ALL WAITING SIR WILFRID'S DECLARATION

Opposition Solid Against Reciprocity, but Liberals Divided.

Growing Belief In An Appeal to the Country.

English Press Rely on United States Senate to Kill the Proposed Agreement.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Ottawa, February 6.—As a result of conferences this morning, it is quite probable that the reciprocity debate, which was understood to be fixed for to-morrow, will not begin until Thursday. There will be a definite announcement about it in the House this afternoon, following the Cabinet Council.

The Opposition has been pressing for more time to go into the details of the proposition. All committees have been called off to-morrow, and a full caucus of Government supporters summoned.

The strong and patriotic appeal which was made to the Prime Minister by The Montreal Star on Saturday, apropos of the question of reciprocity attracted a great deal of attention here, and is regarded as the most forcible presentation yet made by opponents to the move. There is no doubt that the arguments which are so conclusively set forth will have a potent effect in circles inside and outside the House, the more so because they are divested of any suggestion of politic partisanship.

But what the Premier will say about it will be known only when the debate opens. Sir Wilfrid is never interviewed. In this case he has not varied the rule. He has the floor for the opening, and there is much speculation as to what, in view of the developments of a week at home and abroad, he will say. The country, it seems, will have to wait in patience.

Tomorrow or Thursday in the House will be an epoch-making day. The Government having announced the terms of its tentative agreement with the United States, will probably attempt to justify it, while the Opposition leader will declare the policy of the party. It seems certain that pretty nearly as a unit they will line up against the resolution which has in view the approval of the pact. The debate will likely go on almost continuously, as the Government orders now have precedence every day except Monday. The Conservatives will oppose the agreement on patriotic grounds and because they see in it the initial step towards political as well as commercial union, and the simultaneous blocking of the scheme of Imperial Reciprocity throughout the Empire.

The Liberals will likely defend it on the claim that it will be a material benefit to the country. That they will do so unanimously is questionable.

BELIEF IN PROBABLE APPEAL TO COUNTRY GROWS AT OTTAWA.

In the final analysis the debate is very likely to resolve itself into a discussion of temporary economic advantages on one side as against the political future of Canada on the other.

That will be the line of cleavage. Strong influences are being exerted to prevent the ratification of the agreement. The steel and coal people, particularly the former, view it with great alarm, though they are not rushing into print with it. The vegetable-growers and fruit-growers are up in arms, and are organizing deputations to come here and protest. The growing cities of Port William and Port Arthur see their finish as centres for the handling of western grain and scores of Boards of Trade have lodged protests. It seems that for one voice in favor of reciprocity there are twenty against it.

An atmosphere of uncertainty seems to prevail everywhere in political circles here. The Government is committed to the agreement. It is indivisible. One amendment will destroy the whole business. On one hand is the undertaking to go ahead. On the other is the undoubted evidence of aggressive public hostility.

The idea is growing that all the discussion may eventuate in an appeal to the country, the Government endeavoring to catch the agricultural vote, especially in the growing west, while leaving the tariff on manufactures against the United States as it is.

There are those who strongly believe that if the agreement goes through, Mr. Fielding will follow it up with a Budget speech announcement of a substantial increase, possibly to 50 per cent., in the British Preference. This would be used to offset the arguments in which patriotism and loyalty play a conspicuous part.

The big obstacle in the way, however, will be the redistribution bill, which cannot come until next year, and without which a very large part of the West would be deprived of representation.

It will likely be weeks before there is a division. Nearly every speaking member has notified the whips of his intention to say something, and, as previously forecasted, it is highly improbable that anything will be done here finally till the action of the U. S. Congress is conclusively determined.

PARLIAMENT OPENED WITH FULL STATE

Reference To Veto Measure Very Guarded.

Ceremonial Surrounded by Splendor from Beginning to End—Old Customs Observed.

Special to The Montreal Star.

London, February 6.—The second session of Parliament of King George's reign and the first opened by King George and Queen Mary in person, began to-day with mediaeval pomp. All of the old traditional rites were observed. The Beefeaters searched the lower vaults of the Parliament building for evidences of "gunpowder plots" and the King and Queen rode through the streets in the famed old coach of gold and glass.

The processional display of the nobility and the military forces was one of magnificence. Extraordinary precautions against any attacks by Anarchists or suffragettes had been taken by the police under the direction of the Home Secretary, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill. The route of the procession from Buckingham Palace to the Parliament Building, was guarded by picked troops and the best detectives that Scotland Yard could furnish. Around the Houses of Parliament police were massed to prevent any attack from suffragettes, who had threatened to mob King George if he did not come out in favor of votes for women.

The streets were massed with people from dawn on, waiting to catch a glimpse of the coach containing the King and Queen and the Prince of Wales. Among the spectators were many ofreigners some of whom had paid large prices in order to see the great procession.

SUFFRAGETTES' NOTE WAS DISREGARDED.

Christabel Pankhurst, one of the leaders of the militant suffragettes, issued a statement to-day declaring that no attempt would be made to storm Parliament or mob the King. However, believing this might be a ruse, the police kept up their strict guard.

Royal procession left Buckingham Palace at 1.35 o'clock and arrived at Parliament Building at 2 o'clock. The King wore a Field-Marshal's uniform, The coach containing the Royal family was drawn by eight magnificent chargers of pure white, bearing burnished harness of gilt and bronze. Yeomen of the Guard, accompanied by equerries, marched on each side of the coach.

In front of the coach rode the Sovereign's Life Guards, and the van was made up of members of the Royal household in five carriages. The route was along the Mall and across the Horse Guards Parade into Whitehall.

Arriving at the House of Parliament there was another regal procession from the robing room to the two Thrones.

Preceding the Royal couple were three high State dignitaries, bearing the sword of State, the Cap of Maintenance, and the Crown. Their Majesties were garbed in Royal robes of crimson velvet, lined with ermine. The King and Queen took their seats upon the two Thrones, which are two massive chairs of oak, embellished by miniature crowns and ornamented with gilt. The feet rest upon lions, and more lions are embroidered upon the backs of the chairs.

The House of Lords was packed when the Imperial procession entered from the robing room at 2.30 o'clock. A number of peeresses had seats on the floor with the peers. The Bishops and Ambassadors with their wives occupied seats at the left of the throne. The colonies for the first time were represented by the Colonial Agents-General.

REPRESENTATIVES FROM THE DOMINION'S NEAR THRONE.

The scene differed little from that at former openings. By the side of the Ambassadors' enclosure, perhaps the most coveted position in the House, in a space to the right of the Throne, and only a few feet removed from it were the places set apart for the High Commissioners of the overseas Dominions. In the High Commissioners' Bench Lord Strathcona sat in his peer's robes, his three colleagues, the representatives of United South Africa, New Zealand, and the Australian Commonwealth, in diplomatic uniforms beside him.

Speaker Lowther and as many of the members of the House of Commons as could crowd the floors and stand in the aisles were present. All the officers of State in regalia, including Earl Carrington, Lord Great Chamberlain, with equerries and pursuivants bearing the emblems of office, escorted Their Majesties into the Chamber and were grouped around the Throne during the ceremony. The Earl of Beauchamp, First Commissioner of Works and Public Buildings, bore the Sword of State before the King.

The ladies present wore mauve in half-mourning.

KING'S SPEECH WAS NON-COMMITTAL.

The King's speech at the formal opening of Parliament and the House of Lords was as follows:

"My Lords and Gentlemen.—In opening the first Parliament elected in my reign, the grievous loss which the Empire sustained by the death of my beloved father is uppermost in my thoughts. When a year ago he addressed you from the Throne no one could have foreseen that his life of unceasing devoted activity in the service of his subjects was so soon to be cut short.

"Bowing to the inscrutable decree of Providence, I take courage by his example and am sustained in my abiding sorrow by the sympathy extended to me by my people in every part of my dominions.

"I have welcomed my uncle, the Duke of Connaught, on the completion of the mission to South Africa which I entrusted to him. It has been deeply gratifying to learn that he was received with demonstration of the utmost loyalty in every part of my South African dominions by every class of the community.

"My relations with foreign powers continue friendly.

"The Japanese Government, having given notice of their intention to terminate the treaty of commerce and navigation of 1894, negotiations which, it is hoped, will result in a satisfactory arrangement, have been entered upon for the conclusion of a new treaty.

"There have been frequent complaints of the injury inflicted on British trade by continued disorder along the trade routes in Southern Persia, and my Government reluctantly addressed strong representations to the Persian Government, who have since given attention to the subject. Some improvement has lately been shown in the condition of the routes, and my Ministers propose to await further developments before pressing for the adoption of their own proposals, which in any case have no other object than to see that the authority of the Persian Government is restored and trade protected.

"I look forward with much interest to the assembling in May of the next Imperial Conference at which the chief Ministers of my self-governing Dominions and the Mother Country will unite in council regarding matters of importance to be submitted by their respective governments.

"I have announced my attention, after the Coronation, to revisit India, and hold an assemblage and personally announce my succession to the Imperial Crown of India.

No New Legislation Planned

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons—The Estimates for the ensuing year will in due course be laid before you.

"My Lords and Gentlemen—Proposals will be submitted to you without delay for settling the relations between the two Houses of Parliament with the object of securing a more effective working of the Constitution. Measures will be presented to you in pursuance of intentions already declared for carrying out and extending the policy initiated in previous Parliaments by securing permanent provision for old-age pensions for persons previously disqualified by receipt of poor relief, and by providing for the insurance of the individual population against sickness and invalidity and the insurance against unemployment of those engaged in trades especially liable to it.

"Bills dealing with other measures of importance will be introduced and proceeded with as time and opportunity allow.

"I pray to Almighty God to bless your labors."

SUFFRAGETTES AND LABORITES DISPLEASED.

In making the Declaration of Faith, King George used for the first time the amended form adopted at the last session of Parliament and which omits the traditional reference to the Catholic Church which was offensive to the adherents of that faith.

From the paucity of the legislative proposals it is evident that the Government has determined to allow nothing beyond necessary financial measures, to interfere with action of the Veto Bill.

The suffragettes are already threatening a renewal of their activities because they were not mentioned in the Speech, and the Laborites are much put out for the reason that it contained no promise of a bill dealing with the hated Osborne judgment.

That the Nationalists are satisfied with their position was indicated when at a meeting held late in the day they decided not to introduce any private bills during the present session.

W. T. STEAD'S FORECAST OF PARLIAMENT'S WORK.

Special to The Montreal Star.

London, February 6.—Wm. T. Stead says:—Speculation is rife as to the changes of the new Parliament will bring. The chief difference between this Parliament and that which reassembled twelve months ago is that this is Premier Asquith's Parliament.

For the first time since he was appointed Prime Minister, Mr. Asquith has justified his right to the premier position in English politics. The general election was Mr. Asquith's election. Mr. Lloyd-George no doubt was an extremely good second but while he supplied a great element of popular enthusiasm, he was regarded by the business community with a certain element of distrust. Mr. Asquith will be master of the Cabinet and master of the House of Commons.

On the other side the ascendancy of Mr. Balfour is not less marked. He is the only fighting man who cuts any considerable figure in the Unionist ranks.

One of the first combats of session will probably take place over the Home Secretary, and his manner of handling the anarchists in Sidney street. Dissatisfaction on all sides is very strong, but it is not strong enough to upset Mr. Churchill!

Another question which will cause a great deal of discussion is the Navy Est mates. Last week or two, concerted attacks have been made upon the Admiralty to prevent any increase in the Naval Estimates. But Mr. McKenna, the First Lord, is a resolute man, who believes he has secured the support of his colleagues for the estimates he considers necessary.

PLAGUE REACHES EASTERN SIBERIA PANIC INCREASES

Harbin, Manchuria, February 6.—Already nearly 6,000 bodies of victims of the plague, have been burned or buried in the outskirts of Harbin. Forty-eight hundred of these came from the Chinese town, and a thousand from the Russian quarter. Yesterday sixteen stacks of coffins and seven pits, filled with bodies and oiled logs blazed outside the town.

The mortality among the physicians and the hospital attendants is high, considering the means taken for their protection, and doctors, nurses and orderlies are succumbing to the disease. The sanitary authorities hope soon to test serum of their own manufacture from the Manchurian bacilli, as the foreign importations have proved inaffective.

The happenings in Europe in the seventeenth century, when the "black death" swept through the country, are being repeated here. Fears bordering on panic have gripped the Chinese. At first they defied the medical officers, and kept their sick and dead hidden, for the purpose of carrying out the ancient funeral rites.

Family Ties Now Disregarded.

Now it is brother against brother, father against son. The stricken ones are forced into the streets, to starve or freeze, or to fall perishing from the swift and deadly attack the plague makes upon its victims. Passersby avoid them, but sometimes those engaged in sanitary work, masked and bandaged, reach them before they die cart them to the pest house, or, if they are dead, to the funeral pyres.

Not infrequently an outcast is to be seen, kneeling, and making his last obeisance before the grave of an ancestor, in sight of a pile of bodies, of which he is soon to become one.

Hundred Deaths Daily.

St. Petersburg, February 6. — One hundred deaths daily from the plague are reported in Kwanchengtze, a large town west of Kirin province, close to the Manchurian railway.

Reaches Eastern Siberia.

Odessa, February 6.—It is reported that the plague has appeared in Transbaikalia, a region in the western part of the general government of the Amur, in East Siberia.

Japan to Fight Epidemic.

Tokio, February 6.—Dr. S. Kitasato accompanied by the chief of the Colonization Department, will leave for Manchuria on February 12 to investigate the plague situation. The Government has requested an appropriation of $500,000 by the Diet to defray the expenses of fighting the epidemic.

CAUSE OF FIRE REMAINS MYSTERY.

The cause of the fire at 1198 St. Denis street on February 1st, remains a mystery. Leopold Lecompte, one of the employes of Gideon Danis, the proprietor of the store, testified before Fire Commissioner Ritchie, that he discovered the fire in some wadding in the cellar, but how the wadding was set on fire, was a question he could not answer. The furnace was some distance from that part of the cellar and no one with lighted pipe or cigarette had been near the place where the wadding was kept that day. Twenty minutes before the fire was discovered, Joseph Belanger had been down stairs and had noticed nothing out of the ordinary.

Ottawa Accuses Clubs of Exceeding Salary Limit--St. John Races Off

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, February 6.—When the Ottawa hockey club agreed to the salary limit of the National Hockey Association, the locals lived up to the article to the very letter, but in view of the large number of high priced men that the Wanderer, Canadiens and Renfrew Clubs, are carrying, Mr. Martin Rosenthal, of the Ottawa, states that he will ask for an investigation of the salary lists of the clubs above mentioned.

Wanderers are said to have contracts with Ernie Johnson, and Pud Glass for $1,200 each, while it is known that Ernie Russell, Jimmie Gardner, Walter Smaill and Art Ross would not consider anything less than $1,000 for their services. Harry Hyland, Riley Hern and Gordon Roberts have yet to be provided for, so that the $5,000 allowance amongst a bunch like that is not going to go very far. Canadiens have about sixteen men under contract, with Lalonde, Laviolette and Pitre as their prize beauties, while Renfrew, with Fred Taylor leading the van, has a pretty hefty salary to pay each week.

Ottawa and Quebec are willing to produce their books, the league leaders drawing $625 per man, and it is up to President Quinn to straighten things out.

SPORTING VIEWS AND REVIEWS

After lingering in Ottawa longer than seemed necessary, the Stanley Cup, the outward sign of the hockey championship of Canada, is to be turned over to the champions, the Wanderers, of Montreal, who won it hands down last season, just as they stand a chance of losing it this season. However, it is not absolutely necessary that they should do so, and now that the cup is coming the Wanderers may make up their minds to keep it here.

Whatever may have been other peoples' wishes, the weather of the past few days seems to have been ordered to suit the snowshoers—the sort of weather they put into the stories of winter, and which makes it easy for a tramper over the mountain to imagine he is following the footsteps of Cook and Peary. Montreal always makes things right for snowshoers.

Long ago lacrosse was transplanted to Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and it now seems firmly rooted in that congenial soil. The stick-handlers at that famous seat of learning are always increasing in numbers and becoming more skilful at the Canadian game. The team is practising now, so early does spring come in gay Maryland. That it is real lacrosse the Hopkins boys are playing is shown by the remark of a Baltimore writer, who, in describing the practice, remarks that a certain defence man named Huck—no relation to Huckleberry Finn—"did his usual good body-checking, and more than once bowled the lighter attack man over."

Cricket is to be lifted out of the rut in which it has been jogging on and set moving along in the middle of the road. That is the decision arrived at by a number of cricket's most affectionate and powerful friends in Montreal, and the good old game, that has followed the flag around the world, is to come into its own in this part of Canada. The a new era for cricket deserve the support a nuew era for cricket deserve the support not only of cricketers, but of all lovers of amateur sport.

The anti-race track betting bill, recently passed by the Legislature of California, has been accepted and signed by Governor Johnson, and the law will go into operation on the 15th of the present month. It is believed that the act, in its drastic prohibition of wagers, both oral and recorded, will practically end horse-racing in California. If such is the case, of what use is California's glorious climate?

The black eye received by the Wanderers the other night in Renfrew rather mars their beauty as champions of the Hockey Association. It certainly was an unexpected occurrence, and many think it was wholly uncalled for but there it is, and it cannot be rubbed out, much to the satisfaction of Ottawa, as well as of Renfrew, because it pushes so much farther down the hill Ottawa's most formidable rival. While it is still mathematically possible for Renfrew to win the championship, it is rather an improbability. However, revenge is always sweet, and besides the victory over the Wanderers refutes the charge that the boys from the Upper Ottawa are back numbers.

McGill was not permitted to have a long crow over Queen's, for one week after their victory on their own ice they went down to defeat in Kingston. But it was defeat with honor. A match that is decided by one goal, scored in over-time, comes pretty near being honors even. Both teams were good, but in those closing seven minutes Queen's men were just a trifle better, and it was enough to clinch victory.

The professional championship of the Maritime Provinces now rests with Halifax or Moncton, so that it has become a contest between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick—fish against lumber, or the great winter port against the home of the Intercolonial. All that others have to say about it is—may the better team win

Ice-trotting at Ottawa is going merrily on, notwithstanding storms and cold. An attendance of three thousand on opening day is evidence of Ottawas fondness for the game of the ponies.

The goal-getters' table in the National Hockey League is further juggled with as a result of last week's games. FETE-DE-NUIT AGAIN POSTPONED--RACES

The annual fete de nuit of the Park Slide will not be held now until Thursday evening. Owing to the storm, it was postponed from last Thursday to Monday (to-night), but a further postponement to Thursday was decided upon yesterday owing to the heavy snow fall on Saturday. The event is one which attracts an immense crowd, and for that reason it is desired to have it take place under as favorable conditions as possible.

The first races that have been held on the slide for some years will be run off to-morrow (Tuesday) evening. About 40 entries have been received. The conditions call for a lady and a gentleman on each toboggan. The preliminary heats will be raced to-morrow night, and the semi-finals and finals on Saturday.

NEW EDINBURGH DEFEATED MONTREAL

There was a larger crowd than as usual at an amateur match to see the Montrealers and New Edinburgh teams play at the Arena on Saturday.

New Edinburgh, however, proved so superior both in the general condition and their defence work, that they more than doubled the score on Montreal, and defeated them by eight to three.

Montreal started out well at the beginning, but Mosk Meldrum was ruled off shortly after the start, and New Edinburgh took advantage of that to score the first goal.

Montreal, however, was in good fettle during the first half and Joe Eveleigh scored two goals for them, but after this the New Edinburgh defence played such a steady game that the Montreal forwards could not pass them again until the second quarter in which as a whole the home team made but a weakened stand, till the last five minutes of the match, when it was too late, and all their trying did not count against the defence game which the visitors were playing.

During the first part of the match, the two forward lines were pretty equal, but the Edinburgh goalkeeper was away ahead of Montreal on Saturday. Meldrum and Ramsay did well, but the former has the unfortunate faculty of nearly always being caught by the referee, when he commits a breach of the rules.

SOME GOOD BOWLING.

Fine Scores Made at the St. Louis Tournament.

St. Louis, February 6.—Piling up a total of 1,218, M. C. Sprague and Ted Neal, of Omaha, Neb., finished with the ten scores in the Sweagan team event of the American Bowling Congress tournament. Their mark puts them in sixth place.

Sprague's erratic shooting in his third game ruined their chances of going into the lead, as Neal finished strongly, getting 275 pins in the final game.

Reed and Lee, of Columbus, were second high in the doubles, with 1,209, while Paige and Kerner, of Cleveland, were third, with 1,196.

BASEBALL COURT OF APPEAL TO BE STARTED

Chicago, February 6.—Suspended ball players of all leagues governed by the National Association, will have an opportunity to present their grievances to the National Baseball Commission as the result of an order sent to J. H. Farrell, secretary of the commission. The order calls for a complete investigation into circumstances surrounding the practice of suspending players, sometimes on trivial complaints, which is said to have kept many young players out of organized baseball for months.

At present there are several hundred players, mostly under contract with the minor leagues, who are barred temporarily from organized baseball because of suspensions.

At Russian Race Track.

St. Petersburg, February 6.—For the purpose of restricting race track gambling to the wealthy classes, the Government has adopted new rules, whereby minimum stakes are fixed at $5. Clubbing and bookmaking are prohibited. There is a movement on foot in the Duma to prohibit race track betting altogether.

Christ Church Sunday School play Ware Juniors Thursday night from 7 to 8 at the rink of the latter.

Eastern League Schedule Meet Taking Place in Baltimore

Y.M.C.A. SNOWSHOERS WILL BE BUSY

Judging from the following schedule, the members of the Y.M.C.A. Snowshoe Club have some very enjoyable events in store during the next few weeks. One of the principal features will be on February 10th, when the usual refreshments will be served at a camp fire on the mountain, instead of at the Association building. "Camp Fire" Nights are a regular feature of the "Y.M." schedule, but this time the ladies are invited, and it is certain that the innovation will be thoroughly successful.

Another interesting tramp will be that on the following Friday (February 17th), when the old-time members of the Club will take down their snowshoes and join the Club men in the time-honored "Veterans' Tramp."

With the present weather conditions and such an attractive feature card, things look well for the Y.M.C.A.

SKATING RACES AT ST. JOHN POSTPONED

The Canadian Championship Skating meet which was to be held on Wednesday next at St. Johns has been postponed indefinitely for some reason not given.

This announcement was made this morning by Mr. John Davidson, of the M. A. A. A. who, in answer to a wire sent down to the Maritime Province city to enquire about the meet, was informed that it was all off. There was no reason given for this sudden action on the part of the organizers.

It so happens that the postponement will not mean a great disappointment to the M. A. A. A. management, for the Club races postponed from Saturday last are to be held on Wednesday and it would be decidedly unfortunate if some of the club's best men had to be absent attending the St. John meet, on this date.

Baltimore, M.D., February 6.—This city feels itself very much on the baseball map to-day with the magnates from over the entire Eastern League in session here. While the gathering is known as a schedule meeting and while the adoption of playing dates will be the matter of chief importance, there will be several other topics up for discussion, most interest in which will enter in the question of reclassification.

When the representatives of the various clubs went into session this morning at 11 o'clock there was a general impression that the schedule as drafted by President Barrow would be adopted with a few more or less unimportant changes. A box party and a banquet afterward is the entertainment in store for the visitors to-night.

Quebec Played a Magnificent Game Against Ottawa--Latter Complains of Conduct of Mob

Special to the Montreal Star.

Quebec, February 6.—Quebec played its best hockey of the season on Saturday night, and it was only in the overtime that Ottawa won out. Quebec was the first to score taking the first game in ten minutes. Three minutes later Ottawa scored leaving the match at a tie at the end of the first period, while Ottawa scored two games to Quebec's one in the second period, this condition was exactly reversed in the third period, leaving the game four all. The interest attaching to the match did not terminate until the last blow of the whistle, for while Ottawa broke the tie when four and a half minutes of the overtime had expired, the match was anybody's up to the very end, when a second game was scored by Ottawa, and some of the finest brand of Stanley Cup hockey was played. In this final stage of the play it was a great battle that was fought at either end of the rink, and no better display of defense could be witnessed than that exhibited by the two Quebecers who defended the net at either end—Paddy Moran and Percy Lesueur.

There had never been very much hope here of Quebec winning out on Saturday, and the quality of the local team's play was therefore somewhat of a surprise, for it certainly exhibited the best form yet shown by it. Holden's great blocking together with Moran's demonstration of meeting a perfect storm of attacks on goal made the local defence very strong. Joe Hall's lightning rushes and general effectiveness were features. Oatman put up the best game he has yet played here, and some spectacular work was done by Ken Mallen and MacDonald. It was noticeable, however, that the Quebec did not work in as close on goal as did the Ottawas.

The stars for Ottawa were Kerr, Lake, and Lesueur, but the whole team made a splendid combination and put up a really great game. The match was as noticeable for clean hockey as for fast and good play. Russell, Bowie, and Duncan Campbell who handled the game were strict on offside play, but only one man, Joe Hall, was ruled off, and he for 3 minutes during the whole night. An interesting feature of the game was the frequency of end to end rushes in two or three men combinations. Few openings on either side were neglected, and the excitement and enthusiasm in the rink was frequently at the highest pitch especially when Dunderdale by scoring at the end of the third period evened up the match and made an extra period necessary. The line-up was as follows—

The line-up was as follows:

Quebec.		Ottawa.
Moran	Goal	Lesueur

OTTAWAS SAY THEY WERE MOBBED IN QUEBEC.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, February 6.—Assaulted as they were leaving the rink by a crowd of hoodlums, the officers of the Ottawa Hockey Club intend reporting the matter to the National Hockey Association and they will also ask that the Quebec Club be made provide proper police protection to the visiting clubs, who are unfortunate enough to draw another visit to the Ancient Capital.

Though the Ottawas have been maltreated on former visits to Quebec, Saturday night's affair went out of all bounds, and the executive will take the matter up with the league to see if the disgraceful tactics of the crowd cannot be stopped. It is the same with every team, and Wanderers were also the victims of stone and ice throwing when they last played in Quebec. The officials, Messrs. Bowie and Campbell, the best pair in the business, had to make a quick getaway, they being hooted and made the objects of the crowds' missiles as well as the Ottawa team.

Several panes of glass in the Ottawa bus were smashed, large pieces of ice finding their way into the Ottawa vehicle. The Quebec police looked on serenely from the doorway of the rink, but they never for a minute attempted to put a stop to the rough-house.

The coming Stanley cuppers, were fortunate in having a good driver, and it was only because of this that they did not have to get out and fight their way to the depot.

REFEREES KNOW NOTHING ABOUT QUEBEC ATTACK.

Mr. Duncan Campbell, one of the referees of the Quebec-Ottawa match, when asked, said that he had neither seen nor heard anything about misbehavior on the part of the Quebec crowd. Certainly he and Mr. Bowie had no unpleasant experience whatever, and were othe hand congratulated on their work.

CLIFFSIDES PLAYED VICS TO STANDSTILL

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, Ont., February 6.—The Montreal Victorias failed on Saturday to break the winning streak of the Cliffsides in the Interprovincial Amateur Hockey Union, the latter winning in a one-sided exhibition at the Rideau Rink by the score of 14-6.

The match was played before about two thousand spectators, and, although the Cliffsides had the argument all their own way for the most part, the visitors put up a great brand of hockey. The game was a huge improvement on the article of hockey which was witnessed in the Montreal-Cliffside match a week ago, both Victorias and Cliffsides showing improved form over their previous games. The latter in particular played far better than in any game since their New Edinburgh fixture, and, although the team is capable of distinguishing themselves to even greater advantage, they had little trouble in disposing of the once famed Victorias. The marvellous defence work of the locals, together with the following back and close checking of the forwards, was responsible for the local victory.

Little team work was in evidence, although the Victorias on more than one occasion broke away with two and three-man combinations which looked good from the stand. McKinley's great work in the nets, however, was in a great way responsible for the Cliffside win, the crack net guardian saving the situation with several risky stops. He undoubtedly played one of the best games of his career, clearing in excellent fashion. There was very little rough work, perhaps the cleanest game of the season being established on Saturday only one three-minute penalty was imposed, that being for a minor offence. The match was a hard checking exhibition, however, and strenuous at times, but nothing serious resulted.

Individual rushes featured the contest, both teams appearing to have very little team work. The Cliffsides, however, pulled off a few beautiful combination plays, while the Montreal representatives also tallied a couple of goals as the result of passing the puck. McKinley demonstrated his right to the honor of being the best goaler in the interprovincial, his stopping being the best of the season. Johnstone was there with several hair-raising plays, his rushing also being a feature. O'Neill, while not so effective as on other occasions, displayed good judgment, intercepting passes and blocking in brilliant fashion. The team displayed more team work than the week before, and, with a couple more practices, ought to have little difficulty in downing anything in the league.

The Victorias, although a badly beaten team, were by no means weak, their defence being one of the strongest in the league. Law pulled off many marvellous stops on Saturday, and, although the winners managed to poke several past the crack net guardian, it was through no fault of his. Pennell was the most effective of the visitors, his rushing from goal to goal being responsible for more than one count.

Spafford was also good, blocking and clearing in true style. The line was fast and tricky, but were outplayed by their covers at all times. Only once in the second half did the Vics show any kind of true form, the close checking of the Cliffside line keeping down the score. Murray was good at rover, while Root at centre showed good judgment. He was fast and tireless, the wing also coming in for a great deal of praise.

The team was stronger than when defeated by New Edinburgh on their own ice some weeks ago, and, with little more practice, ought to figure in the championship standing.

Tommy Riddell and Bouse Hutton handled the game to perfection. Only one penalty was imposed, however, the officials having practically nothing to do.

NO ONE CAN GET AT SCORERS IN FUTURE

Chicago, February 6.—The identity of American League official scorers hereafter will be known only to league officials, club owners and the scorers themselves, if the owners take kindly to the suggestion when made by President B. B. Johnson at the schedule meeting of the league here on February 14th. The matter will be put up to the magnates by Mr. Johnson, who said that he favored the move. The same suggestion has been made by Secretary Heydler, of the National League.

Sentiment in favor of removing the official scoring from the conflicting interests and influences which are unavoidable when the scorers are known publicly, has been growing for some time. It is said, and was crystallized by events in connection with the batting contest between Lajoie and Cobb last fall.

