1960 Huntingdon Fair Considered The Best Ever Held Here

The first fair ever held in Huntingdon was in 1824. Some years later Huntingdon Agricultural Society was formed and over this long period of years we honestly believe that 1960 Fair was the best exhibition ever held here.

It was indeed a cattle show put on by the local breeders of Holstein and Ayrshires during the past three years that have raised Huntingdon Fair to a fair of more than average importance. The horsemen were not to be out-done by the cattle breeders and they solicitied entries so that good horse shows are offered. The popularity of the cowboy movies and their palomino ponies makes it to-day the palomino is a great attraction in the ring. Shetland ponies have become so numerous that to-day their classes are always large, and of course appeal to the spectators.

Much credit for the excellence and improvements in the horse show goes to David McCoy, Chas. Kyle, Jim O'Hare, Carl Wheeler, Howard Rick and several others. These men not only make sure their is a real good showing of horses for the arena programmes but also for the Saturday afternoon harness race schedule on the race track.

We will refrain from singling out top prize awards in this Fair report, but would ask our readers to peruse the lists of prize winners that appear on other pages of the Gleaner.

Due to the drouth of July and August the vegetable, fruit and flower exhibits were on the meager side. The fancy work, Domestic Art, Cooking, jams, jellies, maple products etc. maintained their commendable standing of past years.

Sheep and swine entries were confined to lone entrants.

In the cattle show, never has there been such a steady and interested ring side audience as was the case this year. Undoubtedly the big reason was that the exhibits could be seen in comfort. The exhibits were paraded in a big tent and such provided the shade for the exhibitors and the spectators. The renting of the big tent was a smart move and will undoubtedly be maintained in years to come.

The poultry show is a feature that seems to be big at times and sometimes small, as far as entries are concerned. The 1960 exhibit was above average in numbers. Utility breeds were quite numerous, water fowl and turkeys were not too plentiful. The poultry judge found it a bit difficult to judge the entries as they were not always too well grouped as to competing classes. Perhaps this is a matter that could be easily corrected if an attendant was present when the entries are being placed in the poultry building.

Pets are exhibited in this poultry building but this year they were not numerous, however one little 9 year old girl, Dorma McIntosh was very proud of her pair of Belgian Giant rabbits, "Nibbles" weighing 14 lbs. and "Cotton Tail" 11 lbs. It is nice to see pets being exhibited and likewise the proud children present with their entries.

Booths in the show building were all occupied and commanded a good patronage. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Huntingdon County Hospital did a thriving business on their "Parcel Post" feature, selling out on Friday evening.

Booth's Florist Reg'd. had a both of magnificent floral arrangements, a real credit to Mr. and Mrs. David Booth and Calvin Wright.

Mainville Construction had an exhibit of aluminum doors and they were even ready to demonstrate the operation of such and give estimates as to their cost and installation.

The church bazaars were well stocked and patronized. Other booths occupied in this building were attractive and enjoyed a good trade.

Gleaner Increases Staff In Chateauguay And Valleyfield

The Gleaner takes pleasure in announcing that as a result of an expansion programme started early in 1960, increased business and circulation have warranted the appointment of two new members to its editorial staffs.

Mrs. Françoise Dumouchel assumed the post of women's editor and secretary of La Gazette Valleyfield-Beauharnois, in Valleyfield on August 22nd; on the same date, Mr. Sandy Davidson was appointed representative of the "Chateauguay Gleaner".

Mrs. Dumouchel is by no means a novice in newspaper work as she has helped out in the Valleyfield office of La Gazette during the summer months for many years. Mr. Jean-Claude Lefebvre, manager of La Gazette Valleyfield - Beauharnois, has been aware of the increasing need for a woman editor in Valleyfield for some time and Mrs. Dumouchel's experience in feminine organizations and her knowledge of newspaper work make this appointment most appropriate.

The second addition to the staff is the result of the response of the people of Chateauguay to the "Chateauguay Gleaner". Quickly approaching its 100th anniversary, The Gleaner has been circulated in Chateauguay from its earliest days. During the past five years especially, the three municipalities commonly known as "Chateauguay" have multiplied several times in size and population. Noting that the majority of new residents were predominantly English-speaking, The Gleaner inquired from a number of leading townspeople early this year if a local newspaper would be welcomed in Chateauguay. The answers indicated to Adam L. Sellar, owner of The Huntingdon Gleaner Inc., that a newspaper of the calibre of The Gleaner would in time gain recognition in the fast-developing area and the first Chateauguay Gleaner rolled off the press on April 6 of this year.

Since that first issue, "Chateauguay Gleaner" has literally shot ahead by leaps and bounds. Thanks to faithful correspondents and enterprising, efficient route boys, Chateauguay Gleaner has many times surpassed the two-year objective set for April, 1962.

Due to this success, Sandy Sandy Davidson has been added to the staff whereby the new newspaper will have a representative in Chateauguay on a full-time basis.

Sandy was born in Ottawa and completed High School in that district, later attending Syracuse University for two years. A keen and experienced newspaperman, he has worked for the Syracuse Post-Standard and Canadian Business Magazine, Montreal. Previous to entering the newspaper field, he worked for one year with the National Research Council in Ottawa. Interested in sports and local affairs, this young man will undoubtedly be an asset in Chateauguay and Huntingdon Municipalities.

Havelock Fair Is Next To Be Held Sept. 10

President Walter Barr, Havelock Fair, visited the Huntingdon Fair on Friday. In a short talk with Mr. Barr, he made a few personal remarks that perhaps he may feel are not for publication but for all of that we believe they are so commendable to the man, they should be made known.

Mr. Barr stated that Havelock fair is now 88 years old. He himself is 81 years of age and since he was 8 years of age, can't recall having ever missed attending the Havelock Fair. An enviable record Mr. Barr. You have also been the Fair president for several years and for a long period of time a director.

Mr. Barr has been fortunate in that the directorate and Secretary-Treasurer Aylmer Hadley have worked so well together toward making improvements and innovations to the regular agricultural show. The family gatherings and visitors to Havelock Fair swell the patronage to a point that it is always very largely attended.

The 1960 Havelock Fair takes place on Saturday, September 10. The Ayrshire "red and white" show takes place at this fair. A special ring is being created this year for the showing of ponies, and seats for spectators about the ring will also be provided. The pony potato race and musical ride is sure to give the audience a refreshing bit of entertainment.

Rural Fire Protection Possible

Rural Fire Protection is a subject that has always interested farmers. The hazard of fire is great on a farm and when such hits, it hits hard, as little can be done to stop or even prevent its spreading to other buildings.

The G. R. Pump Equipment was demonstrated at the Huntingdon Fair and commanded a great deal of attention from municipal councils and many farmers. Rene Rousselle, Huntingdon informed the Gleaner that the 1100 gallon equipment used on the race track on Saturday afternoon was capable of providing water for four lines of fire hose at one time. This unit mounted on a truck has its pump which can draw water from any immediate source of supply, and wheather the water be clean or dirty it will not in any way interfere with the pumping of the water. The 1100 gallons of the water in the tank can be treated with a liquid substance, much like a detergent, and this water when used will penetrate and do several times as much good as ordinary water in extinguishing a fire.

The cost of such a unit is $9,000. If purchased by a municipality the Provincial Government provides a grant of 50% of its cost, and likewise on the cost of fire hose etc.

A smaller unit was also being demonstrated, the tank of same being 500 gallons. The pump is a separate unit from the tank and not being motorized would have to be hauled to the scene of a fire. The cost of this smaller unit is $3,677.

The purchase of such a unit by a municipality is likely to represent one mill of extra taxation but it would more than likely represent a much greater saving in the way of a reduction in fire insurance rates.

A demonstration was arranged to take place in the Parish of St. Barbe on Monday evening, considering a purchase of fire fighting equipment which could be used throughout the municipality.

Nurse Training Fund Below Required Figure As Results Totalled

The Nurse Training Fund benefit conducted each year by the Huntingdon Rotary Club was up to par as far as finances were concerned, but its net result was a $1,000 below what will be required. This year, there will be five girls in training for the degree of registered nurses, that are to receive financial assistance from the Rotary Club. The Rotary Club is very happy to have five girls in training as nurses and will see to it that the girls receive the approximate $1,000, each during their three years of training. An extra $1,000 will have to be raised, consequently the Club devoted some time to the subject on Monday. In the not too distant future it will be announced what is to be done to raise the required funds.

The prize winners on Saturday were as follows: George Lennox, Huntingdon $300; Billy Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Brown, Huntingdon $200; Percy Elliott, Huntingdon $100; $20 prize winners were: Jos Roy, Athelstan; Aldric Leblanc, Huntingdon; Marcil Latour, Hemmingford, Mrs. A. Citizens' Band Leads Fair Parade

Although it had been announced that the Huntingdon Citizens' Band would be inactive until September, it was called upon to lead the Fair Parade. The offer was refused three times, but at last it was decided to make an attempt to play this parade. Mr. Sylvio Tessier of Valleyfield was asked to lead the band and through his services, the band was able to lead the parade, although a little late in arriving. This was due to lack of organization and confusion among the members, but this was overcome in time.

It is possible that Mr. Tessier will be hired as instructor and Mr. Paul Beaulieu of Valleyfield, section will likely also become a permanent member. A meeting of the band executive is to be held shortly with the idea of reorganizing the band and then a meeting with town authorities and prominent citizens will be arranged. Every effort is to be made to keep the band functioning, as it has become an important part of this town's activities.

Huntingdon Fair Parade Commended For Variety As Well As Beauty

The annual parade that takes place for the official opening of Huntingdon Fair was again a real success. For years it was a grand display of farm implements, and that was a feature that really had its place in such a parade. The spectators who line the streets are not all farmers and it is well that the public at large realize what an investment farmers must make today to really be up-to-date, progressive agriculturists.

The parade was headed by a group of saddle horses representing the Palomino horse exhibitors.

A little beauty of a red M.G. Sports car of Riverside Motors Reg'd. driven by Austin Murray, carried Grange Queen Shirley Grant. Shirley made a great hit with the spectators and the large audience in the Arena. President Howard Rick presented her with a beautiful bouquet of flowers as a gift from Booth's Florists Reg'd.

The official car carried Messrs. M. Barrington, M.P., who officially opened the Huntingdon Fair; H. A. D. Somerville, M.P.P., Mayor Paul Lefebvre, Town of Huntingdon; Mayor Angus McNaughton, of Hinchinbrooke, President Col. Howard Rick, Huntingdon Fair.

Floats were of variety and beauty. The attractive float prepared by the people of Dewittville was awarded 1st prize, which it richly deserved. 2nd prize went to the Rotary Club, not for the beauty it displayed but more for the get-up of the dress worn by Rotarians who put on the mock marriage ceremony as of the 1890's. The wedding ring took the form of a pair of hand-cuffs linking McKie Cluff as the bride to Ken Ferns at the groom. Ken Ferns was supposed to have been the bride but we guess the wedding gown was not to his measure and could be fitted McKie. Fred Anderson acted as the Rector performing the wedding ceremony, referring to McKie as "Fluffy Cluff" and Ken as the "Oil Baron of Huntingdon." Tommy McNaughton drove the bride and groom away in the 1917 Chevrolet "490" owned by James Smythe. The act gave the audience a good laugh and much applause was accorded.

