Officers Elected for St. Thomas' Ladies' Guild

The annual meeting of St. Thomas' Ladies' Guild, was held at Bristol Corners, on Friday, Nov. 26th.

The following officers were elected for the year:—President, Mrs. Richard Thompson; Vice-President — Mrs. Sid Trudeau; Treasurer—Mrs. M. Langford; Secretary—Mrs. S. Abbott.

Reports of the year's work were most encouraging to all. The chancel of the church was stained and varnished, a new carpet purchased and also a good contribution raised for the missionary budget.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting, the table being centered with pink tapers and birthday cake. The exchange of birthday presents was enjoyed by all.

Campbell's Bay, Honors Men Leaving Village

The people of Campbell's Bay and vicinity took the occasion of the departure of Dr. R. G. Docks, and Ronald McLean two well-liked and respected young men of the village to show their respect for them in the form of a banquet and presentation on Tuesday evening of last week. Dr. Docks who has been in the Bay for the past number of years is moving to Shawville and Ronald McLean has been on the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia for the past 6½ years has been transferred to the Bank street and Fourth avenue branch in Ottawa.

Mr. L. S. McNally very ably acted as toastmaster and addresses were delivered by Rev. Father Enright, Dr. S J. McNally, Neil Drummond and others. Some 65 were present at the banquet which was held in a local hotel.

Jury Finds Renfrew Man Guilty Of Slaying 13-year-old Child

Sentenced to Hang, Feb'y 10th

Pembroke, Nov. 25. — John A. Comba, 26, of Renfrew, tonight was found guilty of the murder of 13-year old Ethel Hedderwick, at Renfrew, on August 3rd.

Immediately after the verdict of the petit jury, sitting at the Supreme Court Assizes for Renfrew County, was returned following four and three quarter hours' deliberations, Comba was sentenced by Mr. Justice Chevrier to be hanged on February 10th.

The trial commenced last Wednesday and 27 witnesses were called for the Crown before it completed its case Wednesday morning. Five witnesses testified for the defence and the case closed.

Throughout the entire trial, Comba was calm and collected. At stages he seemed to take a keen interest in proceedings, while on others he glanced around the court room. During recesses he laughingly spoke to friends and guards.

The Hedderwick child went out picking choke cherries at Carwell's Hill, Renfrew, on the morning of August 3. She failed to return to her home in Renfrew for dinner and during the afternoon, concern was felt for her safety. A search party was organized in the evening.

It was Comba who pointed out the body to searchers. Examination revealed the child had been criminally assulted, then bludgeoned to death by blows on the head. An intensive investigation for the slayer started immediately and exactly three weeks later Comba was arrested on the murder charge. He was committed for trial in September at a preliminary hearing in Renfrew.

T. M. J. Galligan, K.C., assisted by H. B Johnson, K.C., represented the Crown, while James Maloney, defended the accused.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Brown, of Manotick, Ont., were week-end guests of Mrs. Thomas Shore.

Miss Lillian Hopper, of Renfrew, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hayes this week.

Miss Ella Steele, of Ottawa, was a week-end guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. Earl Horner.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dean and daughters, Lorna and Joyce, returned last week from a nine day visit with relatives in Montreal.

Miss Ivy Millar, of the staff of the local office of the Bank of Montreal, is spending her vacation with her mother and sister in Ottawa. During her absence her position is filled by Mr. Geo. Ewing, of Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sole and Mr. Stewart Russell, of Bedford, Que., spent a few days of last week with friends at Starks Corners. Returning they were accompanied by Miss Stella Fulford, who will remain at Bedford for the Winter months.

Registered Cattle Lost in Fire At O'Brien Farm, Renfrew

A large bank barn on the M. J. O'Brien farm, near Renfrew, was destroyed by fire on Monday evening together with a machine shed, three silos and about forty head of cattle, including several registered animals. None of the well-known O'Brien herd of prize show cattle was in the barn, however.

Mrs. Frank Delorme

Attended by many friends and relatives, the funeral of the late Mrs. Frank Delorme was held on Friday morning at 9.30 o'clock from her home to St. James' church where requiem high mass was chanted by Rev. Father J. W. Archambault, P. P., who also preached a funeral sermon. Buriel took place in the parish cemetery. Pall-bearers were two brothers, Harvey and Andrew Romain, and four sons-in-law, George Hisko, Joseph Ducharme, Leo Gauthier and August Rougier.

The late Mrs. Delorme was formerly Matilda Romain, daughter of the late Jacob Romain and Margaret Laplaine, and was born at Lapasse, Ont., in March, 1860. She spent the greater part of her life in Portage du Fort, a quiet and home-loving woman and a kind neighbour. She was predeceased by her husband and one daughter, Christena.

Surviving are six daughters, Mrs. Joseph Ducharme and Mrs. Jack Langill, of Ottawa; Mrs. James Young, of Parent, Que.; Mrs. Geo. Hisko, of Renfrew; Mrs. Leo Gauthier, of Gracefield, and Mrs. August Rougier, of Portage du Fort; and two sons, Michael of Chelmsford, Ont, and Romain, of Portage du Fort. Also surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Wm. Bently, of North Bay; Mrs Jos. Gervais, of Fort Coulonge; Mrs. Jas Gillies, of St. Catharines, Ont., and Mrs. Chas. Giroux, of Portage du Fort; seven brothers, Peter and William Romain, of Toronto; Harvey Romain, of North Bay, and Joseph, Andrew, Frank and John Romain, of Fort Coulonge; also fifty-six grandchildren and thirteen great grandchildren.

Ladies of St. Paul's Church Hold Successful Bazaar

The bazaar held on Friday last in the Theatre, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of St. Paul's Anglican Church Shawville, proved most successful.

The various tables were in charge of the ladies from the Senior and Junior Guilds. The tables were most tastefully decorated with bunting, flags and crepe paper of various colours, thus giving a very artistic touch to the general appearance.

The fancy work tables of both organizations contained a large display of very choice work, while the novelty and surprise tables also displayed very suitable articles. All the tables received a goodly patronage with the financial results most gratifying. The cafeteria and food table found very few spare moments, while the candy table found ready purchasers. The fish pond served the needs of the younger generation.

The evening entertainment was most successful, with the following contributing to the programme: Recitations, Mr. Fred Schwartz, of Greermount, and Mr. R. P. Eades of Shawville; Drill by a group of scholars from the Shawville High School under the leadership of Mr. Douglas; Mr. C. Borts, magician from Ottawa, gave an hours entertainment of illusionary magic.

The three-layer Christmas cake was drawn for at the close of the programme and was won by Mrs. W. H. Corrigan.

DIED

BAMFORD—Suddenly at Fort Coulonge, Que, on Sunday morning, Nov. 28th, 1937, Mrs. Thomas Bamford, aged 56 years. The funeral took place from the late residence of the deceased on Tuesday afternoon to the Fort Coulonge Presbyterian Church and Cemetery.

Many Attend Funeral of Mrs. Isaac Martin

Tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Isaac Martin, who passed away after a short illness at her home, about two miles east of Campbell's Bay on Monday of last week, was paid by her many friends and relatives who attended her funeral Wednesday afternoon in St. George's Anglican Church Campbell's Bay.

Rev. Gordon Phillips, the rector, had charge of the service at the church and at the cemetery. A full choir was in attendance under the leadership of Mrs. Phillips. Interment was in the Union cemetery.

The late Mrs. Martin, formerly Minnie A. Schwartz, was in her 61st year, and was a daughter of Mrs. Margaret Schwartz and the late William Schwartz, of Thorne. Forty-two years ago she married Isaac Martin and for a time they farmed in Thorne. A number of years ago they moved to a farm on the Litchfield-Clarendon Townline where they were residing when she passed away.

Chief mourners were her husband, Isaac Martin; six sons, Herbert, Fred and Ernie, of Campbell's Bay; Lionel and Sherwood, at home, and John, of Sudbury; three daughters, Miss Marie Martin, of Burlington, Vt.; (Amie), Mrs. Marshall Riggs, of Toronto, and Miss Edith Martin, of Ottawa; also her mother and three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Schwartz, and the Misses Aimee and Marie Schwartz, of Gloversville, N.Y., and Mrs. Jack Ebert, of New Westminster, B.C.; two brothers, Fred Schwartz, of Thorne, and Charles Schwartz, of Los Angles, Calif., and a number of grandchildren.

The number of floral offerings and messages of sympathy were further testimony of the high esteem with which the deceased was held.

The pall-bearers were her six sons, Lionel, Herbert, Fred, Ernie, John and Sherwood Martin.

Silver Wedding

About 45 friends pleasantly surprised Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dods at their home, Maryland, Bristol, on Friday evening, Nov. 26th, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

A fitting address was delivered by Rev. Andrew Russell, an uncle of the family, after which little Eleanor Cuthbertson and Stanley Dods presented the honoured couple with a generous sum of money.

Mr. and Mrs. Dods then thanked the friends present in a suitable manner.

A beautiful bouquet was presented to the bride of 25 years by Gwen and Barbara Bruce and Ann Bowes, of Ottawa.

The table was centered with a wedding cake, donated by Mrs. John Dods, and fittingly decorated with a miniature bride and groom by Earl Dods. Two aunts, Mrs. David Russell and Mrs. William Graham poured tea. Those assisting in serving were, the Misses Hilda Pritchard, Norma and Shirley Dods.

Those from a distance were, Mr. and Mrs. Morley Bruce and daughters, Gwen and Barbara, and Mrs. John Bowes and Anna, of Ottawa; Mrs. J A. Pritchard and family, of Alcove, and Miss Norma Dods, of Rupert.

Music and games during the evening were enjoyed by all.

EDITORIAL COMMENT FROM HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE.

