Clark, Broadbent demand action

BNA Act revamp begins

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau opened a three-year quest Monday for a new constitution that would serve as a bulwark against internal threats to national unity.

Trudeau declined to give details, promising legislation before the end of June that would spell out plans for giving provinces a say in Senate and Supreme Court appointments and the country a set of federally-binding human and language rights.

Once introduced, that legislation would be referred to a joint Commons-Senate committee and the premiers for discussion, then returned for amendment and possible passage by July 1 next year. Broader reforms, including the long-contentious issue of transferring the country's underlying constitutional law from Britain with a formula for changing it at home, would follow.

"The government has resolved to provide Canada with a new constitution by the end of 1981," Trudeau said in a 26-page document entitled "A Time for Action."

"History is beckoning us."

The proposals were designed to smooth Ottawa's relations with the provinces and provide a "renewal of the Canadian federation" at a time of internal threats from a separatist government in Quebec.

"We have not yet reached agreement on what Canada should be," Trudeau said as he presented the reforms proposals to the Commons. "But at least we have all agreed that a significant renewal is necessary, and that we must sit down to business."

Trudeau's announcement represents the third major effort during his 10 years in office to reform the country's underlying law - the 1867 British North America Act that remains a British statute.

Other prime ministers have made similar attempts to claim the constitution as the country's own. But all attempts - there have been 10 since the first was made in 1927 - have foundered on differences between Ottawa and the provinces.

Opposition spokesmen greeted Trudeau's latest constitutional reform attempt skeptically.

The proposals merely gave an appearance of action, said Opposition Leader Joe Clark. They were couched in paternalistic language, set deadlines that have not been accepted by provinces and could conceivably deepen divisions in the country.

New Democratic Leader Ed Broadbent was equally critical, saying the proposals ignore economic inequality in Canada.

The proposals were narrowly focused and legalistic, Broadbent said. They were "totally inadequate."

Premier Rene Levesque of Quebec termed the proposals "a new version, with a bigger cover, of Mr. Trudeau's constitutional improvisations."

In the documents, Trudeau indicated that the November, 1976, election of a separatist government in Quebec is behind his latest initiative, arguing that "a fundamental renewal of the federation is needed to resolve the crisis threatening the stability, unity and prosperity of the country."

Conference hails Levesque energy plan

WHITEFIELD, N.H. (CP)

— Quebec Premier Rene Levesque stole the show Monday when he proposed at the first meeting he has attended of New England governors and Eastern premiers that Eastern Canadian refineries supply petroleum products to meet New England's needs.

The sixth annual meeting of the premiers and governors winds up today in this White Mountain resort town without Levesque, Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island and Frank Moores of Newfoundland.

Moores sent William Doody, his intergovernmental affairs minister, and Levesque and Campbell returned to their capitals after Monday's session.

Edward Miles, an adviser to Vermont Governor Richard Snelling, said that at last year's conference Levesque's absence was the main topic of conversation and this year his presence had the conference a-buzz.

Like his predecessor, Robert Bourassa, Levesque flew in for only one day of the conference.

Levesque came to the conference with offers to exchange Quebec electricity with New England and possibly sell surplus power to neighboring provinces and states.

He also proposed a plan to refine crude oil in Montreal and ship finished products to New England, utilizing excess capacity of 100,000 barrels a day in Montreal oil refineries.

PRAISES PROPOSAL
Governor Joseph Garrahy of Rhode Island said the Levesque proposal was "probably the most worthwhile suggestion" since the premiers began to meet with the governors in 1973.

The delegates adopted a motion proposed by Maine Governor James Longley and seconded by Levesque, who helped draft it, that the states and provinces cooperate in the energy field, with particular emphasis on the power exchanges and refinery capacity mentioned by the Quebec premier.

The leaders also approved a resolution sponsored by host governor Meldrim Thomson of New Hampshire calling for cooperation in research and development of alternate energy sources.

They agreed to set up a committee to look into the area of trucking, with a view to co-ordinating regulations over the industry in the various states and provinces, at the suggestion of Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick.

Levesque also outlined his government's no-fault car insurance plan which covers bodily injuries, saying the government-run plan compensates all visitors to Quebec involved in car accidents if they were not at fault.

CANOEING TRAGEDY CLAIMS 13

VILLE MARIE, Que. (CP)

— A wilderness training expedition ended in the drowning of 12 schoolboys and a teacher when their canoes overturned during a violent storm on a lake in this northwestern Quebec region.

The tragedy occurred Sunday after a group of 27 boys aged between 10 and 15 and four teachers from St. John's School of Claremont, Ontario, began canoeing up Lake Temiscamingue, about 370 kilometres northwest of Ottawa.

The 18 survivors were found on the western shore of the lake Monday. Police said they were in good condition after being treated for shock. Earlier, police believed there may have been another person missing, but later said the dead and survivors were all accounted for.

News of the incident only came Monday morning when a helicopter pilot on a routine flight over the lake noticed an overturned canoe, with the bodies of a boy and an adult floating tied to it.

Gary Smith of Trans-Quebec Helicopters then spotted through a heavy fog three more bodies and two other overturned canoes. He contacted police, who organized a search party for the survivors.

They were found on the western edge of the lake and taken to a hunting lodge, where they were treated and spent the night.

The bodies of the children, aged between 10 and 15 years, were found up to two miles apart. Six were brought to the morgue of the St. Famille hospital here, while the others were at the hunting lodge awaiting transportation here today.

Weeping parents and friends of the children gathered at St. John's School in Claremont, about 35 kilometres northeast of Toronto, to await news. Early today, some of the parents left Toronto by bus on their way here.

The private Anglican boarding school is one of a network of three experimental schools in Canada that emphasizes wilderness training.

Premier mocks federal ploy

WHITEFIELD, N.H. (CP) — Premier Rene Levesque scoffed Monday at the federal government for sending copies of proposed constitutional changes to Canada's five eastern premiers while they were attending a conference at this lake resort.

Presented with a booklet outlining the changes while he was discussing energy matters with New England governors, Levesque said it was a little like the United States considering changes to its constitution in Trois-Rivieres.

The booklets were distributed by a federal government observer at the two-day meeting.

Levesque described the proposed amendments as "a new version, with a bigger cover, of Mr. Trudeau's constitutional improvisations."

Slowdowns hit Tribune

SHERBROOKE (AF) — La Tribune will not be publishing today, maybe not tomorrow, and possibly not even Thursday.

Employees of Sherbrooke's French-language daily, without a work contract since the end of March, 1977, are using pressure tactics in efforts to force the company to the negotiating table.

The paper has been late every day since Friday and it was yesterday that the employees decided on work slowdowns. Early last evening, the company announced that anyone taking any extra time off during the course of the working day, or any other type of slowdown, would not be paid for that day. It was at this point that the employees decided all work would stop until the company withdrew this decision.

All employees were back at work this morning waiting to hear the company's decision; they say if workers are paid normally despite slowdowns, they will go back to work immediately; if not, no paper. Management was not available for comment at press time.

BLACKWOOD DEFEATED IN DBRSB ELECTIONS

By TERRY SCOTT
Of The Record

Diana Timmins became the first woman ever elected to the District of Bedford Regional School Board last night with a stunning upset over incumbent Homer Blackwood in the Knowlton Ward.

A newcomer also gained victory in the Bedford Ward as David Jones battered outgoing commissioner Keith Lampman 295-23. The two Cowansville wards remain unchanged as Board Chairman Bonar Lindsay and Doug Smith retained their seats.

The final results in these districts showed Lindsay with a decisive 179-70 margin over Peter Riordon and Smith with an equally resounding 221-77 lead over John Chapman.

The closest race occurred in Knowlton, where Timmins edged her opponent 335-308, ending a school commissioners term for Blackwood which began in 1962.

"It was a team effort all the way," said an elated Timmins over the din of a victory celebration. "I had people sitting on the phone all day long and they called about 200 people."

Her husband Brian, who served as an agent for the election, said about 89 people were turned away at the Knowlton polls because their names were not on the electoral list.

"A lot of people phoned here during the day and they were furious," he added.

UN disarmament debate wraps up

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The General Assembly, having completed its general debate on disarmament, is working on a final statement to wrap up its special session.

During the debate, some 20 world leaders - including Prime Minister Trudeau - and more than 50 vice-presidents, deputy prime ministers or foreign ministers, addressed the session, presenting dozens of proposals for reducing the world arms trade.

Now, the assembly must draw up a statement, incorporating some of these proposals, as well as a program of action.

The General Assembly has no power to enforce any of its recommendations though the possible emergence of a consensus may have some influence on the superpowers and others involved in the arms race.

The drafters will have plenty of material to work from, as delegations present their ideas and suggestions.

For example, Harry Jay, Canadian ambassador to the Geneva disarmament talks, has repeated Trudeau's call for an end to flight testing of new strategic delivery systems. Jay also suggested the two superpowers should stop the production of fissionable material for bombs and limit spending on new strategic nuclear weapons.

MAKES BID

When the session started late in May, Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim called on all countries to consider spending one-tenth of one per cent of their arms budgets on disarmament programs. With world military expenditures estimated at about $400 billion annually, that idea would provide $400 million a year for disarmament.

June sowing

The planting season is just about over and last-minute gardeners are not an uncommon sight around Lennoxville.

SYNOPSIS

A large low will develop today over southwestern Quebec. A cold front associated with this disturbance will be accompanied by thundershowers and will cross the upper St. Lawrence River this morning. In the path of this low precipitations will be generalized over our regions. This disturbance will reach the lower St. Lawrence River on Wednesday. Behind it moderate northwesterly winds will bring cooler temperatures and a gradual clearing which will occur slowly from west to east.

Cartier workers reach tentative pact

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiators for 3,500 north-eastern Quebec miners reached an agreement-in-principle Sunday with the Quebec Cartier Mining Co., raising hopes for an end to a 13-week strike which has paralysed three-quarters of Canada's iron ore production.

A spokesman in Montreal for the United Steelworkers of America said the miners, who live in the communities of Port Cartier, Fermont and Gagnon, will vote by secret ballot today on the contract proposal.

Lawrence McBrearty, chief negotiator for 10,000 striking miners in northern Quebec and Labrador, said in a telephone interview Sunday from Fermont the union's "goals have been reached on all issues."

Although McBrearty would not divulge details, sources close to the union said the agreement-in-principle includes wage increases of more than 30 per cent in a 33-month contract retroactive to March.

The source said the agreement-in-principle would raise hourly wages—with cost-of-living bonuses—by more than $2 over the length of the contract. Miners' annual salaries now average $20,000.

A agreement-in-principle has still to be reached between the Steelworkers and the Iron Ore Co. of Canada, which employs many of the striking miners in Quebec and Labrador. Talks came to a halt several weeks ago. "ALWAYS READY"

McBrearty said he hoped, in light of the agreement-in-principle reached with Quebec Cartier, that talks with Iron Ore would soon resume. "We are always ready," he said.

Iron Ore asked union locals more than a week ago to hold secret ballots to consider its latest contract offer. Locals in Labrador

City, Nfld., and Sept-Îles and Schefferville, Que., all rejected the offer.

The strike has also hit Wabush Mines and Sidbec Normines, a subsidiary of the Quebec-government owned Sidbec-Dosco steel conglomerate. It has closed the Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railway, which hauls much of the ore from the mines to shipping points on the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The deal leaves Husky with its other Canadian assets, including the marketing and retail operations.

Petro-Canada has been frustrated in its attempts to get large-scale heavy-oil development because virtually all the permits are held by private companies like Husky.

Husky had planned a $520-million heavy-oil plant in the Lloydminster area of Saskatchewan but apparently was experiencing difficulties in raising the necessary capital.

The company had been negotiating with possible partners, including the Saskatchewan government and Petro-Canada for funding.

The meeting was originally set for noon Saturday in Cody, Wyo., Husky's corporate headquarters. But the venue was switched the day of the meeting.

Petro-Canada was represented by president W. H. Hopper and Joel Bell, the company's liaison man with the prime minister's office. Husky was represented by Glenn Nielson, board chairman, and his son Jim, company president.

$300 million for oil properties

PetroCan-Husky accord near

CALGARY (CP) — Petro-Canada and Husky Oil Ltd. expected to announce yesterday that the Crown corporation will purchase Husky's oil properties in Canada for more than $300 million.

The announcement follows an all-day meeting in Calgary on Saturday between top Husky officials, Petro-Canada executives and representatives of Wood Gundy Ltd. and Pitfield MacKay Ross and Co. Ltd., two major investment firms.

The offer from Petro-Canada is for Husky's proved and prospective properties in Canada, made up mostly of heavy-oil rights in Alberta and Saskatchewan, oil industry sources said Sunday.

A spokesman for Husky declined to comment on the meeting and its outcome but said a statement was expected today.

Anti-fraud guarantee compulsory

SHERBROOKE (PT) — More than 244 local contractors from Region 5 will be able to take advantage of a $5,000 guarantee offered by l'Association de la Construction des Cantons de l'Est.

The guarantee which is against fraud and other problems, became compulsory June 1st for all construction groups in Quebec. Henceforth no construction licences will be granted without this guarantee.

The Eastern Townships Construction is affiliated with the Federation de la Construction du Quebec.

