OUTWARD DECENCY IS WALDO'S POLICY DECLARES HAYES

Deposed New York Inspector on Witness Stand Accuses Police Commissioner.

New York Sept. 5.—Whether Police Commissioner Waldo gave "general instructions" to suppress disorderly houses and private verbal orders to allow them to run as long as conditions of "outward decency" were observed, became the question at issue to-day when Cornelius G. Hayes, suspended inspector, was placed on trial on the charge of making a false statement in regard to his police duties.

While Hayes was ostensibly the defendant, Thomas D. Thacher, Hayes' counsel, virtually transformed the trial into a probe of the police department and an arraignment of the policy of Mayor Gaynor toward the regulation of vice.

The Attorney relentlessly grilled Police Commissioner Waldo in an effort to show that "outward decency" was the criterion by which the Mayor wished the question of vice suppression to be determined, and then put Hayes on the stand to prove that the Commissioner had given the Inspector verbal orders in pursuance of this policy and had not countermanded them until they had become public.

Hayes who testified in a straightforward manner, emphatically denied that he had made a false statement when he told the Commissioner that the latter had ordered him not to make raids on disorderly houses except on the Commissioner's instructions. In accordance with these instructions he had made no raids, he said, since February, although previous to that time he had made many and had "cleaned out" one inspection district.

Waldo Threatened To Fire Him. It was on August 8, or about the time when the scandals growing out of the Rosenthal case were being aired, that Police Commissioner Waldo, according to the testimony of the witness, threatened to "fire him" for stating that he had received such orders. This he threatened to do on two other subsequent occasions, Hayes testified, but it was not until Aug. 16, the day after the publication of an interview from "an inspector," who was quoted as saying he had received such orders from the Commissioner, that Waldo made good his alleged threats by suspending him and demoting him to a captain's rank.

"Do you remember a conversation you had with Waldo on Sept. 5?" asked Mr. Thacher.

"I do. I made a tour of my district with him. As we passed the Eldorado Dance Hall the Commissioner said to me 'there is a dance hall down-stairs and a house of prostitution upstairs. If there is no outside disorder, it is well to have them in such a place rather than on the outside.'"

Arrests On Citizens Complaints. Mr. Thacher handed Capt. Hayes a list of disorderly houses raided by him while Inspector in the Fourth District. About thirty raids were listed.

"In these cases where arrests were made did you act in accordance with orders from Commissioner Waldo?"

"I did not. I made these arrests on complaints of reputable citizens. They were all in apartment houses and up until last February were running."

"On February 13 last Commissioner Waldo sent for me," Hayes continued. "The Commissioner said, 'I thought you were keeping an eye on disorderly houses.' I said I was. Commissioner Waldo said, 'I have been told by a newspaper man that the raids you men make was for the purpose of graft. Keep your men out of disorderly houses and in future if you get a letter of complaint bring it to me be-

NO PARTY LINES IN QUEBEC'S HONORS TO PRIME MINISTER

PELLETIER WILL STIR UP ACTION ON THE TERMINALS

Quebec's Cabinet Member Is Surprised that Work Is Not Further Advanced.

Hon. L. P. Pelletier was seen at his residence last night by a Chronicle representative, who observed a remarkable change in the physical condition of the Postmaster-General. He admitted that his condition in health had greatly improved and he attributed the change to his trip abroad.

Mr. Pelletier was anxious to hear the news in Quebec. He said that he received the Chronicle regularly by mail in London, along with other Canadian papers, but during the past two weeks had not read a Canadian newspaper.

He wanted to know how far the Quebec railway terminals had advanced, and when informed that nothing whatever had been done toward their construction, expressed genuine surprise and said he had felt sure that the work on them had been begun and in a most emphatic manner said he would lose no time in consulting his colleagues about the matter, and know the reason why the work was not further advanced.

Talks of Trip Abroad. Referring to his trip abroad Mr. Pelletier said: "We had a delightful experience abroad and were accorded magnificent receptions in England and France, but I am glad to be back at home in dear old Canada.

"We had a magnificent passage across the ocean on the steamer Victorian. I have often crossed, but have always gone by the New York route, so I made my first trip over by way of the St. Lawrence. I may tell you that our entrance to the Gulf of St. Lawrence was a beautiful spectacle. The weather was all that could be desired, and everybody on board the ship was amazed at the grandeur of the scene, especially Americans on board.

It was indeed a magnificent reception that was given us at Quebec. I cannot think of anything, or speak of anything else since, and so deeply am I impressed that I never will forget its cordiality.

The scene at the City Hall, where citizens of both parties were congregated to do homage to the Prime Minister was beyond description, and the enthusiasm unexampled. I can assure the readers of the Chronicle and the citizens of Quebec it is appreciated.

Great Future For Quebec.

Mr. Borden made a splendid speech in French. His reference to the great improvements he observed in the British Isles and France and the development of their industries, including the great work carried out in constructing the harbor of Glasgow brought forth in comparison laudable praise of the port of Quebec, and his earnestness in saying that Quebec had one of the finest harbors in the world and that he would see that it was developed in the interest of Canada's commerce, was appreciated by the large number of citizens present.

"I can say with emphasis that Mr. Borden expressed a determination to see our ambitions put into practical reality."

"I am leaving for Ottawa on Sunday, to be present at the dinner to be given Premier Borden, and will call upon my colleagues while at the Capital to consult them about the Quebec railway terminals and find out why the work has not been proceeded with."

"After I perform this public duty, I will return to Quebec and proceed to Trois Pistoles to visit my father, who has been very ill, but whom I am glad to say is much better now."

BABBOON DASHES FOR FREEDOM AT TORONTO

Toronto, Sept. 6—"Shorty," a baboon belonging to an animal show at the exhibition, created excitement this morning by making a dash for freedom. He entered the Woman's Building, and there was a wild scatter as he ran through the crowd. He was finally captured in a closet.

The ponies of the same show stampeded during the excitement and there was a lively chase before they were caught.

CORDIAL RECEPTION TO HON. L. P. PELLETIER

Mr. Borden Interviewed On Naval Policy and Panama Canal Question

CANADA'S HERITAGE IS ENTAILED, SAYS BORDEN

The most specific utterance that Premier Borden would make on the question of defence was the following given in an interview with the press men on the Victorian:

"We have to remember that we have charge of a special heritage, which after all is only entailed, and must be passed on by us to our children as free and as great as we received it from our fathers. It is our duty to see that any defence necessary to enable us to discharge our solemn liability is assured."

Mr. Borden also said that he had been the recipient of many greetings in the older world, but none more than that he received upon landing once more upon his native land.

Quebec outdid herself yesterday in the welcome accorded to Rt. Hon. Robert L. Borden, Premier of Canada, and his Cabinet colleague, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General.

Mr. Borden and Mr. Pelletier, with Mrs. Borden and Mrs. Pelletier, arrived in the harbor at noon on the Allan R. M. S. Victorian. They were accorded a most enthusiastic reception by the citizens of Quebec, a reception that had no tinge of party feeling.

All nationalities and classes that compose the cosmopolitan population of Quebec turned out to extend a welcome to the Canadian Premier and statesman who returns to Canada after capturing the hearts and respect of the people of Great Britain and France by his dignified bearing as the first citizen of the Dominion, as well as by his diplomacy and engaging personality.

Quebec has every reason to feel proud of the enthusiastic reception accorded to Mr. Borden and Mr. Pelletier. It showed that the proverbial hospitality of the Ancient Capital still lives.

It was no partizan demonstration, Conservatives and Liberals vied with each other to manifest their appreciation of the splendid work done in the

Premier Borden On Panama Canal and Naval Questions

Premier Borden authorized the following statement yesterday morning on his way to Quebec on the Victorian:

I am satisfied that full justice will be given to Great Britain, as well as the Overseas Dominions, in connection with the Panama Canal.

People must continue to speculate on the naval policy of the Dominion and as to when it will be announced to the country.

It will be only decided when the full facts are before the cabinet.

There are two phases to the question, emergency contributions and a permanent policy.

"I cannot discuss the alleged German war scare. There might possibly be a further conference with the admiralty."

Mr. Borden said his attitude had not changed from last year on the question of going to the country on the naval issue.

PELLETIER SECURES OSCAR STRAUS NOMINATED IN A STAMPEDE

Lower Rates Announced for All Classes of Service from Britain to Canada and U. S.

Postmaster-General Pelletier made the following announcement to the press upon his arrival on the steamer Victorian.

As the result of representations made to the Western Union Telegraph Company, by the Postmaster-General of Great Britain and the Postmaster-General of Canada the following additional reductions will be made at an early date in cable rates:

1. For telegrams in plain language the present deferred rate of sixpence (twelve cents) per word is reduced to four and one-half pence (nine cents) and besides these telegrams, instead of being subject to a delay of twenty-four hours, will be transmissible without any more delay than is necessary to give priority to the ordinary traffic of one shilling a word.

2. A new service of night lettergrams will be inaugurated at a charge of three shillings (72 cents) for twelve words and two and a half pence (five cents) for each additional word and these lettergrams will, subject to the prior delivery of ordinary traffic, be delivered on the morning of the day following that on which they are handed in.

3. There is at present in existence a rate of six shillings for thirty words and one shilling for each additional group of five words for week end and cable letters handed in up to Saturday for delivery on the following Tuesday. This arrangement is replaced by the following regulations: The rate will be four shillings and sixpence (one dollar and eight cents) for twenty-four words

Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 6—Oscar Straus, former Secretary of Commerce and Labor in the Cabinet of President Roosevelt, was unanimously acclaimed the nominee for Governor of the Progressive party by a stampeded convention this afternoon.

Mr. Straus' nomination came about under circumstances that were not only unexpected but dramatic. The former cabinet member, acting as the convention's permanent chairman, was about to entertain a motion from former Lieut-Governor Timothy L. Woodruff to expedite the roll call on the nominations for Governor of State Chairman Wm. H. Hotchkiss, and Comptroller Wm. A. Prendergast, of New York, when a delegate from New York county leaped to his chair and demanded that he be heard.

"Its 'Suspend Jack' McGee," cried a voice from the gallery. Chairman Straus looked puzzled. McGee, who got his name in the Indian country by riding a broncho into camp with suspenders used as reins, moved resolutely toward the platform.

"They say I'm crazy, but I know what I am doing," he cried as he swung up the platform stairs.

Chairman Straus looked with surprise on the man who, with a flaming bandana swathed around his neck and his coat blazing with badges, tossed his rough rider hat on the floor and demanded the right to make a nomination.

QUEBEC, SEPTEMBER 7, 1912.

A RECEPTION TO BE REMEMBERED.

The auspicious weather greatly enhanced the reception which the Right Hon. the Prime Minister of Canada received yesterday on his arrival at Quebec, accompanied by his colleague, the Postmaster General. It was a reception which can bear remembering for many a long day to come—fervent as it was on the part of the people and appreciated as it evidently was by the recipients. A welcome of that kind, extended to those who deserve it, is always an honor to those who extend it as to those who receive it. And those who heard Mr. Borden's reply to the address of Mayor Drouin and the members of the City Council cannot say that its fervency and eloquence belokened anything but conscientious appreciation of the welcome given to him. His addressing them in French and afterwards in English indicated how anxious he was to be understood by the assembly who came out to honor him in the crowded chambers of the City Hall, and to convince them of his high appreciation of the kindness of the Mayor and all who came out to greet him on his return from England. Crowds were to be seen from every near or remote vantage ground along the Terrace and around the open spaces on the lines of the streets from lower town to upper town. The long procession of horse-carriages and automobiles up Mountain Hill and along Buade street to the Municipal Buildings erected under the auspices of Hon. Mr. Parent, gave the city a holiday aspect that ever becomes the old city so well, with a turmoil and good fellowship all its own. There will be many things to say about the event when the citizens have finished reading the various newspaper accounts of the function. There was no thought in any one's mind of making it anything but a non-party reception, and Mr. Borden as well as Mr. Pelletier honored the non-party phase of the function to the last degree. Yet what the Ministers said in reply to the Mayor were not intended to be forgotten the moment after; and we may take an occasion of referring to them later on.

THE KEY-NOTE OF SIR GEORGE REID'S SPEECH.

Sir George Reid passed through our city twice lately, but he had to go to Toronto to tell Canada what her prospects are of being a united commonwealth as Australia is. He has evidently heard of the fring of that last gun in defence of British interests in America by a French-Canadian patriot; and we can imagine the plaudits of the Torontonians when he told them that no people should strive more vigorously to preserve the British Empire than the French-Canadians. Sir George was the guest of the Empire Club of Canada, whose headquarters are in Toronto, when he sounded the key-note of Empire co-operation in the hearing of Canada. And, from what he has been saying about our French-speaking co-citizens, it is a pity that an opportunity was not given him to sound a like note in Quebec on his way westward. We do not like to ask what has become of our Empire Club in Quebec. Has it run out of funds, after dealing so liberally with those who once made a monopoly of its management? Thanks to our ladies, we have still the Women's Empire Club, and, if the secretary of that institution could only get word to Sir George Reid, Quebecers might after all have a chance of hearing him before he returns home. Word would have to be sent to him at once, however.

IS IT EXPLAINABLE, OR WHAT?

An injustice is an injustice, and demands a remedying, whether it be a minor injustice or one more widely serious. The minor injustice is too often the finger-post pointing to other irregularities; and we await an answer to the enquiries we made the other day in regard to the parlor-charges between Quebec and Halifax as compared with those between Montreal and Halifax. They are the same; and the travelling public want to know why they are the same, as well as why the citizens of Quebec are being called upon to wait upon the previous convenience of the citizens of Montreal before they can secure a place in the sleeping car, either by way of a single berth, a division, or in the stateroom. If the arrangement has been made as a mere whim of the management, or to save making change at the ticket clerk's counter, or to avoid a more just method of conveniencing the public, one would like to know; and we are going to know, too, whatever trouble has to be taken to get the public informed, even if we have to extend our enquiries to the general policy under which the Intercolonial is run as the people's own road. Railway companies that have autocrats at the head of them; too often ignore all such enquiries; but the Intercolonial is not supposed to have such a one at its head.

THE IGNORING BUSINESS.

