World News In Brief

London, April 28.—(CP)—Supply minister George Strauss, long regarded as a supporter of rebellious Aneurin Bevan, says the resignations which caused Britain's cabinet crisis were "wholly unjustified."

Strauss had been expected by some to follow Bevan into the political wilderness. Instead, he publicly reprimanded John Freeman, one of three resigning ministers and formerly parliamentary secretary to Strauss at the supply ministry.

London, April 28.—(Reuters)—Widespread dislocation of British mails was threatened today by mailmen who want more pay. Though their union has decided to send the claim to arbitration, many mailmen are planning unofficial "go slow" action next Tuesday. They want an extra $1.40 a week to bring the minimum pay to $14.

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur, after triumphant visits to Chicago and Milwaukee, today will review New York's annual Loyalty day parade featuring an estimated 500,000 marchers.

Tehran, April 28.—(Reuters)—The Majlis (lower house of Iran's parliament) voted overwhelmingly today for Mohammed Mussadiq, leader of the campaign for oil nationalization, as Prime Minister.

Mussadiq, 65, went immediately for Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi to seek consent for his premiership.

The surprise vote in the Majlis, which backed Mussadiq by 79 of the 99 members present, came only 12 hours after the resignation of Hossain Ala's month-old government.

Ottawa, April 28.—(AP)—Thieves last night entered the home of sports promoter T. P. Gorman, and without leaving any clue to how they got in, escaped with a 500-pound safe from the second floor. Police were told the safe contained $300 in cash, personal papers and bonds. A police fingerprint expert has been assigned to the case.

Wake Forest, N.C., April 28.—(AP)—Rifles, shotguns and pistols cracked in a raging battle here last night at the strike-crippled Royal Cotton Mill.

Three persons were slightly injured as gunfire exchanges followed dynamite blast. Men on the picket lines said the dynamite, thrown from a mill window, set off the subsequent gunfire.

The violence, erupting on the 27th day of a seven-state strike of the Textile Workers Union (C.I.O.) in almost 50 southern mills, was the worst of several recent outbreaks. Several dynamite explosions have been reported.

Quebec Favors Pensions But Rejects Indirect Taxation

Quebec, April 28.—(AP)—Quebec Province, favorable to the establishment of an old age federal-provincial pension system, will not agree to a constitutional amendment authorizing the provinces to levy an indirect three-per-cent sales tax to help pay for the plan.

The government's view was announced by Premier Duplessis yesterday when he released copies of an 800-word letter to Justice Minister Garson.

The letter explained the Quebec government's "doubts as to the appropriateness of the tax originally proposed during federal-provincial talks last December."

The Premier's letter made reference to an earlier letter April 16th from the Justice Minister in which Federal authorities agreed to consider old-age pensions and tax problems separately.

Premier Duplessis' letter said in part: "We consider that the indirect provincial tax suggested does not meet the situation and might complicate settlement of the important old-age pensions problem, which is advisable to avoid."

The letter added that the Quebec government is "disposed to agree to a clear and precise constitutional amendment which will give the Federal government authority, which it does not hold today, to legislate in the matter without in-

Like Italy, Korea Has Malaria

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
With the Canadians in Korea, April 28.—(CP)—(By Mail)—Shades of Italy and mepacrine! Korea's got malaria and dysentery too!

All the paraphernalia familiar to the old Italian campaigner have been trotted out here—the daily pill, the repellent lotion, the mosquito net and a few local wrinkles.

In common with other United Nations troops in the theatre, the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, has been getting the low-down on the dangers of familiarity with oriental mosquitoes and flies.

Sgt. Frank Taylor of Winnipeg and Montreal, field hygiene expert with the battalion, has been the prophet of woe and preparedness. Recently returned to the unit after a three-day course in Pusan, Taylor has been injecting the troops with mosquito- and fly-consciousness.

Addressing the soldiers in small groups, Taylor has been introducing them to paludrine, the army's new suppressive. Unlike mepacrine which was yellow and caused headaches, paludrine is white and with no unpleasant effects. But it still has to be taken daily on parade, in the presence of an officer.

The men will be issued with wall-lets containing mesh netting shaped to cover the head, with armlets and glove-type gear for sentries and others obliged to be out at night. There is even provision for men wanting to take off their boots and rest their feet.

The lotion-repellent, under the mysterious initials DMP, is colorless and almost odorless. It has to be applied to exposed parts every three hours. "Skeeters" apparently don't like it.

And a mesh canopy, again like the old Italian version, is provided for rear-area people whose nights are passed in the luxury of beds and sleeping-bags.

Taylor also is training malaria squads in each company on unit prevention methods.

Tents, for instance, are to be sprayed once monthly with a mixture of DDT and kerosene. The idea is that the kerosene evaporates leaving the canvas coated with DDT crystals, which destroy the insects when absorbed into the system.

With Pte. Bill Sproat of Portage la Prairie, Man., Taylor has been supervising the drainage of paddy fields in Canadian camp areas so that stagnant-water breeding places are eliminated. RSM. Leslie Grimes of Edmonton provides work parties as needed.

Infringement on the rights which the provinces hold."

Premier Duplessis also told his regular weekly press conference that mineral discoveries and developments in the last few years "facilitate the economic independence of Quebec industries."

He said the government's hydro-electric developments on the Ottawa river made possible mining development of northwestern Quebec, including "remarkably rich" zinc deposits in Barre township.

Hydro-electric projects on the Peribonka river, in the Lake St. John district, and at Beauharnois, west of Montreal, would supply the needs of Quebec's growing steel industry.

In connection with the Barre township development, the Premier said sulphuric acid could be obtained from the zinc ore. Sulphur, used in the manufacture of Quebec's most important industry—pulp and paper—is a scarce material unavailable in Canada, the Premier said.

The Premier quoted Andre Robertson, general manager of Golden Manitou Mines Limited and Barre Mines Limited, as saying the Barre area is "the most important in a generation."

It was estimated there were 17-200,000 tons of zinc ore and that production would last for at least 30 years.

Record Turnout At The Polls Is Reported—Senate Results May Not Be Known For Several Days.

Sydney, April 28.—(AP)—Early counting in Australia's parliamentary elections today indicated the Liberal-Country party coalition government of Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies is safe. But the Labor party he ousted in 1949 may have picked up five or six seats in the House of Representatives. Returns began pouring in from all parts of the country after nearly 5,000,000 voted in a record turnout for a new House and Senate—Australia's 20th Parliament.

Menzies himself and his principal opponent, Labor leader Joseph B. Chifley, both appeared certain to have retained their seats.

Labor Minister Harold Holt in a broadcast two hours after the polls closed at 8 P.M. (5 A.M. EST) said:

"There now is no doubt the Menzies government will be retained with a solid majority."

Observers at the polls reported a slight strengthening in the Labor vote, but said it was apparently not enough to threaten the hold of Menzies' regime in the House of Representatives.

The outcome of the Senate vote, where Menzies is trying to wrest control from the Labor party, may not be known for days due to the complicated counting system.

"What we ask for," Prime Minister Menzies said in one of his campaign speeches, "is a fair chance to carry out our existing policy—in the sound Australian phrase, 'a fair go.'"

Menzies returned from his 12,000-mile swing around the country confident of victory because there was "a wide and growing realization that the continuance of a deadlock at Canberra (the capital) would be fatal to really good and firm government."

Chifley made no prophecies. He "confidently" asked the electorate to support his part in both Houses.

About 90 per cent of Australia's voters always vote the same way, for one of the three major parties—Labor, Liberal and Country.

About two per cent vote for independents, communists or other minor parties. The rest are swinging voters who make or break governments.

A voter who fails to cast a ballot is subject to a fine of $2 (about $4.75) unless the judge agrees he has a good reason.

Briefly, these were the party platforms:

The big issues were retreads from the 1949 election campaign: what should be done about rising living costs?

There were 292 candidates for 121 seats in the House of Representatives, from which the majority forms the government, and 112 candidates for the 60 Senate seats. The Liberal and Country parties had a 74-to-47 majority in the last House. The Senate was Labor's, 34 to 26. Two Labor supporters and one coalition candidate have already been elected by acclamation.

Pre-election forecasts by most political observers gave the Liberal-Country coalition, led by Menzies, the big chance of keeping its majority in the House. But there were many predictions that it would have to settle for a 30-30 draw in the Senate in this election—staged 20 months ahead of the normal time.

Ordinarily, only half the Senate seats are contested in a general election. All were to be filled today. The Governor-General, William J. McKell, dissolved both Houses of Parliament March 19 upon Menzies' request after the Labor majority in the Senate snarled a coalition banking bill.

The Senate had given slow-motion treatment to other projects of Menzies' regime and the fiery Prime Minister charged the Senators were "making a monkey" out of him.

The Liberal-Country coalition promised to continue to fight communists and fellow travellers despite a high court ruling last year which tossed out a bill to outlaw the party, a promise to institute secret ballots in trade unions (where communist strength largely prevails) and to continue defence preparations.

The Labor party promised to seek power from the people to peg prices and fight rising living costs, and a promise to promote co-operation between employers and workers in increasing production. The

Rent Control Goes Over To Provinces

By The Canadian Press
All Canadian provinces will have provision for rent controls of some sort May 1, the day after federal controls expire.

A Canadian Press survey today showed that five provinces—Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia—will take over for the first time the controls drawn up for the entire country during the war-time September of 1940 and kept in force during the post-war housing shortage.

Saskatchewan entered the field of tenant-landlord relations a year ago when the federal government first opened the control field to the provinces.

Newfoundland is continuing the rent controls begun before it became the 10th province.

The legislatures of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island recently passed legislation permitting municipal governments to put on local controls. The New Brunswick legis-

Quebec City Passes Budget But Still Faces Trouble

Quebec, April 28.—(AP)—Quebec City Council last night gave final approval to its unpopular 1951-52 budget, but authorities are not out of the woods yet.

The council gave an 8-6 vote to the budget which calls for new taxes and a $505,000 loan to bridge a deficit of $1,500,000.

There were two absentees, and the 17th council member will not take his seat for the recently-annealed Quebec West ward until next month.

Expenditures and revenues are estimated at $8,720,000.

Among the new taxes is an increase of 15 cents per $100 property value in real-estate taxation, bringing the rate of $3.70.

The increase, expected to yield $260,000, must be approved by the three-man provincial government municipal commission. The loan must also be approved by the commission.

Speaking of the city's budget problems, Premier Duplessis last night said the city needed approval of the provincial government commission to borrow money and increase its real-estate tax.

The budget, butt of much criticism, has the Quebec property owners' association considering legal action to oust the council. The association claims the ouster is provided for in the city charter as the penalty for bringing down the budget after April 1, contrary to city charter.

The budget was first introduced April 18.

The Chamber of Commerce has signified its "categorical opposition" to several new taxes contained in the budget revised Thursday night in the face of heavy criticism.

The first budget had made no provision for a loan or increased property tax.

However, it maintained:

1. An $8-a-year garbage removal tax;

2. A rise in the cost of taxi licenses from $11.20 to $25;

3. A 20-per-cent charge on the rental value of places of business—up from 15 per cent.

4. An amusement tax of five cents on tickets less than $1 and 10 cents on tickets $1 or more.

Vogeler Is Released By Hungarians

Nickelsdorf, Austria, April 28.—(AP)—Robert A. Vogeler, 39-year old American business executive, was freed today from a communist jail in Hungary where he spent 17 months on charges of spying for the United States.