Recent statistics indicate that the total value of all construction permits granted in Sherbrooke has decreased from June 1977. 314 permits valued at $12,273,014. were issued in 1977 compared to 383 permits valued at $9,192,967. in June 1978.

Hydro launches bond issue

Hydro-Quebec intends to issue $50 million (U.S. dollars) of debentures on the Eurobond market.

The series D1 debentures will mature July 1, 1993. The issue will be offered through an international underwriting syndicate headed by S.G. Warburg & Co. Ltd., Credit Suisse White Weld Limited, Union Bank of Switzerland (Securities) Limited, Kredietbank S.A. Luxembourg, Commerzbank Aktiengesellschaft, Westdeutsche Landesbank Girozentrale, Nesbitt Thompson Limited and Levesque, Beaubien Inc.

Terms of the issue will be negotiated on June 19 and will be announced by Hydro-Quebec at that time.

The debentures will be guaranteed unconditionally by the province of Quebec.

Rail offers deal

VIA Rail Canada has announced that its new "fare for all" plan, to be introduced June 15, will apply on trains operated by CP Rail as well as on VIA trains.

When the new fares were announced three weeks ago, negotiations between VIA Rail Canada and CP rail respecting application of the new fares to CP trains had not been completed. Agreement has now been reached and the new commonfare structure will become valid on trains of both companies on that date.

The new "fare-for-all" plan has both basic and incentive rates. On average, it is estimated basic rates will reduce cost of travel on CP rail trains by some 13 per cent. Basic rates are quoted on a one-way basis, double for the round-trip, good every day of the year. All fares are quoted in dollars only, to simplify purchases.

Engineers elect female president

MONTREAL (CP) — Micheline Bouchard was elected president of the Quebec Order of Engineers at a weekend convention, the second woman to hold the post in the 58-year history of the organization.

Mrs. Bouchard, a project manager for Hydro-Quebec, succeeds Gilles Perron who was president for two years.

The first woman to hold the position was Danielle Zaikoff, who served a one-year term in 1975-76. She has recently become president of the Canadian Council of Professional Engineers.

Speeders' claims challenged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Independent truckers have been challenged by the U.S. transportation department to prove their claims that they get better fuel mileage when speeding than when abiding by the 55-mile-per-hour (88 kilometres an hour) speed limit.

The department wants 33 tractor-trailer operators to prove their claims voluntarily on an oval, 12-kilometre, high-speed track at the Transportation Research Centre in East Liberty, Ohio.

Oil freeze would kill S.A.

LONDON (Reuter) — A study by the United Nations Centre Against Apartheid says South Africa's economy would collapse in about two years if oil supplies were cut off.

The report, prepared by two British economists, Martin Bailey and Bernard Rivers, said South Africa was able to survive the 1973 Arab embargo because Iran, through major oil companies, had been willing to make regular deliveries.

HIJACKED? HERE'S HOW TO SURVIVE

LONDON (AP) — More than 2,000 air passengers have lived through the trauma of hijacking in the last 12 months. Now two British writers have published tips for victims called How to Survive a Hijack.

Christopher Dobson and Ronald Payne published their guide in Business Traveller, a London quarterly that offers travel tips to regular users of airlines.

"We do not promise an easy time but there are ways and means of making captivity less harrowing," they write.

The authors say that in drafting their code of behavior "which should ensure survival," they studied accounts of plane hijackings, the behavior of passengers and terrorists and consulted psychologists.

Their advice covers what to do before boarding an aircraft, behavior during a hijack and how to get over the experience. The tips are practical. Dress in casual, comfortable clothes, not just because hijacks tend to take place in hot countries but because it helps you to merge with the crowd.

"When terrorists look around for a victim to murder in order to prove their ruthlessness, they tend to pick out the conspicuous, the man with the vicuna coat who is, to them, a 'capitalist pig' and therefore an enemy worthy of death."

Dobson and Payne say the short answer on what to do during a hijack is—nothing. A passenger should be inconspicuous, because troublemakers or potentially important hostages are always the first to be killed.

Forget any thought of heroics, they say, terrorists usually are fanatics and often have been trained to cope with amateurs.

READ ANY GOOD LABELS LATELY?

A basic guide to the Who, What, Where, When and Why of Shopping Canadian.

Why should you Shop Canadian?
Every time you buy something made in Canada, you help keep a Canadian working. You help keep Canadian money inside Canada. You help to expand and strengthen Canada's economy.
When you think about it, you help yourself.

When should you Shop Canadian?
Whenever you're satisfied that the product or service you need is
(A) made or grown in Canada and
(B) of equal or better value and quality.
That's not just good advice...it's good sense.

What is made in Canada?
Just about everything you need to help you live the life you want.
As the saying goes, we have no bananas, but we do have Apples, Bandages, Cranes, Drills, Elevators, Furniture, Glassware, Holiday resorts, Insulation, Jewellery, Kitchen appliances, Lumber, Machinery, Newspapers, Office equipment, Potatoes, Quilts, Rope, Steel, Tires, Umbrellas, Vaccines, Wines, X-Ray equipment, Yarns, and Zippers.
Everything, in other words, from A to Z.

Who should Shop Canadian?
Every day, most of us have the choice. Whether we're buying groceries for the home or supplies for business, farm or industry.
If each of us added only $10 a week to Canadian made purchases, Canada would be over 10 billion dollars better off in just one year.
Who should Shop Canadian?
You should.

Where does it say Made in Canada?
Sometimes it doesn't. Sometimes a sign says "Produce of P.E.I." Or "B.C. Apples" or "Fabriqué au Québec" or "Made in Manitoba" or "New Brunswick Sardines" or "Grown by Saskatchewan Farmers" or "A product of Alberta" or "Fresh from Newfoundland" or "Manufactured in Ontario" or "Nova Scotia Lobster."
The point is, if you take the trouble to find out, you can usually tell.
And, if it's made anywhere in the ten Provinces or the Territories, it is made in Canada.

operation on the part of friends in the area. Some of them may have an axe to grind but I guess most of them voted that way because they wanted a change."

"We had people show up at the polls that we never expected would turn out to vote. The last contested election they had in Bedford was back in 1944."

Doug Smith, who will enter his seventh year as school commissioner, was as pleased by his victory as he was with the turnout of voters and the interest shown in the election.

The number of voters in each ward far exceeded previous expectations as every district went above the usual 10 per cent turnout for board elections.

"I was especially happy it was a representative group that chose me, not just a hundred people or so," he remarked.

Board Chairman Bonar Lindsay could not pinpoint a significant factor in his victory. "The only thing I can hope from this result is that the public has recognized that I've worked hard to provide quality education for children in this district and as a whole."

"In the job I have to do, I'm going to do it the best I can but the number one item remains the child, the student."

Lindsay said that he did not foresee any problems working with the newcomers to the school board, adding that he hoped to deal with them in a positive, fair and equitable manner.

"They've received the vote of the public and now we will work together in a positive fashion to provide the best education possible."

The new Knowlton commissioner, who spent more than a month on her campaign explained that she would like to see better communications at the school board level.

"I'd like to see the bus driver or the janitor come to give his view on things because, after all, they are the ones doing the job."

Cowansville candidates Chapman and Riordan felt the large turnout of elderly voters had worked in favor of the incumbent.

As more and more of the older group came in to vote, Riordan remarked in the afternoon, "unless this trend changes I think the old guard is going to remain." The words later became prophetic.

The election in all four wards was conducted most efficiently, a tribute to returning officer Al Dickson and his team.

LENOXVILLE SCHOOL BOARD
LENOXVILLE (PT) — Incumbent Marguerite

Knapp soundly defeated Peter Logan in yesterday's Lennoxville District School Board election. Although only 30 per cent of the eligible voters in Ward II went to the polls, Mrs. Knapp won by a decisive 471 - 116 majority.

Mrs. Knapp, a former school teacher, has been a school commissioner for the last six years. She has represented the Lennoxville Board and the Eastern Townships Regional School Board outside the area and has participated in dozens of committees.

Sutton resident honored

Miss B. Evelyn Harvey, a retired school teacher, formerly of Woodland School in Verdun now residing in her home town of Sutton was honoured on May 23 when Mayor Jean-Paul Deslieres, presented her with the Silver Jubilee Medal, to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of Her Majesty's reign.

The Town of Sutton nominated Miss Harvey to receive this great honour, in recognition of her wonderful work and benevolence.

This presentation was made at a regular meeting of the "Happy Gang", a senior citizens' group, which Miss Harvey organized.

Polling officers J. Beattie and K. Baker accept a ballot in yesterday's Lennoxville District School Board election. Marguerite

Knapp defeated Peter Logan 471 - 116 in Ward II.

Township talk

CRSSS makes changes

SHERBROOKE (PT) — At a recent meeting, the Regional Office of Health and Social Services of the Eastern Townships decided on a number of changes in their activities for the upcoming year.

They hope to have their services decentralized so that the allocation of monies can be decided at the regional level.

The regional office has formulated plans for the elderly in the area and will work in conjunction with the hospitals in Sherbrooke to carry these out. They have been allocated $224,564, by Quebec to provide for development of home care of the elderly.

In addition to decentralization, the office is also looking toward the reorganization of groups within the area. Under their present plan, they hope to regroup the blind and the physically and mentally handicapped under one regional office to provide better service.

The CRSSS will also maintain present services.

Rancourt announces leisure grants

Real Rancourt, deputy for St. Francois, has announced that his county has been granted a $21,221 subsidy for new leisure projects by the High Commission of Youth, Sports and Leisure.

A committee of persons interested in the leisure field will select candidates for the subsidies based on the following criteria: mass participation, autonomy, the type of activities proposed, impact of the project and originality.

To be eligible for a grant, the High Commission requests that the group be working the leisure field, operate within the county, not be receiving any other subsidies, and furnish reports when asked.

Information and requests should be addressed to Real Rancourt at 620 Sara, Apt. 101 in Sherbrooke or telephone 567-9190.

Hatley readies for Canada Day

Hatley's annual Canada Day celebration will be held this year on Saturday, July 1st. This year's sponsors, the Hatley Municipal Association, are still in the process of planning the event, however definite plans have been made to start the parade at the usual time of 10 a.m. Plans for games, races, booths, food and other entertainment for young and old alike are currently underway. As always, a dance will be held in the evening.

Sneak thieves sought

COWANSVILLE (JM) — Municipal police are searching for thieves who stole approximately $7,000 in cash from the Cowansville Hardware between noon and 3 p.m. Saturday.

Sgt. Detective Jacques Landry said two men and a woman, all in their thirties, entered the store and distracted the entire staff, including the secretary who they managed to lure out of her office on a pretext. When she went to make her bank deposit, the deposit bag had vanished.

Sgt. Landry said the data received from the police computers yesterday indicated that the suspects are part of a gang of seven or eight who have been operating in a similar manner throughout the province in the past year.

He hoped the suspects would be apprehended during the course of this week.

Centraide-Estrie holds seminar

SHERBROOKE (PT) — All groups eligible for Centraide-Estrie subsidies at the time of their next campaign are invited to participate in a seminar on 'Politics and the criteria for the distribution of funds'. This seminar follows a mandate given to a group of eight to clarify and make more precise the actual program of Centraide-Estrie.

The committee hopes that all groups concerned will participate in the evening which will be held at pavilion 2 of the College de Sherbrooke, 375 Park Street on Tuesday, June 13 at 7:30 p.m. For more information, call Normand Nadeau, Coordinator at 569-9281.

Student population declines

Students who contributed most to the decline in the school population this year were those aged 15 or over, a study done by the Commission Scolaire Regionale de l'Estrie has shown. The study found that although enrolment in area schools did not decline as much as it had in past years, there was still a large decrease.

The study did not examine students' reasons for leaving school, but Michel Laval, student affairs counsellor, estimates that between three and four percent leave area schools because of a move, a long illness, an accident or death. The study shows that more boys leave school than girls and that the majority of those who quit are born in 1960. While males are more likely to leave when they are in Secondary IV level, the majority of females wait until Secondary V.

QFA Richmond branch Farm Day

DANVILLE (PT) — The Richmond branch of the Quebec Farming Association will hold an open farm day at the Ferme Manasas in Danville between 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Sunday, June 18. The show will feature farm machinery, antiques, maple syrup and other displays. Last year at least 2,000 people attended the show.

Grenier raps schools policy

QUEBEC (PT) — Fernand Grenier, deputy for Megantic Compton and Union Nationale party whip, has criticized the Quebec

Education Ministry for their policies on private schools, saying that it compromises the aspirations of Quebecers.

Grenier is calling for originality within the private schools while at the same time receiving direction from Quebec.

He doesn't believe that the government should intervene in the education system as much as it has in the past. This is "playing with morals," he says, and this type of activity could "kill the benevolence which Quebec always needs."

Safe Boating Week July 1-7

SHERBROOKE (DV) — The Canada Safety Council has declared the week of July 1-7 as National Safe Boating Week. Its aim is to focus greater attention on water safety, since just as many accidents occur because of negligence as they do through ignorance of the rules of water safety.

People are usually more frightened by fire than by water, but statistics for 1975 show 1,116 drowning fatalities in Canada compared to 721 deaths by fire.

Books like the 1978 Boating Safety Guide are provided free of charge by Transport Canada. Other ways to ensure nautical safety include joining a local Power Squadron or participating in water safety classes conducted by the Canadian Red Cross.

