Scenes At The Service and Funeral of The Late Canon A. Pigeon on Friday

Among one of the largest funerals ever held in Huntingdon, was the one held for the Canon A. Pigeon, beloved priest of St. Joseph's Parish in Huntingdon. The gathering was so large to get into the church and it overflowed into the two halls of the Parochial Hall across the street from the church. A public address system was set up in the hall so that those there might hear the service. The pictures above give some idea of the large gathering which attended this funeral. Reading from left to right, No. 1 shows Canon Rene Langlois presiding at the ceremony, assisted by Canon Saucy, Father Marcel Leduc, curate, who had charge of the parish during the time of the late pastor's illness, acted as master of ceremonies. Pall-bearers were Fathers Marcell, Deguire, Leboeuf, Daignault, Gilles and Henri Dumouchel, Larocque and Quenneville. The children of Notre Dame and St. Joseph Schools were present at this ceremony. The younger members of the Huntingdon, formed the guard of honour. After the ceremony at the church, all the societies of the church came to receive their heads—this continued until 11:00 p.m.

Many Pay Last Respects to Late Peter D. McArthur

Funeral Held on Saturday at Georgetown Presbyterian Church

The funeral of the late Peter D. McArthur, of Howick, was held from the Georgetown Presbyterian Church on Saturday afternoon. The church was more than twice its capacity with friends of the local community and others from more distant parts who on so many occasions came into business contact with Mr. McArthur when working in the interests of the welfare of milk producers or politicians, as the case may be. The Rev. William Brown, who is the new minister for Georgetown Church, though he had known Mr. McArthur for a very short time, paid just tribute to him. Mr. Brown's discourse was as follows:

We ought to emphasize like Jesus, the expansion of life which death brings to us. "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that we shall be like Him." That which thou sowest is not quickened except it die. It is sown in weakness, it is raised in power! We ought to dwell on the greater fullness, strength, freedom, and happiness, the vastly multiplied satisfactions that become possible to us only when this earthly life is limited to its existence of ours is past. Life would end if there were no death. One sows, and the seed one sows is a life honestly lived or selfishly surrendered. Another reaps the harvest, and sows in his or her own turn, and the seed of their sowing is also a life honestly lived and helpfully given up. And so the world creeps neener and nearer to the feet of God, where all these sowers and reapers, and reapers and sowers, meet together, and together rejoice. It is the law of life, it is the way God has appointed for the world; and He reminds us of it when, out in the fields, the wheat breaks through into the sunlight.

This congregation here gathered to be the right, and the highest, and the best, in his chosen fields of labour and service. His undoubted ability and keenness brought him to the forefront in all his activities. He was President of the National Progressive Farmers of Canada, a past president of the National Progressive Conservative Organization, of the Canadian Yorkshire Breeders' Assoc., of the Farm Forum of Quebec, as well as past director of many other agricultural organizations across this great land of ours.

He was honoured by the Provincial Government—receiving its Merit of Agriculture, and not so (Continued on page 11)

Legion Has Farewell For W. K. Pope

Members Make Presentation As Parting Gift

Following the regular monthly meeting of that Branch, on Friday, April 9, the President and other members of Huntingdon Branch (Que.) No. 81, Canadian Legion staged a "Farewell Party" or "Send Off" party for former president W. K. ("Ken") and Mrs. Pope, who will shortly be moving to Watford, Ont., after some 13 years in Huntingdon, where Ken had been the popular Manager of the Bank of Montreal. His appointment to the position of Manager of the Bank of Montreal in Watford is, in effect, a considerable promotion.

The wives of several of the Legionnaires and several members of the Ladies' Auxiliary were also in attendance.

President J. J. A. Boisseau was chairman of the gathering and during the course of the proceedings he presented Ken Pope with a travelling case on behalf of members of the Branch. He also emphasized the invaluable services rendered by Ken Pope to Huntingdon Branch No. 81, as a member, as Treasurer and as a member of the Executive Committee for several years, and as President for a term.

Others called on by the President included Past Presidents C. M. Oney, Gordon Ferry, F. C. Moore, John Heald, Roland Roy and Honourary Vice-President Adam L. Sellar, all of whom eulogized the services rendered by Ken Pope as a member of the Branch, as a Banker, etc.

In reply Ken Pope stated, in effect that, while his move to Watford constituted a considerable promotion, he was most reluctant to leave Huntingdon. He had enjoyed his stay and activities in Huntingdon, he said. Also if it were not that he is hopeful that the change of climate, so to speak, will relieve a presently severe sinus condition, he might have asked to be allowed to stay in Huntingdon.

He had enjoyed his Legion activities and urged that all Veterans give their continuous active support to the operations of Huntingdon Branch No. 81. It is to be noted that he emphasized that the Branch is most fortunate indeed in having its own Legion Hall, more so in fact than a great many other similarly situated Branches.

Luncheon was served by several members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and wives of members of the Branch.

School Boards and Teachers Meet at Ormstown

Have Annual Dinner and Hear Talks on Various Problems Affecting Both

School Board Members and Teachers from the schools of the Chateauguay Valley enjoyed a turkey dinner on Thursday evening, in the Ormstown Presbyterian Church Hall, when the Evening Auxiliary did the catering. Representatives were present from Chateauguay, Beauharnois, Valleyfield, Ormstown, Howick and Huntingdon.

Mr. James White of Ormstown, an executive member of the Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards, was chairman and following the dinner, Mr. W. F. Welch of Howick, led in a sing song with Miss Miriam Agnes at the piano.

Mr. Robert Flood of Waterloo, president of the Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards, addressed the gathering, presenting situations as they arose for both school boards and teachers.

Canon A. Pigeon Is Laid To Rest -- Special Services

Funeral Held Friday Morning at St. Joseph's Church, Huntingdon

On Thursday afternoon, April 8, the remains of Canon Arthur Pigeon were transferred from the rectory to St. Joseph's Parish Church to spend the last night under the watchful eyes of his parishioners. Canon Rene Langlois presided at the ceremony, assisted by Canon Saucy, Father Marcel Leduc, curate, who had charge of the parish during the time of the late pastor's illness, acted as master of ceremonies. Pall-bearers were Fathers Marcell, Deguire, Leboeuf, Daignault, Gilles and Henri Dumouchel, Larocque and Quenneville.

The children of Notre Dame and St. Joseph Schools were present at this ceremony. The younger members of the Huntingdon, formed the guard of honour. After the ceremony at the church, all the societies of the church came to receive their heads—this continued until 11:00 p.m.

On Friday, April 9, the funeral of Canon Arthur Pigeon of St. Joseph Parish, Huntingdon, took place at St. Joseph's Church in Huntingdon. Msgr. Alfred Langlois officiated, assisted by Msgr. P. Caza, Deacons of honour were: Canon Rene Langlois and Canon J. A. David; assistant deacon was Canon J. M. Phaneuf; and the assistant sub-deacon was Mr. Herve Charlebois. Also in charge of the ceremony was Father Theoret. In the choir were Canon A. Pilon, D. Fortier, H. Julien, Lucien Belanger, J. de Dorais, J. P. Bourget, and J. D. St. Aubin.

The church and two rooms of the Parish Hall were filled to capacity. A public address system carried the ceremony to those not in the church proper.

His Excellency Bishop Langlois who pronounced the oration to the late Canon Arthur Pigeon praised the high qualities of the humble priest, who would have been the first to refuse the honour rendered him after his untimely death.

When Father Pigeon came to Huntingdon some twenty years ago, the parish was in fairly good condition, but time changes everything. He instigated the repairs on the Church. Shortly after his arrival, he had an organ installed in St. Joseph's Church. When the ceremony for a choir was experienced, he worked with the teachers of the congregation of Notre Dame and from then on, the pupils were trained in the singing of religious music, so that they could come out of the school ready to join the choir.

As there is no home without a recreation hall, Father Pigeon began working to procure for his large and devoted family a parochial hall where they would receive a social education and relax at the same time.

The cemetery next received his attention. He worked hard to gain the co-operation of his parishioners in straightening the alleys, levelling the ground, and pruning the trees. He reserved for himself a lot at the foot of the cross, where he became the first priest in the history of the local Roman Catholic Church to be buried there.

During these years, the late pastor had accomplished a considerable amount of work for his parish, but his mission was not over. He completely destroyed the old convent more than a decade ago, and Father Pigeon wishing his children to receive a Christian education, made many trips and carried on many a discussion to convince the nuns to stay on, despite the difficult conditions offered them.

The time that followed was an especially active period for the beloved priest. He wanted a school, and what is more, he wanted a central school so that children in the country would receive an education as those children who were fortunate to live in town. He was the one responsible for that magnificent realization.

Two years ago he instituted the Soup Fund, after a cafeteria had been built in the new section of St. Joseph's School. Now all the children who wish it are served hot soup for dinner. The last organization in aid of the Soup Fund was the drawing of a television, which took place while he was too ill to see how it resulted. His last thought was for the children and he gave a substantial sum of his modest goods for the Soup Fund.

That faithful, prudent and wise priest, despite his large experience, always sought the advice of the other priests, often those younger than he. In 1952, he was created a Canon.

Proof of his parishioners' love, admiration and understanding was the trip they sponsored which made it possible for their priest to visit Rome. They displayed their thankfulness by giving him a car that he might do his ministry in an easier and quicker way.

Concluding his homage to the late Canon Pigeon, Bishop Langlois said he could not leave the Parish alone any longer, and he announced that the new pastor would be Canon David, formerly pastor of St. Poly-carpe, Quebec.

Boys Fall Into Excavation

Are Rescued By 76-year-old Man

Two boys were playing around the excavation for the new Canadian Oil Company's service station on Chateauguay Street, about 3 p.m. on Saturday, when they fell into it. The excavation is about 30 feet by 16 feet and about 2 feet deep and contained about 5 feet of water. The boys, Jean Guy Girouard, 9 years old, son of Joseph Girouard, 49 York Street, Huntingdon, and Bernard Duval, 7 years old, son of Laurent Duval, 40 York Street, were the near victims of drowning. Jean Guy fell in and Bernard tried to get him out, but also fell in. Mr. F. X. Gauthier, 76 years old, of 38 Chateauguay St., who was approximately 250 feet from the scene, saw Bernard lose his balance and fall in. He did not know if getting the boys out. Meantime Mr. E. J. Holm noticed there was some trouble and he came and gave assistance. He called the police and St. Trepanier arrived and took the boys to the Huntingdon County Hospital. There they were attended by Doctors McGrimmon and Cameron. Bernard Duval was allowed to go home the next day, but Jean Guy Girouard was kept in the hospital until Monday afternoon. Apparently the boys are now none the worse for their experience.

There is no doubt that they owe their lives to the quick thinking and action of Mr. Gauthier.

This should serve as a warning to other children to stay away from such excavations and parents should warn their children of the danger of playing near such places.

As implied by the title the children carried the audience from Palm Sunday through the week to Easter Sunday. The days were represented by—

Palm Sunday—Heather McKell; Monday—Mildred Bryson; Tuesday—Rhoda Sheffrin; Wednesday—Judy Cavers; Thursday—Ann McEwen; Friday—Lillian Dixon; Saturday—Connie White; Easter Sunday—Grace Harkness.

The speakers were supported by members of the choir, numbering in all thirty-two. They sang most effectively—"The Palms," "Who Is He That Cometh?" "Wait Ye Not," "Go and Tell," "When I Think of His Love For Me," "Clinging to the Cross," "I Gave My Life For Thee," and "Awake! Thou Who Sleepest."

The closing tableau was most impressive, when, with special lighting effects on the stage setting, Grace Elliott gave selections from "The Wayide Cross" written by Frederick George Scott.

Rev. I. Johnston thanked the choir for the splendid interpretation of the Easter message and closed with prayer.

Invitations to repeat the Cantata in the Valleyfield United Church Hall on Easter Sunday evening and to give it in Huntingdon United Church on Easter Monday have been accepted.

