GERMANS REINFORCING OFFENSIVE IN CAUCASUS

Finnish Front Veterans Fight South Of Rostov

Although Admitting that Tide of War Has Not Yet Turned, Russian Leaders Declare that Nazi War Machine Has Been So Weakened by Casualties that It Cannot Complete Occupation of Oil Rich Areas.

By EDDY GILMORE.
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, July 30.—(AP)—Reinforced by divisions which the Russians said were drawn from Finland and France, Field Marshal Fedor von Bock's Southern-front onslaught rolled deeper into the Caucasus South of Rostov today and pressed the Red army back toward the tip of the Don bend within eighty miles of Stalingrad.

The Russians reported slashing back fiercely at new German crossings of the Lower Don, and dispatches which told of a stiffening defence indicated that Marshal Timoshenko was moving reserves into the line.

The exact position of the line South of Rostov and the Don delta was not clear, but a communique said the Red army had been forced to withdraw farther in the Bataisk area, fifteen miles South of Rostov, where the Germans are driving down the Caucasus rail and oil pipe lines.

A tremendous seven-day-old battle was reported in Red Star dispatches from the steppes of the Don bend where tens of thousands of infantry, cavalry and tanks struggled in see-saw, hand-to-hand fighting South of Kletskaya, eighty miles Northwest of Stalingrad.

(The German high command said its troops had cut the Soviet route of retreat from the Don bend and severed the last important rail link between the Caucasus and the rest of Russia. The communique said the Germans had driven fifty-five miles South of the Don to Proletarskaya on the railway from Stalingrad to the Tikboretsk junction with the main Caucasus line.)

Izvestia, the Government newspaper said the important river traffic of the Volga continued, and reported the arrival of timber barges at Stalingrad. (The Germans have reported the river traffic under bomber attack).

Tass News Agency repeated earlier reports that the Germans, forced to draw much of their strength for the Don Valley offensive from Western Europe, had moved six divisions from France to the Russian front within the past few days.

Altogether seventeen infantry divisions, two tank divisions, and numerous anti-aircraft and artillery units have been moved to Russia from German-occupied countries in the West since the start of the year, Tass said.

Russian reserves bolstered Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's veterans for the supreme task.

CONDITIONS AT SHIP BUILDING YARD ATTACKED

Ontario Fire Marshal at Probe into Midland Fire Declares that Boiler Condition Was "Disgrace."

Midland, Ont., July 30.—(CP)—The Ontario Government's probe into the disastrous fire which swept Midland's dock areas last July 14 stands adjourned today pending further investigation of conditions prevailing when the blaze began.

W. J. Scott, Ontario Fire Marshal, said the inquiry will be resumed following the extended investigation but did not indicate how long he expected it to take. But before the inquiry was adjourned last night he told T. M. McCullough, General Manager of the Midland Boat Works, that fire protection measures in the works "have been exceedingly lax."

He said the boiler where the fire started was a "disgrace,"—a term he also used to describe the boiler now in use.

Part of the Midland Boat Works was destroyed by the fire, which caused damage estimated at $500,000. Two partially completed naval craft, the Canadian National Railways station, eight houses and other waterfront property were lost.

Fire Chief Peter Grigg testified he had made twelve trips to the boat works since it went into production and found numerous fire hazards, which he called to the attention of plant officials. He was asked by Eric Silk of the Attorney-General's Department why he did not report the Company for these breaches of fire safety regulations and replied that he "was waiting to see if they wouuldn't improve things."

PRIME MINISTER MIGHT HOLD PLEBISCITE ON THIS ISSUE

Ottawa, July 30. — (CP) — On motion of Prime Minister Mackenzie King the House of Commons Committee on Privileges and Elections today was instructed to consider whether the seat held by R. G. Davidson (Liberal, Stanstead), whose election was nullified by a decision of the Supreme Court of Canada last month, should be declared vacant and a bye-election writ ordered.

COLDWELL WILL CONTINUE WITH C.C.F. CONTROL

House Leader Named as National President of Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

Toronto, July 30.—(CP)—Delegates to the tenth anniversary convention of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation were en route home today after a three-day session in which they chose a new national president, adopted a wartime policy and laid plans for the party's future organization.

New president is M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader in the House of Commons, where he has represented the Saskatchewan constituency of Rosetown-Biggar since 1935. Mr. Coldwell's post as National Chairman of the party was filled by Professor Frank Scott of Montreal, with Angus MacInnis, C.C.F., Member of Commons for Vancouver East, vice-chairman.

The party's wartime and post-war policy—a programme for "victory and reconstruction" — calls for "carefully planned use of manpower to secure the maximum production of urgently needed war materials and foodstuffs, the effective defence of Canada and the greatest possible contribution to the cause of the United Nations." It opposes Overseas conscription until wealth and industry also are conscripted.

Mr. Coldwell succeeds J. S. Woodsworth, founder of the C.C.F., in the presidency. Mr. Woodsworth died last March 21.

During yesterday's session, the convention approved among several resolutions a plan for public ownership of distilleries and asked that the National Council draft a resolution combining this with another that profits from such operations be used to finance temperance education.

MEXICO BOOSTS RUBBER OUTPUT

Mexico City, July 30. — (AP) — Mexico and the United States have signed an agreement designed to promote increased production of natural rubber in this country. The first step in the pact, to remain in effect for eight years, provides for immediate establishment of five 750-acre demonstration plantations in tropical Mexico with Washington furnishing technicians and $890,000 grant. These farms will test methods of production and demonstrate the results to prospective growers.

EXPERTS FAVOR BIG TRANSPORT PLANE SCHEME

Senator Claims Widespread Support for Plan to Divert Shipyards to Transport Plane Building.

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—Strong support from aeronautical experts within the administration was claimed today by Senator Josh Lee (Dem.-Okla.), for his proposal to divert shipbuilding facilties to construction of giant cargo and transport planes for the speedy movement of troops and supplies.

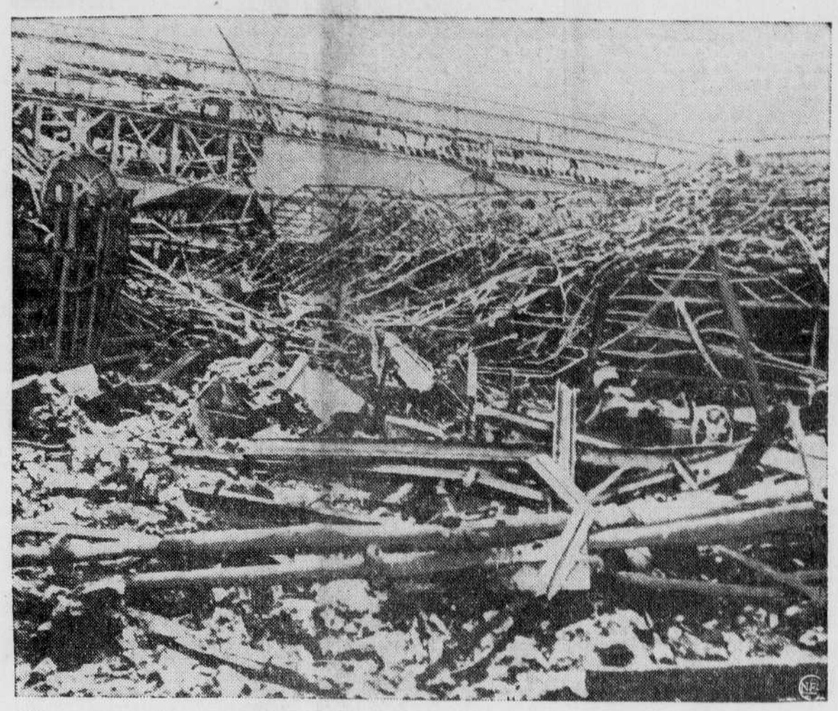

Lee cited Grover Loening, aircraft designer and technical consultant for the War Production Board, as "just one" of a number of experts he said were convinced of the desirability of shifting percentage of transport production to flying boats similar to the seventy-ton Mars.

A Senate Military Affairs subcommittetee of which Lee is chairman, as well as the Special Defence Committee headed by Senator Harry Truman (Dem.-Mo.), turned today to Henry J. Kaiser, West coast shipbuilder, for advice in their search for an answer to the submarine menace. Kaiser was to explain to both committees his proposal for the production of huge aerial freighters by nine shipyards, including some of his own.

Loening and Harold E. Talbot, W. P.B. Director of Air Transportation, told committeemen yesterday that lack of airplane engines presented the greatest obstacle.

Tye said engines in sight, with horsepower sufficient to operate the flying boats, had been allocated through 1943 to bomber and fighter planes and that greater production would require increased allocations of scarce steel alloys.

Did R.A.F. Smack Renault Plant? Look!

This scrap steel pile was supplied to the Nazis by the R.A.F. — but on purpose. It's the remains of the huge Renault motors shop just outside Paris. Nazis were using plant to manufacture war machines until British bombed it on March 3. Nazis claimed bombers did little damage, but this photo, smuggled out of France and just released, proves otherwise.

BRITAIN STILL KEEPS SILENT ON WAR PLANS

Sir Stafford Cripps Declares that Plans for Second Front Cannot Be Divulged at Present Time.

London, July 30.—(CP)—Sir Stafford Cripps, Government spokesman in the House of Commons, told questioners today for a second time that plans regarding a second front could not be divulged.

Thomas Horabin, Liberal, asked for a secret session of the Horse before summer recess so its members could inquire into the Government's "military intentions."

Sir Stafford said that, just as he had informed the House last week, the Government would not be able to reveal such plans "even in secret session."

William Gallacher, Communist, said "They could tell us if they had any intentions."

"I can tell him now," replied Sir Stafford, "that we have intentions."

He did not elaborate upon this statement.

Outside Parliament, women war workers, all with husbands, sons, brothers or sweethearts in the armed forces, appealed for a second front.

The women at a London meeting pledged support for a second front with increased work at the factories and then sent a delegation to call at Churchill's official residence, 10 Downing Street, and the House of Commons.

AMENDMENTS TO DIVORCE BILL RULES PLANNED

Chairman of Senate Divorce Committee Says Legislation Now in Course of Preparation.

Ottawa, July 30.—(CP)—A four-point programme aimed at reducing the consumption of alcoholic liquors in Canada was submitted in the Senate last night by Senator Iva Fallis (Conservative, Ontario) during debate on a bill to amend the Excise Act increasing duties on liquor and malt.

The bill later was given second and third reading and passed.

Debate on the Excise Act bill came after the Senate had passed Bill 80, the Government measure to amend the National Resources Mobilization Act to allow conscription for Overseas service by Order-in-Council. A three-day debate ended when the bill was given second reading by a forty-two to nine vote, with five Liberals and four Conservatives opposing. Third reading followed immediately.

Senator Fallis urged the calling of a conference of Provincial Government representatives to consider shortening hours and restricting sales and the organization by the Government of a press and radio temperance campaign.

She also suggested the enlistment of support of organizations in reducing drinking and urged that manpower now employed in distilleries

NEWS PHOTOGRAPHER IN PARACHUTE JUMP

Victorville, Calif., July 30.—(AP)—Two men were killed and a third, Frank Filan, veteran photographer of The Associated Press, parachuted to safety in an accident involving two army bomber training planes last night.

Killed were Sgt. Pilot Rodney M. Grim, twenty, and Clarence L. Block, twenty-nine, Los Angeles, civilian photographer for the West Coast army air forces training centre.

Filan was found wandering, dazed, on the desert this morning, seven hours after the accident, by army officers who had set out on a search on the slender hope the star cameraman might have been able to use his parachute.

Filan was exhausted when he was found and was suffering from ankle and chest injuries and scalp lacerations.

Lieut. Russell L. Bolin, pilot of the other plane, landed safely despite a badly-bent propellor.

HEPBURN OPENS FRESH ATTACK ON GOVERNMENT

Declares that "We Have Earned for Ourselves and Justly So, the Utter Contempt of Our Allies."

New Glasgow, Ont., July 30.—(CP)—A critical review of Canada's war effort by Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario ended last night with the assertion that "We have earned for curselves, and rightly so, the utter contempt of our Allies."

He said the Government can serve the people best "by forgetting political expediency and saving the nation, not its own selfish political future."

"We want to stand shoulder to shoulder with our British and American Allies in the struggle for existence. There is no other consideration now."

The Ontario Premier referred to the National Registration, the thirty-day training plan, the national census, the Hong Kong expedition and the plebiscite during his address, made at the annual reunion of the Aldborough Old Boys' Association at this village near his home at St. Thomas, Ont.

He said that if Canada fails to do her duty in this war "those of us who are leaders of public thought and opinion today" will be damned by "an embittered and enslaved posterity."

GRACE FOR HARVESTERS

Quebec, July 30.—(CP)—Schools in the Province of Quebec under the jurisdiction of the Council of Public Instruction will open their doors September 1, it was announced at the Department of Public Instruction here yesterday. It was also announced, however, that schoolboys who are helping farmers for harvesting will return to School October 1 only.

Transfer Of Japanese From Pacific Coastal Regions Under Attack

Liberal and Conservative Members from British Columbia United in Attacking Government for Delay in Evacuation of Japanese from Dangerous Areas—Labor Minister Opposes Internment Camps.

By JAMES McCOOK,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, July 30.—(CP)—The staid progress of the House of Commons through taxation bills and departmental estimates was vigorously interrupted by British Columbia members yesterday when they demanded swifter action by the Government in moving Japanese from the British Columbia protected area.

Labor Minister Mitchell, defending the British Columbia Security Commission which has been in charge of the movement of the Japanese, said nearly 16,000 of a total of about 25,000 had been moved from the protected area. He said those left at Vancouver were mainly women and children.

When the Minister said he was not afraid of the situation at Vancouver, George Cruickshank (Liberal, Fraser Valley), interjected: "Well, we are."

J. G. Turgeon (Liberal, Cariboo), said that wherever the Japanese were moved in British Columbia there was the likelihood that the new section would soon be declared a protected area because of the imminent threat of enemy attack.

Mr. Mitchell said it was not the Government policy to place the Japanese in an interment camp although 465 Japanese males had been interned as the resutl of a strike in a road work camp.

The Japanese issue was raised by Howard Green (Conservative, Vancouver South), on a motion to go into Committee of Supply, after the House had dealt with and approved two bills covering amendments to the Dominion Succession Duty Act and Excess Profits Act, arising from budget resolutions.

