Police wages to stand

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's anti-inflation board has refused to reverse decisions rolling back wage settlements of municipal policemen, despite threats by the Quebec Federation of Policemen to stage protests.

The board said in a news release Wednesday the federation has no right to speak for police unions of individual municipalities, and that "anti-inflation directives must be applied in a uniform manner to all groups falling under the authority of the provincial board."

The policemen's federation, grouping 160 member unions across the province, said last week that if the board's decision was not changed by Sept. 13 all off-duty federation members would congregate here to protest the wage reductions and plan strategy.

Federation director Guy Marcell said at the time at least 15 negotiated salary increases for municipal policemen have been reduced to 12 per cent by the anti-inflation board, and that another five or 10 reductions were expected.

He said some of the settlements were reduced by more than 50 per cent, adding that although all police officers in the province must meet the same qualifications, policemen outside major centres earn much less than their counterparts in large cities.

As an example of the disparity, he said, first-class constables with the Montreal force earn $18,000, while policemen in smaller communities average $13,500.

Quebec's anti-inflation board is responsible for wage controls for public service employees and public utilities under provincial jurisdiction, while the federal board monitors wages in the private sector except for professional fees and wages paid to construction workers.

Companies must have language certificate

QUEBEC (CP) — A requirement that companies operating in Quebec obtain a certificate to prove that French is their working language became law Wednesday.

Solicitor-General Fernand Lalonde, who is responsible for applying the province's Official Language Act, told a news conference the new law represents "the start of a massive economic, social and cultural transformation" for Quebec.

"This rule is only one element of a vast overall policy... to reduce the constant invasion of the English language and to give French a new dynamism," he said.

The law requires firms to obtain a "certificate of francisation" by 1983 if they want to obtain contracts, subsidies or any other direct economic benefits from the Quebec government.

Despite minor changes to the text of the law since its introduction last February, its goal remains to make French the language of work for most Quebecers working in the private sector, the minister said.

He noted that the final version of the law, which received cabinet approval Wednesday, took longer to prepare than foreseen, but that the extra time had been used for consultation with representatives of the business community.

He said the government had succeeded in assuring the language policy was understood and accepted and that the atmosphere of debate surrounding the issue was dispelled.

Future legislation under the Official Language Act will be aimed at assuring that French is the working language within the public sector, Mr. Lalonde added.

Lower increase recorded in cost of living

OTTAWA (CP) — The cost of living index registered its lowest 12-month advance in August since March, 1973, as a decline in food prices offset higher costs for other consumer goods, Statistics Canada reported today.

The over-all increase in the consumer price index as measured by the federal agency was five-tenths of one per cent last month, giving a 6.2-per-cent increase in prices over the last year.

But the lower than usual rate of increase was mainly attributable to a five-tenths of one per cent drop in food prices from July. Usually food prices rise between July and August.

Food makes up 25 per cent of the items chosen by Statistics Canada to reflect price movements.

Excluding food, consumer prices in the month jumped by eight-tenths of one per cent, an increase comparable to that in August of 1974 and 1975. Higher shelter and insurance costs led the rise.

OTHER COSTS RISING

The higher costs for non-food items, which are more directly under the federal anti-inflation program than food, will likely intensify fire by critics of the anti-inflation board. They have said while food prices have been declining recently, costs of goods which are under the controls program have not been moderating.

Statistics Canada said the increase in prices in August over July was only half the average rate observed between the two months in the preceding four years.

The all-items index in August was 150.0 compared with 141.2 a year ago. This means a basket of goods costing $10 in 1971, the base year, would now cost $15. In August, 1975, it would have cost $14.12 and in July would have been $14.93.

Food prices were lower than a year ago according to the index. A basket of food items which cost $16.78 in August, 1975, now cost $16.69.

This was largely due to a 17-per-cent decline in beef prices over the year. However, the government has predicted increases in beef prices this fall.

Besides beef, there were seasonally lower prices for fresh vegetables, Fresh fruit, poultry, bread, coffee and home-consumed soft drinks showed price increases.

Increased shelter costs for both homeowners and renters and higher insurance premiums for automobiles, homes and household effects led the surge in non-food items. There were also higher prices for men's and women's clothing and increased barber and hairdressing charges.

Recent price increases in gasoline and heating oil will be reflected in September's consumer price index. Government spokesmen, among them Finance Minister Donald Macdonald, have said these rises could give a push to price increases which have been climbing moderately since the beginning of 1976.

The broadcast gave no indication of the nature of Mao's final illness.

NEWS DELAYED

The announcement of Mao's death was delayed for about 16 hours, the same length of time that intervened before the death of Premier Chou En-lai was announced last Jan. 8.

The White House and the U.S. State Department in Washington had no immediate comment on Mao's death.

The Soviet news agency Tass promptly reported the death but made no editorial comment in its first bulletin.

Today's issue of Pravda, however, contained the routine anti-Mao article Soviet readers have come to expect in recent months.

In London, the British government said it has sent a message of condolences to Peking and that Mao will be remembered as a man of great vision and a thinker with a profound sense of history.

PEKING (CP) — Mao Tse-tung, father of the People's Republic of China, died at 12:10 p.m. EDT, Wednesday, the Radio Peking and the official Chinese news agency Hsinhua reported today.

The announcement was preceded by warnings that an important broadcast would be made at 4 p.m. local time (4 a.m. EDT).

In factories, shops and apartment houses, residents gathered around their sets.

The faces of the few people on the streets were grim and some were close to tears.

As crowds several hundred strong gathered in the centre of the city, a man stood on a stepladder and made a speech honoring Mao. Watching police and security troops made no move to prevent him.

A Chinese lady working in the foreigners' compound of East Peking wept quietly. "You foreigners don't understand what this means," she sobbed.

The message was addressed to "The whole party, the whole army and people of all nationalities throughout the country."

It was released by the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, the standing committee of the National People's Congress and the military commission of the Central Committee.

The complete text of the announcement stated:

"Comrade Mao Tse-tung, the esteemed and beloved great leader of our party, our army and the people of all the nationalities of our country, the great teacher of the international proletariat and the oppressed nations and the oppressed people, chairman of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, and honorary chairman of the National Committee of the Chinese People's political consultative conference, passed away at 00:10 hours, September 9, 1976 in Peking because of the worsening of his illness and despite all treatment, although meticulous medical care was given him in every way after he fell ill."

After briefly tracing Mao's history and career, the announcement went on to urge the whole country to turn its sorrow to strength by continuing to work to fulfill his will.

CONTINUE POLICY

The announcement also made a point of stating that China "shall continue to carry out Chairman Mao's foreign policy."

It had been known for some time that the leader of the 800 million mainland Chinese was approaching the end of his remarkable life.

Meetings with visiting statesmen had been cut to between 15 and 20 minutes. Official photographs showed him seated, his head resting back against the top of his chair.

The last foreign leader to see him was Pakistan Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto.

He told reporters after their meeting on May 29 that Mao was suffering from a bad cold and was frail but "was very quick on the uptake and grasped everything."

The eulogy included in today's announcement stated:

"All victories of the Chinese people were achieved under the leadership of Chairman Mao. They are all great victories for Mao Tse-tung thought. The radiance of Mao Tse-tung thought will forever illuminate the road of advance of the Chinese people."

"Chairman Mao led our party in waging a protracted, acute and complex struggle against the right and left opportunist lines in the party, defeating the opportunist lines pursued by Chen Tu-hsiu, Chu Chiu-pai, Li Li-san, Lo Chang-lung, Wang Ming, Chang Kuo-tao, Kao Kang-jao Shu-shih and Peng Teh-huai and again, during the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution, triumphing over the counter-revolutionary revisionist line of Liu Shao-chi, Lin Biao and Teng Hsiao-ping, thus enabling our party to develop and grow in strength steadily in class struggle and the struggle between the two lines."

Language booted

MONTREAL (CP) — The boeing of French-language announcements by Toronto hockey fans during the Canada Cup game Tuesday only widens the gap between French- and English-speaking Canadians, Parti Quebecois leader Rene Levesque said Wednesday.

The two language groups now form "not two solitudes, but two hostilities that are becoming increasingly hostile toward each other," he said.

Mr. Levesque said relations between the two groups have been worse only during such crises as the debate over conscription in the Second World War.

Nurses protest

QUEBEC (CP) — About 400 supervisory nurses gathered in front of the provincial legislature Wednesday to protest the treasury board's slowness in confirming a wage settlement reached last week with the social affairs department.

Johanne Porcheron, director of the United Management Nurses, representing 700 supervisory nurses throughout the province, said the group will contest any rejection of the 38-per-cent increase even though it exceeds wage guidelines set by the treasury board.

Petition filed

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada filed a petition in the Quebec Court of Appeal Wednesday to block application, pending an appeal, of a Court order which would force the airline to reverse directives forbidding the use of French in flight operations.

Chief Justice Jules Deschenes of Superior Court granted an injunction on Tuesday to 41 French-speaking pilots employed by the airline. The pilots had challenged Air Canada's "English-only" policy aboard its aircraft.

Messrs. Justice Paul Casey and Albert Mayrand of the appeal court took Air Canada's petition under advisement and a ruling is expected today.

Strike at Laval

QUEBEC (CP) — All activities at Laval University will be suspended from today because of disruptions resulting from a strike by 847 professors, the university announced Wednesday.

A spokesman for the university said buildings at the campus would remain open, but employees would not be required to show up for work.

Almost all of about 2,000 nonteaching personnel have refused to cross picket lines set up by the professors since the strike began Tuesday, paralysing most functions including registration of 23,000 students scheduled for this week.

No talks between the unionized professors and the university administration are scheduled, but the strike is expected to be discussed at a closed-door board meeting this afternoon.

GMC sales up over 1975 by fair margin

OSHAWA, Ont. (Canada News-Wire) — General Motors dealers in Canada delivered 35,825 passenger cars and trucks during August, 2 per cent above last year, and second only to the 1974 record of 37,254. J.D. Duffy, Vice President and General Sales Manager, announced recently.

August sales of 25,657 passenger cars exceeded last year's 25,510 units by 6 per cent and represented the second highest August ever.

Truck deliveries of 10,168 for the month, were only 88 units below the August record of 10,256 set in 1975.

Mr. Duffy went on to say that "the 1976 model year is drawing to a close with sales momentum maintaining its record pace. Model year-to-date sales of General Motors cars are 8.6 per cent ahead of the 1974 record and trucks are 19.8 per cent over their 1975 model year-to-date record."

"We are strongly encouraged by this market support for our products, and look forward with great anticipation to the launching of our revolutionary new lines for 1977."

"Let's Free Enterprise" program launched

TORONTO — A major national advertising campaign which dramatizes the importance of the free enterprise system in Canada is being launched by the Insurance Bureau of Canada in co-operation with the Canada Jaycees.

"Let's free enterprise" is the theme of the campaign which will be seen and heard by Canadians in two six-week periods commencing in early September of this year and again in February of 1977.

The "Let's free enterprise" campaign consists of a series of 30-second television messages, 60-second radio announcements, print advertisements, and a wide range of support material such as posters and counter-top cards.

The Canada Jaycees have adopted the "Let's free enterprise" campaign as a major project for 1976-77. The support material will be distributed and displayed by local Jaycees chapters, which will further develop local support through public speaking engagements and by contact with local media.

Daniel Damov, president of IBC, told a press conference: "We hope our campaign, in co-operation with the Jaycees, will act as a catalyst to encourage Canadians in all walks of life to start thinking and talking about the values of the free enterprise system. We hope they will be moved to take individual and group initiatives to strengthen and preserve the best parts of our system."

He said the insurance industry has been subjected to government take-overs in three western provinces and has a justified self-interest to be served. "But in addition, we feel we have a social responsibility to take a positive stand in support of the personal values inherent in the competitive free enterprise system. These include such things as good healthy competition that keeps on improving the quality of life in Canada — freedom of choice, pride in achievement, leadership, courage, commitment."

Many of these qualities, he said, are slowly slipping from us.

The Canadian General Insurance Industry's involvement with the Canada Jaycees goes back thirty years, when it instigated an award program for Jaycee units with outstanding records in traffic safety. More recently, the industry has participated with the Jaycee in teenage safe driving championships and in the national "Lock it and pocket the key" campaign — a drive to cut car theft.

Lloyd Kezar retires after 36 years

plant from Paul Stratton, a recent employee of the company now in Pennsylvania, wishing Lloyd happy and healthy retirement years.