Much credit is due the director and pianist, Mrs. John Wallace, who gives most freely of her time and talents to train this group of young people.

Easter Program at Presbyterian Church. On Saturday afternoon, an impressive Easter program was presented in the Ormstown Presbyterian Church by the Mission Band under the direction of Miss Ruth Sills and Mrs. Harold Kerr and the Girls' Group under the leadership of Miss Lorraine McQuat.

Sandra Barrington, president of the Girls' Group was the chairman and announced the various items. Marilyn Gruer, Mission Band president, conducted the opening exercises and this was followed by a chorus "He Lives" by the Mission Band and Girl's Group combined. An Easter Welcome was given by three boys, John Rember, Norman Kerr and Carl Rember. Betty McEwen recited "He Arose" and Dale Begbie contributed an Easter poem. A delightful duet "Song of Easter" was rendered by Edna and Evelyn Foster. Marilyn Gruer recited "An Easter Prayer," Glenna Rember "First Robin" and Alanne Hooker "The Explanation". A group of Mission Band members, Erylyn Barrington, Brenda Kerr, Diane Spurrell, Aleca Thompson, Dianna Purdie and Sandra Begbie sang "Missionary Belts". Joyce Begbie gave an interesting Easter story, illustrated on the flannelgraph. ### Hospital Finances Down But Successful Year Recognized

Memorial Wing Provides Much Needed Extra Accommodation and Equipment

Huntingdon County Hospital annual meeting was held on Friday evening in the Huntingdon County Building. The financial statement reveals that the hospital had a not too successful financial year. This is quite easy to explain for throughout the year the building of the Clouston Memorial Wing was in process and very much curtailed and the confusion helped to increase the costs of performing services required. Irrespective of these set backs the working capital and donations received, made it that the Hospital statement showed a small deficit of only $197.25. However one must not take this figure as the true operating deficit for the figure actually represents approximately $1,000 per month, or $250 per week throughout the year. It does not appear that the Governors feel this actual deficit can be overcome through increasing bed rates, not at the moment at least. It is highly probable that the 1954 operation of the hospital will not greatly increase but likely that its accounts receivable will increase as per diem charges. In reading the financial statement we would urge our readers to persevere with care the section headed "Comparative Operating Costs" for the years 1951, 52 and 53.

The statement re. the cost of the Clouston Memorial Wing is set forth as representing $69,173.13. This figure includes several extras which do not create a successful institution. That alone comes from the service the building renders the community. In the case of a hospital, that service can only be supplied by the doctors and nursing staff, through skillful and loyal service. We have been listening to some complaints that the building was not being used to full capacity, but in the case of a hospital you do not go out to advertise for business. (Continued on page 6)

Ormstown Junior Choir Holds Easter Cantata at MacDougall Hall

A large and appreciative audience gathered at MacDougall Hall, on Sunday evening for the presentation of the Junior Choir's Cantata. From the Palms to the Lilies. The direction of Mrs. John Wallace.

Easter music with Gordon Duncan at the piano, provided suitable atmosphere for the cantata which was introduced by Rev. I. Johnston.

As implied by the title the children carried the audience from Palm Sunday through the week to Easter Sunday. The days were represented by—

Curling Club Winds Up Competition; Present Prizes

Presentation Also Made to W. K. Pope As Farewell Gift

On Saturday evening, April 10, the Huntingdon Curling Club sponsored a dinner and social evening which marked the end of the schedule of games participated in by the club members as teams from Godmanchester, Hinchinbrook and Huntingdon. This competition proved to be one of the highlights of genuine interest within the club.

The final game was played on Saturday. A team of Huntingdon, Retired Gentlemen composed of George P. Elder, Alec Fawcett, Geo. D. Elder and Gilbert MacMillan were declared the winners of the competition, their opponents and runners-up were skipped by Ed Goodfellow and take a real keen interest in the Royal Caledonia Society Branch president a year ago. Mr. Walsh enlightened the members as to how this Branch came into being and how it is that every curler in Quebec Provincially automatically becomes a member of this Branch. The achievements and advancements made in the "Roaring Game" can largely be credited to this same organization. He, therefore, appealed to the membership at large to exemplify and take a real keen interest in the Royal Caledonia Society Branch. "If you curlers at any time see where they think improvements can be made in this great game of curling, see to it that your elected representative brings your expression before the annual meeting of the Society held each year in Montreal," he urged.

Dr. Dunan of Malone, N.Y., was accompanied by Mr. John Kelley, also of Malone. The two men entered into the day's activities and they assured the Huntingdonians that they would make an effort towards having a curling club created at Malone. Dr. Dunan is a great story teller and he had everybody roaring with laughter.

The presentation of prizes was made. A great many of the prizes were bits of handicraft made by Ed Goodfellow and the pieces took the form of ash trays, salad or fruit bowls and plates. The wood used was birch which Mr. Goodfellow brought home from Plaster Rock, N.B. The many recipients of these prizes will treasure them more for what they are, and who made them than for the curling club created at Malone. The curling competition or the next curling season rolls around. The recipients of prizes, in addition to the curlers of the final game, were Mr. Hogs, Chairman of the Match Committee, and Albert Antoine and Ross Pringle who cared for the refreshment stand. The Championship Curling League (Continued on page 12)

Mr. Brown, principal of Hemmingford High School, thanked the speaker.

Mr. Arthur Lang of Montreal, P.A.P.S.B. Secretary, in his usual entertaining manner, gave a few remarks. Although he claimed his attendance to be unofficial, everyone present would have been disappointed to miss his jovial greeting.

Mr. Charles Reid of the Huntingdon Board, extended thanks to the Ormstown Presbyterian Evening Auxiliary for the splendid meal they provided.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards to be held this year, at Knowlton, May 7 and 8, was announced and it was hoped that a goodly number of Board members would plan to attend.

Winners in Finals of W.I. Public Speaking Contest

Held at Hemmingford High School Before Large Audience

Friday evening was an exciting time for some nineteen contestants in the finals of the W.I. Public Speaking Contest, held at Hemmingford High School. The contestants were from Franklin Centre, Howick, Ormstown, Huntingdon and Hemmingford schools and were the prize winners in their particular schools, a few were old timers and knew more or less what to expect. There was a capacity gathering present for this occasion.

The contestants were divided into four groups: Group A—Grades 4 and 5; Group B—Grades 6 and 7; Group C—Grades 8 and 9; and Group D—Grades 10 and 11. Each group was represented by a contestant from each of the aforementioned schools, thus each school had four contestants except in the last group when Hemmingford was not represented.

Mrs. Wallace Kerr, W.I. County Convener of Education, from Howick, was chairman for the evening and called the contestants forward as their turn came. Mrs. W. E. Bernhardt, W.I. County President, gave a few words of welcome and following the announcement of the winners congratulated them and presented the prizes. Messrs. C. E. Petch, Hemmingford; Raymond Rowat, Huntingdon and James White, Ormstown, were the judges.

The contestants were both boys and girls and all gave a good account of themselves. The subjects chosen were interesting, some difficult and some requiring much thought and preparation. The lengths of each talk varied, the longest taking 6 1/4 (Continued on page 7)

Observations

Written specially for The Huntingdon Gleaner by Robert G. Sellar, Grenoble, France

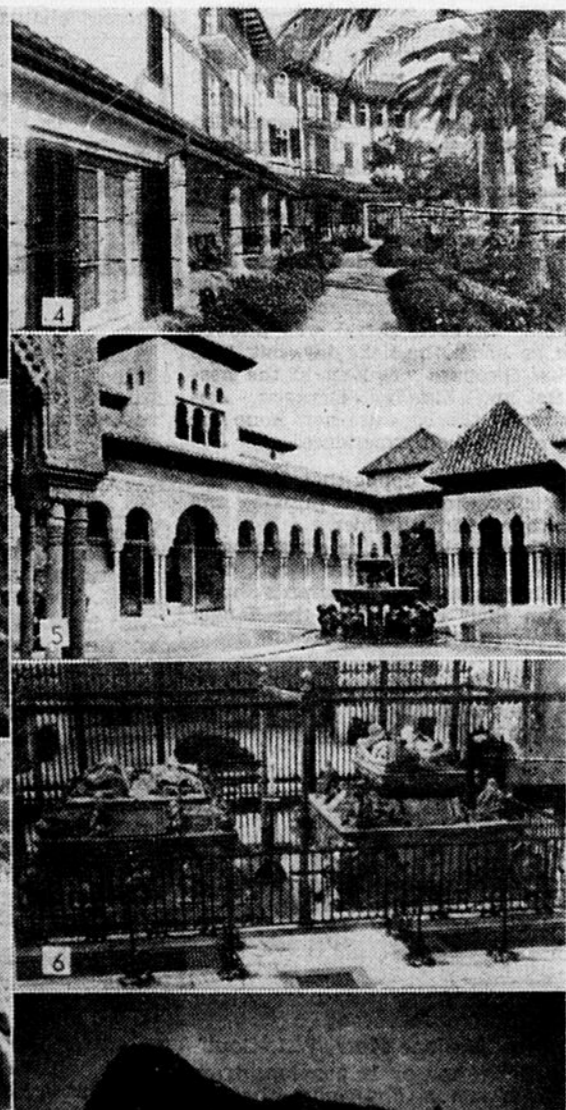

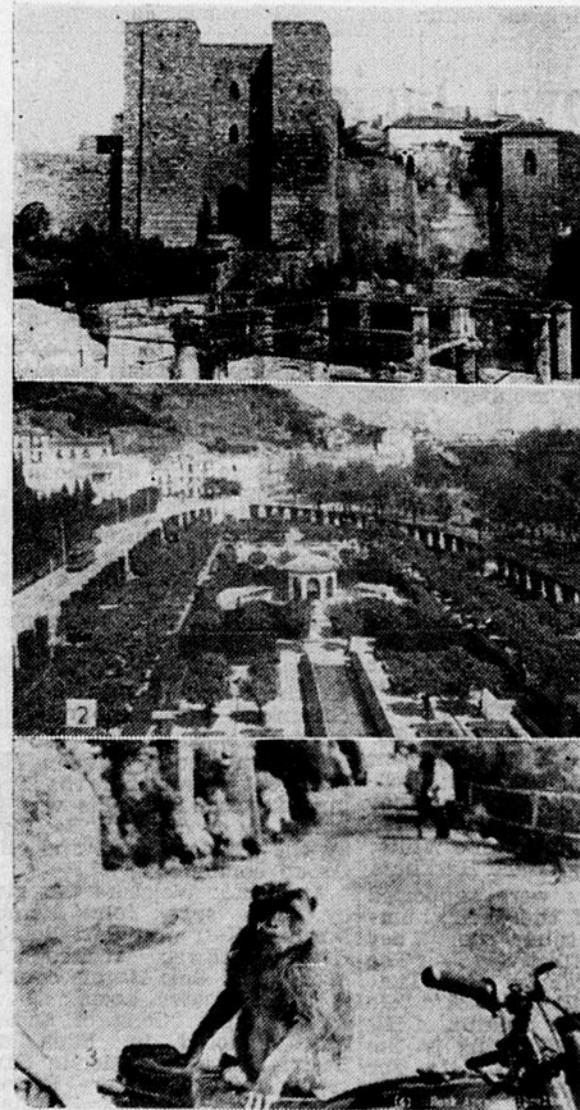

Andalusian Tour Friday, January 8—We left Seville around 10.00 a.m., our destination being the pretty little Mediterranean town of Algeciras. It was a very leisurely trip, and we stopped for lunch at Jerez, and visited the distillery of Gonzales Blass & Company Limited.

some very mountainous country. Soon we saw Cadiz, one of the Spanish harbours on the Atlantic coast. At the same time, we began to see the many salt ponds. These ponds are large pools which are dug in the salt water flats. At certain times of the year, salt water is permitted to enter the pools. When the pool is filled up, the water is shut off and the sun takes over and evaporation takes place. When most of the water is gone, men dig out the pure salt left and pile it to dry further in the sun. I saw many piles of salt which were 100 feet or more in length, 20 feet wide, and perhaps 20 feet high.