The newly-founded Canadian Coast Guard Auxiliary will specialize in promoting the safe use and handling of pleasure boats, while the RCMP will enlarge its role in public boating safety campaigns.

The 15-24 age group are the most frequent drowning victims, with 299 fatalities in 1975.

Fire safety is being strongly urged this year. Leaky boat exhaust pipes are more dangerous than on a car, since poisonous carbon monoxide can easily be fatal in the confined space of a cabin.

Enthusiastic swimmers often believe they can swim longer underwater if they breathe rapidly for a few moments before diving. This practice, called hyperventilation, is dangerous and often fatal, due to a sudden lack of oxygen, says the Canada Safety Council.

Levesque looks good

Premier Levesque is being hailed as the brightest thing to hit the Atlantic premiers-New England governors conference in six years, all because he used a little common sense.

The New England states need more oil-refining capacity, since conservation groups have halted the construction of tankerports and refineries. They also need more electricity. Quebec and the Maritimes have more refining capacity than they need, due in part to the higher costs of Eastern production for central Canada. Quebec also has excess electricity, which the Maritimes would like but can't pay for.

The answer is obvious, and Mr. Levesque is no fool. Use Eastern Canadian refinery capacity and sell excess Quebec hydro power to New England. What could be simpler?

There's only one fly in the ointment. Respective federal governments would have to be consulted, since both the United States and Canada have made energy policy a federal responsibility. Will they buy this apparently commonsense scheme which conceals a direct challenge of federal policies? They'd be crazy to refuse, since it makes so much sense. Yet as far as Canada is concerned, it makes Quebec that much more self-sufficient, at the same time giving power-hungry Ontario a slap in the face.

The biggest ace in the federal hole was the Sarnia-Montreal oil pipeline, and Mr. Levesque proposes to establish an Eastern-seaboard alliance which short-circuits all that careful planning. The Eastern governors don't care as much about Canada as they do about more fuel shortages, brownouts and blackouts, so they'll go along with the idea. The Maritimes will seize on the scheme, since it makes tankerports and refinery complexes like Comeby-Chance, Newfoundland and Saint John, N.B., part of a massive Eastern-seaboard energy system which can only pay off — with or without Confederation.

Ottawa could veto the idea easily, merely by supporting the small but vocal Maritime environment groups in court battles against further development. Washington could kill the idea by heavily taxing Canadian-refined products. But is it in their best interests to do so? 'Not in your life.'

Once again, common sense has torpedoed all those pretty policies produced by Ottawa. Once again, we see the need for a revised Confederation which would allow provinces to make deals of this sort based on economic good sense, rather than on an outmoded concept of a nation from sea to sea — existing mainly to serve Ontario.

...but PM flames out

...which leads us to Prime Minister Trudeau's constitutional-reform proposals, made public yesterday afternoon after being leaked to La Presse last week.

Mr. Trudeau's policy paper for the renewal of the Canadian federation sounds impressive, but, as the opposition leaders were quick to point out, means little. While it resolves to make certain changes to the federal structure, it falls far short of correcting that most basic of Canadian ills — the ongoing federal-provincial fight over the division of powers.

Even as the policy paper was being drafted, Ottawa was taking haphazard stands on various thorny federal-provincial issues. Home-insulation rebates. Immigration. Intergovernmental affairs. Tax-rebate schemes. Justice and the RCMP. Health and recreation. Lotteries. The list is long and growing longer, but it seems Mr. Trudeau and his government are depending more and more on confrontation politics to enact legislation affecting the provinces.

As has been pointed out, Mr. Trudeau's policy paper helps itself liberally to Tory suggestions when it comes to giving provinces a say in Senate appointments, but does nothing to give the Senate a role in Canadian government — past suggestions have ranged from making the Senate an elective body, in effect creating a two-house system — to appointing senators for finite terms, but the basic problem of giving them something to do still remains.

As for provisions giving the provinces a voice in Supreme Court appointments, we doubt they would mean any change in the Bench's current composition, as decided during the 1971 Victoria conference. The Supreme Court isn't even covered by the BNA Act — its role and rules were established in the 1975 Supreme Court Act.

In short, Mr. Trudeau's much-vaunted policy paper is gaudy window-dressing, designed not so much for actual change as to convince us something is being done in the constitutional-reform department. Furthermore, it's obvious that any efforts to bring the BNA Act home from Westminster are going to have to include nine premiers or less, since Mr. Levesque seems about as impressed with Mr. Trudeau's concepts as he is with the future of the monarchy in Canada.

For those who would chastise us for not offering more positive criticism, we refer to a recent statement by Gerald Beaudoin, dean of the University of Ottawa's civil law faculty and one of the members of the Task Force on Canadian Unity.

Mr. Trudeau seems to forget the existence of the task force, but he would have done well to consult with members before tossing his policy paper to the nation. As Mr. Beaudoin says, Canada is a heterogeneous society and a renewed federation should take that into account through broader provincial latitudes in certain areas such as immigration, culture, telecommunications, social welfare and health.

There's no reason, Mr. Beaudoin continues, why Quebec shouldn't be given broader dispensation in areas touching on national awareness through some form of asymmetrical federalism. Furthermore, he sees no reason why other provinces shouldn't benefit from increased power in other spheres, as outlined in a 'third option', a form of dualist federalism which would establish two levels of power far more effectively than anything the Prime Minister has come up with.

We need specifics, not generalities. We need hard proposals, concrete policies and four-square positions from the federal government. Until Ottawa can decide what plan of action it will follow, the various ministerial interventions and blandishments is mere crying in the wilderness.

Dissidence divides Muscovite friends

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Outside a Moscow suburban courthouse, two middle-aged Russians glared angrily at each other in a face-to-face confrontation.

"What are you consorting with these foreigners for?" demanded one, waving at Western correspondents a few yards away. "You're nothing but a dirty traitor."

"You don't understand a thing," retorted the other. "You were born a slave and that's the way you'll die."

The antagonists were a uniformed railway worker and a one-time engineer who now is an unemployed dissident activist. Their brief encounter over, both stalked off to rejoin friends standing on opposite sides of the narrow street.

The scene, observed during the recent trial of Yuri Orlov, leader of the Helsinki human rights group, illustrated the gulf between Soviet dissenters and the ordinary citizen whose rights they seek to promote.

HAVE LITTLE IMPACT
 Twelve years after Soviet dissidents began appearing in public, there is little sign that they have had more than a marginal impact on the society around them.

Denied officially as a handful of malcontents ready to slander their motherland for foreign gold, many have been jailed, exiled or committed to psychiatric hospitals.

Yet they have become an enduring presence, with new leaders emerging as older ones disappear into prison or exile in the West. Even Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev found it necessary to refer to them in his keynote speech to the Communist party's 25th congress in 1976.

Dissent in its present form emerged publicly a decade after Nikita Khrushchev denounced the rule of Josef Stalin in 1956 and ushered in a thaw in cultural and social life. Despite many disappointments, the Soviet liberals of the late 1950s and early 1960s believed the trend was toward a more tolerant society.

But when Khrushchev fell from power in 1964, there were immediate fears of a return to something resembling Stalinist rule.

PROVIDES CONTACTS
 These apprehensions were strengthened with the arrest of two writers a year later. Andrei Sinyavsky and poet-translator Yuli Daniel, were subsequently jailed for spreading anti-Soviet propaganda in works they published under pseudonyms in the West.

Their trial provided the catalyst that united other figures inside the literary establishment with a younger generation of dissenters already on the fringes of society.

During the freezing winter days of the hearing, many sympathizers of the accused cast aside traditional Russian reluctance to air problems with foreigners and shared their thoughts with Western correspondents on the street outside.

Quickly reports on the trial were heard on foreign radio stations broadcasting in Russian and the dissenters realized they had found a means of communicating with fellow countrymen.

As trials of other dissidents followed, their numbers swelled as previously isolated groups made contact with the leaders whose names they had heard on Western broadcasts.

An underground dissident house organ called the Chronicle of Current Events made its appearance. It lists arrests, dismissals and other actions by officials against critics of the system.

Inspiration for the dissenters came from writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn, although he kept aloof from any public activity, and later from nuclear physicist Andrei Sakharov, who became the recognized leader.

In 1968, a tiny group staged a short-lived demonstration in Moscow's Red Square to protest the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia which brought an end to Prague's experiment in liberal Communism.

However, in subsequent years they could do little more than issue declarations of sympathy and support for dissenters in Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Romania.

JEW'S JOIN PROTEST

Meanwhile, a new element was introduced at the end of the 1960s with the emergence of a Jewish emigration movement following Israel's victory in the 1967 Middle East war.

Although Soviet officials at first allowed thousands of Jews to leave, many with scientific backgrounds and distinguished careers behind them were refused exit visas. These refuseniks, as they called themselves, quickly associated their cause with those of the dissidents.

Other elements included unofficial Baptists, a large breakaway group from the officially-registered Church, which accused the parent body of subservience to the state, and a handful of Russian Orthodox priests who made similar allegations against their own church hierarchy.

National groups also made contact with the Moscow dissenters. They included Crimean Tartars seeking to return to the homeland from which they were deported in 1944, Ukrainians arguing that their national culture was being consciously submerged by Russian influence, and Soviet Germans seeking to emigrate.

FORMS GROUP

Co-ordination, at least in the publicizing their grievance, came only in 1976 with the formation by Orlov of his group dedicated to monitoring how the Soviet Union lived up to pledges on human rights made at the Helsinki European security conference the previous year.

Human rights, and not a reform of the system as such, has always been the banner of the dissenters who argued that if the constitution of 1936 were fully observed, Soviet society would inevitably change.

Foreign analysts dismiss suggestions that Soviet officials saw any genuine threat that the Helsinki group might encourage disaffection among the population at large.

The Environment Protection Services of Quebec, through its Lake Program, has been carrying out a study of the 1000-foot forestal border around Lake Memphremagog, to determine where the ecology has been disturbed by human intervention. Later, rehabilitation programs will be specified for those property owners interested in restoring the situation, with free trees and shrubs being supplied by Memphremagog Conservation, Inc. and the Environment Protection Services.

Last year the border of the whole of the Township of Stanstead was surveyed. This year, it is planned to do the whole of the Township of Magog.

The Environment Protection Services and M.C.I. are asking property owners in the Township of Magog to make the Lake Programme personnel welcome and to extend to them all the assistance and support they can use. For we are very fortunate, indeed, that our Lake is one of the very few that this part of the Lake Programme is being provided to this year.

I have received a letter from Sutton, Quebec dated May 15th, 1978, unsigned, which commences as follows:

"My people have been in Missisquoi County since the seventeenth hundreds. Why should you tell Manitoba and Alberta what to do when the English in Quebec have no say in anything? When Quebec starts to co-operate with the rest of Canada, then I am all for what you say. Look in our banks in all the small towns; can you find one English Teller in Bank of Montreal, Bedford, or even a Janitor, yet hundreds of English people do their banking there. Same in most all banks in the Eastern Townships. How many English in the Megantic banks, Bury, Scotstown, and in the Post Offices. We don't get a Fair Deal anywhere."

I am most interested in contacting the author of this letter to inform him what is being done by the Positive

Action Committee and to receive his suggestions as to what more can be done to address ourselves to the problems he raises.

I am more than happy to respect his anonymity but would appreciate it if you could publish this letter and ask him to contact the Positive Action Committee office in Montreal at 514-845-8888.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

California taxpayer's revolt bound to happen

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The tax rebellion in California is merely the opening battle of a nationwide revolt against oppressive taxes and government extravaganzas. We have warned in past columns that it was coming.

These budget battles are usually won by the bureaucrats. They strike back by eliminating services and programs that are calculated to outrage the public. This causes a backlash, and the budget cuts are quietly restored.

In California, the bureaucrats undoubtedly will try to slash projects that are dear to the voters' hearts. You can bet the bureaucrats' own perquisites and pet projects will be the last to go.

But our soundings indicate that the taxpayers are more determined this time. They don't begrudge money for legitimate government needs, but they hate to see it wasted. They have lost patience with government agencies that squander their money for frivolous purposes.

California's Gov. Jerry Brown, therefore, can make or break his political career by the way he handles this sudden, severe revenue loss.

If he stops the misspending, he could become a formidable candidate for president. But if he lets the bureaucrats manipulate him and cuts out vital services, he could lose the governorship in November.

The man he would like to displace, Jimmy Carter, has already been bound by the Lilliputians. This is evident in the Pentagon where waste has reached its most alarming peak.

Enormous amounts have been spent on weapons that should never have been built, battles that should never have been fought and perquisites that should never have been permitted. All too often, the main purpose of a new appropriation has been to provide some military chief with better accommodations, more men to command and more gold braid on his uniform.

Occasionally, a lonely hero appears like A. Ernest Fitzgerald, the Air Force cost analyst, who exposed nearly $2 billion in cost overruns in the C5A jet transport program. As his reward, he was hounded out of the Pentagon.

An Air Force memorandum, dated Dec. 10, 1968, and hidden from the public all these years, contains instructions from then-Air Force Secretary Harold Brown to hold back the embarrassing figures from both Congress and the General Accounting Office.

