World News In Brief

Naples, Feb. 17—(AP)—Firemen pumped thousands of gallons of water into holds of the French passenger and cargo ship Ferdinand de Lesseps today and put out a fire that forced the 11,150-ton vessel to make an emergency run into Naples harbor.

The ship, en route from Djibouti, French Somaliland, to Marseille, with 460 passengers and a cargo of sugar, peanuts, rice and coffee, arrived with smoke billowing from her two forward holds.

The 460 passengers included 250 French soldiers homeward bound from service.

Olney, England, Feb. 17—(AP)—Mrs. Isobel Dix, 23-year-old housewife, won the annual Shrove Tuesday pancake race to the door of the parish church today, and a moment later stirred up a bit of religious controversy in this old market town.

A Roman Catholic, she refused to enter the Anglican church for the shriving service which is part of the town's curious race.

She struck a compromise with the flustered vicar, Rev. Ronald Collins, by agreeing to sit on the church porch while the service went on within.

Moscow, Feb. 17— (AP) — Moscow's Literary Gazette today accused the Israeli government of race discrimination and of establishing "ghettos" for Arabs, modelled after those set up by Hitler for European Jews.

The bitter attack, latest in a series of major Soviet blasts at Israeli leaders and Zionism, came five days after the Kremlin severed diplomatic relations as a result of the bombing of the Soviet legation in the Jewish capital. A Russian note charged Israeli police with connivance in the crime and accused Israeli officials of inciting anti-Soviet terrorism.

Zurich, Switzerland Feb. 17—(AP)—Dr. Fritz Kraatz, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, announced today that he has been approached "unofficially" by Russia with a request to accept the belated admission of a Soviet team to next month's world hockey championships in Switzerland. Dr. Kraatz said he replied favorably and gave the Russians until the end of this week to submit their formal application.

Taipeh, Formosa, Feb. 17—(AP)—Ta Tao news agency said today about 10,000 armed civilians occupied the main centres of eight countries in Red China's southwestern Yunnan province early this month in an armed uprising.

Ta Tao, an agency of Nationalist China's interior ministry, said Communist administrative officials fled for their lives and that many Red troops and militia joined the uprising. It did not say how, or if, the revolt ended.

Berlin, Feb. 17—(AP)—The Russian sector exploded the rumor today that Gerhart Eisler, deposed propaganda boss for the Communist regime, had fled to the West.

An announcement was made that Eisler would lecture tonight at the "House of Soviet Culture" on refugee questions, presumably to sugar coat the flight of thousands of East Germans to West Berlin.

The report that Eisler had gone West was published during the week-end by the West Berlin Telegraf. Allied officials were unable to confirm it.

Canada Regrets Formosan Move But Has Received Assurances On U.S. Policy

Pearson Reports To Commons On Conference With Dulles.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—(CP)—The Canadian government "regrets" the United States move in turning loose the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa but has received "reasonable" assurances on general U. S. policy in the Far East.

External Affairs Minister Pearson gave this report to the Commons Monday night in an external affairs review, answering various opposition claims that:

1. The U. S. action in lifting its 7th fleet's "neutralization" of Formosa could be the first step leading to general war in the Far East.

2. Canada's stand on the U.S.-Formosa move has been obscure.

The external affairs minister, also president of the United Nations general assembly, said the Canadian government regrets "that the U.S. government found it necessary to take this action."

"We are not condemning them for it," he added, "but we regret that they found it necessary to take this action, the military advantages of which might be neutralized by the political disadvantages."

Mr. Pearson, scheduled to conclude a four-day debate on external affairs Tuesday, also told members that the government has expressed "concern" to the U. S. over the action, though he emphasized that this was not to be construed as a "protest."

He said a week-end conference in Washington between himself and State Secretary Dulles of the U.S. had been "helpful" in clearing up questions as to Canada's anxiety concerning the possibility of extension of war in the Far East.

Mr. Dulles had told him, he said, that some of the fears read into the U. S. Formosan action were not justified. The U.S. wanted to take advantage of any situation that would give it and the United Nations the initiative to keep enemies of the UN off balance.

The minister said he feels the new administration appreciates the "necessity or desirability" of consultation before decisions are taken in Washington which affect the other members of the United Nations.

Dealing with the general world situation, Mr. Pearson said there is no cause for either optimism or despair.

"We should not get too optimistic when things seem to get good or too panicky when they do not seem to go well," he advised.

Earlier in the debate, Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia), whose party has been suggesting the U.S.-Formosan move could lead to war, proposed that Prime Minister St. Laurent go to Washington to confer with President Eisenhower. This drew no reaction from the government.

Percy Wright (CCF—Melfort), national chairman of his party, said Canada is making a "miserable" contribution of economic aid to underdeveloped countries. He suggested this be stepped up in relation to military spending as a bulwark against communism.

Objections To Criminal Code Voiced

Ottawa, Feb. 17—(CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor charged Tuesday that one section of a proposed new criminal code gives "hostile" employers and provincial governments "a weapon which could be used against labor . . ."

The 370,000-member labor group made the charge in a brief prepared for presentation to a Commons committee studying the proposed new code. The measure already has passed the Senate.

The congress objected to sections in the new code dealing with committing a public mischief, breach of contract and picketing.

The brief noted that the mischief section provides that anyone commits mischief "who wilfully . . . renders property dangerous, useless, inoperative or ineffective." Maximum penalty for endangering life would be life imprisonment, or in other cases 14 years.

"What strike does not do this and do it wilfully?" the brief asked. "Consequently, if a union member goes out on a perfectly legal strike and even for the most cogent reasons he exposes himself to prosecution and heavy penalties under this section."

The brief said the presence of the provision "opens the door to abuse which parliament cannot control since the administration of justice in the province is beyond the Dominion jurisdiction . . ."

Other parts of the same section presented "a simple and streamlined method of preventing . . . even peaceful picketing which has long been explicitly protected by the code itself."

The congress suggested that the whole section be dropped and the sections in the present code which specify the various offences and define them be retained.

On picketing, the congress suggested that the wording of the British Trades Disputes Act be inserted in place of a proposed section.

The proposed section does not mention picketing but exempts anyone from being charged who "attends at or near a . . . place for the purpose only of obtaining or communicating information. . ."

The congress urged that the section also state specifically that it is lawful for persons to attend at a place for the purpose of "peacefully persuading any person to work or abstain from working."

In the section dealing with breach of contract, the congress said, a new legal concept arises—"that a person can be prosecuted under the Criminal Code for breach of civil contract."

Traditionally, this has been dealt with in the civil courts, the congress said.

To offset this, the congress suggested adding to the section the words:

"Nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to affect any breach of collective agreement resulting from a dispute between an employer and a bargaining agent on behalf of a group of employees."

The congress noted that punishment for trade unions which break contracts already is provided in federal and provincial legislation except in Prince Edward Island.

New Orleans Carnival Season Reaches Climax

New Orleans, Feb. 17. — (AP) — The simmering kettle of revelry in "the city that care forgot" boils over today, as Rex, lord of misrule, reigns over New Orleans.

Hundreds of thousands will jam the streets for the climax of Mardi Gras carnival season.

Stores and banks will be closed as the city gives its last and biggest roar before Lent starts Wednesday.

Cathedral bells will ring at midnight and the devout will begin the 40 days of fasting and penance.

Rex, head man of all the kings that have ruled New Orleans for the last 10 days, will ride his regal float through historic St. Charles and Canal streets.

Named Rex was a mechanical engineer, Charles Crawford. His queen is Adelaide Wisdom.

Comus, king of the oldest carnival organization, will follow Rex in a torchlight parade tonight.

But another king will take the spotlight briefly before Rex and Comus close down the show.

King Zulu will float down the Mississippi river in his royal barge and land at the foot of Canal street.

As Zulu and his early-morning parade wave through downtown streets, he will toss out the traditional coconuts, taking care that no one is injured.

The torchlight parade of Comus ends the carnival for most people, but for the socially prominent, the climax is yet to come.

Grand balls will be staged by both Rex and Comus. At midnight tht two kings toast each other to signify the end of the carnival season.

CPS Purchases French Liner

Montreal, Feb. 17.— (CP) —The French liner De Grasse, a ship scuttled by her crew before the occupation of France so she wouldn't fall into German hands, has been purchased by Canadian Pacific Steamships.

Announcement of the sale was made by the Canadian Pacific and Compagnie Generale Transatlantique. Purchase price was not disclosed.

Canadian Pacific officials said the De Grasse should be able to take care of passengers who had booked sailings on the Empress of Canada. Many who booked on early east-bound sailings planned to be in England for Coronation week early in June.

The De Grasse, with accommodation for 358 first-class and 355 tourist passengers, is scheduled to leave Liverpool April 28 for her first trip to Montreal. She then joins the Empress of France and the Empress of Scotland on regular runs between the two ports.

The Empress of Canada's first sailing was scheduled for April 7 from Liverpool, and the return trip April 17 from Montreal. Bookings for these dates are expected to be transferred to the other Canadian Pacific ships and to other lines.

Insurance Firms Say Korea Is War

Toronto, Feb. 17.—(CP)—Canadian life insurance companies have decided that the conflict in Korea is a war. The terms "police action" and "armed intervention" have often been applied to the hostilities.

Life underwriters have adopted a dictionary interpretation and are including in many new policies a war risk clause covering such vaguely-defined events as those in Korea.

The point was re-examined here by the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association following a decision by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruling that the fighting in Korea, legally or constitutionally, is not war.

The court ordered the Pennsylvania Mutual Life Insurance Company to pay beneficiaries of two soldiers killed while in a United States Army uniform.

Pending a test case in the Canadian courts, the major life insurance companies are writing policies on the assumption that there is war in Korea.

Arab-Asian Bloc In U.N. Will Reject Request To Send Any Troops To Korea

United Nations, N.Y., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Twelve members of the Arab Asian bloc in the United Nations are reported to have decided to reject any request from the United States or the UN for troops or supplies for the Korean war. None of the 12 is furnishing anything now.

Diplomatic sources said this was the outcome of privtae Arab-Asian talks on what to do in the UN assembly reconvening next Tuesday.

Countries reported planning to refuse any appeal for troops and supplies are Afghanistan, Burma, Egypt, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Liberia, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen.

India is said to have indicated she will not extend her help beyond the medical unit she has in Korea. Of the 15 countries which met last week, the Philippines and Thailand are the only two with troops in Korea. They expect to continue sending them.

Assembly delegates, meanwhile, waited for President Eisenhower's administration to pass along some word of its plans on Korea.

There have been reports that Eisenhower will serve notice on UN members that the U. S. wants more help from its allies in Korea. There also are indications that the U. S. is considering a request to the UN to widen its embargo on trade with Red China.

The UN embargo approved in 1951 reduced the flow of supplies to the Red Chinese to some extent but U. S. diplomats said it is not nearly enough.

During an Arab-Asian caucuas last week, it was reported Indonesia's ambassador L. N. Palar said his country is losing $400,000,000 a year because of trade restrictions with Red China.

Diplomatic sources reporting the discussion said Palar pointed to a report of the collective-measures committee of the UN saying that trade losses suffered by underdeveloped countries through UN decisions should be made up by UN members.

Indo-China May Receive More US Aid

Washington, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The United States may step up military shipments to Indo-China as part of President Eisenhower's new strategy to defeat communist aggression in the Far East.

No final decision has yet been made but top administration leaders are reported ready to listen sympathetically to French Premier Rene Mayer whom they expect to make such a request here next month.

In advance of Mayer's visit, cabinet-level planners are reported studying ways to end the bloody seven-year-old war, which costs France more than $1,000,000,000 yearly and has claimed nearly 100,000 French casualties.

Behind this new look is Eisenhower's belief, as reported by informed officials, that the outcome of the Indo-Chinese fighting is as important, or more so, than Korea to the security of the free world.

Loss of Indo-China, Eisenhower is reported to think, would eventually lead to the fall of Asia's "rice bowl"—Sima, Burma, Indonesia—and pose serious threats to India and Pakistan.

Whatever the United States decides to do about Indo-China will be closely tied to any new moves aimed at ending the Korean deadlock.

The aim in both Korea and Indo-China would be to train and equip loyal native troops much faster so that they can gradually replace United Nations forces in Korea and French union troops in Indo-China.

France has mobilized some 60 battalions of Indo-Chinese artillery, infantry and parachute units, but American officials believe this far from enough.

Emergency In Europe Has Passed

London, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Britain, Belgium and The Netherlands began demobilizing sea-wall workers today after fighting off exceptionally high tides which had threatened to break through sea defences damaged in recent hurricane floods.

They had worked night and day since Feb. 1st, filling sandbags into gaps torn by the sea in dikes and seawalls.

Extensive repair work remains to be done, but all three countries said the immediate emergency is past. In Holland, the job of reclaiming flooded polders will take months.

In Britain, troops were withdrawn from Canvey Island in the River Thames. Civilian contractors took on the repair projects there.

The victory over spring tides in the last 40 hours was aided by calm weather along low-lying southwest Holland, Belgium and eastern England.

Better weather was more general in West Europe today. In Italy, recovering from 48 hours of storm, tidal waves receded and isolated towns and villages began digging themselves out of snowdrifts.

Scandinavia reported generally cold weather with temperatures near freezing point. Strong winds caused trouble for herring fishermen along the west coast of Norway.

Brussels, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Belgian newspapers today protested against the "shameful distortion of facts" in the foreign press about King Baudouin.

Some Estates Break Trade Agreements

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Toronto, Feb. 17 —(CP)— World trade agreements have been helpful, but some countries haven't adhered to them, D. P. Cruickshank of Ottawa, said Tuesday.

He added that Canada's views on these matters should be stated clearly at the congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, which will be held in Vienna May 18-23.

Mr. Cruickshank, president of the Canadian council of the ICC, spoke to the council's annual meeting.

Canadian exports in 1952, Mr. Cruickshank noted, established a record, but the bulk of them were agricultural, mineral and forestry products, or semi-manufactured goods.

"Volume of exports in a number of manufacturing lines was unsatisfactory. One reason for this has been the re-imposition or continuation of import restrictions by a number of countries who were signatories to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which called for the abolition of such restrictions.

"One of the worst offenders in this respect, I am sorry to say, has been our good neighbor, the United States. It was most gratifying, however, to note the policy statement of the American administration to the effect that Congress would be urged shortly to pass the Customs Simplication Act and to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act.

"I believe that in general the GATT agreements have been constructive, have brought about many tariff reductions, and have tended to increase volume of trade, but at the same time there have been several shortcomings.

"These have had an adverse effect on the export of Canadian manufactured goods. I believe that at Vienna we should make our position clear. While we were happy to supply manufactured goods when they were in short supply in other countries, we would also like to see at least some continuation of this trade.

"With regard to GATT and a greater degree of compliance with its aims and provisions, I believe we can count on the co-operation of our friends in the United States council of the International Chamber.

"There is considerable sentiment in the U.S. favoring freer trade. The Detroit Chamber of Commerce in a recent statement said: 'United States quota restrictions should be removed and every effort made to press for removal of foreign quotas.'

"The Detroit board, in fact, calls for complete revision of the Smoot-Hawley tariff of 1930 to lower duties across the board.

"Similarly, I feel we can appropriately express our concern regarding the disappearance of our traditional sterling markets. We are aware of the difficulties which exist, and I feel we should do everything in our power to help find a solution to the sterling market program."

Cost Of Sending Radio Signals On Low Frequencies Reduced

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—(CP)—Canadian scientists say they have revolutionized the theory that it costs a great deal of money and takes a lot of power to send radio signals on low frequencies.

But they are even more concerned about the aurora borealis, the strange, shimmering northern lights which excite the wonder of the layman and pose all sorts of transmission problems for the man who wants to communicate by radio.

F. T. Davies, superintendent of the defence research board's telecommunications establishment told reporters the low-frequency field has been described as one costing millions of dollars in stationary equipment but "we now are thinking of it in terms of mobile equipment costing around $5,000."

He spoke to reporters on a conducted tour which preceded Tuesday's official opening of a $600,000 radio physics laboratory which is the brain and heart of Canada's efforts to solve the exceptional communications problems posed by the northern lights.

The laboratory, 15 miles west of Ottawa, is unique in Canada in that it is built on an expanded copper ground screen. This strange foundation is part of the elaborate precautions to ground the building completely.

The laboratory works with eight "radio weather' 'stations across Canada's northland in checking every 15 minutes on how conditions are for sending radio signals. In her auroral studies, Canada is ahead of the world-primarily because aurora borealis is largely her own problem.

Mr. Davies, a buoyant, energetic native of Wales, said the physics laboratory is experimenting with radio equipment with power ranging from five watts to 500,000 watts and covering all frequencies from low through high to superhigh.

He said a great deal of progress has been made in combatting the long-standing theory that it costs a lot of money and takes a lot of power to send radio signals on low frequencies. This theory was behind the huge aerials and large power plants in places using low frequencies.

But his scientists had sent low-frequency signals from Ottawa to Petawawa, more than 100 miles, on "a fantastically small amount of power—five watts."

They had designed "very small" 20-foot aluminum antennae which would be moved from place to place by two men. My improving on engineering methods, on receivers, and generally making better use of facilities available, they had turned what used to be considered a million-dollar field into one costing only in the thousands.

This, said Mr. Davies, "is one of our big achievements" and one which could well be of use to the forces in the North.

The laboratory also has a 20-pound high-frequency walkie-talkie set developed by industry which looks like a marked improvement on the types used in the war.

The day will come, said Mr. Davies, when these will be small enough to put in your pocket.

Istanbul, Turkey, Feb. 17—(AP)—Animal skeletons, including that of a mastodon dating back about 3,000,000 years, have been discovered at Avash, Turkey, the Istanbul newspaper Vatan reported today.

Other skeletons have not yet been identified, the newspaper added.

Rosenbergs Get Execution Stay

New York, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The United States Court of Appeals today granted a stay of execution to March 30th to atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg to permit them to petition the Supreme Court for a review of their case.

Coronation Arches Will Be Built

London, Feb. 17 —(Reuters)—The Queen will drive under four arches, topped with figures of dancing lions and unicorns, on her Coronation route June 2, the government announced today.

Works Minister David Eccles told a press conference the 85-foot-high arches made of tubular steel will be built on the tree-lined hall between Buckingham Palace and Trafalgar Square. Eccles, whose department is responsible for London's Coronation decorations, stood before a 26-foot-long model of the route as he made his third progress report.

The arches, to be illuminated at night, will be "graceful and exciting," he said "and will help to create that blend of majesty and gaiety which so truly represents the Queen."

Two gold lions and two white unicorns made of wire mesh will face each other "in the manner of old-time dancers." A huge princess' coronet will be suspended on gold wires from the centre of each arch.

Under illumination, the coronets will look as if they are "twinkling and floating in the night — time air," he said.

Plans are also moving ahead for brightening fog-sooted government buildings along the route with painted decorations to symbolize their function in the state.

Quebec Will Not Accept Federal Aid To Universities

Quebec, Feb. 17—(CP)—Premier Duplessis says Quebec will not accept federal aid to universities because education is a provincial matter.

He made the statement in the legislature Monday night and the Liberals said the decision placed the universities, who accepted federal aid last year, in a 'most embarrassing situation."

Universities had used part of the $2,300,000 they received from Ottawa to pay better salaries to "poorly paid" university professors. They now might have to cut salaries and as a result might lose valuable men.

Welfare Minister Sauve said the universities' plight illustrated how dangerous a policy of accepting federal aid could be. He did not understand how Quebec's universities had given salary raises without guarantees that the grant would be paid on a regular basis.

This showed how the federal government could make its views felt in the provincial field of education. The government could threaten to cut out payments unless the universities did as they were told.

Liberals countered that the government should be able to make up loss of the federal grants this year out of its estimated revenues of $300,000,000.

Raynold Belanger (L—Levis) said education in Quebec had been erected on the sacrifices of the priests of the Quebec seminary who founded Laval and the priests of the Montreal seminary.

But the load of the priesthood of Quebec was too heavy now and lay teachers were gradually taking a larger share of education in Quebec's classical colleges.

Mr. Belanger said Ontario was more generous than Quebec in its grants to universities.

Mr. Duplessis said he could not understand why opposition members "try to reduce the reputation of their province" by making unfavorable comparisons between Quebec and Ontario.

No other province had done as much for education as Quebec in the last few years.

Earlier, Mr. Duplessis said the government is doing all it can with its current revenues to assist universities.

Grants provided for in the 1953-54 provincial budget are: University of Montreal, $1,161,400; McGill University, $339,400; Laval University, $662,000; University of Bishop's College, $40,000.

It was George Marler, Liberal House leader, who raised the question of university grants, noting a $1,000,000 provision in the current year's budget not present in the 1953-54 budget.

