Nov. date may mean vote loss at universities

OTTAWA (CP) — Selection of Nov. 8 as the date of the federal election may mean no chance to vote for thousands of university students, officials say.

It is among the young people and especially those at universities, Liberal campaign workers were informed recently, that the party has experienced loss of support.

To qualify to vote Nov. 8 at polls at their universities, students must have been in residence there when the election was called. Most universities had not opened their fall terms when the election was called Wednesday.

Vote list tabulation long job

With Prime Minister Pearson's announcement that a federal general election would be held Monday, Nov. 8, the complicated process of organizing the voting was started by the returning officers in the country's 263 constituencies.

Actually 265 members are elected to the House of Commons but two Maritime Provinces constituencies elect two members each.

The first job facing the returning officer is the appointment of enumerators, two for each polling division, who make a house-to-house canvass of the poll, listing the names of all qualified voters.

Enumerators are named from lists submitted by the elected candidate in the previous general election and by the candidate receiving the second highest number of votes.

Thus in Sherbrooke County, the enumerators will be nominees of the Social Credit and Liberal parties.

Enumeration will start on Monday, Sept. 20 and continue through Friday, Sept. 25.

The lists will then be compiled by the enumerators. Copies will be posted up in each polling division and will also be sent to each family whose name appears on the list.

Individuals who feel their names have been left off the list or who believe other names have been wrongfully inscribed will be given an opportunity to ask for the inscription or deletion of the names affected.

In urban areas, these requests will be studied by revising officers who will hold sittings from October 21 to Oct. 33. Revision in rural areas will be confined to one day, Oct. 21.

Once revision is completed no changes can be made to the lists.

Nomination of candidates in 21 far-flung ridings will be held on Monday, October 12, but in the remaining 241 constituencies the naming of candidates will close on Monday, October 25.

Voting at advance polls established for transport workers, travellers and others who believe they will be away from home on election day will take place October 30 and November 1.

DIG FOR PLANE WRECK — Residents of the Indian village of Hassanpur, 25 miles north of New Delhi, dig in the marshy ground of a sugar cane field for the buried engine of a Pakistani plane which, the government said, was intended to bomb New Delhi Wednesday but was shot down short of its mark. The Indian government released the picture in New Delhi yesterday. (AP Wirephoto by radio from New Delhi)

Pakistani counter-fire forces Indian retreat

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan announced today that Indian troops had to withdraw under heavy Pakistani counter-attacks in the raging battle for the northwest plains across the border of India and West Pakistan.

Chavan told Parliament Pakistani shells were falling in the Indian city of Ferozepore, about 10 miles inside Indian territory. India attacked across the border in this sector Monday, apparently heading for Lahore, Pakistan's second largest city.

Radio Pakistan said Pakistani troops in the Lahore sector — considered the most important in the undeclared war — had moved eastward to capture Indian border posts around Wagah.

The Pakistanis were maintaining "heavy pressure on the enemy" after pushing them out of Pakistani territory, the broadcast said. Big tank battles were reported under way in the area Thursday with jet fighters of both air forces striking at opposing ground units.

Chavan told Parliament the Pakistanis had counter-attacked in the Kasur sector, 10 miles inside Pakistan and 20 miles from Ferozepore.

The Pakistanis "made heavy counter-attacks and we had to withdraw from our forward positions," Chavan said.

He did not make clear whether Indian troops still were on Pakistani soil in this sector.

Farmers accept offer for crop loss cash

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Some 750 farmers of the Lake St. John and Saguenay region agreed Thursday night — on two conditions — to accept an offer by the Quebec government to compensate them for crop losses last year.

The farmers voted unanimously to accept payment of two-thirds of real damage incurred. They maintained, however, that the total of real damage came to their estimate of $5,000,000 — not $3,000,000 as suggested by Premier Jean Lesage.

In order to make their point, they stipulated as one condition that their own technicians and representatives must work with government investigators in estimating real damage.

The farmers also insisted, as their second condition, that the government must pay the two-thirds to them alone. There must be no sharing with farmers in the Abitibi region who also suffered crop losses last year. The government would have to come to a separate agreement with the Abitibi farmers.

In addition, they repeated their request for a three-year moratorium on repayment of loans from the farm credit bureau. They did not, however, make this a condition in a settlement of their argument with the government over compensation.

The farmers made it clear they wanted two-thirds of their estimate and nothing less.

WARNS GOVERNMENT — Jean-Marie Couet, secretary-general of the local federation of the Catholic Farmers' Union, said: "If the government refuses, it will have to face labor demonstrations at the provincial level."

Mr. Couet, without specifying what kind of demonstrations, read out a message of moral support from Louis Laberge.

Radio-TV shake up, forced if necessary, proposed in report

OTTAWA (CP) — Proposals for shaking up—violently—the entire Canadian radio and television industry were delivered to the government Thursday by the Fowler committee on broadcasting.

The bluntly-stated aim: Better and more balanced programming, less American and more Canadian content, to be enforced by regulation if necessary.

Chief proposal in the committee's 140,000-word report is creation of an all-powerful Canadian Broadcasting Authority.

It would set the general programming policies of the CBC directly and those of private stations indirectly by holding life-or-death control of their licences.

It calls for abolition of the Board of Broadcast Governors, the present regulatory agency set up in 1958 by the Diefenbaker government, and the CBC board of directors. All their powers, and more, would go to the new authority.

The report sizzles with criticism of private radio and TV stations, the management of the publicly-owned CBC and the alleged failure of the BBG to make full use of its powers.

HAS NO COMMENT

There was no immediate comment from the government, which said in appointing the committee 16 months ago that it would await the findings before framing new broadcasting legislation to place before Parliament.

State Secretary Lamontagne, the minister who reports to Parliament on broadcasting, said the report will need detailed study.

The committee said a get-tough attitude is needed to improve private TV where, for the most part, "the systematic mediocrity of programming is deplorable," dominated by the worst of American fare.

The investigation had turned up a flood of criticism about the quality of TV produced by private stations.

Private radio stations were criticized for becoming "a daily grind of news, weather, comedy and music, music, music—nearly all recorded."

Neither private radio nor TV was placing enough emphasis on Canadian talent. Figures for 1963 showed an average daily outlay for artistic talent of $22.29 by radio stations and $110 by TV stations.

"The meagreness of the talent budget is, in large part, the reason for poor and mediocre programming on the private stations," the report commented.

De Gaulle tough line continuation indicated

PARIS (CP)—There will apparently be no weakening of current French nationalism, no "abdication" of French sovereignty, in the near future.

If anything, President de Gaulle made plain Thursday, the West can expect to have to make still more of the tough reappraisals of post-war alliances and policies which recent French foreign policy has required.

De Gaulle's statements came at his semi-annual press conference, with some 1,000 newspaper men and diplomatic personnel jammed into the ballroom of the Elysee Palace for the occasion.

'What is Canadianism?' question rocks debaters

MONTREAL (CP)—A sedate debate from points of pure economics to wrangle politically as to whether the residents of Canada's standing as an independent country erupted suddenly Thursday at McGill University into a crackling exchange on a thorny and more fundamental issue, What is Canadianism?

Delegates to a conference sponsored by the university's industrial relations centre had one verbal flurry. How did Canada differ from the United States?

Maxwell Cohen, dean of McGill's faculty of law, said there are differences and one of them is "a certain difference in the tone of violence between the two countries."

A smattering of terrorist incidents in Quebec could not be compared to recent racist eruptions south of the border.

DETENTION CENTRE FOR SHERBROOKE

QUEBEC — (CP) — The Quebec government announced Wednesday it will construct a juvenile detention centre at Sherbrooke.

The announcement was made in a joint statement by Welfare Minister Emile Lafrance and Labor Minister Carrier Fortin, legislature member for Sherbrooke.

