EXPO '67 THEME OF TALK

Time To Start Planning For Events For 1967

Only a few score people availed themselves of the opportunity to gain first-hand knowledge of the benefits the Chateauguay Valley may expect from Expo '67, at Notre Dame School, Huntingdon, on Thursday evening, but those who did attend left the meeting inspired with new interest. The enthusiasm of Mr. Ian Watson, M.P., Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie, and the guest speaker Mr. Jean-Paul Lussier, Admission Sales Manager for Expo '67, fired the audience with determination to form a Chateauguay Valley Planning Committee for Expo '67.

Bilingual Jean-Paul Lussier stood in front of a large map he brought with him and pointed to St. Helen's Island and man-made Notre-Dame Island and stated that on the 640 acres, millions of people will witness the greatest spectacle in the history of the world .... unbelievably rich utterly exciting .... a spectacle beyond dreams, beyond imagination, beyond compare.

Mr. Lussier said that 42 nations of the world have already agreed to come to Expo '67 where they will display the best of what they have. Long before April 28th, opening day of Expo '67, the number of commitments from foreign nations is expected to swell to 60.

Expo '67 is the first world exhibition of the First Category ever authorized on the North American Continent by the International Exhibitions Bureau. Originally authorized to be held in the United States or Soviet Russia, Expo '67 was awarded to Canada when Russia decided she could not live up to the obligations involved. The current New York World's Fair is wonderful, spectacular and something to be seen, Mr Lussier said, but it is one of a profileration of fairs and has not been authorized as an exhibition by the International Exhibitions Bureau. It is a commercial undertaking not represented by leading nations although it does have private industry displays from some of the leading nations. Canada, France, Britain, etc., are not represented because a World Exposition is only authorized once every ten years by the International Exhibitions Bureau. Expo '67 may well represent a loss to Canada of forty million dollars, as it will not be a commercial exhibition designed for profit, but a centre for the nations of the world to gather and proclaim their Faith In Man .... his achievements, his aspirations, his future .... in a wonderland of exhibits of science, exploration, modern living, the arts and industry, the progress of mankind in many fields. Expo '67 will provide value for every dollar spent, whether by nations for their exhibits or by John Q. Public for his admission ticket.

Seven months have elapsed since Messrs. Shaw and Dupuis took office on behalf of Canada's Expo '67, seven months of negotiating and salesmanship. What once appeared doomed is now transformed into what will be the greatest event of its kind ever held on American soil. "It will be an occasion of wonder and excitement .... a time of rejoicing as Canada celebrates the one hundredth anniversary of Confederation, an event of the greatest historical importance, "Mr. Lussier told his listeners.

The Admission Sales Manager then pointed to his map and the islands in the St. Lawrence River. He said that all that remains recognizable of the old McKay Pier and Goose Village is Canada Packers, all else has been shaven out of existence. On the site will rise Habitat '67, the model community with futuristic housing for 5,000 families, planned by a brilliant Canadian architect who is only 25 years old. From every window of the development one will have a panoramic view of the mighty river and South Shore communities, or a magnificent view of Canada's largest city .... every roof will boast a garden. Seattle has its 'Needle', Paris its Eiffel Tower, but Montreal will have Habitat '67, the answer to the world's problem of growing population combined with dwindling land resources.

Mr. Lindsay is well qualified being a member of the adjudicator panel of Canadian Music Festivals. The name as reported in this paper last week was not that of Mr. Lindsay, we apologize. Town Tax Rate Set At 18 Mills — Reduction of 4 Mills

At a special meeting, held at 7.45 Monday night, just before the regular meeting at 8 p.m., by-law 316, setting the municipal tax rate in the Town of Huntingdon at 18 mills on a dollar, was adopted after a second and last reading; only Alderman Laplante was against. The Mayor Mr. Paul Lefebvre, explained that with the coming of additional revenues from the sales tax imposition, the town was in a position to operate at this rate.

The regular meeting of the first Monday of the month followd with all the Aldermen present and Mayor Paul Lefebvre presiding.

Mrs. Philps, of Hunter St., addressed the Council, during the question period, to complain about the bad state of the sidewalk on Hunter St., and also the poor state of the street itself. She stated she had fallen on the sidewalk of Hunter St., at a place where the sidewalk was uneven. She presented a claim with regards to this. The Mayor and Alderman Brisebois, in charge of public works, assured Mrs. Philps that this sidewalk, and also the street, would be repaired very soon.

The Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Pilon, read a letter from the Department of Municipal Affairs asking the town to renew a bond issue to the amount of $35,500. This is the balance of a loan contracted in 1949 for by-law 274. The loan was extended to a period of 25 years and the bonds were made redeemable after 15 years, which explains the necessity of a new bond issue today. It was decided however that for such a small amount, it would be costly to issue a new series of bonds. The Town being in a position to pay a substantial part of the balance right now, and being authorized to borrow up to $60,000. at the bank, the balance due will be financed by a temporary loan.

Commenting on the trip to Quebec City he made with Alderman Brisebois, the Mayor mentioned he had been given to understand by officials of the Department of Municipal Affairs that the Town could

Regional School Discussion Takes Up Great Part of Huntingdon Protestant School Board Meeting

A regular meeting of the Huntingdon Protestant School Commissioners was held on Thursday evening, in the Library of the High School, with all members present and Principal A. M. Brockman.

Minutes of a regular meeting and of a special meeting were read by Secretary Erle Martin and also a number of bills were passed for payment.

In the correspondence a letter was read regarding the inspection of the boilers in the school. For the most part these were in satisfactory condition and certificates were issued for them.

An application from Archie St. Onge was read to have his property included on the Huntingdon Protestant School Municipality tax roll. The matter was left for further study.

It was decided to order more desks and chairs as required and also some electric clocks.

After some discussion it was decided that the teachers taking the cuisenaire course at Lennoxville the past summer would be given some assistance toward their expenses.

It was also decided that certain power poles in the school yard would be removed as they are no longer needed.

The meeting then turned to a discussion of the question of the Regional School. The Board must decide on what they want to do in this matter. It was stated that a final answer must be given by November 30th of this year.

The members of the Board and Principal Brockman had attended a meeting concerning the Regional School, at Ormstown, on Tuesday evening, September 29th.

Discussion centred around whether Huntingdon should join with a Regional School and if so where such a school would be built in the area to be served. The area stretches all the way from Dundee to Chateauguay and it was felt that Huntingdon would be a logical central point for this end of the area. It was mentioned it had been stated at the meeting that it could be that two Regional Schools would be placed in this area. If such school would be placed at an extreme end of the territory, then some students were going to have to do a lot of travelling to get to school each day. The Huntingdon Board is desirous of avoiding this if possible and is endeavoring to work to this end.

After considerable discussion on this matter it was finally decided to invite Mr. McCullogh, one of a group from the Department of Education present at the meeting attended by the Board, to come to Huntingdon and address a meeting here. Such meeting would be open to the public and a special invitation would be sent to the taxpayers of the school municipality and to other interested parties to attend this meeting. An announcement as to time place and date will be made as soon as the particulars are known.

Meantime, The Gleaner was asked to publish as much information as possible in order that the general public may be aware of what is proposed.

Deranged Farmer of Ste. Agnes Takes Own Life

A tragedy occurred near Ste-Agnes-de-Dundee on Wednesday afternoon, when the owner of a farm there took his own life.

About a year ago, Louis Maidich was a patient in a hospital for a mental disorder and after treatment returned home. For the past few months the man was troubled again and barricaded himself in his room with two guns and refused to come out. He was startled at the least sound and went around threatening everyone who came near his place.

It was therefore decided that for his own safety and that of others, he should be placed in a mental hospital for further treatment. It was thus on Wednesday that Provincial Police armed with the necessary legal papers went to the house to take Mr. Maidich to an institution.

Upon arrival, the man was barricaded in his bedroom and refused all requests to come out. Some of his friends tried to persuade him to leave, but he refused and told them to leave or he would shoot them. The Police also tried to get the man to come out, but he fired some shots at them. He was posted at a window in the room and had the police at a disadvantage because he could see them, while they could not see what he was doing. Thus, after some hours of persausion had failed, tear gas was used. Firing at the police continued and then after a last shot, the police heard some groaning and thought that the tear gas had taken effect.

An entry was forced into the house and then into the bedroom where the victim was. It was then found that he had shot himself and was probably dying.

A doctor was sent for, the ambulance and a priest. Later Coroner Dr. George Lefebvre was notified.

The victim was evidently working the farm, for some cattle, etc. were on it. He has no family, but his wife is left to mourn his loss.

Salvation Army Campaign Off To A Good Start

There was a very good attendance at the Salvation Army Service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, on Sunday evening. The service was greatly enjoyed by all and as usual it marked the opening of the Salvation Army Campaign for funds in this area. As a result the amount of the collection was $65.33 which gave the campaign a good send-off.

People are mostly aware that the Salvation Army has done much good throughout this district at various times and stands ready and willing to be of assistance at any time when such is required. It is therefore essential that when a canvasser calls on the people here in the next few weeks, that they try to give as generously as possible to so worthy a cause. The services of this organization need no explanation for we believe that everyone knows the work done by the Salvation Army.

Up to the present time the following canvassers have reported and here are the amounts that have been collected. Further reports will be given as they become available.

Church Service, October 4th, 1964, $65.33; Lee's Corners to Clyde's, Mrs. V. Caldwell, $21.85; Bouchette St. South of Wellington, Mrs. R. Ormstown High School Notes

(By Nancylyn Cullen)

(By Nancylyn Cullen)

The Student Council sponored the first record hop of he season on Friday evening. There was a wonderful turn out, rain and all.

Teachers' Convention and a holiday for us, that's what Thanksgiving means to most students. O.H.S. students say they will be working. The Curtis Magazine Campaign has begun and the O.H.S. objective is $500.00. Let's try to make it, the profits will go to the Student Council and perhaps there will be enough to buy cleats for the soccer team. By the way, was it the lack of cleats that caused the Seniors to lose that game on Saturday to Huntingdon? Maybe . . . . but what magic did the Juniors have to win their game?

Something new has been added to the Gym, those ropes will help build better and stronger muscles.

The Red Cross is busy again this year, the Volunteens, otherwise know as the Candy Stripers are lending a hand at the Barrie Memorial Hospital.

U.C.W. Meetings

GLENELM — Unit 8 held meetings during the summer. In July an evening meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Royce Beattie and in August another was held at the Grange Hall, where Mrs. E. A. Salter was hostess.

Mrs. Purvis Hamilton conducted the meetings and a fairly good attendance was recorded by Mrs. D. L. Brown. An interesting guessing game was conducted at the July meeting.

At the August meeting the ladies tied a quilt before the devotional and business meeting. Refreshments were served by the hostesses at the close of these two meeings.

Another meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Brown on September 24. Mrs. Purvis Hamilton conducted the devotional and business meeting and members were reminded of several events which take place this autumn. Mrs. R. Crawford introduced her guest, Mrs. D. Watson of Lexington, Mass., who gave an interesting cake decorating demonstration. Refreshments were served by the hostess to members and guests.

Be what you are. This is the first step toward becoming better than you are.

— Julius Hare

the Rural Inspector and Councillor Beattie inspect the trees and report back to the next Council meeting.

Mr. M. Grosser asked that a little additional work be done on Branch 2 of Norton Creek to prevent possible spring flooding of neighbouring properties. It was agreed that the Rural Inspector inspect the proposed ditch and that one hour work at $25. be expended on completing the work.

Mr. Leo Dauphinais asked that a ditch on the Jackson By-road, which affected his property, be cleaned out. Council agreed that the work should be done under the Winter Works programme.

Councillor Barr brought to the notice of the Council the old sand boxes which still remained in place on several roads in the Township. These boxes were now of no further use and constituted an eyesore. Agreed that this work be done under the Winter Works programme.

A resolution was passed to the effect that a Collection Roll be drawn up for the work done on the English River, the Black River and their branches as presented by the County Council of Chateauguay and that the amount owing on this work be divided among the 12 taxpayers whose land drained into these rivers.

In a discussion on the Township Dump, it was affirmed the the Dump was open every Saturday during daylight hours.

The Secretary was authorized to pay the following bills: Social Welfare, $275.50 Juror's List, $11.85; Stamps for the Tax Notices, $22.00; Mr. Bill Warner for spraying $25.00; County Rate and Health Unit, $558.00; Mr. O. Maynard, $12.00; Huntingdon Gleaner for Financial Reports, $76.18; Secretary - Treasurer, $177.96; Mr. A. Dubois, $25.00; Council's share of cost of War Memorial, $377.67.

Special Train Brings Back Memories

HOWICK — Upwards of 100 people gathered at Ayrness on Sunday afternoon to see the special train pass through towards Candiac with a steam engine and ten coaches. A strong wind was blowing so cinders blew into our eyes and black smoke billowed around in the same old-fashioned way.

The area around the station wears a deserted look now compared to 50 years ago when every farmer along the lower end of Tullochgorum Rd., shipped milk to Montreal.

For some years the train came in about 7 A.M. then later on about 7:40 and as far as we remember breakfast was over before the milk went to the station. The men had a little visit as they placed the cans ready for loading and as they helped the trainmen to load, then they returned home to do a day's work.

Sometimes in summer there was a shortage of "empties" to take home and we were given the job of meeting the evening train to pick up the extras.

Spring to a farmer living on a clay road meant mud. That awful mud! It was impossible to drive at any speed past a crawl, and horse and milk wagon were plastered with the gooey stuff.

We were reminded of many past incidents as we watched this steam train: Going to visit relatives at Bainsville and Valleyfield, waiting for "The Flyer" at Coteau, or the Moccasin, taking a train on the other line to Montreal for a shopping trip, or to Huntingdon for music lessons from Miss Elsie Sellar (the late Mrs. N. Sparrow).

As far as we know Mrs. Raymond Anderson was the only local lady passenger aboard this special train and she was enjoying every minute of the trip. Mr. Wm. Baillie, who is agent and operator at Hemmingford Station was aboard also. Many young people were seeing a train for the first time and cameras were clicking on all sides.

At least one man was there who as a small boy watched the railroad line being built across his home farm — Jim Crawford.

Catches 8½ lb. Fish

Mr. and Mrs. G. Kool sailed for Amsterdam on the Ryndam, October 1st., after spending five months with their daughter, Mrs. B. Plaizier and the family.

Mr. Kool managed to create quite a fish story during his holiday.

One night he failed to come home at the usual hour from his little fishing jaunt so about 8 p.m. the family went searching. They found him near the United Church, looking for his broken line and the big fish that got away. They laughed heartily at the idea of a big fish in that river.

At 5 o'clock the next morning he had disappeared, but at 10 A.M. returned with the white float on the broken line and an 8½ lb. fish, so he had the last laugh. A good snapshot records the event.

Catches Large Salmon

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Robinson of Halifax, Yorkshire, England, spent several days with their cousins Mr. and Mrs. J. Marsden before returning home from a four months visit with relatives in Victoria and Williams Lake, B.C.

While in Victoria Mr. Robinson tried fishing for the first time. He caught a few little ones, then after a two-hour struggled landed a 28 lb. 5 oz. salmon. Needless to say he has a picture of himself holding the big fish.

Makes a Strike

After two fish stories maybe we could add a bowling story. Jim Crawford at 84 knows he can't equal Mr. Nap. Parent as a steady bowler. But he can say that he has bowled only one bowl in his life and it made a strike. The big game was played in the Industrial Building at Ormstown Ex. and the prize was a ball point pen!

Mrs. T. Morron of Brownsbury visited with her sister, Mrs. H. Brady and Mr. Brady on Friday. With her were her daughter, Miss Frances Morrow of Brownsburg, and son Mr. and Mrs. Russell Morrow receive a grant of about $36,000. with regard to the extension of the water system which is under consideration. Furthermore, the Government would lend the Town up to half of the money needed at a rate of 53/4% interest. It was then moved by Alderman McGerrigle, seconded by Alderman Gaw, that the necessary measurer to obtain all the help possible from the Government be taken and that the town engineer be advised.

A grant of $25. was made to the Canadian Rheumatism and Arthritic Society.

Following the reading of a letter from the Valleyfield Social Service asking for the help of the Council, it was decided that a contribution of $500. be made to this organization. It was noted that the Social Service spends much more than this in the Town each year and that the necessity of its action is very well understood.

It was mentioned that the weeds should be cut at the filter plant. There was also a suggestion made that the residents of the town be advised to cut the weeds on their property, or the town will have it done and charge it to their tax account.