Vogeler was released at this Austro-Hungarian frontier village and was whisked away in a car by American officials to a reunion with his wife, Lucille, and their two young sons in Vienna.

Pale but trim, Vogeler smiled at reporters who met him near the border and said:

Hard-Working Koreans Win Friendship Of Canadians

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
With the Canadians in Korea, April 28.—(AP)—Slowly, by the sweat of their brows and the stoutness of their hearts, Koreans are winning their way into the esteem of Canadian soldiers.

It has taken a long while.

Men of the Princess Patricia's have not been able to go out and meet Koreans. They've been busy in camp or on the front since hitting the theatre.

The races met on the soldiers' ground, the front, where the chips are down and a man is judged by what he does.

If Canadians have been able to concentrate on fighting from mountain to mountain, ridge to ridge, it is because, day in and day out, long lines of Korean bearers have trudged up to the Canadian positions, carrying troop rations, ammunition, water, mail and batteries for their walkie-talkies.

More than 175 Korean boys and men—high school and university students, farmers, merchants, the owner of a gold mine—serve as porters with the Patricia's. Conscripted or volunteers, they live in the battalion area, are on its ration strength and have served under fire to supply it.

Up in the hills, where the rifle companies have been for eight and nine days at a time, the "rice-burners" arrival is the daily event, the only contact with the world below and behind.

Six hours' painful plodding up steep, treacherous and often icy trails are needed to deliver the goods to some ridges. With loads varying from 75 to 100 pounds, fastened their backs with straw ropes, often woven that morning by their own hands from rice-straw fibres, they suffer and puff and sweat.

Up top, though, they stink of toil and sweat of garlic, they're "cigar-rolls" and gladly the word is flashed back to the main headquarters below: "riceburners have arrived."

A quick turn-around, with fuel water cans exchanged for empty, used batteries loaded in place of old, and the line winds back to savor the easier trek back down.

They laugh, they joke. They exude the happiness that springs only from work that is appreciated. Onto them has been radiated the thanks of fighting soldiers.

And they in turn love the Canadians. Explains Lieut. Yong-Jo Kim, 25 years old and a year ago a political science student at Seoul University:

"Canadians are a considerate. They treat our people well. They are human."

Proof is adduced by Pte. Masao Kawanai of Hamilton, the regiment's link with the "burners."

"Last time we went out to rest," he says, "we organized them all into leave parties and transported them back to their hometowns. When we went back to pick them up we had double loads: they'd all brought relatives and friends who wanted to work with the Canadians."

A force of 80 has become one of 175.

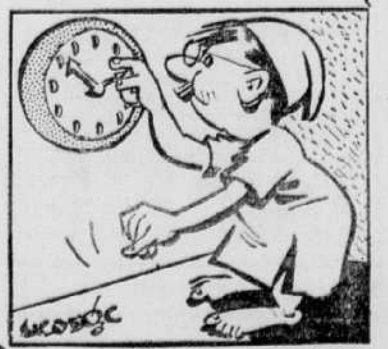

And it is guarded—by fellows like Ptes. Paul Boland of Toronto, Henry MacAnay of Saint John, N.B., Ted Fischer of Guelph, Ont., Jim O'Hara of Vancouver and Lee O'Connor of Alexandria, Ont.

But the guard is needed, not to keep the Koreans in their place, but to protect them from kidnappers.

life to equal that one? Another of Jesus' fundamentals for living is: "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die it abideth alone, but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit." Again Jesus suggests—"He which soweth sparingly shall reap sparingly; but he who soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully."

What a day is this for sowing! The earth has been plowed with bombs, harrowed by calamity, dominated by fears, defeatism, schism, communism and other isms. Unless good seed is sown without stint, the tares of hate and the nightshade of cynicism will possess the world. It is no time to draw in upon ourselves and take counsel of our fears. Instead, we must see to it that the Bible—the Word of God—which contains the seed of eternal life, shall reach others. Now you are also forthwith summoned to absorb Biblical precepts and apply them as you walk along the Road of Life. Isms cannot thrive where the Spirit of Christ is. Hitler knew that. Stalin, too.

The Church of God of which you are a member—the word church has a "U" you, at the middle of it—challenges you to speed the Word by beginning with yourself and allowing the seed to take root in your heart, bring forth the fruits of love. God wants you to forthwith enlist as a moral hero, that is one who chooses Ultimate Good in preference to immediate pleasures. Now is the time to speak, act and work like major Christians—sowing beside all waters (Is. 32:20) good seed.

So, upon the seed we invoke God's special benediction, praying that "Thou, O Father, wilt bless the labors of all who sow and plant in our fields, and grant such seasonable weather that they may gather, in due time, the kindly fruits of the earth, through Jesus Christ our only Mediator and Advocate. Amen.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

THINK BEFORE YOU GRAB

By OSWALD JACOBY

When you decide whether or not to take the discard pile there are four important points to consider:

1. The number of cards in the pile. This is the most important consideration. If the pile contains more than eight cards, it is almost invariably wise to take it. If the pile contains from five to eight cards, you have a very close decision to make. If the pile contains only four cards (or fewer), it is usually good play to refuse to take it.

2. The chance that your side will get the pile later on if you pass it up. If you are certain to get it eventually, you can afford to pass a pile of any size. If you have very little chance to get the pile later on, you must take even a small pile.

3. The value of the cards in the pile. Obviously, a pile that contains a card that gives you a canasta is more valuable than a pile that contains only odd unmeldable cards. You can pass up a worthless pile because the loss is small even if it gets away from you; but you don't take such risks with a really valuable pile.

Incidentally, you take no chances with a pile that contains cards that are very valuable to the opponents. It's just as important to stop the enemy as it is to make progress of your own.

4. Your method of taking the pile. If you can take the pile by adding the top card to one of your melds, you are saving all the cards in your hand for future use. If you take the pile by using two natural cards, you are using up some of your reserves. If you must use a wild card to take the discard pile (together with a natural card of course), you are using up a very valuable piece of property.

Q—How many wild cards are you allowed to discard into a frozen pack? Some of the local players allow only one wild card per person. Is there any such limit in the official rules?

A—There is no limit in the official rules. If it is your turn to play and you wish to discard a deuce or a joker, you may do so—regardless of how many wild cards have been discarded previously.

Local players who favor a different procedure are just laying out trouble for themselves. After all, what do they expect a player to do if he happens to hold nothing but wild cards in his hand?

Three Men Questioned In Knowlton District Slaying

Brutal Stabbing Of East Hill Farmer Is Investigated By Provincial Police; $1,000 Believed To Have Been Stolen

By GORDON HARMER
Knowlton, April 28. — Provincial police pursued their investigation today into the brutal slaying of Henri Bissonnette, 70, well-known and respected East Hill farmer, stabbed to death in his home on Thursday night in an attack for which robbery is believed to have been the motive.

Three men were detained for questioning, but police said no charges have been laid against them. Their ages range between 20 and 40 but police declined to reveal their names, say where they were arrested or where they were being held.

Last night, in the Knowlton town hall, Dr. Maurice Brouillette, Brome district coroner, presided at the coroner's inquest, opened solely for identification purposes. The inquest was adjourned indefinitely and the body was released for burial.

This was the story of the slaying as it was reconstructed by police who were on the job throughout yesterday, piecing together evidence from the meagre details that were available.

Bissonnette had lived on his 230-acre farm, three miles east of here, for the last 48 years, sharing his neatly-kept two-storey home with his brother Ernest, with Ernest's wife and with their son Napoleon, who is in his 30's.

Normally, Henri Bissonnette was accustomed to carry a fairly large amount of money on his person and on Thursday he was believed to have between $600 and $800, the receipts from the sale of his maple products.

In addition, there was about $300 in a steel cash box, kept in the bureau drawer in one of the rooms of the house.

On Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brouillette and Napoleon went out at about 7:30 to visit a neighbor, Clovis Laporte, who lives on another farm, about 1½ miles away.

They returned at about 9:30 p.m. and Ernest, first person in the house, found the body of his brother in a pool of blood. He had been stabbed three times, twice in the throat and once in the body. There was evidence of a terrific struggle in the kitchen, but the rest of the house, except the bureau drawer where the cash box was kept, appeared untouched.

The weapon, used to kill Bissonnette, was not found and no knives in the house were missing. Police said they believed, however, that a long-bladed knife had been used because one of the wounds went from the throat to the back of the neck and another passed almost through the body. The third wound was a slit from one side of the throat to the other.

Ernest Bissonnette called Dr. A. S. Douglass of Knowlton who, after coming to the house and confirming that Henri Bissonnette was dead, notified Major R. G. Spargo, E. D., police and fire chief of Cowansville.

Major Spargo, after preliminary investigation, turned the case over to the Provincial Police.

Robbery appeared to be the motive for the attack, Bissonnette was left with only a few cents in his pocket. The cash box with its $300 also was gone.

During the night the Provincial Police took over the case and yesterday there were six of them on the job. They were Detectives Paul Provost, Gaston Archambault, Ubaldo Legault and Merrill Lawton of the Montreal homicide squad, Roch Dandenault of Granby and traffic officer Rosario Bergeron.

Dr. Jean Marie Roussel, provincial medico-legal expert from Montreal, also came here and conducted an autopsy yesterday afternoon at Robb's funeral parlor where the body was brought from the house.

Dr. Roussel determined that

Miss Bradley Closes Shop Next Week

A Wellington Street landmark for the last 18 years, Miss Elizabeth Bradley's ladies wear store next door to the Record Office, will close its door for the last time early next week.

Miss Bradley, who opened her own store on Sept. 22, 1933, after having been with C. O. Saint Jean, Ltd., since 1921, is going out of business next week.

The Record's need for larger quarters, following the company's decision to enter the printing business on a small scale, has made it necessary for the Record to take back the space which it has rented to Miss Bradley since 1933.

"My years in business have brought many pleasant associations," Miss Bradley said on the eve of her retirement. She remarked that there were times when things were not too easy but, she said, she managed to carry on and she feels now that most of her customers are personal friends.

This friendly relationship with the many people who have come to her shop will be one of the things which Miss Bradley said she will miss most.

She expressed regret that she is obliged to give up her business but said that she does not feel like starting up elsewhere for the time being.

Miss Bradley paid tribute to the members of her loyal staff, particularly Miss Valerie Brunelle who has been with her since she opened the store in 1933.

Revenue, Expenditure Estimates Likely To Be Higher In City Budget

The 1951 budget of the City of Sherbrooke is expected to be adopted at the regular Council session on Tuesday evening. While the details are still held a close secret it is expected that the real estate tax and other taxes will remain unchanged, except for the recently inaugurated municipal sales tax.

On the basis of 1950 figures, revenues for the current year should approach $3,500,000. The 1950 revenues were $2,919,350.80 which will be supplemented by approximately $300,000 from the sales tax and further revenues from increased property valuation due to new building and by expanded receipts from the utilities services.

Increased expenditures caused by higher wages and material costs and heavier debt service charges are expected to eat up most of the increase with the result that the estimated surplus will be little if any higher than the $9,374 figure reported in 1950.

The cost of living bonus ranging from $2.40 weekly for female employees to $4.80 for male workers with dependents is expected to add about $150,000 alone to the annual operating costs.