The construction of the new coeducational detention centre would bring the total number in Quebec province to four. There now are two at Montreal and one at Quebec City.

The centre will be responsible for holding juveniles who are to appear before the social welfare court. Construction dates for the centre were not announced.

Dominican rightist gets boot

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters) — There was rejoicing in some districts of Santo Domingo today in the wake of military junta chief Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin's forced departure from the Dominican Republic.

President Hector Garcia Godoy announced on television Thursday night that Wessin had been retired from command of the central school of the armed forces and appointed consul-general in Miami, Fla.

The general, rightist military strongman who overthrew President Juan Bosch in 1963, was escorted from his suburban home to San Isidro air base by commanders of the U.S. and inter-American peace forces and Dominican armed forces chiefs.

Supporters claimed Wessin had been arrested but this was not officially confirmed.

(The Associated Press said Wessin, 42, two days ago charged that U.S. embassy officials had tried to bribe him into leaving the country. The embassy has not denied the charge.)

Earlier in the day Wessin withdrew tanks and armored vehicles from Santo Domingo to the base at San Isidro.

HIS REPORT — Robert M. Fowler, 58, of Montreal, chairman of the government's special committee studying broadcasting, holds copy of the committee's report which was made public yesterday. Mr. Fowler, who was also chairman of the 1956-57 royal commission on broadcasting, is president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

No sooner had Canadian delegates arrived than a supervised gate Marcel Lambert appealed plebiscite. Bomb Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B-52s bombed a suspected Viet Cong stronghold in the central highlands of South Vietnam today, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The raid, 325 miles northeast of Saigon, was the 21st reported for the Strategic Air Command jets in the Viet Nam war. Under security regulations, the spokesman did not give the number of planes taking part or the amount of bombs dropped.

A U.S. marine spokesman said that 167 Viet Cong were killed in the big drive on the Batangan Peninsula, 330 miles north of Saigon. Fifty-one Viet Cong and 168 suspected guerrillas were reported captured.

Fr. Divine dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Father Divine, a five-foot-two cherubic-looking Negro who styled himself as god and was revered as such by thousands, died today.

South was one of those players who believed that declarer should draw trumps first and study the hand later.

He let the opening club lead run around to his ace and promptly led out his queen of spades.

East won trick with the king and although it is usually good tactics not to play the suit led by one's opponents, East took his ace of spades immediately and then led back a club. Declarer won with dummy's king; ruffed a club and led his jack of diamonds toward dummy. West rose with his ace and led the suit back.

Eventually declarer had to go after the heart suit himself and had no way to avoid the loss of a trick there.

Declarer complained about duplication of values because dummy's king of diamonds turned out to be worthless, but he really failed to give the hand the correct play.

He should have led his jack of diamonds toward dummy at trick two. West would have won the trick with the ace and at that point it would be up to West to lead a trump if he wanted to beat the four spade contract.

If West did that, it would be unusual indeed. Most Wests would just lead a second club whereupon South would take dummy's king, cash the king of diamonds, ruff the last club and then lead a trump.

East would be on lead and would either have to give declarer a ruff and discard or lead hearts himself, whereupon declarer would be able to avoid the loss of a heart trick.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's new season looms ahead, but before the summer season disappears Saturday night, a look backward seems in order.

With a few exceptions, the network hot weather fare offered little stimulating entertainment. CBS' Secret Agent, a British import in the tongue-in-cheek James Bond manner, proved a rollicking adventure series and star Patrick McGowan was a suave cloak-and-dagger fellow.

Art Linkletter's Hollywood edition of old Talent Scouts—also on CBS—presented some new young talent and ran at a relaxed pace, while Carl Reiner's Celebrity Game proved to be also an oasis in a desert of reruns.

Most disappointing show of the summer was CBS' highly touted It's What's Happening, Baby, the musical variety program that was supposed to inspire school dropouts to drop in again.

IT BORED

The principal disaster of the period was the appearance of Frank Sinatra, along with Sammy Davis Jr., on NBC's Tonight Show while pal Joey Bishop was taking over the host chores. The inside jokes which few in the audience understood, Davis' wild foot stomping at Sinatra's mildest stab at humor, plus rudeness shown nervous guest Sally Ann Howes made for embarrassing—and, worse, boring—viewing.

Vacation Playhouse (CBS), was one of those little collections of pilot films that, for the most part, demonstrated why they never found buyers. One exception seemed to be Acres and Pains, which, with assists by Walter Matthau and Anne Jackson, showed considerable comedy promise.

If the audience reactions this summer demonstrated anything it was that it appreciates fresh shows.

How does Champion explain it?

"I can't," he admitted, "except that the son was so phenomenally popular that it became a national by-word. Then came Hello, Lyndon. There seems to be no end to it."

CAUGHT IN JAM

Gower himself experienced the show's draw in Los Angeles. Driving to rehearsals a week ago Sunday, he encountered a traffic jam on the Hollywood Freeway. It was caused by people swarming to the Music Centre to buy the remaining 10,000 tickets for the seven-week run. The tickets vanished in two days.

The logistics involving the companies resemble combat plans for an infantry division. Miss Martin leaves the touring company to open in London with the New York supporting cast (by special arrangement with the English Actors' Union). Ginger Rogers, who has a three-year contract, gets a new cast in New York. Betty Grable then takes over the company left by Miss Martin.

Carol Channing continues on to San Francisco and Chicago, then replaces Mary Martin in London next June. Who replaces Miss Channing hasn't been decided.

DISC MEN CHIP IN

LONDON (CP) — Britain's 7,000 record stores are being asked to contribute £10 each for a publicity campaign to prevent an expected sales slump at Christmas. Record manufacturers have promised to match the dealers' contribution.

A group of Sherbrooke region French-language farmers have sent a letter to the Quebec Minister of Agriculture Alcide Courcy asking for compensation for crops damaged by low temperatures and dry conditions this year.

The farmers are members of the Catholic Farmer's Union (UCC).

The farmers say they are ready to back up their demands with action if need be. They say they will, if their demands are not met, follow the lead of the farmers of the Lake St. John region and

North Hatley store robbed

A general store in North Hatley was robbed Wednesday night, it was learned today.

When Mrs. Benita MacDonald opened the Earl's General Store, North Hatley, for business yesterday morning at 8 o'clock she found that a robbery had taken place.

Missing are tobacco, cigarettes and a radio valued at $60. Mrs. MacDonald is not sure if anything else is missing. St. Andrew's Provincial Police are investigating.

Berard deposits papers

South Ward Ald. Gerard Berard became the first candidate to officially enter the Sherbrooke municipal election race when he deposited his nomination papers, plus the required $50 deposit with City Clerk Henri Paul Emond yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Berard was accompanied by his official agent, L. P. Pepin.

Among those signing Ald. Berard's nomination papers were former Mayor Alphonse Trudeau and three former aldermen from the South Ward, Norbert Bergeron, J. A. Robert and Henri Labonne.

Ald. Berard first entered the City Council in 1954 to fill out the two years of the term of Henri Labonne who had been forced to quit the Council for reasons of health.

In his first attempt to enter the Council he defeated late Eugene Thibault. He was accorded acclamations in 1956, 1959 and 1962.

For holdup

Jailed five years

Claude Tripp, of Sherbrooke was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary yesterday morning after pleading guilty to his part in the armed holdup of the caisse populaire, last January 14, at St. Francois de Xavier. He was also sentenced to another six months, to be served concurrently with the first, for the theft of a car January 13 at Sherbrooke.

The stolen car was used in the holdup.

Tripp pleaded guilty yesterday to three charges, that of stealing the car, armed robbery and assault against bank client Alphonse Fournier of St. Francois Xavier. Mr. Fournier was struck over the head by Tripp with his rifle butt as he entered the caisse shortly after 9 a.m., the morning of the holdup. Twelve stitches were required to close the wound.

Tripp's two accomplices were sentenced earlier in the year to prison terms of five and four years.