Most Dangerous Motorist

The most dangerous motorist is neither the drunk nor incompetent but the exhibitionist—the chap who has an exaggerated sense of his own importance when he gets behind the steering wheel, and insists on driving with that sense of his importance as his ruling motive.

This verdict is returned by Dr. C. H. Watson, of the American National Safety Council.

"Safety is a question of performance," says Dr. Watson. "Because people know what they should do, does not mean that they will do it."

One needs to drive only a little while to understand the truth of what Dr. Watson says. The man who weaves in and out of traffic lanes, passes other cars on curves or hills, cuts in suddenly, crashes lights and ignores stop signs, is displaying all the stigmata of the man who has set himself up on a pedestal. He also provides the set-up for most of our accidents.—Guelph Mercury.

A Silly Custom

An Essex (England) rector finds fault with confetti at weddings and in future will require a deposit of five shillings. If no confetti is thrown in the churchyard, the deposit will be returned. But if confetti is thrown, enough of the deposit will be used to pay for cleaning up the mess.

We are all for the rector in this matter. Confetti-throwing is a silly and annoying custom. It causes serious embarrassment in many cases. And it certainly litters up churches, homes, yards and railway stations. Though some light-hearted persons may complain, nothing would be lost if confetti were abolished.—Windsor Daily Star.

Inequal Inequality

We are not opposed to equality for women but it does seem they have a lot more equality than we men have.—Brandon Sun.

Talking Out of Turn

Not so loud about Germany's colonies, Mr. Blackshirt Mussolini. When you geeva da Tyrol back to Austria there will be plenty of time to talk about what the Mistress of the Seas ought to do regarding Germany. — Hamilton Spectator.

The Money Rolls In

Beet and grain cheques are making life brighter for the man on the land in Southwestern Alberta. After all, wealth comes from production, though there are times in the ebb and flow of prices when production brings less than the grower is entitled to receive. —Lethbridge Herald.

Dionne Reciprocity

Papa Dionne bought the Christmas presents for the Quints in the United States. That is only reciprocity, the U.S.A. having contribute much to Papa in the wherewithal with which to buy presents.—St. Catharines Standard.

Doleful Thought

A constant theme of pulpit, press and platform in these days of world-wide strife and dissension is the threat and the possibility of the collapse of civilization. May it not be that the collapse has already arrived?—Halifax Herald.

Kings And Dictators

Three kings recently dined together in Buckingham Palace, but it is not believed that the legs of the three dictators, Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini, will ever be assembled under one mahogany.—Brantford Expositor.

THE EMPIRE

Time For Talk

It is one of the tragedies of democracy that it requires an eternity of talk as prelude to a moment of action.—London Observer.

Rome-Berlin Axis

What, then, is the truth about Mussolini's policy, in which the outpourings of his tied press have their part?

He is playing at power-politics. He believes that his situation is tactically very strong, and can be further exploited by a shrewd diplomacy. And so he is making use of every device of bluff, every resource which has nuisance value, every manoeuvre which a troubled European situation opens up to him, in order to extend his power and buttress his position.

He derives considerable assistance from the fact that his fellow-dictator, Hitler, is playing exactly the same game. We have, therefore, that remarkable joint bluff, the Rome Berlin axis. Germany and Italy, divided ultimately by divergent interests, rig up a facade of unity. This is the Rome-Berlin axis. It is made of plaster, not of steel. — London Evening Standard.

Australia Looks at Canada

Sir Harry and Lady Chauvel came back by the Canadian route. Sir Harry saw nothing of the army and air force in Canada, the staff being mostly away on manoeuvres, which were too far afield for him to visit. He saw a great deal of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, of which his old friend, Major-General Sir James MacBrien, is commissioner. They are a very fine body of men, and their detachment at the Coronation shared the honor with our own men of the best reception of all the Dominion troops in the procession. They have a very attractive uniform, and were mounted on their own horses, which made a lot of difference. Sir Harry was impressed with the evidence of prosperity which met them everywhere in Canada except in the western prairies. He found Canadians much more concerned at the world situation than we are, and everywhere he went he was asked what the people of Australia thought about it. — Australasian (Melbourne).

Blind Student Hurdles Five Foot Ten Bar

Chauncy Hahn, twenty-two year-old Washington State College Student from Spokane, although virtually blind, maintains a scholastic average of eighty-six and takes an active part in university sports.

Although handicapped by not being able to see the bar, Hahn high jumps 5 feet 10 inches and has run the 100-yard dash in .09.9 seconds. Track Coach Karl Schlademan is grooming Hahn to clear the bar at 6 feet. Hahn had formerly attended the Washington State school for the Blind at Vancouver, Washington. He took an active part in sports there. Instead of white lines being used to designate the lanes to runners, they use strings suspended between the distance markers.

Sees Apples Growing On Trees First Time

A man who farmed for more than a quarter of a century in Canada last week saw an apple growing on a tree for the first time.

Although the apple is Canada's largest fruit crop, Clarence Stork, M.L.A., of Shaunavon, Sask., traveled hundreds of miles to see his first one actually on a tree.

Robot Telephones Burglar Warning

Novel Device Automatically Notifies Police as Hands Are Placed on Safe

An ingenious telephone alarm which automatically "phones" a message to police headquarters whenever a burglary is being perpetrated forms the subject matter of a patent just granted post-humously to Ralph W. Carnahan, Shaker Heights, Onio.

The moment the burglar lays his hand on safe or cash register, the mechanism automatically dials police headquarters and a phonograph-like device attached to the telephone broadcasts a predetermined hold-up message recorded on a disk into the telephone.

Burglar Doesn't Suspect

The unusual thing about the mechanism is that the burglar does not know that he himself is warning police, since the operation of the alarm is silent. There is no disturbance of any kind that would make him suspicious of the fact that an alarm is being broadcast.

The new telephone alarm may be also directly connected to the police radio broadcasting transmitter, so that the message on the record is broadcast directly to scout cars cars which might happen to be in the vicinity of the burglary.

News In Brief

Wed in Mourning

LONDON.—His bride of a few hours in tears and wearing mourning, Grand Duke Ludwig of Hesse started for Ostend this week-end on a sad honeymoon—to claim the bodies of his entire immediate family, who perished in a flaming airplane there.

The Grand Duke and his bride, Miss Margaret Campbell Geddes, daughter of Sir Auckland Geddes, were married at St. Peter's Church in Eaton Square. It was a strange wedding. Rejoicing was replaced by sorrow and the wedding gowns with sombre black.

Canada's Death Rate

OTTAWA.—Canada's 1936 death roll was 106,617, according to preliminary figures published in the annual report of the National Health Department. This represented a ration of 9.7 per thousand of population.

The highest rate was in Prince Edward Island, 11.1, and the lowest in Saskatchewan, 6.7.

The Quints' Education

NEW YORK.—When the Dionne quintuplets reach school-age, possibly in a year and a half, when they will be five, they will learn their A. B.C.'s in a classroom built with the money their fame brought them.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe said here that their education would be interfered with if they went to a regular school like other children. He told a press conference that because the five little sisters of Callander, Ont, "are in the same class as princesses, fated to live in the spotlight all their lives," they would have to be educated by private tutors.

Labor "Ginger" Party

LONDON.—The Labor Party this week announced its new front bench to put more "ginger" in its attacks on the Government. But it turned out to be much the same front bench that has faced the National Government across the House of Commons since the 1935 election, and even before.

A "ginger group" of twelve was elected to sit with Clement Attlee, Leader of the Opposition; Arthur Greenwood, Deputy Leader; the party Whips, and the Executive Committee.

Winners at Royal

TORONTO.—To United States and Manitoba went the top awards in the female classes as the judging of the largest showing of Belgian horses that has ever been forwarded at the Royal Winter Fair was completed.

Senior and grand champion mare was the 3-year-old Aida de Bierbeek, shown by Sugar Grove Farm, Aurora, Ill. Their yearling filly, Madelene Supreme, was the reserve junior champion, and they also had the winner of the class of sixteen yeld mares.

Japs Make for Nanking

SHANGHAI.—Warships of Japan's third battle fleet this week-end blasted away Chinese obstructions in the channel of the Yangtse River above Shanghai opening the way for a naval bombardment of China's devastated central capital—Nanking.

The Chinese, fearing more Japanese aerial bombings in advance of the impeding naval attacks, hastened their partial evacuation of the capital and made last-minute changes in their plans to continue the war, despite the crushing defeats they have suffered around Shanghai and in the northern Provinces. They said seventy Japanese warships were in the lower Yangtse.

Agreement With El Salvador

OTTAWA.—A trade agreement between Canada and the Central American Republic of El Salvador, granting mutual most-favored-nation tariffs, was announced here this week-end.

The agreement, signed at San Salvador Nov. 2, provided one exception to favored-nation tariffs—advantages given Central American Republics by El Salvador will not be disturbed as long as they are not extended to other countries.

Cold Weather in Spain

HENDAYE.—Winter weather paralyzed military action on Spanish war fronts this week. Neither side reported any fighting.

Observers believed the advent of winter would prove a major obstacle to Insurgent General Franco's campaign for an early end to the conflict.

Airmail In Alaska

WASHINGTON — The United States postal officials said this week they would open bids Dec. 15 for airmail contracts providing weekly service between Juneau, Alaska, Whitehorse, Yukon, and Fairbanks, Alaska. Officials said the mail would be flown once a week between Juneau and Whitehorse and on a similar schedule between Whitehorse and Fairbanks.