The laying out of a cement floor at the municipal garage was discussed, and also the installation of electricity.

Concerning the water tank of the town, which freezes for 3 or 4 weeks during the winter each year, it was decided that the same system used last year which relies on an altitude valve, be again tried this year.

An alderman brought to the attention of the Council last Friday night, a truck, delivering merchandise at the Menard store, blocked the traffic for a long time on Chateauguay St. It was decided to inforce the rule already in effect which prohibits trucks travelling from North to South on Chateauguay St.

The purchase of a filing cabinet for the police department was authorized.

There was a suggestion made that it was high time to do it, if a retaining wall had to be built near the new bridge. No final decision was reached, but the Council members will try to meet with the officials of Builders' Supply next Thursday with regard to this.

The meeting was adjourned until October 21 at 8 p.m.

THIS and THAT in TOWN ...

Just what Dan Tully is going to name his man-made lake resort area near Athelstan is still the $500. question, but we do know he sold two lots this week: Charlie Hesseltine of Malone bought one and Arnold Milne of Huntingdon another.

Roch Trepanier (Ford) will be moving from Chateauguay St. within the next week. The new Roch Trepanier garage at the corner of Cemetery St. and Ridge Road will start taking shape almost immediately.

This is a whopper of a fish story, but every word is true: on Monday evening Philippe Hart of Cazaville was fishing, about sundown, and landed at 48-lb. Muskie. The monster is believed to be the largest taken from Lake St. Francis in 50 years. We'll have a picture for the next issue of The Gleaner, and more facts. Meanwhile, congratulations, Phil!

Below-freezing weather and threat of snow has some Ormstown, Huntingdon and area people thinking about their annual trek to Florida. Others believe Indian Summer just isn't worth waiting for and have closed their summer camps until next year. Can't really blame any of them.

A surprising number of wells in the community are running dry ... some for the first time.

Ormstown's Police Chief is keeping a sharp eye on traffic violators ... no fooling.

With frost in the air, the diehards haven't hung up their golf clubs yet but many, especially in the Howick-Aubrey-Riverfield area, are limbering up for the curling season.

A couple of weeks past we predicted the new tax rate in Huntingdon would be 17 mills. So sorry we were wrong. The rate struck is 18.

Both junior and senior high school soccer was played on Saturday in Ormstown on the sports field near Zephyr Textiles. Hemmingford and Huntingdon teams played Ormstown and the games attracted quite a few spectators. Several comments were overheard about the excellence of the refereeing. We predict soccer will soon be as popular as basketball in this community.

And football fans can see some mighty fine playing at Chateauguay on week-ends. Both junior and senior teams are well worth watching.

The coming week-end is Thanksgiving: count your blessings and give thanks to The Lord on Sunday ... in church. Also, be careful when driving this week-end ... traffic will no doubt be heavy and Route No. 4, Howick-Ormstown-Huntingdon, is under repair, exercise extra caution for the out-of-towners who aren't aware of this. And leaves are falling, don't forget this makes for slippery wheeling, especially when wet.

An abundance of raccoons on the road these evenings ... some must weigh 50 and more pounds.

Some people are going to be disappointed, but it just can't be helped: Huntingdon Rotarians just haven't sold enough tickets to cover the cost of the car, so the drawing has been postponed until November 18. At to-night's bingo at Notre Dame Hall, however, a very special door prize will be given free: a handsome transistor radio. Proceeds from the bingo and the drawing are for the nurse-training benefit fund, so please, if you have not been contacted, ask a Rotarian for a ticket. You will be helping a local girl to realize an ambition and also help the Huntingdon County Hospital.

Mr. Napoleon Parent Enjoys Life At 84

By Bernice Cullen

Two weeks ago, we reported the bowling prowess of our friend Mr. Napoleon Parent, who will be 84 years old on November 6th. In the meantime we have had the opportunity to watch this man in action and to talk to him.

Sixty years ago young Nap and his friends used to drive (horse and buggy of course) to Beauharnois and board the train to Montreal. This was a weekly trip to the Windsor Bowling Alley where the young enthusiasts became expert bowlers. It was not long before Nap married and that was the end of those trips to Montreal. He never bowled again until two years ago when he tried his hand to see if the old skill was still there. It was, but it was not until this summer that Nap decided to join a league.

In talking about those old days Mr. Parent said, "Everyone used to be the same, just good friends, having a good time, in the summer we played baseball and in the winter we played hockey with a ball and sticks on the same field. We did not need expensive equipment, we just played the game as best we could using what we had. When asked if he is still a hockey fan and what team he cheers for, Mr. Parent said, "I cheer for the winning team, but I like to see Canadians win." When asked if he had other hobbies this quick witted joker mischieviously winked and said, "I like the ladies".

Nap's parents were born and reared in the State of Michigan, they moved to Howick more than 85 years ago and set up a lively stable. Nap and his brothers and sisters were born in Howick, and that is where he has lived ever since. The family business grew and prospered and the gentlemen from miles around used to rent a fine driver and buggy to take their best girls courting. Napoleon Parent, for many years, drove a fine pair of blacks for Robinson Undertakers, there are many middle aged persons today who still remember the handsome young man in the tall black hat adding dignity to the funerals of the day. As the years rolled by the finetraining steeds gave way to motor vehicles and Nap found himself in the taxi business. It is only four years ago that the 84 year-old man decided he had had enough of taxi-ing and resigned.

Mr. Parent has been interested in politics ever since he can remember. It was he who was the chief organizer for the late Prime Minister Mercier. Only recently has he given up working for the political cause. Mr. Nap Parent has retired.

This energetic man could not really retire, he is still too robust both physically and mentally. He reads everything he can find, without the aid of glasses, his nine children and 17 grandchildren give him great pride. Although his wife predeceased him a few years ago he still maintains his home. He loves to travel from place to place and he loves to visit with his friends and make new ones. He is affectionately known as Churchill of Howick, mainly because of his ever present cigar and possibly because of his political interests. He has cut down his cigar consumption of ten a day to five.

We spent a hour with Mr. Parent and the 48 Howick Bowlers and watched the action at Ste. Martine last Tuesday evening. Mr. Parent is as adept as most, his partner is Mrs. Rollande Dagenais. It was obvious that all the players hold this fine old gentleman in great esteem, their pride in him is equalled by his in them. We never again will listen to any one say there is no place for the aged, Mr. Parent is superior to all in wisdom, agility wit and years.

Gerald Elvidge left on the week-end for Cornwallis, N.S. where he will begin his navy training.

The Annual Naval Ball on Friday evening was a great success ... more couples, excellent entertainment and refreshments a successful event in every way.

Bob Sellar of Edmonton is the official Province of Alberta representative to the Printing Equipment Assoc. conference in Ottawa this week ... Bob and his charming wife will be renewing friendships in Huntingdon for a few days next week. Bob's father, Dr. R. Watson Sellar of Ottawa, is again enjoying his usual health after being seriously ill a few weeks ago.

Some people are of the opinion that a Regional Protestant School is the next step for this community ... most probably in Ormstown or Huntingdon. And it's reasonable to believe that a second Regional Protestant School will be erected in Chateauguay in due course.

Ste. Martine and Ormstown boast the best street lighting along Route 4, don't you agree?

Queen Elizabeth arrived in Canada on Monday and was accorded a royal welcome. In Prince Edward Island today (Wednesday) and throughout the rest of her visit in Canada, she will undoubtedly be warmly received ... Long Live The Queen!

Speaking of our province, did you know the 1965 license plates will have a letter and five numerals (0L0-000) instead of six numerals as in the past (222-222)?

Did you know that a 98-lb. sturgeon was taken by Joseph Laberge, in the Chateauguay River about two miles east of Howick, many years ago? This info was passed on by Joffre Desgroseilliers, proprietor of the 3-Minute Lunch on Highway 4 a couple of miles from Howick (Ste. Martine side). Joffre's 3-Minute Lunch was formerly located near the station in Howick.

Alongside is Mr. Otto Bulow of Dewittville who is holding a huge blue heron which residents of Dewittville have been admiring for two years. This harmless bird and its mate were often seen and although of wild species, it was actually not afraid of people. One could approach within a few feet of him while he was on the ground before he would fly lazily off, usually in a sideways flight, out of your way ... more in an apologetic manner for being underfoot than a flight to save his life. This is probably what occurred on the week-end ... but instead of an ordinary human the one who approached was a trigger-happy, callous 'hunter' who shot a beautiful and harmless blue heron. And that's not all. The brave hunter picked the dying bird up and carried him to a fence post where he wrapped the long spindly legs around the top of the post and tied them, breaking the delicate bones to do so, so that everyone passing might see the big bird in death. Need we say that everyone in the area preferred to see him 'alive'. He wasn't exactly a pet, but he did bring a sense of pride and happiness to a great many people, young and old, but he won't any more, thanks to some poor fool.

Napoleon Parent, Howick, 84 years, Still Active in Bowling

Above Mr. Napoleon Parent, of Howick, Que., who is 84 years of age and interested in everything that goes on. On the right he is seen in the act of Bowling and is a regular player with his team in a league. A story on this is elsewhere in this issue.

Félicitations des commissaires à la J.O.C.

JEUNESSE OUVRIERE CATHOLIQUE d'aujourd'hui, on en parle ou on n'en parle pas. Les adultes sont trop souvent indifférents pourquoi? pourtant ce sont nos enfants qui font partie de ce groupe. Ils ont terminé leurs études pour se lancer dans un travail quelconque afin de gagner leur vie honorablement.

Comme c'est parfois difficile de s'adapter à ce nouveau régime de vie. Les adultes sont là pour les encourager ou les décourager.

Par pur hazard quelques commissaires ont assisté à une soirée donnée par la J.O.C. de Huntingdon au gymnase de l'école Notre-Dame. Nous avons été tellement surpris de voir ces jeunes hommes et jeunes filles s'en donner à coeur joie dans une pièce qu'ils ont montée, suivie d'un forum sur la pièce en question, et sur les conditions de travail qui existent où ils sont employés.

On discute aussi sur le syndicat qui sert à protéger le jeune travailleur.

La soirée se termine par un programme d'amateurs, choisis dans leur milieu.

Nous devons dire à la J.O.C. et les jeunes qui y participent, "BRAVO". Vous avez de l'initiative, de la persévérance, et de l'éducation. N'hésitez pas à aller jusqu'au bout, faites-vous valoir, montrez que vous devez occuper une place dans la société, et profitez des occasions pour vous instruire davantage, montez d'autres pièces de théâtre, cela développe l'intelligence, enrichit le vocabulaire. Encouragez les autres jeunes à se joindre à vous. Continuez votre beau travail dans le mouvement de la J.O.C. et soyez assurés que vous avez le support des commissaires, qui vous encouragent à continuer. Félicitations aux responsables.

Editorial Notes...

Protestant Regional School Planning

A great deal of discussion took place at the Thursday meeting of the Huntingdon Protestant School Commissioners' on the subject of a Regional School. It was disclosed that the Board has until November 30th to decide what it is going to do.

At the present time our schools are functioning under what is known as the consolidated school. This of course came about when many of the small country schools were closed and a central idea developed where the pupils of these schools were taught in one large school. It was a consolidation of the small schools into one large unit at a suitable point in the area to be served.

There was opposition to this change on the part of some school boards and of course some of the taxpayers. This consolidation meant that the pupils had to be transported from their homes to the new school. Such a system is of course in use at this time.

Under the new educational set-up, another change is about to take place with the introduction of the Regional School System. In one sense it is much like that of consolidation, for it means a new school set up at a suitable central location. However, it will not involve the closing of the other schools, but it will mean that every school in the area to be served, will lose its high school population. The Regional School will take in students from High schools in the area and they will be transported from their home grounds to that of the new school. At the same time vocational training will be included to give all a better chance to fit themselves into our present day way of life.

This new plan is part of the new Dept. of Education's scheme of things and will come about it by not later than 1967. Outside of appointing a delegate to choose the members of the Regional School Board, the local school boards will not have anything to do with this type of school. They will however, still be in charge of the local elementary school.

The location of the Regional school is something which bothers our local board and it is something in which they can have some control in the early stages. After it has been decided where and when and so forth, it is doubtful if they will be able to do anything more. Thus, it is hoped that a Regional School when it is built will be reasonably near to Huntingdon. It is hoped that pressure in this direction can be brought to bear in the right quarters in order that this may come about. The area to be covered by a Regional School is a wide one and it could result in students having to travel some very long distances morning and evening in order to go to school. A central point would have the effect of equalizing the distances for all concerned. It is felt that Huntingdon would provide a central point, at least for students in this end of the area. It is also felt that there is enough school population in this area to warrant a Regional School being built here. Huntingdon also has many firsts to its name which should be given consideration when this matter is being decided.

The School Board is inviting a speaker to come here and address a public meeting in the very near future. It is hoped that when this takes place that the people of the Huntingdon Protestant School Municipality will make special effort to be present. Every taxpayer should be vitally concerned with the new plan and should want to know what effect it will have now and in the future. That there will be added expense is a foregone conclusion. By attending this meeting, the opportunity to ask questions will no doubt be given and it is the place to get the answers.

It is important that the public knows what is going on and the only way to get that information is to attend the meeting that will be held real soon.

A suggestion has been made that from a point of view of economy as well as location that both the Catholic and the Protestant Regional Schools could be built at the same site. It is said that there would be many advantages in this including better use of transportation. The same buses could be used to pick up both Catholic and Protestant students along the routes. Other advantages too can be found in such a suggestion. It is felt that both groups could get together on this and hold a discussion on the possibilities and then perhaps present this to Education Dept. circles for their approval, or disapproval.

In any event this is an important matter to all interested in school affairs and their attendance at the forthcoming meeting should be a must. Announcement will be duly made when this meeting is to be held.

The Maritime Provinces Want To Get Together

WHEREVER one goes at this time it seems that separation is a common word and there is much talk on the subject and articles in the newspapers and magazines and so forth.

It is not surprising therefore when groups of people get into the mood for going their separate ways. It is thus that four premiers in the Maritime Provinces are getting their heads together on a scheme to make their four provinces into one State within the Confederation of Canada.

This to us makes more sense than a complete separation. The economy of the Maritimes is such within the separate provinces as they are now, it is often hard going for all the people to make a good living this is due to many reasons but mostly economic. These provinces have certain means of livelihood and production that are dominated by factors which can control the actual returns received. That is at individual provincial level. But we can see that collectively, or by amalgamation into one state, the economy of all could be improved.

It is presumed that should such a plan be instituted that there would be one governing body instead of four as at present. Here there would be a considerable saving that could be passed onto improving the general economy. The total administration would be supervised from one central control and there could be a levelling off in taxation at this state level, while at the same time, still being a part of Canada, such state would be able to share in the benefits offered at the federal level. One state control in the various depts. would have an equalising effect throughout and thus could produce further benefits to the general economy. That being so, the general welfare of the people should be improved and with beneficial results. Canada as a whole would lose three provinces out of its ten, but in actual territory it would not suffer. Its population would remain the same and its industrial and agricultural positions would not lessen. If anything, if the economy of this state was improved, then the economy of the whole of Canada would benefit also.

We would probably miss the familiar names of these provinces but perhaps something could be done that would preserve their identity. However, it would probably be hard for the citizens of these provinces to give up their identities to become a State with a new status.

The plan however, has a better flavor than being entirely separated from the rest of Canada, but it probably will never come about at that. It seems to us that Canada needs its provinces and the Provinces need Canada.

Fire Prevention Week

THIS week from October 5th to the 10th is Fire Prevention Week in Canada and of course that means here too. Already the Huntingdon Fire Brigade has been carrying on a campaign to keep the idea of fire prevention in the forefront and to remind the public of its significance.

To some people the sound of the fire siren strikes terror into their hearts. Where is the fire and how bad it is, are the first thoughts. If one is away from home, the thought is, is it at my home. Yet the fire siren has a note of confidence — if it is your home, then help is on its way. There is a greater chance that the loss will not be so large. In a sense it is better the siren did not sound, for then it is likely possible that fires are not occurring. So we come to the matter of Fire Prevention.

