NOT LIKE THIS:

MONTREAL island as at present, a maze of political boundaries and natural and man-made barriers.

BUT LIKE THIS:

And as proposed: 13 "bourgs", adapted to those same barriers and providing local government.

OUR AFFLUENT CITY HAS UNEMPLOYED, TOO

Membership in a newly formed Westmount association of the unemployed has snowballed within the past month from three to 24 persons.

Leaders of the group, called the Westmount Workmen's Unemployment League, predict a further increase in membership as more of Westmount's unemployed became aware of the new organization.

In an off-the-cuff telephone survey conducted by members of the association in the past two weeks, 200 unemployed Westmounters were discovered in the area of Westmount below Sherbrooke street.

"We probably didn't reach half of the unemployed in that area," said Leonard F. McRae, acting secretary of the association, this week.

The association has two fundamental purposes. It hopes to form a social centre where the unemployed can meet and help relieve their sense of frustration

Drummond, Connolly drubbed

Nearly 200 persons—a cross-section of Westmount citizens and Dawson College students with both direct and academic concern—had little new light shed on the Trans-Canada Highway and its controversial Westmount ramp at a special general meeting of the Westmount Municipal Association in Victoria Hall Monday night.

A resolution was passed at the end, supporting the city council's Jan. 19 stand against the ramp and urging the provincial government to "take heed."

On the "hot seat" for the evening were Westmount's provincial member, Hon. Kevin Drummond, and Roads

Today's World

Fast break-in at restaurant

In the short space of time between a police patrolmen's check at 6:30 am, when all was in order, and 6:55 when a waitress arrived yesterday morning to open the premises, someone twisted the lock out of the aluminum front door of the Blue Heaven restaurant at 4022 St. Catherine street west and made off with a small amount of cash.

There is the possibility that the burglar was scared off by a second patrol check of the rear door. A tray had been dropped in a hurried exit.

Westmount Tuesday invited the island's local politicians to Victoria Hall to see how the organizational horse might be untethered from the rear of the Montreal Urban Community cart and hitched securely between the metropolitan government shafts.

MUC Executive Chairman Lucien Saulnier, who currently holds the reins, was invited, didn't come and on Wednesday — admitting that he was angry—attacked the plan on television. Later last evening, asked at a Mount Royal property owners' meeting at which both he and Westmount Mayor Peter M. McEntyre were panelists, why the opposition, he replied:

"I am not here to comment on this. I am here to discuss the Montreal Urban Community."

Nonetheless, the need and hopes for the Montreal Urban Community were what the smooth, professional study and presentation were all about. Both the report on "Local Government in the Montreal Metropolitan Area" and the 29-minute French and English color films, "Can Montreal (Island) Be Governed?" were exclusively the work of the non-political senior staff of the City of Westmount, much of it done on their own time.

NEXT WEEK'S WEATHER

By ERIC NEAL

January 29 to February 6

As usual, days are bright and cold, and skies clear from the day after New Moon to the First Quarter of the February moon. Below zero for dawn, and mild by noon each day until Tuesday.

Suddenly milder, with fog, drizzle and wet snow as conditions change ahead of a squally cold front. North of the St. Lawrence, freezing rains and snowstorms, also extensive wind damage. For Vermont and our southern counties, torrential rains, sleet and heavy snowfall.

Clearing generally and much colder as Montreal islanders dig out. Biting cold will be back again for the Full Moon.

Department Deputy Chief Engineer John Connolly. The latter fielded the technical questions on highway building but declined to respond on matters of pollution, housing and social consequences.

Refuses position

Mr. Drummond, both in informal remarks at the outset and in dealing with questions aimed, some with barbs, at where he personally stood in the matter, refused to take a position. He repeatedly said that he favored participatory democracy which he thought the meeting was all about and that he was there to listen.

The earlier part of the meeting was an up-dated version of Architect Joseph Baker's slide presentation of what could be made of the lower Westmount area through which cuts the highway and its ramp approach.

The questions quickly moved from the specific issue of the ramp location to the desirability or otherwise of the highway itself.

And the evening concluded, before the resolution, with an incisive condemnation by Mr. Baker of the provincial government in general and Messrs. Drummond and Connolly in particular for what appeared to him to be a dug-in position. Mr. Baker won loud applause.

(Yesterday in Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa said that work on the highway, for which contracts already have been let, would not be stopped.)

and isolation. And it hopes to find jobs.