POOR SPORTS: The November season of pheasant shoots brings its annual crop of cruelty stories, tales of "sportsmen" who "fish" for birds by placing baited hooks on wire fences, or drive wounded birds into the lake forcing them to drown. In Essex County Court this week, William Ferguson, Pelee Island farmer, denounced the hunters as "maniacs" and "savages," claiming that two men had shot his chickens along with wild pheasants. Another story tells of two hunters who ignored a "No Trespassing" sign on a certain farmer's property, pursued a pheasant to the farmer's very back door, turned deaf ears to his pleas that they spare its life. The bird was a family pet, tame for many years. Poor sportsmanship, we call it. More game wardens are needed who will take an active interest in their job and put a stop to such vandalism.

THOSE ELECTION SPEECHES: The Canadian Broadcasting Commission is celebrating its first birthday with a conference on the many and complex problems which have come before the board during the past year. One of the most important questions to be discussed is the broadcasting of political speeches during election campaigns, those speeches that were such a headache to nine-tenths of the people who listened in this September and October. Many these are who actually enjoyed the broadcasts, who appear grateful for the political information they derived therefrom, but judging by the number of protests received by Major W. E. Gladstone Murray, the Commission's General Manager, it is pretty generally felt that the candidates and their backers were wasting both time and money in monopolizing the air waves.

VACANT SPOTS: Speaking in Winnipeg last week, Right Hon. R. B. Bennett declared that the British Dominions must build up their populations and fill in the vacant spots towards which the jealous eyes of other less fortunate countries are now turning. Question: How shall we fill these "vacant spots" in a hurry? Mr. Bennett's solution to the problem is Empire co-operation, by which he means, no doubt, encouragement of emigration from the more crowded areas of Britain's domains.

CONSPIRACY IN FRANCE: — France, one of Europe's few remaining democracies, has her own troubles. Since the fall of Blum's Popular Front government this summer, they have increased a hundred fold in view of the fact that the present administration headed by Premier Camille Chautemps is neither definitely of the Left nor of the Right, but is at the mercy of both factions. Every now and then Rightist agitators, believed to be backed by Fascist interests, are arrested when authorities come upon a cache of arms, a bomb-proof shelter. Rumors are now current that the Rightists are preparing a "putsch" against the government.

Too many issues are involved for Blum's Socialists to attempt at this time to regain the seat of government. A revolution such as that of 1789 would have to be faced, with international complications too drastic to contemplate.

CANADIAN CAPITAL: We have been hearing a great deal the past few years about the domination of Canadian industry by American capital. Refutation of that idea is made this week by the Secretary of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, D. H. Ward, who addressed a service club in Leicester, England. Says Mr. Ward: Of every $100 invested in Canadian industry, $70.60 is Canadian, $21.14 American and $7.92 from the United Kingdom. He declares that there are about 1,400 United States controlled or affiliated companies in Canada, but only 68 per cent. of them are manufacturing concerns. Of capital invested in these companies, only 38 per cent. is in manufacturing. The minority interest in these companies, coming to about 22 per cent., is chiefly Canadian, he says. Cheering news, this! We may now begin to hold up our heads.

PASSING THE BUCK: It's happened again! Deadlocked, the Nine-Power Conference meeting at Brussels to settle the question of the Sino-Jap conflict, had to give up trying to mediate in toto. In the first place, they were powerless because Japan refused to have anything to do with the Conference, would consider none of its proposals. When Ambassador Norman Davis of the United States made a rather non-committal speech inferring that action should be taken against Japan, it was immediately seized upon as the opening all had been waiting for. Foreign Minister Anthony Eden immediately let it be known that Britain would follow the American lead. The United States then accepted the appointment as Committee of One, backed by Britain and France, to take fitting steps to end the war in China. But before the United States can institute any steps, Congress will have to be agreeable. Do you think they will do anything? Frankly, we don't.

Sea Floor Yields Ice Age History

Steel Tubes Shot Into Atlantic Ocean Bottom Take 'Bore Samples' of Ancient Strata

The million-year history of the Ice-Age summarized in ten feet of ocean-bottom mud and sand, says the New York Times.

That is the meaning read from thirteen core samples of bottom material by a group of U. S. Geological Survey scientists, declares a copyrighted article by Dr. Frank Thone. They are still working on the material, first ever obtained by a new device developed in the laboratories of the Carnegie Institution of Washington by Dr. Charles S. Piggot. Evidence thus far obtained strongly supports the theory that the several strata within this very small depth record cold periods of ice advance, with warmer intervals of ice retreat.

Two Layers of Ash Found

During the long time in which they were being slowly deposited there were two periods of major volcanic activity, perhaps in Iceland. This is shown by two layers of fine volcanic ash that serve as convenient landmarks by which the strata in the various samples can be identified and correlated.

The cores show four zones containing sand, with pebbles of a wide variety of minerals. In these layers remains of living organisms are scarce. They appear to have been formed in part from materials carried by floating ice and strewn on the bottom.

20,000 Years A Fact

Interspersed between these sand-and-pebble zones are layers rich in shells of one-celled animals that indicate marked changes in living conditions.

The rate at which the ocean-bottom layers were laid down is as yet a subject of only the most open conjecture. At some stations the 20,000-odd years since the close of the Ice Age were represented by just one foot of material. Elsewhere the rate of deposition seems to have been nearly ten times as fast.

Britain Demands Heavier Cattle

As a Result of the Fat Cattle Bonus Scheme Effective This Year

Heavier and better fleshed cattle are in demand by United Kingdom feeders as a result of the fat cattle bonus scheme which came into effect August, 1937, in Great Britain, according to advices received by the Dominion Department of Agriculture from observers on that market.

Under the new bonus system, cattle must be held on feed at least ninety days after importation, before they qualify for the bonus. Lighter and thinner cattle require up to one hundred and fifty days on feed to qualify for the five shillings per cwt. (112 lbs.) "quality" cattle bonus or the two shillings and sixpence per cwt. paid for "ordinary" cattle that are imported.

Marketed Earlier

The immediate effect of the recent bonus payment system has been, it is stated, to place the beast on the market at the earliest date it can qualify for the payment and to replace it with another. Consequently, the nearer the animal is to market requirements, in type and weight when secured, the sooner it is ready to market. Such an animal is evidently required as a feeder or "store" and is paid for accordingly.

The effect of this apparent change in demand on the part of the British feeder is important to Canadians who contemplate exporting cattle to the United Kingdom market, as an indication of weight and finish required. Steers of around 1,150 lbs. weight and fairly well finished are declared to be in favor in Norfolk. Birkenhead area will take leaner kinds of about equal weights, while in Scotland 900 to 1,150 lbs. stores, better finished than formerly, are considered about right. About 1,100 lb. is commonly preferred.

Suicide Proves Invention

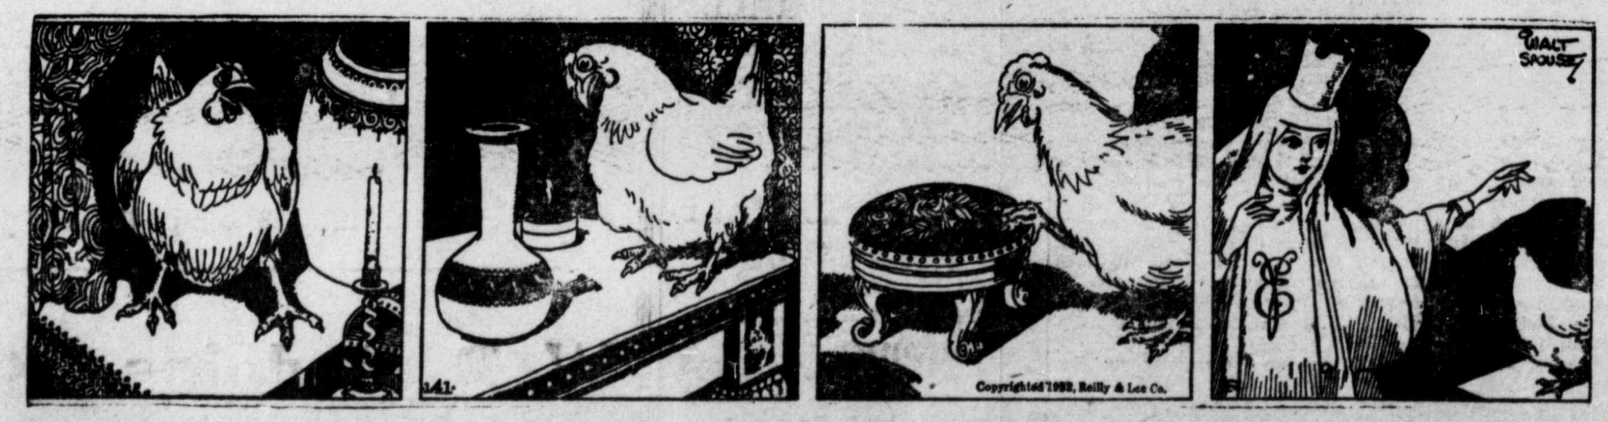
A locksmith of Petrovgrad, Jugoslavia, Josip Majsner, invented an automatic rifle which, he claimed, would fire 10 bullets when a button was pressed. But none of those to whom he showed the invention were at all interested; and, in desperation, he shot himself with the weapon. He left behind him a note claiming that his body would prove his claims about the rifle's efficiency.

Police examined the corpse and it showed that the rifle fired 10 bullets simultaneously. Seven of these bullets were found in his body.

Now, to add a touch of grim humor, enquiries are being received from firms who want to patent the rifle.

"America is much more susceptible to the financial effects of a war scare, and indeed more prone to the scare itself."—Sir Josiah Stamp.

Wonderland of Oz



The yellow hen, stepping high and with an air of vast importance, walked slowly over the rich velvet carpets of the palace, examining everything she met with a sharp eye. Billina had a right to feel important. She alone shared the Gnome King's secret and knew which objects were the transformations of her friends.