Kevin Doherty To Be Heard In Oratorio

Well known in the Eastern Townships, having been heard here in recital in 1948, Kevin Doherty, of Montreal, will return as tenor soloist in the Oratorio "Elijah" to be presented at Trinity United Church on May 10.

Born in Saint John, New Brunswick, Kevin Doherty moved to Montreal as a young boy. In this city he sang as a boy soprano in St. Michael's Church and later commenced studying voice with the late Harold Eustace Key, Director of the former Mendelssohn Choir. The late Salvatore Issaurel became interested in his voice and further coaching began with this well-known Montreal teacher, especially in the French repertoire. About this time, Harry Norris, former Conductor of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, and presently Musical Director of the Lyric Operatic Society of Montreal, engaged the tenor for leading roles in the productions of Gilbert and Sullivan operettas.

During the war years and as a member of the Armed Forces, Kevin Doherty had vocal coaching through the kindness of the internationally famous organist, Fernando Germani, who effected and arranged lessons with Scolari, at that time head of the vocal department of the University of Rome. The Italian language was added to his experiences whilst in Italy, and even today he interests himself in the study and practice of the language. He sings Italian and French fluently.

On returning from overseas, he was engaged as leading tenor in St. Patrick's Church in Montreal, the principal Irish Catholic church of that city, where he has remained since. There began a period of engagements for various oratorio performances in Montreal. Mr. Doherty has appeared with the well-known Elgar Choir in its performances of Handel's "Messiah," Haydn's "The Seasons" and more recently in this Choir's presentation of Elgar's "The Dream of Gerontius."

In 1948 he appeared in recital in Sherbrooke for the Schubert Music Club, and has sung several times in Richmond. He has appeared as the leading tenor soloist in the "Elijah" under the auspices of the Casavant Society several times and recently at St. James United Church in this Oratorio as soloist and received noteworthy commendation.

Florence Easton, of former Metropolitan Opera fame, heard the tenor and a period of coaching followed with her after his return from overseas.

Appearing with Kevin Doherty as leading soloist are Harry

Four Sentenced In Local Sessions Court

The Court of Sessions here had a busy docket yesterday during which time sentences were handed out to two cigarette smugglers, two men were sentenced for having caused damage to a Cookshire hotel and a fifth man, accused of robbery, was ordered to appear at the next criminal assizes.

Judge Joseph Marier presided at the trials and sentenced the following:

George Brulotte, 46, of Sherbrooke to three months in jail or a fine of $500 and costs for having in his possession 25,000 American cigarettes on which the excise duty had not been paid. Brulotte pleaded guilty and this marked his fifth charge. Police also seized the truck he used to smuggle the cigarettes. The truck was valued at $1,500. Brulotte has one month in which to pay his fine.

Fernand Dupuis of Cookshire, also found guilty of smuggling cigarettes, was ordered to pay a fine of $100 and costs or spend two months in jail.

Florent Gosselin of Cookshire and Raymond Provost of Sherbrooke were each ordered to pay $10 and costs and $50 damages caused the Osgood Hotel in Cookshire. They were given a month in which to pay the fines and damages.

Raoul Hote, 21, of Sherbrooke, was ordered to stand trial at the next criminal assizes when he appeared in the court charged with robbing the Stanford Garage, Lennoxville, on the night of March 20.

SMART ALEC CAR DRIVERS

Recently, in an American city a smart-alec young driver found guilty of showing off his driving "skill" on a school playground was fined twenty-five dollars and had his driver's license cancelled for ninety days.

But, comments the Owen Sound Sun-Times, we do not imagine that the punishment would hit the youth nearly as hard as the comment made in open court by the officiating judge, "If you want to play tricks on wheels, get yourself a kiddy car."

Ridicule is perhaps as good a weapon as any against those who use cars as a medium for displaying their superlative driving ability. A fine is usually paid by their doting parents and thus has no punitive effect on the youthful offenders. Cancellation of their license is laughable off as a mere temporary inconvenience. But they do not like to be laughed at and shown up publicly as the stupid and dangerous little idiots they are.

The nineteen-year-old youth in this particular case visited a high school where he was an ex-pupil, picked up seven whooping juveniles in his jalopy and proceeded to put on a show of trick and fancy driving in the crowded school yard. The display included high-speed runs interspersed with zig-zags and terminating by a U-turn on two wheels.

We have no way to be sure, but it is a safe bet that this character wore his hat perched on the back of his head; and we will bet, too, that the windshield of his jalopy was liberally adorned with playthings such as toy dolls and little bird and animal figures. He would probably still be dangerous — even on a kiddy car.

EXPOSING THE "PEACE FRONT"

The Canadian Peace Congress has been around for too long, doing the work of a Communist front while presuming to represent the hopes of peace-loving people for a world free of aggression and war. This tool of Soviet policy has been exposed and denounced before, but never more effectively than External Affairs Minister Pearson did the job the other day.

The Peace Congress makes a dead set on the atom bomb, a policy which Mr. Pearson calls "cunning" because it is an obvious attempt "to sterilize the one great military asset held by the Western powers at a time when the Soviet Union and its friends and satellites have a great superiority in other types of military power."

The Peace Congress betrays its interest in the promotion of Soviet schemes, by its ready praise for Russian military expansion, while denouncing our moderate efforts as "arrant warmongering."

Mr. Pearson was being extremely charitable when he said some Peace Congress members "might not know" that it is the agent of a foreign aggressive imperialism. It is significant, however, that he used the conditional "might" which quite plainly expresses his doubts and the stiffening incredulity of other Canadians as well.

IN A NUTSHELL

Ernest Gross, U.S. representative at the United Nations, once scored a telling point about the UN's operations. He was commenting on the view of some diplomats that above all the thing is to keep Russia at the conference table, no matter how obstructive her behavior.

He disagreed. The important thing, he said, is that the aims of the UN be served. It is no gain merely to have a satisfactory mechanical arrangement — all members present — if that means nothing can be accomplished.

As everybody knows, the UN was at its best, really functioning as it was intended to, when the Soviet Union was absent. It has never been the same since.

There's food for thought in this for those nations which insist the vital question is that everybody be on hand, even if that fact alone assures that the purpose of the gathering will be defeated.

WASTEBASKET

The Canadian Daily Newspaper Association in Toronto has condemned the growing volume of publicity releases sent to newspapers from Federal Government departments. The Association has acted well.

Almost every day the mails bring to newspaper offices a flock of so-called "news releases" which as often as not contain everything but news. We find these "blurbs" a bit depressing because we are aware that the writer of the same, a Government publicity man, is paid by the taxpayers.

And we don't like throwing the taxpayer's money in the wastebasket. But that is exactly where the great percentage of such releases end up.

Unless, of course, they are published on fair quality paper on one side only in which case they may become scratch pads.

Press Comment

TOO MUCH POWER

Ottawa Journal

A curious and somewhat alarming piece of legislation has been put on the statute books of Manitoba—An Emergency Powers Act which the Winnipeg Tribune summarizes in these words:

"The Emergency Powers Act is by long odds the most drastic piece of legislation passed in the history of this province. In one swoop it nullifies almost all the civil rights of the people of Manitoba in times of emergency."

"Once an emergency has been proclaimed by the government, ordinary laws could be suspended and rule by decree set in. The government would have complete dictatorial powers and what is more would be able to delegate these powers to any number of bureaucrats and petty officials."

"The most distressing part of the legislation is the attempt to make it a law that is meant by an 'emergency' it is left completely to the discretion of the government to decide what constitutes an emergency."

The Tribune thinks such an act is something that might have come out of Argentina, that while it may never be used in Manitoba the legislation is there "ticking away like a time bomb" and ready to serve an unscrupulous or a terrified government.

This measure expires in May next year. Why it was thought necessary for even this limited period the Tribune does not explain; clearly it should be abandoned when its term expires. It is bad for governments to clothe themselves with too much authority—such powers are apt to go to their head.

DEFENCE PRODUCTION AND PATENT RIGHTS

The Windsor Daily Star

That patent problems have been removed, allowing local plants to start gearing up for production of war jeeps, is good news for Windsor workers. It suggests any curtailment of ordinary production may be offset by this new work.

That, we admit, is a selfish way of regarding the announcement by R. H. C. D. Howe. What is really important is that Canada will be able to produce war equipment which is needed, and which has been too long delayed. The paramount interests are national, rather than local.

The delay, of course, has been caused by the refusal of certain United States companies to part with patents which would enable production of these jeeps in Canada. Weeks of negotiations have been required to break down this road-block to production. Similar difficulties were encountered early in World War II, particularly in the securing of British patents.

This raises a question. Should governments not have the right to use in time of need such patents, where they are needed for preparedness programs? All the free countries are involved, and anything which holds up production in one weakens the strength of all.

If communists sabotaged plants to prevent the production of these jeeps, there would be an uproar across the continent, and rightly so. While jeeps are in production, strikes should impede the work, these also would be much condemned.

But an equal serious delay can be caused by the withholding of patents. Have any private interests, for their own selfish purposes, a moral right to prevent production by such tactics?

Defence of a nation, or of a group of nations, should be paramount over patent rights. Refusal to cede patents perhaps cannot be termed sabotage, in the ordinary sense, but it can have the same, or even more serious, consequences.

Canada's preparedness production, from the lessons taught in World War II, is being patterned on the United States style, rather than on the British. Governments of the two countries have agreed on the advisability of this. But agreements on the government level aren't much good if they can't be translated into practice on the industrial level.

This may require some departure from normal industrial ideas on patent and similar rights. But these ideas shouldn't be permitted to work in opposition to preparedness.

FLAGS IN THE RIGHT PLACE

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Two Canadians made reference to the Canadian and United States flags in addresses last week. One representing a tourist bureau deprecated the flying of the United States flag from roadside stands and tourist camps, and another representing the Department of Resources and Development, advocated flying the Canadian ensign on public buildings.

If operators of stands and camps think they are making a hit with American tourists they are greatly mistaken. The visitors know that the exhibition of a pocket-handkerchief sized American flag is not inspired by cordiality of feeling toward Americans, but is a childish bid for them to spend their money there instead of going to one where the Stars and Stripes is not flown. The display lacks sincerity.

On the other hand the American visitor likes to see the Canadian emblem flown from buildings where the occupants are not trying to sell them anything. It gives them the feeling that they are in another country, which is how they want to feel when they come here on a visit. If the United States flag confronts them everywhere they feel they have not left American soil. When they eat or sleep at a roadside stand or tourist camp they would get a bigger "kick" out of it if they saw the Canadian flag over their heads.

If a Canadian ensign is not available the Americans would get just as much "kick" if they saw the Union Jack. It would be a reminder to them, which many need, that this country is a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

VINTAGE 1951

Seeds

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

No! You haven't made a mistake. This is the space reserved for the Saturday Sermon. And the subject is Seeds!

You see, three days before Ascension Day, the Church of God directs our attention to intercessions on behalf of those engaged in the annual work of "seedtime." Of course those who live in rural areas need not be reminded of the importance of Seeds. They have spent many hours lately perhaps with the seed catalogue planning their garden. I suspect many of them then began planting in boxes in their kitchens, tomato plants. All of this is a far cry from pioneer days when Seeds were rare.

