UNITED STATES PACIFIED IN THE "ARABIC" CASE

GERMANY EVIDENTLY HAS AT LAST AGREED TO MODIFY THEIR INHUMAN METHODS IN SUB-MARINE WARFARE.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Strained relations between the United States and Germany over submarine warfare apparently passed into history today after Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, informed Secretary of State Lansing in writing that his government had decided that that prior to the sinking of the Arabic submarines should sink no more liners without warning.

Oral assurances to this effect should be given by the Ambassador last week. But it was not until Count Von Bernstorff, after a call at the State Department today, returned to the Embassy and sent a letter to Mr. Lansing quoting instructions from Berlin concerning an answer to be made to the last American note on the sinking of the Lusitania that officials frankly admitted their gratification over the changed position of the German government.

Secretary Lansing said in a formal statement that the letter "appears to be a recognition of the fundamental principle for which we have contended." He immediately sent the communication to the White House, and discussed it in cheerful vein with his callers. Everywhere in administration circles there was a visible relaxation of the tension which had existed ever since the Lusitania tragedy, though lessened by the earlier assurances of Count Von Bernstorff and advice from Ambassador Gerard as to the attitude of officials in Berlin.

The next step, it is stated authoritatively, will be a formal communication from the German government, disavowing the destruction of the Arabic and tendering regret and reparation for American lives lost in the disaster if the attack was made by a German submarine. Even if the submarine which torpedoed the liner subsequently was sunk by a British man-of-war, as has been suggested both from Berlin and London, the Berlin Foreign Office is expected to send its disavowal as soon as a reasonable time has passed without a report from its commander.

Once the situation growing out of the Arabic incident has been disposed of, the response to the long unanswered American note on the Lusitania will be despatched, and if Germany's explanations and proposals in this case are accepted by the United States, both officials and diplomats here expect the way to be cleared for a complete understanding between the two governments on the subject of freedom of the seas. In German circles it is freely admitted that in Berlin a hope prevails that such an understanding would be followed by insistent action by the United States to stop interference with neutral commerce by Great Britain and her allies which prevent Germany from importing food supplies for her civil population.

CAPTURE OF IMPORTANT
TACTICAL POINT IS RE-CORDED BY GEN. HAMILTON.

London, Sept. 2.—12.10 a.m.—Further gains for the Allied forces on the Gallipoli peninsula are chronicled in an official report received from General Sir Ian Hamilton, commander-in-chief of the British forces operating against the Turks. The report says:

"Further fighting on the 2th and 28th on the northern section of the line has resulted in the capture of an important tactical point commanding the Buvuk Anafarta valley to the east and north and an appreciable gain of the ground occupied by the Australians and New Zealand army corps.

"The fighting was almost entirely hand to hand and of a severe character. Very heavy losses were inflicted on the Turks and three of their machine guns, three trench mortars, three hundred rifles, five hundred bombs and a large quantity of small arms ammunition were captured by us."

AN EARLY GENERAL OFFENSIVE NOW SEEMS TO BE LOOKED FOR IN THE WESTERN BATTLEFIELD

For The Past Week The French Have Been Pouring An Avalanche Of Shells Into The German Lines — Austrians Capture Russian Fortress Of Lutsk — Muscovite Evacuation Of Galicia Appears Likely—German Attempts To Cross The Dvina

London, Sept. 1.—The minor fortress of Lutsk, which with those of Dubno and Rovno forms a fortified triangle on Russian territory just north of the Galician frontier, was captured by the Austrians today, according to the official report from Vienna. It is in this direction that the Austro-German offensive has been the most aggressive during the past few days, the object being to separate the Russian army which has been retreating through the Pripiet marshes from that operating in Galicia, and which yesterday inflicted, so the Russians claim, a rather severe defeat on the invaders.

The capture of Lutsk, however, is likely to compel the Russians, despite their victory, to evacuate that part of Galicia still held by them; otherwise their flank there would be seriously threatened.

Along the rest of the front, except in the centre, where the Austro-Germans continue to make a slow advance, the Russians appear to be holding their own. They have thus far prevented the Germans from crossing the Dvina at Friedrichstadt, where a battle has been in progress for several days; they have arrested the German offensive between that point and the Gulf of Riga, and are still holding their ground between Kovno and Vilna and before Grodno, although the Germans have approached the outer positions of Grodno fortress.

In the opinion of military writers here the Russians now stand a good chance of winning the race for time. Within a few weeks the autumn rains will begin, and it is pointed out unless they can succeed in gaining a decisive result before that time, the Austro-Germans can hardly hope to smash the Russian armies before, under cover of the long winter, they are reformed and re-equipped. At present the Austro-Germans are straining every nerve to win this decision, but they have been greatly delayed by the intensity of the Russian counter attacks and the stubbornness with which the Russian troops hold the positions protecting their retreating comrades.

The Russian losses, of course, have been enormous. According to Berlin, the Russians have lost 1,000,000 in prisoners since May 2, the date on which the drive commenced in western Galicia, while during August alone the captures included over a quarter of a million men and 2,300 cannon. The Austro-German losses, too, have been heavy in killed and wounded, while the strain on the troops has been terrific. They still have, according to Petrograd estimates, about 2,000,000 men on the eastern front, 300,000 being in the Riga region, more than 1,000,000 in the centre, and from 600,000 to 700,000 in Galicia.

For a week the French have been pouring an avalanche of shells into the German lines in the west. It is not believed that this ammunition would be used simply for the purpose of damaging the German trenches and, therefore, an early general offensive is looked for.

Except from Kamerun, where the British and French report successes over the Germans, there is no news from other battle fronts.

GERMANY CANNOT SHIFT BLAME FOR CAUSING WAR

BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE COMPLETELY REFUTES
THE ALLEGATIONS OF THEIR MOUTH-PIECE,
THE NORTH GERMAN GAZETTE.

London, Sept. 1.—10 p.m.—In reply to recent German statements relating to the origin of the war, the British Foreign Office has issued the following:

"First:—The Germans maintain that the reason which led to the rejection of the proposal for a conference was the mobilization of Russia. In Paper No. 43 of our White Book, Sir E. Goschen (British Ambassador at Berlin) reported a conversation with the German Secretary of State, refusing a conference.

"The Secretary of State said that the suggested conference would practically amount to a court of arbitration and could not, in his opinion, be called together except at the request of Austria and Russia. He maintained that such a conference was not practicable. He further said that if Russia mobilized against Germany the latter would have to follow suit. As when he refused a conference he referred to the possibility of Russian mobilization it cannot now be maintained that the reason for the refusal was the fact that Russia was mobilizing.

"As a matter of fact the proposal for a conference was made July 26, 1914, and was refused by Germany July 27, 1914; while it was not until July 31 that orders were given for a general mobilization in Russia. On that day Germany presented an ultimatum to Russia requiring an understanding that within 12 hours the Russian forces should be demobilized.

OFFICIAL

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Paris, Sept. 1.—10.25 p. m.—The following official communication was issued by the War Office tonight.

"Artillery actions have occurred in the sector to the north of Arras and in the regions of Roye and Quennewieres.

"The enemy has thrown some shells on Soissons and Rheims, and our artillery has directed a very efficacious fire against the enemy trenches on the front of the Aisne and Champagne.

"In the Argonne the Germans during the course of the day bombarded our front on several occasions with bomb throwers and guns of various calibres, particularly between the ravine of La Houyette and La Fontaine-Aux-Charmes. Our batteries and our trench guns replied and silenced the guns of the enemy.

"In the Vosges there has been a rather violent cannonading in the Ban-De-Sept and at Combe-kopf.

"On the night of Aug. 28-29 our aeroplanes bombarded the German installations at Ostend, the cantonments at Middelkerke and the station at Thourout.

"Enemy aeroplanes have dropped bombs on Luneville. It is reported that there were some victims among the civil population."

PRES. WILSON OBTAINED IMPORTANT CONCESSION

BRITISH PRESS COMMENTS ON BERNSTORFF'S
NOTE EXPRESSING SATISFACTION OVER IMPROVED SITUATION.