Letters to the Editor

Ormstown, Que., April 9th, 1954.

Dear Mr. Editor: After reading the article under the picture "Traffic Must Stop In Both Directions When School Bus Stops" in this week's issue of the Gleaner countless times, to make sure I read it correctly, I feel I must note my reaction.

Can it be explained why the children should not be allowed to cross the road in front of the bus while all traffic is stopped and the vehicles move on only after the child or children are safely in their own gates? How is a 6 or 7 or even 12-year-old child supposed to judge the distance of 200 yards? Suppose there are 4 or 5 cars stopped in either direction and the bus and other vehicles move off, another car comes along, travelling 40 or 50 miles per hour, the school bus by this time is out of view and the child still on the road. What protection does this give to have with the traffic probably starting in the other direction by this time. I'm sure neither bus driver or auto driver are in such a hurry that they cannot wait for the child to cross the road to safety before continuing on their way.

I do feel too that bus routes should be marked either by Provincial or local government so that drivers will be aware at all times of their responsibility. I think it is criminal to leave children standing on the side of the road, traffic going both ways and the decision theirs when to cross. To quote: "The children should make sure that the road is clear in both directions before crossing the road" — I feel this is the bus driver's duty. In the last paragraph, again quoting — "and children taught the proper things to do" — when drivers are not capable of remembering the proper things to do how can a small child always remember? If the truth were known, licences are issued to a good number of drivers today, who cannot even give a correct right-hand turning signal.

We do feel that who ever issued the "directive" should give it more thought and change it accordingly. Signed, Another Mother. Ormstown, Que., April 9, 1954.

To the Editor, Dear Sir:

Since reading the article and studying the pictures in this week's Gleaner regarding safety precautions to be taken to protect children when alighting from a school bus, I cannot help but feel that some mistake must have been made in the interpretation of the Regulations. However, if your interpretation is correct, it is in my opinion, some clear-thinking people get together to see what can be done to give the children PROTECTION, rather than the present rules, which are either the result of muddled and stupid thinking, or were made deliberately to place full responsibility on the child.

Are we to assume that the Government would pass a law requiring all traffic in either direction to stop for a stopped school bus, and then issue a Directive saying that the children must not cross the road while the traffic is stopped and it is safe, but must wait until traffic has resumed its normal movement? As for the child waiting until the school bus has moved to a distance of two hundred yards, how many adults have the courage of this distance along the road?

Yet it seems we should expect a young child, full of life and bursting with excitement, anxious to get home and play or to tell his parents of the day's events, to stand still at the side of the road until the bus has advanced this distance. How much can we expect of a child of six or seven years?

Has the bus driver no responsibility or does he just furnish transportation? Are the few extra minutes it would take him to see the children across the road, especially the little ones, more important than a child's life? Can a bus driver let a little child out directly in the path of an oncoming car with no regard for the child's safety, other than the hope that the car will stop? I believe we parents are entitled to the answers to these and many other questions.

Some bus drivers have adopted the practice of electing an older child to act as monitor and escort the smaller children across the road. Would you, Mr. Editor, be willing for your child to accept this responsibility while the driver of the bus sits idly in his seat? Apart from this, is it right to ask any child to get out of the bus several times on his way home in wet and stormy weather? Is the responsibility of the driver so little, that it can be transferred casually to a child?

You close your article with the following — "and children are taught the right things to do". Living close to a very busy road, our children have been taught to observe safety rules at all times. The necessity for strict observance of these rules has been more deeply impressed on their minds, due to having had many pets run over by cars. In spite of this, one impulsive act cost our little girl her life. Was she responsible? I doubt if very many would say yes. I believe that the regulations should be made with the child's safety in mind and not with the idea of absolving us of all blame when an accident occurs. Should we not think for them, rather than make them suffer for our thoughtlessness and selfishness? Yours truly, Hollis Rowe.

OBITUARY

THE LATE MRS. L. BURPEE

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Laura Burpee of Massena Centre, N.Y., were held on Monday afternoon, April 5, at 2 p.m. from the Phillips Memorial Home on Andrew St. in Massena.

Mrs. Burpee, whose maiden name was Hutchins was born at Dickinson's Landing, west of Cornwall, Ont., in the year 1884. When 11 years old, she and her family moved to Massena, N.Y. Later in life she married Mr. Frank Burpee and together they operated the farm until her husband's death in 1940.

Since that time she spent considerable time with her daughter, Mrs. Jas. Colquhoun on the farm in Dundee. A couple of years after the Colquhoun property had been sold to Carl Stowell, Mrs. Colquhoun and her mother moved back to Massena Centre, N.Y., where they have resided since that time on the Burpee homestead, which boasts a fine old Colonial style home.

In December Mrs. Burpee was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage which left her partly paralyzed. Death came on Friday, April 2, after a last illness of 10 days, during which she was tenderly cared for by her two daughters, Mrs. Colquhoun and Mrs. Harland Horton.

She leaves to mourn her loss, the previously mentioned daughters and one other, Mrs. Mary Lawrence, also several grandchildren.

Chateaugay

Legion News At the open meeting of Chateaugay Branch 108 of the Canadian Legion held in the Julius Richardson School Auditorium on Thursday night, the 8th of April, Mr. Harry Grimes, acting as chairman, welcomed the guests and called on Dr. Peter Edgell of Westmount, Que., to introduce the special speaker, Dr. R. G. Rose, F.R.C.P., of Montreal, whose subject, "Polio and its effects in a Community", proved very interesting.

It was unfortunate that there was not a larger attendance of citizens to hear this address. Dr. Rose told of ways and means of combatting this dread disease which sometimes strikes people with suddenness and entails a long period of convalescence. Films were shown and a question period followed the address.

Dr. Rose was thanked by Mr. Bryce McGregor.

Condolence

The sympathy of the community is expressed to the family of the late Mrs. William Wright, wife of the late Mr. William Wright, and mother of Florence (Mrs. E. R. Richardson) Jean (Mrs. J. G. Boyd) and Robert A. Wright.

A Community's Loss

TWO men of widely separated spheres of activity in the community of the Chateauguay Valley, were called suddenly by death in the past week. Both present a great loss to our community and both will be sorely missed for the great service they rendered their fellow men. We refer of course, to the late Canon A. Pigeon, of St. Joseph's Parish, Huntingdon, Que., and to the late Peter (P. D.) McArthur of Howick, Que.

Canon A. Pigeon, who was more affectionately referred to as Father Pigeon, had served this parish since 1933 and had become greatly endeared to his parishioners. His interests were not only for the church, but he worked hard in many matters that would bring other benefits to his people. He worked hard for a consolidated school district after the disastrous fire at Notre Dame convent and he succeeded in obtaining the fine new school buildings which are to be seen near the church. He also saw the need for a place where his people could have recreation and as a result of further hard work on his part, St. Joseph's Parochial Hall came into being, it also being situated near the church. Fortunately, recognition for all that he did was not left (as in a number of cases) until he had passed away. He was given a trip to Rome a few years ago and he was presented with a new car, by the generosity of his parishioners. Thus he had these things to enjoy and by which to know that his goodness and thoughtfulness of others was really appreciated. He was truly a champion of the poor and here he will be the most sorely missed. His were Christian principles, with thought for others and little thought for himself. He took pleasure in bringing happiness to others whenever and wherever he could.

P. D. McArthur was a farmer and he loved the farm and all that has to do with it. Consequently he was found in almost anything that had to do with the benefit and welfare of the farm. He acquired a knowledge of the farm and farm management at an early age and this no doubt gave him a better insight to what was required. Thus we find that in later life he was President of the Montreal Milk Producers' Association, the Quebec Milk Producers' Association; Past President Dairy Farmers of Canada, National Progressive Association, Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, Farm Forum of Quebec, and director on many agricultural societies. He won the Provincial Merit of Agriculture award and was recently awarded the Queen's medal for special services. He never forgot his spiritual duties and was a great church worker, being active in many organizations within the church of his faith. He was a champion on behalf of fair play for his fellow farmers and was constantly working with this end in view. He did much hard work for which he received no gain except the satisfaction of seeing improvement in those things with which he was associated.

Truly the Community has lost two very valuable men.

Easter-The Light-The Hope

ONCE again, it is Easter, that time when there is great rejoicing over the Risen Christ, which was preceded by the sorrow of his crucifixion. The singing of Alleluia brings the hope of new and better things to come. Christ suffered and died that the sins of the world might be forgiven, then he was restored to his rightful place in God's Kingdom by rising from the dead.

It is a time of new life, new hope, fresh beginnings after the closeness of winter. The sun shines and there is greater warmth, the days are longer and brighter, everything seems to point the way to something new and different. The air is filled with the songs of the birds, the rustling of the leaves on the trees, the laughter of children at play — all pertaining to this new return to life.

In this world of today, with its hydrogen bombs, atom bombs, wars of aggression, threats of new wars and the thousand and one other things that threaten to plague us, we need this new feeling of hope and life. We need to think more of why Christ suffered on the cross — to save us from sin. Have we improved so much from that day nearly 2,000 years ago? As we look around us can we see where sin has vanished from this earth? Because there is so much hatred, so much killing, so much disregard for life, may that not be the reason we are being plagued with other things that keep us constantly in suspense. It is perhaps some form of punishment for having taken so lightly the sacrifice on the cross.

Whatever it is, this is the time to try and see things in a different light, to try and mend our ways, to do things better than ever before. We have been given a respite and we should make the most of it. Should we not take warning of the ominous signs that are being placed before us of what can be expected if another world war should break out. Man fears his own hand can bring about his downfall and destruction. Cries of halt are heard among the nations, but none know if this thing can be halted or whether it has already gone too far.

This is Easter, 1954.

No Special Concessions For Quebec

MR. Abbott gave a "No" to Quebec's appeal for exemption of its new Income Tax from the Federal Income Tax, when he brought down his budget last Tuesday night. He allows a deduction of 5% which is set out in the regulations, but no more. It could hardly be expected otherwise in the face of all things.

Mr. Duplessis does not like Mr. Abbott's attitude in this respect, but then what else could be done. Mr. Duplessis must surely realize that a precedent would have been made had Mr. Abbott granted full deduction of the Quebec Income Tax. Quebec has not signed a tax rental agreement with the Federal Government as the other provinces have. The other provinces are paid a rental for releasing certain of their taxing rights to the Federal Government and this method appears to have paid them well. Mr. Duplessis by imposing his income tax and then expecting full deduction from Federal Income Tax, would actually be receiving the benefit of rental agreement without having given anything in return for the rental. It is like receiving the rent for a house you never owned. No one has disputed the right of this province to impose its own taxation, and the Federal Government has given the benefit as called for in the regulations of a deduction of 5%. If Mr. Abbott had granted a deduction in full, then the other provinces would have had a perfect right to revoke their agreements and impose their own taxation and seek full deduction from the Federal Government. What would happen to Federal revenues under a set-up such as that? Mr. Abbott also said no discussion was held between the Federal Government and the Quebec Provincial Government, or perhaps a suitable agreement could have been reached. He has left open the door for further negotiations and it might be wise if Mr. Duplessis knocked on the door to see what would become of it. Surely Mr. Duplessis can now see that a tax rental agreement with Ottawa would be more beneficial to the Province and the people of this province than his determination to carry out new forms of taxation that can work a detriment to both.

