provision of a new order-in council, from deduction of tax at the source as provided for in the table of tax deductions, if such employers file a statement with the Inspector of Income Tax for their district, it was announced today.

The statement should certify that employees who were engaged in harvesting of the 1942 crop will not receive during the calendar year sufficient income to render them liable to tax in Canada, and should contain the following information:

The name of the employee, address where employed, the amount paid per day, week or month and the total of each and the signature and address of the employee.

Nurses who are not on the straight salary basis are not subject to tax deductions at the source on the amounts paid them by patients, it also was learned at the same time.

Such nurses will be dealt with as professional persons, it was explained, and will be required to pay their tax in quarterly instalments. The first quarterly payment under the plan covering the 1942 tax will be paid before October 15 next. Thereafter payments will be made on or before January 15, April and July, 1943. Such nurses will be required to file their 1942 Income Tax Returns on or before April 30, 1943.

The new ruling has been awaited for a long time, it was pointed out, as doubt existed about the question of patients deducting tax when paying the nurses.

FRED DUCKETT GUEST SPEAKER AT ROTARY CLUB

Fred Duckett, of Montreal, explained the important part orthopaedic appliances play not only in preventing deformity in cases of infantile paralysis but in enabling children to walk, in addressing members of the Sherbooke Rotary Club last night in the New Sherbrooke House. Several reels of motion pictures were shown on orthopaedic appliances, artificial limbs and the re-habilitation of crippled children to illustrate many of his points during his talk.

"The wooden leg is still mostly used, but, sooner or later, it will no doubt be discarded and completely replaced by the metal limb," the speaker said. "Nowadays the best limb, that is the lightest, strongest and most comfortbale is made of Alcoa metal, which is used in the construction of airplanes because of its light weight."

The speaker pointed out that one of its chief features is the ball bearing articulation of the knee and ankle which assures a marvellous ease of movement. "Some day, metal limbs will be constructed from even lighter alloys such as magnesium, which is one-third the weight of aluminum."

In the modern metal limb the alignment is definitely included by a patented hydraulic machine which cannot make a mistake and with two hundred dies, while in the wooden prothesis, it depends on the good judgment and trained eye of the limb maker, Mr. Duckett said.

"The present method of supplying limbs is not in keeping with scientific progress. Surgery has made wonderful steps forward during the last fifty years and the making of orthopaedic and prosthetic apparatus also has improved greatly, but the fitting of these is not modernized."

He maintained that whatever the type of limb, wherever it comes from, it is worthless if the wearer cannot have it fitted properly and refitted at times when needed, which service is included in the care of artificial limbs.

Introduced by Lee Audet, Chairman of the Rotary Club Crippled Children's Committee, Mr. Duckett was thanked by W. L. Dixon.

Roland Roy, twenty-one years of age, who was supplied with an artificial leg by the Rotary Club in 1938, was present at the meeting. "This is one of the many cases, undertaken by Rotary here, where the artificial limb has done a good job," Mr. Audet said.

He stated that young Roy, shortly after getting his artificial leg, managed to get a job at a woodyard and several years later went to a local machinery shop, where he is learning a trade, and at the same time earning an average at $21 weekly. "In view of the fact that his father is in ill health, this young man is contributing to the upkeep of a family of four," Mr. Audet disclosed.

Ten members of the local Rotary Club will attend the first social meeting on Saturday night of the recently organized Thetford Mines Rotary Club.

Tickets for the Rotary Fair to be held in November at the Belvidere Street Armory were distributed at the luncheon.

AUTO CRASHES INTO BUILDING ON PEEL STREET

Wilfred Roy, 6 Peel Street, reported to police yesterday that a car driven by Robert Poisson, 27 Peel Street, struck the parked auto of D. Belanger, 129 King Street West, in front of 9 Peel Street, and then crossed the sidewalk and crashed into the front of the house which he occupies. The two cars and the front of the residence were damaged, police said.

The Poisson machine was Southbound on Peel Street at the time of the mishap. The home in which Roy resides is owned by Mrs. J. A. Jutras, 89 Marquette Street.

A car was damaged considerably as a result of an accident with a truck, which also was damaged in front of 336 King Street West.

Driver of the machine was J. B. Vaillancourt, 103 Galt Street, and A. Mailhot, 449 Brock Street, Drummondville, was the operator of the truck. Police said that the car Vaillancourt was driving is the property of Industrial Acceptance Corporation, 1540 Dorion Street, Montreal.

When the collision occurred, the auto was travelling West on King Street and the truck was turning North from the same thoroughfare.

BAD WATER REGRETTED

Sherbrooke's bad drinking water was brought to the attention of delegates to the 10th annual Congress of the Union of Proprietors' Leagues of the Province of Quebec last night when Mayor A. C. Ross, speaking at the banquet at the Mount Pleasant Club, said that the only unfortunate feature in the visit of so many people from other cities and towns in Quebec was that they had to drink the local "aqua pura."

The Mayor expressed the hope that the water situation will have been ameliorated by the time the Congress meets here again, and that the local Proprietors' League would take an active interest in the improvement of the water.

TERMS DELAYED ACTION BOMBS UNDEPENDABLE

Chemical Warfare Expert Addresses Lennoxville C.P.C. and Rural Adult Education Group — To Give Demonstration.

A marked dislike for delayed action bombs which he described as "undependable," was voiced by Sgt. Edouard Moreau, chemical warfare expert of the Sherbrooke Municipal Police and Fire Department, last night. He was lecturing before members of the Lennoxville Civilian Protection Committee and Rural Education group in the second of a series of three talks on civilian protection in wartime and incendiary bombs, in the Lennoxville High School.

"Delayed action bombs, he pointed out, "may lie buried for weeks or months before exploding." Repeating the warning he has given at other similar meetings, Sgt. Moreau advised against a complacent "it can't happen here" attitude.

Explaining the intensive and scatter types of bombs, he said that the former type, where the heat and flames are concentrated in a limited space, were used to set houses afire, heavy construction and targets generally difficult to ignite, such as warehouses, depots, docks, etc. He said that the scatter type is used where the incendiary materials are scattered in a number of small burning masses over a relatively large area, in order to start fires at a number of points simultaneously in large targets of inflammable or easily lighted materials, such as grain fields or wooden areas, to cause forest fires ,or even in light construction such as private homes.

In dealing with the combatting of incendiary bomb fires, he asserted that a fire in a house caused by a bomb of this type, is no different from a fire due to a more common cause, and it is dealt with in the same manner as any other fire. "However, dealing with the bomb itself, special precautions are necessary," the speaker stated.

Equipment needed to fight incendiary bombs include at least ten gallons of water, preferably in two or three buckets distributed in various parts of the building. He warned that the contents of the buckets should not be emptied directly on the burning bomb.

Other equipment needed is a garden hose equipped with a quick coupling connection to fit domestic faucets and long-handled shovels, heavy leather gloves and a fire axe, as well as a coal scuttle, bucket or special receptacle for use in removing bombs. These should be prepared ready for use with three or four inches of dry sand covering their bottoms to prevent incendiaries from burning through when being carried, Sgt. Moreau explained.

"The firefighter must decide in each case whether to deal first with the fire or the bomb itself. If the fire has already gained considerable headway, it will be necessary to get it under control at once. On the other hand, if it has not progressed appreciably, the bomb itself should receive first attention, he stated.

Next Tuesday, Sgt. Moreau will give a demonstration in Lennoxville with the various types of bombs and will show the proper method employed in dousing them.

Proprietors Seek Rent Rise In Keeping With Increased Costs Of Work And Material

J. H. Dupuis, of Montreal, was elected President of the Union of Proprietors' Leagues of the Province of Quebec at a Directors' meeting held following yesterday afternoon's general session at the Club, headquarters of the two-day Congress which ended last night.

A number of important recommendations to Federal and Provincial authorities were passed during the deliberations, among them a request for increases in rents, it being the opinion of Congress that the rents as they are pegged at present are not in keeping with the increased costs which have to be met by proprietors.

Other officers elected were the following: De la Bruere Fortier, of Quebec, First Vice-President; J. O. Dubuc, of Sherbrooke, Second Vice-President; Paul Dansereau, of Montreal, Treasurer; Albert Lamoureux, of Montreal, Secrctary; Hector Lalonde, of Montreal, legal advisor; Pierre Chiasson, of Verdun, Honorary Second Vice-President.

Directors elected were J. H. Gagne, J. H. Laframboise and Hon. Alfred Leduc, of Montreal; J. I. Bilodeau, of St. Johns; H. P. Cimon, of Quebec; L. J. Dostaler, of Grand'Mere; Camille Lavoie, of St. Joseph d'Alma; Edgar Lemaire, of St. Simon; Horace Melancon, of Verdun; Leon Methot, of Three Rivers; Joseph Parenteau, of St. Jean Baptiste; L. Tetreault, of St. Joseph de Grantham, and A. H. Tremblay, of Drummondville.

Resolutions drawn up by the committee dealing with the moratorium and interest rates on mortgages contained recommendations both to the Provincial and Federal Governments. It was recommended that the Provincial Government prorogue for a period lasting until one year after the end of the war, the reimbursement of capital on mortgage debts and order the suspension of payment of the difference of interest over and above the annual five per cent tax.

The Congress also recommended the institution of an organization to make a study of the mortgage situation in urban centres of the Province, a situation which, it was felt, is not understood by either the Government or the tax-paying property owners.

It was also recommended that the Federal Government limit to five per cent yearly the tax on mortgage interest on immoveable debts on urban property which were in existence on or before October 11, 1941.

Institution by the Provincial Government of a system of property evaluation which would be uniform in every city, town and municipality in Quebec was recommended in a resolution brought forward by the committee studying the valuation roll and school taxes, the project to be carried on under the supervision of a pernanent committee made up of civil engineers, architects and construction contractors. It was also suggested that a board of appeal to settle any disputes arising from this evaluation be formed of representatives of the permanent committee and of the city in question, and a judge named by the Government.

The Government was urged to establish immediately a Provincial educational tax to be levied on all Provincial taxpayers, with the exception of church, charity, welfare and educational institutions, and to distribute the amount raised among school municipalities in proportion to population.

The Congress recommended that the Federal Government authorize the nomination of local representatives of the Proprietors' Leagues on the various local rent committees of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and also that a ceiling be placed on the municipal and school taxes of cities and towns.

Contending that costs of materials and labor for the improvement and care of properties has increased twenty-five per cent since 1939, and that the present fixed rents do not allow for this increase or provide the proprietor any yield from the capital invested, the Congress recommended to Federal authorities an increase of fifteen per cent in rent for serviced apartments and of ten per cent for non-serviced tenements and houses.

The Congress accepted and recommended urban credit, with certain restrictions, holding the view that it should not be speculative, and should be limited to the small proprietors. It was also recommended that this loan project should be administered by organizations independent of the Government, such as loan companies, insurance firms and "caisses populaires."

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

THREE FURIES LURK AROUND THE CORNER

When it gets around to this time of year, we can pretty well count on it that three traditional enemies of our comfort are skulking just around the corner — plotting a devilish new "blitz." Of course, we mean those old wintertime bogeymen — snow, ice and sleety rain. What they can do to houses that aren't in good repair to fend off their attacks is, as the saying goes, "just too bad." And with wartime shortages of certain home repair materials already casting an ominous shadow in advance — Well, it's a wise policy for all of us to check up on needed home repairs and maintenance now.