London, Sept. 2.—2.02 a.m. — The London morning newspapers while recognizing that President Wilson has secured an important concession from Germany with regard to Germany's submarine warfare express the belief that the President will not be content with it, but from the point of view that Count von Bernstorff's note to Secretary of State Lansing indicates that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German Imperial Chancellor, has a free hand, they express satisfaction over the improved outlook of the situation.

"It is difficult to imagine," says the Daily Telegraph in an editorial, "that President Wilson will accept Count von Bernstorff's proposal since such a settlement would leave merchant sailors under the American or other flags still exposed to the perils of submarine piracy. If there is any whitening away of the broad principle for which the United States government has been contending the world will be confronted with murderous conditions at sea as a permanent menace in time of war, for Germany has no monopoly of submarines."

The Daily Telegraph contends that nothing but a complete abandonment of Germany's submarine policy will be sufficient. It argues that international law recognizes no difference between passenger vessels and cargo boats, and says that Germany herself acted in accordance with this principle as long as she had a warship or a merchantman at sea, and only threw it over when British naval power asserted its sway by legitimate means.

"The sobering truth to the Germans," the Daily Telegraph continues, "is that they are confronted by an embarrassing situation where something must be done. Two alternatives only are open—either Germany must persist in her policy of outrage and murder or call off her submarines. There is no middle course, unless the United States is to recede from the position she has hitherto maintained."

In conclusion the Daily Telegraph says that while it is believed Count von Bernstorff is trying to obtain minimum terms it sees hope in the apparently diplomatic illness of Admiral von Tripitz, the German Minister of Marine, which it declares will give Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg a free hand.

The Daily Graphic in an editorial takes the same view as the Daily Telegraph. It says the announced German position with regard to submarines is a greater triumph for Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg than for President Wilson.

"It is a clever concession," says the Daily Graphic, "which costs Germany nothing, because her power to repeat such atrocities as the sinking of the Lusitania has to a large extent been destroyed by the heavy toll Great Britain has taken of her submarines. If President Wilson is really in earnest, however, he cannot be satisfied with such a partial concession."

The Times, in an editorial, says it awaits with much curiosity the disclosure of the instruction given to Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador at Washington, and expresses the belief that the motive for

The capture of Admiral von Tripitz to the politicians, "who are now so eager to display respect for American opinion," may be found in Great Britain's numerous captures of German submarines and the consequent difficulty in providing an adequate supply of trained submarine crews, which the paper says "may have induced Germany to make a virtue of a necessity."

The Times supposes that "the failure of the submarine policy will be hidden from the German public under cover of a new agitation against British policy—this time about cat-

THREAT TO KILL THE PRESIDENT OF U. S.

Russell, Kan., Sept. 1.—Alleged threats of assassinating President Wilson made by a prominent German, the finding of German army rifles and cartridges in a cellar and the drilling of former German soldiers by a German recently a corporal in the Kaiser's army, have stirred the residents of Russell.

Bitter feeling between the Germans and sympathizers of the Allies started when the Germans made a demonstration in honor of the sinking of the Lusitania.

SURFACE WORKERS AT MINES GIVEN BONUS DEMANDED

London, Sept. 1.—Official announcement was made yesterday that the dispute which threatened another extensive strike in the Welsh coal fields had been settled.

The agreement provides that the award made by Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, after the previous strike, shall stand. The mine owners undertake, however, to conclude a supplemental agreement which will give to the engineers and other surface workers, not included in Mr. Runciman's award, the same bonus as that granted to the miners.

The exclusion of the surface workers was the chief source of dissatisfaction, and consequently the men have obtained their demands in that connection.

Under the new agreement this has been accomplished without the necessity of upsetting the ministerial award, so that Mr. Runciman has not been repudiated.

FRENCH COMBAT GERMAN POISONS.

Two Hundred and Seventeen Travelling Laboratories, with Experts, Fight Disease, Etc.

Paris, Sept. 1.—A new service has been installed in the French army, that of travelling laboratories. New weapons with which the enemy is fighting, asphyxiating gas and poisons in other forms, caused the French authorities to make preparations for combating them in the most effective way.

Much secrecy was observed about the arrangements, but already in June forty travelling laboratories had been distributed among the armies. In July more than ninety were in operation. The service now has been completed. Two hundred and seventeen laboratories are with the French armies.

The chief danger dreaded is the dissemination of disease and poisoning of water, grain and vegetables in the field and food products generally. On this account there has been placed at the head of each laboratory an expert in toxicology.

Most of France's great chemists have volunteered for this service.

Discussing the part Japan has played in the war, the ambassador said: "We have not ceased to collaborate with our Allies to the extent assigned to us. The world will be astonished

Asked for his opinion of the proposal of the Calgary grain men that the Imperial Government should purchase Canada's wheat, or failing this, that the Federal authorities should take it over, Mr. Musselman remarked: "Neither of these proposals was made by any responsible leaders of the organized farmers, and both are impracticable."

CARTHAGINIAN TOOK CREW OF VICTIM OF SUBMARINE

STEAMSHIP TRAFALGAR HAD BEEN TORPEDOED—TRANSFER MADE LATER.

On the third day of the SS. Carthaginian's present voyage from Glasgow to Quebec, the ship was torpedoed and sunk about 45 miles south west of Fastnet, were rescued by the Carthaginian, which arrived in port shortly before 11 o'clock last night. The SS. Trafalgar was torpedoed on Aug. 23 after Captain Peters, her commander, and crew had been given due warning by the captain in charge of the German submarine. This made it possible for all of the 52 souls on board to take to the life boats. They were picked up by the Allan Liner in the morning and a noon the same day were transferred to the SS. Abi bound for Glasgow from Chilli.

Delightful Trip.

Officers as well as passengers arriving on the Carthaginian last night stated that the weather was the most delightful that could be wished for from the day of sailing, which was on Aug. 21st, until reaching Newfoundland when the air became a little cooler. Although German underwater craft struck the SS. Trafalgar a cruel blow, neither officers or passengers of the Carthaginian sighted any submarines.

Valcartier Camp was the scene of an imposing ceremony yesterday afternoon when Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, Regent of the Royal Standard Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire, St. John, N.B., presented to the 55th, Battalion, whose members have been recruited mostly in New Brunswick, a full complement of band instruments on behalf of the St. John branch of the order.

Mrs. Smith in making the presentation spoke eloquently upon the loyalty and devotion of Canada's troops, while Col. Kirkpatrick, in accepting the magnificent gift thanked the ladies most heartily for the work they had accomplished and what they had planned to do and expressed the opinion that the instruments would serve as a reminder to the men that those at home were always thoughtful of them and would therefore inspire them to greater efforts.

Colonel Hughes, Camp Commandant, also eulogized the women of Canada for the splendid manner in which they had come to the assistance of the Empire in the present crisis.

The men cheered the ladies, the Camp Commandant and the band played "God Save The King" on their new instruments.

A physical drill was next gone through, followed by the march past of the Nova Scotia Battalion, 1200, strong.

Mrs. Smith was accompanied by Mrs. J. Fenwick Fraser, a member of the order, the ladies being the guests of Colonel Kirkpatrick.

Colonel Hughes and his staff and Colonel H. McLean of the 7th Brigade were present at the pleasing function. After the affair the ladies were shown the different points of interest in the camp, being escorted around by Colonel Hughes and Major H. S. Jones.

STERLING DROPS TO $4.48 IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE MARKET

Banks Were Prepared and Belief Is Trouble Will Be Over Shortly.

BLAME CABLE TRANSFER

Erratic Movements in Cable Transfers Frightened Merchants Into Covering.

London, Sept. 1.—4.30 p.m.—Sterling dropped to $4.48 in the foreign exchange markets here today.

The sensational drop would have created something akin to alarm in the city but for the knowledge that the banks have actively taken the arrangement of the matter in hand and the belief that the trouble will be over very shortly.

Today's erratic movement in cable transfers, which closed yesterday at $4.59 and opened at $4.54 1-2, frightened merchants into covering their near and forward positions. This created a great demand for dollars on a short market, forcing the rate down to $4.48. At this rate a large quantity of ammunition securities were marketed, thereby helping a recovery to $4.53. But the market was still very uncertain and closed around $4.52 1-2.