SPORTS AT BROCKVILLE.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Brockville, Ont., February 6.—Robt. F. Tennant, of Lyn, has disposed of a valuable pacer to an Ottawa party for a handsome sum. The animal is coming four years old. Since the sale Mr. Tennant has purchased from M. J. Higgins, of Brockville, Nellie T., a five-year-old mare, and sister of Nellie S., formerly owned by M. B. Stack, with a mark of 2.08.

The third and final pool match between Albert Fertier and George W. Morison was contested at the Ritchie Parlors in the presence of a large company of spectators. Fartier, who retains the championship, won the game by 48 points, and the series by 52.

St. Alban's School of this town played the first hockey match of the season in the Carling Cup series with Ashbury College, Ottawa, on Saturday, winning by a score of 3-2. The visitors have a strong septet, and were only outclassed by the narrow margin the score indicates. The game was one of the best played on the local rink this season, being entirely devoid of roughness. A number of St. Alban's students and Brockvillians witnesses the performance, which was handled by James George. The line-up:

Ashbury College—Goal, O'Halloran; point, C. Fleming; cover-point, C. Barwis; rover, J. Hennessy; centre, J. Oliver; wings, H. Parker and A. Shaw.

Gus Schoenlein (Americus) was substituted for Henry Ordemann to wrestle Champion Frank Gotch in a finish match at Kansas City, Mo., February 8.

$30,000 OFFERED FOR HACK AND GOTCH

Special to the Montreal Star.

Toronto, February 6—When Georges Hackenschmidt arrives in town to-morrow with Manager Jack Curley, a representative of the local syndicate which has offered $30,000 for the final match with Gotch here, will endeavor to sign the great Russian for the big engagement. Any time after May 15th will suit the local gentlemen, if the Toronto offer is accepted, and at present it is the best of several bids. In view of the treatment accorded Hackenschmidt when he met Gotch in Chicago three years ago, it is not expected any difficulty will be encountered in having the Russian sign his end of the contract. For reasons best known to themselves the Gotch people decline to commit themselves. If the local offer is improved upon elsewhere the syndicate will offer other inducements.

HEATHER CLUB WINS CENTENARY CUP GAME

Winning the second part of the final games in the Centenary Cup competition on Saturday evening, by the narrow margin of one point, the Heather Curling Club takes possession of the fine trophy which the Montreal Club presented to local curlers five years ago, for 1911, by a total majority of sixteen points over its opponents, the newly-formed St. Andrew's Club. The first match, played off Wednesday last, went to Heather by fifteen points.

The Heather people, although only winning by one point, made the majority of the matches on Saturday, getting four out of the six rinks played in the entire match. The games on Saturday, although at times sufficiently close to be interesting, never really threatened Heather's lead, established on Wednesday, and the trophy may be rightly conceded won by consistent merit.

The winning of this trophy by Heather appears to guarantee that such trophies of the curling world as may be held in Montreal this year will be evenly distributed. Heather holds the Centenary trophy, this being the first time since its inauguration that it has passed out of Caledonia's hands, while St. Andrew's have already annexed the Jubilee Cup. On the other hand, Caledonia, smarting under a close defeat in the Governor-General's, and having lost the Centenary Cup, and eliminated from the Jubilee, are naturally keen on winning the M.A.A.A. trophy, which will be played for this week, to replenish their depleted stock of silverware in the prize cabinet.

These combined circumstances make it probable that the M.A.A.A. competition will produce some more than usually keenly contested games.

Following the winning of the second game by Heather on Saturday, Mr. A. E. Oughtred, vice-president of the Montreal Club, presented the trophy to Mr. G. A. Robertson, president of the Heather Club, and in the course of a short congratulatory speech, wished the Westmount club still further success in the future.

Mr. Robertson, in reply, took occasion to laud the generosity of the Montreal Club in providing the most handsome trophy known in the local curling world, and, while sympathizing with St. Andrew's, who had failed to win it, congratulated them on the fine showing they had made throughout the season.

In reply, Mr. H. M. Watson, vice-president of the Heather Club, accepted the defeat gracefully, and took comfort from the fact that the Heather Club, although not winning the trophy, had been able to wrest it from the grasp of Caledonia for the first time since 1907.

In the play, Kinghorne and Cornell, put up a most excellent competition on the west sheet, the former winning finally by 12 to 6, in a game which was productive of much better curling than the scores would appear to indicate.

On the east sheet St. Amand and Wood fought a neck and neck struggle, the latter winning out finally by two points after making a desperate and brilliant uphill struggle against a big lead which St. Amand established early in the game.

Watson and Thompson, playing on the centre sheet, also provided a thrilling contest, but the latter early obtained a lead, which he was able to hold, and finally won by 19 to 1.

CALEDONIAS WON FROM OTTAWA GLEBE.

Ottawa, February 7. — In the second game in the District Medal match which was played on the Glebe Curling Rink on Saturday, Caledonias, of Montreal, won on the round by 19 shots. The Glebes led in the first half by three shots, but on Saturday's play the Caledonias finished with a margin of 22, their rinks being the same as those which competed against Ottawa for the Governor-General's Prize.

BARROW HAS A NEW SECRETARY

New York, February 6.—President Edward Barrow, of the Eastern League, has announced that he had engaged Ernest L. Lanigan, the well-known baseball writer and statistician, as his secretary and assistant for the coming season.

Mr. Lanigan has been the baseball editor of the New York Press for the past four years, and previous to that was connected with the Philadelphia Record and St. Louis Sporting News for a number of years, and at one time was manager of the Philadelphia Orchestra. He was also one of the promoters and organizers of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. He is one of the best-posted men in the country in baseball history and the rules of the game, and has also been the official scorer for the Highlanders ever since the American League entered New York.

President Barrow is pleased over securing Mr. Lanigan's services for the Eastern League, and predicts greater success and prosperity than ever for the big Class A organization.

The new secretary will begin his duties at once, having severed his connection with the New York Press.

President Barrow also officially announces the engagement of the umpires already named in The Star.

Mr. Barrow has decided to furnish printed report sheets for his umpires to fill out and mail to him immediately after every game. These sheets will contain blank spaces to be filled in by the umpires, telling whether the game was regular or a postponed game, condition of weather and playing field, number of innings played, general conduct of players during game, and names of those fined or ejected, and reasons for same, with a general review of the game. The president believes that by compelling his umpires to fill out and send in one of these reports after every game he will be better able to get at the bottom of any trouble that may arise on the ball field, and to also get a line on who the chronic kickers and trouble-makers are among the players of the league.

McGill II Go to Kingston.

The McGill Intermediate septette left for Kingston this morning to try their luck with the Presbyterians at Kingston. Winners of one section of their league, namely, that of Laval, they are going to try their best to wrench a victory from the husky Queen's men.

They are to play two games with Queen's, the addition of the resulting two scores deciding the victory. If they have the good fortune to win in these two games then they will get into line to beat whichever team beats in the Toronto section.

The team is a very light one, the average weight being 123 pounds. The following men will probably be the players in to-night's game—Warwick, Hughes, Masson, Smith, Horman, Davidson, Kelly.

International Rugby.

Special to The Montreal Star.

London, February 6.—Wales beat Scotland Saturday in the International Rugby game before 25,000 people. In eleven minutes Spiller scored a dropped goal for Wales.

In thirty minutes Munro dropped a goal for Scotland. Half time scores: Wales, 7; Scotland, 4. Final score: Wales, 32; Scotland, 10.

Skating at Christiania.

Christiania, February 6.—At the international skating races to-day, the Russian, Strumikow, won the 5,000 metre (about 3.10 miles) in eight minutes, 35 1-5 seconds. This is a new world's record for the distance, the previous record of eight minutes 37 3-5 seconds having been made by J. J. Eden at Hamar, Norway, in 1909.

Snowshoe Convention Caused a Magnificent Turnout of Uniformed Men and Was a Great Success

Not since the last big Carnival has such a gorgeous array of snowshoers been seen in Montreal, as invaded its streets on Saturday and Sunday, upon the occasion of the Convention of the Canadian Snowshoe Union. The visit to the city hall at noon, the complimentary dinner to the presidents of the thirty odd clubs that participated, the supper at night in the Drill Shed, and particularly the Torchlight Parade in the evening, were bright features of Saturday.

The big Drill Shed had probably never seen such a gay crowd within its walls as it did Saturday night when the various clubs, numbering over a thousand men, dressed in at least thirty different costumes, with at least twice that many different colors, massed for the procession, amidst the noise of thirty different drum and bugle bands. They passed in review of the official stand that had been erected in the centre, from which Major-General Petch ably assisted by such well-known showshoers as Messrs. Arthur Lamalice, Gordon Bowie, W. Lockwell, Albert Descelles, Bergevin and others, reviewed the men as they went by with colors flying. A feature of the gathering was the large number of diminutive snowshoers in full uniform, some of whom were carried, while others valiantly marched along with their elders. Particular notice was taken of a young married couple attired in blanket suits of white with blue stripes ,who marched among the crowd before they lined up ,with a child of very tender years between them attired in snowshoe apparel to match.

Several ladies climbed up into the galleries and received a tremendous ovation from the gallant snowshoers, for which they made their acknowledgment by waving handkerchiefs.

It looked like a strange army marching out to the field of battle, when Lieut.-Colonel Pagnuelo and the 85th. and Major Bourassa, the latter an ardent snowshoer himself got the different units in line and marched them along Craig and up Beaver Hall Hill, to return by an eastern route to the drill shed again, where Alderman Dandurand, chairman of the civic reception committee, addressed them with a few appropriate and witty words on behalf of the corporation, after which they partook of the spread provided by the city, and spent the remainder of the night in an old fashioned snowshoe smoking concert.

Montagnard, Le Boucanier, Saint Francois, Sherbrooke, Forestiers, St. Paul, Tuque Rouge, Dollard, Montreal, Cercle Paroissial, Champetre, Zou-Zou, Saint Hyacinthe,Les Zouaves de Quebec, Saint Charles, Longueuil, Canadien, Saint Henri, Montcalm, Quebec, Dollard, Sherbrooke, Le Montagnais, Quebec, Northern Lights, Moliere,, Coureurs des Bois, Frontenac, Quebec, Saint Jacques, National, Lafontaine, Le Joyeux, L'Union Commerciale, Quebec, L'Infatigable, Saint Hyacinthe, Tricolore, Maisonneuve, Chateau Frontenac Quebec, Voltigeurs de Levis.

Immediately after them came the presidents as follows: — Eloi Dulude Saint Paul; T. Martel, Canadien; L. F. Audry; Le Joyeux; Joseph Jean, Dollard; Jos Morrissette, Frontenac, de Quebec; A. Poliquin, Canadien de Quebec; J B Emond, Le Boucanier; A. Charbonneau, Le Boucanier; T. Saint-Cyr, Zouzou, de Saint-Hyacinthe; J. E. A. Samson, Voltigeurs, de Levis; J. E. Dion, Le Zouave, Quebec; F. CIVIC RECEPTION AT THE CITY HALL.

With the beating of many drums, and the fanfares of many bugles, the various clubs marched up the broad steps of the City Hall.

The Council Chamber itself was hardly big enough to hold all.

Alderman Carter, acting-mayor, welcomed them on behalf of the Corporation, and told them that while at one time he was afraid that the stories put out by the scientific magazines might be true, in regard to future generations gradually losing their legs, because the influx of automobiles and flying machines would do away with the necessary exercise to keep up the development of the nether limbs, he was glad to say that he would now pin his faith to the snowshoers, whose endeavors he had no doubt would prevent the extinction of those very necessary adjuncts to the human body.

Alderman Dandurand also addressed the visitors in his capacity of Chairman of the Civic Reception Committee, and earned great applause, he also presenting the really handsome gold medal for the Championship, which the Corporation has presented for the races in the afternoon.

Ald. Boyd, spoke in English as a former snowshoer, and an ex-president of the M.A.A.A., and Alderman Emard, and a few others added their oratorical contributions, after which the assembled clubs had their pictures taken on the City Hall steps, and marched away to luncheon, to meet again on the National ground for the races.

YESTERDAY'S SPECIAL HIGH MASS FOR SNOWSHOERS.

The special High Mass and Church Parade were the feature of yesterday's convention day.

And clear bugle calls and shrill bugle calls and deep bass drums, and impudent and insistent snare drums, beat up a constant hullabaloo, while mingled with all, were the cheers of the spectators for some peculiarly brilliant color scheme or some familiar, well-known name, or some flamboyant and flaunting banner.

Such was the brilliant spectacle of the Snowshoers' Convention Church parade, in which some fifteen hundred men took part, and which many thousands of Montreal citizens watched yesterday morning, as it wound its sprightly way up St. Denis street, along Mount Royal Avenue, and up St. Lawrence Boulevard to the Church of the Infant Jesus, on St. Joseph Boulevard.

The beautiful weather coaxed many citizens from their homes, who would not have risked exposure to less bright skies or a more piercing wind, and the consequence was that the parade was watched by such a crowd as has not often been seen at similar functions before, while for the same reason there was a fuller representation of clubs than has previously been the case. The route was lined with spectators in the neighborhood of the church, long before the first bugle call gave warning of the approach of the head of the long column, and when the brilliantly clad convention visitors finally did appear there was a rush of sightseers from all directions, so that for some time all traffic was suspended in the neighborhood.

The procession was headed by the dark green clad members of the Cercle Paroissial, under whose auspices the parade was organized. Arrived at the church the members of this club lined up on either side of the broad steps, and with a continuous roll of bass drums which rose sonorously vibrant to the apex of the gilded dome which tops the sacred edifice, they saluted their fellow sportsmen. At the head of the steps, the visitors were welcomed by Alderman Turcot and Alderman Dandurand.Passing betweeen these two civic dignitaries one of whom stood on each side of the main doorway, the snowshoers trod silently on their moccassined feet into the church, leaving the rolling drums and the exclamatory spectators outside, exchanging a scene of noise and excitement for one of calm and untroubled peace.

At the rear of the procession, came the delegation from Les Montagnards, one hundred and fifty strong, and walking four abreast, where the other clubs had walked in double line. The old French-Canadian Club's colors were greeted everywhere loudly and enthusiastically being evidently the best known and most popular section of the long parade.

Officials of the various clubs and the organizers of the convention walked behind the Montagnards, at the end of the procession, and were the last to enter the church, except the members of the welcoming Cercle Paroissial.

Inside the church, the snowshoers filled the entire body, while the galleries and the rear of the church with the aisles, were crowded with spectators, who for the post part, stood up.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP RACES ON THE NATIONAL GROUNDS

The heavy snowfall caused the crowd at the championship rally on the National grounds, to be smaller than expected, but what it lacked in size, it made up in enthusiasm, and there were a large number of ladies in snowshoe costume, making the general scene much livelier.

The first two heats in the 100 were very well contested and created great excitement. The finishes were very close. The first was won by Hebert, of the National, with Egan, of the M.A.A.A., second. The second heat was won by R. Laforce, of the National, with J. A. Platt, of the M.A.A.A., second. Time for the first heat, 13 3-5. The second heat was a fifth of a second slower.

The track was very heavy, notwithstanding all attempts to harden it, and some of those entered in the mile even dropped out. Hebert won the race, with Maurault second, and Hay, of the M.A.A.A. third. The time was 6 and 9 3-5.

There was a great outburst of music just before the final of the one hundred yards.

There were about a dozen drum and bugle bands distributed amongst the spectators on the grand stand, and when they all started to play at once, the result may be imagined.

The race was a very close one. Laforce, of the Nationals, came first. J. A. Platt, of the M.A.A.A., came second; and T. R. Egan, of the M.A.A.A., third. Billy Armstrong was looking after the M.A.A.A. boys, and their time, 14 4-5, was good.

The three-mile race which followed was a long affair, but the assembled snowshoers created a good deal of fun with the impromptu wrestling-match and all sorts of funny play.

Bessette, of the Huron Snowshoe Club,, dropped out with pain in his stomach, but Gales, who used to run for the Gordons, kept right on to the end, although he was lapped by Fabre and hopelessly out of the race. This pluck however gained him universal sympathy. Fabre also lapped Lefebvre, who came in second, and won by about a quarter of a mile in 22.38.

The 220 and 880 were both closely contested races.

Egan of the M.A.A.A., came again second on the 220 with Laforce of the Nationals first.

In the 880 the M.A.A.A. got second again with J. H. Mackay, and Hebert was the lucky man to get first for which he had to run very hard. The time for the 220 was 33 4-5; for the 880 it was 2.56.

The M.A.A.A. won their first race in the 120 hurdle. It was an exciting contest, and Laforce, of the Nationals, was a strong contender, but fell at the third hurdle. J. A. Platt came first, and T. R. Egan, second. The time was 20 seconds.

The special gold medal, presented by the Corporation of Montreal for the best performance at the meet, was awarded to Henri Hebert, of the Nationals.

The special gold medal, presented by the Nationals for the best performance by a member of the Nationals Club, was won by Mr. Laforce.

The last real race was the 440 yards. This was a well contested one from start to finish. Henri Hebert, of the National won. Mackay, of the M. A. A. A. came second, and A. Hebert, of the National third.

The very last race was one for the officials, which was won by Mr. Arthur Lamalice, a past president of the snowshoe union.

Mr. Gordon Bowie, another past president, fell when near the finish. Mr. A. Descelles, hon. secretary of the union, came third, and Mr. Petch second.

Sporting Topics

EVER since the National Horse Show at Madison Gardens, New York, last fall, a spirited, not to say bitter, controversy has been going on among horsemen and riding experts concerning the quality of horsemanship displayed by the representatives of the different nations. There were British, Canadian, American, Dutch, Norwegian, and French officers competing in the various military classes, and generally speaking the prizes fell to the English-speaking riders. Loud protests against some of the decisions have been made by various authorities, and in the course of the discussion, some criticisms of British horsemanship have been made that would irritate anyone but an Englishman. He, however, is so calmly conscious of his superiority in all matters appertaining to the horse that he is undisturbed. The fact that he won the prizes is his answer to all objections as to his style.

The Continental Experts.

The Rider and Driver, which is the best authority, perhaps, in the United States on equitation, takes the view that the Anglo Saxons were luckier than they deserved, and that Americans, Canadians and British riders could with profit emulate the style of the Continental exponents of the art. It says that our style is, as a rule, slap dash, and that while we get there, we do so in a manner far from dignified. The Continental rider while he does not get there so promptly, fails to do so in such a charmingly graceful manner that the onlooker is likely to overlook the fact of his non-arrival, and applaud his magnificent failure. Though there is a great deal of wholesome truth in the remarks of the Rider and Driver, the fact cannot be overlooked that it is rather Anglophobe, and temperamentally inclined to decry things British, with the exception of the Hackney horse.

Mr. Gooch's Type.

Its quarrel with British saddle horse and riding standards is of long standing, and began several years ago, when the Madison Gardens show began to have Mr. Vivian Gooch over from London, England, to judge the saddle horses. Mr. Gooch went in for the British type of walk, trot and canter saddlers, leaning rather to thoroughbred stamp and would have nothing to d with either the gaited saddler type from Kentucky or the stylish harness type. The Southerners emitted several loud roars about this unpatriotic conduct of the Horse Show management, for their horses could win no prizes. Mr. Gooch, however, stuck to his type, the English one, and as he came over for a number of years, American exhibitors learned what he wanted, and were able to present it. For the last year or so, Mr. Gooch has not been coming over, and diversity of type has become about as distinguishing a feature of the New York Horse Show as of the shows at Montreal and Toronto. Indeed, exhibitors are now demanding that there be separate classes for the three sorts. This apparent digression is not without its bearing on the dispute over riding, for the walk, trot and canter type may be said to represent the one school of equitation, and the gaited, saddle horse the other.

The Foxhunter as Rider.

The British, Canadian and American officers represent the foxhunter in the show ring. The foxhunter rides to hunt, as has often been said. He does not hunt to ride. The Continental officer, if he hunted, would hunt to ride. With one the hunting is the thing, with the other the riding. So at the Horse Show, the British officer —and for this comparison, we can include the Canadian and the American with him—rides to get over the jumps. The Continental officer attempts the jumps to show how perfectly at home he is on his horse, and how beautifully trained and responsive is his horse. It must follow from this that the British riders have the better horses, and that the Continentals are the better riders. Whether it must or not, it does, and the writer gives his vote for the continental as a better rider than the Englishman, the Canadian or the American. Everyone knows that the best horses in the world are in England, and everybody therefore jumps to the conclusion that the best riders are in England too; but a "jump" of this kind knocks off the top bar.

Physical Culture for the Horse.

An agitation is now going on among riding experts in the United States, to have the American government establish a riding school that will become as famous as the Saumur school in France, the Pinerolo and Tor di Quinto in Italy, the Hanoverian school in Germany and the Vienna School of Austria. In these schools the physical culture of the horse is carried to a high art. They will make pretty nearly any sort of animal into a pleasant saddle horse. They massage pretty nearly every muscle in the horse's body and spend hours at a time in standing in front of him and gently turning his head from side to side, making his neck flexible, so that he can be guided with the slightest touch. They teach him to dance, to walk on his hind legs, to kneel down, to be guided by pressure of the legs of his rider, and at the end of a couple of years they turn him out, master of half a hundred tricks and a dozen gaits, so perfectly trained that he well deserves the name that is universally accorded him, the "high school horse." It is the good old British practise to make a slight snorting sound when the horse of the haute ecole is mentioned, for they have no use for that sort of thing in the Old Country. They teach the horse to walk, trot, canter, back and jump, and they consider his education completed. He is really in the kindergarten class.

National Styles a Horseback.

So far we have been able to refer to the British, Canadian and American officers as one. As far as military horsemanship is concerned they may be lumped together, though as a rule the Englishman will be found the best mounted. The military horsemanship of the United Kingdom may be accepted as a national horsemanship of England. It is not so with the United States and Canada, especially with the former. Speaking very generally, the man who rides in the British Isles is a fox-hunter or has been a fox-hunter, whether he happens to be an officer or a civilian. The man who rides in the United States rides in the Park. He never sees a fox or a pack of foxhounds. Why, therefore, should he ride like a foxhunter? To begin with he doesn't require the same type of horse, and it hardly need be said that styles of riding, if they are to be of any use, must vary with the conditions of the horse and the journey.

Saddle Horse Paces.

The English judge of saddle horses, being at bottom a foxhunter, has always in mind the horse that would make a good hunter, the seat that would make a good rider to hounds. He likes the thoroughbred type because thoroughbred speed and bottom are necessary for a flyer over the grass counties. The thoroughbred is not, as a rule, a good trotter. He has no fold of the knee, and does not lift his feet. Neither is the hunter, for he is either galloping after hounds, or walking and jogging home at night. The English judge, therefore, is not disposed to be a great admirer of what the average American rider most likes, namely, a good square trotter to saddle. The trot is the proper gait in the horse ridden by the man who is told to ride for exercise, since it shakes him up, gets his liver working, and the chafing of his clothes tends to gently massage his skin and induce perspiration. So, since the great majority of American riders are not foxhunters, but gentlemen who are in need of exercise, they maintain, with some justice, that their ideals in horses and horsemanship are not represented by the average English judge rider.

The Speed Fetich.

They may not want to go the lengths of the high school horses of the Continent. They have neither the time nor the inclination to train their horses until they fit into each other's physical and mental peculiarities as a foot fits into an old shoe; nor have they any particular liking for the Kentucky saddle horse—the "head and tail" horse, as his critics call him. Speed they demand, for it is the national fetich of the United States, and they also have a hankering for style too. A peacocky sort of horse, that lifts his feet up high, and can trot ten or twelve miles an hour suits them. If he canters high, and is a trifle straight in the shoulder and short in the neck, they are not too particular. At the present time therefore, there are three distinct styles of horses and horsemanship clamoring for recognition as the national American type—the military slap dash school, the Kentucky saddle school, and the liver complaint school. It is likely to be twenty years before the question is finally settled.

CHILD DEAD WIFE MAY DIE FROM A BLOW

Husband Held on Charge of Aggravated Assault

Doctor Notifies Recorder That Unborn Babe Was Killed by Father's Cruelty.

Striking his 16-year-old wife with his fists, and kicking her, thereby causing the death of her unborn child and leaving the mother in a precarious condition, are allegations against William Gervais, 19 St. Timothee street, who is now behind police station bars.

In addition Gervais is accused of having assaulted Constable Maisonneuve and of having almost chewed the policeman's ear off during a fight on Craig street last August. Those various charges against him culminated in the accused's arrest last night and his appearance in court this morning.

Dr. Gauthier, of 818 Craig street east who attended the young wife after the death of the child, says that she may die at any moment. The doctor whose to the Recorder this morning, stating that the husband's cruelty had undoubtedly led to the infant's death.

After his fight with the policeman on Craig street, Gervais escaped from the city, two of his companions, Chaffours and Mury, who had also assaulted the policeman while performing an arrest, being captured at the time.

It was on returning in safety to the city last month that Gervais is alleged to have assaulted his girl-wife. The police had meanwhile been looking for him and when complaints of his cruelty were made last night, he was arrested in his home by Constables Gagnon and Beauchamp.

This morning, there was a pathetic scene in the police court when the weeping sister of the dying wife appeared to give details of the complaint to Judge Leet. The husband was sent back to the cell to be brought out again next Wednesday when Constable Maisonneuve, with the masticated ear, will appear to give evidence against him in the Recorder's Court. On Thursday, a preliminary investigation will be held on the charge of committing aggravated assault against his wife.

Dynamite Runs Among Shipping

Barge With Ten Tons of Explosive Aboard Breaks From Moorings in New York Harbor.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, February 6.—The crews of a dozen tramp steamships are rejoicing to-day over their miraculous escape from being blown into eternity when the barge V. L. and D. Company, carrying from seven to ten tons of dynamite, broke from her mooring at the powder anchorage just off the Statue of Leberty yesterday and drifted among them, pitching and rolling in the choppy waters of the harbor.

The deadly barge floated half a mile before it came among the ships. When finally it could be seen that it would bump into the British tramp steamship Hermiston, the crew, already on edge over the great disaster of a few days ago on the Communipaw water front, worked like madmen to stave off the barge.

A sigh of relief and thankfulness went up from all on board the Hermiston when, as if by a miracle, the barge careened against the ship without ensuing an explosion.

Captain Wm. Gulley, pilot of the tugboat Jas. A. Garfield, sent his boat to the rescue under full steam and at last towed the barge and her cargo to Black Tom, New Jersey.

PICK MAISONNEUVE FOR EXHIBITION IF PRICE IS CUT

Committee Suggests Change That Would Reduce Cost by $75,000.

At a meeting of the special committee of the Montreal Industrial Exhibition this morning, it was decided to call a meeting of the Board of Directors at the City Hall on Tuesday, the 14th, instant, and report in favor of the Maisonneuve site for the Exhibition, on certain conditions, the main one being that there be a reduction in the price asked for the property. At the meeting the other sites which have been under consideration will be placed before the Directors, so that the properties at Park avenue, Cote St. Michel and Longue Pointe may be considered also.

The price asked for the Maisonneuve property is at present five and eleven cents per square foot, and the members of the special committee want it reduced to five and eight cents at least, which would make a difference in the purchase amount of about $75,000.

The meeting to-day was not unanimous in favor of doing what has been decided on, the vote when taken standing six to four.

There were present at the meeting to-day:—Senator Belque, Chairman; Aldermen Lapointe, Monahan, Leclaire, Turcot, together with Messrs. A. Laporte, R. Wilson-Smith, Robert Bickerdike, T. Gauthier, and Henry Miles, the Secretary.

LETTER RECEIVED FROM MISS ARNOLD.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, February 6. "I am safe—Dorothy." This message, written in a hand exactly similar to that of the missing Dorothy Arnold, was received on a postal card to-day by Frances R. Arnold, her father.

Although he declared that he feared the card had been sent by someone as another cruel hoax, Mr. Arnold could not contain his excitement as he announced the receipt of the message, and it was easy to see he believed it was really from his daughter.

Mr. Arnold said, the card has been mailed in this city, but he refused to say from what office it had been received.

"The handwriting is just like Dorothy's," he declared.

George Hackenschmidt, "the Russian Lion," and Henry Ordemann, of Minneapolis, are matched to wrestle in Detroit, on February 14. The match will be to a finish.

INSANE SAYS COURT NO SAYS THE LADY DONT KNOW SAYS CHIEF

Case of Miss Lanctot is Worrying One Chief of Police, Two Lawyers and Three Institutions.

The case of Miss Exilda Lanctot is a most complicated one. Over it Chief Campeau is worried to death; the authorities of Longue Pointe asylum are perplexed, and the Sisters of the Good Shepherd do not know what to do. In the meantime, Miss Lanctot is not a bit jubilant because she does not know where she is at, and she is liable to be turned out at any moment, though she is claimed by Chief Campeau, the Longue Pointe Asylum authorities and the Good Shepherd Sisters.

On the 14th of January last, Miss Lanctot was taken to the central police station, and from there to Notre Dame Hospital, as the consequence of an alleged attempt at suicide.

On the certificate of Dr. J. B. Prince, who lived in the same house as Miss Lanctot, she was declared insane and ordered to be taken to the asylum of Longue Pointe.

When she was taken to the asylum Miss Lanctot sought legal advice, and Mr. J. A. E. Dion took a writ of habeas corpus and got her out of the institution, but while the case was being fought on its merits, she had to stay somewhere and the Good Shepherd Sisters looked after her. Now the Sisters of the Good Shepherd say that they have no order to keep Miss Lanctot and wish to see her out. The Grey Nuns of Longue Pointe, though they were given the care of Miss Lanctot by a judgment of Recorder Weir, were released by the writ of habeas corpus and in the meantime Chief Campeau, who must answer for the body of Miss Lanctot, is more than puzzled.

This morning the case was called in Practise Court and Chief Campeau was present to oppose the habeas corpus, but it happened that Miss Lanctot was not present, being detained by sickness, and the case was postponed to Wednesday.

Dorothy Arnold In Sanatarium

Intimate Friend of Family Declares She is Safe Near New York.

New York, February 6.—Although the family of Dorothy Arnold insist publicly that the heiress, mysteriously missing from her home, 109 East Seventy-Ninth Street, since December 12, has not been found, an intimate friend who has been associated with the world-wide hunt made the positive statement to-day that she is in a sanatorium near New York City, and will return home when the condition of her health permits.