... "LIKE A SEED" ... Not thinking person will deny the importance of Seed. Through their ministry God has insured that life will go on in the universe. Now to describe a seed is difficult. One would need the pen of a poet to do so. John Oxenham somewhere described a seed as "a tiny shapeless thing, shrivelled and dry, and in the fulness of its time, is seen a form of peerless beauty, robed and crowned beyond the pride of any earthly queen, instinct with loveliness, and sweet and rare, a perfect emblem of its Maker's care."

Scientists tell us that the basic test for living matter is the ability to respond to environment in such a way as to maintain its form and to reproduce itself. All seeds, therefore, have purpose, pattern and power! Three P's! Of course, the practical farmer insists on obtaining and sowing good seed, that is, seed that is genuine, pure, bearing a good name, alive with power to grow. From only good seed comes good crops! That farmers know from experience.

Appropriate then is it that the Church should seek to direct our thought to intercessions on behalf of all who plant seeds. For they are thereby engaged in a great co-operative adventure with God and man as partners. Prayer precedes and accompanies work. Well do we know that man may sow the seed, cultivate the ground, but there will be no harvest until God gives the life force. God is the Giver of All. And it is to Him we turn, especially on the three Rogation days—days of prayer—before Ascension Day, May 3, and in a spirit of faith, hope and love, invoke His blessing on the labor of our hands.

Those who think God's thoughts after Him know that beyond the mystery which bounds life's scene, there is One who lives and reigns—Jesus—and the end is with Him. And it is this hope which Ascension Day brings annually to our attention that we need in a world where there is much to puzzle and distress us. Hope then is what the seed suggests!

Let us never forget that we are children of God, and Jesus Christ is the revelation of what we may and ought to be. God intends us for great and splendid things and we have it within us to achieve. Every child of God then is like a seed intended to replace and perpetuate the life of Christ in the world. So we are accordingly challenged to respond to the world about us in a way that we will cultivate God's life within us and bring to full growth the life God would have us live.

Towards the attainment of the stature of Christ, St. Francis of Assisi gives us good advice when he suggested "that we pray that where there is hatred, let us sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is discord, union; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; where there is sadness, joy." According to this then, faith, love and hope are the best seeds! Resolve to plant them today and thereby insure a safe harvest for yourself, for others, and for the glory of God. (Matt. 7:16). Pray to your Father in Heaven that He will permit His Holy Spirit to direct your thoughts today so that their harvest will glorify His Name. BEHOLD! THE HEAVENLY SOWER From the lips of the Master came, one day, one of the loveliest of all earthly stories with heavenly meanings—the Parable of the Sower! Won't you read it for yourself in St. Mark's Gospel, chapter 4? "Behold! the heavenly Sower goes forth with better seed, the word of sure salvation, with feet and hands that bleed; Here in His Church 'tis scattered, our spirits are the soil; they let an ample fruitage repay Christ's pain and toil!" It is up to us to see that we give the first fruits of our lives to Him Who giveth all.

THE DEAD—"ONLY SOWN" God expects that each one of us shall daily abound in the work of the Lord for soon will come that day when you and I will be lying each within his narrow bed in the cemetery—God's acre—God's garden. Within that hallowed acre, God sows yet other grain. Paul, you will remember, never speaks of the burial of the dead. He declares that the body is sown—"sown in corruption," "sown in weakness," "sown in dishonor," "sown a natural body." (1 Cor. 15:42-44). If I bury a bushel of wheat I never expect to see it again, but if I sow it, I expect results. So thank God our friends are not buried; they are only sown. Even now they ripen in sunny Paradise—that beautiful park or garden of the Lord with fields for ever white with souls that wear God's raiment with crowns of golden light.

UPON THE SEED.... Sowing good seed here and now in the morning of our life is, therefore, most important seeing that the chief end of man is to enjoy God and dwell with Him in Heaven forever. So goodness then with a generous hand! As I pen these words, I can visualize the sower going back and forth across the field many times sowing seed. And I can hear the Great Sower, Jesus, say: "So is the Kingdom of God, as if a man should cast seed in the ground." Is there any other statement of the law of

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY

TOURNAMENT BRIDGE IS RISKY SPORT

The difference between proper play at rubber bridge and proper play at tournament bridge is clearly shown in today's hand, taken from Seattle's recent Northwest Regional tournament.

Tom Myers, of Seattle, led the four of spades from the West hand, and Dan Lefebvre won with the ace. Lefebvre returned the eight of spades, declarer put in the nine, and Myers won with the ten. Declarer was now marked with the king and jack of spades, so Myers shifted to the ten of hearts.

Now declarer had a problem. He could surely win nine tricks by putting up the ace of hearts and knocking out the ace of diamonds. But if he made only nine tricks and all the other declarers made ten tricks by means of a successful heart finesse, his name would be mud, his score would be poor, and his face would be red.

At rubber bridge nothing would matter but the safety of the contract. At tournament bridge, South could not afford to give up the play for an overtrick. After some painful thought, therefore, declarer finessed the queen of hearts. This lost to the king of hearts, and back came another spade.

That was the end for poor South. He could run five clubs, one spade and two hearts—but he could not develop nine tricks without leading diamonds. The moment he led diamonds, of course, West could take the diamond ace and as many spades as he still had.

The Record Short Story

APRIL WITHOUT SHOWERS

By HOLLIS STARNES

"Pretending to love me—and plotting to ruin my life!" "Spoke like a true soap-op'ry queen!" Those were the words on the tip of chambermaid Katie Kilfeather's tongue, when teen-aged Andrea Deming burst into the veteran maid's tiny linen room, voice a-tremble. Often the flame-haired beauty, who had grown up in the shabby-genteel old Broadway theatrical hotel San Pedro, rehearsed her dramatic lessons before good-natured Katie. The baby and pet of the Dancing Demings all at the airport with fond farewell, Katie had argued with Vincent and Nancy Deming, "Give Andy a good stiff dose o' this muggy an' his snooty ma—an' watch her come racin' home, ready to call off the deal, before 'tis too late!"

But now it was April, and Andrea was still with the Seldens. What was worse, she'd just written her parents, with a frigid formality Katie blamed on the Seldens, that she and Burr had decided to be married on her birthday, from his house. She ended the letter, "Mrs. Selden has kindly offered to take charge of the wedding and reception—so you'll be saved all that trouble and expense. If you're working that week, we all understand, 'the show must go on'—and you won't be able to be with us."

Her father swore, her mother wept. But none of the Demings felt more wretched than Katie. "I got to get Andy home!" she thought desperately. The trip took less than three hours. "If I just could concoct some g-r-a-n-d scheme!"

But after a sleepless night, she had conceived not a single idea. Dragging herself wearily to work next morning, she found Vincent Deming, pale and distraught, pacing the hall. "The doctor's with Nancy," he said brokenly. "She passed out last night after the show. Her heart, the doc says. She's got to have rest. But she says she won't take it—when we just signed six weeks' solid booking, in the best spots we ever performed!"

In the past, when Nancy or Dot Deming was out of the act, Andrea had replaced them. The girl danced like an angel. An idea now came leaping and dancing into Katie's head. She said nothing to Vincent, she locked the door and put in a long distance call. "Now don't get scared, Andy," she began smoothly, "but I've brought your ma home a heart attack."

The girl's heart stuttered. "It's not—serious, Katie? She's—better this morning?" "The doc's with her now. Complete rest is his orders."

"Can I speak to her on the phone later? I don't dare call Dad. My last letter may have—upset him."

"Hurt 'em all pretty bad," Katie said. "That's what near killed your ma."

"Anguish now shook the young voice. 'I didn't mean to hurt anyone! Oh—what can I do?'"

Katie said briskly, "Just one way I can see to square yourself with your folks, if ye've any feelin's left for 'em. Ye know the trouper's motto—the show must go on. If your ma goes on now, in her condition—"

Andy got the point instantly. She broke in, "I'll get the next plane! Tell Daddy if he rehearses tonight, I'm going to—run away!"

"Where to?" the maid inquired calmly.

"To Burr! Since we can't have the wedding now, he'll stay home with his mother. So my being at his house will be perfectly proper. 'No doubt o' that,' Katie sniffed. Stiff-necked Selden would always be proper. But the Demings would be hurt to the heart if their spoiled pet ran away. 'I tell ye what, Andy—why not let his nibs' ma send ye a nice sassyette invite to visit her? Ten to one your folks would say yes to that. 'What do you mean, Katie?'"

Andrea paced the linen room floor, pondering this weighty issue.

This tall girl's job is to trek to lonely settlements on James Bay education.

She herself treats cases which aren't sufficiently serious to be removed to the big new Indian hospital here. A native of Campbelltinuous campaign to improve sani-

Fran is a field nurse for the job since the service was started 18 months ago.

Three times a week she is taken to the north end of the settlement by snowmobile. She works the rest of the way and back on foot, house spent in calls to patients requiring regular treatment.

There is one call that she makes every day — to the Indian resi-sleigh dogs, staked and chained

Hers was a lonely job till last

She takes her work calmly.
"The Indians are good people," she says. "All they need is a little help."

Activities of Legion Branches in the Eastern Townships

STANSTEAD FRONTIER BRANCH NO. 5

The regular meeting of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., Stanstead Frontier branch No. 5, took place Wednesday evening at the Rock Island armory with 25 members attending and three guests, Comrades Kay, Saunders, and Marshall, all of Sherbrooke.

Comrade L. B. Bliss was in the chair and officially opened the meeting for business.

Comrade Heron Hudson, chairman of the 25th branch anniversary, gave an outline of what is needed to make up the program and asked for volunteers to help in various ways.

It was reported the 3-act comedy to be presented in the Haskell Opera House on May 4 by the Legion and Legion Auxiliary, was progressing nicely and the comrades completed their final plans for the big night.

A resolution was read from the Way's Mills Women's Institute regarding the low type of some of the radio programs and asked the Legion to support them in a curtailment movement, as they feel they have a bad influence on the younger generation.

Comrade O. Quillinan of the recreation committee reported that the dart board was on hand and a tournament will be held in the near future. Comrade F. Stanton stated that a box of books has been forwarded to Ottawa for service men in Korea, and more will soon be sent along. Anyone having books who would be interested in donating them for this purpose is asked to leave them with Comrade Ted Middleton at the Stanstead Post Office.

Comrades George Mann, Charles Clark and F. Stanton were named on the refreshment committee for future meetings.

There was then an opportunity for discussion as to any criticism or any suggestions for the improvement of this branch but apparently everyone is satisfied with things as they are, for the discussion was not too lively and was soon followed by the adjournment motion.

A very interesting cribbage tournament commenced and will be finished at the next meeting to be held on May 30. Later refreshments were served by Comrades in charge.

SHERBROOKE BRANCH NO. 10

This might be my last contribution to the Log—the "Hart bowled down with grief and care" did such a good job last week that I think he should do it every week. And if you really do work on Sid, you know, you can talk him into most anything. "Comon now, Pres, old boy, let's you and me have a little talk."

The redecorating job (I nearly said, unkindly, "wrecking job") being done at the Memorial Home is still in operation, and should be completed by May 5th according to our new construction boss, Bob Daniels.

Our President lamented last week about the lack of helpers for the job. I don't think he really has much to be about, he's got more fellows working down there than any other President managed to scare up. You boys who have been on the "Slave Gang" deserve the thanks of the Branch for a first class job. I think we should turn you loose on the downstairs department now, it's getting a bit shabby.

