

Minister's decision leaves WHS officials wary over conversion

By ROB SOUTHCOTT
Staff and parents at Westmount High School were in the dark this week about the side effects of the minister of education's refusal to let Mount Royal High School become a French institution.

The minister, François Gendron, vetoed a decision by the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal to make MRHS a French school next fall.

Officials at the PSBGM were unable to say whether the move would again make WHS a target for such a switch. WHS officials have had no word from the board.

"Right now, I know absolutely nothing," said WHS principal Gary Thompson, adding that he was waiting for further information from the board.

"I don't see what it means for the board, but because of the deadlines, I can't see that they'll reopen this thing again now," said Mr Thompson, noting the school year is about to end.

In January, the issue provoked an emotional crusade by parents and students of all five PSBGM high schools that had been threatened with a switch to French.

In addition to WHS and Mount Royal, the schools included West Hill, Malcolm Campbell and Northmount.

'Very depressing'

Georgi Beal Kish, outgoing chairman of the WHS school committee said yesterday that she found the news of Mr Gendron's decision "very depressing."

"What are they doing to us?" said Mrs Beal Kish, referring to the rivalry between schools that developed in January. "This splitting of the English community is very dangerous."

Mrs Beal Kish said the WHS school committee would fight any

Second storey is ransacked

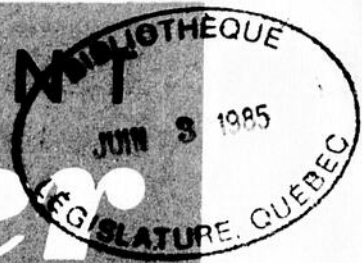

Someone broke into a house on Olivier avenue last Thursday night, ransacking the second storey, police report.

The break-in was discovered by the resident who returned home about 10:05 pm to find both front and rear doors open. He went to call police and then entered the home. It had been unattended for about three hours.

ROSLYN RHYTHM: This young percussionist was one of several students from Roslyn School who performed last week at the school's annual general meeting and open house. Besides electing a new school committee, the parents attending the evening were entertained by several musical groups at the school and by some of Roslyn's best public speakers.

City monitors PCB transformers, Westmount 'on top' of situation

By LAUREEN SWEENEY
A SPECIAL report made to Westmount's city council members Tuesday night reveals that of the city's 1,000 electrical distribution transformers, 25 are filled with PCB liquids.

Sixteen are owned by the city's electric utility and nine by private companies. They are located in large buildings with heavy electrical loads.

Inspections and precautions are being taken to ensure the safety of these units, Mayor Brian Gallery told THE EXAMINER.

"We are satisfied, following our review, that we are on top of the situation," Mayor Brian Gallery told THE EXAMINER.

The polychlorinated biphenyl chemicals, or PCBs, used to insulate electricity transformers, are considered to pose possible hazards to health and the environment in the event of leaks.

Such transformers are, however, generally installed where regular transformers cannot be used, according to the report written by Alex deF. Heron, director of power and communications.

Five at stores

Of the 16 city units, five reserve transformers are kept at the stores building in the Corporation Yard. The other 11 are installed at Westmount Square and Pascal's. These are reported to be in-

Hudson needs check-up

The roadworthy condition of a 1927 car was questioned here Friday after it backed into a utility post at 484 Mountain avenue and then a wall at civic number 480, police report.

The owner of the beige Hudson was issued a ticket to have the car inspected, police said.

The accident occurred about 6:15 pm causing more than $500 damage.

Westmount mayor accepts Participaction challenge

By LAUREEN SWEENEY
MAYOR Brian Gallery wants to know what you are doing next Wednesday for the "Great Canadian Participaction Challenge."

What kind of exercise do you plan to do for 15 minutes? Skip, jump, dance?

His Worship plans to go running at noon from the clock in King George Park and he hopes Westmounters will run, or walk, with him.

He's worried, you see. Not that he can't run.

But that the City of Westmount may not look good "in the eyes of Canada."

That, he says, would be a disaster.

After all, the Prime Minister of Canada, Brian Mulroney "might not want to become an honorary citizen of a city that's in bad shape."

Try to keep fit

And Mayor Gallery knows the city isn't in bad shape. He knows Westmounters try to keep physically fit.

But in order for the city to achieve a good rating in the "Great Canadian Participaction Challenge," each and every citizen will have to flood the city switchboard with calls next Wednesday.

For May 29, the challenge day, is when all Canadians are being urged to "exercise and tell."

Any type of exercise which increases the heartbeat, such as walking briskly, playing tennis, climbing steps, will qualify.

"Our city switchboard will be manned to handle the many calls we hope to receive," he says. The phone number is 935-8531.

Cat killed on Boulevard

A black cat wearing a red collar with silver studs was believed struck by a vehicle Friday in front of 3223 The Boulevard, public safety officers report. The victim was picked up by the dog catcher after a motorcyclist stopped him to report finding the dead animal about 10:40 pm.

Both drivers saw green light

The drivers of two cars which collided Tuesday last week at Sherbrooke street and Lansdowne avenue each claimed to have the green signal, police said. The accident occurred about 10 am when a westbound car turning left collided with an eastbound vehicle.

Neighborhood Watch areas get crime questionnaires

By LAUREEN SWEENEY

Some 6,000 Westmount households this week are receiving questionnaires on crime prevention as a start to the city's Neighborhood Watch program, officials report.

"We urge everyone to return the questionnaires as quickly as possible," said Lieutenant Richard McEnroe of the Public Security Unit. To speed up response, the city has included stamped, addressed envelopes with the questionnaires, which were mailed out Friday to residents in three electoral wards.

The wards have been pinpointed as higher-risk areas, namely: ward 8 in the southeast, ward 5 in the southwest and ward 4 in the central area around Arlington avenue (see story May 9). The Neighborhood Watch program will be launched in these areas starting in June, according to a letter which accompanies the questionnaire and is signed by Mayor Brian Gallery and the alderman of the ward concerned.

The letter calls the questionnaire "an essential part of the program."

Among the 25 questions asked are:
 • Where does crime prevention fit into your list of priority concerns?
 • In the past year, have you been the victim of any type of crime?
 • Did you report the crime(s) to police?

- To what extent do you fear becoming a victim of crime in this area?
- Generally speaking, are you satisfied with the services provided by the Public Security Unit? If not, why not?
- What kinds of crime prevention programs would you like to see in your community?
- Would you be willing to participate in a Neighborhood Watch program?

Somerville house broken

Household items valued at about $1,000 were stolen Friday from a house on Somerville avenue. No signs of forced entry were reported.

Among the missing articles were: a Sony turntable, a Sanyo tuner and amplifier, a Polaroid camera and a tennis bag.

The burglary took place sometime between 8:45 pm and 10 pm.

Motorcyclist injured in fall

A 24-year-old man went to hospital Tuesday last week after he fell from the motorcycle he was driving along Sherbrooke street at Greene avenue, police report.

The victim said he lost control after being cut off by a taxi about noon.

He apparently went to Notre Dame Hospital himself after sustaining injuries to the left wrist, hand and elbow. He lived in Rosemount.

Frame taken, wheel remains

A cyclist who locked his bike to a support outside 4998 de Maisonneuve boulevard last Thursday night, found only one wheel remaining on Friday night.

Police said the rest of the bicycle had been taken away, leaving only the locked wheel. The theft was listed at $400. The bike was a black 12-speed Norco model.

Specs found

Gold-rimmed eyeglasses were found Monday morning last week in the Westmount Athletic Grounds behind Westmount High School, public safety officials report. The spectacles were turned in to local MUC police station 23.

Sound system, suitcase gone

A sound system and a suitcase valued together at $1,600 were reported stolen from a house on Prince Albert avenue last week, police said.

The burglary was reported to have occurred sometime between Monday and Wednesday last week, while the house was unattended. The resident returned home to find both front and back doors unlocked.

Bicycle, bag found in park

A bicycle and a number of other items in a bag were found together in Westmount Park last Thursday. They were turned in at local MUC police station 23.

The articles were recovered near the location where a runaway youth had been found earlier that day. Police said they might be associated with him (see separate story).

Running loose

A dog described as a mixed-breed collie was taken to the Animal Hospital of Westmount Friday morning after being found running loose, public safety officers said. The dog had brown and black markings.

Rotarian Bremer discovers clubs different in Germany

Westmount Rotarians learned about the international side of Rotary International Wednesday last week when club member Klaus Bremer spoke about his recent visits to Rotary organizations in West Germany.

Mr Bremer, an electrical contractor, recently visited two clubs in his native Germany, one in Frankfurt and another in Emden.