Discussion of the Japanese concluded, the House renewed study of post office estimates.

Today the House is to discuss Government bills. Resources Minister Crerar in a statement at the end of the day said it would require optimism to say adjournment would be possible by Friday night but he urged an effort to conclude the work this week.

The Senate concluded a three-day debate on the Government's conscription bill, and gave it second reading forty-two to nine. Third reading followed immediately.

Eight members of the Upper House yesterday supported the bill, which empowers the Government to impose conscription for Overseas service at any time by Order-in-Council, and two opposed it.

The Red Chamber also heard a request from Senator Iva Fallis (Conservative, Ontario), that the Dominion Government hold a con-

AXIS BOMBERS CAUSE DAMAGE IN NILE AREA

Small Forces of Enemy Planes Made Widespread Pre-Dawn Attacks on Airdromes in Nile Delta.

Cairo, July 30.—(AP)—Small forces of Axis bombers made widespread pre-dawn attacks on airdromes in the Nile delta area, behind the quiescent El Alamein front.

Bombs fell in Cairo proper and provoked the greatest anti-aircraft barrage every seen there. Sirens also screamed in the Suez zone and other scattered areas of Egypt.

British headquarters regarded the forays as intended primarily to hinder Allied air operations against Axis sea and land communications to the now stabilized El Alamein front, about seventy miles West of Alexandria.

British fighter-bombers pounded away at the right wing of the Axis line West of El Alamein yesterday while the centre was subjected to harassing artillery fire.

Land operations were limited to minor skirmishes and dust storms curtailed aerial activity to some extent, the daily communique said.

Two Axis planes were reported shot down over Malta by British fighters which forced a formation of enemy bombers to jettison their bombs. Air activity over the island also was on a reduced scale, the communique said.

The populace began to gather in hotel lobbies, apartment house shelters and other places of refuge, still in their night clothing, when the alarms sounded about 3 a.m.

The people had heard many alerts and occasional anti-aircraft fire but few bursting bombs since war came to the Middle East.

Today some of the curious went to rooftops and balconies to watch the tracers, the play of lights and the shellbursts in the moonlit sky.

The Egyptian Interior Ministry said the raid caused one fatality and "slight damage to property."

Air raid warnings also were sounded in the Suez Canal area and in some provinces in upper and lower Egypt, the Ministry said.

Seattle, July 30. — (AP) — Seattle shipyard precedent was shattered today: Four women took the places of men in the machine shop of the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Corp. Even in the First Great War there were no women in these shipyards.

Allied Bombers Wreck Japanese Destroyer Off New Guinea Coast

Allied Headquarters, Australia, July 30.—(CP)—Allied bombers hit a Japanese destroyer squarely off Gona Mission, on New Guinea's Papuan peninsula coast, and left the warship wreathed in smoke and scurrying toward shore, apparently for beaching, a headquarters communique announced today.

It was the fourth enemy ship accounted for by Allied airmen since the Japanese last Wednesday thrust their invasion force down the coast to Gona Mission, some 100 miles from the Allied base at Port Moresby on the opposite shore of the Papuan peninsula. In previous attacks three enemy transports were knocked out.

There was no immediate explanation whether the destroyer was alone or accompanying transports bearing additional troops to the enemy base.

Allied planes made a destructive night raid on Gona Mission and destroyed an enemy pursuit plane in an airfight while skirmishing continued among Allied and Japanese advance units in the Kokoda area, about midway between Port Moresby and Gona Mission.

The Japanese made three light night raids upon Port Moresby and sent two small formations over Darwin, Northern Australian coastal city, early today. The communique said there were neither casualties nor damage at either place.

A military spokesman said there were casualties on both sides in the clashes around Kokoda but was unable to state the number or whether the Japanese had been reinforced.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Allied commander, awarded the Distinguished Service Cross posthumously today to Lt.-Col. W. T. Owen, an Australian killed at Kokoda and the first Dominion fighter to receive an American decoration.

Owen was cited for extraordinary gallantry while leading his men. MacArthur expressed regret at the loss of "so gallant a soldier."

NAZI WOUNDED FILL RESORT

New York, July 30.—(AP)—Private advices reaching New York from Europe today said the Germans for the first time hove barred resort towns along Lake Constance to vacationers and are filling some of the big hotels with wounded from the Western Front. Other hotels were reported commandeered for use of children and the wounded from bombed German cities and for German soldiers on leave.

WAR BULLETINS

Tightened Control Over Canadian Manpower Situation Is Imminent

By JACK WILLIAMS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 30.—(CP)—Tightening of control over Canada's manpower supply is expected to be announced shortly with the enforcement of new orders now being framed.

One of the most important steps understood to have been decided on is the provision of a "cooling off" period between the time of dismissal or resignation of an employee and the time he actually leaves employment.

This new approach to the problem of shifting manpower, which Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service, has referred to as one of the most serious wastages in Canadian labor, will halt hasty action on the part of the employer and employee. It is anticipated the compulsory "cooling off" period will be one week.

Regulations soon to be announced are expected also to eliminate the three days of grace at present provided in reporting job changes to employment offices.

Following the announcement June 17 of regulations which make it necessary for employers to obtain permits from an employment office for all new employees, regulations were relaxed through the provision of a three-day period of grace so that an employer could engage a new man without a permit if he reported the employment within three days. Approval then was required in the form of a permit from the Selective Service Officer who is also manager of the employment office.

Organization of the employment offices to handle the heavy requirements of the selective service programme now has reached a point where this is no longer necesary and it is expected that announcement will be made in the near future that proposed job changes must be reported and a permit obtained before the new employee can be hired and start work.

Mr. Little in a recent address said requirements of the armed forces and industry would total 250,000 workers in the next five months. To fill this requirement reasonable priorities would have to be set up in industry and labor and some business enterprises might be expected to be casualties.

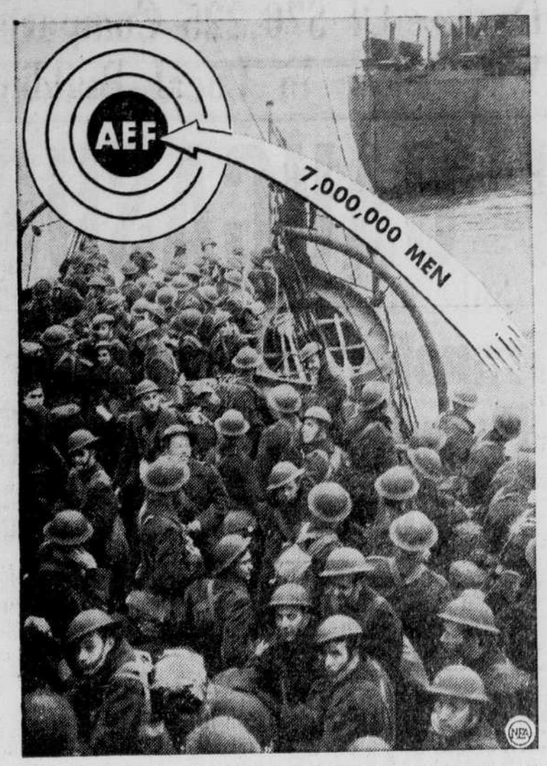

It is to make there priorities of labor effective that manpower regulations are being stiffened, it is understood.

Absenteeism is another major

Military Expert Johnson Sees It As

"Our War, To Equip, Fight —And Lead"

"The Army is raising its sights to a bull's-eye of 7,000,000 men." The growing strength and increasing responsibility of American forces foreshadow American leadership of the Allied war effort.

By THOMAS M. JOHNSON

Washington, July 21. — Make no mistake about it, this is OUR war. It will become increasingly so, and we must not only equip it, but fight it—and lead it.

The fact is that British, Russian and Chinese reverses have demanded from us—unexpectedly soon and in increasing quantity — American equipment and manpower, and that means American leadership.

Already we are virtually leading in the Pacific theatre, and interesting developments in the Atlantic are foreshadowed. The need frequently stressed in these despatches, for a unified American command over all our land, sea and air forces may be recognized.

Americans May Lead Continental Invasion

Admiral King or Admiral Leahy may be appointed nominally the President's military advisor, but actually commander-in-chief of operations that are still predominantly naval. But the growing importance of our numerous A.E.F.'s causes talk for further changes.

The A.E.F. in Europe alone may by 1943 equal or exceed the two million men of 1918; the "invasion of the continent" may eventually become largely an American invasion. The Army is raising its sights to a bull's-eye of seven million men, the largest and strongest land and air force of the United Nations. It is also squinting at the idea of an eventual American commander-in-chief for all Europe save Russia—an Army man.

Americans Bearish on British Leadership

Both General MacArthur and General Marshall are persona grata with President Roosevelt, and he may send the aggressive MacArthur to Europe and keep Marshall's organizing talent at the home base. But Marshall's cool reasonableness has inspired some British leaders to feel that if they must be commanded by an American, he is the man.

Which is well, for Libya has lowered American confidence in British generalship and staffwork. In the earliest conferences between the two staffs the British were told we would play ball, but fight our own army. Subsequent developments, of which Rommel's Libyan breakthrough was one, confirmed American opinions.

Now, all Americans who have seen British troops fight, know they are brave as their own lion. New Zealanders and Australians here from Libya furiously deny that "the British will fight to the last Anzac."

But American officers, while appreciating the British not only for their splendid courage and their loyalty as Allies, see sound military reasons for a less defensive attitude.

They believe aggressiveness now may prove essential to avoid prolonging the war to Heaven knows what end. The strain on Russia may become so terrific that it can be relieved only by that desperate undertaking, a landing on the continent of forces strong enough to divert substantial German strength, notably aircraft and tanks. Should the risk not have to be taken, the preparations now under way in Britain will be useful next spring.

For Britain is the place. Invading Italy in force is well-nigh impossible with the Egyptian base 1,500 miles from Italy and many hundreds more from New York. Britain not only affords the bases, industries, airfields, it is only three thousand miles from New York and twenty-one miles from France.

It's a perilous leap, that could be taken by only a fraction of Britain's famous army of "four million idle men." Half are guerrilla Home Guards, and part of the rest must be held out of an invasion.

British Public Eager to Get Going

British Navy and industries make demands on her 44,000,000 people proportionately greater than our 130,000,000 must meet; and we have more of the automotive mechanics needed for modern warfare. Still, if any second front is opened this summer, Britain stands the grief.

British public opinion favors paying the price, and British brasshats admit that Hitler's progress against Russia and in Libya makes it cheaper by drawing his masses of manoeuvre farther from that second front. But nobody expects this "invasion" to win the war this summer. All it need do is draw back again Westward enough Nazi strength to save the Rusian armies from being crushed or losing their oil supply this summer. Then the war is won.

Also such an invasion may avert the Japanese invasion of Siberia that some well-informed Americans believe impends. They think the Japanese will launch it the instant the Russians really crack. This would demand of us at least help in defending Russia's Asiatic submarine and air bases which are a far shorter route to the heart of Japan than the Chinese air bases.

But those, too, we must help China hold. Either way, Asia calls for more American sacrifice, entailing more responsibility and authority.

Can't See U. S. "Admiralissimo"

But if the British stand the grief this summer, they may with utter fairness insist upon being chief mourner—commanding the invasion force. Then, this winter, as American forces increased, an American Generalissimo who had been learning, might take over for the spring campaign on land.

British consent is more likely because, while by 1943 our Navy clearly will be stronger than theirs, they are more likely to insist that in the Atlantic at least, Britannia still rule the waves.

Britain may consent to an American Generalissimo, but as for an American Admiralissimo—the idea sounds as grotesque as the word.

GERMAN STEEL-MAKING CENTRE UNDER ATTACK

Strong Royal Air Force Contingent Carried Out Attacks on Saarbruecken Near French Border.

London, July 30.—(CP) — A strong force of R. A .F. bombers, striking at Germany for the seventh time in ten nights, centred attacks last night upon the steel manufacturing city of Saarbruecken near the French border, British authorities said today.

It was the first attack on Saarbruecken—a key railway junction as well as a great industrial centre — since November 8, 1940.

Nazi air raiders, meanwhile, attacked widely separated areas in Britain, dropping a few bombs in the Greater London area for the first time since June 3 and stabbing at several points in the Midlands and East Anglia.

Incendiaries were dropped in the London area in what was believed to be a new-type metal container. The containers were being collected today for examination by experts.

One of the Nazi targets in the Midlands was the industrial centre of Birmingham, where, the Ministries of Air and Home Security said, the raiders did some damage and caused some casualties.

A small number of casualties, including some fatalities, was reported from other areas.

Seven of the German planes were shot down, a communique said.

Nine British bombers were lost in the raid on Saarbruecken. The Air Ministry said the raid was "heavy and concentrated" and that preliminary reports indicated much damage was done.

The R.A.F. raids on Western Germany were accompanied by a heavy aerial bombardment of the Occupied French coast between Boulogne and Calais.

Saarbruecken, a city with a peacetime population of about 135,000, lies in the great Saar Valley coal fields, and is one of the chief centres of iron and steel production in Germany.

The Berlin radio said that several other towns in Western Germany also were bombed by the R. A. F.

Only a few German planes, flying singly, were sighted over London during the air alarm in the capital. It was the second time in three nights that enemy planes had been over the city, although no bombs fell Monday night.

The last heavy raid on London was July 27, 1941, when the East End was hard hit. Only a few bombs fell in an outlying park in the June 3 attack this year.

DIPHTHERIA CLAIMS NORTHERN INDIANS

Quebec, July 30. — (CP) — Felix Allard, Liberal Legislative Assembly Member for Abitibi who accompanied a delegation of his county at Premier Adelard Godbout's office here yesterday, said that a few days ago fifteen Indians died of diphtheria at Senneterre in Abitibi County.

Mr. Allard added that an epidemic of diphtheria broke out among some 100 members of an Indian tribe camping near Senneterre about two weeks ago.

reported to have struck successfully at Nazi detachments crossing the Lower Don in the Tsimlyansk area, half way between Rostov and Stalingrad, destroying 700 German officers and men, seventeen tanks, eleven guns and twenty-seven machine guns.

But field reports indicated the tide had still to turn in the far-flung fight for the trans-Caucasus: The Lower Volga and the Western shore of the Caspian Sea.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda declared, however, that Germany was throwing her last resources into the offensive and said "it is necessary to understand that we cannot retreat."

