World News In Brief

London, March 8.—(AP)—Diplomatic officials said yesterday Switzerland has rejected a French request for Swiss recognition of the new French-sponsored states of Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam in Indo-China. The sources said the Swiss felt bound by their traditional neutrality to take no action concerning an area which has become a point of east-west tension.

Strasbourg, France, March 8.—(AP)—Sources in the Council of Europe said yesterday the 13 foreign ministers of member countries will meet March 30. The Council of Europe is an unofficial European parliament looking toward eventual European unity. Its upper house consists of the foreign ministers of the sponsoring governments.

Lake Success, N.Y., March 8.—(AP)—The United Nations security council met today to hear India's and Pakistan's views on proposals to settle their dangerous dispute over Kashmir.

The plan presented jointly by Britain, United States, Norway and Cuba is to pave the way for a plebiscite in Kashmir by demilitarization within five months of the area—about one-quarter the size of British Columbia.

Washington, March 8.—(AP)—Repeal of all federal taxes on oleo-margarine which date back 64 years, was voted finally by the House of Representatives yesterday, 262 to 166. Quick Senate approval is expected to send the legislation to President Truman. Dairy state members went down fighting to the last, lambasting what they called "the oleo trust."

Hong Kong, March 8.—(AP)—Raiding Chinese nationalist planes riddled the British blockade-runner Elsie Moller in Hingwa harbor on the central China coast last Friday, her captain reported today. The 800-ton coastal vessel limped into Hong Kong with her hull and superstructure pock-marked by holes. From 50-calibre, armor-piercing projectiles.

Jerusalem, March 8.—(AP)—Two members of the Israel communist party have been arrested and charged with violating the official secrets act. Police said they possessed documents relating to the size of the Israeli army.

Brunswick, Germany, Mar. 8.—(Reuters)—A demolition squad today carried out further blasting in the coke-producing plant of the former Hermann Goering iron and steel works while groups of workers watched in silence.

Earlier, the workers, who yesterday and Monday demonstrated and obstructed dismantling in the vast works, had listened to an appeal by the chairman of the works' council, Erich Soehring, to keep calm.

Bernhard To See New Jet Tested

Ottawa, March 8.—(AP)—Canada's new all-weather, long-range jet fighter, the Avro CF-100, will put on a flight demonstration at Rockcliffe air station here Saturday for a distinguished audience.

Attending the show will be the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, accompanied by Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, Prime Minister St. Laurent and members of the Cabinet and the Commons as well as Senators, senior government and armed forces officers, and members of the diplomatic corps and officials of Canadian aviation firms.

If weather conditions prevent an actual flight, the aircraft will be available for ground inspection by the visitors.

In any case, it won't display its maximum performance as far as speed, maneuverability and rate of climb are concerned because it is still undergoing flight tests.

The visitors will have a chance, however, to see the sleek new fighter, first tested at Malton, Ont., Jan. 19, go through some of its spectacular paces.

W. A. Waterton, wartime R.A.F. squadron leader from Camrose, Alta., will be at the controls. He has been handling the flight-test program for the plane at A. V. Roe Ltd.

It won't be Waterton's first meeting with the Netherlands' crown prince. He flew the prince in a meteor jet in the United Kingdom two years ago. At that time Waterton took Prince Bernhard on a 30-minute flight in the twin-jet fighter in the twin-jet fighter, and the prince took over the controls, making a takeoff and landing himself.

The air force says the demonstration will not be open to the general public. A public demonstration will be held later, possibly on air force day in June.

The CF-100 has been designed to meet R.C.A.F. specifications for a long-range, all-weather jet fighter necessary to Canadian air-defence requirements. The aircraft will complement the F-86 single-jet fighter being built for the air force by Canadair Ltd. of Montreal.

The two aircraft are to be allotted separate tasks. The F-86 will be used as a single-seater interceptor, the CF-100 for all-weather operation under day or night conditions.

The test model is currently fitted with two Rolls Royce Avon power units, but plans call for the CF-100 to be powered by Orendas, being produced by A. V. Roe. The Orenda jet engine is still in the flight-test stage and it will be some time before the all-Canadian plane is equipped with the all-Canadian jet.

Civilian Draft Order, Affecting 100,000 Employees, Comes On Wave Of Nation's Worst Strike In Three Years.

By ROBERT C. WILSON

Paris, March 8.—(AP)—Premier Georges Bidault's government ordered the draft of 100,000 public utility workers today to avert a country-wide gas and electricity stoppage threatening on the crest of France's worst strike wave in three years.

Workers in the nationalized power plants had been scheduled to walk out at midnight. Both communist and non-communist unions voted the strike to back up demands for wage increases.

The civilian draft order—to be served upon the workers by policemen—makes those who refuse to work subject to loss of their jobs, fines and from six days to five years in jail.

The workers' demand monthly increases beginning with a minimum boost of 3,000 francs ($8.50) for the lowest paid. The government has offered a 4.9-per-cent increase which would range from 750 to 6,000 francs ($2 to $17). The middle-of-the-road government, fighting inflation, refused to go beyond this.

Paris limped along in the third day of a transportation strike which partially tied up the city, muddling the subway, bus and street-car systems. Large numbers of taxis and 3,000 buses manned by the army helped to keep things moving in France's first city.

Some non-communist unions have been deserting the transportation strike, which was called by the communists. About 10 per cent of the bus lines were running.

Some 300,000 of the country's 1,500,000 metal workers were idle throughout France and automobile factories were hard hit by a walk-out.

About 16,500 workers went on strike in the textile industry at Lille.

At Nancy, Marseille and Clermont-Ferrand, trolley car workers were on strike.

Throughout the country several thousand insurance company employees went on strike.

The communist-led Confederation Generale du Travail is directing a strike among coal miners in northern France.

These walkouts have been accompanied recently by a rash of token 24-hour stoppages in various branches of industrial life, notably among dockworkers in the ports.

The draft order in the utility law, a government spokesman said, the spokesman added that from 100 to 300 technicians from the navy would be called in to help man power stations and assure maintenance of service. This was done in one previous strike.

The government cannot let France "be paralyzed by such a strike," the spokesman said. The government could not go beyond its offer to the utility workers without increasing the price of gas and electricity to the consumers, he added.

Paris, March 8.—(AP)—Non-communist deputies in the French national assembly today pushed through an anti-sabotage bill over communist opposition in a heated session climaxed by riotous fist-fights.

The vote, which Premier Georges Bidault had turned into a ballot of confidence for his coalition government, was 393 to 186 in favor of the bill.

It goes next to parliament's upper house, the council of the republic, where it is certain to win final approval.

Passage of the bill in the assembly ended four days of debate in which the powerful communist bloc—largest single party in the assembly—set up a filibustering barrage in an attempt to halt the vote.

The government had urged hurried passage as a means of protecting shipments of American arms, due to arrive soon under terms of the North Atlantic defense pact. Communists have set up a Cominform-inspired "peace offensive" against the shipments.

The anti-sabotage bill provides for prison terms of from five to 10 years to anyone convicted of sabotaging the national defense, impeding the transport of military equipment or trying to demoralize the army.

It was deemed vital to the protection of American arms shipments, since the old French law on sabotage provided only for the death penalty, which made convictions almost impossible in peace-time.

Bulgarians Sentenced For "Spying"

Sofia, March 8.—(AP)—Michael Shipkov, former Bulgarian interpreter for the United States legation here, today was sentenced to 15 years on charges of having spied for the U. S. Shipkov was the main defendant in the espionage trial of five persons.

Jivka Rindova, woman switchboard operator at the legation, was sentenced to 12 years' imprisonment.

Other sentences were: Stefan Kratounov, who admitted working for Miss Rindova—10 years.

Nicolai Tzanov, alleged collaborator of Miss Rindova and Kratounov—six years, eight months.

Vassil Matchev, business man who said he had agreed to give economic information in exchange for escape facilities—four years, five months and 10 days.

The two-day trial ended late yesterday after Shipkov had repudiated statements he once made to U.S. diplomats that he had been tortured into making false confessions and agreeing to spy against the Americans in Sofia.

He and his fellow defendants had pleaded guilty. They confirmed full confessions of guilt presented to the court and said to have been made by them to investigating authorities before their trial.

The trial ended with the prosecution demanding a "just but strict verdict."

The defendants had begged the court for mercy, and their lawyers had asked the court's clemency on the grounds that their crimes were committed under extenuating circumstances.

Prosecutor Petko Petrinski wound up his closing speech to the court by charging that the U. S. legation, closed two weeks ago, Continued On Page 5

New York, March 8.—(AP)—The New York Times says today that U. N. secretary-general Trygve Lie has urged the big four to find a compromise settlement of the east-west deadlock over China's representation in the United Nations.

Russia and her satellites have walked out of all U. N. meetings in which representatives of nationalist China participate. They insist that the communist regime now speaks for China.

The report by James Reston, the Times' Washington correspondent, says Lie has circulated a private memorandum to the governments of Britain, the United States, Russia, France and several other member countries outlining a tentative basis for a compromise.

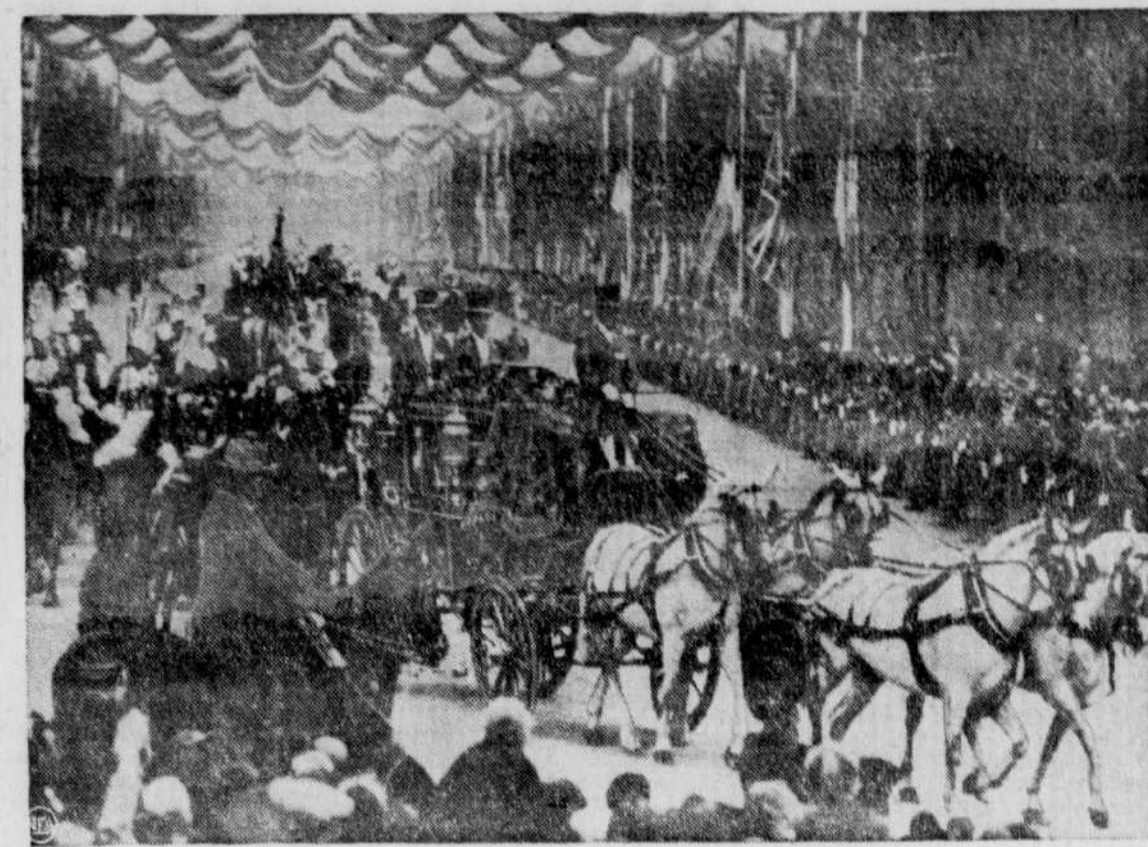

Lie was also said to have discussed with U. S. officials the possibility of calling together the foreign secretaries of all states in the security for a special meeting to thrash out "a number of questions dividing east and west."