She was very sure that her guess would be correct, but before she began she was curious to behold all the magnificence of this underground palace which was perhaps one of the most splendid and beautiful places in any fairyland. As she went through the rooms she counted the purple ornaments and found the entire ten.

Billina did not bother to count the green ornaments or the gold ones that she knew to be transformations of the Ca people. She was sure she could find them all when the time came. But she did try to find the Tin Woodman, who she had heard the Gnome King describe as something very funny.

Finally, having made a survey of the entire palace and enjoyed its splendor, the yellow hen returned to one of the rooms where she had noticed a large purple foot-stool. She placed her claw on this and said "Ev" and at once the foot-stool vanished and a lovely lady, tall and slender and most beautifully robed stood before her.

40 Oysters Could Feed The World

Should All the Eggs Laid by the Female Bivalve Grow to Maturity

To judge by its appearance when it lies on a plate with a wedge of lemon closely flanking it, an oyster leads a life completely devoid of excitement. Nothing could be further from the truth, however, for from the moment when it makes its first appearance in the form of an egg the oyster's life is one long series of thrills and adventures.

Few Survive

Very few, however, "live to tell the tale," for so numerous and varied are the oyster's enemies that, although a female oyster lays as many as 500,000,000 eggs in a season, less than 500 of these reach maturity.

Fifty per cent. of the eggs disappear into hungry maws at the very beginning. Out of those that escape emerge tiny creatures that can swim. Gradually the shells that are to be their life's home begin to form, and soon they reach such a size that the baby oysters become unable to swim, and find themselves sinking to the bottom.

Biding Its Time

Should the baby bivalve have escaped the fish that have been devouring billions of its brothers and sisters all this time, it eventually comes to rest on the sea bed. If it touches rock bottom it is lucky, but if it lands on mud or sand it is doomed.

In any case, still more enemies are waiting for it, worst of all being the starfish, which can wipe out an entire oyster bed. This creature attaches its suckers to the shell and patiently waits for the inevitable time when its prey must open for a "breath" of fresh water. Then it exerts a steady pull.

The oyster is unable to close up again. In fact it is forced to open wider and wider until the starfish is able to get at the soft, succulent meat inside.

Oyster Culture

If the oyster had no enemies at all, but was allowed to breed and grow unmolested, a mere 40 oysters would produce enough for man's annual needs. But as the oceans of the world would soon become choked up with oyster-shells, perhaps this would not be an unmixed blessing!

In view of the enormous labor the female endures in order to keep her kind alive, Nature gives her the opportunity to enjoy an occasional holiday—she becomes a male for a change!

Oyster culture is, of course, an established science today, and many efforts are made to protect them from their enemies. The babies are even given cradles!

New Bells Will Peal If Church Debt Paid

Eight new bells will peal from St. James' Anglican Church, Vancouver, Christmas morning — providing the church can raise $1,700 between now and then, to pay off the balance of its debt.

The bells, gift of Rev. R. G. Hark, a former rector of the parish, were given on the provision they remain mute until the balance of the debt on the building is paid off.

When the church opened last year, the debt was $12,500, but an unnamed friend in England promised if the congregation would raise the balance, he would contribute $6,000. So far, officials stated, $4,800 had been raised.

Along Canada's Mining Highway

The focus of mining interest in Eastern Canada, is the rapidly unfolding diamond drilling picture on the Barber Larder property, situated to the West of Kerr Addison and to the East of Omega, in and Larder Lake district of Ontario. Barber Larder is conceded in mining circles to give promise of a major mining operation.

R. S. Potter, President and big owner in Barber Larder, is one of the best known prospectors and developers of mining properties, having entered the North country thirty years ago. Mr. Potter's well warranted success with Barber Larder will assist other mining ventures. He has already announced the reopening of the Lacoma Gold Mining property, in the Province of Quebec.

Beauty In a New Car

There's a double fashion note in this view of an attractive young person inspecting the handsome interior of one of the 1938 cars on view throughout Canada. Flowers in her hair ornament are in tune with the very latest in styles for 1938. So is the "breathing back" mohair velvet upholstery which forms an appropriate background for the moire evening gown, over which she is wearing a velvet cape with fur collar.

Young Man—"Will you marry me?"
Heiress—"No, I'm afraid not."
Young Man—"Oh, come on, be a support."

Worry is the price you have to pay for being an intelligent human being instead of being an animal.

A tourist visiting a country fair, stopped by a merry-go-round. Presently he noticed a little man seated on one of the wooden horses. What struck him as strange was that every time the merry-go-round stopped the little man made no move to get off the horse.

At length curiosity overcame the tourist, and when next the man on the horse stopped opposite him he said: "Pardon me, sir, but do you enjoy going round and round like this?"

The unhappy one grimaced. "Not a bit," he replied.

"Then why do you do it?" asked the tourist.

"The man who owns this contraption owes me five dollars," informed the little man, "and this is the only way I can get it."

There are a number of persons who never get next to themselves—and we don't blame them.

Saul—"I was so hungry that the moment I got in I began eating the tables."

Paul—"Do you expect us to believe that? What sort of tables?"

Saul—"Why, vege-tables, of course."

"People are pretty much the same the world over," asserts a writer. Aw, don't be so pessimistic.

Diner—"Waiter, look at the ends of this sausage."

Waiter—"What's wrong with them, sir?"

Diner—"They're very close together, aren't they?"

Our fathers and mothers called them "tramps' and "bums." Now we soft-soap them as "transients".

Russians Transform Northern Wastes

Mines, Power Stations, Cities, Are To Spring From Natural Resources of Arctic

Within our life-time the drear wastes of the Arctic Circle may become one of the most thickly populated centres of the world. Transport systems will radiate from it, factories and homes be set up there.

The North Pole itself is likely to become an attractive resort for tourists.

For 40,000 Russian workmen are now in the Far North effecting the transformation, under Professor Otto Schmidt.

We think of the northern territories in terms of Eskimos, igloos, a non-stop sun, seals, and a cracked tableland of ice. But Professor Schmidt has found evidence of incalculable mineral wealth, including gold and platinum, as well as sources of oil.

Tremendous Area

Mines, power stations, and manufacturing plants will spring from these natural resources. The oil, refined, will supply the aeroplanes which will be droning their way across the whole world before we are much older.

The area to be developed is 30 times the size of England, and will support 30 times the population. Living there will be far healthier than it is most anywhere. The cold, dry air is a tonic. All chest-sufferers will find it a paradise.

Balloon Hospitals

The professor even visualizes vast floating hospitals over the Pole, supported by balloons. Patients in these will get the very best of the air, unspoilt by the industrial gases nearer the earth.

The problem of food supply has already been examined with most encouraging results. Fresh vegetables, such as cabbages and cucumbers, are being successfully grown there to feed the workmen.

Scientists have produced types of wheat and oat seeds which flourish there. Indeed, the crops yield more and grow faster than in more southerly parts.

World's Wealth Shifts North

This is by far the biggest colonizing and industrializing task ever undertaken by men. And it is being done scientifically and thoroughly. The best brains in Russia are occupied on it, and an annual sum of $1,250,000,000 is being granted for the work.

Trees, too, are being planted. The threatened world shortage of timber —due to the ruthless stripping of forests in recent years without replanting—may be averted by this new move.

In 100 years British industry and importance may have suffered from the enterprise.

But we may count on one advantage—Europe will probably become more peaceful. For if the world's wealth shifts north so will the storm centres where war arises.

Ball Bearings For Watches

Balls for bearings vary in diameter from a quarter of an inch to five feet. Scientists have to run some very fast machines in jewel bearings because they can't get balls small enough. Along comes a Swiss inventor and supplies their needs with ball bearings that vary in size from one millimeter (0.04 of an inch) to 22 millimeters (0.88 inch). At last it becomes possible to provide ball bearings for watches, clocks, tiny meters and miniature motors.

MAKE YOUR LIVER Produce its bile

Your liver has a big job to do. Make it do what it is supposed to. Its job is to produce 18 to 36 fluid ounces of bile every day and send it through the system. If it fails down on its job you suffer. AND HOW!

The most effective stimulant for the liver known to medical science is calomel, which in small doses is of the highest use in congestive conditions, especially those due to over-eating, over indulgence in alcohol, lack of exercise, etc. Tanol Tablets contain a certain proportion of calomel, blended with cascara and other medicines. They are mild and harmless. But your liver understands and takes the hint. For sale at all druggists, 50c. (B)

Protestant School Survey in Quebec by Board of 11

Protestant education in the province of Quebec is to have an impartial survey. Such was the decision of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Education which met at Montreal Protestant Commission headquarters last week.

The survey will be under the guidance of the Protestant Committee, and the report of the survey committee, which will work with and through the Protestant Committee, will go to the committee. There is to be no outside interference on the part of anyone. That was made very emphatic by the committee in announcing its decision after a three hour closed conference. This conference followed a public meeting during the morning, and the decision was taken that there would be more frankness shown and a better spirit of friendliness if the discussion of problems concerning a survey were held privately.

The resolution of the committee, moved by Howard Murray, seconded by A. Kirk Cameron, provides for the naming of the following:

Captain W. A. F. Hepburn, M.C., M.A., B.Ed., director of education, Ayrshire, Scotland, chairman; the Rt. Rev. Philip Carrington, D.D., Lord Bishop of Quebec; Peter Sandford, M.Sc., Ph.D., Professor of Education, University of Toronto; S. R. Noble, assistant general manager, Royal Bank of Canada; Dr. C. L. Brown, of Ayerscliffe; John Hughes, Professor of Education, McGill University; V. C. Wansbrough, M.A., headmaster of Lower Canada College; W. E. Dunton, chartered accountant; Mrs. Ruth E. Shaw, of the Junior Red Cross; Mrs. Florence MacS. Stalker, M.A., McGill Alumnae Society; with A. D. P. Heeney, M.A., B.C.L., as council and secretary.

