IRISH AFFAIRS.

Mr. Parnell is meditating a new line of action. He was beaten on his amendments to the Land Act; he was deserted by many of his followers in the scuffle with Mr. Forster; he sees that a time has come for a fresh start. In which direction shall he go? He stands at the crossroads, one side beckons to him; from the other the ghost of O'Connell calls him to a bloodless agitation. His difficulties are great. He knows that the shotguns and explosives serve to make Irish grievances noisy in British ears; and he knows, too, that they cause a nation to set its teeth against any more reforms than are granted. To sympathize with the party of violence would be to alienate a serviceable ally. If Mr. Parnell is to retain his supremacy he must lose no time in declaring his policy. The hour has gone for shilly-shallying and subterfuges. The House of Commons has made it manifest that it will do no more for Ireland, and if the Irish leader is still determined to fight he has the choice of weapons and should exercise his privilege without delay.

The New York Herald gives the above as its estimate of the position which Mr. Parnell now occupies. Some of those with whom he has cooperated have travelled far away from the track which the Great Liberator laid down as the only one which could be safely and successfully followed, and the result has been, to use the words of an American paper, that Great Britain is rather disposed to tighten her grip on the island. Moreover, English and Scotch employers of labour have discharged such of their operatives as were Irish, while householders are in numerous instances discharging their Irish servants, and the notice that "No Irish need apply" has become so common as to cause great alarm among the poor of Ireland seeking a living in England. That the controversy should have been forced out of the legislative arena into the concerns of every day life is much to be regretted, particularly since it was scarcely to be expected that dynamite and daggers should compel the nation to do more than they were doing. Late English exchanges contained long editorials on the defeat of Mr. Parnell's amendments to the Land Act, and we, therefore, resume the deliverances of some of them upon this of all questions the most burning. The Times declares that Mr. Parnell was obviously indifferent to the fate of his Bill, which was intended to lead up to a challenge and a menace couched in cautiously guarded language but of no ambiguous import. It avers that "The Irish peasantry have been fed upon extravagant hopes, and they have, consequently, had to sustain some disappointments; but looking at their claims as a whole, and remembering what sacrifices were exacted in their favour from other classes, it must be admitted that they have gained a position of extraordinary security, and may be content to make the best use of it."

As for Mr. Gladstone it says: "He has given proof not only of judgment and resolution in dealing with an untried attempt to prolong and intensify the miseries of Irish disorder, but of his readiness to profit by a painful experience, and to place himself in accord with a powerful movement of public opinion. His attitude towards the Irish agitators represents the strong and unvarying conviction of the country that there must be no parley with the enemies of established order and settled law in Ireland." The Standard welcomes alike the promises of the Ministerial declaration and the decisive sanction accorded by the Chamber. It adds that "The need of Ireland to-day is peace and confidence in the stability of existing rights. Peace there will never be till it is definitely understood that concession has reached its utmost limit, and quiet will ensue only when agitation ceases of extorting further sops. If the landlords, who have suffered so heavily, accept the settlement, the Government that has done so much for the tenants may fairly ask them also to abandon the wild dreams which can have been inspired solely by the unlooked-for abundance of their recent gains."

The Liverpool Courier says the Bill met the fate which its principal promoter must have expected, "but the Government victory has not at all discouraged the Irish irreconcilables and their allies, who cheered the result of the division with quite as much warmth as did the victorious side." It admits that there are some good points in Mr. Parnell's measure. "For example, it is intended that the scheme of establishing a peasant proprietary is to have a fair chance, the law should render it possible for poor tenants to become their own landlords." The member for Sligo, it is observed, "refers to Mr. Gladstone's attitude as evidence that nothing is to be expected from the Government in the way of relief for the oppressed tenants. It would be well for Ireland if the people could believe that Mr. Gladstone's present views will remain unchanged for a reasonable period." The Liverpool Daily Post points out that "The minority which voted for the second reading contained names which will attract the attention of the country, and it cannot be said that the arguments of Mr. Gladstone were weighty enough to counter-balance the testimony borne against the non-provision."

The Liverpool Mercury thinks that "The Land Act, as was truly stated by Mr. Gladstone, is steadily, and amidst much difficulty, accomplishing its purpose; and the only rational and prudent policy is to insist that it shall have a full and equitable trial. Many Irish members after these following Mr. Parnell will feel disappointed; but if they will reflect calmly on the peculiarities of the situation they must surely come to the conclusion that Mr. Gladstone would be exceedingly indiscreet if he sanctioned a dangerous re-opening of a sore in gradual process of cure."