Last Sunday a very creditable turnout of Legionnaires over 50 members attended the Battle of the Ypres Memorial service in the Salvation Army hall. Those who attended may well feel content that they paid tribute to fallen comrades of the past, who as the years go by are in danger of being forgotten, although at that time they brought great glory to the British Commonwealth and to Canada in particular. The parade was headed by the Legion Pipe Band, which as usual caused a minor sensation as it traversed the streets. The novelty and glamor of a Pipe Band never seems to wear off.

George Irving tells me that he sat beside Scotty Morrison and that Scotty's singing is practically sensational! We'll have to get Scotty to sing some of the "Auld Scots" songs my Mither used to sing some night. Can you sing "A wee bird cam' to our ba' door," Scotty?

Last week I enjoyed briefly the hospitality of the Quebec Branch at the Legion Home on Ste. Anne Street, and found the "Welcome" sign out just as it was two years ago.

On Monday (16th) a party of members of Branch No. 10 and Auxiliary attended a special meeting of the Cookshire Branch's Ladies Auxiliary and the Cookshire Branch. The occasion was Furniture—Last week we had just approached the subject of furniture when we stopped for the week. This week we will continue where we left off. Most dining room sets come in services for four, but tables can, with an extra board, sit six comfortably, and eight with a shoe-horn. However it can be done. Most sets are open stock, so that should you want two extra chairs, they can be obtained at a nominal value. Sets usually have a table, four chairs, and a hutch cabinet. Buffet can be purchased extra. Four is a little small but to the newly married couple it is adequate, and others can be added. Six is almost the ideal, and very seldom will you serve over six unless on a special occasion.

DINING ROOM

Maple sets are attractive and with care they can serve as a kitchen and guest set, depending upon the way your house is planned. There is one style that I would like to call to your attention. It has two benches and a chair. The benches run the length of the table one end of which rests against the wall. The other chair is placed at the other end. It is called a breakfast nook, and to the people who have a small apartment it is ideal. They of course can be had in all sorts of styles and fashions. But they do save room, and look tidy and neat. The seats are very comfortable and six can be seated by purchasing another chair. That is an every-day affair but can also be used as a dining room set. A plain buffet comes with it, and the set is styled Early American or Colonial. The table is quite long, and there is no fear of elbowing your neighbor. If, however you would like a little more elaborate set, these can be had also, without any difficulty.

In buying a piece of wooden furniture, feel the surface and should it feel ridgy and look dull, the chances are that a poor varnish was used and that it won't stand up very well.

The presentation of the framed Union Jack used by our late Comrade, the Rev. Canon Buckland, in the first war. Our president and immediate past president spoke briefly on making the presentation, and the flag was accepted on behalf of the Cookshire Branch by Comrade Archie Buckland. The meeting was very capably run by President Mme. Desrosiers, on the Cookshire Ladies' Auxiliary, and there is no doubt but what these ladies could show us a thing or two on how to conduct meetings with dignity and dispatch. Your Uncle Kelly, properly decked out for the occasion, played briefly and brokenly on the Bagpipes. Our secretary, Harvey Jones, put a special hand of Welsh "Evil Eye" on the Pipes before I got up to play and it really worked! Drones would stop suddenly, I forgot parts of tunes, and the doublings just wouldn't come out right! Anybody wishing to have the services of Jones' Evil Eye can apply directly to him. I don't know what his rates are. However much or however little, results are guaranteed!

Our president wishes to thank all who turned out for church parade last Sunday. Such co-operation is very heartening.

Needed badly by our Branch; some sort of headgear of one pattern. (It's just a thought, Sid, you don't need to do anything about it right off!)

KILROY

CANADIAN LEGION PIPE BAND NOTES

Highlight of the recent activities of the Pipe Band was undoubtedly the "Ceilidh" (party to you) held on April 14. It was originally intended to have Pipe Major S. MacKinnon of Montreal as our guest of honor, but unfortunately for this plan the date of the party had to be advanced a week and P. M. MacKinnon had made other commitments for that night. However, he is anxious to come to Sherbrooke and meet the gang, and we are anxious to hear him play, so the outcome of it all will probably be that we will throw a special party in the not too distant future.

While our crowd was somewhat smaller than usual on the 14th, we really had a good time. Fred Cole of Magog called the square dances, and had everybody doing the right thing in the right way at the right time—no mean feat, you will all agree. Thanks a lot, Fred.

Sensation of the evening was the appearance of Old Bach. McLean with a charming young lady frae the hand of the Heather.

All in all, it was a particularly good party, so let's have another. The Pipe Band came out of its winter quarters last Sunday and headed the Legion on Church Parade. Huntley Gordon took over the bass drum, rather reluctantly—not having had much to do with it, and turned in a sterling performance. So much so that he is now Mr. Thoomp! Thoomp! himself, which solves a problem for us. Despite the cold breezes which blew like breezes around their knees the Band put on a pretty good show for their first outdoor appearance in 1951.

Two more engagements have been booked for the Band, and with those already contracted for it looks like a busy summer for the boys. Engagements mean money, and money means full

Games With Mallet and Ball

BY I. R. HECEL

CROQUET is a good game but every player likes variety, even in his favorite recreation. Here are games that are not croquet but that can be played with parts from a croquet set.

HOLE-IN-SIX is played by four, players, four mallets and four balls. Take six boxes of different sizes and cut the bottoms out. Line the boxes in a row and number them according to size, the smallest one, one, then two, three, four, five and six.

It makes for more exciting playing if you put the smallest box "one" in the middle, the largest boxes on either side of "one" and the medium boxes on each end of the row. One counts 30, two counts 25, three counts 20, four counts 15, five counts 10, six counts 5. Players play in turn at 25-foot distance, aiming for the smallest box and driving their balls through. Scores are kept and the highest scorer is the winner.

STICK CROQUET requires four players, four mallets, eight sticks. Players stand in square formation, two sticks to the right and left of every player. The one ball from the set is used and is aimed at the sticks unless a player can drive it away and on to the next player. Every time a player has one of his two sticks knocked down, he loses 10 points. When a player loses 50 points, he drops out of the game.

HANDICAP CROQUET is a game where, instead of placing wire arches and stakes in their accustomed places, handicaps are put. One-two handicap: length of pipe wide enough for a croquet ball to pass through, 3 handicap: inverted box; 4 handicap: rope barrier stretched five inches above the ground; 5-6 handicap: two large stones placed just close enough to permit passing of croquet ball; 7 barrier: sunken coffee can; 8 barrier: parallel row of sticks; 9 barrier: all the wire arches placed tunnel-fashion and at a slant.

Players strike their balls through the pipe; over the box; under the rope barrier; into the coffee can; lift the ball out, then through the row of sticks and through the final tunnel to the goal.

Musically Speaking

By MARGARET DOHERTY

The Community Concert Association has had an active campaign during the past week and last reports available indicated that subscribers can look forward to a most successful musical season.

First concert, on September 25, will feature Eleanor Steber, young soprano of the Metropolitan Opera who has become famous for her beauty as well as her fine singing.

The Leslie Bell singers appear at Bishop's University tomorrow afternoon and in the evening a former Bishop's student, O. H. Seveigny, will be guest pianist at the Thorndike Mines, with the Quebec Symphony. We understand there are no more seats available for either event.

Eleven-year-old Pierrette le Page, of Ottawa, likes dolls, but mention of Chopin brings on the smiles. The diminutive miss, who tips the scales at 60 pounds, played the piano well enough to win a silver trophy at Ottawa's recent music festival. Most of her fellow competitors were in their early or middle teens. But she was way ahead of them and her playing of the first movement of Mozart's D Minor concerto was enough for the adjudicator to call her a "child prodigy."

Pierrette's family has recently moved to Ottawa from Quebec and the young pianist makes the trip back to Quebec every two weeks or so for music lessons. She is studying at Laval University and expects to take a degree in music next year.

Harry Long conducts the Harmonie de Sherbrooke in its annual public concert scheduled for the Granada, Tuesday, May 1.

The Youth Festival will be held on an even larger scale this year than in the past and much interest is being shown in the new sections of drama and fine arts.

Thomas Archer, Gazette critic, is to be one of the adjudicators and Patsy Parr, 13-year-old pianist, will be guest soloist at the grand concert on May 24.

Final concert of the season for the Sherbrooke Symphony will have Nell Chotem as soloist. The date, Tuesday, May 8.

If you have not already done so, why not reserve May 10 for Elijah to be presented by Trinity Church Choir, with Harry Maude, Maureen Forrester, Kevin Doherty, of Montreal, and Jean Seorthy, of Sherbrooke, as soloists.

Highland dress for all the Band, so book 'em up, Mr. Manager!

While in Quebec last week I visited Piper William Innes, who for many years now has been the lone Piper in that city. He was kind enough to loan me some books with some very good tunes in them. One book is quite ancient, and it is interesting to note the old names of tunes that we know by other titles. For instance, "My Home" is called "John Bain's Sister's Wedding," rather a cumbersome title.

Bill Sawyer is going to chain his drum to his person in future, as during the march last Sunday, and just where the spectators were thickest, his drum fell to the ground with a loud crash! We heard the crash, but not what Bill said!

School News

SHERBROOKE HIGH SCHOOL

At the William Street Armory Friday, April 20, the Sherbrooke High School Sr. Boys Basketball team met that of Richmond High School in the second game of a two-game total point series.

In the first quarter play was fast and Sherbrooke soon broke into a five point lead. Richmond then encountered with a basket followed by a basket by Sherbrooke which brought the score to 6-2 in favour of S.H.S. Richmond then sparked again with two more quick baskets followed by two more by S.H.S. At the end of the first quarter the score stood at 11-6 for S.H.S.

In the second quarter the two teams came through with six points apiece which ended this quarter with Sherbrooke ahead by the score of 18-12.

In the third quarter both teams showed great determination to win the game but Sherbrooke proved to have a slight edge as they encountered 12 points to the 11 of Richmond's. This quarter ended with Sherbrooke on top by the score of 30-21.

The last quarter opened with Richmond scoring the first basket and showing more determination than ever to overtake the Sherbrooke squad. Despite the speed and alertness of the Richmond team the local boys managed to keep their lead and finish on top as they did in Richmond. The final score of the game was 41-30 in favour of the local squad.

The Richmond team showed good team spirit and great sportsmanship even though they entered the game with a handicap of six. We wish to extend our sincere thanks to the Richmond boys for the competition which they have given us this year and we wish them better luck next year.

The line-ups were as follows: Sherbrooke — B. Norris 4; G. Crosby 2; G. Smith 6; D. Griffin 3; E. Elkas 5; J. Gassman 5; P. Chute 4; R. Connor 3; F. McMurray 9.

Richmond — A. Smith 8 N. Alard 5; D. Crook 2; D. Stone 3; C. Gunter 7; D. Force 3; Spence 0; D. Gunter 2.

Referees — Stanley Brabbin, Ronald Jenne.

GIRLS' GAME

In the final game played at the local High School on Friday night, the girls from Richmond defeated the Sherbrooke High team by the score of 12-10.

In the first quarter play was slow and both teams played defensive ball. At the end of the quarter the score was tied 1-1.

At the opening of the second quarter play was faster and Richmond seemed to have a slight edge by scoring the only basket in the quarter. At half-time the score stood at 3-1 for Richmond.

In the third quarter both teams began to play wide open basketball although neither one could seem to register any points. Reid finally opened the scoring for Sherbrooke and then Cunningham got two foul shots for Richmond. At the end of the quarter Richmond was still ahead by the score of 5-3.