The resolution points out that various bodies have been concerned in the matter of Protestant education and the Protestant Committee of the Council of Education is of the opinion that such a survey is advisable."

Macdonald College Applies Electric Eye to Agricultural Problems

In the Chemistry Department of Macdonald College research to determine the amount of soil phosphorus that is available as food for growing plants, and hence the need of soils for phosphorus fertilizers, is being gently advanced through the application of the electric eye. Recently, in the interests of medical research, K. A. Evelyn, of McGill University, produced a form of electric eye capable of measuring the amount of any individual colour present in a given solution. This instrument, known technically as a photoelectric colorimeter, is proving to be fully as great a boon to agricultural science as to medicine.

The problem of determining available soil phosphorus is one that has long continued to baffle scientists. The amount of phosphorus that dissolves in soil water and is hence available as plant food is relatively very small. It often amounts to less than ten parts of phosphorus from one million parts of soil, which is roughly twenty pounds per acre. With such small proportions ordinary methods, such as separating the phosphorus and weighing it, cannot be used. However, it has long been known that phosphorus in solution reacts with certain chemicals to produce a blue colour. The depth of blue colour produced depends directly on the amount of phosphorus present. This would afford a means of estimating the phosphorus in solution even with the human eye, but soil extracts contain other material that gives them a brownish-yellow colouration, so that the blue colour is partly obscured and can not be accurately judged. This situation presents no difficulty to the electric eye. Not only is it capable of measuring the depth of blue colour much more precisely than can the human eye, but it can distinguish between the colours and measure the blue even when the brown is present. With this instrument the chemist is now able to measure the phosphorus dissolved in soil water with great accuracy.

The determination of phosphorus is only one of its many uses to which the electric eye is being put. It may be applied to the determination of any substance which reacts chemically to produce a coloured solution. Research to develop new methods of analysis using the photoelectric colorimeter is being actively carried on at Macdonald College, and the methods devised are being applied in studying the fundamental problems of plant, animal and human nutrition.

Bristol School Board

Nov. 3, 1937

Bristol School Commissioners met on above date, present, Chairman Woods and a full Board of Commissioners.

The minutes of last meeting were read and on motion of Comr Graham were adopted.

The tenders for caretaker for No. 9 school were opened and discussed. Motion by Comr Stewart that Gordon Ballantyne's tender at $10.00 per month be accepted, he to attend to the firing during school hours, remove all ashes to at least 150 feet from the buildings, also keep all doors securely closed when school is not open.

Motion by Comr Glenn, that the Sec-Treas, advertise for tenders for wood for all the schools with the exception of No. 3 and No. 6. Tenders to be in by Dec. 4th, and wood to be delivered before April 1st, 1938. Lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Motion by Comr Glenn, that all parties in arrears of school taxes be notified to settle same before Nov. 25th, 1937.

Motion by Comr Graham, that the following bills be approved and paid:

Motion by Comr Stewart, that motion No. 6, passed on July 11th, 1932, be recinded and that the fee for firing our schools be raised from $5.00 to $7.00 per term.

On motion of Comr Glenn, the meeting adjourned.

Sec-Treas.

"Adobe" and Soil

A term often wrongly applied with respect to the texture of soils is "adobe," but the true use of the term "adobe" refers not to the texture of the soil but to a condition of soil structure, according to a writer in the Pacific Rural Press. Any soil that will shrink considerably on drying and break into blocks with wide cracks is an adobe. Most of the adobes have a clay texture, and they should be called "adobe clays."

Palace Famous for Library

The Antici Mattei palace in Rome is known chiefly for its library, which has a huge collection of books dealing with American history and numerous other subjects. The library also has 10,000 prints and engravings, some of which are of great value, and paintings representing memorable events in American history. It is regarded as one of the best specimens of Sixteenth century architecture.

Sol - Min

Sol-Min (Soluble Minerals) made by the Canadian Industries Limited, is an invaluable mineral supplement for all live stock.

It contains

1 Bone Char (Digested) It supplies Assimilable Calcium and Phosphorous in proper ratio for Bone Building and for normal healthy growth of all body tissues.

2 Sodium Chloride (Salt) supplies sodium and chlorine, important constituents of the body structure. Sodium aids the utilization of digested food and Chlorine is a constituent of milk.

3 Sulphur an important ingredient in the proteins of flesh and eggs.

4 Iron plays an important role in blood formation and in the prevention or correction of anaemia.

5 Iodine acts as a preventive of goitre in calves, sheep and of hairlessness in pigs and weakness in new born animals. Iodine increases hatchability and production of eggs and shortens the moulting period.

Sol-Min costs about one half cent per animal per day and the benefits are tremendous.

Egyptians Liked Colors

At the height of the glory of the Nile in ancient Egypt, the people had 18 or 20 different colors for paint making. White they got from an earth of Melas; red came from an earth found in Cappadocia known as red ochre; yellow came from yellow ochre, an earth of iron and clay which was used as a paint by the Egyptians, Grecians and Romans. Black came from charred plant life and from charcoal. Green came from copper mines, and royal and imperial purple came from the famed ancient Biblical city of Tyre as early as 1000 B. C.

Residence of California's Governor

Monterey, by royal decree in 1775, was ordered to be the residence of the governor of all California, both Alta and Baja (though Felipe de Neve did not arrive at Monterey until February, 1777), says a writer in the Los Angeles Times. It continued to be the official residence of all Spanish and Mexican governors (except for the period in 1832-33 when there were two governors, one in the south and one in the north) until Flores abdicated in January, 1847.

CORRESPONDANCE

November 25th, 1937

To the Editor of The Equity:

Reports have been given out at the High School on the work done thus far this year. It is the earnest desire of the Principal and staff that these reports may arouse greater interest on the part of the parents and stir the students to greater application.

There are too many pupils getting just over 50 per cent, and too few getting over 80 per cent. School work demands concentrated effort and only with the wholehearted co-operation of parents, pupils and teachers can the greatest success be obtained.

Too many social activities during the week detract from good school work. These young people will have plenty of time for the social life when they have finished with School. Their present aim should be, Good Health, Good Character and Trained Intelligence.

Old English Sheep Dog Bear-Like in Appearance

The origin of the Old English sheep dog, says a writer in the Los Angeles Times, is the same as that of other early herd dogs of Europe and they were first developed primarily to herd and protect cattle. It should be remembered that the dogs attending the flocks were called upon at that time to defend the herds from much larger foes than roam the plains at the present time. Protecting the cattle came first, herding second, and nature had much to do with creating a dog that could exist under the severest conditions.

Cold winds, rain and snow made it necessary that the coat be weather resisting. Which it certainly is with this breed. About all you can see on first sight is hair and more hair. It covers every spot on their body, head, legs and feet. Underneath all the profuse covering is an exceptionally strong and well built body.

The front legs are heavily boned and as straight as any terrier's. The neck is long and graceful, fastened to sloping shoulders with the dog standing lower at the shoulders than at the loin. In size they average around twenty-two inches or more shoulder height, and in measurment they run about the same in length, giving a rather square effect.

Ancestor of the Hen May Have Been a Jungle Fowl

The ancestor of the hen is believed to be the jungle fowl, known as Gallas bankiva, which is found in the jungles of North India, Brahma and Siam, states a writer in the Boston Globe. They were first mentioned in history by the Chinese emperor, Fu Hsi, who lived about 3341 B. C. One writer has stated:

"From the evidence that has come to us it would appear that the sport of cock-fighting has as much responsibility for the domestication of the fowl as the demand for food and that when once it was brought into the service of man, sport was chiefly instrumental in making the species popular."

It is not certain whether all the breeds of poultry that we know date back to this common ancestry or not. Some believe that the lighter breeds such as the Leghorns originated from this bankiva jungle fowl, and that the heavier breeds probably originated from the Malay fowl.

Many of the later breeds were made by crossing other breeds then in existence. It is noteworthy that some of them originated in New England and that much of the early breeding in the development of the breeds was done in Massachusetts.

Roman Names

A surname, in the derivation of the word, is an "extra name," and the general use of surnames as family names did not develop until the Thirteenth century. The Roman "cognomen," however, was equivalent to the modern surname or family name. A Roman of social position ordinarily had three names, the last being his cognomen and was known. Thus, in Marcus Tullius Cicero, the first name is the praenomen or personal name; the second the nomen, or name of the gens or clan; and the third the cognomen, the name of the family or branch of the gens. This system of names long antedated Christian times.

Snake Worship Practiced

The Nirs, or snake-worshippers, form the largest part of the population of Malabar, according to a Calcutta correspondent. They have special shrines and temples dedicated to serpents; in fact, there are patron serpents instead of patron saints, and there are serpent doctors who make a study of snake poisons. The Nirs, both men and women, dress the hair in imitation of the extended hood of the much-feared cobra. Marriages are arranged by astrologers, the horoscope first being studied and the day and hour arranged as favorable to a happy marriage.

Sense of Caution.

A sense of caution seems to be a part of the wisdom that comes with the years. Or, to look at it another way—maybe the older people are more cautious simply because—if they were not—they would never have survived to become older.

"BELOVED CASTAWAY"

By MARTHA BANNING THOMAS

CHAPTER XII

The small, gnome-like figure of old man Sawyer lay there on the sofa. Gray straggling locks were spread upon a white pillow. It was the face, however, that held Karen's gaze. A smile touched his lips. All the taut suffering of a deranged mentality had been erased. Peace softened the sharp, whittled features.