Mr. Duplessis said the $1,000,000 provision had gone to build Laval's new school of commerce.

Quebec, Feb. 17—(CP)—Premier Duplessis said in the legislature Monday that J. W. McConnell, publisher of the Montreal Daily Star, is probably the greatest philanthropist in North America and perhaps the greatest in the world.

He made the statement after George Marler, Liberal House leader, said the Star's editorial policy tended to favor the government.

The premier said he felt sure all members would agree that "no human power can dictate an editorial policy to the publisher of the Montreal Star."

"When the newspaper pays me compliments I like it," Mr. Duplessis said.

Mr. Marler said he hoped the Star would "soon run out of blue ink" and use "a bit more red ink."

Air Fight Over Northern Japan Was Started By Reds

Tokyo, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Russian planes started the 10-minute air battle with American Thunderjets over northern Japan Monday, the United States Air Force declared today.

The two prop-driven fighters were intercepted about three miles inside Japan's aerial boundary of Hokkaido, the Air force added.

Lieut Benedict Lacombe, one of the U. S. pilots, said the intruders turned immediately and roared toward the Thunder jets, their machine guns firing.

Neither Thunderjet was hit.

Lacombe said he pumped 300 bullets into one of the Soviet planes and set it afire. Both LA-11s fled toward the Kuriles, only 4½ miles from Hokkaido. Lacombe indicated the damage plane may not have made it.

Lacombe and his wingman, 2nd Lieut. James Holmes, said they didn't get close enough to determine the nationality of the intruding airmen. But they described them as "well-qualified, experienced pilots."

A Far East Air Force spokesman said the skirmish opened up at 16,600 feet near Nemuro, a town situated on a cape jutting out from eastern Hokkaido.

U. S. radar operators spotted the invading planes and guided Lacombe and Holmes toward them.

Japan's Communist party today charged that the shooting actually took place over Soviet-held territory.

The party, in a statement issued here, said the chief of the lighthouse in the area claimed the fight was seven miles north of the Russian-held island of Suisho in the Kuriles chain.

The Reds called the U. S. Air Force announcement a "false statement" and said it was "designed not only to hasten Japan's rearmament but also to attempt to throw the Japanese into a war."

Seoul, Feb. 17. — (AP) — United States Sabre jets destroyed a Communist MIG today in the fourth straight day of air battles as Korean fighting mounted on the ground and in the air.

The battle pitted a flight of Sabres against four MiGs deep in northwest Korea.

On the freezing war front, Allied soldiers hurled back an attack by about 175 Chinese Reds near Kelly Hill on the western front. Sharp, bloody fights erupted in eight other clashes across the battleline.

At sea, U. S. Navy ships and planes Monday blasted anew the besieged Red port of Wonsan on the east coast.

The bombardment was concentrated on casements the Reds were building for larger guns.

Q—Why do the Scots give Britain's monarch the title of "Elizabeth I," instead of Elizabeth the Second"?

A—They claim Scotland was an independent kingdom when the first Queen Bess ruled over England.

Q—Was the art of making leather known to early civilization?

A—Yes. The Egyptians made leather so well that specimens which are more than 3,000 years old have been found in a state of almost perfect preservation.

MGM LOVES LUCY'S HUMOR, And THAT's AN IRONIC SWITCH

Hollywood—Exclusively Yours: Lucille Ball's return to MGM as a commedienne in "The Long, Long Trailer" is poetic justice in the short-short story class.

As an MGM star a few years back, Lucy was given the 24-carat, glamor girl treatment over her protests: "But gentlemen, you're making a big mistake. I'm a character. I'm a howl."

The studio never agreed with her and finally let her option drop. Now MGM loves Lucy so much that she and Desi Arnaz will collect $250,000 for one picture.

Marilyn Monroe is wowing male fans but too many feminine moviegoers, for obvious reasons, are giving her the icy treatment. Fox is striving to correct the situation—she'll still be sexy but dished up with a laugh.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" puts her in the commedienne class to be followed by "How to Marry a Millionaire," in which she'll play a near-sighted doll who goes around bumping into doors—and guys.

They're telling it on Vanessa Brown. Picked by H. V. Kaltenborn as one of 1952's outstanding women, along with Princess Margaret Rose, Vanessa finished her evening performance on Broadway in "The Seven-Year Itch," then went to a nearby smart-spot to celebrate.

"Congratulations," said another actress. "But who is this Margaret Rose? Is she in the theater?"

"Of course," replied Vanessa. "She's appearing at the Palace."

Latest blasts against Hollywood by Lord Beaverbrook's British newspapers in a row over unfavorable movie reviews and canceled advertising sounds like English moviegoers need psychiatric treatment.

American gangster films, the papers are screaming, are forcing London theaters to hire guards to patrol the aisles instead of ushers. "When the lights go up after the show, young men swagger out to annoy the usherettes, fight with the doorman, wrench ash trays from the walls, and trip and elbow the customers they catch on the stairs."

Or maybe they're just spiking their tea.

The correspondence included a letter of thanks for cheer, a letter from the Quebec Women's Institute secretary; a news letter from Dr. Willis concerning activities of the Central School Board and letter from the Women's Voluntary Service was appealing for knitted blankets for the T. B. Hospitals for Babies, in Korea.

Mrs. J. E. MacVicar, convener for Home Economics, read from the "C.A.C. Bulletin" about enriched flour, which is now being used in all bread, and all urged the use of lard in cooking.

It was voted to change names for the food boxes which are being sent to England.

The program committee is to include Mrs. Crook, Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Lobb.

Mrs. R. G. McHarg, Mrs. MacVicar and Mrs. C. F. Wallbridge were named as the nominating committee.

The food parcel for February will be sent by Mrs. MacVicar and Miss M. L. Kezar.

Mrs. L. R. Thompson, who was in charge of the program introduced Mr. F. A. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston, who gave a very interesting talk on Musical Appreciation, and Mr. Johnston played several classical records, which were very much enjoyed some of them being, "The Clock Shop," and "The Hunt" and "In The Garden."

Thanks were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Johnston for their assistance in presenting such a thoroughly enjoyable hour. This was followed by the adjournment.

Delicious refreshments were served in the Cafeteria by the hostesses.

Mrs. Murray Thompson invited the ladies to her home for the annual meeting in March.

No Alterations In TV Sets For Next Five Years

Edenfield, England. — The British Broadcasting Corporation has given an undertaking to manufacturers of television sets not to make any alterations in technique for the next five years, D. Stephenson, regional director of the BBC, said in a speech here.

He forecast, however, that British viewers would have color television and greatly improved picture definition within the next 10 years.

Mr. Stephenson told his listeners that only 10 per cent of current television programs are worth watching. Twenty per cent were hardly worth the viewers' time The remaining 70 per cent he described as a dead loss.

"Fantastic cost of producing television programs is the main reason for the poor standard," he said. "But when commercial television is introduced the BBC will attempt to be a move ahead of sponsored programs."

Stephenson warned that the owner of a television set must protect himself against the danger of allowing the machine to become his master. Without that discipline, television could become one of the most disturbing factors in the life of the modern family.

U.B.C. Now Grows Ripe Bananas In Tropical Hothouse

Vancouver. — The banana belt's northern limit now runs through a tropical hothouse at the University of British Columbia.

There Professor A. F. Barss, head of the department of horticulture, his students and staff are producing ripe bananas almost faster than they can pass them around to officials to taste.

The first banana tree—it's actually a herb, but it looks like a tall tree—was planted 21 months ago "for fun." The bananas that are being stripped off now are from a second shoot.

Dr. Barss believes the bananas are the first grown in British Columbia. He grows other things too in his tropical room. Pomegranate, avocado, guava, coconut palm, orange, lemon and fig trees are all growing. Dates are one tropical plant that will not grow.

The tropicals are housed in one small section of the U.B.C. greenhouses. The remainder of the 13,000 square feet under glass is devoted to plant nutrition studies and so on. A modern building houses offices, workshops and a lecture room.

All this is the culmination of Dr. Barss' life work. When he retires this spring after 35 years at U.B.C., he'll be wandering back now and then to poke around.

One object of his visits will be to admire his greatest joy—a cutting from the Hampton Court grape vine in Britain.

There is no "overnight cure" for irregularity

But there is a simple, natural answer to the common problem of irregularity due to lack of bulk

There are men and women (perhaps you're one of them) who won't let "nature take its course". THEY TRY TO SUBSTITUTE UNNATURAL "FORCING ACTION" FOR THE NATURAL REGULARITY WHICH SENSIBLE DAILY HABITS AND SUFFICIENT BULK IN THE DIET COULD PROBABLY MAINTAIN.

Many fall into the habit of using laxatives in a way laxative makers never intended. They take "big doses" willy-nilly without even reading the directions on the label.

Naturally, such overdosing—with products intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage—exerts upon the delicate digestive system an unnatural strain.

There's nothing wrong, of course, with taking laxatives occasionally. If you feel you have to take a laxative, just be sure you take it wisely—in an accurate, recommended dose.

BUT THERE IS A WAY TO AVOID TAKING DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES AND TO PLACE YOUR DEPENDENCE ON NATURE, IF LACK OF BULK IN THE DIET IS YOUR TROUBLE.

* * *

In many natural foods—such as certain vegetables, fruits, and grains—nature grows abundant natural bulk which normally and naturally aids the rhythmic process of elimination.

In no other natural food is natural bulk so ideally found as in the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel, known generally as bran.

Bran is nature's "laxative food instead of a medicine". When properly processed and shredded, whole wheat bran yields smooth natural bulk that the digestive system can handle in a natural way.

* * *

The Kellogg Company has made whole wheat bran into a delicious breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN PERFORMS NATURALLY WHAT DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES DO CHEMICALLY. IT HELPS CLEAR THE INTESTINES OF WASTE IN A NATURAL WAY. IT PROVIDES SOFT NATURAL BULK FOR EASY NATURAL ACTION.

There is no stomach upset, no churning, no after-effect except the feeling of satisfaction and fulfillment that comes with natural, normal elimination.

* * *

To obtain lasting relief, of course, Kellogg's All-Bran must be eaten regularly. You can have it for breakfast every morning secure in the knowledge that it isn't habit-forming.

More than one million servings of Kellogg's All-Bran are consumed each day. This popularity of itself is proof that this natural laxative cereal lives up to what we say about it.

But even better proof comes from thousands of satisfied All-Bran users. They write of their own free will to tell us what natural relief they receive from eating Kellogg's All-Bran daily and drinking plenty of water.

EAT KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN EVERY MORNING FOR BREAKFAST FOR 10 DAYS, THEN, IF YOU'RE NOT COMPLETELY SATISFIED, SEND THE EMPTY CARTON TO THE KELLOGG COMPANY, LONDON, ONTARIO—AND GET DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

Remember—Kellogg's All-Bran has helped millions. Why not you?

Council Meets For Ten Minutes

No letters, no petitions, no requests for information, no study of by-laws, no new business.

In fact but for the submission of committee reports by nine of the ten departments, last evening's session of the City Council amounted to an absolute zero. As for the reports themselves, they consisted entirely of presenting bills for payment and were approved without discussion. The entire proceedings lasted less than ten minutes from the time the Mayor read the opening prayer until he pounded the adjournment gavel.

Two of the aldermen, Henri Labonne and Felix Thibault, were absent from the session.

Neil Tracy Guest At Optimist Dinner Meeting Last Night

Neil Tracy, field secretary here of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, was the guest speaker at the weekly dinner meeting of the Optimist Club held last night at the Lasalle Hotel.

In his talk, Mr. Tracy gave an outline of the work being done by the Institute and told of three main objectives which are: (1) "To help the blind directly." That is the blind are given such services as: Free doctor care, dental care, fuel, bus passes, etc.

(2) "Placement for the blind." That is the Institute finds employment for the blind, in places where blind men can do some work. Mr. Tracy said that a man who had only 10% eyesight or less is considered blind because he can no longer earn his living at an ordinary man's job.

(3) "The prevention of blindness". The institute gives help when surgery for the eyes or similiar work is needed.

There are some ninety blind in Sherbrooke alone and it is the duty or every citizen to give them a helping hand, stated Mr. Tracy.

The speaker was introduced by Don Clowery and was thanked by Henry Crochetiere. Seated at the head table were: Cliff Bryant, Neil Tracy, vice-president Paul Nadeau, Henry Crochetiere, Don Clowery and Pete Blais.

Bottling Works Not Total Loss, May Rebuild

A survey of the ruins of the Pure Spring soft drink bottling works plant on Galt Street West revealed today that the cement-cased two-storey building, razed by fire yesterday, is not a total loss.

The bottom part of the building may be repaired as well as the majority of the walls.

Thick black smoke made the building appear to be more damaged than it really was, although damages not yet estimated are very heavy.

Vinet and Roy Regd., operators of the firm, were not available for comment this morning but they are expected to make an announcement within a couple of days about plans for rebuilding.

The origin of the fire which kept firemen from the No. 1 and No. 5 stations on the scene for close to five hours, is not known. Firemen were under the direction of Director Percy Donahue and their fast work saved the building from complete destruction. Last night the firemen pumped gallons and gallons of water out of the building.

The plant is located on Galt Street West about one-half mile from the Military Camp.

Sherbrooke Awarded Third Place In Quebec Fire Prevention Contest

The City of Sherbrooke was awarded third place in Quebec province in Class "B" for its fire prevention work during 1952, F. X. Ahern, assistant Provincial Fire Commissioner, announced in a letter sent to Mayor J. Emile Levesque.

Mr. Ahern's letter to the Mayor read as follows:

"According to the report of the judges of the international fire prevention week campaign for 1952, the City of Sherbrooke won third place among municipalities of the Province of Quebec competing in Class "B," that is those having a population of 25,000 to 100,000.

"It gives me pleasure to draw this fact to your attention and the attention of the council. I believe Sherbrooke will not swerve from the path followed for years under the able direction of its chief, Percy Donahue, who is so ably seconded by the fire brigade and supported by the municipal, school and industrial authorities and others as well as by the entire population.

"I am pleased to add my sincere felicitations on the occasion of this success to those of Hon. Romeo Lorrain, Minister of Public Works, and of Ernest Lavigne, Provincial Fire Commissioner.

"I am attaching a copy of the report of the International Committee which sat in Boston recently.

"When the certificate is received from the 'National Fire Protection Association' I will send it to you."

West Germany Fights Soaring Auto Deaths With High Speed Law

Bonn, Germany, — (AP) — West Germany expects to capture industrial supremacy in Europe during 1953.

Government and industry leaders predict that steel and coal — the sinews of modern industrial power—will set new production records.

The automobile, shipbuilding, chemical and machine tool industries also expect their biggest year since the war.

Already far ahead of France in steel output, west Germany expects to overtake Britain this year. Britain now leads Europe in steel production.

German steelmakers have mapped an ambitious program to expand the capacity of their plants by 2,000,000 tons during the next 18 months.

The smoky Ruhr mills are now turning out steel at a rate of 16,000,000 tons a year. This is close to present capacity.

In 1952, the Ruhr hit its stride with the scrapping of allied production controls and spewed out 15,804,000 tons in the same year.

Britain produced 16,400,000 tons and France 10,900,000 tons in the same year.

Germany's steel industry hopes to turn out close to 18,000,000 tons this year even though the present expansion program will not be completed until the middle of 1954.

Nova Scotia Girl Dancing For Peru

Truro, N.S. — (CP) — A Nova Scotia girl who had mastered the highland fling at the age of seven has become a leading figure in ballet in Peru.

Friends here said Kay MacKinnon, Director of the Peruvian National Ballet, acquired her love of dancing from a great-great-grandfather who was a champion dancer in Scotland years ago. Kay was only seven when she toured eastern Canada with a theatrical troupe.

Later she attended Tufts College in the United States and then went to Paris to study under ballerinas of the Russian imperial ballet. She made her debut in Paris with a Russian company.

In France she married a composer and symphony conductor from Peru, and went with him to Peru on the outbreak of the first world war.

Since then she has founded a school of dancing and organized Peru's first ballet. Reports in the Lima press said her ballets are a great artistic achievement. The Peruvian president was said to have been so impressed with the dancing school's performances that the school now receives a permanent government subsidy.

Plans Nice Welcome For Flying Saucers

Ottawa — (CP) — A government operator, J. Ronald Albert, is the rather lonely Canadian representative of an organization that believes in flying saucers. He is sure they come from other space and want to give their occupants a cordial welcome to earth.

The organization is the International Flying Saucers Bureau, whose letterhead boasts a long list of editors of various science fact and fiction magazines as its international council.

Its motto: "All is possible to one who believes."

"Saucers exist, and I'm sure they come from other space," says Mr. Albert. He adds that he is somewhat lonely; he has been unable to find any others in Ottawa with the same beliefs.

He also believes the United States air force, which has been investigating flying saucers for a few years, knows what they are and is withholding the information, possibly because it is "A little on the terrifying side."

However the IFSB is prepared to believe the saucer occupants are inclined to be sociable. It hopes they are endowed with mental telepathy and know of the bureau's frendly state of Mind.

Mr. Albert has long been a science fiction fan, and in that way became a correspondent of Albert K. Bender of Bridgeport, Conn., president of the IFSB.

The organization wants to exchange information on the saucer mystery, and publishes a quarterly magazine for saucer devotees.

Ottawan Named President Of Allied Women

Fontainebleau, France. — New leadership of the Inter-Allied Women's Club, consisting of officers' wives from the 18 military services of six nations, went recently to Mrs. John L. Plant of Ottawa, who became the second president since the club was founded.

She is the wife of RCAF Air Vice Marshal John L. Plant, deputy chief of staff for logistics at headquarters of Allied air forces central Europe here.

Another Canadian, Mrs. Robert C. Marjorie Staples of Edmonton, was elected treasurer on the same ballot. She is the wife of Squadron Leader Staples, of Sceptre, Sask.

The club consists of women who are married to the military men of the army, navy, and air force of the North Atlantic treaty nations contributing to the central European commands.

Mrs. Plant succeeds Mrs. L. J. Caillivet, the wife of an air force major, also on duty with the AAFCE.

Girl Welfare Worker Liked Tour In Japan

Toronto — (CP) — Canadian Red Cross girls serving as welfare workers for Canadian troops in Japan and Korea have been most impressed by the politeness and friendliness of the Japanese.

Ruth Doern, a Red Cross worker from Winnipeg who has just returned from Japan, has her own explanation. "The Japanese readily bow to authority," she said here. "When their overlords wanted war, they fought. Now they think they'll try peace instead."

Miss Doern said the Red Cross girls found certain Japanese foods were delicious. These were pickled roots, fried fish and some meat fishes. But they couldn't swallow the raw fish which is often seen on Japanese tables.

Because there are so few white girls in Japan, members of the Red Cross corps are deluged with invitations from servicemen. "Going to dances is a must," Miss Doern said. "But very few serious romances develop."

Miss Doern was loaned to the Red Cross by the social service branch of the dominion veterans affairs department, and was in charge of the first Red Cross welfare team that went to Japan last year. She returned recently by air to Vancouver.

The Winipeg social worker said it was "the thrill of a lifetime" to live for several months in a fine Japanese home, which happened to have been the residence of a Japanese diplomatic official now in Britain.

"Like most Japanese houses," she said, "it was built mainly of glass and paper—paper so thin you could almost see through it. It was wonderfully cool in summer but very cold in the winter.

No Money, No Parson Archdeacon Is Blunt

Halifax, England—(CP)—Church of England parishes have been told bluntly to help with the clergyman's bills or go without one.

The Ven. E. Treacy, archdeacon of Halifax and overseer of 100 parishes, says the vicar who combines with his normal religious duties those of community host, church janitor, intellectual stimulator and various other positions will have to get more money. Otherwise he can't continue to give his best.

Besides, scarcity of clergy is such that vicars likely won't be available for parishes unwilling to help with his support.

The archdeacon writes in the Yorkshire Post that Anglicans up to now have been luckier than most denominations since clergy have been paid almost entirely by endowments. These vary but most aren't any too ample in these days. The archdeacon's diocese has an average stipend of £500 gross thanks to a program by laymen for adding to clergymen's stipends.

But for other parishes the archdeacon suggests assumption in part at least of vicarage rent, depreciation, pension contribution, expenses of office and health plan fees.

Frederick the Great made his coffee with champagne and often added mustard to give it a stronger taste.

Mysteries Of Church Organ Are Explained

St. Andrew's Married Couples Club were given a first-hand account of the workings of a church organ at their regular monthly meeting last evening.

Meeting in the church hall the group were given a chalk talk on what happens when an organist presses a pedal or a key and the fundamentals of the organ. From there the group proceeded to the church proper and a closeup of various stops and keyboards on a large organ. Malcolm Brown, musical director of the choir, explained the reasons for great numbers of keys and played a number of the notes to give the group an idea of the great range of the organ.