The memo was actually signed by his executive assistant, Col. Brian S. Gunderson. But it clearly implicates Brown in the cover-up of the overruns. The memo also shows that Brown personally criticized Fitzgerald for speaking out about the $2 billion waste and set in motion the first inquiry that led to Fitzgerald's later ouster by the Nixon administration.

It took Fitzgerald four years of costly court battles before he was cleared of the smears. The court ordered the Air Force to restore him to his job and pay him his back salary. But the Air Force has carefully kept him away from any files that could be used to embarrass the brass.

As a presidential candidate fresh from the peanut fields, Jimmy Carter criticized the Republicans for firing Fitzgerald. He solemnly promised, if he should be elected to the White House, "to protect our federal employees from harassment and dismissal if they find out and report waste or dishonesty by their superiors or others."

Carter declared earnestly: "The Fitzgerald case, where a dedicated civil servant was fired from the Defense Department for reporting cost overruns, must never be repeated."

Once Carter was ensconced in the White House, aides sent word to Fitzgerald that the new president would intervene personally to stop the harassment. It was indicated that Fitzgerald would be assigned as a watchdog to keep a sharp eye on major weapons expenditures.

But the promises were never kept. The president, meanwhile, appointed Harold Brown as Defense Secretary. Obviously, the president is taking his advice on Pentagon spending from Brown, not Fitzgerald. And Brown doesn't want a watchdog in the Pentagon. Not even the powerful Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has been able to get Fitzgerald in to see Brown.

Footnote: The reporting on this story was done by the Pulitzer Prize-winning investigative reporter Clark Mollenhoff whom, we are pleased to announce, has joined our staff.

Nicaraguan Plight: We recently reported on the plight of American businessman Arthur Chariton who has been locked up for a year without a trial by Nicaragua's dictator Anastasio Somoza. The dictator apparently is holding Chariton until a Somoza bank recovers money that a Chariton associate allegedly embezzled.

The detention of Chariton, we reported, smacks of ransom. Yet American Ambassador Mauricio Solana, handed Chariton over to Somoza's goons when the distraught businessman sought refuge in the embassy.

Two outraged congressmen, Andrew Maguire, D-N.J., and Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., fired off a private protest to the State Department. "Mr. Chariton," they wrote, "has not enjoyed what we might consider due process of law, nor has he been given the opportunity to exonerate himself through the judicial mechanisms of the Nicaraguan system."

Significantly, the letter added: "We feel that the U.S. government may have acted in haste by returning Mr. Chariton... The State Department might have assumed more of a sympathetic position with respect to Mr. Chariton's contention that the charges against him were fabricated."

Knowlton: Canada Day plans bearing final fruit

By KAY TAYLOR
for The Record
KNOWLTON — After months of preparation, plans for Knowlton's Canada Day celebrations are now bearing final fruit.

As in the past five years, the festivities are being organized and largely financed by the Knowlton Lions Club, in co-operation with the Royal Canadian Legion and the Ladies Auxiliary, Brome Branch 23, the Oddfellows and the Rebekahs, the Fish and Game Club, Brome County Trail Riders Association, Knowlton Pony Club, the Town of Brome Lake and their Fire Department.

The opening ceremonies, scheduled for 9:30 a.m. at the Lions Park, will be completely under the direction of the local branch of The Royal Canadian Legion with Herve Gagne and William Sellars in charge. The 1st Knowlton Cubs, Scouts, Girl Guides and Brownies will be in attendance and invitations have gone out to the Mayor of Town of Brome Lake, Homer Blackwood, the two M.P.'s Heward Graffey and Armand Russell and to the president of the Lions Club, Tom Barr.

Children's games under the direction of Mrs. June Call and her assistants commence at 10 a.m. and continue to noon. During the same period, judging of the Children's Art Contest will take place for the pupils of St. Edouard's Elementary School and Knowlton Academy. This is organized by Mrs. Patsy Dancose and the awards, given by the Ladies Auxiliary, will be presented at noon by Mrs. Velma Smith.

Children's refreshments will be served free of charge from 11 a.m. till noon. The Decorated Bike Contest will take place at the parking lot of the Royal Canadian Legion on Main Street (Knowlton Road) between 12:45 and 2:00 p.m. At 2:00 p.m. the Pierrefonds Pipes and Drum Band will parade through town and contestants in the bike contest will fall in and proceed to the Lions Park. The awards, donated by Colfax Rebekah Lodge will be presented here.

A band concert with a display of highland dancing will commence at 2:30 p.m. The band from Pierrefonds is most popular and their appearance again this year is being looked forward to with keen anticipation. Adult games and teen age games run by Bill Stewart, Jim Battley and the Mizener girls will commence at 1:00 and go on until 3 p.m. The challenge Soft Ball game will follow as the Knowlton Girls

All Stars will challenge the Lions Club team.

A popular feature, the beef barbecue hosted by the Lions Club is taking place from 5 to 6 p.m. It is hoped that the Pipers Band will play again at this time.

Introduced last year, the children's dog show open to those between 6 and 15, proved a great success. It is being arranged again this year by Mrs. Evelyn Blackwood and Mrs. Janet Mizener. There are 10 categories, including best trick, fattest, biggest, tiniest, and funniest.

From 8 to 9:00 p.m. a band concert by the Loudoin Youth Band from Scotland will be featured. They are staying here en route to Cranston, Rhode Island for their July 4th celebrations. During their stay here, they are enjoying hospitality at various homes in the area. A comparatively new band, they have already won much acclaim and their appearance here is being looked forward to with pleasure.

At approximately 9:00 p.m. the fireworks display, sponsored by Lions Club and under the management of Peter Flynn of Town of Brome Lake Fire Department will be a highlight in the day's programme.

Immediately after this the popular Brome Squares will put on a short demonstration of square dancing during which the audience will be invited to participate. This event will flow smoothly into the final feature of the day - dancing under the stars to the music of Sandy Martin and his band. The cost of the orchestra is being paid by the Legion. It is specially planned as a family affair with dancing for the young and old alike.

During the day, there will be fun games on the grounds under the Brome Co. Trail Riders. A number of boutiques will offer handicrafts, food, antiques and other articles. Anyone wishing to have a booth please contact Mrs. Maya Lightbody at 243-6467.

Town of Brome Lake Police will supervise traffic and St. John Ambulance have volunteered their services for the day. Beyond any spending at the boutiques and parking expenses, the entire festival will be completely free. Proceeds from the parking will help defray the expenses of the Canada Day celebrations.

Fete Nationale program planned

SHERBROOKE (AF) — "On fete, le Quebec est au monde" is the theme of this year's Fete Nationale du Quebec and the 35 projects subsidized by the Comite national in the Townships.

The regional budget of $62,205 is expected to cover events attracting nearly 175,000 residents of 24 municipalities in the Eastern Townships. Last year's Fete was celebrated by only three municipalities of the region and it was accorded only about $15,000.

For the first time, the organizing has been assigned to local volunteers in keeping with the idea of bringing the Fete to the people.

Andree Clement, regional president of the Comite organisateur de la fete nationale, said Townships no longer will be invited to pre-organized parties. Instead, they will be encouraged to organize their own fete in ways in keeping with their own particular areas within the region, she said.

Clement said there were 42 requests for technical and financial aid and that each was evaluated according to the participation of people and groups in each area, the tie-in with other fetes, to allow attendance expectations and the degree of municipal involvement.

In the spring of last year, the Quebec government announced June 24 to be the Fete Nationale and it was this spring that responsibility for the celebrations was assigned to Claude Charron, minister responsible for sports and recreation. The provincial government also recognized the comite organisateur de la fete nationale du Quebec as the overseer and chief author of the fete and granted $2.4 million for the fete's organization.

With the help of the technical and financial support of the organizing committee, the province's entire population is encouraged to participate in the festivities in their own manner, to their own taste and rhythm, their culture and their particular aspirations.

The Townships organizing committee, formed on April 5 this year during a public assembly covers festivities in Sherbrooke, St-Romain, Lac Megantic, Scottown, Marlinton, East Angus, Chartierville, La Patrie, Asbestos, Windsor, Valcourt, St. Denis de Brompton, Bromptonville, Deauville, North Hatley, Rock Forest, Omerville, Fitch Bay, Magog, Stanstead, Beebe, Coaticook, St. Elie d'Orford and Rock Island.

All church bells will ring together between 9:30 and 10 a.m. on June 24 and festivities are to begin at 10. All celebrations of the arts, musical, visual, dramatic, etc., hopefully will be scheduled in the evenings so as to allow artisans to demonstrate how their creations come about. Educational activities such as historical rallies for students are also to be a major part of the celebrations, as is the opportunity to pay homage to those municipalities which are also celebrating their anniversaries.

There was an average last year of 42 vendors of all kinds; produce, handicrafts, antiques, paintings etc. were offered.

This year there will be some art demonstrations and some music; also a large auction planned for the end of August.

seven different artists will display their paintings each Saturday.

The influx over the past few years of well known artists and artisans who have made their home in the area, promises a high standard of work.

A new roof was built last year and a little snack bar added. The two days of "The Little Fair in the Valley" was initiated and will be repeated this year on July 29 and August 26. There will be many additional vendors normally not present at the market.

There was an average last year of 42 vendors of all kinds; produce, handicrafts, antiques, paintings etc. were offered.

This year there will be some art demonstrations and some music; also a large auction planned for the end of August.

Sutton Market opens season

SUTTON (KT) — The Saturday Market opens for the ninth season on June 17 at 11 a.m.

For the opening day there will be a concentration of antiques. Some 10 regional antiquers will be at the market, among others will be Ola Carr of Sutton and Chuck and Audrey McCaw of the "Stag-Mill Antiques" in Abercorn.

This year "The Painters' Corner" has been added and places of interest. Mr. Feeney said when the next newsletter comes out all the information will be there. About 20 from the Ayer's Cliff Club said they would like to go.

Mr. Charron spoke about the pasture or wheat contest and several took forms to be filled out to enter. The only stipulation is that one must be a member of the Stanstead County Agricultural Society. There is good prize money offered, a judge will visit the farm of all persons entered.

Mr. Charron then showed a commentary and slides on Agriculture in the Eastern Townships and another on certified seed.

Several of the women folk served refreshments during the social hour.

QFA meets

AYER'S CLIFF (IH) — Members of the Ayer's Cliff Club, Quebec Farmers' Association, gathered in the IOOF hall in Ayer's Cliff on Thursday evening, June 1 for business and the program.

Douglas McKinnon, the president was in the chair and welcomed all, especially Douglas Johnston and Jim Feeney, the Q.F.A. President from Stanstead and Secretary from Macdonald College, also Daniel Charron, the area agronomist from Coaticook, all of whom contributed to the program.

Mr. Feeney noted that the QFA has a record membership this year of over 700 members. He said that grants are available to farmers; that the Farm and Country newspaper goes to all members as does the newsletter. He mentioned the "new look" of the newsletter. There is a new fieldman working in Lachute area.

The Ayer's Cliff club set the date of August 6 for the annual picnic, the place to be announced. At the same time a short meeting will be held to plan for the Ayer's Cliff Fair canteen. The next general meeting will be held in September.

Mr. Feeney and Mr. Johnston with the Ayer's Cliff group discussed the QFA trip to tour Ontario. This trip includes members from all area clubs and will start on July 23 for a four or five-day trip that will include a visit to top farms, museums, Niagara Falls and other

Young farmers club meet

AYER'S CLIFF (IH) — The Hatley 4-H young farmers Club arranged their second annual achievement day at their May meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. Dileen Brus at Ayer's Cliff.

This is sponsored by the Stanstead County Agricultural Society and is in preparation for the fair exhibits in August. It will be held at the fair grounds on Sunday, June 4, starting at 9:00 a.m. and is open to all young, French and English, the only ruling is that the parents must be members of the Agricultural Society. Douglas Johnston told the club this is made possible through a grant.

At the May meeting all gathered in the Brus barn where a class of mature Jerseys were judged. Douglas Johnston was official judge and announced several tied for first place in the results in both the junior and the senior classes. They were Kathy Little, Martha Kydd, Joanne Antink, and her sisters Cecile and Pauline. In the pee-wees Pamela Hatch placed first.

Afterwards all gathered in the Brus home and the business of the evening took place after opening with the 4-H pledge and the roll call by 22 members and adult leaders present.

Two new members were welcomed, Lisa and Dana Campbell of Massawippi.

The secretary's report was read and the financial statement presented. It was noted both the dance and the card party had been a success and added a good amount to the treasury. A report was also given on the Ayrshire judging day held in Richmond.

Brenda Hatch, Martha Kydd, Carol Ann Cunningham and John Cote will be going from this club to Alberta on the exchange program.

At the merit competition "group study of a farm", Hatley club placed second at the Richmond level. A vote of thanks was given to Douglas Johnston for donating the Club correspondence paper with their own heading.

The meeting adjourned and all enjoyed the hospitality and refreshments of the Brus home during the social period.

Card Parties

HUNTINGVILLE — At the 500 card party held in the Community hall on May 3rd, cards were played at 10 tables.

Prizes went to Winnie Sylvester, Sylvia Tyler, Irene Ross for the ladies and to Douglas Robinson, Cecil Tyler and Leslie Hetherington.

The door prizes were claimed by Reggie Dewing, Lloyd Johnston, Stanley Chute, Mrs. Joan Smith, Gordon Robinson, and Gertrude Hetherington.