Two armed and masked bandits entered the Caisse Populaire in this village, near Windsor, just before opening time January 14, tied and gagged the manager and injured the client Mr. Fournier who unwittingly stumbled onto the robbery when he went to pay his sisters electricity bill. The thugs fled with $9,615.

The money had been brought to the caisse just the night before by Brink's Express Company.

The car was stolen from in front of the Flamingo Club, Sherbrooke, the previous night and was the property of Mrs. Paul Emile Champagne who had left the keys in the ignition.

Boy flees

A boy who has been brought to Sherbrooke from a Montreal protection home for an examination at a local medical center yesterday escaped from his attendant while in a restaurant awaiting a table for dinner, said a Social Welfare Court official. The youngster still had not been found late in the afternoon.

Trial date is set for Sept. 16 in three furniture theft cases

Three Bedford men, Karl Kyling, Carl Boomhour and David Quigley, who are accused of theft and receiving stolen goods valued at approximately $12,000 appeared before the Sherbrooke Court of Sessions yesterday morning and had their trial date fixed for September 16.

Quigley 35, has been out on bail of $4,000 for over two weeks and his companions yesterday had a bail for the same amount set.

The three are accused of stealing a quantity of furniture and several caskets from a casket manufacturer and furniture dealer in Cookshire and are suspected of being part of a gang operating a furniture stealing ring in the province.

Nil Malterre and Michel Roy, of Sherbrooke pleaded not guilty yesterday to a charge of breaking and entering and theft. Malterre who had no previous record had bail of $500 or $950 on property fixed while Roy who previously served a two year term in prison had bail set at $1,000 cash or $2,000 property.

The two are accused of breaking and entering the premises of Phillippe Talbot, of Cookshire, September 6 and of stealing 15 radios, a sewing machine and a quantity of other electrical equipment.

Gaston Langlois who is accused of dangerous driving was ordered to appear for trial at the next Court of Criminal Assizes.

Langlois is accused of crossing a double white line on a hill in an attempt to pass another car. The result was the death of two persons, one his own infant son. The second victim was a pedestrian, Jean Dion 81.

A court official said that five or six road deaths had occurred on this road within a three-month period and that Langlois knew the road to be dangerous and should have shown caution.

Milk tests in Magog area carried out by mobile unit

By KARL KRAMER
(Record staff reporter)

MAGOG — The mobile laboratory of the National Health and Welfare department has been on the move in the Eastern Townships after completing a stay in Ontario and other parts of Quebec.

The mobile lab performs a bacterial analysis of milk used in butter and cheese manufacturing.

The trailer containing the lab equipment is on the road from the middle of May to the middle of September. It stays in a certain location for about one to two weeks before moving on and testing other milk.

The trailer, when it is finished in Magog, where it is presently staying, will move on to Ottawa for the rest of the year until mid-May when the mobile unit will once again tour parts of Canada.

The mobile unit works in co-operation with the inspectors at the Food and Drug Department of the federal government.

The inspectors bring samples to the lab where they are analyzed.

The milk is collected from the farm in a tube called a jeb tube, by the inspectors. The tube is sterile at all times and the milk is inserted into the tube much the same as an eye dropper. The tube, in order to remain sterile can be used but once.

The bacteria gathered are kept at 35 degrees centigrade which is about body temperature, in dishes known as Petri dishes.

Bacteria samples are incubated for about 48 hours and are then placed in a Quebec Colony Counter machine which is an aid in counting the bacteria.

If there are between 30 and 300 cells, the bacteriologist will count the cells individually.

In the mobile unit presently located in Magog, at the Cabana Motel, there are two bacteriologists working. They are, Barry Walsh of New Glasgow, N.S., who is leaving the unit to go back to MacDonald College, Ivan

John of Montreal, and Robert Grant, Montreal, who will replace Mr. Walsh. The mobile unit working in co-operation with L. Thibodeau, Sherbrooke, a Food and Drug Department Inspector.

The trailer is the first unit of its kind in Canada and acts as a pilot lab. Depending on the outcome of this summer's tour more labs may be set up.

Not married

A 15-year-old girl who according to a Social Welfare Court official, took a wedding trip but probably didn't get married, appeared in Welfare Court yesterday and had her sentence adjourned until a later date.

In the meantime her mother is to furnish her birth certificate for authorities. The teenager went to Ontario with an 18-year-old boy and told authorities that she got married there but she is thought to be false as one has to be 18 in order to marry in that province.

Kierans raps discrimination against foreign investment

THETFORD MINES, Que. (CP) — Eric Kierans, Quebec revenue minister, said Thursday night that origin of investments is of little importance and that Quebecers have no reason to complain about the interest foreign investors can show in the province.

On the contrary, he said, Quebec can profit by such investments. He cited what he termed a typical case—an industrialist who decided not to build in Canada because of discrimination against foreign capital.

"This hostility purely and simply meant the loss of 200 persons in employment," he said.

Mr. Kierans spoke at a banquet marking the 50th anniversary of Le Canadien, Thetford Mines weekly.

He praised the contribution of weeklies—about 200 in Quebec—to their communities and said that by their numbers and variety they are "the real spokesmen for democracy as we live it."

At the same time, the weeklies escape in some measure the pressures which weigh against the big dailies, he said.

"Because of their number, weeklies cannot be monopolized by or for the benefit of government propaganda nor, moreover, for money. Dissemination of publicity in a great number of newspapers is not profitable because it is too costly."

Delegate at conference

Patrick T. Asselin, M. P. for Richmond—Wolfe in the last parliament, is a member of the Canadian delegation to the 54th Inter-Parliamentary Conference now underway in Ottawa.

The year Canada is playing host to about 800 delegates from 90 different countries.

Problems to be considered by the parliamentarians are international co-operation for peace and disarmament, international economic relations, means of strengthening the effectiveness of parliamentary institutions and the problem of apartheid.

Sewer, water bids are opened in Magog

MAGOG — (Special) — The Magog city council held the second session of the adjourned September meeting last night, when tenders for two major expenses were opened, and when the balance of the month's business matters was attended to.

Quotations for the construction of sewer and water mains in various parts of Magog were heard, low bid being that tendered by Dupaul & Swols Ltee., who asked $258,031.75 compared to $276,853.75 by Bosco Construction Ltd. Seventy-five per cent of the cost, it is noted, will be paid by the property owners, in front of whose properties these services pass, as specified by the new regulation governing payment of services within this municipality.

Work on these services will be according to city officials, start very soon, however, before the contract for work is given, Goulet, St. Pierre, Bertrand, Charon & Savoie, engineers who have drawn up plans for the various projects will give further study to the quotations heard Thursday evening.

The City of Magog will trade in two of the municipal works department trucks for new ones, accounting for four other tenders opened Thursday evening. Low bid came from Cyr Auto Sales Inc., whose quotation with trade-in was $9,010, compared to Memphremagog Automobile's $9,464; Belanger Garage's $9,540; and Dore Motor Sales' $10,575.68.

Several items in correspondence were highlighted by the Austin Women's Institute's plea for support of their Magog library which will be studied by the council.

Council members decided surveying projects previously given out, but yet not completed, must be finished. November 1st is set as deadline for completion of this work.

A letter from the Hon. John Diefenbaker was also read, which expressed appreciation to the mayor, council, city of officials and citizens of Magog for the leader of the opposition's visit to Magog in late August.

Local candidates may decide vote

Unless one of the five Canadian political party leaders come up with something constructive during the next 58 days, the current election campaign probably will be one of the most negative in Canadian history.

None of the leaders has made any serious favorable impression upon the average Canadian voter and for the most part their supporters are arguing that this or that man should receive public endorsement because he is not as bad for the country as are his opponents.

Certainly Prime Minister Pearson has given the nation no inspiring leadership. The "hundred days of decision" which formed the foundation of his 1962 campaign have crumbled into a "thousand days of uncertainty."