You see, at this time, Johns-Manville dealers can still provide right out of stock many materials which may be scarce next week, or next month. That's why we urge you to act at once. DISSATISFACTION IN THE BALKANS

An optimistic but anonymous Yugoslav official in London has likened the present frenzied situation in the Balkans to that of 1918 on the eve of the collapse of the satellite members of the Hohenzollern-Hapsburg Axis. That autumn Turkey, Bulgaria and Austria-Hungary one by one raised the white flag and the German surrender followed quickly.

But hopes built on any imaginary parallel between that September and this almost certainly will prove illusory. Undoubtedly Hitler, like the Kaiser, is having trouble keeping his lesser allies of the Southeast up to the mark. There can be little doubt that it requires the strongest kind of pressure to keep the Rumanians and Hungarians fighting side by side against the Red army, not to mention the Italians.

But the parallel ends about there. In 1918 the British army already had conquered large sections of the Turkish Empire; Bulgaria had been invaded by the Allies. The polyglot armies of the Austro-Hungarian Empire were simply melting away.

Today the threat of invasion is far away from Hungary and Rumania. The armies they have contributed to the Russian campaign are fighting from 500 to 1,000 miles from home and the promises that they are to share in the spoils of conquest, or at least have favored places in the Hitlerian new order, have the appearance of fairly sound currency. Then, too, the ties with which the Nazi conqueror grapples his satellites to his cause are of far tougher fibre than those of 1918, far more ruthless terrorism, greater thoroughness of political control, the all-prevading fear invoked by the Gestapo.

But signs are appearing that the one-sided alliance is suffering increasing stresses. Fear was the primary force that brought the Balkan states into the combination, fear and greed. Now fear is being exerted from the other side and the costs are rising alarmingly.

Although the battlefronts are far away the war has been brought home to Bucharest, Budapest, Sofia and Zagreb by the long-range bomber, British, Russian, American.

Meanwhile the costs of the new order are mounting frightfully. Allied officials in London say that Rumania's contribution, in the sieges of Odessa, Sevastopol and now Stalingrad, have reached the appalling total of 300,000 in dead alone. The evidence is strong that Hitler has allotted his allies a place of honor in the front ranks of those sanguinary operations. And the Nazi pressure continues for more generous contributions. There is little doubt that that was the meaning of last week's meetings at Hitler's headquarters on the Eastern front, whither he summoned the Premiers of Rumania and Croatia to tell them what more was expected of them.

DUST BOWL GREEN AGAIN

For several years in succession the people of Canada read about the tragedy of the farmers in what was called "The Dust Bowl" of the United States, that vast area roughly comprising Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas where there was no crops nor feed for stock. Countless head of livestock died of thirst, and the farmers who did not move away in time eked out a very scant existence. Their top soil was blown away, and for lack of rain they had no water.

Now all that is changing. The "Dust Bowl" is green again, and water is flowing.

Beginning about five years ago the Federal Government advanced loans to the States and the farmers for re-establishment. Aided by the Public Works Administration and the Civilian Conservation Corps dams, ponds, reservoirs, pumping stations, canals, ditches and flumes were built to carry water to the arid areas. Cereal crops, feed for livestock, alfalfa, clover and grass pastures, besides home gardens sprang into life. A wet summer last year was a providential aid. There will never be another "Dust Bowl." There will be no more farm tragedies.

An important development is the way farm families have helped themselves by formation of co-operatives covering all kinds of farm products. More than one thousand co-operatives have been created, ranging from two to three families to large numbers, who may jointly buy a tractor or a windmill, or operate thousands of acres on which cattle are grazed at three dollars a season.

CHIEF JUSTICE GREENSHIELDS

The sudden death of Chief Justice R. A. E. Greenshields removes from the bench of the Province of Quebec one of its ablest and most colorful figures. A native of the Eastern Townships, being born at Danville, and educated at schools in that district, he began his practice in Montreal after acting as counsel for the defence of Louis Riel, charged with leading the North West Rebellion, in 1885. Fame came early to him and he soon won honors as one of the leading criminal lawyers of the Province, serving as Crown Prosecutor for some time but later specializing in defence work.

He ascended the Bench in 1910 and twenty-three years later was honored with the rank of Chief Justice. His keenness and wit were renowned and usually found their way into his judgments, especially in the more technical and involved cases where his reviews and comments often served to simplify what appeared to be an incomprehensible mass of technicalities.

Aside from his judicial duties, he was keenly interested in general welfare, and at the time of his death and for the past several years was Chancellor of Bishop's University.

AUSTRALIA AND CONSCRIPTION

One of the most insistent problems now facing the Government of Australia is whether it should take action to amalgamate the two branches of the Commonwealth army fighting in New Guinea, a question which is being debated all over the dominion.

These branches are the compulsorily-called up militia for defence only within Australian territories and the voluntarily-enlisted A. I. F. to serve anywhere.

The Opposition favors making the entire army available for service anywhere and making the entire service subject to conscription, but as yet no clear-cut effort has been made in Parliament to amend the Defence Act to make this possible.

Army Minister F. M. Forde has maintained, however, that such a large proportion of the militia is enlisting in the A.I.F. that such amendments are unnecessary.

Former Prime Minister A. W. Fadden declared that a majority of the men in both sections of the army would welcome an action that would weld them into one unit and charged that the Government avoided taking this step for political reasons.

He said: "Japan is waging total war. If we are to succeed, we must do the same. One of the most effective steps we could take would be to have one army for service anywhere. Prime Minister John Curtin should indicate where the Government stands on this important subject."

BRITAIN'S GREAT HARVEST

Before the war, Britain imported about $3,000,000,000 worth of foodstuffs a year, the country being only thirty-three per cent self-supporting. This year the Department of Agriculture and the people contemplate with satisfaction an agricultural yield that makes the country sixty-six per cent self-sufficient, and defies the efforts of the Germans to starve them, besides relieving the pressure on vital shipping. Before the war, Britain had 12,000,000 acres under cultivation; this year there were 18,000,000, much of it land that had not been cultivated for generations, even for hundreds of years, large areas being reclaimed swamps. English gardens, once perhaps the world's most beautiful, grow flowers no longer. They grow vegetables instead. Grains and vegetables are grown on what used to be lovely lawns and parks; church grounds are vegetable gardens, and vegetables are even grown in window boxes. No space is wasted.

Before the war, imports included 7,000,000 tons of animal feeding stuffs. This year it was only necessary to import about 1,500,000 tons. Britain grew half her wheat needs this year and with 500,000 acres of sugar beet there was enough sugar to meet the weekly rations of everybody without importing a single pound. One million acres were devoted to potatoes. England is a great agricultural country as it was before the industrial evolution that began with the discovery of steam.

Sir John Orr, the noted food specialist, asserts that with the use of agricultural machinery and the scientific preparation of foods, one man working half a day, produces as much as a man did working for a whole month in the nineteenth century.

It was stated a few days ago by Lord Woolton, the Minister of Food, that notwithstanding the lack of variety in the diet the health of the people is better than ever it was. The Ministry has given nationwide instructions on how to prepare foods so as to produce the maximum of nutritional value. The housewives have learned many things they never knew before. Pastry, for instance, is made with mashed potatoes and tastes like pastry made with flour.

Many things have to be done without. But the people are thriving on "Woolton pie," which is all-vegetable, and other Woolton recipies.

Nevertheless, it is incumbent upon us in Canada to make some sacrifices in the matter of bacon, salmon and dairy products to help them out.

The ground is so wet in many sections that the farmers are compelled to fall back on the scythe and the sickle for harvesting their corn and buckwheat.

PRESS COMMENTS

WHEN BRITAIN STOOD ALONE

New York Times

Every war has its disillusionments, even for those who are to be the victors — sometimes, above all, for them. Statesmen make mistakes. Generals and admirals miss opportunities. In parliamentary countries legislators squabble and waste time. War production never comes up to hopes. Censors are pigheaded. The spectre of what might have been pursues the democracies in this war, and we can be sure, though the facts are more securely hidden, the autocracies, too.

Britain is no exception. How easy it is, with a little help from Axis sources, to find the flaws and rust in her armor! As easy, almost, as to find the defects in our own. But there will never be any disillusionment as to what was happening in the skies above England, and in England's streets, cellars, subways, shelters, shops, factories, on England's docks, farms, railways, in the hearts and minds of English people, two years ago this week. If this war were to be lost, if a hundred years of the beast were to begin tomorrow, that week of 1940 would still be remembered, and the memory would still make certain that some day freedom would be regained.

The Battle of Britain in September, 1940, was a great victory. It has grown greater in perspective. It was not a victory for the British Empire, the House of Lords, the British way of talking our common language, the old school tie or the British habit of being reserved with strangers. It was a victory, first, for the British people—all of them, those of Norman ancestry and the men on the docks, for a King as a man unafraid, but also for sergeant pilots, tramway conductors, women serving beer in pubs and women in uniform running ambulances, for common, ordinary people like the people of our own city, who didn't know how they would take it but did take it.

If the pilots and gunners and people of Britain, the lords and the commons and the people living in slums, the rich and the sick and the old and the dispossessed, hadn't stood up to the Nazi assault two years ago; if they hadn't cursed or laughed at the Nazi raiders, according to their natures; if any considerable number of them for one moment had seriously considered surrender, not only Britain would have been lost; the world of civilized men would have been lost, for untold years. New York City wouldn't have had practice blackouts — it would have had real ones. Times Square would look like Rotterdam and Coventry. The material which makes up this newspaper would be written, put into type and printed under fire. Or it would not be written at all, because the terms of peace with Nazi Germany would prohibit it.

France fell but Britain stood. This is what happened in 1940. The people of Britain held the line until reinforcements could be brought up. They held as Stalingrad has held. This is no miracle of social systems. It is a miracle of human nature, which asserts its dignity against the forces of hell.

Because Britain held in 1940 Russia can now hold, China fights on, guerrillas in the Balkans die with their hands on Nazi throats but their places are taken by others. Because Britain held, mankind can now hope.

This week we can well bow our heads in memory of the dead pilots and the dead civilians of Britain. We can well hold out our hands to the living, who pray with us, who march with us, who will stand with us on the day of victory.

ONLY GERMAN MUSIC ALLOWED TO EXIST

Argonaut, San Francisco.

Eugene Petrov, young Soviet Russian author recently killed in the defence of Sevastopol, wrote a few months prior to his death:

"Recently I talked with a German prisoner, Reinhard Reif, who before the war had taught the theory of music in the Conservatory of Kassel. Reif is a pianist and violinist and a typical young Hitlerite, brought up like hundred of thousands of other young Hitlerites. We began talking of music. I soon discovered that this Hitlerite professional musician was a complete ignoramous in matters of music. He knew only more or less thoroughly German classical music. He was entirely unacquainted with Italian music, had only the vaguest idea of Russian music, and was firmly convinced that there is no music in France and that the French have no ability to compose.

"These are frightful facts. They mean that from his earliest years a creatively gifted youth had been put in a musical concentration camp where only one music—German—was allowed to exist."

What young Petrov did not mention is that Hitler drove the best of the living creative musicians from Germany, as well as all the conquered territory, and has crushed utterly every manifestation of progressive or "new" musical trends in those unable to escape his clutches.

MORE USEFUL JOBS

Toronto Telegram

Under a Presidential executive order the U.S. War Manpower Commissioner, Paul V. McNutt, has assumed power to transfer civil servants to more effective work wherever necessary. The transfer can be made without their consent providing it will make an effective contribution to the war. A similar authority ought to be given to Elliott M. Little, the National Selective Service Director, to requisition the services of Federal non-war departmental employees and provincial and municipal servants. A shortage of clerical help is being experienced in some of the war departments and it would be partially relieved if employees were drawn from less essential jobs under the Crown.