The Grocery Box was won by Mrs. Beth Cullen.

The Huntingville Ladies Aid held their last card party of the season in the Community Hall on May 17, with ten tables playing.

The ladies prizes went to Gertrude Hetherington, Mildred McVetty, Alberta Cutler, Men's prizes, John Learmonth, Howard Neeley, Ernie Ross.

Door prizes claimed by Charles McKee, Mina Morrison, Helen Chartier, Douglas Robinson, and Dorothy Learmonth.

Grocery Box went to Mrs. Fred Walker.

WCC museum visit

On Thursday, June 1, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts played host to members of the Women's Canadian Club of the Eastern Townships. This trip to the Museum was successfully planned and organized by some of the Club's executive and was the first of its kind to be offered.

On a chartered bus, with a courteous and competent driver, 47 ladies journeyed from Sherbrooke and areas to Montreal, arriving in time to enjoy a delicious buffet luncheon prepared and served at the museum. Tours of the building, under the direction of capable and knowledgeable guides, were the highlight of the visit. The delights of the Museum were shown, explained and appreciated. Free time followed the guided tours, during which one could browse through the gift shop, have a snack in the restaurant or pursue more of the works of art, sculpture and fascinating exhibits.

This day was most pleasant and worthwhile and proved so popular that another identical trip took place on June 8. It is the wish of the Canadian Club that similar outings can be part of their programmes scheduled in future. With this in mind, why not become a member?

Ann Landers says

A beautiful tribute...

Dear Ann Landers: After reading "Something To Live For" I feel compelled to write. I, too, was the child of an unselfish natural mother, who 53 years ago, for reasons known only to her, relinquished her rights to her newly born son. How lucky I was to have been adopted by the world's greatest couple.

My adoptive parents were not people of wealth or social position. Our home was small and modest, but it abounded in love. Discipline was strict, but this, too embraces their special kind of caring.

The practice of adopting children was not widely practiced at that time and family and friends were not very receptive in viewing my parents' claim to parenthood.

Ann, maybe somewhere in your vast audience there is a woman who, 53 years ago, made this unselfish sacrifice. Perhaps my letter will help dispel any reservations she may have had regarding her decision.

Thank you for the privilege of expressing my innermost feelings concerning the three persons who have directed my life. God bless them. — A Lucky One

Dear Lucky: What a beautiful tribute. I'm sure your letter made many people happy today.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a high school student who needs to know a few things about people and how they get to where they are. Can you tell me what makes one person so much better than the other when it comes to wrestling — or music or math or basketball? Is practice the answer or do you have to be born with talent? Sign me — Ignorant

Dear Friend: We are ALL ignorant — only on different subjects. As for your question: Certain talents can be inherited — such as a beautiful voice or musical ability — but even the gifted ones must work at developing their talents.

All men (and women) are not created equal. Some are born with physical characteristics, such as size, that equip them for certain sports — for example, the superb jockey, the star basketball player, the terrific football player. But even these gifts aren't enough to produce champions.

To achieve great success in any field requires a combination of natural ability, discipline, dedication, determination, inspiration — and a lot of perspiration.

Crayon marks on the wall

By Polly Cramer

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I have some colored crayon marks on a wall painted with latex paint. Is there any way I can remove such marks without having to repaint the wall? I also have ink spots on a green leather chair and hope you have some answers. — JOAN

DEAR JOAN — When her children were small one of my daughters-in-law removed crayon marks from painted walls with toothpaste.

If your chair is real leather washable ink can be removed with a leather soap — follow directions. Mild soapsuds might even do it, but anything must be followed by the use of a leather conditioning dressing. If you are using the word "leather" loosely and your chair is covered with a leather-like plastic fabric ink should be removed immediately with an alcohol dampened cloth. Wipe away with a cloth wrung out of clear water and then rub dry with another dry cloth. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I am retired and find your column most helpful. When screwing a top on a bottle or a lid on a jar turn it back until it seats itself. It will then go on easily. This also applies to placing a nut on a screw. — FRANCES

TORONTO (CP) — Wayne Garrett not only dresses the part for his job, but he feels eminently qualified as well.

A chimney sweep, Garrett goes about his work in traditional top hat, dinner jacket and assorted tools of the trade.

And to support his intensive research into the job, he became a client of the small business consulting service of the University of Toronto's faculty of management studies.

The group of 12 business school students said they devoted 12 man-days or about 80 hours to the Garrett enterprise and came up with two main sets of recommendations for him.

One was a system on how to keep his books and the other involved marketing strategy.

For example, they directed him to the biggest demand area for his type of service, helped him get the needed publicity and advised him to engage a telephone answering service.

Garrett, 26, bought the top hat from a theatrical costumier for $13 and the dinner jacket and trousers from a Salvation Army store for $5.

EXPLORES DEPTHS

He explored the intricacies of Victorian-era chimneys by working on the old Massey mansion in downtown Toronto.

Now, after three months on the job, Garrett said he has collected a dozen or so letters of recommendation and is listed with the Home Service Club.

"I wouldn't be anywhere near where I am today if it wasn't for those men (at the university)," he said.

The student consulting group charges $25 a man-day and has about 40 clients on its list.

It said its fee compares with between $100 and $300 charged by regular consultants and has the backing of the Ontario tourism and industry ministry.

It has operated as a student summer service for a number of years but now hopes to become a year-round operation.

Does Garrett intend to make a career of chimney sweeping?

"Darn right," he said. "It fills a need and with more woodburning stoves coming, it's just getting started."

Summer recipe ideas...

The key ingredient to slumber party success is an abundance of the right kinds of foods.

For snack time at the party, have plenty of fresh California-Arizona oranges to refresh and satisfy, along with cookies and fresh lemonade.

How about these spectacular new sandwiches made with fish and tuna. Lemon Tartar Fishwiches combine the popularity of hamburgers with easy frozen fish cakes instead of ground beef. The fresh lemony flavoured sauce gives it extra pizzazz.

Tuna Sandwich by the Inch is just the kind of fare to appeal to young appetites. It's fun to prepare (the longer the better) and a treat to eat.

With this kind of healthful and delicious menu, the slumber parties at your house are bound to be the best around.

- LEMON TARTAR FISHWICHES
- 1 packaged (12 ounces) frozen fried fish cakes or fillets
 - 3 teaspoons fresh squeezed lemon juice
 - 3/4 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
 - 2 tablespoons finely chopped dill pickle
 - 2 tablespoons finely chopped green onion

- 1 tablespoon chopped canned pimiento (optional)
- 1 teaspoon fresh grated lemon peel
- 6 hamburger buns, lightly toasted
- 1 large tomato, sliced
- Lettuce

Sprinkle frozen fish cakes with 2 teaspoons lemon juice; cook according to package directions. Meanwhile, to make sauce, combine mayonnaise, dill pickle, green onion, pimiento, lemon peel and remaining 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Spread sauce on hamburger buns; layer with fish, tomato and lettuce. Makes 6 sandwiches.

TUNA SANDWICH BY THE INCH

- 2 cans (about 7 ounces each) tuna, well drained, flaked
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
- Grated peel and juice of 1/2 fresh lemon
- 1 long loaf French bread (about 1 pound)
- Lettuce
- 1 avocado, sliced
- 1/2 red onion, sliced, separated into rings
- 3 slices sharp process cheese, cut diagonally

In bowl, combine tuna, mayonnaise, celery, relish, lemon peel and juice. Cut French bread in half lengthwise; layer with tuna mixture, lettuce, avocado, red onion and cheese. Garnish with stuffed olives and cucumber slices if desired. To serve, cut into thick slices. Makes 6 servings.

Note: To prevent avocado slices from darkening, dip in additional fresh lemon juice.

A COOL SUMMER WITH FRESH CITRUS DRINKS

One way to beat the summer heat is to make your own refreshing drinks at home. Use lots of fresh oranges and lemons to insure a really great fresh flavour plus the added bonus of Vitamin C. You'll find California-Arizona oranges and lemons reasonably priced and in great abundance. So enjoy!

For quick always ready, serve-yourself drinks, keep this lemon tea recipe on tap in the refrigerator:

- FRESH LEMON TEA SYRUP BASE
- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
 - 8 tea bags
 - 3/4 cup sugar
 - 2 teaspoons fresh grated lemon peel
 - Juice of 6 fresh lemons (1 cup)

Pour boiling water over tea bags; steep 5 minutes. Remove tea bags. Add sugar, lemon peel and juice; stir to dissolve sugar. Store in covered container in refrigerator. Makes about 2 1/2 cups base.

Lemon Tea by the glass:

- 1/2 cup lemon tea syrup base
- 3/4 cup cold water
- Ice cubes

In large glass, combine all ingredients; stir well. Makes about 1 cup.

Lemon Tea by the pitcher:

- 2 1/2 cups lemon tea syrup base
- 6 cups cold water
- Ice cubes

In large pitcher, combine all ingredients; stir well. Makes about 8 1/2 cups (eight 8-ounce servings).

COOL 'N SPICED LEMON TEA

- 3 cups boiling water
- 6 tea bags
- 3 sticks cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup fresh squeezed lemon juice
- 1 1/2 cups cold water
- Ice cubes

Pour boiling water over tea bags, cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg; steep 5 minutes. Remove tea bags and cinnamon sticks. Stir in sugar, lemon juice and cold water; chill. Serve over ice with cinnamon stick stirrers if desired. Makes seven 6-ounce servings.

SUMMER ORANGE SMOOTHIE

- 1 large California-Arizona orange, peeled, cut into chunks
- 1/2 cup fresh squeezed orange juice
- 1/2 of a litre container vanilla ice cream

Orange half-cartwheels

In blender, combine all ingredients except orange half-cartwheels; blend until smooth. Pour into 4 small brandy snifters or other stemmed glasses. Garnish with orange half-cartwheel slices. Makes four 5-ounce servings.

Alcoholic version: Add 1/4 cup orange-flavoured liqueur or brandy.

Recovery from heart attack

DEAR DR. LAMB — About four months ago I had an attack of chest pain and was hospitalized for 10 days. The blood tests were OK, but the electrocardiogram showed that I had a myocardial infarction. About six weeks later I went back to the hospital and had enzyme tests that showed I'd had some more heart muscle damage and so I was hospitalized. After I got out of the hospital that time I didn't have any more chest pains. I take Inderal four times a day and walk about one mile a day for exercise.

Now I'm getting some tightness across my chest when I take my walking exercises. I can relieve this with nitroglycerin. Do you feel that all these attacks were coming from the same artery that was closing off? How long will I have this soreness and discomfort in my left chest? Will I have to take the Inderal the rest of my life? I am 54 years old and was in good health before my attack although I was a heavy smoker. I have completely quit smoking and my weight is about normal. Should I expect to return to work and lead a normal life? My personal doctor expects me to be off work six months.

DEAR READER — It's impossible to know which or how many arteries were involved in causing you to have heart problems without special X-ray dye studies that outline the coronary arteries themselves. It is probably true that the major difficulty that caused the heart muscle damage (myocardial infarction) was caused by the progressive blockage of one coronary artery, but that doesn't mean that you couldn't also have disease in the other major arteries to the heart.

The key to deciding what should be done to evaluate you further and what you should do in the future depends on how well you recover at this point. The chest discomfort that you are experiencing with exertion suggests that you still have some problem of providing sufficient circulation to your heart muscle. This is probably due to the blockage of your coronary arteries that caused the heart attack in the first place. The tightness or squeezing across the chest is a frequent way that inadequate circulation to the heart muscle causes discomfort.

I'm glad you have quit smoking because that should help a great deal. In addition you should make every effort possible to decrease your weight to the point that there is no evidence of any significant fat deposits under your skin, regardless of what the bathroom scales read. The thinner you are and the longer you stay that way the better chance you may have of cleaning out some of the fatty-cholesterol blockage in the arteries of your body.

There have been some good experiments done on monkeys that demonstrate reversal of fatty-cholesterol deposits when the diet is completely changed. You should also be on a very low-fat, particularly low saturated fat, and a low-cholesterol diet and limit your salt.

For Wednesday, June 14 ASTRO-GRAPH Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

June 14, 1978

A new personality, far more independent and strong-willed than you've possessed in the past, could be developed this coming year. It will open new channels for your creative talents.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be shocked to discover you're a trifle more assertive than usual today in promoting your interests. You'll do so without tramping on others. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you take the time today to analyze your innermost feelings, you could determine what's been disturbing you. A new self-awareness may emerge.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An excellent day to go to your friends for counsel or to mull things over. You'll be able to see conditions much clearer once they are discussed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The odds are slightly in your favor today in competitive situations because you're more able to keep your mind on the basics.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you think you have something worth saying, talk to the proper people now. They'll be receptive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It would be difficult to keep things hidden from you today. Your natural detective instincts are especially astute and keen.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today is the day to take care of situations that need unifying. You can see all the factors and have the ability to bring them together.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is something that you can now do if you put your mind to it to benefit your career. When the boss sees you're serious, you will get his cooperation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Nice things are being said about you today because you have been saving pretty nifty and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The friends you should be most solicitous of are members of your own family. Today a couple of them could prove they'll stand by you when the chips are down.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The more complex the situation, the better you like it. Your mind is quick and nimble today. It's looking for a challenge.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Because you put no limitations on your thinking today you'll be fast at spotting new sources to add to your material welfare.