Despite certain definite achievements his administration has won fame largely for the things it started but did not finish. Perhaps this is best illustrated by the timing of the election itself.

After bitter debate and opposition the great redistribution act was forced through Parliament. But the Prime Minister has seen fit to nullify to a large extent the purposes of the bill by calling a general election before it can become effective.

During his six years in office, John Diefenbaker earned for himself a record for indecision of another type. He just let things slide. If passage of time permitted a problem to solve itself, there was no interference from the government. But if it required legislative or administrative action, it must remain undecided. This despite the fact that for four years Mr. Diefenbaker enjoyed the largest majority ever given a Prime Minister.

New Democratic Party Leader Tommy Douglas has done little to impress himself upon the electorate. His tendency to make off-the-cuff comments on almost every issue of the day has involved him in some rather embarrassing situations and self-contradictions.

Once regarded as one of the sobering factors in Canadian politics, Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson has proved up as little more than a pious hypocrite ready to criticize the wrongdoings of the administration but ever ready to support them in a pinch.

With party leadership generally in low esteem a great responsibility rests upon the constituency organizations.

In most constituencies the voters may make their decision on the basis of the man nominated for their particular riding and the outcome of the election may depend largely upon the quality of the men selected by the county organizations.

Cluttering up car rear windows

Many motorists apparently believe that they are enhancing their status by placing all kinds of junk in and around their car.

Some of these gadgets may be useful. Some of them may be merely decorative. But too many of them are really harmful or even dangerous.

How many times have you witnessed a regular dime-store collection piled up in the rear window of an automobile. There is everything from the useful waste box to oversized tigers or dangling squirrels' tails.

Not only do these items cut down visibility of the rear view mirror but they are a distinct menace to the driver following.

Blinking toy dogs, flashing miniature traffic signals and similar devices distract the attention of the other motorist and very often give him a wrong impression of what to expect from the car proceeding him.

In many states highway safety organizations have succeeded in having such devices declared illegal — and none has suffered.

De Gaulle would undermine NATO

President de Gaulle of France is a man not given to frequent press conferences — something of a must for North American politicians — and confines himself to about two a year.

Thus when the Great One does meet the press it is generally to proclaim some new vision for the grandeur of France.

On Thursday he reaffirmed unmistakably his determination to assert French autonomy, shook the pillars of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and set his own terms for future European co-operation.

Basically he proposed to pull France out of NATO unless its integrated military command structure is abolished by 1969 at the latest.

He repeatedly emphasized his theme of national independence and lashed out at the subordination of France in NATO and the European Common Market.

The NATO integrated command, first established by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, is an international defence headquarters in which officers from several nations serve in mixed fashion without reference to nationality.

Since its inception it has been headed by an American — now Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer. De Gaulle dislikes having French officers taking orders from foreigners, and is reported to feel the integrated system makes an officer lose his sense of nationality.

Abolishing the system would mean the end of any allied type headquarters and leave Western defence to a classic system of national alliances such as existed at the time of the First World War.

Significantly, de Gaulle did not advance any alternative to integration.

Other papers say:

Canadians offered aid for Lincoln

The most widely quoted phrase, when speaking of the relationship between Canada and the United States, is "the world's longest undefended border." The most often talked about fighting with Canada, when Canadians struggle out of their own history, is the War of 1812-14, when Canadian and British forces beat back the American invader, and made it possible for the border to become undefended. Forgotten has been the contribution that Canadians made to the Civil War in the United States.

Niagara Falls Review

ty was attractive. But many were dedicated believers in the Union cause, for, despite Toronto's emergence as a hotbed of Confederate intrigue, most Canadians were anti-Confederacy as a matter of principle. They disliked the idea of slavery, which had been long abolished in all British countries and possessions long before.

It is to be noted that French Canada sent many volunteers to Lincoln's army. In several New England regiments the man-power was so predominantly French-Canadian that bilingual officers were required. From the Maritimes also went men to serve in the Union Navy. What history book, anywhere, tells of Canada's contribution thus made to her neighbor in her time of need? Even if no mention is made in American history books of it, we Canadians should at least be aware of it.

A New Quebec Party Is Formed

MONTREAL — (CP) — Creation of five regional parties for the 1970 election, the Parti Quebecois, a new federal party, was announced today. The party's first candidates in the next federal election, was announced yesterday.

French Canada says:

Party war chests are top secret both as to uses and sources

Montreal Metro-Express—A St. James Street broker has just been handed the task of forming a finance committee for the Liberal party. This may be more an effort to make the party treasury efficient and profitable than a real attempt at making it democratic.

All parties tend to be willing nowadays to publish financial reports—limited ones. No one wants to hide how offices and advertising are paid for, but these have little to do with the actual party war chest.

That chest is the one that pays for campaigns, changes reluctant minds, assures victory to star candidates, pads bank accounts for financially-troubled party figures. Sometimes overseas trips are even arranged for persons not wanted in the country at election time.

The war chest is versatile and not limited to election uses, which largely frees it from the checks of the campaign spending laws.

What party would even consider unveiling the use made of its secret funds? They are precisely that—secret. And all manner of ruses are used to conceal where they come from and how important a role they play.

Those party funds, let's face it, will never be opened to the public, or even to the party. Ministers and MPs, most of the prominent men of a party, know no more about these funds than the man in the street. The money is there, certain persons pick up the bills, but who put the bank notes in the cash box, or who guaranteed the funds in advance for the false loan which is never repaid is very much in use.

One thing is sure, however, and that is that the contributions of small businessmen and the proceeds of party dinners count for less than nothing in the real funds of the party.

Under this system, the democratization of the party war chest is unthinkable and impossible.

And common belief to the contrary, a party, especially one in power, draws on a very limited number of sources. They are more often than not foreign in this land where more than 60 per cent of the capital is American. The important "transactions" take place at the highest levels and the real cashier of the party, the one who sometimes alone knows its secrets, is the leader himself.—Yvon Turcotte. (Sept. 4)

Quebec L'Evenement — The provincial government has just set up another commission, this one inter-ministerial, to look after Quebec's external relations. Its chairman is Claude Morin, deputy minister of federal-provincial relations.

It is fairly clear, for the moment anyway, that this does not give Quebec "an official international personality." There was a suggestion of this in Premier Lesage's announcement. Rather he emphasized the practical aspects. The commission will coordinate various departments' activities abroad.

And in fact Quebec's relations with foreign countries grow from year to year. We have our delegations in Paris, in London, in New York. Quebec's development cannot go forward on only her own resources. Thus our delegations would do well—as do the provincial delegations of Ontario—to inform foreign countries about our economic life and the capital we need. The growth of cultural relations with France, especially in education, also points to the need for an inter-ministerial commission.

Moncton L'Evenement — The idea of forming a human rights commission for New Brunswick has been launched, and one can only encourage the attorney-general, W. W. Meldrum, to set up such a commission.

This commission on human rights would have to work to strengthen the status of Negroes among us to give them eventually the same rights as whites. Though generally speaking colored persons suffer from almost no discrimination in our province, there are nevertheless here and there people who deny Negroes the rights the law grants them. The commission would also have to look into the situation of other ethnic groups against whom discriminatory methods are sometimes used.

This in fact is why the attorney-general wants to talk with the different ethnic groups before officially intervening directly with the creation of a human rights organ. Mr. Meldrum's approach has been a wise one, and we hope he carries it through to the end.

It may be an inappropriate question to ask what Acadians can do with reference to this commission. Yet we cannot remain indifferent in face of the need for forming such an institution. We may even find ourselves appealing to it to obtain certain rights. Furthermore, Acadians are well-placed to collaborate in a human rights commission. Their minority position and their spirit of solidarity permit them to understand well the problem colored and other minority groups face in Canada.