There are some people male and female, who pride themselves in ignoring people, as if they would exult themselves by lowering the respectability around them. We have nothing to say about the ladies who practice thus until it becomes a habit with them. They have a right to say, we suppose, who is of their set and who is not. But the men who assume the "high and mighty" tone towards their equals and even their superiors in point of intellect and behaviour hardly deserve to be dealt patiently with. As an illustration of how this contemptible inclination to ignore "men of faith," the following has been put on record: "It is said that at a public meeting where Colonel Roosevelt was to deliver the principal address, some fool, on the committee to make the arrangements for the meeting, manoeuvred things in such a way that no seat was provided for the Hon. Judge Lindsey of "Juvenile Court" fame on the platform; and when Colonel Roosevelt, the guest of the evening, asked the reason for leaving the Judge in the audience, he was given some lame excuse or other for the omission. Whereupon the intrepid Colonel exclaimed, so that the members of the committee on the platform could hear him: "Unless Judge Lindsey is brought upon the platform tonight, I go off it." And the committee knew that he would keep his word; they knew he would do the very "erratic and rude thing" of leaving the hall and its expectant multitude without another word, if the "just little judge" was not brought out to the platform. And of course Judge Lindsey was forthwith escorted to the platform. The "smallness of the habitual ignorer's mentality" is an abomination to every well-balanced citizen, and should be punished by treating him to a bottle of his own medicine, until he learns better manners—the puppy that he is. Were he a female puppy we would not dare to have anything to say about the matter; but, being of the male kind, he should, on every occasion he misbehaves, be sent to Coventry beyond the reach of the rules of polite behaviour—the prig that he is. Indeed, Colonel Roosevelt deserves more votes than he is going to get in the present presidential election for bringing to book the snobbish committee above referred to.

A BLESSING FOR US, BUT WHAT OF THEM?

Few immigrants come to us from Britain who have not the same story to tell about the depopulation that is going on in the British Isles in behalf of the Overseas Dominions. It is said that the tide of emigration from the reports of England, Scotland and Ireland carries as many new settlers to Australia, Canada, with additional drains to South Africa and New Zealand; besides to the minor colonies. The fact is that several schemes are on foot to re-people the vacated districts in Britain and Ireland; and one of them is that certain uncultivated tracts of land should be broken up into small homestead farms and presented by the government to those who have a desire to return to the land for a living. Just think of it! A Department of Colonies in Downing street, running opposition to the emigration agencies of Britain's colonial dependencies! Such a department has of course not yet been opened; but, to provide a remedy and at the same time provide a new industry for the unemployed who have no desire to emigrate, it has been suggested as a pressing necessity.

A PROPHET OF COMMON-SENSE.

Abdul Baha, the Oriental prophet and peace-maker, in his visit to Canada, brings to us no new doctrine—in fact, no doctrine at all, if his interpreters be correct in their interpretation of his words. The guidance line, running through his comments on what nature and mankind and service and truth are, is that God is immanent in all things and that creation means co-ordination and unification. That guidance line takes him farther than it has taken other prophets, who have plead with humanity to seek purity of conduct in simplicity of living. He has no confidence in the perfection of Nature; and in holding on to that way of looking at things forgets his logic by saying that if God made Nature perfect, what is the reason we foster so many sciences and send our children to school? He is a little off likewise when he says that man and woman were created equal. "Before God, there is no sex. The differences between the two exist only on account of woman not being so well educated as men. Let women undergo the same curriculum as the men," he continues, "and they will by and by return to being man's equal in all degrees, and come into the same share of powers, since God has made no difference in their natural outfits."

small holding may be tempted by a high price to sell it to some wealthy purchaser who desires to add it either to an already large farm or to a game preserve. It is much easier to control leasehold than it is to control freehold land so as to prevent a recurrence of the present undesirable conditions." The suggestion embodied in the above involves an after practical effort on the part of the government to transfer, as the Globe says, the unemployed from places where they are a burden on the community to places where they may be able to maintain themselves and add something to the wealth of the nation. This enterprise of transplanting the unworthy sections of Britain's population to blend with the industrious elsewhere in the world has been tried only to be pronounced a failure, as far as a first generation is concerned. Even in Canada we have found it at least necessary to turn back the undesirables.

AN OVERDOING OF THE CARTOON.

A cartoon of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt lately appeared in the Oakland Tribune, which must have made that paper's readers feel friendly towards the man who once was President of the United States. That cartoon—which represents Mr. Roosevelt as the Chinaman cheat cards singing the ditty, "For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, this heathen Chinese is peculiar," proves conclusively that no President of the United States should ever think of running for a second or third term, if only to save the dignity attached to the highest office in the gift of the republic from being dragged through the cesspools of an election campaign. Racey's picture of the Bull Moose struck in the vocal organs by John D. Archbold's bullet is a classic as compared with this one of the "Heathen Chinese" with cards in his hand carrying the dollar mark and ever so many others falling out of his sleeve marked by the Trusts' subscriptions to the electioneering funds of Roosevelt's former campaign for the presidency. With Taft's dishonor and Roosevelt's teeth so much in evidence through the cartoonist's art, the people of the United States will rejoice as a whole when Woodrow Wilson is once safe in the White House.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

There is nothing to be gained by taking sides with the capitalists against those whom they employ, no more than there is in taking sides with the workingman in his combinations to force his employers to do what they cannot possibly do. The employer no longer looks upon his employees as the mere adjunct to a machine, for the simple reason that civilization has advanced a step since that view of the case was tolerated. But the employer of labor cannot be expected to be too much of a philanthropist, when his business is being impeded by the non-economic methods of those who have the ear of the working-man to make him believe that the capitalist who pays him his wages is a tyrant of the worst kind. When once the working-man, avoiding the danger of supporting a tyrant to down an imagined tyranny, submits himself to the ways and means of arbitration, and is satisfied to have his demands weighed on economic grounds, there will be no reason to accuse the press, the pulpit and the platform of failing to enlighten public opinion as to the right course to pursue in trade disputes.

THE VERMONT ELECTION.

The comments on the Vermont election on Tuesday last still continue to be of universal interest, inasmuch as the issue of that contest shows pretty well what is going to happen to the Republican party in November, broken up as it is into two factions by the faithlessness of Taft and the over-ambition of Roosevelt. A Republican has been elected Governor of the State, as was to be expected in a state all but stereotyped in its political bias; but so narrow has the decision been this time that it may virtually be looked upon as a condemnation of President Taft's canvass and an endorsement of Woodrow Wilson's. The split in the Republican vote is evidently going to be the main strength of the Democrats in November, whatever be the surprises in favor of the Progressives. The Taft supporters before the election allowed the Progressive candidate in Vermont only a total of six or seven thousand, whereas it has been double of that. The Democrats were nearer the truth in their prognostications; but they hardly expected the Democratic candidate to secure the success that was their share in the contest. As a straw blown by the change of wind in public opinion, the Vermont election shows that Mr. Taft is approaching his doom as a candidate for a second term, while the most sanguine Progressive can hardly expect Roosevelt to be returned, as an exceptional kind of candidate seeking a third term. Indeed, it looks as if the people of the United States had pretty well made up their mind that a president or ex-president seeking re-election for the presidency is something no longer to be desired. The feeling is developing that a longer term, and one only, is all that a president should have. And we would not be astonished that many voters looking for a bottom principle to guide them in casting their ballots in November will adopt this view of the case. The personal quarrel between Taft and Roosevelt over a real or imaginary broken pledge between the two came as an insult to the people at large, when they found that the highest office in their gift was being made the cause of a juggling bout. Therefore, let the election in Vermont mean what it may, the trend of public opinion can hardly be other than in favor of Woodrow Wilson. For the politicians to make a juggling-bout over the figures in the return of that election is akin to the scenic effects in Messrs. Taft and Roosevelt's personal quarrel, as to which of them should be nominated at Chicago as next President of the United States.

It would not be right to judge of Abdul Baha from one or two of his discourses, casually interpreted by the newspapers. If his gift of prophecy be of God it cannot be acceptable to the wise and prudent of these rather imprudent and wayward times. But whose duty is it to find out all about the attractive looking old gentleman in eastern garb who would leave an impression in Montreal, as it continues to grow into a very big and, as some say, rather wicked city, both in the upper layers of its society as well as in its lower areas of ne'er-do-well-dom. No open stoning of our prophets can now be allowed; nor need there be even a slighting of them, when they can make good their mission. Who then is to tell us who and what Abdul Baha is. And the answer comes pat: Not the newspapers, not the police magistrate, not any other but those who have the spiritual oversight of the people, and who ought to know a prophet as if by instinct when he comes their way. Let us hear from our clergymen, therefore, as to what kind of a prophet Abdul Baha is. Is he really the prophet of common-sense which he professes to be? When the late William Booth came into public notice as first as a practical philanthropy, the clergy, almost to a man, turned their backs upon his seapaign among neglected souls. But the action is not going to be repeated, is it, in the case of Abdul Baha, if he is all that he says he is?

If the public were aware of the great advantage of Toric Lenses over the ordinary kind, Torics would be the only kind in demand. The focus of these glasses is absolute, while in the ordinary flat glasses it exists in a limited space only. These are recommended by oculists as the only lens to prescribe. P. C. STOMACH SOUR? GOT INDIGESTION ALSO?

"Pape's Diapepsin" will make your disordered stomach feel fine in five minutes. Time it!

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains powder sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery.

Get come now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

GLIMPSES OF OLD QUEBEC

From the Files of the CHRONICLE, August 1812 and 1883.

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY

Mr. Louis Delaware, in September, 1812, advertised that he has taken a lease of the wharf and store lately occupied by Messrs. Morrow & Bell, and is ready to receive into his stores grain, flour, ashes or any other goods, and that he will continue a commission and agency business. Mr. Delaware also announces that he will also carry on a business of auctioneer under the firm name of "Jacob Pozer & Co."

Mr. John Patterson announces that he has made considerable improvements in his house, 44 Champlain street, and that he is ready to hire out space for the storage of beef, pork and flour, and also keeps the best of cigars.

Messrs William Henderson & Co. inform their friends that they have just received by ship Lapwing 50 chaldrons of large Main coal, 200 boxes of window glass and 100 gross of wine bottles.

The following militia order was sent by Major General Brock to Brigadier General Hull, commanding at Detroit:

"Sir—The force at my disposal authorizes me to require of you the immediate surrender of Fort Detroit. It is far from my intention to join a war of extermination, but you must be aware that the numerous bodies of Indians who have attached themselves to my troops will be beyond my control the moment the contest commences. You will find me disposed to enter into such conditions as will satisfy the most scrupulous sense of honor."

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The principle public works in course of completion in and around Quebec 30 years ago were the following: Mr. A. Pampalon is engaged in building the wall at St. John's Gate, where the old sentry house had just been demolished and in repairing the wall above Kent Gate, facing the Esplanade. Mr. Piton is repairing the wall near Dog Gate, Mr. Jobin is making extensive repairs to the walls outside Kent Gate; Mr. J. Bigaouette has 50 men employed on the walls opposite the Grey Nun's Orphanage, while Mr. Chateauvert has been charged to execute the necessary repairs to the wall between the old Parliament House and Rampart street. Mr. Hatch was constructing a wall on the Bastion of Cape Diamond on the Citadel and two buildings on the Cove Field.

The Allan S.S. Acadian, ashore at Crane Island, was floated on the 3rd August, 1883, and arrived in Quebec in tow of steamers Rocket, Challenge and Dauntless. She was placed between the mooring blocks at Wolfe's Cove for further securing her bottom previous to discharging cargo.

Thirty years ago members of the English frigates deserted as well as as they do to-day, and there were such a number of deserters from the Southampton since her arrival in port that instructions were given that no blue jackets should be allowed on shore.

The annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association opened on the 4th August at Ottawa, and among the Quebec prize winners on the first day were Capt. H. Miller Capt. Balfour, Sergt. Phillips, Staff Sergt. Kennedy, Sergt. P. McKean, Corpl. Alexander Thompson and Private H. Forrest, and Surgeon Belanger, 61st, and Sergt. J. McKenna, 17th Reg. Levis.

FINANCIAL.

CLOSING LETTER. By private wire to Neuville Belleau & Co., 93 St. Peter st., Quebec. Phones 946-4076.

New York, Sept. 6.—Trading has been quiet and professional, with fluctuations confined to a narrow range. Exception should be made for specialties, there being further manipulation of issues like Mexican, Petroleum and the Tobacco shares on talk of larger dividend disbursements. Cotton Oil advanced quite sharply for the same reason and Bethlehem Steel was well sustained. There was a tendency to take profits, however, which caused a small reaction from the early prices. No weakness developed and the undertone continued good, despite the lack of outside participation. Sentiment was bullish, there being optimistic interviews with prominent men in the business and the financial world to stimulate confidence in the future of the market.

President Ripley, of the Atchison, is quoted to the effect that the last vestiges of the '907 panic have been eliminated.

The railroads will be unable to handle the large tonnage because of lack of terminal facilities.

The prospects of a poor bank statement did not materially affect the situation, since firm money will tend to attract funds from out of town.

Very favorable reports from the iron and steel industry were passed over, the same being true of the satisfactory copper situation.

Crop prospects are good and only the political uncertainty and the labor question remains to prevent a substantial advance in the market.

Trading may continue professional for the present, but standard dividend payers should be a purchase on recessions for higher prices.

We are still especially inclined toward the industrials, but even the rails are acting better.

DIZZINESS ANOTHER SYMPTOM of EYESTRAIN.

To the lay mind it may be difficult to understand how dizziness can be induced by the eyes, yet many cases of vertigo are due to nothing more or less than eyestrain. If your system is in good order, your dizzy spells are undoubtedly caused by the strained condition of your eyes. The right glasses will correct this defect in your vision and you will never be troubled with dizziness from this source again. We make glasses for this purpose at satisfactory prices.

IN AND ABOUT TOWN

SEMINARY CADETS MADE MANY FRIENDS

Speaking French, but Always British, Quebec Boys Were Given All Honor.

Speaking French, but loyal British subjects, the Cadets from the Quebec Seminary were given a great send-off at Toronto, when they left for the Ancient Capital, after having taken part in the shooting and other competitions at the Toronto Exhibition. Quebec's young French shots and cadets from the Seminary were given one of the greatest receptions at the big meeting of the cadets. England, New Zealand and Australia were much in evidence, but the French boys from the city of Quebec had the chief claim for attention. Under command of Major Paquet, and accompanied by Abbe Vachon, the boys made a great impression in Toronto, and among all those who were up to represent the Empire, the boys from the Quebec Seminary were always to the fore. The Seminary boys were given several trips, including a visit to Niagara Falls.