E. F. Davies, chairman of the committee of foreign bankers on exchange problems, discussing the situation today, said: "As far as the immediate future is concerned importers here find exchange so much against them that they are endeavoring to obtain credits in New York from their business friends. Exchange is likely to go much lower unless the long talked of credit is quickly arranged, although one must not lose sight of the fact that large quantities of securities will be marketed if exchange remains at the present low level."

"Merchants on this side are seriously considering a curtailment of buying orders in America wherever possible, as importers have incurred large exchange losses. All indications show that there will be little cessation of the demand for dollars."

CONDITIONS IMPROVE IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

WAR IN EUROPE NOT THE ENTIRE CAUSE OF BUSINESS DEPRESSION.

It is evident from reports on trade conditions in British Columbia, which have just been received by officers of the Canadian Northern Railway Company, that the war in Europe was not the entire cause of the business depression, from the effects of which the people in the coast province are now recovering. Representative business men from Vancouver and Victoria almost unanimously advance the opinion that speculation of the boom period in real estate account for the greater portion of their troubles. They add that the European conflict has had the effect of complicating conditions of trade, but contend that the lowering down of provincial commerce may justly be attributed to the economies British Columbians were forced to resort to in order to meet the payments for the real estate they had purchased long before in the hope of obtaining a prompt and excessive profit. But it also seems from the reports that the days of discipline have resulted in the formation of a new perspective towards business generally, and the revival which now appears to be imminent will find a people without illusions and with a more intelligently directed courage waiting to take advantage of its opportunities. These reports to the C.N.R. are supplementary to those published recently in connection with the survey of trade conditions in Canada, which was conducted by that company.

In British Columbia the worst effects, commercially, of the war overseas have been experienced by the men engaged in the lumbering industry. The demand for building material from the people in the Prairie Provinces fell off sharply almost immediately after the outbreak of hostilities, and has not yet returned to its former volume. This undoubtedly adversely affected a number of smaller operators, or at least those enterprises lacking adequate backing, but the larger concerns which were well financed have been able to easily weather the readjustment period. At present it would appear that the mills in British Columbia would be doing a much larger

THE LATE GENERAL W. W. HENRY

In the death of the late General W. W. Henry, which occurred at his home in Burlington, Vermont, on Tuesday morning, in the 85th year of his age, many of the Chronicle's readers lose a warm personal friend, and the city of Quebec one of the most popular of the many distinguished men who have, from time to time, represented their own country here as Consul of the United States. In the civil war of secession General Henry played a conspicuous part. He fought in many of the most hotly contested struggles of that terrible conflict, including the Battle of the Wilderness and came out of it with a military record of which any veteran might well be proud, and with scars and mutilations which he carries with him to his grave. His recollections of the various campaigns in which he participated were very vivid, and his recital of his war experiences were always full of interest, whether given in camp or by the fireside, or related to an always interested audience from the lecture platform or in after-dinner speech. Like all truly brave soldiers he was a tender-hearted man, and the story of his reminiscences had always a touch of pathos.

General Henry was first appointed U. S. Consul at Quebec in 1896, and served in that capacity during three terms, or up to 1908. He was on terms of personal intimacy with several Presidents of his country, as well as with the late Senator Edmunds and with Admiral Dewey. He was fairly well-known to many prominent Canadians long before his appointment as Consul, having been one of the first American sportsmen to join in the establishment of a Canadian fish and game club. He was one of the founders and an ex-president of the St. Bernard fish and game club, one of the oldest in the province. His remains are to be interred at Burlington this afternoon. His many Quebec friends will join the Chronicle in the hope that he may rest in peace, and in tendering sincere and respectful sympathy to his sorrowing widow.

Business if ships were available to move the product to its destination. A shortage of bottoms, as a matter of fact, appears to be the chief handicap. While prices have eased off somewhat the shrinkage has been taken up, by better and what a manufacturer describes as "more tractable" labor. A remedy for the price trouble is being sought in plans for the organizing of a central selling agency, similar to that operating in the State of Washington.

The mill men on the coast say that stocks of lumber all over the world are badly in need of new supplies. If from the confidence engendered by the harvesting of a good crop building resumes its former activity in the Prairie Provinces, and vessels are able to clear to newly-developed markets in Great Britain, the West Indies and the American Atlantic coast states, they expect a business which will tax all their available facilities. In the meantime, it is shown that one mill in Vancouver is working overtime on new orders which will keep

ECHO OF QUEENSTOWN RAILWAY DISASTER.

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 1.—Preliminary hearing in the case of E. I. Dickson, general manager and vice-president of the International Railway charged with negligence in causing death in connection with the Queenstown trolley disaster on July 7 dragged through the entire day before Magistrate Campbell and was adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow. Little evidence additional to that adduced at the inquest was offered. Only six witnesses were examined today, all being officials or employees of the company.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE RATES PLAY FAST AND LOOSE

STERLING FLUCTUATED BETWEEN EXTREME DEPRESSION RATE OF $4.50 AND HIGH MARK OF $4.55 1-2, CLOSING FINALLY AT $4.54.

New York, Sept. 1.—Foreign exchange rates, led by the English pound sterling, played fast and loose today in checkerboard moves over the lowest plane of values ever reached in this country.

From extreme depression of $4.50 registered at the opening of the market, sterling made its faltering way by leaps and falls to $4.55 1-2 in the late afternoon and fell back at this day's end to $4.54. Francs dropped at a single stroke from 6.03 to 6.00, reaching their lowest value. Lires hovered around 6.54, approximately 26 per cent below normal worth, remaining there because they virtually amounted to nothing in the day's dealings. Reichsmarks zig-zagged between 80.3-8 and 80.5-8. The entire market was in convulsions throughout the day, although the tendency towards hysteria lessened toward the close.

The big bankers of New York, however, were inclined to calm, rather than hysterics. One foreign exchange expert asserted tonight that he doubted if 10,000 pounds sterling had been bought in this market today. The widely divergent quotations at the opening and the close he ascribed purely to speculators. This view, however, was not generally accepted and there were indications that there had been large dealings in small amounts after sterling had strengthened to 4.52.

For reasons not seen on the surface, optimism was more apparent tonight than analysis of the situation seemed to warrant. A persistent report prevailed that relief was in sight. It was said that the delegation of British financiers and Treasury officials sent here to end England's battered credits were almost within sight of land. The blue pencil of the censor has crossed out all news from abroad of their sailing for New York but it was thought possible they would be found aboard the American liner St. Paul, due to dock here tomorrow.

There was less talk today of the possibility that rates would fall so low

ROBLIN, HOWDEN AND OTHERS FACE POLICE COURT

CHIEF FIGURES IN MANITOBA CONSPIRACY CASE MUST ANSWER CHARGES.

Winnipeg, Sept. 1.—Ex-Premier Roblin and Messrs. Howden, Colwell and Montague today appeared in the City Police Court to answer charges of conspiracy to defraud the province of Manitoba. They were remanded until Friday, Sept. 3.

Police Magistrate Sir Hugh John MacDonald occupied the bench today, but will not preside at the preliminary hearing, Sir Hugh having been one of the commissioners who brought in the findings upon which the present charges were instituted. The new magistrate has not been officially announced, but, in all probability, it will be P. A. MacDonald, who was yesterday appointed Police Magistrate by an order-in-council, and today sworn in. Mr. MacDonald was referee an dmaster in equity in the County Court, and has a very wide judicial experience.

Today's proceedings were purely formal. The Ministers were not asked to plead, nor were the charges, which were laid by E. J. Elliott, Provincial Chief of Police, read to them.

as to result in curtailment of American exports. Discussion centered on Great Britain's remedial plans, none of which, New York bankers profess, is known here.

QUEBEC, SEPTEMBER 2, 1915.

HON. MR. CASGRAIN.

The splendid reception accorded to Hon. Mr. Casgrain during his tour of the West proves that the popularity of Quebec's energetic Minister is by no means confined to his own Province. Everywhere where the Postmaster-General went he was welcomed most warmly and his speeches, so expressive of that broadminded patriotism which is one of his distinguishing characteristics, were generally acclaimed and admired. There could be no better representative of his race and we are glad to see that that is the opinion entertained by the westerners also.