"The enemy is not so strong as he appears to some scared panicmongers," the newspaper said.

A Pravda dispatch reported that German tanks were attacking in waves of forty to fifty within the Don Bend, where the country offers no natural obstacle to manoeuvre. Red Army men were reported to have destroyed 123 tanks in one sector.

The Soviet Information Bureau announced last midnight that Soviet tanks and infantry had routed the vanguard of a German force Southwest of Kletskaya, itself eighty miles Northwest of Stalingrad, but the mid-day bulletin indicated a subsequent Nazi recovery with a report of fierce battles "South of Kletskaya."

"All attempts by the Germans to wedge into our defences failed," the mid-day communique said. "In one sector one of our tank units attacked and destroyed thirty German tanks and several hundred officers and men."

Captives were quoted by Pravda as telling Red Army officers that the Germans were forced to move units from other sectors of the front for the Don Basin offensive.

The midnight communique told of the annihilation of 4,000 Germans and destruction of 100 Nazi tanks in half a dozen engagements yesterday —implying that these constituted only a part of the invaders' casualties—and it mentioned not a single Russian withdrawal.

Soviet troops "are holding up the the German push and inflicting heavy losses" Southwest of Kletsaya, the Russians said, but this was before the Russian Information Bureau announced the latest news from the Bataisk sector.

Kletsaya is a village within the Don bend about 120 miles downstream from Nazi-occupied Boguchar and eighty miles Northwest of Stalingrad, a nerve centre of Soviet industry and communications on the elbow of the Volga.

"Our infantry, working in co-operation with a tank unit, routed the enemy who had broken through forward," the Information Bureau said. "The Germans lost about 1,500 officers and men, nineteen tanks, forty-five trucks and sixty motorcycles."

Red army men sought to mop up a Nazi bridgehead across the Don in the Tsimlyansk area and slew 800 Germans and wrecked twelve tanks, it was announced. At the same time it was officially reported that "the enemy constantly brings up reserves."

Hand-to-hand fighting resulted in the Red Army's recapture of another settlement in the Battle of Voronezh and this and a second engagement cost the Germans 650 killed, it was said.

Artillery batteries duelled before Leningrad, which the German command has threatened in propaganda leaflets to storm. Red army shell fire and scouting operations accounted for more than four hundred German deaths on the Leningrad front in forty-eight hours and prisoners were taken the information bureau reported.

ference of Provincial Liquor Control authorities and start a temperance campaign to reduce expenditures on alcoholic drinks.

In the House debate on the Japanese situation, Mr. Mitchell said it had been found that Japanese born in Canada were the most difficult to deal with.

Of the 8,827 Japanese still to be evacuated from the protected area, 3,000 were in a camp at Hastings Park, Vancouver, and the remainder left in Vancouver were practically all women and children.

It was felt that those who had families should be moved as family units to farms East of the Rockies. All able-bodied Japanese had been moved from points considered vulnerable.

Internment was contrary to the Government policy and the cost would be "almost staggering." It would result in harsher treatment of Canadians who were prisoners of the Japanese in the Far East.

George Cruickshank (Liberal, Fraser Valley), said five British Columbia members had forced the Government to move in connection with the Japanese on the coast. The Government had "dawdled around" on the problem and should not "dawdle" any longer.

Japanese were working in the lumber districts of British Columbia which provided seventy-five per cent of the timber going to Great Britain. It was the duty of Parliament to see such conditions were not allowed to exist when there was the danger fire might be used to damage timber resources.

The bills amending the Dominion Succession Duty Act and the Excess Profits Tax Act gave effect to budget resolutions previously approved.

In a statement on the Housing situation, Finance Minister Ilsley said an additional appropriation of $1,000,000 would be made available for the National Housing Act to assist in financing construction of small permanent homes in congested areas where no surplus of housing would thus be created.

Loans up to a total of $2,000,000 will be guaranteed to permit conversion of existing large homes into apartments in crowded areas.

A resolution preliminary to a bill authorizing the Canadian National Railways to issue securities not exceeding $22,360,000 to meet capital expenditures of 1942 and for other capital purposes was approved, and the covering bill given first reading.

Ralph Maybank (Liberal, Winnipeg South Centre), commended the Postmaster-General and his officials for their refusals to grant application for sub post offices which meant unnecessary expense.

Answering a suggestion of Clarence Gillis (C.C.F., Cape Breton South) that post offices with large surpluses should carry the service for a group of citizens where there was not sufficient revenue to keep an office open, Col. Mulock said there were 12,500 post offices and 5,000 did not carry themselves but were carried by the other 7,500.

Col. Mulock said it was probable many post offices would be left with acting postmasters until after the war so returned soldiers would have an opportunity to be placed in them.

problem which is being actively studied and on which some action is expected in the near future.

Selective service studies have shown manpower waste running as high as from fifteen to twenty-five per cent in some plants.

This condition is understood to be particularly serious in plants where large numbers of women are employed. The number of women in industry is constantly increasing.

Improvement in working conditions is considered at least a partial solution for this problem and co-operation of employers is being enlisted in an energetic campaign now being carried on by selective service officials.

Local Air Cadet Unit To Keep Pace With Expanded Programme

In keeping with the recent announcement by Air Cadet Headquarters that an objective has been set to train over twice as many Air Cadets in Canada during the next Air Cadet year, as were trained during the past year, the local Unit is already preparing to keep pace with this expansion.

The Air Cadet year commences September 1st and arrangements have now been completed whereby the R.C.A.F. will supply all necessary equipment, including signal apparatus, aero engine parts, navigation instruments, first aid material, rifles and ammunition, aircraft recognition charts and the necessary instruction material for all other subjects covered by the Training Syllabus.

Senior Air Cadets from various units have been spending a week in camp at the St. Hubert and Uplands Flying Training Schools since July 13th, and fifty Seniors from the Sherbrooke Unit will embark on Sunday, August 9th, for St. Hubert for one week of practical training and lectures.

While in camp the Air Cadets will be housed in comfortable barracks and will receive excellent rations. An Air Cadet Canteen will be operated in their own barracks where Air Cadets may obtain chocolate bars, soft drinks and other incidentals, during certain hours.

The local Unit will be accompanied by Air Cadet Pilot Officers N. A. Hunting, P. D. Mathias and L. Barbeau.

A full squadron parade is called for Friday evening, July 31st, at 7.15 p.m. at the William Street Armory. The Seniors who have enrolled for camp will be given special instruction by officers who have just returned from the Officers' Qualifying Course at St. Hubert. Those Air Cadets who are unable to attend camp will receive a practical aircraft lecture by Instructor John Buckell, from the Windsor Mills School, who will use the newly received aircraft for demonstration.

All Seniors attending camp must bring a pocket note-book on Friday evening, for preserving notes which will be useful during the camp period.

During the past eight months it has been necessary to confine local Air Cadet enrolments to the strength of the present Squadron, due to the fact that the initial cost of the uniforms was paid in advance by the Sherbrooke Rotary Club and individual Rotarians, and many other incidental costs have been borne by the officers themselves, although they receive no remuneration or allowances. This situation has resulted in many applications having been left in abeyance and others being accepted tentatively, but without immediate issue of uniform.

However, as a result of the new scale of issue of equipment, just released by the R.C.A.F., for Air Cadets, coupled with the announcement that the R.C.A.F. will soon issue Air Cadet uniforms, to be repaid by Air Cadets, enrolments are now open to all young men from fourteen to eighteen, in Sherbrooke, Lennoxville and the surrounding district, who have the necessary qualifications.

As intensive training with new up-to-date equipment will commence on September 1st, new classes will be formed and Air Cadets in the present unit will be reclassified before that date.

All new applicants desirous of enrolling as Air Cadets should immediately apply for application blanks to the following: From Lennoxville, Waterville, North Hatley and district, to N. A. Hunting, Lennoxville; from other points outside of Sherbrooke to J. A. Archambault, 22-b Wellington Street, North, or N. T. Hunter, 82 Wellington Street South. Applications from Sherbrooke City may be given to any officer of the Unit, or member of the Committee.

Generous citizens in outside towns or communities are requested to arrange for transportation, one night per week, for young men who are willing to devote their time in taking up this important training course, which is designed to better prepare them for the future. Local Air Cadets will receive two nights' training per week.

Progress checks will be held throughout the training course when awards will be given for greatest progress, and the training plane now in the possession of the Unit will be used for practical lectures.

The expanded Unit will continue to be bilingual, open to young men of any Allied nationality, sect or creed.

Further details for the expansion of the local Air Cadet Unit will be announced in August.

Our Congratulations to:

TO HOLD CAMP MACDONALD ON AUGUST 10-16

Opening of Registration Announced by Rural Adult Education Service—Attractive Programme Drawn Up.

The Rural Adult Education Service has announced the opening of registration for Camp Macdonald, a camp for adults, to be held from August 10 to 16. This camp was introduced to the people of the Eastern Townships last year to provide a meeting-place for all those participating in the Macdonald College programme in adult education, and the success it enjoyed brought out clearly the value of such an experiment.

Camp Macdonald is being repeated this year because it was shown that an experience of this nature can add much to the camper's knowledge and appreciation of the many benefits derived from organized recreation and education. It is being repeated, too, because those who participated in it last year have requested it again in 1942. They feel that such a camp gives them the opportunity of a short release from the tensions of war-time life, gives them the opportunity to meet the people whose interests are the same as theirs, and thus see themselves in relation to a large group of which they constitute a part. Here they can discuss and plan their adult education programme in relation to the war and the changes that are taking place in the war. Here the techniques and methods to be used in this year's Community Schools, Farm Forums, and Film Circuits will be tested and practised.

Now that the planning committee has received the "Go" signal from the campers-to-be, this year's edition of Camp Macdonald will be even better than last year's. The camp period will be divided into two sessions—the first from August 10 to 14, when two special seminars for representatives from the Community Schools will be given. One will be given in Recreational Leadership, while the other will deal with Administration of Community Schools. Following this more intensive study period will be the gala week-end camp, during which a more general programme will be conducted.

Talks by well-known personalities will set the tone of the camp. The programme will centre about the values and obligations of the adult education programme in wartime. The problems which face the rural communities of the Eastern Townships will be clarified and considered. Discussion of these talks will be conducted in various interest groups. The results of these discussions will play an important part in the plans for the Community Schools and Farm Forums; the camp will serve as a draughting-board where the blueprints of tomorrow's schools are drawn. One of the high points will be the annual meeting of the Eastern Townships Adult Education Council, where the progress and achievements of the programme in this area will be evaluated, and where plans for the coming year will be formulated.

Camp Macdonald is open to anyone interested in observing a vital adult education programme in action, and offers a demonstration of the importance role such a programme can play.

High Quality Entertainment Staged For Vacation Colony

A brilliant variety show staged under the auspices of the Sherbrooke Vacation Colony at the Sherbrooke Arena was attended by more than five thousand persons last night.

Comedy, music, vaudeville turns and dancing were sprinkled throughout a spectacular show. Consisting of forty numbers, the varied acts of entertainment kept the large crowd constantly laughing during the evening.

Highlights of the programme were novelty, singing and dancing numbers, which were roundly applauded. A sing-song of patriotic and popular selections also was enjoyed.

As an added attraction, a special show was presented by a group of soldiers from the Lord Sherbrooke Training Centre, at the conclusion of the originally scheduled programme.

Twelve selections, including many march numbers, were played by the Sherbrooke Harmony Band in between the acts. Winners of amateur acts received prizes, which were presented by the Entertainment Committee of the Vacation Colony.

A tap dance number by Captain Rene Normandin of the Valleyfield Training Centre was one of the many single act features. He scored such a tremendous hit that a round of applause compelled him to give an encore.

The evening's entertainment, which opened with the crowd singing "O Canada," concluded with the singing of "God Save the King."

Members of the Municipal Police Department, under the supervision of Captain Arthur L'Heureux, handled the crowd. There were no casualties reported to police.

Members of the City Council and their wives, other civic officials and prominent citizens attended the show, which was a huge success from every point of view.

Those who were in charge of the affair included Eugene Lalonde, President of the Vacation Colony; Alphonse Belanger, Treasurer; Jean-Marie Gregoire, J. A. Rouleau, Alphie Gauthier and Camille Dufresne.

To Clamp Down On Speedsters

Both Provincial and Municipal police authorities intend to clamp down on motorists who continue to flout the Federal and Provincial law of speeding more than forty miles an hour on highways and in the city, it was learned today.

It was indicated that notices will be issued to motorists, and warnings have come from judicial circles that the law will be strictly enforced.

All motorists are being requested to observe the speed and gas rationing laws now in froce. Several verbal warnings from the bench by Acting Recorder Hertel O'Bready have been made to drivers brought before him during the past fortnight charged with speeding.

The notice issued by the Provincial Highway Department warns the motorist that the provincial traffic department is organized with a staff of cars, motorcycles and traffic men afoot, who will see that the law is observed, and emphasizes that no excuse will be tolerated.

The provincial circular issued to motorists asks significantly: "Do you wish to keep your licence and gas rationing book? If so, see that you observe the law."

Crop Situation Reported Good

The Eastern Townships crop situation, "taken as a whole, is considered good this season," a veteran farmer told a Record reporter today. He added that there is a greater variation than usual in the appearance of crops.

He said that heavy rains in late May and early June interfered with seeding operations, but weather conditions in many of the E. T. sectors prevailed and crops are promising. "Growth was retaraded, however, and some rain still is needed in some areas," he said.

Other farmers reported "fairly good progress" in harvesting the first cutting of hay. Condition of spring crops is slightly below normal, but many farmers expect total production of fall wheat "much higher than the small crop harvested last year." They also reported that pastures are "good to excellent" everywhere.

Corn, soybeans and other late crops are below average because planting in the greater portion of the Eastern Townships was delayed by wet conditions.

POLICE PHONE LISTING UNDER FRENCH ONLY

Number of Provincial Police Office Appears Under "Surete Provinciale, Palais de Justice."

If it should happen that you have to call the Provincial Police office and you don't know how that name is translated into French, you'll get no help from this year's telephone directory.

Several persons, at least as far as this reporter knows, have stumbled on this difficulty during the past few days. For the number is listed only under the French title, "Surete Provinciale, Palais de Justice."