Not in all cases, but probably there are some, when a fire could have been prevented by taking proper precautionary measures. In many fires we read, or hear the boast — a fuse blew, so I just defective electrical wiring, etc. Quite often this might be said to be from carelessness on the part of owner to see that proper measures were taken to insure the wiring was not defective. Too often we hear the boast — a fuse blew, so I just put a penny behind it and the power came back on. The fuse is the safety gap in the electrical installation and its purpose is to safeguard against possible defects — that is why it blows. When you put that penny behind the fuse, you have defeated its purpose and there is real danger. One cannot blame the wiring when such tricks are tried. Another plan is to increase the size of the fuse so that it will take a greater overload, or short, before it blows. This causes the wiring to get hot and if the resistance is too great, it may cause a fire to start at some other point, probably where dust has gathered. Such would never start, if the proper fuse is used, for the fuse will blow and the danger is past. If fuses repeatedly blow, it is time to call in your electrician and find out the cause. In this way you will be helping to prevent fires. That is the purpose of this Fire Prevention Week.

It comes at a time when colder weather is setting in and various means of heating will be put into operation to keep us warm. Electrical fixtures will get a greater workout as they will be used for more hours per day and so on. A check of heating units, motors, starters and all other things of the modern household, will reveal if there are defects or something which may go defective and be a danger for fire. Rubbish stored in basements and attics, especially if there are chimney stacks or pipes passing through upper floors and attics, should be removed. Accumulation of dust around pipes where they pass through a floor, should be removed and a circulation of air kept around the pipes so that the heat will not scorch the woodwork. Where pipes are near to walls, protection should be given by abestos sheeting or some other fire resistent material. Tin is often used, but this can get hot too.

Attention paid to the smallest detail can often pay off in preventing a fire from starting. Rank carelessness cannot be excused. Putting out hot ashes near to a building, or in a container that is combustible, should never be done. Care should be taken to see that the ashes are completely out before leaving them. 'Oily rags left where heat can affect them, should be avoided. Even the rays of the sun through a glass can start a fire among oily rags. Place them in a proper container, or destroy them immediately.

Take care when smoking, that cigarettes and pipes are out and if ashes are dropped, especially on upholstered furniture, or beds, be sure that there is no danger of a fire starting up. In furniture such ashes may smoulder for a long time before actually catching fire.

There are hundreds of ways fire can be started and there are hundreds of ways of checking to see that fires are prevented. It is up to everybody to do their very best to put fire prevention measures to work.

In this area the past year there have been several quite disastrous fires. Fortunately there has been no human life lost, but many an animal has been lost in farm fires besides the actual property values. Buildings can be replaced at a cost, but valuable animals, human lives, are a different matter — they are lost forever.

Canada Act Your Age

There is one country in the world that I feel sorry for. It has all the outward attributes of a spoiled - rotten teenager.

Bill Smiley

It is good-looking, if a little gangly. It is strong and well-made, if a little inclined to flabbiness. It has always had a big allowance because its mother and father came into a lot of property.

But all the signs of the mixed-up adolescent are there: the sudden flaring resentment over nothing; the great desire to be loved and made a fuss over; the surliness when things don't go right; the sullen apathy towards anything worth-while; the absorption in material things; the flashes of decency; and the impulses towards vandalism.

It must be dreadful to see a child you love, one who has brought sun and laughter as an infant, pride and joy through the growing years, turn into one of these creatures.

It is equally sad to see a country one loves turn into a schizophrenic, whining with self-pity one moment, swaggering with threats the next, bragging with one breath, complaining with another. I'm talking about Canada.

There is something sick in our country today, and I feel for it the same baffled sorrow that I feel for the teenager who has a good mind, with nothing more on it than bashing around in a big car and smashing things up, who has a fine body, with nothing more to do than let it go to pot.

I don't know quite what has brought me to this state of gloom, but the flag debate certainly helped. An insignificant issue, ineptly introduced by an inadequate prime minister and immediately attacked by an incredible leader of Her Majesty's loyal opposition.

People complain, periodically, that Canada gets little or no attention in the world press. Thank goodness! If newspaper readers in other nations could peruse some of the juvenilia that has passed as debate in our House of Commons on the flag issue, they would shake their heads in bewilderment, and write us off a a nation about one jump ahead of the Congo.

Personally, I don't care whether our national flag is three mangy maple leaves, or three beavers eating the left thigh of Sir John A. Macdonald, or three roosters crowing "O Canada" from a dunghill. But I do care that my country shows none of the signs of strength, maturity and wisdom that might be expected from an adult democracy.

Another thing that has produced my present mood is the threat to the life of the Queen, if she has enough gumption to visit Canada, on invitation. Which she has. Would that the shrivelled punks who threaten her had as much.

Canadians are not made for bowing and scraping before royalty. But who, except a few fanatics of desperate paucity of soul would want to harm this rather plain, rather sweet, quite dignified and extremely courageous woman who does her earnest best in an extremely difficult role?

The answer is, only those who have adopted the philosophy of the communist and the fascist — that the end justifies the means. The Queen has nothing to do with imperialism or colonialism or any of the other "isms" that Quebec is belatedly excited about, after sitting complacent under a dictator, and a corrupt one, for years.

I hereby announce that if anybody takes a potshot at the Queen when she visits Quebec, I will personally call up a crowd of creaky old fighter pilots and march on that province. I doubt if we'd have a banner, because if you told an old fighter pilot to follow a flag into action he'd tell you promptly what you could do with your flag. And it would be painful.

Perhaps I'm wrong. Perhaps the mixed-up teenager will, as so many have done, grow up, stop tearing things down, and turn into a rank old reactionary like me. I hope so.

"COUNTRY NOTEBOOK"

BY WALKER RILEY

"Country Notebook" by Mr. Walker Riley, Agricultural Extension Specialist with Macdonald College, appears in The Gleaner with this edition. The column will be a weekly feature which we trust will be of interest to all in the Chateauguay Valley.

John Ogilvie called over from the Engineering department yesterday to say that the first silo filled with haylage had been opened. We were around when this silo was filled early last June. Having extolled the virtues of haylage in this column, we were more than a little curious to see how it had turned out.

Everyone concerned is very pleased. it took the cows a day or two to become accustomed to it, but they are now cleaning up 22 pounds a day. There has been no noticeable drop or increase in milk with the change from corn silage. The men find it easy to handle; Mr. Houke, the College herdsman, is happy about it. And unlike grass silage, the slight odour is actually very pleasant. I climbed into the silo with my good trousers on; my wife didn't even notice it when I came home.

This haylage was made in early June from an alfalfa-grass mixture, wilted for a few hours to 55% moisture, then chopped fine with a forage harvester and blown into the silo. The silo is concrete; the doors were sealed with plastic fertilizer bags; no preservatives were used. The top was finished off with a plug of unwilted material, and covered with a sheet of plastic. This sheet was not quite large enough; there was very little spoilage under the cover, but considerably more where it was not protected.

In last spring's note on haylage, I said that six inches a day should be removed from the silo to keep it from spoiling. I have learned since that figure may be correct in hot weather, but in fall and winter, two or three inches will be sufficient.

You might ask why an engineer is concerned with haylage. John, as a building specialist, is very interested in storages for this "new" feed. Also, he built a very accurate moisture tester out of soup cans and scrap metal. It fits on the exhaust of the tractor. If you want plans to make your own, I know he can get them for you.

"Raising rabbits for meat and fun is becoming an important industry across Canada. It provides many interesting possibilities from one or two hutches to commercial rabbitries, producing several hundred animals per week."

This statement is from the introduction to "Raising Rabbits", a new bulletin just released by the Canada Department of Agriculture. Don't laugh too soon; I have a notion we will hear a lot more about rabbits for meat in the years ahead.

There are three good reasons. First, one doe may have four litters a year with six or eight in a litter. That is 30 offspring compared with one for a beef cow or two for a ewe. Second, a young rabbit will be ready for market in sixty days, and weigh as much as five pounds. And third, of all the domestic animals, rabbits are the most efficient feed-converters. Dr. Donefer, nutritionist with the Animal Science department, tells me that a rabbit can change three pounds of feed into one pound gain and half that feed is roughage. Not even broilers can beat that. Several feed companies now supply a complete pelleted ration for rabbits.

I am not suggesting that anyone should establish a rabbitry in the garage. If it develops as an industry, it will likely be along the lines of the poultry business. Right now, frozen, cut-up rabbit is selling for 85c. a pound in one of Montreal's chain stores.

Another new bulletin is "Making Blueberry Wine at Home". This is the opening paragraph. "Blueberries make a satisfying desert wine. It has a well balanced, slightly spicy flavour, a nice bouquet and a ruby colour."

Like a copy, anyone?

The Development of Regional School Facilities

Education today is an important matter and the days of the "Little Red School House" are definitely in the dim distant past. The days of the one room school where several grades were taught by one teacher, are also gone. The country school for the most part has been merged into the larger and what is known as the consolidated school in a central area location. These new type schools have become larger as the school population grew and now we are entering into a new era of school life — this is the Regional School Plan.

It is important that the general public should be aware of what is and about to take place and thus The Gleaner is publishing a few of the facts of what the Regional School will mean to all of us. It is not something we can ignore for it will come in any event and we must be prepared to live with it. When consolidation took place there was much dissention toward it, but it came and now we are faced with the further development of the education phase. A study of what this new development is will give the public a much better understanding of what is going on when their School Board has to accept Regional School Planning and facilities.

Education Urgency: general and vocational High School Instruction for all.

The primary objective of the government's educational policy is to make schooling accessible to all young people by eliminating financial, geographical and psychological barriers and by providing them with instruction suitable to their aptitudes as well as to the role they must play as citizens and workers of the Quebec of to-day and of the future.

Recognizing education as a field of high priority, the government has already undertaken an unprecedented financial effort to reach its educational objectives. Being aware of the urgency of the situation, the government is determined to take whatever measures are necessary in order to achieve the basic objectives set forth, over the next three years.

This objective can be summarized as follows: 55 regional school boards, 55 plans for regional school facilities, 55 regional systems of school facilities.

But it is no longer the responsibility of the Department of Education alone to meet this new challenge. On the contrary, the success of this vast operation which we are undertaking depends on the preparation in each region of a regional school facilities plan which will determine the kind and the size of educational institutions required and which will chart the steps necessary for the erection of schools and buildings appropriate to the organization of the various branches of general and vocational secondary education.

The primary responsibility for drawing up this plan lies, not on the Department of Education, but on the region as a whole and particularly on the regional school board.

School boards must therefore be acutely aware of the urgency for preparing plans for regional school facilities and must begin as quickly as possible the task of regional planning.

In the first place, they should be able to count on the frank and full cooperation of all the existing institutions, public and private, in the regional board's territory and should, from the beginning, seek the participation of teachers and parents whose cooperation has, up to now, been sought only in carrying out plans made by others. Finally, representatives of socio-economic groups of the regional area must also be integrated in the planning procedure.

In each region, there will be a race against time. From now on, all must be made aware of their responsibilities in this regard and must join in the work of the regional planning committee, putting

Provincial Capital Report

QUEBEC (CP) If new electoral laws took any of the old juice out of the Oct. 5 Byelection Campaigns, it wasn't noticeable to residents of the four counties in which the campaigning took place.

"They're burying us in asphalt," was a typical comment in Dorchester riding, where the hardest fight took place.

It was a three-way battle between Francis O'Farrell, the Liberal Candidate; Marcel Blais, for the Union Nationale; and Independent Creditiste Bernard Dumont.

Voters found themselves promised everything from a Place Des Arts to their own central bank, a mighty step up from the old chicken-in-every-pot of the depression days.

Platoons of party support came into the ridings on behalf of the candidates, who were soon shifted into the background by figures like René Levesque, Pierre Laporte, Daniel Johnson, Jean-Jacques Bertrand and so on.

The usual vivid descriptions of the Opposition and its tactics were given.

The campaign audiences found themselves listening to new Solicitor-General Claude Wagner, the candidate in Verdun, described the crime ring he plans to crack.

Mr. Johnson, the Union Nationale Leader, in turn described former Judge Wagner as a man who saw a halo about his head when he looked in a mirror.

He also questioned Mr. Wagner's qualifications for the post of Sollicitor-General, saying he hadn't been a practising lawyer for 15 years.

Mr. Wagner said he'd gained more experience in one year as a judge than he would have in "a solid year of practising law."

Mr. Johnson, commenting on road work in the vacant ridings, said Provincial Secretary Bona Arsenault had taken over direction of the program.

Mr. Arsenault's reaction was a statement in which he said: "The lies spread by the Leader of the Union Nationale and some of his organizers, particularly in Dorchester, as well as the dirty calumnies invented by the servile press against the ministers of the Lesage Government and other citizens known for their perfect integrity, are an insult to the intelligence of the electors."

All in all, the voters in the four counties found themselves being taken very seriously.

Why?

Mr. Johnson may have answered in Dorchester when he said: "Give me Marcel Blais (the Union Nationale Candidate) and we'll be able to have general elections before June, 1965."

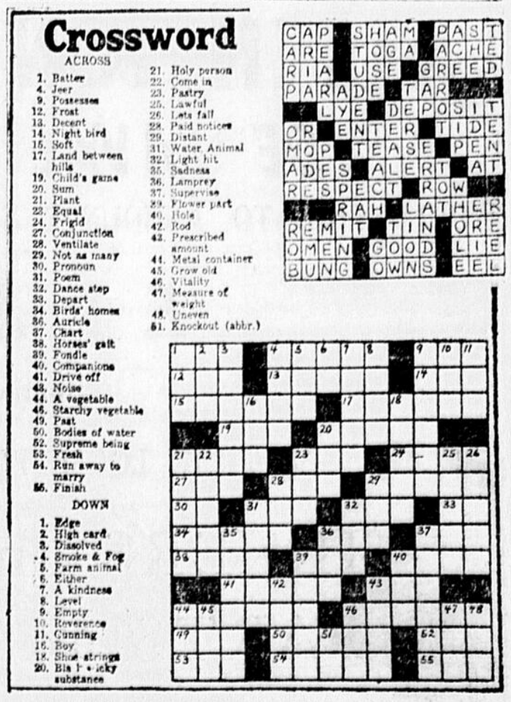

The Union Nationale had previously held Dorchester, while there had been Liberal incumbents in the other three ridings.

The Byelections thus were regarded as important barometers of feeling, especially in rural areas.

Many See Steam Engine On Sun. At Aubrey

The site of the old station at Aubrey must have thought the "good old days" were here again, when on Sunday afternoon car after car drove in and parked beside the railway. It wasn't long before black smoke could be seen away down the track and in a few moments a steam engine came around the bend and approached the people who had gathered to see her pass by maybe for the last time. With her whistle sounding out at the crossings she steamed proudly along the old right of-way followed by ten gleaming coaches.

The crew and many of the passengers waved a friendly greeting as they passed by and in a few moments all that could be seen was a faint trail of black smoke fading off in the distance. One little boy went off home proudly carrying a piece of coal which had fallen off the train and which he would treasure as a souvenir.

Several interested people drove out from Montreal to view this train and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Easton.

Mrs. Gordon Easton gave an interesting and vivid account of the International Peace Garden. This is the one and only Peace Garden in the world. It lies on the International Border of North Dakota and Manitoba and is 2,400 acres in extent.

In 1928 Mr. Moore conceived the idea of dedicating a piece of land to international peace between the two nations, Canada and the U.S., and a committee of three was appointed to select a suitable spot.

On July 14th, 1932 a cairn was unveiled with a plaque bearing this inscription "To God in His Glory". "We two nations' dedicate this garden and pledge ourselves that as long as men shall live we will not take up arms against one another."

The grounds have been beautifully landscaped with Siberian elms, ornamental trees and shrubs and flowers everywhere. Five terraces lead down to a sunken garden. The gardeners of America donated one thousand roses. This Peace Garden is North America's Living Lesson of good will.

Several of the members exhibited interesting articles from a foreign country. Plans were made for a card party to be held in the curling rink in the near future. aside sectarian interests and useless controversies over past differences, with the single aim of preparing the plan for regional school facilities.

Paul Gerin-Lajoie

First Part — Planning For Regional School

A. Need for a Plan for Regional Schools

As part of a general plan for educational development in Quebec, it is the task of regional school boards to provide instruction of a high caliber at the high school level, to put it physically within the reach of all the young people of the province and to organize services as economically as possible.

1.—The Function of Regional School Boards: New and Traditional Types of Instruction.

This definition of the scope of the role to be played by regional school boards implies that they will be called upon to offer new types of instruction.

In addition to the regular high school courses which already included several branches: general, domestic arts, commercial, scientific and classical, the regional school boards will progressively become responsible for a large share of vocational training at the high school level.