He was then escorted to the company power house where the floor supervisors and several of the office staffs awaited them. After much photo snapping as had been done "on the rounds" Mr. Rediker again made the presentation of a gift of money, more hand shaking and good wishes, then the sharing of a cup of coffee and reminiscing in Mr. Van Sickle's office and pictures snapped by Lloyd completed his final day at Butterfields.

The best wishes of all at the plant go with Lloyd and his wife Tess in their retirement years.

The next step was to the office of the Company President and General Manager, Mel Van Sickle. Another surprise was in store for Lloyd. In the presence of Malcolm MacDonald, Manager of Administration, Mr. Greenwood, and Mr. Rediker, Mr. Van Sickle said how much Lloyd and his years of experience will be missed. After a few amusing anecdotes from the boys Mr. Van Sickle presented him with a letter. This was a "paid in full" for the desk, as a gift from the Company. Mr. Van Sickle then read two telex messages, one from Charles (Mike) Keeler on behalf of the Montreal office, the other from the Toronto office wishing him all good wishes in his retirement. A phone call also came to the Cutter Floor department, following his official retirement from the firm after 36 years of service.

He began work in Butterfields cutter grinding department on March 18, 1940. Apart from a few months in the toolroom in 1943 he remained in cutter grinding until January 16, 1950, when he was promoted to foreman of that department.

On July 2, 1956, he became General Foreman of the Cutter floor and on May 3, 1976 he was promoted to assistant plant manager. As he left the plant shortly before the noon whistle blew on his last day at work the "boys" played a little trick on him. He had made the request to purchase his desk which he had used much of the time. So the boys after his departure removed it, later to take it to his home, the desk was replaced with a small milk type stool and low table with his phone there on and an inscription. (Lloyd removed the inscription at the end of the day to take home as another souvenir).

Returning after lunch he was called into the office of the Manufacturing manager, Raymond Greenwood, so that Lloyd's back was to the floor. As he turned to go onto the floor he was overcome when he saw all the employees of the Cutter floor gathered in a group at "the little table". Clifford Rediker, Cutter Floor General Foreman, on behalf of the boys presented Lloyd with a gift of money and the good wishes of all. Handshakes were then exchanged by Lloyd and the boys, many of whom he has had association of several years.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market challenged the 1,000 level of the Dow Jones industrial average without success again Wednesday, falling back from an early gain in the heaviest trading in five weeks.

The Dow average of 30 blue chip stocks, up two at around 998 in the early going, wound up with a 3.65 loss at 992.94.

Volume reached 19.75 million shares, up from 16.31 million Tuesday and the largest total since a 20.65-million-share day Aug. 4.

The Dow had climbed 32.67 points since the start of last week and continued to work its way ahead in the early moments Wednesday.

But as it neared 1,000 it seemed to trigger more of the pre-planned selling that has appeared repeatedly at that level since early in the year.

The average has made a run at the 1,000 level at least a dozen times this year, only to retreat quickly each time.

Brokers noted little in the day's economic news to help the market in its efforts to clear that psychological hurdle.

The U.S. Federal Reserve Board reported that consumer installment credit in July registered its smallest rise in five months.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index lost .09 to 104.94, and the NYSE's composite index of listed common stocks eased .02 to 56.01.

Federal National Mortgage, the day's most active issue, dipped a fraction in trading marked by a 254,000-share block.

LEADERS FALL BACK
Among issues that had led Tuesday's advance, Sears, Roebuck fell back more than a point and Eastman Kodak gave up more than two.

Bethlehem Steel gave up a fraction. Late Tuesday the company said it expected its third-quarter earnings to show a moderate decline

Dollar Close

MONTREAL (CP) — U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds closed Wednesday down 6-25 at $0.9754. Pound sterling was down 23-100 at 1.7299.

In New York, the Canadian dollar was up 1-4 at $1.0252. Pound sterling was up 1-5 at $1.7735.

Zoning committee report is heard at Brome Lake council

By KAY TAYLOR
(Record Correspondent)

KNOWLTON — A report submitted by the Zoning Committee was read at the regular meeting of Brome Lake Municipal Council for August, concerning a public meeting held by the committee regarding requests for zoning changes in Knowlton Ward.

The report stated that the meeting was attended by members of the committee only; no other persons including those applying for the zoning changes were present. The requests were studied nevertheless. The recommendation conveyed in the report was that the request of Andre Choiniere for part of lot 1273, owned by him, be changed from "A" Village residential 3 to "A" Village Commercial should be denied but that the request of Lionel Bessette that part of lot 1284 of which he is owner should be changed in the same manner should be approved.

The committee also recommended that council consider changing the zoning of Maple Street for Coldbrook to Victoria Street, also along the southwest side of Victoria to Lakeside Road to "A" Village Commercial.

On considering these recommendations, it was approved that the southeast side of Maple Street as described, be zoned commercial, but that on Victoria Street the zone should extend from Maple Street only far enough to include part of lot 1284 owned by Bell Canada.

Acting on this decision, Councillor L.P. Allard gave Notice of Motion for the necessary bylaw.

Eric Neil, whose residence is adjacent to the ice rink site at Bondville attended the meeting to renew his complaint concerning the untidy manner in which the rink has been left and concerning disturbances caused by noise and loud talking of people occupying the unlocked rink change house from time to time.

Assurance was given Mr. Neil that action will be taken to remedy the situation.

New provincial regulations concerning ambulance service will come into effect on January 1, 1977 and may sooner or later affect the emergency service at present provided by the police department.

New regulations will require that an ambulance carry elaborate equipment and be attended by personnel highly trained in first-aid. The Haut-Richelieu Hospital has recently advertised for tenders for the operation of an ambulance service for the Town of Brome Lake.

Notice has been received from the provincial transport department that grants have been accorded for the improvement of roads in the Town of Brome Lake, amounting to $10,000 for 1976 and $5,000 for 1977.

Work must be completed before the grants are forwarded and vouchers for expenditures also supplied. It was decided that these grants would best be used on the Barnes, Well, Soles and Stage Coach Roads. The type of work and costs estimates will be determined later.

The report of Municipal Inspector Herbert Popkin for July indicated that new construction (mainly dwellings) and building modifications is continuing at an accelerating pace. In July, 28 building permits were issued making a total of 159 to date in 1976 with a total declared value of $2,271,610.

The meeting was informed by Mr. Poitras that nothing has been heard from the Quebec Housing Bureau since last March in regard to the town's application for senior citizen and low income housing facilities to be built here.

The report of Fire Chief Jean Grenier stated only 10 calls for his department during July, two of which were for building fires, three for fires of other nature. A rescue was effected of two persons from Brome Lake also three other instances were reported of difficulties occurring on public roads in which the police department assisted.

The salary rates for 1976 for the firemen were approved. A minimum of two hours is to be paid for any call.

The road grader obtained on a trial basis for one month at a cost of $3,000 is now reported to be very satisfactory. The purchase of the grader was approved in accordance with the earlier understanding that the purchase price of $25,000

Magog given grant for water system

QUEBEC (GB) — The City of Magog is to receive a $610,657. subsidy from the Quebec government.

MNA for Orford County, Georges Vaillancourt, said that the sum will be handed over in ten equal payments by the Minister of Municipal affairs as soon as the town proceeds to estimate the total cost of the works.

The money will help to cover costs of repairing the town's water supply system as well as the waste disposal system.

Public works contracts set

QUEBEC (GB) — A $21,700. public works contract is awarded in Brome-Missisquoi county and two call for tenders have been asked by the Quebec government.

In a press release, MNA for Brome-Missisquoi, Glendon P. Brown announced, that the contract had been awarded to Sintra Inc. of Granby.

This subsidy will go towards alleviating the cost of repaving route 241 over a distance of 1.6 miles in the municipalities of Bromont and Adamsville.

A call for tenders is made to carry out lighting alterations at the intersection of route 241 and boulevard Pierre Laporte in Bromont, Brome-Missisquoi county. Tenders for this work can be made September 15.

Call for tenders may be made September 21 to construct three culverts on Bissell and Bell roads in Orford County.

These works will cover 0.38 miles.

School fair planned

AYER'S CLIFF (IH) — The annual Stanstead County School Fair, held for more than 50 years, will take place again at the Ayer's Cliff Fair Grounds on September 16 and 17th.

The first day the school buses will bring in the exhibits for judging. At noon the Ayer's Cliff Institute Branch will serve a chicken pie dinner in the Beulah United Church hall. The day following the school buses will bring in the students from Ayer's Cliff, Coaticook, Magog, North Hatley, Sunnyside and Alexander Galt Regional High School. Each school has their own colours of purple, blue, red, gold, green and orange. The day will start off with a mammoth parade, public speaking and a talent show.

The parade will start off at 8:30 a.m. on the track to the grandstand. Throughout the day there will be such sport events as track, softball and soccer. A square dance and presentation of awards will be held after lunch.

The parade theme will be Planting - Market Gardening - Dairy and Lumbering. The students will be in costume, carrying banners particular to their school theme.

The fair was started many years ago by the Stanstead County Women's Institute when W. G. MacDougall of Lennoxville was agronomist. Since then he has always been at their fair doing his bit. He will again be on hand at this 1976 fair.

The fair is supported in various ways through donations of money from the Institute Branches, Stanstead County Council and individuals. The Institute committee purchases flower and garden vegetable seeds which are home grown and exhibited. Also, the young folk exhibit items from the home garden. Then there are the crafts and the arts. Last year, the first of a two day fair, saw so many exhibits of the young people it was necessary to use two of the fair buildings.

The teachers of the participating schools now take charge of the program on September 17. The general public is invited to attend and see for themselves the accomplishments of the School Fair.

MANDRAKE THE MAGICIAN will be appearing at Bishop's University's Centennial Theatre Monday, Sept. 13 at 8:30 p.m.

Magician to perform

LENNOXVILLE — Champlain Regional College and Bishop's University present Mandrake the Magician at Centennial Theatre, Monday, September 13.

Leon Mandrake, who began his career as a professional magician on vaudeville in 1927, is the last of the great masters to be classed with Houdini, Thurston, Dante, Alexander and Blackstone. His knowledge of magic and the occult is first hand and around the world he is sometimes referred to as the "Dean of Magicians."

Mandrake's vaudeville review was carried in every major theatre in the United States and Canada. Switching to night clubs and hotels, he became renowned as magician, escape artist, and mentalist.

After his last show in the Orient in 1967, Mandrake began writing his memoirs and, since that time, has been doing lecture demonstrations at universities across Canada and the United States. Pulling bunnies from hats are only a small part of his job. Mandrake's real skills come in determining his subject's very thoughts. His lectures deal with mind mystics, psychic phenomena, hypnosis, mnemonics and strange powers, ancient and modern magic, oriental magic and its philosophies of Life, Death, and Happiness, and the confidence games practiced in everyday life.

Mandrake's performance begins at 8:30 p.m. and will be followed by a question and answer period from the audience. Tickets are on sale in Bishop's Centennial Theatre and may be reserved by calling 563-4966.

Festival Theatre moving

SHERBROOKE (GB) — The Festival Cinema situated on King Street in the downtown area will open on October 1st under the same name as the former Granada Theatre on Wellington Street.

At a press conference this week Roland Smith, president, said that he "had been looking into the possibility of this move for a long time." He mentioned that the move became necessary due to lack of space.

Frederick, a noted Sherbrooke painter, expressed some concern over the possibility of alterations "which would destroy the beauty of the Granada." He was assured by Mr. Smith that alterations to the Granada Theatre were not part of the management's future plans.

Soviet build-up

There is an uneasy stirring in Britain, Washington and at NATO over new Soviet military build-ups. These are of global proportion and they do not correspond at all to the Western concept of detente. Moreover, the unpredictability of Soviet intentions abroad has been further compounded by the alleged illnesses of Leonid Brezhnev and Alexei Kosygin. A massive arms build-up combined with a power struggle within the Kremlin is not the best recipe for a peaceful world.

The build-up is threatening NATO's northern flank to such an extent that fears have been expressed Norway will not only be forced to leave NATO but also provide bases for the Soviet navy.

On the Kola Peninsula the Soviet Union has assembled 180 submarines of which 92 are nuclear powered. The peninsula has 40 airfields on which the Soviet Union keeps 300 interceptor and reconnaissance aircraft as well as helicopter units. Two motorized divisions and one amphibious infantry division are stationed on the peninsula, one division quite close to the Norwegian border. As to the Murmansk base, this now houses the new Soviet nuclear submarines equipped with intercontinental missiles.