There is a question of loss of autonomy by accepting grants, etc., from Ottawa, according to Mr. Duplessis, and that is his reason for not accepting. We cannot see where this province will lose anything by doing what the other provinces have done. Certainly the people would not have to suffer double taxation and they would have the extra money to do for and pay for those things which they feel are needed. There would be no added burden on the people, or the province. There would be no loss of autonomy to the province any more than a landlord would lose his house or premises because he rented such premises. The title is still retained by the landlord; he is denied the use of the premises by reason of granting that privilege to another party in return for a payment or rental. In simple terms that is the substance of the tax rental agreement as between the other provinces and in which Quebec could share if Mr. Duplessis would agree. Further to this, the provinces have no cost of collection of the sums that come to them under this agreement. In Mr. Duplessis' case, he must pay the costs of collection which he imposes the tax upon the people. These costs are of course deducted from the total amount collected and thus it is less than he believes.

We certainly believe that Mr. Duplessis could recoup much popularity if he decided to forget about the Quebec Income Tax and sign on with Ottawa under a tax rental agreement.

Random Glimpses of The Past Taken from Gleaner Files

Howick—Dr. William Ness has received a commission as an officer in the Canadian Medical Corps and will proceed to Valcartier shortly. Clarence Logan joined the Dragoons at Toronto, where he is at present.

Riverfield—The 35th annual picnic of the Sunday Schools of this locality was celebrated on Tuesday in the beautiful grove of Mr. Wm. Templeton, on the Scotch concession. The day was ideal and the picnic was happy. Lunch was served to over 300, while several came too late for this important part of the day's proceedings. This picnic was instituted by Mrs. James Morrison 35 years ago when she was a teacher in the Aubrey school. The Rev. Stuart A. Woods referred to this and a cake bore the information in raised letters. This cake was presented to Mrs. Morrison in celebration of the 35th anniversary, and she esteemed it highly in that she was remembered on the occasion. At the conclusion of the program, Mr. Robert Ness of Howick extended greetings to the Riverfield congregation and moved a very hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Templeton for their kindness in providing the use of their house and grove. Mr. Ness also called for three hearty cheers for Rev. and Mrs. Woods. The sports were well-contested and nearly everyone won prizes the meet and contributed handsomely to the sports fund. The baseball game was best seen in the community for many years, Howick winning from Aubrey by a score of 7-5.

The disastrous fire a week ago which destroyed the large barn of Mr. Hiram Reddick gave the people of this district an opportunity once again to prove their generosity. With commendable promptness, a strong committee was organized to interview the neighbours and friends to help Mr. Reddick to rebuild. Mr. Reddick had purchased the farm recently and so the loss was a severe one while other considerations prompted the people to be generous to the extent of over $900.00. Mr. Reddick is a worthy member of a family that is highly respected in the community, and he appreciates keenly indeed this practical sympathy.

St. Stanislas—It might interest Holmiston brethren of the district to know that the D. Raymond who made such a fine display of Holmiston at the Ormstown spring show is an old St. Stanislas boy, whose father kept a post office and general store at the same place. Mr. Raymond's stock farm is located at Vaudreuil and is well worthy of a visit.

Athelstan—At the recent examination in Montreal before the Dominion College of Music, Miss Annie Wilson received the teacher's diploma with the ranking of a B. Honorable of that institution and Miss Bessie Hampton, a pupil of Mrs. Reese, passed successfully the senior examination. Miss Wilson was a pupil of Prof. Hilsley.

Dewittville—At the recent examinations of the London College of Music, Montreal, Miss G. Irene Holiday, pupil of Mr. Arthur H. Howell, was successful in obtaining her licentiate diploma in pianoforte playing and harmony.

Huntingdon—A bright and interesting children's service was given in the Methodist Church Sunday morning. The choir was composed of nineteen girls who sang the Sunday School. The singing was a delight. The pastor, Mr. Norman, gave an object lesson, his text, seeds. There were flowers in profusion.

July 12

Trout River—A Strawberry Social under the auspices of the W.M.S. of this locality was held at the home of Mr. Alex. Anderson on July 4th. The evening was an ideal one, calm, clear, and warm, consequently a large crowd assembled on the spacious lawn adjoining the residence. The program was opened by William Duncan giving a solo, after which Rev. Mr. Mitchell, who presided, made a few appropriate remarks. Addresses of a patriotic nature were given by Mr. Philips, M.L.A., and Dr. Clouston. Songs by Salter, Duncan, and Fred Donnelly, and Mrs. Salter and Miss Clara Burke, also instrumental music by Miss Anna and Thomas McParlane were all much enjoyed. Proceeds amounted to $169.00, part of which goes to the Red Cross and the balance to meet sundry expenses of the W.M.S. The ladies served strawberries, cake and ice cream on long tables beside the house. The tables were always full.

Coffey's Corners—The ladies of Maplemore Red Cross branch held a social at the home of George Hamilton on Tuesday evening. The grounds were lighted with lanterns and torches. Tables were arranged in front of the house where coffee, strawberries, and cake were served. A platform in the orchard was occupied by the Huntingdon Band, who made a welcome contribution to the entertainment. There was also an ice cream booth and the ladies went among the visitors selling home made candy, while others demonstrated that there was lots of fun to be got out of a grab bag. After supper, Dr. Clouston, acting as chairman, conducted a lengthy programme. Speeches were made by Peter Caldwell, Andrew Philips, M.L.A., and Edgar Reardon. The Misses Candlish sang several songs and were encored as was Wm. Carr, who recited from The Habitant. Little Miss Mildred Miller sang very nicely. The ladies received $175.00 and had the weather been more favourable would undoubtedly have added substantially to this handsome figure.

World Insecurity

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

The tremendous destructive power of the hydrogen bomb, as displayed by the tests in the Pacific, has sent a chain reaction of fear throughout the world. The world as we know it would mean the end of the world. That fear would be all to the good if it could prevent the nations from ever starting such a mutually destructive conflict. When I was a youngster in the Old Country it seemed to me that everybody believed that the end of the world was not very far off. Some even claimed that they knew the date upon which the catastrophe would occur. But nobody appeared to be very much concerned about it. Reproductions of imaginative pictures of "The Last Day" and "The Last Man" hung on parlor walls, and our fathers and mothers contemplated them with a reverent and awe-filled respect. But they went about their daily business and nightly diversions as if the world was going to last for ever.

At that time Jules Verne and H. G. Wells were peering into the future and vividly predicting a new world in which mankind would enter a millennium of mechanical marvels under the rules of Science. We have already entered into that new world and have advanced, so to speak, in all directions physically — upward, downward and circumlatively. Science has explored the infinitude of space, weighed the solar and stellar universes in a balance, and has turned to explore the opposite infinitude of the atom. We have only to look around, above and beneath us today to realize that we are living in an age of mechanical miracles. Before our eyes the Scriptural prophecy has been literally fulfilled, which says, "Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased."

Tennyson, who "looked into the future as far as human eye could see," foresaw that man might pay too high a price for this physical knowledge when he wrote, "Knowledge comes, but wisdom lingers." We paid that price in two world wars, which science rendered more devastating and inhuman than all the previous wars of scientific ignorance and savagery. As if that were not enough to frighten us into our senses and make us wise in our generation, scientists are now contriving engines of warfare which, by their own admission, might destroy all life on the earth or would, at least, wipe out populous cities in the twinkling of an eye.

This is not a pleasant subject to write about, but the newspapers are full of it and the movies and television are presenting pictures of the latest H-bomb explosions. We are getting used to the atom bomb, and editors and even preachers were more or less complacently greeting it as the herald of the Atomic Age. But

Civil Defence Needed Since H-Bomb Tests

The Communist-led rebels against the French in Indo-China launched their heaviest attacks last week against the battered fortress of Dien Bien Phu. The outer defences of the French stronghold in the north-west part of the country were wrecked, and the rebels, who soared as their Communist commanders hurled a human sea of attackers against the fortress.

A French Army source estimated last Saturday that the rebels had lost 20,000 killed or wounded since they swept down on the fortress in mid-March. The French claimed 7,000 of these were killed. The French did not announce their own losses, but officials in Paris said while the defenders had suffered "heavy" losses they were light in comparison with those of the enemy.

The French were fighting hard against an unceasing assault. The attackers used every weapon they had in a two-pronged drive from the northwest and southeast. First they used heavy artillery from the surrounding hills. Then infantrymen rushed the French barricades, hurling grenades and plastic containers of high explosives in attempts to cut paths through the barbed-wire mazes. They used machine-gun, rifle and pistol fire, and finally in hand-to-hand fighting wielded long knives and sharp bamboo spears.

At the end of last week, the stubborn defenders were still clinging to the heart of the battered stronghold, trying to stave off what would be the first major Red victory on the war, now in its eighth year.

Costly Strike Over

The 29-day waterfront strike that cost the Port of New York an estimated $500,000,000 ended Saturday as longshoremen swarmed back to work. Hiring bosses stepped in front of the strikers and blew their whistles while the men, without pay for almost a month, eagerly lined up for jobs.

The Independent International Longshoremen's Association, which sponsored the strike in a jurisdictional dispute with a rival AFL union, called off the wayout because they said of the government notice that their union otherwise would be ruled off the ballot in a forthcoming waterfront bargaining election. The election date has not been set.

The shipping industry placed the port's loss through the strike at $500,000,000. Most of this had been lost by diversion of cargo to other ports. Scores of ships had been forced into idleness, 1,000 sugar refinery workers were laid off, the trucking industry figured its loss at $25,000,000.

Loss in wages to the men, who get $2.27 an hour, ran to more millions of dollars.

Normally, 20,000 men are employed on the docks in New York's great harbor. The independent union last September was ousted from the AFL for being racket-ridden. A bargaining election last December was disqualified by the National Labor Relations Board which charged the IILA had used strong-arm tactics to influence voters.

The United States Civil Defence Administration last week released official moving pictures of the first American hydrogen bomb explosion in the Pacific, set off in 1952. They were given to the public in the midst of alarm over the second and third H-bomb blasts, which took place in the last few days.

The hydrogen bomb has put the smaller community in the forefront of any battle for survival which Canada may have to wage against an attacker. This is indicated by Canada's health minister, Paul Martin, who gave a carefully-worded statement to parliament at Ot-

The Top Shelf

By BENJAMIN BEVERIDGE

The come-on gimmick in the selling field—the give-away radio program—has been taken to court in the United States. The Federal Communications Commission has banned "give-aways" because they were "nothing more than lotteries"; but a federal court in New York has ruled that only certain types of audience-participation programs would come under lottery legislation.

Ten years ago the chairman of FCC was perturbed about the standard of radio broadcasting being destroyed by programs which attracted listeners not by quality but by the hope of winning a prize, preferably something for nothing, but possibly for answering a question so trivial that it might have been considered an insult to the listeners who were seeking entertainment rather than an opportunity to get rich quick. "We are opposed to money and prize give-away programs as parasitic and undesirable," says the magazine "Broadcasting Telecasting".

The legality of such programs depends on what is required of the participant in order to win. If he is obliged to furnish money or anything of value or have in his possession a sponsor's product then it may be a lottery. The New York characteristics of the men quite so exactly as the old-fashioned sobriquets did. Almost everyone whose name was John has been called "Honest John" by his supporters—or "Slippery John" by his enemies. Darcy McGee was given the name, "Great Patriot"; by history; but William Pugsley, one time premier of New Brunswick, was called "Sweet William" to his face, and William McDougall, one of the Fathers of Confederation, was called "Wandering Willie". There were some colorful nicknames for people like Louis Tachereau, but they were not always called these names to their faces.

Can you recall the famous Canadian figures who were known by the following names when they were alive? Old Tomorrow, the Grand Old Man of Canada, The Little Rebel, The Tribune of the People, The Great Compromiser. In order they were: Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper, who died in 1915 at 94 (and Sir William Mulock who died at 100 in 1944), William Lyon Mackenzie, Sir Joseph Howe, premier of Nova Scotia, and Mackenzie King. I think, however, that Mr. King is more apt to go down in Canadian history as "The Incredible Canadian", an apt name given the late prime minister by Bruce Hutchison in his biography of Mr. King.