The Maple Leaf Grange had a beautiful float. The flag bearers Gail Hawley, Rosetta Cosgrove marched in front of the float and on the green mound stood little Van Rankin, dressed in a R.C.M.P. scarlet tunic holding the Flag. It is to be hoped the Grange will have this float at the Syracuse State Fair along with Grange Queen Shirley Grant.

Arthur Gamble provoked much laughter with his big farm horse hitched to a sulky, with a lantern hanging from one shaft and a red lantern dangling at the rear. Arthur's get-up was excellent.

Royce Ruddock's, Dewittville float depicting a wedding reception also drew rounds of applause from the spectators. Hauling the float was a 1931 Chevrolet coupe with Royce and George Tolhurst, complete with top hats and tails, in the front seat and the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Rozema, in the rumble seat. On the float were the other members of the wedding party: Vickie Tolhurst, John Tolhurst, Bonnie Bryson, Leeanne Ruddock, Donna MacIntosh, Hennie Rozema and Carmen Ruddock.

Huntingdon County Hospital Auxiliary, Girl Guides, Labatt's, Coca-Cola, St. Joseph's School choir in part, and in behalf of the Rotary Boys' Club, etc., all contributed much toward the success of the parade. The Cubs were out in force, a great number of Shetland ponies and decorated bicycles rounded up the parade.

The Huntingdon Citizens' Band under the direction of the new bandmaster Sylia Tessier, of Valleyfield played well throughout the parade. In the arena the band played "O Canada." The arena being the Huntingdon County War Memorial, Bandmaster Tessier played the "Last Post" and "Reveille" followed by a minute of silence. During this portion of the ceremony the Arena lights were dimmed. This impressive ceremony was most becomingly observed.

They paddled their canoe straight and swift to win many a laurel. Let them have a good vacation to get in shape and they might well give the youths of to-day a good race for the prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Taylor and children Andrew and Jill and their cousin Sonny, have just returned from two week's vacation in Miami, Florida. While there, they visited the Everglades at the National Parks, at one time they saw a five foot poisonous snake. They travelled 3,889 miles from time they left until they got back home. Mr. Taylor would have liked to have been able to talk to someone before he left for his trip concerning what route to take. They enjoyed the trip home far more than going. Mr. Taylor would be very glad to give anyone who is thinking of the same trip any information he can, if they would call him. His phone number is OX 2-8985.

There are about 50 cardboard containers that the new desks arrived in, at the Maple School. Anybody who can use these are welcome to them. They measure 2x3x3 feet. Otherwise Mr. Taylor says he will have to burn them.

Last Thursday, the local farmer located near St. Eugene, was feeling a little bored and decided to have some excitement. He set fire to two of his old barns and then took moving pictures of the fire.

This action caused a little excitement for the management of Prudential Builders, also. A worried housewife seeing the fire, thought the orchard was ablaze and immediately notified Prudential of her fears. Within minutes a white convertible followed by a Prudential truck were spied rushing to the scene, only to discover the farmer having his little fun.

Happy Birthday to Jean Valois who will be 3 years old on September 2nd.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. H. Kelly who will be celebrating their 21st anniversary September 2nd.

Happy anniversary to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dooley who will be celebrating their 14th. year of marriage on September 7th.

The Well Baby Clinic will be held from 11 a.m. to 12 noon on September 8th at the Catholic Church, Route 4 near Prudential.

The horse shoe champs, Jim Bryant and Fred Clarke, were defeated Sunday by Jean Louise Boulet and Tony Fortier of Sullivan St. Asked later how they felt, the new Champs replied "Just great". Jim and Fred put up a good battle and were hard to beat. All are looking forward to a return match this weekend when the ex-champs will seek to regain the title.

Anyone know the identity of the three men adorned in bathing trunks, who were having a try at discus throwing at Prudential Ball Park last Sunday evening? They seemed to be doing pretty well at it too.

Carnival Will Return

The Beauce Carnival midway at the Huntingdon Fair proved to be the best midway the fair has ever had. The midway provided eight different types of rides and had a large number of games and souvenir stands. The public was quite well pleased with this section of the Fair. The management of Beauce Carnival were delighted with the type of people they had to deal with as customers in that they were orderly and that they had no cantankerous drunks to deal with. They assured President Rick they would be happy to return to Huntingdon Fair in 1961.

Welcome Rain

This area experienced a very welcome rain on Monday afternoon and evening, the first for a very long time. Almost everything was parched and burned by the hot dry season that has carried on through most of the summer. However, high winds blew before the rain came and in some parts further afield did a lot of damage. No damage was reported in our area. In Ontario, on the other side of Lake St. Francis, a fire started in a manure pile and caught a barn on fire, which in turn due to the high wind, caused fire in three other nearby barns and all were lost. We still need more rain, although it will be too late to benefit the late growing crops and vegetables, it would help bring back the pastures and lawn grass.

Return From Holiday Trip

HOWICK — Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kerr arrived home Thursday evening, August 25th after a five-week motor trip. They attended the Reid reunion on July 23rd in London, Ont. They continued their trip with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Livingstone of Londesboro, Ont. as travelling partners. The party left Ontario through Sarnia and crossed through Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and stopped in South Dakota to visit Mr. and Mrs. Archie McIntyre and family. On through Wyoming to Yellowstone National Park thence to Montana, Idaho and Washington, where they spent some time viewing the Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia River. On to the Pacific coast and North to Vancouver. In several of the towns and cities coming Eastward they called on many friends and acquaintances until they came to Kenora, Ont. where they again went South into Northern Minnesota through Duluth and east to the new Mackinac Bridge, crossing Lake Michigan and back into southern Ontario. On the way home, they spent one day and evening at the C.N.E. which was the opening day. After 8,000 miles and many beautiful pieces of country much varied from the usual landscape, it was rather disappointing to see this usual green Valley so dry and in such need of rain.

NITRO. — A drive by the Canadian Red Cross Society to attract 10,000 Blood Donors to Red Cross Clinics during the summer months, was launched on July 7, 1960. This campaign was climaxed by a Monster Rally at DeLorimier Stadium on August 26th, when the blood donors were guests of the Montreal Royals and the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball teams. Free tickets for this event were given to all donors in return for giving blood.

Keeping in pace with this drive, Canadian Arsenals Limited, Explosive Division, Nitro, P.Q., agreed to conduct a clinic on August 19th, 1960, the second of its kind held the same year.

A total of 124 volunteer donors reported to this clinic compared with 137 at the previous one, and 114 bottles of blood were contributed. This makes a total of 2074 bottles of blood that have been donated by Canadian Arsenals Limited, Explosive Division employees and Nitro residents since 1951.

BLUEBERRY SEASON SUGGESTION

Applesauce Blueberry Crisp

Use fresh or frozen blueberries. Serve "a la mode" or as is. It's delicious both ways!

1 cup all-purpose flour
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 egg

or

3 cups peeled and sliced apples
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 cups blueberries
3 cups applesauce
1/3 cup melted butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon-sugar.

Mix flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and unbeaten egg with a fork until crumbly. This is the topping.

Place the applesauce and blueberries in a greased baking dish. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons brown sugar, or more if fruit is tart. Then sprinkle the topping over the fruit. Dribble the melted butter over the topping and sprinkle with the cinnamon-sugar.

Bake 30 minutes in a 375° oven, or until topping is golden brown. Just as delicious — hot or cold.

Saturday three couples banded together and spent the day at St. Armand's Beach, Plattsburg. The Coles, McIvers and Frasers, all of Circle Park had a grand time even though Jim Cole had a flat tire at the last minute before departing for home. Dot McIver was ever present with a movie camera to catch anyone when they weren't looking. The pictures must be quite interesting.

This is the preserving and pickling season. All preserves and pickled goods are being bottled and stored for the winter with the exception of the husbands.

THE DIFFERENCES

There is often some confusion between the three branches of workers in the field of human sight. An oculist or opthalmologist is an eye doctor whose practice includes medical and surgical treatment of eye conditions, including prescriptions of visual aids. An optometristis licensed to test vision and prescribe glasses and to treat optical defects without drugs or surgery. The optician is a skilled technician who grinds lenses and fits eye glasses but does not treat or test vision unless he is also an optometrist.

National parks cover about 30,000 square miles in Canada and Alberta has more than half the total park area.

Covering the Sports

"It didn't seem any more important than any other meet until we got home and found out what it meant to people."

Percy Williams spoke the words 10 years ago when he was chosen Canada's "outstanding track and field performer of the first half of this century.

Recently, the man who swept the 100- and 200-metre events at the 1928 Olympics sat down for a talk with the man who hopes to sweep those events in Rome.

Percy was 20 when he went to Amsterdam and came home with two gold medals. Canada has not won a gold medal in the sprints since then.

Harry Jerome is also 20, like Williams a product of the school cinder tracks around Vancouver.

Two Trials

"Harry has the advantage of having only two trials to get by in making our team and then can work out at his own pace. This limits the chances of overtraining," Williams said.

Percy was considered "too small" to win at Amsterdam. He was a high-strung, nervous sprinter with little love for the sport. Today he's an insurance salesman with little time or inclination to follow track and field.

Jerome, son of a railway porter, has the size and love of the sport and is a perfectionist. His running style is smooth and effortless.

He's a contrast to Williams, whose running style violated every principle of the game.

Jerome is confident: "I know I can run with the best."

He has, along with Armin Harry of Germany, a time of 10 seconds pending for the world 100-metre record.

Jerome is cool to everyone and everything before a race: "If I forget myself for a minute and take my mind off running, I could lose. I enter to win."

Repeat performance

What happened in Amsterdam 32 years ago could be repeated in Rome, 1960.

Canadians were stunned and joyful on July 29, 1928, when the news came that Williams had won the 100 metres in 10.8 seconds. Three days later he whipped the world's best in the 200 at 21.8 to become the second double Olympic sprint winner since 1912.

It was "just another track meet" to the reluctant star until he arrived back in Vancouver. The reception was overwhelming. He rode through the streets with the premier. Fellow-citizens presented him with a roadster. A $14,500 trust fund was set up.

A year later he went on to New York's Madison Square Garden and beat the cream of U.S. runners. In 1930 he went to Hamilton for the British Empire Games. That was the end. In a race at Hamilton something clicked in his leg. The best he could do in the 1932 Olympic trials was fourth in the 100-metre finals.

Thirty-two years later Canada's hopes are riding on Harry Jerome.

APPLESAUCE COOKIES

4 dozen of cookies full of spices and everything nice — they keep tasty and fresh for 4 or 5 weeks — if you can keep them!

½ teaspoon salt

½ cup chopped nuts

Sift flour with soda, salt, cinnamon and cloves. Add sifted ingredients to applesauce mixture and stir until smooth. Add chopped raisins and nuts.