In Emden, Mr Bremer discovered "a very formal club," where manners and customs were very proper. Explaining that the city was economically depressed, Mr Bremer noted that the club seemed to receive few visitors.

"I was enthusiastically received as the first guest Rotarian of 1985," he said. "They had one in 1984."

In Frankfurt, Mr Bremer discovered the opposite, what he termed "a clearing house for visiting Rotarians from all over the world."

Members outnumbered

He noted that the meeting he attended included four actual members of the club and 19 visiting Rotarians.

One thing Mr Bremer discovered in Frankfurt was a copy of an interesting address titled Rotary Aphorisms, written 10 years ago by Rotarian Lothar Schmidt.

In the address, Mr Bremer found numerous witty remarks about the nature of Rotary.

About the Rotary rule of each club admitting only one member from each professional class, the author wrote: "The Rotary Club is a club which, admitting only one of each kind, becomes twice as exclusive as Noah's Ark."

This rule, continued the author,

also resulted in the Rotary paradox: "The smaller the number of persons belonging to a profession, the more classifications."

Mr Bremer was introduced by John Sancton and was thanked by club president Douglas Whiting.

The club welcomed visiting Rotarians from France, West Germany and Florida.

Man arrested found wanted on warrant

A man wanted on an outstanding warrant for an assault charge was arrested here Monday last week, according to public safety officials.

The suspect was picked up after firefighters reported noticing a suspicious person in the area of Mount Stephen avenue and Sherbrooke street about 8:21 pm.

Public Safety Officer Richard Turley and Sergeant Brian Claman who responded to the area reported finding a man who appeared under the influence of narcotics.

He was standing in the street, posing a danger to himself.

A doorman of an apartment building at the corner told them the man had been in the area for some two hours and was believed scaring passersby.

MUC police were called and the man was taken to the station where the arrest warrant was discovered.

St Henri boy slept in park

A 15-year-old boy from St Henri who had been reported missing was found sleeping in Westmount Park by public safety officers last Thursday morning, police confirmed.

The youth, who was spotted asleep near the lagoon at 6:45 am, had no identification, public safety officers said. MUC police were called and the boy was taken to local station 23.

Police said it was not the first time he had run away.

Dodge, Mercury collide here

Two cars collided late Saturday night at the intersection of Sherbrooke street and Grosvenor avenue, police said. No injuries were reported.

Damage was estimated at more than $500 to each vehicle.

The accident occurred about 11:40 pm when an orange 1980 Mercury travelling east was turning left up Grosvenor. Police said the driver failed to yield to a red Dodge that had been heading west.

Keys turned in to local police

A number of keys have been found during the past week, police report.

Turned in at local MUC station 23 were keys found in a taxi, at Greene and de Maisonneuve and in Westmount Park.

A set of some 35 to 45 keys was found in the apartment garage at 4800 de Maisonneuve last Thursday, Public Security Unit officials said. They were turned over to MUC police for investigation.

Park soldiers in movie

A complaint of "suspicious activity" involving persons dressed up as soldiers in Prince Albert Park Tuesday last week was checked out by public safety officers.

They found not only the dress-up soldiers "firing" guns, but also a mother who was operating a video cassette camera.

The alleged military operation reported at 6:53 pm turned out to be a film project for Loyola, officials said.

The complainant, a resident of Windsor avenue, was apparently duly informed of the goings-on.

Cycle stolen

A $125 bicycle was stolen from an unlocked garage on Willow avenue Tuesday last week, police report. The theft occurred sometime between 3 and 4 pm.

Man found in living room, police arrest 28-year-old

A 28-year-old Point St Charles man has been charged with breaking and entering after a man was found inside a private home on Prince Albert avenue Wednesday last week, police report.

A suspect arrested across from 5131 Côte St Antoine road shortly after the incident was on probation at the time, police report.

MUC cars were called to the house on Prince Albert near the Côte road when a woman discovered a man sitting in the living room.

She told police she had heard noises upstairs while doing laundry in the basement. When she went to investigate, the man was reported to have told her he was waiting for "Danny" or "Johnny."

She asked the man to leave which he did and police were summoned.

While one Constable Gaston Bernier took the report, his partner, Cst Michel Carignan set off to patrol in search of the suspect, spotting a person in N.D.G.

He was assisted in the arrest at 12:40 pm by constables Rick Caluori and Marc Hinton.

Kitten found

A small, grey kitten was taken to the SPCA Saturday after it was found at the cinema in Westmount Square, Public Security Unit officials report. The animal, described as a very young, female kitten, had white paws.

We Say

Watch out for WHS

THE Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal has created unnecessary confusion in its temporizing arrangements for French-speaking students in West End Montreal — including Westmount.

The announcement late last week by the education minister, Hon François Gendron, vetoing the PSBGM's mid-winter decision to convert Town of Mount Royal High School to a totally French school, puts the central board, and some of its commissioners in the split vote for the change, in an anomalous situation.

It also creates confusion, to say nothing of the emotional upset since the action was first taken, for students, parents and school staffs in the affected communities which, with the reversal by Mr Gendron, once again include Westmount.

It may appear to some that the government intervention is political. The PSBGM's decision for the T.M.R. conversion was taken in the atmosphere of its opposition to Bill 3, now pending implementation and also before the courts. The bill, passed in the late fall of 1984, would create French and English school boards replacing the present "confessional" administrative units — for which read "non-Roman Catholic" in the case of the PSBGM.

However, the minister's action makes good sense in practical terms and might also bring the commissioners down to earth. Not so practical is his apparent suggestion that the PSBGM may designate another school for exclusive French use.

A large segment of the population, French and English, is not so obsessed as the members of some present school boards over preserving the present arrangements for school municipalities, whatever their origins and roots in the British North America Act. The mere fact that the basic organization was set up in 1867 is in itself sufficient reason for reform in keeping with the needs of over a century later.

Furthermore, the French-English (or Catholic-Protestant) dichotomy has sufficiently softened that the eminently sensible proposals of Bill 3 can and should be viewed by the two (or four) sides maturely. This we don't think has been happening within the PSBGM. Instead there has been betrayed from its headquarters on Fielding avenue a strong sense of fear of change, however long overdue, which would disrupt life as it has been known in that little empire.

Paramount from the taxpayers' standpoint, and probably from that of parents of school-age children, is the waste and duplication of Roman and so-called Protestant boards both maintaining French and English school facilities. However once important, and perhaps desirable but largely a dead letter now, was religious persuasion and instruction in the schools, this no longer is a paramount or even major consideration in public education here. We now can afford to be entirely practical and face the prime reality of the language of teaching, and thus of schools and of local boards controlling them. Sometime in the future, perhaps even this distinction can be wiped out and our children, of whatever origin or persuasion, can be taught thoroughly in both languages and turned out functionally bilingual and fit for Canadian and particularly Quebec society.

For now, we say Mr Gendron has done the right thing. The untimely action of the PSBGM last February (after 10 months of prevarication) was mere temporizing and hardly necessary in the light of its own facts. Mount Royal High School already was accommodating French classes along with the English ones and the figures show that it quite easily can take on more French students next fall. After that, Bill 3, almost certain to be enacted eventually, will change everything.

There were five candidates for the PSBGM conversion from English to French: Mount Royal, Northmount, Malcolm Campbell, West Hill and Westmount high schools. If the arguments made in the winter still are at all valid, Westmount High once again could be the leading target.

None should be. Until the Bill 3 matter is settled, both in the courts and by its coming into force and reorganizing accomplished, it would be folly for the PSBGM or any other board with imbalances between students and school buildings in the two language groups, to expend the money, effort and disruption for all concerned to attempt correction.

Certainly, switches of language vocation for whole schools for the next school year starting in September should not be attempted now, in late May. Rather, the PSBGM people should be devoting themselves to limiting the damage already done in Mount Royal and among next year's students affected by the unfortunate decision and now its reversal.

The eventual fate of Westmount High School depends on many factors, first of which should be the needs of Westmount. It well may be that with Bill 3 we may find that this community will have, between English-speaking Roman Catholics and "Protestants" then under a single board, sufficient students to see WHS in a renewed role primarily for local secondary youngsters.

Town of Mount Royal Weekly Post

Nothing should be permitted to jeopardize that possibility. Least of all should the PSBGM be permitted, without strong protest from members of the Westmount community of all persuasions, to make some rash move here such as it did in the Town of Mount Royal.

Our commissioner representing Westmount, Mrs Joan Rothman, may be relied upon to press the local viewpoint, as well as the broader principle of not temporizing while the future of school reorganization is pending.