The vigilance and promotion committee of the Acadian National Society will no doubt get in touch with the New Brunswick attorney-general to contribute to the project or at least tell Mr. Meldrum how the society feels about it.—Rene d'Anjou. (Aug. 28)

Montreal Le Devoir — For the distracted reader the riots of the Watts section of Los Angeles are already fading. But for those who take a greater interest in the American Negro tragedy, the analysis is still on. America always greets race riots as unexpected explosions. Yes, revolt was building up in these ghettos of misery, yes, it's what the Rev. Mr. King calls a "long, hot summer," but... always the question is the same: "Why here? We always lived in peace with our Negroes." And since each new riot brings its special type of violence (armed sharpshooters in Watts), the amazement is authentic.

Basically, most U.S. whites have not yet understood that Negroes will never be content again... with patching of the fabric. They want "Freedom Now." They won't wait another century.

That does not excuse us from the study of causes in particular cases. The French journalist Jacques Amalric of Le Monde has clearly pointed to one of the main California causes: disappointment. This is how he explains the fierceness of Watts compared with Harlem, Rochester or Chicago.

He says that Negro arrivals in the California cities, mass since in recent years, nourish a hope that here at least they will accept them as full citizens. Free of a tradition of slavery, liberal by reputation unprecedentedly prosperous... California did not have Negro sections when they first arrived. The colored immigrants assumed it would not let them spring up. They were wrong...

All of which places Montreal's first Negro riots in about 1975. One would have to be blind not to see Quebec's first racial ghetto being born at the foot of Guy Street. Daily, new faces appear. Do you think they choose this section freely. Repeated inquiries show that Negroes simply do not manage to find lodgings in the major northern, western and eastern sections of the city. (There are exceptions — I myself have had Negro neighbors in west-end Notre Dame de Grace, where a newly-arrived Italian family rented them an apartment).

But nine landlords out of 10 turn them away, and the ghetto is growing...—Gerard Pelletier. (Sept. 2)

The ant... provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest. (Proverbs 6:6-8)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, grant us such understanding of Thy ways that with glad hearts we may accept and do the work Thou hast given us. May we know at the end of each day the joy of work well done. May we keep before us the example of Jesus Christ our Lord, who perfectly worked to make known Thy glory. In His name we pray. Amen.

Wrestling was a highly developed sport at least 3,000 years before the Christian era. On walls of the temple tombs of the ancient Egyptians there are sculptured many hundreds of scenes from wrestling matches depicting practically all the holds and falls known even today. It was also an important sport in ancient Greece. The Greeks introduced it to Rome in the last quarter of the second century B.C.

In Australia

Canada is guide to Labor policy

By WILLIAM SCHOLES

SYDNEY, Australia — (TNS) — Comparisons between Canada and Australia have played a significant part in the moulding of the opposition Labor Party's policy for the next federal elections.

Policy decisions on economic matters, scientific training and no foreign investment all were made with an eye to similar experience in Canada in recent years.

The Federal Biennial Conference of the Australian Labor Party held here recently comprises 36 delegates — six from each state — and is the party's policy-making body.

In each of the fields mentioned, Labor experts pointed out what had been the position in Canada, which has a population 50 per cent. higher than this country.

Frank Crean, member of the House of Representatives, and the opposition's "shadow treasurer," pointed out that as regards mineral development, Canada produced five times the quantity of minerals that Australia did.

ACTIVE POLICY

"It seems that this difference is attributable to an active development policy rather than to any natural difference of resources," he said.

Mr. Crean said economic planning was now accepted as the way of life in every Western economy, with the exception of the U.S.A., and Australia, and even in the U.S., there was more conscious intervention in the economy than in Australia.

"The thing that distinguishes the Australian economy," he said, "is the lack of 'purposeful' public policies. Our characteristic is economic drift, which has led at the present juncture to a number of critical problems."

Comparison was drawn with Canada on the question of foreign investment and legislation covering the return of dividends to parent companies. The example of Canada's development of oil, gas and its national fuel policy were also investigated by experts who brought down their recommendations to the conference.

"The confusion arising from unplanned national development is highlighted in the field of fuel utilization," Crean told the conference. "We have abundant natural deposits of coal and lack developed oil resources. Yet we allow the by-products of imported oil to compete unfairly as fuel with our local supplies of coal."

"Admittedly, there are technical difficulties involved here and rather abstract problems of relative costs which the committee (the party's economic planning committee) has not been able to adequately examine, nor do we have some of the necessary experts on the committee to make the final judgment."

The Federal Minister for Works, Senator J. G. Gorton, said recently that foreign capital controlled 85 per cent. of Australia's motor vehicle and petroleum industries, and 97 per cent. of its pharmaceutical industry. Overseas capital controlled an estimated 25 per cent. of all Australian industries, he said. Other industries with a large proportion of overseas capital were: toilet preparations 97 per cent; soap and detergents 80 per cent; and motor parts and accessories 55 per cent.

$70,000 building permits passed

COWANSVILLE (Staff) — Building permits valued at over $70,000 were approved and a $60,000 sewer and water system plan was adopted by the town council Tuesday night at their regular monthly meeting.

The building permits approved at the meeting bring the total estimated value of building permits approved this year to $2,147,815. Guy Lussier a town hall official said.

Aldermen adopted plans for the construction of a sewer and water system in the Desourdy housing project. The water aqueduct will service De La Salle Street if the property owners of that street approve the bylaws.

On September 20 between 7 and 9 p.m. at the Town Hall property owners can register their opinion concerning this water and sewer system.

The following are some of the building permits which were approved by the aldermen. Fabien Menard of Farnham was given permission to build two $16,000 two storey and two tenement houses each 26 by 40 feet on Quebec

Street. Aldermen approved an $18,000 building permit requested by the Royal Enterprises Company of Farnham. The building is a two storey home, 28 by 40 feet, situated on Draper Street at the corner of Barker Street. Work began August 31 and it is estimated construction will be completed within two months.

Fernand Poulin of 214 Main Street, Cowansville was given permission to build an $11,000 one storey, one tenement house on Robert Street between Vilas and Grand Boulevard. Work began last week and should take three months to complete.

Rosaire Deragon of 118 Depot Street had a $4,800 building permit approved for a two storey building enlargement. The enlargement will be on the present building at 118 Depot Street and will measure 14 by 24 feet. Construction is being done by Jules Champigny and will take three more weeks to complete.

Brome Pond stays Brome Pond

BROMONT — (Staff) — Brome Pond will continue to be known as Brome Pond, not Lac Brompton.

In the early summer application was made by the Town of Brompton to the Quebec Government to have the pond's name changed to Lac Brompton. The request was granted by the Minister of Lands and Forest, Alan Webster of Realmonit. Arres states in a press release.

However, the pond is a private body of water as stated by an Exemplary Court Decision in Sweetburg, 1901. Mr. Webster on behalf of the owners wrote the Minister of Lands and Forests informing him of this fact and that the owners did not wish to have the name changed from Brome Pond to Lac Brompton.

On July 15th a letter was received from Secretary of the Quebec Geographical Commission Jean Poirier stating that the name of the body of water would continue to be Brome Pond.

Pupils increase

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — Student enrollment at Bedford, Knowlton and Sutton High Schools are up this year. The same number of students are enrolled this year at last at Cowansville High School.

Although official enrollment figures are not available yet, G. E. Hanson, secretary-treasurer of Knowlton High School, said student enrollment has increased this year.

Similarly Mrs. MacArthur, secretary of Bedford High School, said a few more students are enrolled this year at Sutton High School about 20 more pupils will be present this year.

But at Cowansville High School, principal G. E. Bown said this year's enrollment is about 720 students, about the same number as last year.

All three schools opened their doors to students earlier this week, with Bedford High School opening Tuesday and Cowansville, Knowlton and Sutton High Schools Wednesday.