The United States has not recognized the Chinese communist regime but five other members of the security council—Britain, Russia, India, Yugoslavia, and Norway—have extended recognition.

The Times says Lie's memorandum was being studied in Washington and other capitals and is "accepted with some qualifications in Washington." It says that memorandum contained the following points:

Question Of Recognition Of Chinese Communists Debated Again At Ottawa

U.S. Rail Service Is Restored

Pittsburgh, March 8.—(AP)—Railroads in the United States recalled thousands of idle workers today as the federal government removed most of the schedule curtailments ordered during the recent soft coal strike.

Steel and other affected industries also headed their stalled production toward normal.

United Mine Worker members in virtually all the soft coal fields were back in the mines digging needed coal.

The Interstate Commerce Commission said all restrictions on freight service by coal-using railroads will be lifted at 11:59 P.M. (local time) tonight.

Restrictions also were lifted on passenger service effective at 11:59 P.M. Friday except for coal-burning railroads having less than 10 days supply.

Those roads were given permission to return passenger service to 75 per cent effective the night of March 10. Passenger service on all coal-burning railroads was cut 50 per cent by an I.C.C. order issued last month when the coal shortage became acute.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad ordered 6,161 idle workers back to their jobs today.

The B. and O. reported it got 3,587 loaded coal cars yesterday from mine tipples on its lines, a normal day's traffic. From the number of empties ordered by the mines for today, it estimated movements would rise well above the norm by the end of the week.

its attitude toward the representation in the United Nations.

2. The national policy of a member of the United Nations on changing diplomatic relations with another nation or withholding such an exchange should not be allowed to hamper the proper functioning of the U. N.

3. Members of the United Nations have on various occasions cooperated with one another within the U. N. despite the fact that they did not have diplomatic relations with one another outside the U. N.

4. A distinction should, therefore, be made between "diplomatic recognition" policy and "U. N. representation" policy, so that the ordinary business of the security or organization can proceed.

Lie was said to have declared "that until the China representation problem was solved, the United Nations was put in an intolerable position."

Lake Success, N.Y., March 8.—(AP)—A Canadian has been appointed to direct the United Nations relief and works program for Palestine refugees.

Nationalist Victories Are Claimed

By SPENCER MOOSA
Taipei, Formosa, March 8.—(AP)—Nationalist China today was heartened by two tiny victories—repulse of a small-scale invasion attempt against Hainan Island and recapture of Kangling, capital of the far western province of Sikkang.

Nationalist troops on Hainan, big island off the south China coast, beat down an attempt Monday by 900 mainland communists to invade the northwestern sector of the island. Two hundred Reds were reported killed. Most of the remainder were routed or captured. The invaders apparently sailed from Liuchow peninsula 10 miles across the strait from Hainan.

There has been no indication the Hainan landing was the forerunner of a large-scale Red attempt to take the island. It might have been a nuisance raid, a reconnaissance in force or an attempt to supply communist guerrillas holed up in Hainan's mountains.

Hainan is defended by 100,000 nationalist regulars and 90,000 militia. They are commanded by Gen. Hsueh Yueh. He and other nationalist leaders have pledged allegiance to President Chiang Kai-Shek and his government.

Delayed dispatches from Sikkang province said Kangling was retaken by nationalist guerrillas Sunday from communist nationalists. Victory in the mountainous province could mean a lot to Chiang's hard-pressed forces. Their mainland headquarters are in Sikkang, some 100 miles south of Kangling. Their only mainland airfield is there. Two nationalist Chinese route armies, which made the long trek to Sikkang when organized resistance collapsed in southwest China, are based there.

The delayed dispatches did not give details of the fighting around Kangling. The provincial capital had been defended by troops of Gen. Liu Wen-Hui, famed west China warlord, who went over to the Reds late last year. Reports from there say General Liu died recently of illness. The reports have not been confirmed.

Taipei, Formosa, March 8.—(AP)—Gen. Chen Cheng, 52, implacable foe of communism, today was confirmed as premier of nationalist China by a heavy majority of the legislative Yuan.

He succeeds Gen. Yen Hsi-Shan, old Chinese warlord, who retired from the premiership upon the return of Chiang Kai-Shek to the presidency March 1. Chiang was in "retirement" for 13 months.

Chen is expected to replace at least six of the eight ministers in the nationalist cabinet.

In his first official statement Chen said he would strive to "unite all anti-communist forces so as to crush the Chinese communists and resist Soviet aggression in China."

He said at a press conference at his home that a counter-offensive on the mainland would be made. He added that essential steps beforehand would be to fortify Formosa and other national-held territory.

"It goes without saying that the position of Formosa is very important to the entire Chinese nation and world security," he said.

who said he wanted it for a client, was who described traces of a "Mrs. Cote" at nearby Riviere au Pin.

She said she thought there was nothing unusual about that errand nor the one of taking the big cardboard parcel to the plane.

Prof. Gravel who testified late yesterday afternoon explained to the jury chemical and physical tests he carried out with dynamite and alarm clocks for crown authorities.

His testimony recalled that of Genereux priest, Mrs. Pitre's 44-year-old crippled brother, who testified last Saturday that he manufactured a dynamite detonator with an alarm clock and a dry cell battery on Guay's instructions.

Prof. Gravel held up before the jury a section of the wrecked airliner's fuselage and showed how an alarm clock bell and other parts fitted exactly in holes in the aircraft metal.

He also drew attention to a dark smudge on the bent metal and said analysis of the deposit showed its substance was the same as material in a dry cell battery.

He said there were also on the metal traces of the chemicals left over after a dynamite explosion.

Bradley Says U.S. Not Safe Against A Disastrous Blow

Washington, March 8.—(AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today that present forces cannot give the United States "an absolute guarantee against a disastrous blow."

"But I feel that we are going to achieve the necessary forces to prevent a disastrous attack from crippling this country," the chairman of the joint U.S. chiefs of staff said in a speech prepared for the Women's National Press Club.

"I also believe that our forces, being, and our mobilization base, will be sufficient, together with the forces and potential of friendly nations, to win a war if it comes," he added.

Of atomic power, he said: "Our stockpile of atomic bombs, and our ability to deliver them, afford us an immediate but inconclusive hope of retaliation. Our research and development in program, not only in bombs and missiles, but in other weapons and techniques, if properly maintained and supported should continue to improve the position of the United States and its friends."

Bradley urged that the navy's submarine and anti-submarine program go along "as fast as our research and development facilities will permit."

Over a long period of peacetime, he said, the United States "should not expect to match the Soviet Union plane for plane, ship for ship, division for division without lowering its standard of living."

"If it is the desire of the American people to assemble forces that will statistically give the United States a preponderance of mili-

IN HOLLYWOOD

HERE ARE SWAMI JOHN-SON'S SURE-FIRE OSCAR PREDICTIONS

Hollywood — The Oscar nominations are out—and I'm out on that limb again. Sometimes my crystal ball turns into an eight ball because I'm silly enough every year to predict the Academy Award winners a month in advance.

This year I've taken precautions. My fingers are crossed (have you ever tried typing with your fingers crossed?), I'm wearing a four-leaf clover jauntily behind my left ear and there's a horse-shoe draped around my neck.

My predictions:
BEST MOVIE: "All the King's Men."

Best performance by an actor: Kirk Douglas in "Champion." Best performance by an actress: Olivia de Havilland in "The Heiress."

Supporting actor: Ralph Richardson in "The Heiress." Supporting actress: Mercedes McCambridge in "All the King's Men."

Best direction: Robert Rossen for "All the King's Men."

Best song in a movie: "Baby, It's Cold Outside," by Frank Loesser.

Best motion picture story: "The Stratton Story."

Best screenplay: "All the King's Men."

Official results will be announced

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

BEST ACTOR AND ACTRESS of the Half Century, by recent vote of 200 veterans of the industry, were comedian Charlie Chaplin and Greta ("I tank I go home") Garbo. Garbo and John Gilbert are seen in one of the clutches that made them top box-office magnets in their day. Chaplin and Garbo, both veterans of the silent film era, both climbed to top fame and fortune on a legend of silence. Garbo, the shy, moody, silent Swede, became Hollywood's most mysterious, most glamorous figure, English-born Chaplin, shuffling master of pantomime and subtle satirist, became one of the wealthiest—and most controversial—figures in the entertainment world. It is interesting that Hollywood's vote for the half-century's best acting should go to foreign-born artists.

Understatement

Quote of the week: Director Josef Von Sternberg to John Wayne and Janet Leigh, playing newlyweds for "Jet Pilot."

"You're excited. Your nerves are on edge. You fight. Don't you know how a honeymoon starts?"

Frank Sinatra fans, who have been riding me for a long time because of my criticism of the one-time swoon king, have changed their tune. They say Frankie's latest separation from his wife is the last straw.

Educational note: Parke Levy's collection of radio clichés, written for this pillar, is being used in the radio writing class at USC.

Economy note:

There's an hourglass in Kathryn Grayson's dressing room at M-G-M to remind her that the "Toast of New Orleans" company takes only one hour for lunch. But the sand in the hourglass, Kathryn discovered, runs through in 28 minutes.

"Stromboli" as I see it: Weak story, beautiful scenery, Ingrid gorgeous in her well-scrubbed way, suffers from lack of experienced supporting cast. Rossellini is not a woman's director. The film is collector's item only because of pre-release headlines.

Lana Covers Up

Robert Young is talking about more heavy roles. Result of "Here Lies Love" . . . Lex Barker and Lisa Ferraday are admitting their romance was about as substantial as dandelion fuzz. . . Better get a good look at Lana Turner's curves in "No Life of Her Own." Because in her next, "Running of the Tide," she'll be covered up in period costumes of early New England. . . Gregory Peck is director Henry King's No. 1 choice for the lead in "Dunkirk." . . Howard Hughes' next big exploitation picture probably will be the George Pal idea, "When Worlds Collide."

Surprise at M-G-M's sneak of "The Reformer and the Redhead" were the ladies of the girdle set signing over Robert Keith, the frankly 49 Broadway star. Just goes to show you're never too old to yearn. . . Ah, for the good old days when bathtub scenes featured shapely damsels behind the bubbles. . . Now it's always some hairy-chested, knobby-kneed male. Paul Kelly makes with the soap and water in "Guilty of Treason" and Lew Ayres does the same in Niven Busch's new movie, "The Capture."