"It's a terrible thing to be unemployed, alone and desperate," said Mr. McRae who was a leader of the unemployed during the depression in the 30s. "We hope to be able to form some type of social centre where people in the same boat will be able to get together instead of sitting around alone in desperation."

The second purpose of the organization is to appeal to Westmounters in better circumstances to find work if possible for their less fortunate fellow citizens. The association would like Westmounters to phone if they have odd jobs available such as babysitting, gardening, snow shovelling, etc. It would also like to be informed of vacancies for full-time jobs.

A letter from Mr. McRae making the appeal appears on page 4.

"A committee will be formed and the jobs given to those in most need," said Mr. McRae, "just as we did in the old organizations in the 30s."

Mr. McRae was disillusioned with government attempts to find work for the unemployed. "Manpower offices are filled with people doing nothing at all to create jobs," he said. "And their retraining and mobility programs are a mystery to me."

Mr. McRae, a head steward or restaurant manager when employed, asked at the Manpower office to be sent to school to learn French. "That was the one type of retraining which would have helped me to get a job here in Quebec," he said, "but they just didn't have it."

He also asked to be sent to Toronto to look for a job where he feels his chances of finding work are greater. "They wouldn't send me," he said. "They claimed they would have to have a call from Toronto before they could send me."

He said that most jobs listed by Manpower are taken weeks before Manpower officials get round to sending people out to them.

Members of the acting executive of the association are Mr. McRae, 4410 St. Catherine street west; Thomas Edmunds, 45 York street, and Wilfred Crotteau, 4288 Dorchester boulevard west.

The association plans to hold formal elections at a later date.

Scope for theft

A coat, a book and a microscope—the latter values at $695, total value $790—were stolen from a car entered in the Alexis Nihon parking garage, it was reported to Westmount Police late Monday afternoon.

Information centre being established

By GASTON CAMPEAU

The communications department at Dawson is to have a central bureau to which all information would be given. This would give Dawson an organized information centre and should lead to student participation in the gathering of facts and their effective distribution.

In charge of the centre is to be Miss Rosemary Sullivan, who was hired by Dawson as a coordinator of communications. She explained that information has been distributed by 23 departments and 12 committees, and in addition there was a daily paper, "Puff & Blurb," which published general information. She stated that the only successful edition was Media Inter Great, a review on the artistic presentations (plays, films and arts). Many agree with Miss Sullivan that too much paper was to be read for too little response.

A question arose at a recent conference on the matter of whether Dawson should maintain an external image. Miss Sullivan pointed out that the image had long been established, and that the college should concentrate on its internal image.

A suggestion came from Robert Gordon, secretary-general of Dawson, that students should be given the opportunity to sit in on board meetings and conferences that take place within the college. He stated that this would give to the students an understanding of problems that face the administration, and students would be aware of what takes place within these meetings. Reports would be given by the students to Miss Sullivan as part of the information to the student body.

Mr. Gordon stated that in this way they would solve the problem of information and at the same time incite more student participation in the affairs of the college.

Broadcasting venture wins endorsement

Students of Community Media are seeking to unite action groups and individuals in an attempt to voice the problems of Dawson and the Montreal area through the medium of broadcasting.

Community Media is a project wherein students will offer information services concerning social and economic problems.

A budget and sufficient electronic equipment will be needed to raise the club from its theoretical stages. Therefore they have outlined in a booklet information on the group's aims, proposals and mechanics, to bring to the Representative Council.

The group was granted a charter last Saturday at the Council meeting.

One hope of the club is to get a studio from the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to help the project along its way.

The strategy of Community Media will look to the future. The technical drawings and plans have already been completed. The main hope of the club is to get leeway in media for the purpose of social communication.

The city valued the properties at $1,040,950. In November sales prices were 13 per cent higher than the city valuations.

We Say

Bourg plan ingenious initiative

WESTMOUNT can be particularly proud of its administration this week. It may be months, or even years, before full appreciation of this effort is felt, but the plan unveiled to the island mayors, aldermen and officials Tuesday evening in Victoria Hall is bound to have an impact on how citizens of the Montreal Urban Community will live in the future.

No other municipality, not even Montreal, has yet offered its ideas on how this complex metropolitan area should be organized, even though called upon to do so under the very act which brought the MUC into being. Time enough, some may believe; but not so the administrative and planning staff of Westmount city hall.

For the belief is held strongly here that the wrong priorities have been put on the various facets of the new island government. A whole series of measures, having to do with planning, pollution, valuation, policing and other vital issues, have come up even before the foundation of the political organization of the community—has been considered. As Mayor McEntyre said Tuesday, the cart has been put before the horse. There is little doubt that this has been at the root of disharmony from the start.