There can be no excuse for such a listing of a public service office which is as much for the English-speaking citizen as the French, and those responsible for insertion of this single, French publication should take steps to remedy the situation in the next appearance of the phone book.

It will be recalled that a few years ago all the Court House numbers appeared only under "Palais de Justice," and this was corrected after the Record brought the matter to the attention of the proper authorities. Complete English listings have again been dropped, and looking up "Court House" one is referred to "Palais de Justice."

The authorities at Quebec should revise their next set of instructions to the telephone people, and supply an impartial, bilingual listing of all public service telephones.

ASKS CITIZENS NOT TO REPEAT ENEMY RUMORS

Commissioner of R. C. M. P. Declares Whispering Campaign Now in Full Swing in Dominion.

Ottawa, July 30.—(CP)—Commissioner S. T. Wood of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police issued a statement today in which he said vicious and harmful stories are being circulated in Canada by disloyal or subversive persons and he is convinced the rumors are part of an enemy whispering campaign aimed at injuring the Dominion's war effort.

The statement says:

The circulation of rumors throughout Canada is increasing and has already reached a point that convinces me that many of the vicious and harmful stories form part of an enemy whispering campaign aimed at injuring Canada's war effort.

In several instances identical stories have been circulated in the U.S.A. and in Canada. Many of these rumors are the same as those circulated in various European countries as part of Hitler's preliminary "softening up" and in order to cause distrust and dissatisfaction and thereby weaken resistance.

Frequently these rumors are started by propaganda broadcasts originating in enemy countries and are circulated in the early stages by disloyal or subversive persons.

Dealing with such persons is, of course, a job for the police and intelligence services, but it would be impossible for these rumors to achieve their present wide circulation if loyal citizens did not unwittingly assist.

IN CHARGE OF RATIONING IN THIS DISTRICT

Antonio Girard has been temporarily appointed director of rationing in Sherbrooke, it was announced in the House of Commons yesterday when in a reply tabled for Maurice Gingues, M.P., it was stated that Jean Peloquin, Director of Rationing for Quebec, is being relieved of his duties July 31 because of "general incapacity to perform the duties required in that position."

The reply said S. Boyd Millen, supervisor of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board ration section, was formerly managing director of John Millen and Son, Ltd., Montreal, and is serving without remuneration. O. W. Rodmar, deputy supervisor, is on loan from Chrysler Corporation.

Antonio Girard's services are considered satisfactory it was reported.

CAR AND TRUCK IN COLLISION

Police reported today that a car and a truck were damaged as a result of a collision at the intersection of Aberdeen and Alexander Streets yesterday.

Wilfrid Laurier Morin, of L'Ange Gardien, Rouville County, was the driver of the car and the truck was operated by Sinaie Robillard, 41a Depot Street, according to police investigating the accident.

Both the machine and truck were turning onto Aberdeen Street from Alexander Street when the mishap occurred.

Decline Of $70,225 Compared With June In Local Building

Continuing to show a downward trend, Sherbrooke construction figures for July reflected a decrease of $70,225 compared to the same month last year, as well as a decline of $26,100 over June, it was announced today by City Building Inspector J. O. Chartier at City Hall.

Figures at the same time revealed a drop of $577,150 for the first seven months of the present year as compared with the same period in 1941.

Building figures for this month totalled $36,375 against $109,900 in July of 1941. Of the July, 1942, total, $26,6.5 was listed for new construction and $9,900 for alterations. Totals for 1942 were: January, $18,000; February, $21,300; May, $21,195; April, $51,390; May, $81,615; June $62,775, while figures for the same period last year were: $130,900 in January; $93,400 in February $51,100 in March; $118,500 in April; $216,400 in May, and $92,900 in June

Mr. Chartier said that the further decrease was attributed to the federal building restrictions imposed by the Government, as well as the lack of building materials.

There was a total of thirty-seven permits issued by the office of the building inspector, which is two less than last month when thirty-nine permits were issued.

Largest new construction projects is the erection of a home costing $4,500 by Tremblay and Bonin; C. Duquette, building homes on Larocque Street at $8,500; Miss E. Morin erecting home on McManamy Street at a cost of $4,395; S. Gladu, new home for $2,000 at 98 Fabre Street, and Miss I. Raymel, constructing residence on Elgin Street for $4,500. The largest repair project has been undertaken by J. Codere at 44 Victoria Street.

The lowest building figures for July in the past ten-year period were recorded in 1940, which was $11,735.

BATTERY GROUP PLANS A PENNY SALE AUGUST 3

At the regular meeting of the 35th Battery Association held last evening in the Artillery Officers' Mess, Belvedere Street Armory, Major L. W. Greenland occupied the chair in the absence of the President, Mrs. K. B. Jenckes.

Following the reading of the minutes and the report of the Treasurer, reports were given by the conveners of committees, and a motion was passd authorizing the orderinig of a further supply of wool for socks.

The main business of the evening was completion of plans for the penny sale to be held on Monday evening, August 3rd, on the lawn of St. Patrick's Academy, Belvedere Street, or in the Recreation Hall, should the weather prove unfavorable.

A report from the conveners showed that a good assortment of valuable prizes will be offered, and workers were assigned to their individual duties. No effort has been spared to ensure an enjoyable evening's entertainment, and at the same time help swell the funds which provide smokes and other much-appreciated comforts for the boys of the local Battery Overseas.

ASKS IF BRIDGE COULD BE OF WOOD

Following representations made upon the Federal Minister of Labor, the Department of Munitions and Supply and the Steel Controller by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in connection with the construction of a second bridge over the St. Francis River, the trade organization has received a letter from the Steel Controller asking whether such a bridge could be constructed of wood.

C. W. Marshall, the Steel Controller, points out that construction of small steel bridges has not been allowed owing to steel shortage and no permit could be given for erection of a steel bridge across the St. Francis unless it was established that one of wood would not serve the purpose just as well.

The Junior Cnamber of Commerce realizes that a second bridge, which could not be considered as a "small" project, would have to be of steel, and it intends to undertake further negotiations.

LARGE TURTLE FOUND

An "aged" turtle weighing from thirteen to fifteen pounds and measuring eleven and a quarter inches by ten was brought to the Record office this morning by Arthur Collins, of Johnville. He was accompanied by Mrs. Collins, their son, Robert, and John Bolland, of Sherbrooke.

Mr. Collins said that he found the turtle on the bank of the Salmon River between Huntingville and Johnville yesterday. He added that a turtle of this size is rarely seen in this vicinity and he will keep it for at least a week. "After that I don't know what I will do with it," he remarked.

However, there is one thing troubling Mr. Collins now. He does not know what to feed it.

WEIGHTY CONSIDERATIONS

That the greatest of pressure is being brought to bear on British and American war leaders to establish a second front has been evident for a long time past. The pressure increases as the Russians retire, and the whole subject is reviewed by judicial writers on both sides of the Atlantic.

Edwin L. James, leading commentator of The New York Times, devotes two whole columns to the problem in the Sunday issue and shows how tremendously weighty it is. He points to a natural difference in attitude, of the Russians, on the one hand, and of the Americans and British on the other, with regard to a second front. The Russians say that even if it fails, it will tend to accomplish the end of forcing the Nazis to pull away some of their strength from the Eastern front. It is not difficult to understand that the hard-pressed Russians take this attitude.

Yet Washington and London are bound to consider other results of a failure of a second front. It is not only the effect in their own countries and in Germany they must think about. They are obliged to give consideration to the effect on the populations of the occupied countries.

There are millions of men in Europe ready and anxious to aid a second front. That this is true is evidenced by the bravery of the Serbs in their guerilla warfare and by the manner in which French residents of coastal towns have sprung to the aid of Commandos making raids. But if a second front were tried and failed, even though it helped the Russians, the effect in the occupied countries would be bad indeed. The spirit of resistance to the Germans would get a hard blow.

That and other considerations explain the delay of which the Russians are now complaining. It can be admitted that the landing of a couple of divisions on the Continent would divert some German strength and thus aid Russia to that degree, even if the two divisions were driven into the sea. But how much larger and important would be a landing on the Continent strong enough and well planned to set up and hold a front against the Germans! That thought is doubtless in the minds of all those taking part in the talks proceeding in London.

But when one considers the opinion of the experts that Hitler could throw perhaps a million men, half of them good troops, against a second front on the Continent, it can be understood that the generals who weigh all the material factors, wish their plans perfected.

It is a tremendous undertaking which is being planned. It is an extremely difficult one. Naturally, it is true that a large number of hit and run raids can be effected and that they can do large damage to German coastal installations. But that is not what is being demanded of the leaders of the Allied Nations. What is being demanded is, in effect, a real invasion of the Continent, an invasion which will stay out and go places.

And that is a tough job.

HITLER'S POSITION STILL DESPERATE

While it is an accepted fact in Allied circles that if Hitler can smash the Russian army and make conquest of the Caucasus and Middle East during the few remaining weeks of fighting weather, he will have acquired resources and strategical advantages which will give him a tremendous, and perhaps unconquerable, strength as over-lord of Europe. That is the prize for which he is said to be prepared to sacrifice one million young Germans. And if you believe—as he does—in trafficking with the devil, then the price is not too high. What are one million or even ten million youth as compared with an Empire comprising all Europe, and maybe more?

We know, too, that if the Russians can muster the strength to halt the invaders where they now are, we shall have the Fuehrer as neatly on the toasting fork as the devil can hope to get him in the long run.

But what happens if the Nazi leader is only partially successful? Where will he stand, for instance, if he succeeds in cutting Russia proper off from the Caucasian oil and other resources, and its lifeline to the Persian Gulf, but fails to obtain those resources for himself?

Things might turn out that way. This is not to say we must abandon hope that the Reds can stop the Nazi rush before it has gone much farther. Still, there's no use blinding ourselves to the fact that the mighty striking power being shown by the Germans may enable them at least to throw a barrier across the mouth of the Caucasus.

However, it is one thing for Hitler to establish such a barrier, and it is quite another for him to fight his way down the Caucasian Isthmus to Aladdin's Lamp. Soon the great, level plain of the Northwestern Caucasus will give way to the mighty mountain range which reaches across the Black Sea to the Caspian. There are routes along the coast, but they are narrow and it's hard to believe that the Reds could not defend them.

So let us say the Nazi chief has struck a nasty blow at Russia by establishing this barrier but is himself blocked from fresh resources. What then?

Well, viewing the question through the eyes of experts who have analyzed all aspects of the situation, we can say that Hitler's strength will deteriorate while that of the Allies increases vastly. This is so because the war already has run two years longer than Hitler expected, and he is getting to the bottom of the huge supplies which he piled up over several years in preparation for war. There is no way of replenishing those supplies unless he can break through to the outside world for them.

Only the other day British-American agricultural experts in London stated that the Germans this winter will face the most serious food situation they have experienced since the war started. The Reich and Nazi-controlled Europe will harvest a crop fifteen to twenty per cent below normal this year, and the deficit may exceed even that.

Even worse, from Hitler's standpoint, is his need of oil. He must have that not only for his fighting machines but to keep his war industries going. And other supplies are needed.

All this gives point to the warning issued to the German people by Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris that British and American bombers were ready to devastate the Reich, city by city.

The Air Marshal was making no idle threat, but stating a certainty. Hitler cannot compete with such air power without fresh resources. And he must be equipped for the land invasion which will come one of these days.

ONE RAY OF HOPE

In the torrent of comment over the air and elsewhere on the Russian situation, there seems to be one hopeful point of general agreement: In this great July drive by Hitler to the South, the Russian armies have not been enveloped to any serious extent nor have they lost large stores of equipment. All this happened last year. And it is also noteworthy that thus far the Huns have not claimed to have annihilated the Russian armies and broken all resistance. This was commonplace in Berlin announcements last summer. It is apparent from all this that the Russian armies this year are of different calibre to what they were in 1941.

Whether it is wishful thinking by the commentators or not, and men like P. J. Phillips of the New York Times, at Ottawa, are fairly canny, but there is a hint of Russia having a great strategic reserve, which has not as yet been thrown into the balance. Reports give an indication of the use of Russian reserves, in that the invaders have been isolated around the two bridgeheads they established in the lower Don. A bridgehead does not serve its purpose unless forces can be moved across it in safety, and then expanded fanwise to exploit the crossing. From recent reports the Germans have not been able to do this as yet, while the losses suffered have fairly choked the river with blood, bodies, tanks, barges, rubber boats, and all the equipment of war. To take these losses and then go on and expand conquest down through the Caucasus is a feat of arms which seems impossible. But such is expected from the Germans, whose leadership makes no count of losses whatever, providing the goal is reached.

It is possible that the gloomiest view about Russia is justified, but during the year past these same views have been held very frequently. There is the chance, however, that even Hitler has overreached himself in the vastness of his aggression.

PRESS COMMENTS

HOIST ON THEIR OWN PETARD

(Timmins Daily Press)

The story of occupied Europe's gallant resistance to Nazi oppression, pieced together by the Office of Facts and Figures in "The Unconquered People," emphasizes anew how deeply the love of liberty has engraved itself in the human heart.

Truly, there are things they can't do to us who have known what it is to be free.

Under the iron heel of the most sadistic military power of modern times, with death for self and loved ones the price of any misstep, the people of France and Holland, Norway and Greece, Serbia and Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia and Poland achieve telling sabotage against their Nazi conquerors.

Even the few highlights which trickle through rigid censorship demonstrate that the "V" Front is acquiring more than a token nuisance value.

The ever more drastic measures which Hitler and Himmler are taking against such underground activities proves that these experts in fifth columning recognize the importance of the "V" Front.

When Lt.-Col. Holtz was killed last October by patriots in Nantes, the Gestapo shot 50 Frenchmen in reprisal.

When an S.S. (police) official was killed at Waeer in December, every fifth Polish male in the village was shot—a total of 167.

When Reinhard Heydrich, the butcher, was killed in Prague last month, more than 800 Czechs were slain in vengeance.

These were not punitive executions of murderers, actual or alleged. They were frankly preventive orgies, designed to stop patriotic resistance by making the price unbearably high — by assuring brave Frenchmen, Poles Czechs, who might place no value upon their own lives, that any act against the Nazis would bring death to hundreds of innocents.

Such horrible repressive measures have proven futile. Resistance continues and increases. Having conquered most of the European continent, Herr Hitler has a deadly bear by the tail, and it has become equally disastrous for him to hang on or to let go.