We are fortunate to have on the board another resident, Mrs. Elizabeth Annesley who, though representing the Mount Royal area, also might be relied upon to convince the 9-6 majority who voted for the earlier bad decision to limit any action now to the absolutely necessary in the interests of those who are most important: the students, French and English, here and elsewhere.

That priority seems to have been mislaid recently at Fielding avenue in the preoccupation to thwart Bill 3's objectives. The politics, if any, being played seems to be coming from the PSBGM while the minister, a politician, displays practical wisdom.

The constitutional ball

RENÉ Lévesque is whistling, but will Brian Mulroney recognize the tune? Mr Lévesque would like to recommence the constitutional ball. The catastrophic results of Mr Lévesque's last efforts in this direction seem to have left him with no choice but to try again.

Quebec's refusal to join a constitutional accord which (very marginally) reduced the powers of the National Assembly has become a piece of unfinished business of a particularly obtrusive kind. Mr Lévesque is not anxious to go down in history as the first prime minister in generations to lose Quebec powers to the federal government.

Mr Mulroney is in an entirely different situation. He has no pressing electoral obligations. His party is united around him. He is more popular in Quebec than Mr Lévesque. And he must get the consent of the provincial premiers outside Quebec in order to make the changes which Quebec considers necessary.

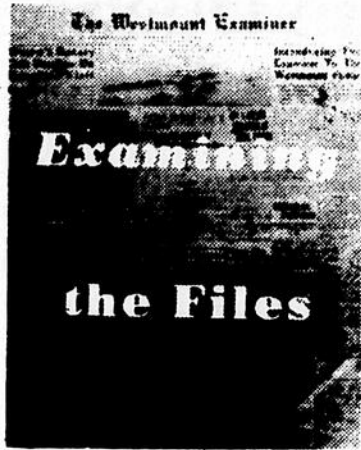

There have been two kinds of arguments as to why Mulroney should be anxious to deal with Lévesque. The first is that the "People all over the world have unusual hobbies, and it is interesting to note, says one authority, that a person's hobby very often provides a healthy outlet for excess energy. A unique hobby is that of Mrs Walter Jackson, Argyle avenue. 'I paint houses,' says this petite, well-groomed woman. And, of course, everyone assumes that she paints pictures of houses. But her remark is as literal as can be. Mrs Jackson actually paints houses for her relatives and friends, while visiting them. They buy the paint and supplies, and she climbs up a ladder and paints the exterior of the residence where she happens to be staying. 'I love climbing up to the second storey,' she adds with an engaging smile, 'it's so exciting. And the houses look so much prettier after the work is finished.'"

"Several Westmount store and home windows and at least one flower bed were the victims early Wednesday morning of a noisy but generally orderly march through eastern Westmount by referendum 'Yes' supporters protesting their loss. Police attempted but failed to divert all the marchers up Mount Royal at Atwater avenue. The crowd, which had started at the Paul Sauvé Arena and St Denis street and grew to a reported 3,000 strong, had dwindled to about 500 at Atwater and, according to police, only some 200 to 300 marchers made their way into Westmount. As the crowd marched west along St Catherine street, windows were broken at the McDonald's Restaurant and the Westmount riding 'No' headquarters in the Westmount Premier building just east of Greene avenue."

Eyes on the budget

THIS evening we will see the budget. It will be the first concrete yardstick by which to measure the government's approach to economic management.

The minister has told us that it will be tough and fair. These perceptions will be very much in the eye of the beholder. Any program cuts will bring out dissenting voices who will not see the measures as fair. But to govern is to choose — and to choose is to please some and anger others.

If Mr Wilson tries to please everyone, everyone will be disappointed.

Depending on the extent of Wilson's proposals, it will be several days at least before a complete evaluation of the budget measures can be made by people and interest groups affected. Sometimes the impact is concealed in subtle changes to the Income Tax Act, which even the experts do not uncover in the first hours following the budget.

Challenging task

Mr Wilson has set himself an ambitious and challenging task: control and reduce the deficit while creating jobs. Declarations by Wilson and the prime minister over the last eight months have closed off many options.

As finance critic of the official Opposition, I have to reply to Wilson in the house tonight. Fortunately, I have several hours

You Say

Getting it 'in the bag' held 'perfectly natural'

Sir: Though I appreciate the overall spirit of your editorial concerning the "It's in the bag" campaign, I am very sorry you shed such a dim light on the clean-up procedure which is, as you say, its main thrust.

What you describe as "distasteful" and "not an inviting prospect" should instead be considered as a perfectly natural (not to mention civil and polite) response to a perfectly natural bodily function, much the same way as you would flush a toilet.

Not many of us enjoy talking about flushing toilets, nor about changing diapers of infants, but both are done with very little fuss or bother.

The city and the Westmount Dog Owners' Association have worked long and hard in the development of this campaign, including both the drafting of the handbook and the upcoming "blitz" on cleaning up. It is recognized by city hall that dogs are an important asset in this community — not just a strange obsession of a group of odd-ball citizens. It is a credit to city council that they are learning to accept this fact — albeit slowly.

In the future we should watch for more happenings on the dog front, perhaps including a much-needed dog obedience in a "lock-up" this afternoon to study the budget papers and to prepare my preliminary action. In doing so, I will try to be guided by Wilson's criteria: tough but fair.

I expect to have much more to report to readers of THE EXAMINER next week.

course and even a fenced-in, 24-hour dog run. Any new developments will, however, require a fostering of the type of spirit exemplified in the current campaign, and this means a recognition by all dog-owners not only of their present rights but of their responsibilities.

I therefore urge dog-owners, if they don't do it already, to be more considerate in cleaning up after their dogs. As the handbook explains, it is a perfectly simple procedure; in fact, "it's in the bag."

Proper 'toiletten' for dogs are another suggestion

Sir: Instead of a sensitizing program confined to our animals, how about the city spending the $8,000 on some dog "toiletten" which could be dotted along the main routes around the parks, and residential areas where people walk with their pets?

These could be imaginatively designed containing simple garden plastic bags, which could be collected on garbage rounds and would save owners from having to cart the excrescences around with them on what used to be pleasurable walks.

If it comes to cleanliness, what about the mounds of glass bottles, newspapers and plastic riff-raff that Westmounters stuff into their garbage bags each week? Why has the city never considered segregated garbage?

Our pets are not the only polluters!

Westmount and Hydro Québec reach dual energy agreement

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

Westmount city council recently approved an agreement with Hydro Québec which will allow certain local institutions and commercial establishments to heat their premises using a dual energy heating system.

The agreement, approved at the statutory meeting of city council May 6, allows the city to decide which establishments will be permitted to use a dual system.

Under the agreement, those who install dual heating could obtain reduced rates on electrical charges, explained Alderman Joan Rothman, Westmount's commissioner of light, power and data communications.

A dual system involves using electric heaters to heat a premises during cool months in the spring and fall. During the colder parts of the year, a standard oil system is used.

According to Ald Rothman, Hydro Québec, which supplies the Westmount light and power department with electricity, has designed the program to sell its surplus of electrical power.

"A small electricity consumer like Westmount is put into a difficult position when dealing with a giant like Hydro Québec," she said.

Could mean expense

Such a system could reduce establishments' heating bills in the long run, but city officials understand that it could cost the city money in the short run.

"It creates problems for the city of Westmount because it doesn't have the capital to convert its electrical facilities that quickly," said Ald Rothman.

She explained that the greater demand for electricity created by the program would require Westmount to increase the capacity of its electrical lines in some areas of the city.

"If you're going to have to take more power, we're going to have to be able to deliver it," said Ald Rothman. "Still, we have decided that public institutions should have a crack at it."

City to decide

Under the agreement, Westmount would determine which premises would be permitted to install a dual heating system so the city could keep the program in line with its capacity to supply electricity.

Péquistes supposedly helped elect the Tories in Quebec. As I have already had occasion to point out, anyone who wins 58 seats out of 75 in Quebec has something more than an enfeebled Péquiste machine going for him. Included in that something more were provincial Liberals in numbers at least as great as the Péquistes. Brian Mulroney may owe a few Péquiste organizers in a few specific ridings. He owes nothing to the party as such.

The second argument is that by dealing with a desperate Lévesque, Mulroney will go down in history as having tamed the separatist hordes by an entente with their leading spokesmen. The trouble with this point of view is that René is no longer the independentist hero but rather a doomed provincial politician. He may be more ready to conclude an agreement with Ottawa but he is less and less able to generate a consensus on the subject within his own party. He will have great difficulty saving the nation and his own political skin at one and the same time.

"The City of Westmount is the arbitrator," she said. "Where the expense is reasonable, we'll do it."

Council already seems to have considered that the expense would be reasonable along Greene avenue.