There is the suspicion, too, that The City of Montreal sees the MUC's future in a quite different light from the suburbs; that the MUC should be really nothing more than an extension of the central city's authority over the entire island.

That this concept is hardly good enough is made clear by Westmount's presentation. The imbalance of interests would for years to come only perpetuate the lack of accord already evident in MUC's operation. There must be something "closer to home" between the single octopus government tentacled over the island and the present illogical hodge-podge of large and small cities and towns.

The genius of the Westmount staff plan is in their proposed 13 manageable "bourgs." A great deal is going to be heard about these intriguing units which, in our view, would make final sense of the "community" concept for greater Montreal. Meanwhile, a word of praise must be given to the city officials who, on their own initiative, began this study several years ago and then brought it forward during the past year in face of the realities of the MUC. What they brought forth Tuesday was a thoroughly professional job deserving of the thanks of citizens of both Westmount and beyond.

Unemployed in Westmount

THE very name "Westmount Workmen's Unemployment League," unveiled in a letter on this page should be startling to affluent Westmount.

Mr. McRae, who delivered his letter to us in person, revealed that an informal telephone canvass of Westmount homes brought forth more than 200 names of adult men and women of working age who, for one reason or another, are jobless. It brings literally close to home the nature and extent of the national unemployment crisis. We must laud the idea that these people should come together to share their burdens and, more important, for self-help.

More fortunate Westmounters should keep this group in mind when there is work to be done and when they have jobs open. Make a note of Mr. McRae's telephone number: 933-1230.

Significance of the CDC

The recently introduced Canada Development Corporation does not achieve significance because it took so long to put together, or because it is the brain-child of a particular political party, but because it represents a great opportunity for Canadians to develop their own economy.

The very notion of a financial institution of this type has aroused mixed feelings in the public ever since it was first proposed. The arguments usually run along extremes, with one side voicing its general distaste of further government intervention in the private sector, and the other side rejoicing at the prospect of making large investments involving considerable risk in industries which would not otherwise be able to survive.

The role of the future CDC will in all likelihood lie somewhere between these poles. Since the bill establishing it is only a collection of rules and regulations, (accompanied by certain general statements relating to the orientation of the corporation), we will have to wait see the day when the residents of a locality would pillory their politicians for proposing to build them a road, least of all a super-highway.

Yet that was the spectacle Monday night in Victoria Hall. Maybe in these days people are smarter. Not only do they now realize that it is they, as taxpayers, who must pay for the benevolence of the politicians, but it would seem that everyone has become something of an expert on transportation, pollution, housing, urban renewal, the law, and heaven knows what else.

All of which is good for citizens, we think, and bad for politicians who, it appears, no longer know what is good for us.

And which is something to think about while caught in a traffic jam—trying to make a fast trip through downtown Montreal.

You Say

Local unemployed form association

Sir: May we bring to your attention the formation of the Westmount Workmen's Unemployment League to serve the interests of the many among us right here in Westmount who are suffering from the national plague of unemployment?

Our recent survey of this tragic state of affairs in our own city reveals that it is alarmingly prevalent, crippling the homes and lives of an ever increasing number of our fellow-citizens. Many are still around who remember the depression of the thirties, and the consensus is that we are in for a long pull of things getting worse before they will start to get better.

Guided by the old saw about the Lord helping those who help themselves, we are dedicated to setting up a meeting-hall where any unemployed Westmount resident will be welcomed as equal member with the rest of us, and mutual self-help will be the order of the day. We are strictly non-political, and hope to win the approval of the people of Westmount in our job campaign and other endeavors.

For instance, due to the nature of Westmount the number of people suffering from unemployment, in relation to the whole community, will always be proportionately lower than in other districts. So we think that our local companies and the citizenry at large could reasonably be asked to give priority to our own local unemployed in their job or help requirements. For example, if it is only a matter of a handyman for a day, or a baby-sitter, why not give it to someone right here in the community?

While our present meeting place in the basement of this building is not suitable for the ladies' attendance, we are happy to announce that we expect to have the use of a suitable place, lying vacant until May 1, free of charge of course. A generous local proprietor has offered to help us that way. As there will never be any dues or charges to our members, we won't have any finances to worry about.

We hereby invite any Westmount resident who is suffering from unemployment to get in touch with us. Don't be ashamed of being out of work; all of us are, too. Young or old, male or female, we have a good community around us here in Westmount; let's get together and help one another.