GARDENING IN AN EGGSHELL

Here's an unusual idea for those gardeners who like to start their seeds indoors.

In a nutshell, it's to use an eggshell.

Save shells from your breakfast eggs, fill the halves with fine potting soil and plant only one or two seeds in each half. Store the seeded shells in egg containers, giving them the same care you do to seeds planted in other containers.

When both seedlings and weather are right for transplanting, put shells, plants and all into the ground. The calcium of the shell helps the soil as is disintegrates.

Vauxhall... the difference between skimping and saving!

THERE'S NO SKIMPING ON PLEASURE

That's the big difference with Vauxhall — it has the total visibility of wraparound windows — Ball-Race steering to help you into that tight parking space — a low centre of gravity to give you a wonderful feeling of steady, smooth control over the roughest roads.

SAVE AS YOU DRIVE

You can't help but save on the peppy 4-cylinder Vauxhall "oversquare" engine. Its outstanding engineering assures you long life and trouble-free driving. With the economy carburetor you'll forget all your worries about gas consumption—you get up to 40 miles per gallon.

NO SKIMPING ON COMFORT

That means sit-back-and-relax comfort for five passengers. With Vauxhall there's no struggle to get into the back seat, four wide opening doors provide easy entrance and exit. Comfort-cushioned seats and steering column gearshift are two of the many other Vauxhall luxury features.

SAVE FOR THE FUTURE

Vauxhall holds its value for years —you couldn't make a better investment. From its rigidly constructed body—with rustproofing body dip, to its sleek and handsome appearance — Vauxhall has everything you expect in a General Motors car. And there's continent-wide service, too.

NO SKIMPING ON FEATURES

There's not enough space to list them all but here are a few to tantalize you . . . A Canadian-size heater designed for the frostiest winters . . . two-speed electric windshield wipers . . . top quality rustproofing body dip for years of wear and "just new" good looks.

SAVE ON INITIAL COST

Always an important consideration when buying a car, Vauxhall is more considerate than most. Whatever make of car you own — a look at Vauxhall will make you think hard about your driving future, and you couldn't make a better decision than to visit your Vauxhall dealer — Right now!

Junior Red Cross Leadership Training Centre, St. Jean, Que.

Delegate from Huntingdon High School—
Allison Liversidge

The purpose of this Training Centre was the three main objectives of Junior Red Cross — to promote health, to serve others, and to increase understanding in a troubled world today. The Training Centre hoped to develop and strengthen bonds of friendship and mutual understanding; to acquaint the youth of the world with the humanitarian principles of the Red Cross as contained in the four Geneva Conventions; to learn more about Junior Red Cross programmes around the world, through exchange of ideas and experiences, and so to provide the inspiration and information that would help the delegates to enrich and expand Junior Red Cross activities in their respective school, community, and province.

Eighty-three high school girls and boys, ranging in age from fifteen to eighteen, were: thirty-three from Quebec, sixteen from Nova Scotia, fifteen from New Brunswick, ten from Newfoundland, seven from Prince Edward Island, and two guests from the United States. The fourteen staff members were headed by Mr. P. J. Logan, Principal-supervisor of Rosemere High School, as director.

The daily schedule included talks, discussions, panels, films, and other activities. Water-safety demonstrations and instructions were given every afternoon.

Among the featured speakers was Dr. Gustave Gingras, executive director of Montreal's Rehabilitation Institute, who headed the International Red Cross Medical Team in Morocco last September during the cooking-oil paralysis crisis. Dr. Gingras told the fascinating story of his experiences in Morocco; also, he showed slides taken while he had been there. Dr. Gingras, who had been called in to try to find the cause of the disease, found, after much research, that the cooking-oil merchants were behind it all.

One of the cooking-oil merchants had decided to make the product go farther and also to have it bring in more profits, by adding a little motor oil to each bottle of cooking-oil. Foolishly, he and the men who were working for him thought that this would not harm the people who bought the oil, but it paralysed them, and a lot of them died.

The slides that Dr. Gingras showed, showed some of the affected people going to the Rehabilitation Centre that was set up in a town in Morocco. They were being treated for their disease with exercises and inoculations.

Dr. Gingras' talk was, in my opinion, one of the most interesting and informative of those heard at the centre.

Other guest speakers were Miss Barbara Allen, of the Montreal Children's Hospital, who spoke on Children's Treatment Services, and Dr. Douglas J. Wilson, of the Montreal Star, who spoke on "World Brotherhood".

On Saturday evening, we toured the locks of the St. Lawrence Seaway, and on Sunday afternoon, there was a garden party, held on the Commandant's lawn, for handicapped children and senior citizens, who came from hospitals, welfare centres and homes. Entertainment was provided by the delegates, in the form of skits, songs and dances, and as a special feature, Jean-Marc, one of the recreation directors, did a trampoline act. Refreshments were served by the delegates, and both the children and senior citizens received small gifts which had been made by the delegates. The children and adults thanked us all gratefully as they left to go home.

On Monday, at eight a.m., we left on the college buses for a day in Montreal. We started with a tour of the historical sights, then went to the CBC, followed by lunch and shopping at Eaton's. In the afternoon we toured the Montreal's Children's Hospital, after which we were received at Beaver Lake by the Mayor of Montreal, Mr. Sarto Fournier. We had a delicious supper there, and a presentation by La Roulotte, a travelling theatre. We all went home after this, tired, but very happy!

The Training Centre was held in the Champlain Block of the College, and all the sports facilities were made available to us, during our stay there. Each day, we had an hour of swimming and water safety, in a beautiful pool with three diving boards; then an hour of sports. The different sports played were: basketball, volleyball, softball, tennis, badminton, parallel bars, trampoline, and soccer, for the boys.

Each day, we were to write up the day's activities in our Centre Log, a loose-leaf book which had been given to us on our arrival.

On Sunday, we all went to church; there were a Protestant and a Roman Catholic chapel. I had the privilege of playing the organ at this service, and at the service at the R.C.A.F. Station, St. Jean, as the regular cadet organist had gone home.

All in all, it was a wonderful ten-day experience; I made many friends who are corresponding with me already.

I would like to thank everyone for choosing me as the delegate from Huntingdon High School. I will never forget the good times and fun that I had at the Junior Red Cross Leadership Training Centre, at Le College Militaire Royal de St. Jean, St. Jean, Quebec.

Satellite Volunteers Adapt Quickly

TORONTO — A unique experiment has shown that man can adapt to conditions similar to those on a whirling satellite hundreds of miles above the earth.

The experiment was performed by Dr. Ashton Graybiel, director of the U. S. Naval School of Aviation Medicine at Pensacola, Florida, and was reported to the Health League of Canada in a release from the American Medical Association.

The report said four volunteers at a time were locked inside a circular room 15 feet in diameter and 7 feet high while the room was rotated at a constant speed. In six separate experiments during two days the room was rotated at velocities ranging from 1.71 to 10 revolutions per minute. Dr. Graybiel said the speeds were chosen to sample the range which might be used in orbiting some satellite vehicles.

During the experiment the volunteers were called on to perform certain tests. The rest of the time they spent eating, sleeping, reading and listening to a radio.

All of the subjects except one reported certain unpleasant symptoms such as nausea, visual illusions and other discomforts. The only man not affected had lost the function of the sensory organs of the inner ears.

Dr. Grabiel said, "the degree and rapidity with which symptoms decreased or disappeared astonished both the experimenters and the subjects."

He added that the method holds promise in the study of the etiology and control of motion sickness.

Fun Afloat

Don't Be A "Sunday Driver"
COURTESY, RULES OF ROAD FOR EVERY SKIPPER

Here's a breakdown of basic rules of the road, each a contribution to safety and good boating:

1. When two craft approach each other head on, each should bear to the starboard (right) so as to pass port (left) to port.
2. When one boat is overtaking another, the craft doing the overtaking should use discretion which will allow for the most clearance without endangering any other or object, making sure to keep the craft in deep water.
3. When a boat is passed from the right, the boat being passed is required to yield the right-of-way and should alter its course and reduce speed to come under the stern of the passing boat.
4. Boats leaving ships, wharves, and piers have no rights until they have cleared the area entirely. The rules call for proceeding slowly with maximum caution.
5. Fishing boats, whether anchored or underway with nets, lines or trawls, always have the right-of-way. Always slow down and keep a good distance when passing fishing boats. Try to put yourself in the place of the fisherman who is depending on quiet and no water disturbance for a successful day.

Mrs. Janet Reddick and Malcolm Reddick have returned from three week's visit with friends in Picton and Toronto.

IMMERSION MAY BE KEY TO SPACE TRAVEL

Toronto. — If man ever does travel to the stars he may do so in a tank of liquid, just as he travelled about with his mother before he was born.

In a report received by the Health League of Canada, an experiment at the University of Cincinnati showed immersion offers highly effective protection against sudden acceleration in velocity, such as that needed to send a manned projectile into space.

The experiment, using mice, was conducted by Dr. B. Black-Schaffer and Dr. G. T. Hensley. They said nature has provided the design for an ideal space capsule.

To simulate the conditions baby mice were put in a state of suspended animation. This was achieved by cooling the bodies until there was a cessation of respiration, heart beat and metabolism. The mice were then immersed in transparent bags containing a briny solution and put in a centrifuge that spun them at various velocities.

The scientists found the mice so treated survived stress from acceleration that would have been fatal had they been in their normal state.

Notes From The Police Blotter

Hit and Run

While 12 year old Therese Legault and her mother were returning from a call to neighbors, along the Plank Road on Saturday evening about 8.55, a car from the south hit the girl and scraped the mother's left arm. Both were taken to Huntingdon County Hospital for treatment and the girl was later taken to Barrie Memorial Hospital, Ormstown for further attention. The Provincial Police investigated the accident, but no clue of the car which caused it has been discovered.

At 3.30 a.m. on Sunday, August 28th, the Provincial Police were called to the farm of Leo Daoust, Ste. Barbe. The family were entertaining some friends when the lady of the house went to the window to pull down a blind and saw a naked man approaching the house. The man, Andre Chartier, 20 years, of Rosemount, asked for admission, but was refused. He began to cry and the Daousts took pity on him, gave him a blanket and let him in. The police were called and it appears the man rode out here from Montreal with four other men and he fell asleep. When he awoke it was to find himself in the field with his clothes stripped off him all but his socks and his wallet with $20 stolen. He was taken to Valleyfield for protection and his parents were notified.

For Your Information

by the

Health League of Canada

The advent of the power mower has brought a decline in the number of aching backs and arms brought on while cutting the lawn However, it has caused a corresponding increase in home accidents. Here are a few rules from the Health League of Canada that may save you and your family from being injured or maimed by a power mower. Before cutting the grass rake the lawn thoroughly to remove stones, sticks, wire and other debris. If your lawn is rough, set the blades of the mower high to prevent them from hurling clods of earth about like shrapnel. Keep feet and hands away from blades while starting the motor. Keep bystanders and pets from the mowing area. Operate the mower slowly enough to maintain control and never go away and leave the machine running. Don't cut up and down hills, always cut sideways. Know how to stop the engine quickly and never attempt to remove an object from the mower until the blades have come to a standstill. Store mower fuel in an approved container in a safe place and never refuel the engine while it is hot. Don't use an electric mower when the grass is wet.