The Nazis know how fatal an active fifth column can be. They used such to win almost bloodlessly over most of their neighbors. Now the shoe is on the other foot. They are becoming victims of their own methods.

THE COMMUNIST BAN: AGAINST IT

Toronto Globe and Mail

In recommending the removal of the ban on the Communist Party the House of Commons Defence of Canada Regulations Committee acted soundly. The Community Party was declared illegal in June, 1940, together with a number of Nazi and Fascist groups. The reasons for the illegality of the Communist Party must have been the largely inactive pact that Russia had with Germany and the active movement of the Communists in Canada and other Allied countries to try mistakenly to help Russia by holding back, and in some cases even sabotaging, the anti-Hitler war effort. But with the invasion of Russia by Germany the Communists changed their tune. To help Russia, they are doing all they can to speed our war effort. Since that is so, the reason for the ban on the Communist party is gone, and the removal of that ban would be in keeping with good sense and fairness.

OVERHEARD ON A BUS

Brantford Expositor

In spite of earnest warnings, conveyed in the papers, over the air, and through the medium of posters, regarding the danger of loose talking, gossip on vital subjects still continues, A responsible citizen reported an instance in point just the other day.

He said he boarded a Brantford bus and found a few other passengers in conversation. One gentleman, the father of a lad now serving his country, was telling in tones loud enough for all to hear that his son would be leaving a certain Canadian port on a certain date, bound for a certain destination. In his justifiable pride, the father made the dangerous mistake of revealing just about all he knew—naming the ship, referring to its cargo, mentioning the date of sailing and giving other items of information that certainly would have been welcome to listening enemy ears.

All this happened just because an honest but too-innocent citizen had not stopped to think. His first error was in releasing information he never should have had. His second was in subscribing, subconsciously perhaps, to the stupidity complacent theory that "it can't happen here" and that there are no enemy agents at large. How horrified and indignant this father would have been had he been told that his loquacity might be placing the life of his son and probably hundreds of others, not to mention ship and cargo, in jeopardy. Yet that is precisely what it could have done. Assuming that there was no enemy agent aboard the bus, the strong likelihood remains that those who heard the account passed it along in further conversations. By such means it could conceivably get to people who would use it with deadly effect. The grim truth is that German submarines are operating in Canadian waters. Will people never learn that chattering of the sort here described is a potential aid to the enemy?

DOCTORS DO THEIR BIT

Timmins Daily Press

Now we have the spectacle of a military man making the blanket charge that Canada's medical men are unpatriotic. Setting aside the fact that it is the obvious duty of the Government to apply selective service in regard to the calling up of doctors for military service in order that the men best suited to the work may be obtained and that communities having few doctors may not suffer the loss of medical men, there is strong evidence that Canada's doctors fully understand their responsibilities in the war and are enlisting for service in creditable numbers.

BICYCLE ACCIDENTS

Windsor Star

Too many people are being injured while riding bicycles about Windsor streets. Naturally, many more wheels are coming into use, with the strict curbs placed on automobile travel, but this should not result in the daily crop of mishaps which show up in police reports. The responsibility rests on both cyclists and motorists. Automobile drivers must be increasingly alert. Those on bicycles must study traffic regulations carefully and abide by them. Bicycles can be a valuable agency of transportation in such an emergency, but they will lose much of their value if their increased use takes a high toll of human life and limb.

GOVERNMENT MUST SAVE

Ottawa Citizen

Nobody who is not blind can deny that there is an absence of an appropriate mood of economy in much of the spending now going on. Ottawa people have special reason for feeling that wastefulness is practised in some of the departments, and more especially the war departments. They hear things and they see things. They are convinced that extravagance goes on and that very much money could be saved. As has before been pointed out, a Government which imposes taxation of the kind contained in the new Budget is under a stern moral obligation to practise the thrift which that taxation is going to force on millions of ordinary people. There are at present no outward signs that such a policy is within hailing distance.

WINNING PROMOTIONS

Le Canada

The three branches of the Canadian fighting forces, army, navy and aviation, will in future have representation at the headquaters of the War Council in Washington.

Our representation will be constituted as follows: Major-General Maurice Pope, head of the delegation and representing Lieutenant-General Stuart, head of the army headquarters staff; Rear Admiral Victor Brodeur, representing Vice-Admiral Percy W. Nelles, head of naval headquarters; Air Vice-Admiral Victor Walsh representing Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, head of air hearquarters command.

Two out of three, Major-General Pope and Vice-Admiral Brodeur, are French-Canadians and it is one of these, General Pope, who is at the head of the delegation in Washington. In Canada, another French-Canadian, Major General Pierre Edouard Leclerc, has just taken command of the 7th Division after having successfully commanded two brigades.

The Laurentiens pretended that Canadians of the French race are fatally destined to play second fiddle in Confederation. The example of Major-General Pope and Leclerc and of Rear-Admiral Brodeur is the refutation of this doctrine of defeatism.

Recent events suggest that the day may not be far distant when it will be an indictable offence to criticize the government. — Fort Erie Times-Review.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority.

BLACKWOOD SYSTEM REQUIRES CAUTION

Easley Blackwood, inventor of the Blackwood Convention, which is widely used in slam bidding, has warned repeatedly that players must be careful to leave a margin of safety in using the slam tries and responses. Nevertheless, in every tournament some player traps himself, as South did in today's hand.

North likes the club bid and sees slam possibilities. He jumps to four clubs, and South duly responds with four no trump, the Blackwood Convention asking for a show of aces. North's bid of five hearts is the conventional response to show two aces.

Knowing that his side has all four aces, South now thinks that six clubs is sure. There may be seven if North has enough kings. So South bids five no trump, the Blackwood way of asking for kings.

But he traps his side. Unless North has no kings at all and responds six clubs, he is bound to bid a suit that will force South to return to clubs at the level of seven. There is no margin for the bid of five no trump. That is the same thing as bidding seven clubs at once, and South does not have the values for the grandslam.

While the slam is not impossible to make, it is most difficult and only the most far-seeing player could take all thirteen tricks.

BRAVE HERITAGE

When I was a child my mother said:
"Walk tall and keep your shoulders square,
And you will bear what you must bear
With loveliness and with no dread."
In these dark hours when life has bled
All that I loved I take her road,
Shoulder sorrow, lift my head,
And feel the lessening of the load,
Remembering "Walk tall," she said.

Sweet Williams and delphinium were used as a floral setting and the guest pews were tied with knots of the same flowers.

Appropriate music was rendered during the ceremony by Miss Shirley Wright, who presided at the organ.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore white tulle over taffeta with matching bolero of embroidered taffeta, her floor-length veil of tulle being fastened to her hair with flowers and she carried an arm bouquet of Sweethear roses, baby's breath and fern.

Miss Gladys Mouland was maid of honor and wore a floor-length gown of pink organza over taffeta with matching bolero. A halo of pink flowers was used as her head-dress and she carried a nosegay of mixed sweet peas, spirea and baby's breath.

Miss Jean Mouland acted as bridesmaid and wore a gown of yellow tulle and taffeta fashioned on princess lines. Her head-dress was of yellow flowers and she carried a nosegay of mixed sweet peas, spirea and baby's breath.

Mr. Elmer Heath acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Harry Hopkins and Mr. Howard Mouland.

Mrs. Mouland, mother of the bride, wore a gown of figured rust crepe with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Stanley Avenue, where a profusion of garden flowers was placed throughout the rooms.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom and pink and white sweet peas formed the table decorations.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Odell left for their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a frock of white figured jersey with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The marriage of Fannie Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey, Kinnear's Mills, Que., to Mr. John Reginald Currie, of Adderley, son of Mrs. Currie and the late Mr. John Currie, Adderley, took place at the Kinnear's Mills Church on Saturday afternoon, June 27th, the Reverend Mr. Jenkins officiating.

The church was beautifully decorated with a profusion of June flowers, and the wedding marches were played by Mrs. Lewis Eager, cousin of the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor-length gown of sheer crepe, fashioned on medieval lines.

Her finger-tip veil was caught with white roses and she was wearing a corsage of pink carnations, pale pink roses and lily-of-the-valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Emmeline Bailey, was her sister's only attendant and she wore a floor-length frock of turquoise blue with a small matching flower hat with a shoulder length veil, and a corsage of pink carnations and deep pink roses.

Mrs. Bailey, the bride's mother, wore a navy blue ensemble with a matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Currie, mother of the groom, was unable to attend.

Mrs. Milby, aunt of the bride, was gowned in black and wore a black hat and a corsage of roses.

Mr. Prescott Walker, cousin of the groom, was his best man.

The wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents, a three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with a tiny bride and groom, centering the pretty table.

Later the bride and groom left by motor for Quebec City, the bride wearing a light blue crepe dress with a dusty rose hat and white accessories.

After their return to Adderley a largely attended reception was given in the Odd Fellows Hall at Kinnear's Mills, the bride and groom receiving many beautiful wedding gifts.

SONG SERVICE AT COATICOOK COUNTRY CLUB

Preceded by Picnic Supper and Social Hour—Service Planned by Rev. Roy P. Stafford.

Coaticook, July 30.—As planned by Rev. Roy P. Stafford, Pastor of the Ciaticook United Church, an out-of-door sacred song service was held at the Country Club House on Sunday evening.

The service was preceded by a picnic supper and a social hour, which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

The sacred songs were chosen by request by those present from the hymn books as used by the Coaticook Unity Class.

The service led by Mr. Stafford with his daughter, Miss Dorothy Stafford, at the piano, was very enjoyable and inspiring, the singers entering heartily into inspiration of the word themes as well as the harmony of the music.

The service was attended by between forty and fifty persons, who sang for more than an hour. Some of the songs chosen were heard as choruses, others as quartettes or double quartettes in harmony. One number was sung by the junior voices alone, and Mr. Stafford kindly sang a solo.

A beautiful poem written by Miss Annie Stenning, of Coaticook, was very sympathetically recited by her grand-niece, Miss Jean Cilley, of Montreal.

At the urgent request of those present Mr. Safford has arranged for another and like gathering and song service to be held in August, upon his return from his holidays.

Crocheting Earns $195 A Year

Tantalizing to need new furniture or new clothes, knowing you can't afford them — unless somehow you can earn the money at home.

But that's an idea! Why not? Other women earn at home in all sorts of ways, pleasant ways that take little of their time.

There's Mrs. J., who crochets potholders. Because she follows the rules of home business success she manages to earn $195 a year.

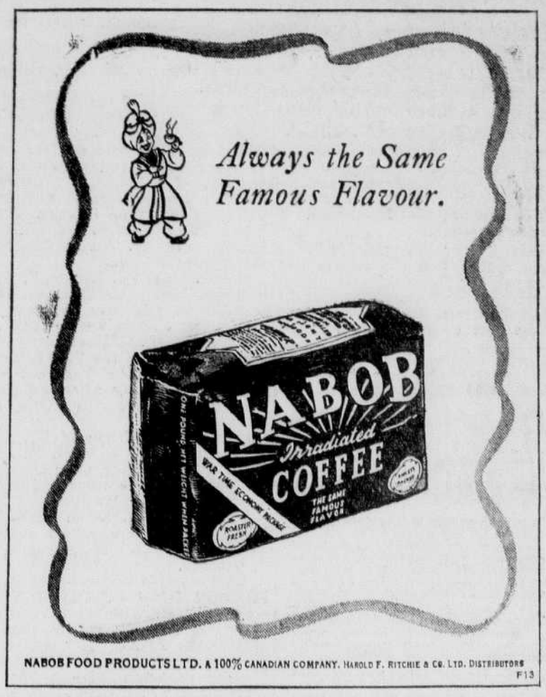

First of all, her potholders stand out. Instead of the usual square shape, hers are shaped like teapots, cups and saucers!

Second, she was smart about getting her market. She gave several acquaintances each a unique gift potholder; they were so enthusiastic they ordered in quantities and told their friends.

And she knew just what her outlay was. She figured each potholder cost her 10c, so she sold it, quite profitably, at 25c.

If you don't crochet, you may choose one of many other ways to earn at home. Our 32-page booklet tells how to earn by sewing, knitting, cooking, typing and by just being useful. Explains the five rules of business success.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "21 Ways to Earn Money At Home" to Daily Record, Home Service, Sherbrooke, Quebec. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers given below:

1. If a woman patronizes a beauty salon where tipping is not customary, how can she show her operator her appreciation for taking extra care with her?
2. Should a woman take along a child who is too young to sit quietly when she goes to a beauty salon?
3. Should a woman stand around and talk to the operators and other customers after she is through at a beauty salon?
4. If a woman sends out for a cold drink while in a beauty salon should she asked her operator to have one, also?
5. Should an operator smoke in front of customers?

What would you do if—

You go to a beauty salon for a hair-do—

(a) Complain to your operator about how you hate to sit under a drier in warm weather?

(b) Assume that nobody likes to sit under a drier—and so do not complain about the discomfort of it?

Answers

1. By giving her a small present once in a while.
2. Not if she can manage any other way.
3. No. She should remember she is in a place of business.
4. It is polite to do so.
5. No.

Better "What Would You Do" solution—(b).

WHY NOT HAVE BABY SLEEP THROUGH NIGHT

YOU and your baby both need sleep. There is a sure and easy way to get it. Let Mrs. B—, Jr., of Winona, Ontario, tell you in her own words: "Night after night, as soon as we would get settled in bed, 'Baby' would start crying. . . . Baby's Own Tablets changed all this. What a blessed relief."

In no sense are these "sleeping" tablets. They contain no opiates or stupefying drugs and are absolutely harmless. But they promote healthful sleep by promptly making the ill baby well. The well baby sleeps soundly.

Baby's Own Tablets bring quick relief from teething troubles, constipation, simple fever, diarrhoea, upset stomach, colic, simple croup and colds. Try them. 25 cents. Your money refunded if they are not effective.

FRENCH CANADA WILL DOMINATE NEW SQUADRON

Organization of French-Canadian Squadron Overseas Nears Completion with Promotion of Leader.

By LOUIS V. HUNTER,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the R.C.A.F., Somewhere in England, July 30.—(CP Cable)—Organization of the R.C.A.F.'s new French-Canadian squadron neared completion following promotion of the outfit's leader, Joseph St. Pierre of St. Eustache Sur-le-Lac, Que., from Squadron Leader to Wing Commander.