The disposition of the Soviet forces on NATO's northern flank aims at the encirclement of the Scandinavian Peninsula and at cutting off the supply route between North America and Western Europe. Soviet naval forces are deployed to dominate an area stretching from South Greenland via Iceland, the Faroe Islands to northern Scotland. This also is an area rich in oil, which should replace Western Europe's dependence on Arab oil.

The forthcoming election in Sweden is thus being held in the lee of Soviet naval guns. Premier Olof Palme, who depends for his political survival on the Communist vote, is already tilting politically to the East and his foreign policy is meant to please his Communist allies. In Norway and Denmark the governments are careful to avoid anything the Soviet Union could consider as a provocation.

However, the Scandinavian countries are not alone among NATO allies who feel threatened by the new development of Soviet weapons. Soviet intermediate-range missiles of the MIRV type (independently targeted multi-warhead missiles) have been brought forward to bases aimed at Western Europe and Asia. Added to which, the advanced Backfire bombers are now poised on Western Europe's borders. The new Soviet missile, which can be launched from a trailer, can be fired at any European capital, while the Backfire is the most sophisticated bomber in existence. The IRBMs are not covered by the SALT negotiations, and the United States government is now concerned that the Soviet Union is threatening NATO allies by a build-up of regional weapons while negotiating with Washington cuts in intercontinental weapons. The implications are ominous, and as the director of the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency said this week, the new build-up is like "a towering, dark cloud hanging over Europe and Asia."

At sea, the authoritative yearbook, Jane's Fighting Ships, published in London this week, warns that the Soviet Union has been exploiting detente to increase her naval forces that are now capable of every kind of action, from simple harassment of North Sea oil rigs to interdiction of Western oil supplies passing through the Indian Ocean. The editor of the yearbook, Capt. John Moore, sees the new Soviet aircraft-carrier Kiev, that recently moved into the Mediterranean in violation of the Montreux and Lausanne conventions, as a formidable threat to Western interests. "The Soviets are planning deployment of task groups around ships like the Kiev," Capt. Moore writes. "They can move into a trouble spot, and we find another Angola."

The U.S. has almost a quarter of a million less personnel in her navy than she had ten years ago, while during the same period the Soviet Union has increased her personnel by 129,000. The number of U.S. aircraft-carriers has decreased by 14, that of the Soviet Union has increased by 18. The number of U.S. nuclear submarines has increased by 10, that of the Soviet navy by 27.

Admiral Elmo Zumwalt in his new book (On Watch) estimates that with her present naval strength the United States could no longer come to the assistance of Japan; will have to abandon the Mediterranean and the western Pacific; and is capable of defending only the continental United States and Hawaii.

There is no counter-pressure from NATO on the Soviet Union.

"Co-op" suggests third sector in economy

OTTAWA — Canadian co-operatives have made a presentation to the Bryce Commission, suggesting that co-operative enterprise in Canada represents a "third sector" in the economy — alongside the public and private sectors.

The brief was presented to the Royal Commission on Concentration of Corporate Power in Canada which winds up activities shortly, after a year-long study of effects of monopolies and mergers on Canadian business.

The Co-operatives' brief was presented by the national representative of Canadian co-operatives and credit unions — Cooperative Union of Canada.

Cooperatives, with membership of approximately seven million Canadians, handle 80 per cent of all grain grown in Canada, process 50 per cent of the country's dairy products, and combined assets of the financial co-operatives (credit unions and caisses populaires) are equal to those of one of the major chartered banks.

Cooperatives, started and owned totally by individual members in local groups, a group of farmers, a group of tenants, fishermen, a neighborhood or parish group, have a reputation for being small, but according to the brief, they have produced some fairly large organizations. (Some 18 cooperative federations are presently under Anti-Inflation Board regulations for staff over 500.)

Cooperatives say "Institutional bigness cannot be condemned for its size alone but only for its effects on people and humanity at large. One agricultural co-operative, the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, handles about 65 per cent of the grains and over half the livestock produced in the province, and, states the brief, "this might appear to some as one business organization achieving too dominant a position in the most important section of the economy of Saskatchewan. But in this case, what may seem to be a concentration of economic power actually results in dispersal of power into the hands of some 80,000 farmers, who have voluntarily joined the organization and who themselves produce the products it handles, or use the products and services provided."

158 MILLIONAIRES

"If a multinational corporation based in Chicago or London owned and controlled the business of SWP, it could create an intolerable situation for Saskatchewan farmers, the province itself and indeed the Canadian economy. As it is, the existence and development of the Pool guarantees that this valuable portion of the economy is wholly Canadian, owned and directed by producers responsible for the products. Moreover, since its beginning in 1924, the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool has been able to return about $158 million from earnings to its members. This could have been used to create 158 millionaires scattered over the world who perhaps had never seen a Canadian wheat farm, or it could have been returned to those whose labor and management created the business surplus in the first place."

On a world scale coopera-tives represent a substantial portion of the global economy. Although not stated in the brief, cooperatives on record have membership of 326 million persons. The co-operative method is known as a successful development tool in over 66 countries.

Pacific Northwest reaps benefits from SAS Seattle service

Scandinavian Airlines marks ten years of polar shortcut service between Europe and Seattle this month.

In the decade since the first non-stop over-the-Pole, flights between the Pacific and European Northwest began on September 2, 1966, SAS has flown more than 350,000 passengers and over 6.7 million kilos of cargo in and out of SEA-TAC airport.

"It's been a happy experience for SAS," says B. John Heistein, the airlines North American General Manager. "We think it has been more significant for the communities which have been linked by the route and an outstanding case history of the economic boost effect of scheduled air service."

Studies of the Seattle route indicate that the volume of imports and exports between Scandinavia and the Pacific Northwest has more than tripled in the ten years since SAS flights began.

Payment transfers between Scandinavia and Seattle area banks have increased even more sharply. Mail and telephone contacts between the two areas have grown more than 50 per cent with the development of closer ethnic and commercial relationships.

At the same time, SAS direct contribution to the Pacific Northwest economy in terms of its own expenditure in the area, has grown to approximately 4.5 million dollars a year, not counting the company's $54 million equipment purchases from the Boeing company or the local expenditure of thousands of Scandinavian businessmen and tourists in the area.

"We pledged ten years ago that we came to Seattle to be active and constructive partners in the local economy," Mr. Heistein comments. "We think we have made good on that commitment."

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor,

What about these new Postal Rates which are to go into effect on Sept. 1st, 1976?

It seems to me that a 25 per cent raise in letter postage now and another 20 per cent next March is rather high and much above the raises allowed in other lines of business, is it not?

Why can the Post office exceed the rate of increase in salaries, postage, etc. when other forms of work and business must stay within certain guide lines set by the government? This looks like the old saying: "Don't do as I do, do as I say."

Perhaps a raise in postal rates is justified to keep up with the cost of living, but it seems that the services should improve before the rates go up; and, I am not referring to our local Post Office here in Bury when I say this because our services here are quite efficient.

It is the larger centers where the services are not as they should be or as satisfactory as they were several years ago.

This summer I sent two letters to Western Canada, one to North Bay, Ont., and one to Edmonton. The former one took over two weeks to reach the people it was mailed to and the latter never arrived at all. Both were correctly addressed too.

Earlier in the summer I sent a letter with a cheque in it to the Sherbrooke Record office in Sherbrooke and it never reached that office.

These are only a couple of instances of the postal service we have today and I feel certain they are not the only ones.

Let's hear from other people on this postal rate increase.

Thanking you for this space.

Public invited to attend meeting on flood studies

Mr. H.B. Rosenberg, chairman of the Canadian Section of the International Champlain-Richelieu Board, has announced the holding of a public information meeting on the flood studies being conducted on Lake Champlain and the upper Richelieu River.

This public information meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, September 15, in the Auditorium, Ecole Polyvalente Chanoine, Armand Racicot, 940 Normandie Boulevard, Saint-Jean (P. Que.).

As set out in the directive of the International Joint Commission to the Board, studies are being made of the effects that regulation of water levels, for the benefit of shoreline residents, would have on plant and animal life around Lake Champlain. These projects include aerial surveys, mapping of plant cover, and fish and wildlife studies.

An inventory of shoreline development has been completed and a comprehensive assessment is being made to determine economic benefits and losses associated with regulation of water levels in Lake Champlain.

Further studies will assess the effects of regulation on wetland vegetation, waterfowl and furbearers.

Specialists engaged in the study will make presentations at the meeting and answer questions from the audience.

Brief deadline is extended by Consumer Affairs

The Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs recently announced that the deadline for submission of briefs on the Patent Working Paper has been extended to October 15 from October 1, 1976.

The reason for this extension, according to a departmental spokesman, is to enable the Canadian Patent and Trademark Institute to study and discuss the Patent Working Paper at its annual meeting in September and to give it time to prepare a summary of commentary for submission.

The Patent Working Paper was prepared for the department's Bureau of Intellectual Property by a group of independent experts and proposes sweeping revisions to Canada's patent legislation. Key revisions suggested by the paper seek to provide greater incentive for patent research, invention disclosure, and early exploitation of inventions by industry in Canada.

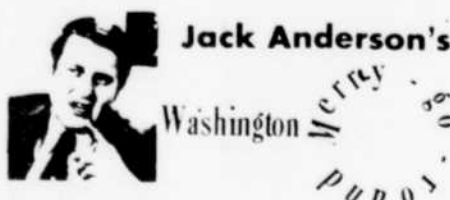

Last June, the Minister invited all interested individuals and groups to submit their comments on the working paper so that their input would be available for consideration when new patent legislation is drafted by the department.

The Patent Working Paper is the second in a series of reports aimed at revising intellectual property legislation on patents, trademarks, copyright and industrial design.

CIA hid facts on JFK death without mentioning the Cuban angle.

Within hours after President Kennedy's death, the U.S. embassy cabled information from Mexico City suggesting that the Cubans may have been behind the assassination. Our sources say that the CIA developed similar information in Washington.

The first person to reach Robert Kennedy's side after the shooting was CIA director John McConne, who remained alone with Robert at his McLean, Va., home for nearly three hours. All others, including Robert's priest, were turned away.

McConne swore to us that Castro's name was never mentioned during the three hours. But CIA records show that the next day McConne not only mentioned Castro to the new President, Lyndon Johnson, but briefed him on the information from Mexico City.

Yet incredibly, no one brought the Cuban connection to the attention of the Warren Commission. We were the first to get word of the anti-Castro plot to Chief Justice Earl Warren, the commission chairman, four years later.

We are now free to reveal our role in the drama. Two of our confidential sources, CIA agent William Harvey and mobster John Roselli, are dead. A third source, attorney Edward P. Morgan, has waived the confidentiality we had promised him.

Morgan told us in January, 1967, about the CIA-Mafia assassination plot against Castro. He raised the possibility that the plot could have backfired against President Kennedy. There were suspicious circumstances, he pointed out, indicating that Castro may have learned of the attempts on his life and may have retaliated against Kennedy.

Morgan refused to identify his sources

WASHINGTON — After President John F. Kennedy was struck down on Nov. 22, 1963, the Central Intelligence Agency received evidence suggesting that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro arranged the assassination in retaliation for the attempts on his own life.

Yet sources privy to the secret discussions at the highest levels of the CIA during those hectic days now tell us that the CIA deliberately withheld the evidence from the Warren Commission.

Our sources cite two reasons for holding back this crucial evidence. One was a resolve to cover up the ugly secret that the CIA had enlisted Mafia mobsters to kill Castro.

But there was also a legitimate concern that the Castro revelations might inflame the American people, who had just lost a beloved President. The grief could have turned into a terrible wrath, which might have precipitated some rash action.

Only a few key people knew about the CIA plot to assassinate Castro. One was President Kennedy's brother, Robert, who was also his personal watchdog over the CIA. It has now been established that Robert Kennedy was briefed on May 7, 1962, about the use of underworld killers to knock off Castro.

Two days later, Kennedy cautioned the CIA not to go ahead with the assassination without consulting him. As the President's watchdog brother, Robert rode herd on the CIA. It must be assumed, therefore, that he was kept advised of the subsequent assassination attempts. However, there is no documentary evidence of this.

The anti-Castro plot was still on Kennedy's mind the following day. Records now available show that he informed then-FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover of the plot on May 10, 1962. Yet neither Kennedy nor Hoover later divulged this important information to the Warren Commission.