Incidentally, tea has many advantages as a component of medical diets. It has neither caloric value nor sodium content. And according to a paper presented at a recent symposium in New York, the old beliefs that tea is contraindicated in gout, hypertension or gastic disorders have no foundation in fact. One other advantage is a cup of tea has the exact amount of fluorine recommended for the prevention of dental caries—one part per million.

Space Activity

In a period of about three months recently, seven artificial satellites have been successfully launched into outer space, six by American teams and one by Soviet Russia.

On April 7th Sputnik III, weighing 3½ tons, reentered the earth's atmosphere and forthwith dissolved in smoke and flame. Having been launched on May 15th, 1958, this sputnik exceeded its predicted life by almost a year.

On March 11th, 1960, Pioneer V was launched from Cape Canaveral, Florida, and headed towards the orbit of Venus. This artificial planet will enter regions closer to the sun than ever before reached and it is equipped with transmission equipment which will yield results at distances greater than any so far achieved. As signals from Pioneer V are being picked up at distances from 20 to 30 million miles, effective communication between space ships travelling to the other planets has been proved practical. On August 8th, 1960, Pioneer V is due to cross the orbit of Venus, 50 million miles away. The only radio telescope receiver in the world capable of tracking Pioneer V in the orbit of Venus is at Jodrell Bank, England.

"Transit 1", a navigation satellite launched by the U.S. Navy, is one of several satellites meant to replace stars for navigation purposes. "Transit 1" is designed to last for five years but its effective period of flight will be limited to two years.

The Soviet Spaceship Korabl, launched in May, weighs 4½ tons, of which 2½ tons is absorbed by a pressurized cabin containing the food and equipment necessary for an astronaut, plus a dummy man of normal size and weight. This satellite is now circulating the earth every 91 minutes.

On June 21st the U.S.A. launched a double satellite — a two-stage Thor style rocket which communicates automatically by radio revealing important new information about space conditions.

Chateauguay Trounces Valleyfield 37-0 Win Second Straight At Home

A well-balanced offence and defence spelled victory for Chateauguay Ramblers over Valleyfield Jets, Sunday, in an Eastern Intermediate Football Conference fixture held before close to 1,000 fans at the Chateauguay home park behind the Bon Prince.

Led by two touchdowns by newcomer Danny Prudhomme, the Ramblers scored in every quarter, keeping the Jets well contained in their own end. Other Chateauguay scorers were Ron Whally, Bill Sunstrum, Tom Warren and Jack Herrity.

THE SCORING

At the five minute mark, Bill Sunstrum pounced on the loose ball after Bruce MacDonald had blocked a Valleyfield kick on the 5. Bill Betts converted and the score was 7-0 for Chateauguay.

On the second play of the 2nd quarter, Jack Herrity scored on an end run from 15 yards out. Ross Williamson threw a key block to spring Herrity loose. The convert was no good and the score was 13-0.

Midway throught the second quarter, Bruce MacDonald kicked from the Valleyfield 35. The ball was fumbled by Yvan Leduc and Danny Prudhomme picked up the ball on the 5 and ran it over to make the score 19-0. The convert missed.

Early in the third quarter, Ron Whally scored on an off-tackle smash from five yards out to bring the score to 25-0. The convert was nullified by a holding penalty.

Soon after, Jack Herrity intercepted a Ken Winters pass on the center field stripe and ran it back to the Valleyfield 25. Two plays later, Tom Warren took a pass from Bob Moore in the end-zone for the major. Again the convert was nullified by a holding penalty and the score was 31-0.

The Ramblers closed out the scoring when Tom Dempster blocked a Valleyfield kick and Prudhomme recovered in the end zone for his second T. D. of the game. The convert was blocked and the score finished at 37-0.

Passing Glances

The Chateauguay Majorettes put on a fine show at half time, to some Scottish pipe music.

Valleyfield's closest chance to score came in the last minute of play, when they had the ball inside the Chateauguay 10 yard line. On first down, Winters threw a good pass over centre to Russell Hawarth but it was dropped. An end run failed and on third down, on a field goal attempt, the snap was wild and Winter's deparation pass went nowhere.

Bad snaps on kicks cost Valleyfield two T. D.'s against them and their attempted field goal.

The Chateauguay forward wall showed up particularly well, with Danny Prudhomme, Tom Dempster, Mel Jacobs and Bill Sunstrum standing out.

Jack Herrity, Claude Voyer, John Dempster and Bob Moore were outstanding in the backfield.

The Canadian Legion, Branch 108, lead by Robert McGlashan, put on an impressive display at the opening ceremonies.

Valleyfield quarterback, Ken Winters called a good game, passed well, but his receivers were inept. Their blocking was also very poor.

Next week's game in Granby against the league leaders should be a good one. If the Ramblers can eliminate the penalties which cost them nearly 150 yards again this week as well as one touchdown, which was called back, they might just pull an upset.

Chateauguay pass defenders picked off four of Ken Winter's passes but on numerous occasions his receivers were well in the open but just could not hold onto the ball.

THE TEAMS

Chateauguay Ramblers:

Warren, Prevost, Hickey, Moore, Herrity, Butler, Betts, Whally, MacDonald, J. Dempster, Hamilton, Gardiner, Mersel, Orm, Roy, Bisson, Sharman, Rock, T. Dempster, Williamson, Jacobs, Sunstrum, Chesser, Lee, Voyer, Prudhomme.

Bantam Softball Final Tonight

Special Late News

The scheduled second game of the best of three final for the championship of the Bantam Softball league, between Parkview and Chateauguay Heights, was out Monday night.

The next game will be played to-night, Wednesday, Aug. 31, at the Chateauguay Heights ball field. Parkview took the first game of the final last week and could wind it up with a win to-night.

Parkview Bantams Win First of Finals

Parkview Bantams, with their first in the Softball League, have proved to be of championship quality. This year they have advanced into the final playoff series against Chateauguay Heights. Their first game of the finals was played on Parkview Home grounds this past Sunday, August 28.

With the hard hitting Benny Lombardi with one home run, Keith MacDonald with two doubles, and their strong pitcher, Richard Hipkiss, who not only kept the Heights from scoring but also earned himself a 3 for 4 hitting average.

The Bantams defeated the Heights to the tune of 18 to 7. This gives the Cubs a one game lead in a best two out of three final series. They will be looking for their second win this coming Monday when they meet the Heights. A third game, if necessary, will be held on Wednesday, August 31st at Parkview grounds, so I suggest that Parkview fans turn up for this all important game. A full run down of individual players of the winning team will follow in our next issue.

A side note: Parkview Bantams held their team banquet at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Haynes to honour Richard Hipkiss by presenting him with the trophy for the most valuable player of their team.

The Police Blotter

Miss Ghisele Bouchard was taken ill on Saturday, August 27th. She was taken to the Children's Memorial Hospital in Montreal by Chief-of-Police Rousseau in the patrol car and it was found on arrival that her temperature was 105. This correspondent often wonders if our town folk are aware of the many calls to the police here. We always think of the police in time of crime, but our men seem to fill in as "Angel's of Mercy" and we commend them for their efficiency and kindness.

Mrs. G. Bouchard, 67 years old of 843 Champagneur Ave., Outremont, was visiting at the home of Mrs. Bayles, 73 Theberge St., Colonia on Saturday, August 27th when she took a heart attack. Chief of Police Rousseau answered the call and took the woman to Montreal in the patrol car.

Answering an urgent call on Friday, August 26th with the town respirator, Chief of Police Rousseau found that the person requiring artificial respiration had succumbed. Mme Madore of 18 Haut Riviere was the victim and our sympathy is extended to her family.

Our ever busy "Stork Line" was the cause of excitement in the John Stewart home at 69 Lemoyne St., Colonia, on Wednesday, August 24th, a premature birth seemed imminent and Chief of Police Rousseau was summoned. He escorted Mrs. Stewart to the Catherine Booth Hospital, Montreal, in the patrol car.

Four youths, one from Caughnawaga, were injured in a car accident on Saturday, which occurred on Dupont St. at the corner of Caughnawaga Road, near St. Andrew's Church. The injured were treated by Dr. Jean Lafleur and one who required hospitalization was transported in the Reid Ambulance to the Lachine Hospital. Chief of Police Rousseau took charge upon arrival and the injured boys have been listed as Marie Vincelli, 22 years old, 8750 Jean Marie St., Montreal, Robert Sotelli, 19 years old, Montreal, Fred Tuzie, 17 years old, 8971 Lansdowne Ave., Montreal and Roy Jacobs, 17 years old of Caughnawaga, who was the boy taken to the hospital.

Constable Dubuc answered a call on Wednesday, August 24th, to 98 LeMoyne St., Colonia. He found that 3½ year old Mickey DeLaporte had fallen with a stick in his mouth. Dr. Sauve, who had been summoned, ordered the child to be taken to the St. Joseph's Hospital in Lachine, where he was taken in the patrol car by Constable Dubuc.

On August 27th at 3.30 a.m., Dr. Jean Lafleur requested the police to bring the town respirator to one of his patients, Mr. Roger Desgrosseilliers. Chief of Police Rousseau answered the call and transported the man to the General Hospital.

"Park" Residents Meet Celebrities

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Guthrie and children have returned home after spending two wonderful weeks vacation at Wildwood, New Jersey. Mrs. Guthrie especially remarked on the beautiful silver beach and how blue the water was. Swimming was just perfect. In the adjacent motel were T. V. celebrities Edie Gorme and Steve Lawrence. Steve Lawrence threw a Birthday Party for Edie and Pink Champagne and Birthday Cake was served. Lorne and Linda Guthrie had their pictures taken with Fabien and Frankie Avalon. A lot of our teenagers would like to have been in their place.

The Teenage Drinking Problem In Chateauguay

The following poem was received in the Chateauguay Gleaner office, following an article which appeared in our August 3rd edition, concerning Chateauguay children in their early teens drinking too freely of intoxicating beverages. The hope was expressed that it will serve as a warning to the young people of Chateauguay.

"Glass number one, only in fun,
Glass number two, other boys do,
Glass number three, it won't hurt me
Glass number four, only one more,
Glass number five, before a drive,
Glass number six, my brain's in a mix,
Glass number seven, stars up in heaven,
Glass number eight, stars in the pate,
Glass number nine, give me whiskey, not wine
Glass number ten, drinking again,
Drinking with boys, drowning their joys,
Drinking with men, just now and then,
Wasting his life, killing his wife,
In a few years, brought many tears,
Made him at last a friendless outcast—
Light hearted boy, somebody's joy,
Do not begin early in sin,
But grow up a man, brave as you can,
And taste not in fun, glass number one."