4424 seen threat to peace, quiet

Sir: The article about "4424 Inc." in your Jan. 21 issue makes me fear that the peace and quiet of what is mainly a residential neighborhood is about to terminate.

The "kids," as the co-director calls them, need to develop even further their sense of responsibility and discipline, if the neighbors are not to be annoyed by groups on the doorstep shouting their heads off at all hours.

Three times in a week this happened between 10.30 pm and 12.30 am.

As these "kids" seem to have unlimited money, judging by the cars, motorcycles, taxi rides and endless snacks from across the road, I can't see the necessity for the taxpayers having to provide materials for handicrafts, etc. People are usually more appreciative of things they themselves have paid for.

TEXT OF CITY STAFF RECOMMENDATIONS FOR MUC

Following is the opening "Summary and Recommendations" of the Westmount study of "Local Government in the Montreal Metropolitan Area."

Historically the urban centres, especially in North America, have steadily grown in population - a process that accelerated with the industrial development of the nation. Today a majority of the citizens live in urban environments in cities of 50,000 or more.

This growth of the urban community - unplanned and undirected to a large degree - has created problems of municipal government. This is particularly true in urban areas where there are a number of adjacent municipal government jurisdictions. These problems are many and varied and they are crying for solutions in practically every metropolitan area in the world.

Montreal is no exception. It has been seeking solutions to the problems of metropolitan government in its region for a number of years, but none of the structures tried has satisfied the needs of Montreal, the suburban municipalities, or the area as a whole. The Montreal Urban Community established in 1970 might eventually satisfy the Montreal administration, and the physical needs of the area, but it cannot fulfill the legitimate desires of the suburbs or of the citizens of either the suburbs or the central city.

Citizens speak

The importance of a responsible and responsive local government is becoming more and more evident each day. The individual citizen is demanding, more and more, that he be listened to and heard. The most easily reached government level should be that authority which provides the daily services that are necessary to his health and comfort, and access to a responsive ear should be made more easy.

It is the contention of this report that strong and viable local government, close to and responsive to the individual citizen, is not only desirable but also necessary in the Montreal Region. An appropriate number of such local governments, restricted in size to a potential of 150,000 to 350,000 people, would in turn, by means of a federation, provide the leadership and the financing for the operation of the regional government.

A two-phased development of the metropolitan government is suggested. Firstly, the organization created by the Montreal Urban Community Act can create structures for the gradual conversion of local services to regional services in specified fields where the type of service is of a regional nature. Secondly, the local government boundaries will be redistributed and this restructuring will provide the component municipalities or "bourgs" which Originating from the Latin word "burgus", the word "bourg" evolved through old French "borc" through middle French and into middle English. It is also found in a Germanic version. Thus, it is a multilingual word easily understood by a number of language groups, and particularly well suited to a cosmopolitan region such as Montreal. The similar word "burg" is an American-English colloquialism.

will then evolve into a "bourg" system of government for the Montreal Region.

This would involve the creation of 13 new divisions of local government on the Island of Montreal. Each of these "municipalities" would be responsible for all the services which can logically be best performed by the government that is closest to the citizens.

The regional government's area of jurisdiction is limited at the outset to the boundaries as established in the Montreal Urban Community Act. It is contended that this boundary should be flexible to the extent that an area such as the City of Laval or the South Shore could be gradually integrated into the metropolitan system of government as it becomes more completely urbanized and developed.

The bourg system of government on the Island of Montreal could easily be expanded to include adjacent areas of the South Shore and the City of Laval as the need to extend regional government became greater. Foundation of a regional planning group to study the entire eastern part of the St. Lawrence lowland is strongly recommended.

The governing body of the regional authority would have jurisdiction over these services of a broad regional nature. It would consist of one representative of each of the bourgs and would total, including the regionally elected Mayor, 14 persons. This would provide a body small enough that it would not require an Executive Committee.

The cost of operation of the regional government would be borne by all citizens throughout the region. The revenues required to finance the regional government would be collected from the individual bourgs on the basis of a weighted value relative to the population and valuation of each. In this manner the individual citizen in each bourg would have a voice in how the money is spent.

To implement the "bourg" system, it is proposed that an ad-hoc Commission of the National Assembly be appointed to review the circumstances and study this and perhaps other proposals, that in the meantime the Montreal

Urban Community be limited in the unnecessary expansion of its power, and that, finally, a "Region of Montreal Bill" be enacted to establish the new structures.