Rock Island, Beebe museums open for the season

At the opening of the Stanstead Historical Society museum, several of the people who had contributed to the "Heritage of New Canadians exhibit", wore their native costumes.

BEEBE (IH) — The official opening for the season of the museum in Beebe in Saturday, June 1, and the Barn museum in Rock Island on June 2 were two happy days for the Stanstead Historical Society executive.

The Canadiana room in the Beebe museum features "The Heritage of New Canadians" and displays many items from the homelands of ten families from Sweden, Egypt, Denmark, Holland, Greece, Indonesia, Vietnam, India, Austria and Germany, that were viewed by hundred of visitors on opening day.

Several of the New Canadians were wearing their native costumes and cookies of their countries were served.

The visitors were welcomed at the entrance by the society president, Malcolm MacDonald, and invited to sign the register. They came from: Montreal, New York, Berlin, Germany, Magog, Ayer's Cliff, Sherbrooke, Tomifobia, Massawippi, Lennoxville, Waterville, Pierrefonds, Cambridge, Vt.; North Hatley, Westmount, Georgeville, Unionville, Conn., Coaticook, Santiago, Chile; and the Border Communities, Derby and Newport.

In the C.C. Colby Memorial Room, Mrs. Malcolm MacDonald served wine, fruit punch, and cookies. Mrs. Eric Morrison of Massawippi is Chair lady of the Canadiana room.

The exhibits will remain until after Labor Day weekend and the general public is invited to drop in at any time. Groups are also welcome.

The Barn museum is also open and all are invited to see some past history there too. There is no admission charge for either.

W.H.&F.M. Society

BEEBE PLAIN — The May session of the W.H. and F.M. Society was held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Ashman in Stanstead when six members and one guest attended.

Rev. Beulah Purkiser led the devotional period and Mrs. Mildred Woodard conducted the business session.

Routine reports were read and accepted also correspondence given attention.

Mrs. Woodard stated she had sold two quilts and several pot holders, all adding to the bank balance.

A food sale was held which brought in a substantial sum.

Following the business session, articles were made for the July summer sale held on campground during campmeeting week.

Each member furnished food for the delicious lunch served late in the afternoon.

Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Ashman for her hospitality.

Date of June meeting will be announced later.

Rebekah Lodge News

SAWYERVILLE — A regular meeting of Wilhelmina Rebekah Lodge was held in the Lodge room with Sister Mayotta Taylor N.G. presiding and twelve members and two visitors present.

Lodge opened in regular form. It was reported that Sister Painter had to be back in hospital for a few days but now home and is gaining some. Sister Taylor visited Sister Hurley while she was in hospital.

A bill was read and ordered paid. A petition for membership transfer was read.

Sister Olive Twyman P.D.D.P. will be our representative to the Assembly Sessions in Granby in May and a room was to be reserved for her and another going with her, also two banquet tickets to be ordered.

Sister Marie Nutbrown sang In the Garden with Sister Mabel Mackay at the piano.

Sister Povey congratulated Sister Taylor on her meeting and said she was pleased to see our two new members with us, Sisters Hilda Morrison and Marjorie French.

Lodge closed in regular form.

SWEETSBURG WARD by JOHN McCAGHEY

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Gaetan Roy, of Windsor Mills, changed his option and pleaded guilty to a charge of complicity to commit an armed robbery in Cowansville, February 6, qualified robbery while masked, and possession of an offensive weapon with the intent to commit a crime in Cowansville, February 7.

Defence lawyer Peter Turner told the court his client had tried to dissuade his accomplice who owned and shortened the weapon as well as the tuques the men were wearing as disguises. "He had succeeded and they were leaving the scene without committing the crime when the police arrived," Mr. Turner said. "Unfortunately his good faith couldn't be proven. He had prior trouble with motorcycle gangs and came to Cowansville to start a new life until this sad day marred his chances.

"He has been detained for four months and I feel a one-year sentence would amply serve the interests of justice."

Crown attorney Yves Lagace agreed with the remarks of the defence - then suggested the court impose a probation order following his release.

Judge Gerard Normandin said the period of preventative detention was the equivalent of eight months imprisonment, then sentenced Roy to one year and placed him on a two-year probation following his release. He then ordered the weapon confiscated for the profit of the provincial attorney-general's office.

Art exhibition opens at Centre

COWANSVILLE (KT) — An exhibition of interest opens at the Cowansville Art Centre when there will be a display of work by Eve Gossage. The Vernissage on Wednesday, June 14, opens the event and the exhibition will be open to the public on Saturday and Sunday June 17 and 18 and on the same days the following week, June 24 and 25 from 2 to 5 p.m. For groups or others who cannot attend at these times, please call 263-0636 to make arrangements.

Eve Gossage was born in Germany and from the age of 12 attended a variety of evening classes and studied at The Academy in Berlin.

During a prolonged stay in Alexandria, Egypt, she formed, with a few other painters, a painters' club known as L'Atelier, where exhibitions were held. Today, it is an important association of artists from all manner of fields.

In Canada, at Montreal, she had a display studio for a number of years. She was then known as Eve Lawes and specialised in arrangements for store windows, showrooms and exhibitions. She switched back to painting full time about 18 years ago and arranged several private showings in Toronto before moving to Winnipeg. Here, she exhibited with an Association of Artists at The Manitoba Art Gallery as well as at the Fleet Gallery and Polo Park. She also exhibited in group in Brandon, Manitoba. Later, in Montreal, she held a one-man show at Gemst Gallery.

Eve Gossage is now residing permanently in Sutton. This is her first solo exhibition in this area.

She now works under the nom de plume, "hu-GO-". She says "perhaps a whim or maybe time for a change."

She does oils, pastels and quash on occasion and loves doing portraits, also features varied other subjects - flowers, landscapes and still-life.

ACW meeting

KNOWLTON (KT) — St. Paul's A.C.W. held two meetings during May. Both were well attended and business reports satisfactory. Handicrafts were being carried out by many members in preparation for the Garden Party and Sale taking place on Wednesday, July 5.

Refreshments were served at both meetings by Mrs. Else Syberg and Mrs.

Marguerite Blunt, respectively.

The Spring Buffet Supper which took place on May 27 was enjoyed by all who attended. The A.C.W. president, Mrs. Elsie Stanbridge extends grateful thanks to those who helped, by working, donating, or by their presence, thus making this event such an outstanding success both socially and financially.

Obituary

GERALD C. BENNETT
(Formerly of Brookbury)

The death of Gerald Carrol
Bennett occurred May 7, 1978
at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital after an illness of less than four months.

He was born April 8, 1926,
in Brookbury and received his elementary and secondary education at Brookbury and Bury schools. He attended Stanstead College and then Macdonald College where he received his
Intermediate Teaching
Diploma. His earliest teaching assignments were at Georgeville, Ste.
Malachie, and Granby
before he accepted a position in September 1949 with the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal.

In 1953 he attained his BA from Sir George Williams
University and in 1969 his M
Ed. from the University of Maine. At the time of his death, as Principal of Algonquin School, T.M.R. he was in his thirty-fourth year of the teaching profession, twenty-nine of those with the PSBGM, which included a two-year assignment with the Canadian Forces in Germany and France, 1954-
56.

He leaves to deeply mourn his passing his parents, Mr.
and Mrs. Carrol Bennett of Bishopton, his brothers and sisters; Janice (Mrs.
Warren Soutiere) of Stanstead, Robert of Bishopton,
Walter of Ottawa, Lewella
(Mrs. Gordon Bailey) of Knowlton, Violet (Mrs.
Stuart Main) of Bishopton;
an aunt, Mrs. Hazel Bennett,
Verdun; several nieces,
nephews, and cousins, as well as friends from all over the world.

The remains rested at Clarke, McGillvary, and White Funeral Home in Montreal for one day for the visitation by his many friends and teaching associates. The following day visitation was at the Bishopton Funeral Home with the service on Wednesday, May 10, in the Bishopton United Church at 2 p.m.

One of his favorite musical selections "Beyond the Sunset" was played by Mrs.
Norma Jenkinson. Rev.
Simons and Rev. Blizard offered understanding and peaceful thoughts to the family and friends, these including representatives from his staff of Algonquin School.

The bearers were Durwood Dougherty, Clayton
Grey, Cedric Jenkinson,
Allan Martin, Patrick
Berard and Hany Chehata.
Interment was in the family plot in Brookbury.

Bud, or Gerry, lived for others. His wit, his ability to organize, and his compassion characterized every phase of his life. He wished to learn and he wished to travel, and he had accomplished both to the utmost degree. His energy seemed endless and this was evident in his greatest dream, the home for his retirement at Robinson Bay, Brome Lake.

A quote written into one of Bud's notebooks, and used by Rev. Blizard in speaking to the family, would make a fitting epitaph - "Learn as though you were to live forever; live as though you were to die tomorrow."

Relatives and friends attending were from the Bishopton - Bury area,
Stanstead, Ottawa,
Knowlton, Toronto, Calgary,
South Paris, Me., Montreal and Lennoxville.

ROCK ISLAND
Candy Thayer
876-2460

Mrs. Richard Ellis of Rock Island arrived home on May 21st from England, where she spent a month visiting relatives and attending her niece's wedding. It was the first time in 24 years that the whole family was united together.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Miller of Lennoxville were Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Frederico of Rock Island. Master Ian Rice of Rock Island was recently in Montreal visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rice for a few days.

Mr. Roy Chamberlain of Rock Island spent a leisurely week's vacation from Butterfields at home.

Mrs. Ruth Ashman of Stanstead recently spent two days at Macdonald College in Ste. Anne de Bellevue, as a Stanstead North W.I. delegate for the 64th Annual W.I. convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lloyd of Stanstead were recently in Scotstown visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haskell Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd also motored to Massachusetts where they visited their two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Reed and family of Lunenburg and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elston of Ayer, Mass. They all attended the graduation of their granddaughter, Miss Karen Reed.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Waite and daughter Ann Marie and Mrs. Duchesne were Mother's Day weekend guests of Mrs. Ethel Wood in Beebe. Mr. and Mrs. Danny Noel of St. Elie were Mother's Day callers and Mr. and Mrs. John Galazzo and family were also callers at the same home.

Mr. Ronald Waite of Toronto telephoned his mother, Mrs. Ethel Wood on Sunday morning to wish her a Happy Mother's Day.

Miss Joyce Snyder of Macdonald College, Montreal, Mr. Greg Snyder, St. John's, Newfoundland and Miss Corinne Flitton of Toronto were all visitors of their grandmother Mrs. Ruby Greer. Miss Ann Ronald of Montreal was also a caller at the home of Mrs. Greer in Stanstead.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dewey and Mrs. Doris Belanger were Sunday evening visitors of Mrs. Winnie Bilodeau in Bromptonville.

Miss Linda Sayers of Compton and Miss Wendy Cox of Rock Island were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Sayers in Tomifobia. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lazenby and family of North Hatley were Sunday callers at the same home.

MVRHS awards scholarships

The scholarships and awards committee of Massey-Vanier High School held its annual awards ceremony on Tuesday, May 30 at 3:45 p.m. in the school cafeteria, with about 250 people in attendance. On Graduation Day, the Awards Committee informs the graduates whether or not they have been successful, and the prizes are actually presented at a ceremony held the following week.

Prizewinners and their parents and teachers, as well as representatives of the business firms concerned were on hand for this assembly. Refreshments were provided by the adult-education cooking class.

In addition to the companies and associations named in the following, support was received from the Kiwanis Club of Granby, Carrol & Ackman, I.B.M., Cowansville Building Supplies, Consumers' Glass and many teachers and friends.

The Awards Committee reports that there were 39 applications, and that it was possible to award 21 scholarships from the resources available. It was especially borne in mind that every student going on to further education from Massey-Vanier must find living accommodation away from home.

The results were as follows:

Jobless rate remains unchanged

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of unemployed fell by 66,000 during May from a month earlier to an actual level of 933,000, Statistics Canada reported today.

But the jobless rate, adjusted for seasonal variations, remained unchanged from the previous two months at a post-1930s high of 8.6 per cent of the work force. The number of unemployed peaked at 1,045,000 in March, before falling to 999,000 in April. In May a year ago, there were 824,000 on the jobless rolls.

The actual jobless rate in May was 8.4 per cent, down from 9.3 per cent in April but well above the 7.7 per cent actual rate in May last year.

The number of people working was up to 10,118,000 last month from 9,752,000 in April. A year ago, there were 9,822,000 working.

Job opportunities for men improved slightly in May, but for women unemployment rates rose. The jobless rate for men aged 15 to 24 eased to 15.8 per cent from 16.1 per cent in April, while for men 25 and over it was unchanged at 5.4 per cent.

But for women in the 15-to-24 age group, unemployment increased to 14.2 per cent in May from 13.4 per cent in the previous month, and for women 25 and over it rose to eight per cent from 7.8 per cent.

Unemployment rates, seasonally adjusted, fell in six provinces in May. But the rates rose in four others, including the industrial provinces of Ontario, British Columbia and Quebec that have the largest provincial work forces, as well as in Newfoundland.

As in the past, Newfoundland had the highest provincial unemployment rate. It had 17.9 per cent of its work force jobless, up from 16.3 per cent in April and the highest rate this year.