Letter to Yvonne de Carlo from a GI in Berlin: "I've always dreamed about you. After seeing you in person (at the 'Francis' premiere) I now dream about you in technicolor."

East Clifton Women's Institute Held Annual Meeting; Year's Work Reviewed

East Clifton, March 8. — The Women's Institute held its annual meeting at the home of the first vice-president, Mrs. James Towers, on Wednesday afternoon, March 1, with a small attendance of members due to much sickness in the community.

The meeting was presided over by the first vice-president, Mrs. James Towers. The members repeated in unison the "Ode," the "Mary Stewart Collect" and the "Lords Prayer."

The motto was "There is nothing new under the sun," and the subject for the roll call was a quotation for a "Spring Tonic."

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Parkinson. The members were adopted as read. The correspondence included letters from Mrs. James Tower, secretary-treasurer of the E. Clifton Cemetery, Inc.; Miss Joy Guild, demonstrator secretary, of Macdonald College, giving the highlights of the semi annual held in Montreal in January; Mrs. Lucille Thomson, provincial president of Abbotford, who wrote as usual her newsy and interesting letter for February; and from Mrs. Ray I. Waldron, president, who was unable to attend the meeting due to sickness, wrote her thanks to one and all for the many many kindnesses which she had received, and her earnest desire was as we enter another year of work for the good of Canada, that we put our hearts into it as our minds, stand by each other and all do our continued best, though we may think we are doing only little things, it's the tiny grains of soil, that make the mighty earth.

The Institute books and accounts were examined by Mr. James Towers, and found correct. Mrs. Parkinson on behalf of the W.I. thanked him for his assistance. A good balance of cash is on hand.

The conveners submitted excellent reports of the year's activities, showing that good work had been accomplished in the different departments.

Mayor Trudeau Announces That City Will Show Small Surplus For 1949

The resignation of Ald. Armand Nadeau as Center Ward representative to contest the mayoralty later this month and the announcement of a modest surplus in the financial operations of the city for 1949 made by Mayor Alphonse Trudeau featured a brief session of the Sherbrooke City Council last evening.

In formally resigning his post to enter the lists against Senator Charles B. Howard, Ald. Nadeau expressed his appreciation for the co-operation extended him by his fellow Council members and told of his pleasure in serving on the Council.

Commenting on Ald. Nadeau's action, Mayor Trudeau extended the thanks of the aldermen to their

Winter Club Show Attracts 700 At Magog

Magog, March 8.—More than 700 persons turned out last night for a sparkling benefit ice show staged at the Dominion Textile arena by members of the Sherbrooke Winter Club.

The show was sponsored by the Magog Lions Club with the proceeds to be used in the work of the club.

This was the first event of its kind in Magog and judging from the enthusiasm of the audience as well as from the large turnout it is expected that these ice revues will become annual events.

Directors of the Sherbrooke Winter Club who accompanied the skaters were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Nicol, Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Kenalty, Mrs. Don McPherson and Mrs. Goode. Mr. Jack Auger looked after the music.

Following the show, the Sherbrooke skaters were guests at a supper in St. Luke's Church hall. The supper was served by members of the Eastern Star.

Character, Culture And Citizenship Cited As Essentials Of Education

"If we hope to abolish forever the threat of depression, strikes, scarcities, war and other evils which seem to be ever present in our generation, I think it will be necessary to shift our emphasis in education from the three R's of 'Reading', 'Riting' and 'Rithmetic' to the three C's of Character, Culture and Citizenship."

This statement was made last evening by Malcolm J. Dunsmore, president of the Provincial Association of the Protestant Teachers, and principal of the Granby High School, in an address to the Sherbrooke Rotary Club, entitled "Education, Everybody's Business."

"While the three R's will still be there, they will, instead of being an end themselves, be the tools that will enable us more adequately to train in these other fields," he said.

He stressed the fact that the church, the home, the community, the province, the nation and even the world itself must become the training ground for future citizens, because "our young people need heads that can think wisely and hearts that can feel warmly—what goes on in people's minds and in their hearts is more important in determining the world's future than what goes on in laboratories and production centers."

Stating that education is a co-operative endeavor, where the home and school share alike the responsibility of the child's training, Mr. Dunsmore added that the community as a whole must take an active interest in education because under the present system the school is considered as a miniature community in which the pupils learn to live the civilized life of today by actual participation in social processes.

The speaker claims that management and labor likewise have a stake in today's education, as there is no gap between the school and the business world. "Actually," he said, "there is a continuity and an interdependence which should bring teachers and management into a close working relationship. The availability of trained minds to industry and commerce is of paramount importance in developing new ideas, new techniques and new products."

Both governments, along with the church, the home, and the community should make education their business, he said, because the whole living standard of the country depends on the educational system.

"Our representatives in Ottawa should be as much concerned with citizenship training as we are," he said in conclusion, "and certainly we must be concerned with national employment and income. If this is the case and since education is the foundation upon which both interests are built, it must be everybody's business."

Mr. Dunsmore was introduced by Wright W. Gibson and thanked by Past District Governor George Ewing.

President B. D. Lyon, who was in the chair, referred with regret to the departure of Rotarian Charles Holt, who has moved to Montreal, but congratulated him on his promotion.

He also welcomed visiting Rotarians Ron Blaine, Montreal, and Morris McQuiggan, Westmount, as well as four guests, A. Duchesne, Albert Bryant, Charles Roy, all of Sherbrooke, and Marcel Mayhew, of Cookshire.

Seated at the head table were Jack Thompson, S. Cleary, Past President, J. A. Archambault, W. W. Gibson, Mr. Dunsmore, President Lyon, Past District Governor Ewing, Rev. R. C. Tait, C. Roy, M. Mayhew and Carbery Christmas.

Children, when they hear Macbeth over the radio, remember it, like it and understand it, far better than by simply reading it themselves in class, explained Mrs. Morrison, while Miss Haight said that films are often used to initiate or introduce a new unit of study.

"Further," she explained, it enriches their interest, summarizes pride to such tactics, but they obviously took pride too in their bright and pleasant classrooms, for it was as if each vied with each in attractiveness and symmetry of the displays.

An address on radio-phonograph uses was given later to the parents when they convened in the assembly hall, by Mrs. H. A. Morrison, while Miss M. Haight spoke on the use of motion pictures in modern school methods. Principal D. Bornhold, who introduced these teachers, also demonstrated the use of tape recorder.

Both Mrs. Morrison and Miss Haight quickly asserted that these aids are not a substitute for teaching, though they have been found very useful. Programs can be heard on almost every academic subject, while the department of education in Quebec has such a well-stocked film library that 975 different types of sound film can be shown.

The demonstration showed that Mitchell School's methods of teaching are designed to appeal to the creative instincts of the children. Not only do they respond with pride to such tactics, but they obviously took pride too in their bright and pleasant classrooms, for it was as if each vied with each in attractiveness and symmetry of the displays.

Canadian Legion Convention Plans Discussed At Meeting Last Night

Committee reports dealing with the many problems arising from the annual convention of the Quebec Command, Canadian Legion, were presented last night when members of the convention committee met at the Legion Home here.

E. L. LaMountain, of Montreal, general chairman of the convention committee, presided at the meeting, with John Kay, of Sherbrooke, acting as vice-chairman. The convention will be held in Sherbrooke April 16, 17, 18 and 19.

Reports showed that no decision has been reached yet on the matter of principal speakers for the opening ceremonies on the night of April 16 or for the closing banquet, April 19.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, who had been invited to speak, will be unable to attend while no reply was received from Premier Smallwood, of Newfoundland, also invited.

Invitations have since been extended to Premier Leslie Frost, of Ontario, and External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson. Names of several other prominent Canadians were proposed as possible speakers.

Final decision to hold the annual banquet at the William Street Armory, where the convention will be held, was taken at the meeting. It is estimated that 400 or more persons will attend the banquet and the Armory was considered the only place capable of seating that number.

Rudy Olivier, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced that there will be a cabaret night at the Armory on Monday, April 17, and that there will be piano or organ music for the closing banquet. The Legion choir from Montreal will be heard at the impressive opening ceremonies.

Special events are being planned for the ladies. Miss Annette Tremblay, chairman for ladies activities, reported that the Municipal Chapter of the I.O.D.E. is giving a card party and tea for the ladies on the afternoon of April 17. There will be a tour of the Canadian Silk Products plant on April 18 and a theatre party at night. Wednesday afternoon will be left free for shopping, followed by a bus tour of the city.

SLAVE LABOR, BASE OF SOVIET ECONOMY

Reliable informants have been telling the free nations for years that Russia has a slave labor force of 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 people. But not until now have we had evidence of the key role these workers play in the total Russian economy.

Miss Toni Sender of the American Federation of Labor has given the United Nations photostatic copies of documents indicating that the Soviet secret police, MVD, manages slave labor projects basic to Russian planning. The police actually operate the biggest and cheapest economic agency in the nation.

Slave workers turn out a tenth of all Soviet furniture and kitchenware, an eighth of all timber produced, forty per cent of the chrome, seventy five per cent of the gold, fourteen per cent of all major construction.

They built and maintained all paved roads, all rail lines through isolated regions, which are plentiful through the Soviet Union. They mine uranium for atomic use, and build and maintain all atomic developments.

In numerous other industries, forced labor accounts for from ten to fifty per cent of the total Soviet output. Russia has, of course, acknowledged that it has a "controlled" labor force. But it insists that these workers are criminals and describes the places where they live as "corrective camps."

Russia must, then, be swarming with millions of criminals. For no small force could accomplish what MVD's slaves have done. One suspects that their two chief crimes are in opposing Russian Communist leaders and simply being alive. The MVD camps often seem designed to "correct" both these annoying habits.

Miss Sender's documentary evidence means this: No longer can anyone fairly dismiss Russian forced labor as an unfortunate sideline in an otherwise progressive economic system, as a lot of Soviet apologists have tried to do. Slave labor is clearly the very heart of the Russian economy.

Where does this leave the glorious dream of Russian communism, with its promises of fair treatment and equality for all?

It seems incredible that any Canadian, however unlucky his lot, could look with hope toward a country whose leaders have a tenth of their 200,000,000 people in chains. As practised in the Soviet Union, communism is a doctrine not of equality but of servility.

EUROPEAN RECOVERY PRICE

The United States is going to have to make a hard choice in the next two years. It must decide whether it really wants to pay the price of putting Europe on its feet economically.

The price is high. It will have to accept from Western Europe an additional billion dollars' worth of goods to bring the Continent's trade with the United States into sound balance. That is the goal Paul G. Hoffman, ECA administrator, is driving for by 1952, when the Marshall Plan is due to end and ECA nations are expected to fend for themselves.

It is a sweet dilemma. Almost everyone interested in preserving the free world against communism wants permanent recovery for Western Europe. But too few in the United States have faced up to what this means.

Better balanced trade among ECA nations and between them and the United States is the cornerstone of any lasting recovery program. Unless they can sell enough to the United States to offset what they buy there, the celebrated "dollar gap" will continue to yawn.

This has been realized by Marshall Plan officials and the participating countries from the start. Without genuine trade improvements, the Marshall Plan is little more than economic relief.

Yet Congress, and behind the lawmakers the industrialists, have shown slight awareness of this necessity. They have gone on thinking in the same old high-tariff terms, wishing to bar the other fellow's goods from U. S. markets but anxious to sell their own stuff in his. "Dump" is a better word for what some groups have in mind for their own surpluses right now.