"NEW BARMAID" RUNS INTO TROUBLE.
Legal proceedings which threaten to involve the entire personnel of the English company playing "The New Barmaid," at the Princess Theatre in Montreal have been started over an alleged short-coming in wages amounting to $1,321.92.
Plaintiff in the proceedings is Emile Recat, of Paris, who claims he was engaged as a dancer and pantomime player at a salary of sixteen pounds a week, but that he was prevented from carrying out his engagement, largely through the attitude of Miss Edna Mellon, one of the leading players and a member of the syndicate. He has entered action through Messrs Goldstein, Beullac and Lalonde, for the sum of $1,321.92, being salary up to January 1, 1913, plus $100 to take him back to Paris.
Recat's lawyers asked for a writ of capias and a writ of seizure on the ground of urgency, as they declared the company intended to leave the city in a few days.

BORDEN ARRIVES ON CARTIER'S BIRTHDAY

Remarkable Coincidence in Connection with the Return of the Premier.

By a remarkable coincidence, yesterday, when Quebec welcomed back to Canada the Conservative Premier, Hon. R. L. Borden, was the 98th anniversary of the birth of Sir George Etienne Cartier, who with Sir John Macdonald did more perhaps to place the new Dominion and place it on its way to the remarkable advancement and success which today confronts it.
On the 6th of September, 1814, there was born in St. Antoine de Richelieu, County of Verheres, a baby boy who later became Sir George Etienne Cartier. To his memory within a year a splendid monument will be erected at the foot of Mount Royal in Montreal.
With Sir John Macdonald, Sir George Etienne Cartier was one of the fathers of confederation, and his name is also connected with the building of the Grand Trunk, the Canadian Pacific and the Intercolonial Railways, the Victoria bridge, the union of the Northwest Territories and the entry of British Columbia into the Confederation.

DESERTERS CAPTURED.
Two of the seamen who deserted from the Norwegian bark Altavella have been arrested. They were brought before the Court of Sessions yesterday and committed to jail to await the sailing of the vessel.

RECORDER'S COURT.
Five prisoners appeared before the Recorder yesterday. One, who created a disturbance in a police station was fined $10 and costs or one month in jail. Of the four others charged with simple drunkenness, one was fined $10 and costs or 15 days, two $2 and costs or eight days each, and one was discharged.

CAPTAIN SWIFT HAS RECEIVED HIS MAJORITY
The many friends of Captain Swift will compliment him upon his promotion to his majority, which will be announced in the next Gazette. Captain Swift is one of the most popular officers in Quebec, and the announcement of his advancement will give great pleasure. The new honor conferred upon Captain Swift is certainly well-earned, as he has had a long and honorable career, not alone in local militia circles, but also in South Africa.

DOMAINE LAIRET.
The project of building a hospital, chapel, convent, etc., on the Domaine Lairet will be realized without any delay, thanks to the spirit of initiative and the energy of one of the principal merchants of St. Rochs, Mr. Thomas Leclerc. A large number of friends of Mr. Leclerc, who reside at the Domaine Lairet, met at the residence of Mr. Eugene Lamontagne, and decided to convey their thanks to Mr. Leclerc, through the newspapers, for the devotion he has shown toward this difficult enterprise.
Mr. Lamontagne, ex-alderman, also desires to thank the residents of the locality for the part he has always taken in furthering the interests of this portion of the city.

DIFFERENTLY EXPRESSED.
Two tributes to David Bispham's singing at his recent New York concert at Carnegie Hall serve as an interesting example of contrasting sources and identical conclusions.
The first tribute is embodied in a letter to the baritone from a well-known connoisseur, who declared the concert to be "the most remarkable vocal exposition I have ever heard from any man."
The second appreciation comes from an elderly couple, evidently from the rural districts. As they left the Hall, the old lady remarked to her husband, "Say, Pop, he can sing some, can't he?"
These comments from the sophisticated and the unsophisticated musician are fairly representative of the pleasure which Mr. Bispham's singing affords wherever he appears.
The date of the Bispham concert is next Monday evening, September 9th, at the Columbus Hall.

ENJOYING THE BEST OF HEALTH

Prof. J. F. DAVIS
563 Church St., Toronto.

I want to say to the people of Toronto and elsewhere that "Fruit-a-tives" is my only medicine and has been for the last four years. Previous to that, I had been very much troubled with Rheumatism and Kidney Disease, and had taken many remedies as well as employing hot applications of salt bags, etc., without getting satisfactory results.
Noticing the advertisement of "Fruit-a-tives," I adopted this treatment altogether and, as everybody knows, since taking "Fruit-a-tives," I have been enjoying the very best health and find it a pleasure to follow my vocation of Dancing and Deportment Instruction.

Major C. de Lanardieres of Montreal has arrived in town and leaves today for Montmorency to inspect the military stores of the 61st Battalion.

THIS METHOD OF STOPPING CROWING ROOSTERS CRUEL

A plan to ameliorate or minimize the city rooster in his early morning vocalization is that offered by a St. Louis doctor.
He proposes fastening an ordinary board below the roof of the chicken house directly over the head of chancier, so that it forms an inclined plane.
"In the morning," he says, "you will not be bothered by crowing at an hour to you unseemly, because roosters must stretch their necks when they crow. The board will check this."
There is some similarity in the physico-psychological (if we may allow the liberty) character of this remedy to the well-known one for preventing a donkey from braying by tying a brick to his tail. The more or less marked caudal elevation that accompanies a well-rendered "heehaw" is said to be necessary to its success.
But has the moral and mental effect of the suppression of his clarion challenge on the rooster been considered? Unable to raise the sun—and the neighborhood—by his unaided efforts as portrayed by Rostand in his recent immortal play, would not every rooster become a broken-hearted creature, jeered at in his own household, a feathered outcast inspiring even in man only a contemptuous pity? Have we the heart to wreck the self-respect even of a common barn-yard rooster? Better for him, perhaps, the potpie at once than lifelong ignominy.

FEMININE FANCY

When The Daughter of The Family Must Go To Work

When it is necessary for the girls of the family to go away from home and accept positions in business offices, there comes a new duty to the mother—that of teaching the beginner how to "stand pat" with her employer.

This will be hard for you, dear woman, when the daughter must turn in ways other than inhaling you, the education and advantages you have given her, but let me try to show you the difference between the too independent girl, who sows the wind and reaps the whirlwind, shown in constant dismissals from positions where it seemed highly possible she might eventually place herself to great advantage financially with her employer, and she was always does cheerfully just a little more than she actually paid for.

Have you not heard the story of the Irishman who was carrying a hod of bricks up a ladder? The 10 o'clock bell struck for "eating time" when he was about half way up; he deliberately descended and set the hod down with a thud, straightened up and walked off for his noon hour instead of continuing on, leaving the load and then coming down with the hod empty. And it is necessary for me to say that he never received a "raise," nor became other than a poorly paid laboring man while others around him were being advanced.

You see the moral of this incident applies as well to your daughter and her work, whatever it may be, as to any other working person. The girl who is always ready to accept the small odd duties that will fall upon somebody in every business, while she may be imposed upon, in a way, is almost sure of advancement.

"Mind Your Own Business."
An industrious and good-natured girl, stenographer in a large establishment where there were at least 25 other girls always at work, was almost in tears over some sneering remarks she had accidentally overheard directed entirely towards her "management" of the manage. She was accused of trying to marry the younger member of the firm, of setting her cap for him and of currying favor because of her amiable ways and ready acceptance of extras that she did voluntarily. Her chum, to whom her little complaint was made first laughed at and then comforted her.

"The only way to do is to go ahead, minding your own business and letting those others do the gabbling," was the sapient advice. "Let me give you a hint of what happened to me when I first came into the business: I was called the sly little standpat because I got out more letters than the other girls, and just because, they said, I was trying to please the boss make more work for them."

"Of course, I was only doing as I did for my own interest; I wanted to get a raise and meant, if possible, but there was one snag, when the boss noted that there was not so much done by a whole lot of us might be, and made a fuss about it. Gabelets broke out I tell you; opinions were let loose and I felt pretty bad, but I determined to stand pat and did so. In time there was a winning of the chaff from the wheat; those who did what they were paid to do, and seemed willing to do more if pressed, as happens many times in all these places; the others have changed positions many times since."

Punctuality a Virtue.
Punctuality, remember, dear mother, is a virtue, as well as a duty, your daughter owes her employer. Between certain hours her time belongs to him. He pays her for those hours, and surely no self-respecting girl wants to feel under obligations for her wages. She must try to give full value for what she gets. The talk about employers trying to make love to their girl employes usually is pure invention. Most business men are entirely too busy to think anything about the girl herself; it is her work and the way she gets it out that interests him. They want to make the hours of office work as remunerative as possible, and how, then, can they be in the least in a love-making mood? Your daughter is far safer with a well-bred and very busy man, who values her services according as they further his interests, than with ordinary individuals of their sex who "drop the hod" when the hour strikes.

By cheerfulness I mean that your working daughter should look as if she were alive to the importance of the work she is doing; not have a scowl on her face, look bored and carry an air of lofty independence about. Nobody likes to have cross people around—no man, especially, who may be, and usually is, pressed to make a living out of the business he has on hand. A brisk, pleasant air, with an alert attention, will soon prove of value as a business asset for your girl, no matter how she may quake inwardly with a knowledge of her own ignorance of many things that are strange to her.

Plenty of Discontented.
There are always discontented people. No matter where one goes, there is heard the same cry of discontent with one thing or the other. If you have been the tender, thoughtful mother I know you are, you will long ago have taught your daughter that so much of her future success depends upon herself, and that her employers probably have troubles of their own and do not want to have hers.

Is there nearly always mischief makers close to hand, and, as the "chum" said, "Just go ahead doing the work right and pay no attention but mind your own business."

It is a far cry from the lazy Irishman with his hod of bricks and the dainty bit of womanhood who takes dictation, gets out letters and attends to so many office matters; but the principle is the same; if he stops on the stroke of the hour, a hodcarrier he will be all the rest of his life. If she drops an important letter because the closing time strikes, and will not finish, seal and mail it, she will be nothing but a quitter and a loser in the game both are playing—the big game of getting out of life all there is to be had, if energy, ambition and cheerful acceptance of small extras can do it.

Recipes For Quebec Housewives.

Corn Pudding.

Ten ears of corn, grated. Three eggs beaten separately. Three-fourths teaspoonful salt. Scant 2 ounces of butter, melted. Toss together lightly, pour into a well-buttered baking dish and bake for three-quarters of an hour in a quick oven.

Hotch Potch.

Cut two pounds of mutton or beef into small pieces. Place in a saucepan with two small turnips, one carrot and one head of lettuce which has been cut fine. Add a pint of shelled peas, one cupful of barley and a bag containing sweet herbs. Season, and add about two quarters of boiling water. Cover closely. Boil slowly for five or six hours. Remove the bag of herbs before serving.

Fruit Trifles.

Cut stale cake into small pieces. Put a generous portion into individual glasses. Four over this some cherry or pineapple juice. Make a custard of two cupfuls of milk, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla and one heaping tablespoonful of powdered gelatin. When sufficiently thickened, strain and pour over the cake.

Just before serving, place in each glass a heaping tablespoonful of sliced fruit, with a maraschino cherry on top.

Rice and Cheese Croquettes.

Cook one-quarter pound of well-washed rice in five cupfuls of boiling milk; when milk is absorbed add one cupful of grated cheese, salt, pepper, grate of nutmeg and paprika to taste, one well-beaten egg and one-half cupful of good white sauce; turn out on a plate to cool. Then shape into neat croquettes, brush over with well-beaten egg, toss in fine breadcrumbs, fry in smoking fat to a golden color; drain and serve hot.

Mint Salad.

Peel six oranges and, after removing the white membrane, arrange the pulp on lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with minced mint and garnish with sprays of mint. Dress with sugar and lemon juice or a French dressing.

Lamb Souffle.

Three cups chopped cold lamb, four eggs, three cups white sauce. Mix yolks, meat and sauce and cook one minute. When cold, add beaten whites and bake 20 minutes.

White Sauce.

Three cups boiling milk, three tablespoon butter, six tablespoons unsifted flour. Melt butter, rub in flour, add milk by degrees.

SMALL MATTERS THAT ARE WORTH KNOWING

When putting up the delectable fruit catsups, use jelly glasses; they are so easily wiped off, covers replaced and have so many advantages over jars of any sort for the purpose.

If canned fruits and vegetables are wrapped in dark blue paper which can be had at any paper store, they will not spoil; light often causes the fermenting that housewives find so troublesome.

Tomatoes that are partly ripe are better for preserving than those that are entirely so; and if a little piece of ginger root and lemon are added when preserves are made of tomatoes they will not only taste but keep better.

When a very clear sirup is wanted put a pound of sugar on with just cold water to melt it; bring to the boiling point; have the white of an egg mixed with a little cold water and stir in the boiling sirup; bring again to the boiling point, skim with an ordinary skimmer, strain and set aside to cool.

When a silk or, indeed, any sort of gown is sent to be cleaned it will be found a good plan to let out the hems; nearly all goods shrink in the cleaning and it is an easy matter to replace the hem. An experience with a light foulard, blue and white, taught the wisdom of this it came home a good two inches too short; the hem was let down but results were not nearly so satisfactory as if this had been done before the cleaning.

In finishing a meringue, say on a pie or pudding, when one wants to serve it in a dish that will not stand the heat of even a cool oven, use a salamander which can be had at any housefurnishing shop, to pass over the top this will lightly brown it. Any iron plate with a handle that can be heated red hot answers the same purpose.

Trying To Make Every-Day Dishwashing More Easy

While it may be granted there are good dishwashing machines upon the market, the majority of women will go on washing dishes in the same old fashioned way, however distasteful the task may be. For few women like washing dishes. In fact, I know a woman (a notable duster and sweeper) who says she always feels, as though she wants to put the dishes on the kitchen floor and break them with her foot instead of putting them into the dishpan to wash them. This may be an extreme case, but there are many women who hate the process. I know. Still, if a system is used, the work will be much simplified, even though it cannot be made agreeable.

A good plan is to fill the cooking utensils with hot water as soon as emptied, if washing and putting away is impossible. The soaking in hot water during the meal will lessen the scouring quite a little.

Next prepare a place in the kitchen to receive the soiled dishes, so they will not be scattered around everywhere. Take bits of soft paper and scrape off all plates and dishes into one, ready for the garbage pail. Lots of fat and small debris will be removed in this way which would tend to clog the pipes and make the dish-water greasy and unpleasant. Now sort the dishes, stacking them in their respective sizes. Place glass, fine china, and silver apart. When ready for the dishpan make a good suds with hot water, soap and a softener. Personally, I prefer borax. It is very cleansing and does not injure the hands. Wash the glass first, then the delicate china, the silver coming afterward. Use a small mop.