ALWAYS EXPECTED

Winnipeg Free Press

If the intention to give to Canadian air crews the right reserved to other air crews, allows them to fight this war within their own units under their compatriot commands is a form of nationalism, we see nothing to be ashamed of, but much to admire. It may be a small matter, but there is some gratification in knowing that the nationalism connoted by this change should answer a common complaint heard in Quebec. It is gratifying that the change approved by the British Air Ministry has always been expected under the terms of the air training plan. It is doubly gratifying to contemplate Canadian youth meeting the foe as valiantly and as nationally and as recognizably as do their comrades in the air—British, American, Polish, Czech, and all the host flying to battle from Australia, New Zealand, and other parts of the Empire.

DUE FOR REVISION

Halifax Herald

Through its rural agents, the Administration should be able to obtain an adequate and accurate picture of the farm mortgage position and to determine the rates now being paid. It then could aid in negotiating charges based on persent day conditions and risks, both undoubtedly substantially better than they were a few years ago. For the recalcitrant lender it probably would be necessary to fix, by legislation, a maximum farm-interest rate — a measure to which reasonable lenders could have no objection.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

Baltimore Sun

It has been shown again and again that steam plants could be built to meet the local power demand much more rapidly, more economically and more efficiently; the chief engineer of the Niagara Frontier Planning Board itself issued last year a report to that effect which has never been refuted. To those economic arguments has since been added the unanswerable argument which the war itself affords. Mr. Roosevelt's remarks encourage the belief that until after the war at least the St. Lawrence seaway plan will be placed where it clearly belongs, on the shelft. It could be emphasized that in this matter as in many others the President has at last reached a position patiently expounded by opposing authorities months ago. But the important thing is the evidence that a pet project has been set aside to permit fuller attention to the single purpose of winning the war.

FORLORN HOPE

Ottawa Citizen

Canadians can acknowledge at least one service that the presence here of the Vichy Minister may facilitate. It is to be hoped that the Canadian Government's protest against a deportation back to Germany of Jewish refugees at Nazi demand will help to stiffen the French to non-compliance.

DECLARER'S DARING CONFUSES DEFENCE

Two players who received a real thrill in the recent national tournament were Murray Gross of Asheville, N.C., and Dr. William Lipton of New York, who finished second in the national men's pair championship. They were rightly proud of their achievement in this fine field.

Today's hand gave them a good score. Gross, who was declarer, let the diamond jack win the first trick. West led the ten and South won. On a third diamond lead to the ace, West unhappily let go a club. Dummy cashed the king and queen of clubs, then a fourth diamond lead put Gross in. West let go the jack of hearts. Gross cashed the ace of clubs and led a fourth round to knock out the jack.

West, now thoroughly demoralized, exited with a spade, which put Gross in with the queen to cash the long club. West found he had to part with his spade stopper or the ace of hearts, and Gross made five-odd.

RIDDLE OF THE YEAR

Today's Favorite Poem

AUTUMN

Leaf by leaf the leaves are falling,
Day by day the years roll on.
They are gone beyond recalling,
Leaving footprints on the sand.

Have we spoken words of comfort,
Have we spoken words of cheer
To the many broken-hearted
In this world of strife and tears?

We do not think such things are noticed,
But God doth note the sparrow's fall,
Every kindness done to others,
God will bless, however small.

Leaf by leaf the leaves are falling,
Day by day the years roll on.
If one day we fail in kindness
It has gone beyond recall.

CLARENCEVILLE PASTOR GIVES FINAL SERMON

Large Congregation Hears Last Address by Willard Meldrum, B.A., Who Had Charge of Church During Summer.

Clarenceville, Sept. 30.—A large congregation assembled at the Clarenceville Baptist Church to attend its last service of worship for the year on September 20, and to bid farewell to their pastor, Willard Meldrum, B.A., who had very faithfully and acceptably served them during the summer months and who is now leaving for Fuller Institute, Grande Ligne, to resume his duties there as a teacher.

During the service Mr. Meldrum delivered an interesting and inspiring address on the subject, "Expect Great Things From God and Attempt Great Things for Him."

He reviewed the achievements of the Church during the summer and pointed out that those achievements should inspire the people to go forward and to attempt greater things for God.

The summer has been a season of great activity for the Church. The Church building and the Church Hall have each received two coats of paint, the painting having been done by members and friends of the Church. Metal roofing was also placed on two sides of the roof of the hall much to the delight of the people of the community.

The Church bell, after having been silent for some five years, is again pealing out its call to worship.

The services of the Church have been well attended and interest has grown throughout the summer.

The members and friends regret seeing the services closed for the winter but are already making plans for another year.

Good Manners for Good Times

Making Errors in Public

Little do Bob and Jane know whom they disturb as they charge into their movie seats! A pair they'd like to know better—the popular, well-bred young Browns!

And right now the Browns are sighing, "What can you expect of people who don't know that the girl should enter the row first!"

Such points of etiquette are simple enough to learn. On a double date at the movies one man enters the row first, the two girls next, the other man last.

At dances—crude for a man to ask a girl, "Have you got this dance taken?" But smooth and correct is "Shall we dance this?" Nor does a well-bred girl make herself conspicuous by walking across the dance floor alone, but asks her escort to take her.

Very formal parties with a receiving line? No hesitations when you know it's proper for the girl to precede the man down the line, introduce herself and her escort to the person at the head.

Have better times, win new friends by knowing fine points of etiquette. Our 32-page booklet explains manners for movies, dancing, formal parties, other occasions. Gives pointers on introductions, correct dress, good form at games.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "Etiquette For Young Moderns" to Daily Record, Home Service, Sherbrooke, Que. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

SHERBROOKE HOSPITAL LADIES' AUXILIARY

Resumption of activity after the summer's quiet, for the members of the Sherbrooke Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary resulted in the formation of plans to "carry on" on the "Home Front" for the benefit of this worthy institution, which in war-time as in peace-time, cares for the sick and suffering citizens of the Eastern Townships.

The opening session took place on Monday afternoon at the MacKinnon Memorial, with the President, Mrs. Gordon MacKay, in the chair.

The minutes as read by Mrs. Ronald Mooney, Secretary, were adopted, following which Mrs. J. K. Edwards, Treasurer, presented the financial statement. Mrs. Edwards explained that although the annual campaign for the Sherbrooke Hospital is practically over, yet returns are not completed, and the final report will be delayed until all monies are handed in, in order that the total amount be correctly stated. It was decided to hold the regular annual bridge and jam shower during the last week in October, and owing to the regrettable illness of Miss Verna K. Beane, it was agreed that the members would entertain at bridge in their own homes, during the final week of October, the donations of jam, which it is expected will be even more generous than heretofore, will be received by each hostess, who in turn will deliver same to 140 Wellington Street North, whence through the courtesy of Mr. L. Stevenson, the "shower of jam" will be delivered to the Hospital. Mrs. G. T. Armstrong reported for the buying committee on purchases of linen, etc., made during the summer to supply the Hospital's needs.

After all unfinished business had been disposed of the meeting adjourned until November.

Mr. A. Lampright, who spent the week-end at his home on Stanley Avenue, has returned to St. Eugene, Ont.

Social life at the Sherbrooke Country Club enjoyed fresh impetus on Saturday afternoon when under the supervision of Mrs. T. R. Mackenzie, Social Convener, the annual autumn bridge and tea most successfully concluded the season's activities for the Ladies' Branch. Mrs. MacKenzie and Miss Elizabeth Haight received in the entrance hall, where autumn flowers in profusion were used to decorate. Bridge was played in the living room and in the sun porches, they, too, being gay with flowers and brilliant foliage. The prize at each table was a War Savings Stamp. Many additional guests joined the players at the tea hour, when Mrs. J. Keith Edwards and Mrs. D. A. Turnbull did the honors at the beautifully-appointed tea table, which most effectively continued the autumnal coloring with marigolds in shades of gold and orange, and bright red asters arranged in a silver bowl, while many lemon-yellow tapers completed the harmonious tout ensemble. CONVOYED MACARONI

A New "Get-Together" Dish

THE addition of the right sauce means the difference between the family asking for more or turning up their noses at your efforts.

To make "Convoyed" Macaroni, cook 1 cup of macaroni in boiling, salted water and then drain. Pour 1¼ cups of scalded milk over 1 cup of soft bread crumbs. Add ¼ cup of melted butter and 1 tablespoon of chopped pimento, 1 tablespoon of chopped onion, 1 tablespoon of parsley, 1½ cups of grated cheese, ½ teaspoon of salt, ⅛ teaspoon of pepper and 1 tablespoon of H. P. Sauce. Then add 2 well-beaten eggs and mix thoroughly. Add drained macaroni and mix again. Pour into a well-buttered casserole and bake in a slow oven for about 50 minutes.

Also use H. P. Sauce for a richer flavour in stews, meat dishes, gravies, soups, fish and salads.

Transport in the New Guinea Hills

New Guinea natives, each shouldering about 40 pounds of supplies, carry much of the aid from Port Moresby into the hills where allied troops now fight Japs. They are shown heading across a field to the narrow highway leading toward the Owen Stanley mountains and the Jap base at Kokoda.

Worn to a frazzle?

Worn to a frazzle? Then don't stay that way : : : call for a Guinness at once! When you're tired, there's nothing so refreshing as a glass of Guinness. No other brew has so hearty, so robust, so racy a flavour! After work or exercise, as an appetizer or with meals, and when you are going to bed—have a Guinness!

Ever dine downtown in Montreal? Most better class restaurants feature "half-and-half," with Guinness in the inexpensive "splits." Try it to give a new thrill to your meal! Also in Government stores.

GUINNESS IS GOOD? Ask anyone from Great Britain!

Ever since 1759 they have been brewing Guinness in Dublin. And for years it has been accepted as a fact in the Old Country that Guinness is good! Guinness is brewed from four natural ingredients—malt, hops, pure spring water and special Guinness yeast. Mellowed for over a year in oak vats and in bottle, Guinness is never pasteurized or filtered. It retains all its natural goodness including the goodness of the yeast. Treat yourself to a Guinness this evening. Get a bottle or two on the way home from work tonight!

Have a GUINNESS today!

Traditions that endure

• "England expects." Nelson's immortal signal at Trafalgar still thrills British hearts, today. Traditions of courage, faith and duty, handed down from generation to generation, are being worthily upheld today by our fighting forces on land, at sea and in the air! Let us all who are left at home, humbly endeavor to maintain these traditions.

In the world of business, too, traditions have their place — records of sterling quality and integrity of service such as we are proud to claim for the "Wear-Ever" trade-mark.

An emblem of enduring service

SHOCKED TO HEAR THEM SAY: "HER CLOTHES ARE ONLY HALF-WASHED!"

NOW SHE KNOWS—

NO MATTER HOW YOU DO YOUR WASH—YOU NEED SUNLIGHT'S EXTRA-SOAPINESS FOR EXTRA-DIRTY SPOTS

SEE HOW DAZZLING THESE TOUGH SPOTS COME

MAGIC IN THE DISHPAN! The way Sunlight loosens grease is simply marvelous. And because Sunlight is all pure soap it's kind to your hands ... and goes a long, long way even in hard-as-nails water.