As spokesman for this Province Mr. Casgrain has done invaluable work in dissipating the unfounded and erroneous charges which have been made against French Canadians since the war began. It is, perhaps, only natural that some of the western cities—where there has been considerable lack of employment and a very large percentage of the population of which was born outside of the Dominion—should want their contribution of men to the firing line. On the other hand, however, it can be affirmed that the population of native-born Canadians who have gone to the front from the East is certainly higher than that from the West.

ORIGIN OF THE ENTENTE.

When in 1898 Sir Herbert Kitchener surrounded Captain Marchand's forces at Fashoda it was almost unthinkable that the time would come, in less than two decades, when England and France should be fighting in a common cause and that the Kitchener of Fashoda would be placing all the available fighting strength of Britain on the side of the nation which had, almost continuously since the time of Napoleon, been regarded as its hereditary enemy.

It was first due to the foresight of Lord Salisbury that the desirability of a reconciliation with France began to be recognized, first, owing to the necessity of an understanding over the colonial policies of the two nations, and secondly, from the realization of the need for a counterpoise to the military ambition of Germany.

Singularly, however, Lord Salisbury's early conviction that the time had come for this reconciliation, was not realized because of a peculiar obstacle. He had seen many French ministers come and go, for some of them were of brief duration, and these frequent falls of ministries impressed Lord Salisbury with an idea that there was a lack of stability and continuity in French policy. For that reason the first hopes of a reconciliation were not realized, halted because of the feeling that it might not be enduring.

It was in these circumstances that the reconciliation moved slowly, until the decisive action of Bismarck clearly showed the design of a dominating central influence. And even then negotiations did not take a definite form until shortly before the actual signing of the Anglo-French convention. It was to M. Paul Cambon, the present ambassador to Britain, that the final consummation of the relations that developed into the triple entente was due, aided to a large extent by the unofficial but none the less effective diplomacy of King Edward VII. With Lord Lansdowne in the foreign office in Downing street, M. Delcasse at the head of foreign affairs in France, and M. Cambon as the intermediary between the two ministers, the negotiations took a new life, and although at first considered futile they at last eventuated in the convention signed in London by Lord Lansdowne and M. Cambon at noon on April 8, 1904.

Only three days before the London Times had issued a formal denial to a despatch cabled from Paris to the associated press that such a reconciliation was about to be consummated by a treaty, the Times asserting that such a thing, beneficial though it might be, was inconceivable of realization. This reflected British public opinion: that England and France could not be reconciled after being traditional enemies for hundreds of years, with a long train of historic wars between them. But in three days the document was signed, and from that dates the entente cordiale and the fruitful results of the larger alliance under the stress of today.

A SALT COMPLICATION.

In all wars except this one salt has been declared a contraband of war. In fact, salt is recognized as contraband without a special declaration to that effect. But in this war a peculiar complication has arisen that would make the enforcement of the regulation in regard to salt a boomerang. Such enforcement would react against the allies and work greatly to the advantage of Germany.

Holland, Norway, Sweden, and Denmark use vast quantities of salt in connection with their fisheries. A part of this comes from the United States, a part from Scotland and some from Germany.

If trade in salt with other nations were cut off, the whole supply for these fishing interests would come from Germany. In the mining and preparation of salt the cognate elements furnish a large percentage of potash—a very useful ingredient in the manufacture of explosives. Germany mines a good deal of salt, but has also been importing considerable quantities. Now she is mining her whole supply and procuring so much more potash.

If the salt supply of Holland and her neighbors in the north were cut off, Germany would be glad to supply all that could be used. The more salt she could sell the greater would be the quantity of potash procured; and, with a market for the salt, the supply of potash would cost practically nothing.

ROUSING THE DEAD.

Not content with turning the whole living world topsyturvy, the warring nations are disturbing the rest of nations long dead. A French officer with the troops in the Dardanelles campaign, in a letter to his wife, writes:

"We are on a Greek necropolis of the highest antiquity, some five or six centuries before our era. In digging trenches we come on enormous stones which resound. They are the lids of tombs. With great care (but not always) we remove the covering stone. Underneath is the interior of a stone coffin, which we empty little by little. Grain by grain for centuries the soil has gently intruded. Inside there is a skeleton more or less preserved."

"Besides this, in each sarcophagus there are potteries more or less rich, but always of exquisite form. I have beneath my eyes a delicate cup, which the slightest shock would break. It symbolizes that particular and characteristic beauty of form which Greece revealed to us. Its long handles, almost eternal in their delicacy, give to this little thing the palpitations of wings. Only passionate admirers of the human body were capable of creating such marvelous lines in clay. They are arms which open towards Heaven—these handles of my Greek cup. I very much enjoy drawing these treasures. Last night the guns were silent. A respite for all. It is so rare."

PRESS COMMENT.

At the opening of the Reichstag Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Imperial German Chancellor, attacked Great Britain in a new and very subtle way. In place of the relentless, God-to-be-punished, bound-to-crush-Germany-for-that has preoccupied the Fautonic imagination, he created suddenly a peridious almost, perfidious enemy, no less hateful than the other, but certainly much less to be feared. This revisualized enemy entered the war not in good faith, but from a motive ultimately hostile to one of her allies and because to go in would cost her no more than to stay out. Constructing a conversation that had taken place between the German Ambassador to London and the British Foreign Secretary on the occasion of diplomatic relations finally sundered, in August, 1914, the Imperial Chancellor said:

"Sir Edward Grey, emphasizing his words, said that war between the two countries (Germany and England) would make it possible that at the conclusion of peace he could render us more valuable services than had England remained neutral."

The Chancellor proceeded to interpret these enigmatical words. They were meant to convey to Germany an undertaking of post-bellum friendship, a kind of Anglo-German alliance against the power of Russia. This act of clairvoyance, according to the news dispatches, produced a profound sensation in the Reichstag. From that the speaker went on to show that England had calculated the cost of neutrality and found it not less than the cost of war. Sir Edward Grey himself had said: "If we are engaged in war we shall suffer but little more than we shall suffer if we stand aside." The Imperial Chancellor's speech obviously was intended for effect away from home, especially in Russia. The aim of German statecraft is to bring about a rupture of the anti-German alliance. The easiest way to do that is to sow suspicion, to discredit the motives that hold four unlike nations together, to create morbid misunderstanding. The Russian mind is perhaps at the moment the one most accessible to dark misgivings. So far Russia in killed and wounded has lost two men to her allies' one. That seems an unfair ratio. It cannot help hurting. Russia has borne the brunt of the fighting. Once she saved France. She has lost the most territory. She has received overtures of a separate peace from an enemy that might offer, and probably already has offered, her more than her allies—namely, access of her own to the Mediterranean. Russia, in fact, has been deeply wounded and cunningly tempted. Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg would play upon her emotions. Now the British Foreign Minister answers him. It was important to do so. He adopts the unusual course of giving a letter to the press. He takes up first the point of England's premeditated loss on account of war. The German Imperial Chancellor, out of Sir Edward Grey's speeches, had quoted a single sentence, which produced the effect he wanted. If he had taken also the one next following, both together would have read as follows:

"If we are engaged in war we shall suffer but little more than we shall suffer if we stand aside. We are going to suffer—I am afraid terribly—in this war whether we are in it or whether we stand aside."

The implications there are very different. Sir Edward continues:

"As to the other statement attributed to me, not even when we were perfectly free, when Japan, who was our ally, had not entered the war, and when we were not pledged to the other allies as we are now by agreement of the 5th of September, 1914, did I say anything so ridiculous or untrue as that it was in the interest of Germany that we had gone to war, with the object of restraining Russia."

Sir Edward goes on to show one more how easily war might have been averted. England proposed an international conference to adjust the matter between Serbia and Austria. Russia proposed to submit it to the Hague. The Imperial German Chancellor says:

"Germany was not simply opposed to the British suggestion for an international conference, but that she substituted a suggestion for a quieter form of working by direct conversations with Vienna and St. Petersburg."