St. Pierre's chief lieutenants, Logan Savard of Quebec and Georges Roy of Westmount, Que., were raised from Flight Lieutenant to Squadron Leader. Each will lead a flight of the new Wellington Bomber squadron.

The Squadron Adjutant, FO. Jean St. Germaine, a permanent force man who has become a veteran of four raids since his arrival several months ago, was made a Flight Lieutenant, along with FO. Jean Saint Pierre of Montreal, who made a reputation as a Spitfire pilot but now is training to fly bombers.

Wing-Cmdr. St. Pierre, a dark-haired flier of thirty who has been piloting aircraft since he learned to fly as a hobby in 1929 in Chicago, where he was born, and his Flight Commanders form the backbone to the squadron whose members hope to make a name in the air to match the famous Royal 22nd Regiment's exploits in the front line trenches in the First Great War.

After news of the promotions was received, St. Pierre gathered members of the ground crew in a big hangar and urged them to work hard to make the squadron "the top one of them all."

"This squadron has been hand picked," he said, walking up and down in front of 259 eager young French Canadians lined up three deep. "The eyes of the world are upon you and we are all anxious to do the job."

Assisting St. Pierre and the others in formation of this newest Canadian squadron are FO. Bruce Servon, twenty-six, of Toronto, a navigator who is the squadron's bombing leader, and PO. Paul Saguy, twenty-two, of Quebec, a veteran of twenty-four operational trips, who has been appointed the squadron's gunnery leader.

Servon is an English-speaking Canadian but enjoys being with the French squadron. "They are good fellows to work with," he commented.

FROM THE PEN OF E. T. WRITERS

LEST YOU FORGET

We are dying for you in far-off places,
Dying, that you may be free.
Dying alone, and so far from home,
The price of your liberty.

We don't mind doing the dying,
But as our life's blood ebbs away
Our last worldly thought will wondering be,
Will the world be the better some day?

It's up to you, whom we leave behind,
Let not our sacrifice be in vain.
Your freedom was gained by our life's blood,
And it flowed free as rain.

We've died in agony in jungle swamps,
We've gone down in the raging sea.
We've cooked alive in burning tanks,
But you, dear ones, are free.

Some of us flew to meet our death,
And some are hideously maimed.
So don't forget one day in peace,
But for us you would be chain'd.

We've asked for nothing for ourselves,
We've gone, and even as the clay.
But for our dear ones we only ask
That they live in a better day.

So you, and you, who stayed behind,
We humbly ask and pray
That our loved ones may live in peace,
And none shall say them nay.

We're dead! Our names soon forgotten,
Our battle-flags are furled.
Let not in vain be the blood we shed,
For us make a better World.

HELD MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR SGT. HELGESEN

Many Friends from Scotstown and Surrounding District Attended Ceremony in St. Andrew's Church.

Scotstown, July 30.—In tribute to Sergeant Torrey Helgesen, R.C.A.F., the first known casualty from this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. Einar Helgesen, of Sherbrooke, a memorial service, conducted by Rev. C. J. Gustafson, was held in St. Andrew's Church, on Sunday, July 26, and was largely attended by friends from surrounding districts, as well as from Montreal, Drummondville, Sherbrooke and the United States.

The church and connecting hall were filled to capacity, an amplifier transmitting the service to those in the hall.

The service was opened with the beautiful poem of John White Chadwick:

"It singeth low in every heart,
We hear it, each and all;
A song of those who answer not,
However we may call;
They throng the silence of the breast,
We see them, as of yore,
hTe kind, the brave, the true, the sweet,
Who walk with us no more.
More homelike seems the vast unknown,
Since they have entered there;
To follow them, were not so hard
Wherever they may fare;
They cannot be where God is not,
On any sea or shore;
Whate'er betides, Thy love abides,
Our God, for evermore!

The Scripture readings comprised the twenty-third Psalm, John, Chapter 13, and Romans 8.

The selected hymns, "Unto the Hills," "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," and "Abide With Me," were led by the Men's Choir, of which Torrey was a member, augmented by members of St. Paul's choir.

Speaking from the text as found in Daniel 3:17, "There is a God able to save us, the God whom we serve," Mr. Gustafson emphasized the need for Christian faith, which, with our belief in God helps us in the problems that are beyond human understanding. "When we think in spiritual terms," said the speaker, "the real tragedy of life is not in the price that man pays in his service for his fellow-men, in laying down his life for a great cause, that is victory and triumph. The tragedy exists when a man is not willing to pay the price."

Tribute was paid to Torrey, who as a member of the church and choir, fulfilled his duties with faithfulness and efficiency, in athletics, in school and in social life, he had made for himself a place of love and popularity.

When he graduated from school, the same sense of responsibility, which had characterized his lesser activities, was shown in his loyalty to his country by his enlistment in the Air Force, where he served until his untimely death.

The speaker closed by exhorting his hearers o remember that "in the Father's house there are many mansions, and that while we now see through a glass darkly, one day, in the radiant light of His presence, we shall see face to face."

"The Old Rugged Cross," (Bennard), was sung as a solo, by Mr. A. A. Mackenzie.

A background of flags, baskets of fragrant Regal lilies, baby's breath, and other pastel flowers gave silent testimony to the esteem in which Torrey was held.

Mr. Hubert Scott and Mr. John Sherman acted as ushers.

The organist, Mrs. J. B. Scott, rendered "Traumerei," "Largo" (Schumann), and other selections, as a prelude, and as a recessional, the theme song from "Finlandia."

Thorstein Enevold Helgesen was born in Kroadkeray, Norway, November 10, 1919, coming to Canada, with his parents, in 1930. Graduating from Scotstown High School in 1940, he enlisted in the R.C.A.F., and trained in Brandon, Calgary, and MacDonald, Man. Active in athletics, he won a gold medal, on the R.C.A.F., hockey team, at Banff.

After receiving his Wings, as Sergeant Wireless Air Gunner, he went Overseas, in September, 1941, later taking part in the big raids on Essen and Cologne.

Mr. and Mrs. Helgesen received official notification from Ottawa, of their son's death in action, on July 13th and a second wire, detailing the arrangements for his burial, in Buxton Cemetery, Buxton, Derbyshire, England.

He is survived by his parents and a brother, Mr. John Helgesen, of Montreal.

British And American Booklets Aim To Help Johnny Doughboy And Tommy Atkins Get Along

The bright-colored cover of the British booklet "Welcome," pictured above, shows John Bull extending a hearty greeting to men of the A. E. F.

London, July 30.—
"You first, my dear Alphonse"
"After you, my dear Gaston."

While Johnny Doughboy and Tommy Atkins may never get to the stage of social polish attained by these legendary Frenchmen, the powers that be are straining to help them avoid such social faux-pas as caused many a free-for-all fracas between Allied brothers-in-arms during the first World War.

Britains are awaiting with interest their first glimpse of "A Short Guide to Great Britain," the new bok of etiquette just prepared by the U. S. War Department for the social guidance of Yanks serving in the British Isles.

In the meantime, members of the A.E.F. already here are busy perusing a neat little eleven-page booklet entitled "Welcome," which the British have published and are distributing to U. S. service men.

London newspapers have been writing glowing stories of the terrific greeting which New York and other American cities have extended to Britons in uniform.

F.G.A. Cook, of the London Evening Standard, writes that "a British soldier, sailor or RAF man cannot walk the streets of New York sightseeing for ten minutes without someone getting into conversation with him, offering him a drink or a meal, or an evening at his home in the suburbs, or a run in his car."

Ports Aren't Very Pretty

Such stories have made a profound impression upon the British people, and so it was with almost relief that they greeted the booklet "Welcome," which is both an explanation of and an apology for British hospitality.

"Welcome" makes interesting reading. It tells A.E.F. members:

"You are about to land at a British port. If you expect white cliffs and thatched cottages, you will be disappointed. It will be like most other ports in the world — busy, dingy, and, if the day is grey, probably a little depressing.

"The real England—the England of placid villages and sleepy towns—lies behind it. So do the Welsh mountains and the Scottish moors. The people will be very glad to see you, but their enthusiasm is usually of a rather shy sort and you may not be aware, at first, of the warm friendliness they feel towards you."

Pointing out that the 1917 A. E. F. were the first Americans many Englishmen had ever seen, "Welcome" says "we were a little disappointed that they were not wearing ten-gallon hats and cowboy pants. We know a great deal more about you today.

"A word or two about conditions here. Nearly three years of war have made us pretty realistic in our outlook. The gayer side of British life has been subordinated to the grim business of war. Nearly everybody who is physically able is doing a war job of some sort.

"There's A War Going On"

"You may find some of our restrictions irksome; we find them so ourselves. If our trains are sometimes delayed, if there are few porters in the darkened station, or the coaches are not as clean as they might be, we shrug our shoulders and use a formula which has saved our temper in the most exasperating circumstances: 'There's a war on.' You will hear the phrase until you're sick of it. We are.

"There is little more to be said except that we are very glad to see you."

Besides tipping Johnny Doughboy on how to get along with the English, the booklet also includes specific information on various subjects such as what to do in air raids, what official papers a U. S. service man should carry, Britain's involved money system. Of the last, the booklet apologetically says:

"One of our quaint English customs is to make the currency difficult. You can take it roughly that five shillings (better known as five bob) are equivalent to a dollar. Watch the half crown and the two shilling pieces—they're very similar in size and design, but the half crown is worth 10 cents more."

RALLY TEA AT WATERLOO WAS FINE SUCCESS

Function Held at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin P. Hillhouse to Raise Funds to Carry on War Work.

Waterloo, July 30.—The rally tea held on the beautiful and spacious lawns at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin P. Hillhouse was a decided success both socially and financially.

The weather being ideal, the attendance was large. The function was conceived by Mrs. Hillhouse as a means of procuring funds to carry on war work, and her suggestion was heartily supported by a large number who are interested in furthering this necessary work.

Afternoon tea was served at small tables on the lawns, each table having a vase of red poppies, provided by Mrs. J. A. Corcoran and arranged by Miss Irene Savage and Mrs. Sherwood in effectively carrying out the red and white color scheme. Tea was poured by Mrs. LeBrun, Mrs. E. J. McKenna, Mrs. H. D. Wells and Mrs. S. J. Irwin.

Serving was done by the following young women wearing white aprons and white bandeaux with red emblems: Mrs. Stanley Copping, Miss Mary Truax, Miss Joyce Shanks, Miss Margaret Parkes, Miss Marjory Moysey, Miss Pauline Jones, Miss Charlene Perkins, Miss Joan Davidson and Miss Barbara Thomas.

The refreshments provided by the group workers were in charge of a kitchen committee, Mrs. Hillhouse, Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Harry Williams and Mrs. Romilly Graves.

During the afternoon Mrs. Charles Daigneau rendered popular patriotic airs on the piano. A beautifully rendered vocal number by Mrs. A. Grandpre with Miss Lillian Laprade accompanying and a poem especially suitable for the occasion was given by Mrs. Hillhouse, all of which were greatly enjoyed.

The gratifying sum of twenty-six dollars was realized.

ST. PAUL'S W.A.

A well-attended meeting of St. Paul's Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. B. J. Taylor, Clark's Hill, on July 23.

The afternoon was spent in social intercourse until four o'clock, when the President, Mrs. E. A. Blake, called the members to order for a short business session, which was opened with the Lord's Prayer recited in unison. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Henry Bird. Ways and means of increasing the association's funds were discussed and one way was adopted, that of each mother raising talent money.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. J. G. McKergow and Mrs. Tazor, who were joint hostesses.

QUICK WORKERS KEEP CANADA'S TANKS ROLLING

Ordnance Workshop Like Big Factory Plays Important Part in Servicing Equipment of Armored Division.

By FRANK FLAHERTY,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An Eastern Canada Army Camp, July 30.—(CP)—Back of early armored division stands the ordnance workship where the tanks and other equipment are kept in repair. In the case of the 4th Armored Division the workship has the proportions of a large factory, complete with a wide range of tools, spare parts and skilled operators.

It is a huge building the form of an "H". One side is the tank workshop and the other the place where other vehicles, trucks, motorcycles, carriers and armored cars as well as smaller pieces of equipment get their servicing. The cross bar contains offices and stores of tools and parts.

The big "Ram" tanks used by the division in training get a complete overhaul after every 100 hours of operation and in order to keep them rolling the job is done as quickly as possible.

Four men give the tanks their periodic checkover and it is a 24-hour stretch of steady work for them. Two are regular ordnance workshop men and the other two are members of the crew which operates the tank. They work on the overhaul so that they will know what the tank needs and be able to compare notes on its performance before and after overhaul and thus see what defects have been corrected and what have not.

The job starts at seven o'clock in the morning and it is usually well on in the next morning before it is finished. After it is done the weary, greasy working soldiers get a day off.

Removing the engine from a tank is a big job in itself. It is lifted out with a block and tackle and bolted into a movable stand in which it can be turned upside down or to any desired angle for working.

The repair jobs in this workshop are reduced to a drill. A definite time is laid down for each operation and a definite order of procedure is prescribed. By this means it is possible to get the quickest possible movement of equipment through the shop and at the same time have a check on all operations.

Opposite each tank undergoing overhaul is a blackboard on which the operators chalk the time log of their work, the time each operation is completed. Their objective is to keep each single operation within the prescribed time so that they will finish the whole in the time laid down without being unduly rushed on any particular operation.

Lieut. Edmond Cox, of Windsor, Ont., is in charge of the tank wing of the shop. Before joining the army he worked on the manufacture of Bren gun carriers with the Ford Motor Company.

In charge of the administrative work of the shop, keeping records of the tanks coming in and going out and of the repairs and parts they require, is Lt. E. K. MacEachern, of Ottawa, a graduate of Queen's University in engineering with several years' experience in mechanical engineering behind him.

The men in the shop who do special repair jobs work in pairs. This gives two men a complete experience on every job. The ideal situation in a tank workshop is to have every man able to do any job on a tank but as a start that is not possible.

After the two-man teams get proficient on their jobs, one man on each team is switched with a man on another and so the men switched get to be experts in two lines, working in the second lineup with men who are already experts.

The shop foreman who looks after the work of the men is Sgt.-Maj. L. J. Davis, of Bracebridge, Ont., who worked on trucks and tractors in a lumber camp before joining the army.

A typical workshop man is Private Alex Wilson, of Toronto, who attended Danforth Technical School and learned something about shopwork there before joining the army.