From the time the whistle blew to open the final quarter Sherbrooke tried to regain the two points by which they were trailing but were unsuccessful. When the final whistle blew Richmond was still on top by the score of 12-10.

Although this was a tough battle to lose and a great victory for the winners we wish to congratulate the Richmond girls for their great competition and good sportsmanship which they displayed throughout this season and we hope to compete with them next year. We should also at this time like to express our sincere appreciation to Miss Rita Berube who so capably coached the local team.

The line-ups were as follows: Sherbrooke — D. Reid 3; M. Graham 3; S. O'Brien 2; A. Harndind 2; C. Trussler 0; C. Watt 0; S. Hume 0; S. Batrie 0; A. Sav. age 0.

Richmond — B. Johnson 4; S. Robinson 2; J. Coles 0; J. Cunningham 4; V. Brock 2; S. Hebert 0; P. Pearson 0; B. Ross 0; J. Hannan 0; A. Pope 0; G. Ewing 0.

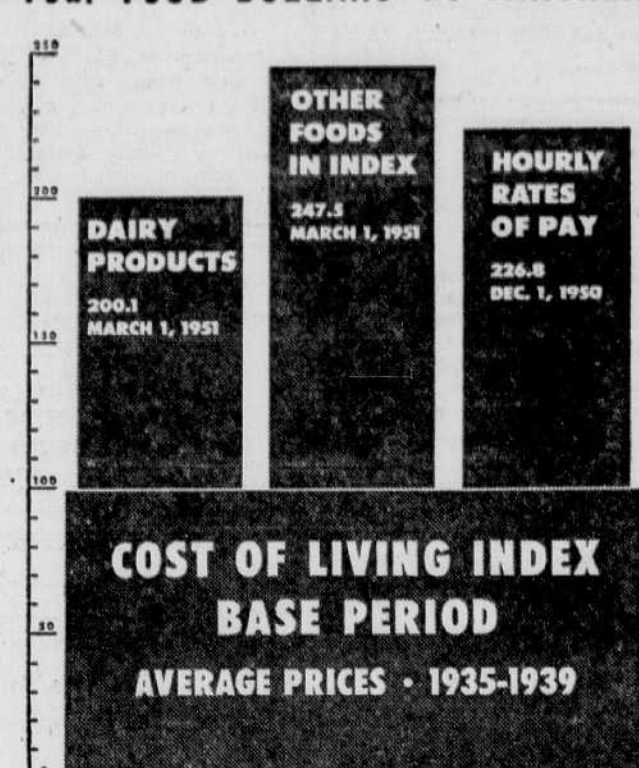

Referees: Stanley Brabbin, Ronald Jenne.

DAIRY PRODUCTS MAKE Your FOOD DOLLARS GO FARTHER

Every housewife these days is fighting the "battle of the home budget". She is quite aware that food costs have soared, and was not surprised when the Cost of Living Index at March 1st, last showed food at 244.4 compared with 100 for the base period of 1935-39.

The Dairy Farmers of Canada, faced with rising costs like everyone else, are pleased to draw attention to the fact that Dairy Products in the same index stood at 200.1 while other foods in the index were 247.5. The price of Dairy Products is not at all out of line with other items in the Cost of Living Index, nor with wages in industry. While milk, butter and cheese stand at 200.1, clothing stands at 196.6 and home furnishings at 199.3. Wages based on hourly rates of pay in Canada stood at 226.8 as of Dec. 1, 1950, according to Department of Labour Statistics.

By using more of Nature's Fine Foods—Dairy Foods—the housewife can serve wholesome, nutritious meals and make her food dollar go farther.

MARRIAGES

LUCE—SHADBOLT

St. George's Church, Lennoxville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening, March 24, at seven o'clock, when Irene Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Shadbolt, of Huntingville, Que., became the bride of Donald Luce, twin son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Luce, of Moe's River, Que., the Ven. Archdeacon A. Jones officiating.

Mrs. Albert Jones played the wedding music, and Easter flowers adorned the altar.
The bride was given in marriage by her father, Miss Alice Adsit, of Sherbrooke, attended the bride, and Mr. Douglas Luce was best man for his brother.
The bride wore a medium blue gingham two-piece suit with pink and navy blue accessories and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception of fifty guests, was held in the Huntingville Community Hall, where Easter colors were used as decoration. The bride's table was covered with a white damask cloth and centered with a three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's mother. During the evening dancing was enjoyed.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Luce left for East Clifton and other points. Upon their return they took up residence in Huntingville.

Out-of-town guests were from Moe's River, Sherbrooke, Coaticook, East Clifton, Richmond, Lennoxville and Milby.

SMART SUIT DRESS

No children have ever had such scientific care given to their health, nor had their psychology so studied, and if we oldsters sometimes think that their mothers are bringing them up a little too much by the book and not enough by the heart, why, they are erring on virtue's side.
What my correspondent says about Grandmother becoming as extinct as the dodo is, alas, only too true. The woman who won't let her grandchildren call her "Granny" because it dates her misses one of the sweetest relationships in life.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married several years and have three fine children. The other day my wife told me about her having had love affairs with different men before we were married and the shock of finding out that she was not a good girl is driving me crazy. I can't get the thought out of my mind. What must I do? Don't tell me to forget it, for I can't.

ANSWER: Of course you can't forget it. That kind of revelation burns itself into the soul. But if you can't forget it, perhaps you can find it in your heart to forgive your wife if she has gone straight since you were married.

Many wives have a worse thing to forgive their husbands than you have to forgive your wife, for whatever wrong your wife did was committed in the past before she knew you, whereas their husbands' sins against them are in the present. Also, often a woman who has been loose in her morals before marriage becomes a Puritan after marriage. She has found out that the primrose path had more thorns than roses, and that the only happiness for a woman is in being faithful to one man and in leading a clean and decent life.

But how cowardly the woman is who seeks to ease her own sense of guilt by confessing to her husband after marriage the sins of her girlhood. The time for a woman with a past to tell of it before marriage if she ever tells at all. That gives the man a chance to take her or leave her. If she keeps silence then, she should forever hold her peace.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 18 and go with a boy 26. He drinks, gambles, and goes with married women. He never keeps his dates with me. He doesn't have any respect for me and is always swearing. I have been going with him nine months and the only place he takes me is to the movies. Would you say he is going with me? Would you advise me to keep going with him or quit?

ANSWER: I would say that you are going out of your way to store up trouble for yourself. You certainly have taken up with a worthless man, and the sooner you drop him entirely and try to get yourself a nice beau, the better. If he has no respect for you now, he never will have.

Young Mother's Complaint

Says Busy Modern Grandma Has No Time For Children

DEAR MISS DIX: I am fed up with hearing the modern mother pushed around and generally lambasted. I am a young mother with several lively children and I can testify that I, and all the young mothers I know, work themselves into nervous exhaustion trying to raise their children, keep beautiful, have an attractive home, keep up social life of sorts, and so on. Believe me, the modern mother gets no help from the modern grandmother. Grandmother goes out more than anybody else; is always studying or writing a speech and doesn't want the children around. They "bother" her. Why, she won't even let the children call her Grandmother, and she would throw a fit if one of them called her Granny. The other day my youngest asked me: "Mamma, why is it that we haven't any Grandma or Grandpa? All the other children at school have them." And I replied: "Why Honey, To is your grandmother and Bobo is your grandfather." Well, it was news to him.

WORN-OUT YOUNG MA
ANSWER: Raising a child is like carrying an umbrella or making a fire. The onlookers always think they could do it better than the one who is doing it. But you are mistaken if you think that the young mothers of today are getting an undue amount of criticism. Most of us think they are doing a grand job; a far better one than their mothers did.

THEY'RE BETTER TAUGHT
The modern young mother tries just as hard to be a good mother as all the generations of mothers who have gone before her, for there have been mighty few women who haven't been willing to work and sacrifice for their children. The mother of today has this advantage; she is better taught and can give more intelligent care to the rearing of her children.

No children have ever had such scientific care given to their health, nor had their psychology so studied, and if we oldsters sometimes think that their mothers are bringing them up a little too much by the book and not enough by the heart, why, they are erring on virtue's side.

ROYAL WEDDING IN NANCY FRANCE
Excites Everybody But Royal Couple

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
Nancy, France. — (NEA) — Everybody here is excited about a royal wedding scheduled for May 10. But all the happy couple are Prince Othon of Hapsburg and Princess Regina of Saxe-Meiningen are thinking about where they can find an apartment.

"The only thing that worries me a little," says the tall, blonde princess, "is that up to now we haven't managed to find an apartment. You don't happen to know of one, do you?"

It has to be in Paris, and fit for a prince and princess. Otherwise, they'll listen to all offers.

The wedding will be as royal as can be, in these unroyal times. At least 150 royal personages will be present. Some of these have had to walk on their royal feet from their homes in Austria and Hungary. There is to be a grand reception, a state ball and other royal goings-on.

For two days after the wedding, the prince and princess will live like fairy tale princes and princesses do. Then they'll come down to earth, which won't be hard because, despite their titles, both are level-headed young people. They cherish the past, but don't believe in living in it.

Othon met Regina during a tour of displaced persons camps, where she was a social worker. He knew all about her social background, of course, but hadn't seen her since their childhood days. They fell in love and, since there were no state reasons barring a marriage, there will be a happy ending.

The prince is the intellectual type. He speaks English, French, Hungarian, Spanish and Portuguese fluently. Regina's native tongue is German, and Othon has enough German to converse with his fiancée.

Besides languages, he is a student of world affairs, politics and history. Next fall, he will make his fifth lecture tour of the U. S.

Change Trimming On Spring Suits To Cut Expenses

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London. — For many British women, the steady rise in prices means no new suit this spring.

This, however, does not dismay the fashion-conscious. Close study of up-to-date couture styles and fashion hints shows that last year's "tapered" look is not far removed from this year's "drain-pipe" styles.

In fact, clever fingers, pretty buttons and contrast materials soon give an up-to-the-minute look to any of last year's straight-skirted suits and dresses.

Spring styles recently displayed in both London and Paris show many innovations that are easily copied. These are often individual to the designer concerned and are as distinctive as a signature.

Take for instance four button-tops folding backwards from a long V neckline and threaded with a fringed scarf-tie. This design is by Charles Creed. Two oblique "tongue" tabs buttoned across the front of a dress and threaded by a long scarf attachment that flies freely from the belt downward show the touch of Jacques Fath.

Peter Russell uses squared button-tops to nip in the waist of a classic suit. Dior gives button-tops broad pockets to a plain little bolero, while Jacques Fath uses a similar line to gather the bodice and hip fullness of a strapless evening gown.

Hardy Amies decorates a tweed suit with neat tab epaulettes at the sleeve top and Creed slashes a wide raglan cuff, turns it back in a deep sleeve and decorates the sleeve—not the cuff—with one outside button. This gives a new length to the sleeve. It is neither full length nor three-quarters, but roughly seven-eighths.

One of the easiest renovations is the waistcoat look. This gives a clean freshness to dark suits and is easily achieved by a yard of white pique and a little patience.

Take any dark classic suit, turn back the jacket flaps and outline with white, elongate the lapels where possible and edge with white, add a white waistcoat blouse or insert and you have the Paquin look. Smartness is heightened by attractive buttons, cunningly-placed at jacket waist and on the flaps and waistcoat.