Following this the group were shown a picture on the organ entitled "Music in the Wind."

Prior to the talk a short business meeting was held under the presidency of Don McIntyre.

The club journeyed to the home of Hugh and Ida Rose for the balance of the meeting. A couple of games were enjoyed and lunch was served by the lunch committee consisting of Joyce and Murdo McDonald and Rev. and Mrs. Ross Adams.

Week-End Spring Conference Held At Grace Chapel

The annual spring conference was held at Grace Chapel, Montreal St., on Saturday and Sunday. Many people from other Churches and Assemblies from the Eastern Townships and Montreal attended the conference.

The speakers were K. Robins, principal of the New Brunswick Bible Institute, E. Anderson and A. J. Reynolds. There were several musical numbers rendered, the music being under the direction of H. Taylor, of Montreal, assisted by Miss R. Robinson.

The Missionary Prayer Group served a delicious meal to the estimated 150 people present. A sincere vote of thanks is extended to all who assisted in any way to make this conference a success.

TCA Cocks An Eye At Air-Map Bunny

Montreal. — (CP) — Pegi Edwards of Victoria, who for the last 10 years has been working in the airways engineering section of Trans-Canada Air Lines, has been causing a bit of eye-strain up aloft.

Pegie is a map-drawer for the airways and also has a feminine inclination to rebel against routine now and again.

So Pegi introduced rabbits.

One day when mapping in forfalized figures indicating trees she doodled in a few extra lines, and there, sitting among the trees, was a 1/31nd-inch-high rabbit.

She thought no one would notice this little feminine touch and left it in.

Shortly afterwards she noticed a group of pilots having some fun over a map. The embarrassed officers said they were "looking for rabbits." Trans-Canada pilots had formed a "bunny club."

Officialdom was not to be outdone however. Department heads heard about it and put out the order "no more bunnies."

Cowansville Man Escapes With Broken Jaw, Nose In Level Crossing Accident

Sweetsburg, Feb. 17—Two Cowansville men escaped with comparatively minor injuries yesterday when their truck ran into a freight train at a level crossing between Cowansville and East Farnham.

Chester Langlois, who operates a trucking service, received a broken nose and jaw and is in hospital in Sweetsburg. Joseph Pare received treatment for an injured hand.

The truck was completely smashed.

Wind was sweeping snow across the road at the time of the accident and Langlois apparently neither heard nor saw the approaching train.

Four Cowansville residents were injured Sunday night when their car went off the icy road between Cowansville and Knowlton.

Nelson Lapalme suffered broken ribs and his wife broke an arm.

Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Jacques received lesser injuries and were allowed to return home, but Mrs. Jacques is still confined to her bed with an injured leg.

The vehicle was damaged extensively.

University Studies Juvenile Accidents

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — The Institute of child health at Sydney University is studying answers to questionnaires sent to 50,000 mothers of young children asking what sort of accidents their children had been involved in.

When they have collated all the answers, research workers at the Institute hope to present an educational and publicity campaign to save other children from accidents.

As any parent might guess, the answers show that 50,000 youngsters will experience just about 50,000 different sorts of accidents. But already the lecturer in child health at the University, Dr. F. W. Clements, has been able to tell parents some of the more common accidents.

These include: falling while running with bottles or glasses, or with sticks, rulers or flags in their mouths; opening car door and falling out; rolling off tables or beds; drinking anything they can reach (especially kerosene or fly spray); pulling hot saucepans or teapots on themselves and falling off fences.

Newest Fire Truck Used For Research

Ottawa — (CP) — The National Council has a new fire truck which races to fires not to put them out but to prevent future blazes.

The truck is stocked with modern research equipment designed to discover how fires start and how they spread.

Its instruments measure radiation from fires, temperatures, moisture content, wind and other fire factors.

The NRC's fire research section was inaugurated in 1950 to investigate how Canadian fire losses can be reduced. The new truck is the first of its kind to be put into operation in Canada.

In 2½ years the fire researchers have checked 33 fires in the Ottawa area. The truck will permit a wider investigation. Eventually it is hoped to extend the study to other parts of Canada.

Reach Top Output In South Alberta

Lethbridge, Alta. — (CP) — Southern Alberta production of new wealth in 1952 reached an all-time high of $173,400,000 in the area served by the CPR Lethbridge division.

This was an increase of $44,000,000 over 1951 and $23,500,000 higher than the previous record in 1948, a bumper crop year.

The big item, as usual, was wheat which produced $81,800,000. The biggest increases were shown in other grains and in hay and feed. Both these categories showed boosts of 50 per cent. The "other grains" were valued at $27,200,000 and hay and feed at $6,000,000.

There was only one decrease—cattle and hogs. This industry was plagued by the foot-and-mouth outbreak in Saskatchewan. Production value was down almost $5,000,000 at $17,450,000.

The wheat crop at 26.5-bushel an acre average amounted to 56,300,000 bushels. The coarse grain, rye and flax crop ran 28,725,000 bushels in 1952.

Ideal weather throughout 1952 helped greatly in creating the increased returns. Poor harvest weather in 1951 cut field produce by an estimated $30,000,000 that year.

Canadian Pilot In Exchange With U.S.A.F.

North Luffenham, England. — (CP)— Flt. Lt. Grant Nichols, 27 year-old RCAF fighter pilot from Sarnia, Ont., is to take up exchange duties with the United States Air Force in Korea.

Nichols has been attached to No. 1 fighter wing here since 1951 and will be the fourth pilot from the wing to serve in Korea. One of the four, Sqdn. Ldr. A. Andy MacKenzie, DFC, of Montreal, became the first RCAF Korean casualty late in 1952 while on exchange duty.

Nichols, former air gunner earned special mention last year as leader of the station's four plane aerobatics team. His parents live at Dresden, Ont.

Suggest "Co-Ed" Detention Homes

London. —(CP)— Why not run detention homes on "co-ed" lines?

This question was raised at a conference of educational associations, including a pioneer society for sex and marriage education in Britain.

During a discussion on such juvenile delinquents as "boy-mad" girls, one members of the society asked: "Is it really any use putting these girls into remand homes and never letting them see a boy? Isn't it inevitable they will break out eventually?"

Dr. Charlotte Fleming, London university lecturer and writer of social problems thought co-educational remand homes "not a bad idea at all." No decision was taken.

Mexican Paintings Shown At Toronto

Toronto. —(CP)— The art gallery of Toronto is presenting an exclusive Canadian showing of the works of a contemporary Mexican artist Jose Clemente Orozco.

The rare and valuable collection consisting of 207 paintings, large photographs of murals, drawings, water colors and etchings, has never before left Mexico.

Charles P. Fell, president of the gallery, said the showing was arranged through the co-operation of the institute of contemporary art in Boston and Maragarita V. Orozco, widow of the artist.

The collection came from Boston and will be moved to Wilmington, Del., on Feb. 22.

Many of Orozco's paintings depict scenes from the Mexican revolution. Others express the laboring man's fight for freedom in Mexico. Included in the collection are canvasses painted in pyroxylin, a type of duco, which show the artist's experimentation in new techniques and styles.

WHAT RUSSIA IGNORES

A conference was held recently in New York under the auspices of the United Nations to discuss the economic affairs in Asiatic countries during the course of which the Soviet delegate, S. S. Nemtchina, made a speech in which he charged that the western countries are dominating the Asiatic world for their own benefit.

But he must have been surprised — or was he? — when the chief spokesman for the Asiatic countries, Ahmad Khaleeli of Pakistan, got up and told him that the Western countries are doing nothing of the sort; that he should "recognize the basic fact that we are today free and independent nations capable of looking after ourselves in economic and other fields." Khaleeli said it was surprising that the chief delegate of the Soviet Union did not show "awareness of the fact" that both India and Pakistan have launched land reforms of tremendous magnitude.

It is Communist policy, of course, to sow seeds of dissension between the East and the West, and to try to make Asiatics believe that the Western countries have no interest in them whatever except to exploit them. That may have been the case once, but it is a very long time ago, and the Western countries, led by Britain, are doing all they can to educate and train the nations within the Commonwealth to improve their economic status and gradually attain the status of self-government.

Pakistan is one of those countries which has been educated to govern itself. India is another; likewise Burma and Ceylon. They are all self-governing now. But if they had been left to themselves they could never have lifted themselves out of the sloughs of ignorance and superstitution. If they had broken away from the ties that long bound them to Britain, or ousted the British as the Mau Mau tribesmen in Kenya are today trying to do, they would have been ruthlessly gobbled up by the Russia that gobbled up Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia, and become serfs for the good of Communist Russia.

And that is what Russia is still aiming at in the Far East.

A NEW WORD NEEDED

Capitalism is defined in the dictionary as "an economic system that permits private ownership of land, wealth and natural resources such as coal and iron, and the right of private enterprise to sell services and goods at a profit."

This definition is very good as far as it goes; but when we speak of capitalism, as opposed to socialism, we think of more than the ownership and management of property. We think of the right to think our own thoughts and to express them, to believe whatever appeals to our reason or to our faith and to teach it to our children.

These things are included in the cause for which this paper is fighting; and because they are so included, we feel that "capitalism" is not a completely satisfactory name for such a cause.

The same is true of the term "free enterprise" which is an essential part of the cause but not the whole of it.

The term "way of life" is even less satisfactory for it might be taken to include some things we are not prepared to fight for.

This leaves us with no adequate name for the cause which we believe the bulk of our people would like to see prevail.

We believe, and we think most people will agree with us, that all human progress dates from the time when man first learned to talk and to commune with his fellows, and that if he had not been free to talk and think there would never have been any progress or any civilization.

We little know how much we owe to the fact that men learned to talk before they learned to set up governments.

We are convinced that the greatest threat to our present civilization is the growing power of the state and the willingness of the people to allow it to direct their thoughts and their actions.

LIMITATIONS ON CENSORSHIP

During the course of a recent interview in Ottawa, the Reverend J. A. MacInnis of Orillia, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, said that legislation and censorship cannot improve the morals of this country. Education is the best instrument for improving morals, he indicated, and the responsibility for improvement through this means rests with parents and with the church. His views are obviously shared by the Kingston Whig-Standard which comments.

We agree with Dr. MacInnis. It is true, as he noted, that a certain amount of "judicious censorship" is necessary, and it may be added that some legislation relevant to morality and immorality is considered essential. Both censorship and legislation in these respects, however, should be closely limited. They should deal with those offences and potential offences against morality which are generally accepted as properly coming within the field of censors and legislators and that should be a rather narrow field in a free country.

PAUL MARTIN IS CHALLENGED

(Editorial in Farmer's Advocate)

The newspapers across Canada have made much of the fact that Federal Minister of Health and Welfare, The Honorable Paul Martin shed 40 pounds in 20 months and thus recaptured his schoolboy figure. He was congratulated in the House of Commons on the noteworthy achievement and altogether he has become a model to thousands of Canadians, most of them women, who would like to be less ponderous and more nymph-like than they currently are. In this leadership role The Honorable Paul Martin carries tremendous responsibility, for as Minister of Health he is expected to do his reducing scientifically and show "fat-fearing females" how they may accomplish their heart's desire without resort to evil nostrums and the ministrations of charlatans.

One newspaper reported Mr. Martin as saying that he shunned potatoes and other starches; and if he actually said it, he thoughtlessly, no doubt, mildly damned a native industry in South Essex where his constituents and near constituents produce thousands of bags of excellent early potatoes. The statement would not go down well in the Maritime Proivnces where potatoes and Maritime Rights mean so much to the people who have been plagued by Upper Canada ever since confederation. Ontario growers are beginning to fear a surplus and in these days of scientific farming they will be asking whether this diminution in Mr. Martin's figure was actually brought about by shunning potatoes or by shunning the huge meals and rich pastries that are contsantly set before a Minister of the Crown. The question is of sufficient importance to the potato growing industry to command the attention of Canada's leading nutritionists; and if they are, the order should be issued at once to ascertain the facts through the process of scientific investigation and research. There are enough potatoes and human guinea pigs to provide the nutritionists with all the experimental material they need.

Some scientists have asserted tha tpotatoes are not a weight-producing food, some say they are, and still other scientists just keep their mouths shut.

That isn't good enough. An industry can never be soundly based on evidence of that kind.

The Honorable Mr. Martin should bow himself out of the controversy and tell the nutritionists to come up with the answer. There are a lot of people waiting for it.

BORROWING A BANK'S LEDGER

Toronto Financial Post

Where we first entered the publishing business, printers considered it great fun to send new apprentices on utterly hopeless missions. They'd be told to go to another print shop and borrow a can of tartan ink, and so forth. When a rookie mechanic started to work in a garage or factory he usually spent his first day looking for "left-handed screwdrivers," or trying to borrow "sky hooks."

Such japes pale into insignificance in comparison with what happened recently in two bank branches in Toronto.

Now the most sacred of the most sacred of all bank possessions is its general ledger. That is something to be guarded with one's life.

On the first day of employment with branch bank A, a new junior clerk was told to go over to the branch of rival bank B and borrow its general ledger. That was equivalent to asking Finance Minister Abbott for a copy of the budget a week before he brought it down in the House.

The youth went to the other bank and asked for the loan of its general ledger. And, by golly, the young clerk to whom he spoke went and got the sacred book and handed it to him. For, by an odd coincidence, it was his first day at that bank!

It would have made a lovely story had we been able to say that the junior from bank A returned bearing the ledger under his arm. But our informant says that an older employee at bank B grabbed it before it was too late.

ALONE IN THE BUSH

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

A Sydney Mines man, now recovering from a broken hip and a broken arm in hospital, can probably thank this Winter's strange weather for the fact that he is alive at all. He went out rabbit hunting, lost his bearings, climbed a tree to see the landscape, fell — and lay helpless for 46 hours until searchers found him.

The incidents illustrates once more the hazards of going out into the woods alone, particularly in Winter when blizzards are apt to overtake the hunter and obliterate accustomed landmarks. A man hunting alone has no one to help him if he breaks through the ice of a lake, or falls, or steps into a hole or a trap, or is injured by his own rifle, nor anyone to raise an immediate alarm if he fails to show up at a pre-arranged rendezvous.

There are experienced woodsmen who spend their lives tracking unaccompanied through the deep timber country and come out none the worse for it. But there is a big difference between their knowledge and resourcefulness and the ability of the average city dweller in the woods.

THE BEST-DRESSED MAN

Sudbury Star

In our books, best-dressed means the clothing most suitable to the occasion, and this is supposed to be the accepted guide to good dress everywhere.

Which brings us to our Northern Ontario trapper with his parka and the lumberjack with his heavy plaid shirt. We maintain that the best-dressed are most properly judged by the clothing they wear that fits their work.

Would our fashion experts say that a morning suit would win a best-dressed award worn in the bush, on the trapline, or underground in a mine?

We wouldn't advise anyone to seriously accept the best-dressed selections of the experts. We don't want "copyists" trying to persuade us "ordinary Joes" to take on a vice-regal appearance in the matter of wearing apparel.

Record Number Of Canadians Expected To Attend Coronation

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Feb. 17—A record number of Canadians is expected among the 800,000 overseas visitors British travel authorities hope to see this Coronation year.

Estimates of rank-and-file visitors from Canada range from 20,000 to 25,000—based on figures available for recent years and the heavy passenger bookings to date.

A lot of signs indicate Canada will lag behind Australia, even though her population of 14,500,000 exceeds Australia's by about 6,000,000.

Australia House, the Commonwealth nation's London centre, expects 30,000 visitors from Down Under. One travel agency, however, places the number at more than 50,000.

New Zealand and South Africa are expected to run about even. Travel booking agents and other sources indicate an influx between 8,000 and 9,000 from each country.

A rough comparative basis can be read from the visitor signatures at Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa houses last year. Australia House led with about 12,000.

Canada House guest book records about 9,000 signatures—"a heavy year"—while New Zealand House signatures totalled about 6,000 and South Africa signatures about 5,000.

The figures are far from comprehensive since many Commonwealth visitors never go near these homes-away-from-home when they visit London.

The Coronation accommodation committee, which handles 300 requests a day from all over the world and has handled more than 20,000 so far, says that in interest Canada and Australia citizens seem evenly divided. Correspondence indicates that New Zealand follows and South Africa trails slightly.

The United States, of course, will contribute the heaviest influx. More than half the queries are from the U.S.

A spokesman at Canada House, who declined to predict Canada's possible contribution, said he is not surprised that Australia, for one, may send more visitors than Canada.

Australians, he said, will out-travel Canadians any day in the week and especially where events such as coronations are concerned.

Canadian travel figures for the peak pre-coronation travel months of April and May are about 9,000 by sea and around 9,000 by air.

These totals are compiled from bookings at the four main Canada-to-Britain travel lines—two by sea and two by air.

Canadian Pacific Steamships Ltd., and Cunard Lines, the sea carriers, had only a few first-class bookings left at last report. Loss of the CPS liner Empress of Canada is a heavy blow, of course.

Trans-Canada Air Lines and British Overseas Airways Corporation, the two air carriers, emphasize that while bookings have been heavy, any tentative estimate of total passengers is subject to revision. They say that schedules will be altered as demand dictates. The estimate of 9,000 is based on the average of one daily flight by each line in the peak tourist season last year. This year's average daily schedule actually is expected to be increased.

The air-and-sea total of 18,000 for April and May excluded coronation visitors who leave Canada earlier than that. It also excludes Canadians who leave from non-Canadian ports or who sail on non-scheduled carriers.

HERE'S HOW CHAMP WON TOURNEY HAND

The hand shown today was one of the most interesting in the world championship between the European and the American champions. B. Jay Becker scored a game for the American team in the "open" room, while one of the Swedish players failed to make three no-trump in the "closed" room.

Becker took the first trick with the ace of clubs and finessed the nine of hearts to East's ten. East returned the three of spades, and declarer won with the king. He next cashed the ace of hearts and gave up a trick to East's king.

When East now returned the jack of spades, Becker carefully held off. He took the next spade trick with the ace, entered dummy with the king of clubs, and ran the rest of dummy's hearts. He could then lead a diamond from the dummy, and East could not prevent declarer from making the ninth trick with the king of diamonds.

In the other room the South player never bid spades, and West's opening lead was a low spade. Declarer won, and ducked a low heart around to East. When East then returned a spade, South had to play low.

West won a spade trick and promptly shifted to the jack of diamonds. This forced out declarer's king of diamonds and established two diamond tricks for East. When East got in again with a second heart trick he cashed his two diamond tricks to defeat the contract.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 Heart	Pass
1 Spade	Pass	?

You, South, hold: Spades 9-6-2, Hearts K-Q-J-7-5, Diamonds A-Q-8, Clubs 9-3. What do you do?

A—Pass. You have a doubtful opening bid at best, since you have only 12 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton. There cannot be any hope for game since North could neither open the bidding nor make a jump bid of some kind at his second turn. Hence you pass in the first convenient part-score contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades 9-3, Hearts K-Q-9-7-5, Diamonds A-Q-8, Clubs Q-J-2. What do you do?

SMELT IN MASSAWIPPI

Dear Sir: In a recent issue of the Record I noticed that at the last meeting of the Massawippi Fish and Game Club they had voted to allow fishing through the ice. This will be a source of pleasure to many who enjoy catching perch but will make no difference with the large fish as the lake trout, glutted with smelt, will bite no better through the ice than they do when fishing from a boat.

Twenty years ago there was a lot of illegal fishing. Nets and night lines were plentiful and the poachers were reaping a rich harvest. At that time it was possible to fish with a troll or still hook and get a good catch. I have photos of beautiful specimens of lake trout caught at that time. I am on the lake nearly everyday during the summer and come in contact with many fishermen, but have not seen a lake trout in the last five years, but I hear of an occasional one being caught. The latter part of last May three carloads of Americans arrived here, fully equipped with modern fishing tackle, two outboards, etc. They arrived Thursday noon and fished until Sunday afternoon and did not catch a fish larger than a perch. They fished around Ayer's Cliff and Bacon's Bay and were much impressed by the beauties of the lake and left about $75 for licences and expenses, but will not come fishing again.

I have heard of two instances of nets being set in the lake, for one night only, and one produced 80 pounds of lake trout and the other a washtub full of lake trout. This shows that there are plenty of nice fish in the lake but they are full of smelt and will not bite. I know a man who caught a 22 pound trout and found 115 smelt in his stomach. He fished three seasons to get the fish.

Smelt are a deep water fish and do not come into shallow water until spring when they fill the brooks and can be dipped out by the bushelfull. Strange to say, these pests are protected by the law. It would seem that local fisherman and people interested in boat liveries, etc., should make a determined effort to put an end to this nonsense and try and regain some of the good fishing we had in former years.