Most of the English papers of which we have taken communication admit that heretofore there may be occasion for further action, but hold that the Land Act should have a further trial before being interfered with and before additional agitation is inaugurated for reforms which it may be difficult to obtain.

DISQUIET IN EGYPT.

Considerable apprehension is manifested in Egypt, among the European residents, of the ultimate consequences of the withdrawal of the British troops. The feeling which had been growing ever since it became generally understood that British occupation was only temporary was all the time intensifying, inasmuch as gradually, but none the less surely, more the resident Moslems becoming more contemptuous of the Christians who lived among them, and to whom the country owed that measure of prosperity it had, and the restoration of that peace which had been outraged by Arabi Bey and his followers. The respect, indeed, obsequiousness, with which Europeans had been treated, has appeared to diminish proportionate to the withdrawal of the British troops, and on the departure of the Seventh Dragoon Guards for England the respectful terms "Egyptian" and "European" which had been for some time in use, were made to give place to the word "Moslem" and to the disdainful epithet of "Infidel," while threats of vengeance were commonly flung against all foreigners, the lower classes going so far in their vilification of the Giaours as to characterize their donkeys "the sons of Christians." Foreigners are cursed and vituperated to the hearts' content of the Mussulmans. They are openly insulted, even ladies being spat upon in the public streets. It is apprehended that the only result of the withdrawal of British troops would be the renewal of the events which caused the British to interfere, the fear being that a general massacre of Europeans will occur should the opportunity present itself. Confidence is generally shaken, and the feeling of the 90,000 European residents in Egypt has been expressed as follows: "If the present army of occupation be withdrawn or so reduced as to be incapable of protecting our lives and property, we shall appeal to our respective consulates, and demand that Italian, Greek, Austrian, French, German and American soldiers be sent here to carry out the duty that England has assumed but is unable or unwilling to perform. If this demand be not granted we shall then arm ourselves and organize for resistance." Indeed they declare that such a course is "absolutely necessary for us, say they:—'So long as an army of occupation remains here everything will be comparatively quiet; but the moment the Egyptians have any chance of success they will massacre every foreigner in the country.' There need be little fear that since Great Britain has taken the matter in hand she will be wanting in all the necessary precautions, and the British representative is too astute and far-sighted to fail to impress upon his Government their duty in the premises."

SIR CHARLES TUPPER.

It is no longer a matter of mere rumour and conjecture, but, according to a statement which this morning publishes, it is a matter of fact that Sir Charles Tupper is about to retire from active politics. With the experience which he has had, and the intimate knowledge that he possesses of the affairs of the Dominion, we may say that, not only from a Conservative, but from a general point of view, he has by his bold and candid explanations removed all suspicion that he was about to leave the Administration with a view to becoming a partner in our great national enterprise, the Canadian Pacific Railway. Sir Charles has been an earnest disciple and a vigorous apostle of party politics, which, now that he is about to abandon, we think that he is fairly entitled to the publication of the statement which we presume may be taken as authentic coming as it does from the correspondent of his own organ, the Toronto Mail. He will be very much missed in the House as a debater, in which he had no superior. As the head of the different departments over which he has presided, the member for Cumberland vigorously discharged the duties that had been devolved upon him, and his political opponents will not grudge him respite from official responsibilities. We have no information as to who will be his successor, but his place will not be easily filled. We do not have faith in the story that Mr. Dalton McCarthy is likely to assume his portfolio, his calibre not being weighty enough.

THE DEPUTY PROVINCIAL REGISTRAR of this Province urges in his report that the law should provide for the compilation of agricultural statistics, the most efficient as well as simple means of doing which would be to have the information entered in the valuation roll, collected by the assessors when they assess the properties.

ACCORDING to Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, a high rate of tavern license has proved to be beneficial in that State, the result having been to close up a number of petty groceries, which it was difficult to supervise, their places being taken by larger and better regulated establishments, from which in cities like Omaha has been extracted an annual fee of $1,000, the rate in villages being $500. Despite the reduction in numbers, the revenue derived has been $100,000 more than previously from the city of Omaha alone, and the authorities hold that they now have the traffic much better in hand than previously. In many other States they do not appear to have arrived at a satisfactory conclusion upon the subject, which at the elections was the means of materially prejudicing the Republicans of Ohio, whose papers are now begging the Legislature to perfect some practical law on the liquor question before the subject gets into an inextricable tangle.