At all four schools there are a number of new teachers. At Knowlton High there are about eight replacements at Cowansville High five, at Bedford High, three, and Sutton High, two.

Knowlton High School will have a new classroom this year at its elementary level to be used for the new program of "team teaching".

At Cowansville High School, the problem of space and class overcrowding is the primary problem, Mr. Bown said.

School-curriculum-wise there isn't much change at Bedford High, but Mrs. MacArthur pointed out that this year for the first time graduation exercises will be held in the fall.

Heavy local campaigns expected

OTTAWA (CP) — As many through the Conservative for- the individual candidate, said a Prairie Conservative, "We'll decide this election."

"This won't be won by Pearson and Diefenbaker on television or in the convention halls," said one Conservative MP. "This will be won over the question of whether I am a better man than Joe Blow of the Liberals."

A Liberal member virtually repeated the remark a few minutes later in another office down the hall. "No candidate can afford to sit back this time and expect to get carried into Parliament on the image of their leader."

This could result in a return to the old-fashioned door-to-door campaigning, with local candidates popping up on more lapel buttons and on "I-am-the-man-for-the-job" radio chats. To a large extent, says a Maritime Conservative, national issues will be left to the travelling party leaders.

JUST TO GET ELECTED

"We'll just worry about getting ourselves elected," he said. This expected return to old-fashioned campaigning will also be followed, to some extent, by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who will criss-cross the country by train, stopping to chat on station platforms. After using planes in the 1962 campaign he returned to trains in 1963.

Prime Minister Pearson will continue to use planes. His official duties will bring him back to Ottawa at frequent intervals, aides say.

In most cases local candidates will have their door-to-door efforts supplemented by visits from high-ranking party members. Apart from Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson, cabinet members and front-benchers from the other parties are expected to move widely through the country.

Many of the top Liberals are expected to concentrate on the Prairies, in hopes of breaking

School board prizes presented top students at Waterloo High

WATERLOO — (Special) — Waterloo High School re-opened Wednesday, Sept. 8, with a staff of 22 teachers and an enrolment of approximately the same number of pupils as last year. In spite of the number of children who have moved out of the area there is a similar number of newcomers taking their places.

Presentation of school board's book prizes for grades one to seven was, as usual, the main interest. The highest per cent for the year ending June 30 was attained by Douglas Dalton, grade four and Susan Boyd, grade five. These two had identical percentages of 95.1 per cent.

The exercises were opened by the Chairman, A. J. Buckland, following a prayer by Rev. A. Haley. Mr. Buckland welcomed the many pupils and staff, especially those attending school for the first time and new teachers Mrs. Merinda Talbot, grade two, Miss Janet Sanborn, grade four and Miss Joan Neil, grade five.

The chairman stressed the success with which the regional school plan has been received in the Province. Dr. Billings, Associate Deputy Minister of Education for the Province of Quebec, has stated he was highly pleased with the fact that 97 Protestant School Municipalities, not including Quebec City or Greater Montreal, have already decided to participate in Operation 55. Dr. Billings has said when the project is completed it will provide a type of education not available before.

A quotation from the late Adlai Stevenson was included in the Chairman's remarks: "Education is a great national problem. What we desperately need is more not less concern for education."

Principal Wayne spoke to the pupils about changes to be made in Waterloo High School in the next two years. He is very anxious that parents will feel free to come to his office at any time to discuss problems that may arise.

Mr. Wayne outlined some of the changes in effect when the regional school is in operation. No pupil should stay in elementary schools more than seven years; certain categories of children are better served in secondary schools; and the traditional grade system will be abolished and children will be classed according to age and ability.

Following remarks by Mr. Wayne the School Board's prizes were presented for General Proficiency as follows: Grade one — presented by Mr. Wayne to Barbara Haley, Robert Viger, Gregory Lloyd, Mary Lemaire, Douglas Chapman and Timothy Birch Grade two — presented by Rev. K. Dickerson to — Charles Snow, Sindy Lister, Deborah Hollenbeck, Richard Scott, Helen Krause and Marlene Durrell.

Haley to Janet Irwin, Brenda Bazinet, Beverly Magoon, Douglas Dalton, Carol Worden, Lee Cochran, Grade Five presented by Mr. Birch to Barbara Slack, John Leguin, Carol Jones, Susan Boyd, Kim Copping, David Chapman.

Questions readers ask
Q—How is Kosher corned beef different from the other kind in the market and how can I be sure I'm getting it?
A—Kosher corned beef is made only from the brisket of beef. It bears the U.S. Department of Agriculture inspection seal and also is tagged with a plumb or metal seal that is put through the meat. This tag bears the name of the manufacturer and the name of the rabbi who supervised the processing and certifies that it is Kosher. It is cured in a brine solution of salt, spices and water for as long as 21 or 22 days.

Country notebook

By WALKER RILEY

Macdonald College

The fates seem to be against our Birdsfoot Trefoil project on the home farm. In our imagination the seed crop this fall was going to pay for last year's taxes, this year's taxes, the fertilizer bill and the harvesting and maybe, just maybe, with the present price of trefoil sky-high a bit besides to buy paint.

But the chap who was going to spray it last spring to suppress the grass didn't get around to it until it was too late. So we told a neighbour he could pasture it until June 10, but be sure to take the cows off then. He didn't get his own fences fixed; the cows came off July 10.

The trefoil is there certainly. In the 10 years since it was planted, it has spread to every corner of the field. In mid-August the field was a solid mass of yellow bloom. But it is short, too short to cut with a swather because it had been over-grazed in June and there isn't much chance now the seed pods will be ripe before a killing frost comes. So now it's a next-year crop.

At least we have our own weed sprayer now. It arrived minus the boom, lost in transit, the gauge glass broken, and one hose missing. We spent four days of our holiday looking at it, then loaded it with Dalapon and went to our field of first-prize twitch grass. Spraying with three nozzles out of 13 was like shovelling sand with a toothpick but we got the job done. Dutifully in three days the twitch grass turned purple, then brown. This week the Junior member of the Firm is ploughing it under. Imagination pictures this field next spring beautifully bare of twitch grass for the first time in memory. We'll see.

But I can tell you we closed our eyes while we poured that dollar-a-pound white powder into the tank of water, 10 pounds to every acre.

The hand-gun that came with the sprayer - for an extra 25 dollars - is giving us great satisfaction. It is sheer pleasure to cruise around the farm with the tractor-mounted sprayer dosing the willows, the hawthorns and the tag-alders that have been sneaking in. In one afternoon with 40 gallons fuel oil and a gallon of Bruskil, we destroyed - or hope we destroyed - more brush than three men could in a week with axes. And no hornets' nests.

I have just made a discovery. The calendars don't show the moon phases any more. At least, the four in our house don't. So I am afraid I can't tell you when it's going to freeze again.

As far as the corn crop goes, the frost at the end of August didn't do too much harm. A few low-lying fields caught it in the Eastern Townships. Harris

Shufelt, the new Quebec Farmers' Association secretary, just back from two days in Pontiac County, reports that area escaped it.

A chap growing corn for the first time phoned to ask when he should cut it. I resisted the temptation to give him the smart answer, "one day before it freezes." He has to depend on his neighbour to cut it, so he is booking the machine for the second week in September. He might miss a few good growing days, but it's not worth the risks in the alternative choice. If he waits until it freezes, everyone is going to want the machine at once. And it might be two or three weeks before he gets his turn. In the meantime his field of leafless frozen stalks become a poor substitute for silage.

The notion that corn should have a frost before being cut comes from early attempts to reduce the moisture going into a silo. In the days before early maturing hybrids it may have been the only way to get away from seepage and sour silage. But there will be little seepage from unfrosted corn if the kernels have reached the firm dough stage before harvest. And that's the kind that makes milk and cuts feed bills.

If you have more corn than will go into the silo, rejoice. I haven't seen a heap or a stack of silage spoil yet any more than eight or 10 inches on the outside. And with a bit of care even that loss can be avoided.