HOUSE MATERIALS POOR SALE WAS CANCELLED.

Mr. Justice Lafontaine rendered judgment for $9,338, and cancelled the sale of a dwelling house on the ground that the building was not as represented when the sale took place.

Mr. Hans Christian Jacobson was the plaintiff and Mr. Leon Pelletier was the defendant. The claim of the plaintiff was that he had bought from the defendant a dwelling house represented to be in first class sanitary condition and a first class building. The amount of the deed was $11,000. The house was new, and very shortly after taking possession of it, the new owner had to make extensive repairs, it being found that the mortar used in the building was inferior, and the timber used was green, some of it rotten, that the woodwork split and cracked. Plaintiff spent thirteen hundred dollars on repairs. Expert evidence also demonstrated that the materials used were of the lower class and could not be accepted under the classification mentioned in the deed. Consequently the sale was cancelled, and the defendant was condemned to pay the plaintiff the amount paid, $8,000, plus what had been spent in repairs, the amount received in rent by the plaintiff to be deducted.

TORONTO PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES PROTEST.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, February 6.—A meeting of the representatives of various patriotic and other societies was held Saturday night, to discuss the proposed reciprocity agreement with the United States, the result being the adoption of a strong resolution of protest which declared the proposed agreement would be certain to have a disastrous effect on the business of the country, besides endangering our national existence.

Vegetable Growers Active.

The Toronto Vegetable Growers' Association, at a meeting held on Saturday afternoon, attended by 150 members, the largest number probably ever at a meeting of the association, adopted strong resolutions, by a unanimous standing vote, protesting against the proposed reciprocity agreement.

A delegation of 25 members, with more to be added, was appointed to go to Ottawa in conjunction with the representatives of other branches of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, the Vegetable Growers' Association of Quebec, and the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, to lay the protest before the Government.

AMERICAN LUMBERMEN FORETELL DISASTER.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Washington, DC., February 6.—The National Association of Lumber Manufacturers of the United States, through their President, Edward Hines, protested to the Ways and Means Committee to-day, against the Canadian reciprocity bill as threatening disaster to the lumber manufacturers of this country.

The gravamen of Mr. Hines's complaint was that the proposed trade agreement permits the admission into the United States, free of duty, of wood for the manufacture of wood pulp, but still excludes logs for the manufacture of lumber. He said that there are billions of feet of pine timber on the Canadian side, in close proximity to American saw mills, and that the logs can be floated down stream into American territory, but that they are excluded by prohibition of the Dominion Provincial Government.

When Mr. Hines suggested an amendment to the pending bill to include free admission of logs for the manufacture of lumber, Chairman Payne, of the Committee, suggested that any amendment of the bill means simply killing the bill.

Mr. Hines wanted the committee to wait until next Thursday to hear a delegation of lumber manufacturers from the Pacific Coast, but the committee will take up later the question of extending the hearing.

Mr. G. W. Buttz of Buttville, North Dakota, submitted a long letter to the committee arguing that reciprocity will lower the price of farm lands and depreciate farm property in the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He gently roasted Mr. J. J. Hill, of the Great Northern Railroad, for advocating reciprocity, which would be for the benefit of his railroad, but at the expense of American farmers.

Chairman Payne read a letter from a constituent in Northern New York, claiming that Canadian hay and Canadian potatoes are now flooding the United States, despite the tariff duty, and that reciprocity will hurt the farmers of the country along the border.

The malsters and barley men will be heard by the committee later in the day.

PAPER MANUFACTURERS STATE THEIR OBJECTIONS.

American manufacturers of print paper to-day laid before the Ways and Means Committee of the House their objections to the reduction of the duty on Canadian print paper, as proposed by the pending reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States.

The principal address was made by F. M. Hugo, of Watertown, N.Y. Mr. Arthur C. Hastings, of the American Pulp Paper Association, of New York, and Mr. F. J. Sensenbarner, of Wisconsin, also spoke.

Mr. Hugo argued that it was unfair to select one industry and make it pay the price of good-fellowship between the United States and Canada. He said it was proposed to give the American industry nothing in return for the sacrifice asked of it. He concluded by inquiring what had happened since the passage of the Payne-Aldrich tariff act that a reduction of duty now should be proposed.

Three protests were presented on the opening of to-day's session of the Senate against the passage of any bill in ratification of the reciprocity agreement with Canada. One protest was from the National Grange and was presented by Senator Gallinger. Another was from the American Society of Equity, in session at Indianapolis, and was presented by Senator McCumber, of North Dakota. The third, presented by Senator Nelson, came from the Commercial Club of Elbow Lake, Minn.

ENGLISH PAPERS LOOKING TO SENATE.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, February 6.—The Herald's London correspondent cables:—Incredible as it may seem, the English Unionist newspapers, which acknowledge that the ratification of the reciprocity agreement with Canada will deal a deadly blow to the Imperial Preference policy and make for the prosperity of the United States, count on the United States Senate to defeat or talk the measure to death during the present session of Congress.

This morning some Unionist newspapers, hoping that the Senate will play their game for them, call upon the members of their party in Parliament to force the issue to the front as an amendment to the address to the King.

The Morning Post appeals to the Unionists to fight the agreement to death, and says:

"If commercial union is ratified, commercial union is bound to favor the success of American continental ambitions. The United States hopes to supplant Great Britain as the centre of a great Anglo-Saxon confederation. Unless Englishmen awake they will lose the fairest heritage ever entrusted to any race."

The Standard says: "As Mr. Austen Chamberlain pointed out in his speech on Saturday at Birmingham, a nasty blow has been struck at British trade. The food supply of this country may be curtailed and its cost seriously enhanced."

Lord Northcliffe's Daily Mail, however, continues its attack on the Chamberlain food tax policy, saying it would be nonsense to expect the Dominion of Canada to decline an offer under which the Canadian farmer gets 7 1-4 pence per bushel more for his wheat from the United States than he would get from England under the Chamberlain policy.

VETERAN NAVIGATION MAN DIED THIS MORNING

Mr. Robert McEwen, who died while reading his paper this morning.

Mr. Robert McEwen, general freight and baggage agent of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co., died to-day.

Mr. McEwen was at his office on St. Paul Street as usual on Saturday. He rose this morning at his accustomed hour, but shortly afterwards complained of feeling ill. A doctor was summoned, but Mr. McEwen passed away before he arrived. Heart failure was pronounced as the cause of death.

The late Mr. McEwen was 69 years of age, and had been in the service of the R. and O. for 50 years.

He is survived by his wife, four sons and a daughter.

PALL MALL GAZETTE ON WINNIPEG'S VIEWS.

Canadian Associated Press.

London, February 6.—The Pall Mall Gazette this morning says that it is highly significant that in Winnipeg, both parties view the reciprocity agreement with growing apprehension, feeling that Canada must take "a long farewell to all her greatness," and relapse into a state of contented unprogressive provincialism, as the handmaid of the American trusts, and the contributor of the fifty-first star to the flag which will rule the continent.

The Daily Chronicle believes that whatever immediately happens, a resistless pressure of events will compel the United States to remove the tariff barriers erected on the Canadian boundary.

MR. MACMASTER HOPES AGREEMENT WILL FAIL.

Mr. Donald Macmaster, M.P., who has just returned from a visit to Canada, states that he has hopes that the reciprocity agreement will not pass. Thee result of sending produce laterally over the Canadian boundary, he declares, is certain to have a bad effect upon railway securities and other British capital invested in that nation.

The United States receives nothing for valuable concessions, but the certainty of breaking down the tariff barriers of the contiguous country, which, he declares, must inevitably hold American Imperialism, for which the most tempting prize is Canada.

German Aviator Instantly Killed

Such is the Rumor in Connection With Appointment of Major Stairs as Senior Major.

As was exclusively stated in The Star on Saturday, the Prince of Wales Fusiliers regiment had disbanded to be re-organized.

The main reason for the disbanding of this regiment is its lack of officers and qualified men.

The re-organization has already begun by the appointment of two majors whereas there has been no major for some time.

Major Henry Bertram Stairs, D.S.O., has been appointed senior major and rumor has it that he will be the commanding officer of the reorganized corps.

Major W. G. McVicar Stuart is also transferred from the Reserve of Officers to be junior major of the regiment.

This is taken as meaning that these officers will have a hand in the re-organization of the P. W. F., since they are no sooner appointed than they automatically go on the R. O. with the temporary eclipse of the battalion.

EXIT LOCKED TRAP OPEN AS FIRE BEGAN

Only Lack of a Crowd Saved Loss of Life at Picture Show

Yet Building Does Not Contravene the Law Says Inspector, Who Drafts New By-law

The fact that there were only about twenty-five people in the Wonderland moving-picture theatre, 339 St. Lawrence Boulevard, when it caught fire this morning, probably saved a serious panic with a consequent long list of dead and injured.

The performance had only just started, some twenty-five people having entered and occupied seats toward the front of the hall. Fire broke through the floor behind them, and the attendants decided that they had better escape through the rear door, which leads on to St. Dominique street. In order to do so, they had to pass through a passage so narrow that two people cannot walk abreast, and in which there was an open trap door leading to the cellar. The rear door was locked and as nobody had the key, it had to be broken open. The few people then negotiated the open trap door and escaped from the smoke filled building. Had the fire occurred later in the day, when these shows are usually full of women and children, the open trap would simply have swallowed up the first in the rush for safety.

The fire was caused by a defective furnace, and burnt its way through the basement ceiling, into the centre of the theatre. It was quickly put out by two or three streams of water when the firefighters under Sub-Chief Marin answered the alarm.

Building According to Law.

Messrs. Thomas and Barkette, the proprietors of the theatre estimate the damage at two thousand dollars. There is no insurance, either on the building or fixtures.

Building Inspector Chausse was asked after the fire, if the three foot exit at the rear of the "hall" and leading to St. Dominique street, is in conformity with the law.

He replied that under the existing by-law, it is. He added that the proprietors of the Wonderland, presented to him a few weeks ago a certificate from the Fire Underwriters that they were satisfied with the precautions taken and had issued a fire insurance policy.

Not a Theatre.

Inspector Chausse explains that according to the present law the moving picture house is classed as a hall and not as a theatre, so that the regulation which govern a theatre do not affect the moving picture houses.

"We are at present," said Mr. Chausse, "working on the new by-law in which it is likely the moving picture houses will be governed by much more severe rules than at present."

Crippen Case is Up Once More

Probate Court Called Upon to Review Evidence on Which Verdict Was Rendered.

Special to The Montreal Star.

London, February 6.— A review of the case against the late Dr. H. H. Crippen, who was executed for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, was demanded to-day by counsel for Ethel Claire Le Neve, who is seeking possession of the property willed to her by Dr. Crippen.

The issue was raised as the result of the effort of Mrs. Teresa Hunn, of Brooklyn, N. Y., half-sister of Mrs. Crippen, to defeat the will, on the ground that Dr. Crippen's crime nullified his legal right to inherit her property, which is involved in his bequest to Miss Le Neve.

Miss Le Neve's lawyers appeared in the Probate Court and entered a plea that Dr. Crippen's conviction in the Criminal Court was on such palpable hearsay evidence that it should have no legal status in the Probate Court. The presiding judge took the point under advisement for a week.

In the event of Probate Court reversal of the Criminal Court verdict being rendered, an interesting legal situation would arise.

WINDSOR STATION BUILDING OPENED TWENTY-TWO YEARS

The Windsor street station of the C. P. R., to which an important annex is now being added, was opened just 22 years ago Saturday. Mr. A. Richards, the present station attendant, was on duty at the opening, and that during the whole of the time that has since elapsed he has stuck to his post. He called out the destination of the first train out of the Windsor station. It went to Boston.

A winter carnival was being held in Montreal at the time, with an ice palace on Victoria Square. Thousands of people were that day on their way to Montreal for the occasion. A big snowstorm came, however, and they got more taste of winter than they wanted, for they were stalled some twenty or thirty miles from the city for about 24 hours.

CITY HAS BIG FORCE AT SNOW REMOVAL.

Two thousand men and twelve hundred carts are now engaged by the city to remove the snow from the streets. The city surveyor states that it will take over a week before the snow is all cleared away from the streets where there are car tracks.

FRAUD IS CHARGED.

Three Employes of Davies Company Arrested.

Charged with conspiracy to defraud the Davies Co., Ltd., of various sums of money, three employes of the company, Wm. Reilley, clerk, 907 Wellington street; Elie Leclair, agent, 279 Coleraine street, and Edmond Picard, agent, 827 Charlevoix street, were arraigned before Judge Leet this morning. Reilley pleaded guilty to the charge, while Leclair and Picard put in a plea of not guilty.

The trio were arrested yesterday by Detectives Betts and Ehlers, of the Canadian Detective Agency. It is alleged that Leclair and Picard, who acted as salesmen for the company, would take out a quantity of meat which they would dispose of, a portion of the money going into their own pockets. Reilley, who was employed as a clerk, would juggle the accounts, making it possible for them to carry on their thefts.

(From a Special Correspondent.)
New York, February 6.

AUTOMOBILISTS here are very much interested in the New York-Montreal highway, and are working hard to support the bills at Albany appropriating $1,200,000 to construct that section between Schroon Lake and Rouse's Point, and to complete other unfinished sections. The proposed road will leave New York City on the Hudsons east bank, going to Albany and Saratoga, and will reach Plattsburg by way of Schroon Lake, Elizabethtown, and Au Sable Chasm, and then on to Rouse's Point, where it will connect with the Canadian route of fifty miles into Montreal. The Canadian Government builds this last link which passes over the Victoria Bridge. Governor Dix is in favor of the bill.

There may be a big strike before Wednesday next that will tie up 22 of 24 East Side banks. The Bank Clerks' Union has ordered a walkout unless the clerks in these banks have their demand of 52 hours a week granted. The clerks complain that they have been worked too hard and that their employers will not even listen to their complaints.

* * *

A peculiar situation would arise if these clerks should walk out, as the clientele of these East Side banks is composed largely of Italians, Lithuanians, Polish and Russian Jews and it takes men of experience to handle their demands and inquiries. All of the banks involved in the possible strike are private institutions.

Theodore N. Vail, president of the great telephone trust, said to-day that he believed that telephone rate would soon be very much lower than at present. The trust has made contracts whereby telegraph wires can be used for telephone service, and Mr. Vail says that he thinks that wire communication will soon supersede letters and postal cards in the United States.

The city officials continue to line up against each other. The latest split is over the request of the New York Central to put more tracks in at Eleventh avenue and 33rd street. The central wishes to carry express matter from Spuyten Doyvil, at the northern end of the island, to a new express station at the point indicated, instead of carrying it over to Grand Central. Railroad tracks down Eleventh avenue have long been regarded as a menace to life, in certain quarters, and a bitter fight is certain.

The Board of Aldermen has the matter now in hand and Mayor Gaynor and Borough President McAneny, of Manhattan favor the proposition as they claim that permission can be given and then revoked on 60 days' notice.

President Mitchell, of the Board of Aldermen, is opposed, and so is Borough President Miller, of the Bronx. It is said that a bill is being prepared at Albany to give the Central the track rights and that it will soon be introduced in the Legislature. Determined opposition is also coming from residents on Riverside Drive, who are clamoring for the removal of the present tracks, and who say that more tracks would only add to the discomfort produced by whistles, bells, smoke, escaping steam, grinding wheels and grease.

Elizabeth Schwerer, 20 years old, a trained nurse, of No. 418 Avenue C, West, Flatbush, Brooklyn, has made a peculiar yet natural request of the New York public. She has always lived with Mrs. Esther Schwerer, whose husband disappeared from their home at No. 73 14th Street, Brooklyn, several years ago. Four years ago, Mrs. Schwerer was ill and told the girl that she was not her own mother, but had only adopted her. She died later without revealing the secret, and now the nurse wishes to find out who she is. She has found that she was left at the Schwerer house bundled up in a shawl in 1891. She was baptized as Mrs. Schwerer's daughter, put in a Foundling Hospital until she was 5 years old—but can not find out any more about herself than that.

POINTED REVOLVER FIRED TO FRIGHTEN

Elzear Bougie Tells Court it Was a Joke Not a Hold-up.

After pointing a revolver at Frank Moskovitch and demanding his money, Elzear Bougie became frightened because of the number of persons attracted by Moskovitch's cries and ran off, first firing a couple of shots to warn the chase and was afterwards found in a dark cellar, a revolver with three cartridges loaded being in his pocket.

It was a joke Bougie explained to Judge Leet to-day when arraigned on a charge of attempting to rob with violence. He entered a plea of not guilty and was remanded until Thursday.

Moskovitch stated before the court that he was collecting money near the corner of St. Ambroise and Delinette streets, and when he reached the sidewalk a man came across the road, pointing a revolver, demanded that he should give up his roll.

"I had in my possession at the time about $200," said Moskovitch. "I grabbed the desperado's revolver and shouted at the top of my voice: Police! Murder! Help! Help! The man wrenched the revolver from my grasp, throwing me down, and ran off, firing two shots."

Captain Masse, of the St. Henri police station, was notified and sent Constables Boudry, Desjardins and Legault to the scene.

Bougie told the constable that he thought the man was his brother-in-law and just wanted to frighten him, but when he found out his grave mistake, he at once started to run and only fired the shots at the ground in the hope of frightening off his pursuers, so that he could escape.

Two years ago, Mr. F. Polmie, paymaster of the Colonial Bleaching Co., was held up at the same corner, where Moskovitch was attacked, and a valise containing $4,000 was taken.

PROTEST FROM PULPIT STIRS QUEBEC CITY

Rev. Canon Scott Delivers Vehement Denunciation on Reciprocity

"If Measure Were Passed, Canada Would be Lost."

Appeal to All to Save Canada as a Nation "For Ourselves, Our Children, and God."

Special Staff Correspondence.

Quebec, February 6.— The Rev. Canon Scott, rector of St. Matthew's Church, delivered a striking sermon last night before a large congregation in emphatic denunciation of the Canadian-United States reciprocity proposals which are to be brought up for consideration in the House of Commons this week.

"I declare to you," the preacher said, "and I say it with a sense of the awful responsibility that it involves, that if this measure is passed, I am a humiliated and shamed Canadian. I have lost the country which I thought was mine. I belong to a nation which, in the very beginning of its life, has sold its stewardship for gold.

"And, if I can say that of myself, it can be said of each one of you. It is not a question of this party or that

"FATE OF CANADA HANGS IN BALANCE."

"There are times of crisis in the national life when the usual reticence of the pulpit with reference to things political must be broken, when the people must be roused to the danger of some course of action, the far-reaching effects of which impinge upon the liberties, ideals, morals and manhood of the people. Such a time is the present. The fate of Canada hangs in the balance. In a fortnight, or a month, her destiny for all future time will be fixed. There will be no recall. It behoves us then, it behooves everyone who loves Canada, to whom the very name Canada is music and inspiration, to weigh well the merits of the issue, so recently and unexpectedly sprung upon the country.

Were this to be the last sermon I should ever preach from this sacred spot, my voice would be raised tonight in the warning that should come from every preacher's lips that this step which we are invited to take at this time is one which leads inevitably to the denationalizing of Canada and its final absorption in the American union.

It is not my part, nor my intention, to go into the details of party politics. With them I have no concern. The measure, we are told by those who have introduced it, is not a party question. It is a matter for Canadians to decide themselves. As a Canadian, therefore, to Canadians, I wish to bring before you to-night the social, moral and religious issues involved."

RESPONSIBLE TO THE FUTURE GENERATION.

"Let us look at the facts. We, a small community of some eight millions of people, find ourselves in possession of a territory so vast and so rich in grain-producing and mineral wealth, and so advantageously situated between the oceans that wash Europe and Asia, that of all the lands on the globe it offers the most hopeful area on which to build up a great nation. We are told that a hundred million people could make their homes in the North-West.

This territory is put into our hands by God. Such a stupendous privilege involves stupendous responsibilities. By the law of national entail, this land belongs not merely to us but to our children after us. Then, we must remember that God has not merely put into our hands a tract and district of the earth, but has entrusted into our hands along with it the nation that is to be. We have it in our hands to mould the character and life of the great and powerful nation which, we trust, will one day reign in peace and righteousness, where now we are laying the broad foundations of the future. We cannot refuse our stewardship. We cannot deny it, and thank God, we cannot sell it, and we must answer, not once, in the dim future, but continually, day by day, at the bar of the great God of nations, as to how far we are striving to discharge it.

"'The mills of God grind slowly,

AGREEMENT MEANS DISRUPTION OF CANADA.

"The question is, how are we to guard them? We are to guard them by maintaining a sharp line of division between us and other peoples. If we sink our sense of individual nationhood beneath a commercial cosmopolitanism, we shall suffer a dethroning of our manhood. I am perfectly willing to grant that under the proposed political change, some people, some areas, some enterprises, would reap swift and incredible wealth. A man who breaks the entail and disposes of possessions which he holds in trust for his children, will no doubt accumulate riches. But the Nemesis will come. So will it come with us.

"But I am not here to night to discuss the commercial aspect of the case. That can be done, and is being done, by our financiers and Boards of Trade. A far more awful thing is at stake than even the depletion of our forests and the closing of our factories. It is that weakening of the sense of individual nationhood of which I have spoken. It is in fact, nothing less than the disruption of Canada. Surely there is a limit to national greed. Surely the phenomenal prosperity of Canada under our present conditions ought to satisfy us. We are building a nation and we are building it in our own way, and according to our own ideals. Another and mightier nation, more than ten times greater and richer than we, says to us: 'Throw in your lot with us, and we will work together, and we will help you with our wealth to build more quickly and more successfully; but you will build according to our ideals and at the dictates of our interests.'

"Small, but proud; small, but with high ideals; small, but with firm laws; small, but with guarded marriage and home life; small, but with the inspiring hope before us of a great future; small, but with a sense of the awful charge which God has put into our hands, we make answer once and for all, 'Our stewardship is not for sale.'

Who Sees Much Peril to Canada in the Reciprocity Agreement.

RECIPROCITY DEBATE DRAWING NEAR

Momentous Issues

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, February 6.—There seems to be little doubt this morning that the Taft-Fielding agreement will be produced by the House of Commons after a protracted debate. Neither party is a unit on the question, but the Liberal party feel bound by party exigencies, as it stand by what is regarded as a party measure. Many of the Liberal members however, would be delighted if some accident to the future of Congress to ratify should upset the agreement from going into effect. The fear is often upon the Canadian sentiment in their constituencies, and do not relish the idea of facing the first elections with this policy to explain.

There is some talk of the agreement being passed by the Commons and then delayed in the Senate pending final action at Washington. If Sir Wilfrid should wish this, it will be done although it is not properly a measure with which the Senate has much to do—being concerned with the tariff. The Senate, however, might take the view that it is in reality a revolution in our national programme, affecting our political as well as our commercial relations, and that therefore it is their duty to give it the most careful consideration.

An old parliamentary hand reminded your correspondent on Saturday that it was a habit of Sir John Macdonald's to get the Senate to do things which, for any reason, he did not think wise to have done by his majority in the Commons. More than one bill he permitted to pass the Commons with flying colors, only to be held up in the Senate.

Now if Sir Wilfrid Laurier should have come privately to the opinion that this agreement should not at all events be accepted at Ottawa until Washington has attached its final signatures, he might adopt the tactics of his great predecessor. He could allow it to pass the Commons, thus saving the faces of his two Ministers; and then secure delay in the Upper House.

The friends of the agreement among the Liberals are arguing that it will please more people than it will displease. The farmers are expected to be its best friends. They, it is contended, will in many cases find an immediate increase in the prices they get for their produce although many farming constituencies are writing to Ottawa, "Our prices are high; better leave well enough alone."

Urban Liberals are not impressed by argument of higher price for grain products. They point out that the value of farm produce cannot go up without increasing the cost of living to their constituents, and they recall that it was precisely such an effort which defeated the Republicans at the recent Congressional elections and made President Taft so eager to get reciprocity. Moreover, it is claimed by some that in time things will shake down on this Continent to much the old basis, and the farmers will lose the advantage they will get at first.

But the views of the members are becoming sensibly tinged with the higher national view. They are inclined—as the opening of the debate draws near to see more in the pact than a trade exchange. One city member predicted to-day that the city for which he sits will cease its present marvellous growth almost at once, and that it may be expected to lose ground from that time on. It is the blow at our railway development, at our custom of trading with our own people, at our settled policy of developing our "home market" both for the farmer and the manufacturer, that these men fear. They are not thinking of a few cents this way or that on the day following the coming of the agreement into force, but of its long effects upon the trade policy of the country.

There seems to be little doubt that the "first blood" will be for the agreement. It will carry the Commons, and, if it comes into effect, it will profit more people than it will injure. But even a half decade will not reverse the story. Then the effects upon which the American bargainers calculate will begin to show. To-day, it looks as if they were giving us their market in farm products for very little, but eventually we will see the price they confidently expect to get. It will be nothing more than our fiscal independence; and with that will go all the best parts of the industrial nation which we have tried to build up.

A re-arrangement of officials is announced on the Central Vermont branch of the Grand Trunk, consequent on the continued illness of Mr. E. Soule, the superintendent at St. Albans, Vt. Mr. J. Keefe has been appointed the acting superintendent. Mr. S. E. McKenney will act as trainmaster for the northern division of the Central Vermont, vice Mr. Keefe, and Mr. Guy Prentice will be acting terminal trainmaster, vice Mr. McKenney.

LONG SAULT DAM UP AT WASHINGTON WILL BE OPPOSED

Canadian Interests Will be Represented Before Banking and Commercial Committee.

Local interests opposed to the damming of the Long Sault Rapids by the Aluminum Company of the United States were highly indignant to-day over a despatch from Washington to the effect that the promoters of the bill before Congress were representing that Canadian opposition to the project had been withdrawn.

To refute the statement several organizations will send representatives to Washington to appear before the Committee on Banking and Commerce of the United States Senate next week, when Wednesday consider the bill. Arrangements were being made yesterday. Mr. John Kennedy, consulting engineer of the Harbor Commission and Major David Seath, secretary, go to Washington to present the opposition of the board.

Mr. Thomas Robb, representing the Shipping Federation, and Mr. J. A. O'Donahoe, of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company, will also appear in opposition to the bill to dam the Long Sault. In addition to these representatives, there will in all probability be engaged a leading lawyer to act as counsel to the Canadian delegation.

DRIVEN INTO NIGHT AND COLD BY FIRE WHICH THREATENED TO BE FATAL

Driven out by fire and smoke two children and mother and father had to withstand the cold temperature of last night in their night-clothes when fire broke out in the barber shop of H. Croll, 154 Dorchester street east, at 1.10 o'clock this morning. The fire started under a counter in the barber shop, and before it was discovered had made its way along the wall to the ceiling. The family overhead were almost asphyxiated and barely managed to make their way to the street when the firemen under District Chief Mann arrived, when the fire was extinguished and the occupants of the floor above allowed to go back to their damaged quarters chilled severely.

NAMES REMAIN ON LIST DESPITE A COMPLAINT.

The Board of Revisers met at the City Hall to-day, and went over the electoral lists in St. Louis and St. Lawrence wards. The Board took an important action upon a written request that fifty names be struck off the lists in St. Lawrence ward. It was stated in the request that women were illegally being given votes, while there were names on the lists of persons who were dead. The Board allowed all the names to remain on the lists because the person who complained had not complied with the law and stated that to his "personal knowledge," the names had been wrongfully entered.

INVITES MONTREAL TO HOUSING CONVENTION.

Mr. Henry Vivian, M.P., of London, Eng., has sent a communication to Mr. Lighthall, of this city, asking that the civic officials be communicated with and asked to send a delegation to a gathering that is to be held in London, in June next, to discuss the problem of modern city building, and housing of the poor. Mr. Lighthall referred to the letter to Mayor Guerin, and the latter will lay it before the City Council.

TEWNTY THOUSAND SIGN GOOD ROADS PETITION.

The petition to Sir Lomer Gouin to provide increased subsidy throughout the province for the maintenance of roads, and to assist the counties by furnishing road building machinery and supervision, has been signed by twenty thousand men. There are two thousand officials of villages, towns and cities interested who are taking a personal interest in the movement.

BOURKE COCHRAN WILL SPEAK HERE.

Mayor Guerin returned from New York to-day and said that he has succeeded in getting a promise, from Mr. Bourke Cochran, to speak at the annual dinner of St. Patrick's Society on St. Patrick's night. The Mayor also stated that it was most likely the Governor-General would also be present.

SWEPT HOT ASHES UNDER THE SIDEWALK.

The habit of sweeping hot coals under the sidewalk proved an unsafe practice to Mrs. M. Hercoux, of 1252 St. Urbain street, whose home was damaged Saturday afternoon by fire, resulting from the hot ashes thus disposed of. By the time the firemen arrived, however, the inmates of the house had succeeded in extinguishing the flames with buckets of water.

CAUGHT THEM NAPPING.

Morality Squad Made Big Haul on Saturday Afternoon.

Saturday was a busy day for the Morality Squad. In the space of about five minutes, Inspector O'Keefe, Constable St. George and Lieutenant Charland with five men apiece, raided numbers 72, 74 and 76 Cadieux street, on Saturday afternoon, and took thirty three prisoners fifteen men and eighteen girls. A raid in the afternoon was entirely unexpected.

FATHER STOLE PARROT.

The mystery surrounding the visit of a parrot in charge of Detective Laberge to the Police Court on Friday was cleared up this morning when Detective Laberge appeared before Judge Lecavalier with Pierre Ouillet, who pleaded guilty to stealing the parrot from his daughter. Ouillet was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

The parrot was not present in Court this morning because it had contracted cold during its previous outing to the Court House.

No Smallpox in City.

The City Medical Health Officer, Dr. Laberge, emphatically denied today the rumor that had appeared in an outside paper that there was smallpox in Montreal. "There is not a case of the disease in the city," he said, and there has not been a case for a year.

No Fear of Bubonic.

"I do not consider that there is the slightest danger of the bubonic plague spreading from far eastern countries to Montreal," said Dr. Laberge to-day. "Montreal has a climate not favorable for the disease."

MR. J. A. CLARKE DIES IN CAR AT WINDSOR STATION

Failed to Rally From Effect of Stroke Received in Ottawa.