THE YEAR 1882 shows the largest expenditure in the erection of new buildings which has yet been put on record in any one year of the Department of Buildings of New York. The official figures show that there were 2,961 buildings proposed for erection at an estimated cost of $44,778,686 and 1,676 alterations at an estimated cost of $4,262,481, or a grand total of nearly $50,000,000 invested in brick and stone, and this in a year notable for the absence of anything like excessive speculation, and when low rates of wages prevailed. In 1881, 2,668 buildings valued at $43,391,300 were put up, while in 1880, when an unusual real estate speculation was under way the figures were 2,782 buildings at a cost of $42,585,391.

REV. J. BRIDGE, Emigrants' Chaplain, St. Nicholas Church, Liverpool, representative of the Emigration Committee of the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge, is arranging to take a party of settlers to Manitoba and other parts of Canada, leaving England on April 19. Very encouraging letters have, it is said, been received from farmers and others who accompanied Mr. Bridge on previous occasions; and it is probable that further parties will be sent out under careful superintendence during the coming season. We cannot have too many people of the proper kind, no matter by whom they are brought out, and we hope the probability spoken of will become a certainty.

ACCORDING to a Washington despatch the British Minister has formally, but in an entirely friendly way, called the attention of the United States Government to the utterances of the Irish agitators. The President called the Cabinet's attention to the Minister's communication, stating his own opinions, and requesting the members to submit their views in writing. This was done on Friday last. There was, we learn, no dissent in the opinion that in the existing situation of affairs the Government would not be justified in interfering with the Irish sympathizers in the United States.

THE leading members of the medical profession in New York give a complimentary dinner to Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes at Delmonico's, Thursday evening, April 12, as an expression of appreciation of the honour Dr. Holmes has won for American medical and general literature during the past forty years. The committee of thirty representative physicians is making all necessary arrangements. Among the invited guests will be most distinguished members of other professions.

A POSTMASTER out in Montana having been lynched, apparently because he was discharged to the satisfaction of his assailants, the thought suggests itself that some of the recipients of Government patronage are not as happy as they might be. If postmasters be commenced with in how many other directions may we not expect that the populace will invite the assistance of Judge Lynch.

AS AN important point to Welsh publicans has been decided in the Queen's Bench. A Swansea magistrate had convicted a publican, under the Sunday closing act, for trading on Christmas-day, but the judges decided that the act did not apply either to Christmas-day or Good Friday, but solely to Sunday. It would surprise many people here were an attempt made for the purposes of the liquor traffic to classify holidays and Sundays.

WHY does not the Road Department open up the gutters and shafts to carry off the water from the streets? If our City Fathers expect the citizens to carry out the by-laws, they ought at least to have the decency to set the example. Decency should suggest this; but Corporations have no souls.

SOME idea of the appreciation of our City Fathers of the pledges they made to their constituents when soliciting election may be gathered from the consideration of the present state of our streets. How gratifying must be the promptings of their consciences!

ARBOR-DAY is now a holiday in this Province, which, for its observance, is divided into two sections—East and West. The 7th of May has been set apart for the western section, and the 16th for the eastern. A proclamation to that effect will be issued at once.

WE publish this morning the report of the Sun Insurance Company to which we direct special attention. It is an encouraging and at the same time satisfactory document, meriting the attention of those who contemplate taking up policies.

THE Chief of Police has notified householders to clear their footpaths from ice. In he league with the coroner? We may expect to hear of deaths from drowning and other causes as soon as the Chief's order is carried out.

WE publish this morning a mandement from Archbishop Taschereau accompanying a decree of the Holy Congregation maintaining the pretensions of the University of Laval with respect to its branch in Montreal.

THE navigation may be said to be open, judging from the state of the sidewalks. From the great depth of the water, boats may daily be expected to convey passengers from one point to another.

WE give to-day an interesting interview held with Sir Charles Tupper appropos to his retirement from the Federal Ministry.

THE attention of Lacrosse players and admirers of the game is specially directed to an advertisement respecting tickets for the English tour.

THE New Brunswick Legislature has been summoned to meet on the 12th, April for the despatch of business.

WE have received the first number of the Evening Tribune published at Hamilton, Ont.