PRICE SUPPORT FOR FARMERS

Dear Sir: I think your "Washington Column" writer (Peter Edson) was overly-modest in the closing lines of his survey of the initial press conference with Eric Taft Benson (new Secretary of Agriculture), when he says: "So, as news, the first meeting didn't produce an awful lot."

The following three points in the thought stream made quite an impression in this farm household: (a) Don't anticipate any sweeping changes in the Department of Agriculture immediately. This is the word from new Secretary Ezra Taft Benson himself; (b) "Now is the time for deliberation, not haste," he says; and (c) There was a general policy statement handout, expressing the hope that farmers could get full, 100 per cent parity on all their commodities—perishables as well as basic crops—in a perfectly free and unregimented economy. But it was also said that the price supports could save the farmer from disaster.

The boys and I had no trouble at all whipping up a smart two-hour discussion on, around and under the above texts. Neither the ayes nor the nays had the field alone, and there were ample supplies of ifs, buts and whereases; but we came to a wide area of common ground within the closing three lines of Mr. Edson's story: The big riddle this poses for the future is how you have a completely free enterprise economy and price supports at the same time.

It was the concensus that in view of the fact that an agricultural depression could menace not only the nation's defence plans but, also, its power to fight for either peace or war, a certain amount of price-support for the farmer might be described as "survival insurance".

SHORT STORY

He Spoke His Piece

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

3-Minute Fiction

Without realizing it Armine had been watching the young man with the black hair and blue eyes. She admitted to herself that he was good looking. Also, he wore his evening clothes with just the right degree of casualness; his face was pleasant and guileless. Dangerous, she thought. The type of man who couldn't be trusted. Deceptive. Like Loring Brookes. Mere thought of Loring gave her a funny little pang.

And then the young man with the blue eyes and black hair started toward her. He weaved his way in among the dancers and tapped Seaver Clark on the shoulder. "Mind if I cut in?" he asked.

"Hope you don't mind? Believe me it took courage."

"Did it?" said Armine coldly. "Am I to feel flattered?"

He grinned broadly. "Sorry I'll quit if you say so?"

"And leave me stranded in the middle of the floor?"

"Well, then, when the music stops." But when the music stopped they weren't on the floor at all. They were out on the terrace.

. . . "Oh, Loring, what a stupid little fool I've been!"

looking up at the moon, and Armine was saying, "I do wish you'd take me back. I'm cold."

"You can't be cold. It's a warm night. Besides, if you start to go back alone I'll grab your arm. And that will make a scene."

She looked at him angrily, but he only grinned. "I've half a mind to do it. It might teach you a lesson."

"It probably would," he admitted. "But please don't. You see, I've been watching you all evening and planning this campaign — bringing you out here. I mean."

"The idea!" Armine tossed her head. "Well, you can bring me right back again."

"Not until I say what I have to say."

"Indeed! And what makes you think I'm interested in what you have to say?"

Suddenly he sobered. "That's the trouble with you — you're never willing to give a fellow a chance. You take him at his face value and let it go at that. It's not fair."

"What! Certainly you can't be serious. If this is some sort of joke, it's a poor one. Please take me back!"

"Wait." He gripped her arm. His face was tense. "You've got to hear me. I know it all sounds crazy. But it isn't. Last year, when I went away in such a hurry it was because my brother had been hurt in a football game. I wrote you the day after I arrived in California. Air mail. It wasn't till a month later that I learned the plane crashed and burned. Then I knew it was too late. I came on east, bringing my brother along with me. He got well—"

He broke off. She was staring at him in amazement. He gestured helplessly. "I tried to look you up, but you'd gone south for the winter. And then in the spring the university sent me up to Canada to do some research work. I got back a week ago, learned you were in town and came here tonight, hoping to see you. I——" He leaned forward and grasped her shoulders, said fiercely "I love you, have always loved you. You haven't been out of my thoughts for a minute. You've got to believe that. I thought at first you did, when you didn't object to coming out here with me."

He turned away, got half-way to the door when she called. "Loring!" He swung back and she came up to him. "Was . . . Robert Brookes . . . your brother?"

"Yes. How did you know?"

"I didn't know. But I read about him in the papers. And I read about the crash of the plane, too. Oh, Loring, what a stupid little fool I've been!"

She was in his arms, sobbing hysterically. Loring held her tight; presently tilted her chin and kissed her mouth. "Darling! I . . . I hate to think of what might have happened if you had objected to coming out on the terrace."

"Objected? Why, my precious, if, if you hadn't brought me out I would have died!"

British Books In University Tour Of Canada

Ottawa. —(CP)— Five sets of British books—each containing 332 different publications — specially chosen by the British Council to interest Canadian university students will leave Ottawa shortly on a coast-to-coast tour. They will be shown at 19 universities during February, March and April.

The exhibition is the second which the British Council has prepared for showing in Canadian universities. The books deal with English language and literature, history, philosophy, politics and economics, classics, education, modern languages, pure sciences, engineering and medicine. They will be set out for display in university libraries.

Handling the tour in Canada is Dr. James J. Talman, chief librarian of the University of Western Ontario, London, Ont.

Sir Archibald Nye, United Kingdom high commissioner in Canada, will open the display at Carleton College, Ottawa, Feb. 16. Simultaneously, the other four exhibits will be put on display elsewhere.

Mr. Duplessis did not mention Mr. McConnell by name, referring only to the publisher of the Montreal Daily Star.

Quebec, Feb. 17—(CP)—Premier Duplessis said Monday in the legislative assembly the Quebec's newsprint manufacturers for continuation of a special newsprint price for Quebec newspapers.

Price of newsprint now is $121 a ton, including federal sales tax of 10 per cent, to Canadian clients. The special price to Quebec clients is $117 a ton, including the federal tax.

A special price to Quebec newspapers was first established in 1952 after Mr. Duplessis conferred with newsprint manufacturers.

When there was talk of a new increase last fall, Mr. Duplessis met the manufacturers in his office and the situation remained unchanged.

Early Training On School Lines For Army Youths

Kingston, Ont. — (CP) — Canada's first 16-year-old soldier apprentices quartered in this area—at the Royal Canadian School of Signals at Vimy and 23 at the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers' school at Barriefield—are finding that life in an army camp can be much like that in any boys' school. Enlistment requirements call for a minimum grade eight education and many of the boys, like identical twins Ronald Gordon and Roger Allen Johnston of Sechelt, B.C., left school to join the apprentice squadron.

Biggest change for the boys is the fact that they are being paid while receiving military, trade and academic training. They receive half the pay of a private for the first year and then go on full allowance according to rank.

Squadron Commander Major R. N. Bindoff says treatment of the youthful soldiers will be of the "soft glove" variety, with a gradual enforcement of discipline.

And that's where the big change in army life occurs. Grizzled sergeants are becoming patient teachers. All officers and non-commissioned officers have been specially selected for the new job.

The soldiers apprentice is signed for seven years but has the option of asking for release at the end of five years. During the first year of training, academic studies —mathematics, physics and English—take up 25 weeks and 19 weeks in the second year. There will be eight weeks of trade training during the first year and 15 during the second.

Each year the soldier apprentice will receive 30 days' leave with full pay and allowances.

The youths are in class from 8 a.m. and take eight 45-minute training periods during the day. After supper there is a supervised study period and then the boys are on their own until 10 p.m. when they are required to be in bed.

They eat at separate tables in the mess halls and are allowed extra rations of milk. Recreational activities are being given special attention with movies three times a week and plenty of sports.

The boys at Vimy held their first hockey practice within one week of their arrival at the camp.

Veteran Of Herd Nurse Cow At 21, Calved 16 Times

Brandon, Man., — (CP) — On July 1, 1951, one of Wesley Smyth's cows had a calf on his farm near Chater, seven miles from Brandon.

Normally, there would be nothing unusual about such a happening on a dairy farm, but this particular calf was No. 16 in a group produced by "Sunbeam Colantha Canary," a registered Holstein cow in Smyth's herd. At the time, Sunbeam was 19 years old.

Sunbeam celebrated her 21st birthday on Jan. 15. and today, more than six years past the time when even the best dairy cows have usually outlived their usefulness, Sunbeam still is being used as a nurse cow in the herd.

Sunbeam's mother was the foundation dam of Wesley's herd. The mother lived for 17 years, and Sunbeam was the result of Wesley's plan to build a well-balanced herd of dairy holsteins.

Of the 16 calves born to Sunbeam, nine were heifers and seven were bull calves. The youngest of the bulls was sold to another holstein breeder in the United States and now is the herd sire of Fred Schmidt's North Dakota registered herd.

Through her lifetime, Sunbeam always has been a good milk producer. She was not given a "record of production" test under government supervision until she was 15 years of age. But even at 15, she produced 13,217 pounds of milk in 357 days, and the butterfat contest of the milk was 4.26 per cent.

Given thesame test three years later, she produced 12,125 pounds of 4.25 per cent butterfat in 365 days.

These tests compare well with other younger cows.

Sunbeam was first exhibited at a summer fair in 1948. Despite her age, she made a good showing.

Registered at birth, Sunbeam later was classified "very good" by a Holstein association official. This classification is just one notch below the top class of "excellent" which is given by the association.

Although old age is beginning to show its effects, Sunbeam is still considered a valuable member of the herd. For some time Wesley has fed her soft foods, for the years have depleted her teeth.

But from Sunbeam's appearance in the barn, it would seem she intends to be around for quite a long time.

Barbara Ann Also Cooks

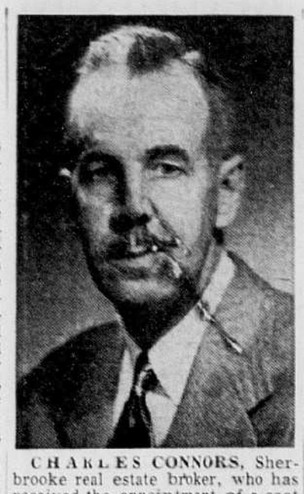

New York. —(CP)— Canada's Barbara Ann Scott is as much at home in the kitchen as on the ice.

The blonde star of the Hollywood Ice Revue, now playing at New York's Madison Square Garden, is also a musician, a golfer and a horsewoman but, she told interviewers, her daily preoccupation is with cooking.

Wherever she goes two trunks go with her. One carries her personal wardrobe and skating equipment. The other holds an electric oven, toaster, coffeemaker, plus pots, pans and jars of preserves.

"I don't care about the other hotel accommodations," said Barbara Ann. "But I always insist that the suite must have a kitchen.

"It's silly, but I love home so much and in the life I lead I'm never home, so I take it along with me."

Defence Project To Cost Millions

Cold Lake, Alta— (CP) —Huge sums of money are being spent in this formerly isolated area of northeastern Alberta, 180 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Cold Lake has been chosen by the defence department as the base for a new $30,000,000 airport and bombing and rocket range which will straddle the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary.

Hundreds of people are moving in to take advantage of the district's new-found prosperity.

New hotels and hundreds of homes have been built here to accommodate the increasing population and Canadian National Railways is pushing a line into Cold Lake. An all-weather road already has been completed and ample electric power is available.

The airport, located five miles from the town, will include one of the largest hangars in western Canada. A contract valued at $4,500,000 already has been awarded for its construction. Other tenders, estimated at $10,000,000 have been called for construction of 21 other buildings. They will house staff and residents unofficially estimated at between 3,000 and 4,000 persons.

The construction program includes two concrete runways, one mile and 1½ miles in length, respectively.

Several hundred new homes will be put up to house air personnel who will reside at the airport.

Honored For Fine Attendance Record

London, Ont. — (CP) — A friendly dentist, has been honored for never missing a weekly Kiwanis meeting in more than 24 years' membership.

Dr. E. A. Reid, who has been present at nearly 1300 gatherings in Canadian and United States cities, was recently presented with a special attendance pin. Once he organized an impromptu meeting aboard ship to maintain his record.

Now he's aiming to beat the 37-year score of George Hixson of Rochester, N.Y., first president of Kiwanis international.

Dr. Reid once took time off from a Hastings county fishing trip to drive 100 miles to Belleville, Ont., to attend a club meeting. While aboard the liner Empress of Australia in 1934, he convened a group of Kiwanians for a session.

A Kiwanian is given credit for appearing at meetings of any branch. Consequently Dr. Reid, on vacation or attending conventions, has attended meetings in Detroit, Seattle, Indianapolis, Quebec, Montreal, Miami Beach, Tampa, Clearwater and Atlantic city.

The Londoner, who says attending is a pleasant obsession, joined the service club more than 25 years ago in Benton Harbor, Mich. He moved here in 1932.

Sees Big Change In West Germany

Saskatoon — (CP) — A former Saskatoon woman who spent five years in Europe working for the Canadian government thinks one of the greatest thrills of the experience was coming back to her own country.

Mrs. A. Esson, the former Edith Amas, went to Germany for the Canadian Labor department. She also worked in Italy and Denmark and spent vacations in Eire, England, Scotland, Spain, Switzerland and North Africa.

"It was wonderful to go but it is wonderful to be back," said Mrs. Esson. "I can feel for those people who can never go back to their own country."

Mrs. Esson first went to Germany in 1947 when bomb damage was everywhere, people were roaming the country in search of food, there were no street lights and there was nothng in shop windows.

In contrast, nowadays there is no rationing in West Germany. There are new stores and hotels, neon lights everywhere and the shops are filled with goods. The Black market, if it has not disappeared, now is greatly reduced. Even cigarets are available in the stores.

In 1947 labor department officials interviewed chiefly displaced persons who wanted to come to Canada. These camps had been closed for more than a year. Lately Mrs. Esson's work has been among German nationals who are interested in employment in Canada.

In Europe, she said, there is more formality in home entertaining. For instance, no guest would ever arrive for tea without bringing a bouquet of flowers.

Last year the federal government collected $25 million from Newfoundland in direct taxes and returned $45 million to the province in subsidies, welfare payments and grants.

Canadian Gift: Dream Kitchen For Alexanders

Englefield Green, Surrey, England — (CP) — Countess Alexander's "dream" kitchen, complete with the kind of gadgets British women usually see only in movies and exhibitions, has finally been installed.

Two rooms had to be used to accomodate the $9,000 worth of household devices sent from Canada as a parting gift to the wife of the former governor-general who now is Britain's defence Minister.

The equipment includes an electric stove, water heater, food mixer, refrigerator, deep freeze, toaster, exhauster fan, automatic dishwasher, automatic washing machine, clothes drier, coffee maker and electric steam iron.

The color scheme in the kitchen proper is off-white walls, white splash boards, red working-top tables, turquoise blue cupboards, red leather seats in the breakfast nook, red-and-white curtains and a stainless steel sink.

The floor is of squares made of narrow strips of plywood, providing a surface which requires less maintenance than a rubber floor.

Connected to the kitchen proper is an utility room holding the deep freeze, washing machine, clothes drier, ironing boards and heated line cupboards. There is also a sewing-machine table that can be moved to any position.

Above the sink in the main room is a decorative fixture with concealed lighting, brightened by Lady Alexander's own china. Above the stove is an adjustable hood to trap cooking odors.

The Alexanders are understood to be deeply appreciative of the gift, which gives them a kitchen probably without equal in Britain, a country whose household standards are generally lower than in Canada and the United States. Lady Alexander told a reporter recently she was "bowled over" by the generosity of Canadian women.

The kitchen equipment is installed in a rambling old house called "Beech Missing," on the Surrey-Berkshire borders. The architecture is of what Lady Alexander calls the "Victorian Horror Period," but the house is comfortable inside.

Winner Of Pools Remains On Job

London, Feb. 17 —(Reuters)— Jack Coulton, 41-year-old London insurance clerk, went to work as usual today after hearing he had won £109,000 in a fluke double win in two of Britain's enormous soccer pools for a total bet of 12 shillings.

From the results of last Saturday's professional soccer games, Coulton knew he had won a lot of money. He didn't know how much until today.

But he still went to his office, because it is short-staffed owing to the current flu epidemic.

"I don't know what I'll do with it," he said.

But one of the first things he probably will do is to pay off the mortgage on his house, where he lives with his wife and six-year-old daughter. He put a down payment on the house last year, out of another £500 he won on the pools.

Last week, Coulton picked out eight of the 50-odd soccer games he figured might end as draws, and entered two of the big competitions. All eight draws came up and he won £75,000 in one and £34,000 in the other.

Another £75,000 was won by a Southampton man, who preferred to remain anonymous.

History Test At Leeds University Proves Shocking

Leeds, England —(CP)— Results of a history test at Leeds University Institute of Education shocked the masters.

Of 1,000 students, only 75 per cent knew that Neville Chamberlain was prime minister at the time of Munich. More than 200 named Winston Churchill, who was not in the government at the time, Ramsay MacDonald, who died in 1947, and David Lloyd George, prime minister from 1916 to 1922.

"Many answers shocked me so much I could not believe them," said Rev. J. W. Packer, a lecturer. The pupils, aged 15 to 20, muffed other questions. Out of every 100, 33 believed England lost Calais through the rFench Revolution of 1789, instead of by war in 1558.

Many did not know that Good Friday is the anniversary of Christ's death or that Christmas is the birthday of Christ.

Select Engineers To Study In U.K.

Ottawa. — Some 38 of Canada's young engineering graduates are to be selected to go to Britain this fall as Athlone fellows.

James Thomson, United Kingdom deputy high commissioner, is making a coast-to-coast tour, visiting 11 Canadian universities to make the selection. He is accompanied by Dr. William Abbott, a senior official of the UK ministry of education.

The Athlone fellowships were instituted in 1951, and the "first generation" of fellows will be coming home this summer on the completion of their stay in Britain.

Thirty-eight fellowships are offered each year—28 to students in their final year, and 10 to graduates who have spent some time in industry. Fellows go to Britain for a two-year study during which they follow post-graduate programs of advanced practical work or research.

The fellowships are financed by the British government and the award covers all travel costs, living expenses, and any academic fees that have to be met.

Reds Blamed For Danish Army Revolt

Copenhagen, Feb. 17.— (AP) — Danish military authorities questioned hundreds of soldiers today, seeking instigators of a wave of small-scale army mutinies and hunger strikes against extension of the army service term.

An army announcement disclosed that some 600 men were involved in demonstrations against the increase in their service terms, from 12 to 18 months, that broke out Monday in six military centres.

More than 300 of the demonstrators mutinied at two garrisons and started to march on Copenhagen. The first group of 80 from Soegaard were turned back by a tough speech from their area commander Gen Richard Allerup.

Another 246 from the Hadersley garrison in South Jutland were halted by civil and military police five miles from their starting point. Most of the men returned voluntarily. Some who tried to escape were taken into custody.

Army announcements disclosed that 300 other troops staged hunger strikes at Aarhus, farther north in Jutland, and at three other garrisons. Troops also staged a sit-down strike for several hours on Bernholm Island.

Troops of the Royal Guards Regiment in Copenhagen asked permission to put their views before Defence Minister Harold Petersen.

Although top military officials refused to comment, military sources privately expressed belief that Communist propaganda was one of the main causes of the outbreak.

Danish Reds have been campaigning against extension of the draft term, decided on as a part of Denmark's obligations as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

An army announcement said that the soldiers were being questioned to determine whether their demonstrations were spontaneous or inspired by "civilian circles."

Peeresses Wear Crimson Velvet For Coronation

London — (CP) — Many of the wives of newly-created Peers are unlikely to possess the costly robes and coronets traditionally associated with the coronation ceremony, and Queen Elizabeth's dressmaker, Norman Hartnell, was asked to design a simple and inexpensive robe and headdress.

The Queen made a final choice from several designs submitted to her, and the favorite is a charming robe of crimson velvet which fits the waist and is open above and below to show the dress.

The gown itself most be of white or cream-colored material with brocading, or gold or silver embroidery. The hemline of the robe is edged with white fur, forming a train 18 inches in length on the ground, compared to the usual three or four yards.

For wearing with this robe and gown, there is a becoming "cap of state" which fits the crown of the head and is worn behind the tiara. The cap is bordered with a narrow strip of white fur and has four bands of gold braid running from the centre to the edge. The cap is completed by a gold or gold-colored tassel or similar decoration which may consist of a knot braid ending in drop pearls in the centre of the crown.

These headdresses are used at a dramatic moment of the coronation, when the crown is placed on the Queen's head, all the peers and peeresses simultaneously raise their arms and put on their own coronets or caps of state. At this moment, a fanfare or trumpets is sounded and shouts of "God Save the Queen" are raised.

Women seated in the body of Westminster Abbey may wear evening or afternoon dresses as they wish, but no hats. For this group Hartnell has designed graceful veils in tulle, chiffon, organza or lace. These may be attached by a comb, jewelled pins, flowers or ribbon bows. Feathers may not be used, because they may obstruct the view of others.