What came of that "quieter form of work" was war! Says Sir Edward Grey:

"The war would have been averted if the conference had been agreed to. Germany, on the flimsiest pretext, shut the door against it. I would wreck nothing on the point of form and expressed myself ready to acquiesce in any method of mediation that Germany could suggest if mine were not acceptable. I said I was ready to co-operate in any method Germany thought possible if only Germany would press the button in the interest of peace."

To press a button for peace. After a year of war what would not everybody give to have the opportunity again to press a button for peace? What would Germany not give to have tried at least the two that were not pressed—one, the international conference proposed by Great Britain, the other The Hague reference proposed by Russia?—N. Y. Times.

Thin Men and Women

DO YOU WANT TO GET FAT AND BE STRONG?

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract properly assimilates the food you eat.

There is a preparation known to reliable druggists almost everywhere, which seemingly embodies the missing elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This preparation is called Sargol and much remarkable testimony is given as to its successful use in flesh building. Sargol, which comes in the form of a small non-injurious tablet, taken at meals and mixing with the digesting food, tends to prepare its fat, flesh and muscle building elements so that the blood can readily accept and carry them to the starved portions of the body. You can readily picture the transformation that additional and previously lacking flesh-making material should bring with your cheeks filling out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappearing and your taking on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid healthy flesh. Sargol is harmless, inexpensive, efficient. All leading druggists of this vicinity have it and are authorized to refund your money if weight increase is not obtained as per the guarantee found in each large package.

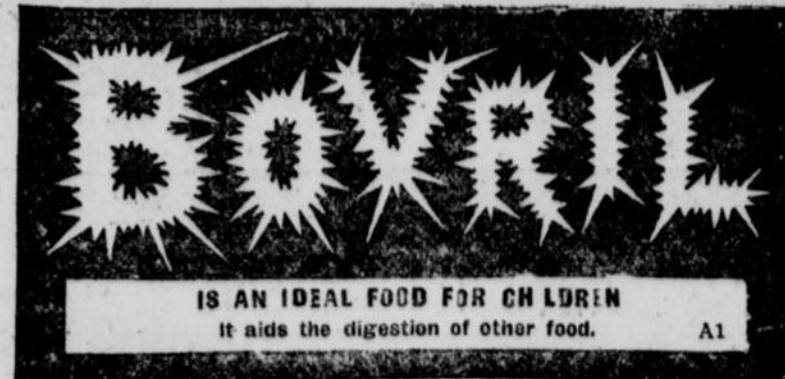

NOTE:—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc. have been reported care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.

BETRAYED BY HER SISTER.

The advanced maiden was out rowing with a possible suitor and had taken her little sister along, who was exhibiting much fear at the waves.

"Why, Martha, if you are so nervous now, what will you be at my age?"

"Thirty-nine, I suppose," meekly replied little sister.

DEAD HERO'S PARENTS HAVE VICTORIA CROSS.

Montreal, Sept. 1.—The Victoria Cross, won by the late Lance-Corpl. Frederick Fisher, of the 13th Battalion, at St. Julien, where he was killed, has been received by the hero's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Fisher, 576 Lansdowne Avenue, Westmount, accompanied by a letter of appreciation from the British War Office. The deceased soldier earned the distinction of the cross by gallantly assisting, with a machine gun, in covering the retreat of a battery, and later bringing his machine gun into action, under very heavy fire, in order to cover the advance of supports. It was while doing this he was killed. He was only 20 years of age.

IN AND ABOUT TOWN

CORP. COPELAND ON R.M.S. CARTHAGINIAN

IS RECOVERING FROM THE WOUNDS RECEIVED IN BATTLE OF ARMENTIERES.

A Canadian who figured among the British troops which checked that terrible drive of the Germans on Calais during the month of October last arrived on the Allan Line R. M. S. Carthaginian, in the person of Corporal Copeland, who has still a piece of shrapnel shell in his skull.

Corporal Copeland referred to the charge as the fiercest onslaught he has ever taken part in, the whole section he was attached to, numbering thirty men, having been wiped out. He received his wounds at Armentieres. The Inniskilling Fusiliers, 2nd Battalion, 12th Brigade, to which Corporal Copeland was attached, was ordered to attack the Germans on the British line protecting Calais. The returning soldier, who is a native of Ireland, is now a resident of Toronto. He has a brother with the Canadian Dragoons and when the war broke out, Bombardier Hamilton, of Ireland, a cousin of his, enlisted with an Imperial army artillery unit, who has since been killed in action.

Corporal Copeland has been through the South African War and holds the King and Queen's ribbons.

DAMAGING BLAZE AT MONUMENT

THREE FAMILIES RENDERED HOMELESS IN EARLY MORN.

Shortly after two o'clock this morning a fire broke out at Monument, on the Quebec and Montmorency line past Beauport Asylum, and at the time of going to press was well on its way to destroy the residence occupied by Messrs. A. A. Cantin, P. Dubord and J. Gauvin.

The origin of the blaze could not be ascertained but it was learned that the members of the three families escaped safely.

It seems impossible to control the blaze and the building and its contents will be a total loss.

COL. HAY'S BATTALION AROUSES ADMIRATION

MARCH OUT THROUGH FORT WILLIAM AND PORT ARTHUR WAS INSPIRING.

The following extracts from the Fort William Times-Journal, and the Port Arthur Chronicle, contain flowing tributes to Lieut.-Colonel A. W. Hay, of this city, for the high standard of efficiency to which he has brought the 52nd Battalion under his able command:

(Fort William Times-Journal.)

The route march of the fifty-second battalion through the two cities yesterday afternoon was an inspiring military spectacle, and long before the boys reached Fort William, in the course of their long tramp, the main streets were lined deep with spectators, who followed them right up to the union depot where they made a right about wheel and set off for the camp again. Headed by the band which played lively marching airs, they swung through the streets, with the draft of 250 men who have been picked to leave almost immediately in the van, and the rear brought up by the new recruits.

Very smart and soldierly the whole battalion looked, and the officers bore themselves as if they had been born to command, while the pick of the bunch, the draft in the lead, are apparently fit to make the fight of their lives, and when on the return journey they marched through the streets with bayonets fixed, the sun glittering on the shining steel was enough to make every mother wish that she had raised her son to be a soldier, such a brav' showing did they make.

This will probably be the last chance that the city will have of seeing the entire battalion, as at present constituted, marched through the city, as orders are expected any day for the draft of 250 men to entrain for England.

(Port Arthur Chronicle.)

The Fifty-Second.

The 52nd Battalion is not among the twelve battalions named to go at once to England. This may be taken as a compliment to the 52nd. It may be that the 52nd has been found to be too good a battalion to split up any more for reinforcements. Perhaps it is to go over when its time comes, intact.

Two men just arrived in this country while walking along Fabrique St. last night jostled against the plate glass window in the store of Mr. P. C. Lacasse, and broke it in. The police took the men in charge and lodged them in Central Station.

It is thought that the breaking of the glass was accidental, but had the men been walking along in an orderly manner the accident would hardly have occurred.

CHARLIE COOPER JOSHED GERMAN

QUEBEC SOLDIER WRITES OF HIS EXPERIENCES IN THE TRENCHES.

Mr. Tom Cooper has received another letter from his brother, Pte. Charles Cooper of the 14th Battalion. Private Cooper's remarks are interesting and his letter has a humorous vein so characteristic of the writer. He tells of a bit of repartee with a German soldier and expresses a desire to get into "holds" with the enemy in the open. The letter reads:—

16th August, 1915.

Dear Brother,—

Just received your very kind and welcome letter and was glad to see that you all are quite well, as I myself am still alive and kicking. It was with pleasure I sat down in the trenches and read the letters you had inserted in the Daily "Chronicle", but being disturbed with the noise of shells and bullets going over my head I thought it better to read it over again when I came out for a rest, which I am having just now, but I can tell you it was all right indeed and J. J. Collins thought the same. Canon Scott also passed some complimentary remarks about the day before I received yours. Glad to see that you were pleased with the letters. I am going to surprise quite a few after this way owing to the experience I am having out here. I will be writing my life in the trenches "somewhere in France." I was a bit disappointed as I did not hear from you sooner but as you say you are quite busy you will be quite excusable. I was speaking to Collins just now and he sends his best regards to everybody at home, and he only wishes that this thing would come to a finish as he has had quite a lot of it. Very glad you are having fine weather over there, and what took F. Proctor to Seven Islands, I suppose to get up an army of his own and come over here (wha.) Very glad that the Quebec boys are all well, wish I was over there once again. I suppose my letter surprised quite a few in Quebec all right, of course it could be better but as you know we are not allowed to say anything in our letters but private and family matters as you can see by the envelope where I certify on my honor.