Mr. John A. Clarke, who fell on the sidewalk at Ottawa, after attending the funeral of the late J. E. Schwatzenberg, ten days ago, and sustained concharge of the baggage car on which he had been conveyed from Ottawa.

Mrs. Clarke was anxious that her husband should be brought to Montreal, if possible, and yesterday it was decided to remove him. Vice-President McNicoll sent his private car to Ottawa for the purpose, and on this Mr. Clarke was brought to the city. Mrs. Clarke, their son-in-law, S. H. Deane of Toronto, Dr. England, A. S. Maynard, of the C.P.R. purchasing department, and a nurse, accompanied Mr. Clarke on the journey. Before Montreal was reached it was realized that Mr. Clarke was sinking. He was not removed from the car after its arrival in the city, and he died at 8.30 p.m.

Mr. Clarke, who was 61 years of age, was a native of New York. He joined the C.P.R. purchasing department as accountant. Two years ago he was promoted from the position of chief accountant to that of railway purchasing agent. He was a prominent Freemason, and a great lover of sports. He was one of the founders of the Montreal Eastern League Baseball Club.

The body will probably be taken to Peekskill, N.Y., for interment. There will be a funeral service in Montreal, conducted by Rev. Dr. Jordan, of the American Presbyterian Church.

SUPERINTENDENT SCANLAN RECEIVES NICE GIFT.

Mr. Jerry Scanlan, superintendent of the Western division of the City Road Department, had a pleasant surprise on Saturday evening. About 200 employes of his division called at his house at the corner of Charlevoix and Grand Trunk streets, at 8.30, and having got him outside on the pretence that there was a fire, bundled him into a horseless sleigh, and dragged him like a popular hero to the Picard Hall on Charlevoix street, where to his astonishment the sleigh, together with a set of musk ox robes, and a set of harness was presented to him. This gift, it was explained, was a spontaneous demonstration of the high esteem in which Mr. Scanlan is held by the employes. The outfit, which cost $450, was subscribed for by the employes of the division, and a few outsiders.

FIREMAN IS HURT ANSWERING CALL.

In responding to a fire at 140 St. Peter street, last night, Fireman Nickel, of No. 20 fire station, slipped while sliding down the brass pole in the station, and had his leg dislocated. He was rushed to the General Hospital in Chief Tremblay's automobile.

The fire occurred at 8 o'clock and was caused by an overheated stove in H. Larocque's barber shop. Though the interior of the shop, which is situated in the Witness building, was badly damaged, the fire was prevented from spreading to the floors above.

Fell Off Roof and Escaped.

In a fall from a roof at 43 Craig street west Saturday afternoon, Emmanuel Zuckerman, aged 40, escaped with general bruises and a shaking up by landing in a deep snow pile. He was engaged in shovelling snow off the roof when he slipped and slid off, falling to the street.

Why I Lost My Job

Reasons Why Thousands Like Me Cannot Satisfy Their Employers.

"I believe my fate is not unlike that of thousands of other workers who daily lose their places for reasons they do not know, and probably would not believe. When their last pay envelope comes along, it is usually, 'Your services no longer required.' If the truth were known the reason for their unceremonious removal would probably be that their usefulness was destroyed because of some mental worry, bodily ailment or general indisposition. These things, as we all know, are the most fruitful causes of failure in all walks of life. The battle of Waterloo was lost because of a headache. In this quick age our minds must be clear, rapid, active and free from outside influence or worry, or else we go down to failure with the throng of "floaters" who go from one place of employment to another, giving no satisfaction to others or to themselves, constantly growing older and less useful, with no ambition, no will power and no hope.

Every man requires from every other man the best that is in him. But no man can use or get the best that is in himself until he is first free from all fretful indisposition and worries.

That was my trouble. I was full of troubles. That's why I lost my job. My stomach in the first place was always out of order, and I was worrying about it and my mind grew cloudy, and slow. I made mistakes, and grew grouchy. That was the end.

There are thousands like me, going about with "quick lunch" faces, dyspeptic manners, and repulsive atmospheres. No employer wants such men's services.

Take my advice. A healthy stomach is half the battle, for it keeps your mind clear, and your face rosy. I have a healthy stomach now, and hold a good position, and my employer is satisfied and so am I.

I started to take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets which I was told were good for the worst cases of indigestion and dyspepsia. The first two tablets made a wonderful difference in my condition.

One ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digests 3,000 grains of food. The stomach doesn't have to work at all. The Tablets do all the work, no matter how heavy your meal.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure brash, eructations, burning sensations, bloat, irritations, loss of appetite, nausea, heartburn, lack of energy, loss of memory and dyspepsia and indigestion in their very worst forms.

No other little tablets in the world can do so much. You should carry them around with you wherever you go and take them regularly after meals. Then you will realize what it is to be freed from stomach torment, and have a clear mind, a quick memory, a happy disposition, comfort and rest. Get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store for 50c a package.

Send in your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

ANOTHER CIVIL WAR IN PORTUGAL IS NOT UNLIKELY

(Written Specially for The Star.)

It looks as though that succession of revolutions is ready at an end. One disaffection after another has been threatening to involve not Lisbon only but the whole country in civil war. The people had a very mistaken idea of the promised Republic; they have now tried it and it is becoming more generally felt that a Republic suits them no better than a monarchy. Disturbances occurred in the beginning to mark the difficulty of the task which the Provisional Government undertook, but everyone gave credit to the shrewdness of Costa, and the great power, Machiavelli and Talleyrand rolled into one, which these men combined in themselves. But Costa is not Machiavelli, but Costa is Costa, and the people have now had a good deal of stretch on the bit of rein stretch them for the first time, Costa has already failed them as far as they will go.

There are two great points around which the whole of the present quarrel rages. First is the high-handed measures of the Provisional Government. In November almost every class of workmen was on strike, motormen and conductors, cutters, quarrymen, third farm laborers, etc. etc. The managers declined all negotiations on the question of increased wages. A dissolution was threatened there and then and the strikers were reckoning on the support of both soldiers and sailors, but we had not as yet reached anything. Nothing short of a "reign of terror" was expected when Costa came to the rescue and asked the men to defer their demands for six months, until things were in working order again. They complied. Since then in the last week of November, an act came into force, through the instrumentality of this self-same Costa, forbidding all strikes, which had not obtained the express permission of the Government. The act was received by the people with that silent rage which has been so ominous of future calamity. Hardly a protest was uttered, but it is set down in their memories for the day of reckoning.

Another very high-handed measure of the Provisional Government has been the deferring of the elections which were fixed for January 1. Somehow or other the Government are shunning the elections and although the people are demanding them they have been deferred till March and the latest news tells us that they are now not to come off until April. Such things are gradually exasperating the people; some day the elastic will snap.

The second great point in dispute is the Disestablishment of the Church. It was to come off on December 24 but so great was the opposition made that the decision was deferred. In fact, the Catholic body here is stronger than people suspected, and it is determined to have its own way.

Republican Spirit Dying Out.

It is remarked that the Republican spirit is already dying out. Many who before the Revolution were ardent Republicans are now Monarchists, and even Costa himself is getting sick of the whole business. The truth is that the Republic has experienced many reverses of fortune in the last two months. The first National Holiday was to be December 1st, to celebrate Liberty Day. All the principal streets were decorated, hand-stands and flag staffs were erected. The monument of Liberty on the Avenida was decked with lamps and the Avenida itself was filled with thousands of electric fairy lamps. But it rained so hard the whole day that the affair was a complete failure. Following close upon this came the refusal of the Crown judges to act under the Republic's jurisdiction. They held their appointment, they said, under Royal authority only, and they consented to act only as the judges of the King in his absence.

Accordingly a large number of state prisoners, among whom were J. Franco and the Marquis of Pombal were liberated from all the fines and penalties they had incurred at the hands of the Republic. Those judges are now in Lisbon. Then Costa had some disagreement with Machado do Santos, an Admiral of the fleet, and the greatest hero of the Revolution. It was Machado do Santos and Koulnko, who held the Revolutionists to their guns, when all their officers had abandoned the attempt as fruitless. He is at present a popular man and any quarrel between him and the leading spirit of the Republic augurs badly for the future. But "the head and front of his offending" seems to be the liberality which Costa displayed in putting his friends into office, the only condition being that they are able to read and write. On December 27th a furious mob attacked Costa's house with the intention of venting their rage upon the person of the hapless Minister. Fortunately for himself Costa was not at home. Things came to a crisis on December 30th, when it was rumored that the people were about to revolt against the Government. But the Government showed itself equal to the occasion. The police were armed, and even the untrustworthy Municipal Guards received back their rifles. Soldiers were called in from the surrounding country. Even the hour of the revolt had been ascertained, and the troops were instructed to hold themselves in readiness for an attack at six p.m. The Revolutionists were forced to give up their plans for the present. But it is well known the people are not satisfied. It was almost certain that the year "1910" would witness another fight in Lisbon.

Departure of Fleet.

Much suspicion was aroused by the mysterious departure of the fleet from the Tagus, and rumors were rife spread about, no doubt, by scheming Monarchists (as Machado would say), that the Government thought their absence to be more desirable than their presence. This gave rise to much speculation, and the whole affair has called forth a defence from the pen of Machado. His excuse is certainly true. All the battleships have left the Tagus on urgent business. But we have no doubt that if no urgent business had summoned them away, some other such convenient place would rid the Government of their dangerous presence. Moreover Machado declares that the men on board went out willingly and without any persuasion, with which statement we beg to differ. In Macao, the Portuguese colony in China, some disturbance was caused by the refusal of the Governor and the people to hoist the Republican colors. The Don Carlos, 2nd class cruiser, was ordered out to enforce obedience. But the men and officers refused, and obstinately refused to undertake the mission. It was not until Braga personally asked them as a special favor, and backed his request with extra wages for the men, that they could be prevailed upon to leave the river. The same persuasion had to be used in the case of the boats ordered to sail to Madeira to give medical assistance there.

But much has been spread about by Monarchists, which has really no foundation. We get the most alarming reports every two or three days, much to the disgrace of certain Monarchists, who ought to have fought for their opinion in the beginning with more obstinacy, or at least with that zeal which they now use to impede all attempts of the Government to restore peace. Certainly no good will come of it.

EARL GREY'S COUSIN DEAD.

Mr. George Grey Died as Result of Lions's Mauling.

Nairobi, British East Africa, February 6.—George Grey, a brother of Sir Edward Grey, the British Minister of Foreign Affairs, and cousin of His Excellency, Earl Grey, died at the hospital to which he was removed following his encounter with a lion last Tuesday.

Mr. Grey, with several companions, was stalking the lions near the Athi river, when he separated from the others and was suddenly set upon by a large beast. He was badly wounded before his friends could come to his rescue.

Dolphus Drouillard's Body Found.

Windsor, Ont., February 6.—The body of Dolphus Drouillard, the River Canard farmer, who has been missing since December 5 last, was found Saturday, at the end of the Government fish hatchery pier, in the Detroit River at Sandwich. A gash in his head and the absence of his gold watch, and $100 in cash, which he was known to have had, lead police to believe that Drouillard was knocked down, robbed, and thrown into the river. He was a widower, with six small children.

VANCOUVER HEARINGS END.

Chinese Inquiry Will Resume at Victoria To-morrow.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Vancouver, B. C., February 6. The closing session of the Chinese Commission in this city Saturday was devoted largely to evidence concerning the political side of the investigation. The chief witness was Mr. George Macdonald, member of the Liberal executive, who dealt with the Templeman-Foster incident, and with the action taken by the executive in regard to the appointment of a new interpreter to succeed Yip On.

It was stated that no party funds had ever accrued to the Liberal executive here from Chinese sources. Under cross-examination by counsel for Yip On, Mr. Macdonald said that the Liberal party in this city had no funds at all, and had, in fact, been in debt for four or five years.

And Left Room In Morning Not Knowing He Was Dead.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Regina, Sask., February 6.—Mr. George W. Frederickson, a barber, of Prince Albert, was found Saturday morning sitting dead in a chair in a bedroom of a rooming house over the Regina cafe. A farmer, who shared the room with him, went to bed before he did, and slept through the night, unconscious of the fact that a dead man was also occupant of his room.

When he woke in the morning, he observed his room-mate crouched in a chair, and on paying for his lodging, told the proprietor that the other lodger had apparently spent the night in a chair. Upon the proprietor going up and getting no response from Frederickson, the police were sent for, when it was found the man was dead.

SIX DEAD IN TRAIN WRECK NEAR DRUMBO

Mogul Engine Crashed Into Passenger Train Head-On.

Shocking Details of The Catastrophe Told.

Passengers Burned to Death—Fire Followed at Once After Impact — Train Crew Were Killed.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Brantford, Ontario, February 6. Six men lost their lives on Saturday night as the result of a head-on collision between a passenger train and a Mogul engine at a point midway between Paris and Drumbo, on the Buffalo and Goderich branch of the Grand Trunk Railway. Several persons were more or less injured.

The dead are: Fireman D. J. Smith, Stratford, survived by wife and family; Engineer Richard A. Turner, Stratford, leaves wife and grown up family; Mail Clerk Wm. J. Tye, Goderich, leaves wife and growing family; D. J. Crosier, passenger, Drumbo; John A. Whitelaw, express messenger, Goderich, leaves wife and family; Peter McFarlane, Goderich, baggage man, married, but no children.

The injured: William Mac, Goderich, mail clerk assistant, badly cut; W. T. Henderson, [illegible] Brantford, injured in back; William McIntosh, customs clerk, Brantford, injured in back.

The passenger train was the regular running from Buffalo to Goderich via Brantford, passing through here at 5:55 o'clock in the evening. It pulled out of Brantford seventeen minutes late in charge of Conductor Osbrock, of Goderich. It consisted of an engine manned by Engineer Richard Turner and Fireman J. D. Smith, baggage car, smoker and one passenger coach.

FIRE BROKE OUT IMMEDIATELY.

At the moment of impact it was planned to make as rapid a run as possible in order to keep in touch with connection on the west. All proceeds well. Paris is reached a short distance ahead and the speed is increased. Suddenly, and without the slightest warning, at a dark point on the line about midway between Paris and Drumbo, there is a tremendous crash and the latter in the train were extinguished, while the wreckage caught fire and splintered in a twisted mass with a roaring roar.

When after the first periods of moments some of the survivors managed to extricate themselves, they were horrified to find that the threatened to complete the disaster, flames already having broken out in the baggage car, igniting the smoker in the rear, where seven passengers were buried in the debris, crying loudly for help.

Despite the obstacles, applied themselves to the situation as the growing flames lighted up the scene. It was [illegible] that Mogul engine crew [illegible] a crew unknown [illegible] had control began with the pass [illegible] both engines being badly [illegible] with the front end of the [illegible] the baggage and the rear end of the passenger car and the smoker was [illegible] The Mogul, which carried an engineer, fireman and pilot, was [illegible] at a fair rate from Stratford to Paris, when the collision occurred.

The passenger crew apparently did not see the approaching Mogul, possibly because they were not on the lookout as they had the right of way and were a regular train daily. Whether the Mogul crew were aware of the impending crash is unknown here as report are to the effect that the [illegible] missing and may be among the dead while the engineer and fireman leaped at the last moment just in time to save their lives, and have since been unable to give any account of themselves.

TRAIN CREW WERE KILLED OUTRIGHT.

The night was bitterly cold, and this rendered relief work very difficult. All efforts, however, by the light from the burning debris, were at once directed to recovering the dead and injured. Passengers in the rear coach escaped uninjured and heroically joined in the task. William McIntosh, Brantford, was delegated to give the alarm, running for a mile and calling at three houses before he found a telephone.

Through his efforts a special train was sent out from Goderich, reaching the scene about midnight. Medical assistance was rushed from Paris, Ont., Burt and Ingle arriving about the same time. The injured were hurriedly treated and sent to Goderich, Stratford and Paris, from which last named point the Brantfordites concerned drove home yesterday morning.

When the search was instituted all was still in the ruins of the engine and the baggage car, everyone of the crew having been killed except William May, mail clerk's assistant, who was badly crushed, but will recover.

Although considerably burned, Engineer Turner's body was recognizable when extricated. Fireman Smith's remains were terribly crushed, parts being scattered along the rails.

The upper half of Express Messenger Whitelaw's body was burned away when found. Practically nothing of the remains of Mail Clerk Tye were located, despite the fact that search was made all Sunday morning, Mayor Rastall, of Brantford, and other old friends, assisting personally.

Only a piece of the trunk of R. M. Crosier's body was discovered, it being identified by his watch, found beneath it, while close by was his large knife, which he used in his business as a turnip inspector.

Baggageman Peter McFarlane was taken from the wreckage, badly crushed and burned, and removed to Scott's farm house nearby, where he died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

TERRIBLE DETAILS OF THE CATASTROPHE.

Scenes baffling description attended the search of the wreckage. Mr. W. A. McIntosh and Chief Sadler, Henderson, both of Brantford, were seated in the smoker, bound for Stratford, only two seats away sat Mr. Crosier, one of the victims. When McIntosh recovered, after a momentary lapse into unconsciousness, he found himself buried in the wreckage of the car, but experienced little difficulty in getting out. As he was doing so he heard Mr. Henderson calling for help, and rescued him before the flames had reached the point where he was embedded in the ruins.

The two then lent assistance to others, despite the fact they were both injured in the back. They heard Mr. Crosier, whom the devouring flames were already threatening, pleading for help, but he was buried deep, and before they could get the debris away and effect a rescue he was dead.

Great difficulty was experienced in securing proper appliances with which to work, this rendering the task of uncovering the victims comparatively slow.

Apart from Messrs. Crosier, Henderson and McIntosh, the other four passengers in the smoker escaped uninjured, being near the rear of the coach. The trio named were at the end next to the baggage car, which, being partly telescoped, immediately broke into flames.

REVOLVER SHOT RANG OUT AFTER WRECK.

One incident of the search worthy of note was the discharge of a revolver in the wreckage a clear sharp report ringing out, following by the silence of death. Undoubtedly this was the revolver of express messenger Whitelaw, but whether he fired himself, committing suicide, rather than suffer the agonies of a slow death from the flames which enveloped him where he lay pinned beyond rescue, or whether it exploded as a result of the fire reaching it, will never be known, for when his body was found the upper half had been burned off.

As to the cause of the disaster, railway men are agreed that the passenger train had the clear right of way, running without orders, and that the Mogul engine, running from Stratford to Fort Erie, should have waited at Drumbo until passenger train had passed. The fact that the latter was seventeen minutes late may have been an inducement to the Mogul crew to make Paris if possible and there await it, or they may have known nothing of the passenger train whereabouts.

At any rate, it seems clear the Mogul overran its rights, and was wholly responsible for the disaster.

Other Brantford men on the train who escaped injury were George Hunt and R. Hays, the latter a Grand Trunk engineer who was going to Stratford on a visit.

Messrs. Henderson and McIntosh, while in bed, are not seriously injured, although the former appears to be suffering considerably from shock. He is a prominent K.C. and former resident of Stratford, where he was going to visit his mother when the disaster occurred.

BOOT AND SHOE MERGER.

James McCready and Ames-Holden Companies Amalgamate.

A merger of two of the largest boot and shoe interests is the latest thing in the industrial world of Montreal.

Mr. D. Lorne McGibbon announced late on Saturday that he had completed a deal whereby a controlling interest in the Jas. McCready Co., Ltd., and Ames-Holden Ltd., had been acquired and that a complete reorganization of the factories would be effected immediately. The deal was put through on a cash basis but it is probable that a number of the directors of the two concerns will fill places on the board of the new organization, which it is thought will be named Ames-Holden-McCready, Limited. The capital interested in the new venture is stated to be between three and four millions.

A complete revolution in the methods of manufacturing boots and shoes in Canada will be brought about according to Mr. McGibbon, and a determined effort be made to acquire for Canadians the boot and shoe trade of the Dominion. Two new factories will be erected in the near future in order that the American policy of specializing in the different grades will be possible. One factory will be devoted entirely to the making of goods of the highest grade, a second one for boots and shoes of a medium grade, and a third and fourth for still cheaper lines. The adoption of this policy means a decrease in the cost of manufacture and a better finished product.

Mr. McGibbon, who will in all probability become the president of the new organization, stated on Saturday that it was the hope of his associates and himself to put an end to the importation of American-made boots and shoes altogether by the employment of methods which had allowed the manufacturers of New England to get a foothold on the Canadian market.

GENERAL CRONJE, BRILLIANT BOER GENERAL, IS DEAD

GEN. PIET A. CRONJE.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Kirksdrop, Transvaal, February 6. One of the most dramatic figures of modern times passed away here on Saturday, in the person of General Piet A. Cronje, the famous Boer warrior. He has been ailing for some time past, and his death, which took place while he was surrounded by his family, was not unexpected.

During his seventy-five years of life Piet Cronje had played many parts, and achieved many notable successes, but his career fell far short of his ambitions. He was, in fact, a splendid failure. In the small group of men who dreamed the dream of a Boer Empire, swaying the destinies of South Africa and rising to a powerful position among the great nations of the world, he was a conspicuous figure. Early in life, he concentrated his energies to this end. His industrious energy and his great natural gifts for strategy found their natural outlet in military life, and he early became distinguished as a brilliant leader and an indomitable fighter, and one, moreover, who believed that almost any sacrifice was justifiable for the great ends he and his comrades had in view.

Thirsted for Prestige.

Long before the Jameson raid he had become conspicuous wherever trouble was brewing, between British and Boer, and his thirst for prestige among his own people, as a warrior and a conqueror was shown as early as 1881, when he besieged Potschefstroom, and kept its garison in ignorance of the fact that an armistice had been declared, so that he might have the glory of receiving its capitulation. Later he shone as the commander of the forces which frustrated the Jameson Raid.

But it was in the great war, which smashed so irrevocably the dream of a Boer Empire, in British Territory, that Cronje became a figure destined to rank among the great ones of history. His great abilities and consuming patriotism, allied to more than the common share of the sullen tenacity of his race, made him by far the most outstanding figure of the war. Time and again he inflicted terrible punishment upon the British troops reaching the climax with that disastrous repulse of Methuen's forces at Modder River when the Highland Brigade was cut up.

Again and again, when the news of Boer defeats in other places spread dismay among his countrymen, the news of Cronje's success would rally them again. They began to think that the great Cronje was invincible; that in the end, and despite all he would lead them to victory, and drive the great army of the proud Britishers from the continent.

But his victorious career was brought to a swift conclusion. The punishment he inflicted upon British troops was only a whip that goaded them to greater efforts. Lords Roberts and Kitchener, with a tremendous army, drawn from all parts of the British Empire, appeared upon the scene, and from the moment when they began their great sweeping movement Cronje figured only a splendid and pathetic figure in a dramatic retreat. It was the end of his career, and he knew it, but like a tiger in a net he fought to the last. His last fight in what except for artillery was an impregnable position on the Modder River at Paardeberg will rank in history as one of the bravest as well as one of the most desparing of conflicts that ever was waged.

Cronje was born about 1835, and took a leading part in the affairs of the Transvaal. In the war of 1881 he besieged Potschefstroom and received its capitulation, keeping the garison ignorant of the fact that an armistice had already been declared. He was later a member of the Transvaal Government and chief native commissioner. It was Cronje also who, in 1895, commanded the Boer forces which frustrated the Jameson raid.

At the close of the war and the subsequent annexation of South Africa to the British Empire, General Cronje was permitted to return to his old home, where he owned large areas of land.

Striking Figure in War.

The general was known as "The Lion of South Africa" and was one of the most striking figures of the South African war. He not only administered several of the most terrible defeats suffered by British forces in centuries, but also suffered the most striking distaster to the Boer forces, which heralded the close of their power when he was compelled to surrender to Field Marshal Lord Roberts at Paardeberg, an occasion famous in Canada owing to the brilliant part played by the Canadians in that engagement.

Cronje commanded the army which early in the war invested Kimberley and Mafeking and conducted the famous siege, when the latter town was so gallantly defended by General Baden-Powell with a small force of whites and blacks. Then, in November, 1899, he met the army commanded by General Methuen at the Modder River, where, with a loss of 500 men, Methuen's forces drove the Boers back. But Cronje retired to Majesfontein (generally known as Magersfontein), where Methuen's forces essayed a night attack, and met with a disastrous repulse, the Highland Brigade losing 53 officers, including General Wauchope and 650 men, while the British army had to retire to Modder river, with a loss of some 1,000 men.

Made Brilliant Records.

This was a week of uninterrupted disasters to British armies almost unequalled in history, and through all the fighting the army under Cronje made brilliant records.

But this practically ended Cronje's successes. The British were aroused to tremendous efforts. Lord Roberts and Kitchener were sent out with sufficient men to make an army of 200,000, and Lord Roberts paid Cronje the compliment of personally conducting the operations against him, with so great an army that the Boers were at once driven back. So carefully were Lord Roberts' plans laid that within a few days after he started his movement from Modder river on February 9, 1900, Cronje and his army were in full retreat. He fell back to Kimberley, where General French's cavalry division drove him farther back, raising the long siege of Kimberley.

The Lion at Bay.

The ragged and worn Boers kept up their terrible retreat, still full of fight, until Roberts, brought the South African Lion to bay at a point on the Modder river near Paardeburg, where for nine days Cronje defended himself in a position impregnable to assault, but terribly exposed to artillery attack. Cronje expected help from Natal, and the Boers from there tried to reach him, but were driven back.

An account written at the time states: "After suffering to such an extent that his men would endure no more, the brave and stubborn Cronje surrendered on February 27, 1900, and his army, reduced to about 4,000, laid down their arms."

This disaster practically broke up the Boer defences, and the close of the main part of the war came swiftly. Cronje, with his army, was transported to the island of St. Helena. The heroic old Boer was received by General Lord Roberts with all the honors of war, and was treated with much respect, his whole family accompanying him to St. Helena.

AGREEMENT MAY BE KILLED IN THE SENATE

Latest Washington Reports Indicate Likelihood of This Finale

Old Guard Fighting Hard Against Scheme.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, February 6.—The Time's Washington correspondent says.—Exactly four weeks remain of the lifetime of the present Congress, and the President's legislative programme stands almost exactly where it did when he sent in his annual Message at the beginning of the session. The House has passed on one or two of the measures President Taft advocated, and the Senate has done likewise, but so far they have not passed the same measures, and not one of the bills urged by the President has become law. In regard to these particular measures it is hard to see any brilliant signs of change in the month remaining, but at the end of a session there is always a chance that things will straighten out and that the President will get at least a part of his demands.

After the Lorimer case, the most pressing measures before the Senate are the Canadian reciprocity plan and the Tariff Board Bill. The impression was gained yesterday that the President would be satisfied with one of these measures. In that case it is a foregone conclusion that the representatives of both factions will settle on the Tariff Board Bill and pass that.

The Democrats are bitterly opposing the measure, but as they are willing to let it out of committee, it is on the floor.

The Republicans, having passed the Tariff Board Bill with a loud noise, will feel safer in letting the Canadian measure die quietly in committee. These at least are the indications today. There is still talk, however, of strenuous action by the President in support of the reciprocity measure.

THE OLD GUARD TO PUT UP STIFF FIGHT.

The Herald's Washington correspondent wires: All the artifices known to the "Old Guard" in the Senate will be resorted to during the remaining month of the life of the sixty-first Congress to defeat the Republican administration on Canadian reciprocity. Whether they will succeed or fail will depend largely on the spirit of the President and his supporters in the Senate.

For the purposes or preventing this effort to lower the price of living the Senate's "Old Guard" has selected two lines of defence. The first is the committee on Foreign Relations. The second is the Committee on Finance. When the first is down, as down it will be in a short time, the foes of reciprocity will fall back on the second. When that is down they will make a stand in the Senate in favor of killing the agreement by amendments.

It should be borne in mind that there will be only twenty-four working days in sixty-first Congress, beginning with to-day. Every day's delay counts in favor of the Opposition. Every new measure that can be interposed also will count.

HOW DELAYS ARE BEING EFFECTED.

Every speech for or against Senator Lorimer, adds so much to the time consumed. Every prolongation of debate on appropriation bills throws off the evil day when plain speaking is indulged in on the floor regarding the President's legislation for lower food prices.

Dealing with the Committee on Foreign Relations, it should be remembered that this committee deals with treaties sent by the President to the Senate. The first move of the Senate to kill this measure was to consider it a treaty.

It is true that on the first blush the Senate did send the agreement to the Finance Committee because it was not a treaty, but a revenue measure, but it then changed its mind. For all present purposes the agreement is treaty.

With owlish gravity the Committee on Foreign Relations is holding the agreement. That is part of the play. So long as public attention is not called to this bit of legerdemain, just that long can the Finance Committee plead that it has not the agreement in its possession.

NEW YORK PARSON ON RECIPROCITY PLAN.

Not only should the United States enter into a reciprocity agreement with Canada, but it should take the same step with all the countries of South America, is the opinion of Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill, pastor of the Metropolitan Temple, at Seventh avenue and Fourteenth street. His sermon yesterday morning was on establishing spiritual relations between earth and heaven, which idea he developed in a prelude on the pending agreement betwen this country and Canada.

Dr. Hill praised President Taft, and said his appeal for reciprocity should fire the enthusiasm of the nation and speedily result in such legislation as would unite in reciprocal bonds two peoples who already are linked together by language, political institutions, and geographical proximity.

HARD KNOCK FOR THE PAPER MAKERS.

The Journal of Commerce, says:—

"We are not surprised that the manufacturers of paper from wood pulp are opposing the reciprocity agreement with Canada, but have they any good reason for being afraid of competition from Canadian manufacturers, if it should be put into effect?

"It would be almost wholly a question of capital, and ability, in conducting a manufacturing industry in United States on a scale somewhere near commensurate with the requirements of its market. The advantage of Canada in the cost of material would be slight, if anything at all. If our manufacturers, with untaxed materials, cannot compete with those of the small part of Canada in which this industry exists, it is a reflection upon their enterprise, skill and capacity for efficient management.

PRESIDENT AND SECRETARY KNOX ON RECIPROCITY.

Washington, D.C., February 6.—Reciprocity will be the theme which President Taft will discuss in most of the speeches he will deliver between now and the time Congress adjourns. Secretary Knox will help along the administrations campaign of education in this direction by delivering an address on the reciprocity question at a banquet to be held in Chicago on the night of February 15 by the Association of Commerce of Chicago. Chambers of Commerce in a number of cities in the neighborhood of Chicago will participate in the banquet.