2.—First Task of a Regional Board: Planning

This being so, it is essential that each regional school board should, as soon as it is established, undertake as its first task the planning of school facilities for its territory and decide on the order in which the schools and other buildings required for the various kinds of general and vocational high school instruction should be erected.

Based on current population studies and on a projection of the growth of school populations both as to numbers and as to the requirements for specialization of tomorrow's man-power, such planning of school facilities will determine the kind, size and number of educational institutions necesasry in each region.

B. Preparing a Regional School Plan

The research necessary in drawing up a regional school plan involves the following main steps:

1) Inventory of present facilities;

2) Study of pupil populations;

3) Evaluation of needs;

4) Location of schools in the regional territory;

5) Building program of required new schools.

1.—Inventory of Present Facilities

A complete knowledge of the territory and an inventory of all its educational institutions including teaching equipment and material are essential for an analysis of future needs. Certain regional boards already have in their territory an apprenticeship centre, an agricultural school, state specialized training schools, classical colleges, normal schools, private vocational schools and, finally, the schools under the jurisdiction of protestant and catholic school boards: some have already built regional high schools.

We have, in this regard, a significant fund of information. School inspectors have already begun to assemble data necessary for a complete cataloguing of existing facilities: location, date of construction and use of the buildings. The school map project prepared at the office of the Department of Education's Planning Division, to serve as a guide for the creation of regional school boards, contains basic information for regional school organization.

2.—Study of Pupil Populations

In order to provide for regional school facilities, a knowledge of the numbers to be accommodated is necessary. By the use of scientific methods, the demographers and sociologists of the Department of Education have established an inventory of prospective pupils for the provinces as a whole and for the various municipalities. These studies of the growth of the population and of its age structure are merely a starting point in predicting needs.

The principal operation will be that of distributing school populations by level and type of instruction in accordance with the academic structures and the pupil promotion system. At this point, it is necessary to carry out studies on a regional basis. The specific inventory of the institutions in a given area, as well as the student enrolment in these various institutions, will make it possible to determine, for purposes of regional school organization, the data established for the province as a whole by the Department on the basis of an over-all analysis of the trends observed.

3.—Evaluation of Needs

In the light of the information gathered in the course of the first two stages of planning—an inventory of existing institutions on the one hand and prediction as to the school population to be accommodated on the other hand—those responsible for regional school planning should be in a position to make an accurate estimate of the needs for new facilities, including buildings and teaching equipment.

4.—Location of Schools in the Regional Territory

After having established the needs of their territory for new facilities, those responsible for regional school planning must study the question of locating buildings, in order that the erection of such buildings will provide the best possible solutions to the problems of geographic accessibility. It goes without saying that such a study must take the conveyance of pupils into account.

5.—Building Program of Required New Schools

Those responsible for regional school planning must be in a position to make recommendations and provide guidance as to the timing of new construction programs; they must also provide for the supervision of these programs.

The individual conditions of the regional area, which will have been brought to light in drawing up the plan, will lead to the recommendation of solutions appropriate to each case: the flexibility of the planning procedure must allow for varying solutions of similar problems encountered in the different regions. These minor differences, which might well be ignored in a province-wide plan of school development, illustrate the vital role to be played by regional school planning bodies.

Moreover, the participation of many regional groups, both in drawing up and carrying out plans for school facilities, will make it possible to decentralize operations and to carry out the required work at a much more rapid rate than a single provincial group would be able to achieve.

C. Responsibility for School Planning

1.—Principles

Regional school facilities are a part of the collective wealth of the social community; it follows that regional school development is a collective undertaking for which the whole area is generally responsible: a channeling of the available resources will be essential. A plan for regional school facilities cannot be isolated from the socio-economic realities of the area to which it applies.

A democratic Enterprise

The identification of the plan for regional school facilities with the particular circumstances of each region must, in the first place, be achieved through the normal structures of democratic responsibility at the regional level.

In the context of our educational legislation, the regional school boards constitute such structures. Consequently, it is natural that the planning should be organized around the regional school boards, whose members represent the parents and the ratepayers of the area.

A Cooperative Enterprise

The formulation of a plan for regional school facilities will not be successful unless its identification with the area, based first of all on democratic responsibilities of regional school commissioners, extends beyond this juridical framework and is founded also on all the dynamic elements of the social community.

In this sense, regional school planning will be a coo-

Exchange Students By Rotary, Visit Huntingdon

The following comparisons have been handed to The Gleaner by Jodi Thatcher.

The main difference between Huntington, N.Y. and Huntingdon, Que. is the size. Huntington, N.Y. is about 3 times larger and has about 15,000 people. Huntington, N.Y. is rather a combination of a small Montreal and a large Huntingdon, if such a thing is possible.

As I attended classes at Huntingdon High School this week, I noticed many differences in the educational systems. In N.Y. we graduate after 12 years of school, one more than here. We only take 5 subjects a year, compared to 10 or 11 in Quebec. We complete a certain course in one entire year, however, rather than continue one subject over a period of several years. I think we all learn the same amount of material, though.

Huntington, N.Y., being a suburb of N.Y. City is largely a residential area of commuters. We do not have as many farms, large factories, or a river running through the center of town. Homes are not spread as far apart. There are, however more shopping areas and main streets.

Having spent nearly a week in Huntingdon, Quebec, I have had a chance to live and go to school and see how your lives are led. It has truly been a happy as well as entertaining week and I now have something to compare my way of life to. In all sincerity I must say that I envy the people of Huntingdon, their love of life and their approach to it. In closing I would like to thank all that have made this week possible.

Lee Merrill

-o-

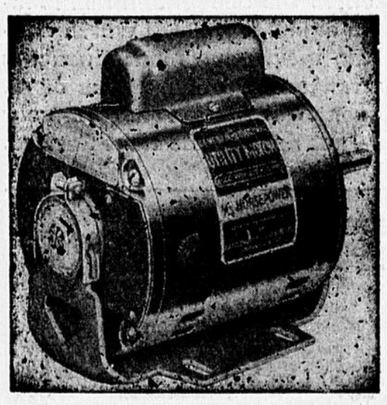

The only major differences I have seen between Huntingdon, Quebec, and Huntington, New York, are just those you would see between any small town and a large one. The differences are small town — big town, easy pace — fast pace, not Canadian — American. Here, everyone seems to know each other, and they all known us being from a 'suburb of New York City, we've found this pretty exciting. We've been greeted like celebrities, and when the Huntingdonian group comes to New York, we will be trying hard to reciprocate in full.

The Development of...

perative enterprise which must, in the first instance, count on the participation of all the existing educational institutions in the territory of the regional board

The complexity and the unavoidable interdependence of existing school systems make it evident that the regional school board must secure the cooperation of the other educational institutions. As to these institutions (specialized training, classical colleges, normal schools, family institutes, etc.) whose role complements or parallels that of the regional school board, it is clear that any plan of regional school development is of great interest to them.

Finally, there are numbers of groups, among which we will mention only teachers and parents, which have a direct interest in such a regional planning project. Their collaboration, which is essential for carrying out educational plans, is equally vital to the preparation of these plans.

A Joint Enterprise of School Boards and the Department of Education

The accessibility of secondary and vocational education, which is one of the specific objectives sought in the planning of school facilities, requires that the plan be drawn up at the regional level. On the other hand, the planning of school development for the province demands that there be over-all coordination of the various regional plans. The fact that their objectives are the same, and the necessity of using the most efficient methods possible at all levels make it essential for those responsible for regional planning and the Department of Education to work together.

2.—The Means

Advisors in School Organization

The initial coordination between the regional and provincial levels will be of a technical nature. For this purpose, the Department will make available to regional bodies the results of its research and studies in the realm of school planning. To provide this technical assistance, the Department will at once make available to regional school boards advisors who will assist those responsible for school planning in drawing up their plans. These advisors in school organization will provide the liaison for each school board, between the regional level and the provincial level of school planning.

Regional School Planning Committees

In this context of collaboration and cooperation, the responsibility for regional school planning will thus be borne by the Department of Education on the one hand and, on the other, by the regional school boards in collaboration with the various educational institutions of the region and with groups directly interested in education.

The preparation of plans for regional school facilities should therefore be entrusted to committees specially created for this purpose who will act in an advisory capacity to each regional school board and to the Department.

These committees will be made up of representatives of all the interested groups and institutions of the region. The Department plans the early publication of a document which will serve as a guide to regional school boards regarding the formation of these committees. This guide will be a general pattern and will be sufficiently flexible to take the individual characteristics of each area into account. The Department's school organization counsellors will work with the regional school boards towards the formation of regional committees for school planning.

The Provincial Planning Committee for Educational Development

In the process of formulating plans for school facilities, the regional committees will doubtless raise question with regard to the general standards of school organization and educational development. Those responsible for regional school planning will certainly have to deal with these problems which go beyond the limits of a plan for regional school facilities; there will necessarily be a close liaison between the planning groups at the regional level and those at the provincial level.

The responsibility for formulating and working out a general plan of educational development will be entrusted to the Provincial planning committee for Educational Development, the establishment of which has already been announced.

This committee will be attached to the Planning Division of the Department of Education and its members will work in coordination with the technical personnel of this Division whose research work deals with school planning for the province as a whole.

Time To Start Planning

A stadium accommodating 25,000 spectators for the international sports meets, ice shows, rodeos and other spectaculars is being built. There are special events areas where one can see and hear the best opera, ballet, symphonic and popular orchestras with singers, actors and entertainment from all over the world. Two main parking areas will hold over 24,000 cars. 'Joie de vivre' will be the amusement area with its night-and-day array of traditional and entirely new midway exhibition fun. National and industrial pavilions will be here, there and everywhere. The U.S.S.R. pavilion will be on the south side of St. Helen's Island, costing $14 million, directly opposite the U.S.A. pavilion on the north side of Isle Notre-Dame, representing an even greater investment. (Canada's own pavilion will cost 50% more than even that of the U.S.A.).

Mr. Lussier said that advance sale of admission tickets will commence next year. A $12,500,000 contract has already been let to provide free bus service to every paid admission ticket bearer.

Mr. Ian Watson, M.P. asked the speaker how people would come to Expo '67. Mr. Lussier replied that after six months of intensive study the following figures were recently released: 4% by sea, 6% by air, 5% by bus and 81% by car. There will be wharf facilities for 200 yachts, in addition.

Mr. Lussier said Expo '67 officials expect 15.5 million visitors from the U.S.A. At least two million will be from Malone, Massena, Ogdensburg, Syracuse, New York, Chicago and other main arteries both south and west. Route No. 4, now being rebuilt, will be ready for the influx of motorists arriving for Expo '67. Route 3 will be ready even sooner and No. 9 Highway will be improved. In short, the Chateauguay Valley will have more travel through it than one can imagine. Some will be local visitors (Radius 75 miles from Montreal); some regional (one night on the road); balance major travellers (500-mile radius from Expo '67). A high percentage of these people will stay in the 'local' area for several days, some even weeks. "The Chateauguay Valley with its scenic countryside, excellent dairy farms, good highways, close proximity to Expo '67, attractive towns and villages, friendly and educated people can well harvest bountiful tourist dollars," Mr. Lussier said.

The theme for Expo '67 is 'Man and His World'. The theme for the Chateauguay Valley should be 'Hospitality Unlimited'. Jean-Paul Lussier said Huntingdon is an ideal town to welcome visitors, being just across the border from the U.S.A. yet so close to Montreal. Homes in the area should be opened to visitors who would rather pay for lodging in a private home rather than stay amidst the hustle and bustle of city life. Everyone with a spare room should extend hospitality by making it available to tourists. He said most homes in this town are well painted and clean, but for Expo '67 visitors we should look around and see where we could improve, perhaps with more flowers, a freshly decorated room, a 'welcome' sign. City folk delight in farm homes, are willing to go off the beaten track a little in order to be in the country.

Above all else, hospitality should be the objective. If a room rents for eight or ten dollars, it would be advisable to charge a dollar or so more and advertise Free Breakfast. Courtesy is of utmost importance: for instance, cars bearing license plates from other provinces and states will be numerous, never, NEVER blow your car horn impatiently when a stranger is trying to find a place he has never seen before.

Following his talk, Mr. Lussier asked if there were any questions. There were, and Mr. Ian Watson answered some too. Mr. Watson explained that a similar meeting had been held at Ste. Martine two weeks previous and another meeting will be held on October 16th. He invited the Mayors and one representative of each town and municipality to attend. It and municipality to attend. A New Building For The Philps & Bourgon Agency At The Same Location

An interior view of our new office

CUSTOMERS of the 77 year old Agency who drop in to discuss their insurance coverages at the spanking new building recently completed to house the firm will now find themselves in surroundings fitting their importance.

From the beginning a lot of thought and great effort was made to produce a building that would have a warm and inviting appearance. It was felt that the new building should be visually attractive as well as being functional.

The Exterior of the Building in Roman brick, Sandwich style, with very generous use of two large glass windows, with plate glass aluminum door.

The work was started by Jack Construction Reg'd on August 1st and completed on Sept. 12th. In awarding the contracts to the subtrades great effort was made to favour the insurance clientele even though in many instances the lowest was not used.

The floor covering in the offices is the new Vinyl asbestos tile Beachstone Color.

The walls are American Walnut finish, with vinyl baseboard. The ceiling is of white fibretone acoustical, which gives a really harmonizing effect. The Lighting is Fluorescent and to complete the decor Burlap Fibreglass drapes sand colour (by the way fire proof).

George Meloche, Q.C., Elected Governor-Nominee Rotary Club For 1966-67

MR. GEORGE MELOCHE

At the Fall Meeting of the directors of Rotary Clubs in District 704, held at Massena, N.Y., recently, Mr. George-André Meloche, Q.C., of Valleyfield, Quebec, was elected Governor-nominee for the term 1966-67.

District 704 comprises 52 Rotary Clubs in Northern New-York, South-East Ontario, part of Quebec including the Watertown - Plattsburg areas, as well as the localities in Napanee and Ottawa, Valleyfield, Huntingdon, Beauharnois, St. Jerome and the Montreal region.

It is the most international District in Rotary. The election of Mr. Meloche, well-known Valleyfield lawyer and in the Province, was applauded at the District Conference at Massena. Mr. Meloche, member of the law-firm Meloche and Perron, is a Knight of St. Sylvester. He will represent district 704 at same time as Montreal's World Fair.

A community minded citizen, Governor-Elect Meloche held the following posts:

Governor of Moose;
President of the Junior and Senior Chambers of Commerce at Valleyfield;
President of Chamber of Commerce of the Province of Quebec.

He is also a past commodore of the Valleyfield Boating Club, responsible for the annual Valleyfield International regatta.

Last year, Mr. Meloche was the chairman of Caritas-Valleyfield and also held the presidency of the Valleyfield Golf and Country Club.

Mr. Meloche is the first citizen of Valleyfield to hold such an important office with Rotary International. Moreover, he is the first French-Canadian citizen in 16 years to be elected to the post of Governor of this world-wide organization. He will be called upon to travel far and wide during his tenure of office in 1966-67.

Time To Start Planning

was then decided to form a Chateauguay Valley Expo '67 Planning Committee. Mr. Lussier had been mentioning Huntingdon only throughout his talk and it was pointed out that Huntingdon and Ormstown 'go together', that a county division line did not separate the similarities of the towns or peoples. Howick cannot be separated from Ormstown, either. It was the feeling of all that the Chateauguay Valley should be an entity, including Beauharnois and Chateauguay, rather than a separate group for Chateauguay County and another for Huntingdon County. Representatives from Hemmingford heartily agreed, intimating there was a strong link in the Huntingdon - Howick - Ormstown - Hemmingford area that extended to Beauharnois and the District of Beauharnois as described in the Robert Sellar History.

'B and B'.... breakfast and board, should be a byword in the Chateauguay Valley from April 28 to October 27 in 1967. Groups should be formed to advertise attractions along the Scenic Routes in the Chateauguay Valley... business should plan and gear for increased activity.... the best of our lifetime will be ours to cultivate.

Mr. Lussier said that at least three listings of all hotels, motels, tourists homes, private homes with rooms available for guests, etc. will be distributed throughout the world. Ian Watson said he would think the first lisitings would benefit from the most advertising. Now, to get the initial step of Chateauguay Valley Hospitality into gear, The Gleaner offers to prepare a preliminary listing for Expo '67 officials of private homes who will accept guests.

If you have one or more rooms and would like to have them lisited please fill the coupon below and mail to: The Gleaner, P.O. Box 130.