MERE WORDS CAN'T TELL YOU the difference between an ordinary wash ... and clothes washed the Sunlight way. You have to see the gleaming brightness and sweet-smelling freshness yourself. For Sunlight does far more than remove surface dirt. A touch of Sunlight on collars, cuffs, edges puts a film of soap right on the dirt. Then the rich Sunlight lather loosens even deeply imbedded grit and grease.

NO WONDER CLOTHES COME BRIGHTER! Not a streaky bright. Not "Half-Washed." But spotlessly radiant. Yes! Even grimy work clothes win admiring glances. Try Sunlight this washday—and see what its "extra soapiness" means to you!

FOR A COMPLETE WASHING JOB— YOU CAN'T DO WITHOUT SUNLIGHT

W.M.S. GROUPS AT STANSTEAD SOUTH CHURCH

Excellent Attendance at Annual Sectional Meeting of Sherbrooke - Stanstead Organization.

Rock Island, Sept. 30. — The annual Sectional meeting of the Sherbrooke-Stanstead section of the W.M.S. of the United Church, was held on September 24th, in Stanstead South Church, at Rock Island, with Mrs. H. A. Carson, the Sectional Vice-President presiding.

The opening worship service was led by Mrs. Byron Brown, of the Fitch Bay Auxiliary, whose outstanding thought was Christ's own injunction that we "go on toward perfection." "We are judged," she said, "not by what we accomplish, nor by what we fail to accomplish, but what we really strive for."

There was, as usual, a very fine attendance, every Auxiliary in the Section, but one, being represented.

The morning session was devoted to matters of "Home Organization." Local Presidents gave brief reports of the highlights in the year's work so far and many helpful ideas were thus passed on for use by other societies. The Presbyterial officers within the boundaries of this section then spoke briefly, each along the lines of her own department, giving up-to-date information, words of encouragement and sometimes a plea for greater effort.

A pleasing interlude among these matters of business was furnished, when words of welcome on behalf of the women of Stanstead South Church, were given by Mrs. Cowles; also a message of love and greeting from the Conference Branch President, Mrs. D. R. Carson, of Ottawa, which was read by Mrs. Rothney.

Mrs. Beckett, of the Waterville Auxiliary, led in a short noontide prayer, after which the morning session adjourned.

A delicious and hearty lunch was served in the Church dining-room by the ladies of Stanstead South Church.

The afternoon session was called to order at two o'clock, with Mrs. Carson again presiding. It was opened with a worship service in charge of the Presbyterial President, Mrs. W. O. Rothney, who took as her subject, "God is Love." This particular knowledge about God belongs only to the Christian era. Science, she said, says that God is power; other studies say that God is wisdom, but not until Christ came did the world say that God is Love. Christ's life proved it, the Christian knows and feels it, and it is the duty of the Christian to tell it to the rest of the world, while to live it before the world brings his own greatest blessing. The Kingdom of God is the kingdom of Love. Following Mrs. Rothney's talk and prayer, was the very appropriate hymn, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go."

The roll-call of Auxiliaries then followed, resulting in a total of fifty-three. At this point words of sympathy were spoken and the Secretary asked to send letters of love and remembrance to Mrs. Ayer, of Hatley, who is very ill, and to Mrs. Neveu and Mrs. Ball into whose home suffering has come because of war.

Due to a resignation, it was necessary to elect a new Secretary, and this resulted in the appointment of Mrs. E. P. Lyon, of Ayer's Cliff.

Mrs. Rothney then introduced the guest speaker, Miss Grace Beattie, of Trinidad, who having just returned from General Council, devoted a few minutes to speaking of some of her impressions from that great gathering, noting especially the plan for War Services in which the W.M.S. will have a large part, in that it embraces work among women and girls engaged in war work.

Following are a few of the quotations which she brought from the inspirational addresses:

"The evil forces of today can be met by nothing less than the united forces of Christendom."

"All that matters much, is that which matters most."

"In war-torn countries, Faith is burning with a white light."

"The forces upon which we must depend are the basic forces of our faith in Jesus.

Miss Beattie then went on to speak of the work of the United Church in Trinidad which, she said, from the very beginning of the war has been regarded by Britain as an important centre and has been well protected, because of containing valuable oil. She used her description as a parable of a land of great beauty containing great power waiting to be developed, and a people having beautiful girls, very lovely and attractive, with character and great power for good, waiting to be developed by our work of Christian service.

Geographically, Trinidad is the largest of the Lesser Antilles. The earliest inhabitants were Carib Indians, next came a few Spaniards, but not much progress; these were followed by the French, who encouraged agriculture to quite an extent; and finally Trinidad became a British colony, by treaty.

In the days of slavery, very many slaves had been brought from Africa, but when these were freed, they became very unsatisfactory workers, so workers were brought from the East to take their places. For eighty years workers were brought from India under contract by the Government. For the first five years they were placed, the next five years they might choose their own places, and at the end of that time they were given the choice of going back to India or of becoming settlers in Trinidad. Many of them stayed, and these now constitute what are known as the East Indians, about a third of the population.

John Morton, a young minister, in search of health, discovered that, though missionary work was being done among other groups on the island, no one was giving any attention to the East Indians, and the message, which he took back to his church in the Maritimes resulted in his being sent there as our first missionary to Trinidad. He was shortly followed by Mr. Grant, and their names are still household words in Trinidad. Schools and children were their great concern, and in the beginning, every one who learned to read a book, agreed to teach that book to some one else. Then came Canadian lay teachers, and eventually native teachers were trained. And so the work grew: a boys 'school, a girls' school, girls' home, high school, training school for teachers, and a college.

The chief interests of the W.M.S. are the Iere Home for little girls, the Naparima Girls' High School, and the Archibald Institute, which is a vocational school emphasizing Household Science. Many are the types of work and Christian teaching and living that are carried on within and about them.

Miss Beattie's address was followed by a solo by Miss Elma Martin, "Behold, The Master Passeth By."

The Mission Band of Stanstead South Church then presented two missionary plays, "Babies of all Lands," and "The Song They Sang." The contribution of these charming little girls made a delightful addition to the afternoon's programme, and was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Mathams, of the Magog Auxiliary, expressed the thanks of the meeting to the speaker, soloist, Mission Band, the hostesses and all who had assisted in making this Sectional meeting a particularly helpful and enjoyable one. Rev. H. A. Carson closed the session with prayer and the Benediction.

W.A. MEMBERS HELD SESSION AT KNOWLTON

St. Paul's Church Scene of Brome - Shefford Deanery Meeting — Diocesan President Heard.

Knowlton, Sept. 30.—The Brome-Shefford W. A. Deanery meeting was held in St. Paul's Church.

At eleven a.m., Holy Communion was celebrated with Dr. Abbott-Smith and Rev. James Bancroft being the celebrants.

Following the service, lunch was served in the Church Hall to about one hundred members and friends.

At 1:15 p.m. the afternoon session was called to order and the business proceeded with Miss Mary R. Knowlton, the President of St. Paul's W. A., was in the chair and the meeting was opened by the singing of the National Anthem, which was followed by Scripture reading and prayers led by Archdeacon H. Charters, of Sutton, after which the member's prayer was recited.

The President, Miss Knowlton, gave a word of welcome and drew attention to an exhibition of work done by the Junior Branch of the W.A. She also made an appeal for the coming Victory Loan, which opens in October and asked for a good response.

Mrs. Loiselle, the Diocesan President, was introduced and she addressed the meeting. She spoke strongly on giving and what a splendid return, cheerful and generous giving brought and also told of the advantage of the branches sending in their returns, three or four times a year, instead of once, as in former years, making it possible to keep the salaries of the workers paid up. She regretted the drop in membership both in the senior and junior branches and made a plea for smaller branches to work for more members and to make all parishes united in all the work of the church and make their witness so strong and true it will attract others into church interest.

Rev. A. E. Rollit, Rector of St. Paul's Church, then gave a few words of welcome at the request of the President.

The minutes of the last Deanery meeting were read by the Secretary, Mrs. Coburn.

An invitation was given through Mrs. Mount for the next Deanery meeting to be held in Bondville.

The hymn, "Coming, Coming, Yes They Are," was then sung after which the guest speaker, Mrs. Dudney, was introduced by Mrs. Loiselle.

Mrs. Dudney spoke of her work in the Artic, telling of the beauty of the Artic and how incorrectly it is pictured by most of us. She spoke most interestingly of the work among the people of the Far North and showed how worth-while it is.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker by Mrs. H. Charters.

Part of the offering for the day was voted to Mrs. Dudney to be used in her work and the balance to the Pledge Fund.

The Deanery Secretary, Mrs. P. Reilly, delivered a message from Mrs. Lalos stating that all work should be forwarded in good time.

Mrs. Taylin spoke on Literature and announced that the Study Book for the year was, "Publishers of Peace."

Mrs. P. Reilly extended a vote of thanks for the beautiful Communion service, for the hospitality of the Knowlton Branch, for Rev. Rollit's welcome, and to the officers who had done so much work towards making the meeting a success.

Send or take this along with the Dealer's Inspection Report to the nearest office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board which issues the required Tire Ration Permit. When you have this, the dealer can then furnish the necessary tires to you.

To obtain a Tire Retreading job you must go through the same procedure. However, no Permit is necessary for Tire Repairs... and if your tires have any small cuts or bruises, we urge you to have them repaired immediately, before they lead to more serious trouble.

And don't forget every Firestone Dealer is pledged to help you get the very last mile out of your present tires, regardless of their make. For 25 years Firestone has been training their dealers in tire conservation. Consequently, Firestone Dealers have the experience, knowledge and equipment to be of definite help to you. HOW TO GET THE MOST MILEAGE FROM YOUR PRESENT TIRES

1. Have the Firestone Dealer estimate the number of miles left in the tires—then ration your mileage to so many miles per week.
2. Limit your driving to essential transportation. If you drive to work, take others—and rotate trips with them.
3. Have air pressure checked every week. Underinflation is the greatest enemy of tire life.
4. Drive slowly—avoid quick starts and stops that grind off the tread. Go easy on curves and use gears instead of brakes on steep hills.
5. Park with care—do not scrape sidewalls or bump the curb.

THE FIRESTONE DEALER CAN HELP YOU BY

1. Completely inspecting tires and tubes at frequent intervals for cuts and bruises.
2. Rotating the tires every 5,000 miles to even the wear.
3. Checking wheel alignment and brakes.

AT THE LOCAL THEATRES

Scene from "Juke Girl," starring Ann Sheridan, which begins today at the Granada Theatre.

At The Granada

"Always In My Heart," which begins today at the Granada Theatre, is a story of family loyalty and introduces Gloria Warren to the film public. Miss Warren, 15 years of age, has a singing voice that is pure gold and a completely captivating personality. Kay Francis, Walter Huston head the cast with Gloria Warren, and Frankie Thomas, Patty Hale, Una O'Connor, and Sidney Blackmer are featured. Borrah Minnevitch provides some tuneful interludes.

Huston, as the father, is in jail, and at his insistence, his wife (played by Miss Francis) is divorced from him and his children believe him to be dead. A wealthy man is in love with her and anxious to marry her and take care of her and the children. She can't make up her mind, and seeks Huston's advice. He tells her to accept, and hides from her the fact that he has been pardoned.

He works his way down the coast to the bay town where his family lives. It is his intention just to get a glimpse of his children, then go off. In the town, however, he finds out that his young daughter (Gloria Warren) is not happy over her mother's remarriage. He also hears her sing, and finds that her wonderful natural talents need the guidance that he, with his musical education can give her. He takes a room in town and the two of them get acquainted.