Recommendations

1. That the Island of Montreal and Ile Bizard would be, for purposes of government, made up of 13 divisions which would be designated as "bourgs";
2. That the restructuring of municipal boundaries, as provided for in Bill 75, be as rational and practical as possible - utilizing such natural and man-made features which actually present barriers to pedestrian and vehicular traffic wherever possible and logical relative to the whole plan;
3. That the size of the "bourgs" be restricted to a maximum population of about 300,000 and that the effort be made to maintain "bourgs" at a population range of from 150,000 to 250,000 as a general policy;

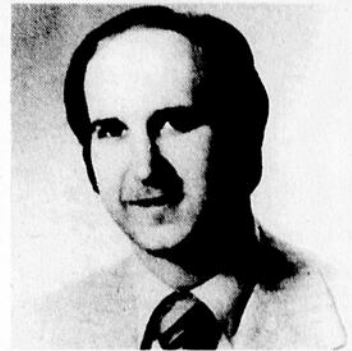

4. That the policy of "maitre chez-nous" is as valid, if indeed not more valid, a principle at the municipal level of government as it is at the provincial or federal or other level;

5. That existing municipal boundaries, and existing wards within the larger municipalities, be observed and taken into consideration when the wards of the "bourgs" are being set up.

6. That an attempt be made to provide easy access for each citizen to his "bourg" representative in keeping with the present trend towards participatory democracy and neigh-

'Neighbors' Science topic

What it means to be a neighbor will be explored this Sunday at Christian Science Church services. The parable of the good Samaritan will be included in the Bible readings. "Love" is the subject of the lesson-sermon.

The Golden Text is from Romans: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law."

A passage to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it, seeking his own in another's good."

'Lover's Quarrel' at St. Andrew's

Topic of Rev. E.A. Kirker's sermon this Sunday morning at St. Andrew's Church is "A Lover's Quarrel." An abbreviated service will be followed by the annual meeting of the congregation in the church auditorium.

Reports of church committees and organizations printed beforehand, will be submitted for approval. The election of a number of new officers for the coming year will take place. All members of the congregation have been reminded of this annual event and asked to be present.

At the midweek service next Wednesday, the second in the series of presentations on the city takes place at 7:30 p.m. in the chapel. A film by Lewis Mumford, "The City: Heaven or Hell?" will be shown, followed by discussion.

SUPPER CLUB—AT SUPPER: The new Supper Club at St. Andrew's Church wound up eating in the kitchen at their last weekly meeting with soup and crackers being passed around, since the Brownies stayed late in the auditorium. This recently-formed group for boys and girls of 12 to 14 years mixes sports, discussion and a meal in a popular program, attracting a full membership limit of 15 youngsters. Leaders sharing supper above with some of the club members are Associate Minister Mel Ralph and Frank Johnson, in Grade XI at Westmount High School.

Westmounters vice-presidents of Boy Scouts

At the annual meeting of the Quebec provincial council of Boy Scouts on Jan. 16, two Westmounters were elected vice-presidents of the organization. V.J. Morgan, 530 Lansdowne avenue, and H.D. Walford, 600 Argyle avenue, hold the two positions.

Quebec will send a full contingent of 27 scouts and two leaders to the 13th World Jamboree to be held in Japan.

Drury...

Not government tool

The minister of finance has already ruled out one possible role when he stated very clearly that the CDC is not intended to be a tool of the government. On the contrary, all investment decisions are expected to be motivated by profit considerations, with the sole condition that they be "in the national interest."

One cannot deny that it would be tempting to use a structure of this size as a tool to promote government programs, and so I sincerely hope that the safeguards which have been inserted to avoid this will prove to be adequate.

What are these safeguards? First, there can be no more than four voting directors appointed by the government to a board of 21 members. Second, the CDC has no responsibility to Parliament other than to request approval for changes in its internal structure. Third, a ceiling has been placed on the amount of CDC equity which the government can own.

Once free from political involvement, where is the CDC likely to have its biggest impact on the economy? First, it will be able to create new enterprises whose products will fill vacuums in the market-place; this cannot now be done satisfactorily because there is not enough capital readily available.

Second, the competitive position of Canadian industries could be improved quite measurably if the CDC goes about merging and rationalising existing industries. Given the recent growth of international corporations, I think that this feature would be a valuable shot in the arm for the Canadian economy.

Some areas cited

Mr. Benson suggested that certain areas of the economy might be more deserving of CDC investment than others, and he mentioned in particular high-technology industry, resource utilization, and firms oriented towards the North. In these and many other industries which are of critical importance to Canada, it is hoped that the CDC will ensure that Canadians will be able to continue to invest and participate in the fruits of ownership in all sectors of the economy.