A Winnipeg newspaperman remarks that Canadians are not fond of nicknames. Their political representatives as they once were. He is probably right. Except for "Uncle Louis", which will probably be all of Canada's affectionate name for Mr. St. Laurent for years to come, there are very few public figures in this country known nationally by nicknames. (It may be that our public figures are today not so colorful as Papineau and Sir Sam Hughes.)

Once in a while someone refers to the defence minister as "Babbling Brooke", and to the leader of the Opposition as "Gorgeous George", but this does not expressly identify

This spring, fashion's accent is on colour and gracefulness. It's a season of tremendous variety and brilliance teamed—with of all rare things—good common sense. Clothes for '54 are designed specifically for the Canadian woman and her way of life.

Colour
The introduction of a new colour does wonders for business, especially in the field of fashion accessories. Watch for oceans of orange in scarves, hats, gloves, and belts. With spring definitely headed our way, this colour will be popular to highlight tans and spark pastel wardrobes.

Footwear
The style trend in women's shoes this spring is not so much a change of silhouette as a re-affirming of certain trends that have been coming in for some time. Starting at the toe, it's the point—sometimes tapered, sometimes gently rounded. Then there is the square toe—sometimes abrupt, sometimes ultra soft. The open toe, always popular in warm weather, is again seen in a variety of treatments, some very wide indeed. Heels, whether very high or medium, are slimmer, more graceful, with strong emphasis on the high tapered heel for dress wear.

The Empire Silhouette in Wool
Pictured above is a flare-skirted coat of pure wool fleeced. It features the new Empire silhouette, a fashion forecast for spring. This year wool fabrics, miraculously light in weight, arrive in a whole new parade of crisp, dry-textured wools and moss-soft wools. In perfect step with fashion's emphasis on "new weather" clothes, wool appears to prove its fabulous versatility for one and all.

ber of several important committees of Dairy Farmers.

He was a member of the Quebec Dairy Commission on several different occasions and was a member of the same at the time of his death. He was also a past President of the Montreal Milk for Health Foundation.

Politically, P. D. McArthur was first an active member of the Quebec Progressive Party and then of the Progressive-Conservative Association in Canada, of which latter he was the National President in 1944.

Kirk Leader
A lifelong Presbyterian, P. D. McArthur had been an elder of the Georgetown Presbyterian Church since 1918; Superintendent of the Georgetown Presbyterian Church Sunday School for some 20 years; a long time Bible Class teacher and an Adviser of the Y.P.U. He was also one of the originators of the Quebec Farm Forum and a Past President of same.

Unselfish Service
We often wonder just how many people realize or appreciate the valuable extent of the services rendered by such men as P. D. McArthur. Some men have a bent for such service and, as in the case of P. D. McArthur, give generously of their time and services. But, bent, willingness to serve and all, the giving of some mostly entails considerable self sacrifice—both as regards time and energy and in a monetary way. It is seldom that any actual remuneration is made to these men, except say their traveling etc. expenses, very often they even have to pay such expenses themselves. We therefore often feel that, in instances such as P. D. McArthur, if they had been employed in a commercial way their would have been in the high-priced brackets, so to speak.

Yes "P.D." gave many years of unselfish, unstinted, invaluable service to the cause of the dairy farmers of Canada in general. He will, indeed, be sadly missed.

After an impressive service at the Georgetown Presbyterian Church, attended by many people from far and near, including Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, etc., his remains were interred in the family plot in the Georgetown Kirkyard (Cemetery).

We feel sure that all who knew P. D. McArthur will join with us in offering our condolences to Mrs. McArthur and her sons Wylie, Arnold and Allister in their bereavement.

Prime Minister's Daughter Also Goodwill Ambassador

Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell, youngest of Prime Minister St. Laurent's three daughters, is running her father a close second in spreading Canadian goodwill around the world.

The attractive 38-year-old wife of a Montreal lawyer was her father's close companion, family confidante and sometimes his personal representative during the dozens of functions in countries visited on the Canadian leader's global good-will tour.

She made friends for Canada wherever she went.

At Bonn, West Germany's capital, while the Prime Minister was occupied with state matters, Mrs. O'Donnell was guest of honor at a dinner given by Mrs. T. C. Davis, wife of Canada's ambassador there, for the wives of other diplomats and of members of the Canadian Embassy staff.

At Gros Tenquin, France, she was the luncheon guest of Mrs. W. Weiser, wife of the group captain who commands the RCAF station near the German border.

Mrs. O'Donnell chatted with the large group of wives of the RCAF officers, visited the trailer where Mrs. Weiser is raising three children, and talked about the problem of children's muddy feet.

The Prime Minister's daughter has two adopted children of her own.

Whether she mixes with Canadians abroad or the people with whom Canada wants friendly relations, Mrs. O'Donnell has been in the limelight as a distinguished Canadian woman and has carried out the part without effort.

Though world-touring on a tight air schedule means living out of suitcases, Mrs. O'Donnell had to be turned out tastefully for half a dozen different daily occasions.

She mounted a camel without qualm in Karachi, Pakistan's hot capital, and got up on an elephant at Botale, a village in Ceylon.

Mrs. O'Donnell was known by her first name of Madeleine to most of the members of Prime Minister's party aboard the plane, and exchanged personal experiences with all while she wrote dozens of "thank you" notes to persons she met at the last air stop.

In the great Indian fort of Fatehpur, Sikri, southeast of New Delhi, Mrs. O'Donnell wound a piece of string through a carved marble screen around the tomb of Salim Christi, 16th-century Holy Man.

Asked to make the usual wish, she said: "I hope to come back here some day with my husband."

Astronomers are like golfers. Pros and amateurs mix freely. In fact, amateurs have made some pretty startling discoveries. Like one who discovered the planet Pluto lurking behind Neptune.

Star gazing has been popular for thousands of years. Not so hazardous as it was once, though. Back in 2136 B.C., two Oriental court astronomers named Hsi and Ho forgot to bow during an eclipse of the sun. That was the end of Hsi and Ho.

For a clear close-up of the Man in the Moon, get some 8-inch stove pipe. Then you'll need two glass disks and some grinding compound for your telescopic mirror. One glass is the grinding tool and the other the mirror. Sandwich the compound between the glasses and start grinding.

When you're weary of grinding, put down both glasses, pick up another filled with Molson's Ale, and relax. This pleasant discovery was first made by astronomers and others in 1786, the year Molson's was born. Revolutionary then, it's commonplace now.

Today Canadians looking into glasses are more likely to see Molson's than Neptune or Pluto. That's because more of them ask for Molson's than any other brand. No professional talent needed to recognize clearly the Molson flavour. It's the brightest star in the ale firmament. Puts others into an eclipse, too.

Of particular interest to stamp collectors in Canada is the fact that the post office department is considering a new stamp to commemorate the 8th World Scout Jam-boree to be held in Canada next summer. The camp site will be on the military grounds at Niagara-on-the-Lake, on Lake Ontario near the American border. Boy Scouts from 57 countries have been invited and up to 15,000 scouts may attend.

The scout stamp may be a new idea in Canada, but up to this date 126 stamps have been issued in various countries of the world. Fifty-five of these are Roumanian, and, of course, were all put out by the same printer. The Russian youth movement has replaced the Boy Scouts behind the Iron Curtain.

Balances Budget By Selling Stamps

HALIFAX, N.S. — When Hon. R. M. Fielding, appearing for the first time in his new role of Provincial Treasurer, announced surplus of over three million dollars, the circumstance immediately started some reminiscing by old time politicians who were acquainted with his distinguished uncle, Hon. W. S. Fielding, former premier of Nova Scotia, and later a famous Canadian finance minister.

The elder Fielding was noted for never having produced a single deficit during his whole 30 years in charge of the finances of his native province and the Dominion. Occasionally, however, he had quite a hard time making the grade.

One of the classic traditions of the philatelic world is that once when it was tough and go between revenues and expenditures, "W. S." as he was known, achieved a final substantial margin on the right side of the ledger by selling to a New York stamp dealer's syndicate the "remainders" of the old Nova Scotia stamp issues that had been lying in Province House ever since Confederation when they had been of course superseded by the stamps of the Dominion of Canada.

THE LATE P. D. MCARTHUR

P. D. McArthur
On Wednesday, April 7, 1954, there suddenly passed away one of Canada's greatest livestock breeders, one of the greatest advocates and friends of Canada's great milk producing industry, Peter Daniel McArthur—known to legions of friends and acquaintances across Canada and the United States as "P.D." or "Peter" or P. D. McArthur.

"P.D." (to this writer) died suddenly in the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, where he had been in connection with his official duties as a member of the Quebec Dairy Commission and as President of the Montreal Milk Producers Association.

He was born on December 20, 1881 and so was in his seventy-third year when he unexpectedly passed away.

When he was still in his early teens he was in active assistance of his mother on the old homestead, after the passing of his father, the late William McArthur.

However, he was an active showman when he was but 12 years of age—that is, mostly of horses, his father having been quite a horseman.

In 1903, at 23 years of age, he took over the farm which is now internationally known as Cherry Bank Farm, Howick, Que., and so it is that the presently internationally famous Cherry Bank Ayrshire herd has been in existence for some fifty years.

Master Livestock Breeder

The story of the foundation of the Cherry Bank Ayrshire herd; its outstanding Bonnie Buttercup and other strains is a fascinating one, indeed. In evidence of same being the feature articles about P. D. McArthur and his Cherry Bank herd in the June and July, 1949 issues of Canadian Ayrshire Review. In itself, his founding and breeding here are several times the top ten breeders of Ayrshire cattle in Canada.

Director and President

Concurrently with his livestock activities, P. D. McArthur has, during the past 40 years, been one of the most prominent representatives of the dairy farmers of Canada in a wide variety of activities.

In his own chosen sphere, as an Ayrshire breeder, he was first a director and then President of Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association in 1914, after which he retired from that sphere of activity. However, in 1939 he was again impressed as a director for Quebec and subsequently served in that capacity for several 2 year terms until 1952. During that period he was also a member of the Executive Committee for several different terms. He also acted as judge of Ayrshires at most of the leading Canadian exhibitions, at one time or another.

Producers' Advocate

P. D. McArthur was one of the originators of his own district Milk Producers Association and of the Montreal Milk Producers' Association, of which latter he was a long time director and several times President. This year he was re-elected as President of that Association.

When the National Dairy Council was comprised of Distributor, Processor, etc. and Producer representatives P. D. McArthur was for many years a director, several times a member of the Executive Committee of that Council. However, when the Producers broke away from the Council and formed The Dairy Farmers of Canada, P. D. McArthur was not only one of those who were instrumental in its formation but he was also the first President of The Dairy Farmers of Canada. He has also been continuously a director and a mem-

The Fox without a Tail

A FOX once fell into a trap, and after a struggle managed to get free, but with the loss of his brush. He was then so much ashamed of his appearance that he thought life was not worth living unless he could persuade the other Foxes to part with their tails also, and thus divert attention from his own loss. So he called a meeting of all the Foxes, and advised them to cut off their tails. "They're ugly things anyhow," he said, "and besides they're heavy, and it's tiresome to be always carrying them about with you." But one of the other Foxes said, "My friend, if you hadn't lost your own tail, you wouldn't be so keen on getting us to cut off ours."

MORAL: When an acquaintance says to you "Why bother with a savings account?" he may be acting like the fox without a tail. Any man who knows anything of the chances—and mischances—of life, makes a savings account the first step in his investment program. That's why level-headed Canadians from coast to coast maintain savings accounts with The Canadian Bank of Commerce. Why not join the procession?

ORMSTOWN — The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute met at the home of Miss C. Murphy on April 6th with a good attendance — 23 members and a few visitors.

The meeting opened with the ode and creed, Mrs. F. Martin presiding. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted, as was the treasurer's report.

A letter of thanks was received from Mrs. Bruce Hamilton thanking the W.I. for the use of a wheel chair used by Mrs. John Carmichael. It was moved by Miss Murphy and seconded by Mrs. A. McNeil that the birthday box be discontinued.