Test English Wheat In Southern Alberta

Medicine Hat. — A new type of hybrid wheat developed in England will be planted in southern Alberta this spring on an experimental basis.

The wheat-known only as No. 46—is a record producer. Nine acres were planted to the grain in England last spring and produced 134 bushels to the acre.

T. E. Brown of Cassils, Alta., mid-way between Medicine Hat and Calgary, will plant the new wheat on his combination farm. Mr. Brown has been a consistent winner at the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto and the international competition at Chicago.

He visited Toronto last fall and obtained some No. 46 seeds from C. E. Marsters Ltd., seed specialists who developed the strain and introduced it on the commercial market in England in 1946.

The new wheat was bred for the fertile fens and silt lands of England. It has a strong straw and is a heavy yielder. It has been widely grown in England in the last two years and its popularity has spread to less fertile areas, where it has been found that it does well with generous fertilizer treatment.

Growers have expressed some doubt as to the new wheat's suitability for the more rigorous North American growing conditions and Mr. Brown's experiment will be followed with interest by all Prairie farmers.

Sound Sensitivity Acute In Animals

London — (CP) — Do cats (and maybe dogs) have an edge on human beings in this supersonic age?

Neville Duke, British test pilot, thinks so. He told a reporter his particular tabby one day leaped two yards in the air for no apparent reason.

Seconds later, Duke heard the "bang" of a plane passing the sound barrier, and deducted the cat must have known what was coming.

A Sunday Times realer suggested an explanation. Maybe, he said, the supersonic bang, striking the ground, travels along it six or seven times as fast as the speed of sound through the air.

The reader said dogs can "foretell" the noise of blasting operations 1,000 yards away. Once he pressed a stick on the ground, and found through this medium he could detect the noise as quickly as the dogs.

Another reader told of a cat which during blitz days could distinguish between the sound of a flying bomb and a plane, though occasionally foxed by thunderstorms. And a first world war veteran recalled his unit mascot, a pet half-persian kitten which anticipated enemy shels with such sensitivity it was half believed she could hear the German battery commander giving the order to fire.

DRUMMONDVILLE

On Thursday evening, February 19th, the local Squadron of the R.C.A.F.A. will hold its monthly meeting at the Memorial Hall on Marchand Street. This particular meeting should show a very large turn out of all members, as voting will take place for a new committee executive to be formed, which will be followed by an address by an out of town speaker.

If those employed in the primary textiles industry worked in one place, with their dependents, they would populate a city exceeded in size only by Montreal and Toronto.

The Doctor Says:

PARKINSON'S DISEASE PERMITS SOME ACTIVITY, NO FATIGUE

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

In response to many inquiries concerning Parkinson's disease, this subject is discussed again, even though previous columns have been written on it and no strikingly new developments have occurred during the past few years.

Parkinson's disease is a chronic condition of the nervous system sometimes also called shaking palsy, or paralysis agitans. This disorder causes muscular shaking of the hands and arms, and a sort of stiffness of muscular movement.

Parkinson's disease is a slow process and tends to last for a great many years. There is no pain and the mental condition is usually normal, except perhaps after the disease has existed for many years, when there may be some slowing of the mental process. There may be periods of improvement of the palsy.

The most common form is that which develops in older people—men more often than women—as a result of some obscure process which may be connected with hardening of the arteries or something else which is not clear.

Severe anxiety or mental or physical shock sometimes seems to bring on the symptoms. It begins gradually, usually in one hand and at first the shaking may not be present all the time. Together with the tremors there is some loss of muscular strength and stiffness.

Muscular movements tend to be performed more slowly and with greater difficulty. The handwriting, for example, is usually affected. There are some other symptoms, especially a tendency to lack expressiveness in the face, which are often present.

Drugs Halt Shaking

People who have this condition, regardless of the nature of that which produced it, should be especially careful to avoid fatigue. Although medicine does not have any cure or completely satisfactory treatment, there are several drugs which are often helpful in controlling the shaking.

Strenuous activity or entertainment should be avoided, but a fairly active life with some work is good for most. Cold water treatments, special exercise, sunbaths, massage and vitamin preparations have all been tried without much success. There is no immediate outlook for improved treatment, though in time this, too, will doubtless come.

Miss Greenwood, assisted by her aunts, Mrs. Etta Manning and Miss Agnes Greenwood, and by Mrs. William Rollins, proceeded to unwrap the gifts, which revealed useful articles of linen, china, kitchen ware, blanket and many other things for her new home. Miss Greenwood expressed her appreciation to all.

The remainder of the evening was pleasantly passed playing interesting games, with prizes awarded to the winners. At tables, a delectable lunch was served by the hostesses. A bride's cake, made by Mrs. Lacroix, which was presented to the bride-elect by Miss Laberee, was cut and passed around.

Coaticook Anglican Men's Club Hosts To Lennoxville Club, Victoria Lodge

Coaticook, Feb. 17. — On Thursday evening the officers and members of the Anglican Men's Club were at-home to the officers and members of the Men's Own of Lennoxville and to the members of Victoria Lodge No. 16, I.O.O.F. of Coaticook with their wives.

Forty-five people came from Lennoxville and there were some eighty in the Guild Hall. Carpet bowling was played at eight carpets, the teams being chosen from Lennoxville and Coaticook for the evening's sport. Two ends were played. The winning team was composed of Miss Taylor, C. McKee, Mrs. S. Gratham with J. Cowan as skip; runners-up were Mrs. Murray Grady, R. Hurtle, Mrs. George with J. Spray as skip. These two teams had total points of twenty-three each and had to cut to determine the ranking. Consolation was won by R. Woodside, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. McKee and Roger Stitchman, skip with a total score of three points.

In the absence of both the president and vice-president of the club the secretary acted as chairman and asked the rector of the parish, Rev. W. J. Rowe, to welcome the guests.

M. Covert and M. Grady presented the prizes. R. Woodside, president of the Men's Own of Lennoxville, expressed the thanks of his club and their ladies for the invitation, stating that they had enjoyed a very pleasant evening and were always glad to visit the Coaticook club. Others who spoke for a few moments were Rev. Dr. Perry for the I.O.O.F., Lawrence Parker, secretary of the Men's Own, and Mr .and Mrs. S. Gratham.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee or tea were served by the hosts before the happy gathering broke up, with many expressed hopes of soon meeting in a similar party.

MID-WEEK UNITED SERVICES

The second in a series of mid-week united services for the congregations of the three Protestant churches in Coaticook was held at the United Church on Wednesday evening, Feb. 11.

The Scripture lesson was read by Rev. K. K. Miller and the worshipers were led in prayer by Rev. W. J. Rowe. An interesting, timely discourse was delivered by Rev. Dr. W. B. Perry. Members of the regular United Church choir assisted in leading the singing of the specially chosen hymns.

The first of these Wednesday evening joint-services was held at the Baptist church, at which time a thought provoking address by Rev. Mr. Miller, pastor of the church, was heard.

These special, one hour periods of praise and meditation, arranged by the three local clergymen, who also take an active part in each service, will no doubt further increase the already fine spirit of of co-operation and understanding that exists among the members of the churches concerned.

Those who may have been unable to attend the previous meetings are reminded that the third, and we hope not the last, meeting will be held Wednesday, Feb. 18, at the Anglican Church.

STAMP CLUB

A new group and one which will grow both in interest and membership as it becomes more widely known, was formed on Friday evening as several persons gathered at the home of Dr. Gustave Lajoie and elected officers for the society to be known as "The Coaticook Stamp Club."

Jay N. White was named president and Dr. Lajoie, vice-president. Mrs. F. Labarre was elected secretary-treasurer.

Short talks were given at this organization meeting by Mr. White and Ivor Whitehouse on the general care of albums and hints on how to start a collection.

The club plans to hold regular meetings and have special speakers who will pass on information both for beginners and more advanced collectors. The next meeting will be held February 20 at the home of Dr. Lajoie and anyone interested in joining the group is urged to contact any of the above named officers.

Stamp collecting is an interesting and educational hobby and it is believed that the club will shortly have a large membership. The coming meeting will feature a talk on "Canadian stamps."

POLICE REPORT

The month of January was the quietest period for some time as far as the local police and fire departments were concerned.

There were only 3 arrests, one for drunkeness, one for speeding and the other for careless driving. Drivers are warned that even the minimum allowed rate of speed is often too fast when the streets are in an icy condition.

There were two lost animals returned to owners, two dangerous places reported, 3 cases of protection and 7 doors found unlocked. There were 11 traffic tickets given out, 7 miscellaneous inquests were held. One automobile was stolen and recovered and the thief arrested.

There were 16 fire calls, of which eight were chimney fires and seven were stovepipe fires. One out of town fire call was answered by the Coaticook force, this being the disastrous fire at the home of Mr. Charles Edwards.

ODDFELLOWS LODGE

Members of Victoria Lodge enjoyed a social hour following their regular Tuesday evening meeting. There were several visiting brethren present from lodges at Ayer's Cliff and Sherbrooke and friends of the members were also invited.

The gathering enjoyed a showing of three interesting films obtained through the efforts of Bro. W. B. Perry, convener of the entertainment committee. These films showed final games of the World Series baseball and Stanley ley Cup hockey finals. The other movie was filmed by Dutch Air Lines and showed in brilliant colors the beauty spots in the various countries where its planes land.

Border Home And School Association Hears Satisfactory Financial Report

Rock Island, Feb. 17. — The February meeting of the Border Home and School Association was held on Monday evening in the Sunnyside school gym, with approximately thirty-five members attending, and later in the evening were joined by a group of the Derby Line Parent-Teachers club.

In the absence of the president, T. A. Peasley, who was ill, the chair was taken by the first vice-president, Howard Wells. The secretary read the minutes of the past two executive meetings held since the last regular session, and the treasurer gave a most satisfactory financial report, stating that all out-standing bills have been paid and there is a balance on hand with which to carry on the project of the Association, the serving of hot lunches at the noon hour. The report also stated that at the dance held on January 30, at the Sunnyside gym, $131.53 was realized after all expenses had been paid.

Mrs. Catherine Mitchell read an appeal from the Children's Aid Fund, resulting in a motion that the sum of $10 be sent to them. Slayton Perkins, chairman of the Traffic Safety League committee,

West Shefford Correspondent Records Birthday

West Shefford, Feb. 17. — Mrs. J. P. McMahon received the congratulations of her friends on January 31, when she became a septugenerian. Born in Dunham at the early age Clara Ann Harvey moved to Granby, with her parents, the late Edward Harvey, chemist, and his wife Jo-Ann McDonald Harvey, and remained there until her marriage to Mr. J. Patrick McMahon, of West Shefford, on September 8th, 1908—45 years living here therefore makes Mrs. McMahon a thorough Sheffordian! Her husband was mayor for a score of years; his operating the local meat market and, later, lumbering, provided avenues for Mrs. McMahon's getting to know people. In fact so well known are Mr. and Mrs. McMahon that letters addressed simply, to "Jim and Clara," have been known to reach them!

Still the official correspondent, Mrs. McMahon, has, for more than 15 years, faithfully looked after the interests of the Sherbrooke Daily Record here.

Her innumerable friends, irrespective of race and creed, young and old, here and elsewhere, wish Mrs. "MAC"—as she is popularly called, "ad multos annos,' marked with continued good health, usefulness, and happy sunlit living both in her home and in a village towards whose life she has, during these 45 years, made a distinctive contribution.

ANNUAL VESTRY MEETING

The annual vestry meeting of St. John's Anglican Church revealed a year of progress, spiritual, financial and otherwise. This is most gratifying to the incumbent, the Rev. J. H. M. Brett, B.A., and the congregation, small but willing in heart and devoted to Christ and His Church. For 1953 Mr. Clarence Sweet will act as clergyman's warden; Mr. Arthur Stone, people's warden; and Messrs. Stone and Arthur Wilkinson as delegates to the Diocesan Synod, Mr. Ernest Donaway accepted the position of secretary. Miss Lang continues as organist. With the enthusiastic, wise guidance of Mr. William Lang, the cemetery has a guarantee of continued "loving care," inspired by their pioneer forebears, who went forward "by faith," this congregation faces the future.

A QUILTING

Mrs. Joseph McMahon entertained at a quilting at her home on Tuesday, February 5. At 6 p. m., Mrs. McMahon, who is a charming hostess, served an excellent dinner, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Martin Enright. The nine ladies present were, Mrs. J. P. McMahon, Miss Lang, Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Michael McMahon, Mrs. Arthur Dunn, Mrs. Myles Enright, Mrs. W. Enright, Mrs. Boucher and Mrs. Beard.

AN 82 YEARS OLD FULFORD VISITOR DIED

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brunton have the sympathy of their friends in the death of their father, Mr. Homer Brunton. Their friends also admire them for making provision in their home so that their father, accompanied by his wife, could with them spend his closing days. The end came on January 27 last. The Burial service and interment took place in Fulford on January 30.

General Notes

Upon her return to her home, "Birdhaven," after a pleasant visit to Montreal, Mrs. N. J. Snodgrass unfortunately developed "flu." Now she is about as usual. Mrs. Edith Comtois of the Wales Home, Richmond, has written that she, too, was an influenza victim. This unfortunately has not helped her weakened heart condition. To her Shefford friends, Mrs. Comtois sends 'kind remembrances."

Mr. James Armstrong came from Knowlton for the funeral of his brother-in-law the late Mr. Homer Brunton.

While Mr. Cecil Quinlan attended the meeting of the R. C. School Commissioners here on the evening of February 9th. Mr. John Dunlavey called on Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McMahon.

In the absence of Mrs. I. Lemon, Mr. Wells read a report of the meeting of the regional council held in Lennoxville in January. Remarks were heard from Mrs. Dustin, who had attended the meeting with Mrs. Lemon, from Dr. E. C. Amaron, Peter Leckie-Ewing and Mr. Hackett. This was followed by a motion to the effect that the executive be given the power to name two members of this Association to attend the next meeting of the council..

Pope's Heavy Task Might Be Lessened By New Cardinals

By FRANK BRUTTO

Vatican City — (AP) — At full strength now for the first time in two centuries, the college of 70 Cardinals of the Roman Catholic church may ease the tremendous burden the Pope has carried for the last 14 years.

Spiritual leader of 425,000,000 Roman Catholics, the Pope has aged visibly in the post war years in which the church's fight with communism has become almost total.

The seemingly frail Pontiff will begin the 78th year of his life next March 2. His birthday will mark the start of the 15th year of his Pontificate.

Last month's consistory in which he named 24 new princes of the church—among them Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal—to fill the college's roster was prefaced by the rupture of the Vatican's relations with Yugoslavia, its last diplomatic tie with any communist country.

Since the death in August 1944, of Luigi Cardinal Maglione,, Vatican secretary of state, the Pope has named none to succeed him but himself has carried the top responsibility in this increasingly burdensome office.

How intricate and important its ramifications have become, as, one by one, diplomatic ties with iron curtain countries have been broken, was dramatically indicated by the Pope himself at the consistory.

He told the assembled Cardinals that the two men he had chosen to head the list of the new Princes of the church had begged him to be permitted to decline the high honor.

These were his chief assistants in the secretary of state office—Monsignors Giovanni Battista Montini and Domenico Tardini.

Vatican sources said one reason for their request, granted by the Pope, was that they might continue the work they have been directing for several years. The Pope named them pro-secretaries when the list of New Cardinals was made public.

Several members of the Vatican Curia, charged with administration of the sacred congregations, have doubled up on their tasks.

Two or possibly three of the four Apostolic Nuncios who have been created Cardinals may be called to Curia work.

The fourth, Guiseppe Cardinal Roncalli, Apostolic Nuncio to France, is spoken of as a possible candidate for Patriarch of Venice, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Archbishop Carlo Agostini.

Apostolic Nuncios, one they become Cardinals, no longer may serve as Nuncios.

Twelve Italian Cardinals and one Frenchman, Eugene Tisseran, are now assigned to the Vatican Curia.

Of the ten Italian prelates elevated to the College of Cardinals, in addition to the four Apostolic Nuncios, three already are engaged in curia tasks.

Clemente Cardinal Micara now holds two complex tasks—that of the Pope's vicar-general for Rome and pro-prefect of the Congregation of Rites.

Another Cardinal who has doubled up on jobs is 76-year-old Guseppe Pizzardo, who holds the secretaryship of the Supreme Congregation of the Holy Office and is perfect of the Congregation of Seminaries and Universities. Both are normally full-time, one-man jobs.

Monsignors Tardini and Montini both hold a complexity of positions. Their most important are, for Montini, pro-secretary of state for ordinary affairs; for Tardini, pro-secretary of state for extraordinary affairs.

Both are consultors on the Supreme Congregations of the Holy Office and Consistory. Montini is a member of the Pontifical commission for Russia. Tardini is its president.

Movie Thriller's Harmonica Theme Played By Canuck

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London. —(CP)— In "Street of Shadows," a British thriller to be released later this year, Tommy Reilly, a Canadian, provides much of the spine-chilling effect.

Throughout the film, the six-foot-two musician from Guelph and St. Thomas, Ont., plays a harmonica theme that heightens suspense in much the same way as the zither added drama to "The Third Man."

The screen story tells of London's Soho district underworld, a limping man and the girl he murders. Stars are Hollywood's Cesar Romero and Yorkshire's Kay Kendall, granddaughter of celebrated Edwardian star Marie Kendall.

Reilly's contribution is two harmonica themes called "Limping Man" and "Street of Shadows." Film people are already predicting that "Limping Man," with its life-like tempo suggesting the murderer's uneven steps, will rise to popularity with the same speed as the "Harry Lime Theme."

This is the first time a harmonica has been used as background for a film. Eric Spear, composer of the hit tune in the British play "Meet Mr. Callaghan," wrote the score and picked Reilly for his ability to read harmonica music.

"Few people who play the harmonica can read a score," said the 33-year-old Reilly, who took just one day to record the music for "Street of Shadows."

Reilly fought his way to recognition here and on the continent after five years in wartime concentration camps. While most harmonica men prefer street-corner jazz, he plays Bach, Beethoven and other classical music in concert halls and radio.

In Festival of Britain year, a concerto was specially written for Reilly to play as part of a symphony concert called "London Rhapsody." He is believed the first harmonica player ever to "solo" with a symphony orchestra.

At present, the tall, brown-haired Canadian is broadcasting and touring Britain on concert work. Soon he is to record music as background to a documentary film on the Dunkerque beaches.

Reilly first came to Britain in 1935. His father, who ran a children's harmonica band in Canada, was invited to Britain to work with a well-known harmonica manufacturer.

Reilly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Reilly, return to Canada this year to spend their retirement on home ground.

20-Year-Old Wife Stepmother Of 10

Durham, Ont. — (CP) — When Agnes Pinder married last year she became stepmother of 10 children. Since then she has added one of her own to the family.

At 19, she became the wife of 40-year-old George Picken who had been married twice before. The children who came with her husband included four from his first marriage and one from the second. Five orphaned stepchildren of Mr. Picken's second marriage also became her charges.

The family of 13 live in a six bedroom farmhouse in the pine hills district, three miles south of here.

The oldest child in the family is Margaret Birr, stepdaughter of Mr. Picken. She's as old as her new mother. The youngest is Kenneth, Mrs. Picken's own three-month-old son.

All the children don't live at home now as some of them are working in other cities, but on week-end as many as possible gather around the family dining table.

Special Pottery For Coronation

London. —(CP)— Famous English pottery firms are marking the coronation of Queen Elizabeth by producing "special edition" pieces.

Dorsetshire firm that produces ware known as Poole pottery is making special pieces finished in matt white glaze with broad areas of lupin blue and bearing the royal cipher and date in deep brown. Other touches of color are in lilac and yellow.

The decorations were designed by A. B. Read, associate of Britain's Royal College of Art and designer for industry of the Royal Society of Arts. He is also designer of the Poole firm's coronation beaker.

Made in a fine semi-porcelain body, Poole ware is finished either in the well-known two color egg shell glaze effect or in matt white glaze with hand-painted decorations. Another type of ware developed in Poole during recent years is finished with a colored clay facing under the glaze with white interiors and trim.

The ultimate target is 20,000,000 tons a year, probably by 1955. Britain, too, is aiming to boost output to 20,000,000 tons but not until 1957.

The phenomenal comeback of Germany's war-battered steel industry gives steelmakers here confidence that Ruhr steel output soon will be second in the world only to the U.S. and Russia.

Less than eight years ago, 50 per cent of Germany's steel capacity was out of action from war damage and the breakdown of supplies. After the war, some 6,700,000 tons capacity were ripped out by the allies under the reparations and dismantling programs.

In 1946, west Germany turned out only 2,551,000 tons of steel. By 1949, output jumped to 9,156,000 tons, then to 13,506,000 tons in 1951.