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Mr. Charles Wyndham, with his celebrated Criterion Theatre Company, produced a light comedy, in three acts, entitled "14 Days."

Some years ago a band of acrobats gained popularity in the country under the name of the Hanlon Brothers.

Among the arrivals at the Windsor Hotel yesterday were Major Collins, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hall, Quebec; H. Sandfield Macdonald, Cornwall; and C. F. Houghton, New York.

Messrs. D. Robinson, J. Ryan, Brockville; Samuel F. Moore, Sherbrooke; F. W. Myers, Rouville; C. F. Ross, St. John's; N. B. Thos. Landry, Quebec; H. B. MacKintosh, Ottawa; Geo. Cox, Detroit; J. P. Fisher, Toronto; and Dr. F. E. Roy, Quebec, are guests at the St. Lawrence Hall.

Mr. M. H. Gault, M.P., left by the Delaware and Hudson Railway, yesterday for New York, whence he will proceed to Florida, and make there a sojourn for the benefit of his health, which it is needless to say he has only partially recovered after his late severe and prolonged illness.

Mr. Gault was accompanied to the depot by several members of his family, and a number of friends who bid him a hearty good bye.

He is accompanied as far as New York by his brother-in-law, Mr. S. Finley, and one of his sons will be his companion in his temporary Southern home.

A splendid detached solid stone villa residence, No. 22 Belmont Street, Beaver Hall.

With good outbuildings and ample grounds. Lot about 104x200; area, about 23,000.

A charming villa only a few yards from St. James Street. House has all modern improvements, fine heating apparatus, &c.

As we anticipated, the second concert given by Canada's great cantatrice was pronounced a success as the first, and we believe that the final one on Saturday afternoon will surpass all the others.

from her memory, supposing for a moment she ever felt hard against us, and we trust that in the near future we shall see her not only in concert, but in grand opera, when she will be able to give us a display of that intense dramatic earnestness and force she possesses in so marked a degree, and which has stamped her as one of the greatest dramatic sopranos on the lyric stage.

The programme last night opened with the duet "Si tu m'aimais," from "Trovatore," which was well rendered by Miss Dickerson and Signor Mierzwinski. The latter's tenor voice, which is of fine range and powerful in tone, was well controlled. Then followed an aria "Largo al futoctivo," from "Boris," which was smoothly sung by Signor Ciampi-Cella.

The charming Carreno then delighted everyone with her beautiful and artistic playing of a "Romance" by a Russian composer, and a "March" from "Ruins of Athens." She was forced to respond to the hearty encore, and the same enthusiasm was displayed by the audience in the second part, when she gave a selection of Chopin's and one of Gottschalk's. She is a great artiste and well deserves all the eulogies that have been passed upon her.

The appearance of Albani the audience sent forth the warmest applause, and the concert, which had ceased, Albani was in splendid voice, and sang "Casta Diva" so grandly that the vast assemblage could hardly restrain its pent-up enthusiasm. The aria is one calculated to test the powers of the greatest singers, and the famous passages were most effectively and brilliantly set forth with ease and facility. The high notes were taken with precision and purity of tone, and she fairly electrified the house with the strength, clearness and beauty of her sustained notes. It was an artistic and intelligent performance, and at the conclusion, the plaudits were loud and long. To this she responded by singing in the second part, "The Ave Maria," which she rendered with a purity of execution; and fairly carried away the audience, the plaudits being Madame Carreno and M. De Seve with violin. It had to be repeated; there was no denying those present, and Albani good naturedly complied. Later on she sang "The Last Rose of Summer" with a tenderness and simplicity that won all hearts, so much so that notwithstanding her great exertions previously, she had no reason to complain with "Home, Sweet Home," Signor Mierzwinski in the aria "Alti se ben mio" from "Trovatore," was very happy, the theme suited his tender and robust voice admirably. M. De Seve's violin solo was given with plenty of strength and he displayed facility and breadth in bowing with much firmness and delicacy of fingering. He was deservedly applauded. The concert closed with a duet by Signori Ciampi-Cella and Caravatti, in which both gentlemen showed to advantage.

The Pat Rooney Combination Company drew another large audience at the Royal last evening, and the performance loses nothing by repetition, being as full as ever of rollicking fun. All those who have not witnessed the performance should not fail to do so; it will be repeated this evening, with a matinee to-morrow afternoon and the last performance in the evening.