Water And Sewers For Chateauguay Heights

BY FERGUS HORSBURGH

"Be it resolved that Messrs. Lindsay, Cosgrove & Associates be and are hereby authorized to prepare plans and specifications for the construction of sewers, watermains and a sewage treatment plant, the whole as outlined in their revised proposals dated September 2nd and September 11th, 1964 and the proposed progress schedule dated September 28th, 1954, at the rate now established by the Corporation of Professional Engineers of the Province of Quebec."

By this simple resolution, introduced by Alderman Fred Behrens, seconded by Alderman John Friedlander and passed unanimously by the Council last Thursday, Chateauguay Heights took the vital preliminary step of authorizing the start of survey work on a modern water and sewage system.

The poorest public attendance for many years was present to see the reconvened meeting come to order under the chairmanship of Mayor Jean Laberge.

Mr. William Cosgrove of Lindsay Cosgrove & Associates attended the meeting and answered questions from the council and public. Admitting that the work schedule was a tight one with little margin for error, he stated that in his professional opinion the various deadlines in the schedule could be met. (Details of the work schedule are shown below). Mr. Cosgrove stated that in order for the Heights to take full advantage of Federal aid in the Winter Works programme, it was essential to work closely with the Government in Ottawa, to the end that prior approval of assistance towards the labour content of the work be obtained. He recommended that Winter Works assistance should be sought as soon as tenders were received, rather than wait until the Loan Bye-law was approved. Mr. Cosgrove supervised the projection of the film "Sewers - A Hidden Community Benefit", illustrating the nature of the project under discussion. (Ghostly shades of The Third Man?!)

The presently-authorized programme, namely the preliminary survey work to establish elevations, length, width and location of pipes, is understood to involve an estimated expenditure of $20,000. Mr. Laberge stated last week-end that in the event of a referendum blocking the passage of the Loan Bye-law, and if the Bye-law was not approved by the Minister of Municipal Affairs, for that or any other reason, the cost of the survey would be absorbed by the Heights over a period of five years.

I understand that, based on a total taxable valuation of $3,000,000 and a total frontage of 55,000 feet, the added cost in taxes of the overall water and sewage system would approximate $15 per month, in the case of a 150 ft. frontage lot with a $10,000 valuation.

Details of the proposed progress schedule for construction of sewers, watermains and a sewage treatment plant are as follows:

1. Field Work
This includes detailed topographic surveys and obtaining elevations of existing basements. Specifications for soils investigations will be prepared and soils investigation carried out during the same period. Negotiations with Hydro-Quebec re right-of-way for the outfall sewer would also proceed during this period.

2 Sewage Treatment Plant
Tenders must be called for the sewage treatment plant to obtain costs to provide an accurate basis for negotiations with the Town of Chateauguay.
Plans and specifications complete Oct. 19th
Tenders close Nov. 2nd
Report to Council Nov. 6th
Approval by Council Nov. 10th

3. Negotiations re Water Supply and Sewage Treatment with Town of Chateauguay
Negotiations must be carried on with the Town of Chateauguay to establish the terms under which water will be supplied to the Heights. If the results are not agreeable to the Heights, the issue may be referred to the Public Service Board or Water Board for judgment.
Negatiations re water supply begin October 5th.
After the cost of sewage treatment by the Heights alone is known, talks on regional treatment may proceed with the aim of obtaining regional treatment at a cost not exceeding the cost of local treatment.
Negotiations re regional sewage treatment begin Nov. 11th.

4. Approvals by Water Board
Application for preliminary approval of project by Water Board.

5. Preparation of Plans, Profiles and Specifications
This includes plotting information obtained by field survey, detailed design of sewer and water system and writing of specifications and tender form. This work cannot be completed until an agreement is reached on regional vs local sewage treatment and the approval of the Water Board is received. — Oct. 12th to Dec. 18th.
Delivered to Council — Dec. 18th
Returned by Council to Engineers — Jan. 13th, 1965

6. Tenders for Construction
Tenders called — Jan. 20th, 1965
Tenders close Feb. 3rd
Report to Council Feb. 15th
Council Approval Feb. 16th

7 Loan By-Law
Adopted by Council — Feb. 16th
Public Meeting Feb. 26th

8. Start of Construction
If the by-law is not opposed by the public, approval by the Minister of Municipal Affairs would be expected by mid-March, at which time construction would begin.

Provincial Semi-finals
Midget

Our last hope of a Provincial Championship has been lost with the Eastend Boys' Club defeating Chateauguay Warriors 2-0. Maybe next year we will have better luck.

Chateauguay League
Semi-final Results
Pee-Wee

On Saturday, Oct. 3rd, CP OA Rovers defeated the CCR A Warriors 1-0. Duncan Grant scoring the goal on a penalty shot. This was a hard game to play as the wind was so strong the boys couldn't control the ball.

On Sunday, Oct. 4th, Chateauguay Park Legionnaires defeated the Terrace Terriers 2-0. Scoring for the Legionnaires were Pierre Leonard and Danny Dubuc. Now the Legionnaires meet the CPOA Rovers in the finals which will be held around Oct. 17th or 18th.

Bantam

On Saturday, Oct. 3rd, the Heights Beavers defeated the CCRA Warriors 2-1. This was a surprising upset as the Warriors have had the edge on the Beavers all season. Scoring for the Beavers were Mike Horrocks and Bruce Oliver, for the Warriors Alex Kozinski.

On Sunday, October 4th, the St.Joachim Hearts met the Westend Wanderers. This game ending in a tie 1 — 1 after two ten minutes overtime periods, will have to be replayed on Saturday, Oct. 10th. Time to be set by the League. Scoring for the Hearts Neil Watts and for the Wanderers Robert Peltzer.

Overruled

The game of Sept. 27th, between Westend Wanderers and Parkview Albions where Wanderers won 2-1 still stands. The QMSA stated that the Chateauguay Soccer League had no right to vote on this. We must abide by the Constitution; a referee's decision is final and cannot be changed Sorry Albions, but we all make mistakes. We must remember that all referee's try to be fair and to do their best. We all as yet, do not know all the Laws of Soccer. This year's referees have improved since last year and with the winter soccer clinic we should have better referees for next season. Another thing we must remember all Coaches and Referees are not paid, all are working for the benefit of these boys, to promoting good sportsmanship and the game of Soccer.

Bottle Drive A Success

(By Gerry Flynn)

A bottle drive organized by the Cubs and Scouts of Our Lady of Perpetual Help was held on Saturday, October 3rd.

Over $164.00 was collected. This money will be used to finance the purchase of equipment badly needed by the Cubs and Scouts. Some of the equipment such as tents, etc., is used during week-end outings, other equipment such as books, compasses, handicraft kits, etc., is vital to the teaching of various skills for there boys.

Although the drive was a monetary success, it was a complete failure as far as a community spirit was concerned. Volunteers were badly needed to help supervise the drive and normally you would expect the fathers of these boys to turn out. Well as usual they did — SEVEN of them, three of them either had no children of their own or their own children were grown up.

I wonder how much longer so few will do the work of so many before they too are "too busy".

P.T.A. CONFIDENT

Chairman of School Board Replies To Critics

(By Gerry Flynn)

An open letter to the Minister of Education, Honorable Gerin-Lajoie, from Mr. Emil Adamyk appeared in The GLEANER on September 30th. The letter criticized the school board on the following points; the conducting of their meetings, the length of time spent on the discussion for purchase of sundry items, the acceptance of the highest bidder for windows, the reopening of the transportation contract, and the alleged hiring of unqualified teachers.

In order that readers may see all sides of this issue, The Gleaner interviewed the chairman of the Catholic School Board of Chateauguay, Mr. Robert Slyvestre and Mr. D. J. Flanagan, President of St. Willibrords Parent-Teachers Association.

I asked Mr. Sylvestre to comment on Mr. Adamyk's statement "that petty squabbling is now the order of business at the Chateauguay Board Meetings" and that the proceedings could be likened to a Paris "Flea Circus". "Well" said Mr. Sylvestre, "I would like to point out that in my estimation our present Board is made up of very high calibre members. Four out of five are professional men with at least one university degree. As far as "petty squabbling" being the order of business at our meetings, I find it strange that Mr. Adamyk in his opening remarks states that the meeting he attended was his first in two years yet in closing he claims all the meetings are run in the same manner. If this man has only sat in on one meeting in two years I fail to see how he could make such a sweeping statement.

"How many items were covered in this meeting Mr. Sylvestre"? "Fourteen in all, mind you not all were major decisions". "Mr. Adamyk has stated that he felt too much time was spent, actually he says one hour, discussing the purchase of "pots and pans". Is this correct?

"Yes and no. As I recall, it was about fifteen minutes. Up until now all expenditures must be approved at a meeting of the Board. However we are setting up a system whereby a Purchasing agent will look after all these sundry purchases and will only have to submit his yearly budget to the Board for approval. I feel this will save considerable time and should prove most effective".

Mr. Sylvestre, why was the highest bidder accepted in the matter of windows?

"First of all the architect's plans called for steel windows covered with baked enamal. In his opinion these were favored over aluminum for many reasons. Secondly the window openings had been designed to accept steel windows of a certain specification. If aluminum windows, which are not made in Chateauguay by the way, had been used, the company would have to post a bond because the architect and the contractor would have refused to accept responsibility for the reasons I just mentioned. The price difference was less than 5%." Why was it necessary to reopen discussion on the matter of bus transportation?

"Very simple because the present operator was not able to carry out his contract to our satisfaction."

Was his ability to carry out his contract not determined before accepting his bid Mr. Sylvestre?

"Well last year we used this operator in Chateauguay Centre and he proved sucessful. This year the tenders were called for to service both the centre and the Town of Chateauguay. Based on our past experience this man's tender which was lowest was accepted. However he cannot handle the increased volume of children and we are cancelling his contract. Next week tenders will be called for again which will specify the routes to be covered and the exact mileage. I think you will agree that under the circumstances it was far better to reopen the discussion than to carry on."

Mr. Sylvestre, Mr. Adamyk infers that your high school teachers are not qualified?

"I am pleased to say that ALL high school teachers definitely are qualified to teach high school. There are only three teachers in the elementry grades which have been hired in a temporary basis."

Just one more question Mr. Sylvestre, Mr. Adamyk states that the new Regional High School will be in Ste. Martine. It this a fact?

"A motion disapproving Ste. Martine as the new site has been sent to the Minister of Education and furthermore the actual site has not yet been finalized."

PTA President Satisfied

"Mr. Flanagan what is the feeling of the P.T.A. in this matter?" "I can only say that having worked closely with this present Board I feel that they are very interested in the welfare of our children and feel that they are giving us excellent cooperation".

"How do you find the Board Meetings Mr. Flanagan?"

"Some of the discussions probably could be shorter but all in all I think the meetings on a whole are run in an orderly fashion. Some of these meetings have gone on until after midnight and I think this in itself proves that these men are interested in education in Chateauguay, otherwise they would be home watching TV by ten o'clock".

Chateauguay Group
W.A. Lachine
General Hospital

(By M. Fabio)

On Monday evening, September 21st, the Chateauguay Group, Women's Auxiliary, of the Lachine General Hospital, held their first meeting of the season with Mrs. N. Leroux, President, presiding. The group had the pleasure of welcoming four new members. The main topic of discussion after the new members were introduced, was the Membership Tea which will be held on Sunday, October 25th, between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m., in the St. Jude School, Chateauguay Centre. This tea is being held primarily to recruit new members, and to entertain all members and volunteer workers who have contributed their time and efforts to the success of the group. Also discussed at the meeting was the planned Handicraft Sale which will take place during the Christmas Season.

It was very gratifying to note that 5 young girls from Imperial Gardens, who although they may be too young to join the Auxiliary, are nonetheless helping out with financial aid. These young ladies raised the sum of $2.02 by staging, a cookie and Kool-aid sale, and a Beatle Show during the summer holidays and turned over the proceeds to the Chateauguay Group. Congratulations to Sharon Welner, Pamela Quinn, Elfi and Iris Hoffle and Doris Pelletier on the success of your venture, and a sincere thank you for your contribution.

Members are reminded of the October regular meeting evening October 19th, at 8:00 which will be held on Monday p.m. in the St. Jude School.

Official Opening Ceremony At Mercier Bridge

(By Fergus Horsburg)

In marked contrast to the furore surrounding unofficial ceremonies last August, Mercier Bridge officially became two-span last week, when Mrs. Claire Kirkland-Casgrain, M.L.A. for Jacques-Cartier-La Salle, and Minister of State, cut the ceremonial tape at the northern approaches. A minimum of publicity surrounded the event.

Invitations to the inauguration were issued to prominent Provincial and Municipal officials by Messrs. Lalonde, Valois, Lamarre, Valois & Associates, engineers responsible to the Dept. of Public Works for the repairs to the old span.

Mr. H. A. Gauvin, Assistant to the Minister of Public Works, deputizing for the Minister, Mr. René St. Pierre, joined Mrs. Kirkland-Casgrain in the traditional ribbon-cutting, and spoke of the new Mercier Bridge complex as symbolic of the Provincial Government's determination to provide the most modern of road services for Montreal and environs in time for the opening of the 1967 World's Fair.

Among the invited guests were Chateauguay notables Mr. George Kennedy, M.P.P., and Mr. Jean Laberge, Mayor of Chateauguay Heights.

CFOX Terriers Win Umpires' Challenge Trophy

By Fergus Horsburgh

The first annual end-of-season challenge game for the Chateauguay Amateur Softball League Umpires' Challenge Trophy was held last Saturday, at Laberge Park, Chateauguay. CFOX Terriers from Pointe Claire defeated a team of Chateauguay Amateur Athletic Association umpires by 8-5. The game was tied at 5 runs apiece until Grant Foster of the Terriers hit a homer with two men on bases, in the seventh inning. That ended the scoring, but by no means ended the fun. The trophy, the brainchild of Mr. Al. Tomlinson, Chairman of the group, who promoted the game, had been carried in one week from the drawing board through the intricate stages of construction to completion and formal unveiling. No expense was spared in procuring the finest materials from the entire Chateauguay Valley, and Time was called: straight time, double time, and, I suspect, a High Old Time.

Alderman Bert Oliver threw the first ball to Mel Brown at bat, with catcher Ian Hamilton in place, looking for a strike. Antics by left fielder Ross Hill in clown costume, including baggy pants and reversed fireman's helmet, set the tone of the game before the 1st inning. Casey Stengel himself could not have wished for a bigger "rhubarb" than the dispute which arose somewhere around the top of the fifth. Umpire Roger Dumouchel, President of the Chateauguay Amateur Softball League, called a strike against Roy Vetland at bat. Howls of protest from the home team's rooters and officials led to a conference at the plate. The plate umpire, in spite of elaborate security measures for the protection of his person, was seized by outraged fans, garbed in dark glasses and provided with a mendicant's cup. The crowd on the benches responded willingly.

Considering the amount of effort which went into organizing the game, the attendance was disappointing to organizers Coach McIlwaine, Bob Kyle and lady helpers Mesdames Bert Hughes, Ted Conway, Earl Murphy, Ruth Sutherland and Mary Hainney. However, the prime objective of starting a series of annual challenge games for the end of the season was realized. The high level of entertainment provided should guarantee a larger crowd next year, for the Terriers have already agreed to give the Chateauguay Umps another chance at the challenge trophy one year from now.

Fire Prevention Week

(By Fergus Horsburg)

This week has been declared Fire Prevention Week by the Towns of Chateauguay and Chateauguay Heights. Mr. Roma Gervais, Chief of Police and Fire Department issued the following statement last week-end.

"No one should be indifferent to the many causes of fire. Fire hazards must be checked at this time of the year. The many losses of human lives through neglect to eliminate sources of fire have proven to be the main reason for such accidents.

On behalf of the authorities of the Town of Chateauguay and the Town of Chateauguay Heights I request the public's utmost co-operation during this Fire Prevention Week, for the maximum protection of our home owners and children."

Memorandum From McLeod

Correspondent: Mrs. Edith Bate, 282 McLeod Ave. 692-9453

Route Boy: Aubrey MacLean, 246 McLeod Ave. 692-9669

Here we are into October once more. Everything seems to be a mad rush now that the meetings and other activities are in full swing. We have had guests from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario; my husband's mother, Mrs. W. Bate, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. D.A. Dunlop. What a big change they found here on McLeod! Since their last visit we have the new St. Willibrord School, Our Lady Church, Maplewood Presbyterian Church down the road and the High School annex. Also the lovely woods at the back of our home have been replaced with houses. We really were not surprised to find out that they had become lost upon entering Chateauguay on Highway 3 and 4.