The Chateauguay Ramblers, under what appears to be a very able coaching staff, which is a prime requisite in any sport, should do well in this, their first year of operation. From all reports, they handle themselves well in all situations, except that of scoring. This week's game against Valleyfield should be the game where they break out in a rash of scoring. The support has been tremendous and that deserves a winning brand of football.

Members of the Aquatic Club will be watching with interest the performance of Canada's rowing and paddling entries in this year's Olympics being held this week at Rome. They have undoubtedly competed against some of our country's entrants.

Last week, the Gleaner reported that 56 dog tags had been issued since May. There must be many more dogs in the district than this. Failing to purchase your dog a licence is a sure way to break a child's heart, as most lost dogs with tags are usually returned easily, whereas those without are hard to trace.

What with September and school opening nearly here, mothers can look forward to having the little dears off their hands and can devote most of their time to preparing for Christmas. The first few weeks of school must be hectic for the mothers, especially if she has children just starting, who decide they don't want to go, and would rather stay home with Mommy.

The Misses Sharron and Sheila Bell, 84 Violet St., both age 5, and Miss Jeanette Hearst, 87 Bell St., age 6, all of Chateauguay Terrace, celebrated their birthdays August 24, at a joint party at the Bell residence.

Colonia Giants won, but lost, last week when they defeated Parkview Cubs 7-5, but lost the total point series, 19-11.

Chateauguay Terrace, a proposed 800-home project, is moving right along. Over two blocks of homes are completed and landscaped. The residents are busy beautifying their properties. A feature in this project which is seen in few others, is the sight of trees in each back yard.

The Chateauguay Ramblers finally proved themselves to be a two way ball club. In their previous two games it seemed that their defensive squad ran the whole show by scoring the Ramblers only two points, but Sunday the offence lived up to expectations and rambled over the Valleyfield Jets for 3 of the 6 touchdowns scored by the Ramblers to defeat Valleyfield Jets 37 to O.

Credit is due to the Jets, who bounced back from two defeats to play a hard hitting and high spirited club right through. They may not have had as many scoring opportunities as their opponents, but they are one of the most eager to learn and fired up teams in our league. They have shown to be true sportsmen by taking each defeat with a smile and bounce back a fired up ball club the next week.

The Ramblers know that they have to be up for this coming game and will be practising throughout this week to polish off their rough edges.

The very pretty Rambler Majorettes must be commended for their wonderful half time display and cheering routines throughout the whole football game. Their precision and timing must have come from hours of practising, they have proven themselves to be an inseparable part of the Chateauguay Football organization. All praise to you girls for a job well done. If fans are interested in attending the Granby game on Sunday, September 4th, chartered buses are leaving the football field at 10.30 that morning.

THAT SCHOOL LUNCH

Now that all the long holidays are over and reluctant feet must drag themselves to school, the lunch carried to school should be a fullsized balanced meal, not a snack. As the weather grows cooler, a vacuum bottle of hot soup will be welcome; sandwiches of whole grain bread and some protein filling, such as meat, eggs or fish, should be included, with raw fruit or vegetable. A sweet cookie and milk to drink will round out a sustaining meal.

FIRST AID KIT

A first aid kit is an essential for home, office and car. It should be kept well stocked with equipment that can take care of emergencies or accidents until a doctor arrives. With the kit should be a first aid manual. A course in first aid will help decisions as to the correct procedure in cases of injury.

AND THE SUGAR TONGS?

I always understood that a snob is any person who, when dining alone at home, persists in using the butter-knife.

"Sox Hops" Prove Popular With Young Set

A new form of entertainment is being enjoyed by the young people of Chateauguay these days. It's a new form of one of the oldest forms of entertainment in the world and goes under the title of "Sox Hop". The name explains itself in that those participating wear only socks on their feet, thus saving wear and tear on floors where these events are held. Probably this is a leading factor as to why these dances are so popular with all concerned, parents, hall owners, and the teen-agers themselves.

Each week, a number of "Sox Hops" are mentioned in our columns, as being held in private homes, clubs, church and school halls. With school beginning next week, these dances will be fewer in number, but those which will be held on week-ends will probably be even more lively than any of those held this summer.

Teenagers Enjoying Themselves At "Sox Hop"

Parkview Cubs Enter Finals

The second game of the two-game total point semi-final series in the Chateauguay Bantam Softball league took place last Wednesday night at the Parkview diamond. Colonia Giants squeezed out a 7-5 victory over the Parkview Cubs, but lost the series 19-11 because of the 14-4 win the Cubs had posted the night before.

Winning pitcher for the Giants, Wednesday night was Jean Paul Rossi, while a home-run was contributed by Ralph Hartel.

The Cubs now go on to meet the winners of the series between Prudential and Chateauguay Heights. Parkview Cubs are coached by Harold Hawley while the Colonia Giants, now eliminated, were coached by Johnny Riendeau, Johnny Howarth and Ross Chamberlain.

Historical Notes Gleaned From "Sellar's" History

There was a vacant farm at that time on the river, but it was beyond my means, and I told them that I would have to start at the beginning and clear a farm for myself. Williamson, who was a great hunter, knew every inch of the country, and he advised me to take up a certain lot on the fourth concession, which was then being surveyed. I worked all that season among the settlers on the river, learning a great deal, for I knew nothing whatever about farming. One day in the fall Robert Brodie started with me to find the lot recommended by Williamson. There was a lumber-road, formed by Macaulay's men, that winded out and in across the country at the St. Louis, and as the season was dry we had no great difficulty in going over it. When we reached the St. Louis we found the surveyor's pickets of the lines, but the lots had not yet been bounded. Williamson told me to take the third lot, and Brodie, starting at the river, stepped the 10 acres which should have brought us to it, but did not, for we knew nothing about the gore-lot being so wide, so were 4 acres astray. Well, Bordie picked out a knoll as a site for my shanty, and after looking at the timber, we returned home, and I went to Beauharnois and took out my location-ticket, paying $10. for it, and agreeing to pay 10 cents rent per acre a-year. After the New Year some time, my friends made a bee and drove out to my lot. Driving their horses and oxen round and round they tramped a place in the snow where it was intended to build, and going to work, the trees were soon falling, being shaped into logs, and placed one upon another, so that before it got dark my shanty was complete. No sawed lumber was used, the floor and roof being split bass-wood logs. They left me in possession of it, and I was emphatically alone, for there was not a living soul nearer me than 5 miles. At the time there was not a clearing west of the corner of the Baker concession on the St. Louis road; in fact, the land had not been surveyed. It was solid woods and swamp in every direction. Where St. Louis village now is, there was a hunter's cabane, a little east of the site of the Catholic church, where a son of Bourbonneau, a tavern-keeper in Beauharnois, lived when he was out on the chase, and not another sign of life. I wrote to my wife to join me, and went to work, chopping day after day, alone, in order have a decent home ready for her and the children, never resting until Saturday afternoon, when I dropped work and went to Brodie's, to stay until Monday, when I took back with me provisions for another week. One day my axe glanced, and cut my right foot. I bound up the wound as well as I could and lay in my shanty unable to move and suffering intensely. Saturday and Sunday passed and I knew Brodie's folks would be getting anxious. I made shift to crawl, rather than walk, over to their place, and found that they were about to start for my shanty, fearing that something had befallen me. The wound soon healed, though it still affects my walking, and I was once more at work. When the snow melted, I found the knoll on which my shanty stood was an island, and that my lot was knee-deep in water. I had not foreseen that it was so wet a lot, and soon became convinced I could do nothing with it, for there was no outlet and the water would have to lie until dried by the July sun. I hurried to Beauharnois, and asked Brown to change the lot. He said he did not expect me to live on land that was under water, and gave me a ticket for lot 33, which was the one I asked for, because it had a ridge on it. I set to work on it with a will to make up for lost time. Having no help, I could not log, so I just brushed the trees as I felled them, and, dibbling round the fallen trunks, planted potatoes and some corn. The track to the river being very bad at that time, I did not go to Brodie's for Sunday, so that for 11 days I did not see a human being. One windy day I was chopping a large rock-elm, and from the wind blowing on the top was uncertain which way it would fall. I was watching it intently, ready to move out of the way when it would begin to topple over, when a voice behind me said in French, "It is not going." I jumped in astonishment, and saw a French Canadian. For years after, when he would meet me, he would laugh as he recollected my surprise. The constant clutching of the axe affected the sinews of my hands, which were unused to such a strain, and the fingers remained bent for the rest of my life. Of the desolation of the country south of me I had soon experience. I thought it would be a great advantage to have a direct road to the Chateaugay from my lot, and I determined to see if I could not get one. I started one warm afternoon, scrambling over logs and sometimes going on my knees under them, and every now and then climbing up a trunk to find out where I was going. I always found I was surrounded by the trunks of blackened trees, and the ground covered by fallen ones, water, and cat-tails. So desolate was the scene and hopeless-looking the prospects of finding a way out, that the very dog that was with me sat down at the foot of a tree and yowled. Night came on as I got a sight of a clump of green spruces, which stood where the Ormstown concession now is, and as I pressed on towards them it grew quite dark. I came to a creek, and to find the direction of its current, put my hand in its water. Just when I felt that I could struggle no longer, and might as well prepare to pass the night where I was, I heard a noise. My first thought was — a bear. I shouted, and, to my astonishment, got an answer. It was people on their way to their homes in the Ormstown concession, and I speedily joined them, and found the way to the Chateaugay. There were wild beasts in the forest, but they never gave me any annoyance. I only met a bear once. I was on my way to Brodie's one Sunday morning, when I suddenly heard the trampling of feet on the dry litter, and shortly saw two bears approaching me. The advice Sandy Williamson gave me for such a contingency, flashed upon me, and I bent my head until I could look between my legs and began dancing and capering. The brutes looked at me for a moment or two, and then, affrighted by the strange spectacle, turned and fled. Another time, John McConachie was helping me to chop, and on his having to go over a pile of logs, stepped up them, and was astounded, on raising his head over the top log, to find himself looking in the face of a bear, which was scrambling up the other side. With a yell, he jumped down, and came running to me, but the bear did not follow. I got up a shanty on my lot, but before I had it ready, my mistress and the family arrived, and they had to stay in the old one for a while. I got two neighbors about the same time, William Patton, who had been a farmer in Scotland, and James Stewart: they sat down on either side of me. I had been saving my ashes all along, keeping them covered with elm-bark, and was most anxious to get a kettle and begin making potash. I had not a dollar and my neighbors were little better off. Stewart had enough to pay a French Canadian for sawing trees and making leaches and that was all, so I went to see if I could not get a kettle on credit. On entering Douglas & Wilkinson's store, I found Sandy Graham and Mr. Brodie sitting there, and they burst out laughing at me, for I had no boots and my trousers were rolled up above my knees, for I had to wade a great part of the way, and was dirty, ragged and wet. I told Douglas my errand and said, as an old cleck of Richardson, Forsythe & Co.'s I thought he might be able to oblige me. Brodie cried out he would be my surety for the payment, and Douglas agreed to get me a Three Rivers' kettle, which were the best, for they are thickest at the bottom. It arrived the week after, when I bargained with McConachie, who had a yoke of small oxen, to drag it into my lot for $4. He started in the morning and it was growing dark when the oxen stuck within sight of my lot, being fairly beat.