The doctor spoke again, in harsh gentleness. 'Singing with the angels, poor fellow! But not so poor, after all, maybe. He did what he set out to, though the trip was too much for him. Got the kid here to me; told me he'd found his little boy at last, and please for me to fix him up all well again. . . . And here's Little Sandy himself, none the worse for wear, smiling at you from the cot over there!"

Was Good to Him

By ten o'clock that night, the house had settled into quiet. Rory's broken arm had not been disturbed beyond examination.

"A good job you did," the doctor told Karen. "But just to be sure of things, I'm going to fetch him and Little Sandy back to my surgery at home to have X-rays."

Karen was stroking the child's hair. "Did'nt Mr. Sawyer hurt you when he was carrying you?" she asked.

"Not too bad," replied the boy. "I just kept a-thinking what Job told me about being brave, and Mr. Sawyer was real good to me."

Rory was dozing on the couch, so Karen slipped quietly from the room. She left the cottage and walked along the road to the end, where the headland ran down to the shore. She felt Job had gone there, and she wanted to talk to him.

Death Had Intervened

She found Job leaning against a small, twisted tree. She sat on a near-by stone. Job limped over and sat down beside her, reaching for both her hands.

"This day has done something to us, to make us different," he said "It's shown me how danged mean and small I am. I could have easy told Colin to stay with the lad whilst we was up to the blacksmith's shop, but I wouldn't, on account of trying to show off to Mr. MacLeod."

"Oh, Job . . . don't be so hard on yourself."

"I reckon," he continued evently, "you'll go with him and Little Sandy when the Doc takes 'em back home with him."

Karen had not thought of this, yet now she knew she would.

"But what about you?" she faltered.

"Colin and me'll catch a boat going back. We'll take poor old Sawyer." Job's voice deepened to a slow measuring of words.

"And me, Job? You're leaving me out entirely."

"I said you'd be going with Mr. MacLeod tomorrow—and afterwards. You can't help your heart, Karen."

"No, no, Job. I don't want to go back . . . to Two Rivers."

"You don't dare go back, you mean. I've only been the next best answer." He had loosed her hands, and now sat away from her. "Karen, Mr. MacLeod told me why he came here a-hunting you. He wanted you, he said, to be right down sure of how you felt before he told you his errand. He come home from abroad because his aunt died."

Karen jerked up straight. "Mrs. Masters? And he never said a word!"

"I'm telling you now so you'll be happy, and go with him."

She rose, feeling a tight ache in her throat.

"Job . . . Job, you are good and fine . . . goodby, dear." Swiftly, she held his hand against her cheek. "I do love you . . . I always will. Yet, this feeling, this other—is different. Can you forgive me?"

"Of course. Goodby . . . Karen!"

"Goodby . . ." she whispered and hurried away.

Heaven Found

Once more in the quiet house, she heard Rory speak softly to her from the couch.

She went to the couch. "Job," she said, "has told me about Mrs. Masters."

Rory's hand found hers. "Good old Job!"

She waited, trembling a little. He drew her down, and she felt his lips on hers.

"The unhappiest day can have the happiest ending," he murmured. "Are you quite sure about me?"

"Quite . . . I know now that I'd go back to Two Rivers with you tomorrow—if you wanted me to."

"You darling! Will you please reach for my billfold in my coat hanging on the chair?"

Karen fumbled in a pocket of his coat and handed him the bill-fold.

"My aunt," he began, "died six months ago. She had left sealed directions for me in her safe-deposit box. Whether you believe it or not, Karen, there was embedded in her jealous nature a certain rough justice. She left twenty thousand dollars, bound by an elastic band in the very note you wrote denouncing her. This is for you. Also, as near a written apology as her pride would permit. Another note requested me to find you if possible."

"I don't want her wretched money!" choked the girl.

"Don't be silly. It belongs to you, as it belonged to your father. You remember, of course, the old line, Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned. This applied tragically to my aunt. After years of repressed, jealous fury, she placed a comparable slander on your mother. This was her dreadful retort."

Karen shuddered. "You know, then, the vile thing she told me that last night in Two Rivers? It nearly killed me . . ."

"I know . . . a malicious falsehood."

Karen clutched at the top-coat thrown over Rory for covering.

"Then it's not true?"

"Poor child, what you have suffered! Don't you see it was her last vicious fling at you—at your father and mother?"

Tears streamed down Karen's cheeks. "A hard, cruel woman . . . but she is dead."

"She's left the house to you — in case we married. That's why, my dear, I had to be so careful not to influence you, if you really loved Job better than me. Don't you understand?"

She nodded and dropped her head on his shoulder.

"Let's put the old bitterness behind us," he said. "Let's live in your lovely house once more. Deep within me, I have had a great hope that you would be like your mother. That you would love me . . . and that together we could restore the old gracious living we knew as children."

"Yes, Rory . . . it will be sweet." Then, she added thoughtfully, "It's all in the adding of an E . . . isn't it? Instead of a haven with Job, it's heaven with Rory MacLeod!"

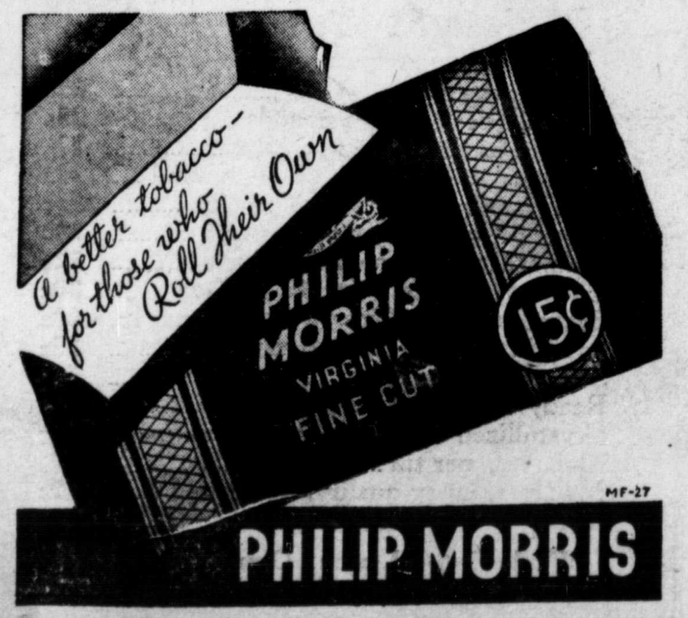
(THE END)

Tea or Work Apron Made-In-A-Jiffy

Edited by Laura I. Baldt, A.M.

You'll marvel at how young you really look in this tea or work pinafore apron. Inspired by Princess lines, it buttons to nip in the waist and flare at the skirt. Two decorative and useful pockets . . . always a joy for odds and neds you pick up about the house. Make it of sturdy percale print for work hours and of dainty crisp dimity for tea time. This useful little apron will make a very welcome gift . . . and stretch your Xmas budget. The diagram shows the minimum effort it takes to cut out and finish the edges with contrasting bias binds.

Style No. 2032 is designed for sizes small, medium and large. The medium size requires 1¾ yards of 35-inch material with 7¾ yards of binding. Send fifteen cents (15c) (coin is preferred) for pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size you wish. Address to Peerless Patterns, Room 421, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.



Lovely Red Hair Cost Her $50,000

Mrs. Leslie Carter, Famous For Her Locks, Is Now Discovered To Have Worn a Wig.

Now it can be told.

That six-foot torrent of carrot-red hair worn by the late Mrs. Leslie Carter, famous actress—it was the envy of women of two continents — was false, and it cost her $50,000.

Hair merchant Albert Simonson disclosed last week at New York that the actress, during her 16 years on Broadway, bought ten new sets of hair, paying $3,000 each time. She also paid $20,000 for repairs.

Simonson, who obtained Mrs. Carter's locks from peasant girls in Austria-Hungary, said false hair also had helped make public idols of Lillian Russell, Richard Mansfield and Jeanne Eagels.

"Combs the World For Hair"

Among his present customers are the wife of a prominent New York banker, an ex-governor's wife, a U. S. army general and a well known New York clergyman. For them and 300 bewigged socialites Simonson "combs the world for hair."

Greying slightly himself, Simonson insisted false hair looked as natural as the real thing.

"As real as your own?" he was asked.

"Sure," he smiled, pulling off his own hair and holding it up. "See!"

Telling Mushrooms From Toadstools

Is Important Before You Begin To Eat These Delicacies Of The Field

Most people agree that cultivated mushrooms never taste as luscious as those found growing naturally in the fields.

This is a case where the early bird really does catch the worm, although it is not true, of course (as country folk sometimes tell us) that mushrooms pop up in the night and then disappear later if not gathered sufficiently early.

The best "buttony" sort of mushrooms are usually found hidden in clumps of grass so wear thick shoes as the turf is always damp in early morning.

Mushroom Peels Easier

Don't pick a toadstool which may look especially delicious, instead of a mushroom, or you may be ill for a few days, or even seriously poisoned. It is easy to tell the difference: the stem of the bona fide mushroom should show a clean break without any bits and pieces of "string," and the real test is to see whether the mushroom peels easily from the edge to the middle. The corrugated under part should be black or brown, and a mushroom possesses a very pleasant smell which the toadstool definitely does not.

If your prizes pass these tests all is well, but look through your "bag" again carefully when you get home, to make sure you have examined each mushroom thoroughly before enjoying your feast. They should be cooked soon after picking.

Tin Foil Better Egg Preservative

If nature intended an egg to last for months, declares a noted scientist, a different shell would be needed. Tin foil is a much better preservative than the ordinary shell, which soon begins to dissolve in the water contained in the yoke. Once this starts, air enters and the yoik begins to decompose.

After a series of tests, the scientist has found that the best method of preserving eggs, without special treatment, is to keep them in a refrigerator. But those who do not possess this luxury can do almost as well by wrapping the eggs in silver paper.