Washing Glass and China.

The silver should be wiped while still hot from the suds.

The glass and china can be put into a drier after being washed and then rinsed with hot water (not too hot, of course), but if glass is allowed to cool it becomes difficult to wipe dry. While the silver and glass are being wiped, the rest of the dishes can be soaking in the suds. It will probably be necessary to make new suds or to add hot water to the pan.

Tinware, if there are any pieces, comes next, and lastly the general pots and pans of iron, granite or enamel ware. An ordinary clam shell makes a good and safe pot scraper. An old dishpan worn in holes through the bottom will answer for a dish drainer if the kitchen table or tubs are not fitted for the purpose.

Sometimes cooking pots retain the odors of the food prepared in them. To remove, after washing thoroughly, drop a lump of charcoal in the vessel and cover with boiling water. Incidentally a lump of charcoal placed in a closed pot or jar will prevent it from becoming rusty.

A small whisk broom is a handy article to have around the sink for removing sticky substances from cooking pots and pans. Every housekeeper knows the advantage of perfectly clean dishcloths and plenty of clean dish towels, so it is unnecessary for me to say anything upon the subject. Every one, however, is not aware of the purifying qualities of the lemon as applied to a dishcloth. After scalding the rag, rinsing in cold water and lemon juice will both sweeten and purify the cloth.

DAINTY PLAY TEA TABLE FOR THE CHILDREN

Children love to lay, but any one that has taken the trouble to pay the least attention to their playing must have discovered that all the fun lies "getting ready" and "doing something."

So it is that a tea party for a lot of little folks, where they have "really-truly" dishes, only tiny, and where they camp lay at brewing tea and pouring it into cups that set in real saucers, will keep them delighted a great deal longer than where bread and butter, jam, hot-buns, marmalade or anything they are to eat is prepared and ready. They want the fun of preparing it themselves, because that is "play."

There has been on the market now for some time charming Japanese tea sets in green and yellow—a combination that nobody but a Japanese could make attractive. These have been found so popular for the "grown-up" that dealers are bringing facsimiles for the "play tea table. There are two cups and saucers, a teapot with a wicker handle, a sugar dish, cream jug and round tray big enough to hold the set. The tray may be of china, but will be safe, or rather more lasting, in wicker.

If more than two cups are needed, odd ones can be had, with quaint figurines on them, and plates come in all sorts and varieties of color and size. A few plain sandwiches, some nice bits of cold fowl, a pitcher of cream and one of milk, with hot water to hand, and perhaps the ailing baby that has shown not the least desire for food will eat enough at a "play tea party" to make the anxious mother's heart rejoice.

If candy is given—and it should be, as the most scientific medicos are advocating sugar in some form for babies every day—the pure square crystals of cube sugar itself may be broken and served as bonbons. Otherwise make some old-fashioned molasses candy; pull until a light yellow, leave until cold and break into bits. This can not hurt over a year-old baby; on the contrary, often acts as a mild aperient and supplies the system with the sweets required by nature. Rich chocolate, lemon drops, strong peppermints and any of the fancy bonbons should be omitted altogether. They are seldom pure and are thirst-provoking. Milk chocolate is good, a little of it, and never forget the supply of cool—very cool and pure—water, which a baby should drink many times during the day or if it awakens at night and is fretful.

MODERN KITCHEN BOON TO HOUSEWIFE

In No Other Part of the House Has There Been Such an Improvement,

The housewife of to-day may congratulate herself when it comes to her kitchen, for in no other part of the house has there been such a steady improvement.

From the cooking that was done in an open fireplace, in iron pots hung over coals, as old-time pictures show us, to the modern "kitchenette" of this twentieth century seems much more than the comparatively few years that have witnessed the change. Now the kitchen is tiled, in white, and if the real tiling is not used the covering of walls and ceiling are sanitary inasmuch as they can be washed whenever needed, and that is what the old-time white-washing would not stand.

The convenient range with its gas connection is used in so many homes that it is odd to see any other arrangement. Where electricity can be afforded it is by far the best, but as yet the price is high; in time we may hope that this strange force that gives light, heat, and so many other comforts, may be brought within the means of very many more than at present. Cupboards are "built-in," a phrase that means much as it is a safeguard against the inroads of insects and rodents, saves space and is usually so conveniently supplied with shelves drawers and the like that housewife's labors are halved.

The fireless cooker, that needs only the least possible fuel; the many lightweight utensils that are so easily kept clean; the neat sink with its hot and cold water faucets, excellent drain pipe and dainty whiteness is a comfort and a blessing to a woman who loves order and cleanliness. Every day sees some invention to lessen the labor, and strange, but very true, it is that these are almost entirely the work of men, not, as one would suppose, of women trying to help themselves in the way of lightening their housework.

The home-maker, building to-day, is very apt to concentrate largely upon her kitchen; she delights in its wholesome, cleanly and well-ordered appearance. She uses white oil cloth for her pantry shelves and her kitchen table, because she knows that a soft cloth and soap and water will make

INTERNATIONAL SAFETY CONFERENCE.

The commission of experts appointed at the conference of shipping interests held in Berlin last May has now sent its report to the Seebefugungswissenschaft on the measures which it recommends for adoption with a view to increasing the safety of passengers at sea. The report of the so-called "Boat Commission" is expected shortly, and as soon as this has been received and considered by the Seebefugungswissenschaft the whole of the material will be laid before a second conference, which will take place in September or October. After the latter conference the German government will formulate the proposals which it has to make for the programme of the international conference, which is to be held in London. According to reports from Berlin, it is fully expected that the international conference will meet before the end of the year.

Tendency on the part of British ship-owners to establish a regular steamship trade between ports on the Pacific coast and the United Kingdom has drawn, says the Manchester Guardian, favorable comment from the port authorities in Vancouver. The Blue Funnel Line has five steamers on a monthly service between Great Britain and Vancouver via the Orient and Suez. The Harrison Line maintains a similar schedule between Great Britain and Vancouver, but by way of the Straits of Magellan, with four vessels. The Maple Leaf Line is a comparatively new factor in the deep-sea trade, running from New York to Vancouver via the Straits of Magellan and carrying outward cargoes to Europe. This line runs one boat every five weeks and probably an additional boat will be placed on the run during the present year. The Maple Leaf Line also loads steamers regularly on the Pacific coast for the west coast of England, and these steamers carry considerable quantities of canned goods. It is probable that the service will be extended to Manchester, where there is an excellent market for the products of British Columbia, including timber, barley, ore, canned fruit, etc.

BOY WALKS ON WATER IN SHOES EIGHT FEET LONG

Newport, R. I., Sept. 6.—Sailors on the yachts in Brenton Cove were surprised when they saw a young boy walking about on the water. The boy is John Nicholas Brown, and he was enabled to make his way over the water in a pair of boat-like shoes constructed by his uncle, Daniel Yeroy Dresser.
The water shoes are 8 feet in length and 6 inches wide, shaped somewhat like skis. They are constructed of a light framework covered with canvas, the feet going into compartments in the centers. Dresser, assisted by E. Hoffmann, the boy's tutor, made the shoes.
Although it was hard at first for young Brown to walk in the boat-like affairs, he was later able to get along with some speed, and he covered more than a mile, accompanied by Hoffmann in a skiff.
The idea is not original with Dresser, but he has one feature of his own on the shoes. On the bottom of each are several paddles, hinged so that the paddles, when the shoes are being pushed forward, swing upward and backward and lie flat, but when the shoes are reversed the paddles hold against the water. This prevents the walker losing his balance and going backwards.

EXPERT DISCUSSES TYPHOID FEVER

Boston Physician Tells How the Disease May Be Eradicated.

An interesting dissertation on "The Eradication of Typhoid Fever," recently presented before the Suffolk District Medical Society of Boston by A. J. McLaughlin, M.D., passed assistant surgeon, United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service, takes up the situation in Boston. The author selects that city as a base for his comparisons because it is well in the lead of American cities generally. He says of it: "Advocating in Boston the eradication of typhoid fever might be likened to preaching to the angels of heaven the necessity of being good. Boston has had a low typhoid rate, compared with other American cities. Just for this reason Boston is a most favorable place for the inauguration of a campaign for the eradication of typhoid fever. The character of the population, the high standard of intelligence, the atmosphere of culture that surrounds Boston all make for a successful campaign."

One may recognize in this picture some of the characteristics of the older Boston, says the Boston Transcript, since, with its large increment of foreigners, brought up under very different systems, this city is now by no means free from those troublesome problems that mixed populations bring with them. What has given to Boston its preeminence in almost every line of sanitary advance has been the foresightedness of its health authorities, who till the retirement of Dr. Durgin could always count a world's authority in sanitary matters among their number.

Brought Home By Vacationists.

Discussion of typhoid is timely, since at this moment vacationists may be gathering elsewhere the germs that probably account for the autumnal maximum of the disease. On this point Dr. McLaughlin has little to say, noting simply that the surrounding cities and the State of Massachusetts have such low rates that "imported cases do not present a great problem." This is a matter to be considered a little later, for the records do show that in Boston, at least, it is the importation of cases about vacation time that piles up the maximum in the fall.

As for Boston itself, Dr. McLaughlin sets forth conditions that are greatly to its credit. He pronounces the water supply good and notes that it probably plays little part in typhoid fever transmission here, although in general he regards with suspicion an unfiltered or untreated supply.

"Boston has progressed much further," he writes, "in attempting to control the milk supply than the average American city. . . . But in spite of the advanced position much remains to be done."

Watch Handlers of Food.

He puts his finger on a very weak place in sanitary administration when he says that greater control is needed over those who handle food and drink in public places. These are matters of public hygiene, and, despite almost perfect control over water and milk, the citizen is still exposed to infection from individuals who affect his food and drink in restaurants and hotels, on steamboats and trains.

It is not that Boston is not as careful in these items as are other cities of the country, but that new relations are constantly being discovered which set the old practices—even of only half-a-dozen years ago—in a new light. It is now recognized that the health of milk producers affects directly the health of the people, and, thanks to the comparative concentration of the milk business health inspection of employees by those handling the supply is very general and reasonably effective.

Restaurants and food stores are more numerous and more difficult to control, opposition to legislation and inspection comes from thousands of sources, and the public is not as yet awake to the need of cleanliness. The girl who cuts the sandwiches may sneeze on them as she cuts; the young woman who takes a paraffin paper in her fingers to select your lemon tart may pick them from a position near the door where the dust blows freely in and lay them on a ledge that has not been cleaned since morning while she makes up the box to hold them. And the butcher may moisten his fingers as natural when he detaches the paper in which to roll your steak, and you, the customer, the one directly interested, have not yet the habit of remonstrating or even of seeking some more careful place. It will all come in time, but meanwhile a typhoid carrier, undetected, may be spreading germs.

Is There Vacation Typhoid?

So-called vacation typhoid is receiving a great deal of attention at the present time. Dr. Sedgwick has come upon results that suggest the reservoirs of the disease to be rather the middle-sized cities than the real country but after all it does seem as if in Boston the rise late in the year must be due to imported cases. A little evidence along this line is at hand in figures not available to Dr. McLaughlin, for within the past year within this city a pretty close investigation has been made in each reported case as to the antecedents. The figures must be taken with the caution that any single group in statistics needs in its handling, but here they are.

During the present year, 1912, from Jan. 1 until June 30, the half-year, 174 cases were reported, subject, of course, to the usual slight diminution due to mistaken diagnoses, etc. In all ten of these cases are noted as imported. In July there were thirty-four cases reported, one of them contracted outside the city. In the first twenty-two days of August forty-three cases were reported, twenty-four of which were imported.

The story of every such case is well established. This is a portion of a single month's record and can be taken for what it is worth, with the additional fact that until this year the questionings upon which the figures rest have not been so systematically followed up. It has long been the opinion of those most closely in contact with the disease here that the amount of typhoid in Boston would be very low—for an American city—but for the fact of so many infections caught elsewhere.

Single Fundamental Principles.

But Dr. McLaughlin's thesis is absolutely true, that two simple principles lie at the bottom of prevention of typhoid, the safe disposal of human wastes and the disinfection of the hands of those who have to do with the food of others. Both of these are absolutely simple in theory, but they cannot be realized without enormously greater education of the people in hygiene. The fight of to-day is therefore at the other end of the line, the seeking to make water, milk and other food supplies safe.

In comparing European typhoid figures with those in this country, which latter have been characterized "a national disgrace," this author recognizes what is so often forgotten, that, in milk as well as water, European cities are relatively economical in their consumption. Not only do the Europeans use less milk, but most of that is boiled, while here a very liberal supply is demanded, more and more difficult to control in New England as it becomes larger, and there is a deep-rooted prejudice against heated milk, with some physicians readily taking the side that it is harmful or at least indigestible, and an array of legal talent ready to prove that the Pasteurization of milk is an infringement upon man's alienable right to be free. Dr. McLaughlin comes directly to the point when he says that the heating of milk as a prophylactic measure in the campaign against typhoid fever is comparable to the filtration or treatment of water exposed to pollution.

There is needed a campaign of education, which, he writes, should be well planned and should press into service every agency available. The public press, the clergymen, settlement workers and the schools should take a prominent part in disseminating the necessary information. The gospel preached should be simple and need involve only two principles—contamination of food or drink by careless fingers may be equivalent to homicide, and such results can be avoided by careful cleansing of hands and fingers after using the toilet and before handling food and drink.

THE CHASE.

James J. Montague in New York American.

Detectives Dubb and Mutt last week up in Tarrytown. A tall, bald man whom they had seen a salting dollar down. And though he cried, "I'm old John D!" the heroes held him fast. And telegraphed headquarters: "We have Gyp the Blood at last!"

A brace of sleuths that work for Burns, discovered yesterday. A square-built, thick-necked customer not far from Oyster Bay. They fought him all around the lot, and when they had him cinched they wired to Burns: "We've done the trick, and Lefty Louie's pinched."

A smart Long Island marshal caught a person near St. James. Who quoted Epictetus and who called the papers names.

And bringing down his black on his captive with a thud, "Take off them whiskers, sir," he said, "I know ye, Gyp the Blood."

A clever constable took in at Beverly last night. A large and ponderous gentleman, who shivered in affright. "My back's against the wall," he wailed, "Don't give me no more lip."

The gallant constable replied, "you're this here scoundrel Gyp."