Such are the intended objectives of the government. It will soon be up to the independent management and the directors to make the CDC a profit-making reality.

Fire calls heavy during week

The Westmount Fire Brigade has had a heavier-than-usual run of calls during the past week. (See "Where Were they Going?" log, p.3).

In fact, in one 24-hour period last week, they responded to 11 calls ranging from "strange smells" and "burnt toast" (there were two of the latter!) to three potentially serious outbreaks.

Last Tuesday afternoon the resident of a house at 4706 Westmount avenue, checking a little-used room for the first time in several days, discovered that an electric heater was defective and there was smoke. When the firemen arrived, curtains had burst into flame and the fire was just commencing to attack the wall—all of which was quickly nipped.

Wednesday morning, at 442 Elm avenue, an oily smell prompted a call. When the brigade arrived, at first nothing was found. Then in the basement it was discovered that the smoke pipe from an oil furnace to the chimney had become disconnected and the metal-clad lath-and-plaster wall behind the furnace was blackened. Insulated wires grazing the tin had been burned bare and, again, a potentially serious outbreak was aborted just in time.

Thursday afternoon the youngsters of Westmount Park School got out early, and unexpectedly, when the firemen were called to put out a blaze in a tile-and-concrete chamber below level where heating pipes are carried. It was found that scraps of paper had accumulated there through an access door from a classroom. The school building itself at no time was threatened and staff and students had made an orderly exit.

Trio loitered

Three juveniles, two from Westmount and one from Verdun, were arrested at 1:30 am Monday in the tunnel connecting Westmount Square and Alexis Nihon Plaza for loitering. After being taken to the station they were turned over to their homes.

Tib Beament at Art Society

Tib Beament, 449 Elm avenue, artist and instructor, will speak to the Women's Art Society on Tuesday at 2 pm at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. His topic will be "Batik History and Technique."

City 4th

Westmount once again has scored high in National Fire Protection Association ratings for 1970.

In 1969, this city was rated first in the United States and Canada.

For last year, in awards announced in Boston Tuesday, Westmount ranked first in Quebec, fourth in Canada, and first in Canada for municipalities in the 25,000-to-100,000-population category.

In the all-Canada contest, Scarborough, Ont., took top honors, followed by Ottawa and Calgary.

Ranking fifth, after Westmount, was the City of Montreal.

In the population class, runner-up to Westmount was Cobourg, Ont., followed by Nelson, B.C., in third place.

Participating in Canada were 219 municipal fire forces.

Bakery hosts Weredale boys

By BILLY MUNDEN

Last week Cantor's hosted a group of boys on a visit to their bakery. They spent an interesting hour or so and were treated to pastries and presented with the famous Cantor's poster as a memento of their visit.

The Negro Community Centre is offering a black literature class which is attended on a weekly basis by some of our boys.

The Weredale House floor hockey team is in second place in its division, with a game against Holy Cross coming up this week.

As the school year wears on, studies are a big item in the evening schedule around the House, and on Tuesdays 10 senior students from Selwyn House School spend one and a half hours supervising and assisting 10 juniors who attend Westmount Park School. This program was set up by Scott Robertson of Selwyn House working with Ron Haynes of Westmount Park School and Leith Hamilton of Weredale House.

Minus $30

cry alone but they never complain. They all sleep very soundly and this deep sleep is wrongly thought to be the cause of the wet bed when it is only a defence mechanism against it. Bed wetters also have something else in common:

PARENTS WHO WORRY MORE ABOUT A BED THAN ABOUT THE CHILD, OR WHO BELIEVE THEY KNOW HOW AND WHEN THIS PROBLEM WILL BE SOLVED. If this were so, the wetting would stop in a few weeks, without diet, drugs or embarrassment. Because bed wetting hinders proper development of character, parents should learn before damage is done, how the bed wetting can be stopped in a few weeks. A sleeping child is helpless. You can help.

1—PROPERTY FOR SALE

DEAR RUSS

Glad to hear you are transferred back to Montreal. I am sure your whole family is anxious. As requested Sally and I went house hunting for you and came up with a real gem. On the Boulevard, handy to schools and transportation. It's prestige and elegance command your Executive Promotion.

Sally is crazy about the large living room, panelled dining room and planned kitchen. Plenty of bedrooms (6), great den to watch the games in, 3 fireplaces and 3 car garage.