Among the arrivals at the Windsor Hotel yesterday were Major Collins, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hall, Quebec; H. Sandfield Macdonald, Cornwall; and C. F. Houghton, New York.

Messrs. D. Robinson, J. Ryan, Brockville; Samuel F. Moore, Sherbrooke; F. W. Myers, Rouville; C. F. Ross, St. John's; N. B. Thos. Landry, Quebec; H. B. MacKintosh, Ottawa; Geo. Cox, Detroit; J. P. Fisher, Toronto; and Dr. F. E. Roy, Quebec, are guests at the St. Lawrence Hall.

Mr. M. H. Gault, M.P., left by the Delaware and Hudson Railway, yesterday for New York, whence he will proceed to Florida, and make there a sojourn for the benefit of his health, which it is needless to say he has only partially recovered after his late severe and prolonged illness.

Mr. Gault was accompanied to the depot by several members of his family, and a number of friends who bid him a hearty good bye.

He is accompanied as far as New York by his brother-in-law, Mr. S. Finley, and one of his sons will be his companion in his temporary Southern home.

A splendid detached solid stone villa residence, No. 22 Belmont Street, Beaver Hall.

With good outbuildings and ample grounds. Lot about 104x200; area, about 23,000.

A charming villa only a few yards from St. James Street. House has all modern improvements, fine heating apparatus, &c.

As we anticipated, the second concert given by Canada's great cantatrice was pronounced a success as the first, and we believe that the final one on Saturday afternoon will surpass all the others.

THE BEST NOW MADE. "BEST NOW MADE"—This is the well-grounded claim put forth on behalf of the Pianos manufactured by the eminent house of DECKER BROTHERS.

Our local Professors, whose judgment in such matters is not behind that of the world's great Artists, have testified their appreciation by purchasing and using them. Here is what some of them say:—

(Translation) MONTREAL, March 2nd, 1882. Messrs. DeZouche & Co.

GENTLEMEN.—Your Decker Brothers Pianos possess a quality rarely found even in so-called first class instruments, namely, a most perfectly balanced and even scale throughout.

Our local Professors, whose judgment in such matters is not behind that of the world's great Artists, have testified their appreciation by purchasing and using them. Here is what some of them say:—

(Translation) MONTREAL, March 3rd, 1882. Messrs. DeZouche & Co.

DEAR SIRS.—Permit me to say how charmed I was with the Decker Bros. Upright Piano which I tried on Thursday last.

A touch normal and sympathetic, an equality of tone as well as of action, prolonged vibration "singing" qualities, and exceptional finish in the details of mechanism, make these Pianos the rivals of the best Upright Pianos of Europe or America.

If Messrs Decker Bros. unite in all their instruments the same artistic qualities which they deserve the recognition, both of conscientious Professors, and of all persons of taste.

I am, Dear Sirs, Very truly yours, R. O. PELLETIER

(Translation) 58 UNIVERSITY STREET, MONTREAL, March, 1882. Messrs. DeZouche & Co.

DEAR SIRS.—I have used a Decker Brothers Parlor Grand Piano three years, and it is with the greatest pleasure that I would refer to the perfect satisfaction it has always given me.

The tone both as to purity, as to equality, and as to volume, is absolutely perfect, and the action solid, prompt, and delicate.

Still further, it possesses the rare and important quality of remaining perfectly in tune, which is constant during fourteen hours every day.

(Translation) MONTREAL, 27th March, 1882. Messrs. DeZouche & Co.

DEAR SIRS.—After a careful trial of Decker Brothers Pianos in public and in private, it gives me pleasure to tell you how satisfactory they have proved in every respect.

Their ready action and exquisite singing quality, make them in every sense thoroughly Artistic Instruments.

Sincerely yours, G. ZULIME HOLMES.

(Translation) MONTREAL, April, 1882. GENTLEMEN.—Please add my name to the list of musicians who admire very much your Decker Brothers Pianos.

Second Session—Fifth Parliament

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

MORNING SESSION

Quebec, March 29

The House met at 11.15 a.m. After routine.

Mr. Wartelet moved the House into Committee of Ways and Means.

Mr. Bernatchez, in the absence of Mr. Shely, moved the House into Committee of Ways and Means.

That this House in regard to vote the subsidies to Her Majesty, but regrets that the Government has not yet submitted any practical measure tending to furnish the necessary ways and means to meet the ordinary and extraordinary expenses which it proposes to incur for the fiscal year 1889-90.