Last week, council voted to spend $89,000 to install a 12kV cable along the street in order to accommodate the electrical needs of several merchants who want to install dual energy systems.

"We can help them because the returns we will get will be more than the $89,000 and it will pay for itself," said Ald Rothman. "If it will pay for itself or will not cost too much, we will encourage dual energy."

Newly-planted city trees stolen from Olivier lane

Five newly-planted city trees were reported stolen from the north side of the laneway adjacent to 315 Olivier avenue over the weekend, Public Security Unit officials said.

The trees were noticed to be missing by a resident of the street. They were described as three spruce trees worth $60 each and two apple trees valued at between $11 and $50.

The trees apparently had been planted Friday and were discovered gone Monday morning at 6 am.

PCBs...

spected monthly by the electrical crews.

The city does not, however, inspect or maintain the nine PCB-filled transformers which are privately owned.

These companies have been advised during the past two or three weeks to register their units with Environment Canada, the report says.

These transformers are installed at Alexis Nihon Plaza, Château Maisonneuve, the Westmount Medical Building, the Steinberg store at 4840 Sherbrooke and the Royal Bank data centre, according to city officials.

The report reveals that leaks were discovered in several of the city PCB-filled units here in 1984 but have been repaired.

One leaked

One PCB unit which developed a "serious" leak was located in a manhole. It was transported out of the city and no other PCB units are installed "in such vulnerable places," explained Mr Heron.

The 25 PCB transformers have been installed for some time, he says. A list is maintained at the fire station for use in possible emergencies.

Replacement of PCB-filled units by conventional oil-filled units is complicated, Mr Heron said.

Not only is it extremely costly, but PCB transformers are used in specific locations where others cannot be installed.

The PCB units eliminate the fire hazard presented by less costly conventional transformers, according to Mr Heron.

Cost $70,000

The eight transformers installed at Westmount Square in 1967 cost in excess of $70,000.

The one PCB transformer which had to be removed from the manhole here had been in service for some years, Mr Heron said. It developed "a serious leak" because of corrosion of the steel tank.

Kept outside

"We took it out ourselves," Mr Heron said. The unit was kept outside until it could be transported out of Westmount to western Canada.

"The cost to us was several times the original purchase price of the transformer, he noted.

Mr Heron said he felt research into the disposal of PCBs and their disposal was hindered by a "public panic" over the situation.

"The situation worried me for a while, but all is being watched very carefully in Westmount," he said.

Selwyn garbage on fire

Firemen were called to Selwyn House School late Tuesday afternoon after a small fire had been found and extinguished in a garbage can, fire officials report. All was found in order.

The wastebasket was located in a first-floor washroom.

School officials reported two small fires earlier in the day had been discovered in wastebaskets in washrooms located on the second and third storeys.

Hit and run near Weredale

More than $500 damage was reported to a car parked last Thursday at Weredale Park, according to police.

The 1981 Mazda was believed hit by an unknown vehicle sometime between 9:15 am and 12 noon. Police said a number of works trucks had been in and out of the area during the day.

Bikes ditched in park lagoon

Two chrome Leader BMX bicycles were found last week thrown into the lagoon in Westmount Park. Both were turned in at local MUC police station 23 by the Public Security Unit.

One bike was pulled out of the lagoon last Thursday night; the other, Friday morning.

Alliance Quebec delivers message to local seniors

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

Local senior citizens discussed the situation of Quebec's anglophones when Mary Lee Kelly of Alliance Quebec visited the Westmount Senior Citizens' Centre Thursday last week.

Mrs Kelly, a worker with the West Island chapter of the organization, told those present that Alliance Quebec would continue to exist, even if the Parti Québécois did not win the next provincial election.

"There are many changes of the last nine years that have become so entrenched that they won't be changed unless we push for them," said Mrs Kelly.

"Decisions have been made, not out of malice, but because there wasn't anyone there saying: 'Hey, that will affect the English community different from the French community'," she said.

Dealing with the case of the elderly, Mrs Kelly referred to the lack of English social services for anglophones living in areas such as Montreal's east end.

"We're not asking that everyone speak English," said Mrs Kelly, speaking of institutions such as hospitals, "but on every shift, there should be someone who can speak English."

Run for CLSCs

Mrs Kelly explained that Alliance Quebec was attempting to practise "la politique de la présence" by encouraging its members to run for positions such as board members of various Centres Locaux de Services Communautaires (CLSCs).

"This is so our voice can be heard," she said.

Mrs Kelly said such measures were not meant to create controversy, but were to demonstrate that francophones and anglophones in Quebec "have a lot of living to do and a lot of understanding."

"It is this English community that seems to be working out a social contract of living," said Mrs Kelly. "If we can't do it here, no one can."

Mrs Kelly encouraged her audience to become involved in one of the 22 chapters Alliance Quebec has throughout the province. She said the organization's incoming president, Westmounter Michael Goldbloom, would continue to pursue many of the same battles as his predecessor, Westmount resident Eric Maldoff.

"You're going to hear from us because you have to have a watchdog," said Mrs Kelly.

Pioneers get seniors' grant

The department of health and welfare's New Horizons program has awarded a grant of about $7,000 to a Westmount-based group for senior citizens.

The Metcalfe Pioneers, a senior citizens' group which operates out of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association No 306 (Maple Leaf) Wing building on Sherbrooke street, will use the funds to pay for rent, office supplies and general administration of the organization.

The organization, which arranges various activities for local senior citizens, received a similar grant last year.

RCMP marks Police Week, reviews work with youth

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police marked Police Week with a press conference Thursday last week at "C" division headquarters on Dorchester boulevard in Westmount.

Emphasizing police and youth as the theme of the week, in honor of the United Nations International Youth Year, the force reviewed its work with youth, in particular, its anti-drug program.

Lectures, posters and exhibitions are the principal means by which the RCMP points out the dangers of drug use. One member of the force makes anti-drug presentations in classrooms and other settings full-time.

The RCMP also encourages its members to become involved with youth in the community. As hockey and baseball coaches, RCMP officers are able to deliver their anti-drug message to youths on a one-to-one basis.

The force often donates sports equipment to young teams, and has created trophies, crests and badges to be distributed among players.

Other audiences

Parents, social clubs and private and professional enterprises also have been audiences during RCMP drug presentations.

The force also promotes bicycle safety, with a variety of teaching tools.

Among the RCMP's multiple activities, fund-raising for the Telethon of Stars remains the major component of its community involvement. Funds are used toward research into children's diseases at the Montreal Children's and St Justine hospitals.

Last year, the RCMP donated $50,000 to the telethon. The money was raised during the year through walking and jogging marathons, a raffle, a spaghetti dinner, a golf tournament and other events.

Fund-raising for the telethon this year begins with a benefit baseball game at the Centre Claude Robillard at 7:30 pm June 6, involving the RCMP's Quatre Chevaliers O'Keefe, and representatives of radio station CKAC and Le Journal de Montréal.

The game marks the beginning of the Chevaliers' 20th season.

Thief says thanks

A 10-year-old Westmount boy lost his bicycle to a young thief Wednesday afternoon last week while playing baseball in Westmount Park, police report.

"Thank you," the thief told the boy. "I'm taking your bike." And with that, the thief, aged about 16, rode off.

The black 1984 bicycle was valued at $280.

Firebox alarms false

Westmount firemen were called to six false alarms in three days from fireboxes at Selby and Greene avenue as well as from Clandeboye and Dorchester, officials report.

No one was found in the area on any of the occasions.

The calls began last Thursday at 5:45 pm with three from the Selby box and another from Clandeboye.

Public safety officers maintained surveillance, but no one was spotted.

Two other false calls were rung in from the Selby box Saturday.

Summit fire extinguished, man flees

A man, cautioned by public safety officers to put out a campfire in Summit Park Wednesday afternoon, complied and then ran into the woods as firefighters arrived, Public Security officials report.

Firemen overhauled the fire as a precaution but reported finding no one in the area. They were called to the park at 3:49 pm by someone reporting a brush fire.

Public safety officers, who had arrived earlier, found the man beside the fire near Summit Circle and Oakland. He extinguished it with dirt, then leapt to his feet and disappeared into the woods.

The man was described as having long black hair and a beard.

Leaking oil leads to smoke

Oil leaking from the base of a furnace on Hillside avenue Sunday morning ignited, filling the house with smoke, fire officials report.

The fire was put out using an extinguisher and smoke damage to the home was described as slight.

Public safety officers who also arrived on the scene reported that teenagers were still asleep upstairs and were ordered out of the home.

Fire officials said the occupants had been awakened by the smoke detector.