Despite this, German steelmakers face serious problems. Their equipment is old. A lot of it would have been replaced long ago by U. S. standards. But investment capital for both expansion and modernization is scarce.

Some industry leaders say between 3,000,000,000 and 4,000,000,000 marks ($714,000,000 to $952,000,000) should be pumped into steel plants immediately, much of it for modernization.

They note that British private enterprise is pouring 1,680,000,000 dollars of new capital into steel in a long-term program to raise output.

In Germany, the steel industry itself will have to finance most of the present expansion program. Later, the Schuman plan high authority is expected to underwrite loans from outside sources to expand and improve the steel industries of the six member nations, including Germany.

In other fields, the germs expect to push coal output to 129,000,000 tons in 1953 or almost twice what France and the Saar produce together. German coal production in 1952 hit 123,000,000 tons.

Battle On To Label All Home Chemicals Accessible To Tots

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

Newark, N. J. — (AP) — A battle against unsuspected poisons that kill little children is being waged here by Dr. Morton J. Rodman, of Rutgers University College on Pharmacy.

The unsuspected poisons are seemingly harmless things which a child may swallow out of curiosity. Often, there's no label telling what chemicals they contain—no clue to an antidote.

So Rodman, a pharmacology professor, is compiling a checklist of products that have poisoned youngsters—and the antidotes—in an effort to cut down the annual toll of 600 youngsters dying from poisoning.

It covers things like cosmetics, perfectly safe when used externally but potentially fatal to a child exploring his mother's boudoir and things like metal polish, paint removers, insect repellents, all manner of products around the house.

There's no foretelling what a child may take a fancy to drink, Rodman explains. If the contents aren't fully known, doctors lose precious time trying to learn what poison the child has taken and how to counteract it.

A child might sometimes be better off if he had drunk from a bottle with a skull and crossbones, a label telling what poison it contained. The physician then at least would know what he might do.

The idea for a list of contents of various commercial products, with antidotes if wrongly used, grew from calls from physicians to the pharmacy college asking for quick chemical analyses of products. Sometimes the college was able to give the answer in time.

Many poisoning fatalities could be avoided if all chemical products listed their ingredients, whether or not they were meant for internal use, Rodman said. That at least would supply a start toward treatment to counteract the poison.

Another phase of his campaign is speaking to women's groups, telling them of the hazards in some commonplace and seemingly safe products.

"Once the women hear about the actual poisons in their homes, and what they can do to children, they are usually pretty careful afterwards about leaving "harmless" powders and liquids around where youngsters can get at them."

Q—Where was the Declaration of Independence kept during the British attack on Washington in the War of 1812

A—There is a legend that Dolly Madison rescued the Declaration when the British destroyed Washington in the summer of 1812. Along with other government papers it was taken to Leesburg, Virginia, and stored until after the war.

BRAVES HERE TONIGHT IN FINAL APPEARANCE OF SEASON

Third Place At Stake Tonight In Crucial Tilt; Nils Tremblay Is Only Doubtful Starter In Fixture

Tonight's game here with Toe Blake's Braves is a "Must" as far as we are concerned, stated Ivan Dugre, coach of the local squad, early this morning.

The winner of tonight's tilt will move into sole possession of third place in the standing and for this reason it is a very important battle for both clubs. In the other scheduled game the pesky Cats of Shawinigan Falls will move into the Forum to tangle with the second place Royals.

Tonight's visit of the Braves is their final one, unless they come in the palyoffs, and each team has two victories to their credit. The winner will obtain the edge in season play. The Saints won the opener 4-2 but dropped the next two by the counts of 3-2 but in the last tilt they registered a 4-3 verdict over the Braves to even things.

No definite changes are expected in either lineup and Coach Dugre is hoping to have Nils Tremblay back in action along with Rene St. Hilaire. Tremblay received his injury in the last minute of play Saturday in Chicoutimi and missed Sunday's tilt against the Aces. St. Hilaire failed to make the trip but it is hoped he will be able to take his place tonight.

The rest of the club survived the "suicide trip" in fair shape and no other serious injury was reported. At present the Braves hold two games in hand and trail the locals by a single point hence all the more reason that the Saints must come up with a win.

The Braves are trying to make a bid to overtake third place in the standing but the Senators and the Saints are still in the scramble. All three clubs are making a real fight for the higher spot and from now in every game is an important one for all concerned.

Commission Gives Chuck Davey Clean Bill After Probe

Chicago, Feb. 17—(AP)—The Illinois athletic commission was told Monday that Chuck Davey was in excellent physical condition for his fight with Kid Gavilan, showed no symptoms of the flu and had a vitamin shot instead of a penicillin shot a day before the bout.

The IAC hearing probed published reports after the fight last Wednesday that Davey was weakened by the flu bug.

Davey was knocked down four times in the welterweight title bout by champion Gavilan and was unable to come out for the 10th round.

The commission wants to determine whether Davey actually had the flu or whether members of his entourage said he did as a means of alibing.

Saint John Swamp Caps 7-1 In Playoff Opener

Saint John, N.B., Feb. 17—(AP)—Saint John Beavers trampled Fredericton Capitals 7-1 Monday night when the New Brunswick Senior Hockey League playoffs opened. The winner of the best-of-seven series will play Moncton Hawks in the finals.

Johnny Choyce, with three goals and two assists, sparked the Saint John offensive. Doug Hewey scored two goals. The Beavers led 6-0 before Tim Bliss counted Fredericton's tally late in the third.

Sedgman Edges Kramer In Marathon Fixture

Teaneck, N.J., Feb. 17—(AP)—Frank Sedgman bounced ahead of Jack Kramer Monday night, winning in three sets, 10-12, 10-8, 12-10, and making the over-all score in their pro tennis tour stand at 15-14 in Sedgman's favor.

They played for two hours and 18 minutes before a crowd of 3,500. It was the longest game in their pro tour.

Pancho Segura maintained his mastery over Ken McGregor by posting a 6-2, 6-1 victory. This gave Segura a 24-6 match lead.

Because of the length of the Sedgman-Kramer match, the customary doubles were cancelled.

Randy Turpin Earns Nod Over Duggie Miller

Leicester, Eng., Feb. 17—(AP)—Randy Turpin, Britain's contender for the world middleweight boxing championship, outpointed Duggie Miller, an old pro from South Africa, over 10 rounds Monday night before a capacity crowd of 8,000.

It was an easy victory for Turpin, former middleweight champion of the world.

The Leominster Larruper took command from the opening bell. He dropped the easy-to-hit Miller for two in the second round, for eight in the ninth, and had the South African on the canvas twice in the last round.

Exact weights were not announced but each had to make 163 pounds for the non-title fight. Turpin is the British, and British Empire middleweight champion.

Moncton Hawks Edge St. F. X. In Exhibition

Moncton, Feb. 17—(CP)—Moncton Hawks, leaders of the New Brunswick Senior Hockey League, Monday night defeated the touring St. Francis Xavier University team of Antigonish, N.S. 8-7 in an exhibition game.

The collegians, holders of the Maritime Senior Hockey Championship, had a 4-1 lead midway through the second period but were unable to hold it.

Magog Badminton Club Cops 'B' Championship

Magog, Feb. 17 — The Magog Badminton Club won the "B" team championships in the southern division of the St. Francis Valley Badminton League when they beat Les Fusiliers 4-1 last night.

Playing on their home court, the Magog team almost clinched the "A" title as well as they beat Les Fusiliers 4-1. No team can catch up with Magog in the "B" league but in the "A" section they have 11 points compared with 13 for Les Fusiliers but have a 5-point game in hand with Bishop's University. To win the championship Magog must beat Bishop's 3-2 in the final game of the season.

Following are the results of the games played last night: "A"—George Corbiere beat Jacques Codere, 15-0, 15-4; Ted Holt and Mac Kingsland beat Freeman Clowery and Gordon Harmer, 15-8, 5-15 and 18-13; Miss Gwen Gaunt and Mrs. E. Christie beat Mrs. M. Walden and Mrs. N. Rousseau, 15-12, 15-8; Mrs. R. Trew and Bob Lang beat Jack Dauncey and Miss Liliane Thibault, 15-7, 11-15, 18-14. Miss Kay Thompson won by default for the only point for the Sherbrooke squad.

"B"—Bruce Cotterell defeated Doc Veilleux, 15-11, 12-15, 15-10; Miss Betty Webster beat Miss Pauline Bergeron, 17-14, 15-5; Mrs. M. Kingsland and Mrs. Ted Holt beat Miss Suzanne Choquette and Miss Bernadette Gregoire, 15-3, 15-9. Don Heinerth and Guy Auger won the only point for the local team with a 17-14, 15-5 win over Allan Channell and Lorne Meek.

Three Swaps Involving Four Clubs And Six Players In National Loop; Russ Meyer Goes To Dodgers In Shift

New York, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Hot-headed Russ Meyer, who won 13 games for Philadelphia last year, was traded to Brooklyn Monday as a series of three swaps involving four clubs scrambled player-talent in half the National League.

Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia were the principals in a fast-moving game of "who owns Russ Meyer?" with Cincinnati later joining the party.

At one stage the Dodgers had announced a trade with Boston for Meyer while, as far as everybody knew, Meyer still belonged to the Phillies.

They cleared it up eventually with separate announcements from the four cities:

Here are the developments:

1. Brooklyn gets Meyer.

2. Philadelphia gets first baseman Earl Torgeson.

3. Boston gets first baseman Joe Adcock, shortstop Jim Pendleton and cash.

4. Cincinnati gets infielder Rocky Bridges and a Boston player to be announced later.

Here's the way the deals broke:

1. Brooklyn announced it had traded Bridges and Pendleton to Boston for Meyer.

2. Philadelphia announced it had traded Meyer and "some cash" to Boston for Torgeson.

3. Boston announced it had traded Bridges and a player to be announced later to Cincinati for Adcock.

The result may will have an important bearing on the National League pennant race. Meyer's acquisition by Brooklyn, which has been looking for a regular starting pitcher since the World Series, could be an important move.

Meyer, 29, is a righthander with good stuff, although a little hard to control when his temper flares. He has been a solid pitcher in the National League with a better than .500 lifetime record since he came up with Chicago in 1946. Last year he had a 13-14 season with the Phillies.

With Preacher Roe, Billy Loes, Carl Erskine, Joe Black and Meyer, the Dodgers will be much stronger in pitching than they were a year ago.

The Phillies hope they picked up a long-ball hitting first baseman in the 29-year-old Torgeson although the bespectacled veteran had a poor .230 season in 1952. He is a lefthanded hitter and can ride the ball out of the park on occasion. Still he hit only five homers and drove in but 34 runs in 122 games last year after finally chasing rookie George Crowe off the bag.

Now it will be up to manager Steve O'Neill to figure where he can use both Torgeson and Eddie Waitkus, the Phils' regular first baseman since 1949.

Boston got a replacement for Torgeson from Cincinnati in Joe Adcock, a righthanded hitter who has a burning desire to play first base. At Cincinnati he had to play the outfield because Ted Kluszewski had the first base job. Adcock was one of the better hitters last season, batting .279 with 22 doubles, 13 homers and 52 runs batted in.

The other new Bostonian is Pendleton, a 27-year-old Negro who hit .291 and clouted 11 homers for Montreal in 1952.

For Adcock, Cincinnati winds up with Bridges, a scrappy little infielder who has filled in for the Dodgers the last two years with great efficiency.

Brompton Edges Lennoxville 2-1 In Close Tilt; Tangle Tonight In Second Game Of Semi-Final Playoffs

Bromptonville; paced by the Leblanc brothers, eked out a close 2-1 decision over Lennoxville in the first game of the semi-final playoffs of the Massawippi Valley Hockey League Sunday afternoon.

The second game of the three-out-of-three series will take place this evening in Lennoxville when the two teams will meet again. The third tilt is slated for Thursday with the fourth Sunday back in Brompton and the fifth in Lennoxville on Tuesday, Feb. 24.

In the first period Dubois got the first penalty for slashing and then just before the end of the frame J. Emond and Cote got the thumb for high-sticking each other.

The middle session the teams battled at top speed but failed to tally any goals although they were close. The third period saw Warner register the initial marker, assisted by Elkas, but two minutes later G. Leblanc accounted for the evener and then a minute later he tallied the winning tally to give the Brompton team a 2-1 victory and take a one game lead in the series.

Gordie Howe Still Paces N. H. L. Scorers; Within Striking Distance Of Tying Record; Holds 41 Goals

Montreal, Feb. 17— (CP) —The weekly deferential bow to the regal Detroit Red Wings and their brilliant Gordie Howe is in order. That done, there should be a ripper of a party for Boston Bruins, the National Hockey League team of the week.

The Bruins were the only team with a perfect record last week. In their three games they bopped off the proud, league-leading Red Wings, the lowly New York Rangers and finally the second-place Montreal Canadiens.

The three wins moved them from fifth to third place in the league standing. They still are nine points behind Canadiens but have three games in hand over the Montrealers.

The Red Wings got the jump on the other teams this week, playing a Monday night game and plastering a 3-1 defeat on the skidding Chicago Black Hawks, who had already tumbled from third to fifth in the merry scramble for playoff positions.

This victory increased the Red Wings' lead over Canadiens to six points. With 69 points they still have a game in hand over Montreal.

Howe continued to make the individual scoring race a runaway. The 24-year-old right-winger became the youngest player in NHL history to reach the 200-goal mark. He followed through with his 201st, but against the Hawks Monday night picked up only an assist.

His total of 41 goals and 34 assists for 75 points puts him within easy striking distance of the record 86 points he set two seasons ago and duplicated last year. He is also steadily moving up to goal record, 50 in one season, held by Maurice Richard of Canadiens.

Ted Lindsay of Detroit, harvesting two goals and three assists in four games, including last night's, is second in the individual scoring with 57 points.

Richard, pointless last week, remained in third place with 50 points, only two ahead of Wally Hergesheimer of New York.

In the tight battle for goaltending honors both Terry Sawchuk of the Red Wings and Gerry McNeil of Canadiens sliced fractions from their goals-against averages.

Holding the Hawks to one goal Monday night helped Sawchuk, who trimmed his average from 2.04 to 2.02. McNeil, at 2.08 last week, now has 2.05.

Ted Lindsay of the Wings is still the most penalized player in the league with 100 minutes. Toronto Maple Leafs continue the most penalized team, with 708 minutes.

Yankees Re-Acquire Schmitz From Reds

New York, Feb. 17—(AP)—New York Yankees announced Monday they have re-acquired letfhanded pitcher Johnny Schmitz from Cincinnati Reds and also have signed Bill Miller, another southpaw hurler, to his 1953 contract.

Schmitz was purchased by the Yankees last season from Brooklyn Dodgers. He appeared in five games with the New Yorkers and had a 1-1 record.

The veteran moundsman was sent to the Reds last August in the deal which the Yanks obtained pitcher Ewell Blackwell. In three games with Cincinnati Schmitz posted a 1-0 mark.

Big Bob Baker Floors Cesar Brion Twice To Win In Lopsided Tilt

Brooklyn, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Big Bob Baker of Pittsburgh floored Argentine Cesar Brion twice on his way to a lopsided, 10-round decision at Eastern Parkway Arena Monday night in a fight that proved nothing except the durability of the South American. Baker weighed 210¾, Brion 200½.

The two judges, Charlie Rosen and Jim Reilly, scoring it a 10-0 shutout for the Pittsburgh Negro. Referee Eddie Joseph found for Baker, 8 to 2.

Fielder Retains Lead; Burnett Places Second

New York, Feb. 17—(CP)—Guyle Fielder of St. Louis Flyers increased his leading point-total to 60 last week with 19 goals and 41 assists to his credit in the American Hockey League scoring race.

Second place went to Kelly Burnett of Syracuse with 57 points. Lorne Ferguson of Hershey and Ike Hildebrand of Cleveland tied for third with 56 each.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh continued to reduce his goaltending average. He has permitted 114 goals in 49 games to set the pace for the netminders with an average of 2.33.

Mayer, Johnny Bower of Cleveland and Gordon Bell of Syracuse tied in the shut-out department with five each.

Armand Savoie Pounds Out Upset Decision Over Jimmy Carter To Boost His Stock; 5,698 Attend

Montreal, Feb. 17.—(CP)—Armand Savoie's ring stock got a big boost as a result of an upset victory Monday night over Jimmy Carter, world lightweight boxing king.

Savoie, Canadian lightweight champion, won a split 10-round decision in the non-title bout with a strong bid in the late rounds. He weighed 138¾ and Carter 136¼.

Most ringsiders agreed with the majority decision and felt the Montrealer fought one of the best fights of his professional career.

Referee Johnny Gow and Judge Rene Ouimet both scored Savoie the winner with five rounds, giving Carter four and calling one even. Judge Leon Germain made it 5-4-1 for Carter.

But prospects on a return bout with the New Yorker's world title at stake appeared dim.

After the fight, Willie Ketchum, Carter's manager said this of Savoie:

"You can keep him. He'll never get a fight for the title. I thought we won the fight but I guess its one of those decisions."

Savoie's manager, Cliff Sowery, said his boy fought the "best fight of his career and I'm wondering who looked more like the champ."

The turning point in the fight was the eighth round when Savoie hurt Carter with jolting lefts and rights and kept up his advantage in the ninth. In the final round he was trying repeatedly for a knockout. Carter appeared in trouble but recovered and both boys were swinging toe to toe at the bell.

Carter was best at close-in fighting, using sharp, short rights effectively. Savoie got in his best work with long lefts and occasional looping rights.

There were no knockdowns, but Carter suffered a slight cut at the side of his right eye in the fifth.

Savoie was the more aggressive and the New York Negro frequently went into clinches.

The gate was announced as $17,150, with 5,698 paid admissions.

Battery Wins Cage Playoff Opener; Windsor Or Bishop's Are To Meet "International" Girls Of Montreal

The 35th Battery ran "Y" Athletics ragged in the second half of the E. T. Basketball League's "A" series semi-final opener last night to take a one-game lead in the best of three.

Battery outscored Athletics 36-9 in the last two periods to take the game on the Lennoxville High School floor 65-32.

Second match of the series will be played at the Sherbrooke "Y" Wednesday evening and the series winner takes on the winner of the Thetford- R.C.E.M.E. argument. Thetford leads R.C.E.M.E. 1-0 in games with the second game scheduled for Thetford Mines Thursday evening.

In the meantime, word has been received that the girls from Harry Weber's International "Y" have won the ladies' basketball championship of Montreal and will meet the winner of the Windsor Mills-Bishop's University series in this district this Saturday night.

Windsor Rockettes hold a 16-point margin over Bishop's going into the final game of the two-game points' series at Windsor Mills tomorrow night.

The first game of the provincial semi-finals will, therefore, be played at either Windsor Mills or Bishop's Saturday night with the second game in Montreal a week later.

In last night's game at Lennoxville High, superior conditioning and more accurate passing paid off for Ken Jackson's Battery team.

Although Battery could outscore them by only six points, 29-23, in the first half, the Athletics' score of nine was quadrupled in the second part of the game as the older Athletics simply wilted on the large gymnasium floor.

Al Hunting with 15 points and George Beaulieu with 14 were leading scorers for Battery while Bill Fuller was top point-getter for Athletics with 13 points.

Summary:

"Y" Athletics: Martin 1, Ross 4, Baird 7, Strickland 6, Fuller 13, Ross Hunting 1, Campbell, Strew. Total—32.

35th Battery: Al Hunting 15, MacFarlane 6, Beaulieu 14, Goodhue 6, Smith 7, Petts 4, Boland 5, Ethier 5, Stafford 1, Evans 2. Total—65.

Referees: Dave Turnbull and Marcel Fortier.

Allie Reynolds May Quit Baseball At End Of This Season; To Take Up Oil Business And Attend To Family

Miami Springs, Fla., Feb. 17—(AP)—Allie Reynolds, at the very peak of a brilliant pitching career, says he may quit baseball at the end of this season.

The great New York Yankee righthander, in a surprising interview, frankly stated that baseball presented an unhealthy situation for him and added:

"I doubt if I'll come back, especially if we don't win the pennant."

Allie had his greatest season last year, leading the league in earned run average and strikeouts, ranking second in shutouts and third in complete games and in winning percentage. He placed second to Bobby Shantz in the most valuable player balloting

The 34-year-old Reynolds, who capped his first 20-game winning season in 1952 with two World Series victories over Brooklyn Dodgers, declared he had informed the Yankees of his intentions during a salary confab last month.

"Baseball has presented an unhealthy situation for me," he said. "It has kept me away from my family for too long. I'm no youngster any more and the children are pretty well grown now. I'll be celebrating my 18th wedding anniversary next July. Since I've been in baseball I've spent very little time with my family. They've sort of grown away from me. I don't think it is fair to them. I feel I owe it to them to give up the game.