Meanwhile, the son of the family (Frankie Thomas) is completely won over to the idea of having a stepfather, particularly after he is presented with a new car. The daughter, who has discovered that the "Professor" is really her father, and that he is leaving town that night, taking a boat to San Diego, decides to go with him. Finding that she has missed the boat, she takes her brother's speedboat to catch up with it. The father, however, is not on the boat, because he has gone to the rescue of his son, who is involved in a battle over the little Spanish girl he has taken out for the evening. Then the father and son learn that Gloria is out in the speedboat alone. They follow her, and arrive just in time to save her from disaster. When the night is over, the little family is firmly reunited.

The other picture is "Juke Girl," starring Ann Sheridan, Ronald Reagan and Richard Whorf.

MORT COOPER OPPOSES RED RUFFING TODAY

Experts Predict Yank Victory After Stern Struggle With Cards

Capacity Crowd of 35,000 on Hand for Opening Game of World Series at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis—All Cardinals' Hopes Wrapper Up in Cooper Taking First Game—Ace Right-Hander May Make Three Appearances.

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—(CP)—It was Mort Cooper, peerless 22-game winner of the St. Louis Cardinals, against Rufus (The Red) Ruffing, 37-year-old right-hander of the New York Yankees, when the champions of the National League and the champions of the American League, respectively, tied into each other in the opening game of the 1942 World Series today at Sportsman's Park.

A crowd of just under 35,000, the utmost capacity of the park, was sure to be on hand when the two league champions inaugurated the playoff at 2.30 p.m. E.D.T. Every reserved chair was sold more than a week ago, and speculators were getting handsome premiums for the seats that had come into their possession—up to $50 for choice locations.

In the opinion of old stagers, it promised to develop into one of the bitterest World Series in history, probably to be fought right down to the last gasp. Nobody would be surprised if it went the limit of seven games. While most of the experts thought the Yanks would win eventually, few of them predicted it would be an easy victory.

The Cardinals have too much class for that. Those who have been following Billy Southworth's bravos as they made their sensational stretch drive to beat out the Brooklyn Dodgers declare unanimously that they are capable of beating anybody—including the Yankees. Those who have seen the most of the Cards lately are highest in praise of the wild-running kids, and are the ones who like their chances the best against the resplendent Yankees. Which might, or might not, be significant.

!There was, to tell the truth, an agreeable surprise in St. Louis last night when the word arrived, in advance of the Yankees themselves, that Ruffing had been named by Manager Joe McCarthy to hurl the first game for the Yanks. The American League champs did not pull into town until nearly dark—too late for a workout—but the word that Ruffing was McCarthy's choice arrived by telegraph some hours earlier.

All the Cardinals' hopes for conquering the heavily-favored Yankees are wrapped up in Cooper taking the first game. The robust right-hander, who won 22 games and lost seven this season, while scoring ten shutouts, was definitely designated as the Red Birds' leadoff hurler by Manager Billy Southworth.

Win or lose, he is sure to come back again later in the series and, in the event that it stretches seven games, might make three appearances. He has been given the responsibility of pacing the Cardinal staff and the result of his first effort generally is expected to determine the whole character of the series.

The teams appear well matched for a series that might be the tightest the Yankees have had since they were last beaten in 1926—the year the Cardinals won their first flag.

Besides their fine pitching staff, which has the advantage of including two good southpaws, the Cardinals will depend mainly on their phenomenal speed. Outfielders Stan Musial and Enos (Country) Slaughter are two of the National League's leading hitters, but the club as a whole has no power compared with the Bronx Bombers.

The spirit of the Redbirds is one of the most noticeable features of their success. It showed in the records by their overcooming a ten-game deficit in the National League, winning 43 of their last 52 games, and finishing with a total of 106 victories—the most any club in the senior circuit has cornered since 1909. This was three more, incidentally, than the Yankees made, although the champions never were forced to pull the throttle all the way out.

In this respect the present edition of the Yankees is harder to gauge than the Cardinals. Everyone has seen what St. Louis can do when the pressure is on, but the Yanks have had to pass this test.

They do not stack up with the great championship teams that swept series in straight games. Bill Dickey and Red Rolfe have faded since the time they were supreme at their positions. Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller have not been having their best years. Roy Cullenbine in right field is not a match for Tommy Henrich, who enlisted recently in the coast guard.

But Joe Gordon at second base is incomparable, the pitching is good and the hitting is still counted in home runs—of which the Yankees have made more than 100 this season.

Most of the Yankees are veterans of several World Series. They have played in Sportsman's Park many times and are familiar with its grassless infield, the distance to the fences and the winds and shadows. On the other hand not one of the Cardinals has played in a World Series and few of them ever have been inside the triple-decked Yankee Stadium where the third, fourth and fifth games are scheduled this weekend.

Billy Southworth Was On Last Team To Beat Yanks In World Series

Joe McCarthy Leads Players into World Series Against Cards Today with Supreme Confidence . . . and a Memory—Has Managed Seven Championship Clubs, Six Capturing World Series Honors.

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—(CP)—Joseph Vincent McCarthy, kindly 56-year-old manager of the New York Yankees, leads his players into the World Series against the rip-snorting St. Louis Carinals with supreme confidence—and a memory.

Last team to conquer the Yankees in a World Series was the Cardinals of 1926, who had an outfielder named Billy Southworth, now the 49-year-old manager of the current Cardinals.

Since then, the Yankees have won eight world championships, defeating every team in the National League with the exception of Boston and Phils. They have registered 34 triumphs, taking four series in four straight.

If McCarthy is letting the memory bother him, he's keeping it strictly to himself.

Yet McCarthy expresses admiration for the Cardinals, declaring they must be good to have won 106 games and lasted through an amazing stretch drive. He had a word of commendation for Mort Cooper, the 22-game winner who starts today against the Yanks, but he declined to be drawn into any prediction as to the series outcome.

"We'll be in there fighting from the first pitch," McCarthy said. "That's all I care to say. I hope the best team wins and I hope it will be us."

World Series tension and excitement is nothing new to McCarthy. He's won six and has been on both sides of the fence, having piloted the 1929 Chicago Cubs, who lost four out of five to the Philadelphia Athletics. When the Bronx Bombers smothered the Brooklyn Dodgers last year it was the seventh championship club managed by McCarthy—the sixth to a world's championship.

JACOBS FOUND OUT TOO LATE U.S. IS AT WAR

Promoter Was Dealing with Much Bigger Outfit Than New York Boxing Commission and Jacobs Beachcombers.

By HARRY GRAYSON,
Nea Service Sports Editor

New York, Sept. 30.—Now it is obvious that all they had to do to get Sgt. Joe Louis and Pvt. Billy Conn to fight for Army Emergency Relief for nothing was to call the whole thing off.

When Secretary of War Stimson did that, Mike Jacobs broke out in such a sudden rash of patriotism that he promptly announced he was perfectly willing to wait for the $94,305 which he says he has coming from champion and challenger.

John Roxborough, one of Sergeant Louis' managers, was no longer concerned about the $41,146 which he claims the non-commissioned officer owes him.

Trouble was that Promoter Jacobs realized too late that the nation is at war and that he was dealing with people of much larger stature than the members of the New York Boxing Commission and even the combers of Jacobs Beach.

Not even John Kieran, the answer man of "Information Please," could satisfactorily explain why a fight promoter and manager should reap $135,451 from a production announced and advertised as being a 100 per cent war benefit.

The show easily might have turned over as much as $700,000 to AER.

It is regrettable that it wasn't in bigger hands.

Eddie Arcaro, one of the great jockeys, had his license revoked for rough riding at Aqueduct. It is the first time in many years that a boy had his license taken away from him for rough riding alone. Usually there are other implications, but the only charge against Arcaro was that he went too far out of his way in an effort to win a race or bet.

There has been altogether too much rodeo work on New York tracks this year. The little men simply had to be pulled up.

Riding a thoroughbred is a dangerous game when a race is truly and fairly run.

There is no sense in running further risk of having someone killed.

Billy Southworth said the St. Louis Cardinals did not expect any help from others, and would prove that they didn't need it.

The Red Birds didn't. They won the National League pennant like a real, good club should win it—by themselves.

The blokes in the red blazers may not win the World Series, but the Yankees will know they have been on the firing line—all the way along the route.

SALMONBELLIES USED TO POOR LACROSSE REFS

Coach of New Westminster Outfit Says "We've Been Used to Bad Refereeing All Season."

Toronto, Sept. 30.—(CP)—New Westminster Salmonbellies can't have any too great an opinion of the competition they'll meet in the East in lacrosse semi-finals and finals . . . They passed up their privilege of bringing a Western Referee to keep the Eastern whistle-tooters on the bit . . . Coach Jack Wood of the Salmonbellies is allergic to Referees, it seems. . . .

Commenting on the decision not to take a Western sports flatfoot with the club, he said: "We've been used to bad refereeing all season here, so I guess we will get by okay in the East." . . . A highly uncharitable attitude, what?

The expert says:

Dave (Regina Leader-Post) Dryburg, on Brooklyn getting the old heave-to from the N.H.L.: "There may come a day when Dutton will find the cash to move in again and run his own show. He'd have a flock of fans pulling for him."

Incidentally:

The fuss stirred up a few days ago around the report that Bill Cowley might play hockey in Halifax apparently has subsided . . . The cagey one will be back with Boston. . . . There is considerable interest here and there regarding what individual interpretations will be placed on passport regulations this winter. . . . Hockey men hope there won't be a repetition of last winter's chaos, when most Canadian players had trouble getting permission to cross the border for League games . . . . There hasn't been any definite announcement yet whether Terry Reardon will return to his owners, Boston Bruins, or will stay with Canadiens. . . . Reardon was one of the players affected by the passport ban last year.

Columbus Again Rules Supreme In Minor Baseball Leagues

Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Columbus Red Birds—winners of the 1942 Little World Series—reign for another year as nominal monarchs of two of baseball's highest calibre minor leagues.

The American Association Club, a farm of St. Louis Cardinals, National League champions, captured their second straight junior series last night by defeating the International League Syracuse Chiefs, 4-2.

The victory gave manager Eddie Dyer's club, which finished third behind Kansas City and Milwaukee in the regular season standings, the series four games to one. They battled their way through sixteen play-off games to victory and a series "pot" of $5356.75.

The Western team's triumph gave the American Association a 14-11 edge in the annual post-season diamond finale with the East's International League, dating back to 1904. The Red Birds walloped Montreal for the title last year.

Columbus roared to their fourth straight victory over Syracuse last night behind the masterful, eight-hit hurling of right-handed Ted Wilks.

Simple, Easy-To-Wear Clothes Are Favored For Fall And Winter Use

Without a doubt, the Government rulings on fabric conservation was one of the best things that has happened to fashion. Because by simplifying fashion, these regulations have glamorized it by putting the accent on basically sound, flattering design and eliminating the frills and furbelows which are really unnecessary to good taste. As a result, the clothes you'll wear this Fall and Winter are the simple, casual, beautifully easy-to-wear clothes you love. Clothes that will serve you smartly, endlessly, clothes that fit in perfectly with your doubly-busy life. Frankly the modified slim silhouette was really casting its shadow on the fashion scene, and thanks to these Government rulings its arrival has been speeded up—for which we say bravo! Because it's a new, exciting silhouette. Utterly feminine and flattering, it features sleekly moulded body lines, suavely draped, shorter skirts, slimmer hemlines—all in all — a silhouette that underscores your best figure points. Best of all there are many variations of this slim silhouette, each as wearable and flattering as the next. The draped silhouette is most important and is interpreted in various ways. Suavely draped bodices, intricately draped waistlines and draped hiplines are noted everywhere and side

Wartime "Bridal Suits" Fit Many Occasions

Good examples of the good clothes now being made by designers — two years out from under influence of Paris — are these simple two-piecers. They are New York creations, handsome enough for a bride, in fact are called bridal suits, and are worn for a great many war weddings. Yet they will go to any informal function with distinction.