The President and Secretary Knox are thoroughly in accord in regard to the proposed reciprocity agreement. The President feels that he can have no better mouthpiece on this subject. It is possible, however, that one or more of the other Cabinet officers may make addresses on reciprocity.

Both at the Columbus, Ohio, Corn Exhibition, where the President will speak next Friday and before the Illinois Legislature on the following day, he will talke reciprocity. It is likely, also, it was stated at the White House to-day, that at the Lincoln dinner at Springfield next Saturday night he may touch upon the same topic. Attention was called to the fact that the dinner came at a most opportune time for the President to say something regarding reciprocity, which he felt it might need to help the administration measure through Congress.

NATIONAL GRANGE FOR THE FARMERS.

New York, February 6. — The machinery of the National Grange, an organization claiming membership of 1,000,000 farmers in thirty States, has been started to defeat the ratification by Congress of the Canadian reciprocity treaty. The legislative committee of the Grange, at a special meeting at the Hotel Manhattan, adopted a resolution protesting against the enactment of the Reciprocity Bill, called upon the membership to exert pressure upon Congressmen from their various districts to vote against the measure, and decided to go to Washington to map out a campaign.

Among the reasons given in the resolution are the following:

While putting farm products on the free list the reciprocity bill makes no material reduction in the high tariff rates on all the manufactured articles the farmer buys, and therefore gives no relief from the heavy burden of taxation imposed by these duties.

The theory on which our protective policy has always been defended is that al classes and itnerests are equally entitled to protection. The farmers, however, receive much less protection than the manufacturers, for while farm products are taxed on the average about 25 per cent., manufactured articles are taxed on an average about 45 per cent.

The enactment of the Canadian reciprocity bill would still further discriminate against the farmers, by abolishing the comparatively slight protection now given them, while leaving the high protective duties on manufactures practically untouched.

We hold that the farmers should receive exactly the same measure of protection as is given the manufacturers, and that there must be no reduction of duties on farm products either by reciprocity or tariff revision, unless the duties on all manufactured articles are at the same time correspondingly lowered.

THE ISSUE SUMMED UP BY MR. R. B. BENNETT.

Toronto, February 6.—Mr. R. B. Bennett, former Opposition leader in Calgary, is here, on a tour of the eastern provinces. Asked what he thought of Reciprocity: "Well, I'm against it," he said, "and anyone who remembered '91 would be against it. It simply means this, 'Do I wish to remain a British subject, or become an American subject?'"

"Well, my answer is, that I wish to remain a British subject, so I am dead against Reciprocity."

ST. CATHARINES MEN WILL JOIN PROTEST.

Special to The Montreal Star.

St. Catherines, Ont., February 6. — Addressing a meeting here, Mr. E. A. Lancaster, M.P., said it was all out of reason for the Dominion Government to sacrifice Wentworth, Welland, and Lincoln counties for the benefit of the Canadian West, because ten acres of land here are worth as much as three hundred acres in the West.

The meeting decided to send a deputation to Ottawa to join in the protest against the removal of the duty on fresh fruits to be made by the fruit growers.

The latter have decided to send several deputations into the United States northern fruit districts to get data as to markets, amount of fruit raised, etc.

It was decided that the speakers before the Government will be Mr. W. Bunting, past president of the Niagara Peninsular Association, Mr. Ed. Smith, ex-M.P. for Wentworth; Mr. D. Johnston, president of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association; and Mr. E. A. Adams, of Leamington, representing the Essex district.

AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN ON DANGER OF AGREEMENT

London, February 6. — Speaking at the Birmingham jewellers' dinner, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, M.P., dwelt upon the American-Canadian reciprocity agreement. He said:: "I believe the agreement will have the greatest effect in commercial history since the formation of the German zollverein. If it is ratified, I fear there will be a great diversion of trade that has hitherto been carried on from east to west, and west to east to north to south and south to north. Food products which have found their way to us will find a competitive and nearer market in the United States. Food prices, which have been kept low for us by the bountiful Canadian harvest may be increased by the American demand for Canadian corn (wheat).

There is also danger that the agreement will mean a great stimulus to American trade in Canada, to the detriment alike of Canadian and British manufacturers. It will not only deprive us of the advantage which Canadian imperial patriotism has hitherto afforded us, but will also expose us to a new and more eager competition from the United States. It must increase enormously America's power in the world's export trade, as well as strengthen her in regard to domestic competition."

The speaker ended by maintaining that the ratification of the agreement would only render Imperial Preference more urgent and necessary.

CANADIANS IN WASHINGTON OPPOSE BILL

Feared That Long Sault Measure May be Railroaded Through

Senate Committee Likely To Accept It—Powerful Interests Are Behind It.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Washington, D.C., February 6—Fully alive to the extraordinary efforts being made to railroad the Long Sault Bill through Congress and thoroughly appreciating the cold-blooded indifference to Canadian interests in that measure, the representatives of Dominion property owners will do everything in their power this week to present their side of the case to the American Congress.

Mr. J. Wesley Allison, of Montreal, is here, with former Congressman Charles E. Littlefield, of Maine, as attorney for the opponents of the bill, and other Canadian citizens will be on hand this week.

The status of the legislation at this time is as follows: The Long Sault Bill has been favorably reported by the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and is on the calendar of the House waiting action. In the present congested condition of legislation in the House, opportunity to take up the bill is not easily afforded. The danger is that it may be rushed through in the closing days of the session without attracting attention.

In the Senate, an identical bill has been introduced and referred to the Committee on Commerce, which will give a hearing next Wednesday. At that hearing the advocates of the bill and the opponents will each have about one hour's time in which to present their arguments.

There is danger that owing to the powerful interests pushing this bill, the Senate Committee will favorably report it. It will be comparatively easy to get the bill through the Senate, it is feared, since measures of this kind, when urged by prominent senators or a committee are not closely scanned nor scrutinized.

However, at the hearing next Wednesday the Canadian interests will present their case in the most effective manner possible and exert every effort to hold up the bill.

The advocates of the bill are relying on the powerful interests back of the project to find friends for the measure in both Houses of Congress. The bill introduced in the Senate was offered by Senator Oliver, of Pittsburg, which is the home of the Aluminum Trust and of the powerful banking corporations which are said to be behind the Long Sault project. Senator Oliver's colleague from Pennsylvania, Senator Penrose, is a member of the committee before which the bill is pending.

According to former Congressman Littlefield, who has analyzed the bill very carefully, the measure is absolutely indifferent to Canadian interests and does not require the company to deliver any horse-power on the Canadian side of the river.

There is a rumor that the Canadian Government may appeal through diplomatic channels to the American Government in protest against the legislation as violative of international comity.

There is no attempt at secrecy, as the report of the House Committee and the hearings are of public record, but the advocates of the bill have not been using any band-waggon methods in advertising their plans.

THE SMALLPOX AT MONCTON.

Two New Cases Have Developed—No Signs of Abatement.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Moncton, N. B., February 6.—Two new cases of smallpox have developed at the Bourgeois Hotel, which was placed under quarantine last week. There are no indications of the disease elsewhere in the city, though several parties who had frequented the hotel are under surveillance.

There is no abatement of the disease in Kent County, where it has been prevalent nearly all winter. The church at St. Paul has been closed, and 14 houses are under quarantine. The convent at St. Louis is still closed. There are no new cases in Albert County, and only one patient is under quarantine at present.

Big Wave Struck Steamer.

New York, February 6.—Bearing the marks of a stormy passage, the North German-Lloyd steamer Brandenburg, from Bremen, reached port Saturday. Her officers told of a tremendous sea which flooded the vessel from stem to stern on January 31, smashed ventilators, lifeboats, stanchions, bridge, and deckhouse and stove in the crow's nest, fifty feet above sea level. The lookout in the crow's nest had a narrow escape. The officers on the bridge estimate the height of the sea at sixty-five feet.

Toronto, February 6.—The first immigrant train to arrive in Toronto this year, pulled into the Union Station this morning, from St. John. The passengers were all lemigrants from the British Isles. Eighty-five of them will settle in Toronto, thirty in Hamilton, and sixty were assigned to western posts.

GOOD PROGRAMME HAS BEEN ARRANGED FOR MINING MEN

Special to The Montreal Star.

Quebec, February 6.—The Canadian Mining Institute will hold its thirteenth annual meeting in this city, on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of March, when a large number of interesting papers are expected. One series of these will be upon the asbestos industries of the world, including contributions by J. S. Diller, of the United States Geological Survey, and Professor Richardson, of Syracuse University, dealing with the asbestos deposits of the United States; a contribution from Russia, and another from South Africa. Dr. Frank D. Adams, president of the Institute, has undertaken to discuss the iron deposits of the world. Dr. A. E. Barlow, Chairman of the Commission appointed by the Quebec Government, last summer, to investigate the mining possibilities of the Chibougamou region, will give an illustrated address on the result of the expedition.

An interesting discussion is expected on the origin of petroleum, following a paper by Mr. Eugene Coste, the Canadian authority on the subject, and the debate will probably be participated in by Dr. Becker, of the United States Geological Survey, and Mr. Robert Anderson, who has important information concerning petroleum in California.

A paper on the new district of Porcupine will be presented by Mr. A. G. Burrows, of the Bureau of Mines, Ontario, and Mr. C. W. Knight, assistant provincial geologist of that province will give an illustrated address on recent underground development work at Cobalt.

The annual dinner of the Association will be held on Friday, the 3rd of March, and among other distinguished visitors at the Congress it is expected that Dr. Heinrich Ries, of Cornell University, Professor H. E. Gregory, of Syracuse University; W. R. Ingalls, editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal of New York; Dr. James Douglas, Dr. A. R. Ledoux, and Benjamin B. Lawrence, the consulting mining engineer of New York will be present.

ARCHBISHOP RYAN IS MUCH IMPROVED.

Philadelphia, February 6.—Archbishop Ryan entered upon the second week of his serious illness to-day, with his general condition unchanged. He is a little stronger after a good night, and took some solid food.

STABBED HIS LANDLORD WHEN TOLD TO VACATE.

Charles Childers, 104 Chatham st., charged with having stabbed James Shea, was brought before Judge Leet this morning and his trial set for Thursday. Constables Corbet and Lacasse, who made the arrest, found an iron bar under the pillow of the accused when they went to get him Saturday afternoon. Childers was staying with Shea and was told to vacate his room there, he refused, and in the quarrel that followed he drew a knife from his pocket and stabbed him in the chest. Childers was also brought before the Recorder charged with being drunk, he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to $3 or 15 days.

The Merrickville Church Outrage.

To the Editor of the Montreal Star:

Sir,—In your issue of the 19th inst., you report the outrages here arising from resentment to the Methodist church on account of its advocacy of local option. The gas pipes of the church were cut during service, and the failure to do serious injury found compensation by the issue of a scurrilous and indecent card mailed to the citizens and insulting leading ladies of the congregation.

Your informant declares that after candles were brought in the minister announced the old hymn, "Plunged in a gulf of dark despair, we wretched sinners lay." Now, sir, doubtless this was the fitting thing to do, but I lacked the wit to do it. In fact, since the present gasoline lighting plant was installed by our townsman, Mr. James Maclaren, who has devoted much time to it, we have had so many mishaps and eclipses that the congregation took no notice of the incident. The minister continued his sermon, and closed the service precisely in the usual way, lamps being always at hand in case of the extinction of our gas-light. The minister feels that he is hardly entitled to the reputation for ready wit which you would ascribe to him, and the only excuse for not using the hymn lies in the fact that the moral darkness described in the hymn seemed to cover those outside the church cutting its gas-pipe and mailing indecent cards, rather than those inside. But the damage to the pipe was soon repaired, and the criminal authorities may be trusted to deal with the humorous gentlemen who have sent us their greetings and extended their attentions.

Hen-Laying Records.

To the Editor of the Montreal Star:

Sir, It may be of interest to some of your readers, as laying records are the order of the day, to know what a pen of pure-bred white Wyandotte pullets have done for me in 1910. These pullets began to lay January 1, 1910, and in the year ending December 31 laid an average of 220 eggs each. At 35 cents per dozen these eggs would bring $6.41 per hen. Two years ago a pen of our B. P. Rocks averaged 218 eggs each, which we considered a high record. Up to this year our B. P. Rocks have led as heavy egg producers, but must now take place as second to the white Wyandottes.

M'CURDY MAKING BIG IMPRESSION IN CUBAN FLIGHTS

Canadian Aviator Goes Twelve Miles in Sixteen Odd Minutes—Great Crowd Assembles.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Havana, February 6.—J. A. D. McCurdy at nine o'clock yesterday morning flew from Camp Columbia to and twice around Morro Castle, a distance of twelve miles, in 16 minutes 55 1-5 seconds, in an attempt to win the Havana City Council prize, open until February 28 to all aviators. The Moisant aviators also are expected to make trials for the prize.

Yesterday's flight was the first spectacle of the kind in Havana. McCurdy was watched by nearly the whole population of Havana, lined along the Malecon, covering roof tops and other points of vantage, cheering and applauding the plucky flier.

The day was perfect. The flight to the castle was against the wind, and required more time than to return to the camp.

The Curtiss flyers, who gave exhibitions here last week, are now to fly at Cardenas, Manzanillo, Cienfuegos, Santa Clara and Sandiago.

McCurdy's flight yesterday wins a prize of $1,000 offered by the Romeo and Juliet cigar factory. This prize, and also the Havana Post's $5,000 for the Key West to Havana flight on January 30, were paid to the aviator last night during an opera performance at the Albisu theatre, the presentation speech being made by Vice-President Zayas.

HERR SINGER LAID TO REST.

Over 100,000 Participated In Socialist Leader's Funeral.

Berlin, February 6.—Deputations from all parts of Germany and from many foreign organizations, and more than 100,000 people took part in the procession at the funeral yesterday of Paul Singer, the Socialist deputy, whose death occurred on January 31. It was the greatest demonstration of the kind ever given in honor of a private citizen in Berlin. The procession took more than four hours to pass a given point. So overwhelming was the attendance that admission to the cemetery could only be had by card. The police were out in full force, but perfect order prevailed.

Herr Singer's death and Herr Bebel's practical withdrawal from political activity, through ill-health, opens up the problem as to whom the Socialists will choose as their new leader in the Reichstag.

The indications are that the leadership will go to the new school of politicians, who favor a revision of the party's creed in the direction of practical present day problems, rather than the theoretic mapping out of the condition of society in a Socialized state. Herr Dietz, deputy for Stuttgart, is prominently mentioned as the new leader.

The Value Of System

The other day several women were discussing a young married woman with three children who did absolutely all her own work, except the washing and yet never seemed overworked and kept her house and her family beautifully. "I don't know how she does it," sighed a pleasant incapable. "The explanation is quite simple," said a brisk young woman; "she has a system."

Within a few days another woman was speaking of a friend across the line. "She is a very busy woman," she said, "with many outside interests, but she does her own work, and yet seems to save plenty of time for other things." The explanation again was system.

What is this system which men use so much in their work, and which women seem to know so little of? It is the arranging and planning of work so as to get the best results with the smallest possible expenditure of energy.

An ordinary domestic in a family rarely has any system, consequently she has twice the amount of work she need do, and the results are often very poor. For instance, one often sets maids in large houses go upstairs with brush and broom and have to make a second trip for the dust-pan. Or a maid will run down a long flight of stairs to open a door and never think of carrying down a tray or waste basket which entails another trip and wasted minutes.

A woman who does her own work and uses her head to save her body has all her work planned beforehand. She begins the day by dressing for her part. The woman with system does not wear old finery in the mornings, nor soiled blouses, but has fresh, neat work suits. She has a time for starting the breakfast, a time for getting the children ready, a time for washing the dishes, a time for making the beds and sweeping and dusting. The routine of her day is all pre-arranged, and it runs as easily and smoothly as an oiled machine. And not only the routine of the day but the routine of the week. There is no haphazard ordering from grocer and butcher. The supplies are got either weekly or bi-weekly.

There is too much casual ordering among women. They telephone to their grocer and order a pound of butter. Later in the day they telephone again and order forgotten cheese. The next morning it is vanilla extract for the cake, and perhaps later in the day some other trifle. This is no exaggeration. I have seen over and over again grocer's carts going to the same residence two or three times in one day.

Lack of system! And a lack of system which is very hard on the poor horses. The same thing applies to the butchers and departmental stores. There is a steady lack of forethought. When women learn the value of system and utilize it in their daily lives and ordinary occupations there will not be the same opportunity for men to say that women are not even successful at their own calling—housekeeping and home-making.

From Our Readers

Home-Made Cold Cream.

Several readers have written and asked for a recipe for home-made cold cream and finally I came upon this in an exchange. If anyone knows a better they might kindly forward it.

As to the cheapest cold cream that can be fashioned at home, it can be made of pure leaf lard, the sort that comes in the tin for frying potatoes. Fresh lard is frequently employed for some of the emulsions that are on the market, and I have known quite a delicate little cream to be made from it in this manner:

The new lard is chosen, and it is washed in many filtered waters until at last it is as soft and feathery as whipped cream. Boiled water, chilled, may do for the washings if the other is not procurable, but the success of the cream will depend upon the faithfulness of the beating with the washing. A paddle is used as for washing butter—a silver fork will do—and for several days the lard is beaten up in fresh waters and allowed to stand over night in more. When at last it is of the delicacy required, it is drained with dry beating, and then scented with some harmless extent—put in a little china jar and set away in a cold place. With all cold creams freshness is an important point, so the moment an unguent, purchased or home-made, begins to smell rank it is no longer fit for use.

A FASHION HINT

Masses of white tulle will be distinguishing feature of many Spring hats.

SOME TRIED RECIPES

Rice and Cheese Fritters.—Heat over boiling water one cupful of cold boiled rice and add to it two tablespoonfuls of milk or cream. When it is soft, add one beaten egg and one-half cupful of grated cheese. Beat it thoroughly, and then add one tablespoonful of flour and one teaspoonful of baking-powder. Drop small portions into hot butter and fry quickly until it is a light brown on both sides. Serve very hot.

Fruits in blanc-mange border.—Put two ounces of gelatine into three pints of water, and let it boil for half an hour; then strain it into one and a half pints of cream and sweeten it. Flavor in accordance with the fruit to be used, boil up once, let it settle, and turn it into a border mould wet with cold water. When firm turn the blanc-mange out on a flat dish and heap preserved fruit in the space in the centre. Almost any preserved fruit can be used in this way.

Stuffed eggs.—Boil six eggs for twenty minutes. After taking off the shells, cut a little piece from one end of each egg, so that it will stand upright. Then cut each egg across the middle, take out the yoke and mash it smooth with a little melted butter, anchovy paste, and a dash of pepper. Stuff the eggs with this and put the two halves of each together again. Put them in a baking-dish and set in the oven for a few minutes. When they are hot pour a brown sauce over them and serve.

Cheese Pudding.—Butter a baking-dish and lay thin slices of bread on the bottom and sides. Over the bread lay slices of American cheese, season with salt and cayenne pepper, and add a pinch of baking-soda. Repeat till the dish is full, and then pour on milk enough to just cover, and grate cheese over the top. Bake it in a hot oven for about half an hour, and serve at once.

Scallops au gratin.—Boil one quart of scallops in their own liquor for two minutes, and then drain them. If there is not enough liquor to cover them, add a little water. After draining, cut them into dice and cook them for one minute more in two tablespoonfuls of melted butter seasoned with salt and paprika. Add half a cupful of bread crumbs and a cupful of soup stock. Put it into ramekins, covering the top with bread crumbs, butter, and a few drops of lemon juice. Brown them in the oven for a minute or two, and serve hot.

Olive and potato salad.—Cut up two medium-sized cold boiled potatoes, two hard-boiled eggs, and six large olives. Mix these and pour over them two table-spoonfuls of French dressing. Set on the ice for two hours, and mix with mayonaise just before serving on lettuce.

Book Chat and Anecdote

Lady John Russell.

The authors of this interesting memoir—Lady Agatha Russell and Mr. Desmond MacCarthy—have some reason in using the title Lady John Russell (Methuen), instead of the higher style, for her husband's fame was achieved as Lord John, and not as Earl Russell. The daughter of the Earl of Minto, who, as Governor-General of India, temporarily annexed Java, Lady Frances Elliot was twenty-six when she saddled Lord John Russell, her senior by twenty-three years. He had then been a Cabinet Minister for some time, and was one of the leading politicians of the day. Despite the disparity of age, the marriage, which lasted thirty-seven years, proved completely happy, and, what is more important for the sustained interest of a memoir, the scene during that long period is laid amid the most interesting political circles of this country. Among incidents of special moment upon which fresh light is thrown in this volume may be mentioned the history of the Aberdeen Ministry and the Crimean War, Lord John's breach and reconciliation with Palmerston, the second Reform Bill, and, on a larger stage, the unification of Italy, with reward to which Lord Russell's name was linked by the Italians themselves with those of Cavour and Garibaldi. But in this volume at least the personality of Lord John is subordinate to that of his wife, and this is revealed very clearly in her private letters to her sister, Lady Dunfermline. One of these, on the Republican ferment in this country in 1871, would be rather topical at the present time, and when she hopes that the British people will go on "in the wise and the right path in spite of the freaks and follies of many a man whose aims are more selfish than patriotic," she strikes a note that should be heeded at this critical juncture. There is much indeed in this memoir to impress the reader with the need of caution and restraint in effecting constitutional changes. Among the host of interesting persons whose names flash across these pages, the late Emperor Frederick claims mention because his expression of abhorrence of war was made to Lady Russell herself.

However successful stays may be in giving a woman the correct figure now, she must make provision for the future, for if she is stout and flesh is compressed under strong stays she later may find that the compression may cause muscles and cords to lose their natural elasticity and power to hold the weight of flesh, and should this happen a woman would rue the day when fashion changes, as it always does, and another shape is required for her gowns.

To obviate such possibility exercising a little without stays will do no harm, and perhaps may do a great deal of good, in that it will keep the body in muscular condition, and the more the muscles are able to do what is required of them the better.

It stands to reason, that if they are never used, and much of the time are compressed under tight stays, they will grow flabby, and with a woman of middle age once this happens it is almost impossible to overcome.

Ten minutes given in the morning to muscular work, before putting on stays is certainly worth trying. An excellent movement is to try to bend from the waist, going low, while keeping the knees straight. Under no circumstances are the knees to bend, for then there is no work done by the hips. Bending over front, back and sidewise is limbering.

Any woman who has seen skirt dancing will understand that the beautiful posing of the dancer is done entirely from the waist line, and the flexibility of muscles there enables the dancer to be graceful, and at the same time it keeps her slender.

All so-called "kicking" of professional skirt dancers is done from the hips. Women, untrained in physical culture do not begin to work the muscles and cords about their hips and waist as much as they should, and in that fact lies the cause of increasingly large figures as middle age comes on.

It is not well to try to bend from the waist while wearing long stays, and, indeed, such an effort may work harm by compressing the organs. Muscles must have room when they are to be exercised, and unless all restricting bands are removed they are better quiet.

PRACTICAL FASHIONS

New Models for Narrow Skirts.

The narrow skirt with the open box plait down the back is one of the new modifications of the original model. Many women like it better than any skirt that has been brought out. It gives fulness just where it is needed, and yet do s not disturb the modish lines. The plait as a panel has been on skirts since September. It was stitched down at its edge from waist to hem. It was as much a means of precaution at it was a fashion.

Every one thought it a good method of procuring more cloth in case the skirts suddenly grew wide. It is rather well stitched in this skirt, and the wearer knew that it could be ripped out to the lower edge of the corset at a moment's notice, and its flare could provide sufficient width.

All this was quite true, and showed forethought, but it did not remedy the tight look across the back of the skirt which has been the chief objection to the so-called hobble.

Few, if any, critics could find any real objection to the narrow foot line. What they did object to, and what was ugly and ungainly, was the narrowness of the skirt above the knees, especially across the back width.

The skirt of the day has been cut with a seam down the middle of the back. It usually consists of only two gores with seam down each side and a fastening in front. It became necessary, or so many designers thought, to make some other kind of skirt; one that would combine the narrow foot-line with a graceful fulness below the hips. The skirt with the plait is the result.

The seams at the side are rather well around toward the front, and down the back goes this single box plait about four inches wide and not caught down at its edges. It is carefully and constantly pressed, for no plait can stand its edges losing their correct crease or its inner part turning over on the outside. If a plait is not stitched down it must have every appearance of it, and the only way to do this is by a hot iron and wet cloth often applied.

There is already a new model for the spring which may or may not be accepted. Any one can tell what the designer offer, but these fashions do not become of any importance until they are accepted.

The new skirt is narrow and along the same lines as the one of to-day with the exception of a few side plaits let in just at the knee line on each side. This gives width at the hem, but it does not give more freedom to the back below the hips. The tailors say however, that they intend to cut this skirt with a much wider back than the present one, letting it fall slightly full from the corset line. Beyond this indication of a few side plaits there is no reasonable basis that skirts will be wider this spring.

One hears a good deal said these days about the problem of ordering a skirt now, yet after all it simplifies itself, for one should remember that the present fashions will remain in until thinner clothes are needed, and there has never been a time when women were sure of a January suit being in fashion the next December.

The Vogue of Ribbons.

The immediate return of the ribbon sash as an evening dress accessory, is now a foregone conclusion. The arrangement of a sash of this kind gives plenty of scope to the designer of new gowns, since it is possible to drape the wide, soft ribbons in so many different ways, and yet always to arrive at a graceful result. In several cases lately the brightly colored ribbon sashes have been draped round the hips, under two or three veilings of tulle or chiffon, and then tied with large loops at the back, and finished with long ends reaching to the hem of the skirt. Special ribbons have been prepared, by the way, for these sashes, adorned with elaborate floral designs in beautiful tapestry colorings, woven into tinsel backgrounds, which gleam and glitter with metallic threads.

For the making of many of those fascinating headdresses, which are in such high favor at the moment, swathed in the fashion of the Greek fillet, soft ribbons in satin and in silk gauze are being largely used, and with a result which is exceedingly effective. Other very becoming coiffure ornaments there are, fashioned out of gold or silver gauze, with little trails and garlands of pink roses and green leaves, made entirely in soft satin ribbon.

Complete turbans of swathed gauze, in gold, in silver, and in steel, seem likely also to be popular, finished on one side with tall aigrettes and jewelled ornaments. Other bandeaux for the hair are made in gold galon, with clusters of satin roses at intervals and sprays of maidenhair fern, jewelled with diamond dewdrops. Very effective are the little caps which are made in tinsel trellis-work, and finished on either side, almost in Japanese fashion, with clusters of roses made in satin ribbon, and finished with a little fringe of buds. Swathings of silk net are exceedingly becoming also, draped round the back of an evening coiffure, and drawn through slides of fine paste. In the daytime these elaborate head-dresses give place to draperies and fillets of similar design, carried out in soft satin ribbon.

Art of Making Bureau Covers

These days when every woman aspires to old mahogany pieces in her bedroom we see less of the ribbon-trimmed covers for bureau and chiffonier.

This is a distinct gain in hygiene, as the fewer fluffs we have in a sleeping room the better it can be kept.

Bureau covers that are meeting with favor are of fine pique, finished with a scalloped edge and cut to fit.

Every cover used in a room is made to match, whether for table, chest, or bureau. This gives a touch to a room that ready-made drawnwork and lace cannot achieve.

Choose a fine grade of pique, with not too heavy a wale, but not thin and flimsy. It is not necessary to allow for the cushion top, as it can come from the corners.

One design is adapted to all covers. It need be nothing more than a scallop with a heavily worked monogram, or initials, in the middle, or it can have a conventional decoration inside the scallop.

The most serviceable sets are worked in white mercerized cotton, the design first heavily padded in darning cotton, or the work may be done in a mercerized cotton in a shade to harmonize with the room. Do not choose too delicate a tint, as the most reliable colors will fade.

Instead of working monogram and scallop in a color it is used as an outline or edging to scallops and letters, the main work done in white. This effect is newer and more delicate than the solid tones. Old blues, Chinese red, emerald green, dull rose, or warm browns give pleasing results.

The average woman will take her sets to be stamped. First cut each cover the proper dimensions, allowing about a half inch for shrinking and enough of the edge to work the scallop easily.

Mark the spot where the monogram or initials are to go. This varies with the style of furniture. On one of the cut-up bureaus with small drawers the largest section carries the marking, the rest being provided with scallop and design.

On a straight dressing table or bureau, the marking should go across the front, so it comes in the middle of the length about an inch and a half in from the edge. Or it can go directly in the middle of the cover.

In a pincushion the marking is used on the top section only, and is put directly in the middle, whether oblong, square, or round. There must be room for scallops and eyelets if the cover is in two parts. If a double edging is liked, the under part can be cut three-quarters of an inch larger all around than the upper one, and the scallop worked so the right side shows beneath the upper line of scallops.

THE POETS' CORNER.

From "The Road To Avernus."

Surely in the great beginning God made all things good, and still
That soul-sickness men call sinning entered not without His will.
Nay our wisest have asserted that, as shade enhances light,
Evil is but good perverted, wrong is but the foil of right.

Banish sickness, then you banish joy for health to all that live.
They all sin, all good must vanish, Good being but comparative.
Sophistry! you say—yet listen: look you skyward, there 'tis known
Worlds on worlds in myriads glisten, larger, lovelier than our own.

This has been, and this shall still be, here as there, in sun or star.
These things are to be and will be, those things were to be, and are.
Add one cubit to your stature, if you can by taking thought.

In the strife twixt flesh and spirit, while you can, the spirit aid.
Should you fall, not less your merit, be not for a fall afraid,
Whatsoe'er most right, most fit is, you shall do—When all is done,
Chant th noble "Nunc Dimittis—Benedicimur," my son.

M'GILL PARLIAMENT OPPOSED RECIPROCITY WITH UNITED STATES

Members Hear Eloquent Plea From Donaldas For Woman Suffrage.

A scathing condemnation of the proposed reciprocity treaty with the United States constituted one of the most important features of the proceedings on Saturday night's session of McGill Mock Parliament.

The resolution was introduced as a non-party measure and Liberals and Conservatives alike showed their opposition to the scheme, by an overwhelming majority.

Another interesting phase of the proceedings was the hearing of a Woman Suffrage delegation, comprising mainly Royal Victoria College ladies.