The last few Sunday afternoons have been put to good use by Rose and Bill Young of McLeod. Along with 10-year-old Lynda they are progressively visiting "Old Montreal". Rose tells me that they are finding these trips most fascinating, and of course it is especially interesting for Lynda, as Canadian history is one of the Grade 5 subjects. I feel children learn much better by seeing, than by reading. I imagine most Chateauguay residents are originally from Montreal or some place on the Island, but can many of us say we really know the City? There are countless places where tourists visit, but that we "natives" have only heard of in a vague way. This is true of most cities though, so I guess we should not chastise ourselves too much.

News arrived this past week from former McLeod neighbor Mrs. Tilly Long. They are settling down in a lower duplex in Windsor, Ont.; Ricky was to join the Cubs this week, and Patti-Ann the Brownies. Tom is working six days a week and Tilly has all her canning done! The children are in school of course, and they are delighted with the course of study. Tilly says Hello to all her many friends around town.

Maplewood Presbyterian Church News

The last service for this season will be held at Beechridge Church next Sunday afternoon at 2.30.

At the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper new members welcomed into the congregation were: Mr. and Mrs. W.R. Roper, Miss C. MacDonald, Mr. T. McLennan, Mr. D. Easson and Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Campbell.

Next Saturday afternoon the C.G.I.T. will be decorating the church with fruit and vegetables of the harvest. They would be most grateful for contributions of the above; and telephone Mrs. H. Usually the visit of the Rev. T. Dale Jones heralds the annual canvass. However this year the procedure is being reversed. All Protestant churches in the district of Chateauguay will have their canvass before the visit of Rev. Mr. Dale Jones, and we trust that we shall be able to tell him when he comes that all is accomplished. Anyone wishing to assist in this matter in the parish should contact Miss Shirley Kenney at 692-6866 in the evenings.

Flowers on the altar Harvest Festival Sunday were given to the glory of God and in memory of Mrs. Margaret Leadbitter of Sunderland, England by her daughter Connie, Bill, and grandson Nigel.

Anglican Young People's Association has resumed its meetings on Sunday evenings in the church hall. Ages 15 years and up, both boys and girls, are welcome to come along around 8 p.m.

Next Friday, Oct. 9th, there will be no Confirmation class held, as the young people have a school holiday. They will resume as usual on the following Friday at 3.30 p.m.

Vetville News

Last Friday evening the tenants of Vetville were entertained by the Royal Canadian Legion Branch Branch 159, of St. Hubert, with a lively show. Acting as M.C. was Frank Monroe, and artists too numerous to mention, but it must be admitted that their FEE-MAIL dancers were grand and they certainly fell for the Beatles. Playing the piano was Arizona Dave. He delighted all with his rendering of old-time war songs.

Saturday evening Mrs. Lucy Allaway gave a surprise party for her daughter and son-in-law who have just returned from a three-year stretch in France to an executive position in Montreal. Many of Mrs. Allaway's Vetville friends were invited and a fine evening of entertainment was given by the family and friends. Towards the end of the evening, Mr. Art Walker, Jr. of St. George's Church arrived with salads which were surplus from the Annual Parish Dinner held Friday evening at the church. All enjoyed the salads and hoped the parishioners of St. George's savored them as much. From Major Mitchell; many thanks.

The men's Club held their first Session Games of the season on Saturday last in the afternoon with quite a good attendance. These games are held monthly and the funds are used to promote trips out-of-town, generally by bus during the summer months.

The first meeting of the recently-elected executive of the Home Owners Association was held in President Gerry Flynn's home, last Tuesday. Plans for the coming season were discussed, and the new members of the executive were full of ideas, some of which will be put to the membership at tomorrow (Thursday) night's first regular monthly meeting. It is hoped that some sort of affiliation between the Home Owners and the recently-formed Big 12 Bowling League will be developed, since the bowling personnel are mainly from Seigniory Park and Northern Development, Mrs. Pat Bedard was appointed Chairman of the Activities Committee, and the President promised to do his utmost to persuade Mrs. Bedard to continue the fine work she did last year.

Mrs. Malvina Chart had her first outing since her recent hospitalization at last week's meeting of Seigniory Park's Knitting Group at Mrs. Evelyn Flynn's house. This group of some ten "girls" meet one evening in each week in each other's houses for a knitting session. I understand that it is also somewhat of a "gab" session, and that knitting and gossiping go very well together. The "Girls" are planning on producing garments for a local charity between now and Christmas.

It is no secret that for over two years my wife has typed, censored and sometimes written herself, features in this column. Recently my output of "copy" for The Gleaner has increased to such an extent that my friends ask me, when they see me going my rounds: "How is the Horsburgh Herald doing this week?" My wife no longer has the time — or the inclination! — to edit properly every word I write, and it is now commonplace for her, as she reads The Gleaner on a Wednesday evening, to remark "Upon my word! Did you know that So and So did Such and Such last week?" "Yes, my love, "I am want to reply, "indeed I did know, in fact, I wrote it. Furthermore, you typed it!"

I see that a printers gremlin had this column reporting an attendance of some 200 at Chateauguay Badminton Club's Friday night session at Marguerite Bourgeois School. Herb Clayton tells me they wouldn't really want that many, and that last week's turnout was approximately 25. Round-robin tournament play is scheduled for later this month, as is participation in the Lakeshore League.

From Liverpool, they went by boat to the Isle Of Man, where they visited with Mrs. Croft's mother and father-in-law, and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Croft and Mr. Terrence Croft. The boat trip over was rough and both were quite sick, so they flew back to Liverpool after their visit. This was Mrs. Croft's first trip back in 17 years. She and her son had a wonderful time.

I know many of you will be sorry to hear that Diane Newman of Viau Street was accidently injured when hit by an automobile, Friday night at 9:30, at the corner of St. Eugene and St. Joseph Sts. The police were summoned and were at the scene within moments. Dr. Laberge was in attendance. Diane was taken by ambulance to the Children's Hospital on Tupper Street in Montreal. Apparently Diane is suffering from a fractured pelvis and possible other injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Newman, parents of Diane have asked me to thank the person who came to their home and offered to drive them to the scene of the accident . . . they are greatly thankful for the kind and thoughtful gesture. Mr. and Mrs. Newman also extend their sincere thanks to the many others who helped in so many ways . . . . Your many friends, school chums, and neighbours wish you, Diane, a SPEEDY RECOVERY.

There's a lot of sickness going around! Little Robert Quenneville of Goyer Street has been ill with bronchitis . . . John Myers has been ill with tonsilitis. Belated Birthday wishes to Darryl Richardson of Sheraton Drive, who celebrated his 12th birthday October 1st. Also belated wishes are extended to Mr. Stuart Richardson who celebrated his birthday recently . . . .

Jo-Anne Myers entertained a few of her friends October 2nd. After Young People's at the church they all congregated at the Myers and enjoyed hot-dogs, soft-drinks, cake and ice cream etc.

Everyone is welcome!

Food For Thought

There are many obstacles in life which we come up against. Some of you are going through many trials and tribulations, heart-aches, sorrows . . . . I think we all have problems which we must overcome or find an answer to occasionally . . . . (I know I have!), but I found a way in life which makes these obstacles so much easier to contend with and that is by "Casting all your care upon Him; for He careth for said "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest" Matt: 11:28.

So my friends, if you should be heavy laden with many cares etc., "Cast all your cares upon Him" do this in prayer with an open heart and with all sincerity and you will find an inner peace which you have not know before "I live by the faith of the Son of God who loved me and gave himself for me "Gal: 2:20 How about YOU? M.M.

Chateauguay Cooks' Corner

By Mary Fabio

Jack Frost brough a sad end to a lot of vegetable gardens in the neighbourhood so I guess the pickling season has fast come to a close. Thank heavens, now we can get back to the more delightful side of cooking, namely cookies and cakes and such things. This week I'd like to give you a recipe for a delightful dessert which was passed on to me by my neighbour, Mrs. Gervais. It's called a Nut Roll and isn't too difficult if you follow the directions carefully.

NUT ROLL

3 eggs (separated)
1/3 cup white sugar
½ teaspoon baking powder
¾ cup crushed walnuts or pecans
Sweet whipping cream.

Beat the egg yolks well, add the sugar, baking powder and the nuts.

In a separate bowl, beat the egg whites until they are stiff. Then fold into the yolk mixture. Spread in your pan which has been lined with wax paper and rubbed lightly with butter. (a cooky sheet is excellent.)

Bake for 15 minutes at 350 degrees. Remove from pan and place on a tea towel which has been sprinkled with icing sugar. Remove wax paper and cut off the hard crust at the edges. Then roll up in tea towel and allow to cool. When cool, unroll and spread on the whipped cream. Roll back up again, and place in your frig to keep cool until serving time. For weight watchers this recipe is very good with the commercial low caloric whipped cream toppings also.

Handy hints for you Homemakers — Lemons with the smoothest skins and the least points on each end are by far better flavored and have more juice than rough skinned, elongated ones.

If you iron for hours, try putting a thick bath mat under your feet when ironing. They won't be nearly so tired.

To keep your iron in condition try this. Put a piece of brown paper on your ironing board and sprinkle generously with table salt. Slide your heated iron around and around in the salt and all of the dirt, stains, and other marks will completely disappear. The iron should then be "slid" over a double thickness of wax paper. The wax paper method also removes any stickness you may have on your iron.

ing the rounds. Whatever it is, let's hope the cold weather will cut it short. (and then off to sneezes and sniffles—we can't win and we may as well face it).

Warm wishes to Mrs. N.R. Ashley of Dupont Terrace, who observes her special day on October 7th.

Greetings to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Caton of Lemoyne St., who celebrated their 5th Wedding Anniversary on October 3rd.

The Blair residence on Hamilton Avenue was gay and active on Saturday afternoon, as daughter Fiona entertained her little friends to celebrate her 6th birthday. Many happy returns Fiona!

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Reid, Salaberry Blvd. over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Clinton and their son David of Chatham, N.J.

Barbara, daughter of David and Isobel, who is a student at Macdonald College this year, was also home for the weekend.

How I missed it I'll never know, but I did. What was it? Well the birthday of our darling 'Twister', Harry Davies of Branch 108 who celebrated on September 23rd. Best wishes from everyone Harry, especially little old me.

Speaking of special days at Branch 108, I believe that our other genial Host of the Bar, Bill Parsons observed his twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary around that time. All good wishes Bill and Kay.

Hear that our distinguished 'Gentleman of the Arts', Eric Wesselow of Pine Ave., once again captured the glory of Autumn as viewed from Lake Baskatong over the weekend.

Did You Know?...

When you buy a new paint brush, tap the ends of the bristles with a hammer to split them. This makes them exeremely fine and enables you to get a really professional finish to your top surface paint.

Many girls who get married at the Catholic Church of St. Mary and St. David at Howick Roxburgshire, England present their bridal gowns to the Church after the great day. The reason? The Altar is being rebuilt and a large quantity of silk is needed to line the recess behind it. This pretty idea, by the way, originated in Ireland.

How's the state of your shoe cupboard? With rubber and overshoe weather approaching, a good idea is the purchase of coloured plastic clothes pegs. Provide each member of the family with their own pegs and save time, especially with the foot gear of the children.

Delson's Grandma Petts Observes 92nd Birthday

By Gladys Ball

A birthday is always a special day for someone, and when that someone is celebrating a 92nd birthday it becomes extra special, as it did for Delson's Grandma Petts, when family and friends from far and near joined in her 92nd Birthday celebration. Grandma received many lovely gifts and cards bearing good wishes and telegrams were received from relatives in Ramsgate, England, and from family residing in Vancouver. Grandma Petts was thrilled to hold a phone conversation with her daughter Beatrice in Vancouver. Members of St Andrew's United Church extended their congratulations by sending to Grandma a beautiful floral arrangement. Flowers were received from relatives in Toronto and a basket of miniature rose buds and pink rose corsage from The Wall family of Delson Gardens. The family gift was a lovely black leather handbag containing a substantial sum of money.

Everyone had a marvelous time at the party given in honor of this fine person at the home of her son and daughter, Mr. W. Petts and Mrs. J. Keen of Melrose Ave., Delson Gardens. It seemed that Grandma had the best time of all for her memory never served her better as she recited verses of the old songs. Mr. Rudy Winemaster accompanied the singing with his electric guitar. Grandma was radiant and looked charming in a new dress of royal blue with black brocade designs and she wore the pink rose corsage sent by her neighbour, Mrs. Wall.

A buffet supper was served at midnight and many pictures were taken including one of Grandma cutting the heart shaped birthday cake which was all prettied up with blue ribbons. During the week a group of close friends of Grandma's gave her a surprise visit and took along another fancy cake and other gifts and spent an enjoyable evening listening to their dear friend relating the events which had previously taken place. Grandma told how much she had enjoyed everything and had remained up until the party ended, then she confessed that she had suffered an aftermath of indigestion and stated thus, " I did'nt eat anything unusual, Guess I must be getting old". Be that as it may dear Grandma, you will always be young in heart and we are looking forward to an extra extra special time at your next birthday.

Grandma acquired two new great grandchildren this year bringing the number to 23. She has attended church quite often and still sews for the ladies' group besides embroidering gifts for her family and friends. May another happy year be yours, is the wish of all your friends, Grandma.

I pray thee, O God, that I may be beautiful within.

From all reports I hear, our road should be paved this coming week, so don't despair folks it looks as though this time they really mean it. I hear all the kids in the block now have one track minds, as to what they'd like for Christmas that is, Roller Skates, so they can skate on the new road next summer. I guess all the Fathers are not too happy with the extra work they have on their hands since the curbs went in, but the way they are all out in full force in the evenings and on week-ends, we should have the nicest looking street in Chateauguay.

Belated congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Gurband of Chateau Estates, on the birth of their daughter Carla.

Get well wishes are extended to Mrs. Susan Cunningham of St. Maurice, who is presently a patient in the Lachine General Hospital. Hurry and get well Mrs. Cunningham. The mums in your garden are blooming beautifully and we are all enjoying them.

Congratulations to young Miss Iris Hoffle of St. Leon St. who celebrated her 9th Birthday on Sunday, October 4th. Iris's guests included her sister Elfi and her brother Oliver and her playmates, Barbara Muir, Sylvia Brown, Brenda Ritchey, Carole Spenard and Sharon Welner.

On the second Tuesday of each month the ladies of the Catholic Women's League will meet in the main hall at 8:00 p.m.

And for those of you folk in the Area requiring transportation to Sunday Mass, the bus service is still in operation but only for the 9 and 12 o'clock masses. The charge is very nominal.

And a special word to all newly arrived families in the area. You are urged to register as soon as possible at the Parish Office, 295 McLeod Avenue. Our Pastor is Fr. Frederick Belanger, O.F.M.

That's all for this week folks.

Former Missionary To China, Speaker At St. George's Thanksgiving Supper

(By Edith Bate)

The Rev. Peredur W. Jones Minister of Dorval United Church, gave a very interesting and delightful talk at the Annual Thanksgiving Supper at St. George's Anglican Church, Friday evening, October 2nd. Rev. Jones spent 10 years as a missionary in China, and he had many very amusing anecdotes to tell of his first few weeks in that strange oriental country. Truly a most dedicated man he was equipped with tremendous fortitude to deal with the language, the food, the sleeping accommodation, and in the midst of very trying situations, to prepare a Sunday sermon.

A Welshman by birth, Rev. Jones is a graduate of two Universities, speaks Welsh, Chinese, and of course English. Describing his first night in a South China village, Rev. Jones had his audience convulsed with laughter, and the ladies giving an occasional shudder at the graphic picture of life in a Chinese home. Truly it was a most enlightening talk, and Rev. Jones will long be remembered at St. George's.

Mr. Art Walker, Sr., President of the Men's Club was chairman, and as usual told some of his most amusing stories. Guests were Rev. and Mrs. John Allan of Maplewood Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Howard Fraser of St. Andrew's United Church, each bringing greetings from their respective congregations. Rev. John Buck, addressed a few remarks welcoming all to the Parish Supper and also welcoming the guest speaker.

Mr. Jackson Sheppard, Rector's Warden thanked the Rev. Jones after his talk.

The community sing-song was led by Mr. Tom Hilton accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Edith Bate.