Burning paper brings caution

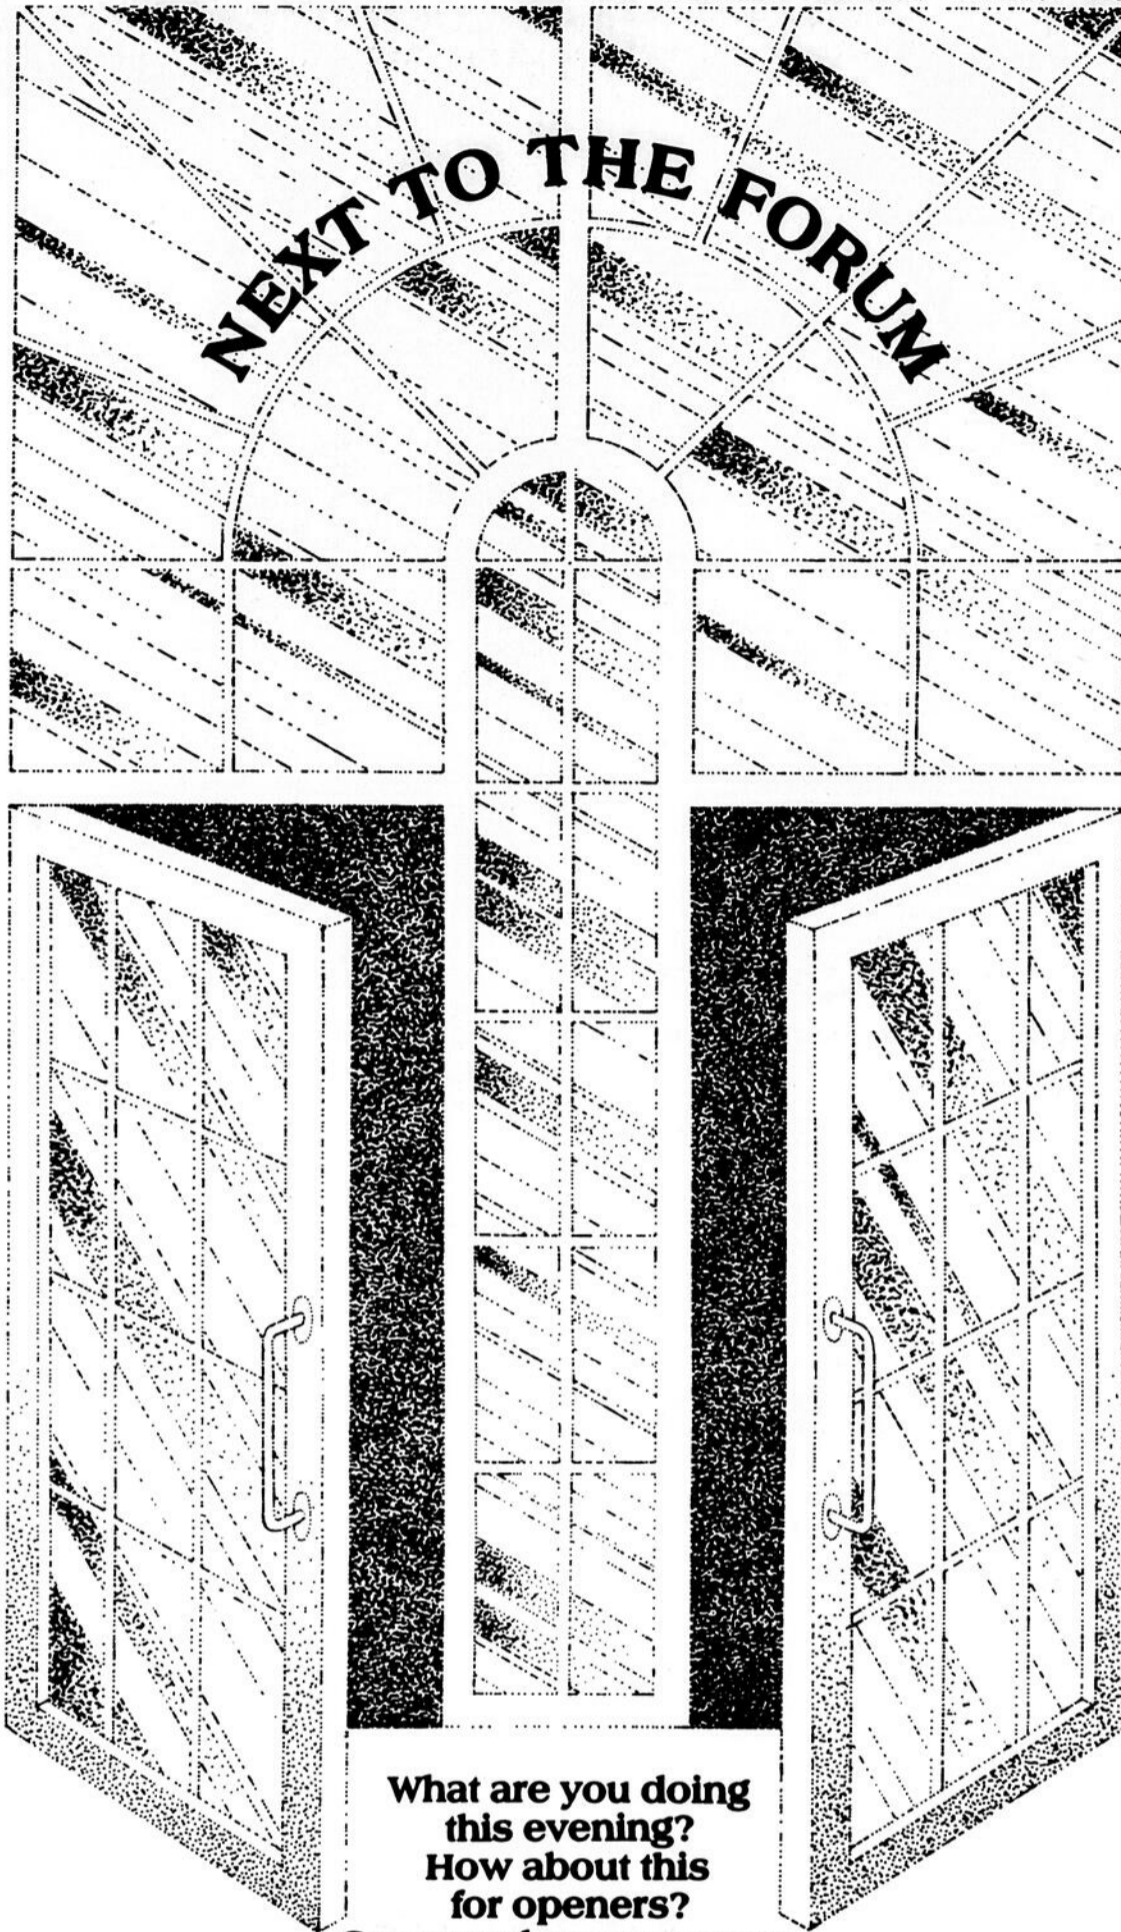

Four Westmount youths were cautioned by local fire officers Monday in connection with papers found burning at the base of an electric pole outside 3220 Trafalgar, fire officials said.

MUC police were called to the scene as well as light and power department personnel. All was found in order.

Digest door found open

A door was found open at the Reader's Digest building at 175 Metcalfe avenue last Thursday, according to police.

Three MUC cars responded to the call from a security firm at 3:05 am for what was thought to be a broken window. Instead, the door was found insecure. Nothing was reported missing inside.

St Léon fête les louveteaux et les deux frères Boyer PARTICIPATION CONSTANTE: Alphonse et Louis Boyer ont dirigé les louveteaux à Saint-Léon de Westmount depuis 30 ans. Leur persévérance, leur dynamisme et leur sérénité sont connus de tous.

La meute des louveteaux de Saint-Léon existe depuis 30 ans déjà et l'âme dirigeante en est toujours les frères Alphonse et Louis Boyer. Un tel événement suscite le désir de la rencontre et de la fête.

Tous les anciens louveteaux et leurs proches (informez vos amis) sont invités le dimanche 2 juin à la célébration solennelle de l'Eucharistie de 11h15.

Son éminence de Cardinal Paul-Emile Léger nous fait l'honneur et nous donne la joie de présider cette célébration. Un vin d'honneur sera servi après la messe à la salle Saint-Léon, 310, avenue Clarke.

Ce sera aussi l'occasion pour tous les paroissiens de se retrouver à la fin d'une année féconde en événements heureux, de dire notre reconnaissance à tous ceux qui ont participé à la vie communautaire de Saint-Léon et d'exprimer à MM Louis et Alphonse Boyer notre admiration et notre gratitude pour une participation constante à la vie paroissiale.