Of course, various CIA officials also knew about the assassination scheme. Not the least of them was the late CIA chief Allen Dulles, who approved the original plan. He later served on the Warren Commission. Yet he sat silently throughout the investigation of the Kennedy assassination

Most beautiful flowers in bulbdom chosen

Every year is an election year in Holland to select the most beautiful flowers in bulbdom. Gardeners and flower lovers from all over the world travel to Keukenhof Gardens in Lisse, Holland, where, after touring these vast gardens, they cast their ballots to nominate their favorite candidates for the international bulb flowers. The voting is held in the spring when the tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and countless other bulb flowers are at their peak of bloom. Then in late summer, a committee of experts from the Holland bulb industry makes the final selection of the most admired bulb flowers in the world.

The 1976 International Holland Bulb Selections are among the brightest and most colorful spring flowers. Each is an outstanding performer in the garden and all are readily available to Canadian flower lovers. Eight tulip varieties made the coveted list this year along with a hyacinth, a narcissus, a crocus and a puschkinia. Here is the complete list:

Hyacinth — Amethyst: The scent of spring — the hyacinth permeates its surroundings with an aroma unequalled by any other flower. This international winner with its many unique purple-red florets provides both color and scent to the April garden.

Darwin Tulip — Pandion: Tulip mean spring and this regal purple and white-edged international beauty is perfect for any garden, along any border and especially in a bed of its own for late spring blooming.

Darwin Hybrid Tulip — Elizabeth Arden: The soft pink color of this flower on a tall, 20- to 30-inch stem is eye-catching in the mid-spring garden. Darwin Hybrids are the largest and most stately class of tulips.

Darwin Hybrid Tulip —

Golden Oxford: Another of the mid-season tulips, the Golden Oxford is a gigantic pure yellow flower with a narrow red edge to its petals. It adds both color and beauty of spring to the garden.

Darwin Hybrid Tulip — Holland's Glory: A very large deep carmine flower edged in poppy red, it has a unique coloring and presents a striking appearance alone or with other bulb flowers.

Cottage Tulip — Balalaika: A very tall deep red tulip with a graceful appearance, the Balalaika is one of the latest blooming tulips.

Lily-flowered Tulip — Mariette: This international winner has a slender elegant pink flower on a tall straight stem. It blooms during late spring and its blossom resembles the lily.

Fosteriana Tulip — Purissima: This is one of the early blooming tulips and it is stately in appearance. A pure white large flower on a tall stem.

Greigii Tulip — Red Riding Hood: The Greigii tulip is an exotic flower. The bright red of this winner with its intriguing mottled foliage is perfect in every flower garden.

Large-cupped Narcissus — Professor Einstein: This large white flower with an amber center deserves its winner's title and it will complement other bulb flowers in the early spring.

Species Crocus Mixed: These early blooming crocuses provide a delightful mixture of colors in the spring garden. Their bright yellows and pure whites with amber and/or yellow centers are true heralds of the season.

Puschkinia Libanotica: Another early blooming herald of spring, the Puschkinia has tiny bluish-white florets clustered around the top of a 6- to 8-inch stem.

As with all spring flower-

LILY-FLOWERED TULIP — Mariette is a striking salmon pink flower with a beautiful texture. It has the elegant shape of the lily-flowered class which was first developed in 1910 and now is among the favorite tulip types.

ing bulbs, the 1976 International Bulb Selections must be planted in the fall to bloom next year. Be sure to select firm, high-quality bulbs. Small nicks and loose skins do not affect the development of the bulb. Then, either dig an area large enough for an entire cluster of bulbs or dig holes for each bulb. Plant small size bulbs four inches deep and two to three inches apart. Be sure to add bone meal to the soil under the bulbs. Cover the soil and water thoroughly. Add mulch after the first frost.

In the spring remove mulch before shoots are more than an inch or two above the ground and fertilize with nitrogen and potassium. The flowers should be cut when the petals begin to droop or they will go to seed, robbing the food needed to form a new bulb next spring. The foliage which restores energy to the plant should be removed only when it becomes limp and yellowed and can be pulled free easily. If you must dig the bulbs up, be sure and store them in a cool, dry, well-ventilated area.

With these twelve winners you can have a continuous display of color during the most refreshing time of the year.

If you're out of shape, you're out of the running.

Fitness. In your heart you know it's right.

Bridal Shower

SCOTSTOWN — Miss Linda Lloyd, a September bride-to-be was taken by surprise when she reached the top of the stairs at the Scotstown Cultural Center and was met by Mrs. Lloyd Pehleman who presented her with a beautiful corsage of mixed flowers and to find the room full of relatives and friends to attend a shower for her instead of another bride-to-be who she thought the shower was for.

Mrs. Pehleman escorted her to a table at the end of the room, laden with gaily wrapped gifts. Seated at the table with Linda were her mother, Mrs. John Lloyd, the groom's mother, Mrs. Douglas Mayhew and his grandmother, Mrs. Ella Winslow, who assisted in opening the gifts.

Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. Mayhew and Mrs. Winslow were presented with corsages by Mrs. Fred Buck and Mrs. Susie Wonnacott. The corsages were made by Mrs.

Fred Buck who also made the beautiful shower cake which was on a little table in front of the gift table. The cake was decorated in white and blue topped with a beautiful doll dressed in blue under a blue umbrella.

After the gifts and the cards that contained gifts of money were passed around for all to admire, Linda graciously thanked all for the lovely and useful presents.

There were approximately 70 present who sat down to long tables and were served delicious refreshment served by the ladies of St. Alban's Anglican Church assisted by other ladies in the community. Linda cut the shower cake and served the guests.

Linda Lloyd and Ricky Mayhew will be married September 11. Before leaving all wished Linda, best wishes and future happiness.

Lightening ivory can be risky

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I would be so grateful if someone would tell me how to remove yellow spots (probably from perfume or some lotion) from an old-fashioned ivory dresser set. I have a complete set that is beautifully monogrammed, but this discoloration mars its beauty. I hope there is a remedy. — AMELIA

DEAR AMELIA — You are really taking chances when tampering with such an ivory set. Some authorities say to never try to lighten the inevitable yellowing of ivory. One says that the surface might be rubbed with a piece of lemon dipped in salt, let juice dry and then wipe off with a damp cloth. Do test an inconspicuous spot first and remember there is no guarantee to this. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I made a discovery that I would like to share with other readers, particularly the plant lovers. I have the most beautiful vine growing in a pot. I wanted to start a few slips of it to go in another pot. I cut off two pieces but it took so long for them to root. I tried every encouragement I knew. One day I decided to put just a pinch of sugar in the water after looking and finding there was not a sign of any roots starting. The pieces of vine were put in the sugar water and in a week they started to root. Now I do this every time I start any kind of plant and have had wonderful results. — DELLA

DEAR POLLY — Do not discard small lamp shades that are shabby looking, but cover them with pretty paper and place on closet shelves to serve as great hat racks.

Use heavy wool knitting yarn to mend tears in plush stuffed toys. The yarn's elasticity prevents a further tear in the same area and the bulk of the wool holds the stuffing in.

I find that a three bar swinging towel rack makes a perfect holder for belts. It keeps sizes, widths and colors grouped together. Attach to a closet wall, where it could also be used for holding long necklaces. — MARGARET

DEAR POLLY — I have so many name and address labels that have been obtained one way or another and have found a wonderful use for them other than their usual use. My husband and I have our bookshelves full of books that were often quite costly so I pasted a label on the inside cover of each one. Whenever a book is loaned to someone, the borrower has no trouble remembering from whom it was borrowed. Our books get returned rather than forgotten. — MRS. E.A.L.

Polly will send you one of her "peachy" thank-you cards, ideal for framing or placing in your family scrapbook, if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peavee or Problem in her column. Write Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

Quality and a classic look sought for in fall fashions

Men and women alike are looking for quality and a more classic look in their fall and winter attire according to a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press.

With prices on such major items as coats and suits running as much as 10 to 15 per cent higher than last year and with signs that the inflationary trend on clothing prices isn't about to let up, people seem more attuned to investment dressing, says Alma De Vleeschouwer, buyer for Mills Bros. Ltd., in Halifax.

Investment dressing—an expression coined at ready-to-wear showings in Toronto last spring—means to include in one's wardrobe a few items that will withstand the ravages of time and duty and are of better-than-average quality.

Added to this trend is a return to classic elegance in both men and women's wear, says Miss De Vleeschouwer.

"Women's fashions for fall are classically feminine," she said in an interview. "The return of the dress is very much in evidence and even young women who previously opted for pant outfits are buying dresses for fall."

COATS EXPENSIVE
Shirley Richardson, fashion co-ordinator for Eaton's in Toronto, said in an interview that women's coats are definitely more expensive this year but they are a lot more fashionable.

"Probably the most popular garment to appear and one that is being snapped up quickly is the man-tailored suit," she said. The blazer is a No. 1 seller, with buyers co-ordinating it with a matching pair of slacks or different skirt and vest."

For added warmth, versatility and plain high fashion, tunics to be worn over pants or skirts are coming on strong for fall, says Lorraine King, Simpsons-Sears fashion co-ordinator in Ottawa.

Tunic and pant combinations can be casual or formal, she said. She expects to see a lot of corduroy and velvet, as well as knits and dresses, and says grey will be the No. 1 color.

The female version of the country squire or friar is featured in country wear, combining culotte skirts and hacking jackets in corduroy and leather set off with leather trim and patches.

BOOTS TEAM WELL
The advent of the western and friar's boot teams nicely with fall's country look says Marianne Calamo, division merchandise manager for The Bay in Vancouver. Jeans or pants can be tucked into boots for added fashion and warmth.

Blanket coats, ponchos and duffel coats with hoods round out the country look and, worn over heavy cowl-necked knit sweaters, add a new dimension to the layered concept.

Bob Curll, general manager of Levine's, a Fredericton department store, said the look in women's clothes is "long and lean in coats, tunics and dresses."

He said the new straight-leg pant will also be strong, as well as hoods, tie-belts and tiescarves.

As in other parts of Canada, there is a significant change in cocktail-afternoon party dresses in St. John's, Nfld.

DRESSES SHORTER

An Ayre's department store buyer said that instead of the floor-length style so popular for the last five years, dresses for fall are mid-calf.

Polyester is again the fabric for the season in women's wear, says Sharon Lindsay, fashion co-ordinator for Woodward's store in Edmonton.

Diana Strynadka, fashion co-ordinator for The Bay in Toronto, said she sees the fall fashion trends "continuing to evolve from last season's strengths of light, easy clothes with clean, straight lines that are comfortable to wear."

She said that classic "is again the key word—this season it is based on the man's concept of sports dressing."

"Quality fabrics and a lot of texture is emphasized to feminize this concept."

Montreal designer Hugh Garber favors "flattering materials such as flannels and gabardines" for his dresses, many of which have cowls or other detail at the neck.

He indicated that black is back on the scene with popular daytime colors being grey, burgundy, air force blue and other muted tones.

ETHNIC STYLES POPULAR

Joan Aird, Montreal-area fashion co-ordinator for Eaton's, said the ethnic look is an important influence "becoming more obvious in younger, contemporary departments."

Mireille Borzeseo of Simpson's said black and off-white combinations as well as red are expected to make a strong showing in dressed-up looks.

"It's a very sexy season for evening," she said, "very dressy, elegant and fluid."

Carolyn Weiner, couture and boutique buyer for ultra-fashionable Holt Renfrew, agreed.

"Lots of taffetas, a lot of black, lots of velvet, lots of faille, ribbed silk, fuller skirts, pulled-in waists—very feminine clothes."

Men's wear, said Miss Strynadka, also reflects a desire for comfort.

"The three-piece vested suit in grey and white pin-stripe is a fashion leader for the business executive," she said. "Generally, the trend is towards a more casual look—with emphasis on texture and luxury."

She said fabrics in men's wear "very strong this fall" are velvet, corduroy, rich nubby tweeds and ultrasuede.

WON'T ROCK BOAT

"We really aren't trying to rock the boat in men's fashions," said Oliver Baird, chief men's-wear buyer for Simpson's in Toronto.

"Suits have peaked lapels, two-button jackets and slightly moderated trousers. It is just a subtle difference from previous seasons."

Mr. Baird said the leisure suit is still very much alive in Donegal tweeds and corduroy. "The sloppy look has dropped off and we find people buying them for any occasion."

He added that there is a renewed interest in striped shirts—"in other words, where have all the flowers gone?"