Well Tom, we are having rather hot weather here lately, with a few showers now and again. But anything is better than rain and mud. We had enough of that mud on Salisbury plain. I would prefer to have some of that Canadian "hard snow" for a change just to bring back to memory happy days I had. Well we are longing for another go at the enemy as it breaks the monotony of being in the trenches waiting for them and we know and can see them in their trench about 50 yards or 100 away from us. There was a German put his head over the trench the other night and he said don't shoot Mr. Englishman I got a wife and 6 children in England. So I shouted across to him don't put your head up again or there will be a widow and 6 children in England. Now what do you think of that and I guess it suited him all right as he did not do it again, for if he did I had one waiting for him and I make it tell on him also. We are the boys for them, we never waste our time firing unless we got something to fire on. I don't believe one of them is worth the price of one round of our ammunition. If they would only come out and have an open duel with us we would be satisfied but it is all trench work up to the present. We met them hand-to-hand with bayonets a few times and it wasn't in their favor or liking whatsoever. We are the boys that can use the cold steel whenever we get a chance, and afterwards we can give a good old song to them entitled "Won't You Come, Come With Me to Canada." We have got them guessing all right. Well Tom, I can't think of any more this time, hoping to hear from you soon again, so I will now close as "Duty" calls me again, so good bye.

Fond and best love to all.

I am, ever your loving brother,

CHARLIE.

GRANDE ALLEE GARDENS.

"Wrath of the Gods" Most Talked of Picture in Quebec.

The management of the Gardens did not exaggerate when they claimed the "Wrath of the Gods" a masterpiece without an equal. The patrons of last evening claimed it to be the best picture they had ever seen. The Sakuma-Jima volcano is something stupendous and the whole story which deals with Japan is very interesting and holds the spectators every minute. Those who have not had the opportunity of seeing this picture last evening should be on hand tonight.

On Friday and Saturday another strong programme is booked. I.e., "Kindling" starring Charlotte Walker in a picturization of the supreme emotional drama of the New York Tenements. This is a drama of the big things in life, treating them in a big way. The story of a poor woman of the tenements who steals in order to earn money for her child. This is a Broadway success that has made the world better and thrills every spectator with genuine emotion. Next Monday and Tuesday we will have with us again the world's famous moving picture star Mary Pickford in "Hearts Adrift."

OUMET AND TRAVERS BEATEN

TWO PROSPECTIVE CONTENDERS DEFEATED BY THEIR YOUNGER OPPONENTS.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 1.—Two giants of the golf world were slain this afternoon, in the second round of match play for the National Amateur Championship. Francis Ouimet, of Woodland, Mass., holder of the national title, was decisively outplayed and beaten by James D. Standish, Jr., of Detroit. The result was five up and four to play. Jerome Travers, of Upper Montclair, N.J., who hoped to wear two crowns at the same time, was loser, 2 and 1, to Max R. Marston, of Springfield, N.J.; Travers is the present open champion.

Winners of the other matches were: D. E. Sawyer, of Wheaton, Ill.; R. A. Gardner, of Chicago; Nelson Whitney, of New Orleans; Sherrill Sherman, of Utica; John G. Anderson, of Mount Vernon, N.Y.; and Howard E. Lee, of Detroit.

The conquerors of Ouimet and Travers are young men, both in their early twenties. Neither had previously won an important title, but each played today as though the winning of a national championship was merely a routine effort. The golf which Marston showed on the homeward half of his afternoon round, would probably have beaten any player on earth. He shot the last nine holes in 33, three strokes under par. Standish was able to take deadly advantage of nearly every putting slip that Ouimet made. Poor work on the greens, more than any other factor of his game, was responsible for the champion's failure. Ouimet was one up after forenoon play had ended, but was not able to win in the afternoon.

The pairings for tomorrow compel two Illinois stars to oppose each other—the second time in three days the incident has occurred—Gardner and Sawyer meet. Marston will play Lee; Whitney clashes with Anderson, and Standish has Sherrill Sherman for an opponent.

Sporting Notes

St. Patrick's will be up against a tough proposition, Sunday next, when they meet Patricias. The Irishmen are likely to be without Newton behind the bat. The C. B.'s and Laval always put up a great battle.

Manager Belanger, of the Victoria Club, has just received word from Billy Jacobs, manager of K. O. Eggers, stating that Eggers is eager to meet Tommy Buck for a side bet of any amount.

One of the most important football games of the season will be played at the Falls on Saturday, when the Engineers will meet Montmorency. The R.C.E. team has not yet met defeat, but Montmorency have been playing the most consistent football in the league of late, and many of their followers look for them to upset the soldiers.

The Rovers will play the 8th R. R. on Saturday. The 8th team will be chosen from Jordan, Metcalfe, Lt. Walbridge, Mellon, Edwards, Horlock, Rose, Barrett, Brown, Prince, Rawlings, Hughes and Pope. Chisna! will be unable to play.

"There never was a pitcher who was a better loser than Alexander," is the bouquet that Pat Moran heaves at the pitching star of the Phillies. "The majority of pitchers crab and pique when they lose, and if it happens to be the fault of their teammates, they howl like a wounded sea lion."

"But Alexander is different. To lose hurts him—but no one knows it. After a defeat he's just as good natured as after a victory. If the boys boot away a game behind him, Alex never says a word. If the boys come up and start to tell him how sorry they are, he just laughs and tells them to forget it—that such things are all part of the game."

"Alexander is the most popular of all the big league pitchers, not because he is a great pitcher, but because he has a wonderful character—because he is a man clear through."

Pete Lafrance, of the Emmets, used to be a pitcher once upon a time, but Pete is too valuable at short to be offered up as a pitcher.

The more we look at the diamond on the Exhibition Grounds, the more we think there will be some job for the people who are going to try to make it available for baseball on Sunday.

Of course, the fine new scoreboard had to be taken down. It is to be hoped it won't be used as firewood like last year's one.

Auto polo is some game. If some of the local motor car drivers attempted it there would be lots of junk for sale.

DEAD HEAT RACE AT LOCAL TRACK

VANCOUVER CAPTURED $1,000 PACING STAKE YESTERDAY IN SENSATIONAL STYLE.

One of the best and most sensational harness races ever witnessed in Quebec was seen yesterday at the Exhibition Grounds track in the 2:25 pacing stake when in the first heat Vancouver and Bingen R., paced a dead heat, there being no apparent advantage as both horses came under the wire after a whipping finish. In the next three heats they raced from wire to wire both striving for the advantage, but the chestnut horse was too good for the son of Bingen and finished first in the second, third and fourth heats by a narrow margin. There was a keen race for third money between Sweet Flower and Amble Dawson, two Quebec mares, and as they won alternately in the four heats they divided the third and fourth allotments of the purse.

A much larger crowd than on Tuesday saw the races yesterday, the attendance being equal to the best days last year, and much enthusiasm prevailed in each race.

Next in interest to the stake event was the buggy race limited to local horses. This race brought out eight starters and was won by Kavak, a track veteran owned by Mr. F. X. Jobin of Major B. O. fame, in straight heats. Easter D., captured second money, Buddy-me-pal, third and Milan fourth.

In the 2:30 trot, Baco won by the three straight route, with Robert Alerton, second, Last Edition, third and Bristilian, fourth.

The running race was won by Tom Flannagan.

HENRY TODD WON BIG PURSE

WEALTHY AMATEUR REINSMAN DROVE HOME WINNER HIMSELF.

Yonkers, N.Y., Sept. 1.—Chester W. Lasell, a wealthy amateur reinsman, of Whitinsville, Mass., won the National Championship Stallion Stakes for three-year-old trotters at the Grand Circuit meeting here today with Henry Todd, a young horse that he bred, developed, trained and drove to victory. The prize was the largest of the Grand Circuit thus far this season, and the largest yet offered by the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders, under the auspices of which organization the race was arranged. The winner received $5,092.50, and the total stakes were $10,435.