Bienvenue à tous, c'est un rendez-vous pour la fête.

Une conférence sur le thème "Abolir la torture? c'est possible aujourd'hui" aura lieu le 29 mai à la Salle du Gesù, 1202 avenue de Bleury à 19h30.

Une réflexion sur la responsabilité des chrétiens face à la torture se tiendra le 1er juin à 13 h à la Cathédrale Marie-Reine-du-Monde, sur le boulevard Dorchester.

Une deuxième réflexion sur la prière au coeur de l'action est prévue la même journée à 17h00 lors de la célébration eucharistique, à l'église St Léon de Westmount, 4311 ouest, boulevard de Maisonneuve.

Houston funeral in Ottawa

Funeral services were held yesterday at the Hulse and Playfair Central Chapel in Ottawa for Harry Houston, a former Westmounter and active member of the Westmount Rotary Club.

Mr Houston, in his 63rd year, died Monday at his home in Manotick, Ont.

After attending Westmount schools, Mr Houston was involved in a number of enterprises. He took over the plumbing and heating firm James H. MacIntyre Plumbing Ltd from his father, Adam C. Houston, and later sold it.

Mr Houston sold real estate as a Westmount Realities agent, and later worked for Mondev Inc. Most recently, Mr Houston worked for the department of Indian and northern affairs in Ottawa.

Friends remember Mr Houston as an avid gun collector who had an exceptional collection of firearms.

He is survived by his wife, Jeanie Alexander, and two children, Barbie and Bryan.

Alexis Nihon Plaza work dominates permit tally

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

Work on the Alexis Nihon complex continued to dominate building activity in Westmount in the first quarter of 1985.

Of approximately $4.1-million worth of work registered at city hall during January, February and March, almost $3.2 million of it was to take place at the Alexis Nihon complex.

The largest permit issued during the period was for $2.7 million in renovations done in the Alexis Nihon shopping mall. The plaza also obtained a permit for $400,000 in new plumbing installations.

Without the Alexis Nihon work, the permit total represents a slight decline over the same period last year, when the total value of anticipated work was about $1.1 million.

Down from 1983

It also indicates a significant drop from the first quarter of 1983, when the total value of permits issued was about $1.9 million.

Work outside of Alexis Nihon also demonstrates a slow-down from the last two quarters of 1984, when permits valued at $2.8 million and $2.4 million, respectively, were recorded.

During the first quarter of this year, alterations, including the major Alexis Nihon permit, added up to just over $3 million.

Plumbing work accounts for a total of about $583,000.

Gas conversions and installations made up about $248,000 worth of permits in the first quarter. Application for these permits was particularly heavy during March, immediately before the April 1 deadline for federal energy conversion grants.

External changes, such as signs, account for only $8,600 in permits.

The only new dwelling listed was a $130,000 new house at 25 Edgehill road.

Diamond loss

A Westmount woman lost a $9,000 gold chain with diamond Sunday last week in Queen Elizabeth Park, police report. The woman lived on Elm avenue.

FRUIT OF THE VINE: Theatre and wine lovers spent Tuesday to Thursday last week sampling American wines as part of a fund-raising event for the Centaur Theatre. Sampling a white wine last Wednesday evening from the Sebastiani vineyards in California are, from right, Barbara Labourot, Sylvia Hrycyn and Esther Ruehmling. They are being served by Jack Korlann of Sebastiani. The event raised about $20,000 for the Centaur.

House open not purse

The sign said "open house." Not "open purse."

A real estate agent told police one of the visitors viewing a house for sale on Elm avenue Sunday took the wallet from her purse.

According to police reports, a suspect, described only as "white," removed the wallet sometime between 2 pm and 3 pm. It contained credit cards as well $60 in Canadian currency and $150 in U.S. funds.

Soldering work lights garage

A fire which broke out in the ceiling of a garage from soldering work caused an estimated $400 damage at 439 Strathcona avenue Tuesday morning, fire officials report.

The fire, attributed to plumbing work on pipes, was put out by firemen using a pressurized water extinguisher.

The ceiling was opened and checked for possible extension of fire but none was reported found.

Firefighters originally were called at 9:51 am for smoke in the basement of the house at 435 Strathcona. The source of the smoke was traced to the other home.

Burglar takes VCR, stereo

Household goods valued at more than $3,000 were stolen from a house broken into recently on Olivier avenue, police report.

The burglary occurred sometime between May 10-15 when someone gained entry through a small basement window under a balcony. The house was searched throughout.

Among the items stolen included a video cassette recorder, a color TV and a sound system.

Youth discovers video cassettes

Five or six video cassette tapes were found Friday morning at the rear of 4260 Dorchester boulevard by a youth living on St Antoine street. They were turned in to local MUC police station 23. The Public Security Unit report counted six tapes; the police report, five.

Film Board which teaches kids to protect themselves from sexual assault by strangers and by persons known to them. On Saturday, 3 pm, CFCF-TV will present the film for the first time on television. The film actually is a series of three short films. A slightly longer one for adults, which explains the problems and suggests how they can help, comes with the other three when they are borrowed from the NFB but I don't think it will be shown on TV. The three films aimed at children encourage them to take pride in and responsibility for their bodies, help them recognize dangerous situations and learn to say "no," and give them information on how to handle sexual assault from trusted persons. Actors in the film are from the Green Thumb Theatre in Vancouver and the film is based on a successful abuse prevention program designed by the theatre. The TV presentation will include discussions with parents, educators and social workers. There also will be information on Child Find Quebec.

Arts Westmount brings bus tours to festival

Architectural and historical bus tours of the city of Westmount are among the innovations planned for the 1985 Arts Westmount festival, to take place Oct 1 to 6 this year.

The tours are to be based on material in the soon-to-be-reprinted book, Montreal's Little Mountain, which was co-authored by Sally Hooff, past vice-president of Arts Westmount, and Aline Gubbay, co-chairman of the organization's literary committee.

Trained guides will provide comment during the tours, which are to leave at intervals from in front of Westmount Public Library Oct 5 and 6, beginning at 10 am.

Reservations will be made to avoid line-ups, but empty seats are to be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

It is hoped that the tours will help the public identify buildings and orient themselves, as well as give a view of the extent of the city.

Arts Westmount officials note that bus tours, rather than walking tours, are planned since the slopes of "the little mountain" are an obstacle for many persons.

Officials expect the great variety of Westmount architecture and the natural beauty of the city will interest the public as much as the historical synopsis.

Whale photos on display at library

An exhibition of photographs of whales of the St Lawrence is to be held at Westmount Public Library from Monday until June 14 during regular library hours, sponsored by the Mingan Island Cetacean Study (MICS).

Jones, both involved in MICS, a in marine mammal research, conservation and educational programs.

The organization's main area of interest is in the whales and dolphins of the St Lawrence.

From June to late October each year, MICS conducts both aerial and boat observations of the whale and dolphin population throughout the Gulf of St
Lawrence, particularly the Mingan Islands area.

Mr Sears, executive director of MICS, observed large numbers of whales and dolphins (cetaceans) in the area in 1976. Extensive research since 1979 has provided important data on marine mammal life there.

A special 75th anniversary exhibition for the YM-YWHA will take place from May 30 until June 13 at the Saidye Bronfman Centre, 5170 Côte St Catherine road in Montreal. The exhibit will trace the association's growth from 1910 to 1985 through a large assortment of photographs, early newspapers, trophies, awards and a host of special memorabilia.

Among the huge assortment of nostalgic mementos are tickets from 1914 on for theatrical performances, orchestra productions, banquets, etc. Membership cards, course syllabuses, collages and newspaper clippings are among the many items to be displayed during the two-week exhibit.

In addition, organizers of this anniversary exhibition have tracked down many early pioneers and their families and will exhibit scrapbooks and photos from their personal collections.

The YM-YWHA is the Jewish Community Centre of Montreal. It operates out of five city branches in Snowdon, Côte St Luc and Laval, and a resident country camp for children in the Laurentians.

The exhibition is free and open to the public during regular Saidye Bronfman Centre hours. For information call 739-2301 or 737-6551.

A Westmounter will take over Aug 1 as the new principal of Trafalgar School for Girls in Montreal.

Shirley Packer, 112 Sunnyside avenue, was chosen recently to succeed Janette Doupe, the school's current principal. Mrs Doupe is moving to Toronto to become the headmistress of Havergal College.

An educator for the past 25 years, Mrs Packer has been the principal of Bialik High School, an independent school in Côte St Luc, for the last eight years. Previously, she taught mathematics at The Study for seven years.