"There are a lot of men now who wore nothing but colored shirts during the last five years. Now they wouldn't be caught dead in one."

Tommy Thompson, men's wear manager of Levine's in Fredericton, said white shirts are making a big comeback, though usually with some sort of pattern.

JACKETS CO-ORDINATED
However, Mr. Thompson said the leisure suit is on the wane in New Brunswick.

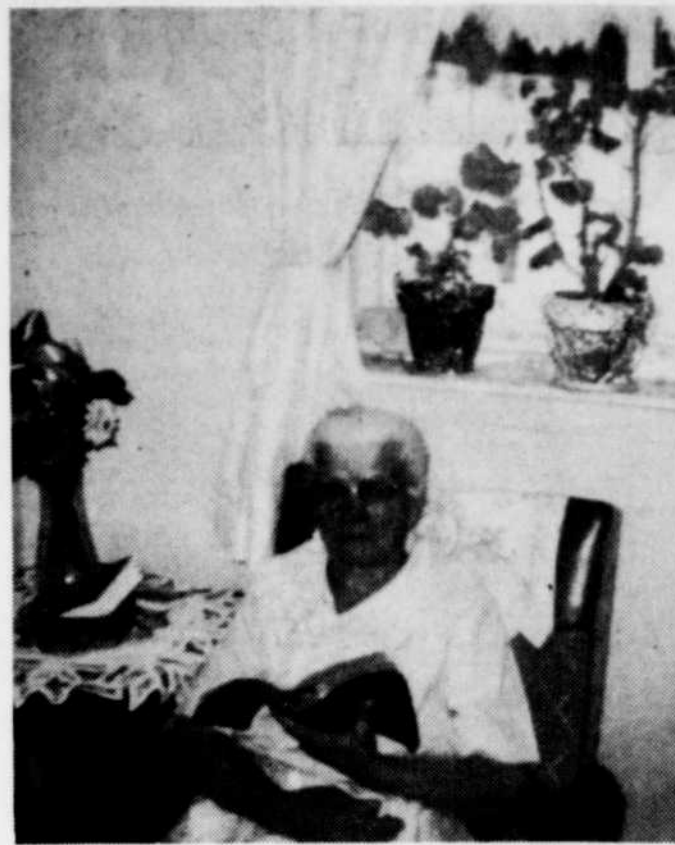

Edwin Rubin of Rubins of Halifax said: "Perhaps one of the most important items this fall is the sports jacket which, with co-ordinating vest, sweater and trousers, is replacing the leisure suit."

Like the layered look for women, this combination provides inter-changeability.

Mr. Baird of Simpson's, Toronto, said that the most favored form of footwear seems to be the loafer.

"Men's shoes have moderated considerably, stabilized and have only slightly elevated soles," he said. "The platform shoe is out for now."

And to complete the look of elegance in men's wear, most cities checked said wide-brimmed fedora hats in felts and tweeds are returning with a flourish.

93rd BIRTHDAY — Mrs. Ellen Fuller of Knowlton observed her 93rd birthday September 5.

Celebrates birthday

KNOWLTON — A former resident of South Bolton and Potton, Mrs. Ellen Fuller (Aunt Ellen) of the Bolton Pass Road, Knowlton observed her 93rd birthday on Sunday, September 5th.

Mrs. Fuller lives in her own little apartment near her only son and daughter-in-law, Gordon and Sadie Fuller. She is quite capable of caring for her home, having some of her meals at her son's home.

Though her hearing and eye sight are failing, she is enjoying excellent health. Plants are her hobby and her windows are filled most of the time with plants that are covered with blossoms.

Aunt Ellen is always pleased to have old friends and relatives visit her, enjoying visiting and recalling the good old days.

All Aunt Ellen's friends and relatives wish her a wonderful birthday and continued good health.

80th birthday feted

WINDSOR — A very pleasant family gathering was held on Sunday, Aug. 29th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGee, Richmond Road, when the McGee family gathered to honour Mr. Charles McGee on the occasion of his 80th birthday, which was that very day.

The weatherman cooperated favorably for a corn roast and outdoor buffet at the noon hour. A prettily decorated birthday cake, appropriately inscribed "80th Birthday" was presented to the guest-of-honour and enjoyed by all. The cake had been made and decorated by Mrs. Grant Watson.

During the afternoon Mr. McGee was presented with many gifts and cards along with the best wishes of all. The day was spent visiting together and later all partook of a delicious supper before leaving for their respective homes.

Mr. McGee expressed his great pleasure in seeing so many of the family together and admitted this was his very first birthday party ever. Both Mr. and Mrs. McGee voiced their sincere thanks and appreciation for the party and thoughtfulness of all. It was an occasion that will long be remembered by both.

Attending the gathering were Mr. McGee's sister, Mrs. Kathleen Lacroix of Windsor; his two remaining brothers, Mr. Thomas McGee of Quinneaubaug, Conn., and Mr. Raymond McGee of Milford, Mass.; his two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Mildred McGee, Huntington, Que., and Mrs. Bert McGee, Richmond. Nieces and nephews attending were Mr. William McGee, Westboro, Mass.; Mr. Dennis McGee, Milford, Mass., and his fiancée, Miss Wanda Wyspianski, Woonsocket, Rhode Island; Mr. Robert McGee, Huntington, Que.; Miss Linda McGee, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGee and Kevin, Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Coffey and family, Karen, Donna and Jeffrey of Chateaugay; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McGee, Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Randy McCourt and Craig, Windsor.

Also attending were friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKenna and Miss Doris McKenna, Windsor; Miss Alice Cleary of Richmond; and Mr. Howard Smith. Mrs. Raymond Vidal and son David were guests at the supper hour and during the afternoon Mr. Mary Danaher of Richmond called briefly.

The party had been arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGee, Mrs. Kathleen Lacroix, Mrs. Bert McGee and her family.

36th annual Richmond Street Fair opens Saturday

RICHMOND (NF) — "The Richmond Street Fair was first held in 1940," Vladimir Ignatieff of the Richmond Legion told The Record, "to raise money to send things to the boys overseas." The Street Fair is being held Sept. 11 for the 36th consecutive year and now it is held by the Legion to raise money for community projects and "to help people who need help," as Mr. Ignatieff put it.

"After the war the fair continued and the first priority was to help out Veterans in distress. Over the years, however, the Legion has extended this same help to others facing difficulties and we've also promoted numerous community projects. Among other things we sponsor hockey teams and gymnastics teams and we help out the Boy Scouts," the Publicity chairman of the Legion said. The Richmond Street Fair is being held, as it has been in the past, in the Richmond arena where some 15 booths will be set up to give people a chance to win hams, chocolates, towels, blankets, dolls and other prizes in games of chance. The Women's Auxiliary will be running a luncheon counter so that those people whose strength fails after tossing too many baseballs or too many rings or carrying too many prizes will be able to refresh themselves. Doors open at 8 p.m. and the evening continues "as long as there are people there."

The executive of the Richmond branch of the Canadian Legion, Leo Delaney, Ken McLeod, Bruno Lavoie, Hugo Costanzo and Percy Frazer have been the driving force behind the Fair and they hope for a good turnout. "We've had great crowds in the past," said Mr. Ignatieff, "and even though the Richmond Fair coincides with ours this year we're hoping to continue the trend which has seen bigger and bigger crowds at the arena every year."

If you're in the Richmond area on Friday, September 11 the Richmond Street Fair is a fine way to spend the evening. We recommend you take it in.

Lateral thinking clue to magician's art

OTTAWA (CP) — Everything about Abb Dickson is deceptive. He looks and dresses like a salesman but in reality he's a master magician.

The 28-year-old Atlanta, Ga., native is a master of illusion, as he proved at the National Art Centre here recently. He has been practising magic since he was a boy and has been a professional since he was 18.

He says he is primarily an "industrial magician" who devises neat little tricks to impress buyers at trade fairs and conventions.

For a fee he will levitate cars for an auto company or use a special, transparent copier to duplicate one of his lovely assistants right before your eyes.

How does he do it? Mr. Dickson isn't telling but he will tease the curious by giving them hints about his methods.

"It's all a matter of what I like to call lateral thinking," he says.

"Everybody operates with basically the same perception of reality."

OPEN TO SUGGESTION
What happens is that people automatically open themselves to suggestion and manipulation.

Of course, a lot of his illusions, especially the more elaborate ones, depend on modern technology.

He plans on using holography in the near future for his touring magic show, Presto.

Holography is the use of lasers to create a three-dimensional picture. He can holograms that move, or appear to be so solid he can pick them up in his hand.

Many of Mr. Dickson's technology-laden illusions are designed by himself; others are borrowed from other magicians like Harry Blackstone or Doug Henning.

Mr. Dickson says he likes being a magician. He doesn't think of it as work the way some people think of engineering or business. To him it's still a hobby.

The family aspect of magical entertainment is important to him. Television plays too large a role in family entertainment today, he says. A good magic show can still compete with the instant entertainment of the tube.

Children like to be mystified and enthralled and even adults like to know that there is still a little magic left in the world. Even master magician Abb Dickson says he still finds it "a lark" doing tricks he performs 300 times a year.

Canadian art impressing Italians

PESCARA, Italy (CP) — Contemporary prints by Canadian artists have been admired and discussed this summer in the Galleria d'Arte di Pescara, a large prosperous town on Italy's Adriatic coast.

Opened by Iberville Fortier, Canada's ambassador to Italy, the show includes work by Fernand Leduc, Serge Tossignant and Jacques Hurtubise of Montreal; Rita Letendre, David Samila and Sheldon Cohen of Toronto; Harry Kiyooka of Calgary; Takao Tanabe and Gordon Smith of Vancouver and other artists from across Canada.

Behind the print show lies the story of payment of a debt that goes back more than 30 years.

In the winter of 1943, Pescara was a main objective of the Canadian army as it drove northward up the marshy coast with the slogan, "Rome before Christmas."

That hope disappeared after the army took Ortona, 15 miles south, and turned inland to fight for five months before reaching the capital, Pescara, a quiet fishing town of less than 50,000, remained untaken by Canadians, almost untouched by the war.

Now, the Canadian exhibit is taking place in a bustling city of nearly 200,000, many of them retired farmers who sold former battlefields as real estate and mountain lookouts for skiing centres.

FISHERMEN BLESSED — It celebrates its past with an annual fishermen's festival in August, when the boats are blessed and free fried fish is provided for all. Fishermen still go out at dawn but the harbor is busier with launches and passenger ships bringing holidaymakers from Yugoslavia. Up the coast lies a 100-mile resort strip of hotels and sandy beaches, visited annually by two million German, Scandinavian and English tourists.

Art shows flourish among the boutiques, promoted by art societies and provincial authorities. Villages in the Abruzzi Mountains to the west and their half-hidden valleys have cradled generations of artists, writers and craftsmen.

The Canadian print show is a project of the Canadian Cultural Institute in Rome. Established in 1960, this foundation came into being as a result of war reparations paid by the Italian government in Italian bonds. The interest is allocated annually to finance cultural activities involving the two countries.

Last year a concert of Canadian contemporary music was sponsored by the institute. Recently an exhibition of Eskimo art went to the Festival of Two Worlds at Spoleto, then on to Messina in the south and Udine in the east.

Mr. Work was born in 1864, so he was 61 years old. This did not keep him from learning contract and he won several regional tournaments prior to his death in 1934.

Quiet rural scenes a contrast to artist's life

STANSTEAD — The peaceful country scenes Irena Stefanoff paints are in stark contrast to the eventful life she has led.

Sipping wine in the Centre d'Art Regional here recently while the rain poured outside, Mrs. Stefanoff and I talked away the afternoon as people trickled in and out to see the exhibition of her work.

Gay canvases of poppies and giant sunflowers gave no hint of Mrs. Stefanoff's life before she came to this country in 1951 with her husband, the well known Bulgarian painter, Cristo Stefanoff.

There were no paintings of German concentration camps where she and her husband spent part of the war years, or bombed out buildings, only mild Canadian scenes of winter farmyards and cherry blossoms in Spring.

"They don't like us to talk about it now," she said, in a Polish accent, referring to the German people. "But in 1942 the Gestapo arrested my husband on the street and then came to the house and took me. They separated me from my five-year-old son and I never saw him again. I learned from the Red Cross after the war that he was killed."

Irena Stefanoff spent four years in art school and was already exhibiting when she met her husband at a party in Warsaw in 1938. An established artist, he was in Poland with an exhibition of his paintings.