In recent months the problem has been sharpening. Britain, France and others are stepping up efforts to earn dollars in America. And they are trying to save dollars by switching from United States products wherever they can. American-owned oil has been one sufferer.

The American businessmen do not like it. Congress echoes their complaints. Senator Connally, of oil-rich Texas, wants more United States petroleum sold in foreign markets. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts cannot see why British textiles are allowed to compete with New England mills operating in towns menaced by unemployment.

United States resistance takes other forms. A British electrical manufacturer underbid his American competitors by $250,000 on a public contract in Seattle, but he was frozen out.

Since all construction labor on the new United Nations buildings in New York is necessarily American, Congress waived import duties so part of the materials could be supplied by other countries. But of the $42,000,000 so far awarded in contracts, not a penny has gone for foreign materials. And there has been no shortage of bids.

Quite obviously the United States cannot behave like this and still get Western Europe onto a sound footing. If it insists on keeping the bars up, it will either have to go right on supporting ECA countries after 1952 or watch them slide into chaos. Then they might be devoured by communism.

WE SHOULD END DEPENDENCE ON LEWIS' COAL MINERS

Toronto Telegram

This country is endowed with inexhaustible deposits of good coal. Unfortunately for the residents of Ontario the coal fields are several hundred miles distant. Whenever the suggestion is made that there ought to be a national policy which would promote the use of Alberta and Nova Scotia coal in central Canada the objection is raised that transportation costs are too great and that it is more "economic" to buy from the American mines.

That kind of argument is not very convincing in times like these when this province is facing a coal famine brought on by the strike in the American fields. It is hardly "economic" to have our people with empty coal bins, to have rail services curtailed and industries facing the necessity of closing down because of lack of fuel. Just now people can see that dependence on the American mines and the whims of John L. Lewis is the opposite of economic and, in fact, very disturbing.

It is possible that some people will say: "Oh, the strike will be over in a day or two and we'll commence getting coal again." Such an attitude is unrealistic, helpless and hopeless. It is the sort of thing which has permitted the present crisis to hit this province. Although more prolonged and bitter than usual the present dispute between the U.S. mine owners and John L. Lewis is nothing new. It's an old story. During the war and in practically every year since the war Lewis has called out the miners and forced concessions from the mine owners which they have passed on to their customers in this province and elsewhere in the form of higher coal prices. Though Ontario consumers have not often faced a famine as serious as that today, they have been the victims of John L. Lewis' tactics.

This country should now face the question as to whether it is not time for a coal policy that will make Canadians independent of the U.S. mines. If Welsh coal can be transported across the ocean and sold here at competitive prices? It is said Nova Scotia production costs are high. With mechanization of the mines, increased output and an expanded market there is no doubt that production costs could be substantially reduced and the coal moved by water to Ontario ports.

Coal from Alberta deposits burns well in house furnaces. What it needs is a larger market. To move it to Ontario may require a freight subvention but when the costs of dependence on U.S. coal are considered a subvention might in the long run be preferable.

There has been much talk of a national coal policy for Canada. A few years ago a Royal Commission which cost $282,000 produced a 633-page report and little else. There is a coal board at Ottawa but what is it doing?

A defeatist attitude has pervaded this whole question of supplying more Canadian coal to Canadian consumers. The experience which the country is now undergoing as a result of the shut-down of the U.S. mines ought to start a movement which will not stop until central Canada is liberated from dependence upon Lewis and his miners.

PRESS SUPPORTS PREPAREDNESS

Port William Times-Journal
A Canadian citizen made a complaint in Toronto yesterday. He felt that editors of magazines and newspapers, and those who were playing power politics, were wrong in talking about a Third World War, in stirring up preparedness for another war.

He had a simple cure for the situation. All who talked and wrote about a Third World War should be dispatched to some northern out of the way spot, there to fight the war themselves, choosing whatever weapons were to their liking—and leaving people like himself to stay home in peace.

The experience of fighting wouldn't be new to many of the men against whom this citizen complains, since they slugged it out in either the first or the second world wars. But they would fight on in vain if the group of communist dictators in Russia were left to carry on their policy of aggression against freedom in states other than their own.

The press in democratic nations which are fighting to keep their peoples free would be unforgivably sinful if it sought to stir up hatred against the millions of Russians who must follow their self-imposed leaders blindly.

As it is, most of the press appears to believe as our governments do that the best way to ward off a Third World War is to recognize that it can be started, and to build up military and economic strength to a point where a militant Russia considers deeply before plunging into war.

Had governments and the press taken such an attitude in the thirties against the designs of Hitler and the Nazis—similar in many respects to those of Russia during the past five years—we might have averted the Second World War.

HIS ONE GOOD DEED FOR THE DAY

Chibougamau, Land Of Promise, May Soon Fulfil Its Destiny

Lake Chibougamau, Que., March 8.—(P)—The almost-limitless Chibougamau country, locked for centuries in northern isolation, is astir today with man's search for gold.

The country may soon bear out the name prospectors gave it long ago, in the days before aircraft and when the only entry was by canoe and back-breaking portages or by snowshoe and toboggan in wintertime. The name then was "land of promise."

Actually that "land of promise" name was a lot of malarkey. Such enterprising mining men as Herb (Tiny) Corbett and the late Bill Mackenzie of Toronto helped dream it up and the best you can find from any of today's Indians is that Chibougamau means "meeting place."

Nevertheless, mining men in the area are sure in their faith that Chibougamau will make it and become a land of promise. And the Quebec government, through opening up Chibougamau with a soon-to-be-finished $4,000,000 highway, is gambling at least to that degree that the mining men are right.

"The road makes all the difference," said Bill Lafontaine, agent of the Quebec bureau of mines as he threw more wood on his log-cabin fire against the outside temperature of 43 degrees below zero. "I feel confident that spring will find perhaps 1,000 men in the big area of Chibougamau hunting minerals."

Only a couple of miles of the road remain to be completed. Then Chibougamau with its already-scratched wealth of copper and gold will be open to anybody with a stout heart and some means. Already, said Lafontaine, a veteran of this country since the mid-1930's, 6,000 claims of 40 acres each have been staked through the area.

"They belong," said Lafontaine, "to the big mining companies who know there is wealth here and to the small free-lance prospectors who hope to find wealth. If the little fellows haven't the means to work their ground themselves they at least may have something that is real—something they can sell."

And then, in the manner of a man who knows his northland, he said: "But nobody should come here unless he understands the country and can take care of himself."

In this Bill is right. For Chibougamau is a vast area lying about 250 miles northeast of Rouyn, Que., perhaps half way between the Saguenay and Rupert House on James Bay. Currently it is a reserve known only to government officials, prospectors, bush pilots, traders and Indians. It can be a harsh land.

A little later perhaps, when it has begun to bloom and the frontier has been opened, the country could be one that Robert Service might have liked in his hey-day. But today in Chibougamau there is not even a piano for the dog-dirty stranger to "clutch with his taloned hands." It is a grey, rimed and cold land of lakes and semi-mountains with isolated prospectors' cabins dotting shorelines. In Chibougamau you canoe, walk the snows, travel behind dogs or fly. Otherwise you stay home.

Still, there is gold here and references to copper and gold discoveries date back to 1904 in the annual reports of the Quebec mines department. Since then countless surveys have been made. None has been favorable.

But always, until the building of the road, there have been distance and isolation to hinder development. Additionally, two world wars helped none. So Chibougamau has lain no more than seraped.

Now it is different. At the planned terminus of the St. Foville to-Chibougamau road a townsite has been laid out by the Quebec government and will be opened probably early in the spring. There representatives of the mining companies interested in the area will locate their bases. It should be the beginning of the pay-off on the road gamble and the beginning of Chibougamau's solid exploitation if all reports on the land's wealth are true.

On the ice of Lake Allard, a corner of Lake Chibougamau, diamond drillers are carving down through the ice and the water to plumb the underlying rock. To date what they've found indicates previous surveys were right. It boils to the question of whether exploitation is economically sound. Nobody as yet says too much about actual finds. But they are full of hope and if asked can point to the previous expenditure of millions by private companies merely to probe Chibougamau.

"I don't think this work now is like sending good money after bad," says Bill Lafontaine. "We are about to grow and when Chibougamau is opened it won't be like other mining communities—it will be an orderly, well-planned northern community."

The Record Short Story

Best Friends

By ISABEL JOHNSTON

It was wonderful to be 16 and in love. Nan stared at her algebra and saw her math teacher's hazel eyes. Now that she was in love with a grown man, Nan wondered how she ever could have untrilled to Ben and Nick and those pimply-faced schoolboys, Halsey Evans—Halsey Evans. She said his name to herself.

As usual she was studying her homework with Sybil, her best friend. She and Sybil always did their homework together either at Sybil's house or her own. They prided themselves on getting good marks. But tonight Nan couldn't keep her mind on her work. She felt restless.

"What do you say we go down to the drugstore?" she said.

"Huh?" Sybil did not look up from her problems.

"Maybe Ben or Nick might treat us to a soda," Nan suggested.

"No," Sybil answered, "I want to have my algebra lesson perfect."

Nan stared at Sybil. Nan was good at math herself, but it was Sybil's weak subject. There must be some reason why Sybil suddenly found math so absorbing.

"Are you in love with him, too?" Nan demanded.

"Who?" Sybil looked up, blushing and guilty.

They stared at each other, without words, admitting their mutual love for Halsey Evans.

"His voice sends shivers down my spine," Nan confessed.

"His eyelashes are beautiful," Sybil murmured.

"I wonder what his ideal woman looks like," Nan mused. "Do you suppose he likes a blonde or a brunette?"

Nan had wavy dark hair herself, while Sybil wore blonde curls.

"He probably likes brunettes," Sybil nobly insisted.

"No, his type would more likely go for a fair haired woman," Nan was not to be outdone. Then she added, "Or maybe a woman's soul is more important to him than looks."

Both she and Sybil immediately tried to be as soulful as possible.

"I'll help you with your problems," Nan offered magnanimously.

She did not mind sharing her love for Halsey Evans with Sybil. Together they had overcome many obstacles. Sybil's permanent help had helped Nan persuade her mother to let her have her ends curled, too. And Sybil had used Nan's nail polish to wear down her father's opposition to red polish on young girls.

The tactics they used on their families wouldn't work in romance. They could figure out questions to ask Mr. Evans after class. It was Sybil's idea to inquire about the courses a girl should take to be a math teacher. Nan's suggestion was really impressive. After listening to her father one evening, Nan asked him to explain to Sybil and herself the devaluation of the British pound.

Together they walked past his boarding house, with their combined efforts their romance made real progress. Once they glimpsed him sitting at the soda fountain. Alone, Nan would have felt brassy. With Sybil to back her up, she found the courage to stroll in and greet him gaily. Since they were both such good students of his, naturally he asked them to join him in a soda.

This episode was delightful and encouraging. Nan persuaded Sybil to miss the school bus and linger near Mr. Evans' car. Naturally he offered them a lift. Nan sat next to him. After all that was only fair since Sybil had the privilege of riding an extra block alone with him to her home.