But there was an improvement in the other Atlantic provinces.

Prince Edward Island's unemployment rate eased to 10.1 per cent in May from 11.1 per cent in the previous month. The rate fell to 10.8 per cent from 11 per cent in Nova Scotia, and to 12.9 per cent in May from 14 per cent in New Brunswick.

In Quebec, the jobless rate rose to 11.5 per cent of the province's work force in May from 11.2 per cent in April.

The Ontario jobless rate was also at the highest level so far this year, as 7½ per cent of the work force was out of work, up from 7.4 per cent in April.

Chretien sticks to tax plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The mystery of how Quebec will get its money under the federal budget was solved Monday when Finance Minister Jean Chretien made an off-the-cuff announcement he will stick with his plan to give taxpayers in the province 1977 income tax rebates. For two weeks, Chretien resisted all Opposition and press efforts to get him to specify exactly how Quebecers will be paid. All he would say was he would decide between his early plan of 1977 tax rebates or a second plan to cut 1978 income taxes. The rebate is to give Quebecers the money the province would have received if it had agreed to a federal government proposal to make an across-the-board cut in its eight-per-cent sales tax.

The minister's announcement means $85 cheques to the majority of Quebec taxpayers could be in the mail within a few weeks.

However, taxpayers will not keep the federal money long. Their provincial government has already announced it will take it from them in some manner - higher provincial income tax or some more "imaginative" method.

The Quebec government told the federal government in a letter last week it is willing to accept either 1977 rebates or 1978 tax cuts.

Chretien said the government will again limit debate on the tax bill.

Mac's moving in...

A McDonald's restaurant will soon be built on the site of Magog's former Battle's House, destroyed by fire in August 1944. Above, cleanup work was conducted this past week, prior to commencement of construction on the site of three previous hotels which was once the hub of commerce in this lakeside tourist centre. To many Magog citizens the restaurant will be a detriment to the residential atmosphere; to others, it's just another attraction for Magog - only time will tell, as city fathers refrain from intervention, pro or con.

MUST END MONDAY

Clause-by-clause debate on the bill, which began last week, must be completed by next Monday under the time limit Chretien announced.

Finance officials think the bill may be approved by June 23.

The bill institutes the measures of the April 10 budget. Most of Monday was spent examining technical changes in the Income Tax Act contained in the budget.

These changes already have been put into effect and need parliamentary approval only to cement them in law.

The federal-Quebec dispute began two days after Chretien introduced his budget.

Obituary

CLARENCE M. POWERS of East Farnham

Clarence Martin Powers, the last member of a family of five children born to the late Edward Powers and wife Margaret Clark Powers, of Farnham Centre, passed peacefully away in his home on May 13, 1978 in his 91st year.

On September 12, 1922, he married Muriel Olivia Mahannah, of Cook's Corner, in the Bishop Stewart Memorial Church, Freighsburg, and took up residence on the Powers farm, Farnham Centre. Advancing age prompted him to sell the family farm, jointly owned by the late George Powers and himself, and come to East Farnham to live some twenty-five years ago.

Surviving members are his wife Muriel, of East Farnham and only child, Merne Powers of Toronto, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Muriel Powers of Brigham, wife of the late Clark Powers, twin brother of Clarence.

Funeral service was held from C.E. Wilson and Son Funeral Chapel, at 11 a.m. on May 15 with interment in Riverside Cemetery, East Farnham.

The bearers were Carl Gibson, Jacques Touchette, Frederick Sanborn, Norman Jones, Harold Mahannah and Malcolm Jones.

Laskin hospitalized

TORONTO (CP) — Chief Justice Bora Laskin of the Supreme Court of Canada has been returned to the coronary care unit of Toronto Western Hospital, a hospital spokesman said Monday.

Cathleen Wright said Mr. Justice Laskin, 65, was in stable condition but said she had no other information.

MNA in satisfactory condition

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Maurice Bellemare, veteran Union Nationale member of the Quebec national assembly, was reported in satisfactory condition Monday with a diabetic condition in the intensive care ward of a hospital here.

The nurse responsible for intensive care said that Bellemare, 66, had not suffered a heart attack despite earlier reports that this was the case. His heartbeat was reported to be regular.

Quebec must act on kidnap

OTTAWA (CP) — It is up to Quebec to take whatever action is necessary in the matter of Delila Maschino, 26, who was forced to fly to Algeria from Montreal to marry a man she never met, a government spokesman said Monday.

Maurice Dupras, parliamentary secretary to External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson, said in the Commons that Quebec authorities have had the assistance of the external affairs department and the Canadian embassy in Algiers in their investigation.

Toronto Sun hearing underway

TORONTO (CP) — Some testimony will not be heard in public in the preliminary hearing into charges laid under the Official Secrets Act against The Sun, a provincial court judge decided Monday.

Judge Carl Waisberg made the ruling following a voir dire—evidence heard with the public and media absent from the court—held to determine whether portions of the testimony given by an RCMP official might be prejudicial to the interests of the country.

Legion unity stance debated

EDMONTON (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion recognizes the seriousness of the Canadian unity problem and is obligated to project a strong federalist voice, the legion's president told a national convention Monday.

Doug McDonald, setting the stage for discussion today on the legion's unity position, said the 420,000-member body is the largest fraternal organization in the country and can speak effectively for the federalist cause.

Tricofil debate postponed

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition Liberals called unsuccessfully Monday for an emergency debate in the national assembly on the financial status of Tricofil, the worker-managed knitting mill in St. Jerome, Que., that has received heavy government subsidies.

Speaker Clement Richard rejected the Liberal motion, ruling the matter was not an emergency.

Chouinard dies in plane crash

ST-JEAN-PORT-JOLI, Que. (CP) — Jean-Maurice Chouinard, who ran unsuccessfully twice as a Parti Quebecois candidate for the Quebec national assembly, was one of three victims found dead Sunday in the wreckage of a small plane near here.

Canadian dollar slumps

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian dollar lost more than a quarter of a cent in New York money markets Monday in the wake of the biggest jump in the wholesale price index in more than a year.

The dollar closed at 89.06 U.S. cents, down from Friday's final price of 89.33 U.S. cents.

Traders attributed the fall largely to the April wholesale price index of 599.3, up 1.8 per cent from March.

Fish war not a 'whale of a story'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fish war between Canada and the United States is not a whale of a story.

No patriots on either side have inspired the masses with stirring slogans such as:

—Give me haddock or give me death.
 —I have not yet begun to fish.
 —Praise the Lord and pass the bait.
 The war celebrated its birthday Monday. It was 0-fish-ally one week old—one week since Canada, angered at U.S. reluctance to enter into a provisional fishing agreement, decided to quit fishing at the conference table and cut bait.

The United States, properly nettled and never one to coddle an antagonist, promptly told all Canadians to reel in their lines from U.S. waters.

News Briefs

Federal patronage 'out of hand'

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Elmer MacKay said Monday he has evidence that suggests patronage in the awarding of federal government contracts is getting out of control.

In the Commons, MacKay asked whether it has been Liberal government policy to clear certain contracts in Quebec with the Quebec campaign chairman for the Liberal party, formerly Senator Jean Marchand and now Marc Lalonde, inter-governmental affairs minister.

Runaway had a good time

MONTREAL (CP) — An 11-year-old boy who ran away from his west-end home Friday after an argument with his parents spent the weekend eating candy and watching television in a department store, police said.

Police said the youth was found by a store janitor Sunday afternoon.

"The boy didn't have a hard time," a police spokesman said. "It was an enjoyable weekend. He ate candy and watched all the television he wanted."

Canoeists make contact

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three persons en route to Hawaii in a hand-carved dugout canoe finally got word home Sunday, although they were still without radio contact.

The provincial Rescue Co-Ordination Centre in Victoria received a message at 9:20 a.m. Sunday relayed through a passing ship: "Can receive on radio but not transmit. All is well."

Son of Sam sentenced

NEW YORK (AP) — David Berkowitz was sentenced Monday to a series of consecutive 25-year-to-life prison terms for the "Son of Sam" shootings that terrorized New York for a year. His judges urged that he never be freed, but state law makes him eligible for parole in 30 years.

"It is my earnest wish that this defendant be imprisoned for the rest of his natural life and until he shall die," said Justice William Kapelman of the Bronx Supreme Court.

Steelworkers sign contract

MONTREAL (CP) — Thirtyfive hundred northeastern Quebec miners voted Monday to accept the latest contract proposal offered by the Quebec Cartier Mining Co., ending a 13-week strike.

A spokesman for the United Steelworkers of America said the miners, who live in the communities of Port Cartier, Fermeville and Gagnon, will return to work by Tuesday morning "at the latest."

Carter issues nuclear statement

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — President Carter, reviewing progress in the United Nations special session on disarmament, Monday issued a declaration on the conditions under which the United States would use nuclear weapons.

Housewife's work 'worth' $187.32

OTTAWA (CP) — The government cannot afford to pay every Canadian housewife a salary, even though she does work worth an average of $187.32 for a 49-hour week, concludes a report released Monday.

The report, Five Million Women: A Study of the Canadian Housewife, was presented to the federal Advisory Council on the Status of Women by its author, Monique Proulx, a council researcher.

Handicapped funds available

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec will make $1 million available for expansion of recreational facilities for the handicapped, Sport Minister Claude Charron has announced.

As well, municipalities applying for provincial grants to improve existing facilities will be required to include accommodations for the handicapped.

Holtzman chalks up first save

The vacation may be over for Ken Holtzman, but the newest member of Chicago Cubs isn't complaining. Holtzman, a forgotten man during the last two seasons with New York Yankees, returned to action Monday night, pitching three innings and chalking up his first save of the year in the Cubs' 3-2 victory over Cincinnati Reds. "I feel young again," the lefthander said after combining with Rick Reuschel on a four-hitter. Holtzman had not pitched in four weeks and appeared in only five games with the Yankees before being traded to the Cubs during the weekend. Holtzman relieved Reuschel in the seventh after the righthander's arm stiffened up. He allowed two runs, including a solo home run to George Foster. In other National League action, Houston Astros beat Pittsburgh Pirates 6-5, Los Angeles beat Philadelphia Phillies 6-5, San Diego Padres defeated New York Mets 3-2, San Francisco Giants beat Montreal Expos 1-0 and Atlanta Braves defeated St. Louis Cardinals 2-1. Reuschel, 8-4, had limited Cincinnati to two hits in six innings and the first-place Cubs handed Bill Bonham his first loss in eight decisions in rolling to their ninth victory in 11 games.

Braves 2 Cardinals 1
Jeff Burroughs's sixth-inning home run broke a 1-1 tie and Mickey Mahler pitched his first career complete game, a seven-hitter, as Atlanta edged St. Louis.

Right-hander Ed Halicki pitched a one-hitter and teammate Jack Clark rapped a run-scoring double in the sixth inning to give San Francisco its victory over Montreal and pitcher Steve Rogers.

Rogers, 7-6, followed up his one-hit victory over Los Angeles last week by throwing a three-hitter at the Giants. He hasn't given up more than three runs in any game he has pitched.

Yankees shut out A's 2-0

With all those gold-plated arms on the New York Yankees pitching staff, a player who is earning less than any of them has emerged as the diamond of the bunch.

Ron Guidry doesn't command the lofty salary of, say, a Catfish Hunter, Don Gullett or Sparky Lyle. But he currently sports the richest record in major league baseball.

"He's the best we've seen in the American League," Oakland manager Jack McKeon said Monday night after the unbeaten Guidry won his 10th straight game with a 2-0 triumph over the A's. "He was overpowering."

Guidry's victory string this year marks the quickest start of any Yankees pitcher since Atley Donald went 12-0 in 1939.

"Everybody wonders what it would feel like to go through a real good stretch," said Guidry after his three-hit, 11-strikeout performance. "In 30 years, I'll be able to say I went through one."

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston Red Sox beat California Angels 10-9, Texas Rangers defeated Kansas City Royals 6-5, Baltimore Orioles beat Seattle Mariners 5-4, Milwaukee Brewers defeated Detroit Tigers 7-4 and Chicago White Sox beat Cleveland Indians 1-0. Rain postponed the Minnesota-Toronto game.

Willie Randolph led off the Yankees third against Oakland pitcher Dave Heaverlo with his second homer of the year, a drive to right field. Graig Nettles connected leading off the next inning with a blast to right for the Yankees' second run.

Red Sox 10 Angels 9
Carlton Fisk's single with the bases loaded in the ninth led Boston over California. Dwight Evans drove in four runs with a homer and a double and Fred Lynn hit a three-run homer in helping the Red Sox offset five errors.

short notes...

CFL games on tap

The Canadian Football League exhibition schedule begins tonight in Calgary and Vancouver with two of the best field goal kickers predicting there will be more punts and fewer field goal attempts in 1978.

Dave Cutler of Edmonton Eskimos and Cyril McFall of Calgary Stampeders, who are expected to trade kicks at McMahon Stadium in Calgary, say a new rule adopted by the league will cheat the fans out of seeing long returns off missed field goals.

The new rule states that the ball will be brought back to the line of scrimmage on a missed field goal. Cutler and McFall say the rule will cut down on field goal attempts. In the other game tonight, Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference meet British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference at Empire Stadium in Vancouver.