"It was love at first sight," Mr. Stefanoff remembers. "We were married three weeks later."

A son was born and they were both looking forward to artistic careers when the war broke out.

"They didn't bother us at first," she said. "But then they started rounding up the artists, the intellectuals, the thinkers."

The Stefanoffs were sent to the prison camp, Bergen-Belsen in Germany. The camps, Bergen for the men and Belsen for the women, were only four miles apart but there was no contact between the two and the Stefanoffs had to wait until the end of the war to find out if the other had survived.

"It was May 15th, 1945 when loudspeakers blared through the camp telling us not to be afraid, that we were free," she said. "At first we didn't believe it."

Two weeks later she was reunited with her husband.

"My friend and I were walking on the road outside the camp," she said. "We saw a group of men. One had a Polish arm band and so we spoke to him. He took us to the gate of the men's camp and I asked there if they had a painter by the name of Cristo Stefanoff. He said he did but that I would have to wait where I was while he went and brought him to me. He said I wasn't allowed in the camp but I followed him anyway and Cristo was in front of his barracks in the road when we saw each other. We couldn't say anything for ten minutes. We just held each other."

The Stefanoffs stayed at the camp until they felt strong enough to travel and then made their way with other refugees to a military camp run by the allied forces.

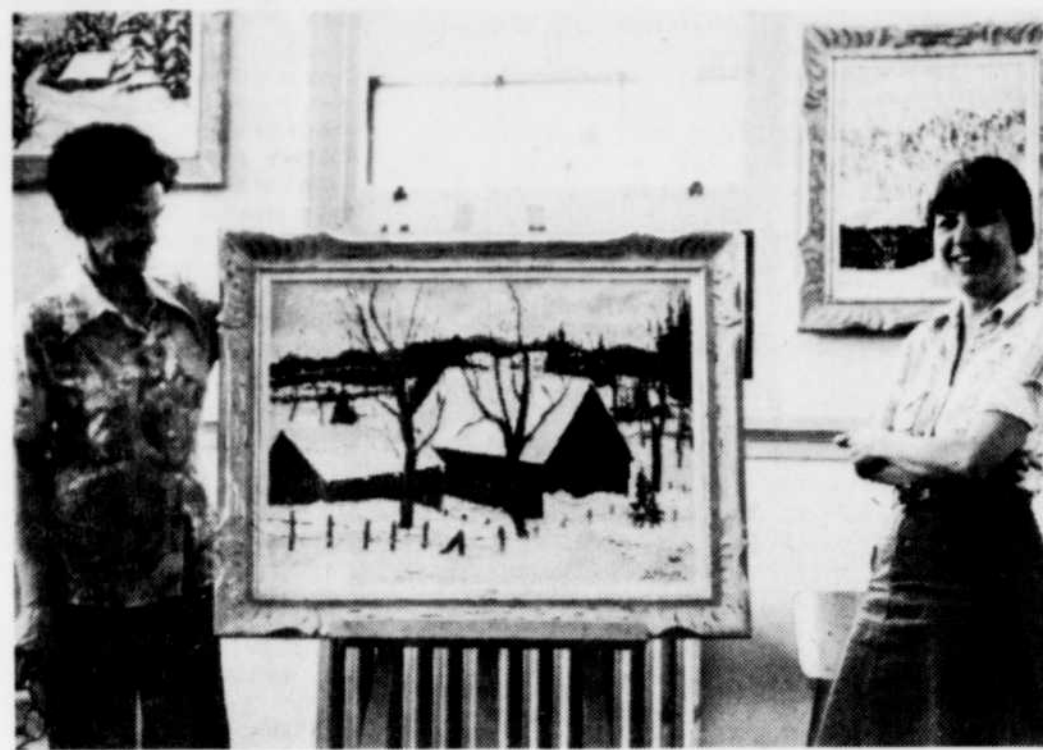

Here the Stefanoffs were put on a special diet, given medicine, and Cristo began painting again using at first canvas from army trucks and paints salvaged from a bombed out oil paint company in Hanover.

The stayed in the camp for over a year recovering and in 1946 Mr. Stefanoff was invited to exhibit in Breda, Holland.

"They were so hospitable," Mrs. Stefanoff said. "The mayor provided an apartment for us and coupons for food. The paintings sold well and after a week we were rich."

The Stefanoffs remained in Holland and were specially favored by Queen Juliana who bought one of Mr. Stefanoff's paintings and gave them a 28 room chateau to live in for as long as they wanted.

"But I was not happy," Mrs. Stefanoff said. "I was always afraid the same thing could happen again in Europe. So I persuaded my husband to go to North America. We applied to come to the United States and Canada. The papers came first for Canada so we came here."

They took out Canadian citizenship five years later.

After exhibiting in Montreal and living there for a year the Stefanoffs moved to Val-David, Quebec, where it was Mr. Stefanoff's aim to found a fine arts centre. Unfortunately, before his dreams could be entirely realized he became ill and died in 1966.

Mrs. Stefanoff still lives in Val-David where many of her husband's paintings hang in a small museum there. She began painting again after his death.

"I support myself with my two hands," she says. "No support from the government, nothing. I have my good friends who appreciate art and I am happy."

Mrs. Stefanoff has also exhibited in Montreal, Quebec City, Sherbrooke, Drummondville, Val-David, Rouyn-Noranda, Amos and many other centers.

Derby Lions Club holds country fair

By IVY HATCH

(Record Correspondent)

DERBY LINE — It was cloudy and cold Labor Day at Baxter Park in Derby Line but many people donned winter apparel, and attended Country Fair, making it another success.

This is an annual project of the Derby Lions Club to raise money for assistance to needy people. Although the financial results are not yet known, it will undoubtedly be much the same as in past years.

There was something for everyone. The most popular for the younger set was the merry-go-round with its music playing as motorized animals circulated round and round. The moonwalk was another popular attraction with the young folk as they bounced up and down upon the light floor of air and plastic. There were also chairs for the little people to ride but these did not prove as popular as the other two.

George MacLeay and his helpers with the ponies from Seldom Rest Farm walked hundreds of miles, the adults leading the ponies with youngsters upon their backs, as many imagined themselves to be western cowboys and girls.

Games were played by all age groups. The day being chilly, the restaurant on the grounds did a tremendous business selling hot dogs, hamburgers, french fries, and beverages. The candy floss was another "must" as at any country fair.

Ernie Nason kept people busy, including Mrs. Nason in the sale of two cord of stove wood sold by tickets. This was won by Janice Bowen of West Charleston, Vt., and delivered to her the day following the fair.

The morning feature was the olympic race with 21 men and a woman from the CAPS Club of Sherbrooke; North Country Athletic Club of Littleton, N.H.; Green Mountain Club, Montpelier, Vt.; and the Border Memphremagog Club. The latter club was the sponsor and John Watson of Derby Line, the racing chairman.

The course of 6.6 miles was laid out to leave the park run Caswell Avenue, uphill to the Holland Road then round and down Nelson Hill past the Ammex store, back to Caswell Ave. and the park. All runners completed the run in less than an hour. The top runner made it in 34:21 and the finalist in 59:57.

Gary Johnson of Irasburg, Vt., took top honors and Jacques Laliberte of Sherbrooke, second place. They were each presented a trophy by Mr. Watson.

The following 10 runners are recipients of American Bicentennial medals: Gaetan Breton of Sherbrooke; Larry Kimball, Burlington, Vt.; Mike Sudlow, Hughes Royer, Yvan Bolduc, Pierre Prince, Christine Royer, all of the Sherbrooke Club; Robin Robitaille of Newport, Michel Lemieux of Sherbrooke.

The remainder were given honorable mention for their efforts. They were Paul Mailman of Montpelier, Martin Lemmens, Sherbrooke; Alan Earp, and Russ Petelle, Derby Line; Gaston Lavoie, Sherbrooke; Robert Searles, N. Wolcott, N.H.; Gilles Gaudette, and Bertrand Beaulieu, Sherbrooke; Brenda Mailman of Montpelier, and Robert Stearns of Newport.

The afternoon feature was the antique and classic car show and the Lions were much pleased at the number who came from both sides of the Border. In the Ford exhibit prior to 1951 the top winner was Paul Swett of St. Johnsbury with a 1931 Model A. In second place Edward "Chuckie" McIntyre of Beebe, Que. captured the trophy for his 1940 model.

In the period after 1951 in Fords, Ron Benson with his 1951 from Newport placed first and Billy Migcousby of Montreal with his 1956 placed second.

In the non-Ford cars Win Rollins of Derby Line was winner with his 1941 Cadillac and Doug Patrick of Lennoxville, second with his 1951 Pontiac.

In the classics, Teena Girard of Derby Line placed first with her 1976 Corvette Stingray and in second place was a 1963 Split Window Coupe owned by John McKracken of St. Albans, Vt.

Delicious home cooked foods of a wide assortment were sold by Stanstead South and Centenary Church Sunday Schools; the Wide Awake Rebekah Lodge, Derby. The many flea market tables were well patronized.

The Lions Club had many assistants. When the club meets at the Eagles Nest, Derby Line on September 20 a report will be given. The Lions are deeply appreciative to everyone who supported them in so many ways.

of the races held at Baxter Park. On his right is G. Johnson of Irasburg who placed first and on his left is J. Laliberte of Sherbrooke who placed second.

It being desirable that the transactions should be negotiated and notarized without undue delay, the mayor and the town manager were authorized to complete individual transactions in accordance with the appraised value of each.

Notarial, deed and registration fees will be at the expense of the Town of Brome Lake in every instance. Revenue receipts for July amounted to $87,889.50 and disbursements were $55,566.50.

A request for authorization from the Quebec Municipal Commission to contract for temporary loans not exceeding $200,000 in total, from the Knowlton branch of The Bank of Montreal and/or Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce for general administrative purposes was approved. This is to be repaid from 1977 general revenues on or before April 15, 1977.

A subdivision plan was approved for a lot owned by Mme. Pauline (Caron) Duchesne subject to the usual fees and parks and playgrounds assessment. In order to facilitate winter maintenance of roads in the Rockhill area and to encourage further development there, it is necessary that Valley View and Rockhill Roads should be extended to a point of common intersection. Three lots are required by Town of Brome Lake to intersect with an extension of Rockhill road are lot 1357-15, owned by Mrs. Robert D. Mulholland and lots 1357-16 and 1358-15 belonging to George Dingle. Therefore, it was resolved that in accordance with Mrs. Mulholland's offer by correspondence with the town manager, the Corporation of the Town of Brome Lake will purchase the lot from her for the sum of one dollar and also perform certain works requested in that offer such as erecting a page-wire fence along the eastern side of lots 1357-14 and -15 and installing a steel gate and a culvert in order to enable access to and from the part of lot 1356 owned by Mrs. Mulholland. The Town of Brome Lake will pay the fees for notarial services, deed registration and surveyor services. Regarding the two lots owned by George Dingle, the town manager was authorized to negotiate with him for their acquisition.

A letter was recently received from the Union of Municipalities extending an invitation to the Town of Brome Lake to join their union at a membership fee of $300 for the coming year. It was decided not to take advantage of the invitation at this time.

Meet Czechs tonight

Team Canada can clinch playoff berth with win

If the Canadian team in the current six-country Canada Cup hockey tournament can defeat the world amateur championship squad from Czechoslovakia tonight it will clinch a berth in the best-of-three final starting Monday night in Toronto.

But Scotty Bowman admitted Wednesday, after running his squad of all-stars through a light workout, that he and his co-coaches don't know too much about the Czechoslovakians.

But that probably will change by the time the teams take to the ice in one of three games tonight. In the other meetings, the Soviet Union plays the United States in Philadelphia and Sweden and Finland clash in Winnipeg.

While the Canadians were in Toronto on Tuesday night looking sharp with a 4-0 shutout against Sweden, co-coach Al MacNeil was scouting in Philadelphia and saw the underdog squad from the U.S. battle to a 4-4 tie with Czechoslovakia. In the other game, the Soviet team bombed hapless Finland 11-3 in Montreal.

"We're waiting for a report from Al in Philadelphia," Bowman said. "We don't know a lot about them, or the Soviets either, but they (Czechoslovakia) are the most experienced team."

WILL WATCH RUSSIANS
MacNeil will get a chance to watch the Russians in Philadelphia tonight when they play the Americans. A Canada-Soviet Union confrontation is scheduled Saturday night in Toronto. With two games to play, Canada is in first place with three straight victories for six points. Czechoslovakia is second with one point less because of its tie against the U.S. The Russians and Sweden are tied with three points each, while the Americans have one point and Finland none.