Most sincere thanks was expressed by Mr. Walker to the ladies of the church who worked so hard, and so long, in the preparation of the delicious meal.

Provinces May Handle Indian Social Services

OTTAWA — A new controversy flared up in the House of Commons on Wednesday, when Citizenship Minister Tremblay disclosed that the Federal Government is inviting the provinces to assume responsibility for the provision of social services to their Indian populations in exchange for federal compensation.

Under close questioning, M. Tremblay revealed that preliminary discussions have already begun which will culminate in a full-dress federal-provincial conference on Indian affairs to be held here on October 29 and 30.

The Opposition pounced on the admissions and demanded categorical assurances that no part of the federal jurisdiction over the Indian population would be transferred to the provinces and that the Indians themselves would be given every opportunity to participate freely in any decision affecting their future.

The developing controversy bears a remarkable resemblance to that sparked earlier this year by Quebec-Ottawa talks — now in a state of suspended animation — over the transfer of administrative responsibility for the Ungava Eskimos to the Quebec government.

Prime Minister Pearson announced a few days ago that his Government intended to re-open these negotiations.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker accused the Liberals of "double-dealing" — a charge which he withdrew after Liberal protests. He demanded that the government explain why Canada's Indians had not been consulted about this major policy change.

"Are their rights to be bartered away without their having been consulted in advance?" he demanded.

Mr. Tremblay assured the Commons that there was no thought of seeking any transfer of federal jurisdiction over the Indians.

He stoutly denied that any decision had been made, was now being made, or would be made even at the October conference.

The Indians themselves would be consulted fully before any changes agreed to in the course of the negotiations were put into effect.

"On the other hand", the minister declared, "everyone recognizes that the Indians, being citizens who live in different provinces, should benefit like other citizens from certain provincial services."

It was reasonable that the Federal Government should offer fiscal compensation to provinces assuming these additional responsibilities, Mr. Tremblay said, The Federal Government had long, even when headed by Mr. Diefenbaker, been moving in this general direction.

Mr. Diefenbaker accused him of including "a little fiction" in his answers.

He demanded: "Has this question of the provinces taking over responsibility for the education of the Indians or for providing social welfare assistance been considered by several of the provinces? And have several of the provinces turned down the suggestion made by the Federal Government — this within the last few days?"

Mr. Tremblay said that he did not see how any provinces could have reached a decision "relative to a prosposition which they have not yet examined."

Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena) said that Mr. Tremblay seemed "coy and evasive" in his answers. Would the Indians have a chance to participate in the October conference, he asked.

The minister replied that a "consultation at all levels with the Indians" would certainly take place following the conference.

Why Your Car Premiums Will Sting

Here are the cold hard facts about next year's higher premiums for car insurance. These figures, says The Financial Post, are released in the industry's annual Green Book of auto insurance premiums and claims experience. Statistics—for all of Canada except Saskatchewan which still has a government-operated compulsory schme—are collated for the superintendent of insurance by the Canadian Underwriters Association.

Average increases (including all classifications except commercial and farm vehicles) indicated by statistics: Prince Edward Island faces the biggest average jump—22%. Average cost of liability claims in P.E.I. went up 21.6% to $399. British Columbia is next in line with an indicated boost of 14%. Quebec drivers face an average increase of 10%. Ontario will suffer an 8% hike. New Brunwick's rates may jump 6% on the average. Manitoba's indicated increase is 5%. Alberta gets off easily with an indicated average increase of only 3%. Nova Scotia figures call for an increase of 2%. Newfoundland gets off the easiest—rates could go down by as much as 11% on the average increase indicated for the whole of Canada is 8%.

This "Jewelry" Should Be A Must

Doctors treating a Hamilton woman injured in a car accident saw a bracelet on her wrist bearing the warning "Allergic to penicillin", reports R. J. Needham in The Financial Post, accordingly refrained from giving it to her. She wore the bracelet as a member of the Canadian Medic - Alert Foundation and she has written the organization, crediting it with saving her life. The Canadian Medic - Alert (CMAF) was set up in 1960 as a non-profit organization affiliated with Medic-Alert Foundation International, based at Turlock, Calif. CMAF now has nearly 7,000 members, and 2,500 are joining yearly at a lifetime membership fee of $5.20. The members all have one thing in common: a hidden medical problem which places their lives in perpetual danger, and makes them especially vulnerable when unconscious. Some are allergic to penicillin, some to tetanus antitoxin, some to bee stings. They include diabetics, epileptics, wear contact lenses, have rare blood types, or engage in scuba and deep-sea diving, join Medic-Alert. It is their assurance that if taken ill among strangers, they will not be wrongly diagnosed or given treatment that could be harmful.

ROAD BUILDERS SHOULD GIVE WARNING

Road builders putting down new highway pavement or making repairs must give motorists adequate warning signals that they are approaching a danger area where accident could easily occur. The Provincial Highway Safety Educational Services remind road builders that either warning signs or workmen must be used to give the motorist a chance to avoid any accident.

IT'S ILLEGAL TO DRIVE TOO SLOWLY

The highways are no place for the new driver, reminds the Department of Transportation and Communications of Québec. And this holds especially true during the weekend when highways are crowded. If you do not have perfect control of your car, don't drive. Driving too fast is illegal. You must keep up with the traffic flow. Driving too slowly is also illegal and very dangerous.

Report From Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)— A varied and sometimes spicy diet of issues was served up to the Commons last week.

It ranged over repatriation of the Canadian Constitution, a new labor code, the whereabouts of deposed union boss Hal Banks and collapse of talks toward renewal of the North Pacific Fisheries Treaty with the United States and Japan.

The constitutional problem has been for Canada a long and ticklish one. At present Canada cling to the fact that the cornerstone of the constitution, the British North America act of 1867, is a piece of British legislation. For that reason it has been the custom to decide on amendments here and pass them on to Britain to go through the mechanics of passage through parliament.

One of the problems with this has been that Britain objects to being a rubber stamp for Canadian decisions, specially when the only reason is the inability to find a suitable formula for making the changes through Canada's own parliament.

During debate on the issue in the Commons, Justice Minister Favreau said absence of a Canadian amending formula was a "lack of an essential pillar in the structure of our confederation."

The core of the problem is the defining and safeguarding of federal-provincial responsibilities.

All Must Agree

The formula under consideration would make it necessary for all provinces to agree before the Canadian Parliament could amend any part of the constitution dealing with basic provincial rights.

The parts of the constitution affecting only a few provinces could be amended with the consent of those provinces. All other sections could be altered only with consent of two-thirds of the 10 provinces, providing those provinces represented 50 per cent of the Canadian population.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) described the formula as "an unmitigated disaster."

Creditiste leader Real Caouette wanted the present constitution left in England." ..let's draft our own constitution," he said. The formula has the support of both major parties. It was devised originally by E. Davie Fulton, when he was Conservative justice minister. Opposition in 1961 by the CCF government of Saskatchewan shelved the issued. That province now has a Liberal government.

Banks Causes Uproar

Another matter that has spanned the years and governments is that of Hal Banks, who was ousted from the Canadian leadership of the Seafarers International Union.

Banks was convicted and sentenced to five years in penitentiary for conspiring to assault a rival union leader. What had the Commons in an uproar was the fact he disappeared and appeared to be free to live in the United States without fear of extradition.

What added to the running debate over the Banks presence in Canada and his subsequent disappearance was a report that a Toronto newspaper man found Banks in Brooklyn, N.Y., after only two hours' search.

Robert Reguly of the Toronto Star said he saw Banks on the deck of an SIU yacht in Mill Basin.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker called it "further evidence of complete indifference and lethargy" and "gross negligence" on the part of the federal government.

Mr. Favreau earlier had blamed the Conservatives for not disposing of Banks after 1958. He said they had received reports from the RCMP in 1959 and 1961 indicating there was sufficient evidence to convict the union leader.

Prime Minister Pearson turned down an Opposition request for a special inquiry into Banks' methods of leaving Canada.

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) demanded the inquiry on how Banks could "blatantly flout the law of Canada".

Mr. Pearson said the inquiry "would not serve any useful purpose."

A U.S. Marshal slapped a subpoena on Banks Friday requiring him to appear in New York to testify in a $5,000,000 damage action brought against the SIU by Upper Lakes Shipping Company, a Toronto firm.

In signing the subpoena, Banks indicated he was still executive vice-president of the SIU. But Earl Shepherd, SIU vice-president, told a Montreal membership meeting on Wednesday that Banks had resigned all SIU posts.

Minimum Wage Proposals

Main feature of the labor legislation given first reading in the Commons was the controversial $1.25 an hour minimum wage it proposes.

Labor Minister MacEachen said his bill "breaks new ground in the field of labor standards not only in this country but on this continent."

If approved by parliament, the code would come into effect Jan. 1 covering the 556,000 workers in industries under federal jurisdiction—transport, communications, broadcasting, banking and crown agencies.

Although those workers represent only a small percentage of the labor force, the provisions in the bill would put immediate pressure on the provinces to raise their minimums for the 5,500,000 workers under provincial standards.

At present the minimum wage laws range from 50 cents an hour for men in Newfoundland to $1 an hour in the industrial centres of Ontario.

Other provisions of the new legislation include a standard eight-hour day and 40-hour week, two weeks vacation with pay after one year, and seven paid statutory holidays. Overtime must be paid at the rate of time-and-a-half.

Fish Talks Fail

It was bad news for west coast fishermen when Ottawa talks failed to bring agreement on renewal of the North Pacific Fisheries Treaty between the United States, Japan and Canada.

The stumbling block was Japan's refusal to accept continuation of an abstention clause in the treaty with regard to high-seas salmon fishing off North America.

There is scientific evidence that salmon fishing on the high seas—a technique in which Japan leads the world—is damaging to the fisheries resource.

Hemmingford News

CORRESPONDENT — MRS. A. L'ESPERANCE

News from British Columbia

HEMMINGFORD — Our friend, Mr. Leonard Barkes, lately of Hemmingford and former organist of St. Luke's Anglican Church, has been staying for a few weeks with the Reverend and Mrs. David Rogers, who have now settled into their new Rectory, next door to the Anglican Church at Alert Bay. Their village is on an island off the north-east tip of Vancouver Island, with several other islands around and the scenery is very pretty, says Mr. Barkes.

Alert Bay has a good hospital, and a couple of hotels. About half the population are Indian. The temperature has been cool at night, says Mr. Barkes, around 40 degrees, but climbs to 65 - 70 degrees during the day and there has not been much rain yet. In the winter plenty of rain and wind, but no snow! To reach Alert Bay one takes a Ferry. This Ferry is quite large, accommodates 22 cars and passengers but the fare is quite expensive, $14 for one car — one way and $8 per passenger — one way. The chief occupation, for the Indians at any rate is fishing. Mr. Barkes says he went out, hoping to get some salmon but could catch only bass, about 3 lbs. each. The owner of the boat caught about 120 lbs. of cod. Before going on to Alert Bay, Mr. Barkes spent an enjoyable two weeks in Victoria. He describes it as a very pleasant city. Baskets of flowers decorate the lamp standards and beds of flowers surround the Government buildings and fill the many parks.

In conclusion, Mr. Barkes send his kind regards to all his friends in Hemmingford. His letter was most interesting and I hope he will write and tell us of his future travels.

Hemmingford Fire Brigade Hold Supper

At the Town Hall in Hemmingford on Saturday evening, October 3rd, Hemmingford Firemen held an old fashioned Bean Supper.

In place of Fire engines, the garage held flower-decorated tables at which the guests sat and enjoyed delicious baked beans, wieners, salads, cakes and coffee.

After supper they moved down to the basement where Mr. Rufus Fisher and his musicians played for those who wished to dance. A nice table lamp, donated by Dallaire Electricians was raffled and won by Mr. Hermas Fortin. Numerous donations were received from friends and well-wishers and these were awarded as door prizes. The flowers for the tables were brought and the decorating done by Mesdames Leo and Norman Fortin and the organizing and serving of the supper was very well handled by the wives, daughters and sisters of the Firemen. To all these generous people, the Firemen are sincerely grateful, the evening was most enjoyable and very successful financially. The proceeds will go towards the purchase of more equipment for this very efficient brigade.

Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary

To celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Fred Duteau were honoured with a surprise supper party by their children, Jacques, Donald, Gerald, Diane and Peter. It was held on Saturday, September 26th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Dubois.

On arrival, Mrs. Duteau was presented with a corsage of red carnations and Mr. Duteau with a boutonniere by daughter Diane. After supper, Gerald Duteau read an address of appreciation to his parents, wishing them many more years of happiness, and Diane presented her mother with a bouquet of roses and Peter presented his father with a well-filled purse. The flowers were a gift from Peter and Diane and Gerald brought the delicious anniversary cake. There were numerous other gifts also.

Mrs. Camile Duteau and Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Duteau, mother and aunt and uncle of Mr. Duteau and Mr. and Mrs. John Murray, father and stepmother of Mrs. Duteau, were among the 70 relatives and friends who enjoyed the evening of dancing and music which followed the supper.

Liturgie — "Pardonner du fond du coeur."

Participer à la Liturgie c'est, à travers des rites visibles, découvrir la réalité cachée de Jésus qui vient nous sauver, nous aimer.

Participer à la liturgie c'est, en réponse au geste du Seigneur, nous engager à partiquer la charité.

Chaque dimanche, le rassemblement de la communauté chrétienne nous procure le moyen et, en même temps, nous permet l'expression de cette mutuelle charité. Mais ce geste serait sans valeur si nous ne le poussions jusqu'au bout. Si notre amour n'allait pas jusqu'au don de nous-même qu'est le pardon.

PARDONNER D'ABORD... Trop de chrétiens communient et ne pardonnent pas. Ils commettent un mensonge en allant communier. Et parfois, nous en sommes. L'eucharistie est signe et climat de charité, la communion est le témoignage que nous aimons nos frères par amour de Jésus. Nous recevons le Corps du Christ. Nous répondons "Amen": j'y crois. Et après la Messe???

La Messe n'est pas une activité séparée de notre vie. La Messe est l'offrande de toute notre vie, avec ses aigreurs, ses injustices, avec ses petites vilenies dont nous sommes coupables ou victimes. Et voilà qu'en nous rendant à la Messe, en disant ensemble "Pater", nous nous obligeons à pardonner.

COMMUNIER ENSUITE... Nous venons déposer nos rancunes, nos haines, tous ces troubles sentiments qui nous animent envers notre prochain. Ce geste, parfois héroique, de pardonner est notre part au sacrifice. Cette nouvelle vie, désirée par le Seigneur, nous permet de témoigner au monde, par la charité, que Dieu l'aime parce que nous sommes capables nous aussi d'aimer et de pardonner.

Liturgy... "The Third Session"

It seems such a long time ago since the Vatican Council began this series of sessions, October 11, 1962.

In actual time, that is not long ago but, measured in terms of achievement, these months have seen changes, more numerous, more pronounced, than had taken place during many years before. Which of us, in 1955, could have forseen that, by 1965, so much of the Mass would be in English. But that is not all... Besides this, the plan provides for use of English for Baptisms, Confirmation and Weddings; at the sick bed, Funerals, Benedictions of the Blessed Sacrament; and for such Holy Week ceremonies as the blessing of palms, holy oils and liturgical service on Good Friday in honour of the Passion and Death of our Lord.

Already, in many places, the wedding ceremony that formerly preceded the Nuptial Mass, now takes place at the Offertory... We used to complain that the Church was too slow to make changes. That complaint is scarcely justified any longer. In fact, the shoe may now be on the other foot... The Church has made the changes, tremendous changes, and the question is: How quick are we to accept them, to abide by them, to adapt ourselves to them???

Comment se préparer à une entrevue

Il n'y a pas de formule magique pour se trouver un emploi. En vous préparant à votre entrevue, vous vous préparez aussi à votre entrée dans le monde des adultes. Mais tout comme votre bonne tenue et le soin que vous prenez de votre personne, le degré de maturité auquel vous devez alors accéder ne s'acquiert pas la veille de l'entrevue.

Vous renseigner sur l'emploi de votre choix serait donc votre toute première préoccupation. Il vous incombe alors d'accumuler des connaissances sur le travail que vous avez choisi afin de pouvoir en parler d'une manière intelligente.

Poser votre candidature à tel ou tel poste revient à vous proposer comme responsable d'un secteur d'affaires de l'entreprise. Il n'est donc pas sans raison que son représentant s'informe quelque peu sur la façon dont vous administrez vos propres affaires avant de vous confier certaines responsabilités.