Former Heights Resident now Manager of R.C.A.F. Riding School.

Warrant Officer Charles Hamilton now of Smithfield, Ont. formerly of the Heights, has been appointed as manager of the newly introduced RCAF Riding School in the Trenton area. The School is experiencing problems usual to any new set-up. A shed has been converted into a stable, stalls have been built and feed obtained. A Shetland pony named "Topsie" is available for pre-schoolers and many beautiful animals for the others. English Style, that is to sit on a horse with the knees well up, is being taught, so as to give riders complete control with the knees as well as the hands. A horse may be jumped only if it is being controlled in this way, (So we are told). Bill Hamilton, son of Charles and well known to the teenagers in the Heights is one of the grooms. Some of the young riders, girls and boys are encouraged to help groom the horses. The Riding Instructions are given by a "Lady", one Mrs. Craig, and riding breakfasts and evening rides with corn roasts are being planned. Of interest is the fact that the horses have Mondays off for a well earned rest. Mr. Hamilton was well known in Chateauguay as a horse lover and our congratulations are extended to him.

With school just a week away children are having their last fling at freedom. The weather has just been perfect and if it continues, the month of August has far eclipsed July for nice holiday weather. No doubt this will be a rather hectic week for mothers of school age children, not only seeing if last year's clothes fit, but also purchasing new shoes, pencils, scribblers, etc. to start off a new school term.

Don't forget any child entering school for the first time must be vaccinated—the clinic is on September 6th, at the Municipal Hall, from 2.30 to 3.30.

The West End Home Owners Association held an executive meeting on August 24th and a general meeting on August 25th, both at 162 St. Louis Street. At the general meeting, in the absence of Mr. W. Roy, Mr. A. Cheesman, Vice-President presided. Mr. M. Chiasson has been named director of the Membership Committee and a membership drive will get underway shortly. Plans for various functions during the present executive's term of office were presented to the Asociation. Each month one social function is to take place, these to be handled by the various committees. The Ladies Committee, Sports Committee and Social Committee will in future be responsible for raising money for their various projects. Mr. Ian Walker introduced Mr. Parker of an insurance brokerage firm, who gave an enlightening talk on benefits of home insurance to home owners, also the advantages of going to a brokerage office for insurance. The meeting was adjourned at 10.30.

Another reminder about the Provincial Tax Rebate. Get busy taking those pictures so there'll be no delay in sending in your application forms. Heard that the deadline was September 15th. If you haven't received your forms, either telephone or write your trust company of C.M.H.C., if you come under that category.

Was wondering if any ladies would be interested in forming a league for afternoon bowling? If so, please contact your correspondent at OXford 2-6190.

There was some excitement in several households this week when several youngsters were involved in different accidents Bobby Houston fell off a truck and there was a frantic rush to bring him to the doctor as his face was badly smashed and he had a fractured nose. Added to this he was unconscious and remained so for several hours. At last report he is coming along nicely, though still under the doctor's care. While at play, Jimmy Smeall fell over a low cord and struck his forehead on a sharp stone. As the cut was rather deep he was rushed to the doctor where several stitches were required to close the wound. 'Fraid he got over his accident quicker than his mother did. Seems you never hear of two accidents without a third coming along. Danny Moore of St. Louis Street took quit a bad spill off his bike the other day and in consequence his mouth is badly swollen. As the saying goes "Boys will be boys".

Softball News

On Tuesday West End played Chateauguay Heights at West End and the score was 6-17 for Chateauguay Heights. Saturday afternoon our boys played at Chateauguay Heights, the score being 11-14, with Chateauguay Heights being the victor. However all players played exceptionally well and our coaches are to be commended on all the time and effort they have put into forming a West End ball team.

Trouble Spots Still Active

THIS year of 1960 is fast approaching its end and most people will not mind its passing too much. However, there is still time for much more to happen and the way things are going, anything could happen.

Ever since its beginning it has been filled with apprehension. In the early part there was the matter of the Summit Conference and before that was to take place many disappointments in one way and another had to be faced. The crowning disappointment was the collapse of the conference without it ever having had a chance to discuss matters of importance. From this time on there has been a series of disappointments which have gradually developed into apprenhensive incidents which still hold the world at a nervous tension.

The apprehension forms from the possibility of armed conflict breaking out in one or more of the many trouble spots which could be the beginning of a third world war. While the trouble spots are internal in nature, they are such that outside countries may be required to step in to protect their interests. We have the Cuban situation, which under conditions prevailing many years ago, would have had the United States sending troops long before now. However, in view of threats and possibities, United States officials prefer to suffer indignities and damage rather than provoke a third world war. A third world war could be the most terrible ever experienced, with all the latest weapons that are now at disposal. In Cuba, United States citizens and firms have suffered treatment that would not have been tolerated before. Even the mild threat of sanctions by the United States against Cuba, has brought threats from Russia that if she attempts such, Russia will retaliate with rockets on American held bases in other countries. We all know what this would mean —war could no longer be avoided. While the Congo incidents are of a different nature, they involve members of the Western Allies and here again Russia has threatened retaliation if any Allied nation attempts to settle the dispute. It is under the United Nations jurisdiction at this time, but the situation is most difficult. The force which the United Nations sent to restore order, is meeting with opposition and in a sense it is not prepared for such.

We have just four months to go in 1960. Can we pass through these four months without a sudden outburst on the part of some of the actors in this drama which could lead to more serious trouble? That is the $64 question as incident piles upon incident. Canada has become more involved as she has sent personnel into the Congo to serve with the United Nations Forces and some of this personnel has been attacked by the Congolese. This has brought protests from Prime Minister Diefenbaker. This Congo situation is one that will test the United Nations authority before it is over. It is apparent that while the Congolese agree to submit to such authority, there are within their fold those who do not want to do so. Thus resistance is being offered to these forces in their efforts to bring about peaceful settlement of the dispute.

While the United Nations Forces have accomplished much in having the Belgian Forces withdrawn, they have not won over the Congolese to allowing them to set up in their territory. In fact the Congolese, it seems only wanted the United Nations to remove the Belgian authority from their territory, and now would wish the United Nations force to move out also. Such was not the original agreement. The United Nations was to assist the Congolese to get an orderly government underway and to see that those in authority had the means for governing the country properly. There still remains much to be worked out before all danger has passed.

Family Need

IN this age of international tension when man's scientific genius is capable of destroying civilization with a few bombs, there is a danger that the human race may lose sight of some of its basic values. One of these is the sanctity of the family.

In Canada the role of the family has been changing constantly through the 20th century.

Since the Second World War family life has again been changed through the impact of industrial expansion, more material comforts than ever enjoyed previously in Canadian history, wives going out to work, the growth of suburbia, and increased welfare measures. With teen-agers driving their own cars the family in many instances is a unit perhaps one day a week.

Now an appeal has been made for Canadians to adopt a more positive approach to parenthood to meet these changing conditions. The plea is based on conclusions of 15 study groups in a survey of the Canadian Family carried out by the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation. The groups included parents, clergy, teachers, doctors, lawyers, businessmen, and scientists across Canada.

"Years ago we insisted that every child be required to learn to read and write," the study says. "It is clear now that we need to insist that every parent has the chance to study the job of parenthood."

There is need for a planned, organized educational program for family life. Community resources could be mobilized to make this possible through education in schools, adult education, family service counselling, churches and other community groups it declares. There is need for more creative use of leisure and a broader approach to mental health problems.

With greater understanding of human behavior and the basic needs of both parents and children, there is hope that the family will be maintained and enriched as the fundamental core of our society.

Huntingdon Fair Providing Incentive To Farmer Breeders

IT takes a great number of willing workers to stage a local fair, such as that of Huntingdon Agricultural Society Div. "A", to make it a crowning success. Since the erection of the Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena and the creating of a special fund of $600 or more for herd competitions in the Holstein and Ayrshire breeds of cattle, the fair has bounded ahead.

The directorate and others who likewise are willing workers, have so improved the Fair Grounds, that the type of show with such marked variation from only a few years ago, is being endorsed by the attendance at large. The exhibitors are proud to show their stock at Huntingdon Fair, reason being it is a distinct honor to be awarded a prize with stiff local competition. In the horse, pony and cattle classes experienced judges of years standing are now considered desirable. It is not always easy to get such judges, but the organizations who supply the names of judges to be invited to officiate must now go further afield in making their nominations. It is not that local judges have not done well, but there is always the chance their leanings might possibly be swayed toward entries that may have been raised from stock which was originally bred from their herds.

Huntingdon Fair may never reach a stage of perfection, but it has reached the stage where it is being a real benefit to the agriculturist, and that is what a rural fair is for. This year there were seven herds of Holstein cattle and a like number of Ayrshire herds. If one were to check the winners of the herds over the past three years it will be noted that the herds have not remained in the same classification each year, and what is more, new exhibitors participate each year. This means the breeders are improving their herds for the competition and other farmers are prepared to enter the fray for honors they may receive.

Another fine feature about this mass exhibiting is that the cattle men are fast realizing that discontinuing Record of Performance testing is an error on their part. The breeders being so brought together talk R.O.P. problems over and with fieldmen present we believe a solution will be arrived at so that R.O.P. work can be revived in a commendable way. R.O.P. testing definitely enhances the value of cattle being appraised by potential purchasers.

Yes, Huntingdon Agricultural Society directorate, you are not only providing the basis of a good rural country fair but you are founding an incentive to our farmers to enhance the standard and value of their livestock, cattle, horses, shetland ponies, etc.

The Week In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage said he discussed the $15,000,000 being held in trust for Quebec universities by the Canada Council with council members during a meeting at his government office this week.

However, he said in an interview he still does not know what steps should be taken to put the money in university coffers.

". . . I broached the subject of the funds held in trust by the Council briefly but without taking a definite stand on the means to be used to collect them.

"I still don't know what means we should use to recover these funds . . . but we will act in a way to safeguard, at the same time, both the rights and the prerogatives of our province".

The meeting was held behind closed doors and neither the Council nor Mr. Lesage made any announcement after. The Premier commented only the foll lowing day.

The Canada Council tags some of its funds specifically for distribution to universities. Quebec universities have never applied for their share, mainly because the late Premier Maurice Duplessis' government felt the provincial government had sole jurisdiction over education.

The new government of Premier Lesage has already taken steps to get $26,000,000 held in trust for Quebec universities by the Canadian Universities Foundation, but nothing has yet been done to get the Canada Council money.

—o—

Premier Lesage announced at a press conference Friday his government anticipates a deficit of more than $78,000,000 for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

The Premier also told reporters the books for the 1959-60 fiscal year have not been completely balanced but they would probably show a deficit of $303,147.

Revenues were $598,094,009, while expenses totalled $598,397,156.

But last year's deficit, he said, gave no real indication of the sorry state in which the former Union National Government had left the province's finances.

The small deficit did not include expenses of more than $15,000,000, which was tacked onto the budget for 1960-61. Therefore, he said, the true deficit for the 1959-60 fiscal year — which ended March 31 — was $15,303,000.