"The motivation for us to beat the Czechs is right there," Bowman said. "Things can change so quickly if we were to lose Thursday night and the others (Soviet Union and Sweden) win." Bowman said he doesn't find past performance has "much bearing on the next game." He said he felt the Canadian team had played with a lot of composure in the final 30 minutes of its victory against the Swedes.

"I thought they did a pretty good job and the team was getting better as the game went on."

RECEIVED TREATMENT
Three Bobbys—Hull, Clarke and Orr—did not work with the Canadian team Wednesday. Instead, they took treatment for various injuries.

Hull suffered a muscle bruise on his hip while passing out some hefty body checks, but Bowman said the hurt was not serious. Clarke took treatment for his sprained achilles tendon and Orr rested his oft-injured knee.

Bowman said he was looking to Clarke, the Philadelphia Flyers centre and captain, to play a regular shift against the Czechs. He said Clarke, also captain of the Canadian team, had told him his leg felt pretty good following the pre-game warmup Tuesday.

He said, barring injury, he would go with five defencemen again—Orr, Denis Potvin, Serge Savard, Guy Lapointe, and Larry Robinson—because "we got a great game out of our defence." If Bowman follows this plan it would leave Carol Vadnais still waiting to make his first appearance in the tournament.

Another defenceman, Jim Watson of the Flyers, is recuperating in a Montreal hospital from a fractured cheekbone he suffered when struck by the puck in Canada's 4-2 victory against the U.S. last Sunday.

BASIC COMBINATIONS
Bowman indicated he would, barring injury, leave at least three lines intact. The newly-formed combination of left winger Bob Gainey of Montreal Canadiens, centre Darryl Sittler, and right winger Lanny McDonald is one. Gainey, inserted into the lineup for the first time Tuesday for defensive purposes, scored two goals against the Swedes, while Sittler and McDonald, both from Toronto Maple Leafs, each earned an assist.

With Clarke fit for full-time duty, that would permit Bowman to reunite the Philadelphia centre with linemates Reg Leach and Bill Barber, while Phil Esposito, Hull and Marcel Dionne have worked as a unit throughout.

Bowman said he would have to find a formation from the remaining available forwards. He has the line of Pete Mahovich, Guy Lafleur and Steve Shutt from Montreal Canadiens, as well as three members of Buffalo Sabres—centre Gilbert Perreault, left winger Richard Martin and right winger Danny Gare.

The coach expressed admiration for what he described as the "Clarke-Sittler" type player, because both worked solidly on defence as well as the offensive aspect of the game. Bowman would not indicate who his goaltender would be against the Czechs.

Rogatien Vachon of Los Angeles Kings has played in the three previous games and has allowed four goals. Bowman said Vachon had performed exceptionally well with his shutout against the Swedes.

"We needed good goal tending last night and we got it and we'll need it against the Czechs because they are a high scoring team," Bowman said.

Waiting in the wings to make their first appearance should Vachon falter were Glenn Resch of New York Islanders and Gerry Cheevers of Boston Bruins.

Evert-Goolagong battle shaping up Bennett claims

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — At Wimbledon, it was Evert and Goolagong. Four times on the women's pro tennis tour this winter, it was Evert and Goolagong. At last year's United States Open, it was Evert and Goolagong.

The 1976 U.S. Open championships is shaping up the same way. Top-seeded Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and second-ranked Evonne Goolagong of Australia took another stride on the road toward an expected showdown in the women's singles final by scoring easy quarter-final victories Wednesday.

Evert overwhelmed Natasha Chmyreva, the 18-year-old Russian, 6-1, 6-2 in an afternoon quarter-final match, while Goolagong beat gritty veteran Rosie Casals 6-1, 6-2 in the featured night tennis at the West Side Tennis Club.

In men's action, top-seeded Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., overpowered Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia 7-5, 6-3, 6-1 and third-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina wore down plucky Eddie Dibbs of North Miami Beach, Fla., the No. 9 seed, 6-1, 2-6, 7-6, 7-6 in a two-hour, 57-minute marathon.

Connors will meet Vilas in one men's semi-final Saturday. The remaining men's semi-final berths are to be determined today, with No. 2 Bjorn Borg of Sweden playing No. 6 Manuel Orantes of Spain, the defending champion, and No. 5 Ilie Nastase of Romania facing unseeded Dick Stockton of Dallas.

Evert's victory was her 99th in a row on clay or slow artificial surfaces, a streak which dates back to July, 1973—when she lost to Goolagong.

COMPETITION STRONG
"Playing Evonne is always something special," Evert said. "It's always in the back of my mind that we may meet in the finals, and I know she thinks the same way."

"I really don't like to look ahead," Goolagong said. "But it would be nice to beat Chris, especially here in the U.S. Open, and on clay."

Standing in the way of a rematch between the tennis queens are a pair of 20-year-olds, Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia and Dianne Fromholtz of Australia. Both breezed into the semi-finals; Jausovec beating her doubles partner, Virginia Ruzici of Romania, 6-2, 6-1, and Fromholtz defeating 16-year-old Zenda Liess of Daytona Beach, Fla., 6-1, 6-3. Both the 20-year-olds are patient baseline players who were down their opponents Wednesday, just keeping the ball in play, moving it from side to side and waiting for the other players to make the mistakes.

That also was the strategy used by Evert against Chmyreva, keeping the Russian pinned to the baseline with strong ground strokes and returning any rushes to the net with her noted two-fisted backhand.

Goolagong had no trouble with Casals. The Australian broke service at love in the first game, and that took care of the opening set. A service break gave Goolagong a 3-2 advantage in the second set, taking away Casals' last hope.

Connors had little trouble with Kodes, the scrappy Czech who had ousted Americans Arthur Ashe and Cliff Richey in earlier rounds. Connors were down Kodes with his ground strokes, running the 30-year-old veteran from side to side at every opportunity. After falling behind 5-3, Connors ripped off the final four games and won the first set, and that appeared to demoralize the Czech.

Canadians are favored in NHL

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — The Toronto Globe and Mail says centre Harvey Bennett has accused Canadians running the National Hockey League of discrimination against United States players.

In an interview Wednesday with the newspaper, the member of the U.S. team taking part in the six-country Canada Cup tournament said that instead of trying to promote Americans in the league, the NHL seems to be trying to do the opposite.

He said if two players of equal ability, one American and one Canadian, were fighting for a spot on a team, the Canadian would make it.

"It's a situation of being prejudiced," the 25-year-old Bennett, from Cranston, R.I., told the newspaper. "You tend to look out for people of your same ethnic background. I'm sure it holds true for Canadians."

Coach Bob Pulford, a Canadian citizen, and Bennett believe that the U.S. team has proven itself competitive in the tournament, after tying Czechoslovakia 4-4 here Tuesday and losing only 4-2 to Canada last Sunday in Montreal.

Pulford said that in a few years the U.S. will have hockey talent which is at least equal to Canada's.

Bennett told the newspaper that there are several Americans who are good enough to be in the NHL or World Hockey Association, but are in the minors simply because they have not been given the chance Canadians receive.

DENY RETIREMENT
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Both Los Angeles Dodgers manager Walter Alton and club president Peter O'Malley have denied a published report that Alton will retire at the end of the National League season. "I talked with Walt this morning," O'Malley said Wednesday, "and he told me he has made no decision concerning his plans for 1976."

Pirates do it again, dump Phillies

Richie Hebner came out of his slump by driving in four runs Wednesday night to carry Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-1 National League baseball victory over the floundering Philadelphia Phillies.

Hebner, batting .234 going into the game, hit a two-run single in the second and drove a two-run double into the rightfield corner in the third to pace Pittsburgh's attack.

Pittsburgh's 13th win in 14 games has cut the Phillies' East Division lead to 4½ games. Sixteen games ago, Philadelphia, which now has lost 11 of its last 12, led the Pirates by 1½ games.

"It's not that they (the Phillies) look so bad, it's that we look so good," said Pittsburgh outfielder Bill Robinson, once with the Phillies. "Tonight, coming to the ballpark I was very confident. I just knew we weren't going to lose."

The Phillies' slump is reminiscent of 1964 when Philadelphia lost a 6½-game bulge, dropping 10 in a row and St. Louis Cardinals finished in front.

In other games, the Mets bombed Chicago Cubs 11-5. Montreal Expos swept a doubleheader from St. Louis Cardinals 7-5 and 8-7. Cincinnati Reds blanked Houston Astros 3-0. Atlanta Braves beat San Diego Padres 3-1 in 10 innings and San Francisco Giants edged Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0 in 11 innings.

Jim Rooker held the Phillies to nine hits to pick up his 13th victory in 20 decisions, while Steve Carlton, 16-6, suffered the loss.

Gary Nolan and Rawley Eastwick combined for a four-hitter and Tony Perez and Johnny Bench hit solo homers to give Cincinnati its victory over Houston. Nolan, 12-8, didn't allow a Houston runner to reach third base in the first seven innings. Eastwick came on in the eighth and picked up his 20th save of the season.

Perez hit his 16th home run of the season in the fifth and Bench slammed his 16th in the ninth.

A sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Darrell Evans in the 11th inning led San Francisco over Los Angeles. Gary Thomasson opened the inning with a double, took third on Mike Sadek's sacrifice bunt and came home on Evans' fly to left.

Ed Halicki, 12-14, and Gary Lavelle combined to limit the Dodgers to five hits.

Al Downing made his first start of the season for Los Angeles, giving up three hits over eight innings. Charlie Hough, 11-6, pitched the final three innings.

Home runs by Lee Mazzilli and John Stearns led a 16-hit barrage as New York routed Chicago. Mazzilli slammed a pinch-hit three-run homer to cap a six-run ninth inning that salted away the win for Tom Seaver, 12-10, who needed relief help from Rick Baldwin and Skip Lockwood.

Stearns, who had four hits, clouted a two-run homer in the third, an inning that also saw Leo Foster steal home.

Atlanta topped San Diego by scoring two runs in the 10th inning. Rod Gilbreath singled home Willie Montanez with the tie-breaking run and errors by shortstop Hector Torrez and catcher Fred Kendall led to the Braves' final run.

Montreal rallied for come-from-behind victories in both games against St. Louis. In the opener, Barry Foote hit a Team Canada holds Cosmos to tie

EDMONTON (CP) — Goaltender Tony Chursky made a brilliant stop on former Italian International Giorgio Chinaglia in the final 15 seconds Wednesday to enable Team Canada to preserve a 1-1 tie with New York Cosmos of the North American Soccer League in an exhibition game before a crowd of 14,826.

Chinaglia, who scored New York's only goal on a header in the 58th minute, took a pass behind the Canadian defence and drilled a low shot as Chursky moved out to smother it.

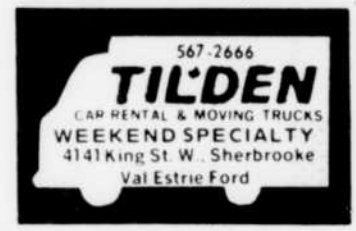

It was one of the few dangerous strikes by either team in the last half. Team Canada, scoring first on a goal by Buzz Parsons of Vancouver in the 23rd minute, settled into a defensive shell and the Cosmos had most of the territorial play at the end.

Pele, the Brazilian star whose presence drew most of the large crowd, was covered by two Canadians almost all night. He used one of his patented over-the-head kicks in the first 40 seconds for a drive which narrowly missed the net but was content most of the time to wait near midfield for a break that never came. Pele had some good moments in setting up plays with long passes to either side but his best sustained spurt was a dash toward the dressing room to escape admiring fans at the end of the rough defensive struggle. FOUR INJURED

New York goaltender Bob Rigny was far out of play on the goal by Parsons, a Simon Fraser University student. The talented U.S. player came out to deflect a hard shot by Bob Wilson and just failed to get back for the rebound.

At least four members of the Canadian team, playing its first game en route to World Cup competition, suffered minor injuries. Bob Bolitho, a midfielder from Victoria, was half-carried from the field with a knee injury in the final five minutes and Gene Strenicer, Wilson and Gary Thompson also were shaken up.

Royals get help from White Sox

Kansas City Royals got some outside help Wednesday night from an unexpected source—Chicago White Sox.

The White Sox, slow movers this season, slowed up Oakland's express with a comeback 6-5 win over the A's.

That left staggering Kansas City still in command of baseball's American League West with a five-game lead over Oakland, despite a 2-0 loss to California Angels—the Royals' fourth straight and ninth defeat in 10 starts.