At the conclusion of the debate, the House adjourned for recess, and a few minutes later heard the delegation who came to voice the claims of woman suffrage.

The leader and chief spokeswoman of the delegation, was Miss Edith L. Paterson, of the Royal Victoria College, who addressed the House at great length, setting forth the reasons why women should have the suffrage granted to them.

The right of franchise was necessary in order to elevate woman to her proper position in the social scale of the community, and enable her to discharge social responsibilities which present conditions rendered her impossible to perform.

The next delegate to espouse the cause of woman suffrage was Miss Lucy M. Howell, who eulogized Miss Pankhurst and her followers as martyrs in a just cause.

H. S. Williams, a McGill graduate, garbed in feminine attire, urged upon the House the emphatic necessity of granting equal rights to women. He was willing to wager five dollars that the militant suffragette would become more than a match physically for the normal man, and to support his bet he introduced another of the delegation as one eager to become a party to the wager. The challenge was not accepted.

In a humorous speech that convulsed the audience with laughter, Mr. Williams proceeded, and finally concluded in a most animated and excitable manner, leaving the House in a make-believe rage.

Upon the resumption of business, C. E. Babcock defended his woman suffrage bill in an impassioned speech.

J. W. Bridges also discussed the bill, dealing with women from the psychological standpoint, and speaking strongly against the bill ever becoming law.

Messrs. Weir and Clawson continued the debate, both being skeptical as to the beneficial results to be derived from it.

This brought the evening's proceedings to a close. The new cabinet is composed of the following Premier, F. F. Newcombe; Minister of Justice, J. MacNaughton; Secretary of State, M. Burke; Minister of the Interior; W. J. Pealse; Minister of Marine and Fisheries, R. M. Scrivener; Minister of Customs, H. Hemming; Minister of Finance, H. E. Herschorn; Minister of Agriculture, C. K. Church; Minister of Inland Revenue, H. A. Beckwith; Postmaster-General, A. R. W. Plimsoll; Minister of Railways and Canals, C. G. Child; Minister of Public Works, C. S. Le Mesurier; Minister of Mines and Forests, G. G. Gibbons; Minister of Trade and Commerce, E. B. Reid; Minister of Militia and Defence, H. Farthing; Minister of Labor, F. A. Clawson; Ministers without portfolio, Messrs. McGuire and Stewart.

GREET NEW CHIEF.

Commissioner Rees Welcomed by Local Salvation Army.

It was a day of rejoicing at the Salvation Army Citadel, University street, yesterday, the occasion being the welcoming of Commissioner Rees as Commander of the Salvation Army forces in the Dominion of Canada. The auditorium was crowded in the afternoon to hear an address given by the Commissioner. Controller Wanklyn presided.

Controller Wanklyn remarked that the Salvation Army has proved itself one of the most remarkable organizations of the 19th century. He told how the Salvation Army were striving daily to recover from the "human dust heap valued souls and lives," and how the Board of Control were endeavoring to recover things from the "City's dust heap." He eulogized General Booth and his remarkable work and organizations.

The Rev. Hugh Pedley also spoke of the great work done and being done by the Salvation Army.

Colonel Mapp (Toronto), also welcomed Commissioner Rees.

Commissioner Rees expressed gratification at the warm reception accorded him, and then delivered a message from General Booth, given him on his departure from the Old Country, thanking Canada from the bottom of his heart for the cordial and warm manner in which he was received when he was last in the Dominion.

The Commissioner touchingly referred to the state of health of General Booth, how the General had been operated on for cataract on the eye, how he disregarded the physicians' advice to take a complete rest of at least 4 months after the successful operation, how he only took a 4 days' rest instead and then went on his motor-car campaign through Wales, how his life was almost subsequently despaired of owing to severe inflammation of the affected eye setting in as a result of this journey, the present condition of his eyesight and the indomitable will power which has brought him back into a wonderful condition of vigor and strength, despite the several operations on the eye. He then went on his German campaign.

"Despite his great age of 82 years, the General gets through 16 or 17 hours of hard work for God and humanity daily," and hopes, D. V., to "be able to give you a stir-up in Canada and the United States next autumn."

It being the second anniversary of the Hotel Metropole and of the S. A. Prison Work, the Commissioner gave an outline of the work done by those two departments. 145,000 beds had been supplied to poor, homeless (mainly) men, 126,000 cheap, good wholesome meals had been provided, 290 meetings had been conducted for these men, which had been attended by 20,000, and 140 conversions resulted. Temporary work had been found for 6,484 men and permanent situations for 110 men.

In the Prison section of the work, 363 discharged prisoners had been met and they were given the first steps to start life afresh. Employment was found for 188 of them.

Charles Ritz, wanted at Copper Cliff, Ont., on a charge of stealing copper bullion from the Canadian Copper Company, has been located and placed in custody at Lethbridge, Sask.

OUR "SURPRISE PARTY."

The rapidly rising chorous of protests against the Taft-Fielding pact correctly reflects the mental processes of the country. Very few realized what Mr. Fielding had brought home for us when he first opened his bag. If Mr. Fielding realized it himself, he is a consummate actor; for he handed us a revolution with the manner of a man who proposes a relatively small business re-arrangement.

The country was not in the slightest degree prepared for the dynamite bomb the Finance Minister exploded. The Ministers themselves had not hinted that anything so colossal was in prospect. Our experience in previous negotiations gave us no warning. All our advices from Washington were to the effect that nothing more was to be attempted this time than a miniature object-lesson which was to persuade us to go in for real Reciprocity some time in the future.

The visit of our Ministers to Washington was, indeed, described as largely an act of politeness. President Taft wanted to negotiate, and it would have been unfriendly for us to have declined peremptorily to hear what he had to say. There could be no harm in listening to his proposition. It would be either unimportant or unworkable. At most, a lowered duty on some few articles, enlarged exchange of which would be mutually profitable, would result. There would be nothing worthy to be called Reciprocity.

The only official statements we heard were very reassuring. The manufacturers were told in set terms that their protection would not be disturbed. That, we thought, reasoning from the repeated demands of American statesmen, in the past, means that there will be practically no agreement. The Americans, we said, will not give free farm produce without getting in payment a very large share of our market for manufactured articles. They never had been willing to do so before. And if we kept our industrial protection and they kept up their duties on farm produce, what was there left worth bothering about?

But we had failed to reckon with the political necessities of the Taft Republicans. The November elections convinced them that they had to give their people free foodstuffs; and they were hunting for a plausible excuse to do so. To do this outright would have been to admit the absolute failure of their own tariff revision by this very Congress and to discredit their petted policy of Protection as far as the farmers were concerned—surely a most humiliating necessity. Under the eyes of all the people they would have gone deliberately out to "steal the clothes" of the successful Democrats before the new Democratic Congress could quite get them on. Self-stultification and bankruptcy of principle could hardly go farther.

But the Tait Roadsboans bucked about them. They are as shrewd a set of political "dodgers" as even American politics ever produced. They were not going to brand their own tariff "high" as a deformity and turn their political coats in public if they could help it. And they decided that, with the aid of Canada, they could help it. If we would go through the motions of making a bargain with them, they could abolish their tariff on foodstuffs and call it Reciprocity. So when they insisted upon Messrs. Fielding and Paterson walking into their "spider's parlor," they knew that they were going to make them an offer that no well-trained Canadian reciprocity-hunter would be likely to refuse.

We venture the assertion that no one was more surprised at the American capitulation on free farm produce than our two Canadian Ministers. Here they were to be given free farm produce and not asked for any great cut on factory produce. They must have gasped. It was against all precedent. Even Cartwright never dreamed of such a thing; and it was enough to bring Erastus Wiman back from his grave.

But Taft, Knox and Co. knew what they were doing. They were not born yesterday. They were stealing the thunder of the Democrats; they were outwitting the "Insurgents"; and they were getting a lot of favors from Canada into the bargain. As for the Democrats, their leader in Congress, Champ Clark, has made their position clear. They favor reciprocity; but they will not bother with this treaty if it be left to them; for they propose to keep their pledges and lower their tariff without it. They do not need a Canadian "bargain" as an excuse for giving their people cheaper food.

One of the incidentals that the Taft group get is a fighting chance at our forests. They have captured our first line of defence. Only the Provincial Governments remain on guard. And there will be "interests" with enormous wealth, an army of veteran lobbyists, and the whole weight of the American press behind them, working constantly, day and night, in the light and in the dark, to outwit or over-persuade those provincial guardians. Ottawa will have capitulated. Are the Provincial Capitals certain to stand?

Thus it comes that, where we thought to get no more than a "sample" of Reciprocity, we found ourselves menaced by a National Revolution. It was an entire surprice. It has taken the country days to get its breath and then to find its bearings. But it is finding them. From all sides come cries of alarm. Our people are realizing that the old peril once more confronts us. This is no mere business bargain. This is an abrupt reverse of the engines.

We are to stop building up this country on East and West lines, and follow the lines of James J. Hill. We are to stamp as foolish the Titanic efforts of the men who built railways through the wilderness from the grain fields of the West to the Canadian ports of the East, and from the manufacturing centres of the East to the prairies of the West. We are to let our canals silt up and make the enlargement of the Erie pay. We are to toss aside as worthless all the results of the long labor by which we have built up our trade with the British market, and revert once more to the American market out of which we were kicked in 1866. This time there will not be even a treaty between our tenderest feelings and the boots of our "Uncle Sam-in-law." He can kick us out whenever he likes.

Meanwhile the noble project for binding the British Empire together by commercial bonds will have been killed—and by our hand. Britain will probably have adopted Protection—with us outside the breast-works. The British farmer will be protected against our American-mixed grain. We will find no free British market to turn to. We will only have the choice of going out, when we are kicked out, to stand alone in the world, or begging to be allowed to stay in at the price of our political independence.

THE DEATH OF CRONJE.

The death of Cronje, "the Lion of the Transvaal," brings into the foreground another evidence of how completely the bitterness has disappeared from the memories of the South African war. Cronje, the Boer commander, was responsible for Paardeburg, and to many Canadian families throughout the Dominion, that anniversary is to-day celebrated with the proud sorrow which comes from a knowledge of what share Canada had in paying the price of the victory. Cronje, the captured soldier, might have spent the days of his confinement in Canada, respected, and, to a certain extent, the object of kindly sympathy. Cronje, the dead patriot, has a place in the roll of the heroes of South Africa which will not be grudged him by any of the other British peoples who send their sons to help fight out the problems that had to be solved before South Africa could proceed to the fulfilment of her destiny.

Between Cronje and De Wet there seems to have been all the difference between the South Africa of "the Great Trek" and the South Africa of to-day. Cronje could not be reconstructed; he could not read the lesson of lives bravely and willingly lost on veldt and kopje, nor hear the inevitable in the hush of peace which slowly stilled the rifles of the irreconcilables among his compatriots. To the end of his days, he remained the burgher commandant, his face set resolutely against progress and advancement, his eyes steadfast on the past, his thoughts wrapped in the traditions of his forefathers. His was a pathetic figure as are those of all men who have fought faithfully for a lost cause because it was not in them to see the weaknesses of the system they defended or to understand the compelling needs of the future they were opposing. Through no fault of theirs have they been on the losing side; they "fought the good fight" by the light that was vouchsafed them. As in Cronje's case, their one-time foes are the first to do them honor.

"HOLD-UPS" AND REVOLVERS.

Montreal has not had much trouble of late years in connection with "hold-up" men. We would have had less if the City Council had taken the time and the pains to read over and then adopt, holus bolus, the Chicago by-law which has been so effective in ridding that city of the combination of criminal and revolver which usually ends in a highway robbery and often in a murder. A "hold-up" man without a revolver is a pitiful as well as a useless object. In himself, he has generally neither wit nor courage; plus one of the modern death-dealing devices which can be bought for a very moderate price and concealed in any pocket, he becomes the embodiment of all the devilry which lurks in the six brass cartridges. We do that much for him. All that is required from him personally is a couple of dollars in cash and a spark of courage sufficient to nerve him to point his revolver at an unarmed and unsuspecting man in some dark corner of the city. Cowardice, or panic or the brute lust for blood will determine what follows: we have done our part, nature has done her's and the responsibility for what follows, so we would appear to infer, is on the shoulders of Fate. Last night, there was an attempted "hold-up" which failed because the victim adopted the excellent but unusual expedient of screaming for help at the top of his voice. This disconcerted the "hold-up" artist, who seems to have lost his presence of mind and his desire for booty. He did not lose it so completely, however, as to forget to turn and fire two shots at the crowd which was pursuing him. If either of the shots had had fatal results, we would have tried the man who fired them for murder; it would be interesting to know who should have taken action and how he would have proceeded to punish Montrealers collectively for our share of the responsibility.

TREATIES AND THE LONG SAULT.

The informal discussion in the Commons last week of the status of the Long Sault proposition, while productive of no definite result, threw a little much-needed light on a matter which has been and still is suspiciously enveloped in darkness. We know that the Long Sault rapids are capable of developing between five hundred thousand and a million horse-power; that the State of New York is willing to turn over to a private corporation her rights in the St. Lawrence at this point; and that the legislation presently before Congress is to enable this transfer to be made. What we do not know is exactly to what extent such extensive operations as will be required to develop the potentialities of the rapids will interfere with the navigation of the St. Lawrence or work harm to other purely Canadian interests which are legitimately connected with the river. Such engineers as Mr. John Kennedy, whose life-long study of the St. Lawrence makes it possible for him to speak with authority, are strongly inclined to believe that the operations will have a much more far-reaching effect than the promoters of the scheme are willing to admit is possible, and this is the sole basis on which we can hope to frame an effective protest. The existing boundary-waters treaties have as their purpose the safeguarding of the rights of both Canada and the United States. If the terms of the bill which Congress is being urged to pass with all the eloquence and arguments at the disposition of one of the wealthiest American corporations jeopardise our rightful interests, we may demand, in fact we have no option but to demand, that it be modified to conform to the exigencies of treaty obligations. In its present form there is no doubt but that it is far from doing so. The Secretary of the United States for War is hardly an acceptable arbiter of the future of the St. Lawrence route, yet in his hands, if the bill passes in its present shape, will be the determining of the size of the locks which shall be constructed at the Long Sault and, consequently, the control of the whole Upper St. Lawrence shipping trade. Mr. Physics will have to be much more than ordinarily suave and oleaginous before he can persuade any number of his fellow-legislators that this and several similar provisions are in the best interests of Canada.

U. S. Press on Reciprocity

None of England' Business, Says New York Times.

New York Times: "It is no grievance to France or Germany if perchance it shall appear, as is unlikely, that Canada and the United States transact together business in which they used to share. The argument is the same regarding England, some of whose statesmen are putting themselves in the ungracious position of contending that Canada shall not manage its business according to the best interests of Canada. Put in another way, this argument is that Canada shal sacrifice itself for the Empire. Because we are urgently desirous of improving our trade to the south as well as to the north, it does not follow that we are imperialist in our desires. The suggestion is as absurd in the one case as in the other, although the charge is made only regarding Canada. There may be a seed of disloyalty in requiring Canadians to trade at a disadvantage, but there can be only increase of attachment to a mother demonstrating her will that her child should prosper. What possible disloyalty can there be in proposing that the railway cars of both Canada and the United States may run with a better balance of loading in both directions? How can it chill relations with England to enable Canadians to purchase what they need one or two hundred miles south, instead of one or two thousand miles east or west? If loyalty is a matter of dollars and cents, what a sordid and shabby sentiment it is—and if it a pure loyalty, how little will it be affected by such considerations. The argument is a dangerous one to make because it raises the question whether Canada is primarily loyal to Canada or to the Empire, and there can be no telling what may be the fruit from the planting of such a seed. It is a double edged suggestion that the arrangement is so beneficial to Canada that it will estrange it from England. The true underlying motive of the arrangement is purely economic and differs not at all in principle from the motives which are at the base of all successful trusts."

"Will be the Making of Buffalo."

Buffalo Times (Democratic):—"Buffalo is the natural port of inlet for Canadian trade with the Middle States, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, part of Northern New England, Eastern Ohio and the Southern Atlantic seaboard.

"The map is one of the most powerful arguments for reciprocity with Canada. We wish every business man interested in this subject—and we believe that includes every intelligent business man in Buffalo—would study it with the map before him.

"Draw a line north-west from the city of Toronto to the shore of the Georgian Bay, and we have marked off a rich and populous peninsula, bounded by Lakes Ontario, Erie and Huron. Stretching south-west, this peninsula is like a wedge, which but for the intervening lakes and rivers, would be surrounded on three sides by American territory. Nowhere else on the Canadian-American frontier is there proximity of quite this kind and so abundant in facilities for easy and rapid inter-communication as here.

"The other Great Lakes cities—Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Duluth and Milwaukee—are all too far removed from Canada to assume the dominant part as ports of entrance or exportation. They will all be richer, busier, more populous, by reason of reciprocity with Canada. But the more the situation is studied, the more clearly it becomes evident that Buffalo is to play the leading transportation role.

"Reciprocity with Canada will be the making of Buffalo. Let Buffalo do everything in her power to bring about reciprocity. Strike while the iron is hot."

"Fire Under the Provinces."

New York Tribune:—"The only obstacle to complete reciprocity across the border both ways is the action of the provinces and there is a fire lighted under them. They can no longer supply cheap material (pulpwood) to American factories attracted to the Dominion by this bait, for the American duty will prevent its export. On the other hand, the supply of cheap material to American factories from private lands provides competition for the crown land product which is deprived of a market. The provincial export duty and the countervailing United States duty remain against crown land products until such time as the provinces reconsider, and then a further instalment of reciprocity will become effective. The agreement between the United States and Canada is absolute. The talk at Washington regarding obscurity and variation between the agreement and the legislation pending to give effect to it springs either from a desire that these things should be so or from ignorance regarding the facts."

Americans Unanimous Says New York Herald.

New York Herald: "The most representative trade organization in the United States is the New York Chamber of Commerce, which yesterday adopted a resolution urging upon Congress the prompt ratification of the agreement. At the same time the Board of Managers of the New York Produce Exchange adopted a resolution fully indorsing the agreement and earnestly recommending its ratification by Congress. The press of the country, regardless of partisan prejudices, reflecting public sentiment, is almost unanimously in favor of the agreement. Any amendment of the bill embodying its provisions would interpose a serious obstacle to its success and should not be permitted."

TUQUE BLUE TRAMP.

On Wednesday the veterans of the M.A.A.A. Snowshoe Club, the old "Tuque Blue," will enjoy their annual tramp over the Mountain to Lumkin's. The tramp will start from the club house at 8.15, and will go by way of Catholic cemetery, stopping, as is the custom, at the grave of "Evergreen" Hughes.

At the hotel a programme of songs will be rendered and after refreshments have been served, the party will return to the club house before disbanding.

M. A. A. A. Snowshoe Meet.

The M.A.A.A. snowshoe race meet will be held on Saturday afternoon next at the club grounds, St. Catherine street west. A complete list of events has been prepared as follows: 100 yards, 220 yards, 440 yards, 880 yards, 1 mile, 3 miles.

These events are open to all snowshoers who are registered with the Canadian Snowshoe Union. Entries close at the club house on Wednesday.

"I Remember--"

Mr. Benjamin Lamb.

"When my father had a cow grazing on St. Catherine street east, I remember quite well," says Mr. Benjamin Lamb, who is a retired baker, residing at 44 Fort street, and who will be 78 years of age next month. "We owned a pasture that extended from where St. Andre street is now, east about a block and a half. There were no houses whatever in that district. All was pasture or farm land in 1843. That section of the city was considered as far away from the city at that time as Longue Pointe Ward is at the present time.

"In my boyhood days the building where the Notre Dame Hospital is was then occupied by the soldiers, and was used as the officers' mess. The barracks were across the street, where the old Canadian Pacific Railway station was, on the south side of Notre Dame street. At nights in summer many of Montreal's 40,000 population would flock to this section of the city to hear the band. Notre Dame street was then one of the city's most aristocratic residential streets. Judge Reid lived where Sohmer Park is now.

"To experience winter now is a comparatively tame thing to what it was when I was a boy. The coldest winter I remember was when it was 41 below zero. I do not recall the exact year, but it was when I was about ten or twelve years of age. That winter the St. Lawrence was frozen over tightly, and the soldiers would snowshoe across to St. Helen's Island, where the magazine was, and where the drilling was done. Many of the soldiers had never seen snowshoes before, and they had great difficulty in managing them.

"One of the queerest things that I recall was when tomatoes were first eaten here. They were called "Love Apples," and when it was discovered that they were good for eating there was a special supper given in the Donegana Hotel, corner of Notre Dame and Bonsecours streets."

Purchase of House of Refuge.

To the Editor of The Montreal Star:

Sir,—In the interests of the taxpayers of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, I venture to ask for space in your paper for the following: The people of these counties are familiar with the fact that the Counties' Council during their last session of 1910 entered into a contract entailing a liability of a twenty year annuity of $1,200 as interest at 6 per cent. on a bequest of $20,000 for a House of Refuge. It is doubtful if the majority have endeavored to know anything more about this transaction than the mere fact. The bequest consists of $7,000 cash and a 140 acre farm, with buildings and accessories, upon which has been placed a valuation of $13,000. The question should naturally arise: Is this property actually worth $13,000? To the knowledge of the writer there is a 200 acre farm situated in one of the best farming sections of Stormont County, for which the owner is asking $12,000. This farm is nearly all under cultivation, and possesses a modern barn complete in every respect, worth at least $2,500, and a fair house, and included in the offer is a herd of cattle. Another, not far from the one in question, and containing about 100 acres, was sold for $4,000, and another of 140 acres, within eight miles of Cornwall, was sold quite recently under $6,000. With a fair allowance made for the difference in buildings and accessories, it is hard to see why this particular property should be valued at $13,000. The opinion has been passed by more than one that if it were put up for sale as a farm it would not bring more than $7,000; and that the farmer who would pay $13,000 for it would be credited with the possession of more than brains.

"The writer may be astray in his estimate, but, if he is, there are a good many intelligent farmers, who know something of the value of farm-land, astray also. To a great many who have not figured it out, it may be a surprise to know that an annuity of $1,200 for 20 years at 6 per cent. compound interest amounts to $44,142, and at 5 per cent. to $39,679. In other words, the interest alone at 6 per cent. for this period considerably more than doubles the principle, and at 5 per cent. comes within $400 of doubling it. Looking at it from a strictly business point of view, and as an investment made by the United Counties, what is the present value of this 20 year annuity? Suppose the Council wishes to settle immediately, and finally, with Mr. Craig, or suppose Mr. Craig were desirous of transferring his interest to a third party for the cash value of the deal, the amount payable according to the rules of present worth would be $16,868.80 on a 6 per cent. basis, or $14,854.68 on a basis of 5 per cent. I leave it to the judgment of the taxpayers of these Counties if the property in question is the best value that they can obtain for $15,000. Add to this obligation the increase of taxation to arise from the cost of changing the present buildings or of the erection, if necessary, of new ones, the cost of which, according to rumor, will be an expensive operation, and the general conditioning of the whole property to meet the Government standard, not to mention the cost of maintenance of such an institution, and I feel safe in saying that the Council did not get such a bargain as it would appear. Would it not be well for the Council of the current year, upon whom the onus of this unnecessary undertaking has been thrust, to feel their way before committing themselves and to consult the needs and best interests of the people, as well as the dictates of common sense?

A RATEPAYER OF STORMONT.

Cardinal Gibbons, in a sermon at Baltimore, Md., yesterday made a bitter attack upon divorce, as it exists in the United States.

THE PASSING HOUR

SO many freaks bobbing up daily and offering to contend with Mr. J. A. Johnson as "the white mans' hope" they begin to look more like the white man's burden.

WHAT can Canada do better than be a sister to us—Chicago News.

MEMBER of the New York Bar lectured on the duty of a lawyer in defending a client against a criminal charge, although knowing or believing the client to be guilty. Seems too easy. First get your fee, then declare the man insane.

WHAT shall it profit a woman if she gain the right to vote and lose the privilege of being kissed?

FORTUNE-TELLING UP-TO-DATE

George—"My dear girl, any kind of a lady would spoil that hand."

BACHELOR lawyer in Philadelphia was bequeathed, by a philanthropic friend, in addition to the management of his estate, a private hospital containing six orphan infants. Verily, everything comes to him who waits.

Assistant Manager—"What shall I do with the amount the cashier took: charge it to profit and loss?"

Manager—"No; put it down as running expenses."

ABE HUMMEL and Willie Astor both say they are British subjects. England never did anything to merit this.

Not Unusual.

I loaned a friend some months ago
A tenner, nothing loath;
And now, whene'er I think of it,
I'm sorry for us both.

His borrowing has caused a loss
To him as well as me.
For I have lost the money loaned
And he his memory.

Transvaal Tim—"What's the matter with that ostrich?"

South African Sam—"He swallowed my revolver and I low he has shooting pains in his stomach."

HE is a wise man who knows it if he cannot afford an automobile.

A MAN in New York sued a lady friend because her dog bit his leg. He was lucky; suppose she had pulled it?

Visitor—"I've just come from the Doctor's funeral, but I didn't see any of you there."

Visitor—"Oh, well, if you never go to other people's funerals I don't see how you can expect them to come to yours."—Punch.

Maudie Again.

Maud Muller on an autumn day
Was raking the falen leaves away.

The judge meandered down the walk
And stopped to make a little talk.

"Maud," said he, and his bosom heaves,
"What are you doing—raking leaves?"

"No, sir," said Maud, in accents low,
"Just at present I'm shovelling snow."

Whereupon the judge moved his feet,
And meandered onward down the street.

Then Maud winked at the cat, did she,
And said, with forced solemnity,

"Of all fool things from tongue or pen,

TO put it a little less selfishly, let us consider how much happier Canada will be when reciprocity is established.—Chicago News.

A MAN went into a store to buy some buttons, and the clerk, taking some down, displayed them to him.

"I didn't say fifty—but fifteen cents."

A TECHNICAL TERM.

Young wife—"Before I met you at Dorval, I had been amusing myself by keeping the books for a large concern. Last night I noticed you were frequently looking at your pocket account book."

Husband.—"Yes, my love. I was a little bothered about the balance."

Young wife.—"While you slept I started in to straighten out your account. Now I want to know who this person 'Kitty' is—this person who seems to be getting well paid."

SILENCE is more than gold; its radium.

English Girl—I suppose when you married Lord Duxburg your father gave you away?

This life is a burden and weary the day
When you are not near me to brighten
I never am happy unless you are nigh,
But please keep your hatpin from out

It was about an hour later that this came over the 'phone:

"I have inquired about the dog, and find that he had a very savage disposition."—Tit-Bits.

Miss Tennant in Dramatic Recital

Dramatic recitals are probably the severest form of test for any single artist's abilities. To hold an audience without the accessories of stage setting, without the adventitious aids of varying costumes, and depending alone on versatility and personal power of magnetism, is no small task. At times, indeed, it savors of the heroic. Moreover, matinee audiences are usually less amenable to influences making for enthusiasm than those which gather at night. It is therefore all the more to the credit of any artist who can secure, and retain, the undivided attention of a matinee audience by sheer power of personal appeal.

Miss Barbara Tennant is a young and singularly gifted actress. Her personality alone goes far to win her audience. She possesses the double charm of beauty and of unusual gracefulness. But these qualities alone would not carry her very far, very long. Combined with a histrionic art that is both cultured and comprehensive, however, they fascinate and delight. Miss Tennant's scope is a wide one, though it did not have an equal opportunity of demonstration in every department on Saturday afternoon, during her Windsor Hall recital. She achieved enough to show that she is capable of serious dramatic work of a high order, and she delighted many by the exquisite finish of her art in several light recitations, leaving behind an impression so favorable that hopes for her return were expressed on every hand.

Her voice is of splendid sonority, compass, and quality. Her gestures are perfect, all-expressive, never exaggerated, never conveying other than an absolutely clear significance, and invariably instinct with delicacy and grace. Her play of features is carefully restrained, but adequate, and at times of immense illuminating force. That she possesses true dramatic instinct is beyond question; that she directs it through the medium of a cleverly-controlled and polished art is equally undeniable.

Her diction alone is a delight, so smooth, clear-cut, and beautifully modulated it is. She does not adopt any eccentric chant-form for her recital-work, but relies on the direct appeal of words through the interpretative medium of dramatic expression. And in this she is wise, for the appeal is potent, and succeeds.

Her Shakespearean work cannot be judged by any matinee recital samples. Shakespeare will never be heard to the best advantage on such occasions. But this much may be said. Miss Tennant has a very true and poetic conception of the lyric qualities of such passages as Oberon's speeches to Puck from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and the Potion speech from Romeo and Juliet," and she invests these passages with a musical value and a rhythmic charm that make them vivid and vital poetry. What she could do in the role of Juliet on the stage one imagines would be well worth seeing. To her reading is instinct with the veritable spirit of romance.

On Saturday, however, she won her audience rather by the exquisite delicacy with which she interpreted the dainty phantasy of such gems as "The Birth of the Opal."—a veritable gossamer breath of poetic imagining,—and the full and frank sentiment of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's song, "My Ships." In the lightsome humor of "The Lesson with the Fan," and "The Hindu's Paradise" Miss Tennant is at her best, and her own vivid sense of humor and just appreciation of dramatic values enables her to lend to these verses just their exact significance.

She touches the depths of a pathos at once true and profound in the admirable restraint with which she delivers such verses as those of Field's "Little Boy Blue." One would like to hear her again and again in poems as simply appealing.

Altogether, Miss Tennant has every reason to be pleased with her reception in Montreal. All who heard her were delighted with this or that phase of her work, and she will be sure of a very cordial reception should she return to us at a later date.

FROM THE STAR FILES THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Major David Seath

"The annual meeting of the Young Men's Reform Association was held in the Mechanics' Hall. Mr. N. W. Trenholme occupied the chair, and Mr. J. C. McCorkill acted as secretary. The names of a large number of candidates for membership were submitted and all were elected. A short discussion arose on the propriety of making a change in the name of the association, but the debate on this subject was adjourned until next meeting. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, J. J. Maclaren; first vice-president, Robert Mackay; second vice-president, D. Barry; third vice-president, Alexander Moffat; secretary, Arch. McGoun, jr.; treasurer, David Seath. The following were elected a committee: Messrs. F. Holton, M.P., Robert Reid, Hugh Dolan, James Darling, E. W. C. Lyman, J. H. Rogers, M. Hutchinson, C. E. A. Patterson, J. G. T. Cleghorn, C. Parmelee and Dr. Munro."—From the Montreal Star, February 6th, 1881.