He said his government has already taken steps to stop the financial leaks caused by the abuses of the former government.

"I have always said that the year which cost Quebec the most would be the one in which the Union National lost an election", he said.

A special Commemorative Service for the late Premier Maurice Duplessis will be held in the Roman Catholic Cathedral at Trois-Rivieres, Sept. 7, it was announced this week.

The service has been arranged by La Société des Amis de Maurice L. Duplessis, Inc., an Association with 2,198 active members organized just months after his death last September. The Association has two aims — to help needy students and perpetuate the memory of the late premier.

In a notice mailed to Society members, Secretary Aurea Clou tier announced that after the ceremony a plaque be unveiled at the late premier's house in Trois-Rivieres, the riding he represented in the Legislature from 1927 until his death.

A wreath will also be placed at his grave in Trois-Rivieres cemetery.

The Quebec Highway Safety Association announced a drive to make Sept. 1 a day free of traffic accidents.

The Association in a letter asked for the co-operation of all motorists and pedestrians to make "Quebec Accident-Free Day" a success.

Livestock Situation At Mid-Year

At the mid-point in 1960 a brief look at the current livestock situation in Canada may be in order. The "problem child" of pork surplus does not seem to be as formidable now as a few months ago. The marked cut-back in hog production combined with the continued high level of domestic consumption of pork in Canada have been the two major factors contributing towards a more realistic balance between supplies and available markets.

First and second quarter hog marketings in Canada ranged from small increases in British Columbia and the Maritimes to a sharp drop of nearly 34% in Saskatchewan. At the half-way point there were 1.7 million hogs marketed in the West, down 20.2%; and sightly over 2 million in the East, down 9%. Average weekly marketings in Canada decreased from 171,000 hogs in January to approximately 150,000 in February, March and April, 135,000 in May, and 117,000 head per week in June.

Estimated domestic disappearance of pork in terms of live hogs during the first six months of this year was up 2% averaging 132,000 hogs per week. In addition, the industry exported the equivalent of 12,000 hogs per week, mainly in the form of pork products, an increase of 6% over last year.

Surplus Pork Greatly Reduced

One of the major problems confronting the industry at the outset of this year was the need for the continuation of an orderly disposal programme of Canada's surplus pork stocks, which were accumulated under the "purchase method" of government hog support. At the conclusion of the purchase programme in January, the pork storage holdings of the Agricultural Stabilization Board included approximately 47 million lb. of the five primal pork cuts and nearly 122 million lb. of canned luncheon meat and canned hams. An encouraging disposal programme, including domestic and off-shore sales, and distribution to domestic and international relief agencies has been conducted during the spring and summer months. As a result, government pork stocks at the end of July have been sharply cut to less than 2 million lb of cuts and about 50.3 million lb. of the canned products. Efforts are being made to arrange for further offshore sales in order to reduce the remaining carry-over to the absolute minimum by September, the end of the present hog marketing year.

The last quarterly government forecast of hog marketings, coupled with the results of the June 1st hog survey which indicated a decrease of 21% in the spring pig crop, would indicate that the anticipated level of marketings during the balance of 1960 will be of manageable proportions.

Since the commencement of the deficiency payment plan for hogs, the Department of Agriculture has maintained a cumulative record of the national weighted average delivered price of grade A hogs in Canada. The difference between this value at the end of 1960 and the prescribed national average support level of $22.65 per cut will be the amount of the deficiency payment which eligible and registered producers will receive on up to 100 grade A and B hogs. During the week ending July 15th, the national price was $26.11 per cwt. The cumulative average price since the commencement of the programme was $21.84 per cwt. at the same date. With the anticipated seasonal decline in hog runs during the third quarter, it would seem probable that the reduced price levels in effect earlier this year, will be further offset and the cumulative average price will continue to increase.

Cattle Output Up

Net marketing of cattle in Canada at the mid-point in 1960 amounted to 1,057,000 head, an increase of 10 per cent over 1959. Western marketings increased 13% while the increase in the East at 6% was not as pronounced. Inspected slaughter at the end of June was recorded at 938,500, an increase of 13.2%, or the equivalent of over 36,000 head per week. Here also the increase in the West was more pronounced than in the East.

An estimated increase of 11% in the domestic disappearance of beef during the first half of this year was a major factor in the stability of beef markets. Domestic disappearance during the January-June period amounted to the equivalent of about 37,000 cattle per week.

Export of cattle and beef to the U.S.A. during the first 26 weeks of this year did not keep pace with Canada's increase in cattle output, however, exports have continued during each week of the year to date. Slaughter cattle exports at close to 20,000 head were down 35%. Feeder cattle exports at 70,000 head were down by 30%. The volume of exports on a weekly basis has been directly influenced by the spread or differential existing between Canadian and American livestock values. This differential widened slightly during the spring, resulting in an increase in cattle movement to the U.S.A.

The assumption that larger numbers of cattle were placed on feed last fall and winter would appear definitely confirmed. This is borne out by the record number of Good and Choice carcasses graded during the first half of this year. The weekly average number of carcasses in these top two grades amounted to 18,321 head, up 20% from the 15,236 head per week in 1959.

As long as cattle output is maintained at the current increased rate including such a high percentage of Good and Choice grade cattle, this industry will continue to be on an "export basis". Cattle values will thus continue to be directly influenced by the price level of the U.S. market. The importation of 1,400 U.S. cattle since the start of the year has been negligible in Canada's overall beef supply.

Lamb Import Still High

Mid-way in 1960, Canadian sheep and lamb slaughter, at nearly 147,000 head, was just slightly down from last year. To meet domestic requirements during this period it has been necessary to import nearly 20,000 head of lambs from the United States. Approximately 14.4 million lb. of lamb meat had been brought in, mainly from Australia and New Zealand. Both dressed and live lamb imports to date have been slightly higher than year earlier levels.

The current price of good lambs at Toronto is $23.00 per cwt., about $3.65 per cwt. above the new support level of $19.35.

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Everyone was talking about unemployment—everyone except members of the cabinet.

The government reported that 311,000 people were out of work in mid-July, a post-war record for the month. Unemployment in Canada had jumped by 11,000 between mid-June and mid-July.

The abnormal increase meant that 4.7 per cent of the labor force of 6,592,000 were out of work.

The unemployment figures were supposed to be heading towards the annual September low—not rising—and the unemployed weren't the only ones worried.

The figures, said Canadian Labor Congress president Claude Jodoin, are "evidence of a shocking situation which calls for immediate and urgent government action.

Members of the cabinet said nothing. Prime Minister Diefenbaker said only that he had no comment.

The Bureau of Statistics said the increase in the jobless resulted from layoffs and temporary shutdowns in Ontario and Quebec manufacturing centres, as well as the "release" of a number of construction workers in Quebec.

Labor Survey

The figures are prepared by DBS, based on a labor force survey of 35,000 households, and the statisticians who do the measuring say they come pretty close to the mark. The 675 DBS enumerators ring 35,000 doorbells every month collecting the figures.

But this method may change. The government is studying a still-secret report by an inter-departmental committee on ways of getting a more precise measure and definition of unemployment.

Still another statistical attack on the problem was announced during the week. The government will send out questionnaires to 30,000 unemployed, seeking an answer to a vital question:

Just who are Canada's jobless people?

The unemployed, job applicants in more than 200 National Employment Service Offices across the country, will be asked—without having to reveal their names—about their families, their work and their abilities.

The survey, sponsored by a special Senate committee, will try to find out, among other things, what age groups contain the most unemployed, what their education is, their marital status, and if young people are getting enough training to prepare them for working competition.

New Party

Canada's new left-of-centre political reform party, blessed in advance by the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress, will be born in Ottawa next year.

The timing will probably be between July 31 and August 4—dates of the founding convention.

Party spokesmen said if the federal government should call a snap election before then, CCF and labor will organize a crash election campaign.

Congo Apology

Congo Premier apologized to Canada for an attack on Canadian signallers at Leopoldville's main airport.

He made the apology in a statement issued in the Congo Republic's capital, but has yet to make a formal reply to a strongly-worded protest by Prime Minister Diefenbaker after Canadians with the United Nations force were assaulted by Congolese troops.

Conciliation Report

A Conciliation board recommended that 118,000 non-operating railway workers get three hourly pay increases over a two-year period totalling about 14 cents an hour.

The CPR, CNR and four smaller carriers, hit by truck and air competition, are expected to turn down the recommendation which would cost them an estimated $35,000,000. The 15 unions representing the workers are likely to accept, though the recommendation is not binding on either party.

Fall Session

Ottawa sources indicate a fall session of parliament is almost certain and are tipping Oct. 13 as the likely date. Prime Minister Diefenbaker apparently has set aside any thought of a personal summer vacation.

Salary Increases

The Civil Service Commission announced salary increases for 45,000 federal government employees. Raises range from around $200 to $2,500 a year in the top grades, and affect administrative and technical employees, customs and immigration officers and some postal workers.

Budgetary Surplus

Finance Minister Fleming's tax revenues have produced a $207,700,000 budgetary surplus for the first four months of the current fiscal year. Revenues were 11.1 per cent higher than in the corresponding period last year.

Better Salesmanship

A trade department spokesman credited better salesmanship for a healthy jump in Canadian exports to Britain. Canadian sales in the United Kingdom market rose by 26 per cent in the first seven months of 1960 to $525,000,000.

Life Imprisonment

The cabinet ordered the parole board "never" to let convicted murderer Ronald McCorquodale, 25, of Calgary, out of detention for the rest of his life.

The decision was made after a psychiatrist ruled that he is insane with no hope of recovery. He was convicted and sentenced to hang in the slaying of a 10-year-old girl in a Calgary church basement, but the cabinet commuted the death penalty to life imprisonment.

The girl's mother criticized the government for not being more severe on McCorquodale.

Letter To The Editor

The Editor,
Huntingdon Gleaner,
Huntingdon,
Quebec.

Dear Sir,

I do not write this letter from within the framework of either of our Provincial Political Parties but as a private citizen who is quickly becoming disillusioned by recent political developments in our Country and as one who is concerned with those basic principles of life that we ignore at our own peril.

During the recent provincial campaign many of us were heartened by the hope that a better day might dawn at long last in provincial affairs. In stirring words the liberals proclaimed that if they were elected to office the dark days of political intrigue, corruption and evil would be over. Indeed, this was one of the strongest planks in the platform upon which they compaigned throughout the province and within our own county. And after their election to office the pledge was renewed over and over again in television and radio interviews alas, when you look at the scene in our own county you observe that while the actors may have changed, the drama on the political stage continues, and the plot - I almost said plotting - remains the same. It would appear that there is more truth than humour in the words of Studdert Kennedy: "At each election we take one lot of sinners out and put another lot of sinners in."