The ride home was so heavenly, Nan wanted to miss the bus every day. But Sybil pointed out that he might think they were chasing him. Her love for Halsey Evans made Nan want to turn down all dates with Ben and Nick. Sybil persuaded her that a man likes a popular girl. And besides, if Ben and Nick didn't take them, now would they ever get any movie dates?

Nan followed Sybil's advice, but she secretly thought Sybil loved Halsey Evans with a lesser love. Since she was good in math, she felt she and Halsey Evans had more in common. Surely he liked Sybil? The next time they missed the bus, she deliberately let Sybil ride next to Mr. Evans. She would let him see how unselfish she was.

If only Mr. Evans could attend their club dance, he would get a chance to tell her how much she meant to him. The trouble was, their club always invited Miss Crosby as chaperone. Miss Crosby was one of the young teachers, quite pretty and popular with the girls. They'd never had a man for chaperone. Yet Nan couldn't help dreaming of Mr. Evans dancing dance after dance with her.

When Mr. Evans rode Sybil and herself home that afternoon, Nan was very quiet. She was figuring out how she could convince the club that Mr. Evans should be the chaperone, too. After she did this, she decided to sound out Sybil about it that evening. Perhaps together they could put it over with the other girls.

As they sat down to their homework that night, Nan led up to the subject.

"Don't you think it's silly to always have Miss Crosby as chaperone?" she asked Sybil.

"Yes, but after all, you and I are club members. Why can't we ask Mr. Evans as chaperone, too?"

"I don't think that's a good idea at all," Sybil said flatly.

"But it would be wonderful to dance with him. Why can't we have him as chaperone, too?"

"Because you can't."

"Why not?"

"Because I've already asked him to come as my date."

"Sybil, you didn't!" Nan cried in horror.

"He said he'd be happy to come," Sybil was defiant.

"But you didn't tell me you were going to!"

"And have you invite him for yourself?"

"After all these years we've been best friends, I didn't think you could be so silly."

Nan stood up in fury. "Well, don't ask me to help you with your math problems again!"

"If that's the way you feel about it, I won't!" Sybil gathered up her books and stamped out of Nan's house.

Even if a friend has betrayed you, a broken friendship hurts. Sybil blundered badly in math class next day, but Nan found little satisfaction in it. Nor did it make Nan feel any happier when Mr. Evans suggested Sybil step in for a few minutes after school to get the problem straight. Nan's own recitation was perfect. She had no excuse to stay. When she rode home that night, Sybil was not on the bus. Nan suffered, picturing Sybil riding all the way home with Mr. Evans alone.

Valiantly Nan tried to persuade herself not to let her buy a sophisticated black dress with plunging neckline for the dance. She couldn't cite Sybil's costume as an argument—and in the end, Nan appeared at the party in girlish pink. It gave her no satisfaction to see Sybil rumbling with Mr. Evans—in baby blue.

Her bitterness was so great, her date with Mr. Evans was a flop. Afterwards she flung herself into wild jitters with Ben and Nick. But she kept track of Mr. Evans' partners. Much to her amazement, she noticed that he danced most with Miss Crosby! At supper time he carried three plates and Nan looked over and saw Sybil, isolated from the gay young crowd, eating her supper with Mr. Evans and the chaperone. The two older people were exchanging glances and chatting merrily. Sybil just sat there beside them and ate. Her woman's intuition told Nan that though Mr. Evans might be polite to Sybil, his hostess, he really liked Miss Crosby best!

As if they'd never had a quarrel, Nan found Sybil and herself doing their homework together the next Sunday evening. They made one or two small casual remarks about Miss Crosby's unbecoming black frock. Then they agreed that Mr. Evans might be good-looking and polite, but he certainly couldn't jittersbug the way Ben and Nick did.

McKENNY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenny, America's Card Authority

MAKING GRAND COUP IS A REAL THRILL

I suppose one of the most satisfying plays in bridge is the "grand coup." Today's hand came up at the New World Chess and Bridge Club in the Churchill Hotel, New York City. The successful play was made by David Strasberg, who is a young player we will hear more about in future tournaments.

Naturally Mr. Strasberg thought he had nothing to worry about when the dummy went down, but nevertheless he was alert enough to know that if there were four diamonds in one hand, the only way he could make the hand was to find them all in that East hand. If so, he would have a chance to execute a grand coup.

The opening lead of the five of hearts was trumped by Mr. Strasberg, sitting South, with the three of diamonds. He cashed the ace and king of diamonds, discarding a small spade from dummy. Now he knew that East did hold four trumps to the jack.

Declarer led the seven of spades and won it in the dummy with the king. He cashed the ace of hearts, on which the jack of spades was discarded. Then he led the ten of hearts and trumped it with the five of diamonds.

The ace of spades was cashed and a small club won in dummy with the queen. The six of spades was trumped by declarer with the six of diamonds. A small club was won in dummy with the ace. Now, when the queen of hearts was played, East was couped. If he trumped with the nine of diamonds, declarer would overtrump with the ten of diamonds, pick up the last trump with the queen and the king of clubs would win the 13th trick.

East, however, refused to trump the queen of hearts. He discarded the ten of clubs, so declarer discarded his good king of clubs. On the next play East had only the jack and nine of diamonds left in his hand and he was forced to trump. He trumped the trick with the nine of diamonds, declarer overtrumped with the ten, and won the last trick with the queen of diamonds.

Quebec Assembly Approves Ban On Obscene And Immoral Publications

Quebec, March 8.—Proposed legislation to ban obscene and immoral literature yesterday was adopted 73-8 by the Legislative Assembly.

The bill, giving wide powers to the government to seize publications found obscene or immoral, must pass three other stages before becoming law.

It goes next before the Legislative Council (upper house) and then must be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor of the province. The bill will become law when the provincial cabinet passes an order-in-council.

The word "illustration," in the bill could also mean illustration by written words, as well as drawings or photographs, Premier Duplessis told the Assembly.

The Liberal opposition voted against the bill.

The bill provides that the attorney-general of the province may submit any "illustration" to the Quebec board of cinema censors to decide whether or not an "illustration" is immoral or obscene.

Newspapers and religious publications do not fall under the provisions of the bill. Premier Duplessis said this was mentioned in the bill but he was re-iterating it to remove any possible doubts.

Opposition leader George Marler said he was not opposed to the principle of the bill but disagreed with the methods proposed by the bill.

The Legislature yesterday also adopted a bill to make law the order-in-council of Jan. 21, 1948 which gave Quebec province the fleur-de-lis flag. Premier Duplessis moved the vote before the Assembly and the result was 81-0 for adoption of the bill.

The Assembly also adopted a bill to authorize the provincial government to spend $2,000,000 to build bridges and roads in connection with drainage works of the department of agriculture.

The Liberal opposition moved to amend the bill so that expenditures for such works be voted on in the budgetary estimates annually. The amendment was declared out of order by Speaker Hon. Alexandre Tache and his decision was upheld by a vote of 74-8. The same vote applied to the adoption of the bill.

The Assembly also debated a measure to authorize the minister of public works to grant up to $500,000 to municipalities for fire prevention purposes, and a bill to authorize the government to make agreements with the federal authority regarding housing. Third reading of both bills was postponed to a later sitting.

The bill respecting publications provides that when the Quebec board of censors has decided an "illustration," is immoral, then any police officer may with or without warrant seize all copies of the condemned publication.

The Premier said the decision of the board of censors is without appeal.

All publications falling under the provisions of the law must register with the provincial secretary and give the name of the publisher, and all agents connected with distribution of the publication to the news-stands, Publications failing to do this or vendors who sell publications not registered are liable to fines ranging from $50, for a first offence to $500 for a second offence.

Opposition leader Marler expressed opposition to clauses of the bill which provided news vendors could be fined for selling unregistered publications, left the censors ruling without appeal, and which authorized police seizure of publication even without warrant.

Mr. Bornhold explained that as an added accomplishment the school had purchased eight of the well-known Canadian artists, from a small margin derived from selling milk to the children. The children themselves were proud, when they realized their money was going to buy the pictures which graced the halls of their school, he said.

Y.W.C.A. Girls Attend Meeting At Kingston

"What's ahead for today's young woman" was the theme of the 1950 Y.W.C.A. Young Adult Regional Conference in Kingston, March 4 and 5. Ten delegates elected from the different departments of the local Y.W.C.A. attended the meeting at which the guest speaker was Dean Douglas, of Queen's University. Mrs. J. T. Savage, O.B.E., National President of the Canadian Y.W.C.A. brought greetings from National Council.

Workshops on "What's Ahead in My Job" and "In Democracy and in the Y.W.C.A." gave scope for much good discussion resulting in recommendations brought before the whole conference. The workshops in "What Is Ahead in Democracy" brought in the recommendation that more program emphasis be placed on public affairs.

Mrs. Savage, speaking for the recommendation, said it was in line with the feeling of the National Council as she herself was giving a series of addresses on "Progress Is Not Inevitable." Miss Lillian Thomson, National Council Executive Director, in a trip to the Western Associations was speaking on "Then There Were None" referring to the absence of women members in the present parliament.

The Workshops on Job came to the conclusion that women must be prepared to take equal responsibilities with men if they expected equal pay and that such things as the higher rate of absenteeism and labor turn-over, and special protective laws would have to be faced. Dean Douglas emphasized that the sphere of Women's work is as wide as the world's need.

Saturday night, following the banquet, community singing was led by Miss Diane Cumner, of Montreal, and there was a very good square dancing session by Mr. and Mrs. F. Bartlett, of Kingston.

The conference closed Sunday noon with a Worship Service led by the Ottawa Association.

The delegates from Sherbrooke were Mrs. Thelma Bampton, Misses Isabel Boy, Betty Hennigar, Gladys Sarasin, Jean McIntyre, Hazel Bailey, Rita Berube, Ginette Braun, Jackie Boive, and Dorothy Rolfe, Mrs. J. E. Dorrian, director, accompanied the delegates.

St. Pat's Camp Slated For July 15 To 29

The St. Pat's Boys' Camp will be held at the St. Pat's Old Boys' Camp at Stoke Lake this year from July 15 to 29. This will mark the first time that an organized Camp has operated at the site purchased two and a half years ago by the Old Boys.

Since acquiring the site the Association has made many improvements. Last year, in addition to making a new road to the camp and levelling off the lake front, a combined dining and recreation hall and kitchen was erected at a cost of $5,500. In order to carry on these improvements it was necessary to borrow $5,000. On March 3, six months after the loan was made the Old Boys' were able to pay $1,800 on this amount.

Work scheduled for this spring includes the erection of sleeping quarters for the camp staff and the campers. Plans have been drawn up for these huts and already two of them have been donated to the camp by parishioners of St. Patrick's Church and Academy.

Furnishing the camp is also well under way. Recently the Lions Club of Sherbrooke donated the beds for the camp, while the Optimist Club donated a sum of money. The Kiwanis Club has promised help as soon as the camping season begins. Five dozen sets of cutlery have also been donated to the camp while another group has outfitted the kitchen.

Work on the construction of the sleeping quarters is scheduled to begin early in May.

Larochelle Is Separated From Tingwick

Quebec, March 8.—The public bills committee yesterday adopted a bill to incorporate the locality of Larochelle, near Asbestos, and separate it from the municipality of Tingwick.

The bill concerning Larochelle was made at the request of Asbestos citizens who own summer residences there. They represented that they went there to rest during the summer, but the locality was invaded by scores of week-enders and there was no police organization to supervise.