THE position of the Liberal party was much improved by the election. The selection of Major David Seath to such an important position as that of treasurer showed wisdom, for it must have been apparent that if the party then in the shades of opposition were to be resurrected the funds must be carefully looked after and honestly disbursed. Perhaps the careful administration of this ernest body of men helped to supply the funds to finance that most remarkable assemblage which met in Ottawa some years later, and launched their wonderful platform upon an unsuspecting and astonished public. Major Seath has done much more than fill incidental offices like the above, for among several appointments made by the present Government none redounds more to their credit than the appointment of the present secretary of the Harbor Board. His long association with Montreal has made him more or less of a directory stored with knowledge which he is always willing to impart if it will benefit his fellow man or advance the interests of the Dominion he loves so well.

"Military stores captured by the Germans at Paris, in 1870.—From a report just published it appears that at the surrender of Paris to the Germans the following war material fell into the hands of the victors, to wit: 177,000 rifles, 602 field guns, 1,200 munition waggons, 31,200 million cartridges, and 700 cwt. powder."—From The Montreal Star, February 6th, 1881.

"A deputation of gentlemen from Halifax consisting of Messrs. Stephen Tobin, Mayor of Halifax, and James McLean, J. J. Bremner, Adam Burns, F. E. McKenny and Michael Dwyer arrived at the Windsor Hotel this morning. They are seeking to make Halifax a winter port, and will petition the Government and Sir Hugh Allan to that effect. The deputation will probably leave for Ottawa this evening."—From the Montreal Star, February 6th, 1881.

"The following are the names of the Quebec Hockey Team, who play the Victoria Rink Team this evening: Messrs. C. Miller (captain), Percy Miles, Harcourt Smith, W. F. Scott, A. Colley, H. Asks and W. Swift."—From the Montreal Star, February 6th, 1881.

Porcupine's Greatest Opportunity

PEARL LAKE GOLD MINES, LIMITED

No Personal Liability.

HEAD OFFICE - - - - - - - - - - HAILEYBURY.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL - - $2,500,000

50c A SHARE

This treasury stock is being issued to provide the capital for the further development of the company's properties and to purchase additional machinery.

PEARL LAKE GOLD PROPERTIES, IN HEART OF PORCUPINE.

PROPERTIES.

The company's properties consist of four claims of about 127 acres, and are situated in what is stated by eminent engineers to be the centre of enrichment of the famous Pearl Lake District of the Porcupine Gold Fields. As may be seen by the accompanying map, these claims corner on the Timmins Mine, where development work has progressed to considerable depth, and high values are being recovered, and lie directly on to the northern boundary of the well known McIntyre claim, and are but two claims removed on the west from the Connell Veteran Claims, recently acquired by the Consolidated Goldfields of South Africa, and which are considered by eminent engineers to be among the most valuable properties in the Porcupine Gold Fields.

GOLD ON PROPERTIES.

Altogether fifty different quartz veins have been uncovered on these properties to date, many of them carrying high values in gold. The reports of the engineers included in the prospectus give full particulars regarding these discoveries.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

Mr. Norman R. Fisher, B.Sc., M.E., in his report to Mr. Burr E. Cartwright, President of the Pearl Lake Gold Mines, Limited, and also President of the Timiskaming Mining Company, says: "I was much impressed with what I saw in the surface indications of the property, and, taking into consideration the gratifying results now being obtained from development under like conditions on the adjoining Timmins property, I verily believe that further prospecting and development of these will result in the opening up of ore bodies of considerable value.

The purchase of the shares of this Company will enable the investor to share in the full growth and development of the Porcupine Camp, now regarded as one of the most promising Gold Camps of the world.

Village Swept Out Into Ocean

Helsingfors, Finland, February 6.—An entire fishing village of 253 men, which had been established on the ice outside of Bjorko Sound, was carried out to sea in a gale on Friday night.

The disaster was not discovered until morning, when the village was already out of sight.

Boats have been sent to the rescue, but have not yet returned.

MORE EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Cleveland and New Orleans Experience Earth Tremors.

Cleveland, Ohio, February 6.—The seismograph at St. Ignatius College recorded an earthquake shock last night commencing at 10.27 p.m. and ending at 11.12.

Father Odenbach, the university astronomer, stated that possibly California was the scene of the tremors.

New Orleans, La., February 6.—Rather severe earthquake shocks were recorded last night by the seismograph at Loyola College here, the vibrations continuing from 10.29 until 11 p.m., and indicating distance of the earthquake from New Orleans at about 2,000 miles westward.

POLYGAMOUS CITIES OF REFUGE.

In the February McClure's, Burton J. Hendrick, in his article on "The Mormon Revival of Polygamy," says, in speaking of the many plural marriages made since the manifesto:

"The desire for self-protection and secrecy has led to the establishment of several polygamous settlements. There are two within trolley-car distance of Salt Lake City—Forestdale and Bountiful. The polygamists sometimes maintain their 'legal families' in Salt Lake, and stow away their celestial households in one of these places. Here, likewise, they send their wives for their confinements; the Mormons themselves commonly refer to such penetralia as 'lambing-grounds.' Forestdale is the suburb of the polygamous elite. Somewhat further down in the social scale is Bountiful. This place houses one thousand people, nearly al Mormons. Its history is redolent of polygamy; one of the sights pointed out to visitors is an old cellar in which polygamists used to secrete themselves in the days of the anti-polygamy raids. Even the children now talk these things over. 'My papa's been in the pen,' a little girl was recently heard to say. 'He's got two wives, you know.' The frequent complication of names betrays the existence of polygamous households. There is a Mrs. Jones, for example, whose little girl is entered in the public school as Helen Cannon. In fact, 'Mrs. Jones' is the 'new' polygamous wife of George M. Cannon of Salt Lake City. This same Cannon has still another plural wife in Bountiful. There is a Mrs. Pierce whose child is entered under the name of Duffin.'

News of Fraternal Societies.

Noble Grand C. S. Cooper, assisted by Vice Grand Baber, on Wednesday evening, of last week, presided over a well attended meeting of Wellington Lodge, No. 20, I.O.O.F., which on that date met in Royal Bank of Canada Chambers, 942 Notre Dame street west.

Considerable routine business was transacted including reports by the visiting committee on brothers recently reported under the care of the lodge physician.

This week's meeting was also favored with good attendance, all officers being present, as well as several visitors from other lodges, among them being D.D.G.M. Winter, of New York, who entertained the lodge with an interesting address on the state of the order in that jurisdiction.

After routine business the lodge adjourned, those present participating in the euchre contest conducted by the social committee, the successful competitors being Bros. R. Williams, of Lansdowne Lodge, and W. Raymond, of Wellington, each of whom received a handsome piece of cut glass.

The next competition will take place the first meeting night in March, and a cordial invitation is extended to members of other lodges to attend.

Prince Albert Council, No. 1105, Royal Arcanum, will hold its next regular meeting on Wednesday, February 15th, when several candidates will receive initiation, it is expected. After the meeting a German supper will be provided in the banquet room of the Royal Arcanum Chambers, 92 Union avenue.

The semi-monthly meeting of Lafayette Lodge, No. 15, I.O.O.F., was held on Wednesday evening at 251 St. James street, with good attendance of members, and visitors. D.D.G.M. D. O. Smith, assisted by brothers from other city lodges, installed into office the recently elected officers and following this ceremony the initiatory degree was conferred upon three candidates.

Noble Grand Fleming presided over a largely attended meeting of The Excelsior Lodge, No. 12, I.O.O.F., which met in their hall, St. James

BIG BLIZZARD IS COMING THIS WAY FROM THE WEST

From Saskatoon to Detroit Come Report of Heavy Snowfalls—Alberta Range Cattle Starving.

Saskatoon, Sask., February 6.—A severe snowstorm, though it is thought practically over, is reported from all parts of the province as the passing of the storm in Saskatchewan and Alberta is the cause of the most complete tie-up of the isolated railway traffic. The Canadian Northern Railway seems to be hardest hit. All traffic on the division, which covers over five hundred miles, has been brought to a standstill. All trains, both passenger and freight, have been cancelled, but everything is in readiness for clearing off the tracks as soon as the storm abates. The Grand Trunk Pacific agent declares that this is the worst storm the company has experienced in the West, and he admitted that the service was so disrupted that he did not know where the trains were.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is not so badly as those of the other two railway companies, but the officers assert that they are having a hard fight with the elements and that all trains are hours late. In many places in this district snow has drifted to a depth of over ten feet, and the storm that has raged here during the last twenty-four hours has been the most severe so far this winter. Last night the wind abated somewhat.

Alberta Range Cattle Starving.

Winnipeg, February 6.—Advices from points along the border in Southern Alberta show that thousands of sheep and cattle are perishing on the Montana ranges due to a Chinook causing a thaw, and later the severe freeze-up making range feeding impossible.

Brandon Reports Another Gale.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Brandon, Man., February 6.—Another blizzard raged during the night and has added to the troubles of the railways. Considerable drifting resulted this morning in many cuts cleared out by the end of last week being filled in again.

Chicago's Traffic Laid Up.

Chicago, February 6.—Snow and sleet which accompanied last night's storm continued to-day to hamper traffic. Fully two-thirds of the elevated railway traffic. The Canadian Northern Railway seems to be hardest hit. All traffic on the division, which covers over five hundred miles, has been brought to a standstill. All trains, both passenger and freight, have been cancelled, but everything is in readiness for clearing off the tracks as soon as the storm abates. The Grand Trunk Pacific agent declares that this is the worst storm the company has experienced in the West, and he admitted that the service was so disrupted that he did not know where the trains were.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is not so badly as those of the other two railway companies, but the officers assert that they are having a hard fight with the elements and that all trains are hours late. In many places in this district snow has drifted to a depth of over ten feet, and the storm that has raged here during the last twenty-four hours has been the most severe so far this winter. Last night the wind abated somewhat.

Big Storm Hits Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, February 6.—A heavy snow and wind storm struck here early to-day. Within a comparatively short time the snow fell registered five inches. The wind blew between 35 and 40 miles an hour. According to the local weather no sleet storm will be experienced in this vicinity.

Detroit Reports Blizzard.

Detroit, Mich., February 6.—The fierce wind and snow storm which swept into Detroit at 11 o'clock last night continues to grow worse. A sixty-mile an hour gale is blowing and the fall of snow has greatly impeded street car traffic. In the business section many drifts over a foot deep cover the tracks and the storm has shown no signs of abating.

No serious damage has been wrought in the city or state, so far as can be ascertained, and telephone and telegraph communications has not been affected to any great extent up to a late hour to-day.

Niagara Peninsula Snow-Bound.

St. Catharines, Ont., February 6.—This district is in the throes of the worst blizzard experienced for many years. The country roads are blocked, electric cars many hours late, and business generally at a standstill. A thaw set in this morning, but it is impossible for postmen, bakers and others to get around.

McGill Boxing Club.

The followers of the Johnsonian art are getting into line for the great tournament which will take place early in the month of March. The fine silver cups offered for the winners in this competition naturally are a big incentive to the intending combatants.

The Faculties of Arts, Medicine, and Applied Science are well represented in the circles for the tournament. The victorious pugilists in this will measure their prowess in the Intercollegiate contest this year to be held at the McGill gymnasium on Mansfield Street. The men are putting up some real good fighting and by the way they have improved since the pleasures indulged in during the Christmas holidays, but ought to give Queen's and Varsity a hard fight for the championship. In addition to the cups offered to the winners in the McGill tournament the victors will have the privilege of wearing the little "M" on the sweaters, while those who win in the Intercollegiate will get what every college athlete at McGill wishes for, the big "M," the highest which the athletic executive can confer.

Rowing Club in Lacrosse.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, February 6.—The Toronto Rowing Club at a meeting held Saturday night, decided to enter a team in the senior series of Canadian Lacrosse Association. A strong staff of officers was elected to look after the lacrosse interests.

A trip to New York has been already arranged, and the team will play the Crescents at Bay Ridge June 24. Games are being arranged with other United States teams.

Old Rugby Player Dying.

Hamilton, Ont., February 6.—Joseph Barry, Catharine street north, one of the mainstays of the Tiger Rugby team in the days of Counsel and Dumoulin, was badly crushed at the steel plant on Saturday, being jammed between a wall and a freight car. It is thought he will die.

Racket Champions.

At the Racquet Court on Saturday the final match was played in the Senior Championships Mr. R. E. MacDougall and Andrew Wilson and Mr. F. P. Rolland and Gordon MacDougall. The result was a win for the first named pair after an exciting struggle, by four games to three.

Mr. J. K. Elrose marked the game.

APPOINTED TO FUSILIERS.

Major H. B. Stairs, who is senior major of the 1st P. W. F.

DEFEAT CABBAGE GROWERS.

Large Gate Receipt Being Feature of Match.

Over three hundred enthusiasts saw the Gaspe All-Stars trounce their opponents of the National Rink in St. Considering the softness of the ice the play was clean and brilliant throughout. Messrs. Coffin, LeMessurier and Smith shone splendid hockey for the winners, while LaFoley and LeBlanc starred for the Jersey team.

Quite a number of the supporters of the visiting team came to Montreal to see what sort of a showing their county team would make, and were satisfied with the showing of their county team.

The teams lined up as follows:

Gaspe	Jersey
Lester ..... Goal ..... W. LeRoux
Waddle ..... Point ..... Duval
Newbury ..... Cover ..... LeFoley
Dunraven ..... Rover ..... LeBlanc
Smith ..... R. wing ..... LeGrand
LeMessurier ..... L. wing ..... Vexatore
Coffin ..... Centre ..... P. LeRoche

Referee—Mr. Parry.
Timekeeper—Mr. Sinclair.
Scorers—Gaspe, LeMessurier; Jersey, Smith and Dunraven.

TOMMY BURNS RETIRES.

Injured Knee Prevents Further Fighting.

Seattle, Wash., February 6.—Tommy Burns, the heavyweight pugilist, will not fight Bill Lang in London or Australia April 17, and is out of the prize-ring for good. This was settled when Burns' injured knee was examined by a physician. The doctor said Burns would never be able to stand training. Burns sent a cablegram to Hugh McIntosh explaining the case and offering to match Jack Lester against Lang.

N. Y. Crescent Beaten.

New York, February 6.—The Cleveland hockey club, of Cleveland, Ohio, won the odd game of three with the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn at the St. Nicholas Rink, 7 to 6. It required three extra periods, lasting 26 minutes, for the deciding score. This was a goal by Poland, of Cleveland.

CARIBOU GOLDFIELDS MAY BE PROMINENT AGAIN.

There is every prospect that the old Cariboo gold fields in Central British Columbia will come into prominence again in the near future. The completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific to the heart of the Rockies next year, will put these prospecting grounds in easy reach of the outside world. Already there is a report of the discovery of the source of the placer gold which attracted so many prospectors in 1858.

Indeed the assertion is made and the news has been given wide publicity in the far West that a vein, eight feet wide, rich in gold has been discovered on the Siwash Creek, near Steamboat Mountain. The Siwash is a tributary to the Fraser River, emptying into that stream near Hope, B.C. Rich samples have already been brought out and are on exhibition at 329 Pender street, Vancouver, B.C. Mr. J. R. Carpenter and P. Reysback are given as the discoverers. Even the date of discovery is set down as November 5th, 1910.

NET CLOSES ABOUT DOCTOR PANTCHENKO IN ST. PETERSBURG

Medical Experts' Testimony Bears Out Diphtheria Injection Theory of Prosecution.

St. Petersburg, February 6.—The trial of Dr. Pantchenko and Cora De Lacy, for the murder of Count Vassili Pahlen, is continuing to-day in a crowded court room. Pantchenko specialized in the treatment of consumption by injections of tuberculin, which he claimed he obtained from Professor Koch, who discovered the cure for consumption. Count Vassili and his daughter, Countess Bonturlin.

Further details of the conclusion of the medical expert which were given in his report to Pantchenko's counsel, the Count and his daughter's fiancé, which were quoted in a cable despatch and Count Vassili's death, were read. A second distinguished surgeon, Professor Hilf, was then sworn. Professor Hilf's opinion of the case, which was couched in very colored marks from counsel for the defence, was to the effect that the poisoning was undoubtedly due to a bottle most probably distributed in error.

The last doctor looking to be an absolute diagnosis was the absence of any of spirochaetes spirs in the throat. But he was careful to say he did not believe that a search for them was useful.

Flag Stop at Westmount.

For the convenience of their Westmount patrons, the Canadian Pacific Railway has decided to make Westmount a flag stop for their train which leaves Windsor Street Station at 8.55 a.m., daily except Sunday, for passengers destined Ottawa or West.

NOTABLE CASES OF DETECTIVE BURNS.

Allen Grant Gives an Interview Related to Dana Gatlin in McClure's Magazine for February.

Upon the excitement of creating his reputation and making a fortune Mr. Burns' distinct and ardent career worth while to him. But he has had a keen appreciation of a character that he had always to deal, detail to the manager and good qualities of the man who has proved to be the opponent in the game. Every one of his stories, of course, turns on some powerful trait of human nature. Some times upon elements of character rarely to the right. Burns' understanding of the greed or ambition or weakness which is the controlling motive in his opponent is one the less important elements in his successful handling of crimes.

The first story of this series for instance, presents the strongest and subtlest appeal of the San Francisco case. Abe Ruef, that has ever been given to the public. The forces at work Burns knew that as long as the detectives stood Ruef until he knew the man as it he had made him with his own hands, and that it was Burns' knowledge of Ruef's mental processes that enabled him finally to master the boss. A French criminologist said:

"It is the tendency of every criminal to play into the hands of the man who knows him through and through. The clever criminal cannot resist an effort to find out how well his shadow understands him. He may try to keep a hand on himself, but little by little he will reveal himself to that understanding that he feels all the time about him, and that attracts him so powerfully, even though he knows his danger."

New Records in Wall Street--The Little "Nip" Fiasco--Fall in Cobalts

RAILS ARE 127 RICHELIEU UP N.Y. HIGHER

New high records were made in Wall Street to-day, pretty near the whole market getting an uplift by the bulls.

There was no special news, except that the big interests are evidently inclined to see that the market behaves it self while so many new issues are being placed on the market.

Locally there were not many price changes, a firmer trend to Toronto Railway being one of the features. The road's annual statement was well thought of.

Textile pref. again sold at par. The company has orders on hand which will keep the mills busy for some months.

Detroit was steady around 72 and 72½. The annual meeting, when the dividend will be announced, takes place to-morrow.

BUYERS AND SELLERS.

Steel buyers—Forget & Co., McCuaig & Co., Pitblado & Co., Scott & Co., R. Forget, Robinson & Co., Meredith & Co., Greenshields & Co., Brunean & Dupuis.

In Wall Street

A wire to E. & C. Randolph said: "Union was extremely prominent, reaching a new high record for the year, as did Steel common, Steel preferred, Reading, and many others. Amongst the usually less active securities, Mo. Pacific and Louisville and Nashville became prominent. Profit-taking occurred on the rise, but this was well absorbed, commission houses apparently having good buying orders in the second hour the weight of the profit-taking made itself felt, and considerable irregularity was shown, but the selling fell off as prices declined, and the character of the market remained unchanged, the only activity being on rising prices."

Sales to noon, 332,000 shares.

Elixir of Life Not Wanted By Rothschild

Special to The Montreal Star.

Paris, February 6. Instead of the usual death threat, Baron de Rothschild to-day received a letter from a crank wishing to sell him an "elixir of life," by which he might live as long as he wished.

"Dear Sir:—To date I have had only threats against my life. You are the first to offer me life everlasting. Between those who wish to cut my days short and those who wish to prolong them, I have no preference. One eventuality is as bad as the other."

STOCKS VS. WALL PAPER.

(Toronto Saturday Night)

Some people are purchasing ten cent Porcupine shares, when they might be buying wall paper and getting value for their money.

Royal Trust Company After McGill Money

The Royal Trust Company, acting as liquidator of the Ontario Bank, has placed an attachment for $191,045 on the McGill building at 908 G street, N.W., in Washington. Charles McGill, former general manager of the bank, held over 2,000 of its shares, and the double liability call with court costs just coms a the amount of the attachment.

In 1909 McGill transferred his share in the McGill building at Washington to his niece, Isabel McGill, and the action of the Trust Company is based on the law of the United States which forbids an alien holding real estate in the District of Columbia.

OPINIONS ON THE MARKET.

Hayden, Stone & Co.: As to the market in general, it would be remarkable if, after an almost continuous advance of six weeks, there were not shortly something of a reaction, but we continue of the opinion that the outlook favors the constructive side.

Oswald Bros.: The feeling in the stock market circles is bullish since the bears have not made headway of late in their attacks upon prices. Further improvement is expected before the campaign comes to a halt.

J. S. Bache: The standard stocks all show promise of higher levels.

MAY TAKE GOULD'S PLACE.

It is rumored that retiring President E. W. Winter, of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, will succeed George J. Gould as head of the Missouri Pacific.

DRAKE IS NEW DIRECTOR.

Mr. L. J. Drake has been elected a director of the Standard Oil Co., to succeed H. M. Tilford, resigned. Mr. Drake has been connected with the company for many years.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

B. M.—Dominion Textile pref. is not a gilt-edged security, but it is easily worth more than its selling price to-day. It returns a little over 7 per cent. to the investor.

F. H.—We would rather not express an opinion at the moment on the chances of Canadian Power paying a dividend within a year. If the Street Railway deal is consummated, the position of the property is at once changed for the better. 2. Western Canada Power is selling rather high just now, but has a promising future, and seems attractive to people who are willing to wait a year or more for dividends.

E.I.T.—At present it is doubtful if Dominion Steel is earning over 5 per cent., but it should do better when the new plant is in operation. It is impossible to say positively that the dividends will be continued, but the shareholders may rest assured that every effort will be made to maintain the dividend, and that it will be kept up, barring some unforeseen developments of an unfavorable character.

A. C.—Union Pacific pays 10 per cent., and as an investment is quite cheap. No doubt if you waited for a bad market you would get it at a lower figure. It dropped to 100 in the 1907 panic. It is earning 17 or 18 per cent., so that there is a safe margin over the dividend.

K.—Ordinarily, the market will not break very badly when money is cheap, and the person who uses the Bank of England rate as a guiding star cannot go very far astray. When the rate is advanced to 5 or 6 per cent., a bull position on the market is stale and unprofitable, unless stocks are then cheap and bought and put away.

BULL FACTORS HELD WHEAT AT OPENING LEVEL

Winnipeg wheat prices were steady throughout the entire session to-day, despite the decline at Chicago and the other big American markets.

The principal bull factors were the strength in the Liverpool market; spot being unchanged to ⅛c better, and futures ⅛ to ¼d higher, the smaller world's shipments, especialy from Russia, coupled with less favorable reports from Argentina.

A cable despatch also said that Australian wheat was held firmly.

The visible supply in Canada decreased 421,000 bushels, and in the United States 1,477,000 bushels, while the receipts at Winnipeg were 36 cars, compared with 129 a year ago.

Special to The Montreal Star.

They will be sent to the Railway Commission.

Only balances unclaimed for three years will be reported on. While not definitely settled, the sense of the committee was against the Government being made custodian of the unclaimed amounts. The committee did not finish consideration of the measure.

ROCKET POWER OUT WITH CANADIENS, DION A POSSIBILITY

Rocket Power, considered one of the strongest men on the Quebec hockey team, who on account of some internal differences in the Quebec management asked for his release, was out with the Canadian Athletic Club team at their practice at the Arena to-day.

Managing Director George Kennedy said that he had not given up the idea of having Coo Dion play with them at least once, and laughed at the Ottawa accusation that he had exceeded the salary limit. "Our club is an incorporated body," he said, "and our books are open to any chartered accountant. I would also like the public to know that if they caught cold at the last Canadien-Wanderer match by waiting too long for the start, it was not my fault, as stated. It was the fault of some lengthy discussion between the men who were or were not to referee, and the President, and when I joined them at the other side of the rink from where our quarters were, to urge them to hurry up, it was already a quarter to nine."

MR. ROBERT McEWEN DIES.

Mr. Robert McEwen, general freight and baggage agent of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co., died today.

Mr. McEwen was at his office on St. Paul Street as usual on Saturday. He rose this morning at his accustomed hour. He took breakfast as usual and read the papers awaiting the arrival of a doctor who was to test him to see if he could undertake a business journey. He had intended to go to Toronto to-night on business for the company. Before the arrival of the doctor he collapsed from heart failure.

The late Mr. McEwen was 69 years of age, and had been in the service of the R. and O. for 50 years.

He was one of the most upright of men, and was known by almost every voyager of the river. He was for years chairman of the board of managers of Chalmers Presbyterian Church up to the time of its amalgamation with St. Gabriel.

He is survived by his wife, four sons and a daughter.

BRITISH ENGINEER STARVED TO DEATH

New York Report Declares Mr. John Longdon, English Inventor, Died in Want.

New York, February 6.—The finding of three large pine cases, containing mechanical apparatus, in a storage vault of a downtown safe deposit company has led to the discovery that John Needam Longdon, a Fellow of the British Society of Engineers, and an inventor of note, well known for his work in the field of civil and mining engineering, died here of starvation several months ago while seeking the secret of generating cheap electricity, which he believed would revolutionize the power systems of the world.

Longdon is said to have spent $100,000 in the work, and whether he really discovered the secret he was after, will not be known until his friends have inspected the contents of the three cases in the storage vault. Longdon died in the New York hospital and was buried in the Potter's Field.

TORONTO CLAIMS 424.000.

New Directory Shows 147.210 Names Recorded.

Special to The Montreal Star

Toronto, February 6.—The new Toronto city directory will be issued this week. It shows recorded names to the number of 147,210. Multiplied by 2 3-4, this gives a total population of 424,057. The names of 7,000 females living at home have been omitted.

Last year the city of West Toronto, and the suburbs of Riscondale, Norway, and the small strip adjoining the old eastern city limits, south of the Grand Trunk Railway tracks, and the Scarborough Township line were annexed, and this was followed in February last by the suburbs of North Dovercourt, with part of Earlscourt, which are included in the present edition. This gives the city an addition to its population of at least 5,000.

The individual names recorded show an increase of 7,822 over last issue. The total assessment of the city is $349,206,510.

The two prisoners completed their terms to-day and are held only because of the fine of $575,479.90 imposed at the same trial. In thirty days they can go before a United States clerk and take the paupers' oath which will effect their liberation.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Nelson, B.C., February 6.—Papers discovered on the body of the dead man found on the west shore of Lower Arrow Lake, north of Renaud, have proved that it is the corpse of Wm. Bull, a commercial traveller, who has been missing since October, and for whom Calgary relations have been searching.

HAIL NEW GOVERNOR OF CANADA WITH NATIONAL ANTHEM

Canadian Club Asserts Loyalty—Prof. Dale on Compulsory Education.

"Resolved that the Canadian Club of Montreal desires to express its satisfaction owing to the appointment of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, as Governor-General of Canada, and the conviction that so distinguished a mark of favor on the part of the Royal Family at this time of loyalty and affection, will help to bind together the different parts of the Empire."

This resolution on being passed at the Canadian Club luncheon this afternoon, led Mr. R. W. Reford, vice-president of the Board of Trade, to propose the singing of "God Save the King," in which the large gathering of members joined heartily.

Advocating compulsory education, Prof. Dale, of McGill, the speaker at the luncheon, spoke of the principal objection that compulsory education would be too expensive, that it could not be afforded. "Can you afford," he asked, "the insanity and imbecility, the dirt and squalor which is one of the most expensive liabilities we have?" While our schools were not perfect, the speaker said they should be given a fair chance by having a fixed term that children must attend.

"You find," he continued, "that the curse of the skilled labor market is that the children get out of schools too early, wander about and go to waste, following all kinds of thriftless employment until the age of 16, and then they turn out useless. There is no more terrible waste than this. After the age of 14, we leave our children rudderless upon a charitless sea. Under a system of compulsory education our high schools, universities and business places would have a reservoir of well prepared intellects."

Under compulsory education, it would also be possible to follow each child and prevent city streets from being preparations for the life of hooligans.

"We are in Montreal," Prof. Dale declared, "pestered by the cocaine traffic. You know how it spreads, just like fever, and you know what tremendous help to those scoundrelly ruffians who take part in this traffic is the fact that children are not under proper control."

Sir Lomer Gouin's openly stated ambition was to be the father of the educational institutions in this province. "What he needs is a policy," said the speaker. "We can give him that policy. We can show him what is the best investment for any surplus money that he may have."

KERMESSE OF 65th REGIMENT HAS BRILLIAN OPENING.

The Kermesse of the 65th Regiment opened Saturday night at the Armory, with all the success and the luxury that can be expected when there are combined the good will and the activity of hundreds of ladies of the best society towards the success of the fete of the popular French Canadian regiment.

In decorations each booth was a masterpiece.

Alderman Dandurand, in the name of the Mayor of Montreal, escorted by Honorary Colonel Rodolphe Forget and Colonel Labelle, opened the Kermesse officially, congratulating the ladies for their devotedness and the success they were meeting, and he expressed the hope that the corporation of Montreal would reward their zeal by an official contribution.

The kermesse will close Wednesday evening, by a grand concert. In the meantime, the programme of amusements is well filled and every one has an opportunity to visit the kermesse, from 2 p.m. to 12.

MAKE BIG FIGHT FOR EGGS WHICH CITY CONDEMNED.

Injunction proceedings taken by the John Layton Company to prevent the city from seizing and destroying $100,000 worth of frozen Chinese eggs as unfit for human food, were postponed until this afternoon owing to the rush of business in the Practice Court. The chief object on behalf of the company is to secure another analysis of the eggs on the claim that the city's analysis was unfair.

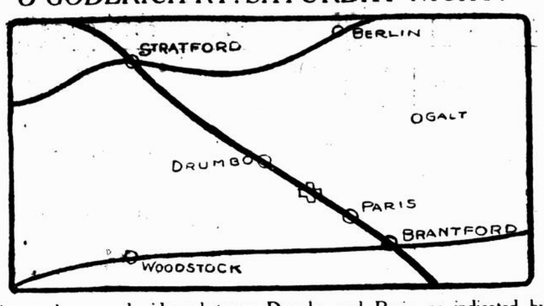

A representative of the John Layton Company arrived in Montreal from London, England, to-day, in order to try to save the consignment of eggs if possible. The city this morning secured Mr. Aime Geoffrion as counsel in maintaining their plea that the eggs would be injurious to public health if distributed in Montreal.