"I can do much better away from baseball from a financial standpoint. I have a good business all set up, one that will enable me to make more money than I could make from baseball. The day I leave baseball I will step right into the oil business.

"Baseball in general and the Yankees in particular have been very fair with me. I am grateful to baseball for what it has done to me. It is because of baseball that I am able to go into the oil business in the first place. The best thing that a fellow can get out of baseball is not the money but the associations and contacts he can set up for himself after his active career is over."

Kiners Expect Visit Of Stork This Summer

Palm Springs, Calif., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Ralph Kiner, the home-run clouter with Pittsburgh Pirates, says he and his wife expects a visit from the stork this summer.

Mrs. Kiner is the national women's indoor tennis champion, Nancy Chafee.

Ralph still hasn't signed a 1953 contract, but said he told Branch Rickey, Pirate general manager, Saturday, that he "won't be hard to deal with."

Kiner received a reported $90,000 for his work during 1952, and although he expects a cut this season, the amount remains in question.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Baseball men say that Hank Greenberg, Cleveland's general manager, has been gun-shy of trades since he made the unhappy deal two seasons ago which let Orestes Minoso, the Cuban flash, get away to Chicago White Sox.

It was the acquisition of Minoso which, probably more than any other factor, set the Sox charging up the American League depths into a position of contention for the flag. Manager Paul Richards built his team around the speedy Negro.

"The beating Hank took on that one has left him permanently scarred," a rival league official told us the other day. "He's afraid to even talk trade nowadays."

Every so often we like to keep the horsy set advised of the movements of Ben Jones, the trainer for Calumet Farm, and his intentions toward the Kentucky Derby, which he has won three times in five years. Ben, currently campaigning at Santa Anita, is quoted as follows by Oscar Otis in the Daily Telegraph here:

"I'm not absolutely convinced as yet that Calumet has truly solid Derby horses this year. We'll find out more as we go along. On at least three occasions I've been rather doubtful of our Kentucky Derby prospects, perhaps most of all with Ponder. I wasn't at all sure we had a chance until after the Derby Trial.

"I guess we'll be in the neighborhood of Churchill Downs about Derby time if one of our colts should really develop."

This is just in case the owners of Native Dancer and Straight Face were wondering if Ben intends to show up.

Boston Braves are hopeful that their $52,000 bonus pitcher, Johnny Antonelli, will finally fulfill his great promise when he returns to them this spring after a two-year hitch in the army at Fort Myers, Va. Johnny pitched in 44 service games and won 42, averaging 18 strikeouts a game. After their miserable experience of last year, the Braves deserve any break they might get.

Red Wings Chalked Up Another Win At Expense Of Chicago Cousins; Howe Failed To Score In 3-1 Win

If Detroit Red Wings could spend all their time playing Chicago, the rest of the National Hockey League could take the winter off and wait for the playoffs.

Through fair weather and foul, the Wings have looked forward to their dates with the Black Hawks this season. And eight times in 11 meetings they haven't been disappointed.

The Hawks, NHL doormat in past seasons, have had a good run for the money this year. They led the league for a spell, and even now, when they appear to have run out of steam in their current fifth-place spot, they can still make things rough for some of the glamor clubs in the circuit.

But whenever Detroit shows up they have an unhappy habit of doing everything wrong.

It was the same old story Monday night, as they visited the Wings, spotted them three goals in 24 minutes and spent the rest of the evening trying to catch up. Ex-Detroiter Jimmy McFadden cut the margin by one, but Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk held them off the rest of the way for a 3-1 setback.

That made it eight wins, two ties and a single loss for the Wings against their Chicago cousins for the season.

The Hawks kept a sharp eye on Gordie Howe, who tallied the 200th and 201st goals of his career at the Hawks' expense as the Wings bowled them over 4-1 in Chicago Sunday. Big Gordie had 10 shots on Al Rollins, but the Hawk netminder stopped five and the others were wide of the mark.

Howe managed to pick up an assist on Ted Lindsay's first-period marker, running his point total to 75—just 11 short of the NHL record which he set in 1951 and equalled last year.

Glen Skov and Marty Pavelich drove home the other Detroit goals in the second period.

Everyone in the NHL takes a holiday Tuesday night. The Wings move into Toronto for a date with the fourth-place Maple Leafs Wednesday while Boston Bruins visit New York Rangers.

Art Larsen Levels Blast At American Davis Cup Heads; U. S. Will Never Win Mug Unless They Change System

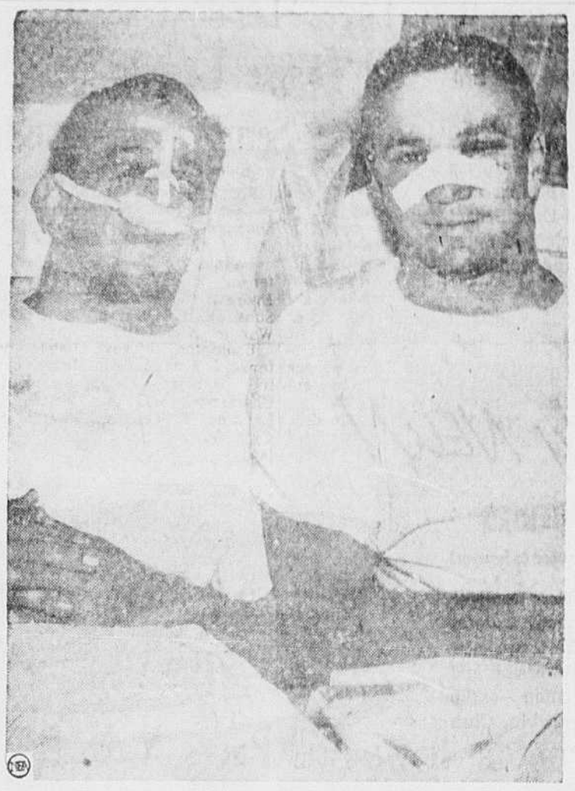

New York, Feb. 17—(AP)—Tennis' one time problem child, lefty Art Larsen, levelled a blast at American Davis Cup chieftains Tuesday and said the U.S. will never win back the cup until it "gets some organization."

"The Australians work and plan on their Davis Cup teams—they're always building," the 27-year-old southpaw stylist added. "That's where they have it over us.

"We don't know until five minutes before a match sometimes who's going to play for us. Then a guy is picked and the others get their morale shattered. We have no system, no organization."

Larsen, 1950 national champion and now third-ranked nationally, is here for the national indoor championships.

"I once wanted to play on the Davis Cup team more than anything in the world," Art said. "I thought it would be a great honor, a great thing for my tennis. But now it no longer matters—I don't care whether I ever play on the team."

IT WAS A GREAT FIGHT, MOM—Looking like they'd been in a street fight, Johnny Strzykalski, left, and Frankie Albert in San Francisco's St. Mary's Hospital tell each other about their operations. Strzykalski had his nose broken eight times. His 49er teammate had his remodeled after 17 years in football. Both have retired. (NEA)

BEAUTY BATTERY—Pitcher Joe Black, left, who shampooed many a National League batter last season, wasted no time getting down to work at the opening of his new cosmetics business in New York giving Beatrice Nixon a shampoo. Battery mate Roy Campanella combs the coiffure of Elsie Blair. (NEA)

Say Strong Interests Behind Drug Traffic Among South Africans

Johannesburg — (AP) — Traffic in Dagga (Marijuana), backed by powerful interests, is increasing in South Africa, according to a government committee which has been investigating the racket for three years.

The spread of dagga smoking is alarming, the committee says, and severe penalties should be imposed on growers and those selling the drug.

Formation of special police force is urged together with the introduction of more mobile police patrols. The committee also believes dogs should be trained to hunt secret caches and vehicles used by peddlers should be confiscated.

Dagga is grown in every area of high rainfall in South Africa, especially where there are Africans and where the nature of the country-side favors secret cultivation.

The traffic is extensive, highly organized and secret. Large profits are made and the traffic appears to be conducted on an independent and competitive basis.

All races in South Africa, white and black, are involved but the African is the most active and numerous.

Dagga-smoking in moderation is fairly widespread throughout rural areas among Africans. Most tribes regard it as a tribal custom and usually it is confined to older men.

But in the cities the practice is largely restricted to delinquent youths and young men, who smoke it in ordinary pipes or rolled as cigarets or mixed with tobacco.

Among white people the vice is largely confined to vagrants and criminals. Some women vagrants have taken to the habit. European dagga smokers are usually found in the bigger cities.

The government committee thinks it is not enough just to punish offenders. It is also necessary to improve the social and economic conditions which produce drug addiction and other evils.

"The basic cause lies in the social and economic conditions under which non-Europeans live, such as poor living and housing conditions, limited scope of employment, insufficient facilities for recreation and education and lack of parental control."

There is evidence that fairly big quantities of this evil drug are smuggled into South Africa from neighboring British and Portuguese African territories.

Hornless Cattle Favored In West

Regina — (CP) — A cow's horns one served a useful purpose but western farmers, concerned with shipping and other problems, now regard them as a nuisance. Hornless cattle are gaining in favor.

Now horned animals are penalized. In Saskatchewan a fund has been built up by docking $2 from the sale price of each horned animal put through the stockyards. In Alberta the penalty is $1.

A delegation representing farmers of the province recently discussed with the Alberta government possible measures aimed at reducing the number of horned cattle.

In Saskatchewan and Alberta money obtained from penalties is used by the provincial governments for livestock improvement such as assistance to purchasers of commercial bulls and in artificial breeding work.

Horned cattle, in shipping and in stockyards, use their horns to bruise and tear other cattle. The penalties are designed to encourage stockmen to dehorn their animal.

Dehorning can be done in calfhood by rubbing a chemical preparation over the budding horns or "buttons." Saws and similar dehorning instruments are used on adults cattle with horns.

Some cattle, such as the Aberbeen-Angus, have been bred hornless for generations. And the time may come when most cattle are born hornless. The trend toward "polled" animals is spreading. But at present the majority of breeders of dairy cattle still bring out their animals with horns.

In the days of the open range the cow made good use of her horns to protect herself and her calf against coyotes and other wild animals.

But the cow of those days wasn't the beef animal of today. She did not pack any too much meat, was quick on her feet and could run almost as fast as a deer. She was far different from the low-set, meat-packed animal which now now grazes on the prairies.

When the open range passed out of the picture and the rancher began breeding animals with more meat by using Aberdeen-Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn blood, horns began to get into the nuisance class.

Gives New Hope To Armless Girl

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — Dr. Henry Kessler, noted American Orthopedic surgeon, has brought new hope to an Australian girl who was born 12 years ago without arms.

The doctor, head of an orthopedic surgery institute in Newark, N. J., is visiting Sydney as the guest of the New South Wales society for crippled children.

Freckled Janette Kremer, daughter of a railwayman at the mining town of Lithgow, came with her parents to see if she would be able to use artificial arms. Dr. Kessler said he could operate on her chest muscles so that they could control artificial arms.

He showed her films of other children who had lost their arms. Janette thought they were "rather clumsy."

New CBC Series Exchanges Lore With Australia

Toronto — (CP) — Australia has sent one of the world's strangest animals—the spiny anteater—to mark the beginning of an exchange of school broadcasts between Canada and Australia.

The anteater was flown across the Pacific to be presented to the city of Toronto by the Australian high commissioner, Francis Forde, in a ceremony at the CBC studios here. The Toronto zoo already has a good collection of Australian animals and birds, but no anteater, so the new arrival from Australia is a valuable addition.

It's one of only two types of animals in the world that lay eggs. The other is also Australian—the duck-billed platypus. The spiny anteater sometimes called the echidna, bears a superficial resemblance to the Canadian porcupine and is about the size of a hedgehog. It carries its young around in a pouch until the baby's spines get too awkward for the parent.

The school broadcast exchange programs between the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the Australian Broadcasting Commission have been more than a year in preparation. Six months were spent in a study of school curricula in the Australian states and Canadian provinces, and another six months in preparation and revision of scripts of the actual recordings.

Knife And Fork Used By Hunter To Shoot Moose

Fredericton — (CP) — This is the story of a moose that was shot with a knife and fork, a frog orchestra and other strange events in the life of the late Dr. O. E. Morehouse.

His son, Dr. O. E. Morehouse has an extensive array of natural history exhibits collected by his father. Few specimens of Canadian wild life fail to find a place among the Morehouse collection.

One of the prize trophies is a mounted caribou head, one of the last killed before that species of wild life vanished from New Brunswick.

Another set of moose antlers carries the tale of the knife-and-fork shooting. Dr. Morehouse and several friends, so the story goes, had a hunting camp not far from the home of a shrewd hunter who happened to be out for game birds, armed with shotgun and bird-shot ammunition.

He spotted a moose, which didn't spot him, giving time to plan his course of action. First he emptied the small shot from the shell, broke off the blade of his jack-knife and rammed it into the casing.

He fired from 2 yards and the moose fell, founded but still full of fight. This time the hunter used a piece of iron fork from his ration kit. That shot did the trick.

Another of Dr. Morehouse's top attractions is his collection of frogs. He had one set mounted in different positions, armed with musical instruments and arranged as an orchestra. It took two years to complete.

Also extensive is the weapon collection, including various types of old pistols and muskets and more modern weapons.

Only Shakespeare Escapes Book Purge In East Germany

Berlin — (Reuters) — Writings of Lenin and Stalin, chief prophets of "modern" communism, are the two chief victims of communist east Germany's four-year-old book purge.

West Berlin book trade sources and anti-communist groups report that more of their books have been withdrawn, re-edited and reissued than those of any other author.

Strangely enough, the only author so far to escape the purge is William Shakespeare. His works still are published in full.

When the purge started, commissions with lists of "tainted" books swept through libraries and publishing houses. The list alone of banned titles now runs 200 pages and the total number of "purged" copies is between 4,000,000 and 8,000,000.

The Spanish classic Don Quixote, by Cervantes, has been reissued with many censored passages and others annotated to relate the "author's view" of "social conditions" in the 16th century to today.

Even the great German poet-philosopher Goethe has not escaped "streamlining." His works are now on sale in "expurgated" editions, with up-to-date notes on the "social correctness" of his line of thought.

The works of the Russian writer Dostoievsky have been "re-issued", and he is cited as one of the earliest "democratic fighters," but whole pages have been deleted.

Recently, books have been blue-pencilled because they were out-and-out pacifist.

Under this heading comes "Stalingrad" a novel dealing with the fate of Hitler's sixth army in the snows of Stalingrad. It has now been withdrawn, but is due to be re-issued with all the pro-Russian passages left intact and its vehemence against all forms of warfare removed. East Germany is building up her own army now.

A west Berlin bookseller who watches the east German market closely said: "We have been following the fate of some of our own books in east Germany. While doing so we were very surprised to note that time and again certain editions of the works of Lenin and Stalin were withdrawn, pulped or burned, to be re-issued soon afterwards in slightly amended form."

"These two eminent writers have suffered more than any other individual because they had more works on sale in east Germany than most other authors," he said. "Their writings, too, are exclusively devoted to politics, which have to be re-slanted with every fluctuation of the cold war."

Bustling Migrant Finds Landscaping Pays Big Profits

Brandon, Man., — (CP) — John Kreutzer, German immigrant who came to Canada as a farm laborer and ended up as a business man, says the country has abundant opportunities for the man willing to work.

Just last spring he had only 50 cents. His family of three had barely enough clothing.

Now he is established in a landscaping business. In the busy seasons of spring and summer he estimates he will need 15 helpers to keep pace with orders.

"We wouldn't go back for all the money in the world," he said in an interview.

Last spring he came to Brandon from a district farm. He had worked there a year, one of the conditions of entry.

Besides his 50 cents, he had a thorough knowledge of landscape gardening gained in a German school and a tremendous urge to get ahead. He realized there was a future for a landscape gardner here and he found a place to get plenty of sod, the basic need for the job.

But he had no money to buy a truck. A bank, without asking security or references, granted him a loan to make the down payment.

For the next six weeks, John, his wife, Ann, and their two small children headed for the nearby Carberry Hills to haul sod for the camp Shilo army base. They worked from 3 a.m. until dusk.

"Some day we loaded and hauled more than 1,000 yards," John said.

By the end of six weeks, he was far enough ahead to buy a sod cutter and began taking orders in Brandon. From sodding he went to grass seeding and tree planting. As the season shortened he began top-dressing lawns.

Several large projects gave him the volume needed to employ a staff. In August and September he had eight or nine men working for him continuously.

John's greatest worry was the winter season when there would be no landscaping. The sale of Christmas trees provided a partial answer. Now he keeps busy cutting and pruning trees.

Mrs. Kreutzer for more than six months has been able to devote her full time to her home and children, Manfred, 4, and Norma 3.

The Kreutzers still have language problems to overcome but they are making headway. John's greatest desire is to receive his Canadian citizenship papers.

"I feel I am a Canadian and it sounds strange when I hear someone speak of me as a foreigner."

He also wants to see a chess club organized in Brandon. An expert player, he has found few to compete with.

Free Europe Moves Toward Common Pool Of Health Services

By JOHN MYERS

Paris — (Reuters) — Health experts, officials, and scientists from 15 European countries will gather here in February to plan a "white pool"—a supra-national organization to co-ordinate the health services of most of free Europe.

Inspired by France, the "White pool" would be modelled on the Schuman coal and steel community and complement the European "green pool" for agricultural and the proposed transport pool.

The meeting follows a preliminary conference in Paris to which 15 states sent high-ranking representatives last December 12 and 13.

The 15 states unanimously approved the spirit of the French proposal. But Britain held back all-out support, however, for the same reasons which present her becoming more than an associate member of other institutions of United Europe. Switzerland also held back for reasons of strict neutrality.

The other 13 countries are, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, West Germany, Turkey, Greece, Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Austria and France.

The February meeting will consider detailed French draft proposals for the organization and its field of activity.

Paul Ribeyre, French minister of health at the time of the preliminary conference, outlined the work which the pool could do in fighting illness and suffering. He was chief architect of the plan.

He said it could carry out surveys of the social and health conditions in member countries and of their health legislation. There would be exchanges of doctors, health officials, professors and students.

Ribeyre also stressed the importance of setting up international research laboratories and cited the progress such laboratories could make against diseases such as cancer.

The pool would make possible the creation of a truly international university of medical science, he said.

Petite B.C. Girl Trains Crippled In U.K. Hospital

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London — (CP) — Pocket-sized Geraldine McDonnell, 24-year-old Irish Canadian from Vancouver, has a man-sized job in Britain.

Miss McDonnell, just five feet two inches, is a "remedial gymnast" in a provincial hospital near London. Her job is to help, by exercise, those who have lost the use of their limbs. She takes persons made helpless by arthritis and infantile paralysis and tries to teach them to walk again.

"We move in after physiotherapists have applied lamp treatment and other remedies," Miss McDonnell said in an interview. She is the first woman to serve as a gymnast in this hospital, and there aren't many anywhere. Men outnumber women in this field of medicine because of the strength needed.

The first school for remedial gymnasts in Britain was established last October at Wakefield, Yorkshire. So far the only course has been for men only—the first women's course is scheduled for June or "perhaps later."

Dark-haired Geraldine, a colleen with Irish-blue eyes, is entered for the course. And she's hoping that its pioneer qualities will not result in an indefinite starting date. She wants to return to Canada with a new career.

Geraldine, Vancouver-born, started her working life in Canada as an English and games mistress at High School in Nelson, B. C. She didn't care much for teaching, so, when an opportunity presented itself, she jumped at the chance of a medical career. Her only brother is a doctor at Vanderhoof, B. C., her father retired from a first-aid job in a prison hospital, and her ancestors were doctors in Ireland.

Before returning to Canada, she has to spend nearly two years in Britain. "By then I'll be thoroughly homesick," she said with a laugh. She's already missing her folks at South Burnaby, B. C. Meantime she enjoys life in Britain and the continent, having returned recently from a Christmas holiday in Paris with Vancouver girl friend, Nancy Bowell, who works with the United Nations in Geneva.

Amateur Builders Have Constructed $380,000 Hospital

Exeter, Ont. — (CP) — A group of amateur builders have constructed a $380,000 hospital here for $270,000.

South Huron District Hospital opened its doors Feb. 2 in this community 35 miles northwest of London on a sound financial footing.

Part of the money used to erect the hospital was donated by 15,000 citizens who contributed $114,000. This is approximately $8 for every man, woman and child within a 20-mile radius of the community. County, provincial and federal government grants also were provided.

While funds were being raised the chairman of the hospital committee, Ulric Snell, asked for tenders on the new building. The lowest figure was $320,000 not including $60,000 for equipment.