It was suggested that a bus be hired for a one-day trip to Macdonald College for the Convention. The convenors' reports were —

Agriculture: A very interesting talk on syrup production and the new plastic buckets. Home Economics: Gelatine being used in different ways to take the place of starch. Also a demonstration of a home-made hat storing device. Citizenship: In Canada we all try to be neighbours no matter what nationality. Publicity: Electronic devices minimize distance of the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada.

A letter was read by Mrs. Martin regarding the course being taken up in the school namely the "Chateauguay Valley Leadership Forum". Also a letter was received and read by Mrs. Martin concerning a course given by Macdonald College entitled "Facts, Figures and Fun".

In neither cases did anyone accept. A suggestion was made to hold a card party in May. The members were asked to contribute articles for both the County and Branch at the Ormstown Horse Show. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. McCartney. The roll call will be to name a flower made out of the word "agriculture".

A very pleasing feature of the meeting was a talk by Miss Rowles of Dewittville, Que., who spoke on the Canadian Industries Ltd., by whom she was employed at Kingston, Ont. She explained the rules and working regulations of the employees and gave a brief sketch of the new factory at Maitland. She also spoke briefly concerning the work she is presently engaged in at The Turkey De-Luxe where she is a partner of Mrs. Noel Catto, well-known turkey raiser at Dewittville. All enjoyed her talk very much and wish her every good luck in her new venture. Dainty refreshments were served at the close by Mrs. Martin, Mrs. McLaren and Miss C. Murphy.

Public Speaking Contest

With ease and assurance, pupils of Grades 2 and 3 of the Hemmingford High School participated in a Public Speaking Contest on Monday, April 5. The junior speakers chose topics of interest, and using a microphone, presented their talks before the entire student body.

In recent years the Hemmingford Women's Institute has sponsored a public speaking contest for pupils, Grade 4 and up. In response to the interest and the enthusiasm in the younger grades, a special contest was organized last year for Grades 2 and 3. This contest was a repetition of last year's successful event.

Mrs. H. Palmer, President of the Women's Institute was chairman of the meeting, which she opened by telling a story to the younger pupils. Mrs. Donald Orr, Convener of Education, then called the speakers to the platform. Those taking part were:

Grade 2: Judy Bickes, Brian Brown, Wayne English, Marion Per-gusson, John Gibbs, Harvey Hough, Shirley McAdam, Kate Pedersen, Carol Pelletier, Lynn Radley, and Allan Whitehouse.

Grade 3: Allan Hill, Doreen Kyle, Marilyn McVey, Arthur Napper, Johnny Richard, Elizabeth Robinson, Isabel Wallace and Sandra Clark.

The winning speakers were: Grade 2: 1st, Lynn Radley—"The Hockey Game." 2nd, Carol Pelletier—"My Favourite Television Program." 3rd, Wayne English—"Circus Visit."

Grade 3: 1st, Sandra Clark—"Winter Fun." 2nd, Doreen Kyle—"My Pupils." 3rd, Marilyn McVey—"Our New School."

The 6 winners, while not eligible for the County Public Speaking Contest, competed against each other on Wednesday, April 7 for Women's Institute prizes. All speakers were given a chocolate bar prize, donated by the Hemmingford Student's Council, the prizes being presented by Miss Heather Ruthford, President of the Council.

In closing, Mrs. Palmer, for the Women's Institute, thanked the teaching staff of the school, the judges, and the Students Council for their wholehearted cooperation which made the contest so successful.

Institute, Hemmingford, held a public speaking contest on Wednesday afternoon, April 7th in the Hemmingford High School Auditorium. This contest opened the regular monthly meeting of the W.I. under the presidency of Mrs. Harold Palmer with Mrs. Donald Orr, Convener of Education for the Women's Institute, as chairman.

Great interest was manifested not only among the contestants, but also among the members and friends of the W.I. who were present. The contest was a very responsible one, combining eight essential points of public speaking; namely, manner of delivery, speech, gesture, material bearing on the subject matter, arrangement of subject matter, clarity of presentation, the general effect of one's speech and its interest to one's audience.

Those who took part showed remarkable poise and generally a good choice of subject for their presentation. This was very manifest in the attention they received from their audience.

The community owes a sincere vote of thanks to the Women's Institute and its leaders in this part of the school, for promoting this very vital part of a child's education.

The following includes a list of the participants:

Grade 4-5—Margaret Robinson, Margaret Baskin and Danny Boon were the winners respectively with Shirley Egerton, Linda Merlin, Sandra Greer, Wilma Clark, Richard Brecknell, Eleanor Brown, Catherine Cleaver and Brenda Wylie as the runners-up.

Grades 6-7—Donnie Brown, Jimmy Ferguson and Katherine Moore were the winners respectively with Marjorie Brown as the runner-up.

Grades 8-9—Florence Brown, Betty Miller and Irene McAdam, winners respectively with Joyce Hough as the runner-up.

The judges were Mrs. Charles Barr, Mrs. J. L'Esperance, and Mr. Harold Palmer, Mrs. Fred Greer, Mrs. William Holmes and Mr. Frank Deery. The names of the winners were announced by Mr. Harold Palmer and Mr. Frank Deery.

Roxham

Roxham — A large number from this district attended the public speaking contest in Hem-mingford High School on Friday night. The contestants all spoke well. While the judges were decid-ing on the winners, the Hem-mingford senior and junior classes competed in a square dance contest, the winners to go to Huntingdon in May. Messrs. Warren and William Fawcett, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fawcett, celebrated their birthday on Sunday. Several men of this vicinity attended the Masonic banquet on Friday night in the Lodge.

Indian Names

Indian names are legendary and all have a meaning. This applies to the names of many hamlets in the Chapleau area of Northern Ontario. All the names have a musical lilt to them, for instance the following: Nemegosenda means a trout stream or place where the trout are. Biscotasing means a place where there was a little fire. Pogamasing—A river where the water flows over the gravel.

Hospital Finances (Continued from page 1) That business comes only from satisfied customers, and takes time to build up. I have no worry whatever on that score. With the loyal and efficient service of all those connected with the institution, and the support of the community there is no fear of this building not fully serving the purpose for which it was built. We regret very much the illness of our Provincial Member, who is also a Governor, otherwise he might have been able to report the final payment of our building grant and been able to report the building clear of debt. To enable full use to be made of the building, some more equipment is required, which will be added as our finances permit. With building operations going on and making the necessary connections with the old building, it has been a trying year for the doctors and nursing staff. This however is now over and I am sure patients now receive as good care as can be secured anywhere. Payment of patients' accounts is still one of the chief worries of the management, and I would appeal to all who have to use the hospital facilities to make an honest effort to pay for the services rendered. I want to give full credit to the doctors and nursing staff for carrying on cheerfully under what were at times rather trying conditions, and to the management and Building Committees, who have given a lot of time to the work carried out.

How and Why

A Column for Boys and Girls By Harold Don Allen

15: A ROCK THAT LIVED Every boy and girl who knows the countryside finds interesting things every time he steps outside his door. All he needs to do is be ready to look and to ask. Some of the simplest seeming things around us have highly unusual stories. Think of the pebble you were kicking down the road. How did it get there in the first place; what made it the colour and size that it is; how did it become rounded and smooth? Men have spent their whole lifetimes studying questions like these, and they still don't know nearly the whole answer. But they think they've found out how most of our rocks came into being, and the story is a difficult and a startling one. Perhaps the most unusual part of it all is the story of a "rock" that you know well—coal—and how it started out being alive!

According to scientists—geologists who study early rocks, this is how our coal must have begun. Long ago, before there were any people on Earth, or any of the animals that we know today, the world was a very different place. It was far warmer, for one thing. Parts of Canada were jungle and swamp, but far different from any jungle or swamp we know today. There were grasses of strange and beautiful kinds grew from the shallow waters. The swamp was thick, and strange forms of animals lived in its waters. Some were fish—unlike any fish of today. Others were insects—frighteningly large and unusual.

communications made in 1942 or 1943 was concerned with the number of apes inhabiting Gibraltar. According to tradition, if there are less than 20 apes on the island, the Rock would fall into enemy hands. Thus the message to the commanding officer of Gibraltar was to see to it that the population of the Apes never fell below 24.

Everything sold in the town was British goods without any tax at all. A large block of chocolate costs 10 cents. The town has a large harbour where I saw many freighters and war ships moored.

The airport, which is actually a military installation, is on the outskirts of the city. Between the British customs and the town, the highway crosses over the runway. Thus all traffic is stopped when a plane lands or takes off.

The city has a large harbour where I saw many freighters and war ships moored. The Spanish customs officers to be seen here as they inspect the goods where much of the smuggling is carried on. The drive followed along the coast and was very pretty. We saw many private villas, fine bathing beaches, etc.

that cannot be seen from the hill due to the roof of the ring being in the way. Sunday afternoon - We left Malaga and began our journey inland through the great Moorish town of Granada. The road winds through the mountains near the Mediterranean, occasionally giving us glimpses of the ocean until suddenly it disappeared behind a mountain.

Before dinner, I took a walk through the quarter near the hotel. I did not realize how steep the mountain was until we began to climb it to reach our hotel. On our way, however, we discovered some interesting little streets with pretty shops. We fortified ourselves with two glasses of beer before we began our walk back to the hotel.

The Alhambra Palace was originally built for Spanish princes. It is a sumptuous building inside - great living rooms, a large dining room, and very modern bedrooms. The interior of the building is decorated with Moorish architecture and intricate plaster Arabic designs.

The fort is built on a hill overlooking the city of Granada. There are a large number of towers and parts of the vast walls still standing, some near the Alhambra Palace.

The upper garden was built during the fourteenth century and is not as old as the lower garden. It is a garden of fountains, old cypress trees, flowering shrubs, and far dens.

The Cathedral of Granada is the oldest example of Renaissance architecture in Spain. It is a large Cathedral containing a number of immense paintings and stone carvings. There are five naves. The Cathedral however, is not as luxurious as some of the other Cathedrals in Spain, but there are some beautiful chapels; the Chapel of St. James which has the finest instance of wood sculpture in all Spain.

The Royal Chapel is a separate church from the Cathedral. It is a Gothic structure. The Chapel is the final Royal resting place for many of the Spanish kings and queens. Before Napoleon marched into Spain, the Chapel was richly furnished with over 500 paintings by Hans Memling. Napoleon, however, removed 365 paintings and took them to France where some of them hang in a museum at Louvre.

for the King, the Queen, and the harlem faced onto this courtyard. Strange as it may seem, the Queen's chambers were two or three times the size of those of the King. The Queen's dressing room has a fountain in the middle of the floor. On the north and south sides of the fountain are two identical slabs of marble. Over the fountain is a small eight-sided tower representing the Moorish star. The stained glass in the windows of the tower are the only existing stained glass windows remaining from the Moorish period.

The Queen's chambers are to the right of the King's chambers. To the left of the King's chambers was the huge two-storey quarters for the Harlem. The doors of the Harlem are of fourteenth century cedar wood. The ceiling of the room is in relief - Moorish stucco patterns. The bedrooms were on the second floor. There is a number of Moorish king had from thirty to forty knights who were all blue bloods of nobility. One of these knights was taking liberties with the Queen, and having an affair with her. The King demanded that the knight make himself known, which he did not do. The King ordered a banquet to be held and invited all the knights to it. During the banquet, the King went to the Harlem and stood by the fountain in the room. Then he called the knights in, one by one and had them beheaded, the heads falling into the fountain and the corpses around it. All told some 34 knights were slaughtered that night. According to legend, the blue part of the marble of the fountain was coloured by the blood of the knights, blue blooded nobility.

The Moors were very clean people. Within the fort, there is a large room which contains several steam baths. From the outside, the steam bath looks like large baked ovens similar to those often seen outdoors in the Gaspé Peninsula. The steam baths had many eight-sided pieces of coloured glass so that the sun could help heat the baths. With the steam baths, there were a number of indoor cold water pools for the King to slip into after the steam bath. Incidentally the King's cold water pool was twice the size of the Queen's.