Contentment

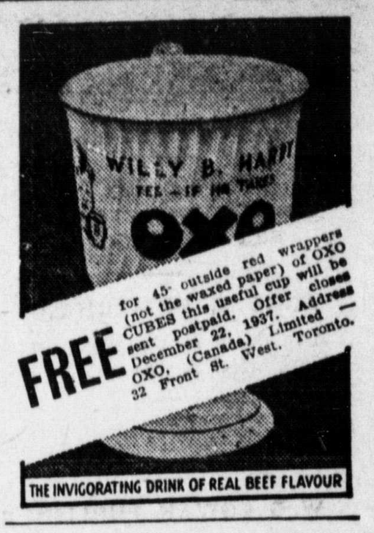
With worthless things a bird can build a home;
A prize to him a straw, a wisp of hay.
He takes his precious plunder where he may,
And then he trills and sings his happy song,
As if he would to us his debt repay.
Should we not learn to choose the simple things,—
The happiness, so dear, that living brings,
Contentment and assurance that will be,
A base, a home, a firm security?

Hair Turned Red, Woman Gets $25

A woman who sued her hairdresser for damages because her hair turned "flaming red" after a shampoo, was awarded $25 in Brentford County court, Ealing, Eng.

The hairdresser, Harry Kopitoc, was awarded a small counter-claim against the plaintiff, Mrs. Florence MacCullum, for the cost of the treatment.

Delivering the judgment, the court said: "Most ladies like their hair to be a bright color but this lady proved to be an exception."



World's Culinary Capital Shifts

Is Now New York Instead of Paris, Gourmets Declare

Take it from an authority, New York "definitely" has become the "world's culinary capital."

Such is the opinion of J. George Frederick, president of the Gourmet Society, whose members last week officially opened the indoor fancy eating season—without benefit of pepsin tablets.

Frederick said Europe no longer could match New York on at least three counts—"culinary skill, variety of food and cuisines and relative prices."

After Foyot's Passed On

"With the passing of Foyot's in Paris and other great restaurants there I do not think that it is any longer disputable that New York offers both the highest standards and the greatest variety of dining delight and culinary skill that is to be found in any city in the world," he said.

The gourmets, appetites whetted by an intellectual cocktail in the form of poetry readings by Charles Hanson Towne, did full justice to a repast prepared by Lucien, chef at the Astor.

Here's the menu:

Aspic of sea food, Astor
Essence of okra, Mexicaine
Celery Olives
Breast of guinea hen, Rector
Grapes, fresh mushrooms
Virginia ham
New peas a L'Anglaise
Salad, Times Square
Bombe frascati
Petit fours
Moka
Alsatian white wine, Gentil—Vintage 1932.

Gold Wire Cheaper

Strange as it may appear, it is a fact that if a steel wire were stretched over a mile, it would cost more than a fine gold wire the same length. Gold can be drawn out into such a fine wire that it is cheaper than the average-size steel wire, which cannot be drawn out to anything like the same fineness as the gold wire. It would take very little gold to make a wire a mile long.

A WHITE CHRISTMAS CAKE

Variety is the spice of life and spice is the life of the Christmas cake so in addition to the traditional dark Christmas cake, make a light one too this year. Many people vow that they get so much dark cake at Christmas time that they are glad it only comes once a year. On the other hand, there are lots of people who feel that heavy cake is just as much a part of Christmas as are the trees and stockings.

Whichever way you feel about it, you can play safe and make both. During the holiday season particularly, it is necessary to make a variety of cakes because besides the tastes and preferences of your own family, you usually have to consider those of friends and relatives.

Most of us haven't even begun to hink of Christmas yet and that makes this the best time to make your cake and forget about it. Don't put it off until you are so busy that it becomes a chore because it can really be a thrilling and exciting event from the buying of the fragrant spices to the wrapping and storing, if you make it when you have leisure.

Because you will be putting more time and money into this special cake, be sure that you get the best ingredients you can buy. Don't let it all go to waste by using the wrong kind of flour or an inferior brand. The same applies to your spices. And when you have the very finest ingredients that money can buy, follow the recipe carefully and the cake is bound to be a success.

Holiday Cake (5 egg whites)

1¾ cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
¾ cup sugar
5 egg whites, unbeaten
¼ cup finely cut candied cherries
½ cup finely cut citron
½ cup seedless raisins.
½ cup chopped blanched almonds
¾ cup cocoanut, premium shred
½ teaspoon almond extract
½ teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg whites, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Add [illegible] (300 deg. F.) 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until done.

To store, wrap in waxed paper, and keep in air-tight container. Just before using, the following frosting may be made.

A suggested frosting for the first half of the cake to be used before New Years is Mistletoe Frosting.

2 egg whites, unbeaten
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
5 tablespoons water
1½ teaspoons light corn syrup

Combine egg whites, sugar, water, and corn syrup in top of double boiler, beating with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater, and cook 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from boiling water; add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread. Makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two 9-inch layers, or top and sides of 8x8x2 inch cake (generously). Decorate with wreath of mistletoe, using silver dragees for berries and slices of angelica or citron for leaves and stems. Double recipe to make three 10-inch layers.

A holly frosting may also be made from the same recipe except that candied cherries or small red candies may be used for berries.

Tomato Aspic Salad

2½ teaspoons gelatine
1½ cups tomato juice
1 Oxo cube
¼ teaspoon salt
few grains pepper
1 slice onion
1 stalk celery or
1 teaspoon celery seeds
lettuce

Mix 1/3 cup tomato juice (or strained canned tomato) with the gelatine; let stand for five minutes. Heat the remainder of the tomato juice with the seasonings and dissolved Oxo cubes; dissolve the gelatine in the boiling juice; strain. Pour into individual molds or into a ring mold; chill until firm. Serve unmolded on lettuce.

LESSON IX.

Christian Fruitfulness—John 15:1-16

Golden Text.—Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; and so shall ye be my disciples. John 15:8.

The Lesson In Its Setting

Time — Thursday evening, April 6, A.D. 30.

Place—Probably in the upper room, where the Lord's Supper was instituted.

The beautiful discourse concerning the vine and the branches is a part of his wonderful revelation to his disciples on the night before his crucifixion, Thursday evening of Passion Week. This long discourse begins with chapter 13, extends through chapter 16, and is followed by chapter 17, which records the high-priestly prayer of our Lord which he uttered that night, shortly before his arrest.

1. I am the true vine. The nation of Israel was often, in the Old Testament, likened to a vine (Ps. 80:8-16; Isa. 5:1-7; Jer. 2:21; Ezek. 19: 10-14). Of course the vine here referred to is the grape vine, which was so extensively cultivated in Palestine. This is the seventh and last of the famous declarations of Christ occurring in the Gospel of John, and only in the Gospel of John, beginning with the two significant words "I am." When Christ speaks of himself as the true vine, he assigns to himself a place no other person in the universe ever had before, or ever can have again. There are not many vines, but one. In that vine, life flows, and apart from that vine there is no true life.

If We Are To Bear Fruit

The husbandman expresses a relationship of possession and care on the one side, and of dependence and submission on the other.

2. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit, he taketh it away.

As the fruitless branch has no living connection with the vine, no more can the fruitless, professing Christian with Christ. How, and when the husbandman takes the fruitless branch away is left unmentioned; there is not one definite way or time, the process may be gradual. And every branch that beareth fruit, he cleanseth it, that it may bear more fruit.

3. Already ye are clean because of the word which I have spoken unto you. Everything which had been conveyed in his word had been an agent of purity, and had tended to make them clean. His revelations cleansed their minds like a sweet, fresh mountain stream flowing into a stagnant pool. And when the mind is cleansed, the heart begins to share the cleansing.

4. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; so neither can ye, except ye abide in me. 5. I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit: for apart from me ye can do nothing. That peerless expositor, Dr. Alexander Maclaren, has said that, by Christ abiding in us and his words abiding in us, "something a great deal more than a mere acceptance of Christ is meant. It means the whole of the conscious nature of Christ being saturated with Christ's words, his desires, his understanding, his affections, his will, all being steeped in the great truths which the Master spoke."

We can do many things without abiding in Christ—we can go to church, we can contribute heavily to Christian causes, we can offer prayer, and be good students of the Scriptures. But there is one thing we cannot do, unless our life and service spring from our union with the Lord Jesus, and that is, we cannot bear fruit.

6. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and they gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

Abiding in Christ

7. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you. 8. Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; and so shall ye be my disciples. If we are to live a true prayer life with the love, and the power, and the experience of prayer marking it, there must be no question about the abiding, and, if we abide, there need be no question about the liberty of asking what we will and the certainty of its being done. God is glorified among men when those who are Christians are seen to bear fruit, to live such a life, that the

9. Even as the Father hath loved me, I also have loved you: abide ye world cannot help but think of God and give him the glory.
in my love. 10. If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love. Here are two fundamental facts, which nothing can ever change, clearly announced by our Lord: first, that God loves Christ, and, secondly, that Christ loves us. What our Lord is urging upon his followers is that they should realize in their own lives these mighty truths and abide in the love which Christ has for them.

11. These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy may be in you, and that your joy may be made full. It is very, very significant that the Lord Jesus, with a single exception, never speaks of his own joy until the darkest night of his life, the night of his betrayal. The Lord Jesus had a joy that night which no one could take away from him because of at least four things: his knowledge of God's over-ruling and guidance in everything that was happening to him; in his consciousness of the Father's love; in his realization that he was doing the work of God, the greatest work that anyone could ever do, laying down his life for men; and, finally, in the conviction that he was, in his death, going home to his Father from whom he had come. Now, though in a different degree, we have exactly the same springs of joy, and we have them because of the words which Jesus has given us: we know that all things work together for good, that our lives are divinely planned, that suffering has been foreseen by God, and will never destroy our souls; profoundly do we know that we are loved by the Father, and by the Son, and that nothing will ever separate us from that love; we too have a divinely bestowed purpose in our lives—namely, the bearing of fruit; finally, we know that when we depart from this life, we shall be at home with the Father.