Alex had an adventurous career at sea and decided he wanted to be a mechanic in the army. He worked in an oil tanker which brought him close to the war a number of times. His ship was bombed at Le Havre as it left that French port two days before Dunkirk.

The Government of the United States owns land in 2,965 cities.

Discuss Canadian Beef Problems

Every member of the Advisory Committee is a cattle producer and most of the members are connected with organized agriculture, chiefly through the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. Thus it is more representative of the producer end of the industry than probably any other wartime advisory committee yet constituted, although all advisory committees have producers on them. There are some colorful figures in the cattle industry, too, on the Committee. George Ross, of Milk River, Alberta, operates one of the largest and one of the oldest cattle ranches in the West, but he has adapted modern methods to his operations. He was the first rancher to fly his own aeroplane in carrying out the periodical inspection of his ranch and negotiating his cattle deals. He was also one of the first to introduce the "cow-and-calf" feature of the old-time ranching business.

They are: front row, left to right, William Bryce, Dougald, Manitoba, President of The Manitoba Federation of Agriculture; Leslie Cameron, Ashcroft, B.C., President of the B. C. Beef Cattle Growers' Association; Stewart Brown, Shedden, Ont., Chairman of the Ontario Feeder Cattle Committee; George Ross, Milk River, Alberta, one of the largest ranch operators in Western Canada; Allen McMillan, Juniata, Sask., cattle producer; W. G. Bennett, Bury, member of Quebec Cattle Breeders' Association. Back row, left to right, Hon. J. G. Taggart, Foods Administrator of The Wartime Prices and Trade Board and Chairman of Wartime Food Corp.; A. W. Peterson, Secretary of Wartime Food Corp.; H. Wiebe, Herbert, Sask., representing the Saskatchewan Stock Growers' Association; B. Warnicka, Barrie, Ont., President of The Ontario Cattle Breeders' Association and manager of a co-operative packing plant at Barrie; Walter G. Oulton, Windsor, N.S., President of the Maritime Federation of Agriculture; H. L. Taggart, Olds, Alta., President of the Central Alberta Cattle Feeders' Association; F. S. Grisdale, Deputy Foods Administrator, Wartime Prices and Trade Board; and R. H. Graham, Manager of The Wartime Food Corporation.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!
Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.
The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.
Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.
Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-noted for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Diarrhoea Dysentery
If you are suddenly attacked with diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps or pains in the stomach or bowels, or any looseness of the bowels do not waste valuable time, but at once procure a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and see how quickly it will give you relief.
When you use "Dr. Fowler's" you are not experimenting with some new and untried remedy, but one that has stood the test of time; one that has been on the market for the past 94 years. Beware of substitutes. They may be dangerous to your health.

HARRY HOPKINS: "Roosevelt likes him because they see eye to eye..."

Harry Hopkins Is President Roosevelt's Trusted Advisor

By ROBERT RUARK,
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, July 30. — "If it hadn't been for the war," one of Harry Hopkins' closest cronies was saying, "Harry wouldn't be marrying Louie Macy today. He wouldn't be marrying anybody. He'd be dead.

"A bum stomach and being Secretary of Commerce nearly killed Harry — and that Commerce job would have been the heaviest contributing factor. A few pills and the war kept him out of the grave. Getting out of Commerce, a horrible hole for a man like Hopkins, and focussing all his attention on war work gave him enough impetus to get well. None of us know what kept him alive from 1939 to '40, but we do know that Lend-Lease gave Hopkins a new lease on his own life."

Harry Hopkins, 51, on the verge of his third marriage, is healthier and happier than most of his friends can remember seeing him. But if his job as President Roosevelt's closest advisor and most trusted assistant in war administration has helped him physically, it has dstroyed much of the man who set up the WPA back in the country's depression years.

Hopkins, the hot-eyed reformer, has tossed all his theories of social and economic betterment of the United States into the crucible of war. That he has abandoned all his feverish thought of internal welfare is the unanimous criticism of the men who know him best. In a way it is an explanation of one of the most paardoxical figures of these times.

Here is the man in the eyes of his friends: A naturally lazy fellow who loafs through routine jobs, but who scourges himself into a fury of self-punishing activity in the prosecution of a new, challenging assignment; a complete pragmatist whose passion is taking a difficult chore and making it work; a man who can never hold permanently to one line, but who must forever feed his psyche on fresh food of endeavor.

A country boy whose personal tastes are completely sophisticated; grandly careless of his own money, but conservative, despite the billions of other people's coin he has blown for the New Deal; a man of such magnetism and zeal that he can work smoothly with anyone, even rabid anti-Roosevelt big business which abhorred him as a boondoggler; a homely, shambling, slovenly-dressed man whose personal charm siso enormous that women find him fascinating and employees are enslaved by him.

A social worker who prefers the Stork Club to settlement houses, poker to parcheesi and the racetrack to lectures; a foremost figure in the administration of the Allied war effort whose qualifications were founded in Grinnell College, Ia.; fostered in New York's slums and matured in New Deal Washington.

"Harry," says friend Howard Hunter, former WPA Administrator, "has come a hell of a long way from the days when we were both social workers. And if anybody had told us, even five years ago, that Hopkins would be running back and forth for conferences with Churchill adn Stalin we wouldn't have believed it.

"He hasn't the accepted qualifications of a man in high world diplomacy—yet I'm convinced that only his bad health prevented him from being Mr. Roosevelt's choice for President in the last elections."

At present, Hopkins is Roosevelt's right arm, his closest confidant, his most trusted adviser. He is the first man to see the President in the morning, and the last to see him at night. He lives and works in two rooms of the White House, and next to the President, is probably harder to see than anybody in the nation. He has two defined jobs; administrator of lend-lease and the chairmanship of the Munitions Assignment Board. For the rest, he is Roosevelt's extra eyes, ears and hands.

If you ask a member of the White House staff what Hopkins does, the answer is that he spends half his time listening to the President's wishes, and the other half carrying them out. What are the orders, and what is the conversation? Hopkins knows, and so does the President. It ends there.

"Hopkins," says an associate, "is the catalytic agent between Roosevelt and the bureaucrats. He is the boy who raises the blisters and sets off the dynamite under the bureaucrats when the Big Man wants action. He enjoys it, too.

"Roosevelt likes him because they see eye to eye on almost everything. He is trusted implicitly. He is an absolutely acute gauger of the President's moods. He knows just how far to take an argument. He is a good trial-horse for ideas. If Mr. Roosevelt had another self, it would probably be Harry Hopkins."

The Iowa harness-maker's son has definite qualities which make him valuable. He has a photographic memory for figures, and a startling grasp of the meat of confused situations. He can wade to the bottom of masses of data in a few minutes' time.

He is a lightning administrator when the course of action suits him or when the subject at hand is important. He is inclined to be lax on stuff he considers of minor importance. He is apt to let his hired help alone for days, and then suddenly submerge them in work.

Generally he's easy to get along with, and is a great believer in the delegation of important tasks to the people he trusts. Lois Berney, the Nevada woman who is his secretary, sifts all his mail, and handles many important matters more persnickety bosses would insist on supervising.

Hopkins' tricky stomach, which doesn't secrete the required number of juices, is a stern regulator of his life. He is supposed to rest frequently, and to consume an alarming amount of tablet potions to make up the deficiencies.

As a result, he works often from his bed, and punctuates his conversation with pills. But, caught up by some new idea or assignment, Hopkins is likely to forget about his bed, medicine and diet.

He fatigued himself so greatly in England and Russia that he slept most of the way back on the plane. His doctors have repeatedly told him that he could live to his normal expectancy if he'd take care of himself... advice he consistently ignores. "I'm a healthy man," one of the White House staff says, "but I've seen Hopkins gobble food on trains that would put me in bed for a week."

Harry's diversions can be split, roughly, into three categories; books, both detective and solid; gambling, an equal division of bridge, poker and bangtails; people, especially pretty girls, and his daughter Diana, child of his second marriage.

As a gambler, Hopkins is good at poker, poor at bridge. He fancies himself an expert horse-picker, is a rigid believer in form sheets, and invariably talks himself off his own selections. He is as careful about making a $5 bet as he was in the old days when he used to rip another billion bucks off the public bank roll.

He loves parties and people. He spends a lot of time in the Stork Club, "21" and the other fancy nightspots. He knows debutantes and diplomats, socialites and social workers, captains of industry and captains of waiters.

Although his clothes look like they were blown on him by a careless wind, his figure is thin and shambling and his face no model for the movies, he goes great with the gals. For awhile he and Paulette Goddard of the films were running such a temperature that chums were betting she'd be the next Mrs. H.

"I guess the sloppy clothes are a help with the ladies," says one of his friends. "Harry always looks like he needs somebody to take care of him."

His close friends are nearly all relics of the good old New Deal days; Hunter of WPA and OPA, Dave Niles, now WPB; Aubrey Williams of NYA; Jesse Jones, Steve Early, and Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago. In New York his closest tie is John Hertz, the millionaire horse-fancier who bred the Yellow Cab outfit back in Chicago. These are the cronies with whom he likes to sip Scotch and play stud poker.

His Achilles' heel is Diana, the slim youngster who has spent most of her life in the White House since her mother died in 1937. Hopkins will drop anything to pay attention to his daughter, although he isn't comparably close with his sons.

In Washington there is much conjecture on how his marriage with attractive Mrs. Macy will affect his perch at the President's right. Some say that Hopkins, the benedict, can't be as close to Mr. Roosevelt as Hopkins the bachelor. But Harry's friends say that it will take more than a woman to weaken the bond between Hopkins and The Boss.

After a honeymoon, the newlyweds will live at the White House, and Hopkins doubtless will continue to appear with the President's breakfast coffee, and to serve himself with the nightcaps when FDR prepares for bed. It is probably true that, after so many years of intimate association, the President would find it almost impossible to do without his thin, cavernous-eyed Pythias.

Mr. Hopkins, down through his Washington years, has paid precious little attention to the gossip that perennially surrounds him, the barbs that are forever aimed at his stooped shoulders, the jealousy that is the inevitable outcome of his juxtaposition to the Presidential ear.

He has been punished by press and public in nearly every phase of the Roosevelt administration, for his strict adherence to New Deal policy and unswerving loyalty to its first citizen. He never seemed to give a hoot, and the following story is typical.

During the WPA heyday, when dollars were tumbling after each other for relief, Hopkins and a select batch of cronies were having dinner in a Washington restaurant. While they were waiting for the meal, Hopkins suggested a game of pitch-quarter, which was progressing right merrily when one of his chums had a horrified thought.

"My Gosh, Harry," he said. "Suppose a Congressman should walk in and see us pitching quarters in public."

"Hell with 'em," said Hopkins, carefully aiming his two-bit piece at the crack.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

The famous musical composition, "The Bee," commonly credited to him, was not written by Frank Peter Schubert, but by another Franz Schubert, a minor composer of Dresden.

ACHILLES' HEEL of Harry Hopkins' devotion to his work and to the President is his daughter Diana—he'll drop anything to pay attention to her.

WILD SLUGGING MARKED AMERICAN LEAGUE

White Sox Take Long End Of Double Event

For Second Time this Season, Lowly Chicago White Sox Took Two Games of Double-Header from New York Yanks—Wild Scoring Also Marked Remaining Events in American League.

Chicago White Sox have been going nowhere in the American League ever since the season started, but they have attained one distinction denied every other club in the circuit. They are the only team to sweep a doubleheader from the world champion New York Yankees and they have accomplished the feat not once, but twice.

When the Sox first turned the trick in New York on Sunday, June 28, the Yanks were in a slump and the Sox didn't get much credit. It was like picking on a man when he was down.

But they caught the champions last night at the crest of a winning streak that included four straight victories and fifteen of their last sixteen games and proceeded to whip the Yankees at the kind of ball for which New York is noted—slugging.

The first game was played at twilight and the Yanks gave Atley Donald a 5-1 lead with five runs in the third inning, two of them on Joe DiMaggio's sixteenth homer. Then the Sox slugged back to win 6-5 in 11 innings wdith old Sam West driving in four of Chicago's runs. He doubled for two to tie the score in the ninth and singled home the deciding tally in the 11th.

The second game, played under the lights, saw the Sox take an early 5-2 lead, the Yanks tie the score in the sixth, and then Chicago come back with two runs in its half of the same frame to win 7-5.

This merely dented the Yanks' big first-place margin to 12 games, because Boston Red Sox were nosed out 7-6 in 11 innings at Cleveland when Roy (Stormy) Weatherly singled with the bases loaded.

The other American League contests were equally wild. At St. Louis Washington Senators squeezed past the Browns again 11-10 with four runs in the ninth inning. There was scoring in every inning of the game and ten pitchers were used, six by St. Louis. George McQuinn, Vernon Stephens and Walt Judnich all hit home runs for the Browns.

Detroit Tigers walloped Philadelphia Athletics 12-7 in an affair that would have been considerably lopsided except for five Detroit errors.

In the National League Brooklyn Dodgers enlarged their lead to eight games by beating St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in a twilight tussle that was halted in the last of the seventh by wartime dimout regulations in the New York area.

The two doubleheaders which completed the senior circuit card were halved. Chicago Cubs welcomed Van Lingle Mungo back into the majors a bit rudely, beating New York Giants 4-2 even though held to seven hits in the first game.

The Giants took the second game, however, 3-1 with Dick Bartell and Babe Young hitting homers and Bill Lohrman driving in a run with a single in addition to pitching nine-hit ball.

Pittsburgh Pirates took their first game at Boston 3-0 on five-hit hurling by Truett (Rip) Sewell after being shut out for seven stanzas by Al Javery. Then the Giants retaliated with a 6-5 decision in the nightcap in behalf of big Jim Tobin.

Windsor Squad Establishes Something Of Softball Mark

By SCOTT YOUNG,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, July 30.—(CP)—When Bendix won a Windsor, Ont., Softball League game a few days ago its first four runs were homers, which must be some kind of a record . . . Bob Pearce has received a new shell from an Australian maker, likes it better than any he's ever had, and is feeling in the pink . . . That's just in case anyone thinks the Hamilton, Ont., Muscle May isn't ready to defend his world's sculling championship.

Arnold Bertram lodges a loud beef about the fine treatment received by fighters visiting Vancouver in comparison with that received by his good bantam, Ken Lindsay. . . Lindsay battles Tony Olivera of San Francisco on a war fund programme tomorrow night. . . Both are shipyards workers and—you guess it—the fight is billed: "The Battle of the Shipyards."