Autumn sky blue wool is used for the youthful five-button suit pictured at left. Unusual and interesting detail: matching wool fringe edging armholes, revers, jacket closing, and pocket flaps.

A simple roll of beaver trims the beltless basque suit, shown above, left. This is blue-green wool, and it is shown with a matching wool jersey blouse which is sold separately under war regulations. Skirt is the comfortable gored one.

the tall crown. This feature is being shown in dress as well as sports hats. Many of these high crowns are draped and sculptured to give a soft, feminine look. Quill and feather trims give additional height. There is a definite forward movement in these high crowned soft brimmed hats that makes them hug the head and look really new as a change from the back-of-the-head pompadour bonnets.

draped skirts are exciting to see as they are to wear. A very wearable version of the draped silhouette is the envelope dress which features two soft folds of fabric from either side front of waist and ties centre front. The draw-string waistline is another adaptation of draping — easily adjustable to any figure—and very flattering. Peg-top hiplines, peg-top pockets that minimize hiplines are definitely fashion-important and noted in both sports, casual and dressy dresses.

Provocative peplums are "within the law" and they are fashionable as they are flattering — wonderful for Sunday "Best" or for furlough dating. Hiplength they achieve a smart two-piece effect and work wonders for your figure. Very new are the self-fabric peplums in thickly ruched, pleated or braided effect to give them a pert "stand-out" air. Fabric contrasts are new in peplums, for instance a black crepe dress with a rippled peplum of black velveteen—definitely a charmer for party-going. Excitingly new and festive are the peplums achieved through jet-embroidered borders, lace or fringe trims. "Tea Apron" peplums for party-going are noted, the peplum in front only, posed over a slim skirt. Jewelled belt and buckle accents are used dramatically. Velveteen and crepe combinations are noted for "date" dresses. Bright colors, color combinations as well as bright colored accents are right with us again this Fall—lovely as they are lawful. Wear color — wear it patriotically—it's spiritlifting. Bright red, purple, various tones of green, gray and beige as well as smart black are fashion headliners this Fall.

"Plain high necklines are just plain pretty" this Fall—and a blessed relief from the plunging low V-necklines we've been wearing for so long. The simpler they are the smarter. Young yet sophisticated, they're so completely fresh looking, so very lady-like that they're charm magnets. Besides which they serve as a marvellous back drop for your pearls, for a huge flower, newest when tucked right under your chin, or for a brightly striped bow-tied scarf. Along with slimmer skirts, smoother shoulders and fine detailing, these new high necklines are a smart follow-through on the all-important simple fashions this year. And because you'll be wearing suits practically all day for business and defence duties — you'll want and really need one of these new ultra feminine dresses for after hours. A marvellous investment would be one of the new basic dresses, really new too, with suave wrap around skirt, slim hemline, and upswept high high neckline, and of course, slim long sleeves. So you see these government rulings for fabric conservation are really marvellous. We not only help save fabric for our fighting forces—we also help ourselves to good sound fashion.

RAYON HOSIERY PROVES SMART AND WEARABLE

Rayon Hose Have Acquired Beauty and Wearing Qualities, Thanks to Miracle of Test-Tube Ingenuity.

Gone are the days when rayon hose were baggy, shiny, ill-fitting —worn not at all by women of discriminating taste. However, thanks to the miracle of test-tube ingenuity, rayon hose have acquired beauty and wearing qualities to make them take their rightful place among the different types of hosiery!

The new rayon hose are really flattering. They're sheer, dull-textured and with the proper care—will give you highly satisfactory wear.

Rayon hose offer much to the modern woman of fastidious taste. It is extremely durable when completely dry. However, since it is weakest when wet—great care must be taken in laundering, preferably as follows: Wash your rayon hose after each wearing, as soon as you take them off. Use only mild soap suds and lukewarm water — cake soap rubbed into your hose will weaken the fibres. Dry over a smooth rod, away from sun or heat, after squeezing gently in a towel and allow from 24 to 48 hours for complete drying.

Another very interesting feature of rayon is that it does not soil readily—due to the smoothness of the fibre from which it is woven. They may be had in a full range of rich colors, which are dyed to retain their permanence.

BERETS MAKE COMEBACK IN NEW STYLES

Vary from Sporty Tweeds and Clan Plaids to Big, Dramatic Velvet and Felt Styles in Headwear.

A brief preview of the Fall hat picture shows that all and anything goes, from big brims to no brims, from tall crowns to small crowns in a myriad of colors and materials.

Berets are back with a bang — they are seen everywhere from sporty tweed and clan plaid berets to big, dramatic velvet and felt styles. The bigger the brim, the better, is the fashion byword as far as berets are concerned—wear it tilted over one eye or straight as a pancake on the head.

Because of the simplicity of line in the beret, they are perfect to use as a background for the insignia pin of "your fan" in the service.

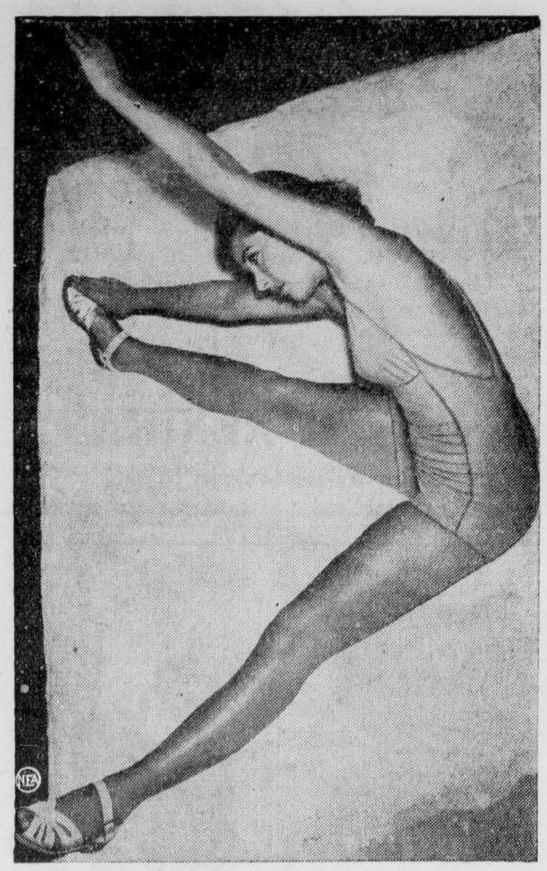
Use Tried-and-True Exercises To Trim Figure To The Fall Fashion Silhouette



Knees straight, right hand to right foot, then left hand likewise—the sideward sway produces a "rubber tire" shortage at the waistline. This is a thigh-thinning, waist-tightening exercise that is a necessary companion to diet in a carefully planned weight-losing campaign.

There's a charm "must" for all women in the fall 1942 openings just seen in the salons of the country's finest designers of clothes for the custom-made lady. The cue is: Keep your slender-middled figure classically trim and supple, if you wish to look fashionable in wartime's classic dress.

The beautiful mode of today, especially the daytime mode, is devoid of flippant flounces and tricky frous to take the eye away from the form under the dress or suit. New clothes cover the woman, all right, but they do so closely, and that means revealingly.

So if you hope to wear the new clothes to best advantage, I would advise everyone to exercise. Try these "classic" ones, which are devoid of confusing complications:

Lie flat on your back with arms at sides, and pull knees up as close to the chest as possible. Do this slowly, 20 times.

Now the "crew stretch"... just lie with legs stretched forward, lift torso and arms forward till fingertips touch toes. Try this 10 times daily.

And the sideward-stretch. Sitting with legs apart, knees straight, arms outstretched overhead, reach out and bend to the right until right hand brushes toes of right foot. Then reverse, touching left toes with left hand, and repeat five times.

Those are the thigh-thinning, waist-tightening sequences which are demonstrated in the accompanying photographs by Alma Carroll, Columbia actress now generating plenty of excitement in "The Talk of the Town."

If you have a figure like Alma's, you can keep it beauteously supple and slim with about five minutes' daily exercises. If you need to trim down, judicious dieting plus these exercises will do it. Don't resort to some "fad" diet. Just eat less of the carefully planned diet which health requires anyway. And do exercise. If you plan to lose a good deal of weight, exercise is imperative. Otherwise, your flesh will grow droopy.

You "hate" a daily dozen? Or do you just think that you do? How long has it been since you've tried them for ten minutes a day, and did you ever try them with music? Many women are put off exercises, and thus they grow hefty, by a mere notion. This is a time to shed notions and get down to basic beauty-duties. For a very great many women, that means exercises, first of all.

Suits Are Slated To Be Wartime Fashion Uniform, Coast To Coast

Never before have suits been so vital a part of the Canadian woman's wardrobe. Without one whit of exaggeration, suits will definitely be the wartime fashion uniform from coast to coast. Ever beloved because of their endless wearability, their fashion rightness round the clock and their great versatility, this year suits will reach the peak of their popularity. More than any other costume, suits fill the bill perfectly for smartness, practicability and long wear—all-important points now when we all want clothes that can take it. This year you'll work in suits, serve in suits and dance in suits—and there are marvellous new suits to fit and flatter every figure. We all know that our Government has asked us to forego patch pockets, full flared skirts and extra long jackets in order to conserve fabric for our fighting forces, and really as a result, suits are smarter, more figure-flattering than ever. Our talented designers have created suits that are beautiful as they are dutiful. For instance, the new 25" jacket is much more flattering because it is much more feminine. Revers are softer, smaller, more rounded—another nice note. Pockets are smaller, sometimes non-existent with smart substitution noted in curved slot pockets or pocket flaps. Skirts are slimly flared or feature the new trouser pleat, very new and very tailored and extremely flattering. Of course, the favorite box-pleat skirt is also noted. Most popular suit of all and one that will serve smart duty this Fall is the 3-button casual "boy" suit with wide fabric choice offered. For instance, it is noted in herringbone tweeds, shetlands, fine flannels, smooth gabardines. These are featured wish contrasting topcoats (matching ones are out for the duration)—wonderfully wearable over all your suits as they are atop your dresses and slacks. Handsome as they are hard-working, these jacket suits under topcoats are sound investments, really the backlog of your Fall and Winter wardrobe.

Staging a smart comeback this Fall is the cardigan jacket suit. In 25" length with clean, crisp, collarless necklines, these suits are marvellous with all your blouses, equally smart with shirtcollar or Peter Pan collar styles. And you know how smart they are with your sweaters worn with your favorite pearls. The rib-hugging basque jacket, prime favorite with young Canada, makes real fashion news this year. So very feminine, it underscores a small waist and it is very fashionable in velveteen. There's the smart double-breasted jacket, beautifully fitted and perfect in the new chalk striped grey flannels or vivid checked tweeds. Dressmaker touches are noted in some of these suits with smart velveteen collars or cuffs. Two-tone combinations such as velveteen jacket and bright plaid skirt are also noted. Then there are grand dressmaker tailored tweed suits, more flattering than ever before with gently curved jackets, soft revers, smooth shoulders and gently flared skirts. Contrasting furred topcoats are featured with these many times, and to double their wearability, some of the fur collars are detachable so that you can have a fur collared suit or coat.