Two examples are sufficient to prove our point. In the recent election campaign much was made by the members of the liberal party of the high handed and undemocratic methods of their political opponents. And what has happened since the election? In our little Town, which already has more liquor and beer outlets than it requires, we are suddenly informed that three additional licences have been granted. And what was the method used? The simple announcement through the weekly press of an accomplished fact. At least under the old regime - as corrupt as it was alleged to be - the private citizen was given a hint or a clue of an intended action. He was given the opportunity to oppose what he believed to be wrong - and yes, there were even times, as I know from personal experience, when those in authority would completely withdraw a proposed action that was shown to be detrimental to community life. Let's face it: if the selfish and irresponsible methods that are currently being used in our area are allowed to continue we shall soon be faced with a political situation far more critical than that which confronted us last June.

Or take the matter of political patronage. Both before and after the election we were assured that this political evil would be a thing of the past. Indeed, we were assured that if a man fulfilled his responsibilities in a given office with competency and integrity his services would be retained regardless of his political affiliation. But a brief look at recent political developments in our county reveals that the same old drama is being acted out once again on our political stage. The office is taken from the man who has served with efficiency and ability and given to another whose only necessary qualification is that he cast his vote correctly. And what is even worse: it is taken from one for whom it is a legitimate and necessary source of income and given to another for whom it can be no more than a financial hobby. Justify such action as you will, call it what you choose, it is still the old name that fits the best: Political Patronage.

There is only one foundation upon which an effective and meaningful political community life can be built. And that foundation is composed of such eternal and time tested materials as: honesty, truthfulness, integrity, justice and mercy. This truth was seen by many of our local politicians during the campaign that preceded the election and was vindicated by the election itself. It is to be hoped that those who presently hold the reins of political power in our midst will once again recognize the truth and cease betraying the words they spoke such a short time ago by their deeds as they are doing at the present time.

Yours truly,

Robert S. Beal

CHEQUE-MATE?

Payment by cheque for industrial workers in order to foil the wage-bag snatchers? Maybe. But the "New York Times Magazine" reports a snag:

In Cincinnati, one union has demanded and extra hour's pay on pay-day to compensate for the time taken to cash a pay-cheque.

A Camping Holiday

By Sidney Smith

For several months ahead our holiday had to be planned in order that members of the family would have their holiday periods together. It had been planned that all would make a trip to Fort William, Ont., to see Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Smith and their son, and our grandson and nephew respectively. As distances go in this modern age, the trip was not a long one, as near as we could figure about 1300 miles each way. We planned on making the journey by easy stages and by car. At night we would stop at some camping spot and put up a tent for an overnight sleep.

The probable spots had been preselected by means of a booklet supplied by the Ontario Tourist bureau and it was found that there were some very nice camp sites.

Starting out on the Monday morning with the trunk of the car packed full with all sorts of gear and so forth, the writer, Mrs. Smith, son Bruce and daughter Barbara, made Ottawa the first stop at about noon. Here, by prearranged plan we were to meet Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, who has been a friend of the family for a number of years. After presenting the necessary credentials, we finally arrived at the office of the Prime Minister, in the Parliament Building. We had to wait for a time due to the Prime Minister having a meeting which had lasted longer than expected. Finally we gained our audience and had a very pleasant chat with Mr. Diefenbaker, going over old times and recalling past friends of our mutual acquaintance. The visit was all too short, after a lapse of many years, due to the fact that the Prime Minister is a very busy man and had other commitments awaiting him. However, it was a highlight in our trip and one which we thoroughly enjoyed.

Returning to our car on the grounds of the Parliament Buildings, we found we had been ticketed as having parked in a restricted area. However, it was only a warning ticket. Not having eaten since early morning, we had a meal and a short look around Ottawa and proceeded on our way west. We decided that we would stop for the night at camping spot known as Artona Beach, a few miles west of Pembroke. Registration was $1.00 we chose our own site and immediately set about the task of erecting our tent. This tent had been loaned to us by a friend and was very quickly and easily erected. While this was being done, Mrs. Smith was busy with a gasoline type camp stove, preparing the evening meal. It was a full course dinner with two vegetables, meat and dessert, tea, etc. In the cool evening, after a hot day, and beside the waters of the lake, this meal was enjoyable. By the time this was over and all the utensils cleaned up, darkness was beginning to fall. We had provided ourselves with air mattresses and plenty of blankets, and following the evening meal, the mattresses had to be blown up and the beds made. This done we sat for a time beside the log fire listening to the radio which we had taken along, before turning in for the night. The camp was well appointed, there was a caretaker and a store where supplies could be obtained. Water on tap, fireplaces and wood for same. Boats could be hired and fishing could be enjoyed if desired. Close by were various types of entertainment. There was also a nice sandy beach. There were sevreal other groups of campers, some with tents, some with trailers. Electrical hookups could be obtained if needed. There were toilet facilities but no wash rooms, but we had prepared for this and brought along our own just in case. This was the only camp where this latter was not supplied, but as the camp was only recently opened, much still remains on the agenda for improvement as times goes on.

For the first part of the night all was very comfortable, but during the night two of the mattresses flattened out and the occupants were sleeping on the hard ground. There was a floor in the tent, but it still was not soft. The mattresses were occupied by the writer and his son Bruce, so on arising in the morning they were pretty stiff in spots. It was a cold night and frost glistened on the tent in the morning. No one wanted to get up, so it fell to the lot of the writer to get the fire going and hot tea made. The tea was made on the camp stove which was faster and cleaner than the fire. Breakfast was cooked of bacon and eggs and then following this the tent was taken down and packed away into the car ready for the next part of the trip.

We travelled that day in a more or less leisurely manner, stopping when we felt like it and to give the driver, Bruce, a bit of change and rest. While the writer offered to take a turn at the wheel, this was not permited and Bruce drove all the way to our destination and return home. There was much to see all along the route and although we did not stop at all the interesting points, we did see a number of them. We found the roadside tables and parks of great advantage to our trip, for they provided a place to pull in under the shade of trees and with facilities for making a meal. Our camp stove was a very handy piece of equipment for we were able to make hot meals very quickly. We carried a water cooler filled with water for these roadside stops, at all times. Many of these spots were most scenic and enjoyable while eating a meal and having a rest from driving. Many also had attractions of natural interest and historical sites. There were old trails along winding rivers, with waterfalls and other natural beauties.

The second day we travelled for about 300 miles and pulled in at a campsite at Lakeside Park, Thessalon, about 50 miles this side of Sault St. Marie. This was one of the better camping sites, with all facilities, swimming, beach, lots of trees and was well filled with campers. We just managed to get a site, for many more came after us and were not so fortunate. Daughter Barbara and son Bruce had an enjoyable time on the beach and in the water while supper was being prepared and ate heartily when they returned. We tried to pull into the various camp sites early enough to get everything done before dark. At this camp however, lights were kept burning all night, so that it would not have been difficult to set up after dark. We had a good night's rest and everything went without incident. It was much warmer, the temperature remaining around 63, whereas the night before it had gone down to around 40. It is invigorating to get up in the morning in the crisp air and get things started.

This day we were away fairly early and reached the ferry at the Soo, which we boarded and crossed over to the American side. It had been our intention to go by the All Canada Highway, but parts of that road are still under construction and no cars are allowed to travel over it. Thus we proceeded on our way by the American route through Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, crossing back into Canada at a place called Pigeon River, about 50 miles from Fort William.

While Ontario does a good job of providing for tourists, the three States through which we crossed on the Amercian side, did even better. All points of interest are very clearly marked and there are a greater number of suitable spots. It was impossible to stop at all these places and make time, so of course many had to be passed by. At one point along the road was a sign saying to be sure and stop and see the view from the look-out at a certain place ahead. We arrived at this spot on the top of a mountain road and certainly a splendid view of the whole countryside was obtained. It also provided a place to pull in and have a stretch and a rest. Some enterprising boys were there with sponges and rubber squeegees to clean off the windshield, which needed it by this time. Of course this meant a hand-out and the boys were picking up quite a few quarters as the various cars drove up and stopped. It is quite likely they would make a fair day's pay, for on our return, we passed this spot in the early evening and the boys were still at work.

A few miles further along our route, we came upon another attraction and found a large number of cars stopped at the point. This was Temperance River. It was well marked and ways lead down from the highway to a rockey waterfall and a river which wound along. Crossing the river at a spot well below the level of the highway, was a bridge which gave a full view of the waterfall from above and below. It was also very cool and refreshing after the heat of the highway above. In the legend on the sign board, it was stated, That this river was the only river that flows into Lake Superior which has no bar at its mouth. Therefore the name Temperance River. The sign was in the form of a point of an arrow with the shaft broken.

That night we camped in a site in the Gogebig area. Here again, the facilities were ample with beach and bathing and so forth. When we pulled into this site, there was only one other camper. These people came to us when we started to set up and said how pleased they were that someone else had arrived as they thought they were going to be alone. However, as time wore on several more campers arrived and by morning there were at least six or eight groups.

This was our last overnight stop before reaching Fort William, as we arrived there about six p.m. on Thursday.

More of the trip will be given in the next issue.

TV BUGABOO

The truth is, people are reading more than ever. The bugaboo of television seems to have retreated to its lair. It now appears that what people do most while "watching" television, is read. — Melfort (Sask.) Journal.

Maple Leaf Grange

May we of the Grange extend our sincere thanks to the Huntingdon County Fair Board, for their much appreciated reception of our New York State Grange "Queen". The Invitation for "Queen" Shirley to head the Thursday night Parade in her own County of Huntingdon was certainly an honour for both Shirley Grant and the County. The presentation of Flowers, an added courtesy on the part of the Fair Board officers and members, as well as the announcement made by Mr. J. Boisseau in the Arena. The bouquet of roses sent to Shirley prior to the parade was another one of those acts of kindness on the part of Booths Florists which again we all appreciate.

To the Citizens of Huntingdon and vicinity who so faithfully support the Grange refreshment booth year after year we also extend our thanks. This task we undertake each year is not an easy one by any means so we do appreciate the good humour and many kindnesses shown us by all the "customers".

The committee wish to thank all the members who turned out to help in any capacity during this three day Fair period. The writer personally wishes to thank the members who "carried on" during her absence at the New England Lecturers Conference in Maine. Everybody did a mighty fine job.

September 1st. Pomona Grange meets at Brushton Grange Hall at 2. p.m. The Installation of officers will take place at the afternoon session. Supper will be served by the Brushton ladies as usual at 6 p.m. The Literary PROGRAM at 8 p.m., will be under the direction of the Misses Sylvia Thomas, Malone, Rosanne Rockhill of Westville and Carol MacDonnell of Maple Leaf, when they will speak and do demonstrations of YOUTH LEADERSHIP. There will be skits, drills and other items of interest. All members are invited to support the Youth Group of the County. (Open Meeting).

Sept. 3rd. — Syracuse 9 a.m. N.Y. State Fair; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith will be in the Talent Competition in the dancing class. Sept. 7th. 2.30 p.m. Syracuse, David Rankin will be the County Contestant for the State Kingship. The members able to travel to Syracuse to the State Fair, Grange Hall will be heartily welcomed by Queen Shirley and the Contestants. Shirley will be there from the 2nd to the 10th.