"We couldn't afford that," he said, "so we went to Queen's Park in Toronto and told them we would erect it ourselves."

Mr. Snell hired a builder to supervise the construction at a straight salary of $10,000. Exeter officials weren't content with buying cement and lumber wholesale. They went direct to the manufacturers, thus saving approximately 25 per cent.

To help meet expenses, the Lions Club built a cottage and raffled it off, making $10,000. The Legion made $3,000 through a giant bingo and the Ladies' Auxiliary of nearby Centralia donated $1,100.

One of the first steps involved in the construction was the purchase of an old 14-room house which formerly belonged to Sir John Carling. This had been converted into a reception room, offices and nurses' quarters.

Next to the Carling mansion, stretching almost a block, is the new one-story structure. The room have flower-tinted drapes and a public address system connected to the corridor.

Ontario Printer For 61 Years "Going Strong"

Roseville, Ont. — (CP)— Five presses have come and gone in Louis Kaiser's little shop in this tiny outhwestern Ontario community, but the 84-year-old printer is still going strong.

This month Mr. Kaiser, former Roseville justice of the peace, bailiff and issuer of marriage licenses, entered his 61th year in the printing business with an order from Baptist Johnston, Queen's printer at Toronto.

Mr. Kaiser was for many years a correspondent for the Galt Reporter at Galt, eight miles east of here, and rode four miles daily on his bicycle to New Dundee or Ayr to pick up news items.

He still uses, in his old, frame cottage shop of land owned by Kaisers for more than a century, type bought from the old Brantford Courier when that newspaper was incorporated by The Expositor in 1918.

Among his most prized possessions are a hand-made lock from the first jail built in Kitchener and his father's birth certificate, printed in German.

From 1945 to 1951 Americans invested $521 million in the Canadian oil industry, while Canadians invested $406 million. Canadians now own 47 per cent of their oil industry, U. S. residents own 52 per cent.

Youthful Editor Has Alert Paper For Mining Town

Cornwall, Ont. — (CP) — The rough-and-ready mining town of Beaverlodge, Sask., has a new six-page newspaper edited and published by a youthful accountant with a yen for poetry.

David Good, 24-year-old native of Cornwall, started his publishing career with the twice-monthly paper, the Venture, a few months after he arrived at Beaverlodge last May to work as an accountant with the Eldorado Mining Company.

Editor Good, who has been vacationing here with his family, chuckles when he recalls his first issue. He was the only member of the staff with previous newspaper experience, and that was limited to a stint on the Queen's Journal, twice-weekly student publication at Queen's University in Kingston.

At Beaverlodge, he says, they worked until 4 A.M. preparing the first issue of the new paper for mimeographing. Then they found only 200 of their 500 copies were legible enough to be sold.

But there was no trouble selling copies, first at five cents and then at 10 cents per copy, to the news-hungry residents. Now he has the printing done in Edmonton, 200 miles southwest of Beaverlodge.

Good admits the news isn't always new but he find the time element not too important in a frontier town where even a paper that is months old is read with interest.

The Venture offers a digest of world events, news of local interest and occasional features on life at Beaverlodge.

As an editorial writer, Good expresses strong personal views. He sermonizes on what he terms the growing despotism of unions, criticizes the company that employs him for not providing better living accomodation, and pleads for better care for Indian residents.

The paper carries advertising, has a staff artist and a picture service.

Poetry, a special interest to the young publisher, also appears.

Publishing, he finds, takes all his spare time.

"It started as a hobby. Now we either have to expand or draw the line," he said.

Reporting news in a relatively small community is a tricky job if news sources are not to be offended.

"We haven't been sued yet but we've trod on several toes and they have trampled back," he says.

Lifting Locomotive Called Hardest Job By Salvage Experts

By ARTHUR EDSON

Washington — (AP) — Railroad salvage experts have completed what they think is the toughest job they've ever tackled: getting a 467,000-pound locomotive out of the basement at Washington's union Station.

The last piece of old No. 4876, which came to a spectacular end January 15, was removed January 27.

Today those responsible for getting her out— J. D. Morris, assistant general manager for the Pennsylvania Railroad; Sidney Kerl, manager of the Washington Terminal Co.; and John F. Swafford, assistant master mechanic for the PRR—told how it was done.

First, let's set the stage.

The federal express from Boston, out of control, roared off the rails at a speed estimated at from 35 to 40 miles an hour. It tore down a steel fence, smashed a news stand, and the engine crossed the crumbling floor of the huge concourse. The floor gave way. Old 4876 had her nose poked through the door into the waiting room when she halted. Her rear end was in the basement.

No one was killed, although more than 40 were injured.

President Eisenhower's inauguration—just five days off—made the job much harder.

The railroaders tidied up the best they could and pulled the wrecked cars out of the station. The engine was dumped completely into the basement and the hole was boarded over.

Then they had to cut monster to pieces in incredibly cramped quarters.

"There was exactly two inches between the top of the locomotive and the new flooring," Morris said. "The thing is, "Swafford said, "We had to be so careful. If we made a bad move we were liable to knock down a support, and the whole thing would cave in again."

The salvage operation began January 23. By working around the clock the job was done n 4½ days.

No. 4876 was 79 feet, four inches long. The posts in the basement were placed so that nothing wider than 12 feet could be taken out.

Kerl figures the total damage will run well over a $1,000,000. The locomotive's cost is $450,000, and $300,000 worth of equipment was salvaged.

Insures Exporters On Overseas Deals

London — (CP) — Britain's exports credits guarantee department which insures manufacturers against loss on certain overseas transactions, has submitted a supplementary estimate for nearly £20,000,000 to cover losses anticipated for 1952.

The bulk of the anticipated loss is caused by a shortage of sterling in Brazil, which owes British firms some £45,000,000. Substantial payments have been made on Australian contracts, broken by emergency import restrictions.

A deparment spokesman said no major losses have been reported on Canadian account. The informant said the dollar drive is going well, with many contracts obtained that would not otherwise have been made.

The department was created in 1949. Its first head was Ottawa-born Herbert Somerville Smith, a Rhodes Scholar who wanted to be a classics professor at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., but eventually became a British civil servants with contacts round the world.

Somerville Smith called his job "operation Columbus," describing it as a 20th-century crusade to recapture the north American markets Christopher Columbus opened to the world in 1492.

Now 62, he retired early this year. He was created a Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in the New Year's honor list. The new head of the export department is R. H. Owen, former senior United Kingdom trade commissioner in India.

A new day coach today costs the Canadian railroads $130,000, a dining car $190,000, a sleeping car $200,000; cost of equipment in a transcontinental train is $2,000,000.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Of Lake Megantic Held Annual Meeting

Lake Megantic, Feb. 17. — The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held on Saturday, February 7th, 1953 with Mr. Andrew Patton, student minister, acting as chairman, and Mrs. Ira Neil as secretary.

After a brief devotional period the business meeting was opened with the reading of the minutes of the last congregational meeting.

Very satisfactory financial reports were presented by the Board of Managers, the Ladies' Aid Society and the Young Peoples Society.

Mr. John Duplessis was re-elected to the Board of Managers, and Mr. Martin Matheson was elected to replace Mr. R. E. Morrison, who through ill health, felt obliged to resign from active participation in church work. A motion of appreciation to Mr. Morrison for his long and faithful service was entered in the minutes.

Mr. William Brown was appointed chairman of the Board of Managers to replace Mr. Morrison.

It was with regret that the congregation learned that Mr. Andrew Patton's appointment as student minister to the congregations of Megantic and Milan, would terminate at the end of the college year.

After a motion of adjournment the meeting was closed by prayer.

ST. ANDREW'S Y.P.S.

The monthly meeting of the Young Peoples Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. D. Matheson one Wednesday evening, with an attendance of eleven members.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. L. Rider, with Bible reading, followed by the "Lord's Prayer," recited in unison.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

Bills were presented and voted to be paid. A letter of thanks from Mr. Andrew Patton, was read, thanking the Society for a gift received also a "thank-you" card from Mrs. George Stewart for a "Sunshine" basket, sent to her while she was ill.

Three silver spoons were purchased to be presented to the following babies, Gloria MacIver, Danny Brown and Jamie Matheson.

A number of articles were brought in and sold and a donation from Miss Rebecca Morrison, of Montreal, brought the total receipts for the evening to $20.20.

The question of having four hostesses at each meeting was brought up and it was decided that this would go in effect at the next meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Ira Neil and the hostesses will be Mrs. L. Rider, Mrs. H. Orser, Mrs. F. Crossman and Mrs. N. Stewart.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Matheson, assisted by Mrs. J. Cochrane and Mrs. Covey.

KNOX W. A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Association of Knox United Church, was held at the home of Mrs. Tripp, on Wednesday evening, with a good attendance.

The president conducted the devotional period and was assisted by Mrs. Hawthorn, who read the Scripture lesson, followed by prayer and the "Lord's Prayer" was recited in unison.

As it was the anniversary of our late King's death, Mrs. Farwell read a tribute to his memory.

Mrs. McLeod mentioned the trouble and disasters, taking place in the various parts of the world and called for a few minutes of silent prayer, for the people who have lost their homes and loved ones.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. There was some discussion about having a bean and salad supper and it was decided to wait until a later date to make plans.

Several articles were brought in for the work box.

Reports of the various committees were given and the members were asked to send cards or letters to a former member of the congregation. Mr. John A. Stewart, of Lennoxville, who is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital. It was suggested and agreed to that there be two hostesses for each meeting, instead of one as in former years.

After the business session the president, Mrs. McLeod, gave a humorous reading.

Four new members were enrolled and welcomed. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Tripp, assisted by Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Farwell.

Philatelist's Dream Volume Seen At Calgary

Calgary — (CP) — One of the costiest books on the market, a veritable philatelist's dream-come-true, is on display at the Calgary public library.

An immense volume, "The Royal Philatelic Collection" records for the first time the story of nearly 250,000 stamps in the collection founded by King George V and maintained by King George VI.

It was purchased jointly at a cost of $180 by the library, the Calgary Philatelic Society, the Calgary stamp Collectors' Club and the Foothills Stamp Club.

The book was written by Sir John Wilson, who is in charge of the royal stamp collection at Buckingham Palace. It is one of a limited number published by Dropmore Press Ltd. of London, and was planned and edited by Clarence Winchester.

The book almost an encyclopedia of stamp collecting. Its 568 pages include a detailed descriptive catalogue with explanations of the symbols used in English, French, Spanish and German.

There are 64 pages of monochrome illustrations and 12 pages of lithographic color plates. The color plates are so realistic that it appears almost as if the stamps could be lifted from the pages.

This faithful reproduction is the result of more than 50 printings of each pair of color plates.

The volume, measuring 14½ by 10½ inches, is bound in rich red leather—an entire Nigerian goat skin—the type of binding that will last hundreds of years.

The front cover carries a reproduction of the royal arms in gold. This was made possible through special permission of King George VI.

The book contains a complete catalogue of the 330 royal stamp albums and a 30,000-word history by Sir John Wilson, tracing the royal collection from its beginning about 1864.

"The Royal Philatelic Collection" is available to the public, but the library isn't taking any chances on such a valuable volume going astray. People wishing to read it must sign a register and the book is not permitted out of the library.

With the Canadians in Korea — (CP) — The Canadian army's arctic-trained soldiers here say Korea's winter isn't so tough.

They ought to know. They've had five years' winter-wariare training before coming out here.

Up to January 8 the thermometer on the Canadian sector's line of bunkered ridges hadn't dropped below "10-below" by night, and usually by day was somewhere between zero and 25 degrees. Most days it was sunny and the nights were clear, if cold, and sometimes windy.

Said Lt.-Col. Peter Bingham, officer commanding the 1st battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment:

"We haven't had winter enough yet to call it 'winter warfare.' It warms up in the daytime, so that a man isn't spending 75 per cent of his time keeping himself alive as he does in our north.

"This is very much like fighting would be around Toronto."

Lt.-Col. Louis Trudeau, officer commanding the 1st battalion, the Royal 22nd Regiment, agreed.

In fact, the 38th parallel, just south of the U. N. line, is more southerly than Canada's southernmost tip in Ontario.

In terms of warmth there is unanimous praise for the army's winter equipment.

Everything the soldiers in Brig. M. P. Bogert's 25th Canadian infantry brigade wear in their positions is Canadian-made but their boots.

Those are the British army's "boot CWW" meaning "boot, cold wet weather." All riflemen wear the $28 footwear and most are enthusiatic about it. They have no time for the Canadian army's experimental "X-52" winter boot, and say they'll have another look at it next spring—maybe.

Trudeau says: "Even at $28 a pair the British boots are cheap."

"You can wear them up and down the hills in rain, snow and ice. They've got a better grip than any footwear we've ever had. Some of my men have worn them summer and winter. Their feet are warm in winter and cool in summer. Their socks are always dry.

"The beautiful thing is that you never need to repair them. The soles never wear out. If they were standard army issue you could do away with battalion shoemakers. We now have five shoemakers to a battalion. Elimination of maintenance costs alone would make them worth while."

The only modification the Canadians would like would be an anklet.

Units pay much attention to feet. The principle is: "if the feet are warm, so is the man."

Each has its own way of handling the socks problem. The important thing is that they be dry.

The 3rd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, issues each man a clean pair every day and withdraws his used ones to be laundered.

The Van Doos have eight pairs of socks with every soldier, right up in his bunker.

There are daily inspections to see that they have been changed. Washing is not considered as important as ensuring that they be dried and aired. If changed once or twice daily they don't get dirty.

Every Van Doo going out on patrol takes a pair wrapped around his waist, inside his battle-dress trousers. After wading a particular stream that figures in most patrols they take time out on the far bank to sit down and change socks. There is another change as soon as they are back in their own lines.

Bingham, describing the attire of his RCR patrols, says "they look like blinking pirates."

"Their balaclava hats are worn at rakish angles, some like cossack hats. They blacken their faces and wear combat jackets or jump smocks, or just plain sweaters and scarves. All have an armored vest on.

The Canadians have just drawn British army "snow suits," made of white cotton-duck for patrolling across the snow. The issue is 200 to a battalion, roughly 40 to a company with a supply in reserve.

Improvement Shown In West Germany's Living Conditions

By IAN FRASER

Bonn — (Reuters) — Life in west Germany is getting steadily better for the ordinary citizen, with employment at its highest and unemployment — about 1,000,000 —at its lowest since the war.

"Ordinary citizen" does not, however, include the millions uprooted from their homes in former east German territories and now trying to settle down in the west.

The average west German is a hard worker and his main interest at present is getting on with his job and earning enough money to make both ends meet, with perhaps a little over to buy a few luxuries from some of the best stocked stores in western Europe.

Expensive food and lack of housing are the two main grumbles of the man-in-the-street.

Visitors to west Germany are frequently impressed by the tremendous amount of rebuilding done since the war. But Germans complain that too much capital and materials have been spent on building stores, restaurants, cinemas, banks, and Blocks of offices and not enough on ordinary housing.

Those lucky enough to rent new apartments have to pay some of the building costs, and few of them can afford it ,and thus overcrowding is widespread.

A former army general who owns a nine-room house at Frankfurt rents seven rooms to five former senior army officers and their wives on the basis of one room for each couple. One of the other two rooms is rented to a charwoman.

Pre-war cars are seen on the roads now—they were either run to death by the Wehrmacht or requisitioned by the allies in the early days of the occupation. The four big firms, Volkswagen, Opel, Ford and Mercedes, have put nearly a 1,000,000 cars on German roads since 1945. Motor-scooters have had a huge success, as also have bicycles wth auxiliary motors.

The people on the streets are better dressed than they were a few years ago, but their dress leaves much room for improvement.

Some German women still make little attempt to make themselves attractive in public and favor grotesque hats with heavy veils and black elastic bands securing them under the chin, robust shoes and "practical" stockings of heavy weave.

Women appear better dressed in South German Towns—a characteristic attributed to American influence.

The country's habits of leisure have undergone some changes since the war. Soccer has grown immensely in popularity and the occupation brought the football pool with it. Coca-cola and cigarets packed in American style have also swept the field.

Restaurants serve enormous helpings of food of all kinds, and the solid burghers like to sit their families down to a calorific meal of pea soup, beef or pork with plenty of potatoes, and a princely slice of fruit pie with whipped cream, beer, schnaps (distilled from various grains) and a black cigar are the invariable accompaniment.

Canada's reserves of softwoods—used principally in the manufacture of pulp aid paper—are the largest in the British Commonwealth.

Old Baltic Rivals Now Co-Operate In Anti-Russ Defence

By PAUL HURMUSES

Athens — (AP) — Can the Greeks, Yugoslavs and Turks swallow their old rivalries in exchange for military unity?

If the results of their recent mutual-defence talks are any indication, it appears the answer is "yes."

These countries bordering the Iron Curtain seem to have recognized recently that their individual futures are closely tied.

This wasn't the case a generation ago. Even the precarious postwar years failed to encourage co-operation.

The reason today is the common danger from Russia and her satellites, hanging over the three countries like a dagger aimed at the strategic Mediterranean and Middle East.

The gradual burying of national hatchets has been a by-product of military negotiations drawing Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia into close alliance.

Prime Minister Alexander Papagos of Greece, after one of the recent Yugoslav-Greek talks in Athens, warned that none of the three countries alone could survive an attack from the north.

"I believe that the co-operation of Greece, Yugoslavia and Turkey is a necessity," he said.

Co-operation hasn't been easy. Local leaders recognize the turbulent backgrounds of the three countries. They know Greece was held under Turkish domination for 350 years, and that only 30 years ago 1,500,000 living in Turkey were thrown out of that country.

It's a matter of record that right up until Tito's break with the Kremlin in 1948, Yugoslavia was helping the communist guerrillas inside Greece.

Relations between Turkey and Yugoslavia haven't always been of the best either. The Turks have had a deep-rooted distrust of the Yugoslavs for their now-defunct alliance with Moscow.

It is felt here, however, that the change of the last few months has been a dynamic one.

The appearances today of military delegations of the three countries in Belgrade, Athens and Ankara have become a commonplace.

Discussions behind locked doors in the three capitals are still secret, but spokesmen have described them as "profitable and conducted in a spirit of close friendship and understanding."

This "military diplomacy", ranking observers believe, should pay off handsomely for the Greeks, Yugoslavs and Turks.

STANBRIDGE EAST

The Red Cross Society members met at the United Church Hall, when two quilts were tied and shipment will be sent to the Provincial Headquarters as their stock has been depleted since shipments to Britain and Holland. More work will be completed here in the near future.

The meeting of St. James' Church Guild was held with Mrs. Harold Blinn with a good attendance.

Mr. J. Miner and Mr. B. Porter, of Granby, were here to meet with the Boy Scouts. Several badges were presented to Philip Tremblay, Gordon Wescott and Earl Rhicard.

Canadian Weather Ships Maintain Constant Vigil In 10-Mile Pacific Area

Ottawa, — (CP) — Every day of the year a converted wartime frigate steams in a 10-mile square in the Pacific ocean about 1,000 miles west of Vancouver. Behind this routine voyage is the story of Canada's floating weather stations

The 10-mile square is the centre of station P, an area 210-miles-square where the frigate, rigged with the latest recording instruments and manned by meteorologists and sailors, collects the data with which the weather is forecast.

This perpetual vigil is shared in 42-day patrols by two vessels — Canadian government ships St. Catherine and Stonetown. Their 57-man crews report weather condition on the surface and at various altitudes.

The reports serve to advise and mariners of storms or of favorable winds.

Although collecting the weather data is the primary job, the ship at station P also is equipped to go to the help of distressed ships and aircraft.

Station P is one of Canada's chief responsibilities to the International Civil Aviation Organization whose members signed treaties to provide a network of ocean stations for weather information.

A day aboard the 300-feet-long by 37-feet-wide ship at station P is divided in much the same way as on land—between work, recreation and sleep.

Work may mean the taking of regular weather observations — eight surface reports, four of the upper winds and two upper air reports including air pressure, temperature and humidity.

Wind reports require the release of a hydrogen-inflated balloon with a reflector attached so that it can be tracked by the ship's radar and its course plotted on the map.

To find out the temperature, pressure and humidity in the upper air requires more complicated apparatus. Attached to the balloon is an instrument known as a radiosonde which records and transmits back to the ship the required information.

The weather men aboard ship code the data and transmit it to the mainland where it is relayed by teletype to weather services throughout the world.

Living quarters on the frigates are roomier than a frigate in wartime could boast. In converting the ships special attention was paid to providing more living space and greater privacy.

There also is a well-equiped recreation room where all ranks may watch movies twice weekly, join in sing-songs, play table tennis, cards or games, read library books or listen to the radio-phonograph. aceC hoss egw arr shrdlu hm hm