Les données qui vous rendent "employable" sont: votre scolarité, votre caractère, les emplois que vous avez déjà remplis, vos qualifications et la détermination que vous avez prise de travailler de bonne volonté.

Rajoutons, en guise de conclusion, quelques conseils d'usage, mais que les jeunes continuent à négliger pour s'exposer alors à créer une mauvaise impression initiale chez leur intervieweur.

On s'attend à ce que les jeunes personnes d'aujourd'hui ne s'imaginent plus que lors de l'entrevue, les jeunes filles puissent compter sur leur seul charme et d'un beau sourire pour s'assurer d'un emploi. Fiez-vous plutôt à vous-même, à ce que vous avez appris, à ce que vous saurez apprendre et non pas à votre coquetterie pour la tenue.

Rapport d'une enquête par un comité spécial des Ouvriers Unis des Textiles d'Amérique.

Le Conseil est informé que des déclarations sérieuses ont été faites par deux membres du local: soit les Confrères Daoust et Mainville contre le Confrère Adrien St-Onge, tant comme individu que comme président du local.

Le Comité est formé des personnes suivantes: Emile Dubois, président, Aurèle Racine, Donat Taillefer, Fernand Provost, Mme Réal Lecavalier. Il a tenu trois séances. Le 15 août à l'école une séance publique où les personnes en cause furent invitées à comparaitre et furent averties d'avance qu'elles pouvaient amener des témoins. Le Comité entendit d'abord le Confrère St-Onge qui fit part des faits et affirmant que les Confrères Daoust et Mainville ont déclaré qu'un président qui volait la Compagnie devait être remplacé, car il pourrait aussi voler l'union.

Des témoins ont été entendus qui ont confirmé l'accusation portée par le confrère St-Onge.

Ces témoignages n'ont pas été niés ni contredits par les confrères Mainville et Daoust.

Il serait trop long de répéter toutes les discussions qui ont eu lieu lors de l'assemblée d'audition. Le comité a pris des notes des discussions et des témoignages et s'est réuni le 18 et le 20 août. A la séance du 20 août, il a invité le directeur canadien pour préparer la rédaction de son rapport. Le Comité vous fait les recommandations suivantes:

1. Ce n'est pas l'affaire de l'Union, ni du comité de juger le problème des heures marquées sur une carte de punch, pourvu que ce qui est marqué est approuvé par le contremaitre et ne prive pas les autres membres de l'union de gains qui leur appartiennent.

Nous concluons simplement que s'il y avait eu vol après entente avec le contremaitre, la Compagnie qui est responsable des actes des contremaitres aurait dû ou aurait sévi contre le contremaître et l'employé concerné.

2. Nous en sommes venus à la conclusion que les accusations portées sur l'honnêteté et l'intégrité du confrère St-Onge sont fausses et non fondées.

3. Nous regrettons que les confrères Daoust et Mainville, s'ils se croyaient justifiés de porter certaines accusations soient allés au bureau de la Compagnie plutôt qu'à l'Union.

4. Nous constatons que les accusations portées se sont répandues non seulement à Huntingdon mais aussi à Ormstown et à Valleyfield causant un tort considérable au confrère St-Onge.

Pour toutes ces raisons, votre comité recommande:

1. Que les confrères Daoust et Mainville cessent immédiatement d'occuper des fonctions au sein de l'union, soit comme stewart (capitaines) soit comme membres du Comité des négociations.

2. Qu'ils ne soient éligibles à aucun poste dans l'union pour une période de trois ans.

3. Votre Comité recommande aux confrères Daoust et Mainville, pour démontrer leur bonne foi de publier une mise au point dans les journaux locaux. Toutefois, ceci n'est qu'une recommandation et votre comité reconnait qu'il ne peut d'aucune façon obliger les confrères Daoust et Mainville à le faire.

4. Votre Comité recommande qu'une copie de ce rapport soit envoyée aux locaux des textiles de Valleyfield et Ormstown ainsi qu'au Conseil du Travail de Valleyfield.

5. Votre comité recommande aux membres, en acceptant confiance en l'honnêteté du Confrère St-Onge et en son ce rapport d'exprimer leur dévouement comme président.

Et nous avont signé le 22 août 1964.

Il n'y a rien dans la ville

Et quand il y a quelque chose, on n'y va pas. C'est plate ici, aucun loisirs organisé. Les gens sont vieux jeu. Personne ne grouille. Toutes ces pensées me ramènent au passage de l'Evangile où on lit: "Ils ont joué de la flute et personne n'a voulu danser." C'est facile de lancer des idées, mais pas si aisé de les réaliser.

Les jeunes travailleurs (ses) assidus aux réunions de J.O.C. et J.O.C.F. peuvent en dire quelque chose. Ils et elles ont trimé dur pendant plus de trois semaines avant leur meeting de la S.N.J.T. et n'ont atteint qu'environ cinquante (50) jeunes travailleurs-travailleuses, et le même nombre de parents et d'étudiants.

Pourtant, nous avons dans la paroisse St-Joseph, qui couvre les municipalités suivantes: Huntingdon, Godmanchester, une partie d'Elgin et d'Hinchinbrooke, au delà de 200 jeunes travailleurs et travailleuses.

Pourquoi n'a-t-on pas répondu à l'appel lancé par à peu près le seul mouvement de jeunesse, concernant les 16-25 ans? Beaucoup répondent: on ne le savait pas. Ils n'ont pas envoyé d'invitations, ils ou elles ne m'ont pas téléphoné. On n'est pas venu me chercher à la maison. On aurait dû venir me faire souper, me peigner, me laver, brosser mes souliers, comme le fait si bien ma bonne maman. (En passant, les mères, laissez les jeunes de cette trempe s'embourber avec des souliers empoussièrés, ils ou elles ne méritent que cela).

De toute manière, le meeting du 29 septembre 1964 fut une réussite. Le Sketch, exécuté par Gisèle Saumier, Carole Leblanc, Agathe Lessard, Maurice Leboeuf, Yvan Chartrand, Jean Lepage, Bernard Duval et conduit et introduit par Yvon Emond, fut très bien interprété. Le forum mené par l'habile Yvon Dubé fut très intéressant; pour une autre fois, jeunes travailleurs et adultes se sont affrontés sans crainte ni menace. Les conclusions donnés par Louise Hamelin, propagandiste diocésaine de J.O.C.F. démontraient très bien les aspirations et les difficultés des jeunes à s'intégrer au milieu travail, pour le parfaire et le rendre plus Chrétien, où tous et chacun donneraient son plein rendement.

La troisième partie de la soirée fut le programme amateur où les jeunes vedettes se sont exprimées avec beaucoup de brio et de fini. Daniel Langevin en sorti vainqueur. Thérèse Leboeuf, Jean Allen, Agathe Lessard et Hervé Lefebvre, Roger Boucher, tous ces amateurs ont su charmer l'auditoire, puisqu'ils étaient placés devant un décor magnifiquement agencé par Daniel Hervé, et présentés artistiquement par Louise Bouchard et Alberte Lalonde.

Notre champion Daniel, est allé dimanche soir dernier faire bonne figure à Valleyfield. Il entra en compétition avec quatre autres jeunes artistes du diocèse. Cette même soirée fut un succès. L'assistance aurait pu être double mais comme ici, un certain nombre de jeunes critiquent et n'y vont pas. Ce n'est qu'après coup, que l'on prononce le "j'aurais dû y aller".

Félicitations au Président de la J.O.C. Yvon Emond, à Michel Beaudin, ainsi qu'à la présidente de la J.O.C.F. Nicole Lalonde, ainsi qu'à Diane Charland, Claire Bouchard, Gisèle Leblanc, de même qu'à Liette Plante, ancienne présidente, qui exprima sa très grande satisfaction de cette soirée bien réussie. M. Henri Talbot, pianiste et accompagnateur; les juges, Mlle Gilberte Demers, M. Claude Rémillard, Mme Emery Latreille, ont su se tirer d'affaire. Merci à tous.

Jeunes travailleurs et travailleuses, si une soirée de choix se présente, tâchez de vous y mettre le nez. "Mêlez-vous de vos affaires, mais mêlez-vous-en". En bonne entendeur salut."

2 millions d'Américains passeront par notre région en 67

Conférence de M. J.P. Lussier à l'école Notre-Dame jeudi

Jeudi soir dernier, à l'école Notre-Dame, plusieurs hommes d'affaires et dirigeants de Huntingdon et la région répondaient à une invitation de M. Ian Watson, M.P., d'entendre une conférence portant sur l'Exposition Mondiale de 1967 et ses conséquences pour notre secteur. Le conférencier invité était M. Jean-Paul Lussier, directeur des admissions d'Expo 67, et il fut présenté par M. Watson.

M. Lussier expliqua d'abord la différence entre une foire comme celle de New York, et une Exposition comme nous en aurons une en 67. Premièment l'Exposition de New York n'est pas sanctionnée par le Bureau International dont le siège est à Paris, établit certains barèmes, certains standards de qualité. Deuxièmement, une Exposition comme celle de New York est une entreprise commerciale; une Exposition Mondiale est une entreprise sans but lucratif, on connaitra même un déficit de 40 millions, permettant aux nations du monde entier de montrer ce qu'elles ont accompli de mieux, leurs plus grandes réussites, dans le domaine de la science, des arts, etc. Ce sera un spectacle unique, qui incidemment sera présenté pour la première fois en Amérique. M. Lussier mentionna que 42 nations à date avaient soit signé, soit réservé leur lot. On s'attend à ce que 60 nations en tout participent. Ces chiffres ne sont pas officiels cependant.

Le conférencier aborda ensuite la question du site proprement dit. La superficie totale du site est de 640 acres. La première partie est la jetée McKay; cette section deviendra Habitat 67, un projet d'habitation qui pourra abriter 5000 personnes et qui sera en quelque sorte l'héritage laissé par l'exposition à la ville de Montréal. Trois super-restaurants entre autres s'y établiront pour faire de Montréal une des villes du monde où l'on mangera le mieux. Puis il y a l'Ile Ste-Hélène, où s'élèveront la Place des Peuples et le pavillon américain. Juste en face, sur l'Ile Notre Dame, on trouvera le pavillon russe; aussi sur l'Ile Notre-Dame, sera construit le pavillon canadien au coût de 22 millions. L'endroit le plus gai de l'Exposition sera la partie nord-est de l'Ile Ste-Hélène, qui sera connue sous le nom de "La Joie De Vivre". On veut en faire un endroit aussi gai que Las Vegas.

Abordant le sujet des conséquences de l'Expostion Mondiale pour notre région, M. Lussier révéla d'abord qu'on attend 15 millions de visites à l'échelle de trois personnes par visite. 4% des visiteurs arriveront par bateau, 6%, par avion, 5%, par autobus, et enfin 81% par auto. C'est donc dire qu'on s'attend à une forte proportion de visiteurs américains. Il est permis de croire qu'environ 2 millions d'américains passeront par Huntingdon. Comment pourrons-nous tirer profit de la venue de tout ce tourisme? Nous pouvons faire beaucoup, selon M. Lussier: en un mot, il s'agit de créer un climat d'hospitalité. M. Lussier mentionna comme exemple la ville de Lausanne, en Suisse, où les gens accueillent les touristes même dans les maisons privées.

Le conférencier poursuivit en disant que la ville de Plattsburg s'organise actuellement pour profiter pleinement du flot de voyageurs qui passeront dans cette ville. Il suggéra que notre région fasse de même, qu'un comité régional soit formé dans le but de préparer les différentes villes environnantes pour la venue de nombreux touristes.

M. Ian Watson souligna pour sa part qu'il est grand temps qu'une organisation se mette en branle et qu'on doit débuter immédiatement les préparatifs. Il souligna qu'une réunion aurait lieu sous peu à Ste-Martine à laquelle seront invités tous les maires de la région ainsi que deux représentants choisis par eux; or rappela que les chambres de Commerce étaient des organismes qui devraient pouvoir aider dans ce comité.

Répondant par ailleurs aux questions de l'assistance, M. Lussier indiqua qu'on étudiait actuellement la possibilité de former une commission de contrôle des prix comme celles de plusieurs provinces du Canada et de plusieurs états américains, ceci dans le but de protéger à la fois les établissements du Québec et les touristes américains.

Le taux de la taxe municipale établi à 18 mills: réduction de 4 mills.

Au cours d'une assemblée spéciale, tenue à 7.45 lundi soir, soit avant l'assemblée régulière à 8 heures, le règlement 316, établissant le taux de la taxe municipale dans la ville de Huntingdon à 18 mills du dollar, fut adopté en deuxième et dernière lecture; seul le conseiller Laplante marqua sa dissidence. Le maire, M. Paul Lefebvre, expliqua que grâce aux revenus additionnels créés par l'imposition de la taxe de vente, la ville était en position d'opérer à ce taux.

L'assemblée régulière du premier lundi de chaque mois suivit, en présence de tous les conseillers et toujours sous la présidence du maire Paul Lefebvre.

Mme Philps, de la rue Hunter, s'adressa au conseil, au cours de la période ouverte, pour se plaindre de l'état du trottoir sur la rue Hunter et de celui de la rue elle-même. Elle mentionna qu'elle avait fait une chute sur ce trottoir à un endroit où celui-ci est inégal. Elle présenta une réclamation à cet égard. Le maire et le conseiller Brisebois, en charge des travaux de voirie, donnèrent leur assurance que ce trottoir et cette rue seraient réparés bientôt.

Le secrétaire-trésorier, M. Pilon lut une lettre du Ministère des Affaires Municipales demandant à la ville de renouveler une émission d'obligations pour un montant de $35,500. Il s'agit de la balance d'un emprunt contracté en vertu du règlement 274, en 1949, pour une période de 25 ans; on avait émis des obligations à court terme de 15 ans, ce qui explique la nécessité d'une nouvelle émission d'obligations aujourd'hui. Il fut décidé cependant que pour un si faible montant on n'émettrait pas d'obligations. La ville étant en position d'en payer une bonne partie dès maintenant et ayant la permission d'emprunter jusqu'à $60,000. à la banque, la balance dûe sera financée par un prêt temporaire.

Commentant le voyage qu'il effectua à Québec, en compagnie du conseiller Brisebois, le maire mentionna qu'on lui avait laissé entendre au Ministère des Affaires Municipales que la ville pourrait obtenir un octroi d'environ $36,000 en ce qui a trait aux améliorations au système d'eau qu'on projète. De plus, le Gouvernement prêterait la moitié des argents nécessaires au taux de 5 3/4% d'intérêt. Il fut donc proposé par l'échevin McGerrigle et secondé par l'échevin Gaw, qu'on prenne les mesures nécessaires pour obtenir toute l'aide possible du Gouvernement à cet égard, et que l'ingénieur de la ville soit avisé.

On fit un don de $25. à la Société Canadienne du rhumatisme et de l'arthrite.

Après la lecture d'une lettre du Service Social de Valleyfield demandant l'aide du conseil municipal, il fut décidé qu'une contribution de $500. soit faite à cet organisme. On fit remarquer que le Service Social dépense beaucoup plus que cette somme par année à Huntingdon et que la nécessité de son action ici n'est plus à démontrer.

On signala qu'il faudrait couper les mauvaises herbes à l'usine de filtration. Il fut aussi suggéré que les résidents de la ville soient avisés de couper les mauvaises herbes sur leur terrain, sinon la ville le fera elle-même et chargera le travail au compte des taxes.

On parla d'aménager un plancher de ciment au garage municipal et d'y installer l'électricité.

Pour ce qui est du réservoir élevé de la ville, qui gèlerait de 3 à 4 semaines pendant l'hiver, il fut décidé qu'on essaierait encore cette année la méthode employée l'an passé.

Un échevin porta à l'attention du conseil que vendredi soir dernier la circulation avait été bloquée pendant un bon bout de temps sur la rue Châteauguay par un camion qui livrait de la marchandise au magasin Ménard. Il fut décidé de renforcir le règlement déjà en vigueur, soit celui interdisant la circulation de camions en direction nord-sud sur la rue Châteauguay.

L'achat d'un cabinet de filières pour le service de la police fut autorisé.

On signala que le temps pressait si l'on voulait construire un mur de soutènement près du nouveau pont. Aucune décision définitive ne fut prise, sinon que les membres du conseil tenteront de rencontrer les représentants de Builder's Supply jeudi prochain.

L'assemblée fut ajournée au 21 octobre à 8 hres.