Resolved—1st, That the subsidy of four thousand dollars per mile granted to the Montreal, Portland & Boston Railway, which results as follows:—

Resolved—1st, That the subsidy of four thousand dollars per mile granted to the Montreal, Portland & Boston Railway, which results as follows:—

In support of his motion he explained that this resolution was intended to rectify an error made in the amount, and already voted to this road before it was known exactly what length the road would be.

The House then went into committee on said resolution, reported and read it a first time.

Mr. Lynch then introduced a bill founded on such resolution, and by permission of the House it was then read a first and second and third time and passed.

Mr. Mousseau's bill, to explain the act to secure the independence of the Legislature of this province, was dropped from the order paper.

On motion of Mr. Mousseau, the amendments made by the Legislative Council to the bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure were read a second time.

In motion of Mr. Lynch, the bill to extend the dispositions of the act of this province, 45 Vic, chap. 49, respecting the inspection of Mutual Insurance Companies, and other companies therein mentioned, and for other purposes, was read a second time, passed through Committee, read a second time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. Lynch, the bill to further amend chapter 23 of the Consolidated Statutes of Canada, respecting the sale and management of timber on public lands, and the acts amending the same, was read a second time, reported from Committee of the Whole, read a third time and passed.

Mr. Wartelet moved the third reading of the Supply Bill.

After discussion, it was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Wartelet then moved the House into Committee upon the resolutions respecting the claim of the Province for an increase of subsidy from the Dominion, as already published.

Mr. Irvine would not oppose the resolutions, but he could say that he was against them. We were ourselves responsible for the financial position in which we found ourselves, and it was for us to bear the consequences and not to ask others to pay our debts.

Mr. Mercier was unable to say, until the next sitting of the House, what measures would be taken up.

Mr. Mousseau's motion to refer back to committee, for certain amendments, the bill to amend the law relating to the constitution of the Superior Court.

Mr. Flynn said he would like to know the reasons of the amendments, as they were opposed to the law, and interests of his country, it was his duty not only to object to them from his seat but to resist them, if it were necessary for eight days to come, and even if he had, though he would resist it, to delay the prorogation to that extent.

Mr. Mousseau said he simply wanted to have the resolution of the House, as it had not been fixed in the bill. He proposed to place it at New Carlisle, and he had been given to understand that the member for Gaspe had no objection to New Carlisle.

Mr. Flynn denied that he had ever said, or authorized anyone to say, that he did not object to New Carlisle. The bill, as it presently stood had been amended at the desire of the Premier himself in committee, and left the (Mr. Flynn) was exceedingly surprised at so sudden a change of face on the subject as the Premier now seemed anxious to make.

Mr. Mousseau said he had demonstrated that Gaspe had a vested right to this resident judge and that this right had been recognized in the most emphatic manner by the Dominion Government when Judge Cimon was appointed. He would like to know if the Premier had any communication from Ottawa, asking for the change now proposed. He felt surprised that the Premier, having been himself a member of the Dominion Government, when the pledge referred to was given, and having the year previous made a forcible speech in favour of the principle of decentralization, he should now go back on his record.

Mr. Mousseau remarked that he supposed ministers did not hold themselves responsible for their utterances or pledges at Ottawa. [Hear, hear.]

Mr. Flynn said it seemed so, but, of course, circumstances altered cases. [Laughter.] He went on to observe that without wishing to enlarge too much on the subject he felt it his duty to call the attention of the House to the fact that this bill involved a grave departure from the principle of decentralization which was sanctioned in 1857, which both political parties had always professed themselves anxious to maintain.

Mr. Mousseau replied, and at one o'clock the House adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION. The House re-assembled at 3 p.m. The debate on Mr. Mousseau's motion was resumed and continued for some time, when Mr. Flynn said that seeing the determination of the Government and the impossibility for him to prevent them from carrying their point, notwithstanding that he had the sympathies and support of many of his fellow members who he took the occasion to thank, he would, although protesting, make a last appeal and ask the Premier at least to give the option to the judge to reside at Perce, or New Carlisle. Mr. Mousseau consented to this, and the House went into committee and made this amendment to the bill.

The bill was then reported, read a third time and passed and as it now stands the judge appointed for the county of Gaspe will hereafter exercise his functions in