I concentrated on our main concern the price! because it is a "must sell". They are only asking $55,000. I am sure the financing can be arranged to suit. The owner is willing to negotiate a mortgage and the Agent is real sharp.

Regards and give clear idea of what form island government could take is given—shows that the island is a complex, confusing network of political, natural and man-made barriers with 29 municipalities of widely varying areas, populations, valuations and local concerns.

Without abandoning and, indeed, in fact supporting the concept of the urban community, the study proposes the establishment of 13 "bourgs" comprising MUC, each with a population of 250,000 to 300,000. Boundaries would wherever possible follow physical barriers such as waterways, autoroutes or railroads. A basic aim is to marry island-wide government with the need for local administration close to the people.

Says the report:

"In summary, the opposition of the officials and the people of the suburbs to further extension of the power of the City of Montreal appears to be based upon the belief that, although the type of government which would result from effective control of the area by the City of Montreal might be strong, well organized and even efficient, it would not be local government."

And in final comment:

'Long view' sought

"It will be apparent . . . that the compilers of this study do not claim to have done a complete job, or to have answered all the vexing questions surrounding the problem of governing Montreal.

"It is believed that our area urgently needs a rational, long-viewed form of government. Not a government which provides the citizens with what it thinks is good for them, but one which provides what the citizens, in their majority, desire.

"The expedients of the past have been unsuccessful: The Montreal Metropolitan Commission of 1921; The Montreal Metropolitan Corporation of 1959; The Montreal Urban Community of 1970. Each of these left unserved the needs of large segments of the population.

"The distinctiveness of Montreal lies in its diversity—of people, of language and of neighborhood. That diversity can only be maintained and strengthened by the maintenance and strengthening of local government."

10. That, as a general rule the provision of services remain with the "bourg" administration to the fullest extent possible;

11. That an administrative organization similar to the Council Manager system be established for both the "bourg" and the metropolitan governments;

12. That the "bourg" would be charged with the raising of all the revenue (which is derived from property and other taxes) which is required to finance the operation of both the "bourg" and the metropolitan governments;

13. That the metropolitan government would act as the borrowing authority for the financing of those projects under its jurisdiction. It would also supervise the borrowing of individual "bourgs" and act as a guarantor of these borrowings;

14. That the Mayor of the metropolitan government be elected at large throughout the whole of the Island of Montreal and Ile Bizard;

15. That the political body governing the metropolitan area be composed of 14 persons. These would be the Mayors of each of the 13 "bourgs" and the Mayor of the metropolitan region who is elected at large;