Two plain-clothes men ran down a man one evening on Broadway. Who told him: "Do not bother me, I'm going west to-day." They grabbed him by the collar, but they let him go because He said that he was Gyp the Blood, and sure enough he was!

KITCHENETTES.

Picture glasses may be cleaned by dipping a pad of newspaper in warm, soapy water, afterward rubbing over with a soft rag dipped in methylated spirits.

Mirrors and looking glasses should be lightly wiped over with a pad dipped in whitening and warm water, dried with a soft cloth, and then polished with a piece of chamois leather.

Rub the finger marks on doors with a piece of clean flannel dipped in kerosene oil; afterward wipe with a cloth wrung out of hot water, to take the smell away. This is better than using soap and water, as it does not destroy the paint.

Before using table oilcloth paste at each corner on the wrong side a square of cotton. This prevents the corners wearing out so soon.

When dusting do not use a feather duster, as this only brushes the dust in the air so that it settles down and leaves the work to be done over again.

A good way to clean a food chopper after using it to grind some stale pieces of bread through it. This will be found to collect all the grease and fat and skin from the small knives,

Restores Men to Vital Vigor

It is the strong, vital, manly man who has the courage to face all dangers who succeeds in life.

Vitality is the thing which makes success. It gives men that compelling power which sends them forth eager and equipped to meet and overcome all obstacles; it is the thing which gives the young soldier courage to face death; it is the thing which inspires and holds his sweetheart's love and faith. No matter what your age, I can give you this same vital power, I can restore the vigor you lost, no matter what early or later indiscretion may have sapped your strength. I can make you "young" and keep you "young." From an intimate and studious observation of possibly 100,000 weakened men, I say to you that VITALITY or lack of it means all the difference between a manly man and a half man. The man who bubbles with vital power will exert a pleasing influence upon all with whom he comes in contact; women are naturally attracted to him, as are men. Lack of vitality is a negative condition, and it even repels. You wear my HEALTH BELT all night; it sends a great, glowing, health-giving current of electro-vitality into your nerves, blood and organs; it takes all the "kink" out of your back and all the coward out of your make-up; it puts you right up in the "feeling fine" class and keeps you there. No stimulation, no false results; just a sure return to manhood and courage. Recommended also for rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, stomach and bladder disorders. It makes you feel young and keeps you feeling young forever.

Here is my latest illustrated book, "Health in Nature," containing a fund of private information relating to vital weaknesses of men which result from early indiscretions or excesses. All men, young or old, can read every word of this little publication, with great profit. Sent to you in plain, sealed envelope by mail. The book is not written with the idea of compelling you to use my Health Belt; it is meant merely as a private guide for men, and while my Belt is fully described, there is absolutely no obligation on your part to purchase. I simply want you to read this book that you may know certain truths about vital weaknesses, which have never been printed before. Alderman Cannon's Paper On Electric Light Franchises

At the recent convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities at Windsor, Ont., Alderman L. A. Cannon, K. C., of Quebec, read a very able paper on electric franchises. The following section of the address, dealing as it does with the franchise and contract with the city of the new Dorchester Electric Company, will be of peculiar interest to the citizens of Quebec:

When the application of electricity for light, heat, power and traction purposes was first introduced, the promoters of these different public utility corporations were looked upon to a certain extent as public spirited citizens who were investing their money and energy for the benefit of their fellow citizens, in ventures of a more or less secure character. Hence the very general tendency to grant to these persons or companies extraordinary privileges for the use of public streets for the laying of tracks or the erection of poles, and the stringing of wires. These charters granted, as far as the Province of Quebec is concerned, from the early eighties to quite recent years, are now the cause of difficulties and problems with which municipal administrations have to contend.

In the Province of Quebec, special legislation must be obtained to incorporate a company for the construction and operation of either an electric or steam railway; companies, however, for the purpose of manufacturing, selling and distributing light and power can be incorporated either under letters patent granted under the Federal or Local Companies Act, or by a special act of Parliament or of the Legislature.

As a rule, however, since the organization of this Union of Canadian Municipalities, through the efforts of our representatives and officers, the Legislature of the Province, and also, I believe, the Dominion Parliament, have protected the rights of the municipalities as to the control of their streets.

In our Province the Legislature has even gone so far as limiting the powers of the municipal councils to grant franchise. The action of the elected representatives of the people must in some cases be ratified—to have full force and effect—by a special direct vote of the electors.

As a general rule, in the Province of Quebec, whenever a municipality grants to any person, firm or syndicate the privilege, right or franchise, for over ten years, of running a tramway or introducing an electric or gas lighting system in the municipality, the by-law or resolution relating thereto, must, before having force and effect, be approved by the majority in number of the municipal electors who vote on such by-law or resolution. Such vote must be taken within three months after the date in which the by-law was passed by the council, otherwise the latter would be null and void.

It must be said, however, that in a great many instances, under the terms of their charters, companies have been exempted from the operation of this clause, which, in some cases involving a large expenditure of money, might prove repellent to capitalists.

I may be permitted, before closing these remarks, to expose in a few words the situation of the City of Quebec with respect to this question of electric franchises.

For the last few years Canada's ancient capital has been handicapped by the effects of inflated public service corporation capitalization. Since the consolidation, under the guidance of a well-known Montreal financier, of the different companies who had been competing together to furnish traction, light, and power to our population, the price of electric light and power had become prohibitive for industries intending to establish themselves in Quebec. You must bear in mind that the capital stock and bonds of the Quebec Railway, Light, Heat and Power Company amounts to nearly $20,000,000, which is out of all proportion to the size of the community which it serves. Quebec and Lévis have a population of about 100,000, and in order to pay interest on this capitalization, the amount to be levied from the citizens is probably heavier than anywhere else in Canada. Although the company have done their best to swell their income, the operating expenses are too heavy, and the directors of the merger have been compelled to pass dividends on the common stock. It has been figured that each family in Quebec would have to pay about $200 yearly for traction, electric light and gas, in order to warrant the payment of such dividend.

In 1910 the municipal elections were fought on this issue, and Mayor Drouin pledged himself to encourage competition at least for electric light and power.

A company, the Dorchester Electric, was organized with a capital of $1,000,000 to carry out this purpose, and, despite numerous difficulties which had to be overcome, was in a position to tender for lighting of the city streets for a period of ten years. This was a rather valuable contract and our call for tenders was framed in such a way that the interest of the consumer would be protected. The tenderer, besides quoting prices for the lighting of the public streets and squares, was called upon to bind himself to sell, during the period covered by their contract with the city, electricity to the public at a price not exceeding a certain maximum to be agreed upon. I will now quote some of the clauses which we have embodied in this contract and in the resolution granting them the right to enter the City of Quebec which had been previously given them. Our experience in the matter may be useful to younger municipalities who may have to deal with similar situations.

When the Dorchester company applied for the authorization to introduce electricity in the City of Quebec, we tried to ensure permanent competition by inserting the following conditions to prevent, as far as possible, the merger from taking control of the new company, either by buying a majority of the common stock or by obtaining their withdrawal from the field:

(a) The said company binds itself not to cede or sell to any other company the powers conferred upon it by its letters patent, as regards the City of Quebec, without having previously obtained the consent of the city and the payment of a penalty of $50,000.

(b) If the company ceases to exercise its franchise in the present and future limits of the city during the ten years following the first of January, 1912, it will be subject to a penalty of $50,000.

(c) The company binds itself not to exact more than ten cents per kilowatt hour for the price of its electricity in the present and future limits of the city, and that the maximum rate cannot be changed without the consent of the city.

(d) The company binds itself to pay to the said City of Quebec as a penalty $1,000 for each infraction of the above conditions, save in the case where a higher penalty has been provided.

(e) Should the Dorchester Electric Company fail to carry out all or any of the conditions of the said contract, the City of Quebec shall have the right to purchase all the assets of the said electric company situated in the City of Quebec, together with all the power generated by the said company in the City of Quebec, at a price to be arrived at by a board of experts, appointed as follows: Two by the said above-mentioned company, two by the City of Quebec and a fifth by the four appointed by the above interested parties, or by a judge of the Superior Court, in case of disagreement.

After the company had secured their entry into the city, we thought it advisable to call for tenders for the lighting of the city streets and squares and municipal buildings fully a year before the end of the contract then in force. Our call for tenders contained the following clauses:

(a) The tenderer will be required to mention the price at which he binds himself to supply the current, lamps and lamp renewals, including the cost or rental of the electro-meter for residential purposes in the city limits, at a maximum price not to exceed so much per k.w. hour net, and the rate charged to remain in force till the expiry of the contract with the city.

(b) The tenderer will be required to mention the price at which he binds himself to supply the current, lamps and lamp renewals, including the cost or rental of the electro-meter for commercial purposes in the city limits, at a maximum price not to exceed so much per k.w. hour net, and the rate charged to remain in force till the expiry of the contract with the city.

(c) The tenderer will be required to mention the price at which he binds himself to supply motive force in the city limits, at a maximum price not to exceed so much per horse power net, and the rate charged to remain in force till the expiry of the contract with the city.

The Quebec Railway, Light, Heat and Power Company did not care to bind themselves under these clauses, and the Dorchester Electric secured the contract under conditions entirely satisfactory to the public and at the same time a fair price that will enable the company to make a reasonable profit for their shareholders in view of their moderate capitalization.

The merger has been charging 15 cents per kilowatt hour for current consumed by private customers, while the Dorchester Electric Company will only charge seven and one quarter (7 1/4) cents for the same service for the next ten years. The city will pay nearly 50 per cent less to the new company than they are paying under the present contract, and for lamps of the newest and most improved type. This should bring, the conclusion that, although the universal high cost of living has manifested itself in Quebec as elsewhere, Quebec will not have cause for complaint in so far as the electric lighting and power business is concerned, when the new competing service begins operation next fall.

We have also decided to begin the installation of a system of ornamental posts on the principal streets designed to carry clusters of five lamps. These poles will be supplied, erected and wired by the city, and we will endeavor before the expiration of the contract to build a complete system covering the whole city.

I am strongly convinced that all municipalities should at least, even when the idea of a municipal plant for the production of electricity does not meet with favor, become owners of a complete system of poles and wires to distribute electricity all over their territory. This would make the city much more independent when renewals of contracts come, would secure cheaper rates for public lighting and would also be in the interest of the companies. The municipality would simply have, like all other private consumers of power, to buy the current at the switchboard direct from the producer and use it in its own plant or distributing system.

The company, not having to take into account when preparing its tender, the heavy cost of erecting, for a period of five to ten years, a very expensive distributing plant that might prove useless if it failed to secure a renewal of their contract, would necessarily quote much lower figures not only for the lighting of streets and squares, but also for the current sold to consumers for ordinary commercial and residential purposes.

Thus we feel that, at any time, with a city-owned distributing plant, we will be in a splendid situation to mu-

DROVE THE STAGE COACH FROM QUEBEC TO MONTREAL

John Thompson, Hale and Hearty at 72, Recalls the "Good Old Days" Before Quebec Had Seen a Railroad.

John Thompson, who manages a livery stable on St. George street, and who was in the employ of the Hough Livery Stables for a half century, was accosted by a Chronicle representative recently and was induced to give his reminiscences of days gone by in Quebec and the difference in the life and men of the past in comparison with the present generation.

Mr. Thompson, who gives his age at 72, is a healthy, robust and well preserved man, who certainly does not look 60 years. He's still active and his memory is not the least impaired. He seems to take a keen pleasure in referring to the past as the real grand old times when men were honorable sports for the pleasure it gave them and whose pleasant and happy gait was music that still rang in his ears.

"Yes," said the veteran horse lover, "I am often reminded of the old days in Quebec, when there were no railroads and very indifferent and slow steamers, crude in their accommodations in comparison to the immense floating palaces of the present days. Many changes have taken place in the world and in Quebec since I was a boy; changes that were never thought possible then."

"I was born in St. Augustin, County of Portneuf, some 72 years ago, and when a young boy moved into the city in search of employment. In those days there was no railroad communication between Quebec and Montreal, no railroad from Halifax to Quebec and the stage coach was the only conveyance, especially in the winter season, that carried passengers between Quebec and Montreal, or into Western Canada, the Province of Ontario, which was commonly called Upper Canada."

"Of course we were informed of the Far West in a general way, but only knew it as the hunting grounds and the home of the Indian, where the Hudson Bay Company had its trading posts."

Came to Quebec in 1852.

"When I arrived in Quebec in 1852, I entered the service of Sam Hough, founder of the Hough Livery Stables, and not only worked under him, but under his son, George, and his grandson, also called George, who died about a dozen years ago. The Hough family were not Canadian-born, they were from a place called Sandybank, in the State of Maine, and came to Quebec in 1848 or 49."

"Sam Hough was at first engaged to haul logs with his horses by the lumber firm of Bowen Brothers, I often heard him speak of his first employment. In 1850, however, he opened a livery stable and ran a stage line from Quebec to Montreal, with covered sleds in the winter, in which he carried passengers and the mails. There were three livery stables in Quebec at that time, the Houghs and Joe Gavins, who also managed a stage line to Montreal, and carried both passengers and mails in opposition to my employer. These lines were known as the blue and red lines, the blue operated by Mr. Hough and the red by Mr. Gavins."

"The third stable was conducted by the late J. Calvin, a young man who came to this country from Ireland with plenty of means, and being a great lover of horses and a sportsman, opened a livery stable which was the special resort of British officers stationed with their regiments at Quebec, and of all keen sportsmen. "Mr. Hough, however, conducted the largest stable and was the owner of some sixty horses, and boarded a great many more."

"I was 15 years of age when I was placed in charge of a stage coach as driver, which ran on the south shore to Montreal until 1854, when the north shore was used. I often drove the Burstall and Gilmour families to Montreal in the winter season. They were extensive lumber merchants, who had their limits and shanties at By Town, now Ottawa."

Travel 15 Miles a Day.

"The daily run was 15 miles, when we would stop at the inn where relay horses were kept, and where the passengers would stop and sleep for the night, and in the morning be ready to drive on another 15 miles, when the same performance would be gone through, and so on until we would reach Montreal."

"Those were merry days. Everybody who travelled the route knew of the conditions and were happy. Our mail bags were not heavy, for you will understand there was no such letter writing as in these days. There was very little printing and no typewriters and outside of business letters very little correspondence. Besides, education was not as general as it now is."