For furlough dating and for all the planned and impromptu parties you'll be going to this year, invest in a little "dress" suit. Fashionable as they are practical, these suits will take you smartly to business and look party-pretty for dinner dancing later. Softly tailored in rich velveteen, smooth broadcloth, sheer wool and wool and velveteen combinations, they are supremely chic. Especially lovely are the little basque jacket suits, some with pert peplums, all with gently flared skirts so nice for dancing. Set off with bright eye-catching color, or with twinkling "jeweled" buttons, these little basque suits will be the pride and joy of young Canada. For the more sophisticated, there are stunning cardigan or rever jacket suits all with curved, gently fitted waists, smooth shoulders. You can really bank on suits to take you places smartly straight through Fall and Winter, whether it's work or play.

IT'S FASHIONABLE TO CONSERVE TO RECLAIM TO REMODEL

ZELLER'S
RETAILERS TO THRIFTY CANADIANS

THE COMING DAYS are prelude to a season that, in other years, found women making purchases at the dictate of Fashion; doing so with little regard to the serviceability of garments they already owned, should those have happened to be slightly outmoded.

BUT THIS YEAR loyal Canadian women will look over, carefully, the things they now own and will not give in to impulses to buy replacements simply because a "new fashion wrinkle" appeals to them.

In preparation for AUTUMN 1942, Canadian women will take an inventory of the clothes they own . . . will use cleasing fluids and sewing basket and ingenuity to give longer life to garments possessing utility-value. And the morale of Canadian women will be higher for their having, by extra carefulness, resourcefulness and diligence, helped to conserve.

The outstanding Fashion Note for Autumn 1942 is: "It's Fashionable (because it's patriotic) to conserve."

...but we do urge you to buy, today and every day...

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

If you must have replacements . . . you will, we know, shop carefully. You will check quality and values, and the serviceability of the things you buy. If you must have replacements . . . we are, as always, ready to serve you Efficiently and Courteously . . . with values that are up to the standards of Zeller's.

CONSERVATION SUGGESTIONS

The following few Conservation Suggestions have been tried successfully. Not all of them may be new to every one of our readers, but if they help even a few Canadian women to make clothes last longer, we shall feel that the space devoted to printing these "hints" has been used to good purpose.

MAKE A DASHING CALOT—Remove trimmings and brim from an old Felt Hat. Turn the edge of the crown inward, on the wrong side; sew it down with small, neat stitches, using matching thread. If there was a ribbon band on the hat originally, freshen it by brushing and ironing; make into a bow and sew on at the side of Calot. For dress-up occasions, wear with a clip, brooch or feather.

GIVE LONGER LIFE TO SHOES by following these simple rules: Replace rundown heels without delay, to avoid twisting shoes out of shape. Keep wet shoes away from excessive heat; polish when dry. When shoes are not being worn, keep shoe-trees in them.

MAKE A JERKIN from an old sweater that is baggy at the elbows. Cut off the sleeves, about an inch below armholes. Fold remaining inch into armholes and sew around neatly, on wrong side. You will then have a smart Jerkin to wear with blouse-and-skirt outfits, or with tailored dresses.

DON'T THROW AWAY a worn Shirtmaker Dress. Simply remove the top, sew a length of belting around the waistline of the skirt, add hooks and eyes — and you will have a trim Skirt to wear with blouses or sweaters.

"It's Fashionable (because it's Patriotic) to Conserve."

Women Urged To Adopt Methods Of Conservation "For The Duration"

There's a wealth of practical knowledge, hints and helps hidden away in old-time almanacs and scrapbooks, telling how to take care of things, to make them last. The Government wants us to borrow a leaf from the old scrapbooks and almanacs today, and learn how to take care of what we have; to make things last "for the duration." And here are just a few practical ideas for conserving — patriotically!

Cottons are sturdy, most of them are washable and all-around satisfactory; but they do appreciate care, and show their appreciation by lasting longer—and looking better in the process. White or fast-dye cottons take to washing machines just naturally; but it is always advisable to use a good soap solution to protect the fibers. Sheer cottons, however, last better if washed by hand; and if ironed before thoroughly dry. Loosely woven cottons, such as homespuns, also respond better to washing by hand, and usually need no ironing, if smoothed out while damp. The crinkle cottons, such as seersucker, are real labor savers — stretch them into shape when damp, and they are actually much better when not ironed at all!

Foundation garments and girdles take to nice rich, luke-warm water and mild soap with the same degree of satisfaction as a duck taking to water. Hot water is definitely OUT (in either case!)—when it comes to foundation garments or girdles, it just isn't to be heard of these days. Hot water devitalizes elastic, and the rubber situation allows for none of that! Also, a mild soap is a necessity — to avoid damage to both elastic and fabric. Several rinsings, to remove soap deposits, are important—with hand-pressing in a towel as the last step. To dry, hang over a line, away from the heat—and if any ironing is necessary, it should be confined to shoulder straps and fabric panels; with a warm iron—not a hot one.

Both fabric and leather gloves benefit by being washed on the hands; in rich, mild suds. They should be patted between towels, to remove

WIDE RANGE OF COLORS IN NEW FALL COSTUMES

There is a rousing "call to colors" this Fall. With only a few colors barred by wartime regulations, you are assured of a wide range of rich, bright hues in your whole Fall costume.

Designers Love Color

In all the new Fall collections, colors run riot. The designers believe that the Canadian woman loves color, and that wartime will sway many women away from perennial black. It's the "let's look charming and cheerful" mood, and the "dressed up to the uniforms" idea that calls for color. Black isn't gay and we don't want to look sombre. Bright shades are being used for dresses and suits, not just as touches of color in trims. Some of the newest Fall dresses and suits are in vivid green, clear red, royal blue, bright purple, gold and plenty of light, flattering shades such as aqua, powder blue, pearl grey and pale beige.

Greens and Reds

The greens and reds are still battling for supremacy, and it is not just one shade of each which predominates, but whole families of reds and greens are seen throughout the entire Fall picture. The reds range all the way from palest to darkest tones; the bright reds include a clear paprika red shade, and there are a lot of new bluish reds from bright American Beauty to darker fuchsia and magenta. There are warm shades of coral red that bring a glow to your skin and rich, dark garnet red for drama. The newest greens are bright, real, heart-warming shades. Emerald, kelly, peacock green and warm bronze greens.

WOMEN'S HATS HIT NEW HIGH IN FALL LINES

Since your clothes this Autumn must be law-abidingly simple it's definitely up to your hat to give you a lift—and the new chapeaux are rising valiantly to the occasion. They're providing a lift — both figuratively and literally — swinging up to a new high in fedoras, in chechias, in postilions and sovepipes. Up into creases and dents, into folds and twists—both high and highly becoming, doing truly amazing things for even the simplest suit or dress in the world.

Of course the tallest hat stories will be told by night—and they will be hats that are hats, not just an airy trifle as of late years. They will probably be beplumed, and more than probably be black—and they will have an elegance about them that will delight the wearer and the beholder alike.

By day they'll not be quite so exaggerated—though still definitely high hat. A soft fabric hat, perhaps, or a concise little chechia, just moderately high; a terse postilion or one of the new half-high tricornes, or a steeply rising cloche—none of them extreme, but all extremely smart.

But not every hat is 'way over the head. Flat little berets will appear side-by-side with sky-scraping hats. Big pie-plate berets, quilted velvet pancakes, trim little chapeaux speared by a couple of hatpins topped with huge fur pompons —for those who prefer low altitudes rather than high there is an infinite variety of hats on the shallow side.

RAYON 5TH COLUMNISTS

The chemicals used to make rayons are being converted more and more to war use. So your rayons are now as precious as your fine silks used to be. Guard your stored rayons from silver fish — slender, wingless insects that eat rayon like moths eat wool. They are usually found in warm, damp basements, store rooms and attics, and eat books and book-bindings as well as rayon. The easiest way to get rid of silver fish is to exterminate them. Use a poison bait: 1½ cups of oatmeal ground to flour; ¼ teaspoon of arsenic; ½ teaspoon of sugar; ¼ teaspoon of salt. Scatter it, protected, wherever silver fish are found. Before storing rayons, always wash them carefully in gentle, fine-fabric suds and dry and air thoroughly. You will find, too, that while moth crystals are effective in discouraging silver fish, they will not kill them.

excess moisture, and dried either flat or on forms. When almost dry, they can be coaxed into perfect shape — and dry up "good as new." Wet or dry, never (!) pull gloves on or off by the cuffs.

Rayon hose, like everything else, need a certain amount of care — respond accordingly. They should, for instance, be washed in water at wrist temperature, with gentle soap flakes or suds. It is well to remove rings when washing stockings of any kind, to avoid snags. Rayon is weakened when wet—so it is only good sense to avoid wringing, stretching or rubbing too strenuously. Also, rayon generally takes longer to dry than silk—and to speed up drying, they can be rolled in a towel to soak up excess moisture; and then be hung over a rod, or laid flat. Rayon requires from 24 to 48 hours to dry.

Woollen garments should be brushed and aired frequently, and keep their shape best if they are always hung on hangers. Before storing a woollen garment it should be dry-cleaned, or brushed and aired. Store it in a sealed package or closet—use a reliable moth preventive. Do not unseal the garment bag until you are ready to use the garment again. Very often it is wiser to send woollen garments to the cleaners, than to wash them at home.

Factory Girls Balk At Cast-Off Overalls

Maria Montez, complete with electric drill, models a coverall for women factory workers in cool climates. The long sleeves are fitted to snug wristbands; the trousers can be buttoned close at the ankles.

Starlet Maria Montez models the most feminine of the new work clothes for factory girls, now being designed and manufactured in California. It is a princess-line jumper dress made in tan or blue denim which snaps up the front and is worn over plain tailored blouses.

HAND-ME-DOWN PROBLEM SOLVED WITH SMART NEW WORK CLOTHES

Girls are ready and eager to take the places of their soldier-brothers, sweethearts and husbands in war industries. But they resent having to do so enveloped in the overalls the boys left behind them.

That's why, out here in California, designers recently put their minds to the problem of whipping up some sturdy work clothes suitable to feminine forms and tastes. Three of the resulting creations are modeled above by Maria Montez, who took time out from work in "The Arabian Nights," her next film, to show you the new production-line modes.

The design of these work-fashions is keynoted for durability. All seams are sewed with a double stitch for double strength; inside seams carefully finished against washday wear and tear.

Materials are iron-strong — work-shirt cambrays, heavy denims, herringbone jeans, all sanforized to prevent shrinkage and all colorfast. Trousers have tabs and buttons at the ankles to bind them snugly and prevent their catching in machinery.

For drafting work and other factory jobs where skirts are permissible, jumper dresses are offered, becomingly princess in line, made of denim with a snap-closing front and worn over tailored blouses.

For outdoor work in not too warm climates, herringbone jean cloth, very heavy, is used. The long sleeves are snugly buttoned at the wrist; the belt is run through a covering band to keep it out of harm's way and there is a huge pocket on the hip for tools.

A lighter weight design, excellent for California's airplane factories, is made in work-shirt cambray, with an open throat and short sleeves. The front closing is artfully fitted to wrap around and eliminate buttons except for one at the belt, while tabs hold the trousers in at the ankles.

These are only a few of the designs already being accepted all over the country by America's new army of feminine factory workers.

California's aircraft factory girls prefer this model, illustrated by Maria Montez. Short-sleeved, and open-throated its front-closing is a wrap-around for perfect fit which eliminates all but the one button at the waistband.