Many London women are already adding white to black and navy suits. Combined with a dark hat decorated in white, white gloves, dark shoes and handbag, this promises to be the most popular choice of the season.

For dark dresses there are many chic little adornments that give both individuality and femininity. To a plain black dress with scooped-out neckline a small vestee of tiny parma violets lends charm to the neckline. If accessories are also in black, a Parisian look is given by a wide hat dressed in parma violets combined with violet-colored gloves and severely plain black bag and shoes.

ROYAL WEDDING IN NANCY FRANCE

PRINCESS REGINA AND PRINCE OTHON: Their worry — an apartment

"I believe I have visited and lectured in every state in the union," he says. "I have also been to Central and South America, China, North Africa and every country this side of the Iron Curtain."

Marrying the ex-heir to the throne of Austria has not excited her as much as it has excited the people of Nancy.

"But," she says, with a shy smile, "there was, of course, an incredible amount of details to attend to besides the ordinary ones of getting a trousseau and being fitted for my wedding gown."

KNOWLTON

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, took place at the home of Mrs. J. R. Armstrong, with the president, Mrs. E. H. Gray, presiding. The theme of the meeting was "Re-cruiting for Full-Time Service in the Church." The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. M. Ransom, and approved. Mrs. Gray gave the treasurer's report in the absence of Mrs. Earl Mizener. Mrs. R. McCutcheon collected reading points and books were distributed. Mrs. Ian W. Crandall, supply secretary, reported on the box recently sent to the Canadian North West and stated that another box would be sent in July and asked for donations of good used clothing and suitable Christmas gifts. Arrangements were completed for the W.M.S. Presbyterial, taking place here on May 2 and 3. Miss Lucia Knowlton, who is in charge of billeting, took names of members who would entertain guests at that time. Mrs. E. H. Gray gave a very interesting paper on the hospitals, colleges, schools and homes being sponsored by the W.M.S. in Canada. This paper was most enlightening as few members realize the work being done by the W.M.S. here in Canada. The worship service was conducted by the president. Tea was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Assembly taking place in Sherbrooke, in May, was read. $10 were voted to the Red Cross Campaign. Sister Nellie Armstrong, P.N.G., was appointed as delegate to accompany Sister Oda Tuxen, P.N.G., to the Assembly and Sister Jessie Stone was appointed as alternate. A pleasant feature of the meeting was the presentation of a gift to Sister Nellie d'Artois and Brother Lionel d'Artois, who are leaving Knowlton to make their home in Montreal. Sister Florence Sanborn, P.N.G., made the presentation. A similar gift has also been sent to Sister Doreen Inglis, who has gone to Granby, to reside. Lodge was brought to a close in ritual form, after which, refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Cheerio Mission Band met in the church parlour, under the supervision of Mrs. E. H. Gray and Mrs. L. H. Raymes. Mrs. Gray explained to the children that the Easter Thank-Offering was being used for school supplies for Japanese kindergarten, and stated that $4,000 was the Mission Band objective for this purpose. A chapter in the Study Book "Tosho and Tasma" was taken up by Mrs. Raymes and Mrs. Gray told an interesting story on Mrs. Beulah Bourne, a missionary, who was stationed in Korea for some time and is now in Japan. The worship service was taken up and included prayers for the Mission Band Prayer Partners. The meeting closed with the Mission Band purpose and prayer.

The executive of the Brome County Women's Christian Temperance Union met at the home of Mrs. H. L. Hastings, one Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. F. Knights, county president, was in the chair. The date of the convention was set for May 18, at Sutton. Plans for the program of the convention were arranged.

Granby Citizens Held Impressive Ceremony At Memorial Bridge In Honor Of Victims Of April 21, 1869

Granby, April 28 — A short, but impressive ceremony was held on the Memorial Bridge, on Saturday morning, April 21. This was in memory of the eleven persons who lost their lives in what was the greatest tragedy in the history of Granby, the collapse of the bridge, on April 21, 1869.

The ceremony was arranged by Mr. A. A. Dorion, president of the Granby Historical Society, and was attended by a numerous gathering of citizens, including Mayor P. H. Bolvin, Marcel Bolvin, M.P., W. H. Miner, who is a nephew of the Mrs. A. H. C. Miner, who was drowned and Mr. W. A. Vittie, the only person present at the ceremony, who was living at the time of the disaster.

To Mr. Vittie, was rightly accorded the honor of casting to the river, a beautiful spray of flowers, in loving memory of the victims of the tragedy.

In a short address, Mayor Bolvin congratulated Mr. Dorion and the Historical Society in thus keeping alive the memory of those Granby citizens of earlier days, who had lost their lives in such a tragic manner.

Those who lost their lives in the bridge disaster are as follows: Mrs. S. Henderson, C. Miner and her daughter, Cora, Mrs. Eliza Benjamin Sargent, the mother of Mrs. S. H. C. Miner; Mrs. Zephaniah

Harvey, Miss Sarah Harvey, Mrs. John Bradford and her two children, Minnie Bradford and Charles Arthur Bradford, Councillor Edward B. Gilmour and his son, Edward Harvey, Mr. Patrick Hackett. Another lady, Victor Rousseau, also went down with the bridge, but was near the end and through the quick action of another young man, William Harvey, young Rousseau was dragged to safety.

Mr. Patrick Hackett was the first mayor of the village of Granby. He was also the first Warden of the first Roman Catholic parish, which was organized in 1842.

The bridge which collapsed in April of 1869, was replaced by a new one, built during the summer of that year. The contractor was Mr. Benjamin Wetherbee and the contract price was $1,500.

The present Memorial Bridge was constructed in 1925.

Obituaries

JAMES HENRY HOBBS

Entered into rest at Sherbrooke on April 11th, James Henry Hobbs, in his eighty-first year.

Born in Dawlish, Devonshire, England, on March 13, 1871, Mr. Hobbs came to Canada 30 years ago with his wife and took up residence in the County of Kent, later moving to Sherbrooke where he was employed at Canadian Ingersoll-Rand and Canadian Brakeshoe Co. Since his retirement he lived with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hobbs of Asbestos, who tenderly cared for him in his failing health.

Funeral service was held in St. Peter's Church and was conducted by Canon Russell Brown. Hymns sung were "Abide With Me," and "For all the Saints who from their labors rest."

Interment was made in Elmwood Cemetery beside his wife who predeceased him in 1942.

Beautiful floral tributes covered the casket.

The survivors were his six sons, William, Thomas, Frederick, Elvira, Mildred and Phyllis, six daughters-in-law, three sons-in-law, sixteen grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

MRS. BENTON A. GILBERT, OF BISHOPTON, QUE.

Bishopton, April 28. — In the early morning of April 12, 1951, there passed away at her home in Bishopton, Que., one of its older and most respected residents in the person of Maria Annie Jenkinson, wife of Benton A. Gilbert.

Born July 8, 1869, the second daughter of William Jenkinson and his wife, Sally Bishop, her early home was the old Jenkinson farm, Dudsell Centre. Since her marriage in 1890 she had lived at Bishopton, nearly all her life in the house in which she died.

Her family consisted of one sister, Ophene (Mrs. Randall Gilbert) and four brothers, Benjamin, Arthur, Edward and Orson, all deceased.

The two daughters of her marriage are Lulu (Mrs. Leslie Shore) and Muriel (Mrs. Clark Powers). There is one granddaughter, Thea (Mrs. Guy V. Beaudry) and two great-granddaughters, Camille and Nikki Beaudry. These, together with her aged husband mourn the loss of a devoted wife, mother and grandmother.

Mrs. Gilbert was deeply interested in her home, but she gave all possible time and energy to her church, The Church of the Good Shepherd. In fact she carried on this work to her Guild when her strength was greatly failing her, having been a member of that organization since her early married life.

The funeral was held from her late residence on April 14. The house was filled with friends and neighbours and the floral offerings were many and beautiful. The brief service was ably conducted by the Rev. G. Robins. The bearers were Ernest Jenkinson, nephew; Ivan Jenkinson, nephew; Harold Jenkinson, nephew; Curtis Jenkinson, cousin; Carl Leonard, nephew and Clark Powers, son-in-law. She was laid to rest in the family lot at Lakeside Cemetery.

Through her long life, she has ever been a kind friend and neighbour and will be greatly missed not only by her family, but by her many friends as well.

West Shefford

Sheffordians were deeply shocked on Monday, April 23 when they heard that at 4 a. m. fire had destroyed the barn of John Ledue near Gale Pond. This is a tremendous loss involving most of his dairy cattle, 2 horses, over 40 pigs, plus hay, oats and equipment etc., for which there is but little insurance. The cause of the fire, is as yet, undetermined.

Deeply stirred, collectors began canvassing for funds to help one who is so ready to help others. John Ledue's courage, stamina, tremendous capacity, to work intelligently, will stand him in good stead in this black hour but he'll stand again, facing the future with hope and faith. Those who have camped near Gale Pond in the summer time, will remember the many kindnesses of Mr. and Mrs. Ledue and their eight children. They have their sympathy.

This party provided Mrs. Enright's sister, Mrs. Leslie Durrell, of Foster, an opportunity to renew acquaintances and her presence added considerably to the enjoyment of the occasion.

ATHLETICS READY FOR NEW ENGLAND HOBOES TOMORROW

Locals Hold Workout This Afternoon In Preparation For Tilt With Hoboes; Garcia, Pascual And Rhodes Missing

"EVERYONE MUST SEE ONE IN 1951"

The 1951 baseball season will unofficially open here tomorrow afternoon when New England Hoboes will meet the Sherbrooke Athletics at the Park Avenue Stadium in an exhibition game at 2:30.

The Hoboes, who were voted last year the top road team in baseball by a special poll, will tangle with the Athletics in what should be a real tussle. The visiting team is comprised of several former leaguers and is recognized as the top travelling club of the year.

The locals will use the game also as a tester for some of their springing personnel and no doubt Manager Gladu will send as many men as possible into the fray. The Athletics have been drilling all week, when the weather permitted it, and figure they will give the Hoboes a real game.

Manager Gladu has not named his starting lineup, as yet, as he is still waiting to hear from Silvio Garcia and his first string catcher, Laura Pascual. These two players are supposed to report in today, and if not, then their position will be filled by some of the boys already on hand.

Business Manager Amedee Roy reported late yesterday afternoon that Nick Malfara's contract was sold to the Danville club of the Carolina League and he left town yesterday to report to his new club.

Two New Records Made In Penn Relays Opener

Philadelphia, April 28. — (AP) — Army's star two-miler, Dick Shea, and Seton Hall's broad jump star, Andy Stanfield, set the 67th Penn Relays off on a record-breaking note yesterday at Franklin Field.

Shea unleashed a tremendous burst of power on the final lap to win the two-mile in nine minutes, 11.9 seconds, eclipsing the 9:12.2 mark set by Greg Rice of Notre Dame in 1944.

Stanfield erased the broad jump record by leaping 25 feet 4 1/2 inches in trials for today's finals.

That was one-quarter of an inch farther than Edward Hamm of Georgia Tech jumped in 1930 to establish the old mark.

Jake LaMotta Concedes Title Bout To Sugar Ray

New York, April 28. — (AP) — Jake LaMotta yesterday conceded he can't beat middleweight champion Ray Robinson at 160 pounds.

The Bronx Bull threw in the towel as a middleweight and released Sugar Ray from a contract for a return bout this June.