"The Grand Trunk Railway, which was a revelation in those days, was built, and, of course, put the blue and red lines out of business on the south shore, but we kept it up on the north shore for some time afterwards. The roads, it is true, were rather rough, but we did not mind, as we were not so fastidious as the present generation, who would never even think of travelling in a stage coach for any distance in these days."

"Later on Mr. Hough assigned me to remain at the Quebec stables and perform general work, which included driving out cabs and private rigs rented out to citizens, until they were supplanted by the more modern carriage.

Quebec a Garrison City. Quebec was a garrison city at this period. There were three regiments stationed here and the city was the residential headquarters of the Governor General and consequently the scene of considerable gaiety and life that is not witnessed in these days. The Citadel was occupied by a regiment of British regulars, usually a rifle corps. The old Jesuit College in the Upper Town that was confiscated at the capture of Quebec and converted into a barracks was used for the accommodation of regiments of the line, who wore the red tunic.

"The present ordnance or cartridge factory, was used as the artillery barracks, where the artillery corps were stationed and the streets dotted by the uniformed soldiery of Her Majesty the late Queen Victoria, and every evening the officers' mess in these respective barracks resounded with the gay festivity of the officers and their guests at dinner."

"There were military parades every morning on the Esplanade and brigade inspection once a week on the Plains of Abraham, which attracted large crowds of spectators. The Plains at this time was not a desirable locality at night when they were alive with bad characters who usually became intoxicated in a notorious drinking dive kept by one Bob Reid, that was situated south of where the Quebec goal stands, and the scene of frequent brawls that sometimes ended seriously."

"This was in the day of the lumber trade in Quebec, when the wharves along both side of the river were lined with wooden sailing ships and many others at anchor in the river waiting a berth."

Day of the River Rafts.

"The timber used to come down the river in rafts, and the raftsmen who worked in the shanties all winter were paid off at this city. They mixed with the sailors and labor population of the city, that was considerable, and caused the Police Court to do a thriving business daily."

"Crimping or sailor catching was at its height, and Diamond Harbor a thickly populated part of the city where music, song and dancing was the rule every night in the sailors' boarding houses."

MADAM! IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT TAKE DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

Waste-clogged bowels, torpid liver and decaying food in stomach cause of sick headache, gas, backache, sallowness, biliousness and indigestion.

All women get bilious, headachy and constipated—simply because they don't exercise enough. They don't eat coarse food, or enough fruit and green vegetables. Those are nature's ways of keeping the liver and thirty feet of bowels active; but very few women employ them. The next best way is delightful, fruity Syrup of Figs. Nearly all ills of women can be overcome with Syrup of Figs alone. There is no need to have sick headache, backache, dizziness, stomach sour and full of gases, bilious spells, sallowness, coated tongue, bad breath, bad complexion, nervousness and depression. The surest and safest remedy is one or two teaspoonsful of delicious Syrup of Figs. Try this tonight—you'll feel splendid in the morning when the sour bile, clogged up waste and poisonous matter have been gently but thoroughly moved on and out of your system, without nausea, griping or weakness. Your head will be clear, complexion rosy, breath sweet, stomach regulated; no more constipation, gases, pains and aches. It is simply a matter of keeping your stomach, liver and bowels clean and regular. Then you will always be well—always look and feel your best. But get the genuine—the old reliable. Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse with contempt, the so-called Fig Syrups sometimes substituted to fool you. The true, genuine, bears the name California Fig Syrup Company; look for this on the label.

to work for anything they could get. In winter the streets were not cleared of the snow. It piled up on the roadway and while pedestrians would walk on the snow-covered sidewalks, they would have to look upwards to see the carriages or sleds driving along the roadway. In consequence of this state of things there were floods in all parts of the city in spring, but the people did not mind.

"The only light we had on the streets to guide us at night when I was a boy, was the dull glimmer of fish oil lamps dotted here and there, which were later replaced by the card oil lamp, follow and by gas lighting. This you can imagine the difficulties we had as drivers to conduct our horses through the streets. We were obliged to have carriage lights to prevent collision and also had to carry lanterns in case of accidents.

The Old City Gates.

"The old city gates that were guarded by soldiers since unplaced by the present ones were narrow, but we always got through without accident. Outside of St. Louis Gate the road was covered with peduleats that ran through in serpentine shape and caused us to drive along that vicinity with caution to avoid accident.

"There were very few dwellings along the Grande Allee and the St. Louis suburbs, now called Montcalm Ward, was crowded with small wooden houses and several streets given up to small groceries that were frequented by soldiers and sailors, who at times used to make the night hideous with their quarrels.

A Tough Place.

"One part of the suburbs which was called the 'Quarry' was indeed a tough locality. Here were bunched houses of ill-repute and the scene of many street fights by organized gangs of hoodlums designated by the appellation of the 'Dusties' and 'St. Amend' gangs, who defied the police, and generally were not disturbed in their quarrels. Several murders took place in this locality.

"The police force in Quebec in those days was a small body of men, but there were good, faithful and fearless men among them, who were often obliged to put their back to the wall and fight against odds in self-defence.

"Besides performing police duty they were firemen, who had to turn out at the call of fire, and abandon the citizens to their own protection.

"There were also volunteer fire companies in those days, with their hook and ladders and axemen and hand pumps to pump water into a burning building. It was quite a scene in those days to see the volunteer firemen and police at work on a fire, and hear the hand engine pumpers singing their company songs while at work.

"Generally Ended in a Row.
"There was great rivalry among the volunteer fire companies, who made a great noise at a fire, and when they had subdued the flames and generally became intoxicated at their work, were not satisfied unless they had further excitement by way of a fight with their rivals. These were no mean rows either, as they went at it rough and tumble, and used their axes in the melee, but they always ended, except in few cases, in nothing very serious.

"There was a better side to old Quebec, I am glad to say, and some of the grandest manhood that ever lived resided in the Ancient Capital. The population was about evenly divided, half English-speaking and half French, but the English half were the leaders in commerce and social life, and while the rougher element were separated and having their fling, the better class were most happy in their relations. But unfortunately for Quebec, many who came to this country comparatively poor became rich and then went to reside in England, which is one of the real causes that kept Quebec in the background of the rest of Canada.

Sporting Life.

"The sporting life in old Quebec was one of the pleasing sides of its history and altogether different in tone to the so-called sporting of today. In the summer, and especially the fall season, there were frequent hunts after the fox, in which ladies as well as gentlemen took part, and generally ended with a grand ball, at which all the gallants and young British officers of the garrison were in attendance to dance and court the beautiful ladies who then held full sway in conquering the hearts of many a bachelor.

"Running horse race meetings were held on the Plains of Abraham once and sometimes twice every season, and were sporting events to be remembered. Running races in those days were quite different to the race meetings of nowadays. Everything was on the square, and instead of professional bookmakers in charge of the selling, it was carried out by auction in a place at St. Louis street, afterwards in the Champlain Market Hall. Each race was an event, and the sports who laid on their favorite horses did so for the love of pure sport and backed their favorites for large amounts. In later years pools were made and sold at the Russell House, Quebec's then principal hotel, located on Palace street and conducted by two American gentlemen, Messrs. Willis and O. Russell.

The Plains a Lively Scene.

"On race days the Plains of Abraham was a busy and lively scene, sometimes too lively when the soldiers of the garrison and sailors in port would start to fight. I have seen some terrific battles between the soldiers and sailors, when the former would get together and take off their waist belts and strike their opponents with the brass buckles. Many a sailor would be felled and the fight would become general, the civilians taking a hand just for fun. Then the scene would become lively women screaming and the stewards of the course and the police powerless to stop the battle.

"This fighting, however, generally took place at the end of the racing, and would result in wrecking all the ground booths. Sometimes matters were so serious that the soldiers were conigned to barracks.

Era of Square Sport.

"As I have already said, the sports of Quebec in those days were all gentlemen who played the game square, and no matter the cost were out for a good time. This generation has all gone to their eternal home, but a few of the younger men still remain and are now like myself in the category of old men.

"I recollect several of the old-time gentlemen and may mention the late Dr. Racey; Sir Henry Colville, a lumber merchant who resided on the St. Foy road; Hon. Judges Black and Chief Justice Sir Andrew Stuart, and O'Neil Stuart; Sheriff Sewell; the late Hon. Charles Alley, who also was also sheriff of Quebec, and Dr. Sewell. The Burstalls and Gilmours; Mr. G. H. Park, who was weicher for many years, and known far and wide as a gentleman sport.

"There were some good horses owned in Quebec, but the best horses came from Upper Canada and were the favorite in every running event. Those days were great in the world of sport and never will return, for the reason that races were conducted differently and there was no such a thing of selling a race heard of. It would not have been tolerated.

"The late Dr. Kirwin, who also kept a livery stable and was a great favorite with the military, was also a great sport. He made heaps of money, but his heart was too big to keep it. He commenced his career in the employ of Dr. Racey, which accounts for his cognomen of 'Doctor' that stuck to him during his lifetime, and when he organized his stables he had the reputation of being the most fearless driver in the country. I saw him often starting out on picnic with a crowd of British officers bound on a lark and the Doctor handling the ribbons of a four-in-hand in the most reckless manner possible. No hill was steep enough for him to run down or up at a mad hat or even a carter and we frequently looked for an accident that never occurred.

"Besides being a fearless driver and good judge of a horse, he was a good sport who never could be bluffed, altogether reckless in his booking, which cost him a great deal of his money. He followed the meetings all over the country but never made money, though he was a good loser, and ready to wager on every and all occasions for the love of the thing.

The Fenian Raid.

"Do I remember the Fenian raid in 1866-7? I should think I did. The Hough stables were crowded with work those days. We had the contract to convey the military from all the outposts at River du Loup, Kamrouaska and other places during the winter to Quebec in sleds. All the outlying forces were concentrated in Quebec to march to the front and our stables had all they could do to handle the demand for horse and sleigh transportation. Besides there were military outposts to look out for deserters at Beauce, Richmond and other places on the south side of the river, and on the north side at Lorrette, St. Augustin, Valcartier and Three Rivers.

"The City of Quebec was under military rule and after dark the city gates were closed and strongly guarded.

"At St. Louis Gate the guard house was located overhead on the ramparts at St. John and Palace gates the guard houses adjoining and at Prescott Gate the guard house on top of the gate overlooking Mountain Hill. There was also a gate at Hope Hill, now called St. Famille street, and cannon protruding over the ramparts that encircled the whole city, with guards or flying sentries, as they were called, in every part of the fortifications. There was much excitement in the city and the volunteer corps were called out and billeted in the St. Louis suburbs.

"Few of the officers of these corps are now alive, but I am happy to say that our much respected Col. J. B. Forsyth and Lieut.-Col. Turnbull are still with us.

"Yes, I would like to live the old days over again, when there existed more contented happiness and the people not so selfish as the present-day generations.

"I attribute my good health and activity of body and mind to a temperance and frugal life. I never indulged in spirits or bad habits, and to this mode of living I can thank my present excellent physical condition, as I was never ill in my life.

LOOKS EASY, BUT—

Ty Cobb, the famous, looking up from a Detroit newspaper, said:

"Well, here's my old friend, Bruce, getting married! I wish him luck, poor fellow. But, at the same time—"

"At the same time, what?" said a sporting editor.

"At the same time, marriage is very much like ball."

"How so? How is marriage like ball?" the editor demanded.

"It looks so easy," the great Cobb answered, "to those who have never tried it."

IMPORTANT NOTICE

A few of our unscrupulous competitors are using our trade marks to sell their Chemical Fertilizers, stating that they are the same phosphates.

We wish to notify the public that nobody than ourselves, or our duly authorized agents, can sell the real "Leeds Phosphate," as we are the only agents for the Province of Quebec of these marvelous "Thomas Phosphates of Leeds", which are recognized as the best on the market. This fertilizer contains more phosphoric acid than any other, that is to say 22 1-2 per cent, and in support of what we state we request you to see the Government report: No. 227, page 11, and this will be sufficient proof to support our statement.

These irresponsible competitors have to admit the superiority of our phosphates.

FIRST TO WELCOME MR. BORDEN

British Isles and France by Canada's chosen representative.

The Mayor and Aldermen, together with the leading citizens of Quebec, turned out with the truest feelings of respect and joy to welcome the Prime Minister and chief of the great Canadian Conservative party, and nothing was left undone to make the welcome home a decided success.

Mayor Drouin and the Aldermen of Quebec did their part nobly and the reception at the City Hall was most loyal in its every detail from beginning to end.

Proves Loyalty of Quebec.

The City Hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion and a stranger here would undoubtedly have concluded that Quebecers in their hearts were loyal to their Government, their country's constitution and Canadian institutions.

They would also be impressed by the fact that the descendants of the British Isles and La Belle France were one in loyalty to their flag and country of adoption, that was now fast drifting towards nationhood.

The success of the reception was further enhanced by the arrival of five Federal Cabinet Ministers, who came from Ottawa yesterday morning to greet and welcome their leader. The Cabinet Ministers present were Hon. Messrs Perley, who acted as Premier in the absence of Mr. Borden; C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice; Mr. Reid, Minister of Interior, and Mr. Rogers, Minister of Interior, and Mr. Nantel, Minister of Inland Revenue. In unison with the Prime Minister, they were not only delighted with the citizens' reception, but were touched by the sincere respect and spontaneous greeting of welcome accorded their chief.

Arrangements Perfect.

All the arrangements made for the reception by Mayor Drouin and the city Aldermen and Citizens' Committee were perfect and smoothly carried out. The only change in the original programme was the sail down the river in the Government steamer Lady Grey to meet the Victorian and bring to Quebec the Prime Minister and his colleague. The Lady Grey, with a large party on board, left the King's wharf at 11 a.m. and proceeded down the river as far as the Island of Orleans, when the Victorian was espied in the distance, making her way towards Quebec. The Lady Grey then slowed down and turning back up the river awaited in midstream until the Victorian came alongside.

Among the large party on board the Government steamer to welcome the Prime Minister were Hon. Messrs. Perley, Doherty, Rogers, Dr. Reid, and Nantel, Senator Landry, Speaker of the Canadian Senate, and Chairman of the Conservative Committee of Reception, Senator Owens, from Argenteuil; Messrs. H. B. Pleasing Demonstration.

The Victorian presented a beautiful picture as she rounded the point at Indian Cove and majestically sailed up the river to make a turn and reach her moorings. As she approached the Lady Grey blew her whistle repeatedly in greeting, which example was followed by all the river craft and responded to from the sonorous whistle of the Victorian. The ocean liner was dressed in flags from stem to stern on her tall masts. The Lady Grey was also gaily dressed, as were most of the other boats in the river, while flags could be seen flying to the breeze in token of welcome from numerous dwellings on both sides of the stream.