While Oakland manager Chuck Tanner was bemoaning a game that could have brought the A's within four games of the Royals, Kansas City manager Whitey Herzog was looking for answers to his team's sudden impotence. In a month's time, the Royals have lost seven games off their once-formidable 12-game lead.

"I've seen teams that have gone into slumps before, but not teams that are supposed to be good hitting like us," said Herzog.

In other games, New York Yankees moved a step closer to the East pennant with an 8-0 victory over Milwaukee Brewers, Baltimore Orioles tripped Cleveland Indians 3-1, Boston Red Sox defeated Detroit Tigers 4-3 and Minnesota Twins downed Texas Rangers 3-1.

MADE SLOW START The White Sox, behind 5-0 in the first inning, got fifth-inning home runs from Bill Stein and Jim Spencer and scored three runs in the eighth to pull out their victory over Oakland.

A breakdown by reliever Rollie Fingers and left fielder Joe Rudi helped the White Sox score their eighth-inning runs.

Expos pull surprise, bump Cards twice

ST. LOUIS (AP) — For a team in possession of baseball's worst record, Montreal Expos are showing exceptional life.

Twice knocked down by St. Louis Cardinals on Wednesday night, the Expos arose each time and swept their second doubleheader of the National League

Joe Morgan could win MVP again

CINCINNATI (AP) — Joe Morgan is likely to succeed in his bid to become the second player in baseball history to win back-to-back most valuable player awards in the National League.

"There is no comparison," said the five-foot-seven Cincinnati Reds second baseman who won the most valuable crown last year by the largest landslide since the award was first given 45 years ago.

"I'm ahead of last year in every respect."

Ernie Banks of Chicago Cubs was the only player to ever win it two consecutive years. Banks achieved it 17 years ago, hitting .313 in 1958 with 128 runs batted in and 47 homers and following up with a .304 average in 1959, with 143 RBI and 45 homers.

BANKS HIS IDOL "Ernie Banks was one of my idols as a kid," said Morgan, who leads the league with a .340 batting average and has career highs of 27 home runs and 105 RBI.

The first second baseman in 26 years to get 100 RBI, Morgan has missed 18 games this year due to injuries.

This week he became the only player in baseball history to top the 100 mark in runs scored, RBI, walks, while stealing 50 or more bases and hitting 25 or more home runs. He leads the league with 52 stolen bases in 58 attempts.

A month ago, Morgan was stumping for MVP votes for team-mate George Foster, who was the majors' runaway leader in RBI and a candidate for the batting title.

But Foster fell into a 4-for-44 slump while Morgan widened his strike zone to feed on pitches he once let pass.

"I'm swinging the bat better than at any time in my life," said Morgan, who extended his longest hitting streak of the season to 18 games Tuesday night, tying Foster for a club-high this year.

Meanwhile, Morgan is keeping low key over his MVP chances.

season—mostly through perseverance.

"I wish some of you guys could be on the bench and hear the yelling," Montreal manager Charlie Fox told reporters following his club's 7-5 and 8-7 wins.

"I'll tell you something," he said. "They've been scratching out there. They haven't given up yet. They're still out there to play the game."

That his young club, doomed to finish last in the East Division, has remained competitive was demonstrated in each contest.

A four-run St. Louis second inning swamped the Expos in the opener until first the bat of Del Unser and afterward that of Barry Foote retrieved victory from defeat.

Then, after Montreal fell behind 7-1 in the nightcap, a collective effort erased most of the deficit and Jose Morales's pinch double won it in the eighth.

REPLACES RIVERA

"The key play may have been when I took the left fielder (Bombo Rivera) out and put Jerry White in there," said Fox, concerning the second-game triumph.

No sooner had the move been made than White, racing to his left on rain-slickened turf, reached out to rob Keith Hernandez of a double at the start of the Cardinals' eighth.

Young reliever Joe Kerrigan, 2-4, picked up both victories for Montreal with the aid of saves registered by Dale Murray and Woodie Fryman.

But as damaging to St. Louis' pitchers as a total of 24 Montreal hits, were seven errors—including six during the nightcap after the Cardinals scored five times in the opening inning.

Three of the miscues helped Montreal score five times in the sixth inning to draw close at 7-6 in the second game.

Two innings later, with Tom Walker, 0-1, still on the mound, Tim Lincecum opened with a single and Mike Jorgensen and Morales followed with doubles to cap the Expos' comeback.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This won't be an unpleasant day for you, but it could be better if you are aware that individuals tend to be testy if you're heedless of personal idiosyncrasies.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be on your guard. Things you thought were firmly in your control may not be so secure. Outside influences play a role in today's events.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Pals play a big role in your life, but don't rise or fall with them today. They have complications they can't iron out and neither can you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're ambitious today, but you are not as sure of yourself as you should be. To accomplish great things, you must be more bold and persistent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't be overly concerned today if everyone doesn't agree with your procedures. The important thing is that the people who count will.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Financial conditions are mixed for you today. You will win a little, lose a little and possibly finish with a slight deficit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The affinity you have for balancing one side against another may be overemphasized today. You could go back and forth all day with no conclusions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't despair if this day appears to be a trying one. You'll be equal to the test, even to the point of bringing order out of chaos.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have a lot of well-wishers in your corner today. Though their intentions are fine, don't let them fill you into a sense of false security.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It isn't fair to weigh the accomplishments of loved ones against others you admire. The assets and opportunities may be far from equal.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be careful traveling today. You're just a shade too anxious to get to your destination. A few more minutes won't hurt a soul.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep your generosity within bounds today. Not everyone you want to share with would be willing to do likewise under similar circumstances.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — The souvenirs of 30 years of community-service broadcasting all but cover the corridor walls leading to the office of E. A. (Ed) Rawlinson.

Plaques and other presentations to the owner of CKBI radio and television hang by the score on the walls, commemorating the broadcaster's involvement in a long list of community projects.

They also reflect his attitude that a station in a place like this city of 32,000 should work with local groups.

CKBI, he said, is not noted for such things as getting into fights with city council.

Outpost life has advantages and disadvantages on island

BAMFIELD, B.C. (CP) — A young woman from this tiny Vancouver Island fishing village became seriously ill last February and needed better facilities than those available at the Red Cross outpost.

Rather than charter a seaplane or take a boat, her family decided to make a two-hour drive over gravel road to Port Alberni. The woman died in the back seat of the car.

The 200 people who choose to live here, on Vancouver Island's rugged west coast, 90 miles north of Victoria, accept such tragedies as the sacrifices they must make to live away from the hustle and bustle of cities.

"I don't advise anyone to come here who is not in good health, for that reason," says Bruce Scott, long-time Bamfield resident and author of three books on Vancouver Island's south-west coast.

"This is an outpost. People should be able to pioneer here and start in a simple way like I did."

A quiet, two-mile-long inlet bisects the town. Bamfield East is reached by the gravel road from Port Alberni, on central Vancouver Island about 100 miles north of Victoria, or from Youbou 60 miles north of Victoria.

Bamfield West, a quarter-mile across the inlet can be reached only by boat or seaplane. A boardwalk stretches past wood-frame houses

"My theory is that I can get a lot more done by co-operation and trying to bring out points on a positive basis."

Mayor Mac Pereverzoff unhesitatingly gives the CKBI owner a generous testimonial:

"If it weren't for Ed, I think this town would be much poorer off as a community," the mayor said. "I think a city our size is very, very fortunate to have somebody with his ability and especially his attitude and his readiness to serve the public and the community rather than count the dollars."

RAN FLYING SCHOOL. Mr. Rawlinson has been personally involved in along the shoreline. Trails through the rain forests provide access to other areas on the west side.

Mail is slow and jobs outside the fishing industry are scarce, but there are some modern conveniences.

Telephones have been here as long as the town itself, electricity was installed a decade ago, water is provided by wells and a two-room school offers education for 65 children from kindergarten to Grade 10.

Pat Garcia, Bamfield's representative on the Alberni-Clayoquot Regional Board, said youngsters wanting to go beyond Grade 10 are usually sent to board with relatives in other parts of Canada. Few students remain as close as Port Alberni to complete their high-school education.

Groceries, brought in by boat, cost about 25 per cent more than in an average B.C. city but they're available at two stores.

The marine station, a biology centre established in 1972 by five western universities, brings some visitors to Bamfield. The station has a six-week summer course and provides field trips for high school students and community colleges.

But the simple life in Bamfield is being complicated by the sudden influx of tourists attracted to Pacific Rim National Park's Broken Island Group in nearby Barkley Sound and the park's 45-mile west coast trail, which begins at Pachena Bay, four miles southeast of the village.

Many old-time Bamfielders are upset about the invasion because their seclusion is gradually disappearing.

The road, built by the B.C. department of highways in 1963, is only two miles long but links the village to logging roads which run to the outside world. It was welcomed as an added convenience by some but viewed as an invasion by others.

Mr. Scott, a resident of Bamfield West, believes the road has "introduced all the disadvantages of civilization" to the east side and now he would like to see the formation of a West Bamfield Preservation Society "to preserve the unspoiled beauty of Bamfield West from the unpleasant aspects of modern development."

Mr. Scott, 71, is also disgruntled by the federal government's failure to provide adequate facilities for visitors attracted by the park.

"At the end of the road," he said, "there are no facilities no water, no toilets, nothing like this."

Mr. Scott predicts that Bamfield will eventually become one of Western Canada's primary resort towns and a major existing problem will have to be solved—pollution.

Household wastes are simply flushed into the inlet. At low tide, the wastes spread out from pipes which flow onto the beach. Garbage is burned at low tide on the beaches to be washed away by the outgoing tide.

Many of the non-combustible materials, however, remain on the surface and the inlet is spotted with floating soft drink cans, motor oil containers and bleach bottles.

The first step toward solving the pollution problem has been taken by the marine station which has its own pollution treatment plant but officials at the public-service projects ranging from wartime administration of an air force flying school to being chairman of a hospital board that led to a major hospital expansion.

A testimonial dinner for him a few years ago drew 500 people.

The station's ties to the community are emphasized by news director Marion Sherman's role as an alderman.

The mayor, who dealt with the station on various serviceclub projects before his election recalled that if an organization had no money it could get free promotion on CKBI, provided Mr. Rawlinson was convinced of the community benefits of the project.

His attitude toward the broadcaster is not shared by all: recent labor-management troubles and court cases involving CKBI have antagonized officials of some provincial unions.

The troubles, however, are just part of a 30-year success story that began when Mr. Rawlinson took over CKBI radio in 1946.

MOVED FAR AFIELD

From that financially-troubled radio operation, located above a drugstore, he has built a group of outlets that include the radio and television operations in Prince Albert, a city cable television network, CJNB North Battleford, CJME Regina, CHED Edmonton, CFAR Flin Flon, CJAR The Pas, and satellite television stations that cover almost a third of Saskatchewan.

An auditor, Mr. Rawlinson had lived in Prince Albert 12 years before buying the radio station whose books he handled. The purchase involved assuming large liabilities, equivalent to buying the station for $150,000 to $200,000, and since then $2 million has been invested in the broadcasting enterprises for capital costs.

Except for Edmonton and Regina radio, the operations are in areas whose revenue potential is insignificant by metropolitan standards and where expansion can be justified only on the basis of public service.

That presumably is a large factor in the good relations Mr. Rawlinson says he has had with federal regulatory authorities.

START DIFFICULT

While the total operation may not be unprofitable, his 1946 entry into broadcasting was far from being the "licence to print money" that metropolitan broadcasting licences are said to be.

"It was a big gamble. It wasn't by any means a cinch or anything like that. It required an awful lot of long hours and hard work."

Saskatchewan programming, he said, is as good as any in Canada and far above the level of U.S. stations in similar areas.

The media-listener relationship was also good:

"In the West, we feel very close to our listeners and viewers. . . . I think radio today is a very vital factor in the lives of people, particularly in rural areas."

As an example if the station ever forgot to mention the current humidity reading, it would get calls from farmers who need that information to make settings on their combines.

Despite his long career, he gives no indication of slowing down. Regina radio station CJME has been transferred to his son Gordon, but Mr. Rawlinson continues as head of other operations.

He is also an active participant in Canadian Pioneer Management Ltd., whose group of companies has expanded into Manitoba and is moving into Alberta.

With a fleeting trace of impishness, he said he does not want to let his age be known because it would spoil continuing banter on that subject with staff.