I know one man in Glengarry County who puts all his corn into a stack every year. And he makes beautiful silage; in fact it won second place at the Seed Fair year before last.

He hires a light bulldozer for the day and builds the stack like a saucer upside down. Each wagon load of chopped corn is run up on top, then pulled off with a chain attached to the false front in the wagon. Then he covers the whole heap with four-mil plastic sheeting, and weighs it down with wet chopped straw. His spoilage is zero. The trick, he says, is to keep the plastic tight to the silage; don't let the wind get under it.

With less care, I have seen corn silage keep quite well in snow-fence silos and even in heaps blown into the corner between the silo and the barn. Some say be sure to tramp it; others say it shouldn't have a footprint in it.

Do-it-yourself

Patch linoleum, wallpaper and save time and money

A well-made patch can save many dollars in replacing vast amounts of otherwise sound floor and wall coverings. Linoleum will wear first in one spot—in front of a sink or a door—while the rest looks bright and new. Wallpaper doesn't wear, but it is subject to damage—a scratch or tear.

Patching wallpaper really begins the day it is installed. When you've had a room papered, save some scraps or remnants. There's almost always part of a roll left over. Over the years the paper on the wall will weather-will change colors as it is exposed to the sun. Take a piece of the paper and hang it in a closet. It will fade at almost the same rate. The importance of saving scraps will be evident when it comes time to make a repair. Finding a matching piece of wallpaper, especially a small amount, is almost impossible.

With a sharp knife or razor blade, cut away the damaged area. Cut a matching piece of wallpaper. Make it slightly larger than the damaged area. Move it around so that it matches the pattern on the wall. Apply paste, put it over the damaged area so that it overlaps the edges.

Save Those Remnants

Again, with linoleum, it's a good idea to save remnants when it is installed. But the problem is not so pressing. You may still be able to find the design at a dealer's and buy a small amount, generally a yard-long piece the full width of the roll. It's more than you need, but better than nothing.

Even if you cannot match the pattern, you can still go ahead with the patch. Pick a contrasting color and cut it as a diamond or triangle as though it had been planned that way. In front of a sink cut a long rectangle, as though it were a runner purposely put there. Cut a pattern out of cardboard. It should be large enough to cover the area you are patching. Use this pattern in cutting away the worn linoleum and in cutting the patch from new material.

Make certain that sides are straight, corners square. Use a linoleum knife and go over the cut several times to make sure that you are all the way through. This will prevent damaging the surrounding linoleum when you pull up the old piece. Clean out the opening. Remove remnants of old linoleum and pieces of matting. Check the patch for size. It should fit snugly without buckling.

Now spread linoleum cement over the floor where the patch will go. Press the patch into place flush with the surrounding area. Some cement will come through the opening around the patch. Wipe this away at once.

Patch Hardens Quickly

To get the patch down flush, put a weight on it, or roll it with an old rolling pin. In a couple of weeks the patch will be as hard as the rest of the linoleum. Rubbing with steel wool will remove the shine from the patch, make it look like the old floor covering. Damaged tile (asphalt, vinyl, etc.) is even easier to replace. There is no cutting necessary. Just remove the tile or tiles. The old tile can be cracked in several places with a hammer. Then pry up the loose pieces. A blow torch, used with caution, will soften the tile and adhesive.

The procedure then is the same. Smooth the floor, apply the cut several times to make straight, corners square. Use a linoleum knife and go over the cut several times to make sure that you are all the way through. This will prevent damaging the surrounding linoleum when you pull up the old piece. Clean out the opening. Remove remnants of old linoleum and pieces of matting. Check the patch for size. It should fit snugly without buckling.

Twins still wrapping the AL parcel with wins, stop Chisox again 10-4, Kansas City A's take another loss

Minnesota Twins appear past the final hurdle as they head for their first American League pennant since the club was moved to the midwest.

The Twins have a seven-game edge over second-place Chicago today following a two-game sweep of the White Sox. Each club has 19 games remaining and any combination of 13 Minnesota victories or Chicago defeats, delivers the flag to the Twins.

Third-place Baltimore Orioles, 7½ games back, actually is better off statistically than the White Sox. The Orioles have 22 games left and Minnesota needs any combination of 14 victories and Orioles defeats to end Baltimore's chances.

And not only do the Twins have that lead, but 14 of their remaining games are against the American League's second division.

Jimmie Hall, who homered in each game, was the hero of the sweep against the White Sox. The Twins squeaked by Wednesday night, 3-2, and then whacked four Chicago pitchers for a 10-4 decision Thursday.

In the only other American League game Thursday, California Angels defeated Kansas City Athletics 7-2.

Hall whacked three hits including his 20th homer for the Twins, who sprayed 15 hits around Comiskey Park. Sandy Valdespino also had three safeties for the Twins.

Jim Katt got late-inning help from Al Worthington for his 15th victory of the season.

Willie Smith was the hero for California, unloading a bases-loaded double that drove in three runs against the Athletics. Bobby Knoop had three hits and Ed Kirkpatrick a home run as Fred Newman cruised to his 12th victory.

Nine Argos to see own field action for first time against Saskatchewan

Last-place Toronto Argonauts will have at least nine players in the lineup playing their first home game of the Canadian Football League season tonight when they meet Saskatchewan Roughriders in an interlocking game.

But much of the weekend football attention in the east will be on Ottawa Saturday when Hamilton Tiger-Cats try to protect their first-place margin in the Eastern Football Conference against second-place Ottawa Rough Riders.

Tonight's contest gives Toronto fans their first chance to see Pete Liske, the latest in a string of Argonaut quarterbacks, who was with New York Jets and Buffalo Bills of the American Football League before joining Toronto. He's the leading passer in the EFL.

He'll be playing his fourth game with Argos and the first at home. Others who have joined the Argos since they last appeared at home are Pat Brosnan, Bob Dugan, Norm Nicola, Bob Brown, Jim Griffin, Mike Wicklum, Gord McTaggart and Pete Warren.

Two other newcomers may be in the Argo lineup—Jim Baffico, an offensive guard, and halfback Bob Curington, both cut by Buffalo.

FRANK DELAYED

Not likely to start is 260-pound tackle Bill Frank, whose arrival in Toronto was delayed when his flight was held up by fog.

Toronto was counting on Frank, cut recently by Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, but Minnesota Vikings of the NFL claimed him. Argos then learned Thursday that Minnesota had dropped its claim on Frank and he was en route to Toronto again.

South African Cliff Drysdale hot with the racquet at Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—A tall South African who nits a backhand like a portside Mickey Mantle is the newest threat to Australian Roy Emerson's title in the national tennis championships.

He is Cliff Drysdale and his credentials include an upset quarter-final victory Thursday over America's No. 1 Davis Cup ace, Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., who was seeded third.

Drysdale's 26, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 8-6 triumph helped strip the tournament to one lone American—Arthur Ashe, the 22-year-old Negro from Los Angeles, who plays Emerson today in a quarter-final.

Drysdale likes his chances since he is bracketed against Mexico's Rafael Osuna, the 1963 champion, to whom he's never lost.

Osuna qualified for the semi-finals by beating Charlie Peralta of Puerto Rico, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5.

Antonio Palafox of Mexico faces Manuel Santana of Spain today to complete the quarter-finals.

The women play for semi-final berths, and there appears no stopping Wimbledon queen Margaret Smith of Australia and second-seeded Maria Bueno of Brazil, the defending champion.

Miss Smith plays Francoise Durr of France, while Miss Bueno takes on Carole Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio.

In other quarter-finals, Nancy Richey of Dallas plays Norma Baylon of Australia, and Britain's Ann Haydon Jones opposes Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif.