For the women of the court (the Queen and the Harlem girls) there was a large garden with a swimming pool about 100 feet by 60 feet. Next to it was a small chapel where the women prayed five times a day, according to their religion. To the right of the garden was the mosque, and afterwards the great cathedral which is not in use now.

Granada has some eighty Roman Catholic churches, thirty to forty Moorish mosques, and ten or twelve Jewish synagogues. The fact that Jews and Muslims lived in Granada is unusual as Spain is considered a Roman Catholic country. There are no Protestant churches, but occasionally, as in Granada, one sees a Jewish or Muslim cemetery. The Cathedral of Granada is the oldest example of Renaissance architecture in Spain. It is a large Cathedral containing a number of immense paintings and stone carvings. There are five naves. The Cathedral however, is not as luxurious as some of the other Cathedrals in Spain, but there are some beautiful chapels; the Chapel of St. James which has the finest instance of wood sculpture in all Spain.

The Royal Chapel is a separate church from the Cathedral. It is a Gothic structure. The Chapel is the final Royal resting place for many of the Spanish kings and queens. Before Napoleon marched into Spain, the Chapel was richly furnished with over 500 paintings by Hans Memling. Napoleon, however, removed 365 paintings and took them to France where some of them hang in a museum at Louvre. Many of the remaining paintings hang in a museum which is part of the Chapel. The showcases contain rich ceremonial clothes of kings, gold and silver vestments, and ornaments. The High Altar is separated from the body of the Chapel by a high hand-wrought iron fence (16th century). Within the design of the fence there are six eagles and six lions. The most interesting crypt of the Chapel is that of Ferdinand and Isabella. The crypt is lighted by a thick candle which burns day and night. The coffins are placed without fancy trimmings. Surrounding the two coffins are the coffins of their son and brothers.

Shawinigan Has No Fear Atomic Energy Plants Threat To Hydro-Electric

Production of electric power from atomic energy plants, if economic at all, constitutes no threat to existing hydro-electric installations, but the Shawinigan Water and Power Company is watching closely the development of atomic power, Shawinigan's shareholders were told today by J. A. Fuller, president.

Several members of the Company's staff, he indicated in his address to the annual meeting, are participating in studies being carried out by the crown corporation, Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd.

The Atomic Energy Commission of the United States, Mr. Fuller remarked, has adopted a five-year program for the construction of five different types of reactors, and Atomic Energy of Canada has undertaken a study of the most feasible type of reactor with regard to power purposes and engineering specifications.

"All of this work, and in addition the construction of large experimental reactors," he said, "is being carried out to determine whether power produced from atomic energy will be economic. Nobody doubts that it can be produced; in fact, it is being done now on an experimental basis. Nobody knows, however, what the capital or operating costs, on a commercial basis, will be. It would appear that complete answers to these questions are some five years away."

It must be remembered, Mr. Fuller said, that the talk of atomic energy today refers only to the use of atomic fuel in substitution for conventional fuels such as coal or oil or natural gas, to raise steam to drive turbines, and the steam plant involves at present only about 30 per cent of the total investment required to deliver electric power to the customer. The other 70 per cent of the investment is accounted for by turbines, generators, transmission and distribution lines, and auxiliary equipment, which are required regardless of the fuel.

The economic feasibility of atomic energy, therefore, will rest on a comparison of costs so far, with present thermal plants, have shown great variation.

Within Quebec, however, Mr. Fuller emphasized, hydro-electric power is now, and for some time to come will remain less expensive than electricity derived from any type of thermal plant regardless of the fuel.

"To the best of present knowledge, atomic energy plants, if at all economic, constitute no threat to existing hydro-electric developments," he told the shareholders.

President Fuller, in his report on Shawinigan's operations during 1953, emphasized the steadily increasing stability of the Company's sources of revenue. Last year, he commented, revenues from the sale of power increased by 3.2 per cent, although the volume of sales, in terms of kilowatt-hours, decreased by 3.7 per cent. The improvement in revenues, he said, was due to the 12.2 per cent increase in the sale of power to retail customers, including residential, farm, commercial and municipal consumers, and the 10.2 per cent increase in the sale of primary power to other utilities for resale.

"There have been remarkable developments in the province of Quebec in the past few years," he said, "and while many of them have been in the field of newly-discovered natural resources and primary industries, it has always been the experience that secondary industries follow. We therefore look forward to continued progress, and our Company has prepared itself to share in that progress."

Win Provincial Prizes in Temperance Study Course

The following is a list of the prize-winners from Huntingdon, Chateauguay counties who won Provincial prizes in the National Temperance Study Course. (The number following the name is the rank obtained by that pupil):

- Juniors - 9 years and under:
 Arlene Brown, Howick, 1; Joyce McLean, Huntingdon, 2; Shirley Graham, Athelstan, 4; Kathleen Reid, Huntingdon, 6; Stanley Erskine, Athelstan, 8.
- Juniors - 10 - 12 years:
 Norma Dunn and Shirley Dunn, Frank Centre, 3; Alice Hamilton, Huntingdon, 4; Hazel Cullen, Ormstown, and Betty Hamilton, Huntingdon, 7; Billy Stevenson, Frank Centre, 9.
- Intermediates:
 Dorothy Beattie, Ormstown, 3; Mary Hooker, Ormstown, 5; Allison Reid, Huntingdon, 7.

The second question was - "In the Spring a young man's fancy" - as the old saying goes. What advice would you give a daughter to help that fancy along a bit? In other words what, in your opinion is the surest way to a man's heart? Through his stomach someone said a long time ago, and perhaps this still holds true, but one must also show appreciation, have a sense of humour and a pleasant disposition, and above all, shun that little demon called "Jealousy."

Question No. 3, "Does Canada really need a Governor General or could funds used for the up-keep of Government House be better employed elsewhere? Here was a division of opinion - two of the panel felt he was really only a figure-head with no actual authority, and two felt that he added a certain prestige to our Government and that we needed him to keep that link with Britain. Here someone mentioned the possibility of the Queen coming to live in Canada for a certain length of time each year, and if this should come to pass we certainly would not need the Governor General to furnish that link with Great Britain. On the other hand, having the Queen in our midst would, also cost money and financially speaking it would be more economical to keep the Governor General.

Question No. 4 - "If you should die, would you want your husband to marry again?" Here the general opinion was "yes," although some thought it would be altogether a matter of circumstances. But there is no one as lonely as a man alone, and it was definitely thought that he should re-marry and so have the companionship of one his own age.

No. 5 - "What was your most embarrassing moment?" and No. 6 - "Do you recall any amusing word mix-ups that you have heard anyone make?" brought forth a number of laughable accounts.

All in all, the panel was interesting and thought-provoking as well as being amusing. The members of the panel were: Mrs. W. D. Fraser, Mrs. Lyle Currie, Miss Thelma McMillan and Mrs. Vernon Elder. The moderator was Mrs. Gordon Fraser.

School Notes
 On Friday afternoon, the students of the two rooms had the pleasure of seeing two pictures on the projector. One was the story of the lovely little girl, "Heidi," and the other was the story of the "Three Bruins." They were both much enjoyed and since "Heidi" is on the Literature course of Grades VI and VII this afforded them a marvellous opportunity for becoming acquainted with the story through visual aid.

These two films were secured by the Department of Education at Quebec and are shipped free of charge to the school. The school has the loan of them for a few days and then they are expressed back to the Dept., the only cost to the school being the express charges back to Quebec, a matter of a few cents.

With some of the money raised through the card parties, the teachers have been able to purchase enough material to form window drapes for the up-stairs rooms. These drapes are an essential when pictures are shown in the afternoons.

Easter examinations will be completed this week in both rooms, and the Easter recess will begin on April 15th through the 26th. Needless to say, after the long pull from Christmas till Easter, teachers and pupils alike are keenly awaiting the forthcoming holidays.

 Spots on winter clothes which are not washable present a real problem to those of us who are unable to send our clothes to the cleaners frequently. It's a good grooming habit to brush clothes every time they are taken off and to look for stains which should always be treated as soon as possible.

If you are removing a grease stain, use a solvent such as carbon tetrachloride which has little effect on fibres or dyes. A white blotter or cotton wool should be placed beneath the stain and you should work from the wrong side of the material in order to push

W.A. Meeting - Make Sizeable Donation to Managers
STE. AGNES - The regular monthly meeting of the Zion United Church Women's Association was hospitably entertained on Wednesday afternoon, March 31, at the home of Mrs. Wm. McPherson, with Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Wm. Leslie and Mrs. Hugh Cameron as joint hostesses.

Mrs. Lyle Currie conducted the business meeting, while the devotional period was led by Mrs. Wm. Leslie. The roll call was answered with "A tip on caring for house plants." These bits of advice were worth knowing and following are a few of the hints. Always water plants with luke warm water - and preferably soft water. One member said that the very last snow that came - melted - proved a very beneficial drink for plants. It was thought that the reason for this might be because of the added minerals contained in this last snow fall. Many add commercial fertilizer to ground surrounding plants and quite often lime is added to the water. It is best to keep African violets out of the sun and dust. Sometimes the leaves may be successfully washed while other times washing causes the leaves to turn brown. Ferns must also be kept out of sun and preferably in a cool place.

The placing of an order for 100 cook-books was thoroughly discussed. Since the last printing, the price has been raised from $65 for 100 copies to $85 for the same number. As the W.A. has already sold 275 copies of the cook-book it was difficult to ascertain whether or not they could dispose of an extra 100 copies, but since there have been about 20 new orders placed for books, it was left with the executive and Mrs. D. J. Fraser to make certain inquiries and to re-order if they see fit.

Mrs. Clarence Platt gave the financial report on the series of 3 Crokinole Parties. The sum of $180 was realized from the party at Olive Platt's; $22.20 from the one at Gladys Robinson's and $21.00 from the one at Thelma McMillan's. A vote of thanks was moved to the 3 hostesses and to the Committee in charge of planning and supervising the parties.

Miss Thelma McMillan led a discussion on the Food Sale which is to take place at Heath's Reg'd. in Huntingdon on the 23rd of April at 3 o'clock. The 23rd falls on a Friday, and cars will pick up donations from all those who have so generously offered food.

Mrs. W. D. Fraser gave the financial report from the Board of Managers. The newly installed burning furnace in the manse cost $900, plus an additional $90, for oil and $75, for wiring - this totalled $1,065.

The recent canvass made by the Managers brought in the sum of $525. The Powerscourt Congregation made a very acceptable donation of 100, thus $425, came from Dundee and $100, from Powerscourt.

Following this report by Mrs. Fraser, the ladies discussed what would be a suitable donation for the W.A. to make to the Managers ow of death, it is oftentimes a matter of heart searching and sorrow, and sore grief, but we must not sorrow as those who have no hope. Death is indeed but a shadow, the veil has been rent in twain. Our blessed hope is alive by the glorious resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ. To all who die in the Lord, it is not death that this mortal flesh should die, but a new and a better day, an awakening to that peace which passeth knowledge, that joy which hath no ending. "Behold, I am alive for evermore in the mansions of the King of Kings."

Come then, with gladness mingling with our sorrow. Come, in the name of free grace, and dying love, and life eternal. Come with new resolve to live honourably for their sakes who are gone before, "to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with your God." Amen.

The sympathy of the community at large goes forth to the bereaved widow, sons Wylie, Arnold and Alister and his brother, George McArthur, Howick and other relatives. Floral expressions were many and testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The Week at Ottawa

OTTAWA, (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott's 1954-55 federal budget brought few surprises.