12. This is my commandment, that ye love one another, even as I have loved you. 13. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

Friendship's Privileges

V. Friendship with Christ and its Privileges, John 15: 14, 15. 14. Ye are my friends, if ye do the things which I command you. 15. No longer do I call you servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth: but I have called you friends. "The liberty to claim the friendship of Jesus, the power to enjoy it, the grace to prove it in all its blessings —all come to us as we do the things he commands us." For all things that I heard from my Father I have made known unto you. These twelve men were Christ's confidants. He opened his heart to them. He kept nothing back from them.

16. Ye did not choose me, but I chose you, and appointed you. "The stability of the connection of friendship between the Lord and his disciples is assured by the fact that its origin lies with the Lord and not with man. That whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give you. "These are the closing words of the parable of the Vine. The whole mystery of the Vine and its branches leads up to the other mystery—that whatsoever we ask in His name the Father gives! Our faith in the teaching and the truth of the parable, in the truth and the life of the Vine, must prove itself by power in prayer. The life of abiding and obedience, of love and joy, of cleansing and fruit-bearing, will surely lead to the power of prevailing prayer."

Movie Star Dust Radio

By VIRGINIA DALE

Off-screen romance is having a big influence these days in casting pictures. Paramount has given a three-year contract to John Barrymore and his wife, Elaine Barrie, and will feature them together in a picture as soon as a suitable story can be located. Making pictures with Mr. Barrymore used to be a nightmare to directors.

Some days he was three hours late showing up for work, and sometimes he disappeared for days. When he did arrive on time, likely as not he would make such caustic remarks to his fellow players that their nerves were practically shattered. Marriage to the young and ambitious Miss Barrie has changed all that. She has made him settle down to work in earnest.

—o—

A mysterious Mr. Gallagher flew into New York and began escorting Janet Gaynor to theaters and night clubs, but the Twentieth Century-Fox publicity department wasn't fooled for a minute. They knew it was Tyrone Power all the time, and made him come out from under his assumed name and attend a huge cocktail party in his honor. There are big plans ahead for young Mr. Power. He will play Disraeli.

—o—

Ann Miller, who played Ginger Rogers' dancing partner, is playing the lead in "Radio City Revels" opposite Milton Berle, the air comic. Her discovery is one of those strange tales of Hollywood. She and her mother went to California and almost starved while she was trying to break into pictures. Finally, defeated, she took a cabaret engagement in San Francisco and the very first night she played there, an R. K. O. scout saw her and signed her up. She had been trying to get into his office for three years!

At last the quarrel between Freddie Bartholomew and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has been settled and Freddie will soon return to work. Under the new agreement he will get two thousand dollars a week for forty weeks, and three thousand a week for six weeks of personal appearances. Also he gets a dollar a week additional for pocket money. He'll need it, with a twenty-five thousand dollar bill owed for lawyer's fees.

Freddie Bartholomew

One of your tried and true friends of radio, whom you may not know by name, has just made a great success on the New York stage, but he is still on the air. It is Clayton Collier. You have known him as master of ceremonies for both the Leo Reisman and Eddy Duchin bands, hero of the "Pretty Kitty Kelly" sketch, and chief doctor in the story of "Girl Interne." With all his rushing about from radio rehearsals to stage performances, he never seems to be in a hurry, is always quite unruffled and casual in manner.

To Wed Mr. Simpson

Mrs. Mary Kirk Raffray, who is to be married to Ernest Simpson, as she left the court of Judge B. F. Curler, in Reno, Nev., following the granting of her divorce decree.

Just the other day Warren Newell, a laborer at the Universal studios, wiped out the disgrace of ten years ago when he was discharged from a minor league baseball team for dropping a flyball in a crucial point in the ninth inning. He made a real catch! Alice Faye, catching her heel in the hem of her dress, toppled over a sixteen-foot ledge and would have landed on theater seats below if Mr. Newell hadn't rushed to the rescue and caught her just in time.

Is This Your Birthday?

By A. R. WEIR

What the STARS foretell for those born on November 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30 and Dec. 1st and 2nd.

GENERAL—If the date of your birth is listed above, the sun was in the Sign Sagittarius when you were born. This makes you enthusiastic, hopeful and optimistic by nature. You should avoid carelessness. You love harmony, truth and justice and are greatly given to demonstration of your affection, having a nature that is remarkably expressive. It would be to your advantage to guard against unkind speech when you are aroused.

NOW FIND YOUR OWN BIRTH DATE

NOV. 26—Your lucky number is 4. The keynote of your planet is Prosperity which this year is indicated in your business and financial prospects though some annoyances go with it which are soon overcome. Social activities, however, are not so brightly defined though you are too optimistic naturally to allow them to influence you.

NOVEMBER 27.—Thursday is the most favorable day in the week for you. Some very important developments are shown in your business affairs bringing a considerable increase in your income. You should cultivate respect for authority and control your impetuosity.

NOVEMBER 28.—The 4th, 13th, 22nd and 31st are your lucky days. This year is important for business affairs. There should be a slow, steady improvement bringing more prosperity and success. Be cautious in your correspondence.

NOVEMBER 29.—There is a strong love of drama in your nature and you should be particularly clever in comedy or drama. The years 1937 and 1939 are good years for you. You will receive some favorable news and be very successful while on an important journey.

NOVEMBER 30.—This is a changeable period for you financially and difficulties with elderly people should be avoided, also disputes with workmates though a gain and an agreement is shown. Much happiness is denoted socially. Do not forget that your main success in life will come through personal application and hard work.

DECEMBER 1.—While you may have trouble in connection with property and public companies, yet these will be easily overcome and you will gain by a loan or legacy. There ma be a removal of residence. Give your love of harmony the upper hand when things are a bit muddled.

DECEMBER 2.—On the whole, the coming year will be brilliant and successful both financially and socially. Even relatives will benefit you. Control your carless tendencies even though you are of a happy-go-lucky temperament.

Presentation at Wyman

A very enjoyabie evening was held on Tuesday, Nov. 9th, at the home of Mrs. Wm. Ross, in honour of Miss Lucille Stanley.

The evening was spent in dancing. At midnight lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Fred Russett, Mrs. Harry Creighton, Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Wm. Hudson.

During the evening the young people and neighbours of the 6th Line, Bristol, presented Miss Stanley with a purse of money for which she thanked her friends.

Miss Stanley left on Nov. 13th for Ottawa where she is taking a business course.

Timely Warnings from Quebec Safety League

Members of the Province of Quebec Safety League are being warned this week against the dangers common to Winter. They are reminded of the fire hazard which is prevalent in their homes through the poor condition of their furnaces and defective chimnies. Special attention is called to the danger of lighting stoves with gosoline or oil. Housewives are warned against this practice and it is recalled that recently a child was burned to death when her clothing caught fire following the explosion of a can of gasoline which had been used to light the house stove. Women are also asked to avoid the dangerous practice of cleaning clothing with gasoline or other inflammables.

To the authorities of boarding schools, colleges and convents, the league addressed a special warning asking that greater care than ever be taken against fire dangers at this season of the year.

Motorist members are being told that with the snow that will be coming soon, streets and highways will be more difficult to negotiate and they are reminded that they must use extra caution, Less speed makes for more safety upon slippery roads is the advice given along with the council to see that automobiles should be in the best of mechanical condition. The league also warns against the dangers of carbon monoxide poisoning in garages and it is advised that a window or a door always be left open when the car is in the garage with the engine running.

To children, the league officials recalls the fact that ice forms at this time of the year and that it tempts them to skate. But it is also recalled that thin ice is very dangerous and that before skating on newly formed ice children must make sure it can carry their weight.

Discovered Use of Vinegar

Louis Pasteur made possible the modern methods of vinegar-making. In 1864 he discovered the bacillus which acetifies beer or malt. He soaked birch twigs in sour beer until they were smothered with these bacilli. Then he percolated fresh malt through the twigs until it became acetified. The twigs are built up in criss-cross fashion to a height of about three feet. The percolation goes on for three weeks. London vinegar-makers use some fifteen tons of these twigs a year. Cutting them is a job for specialists. Only long experience enables you to select the best kind.—London Answers Magazine.

Melanism

The term melanism has been applied as the converse of albinism, both of which occur in wild animals. Melanism is more rare than albinism in this country, but throughout intertropical America both make their appearance frequently in warm-blooded animals, according to an authority in the Los Angeles Times. Melanism is caused through an abnormal development of black pigment, while albinism is brought about through lack of it.

Card of Thanks

In Memoriam

ANGUS—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Norris N. Angus, who passed away December 4th, 1936.

He is gone but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.

Days of sadness oft come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed
But they little know the sorrow
That lies in our hearts concealed.

Sadly by
WIFE and FAMILY.

FACTS!

Dominion Stores have given to the public the facts relating to the service they perform in Quebec Province. And facts are stubborn things. Waves of criticism break against them in vain. Being facts they cannot be controverted.

It is a fact that Dominion Stores have improved shopping conditions for the public.

It is a fact that they have brought a wider selection of fresher merchandise within easier reach of the housewife.

It is a fact that they buy in huge quantities from local farmers and producers.

It is a fact that they are good tenants and liberal users of local utilities and services.

Dominion Stores throughout this Province, have aided the buying public in every one of their respective localities by inaugurating new and better methods of handling goods while selling at prices that benefit thousands upon thousands of individual householders and their families.