The premier agreed that the locality should be separated so as to have powers of a municipality. The municipality of Tingwick objected on the grounds that the separation would take away 20 per cent of its revenues.

The Premier commented he was happy that asbestos workers could own summer homes and had automobiles to go to summer resorts.

The Hague, March 8.—(P)—The Netherlands moved in reprisal against Czechoslovakia today by ordering the expulsion of two members of the Czech legation here.

seemingly had disintegrated into a wild melee over the bill itself. When the bill was introduced last Friday the same thing happened.

The communist attempts to sabotage passage of the bill itself was a last-ditch effort coinciding with the arrival yesterday at Norfolk, Va., of the French aircraft carrier Dixmude. The carrier is to pick up a load of 50 American planes, and the passage of the bill the assembly adjourned until March 14, when it is due to take up the Franco-American bilateral treaty implementing the North Atlantic pact.

This issue is expected to produce once again the heated attempts of the communists to delay passage.

gram that now was being used in Europe to fight communism. This should take the form of an agreed strategy among Pacific nations.

Mr. Coldwell agreed that Canada and other countries had to plan to rearm, but he suggested the challenge of communism will not be met until the living standards of peoples all over the world have been improved.

had been the "directing centre of espionage and of all plots against the liberty, independence, security and sovereignty of our people's republic."

He declared that Donald Heath, former U. S. minister of Bulgaria, had "left behind indisputable proof that he personally, and the members of his mission, dealt not only in espionage and espionage but were specialists in falsification and in delivering ampules of poison."

Shipkov had testified earlier that he had taken refuge in the American legation before the break in diplomatic relations between the United States and Bulgaria caused the mission to be closed down. He said he had been given false papers and ampules of poison and advised to escape from his homeland across the Turkish border. He was arrested while trying to escape.

WAY'S MILLS

Owing to the extreme cold of last week, the annual meeting of the Women's Institute has been postponed until Thursday, March 9, when it will meet with Mrs. Dobb and Mrs. Hill, at Libertytown.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Colt, of Rock Island, were guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rudd.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bacheider and family, of Beebe, were guests of Mrs. Lucy Beane.

The W.A. tea held at the home of Mrs. A. Littlejohn, was a pleasant affair. Mrs. Holmes presided over the business meeting, when plans were made for future work. A delicious tea was served by the hostess. Several visitors came in at the tea hour.

Mrs. A. A. Bryan, Miss Matilda Bryan and Master Gary were visitors in Coaticook for a day.

OBITUARIES

MRS. CHARLES A. SIMONS OF BULWER

Bulwer, March 8.—There entered into rest on February 10, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Hunting, at Huntingville,
Mrs. Charles A. Simons, the only daughter of the late Simon Haines and his wife, Louise Richardson.

Mrs. Simons was born in Mart-ville, on March 11, 1873, and was united in marriage to Charles Simons, in December, 1896.

She was predeceased by a son,
Earl, in 1928; and by two brothers, Colby and Ernest Haines, and a foster sister, Mrs. Annie Colby.

Most of her married life was spent in Bulwer and Birchton.

Although the deceased had been in failing health for several years she was ill only a few days at the time of her death.

The funeral service was held on February 12, in the Bulwer United Church and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The service was conducted by Rev. S. J.
Burman, of Birchton, who spoke comforting words to the bereaved family. During the services, Miss Thelma Crawford, of Lennoxville, sang two selections, "Goodnight and Goodmornings," and "The Lord's My Shepherd" with Mrs.
Leslie Richardson, at the organ.

The bearers were Messrs. Wilbur Rogers, Ernest Harrison, Walter Rogers and Clifford Hunting, and interment was made in the family lot in the Johnville Cemetery.

Left to mourn her passing are her husband, Mr. Charles Simons; one son, Mr. Chauncy Simons, and his wife, Mrs. Simons, of Orlando, Fla.; one daughter, Mrs. Clifford
Huntingville; two grandchildren,

The film presented a study of the child's development and a challenge to all concerned prospective teachers, parents and the community as a whole.

Suggestive uses shown were designed to arouse an interest in the modern teacher. The film is suitable for all ages. What is intended is illustrated in the film and that is that more activity and better facilities for health recreation, and reading be provided in the schools.

There was a discussion led by Mr. Dobbin on bus service. Grade VII won the ice cream, as they had more points to their credit.

A silver collection was taken up. The meeting adjourned with the singing of "God Save The King."

The Doctor Says

ADHESIONS GET BLAME FOR ALL TOO MANY SYMPTOMS

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

"Adhesions" are often blamed for all kinds of pains and other symptoms for which no other cause can be found. In doing this people often have a very vague idea of what adhesions are and what they can do. Adhesions are made up of tissue just like that of an ordinary scar on the skin. This consists of tiny, slightly elastic fibers called fibrous tissue. The body tends to respond to any infection or injury by forming fibrous tissue. This response is not related to the particular nature of the damage but is merely one of nature's attempts to heal. A scar on the skin is not called an adhesion, but on the inside portions of the body similar "scar" tissue may form and produce adhesions.

If a patient has acute appendicitis and the appendix has ruptured, spilling the infection into the surrounding tissue, adhesions will often form. The same is true of many other internal infections.

The adhesions thus formed may or may not produce complications later on. Adhesions have a tendency to contract; if they have formed around a loop of the intestines, therefore, they may draw tighter and tighter, thus preventing the free flow of intestinal contents. This, in turn, can produce symptoms and may require an operation to cut these bands of fibrous tissue and free the partly strangled gut.

What to do for adhesions depends on where the adhesions are located, what normal structures of the body they surround, and what this contraction is doing to the organs involved. For all these reasons adhesions frequently are blamed for vague symptoms which cannot be blamed on anything else.

Scapegoat
Anyone can see that pinning the blame on adhesions is likely to be difficult. Sometimes it can be done only by operation when the region under suspicion comes under the eyes of the surgeon.

Some people tend to develop adhesions much more easily than others. This raises a difficult problem because in such people new adhesions are likely to form even after old ones have been cut or removed. However, surgical methods are so good now that the number of recurrences of adhesions is greatly decreased. They can occur, however, even after the most meticulous surgery.

District Governor Coulson Of Ottawa Visited Cowansville Lions Club

Cowansville, March 8. — It was something more than good manners, which prompted the Lions, when they accorded a rousing welcome to their District Governor J. D'Arcy Coulson, of Ottawa, as they met at the Ottawa Hotel, one evening to receive constructive criticism, and advice on how to make the club a more effective unit in the community. Governor Coulson, a past professional hockey player with Philadelphia, and Montreal Maroons, put plenty of punch into his address and left no doubt of his ability as a speaker. In opening his remarks, Governor Coulson spoke most highly of his reception both in Cowansville, where he spent the previous day, and was very high in his praise of the scenery he encountered, while on his first visit to the Eastern Townships. He also expressed surprise at the size and importance of both the Vilas Furniture Co. Ltd., and Bruck Mills, Ltd., where he visited during the afternoon.

Many persons who are members of service clubs, and many who are not members, have often paused to reflect on their existence, and wonder about their purpose and try to find out what need they fulfill," stated the speaker. "Judging by their declaration of principles, aims and objects, their field of service is a broad scope. This includes service to the public through the business and professional activities of the members, support of civic enterprises, help for the blind, the unfortunate, and in numerous other fields where service and assistance are necessary. In summing up the Governor complimented the club on the work they have done locally, and also on the interest shown by individual members as evidenced by their faithful attendance at meetings, and by furthering the growth of Lionism by constantly adding new members. At this point Governor Coulson presented Lions John McClure, Bill Perry, and Joe Bonnette, as Key Members, each having secured two new members for the club during the month of January.

In the early stages of the evening, which was a most enjoyable one, the speaker was met by a group of ladies who were waiting to receive him. They were the members of the Cowansville Lions Club, who were waiting to receive him. They were the members of the Cowansville Lions Club, who were waiting to receive him. Local Women's Groups Observe Day Of Prayer

On Friday, February 24, taking part in the World Day of Prayer, 170 members of various Christian denominations of the City of Sherbrooke, attended a service in St. Peter's Church, under the leadership of Mrs. R. I. McCabe, of St. Catherine's Branch of the W. A.

The service followed the program provided by the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada, major portions of which were prepared by Miss Michi Kawai, founder of Keisen Girls School, Japan.

Assisting in the service were: Mrs. George Stevenson, St. Andrew's W.M.S., Mrs. Z. Griffith, Plymouth United Church, Mrs. O. L. Davidson, Sherbrooke Baptist Church, Mrs. John Hazle, Trinity United Church, Mrs. H. McCombs, Salvation Army, Mrs. H. A. Welch, Grace Chapel, Mrs. H. Cuthbert, Church of St. Paul The Apostle, and Mrs. C. Varney, Church of the Advent.

Mrs. Arthur C. Hill was the soloist, rendering most acceptably the simple, but beautiful hymn, "The Lord Is My Shepherd."

The theme of the service was "Faith for Our Time" and the address was given by Mrs. D. C. Masters, of Lennoxville. Mrs. Masters urged her hearers to see that the Christian Youth place their faith in the person and work of Christ Himself. Without this personal trust, education, ethical training, and Christian background are powerless. Their approach to God must be through the Cross of Jesus and His Righteousness and not through their own works of Church attendance and Christian service. Then only will they have a personal knowledge of Christ and be truly Christian.

Offertory at these services which have become an annual event of inspiration to thousands of women throughout the world, is used for the furthering of missionary effort at home and abroad. A total of $225,000 was contributed at services held last year throughout the world. Canada's offering totalling $24,275. Allocations were made for literature and work in China, Korea, Japan, India, Africa, Latin America, International Missionary Council, Foreign Missions Conference of North America, World Council of Churches, Canadian Council of Churches, Christian Literature in Canada in Ukrainian, Hungarian, French, Finnish and Hymn Books for Cree Indians.

Hard-Hearted Grandmothers

Idle Woman Resents Watching Daughter's Children Occasionally

Dear Miss Dix: We help my parents and do it gladly, although it cramps our budget to do so. We don't begrudge this, but it would be HEAVEN to me if my mother would offer once a week, or even once a fortnight, to take care of my two children while my husband and I went out to some place of amusement, but she never does. Occasionally I will ask her and she agrees to have the youngsters for an hour or two, but she always does it reluctantly, in a way that indicates I have colossal nerve to ask such a favor.

My mother is not old and is in good health. She belongs to no clubs, goes nowhere and has little work to do, so I see no reason why she shouldn't help me out now and then. How can I put it up to her diplomatically?

MRS. JIM

Answer: This is not a case for diplomacy. It is one where brutal tactics are called for. You have to fight selfishness with selfishness, and so I think you should put up taking care of the children as a business proposition to your mother.

Tell her that you are going to use the money that you give her every week in employing some one to look after the children while you and your husband step out, and that if she wishes to earn it you would prefer to give her the job. Perhaps if she felt she was being paid for keeping an eye on the children she would not object to it so much.

MOTHER'S RESPONSIBILITY

Of course, primarily a woman's children are her own responsibility, and it is up to her to take care of them in the main. She has no right to dump them on her mother half a dozen times a week while she goes off to amuse herself. Any woman who has raised her own family of children has done her share of baby-tending, and it is her turn to spend her afternoons playing contract instead of giving Junior his sun bath and keeping Johnny from getting run over by automobiles and playing dolls with little Mary.