FILM PARTIES AS SUBSTITUTES FOR CHARITY TEAS SUGGESTED

What about showing a film, instead of having a tea, the next time your club wants to raise some money?

This suggestion comes from a Winnipeg social worker who sees that the customary teas and garden parties will have to be abandoned, or very much modified, in the interests of tea, coffee and sugar rationing.

The National Film Board at Ottawa has films which can be obtained free of charge for the use of women's clubs. These pictures most of which were made in Great Britain have to do with civilian defence and include ARP films, women in the services and women in industry and also dramatize the important role that the housewife plays in a nation at war. They are distributed through provincial organizations and information can be obtained by writing to Miss Anne Macdonnell, National Film Board, Ottawa.

Other methods by which money can be raised have to be devised and among them are sugar-less, tea-less and coffee-less parties. A film showing, it is suggested, would take the place of one of these annual social affairs. If refreshments have to be served a fruit drink, flavored with honey, and served with sandwiches should answer the purpose.

New Styles Of Rayon And Wool Kind To Fashionable Lady's Pocket Book

In the easy time before the war most of us could get all the silks we needed — for fashions, for fabrics, for curtains and hundreds of other things, too. We had grown, in fact, to associate silk with fashion and beauty only.

But little by little in the past three years Canadian women have become reconciled to the fact that pure silk has become a luxury — not only because of the problem of shipping, but because of the big part that silk is playing in the war effort.

It's the tough "he-man" qualities of silk which make it important in war as well as in peace. Do you know, for example, what quantities of high-strength silks have been requisitioned entirely for military use? Fabrics made from them have disappeared from our fashion lives entirely. Believe it or not, those filmy, fragile looking but strong fabrics which were used so extensively in bridesmaids' gowns and evening dresses use the same high strength silk yarns that are ideal for airplane wings and parachutes.

Rayons, too, are playing a most important part on the wartime production line. Some of them are widely used for aviators' and parachute troop uniforms, as well as tire cord fabrics for bombers and jeeps. Because these yarns create less friction than shorter cotton fibres, they represent a great saving in rubber; indeed, about two-fifths of a pound of rubber is saved by every pound of rayon that's used.

Other strong rayon yarns had been developed for hosiery, but just at the time when we would have welcomed their extra strength in stockings, they too "went to war." So if your rayon hosiery does not give you absolutely perfect satisfaction, remember that what you are not getting in stocking qualities, the army is getting in the things it needs. Just as, when you sigh for your vanished nylons, you console yourself with the thought that while the big nylon factory built in Kingston is not supplying you with sheer ankle loveliness, it is doing a very vital job for the men of our fighting forces.

On the plus side of the fabric picture we have a world of new rayon and wool fabrics that will be kind to our pocket-books and help us in our conservation efforts. Many of these will be smart fabrics with a grand fashion fillip all their own. Many will be sturdy fabrics too which will make them a grand investment during a period when what you buy must hold up and really wear well.

There are new spun rayon and wool gabardines and coverts and flannel. Soft spun rayon and wool crepes—tweeds—crepe worsted-like spun rayon and wool crepes — in beautiful textures and with a "feel" you will love.

These are days when you shouldn't "guess" about how your fabrics or fashions or uniforms will wear and handle. You will need, more than ever before, the proof of performance which laboratory tests have given to many of the new fabrics on the scene. It is the duty of everyone of us to buy wisely so that factories and manpower will not be called upon to replace unsound things that wear out quickly. Now is the time to know what you're getting when you buy. In a wartime economy, conservation in clothing just as in household appliances, is both necessary and patriotic.

You will enjoy walking in a pair of the New Low Heel Shoes!

SLACK OUTFIT

Simplified to save fabric — this slacks outfit is tremendously smart. The blouse has a modified cuff band —the slacks are cuffless and tapered. Material used 4¾ yards.

SNAP BRIM IS STILL POPULAR IN MEN'S HATS

Coming on winter, every man begins to think that it is time he got himself a new piece of headgear. This year medium and wider brims are still favored, with a trend to slightly higher crowns. Snap brims are still the strong favorite and the demand is distributed between raw and bound edges. Take your pick. The binding on the hats will harmonize with the hat itself rather than the band. As with the suits, dark brown will be the leading color with an equal demand for medium and dark greys, blue greys, tans and greens. The dark homburg, popularized by Anthony Eden, will be in exceedingly good taste with dark shades of overcoats.

How has the war affected the hat situation? The fur felt supplies are not affected in any way, apparently due to the fact that they have practically no place in the war effort. Machinery in hat factories cannot very well be adapted to war needs, and in this country civilians still need head covering, so manufacturing proceeds as usual.

As for overcoats, loose fitting coats will still predominate. In this style the raglan coat popularity has given way to the fly front box coat styled with military collar. Fullness has been restricted to a certain extent, but a large percentage of men were always against the fullness of the body of most loose fitting coats. This style applies to both light weight top coats for fall and the winter coats.

In the matter of cloths, there are fleece cloths, tweeds and elysians. The elysian is identified by a furrowed effect with a rich velvety finish, shown in navy blue and grey. It makes an ideal dress coat. Fleece cloths are shown in light, medium and dark shades. Here again is a strong favorite. Lastly the tweeds. The herringbone effect predominates with the demand being equally distributed amongst blues, greys and browns, with a demand for green being still present.

All in all, what the well-dressed man is going to wear this season is quite on a par with past efforts, in fact, maybe even an improvement and he need not worry about whether he'll be able to get what he wants. There is enough variety to satisfy the craving of any man.

The fact that war restrictions have reduced the variety of materials and suits, may prove to be an asset to male customers, clothing merchants think, because their customers are always complaining that there were so many kinds of materials that they could never make up their minds as to what to choose. Now the matter has been taken out of their hands. With a reduced variety, they should not experience much difficulty in hitting the jackpot right away.

Brown Is Leader

Brown is to be the leading color this year in men's fall suits. It has been a long time since this color has achieved such a prominent position, and there seems to be no halfway measures. There will be a wide variety of tweeds and Donegals—salt and pepper — and Donegal effects. The latter vary from the straight salt and pepper style of the original Donegal cloth. Along with this there will be multi-colored mixtures, particularly the green-grey and the blue-grey mixtures. In the tweeds, the herringbones and the overcheek design have made their reappearance with a slight trend on diagonal weaves. In worsted suitings, widespread stripes will predominate, and this should be good news for a number of men.

The materials to date are equally as good as they have been for the past two or three years, and reputable merchants have prices exactly the same as a year ago, due to the price control. Even with a smaller variety of stock, there is still considerable choice for materials and there is no danger of everyone looking alike.

BRIGHT PLAID

Step into Fall in this new two piece suit of Sawyer Rayon, 100% wool tartan plaid in brilliant color combinations. This double-breasted plaid suit has the new dressmaker look. It follows the Government's L-85 regulations with its trim slit pockets instead of patch pockets and its figure-moulding shorter length jacket.

WIDE RANGE OF SELECTIONS IN AUTUMN BLOUSES

If you've got a suit, you'll want to vary it with some new blouses. All the old standbys are here, as smart and practical as ever. Easily laundered, fresh-looking tailored cotton broadcloth blouses are available and still smart for everyday wear.

In addition there are tailored blouses of a new very fine flannel, which should be just the thing for those nippy mornings. They come plain in dark brown, hunter's green, scarlet and wine and blue; or striped in glowing autumn colors. Some have a trim of saddle-stitching or blanket stitch on collars and pockets.

The lovely, soft, feminine sheer blouses are still popular for lending just the right air of femininity to a man-tailored suit. They come with a froth of ruffles at the throat; or sweetly demure with neat, lace-edged collar and cuffs, lace insertions in the front, and short puffed sleeves. Not so frothy, but still delightfully feminine are the blouses of white tailored sheer or crepe with long sleeves and high necklines; good wear for business or pleasure.

Sweaters are useful things to wear with a suit on chilly autumn days and there's nothing like making your own, if you can or if you have the time. If you can't make your own, there are lovely ones, in a bewildering range of colors and styles, to be bought. Plainness seems to be the vogue in sweaters, whether cardigan or pullover, this year, with all that peasant embroidery definitely out. The pullovers are high-necked, either round or square or scalloped, long or short sleeves, and are made in a convenient length for tucking in or leaving outside your skirt. Some are knitted plain, others are ribbed, and still others are knitted in fancy patterns.

The cardigans, as a rule, button up to the neck and none of them are sloppy. All sweaters will fit this winter which may turn us into a nation of Sweater Girls. They range in color from white and the most delicate pastel shades, through gaudy yellows and brilliant scarlets and greens, to rich sombre wines and dusky greens and brown. There should be one to suit everybody's taste.

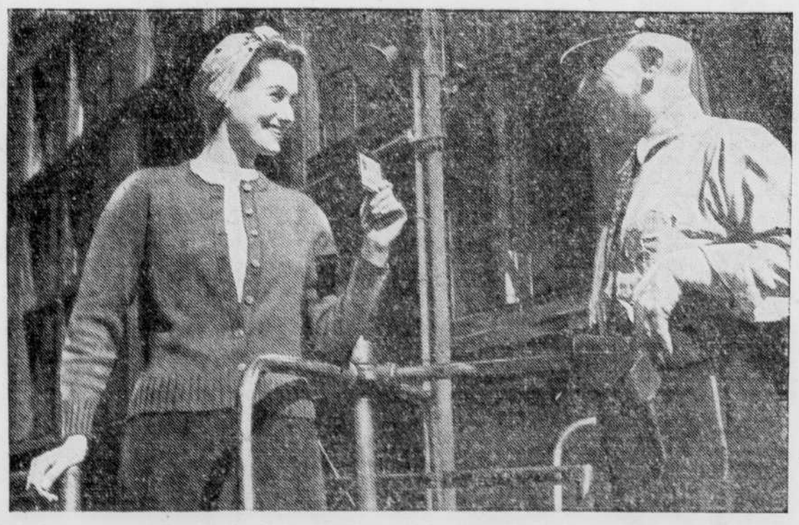
Twin Service In Sweaters



If it's for war work it's got to be serviceable. Girls tending machines choose comfortable, sturdy clothes —things that have style with simplicity and for durability wear like a good friend. War workers choose their work-a-day and work-a-night wardrobe for comfort, warmth and a tidy fit, selecting those things whose smartness is in their clever design.

With slacks, coveralls, or strapped overalls, sweaters are a favorite topper for women working often in drafty corridors and on cool factory floors in the war industries. It is for these women particularly that the twin sweater set for war workers appears in the New Lux Knitting Book. The jacket is for the needed extra warmth, the pullover to be a constant companion for cotton overall, slack of coverall. Together or separately the jacket and pullover provide that many-purpose, highly useful garment that has to be ready to take the hard-knocks of a worker's costume.

When a sweater goes to work in a war factory, there must be no fanciness, no flimsiness, but honest-to-goodness straight sweater lines, loose-fitting enough for quick straining movements. All these considerations are emphasized in the design of the twin sweater style, a smart hand-knit meant to serve the workers well.

Careful attention to pattern detail for fit and styling, characterize each garment of the 115 patterns in the new book. Usefulness and longer-wearing qualities keynote garments ranging from baby bonnets to seaboot stockings for men of the navy. Today and tomorrow all our things must be made well enough to last a long long time. Patterns in this new knitting book, published by Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto, are all designed for the utmost in general serviceability and hail a long life. Instructions in the Lux Knitting Book this year include the proper method for salvaging wool fro mworn hand-knits.