Among the latest entries in the Canadian Open are Jimmy Thomson and Lloyd Kangrum. . . Sam Snead has asked for permission from the U.S. navy to make the trip. . . Among the Toronto Maple Leafs hockeyists in the services are: Army—Nick and Don Metz; Navy—Bob Goldham; R.C.A.F.—Ernie Dickens, Frankie Eddolls, Wally Stanowski, Pete Langelle, Johnny McCreedy.

R.C.A.F. Mess Room Chatter

By LOUIS HUNTER,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With the R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, July 30.—(CP)—Pilot Officer B. D. Murchie's popularity with his fellow officers won't last if his bombing continues to be effective. The 21-year-old St. Stephen, N.B., school teacher attacked a warship with such success that it blew up and pieces flew into the engine cowling of the plane behind him.

Six Hurri-bombers were attacking three destroyers off Cherbourg. Murchie dropped his bombs at sea-level and they apparently struck the vessel's store of mines or depth charges. The destroyer, he said, "just blew up in my face and my kite jumped 100 feet."

Sgt. D. S. Conroy of Plymouth who was behind Murchie got the worst of the deal. When he got back the ground crew picked two pieces of aluminum out of his cowling. The "trophies" now hang in the flight's dispersal hut.

Murchie found romance since his arrival in England more than a year ago. He was married recently to a W.A.A.F., Jessie Andrews, of Colchester.

Flt. Sgt. D. W. Wescott, of Winnipeg, doesn't talk much about this, but his companions will tell you all about it.

The 21-year-old Hurri-bomber pilot suddenly missed the rest of his section during a flight over France. He looked behind and saw three aircraft so he waited for them to catch up. Wescott wasn't particularly anxious to be alone with so many Jerries about.

The three machines drew up and one overshot him. Then he began to get worried. The plane in front of him wasn't a Hurricane or Spitfire—it was a Focke-Wulf.

Wescott was stumped for a minute and decided the wisest thing was to sit tight. The pilots behind him couldn't fire without endangering their mates in front. Wescott continued flying in formation with the Nazis until some of his companions saw his plight and chased the Jerries away.

He's being kidded now about teaching formation flying to the Germans.

WAR DECREES ONLY

WALES LOOKING AHEAD

BLACKWELL IN TITLE ROLE AS CHIEFS FORGE

Royals Lose One of Two International League Fixtures by Score of Seven to Three.

By The Associated Press

If you saw Ewell Blackwell in civilian clothes, you wouldn't think he was a mainstay of Syracuse Chiefs' hurling corps. He is six feet five inches tall and skinny. However, if you saw him pitching in an International League game you would readily understand why he is regarded as one of the most-promising pitchers in the minor league.

The lanky righthander has a fast ball that hums. Blackwell is the property of Cincinnati Reds. He was sent to the Chiefs to gain experience and since joining Syracuse has received the nickname "Hard Luck" because of the low-hit games he lost.

He had no hard luck last night, though, scattering nine Montreal hits in racking up his ninth conquest of the season as the Chiefs defeated the Royals by 7-3.

Baltimore Orioles took the season's series from Buffalo Bisons, twelve games to ten as they defeated the Bisons, 4-3.

In the only other game played, Jersey City Giants and Toronto Maple Leafs battled to a 1-1 nine-inning tie. Play was halted to allow the Jerseys to catch a train.

NEGROES OFFER FRESH HOPE IN MAJOR LEAGUES

At Least Twenty-Five Negro Players Are of Major League Calibre, Kansas City Official Declares.

Kansas City, July 30.—(AP)—There are at least twenty-five Negro baseball players of major league calibre, believes J. L. Wilkinson, co-owner of the Kansas City Monarchs, champions of the Negro American League.

The possibility of Negroes breaking into big-time baseball was raised by William E. Benswanker, President of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who said he would hold tryouts for Negro players. Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis previously asserted there was no ruling against the use of Negroes in organized baseball.

The Monarch boss said he had discussed the situation in Chicago Tuesday night with his prize chattel, Satchel Paige, kingpin of Negro pitchers. Although Wilkinson has a two-year contract with Paige, he said he told the lanky righthander, "We certainly won't stand in your way if you have a chance to play."

Satch, who holds decisions over the Dean brothers, Bob Feller, Schoolboy Rowe and many other major mound stars, probably would have to be tendered a pretty sizeable chunk of money for his signature. He has received as high as $2,000 for a single game, and considering that he works in more than eighty games a year, his recompense would rank him with the highest salaried athletes in the game.

Next to Paige, Big Gibson, catcher for the Washington Homestead Grays, would command the most interest, believes Wilkinson. Josh is the Negro's Babe Ruth, clouting forty to seventy circuit blows a year. He has a lifetime batting average of .349, possesses a good arm, and is one of the fastest men in Negro ball.

A man who'd just joined for training passed a captain without saluting. The captain stopped him.

"Take a look at me," he said. "Do you attach any special significance to this uniform?"

The new chum looked him over, then grinned. "Why, you lucky dog," he exclaimed, "you've got a suit that fits!"

Army Teams Boost For Professional Football

By BURTON BENJAMIN
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

New York, July 30.—The two service teams which play an eight-game exhibition schedule in the National Football League this season give the professional game an official blessing comparable to President Roosevelt's famous green light to baseball.

Owners and coaches, who feared bankruptcy when their virile, young investments began getting plucked by the armed forces, are enthusiastically preparing for a full schedule of games. They believe this year will be the most lucrative in league history.

The army is not going into the professional game with any degree of permanency nor is it going in to feather football's nest. It is chiefly interested in raising $1,000,000 for Army Emergency Relief. Under present plans, when the eight games have been played, the squads will disband and return to military pursuits.

The War Department believes that football, with its strategical parallels to war and its premium on conditioning, should be encouraged. Army service teams cannot help but give the professional game a tremendous boost in prestige.

No punches will be pulled by the army. The appointment of Lieut.-Col. Robert W. Neyland to coach the Western squad and Maj. Wallace Wade the East, indicates that the military has no intention of taking its exhibitions as a lark.

Neyland of Tennessee and Wade of Duke are two of the finest football strategists in the land.

Both are valued officers. Neyland, a West Pointer, was in charge of building a $40,000,000 cantonment with $1,000,000-a-day of construction. Wade is a field artillery officer who fought in the last war.

Obviously these men would not be transferred to any projects which the army considered of secondary importance.

They are now pruning a prepared list of some 1,800 former college and professional stars to a squad of 120. Their list includes 89 former National Football League players. Among them are Ken Kavanaugh, Norm Standlee, Sam Francis, Waddy Young, Ben Kish, Win Anderson, Kayo Lunday, John Mellus, Whizzer White, Dwight Sloan, Kay Eakin, and Nick Basca.

The professional picture is muddled by war losses. Among the important new faces who will be able to play are Curt Mecham, of Oregon, Bill Dudley, of Virginia, and Charley O'Rourke, of Boston College.

Mecham, a great triple-threat back, passes and kicks from the port side. He is expected to be a main cog in Mike Getto's offense in Brooklyn. Getto replaces Dr. John Bain Sutherland, who is now in the Navy.

Dudley, only 19, was a heavy All-America vote-getter last fall. He will play with the Philadelphia Eagles.

O'Rourke, a Beantown star in 1940, coached a high school last year. A superlative passer, he will play with the Chicago Bears as understudy to Sid Luckman.

The Halas Henchmen will have Luckman, George Musso, George Wilson, Harland Pool, Young Bussey, Dick Bray, Ray Artoe, and Bulldog Turner. That should be plenty.

Professional football's normal body-busting routine, plus the added attraction of soldier teams, should produce a healthy response from the militant citizenry.

BASEBALL CLUB TO AID BLOOD DONORS

Montreal, July 30.—(CP)—A new twist to try and encourage more voluntary blood donors for the Red Cross will be introduced in tonight's doubleheader between Jersey City Giants and Montreal Royals here.

Two volunteers will be escorted to home plate after the first game and their blood donation will be taken in full view of everyone. The volunteers will then return to their seats and watch the second game of the twin bill.

PROMINENT AUTHOR SILENT ABOUT SELF

Bath, England, July 23.—(CP)—Ernest Bramah, seventy-four-year-old writer of best sellers for forty years although few people knew anything about him, has died in Somerset.

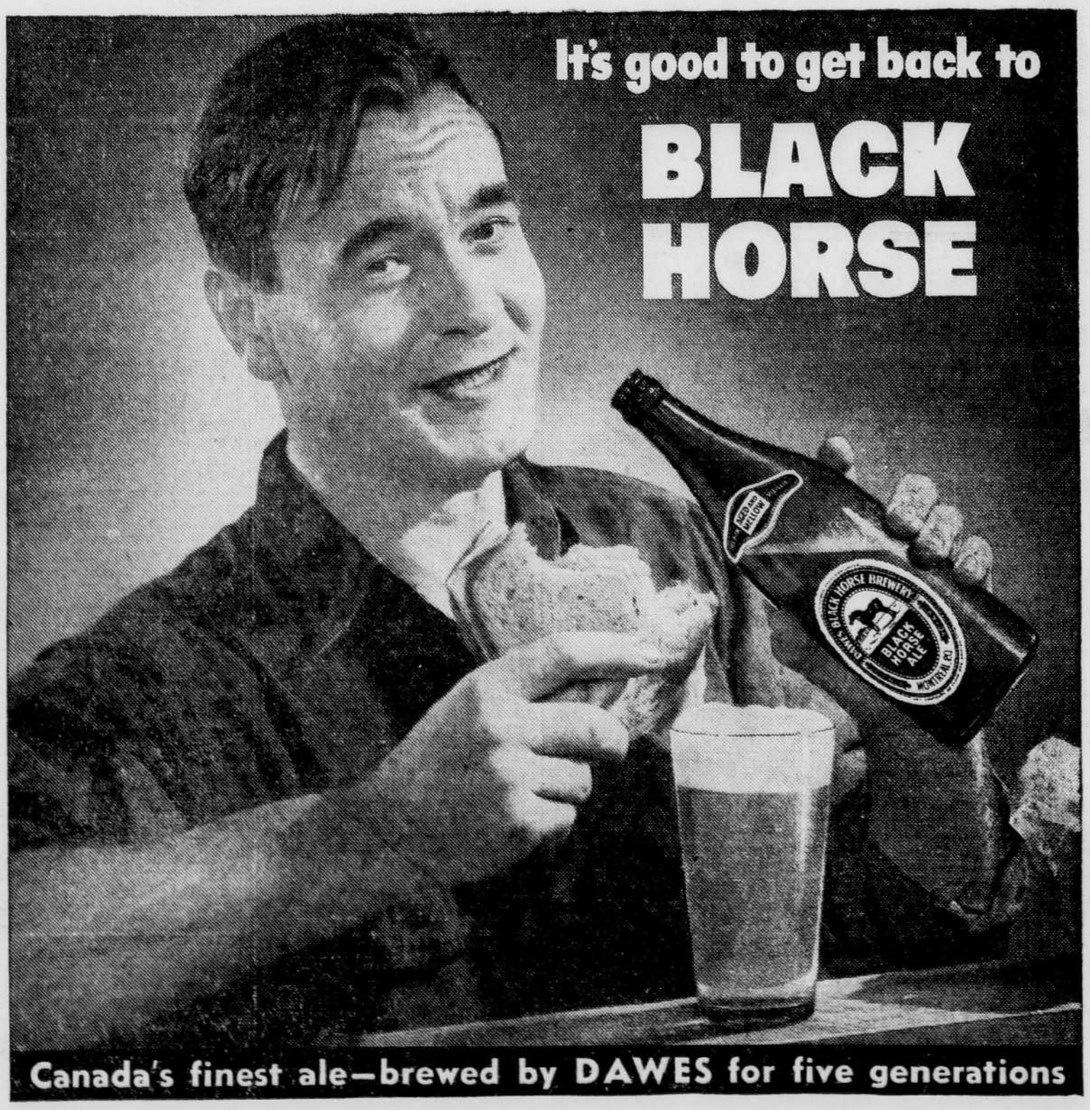

Who's Who revealed nothing about his life beyond his name and a list of his publications and it was only a few years ago that he disclosed to an interviewer that his name was Ernest Bramah Smith and that he came from Manchester. His most popular books were about "Kai Lung," a Chinese philosopher.

POIGNANT TERM BECOMES TITLE OF VIVID FILM

"Next of Kin" Intended as Training Movie for Commando Troops Proves Stern Warning Against Careless Talk.

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, July 30.—(CP)—"The next of kin have been informed."

Through the medium of movie film these words, made known by so many official war communiques, have been turned into Britain's most forceful warning against careless talk. From them came the title for the film, "The Next of Kin," acclaimed by critics as the best war film they have ever seen.

Originally intended only as a training movie for commando troops, "The Next of Kin" now is being released to the public after prolonged discussions between the War Office and the Ministry of Information.

The story is told with stark realism: Somebody talked—just a word here, a word there; but it was enough to give the enemy advance information. Then, on the coast of France, hundreds of brave Britons died needlessly.

It is a full-length movie, dramatic but simply done, packed with action, and so realistic that one officer who saw it remarked: "Everyone who sees it knows in his heart that at some time or another he has talked too much—but never again."

No visitors were allowed on the set during production and everybody concerned, from Producer Michael Balcon down, was sworn to secrecy. The pictures of the raid itself were filmed in Cornwall.

The story begins with the dispatch of two German agents to Britain to investigate special training of men for raids abroad. One is caught, but when the picture ends the other—played by Flt.-Lt. Mervyn Johns—is still at work listening intently in a railway carriage to careless talk about secret munitions production.

Facts, most of them trivial, are collected by a net work of spies. A phony bookseller, a night club dancer's dresser, an innocent-looking doctor, a Dutch refugee caught in a Nazi web . . . all gather information which fitted together forms the complete pattern of the planned commando raid.

Near the end of the movie is shown the slaughter of the British troops who tried to make a surprise raid on France only to be mowed down by forewarned Nazis. Fields are strewn with British dead, bloody and asprawl. Some of the bullet-ridden bodies were those of men who had inadvertently helped the enemy with remarks made innocently to their sweethearts.

Because somebody talked, Britons died and . . .

"The next of kin have been informed."