But, on the other hand, mother can save daughter's reason and keep her from a nervous breakdown, from quarreling with her husband, by taking the children home with her for a few hours now and then and giving daughter a chance to relax and rest and get a new view point by going out among the bright lights.

Dear Miss Dix: What can a man do with a wife who refuses to have meals on time and who keeps a house that looks like a pigpen? I provide my wife with plenty of money and she has a maid, but it does no good. The house is just as untidy and the food as bad and the meals as unappetizing because she stays in bed and does not see that anything is done properly. I am getting to drink too much just to get my mind off my domestic worries, and I stay at home as little as I can because everything is so rotten in the house. What can I do?

CETA

Answer: A woman can get a divorce from her husband for "failure to provide" for her. A man should be able to get a divorce from his wife for "failure to make a comfortable home" with the money he furnishes. It is just as much an obligation of matrimony for a wife to fry the bacon as it is for the husband to bring it home.

There is no excuse on earth except sickness for a woman not to be a good housekeeper. So if a man is married to a healthy, able-bodied woman and she lies down on her duties, as this woman does, he is certainly justified in refusing to support her any longer in idleness. These lazy slovens take advantage of their official positions as wives to loaf on their jobs, but if they knew they would be fired out of house and home if they didn't reform, you would see them animated by a sudden burst of industry.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We are always hearing about mothers-in-law breaking up homes. What about fathers-in-law? I know of a number of homes where well-to-do fathers-in-law went to live with a newly married son or daughter, with the result that the homes are very unhappy and on the point of being wrecked.

MACK

Answer: Everything that is said about the inadvisability of mothers going to live with their married children applies to fathers. It isn't the sex of the parent that matters, it is the parental interference in the lives of a young couple.

Dorothy Dix gives valuable counsel the girl starting out on a career in leaflet D-4, "Ambition". To obtain a copy, send 5 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix, P. O. Box 98, Times Square Station, New York 18, N. Y.

ment to many thousands of Canadians in isolated areas across the Dominion, where the population has little or no access to commercial theatres.

Several years ago an I.O.D.E. film fund was established to which the Primary Chapters contribute annually, and from this fund, in addition to the "House of Windsor" prints of two previous films, "The Royal Tour in South Africa" and "The Royal Wedding" have been purchased and incorporated in the National Film Board's rural circuits and placed in the urban rotating film libraries. These pictures have proved to be of wide popular interest.

Motherly Finch Helps Dopey Eat

Ladysmith, B.C. — March 7. — Apparently Rosey had never heard about "birds of a feather . . ." So Dopey, the sparrow, is alive and well.

Dopey, "a shabby little thing", says Mrs. Thomas Collinge, was in such poor condition when he arrived at the bird-feeding station at her home that he couldn't manage the fare of wheat flakes. That was when Rosey, the purple finch, took over. She taught Dopey how to break the flakes into small bits and protected him from the bigger birds—even from Rosey's husband.

Mrs. Collinge, an amateur ornithologist, says she never before saw a member of one species adopt a member of another.

Body Of Columbus
In Latin America?
Debate Is Revived

Madrid. — (Reuters) — A newspaper report from the Caribbean's Dominican Republic has touched off a new controversy between Spanish and Latin American newspapers over the whereabouts of the remains of Christopher Columbus.

For today, more than 400 years after his death, the remains of the discoverer of America are as much a subject of controversy as those of the 20th-century dictator, Benito Mussolini.

The newspaper report which has revived the present controversy came from Ciudad Trujillo, and after stating that a huge monument to Columbus is to be unveiled there this year, added: "At the base of this monument will be buried the remains of the great discoverer."

The report referred to the remains found at Santo Domingo, (the island on which the Dominican Republic and Haiti are situated) in 1877 and since held there. The authenticity of these remains has never been admitted by such authoritative bodies as the Spanish Academy of History which has made two separate investigations into the question.

Most Spanish, and some Latin American, historians continue to consider the remains in the tomb of Christopher Columbus in Seville cathedral to be the only genuine mortal remains of the man who opened the doors of America for Spain.

Other historians, however, both at Santo Domingo and elsewhere, argue the case in favor of the authenticity of the remains discovered in the cathedral at Ciudad Trujillo in 1877. These authorities deny the argument of their opponents—namely that the remains found in 1877 were those of another Christopher Columbus, the grandson of the explorer.

Buried As Franciscan

Those who consider the remains found at Santo Domingo were those of the discoverer's grandson declare that among these remains were traces of naval uniform. They argue that the discoverer was buried not in his uniform but in the habit of the Franciscan order.

Christopher Columbus died in Spain in 1506 and was buried at Valladolid. His body was removed later to Seville and, about 1540, to the cathedral at Santo Domingo. But the peace signed between France and Spain in 1795 gave part of the island of Santo Domingo to France (now Haiti), and the

CANTERBURY

The Ladies' Guild met at the home of Mrs. Maurice Goodin. The afternoon was very cold and stormy so not many were able to attend.

Mrs. E. Godin spent a day with friends in Lennoxville. Mr. Ernest Hall, of Sherbrooke, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chapman.

Mr. N. G. Bennett was a visitor in Sherbrooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Asker spent a day in Bury. Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Drake, of Bulwer, visited Miss Mildred Rudd, at Mr. W. Mayhew's.

Spaniards decided to remove the remains of Columbus to Cuba. This was done in 1796.

They were again transferred from Cuba to Seville in 1898, when Spain lost Cuba after her war with the United States.

In this connection, Spanish newspapers cite at length historical documents made at the time which are preserved in the Archives of Indies, at Seville.

Spanish historians cite these documents to show that the transfer was the subject of much discussion between civil, religious and naval authorities and that the transfer was carried out with great care and solemnity and in the presence of a notary.

Part of the remains found in Santo Domingo and which are the subject of such hot discussion, were presented to the Italian city of Genoa where Columbus was born but where, as Spanish writers are quick to emphasize, he failed to find the opportunity, which Spain was to give him, to achieve fame. So, as the Madrid newspaper "Arriba" declares, "there are three alleged tombs of Christopher Columbus."

Nicole Henriot, Pianist, Charmed Granby Music-Lovers With Her Playing

Granby, March 8.—The fourth Community Concert, which was an extra, took place in the Palace Theatre, on Thursday, March 2. Nicole Henriot, who for two hours held her audience spell bound by her marvelous playing.

Miss Henriot, who is only in her early twenties, was the first French pianist heard in England, after the armistice and since then, she has played in concerts in Holland, Belgium, Portugal, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Switzerland, Egypt, Scandinavia, Palestine and Turkey.

The first number on her program was "Concerto Gross in D major" by Vivaldi-Bach, and her second "Sonata in C major" by Mozart. These were followed by a group of Chopin compositions, three Etudes, "Ballade in G minor"; A "Gavotte" by Gounod; "Cradle Song", from the suite, "Children's Games", and an "Impromptu" by Fraire, the beautiful song writer were great favourites with the audience.

As a chartered bus was waiting to take Miss Henriot back to Montreal, her encores were not as numerous as her audience wished, but her pleasing personality and exquisite playing will long linger in the minds of Granby music lovers.

TI South America By Air
Mr. and Mrs. John Low-Beer returned last week from a trip to South America by air, and at the Kiwanis Club, of which Mr. Low is president, he told the members some of his interesting experiences on this trip.

They left Granby early in the morning and motored to Montreal, ten weather was five degrees below zero. They boarded a big Constellation plane at Dorval and arrived in the early evening, at Caracas, the little Dutch trading centre, on an island in the Caribbean Sea, only fifty miles from the South American Coast.

The next morning, they continued their flight to Venezuela. Their first sight of land being the high steep mountains rising straight out of the sea. Caracas, the capital of Venezuela, is three thousand feet above sea level and to reach it they had an hour's climb by car along a steep curving, but very beautiful mountain road. Years ago the country was conquered by the Spaniards, who stripped it of its gold and oil and later sold the people as slaves on the slave market. Mr. Low-Beer's mother and sister live in Caracas, before the last war. His father having escaped from Europe just was murdered by the Germans, choosing to remain with his people in Czechoslovakia, where he hoped to help and comfort them. They found Venezuela a most interesting and progressive country, and had a very pleasant visit with their relatives.

Parent-Scout Banquet
The annual Parent-Scout Banquet was held at the Legion Hall, on Saturday evening February 25, when the Granby Guide and Brownies Companies and their officers were invited guests.

Seated at the head table were Mr. John W. H. Miner, Scout-Commissioner, Mrs. N. R. Mitchell, District-Guide Commissioner; Mr. B. C. Armstrong, president of the local Scouts committee, who acted as chairman; Mr. O. R. Jackman, assistant District Scout Commissioner; Ven. Archdeacon I. M. Lidstone; Rev. N. D. Patterson, Mrs. K. L. Lubbeck, Mrs. E. F. Davidge, Mrs. George Robinson, Mr. Vere MacHutchin.

The program opened with the raising of the flag, followed by the innoing of the blessing by Ven. Archdeacon I. M. Lidstone and the toast to "The King" proposed by the chairman, Mr. B. C. Armstrong. Following the banquet, the chairman in his opening remarks, thanked the Canadian Legion for the use of their hall and all others, who had sent dishes and food, etc. for the banquet.

Mr. John Miner and Mrs. N. R. Mitchell also addressed the company. A sing-song led by Messrs. E. Davidge and F. Taylor, with Mrs. F. Thierier at the piano, was much enjoyed.

Three scouts, Bryant Bouskill, Ray Ball, and Ronnie Hancock, were presented with badges, by O. R. Jackman.

Several songs were sung by the Cubs, assisted by Cub Douglas Horner, on the guitar.

Survey Criticizes Vancouver Library

Vancouver. — The "imagination and indomitable patience" of the staff was the only bright spot in a two-man survey noted in a report on the city's library. Facilities of the library, the 82-page report said, were "disgraceful."

The survey was carried out by John Adams Lowe, director of the Rochester, N. Y., public library and John S. Richard, Seattle public librarian. It was financed by a $3,000 city grant.

Occasionally resorting to strong language, the report says the situation is all the more deplorable because "Vancouver offers unusual opportunities for good library service. It is above average in educational level, in economic status, in general living conditions, and has a homogeneous population with over 90 per cent of English-speaking origin."

Conditions in the building were found to be "shocking" compared to the average factory. Odors from an adjacent market and alley, the report said, forced the staff to keep windows closed in the summer.

Under minimum standards laid down by the American Library Association, the library here was found short of books, librarians, buildings and money.

It has less than one-third the minimum number of books, less than half the money, less than half the number of librarians and receives slightly more than half the amount of money it should. However, the selection of books was found to be "well-rounded."

The staff, whose "herculean efforts to serve the public with inadequate facilities" showed "imagination and indomitable patience," drew praise.

The report recommended the city seek provincial support and private donations to improve conditions.

FRIED CATERPILLARS "TASTY"

Wisebech, England. — Sister Haile, a former missionary to Bechuanaland, told women here that African caterpillars fried in fat are very tasty. She also recommended stewing them as delicious and "very much like chicken."

Ontario Rinks Showing Pace For Canadian Curling Championship; Quebec Tied For Second Position

Vancouver, March 8.—(AP)—A new touch—perhaps only temporary—was added yesterday to the Canadian Curling Championship as Ontario rinks finished fourth-round matches in the top slots.