A native of Montreal and a Westmount resident since 1970, Mrs Packer is a graduate of McGill University.

"I'm very familiar with Trafalgar and what it stands for," Mrs Packer said during an interview this week.

Tremendous reputation

"Trafalgar is one of the finest independent schools in Canada in terms of its curriculum and environment. It has a tremendous reputation as being a place where good education is going on."

Located on Simpson street in downtown Montreal, Trafalgar has an enrolment of 275 girls. There are 531 students of both sexes who attend Bialik.

Mrs Packer seemed pleased at the chance to work in a smaller school and noted that one of her goals was to maintain the sense of history that exists at Trafalgar.

Bialik is 13 years old. Trafalgar, established in 1887, is the oldest English-language independent girls' school in the Montreal area.

"You have to be sensitive to the traditions and make sure you provide an appreciation of the heritage," said Mrs Packer. Despite its age, Mrs Packer said she considers Trafalgar a "progressive school."

"It's moved with the times," she noted.

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

With a smaller school to administer, Mrs Packer expects to have time for personal contact with students. She hoped it would allow her more of a chance to motivate and encourage students.

'Provide leadership'

"The most important thing a principal can provide is educational leadership," she said.

Shirley Packer

The leadership which she and her staff have provided at Bialik has produced a 100-percent matriculation rate. Every one of the students who has attended the school during Mrs Packer's tenure has gone on to higher education.

In viewing her leadership role, Mrs Packer applied a mathematical analogy.

"You have to prepare young people, in this case young women, to think and problem solve," she said. "One of the problems they're going to have to solve is how to contribute to the community."

Mrs Packer's contributions to the educational community have included serving on the executive of the Quebec Association of Independent Schools and with the regional bureau of the ministry of education.

Her work with the latter has involved arranging the introduction of the régime pédagogique, Quebec's recent law on school curriculum, in local independent schools.

Mrs Packer is married to Lionel Packer, a long-time Westmount resident. They have three children who attend Vanier College, Marianopolis College and St George's School of Montreal.

Protestant schools to return early

Schools in the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal (PSBGM) will start classes earlier than usual for the 1985-86 school year.

At local school committee meetings last week, principals noted that PSBGM students would return to classes on Thursday, August 29.

"If they are not started by then, the board runs into problems of placing holidays in the year," Westmount High School principal Gary Thompson told parents on the WHS school committee last Monday.

According to Mr Thompson, the PSBGM was obliged to have 183 instructional days and 17 professional days during the year. He said that, in order to guarantee the two-week Christmas holiday and the one-week March break, students had to be back in their classes before Labor Day, Sept 2.

Mr Thompson admitted he would not be surprised if school attendance was low Aug 29 and 30.

"The last time we tried this, it was not an overwhelming success," said Mr Thompson, referring to the same move that was made two years ago.

Ingrid Kovitch wins award at Vanier College

Summit Crescent resident Ingrid Kovitch was one of six students honored recently by the Vanier College athletic council with a $500 scholarship, awarded for athletic and academic excellence.

Miss Kovitch, the daughter of Masha and David Reich, is finishing her second year in health sciences at the CEGEP.

She plans to attend Yale University, in New Haven, Connecticut, next year. The scholarship is to be paid directly to the university.

A ranked badminton player in Quebec, Miss Kovitch was judged the most improved player and most valuable player on the Vanier badminton team last year. This year, she again was judged most valuable player.

In addition to badminton, Miss Kovitch is active in swimming, floor hockey, kayaking and racquetball. She also plays the piano.

Miss Kovitch, 18, grew up in Westmount and attended Bialik High School.

Dowie again chairman of Roslyn committee

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

Parents at Roslyn School elected a new school committee of 21 members at the school's annual general meeting, held Wednesday last week.

The several hundred parents who attended the meeting gave unanimous approval to the proposed slate of committee members.

James Dowie will continue as chairman of the school committee in 1985-86. At the meeting last week, Mr Dowie expressed his thanks to all those parents and volunteers who had helped out with the school over the past year.

Other committee positions for next year will include Kenneth Watkins, external chairman; Daphne Mitchell, secretary; and Susan Busch, treasurer.

Pat Ackman and Jane Poulsson will oversee activities, with Renée Prendergast acting as activities treasurer and Sandra Beaubien looking after uniforms.

Nanci Montpetit will coordinate class parents, Christopher Lyle will monitor safety at the school, Carol McCabe will supervise volunteers and Christine Bagnall will develop the school's proposed absentee phoning program.

Beverly Mitchell and David Abrams will oversee the Roslyn Reporter, the school's newsletter.

Other parents on the committee will include Michele Kaulbach, Ruth Fleischer, Dr Stanley Skoryna, Helen Duff, Eva Grunfeld, Susan Brooks and Judy Symansky.

College honors Dunbar, Nevard

Elisabeth A. Dunbar, daughter of Mr and Mrs Maxwell Dunbar, 488 Strathcona avenue, and Angela S. Nevard, daughter of Sheila Rudberg, 51 Sunnyside avenue, continue to distinguish themselves as students at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs, New York.

Both girls received highest honors for the fall term at the college. Highest honors are awarded for a quality point ratio of 3.6 or more from a possible 4.0.

The two Westmounters also have been selected for membership in Periclean, the college's honor society. Members are named on the basis of academic achievement and integrity.

Further honors include membership for both students in Phi Sigma Iota. Miss Dunbar belongs to the Omicron Omicron chapter, the national foreign language society.

Skidmore is a coeducational,

Kheiriddin best speaker in tourney

Tasha Kheiriddin, a grade 10 student at The Study, won the first prize for English public speaking at the 19th annual Canadian Student Debating Seminar, held recently in the Montreal area.

Over 80 of the country's best debaters gathered at three locations — Selwyn House School, Trafalgar School and Stewart Hall in Pointe Claire — for the six-day event.

Along with participating in three days of debating, the students took part in a mock parliament, a Trivial Pursuit tournament and a public speaking competition, which was won by Miss Kheiriddin.

Ray on team

Westmount students who were on the Quebec debating team were Jonathan Ray and Matthew Nadler, both of Selwyn House, Andrea Jarislowsky, of Miss Edgar's and Miss Cramp's, and Cathy Moroz, Andrea Burke, Joanna Wedge and Tandi Nikwani, all of Trafalgar.

The event was hosted by the Quebec Student Debating Association. Douglas Peets, a teacher at Selwyn House, and Richard Barrett, a teacher at ECS, were two of the organizers.

Students from out of town were billeted in the homes of local students.

ECS pianist to represent Canada, CBC

A Westmount student will represent Canada and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation at a European music festival, to be held next month in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Pianist Minna Shin, a grade 10 student at Miss Edgar's and Miss Cramp's School, will play in the South Bohemian Festival, which takes place during the last two weeks of June.

She will perform in a duo with violinist Marie Lacasse.

Miss Shin, who has been playing piano for nine years, has taken part in several international music festivals. She and Miss Lacasse took part in the South Bohemian Festival last year, and were awarded third prize.

It marked the first time that Canadian musicians had won such a prize in the prestigious competition.

"Naturally, it is a great honor for Radio-Canada to be represented in Czechoslovakia. It is a grand 'premiere' for us," wrote CBC producer Michèle Patry, in a letter to Molly Fripp, headmistress of ECS.

Ms Patry also noted that the festival would allow Miss Shin a continued exposure to some of the world's finest young musicians.

The South Bohemian Festival is an annual chamber music competition organized by the Czechoslovakian radio service. It is designed to find and develop promising young musicians. The participants are sponsored by various broadcasting services throughout the world.

Disabled students get a lift, Study opens new elevator

Things are looking up, or at least moving up, for disabled students interested in attending at least one Westmount school.

GOING UP: The Study's new elevator for the disabled was opened officially this week by Michael Hayes, left, chairman of the school's board of directors, and Eve Marshall, headmistress of The Study.

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

Students, staff and friends of The Study gathered at the school Tuesday morning to mark the official opening of the school's new elevator for the handicapped.

The elevator has, in fact, been in use since the fall.

Michael Hayes, chairman of the school's board of directors, called the elevator "the result of generous sharing, giving and helping."

The elevator, which was built last year at a cost of about $50,000, was paid for by several local groups, including the McConnell Foundation and the Crabtree Foundation.

Also on hand was Westmounter Patricia Harris, of the Quebec chapter of the March of Dimes, an organization which specializes in aiding the disabled.

"Our main objective is to forget people's disabilities and recognize their abilities," said Mrs. Harris. "To do this, they're going to have to be able to move among those with whom they work and study."

"You've opened the door and given a lift to somebody's ability," Mrs. Harris told those at the school.