WINNIPEG TRAIN A DAY AND A HALF BEHIND.

As a result of snowstorms in the West, the C. P. R. Imperial Limited, due in Montreal yesterday morning, did not arrive till this afternoon, nearly thirty hours behind time.

Incensed at the discharge of a foreman and his replacement by an American, one hundred employees of the McKinnon Dash and Hardware Company, St. Catharines, Ont., quit work to-day.

Brantford, Ont., February 6.—There will be no other deaths as a result of the Paris-Drumbo Grand Trunk wreck. All those injured are doing well, including Mail Clerk May, who is at Goderich, and City Solicitor Henderson and Customs Clerk McIntosh, of Brantford, both of whom are out to-day.

The inquest opens at Princeton this afternoon. After viewing the bodies an adjournment will be made until Wednesday.

The cause of the wreck undoubtedly was the Mogul running past Drumbo, where it should have waited for the passenger, but who is responsible in this connection, is as yet unknown.

COUNCIL TO DECIDE WARD DISTRIBUTION

This Is Proposal Which Ald. Lariviere Will Present to Aldermen.

A new move will be made, at the meeting of the City Council, to-day, concerning the proposals which have been sent to Quebec in regard to the distribution of wards. The proposals, in question, contain four plans in which the Legislature is asked to consider and to select one or more. The spokesman will be Ald. Lariviere. He will ask that the Legislature be asked to consent to the city itself remodelling its present system of ward representation. The idea of Ald. Lariviere is that the whole matter should be left in the hands of the City Council. He holds that the City Council has certain powers that the Legislature should not be asked to interfere with. In brief, it is the City Council, and not the Legislature, that should finally decide just how the wards ought to be remodelled.

"What we want," said Ald. Lariviere, "is more home rule for Montreal. Why should we ask the Legislature to decide for us how the wards should be remodelled? We are simply asking the Legislature to take away the powers of the City Council."

MOTHER DEAD DRUNK CHILDREN FREEZING POLICE JUST IN TIME.

Late in the night, when a new snow storm was passing over Montreal, three small children, lightly clad, with their mother under the influence of alcohol were found in a back street of Point St. Charles, and taken care of by the police. When the patrol waggon came the little ones were half frozen and so badly chilled that they could not even utter their names. The four were taken to the station, warmed up, and sent to the Assistance Publique.

The children, who had no shoes on their feet, were given new socks and comfortably dressed and, strange to say, showed great appreciation of the comforts they were given, and this morning did not yet show any sign of failing health as a consequence of their experience. Their names are Rebeca, 10 years; Hazel, 7 years; Leslie, 6 years. They are the children of William Pitts.

TWO CRACKED HEADS BUT NO REVOLVER WOUNDS

Following a brawl in Balmoral st. at midnight Saturday, two revolver shots cracked out and brought Constable Joinville on the run. He found two battered men, each bleeding from cut heads, but it was explained that bottles had caused the damage and not revolvers.

John Callahan and Frank Gallagher, who live at No. 17, were sent to the General Hospital to be patched up, while Mrs. Callahan, who had received a black eye in the fray remained at home. While the interested parties admitted having been fighting all denied using a revolver.

DEATH OF SIR E. CASSEL'S DAUGHTER

Mrs. Wilfred Ashley, Who Passed Away To-day, Was Heiress to $65,000,000.

Special to the Montreal Star.

London, February 6.—Mrs. Wilfred Ashley, only child of Sir Ernest Cassel, the famous English financier, died to-day. She has been ill for some time.

Mrs. Ashley, who was Miss Maud Cassel, was greatly interested in charitable work, and was understood to have been responsible for many of the vast donations made by Sir Ernest. She was also greatly interested in the fight against tuberculosis.

She was heir to the $65,000,000 fortune of her father. While having the entree to Court society, she seldom took advantage of it, and in fact, cared little for social affairs.

Light and Power Supply for Bahia, Brazil.

Cable advice from Rio de Janeiro states that the Supreme Federal Court has decided favorably to the Cia. Linha Circular of the City of Bahia in the matter of supplying electric energy for light and power to that city.

This ends a judicial controversy between the Cia. Linha Circular and the Bahia Tramway, Light & Power Co., which last named claimed the monopoly to supply the electric energy, and this gains the present decision of the Federal Supreme Court does not recognize as legal. In other words, the Cia. Linha Circular is now entitled to supply electric energy under exactly the same terms and provisions as the Bahia Tramway Light & Power Co.

Two Distinct Offers Which Lend Interest to One Another
Black Skirts and Fine White Lingerie Blouses

The Skirts

Are a special purchase of $5.00 $7.50, $10.00 and $12.50 styles, } $3.95

The $5.00 and $7.50 ones are Panama and coarse twilled serge; the $10.00 and $12.50 ones are voile. There are 5 or 6 of the very newest styles of cut, some with severe tailored lines, some pleated; and in the case of the voiles some trimmed with narrow bands of taffeta silk. Unfortunately there are but one hundred skirts altogether and we fear you will have to be here pretty early if you want one of them at $3.95

The Blouses

Are a clearance of $2.50, $2.75, $3.50, $3.75 and $4.50 styles, } $1.49

They are the broken sizes of several lines of our mull and lawn blouses which have been discovered in their lonely boxes during stock-taking. There are perhaps 12 or 15 distinct patterns represented, some all white, some touched with color in the front and a few muslin ones fancy colored all over.

There are sizes 34 and 36 in some lines; 38 and 40 in others and 42 in others; first choice to the earliest shopper at, each $1.49

Now here is a case where it is particularly worth while to give up an extra half hour's sleep in the morning to get down here sharp at eight o'clock. If you can manage to get an early choice in both departments it means, say a $10.00 skirt for $3.95 and a $3.75 or $4.00 blouse for $1.49, which means a $13.75 or $14.50 outfit, suitable for right now and ready to put right on at $5.44

SUCHARD'S COCOA

is the steaming cup of Suchard's Cocoa at the finish. It tastes good at any time of day, but best of all when you come in, a bit tired, after an evening on skates, snowshoes or toboggan.

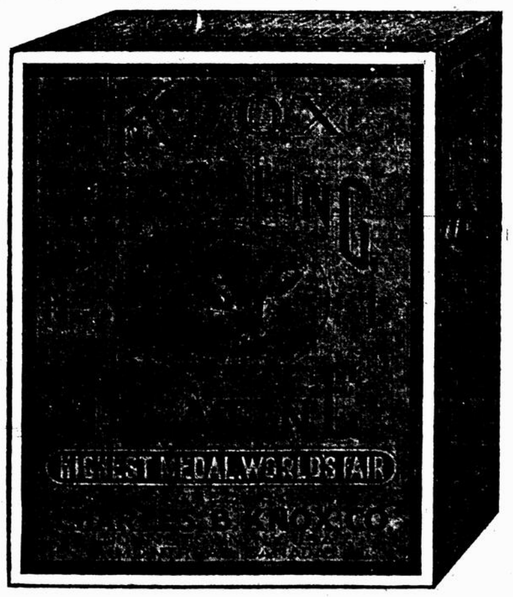

It drives away fatigue and chill, prevents colds, and gives a sound night's sleep.

Be sure, though, that you have Suchard's Cocoa, for no other brand has the same smooth richness and delicate flavor.

MR. C. C. CHIPMAN RETIRES THIS YEAR

Special to The Montreal Star.

Winnipeg, February 6. Mr. C. C. Chipman, who for twenty years has filled the position of Commissioner of the Hudson Bay Company, will retire from the active direction of the company this year. It is reported that he will take up his residence in England.

The company will grant Mr. Chipman a handsome pension. He is a Nova Scotian, having been born at Amherst, N.S., in 1858.

When Lord Strathcona became the head of the Hudson Bay Company with a modest capitalization of ten million, he selected Mr. C. C. Chipman, chief secretary of his London "Legation," as Chief Commissioner in Canada in charge of every branch of the company's business, with an official residence (in summer) at Selkirk.

Up to that time the name of Mr. Chipman had cut no great figure in the financial or commercial world, but when Strathcona put him on the boat, men said, one to another: "There is something more than an English atmosphere about Chipman."

For eighteen years Mr. Chipman has been the Chief Commissioner at Winnipeg which held the "Mother House" of the Hudson Bay Company. Instead of going to pieces as some of the shareholders predicted, the company's business—the new business—is booming along in fine shape. The very building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the new transcontinental railway, has brought not a little business to the fur company.

Mr. Chipman put himself in touch with the promoters at the very beginning, gave them of his great store of knowledge of the country through which the line was to run. He knew from his land department where was the richest land, from his fur traders and fur factors the timber, mineral, and agricultural resources, of the vast unmapped forest lands of British Columbia.

FOUND FATHER IN CELL.

Lost Child Taken to Police Station Where Parent is Prisoner.

Unable to give their names or tell where they resided, two children were picked up on St. James street, yesterday, by the police, and taken to Chabouillez street station.

On their arrival at the station Captain Egan endeavored to ascertain from the little fellows where their homes were, but without any success, and had concluded that he would have to take care of them until called for, when he was surprised to hear one of the children who were playing in the corridor, shouting "Oh, papa, papa; let me in papa." The case of the child's cry was investigated, and Pierre Arcand, 32 years of age, St. Alexander street, looked as a drunk with his arms stretched through the bars of the cell endeavoring to get his little boy through. Arcand explained that he was the father of the child who had come across him in the cell, and that the other little fellow lived near by. Mrs. Arcand was sent for and the children handed over to her.

Seeks Her Father's Address.

Miss Eliza Kerry, of 4 McDermot Place, Winnipeg, is desirous of learning the Montreal address of her father, Arthur Kerry, who formerly resided at 1110 Demontigny street, and who had been employed in the Grand Trunk shops.

WANTS DRINKING CUPS ABOLISHED IN MONTREAL.

The Medical Health officer of the city has sent a communication to the Board of Control, asking that drinking cups, at public fountains, be done away with. He asserts that such cups are vehicles through which disease is frequently spread. He urges the adoption of what is termed a "sanitary" fountain. The apparatus consists of a circular stand arrangement, from 3 to 3½ feet high. The water is forced upwards into a perpendicular stream from the centre of the fountain, the quantity and height of the stream being regulated by the one drinking.

Old Homestead Destroyed.

The home of Mr. MacKnox Henri, at Chambly Canton, was destroyed by fire on Saturday. The fire was started from the effects of plumbers to thaw out some frozen waterpipes. Very little of the furniture was saved, and the house, over one hundred years old was completely destroyed.

A SUSPICIOUS FIRE IN A WEIGH HOUSE.

A suspicious fire broke out in the weigh house of Wm. Muir and Sons, near Wellington bridge, at 9 o'clock last night. The building is a small wooden structure, about 12 by 18 feet and when the firemen broke into it they found that the drawers of a desk had been opened, and fire started in three different places. The firemen put out the fire before it destroyed the structure.

Protest Against Proposed Tax.

A number of electors of Emard, St. Denis and Delormier wards, held a meeting, yesterday afternoon, to protest against the proposal that the Legislature should give the city power to levy a local improvement tax. The contention raised was that real estate owners are now taxed heavily enough.

Fire destroyed valuable fixtures and fittings in the Merchant's Bank building, Halifax, N.S, Saturday afternoon.

JURY HOLDS ABSENT MOTHER BLAMELESS

For Death of Two Children When Home Took Fire—One Juryman Dissents.

One juryman held out that Mrs. George Marleau ought to be held criminally responsible for the death of her two children who were burned in a fire that destroyed her home, 100 Chatham street, during her absence Friday afternoon. The remaining jurymen of the coroner's panel, however, signed a verdict exonerating the mother.

Mrs. Marleau went out on the afternoon of the fire to pay her husband's dues at the office of the Canadian Order of Foresters. As she had left her children alone at home on previous occasions she did not think that there was any danger. She stated that she hurried as much as she could and reached home at about 3.45 o'clock to find that her house had been burned, and that her two children, Donalda aged 6, and Rosanna, aged 8, were dead.

PROHIBIT CHILD LABOR.

Judge Lafontaine Believes This Would Aid School Problem.

Mr. Justice Lafontaine, in his capacity as Commissioner of the Catholic School Board of Montreal, appeared before the Royal Commission on Industrial Training, at their closing session, at the Monument National, Saturday. The principal point discussed by Mr. Lafontaine was child labor, which he thought ought to be prohibited not only in factories, but generally, so as to cover shops and offices, where the employing of younger boys was cause for absence from school.

Judge Lafontaine complained also of the system in Montreal, saying that there were too many boards and that it would be to the general advantage that all the school corporations be merged. The uniformity of textbooks was also pointed at as desirable.

Rev. Abbe Perrier, Inspector of the Catholic School Board, declared that he was not opposed to the help of the Federal Government in higher education, but was in favor of the strict maintenance of the principle of provincial autonomy in education. He was not in favor of compulsory education, though he would like to see some move to deal with absenteeism.

WILLIAMSTOWN.

Noted Glengarry Man Dead.—Mr. Roderick McLennan, the well known civil engineer, who died in Toronto the other day, was a native of the county of Glengarry, having been born near Williamstown on the 5th of June, 1823. He was a son of the late Donald (Masen) McLennan, who came to Canada from Rossshire, Scotland, about 1802, and settled in Glengarry. He was educated at Williamstown High School and subsequently at Montreal, and spent the early part of his life in the Southern States, where he was engaged as an engineer on the survey and construction of several railways. During the trouble in the South in 1864, and while attempting to return to Canada, he was made a prisoner by the Confederate soldiers and was confined for some 13 weeks at the Dry Tortugas. On returning to Canada he was engaged on the preliminary survey and construction of the Intercolonial Railway, later on exploring and surveying in British Columbia from Kamloops to Leather Head Pass. In 1872 he passed through Chilcoton Plains and was district engineer for the Government railways between Port Arthur and Winnipeg, afterwards chief engineer for construction for the C.P.R. on the Lake Superior division.

RENFREW.

Conservation of Water Powers.—Engineers of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Toronto, have gone along with representatives of the town of Renfrew to the upper lakes of the Bonnechere river for the purpose of making a thorough examination looking to the erection of dams for storage purposes. Renfrew is vitally interested in the conservation of the waters of the Bonnechere, for the town is making an outlay of $150,000 on power development, and unless something is done to prevent the bulk of the water from running away in spring time the investment would prove unprofitable. There are also industries at Douglas and Eganville, which are in need of more power and a steadier supply and these will benefit from dams built on the upper lakes. Besides building dams there will be claims to adjust, as some land is likely to be flooded through raising the level of the lakes. This matter is certain to be watched with interest by different towns of the Ottawa valley that are situated about as Renfrew is with regard to water power.

ALEXANDRIA.

Little Boy's Terrible Death.—Mrs. Joseph Legroulx, who with her husband and three children, reside on Main street, Alexandria, went out to the poultry house, about fifty feet from her home, to feed the chickens, leaving her little ones in the house. A few minutes later she heard screaming, and on entering the house found the eldest child, Adrian, who is but four years of age, a mass of flames and the carpet on the floor on fire in two or three places. She seized the child and smothered the flames, receiving severe burns herself. She then proceeded to gather up the carpet and throw it outside, and this act no doubt saved the house and contents. Mr. Legroulx and Dr. A. L. Macdonald were sent for and everything possible was done for the little sufferer, but all to no avail, as he died in the arms of his father about six hours after the accident occurred. It is supposed the child ignited some paper, from which his clothes caught fire, and that the paper was also the means of setting the carpet on fire.

KINGSTON.

Archbishop Gauthier's Coming Departure.—Archbishop Gauthier will leave Kingston for Ottawa on the 15th to prepare for the ceremony of his enthronement as head of the Capital See. On the evening of the 14th in St. Mary's Cathedral, the congregation of the parish will present His Grace with an address and $2,000 in gold. The priests of the diocese will present to him a pictorial cross of gold. His Grace denies that he looked over the Ottawa See and decided not to make any changes in the offices. He will not decide on what he will do in this regard until he has been installed.

CORNWALL.

Masonic Lodge of Instruction.—A Masonic Lodge of Instruction will be held in the Masonic Hall, Cornwall, on Tuesday evening, February 7, under the auspices of the Grand Master, M. Wor. Bro. D. F. MacWatt, of Sarnia, and the D.D.G.M. of Eastern District No. 21, R. Wor. Bro. H. Carl Jones, of Vankleek Hill. The work will be exemplified by Cornwall Lodge No.128, Williamsburg Lodge No. 480 and Chesterville Lodge No. 320. Officers of Wales Lodge, Alexandria Lodge, Morrisburg Lodge, Vankleek Hill Lodge, and Lancaster Lodge, will take part in the programme.

ALMONTE.

Col. Sam. Hughes, M.P., to Speak.—Col. Sam. Hughes, M.P., will be the chief speaker at a public meeting, which is to be held in the Town Hall at Almonte, on Tuesday evening, February 7, under the auspices of the County Orange Lodge. Mr. Wm. Thoburn, M.P. for North Lanark; Rev. Mr. Knight, A. H. Brace, and Rev. Mr. Stobo, will also address the meeting on "One School, One Language, One Flag." This is the first public meeting that has taken place under the local L. O. L. for some time.

PEMBROKE.

Few Prisoners in Jail.— The county jail at Pembroke, Ont., at present contains only six prisoners. Four of these are from outside towns, two only being from Pembroke. The jailer attributes the decrease in the number of inmates to the fact that lumber and construction camps in the upper country have attracted all available shiftless laborers, from which class prisoners are generally recruited.

NAPANEE.

New Vicar Appointed.—The Bishop of Ontario having recommended Rev. W. E. Kidd, M.A., of Frankville, to the congregation of St. Mary Magdalene, Napanee, they have asked for his appointment and the Bishop has appointed him vicar, duties to commence March 1. He succeeds Rev. Mr. Dibb, who met a tragic death recently at the G. T. R depot, Napanee.

BROCKVILLE.

Improvements for Insane Asylum.—The sum of $48,140 has been placed in the Ontario estimates for improvements to the building and equipment of the Eastern Hospital for the Insane at Brockville. Additional buildings are to be erected and more farm land purchased. Private quarters for the nursing staff are more than a possibility.

The Stewart block, Pembroke, Ont., which was destroyed by fire a month ago, is being rebuilt. That portion of the building which was occupied by the People's Theatre will be larger and better than before.

NO FIRE IN CAR.

Complaint of Citizen to Board of Control.

A specific charge against the Montreal Street Railway has been laid before the Board of Control, calling for redress. The charge is preferred by Mr. G. W. St. Arnaud, manager of the Mantle Lamp Co., 340 Notre Dame street west. The fact complained of by Mr. St. Arnaud is that a car he rode in was not heated. The complaint of Mr. St. Arnaud reads as follows:

"I read in the Star, that you had told some one that you had received many complaints about the cars of the M.S.R. being not heated, but that you had not yet received a positive complaint based on precise facts. If such is the case, I am pleased to supply you with the desired information.

"Wednesday last, at 6.30 p.m., car No. 696, at that time rounding the corner of Craig street for St. Denis street, was not heated at all. The stove in the motorman's vestibule had no fire at all, as I could positively see by putting my hands on the pipe on the stove, and on the door of the stove, when I effected my exit from the car."

The Furness line steamer Rappahannock, London to Halifax, yesterday reported Halifax in tow of the German steamer Friedrike, after drifting along the coast for nearly a week with a damaged tail shaft.

REHEARSING THE DECIES WEDDING IN NEW YORK

Special to the Montreal Star.

New York, February 6.—Guests from out of town are arriving in numbers to-day for the marriage of Miss Vivien Gould and Lord Decies, which takes place to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock at St. Bartholomew's. Earl Percy and the Marquis of Salisbury will arrive during the day from Canada and stop at the Ritz.

With the rehearsal to-day of the wedding preparations for this social event of the first magnitode, approached final completion.

To-day's informal anticipation of the real ceremonial at the church was largely for the purpose of teaching the two young Beresford lads, Marcus and Graham, sons of Lord Decies' brother, to manage the bride's five-and-a-half-yard train, weighted with embroidery of silver. Elaborate decorations were being put in place at the Gould residence, and at the church the altar was being banked with palms and ferns, and the columns entwined with hanging vines and smilax.

The general color-scheme of the decorations both at church and home is white and green, the flowers forming the main feature of the embellishment to be lillies and marguerites.

There will be no display of wedding gifts at the reception in the Gould ballroom which is to follow the ceremony, it was learned to-day.

Many costly gifts from friends of Lord Decies, the groom, were not forwarded across the Atlantic, it being decided to have these gifts await the bridal couple in London.

ADDITIONAL SPORTING NEWS.

GOOD DAY'S RACING AT OTTAWA MEET

Special to The Montreal Star.

Most everybody in the Ottawa Valley who knows or cares anything about trotting horses was present at the Central Canada ice races on Saturday afternoon, on the Quebec side of the river Ottawa. All the races were closely contested, especially the 2.25 trot, which after five exciting heats, was won by Emily Morris, owned by G. E. Gray, of Toronto, and driven by Nat Ray. The driving done by Ray especially in the last two heats, was the feature of the race.

A slight snowfall before the first heat of this race, made the track rather heavy. Eight were listed to start, but four were marked off., Ned Wilkes, of Montreal, was the favorite in the betting. Emily Morris won the first heat neatly over Crusader, who was her most dangerous competitor. In the next heat, Nat Ray's mare led for the first half mile, but at this juncture she threw her shoe and was compelled to take the last place. Crusader winning easily. Crusader won the third heat, but Emily Morris through good driving won the fourth and fifth heats, and the race, the stake being $1,000.

The feature of the classified race for racers, was the fact that there was considerable dispute over the eligibility of Dimity, the Hamilton mare. According to the conditions, it was claimed she was not eligible to start, but the officials ruled she was. Finally the judges reserved their first decision and ruled her from the race. Rex was the favorite in her absence, but Oregon Maid owned by F. W. Tracey, of this city, won the first two heats. Dan K., owned by T. Kennedy, of this city, won the third and Rex, owned by R. Stewart, of this city, won the fourth and fifth. The race will be decided this afternoon.

The classified trot for $300 unfinished on Friday, was won easily by Little Ted, owned by F. Tracey, of this city. Owing to the lateness of the hour the 2.23 trot and pace had to be postponed until to-day.

There was a splendid attendance, and the interest in the various events was keen. A big business was done by the bookies.

Following is the summary of Saturday's races:

2.35 trot, stake $1,000—Emily Morris, br m by Copper King, J. E. Grey, Toronto (Nat Ray), 1, 4, 4, 1, 1. W. Crusader, br g, W. F. Kelly, Kingston (Powell), 2, 1, 1, 2, 2. Ned Wilkes, b g, W. A. INDOOR BALL AT MACDONALD COLLEGE

The Freshmen won from the Sophomores in the regular Inter-Class League fixture by the score of 20-21 The victory was unexpected, as "Bill" Rodden, the regular catcher and captain of the team, was unable to play through illness, and needless to say there was great joy in the Freshmen's camp as a result of their victory.

Montgomery pitched good ball for the Freshmen, and received good support from the fielders. The Freshmen excelled at the bat, and Ross, who did not appear to be in his usual form, was hit hard. The Sophomores had the advantage of knowing the game better, and thus being able to make the most of critical situations.

Sophomores .. 3 1 2 0 6 1 0 7 0—20

SKI CLUB PAYS VISIT TO STE. AGATHE

The Laurentian Bob Sleigh Club, at its quarters at Ste. Agathe, entertained the Montreal Ski Club on Saturday in what turned out to be a most enjoyable day's sport.

Some thirty members of the Montreal Ski Club responded to the Bob Sleigh Club's invitation to visit the new slide, which the latter club has opened in the Laurentian Hills, and although owing to the heavy snowfall it was impossible to do any sliding, a most enjoyable time was spent in skiing. It had been planned to have some ski joring, but this had to be postponed owing to the snow.

After an afternoon spent on the hills, the club attended a concert in the village, an excellent programme being rendered by Messrs. Rio, Beauchamp, Paterson, Kearns and Weldon. As a result of the concert, the club were able to donate $30 to the management of the Brehmer Rest. After the concert Mr. Huntley Drummond entertained the club at supper and the rest of the evening was also pleasantly passed.

Among those who took the trip were Messrs. H. R. Drummond, Tom Drummond, E. L. Wilson, J. A. Drew, C. B. Waagen, R. Morphy, E. R. Berford, A. Berks, R. Costello, R. Timberlake, A. Cassils, J. L. Kerr, L. A. Read, W. Ross, W. Luther, McKinnon, Brock, Heald, Hall, C. Weldon, Paterson, J. Rice, Beauchamp, Kearns and Killaly.

Sample City

A small boy was once heard to remark to a friend, after he had been listening to his father discussing the decorations of the house for the Queen's Jubilee: "It will take fifty dollars' worth of bunting and fifty dollars worth of tacks." The youngster's ideas were alright, but his proportions were sadly amiss.

We wonder how many of our Montreal customers will be able to guess how much paint it took to paint twenty miles of ocean. Some people might think it took more water than paint. Then, again, the figures in yards as to how much canvas it took to build Sample City would probably astound the ladies who are used to buying it by the yard.

Everything pertaining to Sample City is figured in hundreds—this is an immense proposition, and the result of this great undertaking will be keen enjoyment to hundreds of Montrealers during February and part of March.

Sample City will open on Wednesday, and will be in full swing Thursday morning.

All public places of amusement are ENTIRELY FREE. You can obtain your tickets from any of the exhibitors when you make your purchases.

Letters to the Editor.

Collection of Water Rate.

To the Editor of the Montreal Star.

Sir,—Will you kindly draw the attention of the citizens to the large amount of arrears which has accumulated through non-payment of the water rate. The amount outstanding (1909) for the eleven years ending 1907 was (and probably still is) over $600,000.

The City Treasurer in his report for the year 1908 has pointed out that the larger proportion of the annual arrears is due from the poorer citizens, who find it difficult to pay $6 in one sum, and that it would be better to collect the water rates from the owner, who could collect it monthly from such tenants. This recommendation has not been acted upon, and apparently no effective steps have been taken to prevent this waste of the city's revenue.

It is much easier to ignore these losses than to collect them under present regulations, but a business man would not be complacent with such a leakage as $53,000 every year from the revenue of one department.

Since it is idle to criticise without putting forward a feasible plan to remedy an evil, I would suggest that the aldermen consider a resolution to collect the water rates in two half-yearly amounts, each to be regarded as a separate debt, and that all amounts under, say, $10 per annum, be collected from the owners of the property, and not from the tenants.

Risks from Burning Clothing.

To the Editor of the Montreal Star.

Sir,—In a recent issue of the British Medical Journal is an article on deaths by burning during the month of November, 1910, exclusive of those due to conflagrations. The number of such fatalities for the month is given as 125, involving 131 persons, and of this number no less than 39 of these deaths are ascribed to the rapid burning of flannelette clothing. In consequence of the beauty of this material and its soft, comfortable feel, it is used for dressing gowns and underclothing. Owing to the short, fine texture of this material on the surface, it is exceedingly inflammable. Of this fact I have had three instances in my own family within a month; hence my desire to warn others against the use of the material for clothing. Fortunately, in these three cases the individuals were grown up and able to divest themselves of the clothes, but with children it would be different. The article I have mentioned goes on to state that it has been recommended that legislative measures be taken to save the public from these risks. I think our own Legislature might follow suit.

111 University Street.

Praises Mrs. Knowlton.

To the Editor of The Montreal Star:

Sir,—I have patiently abided my time to see what turn the tide would take in regard to the incident which occurred some time ago, wherein the heroine was Mrs. Knowlton, and a carter the supposed victim. I am proud of my sex. It is the province of a lady to be sympathetic and merciful at all times, in all places, and in all things. Yet it must be remembered that a quality would be wrested, and to such a degree as to cease to be a quality, if it would blind one to a sense of duty. The former must be sacrificed, for duty must always prevail. Heroic treatment is sometimes the only means whereby a cure may be effected, or, at least, confidently hoped for. In the case at issue, Mrs. Knowlton made use of the heroic treatment. I shall not pass judgment upon the reward she received for same, for, let it be remembered that sometimes an insult, from certain people and under certain conditions, is the equivalent of a reward. With Mrs. Knowlton, however, and all others of my sex, I trust enough has been done to bring to a sense of duty those to whose care dumb animals have been, or will be, committed.

Government Labor Bureaux.

To the Editor of The Montreal Star:

Sir,—A recent issue of your paper contains the following paragraph: "If the Quebec Government can abate the iniquities which are worked upon ignorant and unoffending immigrants by unscrupulous labor agents, it need not wait for the future to have people rise and call it blessed. . . .

Your leading article on the same subject in the Saturday edition of The Star begins in the same way: "If the establishment by the Provincial Government of free employment bureaux in Montreal and Quebec checks the outrageous practices by which foreign immigrants have been duped, swindled and turned over to contractors like so many head of cattle, it will (sic!) accomplish something worth far more than its cost. Whether or not it can, for the moment, do more than this is problematical," etc., etc.

Permit me to state, sir, that its possible or likely achievement in the direction indicated in your leader was not intended by, nay, was deliberately and emphatically eliminated from the provisions of the Act calling the Free Labor Bureaux into existence. As it stands to-day, 2520c sect. 14a., chap. 19 of the R.S.Q. (June 4th, 1910), reads that: "All workmen, being British subjects or born in Canada, and residing in the province, may, for the purpose of obtaining employment, have their names registered, free of charge, at any employment bureau, upon such condition as may be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. The Act thus delineates sharply the scope of those to benefit from its provisions. For some obscure reason (or is it from sinister motives?) the framers of the Act excluded from its benefits the very class of people whose plight and helplessness in a strange country have made them an easy prey to the money-lust of that other white slave merchant, the pseudo "labor agent." Yet, I have reasons to believe that their notorious condition alone—disgraceful to our, otherwise, to outside criticism highly sensitive Canadian nature—gave the first impulse to provide a remedy by this very Act, which, thus, defeats its own ends!