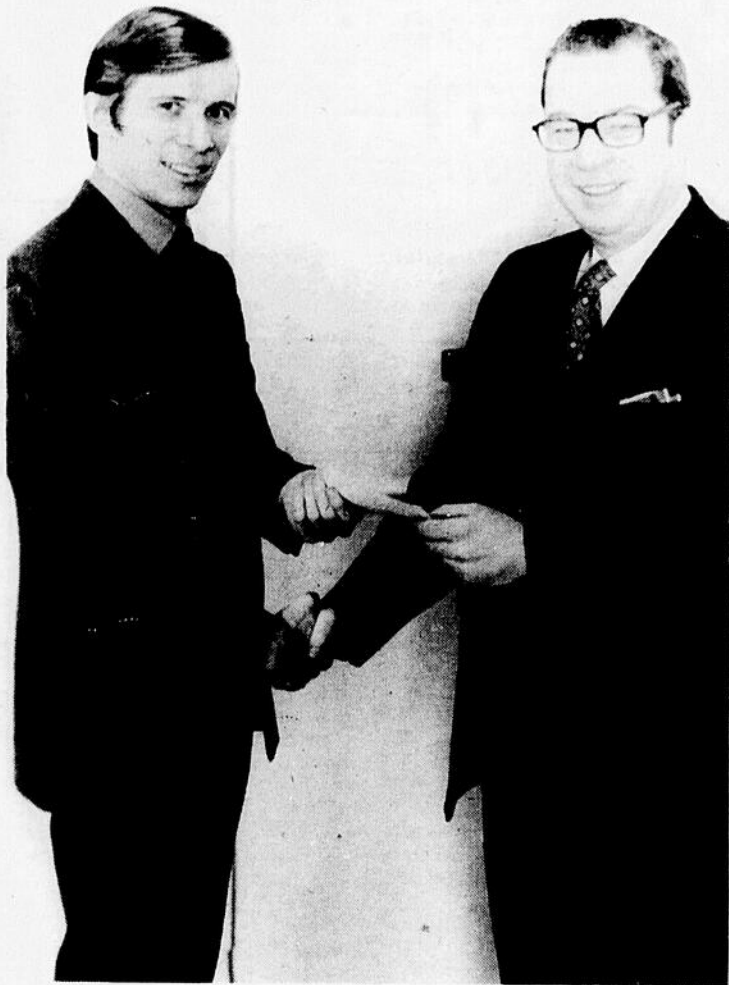

16. That the votes in the metropolitan governing body be weighted—each "bourg" mayor casting a certain number of votes dependent on the population and valuation of his "bourg" relative to the total population and valuation of the entire Islands of Montreal and Ile Bizard. The Mayor of the metropolitan government would have a number of votes which would be equal to 10 percent of the total number of votes allocated to the representatives of the "bourgs";

17. That provision be made to amalgamate the present City of Laval and adjacent areas of the north shore and the south shore beyond the Islands of Montreal and Jesus into the metropolitan "bourg" system for purposes of regional government;

18. That a commission of the National Assembly be appointed to study this and other submissions, and recommend a restructuring of local government in the Montreal area;

19. That a temporary moratorium be placed on further implementation or extension of its powers by the Montreal Urban Community, beyond those listed elsewhere under the heading of "Priorities," pending action resulting from the Commission's recommendations;

20. That a "Region of Montreal Bill" be introduced to give effect to the recommendations.

Car taken from here is found in Missouri

A car stolen in Westmount last month was recovered and a young Montreal man arrested in Kansas City, Mo., Westmount Police were advised by telex early last Friday morning.

The suspect was due to be flown back here yesterday when charges of theft of the car and probably of credit cards, which he used on the trip, were to be laid.

Police had been able to trace his progress in recent weeks, to the Laurentians, Ottawa, west through Ontario, Chicago and then south to the Missouri city by the trail of credit vouchers.

In Kansas City, he was arrested in company with a young resident of that city who was released when it was established that the latter had no knowledge of the thefts.

It is understood that the father of the Montrealer has offered to make restitution.

The car was stolen from Montreal Drive Away Service Ltd., 4018 St. Catherine street west, following the completion of a delivery of the vehicle.

New wonder glass is created by Westmount-raised scientist

A Westmount-raised scientist has created a new type of glass which has twice the impact resistance of ordinary glass and can be machined to almost any desired shape.

Dr. George H. Beall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Beall of 327 Roslyn avenue and manager of glass-ceramic research for the Corning Glass Works, recently displayed the material publically for the first time at Sullivan Science Park in Corning, N.Y.

An important characteristic of the material is its high resistance to electrical breakdown, which is much greater than that of ordinary ceramics such as alumina or porcelain. The new material has several possible applications, one of the most obvious being

'Bomb' was candle

For a few anxious minutes Tuesday morning there was fear that bomb threats had been revived for the first time since the autumn FLQ crisis.

A Westmount Police patrolman discovered a suspicious-looking cylindrical object in the entrance of 339 Victoria avenue, at de Maisonneuve boulevard west.

No chances were being taken, and the Montreal Urban Community bomb squad was called.

Its owner later explained that he had put it down to get out his keys and forgotten it after he had opened the apartment door.

Ward split notice due on Monday

Notice of motion of a subsequent move to divide Westmount into three wards for city council electoral purposes is expected to be given at Monday night's statutory city council meeting.

Decreed under Cities & Towns Act changes, proposed but not yet implemented by the provincial government but expected to come soon, establishment of wards will be a new departure for Westmount whose six aldermen and mayor heretofore have all represented the citizens at large.

A new detailed census of Westmount was made last summer under the authority of City Clerk R.B. Seaman to serve as an accurate basis for the electoral divisions—each of which in future will be represented by two aldermen.

The wards are required to be approximately equal in numbers of electors, with a permissible variation of 10 percent.

Various alternative plans have been considered, including two lines north and south or similar boundaries running east and west, or variations of these.

Also on Monday's tentative agenda are the repeal of the city's pollution by-law, now supplanted by similar powers vested in the Montreal Urban Community, a report by the mayor on MUC activities, and the December accounts.

Lieut. Russell Swales.

Lieut. Wood suffered a stroke about five years ago from which he had not completely recovered. He returned to duty as the friendly, efficient voice who answered telephone calls for help, and retired from this post only last year.

sophisticated insulating devices for high voltage equipment.

The material also has good thermal shock resistance. A piece can be heated to glowing red and dropped into a bucket of water without breaking.

Mr. Beall began working on the composition of the new material in 1968.