Yedno, the Canadian pacer that won a sensational race at the Montreal Grand Circuit meeting, could not last it out in the heavy going in the 2:07 pace, and after winning two heats in 2:07 and 2:07 1/4, she was beaten off by the Indiana horse, Rastus, in the final heats and in much slower time.

VIOLENT ATTACKS OF DYSPEPSIA

Suffered Tortures Until She Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

St. JEAN DE MATHA, Jan. 27th, 1914.
"After suffering for a long time with Dyspepsia, I have been made well by 'Fruit-a-tives.' I suffered so much that at last I would not dare to eat for I was afraid of dying. Five years ago, I received samples of 'Fruit-a-tives' and after taking them I felt relief. Then I sent for three boxes and I kept improving until I was well. I quickly regained my lost weight—and now I eat, sleep and digest well—in a word, I am fully recovered, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives.'"

WILLIAMS AND M'LOUGHLIN WON

THIRTY-TWO SURVIVED THE SECOND ROUND OF TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 1.—Thirty-two representative tennis players from various parts of the country survived the second round of the National Championship singles at the courts at the West Side Club here today, after a series of matches in which sensational tennis was the rule rather than the exception. The group included the entire California contingent, a number of Eastern experts and a sprinkling of Southern and Middle-Western entrants.

The chief interest of the spectators who followed the various matches naturally centered in the showing of R. Norris Williams II., the present champion, and Maurice E. McLaughlin, the former title-holder and Williams' chief rival for the premier honors of the courts this season.

Williams defeated F. C. Inman, of New York, 7-5; 6-1; 9-7, and McLaughlin came through at the expense of Dean Mathey, the Princeton University youth, by scores of 6-1; 6-2; 8-6. Of the two American internationalities, the showing of McLaughlin was the more disappointing, although it is probable that the majority of the spectators expected greater spectacular play from the California comet than they did from Williams.

105 WOMEN GOLFERS ENTER TOURNAMENT.

New York, Sept. 1.—With an entry list of 105 women golfers, the field for the Women's National Championship at the Onwentsia Club, Lake Forest, Ills., next week, promises to establish a record for this event. The pairings were announced here today at the office of the United States Golf Association and it is just possible that some post entries may be accepted. This is the first time in the history of this event that the entry has reached the century mark.

Only two foreign players are among the aspirants. These are Miss Vera Ramsey, of England, who is entered from Canada, and Mrs. W. A. Gavin, of Shirley Park, England.

Play will begin next Monday with an 18 hole medal round in which the thirty-two leading players will qualify for the championship rounds at match play during the week. Each day the match play rounds will consist of 18 holes, the final being set for Saturday, September 11th.

2,768 SHIPS NOW FLY THE AMERICAN FLAG.

Tonnage of the Vessels in Foreign Trade Is the Greatest Since 1863.

Washington, Sept. 1.—More ships are now flying the American flag in the foreign trade than at any other time since 1863, and the United States is pressing close upon France and Norway as a maritime nation.

For the year ended June 30, according to figures made public at the Department of Commerce today, there were registered in the foreign trade 2,768 ships, totalling 1,813,775 gross tons, an increase of 363 ships and 737,623 tons for the year.

"This is about triple the increase in registered tonnage for any previous year in American history," said Acting Secretary Sweet, today. "Our registered tonnage is now much greater than at any time since 1863, when we read 2,026,114 gross tons in foreign trade. It is many times more efficient, however, as the steam tonnage now amounts to 1,273,067 gross tons, while in 1863 it was but 132,215 tons."

"The increase from the Ship Registry Act of August, 1914, to June 19, 1915, was so rapid that tonnage under the American flag now employed in foreign trade is nearly equal to such tonnage under the French or Norwegian flags; British tonnage, of course, is more than tenfold greater."

ESCAPE IS EASY FOR BRITISH IN HOLLAND.

Dutch Guards Shoot at Officers Fleeing from Internment, But Aim Is Very Bad.

The Hague, Sept. 1.—The ancient fortress of Wierickerschans, where are interned the British officers of the Antwerp relief expedition, which was forced by the Germans to retreat into Holland a year ago, occasionally loses some of its prisoners. The British officers refuse to pledge themselves against trying to escape, and once outside the fortress they find the Dutch people disposed to make things easy for them.

The guards at the camp are under orders to shoot any escaping prisoner, and it is true that they do shoot at them, but there is often something mysteriously poor about their aim. In fact, if it were not for the constant arrival of shipwrecked aviators, the quota of prisoners at Wierickerschans would not be long sustained.

Since the British officers are interned foreign soldiers, and have not given their parole that they shall not try to escape, they are at perfect liberty to walk away the moment they can. When they are caught, they are brought back, but they may renew their efforts the next morning. The daily routine of the interned officers can be well compared to a rather quiet watering place. The British Government has built two excellent tennis courts. The Dutch government has put up a jumping board and between 11 and 1, allows the men the liberty of the moat. A Hollander has installed a piano.

REA MARTIN SURPRISES ALL HER AUDIENCES.

She Interprets the Title Role of "Peg O' My Heart" in Such an Irresistible Manner That Every One is Delighted.

"Peg O' My Heart," that delightful Celtic comedy by J. Hartley Manners, which holds the record engagement of any play produced in New York City in the past twenty-one years, having played consecutively at the Cort Theatre for 604 performances, will return to the Auditorium on Monday, for three days, opening Monday Matinee.

The cast which Oliver Morosco, the producer of this supreme success, is sending here is a careful selection of the best material from the companies that toured the United States and Canada last season.

in years and it is safe to predict that when the Auditorium sale is open it will again sell out.

REA Martin, who interprets the name part in such an irresistible manner, surprises and delights her audiences. To have succeeded Laurette Taylor and to capture the hearts of the old New York playgoers, is a revelation to those who have watched her short career on the stage. Her comedy is so refreshing, so brimful of the joy of living and thinking that one is enchanted by her youthful ability.

SHIPPING NEWS

HENDON HALL IN DRY DOCK TODAY

EXPECTED REPAIRS TO BIG VESSEL WILL TAKE SEVERAL WEEKS.

The S. S. Hendon Hall, Captain E. C. Sears, which has been in the basin since she was taken off the rocks near Trinity Bay about a week ago, will be taken in tow from the outer basin this morning to the Davie Dry Dock where repairs will be started on her immediately.

Mr. W. W. Wotherspoon, who together with Mr. Wm. Ebling, wrecking master, has had charge of the work of refloating the vessel, when spoken to yesterday could not hazard a guess as to when the repairs to the Hendon Hall would be completed, but the impression among those who have seen the vessel since arriving in port is that she will remain in dry dock for several weeks.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The S. S. Nordstjernan arrived up and went into the basin yesterday to complete her cargo.

Steam barge International with a cargo of pulp passed up yesterday. Steam barge Acadia and Polomahall passed out yesterday.

The following vessels bound for Montreal passed up yesterday: Henry B. Hall, Renvoyle and Phenix.

The S. S. Bengore Head which was damaged by running on a mud bank at Cape Salmon some time ago came out of Dry Dock yesterday and is anchored in the stream close to the Davie ship yards.

S. S. Sicilian, Allan Line, arrived in London yesterday morning.

S. S. Corsican from Montreal and Quebec arrived at Liverpool on Aug. 31st.

COMPARISONS OF CUSTOMS RECEIPTS.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—When the Customs returns of last year in August are compared with those for August of this year Montreal's receipts are seen to be $131,579.17 less last month. But when July and August of this year are compared, the situation looks more hopeful, because August receipts are $152,297.93 ahead of July's. The actual figures are as follows: August, 1914, $1,941,356.30; July, 1915, $1,657,479.20; August, 1915, $1,809,777.13.