Eve Marshall, headmistress of The Study, said there was only one student currently in need of the elevator, but with its installation, other disabled students might consider attending the school.

Also on hand for the event were officials of the Mackay Centre, who were consulted during construction of the elevator.

Garbage burns near Redfern

The burnt remains of a garbage bag were found Tuesday night at the rear of 346 Redfern avenue, fire officials report.

The fire was believed caused by smokers' materials. It was out on arrival of firefighters shortly after 10:06 pm.

move to change the school to French, but she noted that such a fight would again take away from the committee's other work.

"My own idea was to have a committee project this year," said Mrs. Beal Kish. "When this came up, all that was just gone. At least three hours a week was spent on this business and we had numerous meetings to attend."

At the PSBGM, officials said no official action would be taken on the matter until the board received the minister's letter.

"Everybody else seems to know something, but we have not received any official notification," said Ronald Paterson, director of communications at the board.

Mr. Paterson said the issue was slated for possible discussion at the board's meeting last night.

Joan Rothman, Westmount's PSBGM commissioner, is on holiday this week and was unavailable for comment.

Sale a success

A rummage sale sponsored by the Westmount Initiative for Peace at Westmount Park United Church Saturday was termed "a great success" by organizers. They report clearing $1,371, "which gives our bank account a nice infusion of strength."

Two accidents at same corner

A ticket was issued at one of two accidents which occurred recently at the intersection of Greene avenue and Dorchester boulevard, police report.

The ticket was issued May 7 to a 22-year-old Montreal man whose driver's permit was reported to have expired.

The car had hit another at the intersection of Dorchester boulevard and Greene avenue about 11:48 am. Both had been travelling west.

The second mishap at the same place took place May 10 about 9 am when another westbound car turning south struck a car heading east. No injuries were reported.

933-8556 • 932-1554Dodgers beat Reds, girls' soccer tied up

In softball last week, all four pee-wee teams took to the diamonds, playing their sixth games of the season.

On the first diamond, the Dodgers and Reds went at it in a fight for second place.

The Dodgers rallied early, scoring five runs in the first inning, thanks to hits by Brad Ellis, Philippe Gélinas and John Nicolai.

Although they shut down the Dodgers in the second inning, by the bottom of the third the Reds were down, 8-0. Yet they struggled back with low-scoring innings, with hits from Simon Toole, and Michael Voronka in the third, and a solo home run by captain Ian Williams in the fourth.

The Reds also began to tighten up the defense with strong pitching from Jeremy Blumer and good fielding from Steven Issley.

Yet, despite a great, late effort, the Reds couldn't manage to catch up, therefore losing to the Dodgers 11-7.

By KIPPY WIEGAND

Diamond two featured a close battle between the Expos and the Cubs. The Expos were blanked in the first three innings and gave up two runs over the same period.

In the top of the fourth, the Expos rolled for six runs. Brad Stroh doubled, enabling him to come home on a deep single from Rufus Wainwright. Then, after a walk, Michael Henderson hit a three-run homer.

These, along with a couple more, gave the Expos a 6-2 lead. The Cubs retaliated with two, then three runs, as Peter Zelmer, Adam Ray and Matthew Ray all singled, as well as a double by Sean Madden and a triple from Warren Valdmanis. In the sixth inning, the Expos scored one more run, and proceeded flawlessly to a slight 9-7 edge over the Cubs.

Volleyball close

The new volleyball program is going well, as the two mixed, boys-and-girls teams are very close. The Beatles lead the Grasshoppers 3 to 1, along with two ties.

In girls' soccer, played in Prince

Albert Park, two leagues are in action. The novice-atom section finds the Thunderbirds ahead of the Ravens, and the pee-wee-bantam section is in a deadlock, as both the Purple Pirates and the Green Goblins have the same record: one win, one loss and one tie.

Advertising man retires, now shines as swimmer

Frank Starr

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

Frank Starr is not a person who should be told to go jump in the lake.

Although he's 75 years old, he just might swim right around the lake.

Mr Starr, 3290 Cedar avenue, retired some years ago from a career in advertising to spend his winters in Florida and the rest of the year at home.

About 18 months ago, Mr Starr started swimming regularly. Now, having competed in several swim meets in Canada and the United States, Mr Starr is preparing to take the big plunge.

This August in Toronto, he will compete in seven different events in the Masters Games, a gathering of 10,000 amateur athletes from around the world.

"At age 75, I don't think people should just pack it in," says Mr Starr with enthusiasm. With a chuckle, he notes that his wife Pauline and his children, Peter and Susan, have witnessed a reversal in the family roles.

"When you were young, the kids used to say: 'Watch me Dad!'" says Mr Starr. "Now, as I get older, I say: 'Watch me kids!'"

"Now, when I go to the pool, I'm the kid."

No kid stuff

Despite his youthful attitude, Mr Starr's training for competition is anything but kid stuff. He swims over an hour a day, five days a week. At a minimum of 2,000 yards per workout, Mr Starr figures that he has swum about 150 miles in the last five months.

Mr Starr also lifts weights to develop key muscles, specially in the legs.

"It's the legs that give out first," notes Mr Starr.

How was Mr Starr bitten by the aquatic bug?

"When I retired, I was down in Florida, and I saw an item in the paper for those interested in swimming," he says. "So, I took my bathing suit and went and joined the Clearwater Y Masters Swim Club."

The Masters movement, which operates in numerous athletic centres throughout the world, is designed for people who want to be strong competitors in a sport, but who are not necessarily trained athletes.

The goal is to train and compete regularly, but more for self-fulfilment and fitness rather than medals and awards.

In the Montreal area, Masters swim groups operate in places such as the YMCA, university athletics centres and the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, where Mr Starr is a member.

Mr Starr says a basic premise behind Masters is to progress at one's own rate.

"They start you off in a 'wimp lane'," he says. "No one pays attention to you, and if you go 50 yards and have to rest, then you might do better the next time."

Ran fitness program

Swimming is one exercise that Mr Starr recommends for elderly people, and he should know something about fitness for seniors. Two years ago, Mr Starr was one of those at the MAAA who obtained a New Horizons grant from the federal government to organize a fitness program for elderly members.

Today, the program has between 20 and 40 participants and also includes social and cultural activities.

Although he also plays tennis and golf, it is swimming where Mr Starr can claim recognition. In various competitions for his age category, he has won 18 gold medals and eight silvers and has established various Canadian records.

Mr Starr can do the 50-yard free-style in 38.5 seconds. That may not be Olympic record time, but it could leave many men who are half Mr Starr's age gurgling in his wake.

Not limiting himself to short races, Mr Starr swims in races from 50 yards up to almost a mile. For him, there are two important things at the pool: the love of swimming and beating the clock.

"In swimming, you're not competing against anyone but yourself," he says. "When a swimmer comes out of the water, he just wants to know his time."

Judging by the attitude of Mr Starr, his time is just going to keep getting better.

Squirrel thought to be recovering

A squirrel, struck by a car Friday, was taken to the SPCA Monday by the Public Security Unit.

The incident was reported to public safety officers by a resident of Strathcona avenue who had been caring for the animal. Since the squirrel had already survived the weekend, it was believed to be recovering, officials said.

Maid reports entry attempt

Someone tried unsuccessfully to break into a home on de Maisonneuve boulevard near Greene avenue overnight Tuesday-Wednesday last week, police report.

The attempt was discovered at 10:30 am by a cleaning woman, who found a small window in the front door broken. Damage was estimated at $20.

Council okays electric work

City council voted recently to spend $103,140 on various electrical work in Westmount.

The city will spend up to $39,900 to cover the cost of a primary lateral cable running from manhole No 180 to the Aberdeen avenue steps.

A total of $18,860 will be spent to pay for replacing light fixtures along Atwater and Greene avenues under the Ville Marie expressway.

Up to $16,380 will be spent to pay for parking signals that will be installed on Wood and Claremont avenues and Tupper street.

Finally, up to $28,000 will be spent to pay for the installation of a conduit bank from manhole No 234A to the switchgear building and for the supply of 15 kV cable for the work.

CHILDREN OF THE WORLD: Westmount Girl Guides, dressed in costumes from around the world, chose to sing the Ethiopian relief song Tears Are Not Enough for a special 75th anniversary celebration of Guiding in Canada. The "international evening" took place Wednesday last week in St Matthew's Church. From left are: Sarah Shenker, Tamara Jones, Sarah Ayton, Natalie Wee, Catherine Bourgouin, Allison Quinn, Roukouchi Boicel, France Bourgouin, Christine Wee and Kate Dowie. Westmount Brownies and Pathfinders also attended the evening held in St Matthew's Church.