Income tax is unchanged. Taxes on some household and other consumer goods, electrical appliances heading the list, are down. But the reductions add up to less than one per cent of the national tax bill. What savings on tax-cut goods will reach the buyer is problematical. Mr. Abbott's main tax-cutting effort was to snip the last of the electrical appliances—not including radios and television sets—from a special 15-per-cent excise tax. Also exempted from this tax were a variety of articles including furs, firearms, golf and fishing equipment, cameras and travelling gear.

Despite appeals for reduction of the tax in other directions, Mr. Abbott kept it in effect on automobiles, radio and TV sets, phonographs and cameras. He also let tax-exempted on other tobacco and liquors.

The special 15-per-cent tax was cut to 10 per cent on a variety of other articles, including automobile tires and tubes, clocks, watches, fountain pens, glass and chinaware, toilet preparations, some smokers' supplies, matches, soft drinks and confectionery.

All the special excise tax cuts take hold at the manufacturing end. What the buyer gets out of them depends on how the cuts are passed along through the distributing chain.

Mr. Abbott estimated he has skimmed from the overall tax bill what will be worth to the taxpayer an estimated $36,000,000 in the fiscal year that ends next March 31, and $40,000,000 for a full year after that.

Bad News for Quebec Mr. Abbott delivered bad news for taxpayers in Quebec province. He said residents of that province will not be allowed to deduct the full amount of their property taxes from their federal income tax. Premier Duplessis had wanted this tax—15 per cent of the federal income tax—fully deductible.

Mr. Abbott said Quebec taxpayers will get just that get now—a deduction of five per cent of their federal tax.

Municipalities are expected to benefit slightly from the special excise tax reductions. One main item covered by these, on which the tax was cut to 10 per cent from 15, is heavy equipment such as road graders and fire-fighting gear. Progressive Conservatives in the Commons had been fighting for such a concession during the last year.

Some Laughter, Too

The Opposition financial critic, J. M. Macdonnell, was unenthusiastic and some of his wry, soft-spoken remarks after Mr. Abbott had finished his 16,500-word tax outline had everyone in the Commons, from Liberal members to the spectators in the crowded galleries, laughing.

Mr. Macdonnell had heard this 10th budget of Mr. Abbott's was to be his last—Mr. Abbott later confirmed this—and he wanted to congratulate the finance minister for whatever he did in the past that was right. He forgave Mr. Abbott for what he had done wrong.

He hoped, too, that Mr. Abbott's "swan song" would not be taken literally, for he had heard that meant the end of the bird. Mr. Abbott, grinning broadly in his seat across the Commons, shook his head.

"So Little . . ." Referring to the 50 seconds of applause accorded by government supporters after Mr. Macdonnell said he had "never heard so little applauded so much by so many."

The budget was the same old, old lie and provided nothing to aid the unemployed. "We've got nothing but a lot of fair words," Mr. Macdonnell said. "You could put the reductions in your eye."

"Look at them," he said, waving his hand in the direction of the Liberal benches. "Well, Mr. Speaker, did you ever see a more—shall we say—self-pleased lot of men?" He suggested the prayer for government members:

"Lord, if it be possible, help us to be worthy in some measure of the high esteem in which we hold ourselves."

MP Killed The Progressive Conservatives lost a prospective cabinet minister in the Trans-Canada Air Lines plane crash April 8 at Moose Jaw, Sask. Rodney Adamson, 52, member of the Commons for York West, was killed with his wife, among the 37 victims.

The veteran member, a mining engineer who specialized in studying natural resources and particularly gold mining, was a member of his party's "shadow cabinet" as chairman of the resources committee. As such, he was regarded as certain of a cabinet post should a PC government come to power.

Ironically, he and his 36-year-old wife were heading for Sunshine Ski Lodge, high in the Rockies near Banff, where they met originally, when their plane collided with an RCMP trainer over Moose Jaw.

Mr. Adamson's death leaves the 265-member Commons standing at: Liberals, 173; Progressive Conservatives, 50; CCF, 23; Social Credit, 15; Independent, 3, vacant, 1.

Glenelm

Glenelm — As usual, Mr. T. McLeod gave an inspiring sermon last Sunday which was Palm Sunday, in the Kensington United Church. Thursday evening, the service will be held at 8:30 in the Kensington Church, where the Powerscourt and Dundee congregations will unite with the local congregation. Mr. T. McLeod will take the service, and Rev. R. S. Beal of Huntingdon United Church, the Sacramento. We hope all will be present at the service.

Miss Mae Montgomery is spending the week with her mother, who has not been very well for the past couple of weeks, but glad to report she is now on the gain.

Mrs. E. Salter has been ill for the past two weeks with erysipelas. Glad to state she is on the road to recovery. Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Brown, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Brown of Huntingdon, motored to Montreal on Saturday and visited at the home of Mrs. Wm. McKinnon and other friends. Mr. Spencer Gavin and Mrs.

Interesting Notes From My Holiday Notebook

By A. L. SELLAR

Eleven weeks is a long holiday for any man in active business, but when a holiday restores health and vigor it is indeed time well spent. Mrs. Sellar and I returned home from Florida on Tuesday evening by car, which was driven by Mr. Keith Howden. It was a delightful trip north as we saw things in full bloom when we left Florida and as we wended our way north through Georgia, South and North Carolina, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey and the southern part of New York State we noted things were in various stages of spring growth. From Albany to Huntingdon, a distance of 200 miles, everything still looked a bit drab. As a matter of fact when travelling through part of the Adirondacks some of the bush lots looked as though winter was still with us.

During the next few weeks I shall prepare a column for the Gleaner, perhaps some of the observations will prove to be interesting reading. This contribution will deal entirely with a Rotary meeting held at the Boutwell dairy farm in Lake Worth, Fla.

The Boutwell Dairy Farm is located near Lake Worth and on the farm they had 530 head of Guernsey cattle. The Rotarians to the number of 200 were present and had their luncheon in the dairy barn. The barn was a one-storey building. Upon entering the barn a sweet smell was noted, it was emanating from the bags of citrus pulp, stored at the barn entrance. Upon entering the barn proper it was to be noted that it was constructed of cement blocks and the walls were all finished with tile. The passageway wall and manger were built of terra cotta tile and polished. The cement floor of the barn was underdrained and slightly sloped so that when the walls were washed down daily with water at high pressure everything drained away in short order. The ceiling of this barn was also tiled and fluorescent lighting was used extensively. All windows were of the jalousy type and screened.

The Rotarians had their lunch in this barn and not a single trace of a dairy barn odor was to be noted.

Janet Gavin motored to Montreal the past week and visited at the home of Mrs. H. Wilson. Sorry that Mrs. Wilson is not as well as her friends would wish her to be. Mrs. H. R. Wilson spent Sunday in Huntingdon with her daughter, Mrs. Allan McMillan.

Mill feeds are fed throughout the year. Bran, beet pulp and citrus pulp is generally fed. The proportion of citrus pulp will represent 50%. The citrus pulp is low in protein, being about 3 1/2%. Years ago the citrus pulp had a 5% protein content. In ordinary times the citrus pulp costs $60 a ton but at the present time a price war is on and the pulp is selling for $38 a ton; but no company was willing to contract to sell a year's supply at this low price.

The price of fluid milk to the housewife is 27c per American quart whilst table cream fetched 28c a half pint, U.S. measure. Adam L. Sellar.

Curling Club Winds..

was a happy thought toward developing the best of fellowship among club members. Mayor Leo Cappiello presented the trophy to the Club for this specific purpose and on Saturday evening was able to be present to make the official presentation to George P. Elder who skipped his rink of Retired Gentlemen to victory. Mayor Cappiello informed the Gleaner that this was his first public function other than a few council meetings. The Mayor felt well and believes that in a very short time he will be able to do things in just as active a manner as was his good fortune previous to his accident last June.

Presentation

The Curling Club availed themselves of the opportunity to make a farewell presentation to Mr. W. K. Pope, who for 13 winters had been a member of the Club. Mr. Pope accepted the gifts with sincere thanks and assured the members that as holidays permitted he would certainly make it a pleasurable duty to visit Huntingdon. "I already have had an invitation to participate in the Edinburgh Curling Competition in Montreal next winter and I assure you I will make an effort to be present, for I do enjoy this "roarin' game" of Curling and the grand lot of men who participate in the sport," he remarked.

Winners of the Saturday Night Draw were — $25.00, Mrs. Irvin McWhinnie; $10.00, C. J. Kyle; $5.00, B. A. Rankin.

Home and School Members Hear Public Speaking Contestants at Meeting

Further Call to Be Made For Donations to School Library

Huntingdon Home and School Association held a short meeting at the Huntingdon High School, on Wednesday evening, but it was an interesting one in many ways. Mrs. F. G. McCrimmon, who is in charge of the "Painting For Pleasure" class sponsored by the Home and School, had a number of paintings done by those taking the course, on display. These showed excellent talent and that many people have an art for painting. A discussion was held in the hope of getting suggestions for similar classes and of increasing the scope and number of the subjects for the classes. No decision was arrived at.

B. of T. Plans Dinner Meeting

April 26 at the Chateau, Huntingdon

Huntingdon Board of Trade is maintaining its activity. At the moment the executive is organizing a dinner meeting that should work toward the betterment of the Board members as well as the Town of Huntingdon. The oftener the men of Huntingdon meet together, the more they will know of each other and the more they will be able to help one another.

On Monday evening, April 26, a dinner meeting will be held in the Chateau at 7:30 p.m. Mr. A. Carisse, the new Manager of the Chateau, has assured the Board of Trade that an excellent meal will be served. The guest speaker of the evening will be Mr. Ben Bregman, Malone. Mr. Bregman needs no introduction to many Huntingdonians for he is very highly regarded as a successful industrialist and speaker; he will certainly not disappoint the assembled gathering.

At approximately 10:45 p.m. the Hall seemed to clear as though by magic and all that could be heard was the subdued sound of voices here and there preparing to close their eyes for the night. Mr. and Mrs. McCrow who had assisted so ably in preparing the Hall and carrying out much planning for the Clinic, were the last to be seen turning out the lights and saying a final good-night to those who were the last to leave. The Committee wishes to thank them for their kind co-operation.

Poached to Perfection

It has been said that poaching is the acid test for a fresh egg. An egg has to have a preponderance of thick white and an upstanding yolk to be cooked to advantage by this method. However, even the freshest of eggs won't be a success if there is not sufficient water in the pan. Here are a few points to bear in mind when poaching the breakfast egg: 1. Have the water in the pan at least an inch and a half deep. Bring water to the boiling point.

Add salt now, or salt eggs when cooked.

- 1. Carefully break each egg into a cup and slip it into the water.
2. Cover pan and set off heat but keep in a warm place, or lower heat so that the water will remain below simmering point. Never let the water boil or eggs will be tough and rubbery. Continue cooking until eggs are set to the desired degree.
3. Remove eggs from water with a slotted lifter, such as a pancake turner, drain and place on hot toast. Sprinkle with paprika, dot with butter and serve at once.
4. Poached eggs are delicious as luncheon or supper main dishes also. Top hot spinach with poached eggs and cheese sauce; or serve corned beef hash with poached eggs on toast with mushroom or tomato sauce. For additional variety poach eggs in undiluted condensed soup. For a more substantial dish add any desired cooked vegetables to the soup before adding the eggs.

Items of Interest

Well, April's Pool day has come and gone once more and no doubt the usual jokes were pulled on those who had the option to buy later. The disc jockey on radio station CFCF, Gord. Sinclair really pulled a neat one on April's Pool's morning when he shamelessly announced standard time one hour ahead of French and English, also recently addressed a group of Italo-Canadians in Montreal in their native language.

Household Hints

Keeping a spoon in each canister and a shovel or cup in the canister. President J. R. Fox has already received word from Mr. Jean Boucher, M.P., for the constituency of Chateaugay - Huntingdon - Laprairie, that he will be pleased to be present.

Industrial representatives for the railways, banks and Shawinigan and Power Co. are also being invited to be present. At the moment it is not definitely known what the musical programme will be, so further details will be announced in the next issue of the Gleaner.