From now on, Jake will campaign as a light-heavyweight. He wants a shot at light-heavyweight champion Joey Maxim's crown.

Not that Jake doesn't think he can whip Robinson. The 29-year-old punch-catcher said he'd like to meet Robinson in a non-title fight at 165 pounds.

"At that weight, I know I can beat him," LaMotta told Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club. "Trying to get my weight down to 160 pounds would weaken me and I wouldn't be able to box at my best."

Two Roommates Meet In North-South Final

Pinehurst, N. C., April 28. — (AP) — Two roommates who share desk work at a resort hotel in nearby Southern Pines yesterday gained the finals of the North and South Women's Amateur Golf Tournament.

Defending champion Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., and Mae Murray of Rutland, Vt., scored impressive semi-final victories to move into an 18-hole championship match today.

Miss O'Sullivan shot one under par golf to win 4 and 3 from Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., her second-round conqueror two years ago.

FINAL GAME FIXED OF EASTERN PLAYOFF

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has finally come out and set the place for the final tilt between Barrie and the Quebec Citadelles. Toronto is the place and this evening.

This famous on-again-off-again Memorial Cup playdown was finally settled yesterday but only after a vote of the C.A.H.A. was taken. The nod was given to the Maple Leaf Gardens, but it was a close call as the vote was only 13-12 in favor of Conny Smythe's ice palace.

It seems very funny to us that there was so much fuss in determining the place for the seventh game. The Association had in the first place set the dates and places, but then they swung around and tried to switch everything. No wonder Frank Byrne got his Irish temper up and blew his top. We think he had a right to do so.

On the other hand if they wanted to divide the games between Barrie and Quebec, they should have started from the beginning and not wait till the middle of things. But that is the way the C.A.H.A. operates. It is only logical that the seventh and deciding game be played on neutral ice and not on the home ice of one of the contesting clubs.

We are given to understand that in playoffs the C.A.H.A. wants to play the games where they figure they will have the largest crowds to help pay the expenses. If this is the case then why did they want to send the Citadelles back to Barrie for the seventh game? Just doesn't make sense.

The whole series seems to have been a mixup from the start. As for the hockey, well that hasn't been much to talk about, especially from the Citadelles' viewpoint. This evening is the last chance for the highly-favored pre-series Quebec champions. If they miss there will be no game back in the $5,000,000 Quebec Coliseum.

Ted Anderson has finally got his Sherbrooke Industrial Softball League straightened up and six teams will battle it out for honors this season.

The circuit is slated to commence around the twenty-first of May and they will play a twenty game schedule. The loop may play at Dufresne Park as well as the Parade Grounds if things can be arranged, at least that is what proxy Anderson is hoping for.

Three new teams, Rubins, Rand and the Dominion Textile, have been accepted in the league and the Machineries, Bruck Mills and the Railroaders round out the circuit which should be a good one as the teams seem to be fairly well balanced.

Toe Blake's Braves barely pulled through with a victory Thursday evening against the Millionaires of Sydney and once again a double penalty paid off for the Valleyfield squad.

There should no doubt in anyone's mind about who has got the breaks in the series up to present. On the other hand it seems that the Braves seem better able to capitalize on them than the Money Men from the East.

They tangle again tomorrow evening at the Forum and if Blake's team should come through with a victory then they will tangle with Toronto St. Mike's in the finals for the new Alexander trophy. The Millionaires, who will be facing elimination, will no doubt go all out to chalk up their first win at a Forum and force an extra game.

But to do this the breaks will have to swing in their favor.

Paul Leclerc suffered a broken nose in Thursday's tilt but he finished the game just the same, and it didn't seem to bother his playing any because he turned everything

Hoboes Enroute To Sherbrooke

Remaining in line with their names members of the New England Hoboes are shown above preparing for the 1951 season and are in the act of boarding a freight car for their barn-storming trip across the country.

The Hoboes will meet the local Athletics here tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, weather permitting, and from advance reports they should give a very good account of themselves. Underneath all the disguise are some of the top ball players in the country and last year they were voted as the number one travelling team in the business.

"Y" Boys Preparing For Windsor Invasion

The boys of the Y.M.C.A. are very busy these days preparing for the invasion of the lads from Windsor Mills for both floor hockey and basketball games.

The games are set for Tuesday, starting at seven p.m.

The following boys are practicing both floor hockey and basketball at the "Y" and it is from them that the teams will be picked: Stephen Allatt, Donald Chute, Sam Elkas, Bobby Forret, Peter Gnish, Wayne Redway, Volli Soer, Ernest Turner, John Williams, James Williams, William Buck, Earl Bryant and Michael Prev. These boys are juniors - 14 years of age and under.

There is another basketball game for the 10-year-olds and under, the same night. Taking part in this match are: Edward Gelnas, Robert Smith, Kenny Thibault, Lloyd Howe, Gordon Echenberg, Reggie Shufelt, Mike Allatt, Jack O'Leary, Eddie Anderson, Mike McPherson and B. Brew.

Four Consecutive Wins By St. Louis Cardinals

The surprising St. Louis Cardinals cruised to their fourth straight National League victory Friday as Gerry Staley blanked Chicago Cubs 5-0 in Chicago. Staley, who now has allowed only one run in 18 innings, yielded but six hits in besting rookie left-hander Bob Schuch.

Schuch permitted only five blows. But three walks and an error ruined the Cubs.

Boston Braves trounced New York Giants 7-3 at New York to extend the Polo Grounds' National League losing streak to nine games. Home runs by Willard Marshall, Bob Elliott and Sid Gordon led the Boston attack. Marshall connected on a five-run sixth inning rally with a three-run homer.

Lefty Warren Spain, who dropped a heart-breaking 16-inning game to Brooklyn earlier in the week, went all the way for Boston to post his first victory.

Brooklyn Dodgers, paced by Gil Hodges, staggered Philadelphia Phillies 11-5 in a National League game at Philadelphia. Hodges belted two homers, a double and drove in four runs. The Dodgers collected 10 hits, including seven extra base whacks against Bubba Church and three relief pitchers. Billy Cox also homered for Brooklyn.

Boston Red Sox edged New York Yankees 4-3 at Boston in the only American League day game. The Sox put over the winning runs in the fifth inning. Billy Goodman doubled home one run and Lou Boudreau singled home the other in the Sox's fifth.

Lefty Mel Parnell stopped the Bombers on nine hits and became the first Red Sox pitcher to go the route this year. Joe DiMaggio socked his first homer of the season for the Yankees in the sixth inning.

N.H.L. Governors Vote For 70-Game Schedule

New York, April 28. — (CP) — Governors of the National Hockey League decided at a meeting yesterday to retain the 70-game schedule for the 1951-52 season.

President Clarence Campbell said all six league clubs were in agreement on the length of next season's schedule. The dates probably will be drawn up at the annual meeting in Montreal June 5-6.

There had been reports during the season just concluded that some club owners would vote to revert to a 60-game schedule because of dwindling crowds in three of the four American cities which some teams attributed to too many games and too long a season.

Jockey Martin Draws Indefinite Suspension

Baltimore, April 28. — (AP) — Jockey Robert J. Martin's licence has been suspended indefinitely and information on undisclosed reasons turned over to the Maryland Racing Commission announced yesterday.

The 23-year-old Baltimore jockey is charged with conduct detrimental to racing and specifically with wrong doing at "Laurel and other tracks," Commissioner Chairman H. Courtenay Jenifer said.

Jenifer refused to amplify the charges.

CUBS OPTION MAURO TO SPRINGFIELD

Chicago, April 28. — (AP) — Chicago Cubs yesterday announced the optioning of outfielder Carmen Mauro to their Springfield farm club in the International League on 24-hour recall notes.

C.L.T.A. RELEASES DATES FOR CHAMPIONSHIPS

Montreal, April 28. — (CP) — Officials of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association announced yesterday that the Dominion championships this year will be held in Windsor, Ont. Dates have not yet been set.

Brown and Jacques Jeanneau. The new additions are Jose Pilot, Manuel Martinez, Juan Bonille and Terry "The Great" McDuffy which sounds like a pretty good hunting staff to us. From the above group Manager Gladu should be able to choose a fair mound crew.

Tomorrow afternoon the A's will go into action against the New England Hoboes and this should be a fair test for them, although they have had only a week of outdoor training. Anyway the fans will have an opportunity of seeing the locals at work but we figure that final judgment should be held back until the boys get used to working with each other.

Playoffs Shift To Committee Rooms; Allan Cup Finalists Ask For Change; Barrie Postponement

Toronto, April 28. — (CP) — Hockey playoff activity shifted to committee rooms yesterday as disputes flared up in both junior and senior hockey over the location of playoff games.

The action kept Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials as busy as a goalkeeper with two teammates in the penalty box.

Hottest issue is the locale of the seventh and final game in the Eastern Canada playoffs for junior hockey's Memorial Cup.

George Dudley of Midland, C.A.H.A. secretary-manager, who earlier announced that the last game of the Barrie Flyers-Quebec Citadelles game would be played Saturday night in Toronto, rejected a request by Barrie that the game be postponed for further discussion.

Dudley said Barrie must play Saturday in Toronto or forfeit the series, in which each club now has won three games.

Barrie Coach Hap Emms, on his arrival home from Quebec, promptly countered with a new proposal that the series be extended from best-of-seven to best-of-nine, with the seventh game in Barrie Saturday, the eighth in Montreal and the ninth, if necessary, in Toronto.

The second question thrown at Dudley didn't seem quite so contentious. It involved the seven-game Allan Cup final series between two Ontario senior teams—Fort Frances Canadians and Owen Sound Mercurys.

Bud Jarvis, Fort Frances coach whose team lost the first game 4-3 last night in Owen Sound, asked

City Of Valleyfield Entertains Sydney

Valleyfield, Que., April 28. — (CP) — Officials and players of Sydney Millionaires, now engaged with Valleyfield Braves in the Eastern Canada Alexander cup final, were given a civic reception here yesterday.

Brought here from their Montreal hotel by bus, the team was welcomed by Mayor O. E. Caza. Mayor Tony Gallagher of Sydney, N. S., accompanying the team, signed the City's Golden Book as did team members.

The visitors were taken on a tour of the city and of the surrounding countryside and last night were entertained at a banquet.

Cost of Living

ACCORDING to Financial Post, the general index of the cost of living in Canada rose 9.8% from March 1950 to March 1951. We are not surprised to learn that food represented the biggest increase with 14.6%. Clothing is up 8.2%, which is less than the general average. The clothing business is so highly competitive that we all have to sell for the lowest prices possible, and frankly most of us are naturally anxious to hold costs down. We as clothiers are happy to see that our price increase is lower than average. We wish we could continue with our present low prices.

UNSETTLED WORLD CONDITIONS have forced up the costs of practically all the raw materials used in the manufacture of clothing, particularly wool. We've been busy lately buying for next Fall and we're rather staggered by the prices quoted by some suppliers. It is interesting to note that the biggest increases are in the inferior grades of clothing. We find that our regular manufacturers, reliable people who make reliable garments always, are offering the best values again, and they are sticking as closely as possible to their high standards of quality. And so we predict that for Fall good clothing will offer you even better value than normally, in comparison with inferior merchandise.

RIGHT NOW we're still able to offer you the old low prices on complete assortments of men's wear, all in the famous Rosenbloom quality which has built our store's reputation.