From the first of January to date this year the customs receipts in Montreal have totalled $13,735,260.19, as compared with the same period last year, when $14,206,502.15 was collected, or $471,241.96 more in favour of last year.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

New York, Sep. 1.—Steamer chartering continued light, with rates well sustained in all trades. A moderate demand prevailed for tonnage, mostly for coal cargoes, but prompt boats offered sparingly. Quotations to Liverpool and London, 12d; Glasgow and Hull, 11d; cotton to Liverpool, per 100 lbs. $1.

Charters: Norwegian steamer 2,589 tons, coal, Virginia to Buenos Ayres, 33s 7 1/2d, prompt; British steamer, 1,723 tons, coal, Baltimore to the River Plate, private terms, prompt; Greek steamer, 1,937 tons coal, Baltimore or Virginia to Piraeus, 41s 6d, September Italian steamer, 2,173 tons coal, Baltimore to west coast Italy, private terms, prompt; Greek steamer, 1,968 tons, coal, Baltimore to Savona, private terms, prompt; schooner, 346 tons, coal, Philadelphia to St. John, N. B., $1.90.

Steamers in and Out.

Up to the end of August 514 vessels have been registered inwards at Montreal, as compared with 612 last year for the same period. Outwards the Customs books show 568 vessels, 52 less than passed out last year, according to the books in the shipping office of the Montreal Customs House. The difference of fifty-four between the inward and outward figures for this season is explained by the fact that coasting vessels passing through Montreal to some inland port are not entered inwards, but when these vessels pass out again from some American port, like Oswego, they are entered outward from Montreal. difference between this year and last year is mainly a matter of grain boats. There were very many vessels here last year to take away the great surplus of grain, but this year the grain was cleared away quite quickly and the vessels for the fall crop are not yet needed, as the first new wheat from the Canadian West has yet to come. New crop American wheat is already in the elevators. There are less colliers and coasting vessels as well.

GLIMPSES OF OLD QUEBEC

From the Files of THE CHRONICLE, Sept., 1895 and 1915.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Rev. Mr. Love Bereaved.

On this date 30 years ago it was reported in these columns the popular pastor of St. Andrew's Church, this City, has been bereaved by the death of his father which took place on the 18th ult., at Dunlop, Yorkshire, Scotland. The deceased gentleman was 65 years of age. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to Mr. Love in his affliction. In connection with the above we note also in these columns that the Rev. A. T. Love, (now Dr. Love), will sail from Liverpool for Quebec by the S. S. Gardiner tomorrow. It is presumed from the foregoing that the Rev. Mr. Love had gone to Scotland to see his sick father and it is to be hoped that he was at the bedside when the end came.

No More Middlemen.

At this time 30 years ago Quebec had the honor of entertaining a party of delegates from old France who were here to enquire into trade and other conditions in this country. It is to be hoped that good will accrue from the visit of such distinguished gentlemen.

The Figaro of Paris commenting on the present Franco-Canadian movement says:—"The Canadians have remained devotedly attached to France. Everything that comes from our country is well received by them, and a Frenchman is always sure of a hearty welcome."

Canadian-French Company.

In creating a regular line of steamers between Havre and Canada the company has been actuated with the desire of opening up direct outlets for our commerce and industry. French goods hitherto have only reached Canada through English or American channels, through Middlemen. Now it need no longer be so. Our wines, our tissues, our products of all kinds will come direct to Halifax, Quebec and Montreal without having been adulterated or over-taxed by foreign hands. This is the matter which will be taken in hand by the French delegation of merchants, manufacturers, financiers, engineers and journalists which have been visiting

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY

Composition of Wellington's Army.

The following at the time of writing is said to be a tolerable accurate statement of the Duke of Wellington's force at the battle of Waterloo, the whole of which was divided into two Corps d'Armee.

The first under the command of the Prince of Orange, comprising 1st, 3rd and 5th divisions, led by General Cook (of the guards), Alten and Picton.

The second corps was commanded by Lord Hill and composed of the 2nd, 4th, and 6th divisions; the two former under Sir H. Clinton and General Humber; This invincible and triumphant force is said to have contained about as follows:

British bayonets 27,000
Hanoverian infantry 24,000
Brunswick and Nassau 10,000
German legion 5,000
Dutch 5,000
Belgie 5,000 making a total of infantry 76,000.

In addition to the above there were 94,000 cavalry and artillery making a grand total of 170,000.

In Spite of Losses and Fatigue.

After the great battle, the British army in spite of their losses and fatigue, marched on the 20th., to Binch a distance of 30 miles; on the 21st to Cateau Cambrassis 25 miles, on 23rd to La Fere, and on the 26th at night were at Campagne, only about 50 miles from Paris.

The Duke left behind him all the strongholds, well satisfied that the capture of Paris, and the fall of Napoleon would be the signal for striking the tricolors in all these places, and the display of the spottles standard of the Bourbons. The Duke seemingly gave himself little concern as to what become of the Napoleon dynasty or that there ever was such a person as Napoleon II ever to be in existence.

Quebec. It will be good for France and it will be good for Canada, and no doubt will be encouraged by our countrymen in the Province of Quebec.

LEGARE'S MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The music department of the popular firm of P. T. Legare, Ltd., has a splendid showing at the Exhibition, which visitors are cordially invited to inspect. They have on display all the latest models in gramophones and Victrolas, and it is a rare musical treat to have them play over one of the records by the celebrated Canadian Tenor Mr. Xavier Mezier.

A visit to this exhibit will prove very interesting.

In arranging its exhibit at the Toronto Fair, the C.P.R. has entirely foreworn the old-fashioned style of wheat and grain decoration, which on its first appearance indeed had all the charm of novelty, although it usually meant the cruel sacrifice of a carload of good grain. Three entirely new features have this year been introduced—one being the representation in fac-simile of a standard C. P. R. dining car kitchen, the mysteries of which are explained to the interested housewife by two C. P. R. chefs. Occupying a space of only 27 ft. x 8 ft. the dining car kitchen has to turn out seventy-five a la carte meals within an hour, and as a result space is economized to a marvellous degree, and the pantry is a masterpiece of convenience and ingenuity. The sanitary conditions under which the food is cooked are here visualized as they can never be in the most highly-colored folder, and on the opening day the attendants had a busy time explaining to the lady visitors how the C. P. R. had made it possible to cook two eggs where only one had been cooked before.

The skill of the chefs is illustrated also by a display of pastry and confectionary one cake representing Warkworth Castle in Northumberland protected by two guns, all made of sugar icing, while another bride's cake consists of six tiers representing the six allied nations. The Dietetic Blend-A Menu, of course, is not forgotten, and the visitors carry away with them an amusing little pamphlet entitled, "Taking the Break out of Breakfast." Facing the Dining Car Kitchen is a realistic representation of the bow of a C. P. R. Great Lakes steamer, approached by a gangway, with the invitation, "All aboard for the Soo, Port Arthur and Fort William." Once on deck, the visitor is able to inspect an ordinary cabin, a cabin de luxe with four-poster bed, a private bathroom, and the Verandah Cafe, which this year has been introduced with great effect into the C.P.R. Great Lakes Service. The nautical character of this exhibit is kept up by the sailors in charge, who take observations and strike the bell at each hour—three bells or six bells, whatever the time may be. Nothing of the kind so realistic has ever been shown in Toronto, or indeed in Canada, before. The third section of the C.P.R. exhibit interests the sportsman and the small boy, for it is an actual hunter's cabin from New Brunswick, built of logs by Harry Allen, of Fredericton, in the interests of the New Brunswick Guides' Association and the St. John Tourist Association. The cabin is placed in a setting of rocks, spruce and pines, with a very fine display of moose, caribou and deer horns lent by various sportsmen, while a touch of life is added by two raccoons, a pair of owls which apparently take as much interest in the small boys as the small boys take in them. It was also the intention to exhibit here some war relics which G. McL. Brown, European Manager of the C. P. R., had sent over from London, but these are displayed instead in the Government Building with the other war relics collected by the Exhibition authorities. The C. P. R. exhibit thus loaned include an iron cross, incendiary bombs from a Zeppelin, German soldiers helmet specimens of German communications, Austrian battle tickets, the models of the cruiser H. M. S. Glasgow, the torpedo boat destroyer H. M. S. Mosquito and the auxiliary cruiser, Empress of Russia.