Carl Assmusen's Kitchener, Ont., quartet showed a clean sheet with four straight victories. The other, from Kirkland Lake, Ont., had only one defeat while Western rinks, who in previous years have dominated this big-league competition, weren't in position to challenge immediately.

That is the picture today as the 10 rinks headed into the home stretch in the four-day round-robin tournament.

Five rinks, each with a two-and-a-half won-loss record, followed the Ontario clubs—Quebec, Nova Scotia, British Columbia and the provincial favorites Manitoba and Alberta. Three others—Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan—headed into this afternoon's fifth round with one victory in four starts.

And the big game of today's draw will bring together Assmusen's rink against the foursome they're all close. Tonight New York Rangers play at Chicago Black Hawks, and Detroit Red Wings entertain Boston Bruins. Tomorrow Toronto Maple Leafs travel to Montreal Canadiens and Detroit entertain New York.

Detroit is solid in first place, with 74 points. Toronto is second with 66, Montreal third with 62 and New York holds the last playoff spot with 61 points. Boston is eight points behind with only nine games to go; Chicago 15 points behind New York with 15 games left. Most fans have already discarded Boston and Chicago but the fact remains that both still have a mathematical chance of making the playoffs.

As the fourth team on the totem pole, New York Rangers might be expected to be doing the heaviest pondering. But yesterday, with an open date, they pondered nothing more serious than a ball for an "O" opponents' team.

They selected goalie Bill Duran of Montreal; defencemen Jack Stewart and Leo Reise of Detroit; forwards Sid Abel and Ted Lindsay of Detroit and Maurice Richard of Montreal.

That's a pretty good team in anyone's books. The Rangers of course were just getting in ahead of the official balloting for the N.H.L. trophies. Team coaches now start selecting their choices for the All-Star team, with each player on the first team getting $1,000 and on the second team $500 from the League.

The sports writers and broadcasters also can begin balloting on the Hart Trophy for the most valuable player; the Lady Byng Trophy for the most gentlemanly; and the Calder Memorial Trophy for the best rookie.

Two other trophies are the Vezina, which goes automatically to the goalkeeper who has played most games for the team with the fewest goals scored against it, and the Art Ross Trophy, an award first put up two seasons ago for the leading point-getter.

Hy-Lo Trio Appears Nightly At Union Hotel

With a romping beat, a rollicking air of spontaneous humor and three virile voices styled after the nation's most popular vocal stars, The HY-LO Trio is "packing them in" at the Union Hotel Sport Lounge.

All eyes are glued to this multifarious trio constantly, as they wind their way through an ever-rising crescendo of music and hilarity, the effect of which is so contagious that all worldly cares dissolve for the listener.

After getting constant ovations throughout the New England States as Boston, where they were featured repeatedly at the famous Sho-Bar, the 400 Club in Providence, R.I., and countless other noteworthy mecca for fun-lovers, The HY-LO boys invade Canada to prove that there is "something new under the sun."

Their triple threat ability proves that they haven't hitched their wagons to any one man's star; each man is an entertainment package in his own right. Several of the special features which are proven show-stoppers exhibit the individual ability of each man. "The Turntable Song" is an example of this; Vince, Ray and Angie with unbelievably hilarious imitations of the country's leading recorded voices. Other mirth-provoking bits which are completely original include "Clementine's Trip Around the World," Vaughan Monroe's "Ghost Riders in the Sky," "Freddie Goes to Ebbetts Field" and "Cheap a Banana."

The customers get no respite from constant entertainment when The HY-LO Trio kick off that opening tune, for, from that moment on, they're in for sparkling instrumental solos, sock vocal trios, splendid vocal solos and really fresh live comedy.

Canadiens Down Reds 4-2 To Lead Series

Montreal, March 8.—(P)—Montreal Canadiens scored a 4-2 victory over Three Rivers Reds here last night in the seventh game of a best-of-nine Junior Hockey Association playoff series.

The victory moved the Montrealers ahead, 4-3, for the first time in the series.

Jacques Nadeau, Bill Gould, Herb English and Bill Rose scored the Montreal goals while Gilles Viboux and Gerard Paquin tallied for Three Rivers.

Manuel Ortiz Earns Decision Over Dade

Los Angeles, March 8.—(P)—Manuel Ortiz, world's bantamweight champion, won a split decision over Harold Dade, Chicago, in a 10-round non-title bout at the Olympic Auditorium last night. Ortiz weighed 132 and Dade 128½.

Going into the 10th, Dade seemed to observers to have a slight margin. Ortiz started throwing right hands and connected on one of them with Dade's jaw. The Chicagoan dropped momentarily to one knee but jumped up instantly and continued.

The referee had Dade the winner but both judges ruled that Ortiz had the better of the bout.

Ottawa Senators Come From Behind To Edge Chicoutimi Saguenays 3-2 As Hal Murphy Stars For Visitors

The second game will be played at Chicoutimi Thursday with the third back here next Saturday.

Buddy Hellyer, Nils Tremblay and Emile Dagenais counted for the Senators, while Johnny Murech and Stan Smrke scored for the losers.

Murech drew first blood for Chicoutimi after almost five minutes of play in the first period when he scored on a high shot from 15 feet out while goalie Bill Fraser was off-balance.

Hellyer evened the count with less than two minutes gone in the middle period on a screened shot after Hal Murphy had saved two close-in drives.

Smrke put Chicoutimi out in front again mid-way in the period on a power play with brother Lou Smrke and Hee Bourgeois. Ottawa again deadlocked the count with less than minute remaining in the period when Tremblay counted on a three-way passing play with George Greene and Dagenais.

Dagenais scored the lone goal in the final period.

Chicoutimi fought back hard in the dying minutes but all attempts to tie the score failed.

Locals Show Superiority In All Departments; Manastersky And Bush Draw Match Penalties For Stick Act

Sherbrooke Saints completely outplayed the Montreal Royals last night and chalked up their first win in the best-of-seven semi-finals in the Quebec Senior Hockey League playdowns before 2,700 paid customers at the local arena.

The Saints held the upper hand the whole way as they registered a 4-1 decision over Carlin's clan. The Montreal youngsters failed to cope with the locals' passing and defensive systems and the Saints at times rode in at will and bombarded Jacques Plante from all angles.

The second game of the series will be played Sunday afternoon at the Montreal Forum with the third returning to the local arena next Tuesday. The attendance of 2,750 was the smallest ever to witness a playdown game in Sherbrooke.

Eddie Bush, Adj Cote, Bill Heindl and Norm McAtee were the marksmen for the locals while Desaulniers registered the sole marker for the Royals in the heavy-checking tilt. A total of 15 penalties were handed out, including match penalties to Tom Manastersky and Eddie Bush for a stick-swinging escapade in the opening period, by Referee Sibby Munday and Red Storey.

The first period opened with the Saints moving right to the attack and for the first few minutes held the Royals bottled up in their zone. Normie McAtee was right in, but Young Plante slid out to make the save and ease the pressure for a moment or so.

Dewar Thomson was given a tripping penalty when he pulled the feet from under Adj Cote and this was the sign for a full out attack by the Saints.

EDDIE BUSH TALLIES OPENER

The locals moved right in and commenced to give Mr. riante a little sample of the hard evening he was going to have. The boys were right in on his doorstep and kept the rubber moving around at a good clip. Finally dig Eddie Bush, nodding down one of the anchor spots, riled a hard shot from inside the blue line which beat Plante to register the local's first tally. Jimmy Plante and his pivot man, McAtee, were right back again, but they missed their opportunities. Barry and McNeil then got the thumb for roughing and things slowed down during their absence.

COTE GETS NUMBER TWO

With both teams short handed the locals kept on the attack, and Adj Cote registered the second tally for the Saints. Fern Gladu carried the puck down the ice and when the defense charged for him he slid the disc over to Cote, and the sifty centre man, made no mistake as he lifted the rubber over Plante.

In the women's free skating competition tonight, she will have to outscore the defending world queen, Aja Vrzanova of Czechoslovakia, by 35 points, and also pass second-place Jeanette Altwegg of Britain and third-place Yvonne Sherman, the North American Champion from New York.

The other Canadian entry in the women's event, Marlene Smith of Niagara Falls, Ont., was down in ninth place among the 14 contestants and appeared too far off the pace to make any impression on the leading quartet.

In her bid to win the gold medal once held by Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott, the Toronto Skating Club star was in the thick of the fight for the lead during the fourth and fifth figures, but a "good" instead of a "very good" for the final figures spoiled her chances of coming closer.

After yesterday's compulsory figures, the unofficial point-totals of the top four were: Miss Vrzanova 790.65; Miss Altwegg 783.71; Miss Sherman 782.48; and Miss Morrow 766.38.

Miss Morrow represents Canada's last hope after the failure of Vancouver's Roger Wickson to finish better than eighth as peerless Dick Button of Englewood, N.J., clinched his third straight men's world title.

Button piled up an amazing 34.76 points out of a possible 61.2 in last night's free skating for his overall total with Monday's compulsory figures of 1,419.47 points. Perfect marks would be 1,537.2.

Ede Kiraly of Hungary, the European champion, was second with 1,344.42; Hayes Allen Jenkins, Akron, O., third 1,277.96; and Helmut Seibt, Austria, fourth with 1,274.35.

Tonight's women's free skating winds up the three-day world tournament. There were no events scheduled during the day.

It is opened to all the high schools in the Eastern Townships.

Canada's Hopes For Skating Title Slim

London, March 8.—(P)—Canada's hopes for distinction in the World Figure Skating Championships rested today on the slender shoulders of blonde Suzanne Morrow—but the girl from Toronto has an enormous job on her hands.

Sherbrooke High School Midget Basketball Team Cops St. Francis Valley Interscholastic Title

The Sherbrooke High School Midgets captured the St. Francis Valley Midget Interscholastic championship Saturday afternoon in a round-robin tournament with teams from Lennoxville and a Windsor Mills-Richmond combination. Sherbrooke won both its contests while Lennoxville finished in second position with one victory and a defeat.

Playing on their home court the local 14-year-old boys had little trouble in downing Lennoxville 66-12 and came back in the third game to rack up an almost equally convincing 47-5 victory over the Windsor-Richmond combination.

In the most spirited contest of the afternoon the Lennoxville youngsters edged the Windsor-Richmond team by a 22-16 count. The Lennoxville boys handled themselves like veterans in this middle game and took a 13-3 lead at half-time, thanks to the excellent playing of Cox, Alcorn and Neeley. Houghton rallied the losers early in the second half with

Andre Corriveau Paces Braves To 3-2 Victory Over Aces With Two Goals In Hard-Fought Fixture

Valleyfield, Que., March 8.—(P)—Sparked by Andre Corriveau with a pair of goals, Valleyfield Braves eked out a 3-2 decision over Quebec Aces here last night in the opening game of a best-of-five quarter-final series.

Veteran Jimmy Haggarty notched the other Valleyfield goal while Dick Gamble and Ludwig Tremblay were the Quebec snipers.

Corriveau slapped the puck into the Quebec goal at the eight minute mark, but the tally was called back by referee Bob Barrette. Two minutes later Corriveau winged in to make the goal count this time when he drove in a blistering drive on a play with Dave Dutchak.