The Louise Embankment was also decorated with flags, and a large crowd of people assembled on the Breakwater, who manifested their pleasure at the Prime Minister's return by constant cheering.

Great Demonstration on Lady Grey.

The grandest demonstration, however, took place on board the Lady Grey, as she approached to go alongside the Victorian. The docks were crowded with a lustily cheering throng and as the boat came alongside the big steamer the entire party sang in unison "O Canada," which attracted the whole complement of the ship's passengers, who rushed to the side of the vessel to watch the approach of the vessel.

Hon. Mr. Borden was seen leaning over the rail, with the Postmaster-General at his side, and as he doffed his hat in recognition of the greeting extended, the cheering became deafening. Then the crowd sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Premier Boards the "Lady Grey."

As soon as the Lady Grey reached the side of the Victorian, Mr. Borden and Mr. Pelletier, with their ladies and party, came on board the smaller craft amidst the cheers of the steamer's passengers, and the party on board the Government boat. After greetings and shaking of hands with all on board Premier Borden was escorted into one of the deck cabins of the Lady Grey, to meet the members of the press. The Premier accorded the following brief interview:

Gentlemen: All I have to say on the naval question I have said before leaving England.

"We had a very delightful and cordial welcome everywhere. Not only in the British Isles but in France as well, and we bring back with us happy memories of our visit.

"We are however, specially delighted with the very cordial reception tendered us in Quebec, as a welcome back to Canada, which is the most pleasing incident after all."

Asked if he had anything to say regarding the German war scare, Mr. Borden, with a show of spirit, said:—"Certainly I will not say anything about the German war scare."

Message to People of Canada.

Mr. Borden was asked if he had a message for the people of Canada. He replied:—

"I will say to the people of Canada this, that those who possess a country like this with a great possible development, and glorious prospects for the future, should realize that not only in this life are they cast in a pleasant position, but they have a great duty placed upon them toward the coming generations. They should acquire themselves in the performance of this duty in a manner that will reflect credit on the great races from which we have sprung, and protect and propagate the character handed down for centuries by our fathers."

Arrival at King's Wharf.

The Lady Grey soon reached the King's Wharf, where there was a great crowd of citizens waiting to greet the Prime Minister and his Cabinet colleague.

As the boat approached the wharf, the citizens lustily cheered their welcome.

The wharf was splendidly decorated with flags and bunting and the whole frontage of the Marine and Fisheries Agency was covered with flags and mottos of greeting.

His Worship Mayor Drouin and the City Aldermen were ranged on the wharf to greet the returning state statesmen, and the Lamblotte band played "O Canada" amid the chorus of the crowd both on the wharf and steamer.

As Mr. and Mrs. Borden walked down the gangway, several ladies, among whom were Mesdames Landry, Lavergne, Baillargeon and Bernier, approached, and after greeting Mrs. Borden, presented her with beautiful bouquets of flowers.

Mayor Drouin, in the meantime, advanced, and after greeting the Prime Minister and presenting him to the Aldermen, escorted Mr. and Mrs. Borden to his carriage, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Pelletier, escorted by Ald. Lavigneur. Next in order came the members of the Government, the aldermen and citizens.

The first carriage was occupied by Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Borden and Mayor Drouin. In the second carriage were Mr. and Mrs. Pelletier, and Alderman Lavigneur. The next were occupied by the Cabinet Ministers, escorted by Aldermen J. Collier, Dr. Dussault and Verret. Aldermen and members of the citizens and civic committee were next in order.

There were twenty-five double carriages and a many automobiles following, when the order to start was given, the procession, led off by Chief of Police Trudel and four mounted members of the city police.

The streets were lined with enthusiastic citizens as the procession passed through Champlain street, St. Peter street, up Mountain Hill and along Buede street to the City Hall, where the reception was held. The whole line of march was decorated in profusion.

At The City Hall.

It was after 2 o'clock when the party entered the City Hall. The building was magnificently decorated from the main entrance along the corridors and the interior of the Council Chamber.

The Prime Minister and his Cabinet Minister and ladies first proceeded to the Mayor's reception rooms and shortly afterwards entered the Council Chamber, where Premier Borden was greeted with cheers from the large crowd of citizens.

The R.C.G.A. band stationed in the gallery, played "O Canada" as Mr. and Mrs. Borden and party were escorted into the hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Borden and Mr. Pelletier were escorted to a raised platform, the same that was used at the reception given to the Prince and Princess of Wales, now Their Majesties the King and Queen of the British Empire.

The platform was covered with colored electric lights that reached from the base to the top of the canopy and were surrounded by a crown colored electric lamps encircled the chamber, and at the farther end, facing the platform, was an electric motto with the words "Quebec's Homage to Right Hon. R. L. Borden and welcome."

Civic Address of Welcome.

His Worship Mayor Drouin presented to the Prime Minister the following illuminated address of welcome:

To the Right Honorable Robert Laird Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, Member of Privy Council:

Sir,—The Ancient Capital of the Province of Quebec prides itself on the privilege it enjoys of being the first to greet the distinguished personages who land on the shores of our great river.

In accordance with this custom, the citizens of Quebec welcome you today on your return from the important journey you have taken, and they are all the more pleased to perform this act of courtesy that its object is the distinguished gentleman who now fills the high position of Prime Minister of this country.

Every man who is alive to the duty imposed on him by love for his country and its institutions, feels that his esteem and respect are due to those whom the voice of the people have called to administer public affairs. The responsibility and labor inherent in that office fully deserve the people's gratitude, and it is but fair that, when opportunity presents itself, they should publicly testify to it.

Therefore, Sir, the citizens of Quebec, animated by the same feeling—one of lofty pride inspired by the high position their country occupies in the Empire—are happy to welcome in you their eminent representative in the memorable conference you attended.

It affords us pleasure to observe that your health has not suffered from the fatigues of the journey, not from the additional labor you imposed on yourself in upholding, in the mother country, the important interests entrusted to you.

We are also pleased to welcome the return of your honorable colleagues who accompanied you on your mission, and more especially Hon. Mr. Pelletier, a citizen of Quebec as we are, whose devotedness to our city's interests will not fail to aid in the realization of our fervent hopes for its progress and prosperity.

The citizens of Quebec, with the entire population of Canada, appreciate the zeal displayed by your colleagues and yourself in devoting your abilities, your energy and your constant labor to the administration of public affairs.

We are aware that your aim is not only to foster and develop our natural resources and riches in general, but that you also give special attention to the needs of every section of the country, and particularly to the region and city of Quebec.

We have confidence in the good intention, expressed by your honorable colleagues and yourself, to develop in our midst one of the most important centres of trade and industry in Canada and to make our port one of the best equipped, not only of our great River St. Lawrence, but also of the whole world.

While tendering you your respects and best wishes, the citizens of Quebec beg you to convey the same to the members of your family, and especially to Mrs. Borden, your distinguished life companion, who adds to the brilliancy of your public career all the charm and grace which the women of Canada display, not only in their homes, but also in every sphere of society.

Such, Sir, are the feelings which animate the citizens of Quebec, and I am happy to have been called upon to voice them.

Borden's Reply.

Your Worship the Mayor, Ladies and Gentlemen: 0592 }

You do us great honor and pleasure in offering us this civic reception, the proof of the public faith which you inspire in this historic city, which has been the cradle of Christianity and of civilization, brought here three hundred years ago, by your ancestors. We sincerely appreciate the great honor at which we are extremely pleased and which will be long remembered.

It is from this city and province that we left some ten weeks ago for England. We have seen the British Isles and the beautiful country of France, land of your fathers. Everywhere we were received with a most cordial greeting. We have seen the fertile fields the great industrial development, the thrifty population, beautiful cities, historic buildings, and old cathedrals which are rich in memories of the past.

But in spite of all these great civilizations and glorious traditions, we did not forget our dear country. It has ever made us love it more, and we feel our hearts beat stronger as we again touch the soil of Canada, our beloved country. We better understand the sacred duty we have to perform toward our country.

The Canadians will not fail, with the aid of Divine Providence, to appreciate the height of this duty. The future of our country is rich in promise and the city of Quebec, by her geographic position, should occupy a large place in the future of Canada. You can depend upon us to help you in this vision of future prosperity, based on legitimate hope. Your Worship the Mayor, ladies and gentlemen, I thank you once more with all my heart, and I engrave in my memory these words of your motto, which I will remember.

Hon. L. P. Pelletier, who stood beside Premier Borden during the proceedings was called upon for a speech, and in his usual happy flow of eloquence addressed the assemblage and in part said:—

Postmaster-General Speaks.

"I wish to thank the Hon. Premier for the words which he has just uttered," said Hon. L. P. Pelletier, when called upon to respond after the Premier. Quebec has honored itself in honoring such a distinguished man, and it showed that Quebec was able to recognize and respect its public men irrespective of politics. In reference to the remarks of the Premier of the good feeling between the two races in Canada, the Postmaster-General spoke of the entente cordiale between France and England, a happy event which, he said, had been brought about by Canada. Enemies of yesterday, to-day they were working hand in hand, and the most absolute confidence existed between the two nations. He was glad to announce that in this spirit of amity he had been very successful in the cable rate negotiations.

Speaking in English, which the Prime Minister said was his mother tongue, he repeated the words he spoke in French, but dwelt more at length on the need of developing the port of Quebec, which he said was the national port of Canada. He referred to the development of the harbors in Europe and particularly alluded to the port of Glasgow, which was a shallow river a half century ago, across which the people in those days could wade. But to-day these conditions were changed; the people of Glasgow, by dint of perseverance, had transformed the shallow river into one of the finest shipping ports in Europe, where the largest marine vessels could navigate with ease and safety.

Here at our very doors we have the very finest deep water harbor in the world that needs development to make it the largest and greatest shipping port in the world, and this must be realized and we shall see that it is realized.

At the close of the addresses and replies, Mr. Borden was presented with a bouquet of pink roses, and then followed a reception, the Prime Minister and Mrs. Borden shaking hands with the ladies and gentlemen as they filed past the platform.

Reception at Chateau.

At the close of the reception at the City Hall, Mr. Borden and Mr. Pelletier, members of the government, Conservative Members of Parliament and Liberal Leaders of the party in the city and district of Quebec, proceeded to the Chateau Frontenac, where a second reception took place in the parlor.

This reception was attended by the adherents of the government, and the address was read by Senator Landry, speaker of the Senate, as follows: To the Right Hon. R. L. Borden,

Prime Minister of Canada:

"Sir—Canada hails with joy your return to the this country. At this moment you tread once more its historical soil, the Province of Quebec, and more especially your friends of our district, offer you their most cordial welcome and their most sincere congratulations. Your trip to England and your excursion on the continent have revived in the old country those feelings of interest which the actual political situation renders so intense and which brings over to us that deep attention, most generous in a way, entirely unknown by our predecessors the colonials.

"Amidst the friendly manifestations aroused by such an attention everywhere where your voice has been heard. You have always remained what you happened to be at your departure, the Prime Minister of the finest of the self-governed colonies. We who have followed with an attentive eye and with an always growing interest your trip beyond the ocean, we cannot conceal the satisfaction given to our national pride by the successes you have achieved. Above all a Canadian, you have thought fit to keep for the country you govern as Prime Minister the enunciation of a policy which will be definitely settled after it will have been submitted to the deliberations of your cabinet. Such a reserve, bearing the mark of true statesmanship, has rejoiced the whole country for the kind attention paid to its people and to its representatives in parliament.

"The people shall not forget such a delicate attention when in the course of time he will be consulted, according to the promises of the past, on any new change of policy in our relations with the Empire.

"We pray God that the same wisdom that you have displayed all through your most interesting trip shall be also the lot of the members of your whole cabinet, and that here as well as elsewhere, in our Canadian country, like on British soil, Canada's destinies, its expansion, its prosperity, its happiness, shall ever be the constant aim of your patriotic con-

Making One Dollar Do the Work of Two

YOUR dollars vary in value according as they vary in purchasing power.

The man or woman who studies advertising is able frequently, to make one dollar do the usual work of two.

The experienced reader of advertisements will always make a dollar command a premium, that is, make it buy more than the dollar of a non-reader of advertisements.

How much "above par" are the dollars in your pocket worth?

It will depend on how closely you study the buying opportunities out-lined in the store ads.

QUEBEC FIRST TO WELCOME CANADA'S PRIME MINISTER

"Deeply imbued with those feelings and those ideas, we hail in your person the distinguished leader given us by Providence for the triumph of a real Canadian policy wanted and approved by the people, and which will bestow on all the inhabitants of this land of our peace, prosperity and

"In this welcome tendered to you whom Providence has made your companion and whose qualities are for your existence a gracious ornament and for your successes an indispensable element.

Premier Borden replied briefly in both French and English, and in the course of his remarks referred to his visit to England as a great source of pleasure, but it was a great pleasure to return home to Canada to meet his friends and comrades. He dwelt upon the unexpectedly cordial reception accorded him in the city of Quebec, a reception that he did not in the least anticipate. He was delighted with his visit to the land of his ancestors and came back to Canada to take up and preserve the heritage handed down by their fathers. His visit across the seas had its pleasures, but no incident in that visit would remain so dear in his memory as will the reception he received on his return to Canada at Quebec, and in conclusion thanked the citizens of Quebec in his own and his wife's name, and also thanked Senator Landry and his friends for their cordial address of welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Borden then retired for luncheon, and left on board the Lady Gray last evening at 6 o'clock, with the federal ministers who came to meet him, for Three Rivers and Montreal, en route for Ottawa, where they will also receive public receptions.

FRENCH AVIATOR UP 16,240 FEET IN AIR

Garros in Monoplane Breaks World's Record for Altitude
by 2461 Feet.

Houlgate, France, Sept. 6.—Roland
G. Garros, the aviator, today eclipsed the old world record for altitude by about 2461 feet. Ascending in a monoplane, Garros went up 16,240 feet. At this height the rarified atmosphere caused his engine to stop suddenly and the aviator had to make a voloplane flight to the ground. This he accomplished with perfect safety.
The previous record of 13,779 feet was made at Vienna on June 29 by the Austrian aviator Csakay. In the flight the Austrian carried a passen-

STRAUS NOMINATED IN A STAMPEDE.