Arnold Baker to compete for O'Keefe title

JOLIETTE —(Staff) — Arnold Baker, champion of the Sherbrooke Country Club, is one of nine Class A golfers entered in the 1965 O'Keefe Quebec Amateur Medal Play Championship to be held here Sunday, September 12.

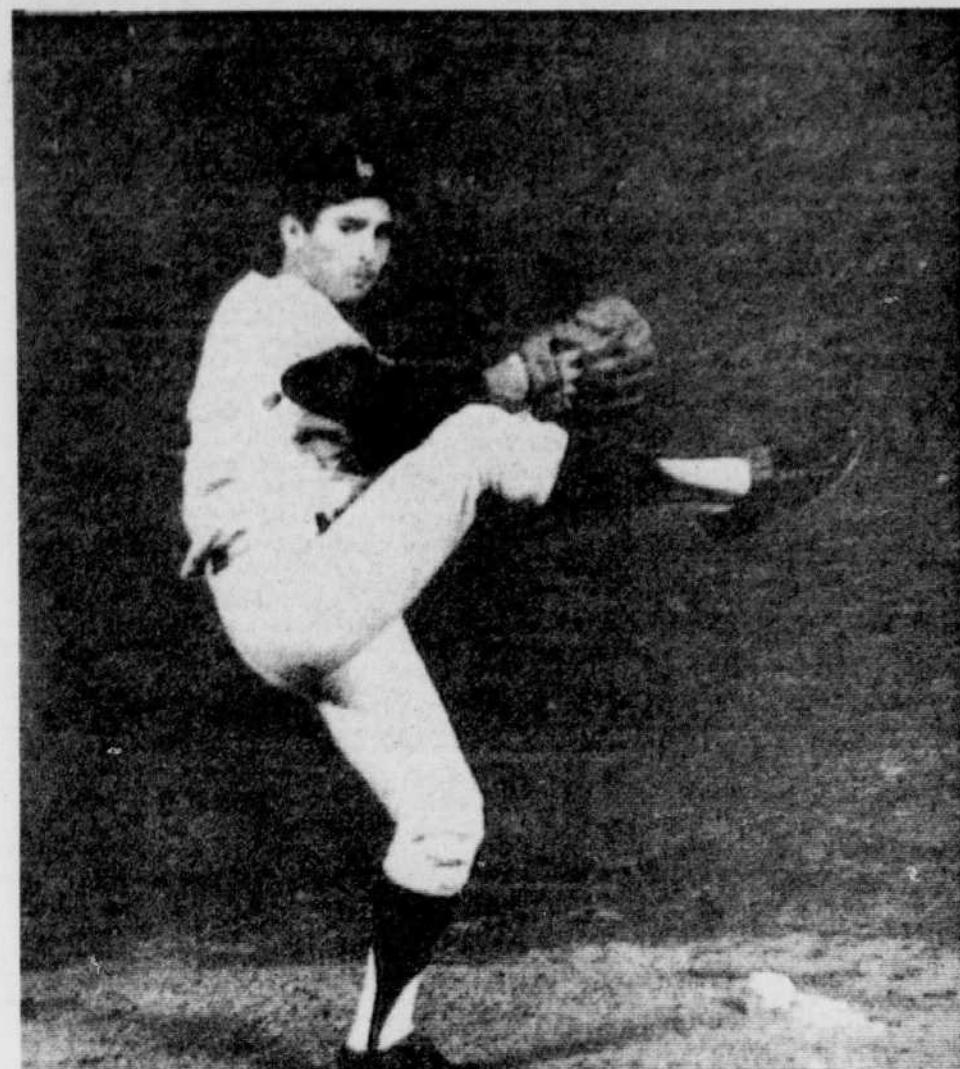

The SCC entry, one of the golfers who are eligible and have a starting time, will team up with Jean Lafontaine, of Isle-mere, and Gerald Chapdelaine, of St. Hyacinthe. This threesome will tee off at 12:10 p.m.

Only other golfer from the Eastern Townships area that entered, being eligible, is Claude Melancon, from Drummondville.

According to the starting times released by officials for this O'Keefe Championship, the field is comprised of 31, leaving five amateurs who could not compete, due to other tournament commitments.

The provincial title match here brings together the class A, B, and C winners of 12 in individual zones championships held throughout the province during the summer months.

Los Angeles — Irish Wayne Heath, 204, Oklahoma City, outpointed Manuel Ramos, 191, Mexico City, 10.

Koufax style, something to watch

Arnold Baker wins Maislin Golf Tourney

Arnold Baker won the Maislin Brothers Transport Golf Tournament yesterday afternoon at the Sherbrooke Country Club when he fired a two-over-par 73 under perfect conditions.

A field of 60 golfers took part in the tournament organized and held for the first time in Sherbrooke. Elmer Lach, Director of Public Relations for Maislin Bros., was in charge of the tourney.

Lach also fired a 73 but under company regulations was ineligible for a prize. Lach played with Jimmy Planché, Gilles Dube and Guy Labrie, all former hockey players.

Following the tourney a social time was held and the Fourth no-hitter of career in halting Cubs, Reds top Mets

It was Sandy Koufax' finest hour — a perfect game and the fourth no-hitter of his major league career.

He retired all 27 batters to face him as Los Angeles Dodgers bested Chicago Cubs and the one-hit pitching of southpaw Bob Hendley, 1-0, before a crowd of 29,139 Thursday night. Koufax struck out the last six batters in a row and 14 in all.

But though the baseball world hailed Koufax and his historic victory — the first time in the majors that a pitcher achieved a fourth no-hit game — Koufax himself shrugged it off as not quite his best game.

Koufax has always felt that his third no-hitter, the one he pitched last season at Philadelphia, was the best game of his career.

"I had the best fast ball in the last three innings that I've had all year and also the best control," said the 29-year-old left-hander after Thursday's game at Dodger Stadium. "but the no-hitter at Philadelphia was equally big."

MAY GET BONUS
 Dodgers' owner Walter O'Malley had a bottle of champagne delivered to Koufax in the clubhouse and is expected to reward him with a bonus for becoming the first major leaguer ever to hurl four no-hitters — and only the eighth since 1900 to notch a perfect game.

When Koufax pitched his other no-hitters — against the Mets in 1962, the Giants in 1963 and the Phils last year — O'Malley came up with an extra $500.

"I thought this was the best of all his no-hitters," said Dodger manager Walter Alston. In other National League action Thursday, San Francisco Giants defeated Houston Astros 4-0 and Cincinnati Reds edged New York Mets 3-2. Philadelphia at Milwaukee was rained out.

Koufax, now 27-7, struck out 14 batters, including the last six in a row, to break a personal three-game losing streak and deal a heartbreaking loss to Hendley, 2-3.

The Cub left-hander allowed only two runners to reach base and would have matched Koufax's no-hitter except for a two-deal a heartbreaking loss to Hendley, 2-3.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers have snapped a two-game losing streak and remain a half-game behind San Francisco in the National League race. Don Drysdale, 18-12, goes tonight against Houston's Robin Roberts in the opener of a three-game weekend series.

Juan Marichal won No. 21 in a day game at San Francisco as he checked Houston on four hits. It was the 10th shutout of the season for Marichal.

Cincinnati pulled into a 2-0 lead on Deron Johnson's homer in the fourth inning but the Mets tied it in the eighth on Roy McMillan's two-run single. Tony Perez then won it for Cincinnati with two out in the ninth when he lofted a homer over the centre field wall.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale says he is considering a rich offer to play baseball in Japan. The big question is could he accept.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick was not immediately available for comment, but baseball experts said Drysdale could not play in Japan unless he was voluntarily retired by the Dodgers, his club gave him an unconditional release or he was sold to the interested Japanese club.

The chances of the Dodgers voluntarily giving up their No. 1 righthander are slim. Drysdale is earning an estimated $75,000 a year. He has won 18 this season and is headed for a 300-inning pitching season for the fourth year in a row.