CRC hosts coaching clinic

LENNOXVILLE — Champlain Regional College and Bishop's University will be holding a football coaches clinic on Saturday, June 17 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the university's sports centre.

Sanctioned by the Estrie section of the Quebec Amateur Football Federation, the clinic will touch on aspects involving flexibility, drilling the defensive line and linebackers, offensive backs and secondary, as well as basic pass routes.

The various sessions will use either Champlain or Bishop's players to demonstrate.

More information can be obtained by contacting Ian Breck at Champlain College.

Habs, Islanders win hockey awards

MONTREAL (CP) — Two members of Montreal Canadiens and New York Islanders were named Monday night as winners of National Hockey League individual awards for the 1977-78 season.

Right-winger Guy Lafleur of the Canadiens, who captured the scoring championship and Art Ross Trophy for the third consecutive season, was the winner of the Hart Memorial Trophy as the NHL's most-valuable player.

Bob Gainey of the Canadiens became the first winner of the Frank J. Selke Trophy as the league's best defensive forward.

Mike Bossy of the Islanders was named the NHL's rookie of the year and will receive the Calder Memorial Trophy and Dennis Potvin grabbed the James Norris Memorial Trophy as the league's top defenceman.

Butch Goring of Los Angeles Kings won the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy for best combining good sportsmanship and a high degree of playing ability. Earlier this spring Goring received the Bill Masterton Memorial Trophy, given annually to the player who best exemplifies the qualities of perseverance, sportsmanship and dedication to hockey.

Voting was conducted among members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in each of the league's 18 cities and points were awarded on the basis of five for a first-place choice, three for a second and one for a third.

THREE IN A ROW

Lafleur, the first Montreal player to win three scoring titles, finished the season with 132 points including a league-leading 60 goals.

He is only the second Canadian to win the Hart Trophy in two successive seasons.

BASEBALL CREED

Eric Langlois, having read the Little League creed in French, stands back as Sylvain Elie reads it in English during the 27th annual official opening of the local baseball league at the Parade Grounds on Sunday afternoon.

Gretzky...a teen-age millionaire

EDMONTON (CP) — Seventeen-year-old Wayne Gretzky of Brantford, Ont., touted by some scouts as professional hockey's next Bobby Orr, has become a teen-age millionaire.

Gretzky, a centre, signed a seven-year personal services contract Sunday worth an estimated $1.75 million with Nelson Skalbania of Edmonton, owner of Indianapolis Racers of the World Hockey Association.

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has been trying for several years to maintain an agreement between the two major professional leagues that they would not sign any players before they completed their junior careers at the age of 20.

The signing, on Skalbania's private jet during a flight to Edmonton from Vancouver, came 24 hours before the National Hockey League annual meeting was scheduled to start in Montreal.

"I guess the master plan worked... the dream's come true," Gretzky said in an interview at Edmonton Municipal Airport.

Gretzky started skating when he was two years old and began polishing his hockey skills on a rink in the family's backyard in Brantford. When he was five years old he was selected to a Brantford novice all-star team—a team usually made up of 10 and 11-year-olds. He was playing junior hockey at 16.

On hand for the signing, during which Gretzky received a $50,000 down payment by cheque, were the centre's parents—Walter and Phyllis Gretzky—and his agent, Gus Badali. Walter Gretzky is a teletype operator for Bell Canada. Skalbania, a millionaire businessman who once owned the WHA's Edmonton Oilers, declined to specify the exact amount of money that Gretzky will get but said: "It's a bundle... at least $1 million for the first four years."

Gretzky, who scored 182 points last season with Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds of the Ontario Major Junior Hockey League for $75 a week, will work for Skalbania wherever he goes. "Heck... maybe he'll just be a deckhand on my boat in the Mediterranean," said Skalbania.

World Cup soccer ends in confusion

BUENOS AIRES (Reuter) — Organizers of the World Cup soccer finals ended 24 hours of confusion Monday by confirming that Austria had finished first in first round Group Three with Brazil second.

The finishing order, which decides in which second round Group A team will play, was thrown into doubt Sunday because published rules said a drawing of lots would be necessary when two teams tied on points and had equal goal differences.

Austria and Brazil both finished their three-match program with four points and a goal difference of one. But another rule said that in such cases the team which scored the higher number of goals would be placed first. This meant Austria, which scored three goals, finished above Brazil, which scored only two.

Rene Courte, press spokesman for the FIFA, international soccer body, told reporters the rule allowing for a drawing of lots was incorrect and should not have been in the published list.

LOCAL RIVALRY
The effect of Monday's decision is that Brazil will play in the same second group as South American rivals Argentina and Peru and Poland.

Belvidere Women's Institute

The June meeting of the Belvidere Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 3rd, at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Hazard, Elizabeth St., Sherbrooke. Miss Eva Beaton was co-hostess.

This was second vice-president's day. Mrs. L. Mickie Povey presided and opened the meeting with the Salute to the Flag and the Mary Stewart Collect. The motto was "We are not too old to learn if we aren't too lazy to try." The roll call, "Name a Quebec county outside the Eastern Townships," was answered by eleven members.

Two guests were welcomed, Mrs. Annie Reid and Mrs. Mina Morrison. Miss Edna Smith sent her regrets at not being able to attend.

The minutes of the May meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Charles Pitman and a good treasurer's report by Mrs. Irene Paige. No correspondence was reported.

The standing committees reported as follows:

Agriculture convener, Mrs. Dorothy Montgomery reported progress on the school fair to be held on September 9 at the Lennoxville Elementary School. Mrs. Montgomery read the new prize list and some of the revisions. The fair will be open to parents and friends from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Citizenship convener: no report.

Education convener, Kathleen Reid, read an item titled, First Grade Teachers Have an Enormous Impact on the Future Education and Lives of Their Pupils.

Home Economics convener, Eva Beaton and Phyllis Hazard, reported handicrafts turned in for the work calendar. The announcement of the prizes received at the Annual Convention at Macdonald College included the J.&P. Coats Competition, in which Mrs. Phyllis Hazard won first prize at the county level for a place mat. Eva Beaton won third prize in the same competition at the provincial level for huck weaving. In the Q.W.I. competition, Phyllis Hazard won fourth prize for a crocheted hat. A pieced quilt top was donated by Mrs. Albert Fleck to be made up by our branch. It was noted that a thank-you note should be written to acknowledge this generous gift.

Welfare and Health convener Hazel McGee reported that four workers attended the cancer dressing on May 11th. Dominion Store clips and bread tags were handed in.

Publicity co-conveners Mrs. Charles Pitman and Mary Campbell have sent reports of meetings to the Sherbrooke Record and to the county convener. Sunshine convener Mrs. Mickie Povey sent several birthday cards and one sympathy card. A thank-you note was received by Mickie from the county secretary to thank her for the lovely drapes she made and hung in the Town Hall of Lennoxville. Mickie also thanked members for remembering her birthday.

Ways and Means convener Mrs. Viola Tarte had no report.

A report of the Annual Convention was given by President Margaret Kinkead. She gave us the highlights of this event, and mentioned that any convener who had any excess annual reports should turn them in to the county meeting. She displayed two Q.W.I. cookbooks which had been compiled for members at the P.E.I. confederated convention, the recipes having been donated by Quebec branches. Miss Kinkead also mentioned that any special events are to be reported promptly to the county convener. Mickie Povey thanked Margaret for this report.

In the new business, a motion was made to donate forty dollars to the school fair fund, and to furnish a loaf of sandwiches on the day of the school fair for the judges and workers.

A decision was made to renew the Townships Sun.

After all business was concluded, our loved and respected member of over 55 years, Mrs. Ethel Drummond, was honoured when our president, Margaret Kinkead pinned a corsage on her. This corsage had been created by Mickie Povey. A friend and fellow member, Mrs. Myrtle Pitman, presented Ethel with an Abbie Pritchard throw. Mrs. Drummond was touched and pleased by these presentations, and thanked us all for the thoughtfulness shown. The application for the Abbie Pritchard throw had recently been passed by the Provincial Executive at its convention. This occasion was especially poignant for all of us, as Mrs. Drummond was to enter the Grace Christian Home, Huntingville, Que., the same evening, to make her new home.

A delicious ham and salad lunch was served by the hostesses, assisted by Margaret Kinkead and Mickie Povey.

The next meeting will be held at Catherine Tarte's cottage on Lake Massawippi on Saturday, July 8. Each member is requested to bring a small prize for bingo for the roll call.

the jack and after dummy ducked, East was forced to win with the queen. He could do nothing better than to take his ace of clubs and hold declarer to 10 tricks.

If West had played the king of diamonds, he would have been sure to get the lead and could have set the hand by leading another club.

West really should have made that difficult play. It was a cinch that if South held the queen of diamonds, he would have led toward it from dummy, instead of from it.

"How was I to know?" lamented West.

"Any crocodile would have known," replied East. "So would most really good bridge players."

South had taken dummy's ace of spades, played three rounds of trumps, led a low diamond and let West hold the trick with his 10. West had shifted to a club and East's 10 had lost to South's king.

Then came the key play. South had led another low diamond. West had played

The bidding has proceeded one diamond-double-pass. We would bid two diamonds. Then we would raise either major suit that partner would bid in response to our cue bid.

Introducing Direct Compensation in Automobile Insurance

Up to now, if you were involved in an automobile accident, you could claim your damages from your own insurer, provided you carried Collision coverage.

If you had no Collision coverage, you had to assume the entire cost of your repairs or claim from the other driver, depending on whether or not you were responsible for the accident.

Since May 1st, it's Direct Compensation.

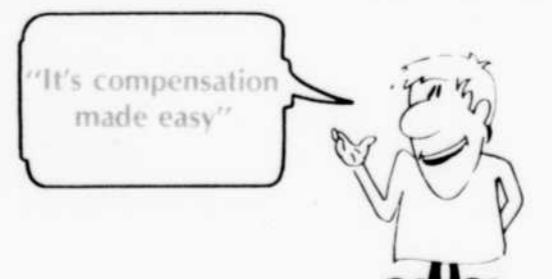

Each driver's liability is now assessed on the basis of a Driver Fault Chart made up of 21 basic cases.

If you are not responsible for the accident, you will be promptly compensated by your own insurer.

If, on the contrary, you are responsible for the accident but were wise enough to buy Collision coverage, again, you will be compensated by your own insurer.

Direct Compensation applies to accidents occurring in Quebec and involving at least two motor vehicles whose owners have been identified. It makes things easier between insurers and their insureds, eliminates bothersome procedures and, of course, permits quicker settlements.

Golden Age Club meets

MANSONVILLE (OJ) — Despite the heat there were forty Golden Agers present for the meeting on May 30 at the Town Hall.

The door prize was won by Jos. Charrette, Game Prize by Iris Milroy and the card game prizes by Julienne McDuff and Bill Burnham.

A get-well card was signed and sent to Jean McNeil, a patient in B.M.P. Hospital since her fall on May 25. Friends wish her well and hope she will soon be up and about again.

A trip to Granby has been planned for the group for June 13. This will be a tour of the city of Granby conducted by the Tourist Bureau of Granby.

The Golden Agers Flea Market table at the recent St. Paul's Church Sale was a complete success. Thanks are extended to all who donated to it, to Mary Barnett, who donated the cost of the table, to Elsie Knowlton, Verlie Aikens, Mickey Lamothe and Rita Mossa who worked at the table, to Annie Macdonald for her cash donation and to Bernice White for her generous donation of baked goods, Flora Drouin, for her hand painted picture, Mildred Atyeo for her needlepoint cushion to mention a few. Each one's generosity helps to make the Club the success it is.

Frances Robin won the hand painted picture and Winston White, the needlepoint cushion. There were plans to hold another flea market in July.

Hostesses at this meeting were Rollande Bouchard, Jean Parmentier and Rose Brulotte. The club purchased a birthday cake for those celebrating May, June, July and August birthdays. Those celebrating birthday anniversaries were Yvonne Robin, Herman Stowe, Raymond Bedard, Lawrence Smith, Ethylin Burnham, Harold Aiken, Kenneth Lamorey, Dolores Champagne, Pearl Greenham, Iris Milroy, Maude Mossa and Elsie Knowlton.

The executive held a meeting with President Flora Drouin in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were presented by Flora and were approved.

An envelope of money was presented to Verlie Aiken on behalf of the club in appreciation of a job well done. Verlie was responsible for looking after the afternoon teas and soliciting food for each meeting's social hour.

Flora tendered her written resignation as President, due to poor health. Her resignation was accepted with regret. Flora has been president for the past six years. Her warm heart and love of people made her an ideal president. She plans to still be active within the group but without the responsibility.

Vice-President, Julienne McDuff declined the office of President and Rita Mossa was nominated. Rita has worked closely with Flora Drouin for the past year. Flora was then appointed treasurer for the Club, a post she was glad to accept.

Some of the menfolk were lucky anglers in the Jackson private pond and many walked around the beautiful grounds and path in the woods. Iced tea and chocolate fudge were served in mid afternoon.

Mrs. Lillian Goodwin thanked the host and hostesses and all who had assisted them to make the day such a pleasant one, then as the people departed for their respective homes they thanked the Jacksons and their assistants.

The next Senior Citizens gathering will be in September in the Stanstead South church Fellowship Hall in Rock Island.