"You may have but five minutes," said Mr. Straus impatiently, glancing at his watch.
"I want ten," insisted McGee.
Delegates and spectators boomed and jeered as he began to speak. There was a general laugh when he cried:
"I'll name a man, the mention of whose name will bring tears of sympathy to the eyes of almost every man and woman in this civilized land," but "Suspender Jack" only waved his arm in defiance of the jeers.

Chairman Straus turned to Mr.
Chadbourne, who had placed Mr.
Hotchkiss in nomination, and asked:
"What does he mean to do?"
Chadbourne, too, was non-plussed, and thought the speaker might be perpetrating some joke. Then came the climax when a delegate cried:
"Name your man."
McGee paused but a moment and then cried: "I nominate the illustrious and honorable Oscar S.
Straus."

The delegates seemed stunned, and then a few of them cheered. Mr.
Straus gave an amused laugh at "Suspender Jack," bowing before him.
McGee kept on with his speech, and the first few faint cheers from the half a dozen or more delegates gradually grew into a pandemonium of sound that swept the convention hall from one end to the other. Standards were wrenched from their supports and delegates, yelling and cheering for Chairman Straus, paraded the aisles.
All was confusion in the hall.
Chairman Straus at first shook his head deprecatingly at the growing ovation. He turned to his friends and remarked: "This must not be, I cannot accept." State Chairman Hotchkiss left his seat among the delegates and rushed to the platform.
Placing his hands on Mr. Straus' shoulders he said: "You must accept, you must accept. All the delegates are for you."

Other Candidates Withdraw.

Meanwhile there was a press of delegates to the platform to urge Mr.
Straus to take the nomination. Then Mr. Hotchkiss burst from the group that surrounded Mr. Straus and held up before the crush of excited delegates in the aisles a sheet of yellow paper on which was written "He accepts," whereupon the delegates and spectators passed back the word of Mr. Straus acceptance and another demonstration followed.

Chairman Hotchkiss asked the privilege of the convention to act as permanent chairman in place of Mr.
Straus. The nomination of Mr.
Hotchkiss for Governor was withdrawn by John A. Kingsbury, who moved to make Mr. Straus' nomination unanimous.

But there were other delegates who demanded to be heard and Mr. Woodruff said that in the absence of Mr.
Prendergast he would take it upon himself to withdraw his name and in doing so he felt that Mr. Prendergast would concur in his action. With the names of Mr. Prendergast and Mr. Hotchkiss withdrawn there was a flood of seconding speeches of the nomination of the former Minister to Turkey.

Mr. Straus Accepts.

In his speech of acceptance Mr.
Straus said:
"I never in my remotest dreams imagined that I would be asked to accept the nomination of this great people's party for Governor of this great State. I tell you in the depth of my heart I feel unworthy and undeserving of the honor you have conferred upon me. The cause we are in is a case of inspiration. I must accept."

"The most important and useful part of my life, perhaps, I passed by the side and in co-operation with the inspired leader of the Progressive cause. He honored me by placing me at the head of the department which may be justly called 'the department of humanity; but which is called the Department of Commerce and Labor.
The Department was created by Theodore Roosevelt. The department we purpose to emphasize is that the spirit of our government places the humanities above material considerations."

OUTWARD DECENCY IS WALDO'S POLICY.

fore you make a raid and make raids only on my approval."

The witness described his conversation with Waldo on Aug. 8 as follows:

Says Waldo Denied Orders.
"When I came into the Commissioner's presence," he said, "Hayes, what are you doing about the disorderly houses in your district? I replied, 'Nothing.' 'Why?' he asked. Because you told me not to, I replied.
'I'll fire you right now if you say that,'
said the Commissioner, making a threatening motion with his hands."

"Did he fire you?" asked Mr. Thacher.
"Not that day," replied the witness.
On August 15 the Commissioner sent him a letter ordering him to suppress disorderly houses in his district, which, he said, was the first letter of its kind he had ever received from the Commissioner.

Every material statement Hayes made, each previously put in the form of a question by Thacher, was denied by Mr. Waldo, who preceded the police officer on the stand.

"I never gave Hayes any orders other than general instructions to observe peace and good order and enforce the laws," Mr. Waldo said.
The trial will go on to-morrow,
when Hayes will be cross-examined.

SAYS PARK LIGHTS ARE MENACE TO NAVIGATION

Montreal, Sept. 6.—Word was received today from the Minister of Marine and Fisheries at Ottawa ordering an investigation into the action of Pilot Louis Z. Bouille, who was in command of the Lake Champlain when it ran aground. The commissioners appointed Commander
H. St. George Lindsay, Captain Nash and Pilot Perron. At the enquiry, which commenced this morning, Captain Kendall, master of the Lake Champlain, testified that for half an hour before the boat ran aground the guiding lights were obscured because of the dense smoke from the dredges and a passing coal barge with its tug.
Also he claimed that the lights at Dominion Park were so dazzling that it was impossible to see any of the buoy lights. "These are a real menace to navigation and were the cause of the accident," said Capt. Kendall.

THREE TWINS.

"Three Twins" that comes to the Auditorium for an engagement of three nights and one matinee, beginning Thursday, Sept. 19th, is a thoroughly up-to-date musical comedy, full of fun and entertainment, spectacular and musical; entirely innocent and thoroughly enjoyable. The plot—and there is one—is merely a string of nonsense on which to hang a series of songs, dances, tableaux and other stage effects, all of them novelty and beautiful. The fun grows out of the mix-ups and complications resulting from the appearance at a summer hotel of three young men, who so resemble each other in features, dress and voice, that no one, not even the wife of one, the sweetheart of another and the father of the third, can tell them apart. But this is only incidental to the music and dancing. Here arises a series of complications that keep the audience in a constant roar of laughter. While the fun-making is at its height, advantage is taken of the opportunity to dazzle the laughter, convulsed audience with some of the cleverest and most beautiful mechanical electrical effects ever seen on any stage.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO DIABETICS

Kamsack, Sask., Aug. 5, 1912. Messrs. The Sanol Manufacturing Co., Winnipeg, Man.

Gentlemen:—To-day I write you and am as healthy as a healthy man could be. I was told by several doctors that I am troubled with "Diabetes," and that the only thing for me was to keep a strict diet to prolong my life. But a few days after I heard of Sanol's cure for diabetes and began to take their cure, as this is the only cure for diabetes, and I am proud to say that not only has it done me good, but has completely cured me. I am obliged by the doctors to eat anything and everything and am healthy and live like any healthy man. My cure finished completely on July 29, 1912.

I can recommend anyone suffering with diabetes to apply to Sanol Mfg. Co., and they are sure to be cured. I thank you, and I fail in words to express my thanks to you. Anyone wishing to get any information how I was cured and everything about it, may write to me.—Yours truly,

JOE KNAZAN, Kamsack, Sask.

P.S.—A word more to the Sanol Mfg. Co.: I feel now just like going out in Main Street, Winnipeg, and "yell out": I was cured of Diabetes by the Sanol Mfg. Co., who have the only cure for Diabetes. BATTLE OF PORT NELSON. As Heroic a Piece of Work As Is To Be Found In The Annals Of All History.

(By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory).

The battle of Port Nelson, fought two hundred and fifteen years ago—September 4, 1697—was as heroic a piece of work as is to be found in all the annals of war, and on that account its story will live throughout the generations, for real heroism is something that mankind will admire to the end of time.

After the great Frontenac had smashed the English power at Quebec, France sent out some men-of-war to be placed under command of Iberville at Placenta, Newfoundland, whence he was to proceed to Hudson Bay for the purpose of clearing out the English rule in that region.

In his flagship, the Pelican, attended by four other ships, Iberville reached the west end of Hudson Straits about the first of August, where, for nearly three weeks, he was at the mercy of the ice-drive and so completely enveloped in fog as to be unable to obtain a glimpse of anything beyond the deck of his own ship.

When the fog lifted Iberville saw, to his consternation, that his other vessels had disappeared and that he was in close proximity to three powerful British frigates, the Hampshire, the Deering and the Hudson Bay. A lane of water was open before him and the Pelican sped away like a bird.

On September 4, as he lay off Port Nelson, on the western side of Hudson Bay, he saw three sails bearing down upon him. He thought they were his own, but soon learned that they were the English frigates that he had seen in the straits. They made straight for him and the battle began.

Of Iberville's crew forty were sick, as many more were on shore, leaving him but one hundred and forty fighting men. The odds were three to one, and for four hours the battle raged. The decks of the Pelican were cut into kindling wood, forty of her men were mowed down at one blast from the British musketry. It turned bitterly cold, the blood on the decks became ice and each roll of the sea sent the wounded and dead rolling from rail to rail. But the Frenchmen fought on.

Presently a wild scream rent the air, and the English flagship, the Hampshire, with two hundred and fifty men, sank "swift as lead amid the hiss of flames into the roaring sea." Upon this the Hudson Bay surrendered, the Deering took to her heels and ran away and Iberville was victor in one of the hottest contests that ever took place upon land or sea.

If Iberville and John Paul Jones have ever run across each other in the Elysian Fields we may be sure that the first thing they did was to talk of the Pelican's fight at Port Nelson and that of the Bon Homme Richard off Flamborough Head—twin victories in courage and glory.

Immediately after his victory Iberville steered for land, and, despite the foundering of his ship, succeeded in getting ashore and capturing the fort at Port Nelson, thus ending, for the time being, the rule of the English in the Hudson Bay region.

The gallant Iberville, after his brilliant work in Louisiana and along the Mississippi, which brought him a signatory and many honors, died at Havana of yellow fever in 1706, while still in the prime of his splendid manhood.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.
McDonald & Lesperance, stock brokers, private wire to New York and Montreal, Hochelaga Bank Building. Telephone 1227.
(Canadian Press Service.)

New York, Aug. 6.—The movement of stocks today ran largely to specialties with virtually no change in most other securities of speculative importance. There was at times, however, some pressure upon the Lehigh Valley and Canadian Pacific stocks while other high grade railway shares failed to move beyond fractional limits. United States Steel and the Coppers being little more than steady.

Some diversion was again furnished by the Tobacco group because of their extensive gains on relatively large dealings, but the gyrations of these issues, in which public interest has seldom been more than negligible, failed to excite more than passing attention. The fertilizer stocks, notably American Cotton Oil, made smart advances largely as a result of cotton crop prospects, while Bethlehem Steel and Republic Iron were strong to the accompaniment of another upward revision in the schedule of finished iron and steel.

The backwardness of the Coppers doubtless had some connection with the drop in the metal abroad together with reports that the statement of the Producers' Association for August may show a large increase of supplies. Among the less conspicuous specialties National Biscuit, Central Leather common and preferred and American Linsed preferred rose from 1 to 2 points. Over 50 per cent. of the day's light business was transacted in the first hour, the balance of the session, especially the last two hours, being characterized by absolute inertia and another advance in call money to four per cent., the high price of the previous two days. The tone of the market at the close was heavy.

Forecasts point to a cash loss by the banks of only $2,500,000 as against yesterday's estimate of almost double that amount. Cables from London and Paris intimating the probability of gold exports to this country were scouted in authoritative quarters.

New York City 4 1/2 bonds gain sold under par with a lower tendency in other issues. Total sales, par value, were $2,005,000.

United States Government bonds were unchanged on Government.

NEW YORK CLOSING LETTER.
Received over the private wire of McDougall & Cowans, stock brokers, 91 St. Peter street.

New York, Sept. 6.—The market was moderately active and generally higher, but on the advance stocks came from all around the room and before the end of the first hour a reactionary tendency set in under the leadership of Lehigh, under which active issues sold off well below last night's close. The reactionary tendency was somewhat checked by strength in various specialties. American Tobacco sold at one time over six points above the low touched the day before yesterday, and the Oil stocks including Mexican and Texas Oil and American Cotton Oil were all strong. The strength in Cotton Oil extended in a lesser degree to the specialty list. General list remained extremely apathetic, however, and generally heavy during the afternoon, and the market closed dull with general fractional net declines as a result of the day's dealings. The trading was almost entirely professional and fluctuations had but little significance. A little extra selling occurred in the last few minutes so that the close was heavy at the lowest of the day. Total sales 255,000.

INSURANCE BUREAU GETS HEIGHT DATA

Average Stature of Men Is 5 feet 8 1/2 Inches—Of Women, 5 Feet 4 1/4 Inches.

Comprehensive data on the average heights and weights of American men and women will be among the first results of the medico-actuarial investigation, conducted by life insurance companies, to be published. The table on men is based on 220,000 lives and that on women on 136,000 lives, being broader in scope than the tables gotten out by the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors in 1897. However, the new tables confirm height and weight deductions obtained from the earlier investigation, although the latter covered only 74,000 lives of men and 59,000 lives of women.

The average height of men in the United States and Canada is 5 feet 8 1/2 inches; that of women, 5 feet 4 1/4 inches. The 1897 tables gave men as 5 feet 8 inches, and there remains the question whether the race has grown a bit taller in 15 years or the discrepancy is due to the investigation itself.

Taking men and women of equal stature in the group between 35 and 39 years old, the comparison is as follows:

A man 5 feet 4 inches tall weighs 140 pounds; a woman 5 feet 4 inches weighs 136 pounds; a man 5 feet 8 inches weighs 157 pounds; a woman 5 feet 8 inches weighs 152 pounds.

and five cents for every additional word over and above the first twenty-four and the time for delivery is Monday instead of Tuesday as before.

4. The five pence per word (ten cents) rate for ordinary press telegrams is reduced to three pence and a half (seven cents). This change is in force already and these messages are no more subject to a nineteen hour deferment as before.

5. Another important change for present rates is also made at once and is as follows:—The price per word will be two and a half pence (five cents). (a) During the hours from midnight to six a.m. from the country of destination (which means that Canadian morning papers will get those messages at that rate between six p.m. and midnight; (b) During the hours of one p.m. to four p.m., Montreal time, equivalent to from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., London time. These five cent word messages are not subject to the previous deferment of nineteen hours nor to any deferment. They are transmissible as they are received.

All the above changes apply to those places in Canada and the United States for which the rate for ordinary telegrams was one shilling per word and the other rates for other places in Canada and the United States are also reduced correspondingly.

LADY HAMILTON,

the celebrated English beauty who captured the heart and swayed the later life of Lord Nelson—had a charming complexion which the poets of her day compared to a delicately tinted rose in full bloom. It is now known that this beautiful woman exercised the greatest care over her complexion, treating her skin with a preparation of Almonds and Roses. The formula was a well-guarded secret for long, but anyone may obtain the lotion now at most drug stores. It is sold under the name of Seely's Almonrose.
